French President Charles de Gaulle and British envoy Christopher Soames were in close conversation on New Year's Day this year at the Elysee Palace. British sources reported that De Gaulle had sought British help to form a new alliance that would scuttle the Common Market and NATO. De Gaulle reportedly saw in the new grouping the collapse of NATO and the whittling away of American influence in Europe.

Facts About Girl In Polka Dot Dress

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a tightly guarded courtroom where Sirhan Bishara Sirhan is on trial for his life as the slayer of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy there has evolved a clinical demonstration of how rumor may be born.

The trial of the 24-year-old Sirhan was in recess Saturday for the weekend, with the state expected to rest its case no later than midweek.

Robert Kennedy, 42, was fatally shot June 5, 1968, in a kitchen area off the Embassy ballroom of the Ambassador hotel.

Shortly after the assassination, a 20-year-old Kennedy volunteer, Sandy Serrano, told police that she saw a girl in a white dress with black polka dots run from the area crying, "We shot him! We shot Kennedy!"

SMILE ON FACE

And Vincent Di Piero told a grand jury that he saw a girl in a polka dot dress smiling beside Sirhan as the fatal volley was fired.

Di Piero took the stand as a state witness on Valentine Day. He was at the murder scene, he said. On direct examination by the state he made no mention of the girl in the polka dot dress.

Then defense attorney Grant Cooper took over on cross-examination. Di Piero testified that he saw a girl all right—but "standing in the area of Sirhan, whether at that time or after I don't know."

"She was wearing a polka dot dress . . ." Di Piero added: "Whether she conversed with him or not I cannot say."

Q Did she have a smile on her face?

A I believe she did.

Then Cooper turned to a statement Di Piero made to police after the assassination. In it, the witness said he probably got the idea of the polka dot girl after talking to Sandy Serrano.

"We started asking each other about the girl," Di Piero had said under police interrogation. "Evidently I went along with the identification."

"You did not see a girl in a white polka dot dress standing beside Sirhan that evening?" the police interrogators demanded.

THE TRUTH

"No," Di Piero replied. "Was that statement the truth?" Cooper asked at the trial.

"Yes, it was," admitted Di Piero. "She could have been standing in the area at the time. I do not recall. There was an enormous amount of confusion at the time."

The state called Valerie Schulte to the witness stand. She was a Kennedy worker, was at the scene of the shooting, she said.

She was wearing a polka dot dress all right, she said, but it was green with yellow polka dots. She testified she never got a clear enough look at Sirhan to identify him, had never smiled at the defendant, never conversed with him, never knew him.

And Miss Schulte said she was using a crutch at the time, after breaking her left leg in a ski mishap.

SEEKS REAL PARTNERSHIP WITH ALLIES President Nixon Flies To Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon flies to Europe Sunday hoping to foster "a new spirit of consultation which will result in a new spirit of confidence."

A prime aim, Nixon and other administration sources made clear, will be to lay the groundwork in talks with allied leaders for a meeting the President hopes to have later with chiefs of the Soviet Union.

Nixon, talking informally to newsmen who will accompany him on his week-long travels through five countries, said he wants to promote within the Western alliance "a new era of consultation—and I mean real give-and-take consultation."

TRADE PROBLEMS

Priority topics for the chief executive's talks will be the future of East-West relations, the search for a Middle East settlement, revitalization of the alliance, and international trade and monetary problems.

In briefing newsmen, Nixon made no reference to reported overtures by French President Charles de Gaulle to Great Britain for an alliance which could undercut U.S. influence in Europe.

When Nixon talked with reporters at the White House it had not been officially announced in London that Great Britain had rejected a French suggestion that Britain and France join in a new alliance that would, in effect, scuttle the European Common Market and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

DE GAULLE'S BID

The way British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart put it Saturday, Britain refused to trade its friendship with the United States for such a pact with De Gaulle.

French Foreign Minister Michael Debre denied the report and criticized London for releasing it. But it appears likely the incident will have impact on Nixon's meeting with De Gaulle.

The White House had no comment following Saturday's London announcement.

Nixon's 10,500-mile trip to Belgium, Britain, West Germany, Italy and France will be the most extensive European trip undertaken by an American President.

In advance of departure, Nixon emphasized that he is not seeking any spectacular foreign-policy achievements in what will be his first venture in

British Snub NATO 'Deal' By De Gaulle

LONDON (AP) — Western Europe was in uproar Saturday night over a reported deal offered by President Charles de Gaulle to let Britain into a watered-down Common Market in exchange for breaking with the United States.

The French were furious with the British for spreading what Foreign Minister Michel Debre called sensationalized accounts of the plan and said it contained nothing new. They said that by disclosing it, the British government was trying to block a reconciliation between President Nixon and De Gaulle. Nixon arrives in Brussels Sunday for a European tour.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart said Britain would not pay the French price—an end to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to Western Europe's political and defense ties with the United States. In their place, De Gaulle would have a "European directorate" of France, Britain, West Germany and Italy to guide policy.

Italian Foreign Ministry officials were among the first to describe the plan as unacceptable. One said it would dismantle "what European unity has been achieved through the Common Market thus far."

In Brussels, Common Market diplomats were shocked. An envoy from one of the market's three small countries, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, said: "We would never accept direction by the so-called Big Four."

Foreign Minister Joseph Luns of the Netherlands, one of the most outspoken advocates of a more united Europe, called the whole thing "a storm in a tea cup" and said De Gaulle's plans would get nowhere.

West Germany reacted cautiously lest it damage relations with France, a cornerstone of Bonn's postwar foreign policy. But the Germans declined to fall in with De Gaulle and a government spokesman said: "We see no great need for haste in the matter."

The story goes back to Feb. 4, when De Gaulle knew Nixon would be coming to Europe. He called in British Ambassador Christopher Soames, Winston Churchill's son-in-law and a highly respected diplomat in Paris.

As Soames outlined the talk, De Gaulle would scrap the Common Market and replace it with a larger and looser free trade group lacking the market's potential as a federated Europe.

Other European countries in addition to Britain would be welcome. NATO would be scrapped. Europe would be independent in what De Gaulle called "world terms." He said, according to the British version: "Once there is a truly independent Europe there will be no need for NATO as such, with its American dominance and command structure."

Pro-Peking Pupils Plan Demonstration At Brussels Airport

Share-The-Wealth

DALY CITY, Calif. (AP) — Three teenage boys who stumbled onto a lockful of stolen money started a private $40,000 share-the-wealth plan which ended when a mother found $2,100 in her son's pockets.

She told a policeman friend — and 50 youngsters and two adults ended up surrendering to authorities $7,000 in cash and $8,000 in purchased merchandise.

Police Chief Ray Savage of Broadmoor said Friday that Nick Avtonoff, 24, of San Francisco, a part-time armored car guard, was charged with grand theft in the case.

The chief said Avtonoff, who "never got to enjoy it," was accused of taking $44,000 last November from a packet which he was using to cash checks at the Lockheed Milles and Space Co. in Sunnyvale, 35 miles south on the San Francisco Peninsula. Avtonoff earlier had told officers he was robbed.

The chief described the incident: The three boys, aged 15 and 16, got jobs last Christmas at a bowling alley in nearby Colma. One task was to check rental lockers. In one they found $2,000 in a paper sack and $38,000 in a flight bag.

They divided the $2,000 but didn't touch the rest at first.

Then in January they and five older boys spirited out the $38,000. As word spread, 42 more boys joined in sharing the loot, buying clothing, bicycles, records, expensive dinners and other items.

Roger Belaskie, 24, unemployed linen worker, got wind of the deal and talked himself into several thousand dollars.

Belaskie ended up pleading guilty to a misdemeanor charge of petty theft, the chief said, after he and his father returned $3,200 in cash and a $2,900 car, $1,900 motorcycle, a $760 color television set and $400 in rifles.

No charges were planned against the boys, Savage said.

Savage said some partly burned business cards and checks found hidden on the Belaskie property led to Avtonoff's arrest.

May Be First Of Rioting In Capitals

BRUSSELS (AP) — President Nixon arrives in Belgium Sunday, his first stop on a tour of a Europe made jittery by diplomatic dissension and national rivalries.

The presidential plane is to touch down at Zaventem Airport at about 9 p.m. After a royal welcome by King Baudouin, the president will proceed to the Royal Palace in midtown Brussels for talks with Premier Gaston Eyskens and Foreign Minister Pierre Harmel.

SEALED OFF

A small group of student admirers of Red China's Mao Tse-tung planned to be at the airport for a demonstration, but it is highly unlikely that Nixon will be aware of it. The area of the airport where his plane lands will be tightly sealed off.

At the palace, despite the late hour, the President will get his first on-the-spot briefing on Europe's latest troubles, which include the current uproar sparked by President Charles de Gaulle of France.

The smaller nations of Europe have been rocked by a British version of a De Gaulle proposal that both the North Atlantic Alliance and the European Common Market be replaced and that a political directorate of France, Britain, West Germany and Italy serve as an inner council for Europe.

The reports appeared to have generated new European uneasiness and resurrected old nationalist rancors at a moment when Nixon was attempting, by his first venture into jet-borne presidential diplomacy, to rebuild and strengthen bridges to Europe and to seek better American relations with France.

LITTLE FANFARE

This situation will be much on Nixon's mind as he arrives at the massive Royal Palace for his first briefing. The ceremonies at the airport, including the royal welcome, the review of the honor guard and introduction to leading Belgians, will be relatively short.

From the palace, the President will be driven directly to the Hilton Hotel, his residence for this first stop. He chose to stay at a hotel rather than in one of the royal palaces.

Belgian officials said U.S. security men had objected that there were too many trees around palace windows, which could complicate their problems.

The President will be kept largely out of the public view. He will be whisked swiftly through town by a motor escort. The tone of his visit is all business. In keeping with this, there is little public fanfare.

There are no special decorations on the city's streets. There will be little in the way of crowds at the time of his arrival, since the airport sector is sealed off and the trip to the palace will be a 60-mile-an-hour clip.

The U.S. Embassy is displaying a huge new American flag. At the sprawling headquarters of NATO, which the presidential motorcade will pass on its way from the airport, 15 flags of the member nations flutter in the wintry breeze along with NATO's blue and white banner.

Oil Refinery Fire At Denver City

DENVER, CITY, Tex. (AP) — A fire continued to burn Saturday evening at a Shell Oil Co. refinery two miles north of Denver City and about 10 miles east of the New Mexico state line. No one was injured.

Bob McDonald, a Plains, Tex. deputy sheriff, said the fire subsided several hours after it began, but flared up again about 6 p.m.

He said traffic was stopped for a time on State Highway 214 for fear of explosions at the refinery.

He said Shell officials decided to let the fire continue to burn so gasoline in refinery vessels and pipelines would be combusted. The deputy said company officials would wait until all the lines and vessels were empty before smothering the fire.

Fire fighting units from seven nearby communities answered the fire alarm. The fire began about 1 p.m.

McDonald said company official believed the fire started when an oil pump seal failed and sprayed hot oil on a heated line.

The fire ruptured gas lines, burned the master pumps at the refinery and burned the electrical circuits that operate automatic cutoff valves, he said.

Firemen fought the blaze with foam, and a call went out to oil companies in the area for more foam.

Company officials said they had not had time to assess damage.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has developed signs of an acute testicular obstruction during the past 24 hours, Walter Reed Hospital authorities reported Saturday.

Stricken Ship Being Towed

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A stricken American tanker was towed safely to port Saturday, and a disabled Swedish freighter, abandoned by her crew, was being towed in through choppy seas off the North Carolina coast.

The Coast Guard said the tanker Trans Champlain, which began sinking Friday after the boiler sprang a leak, was towed by commercial tugs to a dock at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co.

The 523-foot Trans Champlain, owned by the Hudson Waterways Co. of New York, was northbound for Newport News when she encountered trouble over Diamond Shoals off the North Carolina Coast.

Slightly south of this area — 50 miles southeast of Cape Lookout, N.C. — the Swedish freighter Farida was being towed in toward Morehead City, N.C., by the Dutch tug, Clyde.

She was expected to reach port Sunday morning.

TRY TO RIP FBI PROBE OF ASSASSINATION

Mystery Shot A Sonic Boom?

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Blown-up prints of pictures from the Warren Commission Report were placed into evidence Saturday at the Clay Shaw trial as the state tried to discredit the FBI investigation of President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

The photos purportedly showed clothing worn by Kennedy when he was killed Nov. 22, 1963.

Shaw, 55, is on trial on a charge of conspiring to assassinate Kennedy. But the big, gray-haired defendant has become a spectator during the trial of the Warren Commission, which concluded there was no credible evidence of conspiracy and that Lee Harvey Oswald was the lone assassin.

NO EVIDENCE

Chief defense attorney F. Irvin Dymond demanded anew that the entire work of the commission be admitted in evidence if parts of it were admitted. But Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. said: "I'm not letting the Warren Report in."

FBI firearms expert Robert A. Frazier, called by the defense, testified that he found no evidence to indicate that shots which hit Kennedy were fired from any location other than a sixth-floor window of the Texas

School Book Depository in Dallas. He was a key investigator for the Warren Commission which concluded Oswald shot Kennedy from that spot.

Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's prosecution team, through its questioning of Frazier, however, sought to emphasize that the commission confined its investigation to the depository, Garrison contends. Kennedy was killed in a crossfire by "different guns in different locations" and that the fatal shot was from the front.

Frazier testified on direct examination that the high-velocity bullet fired by the 6.5 mm. Italian-made rifle (identified by the commission as Oswald's) created a double noise.

He said the bullets traveled faster than the speed of sound and a person standing some distance in front of the gun would hear first the sonic boom, then the middle report.

Q. Are these sonic noises easily distinguishable?

A. They are very easily confused unless you are particularly listening for it at the time.

Several prosecution witnesses told of hearing shots fired in very close succession and also of hearing shots from the grassy knoll area nearer the limousine than the depository.

Reviewing the . . .
Big Spring Week
. . . with Joe Pickle

Ah, so near and yet so far — this business of moisture. We did come up with nearly a half inch Friday morning, along with a peppering of hail, which is unusual for this time of the year. The rain was not enough to make much difference agriculturally, except for bringing out some winter weeds and freshening winter grass in the draws. The chance of severe cold is greatly diminished, and now prospects are good for spring sunshine.

The city commission and Big Spring School board got together last week and agreed on costs of developing the Airport elementary campus as a park. The two agencies will virtually split the financial responsibility down the middle, and the schools will pay half the watering charge, and the city will handle maintenance. Most importantly, the park seems assured.

An increase to 45.6 per cent from February's 42.8 per cent in oil allowances for March could mean around 15,000 barrels — or approximately

TESCO Looking To New Home In Stanton

STANTON — Texas Electric Service company here plans to move from the building it has occupied for quarter of a century to its new modern home sometime early in May.

Construction on the 64 by 32 foot one story office building which Texas Electric Service Co., is building at 310 N. St. Peters, began on Jan. 9. Completion date is May 5.

The contractor is Snoddy Construction Co., Midland.

The TESCO staff here comprises Cecil Bridges, manager, and Mrs. Sammie Laws, secretary, and Alford Franks, service man.

Herbert Jones of Snyder is the owner of the building where the company has had its office for the past 25 years.

Perfect Attendance Pins Presented To Seventeen

Seventeen Kiwanians were presented with perfect attendance pins for the year 1968 Thursday by Lt. Gov. Paul W. Cooper, Midland. The total years of perfect attendance amassed by these members aggregates 166 years. Three members accounted for 70 of the total years.

They are Nat Shick, 27 years; John Coffey, 22 and Harvey Clay, 21.

Others receiving perfect attendance pins with the number of years they have held the honor are: Jack Alexander, 13; Ernest Welch, 12; J. C. Pickle, 10; Soc Walker, 10; Delaine Crawford and Bill Johnson, eight; Sam Blackburn, Garland Heston, Roscoe Newell and Jim Thompson, five; Don Lovelady, four; Wendal Parks, seven; Henry Thames, three; and Bob Crowell, one.

Gov. Cooper, who is official head of Division 22 of the Texas-Oklahoma Kiwanis Clubs in West Texas, spoke to the local group on the objectives of the Kiwanis for 1969 and complimented the local organization on its progressive start into 1969.

A group of Midland Kiwanians were on hand to attend the meeting.

A report was made on the 17th Annual Kiwanis Club Pancake supper held on Feb. 14. It was estimated the profits from the enterprise would reach several hundred dollars but the expenses have not as yet been determined in full.

The supper was attended by 1,250 diners.

License Tag Sales Higher

Receipts for 1969 motor vehicle plates in Howard County during the first three weeks of sales are $19,837.85 ahead of the same period in 1968, according to Mrs. Zirah LeFevre, county tax collector-assessor.

Mrs. LeFevre reported Friday that since sale of plates began on Feb. 1, there have been $77,821.17 collected. At the end of the first three weeks of 1968, receipts totaled $57,983.32.

People are apparently buying their license plates early this year, she said, and there may be early registration of commercial vehicles before the April 1 deadline.

A deputy of the tax collector-assessor's office will be at the Coahoma City Hall March 11-12 to sell plates, Mrs. LeFevre said. In the meantime, residents may register their vehicles at the Howard County Courthouse, Newsom's Food Center, or Forsan City Hall.

Mrs. LeFevre reminded residents that they must bring their Texas vehicle title and 1968 license receipt when they purchase plates. Those without the documents are required to purchase tags at the motor vehicle division of the tax collector-assessor in the courthouse.

'Good Morning World' Program

Music will probably be the big feature of the "Good Morning World" program at the high school library on Wednesday. The program, under the aegis of the ministerial alliance and part of the Bible class program in the school system is from 8:05 a.m. to 8:20 a.m. each Wednesday.

Plans are for Bill Jones, who has proved a big hit with the 20 or more youngsters who turn out for these early morning religious sessions, to appear again next Wednesday. He will be featured on guitar. Last Wednesday he and James Newman were the leaders of the program.

Others who recently appeared on the program for the class are Johnny Jarvis and Mike Hull. Mike is a guitarist and both were featured in religious songs.

Smile Is Wiped From Nixon's Face

LONDON (AP) — A new effigy of President Nixon, shorn of the smile shown on a previous one, was placed on display Friday in the U.S. statesmen section of Madame Tussaud's wax museum.

The old pre-election effigy had been on display in a side room along with British fashion model Twiggy and French movie star Brigitte Bardot.

"The old image," said a museum spokesman, "was too much of a smiling one. We feel it is more in keeping with the dignity of the presidency that Mr. Nixon be shown in a serious vein."

Gail Hosts Area Tutors At Workshop

GAIL — Area teachers and superintendents met in the Borden County School here last Thursday from 4 to 7 p.m. for their regular in-service workshop. Several consultants were on hand to speak to the various groups. School personnel from Borden County School, Sands, Fluvanna, Klondike, Union, and Ira, who are all members of the South Zone Pilot Study Group, Region XVII, of the Texas Small Schools Association, were in attendance.

W. B. Smith, who is staff representative of Science Research Association, brought a program on "Formal Testing and Score Interpretation" to the group of administrators.

Reading consultant, Maris Fletcher, from West Texas Service Center in Midland, discussed "Educating the Mexican-American" in the reading group session.

The commercial teachers saw Dick Milam, representative of Hester's Office Machines in Lubbock, demonstrate the ten-key adding machine, the Steno-Cord dictating machine, and the Olivetti-Underwood calculator as suitable equipment in the high school commercial classes.

Dr. Gerald Walling, consultant from Texas Tech, brought the program for the math teachers.

Visual aids from Texas Education Agency were utilized by Joe Bulce, consultant from Odessa Junior College, in his program on transformational grammar, in which he defined the terms used and the five basic patterns for basic sentences, for the English teachers.

Dr. Brewster, chairman of the English Department from Odessa Junior College, discussed the choice of textbooks.

Snyder teacher Mrs. Odum directed the program for the language-arts group session for teachers of grades 4, 5, and 6.

"Problems in Teaching the Three R's," choosing textbooks, curriculum guides, periodicals, and teaching procedures were among the topics discussed by the other groups.

Ag Workers Meet Tuesday

The Howard County Agricultural Workers Association will have its regular monthly meeting at 7 a.m. Tuesday at Coker's Restaurant.

The program will be a summary by Tex Rogers, Big Spring Herald farm editor, of the cotton utilization study recently completed for Texas Agricultural Service Co. by the Cotton Research Committee of Texas and Cotton Economic Research program of the University of Texas.

The report is a feasibility study of a textile mill in an eight-county area of West Texas, including Howard County.

Fire Kills Dad, Four Children

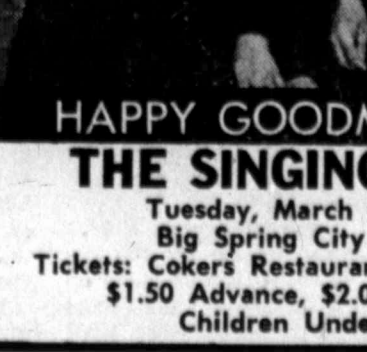

PERTH-ANDOVER, N.B. (AP) — A 34-year-old father and his four children died in a fire that destroyed their home near here late Friday night.

Dead are Clarence Post, David, 15, Warren, 10, Diane, 14, and Barbara Anne, 4.

In a hospital here in fair condition is Donald 8. His sister, Elizabeth, 12, is reported in good condition.

The two were rescued from the burning 1 1/2-story tarpaper-covered dwelling by Gary DeMerchant, a neighbor who required hospital treatment for burns to his hands.

The mother of the children, visiting in Ontario at the time of the fire, was reported on her way home.

Modesta Simpson On Committee For TCU Plans

Mrs. Modesta Simpson of Big Spring has accepted an invitation from the chancellor and the chairman of the board of trustees of Texas Christian University to become a member of the institution's Committee of 100, it has been announced in Fort Worth.

Authorized recently by resolution of TCU's governing body, the committee will meet twice to consider a tentative statement of plans for the university's future and to help in its refinement. The first gathering is planned for Feb. 26 on the TCU campus.

The committee of 100 will serve as a task force in assisting in realistic appraisal of plans, programs and progress of the university as it moves toward the year-long observance of its 100th birthday in 1972-73.

Former Resident On State Board

Mrs. Jack C. Milam, the former Miss Pat Thornton, daughter of Mrs. Jess Thornton and the late Jess Thornton, of Big Spring, has been elected to the Texas State Board of Insurance Women and is the new public relations chairman for the board. Mrs. Milam's home is in Odessa where she is associated with Wadell and Blank. She is attending the state meeting of the insurance women in Houston at this time.

She was Odessa Insurance Woman of the Year in 1968.

Mrs. Milam began her insurance career in the office of her father here in 1963. She had worked for Cosden for several years before turning to insurance.

She is a graduate of Big Spring High School.

Jack London's Cabin To Cost

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — It couldn't have cost much when author Jack London's cabin was built. But it's going to cost $18,000 to rebuild it.

That's how much Oakland's port commissioners set aside Tuesday to haul the cabin 2,000 miles from Dawson City in Canada's Yukon and set it up in Jack London Square, a redeveloped waterfront area.

The San Francisco-born, Oakland-raised writer inscribed on its walls "author, miner, January 27, 1898" after he dropped out of the University of California and joined the Alaska gold rush.

53 Eager Youngsters Prepare For China Quiz

The sixth grade social studies class, taught by Mrs. Anna Sweat at Boydston school, has launched a prolonged and widely varied study of the Orient with current emphasis on China.

The youngsters who comprise the two sections of the class have assembled and exhibited a remarkable display of Chinese souvenirs as a part of their effort.

These included oriental musical instruments, chopsticks, baskets, dolls, calendars and many other items.

One feature of the exhibit was the making of coolie hats by Charles Davis. Margie Davis provided a surprise for her classmates by serving Chinese cake. She also told the class about Chinese food.

This weekend a Chinese visitor, M. Harry, official representative of the Ranees' Clothiers, Kowloon, Hong Kong, will be here on a business trip.

He may not know it, but one of the things in store for him, if Mrs. Sweat's young students have their way, will be an interview about the Orient with 53 eager young researchers.

Receives Son's Medals

Mrs. J. R. Hale has received the medals conferred upon her son, 1st Lt. William T. Hale, USMC, who was killed in a combat crash in Vietnam Oct. 11, 1968. In the center is the Navy Commendation medal with bronze V (for combat) for heroic achievement. Mrs. Hale holds the Purple Heart, awarded upon Lt. Hale's death. The medal with the star was presented by the Vietnamese government, and others are from the Marines and Navy. Maj. G. R. Melbaum, commanding the USMC reserve at Midland, said this was only the second commendation medal he has presented.

Skeletal Remains Believed Identified

The skeletal remains found Jan. 15 in a lonely pasture west of here are those of an 81-year-old Big Spring Negro identified by Sheriff A. N. Standard as James Reddick Clark.

Standard said that Walter Grice, justice of peace, had concurred with him and other investigators in their identity of the body. He said that the justice of peace also agreed with the officers that death was due to natural causes. No evidence of foul play of any kind was found.

The sheriff added that the bones will now be returned to Big Spring from Austin and given a burial here. The State Welfare Department officials told the officers that with the establishment of identification and its official acceptance, the way is clear to authorize funds for its burial. The body will probably be back in Big Spring Monday.

Clark, who lived at 607 NW 5th, was last seen April 25, 1966, at a funeral.

Three friends of the man, who knew him intimately and who were familiar with his habits and clothing, have identified the shoes, hat and fragments of garments recovered in the vicinity of the skeleton as those of Clark. They also informed Deputy Sheriff A. G. Mitchell that Clark suffered from arthritis.

The skeleton was taken to the State Department of Public Safety laboratory some days ago, and the experts there said they were the bones of an aged Negro male, and that the man was the victim of the crippling bone disease.

Later the bones were taken in charge by the anthropology department at the University of Texas for further study.

Sheriff Standard and others quartered the dirt for nearly a quarter of a mile in all directions from the point where a telephone lineman came upon the skeleton on Jan. 15. The officers recovered additional fragments of clothing. Also recovered were 14 teeth.

Standard said that a search for Clark has been under way for some time. The state welfare department office began hunting for him after six payment checks were returned unclaimed in the fall of 1966.

Clark, before he became too old to work, formerly took care of yards in Big Spring and had lived here for a number of years. He had a habit, his friends said, of leaving his quarters and spending nights out in the open.

The body was about 42 feet from the T&P right of way, three miles west on IS 20 and 1 1/2 miles north of the highway. The area is almost impenetrable, other than on foot.

The sheriff said that no relatives of the aged man are known.

Backlog Of Cases Piling Up In Court

By TEX ROGERS

Howard County's contribution to the state's growing backlog of criminal cases pending in district courts stands at 91, which is an infinitesimal fraction of the 6,000 criminal cases pending in Harris County.

A heavy laden state docket of criminal cases, plus a similar load in U.S. district courts, has been cited by national and state authorities as a reason for more judges and prosecutors.

MORE COURTS

There currently is a measure adopted in the form of legislation by the Texas Law Enforcement Legislative Council calling for more district courts in the state. The council says that if the current system of law is to survive, the law must be enforced. Lawbreakers must be speedily detected, arrested, prosecuted and punished, the council says.

Increases in crime and arrests, however, are faced with a bottleneck in the courts. Judges can hear only so many cases.

The Howard County docket is either large or small, depending on whether the district judge or district attorney is talking.

Ralph Caton, presiding judge of the 118th Judicial District, says that the important thing is not the number of pending cases, but whether a person can have a trial as fast as he desires. Judge Caton feels that a person in Howard County can have a speedy trial despite the number of cases pending.

MORE TIME

Wayne Burns, district attorney, thinks that a backlog of cases is developing and that more time should be devoted in court for jury trials.

"It would take a year of regular jury trials to get the docket in good shape," he said.

The Texas Law Enforcement Legislative Council cites Harris County as the prime example of congested courts. In 1965 grand juries returned more than 8,000 felony indictments, compared to 5,700 in 1967. More than 6,000 felony cases were pending on Nov. 1, 1968, and there are only six district criminal judges.

Adequate courts would mean faster trials to keep pace with crime, the council says. Burns agrees and says that older cases are harder to prosecute.

"After a case is held longer than a year, it is harder to keep witnesses and some evidence," Burns says. "The case just disintegrates."

Some cases in Howard County have been pending more than six years, but the majority have been listed for less than a year.

LONGEST

The longest case on the docket lists Jerry Lee Parker, indicted for murder, and arrested Oct. 22, 1962. Jesse L. Collins, indicted for theft, was arrested May 22, 1965.

A survey compiled by the Administrative Office of U.S. District Courts shows that the median time in which a defendant may expect to get a jury trial is 5.8 months.

Amount of time for criminal jury trials in district court is determined by the judge. The district attorney then sets the cases he wishes for trial according to the time and witnesses available.

Judge Caton says that one way to reduce congestion in district courts would be to revamp the entire judicial system. There are enough courts, but too many cases must be heard at the district level.

The Texas Constitution states that district courts have jurisdiction over all felony crimes, divorces and suits involving property above $500.

"In Howard County there is a corporation court, two justices of the peace courts and county court, but most cases end up in district court," he said.

PENDING

At the end of 1968 there were 1,279 cases pending in 118th District Court, including 255 for divorce, 324 for tax suits, and 627 other civil suits.

Judge Caton notes that during the spring the criminal cases pending will be lowered by dismissals. Cases are dismissed when a defendant has more than one case pending and is convicted on another, or is convicted in another county and sent to prison while still under indictment here. At least 10 pending cases will be dismissed because defendants are already in prison.

Eight Weeks Left Until County Bee

By SAM BLACKBURN

The schools of the Seventh Annual Howard County Spelling Bee, under the sponsorship of the Big Spring Herald, have eight weeks to get their champions in shape for the Howard County Bee.

This means that sometime within the next month and a half, the schools will have to announce classroom champions, and from these spellers determine a school champion.

The school champion will have the right to compete against the spelling champions of all participating schools at the Howard County Spelling Bee. At this event, the County Spelling Champion for 1969 will be named and it will be his privilege to represent Howard County at the Regional Spelling Bee in Lubbock.

The Howard County Spelling Bee will be held in the Big Spring High School cafeteria at 10 a.m. April 19. The Lubbock Regional Spelling Bee will be held at O. L. Slaton Junior High School auditorium at 9:30 a.m. May 3. Spelling champions from 22 West Texas counties will take part.

The regional champion will win an all-expense paid trip for himself and his parents to Washington, D.C., early in June. There he will compete in the National Spelling Bee and have a chance at a trove of valuable prizes and awards.

The Herald urges all schools to select their school champions at least two weeks ahead of the county bee. By doing so the school's representative will have the time he needs to bone up on the words to be used in the contest. The words will be selected from the official spelling list, "Words of the Champions," which is used at all levels in the Spelling Bee competition.

Each school is also asked to report its second best speller. This boy or girl will be carried as the alternate champion and will be entitled to represent his school April 19, should the school champion be unable to compete. The Herald will defray the expenses of the county champion to Lubbock. He will also be presented with an attractive plaque bearing his name and proclaiming him as the Howard County Spelling Champion of 1969.

The alternate will receive a gift from the Herald. All school champions receive special Paper-Mate pencils.

No Word On Forsan PO

FORSAN — Real estate officials for the post office department, with headquarters in Lubbock, said that no word has been received from the post office department on the awarding of a contract for the new Forsan Post Office Building.

Eight bids were received by the department and were dispatched to Dallas for evaluation. These bids have been in Dallas for several weeks.

The post office department announced last Nov. 15 that it would build a new post office in Forsan under the plan the department follows in constructing many such buildings.

The department selected a site, and obtained an option. It then set up the specifications for the building and called for bids. The plan is for the bidder to buy the land for which the department holds the option, build the post office in accordance with the department's specifications, and then lease it to the post office for a stipulated number of years with renewal provisions.

The site here for the new building is at the intersection of Avenue F and Fourth Street. The building will encompass 763 square feet of working space and will provide for the paving of 2,036 square feet of parking area.

It was said that the change in administration in Washington may be responsible for the delay in awarding the contract.

Hearing On Textbooks Set

A public hearing on textbooks for the 1969-70 school year will be held by the textbook committee of Big Spring Independent School District at 7 p.m. Monday in the board of trustees meeting room.

Lynn Hise, assistant superintendent for instruction and unofficial member of the committee, said that the meeting is open to the public. Recommendations on textbooks for the next school year will be made, he said.

Books to be reviewed will include spelling for grade 1, elementary language and grammar for grades 1-6, elementary dictionaries for grades 3-6, junior high language and grammar, junior high literature, drawing for grade 7-8, vocal music for grade 8, secondary dictionaries for grades 7-11, high school art, high school geometry, chemistry II, Latin I, II, III and IV, industrial arts and vocation industrial education.

The committee includes S. M. Anderson, superintendent, Polly Adams, Bill Brooks, Mary Jean Byrd, Susan Dawes, LaRue DeViney, Glenn Guthrie, Mary Arnold Hefley, Blanche James, Pat Lawrence, Sandra Nixon, Norma Peacock, Imogene Puckett, Marjorie Talmadge and Rita Weeg.

Protestants, Catholics Cooperative Venture Bid

AUSTIN (AP) — Church leaders meet here Monday to organize the Texas Conference of Churches, the first cooperative venture of its type between protestants and Catholics.

Dr. Arthur Flemming, president of the National Council of Churches, and Archbishop John Carberry of St. Louis, chairman of the ecumenical and interreligious affairs committee of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, will speak.

The statewide organization will be composed of 13 protestant denominations, the 10 Texas dioceses of the Roman Catholic Church and the Greek Orthodox diocese.

The 16-year-old Texas Council of Churches will be dissolved. Its assets will be transferred to the new conference.

Harold Kilpatrick, executive director of the Texas Council of Churches, said the new conference "is a good beginning toward closer cooperation between Texas churches."

Callan Graham, executive director of the Texas Catholic Conference, said "The thrust of the new conference will be determined by the people who are in it."

Police Station Firebombed Again

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A district police station that has twice been the target of nightrider gunfire was firebombed early Friday. A woman clerk was injured slightly in diving to the floor to escape billowing flames.

Police said two incendiary devices were hurled through the front plate glass windows of the 9th District Station in west St. Louis.

Lavita Pearson, 20, a civilian clerk, suffered a back injury. Police said the young woman is eight months pregnant.

The bombs—described as pint wine bottles filled with flammable fluid—landed in the lobby between the front wall and the desk area. Damage was not extensive.

The police station was fired on in September and again in early January. A policeman suffered a minor hand cut from flying glass in the second attack.

WHILE CREW MEMBERS TEST LUNAR MODULE

He Will Stand Lonely Vigil

Editor's Note: Three astronauts are scheduled to be launched into space on Feb. 28 in another step toward the goal of landing U.S. specimens on the moon by mid-1970. The Apollo 9 mission, probably the most complex of the manned flights yet, will test the lunar module which eventually will take astronauts to the moon's surface. The following third of three articles tells of Lt. Col. David R. Scott's part in the historic mission.

By PAUL RECER
An Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — David R. Scott, carrying a burden unlike any man before, will be the life guard on Apollo 9, standing a lonely vigil of safety for his crew mates as they test the untried lunar module.

Scott, a 36-year-old Air Force lieutenant colonel, remains in the command and service module, CSM on Apollo 9 while Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and Russell L. Schweickart board the lunar module in space and fly up to 100 miles away from the mother ship in a rendezvous maneuver.

MORE RESPONSIBILITY
Should the lunar module, or LEM, malfunction, the lives of McDivitt and Schweickart will depend on the decisions Scott makes and on how well he is able to perform a complex rescue.

"When we are separated," said McDivitt, speaking of the solo flight of LEM during the mission, "Dave has a lot more responsibility than anyone's probably ever had before. He has to be able to evaluate any critical situation which might arise in his spacecraft and weigh the risk of his life in rescuing us against the certain loss of our lives. He's placed in a position that a lot of people don't really appreciate."

Scott is the command module pilot on Apollo 9, the 10-day space flight scheduled for launch Feb. 28. The mission is in earth orbit, but it's a major stepping stone to the moon because it will verify the design of the lunar module.

SCOTT'S JOB
Scott's job will be the least spectacular of the Apollo 9 trio. He has no extravehicular activity, or space walk, as does Schweickart. Nor will he transfer to the LEM while its docked with the CSM, as will both Schweickart and McDivitt.

But the success of the mission rests very heavily on Scott. His first major job after Apollo 9 is launched into space is to separate the command module from the S4B, the third launch booster stage. He'll then fly the CSM out a few feet, turn around and return, nose first, to the booster stage.

Nested in the end of the S4B is the LEM. Scott's job is to poke a probe on the nose of his command module into a 39-inch cone, called a drogue, covering a docking collar on the LEM.

'GATE KEEPER'
If his marksmanship is good, the spacecraft will lock together. Scott will "put it in reverse" and back away from the S4B, extracting the LEM now locked on the nose of the cone-shaped CSM.

This must be done properly before anything else in the flight is possible. Then, 40 hours after the flight starts, Scott becomes the "gate keeper" for McDivitt and Schweickart. Scott will be in charge of removing and replacing the drogue, the probe and the CSM hatch. When he removes the heavy equipment, it opens a tunnel to the LEM. When he replaces them, the two spacecraft become separate vehicles again, although still locked together.

GREEN LIGHT
Scott will have to wrestle with this equipment six times during the next three days of the flight. Just before the start of their fifth day into the mission, McDivitt and Schweickart move over to the LEM through the tunnel for their fifth trip between the two vehicles.

The pair power up the LEM. They give Scott the green light, and the command module pilot retracts the probe and moves the CSM about 30 feet away from the LEM, now flying by itself for the first time.

LEM's first solo is a rough simulation of the job it was designed to do—carry two men from a mother ship orbiting the moon down to the lunar surface, something this country hopes to do in June or July.

But in Apollo 9, LEM will be flying where it was not designed to fly. The lightweight craft was built for lunar orbit, not earth orbit, and it is not equipped to survive a re-entry into earth's atmosphere. If it gets in trouble in earth orbit, LEM must return to the CSM or its crewmen perish.

Only Scott, flying the heavy command module designed for an earth landing, can prevent disaster if LEM falters. Like most birds first leaving their nest, LEM tests its wings in easy stages.

'MAMA BIRD'
"Mama bird," the CSM and Scott, makes the first move. Scott fires a small thrust toward the earth, causing the CSM to move ahead and below the LEM. This creates an "equip-ported" orbital path, which means the spacecrafts would move back together automatically at the end of one orbit. Should LEM falter early, the "life guard" would be at hand within 90 minutes.

But if LEM is still healthy halfway through the orbit, McDivitt will fire the descent engine. This burn moves the LEM orbit up to 12.6 miles from the CSM at the farthest point, but would still return it to within 3.2 miles of the mother ship after one orbit.

If all is well, then another descent engine burn and places LEM in an orbit parallel to that of Scott and the CSM, but farther out in space. Since the LEM is farther from earth, it will be orbiting more slowly and will fall behind the CSM at the rate of 71 miles an hour.

FRESH BURN
When the distance widens to 86 miles, McDivitt separates the ascent stage of the LEM from the descent stage, a maneuver similar to that of astronauts flying from the surface of the moon. The ascent engine is fired, kicking LEM into an orbit 11.5 miles below the CSM and 86 miles behind.

Another burn puts LEM into a parallel orbit with the CSM, but this time between the mother ship and earth. This causes LEM to speed up and it begins to catch up with the CSM at the rate of 69 miles an hour.

In less than an hour, LEM is only 23 miles behind and 11.5 miles below. At this point, McDivitt fires the LEM reaction control thrusters and hurls his flimsy craft on a collision course with the CSM. He slams on the brakes, forward thrusting rockets, and drifts to within a few feet of the CSM. The rendezvous is completed and the LEM docks.

Scott, the life guard, the one link to safety, is not waiting idly for the young bird to return home during the six hours of rendezvous maneuvering. After the first separation burn, Scott plots maneuvers which would be a "mirror image" to those planned by the LEM.

Should the LEM fail to fire any of its planned burns at the correct time, Scott has 60 seconds to fire a "mirror image" burn. This would leave the spacecraft in the planned relative positions, and the LEM, if it has corrected its malfunction, could carry on with the rest of the rendezvous.

If the LEM is still disabled, Scott would do all of the rest of the rendezvous burns, bringing the spacecrafts together. This would enable him to rescue his teammates aboard the disabled LEM.

In effect, Scott will be doing everything that would be required of the command module pilot if he were actually performing the rendezvous himself. The only difference is that he will not light his rocket thrusters unless the LEM is disabled. And at the same time, Scott must control and monitor the CSM, the most complicated flying machine ever made by man.

They Give Up

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The white flag was hoisted over the Jackson County courthouse when the public rose up in protest over a $28,000 remodeling job that involved covering much of its Italian marble with plywood and plastic. One county court member, Dr. Charles B. Wheel Jr., said his own family turned against him over the project. So the court asked architects to design a new plan that would leave the marble intact and in view.

Mark Twain Due Friday

"Coffee with Mark Twain," an expanded version of the program that Al Scott has offered to most of the city's clubs and organizations, will be offered one night only, Friday at the Downtown Tea Room, starting at 8 p.m. Coffee will be served, and admission will be 50 cents, all proceeds going to the Little Theatre of Big Spring. Scott created the humorous monologue for a supper theatre program of the Little Theatre last spring, and since has been asked to repeat a brief program for most of the city's organizations. The Friday program is aimed at those who may not yet have seen it, or who would like to see it again. In addition, Scott has added more to the program. The remarkable Twain comes alive in Scott's interpretation, as he discusses compliments, smoking, abstinence, how to be 70, profanity, and the Hereafter, plus many more.

THE WEEK

one day's output — more for Howard County for March. That's enough to help.

Mrs. John Porter, who came to Howard County in 1885 (only three years after the county was organized), observed her 100th birthday, last Tuesday. This is a monumental milestone, but Mrs. Porter has done more than take up space for all these years. She blessed the community not only with her great spirit, but with a splendid family as well.

The meeting of the Permian Basin Historical Society here last week was a stimulating experience — for the visitors who got to see the developments at the "spring," city and state parks, and for local people who seemed to sense the possibilities of preserving more of our heritage. Some of these days, perhaps we can organize a historical society.

Texas Electric Service Company brought its feasibility study of a textile mill here Wednesday, and it showed several approaches for cities in the TESCO territory. This is a good example of a public spirited company doing something to help the area it serves. More development means more business, but someone has to take the initiative.

Howard County Junior College drew its quota of honors at the joint meeting of the Texas junior college administrators and teachers. Dean Ben Johnson was named president of the former; John Stanley and Larry Stanley were named to top spots in the music sub-section; and Doyle Holder, chairman of the mid-management sub-section. Had not the big city block suddenly decided on a hogging act, Moveida Rhyne would have been the teacher vice president.

The Big Spring High School choir members acquitted themselves admirably in district competition last weekend. Of 22 entries, 13 rated first (best) division, and what bespeaks good things to come was that five were freshmen. Our junior high choirs (which furnished much of this talent) did well, too.

Howard County commissioners have revived study of feasibility of remodeling and enlarging the county show barns. Closing in the space between existing buildings might be a way to provide for sorely needed display space for many activities. If this is done, perhaps some sidewalks from building to building, and to the parking area could be included.

There was some speculation, based on word from the Texas insurance commission, that fire insurance rates might be raised over most of Texas. Seems the commission is trying to spread disastrous losses in Dallas and on the Texas coast, which doesn't seem to be exactly cricket. Heretofore, we've pretty much earned our own rate.

CARD OF THANKS

The community planning committee was reactivated last week with a presentation from the city. Other agencies will follow with projection of their needs, and then the panel will consider some suggested priorities. Meanwhile, perhaps other committees will be tackling priorities outside the realm of public agencies.

Col. Wilson Banks, who was Webb AFB wing commander here in 1961-63, has been named director of aviation for the city of Midland. Getting a man of the calibre of Wilson Banks is a good stroke for our neighboring city, as its awareness of the importance of air service.

The YMCA has good news. The participating membership division has reached its $12,500 objective and is still going, and the sustaining division is right against its $10,000 target. This is bound to strengthen the Y program, and to a corresponding degree, our community.

Don't forget the Miss HCJC contest next Saturday evening. This is a good show, and it enables the HCJC Press Club to pay its own way to its state meetings.

GAIL — School leaders and officials of Borden County feel that a building which has been in constant use for school purposes for 53 years should be replaced with a new structure.

RETIRE
So that's what they hope the patrons of the district will instruct them to do when the results of a bond election on March 1 have been tabulated. The building, which the school officials would like to retire as a classroom and replace with a more modern facility, houses the home economics and science classrooms of the school at this time.

It was built and placed into service in the Borden County school system in 1916. The building is at the west end of the present high school complex. The stucco structure was continued in use when the present high school was built in 1952.

Plans now are to keep the building as a storage warehouse, if the voters approve the bond issue and permit the construction of a new science building.

The new science-home economics building is but a part of the modernization program the school leaders hope to carry out if the $425,000 bonds are authorized.

The high school itself, now 17 years old, needs some facelift. A renovation program is set up for it in the bond proposal.

The school also wants to build a band hall, agricultural shops building and a physical training complex, to be added to the present gymnasium.

Most recent additions to the school plant was the elementary school, which was built with a bond issue approved in 1958.

NO DEBT
Currently, the Borden County Independent School District has the rather unusual attribute of being completely out of debt. It has enough cash on hand to retire all the remaining bonds of earlier issues and clear its books of all obligations. The last of the old bonds will be retired April 1.

James McLeroy, Superintendent of the Borden County School District, said that friends of the bond issue proposal are working hard to line up favorable votes.

personal diplomacy. PROPAGANDA Rather, he said, he hopes to tap "the great well of knowledge, wisdom and experience in Europe and hopefully find some common principles which will smooth the course of American-European relations during his presidency.

While in Paris, Nixon will confer with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and other members of the American negotiating team at the Paris peace talks.

An administration source said the United States believes the initial stage of exchanges designed primarily for propaganda purposes to more substantive discussions.

This source said: "We have every hope that progress can be made, and can be made in a reasonable period of time."

Before returning to the White House a week from Sunday, Nixon will visit Brussels, London, Bonn, West Berlin, Rome, Paris and Vatican City, in that order.

Nixon said "I will be extremely interested in getting the advice and the best thinking" of British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, De Gaulle, West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger and other European leaders on the future course of East-West relations and hopes for American-Soviet negotiations.

Sources emphasized there are no present plans for a summit meeting with the Soviets and said that any conference of that sort would have to be preceded by meaningful progress in lower-level talks.

KREMLIN VISIT However, there is some reason to believe Nixon may already have an invitation to visit the Soviet Union and he has made it clear he is hopeful developments will permit a summit, perhaps later in the year.

Outlining his approach to American-European relations, Nixon recalled that when he went there 22 years ago as a freshman congressman the United States was dominant, economically and militarily, and was pretty much able to tell the Europeans what they should do.

"Today the situation, I am keenly aware, is changed," he said.

The President said Europe now is infinitely stronger economically—stronger in some respects than the United States—and has regained political stability and developed military strength.

"What this requires us to do now," Nixon said, "is to realize that the United States perhaps can make no greater mistake than to treat the situation here now as it was then."

FREE WORLD He said he seeks real partnership with the European allies and stated that, with reference to the position of the United States, "free world leadership does not mean to my thinking dictatorship to the free world."

In Britain and France, especially, Nixon will be discussing efforts to settle the tense Middle East conflict.

"I put a high priority on this subject," he said.

Following his meetings in London and Paris, he said, he will make a decision for the United States on how settlement talks should proceed.

Sources said leaders of every country Nixon will visit have indicated they want to discuss the troublesome international monetary situation, Nixon said he is prepared to talk about "trade and monetary affairs in the broadest sense."

Gunners Shell Saigon, 30 South Viet Towns

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy gunners shelled Saigon and about 30 South Vietnamese towns and bases early Sunday. At least six persons were reported killed and 10 wounded in the first rocket attack on Saigon since the United States ceased bombing North Vietnam last Nov. 1.

Rocket and mortar attacks hit installations in all four military corps areas, causing the heaviest damage at Da Nang, where an ammunition dump was blown up and the fuel depot set afire.

Authorities at Da Nang declared a 24-hour curfew ordering all persons off the streets. Enemy infiltration into the northern city was reported but there were no immediate reports of fighting.

Of the rockets aimed at Saigon, five or more hit business and residential areas. One started a fire at the city's central market place in which one civilian was reported killed. Other damage was reported relatively light.

POLICEMEN DIE Four Saigon policemen were reported killed by another rocket.

Rockets also fell on the huge petroleum tank farm at Nha Be, just outside Saigon, but a military spokesman said there was no damage.

Military authorities said it appeared that all the assaults were confined to bombardment with no significant ground action.

Spokesmen said that American and South Vietnamese units had been alerted to the possibility of attacks and that, in every major shelling, answering fire was laid on the enemy positions within minutes. Flareships lit the night sky to expose the targets.

The port and base of Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, appeared to be one of the hardest hit.

Associated Press correspondent Edwin Q. White, temporarily based in Da Nang, said rockets fell inside the city, on the Marble Mountain base east of town and near the headquarters of the U.S. 3rd Marine Amphibious Force.

THE BEGINNING? One rocket exploded a South Vietnamese army ammunition depot about a half mile from U.S. Marine headquarters and across the river from the main part of the city. Flames lit the sky and huge columns of smoke rose into the air. Fresh explosions sounded periodically.

The attacks, launched shortly after 2 a.m., ranged from the far north just below the demilitarized zone to a few installations in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon. Most seemed to have lasted only a few minutes.

A police substation in Saigon was attacked by a squad of Viet Cong agents who fired a few rounds and then withdrew.

The shelling perhaps was a preliminary to the Viet Cong's long-awaited winter-spring offensive.

It was evident that the Communist command was making some kind of coordinated effort to mark the end of the lunar new year holidays. This is the festive period known as Tet, which the enemy used last year for their most devastating offensive of the war.

SHARP EXPLOSIONS A seven-day enemy-declared cease-fire ended Saturday morning. The allies claimed it had been broken by scores of incidents.

There were some conflicting reports in Saigon as to whether rockets or mortars fell on the city.

The sound of the sharp explosions definitely was characteristic of the rockets which the city's residents learned to know so well earlier this year. Between May and October the enemy shelled and rocketed the capital almost 30 times, killing about 150 civilians and wounding 1,000.

DEATHS Mrs. Hugh Callon, Services Today

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Services for Mrs. Hugh Callon, 78, a resident of Mitchell County since 1918, will be at 4 p.m. Sunday in Kiker and Son Funeral Home chapel. The Rev. S. L. Yielding of Arnett, will officiate and burial will be in the Colorado City cemetery.

Mrs. Callon died at 7:55 p.m. Friday in Reed Memorial Hospital after a one month illness. She was born June 20, 1892, in Jasper, Ala. She and Mr. Callon were married April 13, 1918 in Jasper and moved to Mitchell County soon after. She was a long-time member of the Baptist church.

Survivors include the husband, a brother and a sister.

Guard Keeps Berkeley Cool

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The University of California was tense but peaceful Saturday. A token force of National Guardsmen, summoned after violence two days ago, remained nearby.

Most of the 1,000 guardsmen on standby at a naval supply depot close to the campus were withdrawn after striking teachers and students kept emotions in check at a noisy rally Friday.

"Don't give them an excuse," monitors urged about 2,500 students and members of the striking American Federation of Teachers assembled outside a regents meeting at University Hall.

"We wanted a peaceful demonstration," Ysidro Macias, a leader of the Mexican-American Student Confederation, said afterward. "But Monday might be different."

When classes resume after the weekend, university officials will be armed with authorization, approved 18-3 by the regents, to suspend students when "there is reasonable cause to believe" they disrupted the campus with violence, threats or destruction.

Strikers hurled rocks, bottles, tear gas canisters and firecrackers at police for about three hours Thursday.

Gov. Ronald Reagan declared a state of emergency on the 28,000-student campus before the guard was alerted.

Liberal Abortion Bill Wins NM Senate Okay

SANTA FE (AP) — The New Mexico Senate has approved a bill to liberalize the state's abortion law and sent it on to the House.

The abortion bill passed the Senate Friday by a 21-20 vote. The only member absent was Sen. Joseph Skeen, R-Lincoln-Otero, the minority floor leader.

The successful measure was sponsored by Sen. Sterling Black, D-Santa Fe-Los Alamos, who fought unsuccessfully for passage of a similar bill during the 1967 session.

BIG CHANGE Black's bill got an unfavorable report from the Senate Judiciary Committee, which approved another abortion bill, sponsored by its chairman Sen. I.M. Smalley, D-Luna-Hidalgo-Sierra.

The Senate killed Smalley's bill 20-22 Friday.

Black's bill was amended to include one provision from the Smalley bill—that hospitals and medical personnel opposed to abortion not be required to take part in such an operation.

The Black bill allows termination of a pregnancy when the child is likely to be born with physical or mental defects, or when the pregnancy resulted from rape or incest.

The bill requires that the decision that soldiers do not get involved in election activities.

The bumper sticker ban, issued Feb. 5, evoked an editorial attack from the services-oriented Armed Forces Journal which denounced it as insulting and meddling in the private lives of servicemen.

Teacher Says 'Remark' Gets Oswald Job At Depository

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Texas kindergarten teacher testified Saturday at the Clay Shaw trial that a chance remark led to Lee Harvey Oswald's job on the route of President John F. Kennedy's fateful Dallas motorcade in 1963.

The teacher, Ruth Hyde Paine of Irving, Tex., was called by the defense at Shaw's trial on a charge of conspiring with Oswald and others to assassinate Kennedy.

Mrs. Paine testified she made an inquiry without Oswald's knowledge, that resulted in his applying for work at the Texas School Book Depository. It was from this building, the Warren Commission said that Oswald alone shot and killed the President on Nov. 22, 1963.

The commission, which found no credible evidence of conspiracy, has been in effect put on trial alongside the big, gray-haired Shaw, 55, retired New Orleans businessman. Court adjourned after Mrs.

County Vote Total Listed At 11,834

Final official count of qualified voters in Howard County has been certified at 11,834 by Mrs. Zirah LeFevre, county tax collector-assessor.

The 1969 total was considerably less than the 14,122 electors registered last year, but 1968 was a presidential election year.

This year's official total, however, is ahead of the 10,905 registered in 1967, another "off" year politically.

Mrs. LeFevre and her deputies completed checking and cross-checking the registration records Friday, and she certified the 11,834 voters for the county clerk and secretary of state.

Mrs. LeFevre said that 153 applications had been turned down because they were duplicated in the tax office, mutilated or void for some reason.

Many applications for registration certificates were received in the mail, and after checking, deputies found that the same persons had already made applications in the office, she said.

A letter has been sent to those voters who have two applications, asking them to return one. Mrs. LeFevre said. The duplicated certificates should be returned to the tax office, because

Mrs. LeFevre has to account to the secretary of state for all applications.

Each of the county's 21 voting precincts showed declines in the number of voters, again reflecting an "off" election year. Precincts with the largest amounts of voters in 1968 had the greatest reduction, while the rural precincts with few voters had a lesser decline this year.

The voting strength of the boxes compared with that of 1968 is:

Library Expanding Its Genealogical Department

Midland County Library has recently enlarged its genealogical department, according to members of the Permian Basin Genealogical Society. The library is also asking for gift genealogical material to further widen the utility of the department.

A new microfilm reader has been installed and census records can now be borrowed from the Southwestern Genealogical Library in El Paso.

Also on hand are large collections of phone books, city directories and other publications which are most valuable in genealogical research.

The Permian Basin Genealogical Society has a growing membership of men and women interested in genealogical research. Fifty-seven of its members are from Midland.

At a recent meeting, the society elected H. R. Brice, Midland, as president. Vice presidents are J. C. Carroll, Midland, and J. L. Williams, both of Midland. Mrs. Bill Rodgers, Odessa, is secretary and Mrs. George Fletcher, Odessa, treasurer. Editor is Mrs. Jack Grider, Odessa, and Mrs. J. W. Meadors, Odessa, is librarian. The reporter is Mrs. James Orbeck, Odessa.

The board is composed of Brice, Williams, Carroll, Bill Pettit, Mrs. Orbeck, Mrs. Glenda Nobles, Mrs. Meadors, Mrs. Rodgers, Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. Dan Hemphill, Mrs. Grider and Mrs. A. G. McDaniel.

Application for a state charter has been filed by the society. Next meeting of the society will be Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Odessa Public Library.

Thieves Snatch Oil Field Pipe

Thieves made away Friday night with 127 joints of oil field pipe from two locations near Forsan.

Howard County sheriff's deputies reported Saturday that 80 joints of 2 1/2-inch, 30-foot tubing were taken from C. V. Wash, 12 miles south of Big Spring off US 87, and A. K. Guthrie reported 47 joints of similar pipe missing from a location near the Wash site.

Evidence at the Wash place revealed that the thieves loaded the pipe by hand and took off on US 87 toward Big Spring, deputies said.

Hotel Flames

Grease on stove vents in the kitchen of the Settles Hotel was blamed for a fire which occurred there about 12:25 p.m. Saturday.

Big Spring firemen spent about 30 minutes extinguishing the fire which caused a heavy blaze and considerable smoke damage to the kitchen. The fire and smoke were confined to the kitchen and did not spread to the rest of the hotel, firemen said. No injuries were reported.

Partisan Bumper Stickers Banned

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. soldier may vote but otherwise he is to remain aloof from the political arena—including the display of political stickers on car bumpers.

The Army said Saturday it has banned partisan bumper stickers for "members of the Army while on active duty," and said it follows a rule of long-standing that soldiers do not get involved in election activities.

The bumper sticker ban, issued Feb. 5, evoked an editorial attack from the services-oriented Armed Forces Journal which denounced it as insulting and meddling in the private lives of servicemen.

Truman Wants To Go Home

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman ate a hearty lunch Saturday, talked by telephone with former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and began pressing for release from Research Hospital.

A spokesman for the hospital said Truman remains in satisfactory condition. He entered the hospital Thursday night for treatment of intestinal influenza. There was no indication when the 84-year-old ex-president would be sent home to suburban Independence, Mo.

Two Accidents

Two minor accidents were investigated Saturday afternoon by Big Spring police.

Clarence M. Coldiron, Knott, and Kenneth Randall DeWees, 2211 1/2 Johnson, were driving vehicles which collided at Third and Scurry streets about 4 p.m. Saturday.

A car driven by Barbara Hughes Watts, 321 Hillside, was in collision with a parked vehicle registered to Darris Ray Crooks, 1506 E. 6th, at 5:15 p.m. at 521 Hillside.

FIELD AND RANGE Research Is Proven Effort But More Funds Are Needed

By TEX ROGERS
Each year research in agriculture becomes more important, both to the farmer and consumer.

As the population continues its yearly increase, more people must be fed by fewer farmers on less land. These same farmers are required to produce more crops while facing continued increases in prices for equipment and labor, which eventually get back to the consumer.

Agricultural research during the past 25 years has vaulted to a vast network of centers throughout the nation which devote man hours and money to studying everything from weeds to wind erosion. Most studies benefit both rural and urban dwellers.

The Big Spring Experiment Station is a part of the nationwide effort in agricultural research. It has made its contributions, but Dr. Bill Fryrear, head of the station, thinks that more progress could be made if more funds were available.

There are approximately 40 million acres of sandy soils in the southern plains, representing some of the most productive land in the Great Plains. Moisture conservation and wind erosion control are major problems in managing and conserving these soils.

The Big Spring station is the only field station in the southern plains which the Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Research Service, and U.S. Department of Agriculture has for soil and water conservation research of sandy soils.

Also, it is strategically located for research on conservation problems in four land resource areas, Southern High Plains; Rolling Red Plains, Southern Desertic Basins, Plains and Mountains; and Edwards Plateau. Sandy soils extend into nearly all of the Panhandle of Texas and into the Rio Grande Valley, plus large parts of the Oklahoma Panhandle, southern Kansas, southwestern Kansas, eastern New Mexico and eastern Colorado.

Fryrear notes that the Big Spring station is now confined to a limited area in serving the southern plains, mainly because of a lack of funds. If the center had funds to study sandy soils comprehensively, it would be a regional station for all states where that variety of soil is found.

The station's budget for the past 10 years has been $66,400 per year, Fryrear said. But after salaries, equipment and maintenance funds are spent, the station has only about $10,000 on which to operate.

Despite the shortage of operating capital, Fryrear and his assistants, Dr. Paul Koshe and Jim Stubbendiek, continue to work.

Progress has been made in research at the station, and a more recent study was done on the use of gin trash over soil. This practice is now being used by many Plains farmers.

"We could consider the use of petroleum products as a much to stabilize the soil from wind erosion and study the effect of petroleum derivatives in reducing evaporation," he said. "Evaporation of water from the soil is of great concern. In 1958 we found that a bale of cotton could be produced with only four inches of water, if the water was not evaporated off the soil."

Studies in grasses and crops systems could also be made to discover what species of plants use more moisture during various seasons, he said.

Air pollution here could be cause for another study, he said, in connection with the moving of herbicides and insecticides through the air.

"There was a heavy dust storm here in 1965 in which dust particles containing chemicals were deposited in Cincinnati, Ohio," he said. "Those people there were concerned about the dust and chemicals, and we should be, too."

Fryrear said that work is under way at the station to coat the soil with carbon black and other petroleum chemicals to see if cotton and other crops would germinate and sprout earlier.

"If the chemicals could help get the crop up faster, by keeping the ground warm, the plants could get water faster during the rainy season, and would be up in time so that insects couldn't damage them," he said.

Fryrear said that for the Big Spring station to be turned into a regional research center, about $450,000 per year would be needed. That kind of budget would be enough to employ at least 20 professional people and to carry on experiments year around. Studies could be conducted in areas of soil, water, grass and insects.

Hearings are coming up in March in Congress to decide what research stations and programs will receive funds. Several Texans will help decide the fate of the Big Spring Experiment Station and whether it remains in its same program or expands.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough is on the Senate Agricultural Committee. George Mahon is chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. Ray Poage is chairman of the House Agricultural Committee, and Omar Burleson is a member of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Big Spring Future Farmers of America brought home honors last Saturday at the Odessa Stock Show and Livestock Judging Contest.

Perry Gamble was high man in swine judging team, while Bob Nichols was third in individual judging. Coy McCann was fourth in individual sheep judging, while the team of Gamble, McCann, Nichols and Bill Jenkins received the trophy for team sheep judging.

Results Evident

Fumigation Test Adds More Profits

LAMESA (SC) — A Lamesa farmer is getting maximum mileage out of a cotton fumigation program commenced three seasons ago. And although he was primarily interested in the added profits the fumigation netted for his irrigated cotton acreage in Dawson County, it turns out that Roy E. Bearden has won a trip to Jamaica out of the deal.

Bearden and his wife Zelpha leave today for a week-long expense-paid visit to the West Indies after he was named winner of a contest sponsored by The Dow Chemical Co. to show the most effective use of Dow's Fumazone 86 in combating cotton losses caused by nematodes.

Under controlled and certified conditions, Bearden showed that cotton planted on soil treated with Fumazone 86 yielded 772 pounds more lint per acre than the untreated portion of the crop in a 42-acre patch which had been severely infested with soil nematodes.

Bearden says he is "a firm believer" in fumigation of nematode-infested cotton land after seeing the benefits in three seasons of use on his 900-acre farm near Lamesa.

"This was the most dramatic example of the results of fumigation," Bearden said. "But I am convinced it pays off anywhere you have a problem with nematodes."

"It doesn't take much arithmetic to show why. On this plot, we gained 772 pounds of lint. Using 20 cents a pound as a bare minimum return on the cotton (he actually received more than that on the long-staple variety used), you come up with a gain of $144 per acre.

"It cost about $10 per acre to apply the Fumazone ... subtract this from the $144 and

Dear Abby

The Costly Poker Crowd

DEAR ABBY: I am a housewife with all kinds of problems. One of the biggest is my husband, Sam. He brings the boys in for poker two nights a week. If that was all, I wouldn't complain. The boys never have the poker game at their house. Never. They come here like wolves with empty stomachs, and pretty soon Sam comes and asks ME to fix the boys a snack, so I fix up a big plate of sandwiches. Next it's beer. Abby, twice a week gets pretty expensive with the allowance I get.

I have mentioned this to Sam, but he refuses to say a word to the boys about it. So what should I do? SAM'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Inform Sam that unless HE sweetens the pot, or asks his poker pals to ante up — no refreshments! And tell him you're a pretty good poker player, too, so he'd better not call your bluff.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am being childish, but I am worried about something I can't confide in anyone else. I am scheduled to have some extensive dental surgery in the near future and my dentist has informed me that I will have to be "put under" with a regular anesthetic.

That doesn't bother me, but I understand people tell a lot of tales out of school while they are "under" and I don't want to take any chances because our dentist belongs to our club and it could be embarrassing, if you know what I mean.

I would appreciate any help you can give me. WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Don't worry, it will be practically impossible for you to put your foot in your mouth while your dentist has his hand in it. Besides, only a psychiatrist gets paid for listening.

DEAR ABBY: This problem has caused my brother, sisters and myself extreme embarrassment and shame. Our parents have been divorced for several years. Dad remarried, but his wife left him shortly afterwards, so now he goes to visit Mom quite often.

We children are all married and could provide a room for Dad when he comes to town, but he prefers staying with Mom at her one-bedroom apartment. I'm sure he's not sleeping beginning to talk. EMBARRASSED: DEAR EMBARRASSED: Your parents' behavior reflects only on themselves. Let them know you disapprove of their unconventional behavior and forget it. They'll do what they want to do anyway.

Who's Wrong About Body?

PORT MANSFIELD, Tex. (AP) — A Freeport woman said Friday a body washed up on Padre Island Thursday night is that of her husband Virgil Clyde Simpson, 29.

Justice of Peace Georgia Mae Campbell of Kenedy County had identified the body Thursday as that of Herman Billy Cubbedge, 42.

Mrs. Campbell said she made the identification from a driver's license and other papers in a wallet.

Mrs. Simpson said her husband and Cubbedge were together on the shrimp boat Kit-Kat that sank last Friday during a storm in Matagorda Bay.

The body was found about six miles north of the Port Mansfield jetties.

Library Offers 6 New Films

Howard County Free Library has six new motion pictures in its film library available to groups without charge. The films now available include one which library officials feel should be given wide attention by churches, schools and other agencies dealing with young people. The film is titled "Beyond LSD." It will be available here for six weeks. Other titles now available are "Hemingway, Part 1 and Part 2," a text film about the Hemingway way of life and his works; "Flowers of Yet Sing Low," a movie for young children; "Goose Hunt," a picture which should be of wide interest to hunters; "Downstream to the Sea," the record of a 50-mile canoe trip from the interior of Newfoundland to Notre Dame Bay, and "Alaska, Cruise Style," a travel film showing the pleasures which can be enjoyed on a luxury cruise from Vancouver to Skagway. All of the films are in color. They are 16 mm sound pictures and can be borrowed without charge for school, club or family showing. The person borrowing the films must provide his own projector, since the library has none available.

City Has Picked Up 138 Additions

By SAM BLACKBURN
Have you had any reason to visit addresses on Parker or Jack Street in Big Spring recently? Or perhaps Elm, Oak, Ash, Pecan, Pine, Cedar, Cypress, or Locust streets? You probably have been on at least one, and probably all of these thoroughfares. The difficulty is they no longer bear the names they were given when the town of "Big Springs" and its first addition came into being.

STILL ACTIVE
Parker Street is still an active traffic artery. You know it as Main. And Jack Street, too, is pretty busy these days, but the markers call it Lancaster. The tree-named streets are now numbered and have "northwest" or "northeast" attached to their numerical designation — depending on which side of Gregg they happen to be located.

J. Drake and William Strauss. Big Spring today has spread from the restricted area of Big Springs of 1882. Today's city encompasses 12.9 square miles, absorbs 8,258.6 acres of land, and is a patchwork quilt of 138 additions and subdivisions. Plats of all these numerous additions to the city are on file in the plat record at the clerk's office. Apparently the town remained pretty well restricted to the original tract for 16-17 years.

GROWTH
Then, growth began. At first, they must have been mild pains. The census of 1890 fails to credit the town with any population at all. The county, however, was credited with having 1,210 — which indicates a fairly healthy growth from the figure showed in 1880. The county's population at that time was 50.

OLDEST PLAT
The oldest plat, other than the original and its supplement and possibly Boydston Addition, is one for the Tennyson Addition. This was filed in April, 1892. The Porter Addition made its appearance in April, 1901. McDowell Heights was filed for record in November, 1905. Brennan, Moore Heights and Jones Valley showed up during 1906. The town had a sudden surge of building interest in 1907. Eight additions were plated and filed in that year, including South, Worth Peeler and other additions was rough, almost inaccessible hill country. To the southwest, the far flung area in the Douglass Addition and other developments was but vacant land.

PHENOMENAL
From 1952 through 1963 the expansion of the town was phenomenal. In 1956, for example, the vast area which is now solidly built up in residences in Kentwood, Highland South, Worth Peeler and other additions was rough, almost inaccessible hill country. To the southwest, the far flung area in the Douglass Addition and other developments was but vacant land.

NEW JERSEY POKE ADDS TO STANDING
DENVER, Colo. — The east and west have met — and the east won, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said here. Jimmy Myers, a professional rodeo cowboy from Thorofare, N.J., tied for first in bull riding at the San Antonio Livestock Exposition Rodeo, which ended Sunday. Myers won $1,940 in the event placing him fourth in national standings. In national All Around Cowboy competition, Myers is ranked tenth; he has posted previous wins in bareback bronc riding. There were 330 entries at the San Antonio rodeo, competing for what may have been a record amount of prize money there — $39,453. San Antonio's biggest winner

THESE BIG BOOKS RECORD GEOGRAPHICAL GROWTH OF TOWN. Big Spring of today is "crazy quilt" of more than 138 municipal additions acquired in the past 87 years.

From 1907 on, more and more extensions were made to the city and ultimately these were brought into the corporate limits of the town. In more recent years there has been a slowing trend. About the most recent to be added to the family was the Colonial Hills Addition which came into the picture in 1963. Many of the additions have been amended and changed but basically the list remains as originally laid out. If the city could be seen from the air with each of its 138 additions painted in a different color the striking resemblance of the town to the crazy quilts of your grandmother's days would be evident. The additions have been made necessary by the remarkable growth of the community. From 1890, when the U.S. Census fails to mention the city as having any people at all, to 1960 when the reports credited Big Spring with 31,330, represents quite a change. The original 10 by 11 block area in the initial Big Spring plat would be a little crowded to accommodate today's population. MORE DUE More additions will undoubtedly be added to the town in the years ahead. In 1965 the Texas Bureau of Business Research made a forecast in which it predicted that by 1980 — which is just 11 years away — Howard County would have a population of 72,310. Since there is little probability of any material change in the ratio of urban and rural residents, this would mean Big Spring would be a city of 65,000 in that year.

By the year 2,000, the bureau predicts the county will be the home of 89,143 persons. If these forecasts bear fruit, then more additions will have to be made to the Big Spring map and instead of 138, the plat books will probably contain twice that number.

was Ken McMullan, a calf roper from Big Lake, who snared $3,973. A former school teacher from Orange, Tex., Jerry Peveto, won the steer wrestling action and $2,088; he is third in national standings with early season winnings totaling $5,287. Tying for first with Myers in bull riding was Myrtis Dightman of Houston, who pocketed $1,765. Jim Houston, Omaha, Neb., two-time world bareback bronc riding titlist, won his specialty and $1,831. Bill Smith, Cody, Wyo., claimed first and $1,513 in saddle bronc riding. Another product of the Cowtown, N.J., rodeos, Sandy Kirby, picked up $664 in bull riding.

American Party To Meet Monday

The Howard County organization of the American Independent Party will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in the Pioneer Natural Gas Company Flame Room, according to E. O. McNeese, county chairman. "We have 21 precincts in Howard County, and we need a chairman and good workers for each precinct," McNeese said. He said he hoped that a representative from each precinct would attend. Dr. Irby Fox, county chairman of Taylor County, and Emmitt Boyd, committeeman for the 24th senatorial district, will speak at the meeting.

Track Can Offer Range Of Sports

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Dover Downs, a unique horse-automobile racing track, football-polo field sports complex, is scheduled to hold its first thoroughbred race March 8.

The track, plagued by financial difficulties which at one point threatened to scuttle the entire project, is opening a year behind schedule for a 55-day pari-mutuel season.

Backer of the project is Delaware Atty. Gen. David P. Buckson, a sometimes controversial politician-sportsman who began his career in the 1930s as an exercise boy at a horse track.

COST $5.2 BILLION

Buckson estimates that when completed, the sports complex will have cost $5.2 billion.

Horses began arriving Feb. 15. Meantime, workmen are working around the clock putting the finishing touches on the grandstand, track and barns.

The Delaware Racing Commission granted the new track a license for races from March 8 through May 10, with the exception of Good Friday, April 4.

Racing during the first two weeks of the meeting will be during daylight hours, switching to night hours March 24 for the remainder of the meeting.

Buckson says the track is the only one in the world which combines horse and automobile racing. The one-mile asphalt auto track encircles the five-eighths-mile horse track.

Fans will be able to stand on the asphalt apron of the auto track in front of the grandstand to watch the horse races.

The infield, Buckson says, will be used both for polo matches and football games later on.

Buckson is hopeful that automobile racing can begin when the horse racing season ends.

The track is located about one mile north of Dover on U.S. 13. It initially will accommodate 5,000 cars in its parking lots, but Buckson said he owns several hundred acres of farm land on either side of the track which eventually could be used for parking.

Inside the air-conditioned grandstand is a huge room, 300 feet long by 40 feet wide, which will be used for banquets, conventions, parties and as an exhibition hall. The grandstand also contains cocktail lounges and a restaurant.

Two-Ton Tony Still Brassy At Age Of 60

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — Two-ton Tony Galento, whose war cry in the '30s was "I'll moider da bum," has lost none of his modesty and still insists Joe Louis "was as good as me."

Passing this way on a speaking tour, the barrel-shaped New Jersey ex-boxer swore he could whip every heavyweight in sight right now—easy.

And this from a guy who will be 60 on March 10.

"I could take on Jerry Quarry and Jimmy Ellis the same night; knock 'em out in a couple rounds." Let it be said the record shows Galento once did take on three fighters in one night, knocking out two and outpointing the third in three rounds.

Galento once wrestled an octopus to the death in a Seattle aquarium, although unkind critics said the octopus died of fright. By that time he had quit fighting after 114 professional bouts as middleweight, light-heavy and heavyweight.

Never a scientist inside the ropes, the 5-9, 200-pound Galento depended upon pugacity and perseverance.

"Just tell 'em I was a clean fighter," he said in an interview with Hu Blunk of the Wenatchee World, adding something about "three baths a day" and asserting that just because he kept his thumbs up didn't mean he was trying to jab somebody in the eye.

"If they ran into 'em, how could I help it?" asked the logical Tony. "If they bumped their heads into mine it wasn't my fault."

"I even apologized."

Tony advises youth against drinking while admitting that beer was his own boon companion.

"I used to work out two or three hours every day for a fight and run six miles," he told Blunk. Then he would go across the street and drink, say, 10 bottles of beer. "You can't," he noted, "be an athlete and drink."

But Tony was quite an athlete and has scars to prove it; eyebrow gashes, a mark on a lip where a tooth (his) went through; a scar on the chin where he was hit by a beer bottle.

Some Athletes Find Lush Pickings As Entertainers

NEW YORK (AP) — After the trampoline act broke the ice, the spotlight picked up Bake Turner, a guitar twanger and western style singer from Alpine, Tex., who plays behind George Sauer as a wide receiver with the New York Jets.

The members of the New York State Motor Truck Association reacted warmly to Bake and gave Tony Conigliaro a big hand as he walked onstage before the ballroom audience at the Americana Hotel.

WOWS LISTENERS

The pop singer, who hopes to make a comeback with the Boston Red Sox this year, opened with "Secret Love" and wowed them with two more tunes.

Chita Rivera did her bit while Joe Peppone of the New York Yankees, Emerson Boozier of the New York Jets and Jerry Kosman of the New York Mets joined in the dance number.

Peppone, unable to resist the open mike, quickly combed his hair and belted out "A Lot of Living To Do."

Jim "Mudcat" Grant of the Montreal Expos closed out the show with the act known as Mudcat and His Kittens.

The whole production ran 75 minutes and the audience appeared satisfied with this new style of sports-show biz banquet, the latest trend in the burgeoning sports dinner business.

Keith Morris packaged the program and many others like it in his capacity as special events and public relations director for Sports Illustrated.

Morris got into this business in the 1950s when the magazine ran a series of sports clinics with stars from various sports. It has developed to the stage where some 2,000 bookings are made for sports figures at about 900 banquets, breakfasts, business conventions and kindred events.

If there is one person in the nation who knows where to reach any athlete or former athlete at a moment's notice it is Morris who gets the athletes fees ranking from a minimum of $100 to $1,000 for an appearance.

His firm makes a surcharge of 10 per cent up to $1,000 and five per cent over $1,000 on large scale packaged productions for overhead expenses.

"The sports star who also performs is the latest trend for banquets," said Morris. "You would be surprised how many there are. Jerry Quarry, the fighter, and his sister do a pop music act. Rosey Grier, as you know, sings. Joe Frazier, the heavyweight champ, sings soul music. So does Travis Williams of the Green Bay Packers."

"Maury Wills plays the guitar. Sugar Ray Robinson dances and sings. So does Timmy Brown. Denny McLain plays the organ. Mickey Lolich has a vocal quartet. It's a long list."

LOOKING 'EM OVER CCSW Better Says Blakeley

By TOMMY HART

Bill Blakeley, the Christian College basketball mentor, says his squad this year is probably better than he one he fielded last year and last year's Trojans won the Region V tournament here.

Blakeley doesn't have a Joe Hamilton on this year's Trojan team but he boasts better balance. . . . Four of CCSW's first six players are from New York and no starter hails from Texas, although Blakeley carries five Texans on the roster. . . . The Trojans still play their home games in the Mesquite High School gymnasium. . . . Pro golfer Bobby Nichols has a sister who is a nun and he goes to Mass each morning of his life. . . . Marty Servo, who died recently after an agonizing six-year bout with cancer, probably lost money during his short tenure as welterweight boxing champion of the world. . . . He had to guarantee money he didn't have to get a bout with titlist Red Cochrane, then had to fight Rocky Graziano to recoup the loss. . . . Most of his life, the courageous Marty just 'got by' financially. . . . Teen-Age Baseball Association prexy Ray Weir says his group will probably retire the last $500 debt hanging over its head this season. . . . Broncs Upend Cats, 51-49

ODESSA — A 90 second stall and a last minute layup enabled Odessa High to edge by Odessa Permian, 51-49, for the district 3-AA championship Friday night.

Permian's cold hand in the third quarter gave the edge to the Bronchos whose slowdown tactics bewildered a Permian squad accustomed to the run-and-shot attack employed by Odessa High in the first three quarters.

The Bronchos, ending their season at 21-2, earned a berth with Amarillo Tascosa for the bi-district playoff. Permian finished the season with a 26-6 mark.

Craig Heap paced Odessa High with 19 points while John Wilson dropped an additional 16. Randy Reynolds led the losers with 20 points.

ODESSA (51) — Wilson 8-13; Heap 9-19; Moore 2-24; Brown 3-13; Totals 51-49.

PERMIAN (49) — Garner 4-11; Reynolds 7-10; Enslind 3-7; Wright 5-10; Williams 9-22; Johnson 1-2; Totals 30-49.

ODESSA — Odessa College dominated the boards Friday night against New Mexico Military Institute, and ran a 84-66 score past their opponents.

The victory gives the Odessa Wranglers a 7-4 Western Junior College Conference mark and a 13-9 conference and 12-10 season record.

Kenneth Davis pumped in 14 tallies to lead the winners while Wayne Johnson and Billy Ford each hit 13-4 tallies. Craig Anderson paced the losing cause with 20 points while Larry Nickels dropped in 12.

ODESSA (84) — Sorrell 9-11; Campbell 6-11; Hunter 3-24; Johnson 6-12; Lettner 3-29; Allen 4-24; Thomas 5-10; Alvey 4-19; Ford 4-12; Davis 6-21; Mitchell 9-20; Totals 84-66.

NMMI (66) — Anderson 8-20; Nickle 5-12; Orledge 3-5; Oden 9-20; Martinez 4-8; Cloud 3-7; Thompson 2-5; Ziebler 9-11; Totals 24-66.

Amarillo Upsets Thunderbirds

HOBBS, N.M. — Amarillo Junior College boosted its Western Junior College Conference mark to 6-9 by handing a loss to New Mexico Junior College, 77-76, Friday night. New Mexico is now 7-6 in conference play.

Charles Hailey paced the NMJC Thunderbirds with 23 tallies and Andrew Pettes added 20.

Leading Amarillo was John Krill with 26 points.

NMJC (76) — Terry 4-19; Pettles 7-20; Smith 5-10; Taylor 3-24; Craft 2-0; Horrellon 1-2; Holley 9-27; Frisco 1-2; Drivers 1-4; Totals 31-76.

AMARILLO (77) — Krill 15-23; Dickerson 6-12; Childers 1-0; Ellis 4-11; Taylor 4-20; McCoy 6-11; Johnson 1-2; Totals 32-77.

Big Spring baseball coach Oaky Haggood says pitcher James Newman's damaged wrist appears to be healing nicely and he expects James to be a big winner this spring. . . . Quarterbacks Steve Spurrier, Gary Beban and Bobby Douglass were all coached at one time or another by Pepper Rodgers, now head mentor at Kansas. . . . Tom Meany, the late sports scribe, once described big leaguer Rudy York, as "part Indian and part first baseman," meaning he had great difficulty defending his first base position against balls hit his way.

STANTON GOLF COURSE PLAT DISPLAYED
O. B. Bryan, president of Martin County seat's new country club

Martin County's Links To Be Ready By 1970

By SAM BLACKBURN

STANTON — Work has begun on Martin County's new country club and family recreation center. By early 1970, the facility, featuring a nine-hole golf course, swimming pool, club house, miniature golf course and driving range will be ready for use.

O. B. Bryan, president of the board of directors, said the new project will cost $134,000. It is located at the south edge of Stanton, on 100 acres of land acquired from Mrs. J. R. Sale. There are two irrigation wells on the land which will be important in the development of the golf fairway and greens.

Official name of the project is Martin County Country Club. It is being financed by the Farmers Home Administration. Contract was awarded Feb. 5 to Isaac Johnson, Midland. Golf Course Construction Company of Lubbock will lay out and develop the golf course. When completed it will be par 35 with a total distance of 3,270 yards.

Bryan said that the swimming pool will probably be completed by early summer. The driving range will be ready about the same time. The club house, which will house locker rooms and showers and feature a small combination and golf shop will be constructed of concrete blocks. The ground was being leveled for the club house this week.

Daryle Hohertz, Big Spring, is the architect for the job. The organization has already signed 125 members and expects a total membership of 150. The membership fee is $100 per family. Monthly dues will be $15. Membership privileges of the member to all facilities of the club — club house, golf course, miniature golf course, swimming pool, practice range and any other features which may be added.

Bryan said that the town has never before had a country club and that the response to the project has been most encouraging.

It is possible, Bryan said, that the golf course might be put into limited use by late fall. Sodding must be completed as well as the design and construction of the fairways and greens. The club plans to plant at least 180 trees of different varieties to beautify the tract.

The 1000-square foot club-house will be about 100 yards south of the new teenage baseball field. A road will be paved from the highway to the club house.

Bermuda grass is to be used over all of the 100 acres and irrigation will be possible with the two wells on the land. Additional wells could possibly be provided. The small club house will be air conditioned and have central heating. Only members will be eligible to make use of the club, Bryan pointed out.

"We are putting in the miniature golf course as a recreational feature for the children of our members, but, of course, it will be available to all members," said Bryan.

Invitations Go To 59

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Fifty-nine golfers from the United States have been invited to compete in the Masters Golf Tournament April 10-13.

Nine of the Americans are amateurs, with the invitations going to 50 professionals. Masters officials announced Saturday night.

Six other pros who have the best showing on the pro tour for the past year will be invited later, along with one player — amateur or professional — picked by former Masters champions.

Defending champion Bob Goalby, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gay Brewer Jr., Art Wall Jr., and Sam Snead are among the 17 former titlists back for another try.

Among the well-known pros missing on the list was Charlie Sifford, veteran golfer who in the past has charged that he was never asked because he is a Negro. Masters officials have said he will be welcome as soon as he qualified.

Sifford did not meet any of the qualifying requirements for pros in 1968. Invitations can be won by finishing in the top 15 in the U.S. Open or the top eight in the PGA Tournament, winning the British Open, membership on the Ryder Cup Team or by finishing in the top 24 in the last Masters.

Sifford still could qualify with a strong run in the spring tour that would make him among the top six pros for the past year. He also could be invited by former Masters champions.

Sens, Williams Study In Game's Opposites

By The Associated Press

After taking on the United States government and the U.S. Marine Corps, the challenge of rebuilding the Washington Senators to baseball respectability should seem like a lark to Ted Williams.

But it would be difficult to imagine two greater opposites than the outspoken, forthright and tactless Williams and the nation's capital, a city of diplomacy and unspoken nuances.

New manager of the lowly Senators, Williams, 50, brings a passion for privacy to one of the most public towns in the world, a city that already has Richard Nixon and Vince Lombardi to keep the rumor mills stocked.

In a slugging career with the Boston Red Sox that spanned 22 years but was twice interrupted for almost five years of military hitches, Williams was described with almost every adjective in the dictionary.

He was called brash, cocky, aloof, antagonistic, stormy, fresh, surly, profane, indifferent, tempestuous, controversial. His detractors said he had faults by the bushel.

But to those who won his confidence and knew him intimately, he was shy, sensitive, loyal, thoroughly honest, generous, friendly, wonderfully cooperative. Phobias were foreign to him, they said.

His running feuds with the Boston baseball writers and fans, the famous spitting incidents, the frankness of his comments made for sensational headlines. But after his return in 1953 from Korea, where he flew 40 missions as a Marine pilot, he changed, although he refused to admit it.

His antagonism gave way to a live-and-let-live attitude and he accepted people for what they were, not what he would have liked them to be. But basically he was still "The Kid," the name by which close friends knew him, trying to cover up a kind inner nature with a tough exterior.

It was ironic that Williams should become a war hero. In 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt granted him a deferment to support his mother and fans boomed him everywhere. But later that year he was inducted into the Navy but transferred to the Marine air arm and served three years.

Recalled to active duty in 1952 and sent to Korea the following year, Williams had a brush with death when he crash-landed his smoking jet fighter after a raid on North Korea. The plane skidded 5,000 feet but Williams got out unhurt, minutes before the craft went up in flames.

In 1956, he leveled a blast at "gutless" draft boards and "phony" politicians while rapping the pending Army induction of Dodger pitcher Johnny Podres.

And a year later, he cut loose at Sen. Robert A. Taft, the Marines and President Harry S. Truman.

"You think Sen. Taft was a great man?" Williams was quoted by a New Orleans newspaper. "Well, here's what I think of him." The paper said Williams then spat on the floor and continued.

Union And Grady Tangle Tuesday

GRADY — Grady Junior High will play catch-up in a district basketball championship series with Union Junior High in a game here Tuesday evening.

The job won't be easy. In two years now, the Union team has won all but two of its starts. Union won the previous meeting this season between the two quintets, 48-35.

Grady is the South zone champion while Union rules the North.

SOME KEPT IN BLACK Majors Boosted With New Loot

By The Associated Press

Expansion money from the four new major league clubs has become an important source of income for the 20 established clubs.

The Atlanta Braves recently announced an increase in stock dividend from $2 a share to $7.50 a share as a result of the income from the expansion teams.

Baltimore, another publicly held club, said the extra money made the difference between a loss and a profit for 1968.

Most clubs are privately owned and do not make public any financial statements.

According to the National League expansion plan, each of the two new clubs—Montreal and San Diego—must pay a total of $10 million to be divided among the 10 established teams. The $10 million is to be paid in five installments, $1 million last Aug. 15, $6 million Jan. 2, 1969, and $1 million each on Jan. 2, 1970, Jan. 2, 1971, and Jan. 2, 1972. Each of the established clubs, however, gave up six players. In the American League each club gave up six players at $175,000 each for a total of $1,050,000.

Each of the two new clubs—Kansas City and Seattle—bought 30 players from the expansion pool for $5,250,000.

The results of a survey of the established clubs:

National League

Atlanta—Increased dividend from $2 to $7.50. The club has 308,712 shares for dividend of $2,315,340. The 1968 profit from regular sources was $4,913.

Chicago—Bill Heymans, secretary-treasurer of Cubs, says expansion payment for 1968 was only $200,000 with $1.2 million due in 1969.

"We can't say what the disposition will be concerning the earmarking of this income," said Heymans. The Cubs did not declare any dividend at the 1968 stockholders meeting Jan. 30.

Phil Wrigley owns 7,900 of 10,000 Cub shares. At the stockholders meeting the Cubs said they were treating expansion money as an "extraordinary item" without saying where it was earmarked. It was not listed in the club's 1968 total income of $4,049,138 which after "direct expenses" left an announced profit of $247,354.

A young spectator rises to her feet and raises her hands to her face, as if disbelieving what she sees, as HCJ's Robert Jackson goes high to sink a field goal in Friday night's Western Conference thriller with South Plains College here. Jackson wound up with 34 points as the Hawks posted a 115-73 victory to remain atop the standings. No. 35 is Jim McCreary of the Texans. The official is Don Bridges.

Hawks Gun Down South Plains Five

By TOMMY HART

Howard County's Jayhawks turned method actors here Friday night and deserved an Oscar for their performance against a dead-game but outclassed South Plains team.

The Hawks won, 115-73 before a packed house of enthralled onlookers. The plot was murder but there was no mystery from the start as to the identity of the assassin or the victim. HCJ simply shot the Texans out of the gymnasium to move ever closer to the Western Conference crown.

Buddy Travis' team can win their third straight championship here Tuesday night by gunning down their closest pursuers, the Clarendon Bulldogs.

Robert Jackson led the HC plotters, scoring 34 points. In the past three games, the Big Spring native has rung the bell for an even 100 points. The locals had four other players in double figures. Mickey Wilson, on the beam again with his outside shooting, made a major contribution with a 21-point effort.

Jackson and Jerry Phillips were the leading rebounders for the locals, pulling down 15 each. Glen Fletcher went up for 10 cars.

The Hawks hit 23 of 52 shots from the floor the first half for 44 per cent and warmed to 63 per cent after the intermission, connecting 29 times in 46 efforts.

South Plains had hit in triple figures 13 times this year coming into the game but it became obvious only the Hawks would attain that plateau as the bout wore on. The contest marked the eighth time this year the Hawks have zoomed past the 100-mark.

Jackson made sure of that when he connected from the side with 5:14 to go in the game. The Hawks counted 49 points the first half and then got 66 after the rest period.

South Plains' two top hands were bespectacled Tim McClelland, who accounted for 20 points, and Obie Garrett, who had 19.

Howard County's record mounted to 24-3 on the year and 13-1 in league competition. South Plains is 18-12 over-all and 6-7 against conference opponents.

HC's defensive play was perhaps as good as it has been all season — South Plains had a scoring average of 97.1 points a game. The Hawks' sharp passing bedazzled the visitors and more than anything set the stage for the 42-point rout.

South Plains assigned two men to haunt the footsteps of the Hawks' little playmaker, George Tilley, but George kept his cool and worked the ball as if he were all alone in a capsule.

Adding great impetus to the locals' well-oiled machine, too, were James and Phillips, who tought the boards and delivered the ball to their teammates with uncanny timing.

HCJ (HS) Robert Jackson 34, Mickey Wilson 21, Summy James 15, George Tilley 15, Glen Fletcher 10, Jerry Phillips 10, Bruce Belcher 10, John Billson 10, Monte Pilon 10, Pat York 10.

S. Plains (73) Eddie Powell 10, Tom Wells 10, David Clyde 10, High McClelland 10, Oberzonja Gorrell 10, Ronnie Kemora 10, Lee Monroe 10, Dick Dyer 10, Tim Lane 10, Danny Sledor 10, Totals 73.

Half-time score — HCJ 49 South Plains 34. Officials — Curly Hove and Don Bridges.

Coahoma Bullpups Win 20th In Row

High ended a perfect basketball season by defeating Union-Terry, 47-34, in bi-district play here Thursday night. Over the season, Willie Lundy's team won 20 straight games against eighth grade competition.

Roland Beal led the Bullpups with 18 points. The Pup's closest call was against Big Spring Goliath, a team it subdued, 45-42.

COAHOAMA (47) — Roland Beal (18), Freddy Franklin (8), Troy Korb (8), Steve Stone (8), Lynn Asbury (4), Joe Moran (3). UNION (34) — Etheridge (18), Franklin (7), Lambert (2), Ross (2), Hoop (1), Joe Coahoma (1). Union 7 18 34.

Fastest Race Is Expected At Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The 190-mile-per-hour barrier has been breached and if the drivers can safely control their machines in this dizzy new dimension of stock car speed, Sunday's Daytona 500 could be the fastest race ever run.

Ford driver David Pearson, 34-year-old champion of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing, broke the barrier twice—topping the lap record at 190.274 m.p.h. in one of two 125-mile races Thursday that completed the lineup for the 500.

Pearson's great ride proved that the Fords, although denied use of their new blue diesel engines and limited to one four-barrel carburetor, still yield nothing to the powerful fleet of all-new Chargers.

MARK STILL STANDS Richard Petty's record of 154.334 m.p.h. for the TPP, set in 1964, still stands despite new aerodynamic designs which brought a startling increase in the speed of the cars the last two years. Cale Yarborough came close to breaking 90 in the 1968 time trials.

But the drivers were not yet ready for the speeds that subjected them to pressures twice the force of gravity going into the turns, increased the danger of drafting, and set up problems of wind turbulence on the track.

In the 1968 race, a rash of accidents kept yellow caution flags flying for a total of 60 laps and Yarborough settled for an average winning pace of 143.351 m.p.h.

Again Thursday, mishaps slowed the pace in the 125-mile qualifying races as Pearson won the first event at 152.181 and Bobby Isaac the second at 151.668.

For his first day qualifying speed of 188.726, Buddy Baker will be on the pole in a Dodge. Isaac goes No. 2, Pearson No. 3, and Charlie Gutzbach No. 4.

With a total purse of $206,000, including $35,000 plus lap money to the winner, the 500 is the richest stock car race. Starting at 12:30 p.m. EST, it is expected to draw 100,000 fans for the first time.

Pearson and Isaac agreed that the average pace in the 500 will be 186 to 187 miles an hour for about 100 miles, then ease off to 183 or 184. But accidents could bring a sudden drop in speeds.

Locals Lose To Plains

Big Spring High School's girls' volleyball team returned home early Saturday from the Denver City volleyball tournament after losing two out of three games to the Plains Cowgirls.

Plains won the first game, 15-8, and the third game, 15-8. Big Spring captured the second contest, 15-9. High scorer for the local squad was Patti Spier with 10 points.

The local team opened the tourney by defeating the Wink Wildcats 15-11 and 15-8. High scorer for that game was split between three girls, Gwynn Bonner, Katherine Dirks and Jan Earhart, each with 8.

Big Spring's feds entered the tournament with a 7-1 record. A total of 16 teams took part in the meet.

Forsan Buffs, Miles Clash Here Monday

ROSCOE — Forsan left no doubt about its superiority in District 11-B by defeating Bronte, 61-41, in a championship playoff game here Friday night.

Don Stevens' Buffaloes will play Miles, the 12-B king, in the Howard County JC Gym in Big Spring in bi-district competition at 7:30 p.m. Monday. A win there would qualify the Buffaloes for the regional meet at Levelland next weekend.

Prices for Monday's game have been pegged at $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. No decision was immediately made on the officials who will work the contest.

Miles had sought to use the San Angelo Lake View gym as its "home" court but Stevens won the coin toss and chose Big Spring.

Forsan is now 19-6 on the year while Miles is 20-6. Forsan's only losses in Class B competition have been to Bronte (1 point) and Sands (6 points).

Miles will likely start a lineup consisting of Morris Elliott, Bob Lacy, Jim Gault, Dennis Halfmann and Walter Holk against Forsan. The team is coached by Karl Schoenfeld.

Forsan jumped out in front early and led all the way against Bronte. Terry Wooten not only scored 16 points for the Buffs but did an excellent job containing one of Bronte's leading threats, Jim Zuniga.

Clayton McKinnon paced the Buffaloes offensive with 20 points. Bronte's leading scorer was McCutchen, who settled for 16 points.

Forsan's well-drilled defensive unit limited the Longhorns to 12 baskets.

FORSAN (61) — Wooten 48-16; McKinnon 8-20; Myers 4-8; Totals 61-41. BRONTE (41) — Barber 23-7; Zuniga 13-5; Cameron 9-24; McCutchen 6-4; Culo 1-3-4; Dawson 5-5-5. Totals 41-61.

McLennan Bids For Meet Berth

WEATHERFORD — McLennan Community College of Waco improved its chances for an invitation to the Region V Basketball tournament at Big Spring by defeating Ranger College, 68-67, in a playoff for the Zone title in the Texas Junior College Conference here Thursday night.

Both teams are eligible to play in the four-team TJCC tournament. McLennan will meet Wharton of the South Zone in first half play while Ranger must oppose powerful San Jacinto College.

The McLennan team has won two of three starts from Ranger this season, has beaten Clarendon of the Western Conference and has split a series with powerful Hill County.

The win over Ranger was the 20th in 30 starts for McLennan this season.

Yearlings Shade Lamesans Twice

LAMESA — Rannels Junior High School of Big Spring swept two girls volleyball games from Lamesa here Thursday evening.

The B teamers prevailed, 15-12, 15-8, after which the A contingent prevailed, 15-8, 15-10.

Ethel Minter, with 11 points, and Janice Platt, with eight, were standouts for the Rannels B team. A team leaders were Beverly Doering, with 13 points, and Lupe Mendoza, with eight.

The games opened the season for both Rannels teams and marked the first time that a Rannels team has been able to beat Lamesa on its home floor since Jane Upton became coach.

The Yearlings return to play Monday at home against Snyder Lamar.

Raiders To Start Drills April 8

LUBBOCK (AP) — Spring football practice at Texas Tech will begin April 8.

The Red Raiders will have 36 calendar days to get in 20 practice sessions.

Coach J.T. King's Red Raiders enter the 1969 season with a toughie, playing Kansas in Jones Stadium Sept. 20.

Austin Motorcycle Event Launches Busy Campaign

SAN ANGELO — The Southwestern Motorcycle Racing Association will enter its second season of circuit racing when the ninth annual International Championship Motorcycle Road Race Classic is unveiled at Austin Dragway Park, Sunday, March 2, starting at 2 p.m.

The all-new 1.5 mile super traction asphalt course is located 10 miles north of Austin on Interstate 35 north and FM 1325. The eight-turn ribbon has three left and five right turns running to the right.

Number Three turn is a 160-degree "Monza" wall, or banked-type turn, that empties into a series of esses which approach a three-quarter mile straightaway. A 6,000 seat grandstand make the entire course visible.

The event will be the first of six 1969 road races scheduled in Texas, and will feature many of the great names of motorcycle racing. Over 300 entries from an 11-state area and south of the border are expected.

From Mexico City comes the road racing team, "Motos Mexicanas", with the finest riders in Mexico.

These six top-caliber American Motorcycle Association-sanctioned races will be held at three first-class plants over the state: Austin Dragway Park, Odessa Raceway Park, and Green Valley Raceway (Dallas-Fort Worth). After the season opener March 2 in Austin the circuit moves to Odessa April 20, Green Valley May 18 and July 27, Austin Aug. 3, and closes at Green Valley Sept. 7.

The Aug. 3 race in Austin will be held in conjunction with the Austin Aquatic Festival along with boat and sports car races. The triple header will be televised nationally by ABC Wide World of Sports.

Three classes of competition will be open for sportsman, novice, and amateur riders. There will be drag classes for both stock and modified bikes, stock production classes for sportsman or new riders, and the regular road racing classes for all comers. Special events include the grand finals in 10 to 200cc, 201 to 350cc, and 351 to open classes.

Drag races, featuring a wheelstanding contest, will start at 12:30 with the stock production classes beginning at 2 p.m. Points and trophies will be awarded to the first, second, third, and fourth place winners in each class.

Three Texas lads led the SMRA point standings through the last race of 1968, winning their respective classes. Stock production was won by Bennie Campbell, San Antonio, on a Suzuki, Mike Gene of Sherman took the 250cc class on a Yamaha, and Dallasite Rusty Bradley claimed the open class honors with a Triumph motorcycle.

Locals Sweep Three Firsts

ANDREWS — Big Spring entries swept first places in three of four swimming events in a dual meet between Andrews and the Steerettes here Friday.

Carrie Bizzell of Big Spring captured both the 50-yard butterfly and 50-yard backstroke events while Cindy Hickson of the Steers was first in the 50-yard free style.

Coach Mike Harris of Big Spring is seeking practice meets for both his boys' and girls' teams prior to the District 3-AAAA, which will be held in the Odessa Permian pool March 7-8. Only boys will compete in that event.

Harris plans to take 16 boys to Odessa.

Big Spring places were won Friday by: 50-yard free style — 1. Cindy Hickson, 35.0; 2. Laura Campbell, 4. Sherry Dickson. 50-yard butterfly — 1. Carrie Bizzell, 36.9. 50-yard backstroke — 1. Carrie Bizzell, 37.9. 50-yard breaststroke — 1. Laura Campbell.

HSU Netters Set Exhibition Here

Representatives of the Hardin-Simmons University team, headed by senior Terry Treadwell of Eastland, will conduct a tennis clinic and stage an exhibition match here March 6.

The H-SU team is coached by Phil H. Tinsworth, associate professor in physical education. The public is invited to attend the clinic.

Additional details can be obtained by contacting the individual school, Treadwell said. The clinic will begin at 4:15 p.m.

NEW SEIBERLING SUPREME SEALED-AIRE ASSURES POSITIVE PUNCTURE PROTECTION

Sealed-Aire Bulkhead Construction Makes the Difference

Sealed-Aire Bulkheads keep sealant in position, assure protection and balance.

How Puncture Sealing Works: Sealant clings to nail. Keeps air in, plugs hole when object is removed.

In ordinary puncture-sealing tires, sealant flows, loses puncture protection, balance and safety.

Miss HCJC Beauty Pageant

Howard County Junior College has scheduled its third annual "Miss HCJC Pageant" at 7:30 p.m., March 1, in the Municipal Auditorium. Sixteen pretty co-eds will compete in the pageant, which is being held under the sponsorship of the Press Club.

The contestants, who will have individual interviews with judges prior to the public event, will appear in both current fashions and swim suits. Moderator for the fashion show will be Mrs. Joanna Cofer, with Mrs. H. M. Jarratt serving as pianist. Talent competition will be a separate part of the program.

Judges will be staff members of the Texas Tech student newspaper, the University Daily, with Jean Fannin of Big Spring as coordinator. Judging will be based on beauty, talent, poise and charm.

The public is invited to attend the pageant. Tickets will be available at the door at a charge of $1.25 for adults and 35 cents for students.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER R. DOUGLASS

W. R. Douglasses To Be Honored Today

Long-time residents of Big Spring, Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Douglass, will be honored on their 50th wedding anniversary today when their daughters host a reception in the Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church. Friends are invited to call between the hours of 3 and 5 p.m.

Born in south Mississippi in 1919, Mr. Douglass was the seventh child in a family of six boys and two girls. Following a courtship of 11 years, which was interrupted by World War I, and just six days after his discharge, he was married on Feb. 23, 1919, to Cornelia Gambrell Antley, eldest of seven children of Fannie and George Brewton Antley of Forest, Miss. The Douglasses made their first home in Dermott, Ark., after a honeymoon in Vicksburg, Miss., and Shreveport, La. In 1924 they moved to Colorado City where they operated the leading hotel for two years, after which Mr. Douglass was associated for six years with his brother, J. C. Douglass, in the hotel business here in Big Spring. He was later engaged in the oil business, for six years with Cities Service and 20 years with Cosden as an independent jobber. He retired in 1957.

Midland Museum Toured By Club

STANTON (SC) — The Lakeview Home Demonstration Club met Thursday morning to tour the Museum of the Southwest in Midland. They viewed the exhibit "Art of an Eskimo Community." Mrs. W. J. Harlow presided at a short business session following lunch, and final plans were made for delivery of cookies to the Big Spring State Hospital the last week of February.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglass have

Winners Listed For La Gallina

Mrs. Paul Shaffer and Mrs. Jim Bill Little placed first at the La Gallina duplicate bridge games held Friday at Big Spring Country Club. Other winners were Mrs. M. A. Cook and Mrs. Hugo Campbell, second; and Mrs. Landon Burchell and Mrs. J. M. Ringner, third. The group meets each first and third Friday at 10:30 a.m. at the club.

Betrothed

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Palmer, 1416 Stadium, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Lee, to Douglas Austin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Austin of Sanford, Fla. The ceremony will be April 5 at Phillips Memorial Baptist Church with the Rev. Dan Sanford officiating.

Probes Weakness Of Electoral College

Winston Wrinkle, guest speaker at Thursday's meeting of the 1905 Hyperion Club, chose the topic, "The National Government — Where do the Signs Point?" in following the club's theme for the year, the philosophy of change. It was the club's annual Americanism program, and Wrinkle discussed the electoral college.

The speaker explained what he considered weaknesses of electoral college and suggested ways in which these things could be corrected. He noted that as it now stands, the candidate does not get the majority of votes, and neither is the one elected constitutionally bound to do the will of the people. He explained the possibility of abolishing the system, and substituting a popular vote or direct election. Wrinkle concluded his talk by saying that voters should be concerned about what is "really best for the country" and not be biased in political convictions.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Sam Anderson, 900 W. 17th, where Mrs. Hayes Stripling Sr. presided for the election of new officers. Those elected were Mrs. Horace Reagan, president; Mrs. Rogers Hefley, vice president; Mrs. J. D. Elliott, secretary; Mrs. Anderson, treasurer; Mrs. J. Gordon Bristow, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. C. Pickle, parliamentarian; and Mrs. W. T. Baker, Hyperion Council representative.

Mrs. Stripling is serving as general chairman for the March 28-29 convention here for the Western District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. She announced that the headquarters will be the Holiday Inn, and some events will be held at the senior high school. Among the federation dignitaries planning to attend are the state president, Mrs. Harry F. Shaper Sr. of San Antonio; the district president, Mrs. Richard Dublin; and two former state presidents, Mrs. J. Howard Hodge of Midland and Mrs. L. E. Dudley of Abilene.

A committee was appointed to investigate the possibility of obtaining the T&P Depot for a museum. Those named were Mrs. Clyde Angel, Mrs. K. H. McGibbon and Mrs. W. A. Hunt.

There will be no meeting in March due to the convention.

Britishers Announce Event Dates

Dates for coming events were announced during a Thursday evening meeting of the British Wives Club in the home of Mrs. Fred Ponte, 258-B March Circle. Mrs. Roger Moser presided.

A guest night was slated for 7 p.m., March 27, in the John H. Lees Service Club where a wig show will be the highlight of the program. An informal coffee will be held at 10 a.m., March 13, in the home of Mrs. Edmundo Santelana, 2404 Alabama. The new time at the base facility was announced for 9 a.m., Tuesday.

The refreshment table was laid with a white cloth and centered with a green and white floral arrangement. Crystal and silver appointments completed the setting.

There will be no March business meeting.

Jean Ann Johnson Married In Formal Church Ceremony

Miss Jean Ann (Jeanie) Johnson became the bride of Airman L.C. Richard Lee Knocke in a candlelight ceremony performed by the Rev. John Beard Saturday evening in the First Christian Church.

The double ring vows were exchanged in the sanctuary where the bridal aisle was marked with white candles tied with satin bows. At the altar, a sunburst arrangement of white gladioli and chrysanthemums were flanked by palms and illuminated by votive candles in a tree candelabrum. Mrs. Gayle Bonner, organist, accompanied Mrs. Harold Talbot who sang "Because," "The Twelfth of Never," and as the couple knelt, "The Lord's Prayer."

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James Loel Johnson Jr., 706 Birdwell, and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Knocke Jr., 2310 Roemer.

The bride chose a formal gown of ivory delustered satin and re-embroidered lace. The high rise waistline was marked by a bias band to join the A-line skirt to a lace bodice featuring an oval neckline and petal point sleeves. Tiny fabric buttons closed the gown at the back and were repeated on the train which flowed beneath a large satin bow. Vertical bands of scalloped lace extended the length of the train. Her bouffant veil of illusion was attached to a satin faille bow cluster enhanced with seed pearls and crystals, and she carried a bouquet of gardenias showered with satin streamers.

Mrs. Robert Russell McEwen was matron of honor, and the bride's sister, Miss Kathy Johnson, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Ann Heith, Miss Debbie Douglass, Miss Sherry Stroup and Mrs. Joe Robert Spencer, the latter of San Antonio. The attendants wore floor-length gowns of American Beauty red peau de soie trimmed with white Venise lace at the sleeves, back and Mandarin collar. Their headpieces were of matching fabric rosebuds and illusion net. Each carried a cascade of peppermint carnations tied with white satin. The flower girl, Jerilyn Ross was attired identically to the other attendants.

The bridesmaid's father served as best man, and groomsmen were Barry Knocke, the bridegroom's brother; Jimmy Johnson, brother of the bride; Glen Hunter, Colorado City; Larry Knocke, Portland; and Dennis Knoo, Austin. Ushers were Mike Irons, Ray Tollett, Bill Morton and Kal Oppgaard. The ring bearer was Kevin Lewis.

SCHOOLS

The bride graduated from Big Spring Senior High School where she was school annual editor, active on the student council and a member of the Future Teachers of America. She was a member of the Hi Y Council and a Tri Hi Y leader at the YMCA. She has been attending Howard County Junior College. The bridegroom graduated from BSNS and attended HJC and Angelo State College. He was employed by Shell Pipeline before entering the Air Force in August, 1968. The couple will take a wedding trip through the southern states and visit New Orleans.

RECEPTION

The wedding reception was held at Big Spring Country Club where guests were registered by Mrs. Randy Dewees and Mrs. Larry Ray Broughton. Organ music was by Mrs. Bonner, and house party members were Miss Dana Baker, Mrs. Donnie

Baker, Mrs. Gary Phillips, Mrs. Mike Schaffer, Miss Beth Graumann, Miss Susan Weaver of Austin, Miss Sally Hansen of Odessa, Mrs. Larry Knocke of Portland, Texas, Mrs. Debbie McGuire, Colorado City; Miss Jane Ryan, Miss Lana Parks, Mrs. Rocky Greenwood, Miss Susan Johnson, Lubbock; Miss Judy Fletcher, Miss Jenny Bean, Mrs. Kenny Hamby, Miss Martha Jordan and Miss Kay Slate of Houston. Rice bags were distributed by Miss Karol Weaver of Austin and Miss Laura Lee Hansen of Odessa. The bride's table was laid with a white cloth, and centered with a branched candelabrum arranged with red and white flowers. The tiered cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple and crystal and silver appointments completed the setting. The bridegroom's table was laid with a green burlap cloth. A brass coffee service was used, and chocolate cake was served.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. W. E. Archer, grandmother of the bride; and Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Weaver, all of Austin; Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Dalmont, Dalhart; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hansen, Odessa; Mrs. Frank Eldredge and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Prior, all of Fort Worth; Mrs. Lynn Garlington, Bowie; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hunter, grandparents of the bridegroom; and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Knocke Sr., grandparents of the bridegroom; and Mrs. Bill Dittfurth, all of Beeville; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Johnson, Lubbock; and Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Davis, Waco.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Approximately 50 people attended the rehearsal dinner which was held in the Holiday Inn and hosted by the bridegroom's parents. The bridegroom presented gifts to his attendants.

Mrs. Sue Nishikawa To Speak At Church

Mrs. Sue Saito Nishikawa, a native of Hawaii who is of Japanese Buddhist background, will be presented at the First Baptist Church Feb. 28 at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend both meetings.

Mrs. Nishikawa, who authored the Southern Baptist 1969 Home Mission book, "In Aloha Land," will review the book at the morning session. Her evening talk will be aimed especially toward young people.

The guest speaker was with the first small Sunday school group that became the foundation for later Southern Baptist work in the Hawaiian Islands.

After completing her education in mainland Baptist colleges and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Mrs. Nishikawa (then Sue Saito) returned to her native home to serve as educational director in Olivet Church in Honolulu. Since 1954 she has been a Woman's Missionary Union executive secretary of Hawaii. As one of the three associate directors in the Hawaii Baptist Convention, she also has the responsibility for promoting the convention's music ministry. According to church spokesmen, "Her radiant personality is the essence of the aloha spirit, not only in the Hawaiian sense, but more importantly, in the Christian sense."

A covered dish luncheon will be held at noon, and those attending are asked to bring a dish.

Wardrobe Plan Called Essential

"The amount of money spent on clothes is not as important as how a wardrobe is put together," said Mrs. Delaine Crawford when she was guest speaker for Thursday's meeting of the Elbow Home Demonstration Club. She noted that it is just as important to dress well at home for one's family as it is to make a special effort for strangers.

Mrs. L. Z. Rhodes was hostess, and roll call was answered with descriptions of people the members admired.

A George Washington cake was served from a polished table and napkins carried out the birthday theme. The next meeting will be March 6 in the home of Mrs. R. W. Dolan.

Musicians Competition Announced

The entry deadline for the annual high school piano concerto contest, being sponsored by the East Texas Symphony Association, is Feb. 26. The contest will be held March 1 in Wise Auditorium at Tyler, and is open to students registered in junior and senior high schools of Texas.

Contestants will be rated by a panel of three judges. First place winner will receive a cash award of $100 from the Tyler Women's Symphony League and will appear as guest soloist with the East Texas Symphony at its concert, May 15. Second and third place winners will receive cash awards of $50 and $25 respectively. The entry fee is $5.

Selections for the 1969 contest include Bach-Concerto No. Five in F Minor (complete work); Haydn-Concerto in D Major (complete work); and Frank-Symphonic Variations (complete). Also, the first or last movements of the following concertos: Beethoven-Concerto No. One in C Major, Op. 15; Beethoven-Concerto No. Four in G Major, Op. 58; Chopin-Concerto No. One in E Minor, Op. 11; Liszt-Concerto No. One in E Major; MacDowell-Concerto No. Two in D Minor, Op. 23; Mendelssohn-Concerto No. One in G Minor, Op. 25; Mozart-Concerto in A Major, K. 488; Mozart-Concerto in D Minor, K. 466; Saint-Saens-Concerto No. Two in G Minor, Op. 22; Saint-Saens-Concerto No. Four in C Minor, Op. 44; Schumann-Concerto in A Minor, Op. 54; and Tchaikovsky-Concerto No. One in B flat Minor, Op. 23.

Requests for entry blanks or further information should be addressed to P. C. Martines, Business Manager, East Texas Symphony, P.O. Box 3323, Tyler, Texas, 75701.

Sewing With Plaid Requires Planning

Selecting a sewing pattern for plaid requires care. Select one with simple lines and a minimum of seams because you want the emphasis on the plaid. Check the pattern envelope to see if extra allowance is needed for matching. This extra material will have to be figured before you buy and, generally, one half yard is sufficient for an even, average sized plaid. If the plaid you buy is large and uneven you may need a full yard.

MRS. ATHOL JESSE ATKINS

Wedding Solemnized In Methodist Church

The wedding of Miss Agnes Schroeder and Athol Jesse Atkins was solemnized Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the First Methodist Church with the Rev. Leo K. Gee as officiating minister.

The prelude of nuptial music was presented by George DeHeart of Midland, organist, and the altar was adorned with fern trees flanking a sunburst of white chrysanthemums, gladioli and pompons. During prayer, the couple knelt on a white prie-dieu.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Johann N. Schroeder of Berlin, Germany, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. T. B. Atkins.

1720 Yale, and the late Mr. Atkins.

The bride, given in marriage by Floyd J. Childs of Abilene, was attired in a wedding dress fashioned of candlelight lace and peau de soie. The gown was designed with an Empire bodice, featuring a portrait neckline edged in scalloped, and brief lace sleeves. The satin skirt flowed in an A-line, sweeping to the back to form a chapel-length train. Her veil of silk illusion billowed from a crown of matching lace sprinkled with pearls. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white roses and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Walter Lee Magness of Dallas, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and was attired in a slender silhouette dress of apricot satin. The bridesmaid, Miss Tonya Childs of Austin, was attired in a similar dress of Nile green. Both carried clusters of Tropicana Sweetheart roses tied with moss green velvet.

Jerry Delatour of Lubbock, formerly of Big Spring, served as best man, and ushers were Robert Hinkley and Carl Steckleberg, both of Midland; Lanny Baize was groomsmen. The flower girl, Lucy Magness of Dallas, wore a dress similar to those of the other feminine attendants. Lee Magness of Dallas was the ring bearer.

RECEPTION following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception in the fellowship hall where guests were registered by Miss Dixie Lewis of Midland.

Members of the house party were Mrs. Benny Cason and Miss Gloria Bradford, both of Midland; Mrs. Horace Reagan, Mrs. Boone Horne, Mrs. G. G. Morehead, Mrs. George O'Brien, Mrs. Dick Lane and Mrs. Jasper Atkins. Receiving guests with the couple were his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Childs and the feminine attendants.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth and accented with a white footed container holding a massive arrangement of white spider mums and Tropicana roses. Appointments were crystal and silver, and the tiered cake was topped with a nosegay of white roses.

Guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. K. Brown, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Lew D'Elia, Mrs. Karin Eady and Mrs. Jerry Delatour, all of Lubbock; Clarence Brady, Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. John Richards and Mrs. Robert Hinkley, all of Midland; Kent Atkins, Amarillo; and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Childs and family and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stallings and family, all of Fort Worth.

Following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple will be at home at 2506½ Harvard, Midland.

The bride attended McMurry College where she was a member of Theta Chi Lambda social club and graduated from Texas Tech with a BA in French. She is a teacher in the Midland Independent Schools. Atkins, owner of Westex Printing Company in Big Spring, attended Howard County Junior College and Eastern New Mexico University. He earned a bachelor's degree at Baylor University and received his master's degree at North Texas State University.

Blouse Comeback Is Fashion Right

The blouse is back. Of course it never really went anywhere, but the popularity of shift dresses in recent years tended to take the spotlight off the blouse and skirt twosome.

This fall's fashion headlines focus on the "Great Blouse Comeback." There's a different blouse style for every taste, but most reflect the current soft and feminine approach to fashion.

Cotton blouses are apt to be ruffled, tucked, or lace-trimmed, and many have the look of the old-fashioned Victorian "waist," with neckband collars and ruffled fronts.

Other popular blouse looks reflect the "pretty peasant" trend in separates. Suspender jumpers and dirndl skirts are worn with cotton blouses trimmed with Tyrolean embroidery.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

My grandmother used to tell all of us girls that beauty must be pinched, pulled or burned. Little did we realize what she meant. It took the days of girdles and sharp pointed shoes to bring the first realization.

The second came earlier when we had to sit while our mother combed the tangles out of our wind-blown hair and curled it over her finger with the aid of a 'set' made of flaxseed soaked in water or, in an emergency, sugar water.

Then later there was the agony of making curls where we wanted them to be instead of the natural kind. These we accomplished with the old-style curling irons heated by holding them over a flame. In time we were sophisticated enough to have the electric kind. This little appliance made hideous curls and kinks, but it saved us from straight hair or hair that curled where we didn't want it curled . . . and frequently we were burned.

Later there was the marvelous permanent waving machine that practically put the "marcel" in the back row. The only things one needed to get a permanent were money, perseverance and a tremendous amount of courage. Oh yes, they had to have a lot of time. I never had a machine permanent, but I had one friend who suffered through them periodically. She really suffered, too. For hours I would either sit with her or run errands . . . bringing cold drinks or some other sustenance. It was always pitch dark when the operator finally had her ready for the outside world again. I always thought this torture was terribly glamorous but was secretly glad I didn't have to go through the same routine.

Well, the beauty business is a good one and I don't know what some of us would do without our good, reliable operators.

I never tire of watching their graceful, slender hands work with hair and make it so pretty and well-groomed. Even on wigs and wiglets, they tease the hair until it looks like it has been whipped with an egg beater and then with a little combing, a little coaxing and a few little twists here and there, the hairpiece turns out to be beautifully dressed. The owner has only to sit for a few minutes and have it combed into her hair and she's ready to go.

Alas, almost all good things must be paid for and herein lies the rub. The operators have decided to raise their prices. And now we add another to the price of beauty . . . and it's the price that pricketh.

Credit Club Sees Film On Courtesy

A film, "Telephone Courtesy Pays Off," was shown by Mrs. R. W. Baker at a luncheon meeting held Thursday by Big Spring Credit Women, International. The group met at Hotel Settles with Mrs. George Weeks presiding.

The film showed the right and wrong way to handle business calls, stressing that phones should be answered promptly, those talking should identify themselves and transferring calls should be handled speedily. Pad and pencil should be kept near the phone, and a list handy for telephone numbers that are called frequently. The film ended with a parody on the golden rule, "Telephone people as you would be telephoned to."

WHAT IS THE CAUSE OF BOILS?

Many people think that boils are caused by over-rich blood, or possibly a virus from a cold. Boils usually are a local infection started by the bacteria found on the skin. The staphylococcus or "staph" germ is considered the culprit.

The germs work their way into or through the skin. They form a colony and multiply rapidly. The bloodstream rushes white corpuscles to the spot to kill the invading germs. A boil must be kept covered, for if these germs leak out, more boils may form on your skin or the skin of someone who touches you. A physician usually can relieve a boil by prescribing an antibiotic treatment.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a prescription. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

What can you lift?

God has a way of teaching spiritual truths through physical facts.

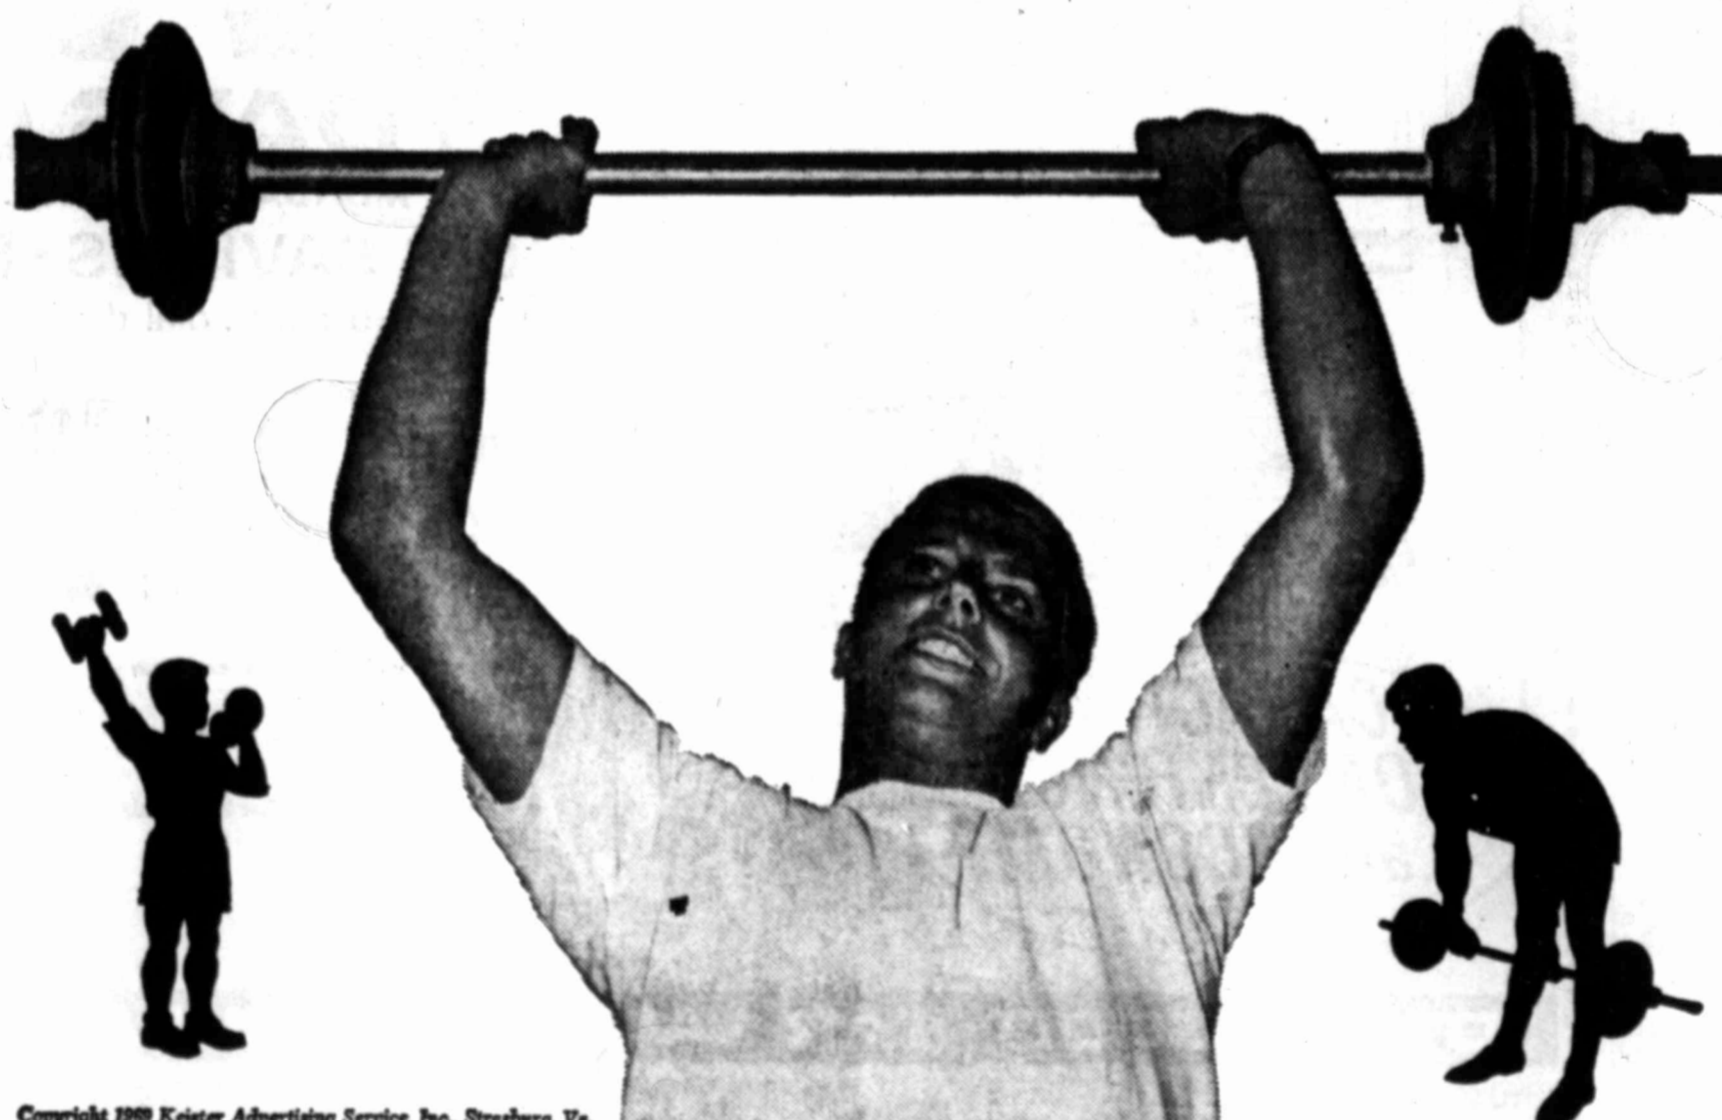

Tom used to have trouble lifting his mother's shopping bag—not any more!

That smile on his face isn't triumph—it's confidence. Given a few weeks, Tom will be lifting even heavier weights.

The first time you try to lift someone's burden, it's an awkward effort. Until you discover that physical development and spiritual growth work the same way.

Only practice makes one a friend, a helper, a partner to others in their troubles . . . and, incidentally, better able to bear your own.

Every Sunday that open church-door is an invitation to you to discover what needs to be lifted . . . and how best to begin.

MR. AND MRS. LESTER WISE

Reception Will Mark Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wise, 1400 Johnson, are observing their 50th wedding anniversary today with an open house at their home. Friends and family members are invited to call between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m.

Their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wise of Artesia, N.M., and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wise of Big Spring, are hosting the affair along with the couple's grandchildren, Mark Wise of Artesia and Nancy Wise of Big Spring. Another son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wise, and their son, Robbie, of St. Louis, Mo., will be unable to attend.

Members of the house party will be Mrs. Carlos Clover of Odessa, Mrs. Jack Parrish, Mrs. E. C. Howard, Mrs. H. W. Musgrove and Mrs. J. W. Howard.

The refreshment table will be laid with a lace cutwork cloth and centered with a mixed bouquet of gold flowers. Napkins will be engraved in gold with the couple's names, and appointments will be crystal and silver.

Mrs. Lester Wise is the former Maude Musgrove, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Musgrove of the R-Bar Community. Mr. Wise is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wise Sr. The couple attended school together and were married in February, 1919, in the home of her parents. He retired as wire chief of the Texas and Pacific Railway in 1960. He has been a life member of the Staked Plains Masonic Lodge No. 598. Mrs. Lester is a past matron of Big Spring Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, and a member of the Grandma's Club. Both are members of the First Methodist Church, and she participates in the Philathea Sunday School class.

For the reception, Mrs. Lester will be attired in a beige silk dress with matching accessories. She will be presented an orchid corsage.

Fold Clothes Soon

Fold wash as you take it from the line. Just dumping laundered things in a clothes basket makes more work later since they will be more difficult to smooth.

Program By Music Club

The Woman's Forum met Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. H. M. Fitzhugh to hear a musical program in conjunction with the year's theme "A Woman Is . . . Cultural." Mrs. Clyde Johnston was cohostess.

"Varieties in Music" was presented by three members of the Big Spring Music Study Club. Mrs. Charles Bell and Mrs. Jim Baum played a piano duet, "Stardust," followed by Mrs. Rene Brown singing "It Ain't Necessarily So," accompanied by Mrs. Bell. "Deep Purple" was played by Mrs. Bell, a medley from "Oklahoma!" was performed by Mrs. Baum, and the program climaxed with Mrs. Brown singing "The Sound of Music."

New officers were elected and will be installed in May. They are Mrs. Neil Norred, president; Mrs. Marshall Cauley, vice president; Mrs. G. K. Chadd, recording secretary; Mrs. Bert Shives, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. W. H. Bain, treasurer.

The group agreed to purchase two youth memberships for the Lakeview YMCA, and it was announced that the new and retiring officers will attend all sessions of the Western District convention scheduled here next month.

The next meeting will be a luncheon at the Spanish Inn on March 21 with Mrs. L. B. Maulden and Mrs. Shive as hostesses.

'Cleaning' Day Set By Lodge

Mrs. A. G. Hall presided at Tuesday's meeting of Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 and announced cleaning day at the hall will be Friday.

Plans were completed for the chili supper to be held from 5 to 9 p.m., Saturday, at the IOOF Hall. The public is invited to attend, and tickets will be $1 for adults and 75 cents for children. Those appointed to the food committee were Mrs. Gena Crenshaw, Mrs. Logan Grider and Mrs. Earl Wilson.

A donation was made to the Bonnie Babcock fund, and 30 visits to the sick and shut-in were reported.

Airmen's Wives Club Has Membership Tea

The Airmen's Wives Club held a "Mad Hatter" membership tea Thursday in the John H. Lees Service Club with Col. and Mrs. Chandler B. Estes as honored guests. Col. Estes, base commander, spoke briefly in support of military wives clubs and explained how the women could best help their husbands or other servicemen overseas. A contribution of $5 was made for a local hospital patient.

Among other guests introduced were Mrs. Robert Casey, the club's honorary chairman, and Mrs. Jimmy L.

Schneider, who will be the new honorary chairman. Four new members welcomed were Mrs. Thomas Alredondo, Mrs. James King, Mrs. Daniel Ortiz and Mrs. Robert McClintock.

Those attending said farewells to Mrs. Casey who will soon be leaving the city. Refreshments were served from a tea table covered with a pink cloth and centered with velvet figures of "Alice" and the "Mad Hatter" arranged with tea cups and roses. Place cards and a decorated cake carried out the tea theme.

Miss Bell Marries R. L. Ashley Saturday

The wedding vows of Miss Cheryl Bell and Sgt. Roy Lavone Ashley were solemnized in a double-ring ceremony held at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ with Perry Cotham officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Bell, 1016 Baylor, and Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Ashley, Vicksburg, Miss.

ALTAR

A white Grecian column topped with a sunburst of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and stock centered the altar. Can delabras holding tall cathedral tapers and fern trees formed a background, and the family pews were marked with satin bows.

The bride was attired in a formal gown of sheer Dacron veiled over bridal taffeta. The empire waistline and long sleeves were defined with pearl-encrusted lace, and a chapel train swirled from the waist.

A headpiece of pearl and lace petals held the bride's floor-length veil of silk illusion, and she carried a cascade of bridal roses centered with yellow Sweetheart roses and showered with satin picot ribbon.

Mrs. Ronnie H. Jones was matron of honor. Other bridal attendants were Mrs. Don Mullis of Odessa and Mrs. Kenneth McDougle of Abilene.

The flower girl was Miss Debbie Mullis of Odessa. They wore formal gowns of lemon yellow linen, and their headpieces were yellow tulle roses circled with yellow veiling. Each carried a nosegay of white iris showered in yellow satin.

The matron of honor carried a matching bouquet in yellow.

Allen Ashley served as best man, and groomsmen were Ronnie Jones of Irving and Don Mullis of Odessa.

Kenneth McDougle of Abilene, Jack Bell of Amarillo, Tom Hughes of Amarillo, Bill Mitchell of Irving and Dan Greenwood were ushers. Bryon McDougle was ring bearer.

Prelude music and nuptial selections were presented by the Church of Christ choir.

RECEPTION

Reception guests were registered by Miss Wanda Lou Bell of Amarillo in the education building of the church. The bride's table was covered with a floor-length cloth and centered with a tiered wedding cake.

Members of the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Greenwood, Mr. and Mrs. Rip Merrell, Mr. and Mrs. Al Valdes and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Christenson.

Following the reception, the couple left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination.

MRS. ROY LAVONE ASHLEY

The bride wore a suit composed of a yellow A-line dress and yellow plaid coat. The corsage was the yellow roses from her bouquet. The couple will reside in Misawa, Japan, where he is stationed with the Air Force.

Mrs. Ashley is a graduate of Big Spring High School. She attended Texas Tech and was employed at Security State Bank.

Ashley is a graduate of Tallulah High School in Louisiana. He was formerly stationed at Webb AFB and has been stationed in Thailand.

Miss Beeson To Marry In March

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Vicki Lavon Beeson to William S. Willis Jr. is being announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Beeson of For- san.

Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Willis, 605 W. 15th. The couple plans to be married March 15 at 7 p.m. in the home of his parents, with the Rev. Virgil Drewery officiating.

Agent Gives Hints On Proper Dress

Mrs. Delaine Crawford, Howard County Home Demonstration Agent, gave rules for being well dressed at Tuesday's meeting of Airport Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Raymond Key, 1109 E. 6th, was hostess.

The rules listed are to follow fashions, determine the suitability of garment for the occasion, and check performance of clothing, cost and care.

Mrs. S. A. Wilson presided, and Mrs. R. P. Morton brought the devotion. Mrs. D. M. Gillihan was welcomed as a new member.

Webb Windsock

By MRS. JACK HALLETT

The wives of Class 70-04 are hosting the Hi and Bye Coffee at the Officers' Open Mess Thursday beginning at 10 a.m. It promises to be an interesting program centered around their theme "Mardi Gras." Mrs. D. L. Reid of Hemphill-Wells will present a wig showing, styled by Mrs. Bea Rowland of Bea's Beauty Shop. Their general chairman, Mrs. Robert Spear, announces that a wiglet will be given away as a door prize. All officers' wives are invited to attend.

Last Friday evening, the 3560th PTS hosted a farewell party at the Officers' Open Mess. Goodbyes were said to Col. and Mrs. Theodore Buechler, Capt. and Mrs. Leo Vining, Capt. and Mrs. Roger Drake and Capt. and Mrs. Roger Blume. Gifts were presented to the men, and the wives of the squadron gave a farewell gift to Mrs. Buechler. The commanders and wives of the 3560th PTS were special guests.

A cocktail and dinner party honoring Col. and Mrs. Robert Casey was held at the Officers' Open Mess Saturday evening. A skit was presented, and movies of the colonel's early life were shown. A farewell gift was presented from each section.

The supervisors and wives of the 3561st PTS were hosted to a pre-dance cocktail party Friday in the home of Maj. and Mrs. John Wilmes, cohosted by Maj. and Mrs. Joe Crenwelge.

Maj. and Mrs. Paul Adams entertained friends in their home with a cocktail party Friday evening.

Also entertaining friends with a pre-dance cocktail party were Capt. and Mrs. Harry Hopper.

Mrs. Nick Scromeda was honored with a baby shower last Friday in the home of Mrs. Ronald Kramer, cohosted by Mrs. William Mason.

Mrs. John Bray hosted the wives of the 3561st PTS to a coffee in her home Wednesday, cohosted by Mrs. William Bruce. Special guests attending were Mrs. William McGlothlin, Mrs. Theodore Buechler and Mrs. John O'Donnell.

The wives of Class 70-05 were entertained last Wednesday with a coffee at Cosden Country Club hosted by Mrs. Neil Schutz with special guest being Mrs. Paul Adams.

Returning from a skiing trip to Colorado for a week are Capt. and Mrs. Fred Suter, Capt. and Mrs. Paul Foraste, Capt. and Mrs. William Petty, Capt. and Mrs. John Hussey and Capt. and Mrs. Gene Napolitano.

The wives of O Flight gave a dessert and game party Thursday for the wives of Class 70-04, Section B, in the home of Mrs. John L. Thomasson.

Will Marry

Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Carter of Garland announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Candice, to James Chapman Jones III, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Jones, 1407 E. 19th. The couple is planning a March 8 wedding at Western Heights Christian Church in Garland.

Priest Is Introduced At Meeting

The Rev. William Meagher was introduced to members of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Mother's Club during its meeting Thursday.

Mrs. Morris Smith presided as a Mexican supper was planned for March 1. The public is invited to attend. Serving will be from 5 to 8 p.m., at a charge of $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

The club will sponsor a St. Patrick's Day dance at the school cafeteria on March 15. The charge will be $1 per person.

Mrs. James Malone, spiritual life chairman, announced that the group has been invited to participate in World Day of Prayer services on March 7. The 10 a.m. service will be held at the First United Methodist Church, and the 7:30 p.m. service will be at St. Paul Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Douglas Wells was named library chairman.

Sister Catherine's sixth grade class won the room count, and the attendance prize went to Mrs. Eugene Bellevue. The next meeting will be March 20.

ST. PAUL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TO HAVE CONSECRATION SERVICE TODAY
New sanctuary, educational wing, climax second enlargement

Presbyterians Consecrate Newest Addition Tonight

A church conceived 18 years ago, organized two years later and twice enlarged will have its service of consecration at 7 p.m. today.

It is the St. Paul Presbyterian Church at Birdwell and Wood, which marks the completion of a building project resulting in a new sanctuary, offices and educational space.

The Rev. E. A. J. (Al) Sedon, under whose ministry the expansion program was inaugurated, will come here from Crystal City to deliver the sermon. He will be assisted by Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian, and Chaplain Robert Deming, president of the Big Spring Pastors Association, and by the pastor, the Rev. Daniel R. Sebesta, who will preside.

The choir, under direction of Mrs. W. E. Heideman, will sing Sibelius' anthem, "Come All Ye People," and will have other parts in the program. After the service there will be a reception and everyone is invited as they are to the services.

St. Paul's new sanctuary, seating 250 (the 75 member families represent 225 people) and the other new facilities are the outgrowth of a movement begun half a dozen years ago when an initial $30,000 was raised for additional classrooms. However, it was decided to use these funds instead as the foundation for a much more ambitious program that would meet long range needs of the congregation.

The beautiful new sanctuary with its three-cross theme is finished in charcoal woodwork, furniture and appointments; garnet upholstery; gold carpet. The choir loft is located above the narthex at the rear of the sanctuary, and tone cabinets for the organ are inset in its rail.

Also new to the church are offices for the pastor's study, a parlor and differently conceived educational wing.

The project was accomplished at approximately $100,000 cost. James Cape headed the building committee, assisted by Birt Allison, George Bair, Joe Horton, Mrs. L. B. Edwards and Mrs. Gene Peters. Olen Puckett, architect, designed the plant, which was built by Talbot & Talbot.

St. Paul's was authorized by the presbytery in 1951. Sunday school was started the next year, followed by the organization of the congregation Oct. 11, 1954, in a new building. A year later, two classrooms were added. The first pastor was the Rev. E. Otis Moore, followed by Jack Ware, and in 1959 by the Rev. Seddon.

He was succeeded in December, 1966, by the Rev. Sebesta, who came here from Eldorado, where he had served his first charge for 7½ years following his graduation from the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary in 1959. Rev. Sebesta took his academic degree from Southwest State University at San Marcos, and then he completed his master of theology degree at the seminary in 1966. He is married to the former Carol Sullivan, whose father, the Rev. George M. Sullivan, is pastor at Sinton, and they have three children, Mike, 9, Tim, 5, and Danna, almost one.

Statewide Rains Aid Small Grains

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Recent statewide rains helped small grains and grazing prospects and slowed outdoor farm and ranch activities in Texas.

John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said the first general moisture in many weeks has not been sufficient in the west and northwest to relieve entirely the need for moisture, but it had really helped. Conditions, he noted, favored a replay of last week's situation.

AMOUNTS VARY

The amounts of rain varied a great deal, he said, from west to east with the heaviest falls in southern and coastal areas where some flooding resulted.

Grains across the state, provided temperatures don't drop too low, should get a real boost from the rain and grasses and weeds on ranges should also respond, he said. The rains also gave a boost to flax prospects in South Central Texas and were heavy enough in some areas to provide runoff for stock ponds.

Extension agents gave Hutchison this summary at midweek: Moisture was general over the South Plains (Lubbock) but was light in the south and more rain is needed. Moisture was fair to adequate in the north. Some farmers were spraying wheat for greenbugs.

Half the 22 counties in the Rolling Plains (Vernon) have adequate moisture and grain growth should improve. More moisture is needed in the other counties. Spraying for greenbugs and grain mites is under way. Plowing, feeding and planting potatoes in Knox County were major activities. Light showers to good rains have improved moisture in Far West Texas and will help range weeds. Livestock feeding was increasing and livestock conditions were good. Grains are doing well and providing some grazing.

The dry and thirsty farm and ranch lands of West Central Texas had no trouble handling recent rains. The moisture, up to almost three inches in Irion County, improved ranges and grasses. Grazing should improve shortly since winter weeds and grasses are already responding. Good lamb crops are being reported and goat shearing is in full swing. Feeding continues.

Heavy rains over parts of South Texas left a surplus of moisture while in other counties moisture is short. Ranges are improving in the rainfall areas and livestock generally are above average. Wet fields slowed the vegetable and citrus harvests. Market conditions also slowed the harvesting of carrots and lettuce. The spinach harvest is at the peak; watermelons are up to a stand; and onions are growing well.

Film Shows Engineers How Air Base Was Built

An impressive documentary film detailing how the U.S. Air Force moved in to construct a major air base in South Vietnam was presented at Webb Air Force Base at a luncheon Friday noon — one of the highlights of the local observance of "Engineers Week."

Col. John Trumble, base civil engineer, and members of his staff were hosts to other local engineers at the affair. Some 30 attended.

The color film with narration emphasized outstanding results accomplished through U.S. engineering know-how and construction skills in the building of a big air facility in Tuy Hoa. Within less than a year — and ahead of schedule — a strip of barren beach was converted to a complete Air Force installation, supporting a Wing. The Air Force worked with a civilian contractor on a "Project Turnkey" job, and much of the construction was handled by use of pre-fabricated units shipped from this country. Along with these went skilled personnel, and heavy machinery of all kinds.

Col. Trumble presided for a brief program, introducing Wayne Vaughn, president of the Permian Basin Chapter of the Texas Society of Professional Engineers; Wing Commander Col. W. C. McGlothlin and Mayor Arnold Marshall.

Local professional engineers have had a busy week in their formal observance, including discussion of their profession before high school and college groups.

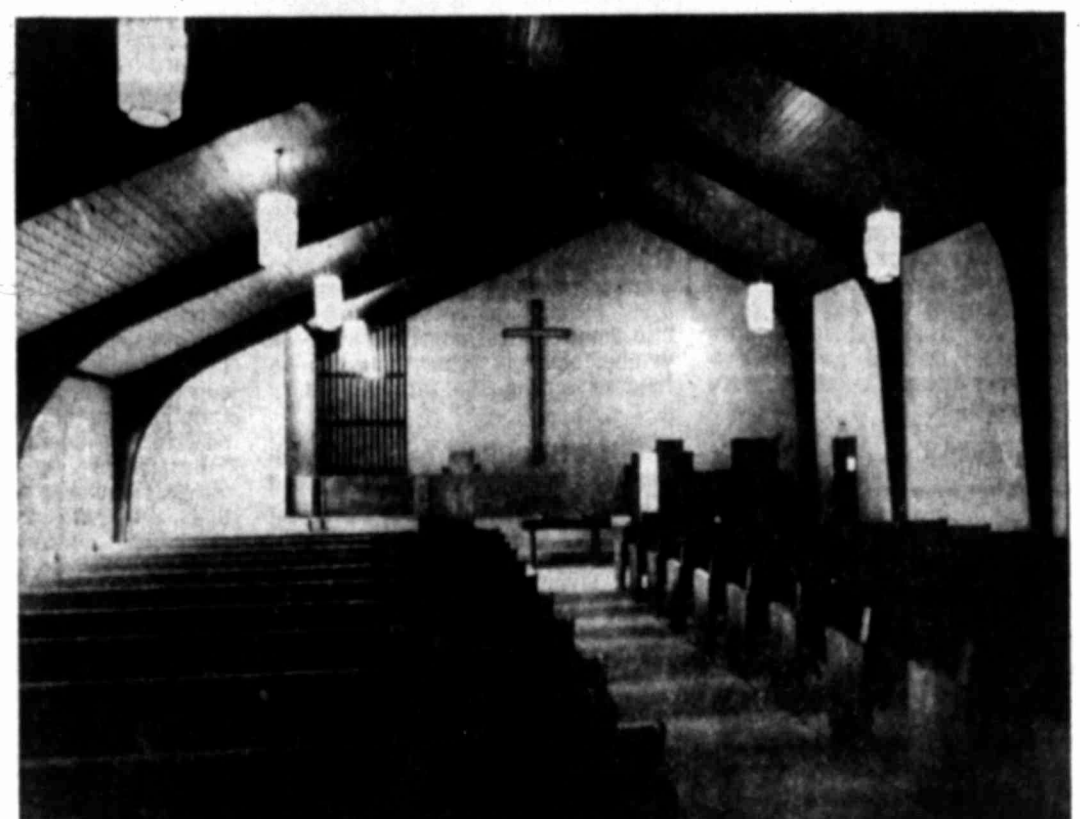

The week was climaxed Saturday evening with the TSPPE annual banquet in Odessa with Vaughn presiding. Dr. John J. McKetta, dean of the College of Engineering at the University of Texas in Austin, was principal speaker.

Give It The Gas

The Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce took occasion in its annual Bosses' Night banquet to recognize several individuals for outstanding achievement.

To have the grace of gratitude and appreciation is a splendid virtue, and is heartening to have a group thoughtful enough to do this.

It is more reassuring, however, that we have so many young men who have a sense of civic conscience, who are willing to take the initiative, and to get going.

Here is a force that has been of considerable benefit to our community, and which offers far more potential. Who cares whether the machinery falters now and then with a mistake or two? We say, give it the gas and make use of this great asset.

Way To Get One Is To Start One

The Texas Electric Service Company brought to town last week the results of its feasibility study of a textile mill. This centered on an eight-county area, and it offered several possibilities in cost, employment and potential returns on money.

The study, achieved at considerable cost by TESCO as a service to this area and with the idea of making some contribution to development of our resources, merits extremely serious consideration. We cannot venture whether in the end local people will find such project suitable for a local economic undertaking. There are many factors, such as securing of adequate markets, distributions, etc., and availability of capital which would enter into a final decision.

But the point is that we need to look closely at all reasonable suggestions of do-it-yourself industry. It will be recalled that in his address to the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet in January, Dr. George Kozmetsky, dean of the graduate school of business studies at the University of Texas, said in effect that the way to obtain industry is — after the facts and outlook seem to warrant — to start one.

Our community did this last year, and within a fortnight products may begin to roll from the fiber glass plant. We have heard about other possibilities, but with one exception, have not got down to serious investigation.

Thus, it is our hope that whether it is found to fit our situation or to be beyond our reach, that the TESCO feasibility study — not any other proposal which seems to offer a reasonably good chance of success. Remember, too, that the good Doctor Kozmetsky reminded us of the adage that it is better to have our eggs in 20 baskets than in one as big as 20.

In a free market place there is always danger of loss, but there is worse danger in listening, in getting as enthused as backslider at a revival, and then quietly forgetting the whole thing.

The Hopeless Plight Of New York

NEW YORK — The taxi driver wears a big white button with red lettering, "LINDSAY MUST GO." Cursing roundly, he pilots his cab between small mountains of dirty snow, crawling through the rutted side streets of Queens on the way to LaGuardia Airport.

SINCE THE SNOWSTORM that brought this crippled behemoth of a city to a standstill the abuse of poor John Lindsay has grown to a shriek of indignation. Wherever he went to try to get a fix on why the snow removal had over large areas failed, he was shouted at and reviled. Even normally mild-mannered Ralph Bunche, U. Thant's deputy at the United Nations, sent him an indignant telegram, saying he was marooned in Kew Gardens as though he were caught for the winter in a remote valley in the Alps.

Coming on top of the school strike last fall, with the bitter hostility it developed between Jew and Negro, the mayor's goose would seem to be finally and thoroughly cooked. He is saying that he has not yet decided whether he will seek a second term this fall or not. Why he would want to is the pertinent question, since under the circumstances only someone suffering from an extreme form of the death wish could contemplate taking on for a second four years the impossible task of governing a city that from day to day offers proof it is ungovernable.

YET, LINDSAY is an ambitious

Billy Graham

When a person confesses Christ and becomes a Christian does he have a guardian angel? C.F.

The Bible does say, "The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them." PSA. 34:7.

But the New Testament contains even a better promise. Jesus, himself, said, "Lo, I am with you always even unto the end of the world." Loneliness is one of the things that haunt modern man. It is possible to be lonely in the midst of a crowd in feverish activity, or even when engaged in some kind of pleasure. Loneliness isn't just being alone; it is the desire to be loved. The Bible says, "But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." (Ro. 5:8). While some loves in life are selfish, this love that God gives is without an ulterior motive. "While we were yet sinners" denotes that His love goes out to the unlovely, the unattractive and the unloved.

It is comforting to know that in what seems to be an unfriendly world, that we are loved by One who is steadfast, dependable and unwavering. Love, as we experience it on the human level, can be capricious, changeable. But Christ says, "Look, I am with you, even to the end of the world." With that assurance, we have a Presence more comforting than an angel, and with Him we can never be lonely.

Around The Rim

Caught In The Middle Of A Freeway

If the type here appears to be shaky, it is because yours truly has not returned to any degree of tranquility since venturing, like a babe in the woods, through the complex of city freeways on a recent trip to the East.

There was a time when getting to the city was the troublesome part; one had to contend with such things as flat tires, busted water hoses, and non-generating generators. Once the journey was finished, it was fairly easy to stay on the main streets, follow the traffic lights and thus find your hotel. People may have sounded an irate horn at you, but they didn't try to kill you.

NOT SO, ANY MORE. Getting to the city, thanks to things like interstate highways, is not much of a chore. But when you approach the outskirts, not only fasten all safety devices, but put on three extra pairs of eyes, and master the art of self-defense.

Today's big-city expressways no longer follow the old established routes (you can't even stay on a street-car track); they have no signal lights. But what they do have is a profusion of signs diabolically located to make you turn off three exits before you intended to. And after you have thus exited, you find yourself 14 miles farther from destination than you originally were — and going in the wrong direction.

TODAY'S CITY expressway motorists are not just normal drivers of automobiles; they are jet fighter pilots who have been trained in nothing but boring in on their own target, and too bad for anything in their way.

What happens to country folks is that they get caught in the center lane of a three-lane speedway, try to ease along looking for the proper exit sign, and sighting this belatedly, discover there is no way to get in the exit lane. The guy who attempts it immediately becomes a traffic statistic.

THIS MEANS a sudden putting on of brakes, and this sets off an immediate chain reaction of screeches from vehicles to the rear, a great sounding of horns and plenty of cussing from the drivers. I didn't actually hear the cussing, but I know it was there. I got a few looks from passing drag-strip types, and the looks were enough to make you scritch down in your seat and out of sight.

SOMEBODY HAS said that those who remain hovering in the far right lane, playing it cautious and trying to stay out of the way, are the little old ladies in their 20-year-old sedans. This is not precisely true. Just the other day, it was a little white-haired old man who felt like a rat in a maze, and was ready to go ahead and enter the trap. Just to get it over with. —BOB WHIPKEY

Administration Puts On Brakes Slowly

By LISA CRONIN
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — As the economic policies of the Nixon administration became clearer last week, a dramatic downturn on the stock market indicated investors are increasingly cautious about a possible slowdown.

The stock market decline began Monday after a weekend statement by Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy that the 10 per cent surcharge might remain in effect through 1970.

Kennedy expanded his views in testimony before the Senate-Economic Committee Wednesday, saying Congress must extend the surtax for another year "unless fiscal 1970 federal expenditures can be cut back appreciably."

"The economy must be placed under firm restraint until there are unmistakable signs that we are headed back on a non-inflationary path," the Treasury chief said.

However, Kennedy warned against "attempting to stop inflation too abruptly," which he said might cause excessive unemployment.

Paul McCracken, chairman of the House Council of Economic Advisors, said Monday no one can "assume that the distortions from three years of economic overheating and price inflation can be corrected with no effect on unemployment."

averages, a key barometer of market activity, fell to 916.65 at the close on Thursday, its lowest point last fall.

The stock exchanges and commodities markets were closed Friday in observance of Washington's birthday.

Compounding the case of business jitters was a series of congressional hearings planned or in progress last week.

The House Ways and Means Committee began an investigation of possible tax reforms including careful scrutiny of tax exemptions for foundations and favorable tax provisions for corporate mergers.

The House Antitrust Committee embarked on hearings a House Commerce subcommittee announced plans to hold hearings on stock market practices, including the paperwork problem.

To Your Good Health

She Can't Get Rid Of Her Sciatica

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have had sciatica for five weeks and can't get rid of it. The leg does not seem to tolerate heat. Is it best to stay off the feet? I have nothing wrong with my back. It starts at the hip and goes down to the toes. — Mrs. F.A.

"Sciatica" is a pretty general term for pain in the leg. Like "lumbago," "eczema," "intestinal flu" and some others, the name of the complaint doesn't give any exact description of what is afflicting you.

The point I want to make is that a considerable number of quite different conditions can cause any of these complaints. I wish this weren't so. I wish I could offer some specific means of helping patients suffering from such ailments. But let's face facts: the important part of getting over it is in finding out what the real cause is. Merely attaching some sort of a name to the illness doesn't really do a particle of good.

True sciatica is pain spreading along the sciatic nerve, with the pain in the back of the leg. Thus I wonder about Mrs. F.A.'s trouble, with the pain extending "down to the toes." Perhaps her trouble isn't really sciatica, but something else — not that that makes her feel any less pain.

She makes no mention of having seen her doctor; but when such trouble goes on and on, there's not much point in trying to doctor it yourself. For, until diagnosis has given some clue to where the trouble is originating, how can you know what to do for it?

If it really is sciatica, there still are several causes possible, ranging from bony defects in the lower spine to toxic factors which affect the nerves. Gout is just one example.

Mrs. F.A. says there is nothing wrong with her back. Well, I'd still be suspicious of the back, even if there is no pain there. Arthritic changes can put pressure on a nerve at the point at which it extends out from the spinal column. Curiously, the pain quite often does not occur at that point. Rather, it is felt farther along that nerve.

Or bony changes in the hip joint can cause pain in the leg. In such a case, one of the starting points in diagnosis very often is X-ray of the lower back and hip.

Incidentally, the intolerance of heat may indicate a disorder in the spinal cord itself.

Until the true cause of the pain is determined, it is very difficult to answer Mrs. A.'s other questions. Whether she should stay off her feet depends on the nature of the ailment. Some degree of activity, one way or another, should be taken despite pain to keep the joints from stiffening.

Medications, meantime, can be given to control, if not entirely prevent, the pain, but I repeat, the important step is to pin down the actual cause of the trouble. Otherwise the pain may well be expected to continue, and perhaps even make ultimate correction far more difficult.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I found out I had high blood pressure at age 24, and have been treated for it for 3½ years. Now it is normal. I also stopped smoking. Do you think smoking had anything to do with it? — J.P.

Yes, because smoking is one of the things known to have an effect on blood pressure. It may not have been the whole cause in your case, probably not. But it quite likely was part.

You can lose weight if you really want to! Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Last Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and with no gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. We're All Safer For It

WASHINGTON — I walked into the kitchen of a friend of mine the other day and found her crying.

"What on earth's the matter, Clara?" I asked.

"They won't let Willie Mae Rogers of Good Housekeeping be the President's consultant on Consumer Affairs."

"THAT WAS a disappointment to me also, Clara, but I didn't think you would take it so hard."

"But if she doesn't take the job, who will protect the consumer?"

"President Nixon will find somebody else — perhaps from McCall's or The Ladies Home Journal or Seventeen."

"It isn't the same thing," Clara said, blowing her nose. "Willie Mae Rogers believed in us. I wouldn't buy anything unless it was approved by Good Housekeeping."

"Clara, I don't want to disillusion you, but the only products that Good Housekeeping approved were those that advertised in the magazine. If you didn't advertise, you didn't get the approval seal."

"IT DOESN'T matter. Good Housekeeping would never accept an advertisement unless they approved of the product."

"How do you know that?"

"Because Willie Mae said so. If you can't believe in the Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval, what can you believe in?"

"Clara, get hold of yourself. Willie Mae would certainly have made a wonderful consultant on Consumer Affairs, but there was a conflict of interest."

"YOU SEE, SHE insisted on keeping her job at Good Housekeeping, and there were some congressmen who felt if she had to divide her loyalties between the magazine and the President, the consumer might come out on the short end."

"They can say that. But there is nothing more American than being approved by Good Housekeeping, and Willie Mae said in her press conference that she was basically honest; so there couldn't possibly have been a conflict of interest."

"I know that and you know that, Clara, but there are always doubters and wave-makers. For example, Willie Mae Rogers testified against the truth-in-packaging bill which was supposed to protect the consumer. Some of these congressmen felt she was on the side of the advertisers."

"SHE COULDN'T BE," said Clara, starting to cry again. "I saw her on television."

"Clara, Clara, you have to get away from this personality cult. Our government was set up so that no one would be indispensable. There must be hundreds of Willie Mae Rogerses in this country."

"But none of them have the Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval."

"Look at it this way, Clara. If Willie Mae were working for the President, she wouldn't be able to devote her full time to Good Housekeeping, and if she wasn't testing it, a product might slip through that really didn't deserve the seal. You wouldn't want that to happen, would you?"

"No," said Clara, biting on her handkerchief.

"IT MAY BE better for the country and the President if Willie Mae stays at Good Housekeeping where the real consumer protection work in this country is being done."

"Maybe you're right," said Clara. "At least I can sleep better at night knowing Willie Mae is still in the Good Housekeeping kitchen where she belongs."

"I think President Nixon is sleeping better too, Clara."

Powers Of The Vice President

WASHINGTON — An amendment to the Constitution may be found necessary if Vice President Agnew is to assume some of the functions of administrative supervision which have already been delegated to him by President Nixon.

FOR THE CONSTITUTION specifies merely that the vice president shall be "president of the Senate" and that, in the case of a tie, he may cast a deciding vote. It is plain that he is considered to be a member of Congress rather than an official in the executive branch of the government.

President Nixon, in his statement accompanying an "executive order" establishing an office of inter-governmental relations, stipulates that these operations will be "under the immediate supervision of the vice president."

Mr. Nixon says, moreover, that in addition to his other duties, the vice president is to "undertake responsibility for helping to administer the domestic functions of government in several critical areas."

A READING OF the Constitution, however, reveals that the delegation of such authority to a vice president is nowhere provided for, or even implied, in any part of the Constitution.

IN SETTING UP various advisory boards in the executive branch in recent years, Congress has provided for participation by the vice president. Thus, he is a member of the National Security Council, and is chairman of the National Advisory Council of the Peace Corps and of the National Aeronautics and Space Council. But these provisions of law do not bestow any authority on the administrative side.

The 23rd Amendment to the Constitution, adopted in February, 1967, provides that if the President is ill or disabled and acknowledges that he is temporarily unable to perform the duties of his office, "such powers and duties shall be discharged by the vice president as acting President." It also prescribes a formula whereby Congress can empower the vice president to serve as acting President if it is determined that the President is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office.

BUT UNDER the provisions of the Constitution, the vice president himself cannot become an integral part of the executive branch of the government while the President is able to exercise the powers of his office. During the illness of President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon presided over some Cabinet meetings, but he did not sign any legislation or issue any executive orders.

Mr. Nixon acquired a good deal of familiarity with the operations of the executive branch of the government in the course of his eight years as vice president under President Eisenhower. Doubtless this is one of the reasons why President Nixon is anxious to give Vice President Agnew opportunities to serve virtually as an assistant president.

THE VAGUENESS of the Constitution on the subject of filling vacancies in the office of President was cleared up by the 1967 amendment, but there are some areas in which the powers of the vice president require further definition.

Singers Featured During Assembly

By FRANK GRIFFIS

An assembly featuring Ronny Martin and the Crusaders was presented to the student body at Howard County Junior College Friday, Feb. 21, in the college auditorium.

The assembly program, sponsored by the Apostolic Faith Church, also featured the Baxter Quartet.

Shirley Kinser and Dorothy Kinser sang a duet of "I Discovered the Way of Gladness." Austin Sutton, Shirley Kinser and Sherry Cook composed a trio which sang "He's Everything to Me."

The quartet, composed of Ronny Martin, Fred Huff, a student at H.C.J.C., Austin Sutton and Gary Kerr, sang "Sweet As the Days Go By," "He Knows," and "Now Look Away."

LaVonda Russell also sang with the group when they closed the program with "How Great Thou Art."

The student senate, in a meeting Tuesday night, received and approved a petition from Mid-

Management students to organize a management club to be called the Executive Management Association. The club will provide students interested in management an opportunity to exchange ideas and discuss principles of sound management practices.

Officers of the new club are: Owen McComb, president; Shelton Ashley, vice president; Dee Gibson, secretary, and Jimmy Walker, treasurer. The faculty advisor is Doyle Holder, coordinator of the program.

Any student currently enrolled in a business subject at H.C.J.C. is eligible for membership in the club but offices are restricted to Mid-Management students. Student dues have been set at $3 per year. Interested students should contact Mr. Holder in room 208-A.

The club has made provisions for those persons who want to encourage sound management practices with membership fees at $15. Businesses that wish to promote and encourage management students may join the association by a $25 sustaining membership fee.

Two of EMA's students will compete in March, at Dallas, on a state-wide level, in the "Sales Management" and "Decision Making" contests.

Winners of these events will be eligible to participate in contests at the National Leadership Conference in Atlantic City, New Jersey, in April.

Owen McComb, EMA president, said that the club will be making field trips, will ask local business leaders to talk on special subjects, and will plan an appreciation day dinner for their employees.

Mr. Doyle Holder, director of the Mid-Management program at H.C.J.C., was elected to the office of vice president of the Texas Association of Junior College Management Educators during the Texas Junior College Teachers Association meeting last Saturday in Fort Worth.

Bulldog Band Goes To Abilene Contest

By SUSIE WISENER

COAHOMA — Members of the Coahoma High School band will be traveling to Abilene this coming Saturday to compete in the UIL solo and ensemble contest. This contest is judged on the same basis as other band contests. Groups are graded from a I to IV rating, with those judged I receiving a medal.

Contestants are divided into three groups, according to experience in band. Those entering Class I have the opportunity to compete in the state solo and ensemble contest in Austin this summer if they receive a I rating. Included in Class I is a cornet trio composed of Andy Wilson, Vicky Wallin and Marvin Wright. Nan Whittington will play a flute solo, and Andy Wilson will play a cornet solo, also in Class I.

CLASS II In the Class II division, there will be a flute trio composed of Nan Whittington, Pam Patterson and Susan Balzer. Joe Landin, Mischa Read, Phyllis Wynne and Tim Whittington make up the saxophone quartet. Also in Class II will be a brass sextet composed of Vicky Wallin, Marvin Wright, Marlene Whirley, Becky Null, Mark Lowe and Alvis Ashley. Alvis will also play a bass horn solo. There will be a flute solo by Ann Crawford, a French horn solo by Marlene Whirley, a bass horn solo by Jo Best and a snare drum solo by Tommy Rutledge.

HONOR ROLL Named to the A honor roll for the first semester were Melvin Mason, Vicky Wallin, Rodney Wall and Marvin Wynne, seniors; Tim Whittington, junior; and freshmen Daryle Coates, Pam Patterson, Tommy Whiddon, Jimmy Wright, Robert Lynn and Linda Beistle.

With all but one A were seniors Leah Spiller and Tim Winn; junior, Leslie Woods; sophomore, Billy Don Fishback; and Sheila Kinstley, Mischa Read and Phyllis Wynne, freshmen.

There will be 25 driver education students taking their final tests Tuesday at 3 p.m. under the direction of Coach Hagins. The Bulldogs wrapped up district by defeating the Seagraves Eagles 50-60. They will meet the Wylie Bulldogs for the bi-district round in the Sweetwater Coliseum at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

G-City Students Complete Six Weeks Tests Friday By VELMA LEE SHERROD GARDEN CITY — Six weeks tests were completed Friday at Garden City. Periods one, three and five were on Thursday and periods two, four and six were on Friday. Report cards will be handed out Wednesday.

A practice basketball game was held here Tuesday night at 7:30 between Sands and Comstock. The juniors and various other students helped in the concession stand.

The sophomores have been selling their order of sweat-shirts which came in this week and have found that they are going to have enough orders to order another shipment.

Next Friday, Feb. 28, is the last deadline for the annual staff. The last of the sports pictures were taken Wednesday.

Future Teachers Journey To Convention In Austin By SHIRLEY COBB FORSAN — Members of the Forsan FTA and their sponsor, Mr. Larry Latson, left for Austin for the FTA convention Friday. The group will return Sunday.

This week was designated as "Spirit Week" to boost the spirit of the Buffaloes for their trip to Roscoe for the play-off for district championship against Bronte. Friday was declared "D-Day" meaning "District Day" or "Dooms Day." The outcome of the game determined which meaning was suitable.

During the week, the halls were lined with signs to promote school spirit. Special appreciation goes to Coach Jack Adams, Coach Don Stevens, and Larry Moreno for their assistance and advice during the week.

Night rehearsals for the UIL play have begun. The presentation of the play is only about four weeks away. Mrs. Arthur Rutledge, director, anticipates at least two night rehearsals per week until the presentation.

The Queens played H.C.J.C. Tuesday night in a practice game in preparation for bi-district play. The Queens were edged out by the H.C.J.C. squad.

Choir Participates In Region Contest

By NANCY POLK

Several Goliad choir students participated in the regional solo and ensemble contest in Snyder Saturday, Feb. 15.

The following students earned the rating of first division in Class III solos: seventh grade, Joey Shaw and Beth Piquet; eighth grade, Dave Holley, Jonathan Honea, Gary Pley, Donald McKee and Diane Tipton.

Joel Dyer, eighth grader, and Van Johnson, a seventh grader, earned the first division rating on their Class II solos.

The madrigal composed of Barbara Riker, Patti Womack, Cathy Fowler, Patsy Lewis, Bobby Roger, Donald McKee, Barry McGonagill, and Joel Dyer sang a class III ensemble song, and also earned the first division rating.

The Maverick volleyball A and B teams traveled to Snyder Thursday, and the A team brought back a 15-14 and a 15-2 victory over Snyder Travis. The opponents defeated the B team, 15-13 and 15-12.

Goliad will play Lamesa at the Goliad gym at 5 p.m. There will be another game Thursday at Runnels against Runnels at 4:30 p.m.

Failure notices will be issued Monday. These are to be signed by the parents and returned as soon as possible.

FACULTY PLAYS BALL Several of the Goliad faculty men participated in a fun-filled basketball game against the eighth grade Mavericks Thursday afternoon. The men included Mr. Tom Adams, Mr. Avery Falkner, Mr. Jack Gray, Mr. Gary Griffin, Mr. Ben Neel, Mr. Joe Peacock, Mr. B. A. Rains, Mr. Robert Thompson, and Mr. S. A. Walker.

Mrs. Nancy Miller, girls PE teacher, and Alan Davis, an eighth grade basketball player, were the officials for the game. The final score of the game was indefinite.

New students at Goliad this week are seventh graders Danny Lamb from Questa, N.M., and Mark Zsigray from Murfreesboro, Tenn. Royce Glover, a new eighth grade student, is from England, Ark.

WESTBROOK — The Westbrook High School Honor Society met Thursday in the school cafeteria with Robert Chambers, president, in charge. Cynthia Richardson gave the invocation and Junior Oden, historian, reported on the Chapter's scrapbook.

The program consisted of films portraying some significant characteristics of early school leavers — average ability, excessive mobility, lack of strong parental motivation, reading retardation and minimum participation in school and social activities. Also, a film which showed a junior high school in action meeting the challenges of potential delinquency was presented.

Guidance information was presented by Preston Lightfoot, sponsor of the Chapter's NHS.

Final auditions for the 1969 season of "TEXAS" in the Panhandle area will be Sunday afternoon, Feb. 23, from 2:00 to 5:00 in the Branding Iron Theatre on the campus of West Texas State University in Canyon. Because of the numerous inquiries received after the first auditions, the directors of the production, William and Margaret Moore and Royal Brantley are offering this additional time. They have also made arrangements for Neil Hess, the choreographer, to try-out dancing applicants at 3:00 p.m.

Applicants should be prepared to give a memorized selection from a play which would show characterization and perhaps a change of mood. In addition, everyone should attend with one

Gail FFA Members Exhibit Animals In Houston Show

By BOBBIE LUDECKE

GAIL — Nine members of the Gail FFA Chapter will be exhibiting animals in the Houston Stock Show Feb. 24-28. Nineteen animals have been entered in the show. FFA members participating in the show include the following: Ken Don Jones, Mike Toombs, Jimmy Hodge, Rick Hendley, Gary Wilkerson, Darrell Taylor, Ted Yaden, Guy Zant, and Mike Swinney.

Also, three members will participate in the livestock judging contest at the Houston Stock Show. They are Darrell Taylor, Ricky Hendley, and Jimmy Hodge.

PRESENTS PROGRAM The high school and junior high held an assembly program Feb. 18. The speaker for the program was Mrs. Nancy Gray from the West Texas Tuberculosis Association. She discussed cigarette smoking and how it affects the body that could cause tuberculosis and lung cancer. She encouraged the boys and girls not to start smoking because they would get the smoking habit, and would later regret it.

The Borden County Junior Livestock Association will have their annual show March 6-8. Weigh-in time for animals will be Thursday, March 6 from 9 a.m.-3 p.m.

The show this year will have entries totaling 200 head of livestock. Approximately 75 of the top animals will sell at auction. The bids will be taken in dollars, above floor price. If for example, the bid on an animal reaches $100, the bidder pays that amount. If the bidder wants to keep said animal, he must also pay the floor price, as all animals in the barn will sell first to the floor bidder.

The barrow and lamb show will be held Friday, March 7. Barrows will be judged at 3 p.m., and lambs will be judged at 7 p.m.

During a recent meeting of the science club, plans were made to make a field trip to Texas Tech. Some members of the group are also beginning to prepare for the University Interscholastic League science contests.

Auditions Announced For Paul Green Musical

Final auditions for the 1969 season of "TEXAS" in the Panhandle area will be Sunday afternoon, Feb. 23, from 2:00 to 5:00 in the Branding Iron Theatre on the campus of West Texas State University in Canyon. Because of the numerous inquiries received after the first auditions, the directors of the production, William and Margaret Moore and Royal Brantley are offering this additional time. They have also made arrangements for Neil Hess, the choreographer, to try-out dancing applicants at 3:00 p.m.

Applicants should be prepared to give a memorized selection from a play which would show characterization and perhaps a change of mood. In addition, everyone should attend with one prepared musical number and music for an accompanist since the "TEXAS" chorus is a vital part of the production and singers and actors double in minor speaking roles and members of the chorus. Dancers should bring appropriate work-out clothing.

Members of the cast report the first of June for a month of rehearsals and the run of the show is from June 27 through Labor Day, Sept. 1. Sundays will be free except for the last Sunday in August when there will be a performance. A college student can expect to earn around $500 for the season in the chorus or in one of the minor roles. His schedule can be arranged so that he can take college courses during the run of the show.

YOU'RE COMING FACE-TO-FACE WITH THE SURCHARGE

How To Cope With Your Income Tax Return

By TOM STEWART
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — They've read about it and heard about it and finally millions of Americans are meeting the tax surcharge face to face as they fill out their federal income tax returns.

Considering the high drama and political infighting that went into its enactment, the surcharge when tracked to its lair is a shy little thing. Stuck off on a line by itself, it's nothing more than one tax riding piggyback on another.

Thus, most taxpayers wading through the Form 1040 tax return find that they figure their regular tax as in years past and then simply add 7½ per cent.

Taxpayers using 1040's streamlined little brother, 1040A, will find the surcharge figured for them in an accompanying table.

Why 7½ per cent when all the news stories have labeled it a 10 per cent surcharge? Because it was applicable to only three-quarters of 1968, April through December, and 7½ is three-quarters of 10.

The Internal Revenue Service provides tables with the tax return that tell how much surcharge should be paid when the regular tax is less than $734. If your regular tax is $734 or over you have to do your own arithmetic, but it's a simple one-shot multiplication problem.

Other than the surcharge, the annual chore of getting your tax computed and paid before the April 15 deadline has changed hardly at all.

COLORED

To be sure, the form most 1040 users received in the mail looks snappier this year because it's red, white and blue, but this is just a cosmetic job that leaves the form itself basically unchanged.

The idea behind the color printing is to highlight those parts of the form where the most errors are made. The signature line is played up, for instance, because millions of Americans sweat over their returns every year and then send them in unsigned.

Others goof by forgetting to attach their W2 forms or don't include their Social Security numbers.

Accompanying the forms sent in the mail are several pages of directions from IRS. These will steer you through most of the tricky places but if you need fuller explanations a good buy is the 160-page IRS booklet "Your Federal Income Tax," 60 cents at most IRS offices.

Also helpful are the commercial do-it-yourself guides sold on the newsstands. They cost more but often are more explicit than the IRS booklet in pointing out money-saving ideas.

Not everybody has to file a tax return but the exempt are a small minority.

ONLY FILE

If you were under 65 last year, you must file if you had gross income of $600 or more.

If 65 or over, you have to file only if your gross income topped $1,200. But those with at least $400 net earnings from self-employment must file and pay the self-employment tax.

U.S. citizens living abroad are subject to the same rules, except that their filing deadline is June 15 instead of April 15.

Vietnam is something else again. Servicemen and civilians in war-support roles — even newsmen — don't have to file until 180 days after they leave Vietnam.

Now to get it all down on paper. There are two forms, 1040 and 1040A, and many taxpayers may use either one.

Form 1040, longer of the two, is designed to be used by anyone, from mechanics to millionaires. But 1040A, the little form that packs all its questions onto a card a little bigger than a cereal boxtop, is only for certain taxpayers.

You may use 1040A if your total income was less than $10,000 and consisted entirely of wages subject to withholding tax and a maximum of $200 in other wages, dividends and interest.

Those who are eligible to use either form should go for 1040 if by doing so they'll save money.

This, by the way, is the way IRS wants it. The tax people stress that you should avail yourself of every legal means of holding down the amount of tax you pay.

Generally speaking, filling out

1040 instead of 1040A is worth the additional work if you own a home, carry a substantial debt load, have above average child care or medical expenses, or give generously to charities.

Such outlays are deductible. In other words, they can be subtracted in whole or in part from your income as reported for tax purposes, thus lessening the amount of it that will be taxable.

Most taxpayers who spend an hour or two at the dining room table plodding through such homework feel they're well paid for listing their deductions.

Others either find it all too confusing or know they have too few deductions to expect much of a payoff from listing them. If you're in this group, use one or the other of the standard deductions:

— A simple 10 per cent of the adjusted gross income figure you've entered on your form, or — The "minimum standard deduction." In the case of married persons filing joint returns or unmarried persons, this is figured as $200 plus $100 for each exemption (count one exemption apiece for yourself and every person you can claim as a dependent, plus one apiece if you're blind or were 65 at least one day last year).

Here again, you get a chance to play something either of two ways. Don't just toss a coin. Do the arithmetic for both and use the one that results in the greater saving.

Example: A couple with two children and an adjusted gross income of $8,000 would have an $800 deduction if they take the 10 per cent deduction.

And they'd better, because if they settled for the minimum standard deduction — $200, plus four times $100 — it would come to only $600.

Remember, though, either standard deduction is limited to $1,000 — or $500 if you are married and file a separate return.

Once you've reached this point in filling out your form you've got most of the heavy work behind you. But don't be in too great a hurry to finish and get the thing in the mail.

If time permits, let your completed form sit around the house for a few days and then go over it again line by line. Better your errors should be caught by you than by the ever watchful IRS computer.

And before you seal the envelope, make a spare copy of your return. It will add to your peace of mind to be able to refer back in succeeding months and years to the exact figures you turned in to Uncle Sam.

MORE YOU PAY, MORE YOU DEDUCT

Medical Costs Reduce Tax

By TOM STEWART
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nothing soothes the pain of getting a doctor's bill like the realization that the more you pay for health care the more you can whittle down your income tax.

If you itemize your deductions, that is, and if you have substantial medical and dental bills, you probably should.

RULE

The first fact of life confronting the taxpayer who wants to turn his heap of paid medical bills into money-saving tax deductions is the three per cent rule.

This is the one that says unreimbursed medical-dental expenses, with one important exception, are deductible only to the extent that they exceed three per cent of adjusted gross income.

So if your adjusted gross income is $9,000, only those medical-dental expenses above $270 — 3 per cent — are deductible.

The big exception is medical insurance. You're permitted to ignore the three per cent limitation on this item and deduct half of what you paid for such coverage, up to a ceiling of $150.

The rest of what you laid out for medical insurance is deductible too, but it comes under the three per cent rule.

Suppose your premiums for Blue Cross and similar plans totaled $400. Since half of $400 is $200 — $50 over ceiling — you settle for a $150 deduction and add the remaining $250 to your other medical expenses, the ones that have to clear that three per cent hurdle.

FRUSTRATES

The three per cent rule frustrates a lot of people, especially singles, young couples without children and others who have relatively modest medical expenses.

They realize that in an average year their medical-dental outlays won't add up to three per cent of adjusted gross income. If only there were some way to have lean years and fat years as far as such expenses go, they think, they'd be able to cash in at least occasionally on medical deductions at income tax time.

Lots of people in their circumstances have learned to do just that.

Toward year's end they weigh the expenses incurred in the current year against the ones anticipated in the approaching year.

If they decide one year has a better chance than the other of clearing the three per cent barrier, they help things along by going to the dentist in January instead of December, or vice versa.

This two-cushion shot off the medical profession and the Internal Revenue Service is called bunching. It's legal, saves you money and makes you feel smart — how can you beat that combination?

HELPS

The mere act of going to the doctor, unless you walk, will also help cut your tax bill. Transportation to obtain medical care is a quite legitimate deduction, and often overlooked, so keep track of cab fares, bus fares and the like.

Travel by auto can be figured at five cents a mile, IRS says, with tolls and parking fees added. Or, if it's to your advantage, deduct actual expenses — so much for gasoline, so much for oil and so forth — but be sure you can make your figures stand up if the tax man questions them.

The tax laws put a double whammy on your expenditures for medicine and drugs. They are included in medical expense only insofar as they exceed one per cent of adjusted gross income, and this excess is then subject to the three per cent rule.

COMPLEX

Thus, in the case of the taxpayer with the $9,000 adjusted gross income, suppose he lays out $112 for medicine and drugs. Under the one per cent rule the first $90 worth doesn't count and the remaining $22 has to be tossed in with other medical and dental expenses to see if they top three per cent of AGI.

Does that irk you? Take a nice expensive tranquilizer — it may help run up your score.

INTEREST, TAX, LOSSES, OTHER ANGLES

Homeowner's Castle Provides Aid

By TOM STEWART
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The typical homeowner's tender feelings for his castle, mortgage though it be, are at flood stage right about now as he adds up the money-saving deductions and other income tax savers hiding behind each shutter and shingle.

INTEREST

First, there's all that interest you pay on the monthly mortgage payments — deductible, every bit of it.

The next big item is real estate tax, both state and local if you get hit both ways. It's all deductible.

In addition to these two major tax reducers, available to every homeowner, there are dozens more that cover special situations. Try not to miss any you're entitled to, because the Internal Revenue Service swears it wants you to take full advantage of every legal means of holding down the amount of tax you pay.

Many homeowners, for instance, are entitled to deductions for casualty or theft losses but fail to put in for them. They're deductible to the extent that they exceed $100 after subtracting insurance settlements, if any.

But the $100 rule must be applied to each such loss — you can't add up a year's losses and treat them as one.

The tax collectors define a casualty as partial or total destruction resulting from an "identifiable event of a sudden, unexpected or unusual nature."

SURE

Hurricanes? Sure. Also windstorms, flash floods, falling trees, runaway cars that crash through the bedroom wall and riot damage, once a rarity but common enough these days.

Theft losses are easy enough to understand. Homeowners have more and more expensive things to attract the larcenous. And they leave a lot of it outdoors, things like stationary and gadget-laden lawn equipment that costs as much as a good used car.

If you are required as a condition of employment to use part of your home as a place of business, you may deduct an appropriate percentage of home maintenance costs such as heat, light, telephone, cleaning and decorating bills.

There are also tax angles to consider when you change homes.

Most sellers nowadays get more for their homes than they paid. The thing to remember is that you'll have to pay taxes on this profit unless you invest it in another home costing at least as much within a year before or after the sale.

AFTER SALE

If the house is being built for you and construction started either before the sale or not later than one year after, you have up to 18 months after the sale to move in.

It may be that when you decided to move you first had your old place painted and had a carpenter in to make a few repairs in hopes of getting a better price.

Though not deducted in figuring the profit, these fixing-up expenses may be subtracted from the final sale price to yield the "adjusted sales price." The one you compare with the purchase price of your new house to find how much gain is to be taxed currently — if any.

But to be considered, repairs must be made within 90 days before the sale contract is signed and they must be paid for within 30 days after the sale. So if the carpenter is slow about billing you, go after him.

Persons over 65 can get a special break when selling their homes. It will be dealt with in the next article in this series.

Of course, not everybody sells at a profit. If you're a loser, your loss, unfortunately, isn't deductible.

But maybe the process of moving to the new residence will add to your list of deductions.

EXPENSE

A deductible move has to be made at the worker's expense in connection with a new job or because of a transfer. And your new place of employment must be at least 20 straight-line miles farther from your old home than your previous home-to-job mileage.

That 20-mile rule throws a lot of people so let's run through it slowly.

If you used to live in Bankruptcy Heights, 10 miles from your place of work in City A, you will meet the 20-mile test if your new place of work in City B is at least 30 miles (20 plus 10) from Bankruptcy Heights. The location of your new home doesn't enter into the calculations at all.

Once you get to your new area, you must work full time for at least 39 weeks out of your first year there. It's permissible to change jobs, though, so long as you stay in the same general commuting area.

On a deductible move, expenses that qualify include all of the regular movers' charges plus such extras as the cost of shipping your automobile and pets, so by all means take the pony along. IRS insists all expenses have to be reasonable, however.

GETTING THERE

Finally, you can deduct the expenses you run up getting from the old to the new home, including meals, lodging and transportation.

If you use your car instead of plane, train, bus or boat, you may either deduct five cents a mile or your actual out-of-pocket expenses. These would normally be limited to gasoline, oil and tools, but if you have a breakdown en route the repair bill is deductible, too.

Elderly Have Different Bag

By TOM STEWART
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elderly persons have quite a different bag of income tax problems from those of younger people, but their age also entitles them to a few tax breaks.

Exemptions, for instance, come in the large economy size if you're 65 or over. If you're under 65 you get a personal exemption — a reduction of income — of $600, but at 65 it jumps to $1,200.

This doubleheader exemption is yours even if you were 65 for only one day of the tax year.

SPORTING

In fact, the Internal Revenue Service sportingly takes the position that you complete your 65th year of life on the day before your 65th birthday, so if you were born Jan. 1, 1904, you were 65 for tax purposes in 1968.

For most persons past 65, income is not only reduced from preretirement levels but comes in different forms. Instead of a paycheck, it's probably a monthly Social Security check and a pension or annuity check. The Social Security benefits are not taxable and should not be reported on your tax return. Pensions and annuities are taxable, in whole or in part, depending on type.

If your employer paid the entire cost of your pension, an increasingly common fringe benefit, it's all taxable income when you start collecting.

But if you contributed part of the cost during your working years, part of each check you receive is actually a return of your contributions and exempt from being taxed. The remainder, however, is subject to taxation.

Like all general rules, this one has specific exceptions. If this is your first year of filing an income tax return as a pensioner you would be well advised to consult your nearest IRS office for literature on the ins and outs of pension and annuity income.

If you received a lump sum payment as the beneficiary of a life insurance policy, in almost all cases this is tax-free and should not be reported. But the ground rules change if the deceased was your husband or wife and you elect to receive the proceeds in installments instead of all at once.

The provisions on installment payments to a surviving spouse, incidentally, are applicable at any age, not just for those over 65.

The rule allows a surviving spouse to exclude from taxable income up to $1,000 a year received as interest on life insurance proceeds taken r installments instead of as a lump sum.

For instance, the company might offer the option of collecting the face value of a $20,000 policy all at once or in 10 annual installments of $2,000. The $300 would be interest and, so long as it was going to a surviving spouse, nontaxable. Of course the $2,000 would also be nontaxable.

Those who have recently become widows or widowers should be alerted to the fact that if their spouse died in 1968 they may still go ahead and file a joint return this one last time. This rule also is applicable at any age.

A special rule that benefits only senior citizens applies to the selling of a house. Sellers in this age group often have no wish to reinvest the proceeds in another house — fighting crabgrass and a cranky furnace has lost its appeal and they want to try apartment living.

Ordinarily, if a house is sold for more than it originally cost the profit is taxable.

NOT PAY

But if the seller is 65 or over before the sale and owned and used the home as his principal residence for five out of the past eight years, he won't have to pay tax on his gain so long as the sales price — after deducting sales commissions and a few other excludable items — is not over $20,000.

Even if it's over $20,000, part of the gain needn't be taxed. But it's very important that elderly persons who wish to take advantage of this tax saver should realize the law permits them to do it just once. It is literally a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

Never Too Late To Correct It

By TOM STEWART
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Don't think that once you've mailed in your federal income tax return it's too late to get credit for some valuable deduction you overlooked or to correct some other goof.

The Internal Revenue Service naturally prefers that you fill out your return right the first time. But it's set up to handle your second thoughts — even if they occur up to three years later.

SPECIAL

A special form, 1040X, can be used to correct errors on previously filed returns. IRS says it gives faster service when this form is used, though it is permissible simply to send in a regular Form 1040 and mark it clearly "Amended Return" at the top.

If the error was one that somehow short-changed the government, you would be wise to set the record straight even if it means making a belated extra payment. If you don't voluntarily disclose such a mistake, IRS may turn it up through its own surveillance procedures.

This is where the tax agency's computer shines. Even if you don't file a return this year, chances are the computer already knows quite a bit about income you received that was not subject to withholding tax, interest credited to your bank accounts and the dividends corporations have paid on securities you hold.

All of these forms of income are reported to the government by the source. Your bank, for instance, routinely informs the government of your interest income, identifying you by your Social Security number.

The computer can readily assemble all income reports it has for any identifying number and compare them with what the taxpayer lists on his return.

Interest — and sometimes penalties — are charged for late payments attributable to negligence, delinquency and oversight. Intentional tax evasion is something else again, a felony punishable by a fine of up to $10,000, imprisonment for up to five years, or both.

Many taxpayer errors are nothing more than sloppy arithmetic. If you can't add or subtract you'd better get help from someone who can, because IRS now claims to check the arithmetic on virtually every return.

The other most common errors include:

— Failure to sign the return correctly, especially to include both the husband's and wife's signature on a joint return.

— Failure to attach all W2 forms.

— Failure to report Social Security number. You lay yourself open to a $5 penalty if you slip up on this one.

— Use of the wrong tax table in determining the amount of tax owed.

Many taxpayers wonder — perhaps lose sleep would be more accurate — about the likelihood that their return will be given special scrutiny instead of making an uneventful trip through the mill. This is increasingly a matter for the computer to decide.

Under a new system designed primarily to evaluate lower income returns, about 90 per cent of the returns filed will be "scored" to indicate whether the data the taxpayer has recorded is likely to have errors.

STAND OUT

A taxpayer who claims 12 dependents, for instance, or says half of his income went to charities can expect that his return will stand out from the rest of the pack.

The computer is instructed to examine the "scores" on the returns and choose the ones that seem most to need checking out. Other returns, particularly those reporting higher incomes, will still be chosen for audit on the basis of human evaluation.

IRS then decides, on the basis of the manpower it has available, how many returns it can audit, perhaps three million.

Music Holds Fun Feature Together

"Music" conductor-arranger Jack Elliott professes, "is the adhesive that holds a show together. It's not too difficult to put your finger on a score, but if it's well done then you're never too aware of it. If it's too good, and commands a great deal of audience attention then it's failed. What I try to do is enhance a production with a score that isn't ostentatious."

His concept of composition and arrangement must be right, because today, Elliott, who recently completed the score for Walt Disney's new musical, "The One and Only, Genuine, Original Family Band" is one of the busiest men in the musical field.

Safari

Ron Shanin, producer of "African Safari," which opens Thursday at the Ritz, calls this scene one of the two closest calls he has experienced in his years of animal collecting and film making in Africa. The third shot brought down this lion just as Shanin was knocked to the ground.

Elliott began on the pre-scoring of "Family Band" months before he was finished with the mammoth task of preparing more than 80 minutes of musical sequences and the complete underscore for Disney's "The Happiest Millionaire," his first motion picture assignment.

Before joining Disney Studios, Elliott served as arranger-conductor for the "Andy Williams" and "Judy Garland" television shows, and on four Kapp and Capitol record albums. He has also worked on such Broadway musicals as "Mr. President," "Fiorello," "Tenderloin," and "She Loves Me."

After completing the musical tracks for "Family Band," Elliott rested precisely overnight before flying to New York to take complete charge of the music for a TV adaptation of "Kiss Me Kate" with Robert Goulet.

And in the wings of the "Kate" stage waits no less than two more television specials and one picture offer for Elliott to handle in his spare time.

In color by Technicolor, "The One and Only, Genuine, Original Family Band" stars Walter Brennan, Buddy Ebsen, Lesley Ann Warren, John Davidson, Janet Blair and Kurt Russell. It opens Thursday at the Jet.

FAST-TALKING NO-GOODNIK
Jamie glibly clips his mother for money

Graham Film To Open Thursday At Cinema

"Two A Penny" a modern story with a decidedly different love experience and beamed to young people, opens Thursday at the Cinema in College Park Shopping Center for a six-day run.

This World Wide production, filmed in color amidst some striking London scenes, is being sponsored here by a group of Big Spring laymen and with the support of most churches. Tickets are being offered through them, or may be had by calling in advance to 263-1417 to Mrs. Charles Ray. Tickets purchased at the door, as space is available, will cost 25 cents more (or $1.25).

"Two A Penny" is the story of Carol Turner (played by Ann Holloway) and her love for Jamie Hopkins (played by the top pop singer Cliff Richard), an apostle of the fast buck any way you can get it. Carol is searching for something more meaningful than whatever comes along, and by accident she comes in possession of tickets to one of Billy Graham's crusades in London's Earls Court arena. She induces Jamie to go. She decides to try to let Christ rule in her life, but Jamie's cynicism is only heightened.

Right off, her decision is misunderstood by Jamie and by her landlady, who ousts her.

from her apartment. She is confronted with the problem of whether her love for God means a decision against Jamie, whom she loves. This is one of the problems the film seeks to work out, avoiding preaching and the temptation to tie it all in a neat package. In the end Jamie is left thinking, and with a decision to make... one that only he can make.

Miss Holloway (niece of Stanley Holloway of "My Fair Lady" fame) plays her part in a natural, un-Hollywood approach that is refreshingly honest. Cliff Richard makes Jamie seem a loveable, yet loathsome and self-centered character. A large crowd of students and adults who saw the production here gave it an enthusiastic reception.

Comedy Has Andy As Film Minister

One of TV's most famous modern-day sheriffs having completed a highly successful eight years in a program named for him, Andy Griffith comes to the big screen in a comedy in Technicolor, "Angel In My Pocket." The fun-fest is appearing now at the Ritz Theatre. Co-starring are Jerry Van Dyke, Kay Medford, Henry Jones, Lee Meriwether, Edgar Buchanan and Gary Collins.

LEE MERIWETHER

Tailored to fit him, Griffith plays the role of an ex-Marine brick-yard worker, who is the head of a family of assorted characters. He has just completed seminary studies and been ordained. "Angel In My Pocket" is the story of his ministry to a church in a small mid-western town.

In a way, it's an easy role for Griffith. As the former TV star points out, "I nearly became a minister in reality, instead of just playing one in a motion picture. I studied for the ministry back in North Carolina before I got started in show business."

Jerry Van Dyke drops the "nice-guy-next-door" characterization he has always had on the screen or television to play a pampered mama's boy. Griffith's shiftless, sponging brother-in-law. It's more than a change of pace; it's a complete transformation. Television viewers who know Jerry as a stylishly dressed, clean-cut type will have difficulty recognizing him in the unusual role.

Former Miss America Miss Meriwether, in the role of Griffith's wife, also has a change of pace. She is seen in most of the picture padded out by the wardrobe department to show late pregnancy. And most of the time the beauty contest winner is dressed in inexpensive maternity clothes.

Last Week To See Junior College Exhibit

By WINNIE UNGER
This is the last week you can visit the traveling art show displayed in Howard County Junior College Library. The exhibit is a collection of prize-winning works from a West Texas Art Association exhibit, sent on circuit by the Texas Fine Arts Association headquartered in Austin. The library is open 9 weekdays, but closes at 6 p.m. on Fridays.

Avery Falkner Jr. has received an invitation from the Krannert Art Museum on the University of Illinois campus (Champaign, Ill.) to show his sculpture, "Brand," in the Contemporary American Painting and Sculpture Exhibition beginning there March 1. The sculpture, consisting of Fiberglas on a plywood framework, was on display at the Carl Van der Voort Gallery in San Francisco when scouts from the Krannert Art Museum approved it.

Mrs. Dorothy Fidler of Kermit took the purchase prize of $500 with an oil painting, "The Chisos," in the first West Texas Chamber of Commerce art show in Snyder last week. About two dozen of the top winners will go on tour and the WTCO office in Abilene is booking the traveling exhibit for one-week showings. Locations and times of the traveling exhibition will be announced.

ABILENE — "Where's Charley?" a comedy-musical by Frank Lesser and George Abbott, will be presented Feb. 27, 28 and March 1 by the Hardin-Simmons University Theatre and Music Department. A 29-voice chorus utilized in the production includes Ken Nance, Albuquerque, formerly of Big Spring, and Woody Wood, Coahoma.

Things will be lively at the regional junior college basketball tournament here March 6-7-8, for the Howard County Junior College stage band, under the direction of John Stanley, will furnish music for the three-day affair.

SAN ANTONIO — The Institute of Texan Cultures will reopen March 2, marking the beginning of the permanent operation for which the facility was created.

MIDLAND — This is the final week of the Midland Community Theatre's "Oliver!" The play opens Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 8 p.m., Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. Call MU 2-7976 for reservations.

Newman Favors Good Scripts

"Give an actor a good script and he'll move the world," claims Paul Newman, star of "Cool Hand Luke." "Unfortunately, good scripts are scarce," he adds. "Great ones only come along when there are widespread social upheavals, like the depression in the 1930's and the war in the 1940's."

Nonetheless, Newman does find exceptional scripts that give him complex men of fierce individuality to portray — such as "Hud," "Harper" and "The Hustler." Now, Newman plays another singular man in his latest motion picture, "Cool Hand Luke." The release, filmed in Panavision and Technicolor, opens tonight at the Jet Theater. In the title role, Newman portrays an eternal rebel, an independent loner who is disdainful of the society that has imprisoned him on a Southern chain-gang.

"It's the best script I've read in years," Newman flatly states. "Luke is detached and indifferent, but he can't beat the system he scoffs at."

The screenplay, based on the explosive novel of the same title, rings with authenticity.

Newman's co-stars in the Men In Service

Johnny Hines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Hines, Westbrook, is at Fort Bliss undergoing eight-week Army basic training. He enlisted in Amarillo Jan. 31. Hines is a 1967 graduate of Westbrook High School. He attended Texas Tech.

Mrs. Myrtle Woods, 307 San Jacinto, has received word that her grandson, Spec. 5 Billy Young, has received the Air Medal for meritorious service in connection with military operations against a hostile enemy force in Vietnam. He is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Lewis, Fort Worth, and E. E. Young, Ranger.

Spec. Young has been stationed with Co. C, 15th TC Battalion, since Aug. 31, 1968, and has served from the DMZ near Hue to Saigon and the Mekong Delta. He also recently received the Army Commendation Medal.

M. Sgt. Donald L. Bahr, whose wife, Betty, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bradberry, Colorado City, has been graduated from the U.S. Air Force Noncommissioned Officer Academy at Kirtland AFB, N.M. He received advanced military leadership and management training, and is a physiological training superintendent.

U.S. Air Force Airman 1C Alton L. Hillger, formerly of Garden City, participated in the massive NATO training exercise just concluded in West Germany. A jet aircraft mechanic, he supported F-4 Phantom fighter-bombers from Holloman AFB, N.M., that took part in the largest overseas deployment of tactical aircraft for a training exercise in USAF history.

2nd Lt. Christopher McGlothlin was among the 602 graduates of the 75th class of Air Force officer trainees who received their commissions at Lackland AFB's Military Training Center recently. He is the son of Col. and Mrs. William C. McGlothlin, commander of the 3560th Pilot Training Wing at Webb AFB. He is scheduled to enter pilot training at Laughlin AFB.

The 22-year-old lieutenant spent 12 weeks in training at Lackland. Upon completion of the military indoctrination course, selected college graduates receive a commission in the U.S. Air Force. The USAF Officer Training School, with the graduation of 69-05, has produced some 37,000 Air Force officers.

Lt. McGlothlin is a graduate of Phillips Academy at Andover, Mass. He received his bachelor of arts degree with a major in communications from Stanford University. Later he attended graduate schools at both the University of California at Los Angeles and the University of Southern California.

Cpl. Joe Garcia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Garcia, 811 N. Goliad, has returned from a year's service in Vietnam as a 175mm. gunner with the Army's B Battery, 614th Field Artillery. Cpl. Garcia attended Big Spring High School and worked at the school cafeteria before entering service Sept. 13, 1967. His basic training came at Ft. Polk, La., and his advanced training at Fort Sill, Okla., where he will go after his present 30-day leave. He left for Vietnam Feb. 27, 1968, and was stationed near Pleiku.

ST. LAWRENCE MARINE IS HONOR RECRUIT
PFC Wayne Halfman being congratulated by platoon commander

Wayne Halfman, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Halfman, St. Lawrence, has graduated with high honors at the San Diego Marine Base and has been promoted to private first class.

Young Halfman, who enlisted in the Marines Nov. 21, will now be sent to Camp Pendleton, Calif. He was born in Rowena and attended school in Garden City where he played football and basketball. He was in Tarleton College when he enlisted in the USMC.

At his Marine graduation Feb. 11, Halfman was named platoon honor man — top individual recruit. He was presented with a full dress Marine blue uniform by a service magazine and was elevated to private first class. He was in the top 10 per cent of his organization and in a letter to his parents, his commander said that Wayne's achievement was outstanding.

Wayne has an 18-year-old brother, Robert, who is in Tarleton College, and a sister, Judy Ann, 16, who is in Garden City schools.

Charles Perry Honored As Engineer Of Year

The 1968 Engineer of the Year for the Permian Basin Chapter of the Texas Society of Professional Engineers is a man with civic accomplishments to match an array of professional achievements.

He is Charles R. Perry, Odessa, president of Portable Theatres, Inc., an oil and gas well treating service.

Perry is a product of the area which honored him Saturday evening at the chapter's annual banquet held at the Odessa Country Club. He graduated from high school in Odessa in 1947, then returned to his home city in 1956 to carve out a new career. He is a brother of Ken Perry, Big Spring, Cosden Oil and Chemical vice president.

After graduation from the University of Oklahoma with a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering in 1951, he went to work with Union Carbide Corporation at Texas City as a process development engineer, then as production supervisor and assistant department head in various process units making plastics. Military service interrupted this association but not his quest for new methods. While stationed at Fitzsimmon General Hospital in Denver, Colo., he completed a research project utilizing an old but little used drug which contributed to the cure of a score of patients who had not responded to normal methods of treatment of tuberculosis.

Perry returned to Odessa on separation from service in 1956 and joined Sival's Tanks, Inc., serving as research engineer, manager of sales, a director and vice president of sales. He was granted several patents and published numerous technical bulletins on treating and storage of oil and gas.

In 1967 he started in business for himself with founding of Portable Theatres. Concerned originally with treating, the business now has expanded to include supplying of equipment to oil, gas, and petro chemical industries.

While in college, he was picked in the top 10 of his freshman and senior classes, headed his engineering fraternity and the student chemical engineering chapter.

Perry has served as a deacon and elder as well as Sunday School teacher, of the St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Odessa. He has headed committees on industrial development, and education for the Odessa Chamber of Commerce, and served as a director. Elected to the board of regents of Odessa College in 1966, he organized and spearheaded a successful bond election which resulted in establishment of an area vocational school.

He is married and father of three children.

Kasch Wins Big Contract

Kasch Brothers, Inc. of Big Spring received a contract Saturday for construction of a $1,204,500 men's health and physical education building at Tarleton State.

The Texas A&M System board of directors made the formal award Saturday morning. Kasch Bros. indicated that the firm was ready to start as soon as a work order is issued for the project.

The building will consist of a large gymnasium, with some fold-down seats, plus auxiliary facilities for a health as well as physical education program.

The board also approved increases in room and board rates at Tarleton State to offset additional costs resulting from the new minimum age law and other operating expenses. The raise approximates five to 10 per cent for rooms, and about 10 per cent for food.
