

WAGGONER CARR

YOUTH AWARD

Waggoner Carr Will Speak To Nominees

High school students in Howard County who are nominated for the 1969 Youth Achievement Award — and if past years are an indication there will be more than two-score of them — have an opportunity to hear one of the outstanding public figures in Texas at the special awards banquet.

Speaker for this occasion, to be held at the Cosden Country Club April 18, will be Waggoner Carr, former attorney general of Texas and a leader in programs to interest youth in law observance and good citizenship.

HONORED TO SPEAK

Carr this week said he is honored to have the opportunity to address a select group of Howard County young people.

All senior or junior boys and girls in Big Spring, Coahoma and Forsan High Schools, who are nominated for the major award, will be guests at the dinner, along with their dates and their parents. Each will receive a special gift from Zale's Jewelers, who sponsor the event in cooperation with The Herald.

There will be a winner chosen this year from each of the three schools — Big Spring, Coahoma and Forsan. Each is to receive a large trophy and an engraved watch.

PUBLIC RECOGNITION

The program is designed to give public recognition to young people who express an awareness of civic responsibility, and do outstanding work in their school, church, extra-curricular and community affairs, including related volunteer activities.

Anyone can make a nomination — teachers, parents, pastors, neighbors, classmates. It is stipulated that a special nomination form appearing in The Herald (today on Page 7-A) be used, but supplementary material may be attached.

The nomination period will expire in just a little more than a week, so citizens are urged to submit names now, and have a hand in honoring outstanding young people.

A panel of nine judges from the three communities involved will select the three winners.

NOMINATED

Through Saturday, these had been nominated: Sharon Swim, Big Spring; Randy Rister, Forsan; Marva Elizabeth Foster, Big Spring; Rodney Wall, Coahoma; Rocky Lee Wooley, Big Spring; Susan Anne Cape, Big Spring; and Joe David Moss, Big Spring.

Big Spring Week

. . . with Joe Pickle

Three gatherings brought several hundred delegates to our city this weekend. For the first time in years Big Spring hosted the (33rd) annual meeting of the Western District of Texas Federated Women's Clubs. Webb AFB, and the community, had the honor of being the host for the first Junior Officers Council Conference of the Air Training Command. The District IV meeting of the Texas State Association of Letter Carriers drew around 150.

Webb AFB's new hospital seems definitely assured now. Kasch Bros. of Big Spring submitted the low bid of $3,969,000 for constructing identical facilities at Webb and at Reese in Lubbock, and this was slightly under government estimates for

Athlete Dies In Stabbing, Fires Started

PRAIRIE VIEW, Tex. (AP) — A shoving contest in the Prairie View A&M College cafeteria resulted 10 days later in the fatal stabbing Saturday of a football player and firing of four frame buildings on the campus.

The situation grew calm, however, in the early morning hours.

Killed was Wesley Davidson, 20, of Bay City, Tex., an athlete at the all-Negro school 46 miles northwest of Houston.

Herbert Lee Thompson, 26, of Beaumont, a sophomore and Vietnam veteran, was charged with murder.

A warrant for Thompson's arrest was issued by Justice of the Peace J.S. Greathouse of Hempstead.

Aroused by the slaying of their fellow athlete, about a dozen students burned or partly burned four small buildings, watched by about 200 classmates, said Dr. A. I. Thomas, president of the school.

They "were emotional about one of their teammates being killed," said Dr. Thomas. He added, "The general climate around here is not typical for an outbreak of any sort."

Quakes Kill 20, Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Two earthquakes struck the Danakil depression of north-eastern Ethiopia Saturday, killing 20 persons, injuring more than 150 and leaving 3,000 homeless, the Ethiopian news agency reported.

The quake centered near the town of Serdo, which was hard hit. Serdo is about 155 miles south of the sea port of Assab and 400 miles northeast of Addis Ababa.

The main highway between Assab and Addis Ababa was cut and telephone communications were destroyed.

Some Offices To Close

Federal facilities in Big Spring generally will halt activities Monday as the city joins the rest of the nation in paying tribute to the memory of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Civilian and military personnel at Webb will not work Monday. The Veterans Hospital will retain an emergency crew, but otherwise observe the day of mourning. Postmaster Frank Hardesty said the post office will be closed and no deliveries will be made Monday. General office routine will be observed.

Other offices and financial institutions will be operating. These include the public schools and Howard County Junior College, the banks and the savings and loan associations. City and county offices also will be open Monday.

In tribute to the memory of the soldier-statesman, flags will fly at half-mast throughout the city the next 28 days.

Marker For Historic Oil Well To Be Unveiled Today

November 9, 1925, brought an event which was to change the course of economic history for Howard County, and indeed, all of the Permian Basin area.

It was the date that Fred Hyer's No. 1 H. R. Clay pumped oil to indicate the vast crude reserves in the Howard-Glasscock field. This development in the later '20s subsequently led to vast exploration throughout West Texas.

Today one of the state's official historical markers will be unveiled near the site of the Fred Hyer discovery well. It actually is located, for public convenience, on US 87 south, at the intersection of FM 521. This is a short distance south of the major turnoff to Forsan.

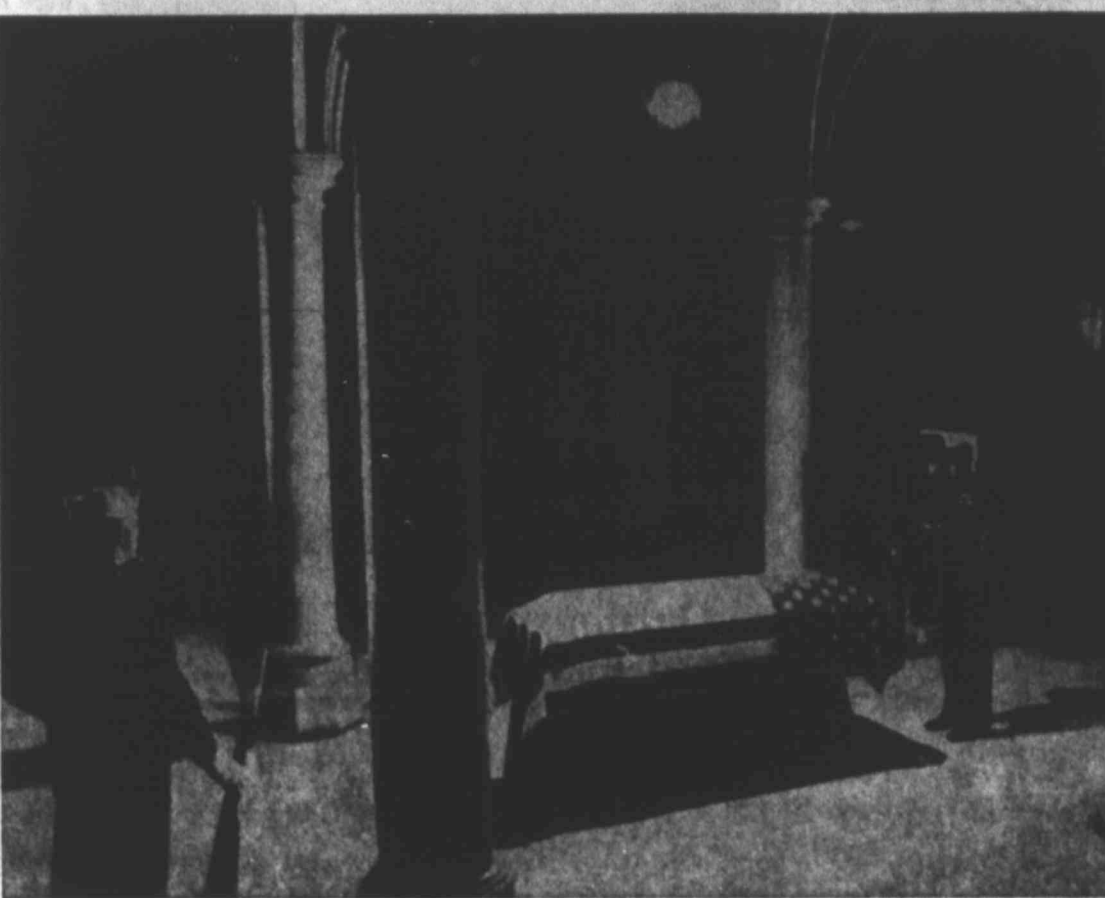

Brief ceremonies for public presentation of the marker will be at 2 p.m., and the public is invited to attend. The program is sponsored by the Howard County Historical Survey Committee.

Joe Pickle will be master of ceremonies, and brief remarks will be made by Judge Lee Porter, of Howard County, and Judge Bryant A. Harris, of Glasscock County.

A recounting of events leading to the drilling of the discovery well will be given by Reginald Hyer, grandson of the late oil operator, and Mrs. Jewel Hyer has been asked to unveil the marker. Prayers will be given by the Rev. William Meagher of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Church.

Texans Mourn, Recall Ike Was A Native Son

By The Associated Press

Texas mourned, a little more than other states, if possible, as the Army made preparations Sunday for the burial Monday of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. For he was a native son.

Almost everyone held some personal memory of Ike, whether it was merely seeing his face flash past during a campaign trip or working with him day and night during World War II when he was commander of all the Allies in Europe and Africa. Like Mrs. Lulu Wright of San Antonio who recalls that as a lieutenant at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio, Eisenhower was such a fervent suitor that Mamie's family almost went mad, and that Mamie once walked guard with Ike "high heels and all."

Or Bill Rives of the Denton Record-Chronicle who dug into old records when in San Antonio to find that Ike moon-lighted as a college coach and recruited so intensely that he almost forced a campus youth onto the football team—until he found the youth was a faculty member.

And a retired general at San Antonio, William H. Simpson, recalling how the highest military man in the West took a pratt fall into the mud on the western front when he went into the combat lines to shake hands with Simpson's troops.

Another Texas native son who became President, Lyndon B. Johnson, prepared at Austin to attend the Eisenhower funeral in Kansas.

Shortly after news of the former President's death Friday in Washington, official and unofficial mourning began in Texas.

Minutes after Eisenhower succumbed, Mayor Joe Gay of Denison and a committee placed a wreath at Eisenhower's birthplace in that North Central Texas City.

Denison will hold memorial services Sunday at 4:30 p.m. in Eisenhower Auditorium which Ike dedicated.

Eisenhower was taken by his parents to Kansas a year after his birth.

But fresh out of West Point, he was assigned to Ft. Sam Houston. He met Mamie there, and was stationed in San Antonio when he received his first general's star and was rushed to Washington for grooming as head of the Allied forces in Europe and Africa.

Gov. Preston Smith declared Monday an official day of mourning for the state. State offices, draft boards, many banks, federal offices, and market offices will close.

Some private events were cancelled or postponed. Among those cancelled was a dance scheduled for Saturday night at Houston marking the visit of two French warships and French Ambassador Charles Lucet.

The Texas Legislature will convene to pass a memorial resolution and neither it nor any of its committees will transact further business Monday.

Roman Catholic Bishop Stephen A. Leven of the San Antonio archdiocese delivered a eulogy Saturday at the opening of the season for HemisFair Plaza.

Most of the military observed a day of non-duty at the many Texas posts.

And from Paris, Tex., came an intercontinental message from an amateur radio fan.

Paul Daniels of Paris contacted Arnold vander Grift of Leyden, The Netherlands, and the Hollander told Daniels, "About the death of Ike, so sorry for our liberator and his family and the American people. So we will pray for him and his family these days."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The knell of a mighty cathedral bell saddened the Washington spring-time Saturday. The three-day state funeral of Dwight David Eisenhower had begun.

With crisp military precision and a minimum of ceremony, the body of the 34th president of the United States was received into the stately National Cathedral.

There, in the secluded Bethlehem Chapel, the flag-throated coffin will rest, to be viewed by thousands of mourners, until Sunday afternoon.

Eleven enlisted men bore the body in slow cadence from a midnight-blue hearse through a portal with the carved inscription "The Way of Peace."

Composed, tearless, the general's widow and companion of more than half a century, Mamie, stood erect at the arm of her son, John Eisenhower. A veil covered her face. Once, her son patted her black-gloved hand. As always, she wore pearls.

Before her stood an honor guard that included some of the famed warriors of modern military history. The late president's West Point classmate, Gen. Omar Bradley, was there with Adm. Arthur W. Radford, Gen. Lauris Norstad, other military leaders, the two surviving Eisenhower brothers, and his enlisted aide, an Army sergeant.

Admitted In Small Groups

About 600 persons stood quietly by to await the end of the private 20-minute service. The chapel doors were opened shortly after noon, when the public—many of them tourists—was admitted in small groups.

An hour later, the crowd had swelled to about 2,000.

Only the family, honor guard, and pallbearers were present for the brief service in which the cathedral received the body.

The Rev. Francis B. Sayre, dean of the cathedral and grandson of President Woodrow Wilson, whose body lies in a nearby crypt, said a prayer he wrote especially for Gen. Eisenhower.

"Accept, O Lord, the love and respect in the hearts of all those who come to this place, comforting their sorrow and blessing their thanksgiving.

"Gather them anew to the fellowship of this nation, that our trust may ever be in Thee, and our strength founded upon Thy glory, Cherish, Lord, Thy people, and keep them this day and ever more."

Two other prayers were read from the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer.

When it was over, the family walked from the chapel and entered limousines—Mrs. Eisenhower in a car with a license plate bearing the initials DDE —for undisclosed locations.

First In Line

First in line when the doors were opened to the public was an Army widow, Mrs. Ray Coleman, whose husband had been a colonel, said she was 78—"as old as Ike."

Entering the austere chamber, mourners lining behind a felt rope saw the bier, lying between rows of 10 pillars, surrounded by an honor guard representing each of the five services.

The five enlisted men in dress uniform, standing guard around the closed coffin in half-hour shifts, remained at attention.

The relatively quiet beginning to three days of funeral pageantry went off with military efficiency the general would have admired. In the language of the Military District of Washington's three-year-old funeral plan, this was "D plus 1." (D is for demise.)

Friday, when he died at 12:25 p.m., was termed D-Day—just like the sixth day of June, 1944, when Eisenhower thrust a mighty Allied force across the English Channel onto the European continent, marking the beginning of the end of World War II.

As the humble said farewell in the little chapel, the mighty of the world prepared to pay their own tribute by attending the principal funeral service Monday.

That will be in the main cathedral. The body will be returned there after lying in state in the Capitol Rotunda Sunday, following a grand procession along Constitution Avenue.

Fourth Time In 5 Years

For the fourth time in five years a riderless horse in funeral trappings, boots reversed in the saddle, will follow an artillery caisson bearing a dean American to Capitol Hill.

French President Charles de Gaulle, a comrade in arms to Eisenhower during the war, heads the list of foreign dignitaries who will attend. It will be his first visit to the United States since November, 1963, when he came for the funeral of President John F. Kennedy.

The procession will take place amidst the flourishes of martial music, the sonorous sound of muffled drums.

After the Monday afternoon service, the body will be placed aboard a special 12-car train at Union Station for the 30-hour journey west to the boyhood home and Eisenhower Center at Abilene, Kan.

Eisenhower will be buried Wednesday in the chapel of the library near his son, Doud, who died in childhood.

As the ceremonies began Saturday, President Nixon retained in seclusion at Camp David, Md., preparing the eulogy he will deliver Sunday in the Capitol Rotunda.

TUESDAY ELECTION Voters To Name Two Commissioners

Qualified voters in the City of Big Spring go to the polls Tuesday to name two members of the City Commission.

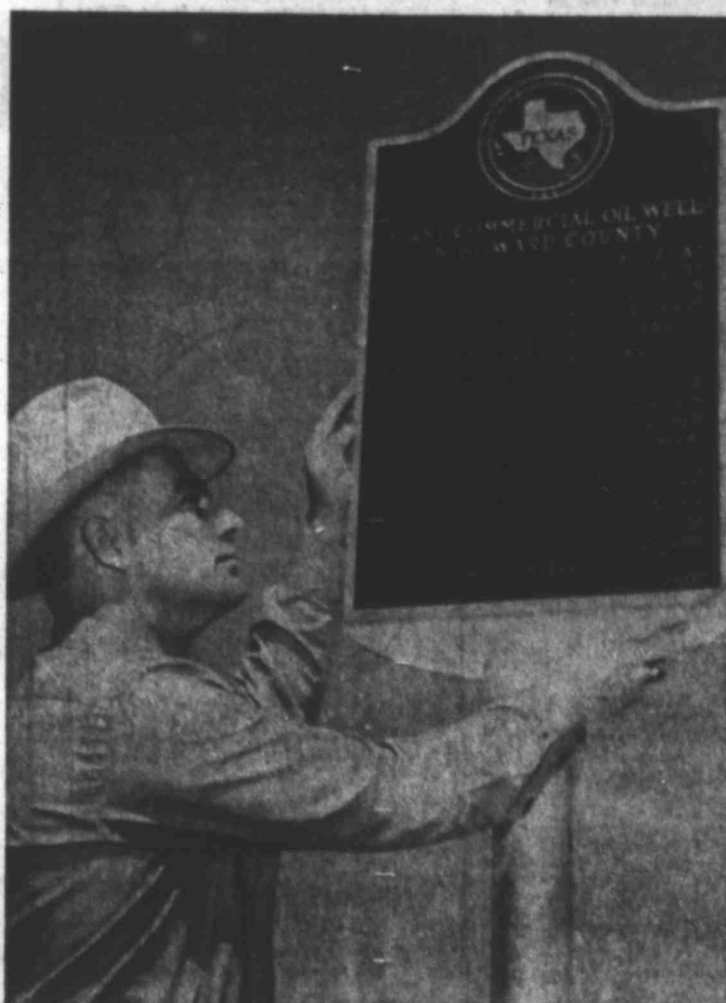

There are four candidates for the two seats: George Zachariah and Garner McAdams, both seeking re-election; and Eddie Acrt and Blas Bailon.

There will be five polling places, with voting from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Citizens may vote at any of these places:

Central Fire Station, W. J. Sheppard, judge; 19th and Main Fire Station, L. R. Mumdt, judge; 11th and Birdwell Fire Station, Lawrence Robinson, judge; Northside Fire Station, N. Main and 8th, C. R. McClenny, judge; Fire Station on Air Base Road, Mrs. Fred Mays, judge.

A fairly good turnout of voters is anticipated, on the basis of absentee ballots, which numbered 28 when the deadline passed Friday evening. However, there has not been much open campaigning, and little expression of public interest.

Zachariah, purchasing officer for Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, is a veteran on the commission; McAdams, operator of livestock, farming and oil interest, is serving his first term; Acrt operates a finance service, and Bailon, a former policeman, operates a tavern.

Holy Week Starts Today, Sunrise Easter Rites Set

Today marks the start of Holy Week, which reaches its climax next Sunday — Easter and the commemoration of Christ's resurrection.

And traditionally, Big Springers by the hundreds will gather at sunrise in the City Park amphitheatre for a special Easter worship.

The hour this year is 6:29 a.m.

Many groups in the community cooperate in this annual affair, sponsored by the Big Spring Pastors' Association which uses the offering to help finance the Bible course in the high school.

This year, all the city's florists are working together to arrange special decorations. The high school and Howard County Junior College will have representation in a combined choir and an ensemble from the band. In addition, an HCJC speech student, John Johansen, will read the Scripture.

Chaplain Robert Deming, president of the Pastors' Association who will be in charge of the service, has announced that it will be held to 45 minutes.

The Easter message will be delivered by Dr. P. D. (Dick) O'Brien, now of Houston and for nearly 20 years pastor of the First Baptist Church here. Local pastors will offer prayers, and Mrs. H. M. Jarrett will be organ accompanist for two familiar congregational hymns.

The City of Big Spring is assisting in preparation of the amphitheatre, handling lighting and sound and providing traffic and parking directions. White Music Company is providing an organ, to be transported by Neel's Transfer and Storage.

Dr. Arja To Be Transferred

Dr. A. T. Arja, staff surgeon at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, is transferring to the VA Hospital, Coatesville, Pa., a 1,602 bed psychiatric hospital, where he will also serve as staff surgeon.

A native of Damascus, Syria, and a graduate of the University of Damascus, Dr. Arja will be making his third residence in Pennsylvania. Shortly after coming to the U.S. in 1955, he did post graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. Later he completed a portion of his surgical residency at the Sacred Heart Hospital in Allentown.

Dr. Arja came to Big Spring March, 1968, from private practice in Utica, N.Y. He is licensed to practice in Pennsylvania and New York and holds membership in the Lehigh Valley and Onondaga County Medical Societies of those states. He is also licensed in Syria and Lebanon and is a member of the Medical Society of Damascus and Beirut. Dr. Arja, his wife, the former Dagnar Gronau of West Berlin, Germany, and his children, Tarek, Sabrina and Karim, plan to leave Big Spring this week.

Hospital Slates Dental Seminar

A unique seminar on dentistry and mental health is scheduled for April 12 at the Big Spring State Hospital, and invitations have been sent to hundreds of dentists throughout the West Texas area served by the hospital.

The seminar, sponsored jointly by the hospital and the Permian Basin Dental Society will start at 9 a.m. and last most of the day, with lunch being served at the hospital.

It is to be conducted by Richard O. Sword, M.D., D.D.S. of Kansas City, a recognized expert in the field of behavioral science, whose background includes practice of general dentistry, general medical training and special study in psychiatry. He now practices in clinical psychiatry, and is active in consultation and education.

Said Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent of the hospital: "We feel that a man with the qualifications of Dr. Sword can bring much information on the relationship of dentistry and psychiatry, and are looking forward to a splendid program to assist many of our dentist guests. We hope they will take advantage of this distinctive seminar."

Arrangements for the seminar are being handled by Dr. W.

B. Hardy, director of dental services at the hospital. He is inviting visitors to inspect dental facilities while they are on the hospital campus.

Rotary To Hear Program On Experiment Station

Dr. Gerald Thomas, dean of the school of agriculture at Texas Tech, will head a program on the Big Spring Experiment Station at a noon meeting of the Rotary Club April 8 in the Settles Hotel.

Dr. Bill Fryrear, supervisor of the Big Spring station, said the program is an effort to inform local businessmen of the work being done at the station, and how the research program here could be expanded with help from the public. Members of all other service clubs in Big Spring are invited, he said.

The Rotary Club meeting will be the highlight of an entire day of reviewing the Big Spring Experiment Station's research program by about 10 members of the Texas Tech agricultural department and members of the Agricultural Research Service. Dr. Thomas will speak on "Can Agriculture Production Keep Up With the Population Growth?" and he also will tell how the research center here complements the work of the International Center for Arid and Semi-Arid Land Studies (ICASALS) at Texas Tech.

Also on the program is Dr. J. R. Johnston, Amarillo, chief of the South Plains Branch, ARS, who will give a history of the Big Spring Experiment Station and the need for an expanded research program for sandy soils. Dale King, Anson, field representative for Cong. Omar Burleson, will speak on the feasibility of locating a Sandayland Research Center at Big Spring.

The day at the center will begin with a conference by the scientists on past research accomplishments, including studies on the influence of cotton gin trash on moisture storage in sandy soils, the Big Spring grass nursery, and control of wind erosion and influence of soil compaction on grass production.

Following the Rotary Club meeting, the group will return to the station for a tour of facilities. Discussions will be held of planned studies of cropping systems, grass seeds and minimum tillage in dryland cotton.

Honor IP Is Selected

Capt. Gary W. Hall, "E" Flight, has been named instructor pilot of the month for March by the 3560th Pilot Training Squadron at Webb AFB.

Although he has not been instructing long, he has learned fast and has been chosen for checkout as a Senior Runway Supervisory Unit (RSU) Controller. A recent group of graduating pilots mentioned Capt. Hall throughout their course critiques, calling him "highly effective," "truly outstanding," and "the best instructor at Webb."

In addition to his instructional duties, Capt. Hall serves as standardization-evaluation officer for his flight and has performed that duty in an "exemplary manner," according to Lt. Col. James J. Malone, squadron commander. The procedures guide which Capt. Hall devised and published has assisted the students in mastering the information contained in the T-38 Dash One flight manual. He is also assistant grade book officer for his flight and squadron zero defects officer.

Cosden Hikes Price Of Crude Again

For the second time within a fortnight, Cosden Oil and Chemical Company announced a price increase Saturday for West Texas sour crude oil.

The latest five cents per barrel will be added to another five-cent hike effective March 15. The latest boost is effective April 1, and it covers about 36,000 barrels per day of this type of oil that Cosden purchases.

The new adjustment will make a top price of $3.13 per barrel for 40-gravity sour crude, and a differential of two cents a barrel is subtracted for each degree of decline in gravity to 31, where the differential then becomes three cents a barrel.

Intermediate crudes are not affected by the latest quotation. While both sour and intermediate crudes were affected in the March 15 postings, intermediate crudes received a five-cent boost July 1, 1968, when sour crude prices were not affected.

There is still some variance in oil prices posted by major purchasers. The range in West Texas is now from $3.10 to $3.20 and for intermediates $3.26 to $3.36.

Jack Buchanan, Dr. Paul Koshi, Charles Wilson and Paul Gross represented the Howard County Livestock Committee at a recent meeting in Lubbock on brush control.

They attended the half-day session to become more familiar with the new Brush Control and Range Improvement Association which has been formed to fight brush on a statewide level. Brush now infests more than 82 per cent of the state's rangeland. The new brush fighting group has the blessing and organizational help from the Texas Farm Bureau, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, Texas Farmers Union and Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, as well as hundreds of farmers and ranchers. Director of the association's District 2, which comprised 20 South Plains counties, is W. J. (Dub) Waldrip, manager of the Spade Ranch at Colorado City. Waldrip said the new brush control movement is geared after the highly successful Screwworm Eradication Program.

More Than 225 Workers Clean Up 'Spring' Area

More than 225 willing workers showed up Saturday morning to help clear and clean the site of the historic "big spring" in City Park, a project sponsored by the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs.

Walk paths planned by the city parks and recreation department were cleaned and the trash carried away. The 40 inch paths later will be lined with rocks and covered with a white sand-like material which hardens after it is exposed to the weather.

One of the paths was completed from the park road into the spring site for a distance of about 200 feet, by a Boy Scout troop. The rest of the work on the paths through the 16-acre site will be done by city work crews later as their work schedule permits.

"We expected some people but not as many as showed up," said Mrs. J. E. Hogan. "The people who came, worked. No one came out and just stood around and watched." There were all varieties of work tools brought to the work project, she said.

Members of the garden clubs served coffee, doughnuts and Cokes to the workers. "We served gallons of the coffee and 240 doughnuts," Mrs. Hogan said. "The Cokes didn't go over too well," she said, as the temperature dropped into the 50's Saturday morning. "I picked up old metal and tin cans," said nine-year-old Mark Powell. He was visiting his grandparents for the weekend and came out to the work project.

One couple from Webb AFB, who have been in Big Spring less than three months, came out to help. Several Boy Scout troops and two Campfire Girls troops worked. The Big Spring Jaycee-Ettes planted a desert willow tree near the spring site. Four concrete benches were put in place along the walk paths, by the garden club. Six more will be located later. One of the workers at the project was retired railroad man R. L. Holley, who has lived here since 1924. "We had to call him in for coffee. He was a real worker," Mrs. Hogan said. Mrs. Hogan said that most of the clearing was accomplished and there are no plans to hold another work day.

HHH, Teddy Stumping For Wisconsin Seat

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Democratic leaders, headed by former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., are waging an all-out battle in Wisconsin to win the House seat held by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird for 16 years.

Humphrey has visited the state to stump for David Obey, 30, assistant Democratic minority leader in the State Assembly. Kennedy has cut television and radio tapes on Obey's behalf.

Republicans, determined to hold the seat which has been theirs for more than a quarter century, have pinned their hopes on State Sen. Walter John Chilsen, a former newspaperman and a staunch Laird supporter.

both from Wausau, are the survivors of a seven-way primary race held earlier this month for Tuesday's special election. Laird had just been re-elected by his customary towering majority to a ninth consecutive term when he accepted the Nixon Cabinet post. The sprawling, 15-county 7th District always went solidly for Laird. The GOP has held the seat since the LaFollette Progressive era ended in 1938.

Laird had said he would remain aloof from the election of his successor and, except for Thursday's announcement that he had voted for Chilsen by absentee ballot, he has done so.

Chilsen, 45, received most of his support from within the district. He also was helped by appearances by Reps. William Steiger, Alvin O'Konski and Glenn Davis, all R-Wis. Humphrey appeared last weekend with Obey at a fundraising dinner that reportedly netted more than $10,000. Kennedy did not visit the state, but made television and radio tapes, so did Sens. Gaylord Nelson and William Proxmire, both D-Wis., who campaigned extensively for Obey.

Chilsen had stated early in his campaign he would bring in no out of state help. Obey received the endorsement of organized labor and both men are vying for the farm vote in the largely rural district, which extends from the upper Michigan border to scenic Wisconsin Dells in south-central Wisconsin.

One of Chilsen's chief allies has been Hyde Murray, who lost to Chilsen in the primary. Murray is the son of Laird's immediate predecessor, the late Reid F. Murray, who held the district's seat from 1935 until Laird took it in 1952. Chilsen has called the election a "one issue campaign." The main thing, he said, was to determine "who can win and hold this seat for the Nixon administration and for Defense Secretary Laird."

DeMolays End Observance

Members of Leon P. Moffett Chapter Order of DeMolay end a week-long observance of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the order today. They plan to attend church services at First Presbyterian Church this morning and a lunch following the services.

The order was founded in Kansas City in 1919 by Frank S. Land. From the original nine members the youth group has grown to more than 3 1/2 million members of 2,500 chapters in 12 countries.

The local DeMolays started the observance Sunday by attending services at St. Mary's Episcopal Church. Monday the order honored parents with public conferring of the title Representative DeMolay to William McDonald and Frank Qualls. Nine recently initiated members received the flower talk.

Tuesday the DeMolays put out flags in front of the downtown businesses. The flags are normally flown by the boys on national holidays, but they selected Tuesday to show that any day is a good day to fly the U.S. flag. Both degrees of the order were conferred Tuesday night on three candidates.

Wednesday afternoon the members washed the model of the Statue of Liberty, which stands in front of the Big Spring City Auditorium.

The DeMolay Degree was reemphasized at the Staked Plains Masonic Lodge in honor of local Master Masons and Big Spring Shrine Association, which sponsors the chapter. A dance was given for the DeMolays and their guests by the Mothers Club Friday night at the Big Spring Country Club.

Saturday morning the gravesite of Leon P. Moffett was cleaned in Coahoma, and a wreath placed at the grave. That afternoon the boys washed windshields of cars parked at Highland South Shopping Center.

Consort Left The Crowd With Mixed Emotions

Paul Winter and his Consort left 'em with mixed emotions in the concluding program of the Big Spring Concert Association at City Auditorium Friday evening.

The aficionados of modern music were no less than wildly enthusiastic. The middle-aged "ins" relished it. The "out" crowd wasn't sure — it was like they used to say about that first love.

There was, however, unanimity on one point — the entire consort, from Paul Winter through the entire group, was made up of superb musicians. Each had the spotlight to show what he could do, and from cello through flute, drums, English horn (the most unobtrusive of the lot) guitar, bass and Winter's saxophone, there was nothing but sheer artistry.

The repertoire, introduced with interesting annotations by Mr. Winter, covered the front from Hungary and Spain to India with stops in South America and the United States. The tempo varied, but for occasional excursions into allegro.

All the soloists got big applause, but the drums (with some acrobatics tossed in as a responsive measure) heated the blood of the audience. The verdict has to be good, however, for Winter and his consort had to answer four curtain calls. —JP

Students Die In Car Mishap
ATHENS, Tex. (AP) — Two Palestine students attending Austin College at Sherman died Friday night in a collision of their automobile and the trailer of a truck semi-trailer about 4.5 miles north of Athens on Texas 19.

State Highway Patrolmen Larry McCaig and Tom Clayton identified the students as Timothy Lynn Jubela, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jubela, and Miss Nancy Diane Presley, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Presley and a niece of Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex.

The officers said they were dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital in Athens. McCaig said the car collided with the trailer of the truck-tractor driven by Everett C. Thuber of Dell City, Okla., and owned by the Eagle Trucking Co. of Kilgore, Tex.

McCaig said Thuber was driving north and made a U-turn to return to Athens and that his tractor became stuck on the shoulder, leaving the trailer across the highway, blocking both lanes of traffic.

The officer said the automobile went underneath the trailer, shearing off the top.

Four Killed In Road Accident

THREE RIVERS, Tex. (AP) — Two cars collided just north of this south Texas town Friday night killing four persons including the wife and two daughters of a McAllen radio executive.

They were Mrs. Janet Jordan Phillips, 30, Julie Phillips, 12, and Jane Phillips, 5.

Jimmy Ray Phillips, 36, president of Radio KRIO in McAllen, was injured critically and reported in poor condition in a Corpus Christi hospital. Phillips was driving.

Killed also was the driver of the second car, William W. Halbert, 18, of McAllen.

Jimmy Ray Phillips Jr., 13, was reported in good condition at Three Rivers, about midway between San Antonio and Corpus Christi.

State police said the Phillips car was moving north on U.S. 281 and that the collision occurred a mile north of here near the right side of the highway shoulder.

Soviets Report

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet newspapers published Saturday very brief reports of the death of former President Dwight Eisenhower without any accompanying comment.

The official Communist party newspaper Pravda put the one-sentence report from Tass, the Soviet news agency on page five, its foreign news page.

THRUSH IS A YEAST INFECTION

Usually Thrush affects the mouth and is sometimes found on other mucous surfaces. It makes the mouth look as though covered with dry curdled milk. This infection needs prompt professional help to prevent recurrence.

If Thrush persists, be suspicious of gum or tooth defects which may harbor the yeast infection. Also check the possibility of having diabetes, for Thrush can be an accompanying symptom.

Junior Officers Discuss Career Improvement

By ED MOSER

An annual Air Training Command Junior Officer Council (ATC-JOC) conference and a similar Air Force-wide conference were two of the 38 recommendations on 15 subjects decided upon by 35 ATC junior officers attending a JOC conference at Webb AFB Friday and Saturday.

The results of the conference will be forwarded to Lt. Gen. Sam Maddux, ATC commander, for consideration.

The conference was held to study and consider problems of junior officers and how they relate to officer retention. Every base in the command sent at least one delegate. According to Webb JOC chairman Capt. Richard Rossmiller, the conference went "better than expected."

DISCUSSIONS

Briefings, panel discussions and seminar sessions highlighted the two-day affair. Topics considered ranged from JOC idea-sharing to prolonged and uncertain tours of duty for instructor pilots.

On the question of JOC idea sharing, the delegates approved of five recommendations. They want a monthly exchange of minutes among JOC councils in the command; one elected officer of each base JOC to identify important items and forward them to command officer career advisors; and that the ATC officer career advisor publish a quarterly report of important items.

Also the delegates want an annual JOC conference and Air Force-wide JOC conference scheduled at the discretion of Air Force authorities.

Delegates made three recommendations on career counseling. Foremost in their minds is a major command equivalent of the current USAF Military Personnel Center Career Development Division. Secondary items are specific guidance and assistance in establishing Career Motivation Programs on each base and that a base career advisor, who is career minded and a field grade officer, be selected.

CENTRAL FILES

Concerning each base, the delegates recommended central files of career motivation information in both the base personnel center and unit headquarters. They also want all officer-non-commissioned officer career advisors to attend formal training courses at Lackland AFB, for career motivation, and that JOCs take active roles in dissemination of career development information.

On technical instructor duty, the delegates listed three recommendations. They requested that each officer, upon completion of a technical school, be given a field assignment; that instructors be limited to a two-year controlled tour-of-duty with a personal option for one more year; and that each instructor, when practical, be allowed to increase his proficiency through on-the-job training in an operational unit.

OFFICER SCHOOL

On the topic of the Squadron Officer School at Maxwell AFB, Ala., these recommendations will be forwarded to Gen. Maddux: present age limit be dropped; a voluntary application procedure be instituted to insure training for potential selectees who meet career status requirements; that ATC explore the feasibility of an on-base, non-resident Squadron Officer School seminar course similar to the program currently used by the Air War College — the course to be established at a selected ATC base.

UPGRADING

The subject of retraining for non-rated officers drew two recommendations: Headquarters USAF should release current policies and procedures for retraining through periodic newsletters to all commands, and also news media like the Airman Magazine and Air Force Times be used to insure the widest coverage of these retraining policies and procedures; and that ATC be encouraged to insure an equitable proportion of each career field to be allowed to retrain, regardless of manning.

Recent Southeast Asia returns and pilot training graduates assigned as instructors have voiced dissatisfaction with prolonged and uncertain tours. To alleviate this problem, the JOC delegates proposed a voluntary upgrading program after two years for T-37 pilots and reassignment of two-year T-41 and T-28 pilots in the training planes of their choice.

The problem of inadequate subsistence pay for bachelors brought a recommendation for raising this allowance. Interim solutions offered included a field mess at each base — possibly in the form of an annex to the airmen's dining hall — and subsidies to officers' clubs to allow mess hall prices for meals.

The conference recommended that officers' selection folders, which are crucial to their promotions, regular commission selections, assignments, etc., be made available for review at an officer's home base once a year for five working days.

ACTIVITIES

Some discussion was given to the scope of JOC activities. Each JOC, it was decided, should have a grievance committee, involve itself more in civic actions, show concern with airmen's problems, and improve communication with the wing commander. Also, JOC should avoid exclusive concern with any one problem area, encourage student participation, recommend choices for the wing commander's selection as Senior Advisor, emphasize pertinent information in the New View Study, and increase communication between JOC representatives and the officers they represent.

One set of recommendations centered on retention of first-term airmen. "Recognizing the airman as an individual is important," the officers said. "As such, he should be entitled to respect."

Suggestions on this topic included: utilizing airmen to better advantage; more individual, personalized attention; orientation rides and trips for airmen; participation in NCO and Airman Advisory Council; initiation of group recreation at the organization level; improvement of living conditions for airmen; and more concentrated staff studies on problems at local levels.

FIRST OF KIND

The conference was the first in the Air Training Command and had been planned for more than a year. Webb was selected as the site of the first conference when base officers who attended a JOC meeting at Randolph AFB, requested that Webb host the first conference.

Besides the delegates who attended the conference, officials from the military personnel center at Randolph AFB, and Headquarters USAF, Washington, D.C., were also present. Brig. Gen. Ernest T. Cragg, ATC deputy chief of staff for Operations, was the guest speaker at a banquet Friday night in the Webb Officers Open Mess. Col. William C. McGlothlin, Webb wing commander, his staff officers and several community representatives attended the banquet.

The delegates, Webb officials and community representatives switched from business to pleasure Saturday night after the conference. Approximately 200 people attended a Texas-style barbecue at Rich Anderson's Muleshoe Ranch. The evening, despite the chilling wind, was highlighted by a mini-rodeo with several local youths, a square dance demonstration by friends of the Andersons' and discussions on

West Texas Hospitality Brings Parley To Close

The grand finale to the two-day command-wide Junior Officer Council Conference at Webb AFB ended with a big display of Texas hospitality, West Texas style.

Approximately 200 — conference delegates, community leaders and Webb officials — attended a Texas barbecue at the Richard Anderson Muleshoe Ranch last night.

The evening included a mini-rodeo by young adults from Western County, a country and western dance with entertainment provided by children of H. C. Gribble, Post, and a cattle ranching discussion by Anderson.

According to Col. William C. McGlothlin, Webb wing commander, the display of Texas hospitality was "typical" of base-community relations.

Delegates who attended the barbecue were overwhelmed by the evening's entertainment. Despite the chilly weather and intermittent winds, guests echoed thankful remarks.

"The rapport in Lubbock is nothing like this. I can't believe that these are 'real people,'" Capt. Carl Franklin, representative from Reese AFB, said. "Everybody concerned seemed so interested in you that you had to have a good time," Capt.

Josephine Sacco, delegate from Sheppard AFB, said. She added that this is the first ranch she had ever visited, and was startled by almost endless amounts of land.

"We're country folk," Anderson said, "and we make our own entertainment."

Army In Command For Ike's Funeral

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — The Army, to which Dwight D. Eisenhower devoted most of his life, is still in command as preparations are made to bury him.

Jeeps and heavy trucks rumbled Saturday through the normally quiet streets of Abilene, where the five-star general will be laid to rest Wednesday under the floor of a small chapel across the street from his boyhood home.

Several hundred soldiers from 5th Army headquarters in Chicago, augmented by others from nearby Ft. Riley, began streaming into town Friday night.

On the stage of the city auditorium, where pupils of Abilene High School used to present plays, soldiers in fatigues ripped open heavy crates containing typewriters, memo pads, folding chairs—even fans that probably won't see much use in the wintry weather.

M.Sgt. Marvin M. Meerse, a gray-haired veteran of 26 years' Army service, checked off an index of background articles on Eisenhower that he and his staff have been writing since the former president entered the hospital last May.

"We've got 71,500 pages of fact sheets and 5,250 photographs," he said. "We've got stuff most people don't even know about Eisenhower."

The articles cover every facet of the late president's life from No. 36, "Eisenhower the Poker Player," to No. 32, "Eisenhower's Famous Step."

Every step of the burial ceremony is painstakingly outlined in gruff Army style by a thick operations manual compiled several years ago and labeled "Oplan Kansas."

Military police roped off Eisenhower Center Saturday to keep the public out, and helmeted guards stood shivering in 25-degree temperatures. A light snow had fallen during the night but was gradually melting under the spring sun.

Across the street a crew was erecting a 100-foot steel framework just behind second base on the Lincoln grade school ball diamond. The orange and white tower will be used to relay television signals during the burial ceremony.

The guards raised the rope and watched solemnly as a flatbed truck drove up to the chapel carrying the massive steel and concrete burial vault in which Eisenhower's coffin will be entombed.

Across town at the National Guard Armory, where operations headquarters for the burial were being set up, a trim, gray-haired colonel said preparations were proceeding ahead of schedule and so far without a hitch.

Student Meeting Similar To Political Convention

AUSTIN (AP) — The national meeting of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) was similar Saturday to other big political conventions.

It was late in starting, full of smoke, short on tempers, and oversubscribed in debate on who could and who could not vote. There was no gavel. Dress was informal.

The meeting was held in the Catholic Youth Center near the University of Texas. The university had turned them down for an on-campus meeting, and federal courts backed up that ruling.

Mike Klonsky, national SDS secretary from Chicago, said about 1,200 had registered.

"This is the biggest national council meeting we've had," Klonsky said. The previous record was 900 at Ann Arbor, Mich., in December, he said.

New SDS chapters got national recognition, including ones at Austin High School and "The West Texas SDS."

One girl, whose right to vote had been challenged, said the other delegates from her group could not come because they were blocking an Air Force recruiter at her school. The crowd cheered. The girl was permitted to vote.

The meeting is scheduled to continue Sunday. Klonsky made a report on the state of the SDS. He listed several targets for SDS, including: "The track system that puts middle-class kids in college and low-income kids in Vietnam."

"Male supremacy on campus." This supremacy is reflected in different dorm hours and part-time job pay for girls, he said.

Butler Named Ambucs Prexy

Jim Butler has been named president of the American Business Club, effective with the change of officers for the June term.

He succeeds Bill Bradford. The election took place at the Ambucs' Friday luncheon at the Settles Hotel.

Other officers elected included Ralph Barris, first vice president; Daryl Pittman, second vice president; Ernest Lillard, third vice president; and Bill Estes, Bill Patton and Dewitt Bunn, all sergeants-at-arms.

Directors named included Don Brooks, Ken Olson, Auriel LeFond and Travis Starr while Bradford and Bill Reed will be holdover directors.

Bill Henry, a high school student, was a special guest and received applause for the help he offered the club in the recent Region V Basketball tournament here.

HCJC Students Help Start JC Division Of DE Clubs

DALLAS (AP) — One Howard County Junior College student was elected to office, and another won a first place in the competitive events, when a junior college division of the Distributive Education Clubs of America was organized here Friday and Saturday.

Shelton Ashley was elected vice president of the division, and Ron Lindsey won first place in the competition.

The sessions were led by D. W. Thomas of the Texas Education Agency, Austin, and were attended by five instructor-coordinators and about 25 students.

In competitive events, Steven Riley, Grayson County Junior College, Denison; Curtis Britt, Odessa Junior College, and Ron Lindsey, Howard County Junior College, Big Spring, won first places.

The three first-place winners will go to Atlantic City, N.J., in May to participate in the DECA National Leadership Conferences.

Both Britt and Riley won in management decision making. Riley in the merchandising division and Britt in the human relations division. Lindsey took

Drive Aimed At Rooting Out Enemy

SAIGON (AP) — More than 5,000 U.S. infantrymen of the Americal Division are pressing a three-way drive along the coastal plain south of Da Nang in an effort to root out enemy forces threatening two provincial capitals.

The U.S. Command, which had withheld information on the counter offensive for 10 days for security reasons, announced Saturday that troops have killed 313 enemy soldiers at a cost of 37 Americans killed and 337 wounded.

A headquarters spokesman said the primary purpose of the three related operations is to "destroy enemy forces, materiel and installations," but another major objective is to relieve pressure on the cities of Tam Ky and Quang Ngai.

Fighting has swirled around Quang Ngai City, with a population of 45,000, since the opening of the Communist command's spring offensive Feb. 23.

Soldiers of the Saigon government's 2nd Infantry Division and local militiamen have the responsibility for the immediate defense of the two cities and they have won a series of pitched battles.

The U.S. operations are going farther afield to cut off supplies and replacements for the enemy units that are believed to have been badly hurt in past engagements.

The Americans are operating up to 18 miles inland to comb foothills for enemy base camps.

Cold Day For Sorority House

DES MOINES (AP)—It was the coldest March 28 since 1964—six degrees—when the Alpha Xi Delta sorority house found itself with extra ventilation.

Michael Shearer, 22, of Des Moines was charged with failure to have his car under control after it missed a curve and smashed a hole in the side of the house, causing an estimated $5,000 damage.

He was not injured. A hurry-up patching with plywood saved the girls from added discomfort.

THE WEEK

The work. Contract awards are expected soon, and work might be started before the end of the month. The new hospital-clinic building will replace the maze of frame structures raised 27 years ago at the old bombardier school.

The City of Big Spring got some good fiscal news during the week with the receipt of $98,674 from the third quarter city sales tax receipts. At this rate, the full year's take should be around $340,000 plus or about $90,000 more than originally estimated.

In a sudden spurt toward the end, the Chamber of Commerce drive ended with 74 new members. Although short of the target of 100 new members, it is still remarkable, especially when you consider that three of about 30 workers turned in 43 of these new members. Not telling what the result would have been if all had been as productive as Charles Beil (who accounted for nearly 30 per cent), Alton Marwitz, Roger Brown and others.

There was somewhat more interest than usual when the city presented its half-year budget of $1,308,400 last week and gave it formal adoption. An annual budget will be submitted prior to Sept. 30 to cover the newly established fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

Big Spring has furnished another top officer of a state association. He is J. M. Bradley, district manager for Planters Gin Company for the past 25 years, who becomes president of the Texas Independent Cotton Ginners Association.

Big Spring State Hospital, inspected recently by consultants from New York state, was visited last week by five top New York mental hospital officials. The initial visitors were so impressed they sent the second group. Incidentally, if the state senate bill prevails, BSSH will receive $5,229,141 for the biennium, which would be about $300,000 more than the legislative budget board had proposed. A Senate proposal also would add $100 per year in state per capita junior college aid. That would mean something like $70,000 or more per year to HCJC.

Northcrest Apartments, the city's new housing center for low-income patrons, had its first resident last week in the person of Oscar Lee, 73, who described it as "the nicest place I've ever lived in." The other 68 units will be occupied steadily within the next few weeks.

Howard County registered its second traffic fatality of the year a week ago today when Audie Lee Allison, 43, died in Snyder of injuries received March 20 on the Snyder Highway 14 miles northeast of here.

It's a good thing the commander's post was already taken or Lt. Edwin Webb, star graduate of Class 69-F, might have taken that, too. He won the Air Training Commanders trophy, was top man in academics and won the Flying Training Command award, and was one of six distinguished graduates in his class.

The city is exploring feasibility of a central garbage collecting unit for each block in the residential district. This would remove the need for garbage cans in the alley, and, glory be, the need for much clutter.

Retailers want to spruce up the exterior decorations for Christmas, and to consider a proposal for new ones. There are two reasons for considering the old decorations have taken a beating over the years, and the new ones would cost something like $6,000.

Saturday's project at the site of the historic big spring was more of a venture in tidying than it was a cleanup. Actually, city crews had the vicinity pretty clean. Happily, the Saturday effort involved many people, and that's a wonderful thing.

Texas Products Being Promoted

By TEX ROGERS
T. A. and P. those letters seen in supermarket advertisements and bulletins and on billboards along the highway, are not plugging a new product. They are promoting products which have been in Texas a long time.

TAP means Texas Agricultural Products, and is the name of a market development and promotion program initiated by the Texas Department of Agriculture last November. John C. White, agricultural commissioner, says that the program's purpose is to encourage more people to buy agricultural products grown in Texas.

have grown stronger within the state, and support from producer associations continues to mount.

"Markets are better, and the TDA has received cooperation from several large supermarket chains, as well as many independent grocery store owners," he said. "Texas agricultural products are being promoted in newspaper and electronic advertising, and in promotional material within the stores."

Jones said there is no reason Texas people should not be able to buy Texas products, since just about everything found in grocery stores, except perhaps pineapple, is grown commercially in the state.

Evidently, the promotion is paying off, said Maurice Jones, TDA inspector stationed in Big Spring. Markets for produce and livestock grown in Texas

Although Texas produces a lot of agricultural products, 50 percent of the produce consumed by Texans originates out of the state, Jones said.

Single Case Set For Trial

One criminal case out of 12 set for trial in 118th District Court next week will go before a jury.

After docket call Friday by Judge Ralph Caton, the case of Elder Smith, charged with a second offense of driving while intoxicated, was set for trial.

Three defendants indicated they would plead guilty, according to District Attorney Wayne Burns. They are Eleno Chavez, carrying prohibited weapon where beverages are consumed; M. D. Pederson, DWI, second offense; and Norma Elaine Brown, possession of marijuana.

Five cases were dismissed, including those of Leo Loden, burglary; Frederick Stormes, theft; Harold Bledsoe, theft; Stanley Owens, theft; and Dale Allen Nickelson, burglary of a motor vehicle.

Those who failed to appear and forfeited bond were Jessie L. Collins, charged with theft; Archie White, indecent exposure; and Doyle Sanders, worthless check and theft.

The TAP program began in November with a general promotion of all Texas products through December. January and February were devoted to promoting fresh fruits, nuts and fresh vegetables grown in the state.

Texas beef is featured in March and April, and then poultry and dairy products will be highlighted in May and June. Cereal grains will be featured in July and August, and natural fibers — cotton — will head the list in September and October.

Funds for the program do not come from the Texas Department of Agriculture, but through donations from various producer organizations. The Texas Cattle Feeders Association contributed a large sum to finance the beef promotion in March and April, and the Texas Poultry Improvement Association and dairy producers will support the next promotion in May and June.

The beef promotion in March and April features grain-fed beef as the "Taste of Texas" in supermarkets and restaurants throughout the state. The TDA also offers a booklet of recipes for new ways of cooking the meat.

Jones notes that agriculture is important to the state's economy, and ranks second only to oil in values.

Spelling Bee Champions For County Completed

By SAM BLACKBURN
Goliad, Boydston and Marcy schools announced their 1969 Spelling Bee champions Friday afternoon and the lists for the Seventh Annual Howard County Spelling closed.

Goliad's standard bearer is Scott Tyra, 13, an 8th grader who won his title over Cathy Fowler, 14, another 8th grader. Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tyra, 2702 Ann. Cathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Fowler, 1302 College. Scott has an added problem ahead of him at the county spelling bee — younger brother James, 10, is the Kentwood champion.

Boydston's champion is Bobby Raney, 12, a 6th grader and the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Raney, 609 Steakley. The alternate is Susan Dodd, 11, another 6th grader. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Dodd, Gail Road. Bobby could have the same problem as Scott Tyra — if certain factors developed. His older brother, Roy, is the alternate at Rannels.

Marcy's winner is Suzanne Mollenhauer, 11, a 5th grader. She is the daughter of Set. and Mrs. Patrick Mollenhauer. Alternate at Marcy is Billie Gail Wonderly, 11, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lonsford. She is in the 6th grade.

Rannels Junior High School announced its champion Thursday afternoon. He is David Coates, 13, an 8th grader. Alternate for Rannels is Roy Raney, 14, an 8th grader.

With the naming of champions from each of the 14 participating schools, nothing remains to be done until the beginning of the Seventh Annual Howard County Spelling Bee. This is April 19 at the Big Spring High School cafeteria.

The 14 champions and their alternates are asked to be on hand at 10 a.m. on that day. All will be introduced and the champions given a special Paper-Mate pen and a blue ribbon. The runners-up will receive pens.

If a school's champion is unable to compete, the alternate of that school will step into the line. So far in the six years these bees have been held here, no alternate has had to appear.

Mrs. O. T. Brewster, a teacher in the Big Spring high school, will serve as official pronouncer at the county bee. She has filled that post for the past three spelling bees. All words will be from the official spelling list, "Words of the Champions," which is used at all levels of the contests.

Three judges, to be named, will preside. They will hear the competitors spelling of each word and will rule if he or she has missed the word. Missing a word eliminates that speller from the bee.

The winner of the county bee gets a specially engraved plaque bearing his name and the year he won his title. He also gets an expense paid trip to Lubbock on May 3 to compete in the Regional Spelling Bee against the champions of other West Texas counties.

Winner at the regional bee goes to Washington, D.C., in June, with all expenses paid. There he competes for the national title.

The runner-up of the county bee will receive a special gift from The Big Spring Herald, sponsor of the county bee.

Dear Abby

Should Defend Himself

DEAR ABBY: I have an 8-year-old son who comes home crying nearly every day. Somebody "hit" him. I tell him he should hit them back, but he says he doesn't like to fight.

I have talked to other mothers on the block, and they say a boy has to learn how to protect himself, and if he does, the other boys won't bully him so much.

I am not crazy about the idea of my kid getting beat up all the time, so I tell him to stay by himself. He doesn't listen to me. He goes where the other kids are, knowing he can't get along with them and is going to end up getting hit and crying. So what is your opinion, Abby?

HIS MOTHER: I think every boy should learn how to defend himself, but yours may also have to learn how to get along better with the other kids.

DEAR ABBY: I hope this doesn't sound like I am bragging, because I'm not. I married when I was 16, and now, 19 years later, we have as happy a home as anyone could find anywhere.

These are some of the things I've done to make it so: In the morning I wake my husband with a cup of fresh coffee and the morning paper. I've done this for years, but he always thanks me as though it is the first time.

When he comes home in the evening, I again have fresh coffee made and the afternoon paper. Regardless of what they are doing, the children always run to the door to greet him.

Before he gets home I make sure I have a fresh dress on, and that my face is nicely made-up, my hair combed, and when he comes in I leave all my problems of the day until he has had his dinner and had time to relax. And then I only bring them up if they are important.

Finally, after our evening meal, we read some passages of the Bible together and pray as a family.

When so many marriages are going on the rocks I simply offer these things as suggestions for a happy home. MRS. R. S. SAN ANGELO, TEX.

DEAR MRS. S.: What a beautiful life you have. May it ever be thus. I'll print your letter as an inspiration to others.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for suggesting to a reader who wanted to express his appreciation to you by giving you money that, instead, he send it to his local Mental Health association.

I am sure that any association would welcome this gift but if he really wanted to show his appreciation, he might offer the most valuable gift of all — himself. More than money, we are interested in personal involvement.

Most associations have volunteer programs where a lay person can spend practically any amount of time doing any number of things to aid the mentally ill. Perhaps even more important than the services provided for the patient, is the fact that the volunteer may come to realize that a "mental patient" is still a human being, and not someone to be feared.

Thanks, Abby. NANCY GANNON, SOUTH BEND, IND.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want To Know," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

NY Knicks Assume 2-0 Playoff Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — The Bradley, stormed by Baltimore ball-hawking New York Knick-ers, led by Walt Frazier, a commanding 2-0 lead in their Eastern Division semifinal series in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Murphy Steams To 3-Shot Lead

MIAMI (AP) — Bob Murphy, who is built like a fireplug and is just about as emotional, canned putts of 30 and 25 feet on the incoming nine Saturday for a four-under-par 68 that sent him three strokes ahead of the field with one round to play in the $200,000 National Airlines Open golf tournament.

The 26-year-old former amateur champion from Bartow, Fla., sizzled while his chief rivals cooled and, never faltering, posted a 54-hole total of 203, 13 under par.

In second place at 206 was 41-year-old Lionel Hebert, who posted a 69 while playing head-to-head with Murphy as the last twosome over the 6,927-yard, par 72 Country Club of Miami course.

Dave Stockton and Butch Baird, two of the game's new young tigers, were in third place, tied at 207. Stockton played like a machine, missing only one fairway in posting a 67 while Baird, 32, shot a 70.

The hottest round of this gray, windy day was posted by Bunky Henry who a few years ago kicked 50 straight extra points for the Georgia Tech football team that was then a college record.

Sinking putts of 20 and 25 feet on two holes, he tied the course record with a 66 that put him eight under par at 208.

Two crowd pleasers of different eras, Sam Snead and Arnold Palmer, thrilled their fans with brief charges but neither got within menacing distance of Murphy's blast-hot putter.

Palmer, sinking putts of 50 and 35 feet for two of his four birdies, stumbled with a bogey 6 on the 16th when he drove into the water, and settled for a 69 and a 211 total.

Snead, a grotesque sight with his modified croquet putting stroke, once leaped to within two shots of the lead and then took two quick bogeys on the return nine for a 71 and 210.

Bill Casper, the leading money winner last year with more than $200,000, fell victim of his Florida allergies and pulled out, flying home to treat a case of rash and aching joints. "I feel as if needles are sticking in every pore," he said. "I'm not sure I will be able to play at Greensboro next week or the Masters the week after but I hope so."

Murphy, 5-foot-10 and 217 pounds, missed birdie putts on the first three holes but got going on the fourth where he ran in one from six feet.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Third-round scores Saturday in the $200,000 National Airlines Open Golf Tournament: Bob Murphy, 66-68-68-202; Lionel Hebert, 69-69-69-207; Butch Baird, 69-70-69-208; Dave Stockton, 69-70-69-209; Bunky Henry, 69-70-69-209; Terry Dill, 69-70-69-209; Orville Moody, 69-70-69-209; Duane Simms, 69-70-69-209; Terry Dill, 69-70-69-209; Sam Snead, 69-70-69-209.

Bobcats Trip Abilene High; Panthers Win

SAN ANGELO — San Angelo knocked Abilene High from the ranks of the District 3-AAAA unbeaten teams here Saturday, winning by a score of 7-3.

The defeat left Big Spring all alone atop the standings with a 5-0 record. Abilene slumped to 4-1.

ABILENE — Tony Boxell pitched no-hit ball until he faced the final batter in leading Odessa Permian to a 3-2 victory over Abilene Cooper here Saturday.

ODESSA — Odessa High had to go all-out to defeat Odessa Ector, 3-2, in a 3-AAAA baseball game here Saturday.

Steers Count 18 In Meet

SAN ANGELO — Plainview beat out Odessa Ector in Division I of the San Angelo Relays here Saturday, scoring 52 points.

Big Spring counted 18 points in the meet and coach Gerald Loyd said it was the best showing of the year for the Steers, although quarter-mile Gary Kelley suffered a foot wound when he was stepped on by teammate Herman Evans.

Sophomore Danny Smart of Big Spring ran the mile in 4:47.4 but failed to place.

Stellar Rookie Crop Poised For Season

Jucker Could Be Bounced

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ed Jucker's playoff hopes have gone up in smoke for the second straight year.

According to the rumor mill, his post as Cincinnati Royals' coach could do the same, although he has one year left on his contract.

The Royals, led perennially by Oscar Robertson, who slumped somewhat this season, finished fifth in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association for the second consecutive year under Jucker, falling again to qualify for playoffs.

"It is very disappointing to me," Jucker said about missing out on playoffs. "This is what everybody works for. To reach .500 is significant for us. Still, we're not happy with that."

In Jucker's first year—the 1967-68 season—Cincinnati wound up 39-45. The team recorded a 41-41 record this season. Jucker has not been accustomed to flirting with .500 ball as he led University of Cincinnati clubs to two NCAA titles and a 113-25 record in five years. He has not even had a chance at an NBA championship.

It has been reported that a Royals source contacted former Boston star Bob Cousy, who has resigned as coach at Boston College. Max Jacobs, chairman of the Royals, denied the report, although Royals owners have promised extensive changes for the next season.

Jucker discounted that age was hurting the Royals, although Robertson is 38. Center Connie Dierking and guard Adrian Smith are 32.

Dierking and Smith did not start all games last season as they had done in previous years. Jucker cited inconsistency in play, inability to win at home and injuries as some of the top problems of the season.

"At times we played real well and we had such a beautiful start," he declared. "Then we just collapsed—for many reasons. We really don't deserve to be in the playoffs."

Robertson missed several games because of a bad ankle and Jucker said that "then it takes him a couple of games to get back to 100 per cent." He added that "Robertson is a target out there of the defensive player and everybody is watching him."

Robertson, who had averaged 30 points a game in eight previous NBA seasons, slipped to 24 points a game this year—his lowest output ever.

Steers Win Thriller Over Midland, 2-1

By TOMMY HART

In a pressurized District 3-AAAAA game that went right down to the wire, Big Spring edged Midland High, 2-1, here Friday afternoon to remain atop the standings with a 5-0 record.

The Longhorns, now working on a string of seven straight victories and undefeated at home this season, charged from behind with both their runs in the fifth inning, then had to fight like mad to keep the revived-up Bulldogs from scoring again in the sixth.

Coch Oakey Hagood sent three hurriers to the hill in a successful attempt to keep the Bulldogs from breaking through, ultimately calling upon his "old reliable," Jimmy Newman, for the save.

Newman moved from first base to the rubber with two runners aboard and no one out in the sixth. The Bulldogs advanced the two as far as second and third but Newman retired six men in order over the two innings to insure the victory for Big Spring.

Little Roger Dixon, a fringe ball player in Hagood's plans early in the season, had as much to do with the triumph as anyone. He collected a double and single in two official trips, scored a run and powered home the tying tally in the fifth.

Midland had pushed ahead in the fourth when Gary Salgado was hit by a pitched ball thrown by Thomas Ham. Salgado advanced on a ground out. Martin Gonzales' hit dropped a single into left field and the ball got by Dixon, allowing Salgado to leg it home.

Jimmy Wilson opened Big Spring's half of the fifth with a two-baser into left field. Joe Martinez attempted to move him along with a sacrifice bunt but was out when he ran across the plate attempting to bunt the ball.

Danny Parchman skied out but Dixon followed with a single that just cleared the Midland shortstop. Salgado. The throw was to the plate and Dixon steamed on in to second base.

Roger proceeded to leg it all the way from the midway station when a throw by Salgado on Jimmy Farris' ground ball pulled first baseman Kim Crowe off the bag.

In Midland's sixth, Clarence Scharbauer was hit by a pitched ball and Gonzales walked, after which Newman moved over to the mound. The Big Spring lefty then proceeded to fan Tom Cunningham, get Gil Bailey on a ground out and force Scooter Dodson to weakly bounce back to the mound.

Rocky Wooley doubled for Big Spring in the sixth, after which Wilson was given free transportation, but the runners died there.

Midland couldn't get a runner aboard in its half of the seventh.

Steers return to play Tuesday in Odessa against Permian. Farris, who succeeded Ham on the hill in the fourth, received credit for his third win.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Kenney of the New York Yankees, Larry Hisle of Philadelphia, Ray Fosse of Cleveland and Bob Robertson of Pittsburgh and Amos Otis of the New York Mets are among the top bets in the 1969 rookie crop.

With a final decision still a week away, it appears that an unusually large number of rookies will be on the 25-man rosters when the 24 big league clubs trim away the excess fat by opening day.

Among the unheralded youngsters who have been throwing their weight around in the exhibition games are Ted Sizemore of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Ron Stone of the Phillies, Mike Adamson of Baltimore and Billy Conigliaro of Boston.

MONEY IMPROVING

Don Money, the Phillies' shortstop whiz, has been a bit slow getting started at the plate but he always has hit in the minors and is expected to be contending for rookie honors with Hisle, the center fielder. The only doubt about Hisle was a concern for his physical condition after missing a half-year due to hepatitis, but the 21-year-old whiz hit three homers in the first six exhibition games.

Kenney is making the difficult shift from shortstop, where he played briefly with the Yankees in the closing days of the 1967 season, to center field. Coming back from the Navy, Kenney moved to the outfield when Mickey Mantle's retirement forced Joe Pepitone's return to first base.

The Yanks have another new starter in Bobby Murcer at third base, another ex-shortstop. However, Murcer already has had 106 at bats and is ineligible for rookie status.

To be considered a rookie a player must not have had more than 45 days on a big league roster during the period of the 25-man limit and must not have exceeded 90 at bats or 45 innings pitched.

Fosse comes to the Indians with fine advance notices from Portland, where the 21-year-old receiver hit .301 last season. He has been doing a fine job in the spring games.

The Pirates have been running a first base competition between Robertson, who missed all last year due to surgery, and Al Oliver, a long ball hitter at Columbus, Robertson, despite an early knee injury, has been impressive at bat. It is possible that Manager Larry Shepard will platoon the pair at first, although both are capable of playing the outfield.

Otis is being asked to move from his regular outfield position to the infield. He is playing third base for the Mets, not without some problems, but his hitting promises to add much-needed zing to Gil Hodges' attack.

ALSTON AGLOW

The Dodgers rave about young Sizemore, a catcher converted into an infielder. Walter Alston, usually a conservative type, gave glowing reports about Sizemore, although it may be decided to send him out for more work. It is the same story for Bill Russell, a fine young outfielder who spent last year in Class A at Bakersfield, Calif. Stone, used at first base and the outfield by the Phils, came to the club from Baltimore in the deal for catcher Clay Dalrymple. At one stage of the spring he was hitting over .400.

Merv Rettenmund is Baltimore's top rookie but he will have a tough job getting into the Oriole outfield. Eventually he will be a regular. Manager Earl Weaver has been impressed by the pitching of Adamson. Bobby Floyd also caught Weaver's eye as an extra infielder.

Everybody has been watching the progress of Tony Conigliaro with the Boston Red Sox to see if his eyesight has improved enough for him to play regularly. However, Tony's brother, Bill, has been mashing the ball and is making a fight for a spot on the roster. Ken Brett, a 20-year-old southpaw, may crack the starting rotation.

SUDAKIS AT 3B

The Dodgers expect to play young Bill Sudakis at third base and have liked what they have seen of pitcher Bob Darwin.

Dave Bristol of the Cincinnati Reds is giving Woody Woodward the big chance at short but is not overlooking the possibility of Darrel Chaney, who was so highly regarded that he was protected in the expansion draft.

In addition to Otis, the Mets are counting on Gary Gentry, a sturdy right-handed pitcher, to fit into the starting rotation. They have come up with a prize rookie pitcher each year with Tom Seaver in 1967 and Jerry Koosman in 1968. Gentry might be the boy for '69. Outfielder Rod Gaspar also has been impressive.

Richie Hebner is ticketed to be the regular third baseman as a Pirate rookie.

Defending NL champion St. Louis probably will keep shortstop Dave Huntz, first baseman-outfielder Joe Hogue and pitcher Mike Torrez.

Detroit's world champions have a set line-up, too tough for a rookie to crack, but there may be room for a lefty pitcher like Mike Kilkenny in the bullpen and Ron Woods as an extra outfielder.

Billy Martin of Minnesota expects George Mitterwald to make his catching staff and probably will find a spot for pitchers Tom Hall and Danny Morris as well as Graig Nettles, the home run whiz of '68 who broke in with a flourish by hitting five in four games in September.

Carlos May's bat may win him a spot in the Chicago White Sox outfield, especially since the injury to Tommy McCraw.

Mike Fiore, picked from the Baltimore system, may wind up the first baseman with Kansas City's expansion club and Pat Kelly may be the Royals' center fielder.

Montreal's best rookie bet may be Coco Laboy, a third baseman who was drafted from the Cardinals organization.

And this just skims the surface. There will be more rookies on major league rosters than in many years. They can thank the expansion. With 100 new spots to fill, nobody can claim he was overlooked this spring.

David Jones Is Included On Class AA All-State

By The Associated Press

Crane's Tommy Jones, who averaged 43.2 points per game, was the only unanimous choice on the high-scoring Texas Sports-writers' Association Class AA All-State basketball team, which has a per game scoring average of 137.1 points.

Jones, a 6-foot senior, played both inside and outside in rolling up his big point productions. His high was 45 points against Abilene High and 40 against Ysleta Parkland.

Jones tied the state tournament record with 51 points against Fort Worth Kirkpatrick in a 78-77 losing effort.

Wilson Is Named To Second Team

By The Associated Press

Junior Dwight (Big D) Jones, Houston Wheatley's 6-foot-8 high-scoring giant, and Spring Branch Memorial's steady senior Wayne Howard polled the most votes in the 1969 Class AAAA all-state basketball team as selected by the Texas Sportswriters Association.

Jones averaged 25.1 points and 20 rebounds per game in leading Wheatley to its second straight AAAA championship by defeating Memorial in the finals. He had a fantastic 51 rebounds in one game.

Hervey was a 6-4 scoring machine. He averaged 41.3 points a game while the 6-1 Bacon hit at a 24.1 clip. Corral, who stands at 6-1, popped in 32.3 points a game.

The combined scoring average of the first team is 145.4 points per game.

On the second team, the three inside spots went to 6-8 John Wilson of Odessa; 6-5 Reese Stovall of San Antonio Wheatley; and 6-7 Jack Louis of Austin Reagan. At the guards are 6-1 James Williams of Dallas South Oak Cliff and 6-2 Jim Hollis of Pampa. All are seniors.

The third team consists of 6-4 Levi Johnson of Corpus Christi Miller; 6-4 Craig Heap of Odessa; and 6-3 junior Randy Prince of Midland Lee on the inside. Henry Davis of Austin Anderson and Robert Pena of McAllen, both 5-10 guards, make up the outside unit. Prince is a junior.

Kansas Looms As Top Team

AUSTIN (AP) — The University of Kansas, the first college team to have three 60-foot shot putters, will be among the strongest track teams in the Texas Relays April 11-12.

Kansas, also featuring world record holders Jim Ryan and George Byers, recently won the NCAA indoor championship. Their top shot putter is Karl Salb, 275-pound sophomore who won the NCAA indoor meet with a toss of 66-8/8. Steve Wilhelm, 268-pound sophomore, was runner-up with 62-7. Doug Knop broke the 60-foot barrier with a 60-9/4 heave.

All three are good discus men as well. Knop won the event at the Texas Relays last year.

Ryan holds the world records in the half mile, 1:44.8, and the mile, 3:51.1. Byers holds the world indoor record for hurdlers, 6.5.

Ryan is expected to concentrate on relay races. He helped set a world record of 3:15.2 in the sprint medley two years ago.

Kansas has two long jumpers who have done better than 25 feet — Ron Jessie, 25-3/4, and Stan Whitley, 25-2.

More than 1,200 high school and college athletes are expected to compete in the relays.

Oakland A's Given Edge In Division

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — The Oakland Athletics, who no longer have to bump heads with the American League's best ball clubs, are solid favorites to capture the championship in the league's West Division.

No team in baseball has benefited more from the split into two divisions the American League underwent during the winter and no team seems ready to take advantage of its good fortune.

The top five teams in the league last year—Detroit, Baltimore, Cleveland, Boston and New York—are in the East Division, so sixth-place Oakland only has to contend with Minnesota, Chicago and California in its circuit.

The Athletics are a solid ball club in any event, with the best young pitching in the league, some fine hitting and many good years ahead of them.

"I think we've got a chance at the pennant," says Manager Hank Bauer. "Certainly the divisional setup helps."

Any discussion of the Athletics must begin with its young group of starting pitchers: Jim Nash, 24; Jim Hunter, 23; John Odom, 24, and Chuck Dobson, 25. Odom won 16 games last year, Nash and Hunter 13 each and Dobson 12.

Relief pitching is a problem, though, with the loss of Jack Aker and Diego Segui in the expansion draft. Lew Krausse, whose experience has been mainly as a starter, will be in the bullpen, along with Ed Sprague, Paul Lindblad and possibly veteran Jack Baldschun.

Danny Cater, the league's second leading hitter last year with a .290 average, is set at first and Dick Green, a good fielder, is the likely second baseman, though Ted Kubiak and John Donaldson might have something to say about that.

Campy Campaneris, who led the majors with 68 stolen bases last year and the AL with 177 hits, is the shortstop again and Sal Bando, who played every game last year, is back at third.

Rick Monday, a .274 hitter last year, and Reggie Jackson, who hit 29 homers, are potentially great stars in the outfield, and Mike Hershberger, who had his best season in five years in 1968 when he hit .272, rounds out the list.

Dave Duncan is being given a solid chance to win the catching job, though veteran Jim Pagnaroni could take it away from him.

A surprise surge by Minnesota, Chicago or California could make trouble for the Athletics this season—trouble that can only be cured by the effectiveness of Oakland's wind bats—but the team should wind up in the playoffs for the pennant that owner Charles O. Finley has been chasing so long.

Waters himself has played in three City tournaments and tries to enter meets at such places as Sweetwater, Colorado City and the Big Spring Country Club as often as his schedule permits.

His wife, June, played the game regularly until the children came along. In addition to Bobby, the Waters has a daughter, Paula, 15. The family makes its home at 1806 Hearn.

His fellow linksters say he's a hard man to handle in a head-to-head struggle. Bob was runner-up to Donald Leavelly in the 1967 City tournament at the Muni course and was medalist in last year's City meet.

Pro Charley Brantley of the Muni says the best parts of Waters' game are his short irons and his putting touch. His two-iron gives him occasional trouble but he rarely strays from the fairway.

The best round he ever had was a five-under par 67 on a course at Fort Lyon, Colo. He once scored a blind ace on a 125-yard hole in McKinney, in his vision of the green was blocked by foliage.

Only recently, he introduced

Willie Brooks Named Mentor Of Lee Rebs

MIDLAND — Willie Brooks, Midland High quarterback in the mid-1950's, will handle the reigns of Midland Lee football as head coach, upon the resignation of Bob Burris.

Brooks spent two seasons as head coach at Bowie of District 4-A.A. before coming to Midland. His teams compiled a 14-6 record during his stay in Bowie.

Burris resigned Thursday as head football coach for Lee after serving three years, indicating he was looking into a future of college coaching.

Under the direction of Burris, Lee's teams in 1967 and 1968 compiled 7-3 marks, best in the school's history. Burris has previously coached at Hobbs, N.M., during which time his squad earned the number one slot in the state with an 11-1 record.

Brooks quarterbacked Midland's 1953 and 1954 squads, attended Baylor University for one year, and graduated from Howard Payne College. He earned his master's degree from North Texas State University.

Brooks spent seven years as backfield and defensive backfield coach for Jones at Highland Park after one year coaching in Lubbock.

Brooks, after signing a two-year contract, agreed to take over at Lee April 7 and will bring two assistants with him.

Texas Girl Is Olympic Entry

AUSTIN (AP) — Fifteen-year-old Suzy Barker may never have heard a starting gun but that hasn't stopped her from winning races.

She's become such an accomplished track star, in fact, that she will be heading for Belgrade, Yugoslavia, next summer to participate in the World Deaf Olympics.

At Berkeley, Calif., last August, Suzy, a pupil at the Austin State School for the Deaf, won two first places in relays and was named All-American Deaf.

Lubbock citizens are now attempting to raise money for the teenager's trip to the games. The minimum cost is estimated at $1,800 but civic groups have set a goal of $2,500 so that all Suzy's expenses can be met.

Civic clubs in Lubbock announced plans this week for a girls invitation track meet and a girls Suzy Barker Day in the city May 3. Gov. Preston Smith, a fellow Lubbock resident, whom Suzy had a chance to meet recently, is expected to attend, a spokesman at the Austin state school said.

Smith cheerfully posed with Suzy to help publicize the Lubbock track meet.

Suzy's mother, Mrs. Allen Barker, said her daughter had worked out in Lubbock all summer after developing an interest in track at the state school. Her coach in Austin and official coach for the Olympics is Mrs. Ruth Seeger, a physical education teacher at the school for the Deaf.

"When you consider the handicap of not being able to hear the starting gun, it was almost a miracle the way she took the lead and came in first in so many 100-yard, 220-yard and 440-yard relay runs," Mrs. Barker said.

Grimes Accepts New Grid Post

SHALLOWATER — Bert Grimes, South Plains' Class B Coach of the Year last fall, will take the positions of athletic director, head basketball football, golf, and track coach at Shallowater High School.

Grimes, who spent the last six years at Amherst, was also Class B's Coach of the Year in 1963. He has recorded district championships in football, basketball, golf and track during his stay at Amherst.

Odessa Housewife Once Expert Jockey

By LEW HARRIS
Odessa American

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — In this sprawling West Texas town, there lives a petite lady—now a housewife—who was whipping winners down the home stretch before the much-publicized Barbara Joe Rubin was born.

Racing chiefly at Rillito Park, a pari-mutuel track in Tucson, Ariz., Mrs. Betty Heidelberg, 38—then Miss Betty Bowdle—rode 38 mounts between 1948 and 1953, bringing in 55 winners.

Last January, there was quite a stir when Miss Rubin was scheduled to ride at Tropical Park in Miami but 100 male jockeys at the track blocked the move with a threatened boycott.

Racing in the Bahamas later that month, Miss Rubin cropped Fly Away to a win at Hobby Horse Hall in her first pari-mutuel attempt. It made sports page headlines around the world.

NO PROBLEMS
Miss Heidelberg encountered no immediate animosity when she broke in.

"I was just one of the gang and the jockeys were my friends," she said. "We were all professional riders and they even helped me get mounts—there was never a boycott as when Miss Rubin tried to ride."

Mrs. Heidelberg, 17 at the time, began her career as an exercise girl on a sun-baked Tucson track.

She said, "I was fascinated by horses. I have always loved them although I didn't see my first horse race until I was in high school."

After capturing victories in two "Powder Puff Derbies" at a Tucson rodeo, she applied for a jockey's license at Rillito Park and it was granted.

She said "The stewards had seen me ride in the two powder puff races and after I talked to them they granted me a license. Tucson was the quarterhorse capital of the world at that time."

Landing a job with Rincon Stock Farms, then owned by Melville Haskell, Betty raced for $10 jockey fees during the winter season and broke colts and conditioned horses in the summer.

The competition was almost entirely male—the rode in but four all-girl fields the entire five years—and she proved a steel-nerved competitor.

Arizona Racing Commission records indicate that she was tagged with 12 violations and twice fined $10 for failing to maintain the straightaway.

DIDN'T HIDE IT
Pawing off the punishment as "just one of those things that happen," Mrs. Heidelberg said "I have never tried to hide it. There are times when you come out of the gate and your horse bumps another. There were plenty of others suspended worse than I was."

Although there was no fuss, femininity was ultimately responsible for her retirement.

A new syndicate gained ownership of Rillito Park in the summer of 1953 and according to Betty "I had an appointment with the general manager who said that due to the extensive costs of renovation, they would not be able to afford jockey quarters for just one girl. Consequently they would not issue me a license."

"That was rank discrimination," she laughs.

Two scrapbooks, brimming with photos and old newspaper clippings, are all that remain of her racing career, although she continues to follow the horses via the news media.

"I haven't been around horses since I married. I am very happy being a housewife and mother," she said.

As for her modern day counterpart, Miss Rubin: "I don't want to take any credit away from her. Riding abilities speak for themselves. Riding is hard physical work and you really have to enjoy it. I loved it and I am sure she must too."

"You can be a lady in any profession as long as you handle yourself accordingly."

DESPITE TRAGEDY
HP's Fred Davis An All-American

BROWNWOOD — "Making an All-American collegiate sports team is something I guess just about everyone dreams about," Fred Davis said when he was named to the NAIA's first team.

"It's a thrill that is hard to describe," said Davis, "even though you have already been named to one of the wire services' first team (UPI)—especially in one season."

Howard Payne College head basketball coach Glen Whitis describes Davis as being "the best basketball player in Texas." But, Davis, 6-5, junior two year letterman from Oakland, Calif., and who was the leading scorer in Texas with 861 points, modestly gives the credit to his teammates and to his coaches.

MOTHER VISITS
When Fred was informed that he had made the NAIA team his mother had just flown in from Oakland with Fred Jr. for a visit with Fred.

Little Fred was appropriately attired in a jacket with lettering saying "Little All-American."

"It won't be long now until," Fred said, "Fred Jr. will be dreaming of making All-American. And, I hope that he picks out a school like Howard Payne College to get his education."

This school, especially coach Whitis and president Dr. Guy D. Newman has been good to me — and to the members of our families.

Davis who made 346 of 628 field goal attempts and 169 free throws for his 861 points, gives a lot of the credit to teammate and Co-Captain Dan McGhee, a transplanted Texas from Indiana.

"McGhee (6-7 forward and who made 53 points) can really get the ball to you when you are underneath the basket — when they sag on you, he pops them in from the outside."

McGhee will be a junior next year. So, it's no wonder that this city of some 20,000 folks is rapidly becoming the basketball capital of this part of Texas. Davis and his teammates played before packed crowds all season in the Brownwood Coliseum. The Yellow Jackets, who won the tough Lone Star Conference crown for the third time in four years, wound up the season with a 27-4 won and lost record.

Ike Lewis Breaks Three Records In Conference

SUNDOWN — Ike Lewis of Sands won first places in three events and set records each time in the District 7-B track and field meet here Friday.

Meadow won the team championship with 127 points while Sundown was second with 97½ and Sands third with 79½.

Sands qualified three boys for the Regional meet scheduled the next month in Lubbock but those three will compete in six events.

Jim Fryar of the Mustangs was second in the shot put and earned a trip to Regional, as did Kynn Maxwell, who placed second in the high hurdles.

Lewis broke record in the broad jump, 190 and 220. He cleared 21- in the long jump, raced the century in 10.5 and

Ski Conditions Are Still Good

Cloudcroft, N.M., reported 10 inches of snow on upper and lower trails, but the course was to close for the season after today.

Ruidoso had 35 inches of snow with upper trails excellent and lower ones good. Sandia Peak at Albuquerque had 30 inches with upper trails good and lower good to excellent. Santa Fe had up to 60 inches with upper and lower trails good to excellent.

SHAPE UP MEMBERSHIP DRIVE
Charles Brantley (L), Bob Waters

BSGA Prexy Leads Membership Drive

New president of the Big Spring Golf Association is R. W. (Bob) Waters, who took up the sport 22 years ago while a schoolboy at McKinney, Tex., and has been romancing the game ever since.

Waters, who is assistant chief of Medical Administration at the local VA Hospital, plays every weekend and likes Daylight Saving Time if for no other reason than it affords him the chance to get in an occasional round during the week.

The native of Kiersey, Okla., has the well-tanned look of a man who spends a great deal of time out of doors. If he can be found outside, it usually is with a golf stick in his hands.

His fellow linksters say he's a hard man to handle in a head-to-head struggle. Bob was runner-up to Donald Leavelly in the 1967 City tournament at the Muni course and was medalist in last year's City meet.

Pro Charley Brantley of the Muni says the best parts of Waters' game are his short irons and his putting touch. His two-iron gives him occasional trouble but he rarely strays from the fairway.

The best round he ever had was a five-under par 67 on a course at Fort Lyon, Colo. He once scored a blind ace on a 125-yard hole in McKinney, in his vision of the green was blocked by foliage.

Only recently, he introduced

Record Payments Go To Elevens

DALLAS (AP) — Texas and Tennessee received record payments of $340,150.00 for their 1969 Cotton Bowl game won by the Longhorns.

Texas of the Southwest Conference and Tennessee of the Southeast Conference will split their dividends with other members of their respective conferences.

The previous record of $243,980.94 for participants was paid in 1968 to Texas A&M and the University of Alabama.

Texas retains $100,000 and will receive an eighth of the remainder — about $30,000.

NBA Defendant In Court Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A suit for an injunction and damages likely to run to millions of dollars has been filed by the American Basketball Association against the National Basketball Association.

The ABA sued Friday in U.S. District Court in San Francisco, seeking to ban the NBA from signing any new contracts and claimed the defendant was trying to monopolize the sport.

Grimes Accepts New Grid Post

SHALLOWATER — Bert Grimes, South Plains' Class B Coach of the Year last fall, will take the positions of athletic director, head basketball football, golf, and track coach at Shallowater High School.

Grimes, who spent the last six years at Amherst, was also Class B's Coach of the Year in 1963. He has recorded district championships in football, basketball, golf and track during his stay at Amherst.

Junior Colleges Are Now Fertile Recruiting Spots

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Where does the college or university coach go when he needs one or two basketball players to make his team "jell" in a year?

For many of the coaches, the answer is the National Junior College Athletic Association Tournament, which concluded here March 22. The tourney has been held here the past 21 years.

A transfer from a four-year college must sit out one year to become eligible, and freshmen are not eligible to play basketball at National Collegiate Athletic Association schools.

But the junior college graduate is immediately eligible, and he has two years of valuable post-high school experience under his belt. He is, therefore, more in demand.

Cliff Meely of Colorado, the Big Eight Conference's player-of-the-year, is a transfer from Northeastern Junior College at Sterling, Colo. Olympic star Spencer Haywood played at Trinidad, Colo., Junior College last year, then transferred to Detroit.

An estimated 75 coaches and scouts saw portions of this

Despite Tragedy HP's Fred Davis An All-American

BROWNWOOD — "Making an All-American collegiate sports team is something I guess just about everyone dreams about," Fred Davis said when he was named to the NAIA's first team.

"It's a thrill that is hard to describe," said Davis, "even though you have already been named to one of the wire services' first team (UPI)—especially in one season."

Howard Payne College head basketball coach Glen Whitis describes Davis as being "the best basketball player in Texas." But, Davis, 6-5, junior two year letterman from Oakland, Calif., and who was the leading scorer in Texas with 861 points, modestly gives the credit to his teammates and to his coaches.

MOTHER VISITS
When Fred was informed that he had made the NAIA team his mother had just flown in from Oakland with Fred Jr. for a visit with Fred.

Little Fred was appropriately attired in a jacket with lettering saying "Little All-American."

"It won't be long now until," Fred said, "Fred Jr. will be dreaming of making All-American. And, I hope that he picks out a school like Howard Payne College to get his education."

This school, especially coach Whitis and president Dr. Guy D. Newman has been good to me — and to the members of our families.

Davis who made 346 of 628 field goal attempts and 169 free throws for his 861 points, gives a lot of the credit to teammate and Co-Captain Dan McGhee, a transplanted Texas from Indiana.

"McGhee (6-7 forward and who made 53 points) can really get the ball to you when you are underneath the basket — when they sag on you, he pops them in from the outside."

McGhee will be a junior next year. So, it's no wonder that this city of some 20,000 folks is rapidly becoming the basketball capital of this part of Texas. Davis and his teammates played before packed crowds all season in the Brownwood Coliseum. The Yellow Jackets, who won the tough Lone Star Conference crown for the third time in four years, wound up the season with a 27-4 won and lost record.

Horror Film Due On Ritz Screen

Terror, in all the comfortable safety of the motion picture theatre, runs rampant again in "Dracula Has Risen From the Grave," which opens Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre. The Technicolor film stars Christopher Lee in the title role, with Rupert Davies, Veronica Carlson, Barry Andrews and Barbara Ewing.

The chilling terror tale was produced by Aida Young and directed by Freddie Francis from a script by John Elder. "Dracula Has Risen From the Grave" is one of a series of films, well known throughout the world, that has set a new contemporary trend with pictures infused with Gothic menace, mythology, lurid terror and rich, visual splendors.

It was in 1957 that the tall, distinguished figure of Christopher Lee first became involved with the vampire king, Count Dracula, in the motion picture "Dracula." Moviegoers, clamoring for a sequel, got it with "Dracula, Prince of Darkness." Now Dracula is back again, and his fangs are even sharper than ever.

Christopher Lee again plays Count Dracula. A specialist in studies of the macabre, Lee is a Carandini, one of Italy's oldest families and a part of the nobility claiming descent from Charlemagne. Lee's 40-plus films include various "straight" acting roles, but in recent years, he has concentrated on horror, in his characterizations of Dracula, Frankenstein's monster and Fu Manchu.

Rupert Davies portrays the Monsignor who valiantly fights the evil of the Vampire. A character actor of distinction on stage and screen, Davies starred as Inspector Maigret in the film adaptations of Simenon's classic stories.

Most terror tales have a romantic interest whose purpose is quite peripheral to the unleashing of evil. In "Dracula Has Risen From the Grave" is perhaps the first real love story ever to be found in such a tale of horror. The love between Paul, played by Barry Andrews, and Maria, played by Veronica Carlson, heightens the contrast between good and evil helps to assure our loathing of Count Dracula.

Aida Young, the producer, is one of the few successful women in the field of movie production. She claims almost 25 years experience in show business, first as an actress, then as assistant director before her promotion to production manager for Hammer Films.

Freddie Francis, the director, is an Academy Award winner and has been in the industry for 30 years.

Popular Film Version Of 'Camelot' Booked

After a year of international success as a roadshow screen presentation and winner of three Academy Awards, the multi-million dollar Technicolor presentation of "Camelot" arrives Wednesday at the Cinema for the first time at popular prices.

Against the spectacular backdrop of Arthurian days, stars Richard Harris as Arthur, Vanessa Redgrave as Guinevere, Franco Nero as Lancelot and David Hemmings as Mordred create an electric excitement in the poignant and personal musical romance-adventure.

Feeling strongly that Arthur's aspirations at Camelot and what transpired there have much in common with and are particularly pertinent to today, producer Jack L. Warner, director Joshua Logan and screenwriter-lyricist Alan Jay Lerner conceived their motion picture presentation in bold and imaginative terms.

"Because of the legend's 'Novness,' the trio, aided by Oscar-winning art director-costume designer John Truscott created a Mod-Medieval "Camelot" — suspended in time and space, derived from their imaginations rather than reference books.

"Camelot" based on T. H.

'CAMELOT' Vanessa Redgrave, Richard Harris, Franco Nero

White's "The Once and Future King" was written for the Broadway Stage by Lerner and composer Frederick Loewe, who had earlier collaborated on "Brigadoon," "Paint Your Wagon" and "My Fair Lady." The pair also wrote "Gigi" for the screen.

Richard Harris achieved international acclaim with his award-winning performance in the British film "This Sporting Breed," and has starred opposite Marlon Brando in "Mutiny on the Bounty," Julie Andrews in "Hawaii" and Doris Day in "Caprice."

Dazzling the world in her first screen appearance in "Morgan," Vanessa Redgrave surpassed that triumph with her performance in "Blow-Up." Her brilliant talent combined with her stunning beauty won her the coveted role of "the queen a king was prepared to lose all England for."

Franco Nero, who played Abel opposite Harris' Cain in John Huston's "The Bible," was recommended by Logan to Logan, who was searching for the "knight in shining armor." Previous to "The Bible," the handsome, athletic young Italian actor had appeared in a dozen Italian films.

Soaring into prominence opposite Miss Redgrave in "Blow-Up," talented young David Hemmings completes "Camelot's" top quartet of stars as Arthur's malevolent illegitimate son.

Jones Likes Lead Roles In Disney Productions

"You can't beat success," laughed Dean Jones, who stars in Walt Disney Productions comedy romance, "The Horse in the Gray Flannel Suit," with Diane Baker, at the Jet Thursday.

"Although I'd like to play serious, dramatic parts some day, those Disney comedies have been terrific for my career. That's why I signed a contract to do five more Disney pictures in the next seven years."

Few actors ever get that kind of a studio deal, but the box office successes like "That Darn Cat," "The Ugly Dachshund" and "Blackbeard's Ghost" have put Dean in an enviable position. They have each pulled in a gross of over $5 million, with "Darn Cat" going over $9 million.

The door to fame was first unlocked for Dean when he got a job singing in a melodrama at Knott's Berry Farm in Buena Park, Calif. He was spotted by songwriter Vernon Duke, who was planning a new musical with Frank Loesser at the time. That show never materialized, but through Duke, Dean met musical producer Arthur Freed, and following a screen test, was signed by MGM.

Evidently Dean's potential as an actor-comedian outshone his singing prowess in those early days of his career. He was cast in bit parts at first, but gradually the roles improved with a variety of straight acting parts. Through instinct, natural talent, and a lot of hard work, Dean achieved stardom.

Of late he is also becoming known as a good vocalist host for televised beauty pageants, variety shows and other specials. And he has sung on several network TV shows.

"I've been singing ever since I can remember," he recalls. "My parents provided voice lessons for me back home in Decatur, Ala. But my first professional experience, if you can call it that, came in New Orleans."

Dean left home at 15 and went there to seek his musical career. And in order to do so, he kept busy as a coal loader, timber cutter, cotton picker and dishwasher. He finally managed a singing spot in a French Quarter club that paid three dollars a night plus dinner.

Brush Control Meeting Called

A brush control and range management meeting has been set for Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Glasscock County courthouse at Garden City.

A general discussion on brush control will be given by R. E. Stegar, A&M range management specialist. He also will explain a new state-wide brush control and range improvement association.

Latest figures show that 82 per cent of Texas range lands have been invaded by brush, said Oliver F. West, Glasscock County agent, and this has reduced the livestock-carrying capacity by 50 per cent. These plants use four to 11 times more available water per pound of dry matter produced than range and pasture grasses. In addition, brush retards range improvement efforts, West said.

Nixon's Plan Rejected By Paper

HONG KONG (AP) — North Vietnam's Communist party newspaper Saturday rejected President Nixon's suggestion that secret peace talks could lead to an end to the Vietnam war.

The official newspaper Nhan Dan said: "It is necessary to trace out clearly that the Paris talks do not make progress not because of the forms of the talks but mainly because of the contents of the talks—because the main U.S. schemes in South Vietnam are to cling to the Saigon puppet administration."

Car Care Caper

By JO BRIGHT

Most women take their cars for granted. The feminine mind assumes that anything representing that much money and mechanical engineering should be able to take care of itself. She favors her chrome-conscious conveyance by feeding it gas—soon after the gauge swings to "empty"—and in return, expects it to stop and start at her command.

Generally, it responds to the turn of a key and pressure on the accelerator, propelling its passengers smoothly down the highways that head to PTA, Scouts, YMCA, music lessons, golf course, club meetings, schools and church. But then there are those other times. Neglected beyond endurance, it balks—and a lady is usually of little help after going through the motions of raising the hood.

With 74 million private cars registered in America, everyone is talking about building safety into the cars, yet few seem to be concerned with building safety into the driver, particularly women drivers. And there are over 40 million women drivers in the United States and Canada.

"Most women don't know the difference between a spark plug and a carburetor," says Julie Candlor, one of the country's foremost women authorities on automobiles. "They really want to know, but no one has taken the trouble to tell them." Mrs. Candlor is author of a book, "Woman at the Wheel," containing money-saving and life-preserving information which every woman should know about her car.

One group of Big Spring women, members of the Junior Woman's Forum, became better informed on the subject this week by visiting the municipal garage and body shops which maintain city vehicles. The session was informative—and fun.

TIRE-CHANGING TAKES a bit of know-how as Mrs. Jerry Barron learns with the help of her instructor, Rudy Ramirez. Luckily, a woman is seldom forced to perform this task, but in the long, empty stretches of the west, it is a practical thing to learn before traveling. As an added safety feature before a long trip, it is wise to have several pounds of extra pressure pumped into the tires.

GENERATORS CAN BE a source of trouble, as Mrs. Douglas Cutsforth and Mrs. Paschal Odom discover when Joe Hare explains the wiring. The visitors were advised to check their car's wheel alignment frequently to save wear on tires, and to have the car tightened all over every few months, since loose nuts and bolts result in rattles and may be the cause of accidents. Of course, the steering gear should always be in order.

SO THAT'S WHAT a carburetor looks like? The device, in which air is mixed with gasoline to make an explosive mixture in automobile engines, is gingerly examined, at right, by Mrs. Joe Horton, Mrs. Jimmy Anderson and Mrs. Alton Marwitz. Although this apparatus might best be left to trained mechanics, there are simple things a woman should examine, such as the battery, which should be checked every two weeks in summer and at least once a month in winter. Don't let the water get low.

MAYBE A BIT MESSY, but most necessary is the proper lubrication of a car, and grease costs less than repairs. Mrs. Morris Holmes, Mrs. Delbert Donelson and Mrs. Paul Petterson are attentive listeners as R. D. Hale, maintenance superintendent, advises them to change motor oil as recommended by the car manufacturer. Oil which has lost its lubricating value may result in burned-out bearings and scored cylinders.

A "STARTER" DOES JUST what it implies—sets into motion. When used in an internal-combustion engine, it's termed a "self-starter," and depends on many things to do its job. Here, Ignacio Hernandez reminds Mrs. Preston Bridges that a strong ignition system requires good spark plugs, points and condensers, which need to be checked regularly. Servicemen can give it a "tune-up," checking to see if spark plugs are firing and the timing is right.

Program Sessions, Honor Banquets Mark Western District Convention

Despite some last-minute program changes, apparently due to a late flu epidemic in West Texas, the Friday afternoon session for the convention of the Western District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, got off to a healthy start, which, incidentally, was a subject stressed in one of the programs.

Mrs. Richmond Dublin of Odessa, district president, presided, and following the Pledge of Allegiance, "A Collect for Club Women" was sung by the Girls' Sextette from Howard County Junior College, directed by Larry Stanley. The singers were Lucia Taylor, Nancy Kennemur, Linda Williams, Sue Ellison, Cheri Ellis and Jane Mitchell, accompanied by Linda Mason at the piano.

In welcoming the women to the city, Mayor Arnold Marshall said the objectives of the federation are "most impressive." "You, as individuals, are contributing to your communities by becoming completely involved and fulfilling the responsibilities of citizenship," he continued. "I feel that each of you will return home better club women as a result of the excellent program you have planned for this convention."

The response was by Mrs. Gerald Fugit of Odessa, district secretary. Mrs. L. E. Dudley of Abilene, past president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, was introduced as an honored guest. Changes in the agenda were announced by Mrs. Joseph H. Mims of Midland, convention program chairman, who noted that the "Fashions for Fun" would be presented at Saturday's luncheon.

REPORTS

During the reports by district officers, speakers were Mrs. Philip Robbins, district first vice president; Mrs. Richard Hammer of El Paso, second vice president; and Mrs. Richard Story of Midland, third vice president. Mrs. Story noted the goal of the late Mrs. Frank H. Dotterweich, former third vice president, who used the phrase, "Each one greets one, and five new in the next two." In practice, the slogan meant was to bring in another, and that each federated club woman that five new clubs should be formed within two years. It was announced that with the formation of the Juniores in Pecos, the new club goal has been achieved.

Following the district treasurer's report by Mrs. George Churchill of Odessa, Mrs. Dublin presented her annual report in which she noted that over 2,000 miles of travel have taken her to visit 23 clubs in the district during the past year. In describing the organization of new clubs, she reported that they will be federated in May during the state convention at Houston.

Among the past district presidents recognized were Mrs. Ted Johnston, Pecos; Mrs. Paul Jacobs, Big Lake; Mrs. Harwood Keith, Big Spring; and Mrs. O. G. Rudy, Monahans.

Mrs. V. C. Phillips, Fine Arts Department chairman, commended the women on a "magnificent job" in reporting, saying that the results showed a need "and hunger" for cultural exposure. The 116 such programs reported involved art shows, book reviews, museum tours, music festivals and numerous exhibits and displays. Crafts programs concerned china painting, candlemaking and other creative arts, and there were lectures on literature, drama presentations and writing workshops. This department has done much to popularize Texas folk music, encourage young talent in art fields and stress the importance of cultural affairs in the community.

THEATER

The second part of the program was presented by Charles

David McCally, managing artistic director of "The Globe of the Great Southwest," a Shakespearean theater in Odessa. McCally used colored slides to illustrate his talk. (This program is more fully covered in a separate story.)

The closing presentation was a film, "A Changing View of the Change of Life," which was produced by the American Medical Association.

The Educational and International Affairs dinner began at 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria with Mrs. Philip Robbins of Fort Stockton, district first vice president, presiding. The invocation was by Mrs. Paul Kenworthy of Odessa, and honor guests were Mrs. Henry F. Shaper of San Antonio, president of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. H. B. Bratton of Waco, state third vice president. Also seated at the head table, along with other officers, were Mrs. J. L. Mitchell of Gordon, state Community Improvement Program chairman, and Mrs. Luman Holman, author of "Spanish Nuggets," and one of the guest speakers.

Mrs. N. A. Waldrop of Pecos, head of International Clubs, spoke briefly, emphasizing that the department urges concern and friendship for women all over the world. In this regard, federated clubs have corresponded with those in foreign countries, heard programs by exchange students, strived for personal contact with citizens of other countries and worked to end discrimination in regard to all women. Mrs. Tom Melton, International Affairs Department chairman, announced that 34 programs had been given, indicating that club women are aware of and interested in international situations. "Social situations change slowly, and we must develop patience along with optimism," she concluded.

The "International Night" guest speakers were Dr. Ignacio Manola Munoz, a native of Valencia, Spain, and Mrs. Holman, a resident of Jacksonville, along with Miss Christina Guerrero of Odessa, who performed a Flamenco dance. Their program is given in more detail in a separate story.

Betrothed

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Daugherty, 613 Holbert. The Rev. James A. Puckett will perform the wedding ceremony on May 23 in the Baptist Temple.

Engineers Attend GIA Luncheon

Husbands were guests at Thursday's luncheon meeting of the Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in the IOOF Hall.

Other guests were Mrs. Vera Audrain, Mrs. H. E. Rhodes, Mrs. Jake Bishop and Mrs. P. K. Pitzer. Mrs. C. L. Kirkland presided, and R. L. Holley gave the invocation.

Reports on the sick were heard, and cards were mailed. The next meeting will be April 24.

A LOVELIER YOU Ascend Stairs With Graceful Dignity

By MARY SUE MILLER

Do you know this type: the woman who goes upstairs with such a clatter, you turn around to see what's the matter? How do you react to what you see?

The best you can say is that the whole performance appears awkward. But there are more serious implications. Heaving the body upstairs drains off energy and sets up strains.

To ascend without huff or puff, and gracefully to boot, hold the body and head erect. Follow course with eyes, rather than dropping head. Place feet flat and noiselessly on treads. For safety, do not dangle heels over edge. Keep knees relaxed, never letting them lock. By centering weight on balls of feet, push upward with toes. Make an even transfer of weight from foot to foot.

You've got it right when no sound comes from your feet or from breathing; when you feel you're floating. Now, what about coming down? The tactics are just about the reverse of going up.

You stand tall, keep head up, gauge distances with eyes, keep knees flexed and feet flat on treads. This is no time for any sort of fancy footwork. A fall is in store for those who make a careless, hasty descent. And then a loss of dignity is the least of your injuries.

With practice, the methods given come to feel natural and look great. Besides, they keep you safe instead of sorry!

Modern trends or not, beards on men make me think of my grandfathers . . . they don't lend to the son image to me. I never knew my grandfathers without the whiskered and mustached appearance, therefore, on them it looked good. One had a full white beard, kept pretty and silvered by the frequent blue rinses administered by my grandmother and my aunt. My other grandfather wore just a mustache and on them the style was good for the individual.

During my early years J. H. (DAD) HEFLEY was our constable and he wore a mustache. I can't imagine him ever being without it . . . he looked just like a constable should as he mounted and rode his horse about the town in accordance with his duties.

My father nor any of my friends' fathers sported any whiskers, but one of my high school teachers did. He was WALTER SCOTT who trimmed his little mustache very neatly. He looked very much the English teacher . . . some of the boys called him Sir Walter.

LLOYD WASSON once grew a very handsome beard and was dubbed Lord Chesterfield by my father. I don't think he kept it long, but he certainly put the other young men to shame in the beard-growing line.

Later I knew CLAYTON STEWART who was one of the handsomest ranchers in the area and he wore his mustache with quite a flair.

The lip adornment of the ROBINSON men, WALTER and CHARLIE, distinguished them among the Howard countians. Not only were they identical twins but their mustaches grew just alike.

My No. One son has grown a beard which he once had in the Zapata style. Now he tells me he is curling it at the ends.

Saints preserve us! I feel like my own grandpa!

MR. and MRS. JUSTIN HOLMES had the pleasure of the company of their two sons the past week. MAJ. JUSTIN ALLEN HOLMES arrived in Dallas Wednesday from Bangkok, Thailand, and came here for a visit until Friday. His brother, DAVID HOLMES, missed him at the Dallas airport so he drove on here from TCU in Fort Worth although he had to go back Thursday morning.

Maj. Holmes and his wife live in Bangkok and she plans to remain there when he leaves in June for his second tour of duty in Vietnam. He is in communications.

David, a second year student at TCU, is chairman of the Spirit Committee and as such has been busy getting things about the campus painted purple and white, like the stadium steps which he and a friend were pictured doing in a recent issue of the Fort Worth Star Telegram.

MRS. L. A. PICKLE is in Lubbock with MR. and MRS. H. R. PICKLE. He has recently returned home after spending the past seven weeks in Methodist Hospital.

The RAINBOW GIRLS lived up to their name Saturday when they were all over the downtown area offering brightly hued balloons for Crippled Children's Easter drive.

MRS. A. A. MCKINNEY left this morning for Jacksonville, Fla., where she will visit her son and his wife. MR. and MRS. HULEN MCKINNEY. Hulen is with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

MR. and MRS. DANIEL HOLLIS TAYLOR, Newport, R.I., are the parents of a daughter, Pamela Jean, who weighed 8 pounds, 2 1/4 ounces at birth on March 21 at the Newport Naval Hospital.

Paternal grandparents are MR. and MRS. HOLLIS TAYLOR, 1313 Mobile.

MR. and MRS. JOHN RODEN of Camp Hood are visiting here with her sister and brother-in-law, MRS. MELVIN BROWN and Mr. Brown.

Don't know when the weather has behaved herself so well for convention visitors, but for the District Federation of Women's Clubs the wind held down at least until Saturday morning and the sand didn't blow. If there were no other accomplishments, and I'm sure there were, we're glad Mother Nature did herself proud.

Conceding that each individual musician in the Winter's Consort is an accomplished performer, the modern sound didn't sound as good to me as the older sounds. As ROBERTA PHELAN suggested, perhaps it is the generation gap. I need to take some tucks to help close it. She thoroughly enjoyed the music as did the ARCH CARSONS. I'm sure a lot of others did, if complete attention means anything. Oh come back, Fred Waring . . . Come back Mantovani . . . Come back San Antonio Symphony Adult leaders have served as coaches for the teams, and county winners will go to the district contest April 12 at Odessa Junior College.

Treat Hands With New Beauty Care

With fashion emphasis on rings this year, hand care is essential. A good once-a-week poultry marketing, public speaking, safety and vegetable treatment is a 10-minute soaking in a mixture of lemon juice and baby oil. Because the baby oil benefits your nails and cuticles too, this treatment is best done before your manicure.

Announces Plans For Marriage

Mrs. H. Loy Weber of Alexandria, La., announces the engagement of her daughter, Marion Suzanne, to Dee Dodson Drell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Louis Drell Jr., of New Orleans. The wedding is planned for August 2, at St. James Episcopal Church in Alexandria.

Miss Weber attended school in Big Spring, when her late father was stationed at Webb Air Force Base. She subsequently graduated from Bolton High School, Alexandria, and attends Sophie Newcomb College in New Orleans. The prospective bridegroom is attending the Tulane University School of Law.

Civic Improvement Records Compiled

The annual community improvement report was completed at Tuesday night's meeting of the Lees Home Demonstration Club in the Lees Clubhouse. The club sponsors and reports will be entered in a state contest.

The group met Thursday in the home of Mrs. Eugene Smith to complete the report.

Lees community improvement project officers elected were Jesse Louis Overton, chairman; Bennie Joe Blizard, vice chairman; Eugene Smith, reporter and Mrs. V. E. Phillips, secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. Eugene Smith presided, and refreshments were served to 14. The refreshment table was laid with a brown and white cloth and centered with an arrangement of fruit.

The next regular meeting of the club will be April 8 in the home of Mrs. Blizard.

Mrs. J. Torbenson Gives Beauty Hints

Mrs. Jerry Torbenson, Home Economics teacher at Big Spring Senior High School, was guest speaker at Thursday's meeting of TOPS Plate Pushers in the First Federal Community Room.

Mrs. Torbenson discussed how to choose the most flattering colors and highlight attractive features. She emphasized that skin tone should be considered first, then hair and eyes. She demonstrated hair styles for various facial structures, stressing that bright colors accent the figure, while darker shades tend to slenderize.

Mrs. J. J. Herbert presided, and Mrs. Margie Anderson led the pledge. Mrs. K. C. Webb received the bowl of fruit.

The next meeting will be Thursday in Texas Electric Reddy Room, when Miss Bowen, chief nurse at Big Spring Nursing Inn, will be guest speaker. The club's Easter contest will be concluded at this meeting.

Tea Will Honor Local Dignitaries

The Laura B. Hart Chapter, No. 1019, Order of the Eastern Star, and Big Spring Chapter, No. 87, OES, will honor all local grand officers at a tea this afternoon in First Federal Community Room. ## A Devotional For The Day

They that went before, and they that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna; Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. (Mark 11:9)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, we would pray as the psalmist, "Search me, O God, and know my heart; try me, and know my thoughts; and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting." Through Christ, our Savior, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who are in heaven . . . Amen."

A Great American

Dwight David Eisenhower, soldier-statesman and great American, has answered the final roll call. He will be enshrined in the hearts of his contemporary countrymen as a good and just man, likely in history as the right man for the right time. Individuals like former President Eisenhower seem providential. He exemplified the great American dream that any lad, no matter how humble his beginnings, can rise to the highest place in the land. Born to simple, yet remarkable, parents, he knew the joy of pride, work, morality, and compatibility. His record in school and in early military service was good, but not the sort that would single one out for destiny. Yet when the time came, he was ready to step into the exacting role of commander of the allied forces in Europe during World War II. Aside from his military skills, which were more than adequate, he had an uncanny genius for conciliating strong personalities among the allies, to resolve differences, and somehow to bring diverse elements together in the mightiest military force the world has ever known. And he did this in such a manner as to retain friendships and respect.

When he was called upon to serve as president of the United States of America, he brought many of these same qualities to the nation's highest office. He may not be chronicled in time as one of the stronger presidents in the sense of innovation and imposition of will, but he presided with the deftness of the chairman of the board to arrive at by counsel what was the best course for the nation and the world. Some have observed that this was a period of euphoria with postponed decisions, but in truth the country was ready for a breathing spell.

Still, when duty called, Dwight Eisenhower acted boldly and unflinchingly. A trusted aide, whom his critics considered an alter ego president, was dismissed summarily when private connections indicated a conflict of interest. As painful as it was, he dispatched troops when federal law was flouted.

It is more than by chance that the nation was not, during his administration, seized by the devistating mania which beset it in later years. He was never really a partisan.

In leaving the presidency, Dwight Eisenhower sounded a warning which may prove to be the most profound and penetrating of his observations. He pointed to the huge, continuing military establishment and to the industrial giants necessary to support it, and he had the sound judgment, good conscience and pure courage to alert the nation to vigilance against an alliance of the two.

Two Important Elections

Big Spring citizens face a test in good citizenship twice this week. Tuesday — just day after tomorrow — the annual city commission election will be held. There are two places to be filled, and the list of four candidates (including two incumbents) means that in effect they both are contested.

Every qualified voter within the city limits has the obligation to go to the polls and vote.

This holds true Saturday on an expanded scale when the Big Spring Independent School District trustee election will be held. Here again, there are enough candidates to more than cover the two places open. By no means can either the school or the city election be considered perfunctory affairs.

These elections call for good citizens to vote their choices.

Marquis Childs No Normal Life For Vietnamese

TAN AN, Vietnam — His name is Nguyen Van Phan. Two days ago he defected from the Viet Cong force that had infiltrated Long An Province. He says he defected because he found out that what he had been told about a Communist victory after the big Tet offensive of a year ago was a lie.

In this one faceless individual, this statistic on the charts of officials plotting the defector program, can be summed up much of the ordeal of the Vietnamese people, north and south.

AND WHETHER Phan will sooner or later find a place in a peacetime society that will give him the fundamental rewards of life is the question no one can answer with any certainty. If the government in Saigon fails, then Phan will have made a fatal error, for in the Communist take-over he and the other Chieu Hoi (open arms) defectors will be first on the executioner's list.

He looks hardly old enough to be an Eagle Scout. But he has been with the VC, he says, since 1961 when he was 18. His manner is self-possessed, resigned, as though, having at last torn himself out of the tightly controlled net of Communist ideology and discipline, nothing more can happen to him.

HAVE YOU ever seen an American before? For the first time in the interrogation there is a slight smile as he looks up at the towering American interrogators. No, never before.

In 1963 he was wounded and sent to a VC field hospital in Cambodia. His left arm and hand are partially paralyzed and there is a great red welt on his upper arm where the wound healed improperly. Yet he returned to his cadre and continued to be a platoon leader — a platoon leader does not carry a weapon, and chief of his Communist cell, or chapter as he calls it. The one thing of value he possesses is a rather expensive-looking wrist watch. He bought it in Cambodia.

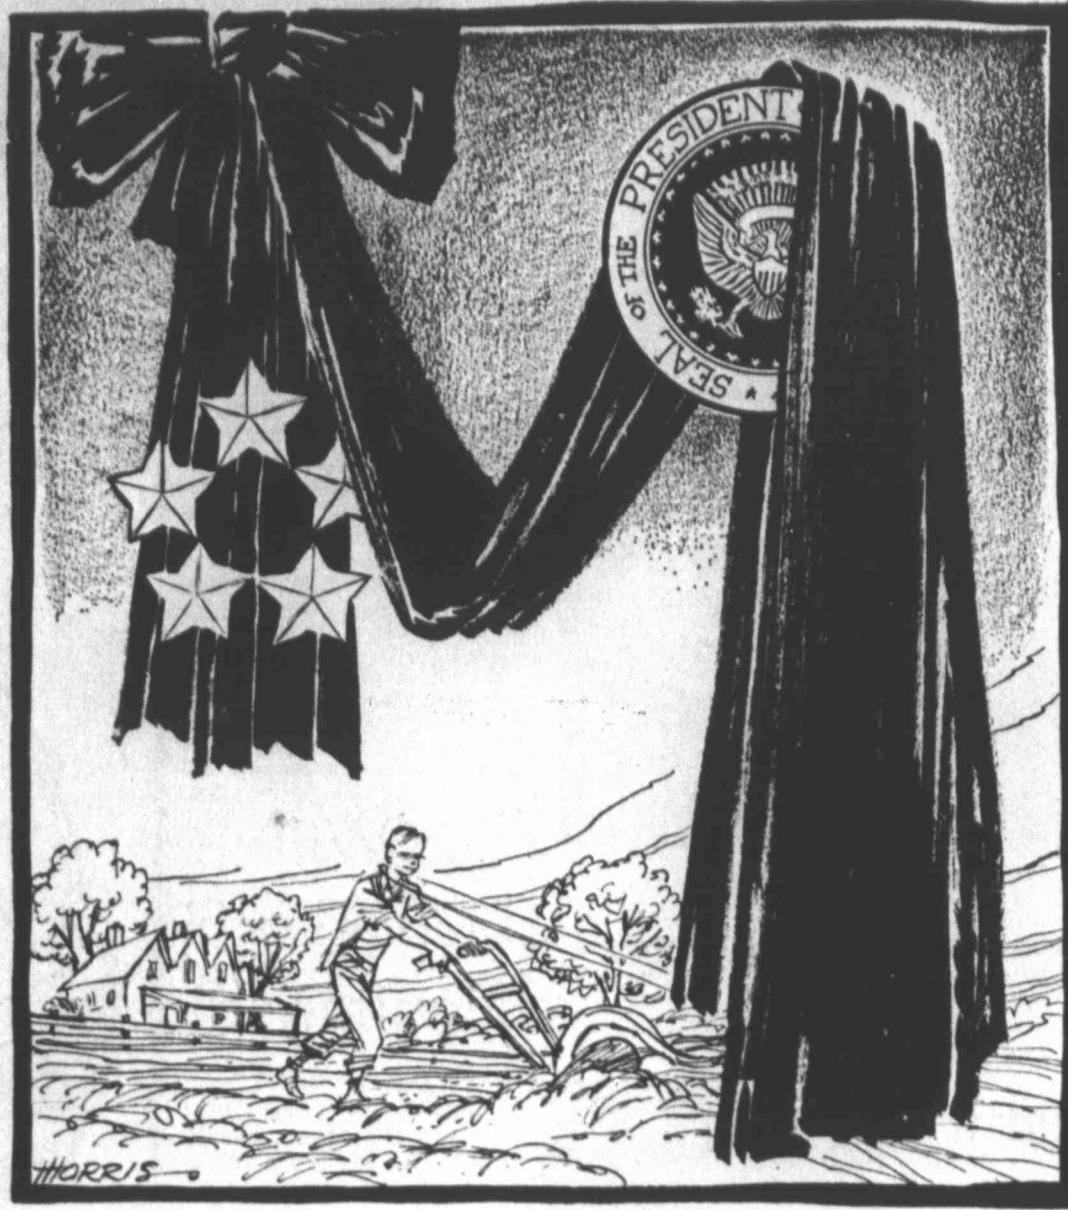

TO REHABILITATE this number of defectors on the chart will take expert medical care. For the Vietnamese who have been wounded, maimed, burned in the crucible of war, adequate medical care is in very short supply. Medicine was close to the primitive before the war. Civilian hospitals are today a shambles, so overcrowded that two or three children, sick or wounded, occupy a single bed. It is one of the unbearable aspects of this seemingly endless conflict.

THOSE WHO LOOK beyond the charts, the graphs, the computerized reports, which show progress that may indeed be real progress, ask how much more for all their apparent passivity the Vietnamese can endure. For Phan and the other defectors in the Chieu Hoi center the immediate future is satisfactory enough. Training classes for the men in masonry, typing, and woodwork are going forward, while for women there is sewing with treadle sewing machines and also nursing care.

DURING THE six weeks to three months they spend in the center at least two hours a day are devoted to indoctrination. Having been indoctrinated, many become members of the armed propaganda teams that go into unsecured areas to recruit new VC and North Vietnamese defectors. They are also able to finger the Communist caches that in increasing numbers are being uncovered with hundreds of tons of weapons, food and medical supplies. The government of South Vietnam just reported a total of 100,140 defectors since the amnesty program began in 1963, with more than 40,000 serving in the armed propaganda teams.

BUT THE WHOLE structure of Vietnamese life has been so disrupted by the massive American intervention that it is hard to see how this pitiful Humpty-Dumpty can be put together again with any semblance of normal life for the Phans in the hundreds of thousands whose lives have been shattered.

President Seeks To Apply Inflation Brake

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon aimed a double-barreled blow at inflation last week by calling for a year's extension of the 10 per cent income tax surcharge and significant cuts in government spending.

In a message to Congress, Nixon said continuation of the surcharge beyond its June 30 expiration date was needed to "modify the inflationary psychology."

The surcharge was enacted by Congress last June as a means of slowing the rate of economic growth but it, along with other monetary restraints, has been slower in taking hold than anticipated.

In asking for the surcharge extension and spending slashes, Nixon told Congress:

PROTECT SAVINGS — "We are determined to keep faith with America's wage-earners, farmers and business men. We are committed to take every necessary action to protect every American's savings and real income from further loss to inflation."

He said it is necessary now to "create conditions which will encourage the private sector to stop assuming a high rate of inflation in long-range planning."

As for cutting federal spending, an administration source said the President's program envisioned removing at least $2.7 billion from the 1970 fiscal budget — beginning next July 1 — offered by the Johnson administration. How this would be done wasn't spelled out.

Nixon's proposals were presented at a time when new statistics indicated the economy was continuing to roll at an unabated pace.

The Commerce Department reported that the composite of 12 leading economic indicators advanced 1.7 points in February to 143.7 per cent of the 1963 base. The index had dropped in January but the February resurgence moved it above the December level of 144.6.

LIVING COSTS UP — Another indication of inflation's momentum was the Labor Department's report that the cost of living rose in February to a record level. It was the 25th consecutive monthly advance.

The department's consumer price index climbed 0.4 per cent last month to 124.6 per cent of the 1957-59 average. This meant it cost $12.46 to buy items that cost $10 a decade ago. The rise in January was 0.3 per cent and in December 0.2 per cent.

The government served notice last week that it would move against big corporate mergers. It announced its intention to challenge in court the acquisition by Ling-Temco-Vought, Inc., of a majority interest in Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., the sixth largest U.S. steelmaker.

The Justice Department said its opposition was based on questions of antitrust law violation, which have not been tested in the case of conglomerates — widely diversified corporations — such as LTV.

Later the department said it would allow LTV to increase its current 63 per cent stock interest in Jones & Laughlin to 81 per cent but would seek in the courts to compel LTV to dispose of its stock in the steel company. LTV agreed to sell the Jones & Laughlin stock if the court decision goes against it.

BOOST PRICES — Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. last week raised prices on all of its fabricated aluminum products by two cents a pound, or about four per cent, effective on shipments after May 1. If the increase becomes general it would be the second round of boosts this year on fabricated aluminum products. Major fabricators raised prices on these items by five per cent in January.

Passenger car production last week edged up to an estimated 183,100 units from 181,621 the previous week but was below the 191,461 assembled a year earlier.

Steel mills turned out 2,807,000 tons of raw steel last week, up 0.3 per cent from 2,800,000 tons the previous week.

Around The Rim A Little Book To List Your Numbers

An old-time friend who sort of stands aside and watches the world go by was in the office the other day. As usual, an innovation had come along to puzzle him.

"I see that the banks are putting out those blanket credit cards," he said.

"YEAH, THEY'RE supposed to take you into any place, anywhere and get you out safely, no matter what you buy," I replied. "You know, the finance people keep saying that we're headed for a checkless society."

"I've heard that, too," he said. "I could get along without checks, either by paying for everything out of my pocket or by doing without. That's the way it's been for a long time."

"BUT I DUNNO, maybe I ought to get one of those credit cards, if everybody else is going to."

"Not a bad idea," I told him. "But the thing that has me bothered is that we are going to have another long number to keep track of. I guess the cards will be numbered, won't they?"

"I feel confident they will."

"Waal, lemme ask you right now — how many of your own numbers can you reel off?"

"LET ME think a minute," I countered. "I know my street address and my phone number and — and — well, that's about it."

"What's your auto license number?" he asked.

"Just got a new one," I explained. "You were in the Army, weren't you?" he continued.

"It was the Navy, but that's just as bad."

"ALL RIGHT, what was your Navy serial number; when you got out, you got a VA number. What is it? I know you have a Social Security number. Can you tell it to me? If you're doing business with a bank, they've given you an account number. If you use a card at the service station, the oil company has another number for you. If you pay any income tax, they fire back the form with that mistake on it, and you'll find they've given you a reference number. Are there any others?"

"I'm sure there must be," I said. "I haven't really counted them all."

"THEN YOU'D better start counting, because you're gonna need an arithmetic book, or something, if you stay in sleep."

"Which brings me to what I wanted to talk about. You and some of the people who are always wanting to start a factory around here ought to dream up a little notebook type gadget where you could list every cat-got-pickin' number that's thrown at you. You know, make a black or brown leather one for men, some fancy colored ones for women to carry in their purses. I tell you, a number reference booklet will be a thing that will sell. Businesses likely would give them out for Christmas."

"YOU MAY have a real idea there," I told him. "We'd have to get some capital, somebody to devise a manufacturing process, and somebody who knows about marketing. And there's the matter of supplies. You say you think these should have leather covers?"

"Naturally," he said. "I've got the pigs."

You might keep your eyes open for a brand-new, leather-bound, number recorder booklet.

It's Just A Walk Between Airports

WASHINGTON — I am constantly amazed how the airlines are solving their problems. Everyone is aware that one of the big stumbling blocks to future air transportation is airport facilities. No airport in the country is prepared to handle the new air buses carrying 400 passengers that will soon be put into service.

I was under the impression that no one was working on the crisis, but I was wrong. The airlines and airports together are solving the problem in one of the most unconventional ways that human engineers have ever devised.

They're making people walk to their destinations.

AS THE AIRPORTS get larger, they keep extending their terminals, and the gates to the aircraft keep getting further away.

I discovered the consequence of this the other day when I had to catch a plane in Chicago for Davenport, Iowa. I started walking toward my gate, then realizing I had only an hour to make it, I started jogging. A few miles later I discovered I still wasn't anywhere near the gate, so I started sprinting. But because I was carrying a brief case, I just didn't have the spurt I needed for the last few miles, and I missed my plane.

THE AIRLINE ticket attendant was very sympathetic and said to me, "Why don't you walk to Davenport? It's only a few more miles down the road."

"Only a few more miles down the road?"

"Yes, we don't like to talk about it, because we naturally want people to fly, but most of our airline terminals have been spreading out so far that our departure gates are located only a few miles from where people are going. If you look out the window, you can see the lights of Davenport right over there."

"THAT'S AMAZING," I said. "I knew I had gone pretty far, but I didn't think I was anywhere near Davenport."

"Most people don't," the ticket attendant said. "But, you see, we have to keep extending the wings of the terminal to handle the traffic and so the cities get nearer and nearer. Someday we hope to link the Davenport and Chicago airports so passengers can walk between the two of them without getting wet. It certainly will solve the pressing, airport traffic problems."

I THOUGHT Chicago was the only airport doing this, but not long ago I was out in Los Angeles and had to make a plane for Santa Barbara. When I was given my gate number for the flight, I started for it. And you can imagine my delight and surprise when I discovered that by the time I got there I was only five miles from the Santa Barbara city limits.

Then last week, I was in Miami and had to fly to Tampa. As I walked through the terminal to my gate, I stopped off for lunch at the Palm Beach Airport snack bar, and then continued straight on to find my plane was parked at a gate number just beyond Orlando.

I FOUND OUT that every major airport in the country is now working on tunnels and ramps which will eventually hook up with airports in other cities. It's the first breakthrough in airline congestion. Engineers predict that in the not too distant future every airline terminal in the United States will be linked together, and by the time a passenger reaches his gate number on foot, he will have arrived at the place where he originally intended to fly.

Too Many Students In Colleges?

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has spoken out emphatically against violence in the colleges and has urged support for "the voices of reason and calm." But, as a special committee in Congress currently investigating campus revolts has already learned, the whole subject is far more complex than it appears to be.

In the first place, a substantial number of colleges today have at least 5,000 students, and some have many times that number. Such groups cannot be governed or disciplined in the same way as in the past, when campus life was more relaxed and student-faculty relations less tense.

WHAT IS MOST important now is that the faculty members chosen shall themselves have personalities and attitudes which can influence students to respect law and order. Too many teachers are strong dissenters and side with the activists in campus troubles.

There is even a broader problem for the universities and colleges to tackle — they must be sure that, in the selection of students, the psychological side will be considered along with scholastic achievements.

DR. BRUNO BETTELHEIM, professor of psychiatry at the University of Chicago, gave some interesting testimony a few days ago to the House Special Subcommittee on Education. He says that the most rebellious students here and abroad are those studying the social sciences and humanities. He declares that there are hardly any militants among students of medicine, engineering and the natural sciences, because they are "busy doing things that are important to them" working in the laboratory and at their studies. But the main point he makes is that many students are perplexed. He adds:

"IT IS THOSE students who do not quite know what they are preparing themselves for, and why — the students who sit around waiting for examinations rather than doing active work — who form the cadres of the student rebellion . . .

"In my opinion there are, today, far too many students in the colleges, who essentially have no business to be there. Some are there to evade the draft, many others out of a vague idea that it will help them to find better paying jobs, though they do not know what jobs they want. And again many go to college because they do not know what better to do and because it is expected of them. Their deep dissatisfaction with themselves and their inner confusion is projected against the institution of the university first, and against all institutions of society secondarily, which are blamed for their own inner weakness."

DR. BETTELHEIM recalls that in previous years most youngsters went to work immediately after completing high school, and not long thereafter they were married and "actively meeting life, proving themselves as men or women." He says there were few, if any, adolescent revolts. He argues that many of the young men in colleges today "would be better off with a high-level vocational education which is closely linked to a work program which gives scope to their needs for physical activity and visible, tangible achievement."

SO A BIG QUESTION is whether a college education is worth while for everybody, irrespective of his readiness and even desire to find a good job and get started earlier in life than some of the members of the same age group. This is a problem in which psychologists can furnish answers that will be of guidance to colleges and universities throughout the country.

To Your Good Health Ways Of Easing Menstrual Discomfort

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can anything be done to ease severe menstrual pain? I have been told that there should be no pain at all and that it is just caused by nerves. If this is true, can you prescribe? — J.L.

Yes, menstrual pain can be relieved.

About one woman in 10 will have enough pain during menstrual periods to require treatment, but the causes vary widely. Sometimes the answer is readily seen; sometimes the physician has to do a certain amount of study before being able to identify the cause.

Sometimes discomfort is due to relatively large blood clots which the uterus must expel. There may be a smaller-than-usual cervical outlet. Result: sometimes congestion, sometimes muscle spasm.

Incidentally, but not a trifling matter, exercise can be a significant factor. When a study was made of a large number of college women, it was found that those engaged in active sports or gym work had much less trouble. Hence an exercise program, especially preceding a period, is well worth considering.

When water retention and congestion in the pelvic area is part of the problem, reduction of salt intake can be helpful. In some instances physicians find it necessary to use medication to reduce fluid retention.

In some cases one of the stronger, but non-narcotic, pain medications may be tried, with or without anti-spasmodic drugs to minimize cramping.

In very severe cases, contraceptive (birth control) pills may be necessary.

You can't arbitrarily discard the thought of "nerves." Some degree of irritability and nervousness is not unusual at menstrual time, and a sedative or tranquilizer may be recommended by your doctor with good results.

Some women resent the menstrual phenomenon to a degree that ordinary discomfort becomes, for them, pain. The idea that a woman is "sick" at this time is an old-fashioned notion but it still persists, and that thought may have been subtly inculcated into the thinking of many girls when they were young. But a woman is not for that reason "sick." Menstruation is a perfectly normal function and should be accepted as such — but the old idea, subconsciously accepted, can cause its share of trouble.

You did not give your age, but in women of 30 and over, increasingly painful periods may be due to endometriosis. A pelvic examination to rule out that possibility or other potential pain-producing factors (cysts, fibroids, or other conditions) is very wise.

I repeat the answer: Yes, menstrual pains can be relieved, but treatment must be appropriate to the particular case.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it permissible to do interior painting (walls and woodwork) during the first months of pregnancy? — J.S.B.

I see no harm. You should have adequate ventilation in the room, pregnant or not. (If you have a history of miscarriage early in pregnancy, that's another matter. You should avoid activity that strenuous.)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me if my daughter, who started taking birth control pills the day before she got married, could get pregnant? She was ovulating at the time. — M.M.

Yes, pregnancy could occur under just such circumstances. To be effective "the pill" should be started one or two months before marriage.

To learn of the many factors that can be involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia, which concerns the esophagus, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Herald for a copy of his booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Thosteson answers readers' questions in his column whenever possible.

Tulips For a King

The lake is green today. Sparkling waves ripple across its surface, borne of the same gentle breeze that ruffles through my tulips. I walk among them, filling my arms with beauty, listening to the murmur of early morning.

Soon I gather up baskets of orange and scarlet, pale pink and lemon yellow and hurry to the church in the valley.

My heart is full. I'd come to this church, some months ago, burdened with sorrow. Here, I'd found comfort and purpose in the life and teachings of God's Son. Since then, I'd been happier than I ever thought possible.

Now, in the stillness, I whisper a long-ago psalm, "Hosanna to the Son of David!" And I lay blossoms gently among palm branches, as though in His presence.

Attend your church. Find the joy and happiness you've been seeking. Sing hosannas to the living Lord.

HEED THEIR MESSAGE Your Tires Can Tell An Important Story

If you hear your tires talking, perhaps a few days fishing will help — or a week in the mountains. On the other hand, if you see them talking, you're tire-wise, and you'll heed their message. Talking tires. They'll tell you when your pocketbook is being hit. And in most cases they can tell you exactly who the culprit is, too. Like improper alignment, worn shocks, overinflation, underinflation, and many other conditions that rob you of the tire mileage that you pay for. Besides accelerated wear, there's also the safety factor — something that's even more important than the money you may waste.

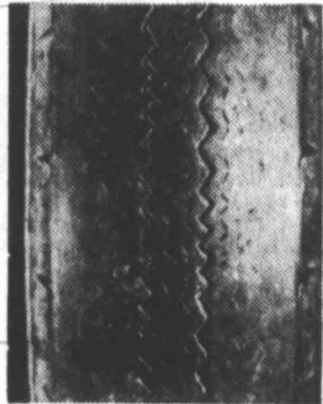

The tire is worn evenly, but the treads are feathered. It means:

- (1) the tire is overinflated
- (2) too much front end toe-in
- (3) you take corners too fast

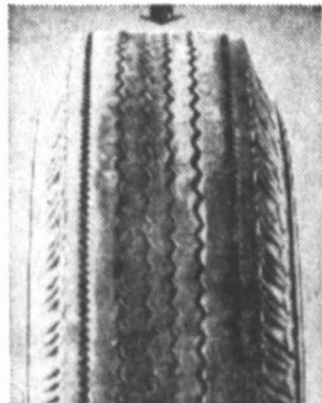

When the tire is worn in patches, particularly on the shoulder, it means:

- (1) the brakes tend to grab
- (2) the tire is out of balance
- (3) the tire is overinflated

Both shoulders are worn while the center still has some tread. It means:

- (1) new shocks are needed
- (2) slow down on corners
- (3) tie rod is loose

The center treads of the tire are wearing faster than the shoulders. It means:

- (1) worn out shocks
- (2) overinflation
- (3) wheels need balancing

Tire shows extremely uneven wear. It means:

- (1) faulty brake system (needs fluid, adjustment)
- (2) faulty wheel alignment (too much camber)
- (3) tires need rotation (including spare)

Tire is wearing more at each shoulder; tread is "stepped" from the center toward each side. It means:

- (1) tire is out of balance
- (2) tire is underinflated
- (3) tire is overinflated

HOW DO YOU RATE?

Dozens Of Sprays Provide Handy Products For Car

Last year the U.S. Motor Vehicle Bureau registered over 80 million passenger cars, and that number is increasing every year with a total of 114½ million predicted for 1965.

Cars need care, and the Aerosol Division, Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Association, lists dozens of products now packaged in spray form to do the various jobs needed to keep your auto in the best possible running order.

The place to start your car care is under the hood, with an aerosol engine cleaner. A de-rusting spray will loosen nuts and bolts and remove any rust, and a carburetor and choke cleaner will spray away the carbon buildup.

You can stop here if you wish, or go on with some of the protective items that help keep the motor and other working parts in condition.

A high-heat engine enamel, specially made for cars, will make the oldest engine look factory-fresh, and also provide protection against rust and weathering.

You can also buy aerosol coating for your battery terminal, fan belt and ignition system which will cut the wear and tear on these parts, saving you some costly repairs and a lot of annoyance.

Now you can turn your attention to protecting and prettifying the outside of the car. Your de-ruster is handy here, too, for loosening nuts on the wheels. Has the paint been marred or scraped? You can buy touch-up paint to match almost any U.S.-made car, a lot cheaper than a bodyshop paint job.

A combination cleaner-wax will save you the time and trouble of scrubbing the car, and for a really high sheen, use your cleaner-wax first and spray over it with plain auto wax. Then spray a chrome protector on your fenders and other metalwork.

An aerosol windshield washer is next — antifreeze additives make this another double-duty product — and it's time for the finishing touches. There are aerosol cleaners for almost every type of upholstery, and a tire cleaner to brighten up those whitewalls.

Teflon spray-glide can be helpful in dozens of places — window frames, hood, trunk and door latches, accelerator, brake and clutch pedals and many others. Finally, tuck a car deodorizer spray into your glove compartment and you're ready to roll.

Or are you? Did you remember all the aerosol safety products that add the extra plus to your own safe driving? A fire extinguisher is important, and an aerosol tire inflator so easy a woman can use it might be a "lifesaver" for night driving.

Winter brings its own problems — and the aerosol industry has solutions to many of them. Do you have trouble starting your engine in cold weather? Spray some starting fluid into the carburetor and listen to it turn over. Defogging and de-icing agents are a must, and the latest aerosol item on the automotive shelves is a traction spray for the tires, to drive yourself out of that snowbank.

Aerosols can handle almost all your car care, except perhaps to drive to the service station and fill up the tank. The CSMA gives these tips for proper use: (1) read the label; (2) store away from heat; and (3) keep out of the reach of children.

Driving Habits Affect Your Car's Gas Mileage

Two drivers of the same automobile may get different gas mileage due to the differences in driving habits. Other factors include driving conditions and mechanical condition of the automobile.

It costs almost 50 per cent more to drive 80 mph than it does to drive 50 mph. Cost of driving 60 mph is 25 per cent higher than cost of driving 30 mph.

Wet driving conditions: Slowing down under wet or snowy conditions conserves fuel. Wet pavement can reduce mileage by one mile per gallon.

- When parked, turn off engine. One minute of idling uses more fuel than restarting uses.
- Starting and stopping.

Avoid "jack rabbit" starts, sudden stopping and racing on the green light.

Windy conditions. Drive slower if you're interested in better fuel economy.

Here are some suggestions on care and mechanical condition of your car for better fuel economy:

- Use good grade of gasoline recommended by the manufacturer of your automobile.
- Be sure the thermostat isn't stuck in the open position. A warm-running engine is more efficient (uses less fuel) than a cold-running engine.
- Be sure tires are inflated properly.
- Balance and align tires.

Well-Cared-For Car Gives Maximum Joy

William Lyon Phelps, the celebrated educator and author, once remarked, "What I wouldn't give to read 'Huckleberry Finn' for the first time again." It was Phelps' way of yearning for the thrill of discovery, in this case one of America's greatest novels.

The typical motorist could well paraphrase Phelps' remarks, "What I wouldn't give to be driving for the first time." The thrill most of us felt the first time behind the wheel is hard to capture ever again.

Perhaps too much driving has jaded our appreciation of the miracle that is the automobile. Maybe too much time in traffic jams, too many through-the-stretches of freeways have robbed us of our enthusiasm.

However, there is a way to bring back the joys of driving. Some time this year, get out of the traffic jams and off the super-highway. Take your family on some lightly traveled road. Even in the most populous areas of this nation, there still remain unspoiled stretches of green field, blue sky and water — just a few hours from home.

Travel through these areas with a light foot on the gas pedal, stopping often to enjoy the view and savor the fresh air. Make your car, not a conveyance to get you from here to there, but a kind of magic carpet to lift you above the humdrum and the state of tension.

There is also a way to bring the maximum enjoyment of motoring into everyday driving. And that is by maintaining your car in showroom condition. By doing so, your car can feel like

Plug Servicing

The average spark plug will fire 15,000,000 times in 10,000 miles of driving. The effects of the electrical charge wear down the plug's firing end. Plug manufacturers recommend servicing plugs at 5,000 miles and replacing them at 10,000 car has just passed vehicle inspection. While passing inspection is a good sign that all basic safety components check out, there are other factors to be considered. The day after inspection, hitting a jarring pothole could help put headlights back out of alignment. An unexpected leak of brake fluid could pose a serious hazard.

For example, there are those who swear that their cars seem to drive better after a wash. While this may be a matter of vivid imagination, it is no secret that a car that is running sluggish could feel like a new model after a thorough tune-up.

Also maintaining other vital-to-comfort components like tires, shocks, front-end alignment and smooth transmission are indispensable to a smooth, enjoyable ride.

There is at least one more factor in maximum enjoyment of a car. That is the security of mind in knowing that yours is a safe car. It is not enough to know your motoring can offer.

An untuned car is horns in your ears.

Horns in your ears . . . a missed appointment . . . a tow-truck ride . . . a pounding head and a lot of other things to spoil your driving. That's what an untuned car is.

Untuned car trouble results from old worn spark plugs in an untuned engine. The cure is quick and effective. It's a Champion Tune-Up: a new set of Champion spark plugs plus other basic tune-up items you may need.

You'll feel the difference pronto. Trouble-free starting. Quicker acceleration for safer highway passing. More power. Dependable performance. And an average saving of over a gallon of gas per tankful—proved in United States Auto Club certified tests.

For trouble-free driving, get a Champion Tune-Up now—and every 10,000 miles. Because an untuned car is trouble!

What's Your Car Care

Q-U-O-T-I-E-N-T?

Even if you can't tell your differential from your defroster, it's important to know what makes your car tick or stop ticking. Since the safety, pleasure and value of your car depends on keeping it in good shape, it's wise to keep up with the upkeep. This quiz is designed to test your car care quotient as well as inform you on how to care for your car.

- A spongy feeling when you apply the brakes is a sign that:
  - The rubber on your brake pedal is getting soft.
  - Your shoes are wearing thin.
  - There is something wrong with your braking system.
- If your tires show pronounced wear at the "center" on the middle of the tread it probably indicates:
  - They are overinflated.
  - They are underinflated.
  - Your hub caps are mounted improperly.
- Windshield wiper blades should be replaced:
  - After every heavy rain storm.
  - Twice a year.
  - Every two years.
- All but the following adversely affect gasoline mileage:
  - Worn spark plugs.
  - Clogged air cleaner.
  - Worn shock absorbers.
  - Improper tire inflation.
- It is important to change radiator coolant periodically because:
  - Rust inhibitors in the coolant eventually lose their effectiveness.
  - Overaged coolants create hard starting problems.
  - Water only should be used in warm weather.
- Most likely source of deadly carbon monoxide entering the passenger compartment is:
  - Through a leaky gasoline line.
  - Through a defective exhaust system.
  - By keeping windows open in industrial areas.
- One sign that the shock absorbers are defective is:
  - More "play" develops in the steering wheel.
  - There is a thumping noise in the rear tires.
  - The car continues to bob after a stop.
- All but the following are part of a complete tune-up:
  - Service the distributor system.
  - Lubricate the main bearings.
  - Service or replace spark plugs.
  - Check primary and secondary wiring system.
- Chief dangers of preignition or detonation in the combustion chamber include:
  - You'll get a traffic ticket.
  - Serious overheating of the cooling system.
  - Potential damage of the piston heads.
- All but the following should be checked every six months:
  - Wheel alignment and balance.
  - Brake system.
  - Ignition system.
  - Dimmer switch.

Youngsters Join Parents In Ignoring Seat Belts

Young people, supposedly at odds with the older generation, have at least one area of agreement with their parents. Both are ignoring the lifesaving use of car seat belts.

Champion Spark Plug Company, through its Highway Safety Program, queried nearly 12,000 high school seniors on seat belt wearing habits. In cars equipped with belts, well under 50 per cent use the restraining devices.

Only 14.8 per cent said they always use belts. Another 29.3 per cent said they used them most of the time. The biggest percentage, 47.5, said they seldom used belts. Some 17.7 per cent said they never used seat belts.

There was little difference in use between boys and girls, with less than a percentage point difference in their answers.

In addition to youngsters driving cars equipped with seat belts but not using them, large percentages are driving cars which have no seat belts. Of those driving their own cars, less than half of the vehicles are equipped with belts. Over 63.5 per cent of all cars, including those belonging to parents, were equipped with belts.

The students' failure to wear seat belts was not because of their failure to recognize the consequences, the survey found. Almost two-thirds of them identified not wearing belts as a major contributing cause to traffic fatalities.

Estimates by the National Safety Council show that about one out of five fatalities could have been avoided if seat belts were being worn.

According to J. R. McGeorge, Champion's Public Relations Manager and Director of the Highway Safety Program, "In our presentation to school groups we have Indianapolis race drivers stress the responsibilities as well as the skills of operating a car.

"A race driver would no more think of operating a car without a seat belt than he would without a steering wheel," McGeorge said.

The 1968-69 Champion Highway Safety Program, to be conducted in schools throughout the U.S. and Canada, is stressing seat belt use as well as other safety aids.

ARE YOU DRIVING ECONOMY CAR ON LUXURY BUDGET?

Tune-Up Can Save You Money

Are you driving an economy car on a luxury car budget?

Chances are this is the case if you aren't driving and servicing your car properly. Getting the best performance from your car at the least possible expenditure depends on how you drive and how you care for your car.

Take the matter of gasoline consumption. Tests conducted on an international basis by Champion Spark Plug Company last year showed how condition of the car affects gasoline mileage.

Champion transported a dynamometer on wheels to shopping centers in the United States, Canada and Mexico to test effects of tune-up on gasoline mileage.

Results of Tests
Cars were tested for gasoline consumption before tune-up, after installation of new spark plugs and after a complete tune-up. Average improvement after installation of new spark plugs alone was 6.2 per cent in the U.S. and Canada. Average improvement after complete tune-up was 8.2 per cent.

Thus, close to two gallons in every tankful of gasoline can be saved when the engine is kept in tune.

Proper maintenance can also save as much as 20 per cent in tire life. Keeping tires at recommended air pressures not only saves wear on tires but actually helps improve gasoline mileage. Underinflated tires, especially, are thieves of gasoline.

In addition to proper inflation, balancing the wheels and correct wheel alignment are essential to maximum tire wear. Experts estimate that tires subjected to unbalancing and wrong alignment could easily wear out six months prematurely.

Another ingredient to economical driving is using the best grades of oil available and changing that oil and filter at recommended intervals. Good oil, properly maintained, can save inestimable yet substantial wear on vital engine parts.

Neglect of oil could lead to a premature deterioration of rods and pistons and could require a major engine overhaul.

The biggest payoff for a well-cared-for car would come at trade-in time. A car that is in good condition could bring an additional several hundred dollars over a neglected car. There's another bonus that can't always be measured in dollars and cents. That's the security realized from driving a safe, well-performing auto.

BEFORE SUMMER TRIP Consult Your Mechanic

By JOHN ECK
Director, Emergency Road Service,
American Automobile Association

A long winter of commuting back and forth to work, schools and shops — often under severe weather conditions — has left your automobile "out of condition" just at a time when you're all set for the pleasure trips of spring and summer.

To plan well for warm weather travel you need to know what has happened to your automobile during the stresses of winter, and how to help insure that the trips you plan to take will be safe and trouble-free.

Nearly 72 million U.S. motorists had some problem with their automobile in 1967, the American Automobile Association's annual survey showed. Forty-three per cent of them were due to battery, starter and ignition system failures, an increase of 20 per cent over the previous year.

The 14 million flat tires motorists had in 1967 was the second highest figure on the list of all troubles. There also were 581,000 incidences of brake failure.

The Emergency Road Service Department of the AAA suggests you consult a good auto mechanic early this season.

A checklist has been developed for your use in working with him to discover and correct any problems which may have developed during the colder months.

Sixty years of experience in auto repair, and our day-to-day observation of the repair needs of 11 million AAA driver-members, lead us to recommend:

TUNEUP. An engine tuneup is a wise investment. Have the ignition, points, spark plugs, battery, voltage regulator, generator and all wiring checked.

LUBRICATION. A thorough lubrication job will lessen wear on vital moving parts. Change to the grade of oil recommended for the driving conditions you expect to encounter. Install a new oil filter cartridge. Check all hydraulic fluid levels.

COOLING SYSTEM. Have the cooling system cleaned and flushed; refill with a good permanent-type antifreeze or add a rust inhibitor. Have the thermostat, fan belt and water pump checked.

BRAKES, TIRES AND WHEELS. Have the brake linings inspected and check the brake seals. Have the tires rotated; replace worn or damaged tires to eliminate blowouts and flat tire worries. Check the wheel alignment and balance — unaligned and unbalanced tires cause excessive and uneven wear.

Be sure shock absorbers are in good condition. In addition causing discomfort, bad shock absorbers can be checked for perfect operation.

VISION. Windshield wipers, headlights, turn signals, backup and brake lights should all be essentially in good working order — that you do not have the time or the need for the entire check-up routine.

There are certain minimum precautions AAA suggests before any long-distance travel by automobile, however. They also can be presented as a checklist, which we call a "Trip Check."

The points constitute a simple "make-ready" to assure you of a dependable car: INSPECT AND ADJUST all fan belts. CHECK AND ALIGN front end.

LOAD TEST battery and clean terminals. INSPECT AND TIGHTEN all hoses. INSPECT ALL TIRES. ADJUST BRAKES, check linings.

You should consider these additional services, and have your mechanic perform them according to your car manufacturer's recommendations: DRAIN AND FLUSH cooling system, adding rust inhibitor with refill.

CHANGE motor oil. LUBRICATE. CLEAN OR CHANGE air, gas and oil filters. CLEAN AND CHECK crankcase ventilation system.

CHECK OR CHANGE transmission and differential fluid. CHECK AND GREASE front wheel bearing.

These are the preventive measures, taken frequently, which will not only give you peace of mind while traveling this summer, but will also increase the life of your car and help it to give you top-notch performance in all seasons and under all conditions.

42 PER CENT Checks Indicate Many Cars Unsafe

There are several subjects which are more commonly discussed in recent years. Certainly not the least of these subjects is highway safety, and automobile inspection.

And usually, some questions are raised.

Like — did you pass? The query is often posed by one who has recently been exposed to PMVI — periodic motor vehicle inspection. And the answer, in a surprisingly high percentage of cases, is no! However, the answer may not be so surprising, when you consider one expert's opinion.

In testimony before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, H. C. Stivers, then president of the Motor and Equipment Manufacturers Association, estimated that 42 per cent of the cars on the highways have defects that affect the safe operation of the vehicle.

Supporting this figure is a study conducted by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. It reports that 42 per cent of the vehicles brought in for inspection, voluntarily or in spot checks, do not pass the minimum requirements for mechanical safety.

The Institute's study was categorized in four groups: Vehicles up to one year old (25 per cent rejection rate); two to five years (40 per cent rejection rate); six to ten years (51 per cent rejection rate); and 11 years or older (53 per cent rejection rate).

In another report, the City of Detroit utilized a specially developed test lane to ferret out defects in automobiles. A voluntary inspection program of two weeks duration last May, involving approximately one thousand cars, showed that four out of 10 cars were mechanically unsafe. Major defects centered around improper wheel alignment and steering assembly. Other components that inspection teams check closely for defects include shock absorbers, windshield wipers, headlight aim and wheel vibration.

Without question, they all affect the safe operation of a vehicle.

ANNUAL IN ONTARIO
Just across the border from Detroit, in Windsor, Ontario, automobile inspection has been an annual occurrence for the past six years. It's conducted both on a voluntary basis, and in spot checks during May.

The vehicle test equipment is owned by the Provincial government; tests are conducted by Windsor police. Police Chief Gordon Preston and his department are very pleased by the growing numbers of Windsor motorists who volunteer their cars for inspection.

Their most recent test period showed that of 4700 owners who voluntarily put their cars through the check lanes, almost half couldn't pass the test. Owners failing the test were instructed to have their cars repaired to bring them back up to the standards set down by the Provincial government.

However, the point is that by volunteering, motorists are showing their concern with the safety of their vehicles — more-over, they're doing something about it.

In the Windsor program last year, safety officials also ordered 327 vehicles through the test equipment — vehicles that were obviously in disrepair, and from appearances, unsafe. Fifty-seven were approved, 145 were rejected and had to have repairs made, while 125 were totally condemned.

ACCIDENTS REDUCED

It would seem, after a lot of talk about automobile safety and vehicle inspection, something really concrete is being done about it. All states now are required to implement a program of vehicle inspection, within guidelines issued by the National Highway Safety Bureau — or take the chance of losing some of their federal highway construction funds.

In some Canadian Provinces (like the law that was passed in Ontario effective November, 1968) motor vehicles must be inspected and certified safe before the vehicle title can be transferred to another owner.

Does that sound like black-mail? Consider the benefits. Under PMVI, accidents and, more important, fatalities are reduced.

A study by a New York consulting firm in 1967, found that in areas without an inspection plan the fatality rate was nearly 10 per cent higher than in areas with a vehicle inspection program. That is mighty strong evidence in favor of PMVI.

And with new legislation to encourage safety inspection programs together with a more aware and increasingly concerned motoring public, the wheels are in motion to help make our highways safer from automobile mishaps due to mechanical failures.

VEEEEEEEERY INTERESTING

HERMISTON, Ore. (AP) — D. W. Bliss, chairman of the city planning commission, handed in this letter of resignation this week.

"The reason for my resignation is that I am tired."

"I am tired of hearing the complaints of my critics."

"I am tired of continually justifying my thoughts and actions to the well being of the low income, aged and the small children of poor parents."

"I am tired of hearing complaints from people who just do not like taxation in any form."

"I am tired of listening to the opinions of people who consider themselves authorities on all subjects."

"Hereafter, through the home stretch of this long and eventful life, I am going to live up to the concepts of that deathless statement by Chief Joseph who, while standing up to his hip pockets in that bone-chilling mid-winter snow in northern Montana, looked up at the U.S. Calvary general and said:

Most Frequent Car Troubles

Survey Shows Critical Faults

The tip of this coil was so badly encrusted it had completely disappeared on one side. Plastic tape to the rescue... temporarily.

When the air filter is so badly clogged with dirt it can't be cleaned any more, you have two choices: buy a new one or ventilate it, as was done here.

This is an oil filter cap. It is supposed to breathe through a wire mesh filter. This one choked to death long ago and its engine suffered the consequences.

What do you do when the spark plug insulator breaks? Wrap it with some plastic tape and keep on driving... but probably not for long.

In planning your car maintenance, it's wise to know where trouble is likely to strike. A list of the most frequent causes of the Missouri Auto Club in trouble is contained in a survey of the Missouri Auto Club in the U.S.

The club's recently opened St. Louis diagnostic center tabulated defects found on the first 1,603 cars to pass through its lanes. According to the results revealed by F. B. Oldham, club technical services director, these were the most frequent critical faults:

1. IGNITION — (points, condenser, dwell and variation, coil, timing, spark plug performance, ignition under load) — 1,500 defects or .94 per car.
2. FRONT END — (including alignment, front suspension pivots and shocks) — 1,450 defects or .90 per car.
3. BRAKES — (including brake lining thickness and condition, adjustment, hand-brake, drum or disc condition, brake hoses, pedal pressure, brake balance and progression) — 1,354 or .85 defects per car.

4. HEADLAMPS — (including candle power, aim, warning lights and retraction) — 1,055 or .66 defects per car.

5. TIRES — (including tire pressure, tread depth and walls) — 922 or .58 per car.

6. STEERING LINKAGE — (including steering box, tie rods, steering arm and ball joints) — 402 or .25 per car.

The St. Louis facility, first of its kind ever run by an Auto Club, performs only diagnostic work. Repairs, if needed, are performed at area facilities with the club making no recommendations on where to go.

The club will perform rechecks of work performed, consulting, on request, with the mechanic doing the repair work.

Heavily encrusted with deposits, this spark plug was still firing... sometimes.

This distributor rotor was so badly cracked it was falling apart. The owner wrapped it with cord so that it managed to hold together and somehow kept on delivering its spark.

It's Expensive To Drive Fast

A n Australian television network staged a two-car run where one car was driven in a normal, safe manner and the motorist used 86 per cent more other was driven hard to make tire tread (91 cents worth); 55 cents more in fuel and 31 cents faster time. While finishing the 238-mile course in 40 minutes quicker time, the hard-driving 40 minutes saved cost him $1.77.

Roar May Mean Exhaust Wear

Has your family sedan started to develop a sports car "rap"? Instead of taking it to Watkins Glen or Lemans, better check your exhaust system. That deep-throated roar under the chassis undoubtedly means your exhaust system is defective.

Not only might it earn you a traffic ticket for making too much noise but it could mean a death sentence for you and your family. A leaky exhaust is a potential source of lethal carbon monoxide.

Don't Forget Good Service For Car Air Conditioner

The pleasures derived from owning an auto air conditioner are many and varied. However, as with any mechanical unit on your car, there are ways to increase satisfaction and improve performance. The Automotive Air Conditioning Association offers these suggestions on the care and service of your car air conditioner.

Hot Weather Hints

During hot summer days always park in the shade — or leave your windows open. Your car will cool down much quicker if the interior doesn't become super-heated. Parked in the sun on a 90 degree day (with windows closed), the temperatures inside your car can soar to a tremendous 140 degrees — the highest degree to which most people are ever subjected.

Should the interior of your car become super-heated, turn your air conditioner on "high" and place the temperature control at its highest setting.

Drive a few blocks with all windows rolled down. This quickly removes hot air and permits quicker cooling. Air must circulate through the condenser coil before your unit will function at maximum efficiency, thus your car must be moving for it to cool properly.

When you park, remember to turn your air conditioner off — this makes starting your car much easier.

If unit doesn't cool, move temperature control to coldest setting. If cooling doesn't occur then, turn unit off (to avoid possible damage) and see your service man for a check-up.

Sometimes on a long trip, frost may form on the cooling coil. This may be evident by a lack of cold air, since frost will prevent air circulation. To correct, move temperature control toward off position and turn fan control to high. This will melt ice and allow unit to again cool properly.

Care, Service Hints

Don't be alarmed at water draining from under your parked car. This comes from the condensate drain hoses and has been removed from the air inside your car by the dehumidifying action of the evaporator coil.

Service and maintenance of all air conditioners is necessary to maintain maximum performance. Periodic checks for the purpose of routine preventative maintenance will assure satisfactory operation of your air unit.

Safe Distance

What's a safe distance to follow another car? Experts recommend one car length for every 10 miles per hour of speed on dry roads. When roads are slippery, the distance between should be doubled.

Poor Starting Not Always Caused By Your Battery

Blaming starting trouble on the battery can be like blaming a broken leg on bone failure. In both cases, something is wrong but something other than the affected part is causing the problem.

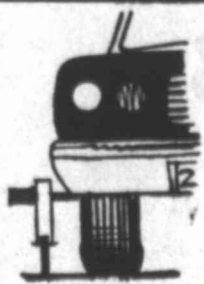

A well-maintained battery that hasn't outlived its usefulness should not cause starting problems. More likely some other electrical component is at fault and is draining the battery power. For example, faulty wiring, worn spark plugs or malfunctioning distributor may be overworking the battery during starting.

As a result the battery wears down to a point that it may seem dead. The alert service man will look beyond the battery as the cause of the starting failure, especially when he is reminded to do so by the customer.

To keep your battery in top operating condition, here are some pointers: A quick visual inspection every time you gas up and a voltage test every six months should assure you maximum efficiency battery life.

It's a simple job for the service attendant to check battery water level and condition of cables and terminals. This should be done at least once a week to guard against premature deterioration.

Test Brakes Occasionally

Brakes, like all-day suckers have a habit of wearing away slowly. So, it's a good practice to test your brakes periodically to make sure they can stop your car safely.

Every week, test the hydraulic system by firmly pressing your foot against the pedal. If the pedal moves gradually towards the floorboard, you are losing vital pressure. Have the problem corrected immediately.

Periodically, test stopping ability in a flat, open area where no other cars or obstruction are present. Accelerate to 30 miles per hour, then apply the brakes with your hands off the steering wheel. If the car pulls to one side, you may have brake trouble.

In any case, have your serviceman perform a complete inspection of the brake system every six months.

Great Drives Available To Motorists

By LEN BARNES
Getting there — to a vacation that is — can be more than half the fun, if you go by car. And if you include one of a handful of America's great drives in your route.

Once accessible to only a few who had unlimited time, all these drives are now easy to reach for most Americans and Canadians on a two-week vacation, thanks to distance-whittling limited access, divided interstate highways.

The writer has not driven every mile of North America roads, or even every route that has some fame or is beautiful. But I will recommend the following 10 as outstanding on anyone's list of great motoring experiences.

CALIFORNIA'S OCEAN ROAD — Numbered US 101 with frequent cuts west on California 1, this road curves through a variety of spectacular scenery from sea level to 2,000 feet and down again on the way from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

It goes through or past sand, mountains, cliffs, arroyos, ocean, fishing villages, onion fields, grape arbors, remote and beautiful Big Sur country, rock coves, crooked cypress trees (among the world's oldest living things) and plenty of palms.

CANADA'S BANFF - JASPER DRIVE — This road seems to have been built over animal trails, it turns so often as it follows five great river valleys through a virgin wilderness along the most spectacular portion of America's grandest mountain chain — the Canadian Rockies.

Banff-Jasper has been called the most scenic highway in the world, and hundreds of various-shaped mountain peaks, from needed spires and inverted ice cream cones to saw-toothed piles and razorback edges give this claim credence as they stand watch on both sides.

COLORADO'S MILLION DOLLAR HIGHWAY — Anyone who picks just one Colorado highway will get arguments, there are so many great ones. But US 550 from Durango to Ouray has got to make even the most sophisticated motorist catch his breath at least once a minute.

Blasted out of sheer rock, this road offers just enough room for two cars to pass in places, and a scarcity of guard rails. In places top of the cliff cannot be seen from one side, or bottom of the canyon on the other. Its spectacular switchbacks keep one constantly in view of soaring peaks.

FLORIDA'S OVERSEAS HIGHWAY — One can go over the Atlantic Ocean in his car for most of the way from Miami to Key West on US 1.

Taking off on a series of huddles sometimes skipping at water level, sometimes vaulting 75 feet above the ocean, this concrete thread holds together a necklace of 750 keys, or small, low, narrow spits of limestone coral and sand that poke their heads a few feet above sea water in the highway's path alongside it. There are 49 bridges totaling nearly 18 miles.

GREAT LAKES STATES ONTARIO'S LAKE SUPERIOR DRIVE — The essential appeal of this drive is it makes wilderness easily accessible. It meanders through muskeg, rifles through rock, snakes through swamps, curves through rock canyons, roars through rock gorges, is sometimes smooth as a billiard table, sometimes bumper than a chuckhole-filled street in spring.

From it one sees magnificent sweeps of Lake Superior, vast vistas of mountain and valley, glimpses of gem-like lakes hidden in the trees, many of which have never been fished, and which are visited by moose and bears regularly. This is a drive of such variety that everyone will bring home a different impression.

HAWAII'S CIRCLE OF OAHU ISLAND DRIVE — Toughest job I had was deciding which to describe of many drives the Hawaiian Islands offer. For they are all lovely, and most feature essentially the same things; breathtaking vistas of the ocean in its many colors, accessibility to beaches which are little-used, roads edged with everything from stately coconut palm trees to flowers ranging in color from white to red seemingly growing wild, roads which cut through lush green sugar cane fields higher than one's car, or which edge sugar pineapple fields rich and red. Volcano country with black rock alongshore, rock crumbling to red and turning into rich earth inland.

MONTANA'S GOING TO THE SUN HIGHWAY — Of all the roads I've ever driven, this one bisecting Glacier National Park is my personal favorite. I have driven it both ways eight times and always see something new. The late Stephen T. Mather, first director of the National Park Service, wrote of it:

"It is doubtful if in any other road in America can in the same distance unfold such a grand array of beautiful forests, dashing torrents, wonderful gorges and valleys, towering cirques, and a vista of bold, needle-peaked mountains and serrated escarpments."

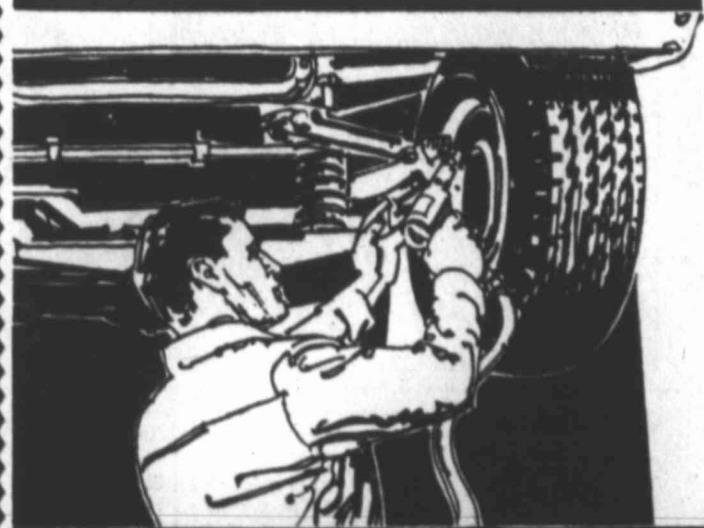

It's probably the only road in the world so engineered that one can climb 4,000 feet with numerous switchbacks in less than 25 miles, cross the Continental Divide, descend 4,000 feet in 25 miles, and never have to change driving ranges once. Even those who fear mountain driving should have no trouble here.

NORTH CAROLINA'S OUTER BANKS HIGHWAY — Many call this drive on State 12 the "road that beat the sand dunes," for it makes accessible a remote, 150-mile stretch of pencil-thin sand islands constantly moved about by the wind from the Atlantic Ocean on the east. To the west is Pamlico sound, which separates the islands from the mainland by eight to 30 miles of water. From its inland end at Elizabeth City it goes through towns with salty names like Nags Head, Hatteras, Ocracoke.

NORTH CAROLINA - TENNESSEE - VIRGINIA'S BLUE RIDGE PARKWAY — Some of the most graceful mountain scenery in the world is unfolded from a car window on this motoring thrill ride which often takes one through or above the clouds. When completed, it will be a 470-mile scenic drive connecting Shenandoah National Park in Virginia and Great Smoky Mountains National Park in North Carolina and Tennessee. State and U.S. highways connect the few portions not finished.

WASHINGTON STATE'S OLYMPIC PENINSULA DRIVE — Choosing one among the many great drives in this area is not easy. But the one which circles Olympic National Park offers possibly more variety than the others. The park's 888,000 acres are sprawled over the extreme northwestern point of the Continental United States, bordered by Canada to the north and the Pacific Ocean to the west. Much of this drive follows the ocean, and to get to know much about the park one must detour inland in a number of places.

Good Car Care Will Also Help Control Pollutants

Good car care takes on added importance these days — to you, your pocketbook, and the air you breathe. This is especially so if you own a car built during the past seven years, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

If your car is a 1963 or later model, it is equipped with a device to control pollutants that would otherwise come from the engine crankcase. If you own a 1968 or 1969 model, it also has a system for reducing tailpipe emissions.

These devices and systems, however, will continue to work properly — and, what's more, allow the engine to perform satisfactorily — only if you have your car checked regularly. A periodic tune-up will save you money in fuel and repair costs, give you a smoother running car, and help cut down on air pollution.

1968: Crankcase Controls
The first device to control automotive pollution was installed nationally in all 1963 cars. The device — called the "positive crankcase ventilation," or PCV valve — was designed to recirculate unburned hydrocarbons back to the engine where they have another chance to burn.

Formerly, these unburned gases (called blowby gases) escaped past the piston rings into the crankcase, where they were vented into the air. Installation of the PCV device cut total hydrocarbon emissions from the typical car by 24 per cent, compared with cars without the device.

The PCV valve will continue to do its job in controlling hydrocarbon emissions if it's periodically inspected and serviced as required under your car warranty. Otherwise, you may be in for trouble. Over a period of time, crankcase fumes tend to build up gums or varnishes. These could cause the valve to stick and not function.

Result: Poor Starting
If the valve gets stuck in the open position, the carburetor will feed the engine too lean a mixture of fuel and air. The result: poor starting and frequent stalling while you wait and idle at a stoplight.

In the more likely event that the valve sticks in the closed position, crankcase fumes will be trapped in the crankcase. These fumes will either escape through the oil filter breather cap (if the breather cap is clean), or form sludge in the crankcase. This can create corrosive acids, which ruin engine bearings.

The best way to prevent formation of these acids is to have the valve checked each time you have your oil changed or engine tuned.

Most car manufacturers recommend periodic replacement of the PCV valve. This can be done inexpensively and easily by your service station mechanic. This preventive maintenance can prove to be cheap insurance against an expensive bearing replacement job.

1968: Exhaust Controls

The second significant step in automotive pollution control occurred, nationally, with the installation of exhaust control systems, beginning with 1968 cars. These systems are designed to control both hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions.

In most 1968 and 1969 cars, the exhaust control system is based on modification of the engine to achieve a lean fuel mixture and retarded ignition to produce higher combustion temperatures.

Cuts Carbon Monoxide

These exhaust control systems, together with the PCV valve, reduce total hydrocarbon emissions about two-thirds. Exhaust controls also cut carbon monoxide emissions by around 60 per cent, compared to earlier cars without such controls.

These systems are thus very effective in reducing tailpipe emissions but they make regular maintenance all the more essential. Here's why:

- Your spark plugs run hotter and may have to be replaced more often.
  - Only periodic tune-ups can keep the pollution control system and its parts (air pumps, pump drive belts, air hoses, and other hardware) working at top efficiency — both to insure satisfactory and economical engine operation and to minimize exhaust emissions.
- The auto and oil industries are continuing to work to further reduce auto pollution. The 1970 models will have improved exhaust controls to reduce hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions by some 30 per cent below the levels of the 1968 and 1969 models.

The 1971 models are expected to have devices that will virtually eliminate evaporation of fuel from the carburetor and fuel tank. With this step, total hydrocarbon emissions will have been reduced by around 85 per cent. And farther on down the road are systems, now in the experimental stage, that have the potential to control auto pollution even more.

About Older Cars

Today, less than half the cars on the road do not have any pollution controls. In another 2-3 years, this will be true of only 25 per cent of the nation's cars. As more pre-1963 cars are scrapped, at least one part of the auto pollution problem — crankcase emissions — will be fully solved before too long.

Meanwhile, even if your car has no pollution controls, it will emit fewer pollutants if it's kept in good operating condition.

An engine — no matter what its age — with one bad spark plug will not only perform poorly; it may also emit up to 25 times more hydrocarbons than a properly tuned engine.

And a faulty carburetor or choke adjustment can cost you money by permitting one gallon of gasoline out of every tankful to pass into the air unburned.

Whether your car is old or new, it will perform better, last longer, cause less air pollution, and — most important — save you money in the long run, if you make sure it receives proper, regular care.

HELP MECHANIC Critical Clues To Car Troubles

In certain respects the automotive service man and the family doctor have much in common. One notable similarity is in the problem of interpreting the patient's complaints. Often, it is not easy for a person to describe his body's ailments, or the ailments of his car.

In neither case is the patient expected to do his own diagnosing, but in both cases it helps when the doctor or mechanic has some descriptive information with which to begin his symptomatic analysis.

Independent Garage Owners of America offer some advice for car owners regarding the portrayal and interpretation of their car troubles. Most mechanical problems follow set behavioral patterns, they say, and often it is easier for the owner to observe and recognize these characteristics than it is for the mechanic.

Some problems, for example, occur only in wet weather; others disappear in dampness. An elusive engine miss may come and go under certain specific conditions and a real tipoff to your mechanic may be the circumstances under which that miss occurs. Is it always on a heavy pull? Or when the car is first started in the morning? Or when it gets hot?

The most critical clues to car troubles are:

ROAD SURFACES . . . is the symptom more noticeable on asphalt or concrete? Washboard? High crowned road or flat?

SPEED . . . this has a bearing on most diagnoses.

LOAD . . . is the trouble more pronounced with full passenger load? On a long grade? Downhill?

YOUNG DEMOCRATS LEAVE FOR STATE CONVENTION AT DALLAS
County Chairman Cecil Riordan, right, sees local delegates off

Local Young Demos Join In State Meet

Howard County Young Democrats left Friday to take part in their first meeting with the Young Democrats of Texas at Dallas.

Rotarians Will Hear Dr. Burnett

Impediments to international understanding will be discussed when Dr. John H. Burnett Jr., Texas Tech professor, addresses the Rotary Club Tuesday noon at the Settles.

Dr. Burnett, a native of Somerville, N.J., and a graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan College and Emory University, where he earned his Ph.D. degree, has made a specialty of studying Russian foreign policy. He is engaged in rewriting his Ph.D. Dissertation on this subject and will submit the new version to a publisher this summer. He is scheduled to participate on a panel of the International Studies Association Thursday, dealing with his comparative study of Russian and U.S. foreign policy.

They were due to be recognized at W. Yarborough, and Saturday the state meeting. John Hull, president of the Howard County chapter, was due to make a nominating speech for one of the state vice presidential candidates, George Clayton, Grand Prairie.

So far as is known this is the first time the county has had representation at the Young Demos state parley. Friday evening they heard Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, and Saturday they took part in business sessions. Nominations and elections were slated for today.

Hull said that the local chapter hoped to make a bid for one of the state offices next year. Delegates from here were Calvin Dickenson, Debbie Hardison, Guy Burrows, and Phillip Burchett. Others were alternates.

The local delegation was under the unit rule. Cecil Riordan, county Democratic chairman, said that organization of the Young Democrat chapter here is one of the most gratifying and encouraging developments for the party in a number of years.

Car License Sales Ahead Of Last Year

With the deadline for motor vehicle registration only two days away, sales of 1969 license plates in Howard County are well ahead of last year.

Mrs. Zirah LeFevre, county tax assessor-collector, reported Friday that receipts totaled $423,171.82, compared to $385,677.66 at the same period in 1968. She said registration of vehicles was brisk and that total receipts on April 1 may exceed $500,000.

Motorists have until midnight Tuesday to get their license plates and get them on their vehicles.

If a motorist fails to get his license plates on time he still must obtain plates and at a 20 per cent increase in fee as a late penalty. If he should drive his vehicle without the new license plates, he can be fined up to $200 for operating a vehicle without current license plates.

Howard County motorists may purchase tags at the county tax assessor-collector's office, Newsum's Food Center or Forsan City Hall. They are requested to bring their vehicle's title and 1968 registration when buying the plates, along with their current address and ZIP code.

It is important that the correct residence address appear on 1969 registration records. Texas motor vehicle registration records are being computerized, which will result in greater registration convenience next year.

In 1970, vehicle owners will be mailed a special pre-prepared registration form which eliminates most of the time-consuming typing by the registration clerk. Motorists will need only to bring the form to the county tax office or registration station, pay the fee and have the form validated with new license numbers.
