Gulf Dock Deadlock Unbroken

HOUSTON (AP) — Tentative agreement early today on a contract for union clerks and checkers apparently cleared the way for about 8,000 West Gulf longshoremen to end a 102-day strike and resume work.

Some union officials predicted that longshoremen from Lake Charles, La., to Brownsville, Tex., would be back on the job Wednesday afternoon or evening.

"The settlement means that ports will be back in operation all over the West Gulf with some remote exceptions," federal mediator Paul E. Bowens said.

Deep sea longshoremen, who load and unload ships, reached a separate contract agreement Sunday with the West Gulf Maritime Association in Galveston. Longshoremen said they would remain away from the 10 west gulf ports, however, until the union's clerks and checkers reached a settlement.

The clerks' and checkers' agreement affects only union locals in Galveston and Houston, but will serve as a pattern for other locals in the West Gulf district.

Heat Kills Cancer?

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A new nurse to help cure many desperate human cancers could be a fever.

A feverish heat is one of nature's ways of throwing off germ and virus infections.

So scientists now are planning to heat up the whole human body with artificial fevers in hopes of killing cancers. They also plan to use anticancer drugs simultaneously for a double punch.

Fever as a helpful nurse is not a new idea. Some 100 years ago, a German doctor noticed that a man with cancer of the jaw recovered after an infection causing high fever.

Much more recent research points to heat as a weapon against cancer. Dr. Charles Heidelberger of the University of Wisconsin said today in a report to an American Cancer Society seminar for science writers.

Cooperative research at Wisconsin and the University of Rome, Italy, showed that heating the blood supply to the arms and legs to about 107 degrees Fahrenheit produced complete disappearance of cancers in eight of 22 patients. They have been well now for at least two years, two of them for more than four years. Normal body temperature is 98.6.

Ex-Banker Incompetent

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — The former president of an El Paso, Tex., bank, accused of embezzlement, was found Tuesday to be mentally incompetent to stand trial on the charge.

The finding was made by U.S. District Court Judge H. Vearle Payne after a hearing where two psychiatrists testified on Robert Lockhart's mental condition.

U.S. Atty. John Quinn said Lockhart would be transferred to the federal hospital at Springfield, Mo., for treatment and observation.

Lockhart, 44, will be treated until he is mentally competent to stand trial or until the charges against him are disposed of otherwise.

Lockhart is the former president of the State National Bank in El Paso. He was arrested by the FBI March 24 at a motel in Lordsburg on a federal warrant charging him with embezzling $60,000.

328 Absentee Votes

A record 328 absentee votes were cast in the Big Spring Independent School District election which will be held Saturday.

Pauline Petty, Howard County clerk, announced the final total after the deadline for absentee voting at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

The large number of absentee ballots may be due to the election being held during the Easter weekend when many voters will be out of town.

Seven candidates are seeking two positions on the board of trustees. They are incumbent Grant Boardman, Mrs. Patten Daniel, Max F. Moore, L. D. Hayworth, Wendell Stasey, Sidney Clark and A. K. Guthrie.

Voting will be from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday at Big Spring High School.

The Naked Truth

PORT ISABEL, Tex. (AP) — Twelve persons accused of indecent exposure Tuesday after they allegedly appeared nude on the South Padre Island beach remained in jail at Brownsville today.

Deputy sheriff Nem Bryan said he and other deputies arrested them after receiving a report that someone was running up and down the beach and swimming unclad in the Gulf of Mexico.

Bryan said the 12 were observed and photographed before their arrest.

He said the 11 New York residents and a Pennsylvania man were playing on the beach near a park at the north end of the populated south section of the resort island.

Returning Home

The flag-draped casket of former President Dwight Eisenhower is borne from the funeral train at Abilene, Kan., today past his widow and son, John. The body of the former chief executive was returned to his boyhood home for services. He will be interred at the Eisenhower Center.

Plan To Split Texas Picking Up Support

AUSTIN (AP) — A Senate committee approved floor debate on a proposal to split Texas in half today after South Texas advocates got Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes moved to that position.

The measure, a perennial pet of Sen. V. E. "Red" Berry, the horse race betting advocate from San Antonio, was passed by the committee amid some laughter. It doesn't appear to really have a chance of getting through the legislature.

Berry is backing his long-shot proposal on the theory that South Texas would approve betting on the nags if he can only split it off from North Texas voters.

"You'll get a few Baptists long with Barnes but that will be all right," said Berry.

There was no effort to move Gov. Preston Smith, native of Lubbock, from the North Texas portion.

Berry introduced the state-splitting proposal, which would have to be approved by voters in 1970 if it should surprisingly win approval by the legislature, after the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee killed his plan to legalize horse race betting in Bexar and Harris counties. He accused North Texans of meddling in South Texas business.

A subcommittee approved Berry's measure today without change but Sen. Joe Christie, El Paso, suggested that Berry bend his boundary lines to include Barnes in South Texas "along with all our other great leaders."

Berry readily agreed to the amendment but warned that Barnes' home area of DeLeon contained "some of those Baptists."

Berry would draw his boundary line from the northeast corner of Orange County westward via the northern county lines of Hardin, Liberty, Harris, Waller, Washington, Fayette, Bastrop, Caldwell, Hays, Blanco, Gillespie, Kimball, Menard, Schleicher, Crockett, Pecos, Reeves, Loving, Culberson, Hudspeth and El Paso counties —with the detour to DeLeon in Comanche.

"This splits my district in half," moaned Sen. Charles Herring, Austin, one of three to vote against the measure. Also voting "no" were Sens. Jack Highower, Vernon, and Criss Cole, Houston.

20 Nominations For Key Leaders

The number of high school seniors and juniors nominated for the 1969 Youth Achievement Award had jumped to 20 today, with many additional entries coming in.

Death Penalty Warning Anew

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court warned anew today that death sentences cannot stand if opponents of capital punishment are automatically stricken from juries.

It is entirely possible, said Justice Potter Stewart, that a person who has "a fixed opinion" against capital punishment or who does not "believe" in it might nevertheless be perfectly able to consider fairly the imposition of a death sentence in a particular case.

With that pronouncement the court directed a hearing in federal court in Alabama for a young Negro sentenced to be executed in the murder of a state conservation officer.

In other actions today, the court:

—Said judges must make sure that defendants know what they are doing when they plead guilty. Chief Justice Earl Warren said judges should "take the few minutes necessary to inform them of their rights."

—Cautioned trial judges against reading pre-sentence reports before the jury reaches a verdict. The unanimous opinion called for strict observance of a federal criminal procedure rule and said defendants' rights could be prejudiced otherwise.

GEORGE ZACHARIAH

GARNER McADAMS

Big Spring Voters Return Incumbents

The incumbents were returned to office by Big Spring voters in the city commission election Tuesday, in a relatively light turnout.

Garner McAdams, seeking a second term, led the ticket with 1,052 votes. George Zachariah, veteran member of the commission, was close behind with 1,040 votes in winning his sixth term.

Eddie Acri, losing his second bid for a commission seat, polled 816 and Blaz Bailon trailed the four man race with 314 votes. Five votes were counted for write-in candidates.

The total turnout of 1,714 was way behind the count last year, when 3,120 voters balloted between nine candidates for three places on the commission. Two years ago, 2,000 votes were tabulated in the seven man race for two seats.

"I appreciate the support and confidence the voters indicated in the balloting," McAdams said this morning. "I will continue to devote careful study to the problem facing our city."

Zachariah, a former two term mayor, also expressed appreciation. "I extend my appreciation and gratitude to the voters," he said. "I feel we have made considerable progress in the past several years and will continue to do so."

Zachariah and McAdams built up heavy majorities in the three large boxes, while Acri was carrying the Northside and Airport boxes.

McAdams led the ticket at the downtown fire station with 350, and at the Eleventh and Birdwell station with 262. Zachariah carried the Eighteenth and Main station with 394.

Acri led at the Northside station with 294 votes and at the Airport box with 41.

The absentee votes were counted with the ballots cast at the downtown fire station.

Hometown Honors Hero Eisenhower

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — The body of Dwight Eisenhower was laid to rest today at the end of the long trail that had carried him to the pinnacle of American military and political power.

The tomb of the 34th president of the United States was a vault —next to that of a long-dead son —beneath the floor of a tiny chapel near the Eisenhower Library in the quiet farm town of his youth.

CANNON BOOMS Cannon boomed a 21-gun salute and riflemen loosed three volleys as the final rites for the general came to a close.

A bugler sounded Taps, the soldier's farewell.

As the honor guard handed the folded stars and stripes that had covered the five-star general's plain, GI coffin, to his widow, the strains of the West Point alma mater were heard by the hundreds massed in silence on the grounds of the Eisenhower Center.

Thus, with full military honors, the nation said goodbye to the man who had commanded a mighty Allied war machine to victory over Nazi Germany in World War II, then led the nation as president through eight years of peace.

The train bearing the body and the former president's family finally pulled into this town of 8,000 around dawn, after a long journey from Washington and a three-day state funeral.

A military honor guard watched over the coffin in its aged baggage car until the moment arrived for the beginning of the final tribute.

It was then transferred to a hearse for the 45-minute procession through the streets of Eisenhower's boyhood home town.

Dignitaries—including his vice president for eight years, President Nixon—followed in the procession behind Mrs. Eisenhower and the hearse as it wound its way through town toward the chapel.

Military units in full dress led the procession in its measured steps to the rumble of muffled drums and military flourishes.

A brief prayer service was held on the steps of the Eisenhower Library. Family and dignitaries sat near the flag-draped coffin.

Only the family and very close friends were admitted for the final moments of the nation's tribute in the tiny chapel, some 100-yards away.

The words of the burial service, however, were carried through loudspeakers to the crowds outside. Across the street was the simple white frame house where the Abilene hero had spent his childhood before heading for West Point and the military career that launched him to greatness.

Then the Eisenhower family left the chapel before the lowering of the casket into its vault, and headed for seclusion.

The placid town of Abilene—once the end of the trail for cowboys herding their cattle from Texas to the Great Plains—resembled an armed camp as the Army prepared for the final salute.

Up to 100,000 persons—dignitaries and the ordinary Americans who made him their leader—were expected.

The soldiers strove to lend to the final rites the crisp efficiency Ike Eisenhower, who died Friday in Washington, D.C., might have prized.

TIGHT SECURITY Their chores were complicated by the constant requirement to please the U.S. Secret Service, charged with guarding President Nixon, when he arrives to say farewell to the man he served eight years as vice president.

Tight security measures were in force. Manhole covers and sidewalk elevators in front of the little stores of downtown Abilene were sealed along the route of the state, 45-minute military procession.

Thousands of Americans came out to wave goodbye as the 15-unit funeral train made its way into the Midwest from the three-day state funeral in the nation's capital.

There were no raucous ceremonies, at the family's request.

Infantrymen Repel Commies

SAIGON (AP) — Founded by rockets and mortars and outnumbered two to one, fewer than 100 U.S. infantrymen fought off a North Vietnamese attack today while American helicopter gunships and fighter-bombers pounded the enemy.

Military spokesmen said 40 North Vietnamese bodies were found and there was not a single American casualty.

"They tried to recover their dead, but we chased them out," said 1st Lt. Toy Smith of Houston, Tex., commander of the 25th Division company that battled the North Vietnamese for two hours 25 miles northeast of Saigon.

"ATE THEM UP"

"They charged out of a bamboo thicket," Smith reported, "but we cut them down before they got anywhere near the perimeter. We were lucky, with the volume of rocket-propelled grenades and automatic weapons they poured in."

Smith had anticipated the attack. On night patrol Tuesday, his troops spotted enemy soldiers on the move in small groups seven miles from the 25th Division headquarters at Cu Chi. Smith ordered his men to "dig in real deep."

At 1 a.m., about 200 North Vietnamese soldiers from the Cu Chi Regiment attacked behind a mortar barrage, a stream of rocket-propelled grenades and machine-gun fire.

"They definitely tried to overrun the position," said one officer. "There was no wire around our perimeter, only holes."

The Americans called for help, and helicopter gunships and bombers swooped down on the enemy positions, strafing in the light of flares.

"The gunships ate them up," said an officer.

A sweep of the battle area turned up 19 enemy assault rifles, six rocket-grenade launchers and one light machine gun, in addition to 48 bodies.

ments initiated by U.S. patrols, American paratroopers and air cavalrymen reported killing 15 enemy at a cost of one American killed and 21 wounded. The fights were 12 miles northwest of Saigon and 79 miles from the capital along the Cambodian frontier.

About 20 rocket and mortar attacks hit allied bases and towns overnight. U.S. headquarters said casualties and damage were light.

TNT SEIZED

A small enemy force broke into the central highlands capital of Pleiku and tried to blow up its bus station, but "the enemy infiltrators were repulsed by South Vietnamese troops," a government spokesman said.

He said one enemy soldier was killed and two grenades and a quantity of TNT were seized. No South Vietnamese casualties were reported.

The lack of heavier shelling and reports of only scattered ground fighting appeared to support U.S. intelligence assessments that the Communist command has eased its five-week-old offensive while its forces receive replacements and supplies.

A U.S. Marine CH46 helicopter was shot down and destroyed Tuesday about 25 miles southwest of Da Nang; two Marines were killed and 10 wounded. An Army UH1 helicopter also was downed by enemy fire in the Central Highlands 13 miles west of Dak To, killing one crewman. A total of 2,494 American helicopters now have been reported lost in the Vietnam war.

U.S. B52 bombers dropped nearly 2,000 tons of explosives on enemy positions in the central highlands and north of Saigon. Sources in Saigon said the 11 per cent cut in B52 operations announced Tuesday by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird in Washington probably would not take effect until July 1, when the new fiscal year begins.

Rescue Workers Brave Cave-Ins, Heat, Gas

BARROTERAN, Mexico (AP)—Rescue workers braved cave-ins, 100-degree heat and poison gas as they dug deep today in a soft-coal mine in which officials said between 131 and 185 Mexican miners were buried by an explosion two days ago.

Before dawn 23 bodies had been recovered. Mine officials said another 128 to 132 men were still trapped 450 feet underground. It was generally believed all were dead.

Seven experts of the U.S. Bureau of Mines in Washington are to reach this small mining town later today to advise Mexican authorities on faster removal of the dead and restoration of the shattered mine.

Juan Heitz, managing director of the Altos Hornos de Mexico S.A. mining concern that owns the diggings, said hours of checking assignment sheets still left the whereabouts of four men in doubt. This produced the uncertainty about the number of victims.

Heitz spoke of them all as "bodies" but emphasized: "We are changing nothing in our efforts. We are not stopping for a minute, even though there is no life, until every man is out."

The disaster was described by Gomez Sada, secretary of mining, as the worst in Mexico's mining history.

When methane gas exploded and set off a two-hour fire in the underground tunnels Monday afternoon, most of Barroteran's

Creditors Paid By Medderses

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP)—About 12½ cents on the dollar was awarded creditors and unsecured claimants against Ernest and Margaret Medders by a bankruptcy referee Tuesday.

Referee Joe E. Hufstutler awarded $92,779 or $746,250 claimed.

The Medderses lived on borrowed money and often entertained lavishly at their show-place farm at Muenster in North Texas. They believed they would inherit a huge sum, but it never materialized.

Hufstutler allowed $35,881 for attorney fees, trustee expenses, taxes and wages in the proceedings.

The Medderses had $128,551 available to pay off the debts ordered by Hufstutler.

Mrs. Medders' son by a previous marriage, Eugene Riggs, sought $4,890 for wages as a herdsman at the ranch. He was awarded $600.

Andrews Picks Sealy As Mayor

ANDREWS — Byford Sealy, mayor, got 435 votes in his unopposed race for mayor of Andrews Tuesday. Jim Dodson, also unopposed, took place No. 4 with 423 votes. George Barber, incumbent, did not run for No. 2, and George McDaniel captured this place with 376 votes. B. W. Turnidge got 65 and Glenn Galle had 22. In the No. 5 spot, vacated by Sealy, Howard Cox won with 323, followed by Hunter Hawkins with 198 and Bill Stroope with 137.

Thomas Picked In Snyder Race

SNYDER — John Thomas was re-elected to place No. 1 on the Snyder City Commission here Tuesday, polling 195 votes to 75 for Homer Godair and 66 for Joe Carrasco.

John H. Boren captured place No. 3 with 225 against 53 for Wayne Monroey. R. C. Patton, incumbent, did not run again for this place. Herbert Reid was unopposed for Place 5 and received 284.

8,000 population converged on the mine entrances. Troops had to hold them back.

By Tuesday grim resignation had set in.

"No one would be able to live through those explosions and gas," said Fortunato Salinas, one of the oldest miners here. "This is the worst of them all."

Asked what might have caused the blast, Heitz said: "It seems now that the equipment was functioning perfectly. That could mean human error, but this is only a supposition."

There are five interlaced mines at Barroteran, 75 miles south of the Texas border town of Eagle Pass. All are at the foot of Santa Rosa Mountain in the Sierra Madre range. The No. 2 and 3 mines, connected by 2,000-foot tunnels, were worst hit.

Officials said all the bodies recovered so far were badly scorched, bruised and broken, but it had not been determined whether the men died of suffocation or were crushed by cave-ins.

About 150 miners were working around the clock to clear the rock and rubble in the No. 2 and 3 mines. Every hour they were rotated in groups of 20.

Initially they had to work with oxygen masks, but by Tuesday night more than 40,000 cubic feet of fresh air was reported circulating in the tunnels. Many miners still entered the sloping No. 3 ramp holding half an onion under their nose, to overcome the nauseous effect of carbon monoxide fumes that follow any major mine blast.

No Contest In Lamesa Voting

LAMESA — In the lightest voter turnout in a decade, two unopposed members of the city commission were returned to office Tuesday.

Mayor Lloyd Cline, who ran for place No. 4, polled 65 votes as did Dr. Douglas B. Black, who is serving out the unexpired term of Bob Oakes. Dr. Black three times has been elected to the council and twice has been appointed to fill out vacancies.

Await Fate Of Comrades

These grim faced miners await some word on the fate of their fellow workers following a methane gas explosion which has trapped 145 to 185 Mexican miners.

Efforts To Curb Inflation Could Boost Unemployment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic members of the Senate-Economic Committee say administration efforts to curb inflation could boost unemployment by up to half a million workers.

Not so, say Republican members of the committee. They say gradual but firm restraints on the economy need not have such an effect on a work force made up increasingly of people in stable service jobs.

And, they add, manpower and training programs can help cushion the impact of an economic downturn.

These views were included in separate reports filed Tuesday by Republican and Democratic members of the joint committee after lengthy hearings into the state of the nation's economy.

Generally, they agreed on what was wrong, but not on what to do about it.

The Democrats said the country still needs wage-price guidelines—which the Republicans said didn't work.

The new Nixon administration scuttled the guidelines, the Democrats wrote, and "at the same time it proposes an anti-inflationary mix of monetary and fiscal policies sufficiently restrictive to raise unemployment . . . by between 300,000 and 500,000 workers."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, ranking Republican on the committee, told a news conference his party is not for "putting on the brakes so hard as to bring on a recession or worse."

No increase in unemployment is acceptable Javits said, and an increase from the present 3.3 per cent to 5 per cent would mean real trouble.

Both reports spoke of continuing the 10 per cent income surtax, but both hedged a bit.

The Democrats said this was one of several measures that could be used alone or in combination to fight inflation. The others were a wholly unlikely $12-billion cut in spending or extensive tax reforms.

Light Rain Here, There

By The Associated Press
Light showers peppered down here and there in the Texas Panhandle early today as a weak cold front coursed southward.

It was at least partly cloudy nearly everywhere in the state and temperatures remained mild in early morning even in the wake of the new front.

Near daylight its forward edge was a little past Lubbock and moving deeper into the South Plains along an east-west line, propelled by brisk north winds.

South winds fanned most other sections of Texas, and prospects were seen for occasional thundershowers along the frontal zone in northern areas.

No major changes in the weather were forecast.

Presidio in the Big Bend country of West Texas recorded a high of 97 degrees Tuesday and again was the hottest spot in the nation. The mercury hit 90 at Laredo and Wink, while Galveston's top mark was only 70.

The defense operated as if guided by radar against South's three no trump contract, and declarer fell victim to their deadly assault.

West opened the jack of hearts and declarer won the trick in his hand with the ace. The king of clubs was led and permitted to hold; however, East won the continuation with the ace.

East was convinced beyond a doubt that declarer had now developed at least nine tricks and that, as soon as he regained the lead, the latter would run for cover with something to spare. It was essential, therefore, while the defense still retained the initiative, to press the attack if an upset were to be attempted.

Diamonds was the only suit that offered any hope; however, care must be exercised in selecting the proper card to lead. If, for example, East returns fourth best, South can duck the lead around to dummy's nine and, after West wins the trick with the ten, he is unable to continue the suit profitably.

In order to keep the pressure on South, East must return the jack of diamonds. Declarer is obliged to follow with the deuce and now it is West's turn to make a key play. He cannot afford to follow suit with the three of diamonds, or else he will be obliged to win the next trick in his hand with the ten—and South will retain his stopper in the suit.

When East shifted to the jack of diamonds, West dropped the ten from his hand, so that he would be in position to underplay on the next trick. East continued with the eight of diamonds and South followed with the four. West produced the three which he had carefully preserved, and his partner was able to lead a third round of the suit thru South's king. This enabled West to mop up two more diamond tricks and declarer went down to defeat.

Los Angeles City Councilman Thomas Bradley, a Negro who apparently drew heavy support from white voters, has forced incumbent Samuel W. Yorty into a runoff election for mayor.

GOLDWATER TEST
Barry Goldwater Jr., son of the Republican senator from Arizona, launched his own political career in nearby San Fernando Valley in Tuesday's elections by easily winning the GOP nomination for a seat in Congress.

Goldwater, a stockbroker, will face Democrat John Van De Kamp, a former Justice Department lawyer, in a runoff April 29 for the seat vacated by Ed Reinecke, who became California's lieutenant governor.

With about 65 per cent of the precincts counted, Goldwater had more than twice as many votes as his Democratic opponent in the 15-man race.

Democrats claimed victory in the only other congressional contest Tuesday.

Wisconsin State Assemblyman David R. Oby defeated Republican State Sen. Walter John Chilsen in the battle for the seat left by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

FIRST TIME
Democratic National Chairman Fred R. Harris cheered the victory in what he called "the very region of the country which elected Richard Nixon president last November." He said it's the first time a Democrat has won the seat in the 7th District.

Virtually complete returns gave the Democrat about a 2,000-vote edge.

The Los Angeles City election saw Bradley, a 51-year-old attorney and former police lieutenant, open up a wide early lead in the 14-man race.

In a city with an estimated 15 per cent Negro population, he had almost 42 per cent of the vote with half the precincts in.

Yorty had 28 per cent and the other candidates were far behind.

PARTY MAVERICK
Bradley had the backing of Democratic party leaders in the nonpartisan election, and Yorty was in his familiar role as a party maverick.

In other elections Tuesday: —St. Louis Mayor A. J. Cervantes, a Democrat, was re-elected handily, but a Republican took the first city-wide election in 18 years as Joseph L. Daracco won the presidency of the Board of Aldermen.

Lana Divorces Sixth Husband

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actress Lana Turner has been granted a divorce from her sixth husband, businessman Robert P. Eaton, whom she married in June, 1965.

She alleged that he caused her "tremendous anxiety and nervous tension" by seldom showing up at home and telling her it was "none of my business" where he had been. They were childless.

Miss Turner's previous husbands were Artie Shaw, band leader; Stephen Crane, restaurateur; Bob Topping, heir to a tin plate fortune; Lex Barker, actor; and Fred May, a sportsman.

No. 1 Demo Is Firmly In Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new look at Democratic national headquarters these days is a little bit of Kennedy and a lot of Humphrey but mostly it's of Fred R. Harris, the party's new national chairman.

For the first time in nearly a decade, there has been what amounts to a full committee changeover and Harris, the 37-year-old Oklahoma senator who campaigned openly for the job, is firmly in control.

But Hubert H. Humphrey's influence remains. Harris, after all, was campaign manager for the former vice president before the Democratic National Convention last year and was unanimously elected committee chairman after Humphrey's endorsement.

The position provided by the committee is important to Humphrey, since he doesn't have a family political organization like Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts—already a figure for a possible role in the 1972 presidential sweepstakes.

Another likely contender for the party's nomination, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, apparently carries less influence in committee circles although he evolved from a Senate backbencher to a sought-after party spokesman during his unsuccessful campaign for the vice presidency last year.

But it is Harris, who is trying to prove he can be a full-time party chairman and a full-time senator simultaneously, who clearly is running the show.

And should Kennedy or Muskie—both New England Catholics—need a Protestant Southwesterner to balance the 1972 ticket, his efforts could pay big personal dividends.

Harris marks a departure from the committee leadership that was controlled from 1969 by President John F. Kennedy and then President Lyndon B. Johnson. Kennedy appointed John Bailey national chairman, a choice later carried forth by Johnson. Another Kennedy-Johnson man, Lawrence O'Brien, ran the committee during Humphrey's 1968 campaign.

Harris admits he is faced with considerable problems—the party is $6 million in debt and may in addition assume $2 million in debts from the Humphrey and Robert F. Kennedy pre-convention campaigns.

Harris is confident the new sustaining membership program, asking contributors to donate $15 annually, will raise $1.3 million to support the expanded party operations he envisions. He said more than $300,000 trickled in last year without any appeals.

In addition, he is setting up what he calls the National Democratic Sponsor's Club—an outgrowth of the President's Club when the party was in power—and is seeking $1,000 annual contributions from younger men oriented toward issues.

Harris also is working quietly to heal internal party splits. A series of state-by-state meetings is under way and he expects to become involved in the selection of candidates to face incumbent GOP senators and representatives.

Pro Grid Star Speaks At Borden

GAIL (SC) — Borden school students heard Bill Glass of the Cleveland Browns NFL football team, speak to the assembly on March 28. Glass graduated from Corpus Christi and attended Baylor University, where he was an All-American football player. Upon graduation he went six years to graduate school. He now plays with the Cleveland Browns. He spoke about "Success" and of how people try to achieve it.

Gainesville's Manager Quits

GAINESVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Henry A. Thomason resigned Tuesday night as Gainesville's city manager, a job he had held since 1962.

Thomason said he plans to "take another position which is less demanding" and details will be disclosed later.

A Devotional For The Day

Christ died for us while we were yet sinners, and that is God's own proof of his love towards us. (Romans 5:8, NEB)
PRAYER: O Christ, why did You die upon the cross unless our redemption from sin was at stake? And why was our redemption important unless You loved us? Forgive us for spurning Your love and rejecting Your redemption. Forgive, restore, grant us new life in this world and evermore. Amen. (From the 'Upper Room')

Gobbledy-gook

Rep. H. R. Gross, Iowa Republican and newspaper publisher, is concerned about the crimes committed against English by the federal bureaucracy.

He's taken a vinegar bead at the Bureau of Public Roads, where some "impact attenuation devices" are being used. In plain English, they are old oil drums placed around highway obstructions to act as cushions.

He is incensed at the Air Force which stocks an item called an "aerodynamic personnel decelerator."

It's a parachute.

Worst of all, the Defense Department has a "combat emplacement evacuator." It's nothing more than an entrenching shovel. He wants a spade to be called a spade.

He hopes that President Nixon can do something about it. But he must be enough of a realist to know that he can't. All he has to do is reflect on the experience of President Eisenhower when he first issued an order and nothing happened. So with the rabbit-warren of the bureaucracy.

Stemming Flow Of Special Skills

Public support is due the state constitutional amendment proposal by Rep. L. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi to stop haphazard, piecemeal fixing of county and other local governmental salaries by the Legislature in special laws.

Under Hale's proposal, the Legislature would set such salaries "by general law on a statewide basis, under such reasonable classifications as the Legislature shall deem necessary and desirable." That would allow a varying schedule of salaries for local officials in local units of varying population with differences in responsibilities and workloads. That would not apply to home-rule cities, where salaries are set by charter or by the governing body, or to counties if they ever achieve workable and desirable optional home-rule under local charters.

As it is now, every session of the Legislature is flooded with local or special bills to raise the salary of some individual official in a single county, general-law city or special-purpose district.

Hale's proposal actually would return to what we think was the original intent of the state constitution on this subject. It says the Legislature should not pass local and special laws "regulating the affairs of counties, cities, towns, wards or school districts" nor "in all other cases where a general law can be made applicable," as could be rather easily done regarding such salary schedules.

However, other sections of the constitution, stretched interpretation and long-growing custom have allowed the present prevalence of legislative salary-fixing for individuals and small groups in local governmental units. The Hale proposal is a reform which should be adopted now and, hopefully included someday in a new state Constitution.

Now The Kids Have Got It—A Sleep-In

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — Beatle John Lennon and his bride Yoko Ono told newsmen that they will stay in bed in their Amsterdam hotel for seven days and seven nights during their honeymoon to protest violence in the world.

This sleep-in, if it catches on, could turn out to be the most popular type of protest ever thought up by the peace movement, and the authorities are not too sure yet how to handle it.

Since anything the Beatles do seems to be adopted, it's quite possible that Mr. and Mrs. Lennon's tactics will soon become part of the student non-violent scene.

I WAS LUCKY to interview students at Fort Lauderdale who were on Easter vacation to get their reaction.

One said, "I wish we had known about it in Chicago. We would have had a lot less casualties."

But his friend disagreed. "Knowing the Chicago cops, they would have probably come into our rooms and busted our beds."

A third student seemed doubtful that Lennon's tactic was practical. "You can't get that kind of protest on television except maybe on educational TV. And if you don't get on television there doesn't seem to be any sense in protesting."

THIS OPINION was shared by a University of North Carolina sophomore. "I could sleep in a park for seven days and seven nights, but I don't think it would work if I had to stay indoors. Like I mean, man, the fun of the protest is to be with your friends. It's no kick holding up a picket sign if nobody is going to see it."

But a coed from Swarthmore disagreed. "If all the students disappeared for seven days and seven nights, we'd have this country really uptight. They would have no idea what was happening."

AN M.I.T. engineering major shook his head. "I'd be for a sleep-in only if Secretary of HEW Finch assured me I wouldn't lose my federal aid for doing it."

"They can't take your federal aid away from you for sleeping," a Harvard law student said. "As long as you do it peacefully."

"Sure," the M.I.T. student said, "that's what they tell you now, but who's going to say if you were sleeping peacefully or not? Suppose you have a restless night?"

An Oberlin music major said, "That shouldn't be our concern. If sleeping is going to make this country wake up to the fact that we want peace, then I say we should sleep."

HER GIRLFRIEND said: "After a week in Fort Lauderdale I'll need seven days and seven nights of sleep, even if it isn't for peace."

"I think," said an Amherst student, "we should wait and see. After all, the only reason Lennon is doing it is because he's on his honeymoon. I think we should see what the other three Beatles do before we get involved."

"I say let's do it," a Columbia militant shouted. "We could destroy the room service system in America overnight."

What's In A Name?

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — North Dakota's capital city may be named after a German hero but the Scandinavians seem to be taking over.

The city, named after Baron Otto von Bismarck, has 39 Browns listed in the telephone directory to 19 Baus. Millers are ahead of Muellers, 87-8.

There are 45 Olson families, only 30 Schneider families. But the English Smith is tied with the German Schmidts at 43 each.

Others include 28 Carlsons to 28 Bergs, 29 Hansons to 22 Hoffmans.

Modern At Last

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's last handcranked telephone system is on the way out.

The state authorized General Telephone Company to install modern dial equipment by the middle of 1969 to serve the Upton exchange in Hardin County. Upton's 325 customers have been using old-time phones provided by the Farmers Telephone Company.

Upton is a farming community 60 miles south of Louisville.

We Crave At Least Two Of Everything

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbsone comments of a Pavement Plato:

Would you like to live a two-career life? In another generation it may be commonplace.

One of anything no longer seems to satisfy us. In an age of abundance we crave at least two of everything—and sometimes more than two.

THERE WAS a time in American life, and not too long ago, when a family took pride in the fact that it had finally moved into a house with an indoor bathroom. Now if we don't have a bath for every bedroom we feel underprivileged because we are not keeping up with the Joneses, that mythical, live-it-up family that sets the standards of status.

It is the same way with automobiles, radios and television sets. Once we counted ourselves fortunate if we had one of these mechanical symbols of plenty.

Today these onetime luxuries have become necessities, and many a family feels like it is living on Tobacco Road if it can afford but one of each of them.

A SUBURBAN wife whose husband drives his car to work thinks her existence unbearable if she doesn't have a runabout chariot for her own needs also. Two teenagers in the same house find it impossible to listen to the same radio, and each would be sure his growth would be stunted if he had to watch the same television programs as his parents. Thus a minimum of two sets is imperative.

The safe trend is taking place in homes. More and more families with a house or apartment in the city are finding it difficult to hold their heads up in the neighborhood if they don't also own a small place in the country.

Since the two-of-everything philosophy has spread so widely, how long will men stay happy having only one career in their lifetime? Why should a man labor at the same task, sinking ever deeper in its dull routine, from the age of 20 or 25 until he retires at 65?

Well, as a matter of fact, millions of Americans already are enjoying second careers or planning them.

MANY GOVERNMENT employees across the nation, ranging from bus drivers, firemen and cops to military personnel and FBI agents, can retire at half-pay after a stated period, usually 20 years, leaving them free to start fresh careers. A growing number of business firms are also offering inducements for early retirement.

Often those who have a chance at a second career do better than they did in the first one. Their lives are happier and more interesting. They regret only that they didn't make the change sooner.

One wonders, however, where this appetite for two or more of everything will end.

also does the food bill and the monthly installment payments and the college tuitions. The family arguments grow hotter, and sometimes even lead to divorce.

Inflation and aspirations—that's one explanation of where the money goes. Both are insidious, one slowly raising prices and the other converting distant hopes into immediate needs. It takes a distant view to observe the process, but then it is quite obvious.

The National Industrial Conference Board, a private research group, recently observed that the median income of American families in 1967 was 50 per cent larger than in 1960 and 2½ times that of the 1950 level.

But then it noted: "About one-third of these money gains were offset by rising prices."

THE MANNER in which wages are paid also is changing. In 1960, for example, employer payments for employee security, such as insurance and pensions, was 5 per cent of total compensation. Now it's about 10.

Since 1960, employer contributions to Social Security have risen 150 per cent, and contributions to private pension and welfare systems have jumped 125 per cent. Employers now are paying about $1.5 billion a year for Medicare.

When they finally come within reach of that for which they strive, they find that not only has it risen in price but that their aspirations have risen also. One new car, for example, might awaken the desire for a second car.

After studying this phenomenon for years, George Katona, a pioneer in consumer studies, concluded that there is no limit to consumer desire; there is little likelihood, in other words, that this appetite will become satiated.

Aspirations cost money. And while the paycheck grows, so

Inflation, Aspirations

Around The Rim

Ye Olde Copywriters

If these silly writers of copy for television commercials had lived in ages past, the flavor of great moments in literature might be vastly different.

FOR INSTANCE, after Romeo has snatched his leotards in four places while climbing up the rose vine to get to the balcony and there vow his eternal love to Juliet, Juliet does not give the tender response as recorded by Shakespeare, but rather: "Yugggh! Foul Montague, hadst thou not sworn by yonder moon, thy fealty would I lightly scorn, swooning as I do in the withering wake of Mozarella and garlic buds thou hast down'd at yon pizza parlor. 'Ere thou com'st again to whisper in my ear, and blow upon my brow, stop thee first by the apothecary and ask for Scope."

IN THAT historic moment when Antony, marching resolutely and long, has made his way to the tent of Cleopatra, he clutches her in passionate embrace only to be stopped short with: "Proclaim not love to me, thou bearer of peasant smell. Hast thou been on the trail and a stranger to water, so that thy perspiration lie in layers upon the other, each the mellowier than before." A heated muskrat beside thee sweet would smell, or a camel sweated high at noon. Nay, speak not of love or yet at all 'til thou hast thy body dipped and in jasmine juice and sponged it well with Dial."

HAMLET, stirred at last to speak that which is in his heart, accosts Ophelia and grasps her hand, then is secretly aghast: "Fair Ophelia, me thought my heart did burn from embers bright with love, but hark! what is that flake that lies upon thy shoulder blades? Oh wretched that I did choose a maid with itchy scalp, and dandruff two feet thick. 'Tis ulcer pain and not my heart that burns within my soul, and so I plead instead that thy hirsute crown be fluffed in banks of Head and Shoulders shampoo."

PORTIA, preparing for her immortal plea, first sips a cup of steaming brew, grimaces, shudders and then speaks: "The quality of mercy is definitely strained when I must plea with naught but chicory my cup to fill. The gentle rain would be, nor less in taste upon my buds. Poor Shyllock my worry cannot be name committed. Oh foul thing which my cup has filled, that thou hadst but Folgers used. 'Tis mountain grown, ye know."

Lawmaking Costs

Calling All Texas Taxpayers

By GARTH JONES

The state auditor reminded Texas taxpayers last week that it costs a lot more than $4,800 a year to keep 31 senators and 150 representatives at their lawmaking jobs.

Twenty-five senators reported expenses totaling more than their $4,800 annual salaries for the fiscal year that ended last Aug. 31—and the period did not include a regular session of the legislature.

It did include a 30-day special session in 1968.

HOUSE MEMBER expenses were considerably lower, mainly because they are not allowed as much hired help as senators are not separately accountable for travel expenses and do not get money for office and parking space rental when not in Austin.

However, 10 representatives managed to spend more than $3,000 during the year on salaries, supplies, stamps, telephone, telegraph, office equipment rental, printing and publications.

Champion spender of the legislature was Sen. Charles Wilson, Lufkin, with total spending of $13,081.

House champion was Wilson's compatriot, Rep. John Hannah, Lufkin, with a total of $3,755.

Wilson spent $5,833 for salaries, $296 for supplies, $1,297 for telephone, $2,060 for stamps, $465 for stationery, $27 for newspapers, $741 for office equipment rental and $2,348 for travel expenses.

HANNAH HAD $1,850 for salaries, the auditor said, $164 for supplies, $471 for stamps, $1,087 for telephone, $20 for telegraph, $162 for office equipment rental. Low man in the Senate was Sen. A. M. Alkin, Paris, with total expenses of $187 for the year, including $135 for telephone and $32 for stamps.

In the House, the auditor found that Rep. Felix McDonald, Edinburg, had spent only $260 including $60 for stamps and $188 for telephone.

The telephone championship of the legislature went to Sen. A. R. Schwartz, Galveston, who spent $4,253 of the state's money on long distance calls.

Champion stamp buyer during the 30-day special session and the two "off" periods between sessions was Rep. Glenn A. Johnson, Temple, who spent $2,345 for stamps but got defeated in the 1968 primaries.

All the expenses and benefits due Texas legislators were not examined by the state auditor.

A FEW DAYS ago, Frank C. Erwin, chairman of University of Texas regents, recommended a drastic cut in the free football tickets distributed for all Longhorn football games — except for the two tickets each legislator gets for each game.

"As long as we receive $86 million a year from them, I think we can afford to give them the 362 tickets we always have," Erwin said.

THE AUSTIN City Council brought up the touchy question of excusing traffic tickets for state senators and representatives, including some speeding violations. City officials have excused the considerable number of tickets in order to keep legislative peace in Austin.

The Austin American-Statesman said in an editorial that legislators in the past have been known to threaten to vote against local legislation proposed by Austin senators and representatives unless their traffic tickets are dismissed.

Living By The Sweat Of The Brow

WASHINGTON — Taken together, the departments of Agriculture and Labor deal with the fundamentals, food and employment for Americans. Has the Nixon administration reached for a grip on these subjects?

At the Agriculture Department, they'll tell you that they haven't got much work to do this year. Congress, sensing that the last presidential election could go either way, passed laws about farm subsidies and policies that stay in effect into 1970 and are so impacted that they may last much longer.

AGRICULTURE SECRETARY Clifford Hardin is a strong-visaged, bridle-haired farm-major educator. He's going to spend some months traveling, interviewing, "listening" (is the relevant word) to deans of agriculture departments, as well as farm organizations. He's going to do more asking than telling. Dr. Hardin figures to follow, but not to lead. There isn't a any administration policy on agriculture.

AT THE LABOR Department, they'll tell you it's a whole new ballgame since Nixon-Agnew took over. "First are the issues of race and employment," says Labor Secretary George Schultz. He puts job-finding, particularly for the Negro, ahead of such problems as inflation, labor-management relations, departmental reorganization. Secretary Schultz is a leader not a follower, a teller not an asker. There isn't time for chat-chat at labor.

Among other activities the Labor Department is trying to implement Mr. Nixon's campaign promise of a national computer job bank, but is finding out that push-button job listing isn't enough.

IN THE CURRENT issue of Manpower, the Labor Department's house organ, there's an article by the late John Virden that comes clean on push-button job-placement. This Job Book gimmickery, says the article, "works best for the people who need it least." An alert, ambitious, self-confident youth can readily find work and keep it, but the slow-witted, scared kid with a dropout diploma and a police record is not much helped by the checked-off listings of where to find work.

WHAT THE Labor Department seems to be planning is a big effort to crank educational psychology into its manpower programs. This is a tall order, and it switches the emphasis from informational click-click to motivational instruction. The Manpower article contains bureaucratic language that is warmer-than-usual.

"Most of the dropouts or hard-core cases have failed repeatedly in various endeavors. When such a person is criticized for poor performance in class, he simply retreats, rejects the training and refuses to try again... generous praise for very small successes can gradually build confidence... trainees progressed faster when given candy or cigarettes than when given praise."

WE ASSUME that the Federal government is a cold, impersonal, remote and bumbling Big Brother, and such is usually the case. But it may be a significant insight into the Nixon administration that this rare flicker of human warmth comes, not from Agriculture or HEW, the food-and-welfare departments, but from Labor. There, if anywhere in government, is the idea that needy Americans really should be taught, even coaxed, to live by the sweat of the brow.

Health Vs. Purse

NEW DELHI (AP) — The more your salary the more prone you are to certain chronic ailments, according to an Indian medical survey.

Four out of 10 families with a monthly income of more than rupees 2,000 ($265) suffer from high blood pressure, diabetes, cancer and heart ailments, the survey said.

The percentage falls to 11 in the income bracket of rupees 75 to 150 ($10 to $20).

MRS. DANA QUENTIN BARBER

D. Quentin Barbers Take Wedding Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Dana Quentin Barber are on a wedding trip to Austin following their marriage Saturday evening in the Robert Carr Chapel at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth.

The bride is the former Candis Suzanne Bacus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Hays Bacus of Fort Lyon, Colo., formerly of Big Spring. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. Empire gown of silk organza designed with flower appliques on the bodice and short puff sleeves. Her cathedral train was attached to a floral headpiece, and she carried a bouquet of white gardenias.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Karen Ann Hardee of Wichita Falls was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Joseph C. Smith and Mrs. James Allen. David James Daniel was best man, and ushers were Thomas A. Horton, Munday; and Daniel J. Johnson, Michael R. McSwain and Errol Barber, all of Dallas.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Barber are music education majors at TCU and members of the band and symphonic orchestra. She is a member of Tau Beta Sigma sorority, and he is a member of Kappa Kappa Psi, Phi Mu Alpha and AUSA. Upon graduation in June, he will receive an army commission.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the fellowship hall. The refreshment table was laid with a white satin cloth, overlaid with net, and centered with an arrangement of yellow and blue daisies.

Miss Linda Bacus of Dallas presided at the guest register. Others in the house party were Mrs. Mike Crouch, Mrs. David Daniel, Miss Leslie Milan, Miss Cynthia Clure and Miss Gayle Weems.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. D. Hardee, Wichita Falls; Mr. and Mrs. John B. Knox and Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Beld, all of Big Spring; and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Crouch of Alabama.

Newcomer Club Schedules Party For Couples

The Newcomers Club will have a couple's dinner bridge party at 7:30 p.m., April 12, in First Federal Community Room. Mrs. William Skaggs, president, made the announcement at Tuesday's luncheon meeting in Cosden Country Club. Admission charge for the couple's bridge will be $5.

Mrs. Bill Spain, an interior designer, was the guest speaker. "Successful decorating schemes are not necessarily dramatic," said Mrs. Spain, who discussed artistic accessories and use of color in the home.

Guests were Mrs. E. J. Holt, Mrs. John Hudkins, Mrs. Bob Goodwin, Mrs. Mildred Hunt, Mrs. Connie Mohler, Mrs. D. Parnell, Mrs. Vera Dale and Miss Linda Roscoe.

New members were Mrs. Linda Foster, Mrs. Dee Westcott, Mrs. Pat May, Mrs. J. Milstead and Mrs. Marlow Summitt.

Bridge winners were Mrs. Bert Harris, high; Mrs. May, second; and Mrs. J. Kennamond, third. Mrs. Shirley Bell received the attendance prize.

Hospitalized

KNOTT (SC) — Mrs. Billy Gaskin is in the Cowper Hospital where she underwent major surgery Monday.

It may be three years from now, but if he gets to come to the United States to study, PROFESSOR YASUSHI SAKAI of Kyoto, Japan, wants to visit in Big Spring, Texas. His daughter, Mariko, evidently has told her family much about the 1965-66 school year when she, as a foreign student, lived in the home of MR. and MRS. JIM ZIKE. The Zikes returned Monday from a two-week trip to Japan to visit Mariko's family.

The couple was met at the Tokyo Airport by Mariko and her father who showed them about Tokyo before taking them on to their home in Kyoto. Mariko, now 21, has a sister, Miwako, 23, who has studied English as much as her sister and reads it well but doesn't speak fluently. As a result, Mariko had a good translation workout because she translated for those in the family who don't speak English. In the household, in addition to the three mentioned, are the mother, Kazuko, and her mother who is 85 years of age. She still follows the custom of going to her knees to enter the main room.

Professor Sakai teaches at Doshisha Women's College, and Mariko is a junior at Doshisha University which is just across the street. She is studying political science. She asked to be remembered to all her friends here. The Zikes will be leaving soon to make their home in Tulsa, but Mrs. Zike promised the professor that if he would come there for a visit with them, she would bring him to Big Spring so he could see where Mariko lived while in the states.

Mrs. Sakai was a wonderful hostess, according to the Zikes, and even learned to prepare dishes in the Western style. . . including a pot roast. She also prepared outstanding Japanese meals for the dinners which the Zikes took with them. They only spent one night in the Sakai home, others they spent in the Kosal Seminary House where visiting lecturers are housed while in Kyoto. Space is so limited in Japan that the homes, are of necessity quite small. The homes are very private so far as the public is concerned but inside there is practically no privacy. Mrs. Zike reached the conclusion that the Japanese need to be small in stature to fit into the space available.

The Japanese have a good health practice which they all heed. When someone has a cold, he wears a mask. That means taxi drivers, salesmen . . . everyone. Miwako took the Zikes on a trip to Osaka on the first day of spring which is a Japanese holiday. . . it wasn't so easy when she was a hard time with English but they got along fine because they had all become such good friends. . . and friends understand each other in any language.

MR. and MRS. J. D. O'BARR are in Denver, Colo., for a visit with their son and his family, MR. and MRS. PHIL O'BARR.

G. H. HAYWARD JR., Fort Worth, was here over the weekend visiting his parents, MR. and MRS. G. H. HAYWARD SR.

A. L. AXTENS, 76, underwent a heart artery transplant at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock Thursday. As he is in the intensive care unit, he cannot receive flowers, but his family says that cards will be welcomed. Mr. Axtens is retired from the field of commercial refrigeration and has made his home here for many years. The family is at the home of one of the daughters, MRS. L. F. SMITH, 2104 57th St., Lubbock, 79408.

MR. and MRS. BUEL FOX will have as Easter guests their son and his family, MR. and MRS. BOB FOX and daughters, VICKI and AMY, of Houston. They will arrive here Thursday and return to Houston on Monday.

The good old West Texas dry air feels good to the CHARLIE BOLANDS who have returned from a vacation trip to the coast. Along with Susie, Mrs. Boland's Seeing Eye dog, the couple took a bus trip to Dallas, Houston, Pasadena (where she formerly lived), Rosenberg and Beaumont. They visited many longtime friends, some they have known since they were teenagers and others they had been in school with.

After being in Puerto Rico for the past several months, CMDR. (Ret.) and MRS. NEEL BARNABY are back home again. Mrs. Barnaby had gone to the island two months ago to visit LT. and MRS. HARRY GRIFFITH who live at Roosevelt Road, Fajardo. She was joined there a month ago by her husband for a visit with their youngest daughter and her husband. Returning home they stopped to visit Cmdr. and Mrs. Walt Haisson in New Orleans, and then spent some time with another son-in-law and daughter, MR. and MRS. ALBERT CROWNOVER, in Lafayette, La.

While he was catching up his visiting, Barnaby also caught up on his golf, playing eight or nine beautiful courses.

Here for Easter with the family is NEEL JR., who formerly made his home in New Orleans.

MR. and MRS. OMAR WILLIAMS returned Sunday from Hope, Ark., where they attended the wedding of a niece of Mrs. Williams.

RAYMOND HAMBLY and his son, Ronnie, of Dallas are fishing off the coast of Corpus Christi. Ronnie will complete his work at Perkins Seminary in May and has accepted a pastorate in Lubbock.

Tea Held Sunday By OES Chapters

Grand officers of the Order of Eastern Star were honored Sunday at a tea in the First Federal Community Room. The event was hosted by Big Spring Chapter No. 67 and Laura B. Hart Chapter No. 1019. Honorees were Steve Baker, grand trustee, and Richard Mitchell, Masonic Ambassador. Mrs. Ray York of Midland, deputy grand matron, and Ayn McGlothlin, grand fidelity, were guests.

Hyperions Advised On Decorating

"Livability is the most important factor in home decorating," said Mrs. Bill Spain, guest speaker at Tuesday's meeting of the 1965 Hyperion Club. Mrs. Robert Penner, 2410 Carol, was hostess, and cohostesses were Mrs. Albert Smith and Mrs. R. F. Dorsey.

"In making a small room look larger, use neutral colors and dramatize accessories," said Mrs. Spain. She stressed buying good quality furnishings and using accessories that project the resident's personality.

"After fashion is established, it becomes a style," said Mrs. Spain. "Walls and carpets should have character of their own before furniture is added." She concluded by giving tips on window treatments, accessories and picture groupings.

Mrs. H. C. Ernsting, president, announced that $25 has been donated to the Dora Roberts' Rehabilitation Center. Mrs. J. B. Apple was welcomed as a new member. The next meeting will be a luncheon May 6 at Big Spring Country Club, with Mrs. James Owens as guest speaker.

Mrs. Lester Goswick announced that Jan Phyllis Earhart will receive the Howard County Junior College scholarship. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Earhart, Gail Road.

Panhellenic Slates Tea For Senior Girls

Senior girls, interested in sororities affiliated with the National Panhellenic Conference, will be guests at a tea from 2 to 4 p.m., April 20, in the First Federal Community Room. The affair will be hosted by the Big Spring City Panhellenic for all graduating seniors in this area and alumni wishing to attend.

Final plans for the tea were made when the host group met Tuesday for luncheon at Big Spring Country Club with Mrs. Akin Simpson presiding. Mrs. Walter H. Ross will be tea chairman, assisted by Mrs. Jerry S. Grimes. Miss Jill Lewis, a student at Lamar Tech in Beaumont, was a guest. The next regular meeting will be May 6 when Mrs. Simpson will be hostess for a luncheon in her home.

LAUDS FAMILY UNIT

Mrs. William McRee Speaks To PTA Council

Mrs. William McRee, president, urged members to vote in Saturday's school board election. A luncheon was slated at Big Spring Country Club, May 6, to be followed by a school of instruction for new officers. The Forsan spring PTA conference will be held April 18.

George Archer warded prayer, and refreshments were served by Washington Elementary School and Gay Hill School PTA members.

"The family unit is necessary to the welfare of the average child and is especially important to the handicapped child," said Mrs. McRee. "The school vocational education facilities can assist a student, but only the family can give roots and guidance."

Mrs. Lester Goswick announced that Jan Phyllis Earhart will receive the Howard County Junior College scholarship. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Earhart, Gail Road.

Horse Racing, Liquor By Drink, Women's Rights

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Horse racing, liquor by the drink, women's rights—what more could a fun-seeker ask of a legislative committee hearing?

Berry's once red hair has turned a little whiter, his gait a little slower, his tongue a little sharper since he came to the Legislature eight years ago on a one-plank platform: Legalized horse race betting.

appointed Berry, who said he missed the House because "there are more people to fuss with."

"Maybe we ought to number our questions." HUSBAND CONTROL The measure also went to an unnamed subcommittee.

Nixon Holds Unannounced Talks With Communists

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unannounced visit with a Soviet delegation and a discussion of peace "progress" with a South Vietnamese leader remained today as mysterious—but possibly insignificant—footnotes to a period of pageantry and sorrow.

Both came up in connection with President Nixon's meetings with foreign officials here for the funeral of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Woman Injured In Freak Mishap

Mrs. L. D. Cunningham was hospitalized at Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital Tuesday, following an accident being blamed on the wind.

The President cleared his schedule of all other events Tuesday to meet with the officials before flying today to the Eisenhower funeral in Abilene, Kan., and then on to Key Biscayne, Fla. for the weekend.

While Nixon was meeting with various visiting officials, Secretary of State William P. Rogers arranged a similar series of conferences.

Light Voting In Ackerly

ACKERLY — Three unopposed incumbents were returned to the city council here in light voting Tuesday.

The President held individual conferences Tuesday with a dozen other leaders including Nguyen Cao Ky, vice president of South Vietnam.

Ziegler said Nixon and Ky discussed "progress" at the Paris peace talks since they last met in that city during Nixon's European tour a month ago.

Two Draw Terms In District Court

Two persons pleaded guilty Tuesday in 118th District Court, and both received probated sentences by District Court Judge Ralph Caton.

Wayne Burns, district attorney, said that Smith was originally charged with DWI, second offense, and had four prior indictments against him.

In the last indictment, Smith asked that the district judge set the punishment, Burns said, but the district attorney called for a jury in hopes that the jury would be able to set the punishment.

3 - 'GAUGE OF GREATNESS'

Two Turning Points In Ike's Career

EDITOR'S NOTE - Third of five articles based on the forthcoming biography, 'Dwight D. Eisenhower: A Gauge of Greatness.' By RELMAN MORIN, AP Special Correspondent

Dwight D. Eisenhower's four years of service in the Philippine Islands, and his decision to come home in the autumn of 1939, constitute two more critical turning-points in his career. They led directly to the historic role he was destined to play in World War II.

He went to the Philippines—much against his will—as senior aide to Gen. Douglas MacArthur. After a series of desk jobs in Washington during the mid-30's, Eisenhower wanted very much to command troops in the field. MacArthur, however, gave him no choice. His task in Manila was to work out a defense plan for the islands. By 1939, it was complete, or as complete as it ever could be, considering the limitations in funds and available equipment.

On a warm, tropical evening in September of that year, Eisenhower heard the radio broadcast from London which announced that Britain, honoring her commitment to Poland, had declared war on Nazi Germany.

So World War II began, as Eisenhower's mentor, Gen. Fox Conner, had predicted 15 years before.

Eisenhower immediately asked MacArthur for permission to return to the United States. MacArthur replied that Eisenhower's work with the Filipino army was more important than anything he could do at home, but he granted the request.

Eisenhower then called on Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippines, and advised him of his intention. Quezon liked Eisenhower as a man and he had developed the highest respect for him as a professional soldier. He tried to dissuade Eisenhower from leaving Manila. In effect, Quezon told him he could write his own ticket, in terms of salary, if he would remain. He signed a blank contract form and told Eisenhower to fill in any amount, within reason, that he wanted.

Eisenhower replied, "Mr. President, your offer is flattering. But no amount of money can make me change my mind. It's a matter of personal conviction with me. I believe we're going to get into this war and I'm going home to try to help do my part in preparing for it."

Quezon gave a farewell lunch for Eisenhower and his wife and there awarded him the Distinguished Service Star of the Philippines. The citation read: "Through his outstanding achievements in the service of the Philippine government he has increased the brilliance of his already enviable reputation, and has earned the gratitude and esteem of the Filipino people."

The liner that carried Eisenhower and Mamie out of Manila Bay sailed past a chunk of rock, Corregidor. That name was destined to be engraved for all time in American military history.

Suppose Eisenhower had yielded to Quezon's wishes and remained in Manila. Would he have become a casualty on Bataan? A prisoner of war in a Japanese stockade? His great career, barely begun, would have ended in the Philippines. Events soon told him he had made the right move in deciding to come home.

By the end of 1940, thousands of draftees were flooding into the armed forces. Eisenhower became a full colonel on March 11, 1940. Now, in the expanding Army, he felt certain that he would be given a field command and he particularly wanted a tank regiment. His hopes were not to be realized, but a much more important assignment awaited him in the Louisiana maneuvers.

The war games, planned in the summer of 1941, blitted the 2nd and 3rd armies against each other in a large-scale operation. Eisenhower was appointed chief of staff to Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger, commander of the 3rd Army, a force of 300,000 men.

The maneuvers began in August and the main engagements lasted into late September. By Sept. 25, the Army umpire ruled that the 3rd Army had decisively defeated its "enemy." A Washington newspaperman reported that, "Col. Eisenhower... conceived and directed the strategy that routed the 2nd Army."

Eisenhower's technical competence as a planner and strategist was becoming well known throughout the Army and here was additional evidence of it.

He always enjoyed relating an anecdote that presumably took place during the maneuvers. He said a corporal was marching his detail across a bridge that had been ruled knocked out by artillery fire. An umpire shouted, "Hey, can't you see that bridge has been destroyed?" The corporal replied, "Of course, I can see it's destroyed. Can't you see we're swimming?"

The dust of the vast maneuvers had barely settled when Washington advised Eisenhower that President Roosevelt had submitted to the Senate his nomination for the temporary rank of brigadier-general. He received his first star on Sept. 29, 1941. Exactly two months later, on Nov. 29, a Japanese naval task force secretly slipped out of its home waters. A flow of dummy radio messages, normal in volume to the listening American monitors, masked its departure.

The dark gray warships steamed slowly along a north-easterly course and disappeared in the fog and lonely wastes of the north Pacific. The task force commander sailed under sealed orders. When he opened the envelope and read them he learned his objective—Pearl Harbor.

On Sunday, Dec. 7, Eisenhower went to his office in Ft. Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex. He had been working every weekend after the end of the maneuvers, summarizing and evaluating the findings. They had exposed weaknesses at all levels and of many types. Eisenhower was busy night and day drafting reports and recommending corrective measures.

He returned to his quarters in the afternoon of that Sunday, said he wanted a nap, and told Mamie he was not to be disturbed "under any circumstances." He had barely closed his eyes when his office telephoned and advised him of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Five days later, he was told that Gen. George C. Marshall, the chief of staff, wanted him in Washington as soon as possible. Why? The officer who called him did not know. Mystified, Eisenhower left San Antonio within the hour. He reached Washington on Sunday, Dec. 14, and went directly from the railway station to Marshall's office.

In a few terse sentences, Marshall briefed him on the situation in the Far East. Everything pointed to an all-out Japanese offensive against the Philippines. "What should be our general line of action?" he asked Eisenhower.

"Give me a couple of hours," Eisenhower replied. Within the two hours he formulated the plan by which Australia was to house the main Allied base in the Pacific with subsidiary bases, like stepping stones, forming the supply line from Hawaii across the Pacific.

Apart from strategy and logistics, Eisenhower added a note that probably would not have occurred to him but for his four years in the Orient. He told Marshall that the peoples of Southeast Asia would watch American efforts to hold the Philippines with the keenest interest. "They may excuse failure," he said, "but they will not excuse abandonment." Therefore, he continued, every effort must be taken and every effort made to help the Filipinos.

"I agree with you," Marshall said. "Do your best to save them."

Marshall never told Eisenhower why he selected him, a newly-minted brigadier, for this critical undertaking. The reason, however, seems obvious: Eisenhower was one of the few senior officers who knew the Philippines, the plan of defense, and the capabilities of the American and Filipino troops in the islands.

Now he was on the way to becoming Marshall's right-hand man. NEXT: Victory in Europe.

Nuclear Gains In Soviet Union

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Soviet Union could gain nuclear superiority over the United States within two years, a researcher says.

Dr. Stefan T. Posony, director of international studies at Stanford University's Hoover Institution, said Tuesday the United States lacks a defense against Soviet SS-9 missiles which have 20 megaton warheads capable of destroying underground missile sites.

Posony told a Town Hall meeting the antiballistic missile system advocated by President Nixon "is one element which will deter the Russians from launching their missiles against us."

Posony is a former special adviser to the Air Force Intelligence staff.

She Didn't Show

PITTSBURGH (AP) — When Arthur Addison's wife didn't come home after 48 years he sued for divorce, charging desertion.

"When were you married?" his attorney asked him in Common Pleas Court.

"I can't remember—it's been so long," said Addison, 79.

"Well, when did she leave you?"

"She left four or five different times—I had to go 'round and fetch her. But she left for good in 1921."

Mrs. Addison did not show up to contest the divorce.

Later you find that many changes can be taken since quickly. You like some changes very much and can do along happily with them, but accepting other changes requires much thought.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Now you understand just what it is you want and how to get it quickly. An acquaintance could get involved in something later, that isn't what you desire.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You have to have a sense of direction. An expert if you want to get the right ideas for realizing your finest dreams. Get rid of some long-standing responsibilities early. Do it quietly, however.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Do what you should to make life more pleasant for a good and devoted friend. Be more stable in your friendships; be loyal.

MOON CHILDREN (June 21 to July 21) Follow all rules and regulations that apply to you now. Treat all your friends impartially. Don't be hypersensitive where a superior is concerned. Stand your ground.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get your ideas down to a practical level so that co-workers and executives approve. Improve your health through proper recreation. Be sure of what you are doing, then go ahead and do it in a decisive way.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Finding the right method for setting up all kinds of activities you have in mind is wise today. Everything can go more smoothly for you in the dark ahead. Show that you have integrity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Follow through on that plan that brings better understanding between you and associates. Be tactful, diplomatic. Others are in a critical mood. Don't give them any occasion for anger.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan intelligently so your skills are used quickly and well. Be sure to keep priorities made to the letter. Your health needs attention. Do just this during your spare time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A smile is very helpful today. Be less critical of others. Don't force others to do your bidding, either. Let the focus be on the kind of entertainment you like.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you concentrate on the good side of those who dwell with you, you will reach a fine point of understanding now. Minimize their faults, not a good time to live it up to the hilt, either.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You're off to a good idea this morning, so do something about it quickly. Then go shopping and handle your chores. Stockpiling risks. You need to stick to much to the tried and proven, whether people, things or activities.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Follow through on that new idea that helps you to increase your abundance. Don't permit others to discourage you later in the day. Others want advice on mundane matters. Give of your experience generously.

Don't Do It! PHILADELPHIA (fluffy) baby - Thinking of giving fluffy baby chicks to youngsters this Easter? "Don't," says Dr. James M. Penny, chief veterinarian at the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Many of them carry a salmonella virus that can cause serious illness to children, he said.

Under But Out

Randy Hundley, Chicago Cubs catcher, is forced at second to start double play in third inning of game with San Diego Padres here Tuesday. Straddling the sliding Hundley is second baseman Rafael Robles as he throws out Al Spangler at first. Behind Robles is shortstop Roberto Pena (11). Cubs downed the Padres, 8-5.

Stuart Revives Angel Offense With Homer

By The Associated Press
One dose of Dick Stuart's patent medicine revived California's sinking offense. But the patient died in a tragedy of errors—through no fault of the good Dr. Strangelove.
Stuart, the good hit-no field journeyman making a comeback bid with California, pinch hit a grand slam homer in the top of the sixth inning of Tuesday's exhibition game against Seattle.
The blast sent the Angels ahead 8-7, but Stuart's new teammates committed four errors in the bottom of the sixth, handing the Pilots seven unearned runs and a 14-9 victory.

Minnesota 11-5, the Chicago Cubs whipped San Diego 8-5, the New York Mets drubbed Pittsburgh 7-3. Atlanta topped the Chicago White Sox 7-5 and Cleveland nipped San Francisco 6-5.
Los Angeles downed Houston 7-3 in 10 innings Tuesday night. Stuart, a non-roster California candidate who played in Japan the past two years after earning the Dr. Strangelove tag during turbulent stints with Pittsburgh, Boston, the Mets and the Dodgers, cleared the bases with his third spring homer.
But the Pilots quickly regained the edge on a walk, the four errors and singles by Jim Gosger, Jerry McNertney, Gus Gil, Mike Hegan and Tommy Davis.
Seattle has won five in a row and is 5-0 against the Angels.
Detroit's Ron Woods dropped a Tim McCarver's fly ball for a two-base error in the 10th and Steve Huntz' two-out single delivered the winning run for the Cardinals. Jim Price's eighth inning homer had pulled the Tigers even.

CULP IN CHARGE
Ray Culp allowed just two hits for eight innings and Sparky Lyle pitched a hitless ninth, leading the Red Sox past the Yankees.
Montreal shut out the Reds behind Jim Grant, who scattered eight hits through eight innings, and Carroll Sembera.
Roger Nelson stopped his former Baltimore mates on four hits through the sixth and Mike Hedlund mopped up with three perfect innings as the Royals handed the Orioles their fourth setback in 21 spring starts.
Three-run homers by Mike Ryan and Ricardo Joseph powered the Phillies' past against Minnesota.
Billy Williams slammed a three-run homer and Ron Santo connected with one on in the Cubs' triumph over San Diego.
Tommie Agee lashed a homer, double and single for the Mets, who cuffed Pittsburgh starter Bob Veale for five runs in the first two innings.
The Braves rallied for four runs in the ninth to overtake the White Sox.
Richie Scheinblum delivered the Indians' winning run with his second double, a two-out shot in the ninth.
Bill Sudakis' sacrifice fly, Wes Parker's two-run single and Paul Popovich's RBI single broke up the Dodgers-Astros duel in the 10th after an error by Doug Rader opened the gates.

SAYS TEX SCHRAMM Realignment Plan Far From Decided

DALLAS (AP) — Tex E. Schramm, one of the architects of the National Football League-American Football League merger, isn't at all certain how this realignment business will be settled.
"We may just have to throw everybody in a hat and start from scratch," says the president of the Dallas Cowboys.
AFL-NFL owners resume their realignment discussions in New York April 30.
Schramm was asked if he felt Baltimore, Atlanta and New Orleans were good bets to move into the AFL to make two 13-team leagues.
"I don't think you can speculate on what teams might want to play in the American Conference," he says. "In 1970, all 26 teams become the National Football League. If it went to a 13-13 split, it would be the American Conference and the National Conference within the National Football League."
"There is a desire among some club owners to keep the 10 former AFL clubs in one conference to retain as much league rivalry as now exists. It is conceivable that it would be attractive for three teams in our league to join that conference, but it is not sewed up by a long shot."
Schramm says he thinks "this plan is the most practical and the most desirable, but whether it's achievable I don't know. We are just looking for a solution that would satisfy the most people."
He believes that the "everybody in a hat" solution would "completely destroy the rivalry" factor that has built up between the two leagues.
"I think the public has shown that it likes the Super Bowl concept with the two conferences meeting in the grand finale," Schramm says.
A joint committee of three owners from each league proposed at a meeting of 28 club owners in Palm Spring, Calif., last month that the status quo be maintained—the NFL remaining as a 16-team league and the AFL as a 10-team league. There was no ground swell of support for that proposal.

"This time we will have to stay until some kind of conclusion is reached with the 26 owners sitting in a room, making the decision," Schramm says.

Mid-Season Form Shown By Boston's Ray Culp

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — With the opening of the 1969 season less than a week away, Ray Culp seems ready to take up where he left off last September when he was just about the hottest pitcher in baseball.
The 27-year-old right-hander mowed down the New York Yankees on two hits in eight innings before giving way to reliever Sparky Lyle in the ninth Tuesday as the Boston Red Sox scored a 2-0 exhibition victory.
"He was very sharp," Manager Dick Williams said. "It was the best pitching we've had all spring. I am very pleased."
Culp didn't walk a man, faced only 26 batters, and set down the last 14 batters in order.
Culp is scheduled to pitch the Red Sox' second game of the regular season in Baltimore April 10 after Jim Lonborg huris the opener.
"I'm still not 100 per cent ready," Culp said Tuesday. "My curve ball was working

Astros Lose By 7-3 Tab

HOUSTON (AP) — Pitcher Don Drysdale of Los Angeles is scheduled to start against Tom Griffin as the Dodgers and Astros close a two-game exhibition series tonight in the Astrodome.
Los Angeles erupted for four runs in the 10th inning, three of them unearned, to defeat the Astros 7-3 Tuesday night.
Bill Sudakis' sacrifice fly scored the winning run. A single by Wes Parker brought in two more, and Paul Popovich singled home another run.
Claude Osteen pitched 6 2/3 no-hit innings after Jimmy Wynn smashed a three-run homer for Houston in the first inning. Wynn's shot followed singles by Jesus Alou and Joe Morgan.
Alan Foster entered in the 10th for Osteen, who became the first Dodger pitcher to work nine innings this spring.

Dick Nagy Goes To Barton Job

ABILENE — Dick Nagy, freshman basketball coach at Hardin-Simmons University here the past two seasons, has been named head cage mentor at Barton Community Junior College in Great Bend, Kan.
The college will open with the 1969-70 school year. Nagy graduated from HSU in 1967. He is a native of Syracuse, N.Y.

CHURCH LOOP PARLEY SET

There will be a meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. at Berea Baptist Church for all men interested in organizing a Church Softball League, according to Vaughn Martin, who was commissioner of the league last year. He urged interested persons to attend.

Sid Kuykendall Baylor-Bound

By The Associated Press
Baylor landed a plum Tuesday in the basketball recruiting wars.
The Bears signed Sid Kuykendall, a 6-foot-2 guard from Midlothian, who has made several "blue chip" teams. Kuykendall averaged 27.1 points and 13 rebounds per game.
In Austin, coach Leon Black announced that Texas has signed 6-8 Robert White of Hearne and 6-7 Jack Louis of Austin Reagan.

White, who averaged 31 points and 20 rebounds a game, is the first Negro athlete to win a basketball scholarship at Texas.
Black said Mike Dukes, a 6-9 all-state guard from Levelland also plans to sign.
SMU announced it had signed Clayton Korver, a 6-6, 230-pound rebounding demon from Irving High School.

WIBC Tourney Opens Thursday

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — More than 20,000 woman bowlers will compete for $252,882 in prize money in the Woman's International Bowling Congress championship tournament beginning Thursday at University Lanes.
The first 40 of a total of 4,477 five-woman teams will open competition in the 54-day tournament.
