SLATED FRIDAY Webb AFB Hospital Ceremonies

(AP WIREPHOTO)

Official ground breaking ceremonies for the new Webb AFB Hospital will take place Friday, beginning at 3 p.m.

Col. William C. McGlothlin, Webb wing commander, Lt. Col. Edward Parker, hospital director, and Fred Kasch, president of Kasch Bros. Construction Co., contractor for the building, will break the ground in the area of the eventual main entrance to the hospital on base.

The heads and staff of the Veterans Administration Hospital, the State Hospital and the four other hospitals in town have been invited to attend the ceremony.

Dr. Louise Worthy, president of the Permian Basin Medical Society, J. Arnold Marshall, mayor of Big Spring, and M. R. Koger, president of the Chamber of Commerce, have also been invited.

Opening remarks will be given by Col. McGlothlin followed by a short speech by Col. Parker. After the groundbreaking, Col. McGlothlin will present Col. Parker with a chrome shovel, commemorative of the occasion.

Visiting Day At Schools

Friday will be visiting day at school for next fall's first graders.

Parents of all youngsters who are entering school for the first time in September are advised to bring their children to the spring roundup to be held in the different elementary schools.

The roundup starts Friday at 2 p.m. at College Heights School, 2:30 p.m. at Kentwood, Parkhill, Washington Place, Airport, Boydston and Marcy schools; 2:45 p.m. at Moss and Gay Hill, and 3 p.m. at Lakeview, Cedar Crest and Bauer schools.

The roundup concerns all children who will be six years old on or before Sept. 1 and it is important they be brought to the school where they are to attend first grade.

While the parents are preregistering their youngsters, the children will be given a brief orientation program on the schools and its premises. It has been shown that these visits help alleviate nervousness on the part of the children when school opens.

In other years, the preregistration roundup of first graders has been conducted at the several schools on varying dates. This year one day is set aside for the project.

Gambling Stamps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legal gambling interests are complaining President Nixon's program to fight organized crime discriminates against persons engaged in lawful betting operations.

Bookmakers in Nevada, where gambling is a legal and big business, said a proposal, backed by President Nixon, to increase the federal occupational tax on wagering from $50 to $1,000 was unfair and indicated they may fight it up to the Supreme Court as "unconstitutional."

If they do, it won't be the first time the occupational gambling tax has been there.

The Court ruled early last year that an illegal gambler couldn't be convicted for nonpayment of the tax if he claimed that by registering to buy the tax stamp he incriminated himself.

Another Filibuster

AUSTIN (AP) — Another filibuster in the Senate was expected today if the James Connally Institute bill, at the top of the Senate calendar, was brought up.

The bill would take the vocational school from under the University of Texas A&M System and give it a separate board of regents.

Sen. Jack Strong, Longview, has filibustered the bill twice before. He said a separate board for the school would permit "empire building."

He fears the school would establish other campuses that would compete with existing junior colleges.

The House was scheduled to take up Senate-passed bills.

Senators approved Wednesday 24-6 and placed on the November, 1970, ballot constitutional amendment that would extend the Judicial Qualifications Commission's jurisdiction to all courts, including county and local courts. It also gives the commission power to censure, as well as recommend removal of, a judge.

Plans To Shut 36 U.S. Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird announced plans today to shut down, consolidate or cut back 36 military installations and activities in the United States to save about $95 million annually.

A total of 3,028 civilian jobs will be eliminated and 6,222 military personnel will be transferred to other assignments under the plan.

Many of the specific details had been announced earlier this week by members of Congress who were informed of Laird's move.

A planned realignment of North American air defense is a major feature and will save, according to Laird, about $38.1 million.

Laird said 13 installations in eight states will gain personnel as a result of transfers required under the realignment. Six of the states will get a total of about 1,100 positions.

In addition, Laird said about 14,000 acres of land will be leased for nondefense use.

The only way to break that cycle is through effective, long-range reforms in the way the postal system operates," he added. "Some of these reforms can be implemented by the post-

It'll Cost Penny More For Mail If Nixon Wins Proposed Postal Changes Listed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon appealed to Congress today for a penny boost in the cost of mailing most letters. We will be submitting specific proposals for such reform to the Congress within the next 45 days."

Nixon gave no hint whether he will favor the much-discussed suggestion that the Post Office Department be turned into a public corporation.

Under the Nixon plan, rates for newspapers and magazines and the bulk mailings often termed "junk mail" — Nixon said the Post Office Department's deficit in the fiscal year starting July 1.

The first-class letter rate would be boosted one cent to seven cents and stamps for postcards would cost six cents, effective July 1, under his plan.

Airmail rates — now 10 cents — would not be changed.

Without these and other proposed increases — affecting newspapers and magazines and the bulk mailings often termed "junk mail" — Nixon said the Post Office Department's deficit in the coming fiscal year would approach $1.2 billion.

He said higher rates would help achieve two important goals: Control of inflation by bringing the federal budget into better balance and improvement of the postal service.

If approved it would be the fourth postal rate increase since 1958 when the rate went from three to four cents for a letter. The price went up one cent in 1963 and again Jan. 7, 1968.

Although he called for higher rates, Nixon stated: "This administration is determined that the cycle of greater and greater postal deficits and more and more rate increases will be broken."

"The only way to break that cycle is through effective, long-range reforms in the way the postal system operates," he added. "Some of these reforms can be implemented by the post-

NOTHING SAVED IN DEATH FIRE
Four-year-old boy was found burned in closet

Tot Trapped, Killed In Burning House

A four-year-old boy was burned to death this morning when flames engulfed a four-room frame house at 1604 W. 1st.

Pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter was Oscar Velasquez, son of Patricia Velasquez.

The fire was reported at 8:45 a.m., and the interior of the house was in flames when the Big Spring Fire Department truck arrived. A fireman found the child huddled in a closet, covered with burning clothes, after flames were brought under control.

A. D. Meador, fire marshal, said cause of the fire is undetermined.

Witnesses said the child was being kept at the house by an aunt, Mary Helen Velasquez, while the mother was away at work.

The child was reported to have been playing near the closet when the house suddenly burst into flames. The aunt tried to reach the boy, but was blocked by the fire, and she ran from the house. A younger sister of the boy was playing outside when the fire started.

Fire Chief H. V. Crocker said the house was completely ablaze when firemen arrived, but was under control in about 10 minutes. Rescue operations were under way immediately, and before the fire was out, Capt. Alvie Harrison went into the house and found the child.

The boy was found huddled under a pile of clothes which had burned and fallen from their hangers in the closet. It was believed that he went into the closet when the fire started to get away from the flames.

John, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in City Cemetery under direction of River-Welch Funeral Home.

Rosary will be recited at 8:30 p.m. today at 812 W. 7th St.

The boy was born July 22, 1964, in Big Spring. Survivors other than the mother are a brother, Daniel; a sister, Cynthia; a grandmother, Maria Velasquez; and several aunts and uncles.

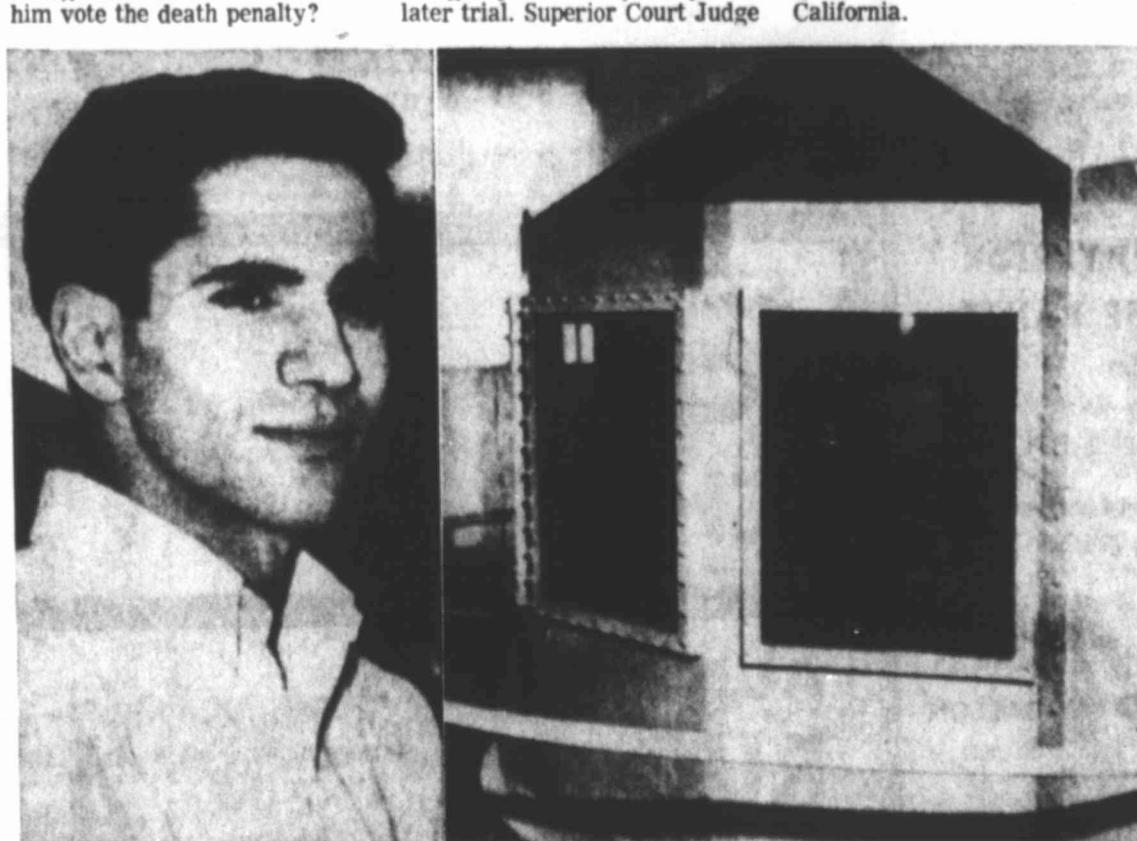

De Gaulle's Last Week In Office?

PARIS (AP) — Indications are mounting that this may be President Charles de Gaulle's last week in office.

The 78-year-old French leader has said he would resign immediately if the referendum Sunday votes down his proposal to transfer some of the central government's powers to regional administrations and reduce the Senate to a consultative role.

SWITCH

The newspaper Figaro published a poll today showing for the first time since De Gaulle made his resignation threat, opponents of the constitutional changes outnumber supporters 53 per cent to 47 per cent. As recently as March 31, polls showed 56 per cent planned to vote yes in the referendum.

Expects Five More Years Of Fighting

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The end of the Nigerian civil war is not in sight despite the reported capture Wednesday of Umuahia, Biafra's provisional capital.

One high-ranking Nigerian officer said he expected five more years of fighting before federal forces subdue the Ibo tribesmen of Eastern Nigeria who seceded from the federation on May 30, 1967.

The Biafrans are expected to make their capital now in Orlu, 36 miles northwest of Umuahia. It is near the two airstrips by which they receive arms and other supplies.

RESISTANCE

In addition to pockets of resistance behind the lines of the federal troops that took Umuahia, the Biafrans claim they control three quarters of Owerri, 30 miles west of Umuahia. The federal 3rd Marine Division took the town last October but authorities in Lagos now admit one brigade is isolated there.

There is no anticipation in Lagos of a Biafran surrender. The secessionists last Sunday rejected an appeal from the Organization of African Unity to agree to a united Nigeria before starting peace talks and a cease-fire.

The Nigerians claim they have pushed the Biafrans into a tightening circle of about 2,000 square miles, compared to the 29,000 square miles Biafra claimed when it declared itself independent. But despite the advance of the 1st Federal Division to Umuahia from the northeast, two other federal divisions

Eye Swap Progress

HOUSTON (AP) — Doctors were pleased today with the progress of eye transplant patient John Madden but stressed it will be at least three weeks before they know the outcome of the surgery.

Madden, 55, of Conroe, and his surgeon, Dr. Conrad Moore, hope the world's first total eye transplant Madden received last Tuesday at Methodist Hospital will restore his vision.

Moore said, that to his knowledge, it was the first time, except for animal experiments, for an entire eye to be transplanted with an objective to restoring at least.

The hospital described Madden's condition as excellent.

The surgery was performed shortly after the donor, O. B. Hickman, 55, Houston, died of a brain tumor.

It was then published.

Says She Cheated To Get Printed

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Rachael Maddux, author of the novel "A Walk in the Spring Rain," the movie version of which is being filmed near Gatlinburg, says she cheated to get her first book published.

Speaking as one of several prominent writers at the Chattanooga festival of writers, librarians and readers, she said Tuesday she had received 13 rejections on her first book, "The Green Kingdom," which took 18 years to write.

Mrs. Maddux said she was told by a publisher to cut the book in half, so she got a type-setter with smaller print, wrote with smaller margins and resubmitted the book.

It was then published.

capital since the Nigerians took Enugu in October, 1967.

Federal authorities said the Biafran defenses wilted under heavy bombardment after a 48-hour fight. The Nigerians have plenty of artillery while the Biafrans rely largely on home-made mortars.

A government statement said Biafran losses of men and equipment were severe and federal losses were light. No mention was made of the thousands of civilian refugees who had fled to the area.

Battle Deaths In Viet Climb

SAIGON (AP) — American battle deaths in the Vietnam war totaled 216 last week, the U.S. Command reported today, a slight increase over the previous week and still well above the average before the Viet Cong offensive began nine weeks ago.

The weekly report said 1,602 Americans were wounded, a big drop from 2,691 the week before.

The enemy death toll rose sharply to 3,379. The total the week before was 2,938.

Combat fatalities among troops of the Saigon government also increased considerably, from 244 during the week ending April 12 to 329 last week.

In the long period of comparative lull before the enemy offensive began Feb. 23, the weekly U.S. death toll generally ranged from about 150 to 190. In recent weeks the total has decreased steadily again as the enemy attacks have slackened off.

Last week's toll of American combat dead was 12 more than the 204 reported killed in action the week before.

Since the preliminary peace talks began in Paris last May 13, 11,332 Americans have been killed. The report brought the number of Americans killed in Vietnam since 1961 to 34,283.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese dead now total at least 48,450.

The weekly report said 1,304 Americans are missing or captured—a drop of 18 from the previous week. This resulted from the reclassification of men from missing or captured to killed in action.

Wiley College Campus Quiet

MARSHALL, Tex. (AP) — All appeared quiet on the campus of Wiley College today, despite a turnabout of board of trustee proposals by students.

A student leader said Tuesday a boycott, similar to one that closed down the school last February, was possible. But later both students and administrators said things were peaceful at the school.

The board of trustees, meeting Tuesday, granted most student requests for changes in policy but refused to fire President T. Winston Cole Sr. as students had requested.

Students then voted to reject the trustees' proposals.

But an official of the Methodist church which owns the school said he did not expect any more trouble.

The Rev. W.B. Randolph of Marshall said, "The students were unhappy about the president not being dismissed, but I have talked to a number of the student leaders, and, in my opinion, they will cooperate with the trustee's decisions..."

Now They Want To Ruin Ben Hur

BEN HUR, Ark. (AP) — There really is no town, or even village, of Ben Hur. It's just a post office from which the families in the surrounding area get their mail.

Nestled in the foothills of the Ozark Mountains in the Ozark National Forest, Ben Hur is the last place in Arkansas without electricity.

No one but the 40 families in the area, southeast Newton and northwest Pope counties, were even aware that such a place still existed. But when the state Public Service Commission heard of it, they gave Petit Jean Electric Cooperative in Clinton the authority to serve it with electricity.

The weekly report said 1,602 Americans were wounded, a big drop from 2,691 the week before.

SHERIFF KEEPS UP SEARCH Tombstone Near Pecos Reads 'Unknown Girl'

PECOS, Tex. (AP) — In Pecos it would ease their minds, even though she is Texas stands a simple tombstone that reads "Unknown Girl." Nail said it had been a year since anyone inquired about the girl. He said before that, inquiries came fast and thick from parents, relatives and friends on top of the grave, it's who had someone missing. Contents have haunted Reeves. "We checked everything we got," said Nail. "Mostly they were tips from people who knew the girl about 18 to 20 years old drowned in a Pecos motel swimming pool. Attempts to identify the "unknown girl" as she is called by Nail, have been futile even though the name of the drowning was given nationwide publicity at the time.

"This thing has bothered us since the day it happened," commented Nail in his high-ceilinged office at the Reeves County Courthouse. TIME OF TRAGEDY

"The only thing we're hoping for now is an anonymous letter or telephone call from the male companion who was with her at the time of the tragedy," said one of his deputies.

"If the man would just call us or write us a letter telling us who the girl is, we would be happy," the deputy added. "Somewhere there is a set of parents still looking for their lost daughter. I feel sure if they knew she

He said there were no fingerprints in the FBI files to match the girl's, her teeth were perfect so there was no dental work for comparison with records, and the only clothing found in the motel room was a pair of shorts, bra and blouse, and they were all new and had no laundry marks.

The day of the drowning, the manager at the motel called the Pecos police. Emergency units responded to the call but efforts of artificial respiration failed to revive the victim.

During the confusion, her male companion was reported to have gone to the desk of the motel where the couple had signed in

The unknown girl has rested in the Pecos Cemetery for almost three years. She still remains unknown, but not forgotten—least of all by Sheriff Nail.

Horoscope Forecast TOMORROW —CARROLL RIGHITER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until midmorning you have the energy and the desire to project your ideas for beyond the present boundaries. You would be wise to make whatever you undertake whatever project in a determined and brisk manner. Evening finds you under the spell that leaves much confusion and deception can occur.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to April 19) Although you feel reasonably secure today, be sure to set at least the most important goals down first. Do not envy others, nor do you need special training to work tonight.

Taurus (April 20 to May 18) Avoid the evening before trying to bring about peace and harmony at home. During the day you should be able to settle his, or her, place. Establish rapport with business contacts. Be cooperative.

gemini (May 19 to June 17) Your dates on time during the day is very important. Reach an understanding with your partner. Don't let him go home tonight. Take care that talk doesn't become argument this evening.

MONSIEUR CHAUVIN (June 18 to July 21) During the day plan to increase your abundance. Get in touch with the people around you. Don't be afraid to be disorganized if you attempt anything else. Putter around the house until the man used to be.

He just finished a two-month night school course in real estate to qualify as a salesmen. If he can dig up the money he plans to take flying lessons.

He relaxes so seldom his doctors have had to tell him that it's easy.

He feels he is physically twice the man he used to be.

And McKee is doing all this on another man's heart.

Last August 31, the 51-year-old engineer became the world's 38th heart transplant patient.

In an operation at Stanford Medical Center he received the heart of Dr. William Sample of Menlo Park, Calif., acting director of the Children's Health Council in Palo Alto. Dr. Sample, 39, had died of a brain hemorrhage.

McKee says he had a heart murmur from childhood. Three years ago he suffered the first of three heart attacks.

"I was considered for a transplant long before the first one in South Africa, but had to wait 10 months for a compatible donor," he recalls.

Before the transplant, "I had to rest halfway from the parking lot to the doctor's office. Now I could walk to San Francisco without breathlessness and come to the right decision. Avoid crutches this evening. Choose your words wisely, tell the truth, and you will never lose your mate or, indeed, devoted and loving friends."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are now able to gain the rapport with a business partner that you want. Get along with your colleagues. Show consideration for one you know very well. Be kind, understanding.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make the changes in your environment that will be more according to your own good taste. You can be a good sport, but don't be demanding. Show comradeship instead.

Houston Skid Braked By Larry Dierker

By The Associated Press

Larry Dierker and Jerry Koosman have written off a couple of embarrassing numbers and replaced them with zeros.

Dierker braked Houston's seven-game skid Wednesday night with a two-hit 4-0 triumph over San Diego while Koosman cut a pre-game 8.00 earned run average down to size by hurling the New York Mets past Pittsburgh 2-0.

Don Sutton, who started the day with a 7.04 ERA, spotted Cincinnati three early runs, then stopped the Reds cold in pitching the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 6-3 victory in the only other National League action.

The Atlanta-San Francisco-St. Louis-Chicago and Philadelphia-Montreal games were rained out.

The Astros, humiliated by Cincinnati 14-0 Tuesday night, ended their seven-game losing streak as Dierker, 2-2, held San Diego hitless after the third inning. The Houston right-hander gave up an infield single by Ed Spiezio in the second and a single by Roberto Pena in the third, then retired 14 Padres in order.

Norm Miller doubled in the first inning and scored the only run Dierker needed on a single by Curt Blefary. A walk, singles by Miller and Joe Morgan and a balk by reliever Frank Reberger gave the Astros two more runs in the sixth. Another scored in the eighth on a bases-loaded walk to Miller.

Koosman, a 19-game winner for the Mets as a rookie last year, scattered five hits on the way to his first 1969 victory after two setbacks. The shutout lowered the left-hander's ERA to 4.41.

Cleon Jones stroked three hits, drove in one run and scored another while grabbing the NL batting lead with a .444 average. Jones' run-scoring single off Jim Bunning, after a double by Ken Boswell, sent the Mets ahead in the first inning. In the fourth, Jones doubled and scored on Ed Kranepool's single.

Sutton, clipped for a two-run double by Tony Perez in the first inning and a RBI single by Bob Tolan in the second, settled down to finish with a six-hitter and his first victory in three decisions. The loss snapped a three-game winning string for the Red Sox.

The Dodgers shot in front 4-3 with a four-run burst off Gary Nolan in the fourth and Ted Sizemore's two-run single in the eighth wrapped up their seventh victory in eight home games.

That spring schedule at Churchill Downs, highlighted by the May 3 running of the Kentucky Derby, extends only 19 days.

Kal Segrist, baseball coach at Texas Tech, was signed by the New York Yankees the same year Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron were piped aboard.

Segrist played with such notables as Joe DiMaggio and Phil Rizzuto while in Yankee pinstripes.

A sure starter for West Texas State at quarterback this fall is Clarence Redic, the former Odessa Ector ace.

Coach Joe Kerbel of the Buffaloes says Redic will probably be the finest passer in the country. One thing is sure, Kerbel believes in putting the ball in the air.

The American Basketball Association is almost certain to go under but three franchises will survive and eventually be absorbed by the NBA.

Those are located in Louisville, New Orleans and Indianapolis. Houston quite likely will apply for a club and be accepted, according to those who know.

Ken Davidson, owner of the Oakland Oaks, tried to bail out recently by selling the team to Houston interests but was stopped by the management of the San Francisco Warriors.

Once Oakland sinks beneath the waves, the Warriors want to again acquire the contract of Rick Barry, their most glamorous player, and they couldn't have done it had the Oaks shuffled off to Houston.

The ultra sport for hunters is supposed to be wild turkey shooting.

The turkey's amazing eyes can detect the tiniest flicker of movement, and the bird may even be able to identify the motionless outline of a man.

A wild turkey's color vision is at least as good as man's and the big bird's ability to soak up detail and gather information swiftly at a single glance is greater than ours.

In that recent 200-mile race for Indianapolis-type cars in Hanford, Calif., Texans claimed two of the first four places.

Lloyd Ruby of Wichita Falls finished just behind winner Mario Andretti. Fourth was Johnny Rutherford of Fort Worth.

Texan A. J. Foyt, winner of last year's Hanford race, completed only two laps of the race, quitting because of engine trouble.

Gene Littler says he's made very little money out of golf, outside of his tournament winnings. Even his victory in the National Open in 1961 didn't pay off for him in endorsements as it has for other players.

Gene's take in tournaments has been tremendous, however.

Bobby Scott of Tennessee went into the last Cotton Bowl game as a backup quarterback to Bubba Wyche but emerged as one of the few Volunteer heroes in the game.

His performance proved nothing to Coach Doug Dickey, however. Dickey has conceded the post to no one in spring workouts at Knoxville.

Johnny Sain, who teamed with Warren Spahn to give the old Boston Braves a pitching combination and a slogan in a World Series ("Spahn, Sain and two days of rain") has a remarkable record as a big league pitching coach.

Sain has changed jobs three different times, yet has been on five pennant winners in seven years. He was with the New York Yankees in 1961, 1962 and 1963 and they capped the flag each year.

He retired in 1964 but came back with Minnesota in 1965 and it capped the bunting. Next, he joined the Detroit Tigers and they broke through into the World Series last year.

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M.—Quarter Horse Racing Secretary Pete Drypolcher has announced a new format which will go into effect at Ruidoso Downs upon publication of the second condition book.

The old system of grading Quarter Horses by classifications such as AAA, AA, etc., will be abandoned, and the following types of races will be written: maiden, claiming, allowance, handicap and stakes.

Classified allowance races, however, will become a new part of the Quarter Horse picture.

The Racing Department will post a list of horses not eligible for classified events.

The horses not eligible will be those of proven stakes ability and those generally acknowledged as outstanding AAA performers.

"By checking this list," Drypolcher said, "a horseman desiring to enter in a classified race will know which horses he will not have to compete against."

The Oakland Oaks and the Indiana Pacers each could wrap up their American Basketball Association division playoff titles Friday night, against New Orleans and Miami, respectively.

While the Pacers overpowered the Miami Floridians 119-105 Wednesday night, Oakland needed six free throws in the final three minutes to tilt the seesaw game against the New Orleans Buccaneers 113-107 for a commanding 3-0 lead in the best-of-7 Western Division final. Indiana also holds a 3-0 lead in the Eastern Division final.

Oakland's biggest margin was six points at the final buzzer after New Orleans had led most of the way. The Floridians, described by Coach Jim Pollard as "injured and tired," charged to within two points of Indiana at 74-72 in the third period in their most productive rally.

Rookie Warren Armstrong put Oakland ahead 104-103 with 3:12 to go and then sank six free throws to ice the game for the Oaks and bring his point tally to 25.

Gary Bradds was high for the Oaks with 33. The Jones boys, Jimmy and Steve, each had 24 for the Bucs.

The Oakland Oaks and the Indiana Pacers each could wrap up their American Basketball Association division playoff titles Friday night, against New Orleans and Miami, respectively.

Not only did the veteran star of the Los Angeles Lakers score 53 points against the defending National Basketball Association champion Celtics in their opening playoff game Wednesday night but he had 10 assists.

As it turned out, the Lakers needed all the West contributed.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Boston's John Havlicek said it the only way it could be said: "Jerry West was fantastic and he really killed us."

Not only did the veteran star of the Los Angeles Lakers score 53 points against the defending National Basketball Association champion Celtics in their opening playoff game Wednesday night but he had 10 assists.

He won't, for instance, double team the 6-foot-3 superstar from West Virginia.

"West was the difference, but with a two-point loss here in the opening game, I'm not going to change a thing," Russell said.

"It wasn't the 53 points that beat us, it was the 10 assists."

West's previous playoff total was 53 points but not in a championship series. In eight previous seasons, the Lakers never have won the title, losing to Boston on five occasions.

Jerry played like a man with a mission before the 17,554 fans, hitting shots from 25 feet out and on several occasions driving in under Russell and coming back with a reverse lay-up.

"I suppose it's one of the greatest games I've ever played," West commented. "However, there have been games when I've scored a lot more points and still felt I helped the team more with assists and playing defense."

Havlicek, with 37 points, paced the Celtics who led 58-56 at the half and 84-82 in a game which saw the lead change hands 21 times.

The key came with less than two minutes to play when West hit two jumpers from the side for a three point lead at 113-110. Four times the Celtics cut the margin to one, but never again went ahead.

Elgin Baylor scored 24 for the Lakers while Sam Jones had 21 for the Celtics. In the rebound department, Russell collected 27 and Wilt Chamberlain 22. In their personal scoring duel, Russell got 18 points and Chamberlain 15.

"I'm sure Wilt must have intimidated some of their shooters," commented Laker Coach Bill Van Breda Kolff of the 7-foot-2 Chamberlain, who's playing his first season in Los Angeles.

Red Auerbach, the general manager of the Celtics, had his own idea:

"We can sustain this type of fast game. I don't think the Lakers can."

EARL WALTERS, president of the U.S. Ski Association, implied in Salt Lake City that the trail of commercialism leads throughout the entire Olympic program.

"You could probably eliminate all Olympic competitors on one score or another by sticking strictly to the rules," said Walters.

The big difference between the skiers and other Olympic participants is that skiers make a little less effort to conceal it than some of the others.

"The truth of the matter is that all athletes in all Olympic sports are receiving financial aid from one source or another, even if it's just from their grandmother, in order to prepare themselves for Olympic competition."

"There really isn't that much difference between government subsidy and industry subsidy."

Walters said he didn't think Brundage would be able to get the medals returned and that his attempt will "just create more problems."

Brundage said he has asked the Federation International du Ski (FIS) to reclaim Alpine ski medals won in Grenoble a year ago.

It is obvious that Alpine skiing has not been properly controlled... and it is doubtful if it should be on the Olympic program," said the 81-year-old Chicago millionaire, IOC president since 1952.

Brundage said the future of the Olympic Winter Games will be considered by the IOC meeting in Warsaw, Poland, June 6-10.

Brundage said: "Articles have been printed listing the payments made by ski manufacturers for Olympic medals."

"In nearly every Olympic Winter Games this sport has been surrounded by scandal and this is inevitable as long as many racers admittedly are in the employ, one way or another, of equipment manufacturers."

The meet had tentatively been slated for June 14.

Cockrell also said the Country Club would be the scene of a pro-am Thursday, May 15.

THEIR HEAVIEST RAIDS OF THE WAR

B52s Drop 2,000 Tons Of Bombs

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers made their heaviest raids of the Vietnam war Wednesday night near the Cambodian border, dropping more than 2,000 tons of bombs along a 30-mile stretch northwest of Saigon, the U.S. Command reported.

"They are harassing enemy troops so as not to let them get

Living Costs Really Jump

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House sources insist last month's jump in living costs—biggest in 18 years—doesn't mean a new twist upward in the inflation spiral.

"We don't foresee an increase in the price trend, we foresee a decrease," said a Nixon administration source. "But this should increase the worry about the state of the economy and the need for economic restraint."

The Labor Department Wednesday reported that the cost of living rose eight-tenths of one per cent in March, the biggest jump since the Korean war year of 1951.

Last month's index was 125.6, meaning it cost $12.56 to buy what $10 would have purchased in typical family goods and services in the 1957-58 base period. A substantial rise was reported for food, clothing and gasoline.

Wholesale prices of foodstuffs and industrial raw materials also rose sharply, five-tenths of one-per cent, bringing that index to 111.7, a rise of 3.2 per cent in a year.

"During the first quarter of this year, consumer prices rose 1.5 per cent, the sharpest rate of advance for any three-month period since May-July, 1956," said the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. "The index now stands 5.1 per cent above a year ago."

The White House source said in spite of the figures, "the economy is slowing down" although the March hike "does suggest a long time to get down to a more acceptable level of price increases."

He also said that the prospect of government imposed wage-price controls such as were used to stop Korean War inflation are "absolutely zero."

Some government economists said sharp increases in mortgage interest rates and used car prices tended to make the March price picture look worse than it really was. Used car prices very sharply and mortgage and other housing costs don't affect that many people, they said.

By focusing his attention on the wrong suit, South provided his opponents with an opportunity to develop the setting tricks against his three no trump contract.

West opened the seven of spades and East covered with the nine which was permitted to hold the trick. He continued with the jack and South's queen of spades won the next trick. Declarer crossed over to dummy with the queen of diamonds in order to take a club finesse—losing to West's king. A spade was returned to dislodge the ace, South's remaining stopper.

Declarer could cash only eight tricks—three diamonds, three clubs, and two spades.

The targets of the giant Stratofortresses were enemy bases in the Viet Cong's War Zone C, where the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have built a network of camouflaged roads and infiltration routes on which to move supplies and troops from Cambodia into Vietnam. Some of the bombing was within a mile and a half of the border.

TOP TARGETS

The air attacks were aimed primarily at the North Vietnamese 1st and 7th divisions, which reportedly have pulled back to the border to receive replacements for heavy losses suffered during the Viet Cong's spring offensive, now in its ninth week.

The targets in War Zone C were given top priority, and B52 raids on the Ho Chi Minh Trail through eastern Laos were temporarily curtailed to permit a heavier concentration against the Cambodian border bases.

Meanwhile, the Viet Cong offensive dwindled to 11 rocket and mortar attacks Wednesday night, with over-all damage and casualties reported light as usual.

FIERCE FIGHT

Ground fighting again was scattered, but in one fierce clash Wednesday five miles south of the demilitarized zone, eight U.S. Marines were killed and 19 wounded by North Vietnamese troops firing heavy weapons from caves. The bodies were shot down Wednesday, of 14 North Vietnamese were killed nine Americans and 19 wounded by North Vietnamese found after the fight.

Two more U.S. helicopters were shot down Wednesday, of 14 North Vietnamese were killing nine Americans and wounding three. This raised the total of U.S. helicopters reported lost in the war to 2,551.

AIRCRAFT HIT

One of the aircraft was hit while attempting to make a landing east of the A Shau Valley near the Laotian border. Seven U.S. troops were killed and two wounded. A second chopper was downed near the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon; two men were killed and one wounded.

The two helicopters raised to nine the number reported lost in the past 48 hours with a total of 20 U.S. troops and eight South Vietnamese soldiers killed.

King Ranch Heirs May End Wrangle

CHICAGO (AP) — The four-year legal wrangle over the multi-million dollar estates of two heirs to the King Ranch fortune apparently moved closer to settlement Wednesday with a proposed agreement between the disputants.

The dispute involves the estates of the late Miss Alice B. Atwood, and her brother Edwin, the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Co. which is Miss Atwood's executor, and lawyer Thomas Hart Fisher who served the Atwoods as legal and financial advisor for nearly 40 years.

MILLIONS MISSING

The bank claims that millions of dollars were missing from Miss Atwood's estate after her death in Dec. 1965, and charges Fisher with fraud and mismanagement.

Attorneys for the bank informed Probate Judge Robert J. Dunne of Cook County Circuit Court that an agreement has been worked out with Fisher and his wife Ruth. The main assets in question are the 125-acre El Sauz Ranch in Texas and associated oil rights.

The proposed agreement would have the Fishers return assets valued at between $3 million and $4 million, attorneys said. This includes more than $1 million in fees paid to Fisher, and part of the 45 per cent interest in the estate the Fishers claimed under agreements reached with the Atwoods.

Fisher would give up 20 per cent of his 22.5 per cent interest in the ranch and oil rights while his wife retained her 22.5 per cent, the lawyers said.

The Fishers also will give up 32.5 per cent of the 15 per cent interest they claim in oil rights associated with the estate but not on the El Sauz Ranch.

MUST BE SIGNED

The agreement must be signed by the involved parties and approved by Judge Dunne. Miss Atwood died Dec. 11, 1965, and willed her estate, then estimated at about $10 million, to a Chicago policeman who had befriended her.

The shortage in her estate was discovered by Continental Illinois when the will came up for probate.

Edwin Atwood died Jan. 28 and willed his estate to a suburban Glenview woman. Both estates are being probated in Circuit Court.

The Atwoods were two of four grandchildren of the founder of the massive King Ranch near Corpus Christi, Tex.

Cotton Maid Shows Finery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cathy Muirhead, the 1969 Maid of Cotton who is traveling with a 23-trunk wardrobe, came to the capital to display her exclusively cotton finery.

The Denton, Tex., beauty, a sophomore at Texas Woman's University, opened a four-day stay Wednesday by lunching with members of the House Agriculture Committee. The panel is headed by a Texas Democrat, Rep. W. R. Poage.

While here she will participate in three fashion shows, including one planned for members of Congress and their wives. She also planned a visit to the White House today and hoped to meet President Nixon.

On tour since early January and—as she says—loving every minute of it, Miss Muirhead will visit most of the nation and some foreign countries before returning to college next fall.

She said she doesn't have an index on the contents of her 23 trunks.

"We mostly just remember where everything is," she said. Traveling with the Maid are Trudy Weeks, of Memphis, the tour manager, and Katherine Henry, of Birmingham.

Miss Muirhead, who was born at Bolling Air Force Base in the District of Columbia—her father was stationed there at the time—will return to the base Thursday for a style show sponsored by the Officers' Wives Club.

On Friday she will participate in a benefit luncheon fashion show and later will meet Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin.

Saturday will be a free to permit her to rest and tour Washington if she chooses.

A few pots of flowers. (The cart is the kind with a tray at the top and one lower underneath.)

But recently we had a calamity! The plastic clamps on one end of the top tray broke, and down went flowers and all, breaking the clamps on the bottom tray.

We thought the cart could no longer be used, then we realized the frame was just like the frame of our laundry hamper.

So, using the hamper bag as a pattern, we are making a colorful denim bag for the cart frame and plan to use it for our smaller gardening tools, with pockets on the outside for seed packets, etc.

We will use strips of denim to hold the lower crossbars in place so it won't collapse.

When not in use, it can be folded and stored in a very small place . . . Corinne Tilghman

Dear Heloise:

When I wash my dishes and let them drain in the dish drainer, I put back in the cabinet only those I will NOT use for the next meal.

Why should any mother who has so much to do, remove, stack and put away five heavy plates and five glasses only to have to use her energy just taking them out again for the next meal?

Wasn't it YOU who said years ago, "When you can ride, don't walk. When you can walk, don't run. When you can sit, don't stand?" I have forgotten the rest of it. Do you remember what it was? . . . Mrs. Ted Kimball

You didn't miss a word, hon. Surprised you remembered it all these years.

The last part was, "If you can lie down, don't sit, and if you get the chance to close your eyes, why leave them open?"

And I believe every word of it. Guess I was just dog-gone tired the day I wrote that!

We all love your hints. Keep in mind, too, that you can take your dish drainer right to the table while you set it! That will save a few more steps . . . Always, Heloise

So what if the friends you have can be counted on one hand?

Thank God you have that many . . . No Name

Instead of greasing the griddle or skillet for each batch of pancakes, take two tablespoons of salt and stir it in a piece of heavy white cloth. Be sure the cloth is heavy enough so it won't tear easily.

Spread a little shortening on the hot surface of the griddle with the salt ball. Rub well.

After this, use no more shortening — just rub the surface with the ball for each batch made.

Results: No sticking. Just beautiful, golden-brown surface on each pancake, and there's no salt taste as you might imagine . . . Mrs. R.M.P.

Dear Heloise:

So many of us have those beautiful plastic grapes as decorations in our homes. I used to find it so hard to get them dry after washing.

Now I just drop them into the hood of my hair dryer, turn it upside down on a towel, and they will be nice and dry in only a matter of minutes. Be sure to turn the dryer on LOW HEAT.

After cutting my son's hair, I clean him up the quick and easy way by using the soft furniture dusting attachment to my vacuum cleaner.

It works beautifully . . . Mrs. G. M. Schaefer

Woman's Role Told At Forum

Mrs. Don Farley introduced the program, "Your Place in the Community," at Tuesday's meeting of Spoudazio Fora Study Club in the home of Mrs. Robert Clark, 2103 Morrison.

Mrs. Farley contrasted the times of 150 years ago with the present age.

"In that bygone era, few women had a life outside the home, and most women had 'round the clock drudgery," said the speaker, "but a few women were willing to voice their discontent, and one such woman was Elizabeth Cady Stanton, who was born in 1815.

She worked for women's rights for eight years before giving the keynote address at the first convention of the modern women's rights movement."

Mrs. W. J. Walsh read excerpts from the speech in which Mrs. Stanton made demands for woman's suffrage. Mrs. Stanton was a better orator than Susan B. Anthony, but was not as good an organizer. She later joined forces with Mrs. Anthony to campaign for rights of women.

Mrs. Farley stressed that "Agape love, or brotherly love in contrast to romantic physical love, is the Mount Everest of existence. This level of love leads to service and the giving of one's heart."

Three club women expressed ways in which they felt they had contributed to their communities and gained from their efforts.

Mrs. J. W. Dickens said that she had worked for 16 years with young people of the First United Methodist Church. She spoke of the satisfactions of working with this age group since they will be the leaders of tomorrow.

As a volunteer at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, Mrs. Roy Granberry explained her duties at the center, citing the changing of beds, getting patients ready for treatment, setting up booths, and filling and cleaning tanks.

Mrs. Mary Cochran told of her work as volunteer coordinator at Big Spring State Hospital. She stressed that she believes she is doing an important job.

MRS. HORACE RANKIN

Mrs. Horace Rankin Cooks Creamed Limas

By RHODA LEMONS
We take our vacations one day at a time or on weekends so that we can attend rodeos with my husband," said Mrs. Horace Rankin, 3208 Auburn. Although her husband has a full-time job as personal equipment specialist at Webb Air Force Base, his hobby is roping calves at rodeos.

The Rankins have two daughters, Valencia, 16, sophomore at Big Spring Senior High School; and Teresa, 13, a sixth-grader at Moss Elementary School.

Mrs. Rankin works part-time for Faye's Flowers, but it turns into full-time employment during holiday seasons. However, she does all her housework, with occasional help from her daughters.

"Perhaps I am wrong, but I believe that young people have full enough schedules at school, doing their homework and participating in extra-curricular activities in which they are involved," said Mrs. Rankin. They do their own rooms and when their mother is unusually overloaded, they help her with the housework.

The Rankins are in the process of looking for a larger home that will better fill their needs. One thing they specifically want is a home with a utility room completely off to itself, where Mrs. Rankin can do the laundry at any hour, or sew, and not disturb the rest of the family.

Besides sewing, Mrs. Rankin crochets chair coverings and seats for the dining room chairs. She particularly enjoys this type of handwork because she can join the family in watching television or in whatever activity the members are doing. Her next project will be to make an afghan.

"I enjoy listening to good music on the stereo," said Mrs. Rankin, admitting that her husband is more of a TV fan. They play card games with friends weekly and, because her husband was an athlete at Howard County Junior College, they attend all the Jayhawk games as well as the high school football games.

"Since working, I have learned to appreciate mixes of all kinds," said Mrs. Rankin. The family wants dessert after the evening meal, and Mrs. Rankin can easily prepare a casserole in the Senior One Department at College Baptist Church.

LIMA BEANS IN SOUR CREAM SAUCE

2 10-oz. pkgs. frozen lima beans
1/4 cup onion, grated
2 tbsps. chopped pimento
1 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. garlic salt
2 tbsps. margarine
1 cup sour cream

Cook beans with onion, pimento, seasonings and margarine according to directions on package.

Do not allow beans to get too soft, just tender. At serving time, drain juice off beans; stir in sour cream. Keep warm, but do not use direct heat as sour cream will curdle. A chafing dish with low heat works nicely. Yield: eight servings.

BLACK-EYED PEAS DELICIOUS

1 lb. dried black-eyed peas
1 tbsp. salt
1 clove garlic, cut in half
1/2 cup cooking oil
3 cloves garlic, mashed
3 green peppers, chopped
3 med. onions, chopped
1/2 tsp. ground sage
2 bay leaves, crushed
3 tbsps. cider vinegar
1 tsp. salt
Pepper to taste

Wash and pick over peas; cover with water and soak overnight. Drain and place in kettle with fresh water to cover. Add salt and garlic halves. Cook peas until tender, about three hours, adding more water as needed. Just before serving, heat oil in skillet; add mashed garlic, green pepper, onions, sage and bay leaves. Cook until vegetables are soft. Add vinegar, salt and pepper to taste. Pour vegetable mixture into cooked peas. Blend and serve. Yield: 6-8 servings.

1/2 cup shortening
2 sqs. unsweetened chocolate
1 cup sugar
2 well-beaten eggs
1/2 cup applesauce
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. soda

chill until firm. Add topping and chill overnight.

APRICOT RIBBON SALAD
1 9-oz. can crushed pineapple
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water

1 7-oz. bottle chilled lemon-lime carbonated beverage
1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese
3 tbsps. mayonnaise
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped pecans

Drain pineapple, reserving syrup. Soften gelatin in cold water and pineapple syrup. Heat apricot nectar just to boiling; add to gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Add lemon juice and salt; cool to room temperature. Add carbonated beverage by pouring down side of bowl; stir gently with an up and down motion. Chill until partially set. Add crushed pineapple stirring gently. Fill a one-quarter mold one-third full with gelatin mixture. Chill until almost firm. Blend cream cheese, mayonnaise and salt; stir in celery and pecans. Spoon over layer of almost firm gelatin spreading evenly. Add remaining gelatin and chill until firm. Makes eight to ten servings.

FROSTED SALAD

CAULIFLOWER FONTINA

(Figure-eight Style)
1 medium head (about 1 1/2 lbs.) cauliflower
1/2 cup boiling water
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 grated (medium fine) Fontina (Italian Sharp or Kasseri) cheese, lightly packed

Remove green leaves from cauliflower and wash in cold water. Trim stalk level with head; cut cauliflower into fairly thin slices just as you would a loaf of bread. Place in a 10-inch skillet with water and salt; cover and boil just until tender-crisp — about five minutes. Drain well. Place in a nine-inch glass pie plate; sprinkle with cheese. Broil, about four inches from source of heat, just until cheese begins to melt — about five minutes. Do not broil until cheese melts entirely or changes color or it will harden. Serve at once. Makes three servings.

EFFORTS UNDER WAY TO STREAMLINE HOUSE PROCEDURES

McCormack Backs Reorganization

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaker John W. McCormack never known in the past to favor congressional reorganization says he is delighted that a serious effort is under way to streamline House procedures.

Several reorganizations bills have been introduced this session, but the first serious move toward getting an acceptable measure didn't come until Tuesday when House Rules Committee Chairman William D. Colmer, D-Miss., appointed a subcommittee to come up with appropriate legislation.

I'M DELIGHTED

Mccormack, D-Mass., said in an interview:

"I have asked them to come up with a reorganization bill. I've been after them about it all along and I'm delighted that they're going to do something about it."

House sources said this is the first time the speaker has actively worked for a reorganization measure. In the past, they said, he never openly opposed such bills, but by refusing to put the prestige of his office behind reorganization efforts he virtually caused their defeat.

The subcommittee is headed by Rep. B. F. Sisk, a California Democrat and includes Reps. Ray Madden, D-Ind., and Richard Bolling, D-Mo. All are advocates of reorganization.

The reorganization drive has taken on a definite bipartisan aspect. House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan has joined McCormack in supporting reorganization. He said he was "delighted that progress is being made—it's very hopeful."

A GOP bill seems most favored at this time. And that's a Democratic assessment.

Bolling said a bill introduced earlier this year by Rep. H. Allen Smith, R-Calif., seems most favored at the moment.

Smith's bill would permit a majority of a committee to have a special meeting called upon written request, thus circumventing some of the power now enjoyed by some iron-handed committee chairmen.

Sisk says he intends to come up with a realistic proposal, one that will be acceptable to the most powerful elements in the House—committee chairmen.

MISTAKE

In the past, Sisk said, reorganization supporters made the mistake of shaking up committee procedures too much, thus alienating the chairmen.

It also would allow any member at least one day to file a minority report on any given measure as a means of preventing the ramrodding of legislation to the floor without dissent.

It would allow committees, at their discretion, to permit televised broadcasting of a hearing "if they are transmitted as a public service without commercial sponsorship, and a witness does not object to the broadcast of his testimony."

The measure also would provide a central data processing center, in cooperation with the secretary of the Treasury and the Budget Bureau, for use by congressmen in cost analysis and any other matter requiring computers.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland risked his political future by pushing the suffrage extension (AP) — Scattered violence pushing the suffrage extension punctuated an uneasy quiet in through a caucus of Unionist members of the Protestant party members in the Ulster Parliament.

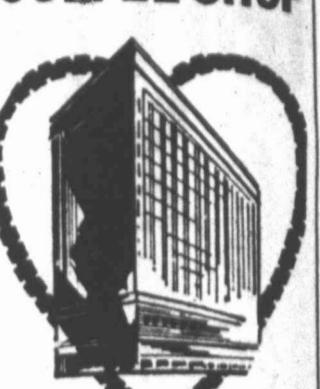

The members of the Protestant government party approved O'Neill's proposal by a 28-22 vote.

No date has been set for the new rule to be put into effect, and O'Neill still must get approval from his party's 300-man standing committee at a meeting next Monday. It is an all-Protestant body whose members range from country squires to Belfast shipyard workers. It speaks for those who have most to lose if the Catholic vote is enlarged and gerrymandered off local election districts is ended.

With his opponents charging that O'Neill was bowing to street demonstrations and to pressure from the British government, he told the provincial Parliament: "I want to make it absolutely clear that will either proceed with this reform or truce in our streets" after he holds.

Farmer Union Members Eye State Bill

Six members of the Glasscock County Farmers Union will be in Austin Monday to sit in on hearings on a bill in the House of Representatives that would making farming harder on persons other than farmers.

The measure, HB 700, sponsored by Charles Jungmichel, La Grange, proposes that tax deductions for farming to be limited to persons who receive at least 60 per cent of their gross income from farming, livestock feeding, dairying or ranching.

Attending the hearing, which will be at 7:30 p.m., will be Mr. and Mrs. Doris Blissard, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Seidenberger, Bill Schraeder and W. E. Bednar, all of Garden City and St. Lawrence.

The Texas Farmers Union has supported such a measure on the state level in an effort to cut down the number of corporate farms and other people who enter agri-business for tax purposes. The American Farm Bureau Federation supports such proposals on a national level.

TO 'COOL' CAMPUS RIOTERS
Federal Intervention
Might Be Necessary

By REP. OMAR BURLESON
WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Department of Justice has available to it several laws which could be invoked to seek indictments against instigators of disturbances on college campuses. Laws related to interference with military recruitment are a case in point.

Primarily and essentially, the responsibility for the maintenance of order on college campuses is that of the school's administrators and trustees. The least desirable remedy is the federal government's intervention, but some may be necessary.

The prevalent excuse for the militants' behavior is opposition to ROTC programs and military recruiters on college campuses. This becomes a direct federal problem. Gen. Leonard Chapman, commandant of the Marine Corps, has made public the fact that some college administrators not only are failing to control student take-over but are denying recruiters facilities to obtain volunteers. Both the Army and Air Force are having the same experience.

Militant students on many college campuses are protesting the maintenance of courses for officers training. Our enemies are the benefactors of this conduct.

There seems to be an attitude on the part of some college and university officials that the anti-war protesters should not be dealt with instantly, even when buildings are seized and the campus authorities are threatened unless student demands are met. If protesters were not against the Vietnam war, etc., some other excuse would be found, but this is the one in which the federal government has a stake.

The opportunity is at hand for the federal government to ask for indictments and tell these revolutionaries that that the legislation introduced is not to say that the federal government should walk onto any campus and apply its police powers. This can and should be done by the people charged with the responsibility of running the institution and teaching our young people. If this responsibility is not met by the proper officials, then it seems not only right but the responsibility of the federal government to look for a better place to spend the taxpayers' money to assist in educating our young people.

To bolster present law, several of us in the Congress have introduced legislation to cut off federal funds to any college or university in the land where rioting and disorders are taking place if, and only if, responsible officials of the institution sit back and make no effort to restore order immediately.

There are few colleges and universities in the country which do not receive federal funds in some form or other. There is already a provision in law which terminates the individual college student's funds when he is found guilty of the type of conduct now taking place but unless school administrators cooperate in establishing guilt, its effectiveness is lost. If, however, all federal funds are cut off from the school itself, results may be produced.

It is to be emphasized again that the legislation introduced is not to say that the federal government should walk onto any campus and apply its police powers. This can and should be done by the people charged with the responsibility of running the institution and teaching our young people. If this responsibility is not met by the proper officials, then it seems not only right but the responsibility of the federal government to look for a better place to spend the taxpayers' money to assist in educating our young people.

Heart, Lungs Transport Experiment Terminated

HOUSTON (AP) — The heart and lungs of a San Antonio youth were flown to Houston on a preservation chamber Wednesday night and doctors said the experiment aimed at strengthening the availability of human organs for transplants was successful.

The heart and lungs still were functioning when they arrived at Methodist Hospital in the Texas Medical Center but the experiment was terminated because an infection had developed in one of the lungs.

The preservation chamber developed by Dr. Edward B. Dietrich and John Liddicote to perform the organ removal. The eyes will be placed in the Wilford Hall eye bank, the hospital spokesman said.

"We don't have a recipient to match yet," Dr. Dietrich said before he left Methodist Hospital. "We have three prospective recipients outside the hospital, but their blood types do not match."

A spokesman for Wilford Hall,

Luke's Episcopal Hospital here had any suitable donors.

"We don't know what will happen," he said. "The organs may not be good when we get there. Or they may deteriorate in flight. This is a new experience. You can never tell."

He said it is possible the organs simply will be kept in the machine and then examined to be certain air transportation had no ill effects.

Two sets of human hearts and lungs were tested for some time recently in the chamber but those were taken from donors at Methodist Hospital and kept there.

In the first test of human organs in the chamber for 22 hours the lung function started to deteriorate. Adjustments were made in the chamber, and Dr. Dietrich said the second trial, which lasted 34 hours, left both the heart and lungs in "excellent" condition.

Dr. Dietrich said he was not certain which hospital the donor was in but he believed it was an Air Force hospital.

Registration For Art Show Begins Friday

Tomorrow afternoon, members of the Big Spring Art Association will be registering paintings and art works submitted by regional artists who want to enter the competition in the spring open exhibit. Registration hours are from noon to 6 p.m. in the Community Room of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association building.

Mrs. Daryle Hobert, chairman of the exhibit, said the registrants usually list from 250 to 300 entries. Scott Darr, painter and Abilene schools coordinator of art, will select winners Saturday morning, after which the doors will be opened to visitors.

A number of businessmen, clubs and individuals have supplied prizes for winning entries, and additional prize money will come from the entry fees ($2 per entry for adults, 50 cents for students under 18).

Visiting hours on Sunday will be noon to 5:30 p.m., when all entries must be picked up, excepting the winners, which will remain on display throughout the week.

A Devotional For The Day

Fear not, for I am with you, be not dismayed, for I am your God. (Isaiah 41:10, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear heavenly Father, strengthen our faith today. Help us to be more alert to the dangers and pitfalls of sin. May we keep ourselves safe and free even in the midst of evil. In the name of Thy Son, our Lord. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Wise To Look Ahead

House Speaker Gus Mutscher and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes will be wise to work with Gov. Preston Smith in creating a seven-member committee to work on legislative and congressional redistricting.

As proposed by Gov. Smith, the committee would consist of chairman of the House and Senate redistricting committees, two other senators and two House members appointed by Barnes and Mutscher, and the secretary of state, Martin Dies Jr., as chairman. Gov. Smith suggested that the Legislature earmark $225,000 a year for the next biennium from the House and Senate contingency expense funds for the committee's work.

The question of congressional and legislative redistricting may not appear to be an urgent one at the moment. But it could become urgent almost overnight if a three-judge federal court in Houston, which has retained jurisdiction in a case which successfully attacked congressional redistricting in the state, should enter a new order in the case requiring redistricting before the 1970 election.

It is not safe to assume that the Legislature will not be required to act before the 1970 elections. In the absence of a satisfactory plan, one that satisfied the U.S. Supreme Court's recent decision in a Missouri case that substantially mathematical equality must be achieved in populations of districts, the specter of large elections for all U.S. representatives in 1970 will haunt the political landscape.

The regular session of the Legislature probably cannot deal with the question, engrossed as it is in other important matters. In all likelihood a special session would be needed. But there is no reason to delay the organization of a committee and a staff to begin preparing congressional and legislative redistricting plans.

Gallant But Lonely Figure

King Hussein of Jordan is a gallant, but forlorn and lonely figure. For 15 years he has avoided the assassination which overtook his father, Abdulla, yet he cannot avoid now a fatal, perhaps fatal, choice.

He lost probably the best part of his kingdom during the six-day war of 1967 when Israel occupied the west bank of the Jordan River. He is the object of constant suspicion among his Arab neighbors because of his pro-Western leanings. He is besieged at home by the rising power and militancy of Palestinian terrorists.

He may choose to try to quell with his regular armed forces the Palestinian nationalists. By so doing he may provoke counter-terror which may cost him his throne and his life, as well as his standing in the Arab world.

He may cast his lot with the Palestinians and with militant nationalists throughout the Arab world. This could provoke Israel to annex the West Bank and make it a permanent part of Israel, as well as expose himself to constant harassment by Israeli planes and commandos.

He has a third choice, of course, but it would be suicidal. He can make his peace with Israel, which would undoubtedly mean the end of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan.

It is no wonder, then, that King Hussein is so anxious for the Big Four (France, Great Britain, Russia and the United States) to force a Middle East settlement. There is really no other escape from a dilemma which threatens his life and his throne.

He deserves more sympathy from Israel and the world than he is now getting. But it isn't easy to arouse much sympathy in Israel.

David Lawrence

Intelligence Missions Necessary

WASHINGTON — The White House has declared that the American plane shot down near North Korea was on "a routine reconnaissance mission" when attacked "in international airspace." It was further asserted that the plane "had not intruded into the airspace or territorial waters of North Korea."

But what was the plane doing in that area?

The United States government has hitherto engaged in at least 190 similar missions in the Far East this year, because such missions are considered vital. The object is to detect any hostile preparations which could involve the territory or forces of the United States in the Pacific.

BY MONITORING radio traffic, for one thing, the United States finds out what military operations are under way. A large number of Soviet submarines are based in Vladivostok, for instance, and submarines nowadays carry missiles and can engage in devastating attacks on centers of population. It's important to know their character or whether there is a large-scale movement of submarines going on. The Russians also have sent their naval vessels and bombers near the coast of Alaska, and their ships have trailed American aircraft in international waters.

THIS IS AN age of inspection by various means. It is carried on by satellites in space and by planes, such as the successors to U-2, which travel high in the skies and are rarely subject to attack. Long-range planes can stay in a particular area for extended periods. Ships like the "Pueblo" can cruise for days far from land and monitor radar and radio signals for many miles.

But as long as ships are outside territorial waters and planes do not violate airspace over another country, they are supposed to be immune from attack. The American reconnaissance plane shot down off the coast of Korea was at least 50 miles offshore, and was flying five miles above the earth.

ACTUALLY, THE officers of the plane apparently didn't regard the approach of the North Korean MiGs as hostile, and probably thought they were merely on a routine inspection of their own to get information as to what the American plane was doing. There have been many similar inspections by the U.S. when Soviet aircraft have appeared over the waters adjacent to North America, particularly off Alaska.

SO FAR AS international precedents are concerned, North Korea is still in a state of war with South Korea. The armistice of 1953 did not end the war, and the United Nations has command of the allied forces in South Korea close to the boundary line. Any attempt by North Korea to move troops into South Korea would renew the conflict in that country, and it is imperative for the United States to gather information so that the United Nations may be able to take the necessary steps to avoid resumption of the war.

THE SOVIET UNION might well be back of such a plot because, with the United States heavily engaged in South Vietnam, there would be an opportunity for the Soviets to assist the North Koreans in a possible takeover of South Korea — a move that might not by any means be friendly to Red China and could disturb world peace. Intelligence missions are, therefore, essential to the United States in formulating its military policy and in helping to prevent wars.

Billy Graham

Will you please give me suggestions that would help me become a better Christian and teacher of adults? W.B. Have you tried the New Testament? I have about every commentary in my library in the English language and I often get some help from them. But I find my greatest help and inspiration in the Bible itself. I'm afraid that too many teachers depend too much on the thoughts and ideas of others. It is amazing how the Scriptures unfold themselves when we study and meditate upon them. One of the secrets of David's greatness was in the words: "In thy law do I meditate day and night." Job said: "Thy Word is more than my necessary food."

I suggest that you read your commentaries, but meditate on the Scriptural texts of the lesson. Read it prayerfully, and I believe that you will find that God will speak to you through its pages. Thoughts will come to you, and they will be relevant to today's problems. And by so doing, your own soul will be strengthened. A stronger and more effective teacher By the same token, you will become of the Word.

'TIMES CHANGE, BUT MUST THEY BE FOR THE WORSE?'

John Cunniff

Transformation From Princes To Monsters

NEW YORK (AP) — This is a digious worker because he feels store of life in the corporate is just one great castles of America and how leap away.

—The success without trying type. This fellow begins well ahead of his peers, but he has a defect. He is a game player, an opportunist. He looks good, but game players soon are caught by sophisticated management.

—THE OVER ABLE type. This fellow has the goods to match his own impression of himself. Even though he is moved along fast, his skills hardly have been tested yet.

These are the princes. But at the other day while preparing a chapter on his book, "Route to the Executive Suite."

THE CIRCUMSTANCES are set in motion by the need of corporations to find young executives. In their eagerness to do so they create the great expectation syndrome.

And what is that? It is a psychological disposition created by putting young executives on a rich diet of upward mobility and challenges. The young fellow is moved along swiftly. He is treated like a prince.

In fact, in his own mind he thinks he is just that. His syndrome is perhaps most markedly illustrated by a young man with a bachelor's degree in science, engineering or accounting and a master's in business administration.

Holders of such degrees are the fastest moving young executives in industry today.

The young man holding such degrees has an "expectancy additive." That is, by obtaining the degrees he expects to succeed. And sometimes he expects to succeed even without the degrees indicate he has.

NOW HE ENTERS a corporation with a need for young executives and he finds his impressions confirmed. The company moves him along swiftly, and he is liable to fall into one of three categories:

—The instant success type who feels that success is just around the corner. He is a programmer.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Using the telephone is quite an experience at the home of Dr. Glenwood Creech. The kitchen phone is hidden in the pantry. There's another in a clothes closet, and to use the one in the basement, you have to stand on a box.

Creech made the changes because his fox terrier becomes infuriated every time a phone rings. He chews insulation off the wires and often snaps them in half.

After making repairs 10 different times, the telephone company notified Creech he would have to pay for them himself.

Let me make one qualification concerning the above paragraph. In a relatively small number of cases, tachycardia can involve real heart disease. When the rapidity originates in the auricles, or upper chambers of the heart, usually some rather simple treatment is all that is required. If it originates in the ventricles, or lower chambers, then some organic heart disease may be involved.

This can be determined by your doctor, by means of an electrocardiogram.

Returning to the more common type of tachycardia, this is most often seen in tense, nervous patients — and the more attacks of rapid heart that occur, the more nervous such patients become. Therefore, reassurance really is an important part of treatment. Since anxiety can touch off attacks, anxiety should be relieved.

There are, however, other factors involved, too. Excessive use of tobacco sometimes is a factor; so is excessive caffeine, from coffee, tea, cola drinks. What is "excessive" for one person may not be excessive for another; very little caffeine in some cases can trigger attacks.

Let me make one qualification concerning the above paragraph. In a relatively small number of cases, tachycardia is an overactive thyroid. That does not mean that a goiter necessarily is present. Overactive thyroid can be a rather subtle thing, especially in some older folks. Suitable metabolism tests will reveal it, and treatment ordinarily is not difficult.

So here's what to do if bothered with tachycardia:

1 — Have an examination to see whether it is, or is not, an indication of heart disease.

2 — If it is not, then tell yourself not to let your nerves run away with you; the more you worry, the more trouble you'll have.

3 — Try cutting out tobacco, caffeine, and, of course, any stimulants you may be using, such as "pep pills" or reducing pills.

4 — A metabolism test is wise, to see whether the thyroid is responsible.

5 — Beyond these precautions, simple sedatives or tranquilizers very often are sufficient to control the problem. But in some cases stronger medications (quinidine or digitalis) may be prescribed.

Around The Rim

The Hot Box

The last time I heard a figure mentioned, it was high enough to cause a gasp, but it's still a fact that the city auditorium is all but worthless during the summer months. Despite a pleasant Spring breeze Tuesday evening, the auditorium was a hot box.

CITY COMMISSIONS and administrations for the past dozen years have given up on doing much with the building. The city budget indicates income from revenues produced by it are in decline; probably one reason that it is so uncomfortable in the warmer months. Only during the winter, when the heat is turned on, can the facility be made comfortable.

I still think some remodeling plan, enlarging it into a coliseum, would be the best approach. However, like so many things, I have a file filled with reasons why this can't be done. A similar one might be prepared on why it can't be air conditioned, and I guess every one of them has some validity.

ON THE OTHER hand, there should be some better answer than doing nothing toward either remodeling it or making it more comfortable. I don't necessarily go along with the idea of air conditioning it or tear it down, as the braver ones have said, but neither does it make much sense to do nothing and maintain a building that is only comfortable usable a few months of the year.

I AGREE there are many other areas where we could invest what little funds are available, and hope these things get done. Perhaps a few bucks frugally spent, coupled with some careful planning, might make the auditorium more useful for a wider range of activity. If this were done, then maybe — just maybe — income might help bridge the gap between upkeep and rentals. A similar plan was worked for the golf course, and maybe it might also work for the auditorium, on a different scale.

A STUDY of the problem would appear to be of value. At least, it would be better than doing nothing.

The Start Of That 'Complex'

WASHINGTON — In 1903, the year of the Wright Brothers' flight at Kitty Hawk, a $100,000 test-plane failed at take-off in Washington, D.C., and fell into the Potomac.

At the controls of the unsuccessful aircraft was Dr. Samuel Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, a nonprofit, privately endowed corporation with $50,000 of U.S. Army money in the flying experiment.

IN THE HISTORY of our much-discussed military-industrial complex (MIC), 1903 was a "watershed year." Had Dr. Langley, a noted physicist, succeeded with his flying machine, the United States would have been given a powerful shove toward a nationalized, semipublic, nonprofit defense industry.

The Smithsonian, as today, was part of our academic structure, and above the dreams of avarice. By following the then-existing "arsenal concept," the U.S. military establishment might well have gone on manufacturing its own weapons for the most part. The Smithsonian might have launched the prototype of an early century NASA, a federal monopoly.

THE WRIGHTS won out because they had a superior product, mainly by reason of the contoured wing and a special engine.

4.—The Wrights did not suddenly strike it rich. They had been at work on aircraft since 1900, and had already invested much time, money and personal daring. "We believed," said Wilbur, "that the physical and financial risks which we took justified sufficient compensation."

THESE FOUR points are still the fundamentals of MIC competition, incentive, proved superiority, invested capital and skills.

TODAY, as many times before, there are efforts afoot to "take the profits out of war." Much of this crusading talk emanates from Capitol Hill and is directed against the White House and its departments. But, paradoxically, it's the Congress (not the President) which creates and sustains the MIC. The Constitution says that the Senate and House . . . shall have the power . . . to raise and support Armies . . . To provide and maintain a Navy."

No congress is going to abandon competition enterprise as the nation's "armorer." That risk would be great.

The Understanding Professor

One of the things that impresses people about the student demonstrations is the strong stand that some members of the faculty are taking on the issues.

I was on the campus of Northwestern University and ran into a professor who was trying to stop his nose from bleeding. His clothes were torn up and he was walking with a pronounced limp.

"What happened, Professor?" I asked, as I helped him search for his glasses.

"The militant students just took over my office and threw me down the stairs."

"What's that, that's terrible," I said.

"FROM MY POINT of view it is, but I think we have to look at it from their point of view. Why did they throw me down the stairs? Where have we, as faculty, failed them?"

"Are you going to press charges?"

"On the contrary. If I pressed charges, I would only be playing into the hands of the repressive forces outside the university who would like nothing better than to see the students arrested for assault."

"They haven't before," the professor said. "But it's quite possible that this is their way of seeking a confrontation with the establishment."

As we were talking, a group of students rushed up and grabbed the professor. "We got one here," the ringleader shouted. "Get the rope."

DON'T WORRY, PROFESSOR," he said calmly, as the students led him toward the scaffold. "If we don't let the students try new methods of activism, they'll never know for themselves which ones work and which ones are counterproductive."

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Four Rhodesians are claiming a share in the $6-million Rhodesian pound ($68 million) fortune of a South African adventurer who struck oil in Venezuela and died more than 40 years ago.

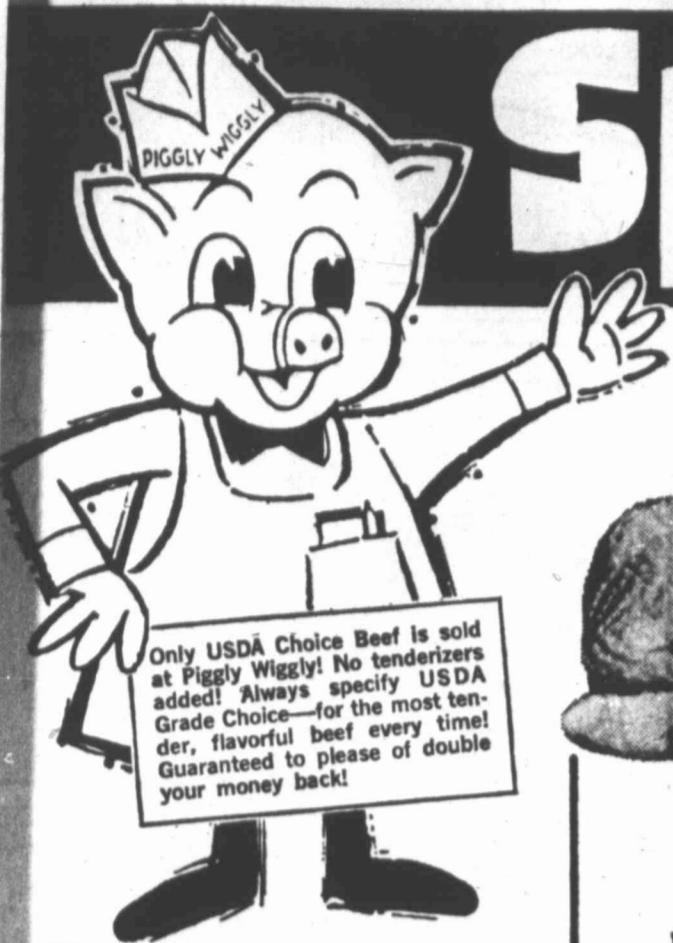

They are descendants of Bernard Webber, whose daughter was disowned because she married against his wishes and whose only son was drowned at sea. To prevent his daughter from benefitting from his money, he specified in his will that his wealth be divided equally among members of the third and fourth generations of his family.

A recent search found 24 descendants, but so far only four have lodged claims.

To The Knee, Says Sadler

AUSTIN (AP) — Skirts in the General Land Office must come down "to the knee," and sideburns cannot extend below the "middle lobe of the ear," says Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler.

Also, male employees must have a neat neck trim, Sadler has decreed.

Sadler was not available Wednesday for comment on his new regulations, but his chief clerk, Jack Giberson, said: "He's one of the believers in neatness and well grooming."

"He felt like mini-skirts are not appropriate to this office or any other business office," Giberson said.

So far, there has not been any complaints from the employees, Sadler said employees were spending too much time at coffee breaks. He said there would be no more coffee breaks.

Call Box Beats Watch Routine

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — William Griffin, 55, had walked the same beat as a Utica policeman for 26 years. So, at his retirement party Wednesday night, the department gave him as a memento a 78-year-old telegraphic call box.

The call box, made by a local firm in 1891, was one of several Griffin used on his last ring-ins the night of April 1.

Dear Abby

The Lady With A Past

DEAR ABBY: You always say, "If you think he's the kind of guy who will throw it up to you later, tell a man NOTHING about your past before you marry him." I agree with you, it's none of his business.

I was a prostitute for a while, married eight times, and have been in jail.

In about a month I will marry for the ninth time. I have been walking a very straight path ever since I met this guy. He's the first really decent man I've ever known and I want to be decent, too.

What if somebody who knows my past says something about me? People like to talk, and my fifth husband's sister works in the same place where my future husband works. Also my third husband works there.

I am 39 and the man I'm marrying is 47. He spent 20 years in the army and came out a first sergeant, so you know he has got it made.

He's a little square. Doesn't drink or smoke, and I know he loves me. How much should I tell him?

DEAR ABBY: In your case, it would be wise to tell him that you've been married before. (Tell him he's Number Nine; he'll probably think you're kidding.) If he asks any other questions, be prepared to answer them honestly. If he doesn't, keep quiet, continue to walk the straight path, and try to draw the curtain on your past. If he really loves you, and you behave yourself, he won't believe rumors, neither will he dig for dirt. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: Two of my relatives (both male) visited me yesterday and they got into a fight, and one of them (age 27) broke a window. It wasn't a window in our apartment, it was one in the front entrance of this apartment building.

I told his mother about it, and she said, "If the manager asks you what happened, tell him you don't know."

Boy, this really made me mad! That overgrown 27-year-old baby ought to take the responsibility and pay for the damage.

If I tell the manager who did it, my whole family will be against me. What should I do?

DEAR ABBY: Tell the manager; and if your whole family is "against you" for doing the right thing, shame on them! Why protect a chiseler?

DEAR ABBY: I, too, have an answer to the lady, married for 21 years who boasted that she phoned her hubby every day at work to say, "I love you."

"Mush" is strictly a breakfast food. Served piping hot at 6 to 7 a.m. with several cups of steaming coffee, it is better than served "strained" through a phone wire every day for 21 years.

Could she be trying to appease her guilty conscience because the "YOU" of "I love you" has been grabbing a quick cup of coffee and a day-old doughnut every morning at the corner cafe?

DEAR NAOMI: Could be. But not necessarily.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
