Justice Fortas Quits, Impeachment Pressure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Abe Fortas, under mounting pressure and the threat of impeachment proceedings, announced today his resignation from the Supreme Court and President Nixon accepted it effectively immediately.

Reaction from Congress, the center of often severe criticism, generally was favorable although some members continued to call for an investigation of Fortas' relationship with now-jailed financier Louis F. Wolfson.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Fortas' letter of resignation was received about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, a short time after Chief Justice Warren telephoned to advise the President that a letter of resignation was forthcoming.

PRISON SENTENCE
Fortas also was nominated to succeed a letter of explanation of his actions in accepting and then returning 11 months later a $20,000 fee from the Wolfson

Family Foundation. The letter, made public today by the Supreme Court, said Fortas' agreement with the foundation "contemplated" he would receive $20,000 a year for life for his services.

FIVE MONTHS
But the justice added he decided in June, 1966, five months after receiving his first check, that he couldn't continue to work for the foundation and that the agreement should be terminated.

And he said he had "not interceded or taken part in any legal, administrative or judicial matter affecting Mr. Wolfson or anyone associated with him."

Wolfson, a former Fortas law client, now is serving a prison sentence for violating federal securities laws. The fee was given Fortas while Wolfson's activities were under government investigation and returned after the financier was indicted.

NO IDEA
But other congressmen—including Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., who called Wednesday for a pre-impeachment proceeding investigation, and Sens. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., and Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., said today the incident would not be closed until all details are revealed fully.

Ziegler said Nixon discussed the resignation this morning with Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and White House counsel John D. Ehrlichman but said he had no idea when the President might nominate a successor.

The resignation of a justice under pressure is unprecedented. There has been only one impeachment trial of a justice—Samuel Chase in the early 19th century—and he was acquitted of charges that he violated legal ethics in conducting trials while sitting on a circuit court, as Supreme Court justices did in those days.

Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., shortly before Fortas sent Nixon his letter, formally asked the House Judiciary Committee to launch an investigation of the Fortas-Wolfson incident—the first step toward possible impeachment action.

MacGregor wanted the committee to determine whether Fortas' conduct warranted impeachment proceedings.

Fortas had remained silent about the incident after issuing a statement May 4 acknowledging that while sitting on the court he had considered but finally rejected a fee from the Wolfson foundation.

He said the fee was "tendered" by the foundation in 1966 "in the hope that I would find time and could undertake consistently with my court obligations, research functions, studies and writings connected with the work of the foundation."

"Concluding that I could not undertake the assignment, I returned the fee with my thanks," he added.

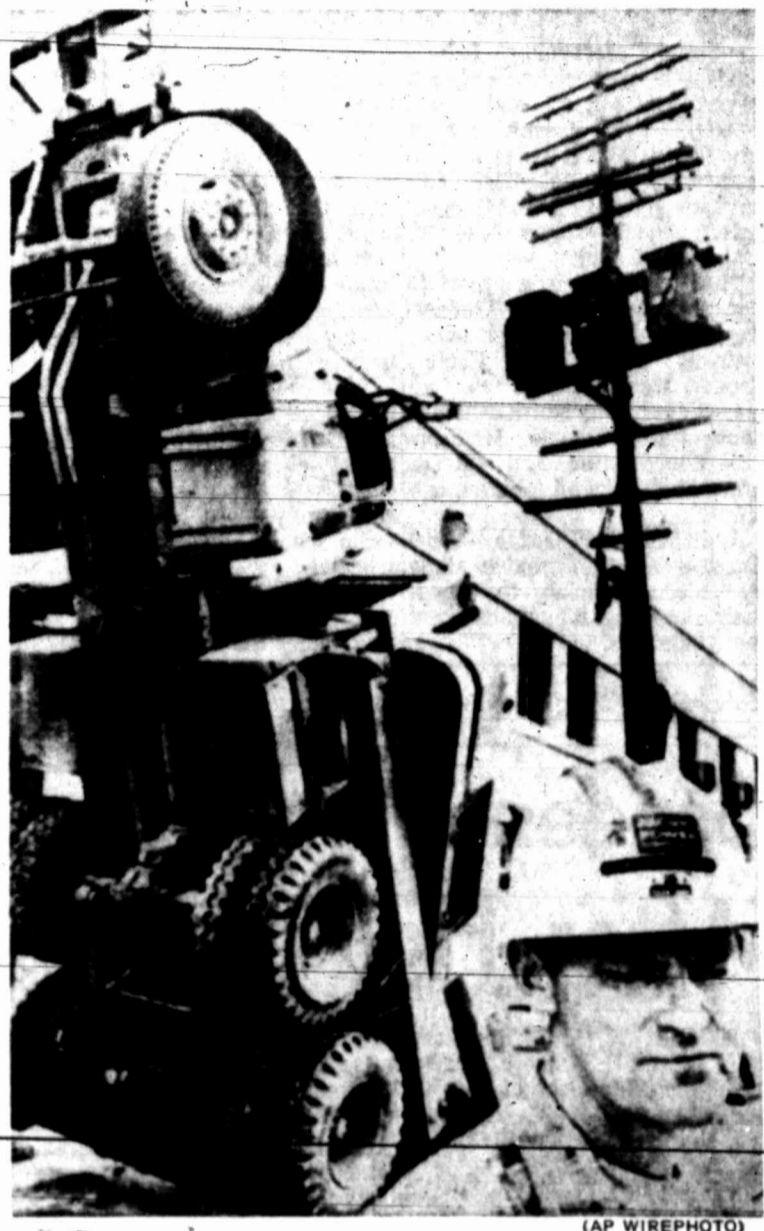

Fortas also denied interceding with any government official in behalf of Wolfson.

MacGregor's announcement Wednesday followed several days of often severe criticism from Capitol Hill after Life magazine's initial disclosure of the Fortas-Wolfson incident.

Critics included Sen. Joseph D. Tyding, D-Md., one of the justice's staunchest supporters during Senate Judiciary Committee hearings last year on his nomination by former President Lyndon B. Johnson as chief justice.

NO REACTION
Johnson withdrew the nomination at Fortas' request after the justice became the target of a volley of complaints for accepting a $15,000 fee for a lecture series at American University and for his role as adviser to the President.

Warren, who announced his intention of resigning from the court last year, steps down at the close of the current session in June. No successor has been named.

Time For A Coffee Break?

The concrete slab he was lifting proved just a wee bit heavier than his crane truck and Pacific Power & Light Company operator R. J. Turnquist suddenly found himself rising gently into the air Wednesday at Portland, Ore. "It was a thrill," he recalled, but, not in the mood for thrills, Turnquist leaped 12 feet to the ground and watched the rig settle back on its rear.

More Violence In Gaza Strip

By The Associated Press
A new wave of unrest today swept Arab areas that Israel occupied in the 1967 war as the Arabs took note of the 21st anniversary of Israel's founding.

Eight hand grenades exploded in different parts of Gaza City, injuring 31 Arabs. Many were women and children. It was the worst violence in the Gaza Strip since the June, 1967, war.

A wave of strikes hit the Arab quarter of Jerusalem and the Israeli-held west bank of the Jordan River. The strikes protested the establishment of the Jewish state as well as the present occupation.

Israel declared its independence May 15, 1948, according to the Gregorian calendar, but celebrated the anniversary last April 25 in accordance with the Jewish calendar.

In Jerusalem, a homemade grenade was hurled at a policeman but exploded without injuring anyone. Police made 30 arrests in the city, and extra security forces patrolled the streets.

In broadcasts timed to coincide with the anniversary, Arab radio stations and the Palestine Liberation Organization, which embraces most of the Arab commando groups, called for support of guerrilla activities against the Israeli occupation.

The situation also was tense in Lebanon, where authorities feared a repetition of the riots last month by Palestine refugees in which 18 persons were killed and more than 100 injured.

Steel-helmeted soldiers manned strategic intersections in Beirut and roadblocks outside the cities of Sidon and Tyre. Army guards also were strengthened outside several refugee camps in southern Lebanon.

The Palestinians rioted last month to protest government restrictions on guerrillas in Lebanon. The demonstrations led to the resignation of the government, plunging the country into a crisis that still is unresolved.

On the Suez Canal front, the Israeli army said occasional light arms and mortar exchanges took place during the night and left four soldiers wounded.

Nixon Reaction Divided Along Cold War Lines

By The Associated Press

Official reaction around the world to President Nixon's Vietnam peace package proposal was divided today along cold war lines. The nations of the West welcomed it and the Communists criticized or denounced it.

(See OFFER, Page 6-A)

The National Liberation Front, political arm of the embattled Viet Cong, spurned the essential provisions of the Nixon proposals, but appeared to avoid carefully rejection of it as a whole.

At the same time, the South Vietnamese allies of the United States, though they apparently had endorsed the plan in advance, might have serious objections to some aspects of it.

There was no immediate comment from the Viet Cong's allies, the North Vietnamese. But a Japanese news agency dispatch from Hanoi expressed doubt that North Vietnam would reject it in its entirety.

In Moscow, the official Soviet news agency, Tass, said Nixon had admitted that the war was a "difficult and urgent" problem but that the rest of his Wednesday night speech had "boiled down to a justification of aggression."

The National Liberation Front delegation to the Paris peace talks was quick to denounce the plan as an attempt to "give an appearance of good will" to offset the impact of a 10-point NLF proposal presented at last week's peace talks session.

Oil Allowable In Texas Up During June

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission pushed the state-wide oil allowable for June to 63.5 per cent of potential today, the highest ever with the exception of 1948 when the industry was restocking supplies depleted by World War II.

The June market demand factor will permit maximum production of 4,187,233 barrels a day, 476,584 more than in May.

Seven of the 11 major crude oil purchasers requested more oil next month than in May. Five wanted the same amount and one asked for less oil in June.

Written nominations by major buyers for Texas crude in June totaled 3,253,000 barrels daily, an increase of 101,115 from May.

The Bureau of Mines forecast the June demand at 1,375,000 barrels a day, 73,000 more than this month.

The allowable has advanced by 17.9 per cent in the second quarter and by 22.2 per cent since Jan. 1.

Commission Chairman Ben Ramsey said Texas' crude oil stocks on May 9 totaled 97.3 million barrels, one million fewer than a week ago and 6.4 million fewer than a year ago.

He said that "due to these factors and an apparent tight crude market" the commission was raising the factor to a level much higher than even in the periods following the 1957 Suez crisis and 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Snake Shorts Power

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Colorado City and surrounding rural areas were without electric power at noon Wednesday and all because of an inquisitive bull snake.

Texas Electric Service Co. officials say that the snake crawled into the breaker system at the TESCO sub-station at the Colorado City Cemetery and had shorted across two breaker switches causing fuses to blow out.

They reported the dead snake was removed, fuses replaced, and the lights came back on in Colorado City.

Balance Of Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today a $1.8 billion, first-quarter deficit in the balance of payments — second worst in history — but said "severe distortions" during the period rob the statistics of much of their significance.

Black Panther Probe

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal grand jury disclosed Wednesday it is investigating whether Black Panther party members crossed state lines to promote civil disorder and violence.

More Rain, Maybe

Partly cloudy and warm tonight and Friday with 30 per cent chance of scattered nighttime thunderstorms. High today upper 80's; low tonight near 60; high Friday near 90. Minimum 50; temperature 60, average minimum past 10 days 58.6.

Wind and hail with some rain swept Big Spring Wednesday evening, causing extensive damage to roofs, windows, cars and trees, plus adding from a third to nearly two-thirds of an inch of additional moisture to the 1969 rain record.

The hail was of assorted sizes with larger stones as big as golf balls reported in the south, west and northwest parts of town. These big ice chunks fell early in the brief storm. The damage lasted only about 10 minutes before the storm faded into rain.

Insurance adjusters were busy today checking out possible damages from the hail. The stones varied in size and the volume was more marked in some parts of town than in others.

The current hail storm came a year and 10 days after the disastrous storm of May 5, 1968, which damaged hundreds of houses in the city. One claim adjuster said that some of the files on damages at that time are still open, and work is still being pursued.

Early investigation indicated that the west and south portions of the city received the heavier hail and by the same token the most damage. Most investigations indicated no damage to shingled roofs. Full extent of the damage to composition roofing is yet to be evaluated. It was evident, insurance adjusters said, that extra men will have to be brought in to augment present crews in appraising the damage.

Reports early today showed that heavier roof damage seemed to have been concentrated in the northwest part of town. There were reports of numerous roofs battered on Willis, Ann, Creighton, and streets in that neighborhood.

It was noted that this part of town was less seriously damaged in 1968 and that the last heavy hail damage in that area was in 1960.

"This means," said an adjuster, "that the composition roofs in this area are getting along in years. The older roofs are more prone to be damaged from hail."

Meantime, several more spectacular instances of damage were reported.

Plateglass windows at the Firestone store were blown in by the gale.

Bob Brock Ford said that 150 new cars parked to the east of the company building were damaged. The extent of the damage to these vehicles was being determined today. A number of windows in the service department at the shop were battered in.

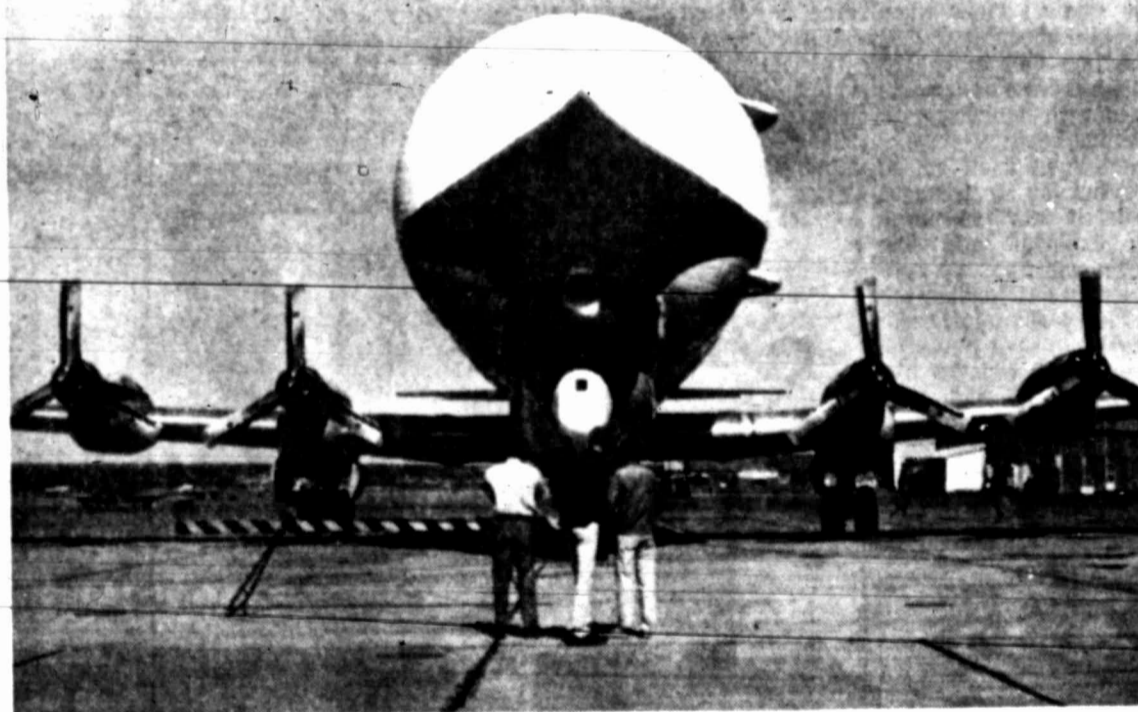

A pickup, with a camper cover, which had been parked on the northside of a service station west across US 87 from the Ponderosa Restaurant, was started rolling by the wind. It gained speed as it rolled eastward. The restaurant is at the lower end of a slight grade.

M. C. Bodine, proprietor of the restaurant, said the vehicle seemed to gather momentum as it jumped the curbing in front of the cafe. Then it crashed head-on into the front wall of the restaurant's main dining room. It knocked out the front and wound up deep inside the restaurant.

Bodine said that the incident occurred at 9 p.m. One customer was drinking coffee in the luncheon room adjacent to the dining room, and one of the waitresses was at the east end of the dining room looking out the window at the storm. Bodine was in the luncheon room.

The restaurant was so heavily damaged that it has been closed. Bodine said no insurance man had reported to him at 11 a.m. He pointed to the rafter structure and observed that he feared the roof of the big room might collapse if something is not done about it soon.

He said the pickup, owned by (See STORM, P. 6A, 7C, 1)

SUPER GUPPY
One of 25 aircraft to be displayed

World's Largest Airplane To Be Displayed At Webb

The "Super Guppy," the world's largest airplane, will be on display on the Webb AFB flightline during the base's Armed Forces Day celebrations Saturday.

The aircraft, officially designated as the B-377PG and a conversion of the Boeing B-377 Stratocruiser, was added to the list of confirmed static display aircraft for Armed Forces Day when Aero Spacelines accepted the Webb installation this week.

The "Super Guppy" has been manufactured primarily to transport large booster rockets under the National Aeronautics and Space Administration-Marshall Space Center contract.

The aircraft, which cruises at 250 mph and weighs approximately 141,000 pounds when loaded with cargo, represents several "firsts" in the annals of aviation. Among them are, the first aircraft to include the cockpit, swing open, and from "idea stage" to first flight, the elapsed time covered a period of only ten months. The plane, Saturday, will be on display with its cargo door open.

Webb's Armed Forces Day will begin with a downtown parade beginning at 10 a.m. then switch to the base for afternoon activities. Highlight of the afternoon will be a diversified air show beginning at 1 p.m. on the base flightline.

Among the many units which will participate in the air show is a sky-diving team.

The trio of jumpers—S. Sgt. Robert Johnson and 2nd Lt. Terry Garrett of Webb, and Paul Ross of Abilene—have registered over 400 free fall jumps. The men will jump from approximately 10,000 feet and perform various maneuvers before opening their parachutes.

Also in attendance during the jumps will be Scott Brady, West Texas safety officer for the U.S. Parachute Association, of which all three jumpers are members. Brady may also participate in the jumps, depending on the aircraft used.

Following the air show, sporting events will take place at various sections of the base. The public can also view the static display aircraft.

The day is free and open to the public as the base will conduct its largest open house of the year. Refreshments will be served at a minimal charge, and security policemen at the main gates will direct visitors to activity areas.

NOT MUCH LOSS IN SOME CASES

Thirteen School Districts Face Cuts

By The Associated Press

Thirteen Texas school districts are under orders to speed up integration or face a cutoff of federal aid to education.

But a survey shows these surprising facts:

—A cutoff in federal funds would usually have little effect on most school districts, but would have a large effect on many Negro students.

—One of the districts ordered to comply with Department of Health, Education and Welfare guidelines, Richardson in Dallas County, has never applied for federal aid.

—Except in a few cases, the federal money involved is a very small part of the school's total budget.

—Simply foregoing federal funds will not get the national government out of local school districts. "It doesn't matter whether a district receives federal money or not. They still have to get rid of dual (segregated) school systems," one federal official said.

The HEW said in a report to Congress made public Wednesday that the independent school districts of Calvert, Center, Crosby, Garland, La Vega, Lufkin, Richardson, San Augustine, South Park, Temple, Madisonville Consolidated, Arp and Cypress-Fairbanks all face the cutoff.

And 50 other Texas school districts are now under study by federal officials to see if their desegregation plans meet the guidelines.

Flaxman said. "As far as an HEW guideline is concerned, it follows from court decisions," said Carl Flaxman of Dallas, southwest regional civil rights director for HEW. "In essence, we say to a district, not to comply with us or not it is receiving federal money."

Two school districts in Texas have been dropped from federal handouts because of failure to comply. They are Carthage and Waskom, both in East Texas.

Over-all, Texas leads all other southern states in the desegregation of Negro pupils, Leon Panetta, HEW civil rights director in Washington said.

He said only five per cent of the 1,625 districts in Texas make up the problem area.

School districts which are stripped of federal funds can still be attacked by the government for failure to desegregate. Federal court decisions, primarily the 1954 Brown Case, in which the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that "separate but equal" schools are in violation of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution, can be used by the Justice Department to force more integration on local school districts.

"The Supreme Court reaffirmed all the prior decisions of May 27, 1968, with the Green Case," Flaxman said. "The court said then that there will not be any more Negro or all-white schools, there will just be schools."

"All remaining vestiges of dual systems must go, and go now, under the Green decision,"

Flaxman said that under the decision handed down after Charles E. Green filed suit against the school board of Kent County, Va., the courts can tell a district to integrate whether or not it is receiving federal money.

Of the 12 Texas school districts facing loss of federal aid, all but one have so-called freedom of choice programs which ask parents to choose to which school they wish to send their children.

The one exception is La Vega, near Waco, which has school attendance zones. School officials there say segregated housing patterns cause racially segregated schools.

The HEW has said the freedom of choice is not eliminating the dual school system in these districts and must be replaced with a better plan.

Of the district's surveyed, Center has an integrated high school but segregated elementary schools. Crosby has four per cent integration. Garland has one all-black elementary school, La Vega "some degree of integration," in Lufkin 14 per cent of the Negroes attend integrated schools, San Augustine has 15 per cent, South Park 16 per cent, Temple 42 per cent, Madisonville 15 per cent, Arp totally integrated top six grades, and Cypress-Fairbanks 22 per cent integration.

Most of the school districts say federal funds amount to only a very small part of their budget. And most of those funds are used to operate programs for Negroes.

The programs include remedial help for students, medical and dental care. Head Start programs, free lunches, guidance and counseling.

School superintendents of the schools involved say they don't know what will happen to these programs if federal funding is cut off. But in Waskom and Carthage, where funds were cut off, the programs were dropped.

In some school districts, loss of federal funds would hurt more than in others.

In Madisonville, $100,000 of the district's 700,000 budget last year came from federal funds.

But in Crosby, Garland, La Vega, Lufkin, South Park, and Cypress-Fairbanks, federal funds make up small to tiny parts of their annual budgets.

Most school administrators say their boards will stick by the freedom of choice plans they have adopted.

In Center, Supt. Pearson said a school bond issue will be proposed to build a new elementary school which would be integrated. He said trustees are going to close the all-Negro high school after all but three of the 138 students transferred to the previously white school under freedom of choice.

In Arp, Supt. A. D. Shores said "We have been trying to comply all the time. But when you run out of classrooms, there's not much you can do about it. But we're not going to get cut off. We will comply, somehow."

Students Hole Up After Fighting

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Anti-U.S. students holed up in the University of Honduras Wednesday night after one of their number was killed during a demonstration against New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's visit.

Rockefeller, who left the United States Sunday on the first of four tours south of the border as a special envoy of President Nixon, arrived in Honduras late Tuesday. He conferred Wednesday with President Oswaldo Lopez Arellano, his first encounter on the trip with a Latin-American dictator.

While the two men were meeting in the presidential palace, about 500 students gathered in a park two blocks away and began shouting, "Rockefeller go home!" They said his purpose was to "secure the exploitation of our people by the Yankees."

Welding clubs, police charged the students. Then shots were fired and a 19-year-old student was hit twice in the head. He was taken to a hospital, where a nurse identified him as Carlos V. Zuniga and said he died from his wounds.

After the police broke up the demonstration, a number of students took refuge in the university campus. The police respected the university's autonomy and did not enter the campus, but they continued to disperse students who mingled in the park where the demonstration took place.

Apparently Rockefeller was not aware of the disturbances until after they were over. The 23 experts travelling with him were informed by newsmen returning from the demonstration.

On the first stop of his trip, in Mexico, Rockefeller said his object is to seek "new directions" for U.S. policies in Latin America.

Three other tours—May 27, June 4, June 16-June 21 and June 27-July 6—will take him to all the other Latin-American countries except Cuba.

Bitten By Bobcat, Suffering Rabies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Tommy Buchmann, 2, is suffering from rabies, doctors say.

Tommy, bitten by a bobcat, lapsed into a coma 16 days ago with rabies-like symptoms. But doctors said then that nearly everyone stricken with rabies dies within a day or two of the appearance of the symptoms, and so there was a question whether the boy was suffering a reaction to vaccine against it.

Confirmation of the disease through extensive laboratory tests now will permit doctors to proceed with treatment that was not possible while there was doubt if he had rabies, said a spokesman for University Hospital.

Astro Does Not Choose To Run

HOUSTON (AP) — Astronaut Frank Borman says he has no plans to leave his present assignment and run for the U.S. Senate in Arizona.

Borman, director of a task force on advanced space station designs, said Wednesday that contrary to rumors nobody had tried to persuade him to seek the seat of Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz. The move had been attributed to a group of Arizona Democrats.

Borman declined to say whether he was a Democrat or a Republican.

Here's Why He's Paid $300,000

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Stuart T. Saunders, board chairman of the Bell Central Co., was told by a stockholder that his annual salary of nearly $300,000 in 1968 seemed excessive.

"In the 1930's," replied Saunders at the company's 122nd annual meeting, "the board chairman was paid $150,000 and he took home $126,000. Today the board chairman takes home less than one-half that amount, and he can't buy even one-half of what the board chairman could buy in the 1930's."

Charles M. Hastings edged toward a boxcar of exploding ammunition and uncoupled other munitions-laden cars so they could be pulled away by locomotives.

As the explosions held fire fighters and military ordnance experts a mile away, Hastings drove his truck to the train on a siding.

He uncoupled both ends of the 90-car train to within eight cars of the blazing boxcar, so crews

A Devotional For The Day

Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. (Matthew 28:20)

Technology And Its Price

Technological innovation, like scientific progress, has long been popularly viewed as an unquestioned good. Any improvement in and spreading use of the industrial tools for increased productivity...

responsible for most of the world's industrial output." The conference broadened our own current domestic worry over conglomerates...

The intellectual French journalist, Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, in "The American Challenge," has caused widespread alarm in Europe...

The impact of the mammoth international company is seen in the estimate that foreign investment of companies in international business has increased from a pre-World War II $15 billion to $100 billion today...

That technology, in itself, which has become a pervasive independent power in world affairs was recently re-emphasized in an Anglo-American-Israeli private-enterprise symposium at Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Meanwhile, on another technology-criticizing front Director Barry Commoner of Washington University's Center for Biology of Natural Systems at St. Louis, recently warned a U.S. Senate committee that technological development's net benefit is far less than thought because its cost in lasting and dangerous damage to mankind's environmental resources...

For The Best

The resignation under pressure of Mr. Justice Abe Fortas from the United States Supreme Court is unusual, but perhaps it is for the best.

He has been something of a bone of contention almost since he went on to the court, but especially so since it was intimated he was one of the pieces in a scheme whereby Chief Justice Earl Warren planned to leave the court...

magazine that Justice Fortas, as an attorney for the Wolfson Foundation, had taken a $20,000 fee, held it 10 months and then returned it.

Perhaps it is just as well that Justice Fortas has retired from the high bench, for whether there was impropriety in his dealings with the financier Wolfson who has since been convicted of stock market irregularities...

The World Needs St. Christopher

WASHINGTON — Though a non-Catholic, I was as shaken as most people when the Vatican announced it was dropping St. Christopher, the patron saint of travelers...

beds built 50 years ago, he suspected the only one holding the trains on the track was St. Christopher.

With all forms of travel escalating to a point unheard of in the past, with 400-passenger air buses coming off the production lines, with rail travel coming back into its own, and automobile sales going up and up...

MILLIONS OF PEOPLE have depended on St. Christopher to protect them on freeways, highways and city streets.

Proof of St. Christopher's power is that long before Ralph Nader discovered that automobiles were unsafe at any speed, the only safety factor in most cars was a St. Christopher medal.

I AM NOT a superstitious person, but I always carry a small St. Christopher medal in my wallet, blessed by a priest who once told me, "Unfortunately, there are other planes flying in the friendly skies of United States..."

I am not concerned with the millions of dollars which have been invested in St. Christopher medals, statues and jewelry...

SURELY FORTUNES will be lost, but that is not what we're talking about. What we're saying is that every form of travel — airline, rail, automobiles — even hiking is getting more dangerous and uncomfortable, and the world needs St. Christopher more than it ever did before.

AS THE AIRPORTS got more crowded, the traffic delays became more intense and foulups in ticketing became standard operating procedure, my only comfort was St. Christopher was watching over me.

Theologically there might be some question of the powers he holds over travelers, but the fact is that St. Christopher has been serving non-Catholics as well as Catholics for hundreds of years.

My friend Wentworth said that with the superstrains now running between New York and Washington on road-

AS A MATTER OF FACT, I'm inclined to think that St. Christopher really doesn't care if he made the Vatican calendar or not. If I know him he's probably watching over the very people who decided he wasn't a saint at all...

Billy Graham

How should a Christian deal with tensions these days?

Tension is a good thing if we know how to handle it. Tension can be the nerves taut, ready for action; or it can be the nerves on edge ready to break. Much depends on what we do with our tensions.

Apple Zapple

NEW YORK (AP) — The Beatles are introducing a new record label, Zapple, a division of their Apple Records.

Zapple will emphasize spoken word albums and music releases of an esoteric nature.

First three releases will be a John Lennon-Yoko Ono album, "Unfinished Music No. 2 — Life with the Lions," a George Harrison-composed album recorded with a Moog synthesizer, and an album by poet-writer Richard Brautigan.

Other writers and poets committed to albums include Laurence Ferlinghetti, Michael McClure, Kenneth Fatchen, Charles Olson and Allen Ginsberg.

'WITHOUT ST. CHRISTOPHER, MAYBE WE SHOULD WALK'

John Cunniff Debate Tax Credit Device

NEW YORK (AP) — There are, we are told reliably, two sides to every story, but in tax matters the story looks more like a hexagon, which is a geometric shape of six sides and just as many angles.

At least that many faces may be seen in the current debate over the 7 per cent investment tax credit, whose suspension has been proposed by the Nixon administration in an effort to curtail inflation.

This tax credit device permits business to deduct from income tax bills as much as 7 per cent of the cost of equipment purchases designed to increase production.

Should the investment tax credit be left as is and not repealed, the experiment will be an interesting one. Conceivably it could be a dangerous one as well if it doesn't, as theorized, work to keep prices under control.

One of the chief arguments is that repeal is discriminatory, giving certain companies competitive advantages merely because they purchased equipment while the credit was in effect.

SOME BUSINESSMEN who criticize suspension of this score would rather see the tax credit repealed altogether, because repeal would eliminate what they consider to be a potentially unfair situation.

Hal Boyle Big Danger Of Flying

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's tired businessmen never had it so good.

They have a hard time keeping their feet on the ground because commercial airlines, vying to see which can pamper its passengers most, make life so much more comfortable up among the fleecy clouds.

"AIR TRAVEL is turning my husband into a spoiled brat," said one embittered wife recently. He expects me to give him the same attention he gets from a stewardess on an airplane, which means I should wait on him hand and foot and cater to his every whim.

"I am thinking of installing seat belts on our dining room chairs so he'll feel more at home."

It is true that airlines are turning their craft into flying luxury dens so comfortable aloft that the weary businessman feels he's in another world. It is so comfortable that he rather hates to land.

MOST AIRLINES now have hostesses dressed as attractively as geisha girls. They bring the passenger freshly plumped pillows, individual slippers, fur-like lap robes, they ply him with appetizers, champagne or hard booze, liquors, and freshly broiled steaks on a quality that wives never seem able to get from a butcher.

Aloft he is treated like a king; at home he is treated like a mere husband.

The pioneers who lumbered westward in covered wagons were born 100 years too soon.

To Your Good Health How Should Babies Be Spaced?

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D. Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have never seen an answer that I can recall, but there must be one that is considered best.

What is the best age-spacing between children, how many years? Is one too close, four too far, three just right, or what? I am referring to the children themselves, but not necessarily what is best for the parents.

I've heard so many arguments on having them very close (which I can't quite agree with) and yet I've been told it is unfair to have too large an age spread.

I doubt that there is a "best" answer. In my own case there was no spacing at all — twin boys. For us, both parents and boys, we wouldn't change a thing!

should exist between brothers or sisters.

Yet I know, and I'm sure you do, of the nicest affection between children who are 10 or more years apart.

One year apart seems to me to be pretty close together, because babies thrive on a lot of babying. Yet I know that we found time to give both of our twins a good share of that.

As the age spread increases to three or more years, you have to be careful not to let the older child feel "left out" when the new baby gets a lot of attention.

I guess I'd say that a difference of a year and a half or two years might come close to being "best," but I certainly don't want to say anything that would seem critical of the happy families with quite different age differentials, in fact, I wonder if I've put my foot in it by trying to give an answer to this. Children of any age-spread are the salt of the earth, and the hope of it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Should

Around The Rim Horticulture From Hizzoner

I'm not up on my horticulture enough to know a weed from a twig of grass, and my own yard shows it.

SO EARLIER this week, when I met Mayor Arnold Marshall walking out the city hall door, I jumped at the chance to get a lesson or two. Those beautiful purple and white blossoms sprouting on the City Hall grounds are not weeds, as I had thought, but something called "vetiv." Apparently, this is something city officials have planted on the sloping ground to replace the grass that formerly grew there.

When it first sprouted, I thought it was the ghostly weed we grew at our place which sprout "ghost-heads." Looks just like it, but Hizzoner assured me this is excellent ground cover instead.

WE JOURNEED to the next plot and quickly found some broad leaf stuff I knew was a weed. He verified it.

Next, we found the little sprigs of grass that grow tassels on the end, two of them similar, but one a bit more fuzzy than the other.

He assured me they were no good, and that the tassels will grow further grief as each will break up into many parcels which become seeds for more. He cautioned against merely mowing them, as have done for so long, but rather to root them out and haul them away.

THE TINY plants with nice long leaves he identified as a kind clover, and it is getting a good start. And of course, there is plenty Bermuda off to a green beginning.

On the south side of the building, we found some small white flowers which firmen have installed to protect perhaps the greenest spot on the grounds. Up near the corner, the mayor said we should get more them to protect the budding grass.

WE BOTH admired how the log of the old trees on the east side had improved the looks of the City Hall, and he pointed out that the trees had been planted too close to the building. Those left along side the auditorium all lean from the building, where branches keep them pushed outward.

Now that I know what they are the problem is to get rid of them at home. His answer for solving the problem sounded a bit back-breaking.

Student Unrest Prof Blames Hypocrisy, TV

By ROBERT HEARD Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Hypocrisy causes student unrest, and television spreads it, says a University of Texas behavioral scientist who heads a national committee studying the phenomenon.

Dean Wayne H. Holtzman of the College of Education lists two unsettling factors for students: "Uncertainty of their own careers and the hypocrisy of the country going along with business as usual during an unpopular war."

"THIS ONE is larger than Korea. All the other wars were popular — or patriotic in the sense that war was declared. You're either lucky enough to stay out of it or you get caught and you see certain segments profiting from the war. There always are the sold."

Instant news on television makes it a contagion," he said.

More detailed information on "casual factors giving rise to student protests" is needed, however, and Holtzman heads a committee advising an American Council on Education project to get that information. The first year of the projected three-year study is financed by a $114,000 grant from the National Institute of Mental Health.

"WE PROBABLY would develop a network of informants to tell us of something happening that would be interesting and different than on other campuses."

"All the things that go to heighten the level of unrest are present and not many that reduce it," Holtzman said.

The specific goals of radio, such as the demands of Afro-American groups are impractical, he said. "They don't expect them all to be met but they are pleased to get the publicity," he said.

Unlike previous generations, this generation calls this generation "a little more idealistic" than its predecessors. "They work in slums. They raise money for the poor," he said. They have a "tremendous amount of energy" and are willing to pour it out in this kind of work "even at the expense of their own future careers."

Only one or two per cent of college students are militant radicals, he said, but on a campus of 30,000 that means 300 or more. These come from liberal affluent families, he said. Most student rebels in the past sprang from labor union families, he said.

"The first will bring him the wines and foods of his choice. The second will give him a manicure and search his back on demand. The third will pose for him. The fourth will be his dining and gin rammy partner. The fifth will read him the love sonnets of Edna St. Vincent Millay in a low sweet voice."

As we see it, the big danger of flying in the future is that the luxury-maddened passengers may take over the plane at gunpoint and make the pilot circle until all the supplies are exhausted.

For with living so wild and free in the sky, why would any businessman in his right mind want to return to the sordid cares of earth?

Not necessarily. Heavy lifting, or any other exertion that puts increased pressure inside the abdomen, should be avoided. (This includes straining in the bathroom.)

Bowling, golf, swimming, jogging, tennis, and other activities that do not seriously raise internal pressure in the abdomen are acceptable for a hiatal hernia patient.

Don't neglect the importance of losing weight. Getting rid of excess fat inside the belly can help greatly.

To learn of the many factors that can be involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia, which concerns the esophagus, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of his booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

one believes in confrontation instead of debate and persuasion, he said.

HOLTZMAN BLAMED this on the failure of the civil rights movement to accomplish as much as student wanted it to. Another reason, he said, was the striking down by violence of their heroes — the two Kennedys and Martin Luther King.

Campus disorders in previous generations were rare. There was one at Texas in 1917 when students went on strike after Gov. James Ferguson demanded that six faculty members be fired. Ferguson said he didn't have to give a reason for wanting them fired.

The governor answered the protests by vetoing appropriations for the university.

The six-month-long controversy ended finally in Ferguson's impeachment and conviction.

IN 1941, TEXAS students struck again when a conservative board of regents fired liberal President Homer P. Rainey.

The American Association of Association of American Universities censured the school, but the firing stuck.

Holtzman calls this generation "a little more idealistic" than its predecessors. "They work in slums. They raise money for the poor," he said. They have a "tremendous amount of energy" and are willing to pour it out in this kind of work "even at the expense of their own future careers."

Only one or two per cent of college students are militant radicals, he said, but on a campus of 30,000 that means 300 or more. These come from liberal affluent families, he said. Most student rebels in the past sprang from labor union families, he said.

Holmes Alexander A Committee Loses Its Luster

WASHINGTON — What used to be one of the liveliest committees in Congress, Senate Labor and Public Welfare, has lately degenerated into one of the dullest and least heard-from.

In the 1950's it was the dueling ground of Jack Kennedy and Barry Goldwater. In fact, it was the place Goldwater formed an opinion that he could beat JFK if he ever shot it out for the presidency. By 1963, the year of President Kennedy's death, Goldwater was the committee's ranking minority member, and had a witty fellow-member in John Tower of Texas.

GOLDWATER AND TOWER enjoyed the rivalry that they kept going against jaw-bone liberals, there notably Joe Clark of Pennsylvania and Wayne Morse of Oregon. It was a rare session between 1953-63 when the Republicans didn't have a field day at needing the Democrats about the power-happy Labor bosses and their tyrannizing and pocket-picking of the poor working-stuff union members.

THEN IN 1966 Republican Robert Griffin of Michigan won the senate seat to which he'd previously been appointed by Governor Romney.

Griffin was a natural for the Labor-Welfare committee, being co-author in the House of the Landrum-Griffin Act, a semi-emancipation measure for the trade union rank-and-file. The fact that two presidential candidates, Kennedy and Goldwater, had come off this committee, may have been an additional reason why Griffin sought and accepted the assignment.

BUT LAST JANUARY, Griffin decided against going back to the Labor-Welfare committee. It had lost its theateric glitter. Griffin exercised an option to move over to Government Operations with its permanent investigations subcommittee, under John McClellan of Arkansas. How does it happen that a once-attractive assignment had become ho-hum, and that a committee so much in the news has retired to the shadows?

THE REASON is to be found in the men who now lead the Labor Welfare committee. The chairman, Yarborough of Texas, isn't the kind of Texan that state used to send to the Senate. Still he's very much the liberal, labor-loss-oriented sort of Democrat that the party likes in key legislative positions.

HOWEVER, the ranking Republican is nothing like the Goldwater-Towers Griffin prototype. Instead, the GOP top committee member is Javits of New York. Javits is the most un-Republican Republican in the Senate. If anything, he's left of Yarborough. He is almost as garrulous as Morse used to be, and almost as devoid of humor as Clark used to be.

As a result, the Labor Welfare committee is a moribund reminder of why George Wallace got a lot of mileage out of saying: There isn't a dime's bit of difference between the major parties. Certainly this is true when a Democrat like Yarborough is pitted against a Republican like Javits.

What Others Say

Walt Whitman who wrote "I have a leaf of grass is no less than the journey work of the stars" never had a chance to pass judgment on the six-lane highway, the gas stations, shopping centers, and other commercial clutter that have obliterated his old neighborhood in Huntington on Long Island.

It is not at all certain he would have disapproved, but we do disapprove, on behalf of those who value history and love quiet, country places. For the Whitman birthplace and home, purchased largely with the pennies of Long Island school children during a 1951 New York campaign, has been most grievously blighted.

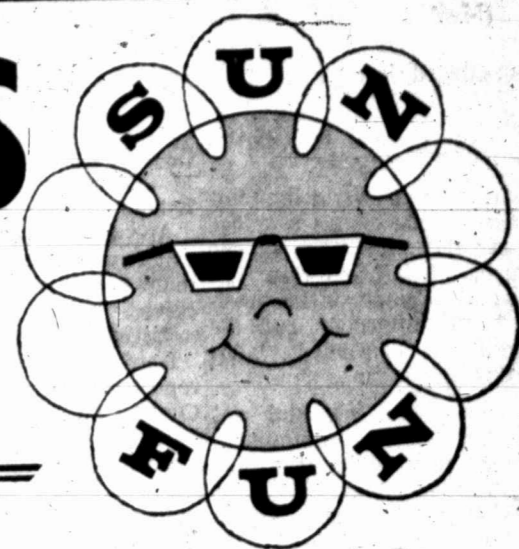

It is too late now to turn back the commercial encroachments on the single-acre owned by the New York State Historic Trust, but other steps could turn the Whitman house into a small gem of an historical site.

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — Malays and Chinese fought for the third day in Malaysia's capital today. Malay troops and youths attacked Chinese during a suspension of the curfew, and a gang of Chinese youths armed with shotguns reportedly raided a Malay college and killed four or five students.
The government, which assumed sweeping special powers to deal with the bloody communal warfare, relaxed the round-the-clock curfew for three hours in Kuala Lumpur so people could buy food.
Eyewitnesses said Malay troops fired four or five shots into a group of Chinese shoppers during the suspension of the curfew. It was not known whether they inflicted any casualties.
There have been other reports of Malay troops firing on Chinese.
Bands of Malay youths were reported attacking Chinese passersby in several areas, and scattered incidents were reported in market and shopping areas as people flocked to stock up on food. The curfew was reimposed after the three hours.
About 1,500 police and 500 army troops patrolled the multi-racial capital of half a million people, trying to snuff out sporadic clashes. At times they appeared to have the situation under control. Then new outbreaks would occur.
Official figures this morning listed 42 persons killed since the communal battling began Tuesday night, but observers said the toll was much higher. Police sources said at least 100 had died.
Fires in many kampongs, or Malay settlements, are called, and in Chinese neighborhoods, continued to be seen. Four pillars of smoke covered widespread areas visible from downtown Kuala Lumpur.
Police reported rounding up hundreds of curfew breakers in the states of Selangor, where the capital is located, nearby Perak and on Penang Island. A report from Penang said police in Perak had killed seven persons, but police there refused to comment.
Using its emergency powers, the government postponed indefinitely the general elections that were to have been held in East Malaysia June 7. There has been no violence in Sabah and Sarawak, the East Malaysian states in Borneo, and some observers said the action reflected the government's fear of losing some of its power there.
Racial passions inflame easily in Malaysia, where the Malays control the government and the Chinese control business and industry.

Colorful Units To March In Armed Forces Day Parade

Two military drum and bugle corps are among the 23 units scheduled to participate in the 1969 Big Spring-Webb AFB Armed Forces Day parade, which begins at 10 a. m. Saturday, May 17.
The parade, the first held in conjunction with Webb's Armed Forces Day celebration in several years, also includes three marching bands, a sheriff's posse, antique automobiles, Boy Scouts, beauty queens, the Youth Horseman Club, and other participating units.
The two drum and bugle corps are coming from Goodfellow and Sheppard AFBs. Both are volunteer organizations, adept at performing in many Texas city and county civic functions.
The Goodfellow group has been playing in parades since its inception in 1961 and the corps is familiar to West Texas audiences.
The corps has participated in the Miss Wool of America Pageant in San Angelo, college homecoming parades in San Angelo and Lubbock, and other Armed Forces Day parades. Also, it has played at historical celebrations, rodeos, county fairs and Christmas parades in San Angelo, Lubbock, Colorado City, Ozona, Brownwood, Midland, Abilene, Junction, Merkel, Carlisbad, Ballinger and Coleman.
The Goodfellow group is commanded by Capt. Robert Gongloff, chief of the base's personnel office, who has been in charge of the corps for the past three years. The current director of the unit is S. Sgt. John Grant, of Goodfellow's photo lab, who has been working with the corps since July, 1968.
The Goodfellow drum and bugle corps was originally formed in 1961 to participate in base parades. Through the years, it has extended its efforts to include city and county civic functions.
The Sheppard drum and bugle corps is composed of a group of volunteer student airmen who have been selected to participate in the activity. All corps members are receiving training at the 3750th technical school. Once the student joins the corps, he is assigned to Sheppard's 3758th student squadron.
The group was organized in December, 1965, by former Sheppard commander, Maj. Gen. Edward Nigro. It performs at noon review as well as at parades, rodeos, and dedications in the West Texas area.
Commanding the Sheppard unit is 1st Lt. Jeffrey King. The non-commissioned officer-in-charge of the unit is T. Sgt. Robert Myers and the corps master is Airman 1.C. David Huff.
The two groups, in addition to participating in the morning parade, will play during Webb's afternoon air show at the base, beginning at 1 p. m.
The "Blue Cadets" will be one of 24 units in the morning parade. The 23-cadet drill team is in its first year as a part of the newly organized Ector Army ROTC (Reserved Officer Training Corps) program. It was organized in October, 1968, and has since performed on several occasions in Midland and Odessa.
The cadets have marched in teaching animal science, the Permian Basin Oil Show plant science, and agricultural mechanics, and has assisted in forming judging teams at Teachers' Meeting, the Ector Borden County High School, the R.O.T.C. Parent-Appreciation Night, the KOZA Radio Charity basketball games and various Odessa and school assemblies.

Student Teacher

GAIL (SC) — The Borden County Vocational Agriculture Department has had a student teacher from Texas Tech and has since performed on several occasions in Midland and Odessa.
The cadets have marched in teaching animal science, the Permian Basin Oil Show plant science, and agricultural mechanics, and has assisted in forming judging teams at Teachers' Meeting, the Ector Borden County High School, the R.O.T.C. School Bells Ring For Austin Solons

AUSTIN (AP) — School bells were ringing again today for Texas legislators.
Both chambers had early sessions for a long list of local bills then they turned to debate calendar's where a number of proposals to create new state colleges and schools were pending.
Unfinished business in the Senate was a debate on a new medical school at Texas Tech. Awaiting House approval on Senate amendments added Wednesday were bills for a new state medical school in Houston and a nursing school in San Antonio.
Four other new schools were added to the Senate debate calendar Wednesday by approval of the Senate State Affairs Committee despite protests from the chairman, Sen. William T. Moore, Bryan.
"The state will go broke if we build a college everywhere the chamber of commerce wants one," said the senator whose district includes Texas A&M University. "If I had a junior college in my district I'd try to get it raised to a senior college too."
The Senate committee action put on today's lengthy Senate calendar a bill that would let University of Texas regents build a dental school at any location that does not have such a school now. The House passed bill originally called for a location in San Antonio.
The committee put on Friday's calendar bills that would create upper level colleges—junior, senior and graduate divisions—at Texarkana, Corpus Christi and in the Permian Basin area around Odessa and Midland.
In beginning debate on the Texas Tech bill Wednesday, an amendment was added which would let Tech regents make agreements with hospitals and schools in Lubbock, Amarillo, El Paso and the Odessa-Midland area for clinical and post-graduate work for the new medical school.

College Plans Commencement During Morning

Howard County Junior College's 23rd annual commencement will be held as a morning exercise at the college this year.
The event is set for 10 o'clock Thursday, May 29, in the college auditorium with Dr. Robert L. Clinton Jr., assistant commissioner of the coordinating board, Texas College and University System, as the speaker.
For many years, when classes were relatively small, graduates were honored at a banquet, but in recent years traditional evening ceremonies were held.
The professional and recreational music will be played by Mrs. Mary Greiner, organist, and Martin Landers and Leslie Kelley, members of the faculty, will word the prayers. Mrs. Joe Wiser, accompanied by Mrs. Greiner, will sing "Eternal Life."
Academic Dean Ben F. Johnson will present the candidates for degrees, and Dr. W. A. Hunt, college president, will award them.
Students to assist as ushers include Gail Arrington, Celia Carreno, Donna Curry, Ethel Green, Dolores Richardson, Mary Schuelke, Steve Hall and Dewayne Ray.

Opening lead: Six of ♠
Altho North's two diamond response to partner's opening one no trump bid is not forward going and announces less than eight high card points, South was reluctant to give up so he made another try by bidding two spades. Once the major suit fit was uncovered, the partnership reached game in easy stages.
West opened the six of clubs and North's lone king won the trick. A trump was led and when East followed with the deuce, South put up the queen from his hand. The ace of clubs was cashed and a small heart was discarded from dummy.

Declarer ruffed out the jack of clubs and led another spade from the North hand. East played the ace, felling his partner's jack. A somewhat belated shift to hearts was made, however the defense was now limited to only one trick in that suit, and as soon as the ace of diamonds was dislodged, South had more than enough discards available.
If East had put up the ace of spades when that suit was led from dummy and played a heart back immediately, declarer's contract would have been sunk before the latter had an opportunity to launch his attack. This line of defense will net one spade trick and two hearts, with the ace of diamonds still to be scored.
There was an inherent risk in presenting South with an opportunity to enter his hand, for the opening lead had marked him with the ace of clubs and an immediate heart discard was therefore in the offing.
The objection may be raised that if West held the queen of spades, East's play of the ace of trumps might eliminate a guess for the declarer in that suit. This, however, was only a hypothetical possibility, whereas the heart stuff represented a real and present danger.

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Officials at Topeka's Cage Park Zoo are awaiting the possible hatching of an American golden eagle.
Gary K. Clarke, zoo director, said his research has failed to produce any previous report of the breeding of a golden eagle in a zoo.
"This doesn't mean it has never happened, but it certainly would be very rare," Clarke said.
"We aren't sure of course, if the egg is fertile. If it is, there are a number of factors that could affect it. And of those that hatch, not all of the baby eagles—even in the wild—reach maturity," he said.
Clarke said the incubation period ends next Wednesday.

What more can I do to correct my mistake of having a baby out of wedlock? What must I do to gain a place in society? I do not have a bad reputation. Only a baby.

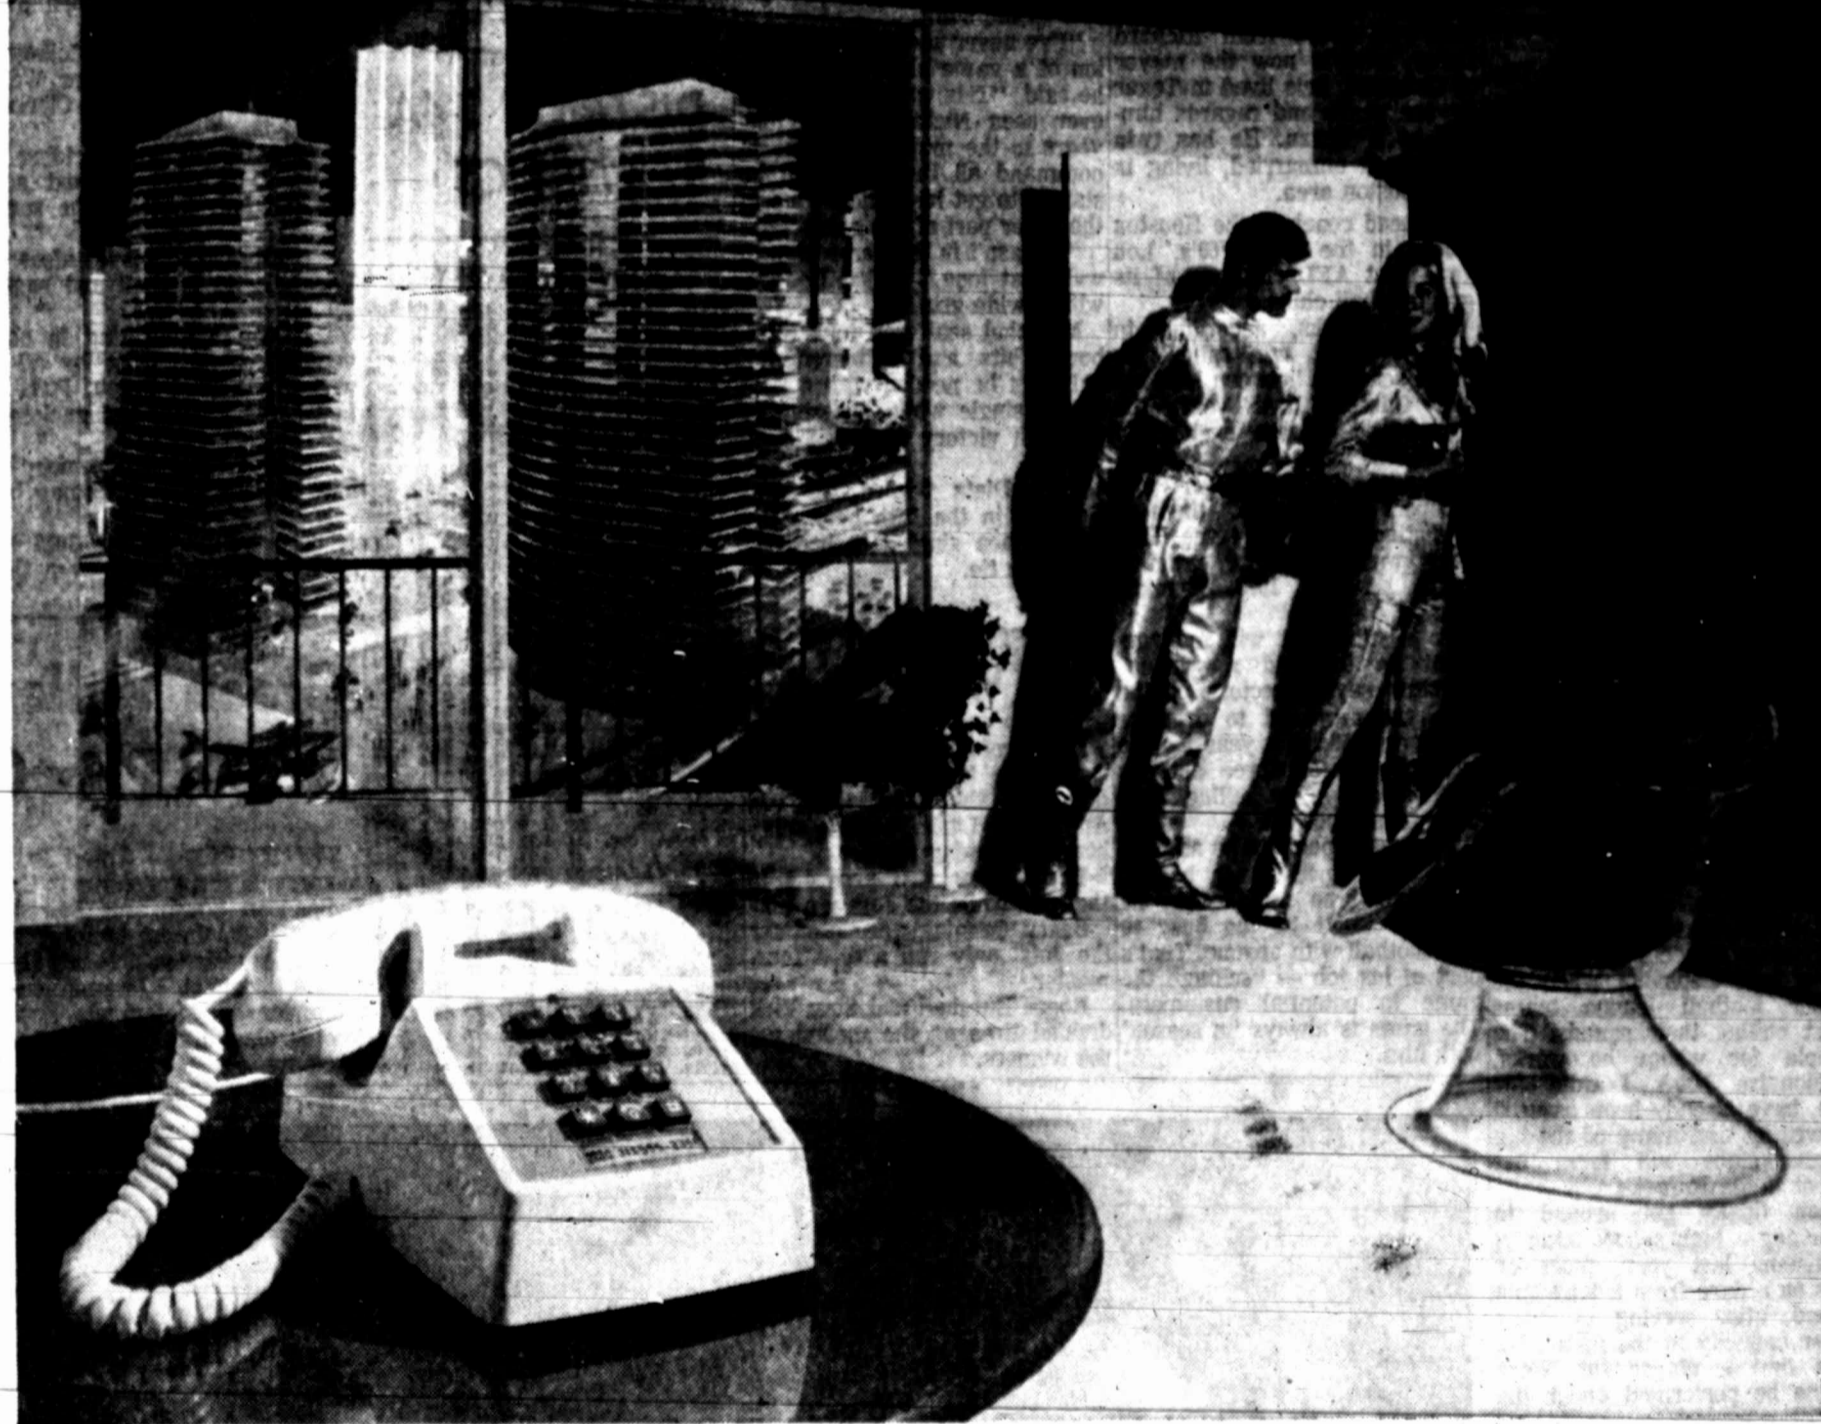

MARION W. LAWTON, OKLA.

DEAR MARION: You may not have won this "contest," but if your impressive list of activities is any index to your determination and ability, you look like a sure winner in the more important contests of life.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who was bitter because her ex-husband was marrying a "Vietnamese prostitute" and bringing her back to the States prompts this letter.
The expression "war is hell" is an understatement at best. I wonder how many American women would choose starvation over prostitution.
In observing many foreign wives who have come home with our GI's, the majority of them have become excellent wives and mothers. Their greatest problem is adjusting to the bigotry so predominant in American society.
It's not important what a person has been. It's what a person IS — and is becoming that's important.
God's forgiveness is just as sure for the prostitute as it is for the man or woman who has indulged in premarital sex. Your compassion for the "Vietnamese prostitute" was noted and appreciated by this—
KOREAN VETERAN

DEAR ABBY: Recently a woman wrote that her ex-husband was marrying and bringing back to the States a "Vietnamese prostitute." Abby, I think she was mistaken.
Before an American serviceman can marry a "native girl" overseas there is a mountain of paper work which must be completed. This includes a thorough investigation of the girl. She must have a health check, police check, and vice check. And unless she passes these 100-per-cent, she'll not be issued a visa.
I doubt whether many American girls would survive such close scrutiny. I have been in the service for 24 years, so sign me "OLD TIMER."

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Potters are expecting a very important phone call.

In the years ahead, you'll be able to preset your telephone to transfer calls to the number where you're visiting.
Electronic switching—using a sophisticated computer system—will make this and many other new services possible. For example, your phone will have a memory. By dialing just two digits of a frequently called number, you'll activate that memory, then the phone will dial the remaining digits automatically. Electronic switching is fact, not fiction.
It's part of our program to plan today for tomorrow's communications needs. We may be the only phone company in town, but we try not to act like it.

VIKINGS' CHARLEY WEST

Full Recovery Due By West

By TOMMY HART

Charley West, who came off the playing fields of Big Spring to become one of the outstanding defensive backs in the National Football League, is recovering from knee surgery performed last week in St. Paul, Minn.

West, an all-district player here under coach Don Robbins and later a regular on the UTEP El Paso football team, had corrective surgery on a torn cartilage in his right knee.

Dr. Donald Lannin, team physician for West's employers, the Minnesota Vikings, said that Charley would be fully recovered by the time the club opens training camp July 21 at Mankato State College in Minnesota.

According to Bill McGrane sports publicist for the Vikings, the operation was not difficult as knee operations go and Dr. Lannin said he expected it to be completely successful.

West is spending the off-season in the Twin Cities with his wife and son. He has done some work in the Minneapolis school system as a substitute teacher. He has also made several appearances with the Viking baseball team and it was apparently in one of those games in which damage to his knee was inflicted. Previously, it was reported he had been hurt in baseball.

McGrane said the Vikings were immensely pleased with West's play in his rookie season in the NFL last fall. He led the team in kickoff returns with 576 yards in 22 returns for a 26-yard average.

He also led in punt returns with 201 yards in 20 tries for a 10-yard average.

Charley's longest punt return was a record-tying 98 yards against the Washington Redskins Nov. 3. The feat tied an NFL mark that has endured for 35 years.

His longest kickoff return was for 82 yards against San Francisco Dec. 8.

Going into the 1969 season, coach Don Grant may play Charley at strong safety or as a flanker. Grant is impressed with West's ability to catch a pass, as well as with his quickness. His strength makes him an excellent strong safety prospect.

Grant and McGrane agreed that the Big Spring native has a very bright future with the Vikings.

One Texan Amid Elite

Wayne Howard, 6-4, 200-pound Houston Memorial Spring Branch player, was one of the top ten Prep All-America Basketball players chosen by Coach and Athlete magazine the past season.

Howard was one of two in a national AAAAA all-star choice in 1968-69 and made six all-tournament teams in two years as his team compiled a 41-1 record. He averaged 23.5 points a game.

Howard is a B student and active in many organizations, including Young Life, Key Club and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Average height of the elite squad is 6-6.

Tommy Jones, Crane all-state performer, and John Wilson, Oessa, were two of three other Texans included on the All-America squad by the magazine.

David Jones, Stanton, was included on the Honorable Mention list.

Others in the Top Ten included:

- Ken Brady, Central High, Flint, Mich.; 6-7; Jim Brewer, Proviso East High, Maywood, Ill.; 6-6; Bruce Clark, Jefferson High, Los Angeles, Calif.; 6-7; Jeff Dawson, North High, Downers Grove, Ill.; 6-1; Donn Johnson, Jameson High, Jamestown, N. Y.; 6-9; Recce Rova, Whiteville, N.C.; 6-9; Brian Taylor, Perth Amboy, N.J.; 6-7; Mark Webster, Jossif High, Sacramento, Calif.; 6-10; and Luke Witte, Marlinton High, Alliance, Ohio; 7-0.

HCJC Signs Dallas Trio

Coach Jerry Dudley of Howard County JC has signed four boys to track letters-of-intent.

In addition to Gary Kelley, Big Spring quarter miler, whose signing was announced previously, Dudley has acquired the signature of three Dallas athletes on HC contracts.

They are Pat Ferrell, Grady Spruce High School sprinter; William Shotwell, also of Grady Spruce, a sprinter-quarter miler; and John Hummel, Dallas Kimball, half-miler.

Ferrell has run the 100 in 10 flat, the 220 in 27 flat and the quarter in 49.2. Dudley reasons he'll improve enough to score some points for HC next fall.

Shotwell has covered the century in 10.1, the furlong in 22.5 and the quarter in 50.5. He'll have to improve, too, to help the Hawks but Dudley says he has high hopes for the 5-9 youth.

Writing to a friend, Dwight D. Eisenhower once mentioned Winston Churchill, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Robert E. Lee as great men, and then went on to establish his own scale for weighing greatness.

"It embraced," as Selman Morin writes in his new biography, EISENHOWER: A GAUGE OF GREATNESS, "the qualities of vision, integrity, courage, understanding, and the ability to communicate."

You will be interested in Morin's judgment on how Eisenhower measured up to the high standards that he himself set. This is just one of the insights that Morin, a two-time Pulitzer prize winner, supplies into unknown and little known aspects of the life of the war time commander and peace time president.

Houston Brew Workers Out

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — About 300 production workers were on strike today at the Anheuser-Busch brewery and a union spokesman said the walkout may extend to the firm's eight other breweries around the country.

The workers, members of the National Conference of Brewery and Soft Drink Workers of the Teamsters, shut down the Houston brewery late Wednesday. They had been working since May 1 without a contract.

A union spokesman said there was a possibility of the strike spreading to Anheuser-Busch's plants in St. Louis, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Columbus, Ohio, Newark, Tampa and Jacksonville, Fla. He said a nation-wide strike would affect 5,000 workers.

A spokesman said the union had asked for a one-year contract with a 35-cent an hour raise and the company had offered 25 cents. He said the wage scale under the old contract was $3.90 an hour.

The Houston brewery serves Texas, Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and New Mexico.

Sabine Basin Plan Shaping

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Simmons of Orange, Tex., told the Rivers and Harbors Committee Wednesday that the Sabine River dramatizes the need for a basin-wide development program.

He urged the private group to endorse a $191 million, 31-year flood control plan for the Sabine basin in Texas and Louisiana.

Simmons, representing the Sabine River Authority of Texas, said he felt the group's approval would make it easier to approach Congress for authorization of the over-all plan.

The multi-stage basin development plan was drawn up and coordinated by representatives of several federal agencies and of Texas and Louisiana Sabine River Authorities.

The Sabine basin plan is the first completed of several begun across the nation using a comprehensive multi-agency and long-range approach.

Texas and Louisiana are asking the federal government to pay $120 million of the $191 million long-range cost.

Simmons said some of the projects planned for 30 or 40 years from now may come sooner.

But the Sabine River Authority is asking now for approval of the over-all basin plan.

Simmons noted that the state of Texas has launched its own water development plan, of which the Sabine River is an integral part, and plans soon to ask voters to approve a $3.5 billion water bond issue to finance it.

Honor System Fails To Work

BALTIMORE (AP) — The cafeteria at the Maryland State Police headquarters has been ordered closed afternoons because an honor system involving 16-cent cups of coffee has broken down.

State Police Capt. J. R. Cole said the cafeteria had remained open afternoons without workers to enforce coffee to come in drink refills and leave their money on the counter.

But the cafeteria which lacks the funds for full-time workers and cashiers is being closed because workers found that the number of cups being left in the honor system didn't match the amount of coffee being dispensed by the state dispensing line said.

'Brown Power' Movement Scheduled To Get Hearing

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., meeting in a general assembly sensitive to social issues, offered its roster today to both Mexican-American "brown power" advocates and black militants who want a share of church wealth.

"Spanish America and the United Presbyterian Church" was the theme of a breakfast program arranged for the 2,000 persons at the annual assembly of the largely Northern Church body.

James Forman, who in the name of the National Black Economic Development Conference has been demanding money from all churches, was invited here from New York to speak in mid-afternoon.

The general assembly's executive council made the offer to land holdings to poor Negroes and its New Mexico holdings to Mexican-Americans.

The task of presiding over Forman's appearance in the big, modern San Antonio convention hall on the HemisFair grounds fell to a St. Louis suburban pastor.

The Rev. Dr. George E. Sweazey, pastor of the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church, was elected Wednesday night as the moderator or titular head of the 3.2 million-member United Presbyterian Church.

The 63-year-old churchman will conduct the afternoon session and respond to Forman's 60 per cent of annual income words in the name of the United Presbyterian Church as one of the first giving the church's Southern acts of his one-year term.

These include an $80 million cash payment to Negroes for past injustices, giving to them 60 per cent of annual income from church investments and Presbyterians as one of the first giving the church's Southern acts of his one-year term.

The newly elected officers of the Big Spring Choir Boosters for the 1969-70 school year were installed by Dan Shockey at the regular meeting Monday.

They include: president, Mrs. Roy Cederberg, first vice president (Projects Chairman) Mrs. Roy Watkins, second vice president (Program Chairman) Mrs. C. O. Trantham, third vice president (to represent the three schools) Mrs. R. L. Andrews and Mrs. Robert Penner (high school), Mrs. Grady Garland and Mrs. Stanley Harris (Glad Junior High), Mrs. Bruce Wright (Ruppels Junior High) secretary, Mrs. Henry Dirks, treasurer, Mrs. R. V. Colclazer.

Following the installation of officers, the group was entertained by the choirs from Glad Junior High School under the direction of Mrs. Susan Dawes.

Extra $1.4 Million Pitch For Screwworm Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to become available July 1, if the House committee has agreed to present rate of attack is continued, the scientist said.

The House Appropriations Committee was expected to approve a supplemental money bill today, including an item for the $1.4 million in extra funds the Department kept up its war against the fly by borrowing money from other agencies.

Those emergency sources are nearly used up.

The southwestern states crisis with the screwworm fly is at its most intense stage this month, a USDA scientist said.

To combat the normal buildup of fly population, the USDA's research center in Mission, Tex., has been sterilizing and releasing a record high number of 150 million screwworm flies a week in May.

The additional funds requested now teaching at Macalester College in St. Paul and the University of Minnesota.

After six days of heavy fighting, the Americans had not been able to drive the North Vietnamese from their bunkers on the 3,000-foot peak. The hill is believed to be either a regimental headquarters or a major supply base.

A series of fights in the border area during the past week has cost the North Vietnamese 123 killed, according to U.S. military spokesmen. They said 37 Americans have been killed and 187 wounded.

The fighting is part of a new allied drive—Operation Apache Snow—to choke off North Vietnamese infiltration corridors from Laos into South Vietnam. A force of nearly 3,000 American paratroopers, U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese infantrymen moved into the area last Saturday. Helicopters landed 2,000 of the Americans and South Vietnamese west of the A Shau Valley, and close to the Laotian border, one of the biggest helicopter assaults of the war.

U.S. officers said by landing west of the valley, the allied force hoped to trap North Vietnamese in the valley and wipe them out.

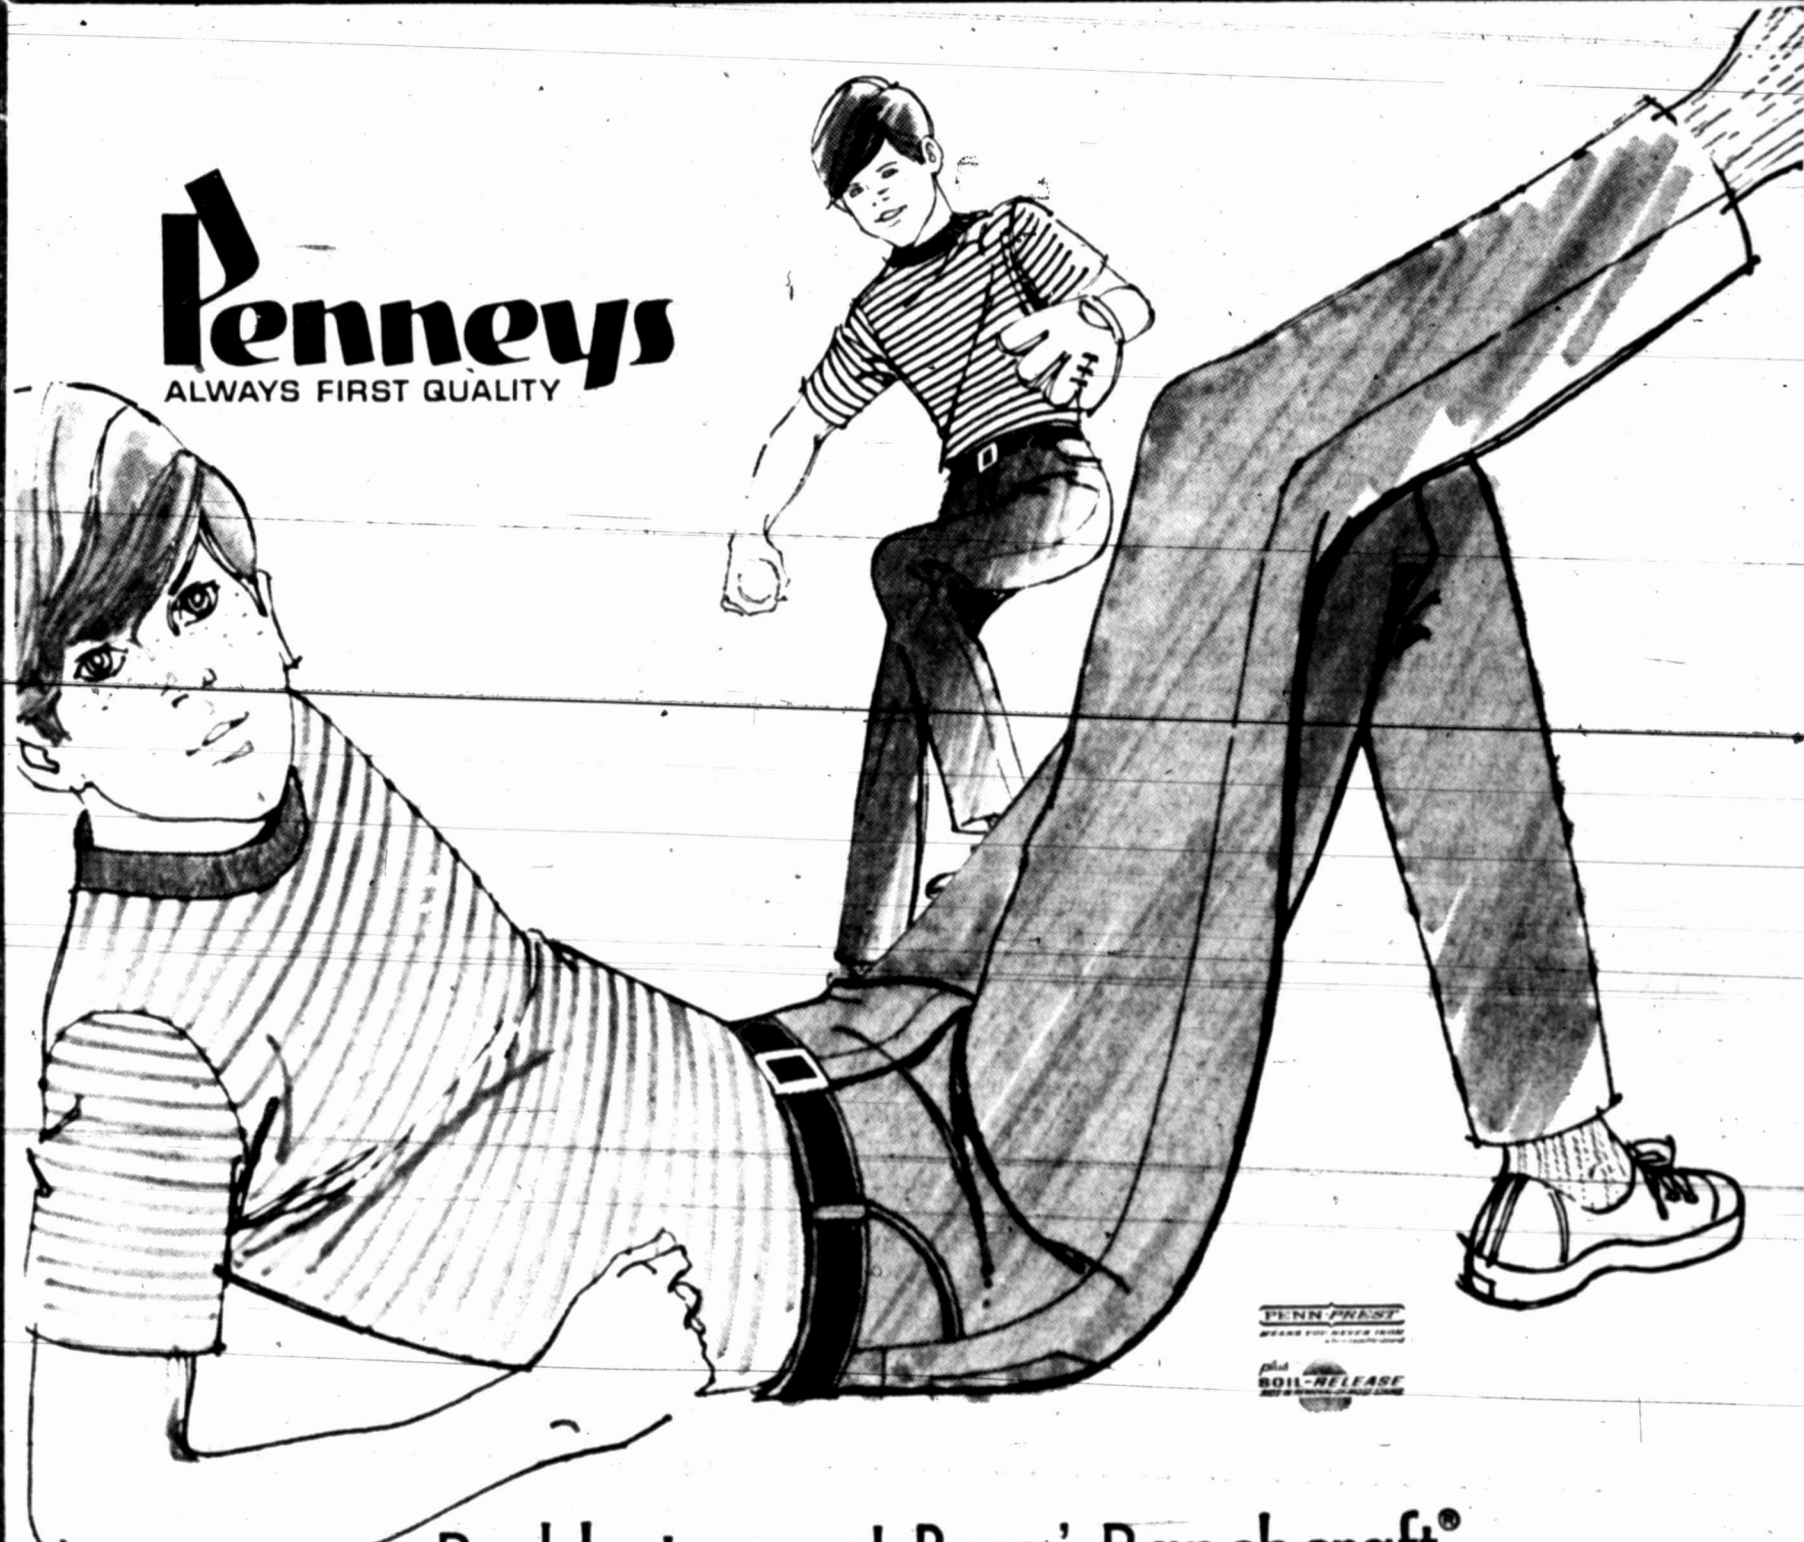

In the sixth assault within a year on the A Shau Valley, the biggest enemy supply base and staging area in South Vietnam. The objective is to prevent a buildup in the valley from which the Communist command could support offensives against Hue, 30 miles to the northeast, or Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, 80 miles to the south.

For in the south, 45 miles northwest of Saigon, U.S. infantrymen of the 25th Division rode armored cars through the jungle trying to root out troops of the North Vietnamese 1st Division entrenched in deep bunkers.

Spokesmen said more than 100 North Vietnamese had been killed in the area during the past three days, while U.S. casualties were four killed and a dozen wounded.

While allied headquarters had no official count, side totals of either allied or enemy casualties since a sharp upsurge in enemy attacks began Sunday, military sources estimated between 2,000 and 2,500 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops have been killed.

The sources estimated between 150 and 200 Americans had been killed this week and six times that number wounded.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

We recently bought a home and here's my problem . . . Our garage floor is concrete. Previous owners had left an old car on blocks in the garage for many months and the battery corroded, leaving a huge rust stain on the floor.

I've tried just about everything to remove this stain with absolutely no luck. Any ideas? . . . Hal

Dear Hal:

If a rusty car radiator will cause leaks, it will frequently cause this same stain.

Get some LIQUID rust remover from your grocery store (or drug store) and pour a little of it, full strength, onto the spot. Then, just as soon as the rust begins to dissolve, flush the stain first with water, and then with some vinegar water — (half water and half vinegar). This will counteract the working of the acid.

It may require more than one application, but you'll soon find your stain gone . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For those of you who must go to the laundromat, the handiest way to take detergent is in a one-pound coffee can marked with ridges on the can. (Look at your can and measure the ridges with water first. You'll see.)

From ridge to ridge it's exactly one cup, and it's a great deal easier than carrying a load of wash and a five-pound box . . . Mrs. H. B. Shw

Dear Heloise:

When you are out with a partially blind person, it is helpful if you wear bright-colored clothing — white hat or white coat. And you should walk in front of them when in shopping areas or even taking a walk.

The light clothing gives the person who can't see well something to follow and go by . . . Winifred Hall

Dear Heloise:

A dog in our neighborhood has been knocking down our garbage can for the past few nights.

I got tired of picking up garbage, so I took one of my Mom's old broom handles and drove it into the ground about a foot. Then I set the garbage can down over it allowing the broom handle to go thru the handle of the can itself. I haven't had to pick up garbage since . . . Donald Peas

Age 12

Donald, you are a precious son. Bet your mom and pop are mighty proud of you. I sure am . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Don't throw away those paper tablecloths you buy for children's birthdays before you take a good look at them.

Most of the time the unused parts or borders that hang below the table top, are free of stains and have all the pretty designs on them.

These make lovely, strong paper napkins (Even cute placemats).

Just mark off the size you want and cut with your pinking shears. You'll have a dozen or more pretty napkins for family use.

Sure makes you feel like you've gotten your money's worth . . . Mrs. R. D. Magill

A LOVELIER YOU

Hints On Writing Thank You Letters

By MARY SUE MILLER

A lovely Bride-to-be asks: I need some tips about trousseau letter paper. What sizes and colors are appropriate? What marking is suitable?

The Answer: First off, to write thank-yous for wedding presents, you will need note paper. Folded notes are now customary with the fold at the top or side. The outside leaf may be marked, but not of necessity, with your initials or a monogram. The last initial should be that of your maiden name for courtesy requires the acknowledgment of a gift when it arrives and the majority will be sent long before your marriage.

For use after your wedding, you will want unmarked note paper or notes marked with your new last initial. Letter paper for social communications is another essential. The standard size is 5 1/2 by 7 1/2 inches, double sheet. The practical way to mark this kind of paper is with your house address. Then it will not be limited as to users.

Calling cards are in order, bearing your name or both of your names (Mrs. John Jones or Mr. and Mrs. John Jones). The form here is strict; colors are white or cream and names are always engraved. Other papers may be of classical or contemporary colors and styles. Engraving is handsome, but embossed work is acceptable.

For informal and business correspondence, single sheets printed with your name and address are indispensable. Remember only that your letters are your stand-in, and you will never go far wrong.

MRS. LUCY PETTY

Mother Makes Home With Dan Conleys

By RHODA LEMONS

Mrs. Lucy Petty observed her 81st birthday May 4 with a small dinner party and many good wishes from friends. Mrs. Petty makes her home with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Conley, 308 W. 15th.

During the same week, the members of her Sunday school class, The Gleaners, of Baptist Temple Church, surprised her with a party and gifts. This delighted the charming Mrs. Petty, who has remained active and young-looking through the years.

Mrs. Petty was widowed in 1955 while living in Fort Stockton. Shortly thereafter, she came to Big Spring to set up housekeeping with a bachelor brother. They remained at the home for about three years, and then nine years ago, Mrs. Petty became unable to do the heavy work of keeping a home. Since then, she has made her home with the Conleys.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Conley consider it a pleasure to have her with them, and she assists her daughter in many ways. Mr. and Mrs. Conley arise early and breakfast together. Because Mrs. Petty is on a strict diet, she gets up later and prepares her own breakfast.

Their main meal is at lunch.

and Mrs. Conley cooks everything without seasonings and adds it later to her and her husband's food, or she prepares a separate dish for her mother without seasonings.

For the evening meal, Mr. and Mrs. Conley eat lightly, and Mrs. Petty prepares a small supper for herself.

The Conleys have two children, Mrs. Tommy Hubbard 610 Holbert, and Jimmy Conley of San Francisco, Calif. They have four grandchildren, who are Mrs. Petty's great-grandchildren. They are Mike, 17, a senior at Big Spring Senior High School, and Dick, 14, a freshman at BSHS. The other great-grandchildren are John, 7, and Ann, 4, both of whom live with their parents in California.

Conley was the first band director at Big Spring Senior High School, where he remained for 12 years. Then he and his wife owned and operated a florist business for a number of years. Since that time, Mrs. Conley has not worked outside the home, and Conley has returned to his first love — the schools. He is in special services in charge of text books.

Mrs. Conley does the heavy housework. Mrs. Petty has a heart condition and can do light chores and is of great assistance in keeping things straight. One of her hobbies is making beautiful lap robes which she quilts by hand and gives to people in rest homes. She has completed about five and will start others soon.

Mrs. Conley is involved in volunteer work at Big Spring State Hospital and is supervisor of the junior department at 14th and Main Church of Christ. She is an active member of the Downtown Lions Auxiliary. Her husband is an elder in the church and song leader. He is a member of the Downtown Lions Club.

"I just moved in with them when I needed them," laughed Mrs. Petty. "and they have been just wonderful to me. I have had a very happy life for a long time."

Budget Meals With Meat Tower

Serve a glazed meat tower to save on your budget.

MEAT CASSEROLE
One-third cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 tbsps. prepared mustard
2 cans (12 ozs. each) luncheon meat

Blend together brown sugar and mustard until smooth. Cut each can luncheon meat into six even slices; stud edges with cloves. Arrange slices of meat on edge in a criss-cross fashion, alternating direction of slices. Put a 7- to 8-inch skewer through center to hold slices in place. Transfer to pan and brush meat with brown sugar mixture. Bake about 25 minutes in shallow baking pan in preheated oven at 375 degrees. Serves six.

Bake in moderate oven until apples are done. Serves six generously.

CREAMED SCALLOPS Served with mushroom sauce

Succulent Scallops Make Delicious Treat

Getting variety into Lenten meals isn't much of a trick if your family likes scallops. This versatile little mollusk can play the feature role in a wide variety of tempting dishes and rate you round after round of applause.

The scallop's plump, succulent shell muscle is the part Americans eat although Europeans place a high value on the roe, too. The demand for scallop roes in this country has never been great. Fishermen discard them at sea in favor of filling their holds with popular muscle meats.

These tender nuggets lend themselves happily to salads, chowders, casseroles and pies. Or they can be broiled, baked or fried. But whatever you do, don't overcook them or they will toughen and lose their flavor.

CREAMED SCALLOPS 'N MUSHROOMS

1 lb. sea scallops
1 cup fresh sliced mushrooms, or 1 6-oz. can sliced

mushrooms
4 tbsps. butter or margarine
4 tbsps. flour
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 1/2 cups light cream
2 tbsps. minced parsley
1/2 cup grated cheese
Paprika

If fresh mushrooms are used, simmer for five minutes in 1/2 cup water. Grease a shallow casserole with shortening. If scallops are frozen, thaw, rinse and wipe dry. Arrange in bottom of casserole. Make a cream sauce by melting butter, adding flour and stirring constantly. Gradually add cream, stirring until all lumps are removed. Add cooked mushrooms with their liquid, or canned mushrooms and liquid. Mix well. Add parsley, adjust seasoning, pour and gently mix over scallops. Sprinkle with grated cheese and paprika. Bake in 350 degree oven for 25-30 minutes, until cheese is melted, and sauce bubbly. Serves four.

Tuna Perks Casserole At Meals

You've never thought of serving tuna before noon? Try a delicious Tuna Quiche for special family breakfasts or weekend brunches. It's a simple American version of a favorite French classic. A great way to combine eggs, cheese, and other food essentials in an elegant pie-dish that's a pleasure to serve. And it's all the more delicious for the delicate taste of tuna!

A Tuna Quiche is easy as pie to prepare. The cheese can be bought already shredded, and the rest of the ingredients are simply blended and poured into the pie shell. You don't even need beginner's luck for this one!

Tuna's good so many ways! And because it's high in protein, and such a wonderful food buy, you'll want to serve it often. With tuna's great versatility, you can easily serve it twice a week, without wearing out its welcome.

For dinner, here's a main-dish with a new twist! A tuna and vegetable casserole with canned French fried onion rings on top, crisp and crunchy! This casserole can either be made ahead, or prepared on the spot. If prepared just before serving, it takes only 25 minutes in the oven. It's perfect for shopping nights, bowling nights — whenever you're on the go.

Morning and night, with tuna in the plans, your family can eat well and economically, too.

Pour over mixture in pastry shell. Bake in 375 degree oven, 50 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Yield: six servings.

MAKE-AHEAD CASSEROLE

1/2 cup thin strips baked ham
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1/4 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. white pepper
In a 10-inch skillet in 1/2 cup of the butter, cook the onion, green pepper and ham until vegetables are limp. Turn out and keep warm in a clean skillet; melt the remaining butter; mix eggs, salt and pepper and turn into hot butter. Cook gently, drawing edges away from side of pan and tipping pan so uncooked egg reaches edges. (Cover, if necessary, to set top.) Turn vegetable mixture over one side of omelet; fold over other side. Serve with chili sauce. Make three servings.

Nixon's Income Surtax Apparently In Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proposed last month that the income surtax, a key part of the administration's fiscal plans, is facing problems both in and out of Congress.

"It is in serious trouble," declared Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, a member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee. He said Nixon's urban policy had alienated some congressmen who might have supported the surtax extension past the June 30 expiration date.

"We've got some work to do," conceded Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, the ranking Republican on the committee.

NEW THREATS

New threats to the surtax extension came Wednesday when two powerful groups declared any such bill must be coupled with sweeping reforms of the entire federal tax structure.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council said it will not support the extension unless it is combined with "immediate, substantial and equitable reform." The suggested reforms go beyond what Nixon proposed last month. Fifty-four House members of the liberal Democratic Study Group signed a letter calling on the committee to act on tax reforms first, even if it delays the surtax extension past the June 30 deadline.

Administration officials have a chance next week to try to stir support for the Nixon program. They will appear before the committee to urge a surtax extension designed to produce about $19 billion to help balance the budget.

"At this point I find practically no one who is willing to support the surtax," reports Vanik, who says he conducted a survey of about 30 House members.

Byrnes wouldn't go that far, but he indicated that as the Republican's principal spokesman on tax matters in the House he will have some selling to do on the surtax issue.

BETTER CHANCE

"Of course it is quite essential to have that $10 billion revenue and the assumption has been that almost everybody would go along when the time came," Byrnes said in an interview.

"But we can't necessarily make that assumption," Chairman William D. Mills, D-Ark., again declined to commit himself in advance on the surtax. He said much will depend on the administration's presentation beginning Tuesday.

The closest Mills has come to supporting the extension was to say that a proposed new flexible ceiling on government spending removes one obstacle and enhances the surtaxes chances.

Nixon wants legislation extending the surcharge at the present 10 per cent rate until Jan. 1 and then at 5 per cent for six more months.

Vanik said a short extension — perhaps until Sept. 30 — probably would have a better chance.

Four Jailed In Kidnaping

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — In a swift roundup that spread from Long Island to New Jersey, county and federal officers today had arrested four men in the $130,000 kidnaping of a bank manager's family and got back most of the money.

The bank official's pregnant wife and three children were abducted at gunpoint by two men Wednesday morning and taken for a ride when he went to his bank, drew out the ransom money from a vault, and deposited it in a vacant lot.

Three brothers were arrested within hours of the incident, and the fourth suspect, Robert Simon, 31, at his home in Rego Park, Queens.

Police said Simon's one-quarter share of the money was found in a suitcase at the home of a relative in Pompton Lakes, N.J. Most of the remainder was recovered from the three men arrested earlier.

The kidnap victims were Mrs. Roy W. Fuchs, her 5-year-old daughter and twin 3-year-old sons. All were released unharmed.

Thin Majority Still Looks For Battlefield Decision?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some top U.S. officials believe a thin majority of the North Vietnamese leadership favors a battlefield decision rather than a negotiated settlement of the Vietnam war.

The President did not elaborate, together with North Vietnamese seeming stubbornness in making remote two of the conditions the Nixon Administration has laid down as prerequisites—either singly or together—for any U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam.

These two conditions, as stated recently by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, involve a substantial reduction in enemy activity in South Vietnam and a unilateral U.S. withdrawal on an unprovoked basis.

This leaves the third condition—and here U.S. authorities see progress—speeding for enemy de-escalation.

But Pentagon officials are not sure that a significant reduction in such U.S. operations would turn the advantage to the enemy to reduce the United States to a form of enclave South Vietnam but is counting on a collapse of American will before U.S. troops can start to leave.

Classmates Pay Their Respects

THOREAU, N.M. (AP) — Gary English was killed by lightning last weekend, and his classmates at Thoreau High School sought some way to pay their respects.

The juniors abandoned plans for their prom this weekend, donated the decoration fund and canceled the annual dance.

The Gary English Memorial Fund now stands at $500. It will be given to the family for use as they see fit.

A memorial service is planned today in the school gymnasium.

Wants To Box In Miniskirts

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Judge Joe D. Duncan suggested to the Knox County Commission and the County Court Finance Committee Wednesday that a box be built around the witness chair in his Knox County Criminal Court.

Duncan said it would help witnesses feel more relaxed.

Also, he said, some jurors are embarrassed by the appearance of some witnesses in miniskirts.

Oil Reserves Danger Noted

CHICAGO (AP) — An economist warned Wednesday that unless there is a change in federal fiscal policies the nation's reserves of oil and natural gas could decline to the danger point.

John D. Emerson, of the Chase Manhattan Bank in New York, addressed the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute Division of Refining.

He attributed the sharp decline in recent petroleum explorations to federal price controls on interstate gas shipments and other government actions that "have interfered with the normal price movements of refined petroleum products."

Emerson asserted that to maintain current ratios of reserves to production and to supply the nation's needs from domestic sources the petroleum industry must find 115 billion barrels of oil and 410 trillion cubic feet of natural gas by 1980.

"That would be over twice as much oil and 50 per cent more gas than the industry actually found" between 1950 and 1965, he said.

Emerson suggested that the industry increase its exploration expenditures by nearly $3 billion a year to provide for needed reserves.

The alternatives, he said, would be to increase oil and gas imports or risk much lower reserve levels.

"Under the circumstances," he said, "price restraints imposed by government, either directly or indirectly, are not economically sound... and have not been in the best interests of the nation."

Another speaker told the meeting that synthetic fuels—oil derived from coal, shale and tar sands—are expected to play an increasing role in meeting the nation's future demands for energy.

Neal P. Cochran of the U.S. Department of the Interior's office of coal research, said three methods of converting coal to petroleum are being studied to determine if they are commercially practical.

Having Trouble Getting To Sleep

SNEEM, Ireland (AP) — The Heron Cove Hotel, proud host to a famous tourist since Saturday, will have to await developments before boasting that "Charles de Gaulle slept here."

The former French president has been having trouble getting to sleep in the specially built bed 8 feet long and 7 feet 3 inches wide provided for him and Mrs. De Gaulle by the Irish government.

He complained about it Wednesday and the double bed was replaced by smaller but softer twin beds.

Baccalaureate Service Slated

STANTON (SC) — The baccalaureate service for graduating seniors of Stanton High School will be held May 18 at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. The Rev. W. H. Uhlman of the First Baptist Church will give the address. The processional and recessional will be played by Lynn Herzog. The invocation will be given by Cindy Davis, and Carl Dean senior class president, will introduce the speaker. The benediction will be given by David Adkins, president of the student council. Ushers for the service will be junior students Scotty Fisher, Steve Stallings, Linda Pate and LaWanda Glaspie.

Execute 10 Arabs Today

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Iraqi government executed 10 Arabs before daybreak today for spying for Israel, the United States and Iran, the official Iraqi news agency reported.

The 10 included nine Iraqis and one Saudi Arabian. Their names indicated they were all Moslems.

There was no immediate word on how the executions were carried out or whether the bodies were exhibited in Baghdad's main square as they have been of previous occasions. A total of 38 persons have been put to death in Iraq since the beginning of the year on spying charges.

Nine of the first group were Jewish. A howl of protest went up abroad, and no Jews have been reported executed since. There has been little commensurate payments over the past two years. In a court suit, the city has accused him of false billings and fraud.

DYING PATIENTS — In Baltimore, nine doctors, a dentist, two pharmacists and an accountant have been indicted on charges of conspiring to defraud Maryland's Medicaid program. The probe was centered on a small, cramped drug store that was the highest paid when its staff finishes the probe $250,000. Above its door is a sign: "Health Is Our Only Business."

In Southern California, investigators tell of dentures ordered in nursing homes for dying cancer patients, special shoes for bedridden invalids, and expensive prescription sunglasses for a blind man.

A nursing home near Sacramento, Calif., has been accused in suspension proceedings of billing for patients after they died. In one case, records indicate the daily charge was doubled shortly after death.

In New York City, health officials found one foot specialist touring nursing homes and collecting $2,000 a month from Medicaid for his services — clipping toenails.

SOARING COSTS — The soaring price of both Medicaid and Medicare prompted plans for the Senate Finance Committee to put both programs under the microscope at special hearings this summer when its staff finishes the probe under way.

The federal-state Medicaid program paying for private medical care for welfare recipients and other poor patients, was passed almost unnoticed in 1965 as part of the law creating Medicaid for the elderly. Its estimates for Medicaid three years ago, New Mexico became the first casualty of the program this month, pulling out when it ran out of money to meet its share of the medical bills.

Officials agree the costs of Medicaid have skyrocketed since passage because patients could go to the doctor anytime they wanted without worrying where the money was coming from. And the doctors found themselves suddenly getting paid for cases that had been charity in the past.

"The heavens burst open," said a mountain doctor who is now one of the highest paid in Kentucky.

The lack of restraint on how often patients go to the doctor — and the fact the doctor gets paid every time he sees them — has given birth to a new government catchword: overutilization.

It means too frequent medical care that isn't necessary.

Dr. Lowell E. Bellin, executive director of New York City's Medicaid program, says, "Anybody who commits fraud has to be pretty stupid. The sophisticated person who wants to take advantage of this program milks it through overutilization, not fraud."

CITES CLIPPING — Bellin added prosecutors have no interest in cases like the toe nail clipper on the nursing home circuit because he wasn't charging for services he failed to perform.

"He really clipped those nails," Bellin said. "But he was clipping the city simultaneously."

Prosecutors have been reluctant to bring cases where they would have to prove a doctor's judgment on heavy medical care was wrong. Instead, the fraud prosecutions have been limited almost entirely to pharmacy cases in Maryland, New York and California where prescriptions records are available as evidence.

The federal government let each state set up its own Medicaid program while paying for 50 to 83 per cent of the cost. The states decided what care to offer at the start, how to make payments and how to guard against abuses.

In most cases, the states have given only lip service to watchdog duties. Top federal officials concede that their policing of the hodge-podge of programs has been flimsy — and only now are they asking states to send in full reports on their surveillance methods.

NO CHECKS — Since many states have no real checks on their Medicaid payments, the states where scandals have emerged may not be the worst.

Instead, they are simply the states that have found them first.

Maryland—Thirteen indictments have grown out of a single citizen's complaint a year ago to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, then the Maryland governor.

The state attorney general's investigation ordered by Agnew needed six months to sift nearly half a million prescription records of just one pharmacy firm in gathering the evidence to take before a grand jury.

Among the nine doctors indicted for conspiracy last month was Dr. Hollis Samarin of Baltimore, top-paid Medicaid physician in the state for the last fiscal year at just under $50,000.

The two pharmacists and accountant also were charged with forging prescriptions and obtaining $68,000 by false pretenses.

Both pharmacists worked at Sav-On No. 1 Pharmacy, a small, narrow drugstore in a middle-class neighborhood. The store handled almost 70,000 prescriptions last year under Medicaid and received $245,497. It has been suspended from the program.

New York—Dr. Fred Fisher runs a 12-man dental clinic on the second-floor of a drab building in Manhattan's East Harlem. Most of the patients are welfare recipients.

LOT OF MONEY — It is a neighborhood of Puerto Rican immigrants, of iron grills guarding store windows at night, of Spanish-language signs on the precinct police station.

Since joining the program a little more than two years ago, records show, Fisher has received $402,975 in Medicaid payments.

In its answer to a suit brought by the dentist to try to halt his suspension from the program, the city asserted it has "clear and convincing evidence" that Fisher submitted "fraudulent and untrue invoices" for Medicaid payments.

Fisher declined comment to a newsman.

New York studies have found a rush of dentists to the ghettos since the Medicaid program began. Last year the city started requiring prior approval for dental treatment plans and claimed savings of $26 million. Still, the city's Medicaid payments to dentists totaled $82 million, compared to $38 million for doctors.

California—An exhaustive investigation by the state attorney general's office found millions of dollars were being drained out of California's Medicaid program, known as medical, through "false claims, kickbacks and overservicing."

The report pinpointed kickbacks by pharmacists and X-ray technicians to nursing homes. It described inflated charges by druggists on prescriptions. And it said one physician-owned hospital gave a patient 160 blood tests in 16 days — all of them without any abnormal finding.

Criminal cases have been filed involving two pharmacies in Los Angeles suburbs and a firm in Santa Cruz.

A nursing home near Sacramento, the Rancho Cordova Convalescent Hospital, faces suspension from medical on charges that it continued to submit billings for at least eight patients after they died.

So far California has suspended 26 doctors, dentists, druggists, optometrists, hearing aid dealers, and others.

Chief Deputy Atty. Gen. Charles A. O'Brien said, "The program is in bloody bad shape all over the country, and no one wants to admit it."

O'Brien said if doctors' groups and government agencies don't start pushing to "straighten out this mess, the public outcry is going to be so large that the good is going to go out with the bad."

ABUSES BY DOCTORS, DENTISTS, DRUGGISTS, NURSING HOMES $40 Million A Year Being Milked From Medicaid?

By JAMES R. POLK Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is probing whether as much as $40 million a year is being milked from the Medicaid program through abuses by doctors, dentists, druggists and nursing homes.

Senate hearings are planned shortly as a climax to a staff investigation of soaring costs, rich fees and possible fraud in the $5 billion, 38-state program of free health care for the poor.

An Associated Press examination of Medicaid operations in a half dozen states found:

—In New York, a dentist running a second-floor walk-up clinic in an East Harlem slum got more than $400,000 in Medicaid payments over the past two years. In a court suit, the city has accused him of false billings and fraud.

—In Baltimore, nine doctors, a dentist, two pharmacists and an accountant have been indicted on charges of conspiring to defraud Maryland's Medicaid program. The probe was centered on a small, cramped drug store that was the highest paid when its staff finishes the probe $250,000. Above its door is a sign: "Health Is Our Only Business."

Farm House Fire Takes Three Tots

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—Fire broke out while Mrs. Robert Girado was taking water to her husband in a field close by, and their three small children died in a farm house fire Wednesday.

The tots were Moses Girado, 4; his sister Eva, 1, and brother Andy, three months.

Flames swept through the house on the O. C. Collins farm, where Girado works. Authorities said they had not determined how the fire started.

Teacher Bares Bear Excuse

FARMINGTON, N.M. (AP)—Mrs. Jerry Wells, an Aztec schoolteacher, called the principal at her school Wednesday morning to tell him she would be late because of the bear in her garage.

Police captured the 2-year-old black bear about noon after it was shot with a nicotine tranquilizer.

The bear was loaded onto a trailer and taken to Zuni Mountain south of Gallup where it was released.

Students In Ohio Entering Sixth Day Of Hunger Strike

By The Associated Press
About 100 students at Marietta College in Ohio entered the sixth day of a limited hunger strike to protest the expulsion of the student body president. At City College of New York, about 400 students disrupted some classes, broke windows and pulled fire alarms to protest police on campus and demand closing of the school.

PICKETING
Around the clock picketing continued at Marietta, where students held a $1-a-plate dinner of saltine crackers and ice cubes to raise legal funds for Earl Maiman, suspended after his election for using "inflammatory language." A court hearing has been set for next week on his bid for reinstatement to the 2,000-student school.

The disorders at City College, which has 20,000 students, began when acting President Joseph J. Copeland said he intended to keep police on campus and keep the school open.

Meanwhile, the Faculty Senate recommended that a separate program of black and Puerto Rican studies be set up and that new criteria be developed for admitting students from slum area high schools.

Negro and Puerto Rican students, who have pressed for a separate school of black and Hispanic studies and admission of more minority students, had no comment on the faculty vote, which must be approved by the Board of Higher Education. They have refused to negotiate until police are removed from campus.

At Brooklyn College, which has 29,000 students, about 50 instructors and several hundred students began a strike to protest police on campus and the indictment Tuesday of 17 Negroes and Puerto Ricans on arson and riot charges stemming from the disorders.

Newsman Dies

BERRYVILLE, Va. (AP)—Joseph F. Hearst, 67, a member of the Washington staff of the Chicago Tribune for more than 20 years, died Tuesday night.

Better Birth Control Pill?

BOSTON (AP)—A new birth control pill has been found effective and possibly safer than others, physicians at an international symposium at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital have been told.

Dr. Somers H. Sturgis of the hospital and Harvard Medical School said Tuesday the new pill may become the future oral contraceptive. He said it appears to be more effective than an intrauterine device and does not have some of the side effects associated with present pills.

WHACK AID
Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said proposals to cut off federal aid to students and schools involved in protests "will help no one but the trouble-makers." Muskie told a New York audience such reprisals would "build sympathy for ringleaders who deserve expulsion and punishment."

In Washington, the House Internal Security Committee announced it would hold hearings into "the revolutionary nature of Students for a Democratic Society," which has been active in many campus protests.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., the committee chairman, said hearings would begin soon, based on an inquiry started in March.

GERMAN MEASLES Millions Of Children Are To Be Immunized

ATLANTA (AP)—Millions of American youngsters will be immunized in a program designed to free the nation of German measles—a disease that causes birth defects.

The program will be started this summer, officials of the National Communicable Disease Center (NCDC) said Wednesday.

They said eight million to 10 million children would be vaccinated in the first phase of the program and that eventually 40 million to 50 million children would be immunized.

RESISTANCE
The program is a massive effort to build resistance to the virus in children because they are its usual carriers, NCDC officials said.

Children—most likely to be in contact with the virus—pass it along to pregnant mothers. The disease, normally mild, is dangerous to pregnant women because it can cause malformation or death of the fetus.

The NCDC says outbreaks of German measles, occur every six to nine years. An estimated 20 million persons were stricken during the last outbreak in 1964.

That outbreak the NCDC said resulted in 50,000 abnormal pregnancies, 20,000 still births, and 30,000 children born with defects.

NEW OUTBREAK
A new outbreak is expected by the NCDC this winter.

Dr. David J. Sencer, the NCDC director, said the new vaccine, developed about five years ago at the National Institute of Health division of biological standards, is expected to receive governmental approval within a month and be placed into general production. It has been under test for 3½ years.

Sencer said distribution arrangements are being made with 63 health departments around the country and that he has asked Congress for $9.6 million to finance the program.

If funds become available, Sencer said, the vaccine will be distributed free by local health departments at schools and clinics throughout the nation.

HCJC To Be Test Center

Howard County Junior College has been designated as a test center for the American College Test on Saturday morning, July 19.

High school students who want to take the test on July 19 must acquire a test registration form and mail it, along with their $6 fee by Monday, June 16," said R. Wayne Bonner, test supervisor. The form may be acquired from Bonner at HCJC or by writing to Dr. Vernon L. Odum at 1626 50th Street, Lubbock, Tex. 79412.

Nearly one million students will write the ACT test at 2,100 test centers around the world this year. Ninety-nine of the colleges and universities in Texas participate in the ACT program. Some colleges use the test results as admissions instruments; others use them primarily as counseling tools.

The test battery consists of sub-tests in English usage, math usage, social science reading and natural science reading. A unique feature of the ACT assessment is the student profile section by which students describe some of their non-academic potentials and other personal data for the use of college admissions officers and high school counselors.

Each student's assessment is sent to the three colleges of his choice. Currently over 1,500 American colleges utilize the data provided by the ACT Program.

Rosie And Crip Whooping Again

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—As if determined to become the mother of the world's 51st whooping crane, Rosie is sitting on her fourth egg laid in less than three weeks.

The still-legged crane laid the egg Monday night and Zoo Director Louis DiSabato says he plans to wait for her to lay a fifth one before placing her latest contribution in the bird house incubator.

Rosie and her mate Crip are two of about 12 captive whooping cranes in various zoos, DiSabato said, adding that the birds number only 50 in the world.

Rosie laid her first egg April 25 but it somehow got broken. Her second and third are in incubators, with the first expected to hatch in about 18 days and the second in about 25.

Father Protests Army Physicals

James R. Dennis of Salisbury, Md., the father of two sets of twins, claims that the U.S. Army is trying to wipe out his family. The Army has notified three of his sons, from left: Kenny, 19; Barry, 20; and Denny, 18, to report for induction physicals next week. The fourth son is in the Air Force stationed in Puerto Rico. The local draft board says that the father can ask for deferment for only one of his sons.
