PANEL WANTS $650 Million To Nip Hunger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today recommended $650 million to combat hunger and malnutrition among the poor.

That amount was provided in a $6.8 billion measure to finance the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The committee said the department should "locate hungry people anywhere in the U.S." and provide them with free food when necessary, based on such factors as age, income and employability.

Financing in the bill to deal with hunger and malnutrition includes $311 million for children's programs and $340 million for food stamps to help feed low-income families. These programs provide low-cost lunches and milk for school children and reduced food prices for families.

Total new funds in the bill, which the House will consider next week, were $160.9 million less than President Nixon requested and $1.3 billion less than were appropriated last year.

Most of the funds in the bill, $496 billion, are for Commodity Credit Corporation price supports and other programs.

Poison Gas Fuss Flares

DENVER (AP) — Some 27,000 tons of poison gas was much moved but not removed today from where it started—under the takeoff flight pattern of one of the nation's dozen busiest airports.

The obsolete nerve, mustard and tear gas may stay put for quite a while now, in hundreds of canisters on the Colorado prairie, as a panel of scientists tries to decide how best to get rid of it.

Rep. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., said in Washington Thursday that as for the Army's plan to dump the gas in the Atlantic Ocean, "for all intents and purposes, I view it as abandoned for this year."

The gas had been loaded in 170 open railroad gondolas for the train trip to the East Coast, when congressional criticism led to a delay in its shipment.

Thursday, the Army began removing the cylinders from the rail cars. It said the decision was made because rail siding fees of $8,500 a day had run up a $200,000 bill.

Two cranes are being used to lift the cylinders from the rail cars, then move them to stacked rows in a compound alongside at the Rocky Mountain Arsenal. This will take about two weeks, an Army spokesman said.

Nude In Yearbook

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 1969 yearbook of Jefferson Medical School is apt to become a collector's item — there's a centerfold color picture of a nude girl in it.

The auburn-haired girl is wearing a white nurse's cap and a small pearl pendant, but nothing else. She's lying on a blue rug, reading a medical text.

Jan T. Raynak of Greensburg, Pa., the yearbook manager, said the picture was included in only about 300 of the yearbook's 1,200 copies, but it is available for insertion in all of them.

He declined to identify the young woman, in her 20s. He said she is not a nurse and has no connection with Jefferson.

"The reason we decided to put the nude in the yearbook," said Raynak, "was to get it more widely distributed." He added, "We've already sold twice as many yearbooks to students."

Dr. William F. Kellow, dean and college vice president, said the centerfold nude was "only a joke," adding, "I think it's a good yearbook."

Astronauts Sail Around The Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Their most dangerous moments behind them, the Apollo 10 astronauts sailed around the moon today, charting the surface for future missions and preparing to start the long journey home Saturday.

After a hectic day in which they put Americans on the threshold of a lunar landing, Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Cmdr. John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan took it relatively easy today.

They photographed potential landing sites, studied lunar landmarks and perfected techniques for navigating in the moon's environment.

Mission Control, noting their busy day Thursday, told the astronauts they could sleep until noon if they desired. But they were up at 9:25 a.m. EDT. "We all had about five to six hours pretty fair sleep," Cernan reported.

The only problem was a camera that had jammed Thursday. Cernan said the film refused to advance automatically. He used a pencil to do the job.

Stafford complained about some glass wool insulation floating in the cabin. It broke loose early in the flight during a pressurization exercise.

"We've been itching, coughing and sneezing for three days," the Apollo 10 commander reported.

ported. He said it did not bother their breathing "but it's just kind of irritating."

Apollo 10 ends its 24-day lunar orbit period at 6:20 a.m. Saturday when the astronauts trigger their engine behind the moon's backside to start the 34-hour homeward journey. They are to splash into the Pacific Ocean near Pago Pago at 12:33 p.m. Monday.

They have a lot to report about their remarkable, sometimes hair-raising day in space Thursday.

During eight hours in which Stafford and Cernan swooped within 9.4 miles of the moon's surface, Apollo 10:

—Demonstrated that the lunar landing ship, or LEM, will operate in the moon's environment.

—Determined that the landing site chosen for the first American astronauts is smooth enough for a touchdown, but that the pilots will have to be very accurate to avoid boulders and craters.

—Showed dramatically that man can overcome problems in space and save a mission from potential disaster, where instruments alone might fail.

Stafford, Young and Cernan left little doubt that Apollo 11 will blast off for the moon July 16, carrying astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin A. Aldrin toward a landing on the area called the Sea of Tranquility.

After two looping dives over the primary Apollo 11 landing site near the crater Molke, Stafford radioed this description:

"It looks a lot smoother than some of the photos show. I estimate a 25 to 30 per cent semicircular area, so if the LEM has enough hover time, it should not be a problem. However, if you come down in the wrong area and you don't have hover time, you're gonna have to shove off."

The LEM can hover like a helicopter for several seconds to select a smooth touchdown area. Stafford reported several boulders and craters on the fringes of the site.

Stafford and Cernan obviously were relieved when they successfully caught and redocked with Young in the command ship after their pathfinder descent, which had a brush with danger.

"Man, we is back home," Stafford exclaimed as the two craft linked up nose to nose.

They had been apart as much as 350 miles as Young kept the command ship circling at a constant altitude of 69 miles.

Snoopy and Charlie Brown are hugging each other," was the exulted cry of Young. These are the radio code names used by the two vehicles.

That rendezvous was the best we've ever had," Stafford reported. "We were right up the tail all the way."

It was a rendezvous that almost didn't take place.

Two and one-half hours before the command and lunar modules were to undock, the astronauts reported a problem in depressurizing the tunnel that connects the two.

Corrective action to overcome this caused the docking rings between the two vehicles to slip out of alignment by three degrees.

Just before Apollo 10 disappeared behind the backside of the moon, where it would be out of radio contact for the critical separation, mission control advised the astronauts not to undock if the rings moved another three degrees.

For 40 minutes ground controllers held their breath until Apollo 10 returned to the front side. There was elation when tracking picked up two separate objects. Then Cernan advised: "We're about 30 or 40 feet away."

A series of engine burns started the LEM dipping toward the Sea of Tranquility. As it approached the Apollo 11 site at 3,700 miles per hour, Stafford excitedly described one area: "There's enough boulders here to fill Galveston Bay."

After that difficulty was overcome and the two ships redocked, flight director Glynn S. Lunney said, "Everything really performed. I think we have something to learn about using the communications, but we always do."

A final go-ahead for Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin A. Aldrin and Michael Collins to start the moon landing mission will not be made, however, until officials have time to discuss all phases of the Apollo 10 mission with the pilots.

The woes of Snoopy, as the lunar lander was called, began Wednesday night when Cernan crawled through a connecting tunnel from the mother ship and found Snoopy looking as if there had been a pillow fight.

"They were going to have a heck of a cleaning job here," Cernan complained. "They had insulation all in the seal, all in the valve and it is really a heck of a mess up here."

The astronauts decided high velocity oxygen gas ripped apart a white covering in Snoopy's hatch, and got it all out. Mission control officials said later the covering wasn't needed and won't be on the spacecraft that will land on the moon in July.

Yankee Swipes 60-Ton Plane; Down At Sea?

LONDON (AP) — A U.S. ground crew chief swiped a four-engine C130 Hercules troop transport after a night of drinking and flew it out of England today, the U.S. 3rd Air Force said.

About 12 hours later, the Air Force announced the turbo-prop craft is presumed down at sea, out of fuel.

The 60-ton aircraft was taken around 5 a.m. — midnight EDT — from Mildenhall Air Base by Sgt. Paul A. Meyer, 23, of Poquoson, Va.

Meyer flew through the radar tracks over the English Channel just north of Cherbourg, France.

Then he made radio contact with the Air Force and asked to be connected by radio telephone to his wife in Virginia. This was done about 6:40 a.m., British time.

"He refused to speak to any authorities on the ground," the Air Force said in a statement.

The Americans said further: "In the conversation with his wife, Sgt. Meyer mentioned having trouble with the automatic pilot in the plane. At about 0700 (7 a.m.) he told his wife, 'Leave me alone for about five minutes; I've got trouble.'"

"This was the last transmission received from Sgt. Meyer. "Since then no further radar contact has been made. No further radio transmissions have been heard and no reports of a ground crash have been received."

"USAF authorities are assuming that the aircraft is down at sea. The aircraft fuel would have been exhausted by this time."

By noon here, it was presumed the lone pilot had exhausted his turbo-prop fuel, especially if he was inexperienced enough in copy book methods of conserving it. He had no training at all in such a craft, usually flown with a five-man crew.

In Washington, however, the Pentagon said that the plane had about 13 hours of fuel at takeoff and that Meyer had been heard from by radio.

A Defense Department spokesman said Meyer had talked to his wife in Poquoson by telephone through the plane's radio.

"He indicated he was alone and hoped that he might make it home," the spokesman said.

But he gave no further information on the conversation and said Pentagon officials did not know in what direction the plane actually was flying.

Meyer had been drinking somewhere off the base Thursday night, hours before he stole the plane, an Air Force spokesman reported.

"He came back to the base escorted by civilian police and was handed over to our police on the base," he said. "He was taken to his first sergeant and put to bed, under the influence of drink."

"The next thing we knew he was inside the aircraft taxiing down the field. He was tracked by our radar, heading southwest until he was out of range," the spokesman said. This is toward the Atlantic.

Another spokesman said: "It would be practically impossible for him to land on the ground."

"We think it is likely he is probably over water or down in water. If he crashed in the sea he would have a few minutes to get out of the plane. There is normal rescue gear aboard."

U.S. and British jets, scrambled when the plane was reported "missing" searched the skies without luck.

The sergeant's prospects were for landing at Goose Bay, Labrador, or Gander in Newfoundland or possibly Langley Air Force Base in Virginia which was his home base.

Granted he could manage the huge plane alone with the multiple jobs that crop up in the cockpit, Meyer's eventual problem would be to land — a good deal more difficult than takeoff.

American authorities here were mystified.

Much Better Understanding

BANGKOK (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers left Southeast Asia today with the belief that U.S. allies here fully realize they will have to take greater responsibility for their own defense in the future.

American officials said Rogers' consultations with allied foreign ministers over the last three days had brought a much better understanding of President Nixon's policies toward this part of the world.

The ministers and their governments, these officials said, have been reassured that while the United States is trying to wind up the Vietnam war as fast as possible, it does not intend to abandon its defense commitments in Southeast Asia.

On the other hand, the informants continued, Rogers found that the other ministers recognize the Nixon administration is under pressure to reduce U.S. involvement abroad. They are well aware, it was said, that their governments will have to take greater responsibilities for their own security in the future.

Rogers flew from Bangkok to New Delhi for an overnight stop and talks with Indian government leaders.

The next round of international discussions on Southeast Asian problems will come at Midway Island June 8, when President Nixon meets South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

American officials suggest that the chief benefit will be that Nixon and Thieu will get acquainted. This is expected to expedite decision making in the future on issues which arise in the Paris peace talks.

The meeting also seems to symbolize the critical importance of Thieu's position to Nixon at this time. All U.S. negotiating plans and alternative plans for unilateral troop withdrawals hinge on the stability and authority of the Thieu government.

Snoopy's Woes Reviewed

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two Apollo 10 astronauts experienced some fear-some steering problems as they skimmed low over the moon, the worst of several problems they encountered in their lunar landing craft.

However, space officials said they knew of no problems on Apollo 10 serious enough to delay a moon landing scheduled July 20.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan were making their second pass 9.4 miles above the moon when they fired the craft's main engine to set them on a rendezvous course with the mother-ship, manned by John A. Young.

"Something went wild on that staging," Cernan radioed breathlessly after losing some sailor's profanity.

A switch should have been set differently, ground controllers said. For a few seconds, the spacecraft went through what the ground called "wild gyrations" as Stafford tried to steer it one way and the automatic guidance system another.

Cernan's heartbeat rate, normally 60 a minute, jumped to 129.

Somebody on the ground had forgotten an item on a checklist.

After that difficulty was overcome and the two ships redocked, flight director Glynn S. Lunney said, "Everything really performed. I think we have something to learn about using the communications, but we always do."

A final go-ahead for Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin A. Aldrin and Michael Collins to start the moon landing mission will not be made, however, until officials have time to discuss all phases of the Apollo 10 mission with the pilots.

OPPOSING NEW STATE COLLEGES, PARKS AGENCY CHANGES

Hoarse Filibusterers Paralyze Texas' Upper House

AUSTIN (AP) — Long-winged senators opposing new state colleges and reorganization of the Parks and Wildlife Department paralyzed Texas' upper House Friday for the second straight day.

Hoarse filibusterers said they would carry their delaying tactics into Saturday if necessary to keep the Senate from voting on new upper level state colleges at Midland-Odessa, Texarkana, Corpus Christi and San Antonio.

The continuous Senate session began at 4 p.m. Thursday.

Actually most of the talk that delayed action on the college bills was on an effort to get Senate committee approval of a bill to expand the Parks and Wildlife Commission.

Senate employees were sent out once in the early morning hours to round up members missing from the almost empty chamber with threat of arrest if they did not appear for a roll call.

However, when Gov. Preston Smith visited the chamber shortly after 8 a.m., he was greeted by only three members — Sen. Ike Harris, Dallas Republican, who was filibustering the Parks and Wildlife motion; Sen. Henry Grover of Houston, the Senate's second Republican, and a watchdog presiding officer, Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon.

Harris told inquiring senators to go home for a shave and change of shirts because he planned to talk until noon at least.

Harris read mostly from the Texas Almanac and other reference books, citing long involved statistics about recreational possibilities in Texas and the attendance at state parks.

Before Harris began about 7:45 a.m., Sen. Jack Strong of Longview held the floor for one stretch of seven hours and 50 minutes.

"I think it's going to be an unusual filibuster," Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes accurately predicted Thursday. "It's going to be hard to tell who's filibustering what."

The continuous Senate session began at 4 p.m. Thursday.

Filibusters blossomed inside the Senate as the foot-dragging Senators debated every debatable motion and yielded for questions from sympathizers.

Sen. Charles Wilson of Lufkin, lacking the votes to move a bill on the Parks and Wildlife Department from a committee with a hostile chairman to a friendlier committee, said he would accept an amendment merely enlarging the commission from three to nine members.

Sen. Wayne Connally, Floresville, the unfriendly chairman argued against Wilson's motion to refer the bill.

Connally was helped by lengthy questions from Sen. O. H. Harris, Dallas, then was followed by other Senators, speaking in relays of approximately two hours each. Sens. Jack Strong, Longview; Henry Grover, Houston; William Moore, Bryan; and Tom Creighton, Mineral Wells, took turns.

By 12:45 a.m. today, the Senate failed to muster a quorum, and absent senators were ordered arrested.

Strong repeatedly challenged decisions made by Barnes, who finally barked that "my successor will have precedent for it (the decision). The motion is overruled."

Before the filibuster began, Barnes gaveled through minimum-wage and Houston medical school bills, sending them to the House.

Unanimous consent was given to concur in House amendments to a bill that would make it a felony for a convicted felon to carry a gun.

Consent was granted to tentatively pass bills protecting roadrunners, barn owls, buzzard and hawks, and creating the Texas Conservation Foundation.

Portions of the one-year appropriations bill pushed by Barnes and Speaker Gus Mutscher went to the printers Thursday. Lawmakers were promised a full copy of the bill by Monday or Tuesday.

FROM THEIR ASSEMBLY LINE JOBS IN SHERMAN

Fainting Women 'Drop Like Flies'

SHERMAN, TEX. (AP) — A team of safety experts combed a section of the sprawling Texas Instruments, Inc., plant here today, trying to determine what caused about 50 women assembly line workers to suddenly become ill.

About 1,000 employees on the night shift were evacuated and the building sealed off after the women began complaining of nausea, headaches and dizziness.

Judd Jones, personnel supervisor at the plant, said there were 125 women working in the department, which deals in the assembly of computer components.

"We were able to determine that there was a two per cent contamination factor," Jones said. "But we didn't know what it was."

The safety team came from the Texas Instruments plant at Dallas, 65 miles to the south. All available ambulances in the area were pressed into service and kept up a steady stream carrying the sick women to hospitals in the area.

Rochelle Canon, administrator at Wilson and Jones Hospital, where most of the victims were employed, said the women were suffering from nausea and mild headache but none appeared in serious condition.

The illness appeared to be confined to the area where the women were at work. A male employee working on the level above said there was no sickness in his area.

"I heard all the commotion and went down to see what was going on," the unidentified workman said. "I saw they were all passing out so I started carrying them out. There was nothing else to do."

"They're dropping like flies," said a police dispatcher as he directed ambulances to the scene.

Jones said the first sign of any illness came about 8 p.m. when several of the women reported to the health center that they felt nauseous.

"But it became most severe around 10:30," Jones said. "That's when they first started fainting and some started to feel acutely ill."

Jones said some of the victims told him they did not smell any kind of fumes but just suddenly started feeling sick.

Jones said there was no panic when the building was being evacuated. He said there "was some congestion" in the area where the women were getting sick "because of the efforts being made to get them out."

Canon said about 45-50 of the victims were brought to Wilson and Smith and that about 35 would be kept overnight for observation.

A doctor who examined the workers said whatever made the employees sick "apparently was not deadly." He said some were responding with oxygen treatment while fresh air seemed to revive others.

"I have an idea that mass hysteria caused some of the women to faint," the doctor said.

Almost two hours after the ambulances first arrived, fire department units were treating workers at the plant site with oxygen. A fireman estimated about 70 persons were treated at the plant.

Early today, Mac McCormack, TI spokesman at Dallas said the team of experts had covered the building minutely, checking air conditioning vents and even the possibility of food poisoning. "To be honest," McCormack said, "we're checking everything we can think of."

McCormack said plant officials were so sure the plant was safe that employees were being asked to return to work with the morning shift.

By taking an inventory of his opponent's assets, South uncovered the rather unnatural play required to bring home his two heart contract.

East displayed an excessive streak of timidity during the auction. Altho his holding contains only four high card points, the distribution is attractive and rates to produce several tricks opposite partner's no trump bid. East should be extremely reluctant to sell out so cheaply to the opposition. Observe that East and West can score 10 tricks at diamonds.

West opened the king of spades and East signaled with the queen, which according to convention—commands partner to underlead the ace on the next round. It is obvious that this play should not be made unless the player has the jack as well. West dutifully continued with a small spade and East won the trick with the jack.

The shift was to a diamond and West covered declarer's queen with the ace. The latter cashed the ace of spades and exited with a diamond. South was in with the king, and he proceeded to draw trumps in three rounds, ending up in his hand.

The fate of the contract now hinged on how declarer handled the clubs, for he must restrict his loss to one trick in that suit. The normal procedure would be to lead out to the dummy's queen with the intention of finessing the ten on the return, hoping that East held the jack of clubs.

East, however, had already shown up with four points in spades and diamonds, and West appeared to be marked with all of the remaining high cards—including the jack of clubs—to account for the 16 points indicated by an opening one no trump. South accordingly decided to make a somewhat unnatural play in clubs.

He led the king from his hand to drive out West's ace. In order to avoid giving declarer a ruff and discard, West returned a small club. South ducked the lead around to his ten which won the trick, enabling him to claim his contract.

Classes In Chicago May Resume Soon

CHICAGO (AP) — Negotiators expressed hope that a tentative agreement reached late Thursday may enable 523 schools, closed by a teachers' strike, to reopen on Monday.

Schools were closed today for the second day pending a ratification vote by the 19,000-member Chicago Teachers Union on Saturday or Sunday.

Tentative settlement was announced by Mayor Richard J. Daley after more than 20 hours of negotiations over a two-day period behind closed doors in his offices.

Daley declined to give details of the agreement until after the proposals are presented to the union's house of representatives for recommendations, but indicated it included a wage hike and improved working conditions that were "fair and substantial."

The mayor said he spoke with Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie shortly before the negotiations for the

Ban Nuclear Arms Treaty

GENEVA (AP) — The United States submitted a draft treaty Thursday to ban nuclear arms construction from the sea bed and other weapons of mass destruction.

The draft, put before the 17-nation disarmament conference, was in answer to a Soviet draft presented March 18. It calls for complete demilitarization of the sea bed, a concept which the United States rejected.

In addition to the restriction on weapons to be banned, the U.S. draft differs from the Soviet proposal on three key points:

1. It would apply to the sea bed three miles from the coast and beyond. The Soviet ban would start at 12 miles.

2. Verification would be by "observation and consultation." The Soviet proposal calls for reciprocal inspection, which U.S. officials say is "ambiguous."

3. The U.S. draft calls for a review conference in Geneva five years after the treaty enters into force. The Soviet draft carries no provision for a review.

U.S. delegate Adrian S. Fisher said that compared to the area covered by the Soviet draft's 12-mile limit, the U.S. version "would add roughly two million square miles of seabed to the area of prohibition."

"This is an area, moreover, where the temptation to extend the nuclear arms race might be very great because of its proximity to the shore," he added.

Fisher said the only practical way to prevent an arms race on the sea bed is to restrict the treaty to weapons of mass destruction, including nuclear arms.

Soviet delegate Alexei A. Roshchin told newsmen he was "in a way" disappointed by the American draft but it was too early to say whether it dimmed prospects of agreement.

Hanoi Washing Dirty Linen

SAIGON (AP) — For the last five months, the tightly controlled Communist press of North Vietnam has been washing an unprecedented amount of dirty linen in public. One expert says this shows that public support of the war has lessened since the United States stopped bombing the North.

Almost daily, the party organs have been trumpeting a campaign against black marketers, corruption, theft of government property, slackening party discipline, public indifference and a host of economic sins.

To believe the Hanoi press—and in this case it is doubtful that it has any reason to lie—spontaneous "capitalism" is breaking out all over. Consumer goods are so scarce that a man with a simple little press for making plastic buttons can get rich by Hanoi standards.

That the North Vietnamese are as adept at making a capitalist profit amid the disruptions of war does not surprise the small band of Hanoi-watchers in Saigon. What does surprise them somewhat is the openness of the current campaign and its timing.

Experts are not inclined to read the signs hopefully in terms of any weakening by Hanoi at the Paris peace talks, however.

NATO Navy Plans Shape

BRUSSELS (AP) — Seeking to counter Soviet naval strength in the Mediterranean, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is reported planning to create a small naval task force for use in political emergencies where the U.S. 6th Fleet wouldn't be welcome.

The new international force will be known as NAVOCFORMED—Naval On Call Force Mediterranean. A source at NATO headquarters here said final plans for it will be approved Wednesday by NATO's 14-nation Defense Planning Committee. U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird is to attend the meeting.

The United States, Britain, Italy, Greece and Turkey will furnish a minimum of six ships, usually destroyers and frigates, that will come together about twice a year for two weeks of maneuvers. Dutch, Norwegian, Portuguese and West German ships also may join the force from time to time the source said.

The first maneuvers may take place in about six months. At other times the ships will remain in their national fleets, but on call for emergencies.

The emergencies anticipated are mainly political in which a show of force might scare off the Russians.

Asked for an example, the source outlined this possibility: Suppose the Soviet Union was

Heart Surgeon Due Divorce

CAPE TOWN (AP) — Dr. Christian Barnard, the surgeon who made the world's first heart transplant, was sued for divorce in Cape Town Supreme Court today.

Justice M.E. Theron ordered Barnard to restore conjugal rights to his wife, Aletta Gertruida Barnard, by July 29 or to show cause by July 30 why a divorce decree should not be granted.

Barnard was not in court. He left Wednesday for a two-month tour of Europe and North America. He is believed to be in Rome.

Meanwhile, Barnard's and the world's longest surviving transplant patient, Dr. Philip Blai-berg, went home from Groote Schuur Hospital today after surviving another serious setback.

He will be 60 Saturday, and his wife said they would have a small family party.

He was rushed to the hospital last Friday suffering from breathlessness and exhaustion. The hospital said today no evidence had been found that his body was rejecting the transplanted heart.

Skies Cloudy Around Texas

By The Associated Press

Skies were cloudy and thundershowers dotted the state today, but the weather seemed mild in comparison with Thursday night's, when thunderstorms roamed the midlands and a tornado touched down near Hillsboro.

The twister struck in an open field and no damage or injuries were reported.

A section of Southwest Texas that took in 22 counties was placed under severe thunderstorm watch, while thunderstorms of a milder nature stirred in the vicinities of Cleburne, Temple, Waco, Killeen and eastward to Huntsville.

A weak cold front located near Texarkana to Midland during the night continued to dissipate early today as it remained stationary.

The Weather Bureau said considerable cloudiness would continue in the Panhandle and it would be partly cloudy over the remainder of the state. A few scattered thundershowers were expected near the front, mostly in western sections of the state.

Temperatures before dawn were in the 50s north of the front and in the 60s and 70s elsewhere. Galveston reported the pre-dawn high of 77 under clear skies.

FCC COMMISSIONER SAYS: Won't React To Pressure Against Pay Television

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Rosel H. Hyde of the Federal Communications Commission says his agency will not react to pressure, apparently organized, against pay television.

Hyde said the FCC is receiving considerable mail seemingly as a result of a campaign by opponents of a plan to begin pay television. Indications are that the campaign extends to the general public.

The FCC issued an order Dec. 12 establishing over-the-air pay TV as a regular broadcast service and adopted rules to take effect June 12.

On April 29 the National Association of Theatre Owners and Wednesday to succeed Joe Rich, the Joint Committee Against

Aid To Unwed, Teenage Mothers Study Okayed

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Walter Johnson was named unanimously Thursday to serve as 1970 moderator of the Synod of Texas, Presbyterian Church in the United States.

This election came during the closing hours of the 114th meeting of the synod, during which $80 million was voted for aid to the needy aged, blind, disabled and dependent children and their caretakers.

A task force to take up Mexican-American problems was also ordered formed after discussions on the issue embroiled the synod for a good portion of the afternoon.

The meeting approved the merger of the Central Presbyterian Church in the United States and the Brazos Presbytery of the United Presbyterian Churches of the U.S.A. The merger was called by Presbyterians the "backdoor union" of the two groups, separated since 1849.

Earlier, the meeting saw approved a therapeutic abortion aid to unwed, teenage mothers. A resolution was passed to support the Texas Medical Society in its appeals to the legislature to permit doctors to examine and treat teenage girls who are pregnant, without their parents' consent.

The 1970 synod meeting was set for May 19-21 at Austin College in Sherman.

It would be unlawful to interfere with firemen and policemen during civil disorders under another bill returned to the Senate. A House amendment limited the bill to riot situations.

Also amended and sent back to the Senate was a bill allowing the Commission for Indian Affairs to acquire land and other property by gifts or otherwise, including condemnation under certain conditions. An amendment would allow the Tigua Indians at El Paso to acquire certain real estate. Rep. John Hannah of Lufkin, the sponsor, said the bill was designed to allow the Alabama-Coushatta Indian reservation in Southeast Texas to accept a train and track from a lumber company.

House bills passed on a local and consent calendar and sent to the Senate would:

- Redefine "tailgating" to spell out that a clear distance must be kept between cars with regard to both the speed of the vehicles and road conditions. Police regard the present law as impossible to prosecute under.
- Create a state economy in government commission.
- Prohibit former convicts to possess pistols away from their residences.
- Outlaw drag racing, disorderly conduct and drinking on parking lots maintained by businesses.

Fake Credit Cards Bill Clears House

AUSTIN (AP) — Prison terms of up to seven years could be assessed on persons who forge or manufacture fake credit cards under a bill passed Thursday by the Texas House.

The measure, sponsored by Reps. Chris Semos and Lamorne Holland, both of Dallas, also provides up to two years in jail and a $1,000 fine for fraudulently using someone else's credit cards.

Semos said the measure is a "model credit card act" used by other states and is "strictly designed for the underworld, not the legitimate credit card user."

A merchant who knowingly furnishes money, goods or services to a person with a forged or stolen credit card with intent to defraud either the issuer of the card or the rightful owner could be imprisoned for up to seven years.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

Passed and returned to the Senate for action on amendment was a bill prohibiting the killing of alligators or the possession of their hides after Jan. 1. Conservationists are becoming alarmed that the reptiles may become extinct.

The House amendment on the alligator bill set the Jan. 1 effective date.

It would be unlawful to interfere with firemen and policemen during civil disorders under another bill returned to the Senate. A House amendment limited the bill to riot situations.

Also amended and sent back to the Senate was a bill allowing the Commission for Indian Affairs to acquire land and other property by gifts or otherwise, including condemnation under certain conditions. An amendment would allow the Tigua Indians at El Paso to acquire certain real estate. Rep. John Hannah of Lufkin, the sponsor, said the bill was designed to allow the Alabama-Coushatta Indian reservation in Southeast Texas to accept a train and track from a lumber company.

House bills passed on a local and consent calendar and sent to the Senate would:

- Redefine "tailgating" to spell out that a clear distance must be kept between cars with regard to both the speed of the vehicles and road conditions. Police regard the present law as impossible to prosecute under.
- Create a state economy in government commission.
- Prohibit former convicts to possess pistols away from their residences.
- Outlaw drag racing, disorderly conduct and drinking on parking lots maintained by businesses.

Hungry Visitor

DALLAS (AP) — The Leonard K. Higgins family found an unlikely visitor in their yard recently—a baby alligator. No one really knows where it came from, but if the Leonards have anything to say about it, it's going to a zoo.

Will Design Plants

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas firm will design two plants for the recovery of sulphur from hydrogen gas under the Pan American Oil Co. licensed process. The firm, Ford, Bacon & Davis Texas, Inc., has designed 27 plants under the process.

do they really "go to school" before joining the church?

As much as anything else, Confirmation (or Inquirers') classes are for the "joiner's" own protection... so that he knows exactly what he's getting into. This simple, interesting set of instructions from the minister assures complete understanding the church's tenets. It carries no obligation to become a member.

Episcopalians don't discount the sudden revelation of God's presence. (Some call it "seeing the light.") They do, however, believe that a more deliberate initiation into church membership is less likely to "wear thin" in subsequent years.

They have some pretty good reasons for believing theirs is a "thinking-man's religion." Christ, they say, demanded simple faith—but not blind faith.

Periodically, your nearest Episcopal church offers a series of Inquirers' classes. Here's an excellent opportunity to learn, without obligation, if the Episcopal Church offers something you've found missing in your previous religious experience. The minister—if you call him—would be delighted to discuss it with you.

One of a series presented by "Those Crazy Episcopalians" in your area.

Will it be Enough?

Today it's just a skeleton against the sky. But tomorrow people will live in it, and it will become a home. Within its walls, the pattern of life will be carried out.

But will this be enough? As a home, will this house stand or fall as the years pass? Will the people who live in it develop into better, stronger human beings? Or will they acquire selfishness, greed, indifference, conceit?

Remember the foolish man who built his house on sand, only to have the rains wash it away, and the wise man who built his house permanently on a rock? The future of this house—the future of a home—depends upon its foundation.

In the story, the "rock" symbolizes the Church. Those who build their faith upon its foundation will take into their homes the strength to keep them standing, regardless of what life may bring.

Dear Abby

The 'Helpful' Husband

DEAR ABBY: There is a very attractive young woman who works for me. She has a lot of problems, mostly due to a recently broken marriage. I happen to be an older man, and she confides in me, and I know I've been helping her a lot.

When my wife and I go to parties I make sure this young woman has plenty of attention. I always tell her how nice she looks. I dance with her and see to it that she's never sitting alone.

My wife is very jealous. In fact she almost made a scene the last time.

How can I convince my wife that she has nothing to be jealous about? I assure you, she hasn't.

NOT GUILTY
DEAR NOT: You've "helped" this young woman who, on the rebound, could indeed be developing an attachment for you. Now you can reassure your understandably uneasy wife by assuming a strictly impersonal posture, and acting as a sympathetic employer rather than a father-confessor and healer of broken hearts.

DEAR ABBY: I am 11 years old but I know all the facts of life because I live in a dirty neighborhood.

My problem is that in our family we get pregnant quick. What I mean is, my sister got pregnant when she was 16 just by sitting next to a boy in church. That is what they say anyway. Can this be?

MARGARET ANNE
No. Somebody must have moved.

DEAR ABBY: You cannot stress too strongly the dangers of long, hard, mouth-to-mouth kisses between father and daughter. I am a father and am in a position to know that most cases of incest are hushed up. They are not confined to the lower classes either. I have had perfectly honorable and respectable men confess to me that they can be as easily aroused by their own daughters as by any other woman.

I think that all girls should be made aware of what mouth-kissing, lap-sitting, and nudity around the house can do to a man, be he a father, brother, uncle, or friend. Girls can in rural areas 50 years ago usually control situations which today, less than 25 per cent sometimes in their ignorance they provoke. Keep at it, Abby! Very truly yours,

LOUISVILLE LAWYER
DEAR LAWYER: I know from my mail that what you say is true. The twin tragedies are that most little girls are "afraid" to report such advances, and some who do are not believed by their mothers — (an example of "there's none so blind as he who will not see.") Indeed, I shall "keep at it." It is a more prevalent evil than most imagine.

DEAR ABBY: You stated that the only legitimate reasons for a man to go into a BEAUTY PARLOR were to announce a fire and to serve a subpoena. Well, there is a third one. I am a man who goes to the local beauty parlor regularly for a manicure. I sometimes get stares, but it doesn't bother me. There are no manicurists in the barber shops here, and I want to keep my hands and fingernails clean and in good condition. Cordially,

SMALL TOWN DENTIST, GUNTERVILLE, ALA.
Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Film Available
On Voc-Education

AUSTIN — A film on vocational education in Texas — its beginnings, its present status, church. That is what they say and its future — has been produced by the Texas Education Agency.

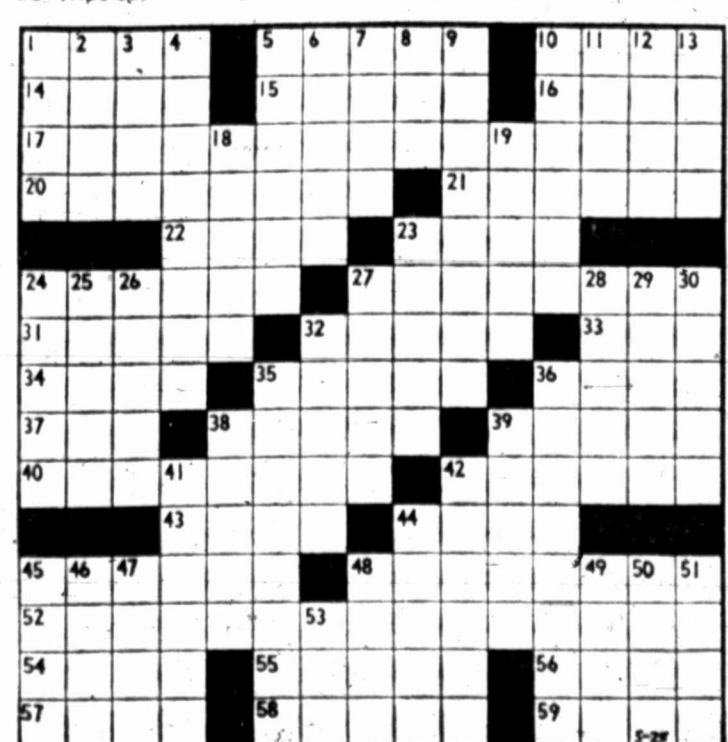

Entitled "Paths of Progress on the Threshold of the Future," the 30-minute color film shows how vocational education has emerged during the past 50-plus years to keep pace with a changing society.

"Changes in vocational education in our state have come about as Texas educators recognized the need for skilled manpower development," says John R. Guemple, assistant commissioner for vocational and adult education at the Agency. The film may be obtained by writing to the Department of Vocational Education, TEA, 11th and Brazos, Austin 78711.

As pointed out in the film, 75 per cent of all Texas lived in rural areas 50 years ago. Today, less than 25 per cent of the state's population lives in rural communities. The state's economy is now increasingly influenced by business and industry in urban centers.

BOMBERS KEEP UP PRESSURE NORTH OF SAIGON

Scattered Ground Fighting

SAIGON (AP) — Forty-two more American planes and helicopters were lost in Vietnam in the past week, raising the total for the war to 5,388, the U.S. Command announced today.

The weekly summary of aircraft losses said the toll for the week included 27 helicopters and 15 fixed-wing aircraft shot down, destroyed on the ground by enemy shelling or lost to other causes. The total was six less than the week before, when 40 helicopters and eight planes were destroyed.

A total of 2,713 fixed-wing planes and 2,675 American helicopters now have been lost since Jan. 1, 1961. Military sources estimate their total value at $5.6 billion.

COSTLY COLLISION

Among the casualties in the past week were two $2 million F4 Phantom fighter-bombers and a four-engine KC130 tanker lost in a collision during refueling operations off the coast last Sunday. Eight crewmen were killed.

Two of the helicopters were shot down Thursday northeast and northwest of Saigon. Two Americans were killed and one was wounded in the crashes.

As usual, the U.S. Command said it could give no explanation for the heavy aircraft losses.

One spokesman said the largest weekly loss of helicopters was in the week of June 12-18, 1968, when 37 were shot down or otherwise destroyed.

"I'm pretty sure the rate of loss is no higher now than it has ever been," the spokesman said. "We've got more helicopters than a year ago and the enemy has proportionately more weapons than a year ago."

Meanwhile, scattered ground fighting was reported in the war zone early today. North Vietnamese troops shelled the night bivouac of a battalion of South Vietnamese paratroopers 2 1/2 miles from the Cambodian border, then made a ground attack.

SEVEN WAVES

Seven waves of the giant Stratofortresses dropped more than 1,200 tons of bombs in the continuing campaign to harass enemy troops and prevent them from massing for a major drive against the city.

Some of the bombers hit targets 55 miles northwest of Saigon. Others zeroed in on positions 34 miles northeast of South Vietnam's capital city.

Another wave of B52s attacked enemy base camps near Dak To, 275 miles northeast of Saigon, where fresh North Vietnamese troops reportedly have infiltrated from Laos and Cambodia.

Sharp ground fighting broke out in one of the infiltration corridors 53 miles northwest of Saigon early today. North Vietnamese troops shelled the night bivouac of a battalion of South Vietnamese paratroopers 2 1/2 miles from the Cambodian border, then made a ground attack.

Field reports said 34 North Vietnamese and three government soldiers were killed and 26 paratroopers were wounded. The enemy troops were blocking an approach to Tay Ninh City, which is under constant threat.

The U.S. Command reported Thursday night 13 rocket and mortar attacks that it classed as significant because they caused casualties or damage. But the command said overall the casualties and damage were light.

In one of these attacks, nine mortar rounds landed on Hau Nghia, a provincial capital 20 miles northwest of Saigon. Spokesmen reported one civilian killed and seven wounded.

Spends More

ST. LOUIS — The Missouri Pacific System spent $75,869,000 for fuel, materials and supplies during 1968, an increase of almost $1,500,000 in expenditures for similar purchases in the previous year. This was in addition to almost $60,000,000 spent for new freight cars, locomotives and other capital improvements to the railroad last year.

Burger Receives Payments As Trustee Of Foundation

In Other Years

Warren Earl Burger, chosen Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court by President Nixon Wednesday, is shown, top right, being sworn in as assistant attorney general by Chief Justice Fred Vinson in 1953. Bottom, Burger, from St. Paul, Minn., and wearing a Harold E. Stassen button, is shown addressing the Republican National Convention in Chicago in 1952.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Warren E. Burger, chosen to become chief justice, says he is undecided whether to continue as a trustee of a foundation which pays him $2,000 annually for attending four days of meetings.

Burger confirmed today he had received payments from the foundation which owns the famed Mayo Clinic in Minnesota.

Justice Abe Fortas resigned from the Supreme Court a week ago in the controversy over a $20,000 check from the family foundation of a jailed financier. Justice William O. Douglas is under fire for payments from a foundation which has had ownership links with Las Vegas casinos.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., said there did not appear to be any impropriety in Burger's role in the Mayo Foundation. Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said he saw no conflict with his court duties. But both said they would not make any final judgment until they had more facts.

The two are senior members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which will hold hearings on Burger's nomination by President Nixon.

Theft Reports

Police had two theft reports to check today. Mrs. Lawanda Yager, 1405 Lincoln, reported two rings, a watch and a purse stolen, all valued at about $100. Ida Mae White, 906 NW 4th, reported someone forced open a door and took a typewriter.

dent Nixon to become the nation's highest-ranking jurist. Burger, through a spokesman at his home, acknowledged $7,500 in payments from the Mayo Foundation.

Chief Justice Warren Calls Special Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren, moving in the still heavy wake of the Abe Fortas affair, has called a special meeting of federal judges to consider proposed rules to govern the financial dealings of the U.S. judiciary.

Warren has summoned the 11-member Court Administration Committee for a meeting Saturday, three months before its next scheduled session.

It was obvious that Warren, who steps down as chief justice next month, proposed the early meeting to overcome any public doubt about the nation's court system following the resignation under fire of Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas.

No agenda is set for the meeting, but the judges from U.S. circuit and district courts are expected to discuss bills pending in Congress that would require judges to disclose their income and investments.

Fortas tendered his resignation during the furor caused by disclosure he had received a $20,000 fee in 1966 from the family foundation of financier Louis E. Wolfson.

Justice William O. Douglas also has been criticized in Congress for collecting annual fees from the Parmin Foundation, which had business ties with legal Nevada gambling interests. And it was revealed Thursday that Chief Justice-designate Warren E. Burger has received $7,500 as a trustee of the Mayo Foundation since he has been a federal circuit judge.

Ernest C. Prieten, director of the administrative office of the United States Courts, said Thursday the committee could frame hard proposals for con-

Mark G. Brataas, a clinic administrator, said Burger received a $2,000 honorarium in 1968, 1967 and 1968. In addition to this $6,000, Burger received $1,500 in 1963 for his work on a long range planning group before the regular annual payments began.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson is also a member of the foundation board at the same $2,000 annual salary, Brataas said.

He said board members attend quarterly meetings. Each meeting lasts one day, Brataas said.

He said Burger also receives expenses for travel and lodging. Burger in a brief statement read by an aide, confirmed the payments without giving a breakdown.

"Don't know re future," it added.

If confirmed as chief justice, Burger will get a salary boost to $62,500 a year. He now receives $42,500 as a federal judge.

The Mayo Foundation, formed in 1919, owns the facilities for the world-known clinic in Rochester, Minn., and finances graduate studies at the huge medical complex. It has assets of more than $100 million.

Car Accidents Are Checked

Eight automobile mishaps were reported Thursday, however there were no injuries or major damage.

Locations, and drivers involved, were:

Third and State, Elza Jackson, Lubbock, and Ruby L. Fowler, 1808 Hamilton, Eleventh and Young, Ellen Pryor Mills, 2411 Alabama, and George Wright Goodwin, 400 Princeton; Eleventh and State, Robert Crenshaw, Rt. 2, and David Glenn Harvell, 2201 Alabama; Fifteenth and Gregg, Wallace Duain Herring, 2105 Alabama, and Roger McEllis on Brown, 701 N. ## After 30 Volkswagens, Father Bittman still believes.

In the beginning, Father Aloysius Bittman bought a bug.

That was in 1957 when he joined the staff of St. Anthony's Indian Mission in Mandaree, North Dakota.

Since then, Father Bittman has gone a long way. In 30 Volkswagens.

Owning two or three at a time, the Bittman staff travels 600 miles per week in each. Over dirt and gravel roads and in temperatures that go to 55 below.

A couple of Volkswagens ago, Father Bittman's '65 broke through the Garrison Reservoir ice.

"It was a good time for praying," he said. Luckily, one 255 pound priest and one 1808 pound bug floated to safety. After the ice was chopped away and a quick oil change, the good father and his faithful companion were on their way.

He was a bit peeved about the oil change though.

"It set the Mission back $1.80," complained Father Aloysius Bittman.

A Devotional For The Day

"The Spirit of truth . . . and know him, for he dwells with you, and will be in you." (John 14:17, RSV)
PRAYER: Come, Holy Spirit, enter my life and replace that which stifles and deadens with that which freshens and invigorates. Thus may I again be born anew. In Jesus' name. Amen.
(From the 'Upper Room')

Be Doubly Careful

Very soon, now, school will be out. When that happens, there will be some marked changes in the life patterns of children throughout the community. They will move about more freely and unexpectedly. That challenges motorists to exercise even more alertness and care than during the school year.
There will be no school patrols, for one thing. Drivers will not be able to count on light child movement during the long hours when children are in classes. The man at the wheel will have to expect the unexpected at any moment — the child, intent on a ball, darting out from between parked cars; the boys, shoving and capering on their way to the neighborhood pool, forgetful of schooltime discipline as they cross an intersection. And so on, and so on.

Even when school is in session, the good driver keeps a careful eye out for children — especially in residential areas. When school's out, he knows that he'll have to redouble his precautions.

Repetitious But True

Reiteration of warnings about man's harmful impact on his environment grow wearisome, granted. It is no fun to be reminded every other day or so that unless human beings quit polluting this planet's waters and atmosphere they may write mankind out of history before many decades have passed.
But reiteration of such warnings is essential just now because ours is the generation which stands at a crucial point in history with regard to humanity's effect on environment. If corrective action is not set in motion by this generation, some of the damage done may be irreversible. In significant measure, the quality of life on this planet for decades and perhaps generations to come depends on how those of us now living meet this challenge.
Effective action will be difficult. It will be very costly, though much of the cost will eventually be balanced by human gains. And it will require careful planning on a broad scale. Moreover, pollution is not going to be ended in a hurry; we must undertake corrective programs as a long-haul proposition.

The latter point was emphasized by James E. Newman, associate professor of agricultural climatology at Purdue University, at a Chicago conference sponsored by the National Institute of Farm and Land Brokers. "Since air pollution is largely a matter of built-in design over several decades," he said, "it will take several decades to design our way out of it."
Professor Newman suggested a three-pronged approach: "First we must acknowledge the existing problem as it is right now. Second, we must find out that level of pollution we can safely accept. Third, we must anticipate what our current and future technology allow us to accomplish in correcting air pollution problems. All of this must be evaluated in terms of time and money." But also and above all, we would add, in terms of the potential improvement in the quality of human life.

Marquis Childs Cronyism And The Judiciary

WASHINGTON — With the furor over Abe Fortas beginning to subside it is worth examining how it happened. As an example of how not to manage the relationship between the Chief Executive and the judiciary it should be a warning for the men now in the White House and for other Presidents to come.
WHILE THE flak rains down on Fortas, the principal actor was Lyndon Baines Johnson, currently playing it very quiet offstage in Texas. As in almost every aspect of his Presidency, Johnson was the political animal, the wheeler dealer, in his approach to the Supreme Court. This is not to say that other Presidents have excluded politics from their appointments to the Court. But seldom have politics and the motivations of self-interest been so obvious.
It began immediately after the death of Adlai Stevenson in July, 1965. Who was to take his place as Ambassador to the United Nations? President Johnson summoned Arthur Goldberg, then an Associate Justice, to the White House.
THOSE FAMILIAR with the background say that Johnson exerted all his mastery of persuasion on Goldberg to get him to give up his lifetime place on the Court and take the U.N. Post.
This created a vacancy. Not only that, but since Goldberg was of Jewish origin it opened the way for the appointment of Fortas. An unwritten rule, observed at least once in the breach, prescribes that in the political-religious balance on the Court there shall be one Jew and one Roman Catholic.
FORTAS WAS a long-time Johnson friend and his personal lawyer at critical moments in the Johnson career. He had managed the certification of Johnson's election to the Senate in 1948 when 57 votes in a bossed county were at stake. Even after he had formally withdrawn as Bobby Baker's lawyer, Fortas continued behind scenes to try to help get the Secretary of the Senate Majority and Johnson's protegee out of the mess of his wheeling and dealing.
The suspicious believe that in making Fortas an Associate Justice Johnson had looked down the road to the time when he would elevate him to Chief Justice.
THE STORM broke when Earl Warren decided a year ago to retire, and Johnson named Fortas in his place. The nomination was twinned with that of Homer Thornberry, a Circuit Court of Appeals judge and another long-time Johnson crony, to fill the Associate Justiceship made vacant by the Fortas elevation.
Determined opposition soon developed, led by Sen. Robert P. Griffin (R., Mich.). At the outset this seemed to be based on Fortas' record as a liberal. Facts soon developed, however, notably the $15,000 American University lecture fee and what appeared to be Justice Fortas' intervention in behalf of Johnson in a phase of the Vietnam controversy, that cooled his Senate backers. With confirmation blocked, Fortas asked that his name be withdrawn.
IN 1967 another Johnson intrigue brought a dramatic "first" on the Court. Johnson named Ramsey Clark, the son of Associate Justice Tom Clark, a long-time Texan ally of the President, to be Attorney General. It would have been anomalous for a son to plead a case before his father, and Justice Clark retired. Thereupon Johnson nominated Thurgood Marshall to be the first Negro on the Court.
IN THE machinations leading to Fortas' resignation the hand of Attorney General John N. Mitchell was evident in a now-you-see-it, now-you-don't fashion. This was unfortunate, to say the least, because the removal of Fortas by the constitutional process was clearly in sight. No matter how high the qualifications, cronyism, as the Fortas case illustrates, is no criteria for the Federal judiciary.

Billy Graham

I find it difficult to keep my mind from wandering when I pray, read the Bible or try to meditate. Can you give me any suggestions?
J.K.
The Bible tells us that there are spiritual forces at work in the world to hinder us from communion and fellowship with God. The Bible also says that we are "to contend for the faith that was once delivered unto the saints."
Out of my own experience I will make three suggestions:
First, set aside a definite time for your Bible reading and prayer. Make an appointment with God, and keep it as strictly as you do any other appointment. The early morning hours are especially conducive to study and meditation.
Second, recognize that Satan will try to hinder your private devotions more than any other exercise. Be prepared for interruptions, such as ringing doorbells and phones. Let them wait, for the heavenly Guest should have priority over all others.
Third, have a plan for your devotions. Start with the book of John and read a chapter a day. Allot time for meditation, letting the Holy Spirit "lead you into all truth." Then, when you pray, don't do all the talking. "Be still," the Psalmist said, "and know that I am God." Let God give you the marching orders for the day.

Nixon Appointees Surprise Business

NEW YORK (AP) — A great deal of excitement is being stirred up in Washington these days about business and the national interest, and it wouldn't be an overstatement to say that some businessmen are greatly surprised.

Much of the interest is being shown by Nixon appointees who, some critics felt, would be inclined toward leniency rather than criticism of recent business trends, including the rash of conglomerate mergers.

THE ATTITUDE of the administration is dispelling some loosely held notions that big business would have a freer hand for at least the next four years. It isn't working out that way.

To determine how energetic and how long lived will be this disposition will take more time, of course, for a few scratches here and there do not make a finished picture. But a pattern does seem to be emerging.

For the third time in a few months, the administration has sought to prevent a conglomerate corporation, which is an aggregation of diverse companies collected under one roof, from acquiring another firm.

The purpose of these cases is to determine if the national interest is being served or thwarted by these concentrations of power, which some critics contend are tying up markets into monopolistic knots.

THE MOST recent case, filed this week, was a Justice Department suit to prevent Northwest Industries from acquiring the B.F. Goodrich Co., one of the nation's largest manufacturers of rubber products.

At almost the same time as the Goodrich case was being filed, the Nixon people decided to release a report that suggests the antitrust laws be changed so as to more readily permit challenges to large, dominating companies.

This report was begun in the Johnson administration and completed last summer. The Nixon people were quick to make it known that publica-

Where To Find A Cook Book For Diabetics

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has diabetes. The doctor says do this and do that, which we try, but we still can't understand the whys of this disease. Please send us your booklet, "Diabetes, the Sneaky Disease." I enclose 35 cents, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

Can you tell me where to get a cook book of cakes, pies, and desserts using artificial sweeteners? I have had no luck finding one in book stores. — Mrs. L.E.W.

Diabetes — one of the most widespread chronic diseases we have to combat — isn't too hard to understand, basically, although related problems can become very complicated indeed.

Here it is in a nutshell. The human body has to produce insulin (in the pancreas) in order to use up sugar, which represents energy, in the blood. When not enough insulin is available, that's diabetes.

The answer: either give extra insulin, by injection, or use the newer "diabetes pills," which will reduce the sugar level in cases that are not too severe, or in very mild cases, change the diet so the patient doesn't get more sugar than he can handle.

Usually a combination of diet plus either insulin or pills is necessary.

Remember that it isn't just ordinary table sugar. You also have to calculate the amount of natural sugar in fruits and other foods. And starches are quickly turned into sugar in the system, and protein is converted similarly, although more slowly and in smaller degree.

So that's why total food intake is important, besides eliminating ordinary table sugar entirely.

"A Cook Book for Diabetics" is published by the American Diabetes Association and will be of a great deal of help to you in planning menus. You can get it through your local Diabetes Association, or by writing to the American Diabetes Association, 18 East 48th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017. It costs about $1.

But a word of warning: cakes, pies and such desserts, even when made with artificial sweeteners, do not belong in the diet of a diabetic patient. Why not? Because, as I pointed out above, the flour and other ingredients will be turned into sugar by the patient's digestive apparatus, and thus increase the problem.

This does not mean that the diabetic cannot have some form of dessert. This can be in the form of fresh or unsweetened canned fruits, certain gelatin preparations and others that the cook book will suggest to you.

"Tips On How To Stop Smoking" by Dr. Thosteson, will help you give up the habit. To receive a copy of the booklet, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald, enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The Cat That Turns It On

My pretty aunt, Mrs. Leona Factor, has a cat named D. C. The cat is intrigued by the mercury light switch, which glows when it is off, in the bathroom.

Every night when "Lonkie" goes to bed, D. C. runs into the bathroom, climbs up on something which shall remain nameless, and turns on the light.

When she yells at him, he turns it off.
All the cats today are doing whatever turns them on.

DID YOU know that even the driven snow isn't so pure any more?

Stand by for the first installment of a modern-day serial entitled, "Into the Red with Helen and Ted."

Have you noticed that when anyone brings up sex, everyone wants to get into the act?

A science teacher in Odessa told his students:
"The next part of the test will be essay questions."
A girl held up her hand, and asked:
"What does S.A. stand for?"

LITERATURE never was my favorite subject, and English literature was worse yet. But I had to take something in that field if I wanted a degree at good old OU.

Dr. Meacham was the professor, and he used to have us read in class and then interpret what the author really meant.

This left me especially cold, so when my turn came and he asked:
"Mr. Finley, what do you think he meant by that?"
I replied:

"Well, if he didn't mean what he said, why did he say it?"
Fortunately, Dr. Meacham was a gentleman, and understood the brashness of youth.
But what's my excuse now?

THE THOUGHT for the day is from the Core Driller.

A Medicare patient awoke from surgery to find a sign on the bandage over his incision:
"This is a federal project showing your tax dollars at work."

"You must like yellow. You wear so much of it."
"There you go, taking that jaundiced view again."

BRITAIN is in the process of granting self-government to the Bahamas—News item.

It could lead to a new national anthem: "Yes, we have no Bahamas."

And we may have to change the words of that song to, "California, there you go . . ."

If Jimmy Boyd is still singing (if he ever did), I have a sequel for his "All I Want for Christmas is my two front teeth."

It doesn't swing, but it scalled "All I Want for Christmas is an Isthmus."

Of course he'd have to have his two front teeth.

I'M ALMOST sure he read it here first. I wonder where I read it.

"I'm sleepy."
"Why didn't you go to bed earlier last night?"
"It was too late."

The Influence Of Prayer Breakfasts

WASHINGTON — Abraham Vereide — the father of the prayer breakfast movement — who helped to create hundreds of prayer groups throughout the United States and in 70 countries of the world, has just passed away at his home in Washington at the age of 82.

Few men in American history, inside or outside the church, have exercised as much influence as did Dr. Vereide through the banding together of laymen of all religions to seek spiritual guidance in their personal and business life.

DR. VEREIDE was responsible for the establishment in 1941 and 1942 of the Senate prayer breakfast and the House prayer breakfast, each of which meets weekly while Congress is in session. There are no sermons preached by ministers, but a member of the group acts as the leader at each meeting. All discussions are off the record.

The Senate and House groups hold a presidential prayer breakfast each year, which is attended by several hundred guests, including the President of the United States and high officials from all branches of the federal government.

THERE ARE gubernatorial prayer breakfasts annually in 47 states. In a number of states, regular gubernatorial prayer breakfasts are held similar to the weekly meetings of groups in the Senate and House.

Abroad, the movement has taken hold on every continent. In recent years, the chief of state has participated in annual prayer breakfasts in countries like Canada, Brazil and Korea.

THE GROUPS are non-denominational and non-sectarian. Persons of all faiths are invited to join in the prayer breakfasts. While the spread of the movement has been facilitated by the International Christian Leadership Organization, founded by Dr. Vereide, each breakfast group in every city, state or country is spontaneously organized and operates on its own.

Today there are in the city of Washington alone about 40 prayer breakfast groups. Many of them are in the federal agencies, where the staff of a commission or department organizes a weekly prayer breakfast meeting. In groups throughout the country, members include judges as well as business and professional men and state and city officials.

THE MEETINGS usually begin at 8:30 in the morning, and during the first half-hour of breakfast, there are conversations back and forth across the table. Both Republicans and Democrats participate. At 9 o'clock, the member who has been designated to lead presents a paper for 15 minutes, after which there is 15 minutes of discussion, followed by a closing prayer.

Over the years, some close friendships have been built up in these meetings, including a better knowledge and understanding of each other between members of opposite parties. Fraternity prevails, and the emphasis is on conscience and adherence to moral principles.

DR. VEREIDE'S achievements have been known to a relatively small number of people, but he has left behind a lasting legacy in the form of prayer breakfast groups. It is likely not only to live on but to grow as the movement continues to expand among the people on every continent of the globe.

Converting The Nixonites

WASHINGTON — Sargent Shriver, warlord of the original War on Poverty, could well have said, "After me, the Liquidation." That is what has happened. The Job Corps is going to the Labor Department, the Head Start program to the HEW Department, and what remains is largely the Community Action programs.

Now comes Congressman Donald Rumsfeld (R., Ill.) to take over as Mr. Nixon's director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, and the choice has been universally applauded in Washington.

MR. RUMSFELD is a young-looking 36, very low-keyed, very highly regarded by all. And yet in his appearance before the confirming committee, Labor and Public Welfare, Rumsfeld impressed at least one reporter as having a certain weakness which has sporadically shown up in this Administration's appointments. That weakness may be called the Hickel Disease.

WALTER HICKEL, of Alaska, named Secretary of Interior, came in as a Western Governor and self-made businessman, but by the time Democratic Senators got finished working him over, Mr. Hickel had just about gone over to the opposition. He was so mauled by the bees-and-butterflies conservationists that he talked like a gamekeeper instead of a developer of natural resources. Hickel was so eager to please the majority party that his future usefulness to the President became and remains doubtful. The Democrats, having beaten him into shape, decided to confirm him as one of their own.

THERE WERE just enough symptoms of the Hickel Disease in Donald Rumsfeld to cause concern. He was much too wordy to be impressive, much too cautious to show strength, much too unresponsive to the questioning to show what his convictions were.

ONE CONVICTION, at least, he had already abandoned. In 1964 he voted against the creation of the OEO, and in 1969 he was accepting appointment as its director. He explained this briefly, but not explicitly. Apparently, in '64 he was for a GOP-type anti-poverty program. By '67, however, he was going along with Shriver's war plans. Director Rumsfeld didn't seem to mind losing the Job Corps and Head Start from his empire. He said he was going to keep in touch with their progress under Secretaries Schultz and Finch. But it is virtually impossible for a man with Cabinet rank, as Rumsfeld will be given, to wear a hat-and-a-half unless he is going to be a mediator in other men's Departments. The Democrats on the committee appeared rather satisfied with this prospect. It seemed to tell them that, with Rumsfeld in there, they might own a piece of the action.

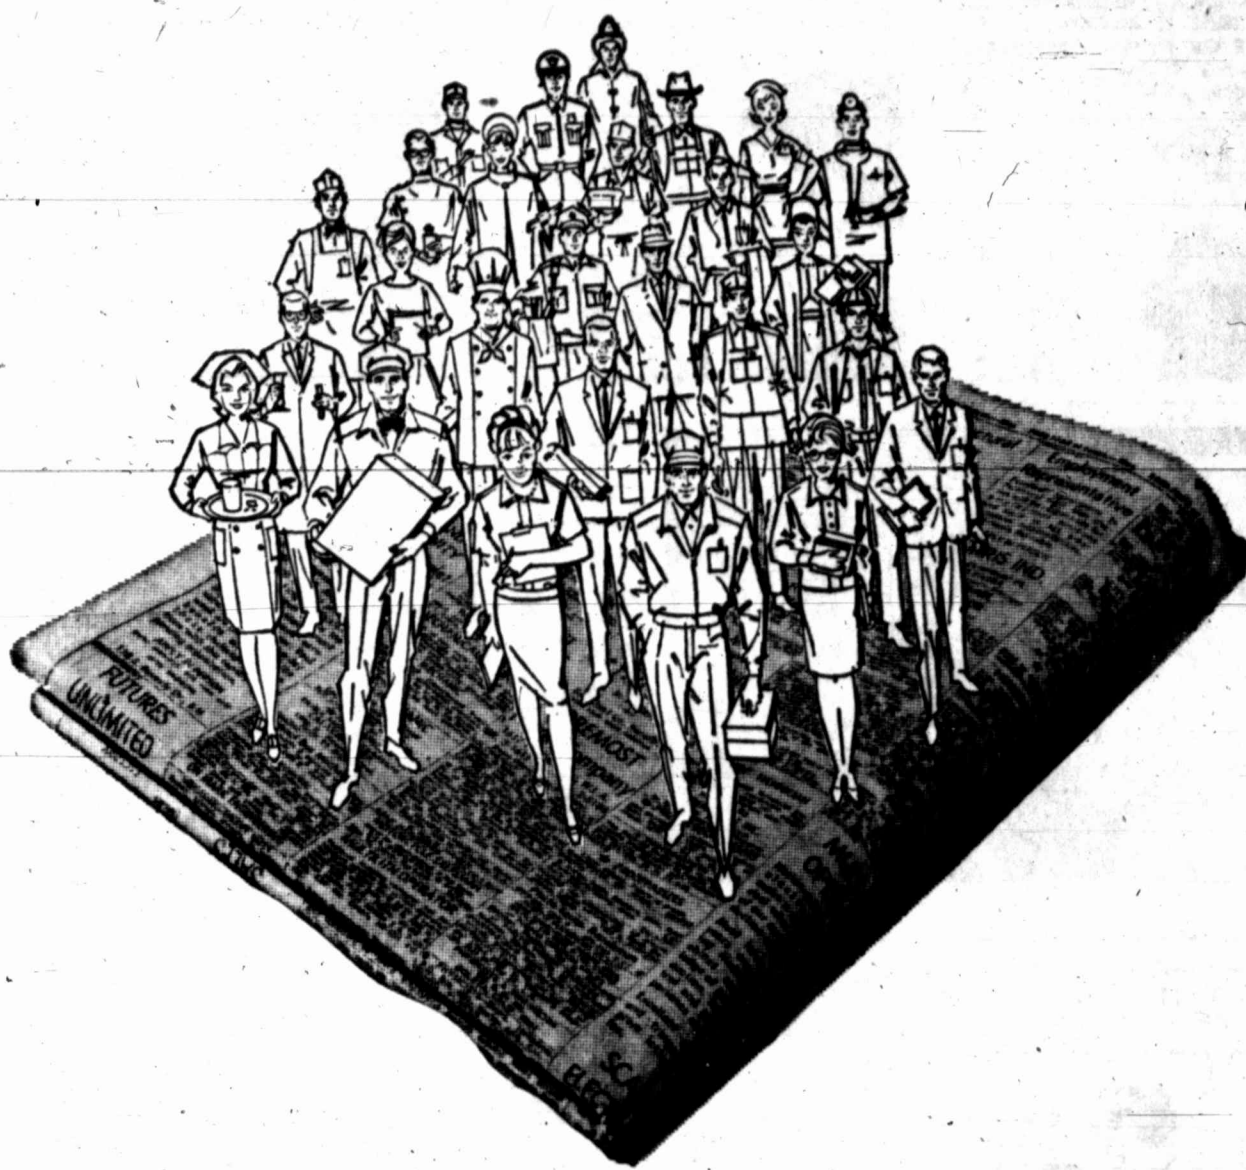

RUMSFELD is taking on a post which, under Shriver, very strongly reflected the ideas of the New Frontier and Great Society. That welfare-istic ideology contended that the commodities which make for Prosperity — money, food, housing, clothing, medical care, education — can be legislatively transferred from one group of Americans to another.

Theoretically, the Poor can be rendered non-Poor, but this theory has a missing link — it ignores the human equation. Shriver learned the Ghetto Rule: It's more blessed for the government to give than for the Poor intelligently to receive.

Maybe Rumsfeld will prove smarter than Shriver, but at this hearing he didn't seem to be stronger.

--TH' DADBURN TRASH!!

KERRY DRAKE

HOW ABOUT YOUR PROBLEM RELATIVE, SARGE? IS HE STILL FREE-LOADING AT THE "DRAKE HOTEL"?

MINNY'S BROTHER IS DOING FINE, JOHNNY-- HE'S BEING PAID. HE'S QUIT PLAYING THE HORSES AND IS HOLDING DOWN A GOOD JOB!

EITHER MY DUTCH UNCLE LECTURES PAID OFF, OR HIS NEW GIRL FRIEND IS KEEPING HIM IN LINE!

GET THE PHONE, WILL YOU, JOHN?

WELL, HOW ABOUT THAT? IT'S JIMMY NOW-- ASKING FOR YOU!

KERRY-- I, I'M BEING HELD AT THE SIXTH PRECINCT, ON A SUSPICION OF-- MURDER!

BEETLE BAILEY

I HOPE I'VE MADE MYSELF CLEAR!!

THERE IS TO BE NONE OF THAT CAMPUS JUNK AROUND HERE!!

YOU'RE IN THE ARMY!! YOU'RE NOT BEING PAID TO THINK! YOU'RE TO DO AS YOU'RE TOLD!

ANY QUESTIONS?

GENERAL, IF WE DO A GOOD JOB NOT THINKING IS THAT HOW WE GET TO BE A GENERAL?

PEANUTS

PSYCHIATRIC HELP 54

A DEPRESSED BIRD?

WHAT HAVE YOU GOT TO BE DEPRESSED ABOUT? YOU'RE NO DIFFERENT FROM ANOTHER BIRD-- STOP FEELING SORRY FOR YOURSELF!

REMEMBER... IT'S A BIG SKY!

RATS! THAT'S THE ONE THING WE PSYCHIATRISTS HAVE TO WATCH-- I CURED HIM SO FAST HE FLEW AWAY WITHOUT PAYING...

DICK TRACY

THAT'S THE SKETCH THEY SENT ME FIRST.

A 7-YEAR-OLD BOY PHONED ME, SAID HE FOUND MY DOG AND SENT ME THAT SKETCH TO IDENTIFY HIM.

BUT A MIDDLE-AGED CHARACTER DELIVERED THE DOG

AND IT COST ME $400!

I CONTEND NO 7-YEAR-OLD BOY COULD DRAW LIKE THAT!

MARY WORTH

THEN THE NAME OF THE GIRL'S FIANCE IS FAMILIAR, DENNIE?

NOW THERE'S A CLASSIC UNDER-STATEMENT! THE FINCASTLES ARE THE STATE'S FIRST FAMILY, GRANDMOTHER!

FROM OIL, BANKING AND REAL-ESTATE, PAPA IS RICHER THAN MIDAS! HE GAVE EACH OF THE BOYS TEN MILLION, TAX-FREE, AT 21.5. MAMA IS A POLITICAL POWER-HOUSE! SHE HAS ALREADY MADE ONE SON A SENATOR AND ONE A GOVERNOR.

THEY ARE BETTER KNOWN IN THE SOUTHWEST THAN THE MAN IN THE WHITE HOUSE!

...AND RUMOR HAS IT THAT MAMA IS GROOMING SENATOR ARTE FOR THAT LITTLE JOB SOME DAY!

REX MORGAN

DON'T YOU REMEMBER ME? I'M JASON! BARBARA IS MY WIFE! JAMES--- WAS YOUR HUSBAND-- BARBARA'S BROTHER.

THEN I AM LEA FOSTER

YES YOU ARE-- AND BARBARA WILL BE AS HAPPY AS I AM TO LEARN THAT YOU'RE WELL.

BUT SUPPOSE I DID KILL MY HUSBAND--

WHY THAT'S A LIES! YOU WOULDN'T KILL A FLY--

MR. WILSON, I'M AFRAID WE'LL HAVE TO HOLD MRS. FOSTER! I'D LIKE TO TALK TO YOU OUT IN THE CORRIDOR, PLEASE!

TERRY

YIKE! BUNCH OF SENIOR CITIZENS WITH ARTILLERY!

OLD STILL MAN... WHAT'S GOING ON, PRUMMOND?

THE TRIBAL ELDERS! THEY WOULD THINK OF ONLY ONE WAY OF DEALING WITH THIS--

STOP! NO BLOODSHED! HERDER POWER!

SMITTY

I WOUNDED HIS MIND ABOUT GOING UP TO THE OL' FARM.

I BETTER FORGET IT-- TOO MUCH WORK

I'VE GOT TO DO MANY THINGS TO DO HERE. IT'S GONNA BE A TIGHT SCHEDULE.

YES, I'VE GOT A WHOLE LOT OF WORK TO DO.

...I'VE GOT TO GO TO THE GOLF COURSE.

MOON MULLINS

ON AN ART KICK AGAIN, LADY P?

I FIND IT VERY STIMULATING.

THERE'S A PAINTING ON EXHIBIT IN TOWN THAT PROFESSOR BURRD AND I ARE TAKING WILLIAM TO SEE.

HOW CULTURAL.

DENNIS THE MENACE

MY I ENJOYED THE CHEESE CRACKERS I JUST ATE

SOLLY THERE ARE ENOUGH CRUMBS HERE IN BED TO ATTRACT HALF THE MICE IN THE COUNTY

GRANDMA

DON'T BE RIDICULOUS, DENNIS! YOU KNOW VERY WELL WE CAN'T SWITCH TO ANOTHER CHANNEL!

House Speaker Hints '73 Bid

AUSTIN (AP) — House speaker Gus Mutscher has publicly announced he plans to be yielding the gavel again next session. He hinted he may even be a candidate for speaker in 1973. A third term as speaker would be unprecedented in Texas history.

Mutscher broke into Thursday night's House proceedings to read a brief statement prompted by rumors he might call it quits after just one term.

He made it clear, too, he was trying to head off some of the jockeying to become speaker if he tires of the post or fails to get enough support to win reelection.

"I hold the pledges of support necessary to elect me to another term as your speaker, and it is my intention to exercise those pledges when the 62nd legislature convenes in January, 1971. In fact, I hold impressive support to serve as your speaker beyond that time," Mutscher said.

In an obvious reference to the various candidacies to succeed him, he said:

"If I did not intend to be here for several more years, I would not attempt to discourage anyone from succeeding me. But I am very hopeful that since you know my plans you will bring an end to the activities now taking place and that we can continue to perform the duties required of us."

Rumors circulated this week that Mutscher might not run again. Some attributed these to the desire of lobbyists to smoke out potential conservative candidates in the fear that Mutscher might be succeeded by someone less business-oriented than his is.

Among those who say they would like to be speaker when Mutscher leaves the powerful job are Reps. Rayford Price, Palestine; John Traeger, Seguin; Joe Ratcliff, Dallas; and Randy Pendleton, Andrews. Rep. R.H. Cory, Victoria, also has been mentioned.

Mutscher, 36, said he has no interest in running for statewide office.

Issues Challenge To New Officers

Johnny Ferguson of Lubbock, national president of the Ambucs, issued a challenge to Jim Butler, new president of the local chapter of the American Business Club and other incoming officers at swearing-in ceremonies conducted at the Big Spring Country Club Thursday evening.

Ferguson said the club had a grave responsibility in continuing to serve the community, adding:

"It is a challenging job to see that this is another banner year for the club in Big Spring."

Ferguson also urged as many local members as possible to plan on attending the Ambucs' National convention, which will be held in Mackinac, Mich., in July.

Other officers installed, in addition to Butler, included Ralph Barris, first vice president; Earl Pittman, second vice president; Ernest Lillard, third vice president; and Ernest Steel, Bill Estes and Dewitt Bunn, all sergeants-at-arms.

Bill Bradford, the outgoing president, lauded the co-operation extended him by club members during his year in office, adding that it was a rewarding experience.

Vocational Ed Spending Plan

AUSTIN (AP) — A plan for spending the state's $16 million federal allocation for vocational education was presented for the first time Thursday to leaders in business, industry and education.

Ed Redding of Houston, chairman of the new state Advisory Council for Vocational Education, said the program may have to undergo "massive" revision before it goes into operation.

"We still don't know how much the legislature is going to appropriate for this project," Redding said.

He said the 1970 program alone would cost at least $85 million.

John Guemple, assistant commissioner for Vocational Education, said the Texas Education Agency had identified certain areas of the state which most needed vocational-technical programs. These included economically depressed areas, those areas where unemployment is highest, metropolitan areas and areas with the highest rate of school dropouts.

"We found the southwest part of the state and east central portions had a lot of duplication in these areas," Guemple said.

He said the TEA had projected it could handle 510,000 vocational students next year if funds are approved for the program.

C. M. Allen, a TEA staff member, said the new project would include programs for persons in high school, those who had left or completed high school, adults already entered into the labor market and persons with academic, socio-economic and mental and physical handicaps.

Fighter-Bomber Dives To Desert

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — An F111A fighter-bomber crashed Thursday in the northeastern Arizona desert, the 11th of the $6 million, swing-wing planes to crash.

The two pilots, on a training mission from Nellis Air Force Base, ejected safely. Four other F111s based at Nellis have crashed.

Eleven men are dead or missing from crashes in the plane developed from the TFX program designed to serve both the Air Force and Navy. The Navy has scrapped its version, the F11B.

The Air Force contends the plane has a better safety record than other fighters.

American Legion members in the quiet riverside town of Damariscotta, Maine, were upset when new flags on graves of veterans soon developed holes and tatters. ## 'Hunger In America' Program Misleading

WASHINGTON (AP) — more likely to be the result of parental neglect than a lack of food.

Written accused newspapers and television stations of a lack of objectivity in reporting on hunger.

The investigators charged that a Columbia Broadcasting System television program a year ago, entitled "Hunger In America," falsely attributed the deaths of two infants to malnutrition.

And a report published last year by the Citizens Crusade Against Poverty, "Hunger, U.S.A.," is filled with inaccuracies and misstatements the report said.

The investigation was ordered a year ago by the House Agriculture appropriations subcommittee, which made the findings public today.

It substantiated many cases of hunger cited in the two reports. But Chairman Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., said the report showed that in cases where children are going hungry it is

Horoscope Forecast

TOMORROW
—CARROLL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Be careful in traveling today and this evening, for accidents could happen easily now. Make no commitments, whatever they could be, or upset anyone else. The arguments that would follow would result in separation and would never be entirely settled.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Be sure you follow through with any obligations you have toward others today. Take the time to improve both health and home. Avoid criticizing coworkers. Be more cooperative yourself.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Listening courteously to others instead of making snide remarks is best now. Be more affectionate. A smile can dispel the most difficult situation. Make it work in your favor.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid discussion at home of those points that always provoke some very difficult arguments. Keep busy outside the home. Shop or keep appointments. Trying to make your own repairs could prove costly right now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Particular care in driving or motion of any sort is wise right now. Avoid arguments with others. Think before you speak or you may say just the opposite of what you mean. Be careful of greedy individuals.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Much care in finances is important now, since you are too generous. Get busy making repairs around your house. Use your money wisely instead of giving it to the wrong persons.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't be pushy where some personal matter is concerned. Let things work quietly for you and you can get the right results. Avoid that close friend who has a chip on the shoulder. Improve your appearance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) All are depending upon you so much that you feel you have impossible responsibilities. Meet expectations and all will be fine. Success can come later if you assist others with their problems now. Be clever.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) This is not a good day to plan social and other affairs because the friends who accompany you usually enjoy are busy. Get interested in something constructive and worthwhile. Avoid persons who are undependable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Being overly independent with others could ruin your chances with others now, especially with some important higher-up. Be more efficient at your own line of endeavor. Talk less and accomplish more.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have fine ideas, but they need more study before you can put them in operation successfully. Forget that superficial idea proposed by an overly glamorous individual. Be smart.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You must carry through with that work that is expected of you even if it is hard to your liking. Pay those bills quickly and out obligations behind you. Make way for something big in the offing.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) You can reach a much better agreement with a partner now, but don't get into any new affairs you have in mind just yet. Get busy with your share of any work. Stop going off on tangents, as you have been doing for quite a while now.
