In Kansas City Apartment Fire Fatal To 12 Persons

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Twelve persons, including six believed members of one family, died early today as fire swept an apartment building and police began looking for a resident recently evicted from the building.

Police said a youth who rented an apartment in the building last Saturday was evicted Sunday for letting some friends move in with him was seen around the building on the south side of the downtown business district early today.

The young man had told the apartment building manager she would regret having thrown him out, authorities added.

Eight of the fire victims were children.

The blaze was discovered in the three-story, L-shaped brick structure shortly after 2 o'clock and burned out of control for about two hours.

Among the dead was five-month-old Harry Smith. His father, Lawrence Smith, 30, is in serious condition at General Hospital from injuries suffered, police said, when he jumped from the third floor with the child cradled in his arms.

Cornelius and Charles Twenter, brothers who live nearby were passing the building in a car.

Cornelius said "there was a man standing above the front porch screaming for help."

"We ran up the stairway of the building, knocking on doors and telling everyone to close their windows and shut the doors. The fire wasn't that bad then."

"But when the people opened the doors to escape," Twenter said "the draft swept up."

The apartment is owned by Mrs. Mary Cohen, 75, who said she bought the building about 12 years ago after it had been damaged in a fire.

She said the building contained 30 apartment units, but two were unused.

James Halloran, director of the fire department, said the blaze started around an abandoned elevator shaft at the rear of the building.

Fire Chief James Waas said the blaze could be seen from 67th street, a distance of 27 blocks and when firemen arrived at the scene flames had broken through the roof.

Police, firemen, the Twenter brothers and nearby residents helped evacuate people from the building.

Officers said 80 to 100 people were believed to have been in the building when the fire broke out. Many were able to walk unaided down the main stairway, others were carried down ladders from the second and third floors and some escaped down three of the four fire escapes in the building. The fourth was too near the fire, police said, to be used.

The three-alarm blaze was fought by 11 companies of more than 50 firemen. At one time 25 streams of water were thrown on the fire.

Firemen said the third floor was heavily charred by the blaze. The first and second floors suffered mostly smoke and water damage.

James Combs, who lived in a basement apartment with his wife and their four small children, said he "was awakened by the screams" of residents. He got his family to safety and then returned to help.

"My wife was trying to catch the kids dropping from the fire escape," a drop of about 15 feet, said Combs.

Police tentatively identified the six dead in one family as Rex Johnson and his wife, Tina, both 40. Rex Jr. age 7, his brother and two sisters.

Officers said the bodies of most of the victims were badly charred and positive identification would take some time.

In Collision At Sea

The USS Frank E. Evans, shown in 1967 off the coast of Vietnam, was sliced in two when she collided with an Australian aircraft carrier in the South China Sea about 650 miles southwest of Manila early today (Manila time). The destroyer's skipper, Cmdr. Albert S. McLemore of Vallejo, Calif., was reported among those rescued.

Nixon Assails 'Insurrection'

MADISON, S.D. (AP)—President Nixon assailed today "attempts at insurrection" in cities and colleges and declared the nation needs "the honesty of straight talk" and respect for traditional processes of peaceful change.

In an address prepared for delivery at General Beadle College, Nixon discussed, often in a philosophical vein, how to deal with a "deeply troubled and profoundly unsettled time" marked by campus revolt, racial discord, draft resistance, drugs and crime.

Taking a generally tough stance toward those who, as he put it, prefer coercion to persuasion, the President said, "The nation has survived other attempts at insurrection" and has the power to contain "the force and threats that have wrecked our cities, and now our colleges." Rather than emphasizing this, however, Nixon stressed what he termed are long-standing national values that have become clichés to the point where "we feel apologetic about espousing them."

In a summary passage in his address, prepared for delivery at the college's new Karl E. Mundt Library, Nixon said:

"The values we cherish are sustained by a fabric of mutual self-restraint, woven of ordinary civil decency, respect for the rights of others, respect for the laws of the community, and respect for the democratic process of orderly change. The purpose of these restraints is not to protect an 'establishment,' but to establish the protection of liberty; not to prevent change, but to ensure that change reflects the public will and respects the rights of all."

While decrying violent campus revolutionaries and faculty members who back them, the President said more heed must be paid to one of the great cries of young people: "I speak now of their demand for honesty: intellectual honesty, personal honesty, public honesty."

He said much of what appears to be revolt is simply "an attempt to strip away sham and pretense, to puncture illusion, to get down to the basic nub of truth."

Asserting the nation has seen "too many patterns of deception," Nixon said political life has produced "impossible promises," the advertising industry "extravagant claims," and business in general "shady deals." Deceits in personal life he added range from income tax cheating to frauds against insurance companies.

"In our public discussions," he said, "we sorely need a kind of honesty that has too often been lacking. The honesty of straight talk." Having long demanded financial integrity in public life, he said, "We now need a most rigorous kind of intellectual integrity in public debate."

Stating that many people have become impatient with the democratic process, he hit at those practicing coercion in campus revolts and said, "This sort of self-righteous moral arrogance has no place in a free community."

Ships Hunt China Sea For American Sailors

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — Navy ships crisscrossed the South China Sea off the coast of Vietnam today but failed to find more of 73 men missing after an Australian carrier hit a U.S. destroyer in two-

The bow section of the USS Frank E. Evans sank swiftly after it was rammed by the Melbourne during maneuvers about 240 miles southeast of Saigon just before dawn Tuesday Saigon time.

The Navy's latest figures listed one American sailor dead, 73 missing from the Evans, and 200 survivors, including the skipper, Cmdr. A. S. McLemore.

No casualties were reported on the Melbourne.

The Evans was a famed World War II destroyer which weathered a massive kamikaze attack in 1945. It was based at Long Beach, Calif.

The collision occurred during maneuvers by warships of the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization.

The survivors were taken aboard the Melbourne and later transferred to the USS Kearsarge, a carrier that rushed to the scene from its station 85 miles away.

The Melbourne, involved in a similar disaster on Feb. 10, 1964, headed for Singapore. Radio Australia said the ship was expected to arrive Thursday.

NOT KNOWN

Destination of the Kearsarge was not immediately known. But the Navy said one man in critical condition was flown to a U.S. hospital at Cam Ranh Bay, on the South Vietnamese coast 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

There was no report on how many of the destroyer's survivors were injured.

Search parties later boarded the aft section of the Evans, still afloat at last report, to recover classified documents and salvage what they could.

Adm. John J. Hyland, Pacific fleet commander, immediately ordered a court of inquiry into the collision.

There were no details on exactly how the disaster occurred.

The vessels were among some 40 warships of six SEATO nations taking part in the maneuvers, called "Sea Spirit." The maneuvers were cancelled after the collision.

SEAS CALM

The weather was clear, the seas calm and both ships were equipped with radar.

The destroyer, steaming nearby, had been escorting the carrier as it took on planes.

Then suddenly, in the darkness of 4:15 a.m., the 705-foot

Melbourne plowed right through the port side of the smaller, 376-foot Evans, slicing it in two.

The destroyer's bow sank in two minutes, but the aft section was towed by the Melbourne and kept afloat while survivors were taken aboard. There was no fire.

Later the hull was lashed to the U.S. destroyer Everett F. Larson, the Navy said.

The Melbourne was left with a gaping hole, four feet wide, about 12 feet above the water line. The carrier's forecastle and flight deck also were damaged, a spokesman said, and one catapult was rendered useless.

The first collision involving the carrier bears an eerie similarity to the latest disaster.

JINX

The 25,000-ton Melbourne knifed through the Australian destroyer Voyager off the coast of Australia on another clear night five years ago when the seas were also calm.

The Voyager's bow sank immediately. The rest of the ship went down in three hours. The toll: 82 dead, including the skipper.

That incident created a furor in Australia, but the Melbourne was finally absolved of any blame.

"I can't help feeling dismay that it happened again to the Melbourne," Australian Navy Minister Clive Kelly told Newsweek in Adelaide, Australia.

"A lot of people will look upon it as a jinx on the vessel."

The Evans was the seventh U.S. warship involved in a major accident at sea in less than three years. A total of 313 lives were lost in the six earlier accidents.

Fire Traps 35 On 34th Floor

DALLAS (AP) — A fire erupted on the 34th floor of the Republic National Bank Building in downtown Dallas today and trapped 35 to 40 persons.

They broke windows to breathe, and at least four persons were sent to hospitals with cuts caused when they smashed the windows.

The fire was adjacent to an American Airlines office complex and sent acrid smoke boiling down the corridors and into offices on three floors.

Those on the floors were trapped because the smoke made a dangerous curtain at the elevators.

The blaze broke out in a section which was unoccupied where workmen were making alterations. There was no furniture or other furnishings in that particular section.

All the halls on that floor were charred and burned.

The alarm was turned in at 10:20 a.m. and the fire was extinguished at 10:59 a.m.

"We have three floors completely involved in smoke," said battalion Fire Chief Hubert Paris who also gave the figure on persons trapped.

Firemen, using masks, led the trapped occupants to the elevators and escape. One fireman was overcome by smoke.

Some of the freed persons were visibly shaken by the experience.

The fire department sent 14 pieces of equipment and 60 men into the busy downtown streets.

The Republic National Bank is one of the largest in the South. The building is 35 stories high.

Brad Gibson, district manager for passenger sales for American Airlines, was in one of the offices on the floor where the fire took place.

"There was just a lot of smoke and we stayed in the office for I don't know how long," Gibson said.

"Then the firemen came up and took us out," he added.

Gibson said he knocked out

Burger Seeks Chief Justice Confirmation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice-designate Warren E. Burger declared today that the Supreme Court has no power to legislate or to amend the Constitution.

He asked that the Senate judge him on his record as a federal appeals court judge.

In a crowded, tightly guarded hearing room, Burger sought approval of the Senate Judiciary Committee as the successor to the retiring Earl Warren.

While southern Democrats, many of them bitter critics of the Warren court, joined in praising Burger, a heavy force of Capitol police stood guard against the threat of a Mexican-American to try to place him under citizen's arrest.

Reies Lopez Tijerina stood outside the hearing room, clutching a red-bound copy of "The Law of Arrest," declaring to anyone who would listen that Burger has violated the civil rights of minorities and the poor.

The room was crowded with lawyers, police, and invited guests, and the line of would-be spectators wasn't moving. The Judiciary Committee had belatedly switched from a larger hearing room, apparently for the sake of security.

Sens. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Judiciary Committee, escorted Burger into the hearing room through a side entrance.

As the hearing opened, Eastland asked Burger his view on the court's powers.

"Do you think the Supreme Court has power to amend the Constitution of the United States by judicial interpretation?" he asked.

"No, clearly no," Burger replied.

"Does the Supreme Court have power to legislate?"

"No court has that power," Burger said.

Argue Who Blocked Treasure Hunt Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Did Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler block passage of a bill designed to prevent persons from ruining Texas' archeological sites and carting off its sunken treasure?

Four House members said he did.

Sadler said he didn't, and scoffs at anyone who thinks he has that much power.

The legislators said an Indiana group which Sadler contracted to recover the gold and silver from a sunken Spanish treasure ship off Padre Island used sloppy methods.

The bill at issue would have set up a state agency to control treasure hunters such as those who recovered more than 300 pounds of gold and silver from the ship, which sank in a hurricane in 1553.

Sadler, the lawmakers said, failed or refused to let them see his signed contract with Plati-toro, Ltd., of Gary, Ind., to recover the treasure and give the state half the take.

Sadler told a newsman he could see it any time he wanted to.

The lawmakers accused Sadler of withholding from them a full inventory of the items taken from the ship.

"They have a copy of everything that was brought up. The same thing I have," Sadler said. But, he acknowledged, he had told a three-member House subcommittee he would not answer any more questions during a look at the treasure in an Austin bank vault.

"All they were trying to do was stir up something," he said.

Rep. Don Cavness of Austin, chairman of the House Governmental Affairs and Efficiency Committee, called the news conference at which the accusations were made.

Also attending were members of the subcommittee that worked on a bill setting up a state antiquities commission, Reps. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi, Jake Johnson of San Antonio and Joe Ratcliff of Dallas.

The committee's bill died in the House Rules Committee. A similar Senate-passed bill was sent to the House State Affairs Committee, where it also died.

Chairman of the state affairs panel is Rep. Rayford Price from Sadler's hometown, Palestine.

Ratcliff called Price "Mr. Sadler's own representative."

"Protege," added Mrs. Farenthold.

Sadler said he opposed the bills because he feared they would put "amateurs" to work on the Padre Island ship and at least two other Spanish vessels known to be resting on Texas-owned submerged lands.

County Commissioners Adopt Increased Land Value Plan

Howard County Commissioners Court Monday accepted, by unanimous vote, an increased tax valuation schedule on farm and ranch land.

The court approved the recommendation of Joe Pogue, evaluator for Davis and Wilson, the firm employed by the county and schools to revalue farm and ranch property.

Pogue suggested a schedule of $80, $70 and $60 an acre on cultivated land and $30, $20 and $10 on ranch lands.

The valuations are determined by the specific land involved. Productive land of the best quality will be rated at $80 and the less production and value shown will be reflected in lower figures on the rolls.

The new scale hikes the tax value on all kinds of rural property with the exception of the third classification of ranch pasture land which is left unchanged.

The old rate on cultivated land was $50, $40 and $30 and that on ranch lands was $18, $12 and $10. Pogue told the court that even with the augmented values that the tax valuation was less than 60 per cent of the true sale value.

This is the third schedule of valuations offered by Davis and Wilson since they began their survey of the county.

Pogue, in reply to a question from Dee Jon Davis, attorney for a group of farmers and ranchers who are opposing the revaluation, said the new values would bring in about $25,000 additional revenue to the county.

Lee Porter, county judge, said the commissioners court approved the schedule by a unanimous vote. Porter also pointed out that the county taxes are based on 25 per cent of the tax valuation.

The same rural land schedule of values for tax purposes has been adopted by the Big Spring Independent School district.

Bus Available For Dedication

A convenient bus trip to the new CRMWD reservoir at Robert Lee is available for Big Springers who plan to attend dedication of the new Lake E. V. Spence on June 14.

The Chamber of Commerce has arranged for such a bus, and is now taking reservations. The fare is $3 per person, and in addition barbecue tickets are available at the C-C office at $1.55.

The program is to begin on Saturday, the 14th, with a barbecue lunch served by the Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang, and the formal dedication ceremonies will be at 1:30. Congressman Omar Burleson is to be the principal speaker, and Mrs. E. V. Spence, widow of the late general manager of the CRMWD for whom the reservoir has been named, will unveil a marker.

Citizens from all West Texas are invited to attend the affair.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors (Red Coats) will go to the program in their own bus. Meanwhile, Tom Eastland, C-C manager, said he felt many others would like to use an air-conditioned bus and avoid the drive to the lake. He urged that reservations be made promptly. Those who do not take the bus are urged to get barbecue tickets at the Chamber of Commerce.

Texas Prosecutors Expect Ruling To Increase Work

By JIM BARLOW
Associated Press Writer

The amount of legal case work is liable to rise in the wake of the U. S. Supreme Court's decision to stop military trials for off-post crimes by servicemen.

This is the conclusion drawn by several Texas district attorneys, but others say they have already instituted the ruling handed down by the nation's highest court Monday.

In a 5-3 decision, the court overturned the conviction of an Army sergeant found guilty by a court-martial of attempted rape of a 14-year-old girl at a Honolulu hotel.

Associated Justice William O. Douglas, who wrote the majority opinion, said, "We have concluded that the crime to be under military jurisdiction must be service-connected."

Stanley Kacir, district attorney of Bell County in Texas, which includes Ft. Hood, remarked: "My first impression is one of shock when I think of the increase in business that we are going to have."

Kacir said circumstances determine whether civilian or military authorities try a case involving a serviceman. "I would estimate we have between 150-250 cases per year of every sort, particularly marijuana, that are turned over to the military for prosecution."

Kacir added that if a soldier commits a crime, such as burglary, against a civilian, then he tries the case.

"But my district judge feels that since the military is more familiar with the soldiers involved, he likes me to turn the case back over to the military."

San Antonio Dist. Atty. James Barlow said, "I've been expecting it (the decision). It's going to create a problem here."

There are many military posts in the San Antonio area, and Barlow said he handles major off-post crimes by servicemen. "But on a lot of minor crimes, we let the military clean their own house."

He said servicemen occasionally commit crimes to avoid being sent to Vietnam.

"On one occasion, just before a guy was supposed to ship out, he broke into the Alamo, then set the alarm off and waited for the officers. In that case, we just turned him over to the military and they shipped him out."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward Marquez of El Paso, site of Ft. Bliss, said the decision will have little effect.

"When crimes are committed in our community by military men, off-post, we go ahead and try the individual," he said.

"Our experience has been the military code is not as severe as the state penal code. A robber, for example, might get six months in the stockade, while he would get a minimum of five years in prison under state law."

In Wichita Falls, home of Sheppard Air Force Base, Dist. Atty. Jim Phagan says there will be little change.

"We handle military personnel just as we do civilians, if the crime is committed off the military reservation. In isolated incidents, we will turn cases over to them. But it is very much the exception to the rule," Phagan said.

Dist. Atty. Sam Cleveland of Palo Pinto County, which includes Ft. Wolters, said, "We don't have a great deal of trouble from persons at the fort."

And in Fort Worth, with nearby Carswell Air Force Base, Asst. Dist. Atty. John Brady said, "We don't look for any changes in our work load at all."

Proportionately, he said, military personnel do not commit a large number of crimes.

Court Gives Military Men Right To Civilian Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — You'll find very few Americans irrevocable enough to disagree with George Washington.

But the Supreme Court, which a lot of Americans find unduly irrevocable anyway, has turned its back on a policy set by The Father of His Country and given soldiers and sailors a right they never had before.

That right, established by 5-vote Monday, is to have the kind of trial other citizens are entitled to when they are charged with civilian crimes in peacetime.

Their fate for off-duty crimes unrelated to military duties should not be decided by courts-martial—which, Justice William O. Douglas observed, "are singularly inept in dealing with the nice subtleties of constitutional law."

Gen. Washington had a different view of how total military commanders' control over their troops should be.

He once wrote: "All improper treatment of an inhabitant by an officer or soldier being destructive of good order and discipline as well as subversive of the rights of society as well as a breach of military as civil law and as punishable by the one as the other."

Military authority already was undergoing severe legal stress before the court decided an Army sergeant charged with an off-duty attempted rape in a Hawaiian hotel in 1956 had a constitutional right to a civilian trial.

Air Force Capt. Dale E. Noyd is testing in a case now before the Court of Military Appeals, the right to refuse to obey a military order—an order that he train student fliers for Vietnam action. He bases his asserted right on his "ethical humanism" and his conscientious objection to the war.

In a separate case to be decided later this month by the Supreme Court, Noyd is also testing the military's right to have a man serve his sentence while he is still appealing his conviction.

Back in 1787, when the Constitution was written, there was little if any thought given to applying the Bill of Rights to the 500 men then in uniform.

Douglas' opinion for the Court recognized that the Constitution envisioned a special system of military courts in which not all the specific protections given other citizens had to apply.

But since the Korean War, the pressures on the military have grown intense. And the courts have loosened the military's disciplinary hold.

On Monday, five liberals—

"I've been trying most of the felonies—at least 90 per cent of them."

And in Fort Worth, with nearby Carswell Air Force Base, Asst. Dist. Atty. John Brady said, "We don't look for any changes in our work load at all."

Proportionately, he said, military personnel do not commit a large number of crimes.

Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justices Douglas, Hugo L. Black, William J. Brennan Jr., and Thurgood Marshall—gave servicemen accused of nonmilitary crimes two more civil rights.

They are the right to be prosecuted by indictment and the right to be tried by a jury of their peers. These rights, Douglas' opinion said, are not necessary elements of military trials.

"A civilian trial in other words, is held in an atmosphere conducive to the protection of individual rights, while the military trial is marked by the age-old manifest destiny of retributive justice," he said.

The case that now has changed the history of military justice involved former Army Sgt. James F. O'Callahan.

After a few beers off-post and off-duty with a buddy, he entered a Waikiki hotel and, as he confessed later, attempted to rape a 14-year-old girl.

He was court-martialed, sentenced to 10 years at hard labor and dishonorably discharged.

"There was no connection—not even the remotest one—between his military duties and the crimes in question," Douglas said.

"Civil courts were open. The offenses were committed within our territorial limits, not in the occupied zone of a foreign country. The offenses did not involve any question of the flouting of military authority, the security of a military post, or the integrity of military property."

In short, the Court concluded, O'Callahan was entitled to a civilian trial—whatever George Washington might have thought.

The 1968 tax returns, made public Monday by the Internal Revenue Service, disclosed the foundation began selling its stock in the controversial Parvin-Dohrman Co. last November. The firm owns three gambling casinos in Las Vegas.

The foundation reaped nearly $2.5 million from the sale—a gain of tenfold over the value listed in tax returns just four years ago.

The returns show the foundation was still tied to the firm at the start of this year through a $700,000 loan to Parvin-Dohrman.

The loan is believed to figure in an investigation of the foundation's tax status by the IRS.

Douglas' departure from the foundation was announced May 23 while controversy still shadowed Justice Abe Fortas' resignation from the Supreme Court in the storm over a $20,000 annual agreement with the family foundation of a jailed financier.

Foundation Buys Blue Chip Stocks

WASHINGTON (AP) — New tax returns show the foundation which Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas headed has cut most of its links with Las Vegas casinos and has switched its money to blue chip stocks.

Douglas, who resigned as president of the Parvin Foundation last month, received a total of $84,765 over the past seven years as its only paid officer, the records show.

Antipoverty Plans Pushed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration Monday proposed a two-year extension—not just one—for the federal anti-poverty agency and outlays of $2 billion the first year.

Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity told the House Education and Labor Committee that President Nixon has decided on the two-year extension rather than the one year he has mentioned in the past.

"The two-year extension, the President believes, will improve the management of this program by allowing longer-range planning and making possible more orderly and efficient allocation of funds," Rumsfeld said.

The OEO is due to go out of business July 1 unless Congress extends the authorizing legislation. Chairman Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., favors a five-year extension for the anti-poverty agency.

Rumsfeld said evaluation of anti-poverty programs has been neglected and will have high priority under the Nixon administration.

"The two year extension, he said, is not a commitment simply to continue present programs."

"It is a commitment to find out what works and what does not, to review the performance of these programs and to utilize new knowledge," he said.

Rumsfeld revealed that he has appointed a number of study teams to examine critical issues facing his agency.

One of these issues, he said is the relationship between community action programs and the Model Cities program administered through the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"The need for close coordination and cooperation between these two programs is of a high priority to the administration," he said.

A second major issue Rumsfeld said is the role of state governments in anti-poverty programs.

"I believe we can find new and better ways to involve these states in dealing with the problems of poverty," he said.

A Devotional For The Day

"The Son of man came to seek and to save the lost. (Luke 19:10, RSV)

PRAYER: Eternal God, our heavenly Father, forgive our foolish ways. It is all so simple, yet we have persisted in making it difficult. Open our eyes and our hearts to the way of Christ so that our wanderings may cease and we will be at home with You, in our Savior's name. Amen.

Hope Of Help

The 1968 federal aid crime control act recognized as a key need better organized, trained and equipped police forces. That act will help to improve state and local forces through the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, with its research arm, the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice.

Already the institute director, Henry S. Ruth, has been able to pinpoint and begin correcting a major flaw in crime control. That is the lag in developing technology — in contrast to the money-fused Pentagon's advances in defense technology — for more effective police work. Industry has had little profit incentive for developing new crime-fighting tools, as well as the handicap of having to deal with tens of thousands of unrelated police systems in promoting their use if it did. Now the federal crime-control administration and research institute offer a focal point for both, and Director Ruth reports aroused industrial interest.

The development of improved crime-control technology, with better police training and organization to apply it most effectively, undoubtedly will do far more to check the rising crime rate than any changes in criminal law. This is where the emphasis for public safety should be put, and to a promising extent now is being put.

Handle With Care

Undoubtedly stricter governmental regulations are needed regarding some activities of tax-exempt private foundations, particularly to prevent abuses of the exemption privilege. However, Congress should be careful in drafting such regulations to avoid either intentionally or unintentionally handicapping the good works of reputable foundations which may have displeased some politicians on Capitol Hill.

An example of what raises the word of caution is a phrase in the tax-reform package prepared by the Nixon administration and now under study in the House Ways and Means Committee. This provision would prohibit a private foundation from "engaging in activities directly affecting political campaigns."

On cursory reading that may seem to mean that tax-exempt foundations should not throw the weight of their wealth to either side in a partisan election contest or support any particular candidate or ticket. If that is all it means, there could hardly be any quarrel with the provision. But is that the way the Internal Revenue Service, which has at times been rather capricious in such judgments, or even the courts, would finally read it?

The provision is subject to the possible interpretation that private tax-exempt foundations could not support voter-registration drives to promote more participatory democracy. That is not a partisan activity, but it could affect some political campaigns. And what about foundation-financed research materials on such issues as civil rights, urban problems, education, and foreign policy, which are non-partisan but usable in political campaigns? Business associations, labor unions, veterans' organizations and other groups use untaxed funds for such purposes, so it would be doubly discriminatory if foundations without an ax to grind should be singled out for any such prohibition.

The big tax-exempt foundations have taken some hard lumps of criticism recently, in many instances deserved, but Congress should be sure that any new regulations imposed are purely in the public interest and not a subtle form of retaliation by political powers.

Follow These Simple Rules, My Boy

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dear Poor Man's Philosopher: I am graduating from college this week and have already ordered a frame for my sheepskin. 'Now I'm trying to figure out what to do next. Would you mind telling me how I can live a long and happy life?'

Dear Wondering:

Certainly, my boy. It's easy to tell someone else how to live a long and happy life. Doing it oneself, of course, is quite another matter.

you find you simply cannot live any longer without. Here are some further general rules that should help bring you success and health:

If you find you simply can't stand the line of work you're in, quit while you're young and go into one you can stand.

Don't call your boss by his first name unless you marry his daughter or he has been calling you by your first name for at least five years.

Lend or borrow money only when you must do so to keep your own self-respect.

WORK FOR only a few good causes. If you try to work for every worthwhile cause, you'll fritter yourself away.

Read a new book or an old poem at least once a week, get eight hours of sleep every night and walk three miles every day.

Keep out of jail yourself, and teach your children to stay out, too.

If you follow these simple rules, my boy, you should live to be 100, and die solvent. If you don't, well, it won't be your fault or mine either.

Place In The Sun Costs

HONOLULU (AP) — "I know Hawaii has the nation's highest cost of living," the housewife told her husband.

"But this is ridiculous!"

The woman, a recent arrival, had just paid $8 cents for a head of lettuce that would have cost 20 cents in Los Angeles.

A tourist may grumble about the high cost of a Hawaii holiday while sipping a $1.30 beer in Waikiki. But it's the Hawaii resident who pays the highest premium for a place in the sun.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, the Island State has the highest food prices in the nation. And just about everything else.

An executive transferred here was shocked to learn the dingy, rat-trapped home he had just inspected would cost $323 a month.

"I wouldn't even live in it for $100," he told the landlady. She shrugged confident the house would be rented within the week.

With limited housing and no rent controls, finding a place to live is a new resident's biggest headache.

Lt. Gov. Thomas P. Gill disclosed a recent survey that found only seven homes out of every 1,000 in the Honolulu housing market are available to house hunters.

IN A REPORT made March 26, Gill said the average price of a home in Hawaii had jumped about $12,000 since 1960. The average price of a single-family dwelling was $28,477, compared to a national average of $15,970.

"We can clearly demonstrate that the market price of a single-family home in Hawaii is from 50 to 100 per cent higher than similar housing on the mainland," the report concluded.

The pineapple industry is Hawaii's No. 1 money-maker, behind the military and tourism, and yet a can of sliced pineapple costs up to 11 cents more here than on the mainland.

A newspaper survey found a market less than 2,000 feet from the gate of Dole's Oahu cannery selling No. 2 cans of sliced pineapple for 39 cents. In Baltimore identical cans of the Dole Hawaiian product sold for 37 cents.

While the national cost-of-living surveys give Honolulu the honors, behind San Francisco, New York and Chicago, they ignore the Neighbor Islands that comprise the State of Hawaii.

Actually, Honolulu is not the nation's costliest city. That title belongs to Wailuku, on the Island of Maui, the hub of the state's sugar cane industry.

Most of the large mainland companies give employees a 10 per cent cost-of-living salary increase when they are transferred here. Persons stationed in Hawaii with the military receive "overseas pay."

Who Should Get German Measles Vaccine?

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.
(Second of two articles)

A reader inquired yesterday, among other things, "I have heard that just being in contact with someone who has German measles can harm the baby, even if the mother does not get the disease."

For practical purposes, yes. Technically, no — but practically, yes. The seeming contradiction comes about thus:

There is no way for the disease to reach the fetus, or unborn baby, except through the mother. Therefore the mother must have the disease first.

However, and this occurs in a substantial number of cases, the mother's case may be asymptomatic. That is, she "has German measles," but so mildly that there are no symptoms or almost none. The fetus, though, can contract the disease and be damaged by it.

That's the insidious thing about German measles. In a child or adult it is a minor illness. But it is in the unborn baby, the fetus in the early formative stages, that German measles (rubella) wreaks such havoc — deafness, faulty eyesight, mental retardation, heart defects.

When the vaccine becomes amply available, women of child-bearing age may well consider having the vaccine, if they have not had rubella, but this should be done with due consideration. First, there is no point in vaccinating all women, but only those who have not had the disease. Further, Dr. William Stewart, the U.S. Surgeon General, already has issued guidelines for use of the vaccine. Women should be given the vaccine only if they agree to avoid becoming pregnant for at least two months.

The vaccine of a live-virus type, requires time to produce immunity. In that interval, it could harm the fetus if the woman were pregnant. That's why the vaccine must not be given to a pregnant woman even if she is known to have been exposed.

The real answer is in vaccination of youngsters — the Surgeon General's guidelines recommend it "for boys and girls between the age of one year and puberty."

That way "pools" of the disease, or epidemics, can be prevented, just as has happened with smallpox, polio, and other diseases, and is being accomplished with ordinary measles.

By preventing epidemics among children, even the pregnant woman who is not immune will be far safer than she is today.

Finally, what is to be done about the pregnant woman who has been exposed to German measles? Immune globulin, given immediately, may help avoid trouble, as mentioned yesterday.

But since that is not a certain protection, exposure to rubella at a strategic time in pregnancy is being regarded as reason for therapeutic abortion.

Obviously this involves the question of one's religious convictions. Likewise if the exposure has occurred late in the pregnancy, rather than early, there is small chance of the baby being harmed. Therefore can give no flat answer to this question, except to urge that the decision be made only on the basis of thoughtful consideration of the various circumstances.

The Trash Pile Is Still There

I dig this cleaner city jazz. The difficulty is how does one do his part if he can't get the rubbish and trash he has collected from his property hauled away?

Take the case of the Blackburn family who live out on Pennsylvania. They love making their little house look as attractive as it can possibly look. As a result, they have spent a lot of money and a lot of work planting and nourishing shrubs, trees and flowers to enhance its appearance.

WHEN YOU have trees, shrubs, etc., and keep them neat you do a lot of trimming and shaping. This means a lot of rubbish — limbs, leaves, dead plants and so forth.

We accumulated a sizable mountain of the stuff. Since then more and more has been added.

Not owning a truck, I called the city hall for help. What can I do to get the stuff removed? I asked. I was assured that if I was patient it would be taken away. I waited a month or two and called again. Yes, indeed, if I would be patient, it would be taken care of.

WELL, THINGS wagged along until last week. To my delight, I saw one of the city trash trucks making its way along my alley in mid-afternoon. It stopped at a neighbor's and the hands began gathering up the trash she had — trash identical with my own small Matterhorn.

I was sure my problem would be solved.

THE TRUCK rolled on to my back fence. The alley makes a right-angle turn at that point. The driver had to maneuver very carefully to make the turn. In doing so, two of the truck wheels ran over the base of my trash pile. But the truck did not stop. It drove on to another house, where a pile of rubbish (like mine) awaited. The crew began loading.

Seeing a little red, I hiked over to the truck.

"How come you passed my trash up?" I demanded.

The driver waved a handful of pink slips at me.

"Your address ain't on these orders," he told me.

"Well," I said, "what the heck difference does that make? Couldn't you have gotten that trash when you passed by?"

He mumbled something, and walked off.

I CALLED the city hall and spoke very plainly on how I felt about this episode.

I asked several pointed questions. Why, I demanded, had I been given the runaround for three months? Was it good sense, I asked, to send a truck and crew out to clean up an alley where there is trash at the rear of nearly every house and then pick up only here and there?

Wouldn't it have been good sense and practical economy to have cleaned up the entire alley of its accumulated rubbish at one trip — regardless of whether there were pink slips on hand or not?

WOULDN'T it cost considerably more to send a crew out to pick up the piles which were passed by — or was it intended, never to ever pick up these piles in the first place?

And finally, I demanded what does the city have in mind as fitting punishment for me if I set a match, to that trash and get rid of it by fire?

I really didn't get any effective answers.

Losing Ground In Latin America

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's Latin-American policy is as flat as a bankrupt pocketbook. Hemisphere-watchers in Washington are grim as they tick off the debits.

There's Cuba: The State Department has 15 million State-side applications from persons who want their kin brought to the United States. The steady flow of the refugee airlift doesn't begin to provide escape for the disoriented, and Cubans are daily risking their lives to flee in open boats and rafts.

If the Administration had a liberation policy, it's quite possible that a Hungarian-type revolution would break out, and that Castro's troops would refuse to fire on the uprising. But our government has no plans to take advantage of the potential insurrection which has resulted from Castro's terrorism and the failure of his promises.

The Cuban economy, once self-sufficient in meats and fruits and vegetables, in coffee, sugar and tobacco, is now one of scarcity and ration-books. Everything salable is being exported. The spare parts for transport vehicles and farm machinery are 29 days away in Russia. The Soviets seldom can supply the replacement goods which used to come in 24 hours from the United States. The Sugar cane curtain is cracked wide-open, but we are without an entering wedge.

THERE'S THE Organization of American States: The prognosis is that, practically speaking, we are on the way out of the OAS, and Cuba is on the way in. For years our diplomats have entreated the Latins to "speak with one voice," and unhappily that voice is now all-tee-uned in demands which will be heard during June, at meetings in Trinidad. Gabriel Valdez, foreign minister of Chile, spokesman for the Latin Secretariat, has a long list of trade and aid demands which Congress is very unlikely to meet. Castro has ceased to be a clear and present threat to the South American neighbors, and they are inclined to take him back into the fold.

IT IS ESTIMATED in Washington that out of nearly eight million Cubans, no more than 75,000 are hard-line Castroites. The jokes about him and his socialist state are caustic.

There's Nelson Rockefeller: His whirlwind circus tour, with a retinue of 110 experts and reporters who "inspect" each country in an airport stopover, has infuriated the Latin Americans. Rockefeller spells his name Standard Oil Company, says one hemisphere-watcher, and that's the man Mr. Nixon sends to make an objective report.

THERE'S THE PARADOX: The Cuban people by 1968 had achieved just about everything which the Alliance For Progress is now offering as its program. They had social welfare projects, and a growing land reform. They had the strongest economy of any country in the OAS other than Mexico and the United States. There is little to choose between Batista and Castro in the field of civil liberties, but Cuba was prosperous in the orbit of the Yankee dollar and today is miserable in the Soviet orbit.

The informed opinion is that everything must get worse in Cuba before anything gets better — if it ever does.

The Revolution At Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — An obliging legislature having changed three holidays during the year to fall officially on Monday, this state alone among the 50 observed Memorial Day on May 26, thereby making a long weekend.

For Harvard the weekend was a respite, a trace of sorts after the shattering storm — the bust as it is called locally — that left the university divided into hostile factions. The 4 a.m. police action to end a sit-in in University Hall stirred passions such as fair Harvard had never known before.

THE FEAR is that the storm will break again on Commencement Day, June 12. Whether Harvard will ever be the same is being asked — hopefully by the student left determined to break up the old power structure, and despairingly by many who see the precedent of disruption and violence setting a pattern that will make it impossible to return to the tranquility of the past when Harvard stood, as all Harvard men believed with no undue humility, in the forefront of scholarship and research.

ON THIS LAST week weekend before the end of school the Harvard Yard was quiet. For many exams are still to come and, with that the excitement of rallies, protests, and demonstrations, a lot of extra cramming was going on to make up for lost time.

But the weekend was not all cramming mixed with la dolce vita. Students for a Democratic Society were out on the street corners pushing their radical bi-weekly, The Old Mole. The name is taken from the quotation from Karl Marx on the masthead, "We recognize our friend, our old mole, who knows so well how to work underground, suddenly to appear: The Revolution." Mole is shrewdly, even brilliantly, edited, to exploit all the discontents of the young.

CLICHE THOUGH it is, generation gap says more about what is happening in universities and colleges across the country than anything else. The alienation at times seems to be total. The young have little to say to their elders.

This reporter came on an incident on Cambridge Common that dramatized the alienation with a theatricality that would give a professional dramatist pause. A tall man wearing the uniform of the Disabled American Veterans stood arguing in a closely packed knot of the young. On his overseas cap was the legend Sr. Vice Commander Disabled American Veterans of Massachusetts.

THE YOUNG were mostly hippie types, bearded, long hair. Cambridge is attracting hippies from all over the country as San Francisco once did. Three men and one young woman had faces painted dead white with symbols around the eyes and mouth, part of a street theater. They were no hostile to the tall veteran so much as contemptuous.

"I suppose you call yourself a hero, do you?" one of the young men, more conventionally dressed than the others, said.

"No, I don't call myself a hero," the veteran replied. "I was in the Korean War. I was shot up a bit."

"Why did you go?"

"I went because it was my duty."

"WOULD YOU say what Stephen Decatur said?" This from one of the painted faces. "My country, may she always be right, but my country right or wrong."

"Yes, I would say that."

"So even if your country wasn't right, like in Vietnam, you'd go out and shoot 400 gooks."

This brought derisive laughter. A bit later the veteran called it off and shrugged his way out of the crowd. No, he wouldn't give his name. He didn't want publicity. He just wanted to see if you could talk to these people. He couldn't.

Billy Graham

Are there any passages in the Old Testament that have any promises of immortality, resurrection and life after death? B.N.

Isaiah 25:9 gives the passage Paul referred to in I Corinthians 15:54, which reads, "He will swallow up death in victory." In Isaiah 25:19, it reads, "Thy dead men shall live, together with my dead body shall they arise. Awake and sing, ye that dwell in the dust; for thy dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth shall cast up the dead." Bible translators supplied the word — and, put it in italics. It is thus correct to read, "Thy dead shall live."

The Book of Daniel 12:2 speaks of the resurrection of the righteous to "everlasting life." Hosea 13:14 assures that: "I will ransom them from the power of the grave; I will redeem them from death; O Death, I will be plagued; O Grave, I will be thy destruction."

Immortality in the mind of the Greek philosopher was quite a different thing from the Hebrew understanding of Resurrection. The former meant a continuation, but St. Paul makes it clear, I Corinthians XV 51-54, that the righteous and redeemed of all ages looked forward to the immortality assured in resurrection. This involves death and rising again into life as pledged by Christ on the first Easter day.

A LOVELIER YOU Magic Of Perfume Works Miracles

By MARY SUE MILLER

The belief that perfume has magical powers is rooted in history. It is recorded that the ancient Romans burned woody incense and offered up the fragrant smoke to their gods. Our work perfume comes from the Latin words "per" and "fumare," meaning through smoke.

The character of perfume is, of course, much changed. It now takes many forms and the modern lovely is the object of its affortory. Still, it has lost none of its mystique. It works the same old magic.

When you wear fragrance you look lovelier because you feel lovelier. What's more, you add a fourth dimension to your presence that others find intriguing and memorable.

If you are casting about for a finishing touch to your new costume, nothing could perform better than a springtime fragrance. A fresh, delicate scent would infuse your approach with an air as delicious as the season's. Why, you can scarcely afford not to wear one!

Admittedly, the smallest flacon has its price. But when you consider the value received, you come to think that fragrance really is priceless. Besides, fine perfume is compounded of the costliest attars. It takes two tons of hand-picked rose petals to extract one pound of attar!

Small wonder perfume makes us feel special. It's the stuff of tradition, magic, and precious essence.

Hard Rains Playing Tag

By The Associated Press
Gusty thundershowers played tag through parts of West, South and East Texas this morning, and showed signs of spreading toward the north and east.

The shower activity, with occasional thundershowers as well as the northern half of the state, was expected to continue into Wednesday as the latest cool front gradually played out.

Early this morning the frontal system lay across South Texas along a line linking Victoria, San Antonio and Del Rio. Forecasters looked for it to drift a little back toward the north while dissipating.

Hard rains fell here and there in the Lower Rio Grande Valley during the night, prompting the Weather Bureau to post a warning against possible flash flooding in Hidalgo and Starr counties.

As much as 1.63 inches of rain fell at Rio Grande City, but there were no reports of high water in that area.

There also were locally heavy thundershowers in the Big Bend country of far West Texas, and the sighting of a tornado whirling harmlessly through a remote area 55 miles southeast of El Paso was reported Monday afternoon.

Still more showers cropped up this morning in a Panhandle Plains sector embracing Dalhart, Perryton, Amarillo, Childress, Plainview and Lubbock, in the area from Wichita Falls toward Eastland in West Central Texas, and from Tyler in East Texas and near College Station to Brownwood and Seymour toward the west.

Cooler air flowing into the state behind the retreating front kept temperatures comfortable in many areas Monday, but top marks ran as high as 96 degrees at Presidio in the always warm Big Bend. Dalhart was the coolest spot with a high of 73.

BILL REVISING DIVORCE LAWS SENT TO GOVERNOR Legislators Adjourn, Wonder

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas legislators were home, or on the way, today, wondering whether the one-year spending bill they passed is a ticket for re-election or just another trip back to Austin.

Gov. Preston Smith was the silent conductor, not letting on what he planned to do with the $2.85 billion general appropriations measure he says does not please him.

Senators beat House members by a few minutes Monday in calling it quits just after 4 p.m. giving lawmakers some daylight hours to start their homeward treks.

Senators beat House members by a few minutes Monday in calling it quits just after 4 p.m. giving lawmakers some daylight hours to start their homeward treks.

Speaker Gus Mutscher called the session a "successful" one. Barnes and Mutscher were the leaders in gaining legislative approval of the one-year state budget over the protests of Smith, who favored a two-year spending measure.

The speaker and lieutenant governor insisted that Texans are in no mood for a major tax bill—which they said a two-year bill would require—and legislators' chances for re-election would be much better with the one-year, no-tax proposal on their record.

Mutscher said he "remained convinced" that the one-year budget bill "was the right decision, prompted by the desire to write the appropriations bill for the second year of the coming biennium, and the accompanying tax bill, at a time closer to the beginning of that year."

Smith's hints that he might veto the one-year spending bill grew stronger as the legislature ended.

who is 55, and Charles Wilson of Lufkin, 36.

MARRY AT 19
The House approved several major bills, which now go to the governor. They included a measure revising Texas' marriage and divorce laws to allow no-fault, uncontested divorces on grounds of incompatibility and to permit men to marry at 19 without their parents' consent.

Another bill would put promotional games and contests under state regulation.

Numerous special study committees to bring reports to the 1971 legislature were set up, including groups to look into employe-employer relations welfare reforms, auto liability insurance, tax structures for public school districts and urban affairs, concentrating on slubs.

Rep. Henry Sanchez of Brownsville was named House "rookie of the year" by other members for his work this session.

Efforts for other new state colleges in Texarkana, Corpus Christi, Tyler, Victoria and Clear Lake fell by the wayside.

Public school accomplishments included authorization for bilingual instruction through the 6th grade and new emphasis on vocational-technical training in schools.

Nine proposed changes in the state constitution, including one that would trim all dead wood out of the 1876 document itself, will be presented voters Nov. 3 this year.

The other proposals include a plan for annual legislative sessions, increasing the state's public welfare ceiling from $60 million to $80 million, and authority to issue $3.5 billion in bonds to back the Texas water plan.

More than half a dozen constitutional changes will be voted on Nov. 3, 1970, headed by the statewide vote on liquor by the drink.

BY A LOT OF TEXANS FOR LONG TIME Unfinished Business Will Be Remembered

AUSTIN (AP) — The 61st Legislature will be remembered good and bad, by a lot of Texans for a long time.

And some of the session's unfinished business will be remembered for a long time also.

Senators and Representatives, particularly Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Speaker Gus Mutscher, hope Texans will remember them next election time for promoting a one-year appropriations bill, without new taxes, for the next year.

State college students and their parents who might have to ante up an extra $10 a semester "use fee" to help finance the one-year budget will be remembered also.

Let's look at some of the other accomplishments that have statewide effect:

—A minimum wage law, Texas' first.

—Kindergartens for all 5-year-olds beginning in 1970.

—Automobile inspections that cost 25 cents more with exhaust controls added.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my 85-year-old father. There are five of us children still living, but I am the oldest and his "favorite" with whom he has lived since Mamma died 14 years ago.

Before Mamma died I promised her I'd never put Papa in a home.

Papa has money and has provided generously for all his children and grandchildren (the claims) and he keeps reminding me that in his will he has taken "extra good" care of me because I've taken "extra good" care of him.

I can honestly say that Papa has never been any trouble until about a year ago when he started putting his hearing aid batteries in my egg compartment and took to putting his house slippers in my freezer.

DEAR MANCHESTER: If he calls you "Agnes" it's a pretty safe bet he wouldn't object to a "stranger" relieving you for a 24-hour watch. Give it a try.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's secretary calls him "TIGER," and he calls her "KITEN."

Believe me, he is plenty behind in his homework, so I don't think I have much to worry about in that department, but what do you make of it?

Power To Change Is Available, Church Told

BOSTON, Mass. — The power to bring concrete change that characterizes the life of Jesus is still available to society, some 10,000 Christian Scientists were told at the denomination's annual meeting Monday.

"That same Christ-power is inexhaustibly present today, to be manifested in healing the world's ills just as directly as when Jesus was on earth — and just as radically," said Inman H. Douglass, chairman of the Christian Science board of directors.

"What Can We Do for Our World?" is the theme that will be developed in a series of greetings and workshops continuing through Thursday.

He urged Christian Scientists to turn their attention to the welfare of all mankind. The starting point, Douglass said, is a commitment to daily devote specific study and prayer to the healing of world problems.

Internal progress on the part of the individual impels outward progress, Douglass said. "And it's the most meaningful, the most effective way to advance orderly social change."

The example of the power of the Christ in the life of Jesus offers a "striking challenge to all Christians and to every Christian church, including our own, a challenge to bring that same spiritual power to bear on all the individual and social problems of the world."

LEFT POLICE DANDY CLUE

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A man struck by a hit and run driver left police a pretty good clue on the car that hit him: his pants pocket with wallet and identification.

Officers said they arrested Eve Branch, 55, of nearby Torrance a few blocks away from the accident scene Monday and found the wallet still in the pocket hanging from her car's dented fender.

She was booked on suspicion of felony hit and run driving.

Officers said the victim, Air Force Maj. Frederick B. Hagerman, 49, of Redondo Beach was admitted to South Bay District Hospital in satisfactory condition.

Carlos May Unloads Dramatic Homer

By DICK COUCH
By The Associated Press
There's nothing half-baked about Chicago's Sweetroll Kid. Before long, he might be the hottest biscuit in baseball's swinging May family. Carlos "Sweetroll" May, whose older brother, Lee, hits home runs for Cincinnati, poked his first grand slam homer of his brief major league career Monday night, culminating a six-run eighth-inning rally that thrust the Chicago White Sox past Boston 6-4.

May, who hit 290 last season with 22 homers and 80 RBI, looked it up. "But Carlos has a better swing in maybe two years he'll pass Lee," Seattle's Mike Hegan cracked him 29 RBI in 35 games and a single to move into the No. 6 spot in the AL batting derby with a .304 mark as the Pilots slammed Cleveland 8-2. California beat Denny McLain and the Detroit Tigers 3-1; Minnesota nipped the New York Yankees 3-2 on Harmon Killebrew's three-run homer and Washington edged Kansas City 7-6 in other AL action.

Morton's Beats Bariod, Reed's Noses Out Snyder

Morton's clubbed Bariod Division into submission 10-0, and Bill Reed insurance edged Snyder 2-1 in the City Softball League play Monday evening at City Park.

May, nicknamed "Cupcake" and then "Sweetroll" by White Sox teammates because of his butterball physique, smacked 10 homers before celebrating his 21st birthday on May 17. He had hit just 13 last season at Lynchburg, while leading the Class AA Carolina League with a .330 average. The 6-foot, 205-pound left-handed swinger had failed to connect in 14 games prior to Monday night. But he unloaded into the faraway right field seats at Fenway Park against southpaw Sparky Lyle in the eighth.

Tigers Beat Back Odessa

The Big Spring Tigers pushed over a run in the eighth to defeat the Odessa Dorados in Odessa Sunday, 7-6. Odessa threatened with a walk and a hit in the bottom of the ninth but Flemons put out the fire and got credit for the victory.

Hegan, a good-field first baseman-outfielder who batted 136 for the Yankees in his only previous full season of the majors, drove in three runs with his fifth and sixth homers as the Pilots battered Cleveland. He hit one home run in 86 games with New York.

CANYON — West Texas State, with its best season in nearly 25 years behind it, announced a 25-game basketball schedule for 1969-70.

Coach Dennis Walling said at least four home games will be played in the new Amarillo Civic Center Coliseum. They will be Weber State on Jan. 24, New Mexico State on Jan. 27, Utah State on Feb. 26 and Houston to close the season on March 2.

The Buffaloes won 18 of 26 games last season and played in the National Invitation Tournament in New York. West Texas split home-and-home games with Weber State and New Mexico State, both of whom advanced to the NCAA playoffs, and defeated Houston, a national power in recent years, last season.

Home games in Canyon will be with Eastern New Mexico, defending NAIA national champions, Hardin-Simmons, Pan American, Samford, Southwestern Louisiana, Northern Arizona, Trinity, Texas-Arlington, Houston Baptist and Athletes in Action.

West Texas also has tough road trips to Utah State and Weber State Dec. 11 and 13; Southwestern Louisiana and Southern Mississippi Dec. 17 and 19; Portland and Seattle Jan. 29 and 31; Houston Jan. 10 and New Mexico State Feb. 21.

Two Pretty Coeds Victims Of Murder

SOMERS POINT, N.J. (AP)—An autopsy report today disclosed that two pretty coeds whose bodies were found near the Garden State Parkway were victims of murder and died of stab wounds.

Dr. Edwin Albano, New Jersey's chief medical examiner, said both girls, daughters of businessmen, died of wounds inflicted with a small knife, possibly a pen or paring knife. The autopsy report did not reveal if either girl had been sexually assaulted.

Elizabeth Perry, Excelsior, Minn., died of a chest wound that penetrated her right lung. She also suffered wounds in the abdomen and the side of her neck.

Susan Davis, of Camp Hill, Pa., died of a wound in the neck that cut her larynx. Miss Davis also had wounds on the left side of her abdomen and the right side of her neck.

The coeds, both 19-years-old, had been vacationing in Ocean City, Miss. Perry was the daughter of Ray Perry, a bag company executive from Excelsior. Miss Davis was the daughter of soft drink bottler Wesley S. Davis of Camp Hill.

The body of Miss Davis was nude. Miss Perry was fully clothed.

The girls had been unaccounted for since early Friday when they started out from Ocean City, a popular teenage beach resort where they had been vacationing for Miss Davis' Pennsylvania home.

A state trooper found their car abandoned by the parkway about noon Friday. A search of the area was begun after their parents reported their missing Sunday. A parkway maintenance man found the bodies Monday about 150 yards from where the car was parked.

The girls had been students together at Monticello Junior College in Godfrey, Ill. School officials said Miss Perry had completed her freshman year at the two-year all-girls' school, that Miss Davis had graduated. Miss Davis planned to enter Ithaca (N.Y.) College this September.

Maj. Padden Wins DFC

Major Robert Padden, flight facilities officer for the 205th Communications Squadron at Webb, has won the Distinguished Flying Cross for his performance while serving as C-130 B Hercules aircraft commander in Vietnam in January, 1968.

At that time, the major was flying near Lang Vei, Vietnam, on an emergency re-supply mission for a Special Forces camp, which was under heavy enemy attack and surrounded. Major Padden flew at a low altitude over the enemy-controlled territory, identified a difficult drop zone, and delivered a non-standard load of needed supplies to the besieged unit. The supplies helped the Army unit to ward off the enemy attack and remain in control of a strategically important outpost.

Major Padden was stationed at MacTan and Clark Air bases, Philippines, for 13 months before arriving at Webb in January. He is an 18-year Air Force veteran who has logged nearly 5,000 hours of flying time.

Y Classes Are Started

The YMCA's summer activities are off to a good start with strong participation.

Slightly over 400 are involved in the swimming program at various levels of skill. There are still some openings in the beginning instruction, and the men's and women's learn-to-swim and beginner swim classes begin this evening.

Starting today are classes in tap and ballet taught by Ora Burson, and in beginner's guitar, taught by David Bentley.

Baton twirling also started with Harriet McKinney as the instructor.

Next week the Y's teenage program will be launched, said Curtis Mullins, general secretary.

So far, 167 youngsters are enrolled in gym classes and 43 in arts and crafts classes.

Mental Health Course Offered

A Hardin-Simmons University course in mental hygiene to be offered at Webb AFB this summer, is open to the public. Veri I. Green, base education services officer, says that civilians will be enrolled on a space-available basis. Registration will be at 5:30 p.m. June 16 in Room 2, Withycombe Hall.

The course, Mental Hygiene 503, will run from June 16 to July 21. Classes will be from 6 to 10 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays. Tuition is $27.50 per hour. Individuals planning to enroll are asked to call the education services office, extension 2403.

The course covers the consideration of emotional maladjustments and other personality difficulties that interfere with human happiness and efficiency, with preventive and remedial measures for them.

SIRHAN WISHES RFK ALIVE

NEW YORK (AP)—Sirhan says he wishes Robert F. Kennedy were alive "to be president."

The convicted assassin of the New York senator, in an interview from Los Angeles County jail, said, "Every morning when I get up, sir, I say I wish that son-of-a-gun were alive, that I wouldn't have to be here now."

Sirhan was interviewed by Jack Perkins, NBC news correspondent, on May 22, the day after he was sentenced to die in the San Quentin gas chamber. NBC reportedly paid $12,000 to Sirhan for the interview.

Touring Choir To Sing Here

The touring youth choir of the First Baptist Church of Guthrie, Okla., is to appear in concert at the Baptist Temple, Eleventh Place and Goliad, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

The choir of 28 teenagers is directed by Joel Graves, minister of music at the Guthrie church. The concert is one of a series of appearances the group is making in Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. The tour closes on June 8 when the choir will sing in its own church in Guthrie.

Graves holds the bachelor of music education degree from Oklahoma Baptist University. While in OBU, he was a member of the concert band and the world famous Bison Glee Club, and other organizations. He is now a member of the Singing Churchmen of Oklahoma, and has made several recordings and television appearances with this group.

Mrs. George Fields, accompanist for the touring choir, is serving as the church pianist and pianist for other groups and organizations in Guthrie.

The concert will feature the new contemporary youth musical "Purpose" as well as selections from the youth musical "Good News". There is no admission charge and no offering will be taken. The public is invited.

Pompidou Looking Like Shoo-In For Presidency

PARIS (AP) — Georges Pompidou today appeared certain of polling only 23.13 per cent of the election to the French presidency. It was questionable whether party's refusal to back pro-Communist endorsement of Alain Poher, would have done him much good since it probably would have scared away some of his anti-Communist support. But Poher had rejected Pompidou's earlier suggestion that he will elect Charles de Gaulle's party's central committee to make that academic Monday.

Pompidou ran a poor second in night.

While many of the 48 million Frenchmen who voted for Pompidou are not members of the Communist party and may not abide by the call for a boycott, they may throw their votes to Pompidou to ensure Poher's defeat.

Although the Communists have never before urged abstention from a national election, when they have done so on the local level, Gaulists often have profited.

Poher had rejected Pompidou's earlier suggestion that he withdraw to foster national unity.
