Hi!

Robert Courter soars through the air in a test of a jet flying belt at nearby Ft. Myer, Va. In background is one of the Ft. Myer residences. Courter, who is from Lewiston, N.Y., has been testing the flying belt, under development for the Defense Department, in various places in the country.

Defense Spending Attacks Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former Air Force management consultant has told Congress that costs for the nation's primary offensive missiles will run about $3.7 billion over original estimates.

C. Merton Tyrrell, vice president of Performance Technology Corp., told a joint House-Senate economic subcommittee Tuesday that in 1962 the Air Force had calculated the cost of 500 Minuteman II missiles at $3.26 billion, but that the cost would be about $7 billion instead.

An Air Force spokesman later disputed Tyrrell's figures, but acknowledged a cost overrun of about $2 billion would be likely. The spokesman said the Pentagon put the cost of the Minuteman II at $5.2 billion. Tyrrell's firm was hired in 1963 and for 3½ years made studies of four major contractors on the project.

Another congressional committee six weeks ago heard testimony that Tyrrell's company had been broken by slow payments from the Air Force, allegedly because the firm was coming up with too many embarrassing findings.

The estimate of the huge Minuteman II cost overrun comes at a time when many congressmen are fuming over an estimated $2 billion boost over original estimates for the C5A super transport.

Another witness before the joint subcommittee on military spending charged that the Pentagon and defense contractors "play games" to underestimate purposely the cost of proposed weapons systems.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were not getting along at all well together, so we went to a marriage counselor. He said we ought to straighten OURSELVES out, and suggested we go to a psychiatrist.

Well, the psychiatrist listened to us, and said he didn't think we needed psychiatry, we needed to work out our marital problems, so we went back to this marriage counselor.

He talked to us a while and then said we just weren't right for each other, and we never should have gotten married in the first place. (Wasn't that helpful?) We've been married for nine years, have three children and think our marriage is worth saving. What do you suggest?

PILLAR TO POST
DEAR PILLAR: I don't know what kind of "marriage counselor" you went to, but he needs to straighten HIMSELF out. Ask the psychiatrist who told you to see a marriage counselor to recommend one.

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about people who keep TOUCHING you when they talk to you? This irritates me no end. Even though I may like that person very much, I feel so resentful when they poke, nudge, and hit me to emphasize some point in their conversation. (Oddly enough, more women are guilty of this than men).

I realize that the toucher probably doesn't even realize she is doing it at the time, but this is of little comfort to me. Is there some diplomatic way to put a stop to it, or must I give up my friendship with such a person?

POKED IN MANHATTAN
DEAR ABBY: There is NO way to defend yourself against the annoyance of compulsive teachers, pokers, or nudgers. Either keep out of their reach or stay out of their company altogether.

DEAR ABBY: If they held a world-wide contest to find the Champion Sinner of all time, I could enter my husband and he would win hands down.

Name the commandment and he's broken it. He can look you in the eye and lie with both hands on the Bible! Why, if that man told me the house was on fire I wouldn't move a muscle until I saw the flame. Now here is the part you won't believe. Where do you think this sinner spends most of his time? In church! How long is it supposed to

Hearing Set On Variance Request

A request for variance by Robert Don Miller, 1747 Purdue, will be considered by the Zoning Board of Adjustment June 19. The public hearing will be held at 5 p.m. in the City Commission Room at City Hall, and all owners of property located within 200 feet of Miller's property are being notified.

Miller asks to build a carport attached to his residence to come to within three feet, seven inches of the side property line next to the street.

Senator Sells 'Rags' Wholesale?

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — State Sen. Ray Lolley says the haberdashery business he operates out of his Senate desk is primarily as a convenience for his colleagues.

Lolley keeps his desk crammed full of ties, shirts and tie-and-handkerchief sets from his general store at Enterprise. "I don't make any money out of it," he says. "I usually give them a discount of 50 cents or a dollar."

Scrub Leaves Man-In-Space Field Clear For Civilians

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan for an "orbiting workshop" where scientists would conduct experiments in astronomy, medicine and other fields.

WRONG KIND

NASA sources acknowledge there has been some conflict because both the Air Force's MOL and the civilian orbiting workshop would be embryonic space stations, and an increasingly economy-minded Congress might balk at a seeming duplication.

The Pentagon action Tuesday in scrubbing the military program to save money has resolved the issue of overlap.

But whatever else the planned civilian space station can do, it will not be able to spy on the Soviet Union and Red China, as the military MOL reportedly would have done.

The civilian station will be in the wrong kind of orbit—an equatorial orbit which a NASA spokesman said would not be over any great land mass.

The Air Force space laboratory was supposed to have been launched into a polar orbit carrying it over the Soviet Union and Red China.

Although Pentagon authorities refused to discuss whether the MOL had a spy mission, NASA sources said "The military project would have conducted some kind of surveillance," probably photographic.

CAN DO JOB

Announcing the MOL cancellation, Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard indicated that unmanned satellites can do the job as well.

The NASA project contemplates three men staying for up to 56 days in an orbital workshop which one official said would have the internal space equivalent to a five-room house.

A NASA spokesman said the agency has the funds and approval to work toward a launching in late 1971 or early 1972. Five launches are planned.

The festival is held in a replica of the theater in England where William Shakespeare's plays were first performed. Charles David McCally, a former director of the Dallas Theater Center and Trinity University's Ruth Taylor Theater, is director.

Featured in this year's festival will be "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and "The Taming of the Shrew."

Acquitted Of Murder Charge

Ronald August, 30, a suspended Detroit policeman, and his wife, Genevieve, enter the Ingham County courthouse at Mason, Mich., Tuesday where an all-white jury of 13 women and one man found him not guilty of murdering a Negro youth.

White Policeman Innocent Of Murdering Negro Teen

MASON, Mich. (AP) — An all-white jury has found a suspended white policeman innocent of murdering a Negro youth during Detroit's 1967 riot. But he still faces a federal conspiracy charge in the Algiers Motel incident.

Judge Beer gave no explanation of why he ruled out second-degree murder or manslaughter. The defendant, Ronald August, 30, was on trial for the shotgun slaying of 19-year-old Aubrey Pollard, one of three Negro teen-agers killed July 26, 1967, at the Algiers Motel in Detroit's inner city.

Soviet Attack Report

TOKYO (AP) — Red China charged today that Soviet troops, tanks and armored cars had swept into Sinkiang province, carrying out "wanton provocations against three Chinese herdsmen who were grazing cattle."

The official New China News Agency said the Chinese Foreign Ministry had handed a note to the Soviet Embassy in Peking charging that "dozens" of Soviet troops crossed the border into Yumin County, in northwest Sinkiang, Tuesday night.

The note warned the Soviet Union to change its "policy of territorial expansion and armed provocation against China." Otherwise, it said, the Soviets "will surely meet with severe punishment by the Chinese people, and the Soviet government must be held fully responsible for all the grave consequences arising therefrom."

The protest demanded an immediate halt to Soviet "encroachment" into Chinese territory and return of the kidnapped herdsman. Peking also said it reserved the right to demand compensation.

It was the second time this month that China had accused the Soviets of violating the border of the desolate northwestern province in which Peking's nuclear base is located.

The Soviet government had no immediate comment on the new charge. Tass, the Soviet news agency, had not reported the incident and a government spokesman in Moscow said he had no information on it.

On June 6, China charged in a protest note that Chinese were being killed and kidnapped in border incidents which were "still occurring incessantly."

Shortage Of Prosecutors Confronts Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — A widespread shortage of federal prosecutors is confronting the Nixon administration as it maps its war on organized crime.

Of the 790 assistant U.S. attorneys positions throughout the country, a Justice Department spokesman said nearly 25 percent are vacant. He blamed it on the budget squeeze.

An Associated Press survey of U.S. attorneys' offices in major cities disclosed that, in some instances, criminal cases have not been pursued because of the manpower shortage.

"Until you provide adequate manpower, law enforcement is going to be a poor cousin," said Los Angeles U.S. Atty. William M. Byrne, who currently is seven short of his authorized 51 assistants.

Byrne added his office has had difficulty lining up prosecutors to handle grand jury investigations and to try the cases that are required to be tried.

"We haven't dropped any," he said, "but we've been restricted in those we have selected to prosecute."

His comments were echoed by U.S. attorneys in other cities.

Carthy said, "We have met all civil and criminal calendars, and said no cases had been dropped because of lack of manpower."

However, federal court observers said few cases are being presented to grand juries in McCarthy's district because of the personnel shortage.

In Detroit, the U.S. attorney's office is operating with six assistants—less than half its authorized strength. His staff has met all trial dates, U.S. Atty. Robert H. Grace said, although "we've got more judges than members of the U.S. attorney's office."

The shortage means long hours for the prosecutors.

"Everybody talks about backlogs but no one mentions we've been working day and night," said U.S. Atty. Bernard J. Stupinski, whose Cleveland office has three assistants and two of 50 slots.

Men on loan from Washington to do the work normally handled by 10 assistants.

U.S. Atty. Thomas Moran, whose Chicago office is short seven, said, "The average work week of assistants was 66 hours last week. Last month it averaged 60 hours a week."

Officials blame the manpower shortage on the budget pinch rather than the transition from a Democratic to a Republican administration in Washington.

Mrs. Deats' Concert Set

Mrs. Richard Deats, who will be presented in a piano concert Sunday at 3 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church, was the top graduate student in the recent commencement exercises at SMU.

She had an outstanding record at Oberlin College prior to her marriage and a career as a missionary for the United Methodist Church Mrs. Deats is here with her husband and family for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Baggett, prior to departure for another four years in mission work in the Philippines.

For her appearance Sunday under sponsorship of the Piano Teachers Forum and the First United Methodist Church, she will present three movements from Beethoven's Sonata in F Minor, Opus 57, two from Brahms (Intermezzo Opus 117, No. 2, and Intermezzo Opus 119, No. 1), and Chopin's Ballade in F Minor, Opus 52.

The "appreciation and sincere thanks of Big Spring, Texas, to Brown Rogers for his long and faithful service as the Planning and Zoning Commissioner of the City of Big Spring."

Rogers has resigned from the commission. Dr. Robert Johnson was appointed to Rogers' unexpired term, which ends in 1971.

Marshall also read a letter from W. H. Grider, Murray's Hotel and Restaurant Supply Co., Colton, Calif., in which Grider complimented the city on the Big Spring campground.

"I would like to express my congratulations to the responsible party who provided such excellent camping facilities," Grider said. "I have recently completed a transcontinental road trip and did not find any campgrounds as nice as yours."

Commissioners also approved a "hold harmless" contract with Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. In the contract the city agrees to hold Cosden blameless for damage to city equipment or injury to a city employee while on Cosden property.

Commission Accepts Bid After Discussing Legality

City Commissioners made three changes of clothing, $3 for four changes and $3.75 for five changes.

The Dickie Company bid was received by telephone about one hour following bid closing time at 2 p.m. Tuesday. Company officials explained there had been a clerical oversight and requested consideration of the bid.

Row Anderson, assistant city manager, said the city had received an earlier offer in writing, though not in bid form. He said company officials had written him offering to negotiate the contract.

Herb Prouty, city attorney, said the city would be taking only a minimum risk to accept Dickie's bid, since the firm had a written offer prior to bid closing time.

Commissioners also approved a "hold harmless" contract with Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. In the contract the city agrees to hold Cosden blameless for damage to city equipment or injury to a city employee while on Cosden property.

Ernest Lillard, director of public works, said city workmen have minimum contact with Cosden and signing the contract would have little effect on the city.

An ordinance granting an on-premise consumption of beer permit to Thurman Randle, for Gomez Cafe, 408-410 NW 4th St., was approved on third and final reading with Commissioner Walter Stroup dissenting. Mayor Arnold Marshall, George Zacheriah and Garner McAdams voted to approve the ordinance. Jimmy Morehead and Marshall presented William C. Reynolds, retiring city employee, for local service to the city for 26 years.

Reynolds has worked for the city since September, 1943.

"We know the conditions that existed then (1943)," Marshall said, "and the changes that have come about to build the city as we know it today have been brought about by employees such as Mr. Reynolds, as well as the administration."

The commissioners also approved a resolution expressing

POST MORTEM-7

Are Filibusters Really Effective?

By JACK KEEVER Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Any senator who has done it, or watched others, knows that to filibuster you first have to remove the rough, plastic floor covering from around your desk. The carpet's easier on the feet.

That gesture, as much as anything, became the symbol of the Texas Senate in the recent legislative session.

GOOD TIMING So it was fitting that in the closing hours of the session June 2, Sen. Jim Bates of Edinburg should snap his fingers for a couple of the ever-ready Senate pages to haul off the transparent plastic.

Bates had put out the challenge, laid down the law. Get off this bill "or I'll talk through the time to adjourn."

Fortunately for him, Bates had a good sense of timing. Senators were tired after 10 days in session and weren't about to accept his challenge to filibuster a bill to let cities have a 3 per cent tax on hotel rooms.

Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso withdrew the bill because he said he did not want the session to end in a spirit of acrimony.

Most senators weren't as lucky as Bates. All they got for their troubles were some muscle pains, hoarse voices and maybe some public attention.

Rules prohibit House members from filibustering.

Gov. Preston Smith put his finger on the unwritten rule of filibustering when he visited the Senate one night during a talking session. The Senate, he said, was having trouble with delaying tactics "because it wanted too late to consider controversial subjects."

BETTER CHANCE In other words, a senator has a better chance late in the session to block a bill he doesn't like because his colleagues are anxious to get on with other business before time to quit.

The session's longest filibuster by a single senator was 10 hours by Henry Grover of Houston, one of two Senate Republicans.

Former Sen. Kilmer Corbin of Lubbock holds the national record of 28 hours and 15 minutes, and the Texas record for a combined or longest subject filibuster" is 36 hours 2 minutes by former Sens. Abraham Kazen of Laredo and Henry B. Gonzalez of San Antonio. Gonzalez and Kazen are both congressmen now.

Grover temporarily blocked a proposal to withdraw Texas' approval of a move to call a convention to rewrite the U.S. Constitution. But several days later, when he was absent, the measure cleared the Senate.

DAY IN COURT A team of senators talked for 33½ hours in a futile attempt to prevent approval of three new state colleges.

Christie and Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth stalled for 20 hours the passage of the Texas Tech medical school bill, and Kennard came right back for a seven-hour filibuster against a measure creating the University of Texas at Dallas.

"I've had my day in court. I'd like to go another 11 or 12 hours but I don't see any useful purpose," said Kennard.

Sens. H. J. Blanchard of Lubbock and Wayne Connally of Floresville talked for eight hours against the $125 an hour state minimum wage bill, but Blanchard finally threw up his hands and said: "I cannot stop it. I could talk until doomsday and the next day they would pass this bill."

PERSISTENT PROTESTS Senators had to ride out a 13-hour filibuster by Grover and Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells before they could approve a proposal removing annual voter registration as a constitutional requirement.

Sen. Jack Strong of Longview had a bit more luck in his persistent protests against a measure taking the James Connally Technical Institute at Waco out of the Texas A&M system, renaming it and giving it a separate board of regents.

Strong talked at length on the matter every time it came up for several weeks, and the sponsor finally agreed to amendments restricting branches of the new institute to campuses in McLennan, Cameron and Potter counties.

But by and large, filibusters are doomed when they start because the voting majority is on the other side. A minority has right to be heard as long as it wants to be heard—once considered almost sacred in the Senate—was curtailed numerous times this session by invoking the "previous question," which limits the discussion to the senator talking at that time.

A few senators still vote against that motion on "principle."

FINE SHOW A filibuster often is entertaining before fatigue sets in, and among the best entertainers are Sens. Charles Wilson of Lubbock and Mike McKool of Dallas.

Wilson, 6-foot-4, once referred to himself as the Senate's "Great Dane" and 5-4 McKool as the "Chihuahua." It was not unusual for them to rush on the floor, carry on a 30-minute dialogue and disappear in the back halls.

Grover, a former school teacher, uses a classroom approach to a filibuster: He might recite a step-by-step argument for hours.

Strong and Kennard have booming voices which they use to the fullest before settling into the monotonous that characterize most filibusters.

The best delaying job of the session may not have come to the floor, but in committee.

Sen. Bill Patman of Ganado, who never took part in a floor filibuster during the session, talked for 50 minutes once in committee against a bill which he said hiked interest rates on a $1,000 loan by 4½ per cent. The committee finally adjourned because the full Senate was going in session.

SOMETHING NEW Bates objected to Patman's stalling tactics but his point of order may not have come to the floor, but in committee.

"We operate under the rules of the Senate, which permit unlimited debate," said the committee chairman, Sen. Charles Herring of Austin.

"I've never seen a filibuster in committee, and I've been here 22 years," protested Sen. W. T. Moore of Bryan.

"There's always something new," Herring replied.

'It's Got To Be Real Sick Man'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Mrs. Joseph Kalom was watching television in Kalamazoo, Mich., when she saw an artist's sketch of a young woman whose mutilated body was found near this college town.

She recognized the likeness of her daughter Alice.

Tuesday night, the Kaloms drove a hundred miles to Ann Arbor and after viewing the body, confirmed that their 21-year-old daughter was the latest victim in a 22-month string of six murders of young women in the Ann Arbor area.

'GOOD GIRL'

Miss Kalom, a recent graduate of the University of Michigan school of architecture and design who stayed on to take a few courses this summer, was last seen alive by her boy friend early Saturday morning.

Police believe she was killed some time Sunday night. Her body was found Monday on an abandoned farm.

She had been shot in the head and repeatedly stabbed, once in the heart.

"I raised a good girl," said Kalom, pharmacist, after identifying the body. "I was afraid. I called her every time there was one of the murders. She said, 'I'm careful. I don't associate with strangers.'"

KNOWS THE AREA

The murder chain began Aug. 7, 1967. The victims ranged in age from 13 to 23 years.

All the bodies have been found on the fringes of Ann Arbor and nearby Ypsilanti. All had been shot, strangled or stabbed. All but one were partially nude and had been sexually molested.

Authorities investigating the murders believe all six deaths were the work of a single assailant.

"There are similarities linking all the murders," said Douglas Harvey, sheriff of Washtenaw County.

"It has got to be a real psycho who would shoot a girl, stab her several times and then stab her in the heart," the sheriff continued. "It's got to be a real sick man. It's somebody who knows the area. It has to be."

Demo Task Force Meet Scheduled To Spark Debate

HOUSTON (AP) — A five-man task force of the Commission on Democratic Party Structure has scheduled a meeting Saturday that is expected to set off debate between state party members.

Testimony given at the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago is expected to be repeated by liberals and conservatives. At that time a group of dissident liberals tried to unseat the regular conservative-dominated delegation to the convention.

The liberals will argue that the convention system in Texas excludes racial and political minorities and will recommend that minorities be given proportional representation at future conventions.

The conservatives are expected to defend the present winner-take-all system which theoretically can give any action with 51 per cent of the votes at the state convention 100 per cent of the votes at the national convention.

The meeting, to be held in the Astroworld Hotel, was originally scheduled for Austin but was moved here for unexplained reasons. Fred Itoehinz, who served as co-chairman of the Hubert Humphrey Presidential campaign in Harris County is in charge of the meeting.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chairman of the task force, will be in charge of the hearing.

Coin Clubbers

Big Spring Coin Club will hold its regular meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Hotel Settles, Room 1. The meeting is the regular trade and auction night. All members and all persons interested in coin collecting are invited.

Slain Girl Identified

Alice Kalom of Kalamazoo, Mich., has been identified as the latest slaying victim in the Ann Arbor, Mich., area. Miss Kalom, shown in a 1965 high school graduation photo, was the daughter of Joseph Kalom, a hospital pharmacist.

Big Array Of Speakers For Parley

Omar Burleson, a former district governor of the old jumbo Texas 2-T; and by R. A. Lipscomb, Lubbock, a past international director.

Approximately 400 are expected here for the gathering which will be headquartered at the Settles Hotel. Friday evening's highlight is the district queen's contest, followed Saturday afternoon by the state finals in the contest.

This year the state cabinet meeting is being held jointly with the 2A-1 convention, and sessions Sunday morning will be given over to the state organization.

Man Injured In Rig Fall

A Sand Springs man was injured Tuesday afternoon when high winds blew over a well service unit two miles southeast of Coahoma off FM 821.

David Owens, 20, was in good condition today in Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital with a fractured ankle.

Owens was working on a well service unit owned by Harding Well Service, Coahoma, on the Bond Operating Company's No. 7 Denman when the accident occurred.

G. B. Harding said Owens was about 55 feet above the ground when the derrick toppled from high winds. Owens stayed on the derrick and jumped before it hit the ground, Harding said. Damage to the derrick was estimated at $15,000.

Minor Accidents Are Investigated

Police investigated three minor accidents Tuesday.

An accident at Fourth and Johnson involved a car driven by George Edward Schoolcraft, 2012 Chestnut, Colorado City, and a city-owned pickup driven by Howard L. Shivers, 1109 Runnels.

A minor accident at FM 700 and US 87 south involved a car driven by Claudia Lewis West, 4118 Muir, and an Alert Ambulance driven by Joe Baucham, 1103 N. Gregg.

John Robert Stanley, 1106 M. Vernon, and Billy Don Fishback, 213 N. 5th, Coahoma, were drivers involved in a minor accident in the 300 block of Birdwell Lane.

Accident Ruled

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Justice of the Peace S. H. Hart, Lorraine, ruled Monday the death of 26-year-old Richard Rotramel was accidental and caused by a blow on the head believed to have been caused when the man fell from a rapidly moving Texas & Pacific Railway Co. freight train near Lorraine May 29.

Theft Reports Being Checked

A burglary and one theft incident were investigated by police Tuesday.

Mary Riddle, 611 Nolan, told police someone entered her apartment while she was at work, and took some makeup, a can of hairspray, a hair dryer and a wig valued at $75.

Jack Price, 604 George, told police a coin-operated newspaper stand belonging to the San Angelo Standard-Times had been taken from First and Main. Police said a man was arrested earlier with five San Angelo newspapers dated June 10, and 60 cents in nickels in his possession.

Astro-Like Suit May Save Lives Of Heart Victims

WASHINGTON (AP) — An astronaut-like suit has been developed as an emergency uniform for heart attack victims. The idea—still experimental—is to ease the work load on an overburdened, diseased heart, and save a life.

In a report today to the Artificial Heart Program Conference, sponsored by the National Heart Institute, the suit was said to specifically treat cardiogenic shock, a sharp drop in circulating blood because of a weak heart.

The suit has been tested—with promising results—on healthy baboons. It is made up of nylon-latex head and torso chambers, and multiple "limb cuffs" for the arms and legs.

The suit works this way: When the heart relaxes and refills between beats, the cuffs inflate, squeezing down on the blood vessels and increasing the pressure in the central arteries. Just before the heart contracts to pump, the cuffs rapidly deflate.

Researchers of United Aircraft Corp. and the University of Texas' Southwestern Medical School described the suit at the conference.

Nixon's Tax Faces First Major Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's proposed extension of the income surtax faces its first major congressional test in an atmosphere of deep political division and mounting official alarm over inflation.

The House Ways and Means Committee is under heavy pressure to act on the extension sometime this week. The surtax, now pegged at 10 per cent, is due to die at month's end unless Congress approves an extension.

Although not all Democrats on the committee favor Nixon's plans to extend the surcharge at its present rate for six months and then reduce it to 5 per cent for the rest of the fiscal year, they failed in a two-hour meeting Tuesday to come up with a modified version.

In the absence of a united Democratic front there seemed little doubt the President's proposal would get committee approval on a yes-or-no vote.

The 10 Republican members solidly back the White House and at least four of the 15 Democrats would go along, sources said.

But whether an unpopular bill given such a Republican label could pass the Democratic-controlled House was another question.

Just before the Democrats met, Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy soberly warned that inflation may be on the point of running away.

Speaking at a news conference and against the backdrop of a jump in the prime interest rate charged by banks to 8 1/2 per cent, Kennedy placed top priority on the surtax extension to curb inflation.

"We cannot allow a runaway inflation to develop in this country. We could be very close to that now," he said.

Although Kennedy refused to flatly rule out government imposed price-wage controls such as were clamped on the public during the Korean war, the Treasury secretary said he personally opposes such action and the administration's current policy is to use other anti-inflationary weapons—like the surtax.

An added ingredient to the volatile mixture fueling the inflation also came Tuesday with the announcement of major rises in food costs, propelling the wholesale price index up year.

And some Democrats have threatened a revolt against the traditional rule that tax bills are voted up or down without amendments if the Nixon plan is sent to the floor intact.

They say they will vote to open the surtax bill to any variety of amendments, including wide-ranging tax reform proposals.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., one of the leaders of the reform-first bloc of Democrats, said he will serve notice his group will not extend the surtax for a year.

A sizable group of Democrats oppose extension of the surtax, except for a short term, until Congress can act on tax reforms they hope can provide additional revenues.

Court Docket Reduced 52

Fifty-two cases were disposed of during May in 118th District Court, leaving 1,315 cases pending on the docket at the end of the month.

During May, 56 new cases were filed and three criminal cases were added through new trials or change of venue. Cases filed included seven personal injury, one workman's compensation, 19 divorce, 15 tax and 14 other civil.

Cases disposed of were six personal injury, six workman's compensation, 14 divorce, 10 other civil and 16 criminal.

Of the 1,315 remaining cases on the docket are 21 personal injury, 37 workman's compensation, 271 divorce, one annulment, five dependent and neglected child, 356 tax, 571 other civil and 53 criminal cases.

Only one case, a workman's compensation suit, was heard before a jury in May, and the remainder were heard before Judge Ralph W. Caton, or settled among parties involved.

President Nixon lets go with a wide sweep of his arm as he responds to crowd on the south lawn of the White House during ceremonies marking his return yesterday from his meeting with President Thieu of South Vietnam at Midway Island. The Executive Office Building is in the background.

U.S. Officials Watch For Enemy's Answer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are watching for a response, either through diplomatic channels or on the battlefield, to President Nixon's bid for a North Vietnamese pull-door to peace.

"We have opened wide the door to match the American withdrawal announcement and troop withdrawal from South Vietnam," Nixon said in his brief televised remarks.

"And now we invite the leaders of North Vietnam to walk with us through that door either by withdrawing forces, their forces, from South Vietnam as we have withdrawn ours, or by negotiating in Paris, or through other avenues," he said.

"We believe this is the time for them to act. We have acted in good faith," Nixon said.

The next Paris negotiating session is due Thursday. A State Department spokesman indicated in a report to the nation on Wednesday that in the peace talks so far, the North Vietnamese have not August.

Nixon said the Midway meeting brought home the message that the troops of South Vietnam have now been trained and equipped to the point where they can take over a substantial portion of the combat activity presently being borne by Americans.

Some 300,000 of the 538,000 Americans in South Vietnam are estimated to be on combat assignment. Despite Nixon's statement about Saigon pre-paring to take over "a substantial portion" of this fighting, officials said there are no new plans for a pull-out was announced.

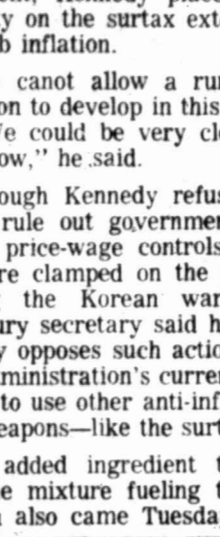

Nixon made his appeal Tuesday in a report to the nation on Wednesday that in the peace talks so far, the North Vietnamese have not August.

After 30 Volkswagens, Father Bittman still believes.

In the beginning, Father Aloysius Bittman bought a bug. That was in 1957 when he joined the staff of St. Anthony's Indian Mission in Mandore, North Dakota.

Since then, Father Bittman has gone a long way in 30 Volkswagens. Owing two or three at a time, the Bittman staff travels 600 miles per week in each. Over dirt and gravel roads and in temperatures that go to 55 below.

A couple of Volkswagens ago, Father Bittman's '65 broke through the Garrison Reservoir ice. "It was a good time for praying," he said. Luckily, one 255 pound priest and one 1808 pound bug floated to safety. After the ice was chopped away and a quick oil change, the good father and his faithful companion were on their way. He was a bit peeved about the oil change though.

"It set the Mission back $1.80," complained Father Aloysius Bittman.

A GREAT AMERICAN...

Dwight David Eisenhower was a man of great accomplishment. For the first time, here is the complete biography of the general, politician and statesman who became a legend in his own time. Relman Morin, the AP's two-time Pulitzer Prize winner, provides a detailed and colorful 140,000-word account of the Kansas farm boy who rose to become a hero of World War II and the 34th President of the United States in "Eisenhower: A Gauge of Greatness." Morin, who knew Ike for a quarter of a century, measures the man by the gauge of greatness Ike set up himself.

The result is this handsome volume illustrated by more than 85 pictures in color and black and white. It is available to you through this newspaper at the special price of only $3.

... A GREAT BOOK!

- This special edition costs only $3 and contains:
- 140,000-word text written by one of AP's most noted reporters, who had known Ike for more than 25 years and interviewed him personally for this volume.
 - 85 color and black and white photos, some of which have never been published before.
 - It is hard-bound in a handsome green cloth cover and gold lettering, an outstanding addition to your home library.
 - 264 pages, 8 1/2" x 11" size.

A Devotional For The Day

Give ear to my words, O Lord; give heed to my groaning. (Psalm 5:1, RSV)

PRAYER: Help me to pray the best I can, Father, and not to refrain from prayer because I know my attitudes are wrong and unworthy of a child of Thine. In my distress I need Thee—Thy comforting presence, Thy help. Amen.

The County's Source Of Money

The news that oil valuations in Howard County are down for this taxable year, to the tune of more than a half-million dollars, is a straw in the wind that eyes should follow.

The property appraisers have found that production in the county is less, that there are fewer wells than there were a year ago. It means that, for this year, the county faces some $6,000 less in income from this area of taxation.

Will the trend continue? There is no assurance either way, but some of the county's crude producing areas are 30 and 40 years old, and the economics of oil recovery have to be taken into consideration.

For years, many West Texas counties — many of them to much greater degree than Howard — have been blessed with good income from natural resources. This source of taxable value could decline even more so. Then the day comes when local government costs have to be met in another way.

Counties which are antiquated structures in Texas anyway, have the property tax as about the only major source of money. Some day, and not too long off, a new system of taxation will have to come about.

A Congressman Admits 'Conflict'

Stand up and cheer for Thomas S. Kleppe.

Mr. Kleppe is a member of the Congress from North Dakota, and he voluntarily has revealed his financial status and sources of income.

His personal holdings happen to be substantial — more than $3.5 million, according to the Washington dispatches.

Moreover, Mr. Kleppe concedes that some of his holdings could involve him in conflicts of interest with his duties in the Congress. For example, he is a director and substantial stockholder in an oil company, and Mr. Kleppe said: "If a bill was on the floor to end or cut back the oil depletion allowance I would vote 'present' unless I decided to resign from the board of directors (the oil concern)."

He said also that legislation involving banking and savings-and-loan interests might place him in similar conflict, since he holds stock in institutions thus affected.

Much is being written these days about the conflict of interest, whether it involves cabinet members, high governmental appointees of court justices. There also have been strong suggestions that congressmen and senators, also, might do well, ethically, if not legally, to reveal their own sources of income.

Mr. Kleppe has come forward to demonstrate his candor in this particular area. He pointed out that he didn't inherit his money; that he didn't steal it, but "I earned it."

We don't know much about Mr. Kleppe's record otherwise, but it strikes us that here is a successful businessman who should make an able congressman, and a completely honest one.

504 Convicts

In Barren Cells Where Death Is Way Of Life

By FRANK J. MURRAY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since 8:30 p.m. June 2, 1967, when asthmatic Luis Monge coughed in the cyanide gas that killed him, no criminal has been executed in the United States, a development that is stemming the tide to outlaw capital punishment.

Those who would wipe execution from the lawbooks say the unofficial moratorium, which starts its third year Monday, has softened interest in the subject for all but the 504 convicts held at last count in the barren cell blocks where death is the way of life.

THE AMERICAN Civil Liberties Union spent $6,000 in salaries last year for a staff member to lobby against capital punishment but chose that area to economize to zero this year when budgets got tight.

Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., chairman of the House subcommittee considering his own and other abolition bills, made the point this way:

"Jokingly, but with some bitter truth, I told the ACLU that if they could arrange to have an innocent man hung, I think we could get the bill passed."

Unknown to Kastenmeier that night-mare of the law, execution of an innocent, was apparently averted just a month ago at Clearwater, Fla., when two men who had been on death row at Raiford nearly six years for double murder were declared innocent after another man confessed to the crimes.

A RELUCTANT governor Haydon Burns who refused for two years to sign any death warrant and a civil liberties court battle that won a stay for all 54 condemned men in Florida

Billy Graham

I work in a shop as a laborer. With men who curse a n d blaspheme. I feel that my Christian life is being hindered. Do you think I should quit my job?

—R.M.

There is certainly nothing wrong with the work you are doing. Labor is honorable, and has been respected by both God and man. It would be a tragedy if all Christians forsake their place of employment to be with other Christians. It would be different if your work itself was contrary to Christian principles. I have a suggestion for you which I believe will be helpful. You should accept this place of labor as an opportunity to bring the Gospel to some who will not listen to a preacher. You must be God's witness in that place, and if you are found faithful in that small responsibility, God will give you great opportunity. You must let them know that Jesus Christ is your Saviour and Lord. If you found employment where all were in agreement with you, where would you have opportunity for a witness? Remember, that their profanity and Godlessness should, by contrast, cause you to be thankful for the change God has brought about in your life.

'THE NERVE OF NIXON-CALLING US DOVES'

John Cuniff They Explode Financial Bomb

NEW YORK (AP) — For officers of Bankers Trust Co., the past weekend was less comfortable than it could have been. Throughout the weekend they lived with the knowledge they would explode a financial bomb on Monday.

It was Bankers, the nation's seventh largest commercial bank—close to $7.7 billion in assets—which initiated this week's big, full-point increase in the prime lending rate to 8.5 per cent, highest in many years.

NOW THIS may not mean an awful lot immediately to many Americans, but it can cost big corporations millions of dollars. And what happens to big business in this country always affects little people after a while.

At that time, confidential sources related, an increase appeared almost inevitable to officers of the bank. But they delayed making an announcement.

Confidential talks continued over the weekend—confidential because for banks to conspire to raise rates is equivalent to price fixing—but nothing happened in the financial markets to change the decision.

WITHIN HOURS after the Bankers' Trust announcement most of the major banks across the nation had concurred, thus assuring that the long anticipated increase would hold. Whatever holdouts remained were of small consequence.

For weeks in financial circles it was known that an increase had to come, but banks reportedly were reluctant to initiate action and incur the wrath of Washington officials at a time when major banking matters were under study.

BANKERS TRUST officials were said to have made the decision reluctantly and with some misgivings, because as it was put, "The bank is not sympathetic with higher rates and is not at all sure these moves are always understood."

Although the one-point jump was two to four times the customary increase, Edmund F. Ebert, senior vice president, termed it modest. Modest, he said, in relation to the high rates already prevailing elsewhere in the market place.

THE INCREASE, he said, was

Hal Boyle Viva Variety

NEW YORK (AP) — John Huston is a free soul in an age of anxiety.

In 63 years of living crammed with variety and excitement he has been a boxer, lieutenant with the Mexican cavalry, painter, folk singer, screen writer, actor and film director.

"I'VE NEVER had any goal except the immediate one, whatever that might be," he remarked. "Now I just make pictures, ride horses, collect paintings and regrets, and have the best time I can."

"Most of my regrets, however, are of such a private nature that they would hardly bear either repetition or printing."

Huston, leathery-faced and lanky as a cowboy, has had a lark in helping spend more than $50 million of other people's money while making 29 films. They include such memorable ones as "The Maltese Falcon," "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre," "The African Queen," and "The Bible."

"I believe I'm the only one in film history who has directed himself, his father, and his daughter," he said.

HIS FAMOUS father, Walter Huston, appeared in "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre." His daughter, Anjelica, 18, stars in the soon to be released "A Walk with Love and Death," and John has gone before the camera in several of his films, including his latest, "The Kremlin Letter," a spy thriller.

Asked which member of his family was the best actor, John

To Your Good Health What 'Traction' Means And Does

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told that to cure the permanent ache in my spine it may be necessary for me to go into traction for several months. For some reason, I have an unreasonable fear of this and it might help if I knew a little more about what "traction" involves. Can it be applied at home or in a hospital?

Traction merely means pulling. You've seen pictures of people in a hospital with a broken leg — the leg raised, and a cord and pulley and weight used. This is to draw the bones out to proper position while they knit.

It's the same general principle with traction for the spine, but applied differently. Many times a sort of head harness is used, which can be fastened to the top of a doorway or some such place.

Then the patient, with his head in the harness, can let his weight sag. The purpose

Around The Rim Silly Season Of The Huckster

The silly season in television commercials seems to be starting earlier this year (if indeed the silly season is not perpetual and self-sustaining). After listening to and looking at some of the huckstering, it makes me wonder what it would really be like if the Madison Avenue script writers didn't put that naive, wonderful-wide-world sell at the end.

TAKE, FOR instance, the certain personality who bashfully says he knows nothing about washing, then proceeds to give a lecture on the unspeakable virtues of an enzyme detergent. Wouldn't it be marvelous if it went something like this: "Now here we have two brand new $8.95 white shirts. Now, let's take a mixture of berry juice, mustard, shoe polish, and ink and dash it on the shirt on the left — there! And on the right, there! Now, let's soak the shirt on the left in the ordinary cleaning liquid, and the one on the right in our new special super enzyme cleaning liquid. Now, let's rinse them out and take a look. See — the one on the left still has stains visible. . . . the ordinary cleanser just couldn't get it all out. Now look at the shirt on the right — hmmm, how did that big hole get there?"

THEN THERE is the case of a certain coffee, a miracle new instant brand. A certain young husband, who should know better, has just insulted his wife for having made a lousy cup of coffee. Instead of bringing a stiff uppercut from the floor or packing her bags to go home to mother, she goes simpering to Mrs. Olson. Before giving advice and instructions, the motherly character launches into a soliloquy on how the stuff is grown in swamp bottoms, moulded in ware-

Holmes Alexander Views Of The Treasury Secretary

WASHINGTON — "Don't raise false hopes," is a watchword of the Administration, and no Nixonite thinks and talks that line more instinctively than the gray, genial, onetime Chicago banker, David Kennedy, Secretary of Treasury.

SECRETARY KENNEDY is doing what comes naturally when he discusses notions of instant and total solutions, and yet sees gradual and sometimes homely ways to get out of the woods. For instance, I remarked that it was becoming the rhetorical habit of many in public life, quite recently, Chief Justice Warren, to say that the same skills which took us to the moon should be used to get us out of the slums. Mr. Secretary turned out to have a large body of informed opinion on what computerized problem-solving could and couldn't accomplish in the field of the sciences.

HE SAID he'd sat in on the original Comsat meetings and been very impressed when young computer experts "proved" that a communications satellite could be orbited in space, although it had never been done before. He said he didn't doubt that systems-analysis could tell us much about the problems of youth, especially in the area of education, but that computers couldn't solve the "human equation," which was the nub.

HE DOUBTED that poverty could be abolished because it's a relative condition, and some people will always have more goods and money than others know how to take care of. There are jobs for everybody, but not jobs that everybody wants to take or is able to perform. It isn't only the hard-core poor but the marginal income people who need education and training, because technology is moving more rapidly than learning is.

I REMARKED that HUD Secretary Romney had drawn some flak and been roundly booed at a labor convention for telling the delegates that their restrictive practices were inflationary. Mr. Kennedy said it was part of the cabinet's job to be spokesman for the government, and that Mr. Nixon expected the members to do so.

David Lawrence Nixon's Answer To War Critics

WASHINGTON — While President Nixon is trying to negotiate peace in Vietnam and bring an end to the war, critics of various kinds are stinging him in the back. They are telling the world that the American people do not want to spend so much money for military operations abroad and would rather use it for a variety of programs on the domestic side.

Mr. Nixon sought, in his speech at the Air Force Academy in Colorado, to tell the world that the United States will not surrender and will not ignore the many sacrifices that have been made to establish the principle that nations, large and small, should have the right of self-determination.

BUT THOSE whom the President calls the "isolationists" seem to think that the war in Vietnam is of no importance to the people of the United States. The crusade against the war has gone so far that military leaders are even being denounced for the strategy they use on the battlefields.

Some of the senators who have been making speeches condemning the President's policies claim they are not attacking the military men but only the "politicians." Yet in Congress today it is apparent that these same persons are playing politics themselves, for they think opposition to the war is popular.

MR. NIXON in his speech pointed out that the "isolationist school of thought" has simplistic and powerful slogans such as "charity begins at home," or "let's first solve our problems at home and then we can deal with the problems of the world." He added that, while these touch a "responsive chord with many an overburdened taxpayer, and it would be

Houston Wins But Loses Two Players In Mishap

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros outfielder Jesus Alou and shortstop Hector Torres were in Methodist Hospital today with head injuries suffered as they collided while chasing a fly ball.
Alou suffered a severe concussion when the two ran together in the third inning of Tuesday night's game between the Astros and the Pittsburgh Pirates. Houston won 7-4.
A hospital spokesman said Alou was lapsing in and out of consciousness when he arrived. Torres was not believed to be as seriously injured, although attendants said he suffered deep cuts above the nose and on the chin.
Quick first aid administered by Pittsburgh trainer Tony Bartirome may have saved Alou's life.
The Houston teammates collided chasing a fly off the bat of Pirates outfielder Al Oliver into shallow left field at the Astrodome.
Alou started in slowly and Torres hurried back. While the ball dropped just behind and to the side of them, their heads banged and they sprawled helplessly on the Astro turf.
The ball went for a three-run homer and gave the Pirates a temporary 4-0 lead.
Bartirome treated Alou first. Noticing that Alou had swallowed his tongue, Bartirome pulled it out, inserted a rubber hose and inflated the hose. This reopened Alou's throat and restored a normal air flow into the lungs.
"He looked like he was dead," Houston infielder Denis Menke said of Alou. "It was the hardest collision I've ever seen."
"I saw foam coming from his mouth," said Astros trainer Jim Ewell, who helped Bartirome give first aid.
Umpire Al Barlick, one of the first on the confused scene, said, "Alou's eyes were turning blue. Those trainers did a great job of taking care of him."

Trouble All Around

Chicago Cubs catcher Randy Hundley grimaces as the baseball and Clete Boyer of the Atlanta Braves arrive home at the same time. Boyer scored but Chicago won, 3-1, at Atlanta Stadium Tuesday night. The action occurred in second inning after a double by Braves' Bob Tillman.

Boog Powell Takes Up Slack For O's

By The Associated Press
Frank Robinson's two good eyes helped put the Baltimore Orioles on top of the American League's East Division, and Boog Powell's bad hip is helping keep them there.
Robinson, fully recovered from an eye injury he suffered two seasons ago, went on a record 10-homer spree in April that helped vault the Orioles into the East lead, and although he has slacked off somewhat recently, other Orioles, particularly Powell, have taken over.
Powell, on the other hand, had been doing much until he hurt his hip a few weeks ago. Since then he's been on a streak that continued Tuesday night when he drove in three runs with a homer in the Orioles' 11-4 victory over California.

LOOKING 'EM OVER
With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue
The late JIMMY BRYAN, former winner of the Indianapolis 500 run.
"If you never win another dollar the rest of your life, you'll be somebody. You have won the Indianapolis 500. You will always be famous. Men will envy you. Women will chase you. Wherever you go, people will point you out to others. People will buy your name. When you're old and tired and ready to die, you'll be someone who won the 500."
Golfer JACKY CLIPIT.
"I'm not a loner. I'll have dinner with the other guys a lot, and I like to be around people. But even when I started out on the tour, I always roomed by myself at tournaments. Some of the other guys used to get three or four together in a room to save money. But the conversation at night would always include a lot of golf and that's something I want no part of after a round. I'm sure the younger players still do that, but I couldn't worry about saving $20 when staying by myself might save me a couple of strokes and mean three or four hundred dollars in winnings."

BOB COUSY, newly named coach of the Cincinnati Royals:
"When I heard the offer by club owner Max Jacobs, I couldn't believe it. It was for three years and for more than three times as much money as I'd ever made as a player. When I asked for complete authority on all trades, Max agreed to that, too."

RON SANTO, Chicago infielder, discussing team-mate Ernie Banks:
"He's amazing. This is our tenth season together and I've never heard him knock anyone. I've never seen him angry or depressed. He's been in a slump lately but you'd never know it."

Golfer GEORGE ARCHER:
"The public doesn't realize what a great year Billy Casper had last year. We'll be old men or dead before anyone wins six tournaments in one year again."

CHICAGO DAILY NEWS:
"Leo Durocher shocked a group of baseball writers the other day. He swore he had never instructed a pitcher to throw at a hitter. If word like that gets around, Leo will spoil his image."

FRANK BROYLES, football coach at the University of Arkansas, warning Porker fans:
"We've got eight sophomores coming back who think there's nothing to playing college football. Heck, they won nine games and the Sugar Bowl over one of the best teams in the nation. The job for our coaching staff this coming season is to convince them that it's not that easy. If you see some of the Razorbacks around this summer, don't pat them on the back. Instead, tell them they'll have a hard time winning two games."

JESSE OUTLAR, Atlanta scribe:
"A cynic recalled the other day how Tommy Bolt's famed temper once reached its peak. The DeSoto car people were sponsoring a tournament at Bradenton's DeSoto Club. Somehow the misinformation was dispensed that a hole-in-one was worth a new DeSoto. Well, Bolt made a hole-in-one. Writers mustered for an interview and officials informed Bolt he wouldn't receive anything for his feat, much less a car. You'd have thought Tommy would appeal to the PGA and Supreme Court."

Indians Rally To Win, 5-4

The Indians smacked the Tigers, 5-4, with a four-run seventh inning in Hi-Jinx league play here Tuesday night. Moses Flores won his own game for the Tribe in the final round when he drove a ground ball to second base, permitting the winning run to scoot home from third.

Brewer clubbed a one-on home run for the losers. Grady Ray tied the score in the seventh with a double. Both teams now stand 2-1 within the league.

Opponents Say Casper Man To Beat In Open

HOUSTON (AP) — Billy Casper loomed as the favorite in an elite field of the world's best shot makers seeking golf's most prestigious title in the United States Open, with laughing Lee Trevino and tough little Gary Player among the chief contenders.
"It's hard to pick a favorite," the 37-year-old Mormon demurred. "The rough isn't that high, that tough here and that opens it up a lot. There's a lot of guys who could win it."
But his opponents in the 72-hole test that begins Thursday on the 6,967-yard, par 70 Cypress Creek layout at the Champions Golf Club look at it a little differently.
"Right now, he's the best there is," defending champion Trevino said after a practice round Tuesday. "Arnold Palmer is still the king of golf, but I don't care what anybody says. Casper is the best in the world."
Frank Beard concurred. "He's playing just great right now," the steady man from Louisville said. "That last round he played in Chicago is probably the best round I've ever seen or heard of."
Casper, twice an Open winner, shot a four-under-par 67 in the rain, mud and muck of the Midlothian Country Club course only three times. Among the other top contenders are Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, PGA champ Julius Borros, leading money winner Gene Littler, Masters champ George Archer and Beard.

Beard hasn't won in almost two years but is one of the top money winners and holds the best stroke average on the course, 69.56.
Nicklaus, the big Golden Bear of old, has been in a recent slump but always is a threat.

Cong's Announcement Timed To Take Edge Off

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong's announcement that it has formed a provisional government for South Vietnam appears to have been timed to take the edge off the show of solidarity by President Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu at their Midway Island meeting Sunday.

The Viet Cong Radio announced Tuesday night that a special congress of "resistance forces" at a weekend meeting set up a "revolutionary government to rule Vietnam."

The Saigon government called creation of the provisional regime a "trick tactic" in the Viet Cong's campaign for a coalition government to rule South Vietnam.

"We completely disregard that kind of a puppet government," an official spokesman in Saigon said.

He noted that Nixon and Thieu at Midway agreed to "reject any attempt to impose upon the Republic of Vietnam any system or program or any particular form of government, such as coalition, without regard to the will of the people of South Vietnam."

South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Canh Thanh described the move as "another deceitful tactic of the Communists which may cause detriment to the progress of the Paris peace talks."

"The move contained nothing new," he added. "Several different 'coalitions,' 'alliances' and 'fronts' were previously set up by the Communists at different periods for propaganda purposes. The so-called provisional government's program of action is but a mere repetition of the one advanced by Hanoi and its agents in the South."

"The new organization is run by the same persons, well-known as either members of the Communist party or closely associated with it."

Radio Hanoi announced that the two top positions in the "provisional revolutionary government of the Republic of South Vietnam" would be held by the two top officials of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Proclamation of the provisional government had been expected for months.

Mme Nguyen Thi Binh, the NLF's deputy negotiator in Paris, was named foreign minister and head of the Paris team. The 41-year-old woman led the NLF delegation when it arrived in Paris but later was replaced by Tran Bui Kiem.

Informed sources said Kiem was being recalled to Vietnam to take an important post in the new government.

It was not known whether Mme. Binh would attempt to have the provisional government recognized at the conference table as a replacement for the NLF delegation. The United States and South Vietnam would be certain to refuse any such recognition, and this could develop into another long procedural wrangle on the order of the dispute over the shape of the conference table that delayed the conference for weeks.

When Mme. Binh came to Paris last November, she was asked why the NLF did not set itself up as a South Vietnamese government in opposition to the Saigon regime. She said the NLF already was functioning as a government in effect and would take the necessary further steps when that would be expedient.

Officials at Beth Israel said the first human implantation will take place in about eight months. Before then there will be about a dozen such implantations in dogs.

The device is about two-thirds the size of a cigarette pack and weighs 3 1/2 ounces. It is designed to operate for at least 10 years.

Battery-powered pacemakers now being used require changing every 16 to 36 months at a cost between $800 and $1,000 for each recharging.

Dr. Victor Parsonnet, a Beth Israel surgeon who helped in development of the nuclear heart pacer with Dr. George H. Myers of the hospital's biomedical engineering department, said the device marks the first application of nuclear energy to generate power within the body.

Parsonnet said the cost of a nuclear pacemaker would be about the same as the cost for the implantation of current battery-powered pacemakers.

Copter Strike Intervention?

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The strike against Bell Helicopter Co. entered its third day today with the army pondering the possibility of legal intervention.

Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., told officials of the key defense plant Tuesday the army advised him it is "evaluating the possibility of asking the president to invoke the Taft-Hartley Injunction."

If this is done, it would require a 90-day "cooling off period" during which time striking United Auto Workers would be under court order to return to their jobs.

Ray White Jr., president of striking Local 218, said without elaboration, he does not believe the government will intervene. He predicted the strike would be a long one.

Some 10,000 workers are involved in the strike. The strike shut down 13 area facilities of Bell, which produces the Iroquois and Huey Cobra helicopters used widely in Vietnam.

A Bell spokesman said Tuesday no further negotiations were scheduled, that union leaders had approved the company's contract proposal and it was now "an internal bargaining problem within the union."

The union's international representatives reached tentative agreement with Bell but the membership rejected the offer Sunday. Members struck at midnight Sunday.

Wright said use of the Taft-Hartley Act would be only the "second best" solution, that he was hopeful labor and management could settle their problems voluntarily.

But, he said, the Army is trying to determine "just how long they can wait" before taking such action.

Under the act, the president appoints a fact-finding board to determine if the strike constitutes a national emergency. If so, the Justice Department goes to court and asks for an injunction, restraining workers from striking for 90 days.

"A prolonged strike would be the 'height of irresponsibility,'" Wright declared. "He said the safety of the troops in Vietnam depends on the delivery of weapons such as the helicopters made at Bell."
