Navy Plane Thought Lost In Andes

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The Chilean Air Force searched the Andes today for a U.S. Navy C47 believed down with 16 persons on board in a heavy snowstorm.

The Argentine Air Force abandoned its efforts in the search, saying it is certain the aircraft went down on the Chilean side of the mountains.

The rescue center at Buenos Aires International Airport said an unidentified radio amateur had sent a message reporting that the plane had been located between Curico and Talca, in the Andes area. But the center said the report had not been confirmed.

The U.S. Embassy withheld all information on the identity of those aboard the plane.

The C47 took off Monday afternoon from Santiago on a flight to Buenos Aires. It was due in the Argentine capital at 11 p.m. EDT and had only enough fuel to last until midnight, the Argentine Air Force said.

Troop Pullout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources said today the military leaders in Saigon have not yet forwarded to Washington their recommendations on the scope of a possible further withdrawal of troops from Vietnam.

Until this recommendation is received President Nixon will not make his decision on whether to go beyond the 25,000 troop pull-out announced in early June.

The White House said Monday no decision has been made on further troop replacements, that is, replacement of American forces by South Vietnamese, but an announcement on the subject will be made in the latter part of August.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., had related earlier that Nixon at a meeting with Capitol leaders expressed "the evident belief that we'll probably have a further troop replacement and it could come probably before end of this month."

Pentagon sources said they knew of no basis for reports that the President will announce a 50,000-man withdrawal later this month to be followed by another 50,000 in October.

These sources said they have seen no such figures in defense working papers on which the next pull-out decision will be based.

Military leaders are known to believe that the South Vietnamese are not capable of replacing 100,000 American combat troops this year.

Spells Out Obscene Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress should pass a law spelling out in detail what constitutes obscene mail, the chairman of the House Post Office Committee said today.

"The problem of pornography has been with us for years, but control of smut mail has been aggravated in recent years by various court decisions," said Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y.

"In the matter of mailings into homes where there are minors, my bill has spelled out — in quite graphic language so there can be no doubt at all — exactly what we mean in this legislation as being obscene."

Dulski was the leadoff witness at anti-obscenity hearings by a subcommittee on postal operations.

His bill, cosponsored by several committee members, would prohibit mailing to anyone under 16 any material depicting or describing nudity, sexual conduct or sadomasochism in a way "designed primarily to appeal to the prurient interests of the viewer."

The special prohibition on mailing obscene matter to youngsters would be added to existing legislation which prohibits mailing of smut material to anyone protesting to the Post Office.

BOARD PLANE IN HANOI, HEAD FOR VIENTIANE

Three War Prisoners On Way Home

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Three U.S. prisoners of war boarded an International Control Commission plane in Hanoi today and headed for Vientiane, U.S. officials reported. The three were released Monday.

The prisoners were identified as Capt. Wesley Lewis Rumble, 26, an Air Force pilot from Oroville, Calif.; Lt. Robert Franchot Frishman, 29, a Navy pilot from Santee, Calif., and Douglas Hegdahl, a seaman apprentice from Watertown, S. D.

The three were turned over to an American pacifist group in Hanoi, and a broadcast from the North Vietnamese said that at the ceremony they reported they were well treated.

Hanoi radio quoted Frishman as saying North Vietnamese surgeons saved his right arm when he was wounded and captured northwest of Hanoi Oct. 24, 1967.

HAPPY DAY

"I would like to take this opportunity to tell you how happy I am to be released and to be able to return home and see my wife again," Frishman was quoted as saying.

"When I was shot down I had a very seriously wounded arm.

It came at a time when targets in the Hanoi area were being hit. The doctors were very busy giving medical care to their own people and it would have been much easier for them just to amputate. Yet they took the time to operate, remove my shattered elbow and save my arm, and for this I am thankful."

Frishman, said the broadcast, added: "I wish the war to come to an end soon so that the Vietnamese may be allowed to live in peace and happiness."

Rumble told how he was captured in the southern part of North Vietnam April 28, 1968. "When my plane was hit, I had to bail out," the Hanoi radio quoted him. "As I was descending in my parachute I was quite worried and fearful about the treatment I might receive while captured. But a few minutes after I was captured, my fears were eased.

"I was treated in a very kind manner. It increased my feelings for the Vietnamese people quite a bit."

War Gas Restrictions Proposed By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two senators said today the light of public debate should be thrown on the military's shadowy war gas program and they proposed several restrictions on chemical-biological warfare weapons.

"The issues these weapons raise to Congress and the nation are too serious to let CBW spiral in secrecy any longer," said Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y. Goodell joined Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., in proposing several restrictions on CBW in the form of amendments to a military spending bill.

CLOSE LOOK
Congress should set aside time to debate the amendments, the senators said, adding that CBW deserves the same close look given the Safeguard missile defense plan.

Nelson and Goodell said $1 million a day is spent on CBW weapons and the United States provides CBW training for officers from 35 nations.

The senators' amendments would ban the procurement of delivery systems for the lethal CBW agents, prohibit open air testing of nerve agents or any pathogenic biological organism, and guarantee consultation with Congress and foreign governments before deployment of CBW agents overseas.

UPROAR IN JAPAN
The senators' move was the latest of several developments which have nurtured CBW into an issue of important proportions. Among them:

—Public and congressional outcries which led to cancellation of an Army plan to haul 27,000 tons of nerve gas overland and dump it into the Atlantic Ocean.

—Appointment by Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor of a committee to review procedures for open-air testing of chemical agents at Edgewood Arsenal in Maryland.

—The death last year of 6,400 sheep near the Army's Dugway, Utah, proving ground.

—An uproar in Japan after a published report that a container of nerve gas broke at a U.S. base on Okinawa, causing 24 persons to be hospitalized briefly.

—A National Security Council study of the entire CBW program ordered by President Nixon.

Kiesinger Wings To U.S. To Talk European Unity

BONN (AP) — Chancellor Kurt-Georg Kiesinger flew to the United States today for talks with President Nixon on European unity, East-West relations and divided Berlin.

There are no major outstanding differences between the United States and West Germany. But informed sources say Kiesinger will convey an attitude of caution and doubt about Moscow's willingness to enter negotiations on such basic questions as Berlin. Bonn remains skeptical despite Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's hints in a foreign policy statement July 19 that Moscow might be ready to talk about West Berlin.

Gromyko proposed talks on the divided city and said West Germany "has no fewer opportunities than other countries for developing normal relations with the Soviet Union."

U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers said the speech might possibly provide a bit of encouragement and revealed that the three western occupation allies—the United States, France and Britain—were consulting with the West Germans on a new probe of Soviet intentions.

Bonn does not share Rogers' carefully guarded optimism, but government sources feel that Nixon and Rogers have shown they are just as realistic as Bonn about the possibility of serious bargaining on Berlin.

In his talks with Nixon and other top U.S. officials, Kiesinger also is expected to seek assurances that the American presence in Europe will be maintained.

Thieves, Bombs Ravage Puerto Rican Section

PASSAIC, N.J. (AP) — Police reported the city was quiet today after a second consecutive night of unrest in a predominantly Puerto Rican section.

Twenty-seven persons were arrested as looting and fire-bombing ravaged the area. Police reported one instance of shooting and said about 1,000 persons gathered in one small area at the peak of the disorders Monday.

Mayor Bernard Pinck imposed a 3 p.m. curfew for persons under 18. Police sealed off a tenement section bordering the main downtown business district and fired tear gas before heavy rains cleared the streets. Pinck also closed taverns and banned sales of gasoline in containers, trying to "close the town tighter than a drum."

Three buildings were hit by firebombs. One scorched the roof of City Hall, across the main business street from the Puerto Rican area.

Pass Surtax, Reform Bill Debate Next

WASHINGTON (AP) — Having completed congressional action on a six-month compromise extension of the income surcharge, the House now heads for debate on the massive tax reform bill.

Preliminary skirmishing centered today in the Rules Committee, which must decide whether to give critics of the reform bill as it is now drafted a chance to offer amendments.

Monday's 237-170 House vote assured extension of the 10 per cent surcharge only through Dec. 31. But an additional six-month extension, at 5 per cent, is included in the tax reform bill.

INFLATION FEARS
The entire extension is needed, the Nixon administration argues, if inflation is to be brought under control.

However, a group of Democrats wants to knock the additional 5 per cent extension out of the reform bill, which comes up for debate Wednesday with a vote planned for Thursday.

They also seek an opportunity to offer an amendment readjusting the proposed income tax rate reductions in the bill. Critics want to give less relief to upper bracket taxpayers and brackets.

The Rules Committee customarily sends tax bills to the Press Hunt For Fugitive

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Authorities investigating the slaying of seven Michigan college coeds and teen-age girls pressed a nationwide hunt today for Andrew Manuel, 25, last seen in Salinas, Calif.

The FBI entered the investigation for the first time when a federal fugitive warrant was issued against Manuel Monday in connection with the theft of a house trailer in Michigan.

Manuel, tall and heavy, with a tattooed left forearm, was believed by authorities to have journeyed to California in June with John N. Collins.

House under a "closed rule," permitting no amendments but only a yes or no vote on the entire issue.

MORE PRESSURE

Chairman Wilbur M. Mills, D-Ark., of the Ways and Means Committee is asking for this kind of handling of the tax reform bill and indications were the Rules Committee would go along.

There is more than usual pressure for departure from custom, however. Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, met Monday with members of the Democratic Study Group, the unofficial organization of House liberal and moderate Democrats, then drafted a letter to all Democratic members asking them to appear before the Rules Committee in behalf of a procedure permitting amendments.

Voting Monday on the six-month extension showed Democratic sentiment is still heavily against the surtax. There were 144 Democrats and 28 Republicans opposed to the bill, while 85 Democrats joined 132 Republicans in favoring it.

Voters Across Texas Deciding Proposals

By The Associated Press

Early checks showed very few Texans turned out to vote today in a special balloting on a new proposed state constitution amendments, the biggest of which involve $3.5 billion for water supplies and $20 million more for welfare.

In the first hour of voting, usually one of the busiest times on an election day, most polling places reported only a smattering of voters.

One precinct in Fort Worth, where 600 are registered, had counted only nine votes in the first hour. In Corpus Christi, a spot check of 15 of the 106 places in the city showed 484 had voted after two hours. The 15 places have 15,000 qualified voters.

In the state capitol at Austin, observers said the early voting was "generally light." The Travis County Clerk had predicted a turnout of 20,000 of the county's potential 97,000 voters.

Most proposals called for more money. And although there was little organized opposition to them and considerable campaigning for water and welfare, some intangibles left the outcome in doubt.

WELFARE PLAN

The intangibles centered on apparent reluctance to vote for something requiring more taxes in the face of the average man's rising cost of living, increasing interest rates and a trend toward more tax bite everywhere.

About 650,000 persons out of 3,494,000 eligible were expected to ballot and politicians consider that when the vote is that small it is heavily composed of conservative, anti-tax citizens.

On the other hand, campaigning has been extensive in favor of welfare and the Texas Water Plan.

A pair of federal court decisions about welfare increased the number eligible for aid and prevented any reduction in welfare checks.

The state, already spending all the $60 million allowed for welfare by the Texas Constitution, was forced to go to the voters to get the $60 million ceiling raised to $80 million.

FEDERAL CONTROL

State and welfare officials believe that if Texas does not approve the welfare increase, the federal government will take over the program—with federal money and control—under state and federal laws. Many citizens traditionally want to keep state control of all programs they can.

The water proposal would permit the state to issue $3.5 billion in bonds as its share of the Texas Water Plan—when ever the details of the plan are worked out.

The plan calls for construction of two canals. One would be along the coast to provide additional water for cities there and on into the Rio Grande Valley, the second would cross North Texas to the Panhandle, the South Plains and on to El Paso. Also to be built would be 67 reservoirs in Texas.

LOGICAL SOURCE

The water for the canals mostly would come from out of state but this hasn't been negotiated yet with surrounding states. The Mississippi River is considered the logical source.

Texas has tended to vote for water projects. But the electorate turned down last November an increase in the welfare ceiling. This was before the effects of two federal court rulings made a new ceiling imperative if Texas wants to control its welfare program.

The other issues on the ballot would provide for annual legislative salaries, removal of legislators' pay rates from the Constitution, tax relief for private water corporations, removal of deadwood from the Constitution, removal of revenue bond interest rates from the Constitution, aid survivors of state workers in certain fields an increase the student loan revolving fund.

TODAY'S VOTING IS LIGHT, POLLS OPEN UNTIL 7 P.M.

Voting in today's special election apparently will be light in Howard County. Shortly before noon the heaviest voting in local boxes appeared to be at Box 3 at 18th and Main Fire Station, where 94 votes had been cast.

Box 4, Fourth and Nolan Fire Station, reported 70 voters; Box 2, Washington School, 52; Box 8, Cedar Crest School, 29; and Box 1, Northside Fire Station, 18.

On this basis the county would do well to exceed a thousand votes, although there are 11,838 registered voters. However, heaviest voting normally takes place between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m., and the tempo could pick up appreciably.

The fate of nine proposed constitutional amendments is at stake in the voting.

VETO DEMANDS TO CALL IN BRITISH TROOPS Battle In Belfast For 3rd Night

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Northern Ireland's government vetoed demands to call in British troops, but several hours later Catholics and Protestants battled in Belfast for the third straight night Monday.

Maj. James Chichester-Clark, the province's Protestant prime minister, met with his Cabinet for two hours and told newsmen:

"The government does not want to adopt extreme measures unless the situation demands it. I have no intention of introducing a curfew, and I am reluctant to call in British troops."

Then later in the night widespread violence erupted again as bands of Protestants and Catholics fought, fires were set and police battled the warring mobs.

At least 21 persons, including a policeman, were reported injured and a dozen arrested. Another 200 were injured during the weekend, and more than 50 arrested.

On Crumlin Road, a street of Roman Catholics bordering a Protestant area, residents emerged from their homes with sticks and table legs and lit fires on street corners to ward off Protestant attacks. A house and two stores in the area were set afire; the firemen were met with fire bombs and rocks.

In another area, gasoline bombs exploded among police attempting to break up bands of youths. Street barricades burst into flames.

Although Chichester-Clark said police chiefs were confident the 3,000-man constabulary could control the situation, Bernadette Devlin, the militant young Catholic leader, demanded that Home Secretary James Callaghan order senior British officers to take control of the constabulary.

Miss Devlin, 22, who recently was elected to the British Parliament from a Catholic district of Northern Ireland, also demanded that Parliament be recalled from its summer vacation to take up the situation in Northern Ireland.

There was no indication from London, however, that the British government would step in. The six counties of Northern Ireland, while a part of the United Kingdom, run their domestic affairs, and London is extremely reluctant to intervene.

Unlike the rest of Ireland, which is predominantly Catholic, Protestants are in the majority in the northern counties, and Protestant-Catholic enmity is traditional. Demonstrations last fall against alleged anti-Catholic discrimination resulted in a militant Protestant reaction, and violence between the two religious groups has been frequent since.

Mariner Pictures Might 'Wow' TV Viewers Tonight

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 7 streaked across the Martian south polar cap today, snapping and storing pictures scientists said would glue tonight's television viewers to their chairs.

Preliminary signals flashed on monitors at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory were evidence, a spokesman said, that the photographs as finally transmitted would be "beautiful," showing features of the planet's southern hemisphere never seen before.

Commented Dr. Robert B. Leighton, California Institute of Technology astronomer, as he viewed the incoming signals: "Wait until you see the full scale pictures of the polar cap—'Wow! We are seeing the antarctic wastes of Mars.'"

CONFUSING — To newsmen the signals were a confusing hash of white and gray squares. Scientists' trained eyes, however, saw patterns which they identified as craters, large dark areas and the vast white polar cap.

In telescope photographs the cap appears smoothly circular. Approach pictures by Mariner 7 and its twin, Mariner 6, which swept along the Martian equator last Thursday, showed that the cap really has a ragged fringe and a dark splotch in the center.

Scientists expected Mariner 7's closeups to help solve the puzzles created by these new findings, perhaps answering the question of whether the cap is made of ice or frozen carbon dioxide—"dry ice."

Mariner 7's fly-by pictures from 2,000 miles high were stored on tape for televising over three hours starting at 8:30 EDT tonight.

SILENCE — During the fly-by, flight controllers turned on scientific instruments to measure the temperature of the planet's surface and the chemistry of its atmosphere. All worked flawlessly, including an infrared scanner scientists thought might have been damaged when the spacecraft went silent for seven hours last week.

Mariner 6 radioed data indicating that the Martian temperature ranges from 75 degrees above to 100 degrees below zero Fahrenheit and that its atmosphere has no nitrogen, an essential element in life on earth. Results of Mariner 7's scientific experiments are to be given at a news conference Thursday. Mission of the two spacecraft was to determine whether the mysterious red planet could support life.

Dr. Norman Horowitz, California Institute of Technology biologist, commented: "If there is any living thing on Mars, it would have to be able to run very fast—to escape the meteorites which have pocked its surface."

HUGE CRATERS — A few hours before the fly-by Mariner 7 televised a series of pictures snapped earlier in the day which hinted that some of the long dark lines on Mars may be segments of the rims of huge craters.

The lines were called canals by early astronomers who thought they might carry irrigation water to greenish areas once believed to nourish vegetation, and appear straight in telescope pictures. In the spacecraft pictures, however, they seem slightly curved and lumpy.

"We're still not sure what they are, but we don't call them canals any more," said Bradford Smith, New Mexico State University astronomer who is a member of the scientific team studying the photos.

Mrs. Cochran Named To Represent Five States

Mary Cochran, coordinator of volunteer services at the Big Spring State Hospital, has been named the representative for a five-state area in the American Association of Volunteer Services Coordinators.

Her election as representative of Region 7 for the association was announced today by Mrs. Mildred P. Katz, chairman of the elections committee. The region embraces Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Louisiana and Arkansas.

The installation, at the hands of Jane Phillip, Chicago, director of Mental Health Volunteer Services for Illinois, will come at the ninth annual meeting of the association in Houston, Sept. 12-15. Mrs. Cochran is on a panel during the first day of program for the event. She will discuss how hospital volunteers are used in the community, and more particularly the involvement of volunteers in communities removed from the Big Spring State Hospital.

Preceding the convention she will lead a meeting of the glossary committee which is seeking to standardize terminology as part of the professionalization program of the national association. The association meeting precedes the annual Institute of the American Psychiatric Association in Houston.

GAIL — The Borden County Junior Rodeo had 196 entries last weekend, 50 more than the previous year and the largest turnout ever, according to Joe Canon, president of the Borden County Junior Livestock Association, which sponsors the rodeo.

All-around champions for each age group were presented trophies. Champions are Candy Middleton, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Middleton, Big Spring, for the 12 and under age group; Bo Robinson, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Robinson, Snyder, for the 13-15 age group; and a tie between Sharon Harrison, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Harrison, Big Spring, and Bill Griffin, 17, Tahoka, for the 16-19 age group.

'Red Tide' Ruled Out

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The director of the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission says broken fish nets may have been the cause of millions of dead fish found floating in the Gulf of Mexico last week.

Commission Director Clark M. Hoffpauer said Monday that a fishing boat crewman told him that three huge nets loaded with menhaden broke last week, spilling 100 million to 200 million fish into the Gulf.

Hoffpauer said the commission has ruled out the possibility of "red tide" as the scourge that left tons of dead fish over a 30-square mile area around Timbalier Island and Wine Island Pass, about 150 miles southwest of New Orleans.

He said he felt that the broken fish nets were the most feasible explanation for the kill, since menhaden—used commercially by the fertilizer industry—die almost as soon as they are trapped in the nets.

The red tide, earlier considered as a possible cause of the kill, is an infestation of poisonous microscopic red plants. When fish pump the poison given off by the plant through their gills, they die.

DEAR ABBY: My older sister's husband dropped in unexpectedly to see me the other day. I am 23, happily married and have two children. I was talking about rose planting and lawn fertilizer when he somehow started talking about sex. I felt uncomfortable and tried to change the subject, but he got back on sex again and I just sat there and listened like an idiot.

He told me he wasn't happy with my sister (they've been married 10 years and have five children) and he was afraid that because of her "coldness" he was losing his masculinity. Then he said that all he needed was a one-time affair to prove to himself that he was still able to satisfy a woman. He said he didn't want to hurt his wife and children, but he had to do this for himself, and would I help him?

I told him no, I wouldn't, and I was insulted that he took me for that kind of girl. Then I showed him the door.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: About four months ago, my husband brought home a parakeet, knowing that I am frightened to death of anything with feathers. Raymond tried to teach the bird to talk, but couldn't get a sound out of him, so he named him "Stupid."

Abby, I tried my best to overcome my fear. I fed and watered that parakeet and even cleaned its cage, but I was terrified every moment that bird was near me.

I finally couldn't take it any more, and gave Stupid to a neighbor. When Raymond came home and found Stupid gone, he carried on like a mad man and made me get him back, so now the fight is on again.

Raymond says I'm foolish to be afraid of a few ounces of feathers, although I tried to explain that when I was a little girl some sort of barn owl, or large hawk landed on my neck and attacked me, and I've been terrified since. Raymond said he wouldn't ask me to keep anything that would put me in danger, and I suppose he's right, but do you think having this thing about birds, I should be forced to keep and care for one?

AFRAID OF BIRDS
DEAR ABBY: No. Your husband should realize that even though the bird can do you no "physical" harm, it can do you much emotional harm, feeling as you do about birds. Yours is a very selfish and inconsiderate man. (P.S. And look who's calling whom "Stupid!")

Germfree Rats Aid Cancer Fight

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Those pedigreed, caesarean section-born germfree rodents have another scientific usage besides determining if America's lunar astronauts brought back any diseases from the moon.

Tulane University School of Medicine produces the antiseptic animals for cancer research programs throughout the country.

The school announced Monday the receipt of a $71,000 federal grant to its Germfree Animal Laboratory. Since establishment of the breeding program five years ago, Tulane has received $331,023 in federal grants and also expended additional money of its own.

Tulane, however, develops germfree rats rather than white mice—which are used at Houston, Tex., where moon-dust was injected into their systems.

When Mother was present, we spoke in normal manner, refusing to shout or repeat what we had said. Consequently she was left out of all the conversations. When she complained, we reminded her in tones that she could hear that we saw no reason to yell or repeat since we believed her when she said there was nothing the matter with her hearing.

After a while Mother decided that perhaps she ought to have her hearing tested to find out if she was deaf. She was. Now Mother wears a hearing aid and she no longer has a problem. And neither have we. Sincerely,

ARE THE INSIDE LINES CURVED?

No. They only look that way. The lines are perfectly square. Check it yourself with a ruler. Illusions are like that. They prove that things aren't always what they seem to be.

Take Muzak, for example. It sounds like music. But it's not, actually. It's an obtrusive, scientifically-conditioned musical environment that people didn't consciously listen to, but subconsciously react to in a positive way.

What Muzak does is motivate people and increase their efficiency. That by itself has to make Muzak one of the most effective management tools yet devised to step-up employee productivity. On the assembly line. In offices. In stores. Practically anywhere where people can work more efficiently.

We have all the proof you'll ever need to convince you how effective Muzak really is. We'd love to show you. Just call or write us.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: About four months ago, my husband brought home a parakeet, knowing that I am frightened to death of anything with feathers. Raymond tried to teach the bird to talk, but couldn't get a sound out of him, so he named him "Stupid."

Abby, I tried my best to overcome my fear. I fed and watered that parakeet and even cleaned its cage, but I was terrified every moment that bird was near me.

I finally couldn't take it any more, and gave Stupid to a neighbor. When Raymond came home and found Stupid gone, he carried on like a mad man and made me get him back, so now the fight is on again.

Raymond says I'm foolish to be afraid of a few ounces of feathers, although I tried to explain that when I was a little girl some sort of barn owl, or large hawk landed on my neck and attacked me, and I've been terrified since. Raymond said he wouldn't ask me to keep anything that would put me in danger, and I suppose he's right, but do you think having this thing about birds, I should be forced to keep and care for one?

AFRAID OF BIRDS
DEAR ABBY: No. Your husband should realize that even though the bird can do you no "physical" harm, it can do you much emotional harm, feeling as you do about birds. Yours is a very selfish and inconsiderate man. (P.S. And look who's calling whom "Stupid!")

DEAR ABBY: My older sister's husband dropped in unexpectedly to see me the other day. I am 23, happily married and have two children. I was talking about rose planting and lawn fertilizer when he somehow started talking about sex. I felt uncomfortable and tried to change the subject, but he got back on sex again and I just sat there and listened like an idiot.

He told me he wasn't happy with my sister (they've been married 10 years and have five children) and he was afraid that because of her "coldness" he was losing his masculinity. Then he said that all he needed was a one-time affair to prove to himself that he was still able to satisfy a woman. He said he didn't want to hurt his wife and children, but he had to do this for himself, and would I help him?

I told him no, I wouldn't, and I was insulted that he took me for that kind of girl. Then I showed him the door.

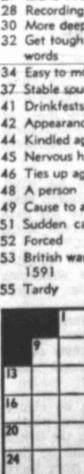

Abby, I love my sister, and hate to think of her being married to such a rat. Should I tell her about this or not?

WAITING FOR CAPTIVE SON — Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Rumble of Oroville, Calif., chatted with friends on the telephone Monday after their son, Capt. Wesley Humble, 26, was identified in a British radio broadcast as one of three American captive pilots to be released by the North Vietnamese. Young Rumble, who was an Air Force fighter-bomber pilot, was shot down April 28, 1968. Mr. Rumble holds a letter from his son.

Three Prisoners' Families React Joyfully To Reports

By The Associated Press
The families of three U.S. servicemen reacted joyfully to reports of their release from North Vietnamese imprisonment.

Girl Finds Blue Frog

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Zoo officials here are elated with their latest acquisition—a blue frog.
"It's as rare as a blue moon," said zoo director Roger Conant. "A generic aberration," said the zoo's press director Jack Chevalier.
Conant described the frog's voice "like a loose banjo string and rather explosive."
The frog was found in Starlight, Pa., by a 6-year-old girl. A research scientist neighbor handed it in to zoo officials.
Conant said the frog is probably a male adult about a year old.

ment. But the family of another captive could only look to the future.
"I don't think we really believe it yet," said Mrs. Lyle Rumble of Oroville, Calif., mother of Air Force Capt. Wesley Lewis Rumble.
"To really feel at ease, we're waiting for the Air Force," she said. Rumble was captured in April 1968.
"I'm thrilled," said Mrs. Robert Franchot Frishman of Santee, Calif., whose husband, a Navy flier, was captured two years ago. "Right now I'm numb," she said. He was promoted to lieutenant while a captive.
"We're overjoyed," said Abe Hegdahl, who operates a hotel and motel in Clark, S.D. His son, Douglas, a Navy seaman, was reported overboard from the cruiser Canberra in April 1967.
"We've been waiting for this so long," he said.
The three servicemen were identified by Rennie Davis, an American pacifist who received custody of them in Hanoi. He said they would be flown to Laos today, to Bangkok on Wednesday and to New York Thursday.

'Be Prepared' Brings Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — The Girl Scouts of America is suing a poster company for $1 million for portraying a pregnant Girl Scout alongside the motto "Be Prepared."
In a federal court damage suit filed Monday against Personality Posters Manufacturing Co., Inc., of New York, the Girl Scouts claimed the poster was a "wanton and malicious defamation of the scouts."
The Girl Scouts charged the full color poster of a smiling girl "in an advanced state of pregnancy, wearing the official Junior Girl Scout uniform" was "intended to impute unchastity and moral turpitude to members."
Further, the suit said, the poster was designed to destroy the association of Girl Scout aims with "truth, helpfulness, friendliness and kindred virtues among girls."
The Scouts, a 57-year-old organization of 3.7 million girls from 7 to 17, also sought an injunction against further production of the poster and confiscation of those already printed.

Leaving Onetime Monarch Of Seas

MIAMI (AP) — Commodore Geoffrey Marr led a contingent of 118 crewmen of the retired liner Queen Elizabeth today as they boarded a chartered jet for London.
The crew left the 28-year-old liner Monday at her dock in nearby Fort Lauderdale Port. She is awaiting conversion to a permanent convention and tourist center.
Fourteen of the crewmen have been asked to return to assist the liner's new owners. The remaining crewmen expressed nostalgia at leaving the onetime monarch of the seas.
"But the impact won't really set in until we are home," said Marr. "All you want to do after eight months is get home, and then you wonder, how is the dear old lady doing without us?"
Marr said he plans to retire early from service with the Cunard Lines, former owners of the Elizabeth. He has been with Cunard for 45 years.

ARRESTED — Marquette Frye, above, whose arrest was officially pinpointed as touching off the 1965 Watts riots, was arrested Monday on suspicion of murder following a restaurant holdup in which one man was killed and another critically wounded, police reported.

Touched Off Watts Riots

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marquette Frye, whose drunk driving arrest was judged the spark that touched off the 1965 Watts riots, has been arrested again, this time on suspicion of murder.
Officers said Frye, 25, was one of three men robbing patrons in a restaurant when the owner's son opened fire with a shotgun. One man was killed and another wounded.
Frye was booked Monday on suspicion of armed robbery and suspicion of murder, although police said Frye did not fire a shot. California law permits murder prosecution of a person committing a felony at which deaths occur.
The shooting came on the opening day of the Watts Summer Festival, commemorating the anniversary of the rioting in which 34 died and 1,632 were hurt.
In August, 1965, police arrested Frye and his brother Ronald in the predominantly Negro district on suspicion of drunken driving. A crowd gathered when Marquette became belligerent, officers said.

Capture 25 In Dope Raids

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Police detectives, in a drive they said was aimed at drying up drug and marijuana peddling in the city, arrested 25 young persons Monday on secret indictments returned in July by the Dallas County grand jury.
Lt. Frank Cornwall, head of the police narcotics section, said a flying squad of a dozen officers began the arrests about noon.
The lieutenant said 27 indictments were returned July 25 against persons aged 15 to 21. He said eight of those arrested, six girls and two boys, are juveniles. The remaining 17 are adults, Cornwall added.
At midnight, only one suspect had not been apprehended. The 27th, a 15-year-old girl, was to be brought to police headquarters this morning by her lawyer.
Cornwall said 35 cases were filed against the suspects, naming them as dealers in marijuana, LSD, "speed" and barbiturates.
Those arrested came from above-average income homes, Cornwall said, adding the undercover narcotics detectives had purchased drugs from each of the suspects.
"We're hitting them now, before school starts," the lieutenant said, "because we want them to know it's not so funny. They're facing a prison term ranging from five years to life, and they're not going to be going back to high school."

Check your thermostat setting. This can reduce your air conditioning costs substantially. Set the thermostat no lower than necessary for your comfort. The lower the temperature setting, the more electricity the unit uses.

Insure free air circulation. Keep weeds and shrubbery away from your outdoor unit, so that air circulation will be unimpeded. This will help maintain the efficiency of your unit and help reduce operating costs.

Keep filters clean. Clogged air filters restrict air flow, causing the unit to work harder and use more electricity. Clogged filters also cause the unit to "strain" which can result in breakdowns.

Shade your windows. Use blinds, shades or draw drapes to keep out direct sunlight and reduce the amount of heat entering your home. This lightens the load on your air conditioning and helps cut your operating costs.

Have your unit checked once a year. Like your car, your air conditioning unit will operate more efficiently and economically if it is properly maintained. Have it checked at least once a year by a qualified air conditioning serviceman.

Insulation helps cut cooling costs. Insulation is recommended, particularly in the ceiling. It keeps hot air out, cool air in. Insulation also keeps your home quieter and reduces the cost of winter heating as well as summer cooling.

A Devotional For The Day

An Unhappy Land

Generalissimo Francisco Franco has finally designated Prince Juan Carlos as his appointed successor and future King of Spain. In turn, Juan Carlos has promised to continue the policies of the Falangist regime.

There will be no change, of course, until Franco dies or resigns. But there is every reason to believe that the transition, when it comes, will be one of ferment with the fate of Juan Carlos hinging on his ability as a unifying force between the military and conservatives.

Friends of the Spanish people throughout the world can only hope that the succession will be peaceful, but that truly democratic government can eventually come to that unhappy land. For most of the past 30 years the Spanish have been a prostrate people. The terrible civil war, from 1936 to 1939, killed an estimated one million Spaniards, among them their youth and their intellectuals. Even today the Spanish people have not fully recovered from the horrors of that revolution. Perhaps the terrible memories which remain will help to ensure a stable succession. But the seeds of violence and of revolution are still in the land. Students, who have no conception of the years of the revolution, and labor union members are restive. They want something better than the languidness of a spent generation and the repression of a totalitarian regime.

Change will come only gradually in that tormented land, though. Better that it be gradual, moving with patience, than a revolutionary convulsion. For Spain, as someone once said, "is a land of mystery where the dust of isolation has often settled on men's work and obscured their lives."

Yet the impatience of youth is not easy to cope with, as we Americans know full well. But hope remains, hope that the isolation and the anguish of the Spanish spirit may be relieved.

Still Some Hard Choices

The nation rejoices that President Nixon has returned safely from his round-the-world tour which put him in personal touch with many nations. The wave of good feeling resulting from these visitations, which were warmly received even in Romania, a country with a Communist government, is bound to provide a springboard for future dealings. The President's impromptu observation on his arrival back in Washington that it marked the end of an age of confrontation with one of negotiation seems a little premature if not too generous.

It would be wonderful if this could be brought to pass, but it will take some doing. One of the chief obstacles still is the matter in Vietnam, where Mr. Nixon and President Thieu agreed that certain "options" would be exercised if North Vietnam persisted in its adamant attitudes. These options surely do not include unilateral withdrawal and a wholesale United States pullout of Southeast Asia.

Although there are some signs of a petering out process, in the Vietnam fighting, there is nothing to assure a continuation of this. The release of three American POWs by North Vietnam is a hopeful sign but not much more. Meanwhile, the talks in Paris continue stalled. Somewhere down the line, as hard as it may seem, one of the options might include a resumption of military pressure on the enemy supply lines. This may not be the most popular course, but it could be the most effective and realistic.

Holmes Alexander Those Historical Confessions

WASHINGTON — Other public personalities than Senator Ted Kennedy have thrown themselves on the sympathy and judgment of the sentimental American people, as Kennedy did in his nationwide telecast of July 25, and some comparisons are in order.

When Alexander Hamilton was Secretary of Treasury, he got into an illicit affair with Mrs. Reynolds. In 1797 his political opponents including James Monroe, not knowing the facts, started a whispering campaign that the Secretary had paid off her indignant husband with Treasury funds in the guise of a pension.

HAMILTON MADE two responses. He challenged Monroe to a duel. He wrote a full account of his affair in a New York paper, saying that much as he deplored hurting his wife and mortifying himself, he could not permit any slur at his reputation as a public official. Hamilton's account was so lucid that he left no questions unanswered, and nobody could doubt his word.

WHEN HUGO BLACK, Senator of Billy Graham

I am a young person with normal drives. I find myself leaning over backwards to fit in to the crowd I run with. I have a horror of them disowning me. And, because of this, I sometimes do things I know I ought not to do. Could you make any suggestion about keeping one's ideals, and still keeping the respect of my group? B.P.I.

In the teenage years there exists a tremendous need to "belong". At this stage in life, to be accepted by one's peers becomes an almost compulsive desire. Who really wants to be a misfit? Who enjoys being ridiculed by one's group? But, as we begin to mature, we soon realize that human nature is diversified — that we are not all alike, and if everyone dressed alike, talked alike, and looked alike, life would be pretty dull indeed.

This desperate urge to belong is normal, but if carried to its logical conclusion can get one in trouble. Individuals have consciences, but groups tend to be conscienceless. Young people do things in a group they would never do alone. Individuality is part of the maturing process. Far from losing the respect of your peers when you make your own decisions, you actually gain respect. Think of the people you admire. Aren't they the ones who act and think on their own? Sheep follow each other, instinctively. You really aren't moving toward personhood until you begin to decide what is right or wrong for yourself. But be sure to make the decision on the basis of the Bible. It is God's word about what is right and wrong.

'Wonder Which Asian Policy We're Using Today?'

John Cunniff GM Versus U.S. Steel

NEW YORK (AP) — In one corner is General Motors, the world's largest industrial corporation, weighing in with assets of $14 billion, income of $1.7 billion in 1968, and a staff of 757,000 workers.

In the other is U.S. Steel, ranked 10th among U.S. corporations, with assets of $6.4 billion, income of $254 million last year, and a staff of 200,000. Popularly called Big Steel, it is twice the size of its nearest rival, Bethlehem Steel.

The biggest steel user on one side. The biggest producer on the other.

Rarely have two corporate behemoths engaged in a showdown over the price one charges the other. Perhaps they won't lock horns, but the gestures have been menacing; a challenge has been hurled and a defiant response delivered.

On July 30, U.S. Steel announced price increases on a wide range of steel products, including $6 a ton on hot rolled sheets and $8 a ton on cold rolled sheets, both widely used in automotive manufacture.

A price move had been expected for some time. For the steel industry had made clear it could not absorb a 6 per cent rise in labor costs on Aug. 1. In fact, profits of the big steelmakers already have been off badly recently.

It was both the size and timing of the increase that seemed to disturb GM and some other big steel users, including appliance manufacturers. The increases averaged 4.8 per cent but covered 40 per cent of all steel products.

In all likelihood an increase of that size would force a price increase of several dollars in auto prices. Combined with other increased costs, this could raise prices to the point of lowering sales.

In GM's book it doesn't take much of an increase to discourage buying—to suggest to a potential customer that he postpone his purchase for another year. Nothing irritates automotive people more than postponements, for in an industry in which new models come out each year a postponement is a lost sale.

As far as GM was concerned, the increases came at the wrong time, because sales already were off badly in July. For the entire month its dealers delivered 330,037 fewer cars than a year earlier, a whopping 15 per cent drop.

With such serious matters to ponder, GM dispatched an advisory to U.S. Steel. Hold up shipments, it told Big Steel, "pending a re-evaluation of the competitive situation with respect to steel prices."

The challenge had been answered.

Hal Boyle Off Your Rocker?

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you on or off your rocker?

We live in such unreal times that it is difficult for us to be sure whether we're batting .500 or simply have bats in our belfry, whether we are safe and sane or out of this world and hiding in a self-made babel.

There is no need to push the panic button over the problem, however. There are simple, easy ways to test your own normality or abnormality quotient.

For example, just answer the following questions:

When you go fishing, do most of the other fellows in the boat catch more fish than you do? As you wait in line in a bank to cash a check, can you feel the uniformed guard's eyes staring at you suspiciously?

After 10 or more years of marriage, is it beginning to dawn on you that in most things your wife is probably smarter than you are?

But would you rather be drawn and quartered by four wild horses than admit this to anybody?

Does it annoy you when you sharpen pencils because the points seem to break off more easily than they did in the old days?

As a matter of fact, most of the things they turn out today don't have the quality of things they made in the old days.

At a cocktail party, do you prefer to wait until the second martini takes hold before you feel up to talking to a stranger? Would you rather wait for him to speak to you than introduce yourself to him?

Can you feel foam gathering in the corners of your mouth if anyone under the age of 30 questions one of your opinions?

Would you like to see half the politicians shot to the moon, and the other half exiled to the planet Mars?

When the alarm clock rings each morning, do you automatically groan over the problems the day may bring?

Is Monday your worst enemy and Friday your best friend? As you walk down the street, are you occasionally made uneasy by the creepy sensation that something or somebody is following you?

Are you convinced that you are overworked, and the young bucks at your office overpaid? Even the office boy is secretly trying to get your job, isn't he? Do you feel that if the inflation gets any worse everybody in America will wind up in the poor house?

Well, those are the questions. Now to the results.

If you answered "no" to all of them, you're in a state of psychotic euphoria. You need half a dozen psychiatrists, not just one.

But if in every case you gave "yes" for an answer, you're as normal as suds on a glass of beer.

You are probably just getting older-and-tired-and-what you need, instead of a psychiatrist, is a good long vacation.

Around The Rim The Wicked Flea

Bill Hamilton, city editor of the Enid (Oklahoma) News-Eagle ran a biographical tribute last week with word of the passing of Sam W. Blackburn, a dependable and prolific staffer of The Herald for 13½ years. Since Sam supplied this space with type each Tuesday, perhaps a few excerpts from Hamilton's piece are fitting.

"THE 'Wicked Flea' seems like an odd title for a daily newspaper column, doesn't it? But to thousands of Southern Oklahoma newspaper subscribers and readers it didn't matter. Regardless of the title, readers knew that the words of wisdom expounded daily in the full-length column on the first page of the paper were words of a man who more than anything else was the guide and conscience of this part of the sooner state that was still in his infancy.

"THE COLUMN, born in a newspaper editorial fight, was written by Sam W. Blackburn, whose life itself would fill an interesting novel. The title of his column which appeared continuously in one or two papers for more than 20 years was taken from an editorial by a rival paper. The incident occurred in 1923 in Ardmore. The Daily Ardmoreite, of which Blackburn was later to become managing editor, ran a first page editorial urging a grand jury be called to investigate county affairs. Simply because it was the policy of the Ardmore Morning Press, the rival paper of which Blackburn was then editor (at age 19), the fiery young editor countered with a page one editorial rapping the grand jury as archaic, useless, expensive and silly. Fighting mad, the Ardmoreite retorted with an editorial captioned scripturally: "The Wicked Flea."

"BEING A BRASH and young upstart, Blackburn waxed sarcastic in his second editorial, asserting that the Ardmoreite wanted to call him some sort of lousy bug, but, being uneducated, its spelling was bad. The caption, he said, should have read, "The Wicked Flea." The handle kind of stuck, and it became the signature for a column he began writing. Later he became managing editor of the Ardmoreite, and until he left in 1956 the column appeared daily.

"But the 'Wicked Flea' is but a small part of the newspaper career of a kid that defied his school superintendent (in Electra, Texas) and established a paper of his own.

BLACKBURN covered a big scoop for two major wire services and many larger newspapers with the capture in Ardmore of Harvey Bailey, the (Charles F.) Urschel kidnapper who had broken jail at Dallas. He scooped the larger papers on the biggest story of his life when he broke the story of the killing in Ardmore of the nephew of the President of Mexico. When four convicts escaped from the Texas penitentiary and elected to shoot it out with a single policeman, Cortez Craddock, on a calm Sunday morning in front of the newsman's home, it was Blackburn who guarded one of the wounded men and another dying of gunshot wounds while Craddock chased the two who fled.

"HIS FUNNIEST experience occurred when the stooge employed by a crusading minister to sniff out bootleggers mistakenly identified Blackburn, who was seated at the counsel table, as the town's leading bootlegger.

"His hobby was books, and he had an enormous home library that he had read thoroughly . . . books from the classics to newest best sellers.

"BLACKBURN HAD no children, but he continually plugged for recreational playgrounds and better living conditions for the youngsters of Ardmore and Southern Oklahoma. He championed the cause of the poor and underprivileged and lambasted the idle rich. He was a champion for the little guy, and they believed what he said. He knew — he came up that way."

Marquis Childs Democratic Party In Disarray?

WASHINGTON — Richard Nixon is living proof that the public memory is short. His farewell tirade addressed to reporters following his defeat for the governorship of California in 1962 should have finished him off. Yet today he is President of the United States consolidating his popularity with all the skill of the adroit politician that he is.

The same may prove true in the case of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. As he surely knew when he made his emotional appeal on television, the reservoir of sentiment for the Kennedys in Massachusetts was bound to result in the outpouring of support now flowing into the senator's retreat on Cape Cod. He can count on the same sentiment when he runs for reelection in 1970.

BUT THERE is a difference. The Kennedys have all lived in the white-hot glare of public attention. It was their element, one they cultivated with shrewd understanding, enhanced by their grace, their courage, their intellect. This same white-hot glare is today in the aftermath of Kennedy's tragic accident an avenging force that cannot be stayed. It is the grim irony of Kennedy's plight as the pack presses in demanding that he fill out every last gap in a statement so riddled with ambiguities and evasions.

THE KENNEDY TRAGEDY says almost as much about the Democratic party, and for that matter the state of politics in America today, as it does about the Kennedy legend. The cult of personality, to take a phrase out of the context of an alien system, was at the root of the Kennedy strength. No one who followed John F. Kennedy in 1960 can ever forget those wildly screaming crowds — the young screamers who gave him their passionate and entirely uncritical adulation. In the same way his brother, Bobby, attracted the wildly cheering mass. Having little to do with issues, this was a dividend of the television screen for those who understood how best to exploit this fantastic new medium.

AS CONTRASTED with the powerful publicity apparatus that came into being around the Kennedys — the legion of friends and cultists in the media — their political base was shallow. If it had not been for the Daley machine in Chicago and for Lyndon Johnson's machinations in Texas and elsewhere in the South, the election in 1960 would have gone to Nixon. At the end of his third year in the presidency Kennedy had lost not a little of his reputation for skill in political maneuvering. His claim to get the country moving again had been obscured.

THE KENNEDYS attracted men of great intellect, brilliant publicists, the Schlesingers, Goodwins, Sorensens, Galbraiths. With speeches, position papers, creative ideas, wit and satire they served a candidate seeking the presidency and then a President with extraordinary zeal and unflagging loyalty.

But they themselves had no political base. Their skill was in serving power. They were not, except tangentially, a part of the political process. Theodore Sorensen failed to win election as a delegate from New York City to the Democratic national convention last year, that humblest step on the political ladder.

HERE IS THE contradiction that leaves the Democratic party today in disarray. So much of the fire, the verve, the dash centered around a family, a legend, a cult. If the Kennedy era is ended, as this observer believes it is — symbolically the end written in a miserable and tragic accident with the judgment of the principal lacking in its aftermath — the party is left groping for a center. Art Buchwald Moon Rocks As Foreign Exchange

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has revealed that he plans to give heads of state rocks from the moon after the rocks have been studied by the scientists. This, indeed, is a generous gesture and one that we hope other nations will appreciate.

I can see the scene in the White House Oval Room. On the President's desk is a box of moon rocks.

Henry Kissinger comes in and says, "Mr. President, Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir is on the phone and she wants the 50 F-4jet fighters you promised."

"TELL HER I can't give her the jets right now, as I don't want to antagonize the Arabs; but I'll give her 50 moon rocks instead."

"She was hoping you'd say that. Now about the disarmament conference with the Soviets. What do you think our strategy should be?"

"I think we should let our disarmament representatives take a box of moon rocks with them. If the Soviets give in on a point, we give them a rock. If, on the other hand, they turn us down on a proposal, we take a rock away. In that way they'll have an incentive to negotiate with us."

"THAT'S BRILLIANT. We may stop them from building an ABM system after all. I meant to ask you a question, Mr. President. Did you want to give the head of Peru a rock or didn't you?"

"Isn't that the country that keeps arresting our fishing boats and confiscating our oil refineries?"

"Yes, sir."

"NO MOON rocks for them. They're going to have to learn the United States is a first-class power."

"I couldn't agree with you more, Mr. President. We have a rumor from Mexico City that Castro may be willing to turn over American plane hijackers in exchange for 1,000 moon rocks."

"HE MUST BE out of his mind. First, we don't have a thousand moon rocks, and secondly, if we did have them, he'd be the last person in the world who would get them."

"Prime Minister Wilson called a few hours ago and was wondering whether he could borrow 10 more rocks."

"We gave him 10 last week."

"He said that somehow he lost them, and if it ever comes out in Parliament, his government could fall."

"I SUPPOSE we have no choice. But warn him we can't keep pouring rocks into his government; the British are going to have to stand on their own two feet. Any word from Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy?"

"Yes, sir. He thinks your idea of breaking away from gold as a form of international exchange and substituting moon rocks is great. But he hasn't been able to persuade France, West Germany or anyone else to go along with it. He says he'll keep on trying."

"Any word from Bill Rogers in Japan?"

"Yes, sir. He says the Japanese were very grateful to get your rocks, but they still want you to get our GIs out of Okinawa." (Copyright, 1969, The Washington Post Co.)

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For years I had trouble replacing elastic on half slips, especially nylon.

I know having a sewing machine is a blessing, but if you don't have one, you might try my way.

I was mending one of my slips and the needle kept poking into my finger. I took my thumb off and put in on the forefinger of my left hand (being right-handed). To my surprise I found I could stretch the elastic on the thumb by holding it down with the pressure of the thumb and it stayed put.

It worked like a million. You can keep a thimble on your right hand too, so it will be easy to push the needle through the elastic. Mrs. C. Bogush

Dear Heloise:

I have discovered that if I dip a facial tissue in the coloring, it soaks up all the excess in a jiffy. Mrs. D. Lippingwell

Dear Heloise:

A LOVELIER YOU Pamper Dieters With Low-Cal Fruit Freeze

By MARY SUE MILLER
To pamper our dieters here's a great idea — a low-calorie way to home-freeze cantaloupe and honeydew in season for later use. The process is updated from 1963, when a lady in Hot Spring, Ark., discovered that water from the nearby Mountain Valley spring preserved the true, fresh taste of the fruit she "put up." The reason, we now know, lies in the absence of tap water chemicals.

The present method calls for the same spring water, plus the mod touch of a freezer, plastic bags, supply of empty, washed, eight-ounce tin cans, lemon juice. What, no sugar? Just nature's own low-cal, contained in the fruit. Now this is what you do.

Pre-chill the spring water. Cut melons in big-bite cubes and sprinkle with lemon juice. Place plastic bag in empty can. (This simplifies handling and produces stackable shape).

Fill bag loosely with fruit until top is covered. Place in freezer. To allow for expansion, do not tie top of bag until water freezes; then tie close to ice surface. Remove bag from can and stack finished packages in freezer.

Thaw fruit as wanted on refrigerator shelf or counter. Do not discard water. It is fine to use in gelatin desserts and concentrated beverages. Remember, it's good, with no sugar added. A dieter's dream.

A LOVELY FIGURE

What's your figure problem? To achieve total attractiveness send for my booklet, "Secrets of a Lovely Figure." It contains easy ways to reduce weight and proportions; to overcome grooming problems, such as fuz, freckles and blemishes; to move with grace and poise. of nylon fishnet (used so widely for swimsuit cover-ups) and folded it in half lengthwise to make it less stretchy. I then bound it on all four sides with bias tape, and put ties on the corners to fasten it to the bars on the inside of baby's crib.

This has been great for keeping tiny toes and toys in the crib where they belong.

It allows free circulation of air and can easily be removed for washing. Valie B. Fox

Dear Heloise:

After reading the hint from the lady who used toothpicks to stir the paint in "paint-by-number" sets, I just couldn't resist sending my hint:

Just try using a plastic hair-roller pick.

Stir a color, wipe the pick clean, and it's ready to stir another color.

There is no transfer of paint from one color to another that we might get if we didn't use a clean toothpick for every color.

Also, the pick has a little knob on top to help hold onto it. A great convenience. Paint-by-number Bug.

Dear Heloise:

The system of putting things on high shelves in labeled shoeboxes to make them easily accessible is an excellent idea that I have used for some time, and I would like to add a tip to make it even easier.

I cut a little finger hole in the lower front edge of each box.

That way, when I open the bottom cabinet door and step up on the bottom shelf, all 5 feet 2 of me can easily get things off the very highest shelf. Catherine Bibb

Burglaries Appear Solved

Four local burglaries were cleared up Monday with the arrest of four juveniles by Keith Jones, juvenile officer, and city policemen.

Jones said the boys were 12, 13, and 14, and cleared burglaries of the Boys Club, a service station and two residences.

Jones also recovered, with assistance of a 14-year-old boy, a watch and radio from still another burglary. Officers also learned the whereabouts of several other items taken in burglaries, and recovered money, a watch and clothing taken in those incidents.

A 12-year-old boy was referred to the juvenile office early today in connection with another burglary incident, not connected with these according to Jones.

Forsan's Budget Hearing Today

FORSAN — A hearing on the proposed budget for the City of Forsan will be on tap at 7:30 p.m. today in the water office.

Councilmen also will open bids for proposed improvements to the city water system, and will talk about the likelihood of a tax-rate increase. The latter, said Mayor Jack Lamb, is due to the declining production on the Amerada leases, which are within the city limits. More revenue must be generated to meet bond requirements, he noted. Proposed improvements include the laying of additional lines and to enlarge lines to the overhead storage.

Eagerly Anticipated Camp Experience Ends Sadly

The thrill of being in camp last Sunday evening in tragedy for Francisco (Frankie) Ontiveros, 13. He drowned in the swimming pool at Prude Ranch, probably not long after he had checked into camp.

Frankie, the son of Mrs. Paula D. Franco, was one of three boys who had been given a camping trip by an anonymous friend because they had been such good pupils at Moss School. Frankie, along with Raymond Chavarria, 13, and his brother, Jessie Chavarria, was so pleased with the camping scholarships that they insisted on doing a good turn to show their appreciation. So last week they had mowed and trimmed the lawn at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Then came Sunday, when at last they went to camp. At the ranch, Frankie joined with others in a watermelon feast while boys got acquainted. Later the group went swimming, and then had cabin check. Indications were that an extra boy got in the cabin to which Frankie was assigned and this accounted for a right number. Next morning when camping activities began, Frankie's body, clad in swimming trunks, was found in the pool. The body was taken to Alpine for an examination by Dr. W. F. Lockhart, and on the basis of this, Justice of Peace Barry Scobee entered a verdict of accidental drowning.

Last rites will be said at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church, where Frankie was a member, with the Rev. Edward Bastian officiating. Burial will be in the City Cemetery under direction of Nailey-Pickel Funeral Home.

He was born Feb. 19, 1956, in Monahans, and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Paula Franco, 711 NW 9th, Big Spring, and father, Frank Ontiveros Sr., Monahans, a sister, Martha Ontiveros, Big Spring, a brother, Jose Louis Ontiveros, Big Spring, his grandmother, Mrs. Nicolasa P. Diaz, Big Spring, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Nunez, Monahans.

He also leaves a half-sister, Esmeralda Franco; two half-brothers, Johnny and Fernando Franco.

Court Ponders County Budget

Howard County Commissioners considered a budget Tuesday based on a projected assessed valuation of $80,000,000. Members made plans to visit places of several landowners who have complained about revaluation of rural property for tax purposes.

Simon Terrazas, Bill Crocker and County Judge Lee Porter spent this morning touring land revaluated for tax purposes during recent board of equalization hearings. Several area farmers have complained the county tax on rural land is too high.

Commissioners met Monday morning with representatives of Pritchard and Abbott, and discussed the valuation of oil properties. They are considering the possibility of calling another board of equalization hearing concerning the tax on oil land.

Mayor To Attend Austin Tax Parley

Mayor Arnold Marshall will leave this afternoon to attend a meeting in Austin that will try to prevent any change in the state collect the sales tax and make refunds to the cities. About 50 mayors from Texas cities with a city sales tax are expected to attend.

"We want to be certain the city sales tax provisions remain the same as they are now," said a spokesman for the Texas Municipal League which called the meeting.

After meeting together the mayors or their spokesmen hope to talk with the governor, lieutenant governor and speaker of the House.

Reds Manage Lone Run But Defeat Phillies

By The Associated Press
After slugging their way into first place, Cincinnati hitters must have thought they earned a day off, but fortunately their pitchers showed up and did a day's work for a change. Going from the ridiculous to the sublime, the Reds followed Sunday's 19-17 victory over Philadelphia with a heavenly triumph over the New York Mets Monday night that must have left toiling Jim Maloney wondering where everyone pitched showed up and did a day's work for a change.

Philadelphia with a heavenly triumph over the New York Mets Monday night that must have left toiling Jim Maloney wondering where everyone pitched showed up and did a day's work for a change. Coming back himself from arm miseries, Maloney had his work cut out for him as his teammates managed only Alex Johnson's sacrifice fly off Jerry Koonsman in the third inning. But Maloney made it stand up with a two-hitter for 8 2-3 innings before Wayne Granger got the last out, a stunning performance for the normally battered staff of the Reds.

No Apologies Being Made For Defenses

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP)—American Football League defenses, much maligned by outsiders since the league's berth but accorded due credit since the New York Jets' Super Bowl victory this year, have been getting better and better, one of the league's most veteran defensive backs says.

Johnny Robinson 10-year AFL veteran safety from Louisiana State who is the last member of the Kansas City Chiefs to start with the Dallas Texans in 1960, also suggests the AFL defenses now are on a par with the National Football League.

A year or two ago, veteran NFL observers would have scoffed at such an opinion. But the 1969 Super Bowl ended the scoffing, and now those like Robinson who endured the years of scorn can speak freely.

"In the last couple of years, the AFL defensive backs haven't had to take a back seat to any one in the caliber of talent," Robinson said at the Chiefs' training camp here.

"In my opinion, the biggest improvement, however, we had was in our defensive lines. It is so hard to find good defensive linemen. There is so much correlation between the pass rush and the pass coverage that you must have good linemen."

Robinson admits he could not always talk with pride about defenses in the AFL.

"I think we'd have to say," the articulate Robinson said, "that the defenses were weaker than the offenses in the early years."

"I think probably after the third or fourth year, the coaches realized they had to have top-flight talent to play professional defenses. Then, I think they started finding the boys who could play it and drafting them. Before, they drafted offensive stars and if they couldn't make it on offense, they put them on defense."

Rockhold Will Be Honored

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Six prominent Texas schoolboy coaches will be inducted into the Balfour Hall of Fame Thursday at the Balfour Luncheon during the Texas High School Coaches Association coaching school.

The inductees are: Paul Smith, Galena Park; C. Cobb Dallas; C. R. "Pat" Pattison, Vernon; J. Murry Stephenson, Odem; Mayfield Workman, Arlington; and Beverly S. Rockhold, Baytown.

Rockhold, known as Coach Rock, has led his track teams to state championships in 1955 and 1962 and placed second four times. His cross country team won the 1956 state championship. His mile relay team set national records in 1954 and 1955 and his sprint medley team established national marks in 1957 and 1958.

Rockhold attended and graduated from Big Spring High School.

He played football and ran track here for the Steers prior to World War II.

Player-Coach Feud May Detract Jets

The New York Jets aren't acting much like football's world champions, on the field or off. Their 26-24 victory Friday night over the College All-Stars was a pyrrhic one at best—and their defensive captain's run-in with the collegians' coach, Otto Graham, during the final minutes won't make it any easier for the Jets to restore their pride.

If Commissioner Pete Rozelle enters the picture in the Sample case, the Jets might be a little distracted when they take on the Cardinals in St. Louis on Saturday, just as they were uneasy during the sensitive negotiations which brought back quarterback Joe Namath from his brief retirement.

RECEIVER DECKED Sample had a running battle of words with Graham during the game when the Jet cornerback decked an All-Star receiver in the final minutes, Graham rushed on the field to protest.

Graham incurred a cut on his nose by Sample's helmet and a 15-yard penalty. Moments later, Sample was victimized on a touchdown pass.

Jets Coach Weeb Ewbank, distressed because of the touchdown in Sample's coverage area, indicated Monday that the volatile cornerback would see little, if any action, against the Cardinals. Ewbank said he'll use Cornell Gordon and rookie Cecil Lebard.

Sample also will have to wait awhile to find out if he faces any disciplinary action because of his skirmish with Graham. Both Rozelle and Mark Duncan, pro football's supervisor of officials, were not in New York Monday. When the officials' report of the game reaches Rozelle's New York office, Duncan will routinely review it. If any action is necessary, Rozelle enters the picture.

In another development, Namath said in a magazine article Monday that FBI agents began shadowing him after last season's upset defeats of the Jets by the Buffalo Bills and the Denver Broncos and that the FBI visited him in Florida while training for the Super Bowl.

Assistant director John Malone of the FBI's New York office said Namath's statements regarding telephone taps, the FBI following him or investigating him were not true. Namath's comments came in an article written for True Magazine and author Dick Schaap.

Ewbank said he would play Namath for the first half, "just enough to get his timing," in the Cardinal game and indicated he'd follow that practice for the five remaining pre-season games.

Will soaring costs knock sports off TV? The three major magazine reports today, are currently losing money. Major sports programming and sponsors are balking at paying increased prices. Promoters hope that independent TV networks devoted to sports would come to their rescue have not materialized.

The magazine's survey by Stanley Frank showed: —NBC expects to lose $2 million this season on its present three-year baseball contract and it lost at least $1.15 million televising last season's Super Bowl.

—ABC will likely wind up with a deficit of nearly $4 million on its $12 million package to televise the 1972 Summer Olympic Games from Munich.

Pursley Leader At Sweetwater SWEETWATER — Golfers on the Junior tour scheduled by the West Texas chapter of the PGA move over to the Sweetwater Country Club today for 18 holes of play, as the youngsters get their final licks for the Tournament of Champions scheduled later this month in Andrews.

In play at the Lake Sweetwater course Monday, Allen Pursley of Midland paced the 16-17 age division by beating Paul Burleson, Sweetwater.

Cards Defeat Odessa, 9-4

ODESSA — Jody Florez pitched the Big Spring Cardinals to a 9-4 victory over the Odessa Doradoes here Sunday, surrendering eight hits to the home club but keeping them well scattered.

The Red Birds enjoyed two big innings at the expense of the Doradoes, scoring three in the second and three more in the sixth.

In the second, manager Benny Marquez drove in two runs with a single and later scored on Junior Mendoza's sacrifice fly.

Pat Martinez added another tally for Big Spring in the fifth when he walked, stole second and rode home on a double by Tony Martinez.

In Big Spring's half of the sixth, Avel Ramirez and Pano Rodriguez singled and Pat Martinez reached base on a bobble to load the sacks.

Billy Pineda then singled to drive in all three runners. Tony Martinez paced Big Spring's attack with two doubles and a triple.

The Cardinals will play a night game in Big Spring Friday in the Johnny Stone Park against the Snyder Redjacks. Starting hour is 8 o'clock.

Felix Martinez and Andy Garbo did not play with the Cards Sunday due to illness.

Soaring Costs May Knock Sports Off Television

—Sports are the most overpriced shows on TV in relation to audience attracted. A spot on a prime time popular weekly show is $46,000, and these shows will draw twice as many viewers as an NFL Sunday afternoon game.

—Many player pension funds are being aided considerably by television revenue and not from gate receipts, as in former years.

"In any other business we'd be arrested for throwing money away," says Bill McPhail, vice president of CBS Sports. "We're carrying sports purely as a public service, like news, but we can't take a financial beating indefinitely. Things really will be critical if cigarette advertising is banned from the air."

Carl Lindeman, vice president of NBC Sports, admitted the networks have found themselves enmeshed in a bidding war with prestigious stakes. McPhail said CBS turned down televised pro football on Monday nights because the network has a strong program format that "will draw twice as many viewers as a top game."

Marvin Miller, bargaining representative for pro baseball players, disagrees with the dim forecasts of network officials. "I agree that you cannot logically expect TV fees to rise indefinitely, but if I had to make a long-range prediction, I'd bet that baseball revenue will be higher in 10 years than it is today," Miller declared.

JIMMY FARRIS AMONG STATE'S BEST PLAYERS, SAYS DYKES

DALLAS — Spike Dykes of Big Spring represented District 3-AAAA at a Texas Coaches Association clinic press conference staged here Monday and said that a poll among coaches showed that Odessa Permian was the unanimous choice to cop the championship.

Permian shared the title with San Angelo Central last year.

Picked to finish behind Permian in the poll, Dykes said were San Angelo, Abilene Cooper, Big Spring, Midland High and Midland Lee (tied for fifth), Abilene High, Odessa High and Odessa Ector.

Dykes also said that Thomas Williams, San Angelo linebacker, had been projected as the league's leading all-state candidate.

Other all-state prospects, he added, included Jimmy Farris, Big Spring end; Richard Mildren, Cooper back; Mark Green, Odessa back; and Ricky Childers, Abilene High tackle.

Bigger Purses Are Slated At Sunland

EL PASO — Total purses for the 1969-70 racing seasons at Sunland Park are slated to reach $1,250,000, according to general manager Art Johnson.

Of this amount, $250,000 will be channeled into a newly-revitalized stakes program.

In making the announcement of the upgraded purse schedule, Johnson also noted that the new format calls for two seasons.

The 27-day fall season will get underway Saturday, Oct. 4, and will extend through Sunday, Dec. 7. The 57-day spring season is scheduled to kick off on Thursday, Jan. 1, and extend through Sunday, May 10, subject to the approval of New Mexico Racing Commission.

The highpoints of the upcoming seasons include boosted purses for Sunland's major stakes races, plus a $50,000 purse increase for high claiming and allowance races.

"We're confident these purse improvements will attract even better quality horses and provide more attractive and well-balanced racing programs," Johnson said.

The most dramatic purse hike on the new stakes list was directed toward the prestigious Sunland Park Handicap for three-year-olds and up. The event, caten for the classic distance of 1 1/8th miles, is slated as one of the mainstays of the spring season.

The Sunland Park Handicap received a solid boost of $3,500 and will now carry a purse of $7,500-added. Date of the Handicap is Sunday, March 22.

The Sunland Park Derby, booked for Sunday, March 22, was hiked $2,000 and will carry a jackpot of $6,000-added. The Derby will be run at one mile.

The Butterfield Trail Handicap, the finale of a popular marathon series, got a $500 hike and is now pegged at $2,500-added. In addition, Johnson pointed out, all purses in the Butterfield Series have been increased. "The Butterfield Series was one of the most well-received additions to last season's racing program," he noted.

The New Mexico Breeders Derby at one mile also got a $500 boost and will now be worth $3,000-added. The Derby is slated for Sunday, Feb. 8.

The second-biggest increase of $2,500 was accorded the New Mexico Handicap, one of the top attractions of the fall season. Now bolstered by a purse of $5,000-added, the New Mexico cap is carded for three-year-olds and up at 1 1/8th miles and will be contested on Sunday, Nov. 23.

The Inaugural Handicap at six furlongs, which is booked for the season-opening program on Oct. 4, was lifted $2,000 and will now top out at $4,000-added. A second Inaugural Handicap, tagged with a purse of $3,500-added, will help launch the spring season on New Year's Day.

BROWNWOOD — Lamesa is one of the latest teams to enter the State ASA Softball tournament scheduled Aug. 7-10.

ADDS TO LEAD

The victory, the seventh in eight games, increased Cincinnati's lead in the West Division of the National League to a half game over San Francisco and one game over Atlanta, who started the evening only percentage points behind.

The Giants fell back when their game at Philadelphia was rained out with the Phillies leading 2-0 in the third inning and Montreal dropping the Braves with a 7-1 victory.

Los Angeles, in fourth place, went two games behind by losing to the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1, and the fifth-place Houston Astros fell three lengths back when the Chicago Cubs crushed them 9-3, in the only other game.

The Cubs' victory also increased their East Division bulge to seven games over the Mets, who now stand only 2 1/2 ahead of the surging Cardinals.

In the American League, Cleveland blanked Baltimore 2-0 and Minnesota hammered Detroit 7-1 in the only games scheduled.

After pouncing 25 hits Sunday, Cincinnati, best-hitting team in the majors, could collect only six off Koonsman.

Maloney, 5-2, yielded only a two-out double to Wayne Garrett in the second and a single by Tommie Agee with two out in the sixth. He struck out three, but his third walk, with two out in the ninth, ended his bid for his first complete game since his no-hitter against Houston April 30.

SAYS RYMKUS Al Fierro Is Missing

Albert Fierro, former Big Spring High School passing great, is missing from the training camp of the West Texas Rufekes and absence is worrying coach Lou Rymkus no end.

Rymkus said he forwarded Fierro the money for his transportation some time ago and expected the ex-University of Nebraska quarterback in camp last week.

A check with Fierro's family here revealed that Albert is still in Lincoln, where he is employed as a bookkeeper.

The quarterback position is one of the critical spots on the Rufekes club at the moment, Rymkus said, and needed to be solved before the pros can proceed with their plans.

The Midland-Odessa club opens its season Saturday, Aug. 16, against Omaha at home. One of the players who is making a favorable impression in the Rufekes camp is Eddy Nelson, former BSHS end and later a basketball star at Howard Payne College.

Club officials said Eddy had an excellent chance to stick with the team.

Fierro visited here several weeks ago. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Fierro of 706 NW 5th Street.

Albert set passing records at Big Spring High School, some of which still endure. He played his college ball under Bob Devaney.

Crane's Jones Using Radar?

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — When you consider that Tommy Jones can barely see with his glasses off, it's remarkable that the Crane, Tex., youngster ever played basketball let alone averaged 43 points per game and made the Texas Coaching School North All-Star squad.

The near-sighted Jones refuses to play with glasses or contact lenses. "The basket is sort of blurry but I can see good enough to shoot," he explains.

Jones said, "I can't stand contact lenses and my regular glasses just fog up."

Jones is one of the reasons the North basketballers are given a strong chance to beat the South Wednesday night in the annual Coaching Association's All-Star basketball game at Memorial Auditorium.

John Mark Wilson of Odessa said Jones can "hit the basket from anywhere. He doesn't look very blind out there on the court."

Jones scored 65 points in one game against Abilene last year.

The 6-foot, Howard Payne-bound youngster said, "I got fouled a lot that night. I must have made 25 free throws."

North coach Jake Carter of Dallas and South basketball mentor Bobby Weise predicted a free-scoring affair.

Carter said, "There's just not enough time to put in an adequate defense. Every player on the teams has proved he can put the ball in the basket."

Weise agreed, saying "Don't be surprised if the score gets into the 80s. Both of these teams are loaded with talent."

A crowd estimated at 8,000 is expected. The South has won the last six straight contests and the all-time series is tied 12-12.

On the football front, North coaches were "highly disappointed" after a contact session.

Coach Truman Nix of the favored North said, "We looked sluggish and slow, and the timing was poor. We don't look like anybody's favorite now."

Astronaut Celebrates His 39th Birthday

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Moon explorer Neil A. Armstrong celebrates his 39th birthday today with his 18 quarantine pals and only 26 candles for his cake.

Armstrong and his Apollo 11 colleagues Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins were in their 16th day of isolation intended to keep possible lunar bugs from getting loose on earth. All remained in excellent health.

If no illnesses turn up or no dangerous organisms appear in the rocks the astronauts brought home, they'll be returned to the outer world next Monday. With them are 16 other persons—doctors, technicians, a cook and two rock researchers accidentally exposed to moon dust.

The cook, Jesse Stewart, said he would bake "a regular cake" starting from scratch. He said he wouldn't use a cake mix because "then it would be somebody else's cake." It will be vanilla with vanilla icing.

Stewart reported a thorough search of the quarantine quarters turned up only 26 candles.

In another part of the building, scientists and geologists found black silt and a few moon crystals when they opened the second and last box of lunar surface material gathered by Armstrong and Aldrin during their moon stay.

The box contained small rocks, ranging from gravel to orange-size. They were covered with the same powdery black moon dust found in the first box, opened more than a week ago.

Dr. Jeff Warner, one of the geologists observing the box opening, said white, pink and grayish-brown crystals were scattered over the surfaces of several of the rocks, which appeared to be rather soft.

Some scientists said the crystals indicated the rocks were molten at one time and apparently cooled quickly. Such molten rock could have been caused by volcanic action or the heat generated by meteor impacts.

Warner reported those studying the moon material have differences of opinion on the findings to date and emphasized that months of research will be needed to draw definite conclusions.

"It's clear to me—although not to some of my colleagues—that these rocks are quite different from what we generally find on earth," Warner said.

"They're not like any kind of rocks I've ever worked with. There's going to be a helluva lot we're going to learn. The controversy over the origin of the moon has often been stated as being: Was it a hot moon or a cold moon?"

"I feel the controversy over the moon that will come to light in the next few months will be whether the moon is like the earth or not like the earth."

Peace Corps Exams Slated

Big Spring area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps Placement Test at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 16 at the Post Office or Federal Buildings in Abilene or Lubbock.

The Peace Corps uses the placement test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. The test requires no preparation and is non-competitive; an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

Leaders Ready To Resubmit Spending Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Speaker Gus Mutscher apparently are ready to re-submit the one-year spending bill which Gov. Preston Smith vetoed if Texans come out today in favor of annual legislative sessions.

"We're seriously considering it," Barnes said Monday.

This means Texans probably will be deciding the size of this year's tax bill when they mark "yes" or "no" by the proposed constitutional amendment which would provide for annual sessions.

Smith said it is the only one of nine amendments he will vote against.

However, he told a news conference, "I would certainly be willing to accept a one-year bill if it is a responsible program and takes care of our needs, provided, of course, the people want it."

The separate Senate and House versions of the two-year spending bill have been sent to a 10-member conference committee, which is supposed to write the final measure. The Senate bill would require new taxes of $327 million, $41 million more than the House proposal.

The one-year bill was touted by Barnes and Mutscher as "tax free," but it would require extra funds as Smith vetoed several fund transfer proposals and a student fee bill which sponsors estimated would add $6 million to the treasury.

Withdrawal Of VISTA Workers Requested

MARSHALL, Tex. (AP) — Withdrawal of all Volunteers In Service to America (VISTA) workers was requested Monday by the county commissioners from Harrison and Panola counties.

The request was made in a letter sent to Gov. Preston Smith.

The commissioners said VISTA workers were involved in supporting Negro boycotts of a merchant, and had otherwise "fomented racial strife."

Harrison County Judge Jim Ammerman said the boycott and the appearance of a clandestine "underground" newspaper are the key issues which prompted the commissioners' request.

TWO BOYCOTTS — "We've had a couple of very bad incidents at Wiley College," Ammerman said. Wiley is an all-Negro, Methodist-supported school at Marshall.

Two boycotts have been staged against university policies this year. In February, students set up barricades in an effort to get their demands, which included the firing of college President T. Winston Cole.

Instead, Cole shut down the school. It re-opened, and administrators bowed to some demands, but refused to fire Cole. Ammerman said Monday that he is now convinced the current strife is centered at Wiley.

"I think it's just one manifestation," Ammerman said. The boycott of a merchant started several months ago against a downtown Marshall men's shop, Ammerman said. A shoplifting incident mushroomed, and one person was shoved through a glass door.

"Since then there've been this underground newspaper. Like county signed the letter sent to about boycotts. I feel we're sitting on a powder keg here and could well do without any type of outside agitation," Ammerman said.

UNDERGROUND PAPER — Asked if he meant VISTA when he referred to outside agitation, Ammerman said he did.

"The first issue of that (underground) newspaper had several sarcastic comments in it about a confederate statue on the Marshall town square. Friday night, someone painted 'black power' and some obscenities on it, and on several of the businesses on the square," Ammerman said.

The men's shop originally boycotted was not among those defaced, the judge said. Ammerman said the letter to Smith was sent Monday, but dated Friday. Austin sources said they knew nothing of the letter Monday, indicating it hadn't arrived in Austin.

"I understand the act creating the Office of Economic Opportunity and VISTA specifies that the governor can request termination of the program," Ammerman said.

VISTA workers were withdrawn from Val Verde County in South Texas earlier this year. The judge said it is his opinion that the earlier incidents at Wiley might have resulted in violence if prompt action had not been taken by local authorities in calling in help. State officers were summoned to Wiley during the outbreaks.

"I think we still have all the ingredients for violence. I hope the action Monday will be seen as a positive step. These people have to pay more attention to local authorities," Ammerman said.

Besides Ammerman, Panola County Judge Leroy LaSalle and the commissioners of each county signed the letter sent to Smith Monday.

Rains Steam 'Hot' Texas

By The Associated Press

Welcomed rains—ranging from moderate thunderstorms to slow, soaking lawn-growers—hit scattered sections of Texas Monday night and continued into Tuesday morning.

Dallas, with an official 1.05 inches, had its first measurable rainfall since June 23. Larger amounts fell in some sections of the city while still other areas caught less.

Most of the overnight rain apparently fell across a Texas-Oklahoma area bounded by points near Oklahoma City, Durant, Okla., Tyler, Llano, Abilene and Jacksboro.

Lighter showers fell from southwest of Gage, Okla., to 40 miles west of Wichita Falls and from Childress to Lubbock and southwest of Raton, N.M.

Shortly before dawn, showers and thundershowers continued over an area from Sherman to Tyler to Austin to Brownwood and Wichita Falls at 5 a.m.

The Weather Bureau said showers would continue during the day over most northern sections of the state, stretching into central and eastern portions.

Partly cloudy to cloudy skies were expected in southern portions of Texas as hot, humid weather continued.

Oil Decrease

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' average calendar day oil allowance on Aug. 1 was 3,272,672 barrels, a decrease of 112,915 from July 15, the Railroad Commission reported Monday.

Durbin Goes On Trial For His Life In Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — The Clyde Durbin Jr. murder trial opened today with an immediate attack by Durbin's lawyer on a statement made by the defendant to sheriff's officers Jan. 16 and 17.

Frank Maloney also asked the court to suppress photos taken of Durbin holding the clothing of the two persons he is accused of slaying.

Dist. Judge Tom Blackwell instructed the state not to introduce the statement and the photos and other evidence until Maloney had a chance to challenge it.

The judge said the jury would be kept together until the end of the trial.

Durbin, 22, son of a Dallas businessman, will be tried in the slaying of John Albert White, 21, son of a Corpus Christi lawyer. He also is charged in Burnet in the slaying of Miss Keitha Morris, 19, daughter of a White Deer school principal.

PICNIC DATE

White and Miss Morris had a picnic date at Bull Creek, a popular spot for students northwest of Austin.

Miss Horak and Bond reportedly left a short time before White's body was found lying face down in the creek. A .38 caliber bullet had been fired into his shoulder down into his chest.

Miss Morris' nude body was found floating in Inks Lake near Burnet, the next day.

The 12th juror in the 8-day-old trial was selected at 2:34 p.m. Monday. He is E.M. Acevedo, 54, a postal supervisor who has five daughters ranging in age from 24 to 10.

The judge told Acevedo he should come prepared to stay. The nine-man, three-woman jury may be kept together until the trial is completed.

Cabinet Seat For Blacks?

HOUSTON (AP) — Black power advocate Dr. Nathan Wright says "blacks should demand a cabinet seat to help prescribe their future."
"No good thing can come out of Washington with its all-pro-white policy makers," said the chairman of the department of black studies at the University of New York at Albany.
"Anytime the oppressors set a goal for those oppressed it is only to perpetuate the oppression," he said.
Wright used profanity many times while making the keynote address Monday before the 63rd convention of Alpha Phi Alpha, a predominantly black national service fraternity.

CONVICTS' CONCESSION — Ex-convict George Freeman shows painting and poster on sale at the Fortune Store in New York's Greenwich Village. The store is run by former convicts and the articles sold there are manufactured by former prison inmates. The store is operated in association with The Fortune Society, a national organization of 2,000 ex-convicts who try to keep each other out of jail and who seek penal reforms.

Talks About Image

Chamber of Commerce Manager Tom Eastland spoke to the Big Spring Life Underwriters Association at noon today in the Downtown Tea Room. His talk centered on ways of helping improve Big Spring's image.

Fortune Store Helps Ex-Cons

NEW YORK (AP) — The clerks wear prison clothes, they sell articles made by ex-convicts and a jut-jawed J. Edgar Hoover glares from a poster in the window of a new little shop in Greenwich Village.
"That's our 'law and order' window," George Freeman, 30, says with a smile. He's assistant manager of The Fortune Store, which opened Monday.
Freeman and about half a dozen others working in the narrow, basement shop are ex-convicts. They wear their former prison numbers stenciled in black on prison-issue blue denim shirts.

"I had my choice of 14195 from Sing Sing, 44109 from Danmora, or 42871 from New Jersey State Prison," says Freeman. He was paroled three weeks ago after spending portions of five years in each for armed robbery. "I finally chose my New Jersey number because it was the shortest to stencil."
The Fortune Store is operated in association with The Fortune Society, a national organization of 2,000 ex-convicts who try to keep each other out of jail and who seek penal reforms.

The society hopes the shop will train ex-convicts in retail skills as well as providing an outlet for merchandise from ex-convicts trying to go straight.
Articles offered for sale Monday included: moderately priced jewelry made by a movie theater janitor who spent 20 years in half a dozen prisons, leather handbags produced by a 46-year-old Brooklyn man who spent 18 years in a Georgia prison and crocheted dresses made by a 21-year-old female former heroin addict while in Manhattan Rehabilitation Center.
The store's debut has brought no reaction yet from penal authorities, but local police response has been gratifying.
"The policeman on the beat stopped by," says Freeman. "He suggested we keep a light on at night to keep burglars away."

Pacts Give Nixon Latitude To Mold Any Asian Policy

Southeast Asia in 1954. The treaties thus came a few years after the North Atlantic Alliance between the United States and the Western European countries and are less binding than the NATO pact.
NATO and the earlier western hemisphere alliance, the 1947 Rio Treaty, both specify that an attack on any one of the member nations "shall be considered an attack against them all."
Asian pacts all follow a different principle. The basic Asian treaty, signed in 1954, is the SEATO agreement which states that each country recognizes that an armed aggression in Southeast Asia "would endanger its own peace and safety" and that each would meet "the common danger in accordance with its constitutional processes."
SEATO, apart from the United States, Britain and France, included New Zealand, Australia, the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan. It also covered South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia with an offer of protection if they ask for it.
In the case of the SEATO treaty's volunteered protection for Laos and Cambodia, the coverage later was removed and the treaty actually was applied only to South Vietnam.
One of the arguments subsequently made about South Vietnam was that SEATO did not in fact require the United States to put in ground and air forces. President Lyndon B. Johnson, his congressional critics contended, went beyond SEATO's provisions in moving into South Vietnam without a declaration of war by Congress. Johnson contended not only that SEATO provided a base for his policy but he also had advance approval in a 1964 resolution which covered possible use of force.

Staffers Going Back To School

Two social workers at the Big Spring State Hospital are leaving employment there Aug. 15 to return to college for higher degrees of learning.

Cheryl Oberlin, 1518 Kentucky Way, who has been with the hospital for more than two years, is moving to San Antonio where she will attend Our Lady of the Lake College to obtain a masters degree in social work.

She has a bachelor's degree in political science from DePauw University at Green Castle, Ind., where she graduated in 1966. She also is a former employe of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Born in East Chicago, Ill., she lived her early childhood in Lafayette, Ind., and graduated from Edison High School in Tulsa, Okla.

Returning to Texas Tech in Lubbock is Ron Cohorn, 604 Runnels, who has been employed by the hospital the past year and a half. He is going back to school to obtain a Ph.D. in psychology. Cohorn received both his bachelors and masters degrees from Tech.

While at the hospital Cohorn was involved in the training of volunteer personnel and attendants for the patients. Cohorn is a member of the Southwestern Psychological Association and a member of Psi Chi, the national honor society in psychology.

Will Nominate Harlingen Cop

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will nominate Marshall F. Rousseau, a Harlingen, Tex., policeman, as U.S. marshal, Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said today.

Rousseau, 47, worked with the Harlingen city police force between 1947 and 1953, switched to the Cameron County sheriff's department between 1954 and 1958, and since then has been back at the Harlingen police force.

Tower's office said he had attended short courses in criminal law at Texas A&M University and the FBI Academy. He now will make his headquarters in San Antonio.

Denton Woman Injured In Utah

MOAB, Utah (AP) — A Texas woman remained hospitalized Monday with injuries suffered in a weekend auto accident in Southern Utah.

Vinita Davis, 65, of Denton, Texas, was in fair condition at Allen Memorial Hospital.

The car she rode in rolled Saturday near the mouth of Arches National Monument north of Moab, said the Grand County Sheriff's office. The driver, Lois Knox, 62, of Argyrie, Tex., was not injured, the sheriff's office said.

Missing Purses Among List Of Reported Thefts

Several thefts were being investigated by Big Spring police Tuesday.

Sharon Sue Casbeer, 1215 Lindberg, told officers $23 in cash and approximately 20 records albums had been taken from her home while she was gone early Tuesday morning. The break-in was discovered about 3 a.m. She said entry had been gained through breaking a lock on the back door.

Mrs. C. R. Lester, 1511 Main, told police about 10:30 p.m. Monday that her purse was stolen from her car while it was parked in the driveway of her residence. She told officers there was no money in the purse, but that it did contain a passport, identification card and several other papers.

Also reporting the loss of her purse was Mrs. Carl Barnfield, 712 Lorilla. She said the purse contained approximately $50 in cash, several credit cards and a social security card. She said the purse disappeared from the back porch of 608 W. 18th between 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Monday. She told officers she had left the purse there while she ate lunch.

Police Tuesday morning investigated the attempted break-in of South Central Oil Co., 2709 Wasson Road.

Although there was no entry made into the building, the air conditioner on the roof had been removed. Police said the intruders were apparently scared off before they got into the building.

Although nothing was reported missing a break-in was reported at Park Hill Elementary School. It was discovered about 7:20 a.m. Tuesday. Entry was gained by breaking a south window.

City Supplies Data For Yearbook

A questionnaire on federal, state and local relationships in Big Spring is being filled out for the International City Managers Association Municipal Yearbook, according to Larry Smith, administrative assistant.

The Yearbook is an almanac containing information about salaries, major problems facing cities, etc., and, according to City Manager Larry Crow, is one of the best sources of statistical data on U.S. cities on a nation-wide basis.

AUTO MISHAPS

Harold Kain, 1507 Sunset, told officers that a small light colored car had run over his fence shortly before 1:20 a.m. Tuesday and left the scene of the mishap.

A car owned by Joseph F. O'Daniel, Webb AFB, was struck at 10:54 p.m. Monday while it was parked at a grocery store at West Highway 80 and FM 700. Police said the other car was driven by Teddy V. Molina, 307 NW 10th.

A car driven by Moses Flores Jr., 209 N. Goliad, was involved in a one car mishap at 7:58 p.m. in the 1000 block of South Lancaster.

In the 200 block of Main Street at 12:06 p.m. a minor two-car collision was reported to police. Drivers of the cars were Tom Carl Hadley, 1214 E. 18th, and Mary Phillips Martin, 1604 Wood.

At 9 a.m. Monday police investigated a minor mishap on the parking lot of Highland South Shopping Center. Involved were cars driven by Ben Wofford Jr., Fort Smith, Ark., and Roy Q. Valerino, 1104 N. Aylford.
