

Goodwine Recalls Details Of Trial

By BILL ELLIS
Publisher, Friona Star

The shocking mass murders which occurred near Farwell late in 1926, and serialized by Amarillo Daily News staff writer George Turner this week brought back vivid memories for at least one Friona resident.

He is Clyde Goodwine, who is the lone surviving member of the jury which convicted George Hassell of murder. The court trial was undoubtedly one of the most sensational trials in Parmer County's history, if for no other reason than the magnitude of the crimes which led to the trial.

Hassell was arrested late in 1926 and charged with murdering his wife Maud, and his eight step-children. The court trial was for the murder of the oldest boy, Alton, 21, for which Hassell was convicted, and executed in 1928. The perpetrator of the most heinous crimes in Parmer County's history also confessed to four other murders, or 13 in all.

Goodwine was the 11th of the jurors selected to hear the case against Hassell. He was a member of the second group of veniremen called for the jury panel. The first list of veniremen had 100 names, and the second one had an additional 46.

The longtime Friona resident said that being selected for the Hassell jury had not been a "big thing" with him.

"I probably averaged serving on one jury per year, for various things, or so it seemed, during the time I was eligible. They used to have court sessions every spring and fall. But due to the public feeling on the Hassell case, a special session was called in January following the murders," Goodwine says.

Other members of the Hassell jury included five other Friona area residents: T.J. Crawford, pioneer businessman, F.W. Reeve, pioneer farmer-merchant, J.L. Landrum, early-day lumberman, Marvin Whaley, pioneer farmer and A.S. Curry, farmer.

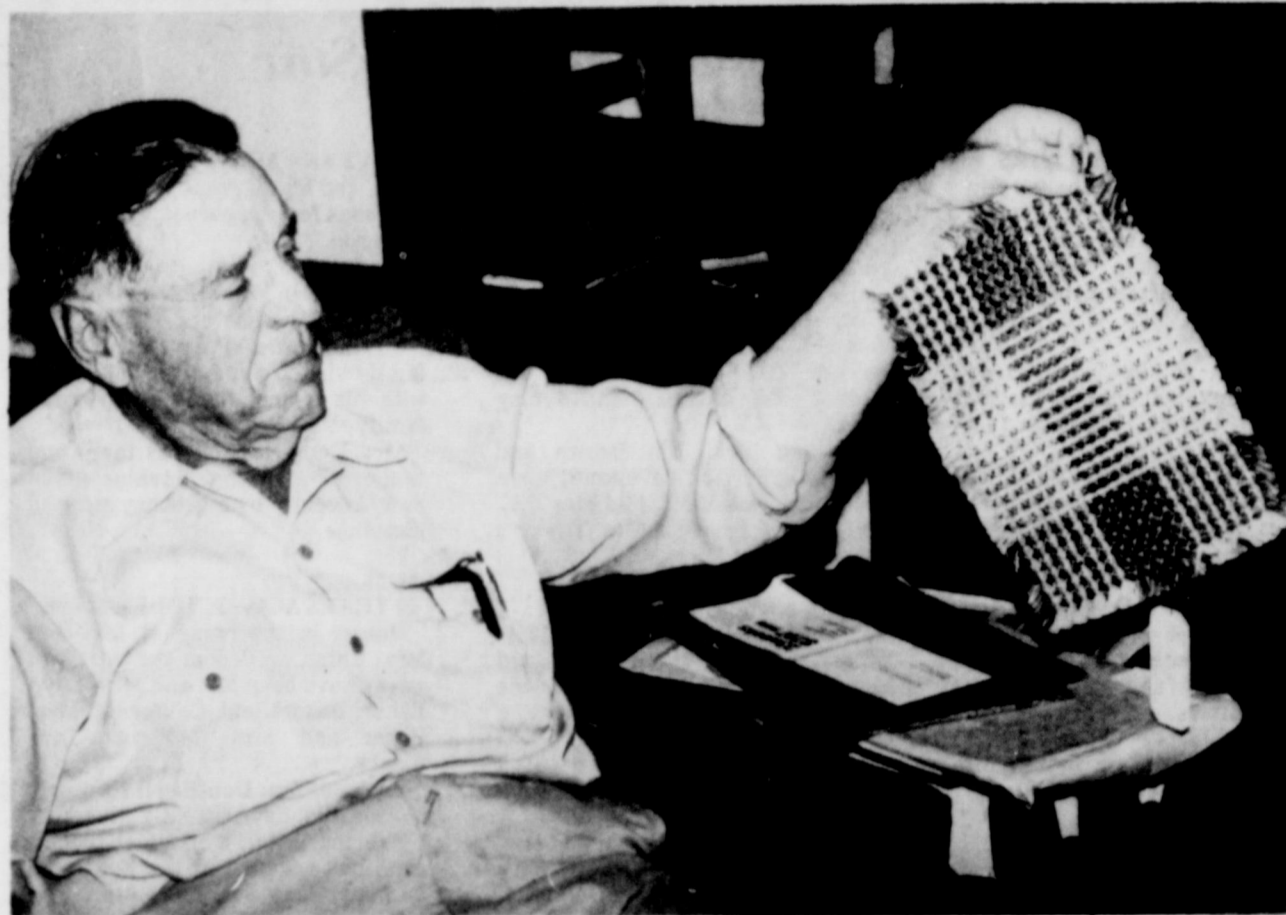

Whaley's widow is still living in Friona.

Other members of the jury were E.W. McGuire, G.W. Watchley and J.T. Lovelace, farmers from the Farwell area (Lovelace was the father of Charlie Lovelace, longtime county sheriff); Carl Fowler, a farmer from the Oklahoma Lane community, Dud Read, a farmer from Lazbuddie, and W.R. Scheihagen, who was a farmer in the Black community.

"It took longer to select the jury than it did to hear the case," Goodwine said. The jury selection took three days, and the trial itself two days, which included night sessions.

Goodwine did admit that the defense attorney (Bill Russell of Hereford) put him through a most tedious ordeal during his examining period. "He had used up all of his challenges by the time he got to me, so the only way I could have been disqualified would have been to have disqualified

TRIAL MOMENTO....Clyde Goodwine, longtime Friona area resident, holds the table mat or dolly that was woven and sent to him by convicted murderer George J. Hassell following Hassell's trial early in 1927. Goodwine was one of the younger members of the jury panel, and is the only one still living. He shared recollections about the trial and his selection as a juror with Star publisher Bill Ellis in the accompanying story.

THE GRUESOME MASS MURDERS which were committed near Farwell in 1926 have brought about considerable comment this week, after the events were brought back up by a writer in the Amarillo Globe-News, George Turner, who wrote and published a series of articles concerning the atrocities.

Like perhaps many others of you, the Hassell family tragedy was "news" to this reporter, although we have lived our entire life in or adjacent to Parmer County.

In visiting with folks who remembered the events, it appears that the incident was virtually "packed away and forgotten" as quickly as possible by residents of this area.

Certainly, the details of the murders were horrible enough that most people would just as soon forget such an occurrence. It's definitely not the type event you expect to have happen in our quiet farming area.

But the tragedies of 1926 prove one thing, at least to this writer, and that is the fact that you cannot make generalizations as to the reasons people commit crimes of this magnitude.

In recent years, we have blamed crimes of violence upon television and movies (and they have no doubt been an influence). But there was no television in Parmer County in 1926.

We also blame the permissive society, and this attitude as regards the upbringing of children, with leading to such crimes. But there could have been no permissiveness, relatively speaking, at the turn of the century, when Hassell was raised.

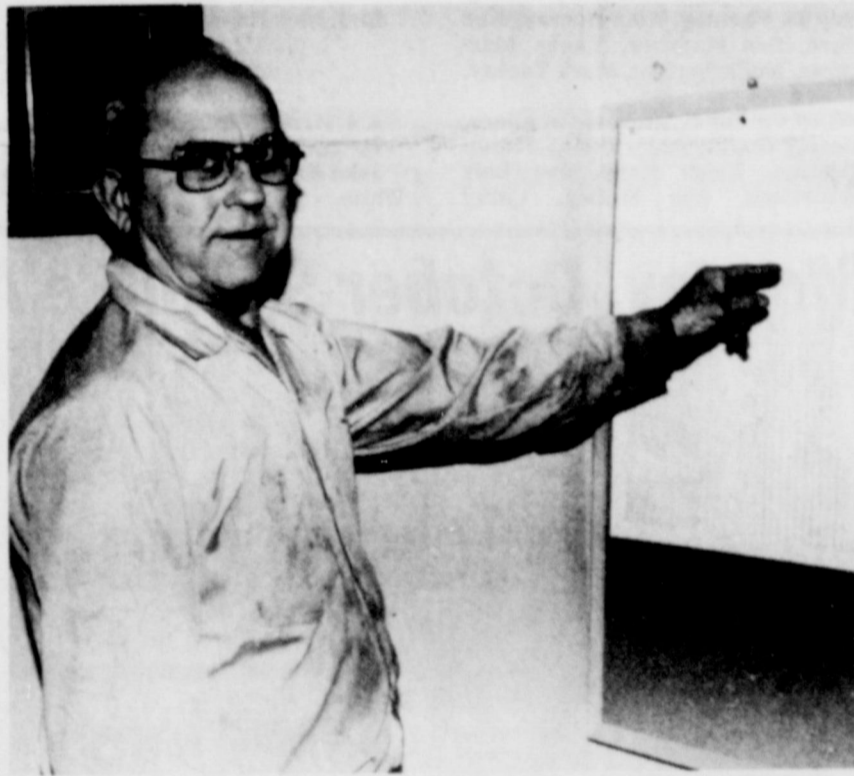

The conclusions we make are that occasionally there is a "bad apple" in the batch; and that by and large, people are not much different in one age than another. The bad ones are just perhaps a little more noticeable today than they once were, due to the advancements in news coverage.

YOU MAY HAVE HEARD the supposedly factual account of a Washington bureaucrat and New Mexico's cattle guards, and has been printed a number of places and broadcast by Paul Harvey.

Nick Franklin, New Mexico's secretary for energy and minerals, received an inquiry from Washington. The bureaucracy wanted to know "How many cattle guards are there in New Mexico?"

The state official scratched his head and made a guesstimate. He WINNER....Preach Collier points to the scoresheet in the Friona Star listing the standings of contestants. Collier earned a score of 18 in last week's contest, and captured first place honors and the $10.00 cash prize.

LONGTIME CONTESTANT

Collier Claims Prize In Football Contest

Preach Collier, with the glittering score of 18, won the fourth week's prize in the Friona Star's football contest. Collier, a regular entrant in the contest, said it was his first time to ever finish in the top three in the contest.

Actually, there were two contestants scoring an 18 for the week, as B.R. Mears of Clarendon matched Collier's score. But the Friona contestant was the closest to the Friona-Farwell game score, to claim the $10 first prize.

Collier pegged the score at 21-6, Friona, missing by 12 points. Mears said it would be 20-13, missing by 20 points. He took second prize of $6.00.

Collier's misses were in picking Littlefield over Lockney, Tulla over Spearman, Vega over Boys Ranch and the New York Giants over Atlanta.

Mears likewise missed Littlefield-Lockney, Vega-Boys Ranch and the Giants-Atlanta, and also wrongly picked Florida State over the University of Houston.

Thirteen contestants had scores of 17, to vie for one of the top prizes, and collegian Clint Mears took third place honors on the basis once again of the tie-breaker guess. His score prediction of 26-7 was just seven points off the actual score of 27-0.

Others scoring 17s were Tammy Damron, Jerry Hinkle, T.J. Strickland of Plainview, Jim Hand, Richard Wilson, Maron Finley of Amarillo, Kipi Fleming, Don Maynard, Johnny Curtis of Farwell, Mark Zachary, Robin Baize and C.H. Veazey.

Mears' score of 18 earned him the lead in the contest's season standings free and clear with a total of 64, and gave him a three-point lead over the second-place contestants, Marlene Drake and Harry Watkins, who are tied with scores of 62.

Standing in third place in the contest are Benny Pryor and Wright Williams, with identical scores of 62. Jerry Hinkle, Clint Mears, Sarah Mears, Kenneth McLellan and Jim Pope are next with scores of 61.

A total of 76 contestants already have scores of 56 or better, and another 64 have scores of 50 or over.

With nine weeks to run in the contest, counting the fifth week yet to be scored, there are still 198 potential points to be earned, and it's still "anyone's ball game."

Fans are urged to turn to page 7 and begin familiarizing themselves with the next week's slate of games.

Harvest Gains Speed; Outlook Is Optimistic

Friona area farmers are busy with corn harvest this week, with promises of better crop yields and prices than last year.

Area elevator managers expect the harvest peak to hit sometime next week, and estimate that about 25 per cent of the crop was in by press time on Friday.

Bad weather conditions have hampered corn farmers from getting underway with their harvest operations for the past two weeks, and some has still not dried out enough for cutting.

Corn prices on Friday were running $4.15 per hundred weight, which is somewhat better than it was running this time last year, according to Don Huckabee, manager of West Friona Grain.

But the farmers still need a little better price than this in order to come out with a profit, according to Ron Smiley, manager of Friona Wheat Growers.

Milo harvest is just getting underway and will probably be hitting a peak quite a bit later than corn harvest, probably after the corn is all in.

School To Quit Early Wednesday

Friona schools will dismiss earlier than usual next Wednesday, October 11, according to Superintendent of Schools Tom Jarboe. School will dismiss at 2:30 p.m. on that date.

During the months of November and December, the school will follow a similar practice of dismissing earlier on the first Wednesday of the month.

Jarboe explained that the school was in the midst of a self-evaluation study. At the present time, the curriculum is the portion of the school program under study. The early dismissal time is to allow at least a part of the evaluation work to be done on school time, Jarboe said.

SPS Accepts $15.9-Million Rate Increase

Brac Biggers, Panhandle Division Manager for Southwestern Public Service Company, has announced that after considering all alternatives, SPS has decided to accept the $15.9-million rate increase granted by the Public Utilities Commission of Texas.

"We feel that to pursue the matter further would be an unnecessary added expense to the cities, our customers and the company," Biggers said. "However, the $15.9-million is not enough to cover our expenses as they were presented to the regulatory bodies."

In order to continue to build coal-fired plants to take care of our customers' needs and comply with Texas Docket 600, I'm sure it will be necessary to request another adjustment to our rates in the near future.

Docket 600 mandates that SPS curtail their use of gas as a boiler fuel by ten per cent by 1981 and twenty-five per cent by 1985.

"Of course, we will make every effort, as we have in the past, to hold the line on expenses and continue providing the highest quality of service to our customers," Biggers concluded.

Defoliation Meeting Set At Lazbuddie

The public is invited to a cotton defoliation meeting Monday, October 9 at 2 p.m. at the Lazbuddie School cafeteria.

Roy Childers, agriculturist engineer-cotton ginning and mechanization, of College Station, will discuss field storage systems and the advantages and disadvantages of modular builders.

Marvin Sartin, area economist for this district, will discuss the economics of harvest-aid chemical use.

Dr. James Supak, area agronomist-cotton, will discuss the need for defoliation, when harvest-aid chemicals should be applied, the pros and cons of using chemicals, and what chemicals are available.

Bloodmobile To Be Here On Thursday

The Bloodmobile from the Coffey Blood Center, Amarillo, will be in Friona on Thursday, October 12. It will be located at Calvary Baptist Church for those wishing to donate blood.

At the present time, Friona's Ross Terry is hospitalized, and has required 38 pints of blood as of press time Thursday. Friends of Terry's who would like to donate a pint of blood in his behalf are urged to do so on Thursday when the Bloodmobile visits the city.

"We need all of the donors we can get. The type of blood does not matter," said a spokesman for the blood drive.

Citizens Urged To Register

The Concerned Citizens of Parmer County are urging everyone to register to vote in the upcoming November 7 election.

To vote in this election, voters must be registered by Friday, October 6. Only 70 per cent of the eligible voters are registered, and of these, only 50 per cent voted in the primaries.

1926 Murder Trial Recalled By Juror..

myself—and Russell asked me everything in the book," Goodwine said.

The "11th juror" related an amusing anecdote, describing a lawman who had been assigned to guard Hassell during the trial. "He was a big man, with rough features, and looked like he might have been capable of anything. Two or three of us selected for the jury thought that this was Hassell, and that the well-dressed, good-looking man sitting beside him (who was in reality the murderer) was a lawyer. We sure didn't lie when we said we didn't know Hassell," Goodwine chuckled almost 52 years later.

One of the main questions put to the prospective jurors was if they objected to the death penalty, since the prosecution was seeking the death penalty. Some of the prospects were excused if they were against the death penalty.

"And one venireman was dismissed when he said 'I used to think I objected to the death penalty, but now I've decided I'm in favor of it,'" Goodwine said.

Goodwine relates a story that was circulated about Hassell, while he was awaiting trial. He was moved from place to place, in an attempt to avoid mob violence ("And there was some talk in the Farwell area, to the theme of 'a fellow like this shouldn't even get a trial,' and so on").

At one of the places, Plainview, Goodwine thinks, Hassell was put into a cell with a man named Connor, convicted of murdering a hitch-hiker he had picked up and robbed.

Connor asked Hassell why he was being held. "For murder. I've killed 13 people," Hassell replied. In half-disbelief, his cellmate asked "Why did you quit on thirteen?" To which the mass murderer replied "What makes you think I'm through?"

Goodwine said the story went that the other prisoner began to clamor for the guards at this point.

Goodwine said, and examination by this writer of news articles pertaining to the case verifies, that the series of articles published this week by the Amarillo Daily News stuck pretty well to the facts of the case—at least as presented in testimony.

Hassell's defense attorney asked the members of the jury to consider putting Hassell "where we can study him. There's something wrong with a man who'll commit a crime of this nature. He can't be in his right mind," argued the attorney.

But this was before the "insanity plea" became common, and although it was about the only thing that caused the jury more than a little bit of discussion, it did not keep them from returning a guilty verdict along with a death penalty.

Goodwine said that an acquaintance, knowing he had voted for the death penalty, charged him with being "just as bad as Hassell."

"But I didn't see it that way. I felt that since the law called for the death penalty, and he had committed a crime which under the law called for this penalty, I was just doing my duty under the law," the pioneer resident explained.

"If Hassell didn't qualify for the electric chair, then no one ever did," Goodwine added for emphasis.

"It's a horrible thing to think that civilization hasn't progressed beyond the point that if you don't have the death penalty, certain types of crime tend to increase, but that seems to be the case," Goodwine said.

Goodwine said that the District Courtroom in Farwell was jam packed throughout the trial, both for the jury selection phase, and for the trial itself.

News accounts told how parts of the trial were marked by weeping, and cries of grief, both on the part of court officials and those watching the trial. The slain woman's parents, her sister and brothers were near the front of the courtroom for the entire ordeal.

Toward the end of the trial, the court-appointed defense attorney left the courtroom in tears, due to the traumatic nature of the trial. Accounts also said that spectators of the trial "passed the hat" and raised $113 for the attorney, who was performing in an official duty and received no extra pay for his efforts.

Hassell, meanwhile, sat emotionless throughout the trial. One day's report told of him wiping a tear, but he debunked it the next day, saying he "never had cried...couldn't if I wanted to."

Early in life, Hassell joined both the U.S. Army and Navy, and deserted from both. He served three years in prison for his desertion.

It was later revealed that he killed an earlier wife and three small children, and buried them beneath a house in Whittier, California.

In July of 1924, he received word from his brother's wife that his brother had been kicked to death by a mule. The widow asked Hassell to come to the farm near Blair, Okla. to help with the crops. After the crops were harvested, Maud sent for Hassell again. They reportedly "consulted the Bible and decided they should marry."

Shortly afterward, Mr. and Mrs. Hassell moved to Farwell, bringing Maud's eight children. The union was troubled from the start because Maud learned that Hassell had been intimate with his niece.

The couple apparently argued often, until that fateful night in December, 1926 when he killed his wife and seven of the children, using a ball-peen hammer and his hands. He had to wait four days to kill the oldest son, Alton, who was away from home working as a thresher.

Hassell buried all of the family members in a pit near the house, which had just recently been dug by the two older boys, supposedly for a cellar. The bodies were buried in sitting positions.

Telling the neighbors his family had returned to Oklahoma, he conducted an auction sale of his personal belongings. He might have gotten away with the atrocities, but stayed to clean up the blood-stained back bedroom, and finally made an apparent suicide attempt.

This was when authorities, already suspicious, began to investigate, and found the gruesome truth.

Hassell's attorneys appealed the verdict and sentence, and this stalled off his execution for about a year.

During the time that he was confined in prison, Hassell made a "place mat" or doilies for each of the 12 members of his jury. The hand-woven mats were colorful, made of red, blue and salmon-colored material. Goodwine has kept his mat filed away, along with clippings and other mementos of the trial.

The mat has a tag attached, hand lettered "With Compliments of George J. Hassell, to Juror No. 11." Goodwine's name was added on the reverse side of the tag.

The murder trial received national news coverage through newspapers, and Goodwine said he even received an inquiry as to farmland in Parmer County from a person in North Carolina, who had seen his name listed as a juror on the case.

The case had been forgotten by most residents, or at least put into the far reaches of their memory, during the ensuing half century. Now that a new generation has learned of the shocking events, perhaps the ghosts can once again be laid to rest.

Around The House

By LAURA JACOBS

A potful of beans will go a long way, economically, nutritionally and tastefully. And what's a better time than fall for the ever ready hearty fare provided by seasoned-to-taste cooked dry beans?

No matter where you live—or what the occasion is—you can't go wrong with beans on the menu. Prepare them for immediate serving or have them ready to heat in the refrigerator. Or, serve them cold. And, have you ever tried a pork-and-bean sandwich?

Beans are popular fare in every part of America. Can you imagine a Texas barbecue without beans? Or, a campout in the Rockies? Or, a country-style supper in Kansas or Oklahoma? Beans belong, no matter where.

If you're traveling in New England, you may be struck by the simply worded announcement "Saturday Nite Supper" on restaurant bills of fare or for community get-togethers. That's enough said. Bound up in the traditions of the area, the homely pork 'n beans combination is as truly New England as crepe suzettes are truly France.

In pioneer days of the Puritan settlers, the baked beans and pork, seasoned with molasses or brown sugar, were cooked in long and leisurely fashion all day Saturday. They were ready for serving at night and also for Sunday dinner, in observance of religious restrictions forbidding cooking on the Sabbath.

Many families, today, have their own cherished recipes for Boston Baked Beans passed down through the generations. Generally, the recipes call for cooking all day. Special ingredients used vary from a touch of ginger to graham cracker crumbs and an assortment of sweeteners. The type of pork used also varies. The most common is tender salt pork, but many New Englanders also use flavorful ham, bacon, or other spicy pork products.

The beans used also depend on the recipe, but leading contender for a favorite variety in New England is the pea bean, with kidney, yellow-eyed, and many other kinds also popular. Seasoning also may vary widely. In Vermont, maple syrup is a traditional touch. New Hampshire bean pots may be flavored with molasses.

But you don't have to be in New England to enjoy the goodness of beans. Travelers in Canada may recall the French variation "casoulet," which combines white beans, garlic and spices, with goose fat, pork and bits of goose meat.

In Mexico, we have the frijoles, a pork and beans dish cooked at simmering temperature all day. A South American dish called Black Beans Brazilian includes sausage, bacon and other pork with the beans. Then, they'll add onion, garlic, chili pepper and olive oil. This delicious treat is served over rice.

Because beans are so adaptable to any occasion and because they are such excellent hosts to such a variety of seasonings, you can adopt-or adapt-any of the many baked beans recipes in your cook book, as your own.

This is an especially good year to enjoy the abundance, the variety and the economy of dried beans, suggests the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). Beans are so plentiful this month that USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service has issued a special Food Alert, to call attention to their abundance.

The crop is 18 per cent larger than a year ago, report USDA. Also, large carry-over stocks are on hand. So bean producers are not happy about the prices they receive for their b-crop. Many have to sell at less than actual costs of production.

But it means a bonanza of bountiful beans for the consumer—a bargain in nutrition—whether you go the New England, Canadian, Mexican or typically Southwestern route of preparing and serving them. Tell your family to be ready for a "Saturday Nite Supper." Enough said.

On The Farm In Parmer County

By SETH RALSTON

The hot, dry days of late summer and early fall are an ideal time to control rhizome johnsongrass (root grass) in recently harvested or fallow fields.

Repeated tillage is an effective way to clean up fields heavily infested with rhizome johnsongrass. Chiseling followed by disking pulls the rhizomes to the surface and chops them into short segments which dry quickly in the sun. If the soil is moist enough to plow, rhizome johnsongrass can almost be eliminated with repeated tillage during dry, hot weather.

Every time johnsongrass shoots reach a height of 6 to 8 inches, plow the field again. During a period of extended rainfall, the degree of control will be lessened because rhizome segments tend to root down in the moist soil and generate new shoots. Therefore, tillage is most effective in dry periods.

Even though tillage is effective for controlling johnsongrass arising from underground rhizomes, it has little effect on seeds. Effective herbicides are available for controlling seedling johnsongrass in cotton, soybeans and corn in the spring. It is best to rotate heavily infested fields to these crops so johnsongrass competition can be brought under control with a combination of herbicides and tillage.

GRAIN STORAGE bins are a common sight on farms and ranches that may appear to involve little risk. But there are potential hazards that should be recognized.

One of these dangers is accidental suffocation. This often happens during the unloading of the bin when grain may form a "bridge" and the operator must break the bridge to get the grain flowing again. Bridged grain may look perfectly safe to walk on from the top, but it could hide a cavity that will collapse and hopelessly submerge an operator almost immediately.

Furthermore, an operator who enters a grain bin with the unloader running may sink in the flowing grain before he realizes what has happened. Once submerged, suffocation follows in seconds. It only takes a few inches of grain coverage to cause suffocation.

These mishaps can be prevented. Ladders should be installed in all bins. This will provide an exit if you need to get out as well as a safe way of getting in. But remember, even if there is a ladder in the bin, you must be able to get to it. If you walk out to the center of the bin and get caught in flowing grain, you may not be able to reach the ladder.

If grain bridges, shut off the unloader and use a pipe or some other long object to break the bridge and get the grain flowing again.

Never enter a grain bin while the unloader is operating. If you must enter a bin, disconnect the power source and lock it out to make sure no one can turn it on while you are inside.

Always tie yourself off with a rope and harness before entering a bin so you will have a way to pull yourself out or to be pulled out by others. Have others stand by in case something happens. If the grain should start flowing for some reason, stay near the outer wall and keep walking until the grain flow stops or the bin is empty.

A new area soil chemist for the Texas High Plains has been named by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Dr. H. Dale Pennington, formerly of Weslaco, has succeeded James H. Valentine as supervisor of the Extension Soil Testing Laboratory here and as soil chemist for 80 area counties.

Valentine, who in 1960 established the laboratory at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center here, retired August 31.

Pennington is a graduate of Texas A&M, with doctoral and master's degrees in soil chemistry and a baccalaureate degree in agricultural education.

He has a wide range of experience in farming, research, agronomy and the Extension Service. He is a native of Haskell County, where his family still farms cotton and wheat south of Haskell.

Prior to returning to graduate school on a Texas Plant Food Society scholarship, Pennington served as assistant county Extension Agent at Jackson County, in the rice, cotton and sorghum producing region along the Gulf Coast. While pursuing graduate studies, he was an assistant in soil chemistry for the Extension soil testing laboratory at College Station.

Before becoming on Sept. 1 area soil chemist here for Extension Districts 1, 2, and parts of 3, 6 and 7, he served as area agronomist for Extension Districts 12 and 14. He was stationed at the TAMU Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Weslaco. As area agronomist, he was responsible for the Extension educational and crop demonstration program for cotton, sorghum, corn, flax, wheat and sugarcane for 22 counties in South Texas.

His research included studies conducted in Bailey County which indicated that zinc was needed in sorghum for this area prior to 1969. Pennington has also evaluated methods for predicting nutrient requirements for crops through petiole analysis.

While serving as area agronomist in South Texas, Pennington utilized infrared photographs to determine extent and intensity of iron deficiency in South Texas sorghum. These efforts increased the use of iron sulfate by 200 per cent by skeptical producers. Demonstration data indicated efforts boosted yields by 10 to 30 per cent where the practice was adopted.

In the Rio Grande Valley, Pennington was able to demonstrate that cotton could be grown with far fewer costs by outlays than had been previously thought. "Our philosophy was to develop a cotton crop with less than three insecticide applications, to get the maximum efficiency from our herbicides and to give pest management a chance to operate," he said. The result was dryland yields of 998 pounds per acre in 1977 and 858 pounds per acre in 1978. Cost per pound for the Minimum Input Cotton Demonstration programs were 23.5 and 28 cents, respectively.

His honors include outstanding Senior in Agricultural Education, 1962 and membership in Gamma Sigma Phi. He is married to the former Carmen Cornelius of Llano, Texas. They have one son Shannon.

Chieftains Impressive In 27-0 H'Coming Win

Another great defensive effort, spiced with just the right amount of offense sparked the Friona Chieftains over their old rivals, the Farwell Steers, 27-0 in the team's Homecoming Game here last Friday.

After a tight defensive duel during the first half, the Chiefs broke the game open with a pair of touchdowns in the third quarter, and added another score in the fourth quarter, just for insurance.

The Chieftains suffered from poor field position throughout the first quarter, playing the entire quarter bottled up in their own end of the field. This was where their defense was really put to the test, as Farwell drove to the Friona 15 on drive, and to the 22 another time, only to be turned back by good defensive plays.

On the first drive, the Steers faced fourth and two, and tried a pass, but Mike Hutson made a good defensive play, batting the ball away and Friona took over.

The next time the Steers threatened, they went for a field goal on fourth down, but the kick was partially blocked, and landed harmlessly in the end zone.

A great 58-yard punt off the toe of Kevin Kothmann began to dig the Chieftains out of their bad field position, as the team had failed to generate much offense during the first 15 minutes of action.

Finally, Friona got the ball at the Farwell 48, with 2:08 of clock time remaining. Chris Barnett rambled for 22 yards on a roll-out to the right, being forced out of bounds at the Farwell 24. This came with 1:31 left on the clock.

Barnett made 12 more yards, giving the team a first and goal situation at the Farwell four, inside the minute mark. But fans began to fear that the clock would expire before the Chieftains could push across the TD. Friona had to use its last time out with 15 seconds left and the ball on the one. It was at this point that Rod Owen crashed over tackle into the end zone to break the scoring ice.

Leslie White's soccer-style kick made it 7-0. Farwell only had time for the kickoff and one play before halftime.

The third quarter settled back toward another defensive battle for a time, until Friona struck with lightning-style licks, to open up their lead.

Farwell drove to the Friona 23, where another field goal attempt fell short.

On Friona's first offensive play following the kick, Barnett faded back, and lofted a long pass to White, who was streaking down the east sidelines. White caught the ball at about the 50, being wide open, and raced the rest of the way for the touchdown. The play covered 77 yards, the longest scoring play of the season.

That pushed Friona's lead to 13-0 with 6:43 left in the quarter. White, still excited after his run, barely missed the PAT.

Friona held the Steers, and took the ball on their own 28. Chuck Nichols broke loose on a 43-yard run, finally being hauled down at the Farwell 25. A personal foul step-off against the Steers advanced the ball to the ten.

Three plays later, Nichols crossed the double stripes from three yards out, and White's kick made the score 20-0 with 3:13 left in the quarter, and suddenly the game took on a one-sided appearance.

The Chieftain defense continued to deny the Steers, and turned the ball over to the offense. The Chiefs picked up a pair of first downs, then were forced to punt. However, Farwell fumbled the punt, and Friona kept the ball at the Steer 31.

On third down, Barnett hit White again, on a 32-yard touchdown strike, and Leslie added the kick to make the margin 27-0. There was still 10:10 left on the clock, but the night's scoring had been completed.

Friona held the Steers to a net of only 69 yards, 45 of which came through the air while the Chieftains' reserves were in the game.

Chuck Nichols was Friona's leading rusher with 93 yards. White caught the two touchdown passes for a total of 109 yards, and scored 13 points.

Chiefs Have Open Date

The Friona Chieftains have their open date next Friday, October 13.

The 1978 season hits the halfway mark as of games this week, and Friona will launch its District 3-AA schedule the following Friday, October 20 by hosting the undefeated Muleshoe Mules, rated in the top ten (number four) in the state for Class AA teams.

The Chiefs were shooting for their fourth straight win at Vega Friday night, which would give them a 4-1 season record at the break, and momentum going into the tough district schedule.

Eighth Grade Braves Stomp Farwell, 35-0

The eighth grade football team beat Farwell 35-0 last Thursday. The Braves opened up the scoring in the second quarter with Jamie Pena going six yards for a touchdown. Mark Montoya kicked the extra point.

Bruce Patterson sneaked over from one yard to the second touchdown. Montoya's extra point was blocked. The score was 13-0 at halftime.

Martin Lopez intercepted a pass and ran 22 yards for the third touchdown for the Braves. Mark

7th Grade Team Wins

The Friona seventh grade Braves went up against Muleshoe this week, and won by a score of 12-8. Charlie Morgan was the outstanding rusher who made both the touchdowns.

The line blocked well: Mark Murphy, Bruce Ramos, Paul Melton, Troy Crutchfield, Rudy Bermea, Tim Kirk and Kevin Brogden. Through the entire game there was giant holes to run through.

The Braves had a very stingy defense not allowing a single point, rushing or passing. Muleshoe ran the opening kickoff all the way for a touchdown. Later on Muleshoe captured a Brave for a safety.

The defensive showed alot of pride when they held the Mules late in the game on the goalline. Everybody played well. The tackling was good and the team managed to jar the ball loose a few times while on defense.

Montoya's extra point upped the score to 20-0. Lopez broke one tackle and scored again in the third quarter for the eighth graders. Montoya's extra point made the score 27-0.

In the fourth quarter, George Richardson passed to Leo Escalante for another six points. This pass covered 19 yards. The run for the extra point failed and the score stood at 33-0.

Jeff Lundy and Randy Ortiz tackled the Farwell punter in the end zone to end the scoring at 35-0.

It was a team effort by Coach Gunter's eighth graders. The defense was spearheaded by Juan Samarron, Jay Hight, Mark Montoya, Max Perea, Bill Head, Carl Jackson, and Michael Deaton. The offensive line which consisted of Roddy Berend, Jay Hight, Vince Koelzer, Leo Escalante, Mike Neill, Kenny Kennedy, blocked well. All of the offensive backs ran and blocked well.

Hints For Homeowners

HOME IMPROVEMENT, SAFETY AND ECONOMY
COMMON SENSE CAUTIONS

Americans spent an estimated $33 billion last year on home alterations and repairs, an all-time high.

As new home costs soar, more and more families are turning to fixing-up the "old homestead." Many, if not most, are doing the work themselves for personal satisfaction and to stretch the home improvement budget.

Because do-it-yourself is a new way of life to many homeowners, there are some common sense precautions to be heeded when working with even the most ordinary tools in and around the house. The makers of Crescent adjustable wrenches, Nicholson files, Wiss scissors and Weller soldering equipment suggest these guides to sensible prevention against "the unexpected":

- Wear goggles whenever there's danger of flying wood or metal, add mask in dusty conditions.
- Disconnect electrical circuits when working with light fixtures.
- When tightening a nut with an adjustable wrench, pull—don't push—the tool.

- Place a heated soldering iron on a tip rest.
- Ground power tools not double insulated.
- Replace frayed cords on electric appliances immediately.
- When file-sharpening a power lawn mower blade, disconnect the spark plug wire.

- Remember that scissors are meant to be sharp.
- Paint is a tool—read precautions on cans carefully.
- Hold tools firmly. Assume one might slip in use—be prepared.
- Unplug an electric drill when changing bits.
- Don't put down a chain saw until the blade stops.
- Keep work areas uncluttered, tools clean.

The key is common sense. If one "thinks ahead", there's less likely to be trouble from "the unexpected."

GOOD NEWS ABOUT ADVANCES

ARTHRITIS

An estimated 5,000,000 people in the U.S. suffer from rheumatoid arthritis, and more than 20,000,000 are afflicted with some other form of the disease, according to the Arthritis Foundation.

One fallacy associated with the treatment of arthritis is the belief that wearing a copper bracelet will ward off the disorder.

Another fallacy is that there's no better medicine than aspirin. The truth is that a new drug is just as effective and sidesteps aspirin's side effects. It's Trilisate, a nonacetylated salicylate, an anti-inflammatory pain reliever available by prescription only. Unlike aspirin, doctors point out, it does not cause stomach upset or interfere with the blood's natural tendency to clot when a person has been injured.

Like aspirin, which was developed originally for arthritis, Trilisate reduces swelling in the joints, but it's safer on the stomach than aspirin.

"Another benefit is that a person only has to take Trilisate twice a day," says rheumatologist Dr. Benjamin L. Lechner, clinical instructor in medicine at the University of Miami Medical School. "From one to three tablets every 12 hours are enough. With aspirin, a patient may have to take as many as 16 to 20 tablets

WAKING UP TO DISCOVER A swollen, stiff knee can be a painful experience.

...a day, increasing the likelihood of adverse side effects. Developed by the Purdue Frederick Research Center in Norwalk, Conn., Trilisate has been used in clinical trials in the U.S., where more than 30 board-certified rheumatologists have treated 645 subjects with the drug. There currently are more than 30 additional centers where controlled clinical trials by several hundred patients are being conducted.

Trilisate tablets combine choline salicylate and magnesium salicylate. Both are recognized by the scientific community to be safe and effective drug ingredients for anti-rheumatic therapy.

Now that there's no longer a need to rely on aspirin and aspirin products that produce unpleasant side effects, arthritis sufferers can enjoy life more while looking forward to the discovery of a complete cure.

Town Talk

Phone 247-3681 With Your News Item

The face of the business area of Eleventh Street is about to undergo a change. Since the early or middle fifties, there has been a cafe at the corner of Cleveland and Eleventh.

A few weeks demolition of the cafe and adjoining residence was started. Then, by the end of last week, the site was almost cleared and there was a bright sign proclaiming to passersby that in the not too far distant future Tri-County Savings & Loan will have a new home there.

Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Peace and Jaclyn were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Blackstone, Shanna and Thomas of Morton and Mr. and Mrs. Rosco Ivie.

Harvey and Bonnie are Mrs. Peace's parents. They are former residents of the Black Community.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Davis and daughter, Malia, of Amarillo were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L.P. Davis Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Scott of Altus, Oklahoma and Mr. and Mrs. Scot Lillard and son, Shane, of Lubbock were weekend guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Lillard.

Ray Scott is Lavelle's father and is a former resident of Friona.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Mills and daughter, Kristi, of Guyton, Oklahoma, were weekend guests in the home of Mike's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mills.

Ella Faye Holcomb of Plainview was a Saturday night guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Snead. Mrs. Holcomb, a former Friona resident, is also a former Friona Star society editor.

Sunday was a very special day for members of Sixth Street Church of Christ. Cline Paden of Lubbock was the guest speaker Sunday morning; a pot luck meal was served at the high school cafeteria at noon and congregational singing, talks by two former ministers, D.L. Harguess of San Angelo and Terry Brown of Lubbock and tours of the newly completed facility made up the afternoon program.

A sermon by Cline Paden in the evening completed the dedicatory program.

Incidentally, D.L. and Ruth Harguess and daughters, Dee Ann and Tammy, will soon be moving back to Friona. D.L. is beginning a job with Friona Ford Sales, Inc. and Ruth and the girls will be moving back as soon as housing is available and the loose ends in San Angelo are gathered up.

Terry and Gail Brown and their children, Trent, Tracy, Tally and Tory, don't get back to Friona very often any more. When the Browns moved to Lubbock, they just had three children. Since then a second son, Tory, has been added to their family.

Sandi Weber and daughter, Amy, of Jal, New Mexico, were here, too. Gary and Todd were unable to come. Gary is also a former minister of Sixth Street Church of Christ.

Leonard and Jo Nettles of New Home; Loyd and Georgia Shackelford of Hereford; Gwen Haines and children of Hart; Mrs. Scot Nelson and son of Panhandle and Mrs. Sue Stark of Amarillo—all former Frionans—were here, too.

Then, half of the Floyd children and grandchildren were here. Susan and Clint Phillips of Lewistown, Montana, are making their annual visit to the Lone Star State and Gerald, Jason and Sarah Floyd of Elkhart, Kansas, came down for the weekend.

Johnie and Phyllis Parker, who live in Worland, Wyoming, have been on vacation. They came to Friona to visit their parents, Mrs. Tommie Parker and Carl and Billie Fairchild and other relatives and friends.

While they were here, their son, Dan, who is a junior at Texas Tech University, Lubbock, came up. So did Sleepy and Ruby Grubbs Fairchild and their two sons, Michael and Mark, who live in San Angelo.

The San Angelo Fairchilds also visited Ruby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A.S. Grubbs, and the Kenneth McLellans.

Some Frionans who have been to northeastern New Mexico to see the fall colors are Rene, Jinx, Gary, Kay, Holly, Charlie and Josh Snead, who visited the Jim Sneads at Red River, and Ruth Rushing.

Ruth accompanied her sister, Mrs. Webb Gober of Farwell, to Albuquerque and other places of interest in that area. These two visited the Kendall Schlenkers in the Duke City.

Kendall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schlenker, formerly of the Rhea Community, and has completed one of the first solar heated homes in this area.

Ralph and Beulah McBroom are home again after two trips to the central part of continental United States. First they went through Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa and on to the Chicago area.

Enroute they toured the Eisenhower museum at Abilene, Kansas; the Truman museum at Independence, Missouri and other historic spots.

Then in Zion, Illinois, the McBrooms visited in the home of one of Ralph's sisters and brothers-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Larris Hargett, for a few days. Then the four took a trip all the way around Lake Michigan.

Then, Ralph and Beulah came home for a couple of days or so before taking off again. This time they went to Branson, Missouri. They were there three nights and saw three plays.

They also visited several handicraft places, including one quilting shop. While there Beulah visited with another tourist and learned that she formerly lived at Farwell. She was Ann Glenn. Her husband was Farwell's medical doctor a few years ago.

Pride at its highest level is doing one's very best when no one is looking.

FAMILY CELEBRATES....The Ed Boggess family held a celebration Saturday, September 23 to commemorate the 50th anniversary of their arrival in Texas. The luncheon was held in the backyard of the

Family Celebrates Arrival In Texas

The Ed Boggess family held a celebration Saturday, September 23 to commemorate their arrival in Texas fifty years ago.

Ed and Bessie Boggess and their children, Juanita, Irene, Eugene, Geneva and Thelma, arrived in Texas in August, 1928 just in time for the three oldest children to enroll in the Friona School system.

Their mode of travel, quite common in those days, was Bessie, Juanita, Irene and Eugene in the touring Buick with all the clothing and bedding, while Ed drove the old Rio truck filled with the rest of the belongings including a few chickens. Thelma and Geneva rode with their father and took turns standing to his left because it was so crowded even in the cab of the truck.

The relatives attending the celebration were served a steak luncheon in the backyard of the Geneva Riethmayer home. Steak, salad, baked potatoes, cake and iced tea were served to the guests from 12:30 until 2 p.m. in excellent weather conditions.

A golden anniversary cake depicting the trip was decorated with the state of Texas with Friona starred as the destination and the old touring car (blue) and the old truck winding their way to Texas. Atop the car was a candle in a crown for the 50 years.

Tony Johnson, youngest grandson of Ed and Bessie Boggess, had also chosen this day for his wedding day. Later in the evening, the group attended the wedding ceremony.

Out-of-town guests attending were Todd Bandy of Lubbock; Irene and T.A. Sherley of Hot Springs, Arkansas; Janette and Truett Johnson of Lubbock; Larry and Debbie Johnson and sons, Josh and Jeff of Carrollton, Texas; Shirley and Mark Womble of Amarillo and Tony Johnson of Canyon.

Local guests were Bud and Juanita Reed, Mary, Max and David Reed, Mona Campbell and Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bandy, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Bandy, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Boggess, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Riethmayer, Brent and Corbin and Geneva Riethmayer.

Wedding Ceremony Unites Diana Clark, Tony Johnson

Miss Diana Carol Clark and Tony David Johnson exchanged wedding vows Saturday, September 23 in the Friona United Methodist Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Skip Sircic, pastor of the Friona Congregational Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Clark of Friona. The groom's parents are Truett Johnson of Lubbock and the late Thelma Johnson.

The ceremony was performed at 7 p.m. before a cathedral arched candelabra decorated with greenery garlands and fresh burgandy roses, bridal pink glamelias, and pink miniature carnations holding pale pink taper candles. Flanking on either side were tree candelabras and three branch candelabras decorated with floral garlands holding pink taper candles.

Complimenting the setting was a frosted burgandy unity candle designed with the couple's wedding invitation. It was nestled into a floral arrangement of burgandy roses, bridal pink glamelias, miniature carnations and gypsophyllia. The arrangement was atop a white pedestal.

Parents' and grandparents' pews were marked by candle arrangements surrounded by fresh flowers and satin ribbon.

A red rose in a crystal vase surrounded by a cloud of gypsophyllia was placed in memory of the groom's mother.

The church windows were accented with candle arrangements of fresh flowers, greenery and ribbon.

Mrs. Johnnie Walters, organist, presented musical selections preceding the ceremony.

Vocalists were John Carson and Sharla Benge. Mrs. Walters accompanied John as he sang, "Time In A Bottle," and Sharla as she sang "Always And Forever." "The Wedding Song" was sung by John and Sharla as the bride and groom knelt on a white kneeling bench, which was decorated with a floral garland and floral nosegays at either end.

Preceding the entry of the wedding party, tapers were lit by Gene Schueler and Loren Martin.

Guests were registered by Johnna Blackburn. The registration table was covered with a white lace cloth over pink, accented with a candle arrangement of fresh burgandy roses and pink miniature carnations and greenery.

The bride was presented in marriage by her father. The bride selected a formal gown of candlelight silk organza designed with a Victorian neckline. The sheer yoke was enhanced with embroidery and seed pearls trimmed with French pleats and Venice lace. Her long full sleeves were accented with seed pearls resting on appliques of Venice lace and were caught at the cuff with French pleating. The long full skirt fell to a Venice lace flounce hemline which swept into back fullness cascading into a chapel length train.

She wore a matching coil of Venice lace. Her coil held her tiered veil of bridal illusion which was completely trimmed in Venice lace and fell to chapel length.

Before joining the groom at the altar, the bride presented her mother with a long stemmed red rose.

She carried a cascading bouquet of deep burgandy smantha roses and bridal pink glamelias with fresh leatherleaf plumosus fern surrounded by gypsophyllia atop a candlelight satin covered Bible with passages marked from I Corin. 13 and the Book of Ruth. The Bible was a gift to the bride from her parents.

Following bridal tradition, something new was her bridal attire, something old was a pair of diamond earrings, which belonged to the groom's mother, something borrowed was a diamond ring her father presented her mother on their 25th wedding anniversary. The bride wore a lucky penny minted the year of their marriage in her candlelight garter.

The groom was attired in a candlelight tuxedo, shirt and tie. He wore a boutonniere chosen from the flowers in the bridal bouquet.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Teresa Clark. Bridesmaids were Shirley Milloy, Mary Gustin and Jeri Landrum.

The feminine attendants were attired in floor length two piece gowns of nylon quiana designed with an oval neckline, elbow length ragland sleeves, a loose fitting over-blouse with a gathered peplum accented by a self fabric sash and three tiered skirt.

The maid of honor and Mary Gustin wore dresses of burgandy quiana, Shirley Milloy and Jeri Landrum's dresses were of pink quiana. They carried colonial nosegays of bridal pink glamelias, deep burgandy smantha roses and pale pink miniature carnations with pale pink satin ribbon streamers.

The flower girl, Annie Renner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Renner, carried a basket of fresh burgandy and pink carnations which she presented to the guests as she preceded the bride down the aisle. She wore a pink nylon quiana floor length dress designed according to the other feminine attendants.

Attending his brother as best man was Ricky Johnson. Groomsmen were Mike Blackburn, Donnie Gustin and Jerry Martin. They were attired in burgandy Seville tuxedos with pink ruffled shirts and burgandy bow ties. They wore boutonnieres of pink carnations centered with a burgandy rose bud.

The ring bearers were Joshua Johnson, nephew of the groom from Carrollton, Texas and Todd Long. They wore burgandy Seville tuxedos identical to the groomsmen. They also wore pink carnation and burgandy rose boutonnieres.

Serving as ushers were Scotty Farley, cousin of the bride from Muleshoe, Ken Jordan of Amarillo, Jon Jarecki and Ted Lindeman, both of Friona. They wore black Windsor tuxedos, pink ruffled shirts, black ties and pink carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a floor length gown of blue silk faced organza designed with a high rise circular bodice forming a sweet-heart neckline and long full sleeves attached to a fitted cuff circled with tubular beading, matching the bodice and neckline jewelry. The full skirt with shirred fullness was fluted at the skirt's edge. She wore matching accessories. Her corsage was a lavender cattleya orchid trimmed in white.

Mrs. Johnson wore a floor length turquoise chiffon sleeveless gown designed along empire lines featuring a draped bodice, v-neckline and softly gathered skirt. A chiffon cape topped the gown and extended below the waistline in the back. Her accessories were white. She wore a white cattleya orchid corsage trimmed in white.

Fathers of the couple wore burgandy Seville tuxedos, pink ruffled shirts and burgandy ties. Their boutonnieres were white roses and stephanotis.

A reception followed the ceremony in Fellowship Hall.

The bride's table was covered with a white satin and chiffon cloth with a scalloped satin overlay. An arrangement of bridal pink gladiola, burgandy smantha roses on a silver table candelabra which held pink taper candles centered the table. Highlighting the bride's table was the four-tiered octagon designed wedding cake, decorated in white with cascades of pink and burgandy roses and pale green leaves. It was encircled with lattice string work over pink and burgandy rose buds. The two top layers were separated with white lattice columns and topped with two white love birds under a white flower garland. Mrs. Lloyd Rector designed and decorated the cake.

Pink strawberry punch, pink heart-shaped strawberry mints and nuts were served from silver appointments. Rhonda Parsons and Sylvia Malouf attended the bride's table.

The groom's table was covered with a burgandy cloth and candlelight lace overlay. Cheese rolls, assorted crackers, ham filled cream puffs and coffee were served from silver appointments. Varied sizes of cranberry pillar candles and greenery centered the table. Donna Ruzicka, Lubbock, attended the groom's table.

Complimenting the reception decor was white lattice work draped with white chiffon and greenery accented by a four-tiered stone fountain which was adorned by the attendant's nosegays.

Members of the houseparty were Mrs. Roy Farley, Mrs. Lloyd Rector, Mrs. David Gallman, Mrs. Charles Jones, Mrs. Billy John Thorn, Mrs. V.E. Nichols and Mrs. Bob Hurst.

Mary Gustin and Shirley Milloy distributed pink and burgandy rice bags to the guests from crystal trays.

For a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the bride chose a black and
