Labor Day Traffic Claims 51

Traffic took at least 51 lives in Texas during the lengthy Labor Day weekend, an Associated Press survey showed, with a total of 73 violent deaths from all causes.

The Associated Press tabulated the number of deaths between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday.

These were among the latest to be reported:

Mrs. Norma Jarrell Evans, 34, of Evans, La., was killed and seven persons injured, two critically, when three cars piled up Monday night on U.S. 87 eight miles north of Deweyville in Southeast Texas. Taken to an Orange hospital in critical condition were Dale Emory Belt, 15, of Orange and Charles Beaver of Buna.

Sandra K. Marshall, 4, of Houston slipped from the west bank of the San Jacinto River Monday and drowned. A fire department spokesman said the tiny girl was crabbing with her parents when the mishap occurred.

Mrs. Edward Allen, 19, of Winters drowned Monday afternoon in the Colorado River near the McCulloch County town of Stacy. The body was recovered about two hours later.

Daniel Powell, 52, of Houma, La., was killed Monday evening when his car hit bridge pilings while trying to make a turn off a highway near Nederland in Southwest Texas.

A two-car crash in Southern-Dallas County Monday took the lives of Mrs. Alma Lucille Gibson, 62, of Lancaster, and Dannie Eugene Yates, 31, of Dallas. Lonnie Day Gibson, 63, husband of Mrs. Gibson, suffered multiple injuries.

Homer Small of Fort Worth was killed Sunday night in a two-car collision in Fort Worth.

James Franklin Owen, 23, of El Paso was killed when his car ran into a ditch in El Paso.

Three youths were killed and two others injured Monday when their car went out of control and slammed into a tree in Arlington. They were Gary Leonard Rushing, 18; Jeffery Joyner, 17; and Ricky Smith, age unknown, all of Arlington.

L. G. Gowan Jr., 18, of Austin was killed early Monday south of Austin on Interstate 35 when his car overturned.

Four young persons died in their car when it ran off U.S. 82 in North Central Texas, crashed into a creek bank and burst into flames. The accident occurred about 1 a.m. Monday four miles west of Muenster. Dead were Leon Edward Endres, 20, and Glenn Kelemet, 20, both of Muenster; Janice L. Trutenbock, 20, of Dallas, and Kristi L. Allert, 20, of Washburn, Wash.

Final National Toll Hits 608

Traffic accidents across the nation claimed 608 lives during the three-day Labor Day weekend.

Although late reports were expected to raise the toll higher, it appeared the final figure would fall short of the Labor Day record of 688, set during last year's observance.

For comparison purposes, The Associated Press made a survey of traffic deaths over a three-day nonholiday weekend earlier this summer. The total was 435.

The National Safety Council had estimated in advance that highway deaths over this summer's last long holiday weekend would total 625 to 725. The weekend began 6 p.m. local time, Friday and ended midnight Monday.

Traffic deaths during the most recent previous holiday weekend, Independence Day, totaled 611. That holiday period also was three days this year.

Schools OK'd For Head Start Funds

A grant to the Big Spring Independent School District for the Head Start program for this school year has been approved by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

A telegram from Sen. John Tower said $160,541 had been approved, with $156,191 of this new funding with the remainder re-programmed.

The money is estimated to take care of 200 children in the Head Start program for the new school year.

Meanwhile, registration for Head Start was under way today and will continue through Wednesday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Kate Morrison School. Classwork will begin Monday.

In Today's HERALD Inquest Cast

Wednesday, a large number of individuals will be in the spotlight for the investigation into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne who died in Sen. Teddy Kennedy's car. See Page 2.

KENNEDY'S ATTORNEYS FILE SUPREME COURT MOTION

Mary Jo's Inquest May Be Delayed

KENNEDY ACCIDENT LOCALE — Map locates places on Martha's Vineyard and Chappaquiddick Island, Mass., in the locale of car accident involving Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Mary Jo Kopechne.

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Supreme Court was asked today to overturn Edgartown Dist. Judge James A. Boyle's ruling denying attorneys for potential witnesses in the Mary Jo Kopechne inquest the privilege of cross-examination.

The request was filed by attorneys representing Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, in whose car Miss Kopechne died.

It is expected to delay the start of the inquest, which was to have opened in District Court before Judge Boyle in Edgartown Wednesday.

He scheduled a hearing on it for this afternoon, and indications were that a further hearing would be held Wednesday morning.

Kennedy's attorneys maintained during a pre-inquest hearing last week that the inquest was of an "accusatory nature," not unlike a trial.

Therefore, they contended, they should have the right to cross-examine witnesses and raise objections.

But Boyle held that an inquest is like a grand jury proceeding, in which no cross-examination is permitted, and he rejected the motion.

Boyle did decide, however, to allow attorneys for potential witnesses to be present in the courtroom while their clients testify. They would be allowed to advise their clients on pertinent questions of constitutional rights.

Meanwhile, in Edgartown today, tightened security was in evidence as the community prepared for the inquest. At least nine state troopers and about two dozen officers from other towns were brought in to help the small Edgartown force.

Miss Kopechne, 28, a Washington secretary, was killed the night of July 18 when a car driven by Sen. Kennedy plunged off an unrailed bridge into a tidal pond on nearby Chappaquiddick Island.

Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis, who called the inquest, could not be reached for comment on a statement Sunday by Dr. Robert W. Nevin, Dukes County medical examiner, that he was withdrawing his support from Dinis' effort to have the body of Miss Kopechne exhumed in Pennsylvania for an autopsy.

Dinis' petition, opposed by Miss Kopechne's parents, is under consideration by Judge Bernard C. Brominski in Common Pleas Court in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Brominski was expected to issue his decision today or Wednesday.

TEDDY'S DEATH CAR — Spectators gathered to look at Sen. Edward Kennedy's car, after it was hauled from the watery depths that claimed the life of Mary Jo Kopechne.

Head-On Crash

ALVORD, Tex. (AP) — A two-truck head-on crash at 5 a.m. today just north of Alvord in Wise County killed both drivers.

They were Charles Floyd Jackson, 33, of Plainview and Donald Benjamin Smith, 41, of Fort Worth.

Pilots Threaten Strike If Israelis Not Freed

World Airlines Boeing 707 jet to Damascus Friday after it left Rome for Tel Aviv.

The executive committee of the 40,000-member International Federation of Airline Pilots Associations met in Paris Monday and drafted a statement calling on the United Nations to take immediate action to free the passengers and ensure the hijackers would be punished.

Ole Forsberg, Finnish president of the organization, said he had cabled the membership asking for a strike authorization, and he expected overwhelming approval.

"If the passengers are not freed before Sept. 8, we will go on strike" 15 days later, he said.

In Cairo, meanwhile, leaders of the four countries directly involved in hostilities with Israel began meeting to coordinate military and other policies.

More Added To HCJC Enrollment

Twenty students were added to Howard County Junior College rolls Tuesday as classes were resumed. This brought to 990 the head count for the fall semester so far.

The sign-up for classes continues through Sept. 10, but college officials urged students to register as promptly as possible in order to not miss any more class work than necessary. Last year the final head count was 1,159 and the full-time equivalent (semester hours divided by 15) was 799.3. So far there have been 654 full-time students signed, which indicates that the semester hour total is holding well although the head count is lagging somewhat.

NIXON WARNS GOVERNORS

Peace Will Not Bring Federal Aid To States

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — President Nixon has told the nation's governors not to look for an outpouring of new federal funds as a byproduct of peace in Vietnam.

The President also defended his welfare reform program in a speech to the 61th National Governors' Conference Monday and advised the state executives against trying to tamper with it.

But the conference was to act today on a resolution urging that the federal government take over the financing of the entire welfare system.

He said he was going to put the money where the problems are," said New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, chief promoter of the takeover proposal, a five-year plan which goes far beyond the Nixon recommendations.

Nixon flew from his summer White House in San Clemente, Calif., for his defense of his domestic programs, and told his critics:

"I make just one suggestion — we've been on a road for a long time that is leading us to disaster and when you're on the wrong road you get off and get on a new road."

Nixon told the governors at their black tie conference ball there are "hard budget and tax decisions ahead."

"Dreams of unlimited billions of dollars being released once the war in Vietnam ends are just that — dreams," he said.

"True, there will be additional money — but the claims on it already are enormous.

"There should be no illusion that what some call the peace and growth dividend will automatically solve our national problems or release us from the need to establish priorities.

"In order to find the money for new programs," said Nixon, "we will have to trim it out of old ones."

Said Democratic Gov. John N. Dempsey of Connecticut: "I'm not so sure that if the war ended tomorrow there couldn't be billions of dollars. There must be. Frankly, I was disappointed in the speech. I had hoped to hear a speech of a constructive nature."

One of Nixon's chief advisers, Arthur Burns, counselor to the President, said Monday "of course there will" be more money available after the war. Burns said if the conflict ended immediately it would free $8 billion in federal funds during the next 10 months. But he did not say whether prior claims already had committed such funds.

While Nixon rejected the notion of a peace bonus, he did tell the governors:

"I can assure you of this: We are not simply going to tell you the states have a job to do; we are going to help you find the funds and resources to do that job with."

Nixon also promised "an effective strategy for peace," limiting U.S. commitments overseas to those which can prudently be kept, saying this "makes possible an effective strategy for meeting our domestic needs."

He cited his own domestic proposals as evidence of "this new domestic strategy," stressing the welfare plan.

FRANCELIA SHOREWARD

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricane Francelia raked the coral islands of Bahía with gale winds today as it churned across the Gulf of Honduras toward the coast of Central America.

Francelia was expected to go ashore about noon. Forecasters said the storm's eye probably would pass near Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, the country's main Atlantic port.

Storm warnings extended from the British Honduras capital of Belize, 120 miles southward to La Ceiba, Honduras. Puerto Barrios is located about midway between the two cities, at the head of the Gulf of Honduras.

Runaways Ask For Sanctuary

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Flanked by cross-bearing supporters, two runaway American soldiers today marched into a session of the Episcopal Church convention and asked for sanctuary from authorities.

The dramatic plea to the approximately 1,000 churchmen gathered from across the country did not draw any immediate clear-cut response. But a large number of the delegates left their seats to surround the pair temporarily.

A police officer stood by. Asked what he would do, he said, "I haven't had any word on it."

Bishop George Barrett of Rochester, N.Y., joined in the soldiers' appeal for sanctuary. The bishop said their objection to fighting on grounds of conscience is in conformity with long Christian tradition.

The two were identified as Airman Louis Parry, 21, of Mountain View, Calif., and Marine Cpl. Louis Jones, 23, of Charleston, S.C., both AWOL from stations in Hawaii. They both declared their intention not to go back.

Jones appealed to the 3.6 million-member church to uphold his "Christian stand and help make this a Christian nation again." He said he had been hospitalized in Hawaii after being wounded in Vietnam and was told he would soon be returned to the fighting.

The Rev. Richard Hernandez of New York, national director of Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam, said the pair of soldiers was flown here secretly from Hawaii.

A phalanx of Episcopal youths, carrying crosses, olive branches and colorful signs, accompanied the pair into Convocation Hall on the University of Notre Dame campus.

The episode broke into a mid-morning session which already had been somewhat distracted by a group of anti-war youth and others standing in a gallery reading a list of Vietnam war dead.

Senate Tax Bill Writers Looking At New Angles

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators who cut short their holiday weekend to work Labor Day put their heads together today in a new attempt to write an acceptable tax bill.

Sen. W. T. Moore of Bryan, chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee, recessed a scheduled meeting of his committee, which was expected to vote on a tax package passed last week by the House.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes said Senate tax writers were looking at some new angles, including a proposal by Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall to tax merchandise shipped into Texas. Hall said the proposal would raise an estimated $71.6 million.

Hall said his package also included an increase in the corporate franchise tax and an increase from 3 to 3.5 per cent in the sales tax, effective next July.

Barnes said the bill would have more business taxes than any proposal yet presented to the Senate.

The Senate met briefly and passed, 30-0, a bill by Sen. V.E. "Red" Berry of San Antonio, setting up two new district courts in that city. "We're passing this bill because of our deep affection for the senator from Bexar," said Moore.

Berry underwent surgery last Friday in San Antonio.

Senators recessed until 3 p.m. Barnes said the State Affairs Committee would meet at 2 p.m. or 2:30 p.m. to consider a tax bill.

The House, which did its tax work last week, was scheduled to reconvene at 2 p.m.

Most of the 21-member State Affairs Committee was in town Monday to hear three hours of testimony on the House tax package.

Sixteen witnesses, mostly businessmen or business lawyers, appeared at the special meeting. Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston has delayed the hearing over the weekend, saying he wanted Texans to have a chance to get to Austin for the discussion.

But only two men, including one from Austin, showed up who said they were representing only themselves. And the holiday took its toll in spectators, too, as there were never more than 20-30 in the balcony. Most of them wore casual sports clothes and carried cameras.

The state comptroller estimated the House bill would raise $378 million in new taxes, but he said technical uncertainties in writing one section prevented him from including his estimate a provision which some say could bring in $25 million to $100 million a year.

That provision puts under the sales tax materials bought by contractors for federal projects.

Rep. Bill Swanson of Houston, the sponsor, assured the committee it had been held constitutional and he said Texas' neighboring state already were gaining revenue from a similar tax.

ALL THEIR LIVES AFFECTED BY DEATH OF MARY JO KOPECHNE

Notables, Unknowns Appear In Wednesday Inquest

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — The inquest which opens Wednesday into the death of Miss Mary Jo Kopechne has thrust together a cross-section of the notable and the unknown. Their lives all have been affected by the death of Miss Kopechne, the young secretary who died when Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car plunged off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island the night of July 18.

Following are brief profiles of those involved in the case:

EDWARD MOORE KENNEDY — At 37, he is the last of the four Kennedy brothers. Nearly everyone calls the Senator Ted now; the more boyish nickname of "Teddy" fell into disuse after brother Robert's assassination in 1968 in Los Angeles. It was Kennedy who was driving the car in which Miss Kopechne died.

MARY JO KOPECHNE — Miss Kopechne long had been an admirer of the Kennedys, particularly Robert, and for a time served as a member of his secretarial staff. She was a member of Robert's so-called "boiler room gang" in his 1968 campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. This was the group of young women who handled the New York senator's key telephone calls in the weeks after he launched his campaign. Miss Kopechne, 28, was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kopechne of Berkeley Heights, N.J. At the time of her death, she was employed by a Washington, D.C., political consulting firm.

EDMUND DINIS — A bachelor and successful businessman in private life, Dinis, 44, has been district attorney for southeastern Massachusetts since 1959. He ordered the inquest. Dinis long has been active in

DROPOUT PRIESTS Stifling Ideas Given The Blame

ROME (AP) — A survey of more than 300 American dropout priests shows their main motive for quitting was the stifling of progressive ideas, a Jesuit sociologist says. The study goes against the theory, widely held in both Roman Catholic lay circles and within the clergy, that the controversial celibacy rule is the primary reason men leave the priesthood.

The results of a five-year study at the University of San Francisco are shown to the Associated Press prior to schedule publication. The research was conducted by the Rev. Eugene Schallert who heads a center for socio-religious studies at the university. He said he had a graduate assistant interview 317 priests, who left the priesthood and a control group of 317 other priests who remained in. "We were not able to verify our original hypothesis," Father Schallert said. "We thought celibacy would be a prime cause, and we found that that wasn't true." He said, "We thought priests who dropped out would have weaker beliefs than those who stayed in, but we found that wasn't true either. The belief of the clerical dropout is every bit as strong as—and sometimes stronger than—before he left. And celibacy is simply not the problem."

Almost to a man, he said, the dropout priests zealously embraced the concepts of reform ushered in by the Second Vatican Ecumenical Council, and then felt themselves unable to put them into practice. Most of the men interviewed were embarrassed at taking a girl out after leaving the priesthood, Father Schallert said. "Girls sometimes told them, 'You act like a 14-year-old boy,' and so they were disinclined to take a girl out again," he added.

The dropouts surveyed came from many parts of the United States, but Father Schallert said most turned up at his center for counseling or help in landing a secular job. All had either dropped out or were about to when they were interviewed. "None was married then but a number have since wed," Father Schallert said. Celibacy, although not the primary factor in dropouts, definitely entered the picture. Usually, however, it came after the priest's decision to hang up his Roman collar was already far along, he said.

Eighty per cent of both the dropouts and stay-ins said they believed having close women friends, without any romantic involvement, would benefit their personality development. All the dropouts went through more or less the same crises and decision processes, over a period of two to five years before actually quitting, Father Schallert observed. "That is a lot of suffering."

In Father Schallert's view the dropout phenomenon is just part of modern Christianity. It's not a negative thing, not a sign of the Church decaying.

He moved to Edgartown in the 1930s because he preferred a quiet life and low key law practice to the hustle and bustle of the mainland.

PAUL F. MARKHAM — A long-time friend of the Kennedys, Markham, former U.S. Atty for Massachusetts, was one of those at the dinner party on Chappaquiddick which preceded the accident. Kennedy said in his nationally televised speech a week after the mishap that Markham and Joseph F. Gargan, Kennedy's cousin, returned with him to the accident scene in a futile attempt to locate Miss Kopechne. JOSEPH F. GARGAN — A cousin of Ted and his close friend since boyhood, Gargan lives year round on Cape Cod. He is an officer of a bank there. In addition to Kennedy, Miss Kopechne, Markham and Gargan, those at the Chappaquiddick party were sisters Nancy and Mary Ellen Lyons, Ester Newbert, Rosemarie Keough and Susan Tennenbaum, all secretaries and all members of Robert's 1968 "boiler room gang." Raymond S. LaRose and Charles A. Treter, longtime Kennedy friends, and John B. Crimmins, a friend and employee of the senator's.

Kennedy, Gargan, Markham and the others at the party are represented by a battery of attorneys, chief among them Edward B. Hanify of Boston and Robert G. Clark Jr. of Bridgewater, both retained by Kennedy.

Kennedy's other lawyers are Robert G. Clark III, who is in practice with his father; and Richard J. McArn, a local attorney whose practice heretofore had been limited to the usually routine cases that come before the Edgartown District Court bench. Joseph P. Donahue represents Gargan and Markham, while Treter, La Rosa, Crimmins and the five young women are represented by Paul F. Redmond.

DR. DONALD R. MILLS — The softspoken general practitioner who is Dukes County's associate medical examiner. As such, he was the physician who pronounced Miss Kopechne dead after her body was pulled from Sen. Kennedy's car. He declared the death an accidental drowning and has maintained that the cause of death was obvious and that an autopsy wasn't necessary.

DOMINICK J. ARENA — A strapping former state trooper, Arena is the Edgartown police chief and was the chief investigative officer after the accident. Appointed chief two years ago, he previously had been assigned to the office of the state attorney general.

Arena, 39, commands a summer force of 10 men and a winter contingent of five. His biggest chore normally is handling traffic during Edgartown's tourist-clogged summer months.

DR. ROBERT W. NEVIN — The chief medical examiner for Dukes County, Nevin, like Mills, is more accustomed to delivering babies than investigating deaths. He was one of those who criticized Mills for not ordering an autopsy.

Yet, last Sunday, he withdrew his support from Dist. Atty. Dinis' effort to win exhumation of Miss Kopechne's body for an autopsy in Pennsylvania, where she was buried.

JOHN FARRAR — An Edgartown businessman and Navy-trained skindiver, Farrar pulled Miss Kopechne's body from the sunken and overturned auto. He has stated that he believes Miss Kopechne might have lived for some time after the accident, breathing from a bubble of air that might have been trapped in the car.

SCHOOL AT LAST—Deborah Fox, 13, born with virtually no face, went to school today for the first time in her life. She has had 37 operations to change her appearance and more are planned. No photographs of her face were allowed.

Still No Decision On Future Of Pay Television

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like an unfinished soap opera, the continuing story of pay-TV has kept its anxious fans' suspense all summer, and nobody yet knows when to expect the next episode. The script still is being written by the U.S. Court of Appeals here, which has been asked to decide whether the Federal Communications Commission was within its legal authority when it established pay-TV throughout the nation.

Should the court uphold the FCC — as it did in 1962 when the commission authorized a trial run of pay-TV in Hartford, Conn. — the pay-TV policy would still face an ordeal in Congress where at least 20 bills to kill it have been introduced. Theatre owners, the commercial television networks and some viewers afraid they'd lose free TV are allied against it. Pay-TV-television broadcasting that could be received only upon payment by the viewer—has been both a controversial issue since the FCC started considering it in 1955. Supporters claimed it would bring culture—the opera, arts, new movies and live theater—that mass-appeal, sponsor-supported free TV could not provide would become available to the viewer willing to pay. Opponents counter that pay-TV, seeking maximum profits, would woo the same mass audience as free TV and buy off the same audience—pleasing attractions—leaving the public to pay for the same entertainment it once got free.

Good Condition — Don B. Thorpe, Big Spring policeman, was still listed in good condition in Cowper Clinic and Hospital Tuesday, after he was injured in a three-car accident Aug. 24 in the 700 block of Gregg.

BORN WITH NO FACE Debbie Finally Going To School

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Deborah Fox, born 13½ years ago virtually without a face, goes to school today for the first time in her life.

It took 37 operations and help from a lot of people to get her there. Debbie said she was "very happy" to be in a class with other children at last.

Before today, Debbie's education consisted of taking part in classes by telephone hookup, bolstered by three hours of private tutoring each week at her farm home in Soddy, north of here.

Now she's an eighth grader in a special education class at White Oak School. A spokesman for the Hamilton County Department of Education said it would be a "transition room for Debbie to get her accustomed to a school situation."

Debbie had her 37th—and most extensive—operation last June at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. It was carried out by six physicians in 13½ hours. With brain, eye and plastic surgery, the doctors literally changed the configuration of Debbie's skullbones.

They moved her eyes from the sides to the center of her face and started rebuilding her nose. Further surgery is planned on her nose and mouth after tests this fall at Baltimore. Her appearance is still not normal. Stories about the operation brought Debbie a flood of mail, including gifts, from around the world. Her favorite gifts, she said, were a music box and a purse.

Debbie, who has an I.Q. of about 120 and is an amateur poet, has tried to answer all her mail. She said she has been corresponding with several GIs in Vietnam.

She hopes she can continue to make top grades in school without giving up her letter writing and poetry. Debbie has collected 25 of her poems for publication, including one about the Johns Hopkins operation, "The Six Best Men of My Life"—a reference to the six physicians.

Debbie is the youngest of four children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Fox. Debbie has said she would like to work with handicapped children when she grows up. In addition to her face, one of Debbie's hands and one of her legs is deformed.

POST OFFICE Can't Curtail Smut Import

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hard-core pornography is coming into this country in ever-increasing numbers, but the Post Office Department admits little—if anything—can be done to curtail the imported smut.

Most comes from Denmark and Sweden, where postal officials say there are no laws to forbid the sending of lurid, suggestive photographs through the mail.

"All we can do, says a Post Office spokesman, is to put out 'unlawful orders' to impound mail leaving the United States for known pornography companies abroad."

"Of course," he said, "this cuts off much of their revenue, and we hope to get at them this way."

But William Lawrence, an attorney in the Post Office's general counsel's office, says there is virtually nothing that can be done otherwise to stem the flow.

No estimate is available on the pornography entering this country from abroad, but postal officials say there is no doubt it is increasing—largely because of the waning interest in Scandinavia since legalization of smut. At the same time, Lawrence says enforcement is stepped up, for example, 22 orders impounding foreign mail were issued last month, compared to only three during the same month a year ago.

"Efforts to deal with the problem through agreements with postal services in Sweden and Denmark have met with no success," a spokesman said.

"Not a single one of the countries has a law forbidding the mailing of pornography," he noted. "In fact they get offended when we even inquire as to the possibility of an agreement on dealing with the problem."

Postal officials admit that they are confronted with an increasing amount of mail protesting unsolicited receipt of imported mail.

This corresponds with public concern manifested by mail to congressmen and senators. The Nixon administration has submitted proposals to deal with the domestic variety, but officials admit helplessness, to a large degree, in stopping that from abroad.

Bus Drivers Fail To Report To Work Today

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — More than 350 city bus drivers, forbidden by state law to strike, simply failed to report to work this morning.

In addition to persons normally riding buses to and from work, hundreds of pupils starting back to public schools today were left without transportation.

Beagle Stolen, Finishes Second

TORONTO (AP) — A $2,000 beagle hound from Illinois was stolen at the Canadian National Exhibition a few hours after finishing second in its class at the dog show.

Owner Sheldon Pankow of New Lenox, Ill., said the dog, winner of 26 best-of-class ribbons in U.S. dog shows, might have been taken out of its unlocked crate by children during the weekend.

He is offering a $150 reward for return of the dog. He said that if children took it because they want a dog he would give them another beagle.

Spokesmen said negotiators for Amalgamated Transit Union No. 694 and the city-owned San Antonio Transit System worked out an agreement late Monday night but the drivers then rejected it by a 248-108 vote.

Union local president Wilson Parker said the main issues in dispute are demands for more pay, changes in split shift schedules and improvements in sick leave and vacation allowances.

The assistant general manager of the transit system, Felix Tapp, said he did not know what steps the city might take to get the buses running.

Officers On Evans Face Court-Martial

MANILA (AP) — The U.S. Navy today ordered a court-martial for the commanding officer of the destroyer Frank E. Evans and the officer of the deck at the time the ship and the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne collided June 2.

Seventy four Americans were lost in the collision.

Vice Adm. W. F. Bringle, commander of the 7th Fleet, ordered the military trial for Cmdr. Albert S. McLemore, 37, of San Pedro, Calif., and Lt. (j.g.) Ronald C. Ramsey, 24, of Long Beach, Calif. It was expected to begin about Sept. 10 at Subic naval base.

No court-martial was ordered for the junior officer of the watch at the time of the collision, Lt. (j.g.) James A. Hopson, 28, of Kansas City, Kan., but a Navy spokesman said Adm. Bringle would deal with him in a nonjudicial hearing.

The Australian navy already has cleared the Melbourne's skipper at a court-martial of negligence.

The Melbourne and the Evans collided during night maneuvers in the South China Sea. The destroyer was acting as part of the carrier's screen and was changing station from ahead of the Melbourne to astern of her. The carrier cut the destroyer in half, sinking the bow half.

McLemore and Ramsey were charged with negligence and dereliction of duty. Adm. Bringle said he based these "obviously very serious" charges on the investigation conducted at Subic in August into the collision.

McLemore, who was asleep in his cabin at the time of the collision, is charged with failure to give proper orders to his deck officers the night of the collision. The charge said the cap-

Flood Waters Hit El Paso A Third Time

By The Associated Press

Flooding rains hit the El Paso area again Sunday evening for the third time in four days, washing out streets and part of at least one highway.

Nearly two inches of rain came down in 45 minutes over parts of the far West Texas city, the Weather Bureau said, although the official measurement at the airport was just .17 inch.

Downpours fell in El Paso and mountain areas close by while heavy showers ranged northward near the New Mexico-Texas line. There were lighter amounts elsewhere in extreme West Texas, parts of South Texas and along the Gulf Coast.

McAllen's 98 inch was the heaviest reported in South Texas.

Police said flooding appeared worst on the northeast side of El Paso, where parts of U.S. 54 were inundated for a time, a section of Texas 375 known as the transmountain road was washed out and high water threatened homes in the district around Ft. Bliss and the Army's William Beaumont Hospital.

Water rose seven inches deep in an El Paso motel, ruined floors in some homes and caused other householders to resort to sandbagging.

Rain was even heavier in the Hueco mountains 25 miles east of El Paso and on the Franklin Range overlooking the city. At one time a special warning against possible flooding on the northwest side of town also was posted.

Rainfall tapered off in the El Paso area by this morning while light rain started falling in a Texas Panhandle area from around Plainview to near Amarillo, Shamrock and Childress.

Nation's Cities Lining Up With Nixon Plans

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Organizations representing the nation's cities are lining up behind the Nixon administration's welfare and revenue-sharing proposals in a new alliance that puts them at odds with governors of major industrial states.

The situation, becoming increasingly apparent as the municipal groups play an unprecedented part in this week's National Governors Conference, represents a dramatic change from the early days of the Nixon administration.

Then Vice President Spiro T. Agnew gave the mayors and their groups the impression that the new Republican administration would deal primarily with the states, and that cities would have to deal through state contacts with the federal government.

But, according to Gov. Daniel Evans of Washington, one of the architects of the revenue sharing proposal to channel federal funds without strings to states, the city and state interests are not so far apart as they once were.

Spokesmen for the municipal groups made clear during business sessions of the conference here and in reacting to President Nixon's address Monday night that they feel the principles of the revenue sharing and welfare proposals are far more important than any inequities that might exist now in their specifics.

"If this were the final proposal," President Jack Maltester of the U.S. Conference of Mayors said in an interview, "we might be strongly opposed."

But he pointedly declined to go along with criticism by Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, who charged the programs plus the House-passed tax reform bill constitute a significant lost opportunity to help the cities' desperate problems.

"It has to be a package," the San Leandro, Calif., executive Democrat elected in a nonpartisan election, said. He added it will be difficult enough to convince Congress to part with federal funds on a no-strings basis without introducing additional complications.

This was precisely the position taken here Monday by Secretary of Housing George Romney, who said, "Getting these things accomplished by congressional action is a very, very difficult job. The important thing is to get the principle established."

Maltester said one of his strongest allies in the conference of mayors on this point is the nation's ranking Democratic Mayor, Chicago's Richard J. Daley.

And he joined with Patrick Healy, executive director of the national League of Cities, in praising the portion of Nixon's speech in which the President rejected criticism by Northern industrial-state governors that their states are slighted in favor of Southern states in the welfare proposals.

"We must think in terms of the people and their needs wherever they are," Nixon said. "That's great," Maltester said. "Nobody could argue with that," Healy added.

A medical bulletin issued late Sunday described the president's illness as "a circulatory crisis with a neurological manifestation." One source interpreted this to mean a brain hemorrhage, spasm or thrombosis.

Beer Can Tab Works Meters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Among motorists' favorite substitutes for a penny, nickel or dime in Los Angeles parking meters are washers and foreign coins. But the pull-tab ring from a beer can work more often, officials say.

City workers count $1.3 million in small change from meters annually, sorting out wedding rings, religious charms, buttons, bus tokens, pieces of dollar bills and occasionally a $5 gold piece.

The foreign coins go to a bank to be exchanged for United States money. The city rarely loses money on the deal.

Some phony objects work in meters, some don't, officials say, predicting happily that before long the rings torn from beer cans will be obsolete as slugs. Cooperating with parking meter makers, can manufacturers have changed the design.

New Dormitory Work To Start

HOUSTON (AP) — A new $1 million dormitory will be started this week near the University of St. Thomas main campus. It will hold 200 students.

A loan from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development will help finance the hall which is scheduled for completion for the fall of 1970.

Now Possible To Shrink Painful Hemorrhoids

And Promptly Stop The Itching, Relieve Pain In Most Cases.

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a medication with the ability, in most cases — to promptly stop itching, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids.

Tests by doctors proved that in case after case, while getting relieving pain, actual reduction of the inflamed hemorrhoids took place.

The secret is Preparation H®. There's no other formula like it! Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Admiral Says Money Spent For Carrier Being Opposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's top admiral has told his civilian chief that the Navy already has spent $133 million on a second nuclear carrier opposed by some members of Congress.

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, Chief of Naval Operations, cited previous commitments toward construction of the carrier — CVAN 69 — in an Aug. 25 memorandum to Secretary of the Navy John Chafee.

The memo, defending flatly as "the primary striking force of our Navy," came at a time when some legislators advocate cutting back the present 15 U.S. attack carriers.

A group of senators has introduced an amendment designed to strip the Navy's budget of $377 million to complete funding of the second atomic-driven Nimitz class carrier.

Moorer said $133 million in contracts for longlead time production items were awarded under defense budgets the past two years.

CVAN 69's nuclear propulsion plant currently is being manufactured, he said, and delivery of the $560 million carrier is scheduled for 1974.

"We must make clear the need to continue with procurement of CVAN 69 in fiscal year 1970, regardless of any change that may be made in the attack carrier force level," Moorer told Chafee.

The admiral thus indicated he sees a possibility the 65-carrier force — which some members of Congress insist is traditional rather than based on any specific requirement — could be trimmed.

Moorer noted that a reassessment is under way of U.S. defense needs "including the number of attack carriers that will be required in future years."

The new Nimitz "will replace an old World War II carrier," he said.

Moorer's memorandum listed these factors: "For all levels of military action other than all-out nuclear war — from a show of force to general war — the attack carrier is the primary striking force of our Navy. It provides the offensive power necessary to assure free use of the seas

—Despite new transportation and weapons systems, free use of the high seas "continues to be essential to the security of the United States, whether we are forced to fight to defend ourselves or to help defend our allies."

"There is no valid plan for overseas military operations of the Army, Air Force or amphibious forces with embarked Marines that does not depend on our free use of the seas."

"Our present national strategy relies heavily upon military forces deployed overseas. These forward deployed forces must be supplied by sea

—A change in national strategy resulting in the withdrawal of our deployed military forces, would increase the requirement to maintain a strong maritime posture."

"An effective tactical air capability is essential to sustain our general purpose and logistic support forces against a determined enemy using modern weapons."

"Land-based tactical aircraft require bases that are adequately prepared, provisioned and defended" and are located "within range of the area of conflict."

"Sea-based tactical aircraft are required when land bases are not available or do not have the capacity to meet the required tactical aircraft needs."

Rotary Exchange Student Enrolls

Merely returns to five spades, then South should give up gracefully.

A heart lead would have earned a quick decision for the defense, however. West elected to open the king of diamonds. The ace was played from dummy, and South surveyed a gloomy prospect. He was confronted with two losers in the heart suit, and his opponents had failed to cash out, it appeared that the evil moment had merely been postponed.

South proceeded to draw trumps in two rounds and then led over to the dummy's king of clubs in order to ruff out the last diamond. Declarer cashed three more clubs, discarding hearts from dummy, and now that the minor suits were stripped out, he led a small heart.

West put up the queen of hearts, however, East was obliged to overtake with the lone king. The forced return of either a diamond or a club enabled South to discard his remaining heart while the dummy trumped. Declarer had fulfilled an "impossible contract."

When the heart was led, West could have sunk South's ship by putting up the ace and then cashing the queen after East's king appears. That East held the king should have been obvious, for if South had that card, he would surely have led hearts from the dummy instead of his own hand.

The play of the ace of hearts by West can therefore hardly cost, and, when East turns up with the lone king—the gain assumes substantial proportions.

South walked off with a contraband slam when his opponent, West, failed to make allowances for a slight roadblock which nature had placed in his path.

South's decision to use Blackwood led to the partnership's landing in an unmakeable slam. The number of aces held by North was strictly of secondary concern. It was more important to learn where North's strength was located, and particularly, if he had good hearts.

Instead of asking, South should have told. When his partner raised to four spades, South is entitled to make a move toward slam. The recommended bid is five clubs to show his control in that suit. This gives North the opportunity to rebid his hearts, if he has a concentration of strength in that suit. If North

Air Fares Going Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of flying may soon be following the cost of living up.

Depending on what the Civil Aeronautics Board has to say about it in a proceeding that begins this week, airline fares could go up as much as eight per cent within the month.

The major airlines, claiming sharply rising operating costs, have filed proposed rate hikes that would all be in effect by Oct. 1.

And they will automatically go into effect unless the CAB says no. Oral arguments before the board begin Thursday.

Among opponents of the fare increases are 20 California-Nevada congressmen, frequent users of long-distance flights, who already are feeling the effects of a four per cent interim increase allowed by the board last February.

Horoscope Forecast

TOMORROW — CARROLL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: On this day and evening be sure you keep the promises you make. Do nothing at all that cannot be done under the best of conditions. Do not annoy one in high office, or your superiors, in any way, or you will regret it. Take no chances on the highway.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Today take care in motion of any kind if you go to work or to school. Do not go to work so fast that you lose accuracy. Be especially careful where reports are concerned.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Be frugal with your money or you can regret later on having spent too much. Do not commit yourself to big deals. Make sure that you keep your property in good shape so that it does not decrease in value.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Convince your nerves so that you do not make the wrong remarks to others. You do not want to get into trouble, especially with important persons. Go over any figures to be sure you are correct. Stop being so suspicious.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Stop fretting because another is berating you. You probably deserve it. Be sympathetic toward those who have less than you. Be kind and generous.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Don't be led into an argument by some acquaintance. Show you are loyal by backing those who truly admire you. Don't try to run another person's life. Take care of your own, instead.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Do your work so well that you make a good impression on those in higher positions and get a raise. Be careful of your reputation. Don't permit one who is flippant to influence you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): This is a good day to find new and profitable ideas. Don't take any action on them yet or make any radical changes. Listen to one who is an expert, though idealistic. Be sure to check over the facts given you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): You have intuitions now that offer a solution to a problem that has been bothering you. Don't confide in others. Try not to annoy your closest friends any further. Keep calm in all emergencies.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 31): Go over game contracts you have made. See if all is in order and that others understand them. You would be foolish to ignore certain facts another gives you. Listen carefully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Instead of trying to procrastinate further, get an early start on the work that must be done and it will soon be behind you. Show co-workers that you can work as hard as they can. Gain their sincere cooperation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): This is not a good time to ask persons you know little about to join you in your favorite kind of pleasure. Invite your good friends. Perfect that talent that is yours alone.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Show your family that you can be depended on, no matter what may happen. Otherwise, they may turn against you. Try not to make any unkind remarks. Remember that the soft word gets better results.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Pray without ceasing. (I Thessalonians 5:17)

Need To Fight Malnutrition

Rep. Richard D. McCarthy, New York Democrat, is concerned that hunger in the United States may make us slaves, rather than masters, of our future.

"It is a national disgrace that bold emergency action has not been taken by our government to help the 10 million people whose health is being permanently impaired by malnutrition," McCarthy told a Lutheran Church gathering. "If we insure that infants, children, and pregnant women receive adequate nutrition, we can interrupt the cycle of misery caused by malnutrition and become masters rather than the slaves of our future."

Why, indeed, has the government moved so slowly in this field. The answers, alas, are numerous. Some people simply refuse to believe that hunger and malnutrition are endemic in the midst of this affluent society. Those who have never gone without a meal and never ventured into the slums are often the most articulate "experts" on this subject.

Far too often, public officials want to argue rather than act. A good case in point was the reaction of Texas officials to reports of a privately-financed committee composed of medical doctors and public health personnel that hunger and malnutrition exists in many Texas counties. In many of those counties there were no surplus commodity distribution programs. The officials promptly began trying to refute the charges by summoning up experts of their own, quoting some doctors and county officials.

The reaction was predictable, of course. No man, especially no man in public office, wants to plead guilty to a charge of permitting the poor to be neglected. Even some of those who protested most vehemently did not bother to visit their slums and get a first-hand look at the situation.

There is no excuse for failure of school officials to overlook hunger and malnutrition and fail to ensure that all children are provided with a nutritious, balanced lunch.

Those who cultivate blindness in the face of need seem to think that it is shameful and shocking to admit that there can be hunger in an otherwise affluent society. But it is neither. All that is needed is willingness to be honest, face the facts squarely, and act with humanity.

All Schools Need More Money

There's probably no comfort to be taken from it, but the Big Spring school system is not alone in its travail over money.

The Abilene school board the other day increased its rate by three cents, and raised the price of school lunches five cents.

The Denison school district jumped the basis of its property valuation from 45 per cent of actual value to 75 per cent. It adjusted the rate, but there still was a tax hike of 19 per cent.

There probably are many other school districts having to do the same thing. All are faced with a common problem: the necessity of meeting teacher pay raises, the inflationary effect on everything purchased, and, in many cases, continuing increased enrollment, plus new restrictions imposed by the state.

Meanwhile, over the nation, the word is that teachers are threatening strikes again as school-opening day comes to hand. None of these threats are in Texas, thank goodness, but many a state has its back to the wall in accommodating teachers and trying to operate a school system in such a way that it won't go broke.

In Texas, school districts have only one source of revenue, the ad valorem property tax. If the pressures continue to build, and they surely will, some new tax method is going to have to be devised. There is not any other choice.

The 'New Jersey' Will Come Out Again

WASHINGTON — The decision to put the United States battleship New Jersey back into mothballs caused hardly a ripple in this country. It was as if nobody cared.

But I want to report that a few of us cared, and when I read Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's decision to retire the New Jersey after its brief sail off the coast of Vietnam, I was heartbroken.

IT SEEMS as if it was only yesterday the Navy announced it was taking the New Jersey out of mothballs and refitting her to fight the Viet Cong. Like most patriotic Americans, my heart leaped at the news. Although it would cost $25 million to get her back into fighting shape, surely, I thought, as did so many others, it would be a cheap price to pay to end the war.

For who could doubt that once Ho Chi Minh and his generals heard that the United States was sending a battleship to Vietnam to blast the Communies out of their caves, the enemy would have to fold up and go back to Hanoi.

THE BIG DAY came when the New Jersey had her last mothball removed. And as she sailed down the river, fireboats sent up geysers of water, ships hooted "bon voyage" and crowds lined the shores waving her on her way.

For the first time, the United States had the feeling that things would soon be going well in Vietnam.

The goliath steamed out to sea. As soon as it arrived off North Vietnam, it started firing $8 million worth of ammunition into the jungles.

FOR 31 DAYS, the New Jersey lobbed its shells into the north. Then President Johnson decided to halt the bombing of North Vietnam and the New Jersey pulled out. It stayed in the area for about six months using up another $5 million in operating funds, but somehow the Navy, who originally had got our hopes up, gave out very little information on what the battleship was doing.

Eighteen months and $40 million later, the New Jersey was brought back to port to be put in mothballs. It didn't seem possible for those of us who had such a strong rooting interest in the ship that the New Jersey's tour of duty was over.

AFTER ALL, the war was still going on. Paris was stalemated and Hanoi was not giving an inch. But then the Navy explained it all. The New Jersey, according to official sources, had accomplished its mission.

What mission? The mission was for the New Jersey to be demothballed, sent to Vietnam, lob $8 million worth of shells and then be mothballed again.

AND FOR ALL this it only cost the taxpayer $40 million. That is why I have been upset that there has been no fanfare that the New Jersey is being decommissioned.

Everyone always seems to be cheering when a battleship is sent to sea, but where are the flagwavers when she's tied up and covered with grease and canvas? Unlike most people, I'm not writing the battleship off. You never can tell when the war starts going badly again and for another $25 million we get the New Jersey to go back to sea.

Center Of Controversy

Drew Pearson Dies Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Columnist Drew Pearson, whose reports on skeletons in government closets put him in the center of numerous controversies, is dead at the age of 71.

He suffered a heart attack Monday at his Maryland farm and was dead on arrival at Georgetown Hospital.

For almost four decades Pearson wrote "The Washington Merry-Go-Round," which carried his version of behind-the-scenes government action. He often raised the ire of officials, and two presidents called him a liar.

Jack Anderson, co-author the past 10 years, said he will continue the column which is carried in 625 daily and weekly newspapers.

Pearson's most recent major crusade in 1966-67 led to a Senate censure of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., after allegations he had used political funds for personal purposes.

It was President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman who denounced Pearson. Roosevelt called him a liar when the columnist reported Secretary of

DREW PEARSON

State Cordell Hull wanted to see Russia "bled white" during World War II.

Truman once referred to Pearson as an "s.o.b." after several columns which angered the President.

And the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wisc., resorted to physical violence during a long feud with Pearson in the 1950s. McCarthy admitted hitting Pearson with his hand at a fashionable club in Washington; the columnist said the senator kicked him in the groin.

The squabble got into the courts in a $51 million damage suit brought by Pearson against McCarthy and several others, including the late columnist Westbrook Pegler. It was dropped later.

This was only one of a number of court suits in which Pearson was plaintiff or defendant.

Although controversial, Pearson was affable, mild-mannered and a Quaker. He sponsored the Friendship Train that collected 700 carloads of food for France and Italy after World War II.

Born Andrew Russell Pearson at Evanston, Ill., he was the son of a college professor who later was governor of the Virgin Islands. He was a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania.

While working for the Baltimore Sun, Pearson and Robert S. Allen wrote a book called "The Washington Merry-Go-Round" which promised to tell "the gossip which the Capital loves to whisper but hates to see in print."

The book and a sequel launched the column which Allen gave up in 1942 to re-enter the Army.

Pearson's first marriage in 1925 to the Countess Felicia Gyzeka, daughter of Eleanor "Cissy" Patterson, publisher of the Washington Times-Herald, ended in divorce.

In 1936 he married Luvie Moore, who survives along with a daughter, Ellen Arnold, and a stepson, Tyler Abell, former U.S. chief of protocol.

A memorial service will be at 11 a.m. EDT Thursday in the Washington National Cathedral. After cremation the ashes will be taken to the Pearson farm.

Penquins Frolic On Tons Of Ice

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Penguins at the St. Louis zoo paid a spiritual visit to the old country over the weekend as they frolicked among three tons of ice used as an emergency air conditioning system.

"Some of them hadn't seen ice since they left the Antarctic," said William Hoff, executive director of the zoo, "and they really enjoyed it. They sat on it, pecked at it and snuggled up next to it."

Zoo officials ordered the ice, 200 pound chunks, when air conditioning in the aquatic house failed Sunday for about six hours. Officials blamed the icy inconvenience on a burned-out switch.

Canoe Owners Clean Up River

EMINENCE, Mo. (AP) — More than 100 canoe enthusiasts from five states finished a three-day cleanup of a 26-mile stretch of the Current River in southern Missouri Monday.

They gathered 283 burlap sacks of trash, mostly beer and soft drink cans and bottles. But there also were tires, bed springs, a lawn mower, a washing machine, a wheel barrow and a sewing machine.

The canoeists came from Arkansas, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri for the 10th annual cleanup sponsored by the Ozark Wilderness Waterways Club.

To Your Good Health

'What Kind Of Heart Attack?'

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We have a specialist looking after my husband in the hospital. He does not explain anything. He said he had a heart attack. I asked what kind of heart condition he said "eskeemia." Can you explain that? I am worried and so are our two girls. — Mrs. C. L.

"A heart attack" means one thing. The flow of blood to some portion of the heart muscle has been interrupted, damaging the heart muscle.

Whether you call it a "coronary occlusion," meaning the closing off of some part of the network of arteries to the muscle, or "coronary thrombosis," meaning that a clot did the clogging, or "coronary infarction," meaning that the stoppage of circulation destroyed a portion of the muscle (with a scar forming there), it's all essentially the same thing.

If you understand how the heart is structured and how it works, the above becomes very simple. But if you don't understand the functioning of the heart, you are probably just about as lost as you were before.

Your doctor gave you still a different term: ischemia. Know what that means? Simply reduction of the flow of blood to some particular area. It still comes back to the same thing.

Personally I think that everybody should spend a little time — like half an hour — learning the basic facts about how the heart operates. (The same goes for other important functions of the body.)

If you'll send for my booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," you will in a very short time have an understanding of what heart attacks, and other forms of heart disease, are all about. Send 25 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Herald, for the booklet. You will then be able to visualize what happened to your husband.

You will also see why, as each day passes now, you can begin to feel more hopeful that he is getting past the crisis, and taking care of his heart — as the booklet says — is important. . . .

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes a hydrocephalic child to be born? We don't seem to be able to get any information. — Mrs. F. C.

Normally there is a circulation of cerebrospinal fluid — fluid which bathes the brain and spinal cord.

If for some reason this circulation is impaired (usually a congenital defect which blocks the flow) the fluid accumulates in the brain cavity and cannot escape.

This causes the skull to become distended before the skull bones have fused and hardened. Treatment is difficult and not very satisfactory. Best solution so far has been to implant a small one-way valve surgically, with a tube to let excess fluid seep out.

As to what causes the congenital defect in the first place, I do not think that has been determined. So that's why you have difficulty getting information. There isn't much to give you.

One Family Reunion Is Enough

One day not too long ago, while we were all sitting around the dinner table, someone asked, "Whatever happened to family reunions?"

Full of vim and vigor, we decided to reunite aunts and uncles, nieces and nephews, grandparents and grandkids. We promptly mailed out enough letters to cause our mailman to retire, and began planning the gala affair.

IN REPLY we got three letters, four phone calls and two postcards, and 28 letters were returned marked "Moved, left no forwarding address." Those were the smart ones.

With the aid of the adding machine we figured out 23 persons would arrive; so we bought food for 30 — and 40 showed up.

IT WAS A delightful day! My granddad told me I needed to go on a diet, all the aunts and uncles patted me on the head and told me I SURE had grown, and my great-aunt told me not to worry about getting married — every family needs a spinster.

I sat on my cousin's ice cream cone, another cousin backed his car into mine and I stepped on a doll belonging to someone I didn't know (but I think she lives three houses down the block).

OUR DOG tried to bite someone who pulled his tail; a 10-year-old cousin dropped a pop bottle, stepped on it and the doctor had to put in three stitches to hold his toe onto his foot; and the cat ran away.

Since no party is complete without music, everyone dragged out the amplifiers, guitars, fiddles and drums. On the second chorus of the first song all the lights went out and everybody went home. It is impossible to buy a fuse at 10 p.m.

BUT AT LEAST we have answered the original question, we know what happened to family reunions. They're only held once every generation. The only one who is still speaking to everyone is my aunt in New York who couldn't come. And the cat never came back.

Ireland Is None Of Our Business

By WILLIAM S. WHITE (For Marquis' Childs, who is on vacation)

WASHINGTON — The importation into this country of the old, the sad and the infinitely complex religious and political hatreds of Northern Ireland as between Catholics and Protestants is in every way a bad and mischief-making business.

"Cute" and appealing well may be Miss Bernadette Devlin, a member of the British Parliament and an open leader here for what is called "The Catholic Issue" in Ulster. Nevertheless, neither her widely remarked youthful charm nor her even more celebrated mini skirt forms sufficient cover to hide the fact that her mission to the United States is grossly improper.

SO, TOO, is the conduct of those American politicians, and notably Mayor John Lindsay of New York City, who are using her presence here to help them run for re-election. For the plain truth is that Northern Ireland is legally and traditionally a part of Great Britain, no less so than Minnesota or Michigan, say, is a part of the United States, and the troubles in Ulster are exclusively the concern of the British government.

TO COME HERE to raise money — and to raise emotional temperatures — for one side of that most unhappy local dispute (and for all this columnist knows, it may be morally the "right" side) is first of all an impertinence to the London government of which Miss Devlin is a small part.

WORSE YET, it is also inevitably provocative to the other side, as may be seen in the circumstance that three leading Protestant politicians from Northern Ireland have already announced their determination to come here to "counter the Catholic propaganda campaign being waged in America by Miss Devlin."

Trying To Make Himself Expendable

WASHINGTON — Winston M. (Red) Blount is the sixth Postmaster General since 1961 and hopes to be the last in history. It's unusual to find a Cabinet officer saying at the top of his voice that he wants to work his way out of a job, and more unusual still to find several hundred members of Congress and several thousand members of the Federal bureaucracy trying to prevent him from doing so.

CONGRESSMEN ARE like everybody else in that they don't willingly relinquish a privilege. In this instance the power of the purse over an executive department and the petty satisfaction of dishing out patronage jobs. The 740,000 postal workers are human, too. As Blount says they're like all other employees who dread to see another company take charge of their jobs and paychecks.

PUBLIC OPINION, although more sensitive to the larger subjects of war and social struggle, is at last becoming aware of this nagging domestic headache. Practically everybody sends and receives letters — which average out to 420 pieces of mail per person each year. Almost everybody has a funny story of how an invitation or a paycheck took longer to reach its destination than if it had traveled by dog sled.

BUT SERIOUS aspects of a massive communications breakdown are also becoming common knowledge. In a recent issue of Parade Magazine, Fred Blumenthal, under the title of "Our Crippled Giant," pointed out that the whole postal apparatus might very well go to pieces all at once, like a collapsing bridge. Blount has been castigating the system in TV broadcasts, public speeches and private interviews ever since he took office. He believes that Congress is about ready to make "reforms," but he is holding out for a total reconstruction. He wants a non-political U.S. postal service along the lines of TVA which, although "creeping socialism" in Dwight Eisenhower's terms, does operate economically and turn in a profit to the U.S. Treasury.

ODDLY ENOUGH, some of the largest governmental transformations have taken place at times of political division in Washington. President Truman failed and President Eisenhower succeeded in establishing the Health-Education-Welfare Department. Several Democratic administrations tried to legislate the St. Lawrence Seaway, but the supposedly feeble Eisenhower administration made it a reality. NATO and the Marshall plan were accomplished by the abused 80th Congress when Republicans held Capitol Hill and Mr. Truman was in the White House. Deadlocks seem easier to break under divided powers.

THE FEELING here is that Winston Blount's liberation from Post Office duties would free a very powerful personality for greater national service. He fulfills the President's idea that a Cabinet member should be versatile enough to move into other posts of government.

Blount, a prodigious success in his construction business, would be a capable replacement in every cabinet office with the possible exception of the State Department.

But first he will have to accomplish the huge engineering feat of moving the Post Office off the taxpayer's neck. His greatest success would be in becoming expendable.

High Rise Planned

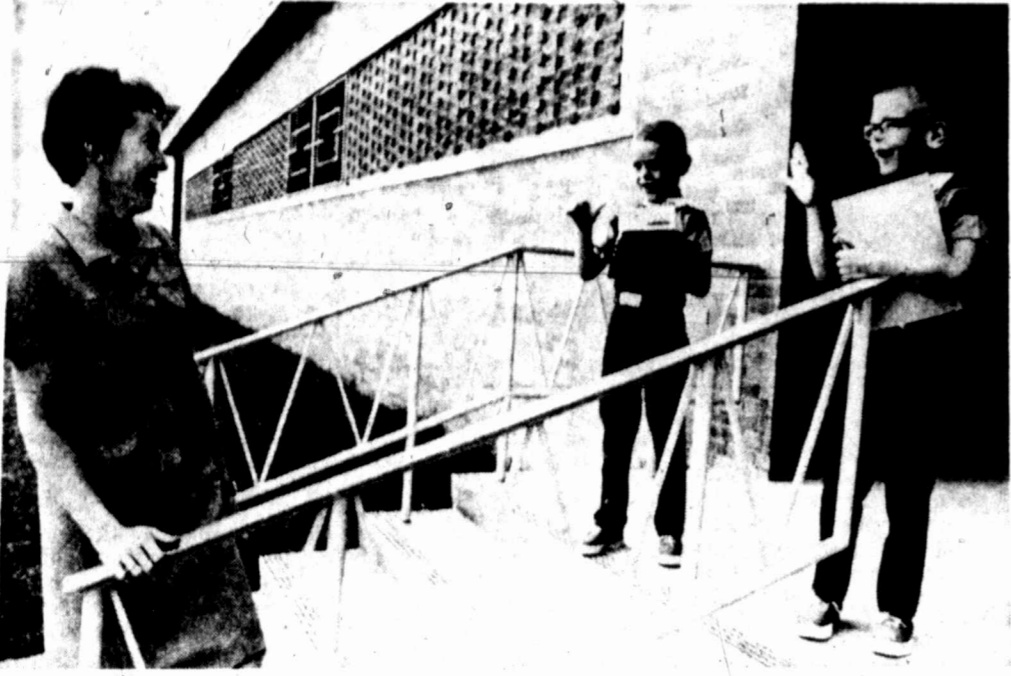

HONOLULU (AP) — Gen. Ralph E. Haines, Pacific Army commander, has announced plans for a $16 million, 22-to 26-story high rise Rest and Recreation center building here. The structure will be built at Ft. DeRussy in Waikiki and will contain 400 hotel rooms and associated facilities such as mess halls, a chapel, theater and other concessions.

Gen. Haines said the Army plans to retain most of the foliage and natural greenery at Ft. DeRussy. He said he hopes construction can start soon.

First Graders March Proudly To Classes

By RHODA LEMONS

"For whom the bell tolls?" Today, bells will ring on a regular basis for all classes in Big Spring Public Schools, but the most excitement is being generated in the first grades, when little six-year-olds are entering for the first time.

Jim and Tim Freeze, six years old in February, are beginning their next 12 years in public schools. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lee J. Freeze, 2721 Cindy.

"Mommy, I am going to bed before dark, so that I will be sure and not be late," said Jim before retiring the night before the big day.

While the children are looking forward with much excitement to beginning to learn, mothers react with mixed emotions, and some are seen to surreptitiously wipe a tear from their eyes as their "but they're still just babies" walk bravely or hesitantly up the school steps to begin a life away from home for at least a few hours daily. Fathers pretend to take all this in stride, yet they walk a little prouder when they realize their children are on the way to being what later they will become.

Jim and Tim are entering the first grade at Kentwood Elementary School. Their mother is a first grade teacher at the school, but she will not have her sons in her class. Their teacher is Mrs. Charles Phillips.

Jim and Tim have their school supplies ready. They have a Big Chief tablet, paste, crayons, large pencils, and an eraser, (the school's requirements) in a cigar box. Also, they have added a favorite pencil and eraser of their own, and a few small toys just to make them feel secure.

"I am going to learn in a cool room," said Tim. They laid their clothes out the night before so that there would be no last minute hurry and flurry. Their mother bought them new school clothes before the great event, mostly wash and wear jeans, knit shirts and canvas shoes.

Freeze is guardian counselor at Goliad Junior High School. The Freezes have an older son, Jay Lee, 9, a third-grader at Kentwood who is an old hand at going to school by now. Also, making her home with them this year is Kay White, a senior at Big Spring High School. Mrs. Freeze's father, Ruel Daggs, is staying with them to assist with the boys while Mrs. Freeze teaches school.

The first two weeks, the boys will attend classes from 8:30 to 11:35 a.m. and will return home to be with their grandfather. Later, school will remain open for them until 2:45 in the afternoon.

The twins already know their numbers. They learned them by playing solitaire with their grandfather and by a "cyclo teacher" purchased by their mother. It is a readiness and self-teaching program and she plans to use it in her classes at school.

The twins attended kindergarten last year, but compared to first grade they feel this is "much better."

Mrs. Freeze will not interfere with her children's school work, she will watch like other mothers do their progress and their development in getting along with other children and making friends during the play periods. The boys will eat lunch at school, and because of the staggered lunch periods, Mrs. Freeze will only see them at that time when she has lunch duty that coincides with theirs. Then, she will not sit with her sons or in any way let them have any special favors.

"This is the price one pays for teaching in the same school that your children attend," said Mrs. Freeze.

The most important thing of all has already been taught Jim and Tim and should make the rest of their school life easier for them. They have been taught — not so much learning as the love of learning.

'Pretty Up' Rainwear Costumes

AP Newsfeatures Writer

What do you wear in the rain? Something old and drab? That same raincoat you've been wearing for the last 10 years? Galoshes over your shoes? If your rainy days have been synonymous with no-fashion days, is it any wonder that you've been suffering the rainy day blues.

It's easy to develop a great rainy day look. Never before have there been so many intriguing possibilities: maxicoats over mindresses, pants suits with swash-buckling hats, "wet look" vinyls to gleam their way through the darkest day, pretend furs, leggy boots, and a whole range of colors and styles in umbrellas.

Today's rainwear is designed to look just as appropriate in the light of the sun or by moonlight as it does under cloudbursts. In fact that's the message behind this season's raincoats: They're all-purpose coats to be worn over all types of clothes from sun up till moon down.

Exotic colors — jasmine red, heather, moonbeam yellow — add drama to rainproof, water-repellent coats of stark simplicity. Florals and quilted coats double as evening wraps. The more adventurous can choose from several over-all fake fur styles, including tiger, leopard and a wild Dalmatian print.

A fall trend-setter is Main Street's "wet look" of glazed nylon in an exclusive embroidered pattern alternating horizontal and diagonal designs. The great selection of single and double-breasted styles incorporate the straight line look. Some of the unbelated coats have side button closings with full box pleats down the center front.

Of course, the classic trenchcoat is still around. But now collar and cuffs are trimmed in fur such as thick raccoon or imitation seal.

To further feminize some of these styles, wide self belts with tiny gold nuggets can be cinched tightly at the waistline. Lush pile linings also induce a warm feeling — no matter how raw the day.

Another new raincoat trend is the patchwork cotton quilted coat in dozens of different fabrics patched together by embroidered detailing. Other details play up gold, leather, or self buttons... large patch or deep slashed pockets... and unusual leather trims and high leather belts.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Folks:

I have been growing tomatoes for years... even when I had but one flower bed, I always had at least two or three tomato plants. And here's something I have learned...

Sometimes tomatoes produce early, sometimes they are late. And it breaks my heart when just before the cold season I find these gorgeous green tomatoes on the vines.

Has that ever happened to you?

What are we gonna do? Leave 'em? Pick 'em while they're green? And, if so, how are we gonna save 'em?

If we pick them all and put them in our window, they will all be ripe at the same time. What we want to do, then, is to preserve them as long as we can while they are in this stage, so that after the cold weather hits, we still have good home-grown tomatoes.

This also works for those of you who plant all your tomatoes the same month. Sometimes you will find yourself with all of your vines petering out at once and a bunch of red tomatoes within a week or so.

Did you know that you could pick these tomatoes green and wrap each one in newspaper... they'll ripen slowly and beautifully! I use at least three thicknesses, and store them in an old corrugated box.

Be sure and store them in a cool place, but NOT in your refrigerator. After all, we want them to ripen slowly so that the juices and the taste will be there.

Wrapping the tomatoes in newspaper protects them and the paper absorbs moisture if any of them happen to spoil, so it will not spread like a disease from one to the other.

For those who live in small places, put them on a lower shelf in your home where it is not too warm (never on a high shelf, heat rises, you know). Remember, the warmer the place you store them, the quicker they will ripen.

Dear Heloise:

Have you ever thought of using pierced earrings for sweater studs?

I don't have pierced ears, but do buy these earrings just for this purpose. They really add to the appearance of an otherwise plain sweater.

What is also nice about this is that you can change them according to the color of your outfit or your mood!

Norma Ayers

How about you, Norma? That's just great.

And you know, I bet these would work real well on blouses, too.

Thanks, again, sweetie... Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Hope this hint will help anyone that has to give their woodwork and doors a new coat of paint.

Instead of removing all the hardware from the cabinets and doors, I just coat them with vaseline.

Any paint that happens to get on them can be easily wiped off... Mrs. Ollie Webb

Dear Heloise:

Since most girls are wearing colored wool in their hair, I have a hint that may help them.

Tie a knot at the ends of the string of wool you are using as a hair ribbon. It stops the wool from fraying and saves money and fuss... Laura Henke

Older People Have Diet Deficiencies

COLLEGE STATION — Senior citizens need better diets. Recent research on 300 older persons points to five major deficiencies: calcium, Vitamins A and C, Niacin and the proper intake of calories.

Over or under caloric intake, are problems among this age group.

In the study, 40 per cent said they took vitamins no matter what they ate. Nutritionists tell us that this may be a waste of the food dollar and could be harmful.

Studies in some states reveal that elderly people exist on such low incomes that they were unable to have all the proper nutrients.

'Do Their Own Thing' Applies To Youth Preparing For Future

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Writer

A washing machine repairman complains that he can't get help because parents object to their sons doing such work.

A laundry industrialist finds it difficult to get girls to iron shirts.

Employers advertise for assistants rather than typists, stenographers or clerks because parents are more approving of a job that carries an executive-sounding title.

What gives?

It is the poorer parents who have adopted a snob-job outlook. They don't want young people to do a job that sounds menial.

One 18-year-old high school senior explains:

"My grandfather was a day laborer, my father is a factory foreman. When I tell my parents that I'd like to be a cabinet-maker because I love carving, they get hysterical. My parents have denied themselves necessities to save for my college education. Should I leave home and do my own thing... and break their hearts?"

No parent wants to see a child goof-off in a dead-end pursuit. But if a girl or boy honestly believes that a particular field is for them, they should be allowed to try their wings. One knows from studying the early lives of certain musicians and artists that many were born to do their own thing. Why not?

A LOVELIER YOU Push-Button Care For Youthful Skin

By MARY SUE MILLER

So, you never have time to take as much care of your skin as you should? You're a jet-action miss, totally involved on the work scene by day and the social scene by night?

Surely you have heard that, at minimum, your skin must be properly cleansed, moisturized and sleekened on a day-to-day basis. Otherwise, better break your mirror on your 29th birthday.

And here's where new push-button care could save the day for you. It lets you accomplish a treatment in an instant (well, almost!).

In the cleansing department, there's an aerosol containing light green puffs of foam. One application fizzes off surface grime and makeup ever so gently, and rinses away with water to leave a glowy face.

Bilowy white foam, also aerosoled on, moisturizes your skin from dawn 'til dusk. It melts right in, forming a protective and non-sticky base for makeup. The look is effervescent — fizzy.

For sleekening, the foam is the color and consistency of peach souffle. Your skin just eats it up when you wear it to bed. It disappears in forty winks, fizzing up a fresh surface.

Did you ever hear of anything so quick and easy? Really made to the order of a modern miss who doesn't want to miss a thing — including lovely looks.

The accessory story is varied. Scarfs and school ties, contrasting collars and cuff chains, buckles, snaps and buttons all add up to very personal fashion expression.

The variety of fabrics offers even greater individuality. Bonded knits or dark voiles in versatile Fortrel offer two entirely different textures. And in every little girl's life there is sure to be some plaid. She may choose a tiny glen plaid or bold block pattern, soft ribbon plaid or firm tattersal. Tiny florals, medium-sized paisleys and border-printed gypsy patterns increase the assortment, filling the school bag to the brim with a myriad of looks for fall '69.

Twins Build Lead; Yanks Split Pair

By The Associated Press

It was Labor Day for everyone else and just another day of labor for Ron Perranoski. Perranoski made the long trip from the bullpen for the 63rd time this season Monday, and got credit for a record-tying 26th save as Minnesota widened its American League West lead with a 7-5 victory over Cleveland.

The victory combined with Oakland's 6-2 loss at Boston gave Minnesota a 5 1/2 game spread in the West as the pennant races swing into their final month.

In other American League games Monday, Baltimore bombed Chicago 8-0, New York split a doubleheader with Seattle, winning 6-1 before losing 5-1 in 13 innings, Washington divided a pair with California, winning 4-0 before losing 8-7 and Detroit nipped Kansas City 5-4 in 10 innings, before losing 3-2.

TOUGH IN STRETCH
Perranoski allowed just one hit in the final 2 1/3 innings to nail down the victory for the Twins after Cleveland had rallied from an early 7-1 deficit.

The veteran right-hander is just three short of the Minnesota club record for appearances and seems certain to top his personal high of 72 set in 1964 when he was with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Perranoski's 26 saves tied the AL record set by Baltimore's Stu Miller in 1963 and matched by Jack Aker with Kansas City in 1966. When Miller and Aker did it, a reliever had to face the tying run to qualify for a save. Now, he merely has to finish the game to get one.

The Twins claimed Sam McDowell for six runs before a man was out in the first inning. Bob Allison ripped a bases-loaded triple and Rich Renick had a two-run homer to key the rally.

But the Indians bounced back, kayoting Dean Chance and continuing to rally against Jim Kaat and Al Worthington before Perranoski came on to save the victory.

Boog Powell slammed three hits including his 34th home run and made Jim Palmer's 14th victory easy as the Orioles blitzed the White Sox in a game played at Milwaukee.

Palmer pitched a five-hitter and won his 10th in a row. Rico Petrocelli walloped a grand slam home run in the first inning, wiping out a 2-0 Oakland lead and pacing Boston over the A's.

CLUBS 34th HOMER
The homer was Petrocelli's 34th of the season and tagged the A's with their third straight loss and sixth in the last seven starts.

Mel Stottlemyre won his 18th game and Bobby Murcer hit a pair of homers in the opener as the Yankees took the Pilots. Roy White drove in three runs for New York as Stottlemyre pitched a six-hitter.

Dan Wilkins Surges But Gauldin Wins

Big Spring's Dan Wilkins had the best finish but Don Gauldin, Weatherford, hung on to capture the 35th annual B I G Spring Invitational Golf tournament here Monday.

Gauldin, a tournament winner for the second week in a row, fashioned a one-over par 72 to wind up with a 54-hole medal score of 217.

Wilkins, benefitting from a final round 68, was runner-up with a 219 while Jerry Barron, Big Spring, was third with a 220.

Jeff Nieto, the diminutive player from Dallas who is attending Howard County JC, won a playoff for fourth place after finishing in a tie with Ronnie Broadrick and Pat Weaver for that spot. Each finished at 222.

Dr. Robert Johnson, one of the early leaders, dropped back to a deadlock for seventh place at 223 with the tournament's defending champion, Pancho McNabb of Odessa.

Gauldin, who had won at Colorado City the previous week, had eight pars and a bogie (on five) on the front side for a 36 and seven pars, a bogie and a birdie on the back side for a 36.

His bogie came on 12 but he rallied for a birdie on 15. The course was a monster the first two days of the meet because it played extremely long following the rains. However, it grew more civilized Monday and scores dropped, although Wilkins was the only one to shoot in the 60's.

The most interesting match of the day came in the President's Flight, where Mark Slate, Big Spring, and Gary Bauch, Lubbock, played through six extra holes before Slate finally won with a birdie.

The two had tied at the end of 54 holes with 229's. Third in that division was Randy Truelove, another HCJC player from Dallas, who wound up with a 231.

Results, with players from Big Spring unless otherwise listed:

NURSES ANTICIPATE TRADITIONAL CHRISTMAS CAMPAIGN Letters with TB Christmas Seals are addressed

Area Nurses Launch Annual Tuberculosis Seal Effort

Big Spring area nurses have launched the 63rd Annual Christmas Seal Campaign for Area VII. They addressed Christmas Seal letters Thursday at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Howard County joined 31 other counties to form Area Seven on April 1 as part of a reorganization plan for the state to combat tuberculosis and respiratory diseases.

Twelve nurses attended the afternoon session, including Miss Audrey Elmore, public health nurse for Howard County. In the picture, seated from left, are Miss Bessie Love, 412 Westover, Mrs. Charles Anderson, Veterans Administration, Mrs. Fred Hyer, 1729 Yale, Miss Elmore, Mrs. Fannie Clark, VA compound, and Mrs. Joe Peay, 1213 E. 18th.

Team To Meet

The Chamber of Commerce industrial team will meet at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the chamber meeting room, according to Tom Eastland, chamber manager. The team will discuss what should be included in the chamber's program of work.

Wallace Urges Parents To Choose Own Schools

PRICHARD, Ala. (AP) — Former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama urged parents Monday night to take their children to the schools of their choice and "see what the social experimenters will do."

Wallace told a Labor Day crowd estimated at 7,000 persons that his suggestion did not call for disobedience to the law since courts have upheld freedom of choice in some instances.

Most schools in Alabama open today, including those in Mobile County where Wallace spoke. The 1968 third party presidential candidate emphasized in remarks to newsmen after his speech he was not advocating that every parent take his children to the schools of their choice but only those who applied to attend those schools and were turned down.

In these cases, Wallace said, the parents should take their children to the schools of their choice and "insist they stay there."

He said if school "has already started and a child has been forced to go to a school not of his parents' choice, I suggest they take the child to the school of their choice."

Wallace said there was nothing wrong legally or morally with his suggestion and declared: "It's time to separate the men from the boys."

The former Alabama governor told the cheering crowd that he would ask the Alabama Legislature Thursday to prepare a resolution advising people to follow his suggestion.

Insisting that his suggestion would lead to no law violation, Wallace said Nixon has made speeches upholding the right of freedom of choice in school attendance and that the courts have approved freedom of choice.

"If it was the law, then why is it changed now?" Wallace asked.

Wallace said he was not advocating any type of disruptive activity. With his daughter Lee at his side, he told the crowd: "This child belongs to me. She doesn't belong to a bearded Jew official. She doesn't belong to a judge of the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals."

Fiber Glass Meet Slated

The first annual meeting of Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. will be held at the Big Spring Country Club at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, according to V. F. Michael, president.

Fiber Glass Systems was organized here in 1968 and went into production about four months ago with its first units. Since then, other production facilities have been brought into action.

The company manufactures fiber glass pipe, connections and fittings. Distribution contracts have been signed and shipments started.

Thursday's session will include a treasurer's report, the report from Michael on production, training personnel, expansion outlook etc. There also will be an election of directors.

It was not known if Rudd participated in Monday night's scuffle.

Police said they were able to halt the fighting and clear a path for the SDS members to leave the church, one carload at a time. Some participants in the meeting were reported heading for Pittsburgh to aid black residents of that city in their construction boycott.

Newsmen were barred from the three-day meeting, which informants said was devoted to planning demonstrations in Chicago, Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

Inside sources Sunday quoted Rudd, national secretary of the regular faction of SDS, as saying members should not be timid "about telling the people we're Communists."

"Don't deny it," Rudd reportedly said, "be proud of it." Rudd made similar remarks later in a television interview.

Libyans Leave 'Em Guessing

TUNIS (AP) — Libya's new military rulers left much of the world guessing today about their future policies toward the West and Israel. But there was general expectation that the West's huge stake in Libyan oil was not endangered.

Indications pointed to a closer alignment with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser and the more militant Arab nations. And the end may be in sight for the U.S. Air Force's big Weebee base outside Tripoli and the small British bases at Tobruk and El Adem.

The junta headed by Col. Saad Eddine Abbou (Choube) which seized power early Monday proclaimed "the Libyan Arab Republic" a name echoing those adopted by such revolutionary Arab nations as Egypt, Syria and Yemen. Iraq and Egypt were the first nations to recognize the new regime.

Tripoli Radio broadcasts stressed the "socialist" nature of the new regime and said the revolution stands for "Arab unity, socialism and freedom," the slogan of the Baath Socialist radicals in power in Iraq and Syria. But broadcast statements also gave assurances that foreign policy would remain unchanged, and foreign nationals and their property would be protected.

Also, "Main Street" signs from Second to Sixth were to have been changed to "United Fund Street". The signs will remain in place until the completion of the campaign.

The formal kick-off of the 1969-70 drive is planned for Sept. 8 at 7 p.m. with a dutch-treat barbecue in the Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church for campaign captains and workers. The goal has been set at $110,000. Harry Sawyer is general chairman.

Sweet Smell Of Success Blesses Texas Festival

LEWISVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The sweet smell of success and marijuana blessed the Texas International Pop Festival, which a promoter estimated drew nearly 200,000 to this North Texas town over the long Labor Day weekend.

The festival concluded with its biggest crowd Monday night somewhere in the vicinity of 65,000.

There was much drug use, but most local residents took their protesting pot-shots at nude swimming at a camping area provided for those attending the festival.

No police were used inside the actual festival grounds, but officers were plentiful on the perimeters. The music lovers were mostly allowed to police themselves. The sweet, sticky smell of marijuana hung like a cloud over the crowd, and mescaline, LSD, and other drugs were peddled among the crowd.

The drug use apparently caused only one tragic incident. A three-year-old girl was treated for an overdose of LSD.

Racial Violence Mars Holiday

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Fires blazed and police used tear gas to drive away thieves today after a night of racial violence which left a policeman shot and a mile and a half of stores looted or burned.

More than 90 persons had been arrested and a dozen injured, including three policemen and two firemen.

A police official said shortly before dawn that the area, Hartford's predominantly Negro North End, was "quieting down," although fires were still burning and some arrests were still being made.

The most seriously injured was Anthony Fazzinelli, 46, a uniformed police dog handler who underwent surgery at Hartford Hospital for a bullet wound. Police said Fazzinelli was shot in the right thigh, apparently by a sniper, in the heart of reservoir area where the hippies were skinny-dipping. Police Chief Ralph Adams said it was "home-town gawkers" causing any problems connected with the flesh paddling.

Adams was elated with the whole festival. Midway through the final night, he was summoned to the stage, and there received an ovation from the crowd, which labeled him a true "peace officer."

Chief Adams responded by inviting them back again. Moments earlier, Lewisville Mayor Sam Houston told newsmen it was his personal hope that the festival not return to Lewisville.

It's doubtful whether any merchants would mind another visit. Stores did a booming business and suffered no damage or inconveniences because of the festival.

Denton County Sheriff Wylie Barnes said 36 arrests were made in the festival vicinity by late Monday. They included 12 for being drunk, nine for narcotics possession, two for carrying prohibited weapons and seven termed "miscellaneous" by the sheriff.

The festival loosened up considerably as the final night wore on past midnight. For many who listened to the blaring hard-rock, it was the last night before school started. For others, it was just the last night before the journey to the next festival.

Panhandling was in the increase as youths tried to finance trips across the country. Some just asked an information booth to relay their destination, hoping someone would offer a ride. Many found rides, including one as far away as Boston.

The final night also had more of a carnival atmosphere than the two preceding. An evangelist's van was parked across from the entrance, offering free sandwiches and salvation. Many last-night tickets were being scalped, and there was a steady demand for newsmen's admittance badges once they left the festival for the night.

Well into the night, sparklers and fireworks began to appear. Some tied them to balloons and let them drift, adding more psychedelics to the scene. Others played with electric yo-yo's that glowed in the dark.

C-City Managers Schedule Meet

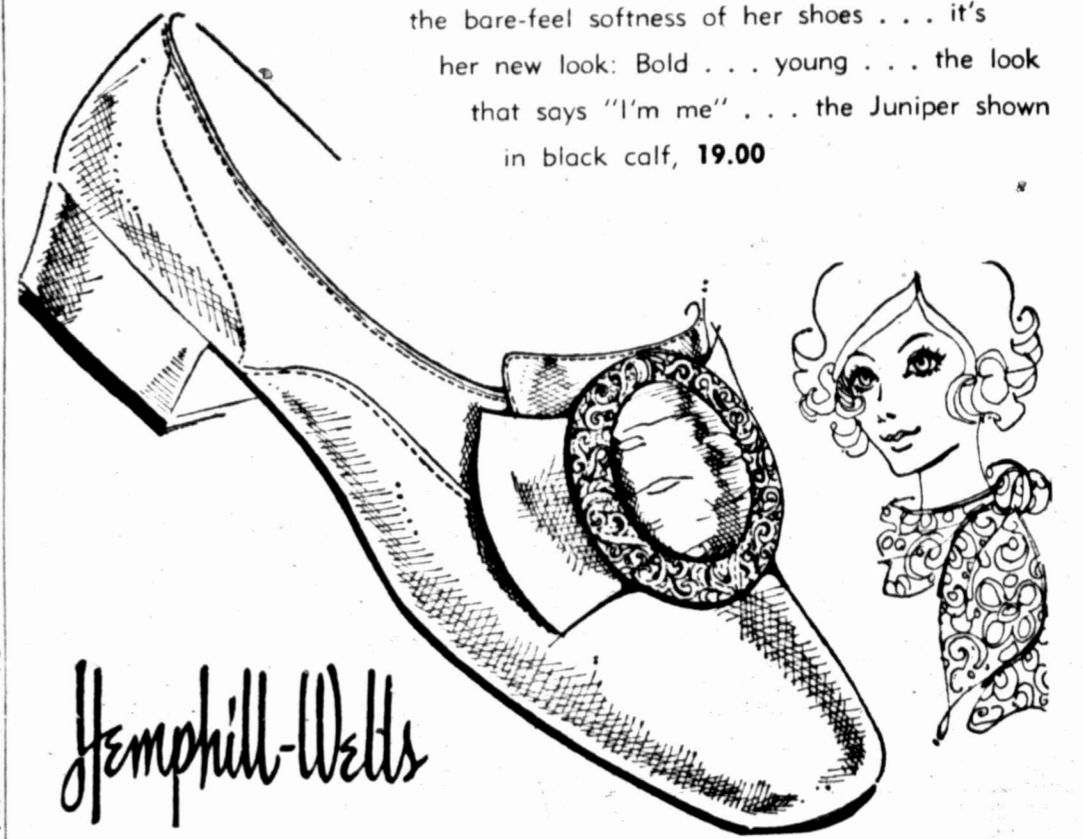

COLORADO CITY — Chamber of Commerce managers in the Permian Basin will gather this weekend to talk shop.

Activities will begin at 5:30 p.m. Friday with a reception said Sefton Pickens, manager. There will be sessions that evening for talking over common problems, also for generating ideas. The clinic, designed to help managers improve their effectiveness, will continue Saturday. Gene Garrison, Odessa, president of the Permian Basin C-C Managers Association, will preside.

Americans Reinforce Battered S. Vietnamese

SAIGON (AP) — Helicopters landed 400 American Air Cavalrymen on a battleground north of Saigon this afternoon to reinforce South Vietnamese commandos battered for three days by North Vietnamese troops.

At least 26 of the South Vietnamese troops were reported killed, 120 were wounded and 17 were missing. Four American Green Beret advisers with the South Vietnamese also were wounded.

The number of North Vietnamese killed was not known yet. Officers in the field said sweep the battlefield because "every time we go out we get in trouble."

The fighting began Sunday when about 400 South Vietnamese commandos ran across a base camp of an enemy division 85 miles northeast of Saigon in jungled hills. The camp was 18 miles east of Song Be, a provincial capital the enemy division had been threatening.

The North Vietnamese struck back from all sides as the South Vietnamese came in.

Helicopters flew in 400 fresh commandos to reinforce the embattled battalion. On Monday the South Vietnamese tried to push back into the area of Sunday's fighting but again ran into strong resistance.

Lt. Gen. Julian J. Ewell, commander of the U.S. 2nd Field Force, visited the battle area and ordered U.S. troops from the 1st Air Cavalry Division to reinforce the South Vietnamese.

The Air Cavalrymen met no resistance as they drove into the triple-canopied jungles, and fighting reportedly appeared to taper off at least for the time being. Although fighting picked up again in the area between Saigon and the Cambodian border, there was no indication that the upsurge was the new high point in the enemy's fall campaign which U.S. officers have been predicting for this week.

Today is the 24th anniversary of Ho Chi Minh's proclamation of the Vietnamese Republic, and American officers expect the enemy to mark the occasion with stepped-up attacks. But the action reported today resulted rather than aggressive enemy action.

Government headquarters reported that other South Vietnamese forces killed 18 enemy soldiers with claymore mines Monday night in an ambush 31 miles northwest of Saigon.

In War Zone C, 65 miles northwest of Saigon, helicopter-borne troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division clashed with small units of North Vietnamese troops and reported killing 52 of the enemy. Three Americans were reported wounded.

Funeral Staged Antiwar Protest By Vet's Widow

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Rifles crack and the drums roll for the last time today for four New Hampshire National Guardsmen killed in Vietnam last week when their truck struck a land mine.

But for the fifth victim buried Monday from St. Catherine's Roman Catholic Church there were no rifles, no muffled drums. Just a trio of folk singers asking, "Where have all the soldiers gone?"

Answering, "Gone to graveyards every one. When will they ever learn?" The Mass at St. Catherine's was for Army Spec. 5 Richard E. Genest, 24, of Manchester. His pretty widow, Brenda, 20, said "I am against war. Dick Saturday to accept the flag was against it. And the funeral which draped his coffin when it arrived at Grenier Field.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I have never found physical satisfaction in my marriage, although I must admit that all the other aspects of it are as nearly perfect as a wife could hope for.

For years I dreamed of other men while I found my husband sadly inadequate. I feel so cheap and dirty because of my secret thoughts.

I know that I could never be unfaithful to my husband because I have had many opportunities and have passed them by without regrets.

Perhaps confession is good for the soul, Abby. I feel so much better for having written this.

ASHAMED AND GUILTY
DEAR ASHAMED: You need feel neither shame nor guilt for your private thoughts. ALL normal people have sexual fantasies. Take the word of Dr. Judd Marmor, one of the most respected psychoanalysts of our time.

He said, "I have long felt that the biblical injunction that placed coveting one's neighbor's wife on the same moral level with actual adultery is one of the most psychologically destructive heirlooms that the Judeo-Christian moral tradition has bequeathed to us. There is a profound difference between THOUGHT and ACTION."

DEAR ABBY: We recently moved to this midwestern city (population approximately 90,000) from a slightly smaller eastern suburb.

Out East we lived in the same house for six years and didn't know any of our neighbors, except to say "Good morning" to which was all right with me.

As the van unloaded me here, neighbors came from all over offering to "help" (Now, what can a woman do to "help" two moving men unload a van?) Several women even rang my doorbell extending invitations to come for lunch or coffee!

I don't wish to appear unfriendly or ungracious, but I have never been the type who runs in and out of neighbors' houses for coffee, and I would rather not start up with them here.

Is there some nice way to refuse their invitations without appearing snobbish?

NEW HERE
DEAR NEW: You can decline their invitations in your most unobnoxious manner, but sooner or later your friendly neighbors are going to realize that you want nothing to do with them. Perhaps you do not recognize simple hospitality when you see it. Why not taste and test this new form of neighborliness before you knock it? You may like it.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69790, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
