

Wilson Favors Censure Of Festival Cops

DALLAS (AP) — Asst. U. S. Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said concerning reports of flagrant drug law violations at the Texas International Pop Festival that officers who allowed it "should be subject to some type of censure or other discipline."

"It just can't be defended," he told the Dallas News by telephone Tuesday. A former Texas attorney general, Wilson is attending the National Governors' Conference in Colorado Springs.

"No officer has a right to grant a license to violate the law," Wilson said. The festival was held at suburban Lewisville last weekend.

The News also reported that Lewisville Police Chief Ralph Adams will resign this week after being persuaded by town officials to stay on through the festival. He could not be reached for comment at once.

Adams was quoted as saying he handled the problems of the festival with concern for the city of Lewisville.

"Suppose I hadn't taken the actions that I did?" he asked. "Our town could have become a battleground."

As the festival drew to an end Monday night, Adams thanked the crowd for cooperation and said the only incidents connected with the show "were caused by our home town gawkers."

The police chief said he would trust the youths "with my life or any of my valuables or belongings. Time and again they proved to me that they were worthy of my trust."

Clemo Clements, editor of the Lewisville Leader, said, "I don't think anyone in Lewisville feels very proud that this festival occurred in our city. The reports of nudity and narcotics will be with us for a long time."

County officers said police from outside Lewisville were called to patrol the city streets because of the large number needed at the festival site. One report said Adams called for 100 additional highway patrolmen to back up about 40 Department of Public Safety units pulled off duty.

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade of Dallas said, "I don't know what dent must have assets of less than $1,200 and a monthly income below $184.50.

Lose Welfare, Live Abroad

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Santa Barbara County supervisors have voted to end welfare payments to five persons on relief who live abroad.

"They are perpetrating an abuse in the minds of every citizen paying welfare bills," Supervisor Curtis Tunnell said before the vote Tuesday.

Three of the recipients live in England, one in Canada and one in the Philippines. The five draw a total of $1,000 a month.

To qualify for welfare a resident must have assets of less than $1,200 and a monthly income below $184.50.

PICKETING PARENTS — Parents demonstrate for freedom-of-choice at integrated Gonzales, La., Elementary School as classes got under way Tuesday after Labor Day. A number of white parents are keeping their children away from classes in the area.

Schools Embroiled In Angry Protests

ATLANTA (AP) — White boycotts, black picket lines and federal lawsuits faced school systems in the South today as the new term's second day of classes began.

Angry protests against racial integration Tuesday included a firebombing and the padlocking of schools in one area.

White students staged large-scale to wholesale boycotts in some districts of Alabama, Florida, Louisiana and North Carolina.

Negroes protested the closing of individual schools under federal desegregation plans in some districts of South Carolina and Georgia.

Two pre-dawn firebombings struck Irwin Avenue school in Charlotte, N.C. Tuesday. Classes opened anyway at the predominantly Negro junior high school which had to absorb many pupils of lower grades under an integration plan.

Police reported no arrests in the bombings, but 15 Negroes were arrested later in Charlotte after a demonstration blocked traffic. They were protesting an integration plan that closed their school and six other predominantly black schools, and called for 4,200 black students to reach classes elsewhere by bus.

Alabama's former Gov. George C. Wallace, a third-party presidential candidate in 1968, urged Alabama parents to "march on their schools" and demand freedom-of-choice at attendance plans for their children.

In Alabama's rural Choctaw County, only 482 of an expected 2,300 white pupils showed up for newly integrated classes.

The Department of Justice meanwhile, prepared lawsuits against several Georgia school districts. Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said the districts had reneged on voluntary integration plans.

A five-man squad of civil rights division lawyers moved into the state to initiate court action. Suits were filed late Tuesday against three districts.

Other federal attorneys were at work in New Orleans on several Louisiana school cases. One of these involved Ascension Parish.

In East Ascension, schools were padlocked at Gonzales and in other areas Monday night to prevent the opening of classes under court integration orders.

Soil Tests Key To Profitable Fertilizing

Farmers and ranchers intending to plant small grains, winter pastures or other fall crops should give consideration to fertilization, Paul Gross, county extension agent, said Wednesday.

"High crop yields or intensive grazing cannot be realized without adequate soil fertility," Gross said. "The level of available plant nutrients cannot be determined visually."

Soil tests indicate what nutrients are available and which are in short supply. Thus, these tests should be the basis for developing fertilizer usage.

"The soil sample must be carefully taken if the test results are to be reliable," Gross explained. "A core or slice-of soil should be taken from 10 to 15 spots in the average field. The cores or slices should be placed in a clean container and thoroughly mixed before taking out the sample to represent the field."

Cartons for mailing the soil samples are available from Gross' office on the basement floor of the courthouse. Gross also has instructions for taking samples, cropping history blanks for reporting past uses of the tested area as well as crops to be planted in the immediate future, and names of laboratories.

"Samples should be taken and submitted to a testing laboratory as soon as possible so lab recommendations for fertilizer use can be used for fall planted crops," Gross said.

DEAR ABBY: Shortly after my husband passed away, my sister (who is two years younger than I) expressed a desire to purchase the grave plot next to HIS for herself when her time comes. She went to pieces when he died. She says it will give her "peace of mind" to be buried next to him.

She has a grave in another cemetery with our parents, but now she has changed her mind and wants to be buried next to MY husband. (HER husband was buried at sea.)

I have a plot next to my husband's for myself when my time comes, but the one on the other side is still for sale.

My sister and I have always gotten along very well, and she says she will not do anything against my wishes, but I cannot for the life of me understand why she needs to be buried on the other side of MY husband for HER "peace of mind."

Since that plot will not be available indefinitely, I must make a decision soon. If I say no, I'll be hurting my sister, and if I say yes, I'll be hurting myself. What should I do?

ANONYMOUSLY YOURS

DEAR ANONYMOUSLY: Since it would appear that your sister goes "to pieces" more easily than you, say yes, and hope that when her time comes, she will rest in peace.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a divorced man for almost five years. I am also divorced. He is very good to me, but has been a playboy all his life, and it is difficult for me to believe that he will settle down and be a good husband.

He says he loves me and has asked me to marry him several times, and although I am sure I am the Number One Girl in his life I have reason to believe he cheats on me. When I'm at his apartment, I keep finding evidence of other women, such as cards and notes signed, "All my love." He claims he can't help it if women chase him.

I tell him he wouldn't have that problem if he didn't encourage them. I do love him, Abby, but I'm wondering if I should marry him feeling the way I do.

DISTRUSTING

DEAR DISTRUSTING: A woman who loves a man she cannot trust during the courtship doesn't know what misery is until she marries him.

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 70 years old and have lived long enough to know that people who mistrust every other person are not to be trusted themselves.

Very truly yours,

DEAR VICTOR: To which I can only add, "AMEN!"

MRS. LLOYD NICHOLS

Couple United In Nuptial Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Nichols are on a wedding trip to Dallas following their marriage Saturday morning at the Airport Baptist Church. The bride is the former Miss Carolyn Decker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Decker, 1402 Harding, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Nichols, 431 Hillside Dr.

The Rev. Lee R. Jones, former pastor, read the ceremony as the couple exchanged vows before an altar adorned with white chrysanthemums and gladioli flanked by palm trees. Mrs. R. P. Morton, organist, played traditional wedding selections and accompanied Miss Shirley Osborn who sang "O Promise Me."

The bride was attired in a blue street-length dress designed with a scooped neckline accented with covered buttons of self fabric and long sleeves. The Empire bodice fell into a softly gathered skirt. She wore a Dior bow headpiece with brief veiling and carried a bouquet of feathered carnations. Miss Terrie Lou Dailey was maid of honor. She wore a pale beige street-length crepe dress with blue carnation corsage. L. R. Nichols served as his son's best man.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

There are probably as many ways of spending a vacation as there are numbers of people and it takes a little to please some and a lot to please others. But for me and my family, we'll take the one like we have just had. We simply didn't do anything that we didn't want to do. We just played it by ear so to speak and it was a right wonderful two weeks. We had fun with some special friends in Arkansas, visited a nephew and his new bride in Handley, went to Austin and visited both our older sons (Tom is now living in Arlington but was still moving his belongings from Austin.) When we came home we caught up on a few things around the house and then spent some time in Odessa where our great nieces and nephews were with their grandparents while their folks were bailing out from their terrible hurricane that hit their home in Biloxi, Miss., then we spent the weekend in Kermit with relatives. It's a good way to spend time off. I recommend it.

The Labor Day weekend brought a number of former Big Springers back home for the Big Spring Country Club golf tournament. Former pro HAROLD AKEY and his wife were here from Fort Worth and were houseguests of the MATT HARRINGTONS. MR. and MRS. BOB McADAMS were here from Dallas. Mrs. McAdams is the former Peggy Bickley whose grandfather was C. A. BICKLEY who was pastor of the First Methodist Church during the 1930s. MR. and MRS. BILL GORDON were here from Baytown for a visit with relatives and friends. Also here over the holiday were CAPT. and MRS. FRANK FISHER who

Prepare Soil To Plant Irises In Early Fall

Flower lovers who want beds of iris next spring should begin preparing the soil for planting now, according to Paul Gross, county extension agent.

Good drainage and full sun are essential in growing the bearded iris, Gross said. If the soil is poorly drained, the plants will be extremely susceptible to crown and root rot.

"Prepare the soil to a depth of 12-to-18 inches working in a complete fertilizer so that it is thoroughly mixed," Gross said. "In heavy, poorly drained soils it is best to plant in raised beds, using redwood timbers or brick and mortar to bring the bed level five to six inches above the surrounding soil level."

When reworking an old established iris bed, Gross advised, select only the strong, healthy rhizomes for replanting; discard any diseased or stunted plants.

"When you plant the rhizome build a cone-shaped mound of soil in the bottom of the hole so the top of the cone is almost even with the surface of the surrounding soil," he said.

"Place the rhizome on top of the cone with the roots spreading down around the cone," and plant shallow, so the rhizomes set just below the surface."

There are only two reasons to trim off iris foliage, Gross said, and those are to prepare plants for digging and transplanting, and to remove foliage that is badly infected with disease.

"At transplanting time, cut back the foliage to one-third its original height," Gross said. "In established beds, leave the foliage. It builds up food reserves needed to produce the many large flowers which makes an iris bed attractive," he said.

Governors Fume At Plan To Cut Federal Spending

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — President Nixon plans a massive cutback in federally financed construction projects—an inflation-fighting move which stirred dismay among the nation's governors.
"I for one am not going to take it sitting down," said Democratic Gov. John N. Dempsey of Connecticut, who threatened to seek an immediate protest from the 61st National Governors Conference in session here.
Vice President Spiro T. Agnew told the governors of the administration plan at a closed session Tuesday and swore them to secrecy. But the news leaked almost immediately.
The formal announcement of the cutback is expected Friday, although administration representatives at the governors conference said that timetable is not firm.
The Nixon plan reportedly would cut off new federal construction projects immediately, and halt federal aid for such state projects as highway building effective next April 1.
Sources at the western White House in San Clemente, Calif., said the cutoff would affect 75 per cent of new projects in both categories. Administration officials still in Colorado Springs talked in terms of a near total cutoff, with exceptions only for emergency projects.
The administration was reportedly planning to work out final details at a Cabinet meeting Thursday in San Clemente.
The governors were confused as to exact terms and unhappy. "Nothing shocks people faster than news that the old buck isn't coming from Washington," said Gov. Dempsey, chairman of the Democratic governors caucus.
Another Democratic governor, who asked that his name not be used, said Agnew described the administration plan as a move designed to combat the spiral of steadily rising wages and prices.
This governor said the vice president also reported the halt in federal construction should release manpower and material for the building of private dwellings, which has suffered drastically in the cycle of rising costs and interest rates.

To this account, an administration source added word that the cutback plan also is intended to dampen the pressure for sharp wage increases in the construction industry. This source said if government projects are sharply reduced, the demand for construction workers will drop and their bargaining power in coming contract negotiations will be diminished.
One governor likened the Nixon plan to the temporary freeze of highway construction aid funds imposed during the Lyndon B. Johnson administration as an inflation dampening step. That drew strong protests from the governors.
"But this is worse," said an unnamed Democratic governor. "At least we knew when that freeze was going to end." He said Agnew gave notification of a cutoff date on the reductions planned by the Republican administration.
Agnew did not give the governors a dollar figure on the impact of the planned cutback. Another administration source said it was not possible to come up with such a figure now, although estimates ranged to $2 billion. This source said the plan could be altered before it is announced.
"However, level of income, condition of housing, and the number of social contacts outside the home are all problems with which community programs can help; and programs of preventative medicine seem likely to be able to raise the general level health among aged. In this sense the data are something of a challenge; it seems likely that something can be done."

Morale Of Oldsters Reported In Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Old folks who live alone are the happiest—provided they are in good health, have incomes of about $4,000 and can see relatives or friends regularly, according to a new study.
Elderly people in poor health and with a low income have low morale and it makes little difference whether they live alone or not, report two psychologists for the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston.
Psychologists Floyd J. Fowler Jr. and Mary Ellen McCalls, in reporting Tuesday to the American Psychological Association convention, said they were somewhat surprised by several findings in interviews with 11,335 men and women aged 65 and over in the greater Boston area.
Contrary to what they had thought before launching their survey, age itself had no direct relationship to morale—at least as long as the key morale-sustainers were present.
And the same holds true for level of education and whether the aged person is native-born or an immigrant. On the latter point, the researchers said they had figured that immigrants might have special difficulty adjusting to old age.
While declaring their analysis "somewhat preliminary," the psychologists said the findings might have broad implications toward helping the needy aged.
"If level of education, generation in this country, or age itself had been found to be critical to morale," they said, "there would be little the community could do."
"However, level of income, condition of housing, and the number of social contacts outside the home are all problems with which community programs can help; and programs of preventative medicine seem likely to be able to raise the general level health among aged. In this sense the data are something of a challenge; it seems likely that something can be done."

Traffic Snarls Expected As Bus Strike Drags Out

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Each side waited for the other to make the first move to renew contract negotiations today as a bus strike affecting up to 70,000 patrons entered its second day.
Police braced for possible traffic snarls despite few problems on Tuesday, when bus drivers struck for the first time in 20 years.
School officials kept a watchful eye on attendance reports after an estimated 3,500 pupils missed classes on the first day of school. The bus strike was blamed for the high absentee rate.
Wilson Parker, president of the striking Amalgamated Transit Union local, said the union was "ready and willing" to meet with officials of the city-owned transit system.
Neither side has contacted the other about resuming contract talks, Parker said. "The next move is up to the transit system," he said. "I feel it's their move."
"We have nothing additional to offer, so why should we contact them?" said Felix Tapp, head of management's negotiation team.
The union, representing 425 employees, voted 248-108 at a pre-dawn meeting Tuesday to halt work. State law forbids bus drivers to strike municipally owned transportation systems. Some 350 drivers stayed home.
Transit Board members voted Tuesday to wait as long as 48 hours before making a move of their own. Norman Hill, transit system manager, said no court injunction would be sought during this period. "We had rather they come back and talk to us on their own," he said.
Parker said the union would meet at 10 a.m. and meetings would continue twice daily to keep the membership informed. The issues included split shift schedules, sick leave policies, paid holidays and vacations.

Pamphlet Gives Tree Care Tips

Vigilance is the price of shade tree beauty.
"A person must understand tree maintenance requirements and keep a close watch to see that the tree stays healthy," Paul Gross, county agent said. Copies of the Texas A&M "Shade Tree Diseases" pamphlet, are available in his office on the basement floor of the courthouse.
The publication, written by Wendell Horne and Jerral Johnson, plant pathologists for the extension service, outlines and describes shade tree diseases most common in Texas. It lists suggestions for prevention and control.
The use of chemicals for disease control, along with application methods and safety precautions, is given major attention in the publication.

To Attend Meet

Chamber of Commerce Manager Tom Eastland said he plans to attend at least one day of the Chamber Executives of the Permian Basin meeting to be held in Colorado City Friday and Saturday. The meeting will discuss job descriptions in internal chamber management. The CEPB meets once a month (about nine times a year) except when another chamber-type executive meeting has been scheduled.

Notices Going To All Pioneers

MIDLAND — R. C. (Bob) Tucker, recently named chairman of the Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers Reunion, said invitations are being mailed to all known oil and gas pioneers of the region to attend the sixth biennial celebration to be held here Oct. 31.
Efforts also are being made to get the names and addresses of those men and women who have qualified as "pioneers" since the 1967 reunion.
All persons who were engaged in some phase of the petroleum industry in the Permian Basin Empire at least 30 years prior to the date of this year's celebration qualify as pioneers.
Those persons not presently enrolled are asked to contact the Petroleum Committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the 1969 event.

Taxes, Military Spending Top Agenda For Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Controversies over taxes and military spending top the agenda as Congress returns today from a three-week vacation.
Most of the action initially will be in the Senate where debate continues on proposed cuts in a $20 billion bill authorizing appropriations for defense projects.
And on Thursday the Senate Finance Committee will open hearings on the House passed tax reform bill, with administration spokesmen first up.
Missing from the Senate as work resumes is Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, who had a lung operation Tuesday. In addition to the important role he plays as the GOP leader, Dirksen also is a member of Finance and of the Judiciary Committee which is to consider the nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth for the Supreme Court next week.
Up for action in the House this week are bills to amend the auto safety act, establish a toy safety program and extend the air pollution control law.
More controversial issues ticketed for House consideration later in the month include a 5-year extension of the 1965 Voting Rights Act and a constitutional amendment to provide for election of the president by direct, popular vote.
Renewed efforts also will be made to get early House action on a Senate-passed bill to revive the government-guaranteed student loan program, crippled by high interest rates.
As for the military spending debate in the Senate, an amendment to cut $533 million for additional C5A transport planes was pending when Congress started the recess Aug. 13. Whether enough members would be back in time for a vote this week was uncertain.
Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., offered the amendment which is only one of several that would chop defense funds. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield estimated it would take 10 days to two weeks to finish with the bill.
Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy will be the lead-off witness at the Finance Committee's hearings on the big tax reform bill and is expected to recommend changes in it.
One concern of the administration is that the bill, when fully effective, would provide an estimated $9.2 billion in tax relief annually while bringing in additional revenues of only $6.8 billion.
The committee is committed to having its version of the tax measure ready for Senate action by the end of next month, although more than 600 individuals and organizations have requested an opportunity to testify.
So far Congress has not completed action on any of the 13 regular appropriation bills to finance the government for the current fiscal year that began July 1. Work on these bills and other legislation is expected to keep Congress in session until Christmas.

WINNING RUN—Houston Astro catcher John Edwards as he starts his slide across home plate with the winning run in the 11th inning of Tuesday night's game in Houston between the Astros and St. Louis. Edwards came home from third as team mate Jesus Alou lined back to the pitcher, who deflected the ball and the Cardinal second baseman, Julian Javier, threw the ball home. St. Louis catcher Joe Torre waits for the late throw as Astro Jim Wynn directs the slide, Houston won, 7-6.

Cubs Twice Vanquish Cincinnati Redlegs

It took 78 days, but Paul Popovich's only homer of the season finally caught up with the Cincinnati Reds.

On June 15 in the second game of a doubleheader, Popovich sparked a three-run third inning and, with Popovich singling home another run, the Chicago Cubs built up a 3-4 lead over the Reds before the game was suspended after seven innings.

Tuesday night, the two clubs resumed the game in Cincinnati, and when it was over it was still 5-4 Chicago.

Then the Cubs went out and pounded the Reds 8-2 in the regularly-scheduled game and built their lead in the National League East to five games over the New York Mets, who beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4.

The twin defeats left the Reds 1 1/2 games behind idle first-place San Francisco and a half game back of Los Angeles in the NL West.

Houston nipped St. Louis 7-6 in 11 innings and Philadelphia edged San Diego 2-0 in the only other scheduled National League action.

Oscar Gamble, Glenn Beckert and Don Kessinger keyed Chicago's second victory—Ferguson Jenkins' 19th against 11 defeats—over Cincinnati. Gamble singled in a run and tripled in two more. Beckert produced two more with a pair of singles and double in the sixth. He then scored the first Los Angeles run.

New York built up its five-run lead when Donn Clendenon hit his 10th and 11th homers, Ron Swoboda cracked a two-run double and Clendenon singled, second and scored on Ken Boswell's eighth-inning single.

St. Louis built up a 6-1 lead ninth after the Dodgers had scored three times to make it 5-4.

Davis kept his streak alive by doubling in the sixth. He then scored the first Los Angeles run.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

I see no justification for newspapers dignifying big time golf tournaments named for industrial firms which might be sponsoring them.

The practice might be ideal for the golfers and the television people, who invariably wind up with a piece of the action. The newspapers which dutifully report the meets, however, come out with nothing but a big fat zero.

Hotels, spas, automobile companies and the airlines have joined the trend. No other sport abuses the privilege as much, not even automobile racing—where each vehicle carries numberless decals projecting company products.

It's hard to imagine something like the Super Bowl being referred to as the Flymore Airlines Game or the World Series coming on as the Havana Cheroot Classic but it might come to that, if firms come to realize unlimited free advertising awaits them if they care to front for a sports contest.

What ever happened to old-fashioned tournaments like the Memphis Open and Tournament of Champions?

Sweetwater, which scrimmages Big Spring later this week, returns nine lettermen and some are built on the order of Mack trucks.

The Mustangs were 8-1 last season and might do even better this year, according to reports emanating in District 3-A-A.

Up front, the Ponies are likely to be very salty, with veteran tackles who go 215 each, a center pushing the scales to 220 and a versatile backfield built around nimble Mike Tucker.

Shed no tears for Mickey Mantle, the former New York Yankee, whose legs betrayed him.

Mickey, one of the favorite pasties for scheming promoters in his salad days, is now doing famously in the business world and never looks back. He says he should have quit baseball at least three years ago.

Mantle is fronting for a growing business called Mickey Mantle's Country Kitchens. Mickey Mantle's Men's Shops aren't named after Roger Maris. He's also associated with Joe Namath in an employment agency that seems sure to prosper.

In addition, he's a regular on a television network baseball pregame show.

Not too long before he quit, Mickey confided in friends that he hadn't been able to save any money. He sunk a little juice in a bowling alley in Dallas that went down the drain. Other ventures didn't pay off. He began to wonder if he would be on the shorts until he became eligible for the baseball pension.

Of the game which made all this possible, Mantle said with characteristic candor:

"People don't understand how monotonous the baseball season can be. You pack, then you unpack, then you pack again and catch another plane. Sometimes you don't even know what town you're in."

Even at $100,000 a year, a job can get very old.

Mantle deserves a break. Few who knew him would argue otherwise. He's one of the nicest guys you'll find in the entertainment world. There are too many of the other kind.

When Willie Brooks opened football drills at Midland Lee recently, 130 boys asked for equipment.

That's 28 more than cross-town rival Midland High had and 35 more than asked to play here.

Bears Worry Over Primary As Race Nears

CHICAGO (AP) — Beyond the realm of the mini-skirt, the most studied knee around probably belongs to sensational Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears.

But the durability of halfback Sayers' surgery-mending right knee is just one of several questions perplexing Jim Doolley in his second year as coaching successor to Bear owner George S. Halas.

Sayers' knee, shattered in a scrimmage play against the San Francisco 49ers last Nov. 10, is standing the pressure in pre-National Football League season action a lot better than the offensive line which is supposed to spring him loose.

The Bears, who placed second to the Minnesota Vikings in the NFL's Central Division last season with a 7-7 record, have the problem of girding an offensive interior wrecked by unexpected developments and trying to inject zing in a Bear passing game which was the NFL's worst last fall.

Doolley two months ago thought he had the makings of a revitalized offensive line. But guard George Seals, only 26, retired in a salary dispute and the army summoned tackle Wayne Mass and reserve center Rich Coady.

The offensive line still is anchored by veteran center Mike Pyle, but considerable pressure now is on rookie Rufus Mayes, No. 1 draft choice from Ohio State at one of the tackles.

Replacing Seals will be a 1968 reserve Doug Kriewald or Randy Johnson, switching from tackle. Other interior linemen are 10-year veteran Bob Wetoska, coaxed out of retirement recently; regular guard Jim Cadie, and Bob Pickens.

Jack Concannon has won the quarterback job over Virgil Carter and any hope for much-needed improvement in a passing game must come from wide receivers Dick Gordon and Bob Wallace, who between them caught only 48 passes last season.

Joining Sayers as running backs are Brian Piccolo, Ronnie Bull, Mike Hull and rookie, Ross Montgomery of Texas Christian.

Defense, hinged around Dick Butkus, demolishing middle linebacker, again may be the name of the game for the Bears.

The defensive line includes Frank Conish, dined down 50 pounds to an agile 253, and Dick Evey at tackles; and Ed O'Bradovich, Marty Amstler and, the hottest summer candidate, Willie Holman, at ends.

Doug Buffone and taxi squad graduate Dan Pride will flank Butkus as outside linebackers and Bennie McRae, Roosevelt Taylor and Joe Taylor are set as defensive backs.

Replacing strong safety, Richie Pettibon, who was traded to the Los Angeles Rams, still is a problem with chief contenders being Major Hazelton and Tom Greenlee.

The Doodles Gang is laying in wait for Broadway Joe Namath, pro football's controversial ace quarterback, deep in the heart of Texas.

Which indicates that the Super Bowl hero of the World Champion New York Jets is in for a rough time in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas Saturday night when the Cowboys tangle with the Jets in an exhibition game.

The Doodles Gang is the name given to the Cowboys' defensive front four who aim to rush Namath all over the place. "He is just like any other quarterback to me. I hate them all," declared George Andrie, defensive end Tuesday. "It's a tremendous challenge to play the Super Bowl champs. It means a lot to all of us."

"I've been thinking about him the whole off-season," commented Bob Lilly, another of the Cowboys' front four. "This has to be the biggest exhibition we've ever played. I think we will be motivated a little more because of Namath."

"We've got it on us that we lose games against strong teams, so it could really help us rush Namath all over the place to beat the Jets and then the Colts next week."

Sacramento Capitols Are Conquerors Of Rufneks

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — The Sacramento Capitols edged the West Texas Rufneks, 17-13, in a Continental Football League game here Tuesday night.

Sacramento built up a 14-0 lead in the opening period and then fought like all get-out to contain a Rufnek comeback.

The Texas team's chartered airplane had oil trouble in Phoenix and arrived in Sacramento only one hour before kickoff time.

Al Fierro, ex-Big Spring quarterback, saw action late in the game for the Rufneks and was impressive. He drove the West Texans as far as Sacramento's 20.

The defeat left the Rufneks with a 0-2 season's record. Sacramento had defeated Seattle the previous week, 10-6.

The Rufneks will host Texarkana in an 8 o'clock game Saturday night in Odessa.

Last night's game was the first the team has played under its new coach, Ted Dawson.

Westfall Signs

BOSTON (AP) — Eddie Westfall, eight-year veteran of the Boston Bruins, has signed his 1969-70 contract, the National Hockey League club announced today.

Westfall, 28, scored 18 goals last year.

Dallas Defense Awaiting Namath

he was dumped twice for losses by Minnesota last week, although he threw two touchdown passes in guiding the Jets to a 24-21 victory over the Vikings.

"It was good to get that practice in scrambling," Namath said afterwards. "I needed it."

The Cowboys beat the Houston Oilers 14-11 last week to help the National Football League clinch the exhibition series with rival American League outfits.

Going into this weekend NFL teams have won 17, lost 11 and tied one, thus clinching the 33-game inter-league series.

Elsewhere, on Tuesday, Forrest Gregg, an assistant coach, was re-activated as a player by Green Bay and may start at tackle against Pittsburgh Saturday.

Split end Richard Trapp was traded by the Buffalo Bills to the San Diego Chargers and the Oakland Raiders placed quarterback Eldridge Dickey, their 1968 top draft choice, on waivers.

Bombers Hit Battle Zone

SAIGON (AP) — Massive American B52 strikes today hit North Vietnamese forces near the provincial capital of Song Be for the fourth day.

South Vietnamese casualties were climbing, with at least 30 troops killed, 138 wounded and 17 missing, as well as four American Green Beret advisers wounded.

The enemy resistance was so strong that more than 1,000 troops from the Green Berets' mobile strike force of hired tribesmen have been forced into retreat. Only six enemy soldiers were known dead.

The battle is taking place in heavy jungle near the Cambodian border about 85 miles northeast of Saigon.

The fighting was touched off Sunday when a battalion of strike force troops uncovered an enemy base camp. The South Vietnamese were surrounded quickly, attacked from all sides and forced to retreat. They have been unable to move forward since.

American intelligence officers thought at first the camp was the headquarters of an enemy regiment. But now there is speculation that it may be a division field headquarters. During the night more than 20 B52s pounded the enemy camp with more than 500 tons of bombs. Some strikes were only three miles from the Cambodian border.

A U.S. air cavalry battalion of 400 men which had reinforced the South Vietnamese Tuesday was pulled out today after another 400 strike force troops were flown in. But one battered battalion of the strike force also was pulled out, leaving 800 to 1,000 South Vietnamese troops committed to the battle.

Elsewhere—American air cavalrymen probing the jungles of the enemy's War Zone C, 65 miles northwest of Saigon, ran into a barrage of machine-gun and rifle fire Tuesday for the fourth successive day.

Tumor Taken From Dirksen's Lung

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, 73, was reported in satisfactory condition after surgeons removed a growth from his right lung, but there was no official word on whether the tumor was cancerous.

The upper lobe of Dirksen's right lung was removed Tuesday by Army doctors at Walter Reed Hospital.

Aides to the senator said there was no immediate report from the hospital on whether the growth was malignant.

A statement issued by Dirksen's office said there was no evidence of spread of the tumor and his condition after the operation was termed satisfactory.

A spokesman for the Illinois Republican, who suffers from emphysema, said Dirksen smokes "lots" of cigarettes.

don't know how many, but lots," the aide said.

Dirksen, who fractured his right hip three years ago, has always tended to joke about his physical ailments.

And colleagues have been amazed by his recuperative powers and his capacity for hard work and long hours. After repair surgery on his hip in 1966, he hobbled around the Senate on crutches for weeks.

First elected to the Senate in 1950, after serving for eight terms in the House, Dirksen is a skilled practitioner of the art of compromise and a key figure in keeping the legislative wheels turning.

During the three-week recess that Congress started Aug. 13, Dirksen went to Walter Reed for tests several times. But this was not surprising since he was in the habit of getting periodic check-ups.

Road Project Livens Pace

Dirt work on FM 700 was started Monday, according to Joe Smoot, resident engineer for the Texas Highway Department.

Dirt work on US 87 won't begin until after culvert construction has been completed.

Smoot also said 20 per cent of the work on culverts has been completed. Two of the FM 700 culverts west of the well Lane will be finished as soon as the forms are taken out.

Wings to the culverts which golfers use to cross from the 11th to the 12th hole at the City Park golf course have been torn down preparatory to the widening of the bridge.

Smoot said actual work on the three bridges won't begin for another two or three weeks.

Work on FM 700 and US 87 is being done by the Strain Bros., San Angelo, under contract with the highway department.

Wants A Study Of Negro IQ

NEW YORK (AP) — A Nobel laureate from Stanford University at Berkeley.

Jensen's study appeared in The Harvard Educational Review and provoked a storm of criticism. The review made space available in the succeeding issue for responses from other scientists.

"My position," Shockley says, is not that all Negroes are inferior to all whites. Instead I do believe that many Negroes are superior to many whites. In fact, my statistical studies show that American Negroes achieve almost every eminent distinction that whites achieve and are given by welfare programs to about 30 per cent more successful than the least effective elements of the population" to have large pie medals.

However, as far as distinction dependent upon mental powers is concerned, the probability on a per capita basis in 1956 between 10 and 100 times smaller for Negroes than for the whites. His views are similar to those put forth earlier by Dr. Arthur R. Jensen as a result of the high birth rate seen, an educational psychologist of the most disadvantaged."

Opening lead: King of ♣ South's rebid, today, presented a problem. On the basis of high card strength, his hand rates a take-out double rather than the mere competitive rebid of two diamonds. South, however, refrained from doubling because of his lack of preparation for a spade bid by North.

If, for example, South should double, and West should rebid three clubs, North might have a hand which would justify his entering belatedly with three spades, in which case a somewhat awkward situation would develop.

West opened the king of clubs which declarer took with the ace. East started an echo with the three. For want of anything better to do, South returned a club, West won with the ten and East completed the echo by playing the deuce, making it clear to partner that he had no more of the suit and implying that he could overruff the dummy. West in obedience to his partner's order, continued with the queen of clubs.

Declarer, too, was aware that East was now out of the suit. If he ruffed with the queen, it was reasonable to suppose from East's behavior that he would overruff dummy and attack the king of hearts. Now if the ace of hearts were in the West hand, where there was every reason to believe it would be, three tricks would be lost in that suit. Declarer, therefore, refused to ruff the third round of clubs, discarding instead a losing heart from dummy.

West could not safely lead from his heart holding, so he chose to exit with the jack of spades which was ducked around to declarer's blank ace. South now led a heart, West put up the ten and East overtook with the jack. The latter returned a heart and West covered the king with the ace and then continued with the queen. This time dummy ruffed and East was forced to follow.

Declarer had succeeded in two purposes. He had conserved a trick and he had secured entry into dummy in order to take the diamond finesse. When this succeeded, he was safely home with his contract. His losses on the deal consisted of two clubs and two hearts.
