50,000 IN MANPOWER; BASES MAY BE CLOSED

Air Force To Announce Big Cutback

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force will announce soon a cutback of about 50,000 officers and men.

This will bring the overall reduction of U.S. armed forces past the 150,000 mark as the services comply with orders to economize.

Details as to how the cutback will be applied throughout the Air Force still have not been buttoned down, sources said.

The Air Force's cost-saving drive may lead to fewer squadrons and further base closings.

The Pentagon already has disclosed plans to slash the Army by 34,000 men and the Navy by 72,000 men and 76 ships. Additional retirements of Navy vessels are expected.

Nothing has been said yet about Marine Corps troop cuts. Pentagon officials said these probably will be relatively light.

With obvious reluctance, Secretary of Defense Melvin R.

Laird announced on Aug. 21 that the armed services will have to absorb an additional $3 billion spending slash this fiscal year.

Blaming the Democratic-controlled Congress, Laird warned that "there will be an inevitable weakening of our worldwide military posture."

Although the Nixon administration has looked ahead to armed force reductions as the U.S. commitment in Vietnam is scaled down, it had not planned on moving this far this fast.

The expected Air Force manpower reduction, together with the Army and Navy cutbacks, will bring the total of U.S. armed forces close to 3.3 million men, about the level of late 1966 but still about 600,000 above the 2.7 million in uniform when the Vietnam war buildup developed in the summer of 1965.

According to sources, the current thinking involves a reduction of 44,000 Air Force enlisted men and about 6,000 officers.

The slimming down will be accomplished, not by mass releases of men but by taking in fewer replacements for men whose hitches expire.

Normally, the Air Force absorbs about 125,000 recruits a year.

The officer cut will be accomplished in part by early release of some due to retire or resign later in the year, and by turning out some officers who were kept on only because of the Vietnam war.

CHARGES FILED

Children Die Of Beatings In Florida:

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — A 4-year-old boy adopted just two months ago died Wednesday after being beaten so badly an officer said, "It just made your heart ache."

Sheriff Ross Boyer of Sarasota said he charged the child's adoptive parents with murder. Ward W. Willcox, 51, a golf course grounds keeper, and his wife Patricia, 45, were jailed without bond.

The sheriff said the child's parents took David to a Sarasota hospital Wednesday. He was dead on arrival.

After the resident physicians took one look at it they called our department," Boyer said. "There were bruises all over this child's body."

Boyer said the bruises were "both new and old," caused "by stick and by human hand." He said the parents reported they had disciplined the child.

In Massachusetts:

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A murder charge has been filed against 17-year-old Mariano P. Lopez in the fatal beating of his infant son.

Five-month-old Mario Lopez died at Mercy Hospital Wednesday, several hours after Lopez and his wife took the child there.

Dr. William Mosen, a medical examiner, said the child died of a fractured skull. The doctor said there were bruises and cuts on the body.

Integration Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time since the Supreme Court 13 years ago declared school desegregation illegal, the U.S. government has asked a court to delay a request for integration.

In a memorandum to Justice Hugo L. Black, Solicitor Gen. Erwin N. Griswold Wednesday asked the Supreme Court to give 14 Mississippi school districts more time to put desegregation plans into effect.

His request came after the NAACP's legal defense fund asked Black to overrule a decision by the Justice Department and the Department of Health Education and Welfare to let the Mississippi schools go beyond their deadline for desegregation.

Griswold's memorandum said a three-month delay in integrating the school systems is needed because "irreconcilable and reluctant public officials in Mississippi failed to lay the proper groundwork."

Tradition Changes

There will be one change in the Evening Lions Club's traditional pre-game barbecue for the opening of the football season. This year it will be beef barbecue rather than chicken. William T. O'Dell, who has barbecued the chickens since the function was started eight years ago, is unable to continue this year. The barbecue will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. Friday, Sept. 12, at the Downtown Tea Room. Some 500 or more persons annually are fed at the barbecue.

Dickson Calls For Sadler Investigation

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. Temple Dickson of Sweetwater has introduced a resolution calling for a House committee investigation of Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler, with "strict procedural safeguards."

The resolution refers to "certain allegations" made concerning Sadler's conduct of the General Land Office.

"It is in the interest of public that the truth or falsity of such allegations be determined," the resolution said.

Dickson voted in the first called session against a resolution to censure Sadler for allegedly lying to a House subcommittee and for other acts connected with his handling of a sunken Spanish treasure ship off the Texas coast.

The resolution says it is not the intent of the House "to hastily pass judgment on any official or upon the merits of the allegations that have been made."

Dickson's resolution was referred to the House Rules Committee, the same group that conducted the previous hearing on Sadler.

State Funeral Set For Ho Chi Minh

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam began a week of mourning today for Ho Chi Minh and planned a state funeral for the father of Vietnamese independence.

The 79-year-old president of North Vietnam died Wednesday after a grave and sudden heart attack," Radio Hanoi reported.

The announcement said Ho died at 9:47 a.m. Hanoi time, which was 8:47 p.m. Tuesday Big Spring time. But word of his death was withheld for nearly 21 hours until about 5:40 p.m. Big Spring time, Wednesday. In the interim Hanoi Radio prepared the North Vietnamese people for word of the death with periodic reports that his condition was getting worse.

"Everyone tried their utmost and gave of their best to save him at any price," Hanoi Radio said, "but because of his advanced age and serious illness of the sudden severe heart attack, President Ho has left us forever."

The broadcast said "the most solemn ceremonial state funeral of our nation" would be organized but it did not say when the rites would be held.

The weekly session of the Paris peace talks today was postponed at the request of North Vietnam. The Hanoi delegation said it would be ready to resume next Thursday.

There was no indication whether North Vietnam and the Viet Cong would call a ceasefire during the mourning period.

In San Clemente, Calif., a spokesman said President Nixon would make no comment on Ho's death. U.S. military and diplomatic authorities in Saigon also did not comment.

After eulogizing Ho, the Hanoi broadcast appealed to "the entire party, the entire army and the entire people" to "contribute both their minds and their force to the great task of defeating the U.S. aggressors" and "liberating South Vietnam."

North Vietnam's top political and constitutional bodies appealed to "our party, armed forces and people to translate sorrow into revolutionary acts" to achieve the "lofty aspiration cherished by President Ho Chi Minh—the building of a peaceful, unified, independent, democratic, prosperous and powerful Vietnam."

Vietnamese Briefly United In Mourning For Frail Leader

SAIGON (AP) — North and South Vietnam are briefly united today by the death of Ho Chi Minh, united in the recognition on all sides that one of history's dominant figures has left the stage.

Even among his many and bitter enemies there is no gloating.

In both the North and South, apprehension for the future lies heavily on the emotions brought forth by the death of the frail, 79-year-old leader.

The moment of unity is unlikely to alter the course of the war or seriously diminish the fierce divisions among the Vietnamese. In their announcement of Ho's death, the tight little group of men at the top of North Vietnam's Communist party called simultaneously for the pomp and pageantry of a state funeral and an intensified war effort to win the South by force.

There was little expectation among any official sources that the death of the man who dominated the Vietnamese scene for 24 years would bring sudden developments at the Paris peace talks. Rather there was a feeling that the new man in Hanoi would stand firmer than ever to prove their devotion to Ho's aims.

The eight men left on the party Politburo are variously labeled pro-Moscow or pro-Peking, but largely for convenience. Many Vietnamese experts have long laughed at such labels and called them gross over-simplifications. The men of the Politburo, these experts say, are pro-Vietnamese Communist with the interests of Vietnamese communism coming first.

Undoubtedly there is a power struggle in the offing. It will depend, many say, on how the party's 43-man central committee is swayed. Outsiders have only the vaguest idea of the workings of this group.

North Vietnam has been beset by floods, and this will probably be the worst crop year in a decade or more. Both agriculture

Students May Puff Smokes

HIGHLANDS, N.J. (AP) — Henry Hudson Regional School students will be offered another year of controlled smoking on the premises.

"It worked so well last year," said Harold Schaible, the high school superintendent, "that I'm going to offer it to the new student council."

An experiment last year permitted students in grades 9 through 12, who are 16 years of age or over, to smoke during their lunch hour in a small patio area outside the school building.

Students must have the written permission of their parents to obtain a smoking permit. Last year, 78 students out of 735 had the privilege.

Schaible said the plan cut unauthorized smoking "by almost 100 per cent."

Any student caught smoking illegally can be suspended for five days for a first offense and ten for a second. He can be expelled altogether by the school board for a further offense.

BIBLE FUND GETS BOOST

The high school Bible Class fund experienced another good day Thursday with $156.50 from several friends. This puts the total at $843.50, little short of one-fourth of the amount needed to insure that more than four score high school students can have a chance to study the Bible for its great moral, ethical, historical and literary examples.

Search Ends For Dr. Pike

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli army abandoned its search for Dr. James Pike tonight.

It made the decision after a fruitless, day-long search by troops, policemen and airplanes of the Judean desert for the former Episcopal bishop of California. Officials held little hope that he was still alive.

Pike, 56, has been missing since Monday night, after his rented car got stuck about eight miles west of the Dead Sea. His 31-year-old wife left him on a hillside and walked all night until she reached a road workers' camp.

Mrs. Pike told police she and her husband were doing research on a book and decided to drive through the desert for a few hours to "get the feel of the Judean hills." She said the car got stuck in rocks and boulders about 3 p.m. and they were unable to free it despite trying for about two hours.

Then the couple set out on foot toward the Dead Sea. After two hours of walking, Pike complained of leg pains and told his wife to go on without him.

"I suggested that he take a nap and when he got his strength to follow me," she said, "I left him atop a small mountain about six or seven miles west of the Dead Sea."

Two hundred soldiers and troops began the search for Pike Tuesday on foot and in helicopters and light planes. First they found the car, with Pike's wallet and passport in it. Later they found a map in a dry river bed about a mile east of the car, and Mrs. Pike said her husband had been carrying it before they were separated.

There were four theories to explain Pike's disappearance.

—That he had taken refuge in one of the many caves in the area to escape daytime temperatures of more than 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

—That he had fallen victim to a beast of prey.

—That he had succumbed to the heat and that his body was beneath some overhanging cliff.

—That he had been found by Bedouin nomads and taken to one of their camps.

N. Koreans Want Apology For Release Of Crewmen

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — North Korea said today that it will not release the three crewmen of an American helicopter shot down Aug. 17 unless the United States admits they were on a criminal mission.

The United States said it would admit only that the helicopter had entered Communist territory inadvertently in violation of the Korean armistice agreement, and would give assurances that such an incident would not recur.

Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-sun, representing North Korea at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission called to discuss the release of the three Americans, demanded an "unconditional apology" admitting that the helicopter was on a "criminal mission," as well as a written assurance that there will be no more such incidents in the future.

U.S. Marine Maj. Gen. Arthur H. Adams replied: "It is preposterous to state that we dispatched the unarmed helicopter willfully, or with any hostile intention."

Adams repeated the U.S. contention that the helicopter strayed over North Korea accidentally while on a training flight, and that it had no weapons or advanced navigational equipment aboard.

Despite the refusal of Adams to offer any more than an apology, there was speculation that eventually the United States would secure the release of the airmen by the same device that freed the crew of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo.

Episcopalians Decide To Pay 'Reparations'

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — A major break has occurred in the solid front previously maintained by American white protestants against dealing with a reparations-demanding black organization.

Wednesday became the first major denomination to recognize the controversial group, the Black Economic Development Conference, and to allot funds intended, implicitly, to go to it.

The Episcopal Church impact on other religious bodies, many of which have faced harassing demonstrations in behalf of the group's demands for large scale funds for black economic projects.

A meeting on the matter by the policy making board of the National Council of Churches, including most leading Protestant and Orthodox denominations, is scheduled next week in Indianapolis.

Bishop Stephen Baine said he felt the church's decision here would be "a move towards the healing of alienation" of blacks from whites and "the re-establishment of lost confidence and trust" between them.

However, the action stirred sharp opposition and prolonged back-and-forth revision before finally being approved by the 3.6-million-member church's bicameral legislature, its House of Deputies and House of Bishops.

Criticism also came afterward from the Rev. Frederick B. Williams, president of a black Episcopal unit, which had urged direct funding of B.E.D.C. instead of the round-about method approved.

It was "a cop out," he said. "It's dishonest, it's immoral, it's deceitful." But he said the action did represent "a small beginning, a little hope."

Dog Honored Tonight For Saving Two Children

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A great Dane named Top will be honored as a hero tonight at a dinner.

Top, credited with saving the lives of two children within eight weeks, will receive a gold medal, a gold-plated lead collar, gold plaque, custom-made blanket and a year's supply of dog food. His owners, Miss Norma Clark and Alan Patzwaldt, an actor from Los Angeles, will receive a $1,000 savings bond.

Last spring, an 11-year-old girl named Margo Tacot, a neighbor of Patzwaldt, took the great Dane for a walk. She started to cross a street, not noticing a truck bearing down on her. Top is credited with pushing the girl backward to safety.

He was struck by the truck, however, and suffered a fractured leg and broken ribs.

A week after the cast was removed from his leg, Top was allowed out in the yard of the apartment house where Patzwaldt lives.

Moments later, Patzwaldt said, Top was back at the doorway, barking furiously and dripping wet. When Patzwaldt opened the door, Top bounded to a swimming pool in the yard.

Patzwaldt said he found a 2-year-old boy at the bottom of the pool, dived in and brought the boy up. The actor applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. The boy was taken to a hospital and recovered.

Suit Claims School Bound By Agreement

The board of directors of the Rural Taxpayers Association filed suit Wednesday afternoon in 118th District Court against the board of trustees of Big Spring Independent School District for breach of contract.

The petition is styled Earl Hull et al vs. Board of Trustees of Big Spring Independent School District et al, and lists Earl Hull, Jerry Iden, Ralph Proctor, Delbert Stanley and Johnnie Walker as plaintiffs. Stanley and Proctor are the only two who pay taxes to Big Spring schools.

The petition asks for a declaratory judgment holding the compromise valid as a contract.

Defendants are the school trustees, members of the school board of equalization and J. O. Hagood. Hagood is tax assessor-collector for the school district. The taxpayers charge an agreement executed between their attorneys, Dee Jon Davis and Don Curry, and Gil Jones, attorney for four county taxing agencies, is a contract, and failure of the school district to abide by the agreement is breach of contract.

The attorneys compromised on tax valuations recommended by Wilson and Davis appraisal firm this spring, lowering the proposed valuation on cultivated land by $10 per acre and $5 per acre on two grades of grass lands.

Jones represented Howard County, Forsan Independent School District, Howard County Junior College and the Big Spring schools in the negotiations. The Big Spring district was the only taxing agency to refuse the compromise.

County commissioners and the board of trustees of the Forsan Independent School District reaffirmed approval of the compromise Tuesday in separate meetings.

The petitioners contend the agreement is binding, and a copy of Jones' letter of authorization is included in the suit. Members of the Big Spring schools board of equalization said they knew nothing of the negotiations or the authorization of Jones by trustees. The equalization board, not the school board, sets values.

Late yesterday afternoon, sheriff's deputies served copies of the petition to Joe Moss, president of the school trustees, and Hagood. Pat Murphy, chairman of the board of equalization, was to be served with a citation today.

The school district has until Sept. 29 to file an answer to the petition.

Chandler Estes, district chairman, has to be out of the city, and several other members had conflicts which necessitated the delay. The meeting will be held in the Officers Club at 12 noon.

NOT A STEREOTYPE COMMIE, BUT A FATHER FIGURE

Minh's Death May Have A Big Impact

BY WILLIAM RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

In the long run, Ho Chi Minh's departure from the stage can have a decided impact on events in Vietnam and Southeast Asia.

Ho's passing can prove a strong blow to North Vietnamese and Liberation Front morale. Particularly in his later years, Ho was not the stereotyped figure of a Communist strong-man ruler, but rather a symbol, a father figure, a personality who cannot be replaced.

It was in the name of "Uncle Ho" that appeals went from Hanoi to the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong, exhorting them to pursue protracted war to the finish, even if it should take 20 years. It was in Ho's name that slogans were fashioned for the unification of Vietnam. It was Ho whose name a dozen years ago was considered so powerful that it, alone, was believed capable of swinging a popular vote in any election. That may have changed under Communist rule in the North, but the name remained potent medicine among many in the South.

Thus it was the name of Ho, rather than the office of the presidency, which carried the authority with the Laodong (Communist) party in the North.

One Of '10 Most Wanted' Men Is Held In Del Rio

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP) — A man identified as one of the FBI's ten most wanted fugitives was held in the Del Rio jail Thursday in lieu of $15,000 bond.

An FBI spokesman said Baltazar Garcia Estolas, 31, was arraigned Wednesday night before a U.S. commissioner and ordered held on a warrant issued May 31, 1968, in Stockton, Calif.

The spokesman also said the man denied he was Estolas, claiming instead to be a Hawaiian named Tomy Isuki Hwamei.

An FBI agent said, however, that a fingerprint check had positively identified the man as Estolas, charged with murdering two persons and wounding two others in a California gun battle.

An unidentified citizen reportedly recognized Estolas from a picture shown on Channel 12, KSAT-TV in San Antonio. He tipped FBI officials that the man was working in the Jersey Lilly Dairy Bar in Langtry, Tex., on the Mexican border.

Agents went to Langtry, about 60 miles west of Del Rio on the Rio Grande, and found Estolas sitting at a table in the dairy bar where he worked as a cook and with the guerrillas in the South. The question of a successor as president is thus of importance mostly in what it may reveal about the present power structure.

Ho frequently was believed to have been the arbiter of intra-party disputes and the last word in settlement of such disputes among members of what appeared from time to time to be a divided Politburo. His presence could have been sufficient to keep others from squabbling among themselves for power.

Until about five years ago there were strong signs of division in the Politburo along pro-Chinese and pro-Soviet lines. Much in the future depends upon the progress of Soviet-Chinese hostility.

It is probable that North Vietnam's future rests in the hands of four top men—Le Duan, the party's first secretary; Truong Chinh, chairman of the National Assembly; Premier Pham Van Dong and Marshal Vo Nguyen Giap.

Chinh has the reputation of being strongly pro-Chinese. His name is an alias, dating from the days when he was with Mao Tse-tung in Yenan at the time of the historic "long march." Truong Chinh means "long march," a token of his admiration for Mao. He was formerly known as Dang Xuan Khu.

A revolutionist since his youth in the 1920s, Chinh helped Ho and Pham found the Indo-Chinese Communist party and was its propaganda director. He was its secretary general, operating out of China, in 1941, and again in the 1950s. Under Ho's Hanoi regime, Chinh slipped and was demoted for the failure of agriculture in the North. He bounced back, possibly through Peking's then strong influence in Hanoi.

Le Duan, now 62, once was considered pro-Chinese. He seemed to shift in the 1960s, after becoming the party's first secretary. Duan is believed to have a strong machine in the party membership. He was one of Ho's leading commanders in the South when the Vietminh were fighting the French. He is an expert on relations with other Communist parties and has traveled both to Moscow and Peking.

Premier Pham Van Dong now 62, an early Ho associate, is considered pro-Moscow. He began serving Ho's cause in 1925 when he set up the main revolutionary base in South Vietnam. Since partition in 1954, he has served simultaneously as foreign minister.

Giap, the defense minister who was architect of the 1954 Dienbienphu victory over the French, is primarily a military man. It is doubtful that he has vaulting political ambitions, but he could have army support in the arena. In any case, he would likely have a strong voice in the outcome of any power realignment.

U.S. HELICOPTER SHOT DOWN Clash Occurs Inside Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese troops clashed with "enemy" soldiers inside Cambodia after an American helicopter was shot down Monday and crashed a mile across the border, the U.S. Command announced today.

"The violation of Cambodian air space was unintentional," a U.S. spokesman said.

One South Vietnamese and two "enemy" were killed, U.S. headquarters said, and two American crewmen and three South Vietnamese were wounded.

The helicopter was one of three American aircraft which the U.S. command today reported downed. Fifteen Americans died in two other crashes north of Saigon.

Two other U.S. helicopters were hit Wednesday while supporting a badly mauled South Vietnamese force that was forced into retreat after four days of fighting near Song Be 80 miles northeast of Saigon. The helicopters made it to a Special Forces camp three miles south of the battlefield, but one American was killed and one wounded.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands announced that battlefield deaths dropped slightly on all sides last week as a result of a marked decrease in enemy activity. The command reported 185 Americans, 354 South Vietnamese and 2,493 enemy killed, compared with 190 Americans, 398 South Vietnamese and 2,724 enemy the week before. Another 1,057 Americans were wounded in action last week.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command said it delayed announcement of the downing of the helicopter in Cambodia until today because "initial reports were spotty and we wanted to check and double check."

The helicopter was downed during a combat assault in Kien Tuong Province, which borders Cambodia 55 miles west of Saigon. Headquarters said the helicopter, one of three Army UH-1 helicopters carrying South Vietnamese troops into battle, was hit by ground fire.

"The origin of the ground fire is unknown," headquarters said. "The area in which the helicopter was flying is characterized by low, flat marshland on both sides of the border and the pilot directed the helicopter toward the most desirable emergency landing site."

"The helicopter burned upon impact," a spokesman said, "and the crew members and passengers came under small arms and automatic weapons fire."

One South Vietnamese was trapped in the burning wreckage and died, two American crewmen and three South Vietnamese were wounded by the firing.

The other two helicopters in the flight landed at the crash site, and their South Vietnamese passengers took up positions to protect the wounded until they could be lifted out. They returned the fire, killing two enemy, headquarters said.

Junta Moves Into Benghazi

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Libyan troops and tanks entered Benghazi during the night and took control of the country's second largest city on behalf of the new revolutionary junta "without meeting any resistance," Tripoli Radio reported today.

No explanation was given for the move, but Benghazi is the capital of Cyrenaica province, where desert tribes are known to be fanatically loyal to deposed King Idris.

Observers in Tunis believed the broadcast indicated opposition to the military regime of Col. Saad Eddin Abbou Chourchour which seized power Monday and declared Libya a republic. Benghazi, the birthplace of Col. Chourchour, is 700 miles east of Tripoli, Libya's capital, and 300 miles from the Egyptian border.

Another Tripoli Radio broadcast today made an urgent call for all doctors and nurses to report to the city's central hospital.

The broadcasts gave no other details.

The official Libyan News Agency reported Libyan air force planes flew patrols over the country's oil installations Wednesday night after anti-British demonstrations in Libyan cities.

The Middle East News Agency said the demonstrations broke out after Libya's new military leaders warned Britain not to help King Idris try to regain his throne.

The warning to Britain came as a result of a meeting in London Tuesday between British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart and an envoy from the king. The envoy reportedly brought a request from Idris for British intervention to put down the junta. Stewart reportedly turned him down.

The country's airports and borders remained closed to all but selected foreign Arabs, but a Tripoli Radio broadcast ordered all ground personnel at the city's international airport to report to work, indicating the airport would be reopened soon.

Insensitive To History

Russia's leaders, like the Bourbons, have never learned nor forgotten anything in the 25 years since they began the "liberation" of Eastern Europe. Then they were greeted as heroes. Now they are viewed with dismay and revulsion. What went wrong?

The lack of a sense of history may be the worst failing of the Russian leadership. When they rolled back the German invaders, all thoughts of nationalism among the liberated peoples were forgotten. There was an upsurge of Pan-Slavic feeling, the recollection of centuries of the common bond which united Russians and Poles and Czechoslovakians and Hungarians and Romanians.

The Russians, dedicated Communists who were convinced that Moscow is the Mecca of their faith, imposed a totally alien regime on Eastern European countries. Only in Yugoslavia, where nationalism was first and communism second, was a Communist government established that substantially reflected the feeling of the people.

The spectacle of the father being unwilling to give his son any freedom was sadly demonstrated by the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia a year ago. Instead of quieting things, it led to heightened tensions throughout the Communist empire of Eastern Europe. The Russians decreed that there is only one road to communism. It was a great mistake for the Russians.

Now nationalism is once more on the move in Eastern Europe. If the Russians fail to recant and relax their grip, they face a long period of growing tension and estrangement. At some point in the future a violent explosion seems almost inevitable.

No Lessons Learned Yet

The Texas Legislature, now in its second special session, seemingly has learned little from the preceding efforts to come up with a tax bill.

Admittedly, digging up revenue to finance appropriations is not an easy task. Taxation is something everyone wants to fall on the other fellow.

But this won't get the job done, and the members of the Legislature should face up to this fact and spread out the increases as equitably as possible.

There has been entirely too much influence by high pressure special interest groups seeking to avoid a fair cut of the added expense. The lobby that really counts in whether or not members return to the legislative halls is back home. The more individuals who take time to contact their representatives and their senators to make their views known, the sooner there will be a jelling of proposals for new or additional taxes. And this had better include the luxury and pure optional things rather than the necessities of life. If the necessities have to be taxed, then the others need to be taxed far more.

David Lawrence The Soviet-Chinese Crisis

WASHINGTON — The world is faced by a threat of nuclear war between the Soviet Union and Red China. "Pravda," the Communist party newspaper in Moscow, frankly discusses such a contingency and declares that no continent would remain free from its effects.

What was the purpose of the warning? Some observers here think that the Soviets are using an indirect way to tell the Red Chinese that encroachments on Russia's border would be resisted with all kinds of lethal weapons. "Pravda" adds that the resultant conflict, "with death-dealing armaments and modern means of delivery, would not leave one continent untouched."

THE "PRAVDA" article assails the Peking leadership as belligerent, and charges that it is preparing for a war with the Soviet Union. But the hostility of the Red Chinese has been going on for some time. Does the Kremlin perhaps think that the world must be told of the military contingencies so that wide support may be forthcoming if nuclear weapons have to be used?

Meanwhile, the Russians are endeavoring to convince the Communist bloc countries in Eastern Europe that their interests are also involved in any future conflict and that the international Communist parties should present an ideological front against the Red Chinese.

ALL THIS HAPPENS while the United States and the Soviet Union have been urging the rest of the world to sign a treaty abstaining from the manufacture of nuclear weapons. If Red China, moreover, secures a dominant position in Asia by being able to withstand any Russian attack conducted by conventional weapons, the smaller Asian countries may find themselves under a threat of a Red Chinese takeover in future years.

Various mutual-assistance pacts are in existence between the Communist governments in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. It could be that Moscow is endeavoring to tighten up relations with the small countries west of the Soviet border in order to stabilize the situation in Europe and prevent any disturbances while the Soviet armies are engaged in a major war on the Asian front.

THE UNITED STATES, although not a factor in the controversy between Red China and the Soviet Union, might exercise its diplomatic influence, along with Japan, Great Britain, France and other countries, to prevent a big war. Surely the Washington government, as a neutral party, can at least offer to help resolve the disputes which had led to the present crisis. For the entire world will be concerned if the conflict on the Chinese and Soviet borders develops into a major war.

THE UNITED NATIONS has a similar duty. The signals are sufficient to require immediate conferences by a group of representatives of the United Nations in the hope of finding a means of settling the controversies that have produced the threats of war. If peace can be established between Red China and the Soviet Union, it might also be possible at the same time to obtain from both countries commitments against interference with the internal affairs of any national in Southeast Asia or Europe.

CERTAINLY IF Red China and the Soviet Union can be united with the other countries of the world in an agreement to respect the sovereignty and independence of all nations, there would be more progress on every side. It could also aid in increasing respect for the principle of self-determination of peoples, which eventually must be recognized by the Soviet Union and Red China so that auto-cracies will be restrained from precipitating big wars.

Brokers May Practice Preachments

NEW YORK (AP) — Some time soon, perhaps by the end of the year, Wall Street may be practicing what it preaches and a lot of investors and brokers will be saying it's about time.

Let the statement appear too broad in its implications, a limited meaning is quickly offered: Wall Street brokerage houses are considering going public; they are planning to sell their shares to investors.

Brokers always have made their money by investing in corporations or in advising others to do so. But never have they permitted anyone but very close associates to share in a piece of their own action. That was forbidden.

The situation now has come to a head. Brokers need money badly to continue with expansion plans, among other things, and the only way to get that money is to tap the reservoirs of funds owned by millions of investors.

SOME PROBLEMS — These are some of the problems that led to stock exchange approval of the concept.

—Brokers never had a secure, permanent capital base. The funds they use come from owner-members of the firm. And when one of these departs he sometimes takes the money with him.

—The growth of investor institutions, such as mutual funds, means multimillion dollar orders. These demand great sums of capital. It is all but impossible to handle such orders effectively without a large capital base.

—The need to modernize has required heavy expenditures of existing capital, especially to purchase electronic computers and to modernize operational, or back room, procedures.

The need for capital was recognized years ago, and late in 1967 the New York Stock Exchange endorsed the idea of brokerage houses selling their debt securities to the public. This meant approval to borrow from outsiders.

COMPLICATIONS — Later this month a special exchange committee plans to present detailed proposals for making public ownership possible. After that a maze of complications must be cleared.

First, the matter must be discussed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, which not only regulates the securities business but could destroy the entire plan should it not meet its criteria.

The SEC is going to be especially interested in provisions for assuring that the exchange and the SEC retain their regulatory controls. It is expected that strict limitations will be made on who can and cannot own stock.

After that the issues must be submitted to member firms of the NYSE. There are 1,366 of them and many are old-line firms which don't completely approve of every newfangled idea, this one included.

A majority of these members must vote for a quorum to be reached. And then a majority of the quorum must be for the issue before it can go forward. It could be cleared within a few weeks. It could take months. It could fail.

Indispensable Aid

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite some current predictions, I'm sure marriage will never go out of style as long as dresses with back zippers stay in style.

While husbands like to think they are indispensable for financial support, companionship and a few other contributions to a happy home, the real secret of their tenure is their availability as instant zipper-uppers.

Although numerous gadgets have been designed by ingenious inventors to cope with this early morning problem, none is as efficient as a sleepy spouse with a good right arm.

An informal survey indicates that most husbands are willing to give the zipper a healthy yank if they can open their eyes wide enough to spot the pull tab. But at that point their helpfulness halts.

To a man they balk at finding the tiny loop at the neck of the dress that theoretically accepts the small hook on the other side. To achieve this feat takes complete dedication to the challenge, 20-20 vision, a long history of sobriety, a willingness to miss the 7-38 commuter train and a wife who is able to stand motionless for extended periods with her head bent forward at a 45-degree angle.

Since most of the time the wispy bits of thread originally destined to accept the hook are no longer in existence, the whole business becomes an exercise in futility. The operation puts a severe strain on the husband's eyes, his temper and the marital bonds.

This is not the only area in which fashion fouls up the blissful boy-girl relationship. The new identical unisex styles are exposing a wide compatibility gap between otherwise loving couples.

It is somewhat simple to arrive at a compromise on whether the pants should be striped or plaid, straight or bell-bottom. The trouble starts when the two have to agree on whether the shirt should have ruffles or a pleated front, if it should be printed silk or crisp cotton.

Even after having completed the selection of the matching outfits there's still one more problem—the new look-alike wigs for him and her.

Will love find a way, when she prefers a short hard-boiled but he insists they purchase the longer type wig that curls softly about the neck?

Hal Boyle is on vacation.

To Your Good Health Hyperventilation And Paper Bag

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Several years ago I developed a breathing problem which my doctor termed hyperventilation. For this he advised me to breathe into a paper bag, and also put me on tranquilizers, plus hormones.

After about four years I found I could no longer fill a bag with my own breath, and was so shaky I couldn't even sign my name to a check well enough so the signature would be accepted anywhere except my own bank.

Now I hear the paper bag bit is just poppycock. I am off the tranquilizers completely. I no longer use a paper bag. But I have a bubbling in my chest near my heart that acts like a heart attack. I have had tests, but never had a heart attack.

Are tranquilizers, used over a long period, harmful?
Or is the breathing into a paper bag, as I would like your opinion.—Mrs. L.B.

No, the paper bag bit isn't poppycock at all.

Hyperventilation is a matter of a person getting his lungs too full of air — which gives him a feeling of inability to breathe simply because there isn't any room to inhale much more.

This, frankly, is usually the result of tension and anxiety, even when the patient isn't aware of anything in particular to be anxious about. That's the aggravating thing about anxiety in such cases.

Anyway, this hyperventilation — with the patient still feeling that he "can't breathe" — results in too little carbon dioxide in the blood instead of too much. Or instead of just enough.

Thus, physiologically, your body wants to reduce the amount of breathing, while consciously you still feel as though you can't breathe. Exhaling into a paper bag and then breathing the same air over again tends to increase your carbon dioxide and get you back to normal.

So much for the hyperventilation — and by your handwriting I see that you have gotten over being shaky.

But now you are worried about your heart, even though tests all are satisfactory. That "bubbling" near your heart? That doesn't fit with any form of heart attack. It might easily be the gyrations of a nervous stomach.

Shall I tell you straight out what all of this sounds like? It sounds like some sort of suppressed anxiety, a subconscious need to worry about something — first the hyperventilation, then the shakes, now the heart.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclosing with your request 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Around The Rim

Budget May Be Interesting Stretching

Page after page of figures, with totals that run into the millions of dollars, do not normally insure fascinating reading. Such is the substance of a budget, and most of us leave the shuffling of numbers between columns to the accountants and others trained in this wizardry.

WHEN BUDGET time for the various agencies rolls around, most of us are content with knowing what it is going to cost us and what we are going to get for our money. Which is well and good, and perhaps, as it should be.

Not so lucky are the volunteers we elect to serve on the various boards. They, for the most part only citizens doing a needed job, must go one step farther — they have to affix their names to the finished budget with an "approved" stamp. This takes the form of weeks on end of study, helping administrators draw up the budget in the first place, arranging for money if needed, and specifically allocating some of the expenditures.

ALTHOUGH A . . . newsman often reports on budgets of one kind and another, I have become a little more familiar with the city's budget, by sitting through the deliberations on about a dozen of them. Many of them were skimpy, and I have seen commissioners go clipping through a budget right down to the telephone charges. Others have been more plush, and city employees finally got around to getting a few long promised salary raises.

THIS YEAR, the municipal budget will no doubt turn out to be one of the tightest in history, despite the common belief that there is a fat treasury. For the most part, rising costs have caught up with the City's expenditures as they have with personal budgets, and commissioners have pledged many expenditures far in advance of the arrival of the income.

The final figures are still being shaped but it is no secret that the commission has already committed all of the income from the sales tax; water and sewer costs have caught up with that fund and only half as much can be used for other departments as in past years; and a cut in the property tax has reduced income from that source.

THE FIGURES are no longer dull when the riddle of making them balance is up in the air. The final budget will be an unusual one, and almost fascinating in watching the commissioners stretch the funds available over the mountain of needs and requests. —V. GLENN COOTES

Holmes Alexander Using The Big Stick On Welfare

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's Welfare Reform Act has got a Big Stick in it.

"I think we'd rather not use the word 'compulsion,' it's got unpleasant connotations," said a Nixon official who had already used "compulsory" in explaining how the Act would work. "Say 'requirement'."

BUT SPEAKING softly or speaking gruffly, the Big Stick is there. If an "unemployed father" (which really means a "kept man" on his wife's, his paramour's or his government's allowance) won't take a suitable job or job-training, man that's it! Instead of sending him welfare checks for "dependent children," (the more he breeds, the more money he receives, as of now), the government withholds the money from him. It keeps on coming to the children, but a trustee or guardian will receive it for them. As head of family, the job-refuser loses $500 a year by declining work or work-training, but he can gain a minimum of $1,600 if he gets off his duff and plays the man.

FOR UNEMPLOYED mothers the double standard applies. A woman with preschool children has the choice of remaining home or seeking a job. She can plant the children in day-care centers which the Nixon legislation would finance by an additional $600 million. The Labor Department finds that such mothers much prefer to work, and informed private opinion is that poor women with offspring are far more ambitious for the better life than their male consorts. Nobody who's sick, blind or old comes under the must-work compulsion or requirement.

THERE'S THE question of defining a "suitable" job and here again the Nixon administration moves away from permissiveness. It's the local welfare officials or the U.S. employment officials, not the welfare-takers, who define "suitable." Something like a selective service among the non-working poor, assigning them to jobs, is under way. A large-scale registration, with fine-scale information on addresses, phone numbers, age, skills and size of families, is a feature of the requested legislation. This will enable the Labor Department by computerization to match persons against job-vacancies.

IN FLAGRANT cases of household negligence, the job-refuser will face administrative or court action for the purpose of placing his children in foster homes. All told, the Welfare Reform Act comes closer to asserting authoritarianism than anything we've had before outside of the military. But this is justified among officialdom by the national necessity of liberating millions of Americans from the penance of generation-to-generation welfare. A Labor Department spokesman tells me:

"The President has felt from the outset that it was necessary to have a strong work-requirement because he wants this program to make a permanent change in behavior and move people from welfare to work.

"THE FAMILY assistance program is based both on rights and responsibilities. There's a right-to-support, but there's a responsibility to accept training or work. The law would say, 'Well, you're not entitled to support as a person because you're unwilling to help yourself.' That's definite."

Procrastination is not dictatorship, although the President may find himself so accused. He's come to a situation where, as Burke said in effect, the surest way for society to fail is for good men to do nothing.

This Lad's Smart For A Freshman

WASHINGTON — My friend, Rory, had a boy 18 years old, who was turned down for admission by four colleges. On his fifth try he received a letter from a university asking him if he would come for an interview.

The man behind the desk asked, "How do you like the school?"

"DO YOU SEE ANY WAY we could improve it?"

"Well, I only got here an hour ago, but I'm sure there are many ways that the school could be improved."

"I like that," the man said. "How do you get along with students?"

"Just fine, I guess. I mean, I've always gotten along with them well."

"No generation gap trouble then?"

"None that I know of."

"Do you like meeting people?"

"I suppose so. I'm an extrovert at heart."

"DO YOU LIKE to entertain?"

"No, sir. I don't like to entertain at all. I keep my nose to the grindstone."

For the first time the man behind the desk seemed disappointed.

"That's too bad."

Rory's son reacted immediately. "Of course, if you want me to entertain, I'd be glad to. Heck, I used to give parties at home all the time."

"ARE YOU ANY GOOD at raising money?"

"I don't think so. I mean, I can always get a sawbuck off my old man."

"I was talking about big money," the man said.

"I can get up the tuition, if that's what you mean."

"I mean big, big money."

"Hey, what the heck kind of school is this?"

for?" Rory's son asked angrily as he got up.

"But we do have an opening in the school."

"As what?"

"President of the university."

"You want me to be president of the university?"

"WHY NOT? It's a way of getting into the school. As acting president you would get first preference from the admissions office once there was an opening in the freshman class."

"But why me?" Rory's son asked.

"We've been trying for a year to fill the job. No one will take it. Then one of the board of trustees suggested we take a freshman applicant for the university and offer him the position.

The incentive would be that if he agreed to act as president, he would eventually be admitted as a student."

"I don't want to be a president," Rory's son said. "I may want to go to college, but I don't want to go that badly."

THE MAN behind the desk was desperate. "It pays $50,000 a year. You get a house and servants and a chauffeured car."

"Forget it," Rory's son said.

"You don't have to be in at any time and you get the best seats at the football game."

"Look, if I wanted to do it, my mother and father wouldn't let me. They want me to come back from college in one piece."

"I'm sorry you feel that way, son. From your high school record, I thought you would make a very good president."

Casualties In Vietnam Dip Slightly

SAIGON (AP) — Casualties in the Vietnam War dropped slightly on both sides last week, and South Vietnamese headquarters said the trend resulted from a marked decrease in enemy activity.

The U.S. Command said 185 Americans were killed in action and 1,037 were wounded, compared with 190 killed and 1,367 wounded in the previous week.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported government casualties last week of 354 killed and 966 wounded. The week before, 398 killed and 928 wounded were reported.

The two commands reported 2,493 enemy were killed last week, compared with a revised figure of 2,724 a week earlier.

The South Vietnamese command said enemy activity last week "decreased 34 per cent compared to that of the previous week," but that government forces "strongly maintained offensive efforts throughout the country to destroy enemy units."

Underground Nuclear Blast Delayed Due To Weather

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Unfavorable weather conditions have caused at least a 24-hour delay in Project Rulison, a 40-kiloton underground nuclear blast in western Colorado.

Project officials made the decision Wednesday night after a weather briefing. Forecasts were for bad weather again on Friday and possibly Saturday.

Each day's delay will cost Austral Oil Co. of Houston, Tex., one of the sponsors of the blast, an estimated $31,000.

"The predictions are clearly outside the criteria we have established for ourselves," said Bob Tahlgott, test manager.

Weathermen said there was a strong chance of thundershowers over the test site, near the town of Grand Valley, about the time of the scheduled detonation — 5 p.m. EDT Thursday. Indications were, the forecasters said, that there would be thundershowers in the area about the same time on Friday.

Weather conditions halted the explosion 8,500 feet under the earth's crust after extensive legal maneuvers failed to do so. Justice Thurgood Marshall of the U.S. Supreme Court refused Wednesday to overturn lower court decisions that all necessary precautions had been taken and the explosion could proceed.

In Denver, meanwhile, a federal judge denied another injunction request from a conservationist group which contended the blast threatened the safety of Colorado residents and could contaminate ground water and the atmosphere.

TREASURY SECRETARY URGES ENACTMENT

Critical But Hails Tax Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy said today the House tax reform bill gives too much to some taxpayers and takes too much from corporations, but he nevertheless hailed it as a milestone.

"The administration urges its enactment at the earliest practicable date," Kennedy said in testimony prepared for the first session of Senate Finance Committee hearings on the bill.

The bill "should be improved in a number of respects," Kennedy added, but he did not recommend changing the House reduction of the controversial oil depletion allowance.

The Treasury proposal, spelled out in an 81-page statement prepared by Assistant Secretary Edwin S. Cohen, would alter 1971 trim the House reductions for individuals by $2.5 billion a year and slice the tax increases for corporations by $1.4 billion.

Overall, the proposal would bring in $1.07 billion a year more than the tax bill approved overwhelmingly by the House on Aug. 7. The House bill would cost $2.4 billion a year by 1972, a figure Kennedy said he wanted to cut to $1.3 billion.

Both proposals, however, would cut individual taxes for all but the highest income brackets below what they are now and raise net corporation taxes, although the administration would like to lower the corporate rate 2 per cent over two years.

Treasury approved of the income tax rate reduction for individuals, but asked that the standard deduction be raised only to 12 per cent, with a ceiling of $1,400, instead of 15 per cent with a $2,000 ceiling, as the House voted. It is now 10 per cent, with a maximum of $1,000.

The new deduction still would allow four million taxpayers to switch from itemizing their deductions to the standard deduction, Kennedy said. This combined with the new rates and the low income allowance would reduce taxes for 63 million taxpayers and remove six million people from the tax rolls entirely, he said. Treasury's deduction plan would cost an estimated $770 million a year compared to $1.34 billion for the House bill.

Kennedy emphasized cutting the cost of the bill, a subject of great concern to the inflation-conscious administration. This year and next—the period the government thinks is critical in curbing rising prices—the Treasury's bill would bring in considerably more than it gives back in tax breaks.

Only in 1972 would it begin to cause a loss. By then the government hopes inflation will be under control.

Kennedy put forth three basic arguments for his suggestions which became final after meetings with President Nixon in San Clemente, Calif., last week.

—The $2.4 billion yearly tax loss that would result from the House bill after 1972 might force a curtailing of important government programs and should be trimmed to $1.3 billion.

—The cuts aren't entirely fair because they would give some taxpayers multiple reductions.

—The House bill is weighted too heavily in favor of consumers—private citizens—at the potential expense of investment, which "could impede economic growth in the years ahead."

Kennedy accepted the House decision to cut the oil depletion allowance to 20 per cent from 27 1/2 per cent, a move that required Nixon to back away from a campaign statement that he thought the allowance should remain the same.

It appeared unlikely that the administration could do otherwise, however, because the allowance became a symbol of preferred treatment with far more significance than the $400 million a year in new money it will produce.

Oilmen are expected to put up a strong fight in the Finance Committee in hopes the Senate will stick closer to 27 1/2 per cent so that the result of a conference with the House will be somewhere in between.

No Major Changes Made In Urban Bureaucracies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon team has yet to make major changes in the government's three largest urban affairs bureaucracies. Presidential appointees say programs of the Johnson administration remain fundamentally unchanged.

Nixon's men, now veterans of eight months on the job, do take credit for some remodeling of the departments of Transportation, Housing and Urban Development, and Health Education and Welfare.

However, "it's fair to say we haven't made much of a dent yet," said James E. Beggs, undersecretary of transportation. Plans are in the offing at Transportation, as elsewhere, for decentralization and better coordination.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe, announced this week the department's first major de-centralization step: the Federal Highway Administration's regional offices and not Washington officials will handle day-to-day administration of federally-aided state and local highway safety programs.

The department's jurisdiction ranges broadly from airports and railroads to urban mass transportation and highway safety.

"Too often the modalities have operated at cross purposes," said a Volpe aide. "We're going to see, for example, that when an airport is built sufficient highway access is available."

Down the street at the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Secretary George Romney is determined to bring once-separate fiefdoms to heel.

His department was formed in 1965 from a collection of independent agencies. Romney has ordered that one of these, the Federal Housing Administration, merge its personnel, audit and legal sections with the rest of the department.

"The FHA will in fact be part of this department," said HUD

Bank Sells Its Assets

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — The former First State Bank of Aransas Pass has sold its assets and passed on its liabilities to the Corpus Christi State Bank & Trust, James T. Denton, president and chief executive officer of the Corpus Christi bank said Wednesday.

Denton said an application will be filed in Austin Friday for a charter for a new bank. "We hope to open Monday morning with full banking services," he said.

Corpus Christi Bank & Trust took control of the former bank on a bid of $1,374,000. Nine bids from banking interests over the southern half of the state were submitted to Dist. Judge John H. Miller.

A spokesman for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. said deposits of the former bank exceeding the insured limit of $15,000 came to $1.4 million, but that no depositor would lose any money.

RALPH ADAMS

Lewisville Chief Quits Amid Echoes

LEWISVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The music of the Texas International Pop Festival ended three days ago, but echoes of the affair are still going on.

Lewisville Chief of Police Ralph Adams confirmed Wednesday night that he is resigning, but insisted he is not quitting under pressure. He was criticized sharply for not arresting a large number of young people using drugs during the festival at this Dallas suburb. "I didn't allow anything," Adams said in a Dallas television interview. "You take the $5,000 people there, and I had a security force of 115 men. I did not and never will condone using narcotics. But if I went into the campground and started making wholesale arrests, we were going to have a riot."

Adams restated a belief that festival goers were "polite and showed courtesy in every respect." He said the reports of nude swimming attracted "common ordinary people going down to see the skinny dipping oddballs," as one lady told me.

The chief said he submitted his resignation Aug. 25, before the festival, and it was effective Sept. 8.

One sharp critic of the handling of the festival was the Baptist General Convention of Texas. The Rev. Theron Farris, who headed a group of Baptists going to the festival site, said, "Even the Mafia could have had a peaceful meeting out there with no law enforcement."

Adams was also chief security officer for Showco, Inc., and Interpop Superfest, the two promoters which staged the festival. He denied there was any conflict of interest and said a salary for his additional services had not been discussed.

Lewisville City Manager John Sartain and Mayor Sam Houston said they plan a complete evaluation of the festival and how it was handled.

Capt. William White of the Department of Public Safety said no orders were issued to him or his men about "restricting themselves" in enforcing the law.

"Our only concern was the traffic, but in case of a riot the traffic would have had to take a lesser priority," he said.

He said numerous arrests were made by DPS officers on highways whenever and wherever we found excessive drug usage or drunkenness.

Amistad Dam Dedication Set

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Next Monday afternoon the presidents of the United States and Mexico will meet in the center of the Amistad Dam on the Rio Grande to dedicate the new lake.

Full military honors and dedication speeches are planned for the event.

The ceremonies, as detailed Wednesday by the Western White House, are scheduled for about 1:45 p.m. local time on the Texas-Mexican border near the town of Del Rio, Tex. Afterward the two presidents will drive to El Mirador, a construction town adjacent to the dam on the Mexican side, for a dedication luncheon given by the Mexican government and then for conferences between the two leaders.

Nixon will make the stop for the dedication on his way back to Washington, ending a month-long vacation at his oceanfront home in San Clemente.

A tentative schedule calls for Nixon's departure aboard Air Force One from El Toro Marine Air Station near San Clemente at 8:45 a.m. PDT, arriving at Laughlin Air Force Base at Del Rio about 12:55 p.m. local time. He is to helicopter to the dam site for the dedication ceremonies.

Nixon is scheduled to depart Del Rio from Laughlin AFB at 5:30 p.m. local time en route to Andrews Air Force Base near Washington where he will arrive about 9:30 p.m. EDT.

Gov. Preston Smith is scheduled to arrive in Del Rio on a State Department plane about 12:30 p.m. local time, accompanied in a second plane by members of the press.

(AP WIREPHOTO)
NEW LOOK — Culver City, Calif., policeman Norm Traub displays blazers being worn by administrative and clerical men on the force in an effort to determine if casual attire results in improved public reaction.

Police Try Non-Uniform Experiment

BLYTHE, Calif. (AP) — What happens when a small-town policeman sheds his uniform for civilian-style clothes?

"Well, people seem a lot friendlier," according to Sgt. W. H. Ketchum. "Since we change to blazers and slacks they seem to see us more as human beings. The officers and the community are more relaxed with each other."

Ketchum is one of 18 deputy sheriffs in the desert farming town of Blythe, population 8,000, near the Arizona border. Gone are the traditional uniforms, helmets and black boots. Replaced by green double-breasted blazers, shirts, ties and slacks.

Sheriff Bernard Clark, in charge of the eight-month experiment, says the idea is "to see if there's any truth to the theory an officer's uniform impedes his work." The first reaction among police officials has been that it's a good idea for administrative types but not so good for street patrols. Blythe citizens will be surveyed this month for their reactions.

Blythe's program is modeled after one in Dover Township, N.J., where for three years men in the ranks between chief and sergeant have worn blazers. Clark says Blythe is the first to put all officers, including patrolmen, into casual attire.

The town is deemed a good test area as it is isolated from other towns, has a cross section of farmers and businessmen, and 25 per cent of residents are Negroes or Mexican-Americans.

Only identifying symbol on the blazers is a badge-shaped pocket crest. Officers carry guns, bullets and handcuffs under their jackets. Helmets and sticks are kept in squad cars.

Clark says he expects the experiment to show two things: "First an increase in the crime rate. Silly? No. Normally, only about 60 to 70 per cent of crimes are reported. If you establish better communication you're going to learn about more crimes. Second, an increased crime clearance rate. With better communication, the community will help solve more crimes."

Jacksonville and Fort Lauderdale, Fla., are testing blazers for ranking officers. Miami and Seattle are reported considering tests of blazers for administrative personnel.

But a spokesman for the 6,000-man Los Angeles force had this comment on the experiment: "The blazers-slacks concept may be okay for small towns, but in a big city there's too much of a chance of mistaken identity."

This theme is common among peace officers. While many favor casual dress for administrative types, they fear that patrolmen in slacks lose their identity.

Green Bay Could Be On Way Back In NFL

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Million Dollar Backfield still is around, but it has been the five-and-10 variety that has put the go in the Green Bay Packers attack this year. That, coupled with youth and experience, may lead the Packers to the top of the heap again.

The Million Dollar Backfield is Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski, both of whom signed huge contracts with Green Bay during the days of the bidding war between the two football leagues.

The dollar-and-cents men include rookie Dave Hampton, a ninth-round draft choice out of Wyoming; veteran Elijah Pitts, a 13th-round pick from Philander Smith in 1960; and third-year man Travis "Road Runner" Williams, a bust last year following a sensational rookie season.

After ruling the roost for three consecutive years and dominating the league for nine straight seasons, the Packers slipped to third place in the Central Division last year.

Among the reasons for the sudden slide were injuries to Starr and the entire defensive line.

Now, all are healthy again, although defensive tackle Jim Weatherwax still hasn't fully recovered from knee surgery.

But, Coach Phil Bengtson can call on veterans Lionel Aldridge, Henry Jordan, Bob Brown and Willie Davis and rookie Rich Moore, a 6-foot-6, 285-pound alumnus of Villanova.

The defensive secondary—all veterans—is made up of Willie Wood, Herb Adderley, Bob Jeter and Doug Hart.

Two years ago, Travis Williams made his debut in the league by returning four kick-offs for touchdowns. But last year, Travis, like the Packers, fell on hard times and averaged only 1.7 yards a carry from scrimmage.

Now, the 6-foot-1, 212-pound speedster from Arizona State has looked like the Road Runner of two years ago. Against the Cleveland Browns last Saturday in an exhibition game, Travis reeled off 65 yards in 11 carries and two touchdowns.

DONNY IS MOVED Hampton, an unknown before the draft, has been an exciting runner in scrimmages and pre-season exhibitions.

With Williams and Hampton available, Bengtson has moved Anderson to a wide receiver spot where he presumably will back up Dale and Dowler.

Last week's victory over Cleveland squared the Packers' exhibition record at 2-2.

"The game did indicate that we have people who can block, who can carry the ball, who can catch the ball and who can pass," Bengtson said.

The game also helped settle a question about the offensive line, which had been riddled by retirements. But, just in case he's needed, Bengtson Monday revealed that tackle Forrest Gregg has been re-activated as a player.

Gregg was named an assistant coach last February when he apparently retired. But Bengtson emphasized that the 13-year veteran never had retired and "was always on the roster."

"The biggest change that I see in this club from last year is the quiet confidence that they can get the job done," Bengtson said. "There's a feeling that we can win regardless of the score or the time remaining."

Willie Davis Keeps Hitting String Alive

By The Associated Press

Willie Davis, the Los Angeles Dodgers outfielder, should write novels during the baseball off-season. He has a flair for the dramatic.

He kept alive the longest consecutive game hitting streak in more than 20 years in the major leagues with dramatic suddenness Wednesday night.

Thwarted in four previous times at bat in an effort to hit his 31st consecutive game, he came up in the ninth inning and socked the first pitch for a double that scored Maury Wills from second to beat the New York Mets 5-4.

The hit to left field, which was first scored as a single, was in direct contrast to Davis' ninth inning appearance Tuesday night against the Mets.

He came up then with the tying run on third and the Dodgers behind 5-4. He struck out to end the game.

First base was open, with one out and Wills on second, when Davis came to the plate to face relief pitcher Jack DiLauro Wednesday night.

Gil Hodges, the Mets' manager, said he considered walking Davis, but decided to pitch to him in view of his four futile tries to extend his streak.

Davis said he got the pitch he thought he would. "It was a sidearm curve and when I saw it I said to myself 'here it comes' and I smacked it."

The victory kept the Dodgers one game back of San Francisco in the NL West mad scramble and one-half game ahead of the Cincinnati Reds.

San Francisco shaded Montreal 2-1, Cincinnati blanked the Chicago Cubs 2-0, Atlanta trounced Pittsburgh 8-1 and Philadelphia romped over San Diego 9-1 in other NL games.

Houston and St. Louis were idle. Oakland beat the Red Sox 7-4 in the morning game. Boston won the second 5-1.

Claude Osteen, seeking his 19th victory, was breezing along with a 4-0 lead over Jerry Kosman and the Mets until the eighth.

Then two-run homers by Tommie Agee and Donn Clendenon tied the score and set the stage for Davis' dramatic game ending swat. Davis was mobbed by spectators swirling around him at third base as he left the field.

Pete Mikkelsen was the winning pitcher in relief for the Dodgers. DiLauro took the loss for the Mets.

The Mets stayed five games back of Chicago in the NL East since the Cubs absorbed a two-hit shutout from the Reds' Jim Maloney.

TWO SINGLES The Cubs' two hits, both singles, were made by Don Kessinger in the third and by losing pitcher Bill Hands in the sixth.

The Giants made only two hits against Montreal, but one was a single by Jim Davenport with the bases full in the seventh that drove in both of the Giants' runs.

Losing pitcher Mike Wegener of the Expos had loaded the sacks on three bases on balls before Davenport came up. The Giants' other hit was another single by Ron Hunt in the fourth.

Juan Marichal, who chucked up his 17th victory, had to bear down with all his skill in the ninth when Montreal put the tying run on third with none out on Mack Jones' triple.

"I was worried," Marichal said afterwards. "I wanted to strike out the next three batters, but didn't think I could. I hope they would hit a ground ball to someone."

That's what happened. Coco Laboy grounded out to Davenport at third. So did Ron Brand. Second baseman Hunt threw out Jim Fairry to end the game.

Atlanta exploded for eight runs in the sixth against the Pirates to snap a six-game losing streak. Pitcher Rico Cartwright capped the outburst with a three-run bases loaded double.

A three-run triple by Johnny Callison and a five-hitter by Woody Fryman made it easy for the Phillies over the Padres. Fryman lost a shutout in the seventh when the Philadelphia infield committed three errors after a single by Ivan Murrell.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With Tommy Hart. Includes a small portrait of Tommy Hart.

McMurry College's football team probably should do no flying in its road games. The Indians have one tackle who weighs 288, another who checked in at 270 and a third who tips the scales at a modest 232.

Incidentally, the former Abilene Cooper fullback, Richard Richburg, didn't make his grades at McMurry and won't be eligible at the Abilene school this fall.

Ray Graves, the University of Florida football coach, says he thinks that freshman football is a waste of time and money for a school.

"A player with required talent should be able to play varsity ball immediately," Graves contends. "Otherwise, you're wasting a year."

Like most other colleges, Florida is hurting for athletic money, even though the Gators play to banner houses in football. Eliminating the freshman program would be one way to reduce the overhead.

The Gators have raised the price of their game tickets to $7 and Graves wants to schedule a spring football game with Florida State. He says that would lure a crowd of 50,000. Maybe he'll set a trend. More than one coach lust for year-around football.

Ray takes a dim view of the advice offered by the average buff. Says he: "I still feel I know more about football than some barber in Tampa who sees us play once a year."

Coaches in District 3-AAAA are watching with great interest Dan LaGrasta's great experiment at San Angelo, which saw him convert three linemen into backs.

One of the boys he moved was Thomas Williams, as good a guard-linebacker as this league has had in many years.

Incidentally, LaGrasta's starting unit will average out to about 25 pounds more per man than last year's club. It'll come in with about a 187-pound norm.

A former Abilene High athlete, Chuck Hughes, now with the Philadelphia Eagles, studies the banking business in El Paso between seasons.

Although Hughes played his high school football in West Texas, he is a native of Philadelphia. He was the son of an Army career officer, now deceased, and was the "middle" son of a family of 14 children, nine of whom were boys.

COUNTING LONDON OUT — Jerry Quarry of Bellflower, Calif., watches from his corner in the background as referee Rudy Ortega counts out Brian London of England in the second round of their scheduled ten-round battle Wednesday night in Oakland, Calif. Quarry sent London down earlier in the round. The bell was sounded to end the round but officials ruled it still had a minute left. That's when Quarry finished off London with a knockout.

Homecoming Tilt To Be At Night

ABILENE — McMurry College's Homecoming game Oct. 25 with Texas A&I has been moved back to a 7:30 p.m. kickoff, announced Hershel Kimbrell, Coordinator of Athletics.

"We made a study throughout the Lone Star Conference, and it showed that you draw better for an evening game," said Kimbrell.

Oakland Hosts Twins

By The Associated Press

Operation Catch Up begins a four-day run in Oakland tonight and, if it doesn't succeed, there won't be much doubt that it will be the Minnesota Twins against Baltimore in the American League playoffs next month.

The Athletics, slumping home after a miserable road swing, will have to cool off the red-hot Twins considerably in the four-game set to keep their flickering West Division title hopes alive.

Boston stopped Oakland 5-2 Wednesday, after the A's won the opener of a doubleheader 7-1, while the Twins were polishing off Cleveland 7-1 for their fourth straight triumph and 10th in 12 games.

That boosted the Twins lead to 6½ games over Oakland, which was only two games off the pace a little more than a week ago. But, while the Twins were enjoying their string of prosperity, Oakland dropped seven of 10 games on the road trip.

SEEKING SPLIT
Noting that Minnesota is six games up on the A's in the loss column, Manager Billy Martin said, "If we have that same margin when we leave Oakland Sunday, they'll be hurting."

Twins President Cal Griffith was even more confident: "If the Twins can win two of four in Oakland, it will Katy bar the door for us the rest of the way."

Martin's only big concern during the Big Series is Rod Carew, who will miss the last three games because of a weekend military obligation.

Carew, who just rejoined the team after two weeks of summer training camp, is leading the league with a .351 average.

Detroit and Denny McLain stopped Kansas City 4-2 in Wednesday's only other scheduled AL activity.

In the National League, Cincinnati blanked Chicago 2-0, Atlanta whipped Pittsburgh 8-1, San Francisco nipped Montreal 2-1, Los Angeles edged New York 5-4 and Philadelphia routed San Diego 9-1 in the only games scheduled.

Harmon Killebrew's two-run homer—his 39th of the season—keyed a five-run Twins' explosion in the sixth inning that helped Dave Boswell to his 15th victory in 25 decisions with a four-hitter.

Tony Oliva and Leo Cardenas also singled in runs in the big inning, while Boswell's sacrifice bunt scored George Mitterwald from third for the other.

Killebrew's production boosted Oakland for his 11th victory in 13 decisions.

WINS ANOTHER
Ken Harrelson slammed his 27th homer for the Indians.

Rookie Mike Nagy, a 21-year-old right-hander, worked him- self in and out of jams in stopping Oakland for his 11th victory in 13 decisions.

Gerry Moses, No. 3, and Syd O'Brien, No. 7, backed him with homers.

In the opener, Oakland came from behind with a seven-run uprising in the seventh inning.

Danny Cater started it off with a single and Dick Green followed with his 11th homer.

Tito Francona singled in another run before pinch runner Alan Lewis tied it 4-4 by knocking the ball out of catcher Russ Gibson's glove on an apparent easy out at the plate. Sal Bando then produced the clincher with a three-run homer, his 22nd.

McLain checked Kansas City on six hits for his 22nd victory against six losses, while Willie Horton banged out his 24th and 25th homers, driving in three runs. Bill Freehan also homered for the Tigers.

Horton has now hit eight homers in his last seven games, including four in the four-games with the Royals.

Rookie Mike Fiore hit his 10th homer in the first inning and Joe Foy his eighth in the sixth for the only damage off McLain.

Laver No Problem

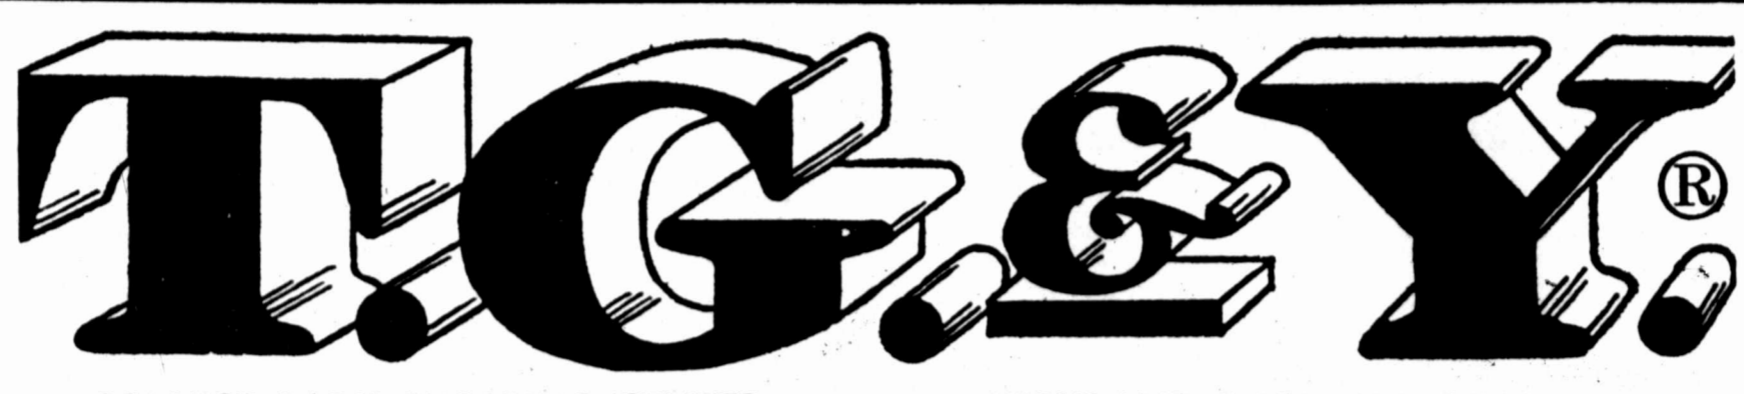

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Tony Roche is one man unwilling to go with the tide of sentiment that there can be no stopping Rod Laver in the U.S. Open tennis championships.

"I've beaten Rod five times this year and lost to him twice," the young Australian said. "I say my track record against him is pretty good."

Laver, unbeaten in 27 straight matches and bidding to add the American to his Australian, French and Wimbledon titles for a pro grand slam, is the overwhelming favorite for the $16,000 first prize.

Two BS Boys See Action

MIDLAND — Al Fierro, former Big Spring quarterback, was pressed into service when Ron Skosnik, starting signal caller for the West Texas Rufneks, was injured in Tuesday night's game with the Sacramento Capitols in Sacramento, Calif.

Sacramento won the game, 17-13, before 9,000 fans despite a late surge by the Texans.

Skosnik recently joined the Rufneks after he had been cut by both Green Bay and the Washington Redskins.

Skosnik had passed to Tim Whittier for three yards and one touchdown. Big Spring's Eddy Nelson then tried to kick the extra point only to have it blocked by Sacramento.

The same combination, Skosnik to Whittier, clicked for the Rufneks' second TD on a 37-yard play in the third period. Nelson then made good on his PAT try.

Fierro was thrown for an eight-yard loss on a fourth down play late in the game at a time the Rufneks were driving at Sacramento's 16.

Railroad Made A Town According To Speaker

"Big Spring actually became a town in 1882 when the Texas and Pacific Railway came here," said Mrs. Herman Smith in reviewing the book, "Big Spring," by Shine Phillips at Tuesday's meeting of the Scenic Chapter of the American Business Women's Association. The group met in the Holiday Inn. Mrs. Smith is an English teacher at Big Spring High School.

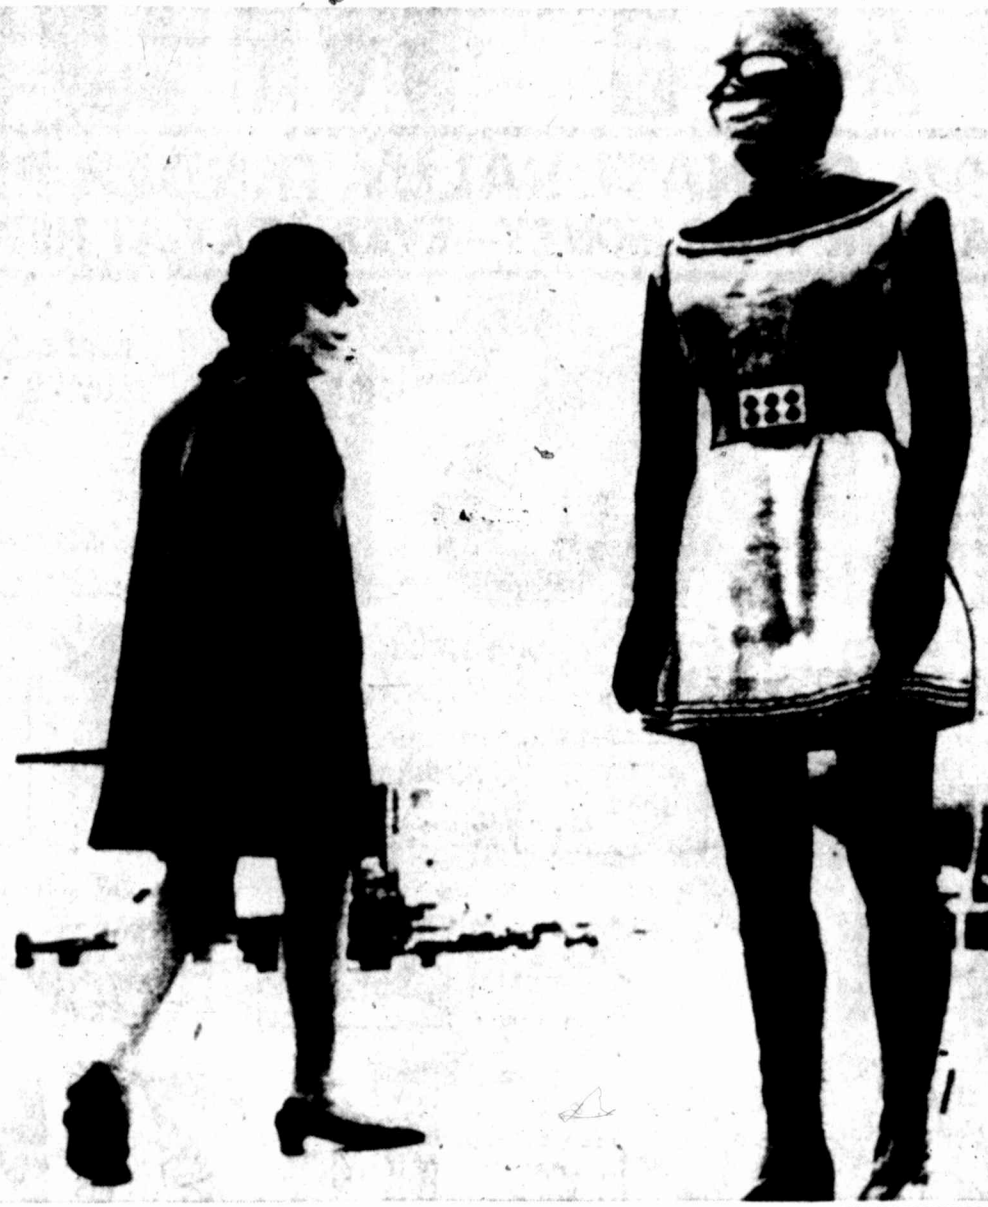

"There wasn't much law in those early days," said Mrs. Smith. "People mostly leaned on the 10 commandments." She stressed that when something really serious developed, they called on the Texas Rangers.

"Ranchers were the important people and were mostly those who came to town," continued Mrs. Smith, "and there were eight saloons to keep them happy. Cowhands were paid $30 a month and provided board and food."

Mrs. Smith said that women were happy because they had real jobs and felt needed. The woman of the house did not feel the need of joining clubs or launching projects because her

A LOVELIER YOU Add Dash To Clothes With Skirts, Tops

By MARY SUE MILLER

As summer weekends reach the finish line, a summer wardrobe is likely to limp down the home stretch. Yet, it could perform with proper dash if given a fallish touch.

The newest items right now are shirts and blouses.

They add up to more fashion than ever before. Both could keep your summer skirts and pants going through the warm September days. And would thereafter provide a starter for serious collecting. Here are the highlights:

Great with pants... Skinny polo and rubbed knit shirts, really tight... Chiffons, voiles and crepes, very shirty by day and soft by night... Bodied knits of wool and synthetics, sometimes printed and always textured.

Terrific with skirts... Wraparounds and long long tunics featuring a giant scarf around neck or waist, two or more color tones, a high sheen or a matte surface, geometric and flowered prints, gypsy embroidery, tucks and pleats. Colors to span the seasons... Purple, every nuance from frail to frenetic... Deeps like maroon, wine, earth brown... Dusty rose and green... Red, black, white.

Only imagine arriving for the weekend in the black-and-white crepe shirt atop your black linen skirt. Or spending a patio evening in a red and ruffled chiffon blouse and your wide white silk pants. Enjoy!

Speaker Talks On Soil, Plants

Bill Fryrear, agriculture research engineer, was guest speaker at Wednesday's luncheon meeting of the Big Spring Garden Club in the Holiday Inn. Fryrear is going to Germany in the near future to be a guest speaker. He discussed the adaptability of plants to soil in this area, and he stressed how to get the maximum growth from soil in West Texas and in Big Spring.

Fryrear emphasized the gardener know the type of soil with which he is dealing and the relation of the soil to the climate. He discussed how to prepare the soil and said that vinegar will help an acid soil. He told the group how to apply insecticides by balancing the water and fertilizer for the best results, and he suggested that the gardener survey his yard at least once a week in order to cope with existing problems.

Hostesses were Mrs. Robert Stripling, Mrs. John Knox and Mrs. J. D. Elliott. They arranged the floral centerpieces for the tables.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise: You know those couches, or day beds, with bolsters that make into a bed? Well, my problem was always what to do with the bolster when I used the couch as a bed. It just always seemed to be in the way.

My husband came to my rescue with what I think is nothing short of genius.

He actually anchored the bolster to the wall. It really wasn't very difficult, and the results were well worth the effort.

He got a beautiful gold towel ring and fastened it to the wall using a molly screw secured in a wall stud. Then he took a gold-colored chain, looped it through the towel ring and attached the ends of the chain to each end of the bolster.

My particular couch had only one bolster, but this same idea could be used if your couch has two.

It is so attractive, and now all we have to do when we want to use the couch as a bed is just pull it away from the wall and the bolster stays on the wall. . . no muss, no fuss, no bother . . . Mrs. S. R.

Dear Heloise: I've always loved those beautiful china doorknobs, but my budget just doesn't seem to stretch that far. So I decided to do the next best thing.

I bought a can of refrigerator enamel and some decals and made real beauties out of my old doorknobs.

I applied the enamel, let dry, stuck on the decals, and trimmed with gold paint.

I'm proud as a peacock and satisfied at least. I have attractive doorknobs and didn't have to stretch my budget either. . . A Reader

Dear Heloise: Could it harm my dog if I rinsed her in a cream rinse? Her hair is so hard to comb and brush after a bath, and tangles with all its might. . . Rover's Mother

I checked with a fancy doggie shop and was told that they often use cream rinses!

Follow the directions on the side of the bottle for human hair (according to what brand you are using, I guess), add twice as much water, then rinse

Dear Heloise: Just had to tell you of the many, many ways we have found to use empty spools of thread in our home—from the tiny ones to the large king-size ones.

We've very successfully used them as drawer pulls or cabinet knobs, made legs out of them for small cabinets and boxes, and have even used them as spacers between shelves by running rods or dowels through them.

They even come in handy in the toy box. We've made toy abacuses out of them for the children and have used them as handles for a jump rope.

I'm sure with a little thought I could go on and on. . . Sandy

Dear Heloise: I use the plastic drink stirrers to push back the cuticle on delicate fingernails. They are strong enough, but never leave those ugly white spots that a metal or even an orange stick leaves. . . Miss C. Stevens

DIGGING A HOLE INTO HISTORY — Paleontologist George Miller, in charge of a new "dig" at Los Angeles' LaBrea Tar Pits, holds in his hand "micro-fossils" of small animals and small birds, taken from the digging site where scientists hope to open a wide window into the past by excavating bones buried in the tar hole more than 10 million years ago.

Digging Back Into History

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Half-hardened muck is hauled away a block off busy Wilshire Boulevard in buckets, sifted and washed and scientists are digging a hole into history.

Just behind the Los Angeles County Museum of Art are several fenced-off pools of bubbling tar, welling up from a huge oil dome 150 feet below the surface.

The bones of countless animals—prehistoric saber-toothed cats, giant sloths, dire wolves and at least one human being—were hauled from these tar pits in random excavations half a century ago.

Now a new "dig" has been started, aimed for the first time at recreating in full detail this part of the world as it existed during the Ice Age, a three-million-year epoch which ended about 10,000 years ago.

The excavation is on a site where the tar, exposed to air, has hardened into a everything that comes out of the cap strong enough to hold the pit, not only large bones but mi-weight of diggers employed by the County Museum of Natural History.

As they slowly scrape their way down inch by inch, the time drains away, workers find the bones of hundreds of birds and animals that met death in the once-sticky goo.

These fossils are carefully cataloged by numbers showing the exact depth at which they were found. The deeper the workers dig, the farther back into earth's history they go.

In this way Dr. Theodore Downs, chief of earth sciences at the museum, hopes to open a wide window onto the past.

Earlier excavators apparently were interested primarily in the bones of large animals—the giant California lion, the saber-tooth cat, the giant ground sloth," said Downs.

"This time we are studying and dust, has congealed into a

New Administrator Says Oldsters Need Concern

John F. Barker, new administrator of Big Spring Nursing Inns Inc., has more than 20 years experience in nursing and administrative work, plus five others in management and insurance.

"I love the work," he said. "The important thing is to make the people feel they are wanted, not that they are sent there. Every three months you ought to be able to note from a person's expression when he's treated nice."

Barker was born near Comanche, July 20, 1917, and graduated from high school in Enid, Okla., in 1935. He entered the Navy in March, 1942, and served in the European theater as chief pharmacist mate until his discharge in October, 1945.

His first contact in the nursing field came in the Navy when he took advanced training in management and anesthesia. After leaving the service he worked as laboratory X-ray technician and anesthetist in Blackwell Hospital in Gorman (until 1952) and in the De Leon Municipal Hospital (until 1959). He served as regional director of an insurance firm in Arkansas until 1964 when he became co-owner and administrator of the Hallmark Villa Nursing Home in Oklahoma. He served on state professional panels. Barker came to Big Spring two weeks ago after serving for a year as business manager of the Palo Pinto General Hospital in Mineral Wells.

"It's not fair that old people be shoved off without care when they have served the best years of their life," he said. "Helping them feel wanted and loved is more than a single individual can do — the whole community has to have a part." His wife, Sylvia, concurs that oldsters need more than health care, that it's the little things which count with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Barker will be living at 2613 E. 25th with their son, Brent, 17, who will be a senior at Big Spring High School this fall. They also have a married daughter, Michaelyn Kay Park, 22, whose husband is an instructor at Chanute AFB, Ill. She teaches at the University of Illinois.

Barker is a member of the Methodist Church and a past member of the Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Puzzle of Wednesday, Sept. 3, Solved

Congressmen Say War Causing Most Complaints

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen back from pulse-taking visits home say the nation is in a generally quiet mood but with disturbing signs that its patience is running thin on Vietnam.

Although the issue of school desegregation inflames the South and no one is happy with high prices, taxes and interest rates, it is the continuing war that produces the most complaints, they report.

So far the war still is associated with the previous Democratic administrations but both Democrats and Republicans say if the conflict drags on much longer it will exert the same deadly effect on President Nixon that it did on Lyndon B. Johnson.

"The war is the only real issue," said Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, one of a group of congressmen sounded out Wednesday on the views of their constituents as Congress returned from a three-week vacation.

"People hear about troop withdrawals and peace talks," Ayres said, "but then they read the casualty lists and see their sons and grandsons being sent over there and they don't know what to make of it."

Ayres comes from urban Ohio but a similar view was reported by Rep. William M. McCulloch, a Republican from tiny Piqua, Ohio.

"This is the heartland of America," he said. "We're a great patriotic people but in order to keep going we have to see some tiny light, no matter how far ahead. The people don't see any light and a tremendous pressure against the war is building up."

In Eastern Kentucky, Gulf Coast Florida, across the South and in the great urban areas, members found the same sentiments.

"I've never heard such unrest over the war as now," said Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla. "The people don't know where we're headed. They come up to you and say 'we've got to do something! Drop a bomb, anything, but get it over with!'"

"My people are the most patriotic in the country," said Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky.

but they just want to see us out of Vietnam. They never have understood why we were there. They don't have any alternatives, they just want us out."

Rep. Watkins M. Abbott, D-Va., said his constituents "are finding it hard to follow the logic of the way the war is being pursued, not accomplishing enough and getting our boys killed. They think we ought to win or get out."

Vietnam aside, the members found Nixon enjoying a generally high level of popularity, even among Democrats. Nixon's proposed welfare reforms apparently account for his high rating in Democratic districts but Rep. Marvin L. Esch, R-Mich., thinks he knows why the nation at large seems to be satisfied with its new president.

"After years of having administrations adopting crash programs in an atmosphere of crisis," he said, "I think the people are glad to see an attempt at solving problems through an orderly process."

House Turns To Toys Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Making consumer bills its first item of business after summer vacation, the House turned today from tires and motorcycle helmets to toys.

The toys bill would prohibit sale of such modern toys as electric ovens and miniature rockets with protruding fins if the government ruled them "dangerous due to electrical, mechanical or thermal hazards."

Known as the "Child Protection Act of 1969," the bill would add to the rules under which the Department of Health, Education and Welfare tests toys to determine whether they're dangerously explosive, flammable, radioactive, poisonous or rash-causing. The toys bill was expected to sail through the House this afternoon and go to the Senate as easily as a tires and motorcycle helmets bill which passed 321 to 0 Wednesday.

The bill would extend to tire manufacturers the program for recalling and repairing trucks and cars with safety defects and would authorize the secretary of transportation to set safety standards for motorcycle helmets.

Mathews Gets Nod To TIB

AUSTIN (AP) — Charles D. Mathews, a Dallas freight executive and veteran state attorney, has been appointed to the three-man Texas Insurance Board.

He may take his seat on the board in time to vote on a proposed 11.4 per cent average rate increase in family car insurance.

Mathews, 56, is president of Red Ball Motor Freight. Gov. Preston Smith recently named him to a four-year term as a director of Texas Tech, a position he must resign if his appointment is confirmed by the Senate.

It is possible Smith will designate Mathews as board chairman, but the governor said he would make a decision on the chairmanship at a later date.

The board's chairmanship has been vacant since George Cowden resigned Dec. 31. Smith appointed former Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo to the board, but his nomination was blocked in the Senate.

Mathews graduated from the University of Texas Law School with highest honors in 1937 and was president of his class.

He served with the Railroad Commission and the attorney general's department, and was first assistant attorney general under Price Daniel.

In Dallas, Mathews said he would make no decision on a request by insurance companies to increase automobile premiums until he had read "the transcript, the law and the facts."

"I'll do what I think is right in the matter," he said. "I have no preceived ideas one way or the other."

Martin Cancer Group Meets

STANTON (SC) — The Martin County unit of the American Cancer Society met Tuesday evening at the Cap Rock Auditorium for its first meeting since May. Tom Angel, president, presided, and Mrs. Tracey Cockrell, Midland, state director at large of ACS presented the unit certificate of authorization.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Cockrell and Michael Dean, Midland, new field representative of ASC.

Two Counties Get Projects

A well has been completed in Glasscock County while prospects have been staked in Sterling and Howard Counties.

T. C. Anderson has finished No. 4-F Dora Roberts in the Howard-Glasscock region of Glasscock County with an initial pumping potential of 51 barrels of 32.5-gravity oil and 15 barrels of water per day.

Elevation is 2,710 feet; total depth is 1,930 feet, and 4 1/2-inch casing is set at 1,928 feet. Operator adized perforations at 1,606-1,890 feet with 250 gallons and fractured them with 42,000 gallons and 30,000 pounds of sand.

In Sterling County Shaheen and Son of Abilene and King Resources of Midland plan No. 1-95 N.H. Reed as a prospector in the Wolfcamp zone at depth of 7,200 feet. The project is 700 feet from the south line and 760 feet from the west line of section 95-2, H&TC survey, 12 miles northwest of Sterling City, and 3 1/2 miles southeast of the Albaugh-Cole (Wolfcamp) pool and 1 1/2 miles southwest of the Sterling Northwest (Fusselman) region.

Miller and Fox Drilling Corp. of Corpus Christi, has scheduled No. 1 M. G. Simpson, a Howard County prospector, for exploration of the Pennsylvania Reef at a depth of 8,725 feet.

The wildcat is 1,000 feet from the south and east lines of section 21-33-3N, T&P survey — 20 1/2 miles northwest of Big Spring and 1 1/2 miles northeast of the Modesta South (Pennsylvanian) field.

Also in Howard County Lario Oil and Gas Co. of Midland have staked No. 1 Reedes for exploration of the Pennsylvania at a depth of 9,200 feet. The wildcat is 467 feet from the north line and 853 feet from the west line of section 44-33-3N, T&P survey, six miles northwest of Vealmoor and one mile southeast of the Brookings Northwest (Canyon Reef) pool.

Texaco Inc. plans No. 1-G H. N. Reed as a prospector in the Clear Fork Zone of Howard County at 4,950 feet. The project is 1,980 feet from the north and east lines of section 17-30-1N, T&P survey; 11 miles northwest of Big Spring and a west offset to Fusselman production in the Coahoma North pool and six miles northwest of the Iatan North (Challow) region.

'Haunted Hill' For Road's Name

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — Local promoters want to name a road near here Puu Lapu, Hawaiian for "Haunted Hill."

Because of an optical illusion, motorists driving downhill face what appears to be an ascending grade.

Promoters want to erect a sign telling motorists to turn off their engines, put the gears in neutral and "see what happens."

Horoscope Forecast

TOMORROW
—CARROLL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES The emotional day finds you feeling very emotional and depressed. Later, you will feel better. If you get out and enjoy yourself, the day will be a pleasant one. Do not start anything new. Have a pleasant time before starting. Fall work. Be sure to drive safely.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Do all your routine duties early. Listen to your family's suggestions for financial betterment. Your intuition is not good early in the day. It improves later.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) This is a good day to do your shopping, visiting and other duties early. Go on a trip to a more interesting activity in the afternoon. Meet with persons whose ideas you admire. Cultivate their friendship.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle money matters more intelligently so that you have more to spend for the week. First make your plans, then follow through as a serious approach. Get the results you want.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You know exactly what should be done to remove stumbling blocks in the path of success. Others will gladly join you later in fun. Be your own charming self.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Put those plans aside and get busy handling your present responsibilities. Tonight you'll be free to do whatever you want most. Find a better method to gain your aims. Stop struggling.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Avoid that acquaintance who could use you as a whipping boy. Put in a good day's work. Start on the social whirl early in the evening. Be understanding of others' whether sad or happy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be sure you carry out promises you have made, especially at work. You would rather have fun. Seek the good will of those in higher positions. Handle that credit affair before you go out for fun tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You find it difficult to put certain ideas in operation during the morning. Later everything goes smoothly. You have a new associate. Be sure to do whatever cements fine relations. Be clever.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) All that work ahead of you seems impossible to do this morning. If you dig in you find it is not so much, after all. Show that you can pay your bills. Avoid that habit of waiting until the last minute.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) It is important that you carry out what a rather greedy associate wants you to do this morning. Then you can do those things that really appeal to you. Certain situations arise that need speedy handling.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although you would rather do other things, better stick to everyday duties. Tonight you can be free to do as you please. Show conscientiousness toward other workers. They'll cooperate. Be speedy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) You can have very little fun in the morning. Later you will have the happiest hours in a long time. Be very kind toward one you love. Do not use harsh words. Keep smiling.

Dear Abby

—ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Last winter I had some extensive surgery and can have no more children. Fortunately I have a little six-year-old son. I didn't tell my parents about my operation at the time because they live far away, couldn't have come anyway, and besides my mother has a heart condition and I didn't want to upset her.

Now my parents are coming to visit me, and I plan to keep quiet about my operation. I've told all my friends and neighbors who know (and that includes about half the town) to please not mention it to my folks. Knowing my mother, she is sure to ask, "When are you going to get busy and have a little sister or brother for Junior?" I don't want to worry her about my condition, but what can I say that will be acceptable?

DEPENDING ON YOU
DEAR DEPENDING: Tell your mother the truth. If it's her heart you're concerned about, she'd be better off hearing the news from you at a time of your own choosing than from an absent-minded friend whose mouth works faster than her brain. And if you don't have at least one, you're the lucky exception.

DEAR ABBY: I suppose a 29-year-old girl should know better than to get herself in a fix like this, but it's too late now. Billy got me in a family way. (He is 42.) He said he would marry me right after harvest time. He didn't have any cash on hand so I bought myself a set of rings and started right off wearing the wedding band because I was starting to show. I paid 30 dollars down on the rings and two dollars a week. Then I had a miscarriage. Billy says there is no sense in marrying me now. So now I am stuck with no husband, no baby, and a set of rings. What should I do?

LULU
DEAR LULU: I think you're well rid of a man who might not have gotten around to marrying you at all. I don't know how long you've had the rings, but perhaps the jeweler will take them back if you agree to stand some loss. Under the circumstances I think you came out ahead. And by the way, next time, use yours.

DEAR ABBY: Near where I live is a creek, which naturally is a big attraction to the adventuresome little neighborhood boys.

One day I was surprised to hear the father of one of the boys tell the whole bunch that there were monsters in the creek, and if they played near it, the monsters would catch them.

I disapproved of this "scare technique" from the start, but I just kept my mouth shut.

It's true that the boys don't play near the creek any more, but I think more harm than good was done by that monster story. Today I had a sobbing bunch of kids in my living room. They were afraid to leave because "the monsters are out there." (This was in broad daylight. I wonder what they dream about?)

I also wonder what will happen when Junior finds out that Daddy lied to him.

Personally I think it is wrong to lie to children to make them behave. Good old fashioned (and honest) discipline builds better characters in the long run.

As it says in Proverbs 22:6, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

What do you say, Abby?
TRUTHFUL RANGER
DEAR RANGER: I'm with Proverbs.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Files Damages In Bra Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A woman who says she was fired for refusing to wear a brassiere and for advocating a "bra-less Friday" for 2,200 other girls in the plant has filed a $14 million suit against General Dynamics, Inc.

Mrs. Jane M. Andre, a 39-year-old divorcee, formerly was a supervising engineer in General Dynamics' welding department at an annual salary of $18,000.

Her suit, filed in Superior Court Tuesday, charged her reputation and character had been damaged by statements made by General Dynamics regarding her suggestion for a bra-less day.

At the time of her dismissal Aug. 14, Mrs. Andre told newsmen she believed in "functional clothes."

Considering Release Of Back-Up Statistics

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The White House is considering the release of detailed statistics supporting its claim that federal funds for domestic needs will still be tight after the Vietnam war ends.

Informed sources said the action may be necessary to end the confusion that has surrounded the entire issue since urban affairs aide Daniel P. Moynihan said late last month that peace would bring little in the way of a federal financial windfall.

Moynihan said built-in cost increases in present programs plus the cost of President Nixon's proposals in the welfare and revenue-sharing fields would eat up most of the savings on war expenditures.

However, presidential counselor Arthur F. Burns told the National Governors' Conference here that $8 billion would be available this year if the war ended now.

White House aides attending the conference insisted there was no contradiction between Burns' statement and Moynihan's, since Burns did not say the $8 billion was not already spoken for by the types of programs cited by Moynihan.

Burns' $8 billion figure means that, if the war ended, spending this year for Southeast Asia would be $17 billion, rather than the budget figure of about $23 billion, and thus presumably would decline further in the future.

In suggesting that the detailed figures, kept secret at the time of Moynihan's presentation, might now be released, the presidential advisors said one problem is that they include classified military data on expected defense spending over the next few years.

But they indicated it probably would be possible to present the data in such a way that no useful information would be disclosed to potential enemies interested in U.S. defense plans.

Cabinet Meeting To Decide Details

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon meets with his cabinet today and may then announce details of projected big cutbacks in federally financed construction projects as an anti-inflation measure.

Over-all, the scope of the cutback may differ from the 75 per cent figure Vice President Spiro T. Agnew gave to the National Governors' Conference in executive session Tuesday. There may be some other changes, too.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler has cautioned against further speculation until the President has final discussions with the Cabinet on the plan.

Announcement of the cutback could come today or "sometime this week," Ziegler said.

One official of Cabinet rank, presidential counselor Arthur Burns, returned from the governors' meeting in Colorado Springs, Colo., saying he strongly opposed any delay until April 1 in the withdrawal of federal aid funds for state projects such as highway building. Burns said he thinks federal and federally funded projects should be cut at the same time — immediately.

The plan Agnew outlined called for cutting off new federal construction projects now and delaying action until April 1 on the federally aided state projects.

Western White House sources have said the plan envisioned cutbacks of 75 per cent of the funds for both types of projects. No dollar figure was given, but there were estimates that it might involve as much as $2 billion.

The Cabinet also was to discuss legislation pending in Congress.

A likely topic, too, was the death of North Vietnamese leader Ho Chi Minh and its possible effect on the Vietnam war.

It was the President's second meeting with his Cabinet since he established his vacation White House here Aug. 9.

Bus Driver Strike Costs City $16,500 Per Day

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Costing the city transit system $16,500 daily, a bus driver strike continued today with union leaders and management reporting no plans to negotiate.

More than 400 bus drivers and other transit system employees struck Tuesday after union members rejected a contract offer that included a 29 cent pay raise.

It is against state law to strike city operated bus lines.

There were no indications of any immediate plans for legal action against the union. Bus system trustees had voted to wait as long as 48 hours before making a move.

The two-day waiting period ends today.

The Amalgamated Transit Union local originally sought an 85 cent hourly pay hike. Other major issues include sick leave policies, split shift schedules and vacations.

Although the strike has led to heavy traffic, police reported no major problems. Officials of the city's largest school district said about 2,000 pupils missed classes Wednesday because of the strike, compared to about 3,000 Tuesday — the first day of school.

The strike has cost the transit system about $33,000 in passenger revenues the first two days, General Manager Norman Hill said. Revenues average $16,500 a day, he said.

Union officials said they were willing to meet with management but said the transit system would have to make the first move.

"Since they're meeting so regularly, we feel that when they're really ready to discuss anything, they will come to us," a management spokesman said.

Assists In Start Of New Program

Keith Swim, director of federal programs for the Big Spring Independent School District, traveled to Brownwood and Coleman today to help set up Head Start programs in those towns. He serves five or six days during the year as a national consultant for Head Start and is instrumental in setting programs all over the state.

Pentagon Denies Any Oil Stolen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon denies charges based on a report by its own auditors—that a 1967 collapse of its system to account for U.S. fuels in Vietnam cost the government $21 million.

Defense Department spokesmen said there is no evidence any petroleum had been stolen. The denial was in response to a demand from Sen. William Proxmire D-Wis., for disciplinary action against those found responsible for what the military auditors called a complete breakdown in the accounting system.

Proxmire rejected the Defense Department's reply. "The wide open and notorious black market in stolen American goods in Vietnam gives the Pentagon explanation of the $21 million loss a very hollow ring indeed," he said.

The Wisconsin senator said he and Sen. Joseph M. Montoya D-N.M., have asked the General Accounting Office to conduct an investigation of the Defense Department's system to procure, distribute and account for oil products in South Vietnam.

The Pentagon's auditing report, issued in January, 1968, but never released to the public, made this statement:

RUMORED CANDIDATE — Former Republican National Chairman Dean Burch has been one of the most strongly rumored candidates to become chairman of the Federal Communications Commission. But Burch, reached by telephone at his home in Tucson, Ariz., said he did not intend to visit President Nixon at San Clemente, Calif.

"In view of the gross inadequacies in the preparation, distribution and control of documentation for the receipt, storage and distribution of bulk POL (petroleum) fuels and lubricants, the team concluded that there had been a complete breakdown in the accounting system . . ."

Also detailed were dozens of situations in which the auditors said it was not possible to tell if petroleum products ever got to fighting units needing them.

The petroleum auditors said that in one case, "because of incomplete terminal reporting . . . the Air Force stock fund suffered a loss of $21 million."

It said this occurred because recipients were not reported and therefore could not be billed. "This situation remains unchanged in fiscal 1968," it said.

Barry J. Shillito, assistant secretary of defense for logistics, told Proxmire in a letter that the shortage of $21 million in petroleum was only a paper loss.

Cutback Worries Governors; Politically, Can't Fight It

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — President Nixon's construction cutback plan has the nation's governors worried. But they are stumped by the problem of how, politically, they can attack an inflation-fighting effort.

The governors adjourned their 61st annual conference Wednesday with no discussion of the construction issue in formal session.

There was plenty of corridor talk, but a threatened Democratic move to put the governors on record in opposition to the cutback never materialized. As originally conceived, the cutback, expected to be announced Friday, was said to involve an immediate 75 per cent reduction in new federal construction. Federally aided projects, the item of primary interest to the states, would be curtailed by the same percentage next April 1.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew gave the conference a preview of the plan at a closed session Tuesday. Some Democrats said that move appeared designed to stifle criticism.

Democratic Gov. Robert E. McNair of South Carolina said Agnew's briefing depicted the projected cut as a step to ease inflation and thus made it difficult, if not impossible, for politicians who have been complaining about prices to dissent.

"It's grossly unfair for people to be complaining and screaming about inflation and then when the President does something to complain about it," said Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, a Democrat.

Republicans were virtually unanimous in saying they would support Nixon although they said they had misgivings about the cutback. Colorado Gov. John A. Love, newly elected chairman of the conference, said construction stoppage "could be distasteful," but added it indicates an appropriate administration move to adjust spending priorities.

One Democrat, Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland, said he anticipates that governors will rush to get new federal aid construction under way in time to beat any April 1 cutoff. The Nixon plan would affect road building, federally aided schools and hospitals and other projects.

Dirksen Is Resting Well Propulsion Branch Is ATC Nominee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen was said to be resting well after the removal of a cancerous lung tumor, but his aides could not estimate when he would be able to return to his GOP leadership duties.

Dirksen staff members said they had been told the senator would remain in Walter Reed Army Hospital for up to six weeks.

Meanwhile, Republican Senate Whip Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania was filling in for 73-year-old senior senator from Illinois.

Doctors said the tumor—four-fifths of an inch in diameter—cut from the right upper lobe of Dirksen's right lung was malignant but had not spread. Also, they said, there was no sign further surgery or treatment would be necessary.

Dirksen's son-in-law, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said Wednesday he visited the senator, and found him "bright, cheerful and alert . . . I was most encouraged."

A breathing apparatus—later removed—allowed Dirksen only to nod as Baker talked with him.

Dirksen, long a heavy cigarette smoker, has had a lengthy history of serious illness.

He left politics temporarily in 1948 after 16 years in the House because of rapidly failing eyesight. But he was elected to the Senate two years later.

Webb's propulsion branch of the 3560th Field Maintenance Squadron has been selected to be the Air Training Command's nominee for the Air Force Maintenance Award.

Lt. Gen. Sam Maddux Jr., commander of the selection from 11 ATC bases that submitted application. The first runner-up to Webb is the T-39 branch, 3510th Maintenance and Supply Group, Randolph AFB.

"You and your propulsion branch are commended for displaying the most effective and professional management ability, maintenance proficiency and professionalism," the general concluded.

Capt. Daniel Milin, propulsion officer, gave a large part of the credit to a group of non-commissioned officers and a civilian. Particular praise went to C. M. Sgt. James T. Carothers, non-commissioned officer-in-charge of the propulsion branch.

Sharing the honors were these other section leaders: M. Sgt. Lyndell George, J-85 section; T. Sgt. David Headen, J-69 section; M. Sgt. Morris L. Richardson, flight line support unit; S. M. Sgt. Frank Moore, shop supervisor; and James G. Crenshaw, test cell.

In the area of mission accomplishment, the report showed that during the year an average of 53.4 per cent of the assigned spare J-85 engines and 62.5 per cent of the J-69 spares were maintained in a serviceable condition. Moreover, through the effective utilization of manpower and space the average flow time of J-85 engines was reduced from nine days to six days; for J-69s from 5.6 days to 3.7 days.

Other accomplishments included:

The flight line support unit has had a total of 6,237 dispatches in the past year with 94.6 per cent being completed within the EMMC time standard. There was a total of 667 engines which had a final quality control inspection. Of these 96.8 per cent were rated better than unsatisfactory.

The test cell reject rate of both J-85 and J-69 engines has been found to be less than the ATC average. The J-85 engines had a 13.7 per cent rejection rate as compared to 23.4 per cent for the command. For J-69 engines, the figures were 22.8 per cent as opposed to 24.9 per cent for the command.

Houston Area Drenched With Up To Five Inches

By The Associated Press

As much as five inches of rain drenched the Conroe area north of Houston within 1 1/2 hours Wednesday evening as light to heavy showers coursed across Texas in hit-or-miss fashion.

Winds up to 35 miles per hour accompanied the Conroe downpour, but police said there was no serious damage. Some streets filled with water, slowing traffic until it could drain.

At Harper, 24 miles west of Fredericksburg in Gillespie County, 2.5 inches of rain descended in 45 minutes. The Weather Bureau said flooding occurred at low-water crossings between Harper and Kerrville.

Moisture amounts at other points a bit earlier included College Station 2.68, Houston airport 2.42 and Longview 1.13.

Most sections of the state stayed comfortably cooler meanwhile, as a result of widespread clouds and scattered thunderstorms in all parts of the state Wednesday. Top temperatures ranged from 81 degrees at Big Spring and Dallas up to 96 at Cotulla.

Continuing into the evening over some sections, unsettled weather caused a severe thunderstorm warning in Kumble and Mason counties as hail packing showers occurred around Brady, Menard and San Angelo.

Lighter rains dotted south central areas of the state around Austin, San Antonio and Victoria during the night. Occasional thundershowers popped up around such widely separated points as Port Arthur, Cotulla and Vernon.

Forecasts still called for a few showers tonight or Friday across the southern half of the state. It was expected to be clear to partly cloudy in the north.

The bidding:
East 1 ♠ West 1 NT
Pass 3 ♣ Pass 4 ♣
Pass 4 ♠ Pass ♣

Opening lead: King of ♠

A cleverly contrived defensive effort upset South's four spade contract which had left the post as an odds on favorite.

West led the king of hearts. East overtook with the ace and was on the verge of returning the jack when he paused to reflect on the situation. South's club bid had presumably marked him with four of that suit which meant that West was void of clubs. Giving West one ruff in the suit would be merely breaking even, however, for East had a natural trick in clubs. If the declarer had two hearts, East spotted a way to give his partner a second ruff provided that the latter lent his full cooperation to the project.

At trick two, East returned the jack of clubs, which West, of course, trumped. West was not the least tempted to return a diamond, inasmuch as East's play of his highest club was a clear-cut suit preference signal stating that his reentry was in hearts — the higher ranking of the two plain suits.

Altho his queen of hearts was the master card, West followed his partner's instruction and returned a small heart. East's jack won the trick and another club lead enabled West to ruff for the setting trick.

Observe that West's play of a small heart cannot lose because his partner had indicated that he has a control in the suit. If East's ace of hearts was a singleton, he would be able to ruff the next lead. If he has the ace-jack doubleton, however, it is of the essence to put him in with the jack before declarer can take charge of the proceedings.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Police thought they had quite a find—Marijuana growing in the back yard of the police department's new Ocean Beach community relations office.

But Tuesday's discovery, five days after the office opened, fizzled Wednesday when laboratory tests identified the four-foot vine as a weed member of the morning glory family.
