Probe Brutal Sex Slaying Near Laredo

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — An investigation continued today into the deaths of a young man and an unidentified woman, which officers called a "brutal sex slaying."

The bodies of Jose Gustavo Fuentes, 21, of Laredo and the young woman were found Sunday afternoon in an arroyo near Texas 359.

Sheriff's deputies said both the man and woman had been beaten and shot in the head.

The woman, believed to be about 20 years old, apparently had been sexually molested after she was killed, officers said. The word "love" was written across her breasts in blood.

Fuentes' automobile was found several hours after the bodies were discovered. Officers said the vehicle was parked near Derby Downs and Lake Casa Blanca.

RIVALS MEET AFTER WEST GERMAN ELECTION — West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger gestures as he talks with Foreign Minister Willy Brandt at cabinet meeting in Bonn today. It was the first time they met after Sunday's West German federal elections. Brandt, whose Social Democrats showed the only gains in the elections, notified the West German parliament he will try to form a new coalition government and seek election as chancellor.

Three Accused Of Killing Girl

LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP) — Deliberation was expected to begin today in the murder trial of three young men charged in the strangulation death of a 17-year-old high school girl.

Testimony ended Saturday after the state accused the defendants of killing their relative, Miss Leslye Diane Koon, to collect $25,000 in insurance.

The victim's half-brother, Roy Randolph Irwin, took the stand in his own defense. The other two defendants, William Lamont Brown and James Bruce Fisher, did not testify.

Brown and Fisher are two of Irwin's cousins. Miss Koon, described as a quiet, studious girl, was strangled to death Jan. 24 with a piece of wire.

Irwin testified that his roommate at North Texas State University had lied when he testified for the state that Fisher's car had some wire, a woman's hosiery box and some black tape in it.

Earlier testimony revealed that a $25,000 check from a Waco insurance company was given to Miss Koon's grandfather, Leroy Sparks. A bank teller said the check was cashed by Irwin, and Irwin took $24,000 in bills after putting $1,000 in a savings account for the girl's grandmother.

CHINA'S NINTH NUCLEAR BLAST?

TOKYO (AP) — The Central Meteorological Agency said Tuesday abnormal microbarographic vibrations believed to have been caused by Communist China's ninth nuclear explosion were recorded at observation stations in Japan.

Demos Name Mrs. Patman

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Democratic leaders today named Mrs. William N. Patman as their choice for Texas' new member of the National Democratic Committee.

Mrs. Patman, wife of the state senator from Ganado, succeeds Mrs. Lloyd Bentsen Jr., who resigned several months ago.

The State Executive Committee's recommendation goes to the national committee for final action.

Mrs. Patman was a member of the state committee in 1966 and 1967. She is the daughter of former State Sen. Fred Mauritz and the daughter-in-law of U.S. Rep. Wright Patman, Texarkana.

In other action today the State Democratic Committee, holding its first meeting since Jan. 26, voted to sponsor a special voter registration drive, called "Operation Everybody."

Mrs. James A. McMullen III, Fort Worth, chairman of the registration committee, said a goal would be set of registering 65 per cent of the eligible voters in each county. County precinct chairmen will receive gold, silver or bronze plaques for achieving certain goals.

In other action the state committee voted to push activities of its Democratic youth clubs and its Democratic Women's Organization. Committee reports showed recent organization of five new youth clubs and of seven women's clubs.

Witness Tells Of Threats By Bourbon

By JEAN FANNIN

Shortly before court recessed for lunch today, Mrs. Ruth Apple, manager of the Big Spring Retail Merchants Association, testified Rae Bourbon had telephoned her and said he was going to kill A. D. Blount.

"He said he couldn't find out what had happened to his dogs, and he was going to kill him (Blount)," she said.

"How many times did he say this?" Wayne Burns, district attorney, asked.

"About two or three times."

"And what did you do?" Burns asked.

"I referred him to Jack Jones, city policeman," she said.

"Mrs. Apple was the last of three witnesses who testified this morning in the second day of the murder trial of Bobby Eugene Chrisco, 23, indicted for murder with malice aforethought in Mr. Blount's death.

Bobbie Randal Crain, 22, is also under indictment for murder, and Rae Bourbon, 76, is under indictment as an accessory.

The president of the Dallas chapter of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Fred Garland, testified he had received several calls from Bourbon concerning his dogs.

"Bourbon said Blount had told him 17 dogs died in a fire, but he thought Blount was selling the dogs for scientific research. He asked me to check with research centers in Dallas to see if any of his dogs had showed up. I found out dogs are used very little for scientific research and I told him this," Garland said.

"He said he couldn't get any satisfaction when he questioned Blount and he wondered if he might get some straight answers if he confronted Blount with a gun," Garland said.

"Bourbon also said he had ridden with Pancho Villa, and guns and death were not new to him," Garland said.

The bulk of the morning's testimony was taken up with Mrs. A. D. Blount in the witness chair.

Her testimony frequently was interrupted by objections from Wayne Basden, Chrisco's attorney, and on several occasions Judge Ralph Caton called Basden and Burns into his chambers to discuss the line of questioning.

"A. D. made an agreement with Rae Bourbon to keep about 32 dogs for him. His trailer had broken down and Mr. Bourbon said he had to be in Oklahoma City that night (Nov. 7, 1967)," she said.

"A. D. took Mr. Bourbon to the bus station and a wrecker hauled the trailer full of animals to the Pet-A-Zoo," Mrs. Blount testified.

She also said when the trailer was opened, she and her husband found approximately 70 dogs, five cats and two skunks.

"What kind of condition were they in?" Burns asked.

"Terrible," she said.

"What kind of dogs were they?" Burns asked.

"There wasn't a thoroughbred among them," she said. "They were all mixed-breed dogs."

She said when Bourbon returned to pick up the dogs two weeks later, her husband would not let him have them because Bourbon didn't have enough money to pay the board bill.

Mrs. Blount said she and her husband eventually took legal action and were awarded possession of the dogs.

"And then what happened to them?" Burns asked.

"The Pet-A-Zoo Corporation became legal owners of the animals Feb. 10, and we gave them (See TRIAL, Page 6-A, Col. 4)

Brandt Says He Will Try To Shape New Coalition

BONN (AP) — Foreign Minister Willy Brandt, whose Social Democrats showed the only gains in West Germany's federal elections Sunday, notified his parliament today he will try to form a new coalition government and seek election as chancellor.

Brandt issued a statement saying: "Taking into account the results of the Bundestag election, in connection with the particularly controversial questions of the election campaign, I intend to seek the approval of the majority of the Bundestag for my election as federal chancellor."

IN 39 YEARS

At the same time, the Social Democrats notified federal President Gustav Heinemann they would try to form a coalition government with the small Free Democratic party, breaking their present alliance with Chancellor Kurt George Kiesinger's Christian Democrats.

If they are successful and Brandt succeeds Kiesinger, it would be the first German government in 39 years to be headed by the Social Democratic party.

The Social Democratic party (SPD) won 42.7 per cent of the vote—a gain of 3.4 per cent since the 1965 elections. The Christian Democrats (CDU) won 46.1 per cent—a loss of 1.5 per cent and not enough for them to rule alone.

BIGGEST LOSER

The biggest loser was Walter Scheel's Free Democratic party (FDP), which captured 5.8 per cent of the vote compared to 9.5 per cent in the last elections.

The Free Democrats now have 30 seats in the 496-seat Bundestag or lower house of the parliament. If Scheel agrees to form a coalition with Brandt, the two parties could outvote the Christian Democrats 254 to 242 in the Bundestag. It chooses the next chancellor.

Brandt said, "The Christian Democrats did not win but lost a coalition between the Christian Democrats and the Free Democrats would be a coalition of losers. This would not correspond with the results."

Kiesinger declared himself satisfied with the outcome, but declined comment on coalition possibilities.

CABINET MEETS

Neither Brandt nor Kiesinger completely ruled out the possibility of renewing their present partnership, although Brandt favors the coalition with the Free Democrats.

Formal coalition talks were not expected to begin before Tuesday. The present government stays in office until Oct. 19.

The cabinet meets today to decide whether currency exchanges will be open. They were closed in the last days of the campaign when upward revaluation of the mark became an issue between the Christian Democrats and the Social Democrats.

KEY ISSUE

One key issue in the election was the revaluation of the German mark and confusion still surrounded it today. The Economics Ministry announced the money markets would open and they did for a brief period. Then they closed again when the government ordered the central bank to withdraw from dealings.

The announcement came after a meeting between Kiesinger, who opposes revaluation, and Economics Minister Karl Schiller, a Social Democrat, who favors it. Kiesinger had wanted the closing of exchanges, begun Thursday, to continue today. Schiller had opposed it.

Red Purge Sweeps Dubcek, Backers From Leadership

PRAGUE (AP) — A weekend purge that swept reformer Alexander Dubcek and his supporters from Communist party and government leadership spread today throughout Czechoslovakia.

Reports reached Prague of new regional shakeups from eastern Slovakia to northwest Bohemia in the Communist party and in the National Front, which controls organizations outside the party.

Czechoslovakia's Communist bosses, toying the pro-Soviet Line, had promised a sweeping party shakeup of "social organizations, state and economic apparatus, science and culture" in announcing the purges Sunday.

President Ludvik Svoboda said a new government would be announced today. Nine cabinet members were thrown out or had their jobs abolished.

Dubcek, 47, the former Communist party boss and still very popular, was ousted from the ruling Presidium and removed as president of the National Assembly. But he retained his seat on the party's Central Committee.

Josef Smrkovsky, one of Dubcek's closest aides in the 1968 reform era from January until the Aug. 22 Soviet invasion, was removed as vice president of the National Assembly.

A purge list showed that 29 men who backed Dubcek while he ran the country have left the Central Committee.

The Czechoslovak news agency CTK said party chief Gustav Husak told a plenary meeting of the Central Committee last Thursday that new membership cards will be issued and that a future plenary session will deal with such a proposal.

Husak said, according to CTK, that the card replacement would not only be "a formal act" but would rid the party of rank-and-file members "who are unable to get rid of views hostile to our teachings." He said every member's attitude regarding political views, work and character would be assessed.

Smrkovsky and former Foreign Minister Jiri Hajek were among nine men expelled from the Central Committee—three of them being thrown out of the party itself. Nineteen other liberal members resigned under pressure. The 29th to leave was Planning Minister Frantisek Vlasak, who was expelled as an alternate member.

Josef Kempny, 49, a conservative, replaced Dubcek within the Presidium and was one of six deputy premiers named in the new government. Kempny also was among 13 new conservatives placed on the Central Committee in a distinct shift toward orthodox Communist control.

Attorney Claims Curiosity Should Not Justify Autopsy

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A judge took under advisement today a new effort by the parents of Mary Jo Kopechne to prevent an autopsy "on their daughter's body."

Judge Bernard C. Brominski of Common Pleas Court announced the action after an attorney for the Kopechnes argued that the public's curiosity about how the young woman died in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car should not justify an autopsy.

Brominski gave no indication when he might rule on the latest motion, although he said attorneys and news media would be alerted 24 hours in advance of a final finding.

"There must be proof of a crime and that an autopsy can prove or disprove the guilt or innocence of one suspected of criminal conduct," said Joseph F. Flanagan, attorney for the Kopechnes who moved for dismissal of a Massachusetts petition for exhumation and autopsy.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Kopechne of Berkeley Heights, N.J., were in the courtroom of Common Pleas Judge Bernard C. Brominski when arguments began today. It was the first time they have been present during a legal fight against disturbing their daughter's grave.

Flanagan repeated his claim that Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis of New Bedford, Mass., had failed to provide sufficient evidence that a crime was committed when Miss Kopechne died in the July 18 car accident, on Chappaquiddick Island, off the Massachusetts coast.

Dinis has said that there was blood on Miss Kopechne's blouse and in her mouth and nose and this "may or may not be consistent with death by drowning."

Death by drowning was the ruling made by a Massachusetts medical examiner. No autopsy was performed.

Flanagan said that the alleged new evidence that Dinis provided in an amendment to his petition still was insufficient.

"The test of whether or not an autopsy will be ordered cannot be based upon guesswork or speculation," Flanagan told the court.

Dinis was not in the courtroom. His argument against dismissal of the autopsy petition was made by Armand Fernandes, an assistant district attorney from Dukes County, Mass.

The Kopechnes last month had asked for a dismissal of the Dinis petition but Brominski, in an opinion on Sept. 3, turned the parents down and ordered the district attorney to provide more proof. Then Dinis amended his petition with allegations that investigators had learned of the presence of blood after Miss Kopechne was buried in nearby Larksville.

Flanagan noted that Dinis had scheduled an inquest.

This fact alone "is not sufficient to justify an autopsy," Flanagan said.

Flanagan said that "Unless an inquest is to be held, there is no need for an autopsy."

Flanagan asked Brominski to postpone action on the autopsy petition until after the inquest.

KOPECHNE'S LEAVE HEARING — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kopechne, parents of Mary Jo Kopechne who died in an automobile driven by Sen. Edward Kennedy, leave the Luzerne County Court room in Wilkes Barre today following a hearing. The hearing was on a petition to dismiss a motion for exhumation and autopsy of Mary Jo Kopechne.

The United Fund rose to a total of $30,826.34 during the weekend, according to Harry Sawyer, campaign chairman. He said participation has been much slower this year than in former years; thought the formal drive is half over, less than 30 per cent of the goal has been reached.

Exercise To Restore Firm Tone To Bust

By MARY SUE MILLER
A lovely writes: Under my doctor's care I have lost 50 pounds. I feel wonderful and look years younger. My only complaint is my bosomline. Lift and firmness were lost in the reducing process. Advice, please.

The answer: Uplift and firm tone can be re-established with exercises designed for the purpose. Improvement takes time and faithful work. But it's worth the effort, particularly in this season of revealing necklines and peek-a-boo materials. These routines do a good job:

1. Stand erect, arms out to sides at shoulder level, with palms up. Now imagine that you hold a ten-pound object in either hand. (Under no circumstances hold anything, not even a feather.)
- Next, slowly lift arms about three inches, resisting the imagined weight. You do it correctly when you feel a strong pull through the arms, the underbreast muscles and the mid-back. Relax and repeat from five to ten times.
2. Perform the above exercise, lying back down on the floor, with knees bent so that your heels can "dig" into the floor. Ten to 15 times.

As you work out, you will come to realize that the routine operates on a sort of remote control principle. And it must be so, for the bosom depends on the support of the pectoral muscles — a remote control arrangement.

TRIMMERS, SLIMMERS
Let me help you with the problem of a too-fleshy arm, chest or upper back by sending you my leaflet, "Trimmers and Slimmers." It contains a set of coordinated spot reducing exercises — easy to do, quick to get results. Just write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin.

ANTIQUE CLOCK RESTORED BY MANSION—Texas' First Lady, Mrs. Preston Smith, watches as Huntsville prison inmate David Jackson, 24, from Fort Worth, uses a level to adjust an antique clock which has been restored by Jackson and four other inmates at Huntsville. Mrs. Smith discovered the clock in storage at the mansion and asked that it be restored. It was donated originally in 1943 by Mrs. Cleveland Sewell of Houston, and now reportedly valued by antique dealers at between $80,000 and $100,000.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Gals:
I'm bursting to tell you all about those walls in my kitchen — which were painted only last year, may I say, with that water-base paint so many of us use.

Soon as you finish reading this, go look at yours and see if you find what I did — namely, bare spots around light switches, behind the corner wastebaskets, the kitchen table and chairs — all caused by too much scrubbing with harsh cleansers which have removed the paint.

Well, here's what I did. I "patch-painted" every one of these spots.

First I scrubbed like mad getting off what soil I could. Next, I got a NEW sponge, wet it thoroughly with water, and wrung it out good. Dipped it in some of the leftover paint which I ALWAYS save after a paint job.

Then I pretended I was washing the wall again. I started in the MIDDLE of each soiled spot with lots of paint, and using a circular motion, spread it out. This is called "feathering." But I call it patch-painting.

You can NOT do this with a dry sponge. Or an old one that has been used in your kitchen. Has grease and soap film in it, remember?

When the paint dried, I couldn't even tell the difference. My kitchen looked clean and bright as a new penny and only for the price of a new sponge.

But ladies (and I say this because I know quite well that it will be YOU who do this job), do, please, wear gloves for this. Do what I say this time, and not as I did. Heloise and cover the crumbs with the desired amount of cold pudding. The remaining pudding can be used when convenient on freshly crumbled crackers. Miss E. Houghton

Dear Heloise:
Here's a homemade lunch pail for children that's easy to make.

I punched a small hole in each side of an empty five-pound coffee can. Then I cut an old leather belt of mine in half and used the end with holes for a handle.

I just put a screw and nut through the first and last belt hole and attached it to the can. The plastic lid keeps everything fresh and I can also see "what's for lunch" easily. 12 years old

Britain's Labor Party Conclave Opens Today

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — Britain's Labor party convention opens today with a call to quit squabbling and unite to win the next national elections, but discord is expected on at least two major issues.

These are Prime Minister Harold Wilson's avowed aim to lead Britain into Europe's six-nation Common Market and proposed state action to curb runaway wage increases.

In a speech prepared for the opening of the 68th annual convention, party Chairman Irene White said: "We as a labor movement are clearly determined that we will not once again hand to the Conservatives the chance to reap what we have sown."

"That is what we did partly through our own fissions and rivalries in the 1950s. It would be stupid as well as tragic if we did it again."

The 1,200 convention delegates represent every sector of Britain's 6 million-strong labor movement—the unions, socialist party branches and affiliates.

Wilson and his colleagues struggled hard all weekend to avoid all possible controversial issues, or at least keep them muted. Although adverse convention votes would not obligate his government to change its policies, they could cause major setbacks in Labor's election drive.

National elections must be held within 18 months but are expected by the fall of 1970.

A 9,000-word policy document for the five-day rally appeared designed to avoid serious party splits on the issues.

It pledged that Laborites will be kept "fully informed on developments" relating to Common Market negotiations and promised "to take fully into account the views of the party in the country before firm decisions are made."

Division within the party convention has been building up over new conditions set for British entry in the Common Market by an alliance of left-wingers, labor unions and other anti-Market elements.

Fearing the nation's living standards will fall if Britain joins the six-nation group, they are demanding new safeguards for Britain's balance of payments, its cost of living, its national health and social security systems.

They also insist Britain must have the right to make its own independent economic and foreign policy decisions.

Wilson's men contend these conditions would represent impossible negotiating obstacles and seek the blessing of the convention for the government to negotiate the best terms possible.

to an animal research center Feb. 18 or 19," she said. "Their board bill was more than $2,000, and he had paid us about $600 or $700," she said.

In response to a question about phone calls made by Bourbon to Blount, Mrs. Blount said she could not testify to what Bourbon said to her husband, but that he purchased a gun right after the first phone call.

"How long had you been married?" Burns asked.

"It would have been 18 years in February," she said.

"Had your husband ever owned a gun before?"

"No."

Mrs. Blount testified she and her 16-year-old son were the only ones up when someone knocked on the door about 10:30 p.m. Dec. 9, 1968; however, her husband got out of bed to answer the door.

"He went out into the hall and said 'Who is it?', and then he came back in and pulled on his pants and slipped on his shoes. He had a jacket laying across a chair and he put it on and went back to the door."

"Where were you?" Burns asked.

"I was sitting on the couch watching television. Gary came in and said 'Mama, there's a man holding a gun on daddy.'"

"What did you do?"

"I jumped up and ran towards the door. A shot was fired just before I got to the door."

"What did you see," Burns said.

"A. D. turned around clutching his chest and a man was going out the door, closing it."

"Did you see him?"

"His head was turned sort of to the side, I just saw the top part of his head — he had dark hair."

"Then all you saw was a man closing the door," Burns said.

"I was more concerned about A. D.," Mrs. Blount said. "He was standing but sort of slumped over. I got him back into the living room and he felt into the floor. I asked him who did it, and he said 'a kid. That's all he ever said.'"

Mrs. Blount estimated approximately a minute or a minute and a half lapsed from the time she heard the knock on the door until she heard the gunshot.

A bridal party of about 150 hippies who congregated every weekend near the Volker Fountain in midtown Kansas City made up the bridal party. The white thread around the couple is part of the ritual.

DEATHS

Mrs. Geraldine Fry, Found Dead By Father

Mrs. Geraldine Laverne Fry, 28, who was found dead by her father late Sunday, died of carbon monoxide asphyxiation, according to the ruling of Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter this morning.

Slaughter said he based his ruling on the results of an autopsy, which he ordered following the discovery of the body in a locked garage at 2800 Calvin. He said it appeared the young woman had been dead 24 hours or more when found.

W. H. McMurray, the woman's father, discovered the body about 9 p.m. Sunday, according to police Capt. Stanley Bogard. He said all doors into the garage had been locked, and that McMurray gained entrance by forcing open a side door.

Mrs. Fry was found sitting in a convertible automobile, with the top down, Bogard said. Detective Sherrill Farmer said Mrs. Fry's whereabouts had been accounted for up until early Saturday morning.

Services for Mrs. Fry are pending with Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. She was born July 15, 1941 in Big Spring. Her husband, Warrant Officer Roger N. Fry, is currently with the Army in Thailand.

Mrs. McDaniel To Delay Resignation As Librarian

Mrs. Hank McDaniel, Howard County Librarian for 16 years, submitted her resignation to County Commissioners Court this morning, but it was refused until the first of the year.

McDaniel agreed with the decision in view of the fact that she might lose 16-years retirement pay by resigning two months early.

The commissioners made several other decisions in their regular meeting this morning, including rejection of an offer from West-Tex Telephone Co. to bury a line which must be moved for a new county road.

The proposed road, west of Knott, will require that nearly a mile of telephone line and poles to be moved several feet. Jim Gates, West-Tex spokesman, suggested letting bids on the needed change but instead of actually moving the line, let that amount of money apply to burying the cable. His company would pay the difference. Gates explained that his company policy is to bury all telephone lines possible.

County commissioners rejected the offer saying "if we're paying for moving the poles, we might as well move them."

Gates was at the meeting to answer a charge by Commissioner Bill Tume that his equipment was damaging a county road east of Fairview while laying new cables. He said he would instruct his contractors to put the road back "just like the commissioners want it."

The commissioners also discussed the problem of a 1962 Warco maintainer in Ray Nichols' precinct which is reportedly "worn out."

They authorized a temporary $50 repair to keep the machine running at least another week and postponed decision of trading or rebuilding until next Monday's meeting.

Party Meeting

The local chapter of the American Party will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the First Federal Savings and Loan Building. All interested persons are invited.

OIL REPORT

Nell Brown Has Glasscock Well

Nell Brown, Big Spring's first woman wildcatter, appeared Monday to have added oil producer to her title.

Her No. 1 Carter, a half mile outpost to the Carter pool eight miles north of Garden City, was preparing to run tubing, set pump and tank batteries for testing.

The venture drilled into the lower San Andres at 2,665 feet with cable tool and was still in this zone at 2,671 when operator halted to complete.

Oil rose 550 feet in the hole in about 50 minutes. It tested 35 degrees, which indicates a different formation than other tests in the area which have 28 gravity oil in the upper San Andres around 2,630. The Brown No. 1 Carter also had a show in the upper zone but did not test.

Location is 1,190 from the south and 1,760 feet from the west lines of section 8-33-3S, T&P, and is half a mile northeast of the Duffy No. 1 Carter, a lower San Andres producer.

Robinson Drilling Co. of Big Spring has finished No. 1 Winnie Porch in the Hutto-South (Wolf-camp) pool of Howard County for an initial pumping potential of 145 barrels of 38.1 gravity oil per day and no water with a gas-oil ratio of 660-1. Operator acidized the project with 10,000 gallons.

The 4½-inch casing was set at the total depth of 7,944 feet and perforated at 7,642-60 feet. Wellsite is 660 feet from the north and 2,173 feet from the east lines of section 41-31-1N, T&P survey, four miles east of Big Spring.

Mercury Stolen

Eight pounds of liquid mercury were reported stolen from two area sub-stations of the Pioneer Natural Gas Co. Sunday. Howard County Sheriff A. N. Standard said his department is investigating both incidents, and that he has some physical evidence to work with.

WEATHER FORECAST — It will rain Monday night in southern Florida, in the Great Lakes region and in the central Rocky Mountain area. It will be cooler in the northern Plains and warmer in the Midwest.

Food Stamps Plan Called 'A Long Shot'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers and critics of a liberalized national food stamp program, successful last week in the Senate, rate its chances for passage by the House at less than even.

"It's a long shot," said Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash. "I think we will pass something much less far-reaching."

A major stumbling block is the House Agriculture Committee, to which the Senate-passed measure first must go.

"I'd be tremendously surprised if our committee approved that type of legislation. In fact, it would astound me," said Chairman W. R. Poage, D-Tex., an opponent of the Senate program.

The version approved by the Senate exceeds by more than $2 billion the amount proposed by President Nixon for food stamps over the next three years. It also would provide free stamps to families whose incomes fall under $60 a month.

Nixon Tells World Bankers U.S. Will Battle Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon pledged today that the United States will do its part to help solve the world's trade and finance problems, "including dealing with the inflation which for too long has drained the vitality of this country."

Nixon's message was delivered by Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy at the opening session of the annual meeting of four major international financial and development organizations.

He said the four—the World Bank, the International Development Association, the International Finance Corporation and the International Monetary Fund—were "examples to all of international cooperation in action."

Their three major tasks, he said, were to restore the stability of price levels, to attack obstacles to international development, and to assure the financial framework for international trade and investments.

World Bank President Robert S. McNamara, in a speech to the meeting, said there are "serious, worsening conditions in the underdeveloped, undereducated and overpopulated parts of the world. He said only a broad program of advice as well as money can help."

McNamara, the former U.S. secretary of defense completing his first full year as head of the Washington-based bank, said his findings on recent trips to Latin America, Asia and Africa confirmed the new course he charted last year.

"Everything I saw supported our decision in the bank to give a new emphasis to population planning, 'educational advance and agricultural growth,'" he said.

But he said he also found that while solving those problems is fundamental, "no such strategy will be complete unless it provides for an attack on the interrelated problems of unemployment, urbanization and industrialization."

Price Of Sunday Paper Increased

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Times-Picayune says that because of higher production costs it will increase the price of its Sunday paper from 20 to 25 cents, effective with the edition of Oct. 5.

"The cost of newsprint, labor, wages, transportation and almost everything else that goes into making of your Sunday newspaper... has reached an all-time high," the paper explained.

The paper said the increase will be reflected in the newstand price as well as the weekly and monthly rates for daily and Sunday home-delivered subscriptions.

Adlai E. Stevenson III To Seek Seat In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state treasurer who is the son of the former governor and two-time Democratic presidential nominee—is expected to declare himself a candidate in November.

If Pucinski decides to challenge him, it could set up only the second contested statewide Democratic primary in some 35 years, according to Illinois political observers.

Pucinski's office, meanwhile, reports heavy mail from both Chicago and downstate urging the congressman to run. There had previously been rumors he would run against Republican Sen. Charles H. Percy in 1972.

Smith, speaker of the Illinois House until his appointment by Gov. Richard Ogilvie, also faces a possible primary fight. But one of his strongest potential opponents—Rep. John Anderson of Rockford—says he will support Smith for the last four years of Dirksen's term rather than split the party.

But he may face a primary challenge in March from a Chicago congressman.

Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, 50, is considering a bid next year for the seat now occupied by Sen. Ralph T. Smith, the Republican named to succeed Dirksen.

Demos Pick Sides In Leadership Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats already are beginning to choose up sides in a leadership contest that will erupt when Speaker John W. McCormack steps down.

There is no indication the 77-year-old McCormack has retirement in mind, but the possibility that he will make this Congress his last is enough to start the jockeying for position.

Because of McCormack's sensitivity on the subject nothing is being said or done openly, but it is a lively topic of discussion in private talks in a number of offices.

Majority Leader Carl Albert, who avoids such talk or meetings, appears solidly in line to succeed McCormack. The fight shapes up as one to replace Albert as majority leader—providing that Democrats still have control of the House when the showdown comes.

Moderate, urban-oriented Democrats are determined to put one of their members in the position. This would mean shunting aside Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, who as party whip is a rung behind Albert on the current leadership ladder.

The more conservative Democrats, largely southern based, would like to see a majority leader closer to their views.

For years the most likely candidate of conservative Democrats has been Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. But Mills' ambition is to be speaker, not majority leader.

Until recently, it appeared Mills might be in a position to challenge Albert as McCormack's successor. His already great stature was enhanced by his performance in putting through the big tax reform bill, and Albert seemed unwilling to emerge from McCormack's shadow.

Tax Office Gets A Late Start

The Howard County tax office was a month late starting its tax rolls this year due to county re-evaluation, but assessor-collector Zirah LeFevre said Friday that the tax bills will be mailed by Wednesday when the three per cent discount for early payment begins.

"We've been working from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. for the last month," Mrs. LeFevre said. "We haven't had any mechanical breakdowns so we're in good shape."

A three per cent discount on taxes applies to bills paid during October, a two per cent discount to those paid in November, and a one per cent discount applies to bills paid in December. Taxes are due in January.

Bomb Blasts Mayor's Home

MONTREAL (AP) — A terrorist bomb exploded at the home of Mayor Jean Drapeau today less than a week after 24-hour police surveillance there was discontinued.

Mrs. Drapeau and her 21-year-old son Michel, asleep upstairs in the two-story residence in the district of Rosemount, were not harmed.

The explosion, at 5:13 a.m., shattered the residence in the area known as Cite Jardin. The mayor told reporters it appeared the house would have to be demolished.

Placed at the rear of the residence in a stairwell, the bomb—with an equivalent power of 10 sticks of dynamite, police said—was heard five miles away in downtown Montreal.

Police surveillance at the Drapeau residence had begun during last summer's surge of terrorist bombings.

Feeling Returns To Severed Arm

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Jack Marzo can wiggle the fingers on his left arm. That's pretty good news for a man whose left arm was cut off in an accident April 30.

The 57-year-old mine foreman lost his arm in an accident, but it was reattached the same day at Lutheran Hospital.

Now, he says he has feeling in the arm an inch below the elbow and can wiggle his fingers a little.

GIVE THE UNITED WAY

A Devotion For Today . . .

He has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted . . . to give them a garland instead of ashes. (Isaiah 61:1, 3, RSV)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, eternal God, that through the redeeming grace of Jesus, blots can be made to contribute to beauty of character. We praise Thee for the love that judges a life not by its blunders, but by its entirety. Help us in turn to place a garland of understanding around the mistakes of others, knowing how easy it is to err. In the name of Christ. Amen.

Party Leadership Fixed In Congress

It is frustratingly difficult for a major political party to build up cohesive national leadership for a coherent program when it does not control what Theodore Roosevelt called that "bully pulpit," the presidency.

When a party is out of the White House, its policy-making breaks up among its congressional leaders (especially if it controls Congress), the state parties (especially where it controls the governorships), its national committee (usually the weakest force), and factional groups aligning behind presidential aspirants.

The new Democratic Policy Council set up by Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, the party's national chairman, is headed by Hubert H. Humphrey, unsuccessful 1968 presidential candidate and still titular head of the party, with Harris and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the 1968 vice presidential candidate, as vice chairmen. And its executive committee has three senators and three House members, outnumbering three governors and two mayors, but none of the official party majority leadership in Congress.

Even so, the real national leadership of the Democratic party seems likely to be centered mainly in its congressional leadership, at least until and if a frontrunner for the 1972 presidential nomination develops. It seems unlikely that such leadership can be vested by fiat in a 20-member committee, however helpful it may otherwise be in assisting party candidates in the 1970 and 1972 elections.

Legislature Could Stand Reform

The Texas Legislature may not have established a trend when it reprimanded Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler Sept. 9 by a vote of 64 to 49. But it did give clear warning that its authority of legislative oversight properly extends to any area of state government.

Sadler was reprimanded for "misleading a House committee into believing he had signed a contract with the salvager of sunken treasure off Padre Island in deep South Texas." As early as October, 1968, Sadler publicly claimed that he had signed a contract with Platoro, Ltd., Inc., an Indiana corporation, for a 50-50 division of articles recovered from a Spanish galleon sunk off Padre Island more than 400 years ago. He told a House committee earlier this year that he had signed the contract and asked that it be ratified by the Legislature. He even supplied the committee with a purported copy of the contract, although it was undated and unsigned. At his invitation a representative of this newspaper visited his office and witnessed a signed copy of a contract with Platoro. But Sadler later insisted that he had torn up the contract as soon as this newspaper's representative viewed it. Under the circumstances Sadler deserved no less than a reprimand for his evasive and misleading conduct.

Does this presage a new era of legislative supervision of the conduct of state government? Perhaps not, but it should.

As it now operates, the Texas

Legislature is largely subservient to the presiding officers of its two houses, the speaker of the House and the lieutenant governor. The presiding officers have unprecedented authority that could never have been contemplated by the framers of the Texas Constitution. They appoint committee members and committee chairmen, without having to consult anyone else. They appoint conference committee members who are supposed to adjust differences between Senate and House versions of a measure, but who often write a completely new bill to suit their fancy. The presiding officers have almost complete power of life and death over legislation.

It is little wonder, then, that special interests are willing to spend up to $100,000 just to elect a House speaker, or contribute generously to a campaign for lieutenant governor.

The House and the Senate and their members are the exclusive guardians of their status and destiny. House and Senate members, for instance, can create a committee on committees, as the U.S. House of Representatives did not break the autocratic power of Speaker Joe Cannon, and take that power away from the speaker and lieutenant governor. The Senate can vote to set up a calendar of pending bills and require consideration of those bills as they appear in order on the calendar, eliminating the need for recognition from the presiding officer and a two-thirds vote to bring a bill to the floor.

Burleson Reports

New Approach To School Devotions

By OMAR BURLESON, M.C.

WASHINGTON — The decision of the Supreme Court in 1962, banning the use of prescribed prayer by the New York State Board of Regents, continues to be subject to interpretation in its application.

There is no question that the court said in this particular case, that an official body at any level of government, could not prescribe a set prayer or scriptural reading. This, coupled with the assumption that the attendance of students was compulsory, was the basis of that decision.

THE QUESTION immediately arose, and remains undetermined in spite of subsequent cases, as to whether the New York case became "the law of the Land" or just the law in the particular case. Does it prohibit any sort or kind of religious practice in public schools established by custom and tradition in the particular community?

The opinions and threats of Mrs.

Billy Graham

I would like to be a Christian and lead a Christian life but I have no faith. How do I get it?

J.L.

You say you have no faith, but I have never met a person without faith. Faith is something we exercise, not only every day, but every hour of the day. It takes faith to drive a car, to walk down the street, to order from a mail order house, or to do as simple an act as to get up in the morning. It takes faith to open a can of food, for you must believe that it is what it is represented to be before you consume it.

Faith in Christ is human faith, something we all have lifted to the highest level. The Bible says, "Lay hold on eternal life." We take the faith that we ordinarily put in the common everyday things and direct it toward Christ. "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent," said our Lord and Savior. And when our faith rests in Him, and Him alone, there is no wavering or disappointment.

Builders Claim They're Scapegoats

NEW YORK (AP) — As the housing market cools off, chilled by high interest rates and tight money, the tempers of the nation's builders are heating to the point at which blood boils.

As one home builders' representatives put it: "We're tired of getting wronged out every few years in anti-inflation programs. Builders are angry about being made the scapegoats of financial policy."

They have a point. A rather traditional way to cool an overheated economy is to make money tight or more expensive. And when that happens, the housing market almost invariably is the first to suffer.

High mortgage rates not only discourage buyers, they also create a difficult situation for sellers. If buyers can't get money, sellers can't sell.

The result of such inactivity can be disastrous for work crews. Most builders are small and cannot afford to keep carpenters on the payroll if there isn't work for them. The carpenter soon finds his skills are eagerly sought in other industries. He and the builder part forever.

Something of the sort is now happening, and the builders are quick to point out that all society—not just homebuilders—is suffering.

They cite a curious contradiction: While America is running a deficit of hundreds of thousands of housing units, government policy continues to force the housing industry deeper into a recession.

From all over the country, builders are scheduled to bring their protest to Washington Tuesday under the aegis of the National Association of Home Builders. Congressmen are expected to get an earful.

"Temperatures are high," said a spokesman for the association. "But we'll try to keep it on a businesslike basis."

The biggest gripe, it seems, is that "money is going to everything but mortgages," according to the association spokesman. "We contend that we've got to divert $10 billion into housing."

The money might not be going to "everything" else, but for certain a lot of it is going into plant expansion, borrowed by large corporations that manage to pay the high rates that lesser borrow cannot afford.

Some of the builders' suggestions for channeling money their way involve legislation, others involve pressure on private areas of the marketplace.

One sweeping change that some builders want to push: A rollback by commercial banks of recent increase in the prime lending rate, now 8.5 per cent.

Banks, being commercial rather than altruistic enterprises, prefer to make loans at the highest rates of interest, and naturally do not like to invest in home mortgages, many of which are held to 7.5 per cent by state laws.

Since savings and loan associations provide much of the money for housing, the builders are expected also to seek government support for a plan to exempt from income tax much of the interest earning on S&L deposits.

No Room For Airplanes

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Fat is a penalty if you are seeking business success. Although one out of every three executives is classed as overweight, only one out of every 10 in the top financial brackets is as much as 10 pounds above normal weight.

Airplanes as well as automobiles are now having trouble finding free wheeling space. It is estimated that in the next five years alone some 700 new airports will be needed in the United States and most major airports already in existence should double their capacity to handle traffic safely.

The more prosperous the nation becomes, the more it forks out for the losers in life's chase of the almighty dollar. A study by Tax Foundation, Inc., revealed that in 1968 federal, state and local governments spent nearly $18 billion on welfare programs for the needy, almost 2 1/2 times the amount spent in 1960.

To Your Good Health

'He's Concerned,' But Won't Help Himself

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Three years ago my husband, aged 42, was told he was suffering from "coronary insufficiency." Although it was suggested that he give up smoking (at least two packs a day), follow a moderate diet, and avoid stress, he has done very little in any of these areas to help himself.

He is concerned. Of this I am certain, as he now mentions heart transplants. Although he has collapsed, his heart has not suffered any visible damage. What are your views? — Mrs. C.W.

My views? My views are that I can't understand the way a man's mind works when nature gives him a fair warning and he won't pay any attention.

I don't know what you mean by saying that his heart has not suffered any "visible damage." Heart trouble isn't like measles, with spots making the illness visible.

But damage to his heart is "visible" by means of tests which he obviously has had. His heart is damaged to the extent that it cannot supply the full normal output that it should. That is why he had the verdict of "insufficiency." His heart still limps along — and at times the demands run so far ahead of his heart's ability to meet them that he collapses.

If he had a rickety old car, would he continue to drive it as hard as possible? Or would he try to nurse it along, driving a bit slower, and taking it easy on rough roads and steep hills?

He knows the answer to that! So why doesn't he apply the same common sense to his heart? Smoking puts a known strain on the heart. Giving up tobacco makes it easier for the heart. Moderate diet takes further strain off the heart. Excessive tension is known to be harmful. Avoiding stress is helpful.

Talking about heart transplants is foolishness on his part.

I don't mean that transplants are foolish, we learn more and more as the experiments go on. But they are still experimental.

If you run a rickety old car too hard and it goes to pieces, you can buy another car. But you cannot, yet, "buy a new heart."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I understand that some people have to take thyroid all their lives. Is this correct? I was told so by a nurse. — Mrs. M.A.

Yes, that very often is the case. When the thyroid gland is underactive and not producing sufficient thyroid hormone, this deficiency can be made up by giving thyroid in tablet form.

This doesn't correct the gland's condition, but it does bring things back to a status that would exist if the thyroid were behaving normally.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of his booklet, "How To Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim

Celebrities With Feet Of Clay

This apt that: They say that you are far better off in this life never to meet a celebrity.

The celebrity — be he a movie actor, professional athlete or a man of letters — has a way of not being what he should be. He comes out all too human.

Most of them, unless they play tackle for the New York Giants, are too short. The majority, regrettably, are too abrupt and sometimes downright unmanly.

They know they are too much like the rest of us to be interesting and nothing like the images their press agents have created for them.

IT'S DIFFICULT to talk to them, mainly because if you fawn over them they've heard it all before. They often doubt your sincerity and not without reason. All too often, you are apt to go away and talk about their shortcomings and the fact that they're probably "over the hill."

You are prone to be shocked if you discover they drink too much and, invariably, they do. Being in the "spotlight" tends to wear on one's nerves and a celebrity finds he needs something to fight the battle with attrition.

If many of them don't drink to excess, chances are they resort to drugs occasionally, if not regularly.

You're better off, admiring them from afar and keeping your illusions.

SOME ONE SAID recently that when the Pope of Rome downgraded some of the church's saints, a jewelry store in one of our cities put a sign in the window, which read:

"Mr. Christopher Medals — One-Half Off."

IN THIS advanced age, when ice chests can be carried within the car, you see a surprising number of old-fashioned canvas water bags lashed to radiators or front bumpers of automobiles out on the highways.

I KNOW ONE fellow who is against all forms of capital punishment, including having to live in Washington, D.C.

NO DOUBT about it: This country is going to the dogs. Take New York state, for instance. That commonwealth has more canines than there are humans in some other states.

According to a state agency which ran a census, the 1969 dog population in New York exceeded one million. Sixteen states can't boast of that many residents.

When We Have A Direct Election—

WASHINGTON — In 197X the American people, having adopted the Twenty-Sixth Amendment, the country set out to choose a President by direct election.

"For better or worse," said the National Review, "we're never going to be the same Federal Union."

"The new system verges on insanity," declared Theodore White, substantially repeating what he'd written in "The Making of the President, 1968."

MR. WHITE'S misgivings had already taken form. In the small State of Alaska the theory of one man, one vote had been stretched to read more voters, more votes by enfranchising every person over the age of 14, including those in jails and lunatic asylums. In Cook County, Ill., an election board known as the Forty Thieves had predetermined what figures the voting machines should tabulate, and had sold this information to the Mafia which controlled the betting concession at Las Vegas. The minorities everywhere were in distress, for they had lost the leverage once granted them in the old Electoral College system.

SINCE DIRECT election had become a national law, there had to be national law-enforcement. All of the 167,000 voting precincts required Federal surveillance, and for the first time in history we had a national police force. The ancient J. Edgar Hoover, along with the superannuated General Lewis Hershey, had been called out of retirement to meet the crisis. Hoover said he required 30 armed guards, as poll-watchers at each of the 167,000 precincts as well as reserve forces. Hershey applied his expert selective service methods to supply this demand for something like 12 million men, about the size of the Armed Services in World War II.

EARLY ON election night, it appeared that the race would be decided by decimal points. Back in 1960, Kennedy had beaten Nixon in popular votes by 00.497 to 00.496, but this present contest was going to be digitalized even further. In 1968, Nixon had got 43.40 per cent of the popular vote, to 42.72 per cent by Humphrey and 13.53 per cent by Wallace. But in this election the NBC computers indicated that the American Independent Party (under a Wallace successor) and the New Politics Party (under a McCarthy successor) would prevent either the Republicans or the Democrats from attaining 40 per cent. This situation would require a national run-off in December.

THE COMPUTERS were right. The November election became null and void, except that it reduced the field to the Republican and Democratic candidates who wearily recommenced their campaigns. But now the rigging of voting machines, the auctioneering for bloc votes among the impoverished, the illiterate and the idiotic, as well as the activity of the national police force, became intensified. No matter which candidate won the run-off, there would be charges that he had out-bought his rival, or had manipulated the national police force.

"WHICH WAS BETTER?" asked the Chicago Tribune. "To have an occasional minority President like Lincoln or to be assured of a disputed President?"

"I don't like to brag," said Theodore White, "but if Congress had studied pp. 396-411 of my book about the 1968 election, the country wouldn't be in this pickle."

A Divided Government

WASHINGTON — With all the talk and emphasis in the last couple of weeks on the selection of a leader for the minority party in the United States Senate, one might mistakenly assume that there is such a thing as party responsibility.

But the fact is that only rarely does either party function as a unit. The excuse usually offered is that every member has the right to differ with his party and vote his own convictions. A few decades ago, the opposite was true. The members of each party met in a caucus to discuss proposed legislation, at which the dissenters expressed themselves. But they abided by the majority vote in the caucus. To abdicate one's party was considered a form of political disloyalty.

THROUGH ALL the years since the caucus ceased to function, Presidents have rarely been able to get the benefits of party responsibility in Congress. Likewise, Congressional elections held in midterm have not always supported the President in power.

During the Eisenhower administration, the Republicans had control of both houses of Congress only two years out of the eight. President Kennedy had the support of a Democratic majority, and so did President Johnson. When President Nixon was elected last year, the margin narrowed somewhat but the Democrats retained control of both houses.

THIS IS AN irresponsible system. In Great Britain, Canada, and other countries with a parliamentary set-up, the majority party in parliament rules the government. It designates the prime minister from one of its own members, and also selects cabinet officers for the executive branch. If the people show discontent and want a change, a general election can be held at almost any time. If a new majority is then elected, another prime minister is chosen. The parliament remains the supreme governing body.

THE BIG QUESTION is whether the founding fathers, who were attempting to improve on the parliamentary method, really accomplished their objective. For today, as domestic and international problems have grown more and more complex, there is a noticeable slowness in the operations of the legislative branch of our government. The majority party in Congress feels no obligation to offer a program of its own, and usually waits for the President of an opposite party to submit legislative proposals.

MEANWHILE, criticism is constantly expressed by members of Congress on a variety of subjects. The chairmen of all the committees are Democrats, and a significant example of the breakdown of the present system can be noted almost every week as the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee seeks to make foreign policy. The Constitution, of course, does not delegate any such power to Congress but authorizes the President to conduct international relations.

MR. NIXON has sent to Congress a number of major measures. Some of them will win Democratic support, but others will be modified to suit the political whims of the opposite political party. As population grows and the national government is burdened with more and more problems, it is surprising that there has been no sign that the public as yet understands the retardation of progress inherent in our current system of divided government.

QUALITY MACHINES — Graham's office machines, 417 E. 3rd, offers a wide variety of typewriters, calculators and adding machines. They have also recently become distributors for R. C. Allen cash registers.

TYPEWRITERS, CALCULATORS, ADDING MACHINES Graham Has A Big Stock

For office machines of finest quality, whether they're adding machines, calculators or typewriters, visit Graham's Office Machines, 417 E. 3rd. He stocks only the finest in each of the fields.

Should your needs call for an electric compact machine, the Olivetti Underwood Praxus 48 may be the answer. It is a machine so distinctive in design that it heralds an entirely new class of electric typewriters and sells for less than $300.

The Praxus 48 has an unique "character sensor" which prevents four common typing errors: crowding or piling shading or ghosting flying caps and improper spacing.

This outstanding electric typewriter has electric margins, automatic title-centering, four repeat typing keys, half spacing both vertical and horizontal and a light fast keyboard touch that can be personalized with the touch control.

The Editor 2 is another Olivetti Underwood product of advanced design. Its "memory" features the same error control that corrects mistakes before they happen as the Praxus 48, and it allows extremely fast typing, up to 185 words a minute. The Editor 2 is available with either carbon or fabric ribbon.

Graham's has portables ranging from $69.50-$99.50 besides stocking the Portable Underwood 21 which sells for $104.50.

The Portable Underwood 21 is a popular model and sells for $104.50. This typewriter of durable design and handsome style was particularly designed for a busy homemaker's correspondence and club work or for the businessman who requires a portable.

One of the special features of the Portable Underwood 21 is the four touch selections offered to assure the tuning of each machine to your personal touch. All tabulating functions are directly controlled from the keyboard. Two transparent card holders grip the paper firmly in position down to the end of the page. The upper edge of the holders also serves as a guide line.

Erasures can be made easily on the erasing table with the paper still in the machine. The Underwood 21 features both vertical and horizontal half spacing. The vertical half spacing is valued by students and professional people for typing mathematical or chemical formulae. The horizontal half space is particularly helpful when it is necessary to insert an omitted letter.

Graham's has recently become the agent for R. C. Allen cash registers, which include models for every kind of business.

Among calculators, the Divisumma 24 or the Divisumma 26 ranks high in quality. They not only perform (automatically) each of the four basic operations in arithmetic; they also work them in combined operations, without requiring the re-entry of intermediate figures.

Numbers are entered on a single standard 10-key keyboard for addition, subtraction, and for setting multipliers and multiplicands and dividends and divisors in their natural order. The speed of figure entry is increased by double or triple cipher keys.

Each machine also features a column indicator that shows how many digits have been entered, how they divide into groups of three and whether or not the machine is holding a credit balance.

Stop by Graham's Office Machines and find just the machine needed to do the job.

INSECT GUARD — Johnston's No-Roach is effective for months against all crawling insects, especially roaches and ants. By brushing on, No-Roach eliminates messy, smelly sprays.

Johnston's No-Roach Solves Insect Problem

Bugs, least of all cockroaches, are not something to shout about. Yet everyone has encountered the problem at one time or another. Luckily a solution is as near as the grocery store.

Though brush-on No-Roach has many advantages — no messy, smelly spray — the important thing is it works. No-Roach means no roaches.

No-Roach will also keep ants out of the house if it's brushed across window and door sills. Be confident no ants will cross that coating.

No-Roach is available at Giant Discount, Newsom's, Safeway, Furr's, Piggly Wiggly, Gibson's and all grocery stores. It is distributed by Stripling's and Kimbell's.

Stokes Faces Fight Of Life

CLEVELAND (AP) — Black and white sat cramped together inside the Ukrainian National Home on Cleveland's heavily white West Side and smiled up at the stage.

There smiling back, flanked by white politicians, sat Carl B. Stokes, the first Negro elected mayor of a major U.S. city.

Stokes was in the midst of his campaign for re-election—a drive that faces its first hurdle Tuesday when he meets Robert J. Kelly in the Democratic primary.

And despite the smiles the mayor's white campaign workers and the posters with their black and white lettering, racial harmony has yet to descend on Cleveland where Stokes is in what could prove the fight of his political life.

In Cleveland, as it was earlier this year in Minneapolis and Los Angeles, the issue is law and order.

Stokes' white challenger says Cleveland "has become a jungle."

Crime in the city shot up 56 per cent during the first six months of the year, according to statistics supplied the FBI by Cleveland police. The rate for violent crimes jumped 63 per cent.

The situation is so desperate, Kelly declared as he began his campaign, that he would call in the National Guard to battle crime as his first official act.

Kelly, a former city traffic engineer who claims he has the support of 95 per cent of the city's more than 2,000 policemen, has gotten little attention from Stokes.

The mayor's aides, predicting victory on Tuesday, say the tough fight will come in November against County Auditor Ralph J. Perk, the first Republican to win a Cuyahoga County election in 25 years. Perk is opposed for the GOP nomination for mayor.

Inside the Ukrainian home, Councilman John T. Bilinski, Seventh Ward Democratic leader, was nearing the end of his introduction.

"All I can say is no mayor does everything perfectly," Bilinski said. "You've got to weigh the whole record."

Finally Stokes rose to speak. Smiling and relaxed, he waited for the polka band to stop playing and the applause to die down. Then, smiling even more broadly, he said, "Hi."

"Hi," the audience replied. Outside the hall, Kelly described Stokes: "He's a combination of Orson Welles, and who's that little Negro dancer? What's his name? Sammy Davis."

Goalby In Comeback

ROBINSON III (AP) — Bob Goalby, who hadn't won a tournament since the 1968 Masters, put on a stirring comeback Sunday to capture the $75,000 Robinson Golf Classic in a sudden-death playoff.

The 38-year-old Goalby dropped a 12-foot birdie putt on the first playoff hole to defeat Jim Wiechers for the top prize of $15,000 after both had finished with 72 hole totals of 273, 15 under par for the Crawford Country Club course.

Goalby started the tournament with a course record 62 but then zoomed to 71 Friday and 73 Saturday before firing a five-under par 67 Sunday. Goalby sank a 10-foot birdie putt on the 17th and failed to win it all when his birdie putt on No. 18 fell short.

Wiechers, 25, came through with a clutch birdie putt on the 18th to bring on the sudden death playoff.

New HCJC Bus

A new bus was delivered to Howard County Junior College this morning, boosting the rolling stock to three buses and a station wagon to provide transportation for student trips.

Coach D. M. Travis said he would use the new 40 passenger bus for basketball trips in the area. It is red and white and has green interior trim.

Mrs. Meir, Thant Probe Middle East

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Faced with the Arabs' refusal to negotiate with Israel (Directly on the Middle East problem, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant meets today with Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir to probe alternatives.

Mrs. Meir said Sunday she was ready to negotiate immediately with Arab foreign ministers at the United Nations, but Arabs stuck by Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad's statement to the peace-making group last week that direct Arab negotiations with Israel "would be a continuation of aggression and the instrument for consolidating the results of the aggression."

Mrs. Meir was scheduled to meet for two hours with Thant at U.N. headquarters.

Thant was expected to ask Mrs. Meir to accept Gunnar V. Jarring, his special representative to the Middle East and Swedish ambassador to the Soviet Union, as an arbiter.

Jarring's specific assignment is to promote Arab-Israeli agreement on a political settlement along lines laid down in the Security Council's 1967 resolution calling for Israel's withdrawal from Arab-occupied lands and acknowledgment of Israel as a country by the Arab world.

However, the Arabs are expected to uphold their previous demands for Israel to withdraw from Arab-held land before any talks, direct or through intermediaries, take place.

An Islamic summit in Morocco last week condemned Israel for what it called a war-like stance against the Arab world and demanded that it withdraw its occupation forces.

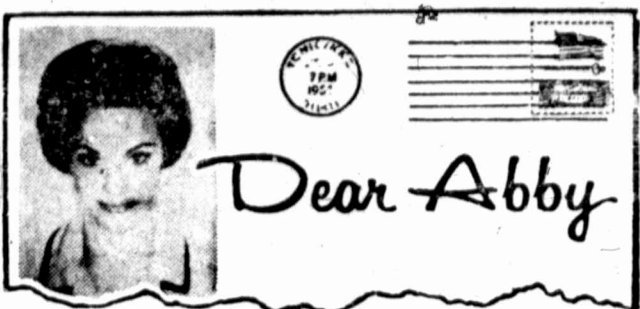

Mitchell County Roping Scheduled

COLORADO CITY — The sixth annual Mitchell County roping will be held Saturday evening, beginning at 7 o'clock. An Elmer Pickens hand-tooled saddle will go to this year's winner as it has the past five years. Mitchell County Agent Bobby Lemons will be the announcer.

To be eligible to rope, contestants must be a resident of Mitchell County, or eligible to vote in Mitchell County. This includes men in the service and in college whose homes are in Mitchell County even though they are not residing in the county at the present time.

The roping will be a four calf average and go-round money will be paid. Previous saddle winners may rope for go-round money only.

The roping will take place in the Western Riding Club Arena west of town.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: In two weeks my husband and I will be going on our vacation. After much persuasion, we agreed to let our two sons, 17 and 20 stay home and "batch it."

Last week we discovered that the boys are planning to invite about 15 couples, boys and girls, to a party at the house while we're gone.

We firmly told them that they could have the party only if an aunt and uncle chaperoned it. The boys didn't like that idea, and suggested instead that a newly-married couple of their acquaintance be the chaperones. (This couple is about the age of our elder son.) My husband promptly vetoed that suggestion. We then gave the boys a choice of postponing the party until we return, having the party before we go, or having the aunt and uncle chaperone it. Well, their noses have been out of joint ever since.

Abby, my husband and I have looked forward to a well-earned vacation, and we would not feel at ease unless we were reasonably certain that everything would be all right at home. Do you think we are being fair in our demands?

J.K.
DEAR J.K.: Yes. And hooray for you and for all other parents who insist on having a clearcut understanding of what their children may and may not do in their absence.

Fire Foils Israeli Jets?

By The Associated Press
Israeli fighter planes pounded Egyptian military targets south of Suez today, the Israeli command said.

A spokesman said the planes hit objectives in the southern Suez Canal sector and along the Suez Gulf where Egyptians were rebuilding damaged fortifications. All planes returned safely, the spokesman said.

It was believed to be the 16th strike flown by Israeli pilots since the Sept. 9 Israeli amphibious raid along the western shore of the Gulf of Suez.

Israel claimed it hit the same general area in an air attack Sunday night, but Egypt said the attack was foiled by Arab anti-aircraft fire.

An Israeli spokesman in Tel Aviv said the planes struck targets along northern and southern sectors of the canal "in view of continued Egyptian aggression." He said all planes returned safely to base.

A Cairo spokesman said the Israeli air raid was "a futile attempt at retaliation" for an Egyptian commando attack in Sinai early Sunday.

Egypt claimed it inflicted "heavy casualties" in the dawn commando raid on at least 600 troops at Masfaq, about 50 miles east of Qantara, in Israeli-occupied northern Sinai.

The Israeli military denied the attack, and a spokesman said "a few craters of rockets were found" in a desolate part of the area where the Egyptians claimed the attack occurred.

DEAR ABBY: Our neighbors' house burned down and we told them they could stay with us "for a few days" — until they found other living quarters. Well, it has been nearly two months and they're still here, and we don't know how to get them out.

These people have four school-age children, two in diapers, two dogs, and a cat. My house is a mess from one end to the other. We can't have anyone visit us as these folks who lost their house are always having company visiting THEM.

They are nice people, Abby, and we don't want to hurt their feelings, but they never mention looking for another place to live and we have had it. We are a family of seven, so you know that we are

"VERY CROWDED!"
DEAR CROWDED: It would appear that your neighbors are the kind of people who will stay until YOU make the first move — so make it. Tell them frankly that it's time they found other living quarters. (Could they be waiting for smoke signals?)

PLAQUE OF APPRECIATION — With the arrival of 1970 automobiles, Big Spring youngsters are once again seeking a place to hold dances. Dewey Ray, who has allowed the youth use of his showroom this summer, was presented a plaque by Tanya Tidwell (left) and David Nordenstrom (right) in appreciation for his help.

Ray Given Plaque For Providing Place To Dance

Members of the 21st Century Society, a youth organization which has been sponsoring dances for Big Spring teenagers this summer, presented Dewey Ray with a plaque in appreciation for his help.

Ray allowed the youths to use his automobile showroom to hold the dances, and members of his staff, as well as off-duty policemen, were present at the dances.

Ray contacted the young people after reading a plea in The Herald for a place to hold dances for teenagers.

"Now that his busiest season has arrived, his showroom is

Fighting Irish Are At It Again

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — British commandos landed in Northern Ireland today to reinforce 3,000 troops trying to stem a new wave of firebombings and street battles between Roman Catholics and Protestants.

One hundred Royal Marine Commandos—part of a force cited during the Korean war for fighting its way to a surrounded U.S. Marine unit—arrived from their base in England shortly after midnight. Another 500 were due later today.

Belfast streets, still littered from weekend fighting in which 10 persons were injured, blazed anew with firebombs that set a bus and store alight. The Royal Ulster Constabulary arrested two men in connection with the arson.

A British army spokesman said: "The whole area is bubbling with tension."

Catholic districts in Belfast, where street barricades came down earlier this month after army guarantees of safety, were blocked again following the weekend violence. Residents threw up at least two dozen barricades.

On Sunday night, mobs hurled rocks and bottles at British soldiers setting up roadblocks. Troops fired tear gas to clear the crowd.

British troops armed with rifles and gas masks used gas to clear mobs from streets near the city center and uncoiled more rolls of barbed wire to fence off the trouble districts.

Lt. Gen. Sir Ian Freeland, commander of British forces in Northern Ireland issued an appeal for calm and said he called in the reinforcements to relieve overworked soldiers in Belfast and Londonderry.

The 41st Commando Royal Marines gained an American presidential citation in 1950 when they fought through 80 miles of enemy-held territory in Korea to aid a surrounded detachment of U.S. Marines.

Wants Nixon To Threaten Oil Bill Veto

AUSTIN (AP)—State Republican Chairman Bill Steger says President Nixon should threaten to veto the tax reform bill if it eliminates the 27.5 per cent oil depletion allowance.

"The oil people that I've talked to, and many other Texans, both Republican and Democrat, feel it is vital to the health of the oil industry to keep the depletion allowance," Steger said Sunday at a news conference.

"I know the tax reform bill has a number of good features to it," Steger said, "but as a Texan, and one who knows the vital role that the oil industry plays in Texas as far as our economy is concerned, I must say that I would favor a stand taken by the President of threatening to veto the tax bill unless the 27.5 per cent depletion allowance remains in the bill."

Nixon said last week he would sign a bill cutting the allowance, even though he supports the full 27.5 per cent.

Annual Roundup Contributions

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Three Charolais bulls were included in today's 10th annual cattlemen's roundup sale for crippled children.

The sale is an annual event in Abilene and receives statewide contributions from cattlemen.

The bulls were donated by LT Ranches at Richmond, 4-T Ranches at Georgetown and the NB Ranch at Terrell.

Officials said a number of fed baby beaves to be sold to those who want their own steak on the hoof also were to be auctioned.
