SLIPS OFF GAG

Black Panther Shouting Obscenities

CHICAGO (AP) — Shouted obscenities by Bobby G. Seale and repeated interruptions in the trial of the Black Panther leader and seven others brought a warning from the bench Thursday that "time is running out" on such outbursts.

Judge Julius J. Hoffman issued the warning after the jury had been dismissed at the end of a second day of the U.S. District Court trial where Seale was bound and gagged to prevent him from interrupting proceedings.

"Time is running out, Mr. Seale," Judge Hoffman said. "If you persist in these disruptions, the court will deal appropriately with you." He did not elaborate.

Seale, 33, national chairman of the Black Panther party, is one of eight defendants charged with conspiracy to incite riots in Chicago the week of the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Once Thursday he slipped off his gag and shouted obscenities at the judge. Later he mumbled muffled sounds through the tightly wound cloth while Judge Hoffman was addressing the jury.

At the first interruption, marshals dragged Seale to an ante-room where he screamed at them to stop kicking him and shouted that Judge Hoffman was a "rotten low-life, lying fascist dog." "The marshal just hit Bobby in the mouth with his elbow," Jerry Rubin, a codefendant, told trial spectators.

Newsmen sitting nearby said they saw no blows struck.

Latins Still On Walkout

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Four Negro pupils in the Abilene school district met Thursday with Abilene High School Principal Escoc Webb and he said "they just wanted to feel like more of a part of the whole."

Webb said, "The kids have presented no demands for special considerations but would like to see a more proportionate representation for them on the student council."

The pupils represented 17 Negroes who walked out of Abilene High School classes Wednesday but returned two hours later.

Mexican-American pupils are still on their walkout — now in its eighth day — but have not held any organized classes, according to school administrators.

The 300 or so Mexican-American pupils — have presented demands, including one asking to be allowed to return to class with excused absences.

DRIVE WITH CARE

Watch For Goblins On Streets Tonight

The police department will be taking extra precautions that children are safe while making their Halloween rounds this evening, according to Police Chief Jay Banks.

He said a citizens group would also be patrolling neighborhoods, and would report to the department any situation where children might be bothered. He also warned motorists to drive carefully and be wary of children who might wander into the street.

The sheriff's office plans to keep all its personnel on duty until early tomorrow morning, in case they are needed during the festive night.

Planes, Tanks Go Into Action

By The Associated Press

Lebanese planes and tanks went into action today against Arab guerrillas in southern Lebanon, killing 12 commandos and wounding 40, guerrilla sources said.

Sources in Al Fatah, largest of the Arab guerrilla movements, told newsmen in Damascus, the Syrian capital, that the attack was launched against the guerrilla-entrenched village of Kfar Quok near the Israeli border.

There was no confirmation of the attack from Lebanese military headquarters.

Ghosts, Monsters, Animals Entered In Halloween Contest

By MARILYN NEVELS

Halloween ghosts, ghouls, monsters and ferocious animals were off to an early start with tricks and treats Thursday night at Highland Center's Halloween party and costume contest.

Free soft drinks and cookies, 50 dozen of them, were gobbled up by the colorful horde. More than 70 children from ages one through twelve turned out in every costume imaginable.

A bejeweled gypsy, harem girl, green-spiny dinosaur, wrapped-up mummy, spaceman from Earth and outer space, skeletons, devils and jungle leopards and tigers paraded past the three contest judges. Choosing the three winners in the one to seven age group and the seven to twelve group were Mrs. Harrison Lobdell, Mrs. James Brown and M. R. Koger, Chamber of Commerce president.

Prizes were gift certificates for $15, $10 and $5 good at any Highland Center store.

In the younger age group Rebecca Sherrod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Sherrod, Garden City Route, won first prize as a tiny spider. Rebecca will be two years old next week. Second place was won by Kelly Hooper dressed as a Japanese boy and his brother, Kevin, won third place as a pirate. Kelly is four and Kevin is six years old. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Hooper, 4101 Parkway Road. Kelly's gigantic straw hat was purchased during the Hooper's tour of duty in Okinawa, Japan.

First prize winner in the older group was a plump pumpkin, with eight-year-old Jennifer Taylor inside. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Taylor, 1004 Stadium. Second place was Tony Womack, 7, dressed as a scarecrow. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Womack, 107 Canyon. Third place was a blonde Indian maiden, Karen Fraley. She is the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fraley, 1801 Duquoin.

Nixonites Promise To Help Ease Supreme Court Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has promised to help ease adoption and acceptance of the Supreme Court decision ordering an immediate end to government-sponsored school segregation.

But there were painful grumblings from the South, where the milestone ruling will have its deepest effect.

Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia called the Mississippi schools decision a "criminal act" and appealed for a taxpayers' revolt.

George C. Wallace, former Alabama governor and the 1968 third party presidential candidate, called the decision "scurrilous policy." "This court is no better than the Warren court," he said.

Atty. Gen. A. F. Summer of Mississippi said, without amplification, his state will fight to change the ruling.

And Mississippi Gov. John Bell Williams said the school children of his state had been "cruelly offered as sacrificial lambs on the altar of social experimentation."

President Nixon led the administration pledge-making with a promise the executive branch would "assist in every possible way" to overcome the "practical and human problems involved."

The President's press aide, Ronald L. Ziegler, added in a more vigorous vein: "The administration will enforce the law . . . The administration will carry out the mandate."

The government's No. 1 lawyer, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, promised the Justice Department would use "every available resource" for enforcement.

And, in the most potent pronouncement, Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said his department was "committed to the goal of finally ending racial discrimination in schools."

The statements evidently were coordinated, as White House, Justice and HEW officials met through Thursday.

'STRUCK A LOW BLOW AGAINST A VERY WORTHY PROJECT' Senator Questions Land Gift To Texans

AUSTIN (AP) — The head of a non-profit corporation directed by three friends of former President Lyndon Johnson says there was nothing unethical in the corporation's receiving 26.5 acres of surplus federal land shortly before Johnson left office.

Frank C. Erwin Jr., president of Austin Geriatric Center, Inc., the corporation, issued his statement Thursday night in answer to a Senate speech by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del.

Williams said the land that was given to the corporation was worth $2 million—not the $642,000 declared by the federal government—and amounted to a "multimillion giveaway."

The Delaware Republican also said the corporation received approval for $5 million in Federal Housing Administration loans and nearly $500,000 in grants from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare while Johnson was still president.

"Senator Williams has seen fit to suggest—at least by implication — that there is something improper or unethical about this worthwhile project," Erwin said in a statement.

"This is most unfortunate because the project was conceived with nothing but the highest motives and has thus far been carried on in a manner that is above reproach."

Erwin was joined today by Rep. J. J. Pickle of Austin.

In a speech prepared for delivery in the U.S. House and handed out here, Pickle asserted that Williams "struck a low blow yesterday against a very worthy and humanitarian project."

"It is difficult for me to understand how people who raised no objection to this land being used as a hatchery for fish would object to its being used as a home for our senior citizens in the twilight of their life," Pickle said.

A deed filed with the Travis County Clerk Dec. 17, 1968 — just over a month before Johnson left the White House — shows the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare conveyed most of the old national fish hatchery site to Austin Geriatric Center.

The HEW secretary fixed the property's fair market value at $642,000, the deed says. But the corporation received the land free in exchange for "earning a public benefit allowance of 100 per cent of said sum" by meeting conditions set by HEW. Austin Geriatric Center, Inc., was chartered by the Texas Secretary of State Nov. 20, 1968.

Erwin heads the list of directors. He is chairman of the board of regents of the University of Texas system and a former Texas State Democratic Party chairman and National Democratic committeeman.

The other two directors named in the charter are J.C. Kellam, general manager of the Johnson family's radio-television stations here, and Roy A. Butler, local automobile dealer, radio station owner and a long-time friend of the ex-president.

Erwin acknowledged that an HEW grant for research into problems of the elderly poor had been approved. But, he said "since the grant was an oper-

'You're not supposed to have that.'"

She said he marched her up the aisle from his seat at the back of the plane and demanded to see the pilot.

"At first he was very gruff and demanding and after the captain talked to him he apologized for frightening me," she said.

TWA officials in Denver said the plane took on 77,500 pounds of fuel and speculated the hijacker may change his mind and divert the plane from New York, possibly to Cuba. Scott Werner, FBI agent-in-charge in Denver, said efforts to talk with the gunman by radio while the plane was on the ground were futile.

The plane took off from Stapleton International Airport here for New York at 8:26 a.m. EST. It had landed at 7:37 a.m.

All of the passengers were safe. TWA said their luggage was unloaded and they were to be taken to San Francisco—their original destination—in another plane.

When the plane took off from Denver, the three cockpit crewmen and one stewardess still were aboard with the gunman.

Several passengers said they saw the man board the plane in Los Angeles.

Army Pvt. Howard Scott, Pawnee, Ill., who was headed to Oakland, Calif., en route to Vietnam, said he noticed the man because of a circular case he carried, similar to a quiver for arrows.

He said the man, about 5-foot-8 and 160 pounds, was wearing what appeared to be an Army field jacket.

Passengers said they saw him first when he marched up the aisle of the plane with the barrel of what appeared to be an Army M1 rifle, converted for hunting, at a stewardess' back.

About 10 minutes after he forced his way into the cockpit, the pilot announced over the aircraft intercom system: "If you have any plans for San Francisco, they might be delayed."

The plane, TWA Flight 85, was bound for San Francisco from Los Angeles on the last leg of a flight from Baltimore, St. Louis and Kansas City. The hijacker took over at 4:42 a.m. just north of Fresno, Calif., and demanded to go to New York.

Basin College Delay Looms

DALLAS (AP) — The newly authorized University of Texas of the Permian Basin may be delayed until the next session of the Texas Legislature because of feuding over site selection by Midland and Odessa.

Chairman Frank Erwin of the University of Texas regents said today at a board meeting he thinks the Texas Legislature should pick the new site.

Erwin was supported by regents Joe Kilgore of Austin and W. H. Bauer of Port Lavaca.

The board heard Midland and Odessa residents argue for sites for the school, authorized at the last legislature.

Tom Sealey of Midland, chairman of the Texas College Coordinating Board, asked the regents to reconsider their earlier decision to put the new college on the other side of Odessa from Midland. Sealey told the regents he was speaking as a citizen of Midland and not as a member of the coordinating board.

The proposed site ran into trouble because several oil companies said they would not voluntarily move away their operations. Instead, Sealey proposed other sites between the two cities.

But Rep. Ace Pickens of Odessa said that the site picked earlier this year would be cleared by December and that the county would condemn all necessary land not donated.

Mrs. Betty Dooley, of Odessa, said Sealey was using undue influence on the regents because of his position as chairman of the College Coordinating Board and that Sealey was also influencing the oil companies not to move off the land needed at the Odessa college site.

After both sides talked, Erwin said both Midland and Odessa residents had claimed that if the new college were not located in a certain area that local residents would not support it.

But Erwin said, "This institution, if established, will be supported by the people of Texas through their tax dollars. None of our institutions are supported financially by local people. Our decision must be made on the basis of what is best for Texas."

Erwin said local bitterness was so intense that whatever decision the regents took they would incur the wrath of someone.

"We've had state legislators coming to the board from both sides," he said.

"From the standpoint of the University of Texas system, it is an almost impossible decision. That's why I feel it is best thing for the UT system if the decision on where the college goes is left to the legislature."

"It is the legislature which must support this college. Let them say where it will be." Such a decision would have to wait until the legislature meets again next year.

Earlier in the meeting, the regents ratified $12.8 million worth of construction to expand Austin's Memorial Stadium.

Nixon Expected To Reveal Cut In Latin American Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is expected to announce tonight a cutback in the United States' traditional role as leader in Latin American economic development, sources say.

The President's long-awaited Latin American policy speech generally will reflect, sources say, a growing belief the United States can play no more than a minor role in pursuing the social, economic and political objectives established by the Alliance for Progress.

However, Nixon will say the United States will continue its interest in Latin American affairs, but more as a partner, the sources said.

Nixon's speech to the Inter-American Press Association meeting here will be broadcast live by satellite to 10 Latin American nations but will not be seen on U.S. television.

Nixon is said to believe that much of the anti-Americanism manifested on New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's series of trips to the region last summer is attributable, in part, to the gap between past U.S. rhetoric and action.

Another change in the Nixon policy, according to informed officials, will be treatment of all governments essentially as equals. Under the Alliance, foreign assistance frequently was withheld from regimes which overthrew the previous government.

The consensus is that use of aid as a means of encouraging political democracy has not worked. Well over half of all Latin Americans now live under military dictatorship.

The rebirth of military rule in Latin America is considered to be the result, in part, of the failure of civilian governments to deliver on Alliance promises. Assessing the situation a year ago in a campaign statement, Nixon said the Alliance was foundering. Sources close to the administration say he believes it is essential that the United States reduce its promises to a level commensurate with its capabilities.

These sources say Nixon may propose modest steps toward liberalization of trade and aid policies, long a sore point with Latins who complain the United States encourages industrial diversification while erecting barriers which severely limit the import of Latin products.

Docket Call Slated Today

A docket call for seven cases in 118th District Court was set for 2 p.m. today, and included one case for workman's compensation, Texas General Indemnity Company vs. Joel M. Hope.

The other cases to have been called, all for damages, were: R. P. Van Pelt vs. Crown-Tex Petroleum Inc., et al.; A. F. Winn vs. The Texas & Pacific Railway Company; James H. E. a s t h a m vs. Crown-Tex Petroleum, Inc.; Vincent L. Morelli, et al vs. Thomas Wayne Savell; and Mrs. Henry Wallace and Mrs. Virgil L. Greene vs. Delta Electric Corporation. The case against Delta Electric stems from an incident in September, 1966, when the plaintiffs' husbands were killed when they contacted a high voltage wire.

Tokyo All Set For Spacemen

TOKYO (AP) — The Tokyo government is mobilizing 5,000 police for duty when the Apollo 11 astronauts visit next week. They fear left-wing students may try to make trouble, particularly when the spacemen ride in an open car down the Ginza, Tokyo's Broadway and Fifth Avenue.

Fire Shower Given Teacher.

A "fire shower" was held for high school teacher Pat Lawrence Thursday afternoon by fellow teachers who presented him with a glass bank full of coins entitled, "Break in Case of Fire." Lawrence's garage apartment, 501 Edwards, was destroyed by fire Monday.

Bob Madison, head of the audio-visual department, presented Lawrence with a can of film and told him it was a movie on fire prevention. Lawrence opened the can to find a roll of money long enough to stretch across the cafeteria. Mrs. Gene Harrington, registrar at the high school, said all the teachers participated in the shower and that Lawrence was well set up with appliances and the like for housekeeping again.

'AS LONG AS THE GUY UPSTAIRS IS WITH ME' Cop Figures He'll Succeed As Mayor

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Charles Stenvig, a policeman for almost 14 years, leaned back in his green mayor's chair and talked about his advisers.

"I get ridiculed for saying this," he said, and raised his right index finger slowly skyward: "Up there's the big one."

But few people, even those skeptical of Stenvig's heavenly connections, are ridiculing Stenvig now—certainly not the 62 per cent of the voters who elected him law and order mayor of Minneapolis June 10.

FEW LAUGHING

Some are outraged but few are laughing.

Stenvig's supporters were drawn largely from the 50 per cent of the population that is blue collar working class—a voting bloc that fears God, worries about street crime and admires the city's policemen.

"They know we are the thin blue line," said Det. Richard Nelson.

It's the kind of built-in voting bloc that's encouraging policemen throughout the nation to plunge more deeply into politics.

Stenvig has plunged the deep-est of all, not only running but winning power in a major American city.

Now he must produce what he promised—without arousing counteraction in a city long proud of its liberal traditions.

Required is a delicate balancing act, which goes on while critics wait and watch for the fatal misstep they say Stenvig surely will make.

'I'LL SUCCEED'

Stenvig, 41, may disappoint them.

"I'll succeed," he said, "as long as the guy upstairs is with me, and as long as before I make a decision I ask myself if I'm being hasty and whether I'm morally right."

"And you have got to have the people behind you."

This means white people in Minneapolis, whose population is only 3 per cent Negro.

Twice in the four months Stenvig has been in office, the police have been in confrontations—first with a gathering of Negroes along Plymouth Avenue in the heart of the city's Negro district, then on Moratorium Day with a splinter group of student demonstrators.

FILMED ACTION

The second confrontation was bloodless. But police used riot sticks in the first, producing cries of police brutality and demands for a grand jury investigation.

Cameramen caught much of the action on Plymouth Avenue and when Stenvig praised police handling of the incident before watching the film, those angry over the incident became even angrier.

"He took second-hand information from his people and gave policemen blanket approval," said Gleason Glover, executive director of the Urban League. "Anytime a mayor can give 100 per cent blanket approval to the police department, the city is in trouble."

While the controversy over Plymouth Avenue was still bubbling, Stenvig found himself in a second hassle—this time over the appointment of Teamster official Anthony (Tony) Felicetta to the Human Rights Commission.

The appointment might have passed with barely a ripple of protest were it not for an interview with Felicetta that appeared on the front page of the Minneapolis Tribune.

LAST TOUCH

"I'm not going to take any b—s—," Felicetta was quoted as saying. "If there are any grievances, I sure as hell would want to see them taken care of. But I sure as hell wouldn't want to give them half my G—d— paycheck when I'm working and they're sitting on their a—."

The story provoked an uproar.

"That appointment was more than a straw in the wind," said Douglas Hall, long an attorney for radical and liberal causes. "It was the whole damn tree."

Stenvig defended the appointment.

In Felicetta, Stenvig said, he found a man who "will reach people, other people in the community, that intellectuals will not reach."

"Tony is one piece of society as well as you, or me, or anyone else."

The problem in the past, Stenvig said, was that City Hall had lost touch with the common man.

LAW AND ORDER

That, as much as law and order, was the reason he was elected for two years to an office once held by Hubert H. Humphrey, he said.

"The people wanted someone they could associate with," Stenvig said, "a guy like them with three or four kids, a house in an average neighborhood, a guy trying to make his paychecks stretch just like theirs."

Since Plymouth Avenue, Stenvig has worked to improve community relations. He created an investigations unit to monitor police behavior and recently announced plans for a police ombudsman to maintain liaison with the neighborhoods.

Arthur Naftalin, Stenvig's predecessor who stepped down voluntarily after eight years in office, said: "Charley will make or break himself on his record in regard to police—civil rights relationships."

Senators Pushing Plans To End TV Smoking Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anti-smoking forces in the Senate are confident cigarette commercials will be gone from radio and television by the end of next year despite some surprise opposition.

The unexpected opposition from some tobacco state senators arose Thursday as the Senate Commerce Committee met in closed session to consider proposals to end broadcast advertising of cigarettes.

The committee is working on a House-passed bill that would toughen the wording of the health warning now carried on cigarette packages.

At the same time, the House wrote in a provision barring further regulation of cigarette advertising for six years.

Since that bill passed last spring, the cigarette industry has agreed to withdraw broadcast commercials when contracts expire next September if Congress will grant the antitrust exemption so the various companies can work out a joint plan.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, introduced two amendments Thursday to the House bill. They would grant the exemption—a move that has Justice Department backing—but would knock out the House prohibition against further government regulation.

Moss said the House bill would prevent the Federal Trade Commission from moving to require health warnings in newspaper and magazine ads if the cigarette industry tries to shift a big portion of its $250 million annual broadcast advertising budget to the print media.

He said that the House provision is unnecessary anyway since the FTC has already said it would not move in this area before 1972 at the earliest.

Less Demand For Cotton

WASHINGTON (AP) — Less demand for cotton this season has meant lower market prices for farmers, says the Agriculture Department.

The average price in September for upland cotton was 19.39 cents a pound, more than one cent less than the August average and almost 7 cents under September last year, the department said Wednesday in a report.

Consequently, officials said, more of the crop is being placed under the government price support loan program which provides a national average floor price of 20.25 cents a pound on 1969 production.

In addition, cotton growers who participate in the program are eligible for payments of 14.73 cents a pound on their share of the U.S. domestic market, about 65 per cent of their total allotment.

Former FCC Boss Accused Of Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rose H. Hyde, accused of contempt of Congress on the same day he was being lauded for 45 years of government service is retiring today as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

Dean Burch, an Arizona lawyer who was the Republican national chairman in 1964-65, was confirmed by the Senate Thursday to take over as the new FCC chairman.

The House Commerce Committee voted Thursday to seek contempt charges against Hyde for refusing to supply some agency records involving the award of a radio broadcast license.

Word of the committee's unprecedented recommendation reached Hyde while he was being honored at an FCC retirement ceremony.

Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., whose committee voted 20-13 to recommend that the House cite Hyde for contempt, declared:

"This committee cannot accede to the proposition that the FCC, or any other agency may dictate when and under what circumstances the Congress may have access to information relating to the conduct of public business."

However, Hyde said: "I don't think I'm in contempt. I've only undertaken to protect the integrity of the hearing process."

Whether the issue will reach the House floor—where a sharp fight could be expected—apparently won't be known until next week.

And, by that time, the committee is expected to have the records it wants to examine.

The committee wants to see FCC files in a case involving a recent six-month renewal of the license of WIFE-AM-FM in Indianapolis, Ind. The FCC approved it on a 4-3 vote.

Although the committee issued a subpoena for Hyde to produce the documents, he failed to do so—with full FCC backing. The vote for the contempt resolution came after two days of closed-door sessions.

Daniel R. O'Neil, FCC's deputy general counsel, said the records were not refused, but withheld for legal reasons until its action in the renewal case becomes final next Monday.

Should the FCC reverse itself by that time, he said, the reconsideration could be jeopardized if it had turned the files over to the House panel because a court could view that as a "reversible error."

Staggers said there wasn't any allegation of wrongdoing on Hyde's part by his panel. "It is just our right to the records."

Should the House uphold the committee's recommendation for a contempt citation, it would be sent to the Justice Department for prosecution as a misdemeanor. A conviction would carry a fine from $100 to $1,000 and jail term from one month to one year.

VICA To Host Training Meets

AUSTIN — High schools in Bryan, McAllen, Plano, and Brownwood will host leadership training conferences for the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) Saturday. More than 300 chapter officers are expected to train at each of the district-conferences.

VICA is a nationwide organization for students taking vocational industrial education courses. The Texas Association has 586 chapters with 11,408 members. This year the formation of 100 new chapters is anticipated to bring membership close to 15,500.

Area supervisors from the Texas Education Agency are in charge of seven of the eight conferences. District 1, to meet at Brownwood Nov. 1, will be headed by E. C. Shive, area supervisor from Big Spring.

Marry On First-Time Anniversary

TRENTON, Mich. (AP) — Fern Rochon and Marion Grondin observed the 25th anniversary of their first marriage Tuesday by getting married.

The best man was Wayne Rochon, their 24-year-old son. The two were married in their native Canada in 1944 when each was 18. In 1948 they were divorced.

Second marriages to different persons also ended in divorce. About two years ago, Rochon said, he worked up the nerve to call his first wife and ask her for a date.

They dated warily for months, trying to understand what happened to their first marriage. "I was irresponsible," said Rochon, a tool-and-die maker who lives in this Detroit suburb. "I wanted to live a little."

He said he enjoyed going out and also wanted a new car. His wife, a switchboard operator at Windsor Raceway in Windsor, Ont., across the border from Detroit, said she wanted new furniture and a comfortable home.

"We couldn't make it. We couldn't sit down and talk it over," she recalled. So they separated.

After they resumed dating, Rochon got to know his son, whom he hadn't seen in years. The two became friends. Mrs. Rochon said of her once-again husband:

"I know how to handle him now. I can talk to him now." Rochon commented: "No more arguments now. We found a way to end them. She just looks at me and I snap to attention."

Halloween In An Earlier Day

By LUCILLE PICKLE

If you're over 40 this Halloween you'll probably remember any number of things you and your friends did on Halloween. If you're over 50 there's no end of things to remember in long-ago Big Spring.

Let me hasten to say that most of the things we did were not vandalistic. To some people, vandalistic, but to us it was fun.

We worked up to the day with enthusiasm. A group of us girls always had a party going after we noticed boys were wonderful, but up until that time, we thought up gruesome costumes to wear on that night. We didn't go trick or treating. Most of our activities were in the homes of friends. But some of us ventured out to rub soap on store windows, run a stick along a picket fence, get into old Central School building and ring the bell or scare the daylighters out of our little sisters or brothers who were too young to be out.

One of the crowning performances was by a group of high school boys who somehow or other managed to get a cow up the fire escape at the high school building and onto the stage of the auditorium. Of course, the officials were furious, but I think they secretly admired the students' ingenuity.

Come to think of it, getting a cow anywhere but the feed trough is a pretty good accomplishment.

I remember on Halloween when six of us girls, who were inseparable, had a dance at my parent's home. We decorated it lavishly and spent hours planning the refreshments. But we spent far more time on our costumes. They were designed with a halter type black satin top and voluminous orange tulle skirt. There was no doubt who the hostesses were, because we certainly came in assorted shapes and sizes. Our black masks did little to hide our identity.

We weren't very sophisticated. Just small town kids who made our own entertainment without the aid of shop made costumes, trick or treat activity and planned entertainment at various clubs. But we had fun, of our own making, we didn't harm anyone's property and certainly we didn't hurt anybody. It was a night for fun and we made the most of it.

Fall Festival Slated In St. Lawrence Sunday

ST. LAWRENCE — Women of the St. Lawrence parish make preparation for the fall festival, which will be held here for the 15th time Sunday, a year-long activity.

Consequently, the women's booths, directed by Mrs. Daniel Hirt, will be one of the bright spots of the festival. There will be an abundance of food raised in the gardens and orchards — pickles, jellies, fruits, pecan pies, cakes, breads, etc. The handwork will include such things as dresser scarves, pillow cases, aprons, dresses, infant wear, crochet work, and perhaps some knitted items. The mother of the Rev. Augustine Lucca, parish priest, has donated a crocheted afghan, which will be given away, along with a homemade quilt, during the afternoon. The women also will operate a grab bag and fishing pond booth as well as a place for coffee, pie and cake.

Serving of the dinner (including barbecue beef and sausage), potato salad, beans, cole slaw, pie, cake, coffee, etc. will begin at 11 a.m. and continue to 1:30 p.m., or as long as people need to be served. Supper will be from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., followed by the dance at 7 p.m. with Leroy Motacha and his widely-known South Texas band. The auction and bazaar are during the afternoon. In charge of arrangements are George Schwartz, B. R. Seidenberger, Ed Plagens and Delmer Balta. Mrs. Daniel Hirt heads up the women's division.

Use Baby Shampoo For Shinier Hair

Shiny hair depends on each individual hair's ability to reflect light. If the hairs are coated with shampoo residue, hair spray, or just plain dirt, the shine is dramatically reduced. Simply stated, the problem is to wash your hair frequently to remove hairspray and dirt, but not to dry it out too much or leave a residue. The solution is no further away than the nursery. Gentle baby shampoo doesn't over dry your hair, and it rinses out easily without leaving that soapy residue to dim its natural shine. Baby shampoo just leaves manageable shiny hair — the young kind that makes any hairdo a thing of beauty.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

To store loose light bulbs that you sometimes buy unpackaged...

Set them in drinking glasses! Large bulbs (100-watt or more) in big glasses, and smaller ones (40s for example) in smaller glasses.

Your light bulbs are not likely to roll around or get broken. And nearly all of us have extra glasses on hand that are seldom used... Harold Tidrow

That's what I really call Yankee ingenuity!

Might just as well put those empty drinking glasses to work. Not only protects your fragile light bulbs from breakage, but saves storage space as well... Heloise

Dear Heloise:

After pouring batter into your waffle iron, if you let it cook for awhile before closing the lid, it will assure a fluffier waffle. And mainly, it will keep it from running down the sides and creating a mess to clean.

My teenage son taught me this, proving we are never so smart that they can't teach us something if we will just listen to our youth!... Jean Mary Arnold

Dear Heloise:

A quick way to make a BIG pinch cushion, is to take scraps of material and cover a loose roll of toilet tissue. It is especially handy for people who sew a lot, and have pins and safety pins scattered all over the place.

Also this would be a wonderful place to put your jewelry pins as you would have plenty of room; more so than in most jewelry boxes... Mary Lou Patterson

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise:

In our family we don't wait for a special occasion such as birthdays and holidays to celebrate with a real nice dinner or party.

We often have a celebration for "It's just nice to be alive" day.

And you know, it really is... Ruthie

And it's more nice that you're

Land Grab Charges Shove Erwin In Spotlight Again

AUSTIN (AP) — Frank C. Erwin Jr., linked Thursday to an alleged land grab during the Johnson administration, may be the most powerful politician in Texas and is easily the most controversial. Erwin, 49, is a kingmaker who stays in the headlines and yet has not sought high political office for himself. Tagged as an influence peddler by some, he is sort of a conglomerate power, mixing law, politics, investment and education. He is a close friend of former President Lyndon Johnson, former Gov. John Connally and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, 31, future hope of the Johnson-Connally forces. Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., charged Thursday that the federal government gave 26.5 acres of Austin land to a nonprofit corporation of which Erwin is one of the directors. Williams demanded an investigation and a return of the property to the government. Erwin only this week came under perhaps the most serious attack of his career. A resolution calling for his resignation was approved 242-197 at a meeting of the University of Texas faculty. The faculty has approximately 1,450 voting members. Erwin personally directed bulldozers in the destruction last week of giant live oak and cypress trees along a section of Waller Creek for an expansion project on the football stadium. Opponents said he knew a court order enjoining the project was en route to the school at the time and that he directed that the biggest trees be felled first. Twenty-seven persons, some of them dressed hippie style, were arrested when they climbed into the trees to stop the project. They offered a plan for the stadium expansion that they said would save the trees. The faculty resolution said Erwin "has evidenced an inability to understand the basic concepts of academic freedom, a desire to interfere in the internal workings of the University, a flair for making public statements of an inflammatory and insulting nature on controversial matters (against the rules governing the University) and has acted in a cavalier fashion as regards the explicitly stated responsibilities and regulations governing the office of chairman of the board of regents." The resolution called upon the Texas House to institute impeachment proceedings against Erwin if he does not resign. Erwin declined to resign, saying only 20 per cent of the voting faculty called for his resignation and that he wasn't responsible to the faculty anyway. Erwin and Connally met at the University in the late 1930s. Erwin, a fraternity man, backed Jake Pickle, present holder of Lyndon Johnson's old congressional seat, for student body president. The independents—nonfraternity students—beat Pickle with Connally. Erwin was active in Democratic wars in the 1940s after serving five years in the Navy in the South Pacific. In these early years, he supported liberal Homer P. Rainey for governor. And in the 1950s, when Texas Gov. Allan Shivers led a revolt against the national Democratic party by supporting Eisenhower, Erwin fought for Adlai Stevenson.

Erwin hoped persuade Connally, then Secretary of the Navy, to run for governor in 1961, and with Connally's victory Erwin began his own rise. In 1963, Connally appointed Erwin to the board of regents, and the next year named him State Democratic Chairman. During the 1968 Democratic convention in Chicago, Erwin and Connally fought a losing battle to preserve the unit rule, which binds all votes in a delegation to the vote of a majority. HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — James E. Crews Jr., business and civic leader, has been named a trustee of the Huntsville Independent School District.

A Devotion For Today . . .

"Be faithful unto death, and I will give you the crown of life." (Revelation 2:10, REV)
PRAYER: God, help us to be thankful for faithful men who have gone before us. May we try to hold firmly our faith and live it out daily. We ask in our Redeemer's name. Amen.
(From the 'Upper Room')

Sad But Eloquent Argument

The middle-dollar Wheatley ranch park case is further proof, if any be needed, that the Texas Legislature should abolish so-called "free conference committees," especially on the general appropriations bill. The case is a classic example of why appropriations conference committees should be by joint rules firmly restricted to settling funding differences between the two chambers, and not be allowed to insert or remove items at its own whim.

The San Antonio Wheatley family donated a wooded, Pedernales River area in the Hill Country for a state park provided the Legislature would include $250,000 for its development in the 1963-65 biennial budget. Fair enough. Who wants to donate parkland that will be neglected — as so much in past has been?

The governor then, John Connally, recommended the development appropriation to the Legislature, and both the Senate and House approved it in full. Then the appropriations conference committee — five senators and five representatives acting on usurped authority — omitted the Wheatley park fund from the bill and stuck in nine other park projects that neither chamber had approved.

Gov. Connally was so angry that he vetoed all nine of those projects and denounced the conference committee (the full Legislature gets these committee reports too late in session to run another revision through the mill). So now the Parks and Wildlife Commission has paid the Wheatleys $955,000 for the same land, out of the state parks bond money the voters approved in 1967.

There is no quarrel here with the worth of the park. But surely the memory of this stupid mishandling of an important appropriation bill should move the next Legislature to adopt joint rules restricting conference committees to their proper function of compromising differences.

Maybe They're Too Big

Diagnoses, expert and otherwise, of the contemporary troubles on the nation's college campuses are now so varied and numerous as to comprise a specialized library on social behavior.

The current college generation has been analyzed — historically, psychologically, morally, economically, socially, mentally, culturally, biomedically — as has none before. And most of the spotted causes for its difference have some validity, including technological advances, the impact of instantaneous mass media, the knowledge explosion, an unpopular war, and so through a lengthy list ranging from nuclear fear to drug abuse.

But there is one cause for present campus difficulties, so simple to measure statistically and yet so bewilderingly intricate in its consequences, that it has been oddly under-emphasized in all the analyses. And that is the phenomenon of college enrollment growth, which may be attributed to soaring governmental aid, the post-World War II jump in family incomes, and the insistent demand of a technical society for higher learning.

College enrollments have increased from 1 1/2 million in 1940 to more than 7 million now, with two-thirds of that expansion in the current decade. Where only two U.S. institutions had as many as 20,000 students before World War II now 39 top that figure, with 15 having 30,000 or more.

Today's major colleges, where most of the trouble centers, have become city-sized too fast for simultaneous development as socio-intellectual communities. Perhaps the optimum manageable size has already been reached, if not surpassed, in the largest institutions. More institutions with maximum enrollment limits may be the answer if that is true.

Holmes Alexander The Oil Depletion Allowance

WASHINGTON — Sen. Jack Miller (R., Iowa) is the only tax lawyer on the Senate Finance Committee, and a very smart fella.

On the matter of reforming the oil-depletion allowance, Miller has broken from the mainstreams of thought (which actually run in two channels) and has gone back to the springhead for his ideas.

THIS EXPLANATION isn't nearly so muddled as the situation it attempts to explain. One orthodox way of thinking about the 27.5 per cent Internal Revenue kickback to petroleum producers is to let good enough alone. President Nixon belongs to this school of thought on the grounds that a big tax-incentive will increase oil-drilling and oil-reserves.

The other orthodox petroleum-philosophy is that it's sound populist politics to soak-the-rich, especially when they are soulless corporations.

JACK MILLER, rather than follow either of these lines, traces the subject of the gas-oil depletion allowance back to its source, back to the intent of Congress when depletion-legislation was first passed in the late 1920's. We needed domestic oil-supplies then and we do now. The idea in the Internal Revenue Code is to encourage ventures into this chancy business where a driller is far more likely to strike a duster than a gusher.

THE RESULT of the tax-favoritism has been good. Oil companies have prospered. The price of petroleum products has been lowered. The expansion of oil-related industries has provided Federal and State revenue, as well as more and better jobs.

The fault, then, has not been in the spirit of the law, but in the distorted letter of the law. Miller is not, like Mr. Nixon, one who'd prefer to let well enough alone. Nor is he like the majority of the House of Representatives which voted a meat-cut in the allowance from 27.5 per cent to 20 per cent.

THE MILLER amendment (No. 252) to the House-passed bill (H.R. 13270) follows Burke's Law which says there's no way to indict a whole nation, nor a whole industry. There are some companies which plow back the tax savings into new explorations, and there are some companies which pay out the savings in stockholders' dividends. Miller's amendment would substitute a knife's edge for the meat-ax. It would separate the plow back company from the dividend company, he says.

"MY AMENDMENT would not treat both these corporations in the same way. In the case of corporation A, which plows back all of its percentage depletion, the present depletion rates (27.5 per cent) would apply. In the case of corporation B, which did not plow back anything, the new reduced rates (20 per cent) in the House bill would apply."

Miller says his amendment (a little simplified here) would conform with national policy. It would encourage a continuing supply of oil at stable prices to the consumer. But the House bill, says Miller, would found national policy. It would encourage a continuing supply of oil at stable prices to the consumer. But the House bill, says Miller, would found national policy and bring undesired results.

THE SENATOR is right, of course. If the companies have to pay more taxes, they naturally will produce less oil and/or raise their prices.

But whether the hurried Senate and the stubborn House will listen to a smart fella, or will soak the just and the unjust rich alike, is one of those fascinating riddles in self-government.

Do You Have Hypengyophobia?

NEW YORK (AP) — What's in a name?

Well, when it comes to having a disease, the name is half the fun.

There is really no point in getting an ailment if the mere name of it alone is enough to make you half-sick.

The reason that some people stay in bed with a virus is that they are too uncommon to catch a common cold.

Fortunately, medical nomenclature is rich in important sounding afflictions to which one can point with pride. You probably have had some of these for years and never even knew it.

Let us take the field of phobias.

Are you afraid of robbers? Why, your poor thing, pull the covers over your head this very minute. You've got harpaxophobia, that's what you've got.

And do you worry over whether this mythical robber, if you meet him, will stick you with a knife? Then you've also got achrophobia, the fear of sharp-pointed objects.

Do you get tired of coping with life now and then, and feel that your wife, your boss, and your mother-in-law are asking too much of you? Well, hold your head up, man, and regain your self-respect. It really isn't your fault, is it, if you have a creeping case of hypengyophobia, or the fear of responsibility?

Most pedestrians in crossing a street show signs of both levophobia and dextrophobia; that is, they are afraid of objects on the left side of their body and of objects on the right side of their body—in both cases, automobiles.

Civilized man often feels that his job is a rut and his existence too routine. Unknowingly, he is haunted by taphephobia, the fear of being buried alive.

Right now hundreds of thousands of people in northern climes are scheming up excuses to take a winter vacation or business trip to Florida or a Caribbean port. They are more to be pitied than censured. They flee south because they have chionophobia, the fear of snow.

Do you fret and fume because you are unable to understand or handle your teen-age son or daughter? A lot of people share your plight, and you all have the same malady. It is teratophobia, the fear that you've given birth to a monster.

Yes, there is a wonderful-sounding disease for every human being alive, even for the guy who worries because he is too healthy in a society where all around him are ill.

He is sick, too. He's got an uncommon case of eremophobia, the fear of being lonely.

John Cunniff Some Soul Searching

NEW YORK (AP) — Some soul searching about wage-price-credit controls in Canada at the present time have more than ordinary significance for citizens of the United States, where the same underlying problems of inflation exist.

Nevertheless, the remarks earlier this week by Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau were largely ignored in the United States.

After explaining in the House of Commons that the government had done all it could to hold down its own expenses and expressing the fear that voluntary restraints might not work, the prime minister told newsmen:

"If the private sector does not act responsibly, then we have to draw conclusions for the Canadian people that the private sector is not able to manage its sector of the economy as well as the government can."

If unions and business do not voluntarily accept wage and price restraints, he said, the alternative might be for the government to seek constitutional changes permitting government control of the market place.

Now these words could be interpreted as nothing more than jawboning, or the use of threats to accomplish ends unattainable by more genteel persuasion. But such an interpretation wouldn't be a wise one.

First, the remarks were apparently not made idly. Canada is in the midst of a very serious battle against inflation. It has set up a Prices and Incomes Commission, but some Canadians feel its efforts are doomed to failure.

Belief in the efficiency of voluntary restraints seems to be waning, and the call for less democratic methods of inflation control seem to be gaining power.

The Canadian Labor Congress and the Confederation of National Trade Unions has already urged the government to adopt price controls. And a recent price increase by Steel Co. of Canada has added further to the discussion.

To Your Good Health Serious-But Not That Bad

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have just found out through X-rays that I have an enlarged heart. My doctor tells me it is not that serious, but to curtail my activities. How can it not be serious and yet not activities? Do you have a booklet on care of the heart? — Mrs. C.P.

He didn't say it wasn't serious; he said "not that serious."

Enlargement of the heart indicates that there has been strain on the heart, and it has enlarged to try to compensate for it.

Yes, I have a booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," which you can order by mail. Send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

The booklet will explain to you that various conditions could have been responsible for the enlargement, among them infections that can damage the valves of the heart, making it less efficient.

If a heart has been damaged, it is only good sense not to put excessive strain on it. By curtailing your activities, you limit the amount of work your heart has to do.

That's one way in which you can take care of your heart and make an ailing heart serve you adequately for a long time. And that's what your doctor was trying to tell you when he said it is "not that serious."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 81 and have always had excellent health. About six months ago I noticed that one leg, from the knee down, looked bigger than the other. I measured it, and at the calf it was about an inch larger.

There has been no ache or pain. I sometimes take pills the doctor gave me three years ago for my circulation. Is this difference in size a symptom of something? — Mrs. H.

It could be — possibly a problem involving the veins of the larger leg. Without any great alarm about it, I would still have an examination.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you give me some information on Valley Fever and what causes it? How long will it last and is bed rest the most important cure? I have written before but got no answer. — Mrs. J.S.

I've written on this several times but possibly you missed it.

Valley Fever is a fungus infection found in arid or desert areas and carries the imposing technical name of coccidioidomycosis.

It attacks the lungs, and symptoms are those of a severe case of flu — aching, fever, cough, chest pains. Chest X-rays can resemble those of tuberculosis or viral pneumonia, but definite diagnosis is made by a culture of microscopic organisms found in the sputum and by a skin test.

About 90 per cent of patients recover without specific treatment other than rest. In severe cases, Amphotericin B is used — it is, in fact, the only specific medication for this disease. This must be prescribed by the doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have angina, but in the last month I have had pain in the top part of my back, shifting from one place to another. After X-rays, they think I have an ulcer. So why are the pains in the back? — C.C.M.

This can happen at times. Usually the discomfort from an ulcer is in the upper mid-abdomen, but the pain can radiate through to the back and give the impression that it originates in the spine — which, of course, it really does not. The exact location and degree of penetration of the ulcer in the duodenum or stomach seems to have something to do with causing the pain to appear in the back.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, read Dr. Thosteson's helpful booklet, "How To Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." For your copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

The young man reached across the desk, picked up the cop's package of cigarettes, pointed at the warning printed on the side, and asked: "Have you ever read that?"
"What did the officer do? He smiled weakly and snuffed out his cigarette."

Speaking of cigarettes, he said, making a smooth transition, quite a few of my friends have told me they are kicking the habit in the last couple of months.

Invariably, they are quite happy about it. So am I, for I need all the friends I can get.

Marquis Childs The Administration And The Press

WASHINGTON — At a certain point in the life of each administration as troubles pile up, the search begins for culprits to put the blame on. The primary culprit almost invariably is the agency that reports the troubles — the press, the news media. If only this nasty, fault-finding agency would dry up and blow away all would be well.

It has happened with the Nixon Administration early rather than late, if only because the troubles are of such a dismaying magnitude. Suddenly a conspiracy is discovered. The minions of the press have deliberately set out to discredit the splendid endeavors of the new Republican team.

THE ANGREY BLEAT of Attorney General John N. Mitchell can be heard whenever a responsive audience is assembled. His normally stern visage (nickname in the Department of Justice: The Great Stone Face) takes on an ever-sterner look as he denounces the SOB's of press and television.

They have cooked up all the fuss over the Haynsworth nomination. It would have breezed through without a ripple if it had not been for the troublemakers looking for blemishes on the serene surface of an ideal appointment.

THE PRESIDENT at his extraordinary impromptu press conference raised the cry of character assassination. Richard Nixon talking about character assassination! It was Mr. Nixon who in the 1952 Presidential campaign accused Harry Truman and his Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, of covering up if not actually aiding and abetting the Communist conspiracy in the United States. He had earlier attacked Acheson as the dean of the College of Cowardly Communist Containment.

ACHESON TODAY accuses the press of trying to destroy the President, suggesting a movement such as has wrecked previous chief executives and left the nation leaderless.

This has a strange sound coming from a principal victim of that earlier assassination. But the President and his one-time target have entered into a peace treaty, a Nixon-Acheson trade agreement. The former Secretary of State gives Mr. Nixon the benefit of his advice and, in return, he can feel he is again close to the center of power and helping to guide the nation through perilous waters.

ABOVE ALL, in foreign policy the press is charged with irresponsible prying and poking, giving the external enemy the advantage of loose talk, the carping criticism of an open society. This is an undercurrent in Acheson's remarkable book, "Present at the Creation," his account of his years in the State Department.

Even the most-ardent partisan will readily concede the imperfections of the press. Like all other human institutions, it has grievous faults. Diplomacy must often be conducted in secret and there have been times when the poking and prying of the press may have been a handicap. Surely, it is also demonstrable that exposure has prevented errors and corrected abuses.

PRESIDENTS HAVE reacted in various ways to the hair shirt of the press. At the end of his first term in the White House, Harry Truman had virtually the entire press down on him. The lapses of members of his staff — the milk goats and the food freezers — were given inordinate space. He was written off as an accidental President, a bumbler from Missouri.

Yet, so far as this reporter can recall, he never complained — or never publicly, at any rate. His loyalty to his associates was unflinching even when they came under the heaviest fire as Acheson did. His terse summing up, "If you can't stand the heat, stay out of the kitchen," deserves to be carved in stone over the White House portal.

David Lawrence History Repeated In Haynsworth Case

WASHINGTON — Whatever is meant by the phrase "generation gap," as used nowadays, it certainly could mean that one generation may not be familiar with what happened in a preceding period of history.

Today, for example, lots of people are assuming that the controversy over the appointment of Judge Clement Haynsworth as associate justice of the Supreme Court will hurt him after he is confirmed. But nothing could invalidate such an assumption more quickly than a reading of the story of what happened when Charles Evans Hughes was nominated in 1930 to be chief justice of the United States.

MR. HUGHES had already served from 1910 to 1916 as a member of the high court, and when he was named by President Hoover to succeed William Howard Taft as chief justice, Justice Louis Brandeis said that "confirmation ought to be made at once and ought to be unanimous." There was wide approval from the press. On Capitol Hill, both Democrats and Republicans commended the choice.

After the first wave of favorable comment, however, there gradually developed an opposition in the Senate. Insurgent Republicans and a number of Democrats started to fight the nomination.

SEN. GEORGE W. NORRIS of Nebraska, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, who only a few days previously had predicted Mr. Hughes would be confirmed, gave the press a statement listing 54 cases in which Hughes had appeared before the Supreme Court as counsel for big corporations and wealthy clients. Sen. William E. Borah, of Idaho, another insurgent, got into the fray and linked Hughes to the sins of the Supreme Court, although he had not been a member of the Court for 14 years.

When the Senate finally did confirm Mr. Hughes as chief justice, the vote was 52 to 26. There were 15 Democrats and 11 Republicans opposed to him. Not in more than half a century had there been such furor over confirmation of a chief justice.

MERLO J. PUSEY, author of an authorized biography of Charles Evans Hughes, wrote as follows about the controversial confirmation:

"While the debate waxed hotter with each passing hour in the Senate, Hughes was in New York in a state of mental agony. Always thin-skinned to criticism in spite of his extraordinary poise in public, he felt that his toll and faithfulness of a lifetime were being smeared over by a sickly smudge that might leave his name tarnished as long as it would be remembered."

MR. HUGHES in subsequent years said, "The decorations of our public servants are mostly scars."

Not even a man with the record of integrity in public service that characterized the career of Charles Evans Hughes is apparently spared the smears of a Senate debate on confirmation if such tactics suit the purposes of political groups which want to "pack" the court with partisans of their own causes.

6-A Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Friday, Oct. 31, 1969

Analysis Of City Problems On Tap For TML Meeting

City government, pressure point of urban growth, goes under analysis at the 57th annual conference of the Texas Municipal League, Nov. 9-11 in San Antonio. With program emphasis on physical and social requirements, financing, operational developments, and inter-governmental coordination, the conference will draw more than 2,500 officials and other delegates from cities throughout Texas, including almost a dozen from Big Spring.

Some 60 speakers representing the three levels of government, business, and education will address the conference.

"Addresses, panel sessions, tours of facilities, and informal exchange of ideas will combine to up-date knowledge of tasks facing cities now and during the next decade," according to League officials. Delegates and the TML board of directors are also expected to develop a comprehensive municipal policy to guide cities in 1970.

Stress this year will be laid on (1) the revitalized efforts of governments — local, state, and federal — to mesh planning and resources toward solution of city problems; (2) state legislation and the legislative effort of cities — recent and anticipated; (3) new dimensions of city officials' leadership and responsibility; (4) the reflection of national and world affairs on urban problems; and (5) the new Texas educational facility in Austin which is destined to enlarge the competence of public service here and throughout the country.

Numerous current interest topics are programmed, among them: crime and law enforcement, with particular attention to the state's new Criminal Justice Council; the Texas Tort Claims Act, recently enacted law which makes cities liable for certain damage claims to which they were previously immune — and which creates massive new problems of insurance and financing; personal relations and labor trends; and the tax exemption on municipal bond interest which has become a major issue in Washington, with serious consequences for local finance.

TML President Erik Jonsson, mayor of Dallas, will keynote the annual meeting with a 1969 status-and-prospects analysis of Texas cities and TML.

Gov. Preston Smith, long-time advocate — in word and deed — of strong local government, again fills a luncheon spot, bringing to this year's conference some vital new developments in the state's organization to meet urban problems.

Adding the legislative dimension, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes will discuss municipal issues, past and future, with attention to the influence of local officials on results.

From a different vantage point, Speaker Gus Mutscher will discuss a similar subject, laying stress on legislative process.

Roger Mudd, news correspondent, Washington, D.C., in a luncheon address will draw from a background in national and international affairs.

Dr. John A. Gronouski, former Postmaster General and U.S. Ambassador to Poland, now dean of the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs, University of Texas at Austin, will provide the first full-scale view of the new public affairs facility, with observations on its implications for municipal government.

Crime and law enforcement remains near the top of the list of municipal problems. Up-to-the-minute treatment of the subject will come from Joe Frazier Brown, executive director, Criminal Justice Council, Austin.

Judson F. Williams, former TML president and mayor of El Paso, now president of Utrends, Inc., of El Paso, will supply insights into the complex job of governing and representing cities in an urban age. His observations on service, responsibilities, and TML activity, drawn from front-line experience, will add ideas obtainable nowhere else.

One of the state's best examples of the comprehensive use of federal programs, and the coordination of local government resources, is occurring in Grand Prairie. Mayor C. P. Waggoner and City Manager Cliff Johnson will review the range of accomplishments in a discussion-slide presentation.

N. Alex Bickley, city attorney of Dallas, will bring delegates up to date on municipal issues in the 1969 Legislature, including tort liability, and will anticipate major legislation probable in the next session.

Personnel and labor relations, an increasingly sensitive area for municipal government, is programmed for discussion. Background, status, and trends will be set out by Dr. John T. Thompson, director of the Joint University Center for Community Services, North Texas State University, Denton.

Ray Hutchison, bond attorney, Dallas, will discuss the threat to tax immunity of municipal bonds. Hutchison is a partner in the firm of McCall, Parkhurst & Horton.

Sideline attractions are also scheduled. Awards for best annual reports to citizens and for best debt administration will be presented to five cities at the annual banquet concluding the conference. New officers for TML and for each of 13 affiliated organizations will be elected during the three-day meeting.

Going out of office will be L. M. Crow Jr., president of the Texas City Managers Association; Ernest Lillard, president of the Texas Public Works Association; and E. J. Banks, president of the Texas Police Chiefs Association.

Just what is their BAG?

Are they Protestant, Catholic, or something in between?

Call them anything you please. Episcopalians are Protestant because their forebears were among the leaders of the Protestant Reformation in 16th-Century England. But the word "Catholic" means "universal" . . . and Episcopalians are quick to embrace the universality of all Christian denominations. They do not believe that heaven is reserved for those who agree, jot and tittle, with their particular views.

What place does the Bible occupy in the Episcopal faith?

It's central. No Episcopalian is required to accept any belief that doesn't agree with Holy Scripture.

Then why do they use a Prayer Book?

The Episcopal Book of Common Prayer serves several purposes. It's an excellent key to understanding the Bible. It assures reading and teaching solely from the Bible. And it's a complete guide to worship.

The word "common" in the title means "together." Episcopalians pray and praise God together, believing — as they do — that worship is not a spectator sport. Thanks to the Prayer Book, their services cannot be dominated by the minister's whims.

Aren't Episcopal services mighty ritualistic?

Compared to most other churches, yes. The ministers wear robes. Members take communion at the altar rail. They kneel to pray. They don't chit-chat during worship.

The services are pretty formal . . . but it's a matter of viewpoint. The Episcopal viewpoint is that worship is an act of giving — not receiving. They find that a bit of quiet formality and beauty helps put them in a proper frame of mind truly to give themselves over to God's worship.

Ever hear anyone complain of the ritual to be found at a big college football game? Or the weekly lodge meeting?

Is it true that Episcopal women cover their heads in church?

Customarily, yes. It's another way of paying respect to God. Nearly anything is considered cricket . . . from a kerchief to last year's Easter bonnet.

Isn't the Episcopal Church sort of a private club for the rich?

Nope. That may be unfortunate around budget time each year, but Episcopalians don't believe God reserves any special place in heaven for the rich or influential.

That's one reason Episcopal funerals don't feature eulogies or an open casket. The departed — quite apart from the respect of his fellow man — is presumed already to have made his peace with God. The funeral service isn't conducted primarily for the dead; it's mostly a message of hope for eternal salvation . . . and addressed to the living.

What is the Episcopal view of baptism?

They follow the custom of pouring water, but readily will baptize by immersion those who prefer. They believe that the action of God in baptism is more important than the mechanics of men . . . and they accept baptism in any other Christian denomination as a true sacrament.

Then why the need for instruction and confirmation?

The Church has always regarded confirmation as completing baptism. Thus the promises made for a child in baptism are confirmed by the candidate himself. Correspondingly, the service signifies a confirmation, on God's part, of His promise of salvation.

Simple instruction by the minister assures a complete understanding of the Church's basic creeds before the candidate assumes the responsibilities of communicant status.

Does this mean they have a "closed" communion?

Not at all, although the Episcopal church regards communion as a true sacrament and not just a memorial. Anyone who may receive communion in another Christian denomination is welcome to join in an Episcopal communion service if his own church's discipline permits him to do so.

Are visitors welcomed to Episcopal services?

Absolutely. At any service. It's customary for Episcopalians to remain quiet until they're outside the church, which explains why some visitors look on them as unfriendly. Just stick around after the service. There's usually coffee in the nearby parish hall . . . and plenty of opportunity to get acquainted. Feel free to ask the minister for an appointment to discuss anything you find puzzling about the Episcopal faith. He'll be delighted . . . and wouldn't think of "twisting your arm" to join his church. That sort of decision must come from you, or it loses meaning.

The last in a series presented by "Those Crazy Episcopalians" in your area.

Schools Get Seven Bids On Equipment

Bids for laundry equipment for a pilot vocational program at Big Spring High School were received this morning and Keith Swim, director of federal programs, said it is possible the school district will have to go to line items to get the best prices. There are so many varied proposals that it may take two or three days to decide just how to work it, Swim said. He added that seven bids for the equipment came in, out of 30 applications sent out. Large items up for bids included a 25 horsepower boiler, a 40 pound washer, a 30 pound washer, and two 50 pound dryers.

"We have enough used equipment to still start the program on Monday, however," Swim added. The vocational program, with laundry facilities at Lakeview school, will teach the skills needed for cleaning and laundry employment. It was approved by the state two weeks ago as a pilot project to be funded by the state for three years. The local school system pays for utilities, facilities, and soap. Classes start Monday and about 50 students are expected to enroll. Similar to other vocational programs, students will spend half a day in academic preparation at the high school, and half a day in practical application at the Lakeview school.

Signs of erosion are easy to find, he said, and are reflected "first and foremost in America's terrifying crime rate, which is growing 11 times faster than our population."

Moves To Finish Tax Reform Work

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Finance Committee, after tentatively agreeing on about $9 billion of relief for the nation's 70 million individual income taxpayers, moved to wrap up work today on the tax reform bill. The committee voted Thursday to generally go along with the individual income tax rate cuts in the House-passed bill. Long said some minor changes might be made in the final sessions on the measure, but in general the House approved relief would stand. The committee rejected, once by a tie vote, an effort to give individual tax relief by increasing the personal exemption. Instead, it decided for the approach favored by the House and the Nixon administration - cuts in the tax rate schedule.

Prize Winner Gell-Mann's Happy Time

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — How does a scientist celebrate winning a $72,800 Nobel Prize? If he's Murray Gell-Mann, he goes to an office party.

Gell-Mann, 40, and greying, won the 1969 Nobel Prize in physics Thursday for his work in classifying elementary particles, of which there are more than 100 in the nucleus of an atom.

Anyone expert in such an abstract business might be expected to say "harrumph." Don a white coat and duck back into his laboratory.

Not Gell-Mann, a dapper professor of physics at California Institute of Technology.

He started the day by failing to be grumpy when awakened at 3:30 a.m. with news that he had been chosen for the award by the Royal Swedish Academy of Science.

Then he went to a news conference, where he graciously tried to explain to a largely non-scientific audience just what elementary particles are: "the building blocks of matter—in size about a hundred millionth of a millionth of an inch."

He excused himself early, saying he didn't want to upstage Dr. Harold Brown, who was almost simultaneously being inaugurated as the president of Caltech.

Then Gell-Mann sat through a speech-laden inauguration day luncheon with his wife Margaret.

Finally, almost an hour late, he showed up at a congratulatory party arranged by fellow researchers, graduate students and secretaries in a plush conference room of a new $3-million physics laboratory.

Champagne bottles began to pop. Soon there were six marks on the ceiling, left by corks from bottles of a 1959 French brut.

As the final "pop" sounded, someone cried: "There goes a quark." There was no need in that gathering to explain that quark is Gell-Mann's name for an elementary particle that he says ought to exist but which no one has yet detected.

Great fun was had by all but the party ended shortly, with Gell-Mann departing for a television interview.

The day closed with Gell-Mann heading home to share with his wife, their daughter Lisa, 13, and son Nicholas, 6, the honors of what he called "the most splendid day of my life."

Miss Teenage America Had Strong Family Life

FORT WORTH — Today as parents worry about the hippie philosophy, shifting moral values and social upheaval, how do they rear a teenager who is a self-disciplined, contributing member of society? Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Babish of Cuddy, Pa., seem to have found the answer.

They are the parents of Melissa Babish, the reigning Miss Teenage America. "Missy" is typically teenage in her appreciation of lasagna and hamburgers, her enthusiasm for sports and her choice of a daisy decor for her bedroom. But in other ways, she evidences a maturity rare for a girl not yet 17.

Determined last year to raise her grade average from B-plus to A, Missy did so despite her hectic schedule as Miss Teenage America. Now she's in the running for valedictorian honors when she is graduated next spring.

All year Missy has been special guest of honor at numerous festivals, style shows and major meetings of both young people and adults, along with constant interviews by the press, radio and television wherever she goes. Yet, she attends church every Sunday, even when it means rising at daybreak to make 6 o'clock mass.

Respected by her classmates, Missy recently was elected head cheerleader at South Fayette High School in her hometown of Cuddy, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

The Babishes can't say what they have done to rear such an outstanding daughter. Joe Babish averts the question by saying, "We're just blessed with three good kids." Missy's sister, Beverly, 23, is a fifth-grade teacher in Cuddy after working her way through college, and Bob, 21, is a senior football player and top student at Waynesburg College in Waynesburg, Pa.

The Babishes agree that too many parents seem afraid to discipline their children. But Babish spanked both Beverly and Bob when they were high school seniors.

Although Missy describes her parents as "strong disciplinarians," they talk freely with their youngsters. Consequently, Missy says of the generation gap, "There isn't one. It's just a communications gap. Some teenagers have trouble communicating with each other."

Babish is proud of his children's consideration for others. Neither he nor his wife talks a great deal about the subject; they merely set a strong example. For instance, in addition to his position as treasurer and tax collector for South Fayette Township, Babish is referee for collegiate football, basketball and soccer games. This year he has had to give up several assignments to "follow Missy and Bob around."

"You could call it a sacrifice, I guess, but that was my decision and I'm glad I made it," he says. With the varied interests of the Babish family members, their home life sometimes gets hectic. Missy refers to her home as the "Grand Central Station of Cuddy" but adds that her mother, who obviously likes her role as homemaker, is the stabilizing force. "She holds the walls up," says Missy.

Things soon will settle down in the Babish house, the same house where Babish grew up. For on Nov. 15 in Fort Worth, during a live colorcast at 9 p.m., Missy will relinquish her crown.

She will attend college on the $10,000 scholarship she received as Miss Teenage America. Missy hopes to become a corporation lawyer and looks forward to marriage and children of her own someday.

Short To Present Peanuts' Theology

ABILENE — Robert Short, author of "The Gospel According to Peanuts," and "The Parables of Peanuts," will present a chapel program at Hardin-Simmons University at 10 a.m., Nov. 5. Short will be giving a color-slide program on the theology of "Peanuts."

A graduate of North Texas State University, Short has been a professional actor and director as well as having served on the faculty of North Texas State University. He is the author of numerous articles relating to theology and the arts.

Short has traveled extensively in the United States and Europe giving lectures on the theological significance of "Peanuts." His books were top best sellers in 1965 and 1968, and have been translated into many foreign languages.

Short, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Short, Midland, was born in Big Spring; his father was a pharmacist here before he moved the family to Midland to open his own business.

An autograph party and an informal luncheon have been planned for the day's activities in addition to the chapel program.

Federal Prisoner's Escape Bid Fizzles

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — A federal prisoner who escaped from two guards and took four hostages from a restaurant surrendered Thursday after a five-hour search.

Maurice Pilon, 34, gave up to Sheriff George Maxwell and naval intelligence officer Carl Skiff of San Angelo after causing a near panic in Northwest Abilene.

Public concern was raised by the proximity of two elementary schools, where several hundred pupils were dismissed midway through the search.

Pilon was being transported from a Greenville, Mo., hospital to San Francisco to face bank robbery charges. He was with two other prisoners and two guards.

While they were stopped at an Interstate 20 restaurant Pilon overpowered the guards in a restroom, took their pistols and forced four hostages to drive him to the northwest part of Abilene.

Pioneer Gas Rate Date Rescheduled

AUSTIN (AP) — A railroad Commission hearing on an application by Pioneer Natural Gas Co. to raise its domestic and commercial rates has been rescheduled from Nov. 4 to Nov. 24.

The commission said several cities and the company had asked for the later hearing date.

Pioneer has requested a rate of not less than 34 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas, plus an allowance for the federal income tax surtax charge on gas deliveries. It would affect 61 cities, towns, and villages, including Big Spring, Lubbock, Midland, Odessa, Pampa and Plainview.

Fusses Over Bulldozing Of Trees Due Attention

DALLAS (AP) — University of Texas regents were slated to juggle a couple of hot potatoes involving campus trees and a Ph. D. at their meeting here today.

The campus trees were bulldozed down last week over student and faculty protests to make way for an addition to the stadium at the University of Texas at Austin.

The Ph. D. (doctor of philosophy) belongs to James McCrocklin, former president of Southwest Texas State University at San Marcos. A faculty committee recommended that the University strip McCrocklin of the degree earned at Austin after they investigated charges of plagiarism involving McCrocklin's dissertation.

Regents must vote formal ratification of a contract for expansion of Memorial Stadium. The bids for the project was received between regents meetings and Chairman Frank Erwin was authorized by the board to execute the contract, subject to later ratification.

Dawson Assured Of A Wet Year

LAMESA — Dawson County is virtually assured of its second wettest year on record. Through Tuesday, the total precipitation for 1969 was 33.50 inches.

Only in 1941, when 39.07 inches fell, has Dawson County recorded more rain. With two more months to go, there is a chance that 1969 may narrow the gap. October rainfall was pegged at 5.50, which was considerably short of the whopping 12.5 inches measured in October, 1941.

Egypt Pressures Guerrilla Boss To Talk With Lebanese

By The Associated Press
Egypt is pressing guerrilla chief Yasir Arafat to meet with the Lebanese but say Lebanon must give full backing to the Arab fight against Israel.

Al Ahran, Cairo's semi-official newspaper, reported today that a note from the Beirut government had been delivered to Arafat in Damascus seeking his reaction. The contents of the note were not disclosed, but the newspaper said the message could serve to open a dialogue between Lebanon and the guerrillas.

But fruitful talks, the newspaper said, must be preceded by a cease-fire and a guarantee that the Lebanese army would not use negotiations to gain time for a death blow against the guerrillas.

Egypt is trying to mediate the dispute between half-Christian, half-Moslem Lebanon and the Arab guerrillas who want a free hand to use Lebanon as a base for raids against Israel. The Lebanese army has been trying to check the guerrillas, fearing retaliation from Israel.

Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, Al Ahran's editor and frequent spokesman for President Gamal Abdel Nasser, said in an editorial that any solution to the current crisis would be temporary at best.

The crux of the crisis, he said, is not the confrontation between the Lebanese army and the guerrillas but Lebanon's internal conflict caused by the "current sharp polarization in the Arab-Israeli dispute."

After the 1967 war, Heikal said, "Lebanon tried to resume life as usual... but it is doubtful whether any Arab country can actually stay away from the next inevitable Arab-Israeli collision."

While other Arab states have supported guerrilla attacks against Israel and even launched direct military actions, Lebanon has tried to steer a pacific course for fear of Israeli reprisals. In doing so, she has incurred the animosity of the others, particularly her traditionally hostile neighbor, Syria.

Heikal also claimed in his editorial that high-level meetings are under way at NATO headquarters in Naples, studying the possibility of sending the U.S. 6th Fleet to intervene in the Lebanese crisis. A 6th Fleet spokesman in Naples said no such meetings were going on there and that both the NATO and 6th Fleet commanders were on separate ships cruising in the Mediterranean.

Marines attached to the 6th Fleet were sent into Lebanon in 1958 to shore up the pro-Western government during an insurrection which the Eisenhower administration said was Communist. But Heikal said another such landing has apparently been ruled out "because of the reaction it might arouse in Arab countries."

PASSING THROUGH Big Spring Wednesday on their trailer tour of the nation were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Good. They are on leave from Good's American Foreign Service post in the American Embassy, Bonn, Germany.

Ambassador Visits BS On Tour Of The Nation

By MARILYN NEVELS
Foreign service officer Dale Good and his wife visited in Big Spring Wednesday on a month's tour of the United States. They are Americans rediscovering America, reacquainting themselves with the people. Good is on leave from his post as labor specialist in the American Embassy in Bonn, Germany.

and will pass through the South back to Washington, D.C.

"It is the first time we have been west of the Mississippi," said Mrs. Good. It is also the first time they have ever camped in a trailer. "The people at trailer camps are very friendly and talkative," Good said.

"It is easy to get out of touch with the American people when you're abroad," Good explained. "We have found that America has almost everything that Europe has, except the long history. We're very heterogeneous," Good said.

'Restless Ones' Plays Sunday

"The Restless Ones," considered the most successful motion picture yet produced by Evangelist Billy Graham, will be shown in Big Spring Sunday at the East Fourth Street Baptist Church, at 7 p.m.

With the accent on youth, this feature-length film deals imaginatively and dramatically with the teenage crisis. With a background setting provided by the 1963 Billy Graham Los Angeles Crusade, and woven into the story pattern, "The Restless Ones" is a bold approach to social problems.

"I especially enjoy the Mexican food," Mrs. Good added. She plans to take some of Texas' Mexican recipes back to Germany to serve at the English conversation gatherings they give for German students. "Usually we try to serve some typically American food, like apple pie, or brownies," she said.

The Embassy in Bonn has about 70 to 75 American families, said Good. The staff is divided into three sections, the counselor section which issues visas to Germaners wishing to visit the U.S., and helps American tourists; the economic section which reports on German economics and aids American businessmen; and the political section which handles diplomatic relations.

"That is my section," Good said. "My specialty is labor affairs and social legislation in Germany. Germans are interested in America," Good stressed. "They want to know about American labor organizations and strikes. I provide this information, too."

Foreign service wives also are busy being America's "ambassadors." They give parties for old people's homes and for children in orphanages. They sponsor conversation gatherings for Bonn high school and college students who study English. Money they earn by operating a thrift shop is donated toward scholarships for German and American Field Service exchange students.

Bonn is the third foreign duty post for the Goods. Following his entry into the service in 1953, Good has served in Athens, Greece, Tel Aviv, Israel and Vienna, Austria. He and his wife are natives of Ohio and have a 19-year-old daughter attending college in Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. Good will return to Bonn late in November with new knowledge of their fellow-citizens. The trip has been most enjoyable and has brought us up-to-date, said Good. "The German people are particularly interested in what we Americans are thinking and doing," he said.

ATTEND HISTORICAL SOCIETY DINNER — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and his wife, Joan, at dinner meeting of the Massachusetts Historical Society in Boston Thursday night. In an address Kennedy suggested that the nation's historians begin a "concerted, institutionalized effort" to provide every American with "a more realistic picture of his country's history."

Koepchne Inquest Secrecy Ordered

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court has ruled that an inquest into the death of Mary Jo Koepchne must be held in secret, as requested by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

But in their decision Thursday the five justices declined to disqualify Judge James A. Boyle of the Edgartown District Court from presiding at the inquest.

The ruling left Boyle free to set a new date for the inquest—originally scheduled to begin Sept. 3—and he told newsmen he would do so after studying the Supreme Court ruling.

In addition to throwing out Kennedy's contention that Boyle should not preside, the justices rejected arguments by attorneys for the senator that the state inquest law is unconstitutional.

They upheld Boyle's directive that while lawyers for witnesses could be present while their clients were testifying, they could not cross examine witnesses—a privilege Kennedy counsel had demanded.

The justices said the transcript of the secret inquest proceedings would be made public only if the inquest established that no criminal proceedings were called for, or after any chance of criminal prosecution had ended.

Sen. Kennedy said in reply to a newsmen's question after the Supreme Court ruling was handed down:

"It is my understanding the record will be made available to the public and I am pleased that it will."

He said he hoped the inquest would be held quickly "so I can get on with representing the people of Massachusetts."

The purpose of the inquest is to determine the legal cause of Miss Koepchne's death. Her body was found in the senator's car, submerged in a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island, on July 15. A medical examiner ruled that she drowned.

Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis, who ordered the inquiry, said he had no comment on the court ruling.

In its decision the court said it recognized the contention of Kennedy's lawyers that Miss Koepchne's death and resultant proceedings had led to worldwide publicity.

"The difficulties presented," the court commented, "are not lessened by the circumstance that the petitioner Kennedy's own resort to television may itself have increased public interest in the events of July 18, 1969, and the public demand for a more complete investigation and explanation of those events."

Explaining its decision to bar press and public, the Supreme Court said:

"If the proceedings are public, the activities of the news media may be such as to make it difficult if not impossible for a long time to insure to a defendant a fair trial in any criminal proceedings which may follow the inquest."

Kennedy drove his car off the side of a narrow, rail-less bridge on Chappaquiddick Island, off Edgartown on Martha's Vineyard. He escaped, but the body of Miss Koepchne, 28, a former secretary for Kennedy's late brother Robert, was found in the car the next morning.

Kennedy appeared at the Edgartown police station some 10 hours after he said the accident occurred to make a report on it.

A week later he went into Edgartown District Court, before the same Judge Boyle and pleaded guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident without making himself known.

He was given a two months jail sentence, suspended on prohibition for a year.

Dinis' request that Miss Koepchne's body be exhumed for autopsy, which Dinis says is needed for the inquest, is under consideration in a Wilkes-Barre, Pa., court.

What Are They Waiting For?

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Gilbert P. Smith, president of The Associated Press Managing Editors, has suggested that holding the Mary Jo Koepchne inquest in secret disregards the public right to information.

Smith, managing editor of The Observer-Dispatch of Utica, made his comment after a Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court ruling Thursday that press and public would be barred from the inquiry into the death of Miss Koepchne, whose body was found in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's submerged car last July 19.

Smith asked: "If they want to make the inquest public eventually through the transcript, what are they waiting for? Is the reason that it involves a prominent person whose family has suffered a great deal of tragedy? Would this be done for anyone?"

"I simply wonder why this particular case would be the one to set such a precedent. It seems to me, of all the recent tragedies, that the public has the right to know all the details of this one, since it involves a person who may be asked some day to be considered for one of the highest offices in the land."

United States Transfers 13 More Boats To Vietnamese

SAIGON (AP) — The five major allies that provide combat forces to South Vietnam today signed their secret annual military campaign plan for 1970.

The plan was drawn up by the senior military representatives of South Vietnam, the United States, South Korea, Thailand, Australia and New Zealand.

Spokesmen refused to discuss its contents. The document outlines the military campaign goals, sets troop and supply priorities and defines operating areas.

Although it does not carry the legal commitments of a formal treaty, it is the agreed position of the governments concerned.

The document was signed in the secret war room of the South Vietnamese joint general staff. The American signer was Gen. Creighton Abrams, commander of all U.S. forces in Vietnam.

The Philippines, which has only a force of civic action troops in Vietnam with a battalion of infantry for security, is not a signatory.

The plan is drawn up on the basis of prospective troops levels for the coming year. Presumably it includes large-scale reductions in American forces, but U.S. officers would not comment on this or any other aspect of the plan.

No such joint plan existed until last year. The first one was signed in September, 1968, for 1969.

Only scattered fighting was reported today and progress toward the "Vietnamization" of the war continued with the turnover of 13 U.S. Navy patrol boats to the South Vietnamese.

The U.S. Air Force also announced the redeployment of two squadrons of F100 Super Sabre jets based at the big Bien An base outside Saigon. The planes will be replaced by two squadrons of A37 attack jets from England Air Force Base, La., which the South Vietnamese air force is being trained to use.

The naval transfer brought to 242 the number of boats turned over to Vietnamese control so far out of the 550-boat U.S. Navy fleet that began patrolling South Vietnam's inland waterways in June, 1968.

The turnover, made at the Vietnamese navy shipyard here, was part of the U.S. "Vietnamization" program to shift more of the war burden to the Saigon regime so U.S. troops can leave.

U.S. Navy sources say the remaining 308 patrol craft will be transferred to the Vietnamese navy by next June.

The U.S. Command reported four Americans killed and eight wounded Thursday in the second straight day of fighting near An Khe, in the central highlands 265 miles northeast of Saigon.

It said elements of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division were attacked by an enemy platoon that pulled back after three hours of fighting. Enemy casualties were not known.

U.S. troops killed 20 enemy soldiers near that area Wednesday, but U.S. military sources said there was no indication of an enemy buildup there.

Only small contacts were reported elsewhere as the battle-field lull entered its ninth week.

The U.S. Command reported 10 enemy shelling Thursday night, none of them against American forces, and said only one caused damage or casualties.

U.S. B52 bombers flew six missions during the night. Two were in Chau Doc Province in the Mekong Delta where one of three North Vietnamese regiments in the delta is believed operating.

Minister Finds Israelis Striving For Their Land

By JOHN HILBIG
Israel was the most impressive place on their three-week tour, according to the Rev. Leo K. Gee, who with his wife, Barbara, returned last week from a 10-country trip through Europe and Israel.

"We were impressed with the spirit of the people," Rev. Gee said, "their drive to build their land and to produce enough to feed their nation. They say they have been guests for 2,000 years, and are now tired of it. They are willing to die to maintain their land."

Rev. Gee and his wife left Sept. 30 on a trip which included stops in Ireland, England, Holland, Belgium, France, Austria, Israel, Italy, the Vatican and Switzerland. The tour, which was a gift from the congregation of the First United Methodist Church, where Rev. Gee is pastor, was for both study and vacation.

"We did do plenty of studying of the history of Methodism and of Israel, the land of the Bible," Rev. Gee said. "We were going 18 hours a day sometimes, and covered some 25,000 miles."

Rev. Gee and his wife traveled alone on their trip, not as part of a tour. When going between countries, they took the airline of one of the countries instead of taking an American airline.

"We wanted to get the flavor of the people," Rev. Gee said. "It was very exciting when dealing with these people, as we went through their customs, etc. We flew on eight different airlines."

"We also discovered a respect

HOME AGAIN — Rev. Leo K. Gee, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, and his wife, Barbara, sit with some souvenirs they brought back with them from their trip through Europe and Israel. They kept a banner from each country they visited, Ireland, England, Holland, Belgium, France, Austria, Israel, Italy, the Vatican and Switzerland, so their daughter could add them to her collection. Rev. Gee will be giving a talk and showing slides on his tour the first four Sundays of November at 6 p.m.

for America, and almost everywhere we went, we found a welcome as Americans. Especially in Israel, where the people know what they owe America, what America has done for them, they were very appreciative."

During a week's stay in Israel, the Gees were able to visit many places of historical interest to Christians, including old city Jerusalem (Bethlehem, Calvary, the Walling Wall), Bethlehem ("With the sheep grazing on the hill around the town, it looks much like it did 2,000 years ago"), Nazareth and the Church of the Nativity, the Jordan River, Tiberias ("We stood on the mount where the Lord delivered the sermon with the Beatitudes"), and Caesarea, where the Gees found some artifacts of pottery and mosaic tile dating from before the birth of Christ.

The Gees got a look at the historical past of Methodism in a three-day jaunt in and around London, England. They visited the home of John Wesley, founder of Methodism, the Wesley Chapel where he preached, his tomb and the tomb of his mother, Susanne Wesley, and a museum containing books, letters, sermons, and furniture (bed, chair, desk, teapot) of Wesley.

Other spots of interest in their trip included the Vienna Woods in Austria, Paris, Vatican City, and a diamond cutting factory in Amsterdam, and many of the ruins of Rome.

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Upset by a new book about its racial conduct, the Tattnall Square Baptist Church here has cancelled its account with the Baptist Book Store in Atlanta. Explained the pastor, the Rev. Byron M. Wilkinson, "We are just tired of getting our teeth kicked out."

The book, "Ashes for Breakfast," by Gainer E. Bryon Jr. and the Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Holmes, issued by Judson Press, tells of former ministers being expelled by the congregation for favoring integration, and about some of its mission converts in Africa being denied membership in it.

Dear Friends Who Sponsor This Page,
Amid the clamor of many voices in our day,
we sometimes neglect to pause and say thanks to you for sharing together in bringing the message of the spiritual to our community.
This page serves as a sign-post pointing the way, giving us a visual-mental reminder to attend the church of our choice.
This feature has proven itself to be a definite asset and service to our churches.
The message each week is meaningful and helpful, giving us guidance in the right direction that we can well afford to follow.
Your encouragement of religious loyalty and faithful church attendance is a comfort to all in these troubled days.
Again, let me say thanks to you for your part in sponsoring this Christian endeavor. May you be richly blessed.

Sincerely,
Robert J. Falk,

Student Council Votes Help For Vietnamese

Lt. John R. Hatch, Class of '62, needed a lift on his work with the Vietnamese people, so he turned to his alma mater. The Student Council responded at once. Every week, there will be a package of five pounds of school supplies going to Lt. Hatch — or more if he needs it. Lt. Hatch is serving on a mobile advisory team in Vietnam, which operates in remote areas with virtually no contact or protection from United States elements. "Our job is to teach the Vietnamese how to defend themselves," he wrote. "We take them on combat operations against the VC, however, this is only part of our job. Some of our responsibilities include helping the Vietnamese improve their local government, sanitation, and teach them basic medical skills, since doctors are non-existent. "Another problem is improving their education system. This is a tremendous one because the VC have a nasty habit of assassinating the teachers and blowing up the schools. Related to this is a tremendous shortage of school supplies. The government-supplied tools are never enough, and these people are so poor they can't even afford fuel for their lamps, let alone school supplies for their children. So I would like to ask if any of your students would like to help these people by donating school supplies such as pencils, paper, rulers, colors, erasers, etc?" Lt. Hatch's area is responsible for 670 school children, ages 6-13, and five teachers. "You can see things are pretty bad, but last year they didn't even have a school," he added. "When I first came here, I felt the same as many demonstrators, but few people really understand what this war is all about. These people want the same things you do at home, security, the right to own their own land, and to live in peace. They've made a lot of progress, and I've learned to respect them. But they have a long way to go. This appeal is to help innocent civilians help themselves." To this, Lynn Cauley, president of the BSHS Student Council, replied: "By unanimous vote, the Student Council elected to support your cause in Vietnam. It is their intention to bring the facts in your letter to the attention of the entire student body for action." Because the post office department suggested the best way for prompt delivery was to send packages of five pounds or less, the council will start sending one a week. It may be that others will do likewise. Lt. Hatch's address is: Lt. John R. Hatch 369-43 5389, MAT 94 Adv Tm. 91111 Corps, APO, 96314, San Francisco, Calif. (P.S. He added this note: "I noticed you beat Midland Lee. I hope I can pick up a paper and see the headlines, 'Steers Take District!' The Steers are working on that; meantime, Lt. Hatch may be pleased to know that 'Steers Beat Bobcats.'")

When South sorted his cards, he thought that he had been made the victim of a practical joker. His holding appeared to be completely devoid of value, and he feared the worst before the auction commenced. His hand would actually have been worth several tricks to North, and a substantial profit could have been registered had he shown a bit of faith in his partner and seen matters thru. West opened the bidding with one spade and North made an immediate cue bid of two spades, which is unconditionally forcing to game. In other words, partner is bound to keep the bidding open either until a game contract is reached or else the opponents have been doubled for penalties. North's hand is worth 23 points in high cards counting an extra point for possession of all the aces. Valued as a dummy for partner, an additional three points is added for the singleton. North was willing to gamble out a game undertaking on the chance that South held nothing more than a distributional fit for one of North's suits. South dutifully responded with three diamonds. North now showed his five card heart suit in an attempt to probe further for the best game contract. At this juncture, South suddenly became fearful of the consequences of proceeding further with a bust, and chose unwisely to pass. North was set one trick at his three heart contract. It was his contention that South should have rebid four clubs over three hearts, and then he, North, would have gone on to five clubs. We are in complete accord with him, inasmuch as the cue bidder — like the player who opens with a demand bid — assumes full responsibility for the proceedings, and partner is not permitted an opinion of his own. South was duty bound to go along with North until the latter had an opportunity to determine in which suit the contract should be played. At five clubs, South should lose, at the outside, two trump tricks. By crisscrossing hearts and diamonds, he is able to establish the dummy's side suit, and at the same time avoid the loss of a diamond trick by taking a finesse in that suit thru West's queen.

Hanoi's Key Firms Remain In Rubble

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the year since the last U.S. bomb fell on North Vietnam, Hanoi has rebuilt the nation's road, rail and water transportation system—but key parts of its industry still are in rubble. This is the assessment by U.S. intelligence analysts of North Vietnamese recovery efforts since Oct. 31, 1968, when President Lyndon B. Johnson ordered U.S. bombers to halt raids on the North. Hanoi had started rehabilitation during the previous seven months, after Johnson limited bombing only to the 170-mile-long Panhandle. But much recovery work awaited the total end of bombing. According to U.S. estimates, American bombers destroyed 35,000 structures and reduced industry to the primitive level of 1954, the year North Vietnam became independent after defeating the French. But the main purpose of the 3½-year U.S. bombing campaign was to cut down infiltration of enemy troops and supplies into South Vietnam and to raise the cost to Hanoi for continuing to support the war.

Despite about half a million tons of U.S. bombs and rockets dumped on roads, railroads, bridges, canals and streams, the North Vietnamese managed to maintain a flow of war gear to their troops and the Viet Cong in the South. U.S. air officers contended they could have virtually shut off the supply flow if they had not been limited by restrictions to minimize North Vietnamese civilian casualties. Some 600,000 North Vietnamese were diverted from raising food to keep open the lines of communication and to man air defenses. With the end of the bombing, many returned to the rice paddies, but thousands were put to work rebuilding bomb damage. Here is what they have accomplished: All destroyed and damaged bridges have been repaired along major railroad lines. Temporary structures are giving way to permanent steel and concrete spans. Modern diesel engines are now seen by U.S. reconnaissance planes as far south as the city of Vinh, a major trans-shipment point. An important north-east rail route from Hanoi to Red China has been virtually re-converted to dual gauge. All major roads leading into the Laotian panhandle are open once more to truck traffic, with numerous bypasses built to facilitate the movement of military cargo in the unlikely event of resumed bombing. The truck road network into Laos has been extended and tied to the western end of the demilitarized zone. Vinh has been built up to a more important position than ever as a supply movement point. For the first time since 1965, big foreign merchant ships are unloading cargo to Vinh by barge and junk, rather than hauling their loads to Haiphong some 190 miles further north. The number and size of steel barges used to carry cargo along inland waterways in the panhandle have increased heavily.

Still Checking Burning Death

Officials continued their investigation today into the mystery-shrouded burning death of a Lamesa man. The body of David Esparza, 33, was found burned beyond recognition in the back seat of a car, 24 miles north of Stanton on Texas 137 Tuesday night. The car was also destroyed. A Martin County sheriff's office spokesman said that a half-filled gallon jug of gasoline was found nearby. Justice of the Peace Martin Gibson ordered an autopsy on the remains of the dead man, and ordered a lie detector test for Sylvester Torres Jr. of Lamesa, identified as driver of the car. The test was conducted Thursday in Midland, but results were not released. Torres was charged before Gibson Thursday with DWI, and released on $750 bond posted by a Lamesa bonding firm. In a statement to DPS officers, Torres said that the car he was driving suddenly caught fire while heading north on SH 137. He said he pulled to the side of the road and attempted to extricate Esparza from the burning vehicle, but was unsuccessful.

Farmer's Union Sets Program

Abilene will host the Sixty-sixth Annual Convention of Texas Farmers Union Dec. 4-6. According to the officials of the statewide general farm organization, it may be the "biggest convention in the organization's history." The convention headquarters will be the Windsor Hotel. Among the headline speakers expected to address the convention are Tony T. Dechant of Denver, president of National Farmers Union; Paul Babeey, president of the Alberta Farmers Union, Alberta, Canada; Sen. Ralph Yarborough; Fred Heinkel of Missouri, president of the Mid-continent Farmers Association; Gordon Tweed, president of Montana Farmers Union; and Ray Novak of Denver, executive vice president, National Farmers Union Insurance. Bennie Blissard, Big Spring, is among those on a committee to draft a state program.

Hurts Inflicted By Family Dog

AMARILLO (AP) — Tonia Bishop, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bishop of Amarillo, is in serious condition in an Amarillo hospital after undergoing surgery for wounds inflicted by the family dog. She has severe lacerations to her face, jaw and head.

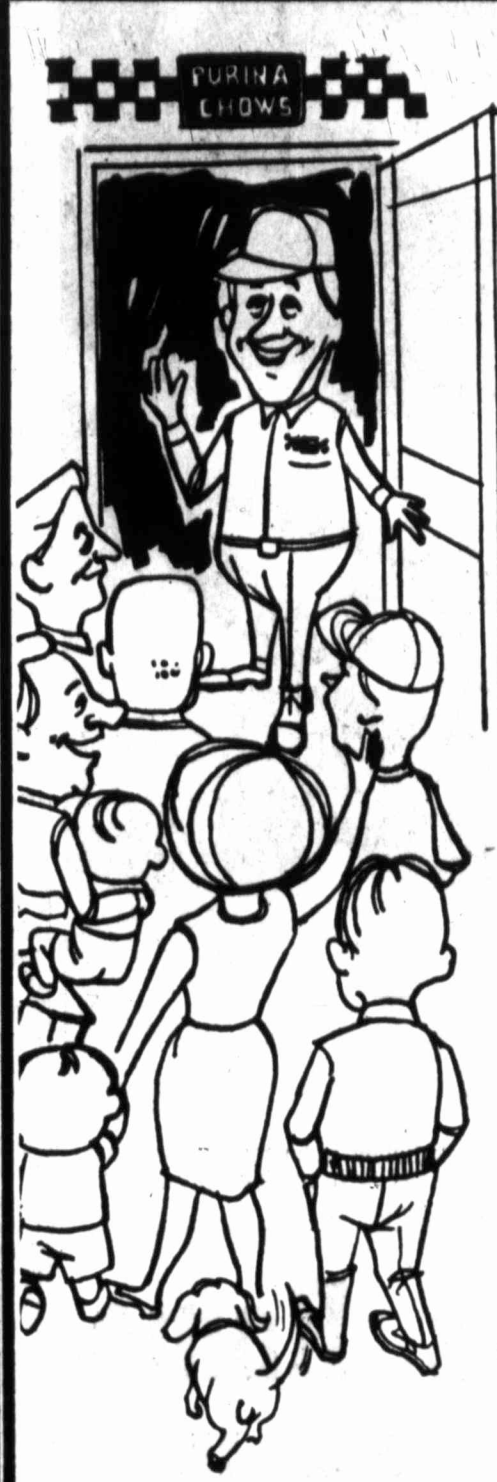

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I was widowed. My children are married. Last year I married a well-to-do banker 20 years my senior. Before we were married (against my better judgment) I signed a pre-nuptial agreement stating that I would be entitled to nothing if our marriage didn't work out. He promised to destroy the pre-nuptial agreement after one year if our marriage worked out. The year is up now and we have gotten along beautifully. He keeps telling me how "happy" he is, and how much he loves me, but he wants to keep the pre-nuptial agreement intact. He told me before we were married that he would provide for me in his will, but so far I haven't seen the will either. Abby, he has never been married before and has no children to leave his estate to. He is a fine person, but I feel so insecure now, as if I were still a widow. I am unable to work, and I married this man for security. What should I do? NO SECURITY DEAR NO: Too bad you married him for security because you don't have any. You had better have a showdown with him before investing any more of your time in what appears to be a nonprofit venture. DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a husband who in 16 years of marriage has never once remembered his wife on her birthday, anniversary, or even on Mother's day, although she has given him five children? Yet, he has asked his wife to bake a cake for his secretary's birthday. Sign me. CURIOUS DEAR CURIOUS: I think he is a heel who, under the cir-

Vols Risking High Rating This Week

By The Associated Press
Take three teams that were supposed to be just mediocre but are far from it, add three equally dangerous squads, throw in a jinx or two, add an arch-rivalry . . . and what do you get?

A slam-bag trio of college football games as far as the hectic Southeastern Conference race is concerned.
It's been a long time since one conference could boast an awesome lineup equalling Saturday's SEC games that match: No. 3-ranked Tennessee, riding a five-game victory string, at defending champion Georgia, No. 11; No. 7 Florida at No. 17 Auburn and No. 8 Louisiana State against its arch-rival, rugged Mississippi, at Jackson, Miss.

LSU and Florida, both 6-0 for the season, are tied with Tennessee for first place with 2-0 marks. Ironically, all three teams were picked in pre-season polls to finish among the league's also-rans.

POINT FAVORITE
Tennessee, idle last week, is a one-point favorite over the Bulldogs, 2-1 and 5-1, but to win it the Vols will have to solve Georgia's stingy defense and a string of success at home.

The Bulldogs have yielded an average of only 8.2 points per game and rank ninth in rushing defense. On top of that, they have lost only two games and tied one in 26 at home under Coach Vince Dooley. But the Vols are rolling along with a 39.6-point average, fourth best in the country.

Florida—off to an astonishing start with a sophomore-laden attack headed by quarterback John Reeves, who leads the country with 20 touchdown passes—is the nation's third best scoring outfit with a 39.7 average and ranks eighth in total offense.

Auburn, 4-2 and 1-2, has been tabbed a touchdown favorite, however, thanks to a crew of stoppers that rank second in total defense and seventh in pass defense.

In addition, Florida Coach Ray Graves has taken some dandy Gator teams to Auburn, only to have the Tigers maintain their home field jinx.

Rallye Set For Sunday

The West Texas Sports Car Club will sponsor an open road rallye on Nov. 2, 1969. The rallye will start from the parking lot of the Texas Highway Department at 1 p.m. and the first car will leave at 2 p.m.

This event will be a standard time distance rallye and is open for any licensed driver who is 18 years old or older. A driver and a navigator will be required for each entrant.

The course is laid out within a 30 mile radius of Midland and will take approximately three hours to complete. The rallye will be run on all paved roads and speeds will be at or under legal speed limits.

The Rallyemasters will be Darold and Jean Hobbs. Any interested person can call 684-6519 for additional information.

BS Downgraded By Harris Poll
Local football buffs are ready to yell "four" after reading the latest Harris System football ratings.

The resident Steers are rated no higher than 35th, despite the fact that they defeated San Angelo Central in the enemy's camp last week. That's no higher than they were listed prior to the game.

Amarillo Palo Duro climbed to the top of the heap in Class AAAA while Abilene Cooper remained in second.

Statewide, Odessa Permian was sixth, Abilene High 26th and San Angelo 29th.

Midland High, Big Spring's opponent this week, was relegated to the 115th spot. Big Spring was listed as a 15.4 favorite over Midland.

In Class A, Coahoma could climb no higher than sixth, despite an awesome win over O'Donnell.

Nicklaus Is Eyeing Succession Of Wins

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus sat there saying he was playing as well as he had in two years, and talking rather casually about winning three or four tournaments in a row.

And he didn't discount the possibility of leading the money winning list. Right now he trails Frank Beard by about $77,000, with only the current Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament and three others to go.

Nicklaus, winner of the Sahara Invitational in his last start, charged in with a 66 on Thursday and shared the first round lead in the $140,000 Kaiser with Lou Graham and Jack Courtney.

"If I win here," said Nicklaus, who has won about $94,000 this year, "that would put me only about $1,000 behind Gary Player," who is third on the list with about $123,000. And Player isn't going to play any more this year.

"If I win maybe three in a row, well, I'd be right up there. I don't know whether I'll play Danny Thomas," he said, referring to the final tournament of the year. "But if I'm in a position to improve my standing on the list, maybe take No. 1, I'll sure try to."

"It all just depends," Nicklaus now ranks seventh on the money list. He has not finished lower than third since turning pro in 1961.

All three of the leaders played the 6,602-yard, par 72 south course at the Silverado Country Club, but will switch over to the 6,849-yard, par 72 north course for their second round today. The final two rounds will be on the north course.

One stroke back, at 67, were Ron Cerrudo and Ed Sneed, both of whom played the north, and Don January, on the south.

A big group at 68 included Frank Beard, Billy Casper, Steve Reid, Tommy Aaron, Rookie John Miller, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Doug Sanders and Canadian Robert Panasuk.

Masters champion George Archer was one of a huge group at 69. Arnold Palmer had a 71, PGA champ Ray Floyd a 72 and Tom Weiskopf took an 81.

The first-round scores in the $140,000 Kaiser International open golf tournament at the Silverado Country Club Thursday included:
Lou Graham 29-34-66

The story hasn't spread around the world but Japanese professional baseball has been rocked by a gambling scandal reminiscent of the 1919 World Series, when several members of the Chicago White Sox were accused of rigging the show.

Pro baseball is big, very big, in Nippon.
One of the players has been accused of being the man who arranged for some of the games to be thrown. He has not denied the allegations, in fact has shown a willingness to involve others.

Japanese baseball authorities may have to appoint a Judge K. M. Landis type to restore public faith in their product.

Coach Johnny Rauch of the Buffalo Bills used O. J. Simpson principally as a blocker and a decoy in a recent AFL game against Oakland.

When asked about the wisdom of the ploy, Rauch said the Raiders came up with a type of defense that forced the change.

A San Francisco writer snorted at the explanation, adding that if Rauch were teaching art in the Netherlands, he would have Vincent Van Gogh mixing the paints.

The success story of the New York Mets was incredible, when you consider the fact that the club's pace-setter in run-batted-in and home runs, Tommy Agee, was installed in the lineup as the leadoff hitter.

Players on the winning team in the Senior Bowl start earning $1,250 with the next game. The losers will be doled out $1,000 each.

The wages were $250 less in each instance last year.

Mavericks, Edison Fight To 18-18 Standoff Here
San Angelo Edison capitalized on a faulty snapback late in the game for a safety that enabled it to tie the Big Spring Golliad's eighth graders in a football game here Thursday evening, 18-18.

Golliad led, 18-8, at half time and appeared on their way to a decisive win but the visitors fought back gallantly in the final two rounds to pull even.

Following a 37-yard kickoff return by Doug Smith in the opening round, Golliad scored in three plays. Earl Reynolds went in from 26 yards away on an off-tackle maneuver.

Not long thereafter, Golliad counted again on a 55-yard power sweep by Glenn Carlton. That made it 12-0.

Reynolds played his finest game, both on defense and offense, for Big Spring. Other offensive standouts included Tom Sorley, Glenn Carlton, Monty Gillilan, Jimmy Stewart, Steve Brackett and John Parks.

On defense, the Golliad stars included Tim Dunn and James Lacy. The Golliad defensive unit had to play well, because it was per boy and Edison ran 58 outweighted close to 20 pounds per boy and Edison ran 58 plays, compared to 33 for the Mavs.

Now 5-2-1 on the year, Golliad plays Snyder Lamar on the road next Thursday.

Pokes, Vikings, Rams Given Nod By Scribe

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have been brooding about the last trip to Cleveland since last December and figure to take it out on the Browns in a Sunday preview of the Eastern Conference title game in December.

Los Angeles should make it seven in a row in their rematch with Atlanta although it may be tough for George Allen to get the Rams up for a team they defeated 17-7 at home in September.

Oakland, the other unbeaten pro club, figures to sneak past Cincinnati on the road despite the boobytraps that Paul Brown has built at Nippert Stadium.

After last week's 11-1 and a chance to size up merits of rookie line year candidates, Calvin Hill and Ron Johnson.

Minnesota 27, Chicago 10 — Vikings battered Bears 31-0 in first meeting Oct. 12 at Wrigley Field and look like the winner in fourth Central Division. Bears did beat Vikings twice last year and Gale Sayers proved last Sunday he can't be overlooked.

New York 21, Philadelphia 20 — Anything can happen in this one. Giants were supposed to live on their offense but defense has been carrying load. Eagles score points with Norm Snead pitching but they give up 30 points a game. Eagles won Aug. 30 exhibition at Princeton, N.J., 24-17. About time for Fran Tarkenton to come alive unless the Cowboys took too much out of Giants Monday night.

Washington 21, Baltimore 17 — Upset of the week and let's keep those letters coming, Baltimore, if the Colts win it. Redskins not as good as their 4-1 record and Colts better than 3-3. But this is for blood in a next-door rivalry and Redskins are hungry. They haven't beaten Colts since 1959. Vince Lombardi will have them breathing fire and those Colts won't be any pussycats after Don Shula gets through raking them over the coals. Could be a real war. In this corner, John Unitas. And over here, Sonny Jurgensen.

Los Angeles 17, Atlanta 10 — Unless the Rams decide they already won this in September they shouldn't have too much trouble. Falcons can be stubborn but to not have manpower to handle Rams' pass rush. Helo dere, Bruce Lemmerman.

Green Bay 21, Pittsburgh 13 — Packers were too much for Steelers in Sept. 6 exhibition, 31-19 and should do it again by picking apart the Steeler pass defense. A big day for the Packers' corner men if Terry Hanratty starts to throw the ball.

San Francisco 17, Detroit 10 — Lions hurting at quarterback with Bill Musunot out and Greg Landry hurt. Greg Barton could get the ball. Steve Spurrier got the 49ers home in front last week and will try again with John Brodie still have arm trouble. A tough game to call.

St. Louis 20, New Orleans 10 — Cards may have found the spark in 21-21 tie with Cleveland and fine work of John Gilliam. St. Louis vulnerable to air if Saints can find attack to exploit it.

AFL
Houston 17, Boston 10 — Patriots playing it tougher each week and are overdue to beat somebody before home folks. But Houston defense is rugged and should prevail in low-scoring game. Ode Burrell, Holye Granger and George Webster all probable despite minor injuries and Oilers may need them all.

Kansas City 27, Buffalo 17 — The Chiefs are taking people apart these days with Mike Garrett coming back to join Warren McVea and Bob Holmes. Lenny Dawson may have trouble getting back the way Mike Livingston is going. Bills in usual quarterback trouble.

Parachute Jump Set At Sunland
EL PASO — A parachute jump from a height of 12,500 feet will precede Saturday's racing program at Sunland Park.

The aerial show will be staged by five members of the Skydivers of El Paso, who'll try to land on a four-inch disc located in the infield.

The skydive is slated for 12:45 p.m., 45 minutes before the first post. Named to make the dive are Wayne Bolander, a veteran of 300 jumps; Doug McAlister, who has 321 dives to his credit; Jim Boyers, credited with 280 jumps; Clint Hawkins, who's been out about 250 times; and Bruce Finley, a veteran of 66 air dives.

MR., MRS. MEET SET
The annual Mr. and Mrs. Tournament will be held for golfing members at the Big Spring Country Club this weekend.

Entries can play 18 holes either Saturday or Sunday and be eligible for the merchandise awards that will be given away.

Entry fee is $3 per couple. Good weather could bring out a large crowd.

Sands Faces Major Test

ACKERLY — The Sands Mustangs get their biggest test of the season tonight, at which time they venture to Roby to play the revenge-minded Roby Lions in a District 6-B contest. Kickoff time is 7:30 o'clock.

Roby was upset by Jayton last week and will be out to even its league record.

Sands, after experiencing trials and tribulations early in the year, knocked off Hermleigh last week, 14-0, for its first win.

Coach James Blake reasons his team has come a long way since the season began but says it will take a supreme effort to pull this one out.

One of Roby's most rugged individuals is Larry Parks, a 230-pound tackle who plays on defense only.

Roby is 5-1 on the year while Sands is 1-4-1.

A CLOSE CALL — Apprentice matador Jaime Gonzalez of Columbia leaps to one side in bullring at Barcelona, Spain, as the horn of a charging bull rips through trousers of his traje de luces, or suit of lights. Gonzalez escaped without injury. But the horn of the raging animal cut clean through the trousers, appearing between the arch formed by Gonzalez' left arm and body.

Two Are Killed In Mexican Race

ENSENADA, Mexico (AP) — Two drivers were killed and a third was severely injured Thursday in two crashes at the start of the Mexican 1000 off road race to La Paz.

First finishers in the 832-mile race down the Baja California Peninsula were expected to arrive at La Paz later today.

Richard Smith, about 28, of Long Beach, Calif., was killed when his four-wheel-drive Ford Bronco overturned 93 miles south of the starting point.

His partner, Steve Smith, 25, unrelated and also of Long Beach, died of a broken neck shortly after arrival at an Ensenada hospital.

Steve Smith was the son of the late Clay Smith, a well-known auto racing mechanic killed in a pit accident 15 years ago at a dirt track in De Quoin, La. Bill Stroppe, a friend of Steve's father, was among sponsors of Steve's car.

Wolfgang Gerhard, 31, of Ridgefield, N.J., was unconscious and in serious condition late Thursday night at Mercy Hospital with head injuries sustained when his specially built two-wheel-drive vehicle crashed.

His partner, Bert Wrede, 31, also of Ridgefield, suffered minor injuries.

The deaths were the first in the three-year history of the Mexican 1000. A field of 255 motorcycles and vehicles of assorted description left here at one-minute intervals Thursday.

The record for the distance is 20 hours, 30 minutes, set last year by Larry Bogust and Gary Preston on a Honda motorcycle.

The rugged course, only one-fourth paved, was taking its toll. Former Indianapolis 500 winner Farnelli Jones was forced out of the race for this time with a drivetrain problem in his four-wheel drive Ford Bronco.

Less than half of last year's entries beat the 50-hour time limit and the course this year was considered much rougher. Drivers were competing for $89,000 in prizes.

By 10:30 p.m. Thursday, 70 entries had passed through the fourth of eight checkpoints, 314 miles south of Ensenada. They included movie stars Steve McQueen and James Garner.

McQueen was piloting a four-wheel drive Baja Boot and Garner was driving a beefed-up Oldsmobile Cutlass.

Big Spring failed to convert but it didn't matter. The Soph defensive unit was simply too much for Monahans after that and Big Spring was again in possession at the end.

Mike Adams of Big Spring appeared to have been touchdown bound on a belly play in the opening period but the play was whistled dead by an official who thought another boy had the ball.

Games involving three local football teams will be played Saturday, all out of town.

The undefeated Big Spring JV's oppose Midland High at 1:30 p.m. That was originally to have been Thursday night but had to be moved back due to wet grounds.

Both the Toros and the Brahmas visit San Angelo, the Toros to meet Edison at 2 p.m. and the Brahmas to tangle with the Glenn team at 4 p.m.

Midland High's Bulldogs, who have sipped of the heady wine of victory the past two weeks and found it to their liking, try to make it three in a row in an 8 o'clock game here tonight with Big Spring.

The Bulldogs will be favored by a touchdown or so but enormous pressure will be riding on the Longhorns, mainly because they are still in the red-hot 3-AAAA race.

Technically, four teams are still in contention for the crown — even San Angelo — and Big Spring and Permian will be hopeful that the Bobcats can take Cooper over the hurdles tonight and tighten the race.

The Steers, of course, can't afford to be listening for scores. The Midland has been described as

HALL OF HONOR CEREMONIES SCHEDULED BEFORE KICKOFF

Immediately prior to the kickoff in tonight's Big Spring-Midland football game, four more persons will be inducted into the Steer Hall of Honor.

Glenn Whittington, president of the sponsoring organization, the Ex-Lettermen's Association, will be on hand to award scrolls to the quartet or the individuals standing in for them.

Last year, Charley Johnson, Frosty Robison and coaches Carl Coleman and Arah Phillips were the first persons inducted into the shrine. Only Johnson — who plays professional football with the St. Louis Cardinals — was not present for the ceremonies.

Included in the group to be inducted tonight are another pro grinder and two exes who played in the Southwest Conference.

Comeback Nets Sophs Victory

The Big Spring Sophomores put together a 58-yard touchdown drive in the waning minutes of the fourth quarter to edge Monahans' power-laden B team, 6-3, in Memorial Stadium here Thursday night.

The win was the sixth in eight starts for Garland Braun's team, which ventures to San Angelo next Thursday for a return game with San Angelo Central.

The Dogsie appeared on their way to a shutout until they took the ball with eight minutes left in the game, then used 12 plays to slam into the end zone. David Stanley did the honors on a four-yard option run toward the flag.

Big Spring failed to convert but it didn't matter. The Soph defensive unit was simply too much for Monahans after that and Big Spring was again in possession at the end.

Galberson Zachery may have the finest runner in the state. It's generally acknowledged that the Negro senior doesn't have a peer out this way.

The Bulldogs also have speed to burn in such individuals as Walt Rankin and Fountain Smith and an able, crafty quarterback in Polo Madrid.

Last year's game between the two schools was a barnburner from the opening whistle. Big Spring won it with some last second heroics, 19-17.

The Longhorns will again lean heavily upon their defense. The Steers were given a bad time in the first half last week by San Angelo but fairly well dominated play after the half to win, 19-18.

QB Gary Hinds, who perhaps played his finest game against San Angelo, will again be the aid and abetted by such individuals as Rick Penrifo, Joe Chavez, Joe Zubiate, Herman Evans and Mike Barnes.

The Steers' passing game has jelled and abetted by such individuals as Rick Penrifo, Joe Chavez, Joe Zubiate, Herman Evans and Mike Barnes.

The Bulldogs' record is not bad — not bad at all. The Purple opened with a convincing win over Ysleta before dropping four games in a row. Their game successive victories over Midland Lee and Ector.

Several weeks ago, the Bulldogs gave San Angelo a fit for more than three quarters before finally striking their colors.

R. H. Weaver canned a hole-in-one, his first one ever, in a practice round at the Big Spring Country Club Thursday.

It came on the 160-yard fourth hole and enabled him to score a 73 for the 18 holes.

Weaver was playing with Novis Womack, Donald Lovelady and Don Reynolds at the time.

Reddell To Get Award, Plaque At Convention

DALLAS — William J. Reddell, editor of the editorial pages of the San Antonio Express-News, has been named recipient of the 1969 Texas Baptist Public Relations Award. Reddell will be honored at a Press Luncheon Nov. 4 at the Tower of the Americas in the HemisFair Plaza and also will receive an engraved plaque from Public Relations Advisory Committee Chairman C. B. Hogue and P-R Director Billy Keith at the Nov. 6 evening session of the convention.

A native of Rule, Tex., Reddell graduated from the Kansas City, Mo., Art Institute and Baylor University. He edited the 1940 edition of the Baylor yearbook. In November, 1940, he began his association with the San Antonio Express.

After serving as a reporter and city editor for several years, Reddell was promoted to editorial page editor in 1950. He has been honored for excellence in editorial writing by the Associated Press Managing Editors Association, several times.

The Alamo City newsman is a deacon of First Baptist Church, and teaches a Businessmen's Bible Class. He is also chairman of the music committee and the constitution and by-laws committee.

Reddell is a trustee of Baptist Memorial Hospital of 1969 in San Antonio, Baylor University, and is a member of the committee to nominate executive board members for the Baptist General Convention of Texas. He is now a key man in planning for a proposed home for the aging in San Antonio, which will become a part of the Buckner Baptist Benevolences complex.

Last year's P-R honoree was Roy Bacus, general manager of WBAF Radio-TV, Fort Worth. The award is presented annually to a Texas media representative who is judged to have made outstanding contribution in communications concerning Christianity.

Wild Thunderstorms Pop Southeast Texas

By The Associated Press
Vicious thunderstorms assailed parts of Southeast Texas with hail and destructive winds before a surge of cold, dry air drove the turbulence eastward out of state early today.

What the Weather Bureau described as a waterspout—a sea-going tornado which edged ashore—flicked down at Gilchrist, northeast of Galveston, as the wild weather flared up Thursday afternoon. One man was injured and several trailer houses were overturned.

The twister caused a tornado warning to go out for Brazoria, Galveston and Chamber counties but no further damage was reported.

In violent thunderstorms which developed later, hail up to the size of hen eggs pounded the area around Wharton, southwest of Houston. Hailstones 1 1/2 inches thick battered the countryside to the northwest and east of Houston.

A severe thunderstorm watch was issued for 10 counties, remaining in force until midnight for some sections. It covered the counties alerted against possible tornadoes plus Hardin, Harris, Jasper, Jefferson, Liberty, Newton and Orange counties.

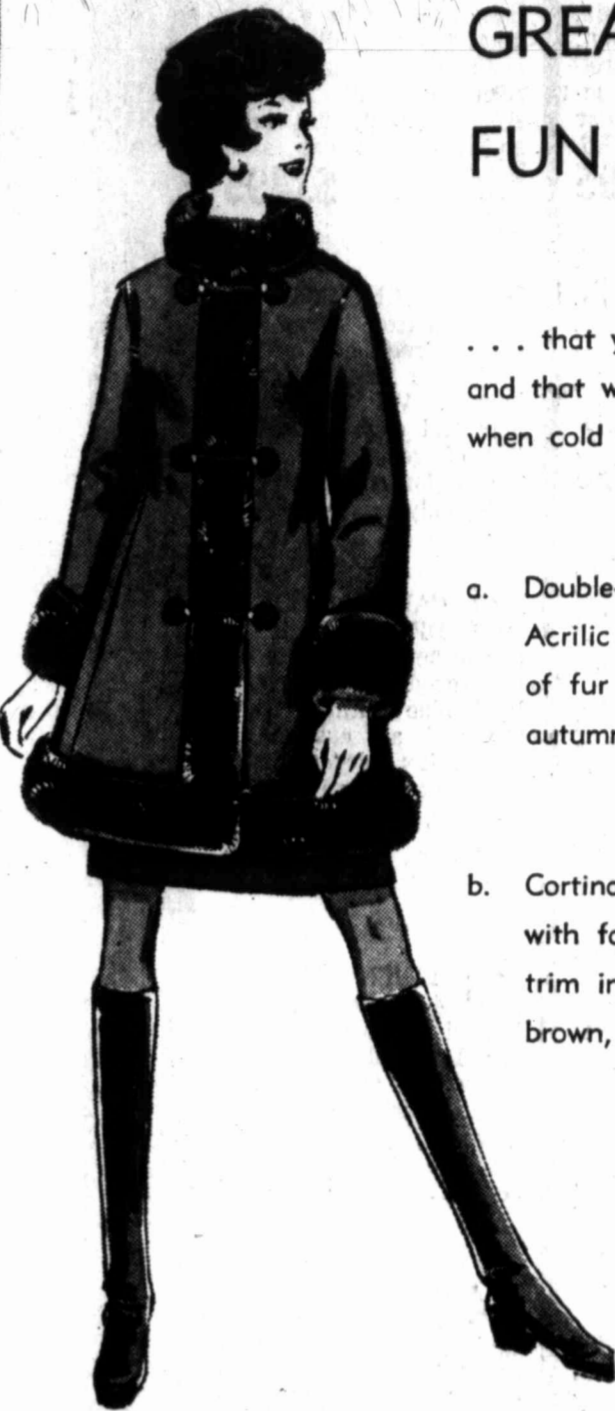

Occasionally heavy rains, showers or drizzle fell here and there across much of East Texas through the night, tapering into scattered showers in the east portion of Southeast Texas by early morning.

Skies cleared over much of the state by today but it was still cloudy across the southeast third. There also were a few clouds in the Panhandle.

Temperatures near dawn sagged to 33 degrees at Lubbock and 36 at Amarillo, Midland and Wink. At the same hour it was 64 in Beaumont and Port Arthur, and 65 at Brownsville.

Mostly fair weather was predicted throughout the state Saturday. It was expected to warm a bit in the northern half but to stay rather cool in the southern sections.
