Maize Days Salutes 21st Century

Friona's 22nd annual Maize Days will open with the Little Miss Pageant Tuesday evening, September 12, at 8 p.m. in the High School Auditorium.

A record number of 30 little ladies have been entered in the Little Miss event. Tickets for the pageant are available from members of the Progressive Study Club who sponsor the event. Tickets will also be available at the door on Tuesday night and a canvass of the town will be made by members of the FHS Thespians Club on Monday evening.

Tickets are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children.

The annual carnival in the City Park attracts several hundred fun-seekers each year. Schafer's 20th Century Shows from Dallas will feature ten rides this year. The Astroliner, patterned after the popular Star Wars outer-space theme, is the exciting new ride for '78. The old favorites...merry-go-round, ferris wheel, octopus, scrambler...will be back, along with the popular cotton candy booth, snow cones, etc.

Carnival tickets will be 50 cents per ride and the Friona Lions Club will again be assisting with ticket sales with a percentage of the intake going to aid the Lion's many worthy projects.

Thursday, September 14, is the date for the annual Maize Queen Contest. The talent portion of the contest is set for 4 p.m. at the Friona High School Auditorium. Tickets for the afternoon event are $1.00 each.

Then the evening Queen Crowning will take place beginning at 8 p.m. featuring the top ten contestants out of a record number of 32 entrants. All seats are reserved for this event and tickets are still on sale at the Friona Chamber Office for $2.50 each.

The Arts and Needlecraft Show will be located at 617 Main this year in order to have easy access to the City Park and the downtown activities. Entries for this show will be accepted on Thursday from 2 until 6 p.m., with judging to take place on Thursday night and Friday morning. The works of art and crafts will be displayed until late Saturday afternoon. Anyone who enjoys doing any type of handwork or art is urged to enter this event.

Friday evening's big event is the home football game between the Friona Chiefs and the Lockney Longhorns, starting at 8 p.m.

Saturday will kick off with the breakfast at the high school cafeteria from 6 a.m. until 8:30 a.m. This event is sponsored by the American Legion and tickets are $2.00 for adults and $1.50 for kids.

Politicians will be in abundance at the parade on Saturday morning starting at 10 a.m. Kent Hance, candidate for Congress, will serve as the Parade Marshall. George Bush will also ride in the parade. Bob Price and gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements have promised to try to make an appearance if their schedules will permit.

The theme for the annual Maize Days parade is "Maize Days Salutes the 21st Century." The queen's pageant will also have a futuristic theme.

Class floats, riding clubs, queen candidates, bicyclists, antique cars, clowns, and bands will make up the rest of the parade. Headlining the out-of-town parade entries are the Khiva Shrine Motor Escort, the Amarillo Model A Club and the Hereford Riding Club, with many entries still to be received at press time for the parade.

Local youngsters are urged to decorate their bicycles and enter the parade for a chance at some nice prizes to be awarded this year.

The barbeque luncheon will be served at noon at the City Park by members of the Friona Volunteer Fire Department. The luncheon is $1.00 per plate for the locally prepared barbeque beef.

Following the barbeque lunch, there will be a slow-pitch softball tournament at the West Little League Park starting at 1 p.m. Entries for this event are being accepted through Friday night. There will be no admission charged for this "just for fun" event. A concession stand will be open during the game.

The Friona Public Library lawn across the street from the City Park will be the scene for the annual Pet Show starting at 2 p.m. Saturday. Youngsters have a chance to win a ribbon for their pet, whether it be a pedigreed animal or not. All types of pets are eligible to enter from the smallest to the largest, from birds, bunnies, sheep, dogs, cats, fish, reptiles, you name it...and bring it to the pet show.

Another "just for fun" event this year will be the marathon race starting at Anthony's corner, north on Highway 214, at 2 p.m. The run from there to the Community Center is about six miles. All those who enjoy jogging and running are invited to compete.

The closing event of Maize Days, '78 will be the open roping and barrel racing at the Rodeo Grounds starting at 6:30 p.m. on Saturday evening. This event is sponsored by the Friona Riding Club. Those wishing to enter or needing further information should call 247-3073.

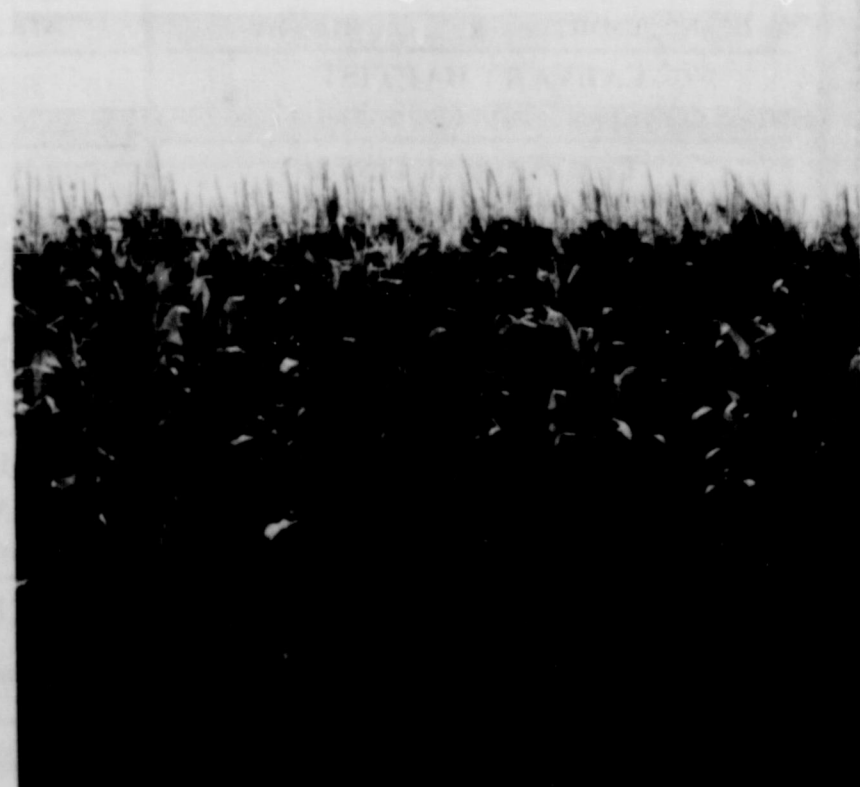

Long hours of hard work go into the preparations for all the various events of Maize Days. Citizens are urged to participate in the events and give your support to the many sponsoring clubs and organization.

First '78 Corn Here

The first load of 1978 corn was delivered to Friona Wheat Growers Friday morning by McLellan Farms.

The corn had a moisture content of 16.5 per cent, and a test weight of 56 pounds to the bushel. Yield estimate was not available, but a spokesman for McLellan said the 1978 crop appeared to be much better than 1977, taking less rows to harvest a similar load.

GEORGE BUSH

LEE ANN BENNETT, is being sponsored in the Little Miss Contest by Progressive Feed Yard. Lee Ann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carrol Bennett.

Sherman To Direct Meet

West Texas State University President Max Sherman will outline plans for University development and discuss estate planning and WTSU with area bankers September 12 in Amarillo.

Local member from Friona is Robert Neelley, president of the Friona State Bank.

Sherman said he will discuss "the importance of permanent gifts to a state institution."

"Many of the major public-supported state institutions have developed very in-depth programs of giving," he noted.

West Texas State until now, however, has relied on state appropriations alone which have allowed it only to maintain the status quo, according to Sherman.

"If we want to go beyond what we have already accomplished and strengthen it as well as provide additional excellence, we need private support," he said.

"It is important that people know how they can most effectively make gifts to West Texas State," Sherman said.

Local Residents Attend Seminar

George Bush, candidate for the Congressional seat being vacated by George Mahon, told more than 100 supporters at a George Bush for Congress Workshop in Lubbock recently, that he will win the November 7th General Election because of the grass roots organizations the campaign has generated.

Bush also told the gathering he will run an optimistic, positive campaign.

"Everyone will know where I stand on the issues. I won't kick the President of the United States," said Bush. "However, I will criticize the Carter Administration where it has erred in its policies."

"A vote for my opponent will be a vote for the continuation of the Carter administration and an endorsement of the policies of that administration over the past two years," said Bush.

Bush cited an interview with Carter that appeared in the August 21 issue of U.S. News and World Report in which the President said Democratic wins in November would be a sign of approval for what the administration is doing and has done.

Peggy Hamil, co-chairmen of the Parmer County George Bush for Congress Committee.

Bush praised the supporters for giving of their time and energy for the campaign.

"Our campaign is the best organized. Your help and hard work is greatly appreciated. It will make the difference November 7th," said Bush.

Attending the workshop from Friona were Carolyn George, Wanda and Joe Reeve and Jack and

$$$ GRAIN MANAGEMENT SYSTEMS — "THE PROFIT MAKERS" $$$

On The Farm In Parmer County

By Seth Ralston

Wheat producers, commencing their planting in the major wheat growing areas of Texas, are faced by a problem that has been increased by the summer drought in much of the state: producing good wheat seed.

Obtaining good wheat seed may be more difficult than usual this season as drought and disease have caused extreme shriveling and low test weight in most areas. Good seed is an important aspect in the successful production of any crop.

It is very risky to plant wheat seed that is shriveled or damaged by fungus organisms that cause diseases such as glume blotch and black point. In such seed, the disease organisms are present in large numbers ready to attack the wheat, especially if it is subjected to heat, moisture or cold stress. When it is absolutely necessary to use seed that may be harboring disease organisms, thorough seed treatment with an effective labeled fungicide is essential.

If planting a field that produced diseased wheat the previous season, seed treatment will help to avoid problems, but may not eliminate the disease potential.

Plump healthy seed of an adapted variety is the ideal sought by successful producers. However, seed shriveled by drought can be used successfully in some situations if proper precautions are taken. Do not use shriveled seed where it is necessary to plant deep to reach adequate moisture for germination. Germination plus emergence from a three-or-four-inch depth requires a lot of energy.

The reduced size of the endosperm in shriveled seed definitely limits the amount of energy stored in the form of carbohydrates and starch. Food reserves derived from the seed are necessary for germination, emergence and early growth of the seedling until sufficient leaves are formed to supply energy through photosynthesis.

In semi-arid areas such as the High Plains, wheat is sometimes planted in dry soil in anticipation of rain at some later date. Shriveled seed is not well adapted to such situations because it lacks vigor and is more subject to disease invasion as well as insect damage. Even plump normal seed should be treated with a protective fungicide and insecticide.

Shriveled seed also presents a problem in determining the correct seeding rate for a desired stand. In a shriveled seed lot, a bushel by weight may contain twice as many seeds as a plump seed lot. Under optimum conditions, even the most shriveled seed may produce a plant resulting in too thick a stand. On the other hand, if conditions are even slightly adverse many of the shriveled seeds may fail to germinate, resulting in a thin, uneven stand subject to weed competition and without potential for maximum yields.

Annual Field Day Set Sept. 12

By SETH RALSTON

The latest research on cotton varieties, corn, irrigation, and weed control will be featured attractions for the 69th annual field day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station for Lubbock and Halfway. The event begins at 1 p.m. Tuesday, September 12, at the research site, 14 miles west of Plainview.

Parmer County producers will find the program particularly applicable, said Seth Ralston, county extension agent.

Research efforts at the Lubbock and Halfway station focus especially upon the needs of producers in Parmer County and throughout the High Plains of Texas.

The annual field day alternates between the TAES locations at Lubbock and Halfway. Field tours will be conducted throughout the afternoon, with tractor-drawn trailers shuttling visitors to key demonstrations.

The field day is a cooperative presentation of TAES, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the High Plains Research Foundations, the Science Education Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the National Weather Service.

Principal stops on the tour of the halfway station will feature reports on irrigation effects on corn, tests of new cotton varieties, research on weed control, effective management of farm labor, and a new mobile trickle irrigation system.

During the stops on the tour of the 320-acre research site, Experiment Station scientists and Extension Service specialists will answer questions and discuss problems with the visitors.

The field day also will present a display of machinery and equipment by area implement dealers.

We Salute Our COTTON FARMERS

When answering questions for market research surveys, customers invariably list three factors they take into consideration when buying a textile product — appearance, performance, and comfort. Here's how cotton meets the requirements:

1. APPEARANCE

Fashion—Cotton meets the needs of top designers for their most creative garments.

Color—Cotton takes every color from the subtle to the brilliant.

Texture—Cotton's textures range from bulky knits to soft chiffons, from heavy suitings to party organdies—a texture for every need.

2. PERFORMANCE

Durability—Cotton wears long and well because the fiber is so strong.

Laundryability—No other fabric is washable as cotton.

Color Fastness—Cotton holds its color because the fiber has an affinity for the best dyes.

Shrinkage—Modern treatments of cotton eliminate shrinkage worries.

Others—Wrinkle resistance, ease of care, and water and spot repellency are just a few of the new qualities added to cotton by science.

3. COMFORT

Absorbency—Cotton absorbs and evaporates moisture, is never hot and sticky or cold and clammy.

Softness—Your customer can feel the softness of cotton.

Freshness—Cotton gets really clean and fresh in the wash.

Static Free—Cotton won't cling or shock or attract lint and dust because it's static free.

Stretchability—Some cotton merchandise now has stretch properties, another comfort factor science has added to cotton, the fiber you can trust.

We Thank The Cotton Growers For An Outstanding Job Well Done!

Frionans Attend Annual Camp

Since 1972 a number of Friona residents have actively supported Camp New Dawn, an annual one week summer camp for mentally retarded adults.

The camp, which was organized in 1972, is a project of the Northwest Texas Conference of United Methodist Church. Mrs. David Goddard, of Friona, has been director of the camp since its inception.

When Kathryn first started directing the camp, she was Kathryn Pedy and lived in Lubbock. A few years later she and her husband, David, moved to Friona. Now, they have two children, Jon is 2½ and Julie Ann is five months old.

Volunteer workers come from all over the Northwest Texas Conference and many of them have been present for every session. Mrs. Russell O'Brian of the Lakeview Community has participated in each session since the camp was organized. A ratio of one worker to each three campers is maintained and a registered nurse is on duty at all times.

Others living in Friona, who have volunteered their services, are J.T. Gee, Katherine Smith, Margaret Parsons, Bob and Sarah Owen, Zonah Bass and Jim Boswell, who directed crafts this summer.

Former Friona residents taking an active part are Albert and Peggy Lindley of Lubbock and Bobby McMillan of Canyon. Albert, who is currently serving as pastor of Forest Heights Methodist Church in Lubbock, has served as co-director for the past four years.

The camp, which is held at Ceta Canyon, has a capacity of 60 and each year the attendance has been more than 50. There are generally about the same number of men and women.

The fifty or so campers usually come from at least two dozen different cities between Borger and Odessa and this year there was one from Sherman.

Group activities in camp include swimming, hand crafts, hiking, singing and games. Outside activities include going to see "Texas" in Palo Duro Park or bowling at an Amarillo Bowling Alley.

Support comes from voluntary contributions by individuals, Sunday School classes and other interested groups. In some instances, the campers also make contributions.

Frionans attending the 1978 session were Janie London, Kathryn Goddard, Katherine Smith, J.T. Gee, Nora O'Brian, Jim Boswell and Margaret Parsons.

Friona Industries Has Finest Year

Friona Industries, Inc. had its best year ever in fiscal 1978 as both revenues and net income advanced to record levels.

"A steady upward trend in cattle prices enabled the Company's agribusiness enterprises to achieve substantial increases over the prior year," said Ron Davenport, president.

Net income for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1978, was $2.6 million, an increase of more than five times, while net income of $2.08 per share compared with 32 cents per share in 1977. Revenues of $67 million were 16 per cent above the preceding year.

Each quarter of the year produced higher income on a year-to-year and successive quarterly basis, with fourth quarter net income climbing to $1.1 million, or 89 cents per share, on revenues of $18.8 million. In the same quarter of last year net income was $518,000, or 41 cents per share, on revenues of $14.1 million.

"The fourth quarter was indicative of the overall improvement in the cattle industry during the past year as cattle prices increased; feedyard occupancy was higher as the result of demand for grain-fed beef, which in turn benefited the Company's commercial feed manufacturing, grain and animal health supplies businesses," explained Davenport.

The sale of Company-owned cattle accounted for the largest share of unaffiliated sales (34 per cent) followed closely by custom feeding with 29 per cent. However, the operating profit was essentially the same (44 per cent) for each segment.

About 48,900 head of Company-owned cattle were marketed during the fiscal year, which generated operating profits in excess of $2.1 million. In fiscal 1977 some 54,900 head of Company-owned cattle were sold at an operating loss of about $727,000.

Occupancy at the Company's three feedyards averaged 68 per cent during the year, compared with 51 per cent in the prior year.

Because of higher feedyard occupancy in its operating area, the Company's sales of commercial feed increased as did the tonnage manufactured. Operating profit of $685,000 was the same as in the prior year. Although tonnage production increased, gross profit margins were slightly lower.

The animal health segment had an excellent year for both sales and operating profit as livestock raisers purchased more veterinary medicines and other supplies because of the optimistic situation in the industry.

Grain operations were at the highest level since 1974 and accounted for $643,000 in operating profits, more than doubling the prior year's operating profit.

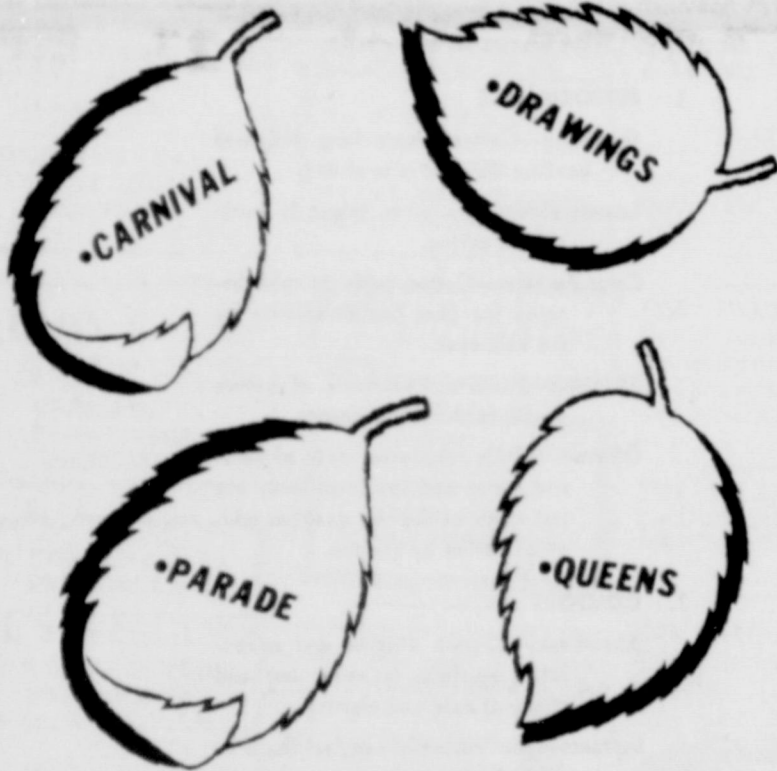

Other businesses including transportation (grain and feed hauling) and steel fabrication and construction also contributed to corporate operating profit.

"The current and prospective economic environment of the cattle industry should continue to provide livestock raisers with an equitable return on their investment. Therefore, we would expect that Company-owned cattle would remain profitable, although margins might not be as great as in the third and fourth quarters of fiscal 1978 because of higher costs for feeder cattle," he said.

"Fewer range cattle available for market should further increase demand for grain-fed cattle and improve feedyard occupancy. These two factors will have a favorable impact on other segments of the Company's operations in the coming fiscal year," concluded Davenport.

The Board of Directors, meeting in New Seabury, Massachusetts, voted a quarterly cash dividend of 10 cents per share on the Company's common stock. The dividend is payable November 2, 1978, to shareholders of record as of October 18, 1978.

Chuck Wagon: Hub Of Cattle Drives

By CAROL ELLIS

The Chuck Wagon was the mainstay of life during the long cattle drives out on the early-day Texas range. Early cowboys owe thanks to the famous cattle baron, Charles Goodnight, for inventing the chuck wagon.

In 1866 Goodnight obtained a surplus Army wagon and rebuilt it for his trail crew, leaving the basic design and the durable iron axles. To one side of the wagon he added a water barrel big enough to hold two days' supply of water. On the other side he added a large tool box. On the top, he put bentwood bows so that a canvas top could be added, making the chuck wagon look similar in appearance to the Conestoga Wagon which had brought settlers from the East in years past.

Then Goodnight added the functional design of a chuck box on the back of the wagon with a hinged lid which let down to form a worktable, much like the modern-day tailgate on a station wagon. In the chuck box and in the boot beneath, the cook could store his food supplies and cooking utensils.

The chuck box was fitted out with various sizes of shelves and drawers for holding flour, sugar, dried fruit, coffee beans, pinto beans, plates, silverware, tobacco, matches, molasses, salt, lard, soda, and various first aid items.

The wagon bed itself could haul numerous bedrolls, guns, ammunition, rope, lanterns, kerosene, axle grease, extra wagon wheel (early-day spare tire) and sacks of flour, beans, onions, potatoes, etc.

The heavy tool box usually contained branding irons, horse-shoeing equipment, shovels, axes, and extra cooking skillets.

Once the wagon was completely fitted out, it could carry just about everything that ten men might need on a trail drive lasting for as long as five months.

Goodnight's wagon design proved to be so popular that cattle ranches all over the Western part of the United States would imitate it and eventually major wagon builders began to produce them commercially as a standard item. Chuck wagons sold for around $75.00 to $100.00, but it is doubtful that Charles Goodnight ever received any royalties on his unique design.

OLD CHUCK WAGON...The chuck wagon was the main attraction for cowboys on cattle drives during the 19th century. Col. Charles Goodnight, area pioneer, is given credit for inventing the first chuck wagon, rebuilding an old army wagon in 1866. The chuck wagon shown here is on display at the Deaf Smith County Museum in Hereford.

As far as thousands of people are concerned, he's still single.

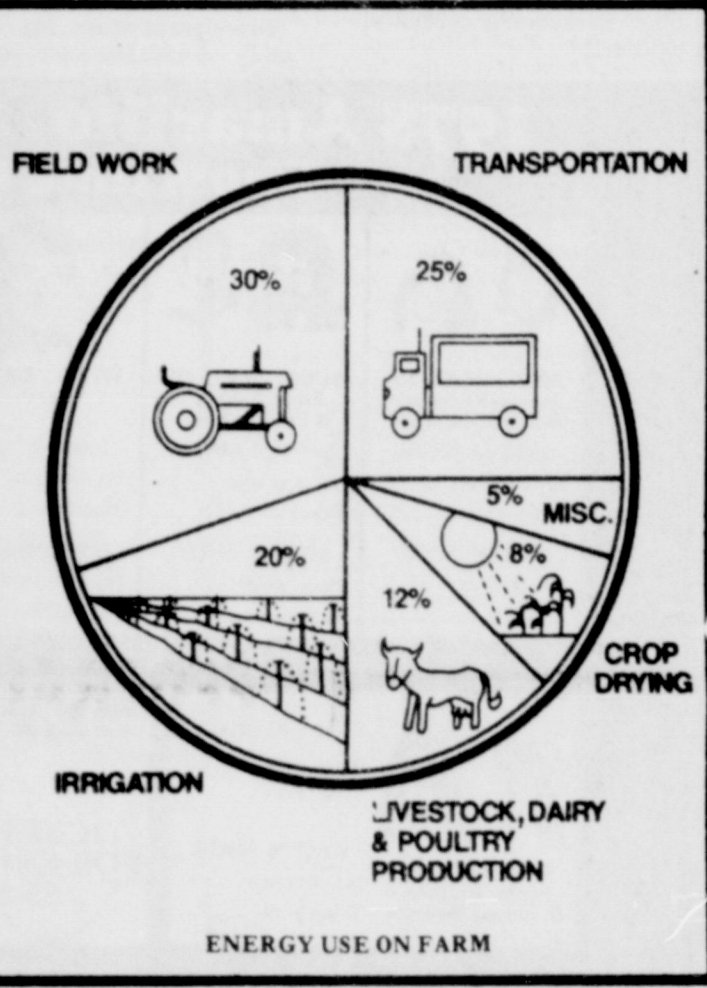

That's because he's still listed as just "Michael W. Leon" in the telephone directory. There's no mention of his wife Joan. Nor their three teenagers. After all, don't they deserve their own listings?

Well now you can let everybody know about the great things happening in your life with the new edition of your telephone directory. It's going to press soon. So if you're about to make any changes or add a dual name listing, now's the time to do it.

Just call our business office and find out what the charges are, if any.

Scholarships Are Available

Will it be education or vocation after graduation?

An answer to that question and the subsequent planning for either school or job are facing Friona High School students, especially juniors and seniors, as they begin the 1978-79 school year.

Guidance counselors, parents, friends, and a national service called the ACT Assessment Program will play important roles in that decision-making and planning for many of the students.

Designed to provide extensive guidance information for education and career planning, the well known and widely used ACT Assessment Program is recommended for use by student applicants at nearly 2,700 colleges, universities, and scholarship programs.

Friona High School students will have five opportunities during the 1978-79 school year to make use of the national program, which consists of four tests and a two-part questionnaire. Students complete the questionnaire at home as part of the program's registration process, and then take the battery of tests at area test centers on any of five weekend national test dates, said B.E. Duggins, counselor.

The five 1978-79 national test dates (and corresponding registration periods) are:

October 21, 1978 (August 7-Sept. 22)
 December 9, 1978 (October 9-Nov. 10)
 February 10, 1979 (Nov. 27-Jan. 12)
 April 7, 1979 (January 29-March 9)
 June 23, 1979 (March 26-May 25)

At area test centers on those five dates it takes students about three hours to complete the ACT Assessment's four exams covering subject areas of English, math, social studies, and natural sciences. On any of the five test dates, most local students will take the tests at West Texas State University, Canyon.

Duggins said the test scores provide an assessment of general educational development and the questionnaire section information focuses on academic and nonacademic accomplishments and interests, anticipated needs, as well as career and educational interests and plans. The basic student fee for using the ACT Assessment Program this year remains $7.50.

In addition to being used by students and their high school counselors, the extensive information provided by the ACT Assessment is also used by colleges for academic advising, admissions counseling, course sectioning and placement, student services, and institutional research. The students' ACT Assessment reports are sent to only those colleges specifically designated by the respective students.

One of several educational services provided by The American College Testing Program (ACT), the ACT Assessment Program is used each year by more than 900,000 students as part of their education and career planning.

Piggly Wiggly Grand Opening

Piggly Wiggly is staging a big Grand Opening this week for the store's expanded facility, which includes the addition of the Ben Franklin products.

In honor of the occasion, Kenneth Moore, owner, is announcing a gigantic Grand Opening sale, with a special four pages full of bargains for shoppers (see advertisement inside this issue).

The Friona Piggly Wiggly store has added 25 per cent to its original floor space, and the addition of the Ben Franklin line will add hundreds of items to the store's inventory.

"The expansion comes as a result of our customers asking that we carry certain items. The Ben Franklin company made a thorough survey of existing Friona stores, and came up with recommendations as to the items we will stock. It has not been our intention to duplicate things which were already available in Friona, but rather to fill in the areas that were vacant," Moore said.

It was just five years ago this summer that Piggly Wiggly moved to its present location on west Highway 60 in Friona.

"We appreciate the support of the shoppers of the area, who have enabled us, through their continued patronage, to make this expansion," Moore added.

Joe Tongate is manager of Piggly Wiggly, and Bob Johnson is assistant manager. The store gives S&H Green Stamps with every purchase, and the stamps will be given on the new items the store has added, in addition to their regular super market items.

Chiefs Host Longhorns

The Lockney Longhorns will visit Friona next Friday, September 15, for Friona's first home football game of the 1978 season.

If past records are any indications, then the Chieftains' home opener should really be a fan-pleaser.

Season football tickets, which have been on sale at Bi-Wize Drug Store, will continue on sale through Tuesday, September 12, when the season sale will end, it was announced this week. Fans wanting season tickets must purchase their tickets by that time.

The Longhorns are much like Friona, with 16 returning lettermen for the 1978 season, including six offensive and five defensive starters.

But the Longhorns lost a big offensive weapon from 1977, when Danny Clark graduated. Clark dealt the Chieftains misery in games between the two schools the past couple of years.

Lockney has good experience and size in its returning linemen, with Jeff Terrell (210) and Dave Kidd (195) at the tackle slot, Johnny Arjona (178) on defense, Glen Watson at guard and Aaron Wilson at end.

But the only returning member of Lockney's backfield is Joe Rodriguez, 160-pound halfback, which makes the Longhorns similar to Friona in that respect. Also, the team's lack of speed is said to be a major problem.

However, Lockney Coach Jim Warren says an improved kicking game should help offset the loss of Danny Clark.

The Friona-Lockney series dates back to 1938, with Friona holding a narrow 9-8 lead. Lockney has won the last three games between the two schools.

The two teams were district opponents from 1964 through 1968, and in that span, Friona had its best success against the Longhorns, winning five straight points, although the margin of victory varied from one point (twice) to 14 points. The scoring difference was less than a touchdown in four of the five games.

Friona opened its 1978 season in Tulia on September 8, while the Longhorns were hosting Post.

AS IT WAS...Plains Hardware is shown as it was originally, and known as "Friona Hardware." The above picture was taken in 1909. Other businesses shown, on the east side of Main Street, were the R.H. Kinsley office building, Seamands & Mann General Store, eventually purchased by John Gischler, a barber shop, the A.N. Wentworth building, the post office, and Seamand's Livery Stable. At the far right, across the street, can be seen the "new" Friona State Bank building, which had just been built. In the distance, under the bank's porch, is the Clyde Goodwine home.

OWNERSHIP CHANGE..... ElRoy Wilson, left, longtime owner of Plains Hardware & Furniture, announced the sale of the business this week to Steve Bavousett, right. Wilson had been connected with the local hardware store since 1944.

Arts-Crafts Show Slated Thursday

The Arts and Needlecraft show will be held in the empty building just south of Bi-Wize Drug Store, 617 Main Street. Check-in time is from 1-3 p.m. on Thursday, September 14.

All artists are urged to participate and make this a good show.

All persons who do needle work such as needlepoint, crewel or knitting are urged to bring in their crafts this year.

Also china painters are urged to bring in their china. It need not be a recent project, just bring it on by.

The show will be closely supervised and all items are insured, so you need not worry about damage.

Carrie Tatum, a well known local artist will give a water color demonstration at 2 p.m. on Saturday, September 14. Everyone is invited to come by and watch this demonstration.

Plains Hardware Has Rare Ownership Move

Effective September first the ownership of Plains Hardware and Furniture, changed for the fifth time since its beginning in 1907.

New owners are Steve and Mary Bavousett, longtime city residents.

The first hardware store in Friona was opened in the present location of Plains Hardware by a man who lived in Hereford, as Friona Hardware. One of its first employees was the late Will Harris, who later became known as the "Mayor of Goathhead Prairie," a pioneer resident of the Summerfield Community.

Later the store was purchased by D.W. Hanson and the name was changed to Hanson Hardware. At this time windmills and windmill parts and stock watering tanks made up a large part of the store's inventory.

A few years later the store was sold to Mr. and Mrs. R.H. Kinsley, who operated it until the middle nineteen twenties. Then it was sold to Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Blackwell. She lives in Corpus Christi at the present time.

The Blackwells operated the store about fifteen years before selling it to ElRoy and Faye Wilson and J.G. and Irene McFarland as a partnership enterprise. Then in 1965 the Wilsons bought the McFarland interest.

For several years ElRoy, Faye and Thelma Hicks were the store's only employees. Since then two persons, who are presently in business for themselves in Friona, are former employees of the store.

Joe Fallwell, owner and operator of Fallwell's Floor Coverings; and Harold Taylor of Tender Loving Care Service Center are former Plains Hardware employees.

Nola Adams and Hazel Weir both worked at Plains Hardware a long time at different times. Ray White began his employment there more than 30 years ago and is still there.

The Bavousetts plan no change in employees at the present time. In addition to Ray White, Carol Dean Huggins and Hamill Brooks assist the Wilsons in operating the store.

Possibly the oldest fixture in the store is a storage case, which was manufactured by Chas. A. Hubey in Brookfield, Missouri in 1896 A.D. and still bears the builder's hand-written signature and date.

Vast Changes Are Made In Doing Family Wash

By JUNE McCOWN FLOYD
Of all the modern conveniences, which most of us classify as necessities, in our home, the washer and dryer in the utility room are the most appreciated.

Even though I still dry sheets, towels and other items on the line when the weather is nice, I never transfer washed clothes from the washer to the dryer without remembering wash days of years gone by.

My earliest recollection of "wash day" was in Mora County, New Mexico in 1920. At that time most of the family washing was done by the mothers in the family with assistance from fathers or older children. Water was generally heated in a black cast iron wash pot over an open fire. Of course, all water for washing and rinsing had to be carried from a well or cistern.

Wash day at our house began with making soap chips from bars of home made lye soap. A small amount of water was added to the chipped soap and it was melted on top of the kitchen range which burned wood or coal. It was important to keep the soap kettle away from the hottest flame, so it was placed on the back caps soon after the fire was allowed to "die down" after breakfast biscuits had been baked.

I well remember the first washing machine the McCown family owned. It was ordered from Sears, Roebuck and Company or Montgomery, Ward and Company and came partially assembled. The tub was wooden. On top of the washer there was a device which hooked onto a three or four legged apparatus down in the tub.

A stick like handle, which was moved by hand from one side to the other of the top of the machine, moved the inside apparatus around in a circle. When the machine was new, the older children in the family were so enamored with our new fangled way of washing that each one of us wanted to furnish the man power to operate the machine.

As anyone would expect, the new soon wore off. Then, it was necessary for Mother to assign the task to one of us or to demand that each one do his turn when it came around.

There was no such thing as soap for each load of clothes to be washed then. We started with the white clothes first. When there was a baby in the family, diapers and other baby clothing came first. These were followed by sheets, towels and dish towels, lighter weight colored things and then overalls and other work clothing in that order.

When a load had been "rubbed" long enough and looked clean, we put everything through a hand powered wringer into a tub to await the second time through the machine.

Preparations for ironing began after the rinsing. Many pieces were starched—these could not be hung on the line if the wind was blowing too hard as no homemaker wanted the starch to "blow out" of the skirts, pillow cases, dresses, blouses and other articles to be ironed.

After the washer was filled the first time, the fire under the pot had to be kept going because it was necessary to boil everything that was white. Also, everything was washed twice.

Following the second wash, everything went into a tub of water for rinsing. Nothing except baby clothes got more than one rinse, but the water had to be changed several times during the rinsing process.

Everything was hung on the line to dry according to the velocity of the wind. Then late in the afternoon the laundry was taken off the line, folded to be put away or dampened to be ironed and wash day was over for that week.

Then, generally, the next day was "ironing day." I'm reminded of heating irons on a coal, wood or kerosene stove every time I remove a load of drip dry things to put away or hang in the closet.

For homemakers drip dry materials must be the greatest labor saving device ever.

From the first wooden washer, we graduated to one made of heavy aluminum which sported two suction cups for cleaning the clothes. It, too, was hand powered.

Several years later we graduated to a gasoline powered Maytag, which often took almost as long to get the motor running as it did to do the laundry. By this time, we also had a wash pot with a jacket around it, so wash day was really made easier.

By the time Helpy Selfy laundries came into existence, I was about grown and depended on that source of washing convenience for several years. At that time I appreciated the fact that wash day had been made easier, but wondered why someone didn't get "Major Hoopie-ish" and come up with an easier way to get the ironing done.

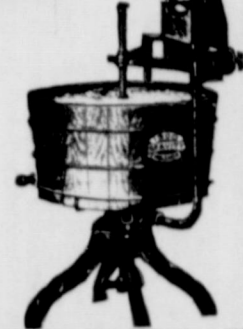

Another thought which frequently comes to my mind is, "Had I had drip dry materials and the laundry facilities I now have when the children were growing up, I would have had a lot of idle time."

Had someone suggested to me a few years ago that the time would come when an ironing board wasn't an absolute necessity in any home, I would have classified that person as "teched in the head." Now, there are weeks when I never take mine out of the closet.

My mother, Mrs. Lucy McCown, who is past eighty and a resident of Chaparral Lodge in Denver City, Texas, expressed her thinking on ironing like this:

"I never intend to iron anything else. I don't plan to buy anything that has to be ironed and if anyone buys something for me that isn't drip dry, I'll just give it back."

Just Six Minutes to Wash a Tubful! 1900 Gravity Washer

OLD TIME WASHER....This 1900 gravity washer was one of the earliest machines manufactured in America. How long would it take to do the laundry for a family of six or eight when the actual washing time took six minutes to wash a tubful? This was a real time saving device when homemakers were accustomed to spending several minutes rubbing each piece on a wash board.

GOLD DUST TWINS....Long before powdered detergent and washing powders were considered the best way to clean clothes, these two little fellows appeared on the scene to advertise an aid to the cleaning properties of homemade lye soap.

CLARA SEALE

She's Just "Mama" To Most Friona Youngsters

By JAN U. TURNER
 "If I could catch the tears...happy tears as well as sad...that the kids and I have shared over the years it'd bring a flood," said Clara Seale, known as Mama Seale, or just plain "Ma" to hundreds of Friona's young people.

Mama Seale, like her name signifies, is "mother" to most of Friona's kids, who flock to her tiny drive-in on the corner of 9th and Main, painted in school colors to match her cups, both of which say "Go Chieftains" on their sides....

Her place is the hangout, where the kids can make themselves right at home, and can always count on a hug from "Ma" and a sympathetic ear to their gripes and problems.

One of the first things the kids will tell you about her is that she is somebody they can talk to about their problems. What sort of problems? "It's anything, boy, I'll tell you what..." stated one of "Her Kids", as they call themselves.

"The kids are just something special to me...it's just something..." Mama Seale struggled for words to explain. "It's my life," she stated finally. "I just enjoy being around the kids and anytime I can help them I want to be there," she said.

"I don't know how you'd write it...there's just something between them and me. I have kids that are out of high school that still come by to see me and bring their families, like one recently I hadn't seen in five years. Usually kids don't remember you that way back that far," she said. "I don't know how you'd describe that connection between me and the kids that they'd remember me that way."

"We moved here from Tucumcari in 1968, and I worked in the snack bar at the high school," she related. "I guess that's when it started. I had four kids...three in high school...who would come by the snack bar calling me "mama", and the other kids began to pick it up," she said.

"The relationship was there then. They'd run in during period break and talk to me about what was going on, or if they had a problem at school or with a test or something they'd come in and tell me about it," she explained.

In 1974, the high school yearbook honored "Mama" by dedicating the 1974 volume to her, bestowing a unique honor.

"I got to be real close with the kids," she smiled. "We'd solve the problems of the world at least twice a week," Mama Seale laughed her familiar rolling laugh.

"Buying out the old Tasty Cream in 1975 was a real hard decision for me because I was 50," she continued. "Getting into debt at that age is a bigger responsibility than when you're 30. But I was working at the high school from 9:30 in the morning until about three in the afternoon, and then going to work as a nurse's aide at the hospital from four until midnight, and I was just give out," she explained.

"When this thing came up, I decided 12 hours are a lot better than 16," she laughed. "But it was really the encouragement of my older kids...Rod, Dan, and Deborah...that helped me make up my mind. They just kept telling me, 'Mom, you can do it...'"

"Mama Seale's is the kids' place," she chuckled. "They call it theirs, and they are the ones who made the decisions about the red and white cups with my name on them and 'Go Chieftains on the trim,'" she said.

"That makes it theirs," she explained, pleased. "Some people say me and the kids get along so well cause I let them do as they please, and I guess that's so to a point, but if they get too rank I make them behave and they do...there's a point and they know it. They know what the point is too...you don't have to tell them. Sometimes you're in a frame of mind where the point is a little short..." she added with a laugh.

Mama Seale's kids use her place as a gathering place before and after football games, for a place to get a coke on a date...or even a place to get a piece of bubble gum cut up into six pieces for a carload of kids as happened one Friday night recently.

It is the public restroom, a message center, a debate center... "If you have an opinion bring it down to Ma's and you'll find another kid to argue with you one way or another," said one kid.

Charlene, her youngest daughter who is a senior this year and works down at her place, chuckled. "Lots of times people calling in an order say they just want to talk to Ma, or they want to know who's cooking and won't order until Ma comes back to work. I have yet to understand how one hamburger isn't just as good as another."

She added with a laugh, "If there's a mistake on an order everybody blames everyone else but Ma, and little do they know that we're standing back there in the back eating Ma's mistake!"

Charlene related about one Christmas when several of the kids brought Mama Seale a poster with school pictures of the kids from the 6th grade on up, headed "All My Kids", which she kept posted in the window for a long time until it began to get dirty. She finally took it home so she could frame it eventually to hang at home.

Glancing fondly at her daughter curled up in the chair across from her, Mama Seale said, "I have her here at home now, and when she's gone I won't have anything but those kids downtown. My kids will all be gone, and I'll have to depend on other people's kids. My lifestyle is centered around those kids. I need kids around me...if I didn't have them my life would be empty. Those kids will make my life bearable when Charlene is gone," she said, adding, "Those kids...I just love 'em...that's all. They're all I have and I love 'em."

JUST "MAMA"...Clara Seale, Friona resident since 1968, is known to most folks in the community as "Mama" Seale. Always good-natured, she has a special way with the high school age youngsters, who are her friends and customers.

WELCOME..... Saluting Friona On Your Annual Community Celebration.

Town Talk

By June Floyd Phone 247-3681 With Your News Item

Mae Magness termed last week as "one of my nicest ever." Earlier in the week she visited in the home of Jerry, Denise and Daniele Dillon in Tulsa. Then after she got home, she had a nice visit with her other daughter, Jacquelyn and her family.

Then Friday afternoon her grandson, Cliff Newton, who lives in California called long distance to visit with her. He is a talented young musician and is working on the West Coast. His goal is to make a name for himself in the music field.

His father, the late Tim Magness, and mother, Marje Newton of Lubbock, apparently passed their musical talent on to their son. He told his grandmother that he was making a tape especially for her. It is one of those kind where one person records the different music—one instrument at a time—then winds up by singing the words last.

Cliff has been living in Redondo Beach since early this year, but has recently moved to Encino.

Before the birth of little Tracey Lynn Gibson, her parents, Lee and Sylvia told the older children, Mitch and Trishia, that one of them would be privileged to share a bedroom with the new baby.

"If the baby is a boy, he can share a bedroom with Mitch and if it is a girl, she can share Trishia's bedroom," the parents explained to the children.

The day Sylvia and little Tracey Lynn were dismissed from the hospital and went home, Trishia, who is three, remarked, "Well, Mitch didn't get a baby, did he? Then continued, "But I sure did."

Tommy Long, who has been hospitalized in Wichita Falls and Dallas, is presently at Bivins Rehabilitation Center in Amarillo. His sister, Mrs. Jim Snead and children, Layle and Clint, of Red River, New Mexico visited in Friona last weekend. Then went to see Tommy before returning home.

Ten Frionans were in Corpus last weekend for the wedding of Ramey Beene and Karla Reagan. His mother, Decimae, and Edith Johnson flew down Thursday and returned Sunday.

Then Jay and Sue Beene, Danny and Teresa Kendrick, Johnny and Missy

Barker and Bruce and Sharlene Shaffer drove down.

Little Caleb Barker stayed with one of his aunts, Pat Wright, and her family while his parents were gone. Michelle, Caleb's older sister, stayed with her maternal grandparents, John and Lavon Renner.

Brent Beene went down to Paducah for a visit in the home of his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Eubank.

Several weeks ago Decimae and Edith hosted a combination brunch and rice bag making party. Guests were invited for a delicious brunch and then Ada Ruth Hilburn Crager of Canyon directed the group as they made flower rice bags for Karen's and Ramey's wedding.

About a dozen local women attended.

Gary and Karen Osborn Renner and children, Jana, Krista, Amy and Casey, will soon be moving from Muleshoe into a new home on the John Renner farm southeast of town.

Krista and Jana are already attending school here and Gary and Karen are commuting as he carries on his job and she helps with the final interior decorating of their new home.

S.D. Baize and Gary head up the sprinkler end of the Adams Drilling Company, which will soon be operating from the former XIT Auto Ranch location on East Highway 60.

Harry and Inez Hamilton flew off to Mount Olive, South Carolina, recently for a visit with their number two son, John, and his family.

John works for DeKalb and he, Juanell, and the girls, Sheryl and Deborah, have lived in the southeastern part of the continental United States for a number of years.

The Ellis Tatum home was busy with activity during the Labor Day weekend. They hosted a "Back to School" party for their granddaughters.

Honorees were Debbie Houlette, a senior at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, and a friend, Dan Rogers of Hutchinson, Kansas, who is also a senior at Hardin-Simmons.

Also Pam Tatum of Happy, who is a junior at West Texas State University, Canyon; Mary Beth Houlette, a Dumas High School senior; and Wendy and Holly Tatum of Black, who attend school in Friona.

Others present were Tommy and Diane Tatum of Black and Mary Houlette of Dumas.

Mrs. Sam Jones and her sister, Mrs. Juan Eskew of Clovis made a trip to Green River, Wyoming, recently. They were guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Cook.

Mrs. Cook is the former Beverly Sue Jones and she and her husband are both 1953 graduates of Friona High School.

Grandmother Velma got to see her first and only great-grandson, Justin Lee Cook, who is just two months old, for the first time. He's the son of Rocky and Suzanne Cook, who also live in Green River.

The other Cook son, Ted, lives in Green River also, so Velma and Thelma, who are sisters, saw all Velma's family.

The two made the trip by bus and saw a lot of mountain scenery on the way up and back.

Rosco and Geneva Ivie are home. They've been down to Archer City and Irving for a visit with kith and kin. Their son, Calvin, and his wife, Martha, and children, Shawn, Blayne, Stazic and Rance live in Irving.

Then Geneva has one sister, Mrs. Delvin Bratt; one brother, Graham Campbell; and one niece, Mrs. Dale Graham, who live in the Archer City area. She also has aunts, uncles and cousins in that vicinity.

Since the children of Lucy Welch live in widely separated places and have children of their own and in some instances grand-children, they've decided to have an annual family get together in the early fall.

Last week the group, including Lucy went to Crete Del Monte for their second annual "Christmas in the fall" observation, which is for the Welch children and their spouses.

Those attending from Friona, besides Lucy, were Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Struve and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Welch. Mr. and Mrs. France Welch went from Dallas; Mrs. Jack Miller went from Dimmitt, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brown were there from Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Absentees were Dr. and Mrs. Rex Johnston, who live in the Los Angeles area, and Jack Miller of Dimmitt.

David and Ann Faver are once more residents of the Hub Community. They lived west of Hub a year or so before moving into the Black Community. Now, they live near Fleming Gin and Hub Grain.

Seems they're always commuting different directions. First he was commuting to Canyon and later to Hereford while she drove into Friona to teach.

This fall he's teaching at the Lazbuddie Public School and she's teaching here.

Who ever heard of a prospective podiatrist wearing a cast on his leg? Dwight Bates is a podiatry student in Cleveland, Ohio, and is about a year away from graduation.

He and his wife, Carol, and children, Scott and Tracy were here recently visiting his mother, Martha Bates, and other relatives and friends. While participating in a hand ball game, Dwight pulled, strained, damaged or injured his Achilles tendon and will have to wear a cast several months.

When he graduates and starts treating persons with a similar condition, he can really empathize with his patient.

Harold and Jamie Lu Lillard of Waco arrived in Friona late in the week. They will be visiting Jamie Lu's mother, Mrs. J.M. Watson, and other kith and kin.

Some more of the Watson clan is expected to be here later and some of the group will be spending some time in the mountains of Northeastern New Mexico before the Lillards return to Waco.

Last weekend a "baker's dozen" Frionans had a holiday at the Welch cabin near Cowles, New Mexico.

Those going up for some rest, relaxation and recreation were Jayson and Jyl Grimsley, Bob and Terri Welch, Lenney and Jan Petree, Kent and Amanda Mason, Ted and Glenda Procter, Wessie Gee and Lanny and Lenda Trussell.

To be absolutely correct, we'd have to give the Trussells to Muleshoe, but they're former Frionans, so we still claim them.

Mai Lynn Lovnick, daughter of Edward and Ray Nell Foster Lovnick of Chicago, is following in her maternal grandfather's footsteps in more ways than one.

She is a 1978 graduate of West Texas State University, Canyon, and is beginning her teaching career in the elementary school at Memphis, Texas.

Mai Lynn has spent a lot of time with her grandparents, Rhee and Wesley Foster, and is well known here. The Fosters began their teaching careers in Hall County, but not in Memphis. They both taught at Lakeview.

Later Wesley taught in Memphis. The Lovnicks haven't lived in Texas for a number of years, but Mai Lynn was born in Dallas. She did all her college work in Texas. First she attended Clarendon Junior College a couple of years, then transferred to West Texas State University.

Keeping the tradition going educationally, Robin Houston of Lubbock has enrolled as a freshman at Texas Tech University. Her maternal grandparents, J.T. and Lilah Gaye Gee, are both Tech graduates.

Margaret and Percy Parsons will probably never have three children graduating the same spring. Last spring their daughter, Rhonda, graduated from Friona High School.

Also, their oldest son, Mike, graduated from the Texas Tech University Law School and Dale, the youngest son, graduated from Tech.

This fall Rhonda is a freshman at Lubbock's only university where Dale is a first year law student.

Mike and his wife are both employed in Dallas.

The most impressive evidence of tolerance is a Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Old Cookbook Gives Unusual Dish Ideas

SHAE DODSON, at age 16, will be sponsored by Dodson Body Shop in the annual Maize Queen Contest. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Conny Dodson. Shae has brown hair, hazel eyes, and is 5'8" tall. She will present a robot routine for her talent portion of the contest. She is a junior in Friona High School this year.

A cookbook dated 1915 and titled "Domestic Science Cyclopaedia Of Valuable Information" is owned by the publisher's wife, Carol Ellis. It was handed down to her by her grandmother and the pages are quite yellowed and brittle.

Some of the recipes in this book are quite unusual, such as the one for root beer:

"Gather a half bushel basket of spruce boughs, sassafras roots, sarsaparilla roots, sweet fern, winter green leaves, black birch bark, black cherry bark, dandelion and dock roots. Boil in 6 gallons of water with a large handful of hops and a quart of wheat bran. Strain through a sieve, turn in 3 quarts of molasses, and, if very strong, add a gallon or two of cold water. When cool put in 1/2 pint yeast and when it begins to work, make a very slight vent for the escape of gas. In three days it will be ready for use. Excellent and healthful."

How about this one for Pickled Nasturtium Seeds:

"A good substitute for capers, or very nice to add to mixed pickles or to the filling of mangoes. Gather the green seeds daily before they fall apart. Leave a bit of stem attached and throw into a light brine to keep. Change this once a week. When through gathering, wash in fresh water, drain and fill in pickle bottles. Pour on boiling vinegar to cover and cork tightly. Those not wanted for immediate use might have egg-paper tied over the corks. They improve with keeping. The vinegar is equal to pepper-sauce."

The meat section of the cookbook tells how to bone a wild turkey and has recipes for "Frog on Toast," "Terrapin," "Beef Jerky," "Roasted Opossum," and "Squab Pie."

The recipes in the bread section sound quite good. For instance, you might want to try this recipe for "Good Bread:"

"Set a thick sponge at night with warm water, not milk, using 2 yeast cakes for four very large loaves; beat the sponge thoroughly. In the morning take 4 tablespoons of white sugar dissolved in 1/4 cup of melted butter, 1 teaspoonful salt and enough flour to make a soft dough. Mold vigorously. Let it rise until very light, mold again. Let it rise again, less time. Make in loaves, rub each one with melted butter and bake in a good oven. Bread made in this way is deliciously light and tender."

Then the reader is told to "test the oven" by putting in a tablespoonful of flour on an old tin. If this browns in one minute the oven is at the right heat.

The book's section on housekeeping offers some interesting tips on cleaning. For removing grease spots on carpet it suggests you "spread a thick coating of powdered French chalk over the spot. It should then be heated occasionally by laying a brown paper over it and pressing with a hot iron."

A good furniture polish can be made with "4 ounces of alcohol, 4 ounces of boiled oil, 1 ounce of Japan dryer and 1 ounce of benzine. Mix all and shake well while using. This removes all foreign substances, at the same time gives a fine polish. Rub dry with a woolen cloth. This recipe sells regularly for seventy-five cents."

"Stove-pipes should be rubbed with kerosene before putting away in the spring. This prevents rust."

"To keep a copper tea-kettle bright, wash occasionally with a solution of salt and buttermilk. Rinse with clear water."

The recipe for white-wash is as follows: "1/2 bushel lime slaked with boiling skim milk, 3 quarts salt, 1 pound white glue, previously dissolved in water. This is a hard and durable white-wash, does not easily rub off, and when tinted with a color has nearly as good an effect as calcimine. This same wash, with the glue omitted, makes a good white-wash permanent, for out-door buildings and is said to render wood incombustible."

The recipe for Lye Soap goes like this: "Ashes should be from good wood, or the lye will be weak. Keep the ashes dry until a week before using; see that they are well packed down in the leach which can be made out of a barrel. Then pour on water until the lye begins to drop slightly; leave it to soak out the strength of the ashes for a week. Then pour on water and begin to run off lye. The proper strength can be told by its floating a fresh egg. If it is not strong boil it, or turn it back through the ashes again. Then add clear grease or "soap-grease" in the proportion of 1 pound to 1 gallon of lye, boil until it is dissolved, then dip in a feather and if, on taking out, the plume part can be stripped off with the fingers it requires more grease, which should be added until it will take no more. If a white scum rises, skim off or add a little more lye. Boil until it looks soapy. If the lye remains weak, on account of poor ashes, add potash until it is of sufficient strength."

Mrs. Ellis says she cannot personally recommend any of these recipes.

Canning Preserves Summer Goodness

To many, the thought of canning brings back childhood memories. Of baskets of fresh-picked tomatoes, still warm and sweet-smelling from the garden sun. Of steaming kettles and rows of shining jars. Of grandmother's garden where everything from asparagus to zucchini grew in abundance. Of canning days sitting in the kitchen peeling, paring, pitting and slicing. Of mother marking the jars with red-bordered labels.

For generations, canning season has been a time for relatives to congregate and a time to be thankful for a plentiful harvest. In earlier days, canning was a near necessity. But with all the developments in food technology, processing and distribution, canning is not nearly so necessary as it once was.

Yet, home canning has grown tremendously in popularity in recent seasons. Millions of Americans are returning to a basic pioneer concept-grow your own food, preserve it for winter, be a little more self-sufficient.

Surveys in widespread sections of the nation tell the same story-not since the victory gardens of World War II have families gone in so heavily for home preservation of food as they have in the last several years.

These same surveys also suggest that many families are rediscovering that, in addition to economy, there is something basically satisfying and rewarding in preserving food. And canned foods can be enjoyed at a later time when they are needed more. Also, fruits and vegetables can be available all year long, not just when they are in season. And most importantly, the home canner has complete control over which, if any, additives are put in the food-and home canned foods can be made to meet the specific tastes of the family.

Recognizing the increasing importance of home canning, two well-known companies, Imperial Sugar of Sugar Land, Texas and the Ball Corporation, Muncie, Indiana, each with over a hundred years of experience, have joined together in a program this summer intended to encourage more people to try their hand at home canning.

A highlight of the program is the Ball Blue Book which is being made available in a special offer from Imperial. Although they have been a reliable source for recipes and cookbooks since 1915, Imperial felt the 30th edition of the Blue Book, encompassing more than 70 years of canning knowledge, technical experience and scientific study, would be more helpful and meaningful to today's home canner.

This newest edition of the Blue Book is bigger and more extensive than any of the 29 editions published since 1909. Included in the full color book are illustrated step-by-step instructions on canning fruits, vegetables, jellies, jams; yield charts; processing times; types of equipment needed and instructions on the three basic canning methods: steam pressure, boiling water bath, open kettle.

The 30th edition of the Blue Book also contains a complete section on preserving foods by freezing. While freezing certainly isn't anything really new, developments in convenient home equipment and containers have made freezing practical on a wide scale.

This edition also has a special section on canning for special diets. And a new feature in this issue includes dual recipe measurements-both English and metric.

Here are home canning recipes for peaches, strawberries and sweet corn. They are typical of the more

JAM GETS NEW ACCENT....
Everybody's favorite strawberry jam takes on a new taste dimension with the addition of lime juice in a new home canning recipe. Take advantage of fresh strawberries now in season to make a jam that will perk up any family breakfast, and make enough to save a few jars for gift giving in the future. Recipes to can strawberries and other fruits, vegetables, jellies, jams and preserves are in the newest, 30th edition of the Ball Blue Book now available in a special offer from Imperial Sugar. Recipe for strawberry jam and ordering instructions for the canning book are in the adjoining story.

than 250 tested easy-to-follow recipes in the Blue Book.

Strawberry Lime Jam
2 quarts strawberries
¼ cup lime juice
1 package powdered pectin
7 cups Imperial Granulated Sugar
1. Crush fruit; measure 4½ cups into large saucepan. Mix lime juice with strawberries.
2. Add powdered pectin to the mixture.
3. Place fruit over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. Immediately add Imperial Granulated Sugar and boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly.
4. Remove from heat and skim off foam.
5. Ladle into hot jars. Leave ¼-inch head space. Adjust caps.
6. Process 10 minutes in boiling water bath.
7. Yield: about nine-½ pints.

Corn With Red Peppers
12 large ears fresh corn
1 sweet red (or green) pepper, diced
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons Imperial Granulated Sugar
Dried basil
1. Husk corn; remove silk and wash. Cut corn from cob. With corn in colander, rinse in cool water.
2. Measure 2 quarts corn kernels into large kettle. Add salt, Imperial Granulated Sugar and 4 cups boiling water.
3. Add pepper to corn in kettle.
4. Pack hot into hot jars, leaving 1-inch head space. Add ½ teaspoon basil to each jar. Adjust caps.

5. Process pints 55 minutes, quarts 1 hour and 25 minutes, at 10 pounds pressure.
6. Yield: five pints.

Canned Peaches
Canning of peaches may be done through cold pack or hot-pack methods. The cold pack method is the most desirable way to can evenly ripened peaches. Following is a step-by-step method for cold packing peaches:

1. Select firm, evenly-ripe peaches. Sort, wash and drain just enough peaches for one canner load. Fill water bath canner half full with water. Heat.
2. Prepare medium or light sugar syrup. For medium syrup combine 3 cups Imperial Granulated Sugar and 1 quart water into a saucepan. (Use 2 cups Imperial Granulated Sugar and 1 quart water for light syrup). Cook until sugar dissolves. Keep syrup hot until needed, but do not let it boil down.
3. Using wire basket or cheese-cloth, dip peaches into boiling water in canner ½ to 1 minute to loosen skins. Dip into cold water. Drain.
4. Cut peaches into halves, pit and peel. Drop halves into salt-vinegar solution (mix 2 tablespoons salt, 2 tablespoons vinegar in 1 gallon cold water). Rinse peaches.
5. Pack peach halves, cavity-side down, layers overlapping, in hot jars. Leave ½-inch head space. Cover peaches with boiling hot syrup (approximately 1 to 1½ cups per quart) leaving ½-inch head space. Remove air bubbles in jar by running a flat, non-metallic kitchen utensil gently between fruit and jar. Add more syrup, if needed.
6. Screw jar lids down evenly and tightly. Stand jars on rack in canner with water covering jars. Water in canner should be hot, but not boiling.
7. Put cover on canner and bring water to a boil. Process at a gentle but steady boil (quarts 30 minutes, pints 25 minutes).
8. Store jars in dry, dark, cool place.

Peaches and other fruits tend to darken while being prepared for canning or after they are in the jar. Step 4 will prevent darkening during preparation. To prevent darkening in the jar, sprinkle over the fruit, ¼ teaspoon ascorbic acid to each quart, just before capping.

During this canning season, the Ball Blue Book is being offered at a special price by Imperial Sugar. To get a copy send $1.75, plus your name, address, zip code and pure cane block cut from an empty Imperial Sugar package to Imperial Sugar Company, P.O. Box 500, Sugar Land, Texas 77478.

Class Of 1953 Marks Silver Anniversary

By JUNE FLOYD

The May 21, 1953 edition of The Friona Star was dedicated to the graduating seniors and marked as "Graduation-Scholastic Achievement Edition." Commencement exercises were held that evening in the new Friona High School auditorium, now the grade school auditorium.

A group picture of the twenty-six members of the class was on the front page. Those graduating were Patsy Reed Bandy, Wanda Beaty, Katherine Brand, Shirley Cocomougher, Oneida Coffman, Shirley Cook, Wayne Cribbs, LaNora Fallwell, Arnold Fangman and Shirley Fields.

Also, Tommy Hamilton, Roy Haney, Ira Holt, Calvin Ivie, Beverly Sue Jones, Ben Wayne Jordan, M.C. Osborn, Sue Gibson Nazworth, David Patterson, George Price, D.O. Robason, Mary Joyce Renner, Darrell Robbins, H.V. Rockey, Floyd Schueler and Imogene Sherley.

Dalton Caffey, who still lives in Friona, was the superintendent and Dillie M. Kelley was the high school principal. Raymond Cook, our present high school principal, was the high school math teacher and coach.

Stanley Lockhart, minister of the Sixth Street Church of Christ at that time, now living in Houston had delivered the baccalaureate address the previous Sunday evening. His theme was "Happiness."

For their senior trip, the group went to the mountains of Northeastern New Mexico. Upon their return home, they scattered hither and yon, working, holding down jobs and making places for themselves in the world about them.

Before school started again, Darrell Robbins was married to Sue Roberson, who had just graduated from Bovina High School; Shirley Fields was married to Leon Wilson of LaMesas, Texas; Mary Joyce Renner was married to Doyce Barnett, a 1952 graduate of Friona

High School; and Oneida Coffman was married to Frankie Allen.

At the time of graduation Patsy Reed Bandy and Sue Gibson Nazworth were the only two members of the class who were married. Patsy was married to Eugene Bandy and Sue was married to Vern Nazworth between their sophomore and junior years.

During the school year a relay team composed of D.O. Robason, Darrell Robbins, M.C. Osborn and Ben Wayne Jordan set a new record for a Class B school in the state interscholastic meet. Their time was 3:27.6. At this same meet Darrell placed first in the 440 yard dash and fifth in high jump.

Wanda Beaty was valedictorian of the class and Sue Gibson Nazworth was the salutatorian. Dr. Martin L. Cole, dean of Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, was the commencement speaker.

An effort has been made to locate each member of the class now living. Four members are deceased. They are H.V. Rockey, David Patterson, Ben Wayne Jordan and LaNora Fallwell.

Following graduation from high school, H.V. attended college and served in the United States Armed Forces. Then after his discharge, he taught several years, including one or two in the local school system. Then he went to Albuquerque, New Mexico and from there to the Los Angeles area, where he was teaching when he was stricken with a malignancy. He died about ten years ago at the age of 34.

David attended college a year or two and was married to Frankie Lilley of Dimmitt. They had two children and lived on a farm near Friona several years. David died a few years ago.

Ben Wayne was married to Gay Ann McFarland in 1955 after attending Texas Tech a couple of years. They farmed south of town and their two children, Beth and J. were born here.

In the fall of 1958 Ben Wayne, Gay

Ann and the children were involved in an automobile accident near Littelfield as they were on their way to Lubbock to attend the fair. Ben died a few hours later.

Beth and J. are both graduates of Dumas High School. She is a senior student in the University of Texas Pharmacy School and he is a junior pre-med student at Texas A&M University, College Station.

LaNora attended San Jacinto Beauty School in Amarillo, from which she was graduated before purchasing Charm Beauty Shop here. Later she moved to Plainview, where she was employed.

She was married to O.T. McElroy and they had three children, Wayne, Gay and Christy. Wayne has finished high school and is employed in Tulia. O.T., Gay and Christy still live on the family farm near Tulia. LaNora died several weeks ago following a brief illness.

Eva Katherine Brand, who has always been called "Kathryn," began her career in the printing profession as an employee of Friona's Plains Publishers, Inc.

Later she moved to Canyon, where she was employed by The Canyon News. At the present time she is employed by Whitney Printing, Amarillo, a job printing concern.

Patsy and Eugene Bandy have farmed south of town since their marriage. They have four sons. John is a graduate of Friona High School and Angelo State University, San Angelo. He began his first teaching-coaching job at Roosevelt, which is near Lubbock, this fall.

Clay is also a graduate of Friona High School and former student of Texas Tech University, Lubbock. He is married to the former Tamela Hassenpflug of Friona. They live here and he is farming.

Todd, a 1978 graduate of the local high school has enrolled at Lubbock Christian College. Chad is at Lubbock State School.

Wanda Beaty married Tommie Jones. They live on a farm just north of the city limits. Tommie farms and Wanda is employed by White Bookkeeping and Tax Service. They have three children, Joe is a 1974 graduate of Friona High School, holds a bachelor of science degree from West Texas State University, Canyon, and is presently attending the University of Texas Dental School in Houston.

Marilyn and her husband, Ensign Deon Harkey, live in Pensacola, Florida. She attended West Texas State University, Canyon, before her marriage. Johnny is a junior at Texas Tech University, Lubbock.

Oneida and Frankie Allen have lived in Friona since their marriage. They have two sons, Eddie, who is a freshman at Lubbock Christian College, and Rodney, who is a sixth grader.

Frankie has been associated with Welch Auto a long time and Oneida is employed in the office at Friona High School.

Sherley Cook and Beverly Sue Jones were married here in October 1953 and lived on a farm for a few years before moving to Wyoming.

At the present time they live at Green River, Wyoming, where Sherley is employed as a welder. Sue was a full time homemaker until this fall. Now, she's employed by the public school system in Green River. They have two sons and one grandson. Their oldest son, Rocky, who was born here, is married and has a son, Justin Lee, who is two months old. The younger son, Ted, finished high school in the spring.

Ira Holt and his wife, the former Bessie Ferguson, live here. He is employed by Herring Implement Company and she's employed by Production Credit Association.

Their two daughters, Reba and Glenna, are both graduates of Friona High School. Reba is

XIT Ranch History Connects With Area

The XIT Ranch, owned by Englishmen, covered portions of 10 counties in the Panhandle of Texas. Parmer County is said to be the only county of the ten which was entirely covered by the Ranch.

The XIT covered 3,050,000 acres of land and used so much barbed wire for fencing that it had to buy staples by the carload. The ranch was located along 200 miles of the Texas-New Mexico border.

There are several stories connected with the name and the brand of the XIT. Some say it stood for Ten in Texas. Others say the XIT brand was picked because it was difficult for rustlers to change the brand into another form. But the brand was probably picked for utility reasons, since the XIT could easily be burned on the cattle hides with five strokes of a straight five-inch iron and did not require special branding irons to be made up for the sprawling ranch.

The XIT employed as many as 150 cowboys at once. They rode 1,000 horses, herded 150,000 head of cattle and branded 35,000 calves a year.

Stephanie, the youngest member of the family is a senior in Friona High School and recently Floyd and Glenda were elected to serve as Chieftain Parents for the current school term.

Floyd has served on the board of directors of Bovina Wheat Growers, Inc. and Parmer County Farm Bureau. He has also served on the board of directors of Friona Independent School District.

He and Glenda are typical West Texas farm and ranch people and enjoy country living.

The whereabouts of Wayne Cribbs and Roy Haney are unknown to the writer. Imogene Sherley is married and lives in Amarillo. Her married name is Cearly.

At the time this group graduated, The Friona Star was edited and published by Bert Neelley, father of Robert Neelley, president of Friona State Bank. Robert was a fifth grade student here at that time.

The subscription rate was $2 per year; a 1952 Packard was advertised for $2715; tender choice chuck steak could be bought for 53 cents per pound and Hunt's Tomato Catsup-14 oz. bottle-was going for six for $1. Friona State Bank was located where the present City Hall is and had seven employees.

Some changes have really been made. Probably even more will be made before this group reaches its Golden Anniversary.

An Indian Version of the Twenty-Third Psalm

U the Great Father above a Shepherd Chief is I am His, and with Him I want not. He throws to me a rope, and the name of the rope is love. He draws and draws me to where the grass is green and the water is dangerous not. I eat and lie down and am satisfied. Sometimes my heart is very weak and falls down, but he lifts me up again and draws me into a good road. His name is WONDERFUL.

Sometimes He makes the love rope into a whip, but afterward he gives me a staff to lean upon. He spreads a table before me with all kinds of foods. He puts His hand upon my head and all the "tired" is gone. My cup He fills till it runs over. What I tell is true. I lie not. These roads that are "away ahead" will stay with me through this life, and afterward I will go to live in the Big Teepee and sit down with the SHEPHERD CHIEF forever.

Old Baby Book Gave Tips To 1905 Moms

By JUNE FLOYD

Would you be surprised if you were given an opportunity to read a baby book which was written more than seventy years ago? I was. In fact, if someone had asked me to name the author of the first baby book printed in America, I would probably have answered, "Dr. Spock."

About a year ago I learned that my answer would have been wrong. One of my Garland friends, Susie Grant, has a well preserved copy of a baby book, which has been in her family many years. She was generous enough to share it with me.

The title is "How To Bring Up A Baby." It was copyrighted in 1906 and was sent to Susie's great-grandmother by The Procter and Gamble Company of Cincinnati, Ohio.

It was written by Elizabeth Robinson Scovil, a graduate of the Massachusetts General Hospital Training School For Nurses. She was also the author of "A Baby's Requirements," "The Care Of Children" and "Preparation For Motherhood."

The Foreword goes like this:

"This little book is sent you with the compliments of the manufacturers of Ivory Soap.

In language so simple as to make misunderstanding impossible, it tells you what you ought to do to keep your baby in good health; how to treat the minor ailments of childhood; and when you should send for a physician.

Food, sleep, dress, cleanliness, ventilation, the care of the eyes, ears, nose, teeth, hair and nails—nothing is omitted.

Whenever it should be and no oftener, Ivory Soap is mentioned; and, invariably, a reason for its use is given. It may not be out of place, to add that for nearly thirty years, Ivory Soap has enjoyed a unique position in the homes of the majority of intelligent Americans. For bath, toilet and fine laundry purposes, it has no equal.

You should use it for baby's bath as well as for washing everything he wears—his underclothes, his frocks, his stockings, everything about him from the top of his little bald head to the tips of his pink and white toes.

Why? For the very good reason that Ivory Soap is pure soap; and nothing else.

There is only one other soap that can be compared with Ivory; and that is genuine, unadulterated white Castile Soap. It is on sale in very few stores. The "Castile" soap which is sold almost everywhere in the country, is, as a rule, a cheap and unworthy imitation of a meritorious article. There is not a drop of olive oil in it; and it was not made within 3000 miles of the historic city whose name it bears.

But even genuine Castile Soap, if you can get it—and the chances are that you cannot—is no better than, and not as pure as Ivory Soap."

It was interesting to note that the word "pediatrician" was not in the entire book. However, the following advice followed the heading "Office Of The Physician."

"It is the business of the doctor to help the mother to keep the children in good health, as well as to cure them when they are ill. Ask him for advice on any points on which you wish to be informed, but do not fly to him every time your children have a pain.

Many trifling ailments cure themselves. Dieting and rest in bed is a good beginning, even if the disease proves too serious for this to cure.

It is a safe rule to send for the doctor if the symptoms that cause anxiety do not improve after twenty-four hours of home treatment."

There were paragraphs outlining proper care of children with tuberculosis, diseases of the nervous system, rheumatism, constipation, diarrhea, fever, eruptions, anemia, sore throat, colds, hip disease and convulsions.

The three following paragraphs were under a sub heading—"Nature To Be Trusted."

"Nature intends a child to live. An ordinarily healthy child is tenacious of life, and will often recover when apparently at the point of death.

Children should have little or no medicine, except by the advice of a competent physician. The mucous membrane that lines the stomach and bowels is very delicate. Drugs are apt to injure it, and should not be administered except in rare cases, and then only by an experienced person.

Patent medicines should be regarded as poisons, and should never be given to a child."

Apparently this advice either went unheeded or was unheard of twelve or fourteen years after the book was written. Those of us who are sixty or over can remember when any home with small children was stocked with Fletcher's Castoria, Baby Percy, Castor Oil and Paregoric.

Ivory Soap may have been the first company to advocate suppositories to induce bowel movements. The following advice was given for children who suffered from constipation:

"In case the bowels do not move regularly, cut a piece of Ivory Soap about an inch and a half long and as thick as a stout lead pencil, point it in at the end, and insert it gently until out of sight. If necessary press it with the finger to retain it. In a short time a movement will follow."

Several admonitions, including the following about feeding meat to children were given.

"Children do not need meat until after they are six years old and even then it should be given sparingly, never more than once a day. It is too stimulating to the delicate nervous system of a child. In excess it causes irritability. The proteins can be supplied by eggs, milk and fish, as bread and cereals also furnish a certain amount."

Even though pollution of the air in America at that time had probably never been thought of, the following precaution was included in the book:

"Clean air is even more necessary to the health of children than clean clothes, and this is what proper ventilation provides, when the outside air is pure.

Windows are made to open and doors to shut. Lower the top sash and raise the bottom one and a current is set in motion that carries off the warm, used air and brings in fresh."

Instructions on removing stains included two that I would never have thought about anyone needing. One paragraph read: "Wheel grease will yield to repeated rubbings with tallow and washing."

To-day's mothers of small children might ask, "Where in the world would you be able to obtain tallow?"

Then another paragraph ran thusly: "Spots of machine oil will disappear if washed in cold water."

The section on body cleanliness intrigued me. Two paragraphs, which reflect how much things have changed in the past 72 years follow:

"A porcelain bath-tub with hot and cold water, a shower bath and a needle bath, in which tiny jets of water sting the skin into a ruddy glow, are desirable—when they can be had. Towels and Ivory Soap are indispensable additions to such luxuries.

Fortunately for those who can not afford a palatial bath room, it is not an absolute necessity for either health or comfort."

Now, will someone please tell me about a needle bath? I'm not sure I ever heard the two words used together or saw them in print.

The following advice was given in the hair care section:

"Children's hair should not be cut until they are at least three years old. It should be brushed with a soft brush and the scalp well rubbed with the hands at night. This brings the blood to it and stimulates the follicles from which the hair grows. It is keeping up the nourishment of the scalp that prevents baldness."

Washing the hair once a week is often enough for cleanliness."

Probably the greatest change I noted as I read the book was in the wearing apparel department.

The advice on infant's dress went like this:

"A baby's clothes should be especially designed for warmth and comfort. The softest flannel next the skin, flannelette for the napkins and a loose outside slip, trimmed with soft, narrow lace are suitable.

No tight bands should be used, nor weight of long skirts permitted to hamper the tender body.

The clothing should never be thick enough to cause perspiration, as that make the skin tender and the child subject to cold."

Of course, at that time no one had ever heard of Pampers. However, about that time most infants wore long dresses with matching slips. Perhaps mothers thought the author of the book was very liberal to suggest short skirts.

Special instructions for dressing a girl were: "The principal point to be observed in dressing a girl are: No tight bands about the waist, combination under-garments, divided under-skirts, especially in winter, side garters that do not interfere with the circulation and loose dresses with no constricting bands.

Hygienic waists can be bought that do not press the delicate framework of the body out of shape. One of these may be worn if desired."

The following paragraphs were very amusing: "Custom allows so much more freedom in a boy's dress than in a girl's that there's little to suggest."

The love of a boy for mother earth and the necessity he feels for getting close to her make it almost unnecessary to say that fine clothes

La Grippe
1895

Once when a little girl So very ill was I, The folks thought anytime I would surely die. There were no country phones. So someone rode to town To bring the doctor out, To get my fever down.

Hot water bottles? No one In the country had And no one ever heard Of an electric heating pad. "Heat," the doctor said Was the greatest aid, So they put hot platters Against each shoulder blade.

A rounded spoon of sugar With drops of camphor covered I took, while between Life and death I hovered. Camphor was the medicine The doctor said to give Because La Grippe germs Could not in camphor live.

I was sick, very sick, Just as sick as I could be, And anxious kin and friends Sat up all night with me. Finally I didn't ache, I didn't cough at all— And it seemed so "cool" To have my fever fall.

Oranges in our home Were scarce as could be But Dr. Gross ordered A "sack" of them for me Camphor drops on sugar And hot platters, too, Cured me of "La Grippe." Today known as the Flu.

HOW TO DRESS A BABY-1906....Eula Mae Gibson, six month old daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. R.O. Gibson of Sagerton, Texas, is pictured here in a dress, which was made by her mother. The elaborate lace, tucks and ruffles on the long sleeved dress with fitted cuffs, is over an equally elaborately decorated slip. Mrs. Gibson made all her daughter's clothes by hand as was the custom seventy-two years ago. Mae Magness has lived in Friona since 1929. She was born July 1, 1906.

SOME CHANGES HAVE BEEN MADE....This photograph was made in April of 1908 in Portales, New Mexico Territory. The late Mrs. Frank Floyd dressed her baby boy in his "Sunday Best," and had a picture made of him and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mike Reynolds, a pioneer rancher's wife, who lived near Portales. Long long dresses with matching slips, trimmed with a lot of tiny tucks, lace insertion with matching lace trim on the hems and long sleeves were proper baby attire at that time. The baby, Glenn Floyd, has been a resident of the Friona area for the past 30 years. He was born February 29, 1908.

are out of place on him. No mother should be surprised, or vexed, if he quickly soils them.

As a boy grows older and begins to pay attention to his collars and neckties he should be encouraged to care for his personal appearance. It is a sign of coming manhood."

Vital statistics at birth apparently haven't changed very much, but there has been a drastic change in the weight department. The average birth weight for a new born was 7 pounds and the average length 19½ inches.

Then at one month the average infant weighed 7¾ pounds. At three months he weighed 11 pounds; at six months 15 pounds and at one year 21 pounds.

Who would like to make a guess concerning changes which will come in this area in the next seventy years or so?

Local Couple Observe Sixtieth Anniversary

By JUNE FLOYD

Mr. and Mrs. Vergil Jordan, who live south of town, were honored with a reception marking their sixtieth wedding anniversary between the hours of 3 and 5 p.m. Sunday, June 11 at their home.

Reception hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Jordan and Mrs. Bobby Jordan, Friona; Judy McBeth and Ken Jordan, Amarillo; and Dr. and Mrs. Lee Cranfill and Beth of Dumas.

The serving table was covered with a floor length lace cloth topped with a white satin scalloped overlay decorated with pink satin ribbon bows and streamers. It was centered with an arrangement of pink and white mums, glads, carnations and baby's breath in a silver epergne.

A silver punch service, crystal and silver serving pieces and a tiered cake completed the table setting. The tiered cake was centered with white columns with the numbers "60" between the base and top of the cake. Pink wedding bells, green leaves and a pair of wedding bells were used to decorate the cake.

Judy McBeth presided over the tea and coffee service and cake, nuts and mints were served by Beth Cranfill.

Dr. and Mrs. Cranfill and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Jordan, joined the honored couple in the receiving line. About one hundred persons signed the guest register.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Ford and Sherry Jordan of Fordyce, Arkansas; and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Morrow of Houston and Linda Morrow of Houston.

Mrs. Ford and Sherry Jordan are Mr. Jordan's niece and great-niece and Mrs. Morrow and Linda are the same relation to Mrs. Jordan.

Vergie Easterling and Vergil Jordan were married June 12, 1918 in Fordyce, Arkansas. Immediately after they were married Vergil was drafted into the United States Armed Forces.

Following his discharge the couple lived on a farm near Fordyce a few years then moved to West Texas. Their first home was near McLean, where they lived six years before moving to Clarendon in 1926.

Eighteen years later they moved to a farm house near the present location of MBPXL. Mrs. Jordan remembers that they arrived in Friona in 1944 during a blinding snow storm. As the moving caravan went through Friona, Mr. Jordan stopped and purchased a five gallon can of kerosene.

They used kerosene for fuel for both their cookstove and heater and the five gallon purchase was intended to get them through the night. However, the blowing snow the following morning prevented Mr. Jordan from driving into Friona for more fuel.

The late Charley Turner and his wife, Annis, were the nearest neighbors and "better neighbors we've never had" was the way Mrs. Jordan described the couple.

She continued, "The next day when Vergil couldn't get into town because of the blowing snow, he decided to check with the Turners for some surplus kerosene. Luckily for us, they had some and were glad to let us have it."

The couple's oldest son, Marvin, a 1945 graduate of Friona High School, and his wife the former Earlene Wilkerson, who grew up west of Hub, live on a nearby farm. Their oldest son, Bobby and his wife, Juanelle, and two children, Todd and Lori, live in Friona. Bobby farms, too.

Marvin's and Earlene's daughter, Judy McBeth, and youngest son, Ken, live in Amarillo. Judy has a son, Kyle. She is employed by Iowa Beef Packers. Ken is a welder.

Ben Wayne, the Jordan's youngest son, was a member of the 1953 graduating class of Friona High School. In 1955 he was married to Gay Ann McFarland and died from injuries he received in an automobile accident about three years later.

Beth and J. are their children. Beth is a senior at the University of Texas, Austin. She is a pharmacy major and will soon go to San Antonio for her one year internship.

J. is a pre-med student at Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas. They are both graduates of Dumas High School.

The Jordans, who have always been farmers, grow beautiful geraniums and gladioli for those of us who pass their home occasionally to enjoy. For several years after his retirement from being a full time farmer, Vergil looked after the cattle. In recent years he has left that job to Marvin, but he still enjoys watching the cows and calves.

In spite of their advanced years and failing health, Vergil and Vergie still have a sense of humor and are interested in the activities of their community.

They attend Friona United Methodist Church and she's a long time member of Friona Woman's Club.

Our most sincere congratulations go to this fine couple. They have set a good example for the rest of us to follow. Marking a sixtieth anniversary is truly a wonderful accomplishment.

699 RECIPES

Carrie Tatum Has Cookbook Published

One of Friona's most accomplished artists, who excels in several fields including needlepoint, embroidery, applique and quilting, has added a new dimension to her life.

Carrie Tatum, who has collected recipes as long as she can remember, has put together a remarkable cookbook. It is titled simply "Carrie's Cooking."

A native Texan, the author was born Carrie Dillingham. She was born on a ranch near Albany, Texas, to the late Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dillingham, pioneer Shackelford County ranchers. Carrie grew up with one sister and five brothers in the Albany area and was married to Ellis Tatum, who is probably better known in this area as "Knotty."

The Tatums with their three children, Mary, Weldon and Tommy, moved to a farm near Black in 1950 and as Carrie carried on the usual duties of a farm wife and mother, she collected recipes she liked from any source. Many of them came from relatives and friends. Others were copied from newspapers and magazines. Her one rule of thumb was that she must try each recipe before adding it to her collection.

As time went on her collection grew and grew. She had some recipes that had belonged to her mother and grandmother, but after they died, she regretted that she didn't have more and began to think about having her collection printed for the benefit of those who follow after her.

In the forward of the book Carrie makes this statement: "This lot of recipes was compiled mainly for the use of my children: Mary, Dianne, Weldon and Tommy and their families: Debbie Houlette, Pam Tatum, Mary Beth Houlette, Jackie Tatum, Terry Tatum, Weldon Tatum Jr., Wendy Tatum and Holly Tatum."

The attractive front cover of the book is an original drawing of the front door of the Tatum home at 610 Arrah. It was designed by the couple's oldest granddaughter, Debbie Houlette.

Debbie shares the interest and talent of her Grandmother Carrie and her mother, Mary, in the field of art and is an art major at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene.

There are 699 recipes inside the covers of "Carrie's Cooking." Each one of them has been tried and tested. There are recipes for just about anything anyone could wish to bake, boil, fry, broil or combine.

The first section features Appetizers, Pickles and Relishes. This is followed by a special section for Soups, Salads and Vegetables. Then there's a section of Main Dishes, which is followed by Bread, Rolls and Pastry.

In this section there is a recipe under "Mrs. Barnett's Pound Cake," which has probably found a permanent place in more kitchens in Parmer County than any other one in the book.

A lot of us were first introduced to the recipe by eating one of the late Mrs. R.E. Barnett's cakes. Then it became a part of our collection and we've been using it more than 25 years.

Then, there's a section headed, "Candy, Jelly and Preserves" and the final one is "Beverages & Miscellaneous."

Carrie belongs to First Baptist Church, Friona Woman's Club and Black Study Club, so she's a very busy woman. One of her "pet hobbies" is working with and for Girlstown, USA.

Even though the cookbook has already been printed, the author is still collecting and trying recipes. One, which surely passed the test for addition to the collection is for crust for fruit pies: 1 cup shredded sharp process American cheese; 1/2 cup butter or oleo; 1 and 1-3 cups all purpose flour; 2 tablespoons water. Combine cheese, butter and oleo. Cream until light; add flour; mix well. Stir in water and shape dough into ball. Chill several hours before using.

This crust combined with the recipe for apricot pie on page 123 of Carrie's Cookin' gets my vote for "One of the best ever pies."

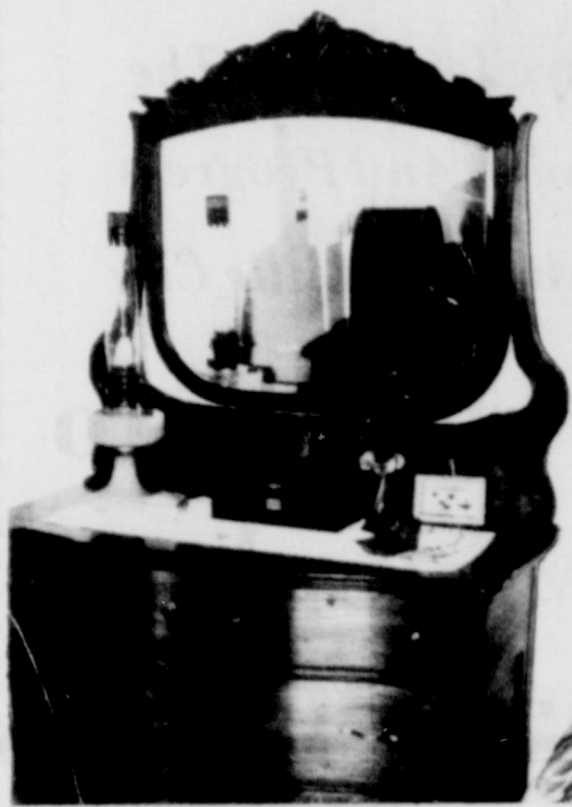

Carrie says "I've already collected so many new recipes since I sent the first ones to the printer that I may have to compile another book."

If you have a favorite recipe you'd like to share, call Carrie. It might show up in a future edition of "Carrie's Cookin'."

A HAPPY FOURSOME...When you combine a grandmother, a cookbook, a granddaughter and a freshly baked apricot pie, the sum is always a happy foursome. Wendy Tatum poses with Carrie and a copy of

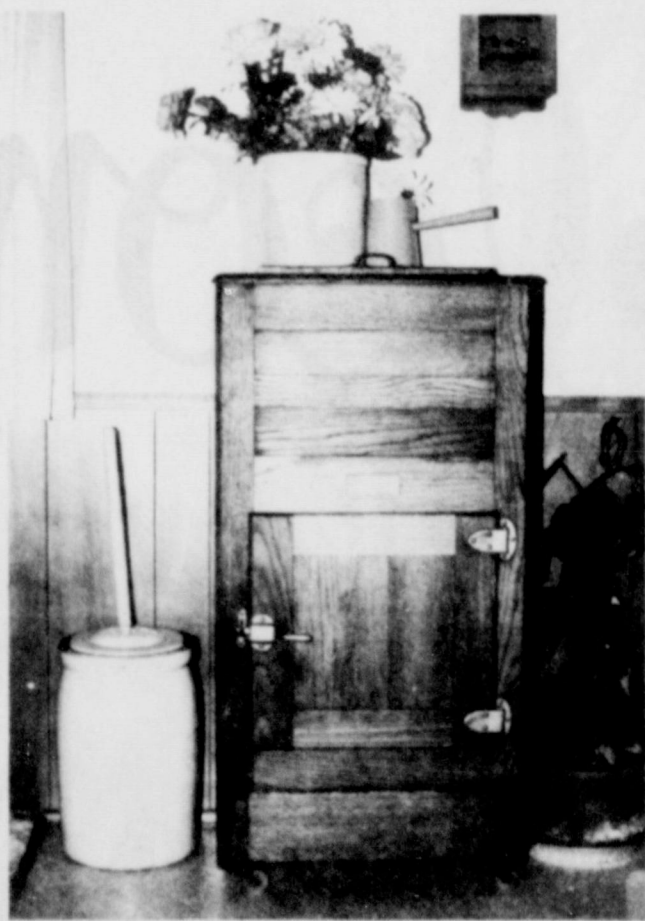

"Carrie's Cookin'." Wendy is the daughter of Tommy and Dianne Tatum, who live in the Black Community, and is one of the eight grandchildren for whom the book was planned.

MORE 'N MORE ANTIQUES...This antique dresser belonged to Carrie's Grandmother Dillingham. She purchased it more than one hundred years ago for $40 from a second hand furniture dealer. When Grandmother Dillingham died, it was handed down to Carrie's Mother and later to her. A friend in Abilene refinished the dresser to its original state for Carrie. The Alladin lamp and the vase also belonged to the same grandmother. The radio shown in the mirror was given to Carrie by an aunt, Mrs. Bertha Dalton, who has since passed away. It still works in spite of its age of more than 50 years.

SPECIALLY FOR THE GRANDCHILDREN...This doll house, which was painted by Mrs. Tatum occupies a prominent place in one of her bedrooms. It serves as storage space for dolls, doll furniture, doll clothes and other things young children enjoy playing with. When grandchildren or other small visitors arrive, they're allowed to open doors, remove contents and play with what they find. Then, when they're ready to go home, the house is put back in order to await the arrival of another small guest.

ONE OF MANY...The ice box pictured here is one of the many antiques in the home of the Tatums. It was purchased from Mrs. Kermit Deaton when she moved away from the Dorsey Mansion in northeastern New Mexico. Pictured with it is an antique churn, which was given to Carrie by an aunt. The crock holding the flowers belonged to her mother and is one of many in the Tatum collection. Some are used for decorations and others have practical uses, such as waste baskets. Carrie made the shadow in the upper right hand corner of the picture.

XIT Ranch Hands Had Tight Rules

By CAROL ELLIS

The early years of cattle ranching on the Texas plains were turbulent times. Law and order had not yet come to the area and the cowboys had almost no checks on their behavior except their own loyalty to the rancher for whom they worked. In the case of the big XIT Ranch, of which the town of Friona was once a part, the owners lived abroad and so it became necessary to establish a set of rules to live by, to control the scores of cowboys employed by the XIT.

A long list of hard company rules was printed up, limiting every aspect of life on the ranch. It seemed that the absentee-owners disapproved of everything but work and sleep.

A few of the rules posted on the three-million-acre XIT spread were as follows:

No employee of the Company, or of any contractor doing work for the Company, is permitted to carry on or about his person or in his saddle bags, any pistol, dirk, dagger, sling shot, knuckles, Bowie knife or any other similar instruments for offense or defense.

Card playing and gambling of every description, whether engaged in by employees, or by persons not in the service of the Company, is strictly forbidden.

Employees are strictly forbidden the use of vinous, malt, spirituous, or intoxicating liquors, during their time of service with the Company.

Loafers, "sweaters", deadbeats, tramps, gamblers, or disreputable persons, must not be entertained at any camp, nor will employees be permitted to give, loan or sell such persons any grain, or provisions of any kind, nor shall such persons be permitted to remain on the Company's land under any pretext whatever.

Employees are not allowed to run mustang, antelope or any kind of game on the Company's horses.

No employee shall be permitted to own any cattle or stock horses on the ranch.

It is the aim of the owners of this ranch to conduct it on the principle of right and justice to everyone; and for it to be excelled by no other in the good behavior, sterling honesty and integrity, and general high character of its employees, and to this end it is necessary that the foregoing rules be adhered to, and the violation of any of them will be just charge for discharge.

Chuck Wagon Cook: Trail's Vital Cog

By CAROL ELLIS

The "Drover" may have been the boss on the cattle drives back in the days when Bovina was part of the sprawling XIT Ranch, but the fellow who was most revered by all the cowboys was the Chuck Wagon Cook.

This could work the other way around, however. If the cook was not too skilled in the culinary arts, he might end up being the "most hated" fellow on the cattle drive. But the real key to having a contented crew, was the cook, whose job on the range was twice as demanding as it was back at the ranch.

The cook was the first one up in the morning and usually the busiest during the day. He packed and drove the wagon, prepared two, sometimes, three meals a day and was usually the last man to bed down at night with the exception of the night guard.

Mealtimes were one of the few pleasures of the day during the cattle drives, as the cowboy's job of keeping a bunch of bovines headed in the right direction was not as glamorous and romantic as the movies would have us believe. The cowboy's job was usually hot, sweaty, dirty and boring. So he looked forward to mealtimes around the campfire and the camaraderie with his fellow herdsman.

Serving meals to this dirty crew was not the cook's only job however. He also served as the barber, doctor, seamstress, and sometimes referee when a heated argument would break out. He cut hair and shaved the fellows who thought they needed to "go into town" on a Saturday night. If a button needed sewed on or a holey sock needed mending, the cook was the fellow to see. He doctored everything from minor cuts to diphtheria.

Kerosene oil was a favorite coagulant for major cuts and whiskey was a cure-all for just about everything else. The cook was usually the only person allowed to have a bottle of whiskey along on the trail drive and he nearly always kept it under lock and key. Sometimes wounds were helped along with a gummy poultice of chewing tobacco. Stories have been told about the trail cook who served up a drink of horse liniment diluted with hot water to anyone suffering with a fever.

A first-class range cook could keep his men as healthy and happy as cowboys ever got, and he made certain that the boys paid him the proper respect, which he sometimes enforced with the broad end of an iron skillet.

S.O.B. Stew was an all-time favorite dish for whomping up over the campfire, but in recent years the name has been changed to Son-of-a-Gun Stew to suit modern-day sensitivities. Since fresh vegetables were few and far between on the range, this dish consists mostly of beef and meat by-products. The real recipe goes like this:

2 lbs. lean beef, half a calf heart, 1 1/2 lbs. calf liver, 1 set sweetbreads, 1 set brains, 1 set marrow gut, salt, pepper, Louisiana hot sauce. Kill off a young steer, cut up beef, liver and heart into 1-inch cubes; slice the marrow gut into small rings. Place in a Dutch oven or deep casserole. Cover meat with water and simmer for 2 to 3 hours. Add salt, pepper and hot sauce to taste. Take sweetbreads and brains and cut in small pieces. Add to stew. Simmer another hour, never boiling.

Another mainstay of the cowboy's diet was beans. Trail-drive cooks prepared their beans pretty much the same as the modern housewife does today.

It was a little difficult to come up with a fine, fancy dessert while out on the trail. Dried fruits such as apples or apricots were good for pies but what did the cook do when his supply of these ran out? This was where the cook got to be pretty good at "make-do" with whatever was available. This was probably the time when such recipes as Red Bean

Pie, Vinegar Cobbler and Appleless Apple Pie came into being. The recipe for Appleless Apple Pie goes like this:

20 soda crackers, 2 cups sugar, 2 tsp. cream of tartar, 2 tsp. cinnamon, 2 cups water, one unbaked pie shell. Crumble crackers, add remaining ingredients. Bake in pie shell until done at about 350 degrees.

We've heard that this particular recipe was also popular during the Depression Years when everybody was pretty poor.

Even the worst chuck-wagon cook should have been able to come up with a pretty mean pan of Sourdough Biscuits at any meal. The old standby recipe for Sourdough Biscuits and the necessary Sourdough Starter are as follows:

One cup sourdough starter, 1 tsp. each salt, sugar, soda, 1 tablespoon shortening, 3 to 4 cups sifted flour. Place flour in a large bowl, make a well in the center and add sourdough starter. Stir in salt, soda, sugar, shortening. Gradually mix in enough flour to make a stiff dough. Pinch off dough for one biscuit at a time, form a ball and roll in melted shortening. Crowd the biscuits in a round 8-inch cake pan and allow to rise in a warm place for 20 to 30 minutes before baking at 425 degrees until done.

Sourdough Starter requires 2 cups of lukewarm potato water, 2 cups flour, 1 tablespoon of sugar.

Measure out two cups of water in which potatoes have been boiled. Mix in flour and sugar to form a smooth paste. Set in a warm place until starter mixture rises to double its original size.

With these recipes in hand, the reader could be well on his or her way to being a good modern-day chuck wagon cook. Now if you can just locate yourself a chuck wagon and a gang of cowboys, you're in business.

Ex-Frionan Has Many-Faceted Job

Dillon Family and Youth Services, Inc., a licensed and bonded institution, located at 2547 East Twenty-First Street in Tulsa, Oklahoma, was founded in 1973.

Co-founders are Jerry and Denise Magness Dillon. Their primary object in the beginning was to provide residential treatment for disturbed adolescents.

Jerry is a native of Yale, Oklahoma, and a graduate of Tulsa High School. He also holds a bachelor of arts degree in music education from the University of Tulsa, and a doctorate in human relations from Union University Graduate School in Los Angeles.

Prior to the establishment of the family and youth services institution, Jerry was employed as music minister and director of choir at several Baptist churches and was also employed by Tulsa Boys Home, a home for marginal persons who needed group living experiences, but not institutionalized care.

Denise is a graduate of Friona High School and the daughter of Mae Magness and the late H.T. Magness. She holds a bachelor's degree from Texas Tech University, Lubbock, in music art and a master's in music art with a teaching emphasis from the University of Tulsa. She started her group work with the Baptist Student Center in Lubbock when she was a Tech student.

Since opening the facility, the Dillons have added the following services: INPATIENT: Adolescent psychiatric medical services. OUTPATIENT: Child-parent, marriage and family counseling; remedial learning center; psychological and psychiatric evaluations; ADOPTION: Adoption services for Korean orphans.

At the present the Dillons serve the southwestern state region, which consists of five or six states. Their staff numbers more than forty persons who hold bachelor's or higher degrees.

They are psychiatrists, clinical psychologists, psychiatric social workers, psychiatric nurses and special education teachers. This staff provides care for several persons at a time. The average length of stay is about ten months.

Since the beginning of the adoption program for Korean orphans, the Dillons have placed about 1700 children in foster homes. Each child is escorted to the United States by an adult.

Their Korean facility employs full time pediatricians and social workers. It is an inter-country adoption program and provides services, which were not being provided before its inception.

Jerry and Denise have both been to Korea many times, and on one occasion, Mae accompanied them. The children come in groups of ten to fourteen and are generally under the age of two.

Most of the children who are available for adoption have been abandoned or placed in orphanages. Many of them have health problems, but have a real strong desire to live.

The Dillons cooperate with more than 300 public and private agencies, who assist with the evaluation of families and supervision of foster homes.

Their residential treatment program is accredited by the Joint Commission of Accreditation of Hospitals and has been approved to build an intensive psychiatric hospital for adolescents in Tulsa.

The State Health and Planning Commission has approved the first phase of the building, which will be a 36 bed facility, expected to start soon.

The second phase will be the same bed capacity and plans are being made for its completion in about two years.

Jerry is a member of the executive committee of the Joint Council on International Children's Services for North America.

At the present time the Dillons have three residential treatment centers, an outpatient clinic and a remedial education classroom. They also have administrative offices and are making plans for expansion.

The couple's nine year old daughter, Daniele, is a fourth grade student. Jerry and Denise have had separate offices for several years due to the nature of their duties.

Now, Daniele also has an office. Hers is a small room off her mother's office and she spends her after school hours doing homework or pursuing her hobbies until it is time for the family to go home in the evening.

"Mother Mae," as all of the Magness children, grandchildren and in-laws say, spent last weekend in Tulsa. Daniele had been visiting her grandmother and other Friona kin, including Jackie and Jacquelyn Hight and family and the Ralph Rodens and Gilbert Boatmans.

Mrs. Magness and Daniele were accompanied to Tulsa by Mrs. Opal Strickland, who visited in the home of a sister-in-law, Mrs. Ethel Devoe. Mrs. Strickland and Mrs. Magness returned home Thursday afternoon.

FIRST CHILD ARRIVES FROM KOREA....Jay Hight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Hight of Friona, greets his aunt, Denise Dillon of Tulsa as she gets off the plane with the first Korean child placed in an American home by Dillon Family and Youth Services, Inc. of Tulsa.

Since most Americans have first, last and middle names, social security numbers, C.B. handles and various and other sundry designations, it would hardly seem that any of them need nicknames.

Nonetheless, nicknames come and go, but a lot of them stay. It seems that most people who get tagged with a nickname at an early age and then keep it for the rest of their lives.

It isn't unusual for the last member of a large family to be called, "Baby," or "Babe." Hearing either of these names doesn't seem too strange, but when you hear others say, "Aunt Baby," or "Uncle Babe," it seems somewhat out of place.

Several Frionans have carried nicknames for at least thirty years. Once you get one, about the only way you can get away from it is to move to a different area and persuade family members to use your name. Even then, it follows you sometimes.

Very often family members or people who knew you when you were young fail to come across and continue referring to you by your nickname.

Leon Coffey says, "When I hear someone say 'Tuffy,' I know they're kinfolks or from Melrose."

From the time Leon was five or six years old until he and Laura Nell married, just about everyone called him "Tuffy."

He was the eighth of eleven Coffey children who grew up on a farm in the Melrose vicinity. When he was almost old enough to go to school and the older ones had started, he was very lonely and wanted to go to the field with his Daddy.

He wanted to go so badly that he climbed upon the running board of his father's truck on the right side so he wouldn't be left behind.

When his Dad was ready to go to the field, he drove off without looking on the right side, where Leon was sleeping. As the truck bounced over a dry creek, Leon fell off and was run over by the truck wheels.

After he survived the ordeal without the benefit of a doctor's examination, the older Coffeys started calling him "Tuffy."

Reading the legals in the Friona

Star when Tom and Henry Lewis had bought a house or something, I learned that Tom was really Eula Dell.

Eula Dell Jones grew up in the Celeste area and was known by her double name until she reached her freshman year in high school.

While playing basketball at Cisco, she scooted across the gymnasium floor on her knees and had to have some first aid.

Standard medication for "floor burns" at that time was Campho Phenique, so it was applied direct from the bottle. Eula Dell made so much noise that someone remarked, "You are behaving just like a tom cat."

From that time to now, she's been known to family, friends and neighbors as "Tom."

Robert B. Collier, better known as "Preach," doesn't remember who gave him his nickname.

He says, "I remember that Dad had some cotton pickers one fall and some of them began calling me 'Preach.' Then my brothers and sisters picked it up and I've had it ever since."

Cotton Houser is well known in the area, but, who ever heard of John Vondyl Houser? If strangers asked for Cotton by his name, they probably would never find anyone who knew him.

He doesn't remember when he got the nickname nor who gave it to him, but he does remember when his hair was snow white, so feels sure the color of his hair was responsible for him being called "Cotton."

When Doris Kent Shields and Horace Keith Kendrick were married, the minister had so much difficulty keeping his tongue from getting twisted, that he almost wished they had used their nicknames in the exchange of vows.

Both of them had long gone by nicknames. In fact, Horace Keith, whom most Frionans know as "Pudge," is called by different names in different places.

Men with whom he served in the armed forces and Pampa friends, know him as "Ken." Amarillo business associates call him "Horace," so he has to keep on his toes when he's away from home.

Deke, as we know Doris Kent, had a very determined grandfather. He insisted that the new baby which was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shields, be named Doris Kent. Doris was the mother's middle name and Kent was her father's middle name and also the name of the family ancestors who came to America from England.

The parents acceded to the wishes of the grandfather, but rarely ever (Continued on Page 4) used the name. From the beginning, Joe called her "Deke" or "Dekin."

Through grade school and high school, she was known as "Doris." Then, when she began her freshman year at Cottey College, Nevada, Missouri, there were three other girls in her English class who were named Doris.

The instructor, who wasn't real happy about having to call four members of the class by first and last names, asked, "Doesn't at least one of you have a nickname?"

Doris Kent Shields quickly became "Deke," and has been called that ever since by her family, neighbors, friends and acquaintances.

When "Pudge" was real small, an older girl remarked, "He looks just like Betty Boop's dog, Pudge." Soon the children in the neighborhood and later members of his family picked "Pudge" up, then later it was shortened to "Pudge."

Carrying the nickname one bit farther in the Kendrick family, is Kay Kendrick. She's Pudge's mother and lived in Friona before moving to King's Manor in Hereford.

Pudge and Deke were both only children and to distinguish their parents they called them, "Daddy Joe," "Mamma Ethel," "Papa Kay," and "Mamma Kay."

They continued these designations until their first child, Danny, started talking. He picked up all the names his parents used, except dropped the "Mamma" and just said, "Kay." Soon everyone else was saying the same thing.

Now, very few people recognize "Kay" by her name, which is Hazel.

Leonard J. and Dora Johnson have lived here a number of years; however, very few people know that "Tag's" name is Leonard. He grew up in Collingsworth County, Texas, and was the ninth of ten children.

When he was real small, he wanted to go everywhere and do everything his older brothers and sisters did. Some of them started calling him "Tag-Along."

Before long this was shortened to "Tag," and that is how he has been known ever since.

Nicknames were the rule rather than the exception in the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barker Sr. Their son, who has lived here most of his life, is Fred Jr., but very few people seem to know this.

Before Fred Jr. started to school, he accompanied his father to Farwell to attend a court session.

Without any advance announcement, Fred Jr. stood up and in a clear, firm voice said, "Now, hold it everybody, the Judge has got to spit."

He's never been known as Fred Jr. since.

Then, one of his sisters, Mary Lou Collier, who lives here, was always called "Jeff" by her father, brothers and sisters.

Slim Ashcraft, a long time Friona resident and former XIT cowboy cook, was dubbed "Slim" by co-workers long before he was married. His name is Clarence, but many more people know him by his nickname than by his name.

Then, we have Teto Jennings Milner. When she was born, her older sister, Gay Tannahill, was less than two years old, so couldn't talk plain.

When she tried to say, "Baby sister," the words sounded something like "Teto" to their grandfather, the late O.M. Jennings of Lazbuddie, so between the two of them the new baby had a new name.

Her name is Annette, but, says Teto, "It must still be a good name. It surely hasn't ever been used very much."

Eldon Long, who is much better known as "Bubba," received his nickname in the same manner. His sister, Sheryl, couldn't talk plain when she was born and her efforts to say, "Brother," came out "Bubba." He's been Bubba ever since.

a very early age. He and some little friends, who liked baseball, formed the habit of looking through the knot holes in the fence when a game was being played.

Soon they were referred to as "The Knothole Gang." Later little Ellis became "Knothole" and later was dubbed, "Knotty."

Knotty Tatum got his nickname at

Recipes Entered By Friona Cooks

Friona is a small town abounding in good cooks. Several of the local homemakers have had recipes published or have been busy writing their own cookbooks. (See stories elsewhere in this issue.) But there are many great cooks in Friona whose culinary works of art have not been honored in publication. The Friona Star now seeks to rectify this situation by publishing various tasty recipes from several of the fine homemakers around town. Wanda Hart's Almond Chicken Salad recipe goes like this. 3 cups chopped cooked chicken 1 tablespoon soy sauce ½ cup Italian salad dressing 1 stalk green onion, thinly sliced 2 stalks celery, thinly sliced 8 cups torn lettuce Combine all ingredients except lettuce. Serve chicken mixture on bed of lettuce. + + + This Tangy Vegetable Salad recipe belonging to Irene McFarland would dress up most any meal. ¾ cup apple cider vinegar ½ cup salad oil 1 cup sugar 1 teaspoon salt pepper to taste Mix these and bring to a boil, then cool. Chop the following four ingredients very fine: 1 cup green pepper, 1 cup celery, small jar of pimientos, 8 green onions and tops. Mix these with 10 oz. can of whole kernel corn, 1 small can tiny English peas, 1 small can French style green beans. Drain well. Mix all together and pour in vinegar mixture. Let stand overnight in refrigerator. + + + A simple-to-make but very tasty entree is this recipe for Pineapple

Pork Chops and Rice submitted by Louise Dunham. 6 pork chops about ¼ inch thick salt and pepper 2 tablespoons butter 1 (8 oz.) can crushed pineapple ½ cup Minute Rice 1 cup water ¾ teaspoon salt Salt and pepper the chops, brown well in butter in large skillet. Add pineapple, reduce heat, cover and simmer until tender, about 20 minutes. Always cook pork thoroughly. Move chops over to one side. Add water and salt, boil, stir in rice. Cover pan and remove from heat to let stand for five minutes, then serve.

Old Textbook Gives Homemaking Hints

By JUNE FLOYD

One of the first homemaking textbooks I ever saw is still in my possession. At the time I acquired it, it was about fourteen or fifteen years old and I was a high school freshman.

The country high school I attended in Western Oklahoma had agriculture classes for girls, and I enrolled in the class. However, it had no facilities or teacher for homemaking classes. And, even if they had had classes, they would have been domestic science classes.

The textbook was kind of a paper back and was a first edition. It had been compiled by the department of sewing of the Woman's Institute of Domestic Arts and Sciences, Inc., and was entitled "Plain Dressmaking." The author was Mary Brooks Picken and it was printed by International Textbook Company in Scranton, Pennsylvania.

It must have been written for a correspondence course. Under "Advice To The Student," the following admonition was given: "Study a few pages at a time and in consecutive order. Pay particular attention to the definitions; a correct understanding of them is essential."

If you do not understand any of the statements or if you meet with difficulties of any kind, write to us for assistance. It is our desire to aid you in every way possible."

The Table of Contents looked like this:

CONTENTS
Introduction	1
Materials for Plain Sewing	3
Shopping Hints	3
Table of Domestic Materials	4
Shrinking and Setting Colors	In
Wash Fabrics	9
Making a Plain Blouse	10
Wash Plackets	19

Making a Kimono Apron	44

The following was included in the

introduction:

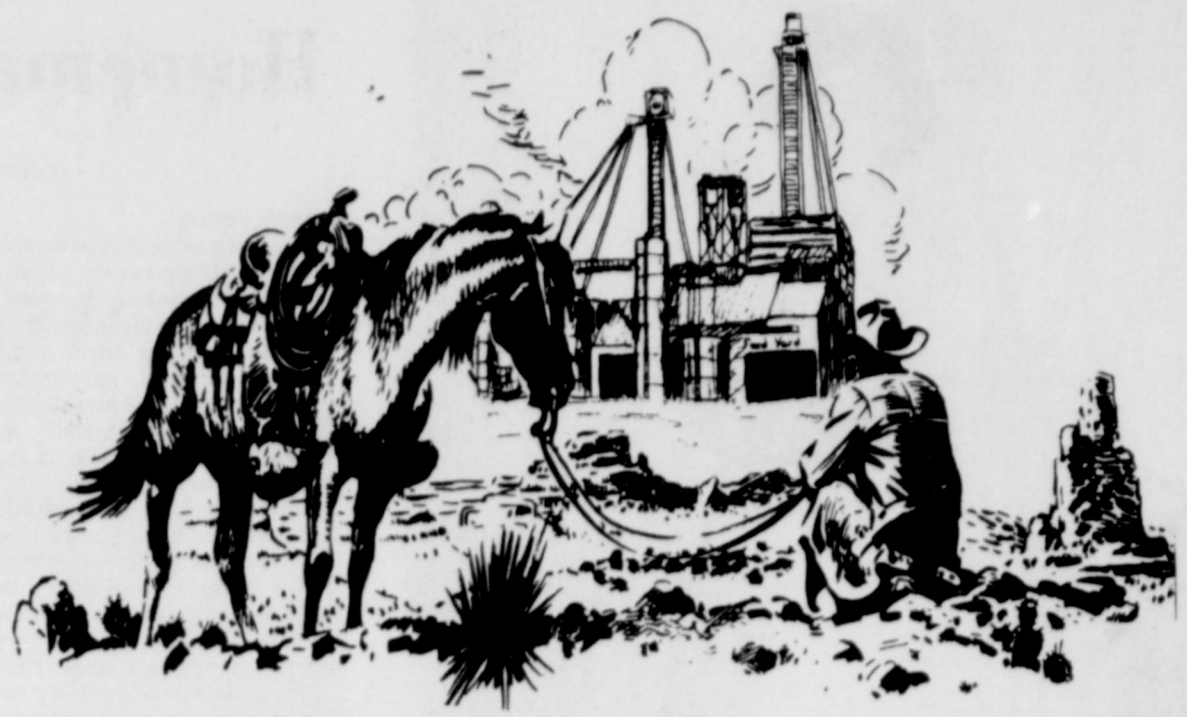

"When sewing, the light should, if possible fall over the left shoulder. If allowed to shine directly in the eyes, it is liable to cause overstrain, with

SIMPLICITY ONE PIECE DRESS..
 ..These two views of a basic one piece dress appeared in a homemaking textbook copyrighted in 1915 by International Educational Publishing Company. "A one piece dress is a waist and skirt combined into one garment. Not only is such a dress convenient, but it is economical because as a rule less material is required to develop it than to make a separate waist and skirt."

serious results.

The work table should be placed so that everything can be plainly seen and easily reached. A white apron worn while sewing aids greatly in keeping the work fresh and clean. Indeed, personal appearance has much to do with the pleasure derived from sewing, as well as the carefulness with which it is done, especially in the home.

No woman should ever sit down to sew until she has arranged her hair well and made herself tidy. Many times a woman will hurry through with her other duties to get a little time in which to sew and forget all about her personal appearance.

Then, when she realizes how she looks, she is in constant dread lest some one come in, and as a result she does not enjoy the freedom of thought that she would experience if she had first given herself some attention.

Another good point is to keep in mind that work should always be folded neatly when it is laid away, so that the finished garment will retain all the freshness and attractiveness of new material.

Sewing is pleasant work, and once a woman becomes enthused with the opportunities, possibilities, and advantages of it, she will not look upon it unfavorably, but every hour she spends at it will mean pleasure and profit to her."

Had I been taking the course, I would have failed the first requirement. My machines sit under windows--one in the east and one in the west.

From that point on I generally fail to do as the author suggested.

There were four full pages of tables giving names of materials, usual width in inches, usual price per yard and description. Some examples are Batiste-32 to 45 inch-15 cents up; Calico-24 in.-4 cents to 10 cents; Chambray-32 in.-10 cents to 35 cents; Denim-32 to 36 in.-12 1/2 cents to 25 cents; Gingham-24 to 36 in.-6 cents to 60 cents; Organdy, or organdy-18 to 60 in.-15 cents up; Outing flannel-24 to 36 in.-6 cents to 25 cents; and Velvetene-18 to 60 in.-50 cents to $2.

The descriptions of the materials included firmness of weave, what they were to be used for, the various finishes and the warp and woof.

Detailed instructions were given for shrinking and setting colors in materials. Some of the ingredients going into a solution for setting colors were vinegar, salt, sugar or lead, alum. Sugar of lead was available at drug stores for five cents an ounce.

Some of the cover-all aprons were forerunners of the 1978 sun dresses, but were longer. The kimono aprons looked like lounging robes and the fancy aprons really lived up to their names.

A lot of the basic information at that time is helpful to home sewers now, but reading the book has a tendency to make me think "How glad I am that we have color fast drip dry materials to sew with now."

The term "wash plackets" was intriguing. It was used several times and pictured as an ordinary placket.

Friona Housewife's Recipe Featured In Publication

By CAROL ELLIS

A young Friona housewife, Lynda Grimsley, is among the winners of a nationwide contest for the best in chili cooking. Her recipe for "West Texas Chili" was selected by the judges to be included in the newly-published "Chili-Lovers' Cook Book," along with such famous folks as Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson for her "Perdarnales River Chili," Senator John Tower for "Texas Chili" and Congressman J.J. Pickle for his version of "Wick Fowler's Two-Alarm Fire."

Mrs. Grimsley makes a hobby of entering recipe contests and has been a winner in several such events. She recently won third place "overall" in the Hobbs, New Mexico Flare Recipe Contest. For her recipe of "Dutch Bread" she received a diamond pendant necklace.

Lynda was a division winner in this same contest three years ago. She took the second runner-up spot in the cake category. She has also been a winner in the National Chicken Cooking Contest sponsored by the Mazola Oil Company and in the National Pineapple Cooking Classic from San Francisco, Calif.

Lynda says she enjoys collecting recipes from many different sources, then trying out different ways to do things. From these methods she develops her own recipes for entering the contests. She is starting a collection of "extra special" recipes... "the ones that are really, really good"... to someday include in a book she plans to publish.

The "Chili-Lovers' Cook Book" which will include Lynda's latest prize-winner, is published by the Golden West Publishers, 4113 N. Longview, Phoenix, Arizona 85014, and may be obtained by sending $3.50 to that address. The book includes three sections of recipes: chili without beans, chili with beans, and dishes made with green chile peppers and chile products.

Some of the more esoteric recipes included in the book are: Bowl of Fire, Buzzard's Breath Chili, Butcher's Best Chili, Bite-the-Bullet Chili, Hog-Heaven Chili, Fiesta Chili, Prospector's Chili, Rio Grande Chili and Truck Stop Chili.

Other famous folks who will share the book's pages with Friona's Lynda Grimsley, are Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Senator Pete V. Domenici of New Mexico and Representative Eldon Rudd of Arizona.

Contrary to popular belief, chili is not of Mexican origin, but was probably created in the chuck-wagons, cafes and kitchens of Texas. Today, chili has become so popular that chili societies throughout the country now conduct annual chili cook-offs to determine the most unusual version of this favorite dish.

Lynda's own version of "West Texas Chili" goes like this:

- 3 lbs. lean ground chuck
- 3 tablespoons corn oil
- water to cover
- 3 medium onions, chopped
- 3 cloves of garlic, crushed
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- 1 teaspoon cumin
- 4 tablespoons chili powder
- 2 tablespoons cayenne pepper

RECIPE FILE....Lynda Grimsley is shown here as she works on her collection of prize-winning recipes, which she hopes to someday work into a cook-book. Lynda has the hobby of entering recipe contests and has won prizes in several of these events.

- 1 tablespoon sugar
 - 3 teaspoons salt
 - 2 tablespoons paprika
 - 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
 - 2 tablespoons masa harina
 - black pepper to taste
- Sear meat in large pot on high heat with corn oil until cooked throughout. Drain off grease. Add enough water to just cover meat. Add all other ingredients except masa harina and simmer 2 1/2 hours. If chili needs thickening add in masa harina and cook 15 minutes more. Serves 6 to 8.
- Another of Lynda's prize-winning recipes is this one for "Dutch Bread":
- 2 eggs
 - 2 cups sugar
 - 1 cup brown sugar

- 1 cup oil
 - 4 cups flour
 - 1 teaspoon cloves, nutmeg and salt
 - 2 teaspoons cinnamon
 - 2 teaspoons soda
 - 2 cups buttermilk
 - 1 cup raisins
 - 1 cup walnuts or pecans
- Mix dry ingredients, then liquids together. Grease and flour four one-pound coffee cans. Divide mixture between the four pans and bake in 325 degree oven for one hour. Cool 20 minutes. The round slices are pretty for parties.

Lynda and her husband, Jimmy, who is a local farmer, have two little girls, Holly, age 5, just started to kindergarten last week and Poppy is 2 years old. The Grimsley's are expecting their third child at any time.

TERESA CLARK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Clark, is being sponsored by Brockman Sales in the annual Maize Queen Contest. She will present a pantomime, "If My Friends Could See Me Now" from the Broadway Show, "Sweet Charity," for her talent competition. A senior at Friona High School, she is 17 years old, has brown hair, blue eyes and is 5'7 1/2" tall.

BRANDY RAY...Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ray are the parents of Brandy who is entering the Little Miss Contest. She is being sponsored by Brown's Bar-7 Cattle Company and she is six years old.

TONYA POTTS...Kendrick Oil Company is sponsoring Tonya in the Little Miss Contest. She is the seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Potts.

PUBLIC NOTICE SUMMARY OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 7, 1978

"The Tax Relief Amendment" (H.J.R. 1)

H.J.R. 1 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution allowing the legislature to exempt intangible personal property, requiring the legislature to exempt certain household goods and personal effects, and allowing the legislature to exempt all or part of the personal property homestead from state and local property taxation.

The amendment requires the legislature to provide for the taxation of farm and ranch land on the basis of its productive capacity instead of its market value and allows the legislature to provide for the taxation of timber land on its productive capacity.

The amendment permits local governments to extend the present exemption of not less than $3,000 of the residence homestead of persons 65 and older to include certain disabled persons.

The amendment grants an exemption from public school property taxes of $5,000 of the market value of the residence homestead. It authorizes the legislature to grant an additional exemption from public school property taxes of an amount not to exceed $10,000 of the market value of the residence homestead of persons 65 years of age or older and certain disabled persons. If a person 65 years of age or older qualifies for this exemption, the total amount of public school taxes imposed on that person's homestead may not be increased.

The amendment prevents local governments from increasing property taxes unless the governing body provides public notice and conducts a public hearing. The amendment requires the legislature to provide by law for each property owner to receive notice of the revaluation of his property and the amount taxes will be increased.

The amendment limits appropriations from state tax revenue to an amount not to exceed Texas' estimated economic growth rate, with the legislature authorized to make exceptions for emergencies.

The amendment prohibits the statewide appraisal of real property for property tax purposes. Enforcement of uniform standards and procedures for appraisal of property for property tax purposes is required to originate in the taxing authority where the property tax is imposed. The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows: "The constitutional amendment providing for tax relief for residential homesteads, elderly persons, disabled persons, and agricultural land; for personal property exemptions; for truth in taxation procedures, including citizen involvement; for a redefinition of the tax base; for limitations on state spending; and for property tax administration."

NUMBER THREE (S.J.R. 44)
S.J.R. 44 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution which would allow the legislature to authorize cities and towns to issue tax increment bonds to finance the redevelopment of blighted areas. The bonds are to be paid solely from revenue from municipal tax increments. Payment cannot be made from the revenue of municipal taxes, utilities, or other services.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows: "The constitutional amendment to give the legislature the power to authorize cities and towns to issue bonds to finance the redevelopment of blighted areas and prohibiting any city or town from granting its money or lending its credit for such purposes."

NUMBER FOUR (S.J.R. 53)
S.J.R. 53 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to allow the legislature to exempt from taxation solar or wind-powered energy devices.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to exempt from taxation solar and wind-powered energy devices."

NUMBER FIVE (H.J.R. 37)
H.J.R. 37 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to grant exclusive jurisdiction to justices of the peace in civil cases where the amount in controversy does not exceed $200, except where the legislature gives exclusive jurisdiction to another court.

The amendment grants justices of the peace concurrent jurisdiction with county courts where the amount in controversy is between $200 and $500, except where the legislature gives the county court exclusive jurisdiction.

The amendment also grants justices of the peace concurrent jurisdiction with both county and district courts where the amount in controversy is between $500 and $1,000, except where the legislature gives the county or district court exclusive jurisdiction.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows: "The constitutional amendment to extend the jurisdiction of justices of the peace in civil cases."

NUMBER SIX (S.J.R. 45)
S.J.R. 45 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to allow the legislature to expand the number of judges on any court of civil appeals. Presently courts of civil appeals are limited to a chief justice and two associate justices. The amendment also would allow the courts to sit in sections, with the concurrence of a majority of the judges sitting in the section necessary to decide a case.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows: "The constitutional amendment permitting the legislature to increase the number of justices on a court of civil appeals, permitting a court of civil appeals to sit in sections, and requiring a concurrence of a majority of justices to decide a case."

NUMBER SEVEN (S.J.R. 48)
S.J.R. 48 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution eliminating the State Building Commission and the State Building Fund. The authority of the State Building Commission has been transferred by law to the State Board of Control.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows: "The constitutional amendment to repeal the constitutional authority for the State Building Commission and the State Building Fund."

NUMBER EIGHT (H.J.R. 42)
H.J.R. 42 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution allowing certain political subdivisions or districts in the state that can presently issue bonds or other indebtedness or otherwise lend their credit to engage in fire-fighting activities and to issue bonds or otherwise lend their credit to support such activities.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows: "The constitutional amendments authorizing certain districts to engage in fire-fighting activities and to issue bonds or otherwise lend their credit for fire-fighting purposes."
