NIXON ADMINISTRATION ASKS CONGRESS

Lower Voting Age To 18

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration asked Congress today to follow the lead of Great Britain and approve a constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 for federal elections.

The administration position was presented by Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, who noted that Britain—which originated the traditional voting age of 21—recently abandoned it.

"The time has come for us also to measure the constraints of custom and tradition against the compelling force of reason and the every-day facts of life which surrounds us," Kleindienst said.

He told a Senate judiciary subcommittee the nation does not wait until 21 years of age for young people to enter the labor market, to pay income taxes or to serve in the military.

Kleindienst also suggested a uniform voting age of 18 is necessary if Congress clears another amendment, already approved by the House, for direct election of presidents and vice presidents by popular vote.

"Without a nationwide rule," he said, "it is possible that states would arbitrarily lower the age requirement to insure the largest number of prospective voters and thus obtain an unfair share of the presidential popular vote—completely out of line with its percentage of population."

Answering arguments of amendment opponents who cite involvement of college students in violent demonstrations, Kleindienst said "the proper response" to that objection is threefold:

—Many persons involved in campus rebellions "are well past the age of 21."

—Those who have engaged in disturbances "represent only a small percentage" of young Americans.

—Giving youth a role in the political process "may eliminate a sense of frustration, a feeling of noninvolvement, that quite possibly has contributed to the irresponsible behavior" of some young people.

The proposed amendment would only affect elections for president, vice president, U.S. senators and members of the House of Representatives.

Kleindienst said the administration believes it is the province of state and local governments to establish the voting age for nonfederal elections.

Hall Wants To Wage Supreme Court Fight

Governorship Bid Depends On Overrule

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Ralph Hall said today he plans to ask the U.S. Supreme Court to overrule the Texas Supreme Court, which denied him Monday a place on the Democratic ballot as a candidate for governor.

"Many, many people have urged me to carry this fight to the U.S. Supreme Court and I will do my best," Hall told a news conference. "If they (his Washington lawyers) tell me I have a fighting chance, I'll file the suit."

Hall, of Rockwall, said he was leaving for Washington today to talk with constitutional lawyers there about a possible suit.

"My intent is to appeal to the federal court," he said.

Hall said he cannot present his case to the U.S. Supreme Court unless the court agrees to consider it.

"I am going to listen to men (Washington lawyers) who are in and out of the Supreme Court daily," Hall said.

He added that recent cases accepted by the court indicate it believes it has jurisdiction over state ballot matters that present constitutional issues.

A quick decision is essential if Hall is to get a place on the ballot because March 9 is the date when the State Democratic Executive Committee must certify candidates for the primary.

Hall said he felt he owed his "many friends and supporters nothing less than an all out effort to provide an alternative in our May 2 democratic primary."

If the decision is not overturned, Gov. Preston Smith will be unopposed in the May 2 Democratic primary. The Democratic nominee will have a Republican opponent for governor in the Nov. 3 general election.

The Supreme Court ruled Monday that Hall cannot run because of a provision in the state Constitution that legislators are ineligible during their current terms to hold office which were created or whose salaries were raised during their tenure as lawmakers.

Hall is blocked by the provision, the court said, because his Senate term runs until January 1973 and he was a member of the 1969 legislature that raised the governor's salary from $40,000 to $55,000 a year. The next governor will take office in January 1971.

The Rockwall Senator's case presents a federal issue, although the high court specifically rejected it.

Hall's lawyers claimed that the constitutional provision violates the "equal protection" clause of the U.S. Constitution because it applies only to 15 or 16 of the 181 legislators. The terms of all 150 House members and about half of the 31 senators expire before the next governor would take office. They, therefore, could run for governor, or while the rest of the Senate—including Hall—could not.

The U.S. Constitution, the court noted, contains a similar provision that applies to federal appointive offices.

68 PER CENT State Oil Allowable Unchanged

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission set the statewide oil allowable today at 68 per cent of potential for March, the same as it was for January and February.

The March allowable will permit maximum production of 3,706,295 barrels of oil a day, the same as this month.

Six of 14 major buyers of Texas crude oil asked the commission for more oil next month, seven sought the same amount and one requested fewer barrels of oil in March than in February.

Total written nominations by crude oil buyers were 3,214,701 barrels daily, a decrease of 11,491 from February.

Mrs. O'Hair Charges Husband Beat Her

AUSTIN (AP) — Madalyn Murray O'Hair, the atheist whose efforts caused banning of public prayer in schools, hauled her husband before a judge Monday on a charge of beating her.

Displaying a bruised face, Mrs. O'Hair said her husband, Richard, had beaten her "and it wasn't the first time."

No Itty Bitty, Teeny Weeny Clue

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Police reports indicated Monday that officers didn't have even a teeny weeny clue in a burglary that netted a thief $500 in liquor and a woman's leather coat worth $125.

The burglary occurred at the Itty Bitty Liquor Store.

28 Bodies Recovered

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — With only 28 bodies recovered, the search was called off today for the remains of other victims of the Dominican Airlines plane which plunged into the Caribbean Sunday, killing all 102 persons aboard.

President Joaquin Balaguer's press office added that five naval units are still in the area. The bodies recovered were mutilated by sharks as well as by the crash.

Open Round Of New War Policy Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S.-aided program under which South Vietnam seeks to capture, convert or kill leaders of the Viet Cong faced a critical Senate inquiry today in the opening round of new war policy hearings.

The operation is called the Phoenix program, and Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., already has characterized it as a system of assassination.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which Fulbright heads, will consider Phoenix as part of a more general inquiry into U.S. aid and advisory operations in Vietnam.

Fulbright said the committee will hold hearings in March on the activities of U.S. military advisors, American economic aid to South Vietnam, and the operations of the U.S. Information Agency.

But the initial focus is on pacification, and Phoenix is part of that program. Fulbright has described U.S. officials as reluctant to say much about the project, and has agreed that testimony on some of its aspects will be taken in closed session.

Nine U.S. officials involved with pacification and political programs in South Vietnam are to testify during three days of public sessions. The fourth and final day of the inquiry is to be closed.

The committee sent two staff consultants to Vietnam in December, and their report included an account of the Phoenix program, which they said showed a sharply increasing kill ratio.

That report came from Richard M. Moose and James G. Lowenstein, who said some 450 U.S. advisory personnel were involved in the Phoenix program.

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — An Army doctor hospitalized with stab wounds told police today his wife and two daughters were stabbed to death by three men and a woman who chanted during the killings: "Acid is great; kill the pigs."

The doctor, Capt. Jeffrey MacDonald, 26, telephoned military police at 4 a.m. and asked for help. The authorities found the bodies when they arrived at his home on the Ft. Bragg reservation.

An Army spokesman said furniture was in disarray in the home and the word "Pigs" was scrawled in blood on the bed where the wounded soldier was lying semiconscious beside his dead wife Collette, also 26.

His daughters, Kimberly, 6, and Kristen Jean, 2, were found dead in another bedroom.

Roadblocks were set up around Ft. Bragg and the adjacent city of Fayetteville, but there were no results during the morning.

MacDonald, from Patchogue, N.Y., told authorities the woman intruder, a blonde, wore a "white, floppy hat and muddy boots" and carried a candle while the slayings were in progress.

He said one of the men wore a

HEW Exec Resigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Tuesday Leon E. Panetta has resigned as the principal official charged with enforcing school desegregation for the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was asked about a published report that President Nixon was attempting to fire Panetta, a liberal Republican who headed the department's office of civil rights.

Ziegler said it was his understanding Panetta had submitted his resignation which had been accepted.

Asked if Panetta indeed had been fired, Ziegler said he could only say that he official had submitted his resignation.

TWO U.S. RECON HELICOPTERS SHOT DOWN

Tons Of Bombs Destroy Targets

SAIGON, (AP) — American B52 bombers dropped nearly 1,000 tons of bombs on suspected North Vietnamese positions along the Cambodian border southwest of the Ben Het Special Forces camp, military spokesmen reported today.

Some 30 of the bombers flew the raids in the central highlands late Monday, apparently to prevent a siege of the Special Forces camp similar to one last May and June.

During the past four weeks, the B52s have hit the region with more than 1,600 tons of bombs a week to harass and disrupt North Vietnamese forces that may be preparing for attacks in the highlands.

"You don't do that unless there's significant enemy activity, possibly geared up for an attack in the area," said a spokesman for the U.S. Command. "If the B52s did what we wanted we'll never see an attack materialize."

One informed source said elements of two North Vietnamese regiments, the 66th and 28th, were concentrated in the Ben Het-Cambodian border region, in the northern Central Highlands about 275 miles north-northeast of Saigon.

Troops from these two regiments laid siege to Ben Het last spring, then moved 170 miles south to launch attacks last November and December on the Duc Lap and Bu Prang Special Forces camps at the southern tip of the central highlands.

No further description of the four was released. There was no indication of their ages.

Desegregation Riders: What And Oh, Why?

By The Associated Press

What is at stake? Southern senators have proposed a series of riders to a $35 billion federal aid to education bill designed to blunt the drive toward school desegregation in their region. The key amendments legalize the freedom of choice method—favored by the South but frowned upon by the courts—and impose a uniform national policy of enforcement against segregated schools.

Why the dispute? Southerners renewed their drive in Congress to check desegregation after the Supreme Court adopted a "do-it-now" policy. Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., came up with the amendments after conducting a study of school desegregation in the North. The senator said de facto — residential — segregation in the North is as severe as de jure—legal—segregation in the South.

What are the issues? Southerners say the federal courts are doing nothing about segregated schools in the North while requiring large-scale busing in the South to integrate schools. Civil rights advocates said, however, the amendments would halt the drive to eliminate dual school systems in the South.

Southerners say the sentiment in the North for desegregation would evaporate if residential segregation were attacked as vigorously as legal segregation in the South. Many Northern liberals oppose the "uniform national policy" amendment on grounds it might cause legal complications and confuse the government's efforts to end segregation.

Time Of Decision For Education Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate reached the time of decision today on proposals designed to check the drive toward school integration now in full swing in the South.

The initial vote was set on an amendment by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., to $35 billion education bill seeking a uniform policy for school desegregation throughout the nation.

Stennis' amendment provided the government must move as vigorously against Northern de facto segregation—that caused primarily by neighborhood patterns—as it does against de jure, or legal, segregation in the South.

Stennis changed signals Monday night just before the Senate adjourned, deciding to bring up the national policy proposal first ahead of a rider seeking to legalize freedom of choice plans in the South.

He obviously had concluded the uniform national policy had the better chance of the two.

He and his fellow Southerners have been arguing that the federal courts and HEW have concentrated their entire fight on racial segregation against Southern schools.

Mrs. Meir Calls For End To Bloodshed In Mideast

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Golda Meir called today for an end to bloodshed in the Middle East.

Speaking in the Knesset, Israel's parliament, Mrs. Meir said: "Once again we turn to the Arabs—not out of weakness—and ask them to put an end to the bloodshed and talk peace."

Mrs. Meir suggested "reciprocal observance of the cease-fire." In the absence of peace "Israel is ready," she said.

Mrs. Meir reiterated Israel's position on the war with Egypt, adding: "All Israel's operations on the Suez front are in reprisal for Egyptian operations."

She listed these reasons for Israel's air strikes against Egypt: —To make it clear that violations of the cease-fire cannot be unilateral.

—To upset President Gamal

Abdel Nasser's plans to wage full-scale war.

—To make it clear that so long as there is no cease-fire, "we will not let them wage a war of attrition at their convenience."

"In July, 1969, Nasser publicly abrogated the cease-fire," and proclaimed a war of attrition, she said. "His statements were accompanied by artillery shells and commando raids aimed at destroying Israeli defenses for an all-out war."

"In order to relieve pressure on the Suez front and to frustrate Nasser's plans, our planes attacked the Suez Canal line."

"Israel had accepted the cease-fire as an essential stage in progress toward a comprehensive settlement, and had observed the cease-fire on a reciprocal basis. . . ."

has stepped up chemical warfare and defoliation in Vietnam.

"Washington leaders endlessly talk about the 1925 Geneva agreement for humanitarian purposes" in condemning North Vietnam for its treatment of captured American pilots, a broadcast said.

However, it continued, "Long ago, regardless of the 1925 Geneva agreement concerning the use of chemical virus in war, regardless of world opinion and the opinion of the American people, the U.S. imperialists increased the use of chemical weaponry such as poisonous gas, napalm and phosphorous to kill our people in the South. They also use chemical poisonous gas to destroy our crops, trees, animals and our people everywhere."

The Viet Cong also reported today that one of its top military leaders died last week in South Vietnam's Tay Ninh Province. A broadcast said Maj. Huynh Thanh Mung, 54, died Feb. 13 "after a period of grave illness."

Mung, known also as Nguyen Tan Manh, was a member of the Cao Dai religious sect and commander-in-chief of the Unified National Armed Forces of the Cao Dai in Tay Ninh, which borders Cambodia, the broadcast said.

He was a member of the council of advisers to the provisional revolutionary government which the Viet Cong set up last summer.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Everyone has had a background of either no father in the home, or a very weak father figure from whom the children received very little or no discipline. Youngsters need love. But they also need consistent discipline. They need to know what their limits are. This is security!

His sister is a good friend of mine and she lives near me. I have asked her on several occasions to please write to her brother and tell him to quit sending me presents, but either she has not done it, or her brother doesn't mind her, because the presents continue to come. I am not considering remarriage — at least not to HIM. What shall I do?

NOT INTERESTED DEAR NOT: Communicate directly with the generous gentleman, and don't rely on his sister to be your carrier pigeon. Tell him in a nice way that if it's marriage he's after, he has the right technique — but the wrong woman.

DEAR ABBY: We live very close to my husband's family, which includes his widowed mother and several brothers and sisters. They are one of those "all-for-one and one-for-all" type families, although there is always a lot of fighting and arguing among them.

My mother-in-law is always crying about something. She also has a habit of "dropping in" all the time, and no matter what we are doing, she stays.

I have pleaded with my husband to move just a few miles away so I can be closer to my own mother, but he won't budge. Abby, a girl needs to be near her own mother, especially when she has small children (and I have) and besides it's a toll call to my mother's house so I can't even call her very often.

Please Abby, explain to my husband that it wouldn't harm our husband-wife relationship if he moved away from his mother and nearer to mine.

DEAR STUCK: The way I have your husband and his family pegged, the only way you'll get closer to your mother is to get her to move closer to you.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter sent to you by a woman whose husband treats their 10 and 12-year-old sons like "pals." That family is headed for trouble. When those boys end up in juvenile court the father will say, "I can't understand it. We always had such a good relationship." In my eight years as a probation officer, almost every case

Spray Time For Trees

Peach tree owners should start planning a program of regular spraying if they want to enjoy the fruit off their trees this summer, County Agent Paul Gross said today.

Two diseases can strike blooming peach trees this spring, and improper protection can result in loss of all the fruit, he said.

Peach leaf curl is a fungal disease in the peach buds. As the buds open, the fungus causes a puffy appearance, and the leaves have a yellow to reddish color, Gross said. The disease is now in South Texas and should begin in North Texas about mid-March.

Spray treatment now should be either with Bordeaux Mixture or fixed copper in combination with a dormant oil spray for scale insects. After the leaves open, Gross said, spray with ferbam at the rate of one and a half tablespoons per gallon of water. The fixed copper treatment should not be used after leaf opening because of possible burning, Gross said.

Brown rot on the swelling peach bud can be treated with wettable sulfur sprayed on the buds. Failure to spray results in blossoms that take on a brownish, water-soaked appearance and die. The young terminals of limbs also die back, Gross said.

Israeli Actress Gets Good News

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Israeli actress Hanna Meron, wounded during a terrorist attack on El Al Airline passengers at Riem airport last Tuesday, will not be forced to undergo amputation of her left leg after all, doctors have decided.

Miss Meron was struck by grenade fragments. The proper chemicals can be obtained at most local feed stores or nursery centers, Gross said. He said the spraying should be continued at two-to-three week intervals until the fruit is picked.

Rumor Is False, Wheel Chair Real

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Crippled Elizabeth Carlile, 22, has been saving empty cigarette packages for months, because she heard a rumor that she could redeem them for a badly-needed wheel chair.

With the help of family and friends, she amassed 18,000 empty packages only to learn the rumor was false.

Abilene Lions Club members learned of her plight last Friday.

Monday morning they presented her with a wheel chair. "Anyone who tries that hard to help herself is so deserving that we believe she should have what she needs," said W.W. Griffith, Lions Club district officer.

Marcus Welby Takes First

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's "Marcus Welby," boosted by the small audiences of CBS's and NBC's magazine series, took first place in the Nielsen ratings for Feb. 2-8.

The medical show does well even under normal circumstances, but on the week that it is opposite "60 minutes" on CBS and "First Tuesday" on NBC it takes a jump in the ratings.

NBC won the week again with a 20.5 rating. CBS had 19.9 and ABC 18.8. In the season to date NBC is leading CBS by 20.4 to 19.7.

Here are the top 10:
1. "Marcus Welby," ABC, 20.5.
2. "Mayberry RFD," CBS, 19.9.
3. "Gunsmoke," CBS, 19.8.

New Instruments May Help Astros

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — New instruments for a 150-foot tower telescope that scans the sun daily may provide information to protect astronauts from harm, scientists say.

The computerized control instruments will enable astronomers to measure faster and more accurately the flarups of gas on the sun's surface. Better information will permit better prediction of the flares, which produce atomic particles harmful to astronauts in space.

Officials at the California Institute of Technology said Sunday the instruments will be installed at the institute's Mt. Wilson Observatory in the mountains near Pasadena.

An extremely clever bit of deception by West in defending against South's three no trump contract, persuaded the latter to change his course of action in a manner that proved fatal.

West opened the queen of spades taken by declarer's king. South had four top tricks available in spades, hearts, and clubs, so that he needed only five diamond tricks to bring his total to nine. If the adverse diamonds were divided two-two, it would be possible to run the entire suit and register an overtrick. However, if the declarer attempted to split the diamonds and one of the opponents held the guarded queen, he would wind up with only two tricks in the suit since North had no other entry than the ace of diamonds. As a safety precaution, South resolved to concede one round of diamonds to the opposition. He first cashed the king in his hand and, when both defenders followed with small cards, declarer continued with the jack, intending to give up this trick. North's ace would subsequently clear up the remaining diamond and permit the dummy to run the balance of the suit.

When South led the jack of diamonds, West calmly and without undue hesitation, followed with the ten. Declarer was all set to reach for North's four of diamonds, but then he stopped. If West held both missing diamonds, surely he would have covered the jack with the queen in order to make certain of establishing his ten. His play of the ten then apparently marked his partner with the missing queen in which case a safety play would not be required for the ace would pick up both honors.

South could see no reason to concede a trick that he did not have to lose, so he changed his mind and went up with the ace of diamonds from dummy. When East showed out, darkness quickly descended for, with the North hand retired from play, South was able to win only seven tricks and the result was a 200 point setback. Sometimes it pays not to believe your own eyes.

ORDERED FOR WATSON IN TATE MURDER CASE

Defense To Contest Extradition

MCKINNEY, Tex. (AP) — A district judge Monday ordered the State of Texas to release Charles Watson to California authorities to stand trial in the Sharon Tate murder case.

Watson's attorneys served immediate notice of appeal.

Judge David Brown turned down a defense appeal to invalidate the extradition order of Gov. Preston Smith.

GANG SLAYING

Brown instructed the district attorney's office to hasten Watson's return to California where he is wanted in connection with the hippie gang slaying of actress Tate and several others.

Watson is 24. He appeared in court Monday clean-shaven, with neatly trimmed long hair, a decided change from pictures of him released when he was arrested. He wore neat attire in the courtroom and stood passively while news photographers snapped pictures of him.

Watson tried covering his face with a coat but Judge Brown invited the photographers into the courtroom and ordered Watson to expose his face for the picture session.

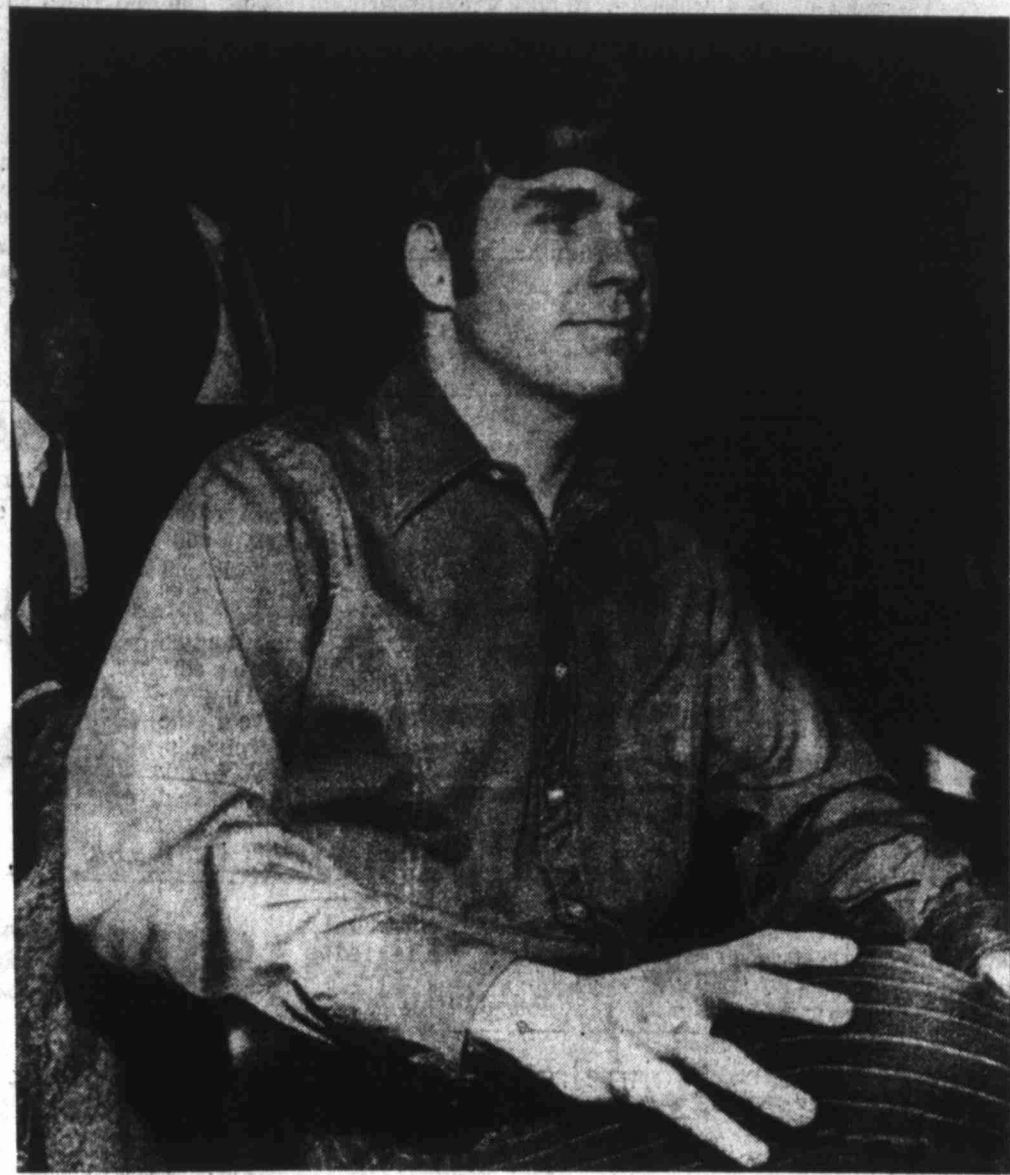

'SURPRISE'

Defense attorneys expressed their "surprise" at Brown's accommodation to photographers.

Watson is charged along with several members of a hippie commune headed by Charles Manson with the murder of Miss Tate, Hollywood hairdresser Jay Sebring, socialite Abigail Folger and others last summer in a bloody mass orgy of death.

Attorneys for Watson had maintained he would not get a fair trial in California because of publicity surrounding the case.

Judge Brown ruled the court had found "no evidence of irresponsible handling of the matter by California news media. Sensational events involving weird personalities cannot be accurately presented in prosaic terms."

JUDGE ORDERS WATSON PHOTOGRAPHED — Charles Watson, 24 charged in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate, sits in courtroom in McKinney, Tex., yesterday as a battle against returning him to California continued. Judge David Brown invited photographers to photograph Watson after he learned he had been brought into the courtroom with his head covered.

Dolores Lankford, Richie Tubb and Tim Blackshear, all 4-H members, will be exhibiting steers in the show.

Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo General Manager Dick Weekly predicts the largest junior show in history.

Star performers for the show include Elvis Presley, making his only appearance in Texas this year, matinee and evening performances Feb. 27-March 1; Charley Pride, March 2-4; Bobby Goldsboro, March 5; and Buck Owens and Roy Clark, March 6-8.

Moon Rock Talk Slated

SAN ANGELO — Dr. Elbert King, curator of NASA's lunar receiving laboratory last summer when the first men landed on the moon, will give hundreds of Texas scientists a first-hand report on moon rock studies here March 6.

King, now head of the University of Houston geology department, will be the principal speaker for the 73rd annual meeting of the Texas Academy of Science.

The TAS will meet at Angelo State University March 5-7 and King is to speak at the organization's annual banquet March 6. His topic will be "The Scientific Results and Examination of Lunar Samples from the Apollo 11 Mission."

The annual meeting is expected to attract nearly 1,000 scientists and science students from all sections of the state, according to Dr. Bernard Young, associate dean of Angelo State and chairman of arrangements. Meeting simultaneously will be the Texas Academy of Science, Collegiate Academy and Junior Academy, made up of high school students.

Scores of scientific papers will be presented by members of the different TAS sections, including physics, biology, chemistry, mathematics, geology, science education, environmental science and social science.

Skit: 'A Family That Slays Together Stays Together'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A court petitioner says the judge named to preside at Charles M. Manson's murder trial compromised himself by watching the hippie-type clan leader lamponed in a skit called "A Family That Slays Together Stays Together."

Robert S. Levy alleged that Superior Court Judge William B. Keene saw the skit performed at the 14th installation of the Los Angeles County Criminal Courts Bar Association last Saturday.

Levy, a 35-year-old movie producer, maintained in petition to the California Court of Appeal Monday that Keene had prior knowledge of the entertainment. Among those also present, the petition said, was Superior Court Judge George M. Dell, who has officiated at pretrial proceedings involving Manson and his co-defendants.

The judges were not available for comment.

Manson and five members of his communal "family," are accused in the gunshot-knife slayings last August of actress Sharon Tate and six other persons.

One defendant is accused only in two of the killings.

Their trial is slated for March 30.

Levy, who describes himself as a friend of Manson, said in his petition the skit was put on by a singing group composed of Superior Court judges, prosecutors, public defenders and private attorneys.

"Any trial judge attending and witnessing such a show compromises himself to sit on a fair trial of said case," said Levy.

Levy said later he was not asking that Keene and Dell be disqualified from the case but merely wanted the appeal court to know the facts.

"I happened to attend that dinner," Levy said, "along with some other 1,000 persons."

Levy said a second skit at the Bar Association affair depicted Manson as being solicited by various members of the bar for the privilege of defending him in exchange for literary rights to his life story.

Levy asked the appeal court to restore his visitation rights to Manson's jail cell, which he said were canceled without valid reason last Wednesday. He said Manson needed him as a "listening post" for community reaction to his trial.

In another action Monday, Manson was unsuccessful in obtaining either a change of venue or dismissal of charges which he sought on ground of "widespread unfavorable publicity."

Endorsement Of Carswell Draws Sharp Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee's strong endorsement of G. Harold Carswell's nomination to the Supreme Court has brought on tough-worded attacks from civil rights and labor leaders but no indication of major Senate reaction against the Southern judge.

The committee's 13-4 vote Monday was immediately assailed by Clarence Mitchell, director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's Washington office and spokesman for the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, and the AFL-CIO.

The committee's support was "a kick in the teeth of those of us who have sought to quell the fires of racism among Negroes in the United States," Mitchell said.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., one of those who voted against the Tallahassee, Fla., federal judge, said Carswell's appointment would "encourage violent extremists."

The AFL-CIO meeting in Miami Beach issued a statement saying the prospect of Carswell, now a judge on the U.S. 5th Court of Appeals, being confirmed to the highest court in the land was "appalling."

"Such a nomination is an insult, both to the judiciary and to the nation's citizens," the labor organization said.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, who announced his opposition over the weekend, said "Judge Carswell's record reflects neither the high professional qualifications nor the freedom from bias that are expected from an appointee to the nation's highest tribunal."

But six of the committee's 10 Democrats and all seven of the Republicans voted to approve Carswell, confirmed by the Senate just last June for the appeals court.

Calls Nixon's First Year 'A Great Big Goose Egg'

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Organized labor, whose initial relations with President Nixon were marked by muted criticism and even occasional faint praise, is taking off the kid gloves.

"His first year, from the labor standpoint, is a great big goose egg," AFL-CIO President George Meany said of Nixon's first year in the White House.

At a news conference Monday, Meany ticked off labor's mounting opposition to Nixon on rising unemployment, his veto of health, education and welfare appropriations, his Supreme Court choices and the administration's "Philadelphia Plan" for racial hiring.

Meany said Nixon's anti-inflation policies have caused rising unemployment without slowing the nation's worst price spiral in 20 years, which clipped 6.1 cents from the value of the dollar last year.

The only cure is federal controls on wages, prices, corporate salaries, dividends and all other forms of income, Meany said.

He predicted the nation's unemployment rate of 3.9 per cent of the work force is likely to soar to 6 per cent in the next few months, highest in 10 years.

Meany, who has backed Nixon's Vietnam policies, his decision to build an antiballistic missile system and part of his plans for welfare reform, issued his first harsh criticism when Nixon vetoed the health, education and welfare appropriations bill several weeks ago.

"We don't subscribe to the theory that this has some special significance to inflation," Meany told his news conference.

"Money spent on the bottom of the economic ladder is money well spent."

Meany and the AFL-CIO Executive Council, who played a key role in the defeat of Nixon's nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth to the Supreme Court, had sharp criticism of the President's second choice, Judge G. Harrold Carswell.

"We strongly urge the Senate to reject this appalling appointment," they said in a resolution at their annual winter meeting.

The resolution said Nixon's choice of Carswell was "to appease the white segregationists in the south."

Wrench Stolen

Earl Jenkins, 1003 Sycamore, told police Monday afternoon an impact wrench worth $90 was taken from his service station at 1800 S. Gregg sometime Sunday night while he was off duty.

Trio Linked To Murder

HOUSTON (AP) — Two persons were arrested Monday and officers sought a third in the slaying last month of the curator of Houston's Burke-Baker Planetarium.

Armando Yramategui was shot and robbed as he changed a tire on a Houston freeway.

One of the persons arrested was a 16-year-old juvenile.

Charged with murder and robbery were James Green, 18, and Raymond Martin, 24. Sheriff's deputies said Martin was still at large.

Officers said the juvenile made a statement about the slaying. They quoted him as saying that he and his two friends had no idea they were going to hold up Yramategui when they stopped to help him change a tire.

Murder-For-Hire Trial Still Needs One Juror

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — One juror still was needed today in the murder-for-hire trial of Pete Thomas Scamardo.

Only 14 persons remained from the latest panel of 200 prospective jurors summoned by

Agents Signing Up Transplant Donors

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indiana insurance agents are carrying on a statewide campaign to set up a pool of potential donors of hearts and other human organs for transplant.

The agents pass out cards with which a signer can commit any or all of his organs for removal after his death.

Under a Uniform Anatomical Gifts Act which has been adopted by Indiana and 38 other states, the authorization is binding upon the donor's survivors.

Half the signed card is carried by the prospective donor. A duplicate half goes into a central register.

During the first six weeks of the program about 1,500 cards have been signed.

"It has gone over tremendously," said Robert W. Osler, managing director of the Indiana State Association of Life Underwriters. "Practically nobody refuses a card."

A physician coming upon the transplant donor card in the possession of a dying person is instructed to call an Indianapolis telephone number, manned 24 hours a day. Calls are relayed to the transplantation committee of the Indiana University Medical Center and the Veterans Administration.

The National Association of Life Underwriters, with 979 local associations in the United States and Puerto Rico, has prepared a kit, based on the Indiana plan, for national distribution.

A national program could result in a computerized pool of potential donors, making organs available for transplant throughout the nation almost instantly, said Osler.

Tower Slaps View Of Some

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., recently back from Europe, said it is "high time the Western European nations contributed to their own defenses" but he nevertheless advocates retaining U.S. troop strength there no matter what the cost.

Tower told the Republican Women's Club Monday that the Russians constantly seek new ways to conquer and that clandestine groups in other countries are the latest method.

He said reducing U.S. military strength in Western Europe would tempt the Russians "to initiate new adventures."

Tower ridiculed the view of some "who believe we and the Soviets have the same ambitions." He said he believes President Nixon shares his view that the Russians still aim to conquer the world, by military means if necessary.

The senator returned last week from a meeting in Munich on the defense of Western Europe.

Dist. Judge J. R. Alamia. The latest panel brought the number summoned for possible jury service to 1,300.

Ten of the 12 questioned Monday were challenged by defense lawyer Percy Foreman for cause, one was dismissed by the judge for a special reason and the other was dismissed when Dist. Atty. Oscar McInnis used a peremptory challenge.

The challenge by McInnis was the 10th of his allotted 15. Foreman has used only seven.

Scamardo, 31, from Hearne, is accused of being an accomplice in the 1968 shooting of Sam Degelia Jr., a former business partner and longtime friend. Degelia, a Hearne grain buyer, was found slain near McAllen July 11, 1968.

Scamardo is accused of offering Charles Harrelson, 31, of Houston $2,000 to kill Degelia. Harrelson is charged with murder with malice and is to be tried later.

Testimony in the case is expected to last three to six weeks. McInnis said he had instructed the 56 prosecution witnesses to report today.

Guests were registered at a table accented with a three-tiered candelabrum featuring a nosegay of Sweetheart roses and pompon chrysanthemums draped with red satin ribbon.

Dr. and Mrs. Harrison are residing in the superintendent's quarters at the hospital grounds.

The refreshment table was decorated in Valentine motif with a centerpiece of red carnations and a red heart. Hostesses were Mrs. S. R. Hefley, Mrs. S. M. Anderson, Mrs. Jack Douthit and Mrs. Frank Milligan.

Birthdays were celebrated by Mrs. A. C. Moore and Mrs. Lawrence Robinson who were presented gifts from the club.

Art Association Hears Speaker From Tech

"Expression in art is its uniqueness, and regardless of how well executed a painting is, unless it has expression it is useless," said Bill Lockhart at Friday's meeting of the Big Spring Art Association. Lockhart holds a doctorate degree in art education and is art department chairman at Texas Tech.

Lockhart spoke at the home of Mrs. W. H. Crenshaw, where Mrs. Kyle Cagle was cohostess.

Texas Tech, with more than 650 art majors and 33 art faculty members, has the largest art department in the Southwest.

"Faculty members represent different points of view," Lockhart said. "Students should come into contact with many ways of working and conceptions. Art of today should reflect today's times. One can look at the French and Renaissance paintings and see how they reflect their times."

"Artists should reject change," Lockhart added. "Pop artists are trying to warn us of what is moving in on us."

Lockhart illustrated his talk with slides demonstrating line and color, emphasizing balance and composition in painting.

During the meeting the dates for the annual spring art show were set for April 3-5 in the First Federal Community Room.

A poster painting contest is under way for high school and junior high school students. A first prize of $5 for the best poster advertising the art show will be awarded, and all entrants will be permitted to enter work in the art show free of charge.

Posters should advertise the "Annual Spring Art Show" of the Big Spring Art Association and be left at Signor's Art Gallery, 1617 E. 3rd, before March 20. Daryl Hohertz will judge the posters.

Also announced was the Texas Fine Arts Association regional exhibit the first week in March. Paintings should be taken to the Fine Arts Building, Odessa College, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Feb. 26-27. Entrants must be members of the TFAA.

A Houston man was sentenced to 10 months and 10 days in jail Monday in County Court after pleading guilty to possession of drugs.

Robert Earl Thraikill, 42, 6884 Ave. U, Houston, was arrested April 16, 1969, and has been in the county jail since. Judge Lee Porter gave Thraikill credit for the time he has served and Thraikill was released to officers from Emporia, Kan., on a fugitive warrant.

Two Dozen Suspended

DALLAS (AP) — Bishop College has suspended indefinitely 24 students who staged a six-day chapel sit-in. Dr. Milton Curry, the school's president, said Monday.

Police arrested the demonstrators along with more than 300 supporters and took them to jail early Feb. 12 when the students refused to obey a court eviction order.

Curry said the two dozen leaders will be given a chance to apply for enrollment, probably by next fall.

He added, however, that to gain re-admission "they will have to go before the student faculty conduct committee and pledge to abide by college regulations."

Amnesty for the 24 students was the major stumbling block, both sides agreed, to a negotiated settlement of grievances voiced by the demonstrators.

Twenty student-faculty committees are interviewing the others who were arrested. Curry said, "Most have signed a statement that they will abide by the regulations of Bishop College and have been re-admitted to classes."

The Bishop president said an effort will be made to see that charges against all the students are dropped.

Dealing With Contempt

Waiting until the case against seven defendants on charges of conspiracy to commit violence at the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago was in the hands of the jury, Judge Julius J. Hoffman leveled stiff contempt-of-court sentences against seven defendants and two attorneys.

In our view, the court acted properly. There can be little doubt that from the start of the trial the defendants (and later defense counsel) were contemptuous of the entire proceedings. They amassed a record of physical and verbal disruptions, which included obscenities shouted at the court and unprecedented participation in these acts by the defense attorneys.

What Judge Hoffman did in regards to these matters has nothing to do with the verdict by the jury, which was charged with reaching a decision on the merits of the evidence in keeping with law. It has rather to do with the sanctity and the order of the court.

Some may argue that the contempt sentences were unjust, but the continuing, unrelenting and unrepentant abuse of the court could not be overlooked with mere wrist-slapping. Our courts of law must function in an atmosphere of dignity and in keeping with well-established rules. Justice cannot be achieved in the midst of a three-ring circus, with heckling and obscenity.

Dying Hard—But Dying

The old custom of paying women less than men in comparable jobs is dying hard. But it now appears that the federal laws passed in the mid-1960s are beginning to take hold, and the penalty risk of employment discrimination by sex is rising.

After pushing by Presidents Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy, Congress finally in 1963 passed a law prohibiting any employers within federal jurisdiction from discriminating against women in hiring, firing, pay scales and working conditions. Reasonable exceptions were made for seniority, merit, and piecework, but equal pay for equal work became the standard, and reducing men's pay or other employment benefits to comply with the equality rule was prohibited.

That law was reinforced by the 1964 Civil Rights Act's Title VII (Equal Employment Opportunity), which prohibited discrimination on a basis of sex, as well as race, national origin, or religion. And the effort to gain state laws, to cover jobs not covered by federal law, proceeds.

Just recently, a New Jersey company, trying to retain a 10 per cent pay differential in favor of men, lost its case. It serves as a warning that job and pay discrimination on the basis of sex is on the way out.

Art Buchwald A Successful Job Of Recruitment

WASHINGTON — Every once in a while, I hear a story that is so heart warming and beautiful that it makes me forget about all the terrible things I read and see on television.

This story, which is true, concerns a university football coach whom I'll call Smathers. His school, for antilibel purposes, shall be identified as the University of Sampson, somewhere in the Northwest.

COACH SMATHERS heard through the grapevine that there was a fantastic high school runningback in the state, and he was determined at all costs to recruit him. He piled into his car and drove 500 miles to the boy's home town.

Checking around, he discovered that his player was living with his mother, a divorcee. He also discovered that recruiters from all over the nation had been to see the boy.

The athletic scholarship competition was fierce.

Smathers decided the key to getting his back was the mother. He called on the lady in his best suit and tie and brought in his hand a bouquet of beautiful roses.

THE MOTHER, an attractive lady, was impressed. But Smathers had no intention of rushing her into a decision. He indicated on his first visit that all he wanted was for her to know how much he admired her son, and he was only concerned with the boy's welfare.

There were new dorms and a new student union, as well as an athletic plan second to none in that part of the world.

Scholastically, the school rated in the top 100 in the nation.

THE NEXT NIGHT, Smathers took the mother dancing. As they wined over the floor he told her of the diverse and exciting social life at the University of Sampson. There were theater and rock festivals, dances, snow carnivals, spring proms, hayrides and concerts.

During the football season the team had an opportunity to visit every part of the United States, and if they won a bowl invitation, they could find themselves in Miami, New Orleans or Pasadena.

Finally, on the third date, Smathers took the mother for a ride up in the hills. As they kissed tenderly he vowed to her that no matter what her son's decision, he would always remember that night.

AFTER SMATHERS dropped the mother off at her house, he started the 500-mile drive back, knowing in his heart there was absolutely no more he could do to recruit the back of his dreams.

A week later, a letter arrived from the mother. Smathers opened it nervously and started to read " . . . so Richard has decided to go to the University of Minnesota, but you were so persuasive that I have decided to enroll as a graduate student at the University of Sampson . . . love, love, love."

Billy Graham

I am a teenager, do not smoke pot, but I learned to drink at home, and now I think I may be an alcoholic. My parents taught moderation in drinking, and they began giving me liquor when I was twelve. They do not know that I'm addicted, but I find I must have alcohol every day to keep going. Is my problem unusual?

C.M.

The trouble with alcohol, (or one of the troubles) is that no one who starts drinking can be sure he won't turn out to be an alcoholic. No, your problem is not unusual. Many teenagers whose parents will not countenance "pot," and rightly so, wink at alcohol consumption for their children. Evidently they feel it is the lesser of two evils. One of every 15 youngsters who take the first drink become alcoholics. The tragedy is that the rehabilitation centers favor treating the older alcoholics, and tend to shun or neglect the teenage addict — arguing that they are too young to be really addicted.

Drinking is effecting teenage education. Some high school students carry a flask, hidden in their clothing, so they can have a drink between classes. A blurred mind does not make for clear thinking, nor clean living. It even has more serious consequences. A 15-year-old Miami girl recently committed suicide in a drunken stupor.

Spiritual emptiness is the real reason for adults or young people drinking to excess. The Bible says, "Be not drunk with wine wherein is excess, but be filled with the Spirit."

What Others Say

Under the American system of three "equal" divisions of government we have always prided ourselves on being a nation living under law, with Congress enacting legislation and the judiciary enforcing it. Executive branch regulatory agencies also make "law."

Now, from many interpretations of both the basic Constitution and legislation by the U.S. Supreme Court, and varied interpretations of that court's rulings by lesser courts, it appears that courts and not the Congress make the laws, aided and abetted by executive agencies.

Of course, Congress does come in handy to supply operational funds.

John Cuniff Co-Workers Rebel Against Pattern

NEW YORK (AP) — Crime, pollution, congestion, poor transportation, long hours of commuting, poor schools. These generally head the list of reasons why many rising young executives avoid transfers to some big cities.

Add now to the list a related factor that is commonly overlooked but which is basic to the decision: The upgrading of family life and the relative diminishing of the company's power over a man's private affairs.

There are many distinctions. The old executive liked publicity for the good of his business. The new executive has family secrets; he desires privacy to the extent that coworkers might not know where he spends his summers.

The return to family life and privacy, Jennings believes, is motivated partly by the realization that the company man of the 1950s who never had time for his family is reaping a harvest of personal chaos and guilt.

Perhaps the companies also are exerting less pressures and permitting the emphasis on family. Corporations once could indulge themselves in assessing a man's personality, manners, school ties and so on. Now they need performers, because modern capitalism demands efficiency and productivity.

On arrival—and after he thawed out from below-zero temperatures in transit—old 1604 had been plugged in and promptly burst into melody: "Dixie." Programmers in Minneapolis had discovered that the tones emitted in computations could be arranged to come out in harmony.

ORNL paid $1 million for 1604 from Control Data in 1963. When the computer was retired, the laboratory figured he had labored for $29 per hour. That does not include $6,000 a month in maintenance, a relatively high figure partly because parts were becoming hard to find for an obsolete model.

After only seven years, it happened to the 1604 computer in the Oak Ridge National Laboratory's mathematics division. Seven years of round-the-clock toil, doing the work of 1,400 men left old 1604 pretty well burned out.

He took time out for fun only during yuletide, when he sang carols with the rest of the gang.

But his penchant for song and 36,101 consecutive hours of toil counted for nothing. Without so much as a gold watch, 1604 was retired—termed obsolete and surplus property. His replacement: two more computers.

Before man can have the last laugh, however, they must consider that computers, unlike men, do come in new models. Each new generation of man, evolving slowly if at all, repeats inevitably some of the mistakes of its fathers. Each new generation of computers, while more expensive than the last, seems able to do more work with fewer mistakes.

By BILL RAWLINS
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — In an age when a man is considered over the hill at 40—and the boss suspects a machine could do a better job—it is comforting to know that computers, too, reach retirement age.

After only seven years, it happened to the 1604 computer in the Oak Ridge National Laboratory's mathematics division. Seven years of round-the-clock toil, doing the work of 1,400 men left old 1604 pretty well burned out.

He took time out for fun only during yuletide, when he sang carols with the rest of the gang.

But his penchant for song and 36,101 consecutive hours of toil counted for nothing. Without so much as a gold watch, 1604 was retired—termed obsolete and surplus property. His replacement: two more computers.

Before man can have the last laugh, however, they must consider that computers, unlike men, do come in new models. Each new generation of man, evolving slowly if at all, repeats inevitably some of the mistakes of its fathers. Each new generation of computers, while more expensive than the last, seems able to do more work with fewer mistakes.

On arrival—and after he thawed out from below-zero temperatures in transit—old 1604 had been plugged in and promptly burst into melody: "Dixie." Programmers in Minneapolis had discovered that the tones emitted in computations could be arranged to come out in harmony.

Thereafter, it was only natural that ORNL programmers gave 1604 time out for carolling during the holidays.

The two new computers, which cost a total of $9 million, are more efficient. Somebody, possibly with the aid of another computer, figured out that one of them can do the computations of the entire world population, working day and night with pencil and paper. And most of the $6,000 monthly maintenance cost is expected to be saved.

To Your Good Health Time To Have Batteries Changed

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband had a pacemaker embedded in his chest two years ago. It is now time to go back to have new batteries put in. Just what does this involve?

Our doctor says this is a relatively new device, yet other people have told me they have been in use for 17 years, and that some are worn on the outside of the body and can be regulated as needed—Mrs. H.R.

Changing the batteries is a quick and simple chore compared to the original surgery. When the pacemaker (to regulate the rate of heart beat) is installed in the chest, electrodes are connected to the heart muscle itself. This is not a dangerous operation, but it is still major surgery.

The batteries are placed close below the skin, so when it is time to replace them, only a very simple incision is needed.

As to the pacemaker being a "relatively new device," it depends on what one means by "relatively." According to my recollection, the original pacemakers were bulky machines designed for use in the hospital, and were developed after it was noted that a heart which stopped suddenly could be started by sending an electrical impulse through the chest. This led to using rhythmic impulses to guide the heart into a better rate, if it was too slow.

Finally, the devices were miniaturized and actually placed inside a patient's chest, and small batteries are sufficient for years of use.

Stronger electric impulses are used by hospital pacemakers (applied outside the body). To my knowledge, there are no small portable ones which can do that.

The question arises as to why the pacemaker can't be inserted inside, and the batteries outside. Well, this requires running wires through the skin. No matter how carefully this is done, sooner or later infection will develop at the point at which the wires enter. So the batteries are placed under the skin.

Some thousands of people are walking around with pacemakers in their chests to bring slow heartbeats up to normal rate.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: There is so much cancer. I wonder can a person get it through a blood transfusion. Would the cells start growing in another person?—Mrs. A.H.

Around The Rim America Says It With Music

"Song writers have the most wonderful bits — everything they leave behind them not only lives long after them, but oftentimes becomes even more vivid with the passing years."

ABEL GREEN, many years editor of "Variety," attributed the above quote to his "favorite wife." One of the songsmiths of the time was Irving Berlin, who once said the history of America could be traced through its music. Yes, the moods, manners, modes and mores of the land come to mind with music — and contemporary history is reflected in the tunes that are sung, hummed, whistled, played or danced to.

WHEN THE POET said "I hear America singing," his ear was not turned toward the concert stage and its studied artistry — but rather to the tempo of the times — the music in the streets. The tenderness of love, the fright of those alone, the hope of the old or the primitive pain that still, somehow, bursts from the throat of modern man.

Our time, the Twentieth century, can be easily chronicled in such a manner. In the early 1900's, John Phillip Sousa's band of 100 players began its first tour of Europe, the Socialist Party of the United States was formed, 2,000 U.S. Marines helped terminate the Bxer uprising and the Associated Press News Service was founded in New York.

were "Mighty Lak' A Rose," "Because," "Bill Bailey, Won't You Please Come Home?," "Dear Old Girl," "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" and "Rufus, Rastus Johnson Brown."

Just as the Spanish-American War gave birth to "Break the News to Mother," World War I produced "Till We Meet Again," "Over There," "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree With Anyone Else But Me" and even a ditty called "America Needs You Like a Mother — Would You Turn Your Mother Down?"

THE NATION'S dance styles, highlighted by the music in this era, included the "Bunny Hug," "Grizzly Bear" and "Castle Walk."

Then came Chicago. The wild days in the Windy City were exemplified by Sophie Tucker, Blossom Seeley, Gilda Gray, Nick LaRocca and Ted Lewis. Shimmy, Hula, Jazz. It was a time of tinkling pianos till Paul Whiteman came along with his "symphonic syncopation," and in 1924, with his "Rhapsody in Blue" . . . made a lady out of jazz.

THUS WE WERE told. There is more that we remember. Let's look at our music — yours and mine — next week. It's likely every dramatic day or memorable night of our lives was made more so — because of a melody.

NEW MELODIES in those years

Marquis Childs Pompous Old Fuss Pot Goldberg

NEW YORK — At the center of one of the city's great law establishments — two and a half floors in a new Park Avenue cube — Arthur Goldberg contemplates the political future. Before him is the Oliver Quayle poll showing that as the Democratic candidate he would defeat Gov. Nelson Rockefeller running for a fourth term by two and a half to one.

YET WHATEVER inclination he may have had to enter this race is behind him. Goldberg has had one of the most distinguished careers of our time — Secretary of Labor in the Kennedy Cabinet, a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, Ambassador to the United Nations. With this record he simply cannot see himself lining up in a primary race and advertising his wares in competition with the four other announced Democratic candidates in the June primary.

have previously been frustrated in statewide ambitions.

THE COMPOUNDED errors of the past haunt the Democratic party and nowhere more drastically than in New York State. The Johnson legacy is cruel and tortuous, as the Goldberg example shows more clearly than most.

For Goldberg the interval at the U.N. scarcely counts alongside his service on the court. This is his preoccupation — his seat on that august tribunal and the dire consequences flowing from his having given it up at the siren song of LBJ convincing him that at the U.N. he would bring peace to Vietnam and the world.

JOHNSON NAMED Abe Fortas to the Goldberg seat. When he nominated Fortas to be Chief Justice the trouble began. Fortas's rejection by the Senate for conflict of interest was a grievous blow to the court.

Small wonder then that Goldberg, viewing this carnage, reflects sadly that none of it would have happened had he resisted LBJ's siren call. The whole story of that dubious maneuver has never been told. But the Johnson machination first drew the court into the muddy current of political strife.

For Reform Democrats and the New Left in the party, that in itself shows him up as a pompous old fuss pot who deserves no further consideration. And wasn't he for two and a half years at the U.N. busy trying to put over the Johnson Vietnam policy? As a local columnist wrote, he should be tried as a war criminal rather than considered for Governor of New York.

NOTHING COULD better illustrate the dizzy dance of self-destruction in which the Democrats seem to be happily engaged. None of the four candidates already declared (with more likely, including Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., who was a speller in 1966) can come, according to the same poll, within a country mile of defeating Rockefeller. They are good men and true, honorable men with talents. But they are marginal candidates, who, in two instances at least,

Andrew Tully Entitled To The Same Chance

WASHINGTON — The irascible inclination is to cry "Enough!" Neither side has looked good in the squabble over President Nixon's nomination of the judicially meager Judge G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court.

But as a personal indulgence, I crave to raise a point bearing on the qualifications of certain of our moralistic young people to discuss the case intelligently. It is material to the kind of education to which kids are exposed in today's colleges and universities.

educational cohabitation? Perhaps they are too busy writing books and doing research for personal profit to concern themselves with a highly controversial and flamboyantly publicized Supreme Court nomination 33 years ago.

As it happens, Hugo Black went on to become, in my opinion, the Supreme Court's only authentic, pre-Studens - for - a-Democratic-Society liberal. The credit went to Earl Warren, but it was Black who led the civil rights fight of the past 15 years. Ironically, he did so because, among other things, he was and is a strict constructionist: He insisted on interpreting the Constitution as it was written by our Founding Fathers in what Black is fond of calling "plain and simple language."

EVER SINCE the Carswell nomination, the newspapers, radio and TV have compared Carswell's 1948 "white supremacy" speech to the revelation in 1937 that a Franklin D. Roosevelt Court nominee, Justice Hugo Black, had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

During that period, certain developments arising out of my own conversations with young, college-educated people have added up, inadvertently, to a poll. Of the seven youngsters with whom I discussed the case, not a single one was aware of Black's connection with the Klan.

As noted in previous essays, Carswell is not my cup of tea. But my objection to him is not because he made an untidy and expedient political speech more than 20 years ago, but because his record on the bench is so singularly lacking in distinction. For the rest, he is entitled to the same chance to redeem himself that Hugo Black was awarded in the liberal year 1937.

CHICAGO (AP) — A jury starts its fourth day of deliberations today on the innocence of seven men with riot conspiracy. The verdict prompted defense attorneys to seek an ultimate decision.

Meanwhile, a legal team began Monday the appeal of the convictions given the defendants their two lawyers' weekend by Judge Hoffman of U.S. District Court.

SEEKING RELIEF

Thomas P. Sullivan, 70 lawyer, filed with the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals seeking relief from the notice to file a motion to free the defendants pending the appeals procedure. Sullivan hoped an extensive support of the appeal filed by Thursday.

Although the defendant being held in the Cook jail until the jury reaches a verdict, their lawyers, Wil Kunstler and Leonard Glass, remain free. They stayed their sentences to allow them to perform their duties for their clients.

The jury of 10 men women recessed their sessions at 5:30 p.m. Monday. Monday morning earlier than tired the previous two. The five-month trial, nearly 200 witnesses and 20,000 pages of testimony to the jury short noon Saturday.

SET OWN HOUSE

The jurors set their own rules and they are not Judge Hoffman's until that they confer until p.m. each night.

Earlier Tuesday, told a news conference length of the jury's sessions raised defense hopes of a quick verdict.

Kunstler said he arranged for the jurors going to free some of the while convicting others. He said he would bring all convictions, a tal or a hung jury," he said.

The defendants are with violating the 1968 anti-riot law by crossing state lines with the intent to incite riots in the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

10 YEARS IN PRISON

In addition, five defendants are charged with a second crossing state lines with the intent to incite riots and the other defendants are charged with teaching the use of an ary device.

RIOT CONSPIRACY CASE PUZZLE Guilty? Or Not Guilty?

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal jury starts its fourth day of deliberations today on the guilt or innocence of seven men charged with riot conspiracy. The inability of the jurors to reach a quick verdict prompted defense speculation of an ultimate deadlock.

Meanwhile, a legal defense team began Monday the process of appealing the contempt sentences given the defendants and their two lawyers over the weekend by Judge Julius J. Hoffman of U.S. District Court.

SEEKING RELIEF

Thomas P. Sullivan, a Chicago lawyer, filed with the U.S. 7th Circuit Court of Appeals a notice seeking relief from the sentences. The notice serves as a motion to free the defendants on bond pending the lengthy appeals procedure. Sullivan said he hoped an extensive brief in support of the appeal could be filed by Thursday.

Although the defendants are being held in the Cook County jail until the jury reaches a verdict, their lawyers, William M. Kunstler and Leonard I. Weinglass, remain free. The judge stayed their sentences to May 4 to allow them to perform legal duties for their clients.

The jury of 10 men and two women recessed their deliberations at 5:30 p.m., Monday, several hours earlier than they required the previous two nights. The five-month trial, involving nearly 200 witnesses and requiring 20,000 pages of testimony, went to the jury shortly after noon Saturday.

SET OWN HOURS

The jurors set their own hours and they are not bound by Judge Hoffman's suggestion that they confer until about 10 p.m. each night.

Earlier Tuesday, Kunstler told a news conference that the length of the jury's deliberations raised defense hopes for a deadlocked jury.

Kunstler said he and Weinglass hoped the jurors were not going to free some defendants while convicting others. "We want all convictions, all acquittals or a hung jury," he said.

The defendants are charged with violating the 1968 federal anti-riot law by conspiring to cross state lines with the intent to incite riots at the time of the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

10 YEARS IN PRISON

In addition, five defendants are charged with a second count of crossing state lines to incite rioting and the other two defendants are charged with teaching the use of an incendiary device.

each man could be sentenced to 10 years in prison and fined $20,000.

Despite speculation that the length of the jury's deliberations might indicate a deadlock, the delay might be attributed to the massive amount of evidence and exhibits presented during the trial which began Sept. 24.

In his instructions to the jury Saturday, the judge noted that it was possible to find some defendants guilty of conspiracy without finding all defendants guilty.

The defendants are David T. Dellinger, 54; Thomas E. Hayden, 30; Rennard C. "Rennie"

Davis, 29; Abbott "Abbie" Hoffman, 31; John R. Froines, 31; Jerry C. Rubin, 31, and Lee Weiner, 31.

Weiner was allowed to leave the jail for two hours Monday to visit a hospital where his mother was reported in "very guarded" condition.

DEMONSTRATIONS

Mrs. Ruth Weiner, 54, took an overdose of a tranquilizer late Sunday. She and her husband, Herman, were in the courtroom when Judge Hoffman jailed their son for contempt.

There were demonstrations Monday against the contempt sentences in New York, San Francisco and Berkeley, Calif.

Helmets, police armed with clubs broke up a missile-throwing crowd of 2,000 at the New York Criminal Court Building where 13 Black Panthers are having a pretrial hearing on charges of conspiring to kill policemen and blow up public buildings.

Demonstrators in Berkeley hanged Judge Hoffman in effigy and scuffled with police.

An orderly protest in San Francisco, sponsored by the National Lawyers Guild, drew 2,000.

Demonstrations Protesting Judge Hoffman's Actions

By The Associated Press

Violence flared during demonstrations in California and New York against jail sentences imposed on seven Chicago riot conspiracy defendants and their attorneys for contempt of court.

An estimated 2,000 persons threw rocks, wood, bottles and chunks of ice in New York and about 1,000 persons fought police and smashed plate glass windows in downtown Berkeley, Calif., on Monday.

Earlier in the day an estimated 2,000 persons attended a peaceful rally in San Francisco where speakers denounced U.S. Dist. Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman for the weekend sentences in the Chicago trial.

Berkeley police reported six officers injured and 13 persons arrested after four hours of rain-pelted encounters in the streets.

One officer was stomped on the head when a small group turned on him, another wound up with a broken arm, and several were hit in the face with bricks and other flying objects. One policeman received glass fragments in his eyes.

In New York, a demonstration sponsored by the Fifth Avenue Vietnam Peace Parade Committee marched from City Hall to the Criminal Court Building, site of a hearing for 13 Black Panthers on charges of conspiring to kill policemen and bomb public buildings.

Fifteen were arrested after a melee in which several policemen and news photographers were injured.

The Berkeley demonstration featured a nine-foot effigy of Judge Hoffman. When a policeman tried to haul it down, the crowd surged along a street, breaking store windows over a nine-block area and pelting policemen with sticks and stones.

The crowd stayed together for an hour, blocking traffic near the University of California, then broke into small groups that roamed the streets for another three hours breaking windows and at times attacking isolated policemen.

At the University of California at Santa Cruz, 75 miles to the south, demonstrators marched to the court house where a crowd of 200 raised a "Power to the People" flag and fought off citizens who tried to haul it down. There were no injuries and no arrests.

The San Francisco rally was sponsored by the National Lawyers Guild, whose president, Marvin Stender, stressed that Hoffman had pronounced contempt sentences while the jury was still deliberating.

"What will be next?" he asked. "Elimination of the jury entirely?"

Witnesses Told To Keep Mum

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Witnesses before a federal grand jury probing alleged election irregularities were ordered to keep mum Monday.

U.S. Dist. Judge Adrian Spears also ordered that all witnesses appearing before the jury here next week must stay in a witness room prior to testifying.

The grand jury last week began an investigation of alleged political pressure involving the race for the Texas House seat held by Rep. W. S. Healy of Paducah, a Democrat who is seeking his ninth term.

Officials said about 10 persons will be subpoenaed to testify when the grand jury meets Feb. 24. Their names have not been released.

Democrat Leon Williams of Quannah and Republican Zack Fisher of Memphis, candidates for Rep. Healy's post, were among eight witnesses who testified last week. They stayed in a hallway outside the grand jury room and were allowed to talk to newsmen.

Healey, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, was not called to testify.

Judge Spears, acting on a request from the U.S. Attorney's office, ordered that all witnesses, after they are subpoenaed, must refrain from making public statements about the testimony they will give.

Judge Spears also prohibited the witnesses from discussing their testimony after appearing before the grand jury. The order applies to those who already have testified.

Grand jury proceedings are secret, but a tape recorder was heard playing when one of the witnesses appeared before the jurors last week.

Before testifying, both Williams and Fisher indicated they were pressured almost immediately after filing as candidates for Rep. Healy's Dist. 80 seat. State Treasurer Jesse James and Charles Ford of Longview, a member of the Texas Veterans Affairs Commission, also testified.

DID YOU READ THAT RIGHT THE FIRST TIME?

A lot of people usually don't see the extra "the" at first reading. Which only goes to prove that you can't believe everything you think you see. The same thing with your hearing. You're not always aware of what you hear.

Like Muzak, for example. Here's an unobtrusive, scientifically programmed musical environment that people don't consciously listen to but subconsciously react to in a positive, functional way. That's one reason why Muzak is so successful in motivating people and increasing their efficiency. Not because we say so. But because companies like your own are proving it every day.

If you would like to see some convincing cases in point on how effective Muzak environments are, just call or write us.

BIG SPRING Business Review

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1970

Full Dance Education For All Offered By Academy

The Candyce Academy of Dance, in College Park Shopping Center, offers full dance education to students beginning at three years of age. Miss Candyce Jane Bass, a licensed member of the Dance Masters of America, offers classes in ballet, tap, acrobatics, modern jazz, ballroom and discotheque, and dancer-size, (exercise) classes. She began her dancing career at the age of four at the Lambert School of Dance and began practice teaching at the age of 13. She studied under Gus Giordano, who wrote the "Modern Jazz Syllabus," and Enid Richardeau, who tutored Miss America for 1970. Miss Bass now has a dance assistant, Catherine Dawson, 16, who has had many years of dancing experience. For residents of towns outside of Big Spring who cannot drive their children here for lessons, Miss Bass says that she would be glad to go to surrounding towns to teach. Classes might be arranged in school rooms or community centers for ballet, tap, modern jazz, acrobatics and teenage ballroom on Fridays, evenings or Saturday mornings. Miss Bass hopes to organize a dancer-size class in the evening to cater to the working women. Adult ballroom classes will start soon. Miss Bass will offer one-and-a-half-hour ballroom classes one night a week for eight weeks. She also plans a teens six-week ballroom and discotheque course, including all the newest dances. "Teens, Miss Bass said, are picking up some of the jumps and hops from what they see and don't know what dances they're doing or if they're doing them right. Teens should know slow dances too. "The adult ballroom is for both couples and single men and women," she said. "In the class a person will learn all the dances, both modern and traditional. We will keep reviewing so a person doesn't forget what he learns." "Ballet is the basis for all dance. It gives poise, self-confidence, coordination and body control. Some university football coaches have made their players take ballet to help their coordination and body control, and it has been shown that ballet does make a difference." Ballet is excellent exercise to keep all athletes in shape from basketball players to snowskiers. It is particularly good for keeping muscles in tone for skiing. Proper training in dance and acrobatics is important to prevent muscle strain and unattractive bulging muscles. Miss Bass will permit a girl to go on point only when her back and ankle muscles are strong enough to safely toe dance. A person must be ready for acrobatic classes, too, says Miss Bass. Too much acrobatics too soon can cause a person to begin to look like a wrestler. It can cause the wrong muscles to be pulled and strained, without the proper exercise of ballet stretches. Ballet should be the foundation of acrobatics. Students take combined courses in ballet, tap, and modern jazz. Tap dancing helps develop good rhythm, timing and coordination. "Each phase of dancing complements the other phase and makes it easier," Miss Bass says. It is important to have a full dance education. Preschool children take one hour of class, though those who wish can take the full hour-and-a-half as the school age children do. Rates are reasonable for the dancing course and at considerably less cost than comparable classes in larger cities. Families with two or more children enrolled in classes receive a reduction. Dancing is recommended for better coordination, and for rehabilitating flat feet and minor crippling, in addition to being lots of fun and giving a great feeling of self-accomplishment. Candyce Academy will hold its dance recital in May with a theme that will span the eras including the roaring '20's to the distant future. Miss Bass believes in keeping up with all the latest dance trends, routines and techniques. During the summer she plans to attend the Dance Masters of America national convention in Boston, the school for teachers which will feature the rewriting of the Modern Jazz Syllabus. In March she intends to go to the Dance Masters of America convention in Tulsa, Okla. She hopes to take her advanced students to conventions to learn new dance routines from guest teachers who attend conventions from throughout the nation. Miss Bass resides at 1706 Scurry and her parents live in Snyder. She may be reached for lessons by calling 263-4805.

HC Faces Another Crisis In Own Gym

In its battle for survival in the torrid Western Conference basketball race, Howard County has faced one crisis after another in recent weeks.

Tonight will be no different. The Hawks will be at home to powerful New Mexico Junior College in a 7:30 p.m. game. In order to retain even a glimmer of hope for a first place finish, the Hawks must win.

NMJC has been an in-and-out club all year but has shown great strength in recent starts. The Thunderbirds, who are coached by Ross Black, knocked off a conference co-leader, Lubbock Christian, in their last start.

HCJC and LCC are now tied for third place in the standings with 7-4 records. South Plains and Odessa lead with 8-3 marks. NMJC is in good position with a 6-5 record.

Over-all, Howard County is a healthy 15-7 but NMJC has done even better, having won 16 of 24 assignments.

In other conference games tonight, Lubbock CC goes to South Plains, Frank Phillips visits Odessa and Amarillo will be at home to NMML.

In recent starts, NMJC beat NMML, 86-76; lost to Odessa, 102-90; turned back Clarendon, 124-91; and blistered LCC, 78-71, with a second half rally.

Earlier in the year, Lubbock had upset NMJC in Hobbs.

Both HC and NMJC lust for positions in the Region V tournament, which will be played next month in Amarillo. Elgren Green leads NMJC's smooth attack, along with Willie Banks, Fred Johnson and Sammy Smith. Danny Whitlock is also a fine all-around player for the New Mexico club.

Banks is averaging 18.5 points a game, Green 16.1, Whitlock 16.7, Johnson 8.7 and Smith 12.0.

Coach Buddy Travis likely will go with four sophomores and freshman Decell Lewis. The sophs are Danny Clendenin, Sammy James, Glen Fletcher and George Tilley. Jerry Phillips and Shelly York will both see a lot of action, too.

The Jayhawks face another toughie Thursday night, journeying to Levelland to oppose South Plains. They have only one home game after tonight. That will be a March 2 outing against NMML.

THE FIGHT'S OVER — Joe Frazier is lifted by his manager Yank Durham while Jimmy Ellis is ministered to by his manager, Angelo Dundee, after he failed to come out for the fifth round of the heavyweight title bout at Madison Square Garden Monday night. Referee signaling end of bout is Tony Perez.

UCLA Backed Unanimously

U stands for UCLA . . . and unanimous.

Coach John Wooden's all-conquering Bruins, off to a 20-0 start in quest of their fourth consecutive national basketball championship, pulled down all 30 first-place votes today in the weekly Associated Press poll.

While UCLA kept rolling along, the rest of the Top Ten underwent some shuffling.

Kentucky and St. Bonaventure, third and fourth last week, won two games apiece and moved up to second and third. South Carolina dropped from second to fourth after losing to Davidson.

The Gamecocks were followed by New Mexico State, Jacksonville, Penn and Florida State, each up one spot from a week ago. Davidson, which beat South Carolina, showed the biggest jump, up from 13th to ninth while Marquette also cracked the Top Ten after being 12th last week.

North Carolina and North Carolina State fell from the elite. The former won the battle of the intrastate rivals but both dropped weekend decisions to Georgia Tech. North Carolina State showed the biggest drop, down from fifth to 12th, while the Tar Heels plunged from 10th to 13th.

Iowa, still unbeaten in the Big Ten, climbed three places to 11th. Notre Dame jumped from 16th to 14th while Houston remained 15th, the only team be-

Forsan Eyes Regional

ROBERT LEE — Eleven points back in the third period, the Forsan Buffalo Queens rallied to topple Paint Rock, 53-43, in a Class B bidistrict game here before a packed house Monday night.

The Forsan team finally took the lead, at 44-43, with five minutes left to play and promptly went into a stall. It paid rich dividends, because Paint Rock starting fouling trying to get the ball and the Buffalo Queens kept converting at the line.

The Forsan club connected only 29 per cent from the floor the first half but warmed to 38 per cent after the half. The win was the 21st in 31 starts for Forsan. Paint Rock wound up with a 24-5 record.

Coach Don Stevens of Forsan has announced that his girls have drawn Spade as a first round opponent in the Regional tournament, which started in Lubbock Friday. The two clubs tangle at 7 p.m.

John Scheibel Is First Place Winner In Meet

Howard County Junior College, its forces trimmed by losses at mid-term, ran fourth in the junior college division of the Astrodomo invitational track meet in Houston over the weekend.

John Scheibel took the medal in the high jump with a 6-2 leap. He cleared the bar on the first try, whereas two others who finally made it had misses.

Dutch Flowers tied for second in the 80-yard high hurdles, but he lost the flip and had to settle for a third place medal.

The Hawks, coached by Jerry Dudley, failed to place in the shot put, but their 3:35 in the sprint medley would have gotten them into the finals had it been in another heat. Only three places were taken out of each heat, and the third place in the second heat had a qualifying 3:37. The mile relay team ran a 3:19.3, and Dudley was not disappointed with this, although it was out of the money.

Frazier Undisputed Heavyweight Champ

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier is the undisputed king of the heavyweights and he gained his crown by force—sheer brute force. Now he's a champion with nobody to fight.

"Now I'm gonna retire," Frazier kidded Monday night after knocking out Jimmy Ellis. "I am going to sing rock and roll until that fellow who wants to give me a belt wants to fight me."

Frazier referred to Cassius Clay, deposed as champion after refusing to enter military service. Clay had offered to give his Ring Magazine championship belt to the winner.

Frazier, tauntingly confident, clubbed Ellis senseless after four rounds of their scheduled 15-round title fight at Madison Square Garden.

Eddie Nelson, one of Big Spring's all-time basketball greats, will be in the lineup of the Harlem Stars contingent which meets the Webb AFB All-Stars in an exhibition game at 7:30 o'clock in the high school gymnasium Wednesday night.

The Stars, who are managed by one-armed Boyd Bule, kept two teams on the road prior to last week's automobile accident near Greenville, which killed five members of one of the units.

Nelson starred for both Big Spring High School and Howard County JC, as well as for Howard Payne College.

Admission prices for the game will be $1.50 for adults and $1 for children, age four through 17.

A drawing will be held at half time for an autographed basketball signed by all members of the Harlem team. The Big Spring Jaycees and Caria's Cuties will play a half time game.

Referees for the game will be Col. John O'Donnell, Student Squadron commander, and Jim Zapp.

People at the local VA Hospital can gain free admission to the game and will be seated in a special section.

Steer Cagers Hit Road To Oppose Midland High

Big Spring faces another tall order in its District 3-AAAA commitment tonight.

The Steers go to Midland to tangle with the Midland High Bulldogs. Midland played probably its finest game of the season in beating the Longhorns here, 97-64, last month.

Both teams have a 1-4 record in second half play, however. Over-all, Midland is 17-15 while Big Spring is a lackluster 9-21.

The Steers have only three games remaining on their 1969-70 schedule and only one of those will be unreel here. The Longhorns return to competition here Friday night against mighty Abilene High.

The Longhorns beat Odessa in the first round of 3-AAAA competition and knocked off Cooper in the second half.

In second half play, the Steers have averaged only 57.2 points a game, compared to 68.6 for the opposition. The locals simply haven't had the rebounding strength.

LOCAL TEAM IN WEDNESDAY EXHIBITION — Pictured here are members of the Webb AFB All-Star team, which Wednesday night in the high school gymnasium will oppose the Harlem Stars in a contest sponsored by the local Jaycees. The game was first cancelled when an automobile accident wiped out one unit of the Stars' lineup but another club was flown in from the coast for the contest. From the left, they are coach Cal Lowry, Jim Hamilton, Frank Tetreault, Steve Brayfield, Al Oldfather, Roger Reese, Val Franklin, Stan Hackleman, Steve Kuzman, Jerry James and Byron Huckee.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:
CALVIN MURPHY, basketball star at Niagara University, explaining how his team was able to begin the season so successfully:

"Excellent early conditioning. We take laps around coach Frank Layden."

TONIA BERN CAMPBELL, discussing the 1967 demise of her husband, British speedster, who died in a boat crash:

"It's strange. Donald never thought about being killed in a crash. He always said he wanted to be shot by a jealous husband at the age of 87. Donald had to die the day he did. It was his destiny. If he hadn't died in the boat, he would have been killed crossing the street."

JIMMY CANNON, New York scribe:

"The athlete of the '60s had to be Cassius Clay. He was all the 60s were. It is as if he were created to represent them. In him is the trouble and the wildness and the hysterical gladness and the nonsense and the rebellion and the conflicts of race and the yearning for bizarre religions and the cult of the put-on and the changed values that altered the world and the feelings about Vietnam in the generation that ridicules what their parents cherish."

Pitcher GAYLORD PERRY of the San Francisco Giants, after a trip to Vietnam:

"I have suggested to Mr. Bowie Kuhn (baseball commissioner) that baseball set aside money specifically for continuation of overseas trips for players to military hospitals. Nothing baseball can do is more worthwhile. I know, I've been there and, believe me, it really grabs you . . . You have no idea what it means to those kids to have somebody representing home to them, particularly — and I say this in all modesty — a 'name' athlete. It's the next best thing to having one of their family at their bedside, even if for only a few precious moments . . . I couldn't take more than four hours of it each day. It gets to you. You want to go away some place and count your blessings and think. Just think."

Scout RED HICKEY of the Dallas Cowboys, discussing the club's No. 1 pick in the recent football draft:

"If we rated on pure ability, running, catching, blocking — we'd probably rate Duane Thomas (West Texas State) ahead of Calvin Hill. Whether he turns out to be another Hill is another story. He has great hands, he's a good blocker, he's got great size and speed. When you say that, you've said about all you can."

PANCHO GONZALES, after he had scored that exciting tennis win over Rod Laver in New York recently and chatted with the widow of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy:

"I played with Bob once. Must have been in, oh, 1963. He had his own tennis court at his home in Virginia. We played doubles with two fellas out of his office. We played very early, about 7:00 in the morning. He had such a tight schedule. He was quite a competitor. He didn't have the fluent strokes but he tried very hard. He loved to play, and played about four times a week. I ran around and joked without making it embarrassing for him. Yes, it was exciting for me — to think that Bob, and other important men like Sargeant Shriver, like the game so much. It's the greatest sport in the world."

BILL VEECK, the former baseball magnate, on why he fights the mossbacks of sports so much:

"Tradition is the stinking albatross around the neck of progress."

HARRY DALTON, vice president of the Baltimore Orioles, talking about Cincinnati's catcher, Johnny Bench:

"Every time Bench throws, everybody in baseball drools. Last spring, he picked Brooks Robinson off first base and Brooks didn't know the ball was coming."

Oil Slick Floats Out Of Tampa Bay

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A giant fuel oil slick has floated out of Tampa Bay, circling human defenses and threatening to foul additional Gulf Coast beaches.

Hijacker Used Blazing Torch To Detour Jet

MIAMI (AP) — A shabbily dressed Latin lighted a fuse on what he indicated was a bottle of flammable fluid and wielded a pistol to detour a Newark-to-Miami jet to Havana, the crew reported.

Church Occupied By MAYO Group

HOUSTON (AP) — Mexican-American Youth Organization members still occupied today a vacant church building which they seized Sunday for use as a community center.

Spokesmen for a Mexican-American Presbyterian church, which has leased the building, said meanwhile they want to meet with the MAYO group Thursday to show that the church also is concerned with problems of the poor in the area. MAYO leaders said they took over the vacant Presbyterian church because promises by the Brazos Presbytery to make the church a community center had not been fulfilled.

The presbytery leased the building to the Juan Marcos Presbyterian Church last Tuesday. Officers of the Juan Marcos congregation met Monday night and decided to seek the Thursday meeting with MAYO and other Northeast Houston community organizations and churches. "We are just trying to put through to them the plans the church has for the community," said the Rev. R. M. Armendariz, pastor of Juan Marcos.

$103 Million Of City's Wages

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—The Port of Galveston, directly and indirectly, provided $103 million of the city's $172 million gross wages and salaries in 1968, a report made by a University of Houston professor claimed.

The report was made by Dr. Warren Ross and was commissioned by the Galveston Wharves trustees as part of their efforts to promote a $7.7 million tax bond issue to expand the port.

Seven Nominations Go To 'Midnight Cowboy'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Almost ignoring the trend to youth-oriented films, the movie academy has given the most Oscar nominations—10—to a historical drama, "Anne of the Thousand Days."

By contrast, of nominations announced Monday only one each went to "Alice's Restaurant" for best direction, and "Goodbye, Columbus," for best screenplay. "Easy Rider," a box-office bonanza about and for the disenchanted young, got only two—for best screenplay and best supporting actor, Jack Nicholson.

"Perhaps the squares like myself are still in the majority in the industry," one studio spokesman speculated. The academy's 3,100 voting members are thought to represent the film community's more mature segment.

Seven nominations did go, however, to "Midnight Cowboy," the kind of youth-appeal film toward which the industry recently has largely geared its product.

And it was a good day for young performers themselves, with nominations for Dustin Hoffman, Jon Voight, Elliott Gould, Genevieve Bujold, Jane Fonda and Liza Minnelli.

Goldie Hawn, blonde giggler on television's "Laugh-In," won nomination as a supporting actress in her first movie, "Cactus Flower."

Representing the old guard, durable John Wayne, 61, nominated in 1949 for "The Sands of Iwo Jima," was posted again for "True Grit."

Winners will receive statuettes at the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences' 42nd annual presentations April 7. "Anne of the Thousand Days," Hal Wallis, Universal film about Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn, was nominated as best picture. There were nominations also for its stars, Richard Burton and Miss Bujold, supporting actor Anthony Quayle, and for art direction, cinematography, costume design, score, sound and screenplay.

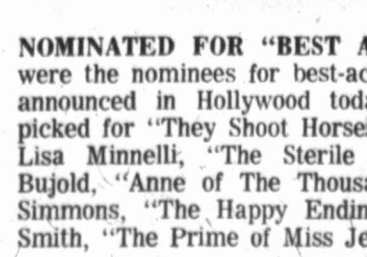

Nominated as best picture of 1969 along with "Anne of the Thousand Days," were "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," "Hello, Dolly!" "Midnight Cowboy" and "Z."

"Z," an attack on Greece's military regime, was nominated also as best foreign-language film, the first such double nomination in Academy history.

The acting nominations: Best actor: Burton; Hoffman and Voight, "Midnight Cowboy;" Peter O'Toole, "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," and Wayne.

Best actress: Miss Bujold; Miss Fonda, "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?" Miss Minnelli, "The Sterile Cuckoo;" Jean Simmons, "The Happy Ending;" Maggie Smith, "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie."

Mass Media, Government Key To Man's Survival?

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A former Federal Communications Commission member told Texas publishers today the very survival of mankind depends now on the action, and interaction, of the mass media and government.

"The present generation of youth is the first generation that has grown up with the knowledge that it may be the last generation of man," Lee Loevinger, now a Washington lawyer, said at the final business session of the Texas Daily Newspaper Association's three-day convention.

LOSE OUR FAITH "We are beginning to lose our faith in the ability to solve our own problems, individually or collectively," he said.

"In the last few years we have developed a physical environment which is inconsistent with and often frustrating to the belief in the importance of the individual. As no individual can, by himself, significantly pollute the environment, so no individual can, by himself, do much to stop or diminish pollution of the environment.

"The behavior of the mass is the message for today," Loevinger said. "It is news because the members of the mass do not know and cannot see either what their activities are or what the consequences of their activities are until someone stands apart from the mass and shows or tells them.

"It seems to me that the main trouble with the journalistic media today is that they are still operating on the premises of a past era.

DISASTERS "The deaths and injuries by disasters of fire, flood and violence are less significant and newsworthy than the deaths and injuries caused by the normal operation of our massive technology in polluting the environment.

"In all fairness, these things are being covered skillfully by the media. A number of newspapers have run series of articles on pollution and other important current problems, and television and radio networks and stations are giving prime time attention to ecology," he said.

"The basic social conflict for this generation and at least several more—if there are several more—is between the ideal of an individual ethics and the reality of a mass society.

"Whether we can survive, and surviving whether we can preserve our ideals of individualism, equality, freedom and human dignity will depend principally upon whether the basic institutions of government and the mass media recognize and perform their separate and different functions," he said.

LIBERAL DEMO Loevinger, who described himself as a liberal Democrat and served on the FCC until the Nixon administration began, told the publishers that presently it does not appear there is a serious threat of government censorship or control of either electronic or print journalism, although the dangers are much greater for the former. "The government has a monopoly of power in the field in which it acts," Loevinger said. "The best limitation on government power will continue to be a public informed by the mass media. The public will be best informed when the press is skeptical, critical and occasionally even hostile to government."

The convention drew 200 publishers and representatives of press-related industries and their wives. The next TDNA convention will be at Longview in August.

UGLY MOOD Monday's business sessions were dominated by discussions of Vice President Spiro Agnew's criticism of mass media.

Norman Isaacs, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said Agnew helped foment an ugly mood against journalists while Herb Klein, White House director of communications, defended Agnew's remarks.

"The psychological damage done by Mr. Agnew's two speeches has really been incalculable," Isaacs said. "The national mood about the communications media is indeed an ugly one. The signs point to its getting worse."

Klein said Agnew's criticism "may have rendered a real service to the press, if the followup is properly done. It seems to me that it is being done. Agnew believes his war with the television networks is over."

Grand Champion Steer Is 'Dandy'

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A Charolais crossbred has been named grand champion steer of the San Antonio Stock show for the first time in the exposition's history. "Dandy," a 1,130-pound steer shown by Nancy Sue Ebeling, 14, of Marble Falls, Tex., earlier took top honors in the junior steer show.

The champion is three quarter Charolais and one quarter Hereford. Hereford and Angus steers generally won the title in past shows, which date back three decades.

Reserve grand champion steer was "Bill," a 1,245-pound Angus shown by Knic Overpeck of Clinton, Ind.
