WIND, COLD, UNUSABLE GENERATOR TRIGGER BLUES

Hard Rock Festival Near Lubbock Delayed A Day

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Promoters of the Southwest '70 Peace Festival started all over again today—a day late and perhaps several dollars short.

An estimated 2,000 hard rock music fans sat through six hours of biting wind and chilly temperatures in a cotton patch Thursday before being told that a generator problem forced cancellation of the first day's program.

Texas Department of Public Safety officers reported 75 arrests which they said were connected with the festival. Most were for traffic and drinking violations, but four persons were charged with possession of marijuana.

Newsmen on the scene noted only one apparent case of a "bad trip", and bystanders talked officers out of taking any action in that instance. Early predictions of the crowd had ranged from 20,000 up.

Those on hand Thursday gathered in anticipation of big name acid rock groups, but the music never materialized.

The festival has absorbed several setbacks, including a court injunction that knocked out the original site near Dickens, 63 miles east of Lubbock.

A hastily arranged secondary site on a farm near Lubbock was decided on, but construction and sound crews were not able to meet the scheduled starting time.

A final blow fell when, according to promoters, an unusable generator was trucked to the festival grounds.

The sparse turnout of hard core music fans presented no problems to peace officers. Spokesmen for a medical unit said they treated "nothing that couldn't be handled with a 'band-aid' during Thursday's abortive program.

To make up for the lost day, promoters decided to extend the festival through Easter Sunday in order to deliver a promised three days of music.

Those in attendance Thursday did as best they could to keep out the stinging cold winds. Some erected makeshift shelters while others wrapped themselves in blankets or huddled around camp fires.

More than 200 state officers, including Texas Highway Patrolman Don Bates, Big Spring, were on hand to police the area, along with three helicopters and a fixed-wing plane. In addition,

Lubbock police and Lubbock County sheriff's deputies were present. Five members of the neighboring Dickens County sheriff's department lent a hand.

The disappointed rock fans were well behaved throughout their ordeal, and there was no apparent resentment over cancellation of the first day's program.

Air Traffic Controllers Call Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — With one-fourth of the air traffic controllers in the East and Midwest off the job, the nation's airlines warned today of increasing delays in Easter weekend travel.

"The airlines are consolidating schedules and rearranging flight patterns so as to minimize the inconvenience to their passengers," said Stuart G. Tipton, president of the Air Transport Association, a group representing all the scheduled air lines.

"Because of the additional travel over this busy Easter weekend and because the strike of some air traffic controllers will slow the system down, travelers must expect some delay."

A call Thursday night by the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO) for a nationwide walkout seemed to have little effect on the number of controllers off the job. Nor did a telegram from the government to each absent controller warning of "prompt action" for unexcused absences.

There were 259 absentees out of a total 1,025 normally scheduled for a Friday day shift in the first 10 air traffic control centers that reported to Federal Aviation Administration headquarters today. There are 21 such centers nationwide.

But while the absentee rate remained constant on the third day of the controllers' demonstration, there was a significant change in the biggest trouble spot of all—the Islip, N.Y., center that controls traffic for New York City's three airports. Only 46 of a normal force of 146 reported for work, the FAA said. On Thursday half the controllers were out.

Atlanta, where all 90 controllers were at work Thursday, only 71 came in today. But the Cleveland center, singled out as a cause of some major delays, had 95 of 151 working today—an attendance rate of 62 per cent, where the absentee rate was more than half Thursday.

In Boston, 79 of a normal 85 showed; at Chicago it was 99 of 106; Indianapolis 67 of 79; Jacksonville, Fla., 102 of 105; Kansas City 37 of 65; Miami 70 of 78 and Washington, 100 of 120.

The control centers handle air traffic en route once the flights are out of the control of the nation's 350 airport towers. There has been absenteeism in the towers also, but to date they haven't caused major concern.

But today, 27 of 32 reported sick at the Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport tower. There were absentees at Indianapolis Municipal for the first time and seven of 20 air controllers at Detroit Metropolitan Airport reported sick.

Clifton F. Von Kann, vice president of the Air Transport Association said the airlines have not been able to substitute the PATCO claims that inexperienced personnel are creating unsafe conditions.

"We are not taking only the word of the FAA," Von Kann said, adding the airlines are running independent safety checks.

Von Kann said that of between 6,000 and 7,000 scheduled daily flights, apparently 280 were canceled on Wednesday, and the number of cancellations was smaller Thursday.

The FAA sent out telegrams to absent air controllers warning that "prompt action" would be taken within 24 hours if they failed to obey a court order and return to work.

Attorney F. Lee Bailey, executive director of PATCO, the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, Thursday night called for the walkout, saying "The issue is no longer fatigue by traffic controllers but safety."

An FAA spokesman said absent workers would be considered in contempt of court if they continued the slowdown and sick-call action that began Wednesday.

Bailey accused the FAA of waiving qualifications of controllers in order to replace absent workers during the slowdown. He said he is urging the walkout until that action is rescinded.

Responding to Bailey's statement, a spokesman for the Air Transport Association, representing the airline industry, said the FAA has had in effect since Tuesday special procedures "to ensure the continued safe and orderly flow of air traffic."

IN CAMBODIA Communists Launch 'Offensive'

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodia's provisional chief of state Cheng Heng, charged today that Vietnamese Communists have launched an "offensive" against his government, forcing border villagers to listen to a tape recording of deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk calling for guerrilla warfare.

Cheng Heng also said the Viet Cong are forcing villagers to sell rice to Communist troops in Cambodia.

The government radio reported a group of youths egged on by the Viet Cong attacked government offices on Thursday in the provincial capital of Kampong Cham, 35 miles northeast of the capital, burned documents and commandeered a convoy of trucks to Phnom Penh.

The broadcast said Cambodian troops, aided by the outskirts of Phnom Penh.

Balloon Over Pine Bluff

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) — Stratoscope II, the 660-foot tall picture-taking balloon, was at 60,000 feet today over Pine Bluff, Ark., as it began a gentle descent toward a scheduled landing in Georgia.

The balloon, equipped with telescope for photographing the stars, was launched late Thursday from the balloon center here.

Scientists said the balloon drifted to an altitude of 80,000 feet, accomplished its picture-taking mission Thursday night, and began its downward journey on schedule.

Scientists said it would be several days before results of the pictures are released.

The flight is sponsored by Princeton University, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Office of Naval Research and the National Science Foundation.

Trucking Deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Teamsters union announced today national contract talks with the trucking industry have deadlocked and negotiations have broken off.

"Negotiations for renewal of the national freight agreement have reached an impasse on monetary and certain local working conditions," said Teamsters Acting President Frank E. Fitzsimmons of the talks covering some 425,000 truck drivers across the country.

The current national contract expires at midnight Tuesday.

Fitzsimmons' announcement came after union negotiators Thursday rejected a three-year industry offer to raise wages and fringe benefits by nearly $1 per hour.

EASTER LION — Most kids have Easter eggs, bunnies or chicks, but Susan Hawn, 4, of Corpus Christi has an eight week old lion cub to go with her Easter basket. "Suki" the cub is being raised by Susan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hawn, at their home and will be one of the more than 75 animals that will inhabit a drive through animal reserve being built near Dallas. Hawn is a partner in the park.

Oregon's GOP Senators Join Opposition Ranks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate maneuvering over the Supreme Court nomination of G. Harrold Carswell has created a tangle of confusing cross-currents, with opposing sides agreeing only that the vote will be close.

Oregon's two Republican senators joined the opposition ranks Thursday and one of them, Mark O. Hatfield, sent a letter to President Nixon urging him to withdraw the nomination of the 59-year-old Tallahassee, Fla., federal judge.

Hatfield said he would vote to send the nomination back to the Senate Judiciary Committee. But his colleague, Robert W. Packwood, said he was "less than enthusiastic" about this move, even though he intends to vote against Carswell's confirmation.

A motion to return the nomination to the Judiciary Committee, which approved it originally by a 13-4 vote, has been proposed by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., as an indirect way of trying to kill or force the withdrawal of Carswell's appointment.

The vote on the motion is set for April 6. If it fails a direct vote on the nomination itself will follow April 8.

Some senators looked on Bayh's move as an admission of weakness by opponents, an acknowledgment they don't have the votes to defeat Carswell on a straight-out vote as they did Judge Clement F. Haynsworth, Jr., Nixon's first choice for the court post.

Shock Waves In Las Vegas

PANUTE MESA, Nev. (AP) — Shock waves were felt as far as Utah and California from an underground detonation of a nuclear weapon described as one of the most powerful ever set off in the United States.

Newsmen watching via television from a bunker 34 miles away felt a heavy vibration which lasted 12 seconds and saw a huge cloud of dust rise in the clear sky as the blast went off Thursday.

The experimental device, believed related to development of an antiballistic missile warhead, was detonated 4,000 feet under this 7,000-foot mesa.

The blast was clearly felt in Las Vegas, the gambling resort city 120 miles southeast of the detonation site.

Good Friday In Holy City

JERUSALEM, (AP) — Christian pilgrims, fewer in numbers than in recent years, walked the traditional Good Friday route of Christ's journey to the cross.

Only a few thousand pilgrims and tourists participated in the annual procession along the winding Via Dolorosa—Street of Sorrow—in the Holy City of Jerusalem.

The procession, began at a school believed by the faithful to be the site of the prison where Christ was sentenced to death, and finished several hundred yards away at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, took about 1½ hours.

This was the third Good Friday pilgrimage since Jerusalem was united under Israeli rule in the wake of the 1967 Middle East war.

EASTER ANTHEM — The Mt. Bethel Baptist Church choir, shown here in rehearsal last week, will sing the anthem for the Easter Sunrise Service Sunday morning. Mrs. Robert Parramore is choir director. Other music on the program will be provided by Mrs. H. M. Jarratt, organist, and the Big Spring High School Band, trumpets.

Party's Over For Astronauts

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—The champagne days of the Apollo adventure are over and America's current corps of astronauts—one of the most elite groups of pilots ever assembled—is beginning to break up.

LONG SERVICE — D. R. Hayley, field gauger for Shell Pipe Line Corp. in Big Spring, Roberts Field, completed 30 years with Shell this month. He began his Shell career in Seymour, as a laborer in 1940. In 1946, after a four-year military leave of absence, he returned to the same position in Monahans. He became tank farm gauger in 1947, serving in McCamey and Wink. Becoming field gauger in 1953, he moved to Hamlin and then to Brownfield in 1958 in the same capacity. He moved to Big Spring in February, 1968.

Gemini program and the final push for the moon in the Apollo program, flights were coming at three and four month intervals, and almost every astronaut knew he had a chance to fly.

Moon flights now are spaced six months apart, however. And for the first time the end of the Apollo program is clearly in view.

Apollo 13, 14 and 15 already have crews named. That leaves four flights to the moon, with the last in 1974.

SPACE BUDGETS

Current planning calls for no moon flights from late 1972 until early 1974. During this period, the space agency plans to place an orbiting laboratory in space. This laboratory may be manned three times with three-man crews, if the space budgets permit.

As a result, between now and the end of the Apollo program, there appear to be 21 flying jobs to be divided somehow between 54 astronauts.

Apollo 16 through 19 will carry a very heavy emphasis on scientific exploration. Officials have said that on two of these flights there probably will be one of the scientist-astronauts, the 13 spacemen selected for educational background alone.

For the Skylab flights, one of three positions in each of the flights is expected to go to a spaceman-doctor, of whom there are four.

MILITARY MEN

Most of the pilot-astronauts are military men and the decision on when to get out of the space program revolves around their military retirement date.

A new generation of spacecraft—the space shuttle—is on the drawing board and will be flying the latter part of this decade, if the budget allows it. Most officials expect a new generation of astronauts will be named for the shuttle operations.

But even this group will not be around for man's next giant leap toward the stars, the Mars mission in the mid-1980s.

"The astronauts who fly that mission," says Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of the Manned Spacecraft Center, "are teenagers today."
Then he adds with a twinkle, "And probably some of those teenagers are girls."

HE HAD A DOGGONE HEADACHE — Charlie, a mop-eared, big-eyed Beagle puppy, had a doggone constant throbbing headache. He would have died soon because of "water on the brain." But Dr. John Oliver (shown here holding Charlie) associate professor of surgery at the University of Georgia's School of Veterinary Medicine at Athens, Ga., has planted a small rubber valve system in the dog's brain that may save his life and provide clues to understanding hydrocephalus in children. No more doggone headaches for Charlie. The system drains the excess fluid from the cranial region and disposes of it through the circulatory system.

Scientists Developing New Artificial Heart

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Researchers at the Texas Heart Institute (THI) said they have developed a new artificial heart, and testing of the heart will proceed jointly with the Spanish government.

News of the new heart was released at a press conference called to announce the signing of the agreement between the THI and the Spanish government.

The agreement, signed Feb. 27 in Madrid, will provide for training of Spanish doctors at the Texas Heart Institute at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital here and joint work on basic research in cardiovascular disease by THI and the National School of Thoracic Disease in Spain.

The Spanish effort will be directed by Dr. Cristobal Martinez Bordiu, who performed Spain's only heart transplant in 1968. His patient died, however, 24 hours later of kidney failure.

Dr. Martinez is also the son-in-law of Spanish chief of state Francisco Franco.

Dr. Domingo Liotta, director of experimental surgery at the THI, will be the director of the joint program. He is also the developer of the new artificial heart.

The new heart, the Argentine-born doctor said, is a later model of an artificial heart he developed last year which was implanted in a human patient by Dr. Denton A. Cooley, director of THI.

Dr. Cooley implanted the heart after the patient's heart failed and no human donor heart was available. Later, the patient was given a human donor heart but died soon afterwards.

Dr. Liotta said construction on the new heart ended just three weeks ago and tests will get under way in April on calves and sheep. The new artificial heart, like the one used last year, is not completely implantable and is designed to be used until a human donor transplant can be found, he said.

While the institute will send a complete artificial heart system to Spain, Dr. Liotta said, "the first implantation of the new heart will be done here in the United States and not in Spain."

DEAR ABBY: My father is very ill and we do not expect him to live more than a couple of months longer.

I have a very pretty navy blue suit. It has a straight skirt, and there are little gold buttons on the jacket. I plan to wear that to the funeral. I do not have anything suitable in black. My friends say that navy blue is not appropriate for a funeral. Do you think I should go out and buy a black outfit just for the funeral?

Also, I plan to wear a string of pearls at the viewing and also at the funeral. The pearls are a gift from my father and I am very proud of them. My friends say that jewelry is not appropriate. I would like your opinion.

ANONYMOUS, PLEASE DEAR ANONYMOUS: Any dark dress or suit would be appropriate. And if, for sentimental reasons, you want to wear the pearls, wear them. In the meantime, don't spend too much time fretting about the outfit for your father's funeral. He may live.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 and Ron is 29. He's intelligent, handsome, successful, and could get married tomorrow if he wanted to.

We have practically gone steady for a year now, but get this, he doesn't want to even talk about marriage. He says he loves me, and I know I love him, but he says he doesn't know of one good marriage, and he's not about to spoil our "perfect romance" by marrying me. Have you ever heard of anything so ridiculous?

We have everything in common and get along beautifully. He tells me I'm free to date others, but I don't care to. Far as I know, I'm the only girl he dates. How can I get him to marry me? I'll do anything.

DEAR WANTS RON: Ron is trying to tell you that he can't think of one good reason to marry YOU. And unless you can come up with one that makes sense to him, you'd better look elsewhere or content yourself with a "perfect romance," because from the way I read Ron, that's all he's going to offer you.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me if I am wrong for feeling put out when I drop in on some people for a little conversation and company and they turn the television on right in my face?

If I wanted to look at television, I could have stayed home and watched my own. Wouldn't you think people would have better manners? What is the matter with some folks anyhow?

DEAR "PUT": The "matter with some folks" is that they don't view situations the same as other folks. It is also possible that unexpected "conversation and company" may not be as fascinating to a surprised host as the television program he may have planned to watch.

In other words, a "drop in" type guest would not feel put out if he'd call first.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hips Welcome

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India's director general of tourism, S. K. Roy, says that India is generally happy to have hippies who have come here by the thousands. Tax School Slated Here

Three courses required to become a Certified Tax Assessor in Texas will be taught here April 6-8 to approximately 200 state tax assessing officers.

The school is being sponsored in Big Spring by the education committee of the Texas Association of Assessing Officers. The Settles Hotel will be headquarters for the three-day meet, with two courses being taught there and the third course at the Ramada Inn.

Registration will be held April 5 in the Settles Hotel, with a barbecue and square dance exhibition beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Coster Club.

Max Noller, Dallas director of revenue and taxation, will instruct a course in the legal basis for taxation; Floyd Carr, CTA, assessment of personal property; and F. E. Murrell and Connie de la Garza, demonstration appraisal writing.

Ratliff Named To School Panel

AUSTIN — Lieutenant Governor Ben Barnes has named Sen. David Ratliff of Stamford to serve as chairman of the Texas Legislative Council's study committee on the available school fund.

In addition to Sen. Ratliff, Lt. Gov. Barnes appointed the following council members to the committee: Sen. J. P. Word, Meridian, and Rep. Jack Blanton, Carrollton, George T. Hinson, Mineola, and John Traeger, Seguin.

The study, one of nine which the 17-member council has undertaken for completion during the current interim, was requested by Rep. Don Cavness of Austin. The committee, and members of the council staff assisting in the project, will explore the feasibility of changing the handling of the future mineral income revenues from public school lands in such a way that a portion of the revenues may be deposited directly to the available school fund. Sen. Ratliff is serving his 20th year in the legislature.

 South projected a profitable endplay on West to clinch his six no trump contract in today's hand.

North's four no trump bid, holding 16 high card points, is a raise of the opening bidder beyond game and requests partner to bid the slam if he has extra values. South had the maximum—18 points—for his bid, so he accepted the invitation with alacrity.

West chose to open the jack of hearts and when the dummy was spread, South observed that he had 11 top tricks — two spades, three hearts, two diamonds, and four clubs—with several prospects for a 12th. Declarer might find a three-three division in either spades or hearts. He could finesse for the queen of diamonds either way and there was even a potential finessing position available in spades. Before he tested all these possibilities, however, South observed that there was a way to eliminate all guesswork: provided that West had no more than three clubs in his hand.

The queen of hearts was played from dummy at trick one, a club was led to the queen and two more rounds of clubs followed. When the suit divided evenly, South had set the stage for a profitable endplay.

The ten of spades was led from dummy and when East followed with the six, South played the deuce from his hand. West was in with the jack; however, he must surrender the fulfilling trick on the return. A heart return permits declarer to win a trick with the nine, and either a spade or a diamond is into South's tenace.

Had East been able to cover the ten of spades with the jack or queen, declarer could afford to concede a trick to the other honor, thereby establishing a third trick in the suit for himself.

'Missing Persons' Sought By Census Enumerators

The Bureau of the Census has become a kind of "missing persons" bureau for the 1970 census.

When the census is taken April 1, the Bureau wants to make sure there are no missing Americans. Missing persons, in the Census Bureau meaning of the term, are people missed by census takers.

Proportionately, there are not too many of them but, individually, they add up to a lot of people. Careful study of the 1960 census results indicates that as many as 5.7 million people may have been missed in that count, including extra-large numbers of blacks and probably Mexican-Americans, Puerto Ricans, and other racial and ethnic minorities. The total of whites missed is believed to have been higher than the total of blacks, but the percentage of missing blacks may have been as high as 10 per cent compared with two per cent of the whites.

Two of the publicity leaflets are "We the Black People" and "We the Mexican Americans." They show what the Census Bureau knows about these segments of the population, their employment, housing, education and so on, and the importance of this information.

Another leaflet, "Census Confidentiality" describes the law which prevents any census employe from giving personal information from census record to anyone outside the Bureau, including the police, the income tax officials, the courts or the FBI. All Bureau employes, even census takers, take an oath to protect confidentiality and, if they break it, they could go to prison and pay a fine. No Bureau employe has ever been found guilty of such a violation.

Another project involves still another experiment to improve the census count — the use of community education specialists whose goal is to improve public understanding of the importance, need, and methods of the census. By publicizing the fact that the census is entirely confidential, the specialists hope to erase common fears that the census can be used in law enforcement.

While some Bureau staff members have been reaching out to the community, others have been improving the techniques of taking the census. Several important changes have been made for the 1970 census.

For example, Post Office letter carriers will deliver a census questionnaire to every home address of any kind along each route. In most of the large cities, carriers have made one and will make other checks to make sure that the Bureau has the address for every place where people live. In the past, census takers have had difficulty in locating all the people in the overcrowded cities because they could not always locate housing units.

Outside mail-back areas, census takers will visit every house in their assigned areas to pick up the forms. In all, about 160,000 census takers will be hired as well as 25,000 additional persons to fill various clerical, office, and supervisory positions. There will be a special effort to recruit black and bi-lingual persons to fill these temporary jobs.

Another project involves still another experiment to improve the census count — the use of community education specialists whose goal is to improve public

Special training will be given to employes who will enumerate neighborhoods heavily populated by minority blocs. In addition, in these neighborhoods, fewer employes per supervisor will be employed in order to reduce the administrative load.

The questionnaire itself for "Census '70" will for the first time use the term "Black" in BASHFUL BUNNY — Still a bit shy about being elevated to "Easter Bunny" status is Rascal, a young jack rabbit treasured by his mistress, Lisa Caldwell. Now about nine months old, the rabbit has been raised by Lisa, along with other assorted pets.

Thinks It's An Easter Bunny

By MARILYN NEVELS
What child does not anticipate the visit of the Easter bunny each year? Lisa Caldwell, who loves the Easter bunny as much as any seven-year-old does, is one jump ahead of most other children. Her Easter bunny has been here for quite a while. Lisa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Caldwell, 1214 Mulberry. Lisa, who has collected more animals and insects than her mother would care to remember, had to settle for a stuffed Easter bunny last year. "Rascal used to look as if he had leprosy," Caldwell said. "We accidentally pulled off some of his fur trying to drag him out of tight spots with him digging in and kicking."

Rascal, who now has a fine furry coat and is healthy, didn't need vaccinations because he was captured so young and didn't have his teeth. When his teeth came in, the Caldwells fed him carrots and corn on the cob. Now he eats commercial rabbit food.

Rascal is kept in his cage in the back yard except to come inside and "watch television" with Lisa. The Caldwells' two Boston terriers keep the rabbit company in the back yard. When Rascal is turned loose he is chased, in fun, by the young terrier, Queenie. When Rascal gets tired, he plays dead, soon letting Queenie nuzzle him into another wild chase. The other terrier, Little 'n, has been a mother to the rabbit. The Caldwell's will find them nose to nose. Rascal in his cage and Little 'n outside, or on the patio, Rascal probably thinks he is a terrier too. "If you walk by Rascal's cage without saying something to him," said Caldwell, "he'll jump around in his cage and make a lot of racket to attract your attention."

The Caldwells had planned to keep Rascal only until he was old enough to care for himself. Once they turned him loose, "but he wouldn't leave." So Rascal has become a family pet, along with Lisa's fish, parakeet, two terriers, numerous "wooley worms" and occasional horned toads.

A LOVELIER YOU Summer Nylon Gloves Give Isometric Help

By MARY SUE MILLER

Wintertimes we wear lined leather gloves and wool mittens for warmth. Comes warm weather, the youth group can hardly muster up a glove to wear to some formal establishment shindig. Their older relatives have a few pairs of durable fabrics, usually in catch-as-catch-can colors.

Yet Miss Teen spends hard money on hand lotion, bracelets and rings to beautify her hands. That's fine, but it takes a glove to protect a hand from dirt and heat and cold and wind.

Among those with fashion sophistication, the excuse for a thread-bare glove wardrobe is a mystery. Possibly a high initial price and the upkeep on unwashables is at the root. Still, the value of gloves to one's clothes and to propriety — feminine charm — is priceless.

As the weather warms, spanking fresh pale gloves lend a cool and collected look to women of all ages. And keep their hands in pristine condition. Unless you are driven to and fro in an air-conditioned Rolls you require several pairs of light gloves for easy going.

If you can find small need for gloves, how about this one: In time for hot weather, new nylon gloves with cosmetic factors will become widely available. Neat as a pin on the hands, these dandies act like isometric exercise to improve circulation, veins and skin texture. What's more, there is nothing clinical about them. The look is fine.

LOVELIER HANDS
Do you have a hand problem? Send today for "Lovelier Hands," a booklet that covers every step in a quest for hand beauty. It tells how to keep the skin and nails groomed; how to overcome weak nails, polychips, discolored knuckles, prominent veins, wrinkles; how to use the hands with posed grace. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin.

The charter was draped by Mrs. Alton Allen, lodge deputy, assisted by Mrs. Acuff, Mrs. Joe Evans, Mrs. Lee Thackrey, Mrs. K. C. Webb, Mrs. Everett Hood and Mrs. B. N. Ralph. The biography of Schuyler Coifax, founder of the Rebekahs, was read by Mrs. Frank Lalanda, in honor of his birthday, March 23, 1923. There were 27 visits to the sick reported.

Prayer Day Held By Methodists

The annual "Day of Prayer and Self-Denial" was held Tuesday at the First United Methodist Church. The event was held in recognition of and service to underprivileged people of the world.

Each year a special program and offering are given for missions in various countries, including minority groups in the United States.

Kidnap Trial Of Five Men

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Final arguments were set today in the trial of five men accused of kidnaping Karen Vickers, 16, from her home in January.

The men are charged with conspiring to kidnap, kidnaping and using interstate communications in an effort to collect ransom.

Two of the defendants, Johnnie Tasby, 21, and High M. Smith, 26, testified in their own behalf Thursday.

Tasby said the girl's father, Emmett Vickers, offered him $5,000 last fall to stage the kidnaping. He testified Vickers later gave him $200 after outlining a kidnap plan and told him to leave town.

Vickers testified he was deer hunting in Colorado at the time of the alleged meeting.

Also charged in the case are Joe Fegett, 23, Paul Bryant, 21, and Booker T. Burkhalter, 24, all of Dallas.

The girl was abducted from her home Jan. 9 and released more than 26 hours later at a motel in Texarkana, Tex. A $40,000 ransom was never paid.

'WANT TO FIND WHAT'S THERE' Okay Kopechne Inquiry

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — The Dukes County grand jury will make an independent inquiry into Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's auto accident which took the life of Mary Jo Kopechne last summer on Chappaquiddick Island.

The grand jury will go into session April 6.

The session is being called at the request of Leslie H. Leland, foreman of the grand jury and a druggist in Vineyard Haven.

Convening of the jurors became official Thursday when Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro of the Massachusetts Supreme Court announced he would assign a Superior Court judge to open the session.

Leland's request for the special session had been forwarded to the chief justice by Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis of New Bedford.

It was Dinis who called for the inquest into Miss Kopechne's death which was conducted in Edgartown in January. That four-day hearing was held in secret on order of the state Supreme Judicial Court, which also ordered the transcript of the testimony and the report of presiding Dist. Court Judge James A. Boyle to be kept secret until all possibility of any further prosecution in connection with the case is ended.

Leland said he asked for the special session to look into the Kennedy accident "because I feel that I have duties and responsibilities as the foreman of this grand jury and I intend to exercise them."

Leland said he had talked with Dinis and asked him to act as legal counsel to the jury in its inquiry.

Under Massachusetts law grand juries have broad powers while in session, and can call any witnesses members want to hear.

Leland said he expected the grand jury first to issue subpoenas for the transcript and the report of Judge Boyle, which are impounded in the Suffolk Superior Court in Boston.

Leland said it was uncertain whether Sen. Kennedy and 25 or so other witnesses who appeared at the inquest would be recalled to the island to appear before the grand jury.

That would depend on whether the transcript and judge's report were made available to the grand jury, he said.

CECIL RIORDAN

Riordan Named Manager For Yarborough

Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough has named Cecil V. Riordan, Big Spring, as his campaign manager in Howard County.

"I am pleased to have the endorsement and campaign leadership of such leading Democrat as Cecil Riordan in this important area of the state," Sen. Yarborough said.

Sen. Yarborough who is chairman of the Senate labor and public welfare committee, and a member of the appropriations committee, is seeking reelection as a candidate in the May 2 Democratic Primary.

Cecil Riordan, a friend of the senator for many years, and a life-long Democrat, has been a resident of Howard County for 12 years. His company has had real estate holdings in the county for 20 years.

"I am honored to be associated with this great Texas statesman, whose record of achievement for our people over the past 13 years merits the support of every thoughtful voter in Howard County," said Riordan. Yarborough truly fights the peoples fights — and he wins. I am confident we will do the same for him this year in Howard County, and all of Texas.

The location of a campaign headquarters will be announced soon, Riordan said.

Don't Miss Your Tax Deductions

(This article is prepared by the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants on money-saving hints in preparing your Federal income tax return.)

Each year many taxpayers overpay their Federal income tax by failing to claim all the deductions allowed. Ed Merriman, president of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants, points out that taxes for 1969 will be higher than in the past because of the 10 per cent surcharge, so it is important for taxpayers to know the deductions that are available.

"While the following list is not complete," Merriman said, "it includes deductions that are often overlooked."

The use of your car for charitable work, for example, qualifies as a contribution at five cents per mile. This would include unreimbursed use of a car in soliciting for the United Fund, Girl or Boy Scout Leaders transporting scouts to camp and so on.

Contributions of old clothing or other items to be sold by charitable organizations are deductible. A statement should be obtained from the charity as to the amount realized from the sale or the fair market value of the donation.

Interest on installment purchases is deductible but is limited to six per cent a year on the average unpaid balance if the interest charge is not separately stated by the store. If the interest is detailed, as specified by the "truth in lending" law, the taxpayer may be able to claim a larger amount. Sales tax tables are provided in the Income Tax instructions and are suitable in most cases.

He also advised taxpayers to note that Texas charges sales tax or titling taxes on automobiles and boat purchases, and these qualify for sales tax deduction.

A deduction is allowed for 50 per cent of the cost of hospital or surgical insurance policies, up to a maximum of $150. The portion not allowable as a direct deduction can be added to other medical expenses. Deductions for such other medical expenses and medicines, however, are limited by a percentage of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income.

Medical expenses include such items as transportation for medical care by commercial carriers, or by your own automobile at five cents a mile. Other travel expenses for medical care are allowable, but expenses for lodging and meals at the destination are now allowed unless they are part of a hospital bill.

Fees to a certified public accountant or others for assisting with your income tax return are deductible, as are fees to an employment agency for securing a new job. Union dues, professional dues, professional journals and certain education expenses are all deductible under miscellaneous deductions on Schedule A.

Instructions on the back of Schedule A, Form 1040, should be read by taxpayers as a guide to permitted deductions. The instructions are not all-inclusive, however, and taxpayers should consult a CPA or call the local office of the Internal Revenue Service if they are in doubt, Merriman said.

Israeli Pilots Down Five MIG21s Today

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli pilots reported their second banner day this week today, claiming they shot down five Egyptian MIG21s in dogfights over Port Suez, at the southern end of the Suez Canal.

Egypt admitted the loss of one plane but claimed one Israeli jet exploded in the air and another was hit by Egyptian fighters. Israel denied the claims.

An Egyptian spokesman said an estimated 80 planes—40 from each air force—tangled in the melee, making it the biggest air battle reported since the 1967 war.

An Israeli spokesman said the MIGs were downed by cannon fire and rockets at "medium altitude." He said one plane exploded in flight, another crashed with its pilot, and the other three pilots were seen parachuting.

The Israelis said their planes made another 30-minute raid at noon on the southern sector of the canal.

It was the second major aerial victory reported by Israel in three days and the biggest bag of Egyptian planes claimed by Israel's pilots in more than six months.

On Wednesday, the Israelis claimed they downed four MIG21s in dogfights over the northern part of the canal. Egypt denied any losses.

Today's report brought to 85 the total number of Egyptian planes the Israelis claim to have shot down since the 1967 Middle East war.

All Israeli planes returned safely today, an Israeli spokesman said. He made the same report after the dogfights Wednesday, when the Egyptians claimed they shot down one plane.

Founding Egyptian positions along the canal night and day, the Israeli jets crossed the canal at 9 a.m. today to bomb "military targets" at the southern end of the waterway and along the northern coast of the Gulf of Suez, the spokesman said.

Egypt's Soviet-supplied jets challenged the raiders 20 minutes after they began their bomb runs. The air battle lasted five minutes, the spokesman said, and the Israeli pilots continued their bombing attacks afterward.

During the night, Israeli planes bombed and strafed artillery and anti-aircraft posts and other military targets in the central and southern sectors of the canal for two hours, the command said. Once again it reported no planes lost.

Earlier Thursday, an Egyptian raiding party crossed the Suez and ambushed an Israeli army patrol, killing one soldier and wounding three, according to the Israelis. But Egypt claimed 15 Israelis had been killed and three trucks destroyed. Neither side mentioned Egyptian casualties.

The Israeli command also announced that Arab guerrillas in Lebanon fired salvos of Soviet Katyusha rockets today at three Israeli settlements in northern Galilee: Dan, Ofna and Shear Yashuv, between Lebanon and Syria. No casualties and only slight damage were reported.

In Beirut, police backed by armored cars fought street battles around the perimeter of a Palestinian refugee camp. Six civilians were killed and a dozen wounded.

Four days of violence involving guerrillas, security forces and armed civilians have resulted in 30 dead and more than 60 wounded, or half the casualty toll in the two weeks of fighting last October.

Pair Of Gunmen Rob Bank In Valley View

VALLEY VIEW, Tex. (AP) — The life of a bank robber often is hard. Especially when shotguns go off unexpectedly and little girls watch the money being hidden. That was a sequel today after the Valley View National Bank robbery of Thursday.

By today, officers had recovered $6,614 in bills and silver of the $17,772 taken. They also had a 1969 tan Oldsmobile with floorboard shot out. The shot that also destroyed the right front tire.

The short, moustached man and his taller companion that witnesses said held up the bank about noon Thursday still were missing.

Officers reconstructed this strange march of events: The men headed toward Denton in the tan car when near Krum the shotgun discharged blowing a large hole in the floorboard of the car and ripping up the right front tire. The car had been stolen from John Popell, Oldsmobile dealer of Fort Worth.

The men decided to cache the $6,614 in weeds off the road. This sum included $1,523 in silver, a heavy load. The remainder largely was in dollar bills.

A little girl at a farmhouse saw them. They drove the car, flat and all, to the parking lot of the Davidson Feed Store. One asked Larry Davidson, 18, son of the owner, how to telephone Denton. A man and a blonde woman arrived shortly after the call and picked up the pair.

Officers, retracing the route, were told about the cache by the girl.

The holdup men bound the bank president, Lowell Miller, and five other persons in taking the money and shut a customer into the vault.

The bank was sold March 7 to a Fort Worth group, including Miller.

It was the second bank robbery and third attempt in the county in four months.

In one robbery, $25,000 was taken from the Muenster State Bank but a youth was arrested 45 minutes later and the money recovered.

Beaten, Stabbed, Burned Body Not Fort Worth Exec

HOUSTON (AP)—Police said today the beaten, stabbed and partly burned body of a man found in a utility room back of a vacant house has been tentatively identified as that of Fred N. Aldrich Jr., 57, of Houston.

Earlier they had tentatively identified the dead man, found Thursday, as James H. Harper, a Fort Worth business executive.

Aldrich, district sales manager of the Illinois Central Railroad Co., had been missing since Wednesday morning when he left on a business trip to Galveston, according to a missing persons report on file at the Houston police station.

"I've gotten to where I'm accustomed to them now," he said.

Later, when asked if he felt a year older, McAllister replied, "By damn, if you want the truth I feel a year younger." He noted that people ask him where he gets his vitality and added, "I don't know, just from the Good Lord, I guess."

Oil Seepage Stopped, Cleanup Job Continues

For two days, city employees have been working around-the-clock shifts trying to skim off an oily muck that has somehow seeped into the sewer system and is endangering the plant growth essential to the treatment of waste at the sewage plant.

Sewer Superintendent Bill Brown said this morning it appears most of the asphalt and diesel fuel mixture has been taken from the system and that he hopes the worst is over.

Acting Public Works Director Bo Anderson said this morning the source of the problem was the truck terminal on old US 80, where several trucks which haul asphalt were being cleaned with diesel fuel. Anderson said the men at the terminal were unaware that the mixture was seeping into the sewer lines from a drain trap. When notified, they stopped immediately, Anderson said.

Brown said Thursday the main danger from the oily mess was that the zoogeological growth nurtured over a long period of time on the plant's rock filters would become covered with oil and die. The growth consists of bacteria, protozoa, and algae which devour the waste particles in sewer water after the larger particles have been removed by an automated skimmer. This is the essential process in cleaning sewage, Brown said, and should the plant life become ineffective, the whole process of bringing in the proper size and texture of rock and reproducing the life would have been started again.

Jerry Foresyth, laboratory technician at the plant, said this morning a large quantity of the asphalt and oil is still being received at the plant today and that even though the seepage has been cut off at the source, some of the muck will continue to flow in for the next few days. Brown said the problem now is to keep the asphalt from building up at lift stations along the line and clogging the pumps at the plant when it flows in. He said that as the diesel fuel is drained off, the asphalt tends to harden in the water and form gummy lumps that are already sticking to the expensive equipment at the plant. If the buildup is not severe along the line, the pumps should be able to pass the asphalt on through, Brown said. If not, the city will have a costly mess on its hands, he added.

FCC Restricting Media Ownership

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has issued a new rule restricting ownership of radio and television operations "to prevent undue influence on local public opinion by relatively few persons or groups."

Under the rule issued Thursday and effective immediately, owners who now have more than one broadcasting operation in a single market can keep all their stations, but cannot in the future, with certain exceptions, acquire another facility in the same community.

The FCC also said it is considering extending the restrictions to force the dismantling of combined newspaper-broadcast operations within five years.

The FCC's proposal would "require present owners, within a period of five years, to reduce their holdings to an AM-FM (radio) combination, a television station or a newspaper ownership in the same market."

The FCC said this proposal is only under consideration and further study is required before a rule is adopted requiring owners to divest themselves of some of their holdings.

Art Bernstone, chief counsel for FCC's Broadcast Bureau, said the proposal means a party could own only a newspaper or an AM-FM combination or a television station in a single market. But the FCC did not define "market," and asked for comment to develop a workable definition.

The agency does not regulate newspapers but has power to issue or withhold licenses for broadcasting operations.

The proposal would require "that any broadcast licensee buying daily newspaper properties in the same market would have to dispose of its broadcast properties within one year or within its renewal period, whichever is longer."

Another proposal would prohibit approval of a broadcast license to a party owning a daily newspaper in the same market. Broadcast licenses are granted for three-year periods.

The FCC also asked for comments on the five-year proposal to dismantle media combinations and asked for suggestions to "cushion the impact."

Bernstone said neither the new ownership rule nor the proposal would prevent broadcast and newspaper combinations as long as they were scattered in diverse communities.

TELLS HOW IT WAS — Lt. Col. Donald Crowley, air attaché for the U.S. Embassy in the Dominican Republic, tells a Santo Domingo press conference about the kidnaping Thursday night. Crowley was released by kidnapers after group of Dominican political prisoners was freed and flown to Mexico. With Crowley are his wife, Nancy, and U.S. Ambassador to the Dominican Republic Francis E. Meloy Jr.

He Had No Doubt Kidnapers Would Have Killed Him If...

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — An American air attaché freed Thursday night in exchange for 19 political prisoners said he had no doubt his captors would have killed him "without the slightest twinge of conscience" if they had deemed it necessary.

"It was an ideological thing," Lt. Col. Donald J. Crowley told a news conference shortly after his release from two days as a hostage.

The 48-year-old Texan appeared in good shape, though tired, and said his captors treated him well. He was freed near the field where he was seized by armed men Tuesday morning as he arrived for polo practice. He was the third U.S. official kidnaped since September in the wave of Latin-American political abductions.

Crowley said six young men each armed with a machine pistol, pulled him from his car and forced him to lie down on the back seat of their car.

The colonel said he was kept blindfolded all during his captivity except for two brief occasions when he wrote letters his captors dictated.

During his detention, Crowley said, he could hear the men voicing "highly anti-American" and "very far to the left" opinions.

Crowley said he was let go after a half-hour drive from his place of confinement. He was dropped off in the street near the St. Thomas Aquinas Semnary. Recognized by a traffic policeman, he was taken to national police headquarters and from there to the Mexican Embassy.

In accordance with the agreement between the government and the kidnapers, he was held at the embassy until word was received from Mexico of the safe arrival there of the 19 political prisoners freed in exchange for him.

After Crowley was abducted, his kidnapers had notified the U.S. Embassy and the Dominican government that he would be executed unless 24 political prisoners were released from Dominican jails and transported to Mexico. The Dominican government agreed only to release 20, and the offer was accepted. Later the number was reduced to 19. Crowley, a native of El Paso, has served at the U.S. Embassy in Santo Domingo since 1968. He is married and has three daughters and a son.

In Mexico City, the freed prisoners said they would return to the Dominican Republic as soon as possible to continue their efforts to overthrow President Joaquin Balaguer. He is up for re-election in May.

Dream Is True

KLAGENFURT, Austria (AP) — A Klagenfurt businessman was laughed at by his family when he told them he dreamed a burglar ransacked the house. Their laughter died when they discovered a burglar had really entered the house and taken off with 77,000 schillings ($3,000) worth of valuables.

While the man was sleeping upstairs, the rest of the family watched a television program in the living room.

Spring Rains Imperiling Salad Bowl

BEAN CITY, Fla. (AP) — Spring rains hitting Florida's dry season have flooded thousands of acres of pasturelands, imperiling crops across the nation's winter salad bowl.

With the rain still falling today, flood control authorities warned more lands were likely to go underwater.

Agricultural officials from Fort Myers, on the Gulf Coast, to Palm Beach, on the Atlantic side, cautioned growers to take steps to save their crops and livestock as the cultivated areas and pastures grew soggy.

The area between Fort Myers and Palm Beach produces the bulk of the nation's winter produce.

Downpours that began late Wednesday had dumped 14 inches of rain on Hobe Sound by Thursday night and nearly 10 inches in Stuart.

Fort Myers, where the March rainfall averages less than three inches, recorded more than eight inches in a 25-hour period — pushing the month's total to 18.

"We've had a rainfall that comes once every 35 or 40 years, and we aren't really geared for that type of rainfall," said Ed Dail, executive director of the Central and South Florida Flood Control District.

The district, which manages water in 18 counties, has been under attack from state wildlife authorities and conservationists for maintaining high water levels that threaten to wipe out the dwindling herd of Everglades white-tailed deer.

Prisoners Who Seized Two Women Recaptured

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Three prisoners who seized two churchwomen and fled from jail Thursday in Cuyahoga County, Ohio, were recaptured after a 300-mile auto chase and were being held here on charges of violating the federal kidnaping law.

The prisoners were identified by Cleveland authorities as Thomas Eugene Thomas, 20, from Alabama, James Wayne Sykes, 25, of Mississippi, and David Nelson Carpenter, 19, of Cleveland.

They finally were stopped Thursday by Kentucky state police and FBI agents at a roadblock on Interstate 75 north of Georgetown and surrendered without a struggle.

The two hostages, Norena Bellaria, 62, of Parma, Ohio, and Louise Honour, 70, Fairview, Ohio were released unharmed. The women were seized as

San Antonio Jury Acquits Lawyer Of Smuggling Raps

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A federal court jury deliberated one hour and four minutes Thursday and acquitted Mike Gonzalez, a Del Rio lawyer, of smuggling charges.

His wife and mother wept with joy as the verdict was read. Gonzalez himself appeared near tears. He shook hands and exchanged warm "abrazos"—Mexican style embraces—with a crowd of friends.

"Well, of course I'm delighted," the Mexican-American lawyer said after the jury of seven men and five women found him innocent. "I think justice prevailed."

He said he will return to his law practice in Del Rio. Gonzalez, 42, is a member of the Texas advisory committee to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and a corresponding attorney for the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Educational Fund.

He was charged in the smuggling of liquor and cigarettes from Mexico and with concealing the contraband in a garage at his home in Del Rio. He was arrested Dec. 4, 1968.

Gonzalez maintained he knew nothing about any smuggling and said he never saw any of the liquor or cigarettes in his garage.

His lawyer, Warren Burnett of Odessa, Tex., delivered a dramatic plea for acquittal in closing arguments after the prosecution declared Gonzalez had committed a "white collar crime."

The government, Burnett said, "was hopelessly at a loss to tell you why on earth this man became what (the prosecution) called a 'smuggler'—why on earth this man, with everything he'd ever striven for and every object of his love hanging in the balance, became a smuggler."

Burnett sought to cast doubt on notes a witness said she had taken about activities surrounding the alleged smuggling operation. Asst. U.S. Atty. Wayne Speck asked the jury why Burnett did not ask to see those notes. "He knew what he was doing because he is a good lawyer," Speck said. "I submit she told you the truth."

Burnett and Speck were referring to Gonzalez' neighbor, Mrs. Santiago Gonzalez, who testified she saw liquor and cigarettes unloaded at Gonzalez' garage in Del Rio.

She also testified she saw Mrs. Gonzalez with a man who has pleaded guilty to smuggling at the lawyer's home in Del Rio on Nov. 26, 1968.

Mrs. Gonzalez earlier denied seeing the man, Ernesto Delgado-Cantu, on that day. She took the stand again Thursday and refused to change her testimony.

Cantu also testified he saw Mrs. Gonzalez that day while unloading contraband at the garage. Cantu and Mercedes Beltran have pleaded guilty to smuggling charges in the case and will be sentenced in June. Both are from Ciudad Acuna, across the Mexican border from Del Rio.

Gonzalez went on trial in U.S. district court Monday. Originally he was charged with conspiracy as well as smuggling, but the conspiracy count was dismissed by government lawyers after they refused to allow a customs agent to identify an informant.

Attack Commies Trying To Slip Into Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — American troops, tanks, helicopters and fighter planes attacked a North Vietnamese force that may have been trying to slip into Cambodia and killed 88 of them, military sources said today.

The sources said the size of the enemy force was not known but it put up stiff resistance in the battle Thursday, which took place in thick jungle three miles from the Cambodian frontier and about 75 miles northwest of Saigon.

Two Americans were killed and 23 wounded, the U.S. Command said.

American officers said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces have been emerging from their hideouts in increasing numbers during the past few weeks, apparently because of drastic food shortages. Last month, U.S. troops uncovered some of the biggest caches of the war in the same area, including about 30 tons of rice.

"They seem to be pretty desperate," one officer said. "The only logical place for them to go is back across the border, and that's what they may have been trying to do."

Since the overthrow of Cambodia's chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk, March 18, American forces have been instructed to take special precautions against venturing too close to the border.

Thursday's fighting erupted when elements of the 1st Air Cavalry Division ran into part of the enemy force during a sweep. As the shooting escalated, the North Vietnamese opened up with rockets and machine-gun fire. The Americans countered with air and more artillery strikes.

Five more North Vietnamese soldiers were killed in the same area today, officers said. No American casualties were reported.

In the air war, the U.S. Command reported today that a number of bombs dropped during a B52 raid near the Cambodian border in the Mekong delta missed their target and 12 South Vietnamese civilians were wounded, three seriously. An investigation is under way, military authorities said.

The command also disclosed the loss of the 12th American aircraft over Laos since March 10 when American headquarters in Saigon began reporting air losses across the border.

Military spokesmen said an Air Force A1 was hit by enemy ground fire while on a combat mission over Laos, crashed across the border in Thailand and was destroyed. The pilot was rescued, but suffered slight injuries, the spokesmen said.

Lutherans Attend Meet

Two men from Big Spring will be attending the 43rd convention of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod's Texas District in Houston March 30-April 2.

The men are the Rev. William Roth and lay delegate Walter Pachall, St. Paul Lutheran Church.

The four-day convention will act on a proposal to join the Texas jurisdictions of two other Lutheran bodies, The American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church in America, in forming a "Lutheran Social Service of Texas" as a common agency for operating homes for the aged, caring for unwed mothers, placing children for adoption and providing Lutheran chaplains for hospitals.

Dr. William H. Kohn of St. Louis, executive secretary of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod's Board of Missions, will deliver a three-part convention essay titled: "The Word in Mission Till the End."

Field Director For CROP Named

The Rev. L. Dwight Lindsley has been named CROP Field Director in Texas, effective March 31.

CROP Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service in Texas is a general department of the Texas Conference of Churches.

A native Texan, the Rev. Lindsley is a graduate of Texas Christian University at Britt Divinity School. An ordained minister of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), he received his masters degree in theology (1966) from Yale University.

As field director for CROP, Rev. Lindsley will be responsible for organizing community canvasses to secure commodities and funds for self-help and emergency feeding programs in more than 30 counties.

Mission Board Is Seeking Volunteers For Overseas

Deaconesses and home missionaries are being sought for service under the National Division of the United Methodist Board of Missions. Career and special-term workers also are needed. Overseas missionaries, for both regular and special-term assignments, are needed for service under the World Division. The Board's Office of Missionary Personnel (475 Riverside Drive, New York, New York 10027) put its call for new mission workers in this context: "The Board of Missions facilitates mission involvement for the church. It actively enlists for missionary and deaconess service persons who are pioneers, experimenters, catalysts, enablers in mission. These workers do not do the mission for the church; they have a special function in the church's mission.

In 1970, as in past years, the core of missionaries and deaconesses needed consists of those who will commit themselves to "regular" or career service. There are also openings for "3s" and "U.S.-2s," young persons who go for three years' service overseas or two years' service in the United States.

A related category for which personnel are sought by the Board is the Kingley Plan teachers in Sierra Leone — teachers in church-sponsored secondary schools who work on a three-year contract under which financial responsibility is borne by the Sierra Leone government.

Methodists Eye Larger Districts

Two reform proposals with far reaching effects will be discussed by Methodists at the Special Session of the Northwest Texas Annual Conference called by Bishop Alsie H. Carleton for April 4 at the First United Methodist Church, Lubbock.

Churchmen will hear reports from two important groups: the Special Study Committee on the Ministry and the Special Study Committee on the Annual Conference. The minister and a lay delegate from each church will be attending the meeting, according to Dr. Hubert Bratcher, supervisor for the Big Spring District.

Attending from Big Spring will be Rev. Caleb Hildebrand and Jerry Allen, Wesley Methodist; Rev. James Useton and Charles Tyra, Kentwood Methodist; Rev. Elra Phillips, George Colvin and Marshall Brown, alternate, North Birdwell Lane Methodist; and Rev. Leo Gee and K. H. McGibbon, First Methodist.

The second of the two groups will present a plan whereby the eight districts of the Northwest Texas Conference will be reorganized. The committee will recommend the conference be reshaped into five districts. By eliminating the need for three district centers, this reshaping of the conference would allow resources for better office organization for the remaining five districts.

The committee will also offer alternate plans for organizing the conference into six and seven districts.

The group studying the conference ministry will recommend actions aimed to raise morale and qualifications of pastors in the conference. In order to raise morale, the conference would raise the minimum salary standard for ministers as well as guaranteeing them time off for such things as study and yearly vacation.

On the other hand, Methodist ministers would be asked to participate in seminars, Pastor's School and a comprehensive program of continuing education.

Hungry Cleaners

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — An Anglican church in suburban Dunkeld decided to commemorate Shrove Tuesday with a traditional pancake race. The previous night, women of the parish stayed up late baking dozens of pancakes to be flipped up and down in pans held by competitors. Next morning, the pancakes were gone — church cleaners ate them all.

Johnny Ted Fowler and Dean Richters were the only members of Cochoma's 1969 football team who won four varsity letters in high school.

Fowler, who scored 16 touchdowns his senior year, is a second generation Coahoman but his parents now reside in Monahans.

One-time San Diego Charger football coach Sid Gillman will conduct a football clinic at the University of California at Irvine next summer and he says his only hope is that he doesn't start a campus riot.

One big league scout took a look at the Los Angeles Dodgers' youthful infield recently and muttered to someone nearby: "I'd give $3 million for that combination."

WITHOUT REACHING VERDICT IN SCAMARDO TRIAL
Jurors Knock Off For Easter Recess

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — Jurors in the murder for hire trial of Pete Thomas Scamardo of Hearne deliberated for two hours and 20 minutes Thursday before starting a long holiday weekend.

Dist. Judge J. R. Alamia recessed the jury at 5:35 p.m. after Scamardo, being tried as an accomplice in the 1968 shooting death of Sam DeGelia Jr., said he had no objection.

Dist. Atty. Oscar McInnis, who is seeking the death penalty, also voiced no objection.

STINGING ATTACK

The indictment against Scamardo alleges he offered Charles Harrelson of Houston $2,000 to kill his former business partner and longtime friend.

McInnis closed out the state's final arguments with a soft-spoken plea for a guilty verdict in sharp contrast to the stinging verbal attack launched by Foreman.

"Mr. Foreman is not on trial here. His record speaks for itself. His reputation is already made," McInnis said.

"His technique is to try everyone but the defendant and to keep the spotlight off the man on trial," McInnis said.

McInnis answered the charge by Foreman and Scamardo that the defendant had been framed by saying "if there was any deck stacking, he (Scamardo) did it himself."

'GINGER' GIGGED

The district attorney also called Foreman's strong attack against Mrs. Virginia "Ginger" Degelia, the victim's widow, "not very gentlemanly" and said it was "uncalled for."

"We are going to have the kind of law enforcement in Hidalgo county you want to have," McInnis told the six men and six women on the jury.

McInnis produced a picture of the victim and asked the jurors to look at it once in a while during their deliberations.

"He was a fine looking fellow who had everything to live for. He had his life cut short by the illegal acts of this fellow," McInnis said.

"It was nothing more than an execution. Mr. Foreman talked about Good Friday and the crucifixion of Christ. Sam wasn't crucified, but he was executed in just as brutal a manner," McInnis said.

'MAID OF MANY'

Foreman's closing argument contained a blistering verbal attack on key state witnesses, the Texas Rangers, the victim's parents and his widow.

Speaking of Jerry Watkins, a former convict from Houston originally charged with murder in the Degelia slaying, Foreman said Watkins had lied on the witness stand to buy his freedom. Foreman pointed out that McInnis dismissed the indictment against Watkins three days before the trial got underway Jan. 26. Watkins testified that he was with Harrelson at the time of the slaying and that Harrelson told him Scamardo had hired the killing.

Foreman called Sandra Sue Attaway, the former girl friend of Harrelson, "the maid of many men and many names." He later called her a "slitch," explaining that meant she was "half slut and half bitch."

Miss Attaway had testified that Harrelson told her he killed Degelia so Scamardo could collect on a $25,000 life insurance policy.

'A CERTIFIED LIAR'

The defense lawyer called B. H. Musser, a Houston polygraph examiner, "a certified liar." Musser had testified that Scamardo confessed his implication in the murder to him Sept. 13, 1968.

He said Mrs. Degelia "may have been not as careful with morals as a schoolgirl as she should have been."

Foreman also said "there would have been more men in her life than Sandra Sue Attaway if she had not married Sam Degelia Jr."

The defense had contended that Mrs. Degelia and Pete Anthony Trentacost, a cousin of the victim, had engineered the killing because of a love affair. Foreman called Trentacost, now employed as a real estate salesman at Austin "a he-whore."

Foreman called the victim's father "a snarling, biting, hating man."

LITTLE BOYS

"I'd sure hate to meet him on a dark night and if I did I'd expect him to have a knife between his teeth," Foreman said.

"Some of these days you will read that Pete Thomas Scamardo has been found dead. He's going to get the death penalty—not from this jury—but from that Sicilian out there," Foreman said pointing to Mr. Degelia.

Foreman called Texas Ranger T. H. Dawson, chief investigator of the Degelia slaying, "a haphazard, careless, slipshod officer who did not know what he was doing."

Foreman characterized the Texas Rangers as "little boys that never grew up."

Eight Cops, Photographer Hurt In St. Louis Clash

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Eight policemen and a photographer were injured and nine students were arrested early today when officers clashed with about 200 rioters who boarded up windows and doors of an ROTC building at Washington University.

Supt. Robert DiGrazia of St. Louis County police said three officers were felled by a chemical irritant sprayed on them by students. The other officers and photographer Larry Williams of the Post-Dispatch were injured by bricks and bottles.

One student suffered a minor injury.

About 75 policemen went to the campus.

DiGrazia said the students used boards and nails from an Army ROTC building destroyed by fire Feb. 23 to board up the ROTC building. It had been the target of demonstrations for a week.

"We advised them that they were unlawfully assembled and advised them to disperse," DiGrazia said. A judge issued an order Tuesday against disruptive activities.

"As they began to disperse, they started pelting the officers with rocks, bottles and the hammers they used to nail boards to the ROTC building," the police head said.

The university has an enrollment of about 10,000, of whom about 300 have been demonstrating this week against military training.

There had been previous protests at the private university over the past two years, but in a referendum last year a majority of students voted to retain ROTC without academic credits.
