
BUCKING THE ELEMENTS — Jose Hernandez struggles to push a baby carriage through the snow this morning on Chicago's north side. He uses the buggy to deliver morning newspapers. A new spring storm that started yesterday belted Chicago with an additional eight inches of snow which boosted the city's season total to a record.

Airliner Is Sitting On Seoul Runway

SEOUL (AP) — A hijacked Japanese jetliner with 100 hostages aboard sat on the runway at Seoul's airport for the third day today, and South Korea's defense minister told the 15 hijackers that his patience was wearing thin.

"You set free the passengers, then we will allow you to fly out," said Defense Minister Chung Nae-hyuk over the plane's radio. "Unless you agree to do so, I won't talk to you any longer."

"You should realize that you are on Korean territory, not in Japan," he added.

Silence followed for a while. Then the young hijackers said they wanted to see Japanese Embassy officials and correspondents to present their views. South Korean and Japanese officials in the control tower did not respond.

The hijackers say they want to go to North Korea, and the North Koreans say the Boeing 727 jet can land in Pyongyang and the passengers and crew will be returned to Japan immediately. But the South Korean government is still trying to get the passengers off, while the hijackers are reported afraid that the South Korean air force will shoot down the plane if the passengers are not aboard.

Two American men are among the passengers; the rest are Japanese.

Fifteen Japanese students belonging to a pro-Peking wing of the militant Zengakuren student organization commandeered the Japan Air Lines Boeing 727 Monday afternoon on a flight from Tokyo to Fukuoka, in southwestern Japan. They demanded to go to Pyongyang, the capital of Communist North Korea.

The plane refueled at Fukuoka, made an unsuccessful attempt to enter North Korean airspace, and landed at Seoul.

Elaborate attempts to convince the students they were in Pyongyang failed, and the situation has been deadlocked ever since.

The pilot, Shinji Ishida, told officials by radio today that the passengers had not eaten or slept well and that he feared the atmosphere inside the plane was detrimental to their health and safety. He asked for food, cigarettes, water and other provisions, which were handed in through a cockpit window. Some passengers could be seen inside eating the food.

The plane had been sitting with one wheel bogged down in mud beside the runway after it landed but it was towed 400 yards toward a takeoff runway today. Officials said the pilot had told them the supports might be damaged if the plane sat in a tilted position too long.

French Cops Launch Hunt For Gunmen

VILLEFRANCHE - SURMER, France (AP) — French police launched a sweeping search today for four gunmen who held two tourists hostage in a luxurious hotel for almost 20 hours. The gunmen were allowed to leave the Hotel Versailles early today with one hostage who was later released.

Descriptions of the four fugitives, including two convicted holdup men who escaped from a mental hospital six weeks ago, were flashed to police stations throughout southern France.

Police are treating the affair as a matter of honor, since they felt frustrated Wednesday by actions of the four men holding them at bay.

The trouble began when an employe at the hotel on the Riviera spotted a gun in the luggage of the foursome and notified police. The quartet grabbed Jacques Lespagnon, a 57-year-old Frenchman, German Hans Nitsche, 73, and their wives before holing up in their room and beginning their lengthy negotiations with police.

Mrs. Nitsche was shot when she tried to run away and was released so she could be taken to a hospital where she was to be operated on today.

Lespagnon telephoned the hotel this morning and said he was "safe and sound."

Okies Given Law Lesson

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma's turned down a constitutional revision plan March 17 that had been approved for almost two decades, it was learned Wednesday.

The proposal, to allow amendment of more than one article at a time if the subject is the same, was approved by Oklahoma voters in 1952, but was left out of the constitution by printer's error.

Officials say the West Publishing Co., of St. Paul, Minn., substituted the wrong paragraph in the Constitution after voters had approved the change by a margin of almost 2-1.

When the issue was resubmitted this year, voters defeated it 176,237 to 87,358.

There is a question now whether the state can go ahead with the original approval of the voters or whether an attorney general's opinion or a court opinion is needed.

Jack Rhodes, legislative council director, caught the error and made the correction in 1969. Rep. Larry Derryberry, D-Altus, chairman of the interim constitutional revision study committee, said "I'm of the opinion it solves the problem."

But, Derryberry and Rhodes agreed an opinion from the attorney general or the courts is needed to clarify the situation.

There were indications, however, that some legislators want to go ahead with the article-by-article method and test the provision.

MUTILATION Accuse Ex-Con In Mystery Slaying

DALLAS (AP) — Authorities charged an ex-convict with murder Wednesday in the mutilation slaying of Mrs. Earl Crossland last week in suburban Richardson.

The complaint accuses Kenneth L. Patterson, 43, of Dallas of "cutting and stabbing her with a knife." He was held in the Richardson jail overnight.

Officers disclosed no details of the basis for the charges.

The body of Mrs. Crossland, 47, a buyer for Texas Instruments, was found almost decapitated last Friday under a bridge in Richardson. She had disappeared after leaving friends at a night club.

Patterson, a 220-pound son of a former Dallas policeman, was arrested Tuesday on a federal charge of giving a false affidavit as he bought a gun. He appeared before a U.S. commissioner Wednesday, posted bond and was arrested in the murder case as he left the courtroom.

To Track 'Floaters'

Squads of picked crew leaders and census takers will fan out over this area Monday night in a special 1970 census drive to count persons who do not have a fixed address, district manager Richard R. Newton said today.

These census workers will visit missions, all-night theaters, city parks, and other places "floaters" might be found in this special effort to make sure that all residents of the area are counted. Persons who do not have a fixed address are included in the population of the place where they are enumerated.

The district manager pointed out that under census law, everyone is required to answer official census questions. The same law specifies that all information collected by census takers must be kept confidential.

Truckers Fuss Over Billions Of Dollars

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trucking and union negotiators haggled over billions of dollars in wages today while many of the 425,000 Teamsters involved in the national labor talks continued striking in dozens of cities.

"There are indications of good progress," said a source in the negotiations that dragged through Wednesday night and into the early morning before recessing in the second day of the nation's biggest trucking strike in history.

While the bulk of Teamsters drivers remained on the job, chief industry negotiator Ray F. Beagle said the walkouts were massive.

His Trucking Employers Inc. group, representing some 12,000 firms, pledged, however, not to call a nationwide lockout in retaliation as it did three years ago.

The industry pledge eased pressure on President Nixon in dealing with the nation's latest labor crisis by averting—at least for now—a total trucking shutdown.

Industry sources said the difference between Teamsters demands and industry offers for a new three-year contract totaled some $3 billion.

In Kansas City, a Teamsters local official said he was informed an agreement had been reached to make any contract ultimately signed retroactive to the expiration date of the old pact—midnight last Tuesday. Kansas City drivers were returning to work on the basis of this agreement, the official said.

However, strikes of varying magnitude were reported early today in several cities over the nation, but there were no walkouts in such major centers as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and New Orleans.

Gas Ruling Due In June

AUSTIN (AP) — A ruling in Pioneer Natural Gas Co.'s request for a rate increase is expected early in June, a Railroad Commission spokesman said today.

Pioneer sells to 61 West Texas towns. It wants its "gate rate" increased from 28 cents to 35.5 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. It says gas suppliers charge 20 percent more than they did in 1962 when Pioneer got its last increase.

The transcript on lengthy hearings on the proposal was completed March 31. Pioneer and the towns have 30 days to file briefs and 20 days after that to file reply briefs.

The commission probably will issue an order about two weeks after the reply briefs are filed, the spokesman said.

The towns contended at the hearings that Pioneer overvalued its assets, which accounted for the company's claim that it is not getting enough return on its investment.

School Election Absentee Votes Vary In Area Contests

Absentee voting in Howard County and surrounding areas was varied with some school districts recording no absentee ballots at all.

The election will be Saturday for the school races. Forsan is the only city election set for that date, with no absentee ballots cast.

The Big Spring race, with five candidates seeking two positions on the Big Spring Independent School District board, had 61 absentee votes. Candidates are Ted Ferrell, Delnor Poss, Roy Watkins, Ray Thomas and Mrs. Mary Thomas. Watkins is the only incumbent seeking re-election.

In the Howard County Junior College election, two incumbents seeking re-election are the only candidates, and 50 ballots were cast. The candidates are Dr. P. W. Malone and J. A. Coffey.

Absentee ballots in the county school board election to elect 50 trustees-at-large; 13 for precinct 3, and 10 for precinct 4. Candidates are Bill Johnson, trustee-at-large; Hayes Stripling, precinct 3; and R. L. Heith, precinct 4.

In Coahoma, three incumbents are facing opposition from six challengers, but only three absentee ballots were cast. Candidates are Dennis Greenfield, Earnest Richters, Hezlie Read Jr., Ted Thomas, Donald Allen, O. D. O'Daniel Jr., Jack Taylor, Clovis Phinney Jr. and Donald Webb. Read, O'Daniel and Webb are the incumbents.

Only four absentee ballots were cast in the Forsan school election where two three-year terms and one year left on an unexpired term are up for election. Candidates for the three-year terms are Mrs. A. D. Barton, Jimmy C. Shoults, D. R. Bates, Burl D. Griffith, Bill G. Mims, T. J. Walls and Ross J. Callahan. Candidates for the one-year term are Leon Ward, L. V. Lane and Garner Thixton.

In Colorado City, 15 absentee ballots were marked in an election in which two incumbents face challenger Willis Taylor for the two three-year terms. Incumbents are A. K. McCarley Jr. and Ed Thrift.

The largest number of absentee votes in this area were cast in Lamesa, where 153 persons voted absentee in the election to fill three three-year terms. Candidates are David Hughes, the only incumbent seeking election; David Smiley, Victor Sorola and George Norman Jr.

Stanton had 12 absentee ballots in an election in which three incumbents, Jack Ireton, Owen Kelly and Wesley Williams Jr., face opposition from Roy Lee Barnhill, Tommy Hursh and Kenneth Holcomb for the three three-year terms.

Only nine absentee votes were cast in the Sands School race in Ackerly in which seven men are seeking three places. Derwood Blagrove, the only incumbent, faces Woody Long, Bobby Bayes, Gale Batson, Glenn Neil, G. W. Martin and Howard Armstrong.

No absentee ballots were recorded in the Dawson and Mitchell counties school races which are unopposed. On the Mitchell County School board, incumbents Charles C. Thompson, trustee-at-large, and J. M. Templeton, precinct 4 at Loraine, are both seeking re-election to three-year terms. In Dawson County incumbents T. R. Holley, precinct 3, and J. D. Smith, precinct 4, are seeking re-election unchanged.

Flower Grove, Grady and Westbrook recorded no absentee ballots in their elections.

In Grady, three candidates, Myrl Mitchell, Sammy Yates and G. D. Sawyer, are seeking the two places on the board, with neither incumbent seeking re-election.

Flower Grove has four candidates for the three terms to be filled Saturday, with only two incumbents seeking re-election. Incumbents Jimmy Heald and Opal Langston face Darrell three seats.

Froman and Jerry Webb for the Westbrook school race has no opposition, with James W. Dorn and Jerry Webb seeking the two three-year terms to be filled this year.

'A Little Disappointed' With Courtroom Victory

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — Hidalgo County Dist. Atty. Oscar McNinnis tasted courtroom victory in the sensational Scamardo trial, but wound up being "a little disappointed" by the punishment meted out by a jury.

McNinnis obtained a conviction for Pete Thomas Scamardo, 31, of Hearne, who was found guilty of being an accomplice in the 1968 shooting death near McAllen of Sam Degelia Jr., his former business partner and longtime friend.

But, the sweet taste of victory for McNinnis apparently turned somewhat bitter when the jury deliberated an hour and 20 minutes before giving Scamardo a seven-year probation term. McNinnis had sought the death penalty.

REPUTATION
In convicting Scamardo, McNinnis defeated formidable legal opponents in the form of one of Texas' most famous criminal lawyers and one of the most prominent young lawyers in South Texas. Scamardo was defended by Percy Foreman of Houston and Thomas G. Sharpe Jr. of Brownsville.

Both McNinnis and Foreman had praise for each other. McNinnis said of Foreman "he is ingenious. He has earned his reputation and if he can get a guy off with seven years probation you can't hardly run him down any."

But, McNinnis was quick to state that confronting Foreman in the courtroom "was no different from any other lawyer." Foreman called McNinnis "a fair, fine man who is a good prosecutor."

TALL AND LEAN
McNinnis is tall and lean and speaks most of the time in a slow, low pronounced southeast Texas drawl. He is a graduate of St. Mary's University Law School. For some six and a half years he served as a U.S. Border Patrol officer in the Lower Rio Grande Valley before he attended law school.

McNinnis was born in what he calls "brush country" some 15 miles from Sillsbee in deep southeast Texas.

Courtroom victories are not uncommon for McNinnis who estimates that he has obtained convictions in about 95 per cent of the felony cases he has brought to trial since he was elected as district attorney and took office Jan. 1, 1967. He is running for re-election this year without an opponent.

Statistics released earlier this year show that of 510 felony cases he has prosecuted, 237 defendants were sent to prison and many others were given probation terms. He has had only one felony conviction reversed in a higher court.

WELL KNOWN
Foreman's record is well known. In all the many years of his practice as a defense lawyer he has lost only one client to the death penalty.

"I consider seven years probation wholly inadequate," McNinnis said after the jury of six men and six women handed down that punishment for Scamardo at the end of a trial that took two months and five days to complete.

"I don't know what goes through jurors' minds when they give a probation sentence to a guy who hired the killing of his lifelong friend," McNinnis continued.

Looking back on the lengthy Scamardo trial, McNinnis made these observations:

"I think the jury should have been locked up, but I didn't think that way at all at the first of the trial." The jurors were allowed to go home each night and were given a long Easter holiday weekend.

"I still think as a whole they (the jury) were a pretty good group."

Heavy Snow Adds To Air Travel Woes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air traffic remained crippled today as union and government officials disagreed whether air controllers were returning in significant numbers to their control towers and radar scopes. A heavy spring snowstorm in the Midwest added to air travel woes caused by the sick leave campaign of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization—PATCO.

F. Lee Bailey, PATCO's executive director, was called into court today to explain why he

Two Are Taken To State Prison

Howard County sheriff's officers have transferred two inmates to the penitentiary in Huntsville and received a third man from the prison.

Ismael Valdez, 603 NW 5th, who was convicted Dec. 5, 1968, of assault with intent to murder, was transferred to the Huntsville prison last month after his appeal was denied. Valdez has been returned to Big Spring for formal sentencing by 118th District Judge R. W. Caton.

Valdez was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment as an habitual offender by a Howard County jury. He was charged with attempted murder of Frank Maholly Jr. Nov. 12, 1967.

The two transferred to Huntsville were Henry Otis Washington, 23, 402 NW 9th, under a 12-year sentence for burglary, and Roosevelt Benford, 36, 2708 Commerce, San Antonio, under a four-year sentence for theft.

Surprise Well-Wisher

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Senatorial candidate Lloyd Bentsen, smiling over new encouragement from two important congressmen, took his smoothly organized campaign to Tyler today.

The 49-year-old Democrat ended a Wednesday visit to Waco with a late afternoon talk to about 75 applauding supporters.

A surprise well-wisher at the Waco rally was Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., of the Central Texas area that has consistently given big vote margins to Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., a candidate for reelection.

Bentsen and his aides also are still very pleased over the Tuesday night turnout of Mexican-American leaders in San Antonio including a personal visit from Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex.

Bentsen continues his announced effort to swing the Mexican-American vote with a talk tonight in Houston to the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) at a "Meet Your Next Senator" rally.

At the Waco rally, Bentsen claimed that Yarborough's absentee record of missing 25 per cent the roll call votes was "absolutely inexcusable."

Schools Get Grant For Low Income Families

In a telegram Wednesday to The Herald, Congressman Omar Burleson said a $112,094.11 Office of Education grant has been approved for 755 Howard County children in low income families under the Elementary Secondary Education Act.

Keith Swim, director of federal programs of the Big Spring Independent School District, said he is not sure what the figures mean, but he thinks this might be the total of funds to the county under the act.

This means the additional funds will not be as large as might be expected from this appropriation, because Big Spring Independent School District has already received initial grants totaling $88,490.

Swim said the money allocated to Howard County will be divided between Big Spring, Coahoma and Forsan school districts, with Big Spring getting the lion's share.

The Big Spring District has 663 students covered under this act; Coahoma has 68; and Forsan 24. Swim said the number of children between the ages of 5 and 17 estimated in low income families in Howard County are drawn from the 1960 census, but that he expects more than this number to show up in the 1970 census, now under way.

The total allocation to Big Spring last year was approximately $107,000. Swim said. He said he had expected a 15 per cent increase this year.

The money is allocated to schools located in low income areas, which in Big Spring includes Lakeview, Bauer and Cedar Crest, and provide hot lunches in those schools, Swim said. However, he said he hopes the allocation will include money for a summer program of remedial courses for students in the low income areas.

Swim said some schools do not claim their allocations, and this money is put back into the fund and distributed to participating schools. In this way, Big Spring gained an extra $35,000 grant last year for the summer program.

MORT DENTON PHARMACY

should not be cited for contempt of court concerning the walkout that started March 25. A Wednesday hearing was postponed.

PATCO members remained off the job in large numbers and the union said Wednesday its men would not return until negotiations were arranged to include a third party.

An unsigned statement issued by PATCO said, "It has become apparent in the last 24 hours that the membership of this organization is not returning to work." Bailey said Tuesday they should work unless actual-ly ill.

However, the Federal Aviation Administration issued a statement Wednesday night saying a poll of its regional offices said 378 controllers previously reported sick intended to return to work.

The PATCO statement indicated hopes for a quick settlement were slim since the government has said it will not negotiate until the men return.

PATCO claimed absenteeism Wednesday equaled that of Tuesday despite Bailey's back-to-work statement. The FAA had claimed a slight increase in the number working but not a noticeable difference.

The FAA said of the 1,739 controllers scheduled to work Wednesday's day shift 456 called in sick, down from 510 the previous day.

Night shift figures also showed improvement but absenteeism remained high, particularly in such major centers as New York where only 76 of a scheduled 153 showed up, Chicago where 65 out of 113 reported and Kansas City where 23 of 63 were on the job.

By late Wednesday evening, six inches of snow was on the ground at Chicago's O'Hare airport. United, American and TWA airlines canceled all Chicago flights during the evening hours. Braniff called off all Chi-ago operations until morning.

Before the snow stopped operations the absence of air controllers was causing flight delays up to two hours at Chicago. In the New York area two-hour delays were reported at Newark Airport, up to an hour and 34 minutes on west bound flights from Kennedy International and an hour and a half at La Guardia.

Airline industry sources suggested further flight curtailments may be in the offing. TWA and American already are down 30 per cent, and United has canceled 16 per cent of its flights nationwide.

The FAA also said military activity was "drastically curtailed." Military aircraft, though flying mostly from their own fields, rely, as do the commercial airliners, on guidance from the FAA's 21 regional control centers to guide high altitude flights between terminals.

The Justice Department is trying for injunctions against the controllers in 16 cities. Temporary restraining orders were granted in Brooklyn and Chicago Wednesday but a U.S. district court in Pittsburgh balked, the judge saying no proof of irreparable damage was presented.

Three AF Officers Retire At Webb

Three Webb AFB officers closed out their Air Force careers in retirement ceremonies at wing headquarters Tuesday afternoon. They are Lt. Col. Clifton C. Nieland, chief of base operations; Maj. William H. Maginsky, chief of base supply; and CWO John Wiklund, T-38 Talon maintenance officer.

Col. Nieland concluded an Air Force career that dated from Aug. 21, 1942. A native of Dearborn, Mich., he has spent most of his Air Force career in Texas. He plans to enter the real estate business in San Marcos. Of his four years at Webb, during which he served as base operations chief, he said, "It has been a good tour. We leave Webb with many memories, and the best wishes for our friends here."

Col. Nieland completed his pilot training under the aviation cadet program at Moore Field in Mission, in January, 1944. He was assigned as an instructor pilot in the BT-13 Vultee biplane at Majors Field at Greenville. At the end of World War II, the colonel had been assigned to a B-24 Liberator and was training a crew for duty in the European theatre of operations. He was separated from active duty in December, 1945.

During the next 5½ years, Col. Nieland was active in the reserves — continuing his flying — but used the time to complete a business degree at Corpus Christi University. He was recalled in 1951 to Randolph AFB. For three years, as a first lieutenant, he served as an instructor pilot at Craig AFB, Ala., teaching instructors in the T-6, the T-28, and the T-33.

In July, 1954, he was assigned with the first contingent to train flyers for the Japanese Air Self Defense Force. Following three years at Michigan State University as an assistant professor of air science in the ROTC program, he served at Andrews AFB, Md. First as a support officer in charge of flying support program following his promotion to major in 1962.

A two-year tour at Wiesbaden, Germany — 1964 to 1966 — immediately preceded his assignment to Webb, where he served as chief of operations for the flying support program, flying T-33s, T-39s, and T-29s. He was promoted to lieutenant colonel shortly before he returned to the United States.

THREE RETIRE — Representing 82 years of military service, three officers assigned to the 3560th Pilot Training Wing retired from active duty at Webb AFB this week. They are (from left), Lt. Col. Clifton C. Nieland, Maj. William H. Maginsky, and Chief Warrant Officer John Wiklund.

A veteran of more than 5,500 flying hours and a command pilot, the colonel has logged more than 3,300 of those hours as an instructor. He concluded 22 years of active duty — 27½ years including reserve time. He and his wife, Lou, have three sons, Jeffrey, Thomas and Andrew.

Maj. Maginsky took the post as Webb's chief of supply in September, 1969, coming here following a year's duty in a similar job at Laredo AFB. He began his service career in 1945 in the Navy. He served three years as a radar operator on aircraft carriers and sea plane tenders, then attended Syracuse University, where he received the bachelor of arts degree with a major in sociology. He then attended military academic instructor and supply officers' schools.

After a two year assignment at McCoy AFB, Fla., the major attended base communications officers school at Scott AFB, Ill. Combining the knowledge of both schools in his next job, the major served between 1955 and 1958 as unit supply officer and base communications maintenance officer at Wethersfield AB, England. Maj. Maginsky held various supply positions at Forbes AFB, Kan., then went back overseas to serve as supply and equipment management officer at Phalsbourg AB, France.

Returning to the United States in 1965, the major was supply inspector at the Aeronautical Chart Information Center in St. Louis, Mo. Leaving that post, the retiring supply chief served a one-year tour as chief of the support division at Vung Tau Army Field, Vietnam. His assignment back in the states was to Laredo.

Music Auditions Set Saturday

Auditions will be held from 9 a.m. until noon Saturday in the Howard County Junior College music building for persons interested in instrumental music, vocal music and keyboard. John Stanley, director of the music department, said these auditions are not limited to music majors or minors, but are open to anyone who likes to play or sing. Students who qualify are eligible for scholarships next year.

State To Auction Surplus Property

AUSTIN — Homer A. Foerster, executive director of the State Board of Control, announced today that the State's first public auction of surplus property would be held Saturday, April 25, in Austin's City Coliseum.

Items to be sold at auction include 106 cars from the Department of Public Safety and 12 cars and 10 pickup trucks from the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Other items include outboard motors, two-way radios, office equipment and draperies and a rug formerly in the governor's office.

Craig Drake, Pack 100 had the top ticket sales for the district. Exposition patches were given to Tony Lane, Brent Overman, Scott Hughes, Wesley Hutchings, William King, Robert Slater, Steve Culpepper, Mike Brooks, John Stanley, Bill Little, Derek Horton, Clint Hyer, Dan Robinson, Steve Fetters, Randy McNallen, Ricky McDaniel, Steven Nobles, Tom Purcell, Barry Williams, Scott Emerson, Chris Wooten, Steve Tipton, Danny Richards and Kent Price.

For the next pack meeting April 18, the Cub Scouts will meet at the Monahans Sand Hills for a wiener roast and kite derby.

Both Discharges Are Acceptable

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson said today that misunderstanding about the differences between "honorable" and "general" discharge certify dates are causing some veterans unjustified difficulties.

"Actually, both types of separation are completely acceptable for veterans benefits," Johnson explained. The general discharge always has the qualifying phrase "under honorable conditions" because this type of separation is issued as evidence of honorable service. The VA chief said some ex-servicemen have reported trouble obtaining employment after showing potential employers their general discharge certificates.

Deputies Check Two Burglaries

Two burglaries were investigated Wednesday by Howard County sheriff's officers and in one instance nothing was reported missing.

Sheriff A. N. Standard said the County Lounge, SH 350, was entered through a rear door, and approximately $10 in change was taken from the cigarette machine, the change machine and the billiard machine. Standard said also missing was two cases of beer and $5 worth of meat, as well as packages of gum, candy and other miscellaneous items.

A burglary was reported at the Bethel Baptist Church one mile north of the Luther post office, but nothing was reported missing, Standard said. An attempt had been made to force the front door of the church, but entry was eventually gained through a window on the northeast side of the building.

Protecting Sanctity Of Courts

The Supreme Court, in an unanimous decision, has upheld the right of judges to have unruly defendants forcibly removed, or to order the binding and gagging of defendants who make it impossible to conduct judicial proceedings in an orderly, decorous manner. The court also upheld the right of judges to levy contempt fines in addition to the physical restraints.

"It would degrade our country and our judicial system to permit our courts to be bullied, insulted and humiliated and their orderly progress thwarted and obstructed by defen-

A Good And Happy Choice

The selection of Alvin R. Leudecke as acting president of Texas A&M University is one that should be well-received in all quarters, and particularly in West Texas.

A native of Eldorado, he has a background in agriculture and a feeling for the A&M heritage because he is a graduate of that school. He has distinguished himself as a major general, served as a member of the atomic energy commission, also with the jet propulsion laboratories. These two have given him a rich experience in nuclear and space fields, and his work in A&M in recent years has put him in the basic and specialized research.

Thus, Gen Leudecke brings to his new assignment a great wealth of experience in the academic, the agricultural, the scientific — plus a demonstrated skill in administration. There could hardly have been a better or happier choice.

David Lawrence When A Law Is Broken—

WASHINGTON — Tens of thousands of employees of the U.S. Post Office Department and numerous federal workers engaged in air-traffic control at the nation's airports have violated statutes forbidding strikes. Will their action in breaking the law be disregarded by the government?

The statute known as Title V, Section 7311 of the U.S. Code, says:

"AN INDIVIDUAL may not accept or hold a position in the government of the United States or the government of the District of Columbia if he . . . participates in a strike, or asserts the right to strike, against the government of the United States or the government of the District of Columbia; or

"Is a member of an organization of employees of the government of the United States or of individuals employed by the government of the District of Columbia that he knows asserts the right to strike against the government of the United States or the government of the District of Columbia."

THE SAME U.S. Code declares that whoever violates this provision "shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year and a day, or both."

The federal government has thus far not taken any action with respect to those employees who have joined a union which "asserts the right to strike against the government of the United States." Now, however, thousands of members have actually gone on strike, and the question is what means the government shall use to apply punishment in every case where the law has been violated.

IT IS QUITE possible, of course, that many workers will say that they were not aware that a law violation was involved. But each individual who accepts employment with the federal government is required to sign an affidavit that he or she will not violate the above-quoted statute, which includes a specific prohibition against participation in a strike.

Naturally, the employees of the Post Office Department have thought that, when so many were involved, there would be no penalty because it would be difficult to impose this on such a large group.

IT MAY BE that prosecution of labor leaders will ensue. Inasmuch as relatively small fines are involved, such action would be received with less objection than if the members were fined. Plainly, however, the government has not provided an effective means of forestalling strikes merely by passing a law threatening the loss of jobs or punishment by means of imprisonment or fines.

When the Department of Justice, which is the prosecuting arm of the government, completely ignores flagrant violations of one set of federal laws by a large number of citizens, will citizens generally feel an obligation to obey other statutes? Indifference to law has been growing throughout the nation, and if palpable violations are overlooked by the government itself, there will be a strong feeling that what laws are enforced is based on political expediency.

MANY OF THE federal workers are conscious of their guilt in violating the statutes, and some of the leaders of the postal unions are asking that the final settlement of the strike include an amnesty provision immunizing from punishment all persons who have violated the law. If this is done, little respect will be given in the future to the existing law forbidding strikes by federal employees.

Billy Graham

I abhor ministers like you who use fear tactics to frighten people into having faith. I heard you preach a sermon on "Sin" some time ago, and it reminded me of some of the old hell-fire sermons I heard years ago. I thought we had advanced beyond that. I am disappointed in you. A. R. I have never used fear as a gimmick or tactic. I do, however, quote Scriptures which emphasize the fact that "The wages of sin is death," and "The way of the transgressor is hard," and I heartily concur with these Biblical truths.

Let's take just one aspect of the subject of "sin" which subject you seem to find revolting. Your government hires 800 epidemiologists who scour our nation for the 1,200,000 Americans who walk our streets with active syphilis and are not aware of it. The Surgeon General reports that there are 1,500 new cases of venereal disease each day in the United States. The American Medical Association has reported that syphilis is now of epidemic proportions in many sections of the U.S.

Now, would you say that it is revolting and wrong to talk or warn people about the danger of venereal disease? Christian compassion requires one to do so!

The old-fashioned preacher used to preach against cigarettes, and many laughed him to scorn. Today, we know that cigarette smoking is a contributor to many diseases including lung cancer. It is, the doctors, not the ministers, who warn people against the excessive use of tobacco. The right kind of fear is a deterrent to sin and crime. God warned the people of coming judgment because He loved them, not because He wanted to frighten them into being religious.

One Way To Mail Letters

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — German sailors on a long sea voyage sealed their mail into a barrel and tossed it overboard, hoping it would reach its destination before they arrived home in Hamburg.

They were lucky. Seven days later, a couple out for a walk spotted the red painted barrel, flying a large pennant marked "mail," on one of Cape Town's beaches. In a box inside the barrel they found the letters, two bottles of spirits, five United States dollars and a note.

The note was headed "The German ship M. B. Bavaria, at sea October 11, 1969." It explained that the ship was on a three-week non-stop voyage from Hong Kong to Hamburg during which its crew would be unable to mail letters to relatives in the normal way. "Please do us the favor and deliver the enclosed mail to the next post office," the note said. "And make yourself a happy day with the good spirits in this container."

The mail was posted but the couple kept quiet about what happened to the spirits.

Hal Boyle You're Still Young If . . .

NEW YORK (AP) — No matter how old you are, you're still young if—

Your life insurance agent remembers to send you a card on your birthday.

Most of the girls in the office where you work call you by your first name, and at least three of them mail you a Valentine anonymously every February 14.

You feel you could still learn to ski if you really wanted to.

Sometime in the last five years you have tried to write a poem or a song lyric.

At least once a month your wife flatters you by closing her eyes when you kiss her goodbye in the morning.

You are no heavier now than you were 10 years ago, and you still wear the same size shoes and shirts.

In good light on a clear day you can look up a number in the telephone directory without having to light a match or reach for a pair of bifocals.

It doesn't drive you altogether out of your mind if a fellow worker hums as he walks by your desk on a Monday morning.

For every bad habit you've given up, you have two left that you still enjoy.

Your doctor hasn't yet decided what disease you'll probably die of.

Every once in a while you surprise your oldest son by bending his knuckles to the table in a game of Indian hand wrestling.

At least once a month you prefer going out to play poker with the boys than staying home and playing bridge with your wife's friends.

You walk toward rather than away from a strange blonde at a cocktail party.

When somebody tells you how well you look, you take it as a compliment and don't start brooding about what he really meant.

You know at least one dance step that your father didn't and in a pinch you can name at least two songs popularized by the Beatles.

Sometimes you can go through a whole day without wishing that you could take your shoes off and rest your feet.

Now and then you hear a joke that you haven't heard before.

When eating in a Chinese restaurant, you aren't afraid to try a dish other than chicken chow mein, chop suey, or egg foo young.

You get more exercise going bowling or playing tennis or golf than you do by going to the funeral of a friend.

At least three guys in your firm fret in fear that you may get their jobs.

You'd rather acquire new memories than recall old ones.

You're still concerned—you give a great big damn—about what's happening in this pesky world.

John Cunniff Pain In Supercities

NEW YORK (AP) — If man has not learned how to solve urban problems as they exist today what is he going to do tomorrow when most of the nation's population growth is expected to occur in just 50 metropolitan areas?

A look into the future shows supercities, in terms of size but not necessarily of quality, appearing all over the map of America. Urbanologists foresee supercities also unless miracles of planning and management are evolved in the meantime.

A report by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, developed during the 1960s, envisions not only a continuation of the migration from farm to city, but a big increase in the number of cities attaining a population of at least one million people.

In 1900, the nation was 40 per cent urban and 60 per cent rural. By 1960 70 per cent of the population was in urban areas, only 30 per cent rural. But that trend really doesn't tell the story of the future.

Urban areas, as defined by the Census Bureau, include towns of 2,500 population, an almost meaningless statistic when related to the size of cities of the future.

Less than 30 metropolitan areas now have one million residents. By the year 2000, the report states, the number will be more than 50. This means that if population concentration is dense now it will be crushing in 2000.

In that year the population is projected at 340 million, with 165 million living in large metropolitan areas, 100 million in other towns and cities, and 75 million in rural areas.

If such projections are borne out, the problems of today may seem small by comparison.

Racial tensions, crime, dope, neurosis, power shortages, transportation breakdowns, air-water-noise pollution, poor housing, inferior education, inadequate recreation facilities, high taxes, welfare chaos.

If such problems escape solution today, what assurance is there that they can be resolved in the future when greater masses of people will be involved?

The prospect is not a bright one, and many groups concerned with the nation's future, including some from business, are asking why it should be permitted.

Suggestions vary, but one plan that has produced much interest if not total respect calls for encouraging industry to settle in less crowded areas and be the magnet for emigration from the cities.

Proponents claim that the present move to the cities is, after all, motivated by the desire for a better life. Too often, however, that quest leads only to frustration, despair and eventually to antisocial behavior.

To Your Good Health Son Wants To Look Like Relative

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.
 Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son's face was slightly scarred in an accident a few years ago and we are thinking about plastic surgery. My son says he would like to look like a relative of ours. They have the same basic head shape and their face structures are somewhat alike.

The surgery would have to be done around the lips, chin, and possibly the nose. I would like to know what an operation of this sort would cost and if it is possible for our son to be made to look like this relative. The boy is 29 now. I have heard that these operations have been performed successfully in prisons.—Mrs. P.S.G.

If the scarring from the accident (which you say is "slight") is worth correcting surgically, have your regular doctor refer you to a plastic surgeon who can give you an informed estimate of the cost, and let it go at that.

Talk to the plastic surgeon if you wish about trying to make your son look like that relative — but don't be surprised if the surgeon opposes the idea or refuses to try it. Certainly my advice is to give up that part of the plan entirely.

Plastic surgery is capable of some remarkable achievements, but you are asking entirely too much. Scars can be removed. Noses can be bobbed or built up. Chins can be, too. Shattered faces can be restored. But making one person look like another, or turning a plain face into a beautiful one, is beyond the scope.

As a matter of fact, some patients build up in their own minds such fanciful notions of what plastic surgery will do for them that they are disappointed after a perfectly excellent job has been done. They expected to have their looks enhanced beyond reason.

You talk of surgery on the lips, chin, and possibly the nose. That sounds to me like three operations (not counting repair of the original scarring).

Which can be expensive. You may also be disappointed in the final result, because shaping a face is one thing; giving the patient the mannerisms and facial expressions of somebody else is quite another.

As to surgery in prisons, that is done occasionally when a prisoner's facial appearance is such that it repels people, and makes it impossible for the man to earn a decent living. Restoring a reasonably normal appearance is all that is sought. There is no attempt to make him resemble some other person in particular.

Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, or if you have children who are, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of his helpful and comforting booklet, "Acne — The Teen-Age Problem." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim Important Decisions

Two important dates are around the corner, the results of which will significantly affect all residents of the City of Big Spring and the Big Spring Independent School District.

VOTERS WILL elect two members to the seven member board of trustees, and three members to the five member city commission. In the latter case, it is a majority of the voting strength of this policy-making body.

In both elections, the voters have clear-cut choices among the candidates, who are offering different points of view toward these volunteer jobs. In the Saturday school voting, five candidates seek the two seats, and the Tuesday city balloting, a record number of 13 are offering for the three seats.

SOME OF THOSE close to the election scene say that 400 votes will elect a trustee and about 500 will elect a city commissioner. If so, the apathy of you and me is deplorable.

The balloting places in both cases should be packed on election day, for the immediate future of both public agencies will be decided largely by the final counts. The volunteers who serve on these two boards are, after all, the policymakers who decide, then help guide, the kind of school system and city government we will have. With this goal, they approve a budget, and decide where the money is going, and how much.

IN THIS LATTER case, it will take considerable wisdom on the part of those elected, working with the hold-over members, to provide the city and school district services demanded by the rest of us, within the money we can afford to pay.

Both agencies are facing immediate financial problems. In their new Fall budgets, both must either reduce some expenditures or increase the tax load. If the expenditures are to be shaved, then what is to be cut out? On the other hand, if taxes are to be increased, how much? Perhaps they will decide on some combination of the two.

AT ANY RATE, the decisions must be made and the folks elected Saturday and Tuesday will have a large part in making them. Which is to say, the voters have an opportunity now to have a say in how these problems will be resolved, by quizzing the candidates before election day, then making a ballot decision where it counts most: at the polling place.

Art Buchwald Are You Ready For The F-112?

The Senate is now holding hearings on the F-111 airplane originally called the TFX. It is developing in the hearings that this all-weather, supersonic, electronic marvel can do things no other plane can do. The only thing it can't do is fly.

Billions of dollars have gone into developing, building and defending the F-111 program, and while most of the money has been well spent, there are some who insist we should forget about the F-111 and go on to something else, like the F-112.

I SPOKE to one of the designers of the F-112, who told me that they were ready to go ahead on production of it as soon as the Air Force started scrapping the F-111.

"How will your plane differ from the F-111?" I asked him.

"We think that with certain modifications our plane can do anything the F-111 does, plus get off the ground. The Air Force told us that while they consider the F-111 the finest plane ever designed, their defense needs for the '70s would have to include some kind of craft that could get into the air."

"BUT CANT the F-111 get in the air?"

"Not for too long."

"How could that happen? Surely the people in the Defense Department insisted they wanted a plane that could fly."

"All Defense asks is that when a company wins a contract it makes an honest effort to do what it promised to do."

"But billions of dollars have been lost on the F-111," I said.

"YOU MUST UNDERSTAND the background on building planes for the military. Most plane designs, when originally submitted to the Pentagon for bids, look like Piper Cubs. Then someone says, "Can you add some equipment so it will fly above clouds?"

The manufacturer says, "Of course." Then someone else says, "How about adding guns and bombs?" The manufacturer says that will increase the cost of the plane, but Defense says it doesn't care. Then a general demands it carry nuclear weapons, which the manufacturer says is no problem, providing Defense will pick up the bill.

"DURING PRODUCTION, someone remembers the plane should be able to fly in all kinds of weather at almost any speed. The manufacturer says they were thinking of the same thing, so they add more equipment to the plane. Then someone suggests a computer be installed which will do most of the work for the pilot.

"The computer is added which forces the designers to increase the size of the engine, which makes the frame workers increase the size of the wing, which causes the engineers to restructure the undercarriage, which brings about a suggestion that instead of one pilot, the plane have two, which means that another seat has to be added, which adds weight causing the designers to have second thoughts about the size of the flaps.

"BY THIS TIME everyone is so excited about all the features of the plane, which can fight at night as well as day, in fog as well as clear weather, bomb on land as well as sea and refuel in the midst of a hurricane as well as carry any atomic weapon in our well-plentiful arsenal, that the question of its flying is completely forgotten. Only after the wings start falling off does Congress get a little mad."

"But if Defense goes ahead with the F-112, what will it do with the F-111s they've already paid for?"

"They could give them to the U.S. Army. You couldn't ask for a better designed tank in the world."

Andrew Tully General Strike Was Threatened

WASHINGTON — Although it will be denied on all sides, the early hours of the widespread postal strike were more frightening than the public realized.

The country might well have been engulfed in a nationwide general strike of members of key labor unions had President Nixon not dealt gingerly with the postmen's illegal walkout.

THIS WAS the threat delivered to the White House by George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, and a number of other labor leaders, including spokesmen for railroad and teamsters unions. The ransom they got was the virtually immediate opening of negotiations leading to pay increases for the postal workers.

Nixon was on the spot. On principle, he could not seem to be rewarding government workers who had broken the law. So he did the practical, if not the ideally moral, thing. While denouncing the walkout and dispatching troops to handle mail in New York City, he acknowledged that the postmen had honest and genuine grievances and promised forthwith to do something about them if the men returned to work.

MEANY AND OTHER union leaders were publicly horrified at the use of labor's No. 1 strike-breaking bogeyman — the military. For several hours it was touch and go whether they would call a general strike.

In effect, Nixon was encouraging others with real or fancied grievances to take to the streets unlawfully in their efforts to have those grievances redressed.

ON THE SURFACE, he was also slighting government workers who had refrained from taking their grievances into the streets. But the President had no alternative. He was forced to acknowledge that much of the blame lay with the administration and Congress, whose blundering bumbling over a pay bill had scandalized the postal workers.

A postal pay boost could be the first step toward improving the nation's outrageously inefficient mail

Mis-Casting

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Casting his line off a local beach one night, angler Amod Boxer caught what he thought was a whale. He couldn't believe his eyes when he saw the nine feet long marine mammal flopping through the surf at the end of his line, but he had no trouble landing it as it was in a weakened state. He nursed it through the rest of the night by pouring buckets of water on its back. Next morning he telephoned the local aquarium and curator John Ballard sent a truck to fetch it. "It is certainly the first time we have had a whale on display," Ballard said as he eyed his new acquisition — christened "Sammy" — languidly swimming around his fish tank. Later the "whale" was identified as a rare Risso's dolphin, believed the only one in captivity.

But five days later it died, despite injections and forced feeding — apparently from the illness that had first weakened it.

Senate Clears $24.6 Billion School Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has cleared the nation's largest school aid measure after squelching a move aimed at slowing the pace of school desegregation.

Approval of the $24.6 billion bill came on a 74-4 vote Wednesday and, although it goes far beyond President Nixon's recommendations, the measure's supporters doubt Nixon will veto it.

The measure, which expands major education programs for three years, went to the House, where speedy approval was promised next week by Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., its House floor manager.

Some GOP senators wondered privately about a veto because of the sharp increases in present authorizations. The President struck down an appropriations bill earlier this year because he said it contained too much money for education.

But the sponsors viewed another veto as highly unlikely, mainly because of the heavy Senate vote in favor and because the measure only authorizes—not appropriates—the money.

In recent years, presidents have annually sought only about one-third of the amounts authorized by Congress for education programs.

Southern senators lost 43 to 32 Wednesday in an effort to send the bill back to the House-Senate conference committee to restore an amendment requiring uniform school desegregation policies in the North and South.

Conferees had watered down the amendment by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., so much that the Southern bloc opposed it.

While Stennis' original version required the government to move as strongly against segregation resulting from housing patterns in the North as against official segregation in the South, the conferees drew a distinction between the two.

They in effect called for uniform enforcement of desegregation methods established by law. There is no present law on unofficial segregation.

Programs expanded by the bill include the massive Elementary and Secondary Education Act, and impacted areas, which provides aid for schools crowded because of nearby federal installations.

The Title I ESEA money now is distributed to districts on the basis of children from families with yearly incomes of $2,000 or less. The bill would raise this income factor to $4,000 effective in 1973. The administration made no such recommendation.

The impacted areas authorization would be boosted to $1.2 billion a year, compared with the present $731 million, by bringing under it children from low-rent public housing projects and from migratory labor housing projects and refugees.

Nixon has asked Congress to cut back this program sharply.

Police Hunt Bank Bandits

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico (AP)—Law enforcement officers in Texas and Mexico continued their search Wednesday for two men wanted in the holdup of the Nuevo Laredo branch of the Monterrey Bank of Commerce.

Four men from Colombia and another from Guadalajara, Mexico, were arrested and charged in the holdup.

Arrested and charged were Julio Posada, 34; Amador Hernandez, 28; Ignacio Morgan, 57; Luis Restrepo, 32, and Ernesto Torres.

Officials said two other Colombian citizens, Gabriel Zuleta and Pedro Reyes, are still at large. One of the men was believed to be wounded in the leg during an exchange of gunfire with the police. All seven were charged with bank robbery and assault in the Tuesday holdup.

Bank manager Jorge Zertuche said most of the money taken in the holdup was believed recovered. He set the figure of what was recovered at $58,160 in U.S. currency and 260,415 pesos or about $20,800. Police found the money in an abandoned station wagon.

Zertuche said about six or seven men entered the bank and ordered everyone to hit the floor. He said he was struck over the head with a sub-machinegun and that three bank employees, including his daughter, were hit but not seriously injured.

Two police sergeants wounded in the gun battle with the robbers were listed in fair condition Wednesday at a local hospital.

Queen Continues Australian Tour

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, her husband and two oldest children left today for Hobart, Australia, to continue a five-week Australian tour.

Prince Charles, the heir apparent to the throne, had a final swim on a Sydney beach before the family left and was asked by a Greek surfer whether he spoke the man's language.

The prince replied with a Greek word which, roughly translated, means "push off."

Charged With Robbery Of Baytown State Bank

BAYTOWN, Tex. (AP) — Jesse Bartlett Baker Jr., 22, was in the Baytown city jail today charged with robbery by firearms in a $17,117 robbery

March 25 of the Baytown State Bank. Baker was arrested Wednesday after a high speed automobile chase near Conroe.

He was charged in Justice of the Peace Glenn Vickery's court here. Bond was set at $50,000. Baker was arrested by highway patrolman J. E. Bates and F. G. Simpson, a Montgomery County sheriff's deputy, about two miles north of Conroe. Police said Baker apparently fled when he spotted officers watching his house. They said when his car reached Interstate 45 he was traveling at speeds estimated at 125 miles per hour. Bates spotted Baker as he passed a state weight station south of Conroe. Baytown Chief of Police John B. Wilkinson said a search of Baker's house turned up a pistol, a carbine and several money wrappers bearing the names of Baytown residents. Baker is the second man to be charged in the robbery, the first bank holdup in Baytown's history. James Evans Donohue, 21, of Houston was charged in the bank robbery Monday after being arrested in Cheyenne, Wyo., in connection with a robbery there.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS Draft Legislation To Gain State Funds

AUSTIN (AP) — A group of non-religious schools, according to the Texas Association of Non-public Schools, is drafting a bill that would spend state tax money on their institutions.

The group represents Catholic, Episcopal, Lutheran and for lay teachers of secular subjects," the association said.

A bill providing state aid to private schools received a legislative hearing last year but died without action by either house.

The association said its bill would be submitted to lawyers "for a thorough legal and constitutional analysis."

One reason for legislative opposition in 1969 was the belief that aid to parochial schools would violate the Constitutional rule requiring separation of church and state.

The proposed salary supplements would be paid directly to individual teachers, not to schools, and would exclude ministers, priests, rabbis, nuns and members of religious orders.

As now envisioned, the association said, supplements would amount to half the minimum salary a teacher would get if employed by a public school system.

"The rationale for this approach is that qualified teachers of secular subjects are performing a valuable public service when they teach the children of Texas citizens, and that this holds true whether the teaching takes place in an institution operated by the government or by a non-governmental agency," the association statement said.

News Contract Negotiations

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiations between the city's four major daily newspapers and nine craft unions and the Newspaper Guild continue today, with neither side discussing details of the talks.

Members of the Typographical Union No. 6 held more "chapel" or union meetings in the composing room of the New York Times Wednesday, cutting into, but not curtailing, the production schedule. The meetings lasted from 29 minutes to two hours and 40 minutes.

Contracts between the unions, representing 13,000 employees, and the newspapers expired Monday at midnight, but publication continued.

The other newspaper involved in the contract negotiations are the Daily News, the New York Post and the Long Island Press. Guild members at the Post reaffirmed a policy of no contract, no work, but no strike date was set. Theodore Kheel, chief mediator in the talks, said Wednesday he would arrange a series of meetings between the Post and the Guild "in a day or two."

DENIES CHARGES — Capt. Ernest L. Medina, above, of Pico River, Calif., tells an Atlanta news conference in Atlanta Wednesday that "I will rely on the truth to prove my innocence." Earlier Medina had been charged with responsibility for all civilian deaths in the alleged My Lai massacre.

Says He Did Not Order Massacre

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Capt. Ernest L. Medina, now charged with responsibility for all Vietnamese civilians allegedly slain during a 1968 raid on My Lai village, says, "I will rely on the truth to prove my innocence."

The stocky captain, dressed in civilian clothes, commented during a news conference Wednesday after the Army announced its new charge against him.

"I am a professional soldier," Medina said. "I am loyal to my country and I have nothing to hide. My family and I will continue to rely upon the truth, and I am sure with God's help this will prevail."

He told newsmen, "I did not order a massacre at My Lai and I did not see a massacre take place. I hope the American public will withhold its judgment until the true facts are established in a court of law."

An Army spokesman at nearby Ft. McPherson, where the My Lai investigation is centered, had announced the new charge against Medina earlier in the day.

It declares the captain was responsible for the alleged murder of noncombatant persons allegedly committed by members of his company.

The Army did not specify the number of deaths for which Medina was accused of being responsible. However, Medina said he had been informed by a superior officer that it was "not less than 175."

Cotton Survey To Be Staged

A survey of 1969 cotton production practices and costs will be made in Texas during April by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, according to Cary D. Palmer, agricultural statistician in charge. Enumerator for the immediate area will be Horace Robinson, of Midland.

Over 1,600 farm operators living in 37 of Texas' major cotton production counties will be interviewed. They will be asked to report on their costs for such items as seed, fertilizer, pesticides, labor, power and equipment used in producing the 1969 cotton crop.

This study is being made to determine the changes that are taking place in cotton production and the related costs of these practices. Similar studies were made for the 1964, 1965 and 1966 crops in Texas and other important producing states. The results of this research will be used by people who develop cotton programs and by farm management specialists who make recommendations to producers.

Hawaii Slaps At Carswell

HONOLULU (AP) — The Hawaii Senate has adopted a resolution asking Hawaii's congressional delegation to oppose the confirmation of Judge G. Harold Carswell to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The resolution, approved Wednesday by an 18-6 margin, also urged the delegation to persuade other congressmen to oppose the confirmation.

South's handling of the trump suit created the impression that he was operating with radar in today's four heart contract. His explanation at the conclusion of the deal revealed that his performance was based, in fact, on an entirely simple logical line of reasoning instead of X-ray vision.

West opened the nine of clubs. East put up the ace and switched to his singleton diamond. West played the ace and another diamond and his partner ruffed with the four of hearts to complete the defensive book. East exited with a club which was won by the dummy's king.

The fate of the contract rested entirely on how the trump suit was handled. A small heart was led, East followed with the nine, and South—without any apparent deliberation—played the ten from his hand. When West showed out, it became routine to reenter the North hand with a spade to repeat the heart finesse. South drew the remaining trump and claimed the rest.

After accepting his partner's admiring congratulations, South was called on to explain his extraordinary handling of the trump suit.

"With so few trumps out against me, I am aware that after East ruffed the diamond, the percentage play is to take a single finesse in hearts. I was able to glean some pertinent information from the bidding, however, that convinced me to discard the book."

On the evidence available from the first four tricks, East showed up with four clubs and one diamond. His remaining eight cards, therefore, must consist of four spades and four hearts—because, if he held a five card suit, he would hardly have opened the bidding with one club. I accordingly decided to play him for all the missing trumps.

ROY HESTER KEPT WATCH ON VITAL CITY NEED

He Kept Water Flowing Here For 40 Years

Roy Hester, water plant superintendent for Big Spring until he retired last year, helped provide the water needs of a growing city for more than 40 years.

Big Spring had only a few water wells up on South Mountain and in the City Park when Hester joined the ranks, and he helped guide all of the improvements since then, including the modern and expanded water treatment plant and strategically located storage reservoirs.

Ernest Lillard, former public works director, used to tell a story that aptly portrays the competence of Hester and his vast knowledge of the city's water system. The city was planning to extend another water line to insure adequate pressure in the southeast section of the city. A noted engineering firm had been employed to design the job, and work was about to begin, when the plans were shown to Hester.

"It won't work," he said, and explained to the engineers why. They agreed after he had been pointed out the error and the project was re-designed. "All of us learned a lesson, Lillard said.

Hester is a native of Woodward, Okla. and attended public schools in Lawton, graduating at Smithville in 1918. He and his wife were married at Telehina, Okla. in 1925. His brother-in-law had a job helping build the Cosden refinery here, and Hester decided to join him.

When that job was completed, he joined the City of Big Spring, on Dec. 1, 1928 at the salary of $90 per month. At that time, the City Hall was located at Third and Scurry and included the fire station, which boasted one old fire truck. He remembers there were about 20-24 city employees.

His first job was helping to lay a water line to what is now the Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital. That job was finished in about a week, and he joined the late Mr. Ben P. Lovelace, who was superintendent of water production and operating all the water wells by himself.

The City received all of its water from wells in the city park, and in Sections 16 and 17. Hester said they operated the four in City Park on oilfield pump jacks; 16 in Sections 16-17 on single stroke pumps; and 27 in Sections 16-17 on double stroke pumps, the latter providing a steady stream of water.

His job was to keep the pumps working, and he had a 1922 model Ford with a winch on it to pull the pumps when work had to be done on them. He recalls on one occasion making six repairs in one day.

His $90 monthly salary included working an average of 10 hours or more per day, seven days a week. In fact, Hester worked a seven day week throughout his long tenure. Once, during the early 1930s, he and all city employees were docked a day each week, because the City did not have the money to pay them.

During the thunderstorms, lightning would often play havoc with the pumps on the wells, and Hester would go out every-time he heard one stop to get it running again.

He estimated the City drilled about 200 wells in the South Mountain area, and he helped drill some 20 of them. However, most of the wells were drilled by private contract. "At any rate, we usually didn't have enough," he said.

In early 1929, the water line was installed to Section 33, which insured ample water for the city until recent years.

During all of those early years, Hester and his crew dug the ditches by hand to install flow supply lines from the water wells and into the city. If the water lines were bigger than four inch in diameter, they would get extra help. All of the lines on South Mountain were laid in the ditches, dug by hand in the hard rock.

The City of Big Spring was using between 400,000 and 750,000 gallons of water per day when Hester went to work, and it got this amount from 47 active wells. "This was about all it needed until 1930," he said.

When Section 33 was leased from the Texas & Pacific Railway Co., the City could get a total of 1,500,000 gallons daily. This was all the City had, until after World War II, when the O'Barr field in Glasscock County was obtained.

Until 1934, the City had only one water storage reservoir, an open top concrete tank in City Park with a capacity of 1,150,000 gallons. In 1934, a covered reservoir was built in City Park, and another on Lancaster Street, both with capacities of 1,000,000 gallons. The reservoir off Westover Road was also built at this time, with a 250,000 gallon capacity.

The small elevated storage tank on the Northside was constructed in the mid-1930s with, structured in the mid-1930s, with a 250,000 gallon capacity.

When Hester joined the water supply department, he was housed out where the Big Spring Country Club is now located. This was to insure that he would be on the spot, when some of the pumps on the wells failed during the night. In 1938, when Mr. Lovelace died, Hester was named superintendent and moved to a house in the City Park, where he lived until shortly before his retirement. He built a house on Birdwell Lane at the Snyder Highway, where he now lives.

Shortly before World War II, the City launched the program to provide surface water, and Moss Creek Lake and Powell Lake were built. In 1940, on one occasion, the city took as much as 1,810,000 gallons from these lakes in one day.

With surface water, the City also had to have a water treatment plant, which was built at the same time at Sixteenth and Virginia. That first plant, which has been expanded twice, had three filters, which could treat a half-million gallons of raw water per day each, and a clearwell, with a 30,000-40,000 gallons capacity. Three plant operators were added to his staff to operate the plant, all working a seven day week.

In 1954, a modernization program built four new filters which could treat two million gallons of water per day each, and a half million gallon clearwell has constructed.

The original plant had a 200,000 gallon flocculation and settling basin. In 1958, a 100,000 gallon flocculation basin and a two million gallon settling basin were constructed.

Its biggest expansion came with the Master Plan of the 1960s. Two filters were added, a 2½ million gallon clearwell added, a 1½ million gallon elevated storage tank constructed on the Northside, a one million gallon ground storage was built in Edwards Heights; a bulk chemical storage plant was built; two-four million gallon pumps were installed; the Scenic Drive one million gallon ground storage reservoir was built; a pump house and a two million gallons pump was added in City Park.

During the war, a one million gallon water storage reservoir was built in the State Park to serve the Bombardier School, and the City also supplied the railroad with water. During those years, Hester once worked 36 hours straight, when employees were hard to find.

Shortly after the war, the City pulled all of its pump jacks and put turbine pumps on 10 of the best water wells, which were used until surface water replaced well water.

Thus, Hester helped guide the city's water fortunes from the days when it only used between 400,000-750,000 gallons per day, all from water wells, to the present time, when all of the water comes from surface lakes and the City has a treating capacity of 12,000,000 gallons per day at peak. The average usage today is between 6-7 million gallons, although it is sometimes only three million gallons per day.

However, if pressed, the plant could treat up to 16-17 million gallons per day for short periods of time.

Hester, in his tenure, worked for every city manager the City had since it adopted the city manager form of government. He is a member of the American Waterworks Association, Texas Water and Sewage Works Association, Permian Basin Water and Sewage Works Association. The latter he served several times as vice president and was on its program committee.

He has been a member of Trinity Baptist Church 30 years. He and his wife have three children, Roy J. Hester, of Hester Sheet Metal here; Mrs. Jessie Dennis, Fort Worth; and Mrs. Aline Parker, Thomasville, N.C. He has seven grandchildren, a boy and six girls.

OLD AND THE NEW—Roy Hester operates the filter controls in both the old and new plants. The original plant (above) had these pump controls, which were eliminated when the new filters and controls were built (below) in the first major expansion.

WELL WATER—That flow of fresh water was vital to a young and growing city back in the early 1930s. Roy Hester (left) was learning the "trade" from the late Ben P. Lovelace (center), as was Nathan Rigan.

GIANTS UNDERGROUND—Roy Hester is dwarfed by the giant pumps (left) and water lines beneath the filters at the water treatment plant, which were installed in the first major expansion at the entire plant, which he insisted upon throughout his long tenure.

MAJOR SUPPLY—This 12-inch water line brought well water from the mountain to the thirsty city residents in 1929.

HAND LABOR—Digging in the hard rock of Section 17 was all done by hand labor back in 1929, and the wooden A frame was the only mechanical help the crews had to lay this 12-inch pipe, which came in six-foot lengths.

CHECKING CONSTRUCTION—Every time any work was done around the water plant, Roy Hester was on hand to see that it was done right. Here, concrete was being poured at the new clearwell at the water treatment plant, a project of the City's Master Plan capital improvements.

Trevino Given Added Push

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Lee Trevino may have a little something extra going for him in his quest for the $36,000 top prize in the Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

For one thing, he's not looking beyond this tournament to something else, as most of the top names in the game are doing.

This is the time of the year when most of golf's great names are concentrating on preparations for next week's Masters, the first of the game's four major tests.

But not Trevino. He's not playing in the Masters and is one of the few invited ever to skip the prestigious event, an action that was taken as an affront by many golf purists.

"I don't have anything against the Masters," Trevino insisted today before teeing off in the $150,000 Greensboro event.

"I just can't play the course. My game isn't suited to it. I hit the ball low and I just spend all week drilling the ball into those hills.

"Everybody takes a week off some time or other. I'm taking that week off. I have some other commitments. Look, at the start of the year you go over the schedule and decide which weeks you're going to take off. You take off when they're on tracks you don't play so well."

So, while the Palmers and Nicklaus and Caspers and Players are concentrating on the Masters, Trevino has his full attention centered on Greensboro.

He won last week to become the first double winner of the year and would like nothing better than to make it a trio before taking a break.

"Sure I want to win," the carefree character from El Paso, Tex., said, "I always want to win. That's what it's all about out here, winning. It's the name of the game, man."

His chances? "Pretty good. I've been playing pretty good. If I can just get past those Sundays."

SPRUCING UP THE OLD BALL YARD — Wendell Thomas, a groundskeeper, rakes the warmup mound at County Stadium as crews work to get the park ready for a full season of major league baseball. The Milwaukee Brewers open their first season here April 7.

Cronin Fulfills His 'Moral Obligation'

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A "moral obligation to a friend" was paid Wednesday when Joe Cronin welcomed Milwaukee into the American League.

In a telegram to the Milwaukee Brewers Inc., Cronin, league president, said, "On behalf of the American League, I want to convey my sincere congratulations to your organization on its return to baseball."

Preparation began immediately for opening day, less than one week away.

Yet, the baseball team Wednesday night still officially was the Seattle Pilots.

Bankruptcy Referee Sidney C. Volinn was to hold a meeting in his Seattle courtroom at 1 p.m. (EST) today to sign the final papers transferring the Seattle franchise to Milwaukee. Lawyers Wednesday deliberated for 2½ hours over the exact wording of the order approving sale of the American League team to the Brewers for $10.8 million.

CLINCHED IT
The president of the Brewers, Allan H. (Bud) Selig, said he felt Cronin's telegram officially sealed the move of the team to Milwaukee.

If so, it paid off a debt that baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn said the sport owed Milwaukee.

"Is there an obligation from baseball to Milwaukee?" Kuhn asked at a dinner in January sponsored by the Milwaukee Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association.

"Legally, no," he said. "But there is a moral obligation to a friend."

Kuhn, at that time, said among the factors in Milwaukee's favor to obtain a baseball team were "a major league tradition, continuing fan interest, a devoted group of people working in the interest of Milwaukee baseball and a stadium."

The Pilots' move brings baseball back to this city on a full-time basis for the first time since the Braves absconded to Atlanta after the 1965 season.

The Milwaukee Brewers Baseball Club, Inc., was organized in July of 1965 for the purpose of returning major league baseball to the city. The group applied unsuccessfully for American and National League franchises in August, 1965.

On July 24, 1967, the Brewers sponsored an exhibition game between the Chicago White Sox and the Minnesota Twins which attracted a crowd of 31,144 to County Stadium, the largest attendance at any baseball attraction here.

The White Sox played nine regular season games here in 1968 and 11 championship games in 1969.

AGAIN SPURNED
Following the 1968 season, the Brewers applied for a National League expansion franchise and was again turned down.

There has been some controversy over exactly when the Pilots cease to exist and the Brewers become a reality.

Wallace Aiken, attorney for Pacific Northwest Sports, Inc., the Pilots' owner, said the papers had to be signed first. However, the Brewers' representative, Atty. Elwin Zarlwell, said Volinn's decision made the sale final.

Another change, according to Selig, will be to have the Brewers play all day games during the month of April.

The team returns to baseball one of the American Association's best-known names—the Brewers. It originally derives from the fact that Milwaukee is known as the beer brewing capital of America.

Wisconsin, naturally, leads the country in beer consumption with every man, woman and child drinking 27.2 gallons a year, according to statistics.

Season tickets for Brewers games went on sale at Milwaukee County Stadium this morning. Single game tickets for the first two games of the season—April 7 and 8—will go on sale at the stadium Friday morning.

Kuhn Idles Star Hurler Until July 1

NEW YORK (AP)—Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has dropped the other shoe in the Denny McLain case and it didn't land as hard as some people thought it might.

Commissioner Kuhn Wednesday suspended McLain until July 1 because of his involvement with bookmaking activities in Flint, Mich. The decision deprives the Detroit Tigers of their star right-hander's services for less than half of the 1970 major league season.

The reaction to Kuhn's decision was generally a huge sigh of relief in the Detroit camp where Manger Mayo Smith and the rest of the Tigers seemed prepared to face the entire season without their star right-hander.

"Just a half a year's suspension," mused Bill Freehan, McLain's batterymate and one of his critics. "It sounds as if he almost did something wrong. It's better than we anticipated."

IN GOOD MOOD
Smith was in a happy-go-lucky mood when he talked about the decision.

"I don't think it will affect the players at all," he said. "They won't say when they go to bat . . . good, Denny McLain will be here July 1 . . . and the outfielders won't say when they go to catch a fly ball . . . well, Denny McLain will be here July 1 . . ."

Smith said he was sure that McLain's mid-season return would help the Tigers' chances for the pennant.

"It'll all settle down until July 1," he said, "then on July 1, when he shuts out the Yankees . . ."

New York plays at Detroit on the night McLain's suspension ends and he'll be the probable pitcher for sure. Denny has been working on his own this spring and says he could pitch right now. But he'll wait.

"All things being equal," said McLain, "Commissioner Kuhn did what he had to do. I can't say I agreed with the decision, because I want to play baseball right now but he (Kuhn) made the decision and we'll live by it."

Eagles Seeking New Quarterback

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Only 18 lettermen were on hand Wednesday to greet North Texas head football coach Rod Rust as spring football drills opened.

The Eagles return only two offensive starters and lose quarterback Steve Ramsey, who broke every NCAA career passing record.

Top candidates for Ramsey's job are Tommy Nelson of Waco, Danny Collins of Tyler Junior College and George Woodrow of Kilgore Junior College.

Vital Athletic Issues Facing Administrators

Sometime before April 20, high school principals and superintendents throughout the state will be faced with making several decisions which could have a marked effect on the finest schoolboy athletic program in the country.

A referendum vote faces the University Interscholastic League, its administrators and its members throughout the Lone Star State.

There's little argument that the UIL is one of the most respected governing bodies in the country but few laymen actually know how it functions.

Basically the UIL is made of elected administrators from within the state and operates under the direction of various faculty members at the University of Texas.

This has been the plan of operation since 1920 and it is through this set up that the extra-curricular activities of the various high schools operate.

Included in the extra-curricular activities are music, athletics and literary competition.

FALSE CONCEPT
The biggest fallacy regarding the UIL operations is that the majority of the general public is of the opinion that the rules and regulations governing inter-school athletics are set up by the high school coaches and the Texas High School Coaches' Association.

But this is far from the actual truth. The only voice a coach might have in his respective area is whatever influence he might have upon his own principal or superintendent — the people who actually control the power of vote. And even this can be misleading at times since the voting on each issue is done by the administrator and is kept in complete secrecy.

Unless the principal's or superintendent's vote is done in the presence of another person, there is no way to actually be certain of how a vote is cast.

The ideal situation is for the principal or superintendent to consult his head coach or athletic director when a vote is upcoming regarding a rule change which involves the athletic program.

After all if the principal or superintendent does not have enough faith or confidence in the coach's decision, then he shouldn't have the man heading his athletic program in the first place.

Three issues are to be voted on in April which will have a direct bearing on the excellent athletic programs of the UIL. And it is to every parents advantage to let his principal or superintendent know how he feels about these issues.

THREE PROPOSALS
The issues are: 1. To keep or do away with spring training into the Seminole tournament this weekend.

Coach Royce Cox indicated he would take a team of about 14 boys and girls to the meet.

NMMI did not bring a girls' team here. Six singles and three doubles matches were staged.

Steve Burnett and Geron Martin had the closest call in any of the matches and they won in straight sets over Duncan Burkholder and Mike Phelps, 6-1, 9-7.

COMING HERE FROM ABILENE HIGH Wilder Named HC Mentor

Harold Wilder, 32, who in four seasons has given Abilene High School two District 3-AAAAA championship clubs, has been named head basketball coach and athletic director at Howard County Junior College.

HAROLD WILDER

Wilder brings a record of 101 wins and 36 losses here from the Abilene school. He started his coaching career during the 1957-58 school year at Barnhart, where his team finished with an 18-12 record.

He was at Shiner, 90 miles south of Austin, the following two years, guiding his teams to a 33-16 over-all mark there. He joined the Abilene system at a junior high school in 1960 and worked his way up through the ranks there, serving at Mann Junior High and then as assistant to varsity coach Nat Gleaton before assuming duties as head coach mentor during the 1966-67 season.

Picked fifth in the district his first season there, the Eagles proceeded to win district and wound up copping third place in the state meet, coming back to beat Fort Worth Paschal in the finals after losing to San Antonio Lee in the next to last round.

The Eagles also won 3-AAAAA championship honors the past season before losing to El Paso Austin in regional competition.

Harold is married to the former Jean Rogers, who once resided in Big Spring. Her father is Nathan Rogers, who worked for the T & P Railway here until he suffered crippling injuries in a railroad accident. The Rogerses currently reside in Colorado City.

The Wilders have two children, Casey, age 12, and Scotty, 10.

Harold will remain in the Abilene system until school is out. (H.C.J.C.'s departing coach, Buddy Travis, does not formally leave until May 15).

Wilder, however, intends to spend much of his time as possible acquainting himself with his job here and talking with college prospects.

Born in Tulsa, Okla., Wilder attended 16 different schools in various parts of the country by the time he had reached the fifth grade. His father moved regularly on assignment by the Amarado Oil Co.

Harold attended high school at Lovington, N.M., where he played first under the famed Ralph Tasker and later under L. C. Coussins. From there, he enrolled at Fort Lewis (Colo.) JC, and played on a team which qualified for the National JC tournament at Hutchinson, Kan.

He ultimately enrolled at Sul Ross College in Alpine, where he earned both his bachelor's and master's degree. When he was a junior on the Sul Ross team, the team finished with a 20-6 win-loss record, best in the school's history. His coach there was Lee Galloway.

Wilder took his bachelor's degree in 1957 and returned during the summers to earn his master's degree, ultimately earning it in 1960.

He and Mrs. Wilder are members of the Church of Christ.

The HCJC board of trustees met in formal session today to act upon the recommendation of the school's athletic council.

Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of the school, said that Wilder was picked from among a list of four candidates, after a list that originally had included 10 names was narrowed down.

Dr. Hunt said the trustees were impressed with Wilder and he felt that the school was fortunate in signing such an individual.

Wilder will teach Physical Education at the school, in addition to handling his coaching duties.

BS JVs Win 5th In Row At Midland

MIDLAND — The Big Spring JV's won their fifth straight baseball decision here Wednesday by edging Midland's reserves, 6-4.

The Shorthorns return to play at home Monday against the same Midland team.

David Newman picked up his third straight mound decision, although he was tagged for 10 hits.

Newman's teammates staked him to a 2-0 lead in the top of the fourth and he never lost it.

In the fourth, Tommy Fletcher singled, Pete Shaffer reached base on a bobble and Tommy Brewer sacrificed, after which Midland used an exaggerated shift to try and choke off the run. Arthur Guess promptly doubled past third after faking a bunt, driving home Fletcher and Shaffer.

In Midland's half of the round, Weldon singled and stole second. Terry followed with a one-baser to count Weldon.

Midland counted again in the seventh on hits by Rock and Guttery.

Big Spring 6-4, Midland 4-6. Pitchers: Newman (3-0), Guttery (1-2).

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Maybe the amazing Mets will fall flat on their faces. Maybe Gil Hodges will lose his magic. Maybe Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman won't win at least 40 games. Maybe, but don't bet on it.

After eating chalk with the St. Louis Cardinals last spring, this observer has caught the Met religion. The amazing did the convincing last September and October and there appears to be no reason to abandon ship despite a so-so record in spring training.

The Mets have bolstered the one weak spot in their infield with Joe Foy at third base. They picked up an experienced left-hander in Ray Sadecki. And they will have the full-season services of big Donn Clendenon.

After beating off the Chicago Cubs, Pittsburgh Pirates and Cardinals—to say nothing of the Phillies and Montreal—they must take on the best in the West before they make the World Series again.

The best in the West could be any one of five teams. We exclude only San Diego from the race. Despite a pitching problem that still exists, that raw power in the Cincinnati Reds' order suggests they will outslug Atlanta, Houston, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Here's the way it looks from here in the two divisions: East—1. New York; 2. Chicago; 3. St. Louis; 4. Pittsburgh; 5. Philadelphia; 6. Montreal.

West—1. Cincinnati; 2. Atlanta; 3. Houston; 4. San Francisco; 5. Los Angeles; 6. San Diego.

The Pirates have been getting a big play from the sports writers in Florida who have been awed by that steady batting order and the fine early form of Bob Veale, Bob Moose and Dock

Ellis. If things work out for Danny Murtaugh and if Bill Mazeroski and Gene Alley can stand up for a full season, they might do the big job.

But it is hard to overlook the Cubs, who did have a 9 1/2-game lead on Aug. 13 and appeared ready to sell Series tickets. Loder that lead had to leave scars on the Cubs.

Optimist Relays Are Set Here Saturday

Young athletes by the hundreds gather here Saturday for the annual Big Spring Optimist Relays, a cinder show for eighth and ninth grade students.

The competition will be held in Memorial Stadium on the HCJC campus. A search meeting will be conducted at 8:30 a.m., while the first preliminaries is booked for 9 a.m. Competition is scheduled through 4 p.m. Trophies will be awarded to first and second place teams in each division. In addition, trophies will go to relay win-

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Tulia, where ex-Big Springer Bill Bryant recently became head football coach, returns to Class AA circles two years hence. Tulia will compete as a AAA team this fall.

People who would like to lose weight should consult Clovis Hale, head football coach at the local high school about the proper diet.

Since reaching adulthood, Clovis has tipped the scales as much as 242 and as little as 165. That's a variance of 77 pounds.

Hale boomed to 242 his freshman year at McMurry College but he was down to 165 as recently as 1965. He now carries around about 180 pounds.

There's nothing secret about Hale's diet. He first started laying off bread and potatoes. Then he would get to the point where he'd have to force himself to eat. He doesn't touch bread to this day.

One of the most promising of the ninth grade athletes here is speedster Walter Jordan, who last week set records in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes in the Monahans Junior High track and field meet. Walter also ran on the winning sprint relay team in the cinder show.

A member of an Air Force family, Jordan is one of the hardest workers in camp and a good student in the classroom. He played halfback on the Toro football team last fall and he has an instinct for running to daylight. He could give the Steers some of that speed the coaches have so long coveted.

Bill Bridges, a native of Hobbs, N.M., who played his high school basketball under Ralph Tasker, recently was given a "day" in his honor by the management of the NBA's Atlanta Hawks.

A Negro, Bridges said he never expected to be treated "like that" in the South. Included among the gifts he received were two automobiles.

Darrell Froman, the Howard County native who was Lamesa's baseball coach last season, has been operating a grocery store northwest of Big Spring in recent months but reportedly wants to get back in coaching. Froman once was head coach at Gail.

Does pro basketball leave you cold or turn you on? Do you camp in front of your TV set each Sunday afternoon as pro football did in season or did you find excuses to break the habit and take up other endeavors?

TV ratings of the game the country over have shown surprising strength. Critics of the sport remain unconvinced, however. Oddly enough, some in the anvil chorus say there are too many perfectionists in the pro ranks — the players simply are so good at what they're doing they tend to become boring.

There's little doubt but that pro basketball boasts the finest athletes in the world. These men must demonstrate more skills than in any other sport. And they must have stamina — not just because they must run 48 minutes but because of the tough travel schedules forced upon them.

The 24-second clock used by the pros helps the interest no little. It serves to eliminate stalling (something high school games could strive to reduce) and carries the suspense down to the final moments.

Basketball remains an engrossing sport because it is simple to understand, if not to play. People might be prone to become bored about something they do not understand but an individual who has never before seen a game can soon figure out the objective in basketball — to put the ball through the hoop. You don't have to know anything about blitzes, cutoff plays, bowling handicaps or low ball — low total scores.

Mets Capture City Series

No champagne flowed and the fans didn't tear up the stadium, but the New York Mets won another championship Wednesday night.

They held on for a 3-2 exhibition baseball victory over the St. Louis Cardinals and captured the City Series of St. Petersburg, Fla., where both teams train, three games to one with one tie.

Losing pitcher Bob Gibson botched up a rundown to set up an unearned run in the first inning and the Mets added two more runs in the third on a pair of singles, a walk and an error by right fielder Leron Lee.

Triumphs by the Mets are rather commonplace these days. Not so with the Milwaukee Brewers, late of Seattle.

The transplanted Seattle Pilots, whose sale to Milwaukee interests has been approved and lacks only the judge's signature, made their first outing under the Milwaukee banner a winning one, routing the Cleveland Indians 9-4.

Outfielder Danny Walton was the big gun with a three-run homer in the first inning and three singles good for two more RBIs.

Detroit's veteran Al Kaline celebrated the news that the Tigers' ace hurler, suspended Denny McLain, could return to the baseball wars July 1 with a grand slam in the ninth inning that lifted the Bengals to a 6-4 win over the Boston Red Sox.

Elsewhere, though, rookies held the spotlight.

Right-hander Jerry Janeski won a spot in the Chicago White Sox' starting rotation behind Tommy John and Joe Horlen by stopping the Pittsburgh Pirates on six hits and one run in seven innings in a 5-1 triumph.

Janeski was acquired from Boston as a replacement for Billy Farmer, who was involved in a Sox-Sox trade but came up with a dead arm.

A LOVELIER YOU

Awaken Complexion, Stimulate Circulation

By MARY SUE MILLER
A Lovely writes: My skin is dry and lax. Would a facial mask or a stimulation cream really pick up the color and tone? Is one more effective than the other?
The Answer: Both masks and stimulation creams help to get the blood coursing to the face and doing its job of throwing off impurities and kindling a fine glow. Could be that every dry skin needs such treatments now to awaken it from a long winter's nap. Exactly what to expect of the steps follows:
When specifically formulated for dry, crepey skins, firming masks are most helpful. Such products, in either cream or lotion form, are astringent in nature and harden on the face after application. After a treatment the complexion seems smoother, fresher and somewhat lifted. The latter result is temporary, of course, but marvelous for your looks and morale if only for a short time.
As you might imagine, circulation stimulants specialize in prodding the blood until it pinks the cheeks. Another plus for use is that it actually renders the skin more receptive to the effects of moisturizers and emollients applied immediately thereafter. For instance, a moisturized makeup base looks dewy as dawn on a freshly stimulated face.
You may, if you like, use the products in combination: the stimulation cream twice per week in the morning, and the mask weekly, before your most important engagement.

Civinettes Announce Activities

Projects, including a potluck dinner for the Work Village at Big Spring State Hospital, were discussed by the Civinettes Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Ronnie Reeves, 2201 Cecilia. Mrs. Mike Craddock and Mrs. Henry Brewer will be in charge of the dinner at 6:30 p.m., April 28.

Mrs. D. W. Overman presided and Mrs. Rick Moses gave the invocation. Mrs. Don Morgan was welcomed as a new member. She and Mrs. Reeves were appointed to the telephone committee.

Plans to have programs at the meetings were made, with Mrs. Reeves in charge. Civinettes will visit needy families to decide which family they will sponsor, and fund raising projects were discussed. The Civinettes will meet with the Civitans at noon Friday in Holiday Inn. John Ledbetter, Civitan International president, will be guest of honor.
The next meeting will be May 26 in the home of Mrs. James Fisher, 15-B Albrook, to select 1970 board members.

Iranians Speak For Wives Club

Cyrus Roushani and Yahya Moussa-Zadeh, both of Iran, were guest speakers for the International Wives Club meeting held Wednesday evening at First Federal Community Room. They are now students at Howard County Junior College.

According to the speakers Iran has over 28 million people, most of whom are Moslems (who believe in having more than one wife), and the remainder are Jewish.

Moussa-Zadeh, a popular singer in his country, sang several songs in his native tongue. Mrs. Danny Valdes presided, and a new member, Mrs. Pedro Saenz of Spain, won the attendance prize.
The next meeting will be May in the Community Room.

Stock Broker Views Bonds

Dan Wilkins of Edward D. Jones and Company was guest speaker at the 1953 Hyperion Club meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. James Duncan, 6 Indian Ridge. Mrs. W. P. Edwards Jr. was cohostess.

Wilkins discussed three types of bonds, government, municipal and corporate.
"Always learn the rate of interest before buying bonds, and consider taxes and maturity," he said. "There is no risk in buying bonds as there is in buying stocks. Investment in bonds is one way to increase your money."
He explained that inflation is one reason why interest rates are high.
New officers were elected during the meeting. They are Mrs. Wade Chantle, president; Mrs. John Gary, vice president; Mrs. Jimmy Taylor, recording secretary; and Mrs. Kimball Guthrie, treasurer.

The Hyperions plan to participate in the Boys Club birthday parties this year. The next meeting will be May 6 in the home of Mrs. Don Womack, 107 Canyon.

Correction On TOPS Club Slate

New officers of the TOPS Pound Rebels were incorrectly listed in a story which appeared in Tuesday's Herald. The officers are Mrs. Elton Carlisle, leader; Mrs. R. L. Collins, co-leader; Mrs. Donald Carlisle, secretary; Mrs. Lewis Collins, treasurer; and Mrs. Stewart Dickson, weight recorder. The installation ceremony was performed by Mrs. Bill Adams.

'Flower Power' Shown By Hyperion Speaker

"Happiness Is Flower Power" was demonstrated by Mrs. Edwin Ballard at the 1946 Hyperion Club meeting Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Mairi McFaul, 505 Highland. Mrs. J. W. Tipton was cohostess.

"Flowers are used for special occasions and to show love," Mrs. Ballard said, explaining the meaning of flowers. She showed how to make a purse from a grass place mat, decorated with felt flowers. She gave instructions for pressing wild flowers to ornament note paper, invitations, bridge tallies and to make pictures.

Mrs. Ballard gave techniques for painting over flower pictures with an acrylic emulsion to create an oil-painting effect. She showed two pictures which had been done in a 3-D decoupage, or "papier-tote" technique.

Club members learned how to make flowers of calico print for a gay table arrangement.

New officers elected were Mrs. T. J. Rowland, president; Mrs. R. A. Fuller, vice president; Mrs. E. H. Bouillion, recording secretary; Mrs. R. S. Griffin, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Don Newsom, treasurer.

The final meeting will be the installation of officers during a luncheon at Big Spring Country Club May 6.

WSCS Explores Chinese Religions

An introduction to the religions of China was given by Mrs. Ben Boadle, who led the study series, "Understanding China," Tuesday for the Women's Society of Christian Service, Wesley United Methodist Church.

"Confucianism is the philosophy of Confucius who taught the highest standards of conduct," Mrs. Boadle said. "Buddhism teaches that life is inwardly full of suffering and that happiness is to be striven for by psychological and ethical self-culture. Taoism is a religious system founded upon the doctrines of Lao-tse and ranked with Confucianism and Buddhism. Along with these religions, the worship of ancestors could be considered a fourth religion."

Mrs. Boadle then reviewed the book, "Understanding China in Change," by M. Searle Bates. Group discussion was followed by responsive reading on "From Death He Rose Victorious" by Lui T'ingfang.

Refreshments of Chinese butterscotch noodles were served. The next meeting will be a general session of WSCS Tuesday.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise: Here's something that works like a good clock:

When the lady of the house forgets to take the meat out of the freezer in time to thaw it for dinner... if she happens to have a dishwasher in the home, just put the meat in the dishwasher and turn it past the washing state. Let the meat stay until the drying cycle is completed. It is then ready for cooking.

Try this for size... L.C.S. A Doctor's Maid

Dear Folks: I first thought this was a Letter of Laughter.

But it so happened that it was near my dinnertime and my pound of hamburger wasn't thawed either. So I tried this idea and, by gum, it really does work!

I have now been using this method for about four months. For those who don't have drying cycles on their dishwashers I have found an even better way. I take my frozen pound of hamburger, which is wrapped in plastic, and slip it inside another plastic bag — without holes — twist the end and put a rubber band around it several times.

I put the wrapped meat on the TOP rack in my dishwasher. All I do is start the dishwasher. I let the hot water thaw out the meat.

There will be no water inside of your hamburger as it is still wrapped in its original casing plus the plastic bag which will keep out all the steam and moisture.

Now there really is a very good reason for this plastic bag, gals:

Once I tried to thaw veal cutlets this way. I thought, "Well, it looks like it is wrapped real well so I'll just set it in the washer." When I reached for my veal cutlets they were gone! The heat from the water, and the pressure from its flow, had unwrapped and unsealed the meat and it was in the bottom of my washer. DON'T waste your money like this. Naturally, I didn't laugh about it at the time, although I can see the humor of it now.

I have also found that you can thaw chops of any kind (even thin roasts) this way. All I ask is that you leave the meat wrapped as it came from the market and then put it inside a heavy plastic bag (without holes) so water won't get on the meat. Tie it tightly and thaw away...

My thanks to the gal who wrote us about this one... Heloise

Dear Heloise: Quite sometime ago I thought there must be a use for the lids from the soup in three-course frozen dinners.

Well, today I made a discovery. They make nice picture frames for wallet-sized pictures.

I cut out paper to fit the lid and pasted it on with white glue, then glued on the picture. It comes complete with a hanger ready for hanging... Mrs. J. Julien

Traffic Law Changes Explained For Lions

Several laws pertaining to drivers have been changed and part of the public doesn't know it, Jack White, representing the Texas Department of Public Safety, told the Downtown Lions at their Wednesday noon meeting at the Settles.

Many of these changes are clarifications of confusion arising out of custom, and others are designed directly to reduce collisions and traffic deaths.

Among the changes he noted are these:

1. At uncontrolled intersections, the car on the right now has the right of way; at intersections of wider and narrower lane roads, traffic on the wider lane has the right of way; at intersections of paved and unpaved roads, traffic on paved roads has the right of way.
2. Motor vehicle inspection stickers are now numbered as to months and must be renewed one year from the end of the month in which they were issued.
3. Slow moving traffic must keep in the right lane or as far to the right of a road as possible.
4. The implied consent law requires that any driver suspected by the officer of having taken alcoholic beverages must now submit to the breath analyzer test, or else face possible suspension of his driver's license up to a year.

Of the 57,500 traffic deaths in the United States last year, said White, 28,000 were said to have died in accidents in which one or more drinking drivers was involved, White quoted from the

3,366 Marines Lost Their Lives

CAMP COURTNEY, Okinawa (AP) — A wreath was laid quietly on the Marines' War Memorial at Camp Courtney Wednesday, commemorating the 25th anniversary of the Battle of Okinawa where 3,366 Marines lost their lives in World War II.

A Navy chaplain read a prayer, taps were played and the man who commanded the 4th Marines until the end of the war made a short speech.

"This is one of the greatest moments of my life," said Lt. Gen. (ret.) Alan Shapley.

Speaking to today's members of the 4th Marines, he said, "I was particularly pleased, happy and proud to realize the fine job that you people did in Vietnam."

Department of Transportation. How practical laws can help improve safety is demonstrated by the motor vehicle inspection law, he said. In 1951, when the law was first effective, vehicle mechanical defects were causative factors in 19 per cent of accidents; now they are responsible for only four per cent.

White said that it is likely that written exams will be required for all driver license renewals. He also predicted that next year the legislature will pass a law making refusal to take a breath test presumptive evidence of intoxication which would have to be overcome by the defendant in event he wanted to contest the matter in court.

Inducted as a member of the club was Col. John Grow, air base commander at Webb AFB.

Capt. Joe Maratta, assistant scoutmaster, reminded the club of the Mexican dinner being given by Boy Scout Troop 7, sponsored by the club, Saturday 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. at Goliad cafeteria. Bill Lund, ticket chairman, said that more than 300 tickets had been sold so far. Roy Hughes is in charge of Lions helping with the dinner, which will be served by mothers of the Scouts.

Convicted Of Smuggling

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Dorothea Daniel Doyal, 39, of Chicago, was convicted Wednesday of smuggling 750 grams of cocaine, worth an estimated $33,750, into the United States at Eagle Pass on the Texas-Mexico border.

A federal court jury returned the verdict after deliberating about 35 minutes. He was remanded to the custody of the U.S. marshal pending sentencing.

Doyal originally was charged with smuggling and with assaulting federal agents before and during his arrest on April 12, 1969. The assault charges were changed during the trial to resisting arrest.

Customs agents had testified that Doyal did not strike any of them at the time he was apprehended.

U. S. Customs Inspector John Blackburn testified Doyal entered Eagle Pass via taxi cab and that he fled when agents tried to question him. He was arrested after a chase and brief struggle, Blackburn said.

$525,000 Damage Suit

DALLAS (AP) — A $525,000 damage suit was filed Tuesday against the city of Dallas by a man who said police shot him after he summoned them to aid a rape victim.

Dan K. Parchman, 27, filed the suit after City Atty. Alex Bickley advised the city council to deny a claim of $155,446.

Parchman's suit alleges that last Nov. 22 he returned to his apartment where he saw a trail of blood in a hallway.

He said he told a neighbor to call police and later, after officers arrived, he said he heard three shots in a downstairs apartment. One officer shot him, he said, when he went to investigate.

Parchman said after he was shot police ignored his pleas for hospital treatment and struck him on the head.

A man caught raping a 53-year-old woman was shot to death by police.

Bickley said he advised the council to ignore the claim because of municipal immunity from prosecution.

The interests of Mrs. Clay (Betty) LaRoche, 805 W. 17th, are as diverse as her selection of recipes which include her own creations, her great-grandmother's, Mexican and Italian.

By all appearances, Mrs. LaRoche is a very feminine young homemaker, in spite of her great interest in outdoor life, motorcycling, fishing and camping. She keeps a tidy home, decorating it with her handcrafts, and in Early American style with soft shades of green and rust-gold.

In addition to her house-keeping, she works Wednesday through Saturday, eight hours a day, as a cashier at Furr's Super Market.

Her outside activities include being the leader of Brownie Troop 108, outgoing president of Phi Zeta Omega Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi and helping her husband with a Little League baseball team.

A well-qualified Brownie leader, Mrs. LaRoche came up through the ranks as a former Brownie and Girl Scout herself. Mrs. LaRoche's mother, Mrs. E. L. Jones, was a Girl Scout leader. Mrs. LaRoche finds enjoyment in teaching her 10 Brownies crafts, fire building, camp-out cooking and simple sewing. The Brownies meet at 2:45 p.m. every Monday.

She plans to be a Brownie leader for the Girl Scout Day Camp again this summer. She will plan hikes, cook-outs, a field trip to the courthouse, crafts and instructions in handling a knife and fire building for the Brownies who are second and third graders.

Clay LaRoche will begin coaching a Little League team soon. He has coached Newsom's Braves for several years.

"I expect Clay to come home anytime and tell me his assistant can't make it and that I have to help him throw balls to the boys," she said. As the wife of a Little League coach she regularly tends the concession stand for the games.

Mrs. LaRoche finds sorority work fun. She is a representative to BSP City Council, and the newly-elected vice president for her chapter. Her chapter was formed last August, and a greater number of activities are planned for the coming year now that the chapter is fully organized, she explained. The chapter regularly does volunteer work for Big Spring State Hospital and Big Spring Nursing Inn.

The LaRochelles have lived in their home only four months. They are redecorating the house room by room and have nearly completed the living room and dining room. LaRoche, with the help of an uncle, has covered the walls with attractive wood paneling.

"I want to do the bedrooms in blue and the kitchen in yellow," Mrs. LaRoche said, "but by the time we are able to get to the rest of the house. I may have changed my mind about the colors."

TRIPS BY MOTORCYCLE are planned by this modern young homemaker, Mrs. Clay LaRoche, who enjoys exploring the countryside by cycling with her husband. She would like to have a large 750 cc. cycle for longer trips, while her husband has his eye on a 350 cc bike for hill climbing. Both enjoy the outdoor life and work with young people's groups.

The LaRochelles moved into the larger home with a big, fenced back yard when their dog population began to multiply.

"Our dashund, Sassy, had five puppies, and by the time they were old enough to sell, we were too attached to them to give them away," said Mrs. LaRoche. "When I say I have to go home and feed my kids, I must explain that we have seven dogs. My husband's dog is 'Bongo,' a part German shepherd, part collie, who used to be afraid of the puppies, but all the dogs get along just fine now."

Mrs. LaRoche's husband is a typical 'meat and potatoes' man, but his favorite meal is spaghetti. His wife learned to prepare it from his mother, Mrs. Micky LaRoche.

Mrs. LaRoche's recipes come from a variety of sources, mostly from her family. The

Flavored Milk

Soothe cranky children in the evening with glasses of warm milk, gently sweetened, flavored, and colored with a spoonful of frozen red fruit punch concentrate.

New Fruit Salad

Overlap thin, round slices of grapefruit and oranges on a bed of watercress sprigs; top with lemon-coated avocado balls and finely chopped almonds.

Cold Bread Pudding was handed down from her great-grandmother. The pudding and the 'Meat Mix-Up' from her sister, are other favorites of her husband. She invented the Jalapeno Steak herself. "It's similar to smothered steak," she said. Another recipe she learned for cook-outs came from her training as a Brownie leader.

"Take a pattie of ground meat, place a slice of potato on top, then a slice of onion on the potato and cover with another pattie of meat. Wrap it in foil and cook over the campfire. It's delicious," Mrs. LaRoche said.

The LaRochelles enjoy camping and fishing during vacations and plan to buy a larger motorcycle for some trips.

The following recipes are favorites of the LaRoche family.

RECOMMENDED RECIPES

Liked By LaRochelles

STRAWBERRY SALAD

(serves 6-8)
2 pkgs. strawberry gelatin
2 cups hot water
3 whipped bananas
1 10 oz. pkg. frozen strawberries
1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple
1/2 pt. sour cream
Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Drain juice from pineapple, and cream fruit together. Put one-half of mixture in bowl and chill. Add sour cream to remaining mixture then add to chilled mixture and refrigerate until set.

COLD BREAD PUDDING

(serves 4-5)
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 tbsps. cocoa
2 tbsps. flour
1/2 tsp. salt
2 eggs
2 cups milk
1 tsp. butter
1 tsp. vanilla
3-4 slices bread
Combine sugar, cocoa, flour and salt. Stir in eggs and milk until well blended. Add butter and vanilla. Crumble bread and drop into mixture. Pour into ungreased baking dish and bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes.

JALAPENO STEAK

2 lbs. round steak
1 can tomatoes with green chiles
1 small onion
Salt and pepper
Brown round steak and onions together in small amount of shortening. Add can of tomatoes. Salt and pepper to taste. Simmer 30 to 40 minutes. Serves 4.

AVOCADO DIP

2 ripe avocados
1 carton sour cream
Salt and pepper
1 pkg. green onion dip mix

Peel and mash avocados. Add remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. Serve with corn chips.

MEAT MIX-UP

(serves 6-8)
1 lb. ground beef
1/4 cup chopped bell pepper
1 pkg. spaghetti (7 oz.)
1 can tomato paste (6 oz.)
1 can tomatoes (14 oz.)
2 tbsps. salt
1/4 tsp. basil
1/2 tsp. garlic salt
1 tsp. dried minced onion
1/2 tsp. oregano
2 cups water
Parmesan cheese
Fry ground beef and bell pepper in large skillet until meat is lightly browned. Break spaghetti. Add spaghetti and remaining ingredients (except cheese) to meat mixture. Cover and simmer about 25 minutes. To serve, sprinkle with Parmesan cheese if desired.

CRAZY COCKTAIL PIZZAS

(makes 20)
2 cans refrigerated biscuits
1/2 cup pizza sauce
1/2 lb. processed cheddar cheese, cut in 20 1/2-inch squares
Arrange biscuits on greased cookie sheet. Top each biscuit with about one teaspoon pizza sauce. Press cheese cube into center of biscuit. Bake in a 425 degree oven for about 12 minutes.

CHILI

1 large onion
1 lb. ground meat
1 can tomatoes (14 oz.)
3 tbsps. chili powder
3 tbsps. red or black pepper
1 can red kidney beans
Brown onions and meat together in skillet. Add remaining ingredients and simmer for 30 to 40 minutes. Will serve four or five people.

CAPTURE MOCK TURTLES For children's cookies

Snappy Turtle Cookies Made Of Mince Meat

Turn to turtles for a creative cookie idea like this intriguing blend of the treasured good taste of mince meat and the convenience of sweetened condensed milk. Tuck whole blanched almond "feet" and "head" into each cookie ball and... the mock turtles are on the move.

MINCE MEAT-COCONUT TURTLES

(Makes about 28, 1 3/4-inch cookies)
1 (9 oz.) pkg. condensed mince meat
1 1/3 cups (one 15-oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
2-3 cups (two 3/4 oz. cans) flaked coconut
1 tsp. vanilla extract

3/4 tsp. almond extract
1 cup (one 4 1/2 oz. can) whole blanched almonds
In a medium-size bowl, break mince meat into small pieces with a fork. Add condensed milk; mix well. Blend in coconut and extracts. Chill in refrigerator for three hours. Shape into 1 1/2 inch balls.
Place two to three inches apart on a well-buttered baking sheet. Place five whole almonds into base of each ball to form head and four feet of the turtles.
Bake in a moderate (350 degrees F.) oven, about 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove very carefully from baking sheet. Cool.

PANTRY PICK-UPS

If Hollandaise Sauce separates, you may be able to revive it by beating a little cream into it.

Ever add grated lemon rind to a rice pudding instead of raisins?

Crisp rice cereal and marshmallows, melted with a little butter, make candy that children love.

Serve coffee the French way — half strong coffee, half very hot milk. Call the combination cafe au lait.

Put all prepared salad greens in a large plastic bag that can be kept in the refrigerator until you're ready to serve. Then just pour in the salad dressing, shake well, and every leaf comes out beautifully coated, with no mess and no puddle in the bottom of the salad bowl.

What do you do with a cup or less of leftover meat? Chop or grind it and use in a casserole of scalloped corn or add it to fritter batter.

Fragrant toasted chopped almonds give elegant flavor and "crunch" to potato salad.

Shape cream cheese into small balls. Roll some in toasted coconut and others in chopped salted nuts. Place three to four in center of a juicy canned cling peach half for an individual salad.

Marinate drained canned asparagus spears in a savory French dressing and serve on lettuce, garnished with pimiento strips, for a company-dinner salad.

Left-over stew may be turned into an excellent meat pie or casserole.

Fill and frost a chocolate layer cake with fluffy white frosting; top with flaked coconut and shredded (not grated) orange rind. Good combination of flavors!

ELEGANT CLAM CHOWDER Just combine soups and clams

Imaginative Blending For Instant Chowder

Imaginative blending of two varieties of canned soup, a can of crab meat and a can of evaporated milk yields in minutes a hearty chowder suitable for family meals — or simple but elegant party fare. Evaporated milk smooths and blends the soups and flaked crab meat to chowder-perfect, full-bodied richness. A marvelous menu-mate for this delicious crab chowder is a salad combo of tart and sweet fruits, chilled and served with a tangy dressing.

ELEGANT CRAB CHOWDER
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed chicken gumbo soup
1 can (11 oz.) condensed pepper pot soup

End Scorch Taste

Ever burn rice? You can make the scorch taste disappear quickly if you take a piece of fresh white bread and place it on top of the rice. Put the cover on the pot and within a few minutes the scorch taste will completely disappear.

Cuts Mud Taste

By soaking fish in a strong salt water solution before cooking, that muddy taste that so often accompanies the fish can be eliminated. By sprinkling a little salt in the skillet, the fish won't stick to the frying pan.

'Peachy' Dessert Blends Flavors

Prepare these peaches ahead so flavors have time to blend.

LEMON PEACHES

1 lemon
2 cans (each 1 lb., 13 ozs) cling peach halves
1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1/4 cup cider vinegar
1 stick (3 ozs.) cinnamon
4 whole cloves
4 whole allspice

Slice unpeeled lemon thin, discarding ends; cut each slice in half; turn into a saucepan with 1 cup of the syrup drained from peaches, sugar, vinegar, cinnamon, cloves and allspice. Bring to a boil; simmer for 15 minutes. Pour over drained peaches in a bowl; cover and refrigerate overnight or longer. Serve as a relish with roast duck.

Democrats In Congress Race Issue

By The Associated Press

The question of fellow Democrats in Congress supporting Lloyd Bentsen in his bid to unseat Sen. Ralph Yarborough in the party's May 2 primary cropped up Wednesday.

Supporters of Bentsen himself a former U.S. representative, called attention to the fact that Rep. W. R. Poage turned up at a Bentsen rally in Waco and Rep. Henry Gonzalez paid a visit to their candidate the night before as he campaigned in San Antonio.

Gonzalez quickly said, however, that "I do not involve myself in primary elections, and that certainly is true this year." The San Antonio congressman expressed the view that his relationship with Yarborough always has been correct and polite, and that he has been friendly with both Yarborough and Bentsen.

Aides of Bentsen displayed open pleasure at the appearance of Poage with their man in Poage's Central Texas district, which in the past has accorded Yarborough sizable majorities in his races for the Senate.

Yarborough was spending another day in Washington while Bentsen moved on to Tyler today.

Rep. George Bush, who seeks the Republican nomination for U.S. senator, doubled back to Houston. His opponent in the GOP primary is Robert Morris of Dallas.

Bentsen spoke to about 75 persons at a Waco shopping center before going to Dallas for a night reception, telling his audience, "People are tired of old-style politics that pits one group against another... The people want a change, and they're identifying Lloyd Bentsen with the change they want."

Yarborough took occasion in Washington to disclose that 13 Texas school districts are among 57 over the nation to which the U.S. Department of Education has decided to submit final plans for bilingual education.

He listed the Texas districts as Alice, Colorado City, Corpus Christ, Del Valley, Edinburg, El Paso, Galveston, Kingsville, Orange Grove, Port Isabel, San Antonio Alamo Heights, San Antonio Northside and South San Antonio.

Representatives of these school systems will be invited to national workshops for explanations of procedures for applying and program requirements, said Yarborough, a Senate sponsor of bilingual programs.

Bush opened his campaign headquarters Wednesday in Beaumont and Port Arthur. Endorsing the idea of an all-volunteer army, the Houston congressman said he felt it "would provide a method of achieving greater efficiency in the use of our manpower."

Turning to President Nixon's proposal for a government corporation to run the post office, Bush said he believed such an arrangement would take politics out of postal affairs.

How About That?

CHICAGO (AP) — Pranksters who telephone Lincoln Park Zoo annually on April Fool's Day and ask for Mr. Bear, Mr. Wolf or Ray Coon may have been mystified by the response they got Wednesday.

Zoo officials rose to the occasion and staffed their switchboard briefly with a chimpanzee named Howie.

Fast Look At Labor

By The Associated Press

Trucking—There were reports of progress in wage talks between trucking and union negotiators. Many of the 425,000 Teamsters involved continued picketing in dozens of cities as the biggest trucking strike in the nation's history entered its second day.

Air Traffic — Air traffic remained crippled today as controllers continued to call in sick in significant numbers. On Wednesday a heavy spring snowstorm added to the snarl in the Midwest and takeoff delays ranged up to two hours in New York.

Postal—The New York City local that precipitated the nation's first postal strike authorized its president to call a new stoppage if its demands are not met promptly. In Washington wage talks, the government offered the 750,000 postal workers a 12 per cent wage hike, half retroactive to last October and the other half to take effect in July.

Tugboats—Tugboat crewmen returned to work in New York harbor today after accepting a new three-year contract with a 53.5 per cent increase in wages and benefits. The two-month strike by the 6,000-member local of the AFL-CIO National Maritime Union cost $35 million in lost wages and revenues.

Newspapers — Negotiations continued with neither strike action or lockout at New York City's four general service newspapers. Contracts for the Newspaper Guild and nine craft unions expired Monday. The printers union used job action antics against the New York Times.

Grand Jury To Continue Inquiry Into Heatly Race

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The grand jury will continue its probe April 15 into alleged political pressure in the legislative race of Rep. W.S. Heatly of Paducah.

The jury had recessed about two weeks ago in order to prepare for testimony from more witnesses.

El Paso News Executive Dies

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Funeral arrangements were pending today for Dorrance D. Roderick

Jr., 45, an El Paso newspaper executive and widely known columnist in West Texas and New Mexico.

Roderick suffered an apparent heart attack at his El Paso apartment Wednesday night and was pronounced dead on arrival at a local hospital.

Known as "Buddy," Roderick was vice president and general manager of the El Paso Times Enterprises, a director of the Foundation and a director of the First State Bank and Northgate

National Bank, both in El Paso. Roderick was owner of the El Paso Livestock Auction.

Survivors included the widow, Mrs. Mary Patricia Roderick and six children, Mrs. Leo Villalera of Juarez, Mrs. William A. Gilcrease of Albuquerque, N.M., Dorrance D. Roderick III, Miss Lynn Roderick, Evan Roderick and Polly Carr Roderick all of El Paso.

In addition, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dorrance D. Roderick of El Paso and a sister, Mrs. J. Clinton Bagwell Jr. of El Paso.

Broughton Now Dealer Here For Jeep Line Of Vehicles

Broughton Truck and Implement Co. has signed a franchise agreement with Kaiser Jeep Sales Corp. to handle the 'Jeep' line of four-wheel drive vehicles and approved special equipment.

Signing of the franchise has been announced by G. C. Broughton Jr., owner of the new sales area. The dealership also will offer complete parts and service facilities for the "go-anywhere" vehicles.

The firm is located at 910 Lamesa Highway, and key personnel are Broughton, Leon Davis, sales manager; Curley Hooper, service manager; and Bob Anderson, parts manager.

'Jeep' vehicles are designed to serve a wide range of purposes from six-passenger family service to heavy-duty off-road hauling with gross vehicle weights up to 8,600 pounds. They are available on wheelbases ranging from 81 inches in the Gladiator series to 126 inches in Gladiator Trucks.

Newest in the expanding line of 'Jeep' vehicles is an all-new four-wheel drive series of 'Jeepster' models. Offered in 'Jeepster' Commando Station Wagon, Roadster and Pickup models, they feature foam-molded bucket seats, fashionable interior trims and sporty styling. They are fast gaining the same reputation for ruggedness and off-road versatility for which all 'Jeep' vehicles are recognized.

A 160-h.p. "Dauntless" V-6 engine with Turbo Hydra-Matic automatic transmission and console shift is optional in the 'Jeepster' series as well as custom, convenience and trim features. The 'Jeepster' Convertible, optionally available with a power-actuated top and mag-type wheel covers, comes with a spare tire treatment in the rear.

Four-wheel drive Gladiator trucks are available in two series, the J-2000 on a 120-inch wheelbase, and the J-3000 on a 126-inch wheelbase. GVWs range upward to 8,600 pounds for vehicles with dual rear wheels and platform stake bodies. Pickup boxes of seven and eight-foot lengths are offered.

'Jeep' Wagoneer Station Wagons are offered in four- and two-wheel drive models and in two and four-door body styles. Six-passenger seating capacity, plus a large cargo area are combined on a wheelbase of 110 inches. Over-all length is 183.6 inches.

Wagoneer station wagons and Gladiator trucks are powered by the standard 145 h.p. "Hi-Torque" six-cylinder engine, which provides high efficiency and ease of service and maintenance.

Available optionally is the 250-h.p. "Vigilante" V-8 engine. Turbo Hydra-Matic automatic transmission is offered as an option with both engines.

In four-wheel drive models, a silent transfer case is operated by shifting a single, two-position floor-mounted lever. The shift from two or four-wheel drive is made easily whether the vehicle is parked or in motion. Instrument panel lights indicate the position of the control lever.

Standard in both Wagoneers and Gladiators is a wide range of safety features, including a high impact resistance windshield, padded instrument panel and sun visors, front and rear seat belts, two-speed windshield wipers and washers, driver's outside rear-view mirror, back-up lights, and four-way flasher hazard warning lights for road emergencies.

Also standard is a dual brake system in which front and rear brakes are activated by two separate master cylinders. The brakes are self-adjusting.

Optional features include power steering, power brakes, air conditioning, rear power-lock differential and tinted windshield glass. Alternator equipment with an all-transistorized voltage regulator is standard in all 'Jeep' models.

'Jeep' Universals now have a braking system with double-acting servo brakes and two-stage front and rear springs for improved safety and riding comfort and the "Dauntless" V-6 engine is offered as an option in all Universal models. It provides 160-h.p. as compared with the 75-h.p. of the standard four-cylinder "Hurricane" engine.

Killing Bats With Rackets

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Killing bats with tennis rackets continued Wednesday in the San Angelo jail with police chief Melvin James reporting that 1,000 of the winged creatures were killed in a few days.

James said the bats have lived in the walls of the jail for a number of years but two weeks ago workmen sealed up exterior holes and the bats had nowhere to go but inside the jail.

Armed with tennis rackets, guards have been standing near the escape holes, swatting the furry flyers as they fly into the jail building.

One prisoner has already been bitten by a bat and is undergoing rabies treatment.

Death Penalty For Kidnapers Is Affirmed

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Court of Criminal Appeals today upheld the death penalty assessed a man who made a desperate flight to Colorado, where he allegedly kidnaped a police chief and held a family prisoner in its home.

The court affirmed the conviction of Theo Ray Thames in the Dec. 21, 1967, shooting death of Billy Guy Tolleson, operator of the Starlight Club in Fort Worth.

According to case records, three men entered the club. Tolleson was informed that two of them had caused trouble a couple of nights before. Tolleson put a pistol in his pocket, then warned the men they should leave if they were carrying guns. A dispute ensued.

A witness said Thames got behind the bar and said, "Hey, Buddy, I've got something for you," and shot at Tolleson.

Thames and one of the other defendants fled to Colorado, records show, where he held the police chief prisoner and forcibly occupied a farm house inhabited by a woman and three children. Later they took another man prisoner and used his car to drive to Denver, records show.

Thames was arrested in St. Bernard Parish, La., and was identified in a line-up by Tolleson's wife as one of the men who took part in the shoot-out. Thames' lawyers claimed on appeal that persons opposing the death penalty were systematically excluded from the Fort Worth jury that tried him. But the appeals court said that each of the seven who were challenged for cause had declared they could not under any circumstances assess the extreme penalty. This, the court continued, is in line with the U.S. Supreme Court's "Witherspoon Decision."

The Supreme Court ruled, the Texas Court said, that the state has a right to exclude prospective jurors "who say that they could never vote to impose the death penalty or that they would refuse even to consider its imposition in a case before them."

Defense attorneys also attacked the admissibility of testimony concerning the incidents in Colorado and the circumstances of Thames' arrest in Louisiana.

"The fact that the circumstances of flight shows the commission of another crime does not render the evidence inadmissible," the court said.

Beef Cattle Institute In Lamesa Slated

Howard County Agent Paul Gross will attend a five-county beef cattle institute Wednesday in the Forrest Park Community Center, Lamesa.

The meeting is sponsored by the South Plains Development Committee for Howard, Borden, Lynn, Gaines and Dawson counties and will begin at 9:30 a.m. Adjournment is scheduled for 3:15 p.m.

Speakers and their topics will include Dr. Don Rummel, area entomologist, "Controlling External Parasites on Beef Cattle"; Uel D. Thompson, animal husbandman, "Utilizing Gin Trash, Sorghum Stubble and Silage in Semi-Drylot Programs for Beef Cows"; Tom E. Prater, farm management specialist, "Economics of Beef Cattle on South Plains Farms"; Thompson, "Use of Green Chop and Silage for Growing Cattle"; John R. Beverly, animal husbandman, "Palpitation of Cows and What It Can Mean To You"; John J. Seibert, grain marketing specialist, "The Use of Cattle Futures in Marketing of Beef Cattle"; and Dr. Frank Orts, meats specialist, "The Modern Steer and the Type of Carcass He Will Need to Yield for the 1970 Trends."

Persons attending the meeting will be given an opportunity to ask questions before they adjourn.

Wife Of Missing Pilot Encouraged

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — The wife of a missing Navy pilot returned to Corpus Christi Tuesday after two weeks of talks with representatives of the North Vietnam government in Paris.

Mrs. Carolyn Dennison said she was encouraged in her efforts to learn the fate of her husband, Cmdr. J.R. Dennison, shot down over North Vietnam Jan. 1, 1968.

She said Hanoi representatives to the Paris peace talks indicated they would notify her within two months of her husband's fate.

DEAR ABBY: I am a cook at a country club. A week ago I got the flu and had to stay home for several days. The boss called me up and asked me for my onion ring recipe. I told him it was my own special recipe, and the other cook could make up HIS recipe like I made up mine. The boss then asked, "Is it your intention to take the onion ring recipe to your grave with you?" (You can imagine how that kind of question hit me, being sick with the flu and all.)

Well, I never did give him my recipe. Do you think I was wrong or not?
COOK
DEAR COOK: A professional cook is under no obligation to give his recipes away.

DEAR ABBY: For the past eight months my friends and relatives have been playing "DEAR ABBY" — and now I would like the real DEAR ABBY to stand up with HER advice.

My widowed sister remarried (a widower) and in lieu of a gift we gave her a cocktail dinner party. I asked her to limit the number of guests, as we could accommodate only 30 comfortably. Everyone accepted. The night of the party we held up dinner half an hour waiting for a couple who never did show up. Neither did they call to apologize or explain later. I have had nothing to do with them since.

HOW 'BOUT THAT? DEAR HOW: First I would want to be positively certain they received my invitation. If they did, and plumb "forgot" (which is possible) I wouldn't hold it against them a lifetime. It's hard to believe that anyone would accept an invitation — plan NOT to come, and be so rude as to not show up or apologize later for their absence. Something is cockeyed here. If I were you, I'd ask THEM.

DEAR ABBY: re your letter from "LIKES PETS" who wanted to know if a dog would mistake a green carpet for grass, and use it accordingly. Dogs go by "smell" and "feel" — not by color. Next thing you know, someone will be asking whether or not to buy tables with brown legs, since they look like trees.

"LIKES PETS, TOO, OUTSIDE!"
What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Playday Set Sunday For Area Riders

The second District 5 playday will be held here Sunday at the Rodeo Bowl, with registration from 8:11 a.m., and events to start at 9 a.m.

The playday is sponsored by the area members of the American Association of Sheriffs' Poses and Riding Clubs, and Leon Cox, regional vice president from Amarillo, is expected to be on hand.

The district includes an area from Andrews to Brownwood. Lunch will be served on the grounds, and include plate lunches, sandwiches, doughnuts, coffee, cold drinks, and candy.

Area sponsors of the playday include the Howard County Sheriffs Posse, Howard County Youth Horsemen, Knott Saddle Club, Rhythm Riders, and the Martin County Sheriffs Posse.

The Howard County Posse rode in the Sweetwater parade last Saturday and won the first place trophy. The Martin County Posse won second place and the Haskell County Posse won third.

The Sweetwater Rodeo Association invited the Howard County Posse to set pivots for the grand entry, and two members, Valerie Gamble and Patricia Cherry, posted the colors.

Crafts Fair Set In Odessa

The public is invited to attend the Odessa Chamber of Commerce Arts and Crafts Fair Friday through Sunday, according to Don Cleveland, general chairman. Admission is free.

Exhibit Hall "A" will be open to the public from 1 to 6 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, and 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday with the latest in arts and crafts on display, Cleveland said.

Continuous exhibits and demonstrations include ceramics, cellulay-instant papier-mache, treasure golds and treasure jewels, decoupage, purse box displays, sculpture wax techniques, paper tote, painting demonstration by Celene Yelverton, author of Paint Away Designs and Patterns, watercolor technique demonstrations by J. N. Hayward of Alva, Okla., hooked rug demonstrations, stained glass lamp demonstrations, finishing greenware and casting resin projects, oil painting demonstration by Brown Jarrett of Odessa, formafilm and dialacolor color wheel demonstrations.

Audience participation projects will include working with art tissue, pearl parchment, forged foil, burlap flowers and fake fur flowers with hourly drawings held for these events. Tickets entitling the holder to a chance to work at the participation tables are available at no charge from The Paint Bucket, 2614 N. Grandview, Odessa.

The Odessa Art Association will present paintings by local and area artists. All works will be for sale, and tickets for a portrait by Paul Milosevich, chairman of the Odessa College Art Department, will be offered.

In addition to competition in archery, basketball, chess, table tennis, marksmanship, track and field events, car road-e-o, bowling and general knowledge, there will be various other activities.

Included will be visits to the flight line, flying a link trainer, tour of the base, and social affairs. Capt. Dennis Scarborough is the project officer.

Church Film

"Walk the Tightrope," a film showing the story of communism's power, persuasion and promotion, will be shown at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Immaculate Heart of Mary School. The film is sponsored by the Teachers of Christian Doctrine at Immaculate Heart of Mary School. The public is invited, and admission is free.

Oil Jobbers To Meet In Houston

More than 1,000 oil jobbers, commissioned agents and suppliers are due to be in Houston April 9 for the annual meeting of the Texas Oil Jobbers Association.

Tommy Gage, president of Gage Oil Company will head the local delegation. He is a state director. A prime topic of discussion will be proposals to refine lead-free gasoline to reduce air pollution and the economic effect of the change over for oil marketers. The association estimated that 100,000 new pumps and 50,000 storage tanks will have to be installed. Pumps range from $3,000 to $5,000 each in cost, according to the association.

When he reported this to Hutton, Latchford said, Hutton told him that "sometimes things go haywire."

Dave Frazier, manager of Galveston's sewage-treatment plant, was asked by telephone if anyone else might be responsible for the high alkaline content of sewage coming into the plant.

Brewery Argues With Officials

AUSTIN (AP) — Does Falstaff Brewing Corp. of Galveston pollute Galveston Bay?

The brewery issued a statement Wednesday denying it.

But state and city officials insisted that it does.

Falstaff issued its statement because an investigator for the Texas Water Quality Board told The Associated Press Friday that the city's main sewage-treatment plant sometimes has to divert Falstaff effluent directly into the bay.

The effluent is so alkaline that it kills bacteria needed in treating sewage, said John Latchford, the investigator.

Latchford told the board that he paid a surprise visit to the city's plant March 24 and discovered it was diverting raw sewage—300,000 gallons of it in one hour—directly into the bay.

An operator at the plant, later identified as B.J. Harvey, told Latchford the Alkaline waste was coming from the brewery washes returnable bottles.

Stan Hutton, Falstaff plant general manager, told The AP Wednesday: "... we would like to get the facts straight as far as Falstaff Brewing Corp. is concerned. Following an extensive study by our consulting engineers in 1967, we've constructed our own waste treatment facility at our Galveston brewery."

"This facility, which has been operating since December of that year effectively neutralizes the alkaline quality of the effluent from the Brewery..."

Hutton quoted Galveston City Manager John Underferth as saying: Falstaff is bending over backward to help Galveston solve its pollution problems."

"We did have a lot of trouble here, and that's the reason we put the pretreatment plant in," Hutton said.

Besides, Latchford's surprise visit to the city plant was in the middle of the day, and Falstaff empties its bottle washing vats only in the middle of the night, Hutton said.

Reached by telephone Wednesday, Latchford stood behind his statements to The AP. "That is what I feel is the truth," he said.

Further, Latchford said he had personally checked the effluent from Falstaff's pretreatment plant between Jan. 1 and Feb. 13. He found its alkaline content 31 per cent higher than the level at which it begins to kill bacteria at the city's plant. He also found it contained a B.O.D. (biological oxygen demand) factor of 1,300. The state water quality board insists that cities hold their B.O.D. under 30.

When he reported this to Hutton, Latchford said, Hutton told him that "sometimes things go haywire."

Dave Frazier, manager of Galveston's sewage-treatment plant, was asked by telephone if anyone else might be responsible for the high alkaline content of sewage coming into the plant.

'MARCH FOR VICTORY' LEADER — Dr. Carl McIntire, head of the committee sponsoring Saturday's "March for Victory" along Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington, is busy at work in the group's Washington office. McIntire, from Collingswood, N.J., is a pastor, radio preacher and president of the International Council of Christian Churches. Sponsors of the march, which supports a military victory in Vietnam, estimates anywhere from 25,000 to 150,000 persons from as many as 43 states will participate in the demonstration and rally.

MEDICAL COSTS—4

Care Hinges On Many Factors

Editor's Note: The availability of good care, one of the most critical problems in medicine today, is explored in this article, the fourth in a series from the AP Special Assignment Team.

By JAMES R. POLK
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Houston heart surgeon snapped forward in his chair at the suggestion that many Americans shrug off the heavy costs of health care, highest in the world, as the price that is paid for the best in quality.

“That doesn't mean they get it,” said Dr. Michael E. DeBakey.
The famed surgeon pointed out one of the most critical problems in medicine today — not the grimness of cancer or the overindulgence of American appetites — but the logistics questions of making good care available to all.

Even though U.S. medical know-how may be the best in the world, an Associated Press study shows that access to that superb care for many persons hinges on a hit-and-miss system that can vary with where you live, how much you make, and what time of day it is.

TWO WOES
Two problems were spotlighted by the AP study: —Doctors are not always where the human need is. Rural towns find doctors scarce. So do slums. And the family doctor, who may work more but gets paid less than a specialist, is on the verge of vanishing everywhere.

—Despite the billions being spent by the government, the Medicaid program for the poor is often both a sham and a shambles. Its problems are so vast that Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, the government's top health official, describes the program with a four-letter word.
In the last two decades, America's health costs have spurted from $12 billion to $60 billion. But most of the money, according to government figures, was swallowed up by inflated prices — only a third of the extra costs went to pay for medical progress and improved care.

That progress has been spectacular. For most middle-class Americans, medical care is undeniably better than ever. Polio has been whipped, smallpox is a fading memory, expensive cardiac units in hospitals have boosted the survival rate after the first heart attack by nearly one-half.

GOOD ODDS
But, if you are a typical American male of 40, your chance of living to be 50 is less in this country than in England, France, Germany, Japan or any nations.

The United States ranks 18th in the life expectancy of men, 11th in how long women live, only 14th in infant survival.

The way Americans live has much to do with this.
“The myth is that doctors can keep alive people who smoke two packs a day and drive fast cars and get exercise only when they change TV stations,” said Dr. Richard L. Wilbur of the American Medical Association.

But the AMA official said the nation does face a crisis in the lack of availability of care for many Americans. He called this problem more serious than soaring costs.

QUESTIONS
“The whole question is availability,” Dr. Wilbur said. “If you can't get it, what difference is it if it costs a dime or a million dollars?”
The problems of getting care surface in cases and scenes like these:

1. Arlington, Va. — An officer just out of the Navy who wanted to get a simple prescription re-filled had to hunt six weeks in this Washington suburb before he could find a private doctor accepting any new patients. A neighbor who had an attack of appendicitis around midnight that required emergency surgery found out from an answering service that his physician didn't take night calls.

The family doctor is becoming harder to find in both city and countryside. Latest figures show the general practitioners in the nation declined from 69,000 to 59,000 in one year — a whopping 10,000 drop that was greater than the total of all medical school graduates last year, most of whom became specialists anyway.

UNWANTED ROLE
At the same time, the hospital emergency room is acquiring an unwanted role throughout the nation as the doctor's office after dark. Emergency room visits have climbed to 114 million a year — but an American Hospital Association spokesman says less than half the cases are actual emergencies.

2. Los Angeles, Calif. — 81 persons, mostly Negroes or Mexican-Americans, are jammed in the waiting room for treatment at Los Angeles County Medical Center, a huge urban hospital for the poor. A baby is wailing, an electric fan whirrs, an old man with a cane barks at a sullen youth. To get four minutes of treatment one patient waits nearly two hours.

The hospital's administrator concedes it is “a system of a lack of human dignity” that provides only crisis care, not preventive health. Resident doctors are complaining there are too many patients. Medicaid and Medicare fail to cover a third of the needy cases, leaving Los Angeles taxpayers with a $28 million annual bill to pick up.

THE BEST
Despite its problems, the Los Angeles center ranks among the best of the college-connected hospitals built in slums to provide the care for patients described in medical school ledgers as “teaching material.” Boston City Hospital, another huge slum facility, has so many headaches it has become the first major hospital in the nation in recent years to lose its accreditation.

De Valls Bluff, Ark. — Ever since “Dr. Bill” died back in 1966, the dusty town of De Valls Bluff in central Arkansas has been searching everywhere for a new doctor. The nearest physician is 23 miles away. In four years, the town hasn't even been able to get a doctor to visit for a look around.

“They don't want a small town,” said one woman. National statistics show five out of six doctors now practice in cities, although more than one-quarter of the population still lives in rural areas.

4. Fleming, Ky — The doctor's office is in a worn wooden building a mile up the mountain hollow. The sign has fallen down. The mining hospital that brought the doctor there a decade ago is closed and crumbling. The only doctor left in the region, he sees up to 120 patients a day and admits his hurried practice is “assembly line medicine,” but says his only alternative would be to turn people away.

Medicaid pays this man well — over $100,000 a year — for caring for the poor, but all the federal billions have hardly dented the main problem of attracting more doctors to Appalachia and other areas that need them badly. A New York City study of the most active Medicaid physicians showed

Webb Trial Is Recessed

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP) — Prosecution testimony concluded Wednesday and the state rested its case in the trial of Samuel Webb of San Antonio, charged with murder in the shooting death last May of 76-year-old Eugene Johnson.
The case was moved to Victoria on a change of venue.
Webb, who allegedly called himself the Thief of Baghdad, also is charged with robbery by firearms.
Johnson was shot four times May 2 when he went to investigate a disturbance in his yard. A pair of San Antonio teenagers testified they were being robbed at gunpoint by Webb when Johnson surprised the robber.
Court was recessed until Thursday to allow the defense time to contact certain witnesses.

THE LONG WAIT — The wait is long for the poor at crowded facilities such as the Los Angeles County Medical Center. The country's urban hospitals in the slums are often overcrowded and beset with problems.

Bohannon Adds Miller's To Beer Distributorship

Don Bohannon, Falstaff beer distributor here since 1951, has recently been appointed as Miller High Life distributor.
“I feel fortunate to be able to add another fine beer to my line of products,” Bohannon said. He distributes Falstaff and Miller High Life to all licensed outlets in Big Spring.
“Our business is very seasonal, with summer our busiest time of year,” he said. “Adding Miller High Life to our line will mean extra trucks and men this summer.”
Mrs. Bohannon handles the office and book work at the warehouse, 1107 E. 2nd, while Bohannon handles the outside work.
Bohannon said he is already distributing the full line of the “Champagne of Beers,” including kegs, bottles and cans.
Bohannon is president of the Big Spring Wholesale Beer Distributor's Association, a position he has held eight years, and will be attending the state convention in Galveston April 23-25.
He is also active in civic work as a member of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the Episcopal Church and also belongs to the Oddfellows and the Elks.
Mr. and Mrs. Bohannon live at 105 Washington and have one daughter, Mrs. Charlie (Carol Ann) Ogburn.

Trucker Back To

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tentative agreement to end a strike by more than 100,000 truck drivers over three years was announced Thursday. The tentative agreement was reached after a week of negotiations between the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and the trucking industry. The tentative agreement calls for a new contract announcement by the end of the month. The tentative agreement also calls for a new chief negotiator for the trucking industry.
