Club Hears Talk On Soil, Water

Soil and water conservation was discussed by Dr. Paul Koshi who gave the Big Spring Garden Club a tour of the U.S. Experiment Station Wednesday. Dr. Koshi described the work being done in conservation and results shown by various experiments.

Use of mulch, such as cotton burs, is very effective in conserving water, Dr. Koshi emphasized. He said that the Experiment Station here serves as the "dry sandy land" test center for crops such as cotton and pasture grasses, for the states of Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico and Texas.

To conserve soil, Dr. Koshi recommended planting certain grasses or bamboo cane to prevent soil from blowing and eroding and causing great damage.

After the tour of the station, Dr. Koshi accompanied the club to Comanche Park where he identified trees, shrubs and plants for the members.

Mrs. J. C. Pickle was hostess for the meeting. The state convention for federated garden clubs will be April 28-30 in San Antonio. The final club meeting will be a luncheon May 6 at Holiday Inn.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise: This is how I am putting my no-longer-needed crib bumpers to good use. As you know, these bumpers are filled with a fine, soft sponge. I thought to myself, "Wouldn't that sponge make wonderful replacements for my old sponge dish mop that has a plastic handle?" The sponge wears out, but the handle part is just as good as the day I bought it.

Anyway, I cut a piece of sponge the width of a regular-sized dish sponge except that I cut it a couple of inches longer.

Then I cut into each side of the cut sponge (all the way up and down both sides of it) at regular intervals almost to the center of the sponge.

I then rolled this cut sponge as tightly as I could and by twisting and pushing was able to put it through the ring on my old sponge mop handle. When centered, I only had to fluff it out and lo and behold a beautiful dish sponge, just like new and it didn't cost a cent.

I did this with my first baby's bumper, too, and got about a year's worth of beautiful dish sponges. When one sponge gets dingy and dirty, I just whip up a new one. I am still using the same dish mop handle. . . . Mrs. Evelyn Sweeney

Evelyn, you get top billing with that one. That is the best little penny-pinching act I've come across in many a moon.

You know, you are a real humdinger, and in my book, that means, without a doubt, YOU are the GREATEST! . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise: After several years of our small children getting too much salad dressing on their salad, I hit upon the idea of putting the dressing in an empty mustard jar with the push-button dispenser.

Now there's no wasting the dressing, and you don't have to worry about making sure the lid is on tight before shaking the dispenser.

It is a lot easier for small hands to handle. . . . Marilyn Galvan

Dear Heloise: Those flared leg pants are so very stylish and are just fine for some women but, for me, I prefer the tapered style.

You see, I'm a farmer's wife and wouldn't I look silly hanging by my heels from my tractor with my pants leg caught . . . guess I'll stick to the ankle huggers. . . . Farmer's Wife

Dear Heloise: I read in your column that one of your readers uses a clothes hamper to store clothes.

Well, I also store out-of-season clothes in my clothes hamper, but being so short of space, never really knew what to do with the hamper. It always seemed to be in the way.

So, since my hamper is wicker and has a nice flat top, I got the bright idea of using it as a bedside table.

I dressed it in a beautiful pink rayon taffeta skirt and hung a pretty, small picture over it.

This really killed two birds with one stone. I had a bedside table that I needed very badly and also got the hamper out of the way.

Besides that, I've had lots of compliments on my little table. . . . Mrs. A.W.A.

Dear Heloise: The other day my mom was ironing a dress with one of those big collars that fold over. After she finished, she didn't want the collar to get wrinkled while hanging in the closet so she took some aluminum foil and folded it into the shape of the collar. Then she placed the aluminum foil under the collar of the dress.

The next morning when I took my dress out of the closet to wear, the collar looked beautiful . . . not a wrinkle in it. . . . Linda Martel (Write Heloise in care of the Big Spring Herald.)

Serving with Mrs. Wadle will be Mrs. Adren Westbrook, vice president; Mrs. Johnnie Winham, extension officer; Mrs. Moren, recording secretary; Mrs. Clyde Cantrell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ernest Bauch, treasurer; and Mrs. Herman Schiflett, program moderator. Mrs. Carlton Black, who was installed as a new member, will serve as reporter.

The studies on personality analysis were continued under the leadership of Mrs. Winham.

The next meeting will be in the Schiflett home at Sand Springs.

Dr. R. B. G. Cowper Discusses Cancer

Dr. R.B.G. Cowper was guest speaker, discussing the dangers and signs of cancer at the Big Spring Credit Women's luncheon Thursday at the Settles Hotel. April has been designated Cancer Month.

Dr. Cowper defined cancer as beginning with a few cells which grow and multiply without any purpose.

"These cells can be aggravated or excited by certain things such as tobacco in any form," he said. "The purpose of the American Cancer Society is to give the facts to people and let them decide, not tell them, what to do."

"To help prevent cancer, avoid continued over-exposure to the sun, and do not use tobacco. Cancer can occur in a person of any age, but is more prevalent in older people. At the present rate, one out of every four persons, or 52 million individuals, will get cancer. Now 960,000 people in the United States have cancer. Out of those, 330,000 will die; that is 900 people a day, one person a minute.

"The survival rate before 1900 was none. In the 1930's one out of five survived; in the 1940's, one out of four; and after 1956, one out of three."

Dr. Cowper listed the seven warning signals of cancer which are published in Cancer Society pamphlets, available to the public.

Presiding was Mrs. W. E. Moren, president, and Loyd Wooten was introduced as a guest. Mrs. George Weeks won the capsule fund. The next meeting will be April 16 in the evening at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Ragan, 511 Hillside.

A LOVELIER YOU The Right Hem-Length Is What Flatters You

By MARY SUE MILLER

The midi . . . Is it in or isn't it?

Here we are at the height of the spring season and the answer does not come clear. The pros and the cons seem to cancel out. Young girls with beautiful legs naturally are against any drop in the hemline. Likewise ladies clinging to the mini's youthful appearance. And girl-watchers!

Then there's still a whole contingent of Lovelies who are not certain what length a midi really is. Is it just below the knee like Chanel's perennial favorite? Does it fall to mid-calf, a little below or above? What of the ankle drop?

At the moment, the right length is the one that most flatters and pleases you. Dresses that flirt with the ankles are largely designed for evening wear; the knee-length is daytime "do." A mid-calf hemline knows no special hour. But, for good effect, it insists on being turned at the most becoming point on an individual's leg. A half inch up or down can make all the difference between a gauche and a well-proportioned, graceful line.

What's more, we should not lose sight of the fact that the midi is as much of a new mood as a new length. It is not hippie or costume. It requires the treatment once given elegant classic casuals—a fine leather belt, more heel and less shoe, smoky, sheer stockings, a swash-buckling chapeau.

Seems as if it is "in." Who's afraid to give in?

LEGLINE TRIMMERS

If your individual problem is heavy legs, send for my new leaflet, "Legline Trimmers," which contains spot reducing exercises that will meet your individual needs, whether for thighs, knees, calves or ankles, or for contouring your entire legline. Write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin.

HOW DOES YOUR GARDEN GROW?

If your garden isn't pretty, the quality of your soil may be poor. Miracle Bark Soil Conditioner mixed with your soil will produce healthy plants and pretty flowers. Miracle Bark lasts years longer than other conditioners and builds a rich humus. Another product—Miracle Bark Decorative Mulch—spread on top of your flower beds and around trees will beautify your garden for years. It also holds moisture in the soil reducing watering work, and restricting weeds. A big bag of either product is only $2.99.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 34-year-old son who is married to a very pretty girl of 25. She found out that my son was seeing another girl, so she confronted him and then he stopped seeing the other girl.

My problem is the method my daughter-in-law is using to punish my husband. She has been making a big play for MY husband. He is 57, Abby, and very attractive. Naturally he loves it and even encourages her. I could never appeal to my daughter-in-law because I am sure she would never consider my feelings as she has never liked me very much although I never have given her any reason for feeling that way. Now I am worried that all this kidding around and hugging and kissing may develop into something more serious. Please tell me how to handle this, Abby. I'm terribly upset.

CAN'T COMPETE
DEAR ABBY: You could tell your husband to act his age and cool it a little out of respect to his son's marriage, which sounds as though it's on fairly shaky ground right now. It may not help. But it can't hurt.

DEAR ABBY: Before any 55-year-old grandmother has all her teeth extracted for "Heath reasons," as she stated, she ought to get another opinion.

If more people would realize the problems associated with "false teeth," more people would run to the dentist to try to save their teeth.

A dental journal recently disclosed that approximately five million people in the United States of America have deposited their lower dentures in the dresser drawers because they cannot wear them!

I am tired of "yanking" teeth. I'd much rather save and restore them.

Abby, remain true to your teeth, and they will never be false to you. Sincerely,

DEAR DOCTOR: I have been more than true to my teeth, and thus far they have been "true" to me.

DEAR ABBY: I noticed in your column where a teenager was ready to give up music lessons because he had a clarinet and then a flute stolen from his locker at school. Abby, many people carry HOMEOWNERS INSURANCE POLICIES, which cover most thefts of this kind. Our daughter's coat and clarinet were stolen from a school locker. We thought it was a complete loss until our insurance agent told us that we were completely covered. And what a happy surprise it was!

Perhaps others who read your column aren't aware of what their policies cover, either. Anyway, it's worth a mention.

NOT AN INSURANCE AGENT
DEAR NOT: You have a lot of company. Many policy holders get a "happy surprise" to learn that they were covered, thinking they were not. But I would guess that there are as many policy holders who get "unhappy surprises" (not being covered, thinking they were). A good agent not only SELLS — he TELLS! So this might be a good time for you (and for me, too!) to call our friendly insurance agent and review the bidding.

Suspended Pupils Seeking Damages

DALLAS (AP) — Two Negro students suspended from El Centro Junior College in March asked to be reinstated and awarded $230,000 in damages in a federal court suit filed Thursday.

The suit is the first major civil rights court action initiated by Ed Polk since his controversial hiring as director of the Dallas Legal Services Project a month ago.

The suspended students are LeRoy Haynes and Clark Johnson, officers of a campus group, Student Organization for United Liberation (SOUL).

Donald T. Rippey, El Centro president and one of the defendants, suspended Haynes and Johnson March 13 for a period ending next Aug. 31 after the college's disciplinary committee said they caused "disruptive behavior" in the lobby of the downtown institution.

Rippey said that Haynes, Johnson and other SOUL members started a protest that ended in a shouting match.

Odessa Speech Report Sells Newspapers

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP) — The publisher of a local newspaper says someone tried to buy up every copy of his latest edition, which contains a report on a militant speech by a candidate in a school board election.

Dale Barker, publisher of the weekly Zavala County Sentinel, said Thursday that the newspaper carried an account of a speech delivered in Odessa by Jose Angel Gutierrez, former chairman of the Mexican-American Youth Organization.

Gutierrez, a Crystal City native, and two associates are running against three other men for three open seats on the Crystal City school board. The election will be held Saturday.

Gutierrez was quoted as telling about 200 young Mexican-Americans in Odessa that the "gringo" had better get out of the Southwest while he can. He was quoted as saying the gringo is "inhuman, wealthy, selfish and unconcerned with you."

The publisher said Gutierrez' wife was seen buying a bale of papers at a store here. Mrs. Gutierrez denied it.

She said she was aware of the story quoting her husband, but predicted when contacted by telephone: "We'll win the race anyway. Jose's speech won't make a bit of difference."

Barker said Gutierrez supporters were trying to buy up all the papers so local residents wouldn't be able to read his remarks about gringos.

Gutierrez has defined gringos in the past as racists or bigots. In his Odessa speech, he described the gringo as "an Aca-pulco jetsetter who believes that all Mexicans are ignorant."

Texas City Youth Charged In Slaying, Couple Sought

HOUSTON (AP) — A young unemployed laborer from Texas City was in jail today charged with murder in the slaying of a Fort Worth meat company executive.

Police arrested and charged Kenneth Atkins Jr., 18, Thursday in the death of James H. Harper, 51, whose body was last Tuesday in Wharton County.

Police took a statement from Atkins Thursday night.

A Houston couple, Harry Lee Gaines, 24, and Barbara Gaines, 26, also have been charged in the case. They have not been arrested.

Harper's body was found in a creek near Glen Flora, in Wharton County. Harris County medical examiner Joseph Jachimczyk said Harper had been stabbed in the chest several times with a long-bladed knife and had been beaten about the head and face.

Harper, head of the processed meat division of Swift & Co., came to Houston March 23 on a business trip.

Wharton County Deputy Sheriff Marvin Adams said Atkins, a half-brother of Gaines was arrested after members of his family in Wharton County said they had seen him with the Gaines couple after the slaying of Aldrich later correctly identified the body.

There were similarities in the deaths of the two men, notably that their hands were bound in each case with their own neckties and they both were stabbed and beaten.

No arrests have been made in the Aldrich case.

Senators Back Funds For Vets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both Texas senators supported President Nixon's increase in funds for veterans' medical care Thursday.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., qualified his support, saying the $50 million isn't enough to relieve the burden on VA hospitals that are obligated to care for the 500 GIs wounded each week in Vietnam.

Many will require long periods of intensive treatment, Yarborough said.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said the proposed increase of $15 million for the rest of this fiscal year and the increase of $30 million in next year's budget would help the pinch of hospitals treating Vietnam victims.

Yarborough also urged President Nixon to reinstate the 5,000 hospital beds recently cut out by the Veterans Administration and to go forward with plans to build new VA hospitals, such as a 760-bed hospital scheduled for San Antonio.

HEMS, HAWS OF GIRDLES

LOUISA, Va. (AP) — The rise of women's hemlines prompted lowering of girdle sales as women found panty hose more fitting to the miniskirt mode, says a spokesman for a textile company that is going out of business.

The spokesman said Fablock Mills of Virginia, Inc. is going out of business because there is too little demand for the stretch fabric it made.

Five Seeking Two Big Spring Seats

Voters in the Big Spring Independent School District will go to the polls Saturday at Big Spring High School and Gay Hill School to elect two trustees from a field of five candidates.

Candidates, in the order in which they will appear on the ballot, are Ted Ferrell, Delnor Poss, Roy Watkins, Ray Thomas and Mrs. Mary Thomas. Watkins is the only incumbent seeking re-election.

Jack Alexander did not file for re-election.

Ferrell, a self-employed insurance agent here for the last five years, lives at 519 Hillside with his wife, Rosemary, and two sons, Rodney, a Goliad seventh grader, and Brian, a Park Hill fourth grader.

"As trustee I feel I can serve the people of my community. These are the people responsible for the success I have enjoyed in Big Spring," Ferrell said.

Poss is a former head basketball coach and assistant football coach at Big Spring High School. He resigned in 1965 to become coordinator of purchasing for Gameo Industries Inc. He and wife live at 704 Mathews with their three sons, Nathan, high school; and Del and Mark, Park Hill students.

"I feel my teaching experience gives me background in the working of the school system," Poss said.

Watkins, who lives with his wife and two daughters, Monica, high school senior, and Tammy, a fourth grader, at 606 Drake Road, is seeking his second term on the school board.

"The three years I have spent on the board have strengthened my belief that we have a fine school system served by a competent professional staff."

Thomas lives at 1300 E. 18th with his wife and two children, Brenda, 15, and Cliff, 13. He was born and reared in Big Spring, attending public schools here. He is assistant administrator of Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital.

Thomas said he feels it is time to "begin to concentrate upon the goal of basic education afforded our children, with increased concentration upon the kind and quality of our teachers."

Mrs. Thomas is the wife of George Thomas, local attorney. They live at 805 Edwards with their two children, Tana, 13, and Thad, 19 months. She has been a legal secretary here for 10 years.

"I feel this is a civic duty not to be taken lightly — to see our schools operated on a feasible basis, economically and in the academic field," she said.

U.S. Paying For Afro Look

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The United States is sending Willie Lee Morrow around the world at government expense to bring bushy, rounded Afro haircuts to black Yanks in uniform.

Morrow spent three recent weeks in England and Germany where he taught 500 barbers and 300 beauticians in U.S. military post exchanges how to cut kinky hair.

In April, he'll do the same in San Francisco, Dallas, Atlanta and Washington, D.C.

In May, he'll spend 40 days on U.S. bases in Alaska, Japan, Korea, Okinawa, the Philippines, Thailand, Vietnam, Guam and Hawaii.

A Negro with a successful shop in San Diego catering to Negroes, Morrow says he has sold several thousands copies of his book "The Principles of Cutting and Styling Negro Hair" to the military. There are 14 training films out on black hair styling, he says, which show basic differences between the hair of whites and Negroes. Black hair grows in a shape almost like a corkscrew and is tough and kinky, Morrow said in an interview Thursday.

Allowing Negroes in U.S. uniform to wear longer, bush-style hair has improved morale, he says.

SIGNS BILL TO TEST LEGALITY OF WAR — Massachusetts Gov. Francis W. Sargent as he signs controversial bill designed to set up test of legality of Vietnam war. The bill approved by wide margins in House and Senate, both controlled by Democrats, would protect Massachusetts servicemen from serving in the absence of a congressional declaration of war.

Cancer Drive Set Tonight

The annual house-to-house drive in behalf of the Cancer Crusade will be staged tonight, according to Mrs. Carl Marcum, campaign chairman.

Captain Guilty Of Raping Child

HOUSTON (AP) — Roy Lewis Vance, 52, a shrimp boat captain convicted of raping an 11-year old Pasadena girl, has been sentenced to 25 years in prison.

A jury of eight women and four men set the penalty in Dist. Judge Dan Walton's court Thursday.

Write-In Is Only Way To Run Against Dowdy

Any late-blooming candidate who'd like to run in Texas' May 2 primary elections have waited too long to make the plunge.

The secretary of state's office in Austin made that clear Thursday. A spokesman ruled out a place on the ballots for either the primaries or the November general election for an independent proposing to challenge a so far unopposed East Texas congressman, Rep. John Dowdy.

This situation came to a head as contenders for U.S. senator and other offices charged full tilt into a heavy campaign schedule for the weekend.

Speaking as director of elections for the secretary of state, Randall Wood said no independent can get on the ballot this year because Feb. 2 was the deadline to file notice of intent to run. He said a write-in candidate could run in November but not in the primaries.

Opposition for Dowdy loomed after the congressman from Athens was indicted by a federal grand jury in Baltimore on a charge of taking a $25,000 bribe to intervene in a fraud probe involving a construction firm.

A former district judge, Eugene R. Hoyt of Orange, said he would start collecting signatures on a petition in order to run as an independent candidate against Dowdy.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough marked the 13th anniversary of his election to the Senate at a surprise party Thursday in Washington while three men who seek to displace him appeared on the same platform in Houston.

They crossed trails again today as Yarborough sought to drum up support in Dallas and his opponent in the Democratic primary, Lloyd Bentsen, stumped the Fort Worth area.

Rep. George Bush, bidding for the Republican nomination for U.S. senator, also was wooing voters in Dallas—the home of his GOP rival, Dr. Robert Morris.

A number of other senators turned out for a reception arranged by Yarborough's employees, who drew him off the Senate floor supposedly to speak to Texas students bound for exchange schools abroad.

"Well, I'll be bornswoggled," said Yarborough on learning of the ruse. "And I had a speech all prepared for those students."

Two speakers for the Mexican-American Youth Organization climbed to the stage Thursday night at a meeting where Bentsen, Bush and Morris were appearing. Rep. Bob Eckhardt was due to speak for Yarborough at the same gathering of the local council of the League of United Latin American Citizens but couldn't attend.

Taking the microphone as Bush was starting to answer questions, Gregory Salazar of the MAYO group declared, "We will say to the gringo political establishment that the Chicano (Mexican-American) is tired of token Chicano leadership in the Democratic and Republican parties."

Bentsen spoke to the predominantly Mexican-American audience prior to the interruption, saying, "I suspect that every individual in this room shares the same dreams for this great country of ours. We believe a man should be judged by what he has here in his heart and in his mind, not by the color of his skin or his national origin."

Unrest throughout the nation has caused many people to lose confidence in this country, Bentsen said, adding, "This points again to a need for better leadership."

Bush told the LULAC rally crowd of about 200 that Mexican-Americans have risen to claim "policy positions" under President Nixon. He said his own record in Congress "reflects a sensitivity to the needs of Mexican-Americans in Texas."

At the opening of his Houston headquarters earlier, Bush expressed a stand for "a total change in our welfare system, with work incentives and new training methods and day care centers and job matching by computers."

Morris addressed the LULAC group after the MAYO spokesmen and said he was "grateful to hear this seemingly valid protest of these young people. We have neglected some of the human resources which have gone into the makeup of our nation."

The bidding:

1♥ Pass 1♣ Pass
4♥ Pass 3♣ Pass
4♥ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠
A clever false card by East induced South, the declarer at four hearts to dig his own grave.

West opened the king of clubs and East began a high-low signal by dropping the ten. When the ace was cashed next, he completed the echo by playing the nine. A third round of clubs was led and ruffed in dummy with the eight of hearts.

East was in position to score the jack of trumps on an overruff, however, this trick would merely serve to complete the defensive book, and he was looking beyond. With the appearance of the two top club honors from his partner's hand, East could account for 27 high card points in view. This meant that South was marked with every missing top honor to warrant his opening bid.

If East overruffed with the jack of hearts, he could expect South subsequently to take a finesse against the king of trumps and thereby eliminate his only other prospective loser. In order to avert the expected result, East chose to overruff dummy with the king of hearts.

The shift was to a spade and South put up the ace. Inasmuch as East's play of the king of hearts was made without the slightest falter, declarer concluded that the jack of hearts was held by West. He was not, therefore, tempted to finesse for that card and hoping that the honor would fall doubleton, he cashed the ace and queen of trumps.

When West showed out on the second heart, East's ruse was revealed, but too late to save South the humiliation of conceding the setting trick to his opponent.

G.I. Forum To Receive Charter Here Sunday

Dr. Hector P. Garcia, founder of the American G.I. Forum, will be in Big Spring Sunday to present the newly organized chapter of the organization with its charter.

The ceremonies will be held at 2 p.m. in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church youth center.

The organization assists youngsters in educational advancement by providing scholarships, as well as providing welfare help to needy families, according to its local sponsors. Members of the Forum are expected to attend from Lubbock, Lamesa, Midland, Odessa, Seminole, Floydada and other cities. The public is invited.

Other guests for the meeting include Bernie Sandoval, executive state secretary of the Forum; Esther Sepulveda, auxiliary state chairman; and Dominga Coronado, national chairman of women in community service (WICS) from Utah (appointed by Mrs. Richard Nixon).

Garcia served as an ambassador to South America under President Kennedy, and as a delegate to the United Nations under President Johnson.

Local officers of the G.I. Forum are Junior Corrales, chairman; Humberto Hernandez, secretary; and Gus Hernandez, treasurer.

THESE ARE THE FACTS!

1. Our school taxes, $1.70 per hundred (based on 75% of market value of the property) are the highest in the State for a system of like average daily attendance. Taxes were raised 25% in 1968, and we face another increase.
2. Seventy-five percent of our total budget is paid for teaching salaries.
3. Over-all yearly expenditures have jumped from $1.9 to $4.5 million during the last ten years (1959 to 1969) and in spite of a steady decrease in the number of students (average daily attendance) in recent years, school personnel has increased from 289 to 507 during the same ten years. This 507 does not include approximately 105 people who are employed in school cafeterias.
4. By the use of our reserves in the Interest & Sinking Fund, to meet current expenses on our bonded indebtedness, such fund has been reduced to approximately $105,000. This is a direct violation of accepted financial procedures.
5. Under pressure of the State's strongest lobby, the last Legislature decreed a teacher's salary raise which will require the District to pay its teachers approximately $480,000 more per year.
6. The average starting salary for a teacher in Big Spring, beginning the next school term, with no experience, is $6,650.00. Based on a 5 hour day, 180 days a year, this is approximately $7.28 per hour.
7. To further complicate matters, even such daily 4½ to 5 hours which the teachers should be allowed to use to teach the children is handicapped by red tape and paper work imposed by the multitude of administrative personnel and higher governmental bureaucracies. Why not have teachers aides, less highly educated, and at lower salaries, to attend to the time-consuming red tape, supervise study halls, give achievement tests, and like duties? With too many teachers, are we sacrificing quality for quantity? We have many dedicated teachers to whom we owe our gratitude and loyalty. Are we utilizing their potential or paying them to do things wholly unrelated to education?
8. We have at least 60 teachers in excess of those for which we receive State funds. Annually these salaries, conservatively, would approximate $420,000.
9. Last year we spent $180,000 on administration alone, not including our principals and assistant principals' salaries of approximately $200,000. Our Superintendent is now paid $23,000 annually. In addition the taxpayers lease him an automobile at the rate of $200 per month and pay for his gasoline, etc.
10. Capehart Housing is owned by a private Maryland corporation, and should be paying its share of the ad valorem tax, which would approximate $180,000 a year in school tax alone.

You must go to the polls on Saturday, April 4th. It will be too late next August, when a new budget, and perhaps a tax increase, head the agenda.

The teachers and school personnel will undoubtedly exercise their right to vote. Will you, who pay their salaries, stay at home on election day, and thereby give them a pre-signed blank check in one hand, and the future of your children in the other?

Please vote your preference on April 4th, but please vote.

'New English Bible' Nearly Bestseller

Surprising most booksellers, 'The New English Bible,' only on the market a few weeks, has nearly become a bestseller.

"And it's the version with the Apocrypha that everyone wants," Mrs. Shelby read, Modesta's, said.

The Apocrypha is literature not regarded as canonical, although often read and quoted in church and synagogue. The Old Testament group, a collection of 14 books of Jewish origin is found in the Greek and Latin versions, but not in the Hebrew group is rather an indefinite body of early Christian literature consisting of parallels and additions to the writings of the New Testament.

"The Bible has always been a good seller, and this hasn't been out long enough for us to compare their sales," Mrs. Marie McDonald, Book Stall, said.

Both the local bookstores are sold out of the edition with the Apocrypha, although they each have some of the editions without the addition, and both are expecting shipments of the books.

"We've sold to all denominations, from ministers to students," Mrs. Read said. "One minister had asked us to save him a copy before we even got our shipment," she said.

Theme Announced For Church Meet

ANDERSON, Ind. — The Church of God has announced the theme, "To Be Used of God," for its 81st International Convention to be held here June 15-21.

Dr. Charles V. Weber, executive secretary of the Executive Council, said in an effort to motivate Christians to commit themselves "to be used of God," convention plans include instruction on the "divine resources available and opportunity where convictions can be put to work."

Some 20,000 delegates annually attend the convocation throughout the United States as well as others of 40 countries and geographical locations where the church has work around the world. Chairman of the program committee is Rev. J. David Grubbs, Dayton, Ohio.

One bookseller said she had had a complaint from one minister who said the booksellers should not be handling the books.

With the Apocrypha the volume sells for $9.95. It is $8.95 without the Apocrypha. Modesta's also carries a paperback version of the New Testament from the New English Bible for $1.75. The book is published by Oxford Cambridge.

The volume is a result of 20 years of labor by Protestant and Anglican scholars in Great Britain, and is hailed by many as a breakthrough in language barriers to Biblical study.

New Canon Named For St. Paul's

LONDON (AP) — One of the Church of England's leading authorities on relations with Rome and a personal friend of Pope Paul, the Rev. Bernard C. Pawley has been made a canon of St. Paul's Cathedral. Canon Pawley, 58, was representative of the Anglican Archbishops with the Vatican's Unity Secretariat from 1960 to 1965, besides being an observer at all sessions of the Vatican Council. In 1966, he became chairman of the Archbishop of Canterbury's Commission on Roman Catholic Relations.

College Baptists Dedicate Building

College Baptist Church will dedicate its new activities building with "The Happening" at the 11 a.m. worship services Sunday.

Dr. Byron Orand, pastor, will speak on "What Mean These Stones?" and afterwards there will be a catered luncheon served in the fellowship area. Open house for the facility will be at North Monticello and College.

The 8,000-square-foot addition to the church facilities contains a half-gymnasium, recreation room, kitchen, restrooms and four education departments with 16 classrooms for young people. "The Happening" is the name given to an exterior mural which employs some two score different shades of colors. Bill Brooks, high school draftsman, conceived the basic idea.

The downstairs area includes a foyer opening off the entry corridor, and it is between the kitchen on one side and restrooms on the other. A half-gymnasium which rises two stories high is also included.

Two more departments are over those, plus a recreation room for table tennis, shuffle board, etc., and table games. This also serves as a balcony area which looks over the gym. Inside the foyer is a large pastoral scene of a church painted in honor of Dr. Orand by Mrs. Ira Raley. The interior also includes a number of illustrative panels painted by Mrs. Kenneth Timmons. The building was designed by Gary & Hohertz and built by J. W. Little Construction Co.

Birthday Banquet Slated Tonight

The First Baptist Church family gets together for an evening of fun at 7 p.m. today in the high school cafeteria. The occasion is a resumption of the birthday banquet plan followed for many years by the church until it was dropped because of inadequate meeting space. There will be a table for each month of the year, and all born in that month will sit at that table. Each table contributes a skit to the program.

Model Chapel Is Used As 'Lab'

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — "We're told we have the largest interdenominational campus religious program in the nation," says the Rev. Dr. John H. McCombe, dean of the Syracuse University Chapel. Up to 1,000 gatherings monthly are scheduled there. Students plan the worship services and other events.

"We see the chapel not as a museum for religion but as a laboratory," Dr. McCombe says. "Apparently we are developing a model which can be used by other campuses. They come here to study our chapel activities."

Russian Baptists

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — More than 5,000 Russians were baptized as members of Baptist Churches in the Soviet Union in the last year, the Rev. He says preaching services are held six times weekly in Russian Baptist churches, whose total membership now is about 500,000.

Experts Attack Play's Veracity

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Oh! ye deceived and misguided people ... By frenzy seized they cry: Away to the cross with Him! A furious, blinded people which ceaseth not its clamor till the unwilling judge cries: So take Him and crucify Him!"

Those words from the 1970 versions of the world-famous Passion play of Oberammergau, Germany, which begins its summer-long run May 18, are cited in a new study as part of the evidence of the play's continuing perpetuation of a lie—that Jews killed Christ.

The line-by-line analysis, believed to be the first systematic content examination undertaken in this country, found that the script both engenders hostility to Judaism, and to do so, falsifies the actual historical and Biblical situation.

"It misrepresents not only the objective historical datum of the first century, but also seriously distorts the New Testament accounts," says the Rev. Dr. Gerald S. Strober, a Presbyterian scholar who made the textual analysis.

He adds that the script contradicts the known ruthless character of Roman governor Pontius Pilate, ignores the intense Jewish resistance against the Roman military occupation, fails to recognize Rome's control of the collaborating temple officialdom and covers up Rome's sole jurisdiction over crucifixions, including that of Jesus.

The play also distorts Judaism, ignores the fact that Jesus and all His early followers were Jews, and blanks out the Scripturally attested sympathy for Jesus by a "broad base of the population," Dr. Strober said.

Other experts also aided in the study by the Interreligious Affairs Department of the American Jewish Committee. The findings have been forwarded to West German church and government authorities.

Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum, director of the department, said he also has arranged a meeting with the West German Embassy in Washington, D.C., and is seeking a meeting with the archbishop of Munich, Julius Cardinal Doepfner, about the problem.

The play is performed by villagers of the Bavarian city every 10 years in fulfillment of a vow made in 1633 in gratitude for the end of a plague. The pageant, presented for thousands of tourists through the summer season, has been revised in part since the 1960 performance, deleting some slurring references to Jews such as "this fiendish brood" and "O God, destroy this evil band."

MEDICAL COSTS-5

Medicare For All Pushed

Editor's Note: A government program of national health insurance is being pushed as an answer to America's medical costs crisis. This is the first of a series of articles from the AP Special Assignment Team, details the proposal, and examines its chances of success.

By JAMES R. POLK
WASHINGTON (AP) — A strong drive is surfacing in Congress to create a tax-paid system of free medical care for all Americans.
Both its backers and some of its foes feel a government program of national health insurance is coming soon because of today's runaway costs.
"I don't think it will take more than five years," said Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., chairman of the Senate health subcommittee. "You could get a break and have it in two years."

IT'S COMING
"Good or bad, it's coming. It's inevitable," said a health source in the upper tiers of the Nixon administration.
The Committee for National Health Insurance (CNHI) has set up offices two blocks from the White House with an active lobby, a budding plan, and key backing from people like Yarborough, union leader Walter P. Reuther, and Houston heart surgeon Dr. Michael E. DeBakey.
Its proposals, due to be introduced in Congress this spring are aimed at two major problems in American medicine today:
—Costs have been rocketing out of sight. Hospital bills, which have doubled in the past six years, are expected to double again by 1975, pushing rates up to $200 a day in some cities. And surveys indicate the cost of private insurance will double too.
POOR CARE
—The poor get the poorest care. The slums and the rural areas suffer first in the nation's shortage of doctors. And while Medicaid is meant to pay for care for welfare patients, the working poor who can't afford broad insurance get hit hard by high health bills.
The CNHI plan, a sort of Medicare that begins at birth, calls for the government to pay all hospital and doctors' bills for everyone, piercing the money barrier for the poor and, at the same time, clamping a ceiling of charges to hold down the costs.
The CNHI proposals pin their money-saving hopes on getting more doctors to organize in clinics. Reformers contend many patients can be kept out of high-cost hospital beds when minor surgery and diagnostic tests are handled in clinics instead.
PRICE TAG
Critics of a government-run program are skeptical that it would cut today's costs.
"The government has never run anything and controlled costs. Why should they take this over?" said William H. Flanagan, a hospital director in Roanoke, Va.
The price tag for the program, according to a CNHI estimate which opponents say is not high enough, starts at 40 billion — equal to one-fifth of the present national budget.
CNHI leaders have been silent on how much it would take in higher taxes.
But if a $40 billion plan were based on Social Security taxes like Medicare is, arithmetic shows it would at least double the present bite and take another $750 per working person each year.
That cold dash of reality could temper any hopes for quick passage by Congress.

But Max Fine, executive director for CNHI, said any tax cost would be offset in the family budget by not having to pay for private insurance or for medical care itself.
"I believe there will be some kind of national health insurance program in this country before the 1972 elections," Fine predicted.
Surprisingly, leaders of the American Hospital Association are saying the same thing privately.
And a Midwest delegate in the American Medical Association said, "I wouldn't want to see the plan brought to a vote today in the AMA. There is support for it, a tremendous amount of support, right in our own organization."
The United States is one of the last major western nations that does not have a government-controlled health system.
Sweden, which nationalized its health services in 1955, has the best life expectancy in the world. Other European nations aren't far behind. But their costs are rising, too. Experts have warned Sweden's health bills could consume the country's entire budget within 20 years.

PAVED THE WAY
The first U.S. steps toward a national system have already been taken with tax-paid programs for the two groups who need the costliest health care, the old and the poor, covered by Medicare and Medicaid.
Medicare, by its success, may have paved the way for a full national program. Medicaid, by its failures, may hasten it.
Medicare now protects 20 million elderly persons with tax-paid hospital coverage and an optional, low-cost insurance which can be purchased for doctors' visits. After 3½ years of Medicare, much of the grumbling that greeted it is gone.
In Zanesville, Ohio, an 89-year-old widow has been hospitalized since 1966 with bills running as high as $18,000 a year. Her daughter, also a widow, said, "The road would have been impossible without Medicare."
MEDICAID
Medicaid, on the other hand, has been criticized for not attracting more doctors to poverty areas, for spending twice as much on nursing homes as on physicians for the poor, for leaving low-paid working families uncovered and vulnerable to back-breaking medical bills.
An overhaul of Medicaid is getting a hard look from many health groups. The AMA and insurance leaders, both opposed to a full government takeover, nevertheless have offered various plans for tax-paid insurance policies for millions of the working poor.
Yarborough's committee will have Senate hearings on a national health program late this spring. More important, the House Ways and Means Committee, required birthplace for all tax plans and political graveyard for many, is already starting work this month on Medicaid and Medicare changes.

MOUNTING COSTS
The mounting costs of Medicare and Medicaid, now totaling about $11 billion a year, have prompted the Nixon administration to ask for authority to set lids on doctors' fees and hospital charges under the programs.
CNHI members think these two problems of soaring costs and Medicaid flaws will open the way for House committee hearings on a full national health insurance program either later this year or in 1971.
The CNHI panel is still grappling with details of its plan, but basically its concept of national health insurance would work this way:
—A patient would be able to see a doctor or go to a hospital free, with the bill paid by the government.
—The government would agree with doctors and hospitals in advance on fixed rates for various medical services to control the costs.
—A maximum spending figure for health care would be set each year, totaling, for example, perhaps $40 billion. If the actual costs threatened to spill over the top, then doctors would have to accept the proportionate cutbacks in payments to prevent the loss.
—The government would give financial help to encourage doctors to group together in large clinics that could handle diagnostic work and minor surgery, avoiding the high hospital costs for these cases.

INCOME TAXES
The program would be financed with three-fifths of the money coming from new Social Security-type taxes and the rest from the general treasury. This might mean an increase in income taxes, too.
—A strong political drawback that CNHI leaders have not acknowledged yet.
The arguments against CNHI focus on three criticisms:
—The problems of the poor can be solved without extending a full national program to everyone, the cost savings are unproven, and medical care might collapse in this country if greater demands were placed on the present system with its shortage of doctors.
DISASTER
"It would be a disaster. It would raise false hopes and expectations that could not be met," said Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn.
Ribicoff, a former Cabinet member for health, ticked off an alternative list of suggestions familiar to most plans today for improving care: more clinics, more slum health centers, more medical assistants for doctors.
The common cornerstone to almost all proposals for holding down the skyrocketing costs of health in the 1970s is the clinic.
Both Ribicoff and CNHI officials cite the Kaiser Plan with two million members on the West Coast paying a fixed annual rate that covers all care in the system's network of hospitals and doctors' clinics.
Because of the clinics, the Kaiser Plan has shown a lower percentage of hospitalization that national averages for both Medicare patients and the population as a whole.
The Nixon administration proposed a major change under Medicare and Medicaid last week to allow the aged and poor now covered by the two programs to choose to sign up with comprehensive, pre-paid health plans such as Kaiser, with the government paying the annual dues.
John G. Veneman, under-secretary of health, education and welfare, said the AMA is expected to resist the proposal.

But Veneman argued in House testimony that the pre-paid plans have been successful in cutting the time spent in costly hospitalization.
One insurance study has found that one out of every eight patients in a hospital is there only for X-ray or laboratory tests that could be done in a clinic. Another study decided one out of every four surgery cases was minor enough to be handled in a clinic also.
The potential savings by keeping patients out of $100-a-day hospitals can be enormous. But doctors confide that people insured will pay their bills if they are in bed, rather than a walk-in patient.
"We've got to get away from treating people to fit their insurance policies," said Yarborough.
The private insurance industry is beginning to move toward policies that do cover such walk-care as one step in staving off a full government takeover of all health financing.
Daniel W. Pettengill, vice president of the nation's largest health insurance firm, Aetna Life & Casualty, has put together a package of proposals that takes aim at the wide range of problems today. Pettengill is urging:

—Federal loan guarantees to encourage building walk-in care centers and federal requirements for company health plans to include coverage of such care.
—Federal loans for full cost of medical education, with 10 per cent of the loan to be written off for each year the doctor will spend in a slum or rural poverty area.
—A tax-supported pool of private insurance policies for all the poor and near-poor, with the penniless getting complete coverage free and the low-income working families paying a portion of the costs depending on how much they earn.
At least three other plans already are kicking around Congress for government insurance programs that would embrace various numbers of people, from only the poor to the whole populace.
The AMA has put forth a plan for the government to hand out vouchers for the poor to use to buy private insurance and to let the low-paid working families get income tax credits for most of their insurance costs.
With both the AMA and major insurance leaders backing new versions of government involvement, the debate shaping up in the coming months is not likely to be over whether there will be more federal control of health, but instead how far the new role should reach.

Bid To Increase School Budget
HOUSTON (AP) — Administrators of Houston's public schools propose to increase budget expenditures by $20 million for the 1970-71 fiscal year.
The money would be used to increase teacher salaries and restore free kindergarten and educational enrichment programs dropped last year.
The proposed expenditures, made public Thursday by Dr. Charles Nelson, acting general superintendent, would exceed revenues by $4.3 million.

Crossover Goal
HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston school district says it has 2,238 teachers in crossover assignments, just shy of the 2,500 ordered by a federal judge by last September.
The number reached is about two-thirds of the school board's goal of 3,000 crossover teachers by next September.

Young Sailor Is Cleared Of Murder

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A young sailor has been cleared at last of murder charges filed against him nearly three months ago.
Michael Leroy Hamill, 19, of San Antonio, was arrested on New Year's day while home on leave and charged with the rape-slaying of a mother of three.
The victim was Mrs. Elizabeth Dzanski, 25, whose body was found in a laundromat Dec. 26. She had been stabbed and raped.
Hamill was arrested after several persons in the laundromat that night selected him from numerous photos.
But the witnesses later said they were not sure when they saw Hamill in a police lineup, and one said Hamill definitely was not the person he saw and spoke with there.
Hamill, whose parents had contended all along that he was innocent, was then released on a $10,000 personal recognizance bond.
Dist. Atty. Ted Butler said he was not yet ready to ask the grand jury to dismiss the case.
Hamill, meanwhile, reported for duty to the Naval Training Station at Great Lakes, Ill.
On Thursday, officials reported that the Bexar County Grand Jury had "no billed" the youth, clearing him of the charges.

Shot In Shoulder, Robbery Charged

HOUSTON (AP) — Johnny Ray Grant Jr., 18, of Liberty was held in city jail today on a charge of robbery by firearms in a holdup at the Northeast National Bank.
He was shot in the shoulder by an off-duty policeman in the bank's parking lot Thursday.
Grant also was charged with car theft. Bond of $20,000 was set on the robbery charge and $1,000 on the car theft charge.
F. G. Black, an off-duty patrolman working as a bank guard, said a man walked up to him about mid-afternoon Thursday in the bank and said, "This is a holdup."
Black said the man took his gun, gave him a paper sack and forced him to go to each teller's window and get money put into the sack.
As the gunman fled the bank he forced Kathryn Barnett to accompany him.
Mrs. Barnett said the man ordered her into a green automobile. She heard a shot and saw him slump over into the seat.
"He reached into the sack and pulled out a pistol and I jumped out of the car and ran," she said.

Black said he obtained a rifle, went to the roof of the bank and fired one shot as the car pulled out of the parking lot.
He said the man ran from the car and tried to climb a fence "as I fired several more shots at him." After the man failed to get over the fence he threw the gun down and put his hands over his head, Black said.
Police said they recovered $7,500 taken in the robbery.

His Wife Just Couldn't Wait
SAN ANTONIO (AP) — "Send an ambulance quick," a man told the police dispatcher. "I've just delivered my own son in the back of my pickup truck!"
A police car and an ambulance raced to the scene and found Daniel Perales, his wife, Mary Lynn, 28, and their newborn son in the bed of the parked truck.
Perales explained they were en route to a hospital for the expected birth, but, well, Mrs. Perales just couldn't wait.
The tot weighed in at 6 pounds, 10 ounces. Mother and child were reported in excellent condition.

Angel Is Named To Aging Panel
Gov. Preston Smith announced Thursday the appointment of Clyde Angel, vice president of the First National Bank, to the Governor's Advisory Committee on the Aging.
The appointment, effective immediately, is one of 75 men and women chosen from all the state to serve as a liaison between the Statewide Commission on Aging and the local communities.
"The welfare and needs of senior citizens is one of the key programs facing the state today, and we feel fortunate to secure the services of Clyde Angel on this important panel," said the governor.

'WALK-IN' CANCER CARE — A patient undergoes complex radiological treatment for cancer on a walk-in basis at the outpatient clinic of the Los Angeles Medical Center. Health officials contend many patients can be treated in clinics instead of occupying $100-a-day hospital beds. Dr. Frederick W. George and technician Valerie Taylor administer the treatment.

INDICTED IN CHICAGO VIOLENCE — These four persons are among 12 alleged SDS Weathermen leaders who were indicted Thursday by a Chicago federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to travel interstate "with the intent to incite, organize, promote, encourage, participate in and carry on a riot."

Beating Death Of Cellmate

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Raymond Luna Perez, one of eight Bexar County jail prisoners charged with the beating death of a cellmate, was convicted of murder with malice Thursday. A state district court jury returned the guilty verdict after deliberating for more than three hours. The jurors then took 90 minutes to assess a 10-year prison sentence.

Man Hurt In Courthouse Fall

C. B. Hult fell down the stairs leading from the first floor to the basement about 2 p.m. Thursday. Sheriff's officers, notified by the man's wife, called an ambulance.

Dozen 'Weathermen' Indicted In Riot Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has used the controversial "Rap Brown" antiriot law against the radical left for a second time, indicting 12 SDS Weathermen leaders the Justice Department's top criminal lawyer calls "open Marxists."

The 12, including police fugitive Kathy Boudin and chief Weatherman Mark Rudd, were accused Thursday of conspiring to incite—and participating in—violence during the "four days of rage" sponsored by the militant faction of Students for a Democratic Society last Oct. 8-11 in Chicago.

The indictments by a Chicago federal grand jury came less than two months after the tumultuous trial of the Chicago 7—first defendants to be tried under the 1968 antiriot law—closed in the court of U.S. District Judge Julius J. Hoffman. Ironically, Judge Hoffman, one of eight judges in the court, was selected under a random assignment method to hear the Weatherman case.

Each also was charged with one to four counts of crossing state lines with the intent of inciting a riot. The 1969 riot, referred to in the indictments as an SDS "National Action," resulted in injury of several policemen, the wounding of several militants, and jailing of scores of persons. Club-wielding Weatherman adherents caused thousands of dollars of damage to buildings and autos in two window-smashing marches in a post residential section and the Chicago Loop area.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Will R. Wilson, head of the Justice Department's criminal division that sought the indictments, said the move was designed to strip the far left and violence-espousing Weatherman faction of its leadership.

"We brought this action primarily against their leadership," Wilson said in an interview after the indictments were announced. "We put about as many in this group as we could manage."

Police also are seeking Bernardine Dohrn, 27, former SDS national secretary, and John Jacobs, 22, for questioning in the Chicago bomb factory. Miss Dohrn failed to appear in a Chicago court March 16 to answer charges of attacking three policemen in the 1969 riot.

Others indicted were William Ayers, 25, educational secretary of SDS; Jeffrey Jones, 22, inter-organizational secretary of SDS; Linda Evans, 22, and Howard Macthinger, 23, both members of the SDS national interim committee; Terry Robbins, 22; Judy Clark, 21; Michael Spiegel, 23, and Lawrence Weiss.

Breath Test Law Invalid

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Canada's compulsory breath test law was declared invalid in British Columbia Thursday by the province's Supreme Court.

Texas has a similar law. Justice Craig Munroe said the provincial cabinet had exceeded its authority by deleting one of the federal law's provisions when proclaiming it law in British Columbia.

The law makes breath tests compulsory for persons suspected of driving while under the influence of liquor. Munroe's ruling came during a Vancouver man's appeal of a conviction for having a blood-alcohol content of .08 per cent. Provincial officials said they would appeal.

City Election Set For Forsan

The only city election to be held Saturday in this area will be in Forsan, where voters will choose city officials at the same time they mark their ballots for school trustees. Ballots will be available in the Forsan High School. Candidates for the three aldermen positions are Mayor C. J. Lamb, incumbent G. L. Monroey and Lee D. Whetsel. No absentee votes were cast in the city election.

Rap Brown Is Missing

NEW YORK (AP) — Where is H. Rap Brown?

The militant black power leader has been missing 26 days. He was last seen Tuesday by his wife when he left here for a Bel Air, Md., court appearance, according to his attorney, William Kunstler.

"We've had no word whatsoever. I'm incomprehensible why we haven't heard from him," declared Kunstler, who says he doesn't know where Brown is.

Brown's wife could not be reached. The FBI says it does not know Brown's whereabouts.

Brown was to stand trial on charges of arson and incitement to riot stemming from a 1969 disturbance in Cambridge, Md. The trial has been reset for April 20 in Ellicott City.

Dorchester County State's Atty. William B. Yates Jr. prosecutor in the case, said, "I have nothing to base any conjecture on, but I think he'll appear for trial."

Yates said the additional seven-year penalty for not showing up might be some incentive for Brown to appear.

"I feel this, really, that he's not dead," Kunstler said Thursday. "And I think his wife shares that feeling. I think that somewhere, sometime he'll turn up and make a statement."

"If he's underground," Kunstler said, "it would be hard for him to tell anyone. How do you communicate? By letter? By phone? Then you give yourself away."

The doorman at Mrs. Brown's apartment house in Upper Manhattan said Thursday he hasn't seen Brown, "in weeks, maybe months." He also had not seen Mrs. Brown recently, and no one answered the door at her apartment.

Kunstler said she had been staying with friends in various places since the address of the apartment was printed in newspapers.

Brown left for Bel Air March 8. On March 9, a car blew up just south of Bel Air on the road to Baltimore. In the wreckage were the bodies of two friends of Brown—Ralph E. Featherstone and William H. "Che" Payne.

"There are three possibilities," Kunstler said recently. "One, that he was taken out of the blown-up car before it was blown up and has been kept somewhere—kidnaped—or murdered. That's the theory that worries Mrs. Brown the most."

"Two, the theory of the authorities: that the two men blew themselves up while carrying a device with some nefarious purpose—perhaps to bomb the nearby state troopers' barracks—and that Rap was not involved.

"Or three, that he's underground in or out of the U.S.," Kunstler said he was inclined to doubt the third theory. Brown "could have split," he said, "although it's not likely in my mind."

He noted that Brown had always shown up at every previous trial, "even at a much headier time—when he was a much more hunted man than now."

Brown 26, is appealing a five-year prison sentence for violating the federal firearms act. He was convicted in 1968 in New Orleans. The terms of his bail limited his travel to New York, except for trial appearances.

If he fails to appear for the Maryland trial, the judge may declare his $10,000 bail forfeit.

The defense unsuccessfully pleaded for an indefinite adjournment on grounds that Brown could not be found.

WHERE IS HE? — Militant black power leader H. Rap Brown has been missing 26 days. He was last seen March 8 by his wife when he left New York for a Bel Air, Md., court appearance, according to his attorney. Brown's wife could not be reached and the FBI says it does not know where Brown is. His trial has been reset for April 20 in Ellicott City, Md.

Controllers Continuing Sick-In Despite Pleas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite pledges by union leaders to get their men back to work, air traffic controllers continued calling in sick today and airline travel remained curtailed.

A Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said the absentee rate in its 21 regional control centers showed little change on the 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. shift.

"We see a slight improvement over-all, but not enough to have much effect," the spokesman said. "The facilities that have been bad are still bad."

In New York, a focal point in the strike, 63 of 164 controllers scheduled to work reported sick at the Islip, L.I., air route center, which controls traffic in several Eastern states. No controllers reported in at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport tower which was manned by supervisory personnel.

"Nothing's changed. We are sick," declared John B. Saxman Jr., a controller at the Washington regional center in Leesburg. The number of controllers staying off the job remained about the same at Kansas City and Minneapolis. In Chicago, all 10 controllers at the O'Hare tower reported for duty but the nearby Aurora Control Center declined to give out numbers on strikers.

Leaders of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization—PATCO—agreed Thursday to order their men back to work by the weekend.

U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart Jr., then dismissed contempt proceedings against PATCO Executive Director F. Lee Bailey and two other union leaders.

Later, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman confirmed that three controllers who had been ordered from Baton Rouge, La., to new posts and who had not reported to their new assignments were in the early stages of dismissal proceedings.

The transfers, which PATCO said were aimed at undercutting the union, were a prime spark to the current work stoppage, which has curbed air travel throughout the country since March 25.

The FAA spokesman said letters of proposed removal had been sent to Shelby McCurnin, James H. Sparks and James A. Janson. They have 30 days to respond and after that face the usual civil service procedures.

Sparks had said in Baton Rouge Thursday night they had not received the notices, nor had they been notified they were in the works.

McCurnin had been ordered to El Paso, Tex., Sparks to Ft. Smith, Ark., and Henson to New Orleans. The FAA spokesman said they failed to report when due last Monday, saying they were too sick to travel.

FAA administrator John H. Shaffer had denied earlier the three transfers were punitive and said they "were ordered in an effort to upgrade the professional level of the Baton Rouge facility and improve over-all morale there."

Red Sox, Twins Given Edge In Junior Loop

By JACK HAND
By The Associated Press
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — If anybody is going to beat the Baltimore Orioles in the American League East, it will be the Boston Red Sox. If anybody is going to top the Minnesota Twins in the American League West, it will be the Oakland A's.

It says here the Red Sox will do the job on the Orioles, although they finished third, 22 games back, in 1969, but Minnesota will stagger past Oakland in the West only to be ambushed by the Red Sox in the pennant playoff.

Each division shapes up as a two-team race. Detroit appears demoralized by the Denny McLain affair. Washington can cause trouble. The New York Yankees still lack long ball punch and Cleveland just doesn't have it. Behind Minnesota and Oakland in the West, Kansas City, Chicago and California figure to scramble for the crumbs with Seattle-Milwaukee in the rear.

In the two-division system, each team plays each of the other five teams in its division 18 times and each of the six in the other division 12 times. The Twins fattened up on the West last season and should do it again.

BACK ON BEAM
Jim Lonborg appears back on the beam. The addition of Gary Peters from the White Sox seems to have given the Red Sox a solid pitching base that includes Ray Culp and Mike Nagy. George Scott had an outstanding spring and Carl Yastrzemski had one of his best exhibition seasons. Catching appears to be Boston's chief problem now that Luis Alvarado has fitted into the infield at third base.

Here's the way the two divisions look from here:

East

1. Boston
2. Baltimore
3. Washington
4. Detroit
5. New York

Aaron, Seaver And Palmer Rattle Foes

By The Associated Press
Chicago was in a deep freeze. Milwaukee and Montreal were snowed under. But Hank Aaron, like a summer day in Atlanta, was sizzling... and so were Tom Seaver and Jim Palmer.

While baseball's northern cities, readying themselves for next week's season openers, despite heavy spring snowfalls, continued digging out Thursday, Atlanta slugger Aaron and pitching stars Seaver of the New York Mets and Palmer of Baltimore sparked in exhibition victories in the southland.

Aaron drilled four hits, bringing his spring batting average to a glossy 500 and leading the Braves past Cleveland 6-3 at Tucson, Ariz.

Seaver, tuning up for his opening day assignment in Pittsburgh Tuesday, fired seven shutout innings as the Mets trimmed the Pirates 2-0 under the lights at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Palmer, going the full nine innings for the Orioles at Houston, beat the Astros 4-1 with a three-hitter.

SERIES MOVED
New snowstorms in wintry Chicago forced the Cubs and White Sox to shift their weekend exhibition windup series from the Windy City to Tulsa, Okla. The Cubs nipped the White Sox 5-4 at Arlington, Tex., Thursday night on Glenn Beckert's run-scoring single with two out in the eighth inning.

In Milwaukee, eager fans plodded through slush at County Stadium after a six-inch snowfall to buy Brewers' season tickets. The new American League club, successor to the ill-fated Seattle Pilots, is scheduled to entertain California Tuesday in its opener. "It's bedlam," summed up a club official.

And in Montreal, where the Expos are to play their home opener next Wednesday against St. Louis, six inches of snow fell... The day after groundkeepers cleared Jerry Park of snow and ice accumulated through the Canadian winter.

"We had the field in excellent shape," said Lou Martin, the Expos' director of operations, "and the 10 tons of straw I had on the infield all winter left everything fine. Now we've got to start again."

Left-hander Chris Short, making a new start with Philadelphia after missing almost the entire 1969 season following a back operation, pitched six scoreless innings, giving up two hits, in a 5-0 victory over Kansas City. Short has allowed just two earned runs in 28 innings this spring.

Casper Will Break Bread With Nixon

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Billy Casper will be commuting to Washington, D.C., between rounds of the $180,000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament this week.

Casper, one of three men who have a million dollars in winnings on the pro tour, has been invited by President Nixon to a dinner at the White House Saturday night.

But the soft-spoken Casper already had committed himself to play in the rain-plagued Greensboro tournament when the invitation arrived and had to make arrangements to commute.

He will fly to Washington immediately after completing play Saturday, attend the dinner, then return to the 36-hole wind-up on Sunday.

"It's a rather tight schedule," he admitted, "but it's a great honor to be invited."

The first round, scheduled to be played Thursday, was washed out by a torrential rain storm that made the Sedgefield Country Club course unplayable.

Tournament officials now have single rounds scheduled today and Saturday, with a double round of 36 holes set for Sunday.

Casper, the 38-year-old quiet man who ranks as one of the game's greatest competitors, is returning to the tour after a five week absence. He skipped the entire Florida tour.

Booster Club Schedules Steer Park Paint Job

Members of the Big Spring Quarterback Club are being urged to report to Steer Park Saturday morning to help paint the grandstand seats a golden color.

The one-day blitz is in keeping with the Gold Rush '70 theme adopted by new officers of the booster club.

The paint, and there's already 60 gallons of it on hand, will be furnished by the school district. The people who volunteer to paint are being asked to furnish their own brushes or rollers, however.

Since the paint to be used has a water base, it can easily be washed from the brush after the job has been completed.

Co-captains Paul Shaffer and Harroll Jones will supervise the undertaking. Shaffer said the refurbishing job would be most noticeable to the baseball players when they play their next home game.

That contest is scheduled Tuesday, at which time San Angelo Central will form the opposition.

Longhorns Visit Abilene For 2 P.M. Go Saturday

Coach Oakey Hagood will go with his ace righthander, Jimmy Farris, when the Big Spring Steers take the field at 2 p.m. Saturday against Cooper in Abilene but indicated major changes would be made in other parts of his lineup.

One Big Spring boy who is sure to be in the starting lineup is infielder Roddy Caffey, who collected three hits against Abilene and who is a competitor all the way, Hagood said.

Both Big Spring and Cooper got off to bad starts in East Zone play earlier this week. The Steers were routed by Cooper, 11-2, while San Angelo buried Cooper under an 8-1 score, benefitting from eight Cougar errors.

Hagood said he would give several underclassmen starting assignments because the boys who started for the Steers against Abilene have shown on penchant for attacking the ball.

The Longhorns come home Tuesday to tangle with powerful San Angelo in a 4 p.m. contest. San Angelo and Abilene meet Saturday, with the zone lead at stake.

T. Jeremiah Beam. Part of the Beam family art for 175 years.

Son of the famous Col. Jim Beam, T. Jeremiah is the fifth generation of the only Kentucky family that's made the same Bourbon since 1795. As a matter of fact, 1970 marks the 175th anniversary of the year that Jacob Beam, founder of the Beam clan, sold his first barrel of Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey.

That's a mighty long time for one family to make one product, according to one formula.

So the next time you sip Jim Beam, savor its quality and its light taste. That's what we mean when we say it's a 175-year-old family art.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Football buffs should get their fill of the collegiate brand next December when both the Texas-Arkansas and LSU-Ole Miss games will be televised. The Texas-Arkansas clash will be in the afternoon while LSU and Ole Miss will play at night.

The teams had to switch dates in both instances, which shows you how TV is calling the shots in football these days.

Walt Frazier of the New York Knickerbockers and Mike Battle of the NY Jets own a men's beauty parlor in Manhattan. Haircuts there come to $12.50 each, or about $10.50 more than they're worth.

Jerry Sanders, the former Big Spring, figures to be very busy during the approaching baseball season. Now residing in Houston, he's concessions manager in the Astrodome.

Jerry's father, Early Sanders, plans to be in Houston this weekend to visit his son and watch two of his favorite teams, the Astros and the New York Yankees, in their exhibition series.

Johnny Hodges plans to be out for football again at Angelo State in the fall, even though he transferred to Howard County JC for the spring semester. A guard, he'll be a sophomore when he enrolls in September.

One reason the Los Angeles Stars are likely to transfer to Albuquerque before the next ABA season rolls around: Bob Daniels, the Denver TV cable man who now owns the team, is a brother of a man running for the governorship of New Mexico.

Veteran fight trainer Dick Sadler (he handled Archie Moore) says that Texan George Foreman has more things going for him than any heavyweight of the past 15 years.

"George is a qualified heavyweight," Sadler reminds. "When he turned pro, he weighed 215. Cassius Clay was 180. Floyd Patterson wasn't a bonafide heavyweight and neither was Frzier."

"George is 6-3. Joe Frazier is 5-11 and so is Patterson. Clay, Patterson and Frazier never had the power in their punches that George has. So George has height, reach and power going for him. Cassius only had experience and speed, although they're about the same height."

Foreman says that when he turned pro he expected to knock out every fighter he met. He realizes now he's not yet that good but he figures he's on schedule in his quest of the championship of the world.

John Douglass, one-time Big Spring and son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Douglass of Denver, Colo., beat the record in the triple jump in the seventh annual Colorado School of Mines indoor track and field meet in Golden, Colo., recently when he cleared 44-8 3/4. The old mark was 44-8.

Young Douglass attends Wheat Ridge High School in Denver.

Denny McLain, the Detroit pitching star who is currently under suspension for alleged booking activities, had hoped to be restored to good standing in baseball by Easter. It also happened to be his birthday. He explained:

"That's the day of resurrection, isn't it?"

YANKEES SUCCEED

In other exhibition action, the New York Yankees outscored Montreal 9-7. Detroit slugged Washington 11-3. Oakland bounced Milwaukee 11-4. San Francisco downed San Diego 8-2. Minnesota shamed Boston 5-4 and the Phils' "B" squad beat Cincinnati 8-4.

In other developments, Washington released Zoilo Verasalles, the veteran shortstop who was the AL's Most Valuable Player in 1965, and St. Louis traded infielder Steve Huntz to San Diego for relief pitcher Billy McCool.

The hot hitting of Aaron, who has gone 21 for 42 in exhibition play, helped knuckleballer Phil Niekro toss the Braves past the Indians and Sam McDowell, who struck out 12 in seven innings but was rocked for 13 hits. Niekro scattered six Cleveland hits over the first eight innings.

Seaver checked the hard-hitting Pirates on two safeties, struck out nine and drove in the only run the Mets needed with a second inning single off Steve Blass, his scheduled mound opponent in the season opener.

Palmer became the second Baltimore pitcher to go the distance—Mike Cuellar had worked nine innings last weekend—as the Orioles won with the help of a triple and single by Don Buford and two errors by Houston catcher John Edwards.

Bobby Murcer's first exhibition homer, a three-run blast in New York's five-run sixth inning rally at New Orleans, carried the Yanks past the Expos, who were without Manager Gene Mauch, hospitalized in West Palm Beach, Fla., with a virus.

Home runs by Bill Freehan, Willie Horton and Dalton Jones propelled the Tigers to their third straight victory and Reggie Jackson cracked his first homer of the spring to pace the Athletics' 15-hit attack against Milwaukee.

Bronchos Smash Midland, 10-1

MIDLAND — Odessa High exploded for five runs in the first two innings on its way to a 10-1 District 3-AAAA West Zone victory over Midland High here Thursday.

Odessa is now 3-1 in the standings while Midland slumped to 1-2.

Mark Green went the route for Odessa to register the win. He surrendered five hits and fanned 11.

Lanny Phillips smashed home four runs for the Bronchos with a home run and double.

Coach Glenn Petty of Big Spring High School takes his Steers to Amarillo today for the annual Amarillo Relays, which will be conducted Saturday.

Other area teams in the Amarillo meet include Odessa High and Midland High.

Not all the Midland teams will go to Amarillo. Coach Ed Nixon sends his crack mile relay unit to Austin for the Texas Relays.

Two Youths Will Benefit From St. Lawrence Dance

GARDEN CITY — An injured athlete and a Glasscock County youth who is suffering from muscular dystrophy will benefit from an April 9 dance scheduled in the St. Lawrence hall.

Sponsors of the program are businessmen of the St. Lawrence community, who are paying all expenses resulting from the dance, including the salaries of the Jimmy Heap orchestra.

The dance starts at 8 p.m. and continues until midnight. Admission prices will be $2 per person.

Those couples with children can feel free to bring them, since a film designed for them will be screened in a nearby building and other entertainment will be provided.

A concessions booth will be in operation through the evening.

Beneficiaries of the dance will be Kenneth Chandler, a football player who was paralyzed from the neck down in a game played by Garden City last fall; and Clay Kingston, who has muscular dystrophy.

Young Chandler is now confined to the Warm Springs Hospital at Gonzales and is said to be making good progress, although he is still confined to his bed.

Coach Jack Woodley and the Garden City school had a letter from Chandler recently and he mentioned he was gaining weight and was making progress in his fight to regain use of his limbs.

Suns Decision Laker Quintet In Playoffs

By The Associated Press

It's probably only a quirk of the National Basketball Association's solar system, but the Suns are rising in the West.

The Phoenix Suns, that is, in the Western Division.

The surprising Suns burned Los Angeles 112-98 Thursday night and took a 2-1 lead over the favored Lakers in their best-of-7 Western semifinal series.

In the East, the New York Knicks clobbered Baltimore 101-80 for a 3-2 edge over the powerless Bullets, who misfired terribly in the fourth period, when they managed a meager three baskets in 70 shots and were outscored 25-11.

The other two semifinal series could end tonight. In the East, the Philadelphia 76ers, down three games to one, take on the Milwaukee Bucks at Madison, Wis. The Atlanta Hawks, winners of the Western regular season pennant, go after a four-game sweep of the Bulls in Chicago.

"We've got them (the Lakers) where we want them—at home," said Jerry Colangelo, the Phoenix coach-general manager, when his club returned from a split in Los Angeles.

The Suns took a slim lead in the third period Thursday night and poured it on in the fourth. Gail Goodrich paced the Suns with 29 points and Paul Silas had 21, along with 16 rebounds, as Phoenix controlled the boards 59-32.

Jerry West topped the Lakers with 31 points but Elgin Baylor and Wil Chamberlain were held to a sub 20 and 11, respectively.

"The play of Paul Silas has been the big story of the series," Baylor said before the game. "We expected Connie Hawkins to get his share of points and rebounds. But Silas, he's been a little too much."

Silas has 78 points and 53 rebounds in the three games. Hawkins scored 19 points Thursday night.

The Knicks bounced back from two straight defeats and wallowed the Bullets behind a scintillating 36-point, record 36-rebound performance by Willis Reed, the NBA's most valuable player.

"He chased me off the court," said Baltimore's Wes Unseld, who outrebounced the entire New York team with 34 in Sunday's game as the Bullets began their comeback. Unseld had only 10 points and 13 rebounds Thursday night.

Reed took a cortisone shot in his ailing left knee and said, "I did the job, but I hope I don't have to take another one before Sunday," meaning the nationally televised (ABC-TV) sixth game in Baltimore.

The Knicks led only 76-69 after three periods but moved out to a 91-72 spread as the Bullets canned only one of their first 18 shots in the final quarter.

Lawman, Beast Clash Tonight

A grudge match between The Lawman, a man with exemplary habits, and The Beast highlights tonight's wrestling show in the municipal auditorium, scheduled to get underway at 8 o'clock.

In a recent show here, the Lawman went to the rescue of Terry Funk when The Beast had the youngest member of the Funk clan in a bad way.

The Beast not only was conking Funk about the cranium with a chair, he was working over the referee as well.

The Lawman allowed as how the odds were too pronounced and zipped through the ropes like a speeding bullet. That was a mistake. The Beast turned on the intruder and inflicted several wounds about The Lawman's eyes before order could be restored. The Lawman vowed revenge.

Tonight, if The Beast is in a bad mood and a chair is handy, The Lawman may ask for mercy.

The semi-windup is unique. It has been billed as a "girl and a half against a girl and a half."

It pits Betty Nicoli and diminutive Diamond Lil against Jessica Rogers and half-pint Little Darling Dagmar in a tag team match.

Hair-pulling and eye gouging are supposed to be out in that match but you can bet one or the other will stray from the rules. Some of the fem grapplers can get pretty mean.

Little Darling Dagmar stands only 41 inches and weighs but 86 pounds but she says that the opposition only has to detonate the fuse to watch the dynamite explode.

The special event will be a duel between Salvador Dominguez against Bobby Duncum, a former pro footballer, Dominguez will be giving away about 53 pounds in the match. Ticket prices will range from $2.50 to $1.

Stellar Field Set For Austin Show

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The storied Texas Relays launches a new era today in its 43rd track and field carnival which will be held for the first time on an artificial surface. Memorial Stadium records may never be the same.

Preliminaries were scheduled today with finals tonight and Saturday afternoon.

The competitors are deep in each event.

AAAA ISSUE Spring Workouts Will Face Vote

They say practice makes perfect.

But it appears that the University Interscholastic League is constantly trying to settle for mediocrity especially when it comes to competitive athletics in the high schools.

Sometime before the 20th of April, high school principals and superintendents in schools with AAAA classification will be asked to cast a referendum vote on the future of spring football training sessions.

Currently AAAA schools are permitted 21 days practice in the spring.

In schools of AAAA classification there are only a few athletes who compete in more than one sport, thus leaving a considerable gap for the football player from December to the following September.

Through an active and vigorous off-season program, operated without the pressures of the "upcoming game," high school football players can certainly benefit from spring training sessions by improving their skills, techniques and physical condition.

If through the spring training period, a youngster can improve his techniques and skills enough to eliminate just one injury in the fall, then the program is worth its salt.

ARGUMENT REFUTED

There's been arguments that the spring training program is too costly. How can it be costly when all the facilities are already there. There would not be any additional training to coaches and the equipment is there.

Few can argue that an active boy is more receptive in the classroom, has fewer discipline problems and has a prime reason to abide by standards and avoid conditions and habits which could be harmful not only to the boy himself, but to his home, school and community.

Rather than spend added money and salaries to create a new program for these football players who are not in another activity, why not keep them busy at something they enjoy and take pride in?

And with the school year being extended by additional time, it now eliminates conflicts caused by spring training programs with other scheduled activities.

One of the primary purposes of competitive athletics is to aid and help develop an individual to become a productive and acceptable member of our society. Football is one of the best teachers of discipline, team work and self sacrifice for something more important than one's self.

If spring training in football will benefit the youngsters who take part in the program, then the program is certainly worth its continuation.

It seems some UIL administrators — the high school principals and superintendents — are constantly trying to put a damper on competitive athletics in the high schools.

Rather than always legislating against competitive sports, when they are going to wake up and start legislating for competitive sports?

The more youngsters kept engrossed in activities such as competitive sports, the less worry concerning the future regarding dropouts, riots, sit-ins and general unrest which has become a major problem in the nation today.

Perhaps it's time for the parents to shed their apathy and take an active interest in the rules and regulations which govern their youngsters by voicing an opinion to their principals or superintendents.

Mediocrity is easy to obtain, if that's what is wanted, but when one goes to a doctor, he looks for the best.

Medicine is easy to obtain, if that's what is wanted, but when one goes to a doctor, he looks for the best.

NCAA indoor champion Kansas, Rice, Kansas State, and Texas also rate as top threats in the baton events.

Six individual champions return. They include Dennis Cotner, Oklahoma, 440 hurdles; Leonard Hilton, Houston, Jerry Thompson, mile run; Ken Breen, Texas-El Paso, three mile run; Hal Oswald, Oklahoma State, long jump; Steve Wilhelm, Kansas, shot put; and Doug Knop, Kansas, discus.

Roger Kathol, a key member of the Kansas Jayhawks' two-mile, four-mile and distance medley relay teams picked up a severe case of poison oak and may not be a top form.

Seattle Pilots Fade Into Limbo

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Pilots became a thing of the past Thursday when a bankruptcy referee affixed his signature to an order allowing the American League team's sale to Milwaukee Brewers Inc.

But the past apparently is going to be recalled by loud echoes one of these days.

William Dwyer, special assistant state attorney general, said an $82 million antitrust suit against the league and the owners of the defunct Seattle baseball franchise probably will come up in court in about a year.

Seek To Cut Penalties For 'Green' Pot Users

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith has questioned the need for stiff penalties for first-offense marijuana users. He addressed a conference on public health and drugs Thursday.

Later in the afternoon, Paul Eggers, his probable Republican opponent in the November election, came out flatly in favor of reducing first-offense possession from a felony to a misdemeanor.

"The consequences of being convicted of a felony for first-offense possession of marijuana far outweigh the gravity of the crime," Eggers told a University of Texas audience here. "Accordingly, I believe the penalty should be reduced to a misdemeanor, but the penalty for pushing or selling drugs should remain high."

"Many say harsher penalties would curb the use of drugs. Is this true? If it is, why the rapid rise in convictions, especially in view of the severe penalties just for the possession of marijuana? Scare tactics, without fact or reason, will not work," Smith said.

Texas law now provides penalties up to 50 years in prison for marijuana possession, a felony.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes recently recommended that first possession be reduced to a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine and/or a short jail sentence.

"The drug offender who is caught is often very young," Smith said. "He may have been pressured into experimentation with drugs. Yet, within the legal machinery, his punishment can be as severe as that of a dope pusher, or seller. Is this fair? Or is it out of proportion with the crime? These are good questions for us to examine."

An aide said Smith has been giving thought to the possibility of asking the 1971 Legislature to reduce the possession penalty, but has not made up his mind.

The conference recommendations, typed and distributed hours in advance, expressed the belief that marijuana "is harmful."

"Until we know more about the drug marijuana, we should not be stampeded into permitting its unrestricted distribution, nor should we condone its use," the recommendations say.

Also, the conference urged the pharmaceutical industry and the health professions "to work together to eliminate drug sampling as a source of drugs for the abuser."

Another recommendation would give the State Pharmacy Board authority to place a drug under regulation "as the potential for abuse becomes apparent."

Refuse To Swap 16 For Diplomat

GUATEMALA (AP) — Emulating Argentina, the Guatemalan government refused Thursday night to release 16 prisoners in exchange for West German Ambassador Karl von Spreti, kidnapped by leftist terrorists four days ago.

After meeting for seven hours, President Julio Cesar Mendez and his Cabinet declared a 30-day state of siege. They imposed curfews and press censorship, forbade all political activity, and authorized security forces to make arrests and searches without warrants or court orders.

A communique said the government could not release the 16 prisoners because 11 of them already have been tried and sentenced.

It said this situation "differs radically" from previous kidnappings of diplomats because the prisoners exchanged for their freedom were awaiting trial.

Interference by the executive branch in matters under court jurisdiction "would constitute a flagrant violation of the constitution," the communique said.

A German Embassy spokesman commented: "It is the duty of the host country to protect the life of the ambassador of a friendly nation."

The government appealed "to the most elemental human principles of those who have the respect they respect the right of freedom and life of the representative of a friendly nation and that they may understand that it is totally impossible for the government to agree to their request."

Count Von Spreti, who is 63 and suffers from a heart ailment, has sent one message since four men took him from his car Tuesday. A note Wednesday, left in the mailbox of his charge d'affaires, said he was well and in the hands of the Rebel Armed Forces, the FAR, a guerrilla group that in the past five weeks also kidnapped American diplomat Sean Holly and Foreign Minister Alberto Fuentes Mohr.

Four political prisoners were freed in exchange for Holly and Fuentes Mohr. Five of the 16 prisoners whose release is now being demanded reportedly have been charged with those kidnappings.

Webb Draws 99 Years

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP) — Jurors deliberated 44 minutes Thursday before sentencing Samuel Webb, 24, to 99 years in prison for the 1969 slaying of a San Antonio man.

Earlier the jury returned a verdict of guilty of murder with malice after 2 hours and 20 minutes of deliberation.

Webb was charged in the death of Eugene Johnson, 76.

The case was moved to Victoria on a change of venue from San Antonio.

Two San Antonio teenagers testified Johnson was shot four times when the elderly man caught Webb in the act of robbing them outside Johnson's house.

Webb allegedly called himself the Thief of Bagdad. Acts attributed to a self-styled Thief of Bagdad kept many San Antonio women in terror last year when a man who wore a stocking over his face broke into several homes and committed rape and robbery.

Webb also is charged with robbery by firearms.
