THIRD MOON VOYAGE ON COURSE

Odyssey Sails For Luna

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—Three American astronauts sped smoothly toward a risky moon adventure Saturday and watched as a spent rocket hull was sent fleeing ahead to a powerful collision that may reveal secrets of the moon's interior.

Apollo 13 astronauts James L. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr., and John L. Swigert Jr., firmly on their path to the moon despite a launch marred by a premature rocket cut off, watched as the spent second stage booster rocketed away.

It will hit the moon Tuesday night with the force of 11 tons of dynamite and will be recorded there by a seismic device left behind by Apollo 12 crewmen.

Earlier the astronauts beamed a color television signal earthward as they delicately maneuvered the command module into a nose-to-nose link up with the moon landing craft. They separated the combined craft and from the booster stage and a signal from the ground sent the rocket hull fleeing toward its self destruction on the moon.

"We've got a groovy TV picture," called out a delighted flight controller as the television from space began.

Haise pointed the camera at his crewmates and Lovell and Swigert could be seen working at the controls of the command ship they call Odyssey.

The television camera was pointed out the window, too, giving a clear view of Aquarius, the lunar craft Lovell and Haise will ride to hazardous landing in a highland valley on the moon.

The television show, which lasted more than an hour, was not seen live by home viewers. None of the networks interrupted scheduled programs but workers in mission control got a "mate view of the moon-bound spacecraft. "A little yellow dust cap just floated in front of us," Haise said at one point as he pointed the television camera out the window.

"Yeah," said mission control. "I see it at the top of the screen."

Later, Haise pointed the camera toward the receding globe of the earth.

"God deal," replied the ground.

As the third stage booster, called the S4B, separated from the spacecraft, Haise zoomed in on it with the television camera.

Then, on a signal from the ground, the craft moved slowly away from Odyssey. Later, another ground signal forced oxygen from the craft's tanks. Like an inflated balloon suddenly released, the S4B sped away toward its destruction on the lunar surface.

Haise pointed the television camera inside the spacecraft and Lovell and Swigert could be seen working at the controls of Odyssey. They still wore the white space suits they donned early Saturday morning in Cape Kennedy.

The astronauts, who were all pronounced in "top shape" before launch and free of the German measles which grounded another spaceman, earlier fired the powerful third stage rocket to drill the combined spacecraft out of earth orbit and toward the moon, 246,524 miles away.

The six minute rocket firing accelerated the moon machine to more than 24,000 miles an hour, a speed needed to break the grasp of earth's gravity and start the spacecraft toward its rendezvous with the moon.

"We're experiencing a little vibration during this burn," one of the astronauts said as the rocket fired. It apparently presented no problems, however.

A rocket engine which shut off early flawed the Apollo 13 launch and officials were mystified by the failure. But they said fuel safety margins were satisfactory and the astronauts were not endangered.

The center of five engines on the second stage of the Saturn 5 shut down two minutes early. Officials said other engines burned longer than planned to compensate for the loss of thrust.

The Saturn 5 thundered to life within only milliseconds off of the planned time at 2:13 p.m. (EST). The roar of the 7.5 million pounds of thrust on the first stage shook the ground miles away as an estimated 100,000 watched from surrounding Cape Kennedy vantage points.

As the rocket achieved full thrust, massive steel claws freed the ship and it rose majestically and soared into the Florida sky. It arced over the Atlantic Ocean and disappeared into clouds.

President Nixon, who was at Cape Kennedy for the Apollo 12 launch, watched the start of man's third trip to the moon on television aboard a Navy Yacht cruising on the Potomac River near Washington.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and West German Chancellor Willy Brandt were among those watching the launch from a special viewing area at the Cape Kennedy space complex.

Reviewing the . . .

Big Spring Week

. . . with Joe Pickle

It was, for the most part, a lazy spring week with signs of new life everywhere. But for two of our young people, it was a putting off of the old for the ever-new. A week ago, Dave Thomas, 17, who had been all-district center for the Big Spring Steers last autumn, died in a car mishap near Miami, Fla. He had been holding down two jobs to lay in some reserves for his education at the University of Houston, where he held a scholarship. Then Saturday, word came that Huey D. Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Huey J. Rogers, had been killed when his plane hit a mountain near Long Chen, Laos. He was the first Big Spring man to train at Webb and was one of the few to ever crash land a T-33 and walk away from it.

As mentioned, the weather was almost ideal except for the start of the week when a heavy frost, which held on for about eight hours, just about wiped out fruit prospects. Lilacs and iris joined the blossom parade, and yellow primrose, usually out much earlier, dotted the landscape. There were days where readings got into the 80's, and light rain at the end of the week put a fitting climax on things.

Some ask how come no March weather during March, and where have the sandstorms gone? The March summary tells its own story—a mean temperature of 49 degrees—five under normal, which means it was pretty cool. Moreover, the (See THE WEEK, Page 10-A, Col. 4)

New Norther On The Way

By The Associated Press

A new spring norther aimed icy winds at Texas again late Saturday night with temperatures expected to skid into the 20s and 30s by midweek. It was due to hit West Texas late Sunday.

Saturday was warm to hot, with maximum temperatures ranging from 89 at Cotulla and Childress down to 70 at Lufkin. Most were in the 80s.

Light rains began to fall in advance of the norther in the upper Texas Panhandle and were expected to advance southward through at least half of the state.

Blowing dust harried much of West Texas and eastern New Mexico. The cold front, late in the night, extended from Tucson, Ariz., to Clayton, N.M. It was expected to barge through West Central Texas by Sunday night.

First Big Springer To Get Wings At Webb Is Killed

Huey D. Rogers, first Big Springer man to get his wings at Webb AFB, was killed Thursday morning in the crash of an Air America C-130 transport in Laos.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Huey J. Rogers, 429 Dallas, who previously had given up another son in a plane mishap.

They learned of their son's death from his wife, who called from Bangkok, Thailand, to say that the plane had crashed in a remote area of Laos, but the wreckage had been spotted by helicopter. There were no signs of life. It may be a week before the bodies are evacuated.

In 1960 Mr. and Mrs. Rogers lost another son, Lt. Morris F. Rogers, who died in the crash of his training plane near Chase Field at Kingsville.

Huey D. Rogers had been flying for Air America, which does contract work for the United States Armed Forces, for the past three years. He had been a major in the United States Air Force, separating from service at Eglin AFB, Fla.

He attended schools here but was graduated from Comyn, near DeLeon, and went to Tarleton College before completing his education at Texas Tech with a BS degree in agricultural engineering. At Tech he was in the Air Force ROTC, and thus came to Webb AFB to take his pilot's training.

During this period, on July 21, 1954, he made a miraculous belly landing of his T-33 trainer in the rough country just west of Vincent, touching down in a field on one side of SH 350, skidding across the highway into a pasture. He was battered about the head and had three cracked vertebrae but walked away from the crash scene. Before long, he was back at training and earned his wings.

Later he took helicopter training at Gary AB, served in num-

SALT Delegation Heads For Vienna

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon gave final instructions Saturday to departing U.S. disarmament negotiators and wished them well in their bid for an agreement with the Soviets to curb the superpower arms race.

"The delegation is going to Vienna with a constructive attitude," press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said after a 50-minute Nixon meeting with the U.S. team heading for the Austrian capital.

The U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation Talks—SALT—round beginning in Vienna Thursday is viewed by many as potentially the most important disarmament negotiation of the nuclear age.

The Vienna session is expected to get down to basic bargaining following a preliminary, view-exchanging round at Helsinki last fall.

The White House spokesman said the President's discussion with the U.S. envoys headed by disarmament chief Gerard Smith stressed the constructive attitude "and that they are going there to accomplish something."

"The President of course wished them well."

Ziegler gave no hint of the nature of Nixon's final instructions to the six-man delegation, and other administration sources maintained the tight secrecy that has surrounded U.S. government deliberations concerning SALT. The administration takes the line that such secrecy helps prospects for progress in the forthcoming delicate negotiations.

The Senate has passed a resolution calling on Nixon to propose an immediate mutual freeze on deployment of offensive and defensive weapons. His disarmament advisory committee is reported to have favored working toward a general strategic arms freeze, without recommending that this be proposed at the outset at Vienna.

Many within the administration favor a step-by-step approach, seeking agreements with the Soviets on one particular weapon at a time.

The U.S. delegation is slated to fly to Brussels Monday. At the Belgian capital, Smith will brief ambassadors from the NATO allies on the forthcoming SALT negotiations.

The White House announced appointment of a new member of the delegation, He is J. Graham Parsons, a career foreign service officer and former ambassador. He is expected ultimately to replace Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, who has been on the delegation since last year.

The other negotiators are Lt. Gen. Royal B. Allison, Dr. Harold Brown and Paul H. Nitze.

Opposes My Lai Trials

ALTUS, Okla. (AP) — The chairman of the powerful House Armed Services Committee told a crowd of 600 here Friday night he will attempt to stop the My Lai courts-martial.

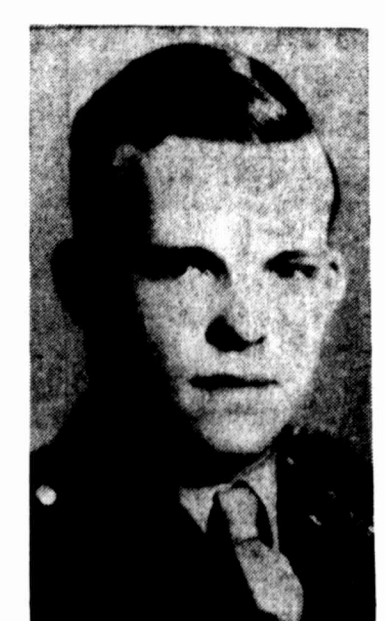

"They're not going to get by with this," Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., said. "I had a little something to do with stopping the Green Beret business and I'm going to have something to do with stopping this."

Rivers said he doesn't believe those charged in the My Lai incident "concocted a conspiracy to murder innocent people. That's for the birds. I'll have something to do with it. You just wait and see."

erous places including a tour in France and Germany. He flew helicopters for the technical mission which surveyed the Arctic Circle.

He was based at Vientiane, Laos, and was on a flight in the Long Cheng area when his transport plane went down.

He is survived by his wife, the former Jimmie Ruth Bone of Stephenville; a daughter, Mary Ruth, 14, and two sons, Huey D. Jr., 6, and James Kelly, 4, all of Bangkok; also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Huey J. Rogers, Big Spring; one brother, James F. Rogers, Dallas. He was a Mason and member of the First Baptist Church in Stephenville.

APRIL 25 Dealers Slate New Car Show

The city's annual Spring Auto Show, in which the newest models go on public showing by the dozens, has been set this year for Saturday, April 25. It will be held this year in the parking area at Highland Center, and will run from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on that day.

The show is entirely free to all-comers, and in addition there will be registration for a free prize.

All new car dealers in the city are cooperating in the display, and will have various models on display for families to inspect at leisure.

Participating will be Bob Brock Ford and Lincoln-Mercury; Broughton Truck & Implement Company; American Motors and Jeep; Farris Pontiac; Jack Lewis Buick and Cadillac; Pollard Chevrolet; Dewey Ray Chrysler and Plymouth; Shroyer Oldsmobile, and Barney Toland Volkswagen.

In addition to the 1970 cars which were introduced last fall, there are a number of models, including sports jobs, which have been introduced in recent months.

The First National Bank and The Herald are cooperating with dealers in co-sponsorship of the show.

GOODY! — Paul House, 2, who almost grounds the Apollo 13 spaceflight to a halt by passing the German measles on to Astronaut Charles Duke who in turn came in contact with Command Module pilot Thomas K. Mattingly and was forced to be removed from the prime crew watches the rocket launch at the family home in Houston, Tex., Saturday.

Small Boy, Earth Bug Almost Stopped Launch

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — It took thousands of experts to get Apollo 13 ready for the moon, but only one small boy to almost keep it from going.

Six-year-old Curtis House started a chain reaction two months ago which almost brought man's third moon landing mission to a standstill.

Curtis, as thousands of children do ever year, brought the German measles home from school.

In two weeks, his brother, Garrett, 5, came down with the characteristic brownish red spots.

The boys' father, architect Glenn C. House Jr., thought his third son, Paul, 2, was going to escape the disease. The youngsters' parents noticed no symptoms at all in Paul on the weekend of March 22.

That was the weekend Apollo 13 back-up astronaut Charles

Duke Jr., his wife and family came to visit.

"They spent the weekend with us and we didn't think anything of it," said House. "Nobody had the measles then."

It was Duke's last weekend before going into the usual pre-mission, semi-quarantine ordered by space doctors. He chose to spend it with his oldest Houston friends.

But on Monday, Paul broke out in a rash. It was German measles.

Two weeks later, Duke spent several hours in conference with the Apollo 13 prime crew. Doctors believe it was then that astronaut Thomas K. Mattingly II contacted the measles.

Space agency doctors traced the disease chain back to the House youngsters.

"At first it seemed like a joke until we realized how serious it was," says Mrs. House.

"I feel particularly bad about Mattingly," he said.

Mattingly was grounded because of his probable exposure to German measles and John L. Swigert Jr. was scheduled to fly instead.

Students Will Help Decide

NEW YORK (AP) — A faculty decision to give students at Hunter High School in Manhattan an equal voice with faculty and administrators in running the school was labeled "the most far reaching in the country" by the school's principal, Dr. Bernard S. Miller, who is principal for the school for intellectually gifted students, said Friday, the decision this week would turn over virtually all the decisions on curriculum, attendance and other governance procedures to a system of governing boards with equal representation by students and teachers.

Excluded from the decision are matters relating to budgets and hiring and firing of teachers which, Dr. Miller said, fall under the jurisdiction of the City Board of Higher Education.

Hunter High is under the supervision of the director of programs for Hunter College and the City University system.

The faculty proposal called for the formation of new governing structure which would include 45 students, 45 teachers and 10 non-voting parents as well as two administrators serving as ex-officio nonvoting members.

Controllers Told To Prove Illness

WASHINGTON (AP) — Directors of the striking Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization were ordered Saturday to direct their members to go back to work or produce medical certificates of illness.

U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr., who on Tuesday found the organization guilty of civil contempt for calling a strike, put off any decision to fine the controllers for staying away from their jobs.

Hart set no deadline for their return. The strike, or "sickout," is now in its 18th day.

The judge accepted a statement by attorney F. Lee Bailey, PATCO's executive director, that officials of the organization would continue efforts to frame a resolution that would direct controllers to check in at facilities of the Federal Aviation Administration. Bailey said also the resolution, when completed, would be submitted to Hart at a further hearing Tuesday.

Hart's order also forbade officers of PATCO to issue statements that might tend to encourage controllers to continue the sickout that began March 25.

The judge ordered PATCO to supply him with a list of its membership and its officers, national and local.

On this point Hart agreed with Assistant Atty. Gen. William Ruckelshaus that the court must be able to determine who is working and who is not.

Hart rejected, at this time, imposition of fines suggested by Ruckelshaus. Ruckelshaus proposed a formula that would penalize each PATCO member $10 each day if he failed to show up for work without a valid medical excuse and fines of $100 for each officer of the organization who fails to work.

Hart said he hoped a back-to-work formula proposed by Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe would become effective.

The Volpe formula would provide court-appointed panels of doctors to certify as to the physical and mental health of those controllers who claimed they were unable to work because of illness.

Earthbound Scientists Schedule Moonquake To Gain Information

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Two large pieces of Apollo 13 hardware are to crash on the moon to create massive manmade moonquakes which could tell much about the lunar interior.

The 61-foot third stage of the Saturn 5 booster rocket is to smash with a force equal to 11 tons of TNT. The smaller lunar module — LM — cabin section, which will be impacted after the astronauts leave the moon, is to hit with a force of 12 tons.

The impact of the rocket stage, called an S4B, will be recorded by a seismometer left on the moon last November by the Apollo 12 astronauts. The Apollo 13 crew will plant a second seismometer, and they hope to crash their LM between the two instruments.

When the Apollo 12 lunar module was crashed after it no longer was needed, scientists on the ground received a big surprise, as the seismometer recorded tremors for 55 minutes. On earth, a similar impact would reverberate only five or six minutes.

"This indicates that the structure beneath the surface of the moon is broken up with a wide variety of fragments," a space agency geologist said. "The earth is solid and transmits a clear signal. If it weren't solid and the material beneath the surface were badly broken up, you would have many reflecting surfaces to distort the signal. That's the type of thing we saw with the Apollo 12 impact. But we won't know why it rang so long."

"The S4B is much larger and will give us a better energy calibration," he said. "We will get readings on the object with a known weight, speed and striking point."

On previous Apollo flights, after the S4B stage separated from the spaceship, it was aimed toward an orbit about the sun to get it out of the way. But nine hours after the Apollo 13 launching April 11, ground controllers will change the course by firing small control jets to zero it in on the moon.

On this course, it will follow closely the path of the spaceship, but several hundred miles behind.

When Apollo 13 zips behind the moon and into lunar orbit three days after blast off, the 15½-ton rocket stage is to smash into the moon's Ocean of Storms at a speed of 3,700 miles an hour. No explosion is anticipated because fuel and pressuring gases are to be vented overboard before the impact.

The astronauts will not see the crash because they will be on the far side of the moon, but they hope later to photograph results of impact.

The aiming point is 140 miles west of the Apollo 12 landing. All the remaining moon landing crews plan to plant a seismometer, each of which will have an active lifetime of at least a year.

"With only one seismometer," said Apollo 13 astronaut Fred W. Haise Jr., "it is difficult to determine whether an event is a little one close by or a large one far away. With two we'll have the start of a network which will give us this information."

Former 'Alarm Clock' Watches Apollo Lift-Off

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Herbert E. St. Amant once served as an alarm clock for Apollo 13 astronaut Fred W. Haise Jr.

"We lived in the same dorm at college," St. Amant recalled Saturday after watching television coverage of the moonship's launch.

"My room was across from his, and I happened to have an alarm clock," St. Amant said. "I usually got up before he did, and after I got up I'd go wake him up."

So, St. Amant says, "I was his alarm clock."

Haise and St. Amant graduated 18 years ago from Perkinston, Miss., Junior College. They haven't seen each other since.

"Fred never said he wanted to go to the moon," St. Amant said. In fact, he recalled, Haise didn't even indicate he was interested in flying.

Haise was editor of the college newspaper and wrote articles for the Gulfport-Biloxi Daily Herald, St. Amant said. "He was taking about everything in college that would lead to journalism."

St. Amant, an accountant at Kelly Air Force Base here, said Haise didn't know how to type, so he also was the future astronaut's typist.

He recalls Haise as the studious type who made the college honor roll. "They had a saying for him in the college annual—'It's not how smart I am, it's how dumb other people are,'" St. Amant said.

"I sure thought it was a coincidence that I knew somebody who's going to the moon," St. Amant said.

There was another coincidence in St. Amant's household last year. His son, Joel, was born July 24, the day Apollo 12 landed after its trip to the moon.

NEA Membership Drops In Carolina

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The National Education Association's membership has suffered a dramatic drop in North Carolina in recent years, apparently in part because of the state teachers' opposition to the NEA's strong stand on civil rights issues.

During the last two years, North Carolina's NEA membership has dipped from 33,203 to 21,854.

APOLLO TIMETABLE

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Here is a timetable of the highlights of the Apollo 13 mission: Times Eastern Standard.

TUESDAY

7:38 p.m.—Fire engine to go into lunar orbit, 60x195 miles above surface.

7:59 p.m.—Third stage booster crashed on moon.

11:58 p.m.—Go into lower orbit, 60x85 miles.

WEDNESDAY

5:29 p.m.—Two vehicles separate. James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise in lunar lander, now named Aquarius; John L. Swigert Jr. remains in mother ship, now known as Odyssey.

9:55 p.m.—Aquarius lands on moon in Fra Mauro highlands.

THURSDAY

2:23 a.m.—Lovell, then Haise, step to surface for a 4-5 hour stay.

10:08 p.m.—Second moon walk (4-5 hours) begins.

FRIDAY

7:22 a.m.—Liftoff from moon.

11:03 a.m.—Odyssey and Aquarius redock.

4:13 p.m.—Lunar module is crashed on moon to gain seismic measurements.

SATURDAY, APRIL 18

1:42 p.m.—Engine is fired to send spacecraft out of moon orbit toward earth.

TUESDAY

3:16 p.m.—Splashdown in South Pacific near Christmas Island.

Believes Mary Jo Died Accidentally

BERKELEY HEIGHTS, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. Gwendolyn Kopechne says she believes a Massachusetts grand jury was exonerated Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, driver of an automobile in which her daughter drowned after a party on Chappaquiddick Island, near Martha's Vineyard.

"It was an accident. There's no doubt about it," she said Friday of the death of her daughter, Mary Jo Kopechne.

Mrs. Kopechne said she and her husband are "looking forward" to studying the transcripts of an inquest into their daughter's death. The transcripts, held under court order, are expected to be released soon, possibly next week.

Volunteers who have contributed between 25 and 50 hours include Mrs. E. A. Gunn, Mrs. Don Womack, Mrs. Larry Crow, Mrs. Jerry Allen, Mrs. R. T. Merrell, Mrs. Bob Brock, Mrs. Robert Goodwin, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. R. T. Piner, Mrs. John Ray and Mrs. W. L. Whittington.

Those who have served less than 25 hours are Mrs. Thomas Lorenc, Mrs. Gene McElroy, Mrs. Larry Shaw, Mrs. Julian Patterson, Mrs. Tommy Mills and Mrs. Robert Anderson.

Certificates with special recognition for local physicians who have donated their time to the quarterly Orthopedic Clinic were given to Dr. Pete Rhymes, Dr. Louise Worthy, Dr. M. W. Talbot and Dr. J. M. Woodall.

The committee in charge of the reception included Mrs. Dorothy Garrett, Dr. Dean Box and Mrs. Chub McGibbin.

Absentee Voting To Begin Monday

Howard County Democrats, who for some reason will not be able to vote in the May 2 primary, will get a chance to make their vote count beginning Monday.

Any qualified voter who expects to be absent from the county on election day or who, because of sickness, physical disability or religious belief, cannot appear at the poll on election day can apply for an absentee ballot, Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, said Friday.

Absentee ballots can be cast in her office between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. from Monday until April 29.

Those who appear personally in the clerk's office must present current voter registration slips and sign applications giving their reasons for voting absentee.

Others, such as college students, who apply by mail must send their voter registrations and requests for applications. The application must be returned before a ballot will be mailed.

Ballots which are mailed for any reason other than sickness must be postmarked outside the county. The envelopes must be notarized by someone outside the county, Mrs. Petty said.

Her clerks are required to preserve the envelope in which the ballot was mailed, and any ballot which does not fulfill all these requirements will be thrown out, she said.

Candidates and the offices they seek are:

Ralph W. Yarborough and Lloyd Bentsen, United States Senator.

Omar Burleson, United States Representative, 17th Congressional District.

Preston Smith, governor.

Ben Barnes, lieutenant governor.

David H. Brown and Crawford C. Martin, attorney general.

LEST WE FORGET—Air Force airmen and officers in Vietnam bow their heads in prayer during recent dedication ceremonies of Phan Rang Air Base's new alert facility An-draws Hall. It was dedicated in memory of Capt. George R. Andrews, a Phan Rang-based pilot killed in action last year. His widow is Mrs. Dorothy Andrews, 2102 Cecilia, Big Spring.

Facility Named For Hero, Widow Given His Medals

The Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal, Purple Heart and Air Force Commendation Medal, posthumously awarded to Capt. George R. Andrews, were presented to his widow, Mrs. Dorothy H. Andrews, during a ceremony held at Webb AFB recently.

The awards were presented to Mrs. Andrews by Col. Anderson W. Atkinson, Webb wing commander.

The alert facility at Phan Rang AB, Vietnam, was recently dedicated in memory of Capt. Andrews, a Phan Rang-based pilot at the time of his death. Making the dedication address was Walter T. Galligan, 35th Tactical Fighter Wing commander.

Capt. Andrews, then a member of the 61st Tactical Fighter Squadron, scrambled from the alert facility for a mission while on night alert duty in Vietnam Oct. 13, 1969. During the mission, his wingmen reported the captain's F-100 Super Sabre appeared to pull up from a pass over the target and then rolled into the ground. The flight was called to provide assistance for a river boat patrol experiencing small arms fire from the shoreline area.

The mission was being supported by a forward air control aircraft and a search light operation. After a dry run at the target, the aircraft made a pass, and the search light operation reported that the number two aircraft piloted by Capt. Andrews, had apparently crashed.

Capt. Andrews graduated from the University of Maryland in 1966 with a degree in electrical engineering. He entered the Air Force in July, 1966, and received his pilot's wings at Webb AFB a year later.

Immediately upon graduation he was sent to Vietnam for a year. He spent a short time at Luke AFB, Phoenix, Ariz., before being sent back to Vietnam in August, 1969.

Capt. Andrews is survived by his wife and two children, Lori Sue, 5, and George Robert Andrews Jr., 3, Big Spring, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don D. Andrews, Washington, D.C.

For more information on the homecoming and dedication will be in the June newsletter of the Borden County Historical Survey Committee. In the meantime, interested persons may contact Pauline Clark, chairman, or Sibyl Gilmore, at Gail 79738.

Annual Borden Homecoming Dedication Set For Aug. 16

GAIL — The annual homecoming day for Borden County and dedication of the new Borden County Museum have been set for Sunday, Aug. 16.

Manently recording items of early-day Borden history, contains many interesting recollections, among them accounts of Tredway, a community which faded. Today, not many know where the Tredway was located.

Euna Tredway Harris and May Pratt Stephens contributed considerable information about the general mercantile store built on the Albert M. Tredway place in the northwest part of the county. The Tredways had an adjoining blacksmith shop, behind which lived Dr. McDaniel, one of the early-day doctors.

J. C. Curry, who has an interest in the store and who helped haul lumber from Colorado City to build it, died in 1910 and his interest was sold to J. E. Eubanks, a Church of Christ minister, who moved it 4½ miles southeast. He became the postmaster June 4, 1910, and Elsie Creighton brought the mail by horseback from Gail.

George Miller purchased the store and became postmaster on Dec. 27, 1911, and the store was moved to the Miller place. The post office was discontinued Nov. 30, 1933, and combined with the O'Donnell post office.

The school at Tredway community was called Mesquite, and a frame structure was erected on the northeast corner of the J. J. Curry place. Around 1910, a new building was built north of the original site, and the original building was bought by W. S. Street, on whose place it still stands. About 1923, a brick building was erected and used until the school was discontinued. Fire destroyed the structure some years later.

Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Stephens told how families gathered at one home for Christmas dinner (one was at the S. L. Jones home, part of which was a half dugout); Sunday services followed by dinner on the ground, singing and preaching in the afternoon, supper while men went home to do chores, and then more preaching; the Christmas trees hauled in from the brakes and decorated with strung popcorn, little candles and gifts which

Midland Gets District Water

The City of Midland began Friday taking water from the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Through the weekend, Midland will take water at the rate of 6,000,000 gallons per day, and if the new filter plant functions as anticipated, the rate may be kicked up to around 10 million per day.

Adjustments in the new plant were made during the week and trial runs were made with well water from the Midland system before water from Lake J. B. Thomas and Lake E. V. Spence was pumped to the Midland terminal.

Midland is coming on to the system as a customer under terms of a contract extending over 60 years (broken into two increments). At the outset, the city is due to take water from 9,000,000 to 13,000,000 per day and in the second part of the contract up to 15,000,000 per day.

Originally, water was to have been delivered Jan. 1, but construction delays prevented the filter plant from being ready at that time. The contract with Midland was executed when plans for the new Lake E. V. Spence were firm.

Fina Dividend

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The board of directors of American Petrofina, Inc. of Dallas, Tex., meeting here Thursday, declared an increased dividend of 50 cents per share on the Class A and Class B common stock for the first half of 1970. The dividend is payable May 6, 1970, to shareholders of record at the close of business April 24, 1970.

This is the seventh consecutive increase in the semi-annual dividend. In the second half of 1969, the company paid 45 cents per share.

No Book Fines Announced During Library Week Here

It doesn't matter how long you've had that library book checked out, you can turn it in this week and all will be forgiven.

As part of National Library Week today through Saturday, Mrs. Edna Nichols, Howard County librarian, has declared "free" week. No fines will be charged on overdue books.

"If a borrower has had the book out so long he is ashamed to show his face inside the library, the book drop just outside the front door is available at all times," she said.

The library has approximately 23,000 books now, crowded into the small building at Sixth and Scurry, but Mrs. Nichols and her staff members are looking forward to summer when they should be able to move into the newly renovated post office at Fourth and Scurry. The building is currently being remodeled into a library.

That is another reason for the "free week," she said. "We are trying to get as many of our overdue books in as possible so we won't have so much of a chore while trying to move."

The library is open from 1 to 6 p.m. Monday; 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday; 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday; and 8:30 a.m. to noon Saturday.

Library cards are free to all Howard County residents, and cost $1.50 for out-of-county residents, Mrs. Nichols said. Applications are available from the library, Howard County Junior College students are considered residents, she said.

A story hour is held at 10 a.m. each Tuesday for pre-school children between 4 and 6; and, in addition to books, the library also has record albums ranging from classical music to Western music to popular music to Broadway musical scores. A copy machine is available for persons wishing a copy of any of the library material. A charge of 15 cents per page is required, Mrs. Nichols said.

READY FOR LIBRARY WEEK—Mrs. Edna Nichols, Howard County librarian, checks through some library books to make sure everything is in order for National Library Week beginning today. No fines for overdue books will be charged this week.

A special display of the various types of books available in the library will be on display this week at Hemphill-Wells, along with a poster declaring "Reading Is For Everybody."

Staff members at the library include Mrs. Bill (Joan) Crownover, who has worked in the local library five years and is in charge of the research materials; Mrs. Richard (Mimi) Vera, who has been with the library two years as a cataloger; Rebecca Taylor, who has worked six months as a clerk; and Mrs. Nichols, who has worked in the library part time for three years before taking over as head librarian Jan. 1 this year.

The goal of National Library Week in Texas, she said, is to educate Texans about and gain support for the funding and implementation of the Texas Library Systems Act. She said 27 counties in Texas have no library service, and 824,370 Texans do not have a library readily accessible to them. Books on the best seller list which are available in the local library include:

- "The French Lieutenant's Woman," Fowles.
 - "The Godfather," Puzo.
 - "Travels With My Aunt," Greene.
 - "The House On The Strand," du Maurier.

Teenager Wants To Be First Girl In Air Force Academy

AIR FORCE ACADEMY—An Oklahoma teenager who wants to be the first girl at the U.S. Air Force Academy was greatly impressed by what she saw while touring the campus Friday.

"It's all magnificent," she exclaimed.

"It's much more than I expected," said 19-year-old Jane French, a freshman at the University of Oklahoma.

Miss French said she didn't have "too much of an idea of what it looked like except for the chapel, and I'd only seen the chapel in pictures."

The Oklahoma girl launched her campaign to gain admittance to the academy, just north of Colorado Springs, several weeks ago. She wrote letters to members of Congress and said it would be discriminatory to deny admission to women.

Miss French, invited to visit the academy and accompanied by her attorney-adviser Jack Terezhise, arrived in Colorado Springs Thursday night and toured the campus Friday.

She had lunch with cadets in a cafeteria after stopping at an economics class.

"No," she said when asked if she had changed her mind after her first day on the campus.

She said she would carry her campaign to the courts, if necessary, to gain admission.

Miss French said she planned to return to Oklahoma today.

CANCER SUNDAY — Miss April Showers, (Candy Marcum, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Carl Marcum), is hoping for "showers of contributions" in the Cancer Crusade during month. Today is Cancer Sunday, when most residents will receive reminders at church of the importance of the campaign. Those who have not had an opportunity to make a contribution can mail checks to the Cancer Crusade, Box 2121, Big Spring, or can deposit their donations in the crusade fund, Security State Bank.

Reception Wednesday For Judge McCloud

Friends of Judge Austin McCloud, candidate in the May Democratic primary for chief justice of the 11th Civil Appeals Court, have announced that he and Mrs. McCloud will be visitors in Big Spring Wednesday, and will be honored at a reception to be held in the First Federal Community Room from 4 to 6 p.m.

It was emphasized that the informal affair is open to the public and all persons are invited to greet and visit with Judge and Mrs. McCloud.

Judge McCloud of Colorado City is currently presiding judge for the 32nd judicial district, which embraces Mitchell, Nolan and Fisher counties. He is seeking advancement to the Eastland appeals court to succeed Justice Clyde Grissom, who is retiring.

Judge McCloud has been on the 32nd district bench for six years and has the distinction of never having had a case reversed by an appellate court. He has the endorsement of the majority of attorneys in the appeals district, including a unanimous endorsement by the Howard County Bar Association. Judge McCloud is on the executive committee of the Judicial Section of the State Bar of Texas and in 1968 was selected to attend the National College of State Trial Judges.

He also is active in civic affairs; is immediate past president of the West Texas Girl Scout Council, is county chairman for the Salvation Army, and is a former president of the Mitchell County Heart Association.

Put A Nickel In And Blow Hard

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — It may be possible before long for a tavern patron to put a coin in a machine and find out whether he's too drunk to drive. A do-it-yourself device for determining the degree of alcohol effect was demonstrated Friday by Robert F. Borkenstein, Indiana University professor.

He also invented the breathalyzer, used internationally by police to determine the percentage of alcohol in a person's blood.

The new device, developed by Borkenstein in five years of spare time work, is essentially an automatic version of the breathalyzer.

JIM WILEY

Wiley Elected Lions' Prexy

The Evening Lions have named Jim Wiley, 404 Ryan, a tech sergeant at Webb AFB, as their new president for 1970.

Wiley is a native of Azle, but says he and his family intend to settle here when he retires from the Air Force next year after 20 years of service.

Other officers named are Russell Devore, first vice president; C. W. Tanner, second vice president; E. D. Aranas, third vice president; Doyle Bridson, secretary-treasurer; W. L. Thompson, tail twister; V. L. Perkins and Danny Kirkpatrick, two-year directors; and Mike Chavez and Loy Loudamy, one-year directors.

Wiley has been a Lion for seven years, including one as a member of the Downtown Lions of Taipei, Taiwan.

Trustees To Meet Tuesday

Board members of the Big Spring Independent School District will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the board room behind the school business office at Eleventh and Owens.

Included on the agenda is the appointment of board of equalization members. Board members will also review and discuss the 1970 operational budget and canvass returns of the April 4 trustee election in which Roy Watkins was re-elected and Delnor Poss was seated on the board for the first time.

Trustees will consider the proposed request of the Texas Research League Survey for merger of governmental services and discuss the availability and use of federal funds by the Big Spring district. Trustees will also consider allowing a one per cent tax discount for persons who pay their taxes during October, the first month in which taxes can be paid.

Wins In Contest

Rose Cordes placed third in the shorthand contest of the Interscholastic League meet in Midland Saturday. She will now be eligible to compete in the regional contest to be held in Odessa April 25.

Cattle Rustlers Find Sales Easy In Midwestern States

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Rustlers in Montana and other Western states are finding Midwest markets convenient places to dispose of stolen cattle with no questions asked, says Bill Cheney, executive officer of the Montana Livestock Commission.

Cheney said "professional rustlers" load trucks with cattle, transport them to the Midwest and grab thousands of dollars in quick profits. The ultimate destination of most cattle stolen in Montana, he said, is Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri or Wisconsin.

Markets in those states, he said, generally do not require proof of ownership from sellers. Since last July 1, more than 700 cattle have been reported stolen in Montana with a market value totaling about $120,000, Cheney said.

"We're lucky if 50 per cent of the losses are reported," Cheney said, "so the actual value of the stolen animals is probably closer to $250,000 to $300,000."

He said investigations indicate that on-the-spot butchering make up only a minor portion of the losses. The maior share, he said is through "big movements by professionals," often elaborately planned. Similar rustling operations are common in the Dakotas, Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado and Arizona, he said.

Because these states have brand inspection requirements, he added, cattle stolen there wind up in Midwest markets.

Cheney said representatives of states which require such inspections will meet in Salina, Kan., April 28 with methods of curbing thefts among top items for consideration.

Cheney said several Midwest states which do not require branding as proof of ownership also are experiencing increasing amounts of rustling and are showing interest in tightening inspection procedures to combat thefts.

A cow and calf stolen in Montana, Cheney said, can easily bring $300-$340 in the Midwest. Cheney said rustling in Montana is not confined to cattle. Since last July 1, about 800 sheep and 40 horses have been reported missing, he said.

Many of the missing horses, he said, are "fancy breeds, registered animals" and many are colts. A good 2-year-old colt, he said is worth about $250 unbroken and will bring $500 to $700 broking.

Two Jury Trials Announced Ready

Two jury trials were scheduled for Monday in 118th District Court after a Friday afternoon docket call wiped three other cases planned for this week.

Judge R. W. Caton said the cases are a workman's compensation case and a damage suit involving a grocery store chain.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Webb are seeking $51,600 in damages for injuries allegedly received by Mrs. Webb in a fall in a local Safeway Store Aug. 25, 1969. W. A. House Members Back Voting Rights Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan group of House members has launched a drive to persuade the House to accept a Senate voting rights bill that also would extend to 18-year-olds the right to vote.

Although the measure cleared the Senate 64 to 17, a much closer margin is expected when the House acts in a week or two.

The role of the administration and the House GOP leadership will probably determine the outcome.

The Senate bill would extend for five more years the 1965 voting rights act that President Nixon has opposed as regional legislation aimed at the South.

Nixon also has opposed lowering the voting age by statute, as the Senate bill would do, but has said he would favor a constitutional amendment to accomplish it.

The House supported the administration position last December and scrapped the 1965 act in favor of a broader plan that would dilute the act's focus on the South.

Now the bill has come back from the Senate with the 1965 act restored, some provisions of the Nixon plan added, and the voting age in federal elections reduced from 21 to 18. Instead of trying to work out a compromise, House Democratic leaders want to accept the whole package.

Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., the only member of the House Republican leadership to support extension of the 1965 act last December, has joined the bipartisan effort to pass the Senate bill.

At a news conference Friday he said he had not received any word from the administration as to its position. House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan also has remained noncommittal, while echoing the administration's reservations about lowering the voting age by statute.

Rep. Tom Railsback, R-Ill., another supporter of the Senate package, told a news conference he is optimistic about picking up

WT Chamber Meeting Scheduled At El Paso

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas leads the list of speakers for the 52nd annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in El Paso Thursday through Saturday, according to J. Fike Godfrey, president of the regional organization. Other speakers include former governor of Colorado and ex-West Texas Dan Thornton of Englewood, Colo., who will speak at the annual banquet Friday evening.

"Prospects for the '70's" is the theme of the convention. W. W. Keeler, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Phillips Petroleum, will discuss prospects for the petroleum industry in the coming decade. James V. Smith, administrator, Farmers Home Administration, Washington, D.C., will talk about the prospects for the development of rural areas in the '70's.

Industrial and agricultural development for the next 10 years will be discussed by Harry Clark, vice president of Midland National Bank and former director of the Texas Industrial Commission. Taxpayers of the '70's will not be neglected, according to Godfrey.

James McGrew, executive director of the Texas Research League will bring a paper on the prospects for taxation in Texas in the '70's.

Manuel DeBusk, chairman of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, will outline some of the educational problems which will arise during the next decade and some of the tentative plans of the Coordinating Board.

Also at the banquet, representatives of the National Municipal League and "Look" magazine will present the All America City Award to the city of El Paso. The City of El Paso was one of 11 cities in the U.S. to win the national honor in 1969.

Featured at the noon luncheon Friday, will be the awarding of "Top Displaced West Texans" designations to 13 men and women who have achieved distinction in their particular fields. These include Jeannie C. Riley, Roy Crane, Dan L. McGurk, Dan Jenkins, J. C. Walker, Merritt Mauley, Robert Baskin, James E. Pitt, Charles B. "Tex" Thornton, Dr. William E. Morgan, C. W. Wood Jr., Dan Thornton, and Keeler.

DORIS HOWARD

Stanton Lions Pick Queen

STANTON (SC) — Doris Howard, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Howard, Stanton, was named Stanton Lions Club Queen Saturday night in the annual pageant held in the high school auditorium.

Carlene Walker, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Walker, was first runner-up and Connie Henley, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Henley, was named second runner-up. All three girls are students at Stanton High School.

Russell McMeans, school superintendent, acted as master of ceremonies for the pageant, and entertainment was provided by local talent under direction of George Walker, Stanton High School band director.

There were 25 girls in the contest judged on beauty, poise and personality. Judges were Mrs. Parker M. Humes, Midland; June Humes, San Angelo; and Sara Williamson, Midland.

Miss Howard was crowned by Charles Elmore, Lions Club president, and presented with a bouquet of red roses.

Machines Found

Eight gumball and trinket machines taken Wednesday from Coahoma Laundry were found Friday. Mrs. Wanda Petty, Moss Creek Road, reported to Howard County Sheriff's officers Friday morning that the machines were found by her son, Joel, in a gravel pit near the railroad track on North Moss Creek Road. Neal Ward, owner of Coahoma Laundry, told Deputy Sheriff Eddie Owen the machines were broken into Sunday, and were stolen from the laundry Wednesday.

Civil Rights Commission Critical Of Nixon Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Commission on Civil Rights scored President Nixon's school desegregation policy statement Saturday, contending it stirred emotions and might signal "a major departure from the policy of moving toward integrated schools."

In a 27-page statement the commission, headed by the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh of Notre Dame University, avoided any personal attack on Nixon but analyzed critically the President's March 24 policy message.

It found fault with "all of Nixon's major positions, including his distinction between legal and residential segregation, his support for the neighborhood-school concept and his opposition to busing pupils to achieve racial balance."

The bipartisan agency said the "categorical distinction" between de jure, or legally compelled, and de facto, or accidentally imposed, segregation may be virtually nonexistent.

For example, the commission said, practically all racial housing patterns throughout the country can be traced to official actions by state, local and federal government and, therefore, cannot be considered as purely de facto.

State Senator Predicts Income Taxes For Texas

FORT WORTH (AP) — State Senator Barbara Jordan of Houston said Saturday Texas needs a personal income tax but predicted enactment a long way off.

"The people in my district won't reelect me if I vote for a personal income tax and I'm not ready to retire," she said.

"But somewhere down the line a real battle over the income tax will happen and there will be those of us who will decide it is more important to remain in office than have a fair and equitable tax. Some of us will decide the Capitol dome won't come off if we don't get back and those will be statesmen and not politicians," she said.

Miss Jordan is a minority. She is a woman. She is black (the first Negro woman in the history of the Texas Senate.) She was featured speaker Saturday at the two-day 9th convention of the Texas-Louisiana Synod of the Lutheran Church in America.

Church spokesmen said she is the first woman to deliver the major address.

At its conclusion, most of the 275 delegates and guests stood and applauded.

She began by "applauding you for breaking through that prejudice" of traditional male speakers.

Urging the ministers to become involved in politics, she said she "would like to see the church have a real lobby."

"The only time we see most church leaders is when we have a liquor or gambling bill, not when bills are being considered to help the poor."

"Abortion will be a really hot issue in this next session."

"But I wonder will you be there (Austin) when bills are considered to solve the problems of the poor?" she challenged, mentioning the $55 million medicare deficit.

"We hear mostly from the Baptists when liquor by the drink or paramutual betting comes up," she said, "and as a Baptist and the daughter of a Baptist minister I feel free to say this."

Major hot issues in the next session she predicted will be ways to "find $271 million in new monies which I understand is a conservative estimate" and "the issue of abortion."

"You can be sure on the money issue, it will be a cold political decision and that more taxes will be placed on the people with the smallest voice."

She said she would again push for a corporate tax (the 10 votes I got last session for it, of the 31 in the Senate, was pretty good).

Reelected earlier were Dr. Philip L. Wahlberg, Jr., to a 14-year term as president of the synod and the Rev. Willis F. Erickson for a 2-year term as secretary. Oscar Richter, vice president of an Austin bank, was elected to a 2-year term as treasurer. All were chosen on first ballot.

Martha Mitchell Gets Mouthpiece

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wife of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, whose caustic comments frequently are aimed at Washington's liberal elements, now has a press secretary.

Mitchell added former Houston Post women's editor Kay Westendorf to her staff Friday and assigned her to his wife, Martha.

A day earlier, Mrs. Mitchell sparked another round of headlines after she reportedly called an Arkansas newspaper and demanded it "crucify" Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., for voting against confirmation of G. Harold Carswell as a member of the Supreme Court.

Believes Enemy To Attack Special Forces Camp Again

TAN CANH, Vietnam (AP) — The North Vietnamese still have 1,500 soldiers around the shell-battered Special Forces camp at Dak Seang and a South Vietnamese general warned Saturday that new attacks may come in a week.

"I have a feeling the enemy has exhausted all the potential of a first wave," said Lt. Gen. Lu Lan, 2nd Corps commander, who told newsmen more than 1,300 enemy soldiers had been killed in 11 days in a futile effort to overrun the camp.

Dak Seang, only eight miles from Cambodia in the gently rolling Dak Poko Valley of the central highlands, is a pastoral setting for a bloodbath.

Lan said three South Vietnamese battalions—two of them American-paid and trained irregulars—had linked up around Dak Seang and relieved the immediate North Vietnamese pressure against the camp's perimeter.

But in addition to the 1,500 North Vietnamese still in the Dak Seang area 1,200 are around Fire Base Tango, the general said. Tango is a South Vietnamese artillery base set up four miles south of Dak Seang three days after the siege began.

Lan said although attacks against the two bases now consist of sporadic shelling, he felt the North Vietnamese were trying to regroup, resupply and bring in fresh troops for a second wave of attacks that could come within a week.

For the time being, the situation has brightened considerably for what Lan said were the camp's 560 defenders and their 700 wives and children who have lived in fear and misery in bunkers under the constant pounding of more than 2,000 enemy shells.

"It looks good," said Sgt. Daniel Noonan, 22, of Whittier, Calif., a heavy-set, unshaven Green Beret medic who has been at Dak Seang since a vicious series of enemy rockets, mortar and sapper attacks began before dawn April 1.

Noonan said 45 persons in the camp had been killed—none of them Americans—and another 45 wounded in 11 days of enemy shelling and small arms fire.

Lan said a total of 104 government troops had been killed and 430 wounded in the bitter fighting around Dak Seang and Fire Base Tango—51 of the dead and 180 of the wounded being irregulars led by U.S. and Australian advisers around Dak Seang.

MOD Chapter Hears Reports

Directors of the Caprock Chapter of the National Foundation, March of Dimes, reviewed their January campaign at a meeting held here last week at the Holiday Inn.

Mrs. H. H. Stephens, executive secretary, announced that $6,211.75 was contributed to the effort against birth defects by residents of the five county area. She outlined the help that the local chapter has given to individual patients; the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center; as well as to birth defects centers located around the nation.

Bill Erwin, of Colorado City, vice president of the chapter, presided at the meeting. John Drashorne, area representative of the National Foundation, from Lubbock, was on hand for the session.

Strikes Disrupt Business World

By The Associated Press

Wildcat strikes continued to disrupt trucking, railroads and airlines Saturday.

Teacher strikes in Minneapolis and two smaller cities remained unsettled.

The Boston Record American was struck by editorial workers, and a newspaper shutdown appeared imminent in New York, where 10 unions were negotiating with four newspapers.

Wildcat strikes by truckers dissatisfied with a tentative national agreement tied up trucking in several cities.

In Chicago, trucking companies countered with a lockout against 35,000 drivers as the Teamsters Union threatened a general strike Monday. The union said it had signed up a number of Chicago firms to individual contracts calling for $1.65 in wage hikes over three years, 55 cents over the pending national agreement.

In Pittsburgh, the U.S. Steel Corp. sought a federal injunction against a six-day strike by independent steel haulers, saying it could force layoff of thousands of plant workers.

The "sick out" by air traffic controllers, now in its 18th day, was reported easing in most cities, but continued in force in New York. The control center on Long Island reported 99 of 157 men reported sick Saturday.

Chief Asst. U.S. Atty. Robert Morse in New York said the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO) had proposed a settlement to which the government was giving "serious consideration." He said he could not divulge the terms.

In Minneapolis, where 2,200 public school teachers struck Thursday seeking higher wages and smaller classes, the school superintendent, John B. Davis Jr., said there was a good chance of weekend negotiations.

Teachers also were on strike in Butte, Mont., and Muskogee, Okla.

A strike by about 200 editorial workers closed down the Boston Record American, New England's largest daily.

In New York there was speculation that The Times might shut down following delivery of the Sunday editions if its expected new offer was rejected by the unions.

The printers union has been calling meetings during working hours at the Times—a tactic Publisher Arthur Ochs Sulzberger said had cost the paper over $409,000 in unset advertising and deletion of 130 columns of news.

The AFL-CIO American Newspaper Guild announced that substantial progress would be needed at a Sunday session to prevent a strike by the Guild against the Post Monday morning.

HITS CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Yarborough Is Off And Running

Sen. Ralph Yarborough tried to make up for lost campaign time Saturday, while his opponent, Lloyd Bentsen, criticized both Yarborough and President Nixon for the defeat of Supreme Court nominee G. Harold Carswell.

Yarborough and Bentsen are candidates in the May 2 Democratic primary for the Senate.

A Republican candidate for the Senate, Robert Morris of Dallas, said he is sending thousands of brochures to Texas non-readers, asking them to support him.

In two statements from his Austin headquarters, Rep. George Bush, Morris' opponent, said Texans should support Nixon's welfare reform proposal and that the planned April 22 "Earth Day" is not enough to solve "two centuries of environmental deterioration."

To encourage "bright students" to help solve environmental problems, Bush said he has introduced legislation to create a national college of ecological and environmental studies, to be administered by the national science foundation.

Most of the money for the school would come from private and commercial sources, Bush said.

Yarborough, in Washington most of the week, made two speeches Saturday at Brownwood.

He told a banquet at Howard Payne College that 1970 graduates face the challenges of providing better health care, preventing conquering cancer, preserving "reasonable purity of man's natural environment" and assuring each 18-year-old at least two years of education beyond high school.

Yarborough said the government spends less than $200 million a year trying to find the cause and cure for cancer, "less than is spent each year by Americans for chewing gum. A

Cambodian Premier Decries Viet Cong Aggression

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Premier Lon Nol declared Saturday Cambodia wants to "demolish the dictatorial regime of personal power and to install a republican regime."

The man who led the overthrow of Prince Norodom Sihanouk as chief of state March 18 spoke to 40,000 cheering Cambodians in Olympic Stadium.

The crowds shouted anti-Viet Cong slogans. Banners proclaimed: "Out with the dirty Viet Cong aggressors." A skit showed the Vietnamese as invaders throughout the history of the Cambodian monarchy. Bands played.

Nol gave no indication of when the new government might proclaim an end to the monarchy, long dominated by the Sihanouks, and declared Cambodia a republic.

Informants have said the government originally intended to issue the proclamation Saturday, but decided on a delay because the leaders felt the peasants had not yet been fed enough propaganda to wean them away from a monarchy.

Sihanouk's strongest base of support was among the peasants.

The government imposed a curfew on the 100,000 Vietnamese in Phnom Penh from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. until further notice after the first major act of terrorism reported in the capital since Sihanouk's overthrow.

The government blamed the Viet Cong for an explosion Friday that wrecked a locomotive in the railroad yards.

A broadcast over the government radio said the curfew was "to avoid all dangers" after a step-up of "subversive activities" in Phnom Penh.

The curfew is expected to have little effect since most Vietnamese among the capital's 600,000 population have been staying in after dark.

A government statement asserted the Viet Cong had ordered Vietnamese children to tear down patriotic posters from walls and trees and a number have been arrested.

ADMITS SOME FACTORS MAY NOT PROVE VALID

Center Predicts Population Loss Here

The Population Research Center of the Sociology department at the University of Texas at Austin has stuck its neck out on what the 1970 decennial census will say.

For Texas, according to the Center's projection, there will be 11,144,000 people, a gain of 16.3 per cent over 1960. For 21 counties in this area, the projection is for only .6 of one per cent increase over the 10-year period. In fact, the table of estimates for this area show declines for 13 of the counties; only hefty gains in a couple of counties prevented substantial loss.

There is, according to the analysis written by Dr. Benjamin S. Bradshaw for the Texas Times. Review, nothing unusual for this, because more Texas counties showed estimated losses than had gains.

The vast bulk of gains were concentrated in the metropolitan centers — and the heavy end of that in the Fort Worth-Dallas, Houston-Galveston, and San Antonio sectors.

"Over 86 per cent of the total population growth in the state occurred in the metropolitan areas which comprise only 39 (15.4 per cent) of the 254 counties in Texas," said Bradshaw.

Outmigrations from several of the counties which previously had shown healthy gains accounted for most of the losses as Texas shifted pronouncedly to the urban centers. In a few instances, closing of military bases contributed to population declines.

Another factor mitigating against census gains was a decline in the birth rate. Twohundred and thirty-two (91.3 per cent) of the counties had a smaller number of births in 1968 (the last year in which complete data was available) than in 1960.

In the state as a whole, births in 1968 were 15.9 per cent fewer than in 1960, but deaths showed a 19.3 per cent increase. There was, however, an indication that the birth decline may be leveling off, because 1968 figures were 2.1 per cent over 1967. Dr. Bradshaw pointed to one effect of the population shift which aggravated this problem — most of the families migrating to the urban centers were the younger ones, thus costing smaller communities not only a direct population loss but also potentiality for births.

The center projects a decline from 79,000 to 71,600 for Howard and its six contiguous counties during the decade. Howard County population is seen down by 4,600, Dawson by 2,100, and Mitchell by 1,200, according to the projections.

In this general area, the only major increases are seen in Lubbock (17,800), Tom Green (9,300), and Midland (2,100).

The Center acknowledges that some of the factors used in estimates may not prove valid, and says that it doubts its figures in a few instances. However, so many elements were used in the computations that the Center believes overall they will prove accurate.

With the actual enumeration now under way, perhaps it won't be long until the accuracy of the estimates is determined. At any rate, the Center sees it for this area, as in the accompanying chart.

Bandit Stirs Up Hornets' Nest, Is Badly Wounded

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Antiques dealer Charles Matthews, 75 and his wife Agnes, 74, proved more than ready for the fellow who tried to rob them outside the State Bank of East Fort Worth.

The bandit, 39, wound up shot in the stomach, leg and arm. He didn't lay a hand on more than $30,000 in diamonds, cash and checks carried by the couple and an employe.

Mathews, who also trades in diamonds and rare coins, and his wife parked and started toward the bank's front door. In a box under Mathews' arm were about $20,000 in diamonds and he was carrying around $10,000 plus some cash.

The employe, O. L. Page, 49, was right behind the couple with a sack of rare coins said to be worth several thousand dollars.

Mathews said he already was suspicious as the would-be robber approached. After that things happened fast.

"He grabbed for the cigar box and pressed a gun in my stomach and said, 'Give me the box, give me the box, quick'" said Mathews.

Mrs. Mathews grabbed the man by his collar.

"I was telling him to leave Charlie alone and jerking on his collar and trying to work my purse around where I could hit him with it," she said.

Mathews knocked up his assailant's gun hand with his left arm, pulled a 38 police special from his waistband and fired.

"His gun went off as I knocked his arm up," said Mathews, "and I fired down into his leg. Then I fired again, but I think I missed and he went down."

Page said the gunman pulled the trigger on his pistol about three times as he lay on the sidewalk "but it just went click."

"One hit him in the arm and the pistol flew from his hand," said the antique dealer. "Then I just held the gun on him to make sure he didn't try to get his gun. I didn't want to kill him and planned on going for his arm with another shot if he tried for his gun again."

Sand Springs Beauty Named

Richard R. Newton, district manager, reports that the 1970 Census of Population and Housing is nearing completion in the area, and that in about another week, the census takers should have visited every residence on their lists.

Census takers began visiting households April 1 and have been working continuously to cover their territories. Newton asked that householders hold their questionnaires, which were delivered prior to April 1, and have them filled out, ready for the census taker to pick up. This will save time for both the householder and the census taker and speed up the completion of the census.

For every fifth household, the census taker will have a longer questionnaire which she will fill out by interviewing a member of the household. He asks householders to give these census takers full cooperation in getting the required census information.

Most of the census takers are women. Each wears a red, white, and blue identification badge which is her official credential. It bears her signature and certifies that she is authorized to perform the duties of a Census Enumerator, and has sworn to keep confidential all census information given her.

Lucretia Drake, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Drake, has been selected to represent the Sand Springs Lion's Club in the District 2A-1 Queen's Contest to be held April 24 in San Angelo.

She is a junior in Coahoma High School, taking an active part in many school activities, and is a member of Coahoma United Methodist Church.

The announcement of Miss Drake's selection was made during a Lion's Club Family Night at Midway School. Runners-up were Connie Howell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ray Howell; Janet Rowden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Rowden; and Ragna Rutledge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Rutledge. At the May meeting, Miss Drake will be presented a plaque, and the other contestants will receive bracelet charms.

Kenneth Scott, club vice president, president, and Raleigh Rutledge, contest chairman, introduced the girls.

FIRST TIME IN 40 YEARS Counts Spanish-Speaking

Desde El 1930

Not Since 1930

Por primera vez en 40 años, la Oficina del Censo esta haciendo un esfuerzo singular por contar a toda la gente de origen hispano.

El Censo de 1970 proveera datos que sirven de base para hacer muchas decisiones gubernamentales, especialmente en el establecimiento de prioridades y en la distribución de fondos y programas federales. La redistribución electoral de la población electora esta basada en las cifras del Censo.

Desde el 1930, cuando los mexicanos fueron contados por el Censo como un grupo separado, no se ha sabido el numero exacto de ninguna porción de la comunidad de descendencia hispana. Fueron contados 1.3 millones de mexicanos en aquel entonces. Pero en censos posteriores las clasificaciones se cambiaron a pais de nacimiento, personas cuyo idioma vernacular es el español, y personas de apellido hispano. Esta ultima clasificación tambien fue utilizada en 1960 para contar 3.5 millones de gente en el Sudoeste, incluyendo los puertorriños.

El hecho de clasificar separadamente a toda la gente de apellido hispano en solo cierta region del pais — el Sudoeste, ha sido la causa de serios descuidos. Durante la mayor parte de este siglo, los mexicanos y las personas de America Latina han seguido la tendencia nacional de trasladarse de areas rurales hacia las metropolis, de ocupaciones agricolas al trabajo muy industrializado.

EL CUENTA TAMBIEN— Lagrimas o no, el Censo 70 lo contara en el recuento nacional que se esta llevando a cabo en los Estados Unidos. La Oficina del Censo, del Departamento de Comercio, explica que las formas se han mandado por correo a mas de 63 millones de hogares en la pais. Las formas se deben contestar en total.

Basado en el Censo de 1970, la Oficina del Censo podra reportar un total mas exacto del numero de personas de descendencia hispana que viven en todas partes de los Estados Unidos y el numero de estos en cada estado y en cada ciudad principal para cada grupo nacional.

El Censo de 1970 dejara demostrado claramente que existen comunidades de raza hispana a traves de todo el pais. Asi, el censo ayudara a enfocar la atencion nacional a las necesidades de este, el segundo grupo en tamaño de población minoritaria en la nacion.

La Constitución de los Estados Unidos requiere a la Oficina del Censo, una agencia del Departamento de Comercio, contar la población cada 10 años.

For the first time in 40 years, the Bureau of the Census is making a special effort to count all peoples of Spanish origin.

The 1970 Census provides raw data upon which many governmental decisions are made, particularly in the setting of priorities and the distribution of federal funds and programs. Congressional Districts also undergo reapportionment according to Census figures.

Not since 1930, when Mexicans were counted as a separate group by the Census, has an exact figure been known for at least one segment of the Spanish descent community. There were 1.3 million Mexicans counted then. But the classifications changed in later censuses to country of birth, mother tongue and Spanish surname. The last label was used in 1960 to count 3.5 million people including Puerto Ricans in the Southwest.

Serious oversights have been due in part to Spanish surnames being related only to a certain region of the country — the Southwest. But for most of this century, Mexican Americans and people of Latin America generally have followed the national trend from rural areas to the metropolis, from agricultural work to highly industrialized labor.

Based on the 1970 Census, the Bureau will be able to report a more accurate total of how many persons of Spanish descent live throughout the United States and figures by State and each principal city for each national group.

The 1970 Census will clearly demonstrate that Spanish raza communities exist throughout the country. Thus, it will help to focus national attention on the needs of this, the second largest minority group in the Nation.

The Bureau of the Census, an agency of the Department of Commerce, is required by the U.S. Constitution to count the population every 10 years.

par 68 Saturday and assumed a one-shot lead in the third round of the Masters golf tournament. Casper, a bland, soft-spoken character, had a 54-hole total of 208, eight-under par on the famed Augusta National Course, and led his California neighbor and life-long golfing companion Gene Littler by a single stroke.

Littler, who shared the lead going into Saturday's play, had a 72 for 209. Casper, a dapper, danced an uncharacteristic jig on the 16th green when a 20-foot putt curled into the cup and gave him sole possession of the lead.

Until then it had been a dog-fight all the way. At one time or another five players—Casper, Littler, Bert Yancey, Tommy Aaron and Gary Player—led or shared the lead before the huge gallery of about 30,000.

At still another point, there were seven players locked within one stroke before the greying, 38-year-old Casper took control. Player, the steel-nerved little South African who has been the object of intense security precautions, came from off the pace to take third with a 68 for 210.

Tied at 211, three strokes away from the lead and very much in contention were Bert Yancey, the former West Point, who held a share of the second-round lead, Tommy Aaron and tall Texan Charles Coody.

Coody had a sparkling 67, Aaron a 69 and Yancey a par 72. Coody and Aaron each matched a tournament record.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Third round scores Saturday in the Masters golf tournament on the 6,700-yard, par-72 Augusta National Course: Billy Casper, 68; Gene Littler, 69; Bert Yancey, 70; Tommy Aaron, 70; Gary Player, 70; Charles Coody, 70; Donnie Moon, 71; Dick Lott, 71; Frank Beard, 71; Larry Hinson, 71; Bob Luna, 71; Bert Green, 71; Orville Moody, 71; Tommy Jacklin, 71; Bob Charles, 71; Don January, 71; Jimmy Wright, 71; Don Sikes, 71; Deane Beman, 71; Dick Lott, 71; Tom Weiskopf, 71.

ABILENE — Big Spring Goliad finished fifth in the eighth grade division of the Abilene Junior High Relays here Saturday, scoring 22 points. Twelve schools were entered.

The Mavericks finished only a couple of points out of third place. Abilene Lincoln dominated the cipher show.

Goliad entries scoring points included: 100-3, Earl Reynolds, 11.1. 330-yard run — 2. Ronald McKee, 38.5 (probably a school record).

120-yard low hurdles — 3. Earl Reynolds, 15.2. 440-yard relay — 4. (Reynolds, McKee, Smith, Franklin), 48.2. 1320-yard relay — 5. (Carlton, Lacy, Gillihan, McKee), 2:46.8. (McKee ran a 36.8 leg on the team).

Discus — 4. Earl Reynolds, 128.2. High jump — 4. Russell Vanderlinden, 5-4. Big Spring city championship competition starts Thursday at Memorial Stadium with field events. Running events will be on Wednesday. The program both days gets under way at 4 p.m.

Dean Chance Tames Yanks For Indians

NEW YORK (AP) — Dean Chance pitched out of five jams in seven innings before tiring and the Cleveland Indians presented manager Alvin Dark with a belated wedding present Saturday — their first victory of the season, 3-0 over the New York Yankees.

Chance, acquired in an off-season trade, allowed only four hits in seven innings but six walks kept him in constant trouble. Dark, who was married Friday, replaced him with Mike Paul.

Lou Klimchok homered off loser Stan Bahnsen in the third for Cleveland's first run and Eddie Leon drove in Russ Nagelson with singles in the fourth and sixth.

Chance issued two walks in the first and second innings but got out of it. The Yanks loaded the bases with none out in the fourth but Danny Cater fanned and Gene Michael bounced into a double play.

Thunderbirds Easily Win ABC Meet Here

New Mexico Junior College of Hobbs dominated the record-breaking American Business Club Track and Field meet here Saturday, amassing 100½ points to 37½ for runner-up Odessa.

Records fell by the wayside in virtually every event. The Thunderbirds won nine of the 15 events staged, Odessa four and NMMI and Howard County one each.

Howard County's lone winner was John Schiebel, sophomore from Snyder, who didn't even compete in that event last year. Schiebel cleared a record 6-3 and won on fewer misses in as struggle with Clarendon's Jose Cue.

Meet At Muny

A half-handicap golf tournament for Big Spring Golf Association foursomes boasting A-B-C-D ratings will be staged at the Municipal course today.

The entries will use a shotgun start starting at 1:30 p.m. Entry fee is $2 with merchandise awards going to winning teams.

The association now has an estimated 70 members. Those who desire to play in today's meet have not registered with the association can do so with pro Charley Brantley or any official within the association prior to the 18 holes of play.

Membership fee is a modest $3 per year and gives the card holder all privileges within the organization.

The Muny course was sprayed for crab grass last February and no new infestation has been noted, Brantley said Saturday.

The greens are coming back now and all 18 holes of the layout are open.

Brantley will supervise the seeding of the course's putting green Tuesday.

Beautiful weather Saturday brought out the biggest army of linksters of 1970 and indications are that another stampede will develop at the course today.

Mark Peters of the BSCC got getting closest on the eighth hole (he was a mere eight inches away), and to Dan Wilkins of the BSCC for the longest drive on nine.

In addition, Charles Dunnam and J. Foust of the BSCC earned an award for the high score of the day, 224. Joe Gunning and Wally Slate of the BSCC had the highest net score, 180, and also won a prize.

In net scoring, R. Edwards and M. Rega of Webb led with a 150. Two teams also tied for second place in that phase of competition, with a 153. One twosome consisted of J. Krocka and Cudda Bacia, the other included T. DiFlore and G. Key.

For getting closest to the hole on No. 4, G. Morris of the Country Club won a special prize.

Prizes also went to Daryl Hoertz of the BSCC for the longest drive on the seventh hole.

Cooper nudges Bobcats, 2-1 SAN ANGELO — Abilene Cooper snarled the District 3-AAAA East Zone race by upsetting San Angelo Central, 2-1, here Saturday.

The loss was the first after ten victories for San Angelo. The win was the first for Cooper in conference play, against three defeats.

LONGHORNS FIRST IN TRIANGULAR HOUSTON (AP) — Texas piled up six first places and 62 points here Saturday to sweep to a win in a triangular track and field meet.

Hust Rice was second with 58 points. Texas A&M trailed with 50 points.

Curtis Mills, the flash from Texas A&M, did not compete in the 440-yard dash in which he holds the world record but did run the 220-yard dash, winning it in 21.2 seconds.

And the Aggie 440-yard relay team sacked up first place, despite the absence of Curtis' brother, Marvin, who sat out the meet with a sore leg.

Houston Outlasts Atlanta, 8 To 7

HOUSTON (AP) — Joe Pepitone crashed a double, a triple and his first National League homer and winning pitcher Jim Bouton also stroked three hits as the Houston Astros defeated the Atlanta Braves 8-7 Saturday night.

Pepitone, traded to the Astros last winter from the New York Yankees, slammed the first homer in the first inning and scored Houston's last run after facing a triple in the eighth.

Sonny Jackson opened the game with a triple off Bouton, another ex-Yankee, and scored on the third baseman Doug Rade throwing error. Bouton allowed seven more hits, including a seventh inning homer by Rico Cartwright, and needed relief help in the ninth.

After giving up Cartwright's homer, Bouton poked a run-scoring single in the bottom of the seventh. The Braves rallied for five runs in the ninth, chasing Bouton on a two-run single by Bob Tillman.

Rag Tag Circus Can Set Record

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — Should Rag Tag Circus delight the many who are expected to support his Sunland Park Handicap bid today and win the 11-16 mile test with 126 pounds, he would become the highest weighted horse ever to capture the event.

The record is now held by Tanorac who lugged 125 successfully in 1968, and who promises to have something to do with the outcome of today's renewal.

Big Spring city championship competition starts Thursday at Memorial Stadium with field events. Running events will be on Wednesday. The program both days gets under way at 4 p.m.

Howard Blast Sinks Boston

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank Howard riddled his first home run of the season high off the left field wall with two on to cap a four-run third inning and lead the Washington Senators to a 4-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday night.

With one run in, two out and two straight strikes to Howard, loser Sonny Siebert attempted to waste a pitch and Howard crashed it to deliver his first runs batted in in five games.

Dick Bosman pitched out of several dangerous situations to win his first this season with help from Pedro Ramos in the eighth and Darold Knowles in the ninth.

Three U.S. Records Fall In Swim Meet

CINCINNATI (AP) — Three more American records, including another one by Stanford freshman Brian Job, fell in qualifying Saturday in the National AAU indoor shortcourse swimming championships.

Job, 18-year-old Olympian who competes for the Santa Clara, Calif. Swim Club, figured in his third American record in as many days in the St. Xavier High School 25-yard pool.

His 2:04.7 second time in the 200-yard breast stroke again lowered his national mark in that event. Job had turned in a 2:05.99 in the NCAA meet last month.

Earlier, here, he claimed a record in the 100-yard breast stroke and swam a leg on Santa Clara's record-breaking 400-medley relay unit.

Two college women splashed to the other national marks in the Saturday preliminaries. Eight finals were on tap Saturday night and eight more Sunday night wind up the meet.

Lynn Colella, 19, a University of Washington sophomore traveled the 200-butterfly in 2:04.08 beating the 2:06.06 defending champion Ellie Daniel of Philadelphia Vesper Boat Club did in 1969.

Miss Daniel, with 2:06.4 to lead her heat also eclipsed her previous record.

Linda Kurtz, a 22-year-old Long Beach State junior wrote her name in the 200-breaststroke record book with her 2:23.55 time. That beat the 2:24.3 Kim Brecht of the Lakeview, Calif., Swim Club set in 1968.

Olympian Debbie Meyer missed qualifying for the 200 butterfly finals which put her out of contention for a third AAU title. Debbie swam a 2:13.8, missing the finals by 4.2.

Gary Hall, Indiana University freshman who has the only chance to be a four-time men's individual winner here, paced the 200-butterfly qualifying with a 1:51.67.

Hall won the 200-backstroke Thursday and the 400-individual medley Friday in American record efforts.

Mike Stamm, a San Diego high school senior who has a national record of 51.6 pending in the 100-backstroke, led the qualifying in his specialty with 51.64.

Defending 100-backstroke queen Susie Atwood of Lakeview, Calif., paced the qualifiers in that event with 59.84.

Maravich Shatters All Cage Records

NEW YORK (AP) — Pistol Pete Maravich, alias the Two-Million-Dollar Kid from Louisiana State, is college basketball's first point-a-minute career scorer.

The final 1970 major college statistics by the National Collegiate Sports Services confirmed Saturday the all-time achievements of the three-time All-American and the Player of the Year for 1970.

These are the feats the 6-foot-5 Maravich achieved at LSU and which helped him gain a reported $1.9 million contract with the Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association.

He set a record by scoring 1,381 points during 31 games during the recently concluded season for an average of 44.5. Combined with his 44.2 average for the 1969 season and his 43.8 average for 1968, he is the first to score a point-a-minute career pace in college competition.

During the season he became the No. 1 career scorer in college basketball and finished his three years with 3,667 points, 694 more than the old record of 2,973 set by Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati.

Maravich finished with a career average of 44.2, more than 10 points better than Robertson's 33.8 for the Bear Cats during 1958-59-60. His field goal percentage shooting was .447 and he led the Southeastern Conference in assists with a 6.2 average.

In his 83 college games as a sophomore, junior and senior, Maravich scored 50 points or more in 28 games. His highest, 69 against Alabama during the 1970 campaign, was the most ever by an individual for a major team against another major team.

Pistol Pete overshadowed the shooting of Austin Carr of Notre Dame who finished runner-up in the 1970 campaign with a 38.1 average.

Rick Mount of Purdue finished third at 35.4, Dan Issel of Kentucky, fourth at 33.9 and Willie Humes of Idaho State, fifth at 30.5 in the high scoring field.

Rounding out the top ten were Rich Yunkus, Georgia Tech at 30.1, Rudy Tomjanovich, Michigan, at 30.1, Calvin Murphy of Niagara at 29.4, Bob Lanier, St. Bonaventure, at 29.1 and Ralph Simpson, Michigan State, at 29.0.

Jim McDaniels, Western Kentucky, was next at 28.6, followed by Gene Phillips, Southern Methodist, at 28.5, Don Currucci, Miami of Florida, at 28.4 and John Johnson of Iowa at 28.0.

Artis Gilmore, 7-foot-2 star of Jacksonville, won the rebounding title with a 22.2 average, the highest in 11 years. He beat out Julius Erving of Massachusetts at 20.9.

Steve Kapan of Rutgers was the best foul shooter. He made 102 of 110 for a .927 percentage compared to .897 for runner-up Jimmy England of Tennessee.

Willie Williams of Florida State took the field goal percentage crown with .636 to .632 for second place Bob Lienhard of Georgia.

Coach Is Quitting
DENVER (AP)—Coach Don Henderson of the U.S. men's alpine ski team said Saturday evening he is resigning effective June 1.

In the third, Bud Harrelson singled, stole second and scored on Cleon Jones' single. Jones also stole second and came home on Swoboda's second single.

Two walks and Joe Foy's single produced a Met insurance run in the fourth off reliever Santiago Guzman.

The Cardinals scored in the third on Lou Brock's leadoff walk and a triple by Jose Cardenal. Joe Hague tripled to open the Cards' fourth but was stranded.

Steers Third In 3-4A Golf

MIDLAND — Big Spring lost ground to both Odessa Permian and San Angelo in the final District 3-AAA golf matches of the year here Friday but still finished third in the standings.

Permian won the championship with a final 304. The Panthers used up 1549 strokes in the five rounds of competition to finish 11 shots in front of San Angelo, which also had a 304 Friday.

Big Spring could do no better than a 317 Friday but still finished well ahead of Midland Lee in the battle for third place.

Only Permian and San Angelo qualified for regional competition. Lee fired a 309 Friday but had too far to go to catch Big Spring.

Midland High was fifth, Cooper sixth, Odessa High seventh and Abilene eighth.

Permian's Tim Phillips emerged as medalist for the year with a 72-hole score of 298. He beat out teammate Randy Phillips by eight strokes.

The scoring:
PERMIAN (304-1549) — Tim Phillips, 74; Tommy Tindall, 75; Dan King, 78; Roney Kratzer, 78; Randy Smith, 80.

San Angelo (304-1560) — Scott Stoffer, 72; David Valand, 77; Scott Stoffer, 72; David Valand, 77; Scott Stoffer, 72; David Valand, 77.

COOPER (309-1607) — Larry Harper, 74; Larry Harper, 74; George Tucker, 80; Jack Haynes, 81; Dave Ridley, 82.

ODESSA (317-1629) — Billy Carson, 79; Randy Erskin, 78; Victor Kluck, 79; Howard Spurgeon, 81; Charles Scott, 83.

ABILENE HIGH (318-1646) — Shane Fox, 73; Jeff Giles, 80; Mike McKinley, 81; Charles Michel, 84; David McKinley, 89.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Franly Stable's Princess Roycroft gained a forward position in the chase for the season's top 3-year-old filly honors at Pimlico Saturday by registering an authoritative victory in the first half of the divided Flirtation Stakes.

In the second section of the Flirtation, Arthur H. Schroeder's Weekend Fun charged from just off the pace to upset Langgollen Farm's Restless Life by a 1 1/2 lengths.

CHICAGO (AP) — Danny Walton pulled Milwaukee from a 4-0 deficit with a pair of two-run homers and the Brewers erupted for four more in the ninth and beat the Chicago White Sox 8-4 Saturday for their first American League victory.

Max Alvis started the tie-breaking ninth with a single and there were runners at first and third when relief pitcher Virle Rounsaville threw Ted Kubiak's bunt into center field.

Pinch hitter Rich Rollins singled to put the Brewers in front 5-4 and Russ Snyder's single off

Steers Defeated By Flock, 5-1

ABILENE — Big Spring tumbled to its third defeat in four 3-AAA East Zone starts, yielding to Abilene High, 5-1, here Saturday.

In the opening round, Marshall drove out a triple for Abilene and scored on a sacrifice fly hit by Tatum.

Big Spring tied the count in the fifth when Rick Peurifoy doubled and Charley Rodriguez doubled him home.

In the sixth for the Eagles, Robert Briley walked, Marshall sacrificed, and Tatum singled to move Briley to third.

With runners at the corners, Tindell hit to Peurifoy, who hesitated just long enough to allow Briley to score and the other runners to reach base safely.

After Greg Stirman was walked intentionally, Dan Edwards then doubled to drive in three runners and ice away the verdict.

Jimmy Farris allowed the Eagles only three hits but suffered his second loss at the hands of Abilene.

Big Spring, who also had three hits, had several chances to score but muffed them. Sophomore Cliff Thomas was the winning pitcher.

The Longhorns play at home Tuesday against Abilene Cooper.

Astros Quoted At 30-1 Odds

By TOMMY HART

Boyce Hale, who recently moved back here from Anchorage, Alaska, says one of the biggest myths is that the nation's largest state has an abundance of wild game . . .

JOHN MAYBERRY

He believes Alaska is going to have to make it illegal to kill moose and the big bears before they go the way of the dodo bird . . . "Texas has much more game than does Alaska," Hale states. "The operators of the hunting camps and the guides up there know a good thing when they see it and keep the stories about the state's hunting opportunities alive" . . . Bake Turner, the former Texas Tech griddler who is now a member of the New York Jet football team, recently returned from Hawaii, where he honeymooned with his bride, the former Karen Keeler, a TWA airlines hostess . . . Big Spring's Jerry Wilson, a 185-pound line-backer, will be back seeking his fourth varsity football letter at Abilene Christian College this fall . . . The Wildcats' outlook in football is good . . . Shug Jordan, the Auburn football mentor, rates his Pat Sullivan right behind Archie Manning of Ole Miss among the Southeastern Conference's top quarterbacks this year . . . No Arkansas football player received a bonus of more than $6,000 for signing a pro football contract this year and most of the ex-Hogs received $1,000 . . . In other words, the Hogs think the day of the big bonuses are over in the game . . . Kenneth Davis and Carlos Thomas, the Odessa College basketball phenoms, are having trouble getting scholarship offers from senior schools because of strict grade requirements . . . When the 1970 National baseball league season started, Las Vegas odds had Houston at 30-1 to win the pennant but some writers on the West Coast reason this will be the Astros' year . . . Houston was a 10-1 longshot to win its divisional crown . . . Some wit in Chicago said that if the air controllers' and rail strikes materialize, the St. Louis Cardinals are certain to win the pennant, since Richie Allen won't have any place to go but the ball park . . . Firestone will stage another $100,000 bowling tournament in Akron, Ohio, in 1971.

Coaches of the Oakland Raiders reason they picked up only one good player in the football draft . . . He is Raymond Chester, an end from Morgan State . . . Ted Koy, the Texas back, was the Raiders' No. 2 pick but the management is not sure Ted can play pro ball . . . Several boys on the team's taxi squad may be helpful in 1970, however . . . Bob Rogers and Jackie Touchstone of Big Spring teamed to capture third place honors in the second flight of the recent Brady Partnership Golf tournament, rallying to do that when all seemed lost . . . The Texas-Oklahoma football game will be back on national TV next Oct. 10 . . . Arkansas, Texas A&M and SMU are other Southwest Conference teams which will get exposure on the tube . . . A third generation Wright, Bob Jr., will try football at Howard Payne College this fall . . . He played high school ball at Austin Reagan . . . His father, executive vice president of the Texas High School Coaches Association, has spoken here several times . . . First of the clan to perform for the Brownwood school was Felton, who enrolled in college back in 1919 . . . A short time before he competed in the District 8-B golf tournament at San Angelo Riverside, Forsan's Tinker Bailey had a one-under par 71 practice round on the same course, his finest round ever . . . Bill Giles, former publicity director for the Houston Astros, disliked the thought of departing Houston but received a 100 per cent gain in salary with the Philadelphia Phillies and likely will be general manager of the club there before too long . . . He's one of baseball's brightest young men . . . Incidentally, the Astros reason they may have another Willie McCovey in John Mayberry, a strapping 20-year-old first baseman from Michigan . . . Coach Grant Teaff of Angelo State University, who speaks to Forsan athletes at a banquet here Friday night, says he expects his Rams to be a contender for a first division berth in the Lone Star conference football race this fall . . . One of the boys Teaff is counting heavily on is Coahoma's Bobby Pherigo, a veteran defensive back . . . Texan Chuck Dicus, who is enrolled at the University of Arkansas, will be featured on the NCAA Football Guide cover this year . . . Basketball coaching aides Rodney Jenkins of Abilene High and Larry Lowe of Abilene Cooper are considered in the running for the head jobs at their schools . . . They say that Jim McAlister, hottest football prospect in California since O. J. Simpson, didn't follow his old coach to USC because he didn't want to be referred to as "another O. J." . . . He'll play for UCLA.

LOCAL STATION GETS PIPED ABOARD — Radio station KBST, Big Spring, is greeted as a new member of the Houston Astros' radio network with a welcome sign flashed on the Astrodome's giant scoreboard in the above picture. KBST will air all games, at home and on the road, featuring the National league club this season.

Louisianan Included On Prep All-America

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — America's most outstanding high school and prep school senior basketball players were named today to the 1969-70 Prep All-America basketball team. College recruiters were unanimous in opinion that this year's crop of seniors is not only among the best, but perhaps the tallest in a decade.

The nation's best 100 cagers were selected on basis of ability and performance and from that group, 10 were selected for special recognition based not only on athletic performance, but scholastic achievement, leadership and civic and extracurricular activities. In addition more than 350 were cited for Honorable Mention awards.

The team was selected by a committee co-sponsored by Sunkist Growers, Inc. and Coach & Athlete magazine based on a mailing of 30,000 ballots to public, parochial and private secondary school coaches and officials, college coaches and sportswriters and sportscasters throughout the U.S. In addition, following return of ballots, personal interviews were conducted in depth before the final selections were decided.

GREG PROCELL

TOM McMULLEN

The Top 10 included 6-foot Greg Procell of Ebarb High School, Noble, Louisiana, the nation's leading scorer. Procell averaged 47.6 points per game and totaled 3,173 points, a state record, in leading his team to a 56-12 straight victories. The nation's leading collegiate scorer, Pete Maravich of LSU totaled 1,381 points in 31 games for a 44.5 average and Jerry West of the Los Angeles Lakers led the National Basketball Association with 2,309 points in 74 games for a 31.2 average. By comparison, Procell did his in games of 32 minutes duration against 40 minutes for Maravich and 48 minutes for West.

Keith, Sr., publisher of Coach & Athlete, a leading industry trade magazine. Jay W. Bell, director of public affairs for Sunkist and also director of the non-profit organization's sports programs, stated that the California-Arizona growers of citrus fruit felt it was essential to give recognition to outstanding young athletes as a means of furthering amateur athletics in the U.S. and in promoting a quality and wholesome way of life best depicted by sports competition.

"The more than 8,000 cooperative grower-members of Sunkist Growers, Inc., who produce the majority of California-Arizona oranges, lemons, tangerines and grapefruit, last year sponsored a collegiate track team tour of Europe on a people-to-people Sports Peace Corps' mission. This year sponsored the Sunkist Invitational Indoor Track Meet in Los Angeles and will also sponsor a collegiate golf team tour of the Orient. This is one small way free enterprise can help support our nation's sports programs," Bell added.

DOMINATE SQUAD
Ohio and New York dominated the selections with 27 and 24 each and Florida, Texas, California and Illinois had over 17 each.

Power Memorial Academy of New York City became the first school to name three players to the top 100, including Len Elmore, 6-9, 235-pounds, who was selected in the Top 10. Coached by Jack Kuhnert, in his fifth year as head coach of the parochial school, Power Memorial Academy is regarded by many in the nation's sports community as America's No. 1 prep team. Elmore, Edwin Searcl and Japheth Trimble led Power to a perfect 22-0 record this year and the New York City Catholic High School championship with victories over schools in Washington, D.C., New Jersey and Pennsylvania, including a 79-62 victory over the Tom McMullen-led Mansfield High School.

VERSATILE BOYS
Sunkist and Coach & Athlete also co-sponsor the Prep All-America Football Team and two selections named in the Top 100 for All-America honors in basketball also were named in football. They are Gary Anderson of LaFollette High School, Madison, Wisc., and Joel Parker of Clearwater High School, Clearwater, Fla.

Chairman of the All-America selection committee was Dwight

Committee At Drake OKs Football Return By '73

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Drake University's bid to return to Missouri Valley Conference football competition became official Friday when the executive committee of the university's board of trustees approved the move.

The proposal, which originated with the athletic council and passed the student-faculty and university senate before going to the trustees, calls for the school to return to MVC football competition "by 1973 or as soon as scheduling permits."

Athletic Director Bob Karnes and faculty representative will present the bid to the conference membership during the annual conference meetings scheduled May 4-9 in Des Moines.

Full football membership in the conference would change Drake's football status in the National Collegiate Athletic Association to university division, or major college. The entire conference membership is University Division. Drake is rated in the NCAA college division in football and the University Division in all other sports.

Drake currently competes in MVC basketball, baseball, cross-country, golf, tennis and track, but is an independent in football. The school entered the conference in 1948, withdrew from all Valley competition sports in 1952 and re-entered in all sports but football in 1955.

Five universities now compete for the MVC grid crown: defending champion Memphis State, North Texas State, Louisville, Tulsa and Wichita State. Cincinnati will leave the conference in June. Bradley and St. Louis have no varsity football programs.

The Bulldogs have continued to play Missouri Valley opponents in football on an individual basis, usually two or three a season, and have a 5-5-1 record against Valley opponents for the last five seasons.

Head coach Jack Wallace called the executive committee's decision Friday "the greatest thing to happen to Drake football since I've been here (1960). We are ready to move toward the major level."

Sul Ross Ace Is Taken By Hawks

ALPINE — All-Conference guard Larry Jackson of Sul Ross was drafted by play with the National Basketball Association's Atlanta Hawks.

Jackson, 6-1 1/2 pounds, was the Hawk's ninth draft choice.

At Sul Ross, Jackson has led scoring for two years.

This season as a second team All-Conference guard, Jackson averaged 25.7 points per game. The shooting pace earned Jackson second place in the Lone Star Conference and 32nd in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' national ratings.

Fems' PUBLINKS Play To Open

HOUSTON (AP) — Qualifying begins Monday for the Texas Women's Public Links Golf Tournament.

The low 32 players Monday will make up the championship flight Tuesday. First round losers in the championship flight will make up the first flight.

Helen Nash of Galveston defends her championship. Also back will be Betty Heflin of Houston, last year's runner-up. Mrs. Nash won in 1962, 1963 and 1969.

Clarite Sewell of Pasadena, Laura Haskins of Pasadena, Beverly Baetge of Houston, Miriam Hicks of Houston, Annette Suber of San Antonio and Margaret James of Houston are the low handicappers in the field.

Some 100 to 120 golfers are expected to participate over the Municipal Golf Course.

Valley League Out To Better Its Image

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Missouri Valley Conference, conscious of its second-class image and determined to do something about it, is looking to promotion and expansion to change things.

"We're going to be like that No. 2 car rental service," said Dr. W. A. Miller, professor of higher education at North Texas State, who takes over as president of the Missouri Valley in May, succeeding Dean R. M. Robison of Memphis State.

"We're going to attempt to bring the recognition to the football-playing schools and their programs that they deserve," Miller said. "And we'll continue the strong, national recognition of our basketball program—in the past our most notable program."

"We're considering expansion. We're looking at the schools that have strong over-all programs. But we're realistic. We realize there are some independents that we don't have enough to offer right now. We hope to be able to attract them in the future."

A similar suit against Gulfstream—the other member of South Florida's Big Three of horse racing—is scheduled to be filed in Fort Lauderdale, Broward County officials said.

State Atty. Richard Gerstein filed the suit in Miami against Hialeah and Tropical Park, contending alleged contributions to former Gov. Haydon Burns' Florida law banning such activity by holders of pari-mutuel permits.

Mori, 72, was booked on two misdemeanor charges of making an illegal contribution as a corporation officer and giving in excess of $1,000 to a political campaign. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Gerstein has accused the millionaire sportsman of contributing $25,000 in 1966 to Burns' primary campaign fund.

Two years earlier, Gerstein said, Mori, Saul Silberman of Tropical Park, and James Donn Sr. and James Donn Jr. of Gulfstream "conspired" to channel $70,000 into Burns' 1964 campaign. Criminal charges for the alleged 1964 violation were barred by time limits, Gerstein said.

If the corporate charters are revoked, Gerstein said, a new corporation with new officials must be formed and reapply for permits before racing could resume.

Track Owner Is Charged

MIAMI (AP) — A suit calling for revocation of corporate charters held by Hialeah and Tropical Park racetracks was filed Friday soon after Hialeah owner Eugene Mori surrendered to face charges of making illegal political contributions.

Expansion has been hastened by the departure of the University of Cincinnati at the end of this school year, leaving the MVC with eight members, but only five who play big-time football.

Addition of West Texas State will give the MVC a strong football member. Drake does not compete for the conference football title but played and beat North Texas, tied Louisville and went to one of the NCAA's College Division bowl games.

Pro Cage Circuits Close To Merger

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The warring American and National basketball associations moved closer to a proposed merger Saturday when negotiating committees agreed on three key terms—payment of $11 million indemnity by the ABA, the shifting of its Washington franchise and the return of star Rick Barry to San Francisco.

Transfer Rule Up For Vote

Their little doubt that the University Interscholastic League is the finest governing body of high school athletics in the country but some of its rules are as outdated as the horse and buggy.

One of the most outdated rules still on the books of the UIL is the transfer. When this rule was put, it was needed since there was possibly more recruiting of high school athletes than in colleges at the time.

But the situation has changed and it is easier to control recruiting in high schools. Nevertheless, there are still numerous high school seniors whose families are forced to move to a different school district who must pay the penalty for this outdated rule.

By April 20, high school principals and superintendents will be asked to vote a change of this rule or keep the outdated one in force. This is done by a referendum vote of the members of the UIL and the votes are controlled by the principals or superintendents in each school.

The new rule which certainly seems more feasible and realistic would permit a senior boy to have eligibility providing he can show or prove he has not been recruited by his new school district. This would also require a signed statement from the district he is leaving also saying that the boy was forced to move and had not been recruited.

With the big influx of new residents into the state of Texas through ever-growing industries, it often is extremely unfair for the youngster to be forced to miss his final year of athletic competition. This can work a hardship on the parents who force the youngster to move and also on the youngster who could be a good enough athlete to receive a college scholarship if he were able to compete during his senior year.

When a youngster's parents are transferred for employment reasons, it seems awful asinine to punish the youngster for something he nor his parents had no control over.

After all, it is the duty of the family to earn a living and provide the children with an education but why make it more difficult than it already is?

If the school administrators who are in charge of running our schools are not men enough to be able to recognize that the outdated transfer rule is unjust, then our educational system is in for problems.

What better way to drive a youngster to becoming a dropout than to deprive him of his final year's eligibility just because his family was forced to move or in the case of armed forces personnel, transferred to a new base?

Not only can the present transfer rule deprive the youngster from getting a high school education but it could also deprive him from gaining a college education through assistance of an athletic scholarship.

It's time for parents to take a long, hard look at some of these outdated rules currently enforced by the UIL and make sure that changes are made necessary to keep the UIL the strongest governing body of high school athletics in the country. But an organization is only as strong as its weakest link and the transfer rule is a weak link in the UIL armor.

Pittsburgh Bucs Deflate Philadelphia Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Luke Walker and Chuck Hartenstein combined to pitch a four-hitter Saturday and the Pittsburgh Pirates blanked Philadelphia 4-0, snapping the Phillies' winning streak at three games.

Walker held the Phils to three hits until the ninth inning, when Denny Dyle slammed a one-out triple and Larry Hise drew a walk. Hartenstein then came out of the bullpen and got Deron Johnson to bounce into a game-ending double play.

Roberto Clemente drove home the first Pittsburgh run with a triple off the right center field scoreboard in the third inning after a one-out single by Matty Alou.

Jose Pagan opened the fourth with his first home run of the season, a shot into the left field seats. Then, with one out, Al Oliver delivered the first of his three hits, moved to third on Jerry May's single and scored as third baseman Tony Taylor fumbled Walker's grounder and had to go to first for the out.

May's double, Walker's sacrifice bunt and a sacrifice fly by Alou gave the Pirates another run in the eighth.

College Boys Await Start At Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Many of the nation's top collegiate golfers began competition Wednesday in the 16th Annual All-America Intercollegiate Invitation Tournament.

The tournament, which will be played over the Houston Atascocita Country Club course, runs through Saturday.

Some 25 teams will be playing simultaneously for six different championships—the overall team title, team medal, team low four ball, team low two ball and the individual championship.

The host University of Houston team, NCAA champion for 11 of the past 14 years, is the defending champion of the overall division.

Steve Melnyk, the 1969 individual champion from Florida, and other top finishers through fifth place have graduated leaving the individual championship up for grabs.

Individual favorites are numerous including Bob Clark, defending NCAA champ from California State at Los Angeles; John Jackson, national public links champion from Arizona State; Dean Overturf, western amateur semifinalist last year from Texas-Austin; John Mahaffey, first team all-American from Houston; and Bruce Ashworth, Texas amateur champion from Houston.

Other top entries include George Cadle, three time Kentucky amateur champion from Tennessee; Mike Holder, 1968 Oklahoma State amateur champion from Oklahoma State; Andy North, former national USA junior runner-up from Florida; and Greg Powers, low amateur in last year's national open from Memphis State.

Houston also will defend the team match and team medal championship in addition to the overall championship. Texas A&M returns to defend the four-ball title. Arizona's two ball team will not be back to defend its championship because of graduation.

With the addition of nine teams this year the tournament format has been changed slightly. Twenty-five teams will play the first 36 holes on a medal play basis to qualify for spots in match play. Just the top 20 teams based on medal play will be eligible for match play after 36 holes.

Teams entered include Houston, Arizona, Arizona State, Baylor, California State, Louisiana State, Colorado, Florida State, Florida, Kansas State, Maryland, Memphis State, New Mexico State, New Mexico, Oklahoma State, Oklahoma, North Texas State, Rice, Southern Methodist, Tennessee, Texas A&M, Texas, Texas Tech, Texas Christian and Wichita State.

Coahoma Bulldogs Win 5-A Title In Track

SEAGRAVES — Coahoma set off shock waves in its farewell to District 5-AA athletic competition by upsetting Cooper for the team championship in the annual conference track and field meet here Friday.

The Bulldogs scored 153 points to 144 for runnerup Lubbock Cooper, which not only won the crown a year but went on to capture the state championship.

Coach Kendall Cleckler's Big Red qualified 10 boys for Regional competition two weeks hence. Earning the trip were Wendall Walker in the 440, Ricky Stone in the mile, Dickie Leopard in the shot put, Billy Bailey and Roland Beal in the pole vault and both relay teams.

Coahoma grabbed first places in only the shot put and long jump but was able to achieve points in almost every event.

Coahoma also won the freshman division with 161 points, the junior high level of competition with 108½ points.

Cleckler will take his team to McCombs next Saturday for a meet in which regional qualifiers alone will be eligible to compete.

Friday's results, with all Coahoma point winners included:

UT's Spring Game Slated April 18

AUSTIN (AP)—The national champion Texas Longhorns, missing several players cast in big roles for next season, wind up spring football practice with the annual Orange-White game April 18.

The Saturday contest, which will follow a four-team track meet at Memorial Stadium, is scheduled for 3:30 p.m.

But die-hard fans can come at 3 p.m. and see the Longhorns' third team offense scrimmage for 30 minutes against the third team defense.

So far, veteran Eddie Phillips has held the No. 1 quarterback job over Gary Keithley, top star on last year's freshman team, and coaches apparently have settled on either Alan Lowry or Mike Bayer for the troublesome defensive left halfback position.

Lowry started spring workouts as third team quarterback but was moved to defense after Dennis Duckworth hurt a knee. Bayer, an All-State split end in high school, missed his freshman season because of a broken foot.

Both will be sophomores in September.

"As it stands now, one of the two is likely to start next season, depending on what they do this fall in two-a-days (work-outs)," said defensive backfield coach Freddie Akers.

Missing the final spring game will be Texas' top two tight ends—Tommy Woodard and Deryl Comer, who have injured knees—and the entire front four on defense—David Arledge, Bill Ateissis, Scott Palmer and Carl White.

Arledge, Palmer and White are injured. Ateissis is not in school but plans to be back in September.

Liberal Abortion Law Ok'd Without Comment

By The Associated Press
Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller signed a bill Saturday repealing New York's 140-year-old restrictions on abortion and giving the state the most liberal statute in the country.

Similar measures are pending before governors of Alaska and Maryland but are not yet law.

The New York State Senate passed the abortion bill Friday, one day after the Assembly gave its approval. It will take effect July 1.

The new law requires only that an abortion be performed by a doctor within 24 weeks of conception with the consent of the woman. There are no age or residency requirements.

Rockefeller signed the bill without comment or ceremony. New York, with a population of over 17 million is the most populous state to liberalize its abortion law.

The old abortion law, one of the strictest in the nation, prohibited termination of a pregnancy except to save the mother's life. It stood virtually unamended since passage in 1828.

The Alaska house passed a state Senate-approved bill Friday that would require that abortions be performed in a hospital or other approved medical facility and includes a 30-day residency requirement. It would make abortion a medical matter between a doctor and his patient.

until the fetus can sustain life outside the womb, usually about the 26th week after conception.

Gov. Keith H. Miller, a Methodist whose wife is a Roman Catholic, had said he was opposed to a change in Alaska's current law which prohibits abortion except to "preserve the life of the mother." He has not indicated whether he will sign the new law.

Both houses of the Maryland legislature have approved a law eliminating virtually all restrictions on abortion and leaving such operations controlled by the Medical Practices Act. Gov. Marvin Mandel, who is Jewish, has set a public hearing on the bill later this month and has said he will make public by May 1 his decision on whether to sign it.

Maryland already had liberalized its law in 1968, allowing abortions when the physical or mental health of the mother was threatened, when it was likely the baby would be born deformed or when the pregnancy was the result of incest or rape.

Colorado, on April 25, 1967, became the first state to liberalize its abortion law, adopting a statute copied by about a dozen other states, including Maryland. Earlier this year, Hawaii adopted a law permitting abortions performed by doctors in hospitals providing the fetus was nonviable. The law includes a 90-day residency requirement. It took effect without the signature of Gov. John Burns, a Roman Catholic.

Passage of the abortion law in New York came after lengthy and often emotional debate. The bill got strong support from women's groups and some doctors and was opposed by the Roman Catholic Church. Rockefeller is a Baptist.

Police Academy To Open Monday

COLLEGE STATION — The Texas Engineering Extension Service's Police Training Division will open a six-week police training school at Howard County Junior College Monday.

Twenty-five West Texas officers are expected to enroll at the Southwest Academy for Law Enforcement Officers, a part of Howard County Junior College. Sponsors include the Permian Basin Law Enforcement Committee, HCJC and TEES, a part of the Texas A&M University System with headquarters on the Texas A&M campus.

The Permian Basin Law Enforcement Committee received financing through a grant from the Texas Criminal Justice Council. Federal funds from the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 are administered to local units through the council.

Police Training Division chief instructor Ira E. Scott pointed out the officers will receive the minimum training and subjects required for police certification under Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Education requirements.

Co-instructors for the first two weeks are Tim Kennedy and Manuel Crespo. Classes are from 8:30 until 5 p.m. daily.

Subjects scheduled include criminal law, criminal investigation, traffic law, traffic investigation, report writing, current trends in police work, special assignments, firearms training and first aid.

Guest instructors will include FBI agents, Department of Public Safety experts and officers with special investigation specialties.

Classes will continue through Friday, May 23.

If you read off names at the rate of 1500 an hour, it would take you 5 1/2 days just to cover all the people killed by drunk drivers since 1960.

And every second we waste not getting these dangerous alcoholics and problem drinkers off our roads, the list of American traffic deaths keeps getting longer. To find out what you can do to help get problem drinkers off the road, write the National Safety Council, Dept. A, 425 N. Michigan, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Published in cooperation with The Advertising Council, National Safety Council and International Newspaper Advertising Executives. Because too many people have died.

Stanton Spring Concert Scheduled For Monday

By LYN HERZOG

The Stanton bands will present the annual spring concert Monday. The concert will take place in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m., and three bands will perform: the beginner band, the cadet band, and the high school concert band.

The program for the concert band will consist of "Ojo de Aguilá," "Cherish," "Bugler's Holiday," "Lady of Spain," "Dedicator Overture," "October Mountain," and "Festivo." Band members have been busy selling tickets for the concert to help send the high school marching band to San Antonio April 24.

The 1969-70 yearbooks were distributed last Tuesday. The annual staff worked hard this year to make it one of the best ever. Members of the staff are Darla Dowden, editor; Gayle Haggard, assistant editor; Scotty Fisher, business manager; John Anastasio, photo and darkroom; Polly Creech, layout; Walt Haislip, photo and darkroom; Dan Saunders, Susan Vest, and Sandra Chandler, ad and subscription sales; and Stanley Louder and Chester Kokel, associate members.

David Workman, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Workman, and a senior at Stanton High, will be among 29 other students to be honored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. David is active in school organizations, being president of the band and the National Honor Society, treasurer of the Future Teachers of America, and a member of the Math and Science Clubs. A banquet will be held for the students in the Scharbauer Hotel in Midland April 24.

FORSAN JR. HIGH FHA Officers Sponsor Tea

By BRENDA COWLEY

The FHA officers sponsored a tea for the eighth grade girls Tuesday afternoon. During the tea, the officers explained the functions of the organization, and the responsibilities of each office. Thursday afternoon, the eighth grade girls listened to speeches and then were allowed to vote for next year's FHA officers.

Enthusiasm is now building for the elections for Student Council president and cheerleaders to be held the last part of April. The halls of Forsan Junior High are covered with campaign signs. Those running for Student Council president are: Dorothy Banks, Joe Moreno, and Sylvia Holquin.

The track boys went to the district track meet Friday morning at Robert Lee.

The Stanton Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America was busy last week for National FHA Week. Members received points by wearing various tags for each day, and teachers received roses from the members. The points will help in the decision for members who will attend the state convention in April.

Special For Minority Group

College graduates from minority backgrounds who are interested in attending law school are invited to apply to participate in an expense paid special legal preparatory program this summer at the University of Denver College of Law.

Applications are now being accepted for 20 scholarships permitting minority group students to attend the University of Denver College of Law this summer in a "tryout" for further legal education. The program from June 19 to August 14 is designed to prepare minority group students for entrance and successful competition in law schools. A student who successfully completes the summer institute will be assisted in gaining placement at the law school of his choice. Further information and application forms are available from Prof. William S. Huff, Summer Preparatory Program Director, University of Denver College of Law, 200 W. 14th Ave., Denver, Colo. 80204.

Former Police Get Sentences

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Two former city policemen pleaded guilty to a total of 14 felony charges Friday in connection with a series of burglaries and thefts in this area. Alton A. Alexander, 29, pleaded guilty to eight charges of burglary and three charges of theft over $50 and received a seven-year prison term for each. The sentences will run concurrently. John P. Wylie, 25, pleaded guilty to three charges of theft over $50 and received a four-year prison term on each, also to run concurrently. Judge James Barlow of 186th District Court assessed the sentences.

GRACEFUL DANCES, typical of her country, will be performed by Kanitta Suwanjinda, a native of Thailand, during talent competition for the HCJC annual pageant.

SINGING WILL be the talent displayed by Ethel Greene as she competes for the title of "Miss HCJC." A local girl, Ethel is well-known for her fine voice.

CURRENT QUEEN of coeds is Patricia Pierce, "Miss HCJC" for 1969, who will crown her successor, following the judges' decision at the pageant on April 18.

CAMPUS CUTIES who daily decorate classrooms at Howard County Junior College get together in the Student Union Building to discuss friendly competition for the

'Campus Cuties'

Sixteen Howard County Junior College coeds will compete for the title of "Miss HCJC" at the fourth annual pageant Saturday, April 18 at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium. Girls will appear in campus fashions, swim suits and a talent presentation of their choice.

Pat Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pierce of Clyde, "Miss HCJC" for 1969, will crown her successor following the judges' decision. "Miss Congeniality" will be chosen by the girls as the contestant most cooperative during the pageant rehearsals.

The event is sponsored annually by the HCJC Press Club. This year's presentation is directed by the club sponsor, Dal Herring. Jim Baum of Radio Station KBYG will be master of ceremonies, and commentary will be by Mrs. Glenn Cootes, public relations director at the college. Music will be provided by the Big Spring High School Band.

Admission is $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students. Tickets are available from any Press Club member or can be purchased at the door the night of the pageant.

DESPITE DRIZZLES, traditional planting of a rose bush in the patio at Big Spring High School was carried out Thursday by these members of Future Homemakers of America. The planting is done annually during the observance of National FHA Week. Peggy Irwin, historian, and Linda Crawford, vice president, wield the shovel as Cathy Carlile, president, supervises.

Sixteen Coeds In Competition For Crown Of 'Miss HCJC'

Big Springers are in for a treat for who can deny that a beauty pageant is the best show in town? Especially, when the price of admission is only $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students.

A bargain at any price, Howard County Junior College will hold its annual "Miss HCJC" pageant Saturday at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium.

Contestants are:

Halena Wozencraft, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Wozencraft, 1111 Settles. She is a sophomore elementary education major; 5 feet 2 inches tall and has blue eyes and brown hair and weighs 100 pounds. Miss Wozencraft will display her dancing talent.

Ethel Greene, 20, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Floyd Greene, 913 Ohio. The sophomore sociology major is 5 feet 6 1/2 inches, weighs 125 and has brown eyes and black hair. She was named runner up and "Miss Congeniality" in the 1969 pageant. She will sing.

European Slides Seen By Garden Clubbers

Bill Fryrear, agricultural engineer for the U.S. Experiment Station, was guest speaker at the Four O'Clock Garden Club meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. George McGann, 2700 Apache.

Fryrear showed slides taken during a tour of Europe with his family last fall. He represented the United States at an international conference for engineers in Germany. Following the conference, the Fryrears toured France, England, Austria and Spain visiting agricultural stations, in addition to seeing historical sites. His slides illustrated the landscape, farms, castles and art in Europe.

Fryrear has written a number of articles for scientific journals on the effects of wind on crops in the plains, according to Mrs. Paul Koshi, who introduced Fryrear to the club.

Another guest was Mrs. Boyce Hale.

The club made plans to landscape the Half-Way House grounds. The next meeting will be May 13 with a luncheon to install new officers.

XYZ Club Members To Hold Elections

XYZ Club members met at Furr's Cafeteria Friday with Mrs. Morris Robertson and Mrs. Joe Smoot as hostesses. Door prizes were won by Mrs. Dewitt Bunn and Mrs. D. D. Pittman. Elections will be held at the next meeting May 8.

Eager Beavers Sew, Quilt, Knit

Members of the Eager Beaver Sewing Club met at the home of Mrs. J. D. Kendrick, 4003 Wasson, to work on individual items such as quilts, dresses and crocheting. Mrs. Kendrick served refreshments. The next meeting will be Friday in the home of Mrs. A. B. Jernigan, 707 E. 16th.

A LOVELIER YOU Start Slimming Waist For Summer Swimsuits

By MARY SUE MILLER
A Lovely writes: There's a ring of fat around my rib cage. Otherwise, I have a normal, rather nice figure. What kinds of reducing routines take care of the problem?

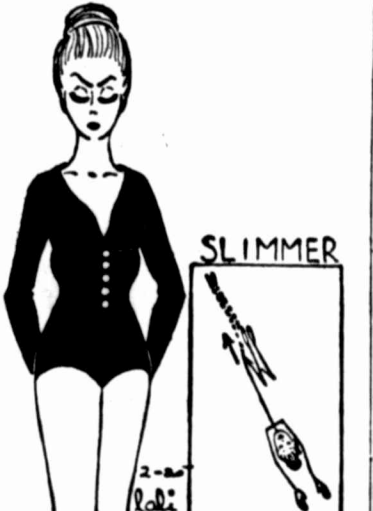

The Answer: Extra padding around the diaphragm can spell ruin for an otherwise trim figure. The reason is that it distorts the line — the definition — between the bosom and waist. If the figure is on the plump side, the effect is the same as that of a double chin on the throat.

Reduction involves spot exercises, carefully designed for use in the delicate area. Plus improved posture. Use this routine for a start:

Stretch out tall on the floor with arms extended behind head. With legs together, bend knees so they hover just above center of diaphragm. Then slowly straighten legs, keeping about two inches above floor, repeat twice without stopping; relax and perform entire routine 10 times.

Don't overdo, but work up gradually to full count. To steady yourself, hold on to a table leg or other sturdy support until you can work on your own.

As for your carriage, be sure to make a habit of pulling up the waist and pulling in the rib

SPOT REDUCING
Spot reduction — key to a proportioned figure. Exercise is the only way to trim those stubborn bulges... to lose inches exactly where you wish.

My new booklet, "Spot Reducing Exercises," gives easy routines — 40 in all — for slimming the upper back, arms, midriff, hips, legs, ankles... Plus ideal measurements... other figure-trimming tips.

For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

'Youth Needs Heroes' Says Mrs. H. Rosson

"People are born on different levels of society, but character is something they develop themselves," said Mrs. Harold T. Rosson, guest speaker Thursday for the Airport Parent-Teacher Association. Mrs. Rosson, a counselor at Big Spring High School, based her talk on building character through self-discipline, using Thomas Jefferson and Helen Keller as examples of persons who developed strong characters.

Thomas Jefferson, statesman, congressman and president of the United States, not only helped write the Declaration of Independence, he worked on establishing laws which still affect Americans today. A champion of free public education, separation of church and state and the abolition of slavery, he was a leader in the Louisiana Purchase and fought excessive taxation.

Mrs. Rosson detailed life of blind Helen Keller and her famed teacher, Annie Sullivan, saying Miss Keller often practiced Braille until her fingers bled. Lecturing all over the world, she raised funds to help the blind.

"Today's youth needs heroes — or decent people they can emulate," continued Mrs. Rosson. "Young children mimic their parents, yet when a child goes against set standards, parents tend to blame others. Movies and TV have a great impact on youth today, and some want to pattern themselves after these characters. "Children should learn self-discipline in the home. They should be taught to keep their room tidy, help in the yard, do homework thoroughly, be a good neighbor and friend and keep emotions under control."

Thursday's meeting began with a devotion, "Something to Believe In," by J. L. Rankin. Girl Scout Troop 107 presented the flags, led the Pledge of Allegiance and the singing of "America."

Mrs. R. H. Carter Jr. and Mrs. Bob Smith reported on the April 8 PTA instruction given by Mrs. Wiley Alexander, a state officer, who presented ideas on projects, fund-raising and membership campaigns.

Mrs. Lee Justice, president, announced that 14 persons will receive certificates for completing the Parent and Family Life Education classes which ended April 6.

In other business, the PTA planned a luncheon for teachers May 29 with Mrs. Dale Ditto serving as chairman. A work day was slated May 6 to complete the painting of picnic tables and fence at the school's park-playground.

Members were reminded that the district spring conference will be held April 28 at Big Spring Country Club. The room count award went to Mrs. Jo Gresham's second grade, and W. Wykoff won the attendance prize.

Spring Stargazer Shown In April

"The Spring Stargazer" is the topic for the April Planetarium lecture each Sunday at 3 p.m. at the museum on the campus of Texas Tech.

April constellations include Leo (the Lion), Leo Minor (the Little Lion) and Hydra (the Sea Serpent). In mythology, the constellation Leo represented the lion slain by Hercules as the first of his 12 chores.

According to an old legend, the Sea Serpent was a rather peculiar creature, with many heads and the ability to replace them. As one head was cut off, two new ones grew in place.

Admission to Planetarium demonstrations is 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for students, and free to members of the West Texas Museum Association.

Parking is available in the visitors' area behind the museum, located on the traffic circle west of the Broadway entrance to the campus.

FOCUS ON FAMILY LIVING Guidelines Will Help In Arranging Pictures

By CATHERINE CRAWFORD
County HD Agent

Current periodicals that feature home decorating ideas show the use of groups of pictures and other decorative objects on the walls. A person with an adventurous spirit and a few basic rules can use these groups of pictures and other objects for good decorating results.

The pictures that you use need not be original works of art. As a matter of fact anything that pleases you will do. These might be reproductions of well known paintings, a print from an old book, collections of interestingly shaped objects such as medals, keys or buttons. Needlework that is framed for hanging is enjoying popularity right now.

A good rule of thumb for a single picture is to hang it at the eye level of a person of average height standing in the center of the room. For a group over a sofa the pictures can come fairly low but not so low that a person sitting on the sofa can hit his head on the lower edge. A group of pictures may be used on a wall that does not lend itself to a piece of furniture. In this case the grouping might cover the entire wall.

To get the objects to be used placed in a way that seems to your eye a balanced and interesting arrangement is not too difficult to achieve. Put a piece of brown paper on the floor. Wrapping paper is good since widths can be taped together to make the size and shape that will represent the space you wish to use for the arrangement. Lay the pictures and other objects that you plan to use together on the paper.

To help you decide how to place the pictures keep the following guidelines in mind:

The eye craves some semblance of order in every arrangement. Satisfy it by hanging pictures so they form at least one vertical straight line and one horizontal line. Otherwise, there is no relationship between items, and instead of hanging together as an arrangement, they wander over the wall.

Keep the weight of the composition evenly distributed. Fancy frames, dark mats, and many oil paintings look heavier than watercolors, etchings, engravings, and drawings. Integrate the arrangement to achieve balance, instead of hanging like items all together, lopsidedly.

The arrangement should hang together, literally, instead of spreading across the wall. Too much space between pictures ruins the effect of the arrangements. The intervening space between the pictures should be less than the width of the picture.

If permanent accessories enter the arrangement, include them in the picture wall. Flower arrangements, plants, vases can be an important part of the grouping and add an interesting new dimension. Superimposing an accessory on the arrangement creates jumble.

Variation is the spice of a good arrangement. Combine large and small circles and rectangles and squares in the same grouping, but scatter the various shapes and sizes throughout the composition to produce design interest.

Once you are satisfied with the arrangement you have created on the brown paper mark the outlines of the pictures on the paper. Then lightly tape the paper on the wall, and mark through the paper on the wall itself the place where the center of each picture wire should be.

By keeping these guidelines in mind, you should be able to create an arrangement that will be satisfying to you and one that will add to the attractiveness of your home.

Butter Taste Wans

Butter can lose some of its fine flavor if it's left at room temperature for too long or exposed for too long a time to light. That's why you should remember to keep it in a covered dish in the refrigerator between meals.

BSP Names County's 'Woman Of The Year'

Howard County's "Woman of the Year" is Mrs. Morris (Jimmie) Robertson, who has been honored with the title by local chapters of Beta Sigma Phi. Mrs. Robertson will be the guest of honor at the BSP Founder's Day banquet.

Mrs. Robertson, a native of Big Spring, and her husband reside at 2806 Clanton. He has lived here since 1935 and is owner of Morris Robertson Body Shop.

The couple has five sons and two grandsons. Sgt. Richard L. Robertson is now stationed with the Army in Japan, and Robby Robertson, who is married to the former Roelynn Bunch, resides here where he works with his father, Reggy Robertson and his wife, the former Vicki Morrison, live in Abilene where he is attending a court reporter's school. The two youngest sons, Randy and Roddy, are students at Big Spring High School. The grandsons are Ricky Jr. and Shane.

AT CENTER

Mrs. Robertson is well-known for her volunteer work in numerous areas. As coordinator of the clinical, clerical and transportation volunteers at Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, she has accumulated 1,783 hours of floor duty during the past five years. She also served as coordinator for the Christmas party for adult patients at the center and is in charge of the junior volunteers for the orthopedic clinic which is held every three months. For six hours every week, she is arts and crafts teacher for the crippled children who come to the center, and one day each week she visits and assists two nursing home residents who are also patients at the center.

For two years, Mrs. Robertson has been chairman for the Howard County Heart Association, and has been a member of its board for four years. This year she is also general chairman for the Howard County Easter Seal Campaign, having served as co-chairman in 1969. For two years, she has been a member of the house of delegates of the Easter Seal Society.

In the past, she has been a chaperon for the YMCA Hi-Y boys basketball team during out-of-town tournaments, and this year, she decorated for an annual breakfast honoring students in government. Thanksgiving Day, she and her husband hosted a dinner in their home for all Vietnam veterans at the Veterans Administration Hospital, and for a year, she sponsored a 15-year-old girl patient at Big Spring State Hospital. During the coming summer months, Mrs. Robertson will be arts and crafts teacher at the Big Spring Boys' Club.

OTHER CHILDREN

The Robertsons worked closely with Bob Garland, former juvenile officer, and at different times, brought two boys into their home. They have sent three girls through high school and provided nurses training for one of them.

The Robertson family holds membership in First United Methodist Church and Epworth Sunday school class which he serves as president. She has been meal coordinator at the Sunday evening dinners for the Methodist Youth Fellowship. Also, she is vice president and decorations chairman of the XYZ Club.

Since becoming interested in community volunteer work, Mrs. Robertson has had to curtail other activities, however, she is a past vice president of the Big Spring Progressive

Salad Supper Set By Eastern Stars

Plans to honor past matrons and past patrons of the Order of Eastern Star were made at the Laura B. Hart Chapter meeting Thursday at Masonic Temple. The group will be honored at a salad supper during the next meeting April 23. Also, elections will be held. Mrs. L. Z. Marchbanks, worthy matron, presided. A gift box of linens was packed for the Eastern Star Home in Arlington.

Plainview Nurse Club Visits Here

Plans to entertain the Plainview Future Nurses Club today were made by the Permian Basin Medical Society Auxiliary during a luncheon meeting Thursday at Cosden Country Club. Hostesses were Mrs. Paul Kionka and Mrs. P. W. Malone.

The Auxiliary plans a tour of Big Spring's medical facilities, a swim at the YMCA and a picnic dinner in the home of Mrs. Clyde Thomas for the Future Nurses.

Mrs. Raymond Torp showed the movie, "The New Generation," at the luncheon meeting. The film showed the good and the bad sides of the college-age generation. Mrs. James Kreimeyer was elected delegate to the Texas Medical Association and Auxiliary meeting in Dallas at the end of April.

The next meeting will be May 14 at Cosden Country Club.

Barracks Group Honors Officers

A salad supper was held by the Ladies Auxiliary to Big Spring Barracks 1474 Thursday in the IOOF Hall where guests included R. M. Crabtree of Plainview, district commander, and Mrs. Crabtree, district president for the auxiliary.

Mrs. Crabtree spoke on the upcoming district convention in Crosbyton on May 9. Mrs. E. L. Patton presided.

Other guests for the supper were members of the barracks. Tables were decorated with arrangements of poppies.

Agent Speaks On Picture Placement

Proper arrangement of pictures in the home was detailed by Mrs. Delaine Crawford, Howard County home demonstration agent, during a program Thursday afternoon for the Luther Home Demonstration Club. The group met in the home of Mrs. Edward Simpson with Mrs. John Couch presiding. The next meeting will be at 2 p.m., April 23, in the home of Mrs. J. M. Wilson.

R HELP FOR PARKINSONS WITH L-DOPA

For a long time there was little that could be done to help people suffering with Parkinson's Disease. Stemming from a chronic disorder of the central nervous system, its symptoms are a shaking palsy, slowness of movement, weakness and stiffening of the muscles.

Now a drug with the funny sounding name of L-DOPA appears to be helping people with Parkinson's to improve greatly. Although still being tested, it has been recommended that the drug be released for use by physicians and it should be available around the middle of this year. Your doctor knows about this.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

Club Discusses Home Decoration During Meeting

In a program on picture arranging, Mrs. Delaine Crawford advised that single pictures should be hung at eye level. She was guest speaker at the College Park Home Demonstration meeting Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Ken Watson, 603 Washington.

Mrs. Crawford, county HD agent, said that groupings of pictures should have some order, to achieve an uncluttered look. Pictures with fancy frames, dark matting or dark frames appear to be heavier than lighter colored and simply framed pictures. She suggested this should be considered in the arrangement.

Mrs. Marshall Dolloff was a guest.

The meeting April 21 will feature a program on the history of Big Spring. Members will meet at the state park and hike around Scenic Mountain to locate carvings thought to be left by Coronado. Mrs. Guy Cook and Mrs. J. C. Williams will give the program. Members are to bring sack lunches.

Serve Melon Balls

Serve frozen melon balls in a festive party punch along with the usual fruit slices.

Miss Becky LaDon Ringener became the bride of Ronald J. Baird Saturday evening in the sanctuary of Prairie View Baptist Church with the Rev. Elra Phillips conducting the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ringener, 2802 Ann, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Baird, 109 Canyon.

The altar was adorned with baskets of gladioli on either side of an arch entwined with greenery, and the bridal aisle was lighted with candelabra holding votive candles.

Mrs. Donald Richardson, organist, accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Haskell Wilson, as she sang "More" and "The Lord's Prayer." The couple knelt on a white prie-dieu during the singing of "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was attired in an ivory satin faille gown accented with rose point lace. The fitted bodice was designed with a Victorian ruffled neckline and long sleeves ending in scalloped lace ruffles. The A-line skirt swept lower at the back emphasizing the full chapel-length train which was topped with a flat bow. A matching satin faille bow cluster, accented with seed pearls and crystals, held her bouffant veil of silk illusion.

She carried a cascade of feathered carnations centered with an orchid corsage.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Debi Caffey, and the bridesmaid was Miss Jody Callum of Odessa. They were identically attired in water blue dresses with Alencon lace marking the Empire waistlines. Both attendants carried nosegays of pale blue carnations.

Joe Fields, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man, and groomsmen were Rowan Settles. The ushers were Olan Chapman and Roger Kionka.

RECEPTION

The couple was joined by the parents and feminine attendants in receiving guests during a reception held in the fellowship hall of the church. Mrs. Olan Chapman presided at the registry, and other members of the house party were Mrs. Landon Burchell, Mrs. P. J. Leuschner, Mrs. Doris Ray and Mrs. W. C. Fryar.

The bride's table was covered with a floor-length blue cloth overlaid with white lace and centered with white tapers in a silver candelabrum flanked by the wedding bouquets. The three-tiered cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom, and crystal and silver completed the setting.

SCHOOLS

Baird, a graduate of Big Spring Senior High School, is attending Howard County Junior College and is employed by Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. He plans to attend a School of Mortuary Science in Texas.

Mrs. Baird will graduate from BSHS in May. A member of the Vocational Office Education Club, she is employed as a bookkeeper at Hester's Sheet Metal and Refrigeration Company.

After a wedding trip, the couple will reside at 710 Johnson. For traveling, Mrs. Baird chose a navy and white dress with navy jacket and white accessories. Her corsage was from her bouquet.

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

If we don't get after our 'Dandy Lions' before they spread out all over everywhere, our 'Daffy Dills' are not going to have any place to come up in next spring.

If you have taken any notice of the vast amount of the dandelions that are now ready to spread their damaging little seeds or whatever they spread with at fluffy little heads, you can readily see that if everyone that has some on their property doesn't get rid of them right away, next year he's going to have more. And what's more, all his neighbors will have a crop, too. This is not the way to win friends and make for happy neighborhoods. We're trying, honest.

We're sorry to see MRS. HANSON LAWHON leave Big Spring. She has been a good worker for many worthwhile things during her residence here. Margaret and her mother, MRS. MINNIE LAMB, plan to leave today for Austin where she has taken a position as a medical secretary.

Guests in the home of MR. and MRS. O. H. VICK have been her sister, MRS. E. A. BAEON, and MR. BARON of Port Wentworth, Ga., and their son and his family, MR. and MRS. EDWIN BARON and Leslie, of Atlanta, Ga. The group left Saturday after spending two days here.

MR. and MRS. MILLER HARRIS are on an automobile trip of the Gulf States and will probably drive through Tennessee and Kentucky before returning here.

Will Host Party For Boys' Club

If there's something that ELVON DeVANEY doesn't do at Dimmitt, he has overlooked it. Recently he was named that city's outstanding young man for 1969, and he was cited for being on call as a volunteer fireman, justice of the peace, JayCee officer, Dimmitt Commerce director and volunteer helper with Dimmitt Day Care Center and Girlstown USA. He also finds time to work in his (Presbyterian) church, attend to his job as the Texas operations manager for Western Vegetables, Inc. of La Junta, Colo. (He contracts cucumber acreage in Castro and Bailey counties, supplies seed, advises growers, contracts field crews, processes processing and shipping of pickles from the Dimmitt plant.) DeVANEY, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. DeVANEY, Washington, D.C. (formerly of Coahoma), was born in Big Spring, reared in Coahoma and attended Howard County Junior College. He farmed at Coahoma and directed farm labor organization at Brownfield and Muleshoe before going to Dimmitt. Mrs. DeVANEY is the former Sue Hill, his high school sweetheart, and they have two children, Shannon, 14, and Tanya, 12.

Doris Marie White Marries In Stanton

Miss Doris Marie White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton A. White, Stanton, became the bride of Army Specialist Bobby Joe Holland Tuesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weiland W. Atchison, Stanton. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Dick Madison, Stanton.

Claud Wood, Stanton Church of Christ minister, officiated at the 8 p.m. candlelight ceremony, performed before a fire-place flanked with tree candles holding avocado tapers and entwined with English ivy and greenery.

Mrs. Ulen North sang "The Twelfth of Never" and "The Wedding Prayer" accompanied by Mrs. Ronnie Tucker, organist.

The bride was attired in a silk peau de soie gown styled with Empire bodice accented with crystal beads at the waist. The full, umbrella sleeves were fitted at the elbow in scallops. The neckline and hemline were scalloped and the back of the gown formed a full chapel train. Re-embroidered Alencon lace and flowerets of Guipure lace enhanced the gown. She wore a matching floor-length mantilla of Alencon lace held by an open coil accented with crystal beads. Her bouquet of white rosebuds and streaming English ivy was carried atop a Bible.

The maid of honor, Miss Debbie White, sister of the bride, wore an apple green brocade gown in Empire design. Her headpiece was a shoulder-length green veil of illusion held by a satin headband. She carried a nosegay of ivy tied with green bows.

The best man was Don Bizzell, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Altar taper lighters were Roy Madison, brother of the bridegroom, and Wayne Atchison.

The couple left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. The bride wore a navy and white linen dress in Empire-style with stand-up collar.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Stanton High School and is now employed at the Martin County A.S.C.S. Office. The bridegroom is a 1966 graduate of Stanton High School. The couple will temporarily reside in Stanton, then go to Kaiserlautern, Germany, where Holland will be stationed until December.

The wedding reception followed the ceremony in the Atchison home. The tiered wedding cake was topped with a soldier and bride figurines and decorated with green rosebuds. The refreshment table was covered with white linen and centered with the bride's bouquet. Silver and crystal appointments were used.

Miss Ann Cook, Odessa, was in charge of the guest register. Members of the house party were Matty Harrell and Miss Vicki Burchett, both of Big Spring, Doris Walraven and Dora Walraven, both of Midland.

Out-of-town guests included the James Walraven family, Midland, and the Willis Burchett family, Big Spring.

Party Will Honor British Wives

A farewell party for four members of the British Wives Club was planned during a meeting Thursday in the home of Mrs. William Taylor, 180-B Fairchild. Members whose husbands are being transferred are Mrs. William Hester, Mrs. Thomas Bare, Mrs. Charles Boyd and Mrs. Bill Winn.

The party will be at 7:30 p.m. April 30, in the home of Mrs. J. L. Skaggs, 249-B Langley. Election of new officers also will be held. Coffee and refreshments were served by Mrs. Taylor.

BETROTHED — Mr. and Mrs. Albert Meyers, Winters, announce the engagement of their daughter, Olga Louise, to Rodney Lee Dunnam, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Dunnam, 1108 Ridgeroad. The couple plans to marry June 14 in the First Baptist Church, Winters.

PTA Officers Are Installed

Mrs. Bruce Hudspeth spoke briefly on the definition of prayer, using quotes from Alfred Tennyson, when the College Heights Parent-Teacher Association met Thursday at the school. The group then said the PTA prayer.

Officers for the 1970-71 school year were elected and installed. They are Mrs. J. E. Swindell, president; Mrs. Charlie Shanks, vice president; Mrs. Charles Bell, secretary; and Mrs. Alton Ditto, treasurer. The officers will serve as voting delegates to the district conference here April 28 at Big Spring Country Club.

Mrs. Hollis Puckett, corresponding secretary for the 16th District board of managers, conducted the installation, comparing the officers to different sections of a train.

"The train is pulling out now for the best trip any PTA ever had," she said in conclusion.

Perfect attendance pins were presented to 15 members by Mrs. Cleve Butler. Mrs. Butler, project chairman, reported that $200 will be used to beautify the playground.

Mrs. Don Lovelady gave the council report, and year-end auditors appointed were Mrs. Lovelady, Mrs. Hudspeth, Mrs. Elvis McCrary, Mrs. Ditto, Mrs. Joe Newnham and Mrs. Harlan Hill.

Room count was won by Mrs. Stanley Adamson's third grade class.

Epsilon Sigma Alpha Plans District Meet

Plans for the Epsilon Sigma Alpha District 8 conference April 19 at the Elks Lodge were completed during the Thursday meeting of Alpha Chi Chapter in the home of Mrs. Rubin Reavis, 7711 Connally. Mrs. Jack Price presided.

Mrs. N. R. Holcombe, general chairman for the district event, appointed Mrs. Glyn Mitchell and Mrs. Frank Perry to serve at the registration table.

Altar Society To Install New Slate

New officers elected Tuesday by Immaculate Heart of Mary Altar Society were Mrs. A. N. Rutherford, president; Mrs. Fred Hyer, vice president; Mrs. C. C. Choate, treasurer; and Mrs. Earl Taylor, secretary. The installation will be May 5.

Mrs. Dan Maestas and Mrs. L. D. Jenkins led prayer, and Mrs. L. D. Gilbert, Mrs. James Capr and Mrs. Douglas Hattenbach were named to the altar committee for April. To serve refreshments at the V. E. Veterans Administration Hospital April 24 are Mrs. L. D. Simpson, Mrs. Jack Engel and Mrs. George Foster.

The agenda was announced for the Big Spring Deanery meeting in Snyder April 15 at St. Elizabeth Church. There will be a business session, workshop, luncheon and mass with Bishop Stephen A. Leven of San Angelo Diocese as main speaker.

Mrs. J. P. Carri was introduced as a new member, and a report was given on new carpet purchased for the sacristy.

HD Agent Is Speaker At Fairview

Guidelines for good picture grouping were given by Mrs. Delaine Crawford at the Tuesday meeting of Fairview Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Shirley Fryar was hostess.

Mrs. Crawford, county HD agent, said that in large groupings, one line of pictures should be on the horizontal as a guide to avoid a cluttered look. In large groupings, lighter colored pictures should be used to avoid a very heavy look. When arranging pictures, one should try to achieve a balance between the light and heavier-looking dark pictures.

"Picture arranging is truly a matter of your own tastes," Mrs. Crawford said. Members then practiced arrangements.

Plans were made for a garage sale by the club this weekend. The next meeting will be a covered dish luncheon at 11 a.m. April 21 in the home of Mrs. J. F. Skalicky, 1623 E. 17th.

Piano Teachers Hear Program

A program on keyboard percussion instruments was given by Mrs. Mary Grenier at the Piano Teachers Forum Monday in the home of Mrs. Fred Haller, 516 Edwards.

She gave the history of keyboard percussion instruments and played recordings of the clavichord and carillons. She showed slides of famous carillon towers in Belgium taken during her studies there. She also showed slides of the carillon she has played at Riverside Church in New York City.

Mrs. Donald Richardson presided, announcing the student recital will be April 26 at Howard County Junior College Auditorium.

A nominating committee was appointed, and the election will be May 4.

Boydston Names Fall PTA Officers

New officers were elected at the Boydston Parent-Teacher Association meeting Thursday in the school cafeteria. To be installed at 7:30 p.m., May 14, are Mrs. Ferrol Dodd, president; Mrs. Bernard McMahon, secretary; and Mrs. John Cline, treasurer.

Mrs. Bobby Davis presided at the meeting, and Mrs. Thel Watts led prayer. Mrs. Roy Watkin gave the council report with the announcement of the spring conference April 28 at Big Spring Country Club.

Mrs. T. E. Grissam's class won the room count and savings stamp prizes. An auditing committee was appointed. Members are Mrs. Woodrow Grant, Carl Morrow and John Cline.

Science Program Tested At Elementary Schools

By JEAN FANNIN

Today's students are not being encouraged to fly a kite during an electrical storm as did Benjamin Franklin, but they are being encouraged to learn for themselves why electricity works.

They're also learning how and why a plant grows, which bones go where in the human skeleton, and dozens of other scientific facts. But they're learning by experimenting and not by reading from a textbook.

Two projects now being used in a pilot program in Kentwood Elementary School are the Elementary Science Study and the American Association for the Advancement of Science program developed to promote elementary science programs.

The programs are too expensive to be used widely in the Big Spring Independent School District, according to Jim Holmes, Kentwood principal. Mrs. Sue Ashwood, an instructional consultant for the West Texas Education Center in Midland, said one set of materials could cost approximately $1,500.

The materials now in use at Kentwood were donated by the center for a test program to see which teachers prefer. Kentwood teachers are using both ESS and AAAS methods to teach science.

The AAAS program is set up in units and is a systematic, structured program. The program can be an entire course in itself and can be used for an entire year to go as deeply as desired into a subject area.

The ESS program is used as a supplement to regular science classes. Both programs use student involvement other than teacher demonstration.

"When setting up both these programs, it was decided that it just was not possible to include all the concepts of all the sciences, so the developers decided to take the basic processes of scientists: observation, inference and hypothesis. In studying plants, students study the seeds, then plant them and observe the growth of the plants, even to measuring growth and keeping records with which they will ultimately draw up graphs showing the growth rate. In studying electricity the students are given a battery, a light bulb and a length of wire and asked to make the light bulb work. "So many times we just teach facts," Holmes said, "and the children have no idea how those facts can be applied." This program was developed to help students learn how scientists think — both are more laboratory-oriented than previous science courses. "The program seems attractive to the students," Holmes said. "We give them a problem and some clues and then they get the chance to solve the problems."

SCIENTIFIC MEASURES — Jennifer Smith, 8, and Mike Evans, 8, record the growth of a plant as part of a special science program being piloted at Kentwood Elementary. They are students of Mrs. Ray Cantrell, third grade. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Smith, 2616 Ann, and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Evans, 2614 Larry.

Dr. Kim Is Appointed President Of McMurry

LUBBOCK — Dr. Thomas K. Kim, 41-year-old Texas Tech University economics professor and Methodist layman, Friday night was named eighth president of McMurry College in Abilene.

DR. THOMAS K. KIM

W. B. (Dub) Rushing, Lubbock, chairman of the board, announced Dr. Kim's selection at a called board meeting Friday. Dr. Gordon Bennett, president of McMurry since 1958, will retire June 1, and Dr. Kim will assume his duties in Abilene at that time.

The selection of the new president climaxed six months of study and deliberation by a special screening committee, appointed by Rushing at the October meeting of the board. Dr. Marvin Boyd, Lubbock, served as chairman of the committee. The committee was composed of both ministers and laymen from the Northwest Texas and New Mexico conferences of the United Methodist Church. McMurry is owned and operated by the two conferences.

"I consider it a high honor to be asked to serve as president of a distinguished college such as McMurry," said Dr. Kim. "I think at this juncture in its history that McMurry is right at the threshold of takeoff toward greatness, and I am looking forward with excitement toward taking part in this journey, moving into the seventies with all the opportunities that the days ahead offer us. My family and I are anticipating eagerly becoming part of the life of the college and its family and in the community of Abilene. It is with humility in our hearts, with a sense of inadequacy, and yet with the confidence that with God's help, with the support of the board of trustees, and with the cooperation and acceptance of the staff, faculty, and the students of McMurry that together we will be able to do the job at McMurry College."

Dr. Kim expressed his appreciation to Dr. Bennett for the contribution which he has made during his 22 years with the college, 12 as president.

For Dr. Kim, Friday night's announcement was another milestone in the career of the China-born scholar and educator. He was born in Shanghai of South Korean parents, and in Kentucky, 1957-58; youth secretary for the YMCA in Louisville, Ky., 1955-57; teacher of business subjects and English at Waddy High School in Kentucky, 1954-55; and executive assistant to the Director of the National Land Administration for the U.S. Military Government in Korea, 1946-48.

The new McMurry president received a bachelor of arts in Economics from Berea College in 1952; received the master of business administration degree from Indiana University in 1954; and received his Ph.D. in economics from Tulane University in 1961.

He has served as an advisor to the president of Tech, as chairman of the Student Appeals Board; as a member of the Research Committee in the College of Business Administration; and as chairman of the departmental curriculum committee in the Department of Economics, whose self study group he heads.

He is a member of Oakwood Methodist Church in Lubbock and served as chairman of its official board from 1968-69.

Dr. Kim and his wife, Martha, have two children, a son, Larry, 8, and a daughter, Catherine Ann, 6. Dr. Kim received his American citizenship in 1960.

Dear Abby

—ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Thank goodness somebody finally gave the American Indian a little attention. If only to credit him with the distinction of keeping his hair long after other men have lost theirs. (Seldom does one ever see a bald Indian.) Being a Cherokee, I can acquaint you with several other natural advantages we Indians have:

Our eyesight and hearing are superior to most white men's. And our sense of "smell" is extremely acute. (I can "smell" the presence of a poisonous snake at 40 paces.) I can also communicate with the jay bird, gray squirrel, and coyote in THEIR language — not mine.

The white man has never been able to build a dwelling that compares with the "air-conditioned" teepee built by the Indian. Also, Indians have been preserving food for centuries, far superior to the dried, canned and frozen concentrates of the whites.

Another startling fact is that the Navajos have had very few unwanted babies. For centuries, the "juice" extracted from a certain plant has been used successfully for birth control.

And lest anyone tell you that we were "savages," I point out that scalping was introduced to the Indian by the FRENCH who wanted to exterminate the English. The French offered a bounty to the Mohawks for every Englishman they killed. And the "proof" was a scalp. And no white WOMAN was ever scalped by an Indian! Happy hunting, Abby!

"CHEROKEE ERNIE"

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps the American Indians kept their hair because they knew how to take care of their bodies, and beautiful thick hair is healthy hair.

In this connection, American Indians have known for centuries that tobacco and alcohol were bad for their bodies, and self-respecting Indians smoked only two days a month under a full moon as a "religious rite," hence Indians did not poison themselves with tobacco. Also, Indians would never eat anything that was decayed, spoiled or rotten. This included "fermented" fruit, from which alcohol was made. Generations of shunning anything fermented made the Indian tolerance for "alcohol" very low. That is why Indian cannot tolerate alcohol, and respectable Indians will not touch it.

Also, before Columbus landed here, the Indians were already doing dental work, comparable to that performed by the finest dentists in "civilized Europe."

DEAR ABBY: Your search for bald Indians was highly entertaining and I congratulate you for having come up with some interesting facts about the American Indians. Here are a few more:

- The average weekly wages of the black man in Watts is $64. The red man earns $30.
 - Fifty per cent of all Indian children drop out of school before high school.
 - The infant death rate is 12 per cent higher among American Indians than the national average.
 - The Indian suicide percentage is the highest in the United States.
 - The average Indian is dead at age 43.
- Maybe that's why you rarely see any bald Indians. Very truly yours, VIRGINIA

Class Speaker

Mrs. Mary Newell, of the Big Spring Special Education School, will speak to the Howard County Junior College "Human Growth and Development" class Monday at 9 a.m. She will explain the operation of a school for the handicapped. John Bayne is the instructor for the psychology class.

Pre-School Association Sets Saturday Session

Problems of teaching pre-school children will be the focal point of the ninth annual workshop Saturday of the Permian Basin Pre-School Association.

The workshop will be held beginning at 8 a.m. in the First Baptist Church, 700 N. Lee, Odessa. Mrs. Delores Hull (phone 263-2091) is in charge of reservations for the Big Spring area. Reservations must be made by Thursday.

"Projecting Your Personality As A Teacher," by Mrs. Jeanette Watson, director, teacher of the Child Development Center, Austin, will be the first topic on the program, beginning at 9:15 a.m. Mrs. Watson is currently president of the Austin Association for the Education of Young Children. She has also been director of the Texas Council for Early Childhood Education since its inception in 1968.

Jim Crow, executive director of the Permian Basin Rehabilitation Center, will present "Emphasis on Learning Disabilities in the Pre-School Child," at 11 a.m. Crow is a former administrative assistant with the Childrens Haven Hospital, Dallas, and also was assistant director of the Easter Seal Society, Fort Worth Rehabilitation Center.

Assisting Crow will be Mrs. Stephanie Chambers, language therapist for the Permian Basin Rehabilitation Center. An afternoon discussion period beginning at 1 p.m. will focus on "How We Teach," and will be divided into four sub-topics: art, math, reading and music.

Mrs. Gerry King, Kindergarten teacher, Baptist Mission Day Care Center, will direct the portion on art; Mrs. Gary Darr, Kindergarten teacher, First Baptist Church, math; Mrs. Bill Anderson, Kindergarten teacher, First Baptist Church, reading; Mrs. Billy Bob Staggs, Kindergarten teacher, First Baptist Church; music. All four women are from Odessa.

"Coordination Exercises for the Pre-School Child" will be demonstrated, with audience participation, by Kenneth Brethouwer, physical education instructor, Hays Elementary, Odessa.

A noon luncheon will be served at the church, and displays from Sound Photo Equipment Company and Game-Time will be on exhibit.

A business meeting of the Permian Basin Pre-School Association will be held from 3:30 to 4 p.m., at which time the workshop will be dismissed.

Judicial Races

Under the Texas constitution, the state's highest court positions are filled through vote of the general public. It is unfortunate that in most years, other races capture the public's interest and the average voter receives comparatively little information on the offices or the candidates for the judiciary.

There are important contested races in the judiciary in the May 2 primary, and The Herald submits its comment and opinion on candidates involved.

Close to home, Judge Austin McCloud of Colorado City who currently is 32nd district judge (for Mitchell, Nolan, and Fisher counties), is seeking promotion to chief justice of the 11th Court of Civil Appeals which sits at Eastland, Howard County, of course, is in this district.

Judge McCloud is a young and vigorous man of the law who has an impeccable record as district judge. Other judges who have observed his work and attorneys familiar with his qualifications give him warm endorsement. He has a fine record not only as a judge but as an active participant in civic affairs. We feel that Judge McCloud will be an important addition to the Eastland Civil Appeals Court, and commend him to the voters.

In the one contested race for a place on the Supreme Court of Texas, there is another West Texan as a candidate, Judge James G. Denton of Amarillo. He currently is chief justice of the Seventh Court of Civil Appeals, is serving his 19th year on the bench.

Judge Denton began his law practice in Lubbock, and had served as judge of the county court and law and a district judge before going to the appellate bench.

He is another who commands respect, and rates high in experience and integrity. The Herald believes Judge Denton would be an outstanding jurist on the Supreme Court.

Another close-to-home West Texan is seeking a place on the Court of Criminal Appeals, Earl W. Smith of San Angelo. He is a man of the calibre and qualifications that Texas would want in this particular branch of the judiciary, in a day when "law and order" is a matter of concern to all. The Court of Criminal Appeals, of course, is the highest tribunal dealing with criminal cases.

Smith is a well-versed criminal lawyer, was on the panel selected by the State Bar of Texas to rewrite the state's code of criminal justice and the state penal code. He knows criminal law from both sides, since he has been district attorney as well as a practicing defense lawyer. He has been county attorney and city attorney, has the knowledge, the experience and the capability.

Texas is fortunate in having such top men as these seeking important places in the judicial system. It might be a point of pride that they are all West Texans, but the geography is not the important thing: They all are men of integrity, sound judicial temperament and high capability, proven through experience.

Deficit, Not Surplus, In Prospect

WASHINGTON — The "balanced budget" idea is in trouble. Despite every effort President Nixon has made to cut expenses, the outlook for a small surplus of 1.3 billion dollars in the fiscal year beginning July 1 is starting to grow dim.

YET IN DEALING with expected receipts of 202 billion dollars and outlays of nearly 201 billion, assumptions as to how much will be collected in revenues and what Congress will actually do about cutting expenses do not always turn out as predicted in January. Thus, it now appears that the interest on the national debt may run 300 million dollars or more above the estimate. Also, the President has lifted the freeze on federal aid to state and local construction projects, adding approximately 600 million in federal funds to the spending in the coming fiscal year.

But the most unexpected item has emerged in the postal pay increase. The 1970 budget assumed that Congress would pass a hike in postal rates to reduce postal deficits. But as it turns out, because of the strike, Mr. Nixon has been confronted with the necessity of presenting a federal pay raise not only for workers in the post office department but government-wide for federal employees. So the proposed six per cent pay raise will cost 2.5 billion dollars in fiscal year 1971 — or 1.3 billion more than the President had allowed for in his budget.

MR. NIXON hopes to raise 2.6 billion dollars through postal rate increases, of which 2.3 billion would come from moving up first-class mail from six to 10 cents. But this isn't considered likely to be passed by Congress, as both houses are reluctant to take such a step. In other words, the postal deficit will be much bigger than has been estimated heretofore.

Many of the President's reductions in expenditures will not be enacted. Congress, moreover, is very likely to propose additional Social Security benefits once more, and there is no allowance in the present budget for any such increase.

IF THE BUSINESS continues, this could bring a diminution in economic activity below the levels on which the budget has been predicated. This would mean less receipts in taxes. Mr. Nixon proposes that collections of estate and gift taxes be speeded up this year so as to increase budget receipts. If Congress approves, this could offset part of the loss in revenue.

There will, of course, be an increase in consumer spending because, with the pay raise and hikes in Social Security benefits, more money will be available to numerous citizens. This should have its effect in enlarging tax receipts.

WHEN THE WHOLE situation is surveyed, it is apparent that fiscal policy is undergoing a slow but inevitable change from restriction to a period of ease. Labor unions in the private sector, meanwhile, will be demanding more and more pay boosts without necessarily assuring a corresponding amount in added productivity. But there are many unions which will demand pay raises similar to those given to government workers.

The Federal Reserve Board, incidentally, will have a difficult choice to make. Much as some of the members would like to ease the monetary policy, a reduction of interest rates would be viewed as inflationary at a time when consumer spending will have been increased.

THE TENDENCY for Congress — especially in an election year — has been to maintain the flow of government funds to various projects throughout the country which have been depending upon large amounts of federal money.

Instead of talking about a "budget balance," it is probable that the administration will be in the position of arguing that a deficit of a billion or two in a budget of more than 200 billion dollars — and with a Gross National Product of more than 985 billion — is relatively small and will not prove damaging to the economic future of the country.

Signs Of Economic Slowdown Multiply

NEW YORK (AP) — Indications are accumulating and gaining strength that the economy is indeed slowing down after many months of resisting the administration's anti-inflation efforts.

Arguments over whether the cooling is within the aims of the administration or is assuming proportions of a recession are becoming more widespread and intense.

Fourteen of the nation's leading bankers, in responses to a poll this past week, expressed the opinion that 1970 would be the first of two or three years of substandard growth.

Six of the bankers said they expected a real growth rate in the economy of less than 3 per cent. Seven saw the possibility of a recession.

Economists of the Bank of America, the country's largest bank, in a separate appraisal, contended there was no reason to fear that the inflationary psychology of the past few years will be replaced by a recessionary psychology.

"By year-end," the bank said in a special report on the economy, "the problems of inflation and restricted credit availability will still be with us but in much reduced degree."

The bank predicted that food prices, which have risen sharply in recent months, would slow down dramatically in the next few months.

If this occurs, the bank said it would help slow the annual rate of consumer price growth to near 4 per cent by year-end, compared with 5.6 per cent during the fourth quarter of 1969.

On the other hand, the world's biggest rokerage firm, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, believes the country is on the threshold of a recession.

Its chief economist, A. Gary Shilling, said in an advisory to all of the firm's offices: "We continue to believe that a full-scale recession — of the 1954 or 1958 magnitude and lasting until late this year — is more likely and is more auspicious for business in the longer term than a mild business dip."

The Federal Reserve Board said this past week that the latest business statistics indicate a continued slowing of the economy.

The Federal Trade Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission reported that profits of manufacturing corporations in the 1969 fourth quarter fell about 6 per cent below the level of a year earlier. The profit drop came despite an 8 per cent increase in the dollar value of sales.

Apprehension about the corporate profit performance in the first quarter of this year has been tagged by Wall Street analysts as a major factor in holding the stock market down. First quarter earnings reports will begin flooding out of company offices in a week or so.

The Labor Department reported that the unemployment rate rose in March to 4.4 per cent of the civilian labor force, the highest level since August 1965.

There was considerable upward movement on the price front, mainly among metals and fabricated metals products, this past week.

ASSAILS FARM PLAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Farm Coalition has angrily assailed a compromise version of the administration's farm plan approved this week by a House subcommittee on livestock and grains.

The proposal, now before the full committee, was approved 9 to 8 Wednesday by the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex.

Coalition leaders charged the vote was a sellout of farmers who produce wheat and livestock feed grains.

The coalition, which includes 32 general farm organizations, commodity and cooperative groups, was particularly upset over a proposal eliminating the traditional "parity" concept which links program payments to a formula involving farm expenses.

Under the plan, the Agriculture Department would set price support loans for wheat and feed grains at between 80 and 100 per cent of the estimated average world price "after considering export opportunities and potential domestic surpluses," the subcommittee said in a statement.

Wheat growers would get $2.77 a bushel for the part of their crop used domestically, but the remainder of their output-for-export would ride up and down with world market prices.

At 90 He Wants To Hold Weight

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 90 years old and have been losing weight lately. I eat good meals and take vitamins regularly and gym exercises, but I tire easily.

What causes me to lose weight? I have no illness. Don't tell me I should have been dead long ago as some jackass doctors are prone to do. Tell me how to gain weight.—W.E.D.

I have no intention of telling you that you should have died long ago, because we are seeing more and more people in their 80s and 90s. Anyone who does gym exercises at 90 is very much alive.

However I may be just another jackass doctor when it comes to telling you how to gain weight.

Some loss of weight is natural — apparently nature's way of taking some of the strain off our bones and the rest of our organs as we get older. (You're old enough to remember pictures of John D. Rockefeller when he was your age. He lived to 98.)

Other than that, weight loss can be a puzzling symptom, and if you are losing faster than is reasonable, I'd suggest a thorough physical examination, including X rays of chest and digestive tract. Some ailment which you yourself can't detect might be sapping some of your energy and nutrition. So have your doctor take a good look.

Other than that, it may be just a matter of your eating less, and burning up more energy in exercise or other activity than you think. Oldsters have a tendency to eat less without realizing it. Taste buds are fewer; dentures may be bothersome.

Get that physical — and assuming that you have no detectable ailment, you'll just have to increase your caloric intake: cream instead of milk, more butter or margarine, richer desserts, maybe an extra snack of something morning, afternoon, and maybe near bedtime.

Note that I haven't suggested less exercise. Get as much as is enjoyable, and stop when you feel like stopping. A reasonable amount of exercise, within whatever your natural limits are, keeps you alert and peppy up your appetite a bit.

Write again in a another few years and let me know how you're doing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Some small lice-like creatures have invaded everything — mattresses, davenport, even my upholstery. I've tried everything to get rid of them. Someone said to fumigate the room. Please tell me what to do.—M.M.

Around The Rim

Now Let's Get Some Sleep

There's a lot being written and talked these days about the problem of sleep, or lack of it.

Nobody knows much about sleep, except that some is required, but again, nobody knows exactly how much. It appears some individuals do quite well on perhaps four hours of slumber, while others take nine and ten hours or more.

THE RESEARCHERS apparently are at work on this mystery of sleep, but they haven't yet come up with a solution for insomniacs, of whom there are said to be about 11 million in this country.

Yours truly suffers from other miseries, but insomnia isn't one of them. However, plenty of people do have this trouble, and it must be a grievous one. There are those who just simply can't unwind until after midnight, but still must get up with the dawn; there are others who plop off to sleep, but awaken around 2 a.m. and turn and toss until daylight. What to do?

SCIENCE CAN'T really help if you're too wound up or just not tired enough, so the matter of over-coming insomnia, for now, is a do-it-yourself project.

There have come some suggestions — in fact, a six-point program — which researchers say will help you fall right into the arms of Morpheus and stay there for your allotted time. All you have to do is follow the prescription:

- (1). FORGET ABOUT how hard it is to get to sleep. Worrying just drives sleep away.
- (2). Put your problems to bed before you. Don't use midnight to solve mid-day worries. It's already too late for action today, and it's not time yet for action tomorrow.

(3). Think dark. Eliminate all unnecessary light from your bedroom; you can even use black walls and line your draperies with blackout fabric. The most desperate insomniacs wear black masks.

(4). KEEP IT QUIET. Move your bedroom as far from street noises as you can. Use heavy, sound-absorbing fabrics. Back your draperies with insulated linings. Stop a disturbing snorer with a permanent prop-up on a slanted wedge pillow (this helps?).

(5). Cater to your whims and idiosyncrasies. It has been said that Charles Dickens could sleep only when facing north, so always carried a compass; it also is said that Winston Churchill moved his beds around until he got the direction he wanted. If you're happy facing the door, face that way; if silk sheets are your style, get silk sheets.

(6). RELAX. If you don't sleep one night, don't worry. Instead of getting in an uproar, arise, read a few hours and unwind; you'll make up the sleep tomorrow night, or some time.

In other words do everything you can to control the irritants — then forget it. Once you learn to stop worrying and relax, sleep will come naturally.

Now that's what the suggestions are. As one who wouldn't be disturbed if a Molotov cocktail were thrown into the bedroom, I cannot vouch for the efficacy of the suggestions. But it must be a rule, "everybody goes to sleep — some time." —BOB WHIPKEY

Israel's Bold Experiment

JERUSALEM — With the intensity, the drive, the passion of a people who have suffered so much through the centuries the Jews of Israel are working to weld together a nation that will last into the dateless future. To even the most casual visitor the fierce impact of this drive is like a blow between the eyes.

WHILE SURVIVAL comes first after three wars — 1948, '56, '67 — it's far more than survival. The goals for decades ahead are as soberly and carefully drawn as though the current conflict, the war of attrition pursued by Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser, were an irritant no more important than a brief spell of bad weather.

The arithmetic of the world's Jewry, the ingathering of the Diaspora, is the base of the long-term goal. The specialist in this is Shimon Peres, one of the ablest men in the Israeli Government, now is Minister of Absorption.

IN PERES' arithmetic there are roughly 14 million Jews in the world today. Israel has gathered in 2½ million of this total. With a scattering in many countries, the balance is divided between the United States and the Soviet Union — about 6½ million in the former, 3½ million in the latter.

The bold planning of the Minister of Absorption envisages a population for Israel of 10 million.

But how can this be in a country so small? Peres replied that the old Israel, prior to the territories taken from Egypt, Syria and Jordan in the six-day war of 1967, was about three-fourths the size of Belgium. Belgium today supports a population of nearly 10 million.

THE ANSWER for Israel is high technology and industry based on that technology. "We will not make shirts," Peres says of the ever-increasing competition in textiles. "We will make airplanes and electronics products that will compete successfully in the markets of the world."

Israel today is producing a comparatively small transport plane adapted to the needs of developing countries and other more-advanced aircraft are in various stages of production.

In 1970 the goal is to absorb 60,000 immigrants. They will come from everywhere, including North America, South America and Australia. The cost to the Israel Government is $34,000 a family for transportation and housing — the total bill for settlement. Add to this another $10,000 of capital investment to provide a job for the immigrant.

THE OVER-ALL expenditure Peres puts at $600 million, which will not, however, fall in a single calendar year. Most of that must come from outside Israel.

Is the expectation that eventually most of America's 6½ million Jews will emigrate to Israel? Peres is reserved on that point.

The Soviet Union is refusing to let Jews emigrate to Israel and this has stirred a hostility almost as deep as that engendered by the Russian weapons put into Egyptian hands.

What if by some miracle Soviet policy should suddenly change and a million and a half Jews be permitted to depart for Israel? "We could absorb them," Peres says.

A record was set in 1949-50 when 250,000 Jews settled in the new nation that had just won its independence after the war of 1948. Another 150,000 followed in the next year and half. The population tripled in 20 years. (Copyright, 1970, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Hints For Deducting The Wife

WASHINGTON — One of the paradoxes of the American tax system is that it's easier for a man to deduct a strange lady from a business trip than it is to deduct his own wife. The IRS authorities will believe that a strange lady could easily be of value to a businessman in the capacity of a secretary or what have you, but they're very skeptical that a wife could serve any useful function.

Not long ago, the Research Institute of America put out a helpful guide for husbands wanting to deduct their wives from business trips they took together.

Here are some of the suggestions made. The examples are mine.

1—DURING A trip, keep a record of all the services your wife performed that could be described as necessary rather than merely helpful. One test: If your wife stayed home, would you have needed to bring someone else along?

Example: Mrs. Plumbell's justification: "My husband, George Plumbell, would never have made it without bringing me along. If I hadn't been in the room to receive the long distance call from California, I wouldn't have been able to get George off the golf course, and he might have lost the Worthington Crushed Papaya account. George's friends and associates told me many times during the convention that if I hadn't come along he would have certainly brought somebody else with him."

2—IF POSSIBLE, show what business resulted from your wife having accompanied you, for "nothing succeeds like success."

Example: "If it hadn't been for my wife, Myra, I would never have been able to unload those faulty musel valves on the Bureau of Off Limits Drilling. The purchasing agent was so busy pinching my wife under the table that he signed the order without reading the specifications. Myra was black and blue for a week."

3—KEEP ANY letters from customers received before or after a business trip showing that your wife's presence was desired or appreciated.

Example: "Dear Archie: It was great seeing Priscilla at the knife sharpener's convention last week. She was really a sight for sore eyes and when she danced on the table, topless, at 3 o'clock in the morning, she made the convention. All the wives are still talking about it."

"Here is your share of the damage. We prorated it between Priscilla, Marge Bernheim and Hilda Marton who seemed to have the best time of all the women. I hope you'll bring Priscilla next year. People are already inquiring if she'll be there."

4—PHOTOGRAPHS of your wife with customers or other business associates (and of course their wives) may be helpful, as well as shots of her at their factories or other places of business.

Example: "Dear Sir: Enclosed please find a selection of photos taken at our medical convention which I am enclosing with my tax return. The lady dealing the cards at our cabana in Nassau is my wife. The other three gin players are Mrs. Selma Rosenkranz, wife of the vice president of the Do or Die Surgical Supply Co., Mrs. Frederick Piltidon, whose husband is president of the First National Blood Bank of Terre Haute, and Mrs. Jennifer Cook, wife of the executive director of Medicare Transplant Mutual Fund."

HCJC 'Moog II' Plays Music Of Future

By PHIL STEPHENS
Students stepped from the placid campus of HCJC into the vibrant world of tomorrow, Friday, at a special assembly sponsored by the music department. Dr. Merle Ellis of NTSU performed and demonstrated the Moog II, a 'child' of the famous Moog Synthesizer created by Dr. Moog of Columbia U. and made famous by the popular record of "Switched on Bach."
Dr. Ellis explained that in teaching how to use the 'Moog,' emphasis was placed on using it as an instrument that produces sounds not achieved on conventional musical instruments. "Rather than copy other instruments, the philosophy taught at NTSU emphasizes the original, more unconventional sounds," commented Dr. Ellis.
The variability of the 'Moog' was amply demonstrated by Dr. Ellis in his program. The instrument's program goes beyond the range of human perception. For example, Dr. Ellis explained that a six and one-half minute computer-composed piece of music could be played in the time interval of a snap of the fingers.
Because of the limited time, Dr. Ellis could not bring the second half of his program, but included a tiny portion of it at the end, when he encouraged audience participation. The only flaw of the program was that there was not another hour for it to continue.
"HCJC Presents" will give a peek at the upcoming pageant, Wednesday, when the girls entered in the contest will appear on the show and several will present their talent.
The Miss HCJC Pageant will open the 1970 version in the college auditorium, Saturday, at 7:30 p.m. Seventeen girls will vie for the title, won last year by Pat Pierce. Talent, swimsuit and campus fashions are categories that the girls compete in.

BORDEN COUNTY Borden Girls Win Honors At District Competition

BORDEN COUNTY (SC) — Several 4-H girls traveled to Lubbock for the District Food Show, Saturday, April 4. Bobbie Briggs placed first in the junior milk group, Janice Davis placed second in the junior meat group, JoAnn Martin placed second in the junior bread group. In the senior group, Diane McHenry placed second in the meat group and Julio Benavidez placed third in the bread group. The contest was held in the downstairs ballroom of the Student Union on the Texas Tech campus.
The Borden County High School girls won their first track meet at Eldorado, Saturday, April 4, with 104 points and three trophies. They won the 440 yard relay, 880 yard relay and Cheron Billeck, high point girl with 38 points won first in the broad jump and triple jump, which entitled her to an individual trophy. The girls traveled to Jayton Saturday.
On March 27, the Borden High School and elementary grades had an assembly. Attila Galamb and his father presented a musical program with a serious message. Attila Galamb can play 15 different instruments and sing.
National "FHA Week" began at Borden April 5, and the Future Homemakers participated with enthusiasm. This is a very special year for FHA, 25 years of "Sterling Opportunity," and every girl participated in some way.

GOLIAD Students Told About Dangers Of Smoking

By JILL RHYMES
Friday, Miss Cheryl Erwin from the cancer and heart disease division of the Texas State Department of Health, spoke to the students on "The Dangers of Smoking." Miss Erwin, using the mannequin, Dirty Sam, demonstrated the effects of smoking on the lungs.
Friday, Mr. Paul Siebenman from the Texas Alcohol and Narcotics Board will appear on an assembly program for Goliad students.

April 12-19 is National Library Week. More than one hundred discarded books, hard cover and paperback will be sold for 10 cents and 25 cents. Over 50 discarded magazines will be sold for 15 cents each. These will include copies of "Newsweek" and "Sports Illustrated."
Approximately 160 choir contestants from Goliad attended a contest in Midland Saturday. The three choirs making the trip were the Seventh Grade Select Choir, the Eighth Grade Girls Choir, and the Advanced Choir.
The National Junior Honor Society at Goliad is preparing for the induction of new members. Members must have an over-all grade average of 90, with no grade below 85.

SANDS One-Act Play Picked For District Play Competition

By SHARA DEE HAMBRICK
The one-act play, "The Devil and Daniel Webster," was presented in competition at Gail on Tuesday night, April 7, and was one of the two plays chosen to represent our zone in district competition. The other play that was chosen was entitled "Childhood" and was put on by Gail. There were five plays that were entered. Larry Don Shaw, who played the part of Daniel Webster, and Paul Hopper, who played the part of the Devil, were selected to the All-Star Cast. The judge for the contest was Mr. Rex P. Kyker from Abilene Christian College.
After the presentation of the awards, Mr. Kyker gave a critique on each play. The district competition was held at Brownfield on Friday, April 10. There were to be four plays given at that time and the winner will go to the regional contest.

FLOWER GROVE Students Place In Odessa Fair

By JACKIE CAVE
Jay Mullins won the first Army award for engineering in the junior high physics held in the Odessa Regional Science Fair. Deana Holcomb won second place in junior high botany and Charlie Hightower won the third Army award for veterinarian medicine.
This past week, students took their six weeks tests. Report cards were handed out. Making the "A" honor roll was freshman John Furr. Making the "B" honor roll were seniors Bonnie Hill, Beth Holcomb, and Virginia Pribyla; juniors Danny Howard and Rita Sue Pribyla; sophomores, Nancy Seely, and Judy Simmons; freshman, David Pribyla, Cathy Dennis, Jan Simmons, Cindy Hill, and Robert Hildreth.
The FHA went to Lamesa to present their skit for Lamesa's FHA.
TB tests were taken Tuesday. The results of the tests were given Thursday.
Bingo, which was scheduled for March 20, was re-scheduled for April 10, due to the bad weather we had. The proceeds will be used for the Junior-Senior Banquet.

COAHOMA Probationary For Honor Society Selected April 8

By JAN STOUT
An assembly was held Wednesday morning in the high school auditorium to announce the new probationary for the National Honor Society. GARDEN CITY Garden City FHA Chapter Plans National FHA Week

By BEVERLY HARTLEY
This last week was National FHA week. Each day was planned for the FHA girls. Monday the Future Homemakers of America Club presented a film for the entire student body. The film consisted of a speech expertly presented by Marilyn Van Debar. Tuesday all of the FHA girls dressed in their club colors, red and white. Wednesday the officers drew teachers names in order to treat them, sometime during the day. Thursday, the members drew names of other members in order to treat each other with gum or candy. Friday, the last day of FHA week, the FHA girls treated the student body with cookies and punch.
Mr. Evans drove a bus Thursday to Big Spring to take his health classes to visit the State Hospital.
The senior class meeting consisted of talking about the baccalaureate service to be given at the St. Lawrence church, May 3 at 8 in the morning. The seniors changed the barbecue date to May 9. It will be at the St. Lawrence hall.
The track boys traveled to Robert Lee on April 10 for a district track meet. The track girls went to an unexpected track meet Saturday at Jayton. The track girls will go to their first district track meet on the 14th at Colorado City. Their regional track meet will be on May 27 at Robert Lee.
The sophomore class had a car wash and bake sale Saturday to help toward their senior trip.
The seniors are to receive invitations next Wednesday. The benefit dance for Clay Kingston and Kenneth Chandler was given Thursday night. The money made at the door and from the two concession stands went to these two boys.
The 7th and 8th grade science classes are planning a field trip to visit a tomato farm south of Big Spring, ac-

Kookie Blonde Shows Off Oscar-Winning Talents

GOLDIE HAWN with Walter Matthau

Goldie Hawn, who achieved national fame as the kookie blonde on television's "Laugh-In," makes her motion picture debut as a kookie blonde — naturally! — with Walter Matthau and Ingrid Bergman in "Cactus Flower," opening Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

up with a "wife"—the starched, no-nonsense office nurse played by Miss Bergman. Goldie is a native of Washington, D.C., where she began taking dancing lessons, ballet and tap, at the age of three. At 11, she added modern jazz dancing to her repertoire.

After the Fair, Goldie joined a stock company touring with "Kiss Me Kate," and "Guys and Dolls." After that came an offer to travel to Puerto Rico for another six months' dancing in a revue's chorus. She took it.

ME, NATALIE ... Patty Duke and friend

"Cactus Flower" co-stars Jack Weston, Rick Lenz, Vito Scotti and Irene Hervey.

Talent Plentiful In 'Me, Natalie'

The cast and crew of "Me, Natalie" are perhaps the most honored and talented group ever to pool their talents in the making of a motion picture. The film starts tonight at the Jet.

Doris Day and Rock Hudson. Added to this impressive list of award winners are two names whose contributions to the music industry have made them leaders in the field. Rod McKuen, who wrote the lyrics for and who sings the lilting "We," in addition to the haunting title tune for "Me, Natalie," is one of the country's hottest song writers and poets.

Henry Mancini, who wrote the music for "Me, Natalie," is one of the most honored composers of our time. His "Moon River" from "Breakfast at Tiffany's" won an Oscar for best song.

Rarely have so many acclaimed individuals combined their talents for one movie. Martin Balsam, who plays Patty's understanding uncle in the film, has an Oscar all his own, having achieved his honor for the film version of "A Thousand Clowns." Balsam also holds Broadway's most coveted award, the Tony, as Best Dramatic Actor for the hit play "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running."

THE ARTS: Tech Students To Sing Here

TWO MEMBERS OF the Tuesday were very familiar with the Big Spring High School stage.

IN TEXAS TECH CHOIR ... Danny Johnson, Beth Hayworth

Danny Johnson and Beth Hayworth, now music majors at Tech, are both graduates of BSHS and were members of the cappella choir when they were in school here.

Danny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson, 604 E. 23rd, and Beth's parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Hayworth, 1700 Donley.

THE METROPOLITAN Opera will return to Dallas May 14-16, for four performances at the Music Hall.

Of the operas to be presented, Mozart's "Die Zauberflöte" and Bellini's "Norma" have never been performed in Dallas before. The popular "Tosca" of Puccini and the perennial twin bill of Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" fill out the repertoire.

Topping the casts will be such international operatic luminaries as Joan Sutherland, Gabriella Tucci, Lucine Amara, Marilyn Horne, Richard Tucker, Sandor Konya, James McCracken, George Shirley, Renato Cioni, Cornell MacNeil, Theodor Uppmann, Mario Sereni, Frank Guarrera, John Macurdy, and Fernando Corena, with important Dallas debuts to be made by Fiorenza Cossotto, Pilar Lorengar, and Edda Moser.

Ticket prices are as follows: Boxes, $25; Lower Floor Center Sections, Rows A-Q, $22.90; Rows R-DD, $15; all other Lower Floor locations, $8; First Balcony, $10.80; Second Balcony, $8.90; Third Balcony, $3.

Tickets may be ordered by mail at the State Fair Box Office at Titcher's, P.O. Box 895, Dallas, Texas 75221.

COMPOSER ERNEST BLOCH's only opera, "Macbeth," retains all of the grimness of the Shakespearean tragedy that embodies unrelieved horror, macabre madness and the anguish of remorse.

The opera, which is closely related to the text of the play, will be performed by the Baylor University Opera Workshop and Baylor Symphony Orchestra for the first time in the Eastern United States. The premiere performance will be April 23 in Waco Hall on the Baylor campus, with repeat performances on April 25, 28, 30 and May 2.

Daniel Sternberg, dean of the Baylor School of Music, is the musical director of the opera. His wife, Felicitas Gobeau Sternberg, is the artistic designer and director of the Baylor production.

The work was created during the first decade of this century and first produced in Paris in 1910. Later performances were in Naples, Rome, Brussels and Milan, but it was only in 1960 that the first American performance took place at the University of California at Berkeley.

"THE SOUND OF Music," one of the longest running musicals on Broadway and the most popular motion picture ever filmed, will be the 1970 homecoming musical at Abilene Christian College, according to Lewis Fulks.

Fulks, ACC associate professor of communication and drama director, said the musical will be staged Nov. 5-7 in Abilene's new downtown civic center, currently under construction and scheduled to be completed this fall.

Auditions for "The Sound of Music" are scheduled April 15-17, 3-5 p.m., in ACC's Sewell Auditorium, where previous musicals have been staged. Casting and set design and construction will be completed by September for rehearsals.

Alcohol Education Seminar Slated At HCJC Friday

A seminar on Alcohol Education will be conducted by S. E. Stout, field representative of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism, Friday, from 1-4 p.m. in the Howard County Junior College Auditorium.

Assisting Stout on the panel will be Rex Brock, alcoholism counselor of the Texas Rehabilitation Commission, Odessa; Larry Cheatham, supervisor, Texas Rehabilitation Commission, Big Spring State Hospital; and Cris Brooks, alcoholism counselor, Big Spring State Hospital.

"These men have vast experience in conducting seminars of this type and will have pertinent and current information on the problem," said Miss Anna Smith, Dean of Women at HCJC, who arranged the seminar.

Miss Smith invited all interested individuals, groups, or organizations to attend.

Aggies Plan Muster Day

Former students of Texas A&M will be joining Aggies all over the world on April 21 for the traditional "Aggie Muster," ceremonies to honor the memory of those who have passed on.

The local affair, for all A&M men and their wives, will be held at the Cosden Country Club with a dinner program at 7:30 p.m. Ed Edwards is Muster chairman and Jack Cook is program chairman.

The program also marks the installation of new officers of the Big Spring A&M Club, and the new president, Roy Hughes, will preside. Hughes is succeeding Jim Bill Little. Other officers are Don Reynolds, vice president, and Sidney Clark, secretary and treasurer.

The first Aggie Muster was held in 1903, and since that date, on San Jacinto Day, A&M men gather wherever they may be. Aggies have mustered aboard ship, in foxholes on the battle field, in the Swiss Alps, in airplanes and even on Corregidor, shortly before the Japanese captured the island in World War II. More than 500 Musters will be held around the world this year, including several in Vietnam.

The ceremony is the same in every location. Aggies pay their respect to those who are absent, and when the names of the honored dead are called from the Muster rolls, a friend of the deceased answers "here."

Vietnam Veteran Joins Army Speakers' Bureau

A recently returned U.S. Army combat veteran of Vietnam will be the guest speaker April 20 for the Evening Lions Club at its 6:30 p.m. meeting.

Capt. James C. Pitts, one of 30 Americans participating in the Army Speakers Program, is now assigned to the U.S. Army Air Defense Center and Fort Bliss in El Paso.

He volunteered and was selected by the Army, after serving a tour of duty in Vietnam, to tell the public at the local level about the U.S. Army's activities in Vietnam, the achievements and experiences of the individual soldier.

Capt. Pitts attended the University of Texas at Austin and El Paso, and as a graduate of the Reserve Officers Training Corps at these schools, he was commissioned in September, 1967.

He trained at Fort Knox, Ky., and served as headquarters commandant at Fort Irwin, Calif., for 10 months before volunteering for Vietnam. He completed a two-week jungle operations training course in the Panama Canal Zone before going to Vietnam.

His decorations include two Bronze Stars for meritorious service in combat operations against a hostile force and two Army Commendation Medals.

Capt. Pitts was born in Hope, Ark., July 31, 1944. His parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles F. Pitts, now live in Houston. He is married to the former Carol Ann Carrington, Austin, and they have a son, Kenneth, 1.

Capt. Pitts is available on request to civic, educational, professional, fraternal and religious groups without cost in New Mexico and West Texas.
