WOMAN, THREE MEN ARRESTED IN SAN ANTONIO

Officers Seize Heroin Valued At $25 Million

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Undercover agents said today they had seized nearly 100 pounds of heroin worth an estimated $25 million on the underworld retail market. A woman and three men were arrested. Federal and city officers made the seizure at two hotels late Thursday night. One of the men cut his throat with a knife when apprehended but was not seriously wounded, officers said. He and the woman are from Mexico City. U.S. Atty. Segal Wheatley said 92 pounds of heroin was seized after federal agents purchased an undisclosed amount of the narcotic. He set the value at $25 million when diluted and sold to addicts. Although he declined to say how much heroin the agents bought, Wheatley said "My belief is that this is probably the largest buy of heroin by undercover agents in history — anywhere." The largest known cache of heroin found was 209 pounds, but it apparently was not discovered as the result of a purchase. This cache, valued at $100 million at the time, was found in a home freezer at Columbus, Ga., Dec. 18, 1965. A Ft. Benning warrant officer was accused of shipping it from France. Another 200 pounds was found in an abandoned car on the New York docks in the late 1960s. Charged with conspiracy and with selling imported heroin were Yolanda Schmidt Yanez, 32, and her companion, Manuel Dominguez Suarez, 49, both of Mexico City; nightclub owner Alfredo Montemayor, 33, and Salvador Mazatini, 36, both of San Antonio. Suarez, who cut his throat, was hospitalized under guard. Police Inspector Jack Hutton said the heroin was found in suitcases at rooms in the two hotels. He said it was "by far the largest seizure ever made in the Southwest." Hutton also estimated its value when sold to addicts at up to $25 million. "As pure as it is, it's easily worth that or more," he said. Officers said the arrests followed an investigation of several months. Thirty or more officers may have been involved in the case, investigators said. Bonds of $500,000 each were set for the Schmidt woman and Suarez, who appeared at his arraignment in a hospital gown and a bandage around his neck. Montemayor and Mazatini also were charged with a separate sale of 2.2 pounds of heroin on April 15 and their bonds were set at $750,000 each. Details of the sale were not disclosed.

A hearing for all four was set for 10 a.m., May 14. All except the hospitalized Suarez were remanded to jail in lieu of bond. The arrests were made at the two hotels and at a local tavern, officers said. Wheatley said there have probably been larger seizures at various ports of entry but that he felt reasonably sure this was the "largest undercover purchase of heroin ever." He declined to say how much money was involved in the purchase. Police said the heroin may have been en route to northern and eastern points. "It was not going to stay here," said Lt. Charles Doerr, head of the local police narcotics bureau. Less than three weeks ago, the Bexar County Grand Jury issued a report calling San Antonio the state's No. 1 metropolitan area for obtaining narcotics illegally. Dangerous drugs are being used by junior and senior high school pupils as well as local college students, the report said.

U.S. WATCHING Soviet Naval Ships Enter Caribbean

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — The U.S. Navy announced today that three Soviet naval ships have entered the Caribbean Sea and are under surveillance by U.S. planes.

A statement from the 10th Naval District in San Juan said two submarines and a submarine tender entered the Mona Passage off western Puerto Rico at about 2 a.m. today.

It said three other Soviet ships were about 250 miles behind the first three. This second group, the statement said, consisted of a Kresta class guided missile cruiser, a Kanin class guided missile destroyer, and an oiler.

The Navy said the two submarines in the first group were conventionally powered vessels.

The Navy statement said: "The intentions of the group are unknown."

Okay $48,800 For Work-Study

Approval of $48,800 for the college work-study program administered through Howard County Junior College was announced today by Rep. Omar Burleson.

The congressman said that this particular allocation will cover the period from July through December and will provide for 153 students. Some residual funds in this category will enable the college to aid up to about 200 students, Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, announced. These funds are in addition to youth opportunity grants approved about 10 days ago and some funds for student loans.

Peace Corps 'Liberation'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six fourth-floor offices in the headquarters of the Peace Corps were taken over by former volunteers today in a demonstration against U.S. policy in Southeast Asia.

The demonstrators, approximately 25 in number, hung a National Liberation Front flag out the window of one of the offices, but Peace Corps officials persuaded them to remove it. The National Liberation Front is the political arm of the Viet Cong.

The flag was replaced by a red banner proclaiming "Liberation, Not Pacification." A spokesman for the Peace Corps said the demonstrators inside the building spoke briefly with Peace Corps Director Joseph H. Blatchford. The spokesman said he was not present at the time.

Otherwise, he said, "except for shouting epithets at us, they've been very nice." The agency, acting under orders from the administration, apparently has decided to co-exist peacefully with its former volunteers.

Second Bomb Threat

FORTH WORTH (AP) — For the second time this week the federal building at Fort Worth is being evacuated because of a bomb threat.

FAIR, WARMER

Fair, warm and windy this afternoon. Fair and a little colder tonight and Saturday. High today 90, low tonight 55, high Saturday 85. Soil temperature at 4-inch depth: High 75, low 50.

CHARGED IN 'HORSE' SEIZURE — Yolanda Schmidt Yanez, 32, shown with federal officer above left, and M. Dominguez Suarez, 49, above right, lieutenant-colonel with the Mexican Federal Police, were arrested and charged with concealing and attempting to sell $25 million worth of heroin. Both are from Mexico City. Two San Antonians were also arrested and charged in the big heroin seizure.

Campuses Seething, 227 Schools Close

Some 227 colleges and universities were closed today in the widening protest against the war in Indochina and the fatal shooting of four students at Kent State University. Strikes and demonstrations curtailed classes at hundreds of schools.

In Washington, the vanguard of thousands of students expected to participate in an antiwar rally Saturday began arriving from throughout the country.

At Columbus, Ohio, the State-house and Statehouse Annex were ordered closed at noon today in anticipation of a march to the building by students claiming to represent 19 Ohio colleges.

Most of the campuses remained peaceful but violence flared overnight at several schools.

DAMAGES At the University of Minnesota today, the garage doors at the Air Force ROTC building were set afire, causing about $300 damage. The interior of the metal-sheathed structure had only minor damage.

At the Marquette University campus, Milwaukee, two fire bombs early today caused an estimated $7,000 damage to the administration building, while another fire bomb at the school of speech building resulted in $1,200 damage.

At the State University College at New Paltz, N.Y., fire damaged a two-story building Thursday night, and what was described as an ammonia bomb was hurled into a section of the student-held administration building.

Near the University of Washington campus, Seattle, early today bands of young persons hurled rocks at police, set up street barricades and ignited garbage dumped into the streets.

WIELDING CLUBS Seattle police said they received reports that groups of vigilantes, wielding clubs and using a chemical spray, roamed the campus while police and antiwar demonstrators clashed on its fringes.

In Athens, Ga., two University of Georgia students filed suit in Clarke County Superior Court asking that the university be reopened. The suit contended that the school closing is unconstitutional because it deprives them of equal protection under the law.

Nixon Hopes To Ease Increasing Tensions

WASHINGTON (AP) — With thousands of antiwar protesters heading for a hurriedly called demonstration in the nation's capital, President Nixon has moved to ease the crisis mounting over the use of American troops in Cambodia.

The President scheduled a news conference tonight at 9 p.m. (Big Spring time) — his first nationally televised session with newsmen since Jan. 30 — on the eve of a demonstration here expected to draw tens of thousands of protesters.

Even as the President prepared for the news conference at his Maryland mountain retreat Thursday night and today, demonstrators were evident in Washington — on Capitol Hill, near the White House and on college campuses.

Nixon is expected to take a conciliatory approach to the demonstrators, mostly young people, following the stance he adopted Thursday when he told several college and university presidents the administration would soften its hostile tone toward the dissenters.

Calls went out for the Saturday protest after Nixon announced a week ago that a joint U.S.-South Vietnamese attack had been mounted into Cambodia.

Spurred by the deaths Monday of four students when Ohio National Guardsmen opened fire on demonstrators at Kent State University, protests have swept many college campuses, often resulting in violence and student strikes.

Leaders of the Saturday demonstration have talked in terms of up to 35,000 persons for a protest in Lafayette Square just across the street from the White House, although officials say the dissenters will not be allowed that close. It was not known whether the President will be in Washington during the demonstration.

Other reports estimate the crowd at close to 100,000 persons, posing a problem for both government officials and protest leaders planning steps for controlling the demonstration.

The rally leaders held crash training programs for marshals to keep the demonstration within its stated nonviolent goal, while the 2,000-man District of Columbia National Guard was being prepared along with Washington police.

There were indications U.S. officials were leaning toward relying on local authority and the National Guard available in the Washington area without drawing paratroopers and Marines from other bases.

Officials said whatever military force is gathered probably will be kept as much out of sight as possible unless troubles develop requiring its use.

Texas Students Marching, Smith Will Use Force

By The Associated Press

Thousands of University of Texas students took to the streets Friday in a downtown Austin march to protest the Cambodian invasion and the Kent State College deaths.

The marchers, starting off two by two on the sidewalk and observing traffic signals, left the campus at 10:45 a.m. on the 38-block route.

But as the march began, U.S. Dist. Judge Jack Roberts issued an order allowing the students to march in the street—the Austin City Council had denied the students a parade permit which was the reason they began the march on the sidewalks.

'PULL BACK'

"Don't let anyone provoke us into doing anything we would not normally do," advised Jim Arnold, student body vice president-elect.

Arnold advised marchers to "pull back" from any disturbance that might arise, not to display the Viet Cong flag or fly the U.S. flag upside down and "if you got any grass (marijuana) get rid of it because they're waiting for you."

Hundreds of parade marshals, including the number of faculty members and teaching assistants in coats and ties accompanied the march along with about 40 hurriedly-trained first aid workers.

Shortly before the march began, Gov. Preston Smith said in the heavily-guarded Capitol that he would use "whatever force is necessary" to quell any violence resulting from student protests.

Shortly after the marshals met, there was a mass briefing for about 150 local police and a like number of state police, including some Texas Rangers.

PLAN TO CIRCLE The parade route called for the marchers to miss the Capitol grounds by two blocks to the west, en route to the downtown section. The plans were for the marchers to circle and return to the university by a route within one block of the Capitol, closely guarded by state highway patrolmen.

Leading the march was Mike Wallick, 20, of New Orleans, a junior majoring in American studies. He is a member of the strike committee and of the Student Mobilization Committee.

The crowd seemed under good discipline when it halted for some time to await confirmation that the judge had allowed marching in the streets.

CARRY CASKET Just behind the march leaders, four youths carried a casket painted in stripes simulating an American flag.

Second year law student Joe Tom Easley, 20, of Eagle Pass, Tex., said he and six other law students worked during the night to prepare a petition to the federal judge asking for permission to march in the streets.

They persuaded law Professor George Scharzki to represent them before the judge at 9 a.m. Roberts issued a temporary restraining order forbidding the city from interfering with street marching.

RATTLESLAKE At the head of the march, a large yellow flag was borne, carrying a rattlesnake in the center and the words, "Don't Tread on Me"—taken from one Continental Navy flag. Across the top of the flag were the words, "Conscription Without Representation is Tyranny."

About 5,000 shouting students voted Thursday night to march in protest of the Cambodian war and the shooting of Kent State University students.

Earlier, a deputy chancellor of the university system had turned down a request by the general UT faculty for a one-day suspension of classes.

The students, who voted to make their march on the sidewalk since they have no permit, were warned to "keep cool" by city councilman Ralph Jones. Jones voted for approval of the permit.

FREE SPEECH Another councilman voicing permit approval was Les Gage, who told a night rally that "any act of violence will help those who don't agree with you."

The UT general faculty recommendation to close the school was sent by President Norman Hackerman who passed it along to Deputy Chancellor Charles A. LeMaistre.

LeMaistre said that the campus of the University of Texas at Austin had been opened to free discussion of the differing views but that there were faculty members and students who wished to continue classes and not take part in demonstrations and discussions. He said the board of regents informally voted to uphold the latter's rights.

Anti-American Demonstrations

By The Associated Press

Protesters against the United States involvement in Cambodia demonstrated around the world today, some in London using animal blood to proclaim their opposition.

An anti-American demonstration by 300 Filipino youths was broken up outside the U.S. Embassy in Manila by riot police using tear gas.

Police arrested one young man as the demonstrators refused to leave after their permit expired. About 100 helmeted policemen guarded the embassy.

In London, pigs' heads and animal offal were dumped outside the offices of a number of American corporations in protest against the Indochina war.

The front doors of American Express, Bank of America, Pan American World Airways and Dow Chemical Co. were daubed with animal blood.

A mammoth protest is scheduled for London's Trafalgar Square Saturday when organizers say 50,000 marchers will converge on the U.S. Embassy in Grosvenor Square.

About 150 students from the American school in London marched to the embassy today with a petition calling for a halt to military action in Cambodia.

A Vietnam moratorium campaign was climaxed in Australia's major cities with demonstrations that involved 10,000 persons in Sydney.

More than 1,500 police stood by outside Sydney Pow Hall as speakers from trade unions, universities and schools called for the withdrawal of Australian and American troops from Vietnam.

Police blocked a breakaway group of 1,000 marchers who attempted to stop traffic on the Sydney Harbor Bridge.

YOUR LAST CHANCE Be Sure You Were Counted

It's your last chance.

If you were missed by the enumerators taking the 1970 census, there is a special form, designed just for you, on Page 1-B of today's Herald. Clip it out, fill it in, and mail to the address indicated to insure that you are counted in the once-every-10-years head count of the United States.

The local enumeration has been completed, and Richard Newton, district manager at Wichita Falls, said that final review and checks of the totals are being checked. He joined with Dr. Akin Simpson, Howard County census director, in urging all who may have been missed, to send in the special form.

Preliminary population figures will be released as soon as Newton is convinced all of the totals are in. The final count will be released from Washington, D.C., later this year.

Representation in Congress and the Legislature are determined by the Census, as well as federal fund allocations, Newton said in stressing the importance of getting every resident counted.

Bentsen Says Major Issues Will Develop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas senatorial candidate Lloyd Bentsen says he supports President Nixon's efforts to win peace in Vietnam and he thinks students who violently oppose the war do a disservice to the country.

Bentsen, a 49-year-old insurance executive and former U.S. representative, knocked 13-year Senate veteran Ralph Yarborough out of the race in last Saturday's Democratic primary election.

In a press conference here Thursday Bentsen said there is no clear division on the issues between himself and Republican Rep. George Bush whom he will face in next November's election. But he promised the issues will develop as the campaign progresses.

Bentsen told his questioners he would not adopt President Nixon's terminology and call students who use violence "bums." But he went on to state his support of Nixon's over-all policy in Vietnam and said he hopes the chief executive won't be swayed by demonstrations.

Bentsen did say he is uncertain he would be willing to support the South Vietnamese government. He also said he has doubts about Nixon's decision to send U.S. ground forces into Cambodia but he refused to condemn the action until it is determined how far inside the country the reported Viet Cong sanctuaries are and how long it might take to abolish them.

On other issues, Bentsen said: —He doesn't know how he would vote on an extension of the Office of Economic Opportunity, the anti-poverty agency which has helped support programs for Mexican Americans in the Rio Grande Valley.

—He opposes school busing, whether it is to maintain segregation or promote integration. He said he is sure blacks also oppose busing and want a neighborhood school system or freedom to choose their schools.

—He favors some sort of limits of television time for political candidates just so the allowed time is large enough for an unknown to develop recognition among the viewers. Bentsen himself flooded the radio and television air waves with commercials in his behalf, especially in the latter stages of the campaign against Yarborough.

50 KILLED IN PARROT'S BEAK Heaviest Allied Casualties

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese battered South Vietnam's northernmost provinces with hundreds of rockets and mortars early today in a new "high point" of attacks.

A South Vietnamese task force also was hit hard in the Cambodian operations, with 50 men reported killed and 200 wounded in heavy fighting Thursday in the Parrot's Beak north of Svay Rieng. But Saigon claimed its force of Rangers and armored vehicles killed 234 Viet Cong and captured 106.

the half dozen operations in Cambodia since April 29.

49 YANKS DIE

Allied losses so far were put at 49 American and 237 South Vietnamese troops killed and 148 U.S. and 1,051 South Vietnamese troops wounded. Ten American helicopters have been lost.

The South Vietnamese military command reported 35 government troops killed and 138 wounded in the big battle north of Svay Rieng. But a South Vietnamese medical officer with the task force said 50 government troops were killed and 200 wounded, some of them by their own artillery.

The casualties were the highest reported for government forces in a single action since the allies launched operations against North Vietnamese and Viet Cong base camps inside Cambodia last week.

A South Vietnamese military communique reported that 79 enemy troops were killed and 15 captured, including a battalion commander, in the day-long fighting Thursday. Government soldiers also reported capturing 35 weapons.

A battalion of about 500 Rangers riding tanks and armored personnel carriers was pursuing a Viet Cong battalion from the 9th Division. The Rangers slammed into Viet Cong positions in heavy treelines, which were being bombarded by government artillery guns to soften them up. Some artillery barges plastered the South Vietnamese troops instead.

The entrenched Viet Cong opened fire from all sides with rocket grenades and machine guns. Within a few minutes, the paddy fields in front of the enemy lines were littered with South Vietnamese dead and wounded.

Despite the casualties, the Rangers continued blazing away with M16 rifles.

Some civilian casualties also were reported, but no accurate count was available.

RED HEADQUARTERS?

Meanwhile to the northeast American air cavalrymen probed for the fourth day through a bunker system described by the White House Thursday as "a major sophisticated base complex" that might be the headquarters of the supreme Communist command. But field officers said they had no evidence that the headquarters itself had been found and the equipment in the bunkers was not particularly sophisticated.

The enemy base is in the Fishhook region of Cambodia, across from South Vietnam's War Zone C. The complex was two miles wide and a mile long, and contained about 50 earthen bunkers filled with hundreds of tons of arms, ammunition, other military equipment and food.

The searchers also found a classroom-type building with a capacity for 150 persons. A spokesman said the building was destroyed.

Other U.S. air cavalrymen operating farther to the northeast in Cambodia ran into heavy North Vietnamese fire, and eight Americans were killed, the U.S. Command said. It was the highest number of American deaths reported in a single action in Cambodian operations.

Headquarters said 24 North Vietnamese troops were killed in the fight.

Southwest of Saigon in the Mekong Delta, a flotilla of South Vietnamese navy boats began to move toward the border for an operation up the river which the South Vietnamese defense ministry announced Thursday. One force of about 50 vessels was seen heading for the frontier, and it appeared that the task force would assemble at a barracks ship 20 miles from the border and move up the river on Saturday.

SHELL 64 TARGETS

As 30,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese troops continued their drive against North Vietnamese and Viet Cong bases and supply depots in Cambodia, the enemy shelled 64 bases and towns in South Vietnam.

Da Nang, the country's second largest city, and two other provincial capitals just to the south, Hoi An and Tam Ky, were hit hardest.

South Vietnamese headquarters said 75 Vietnamese were killed and 83 wounded in the attacks on the three cities and the mining of a bus south of Da Nang.

Thirty-one enemy troops were reported killed.

Tam Ky, 35 miles south of Da Nang, was hit by more than 300 mortar and rocket rounds. Widespread damage was reported to the city.

HIGH POINT

The new high point of enemy attacks came on the heels of the 18th anniversary Thursday of the French defeat at Dien Bien Phu. In its observance of the occasion, Hanoi called on the Vietnamese people to intensify their fight against the United States.

At least 17 U.S. units or installations were attacked with mortars and rockets. The U.S. Command said two Americans were killed and 33 were wounded.

U.S. headquarters also announced that two more small U.S. observation helicopters were shot down in Cambodia, wounding two crewmen. A U.S. Air Force reconnaissance Phantom was reported shot down along the Laotian border, and an OV10 observation plane went down in the lower panhandle of Laos, but all three crewmen of the two planes were rescued.

Allied headquarters claimed 3,865 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops now have been killed and thousands of tons of equipment and food seized in

Divorce Sought By Son Of Adlai

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — John Fell Stevenson, youngest son of the late Adlai Stevenson, has filed suit for divorce, asking in California on a showing of incompatibility.

Stevenson, 34, was married Feb. 17, 1962, to Natalie Owings, daughter of architect Nathaniel Owings.

His divorce petition Thursday cited no specific charges. Under a new law, divorces are granted in California on a showing of incompatibility.

Gov. Smith Says Texas No. 1 In Industrial Development

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith says that for the first time in history, Texas is No. 1 in industrial development.

Citing increased tourism as a major contributing factor, Smith said Texas has moved ahead of California in industrial development. He said California now is ranked second.

million out-of-state visitors last year and Texans themselves began to learn their state is a good vacationland, the governor said.

He said the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas has predicted that, "with proper development and promotion, tourism will rank next to space-related industry as the brightest economic hope for the Texas of tomorrow."

Earlier Thursday, Smith outlined plans to hire members of ethnic minorities as state employees.

Speaking to a conference of community leaders from 15 counties, Smith said he expected to sign a contract soon with the department of labor for a public service careers program.

He said money would be made available through the governor's office to hire professional staff members, to locate and remove "unrealistic requirements" for employment and deformed, he said. "Once we got going, we were soon near the top of the list."

Participating state agencies also would be provided money to train about 500 such employees. Most of them would be Mexican-Americans or Negroes.

spade thru the dummy's king-seven. After mopping up two tricks in that suit, East wanted to score another diamond trick, putting declarer down by two.

Altho South's play of the nine of diamonds from his hand was technically correct — it wins whenever East had the king-ten or the queen-ten and loses only when East has specifically the king-queen — his strategy could not expect to succeed in the present instance. Even if the nine of diamonds forces out a high honor from West, the latter is almost certain to make the spade shift thru North's king that will net the defense two more tricks.

In other words, since East's opening bid marks him with the ace of spades, South must exert every effort to keep his partner out of the lead to protect dummy's spade holding from fatal attack. The only hope for declarer then, is to find East with both the king and queen of diamonds, and the proper play by South then is the jack.

Once the jack of diamonds wins the trick, declarer continues with the ace and another diamond clearing the suit. When he regains the lead, a spade can be discarded from dummy on the 13th diamond. One spade is conceded to the opposition and South's remaining spades are ruffed away.

Opening lead: Four of ♠. The major disadvantage to learning percentages and the proper handling of card combinations from the books, is that the subject cannot properly be separated from the conditions which confront the player in practice. South's experience in today's hand provides an excellent case in point.

West opened the four of hearts against the five club contract, and the ace was played from dummy. Trumps were drawn in two rounds ending up in the North hand and a small diamond was led. East followed with the deuce — he saw no reason to alert declarer to his holding in the suit by splitting his honors — and South played the nine. West was in with the ten of diamonds and he shifted to a

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and my husband is 23. We've been married for a year and a half, and have a six-month-old son, which is the only reason I don't just pack up and leave.

My husband is worse than an old man. When he comes home from work, he kisses me then goes in to look at the baby, then he buries his face in the newspaper until dinner. After dinner he can't get into bed fast enough — because that's where the television set is.

Our sex life is, like — forget it. He says he had so much sex before marriage he doesn't even think about it anymore. (That doesn't happen to be true in MY case, but it doesn't bother him.)

When I want a little affection he makes me feel like a dirty old lady. I don't want to raise only one child, but if I ever get pregnant again it will be a miracle.

He is a hard-working man and a good person, really, but he is a lousy lover. Please tell me what to do.

HUNGRY FOR LOVE: Something is wrong with your husband. It's either physical, mental, or emotional. True, not all sexual appetites are the same, but your husband's is sadly below par. Keep nagging him until he gets help. If he is a "good person," he will realize that you are not a "flower — born to blush unseen, and waste your sweetness on the desert air."

DEAR ABBY: I am simply amazed at the response I continue to receive since my letter appeared in your column. It concerned the cruel tradition of denying brides the privilege of wearing white unless they were "pure."

Of some 150 letters I received, only 10 were negative. They suggested that I was encouraging promiscuity, which I did not, nor would I approve.

When I offered you the use of my name, I had no idea you would include my church and its location. But I am now grateful to you for the gifts of kindness I have been able to receive because of it. I wish I were as good as some people perceive me to be.

My only regret was when I read my letter in your column, I saw that I had committed an error by referring to "black" as a symbol of evil or wrong. This is another cruel tradition. One person wrote to me critically, and I sent her my apology.

Yes, But Not First-Degree Insists Agnew

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says the fatal shooting of four Kent State University students by Ohio National Guard troops was murder if guardsmen fired without warning and without having been fired upon.

"I don't condone their action," he said of the guardsmen. "They responded with far too much force than they should have."

Agnew's remarks were in an interview Thursday night by David Frost whose television talk show is syndicated nationwide by Westinghouse's Group W broadcasting division. The videotaped interview will be aired next Wednesday.

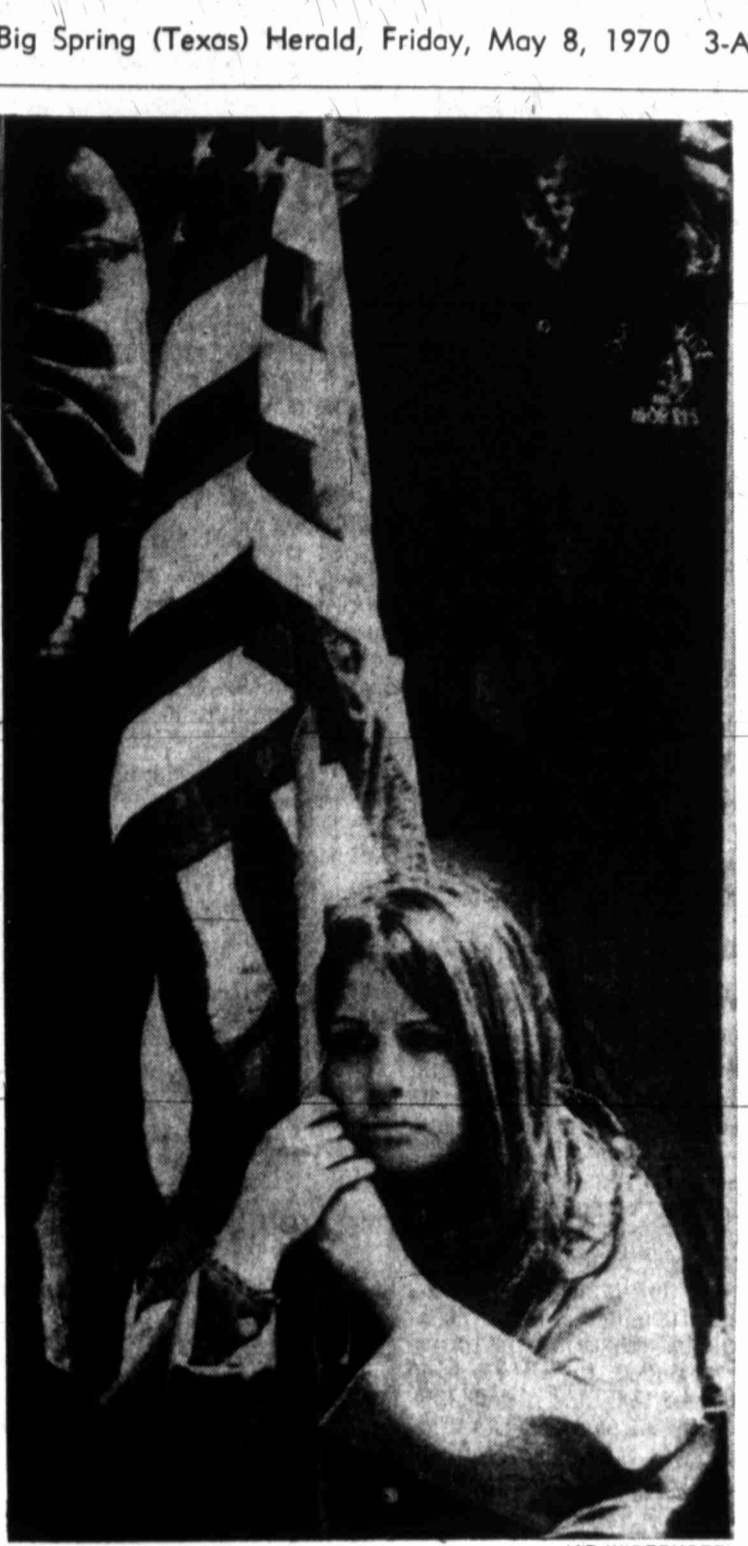

Frost asked Agnew: "If it is discovered there was no shot fired at them by a sniper, and they just opened fire without a warning shot or anything... is the word for that 'murder'?"

"Yes, but not first-degree," the vice president replied.

When there is no premeditation but simply an over-response in the heat of anger that results in a killing, it is a murder, and it certainly cannot be condoned."

One of the things that is overlooked in that incident is that the guardsmen... are young people, too.

"They are no older, for the most part, than the students. And if the students are not charged with a high level of responsibility in their conduct, then perhaps we should not impose upon the guardsmen a higher level."

Crash Training For Kid Marshals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The angry knot of long-haired kids milled back and forth in front of the police line. Their obscene chant grew louder. Four of their number tried vainly to block the others as they rushed toward and clashed with the police.

"Stop," yelled heavy-set, crew-cut Willard McKay, a seventh-grade teacher in a Quaker school in Richbury, Pa. "Okay, let's sit down and get an evaluation."

The kids, a little flushed, dropped their roles as protesters and police. Flopping onto pews in the sanctuary of All Souls Unitarian Church in the nation's capital Thursday night, they got their first lecture in being a marshal in Saturday's antiwar demonstration.

"Remember," said McKay, a veteran of last November's massive peace rally in Washington, "this is central: We may be marshals, but we're demonstrators, too."

Demonstration marshals, the soft-spoken youngsters and adults who know where to find the bathrooms and the bandstand, are the conscience of a crowd whose makeup and mood are as unpredictable to its leaders as to the police.

"We're here, like everybody else is going to be here, to go as close to the White House as the war machine will let us and hold a nonviolent demonstration about Cambodia and Kent State," McKay's lecture continued.

The marshals, identified by their white armbands, won high praise from District of Columbia police for their help in handling the 250,000 persons who flooded Washington for the Nov. 15 Moratorium.

Blind Persons Learn To Cook By Touch

ALBANY, Calif. (AP)—Rosemarie Grayley sniffed her freshly baked custard, held up a slightly red finger and said: "Only one burn—not bad!"

Dorothy Daniels bent over an electric oven, counted four blobs of glue on the temperature dial and exclaimed: "I've got it—350 degrees."

Linda Havens batted her right hand hesitantly in the air until she touched the edge of her casserole dish. "There it is!" she declared.

These three young women were cooking lunch—a task performed daily by millions of women. But for them there was a difference: each is blind.

Since 1954, the Orientation Center for the Blind, a state-run school, has been teaching blind and partially sighted men and women to cook by touch—some with gourmet results.

Instructor Jane Teeter says there are many difficulties, such as learning to handle hot pots and pans, finding the right ingredients and measuring them properly, and knowing when a dish is finished.

1953 Club Marks End Of Season

The annual spring luncheon of the 1953 Hyperion Club, marking the end of the club season, was held Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Don Womack, 107 Canyon, Cohostesses were Mrs. John Gary, Mrs. Wade Choate, Mrs. Daryle Hohertz and Mrs. Leo Gee. A salad luncheon was served on tables covered with white linen and centered with teapots filled with flowers.

Officers assuming duties in September are Mrs. Choate, president; Mrs. Gary, vice president; Mrs. Jimmy Taylor, recording secretary; and Mrs. Kimball Guthrie, treasurer. Members signed the Chamber of Commerce PRIDE petition supporting clean-up in Big Spring.

BPO Does Gain Two Members

Two new members, Mrs. Tommy Stephens and Mrs. W. L. McMullan, were initiated into the BPO Does at a meeting Tuesday in the Elks Hall. A committee composed of Mrs. Glen Gale, Mrs. Bob Boadle and Mrs. Kay Williams, was appointed to plan the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet slated this month. An invitation was extended to all Does to attend the Veterans Administration Hospital party Tuesday for volunteer workers. Refreshments were provided by the Elks.

Speaker Describes Decoupage For Sorority Chapter Meeting

The art of decoupage was described by Mrs. Stanley Owens at the Tuesday meeting of Alpha Beta Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi. Mrs. Cliff Blythe, Sand Springs, was cohostess with Mrs. Owens as hostess.

"Decoupage is the art of decorating surfaces with applied paper cutouts," Mrs. Owens explained. "There are three types of decoupage, 18th century, Victorian and modern, or contemporary." She showed a decoupage she had done of an Indian encampment in Yosemite Valley.

Mrs. Frank Pearson, ways and means chairman, reported members will sell casserole cookbooks for two more weeks. Mrs. Jerold Cox and Mrs. Blythe served refreshments at the Veterans Administration Hospital Wednesday. The annual chapter barbecue, with husbands as guests, will be held May 23 in the home of Mrs. Buddy Owens, Andrews Highway. The barbecue will be the final chapter activity until fall.

Mrs. Neil Norred Attends Meeting

Mrs. Neil Norred, District Two director for the Texas Home Demonstration Association, returned Wednesday from a three-day state board conference in Galveston.

The 26 women attending included state committee chairmen, board officers and representatives from the 12 districts in Texas. The group planned the state meeting to be held in Galveston, Sept. 16-17. The theme this year will again be "The Key Is In Your Hand." Mrs. Norred is chairman of the state resolution committee.

HEMINGWAY'S NEW NOVEL — Mary Hemingway holds books by her late novelist husband, Ernest Hemingway, at a news conference in New York. She termed "as good as anything he ever wrote" a Hemingway novel about the sea which will be published next fall under the title, "Islands In The Stream." Hemingway died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound July 2, 1961, and the unpublished novel is being made available to readers ten years after his death.

Westbrook Seniors Depart On Thursday

WESTBROOK (SC) — Members of the Westbrook Senior Class, all boys, eight in number, left Thursday on the annual senior trip. Points of interest which the group planned to visit are the state capitol at Austin, San Antonio and Houston where they will attend a ball game in the Astrodome. Accompanying them are the sponsors, Supt. and Mrs. L. M. Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Byrd. They plan to return next week.

Mary Jane Club Installs Officers

Mary Jane Club members elected new officers during their final meeting until September in the home of Mrs. Jack Cauble Thursday. Mrs. Ralph Williams is the new president with Mrs. Marshall Day, vice president; Mrs. V. E. Best, secretary; Mrs. Clovis Phinney Jr., treasurer; and Mrs. Cauble, reporter.

A salad luncheon was served from a table covered with a white cutwork cloth and set with milk glass. An arrangement of spring flowers was the centerpiece.

Plate Pushers To Attend Convention

Mrs. Leon Rankin won the bowl of fruit Thursday at the TOPS Plate Pushers meeting in the Salvation Army Activity Room. Mrs. K. C. Webb, president, received a chapter pin as a gift from club members. A 25-pound weight loss was reported.

Mrs. Webb, Mrs. Earl Glazier, Mrs. Garland Irons and Mrs. Alfred Tidwell will leave Wednesday for the TOPS International Recognition Day convention in Houston, May 14-16. Anyone interested in joining the club may call Mrs. R. V. Washburn, 391-5259.

Install Slate At Hyperion Luncheon

The 1946 Hyperion Club held its installation luncheon at Big Spring Country Club Wednesday. The social committee, headed by Mrs. Delaine Crawford, hosted the luncheon.

Folk songs and English ballads were played on the guitar and sung by Don Turner, assistant hand director for Big Spring High School.

Mrs. J. W. Tipton, outgoing president, received a gift of appreciation along with the floral centerpiece.

Mrs. Crawford served as installing officer. Mrs. T. J. Rowland is president; Mrs. R. A. Fuller, vice president; Mrs. E. H. Boullion Jr., recording secretary; Mrs. R. S. Griffin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Don Newsom, treasurer; Mrs. G. K. Taylor, reporter; and Mrs. Tipton, parliamentarian.

The luncheon table was covered with white linen accented with a blue runner and centered with a large arrangement of spring flowers.

Before closing the club year until September, Mrs. Boullion, chairman of the PRIDE task force, urged club members to support the clean-up project.

Pierre Cardin Mixes Moods

By LUCIE NOEL AP Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP) — Pierre Cardin mingled the sexy with the demure in his spring-and-summer fashion opening, presenting at least 10 creative ideas in dozens of different ways.

There is no nudity, but Cardin relies heavily on see-through effects for flitting exposures of the anatomy.

Ankle-length sheaths are slashed at the front with a rounded cutaway section starting at the accepted minilength. The same treatment is shown with the slash in the back, with a plain front, so that legs are still very much in focus.

Again at the minilength point, he cuts ankle-length skirts into vertical maypole ribbons. They are sometimes looped to form harem-trousers, or are simply banded at the hemline in a sort of hobble skirt cage.

He makes good use of flat loops in wide effects for mini peplums, or in narrow ribbon strips shown in tiers and forming the skirt which may be either mini or mid.

These spaced strips are used in necklines, spirally for skirts and for back décolletes. Round thongs of fabric like macaroni may form multiple shoulder-straps, see-through bibs on dress fronts and peekaboo effects in skirts.

More conventional are his ankle-length and midcalf ensembles in soft patchwork tweeds or pale crepes. The tweed went over plain jersey dresses, followed by a series of pastel-printed jersey sheaths with individual detailing.

The dozens of crepe dress and coat ensembles showed bars of color contrasts at their hemlines, sometimes repeated through the midriff or yoke of the dress.

First Baptist WMS Sees Thai Slides

CWO Henry Brewer of Webb AFB was the guest speaker at the Women's Missionary Service meeting Tuesday of the First Baptist Church. He showed slides of Thailand and described its way of life and government. Mrs. Ben Johnson, director, presided at the business meeting. The WMS state-wide House Party will be at Baylor University in August.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I really love the new skirt-and-scarf look, but didn't want to spend the money, especially when I had a storage closet full of perfectly good pleated wool skirts circa 1955, so I decided to make the old ones new.

I took one plaid skirt and cut seven inches off the bottom. Then I hemmed the edges of this long cut-off strip, and made a scarf that reached to the hemline of the new "short" skirt.

After soaking the scarf to remove old pressed-in pleats, I found that the new fringe I had sewed on the ends had tangled. Guess what I used to comb the fringe out smoothly and safely? My soft plastic wig brush!

I now have the "new" look with no cost whatsoever. Clothes Saver

You sound like a gal after my own heart.

It's surprising how we can make do when we put our minds to it. Heloise

Dear Heloise: When I discovered that I had run out of powdered coffee creamer, I mixed up some of my own using two parts non-fat dry milk to one part confectioner's sugar.

I liked it as well as the kind I buy at the store! A Reader

Dear Heloise: I chipped the edge of my beautiful new crystal glasses. When I took it back to the store where it was purchased, I was told that nothing could be done about it.

Have you an answer? New Bride

Dear Bride: I don't know how far down it is chipped, but I presume it is just chipped on the edge.

You can use an emery board — yep, the very kind you buy at the dime store for about ten cents a dozen.

Use the rough side to file the edge of the chip first. Then use the fine side of the emery and file it further.

This sometimes leaves a dull place on the edge of the glass, but I think that's better than throwing it away or having a guest cut her lip on it. Heloise

Dear Heloise: You know how most boys like their blue jeans skintight, well, when they put them on and the pockets stick out, here's the answer:

Take a clothes hanger, turn it sideways and stick it down into the pocket. When you slide it out, the pockets will be ship-shape. Mrs. C. V. Vernon

Dear Heloise: You know those "U"-shaped vegetable brushes? The really stiff ones? They are the greatest for scrubbing your entire foot. Not only is it good for the calloused foot from going barefoot, but does wonders to wake up tired feet. Mrs. J. M. Moore

Dear Heloise:

Many of us live in small apartments or houses and must store company dishes in the kitchen area. When an occasion for their use arises we must wash off the greasy film that has accumulated. . . . then, of course, after dinner we rewash the entire mountain of dishes.

After the last party I stored my just-washed dishes, then taped plastic wrap over the face of the shelf (like a window).

Next time I need them they will be clean and I'll wash dishes once instead of twice. Love, Joanie

Westside WMS Studies Thailand

Thailand, its people, culture and religions, was studied by the Women's Missionary Service at Westside Baptist Church Tuesday. Mrs. J. O. Murphy, in charge of the study, told of the state religion, Buddhism.

Mrs. C. L. Kirkland described the life patterns of Thailand's 33,700,000 inhabitants. "The Thais are 93.7 per cent Buddhist and are almost completely loyal to the monarchy," she said.

Urban and rural relationships were described by Mrs. J. A. Andrews. Mrs. Leroy Minchew spoke on Thailand's other religion, Islam.

Mrs. Mary Riddle told of the Southern Baptists' entry into Thailand in 1949, as a result of Communist China closing to missionaries. The Baptists began teaching Chinese living in Bangkok, then expanded their work to the Thais after learning their language.

Mrs. E. O. Sanderson told of the missionary work of Margie Shumate who had been in China 37 years before going to Thailand. The Thais learned about Christ through hymns.

Prayers were led by Mrs. N. M. Hipp and Mrs. B. N. Borouglis.

Wins Local Hair Styling Contest

Mrs. Mary Rider will represent Affiliate 24, Texas Hairdressers and Cosmetologists, at the Lone Star Artists' Contest during the state convention in Dallas, Aug. 15-17.

Mrs. Rider won the local contest in hairdressing Monday at First Federal Community Room. Mrs. Travis Oliver was her model. Neill Moore, Midland hairdresser, judged the contest and Mrs. Moore was a guest.

Other entrants were Mrs. D. M. Moore, Mrs. Clarence Hawkins, Gary Don Carey and Mrs. Buddy Campbell. A covered dish supper was served. Members will resume meetings in September.

A LOVELIER YOU Proper Manicuring Beautifies Hands

By MARY SUE MILLER Oval-shaped fingernails are one mark of a lovely hand. Tapering and delicate, nails so shaped lend even large or awkward hands a graceful appearance.

Although you may lack the asset there is no reason to fret. The stubbiest nails can be ovalized by the proper choice and application of enamels.

For the purpose you need an opaque enamel in a soft, medium shade — on the coral side if your skin is creamy or olive, on the rosy side if fair. Were you to use a clear or pale polish, the ruse would fail. Here you are in luck, as stronger shades of enamel-like lipstick are on the uptrend.

This is the method: First, file the nails in generous ovals; try to keep the length to one-quarter inch beyond the fingertips. Be sure the cuticles are pushed back so as to reveal the moons completely. Otherwise, the nails appear foreshortened.

In applying polish, cover the entire nail with enamel, except for a slim margin along either side. Then remove a hair's breadth from the tips, pressing a bit harder at the sides than the center. And just watch those trimming effects take place. Not so evident is the plus in a lipstick that exactly matches your enamel. By giving equal color emphasis to the lips and fingertips, your hands become less of a stand-out. The scheme is furthered by rings scaled in the middle range, neither massive nor dinky. Now you've a real "hand in."

LOVELIER HANDS

Do you have a hand problem? Send today for "Lovelier Hands", a booklet that covers every step in a quest for hand beauty. It tells how to keep the skin and nails groomed; how to overcome weak nails, polish chips, discolored knuckles, prominent veins, wrinkles; how to use the hands with poised grace. A Devotion For Today . . .

He watereth the hills from his chambers: the earth is satisfied with the fruit of thy works. (Psalm 104:13)

PRAYER: God of all creation, help us to be grateful to Thee for the wonders of Thy handiwork seen all around us in nature. Teach us to express our gratitude by joyfulness of spirit regardless of our circumstances or surroundings. Amen. (From the 'Upper Room')

Hope For Fresh Approach

Bob Armstrong's startling Democratic victory without a runoff for commissioner of the General Land Office is rich with promise for the people of Texas.

The office was first established in 1836 under the Constitution of the Republic of Texas and was continued in the Constitution of 1876, six years after Texas joined the Union. In the early days it served chiefly as a keeper of the records and archives of land titles. But in more recent years it has become a business office and collecting agency, supervising the Permanent School Fund and its vast ownership of oil, gas and mineral interests in river beds, the tidelands, including bays, inlets and the marginal sea to a point 10.35 miles offshore. The Veterans Land Board, which provides land loans to veterans of military service, was added to the General Land Office in 1949.

Any public office which regulates a Permanent School Fund which now approaches $1 billion, and supervises leases aggregating millions of dollars a year, should be one of the most open offices in the state. But this has not been the case. The office has been operated in great secrecy, information often being released or withheld at the whim of the commissioner.

Armstrong has promised to open up the affairs of the office to public scrutiny. He has promised to make himself accessible to reporters and the general public, so as to let the people know what is taking place in one of the most important offices in state government. He also has promised to place his office in the forefront of the drive toward conservation and the improvement of our polluted environment.

Armstrong should bring vigor and new ideas as well as youth to an office that has suffered from apathy and public ignorance of its affairs.

More Upper Level Colleges

The failure of the last Legislature to approve three new upper-level state colleges, has led to new controversy over enrollment limitations.

The Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System in 1968 recommended limiting enrollment in existing colleges and universities in Texas. But it also recommended the creation of six new upper-level colleges. The last Legislature approved only three — in San Antonio, Odessa and Dallas.

At a recent meeting of the coordinating board, chairman Frank Erwin of the University of Texas Board of Regents protested a proposal to limit UT-Austin enrollment to 35,000. He said the board's endorsement of that limitation in 1968 was contingent on the creation of the six new colleges.

Overcrowded conditions in existing state colleges and universities, a constant threat to high academic standards, are bound to grow worse under the present situation. More state colleges are needed before the coordinating board's recommendation for enrollment limitations is accepted.

Military Significance Of Cambodia

WASHINGTON — Most senators and a considerable part of the American public are not familiar with the exigencies of military strategy. So when a move is announced to wipe out the "sanctuaries" in Cambodia which flank the borders of South Vietnam, the cry that there is a "new war" gets more attention than the facts of just what is happening.

THE SECRETARY of Defense, Melvin R. Laird, has held press conferences in the last few days from which brief comments about Cambodia have been published. But a most comprehensive explanation about the whole war and the "sanctuaries" has just been presented in a 6,500-word interview with Secretary Laird in "U.S. News & World Report." Some excerpts follow:

"The sanctuary matter has been far less well understood by the American public but, over the long run, it is even more important . . .

"IN THE PAST, the enemy enjoyed a tremendous opportunity to operate from privileged sanctuaries in Cambodia against not only the Mekong Delta region but also the area stretching north of Saigon. And the supplies that were furnished through Cambodia to enemy forces in South Vietnam were substantial. At one time, approximately 75 per cent of the enemy's military supplies in the Mekong Delta were coming in through Cambodia.

"If the North Vietnamese were to control Cambodia, they would have free access to ports and beaches there, and could move supplies without restriction. So it would not be correct, by any stretch of the imagination, to think that such a situation would benefit our Vietnamization program . . .

"THE TROOPS which Hanoi has in Cambodia are very much needed in South Vietnam by the Communists in order for them to cause any degree of disturbance or concern as far as South Vietnam is concerned. Those Communist troops tied down in Cambodia are very important to Hanoi's whole South Vietnamese operation. These troops are in Cambodia in the first place to give them a respite from combat in South Vietnam and to constitute the resource pool for Hanoi's future military operations in South Vietnam.

THE PRIMARY MISSION OF THE 40,000 men that they have in Cambodia has been to stop the Vietnamization program. If Hanoi gets occupied on the other side of that Cambodian border, they're going to have to have more men to stop the Vietnamization program, and certainly the infiltration that is coming down the Ho Chi Minh Trail at the present time makes it very difficult for them to succeed on both fronts.

"So I don't think that people should say that Hanoi doesn't have problems conducting effective operations in Laos and Cambodia, as well as in Vietnam — because South Vietnam must continue to be their primary target, and this should be understood. Some observers feel Hanoi is getting spread pretty thin, with such long supply lines."

WHEN ASKED if the President's action was in line with his own recommendations, Secretary Laird said:

"Yes. As far as I am concerned — and I have made this position clear on many occasions — whenever the safety or security of Americans is involved, whether it be from activities emanating from Cambodia or Laos, I'm for using American power to protect American lives. That is what the action President Nixon announced is all about."

The foregoing quotations reveal the military significance of the movement made against the Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia. (Copyright, 1970, Publishers-Hall Syndicate)

Billy Graham

My fellow students call me a "square" because I won't listen to their improper talk and do what they do. . . .

If you are called a "square," you are in pretty good company. The founders of our nation would have been called squares by the beatniks and the hippsters. These were men of principle who stood foursquare, and uncompromisingly for what they believe.

Nathan Hale, who said: "I regret that I have only one life to give for my country," would have been a square, in the minds of the beat generation.

Patrick Henry, who said, "Give me liberty or give me death," would have been called a square. The crowd that is tearing up draft cards would have called them a square.

The disciples of Christ who "loved not their lives unto the death" would have been called squares. The bandaged boys would have laughed at them for dying for what they believed in.

In North Carolina recently a boy was run over and killed by a fast moving train all because one of his friends called him "chicken." It is not what people call you, but what you are that counts. I'd rather be a square any day than to be a circular blur of nothingness, with no purpose, no patriotism, and no faith.

You Are Probably Middle-Aged If . . .

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the shadowy frontiers of life is middle age.

Some people fear that frontier some years before they reach it. Others cross it without ever realizing it. After all, life's highway doesn't have a sign saying: "Five miles to middle age—turn right at next intersection."

Do you live north or south of that border? Well, there are ways to tell. You are probably middle-aged if—

You have been confronted with so many crises in your time that a new one only makes you yawn.

Sometimes when you think it's thundering outside you find out you're merely hearing your arteries harden inside.

You read a newspaper backward instead of forward so you can postpone as long as possible reading the bad news on the front page.

When you wake up in the morning, you are at first dismayed by the knowledge you have to resume the treadmill but also consoled by a feeling of victory: "Well, here I am still—I made it again."

Anything you could do easily 10 years ago is harder to do now—and you pause to consider whether it's worth doing at all.

If a stranger stops you to ask what time it is, you wonder whether he has a hidden motive. Why did he ask you? Why didn't he ask somebody else?

You are so afraid of being mugged that you never carry all the cash you have on you in a single pocket.

Maybe you're not really fat, but if you want to see your feet clearly you have to end over a bit so your stomach won't be in the way.

Your bathroom medicine cabinet is stocked like an arsenal, and whenever you open it to get your razor, two or three bottles of pills or potions tumble off the crowded shelves into the wash basin.

At least once a week you have to make a return trip to the supermarket for some items you forgot to get on the first trip. If you have even one drink after dinner, you regret it all the next day.

When you read an article such as this, you get annoyed at the guy who wrote it and mutter to yourself: "What's he trying to do anyway—make me feel old?" Nope—just honest.

True Or False

NEW YORK (AP) — Every-one knows that the nation's federal, state and local governments are firmly committed to curtailing the persistent increases in the cost of living. True or false?

Either way you answer, you'll get an argument. A good many people blame government spending for the present inflation. Others are inclined to listen to governmental rhetoric, which is adamantly anti-inflation.

The facts may surprise a lot of people who firmly believe that the largest increases in the cost of living have resulted mainly from higher food prices.

"And the government really can't be blamed for that," they say. The fact is that food price increases were far down the list of contributors to the rising cost of living between 1967 and 1969. Topping the list was the personal tax bite, which rose about 28 to 31 per cent.

Recognition of this fact comes from none other than the federal government, which recently released budgets for typical urban families in 39 metropolitan areas across the nation.

These budgets show that, next to taxes, the big increases were: Social Security taxes, insurance and contributions, 13 to 15 per cent; medical care, 14 per cent; clothing and personal care, 11 per cent.

Higher food prices contributed 8 to 9 per cent of the increase. Transportation costs also added 8 per cent, and housing costs added 5 to 6 per cent. These budgets show that the so-called intermediate budget for an urban family of husband, wife, boy 13 and girl 8 was $10,977 in the spring of 1969, broken down this way:

Food $2,288, housing $2,351, transportation $940, clothing and personal care $1,095, medical care $543, family consumption $601, personal taxes $1,348, and Social Security, insurance and contributions $1,262.

The rapidly increasing rate of taxes in the rising cost of living prompted the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to issue this reminder:

"The average American taxpayer will commence working for himself on May 9. "Up to that date this year he will have worked just to pay his federal, state and local taxes, according to taxation experts of the Chamber.

"They Figure that Mr. Average works two hours and 49 minutes out of an eight-hour day to pay all of his tax bills."

What an irony that taxes are taking such a bite out of the budgets of ordinary Americans at the very time they complained about seeing too few results from their tax contributions.

The explanation isn't easy to come by, but it is generally agreed that bureaucratic waste makes a large contribution. Perhaps more so than in any other time in our history, this is the age of the study, rather than the action committee.

Muscular Degeneration Of Eyes

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you discuss a muscular degeneration eye disease? Is there a cure? Does it lead to blindness? If so, how long does it take? Does it affect older people? — Mrs. D. T.

The macula is a small area in the back of the eye, in the retina. The macula is the point of most acute vision. Muscular degeneration is a breakdown of fibrous tissue in this area.

Depending on the extent and exact location of the trouble, vision can be disturbed in different ways. For example, central vision may be lost but peripheral vision — this is, vision "at the sides of the eyes" — may remain intact. Or the damage may be more extensive.

Cause of such degeneration is not clearly understood except that it is a part of the aging process, thus something that affects older folk.

There is no treatment for it, but progress of the condition may be very slow.

As to blindness — central vision may be so seriously impaired that the patient may be "legally blind," yet with sufficient peripheral vision remaining so he can see objects, particularly if he looks "out of the corner of his eye," rather than trying to see what is directly in front of him.

Visual aids, by which I mainly mean magnifying glasses of one sort or another, are helpful in making the most use of the remaining vision.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to have gall bladder trouble and X rays not show anything wrong? — Mrs. V. C.

Yes, and that is what confuses many patients. A gall bladder can be diseased and contain stones to the extent that bile no longer flows into the gall bladder.

Therefore, a dye that is used along with X-rays of this type does not flow into the gall bladder, either. The dye is required to make the shape of the gall bladder visible.

Thus when X-rays do not show the gall bladder, it is pretty likely to be a sign that the gall bladder is diseased. You'll find this and other problems discussed in my booklet, "You and Your Gall Bladder." Send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy.

Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To become more familiar with the subject, write in care of the Big Spring Herald for my booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

How About A Litter Walk?

It's only rumor — but if it's true — I'll bet it is more than annoying.

The story is that J. Edgar Hoover gets one piece of mail each month that really burns him up.

It reads: "Ha! Ha! You still haven't caught me!"

And it is signed by one of the FBI's Ten Most Wanted Men.

PRESBYTERIAN LIFE has a wonderful two-birds-with-one-stone idea, as reported in Reader's Digest: An idea promoted by the Kodale Press people, strong health-buffs all, is ingenious in its double pronged purpose. The plan is that one should take walks and pick up litter along the way.

"Every calisthenics routine includes some form of bending from the waist, so why not combine it with walking?"

We may look a little funny striding down the street and bobbing down periodically to retrieve a cigarette butt or an old candy wrapper.

BUT WE DON'T look so good right now with the midriff bulge that they tell us will go away if we take (if you'll pardon the expression) a litter walk.

To avoid confusion in the future, maybe the Senate should begin keeping detailed records on President Nixon's Supreme Court nominations, and call it Poor Richard's Almanac.

AFTER THE DEFEAT of Carswell, Mrs. Anne Stephens, a supporter in the office said "It looks like the liberals are going to get to keep their Extreme Court."

And an aginner, Bob Rogers, said "I suppose the next nominee will be chosen to represent the inferior."

"I thought we already had a secretary of the inferior," said Jay Sanders.

It's a wonder we manage to get a paper out.

TELEVISION COVERAGE of the Nixons at church showed the President's suit was a little snug around the middle, just like mine.

I'm assuming he has just one suit, too. To use the old vaudeville line. If he'd had another, he surely would have worn it.

because she's good at finger-licking," because she's good at finger-lickin'."

"But that's not Minnie Pearl's brand."

"Do you want me to call the sweet little thing Colonel Sanders?"

I GUESS I must be the Pig Pen type. (Okay, I do not remark about my weight!)

Thursday, after several extra hours of work, I had a clean desk. But no one noticed.

Finally I asked an ex-friend, Tommy Jordan:

"What do you think of my nice clean desk?"

"That's a funny thing," he replied. "It always looks messy when you're sitting there."

Vision Persists Of A United Europe

PARIS — At a time when the front page of each day's newspaper is a bid to despair, an oasis of faith and confidence must seem like a mirage.

While such an oasis here in Paris may at one time have been dismissed as an illusion, it increasingly today has the promise of reality.

For more than 25 years Jean Monnet has devoted virtually every waking hour to the creation of a united Europe. With the door opening to the admission of Britain and associated nations Monnet can begin to see the realization of his dream.

NOW IN HIS 82nd year, he believes this will come in two or two and a half years. That may be optimistic.

Many times in the past Monnet had reason to despair. France voted down the European Defense Community. Under the grandiose reign of Charles de Gaulle a new nationalism absorbed the French.

BUT MONNET'S faith in a united Europe was unshaken. This was no head-in-the-clouds exercise of an impractical idealist. As a shrewd business man long familiar with trade and politics in Europe, he believed in the inevitable logic of a united continent if Europe was to have any future at all.

Today, in kind if not in degree, Europe suffers from many of the troubles that plague America — student unrest, inflation, strikes, the resort to violence. There is, however, a marked difference in degree. The odds that Western Europe can move out of the present era of upheaval into relative stability seem greater than for the United States.

ONE CONDITION above all others is vital in this estimate — neither France nor any other European power is engaged in a far-off foreign war. To his everlasting credit De Gaulle defied the French generals and brought to an end to the bloodletting in Algeria. Thanks to his courage and his obstinacy, the generals' plots against his life and his government all failed.

THE LEFTIST demonstrators in Europe protesting America's Vietnam policy are a minor irritant, a phase that may be passing. What must be of real concern are the growing doubts about America's future among the men of responsibility in government and business. They are beginning to ask whether the obsession with the war and the pursuit of the chimera of victory will not end with the American generals in control of something resembling a police state.

They are beginning to ask whether the obsession with the war and the pursuit of the chimera of victory will not end with the American generals in control of something resembling a police state.

To speak of Europe as a "third force" is, in part, hyperbole. The two nuclear superpowers hold the balance between life and death. But, as a stabilizing factor, a united Europe can contribute immeasurably to the peace and security of the world.

IT MAY BE that Western civilization is doomed. Evidence can be marshalled to make the case. For Jean Monnet that is nonsense, and traitorous nonsense. He has been steadfast in his belief that reason must prevail over blind unreason, and with that faith he has helped to shape a future in which he profoundly believes.

Nixon A One-Term President?

WASHINGTON — A week after President Nixon went for broke and sent American ground troops into Cambodia, the most significant developments in the capital's corridors of power have been political.

Democrats, while publicly deploring Nixon's action, can hardly conceal their glee over a gamble that could make him a one-term President. As one high political chieftain put it:

"This could make up for Chap-quidnick. If we've lost Teddy Kennedy because of the death of Mary Jo Koepchne, the Republicans could lose Richard Nixon because of longer casualty lists in Southeast Asia."

HOWEVER the Cambodian ploy comes out, Nixon may not seek a second term in the White House. A man who helps put the President's ideas into appropriate prose insists Nixon is not determined to run again.

He quoted the President as telling aides that he "probably could get more done" in both foreign and domestic fields as a President who "relinquished" the idea of playing it cozy to protect his chances of re-election in 1972.

"WHEN THE President said he'd rather be a one-term President and do what he believes is right," he meant it, says this aide. "He doesn't want the job if it's cluttered up with expedient politics."

That's as may be, of course. Once a man gets accustomed to the power of the White House he hates to relinquish it. And Nixon is a politician who believes he can persuade the electorate that doing what he thinks is "right" is good for the country. But it is possible to accept the proposition that a man who promised to end a war and now has escalated it has decided to forego further political ambitions.

FOR THE Democratic Party, the Cambodian action is the first real break since Nixon took office. It is now not only "Nixon's War," he has made it bigger — at least temporarily.

The President must win big. That is to say, his new strategy must succeed quickly — within the time limit of six weeks or two months set by his military advisers for cleaning out hit major enemy sanctuaries in Cambodia. If the "new war" drags on, political history will repeat itself in that Nixon will be placed in the identical position desperately occupied by Lyndon Johnson in 1968.

DEMOCRATS ARE not so unpatriotic as to hope Nixon won't win. Except for an occasional creep, they reluctantly hope he will. But as political realists, they don't believe he can make it. They see the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong pinning down U.S. forces indefinitely in a new conflict on ground of their own choosing, with the resulting loss of more American lives halfway around the world.

THUS THEY FIGURE, again pragmatically, that the Cambodian adventure has given Democratic Presidential prospects a big nudgie. There is new life to the candidacies of Sens. Ed Muskie and George McGovern and even former Vice President Hubert Humphrey, although the latter still bears the taint of having stood at Johnson's side in Johnson's prosecution of the war.

Fast Showdown On Indochina

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats, with the blessing of Republican Leader Hugh Scott, have moved to bring an early Senate showdown on a proposal aimed at cutting off funds for U.S. operations in Cambodia.

The bipartisan proposal, an amendment to a military sales bill, could come before the Senate as soon as the end of next week with a vote the following week.

But even if the Senate adopts it, House action would be doubtful in view of that body's refusal Wednesday and Thursday to support any curb on the U.S. incursion into Cambodia.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Thursday approval of the curb by the Senate would mean "the imprint will have been made." And he said "the advice given may be taken" by the administration.

The amendment is sponsored by four members of the Foreign Relations Committee—Mansfield, and Sens. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho.

Five other senators, meantime, sent telegrams to more than 400 student leaders urging support of their efforts to cut off funds for the Southeast Asia war.

"Your letters, phone calls, petitions and personal visits to your senators and congressmen are urgently needed during the next three or four crucial weeks," the telegram said.

Signing the telegram were Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D.; Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.; Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; Harold Hughes, D-Iowa; and Charles Goodell, R-N.Y.

Nixon, who holds a news conference at 10 p.m. tonight, spent the night at his Camp David retreat in nearby Maryland. But, before leaving, he conferred for more than an hour with the Citizens Committee for Peace with Freedom in Vietnam a fact-finding team which recently completed a tour of Indochina.

The President is reported to have told them that destruction of North Vietnamese bases in Cambodia would gain eight to 12 months of time before enemy troops could rebuild the bases for use in the Vietnam war.

Herb Klein, the administration's communications director, said later the aim of the Cambodian strategy was to give the United States 10 to 12 more months to train South Vietnamese to take over the fighting.

Klein spoke on ABC's Dick Cavett show.

A State Department spokesman said Thursday U.S. policy is not to become involved in Cambodian affairs. The spokesman, Robert J. McCloskey, refused to discuss reports from Saigon that American boat forces had been assigned to operate up the Mekong River to Phnom Penh.

Nixon pledged to congressional committees that U.S. troops would strike no deeper than 21.7 miles into Cambodia. He said if they went further, he would seek congressional approval.

In Congress, Democrats geared up to push the amendment to bar funds for the Cambodia operation.

The amendment will be formally introduced Monday and is expected to come before the committee the same day. Mansfield said Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., expects to report the military sales bill to the Senate late next week.

In its revised form, the amendment bars all funds for "retaining United States ground forces in Cambodia," prohibits funds for instruction of Cambodian military forces or hiring mercenaries to fight for Cambodia, and forbids aerial combat by the U.S. Air Force above the Southeast Asian nation "except for the interdiction of enemy supplies or personnel using Cambodian territory for attack against or access into South Vietnam."

Mansfield said he believes it has a better chance than a proposal by Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., and 15 other

Black, White Fights Quelled

MIAMI (AP) — A police task force quelled fighting among black and white pupils at two Dade County high schools Thursday. One youth was stabbed and about 20 others were injured.

School officials blamed the violence at Palmetto High on a dispute over whether a white band or Negro musicians would be hired for a school prom. At South Dade High, the racial tension was attributed to class elections that pitted white youngsters against blacks.

Emotional Wave Of Anti-Guard

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — South Carolina's top military officer says an "unreasonable, emotional wave of anti-Guard sentiment" has resulted from the slaying of four students at Kent State University in Ohio by National Guardsmen.

State Adj. Gen. Frank Pinckney, the head of the South Carolina Guard, called a news conference Thursday to dispute what he called "any notions of the guardsman as an untrained, unrestrained and trigger-happy doll."

Pinckney said the fatal shootings in Ohio Monday during a protest against use of United States troops in Cambodia were "a terrible tragedy."

However, Pinckney said it should be remembered that about 200,000 National Guardsmen have been called out in the past two years throughout the nation because of civil disturbances and "there hasn't been a single incident to blot the performance of these 200,000 men."

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you are alert to unusual conditions happening about you and seize the chance to put some unique condition in motion, you find this can be a very good day and evening for you. However, if you depend upon the whims and moods and the desires for change being demanded by others, you can get in trouble. Be poised.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) An associate or good friend will do you a big favor so be sure to accept it graciously. Steer clear of those persons who keep you from being progressive.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A good mind and right action.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) By getting out among good pals, one of them will give you just the right ideas for gaining your most cherished aims. Be sure to dress becomingly. Then others will be glad to do your favors.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be careful you do not use some devious method to get yourself out of some temporary bind or you get yourself into deeper trouble. You get fine response from romantic attachment now. Be thoughtful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Talk over with associates how to be more successful in joint interests. Don't just leave matters to take care of themselves. Don't be so flamboyant and you get along better with others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't be so busy angling you fall to see the big fish of opportunity right under your nose. You have some new plan that could meet with great approval of fellow worker. Be clever and be sure to accept some invitation that is extended to you, or get someone to invite you to what you really like. Some situation that pops up can now catapult you forward. Be sure to seize the right opportunity.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Get all those duties of home but use a more modern method in doing them and you please all about you. You can improve property quite easily and well. Exercise is good for you now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study your responsibilities well and know exactly how to handle them intelligently. Be more successful in the future. Your intuition is working accurately and it can be very helpful in every way.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Being particularly social-minded today can bring fine results with old acquaintances as well as gain you new ones. Know what it is you want personally. Discuss your aims with friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Listen to advice of a person who is most practical and will show you how to commercialize on your finest talents. Be more active and make life more fascinating. People are wonderful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you do not follow the orthodox, you may find it is the best way for you to get ahead now. Be more modern in your thinking. You have to study that new outfit intelligently if you are going to succeed in it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be careful you do not use some devious method to get yourself out of some temporary bind or you get yourself into deeper trouble. You get fine response from romantic attachment now. Be thoughtful.

GOP Governors Call Off Parley

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Republican governors, many of them facing turmoil on home-state campuses, have called off their spring political meeting because of "the critical nature of the present crisis."

Monday, joined by Democrats, they will meet with President Nixon at the White House.

"This is no time to have a partisan conference," said Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, canceling the spring meeting of the Republican Governors' Association.

Most of his colleagues already had sent their regrets, and in the end only seven state governors made it to Santa Fe in time to go home again.

"The disruption of peace, violence and potential violence throughout the nation at this time has made it necessary for us to cancel this spring conference," said Shafer, association chairman.

The wave of campus demonstrations and disorders which flared after President Nixon ordered U.S. troops to attack across the borders of Cambodia led to a steady stream of last-minute cancellations from GOP governors. By Thursday, it was obvious that no more than a dozen governors would be coming to Santa Fe.

Shafer announced the cancellation a scant six hours before the governors and a throng of New Mexico Republicans were due at a barbecue at the Radeo de Santa Fe. The barbecue went on while most of the governors went home.

COMPACT COMPUTER — The new Datamate 70, manufactured by the Data-mate Computer Systems, Inc. of Big Spring, is dwarfed by the Datamate 16, a versatile model produced by the company, and itself a highly efficient type which nevertheless fits in a relatively compact space. Datamate 70 will be in production in August.

Datamate Develops A New Computer

Datamate Computer Systems has developed a new 16-bit digital computer that measures only 1-3/4 x 19 x 20 inches. The computer, designated Datamate 70, is designed for on-line data acquisition, control and monitoring, time sharing, automatic testing and instrumentation, data concentration and educational applications, said George A. McAlister Jr., Datamate President.

Extensive use of microelectronics technology and the latest memory techniques give the Datamate 70 computational power far surpassing its small size," McAlister said.

The Datamate 70 has 11 registers, four of which are 16-bit arithmetic accumulators. Two of those are available as index registers. An I-O index register is also included for indexed I-O operations.

A wide range of optional memories may be chosen to tailor the Datamate 70 to specific user requirements. These include a one-microsecond core, plus semiconductor memories of the read-only and read-write type that operate at much higher rates. Direct memory access is built in as an integral machine function, providing 16-bit I-O transfer at one million words per second.

An efficient, user-oriented instruction set includes over 144 instructions in five classes, in a micro-programmed format.

The Datamate 70 assembler, capitalizing on advanced hardware design and the powerful instruction repertoire, is tailored to the users of this

Crusade Has 1,200 On Hand

Approximately 1,200 persons sporting red, white and blue patriotic program Thursday night at the Comanche Trail Park Amphitheatre.

There were 200 persons bearing American flags. Servicemen and veterans were recognized during the service, and there were 19 professions of faith which makes a total of 70 for the crusade which began Sunday night.

The main feature for tonight's program beginning at 7:30 p.m. will be personal testimony by 15 to 20 young people. Evangelist David Railey will conduct the service, and Jerry Bernard will lead the singing. Tonight is the last program for the crusade sponsored by the Baptist Association.

Lt. Little Given Squadron Honor

The 3561st Pilot Training Squadron at Webb AFB has given the "Pilot Extraordinary" honor to 1st Lt. David S. Little, who was recently selected as the instructor pilot of the month for April.

Lt. Col. Robert Reid, squadron commander, said "he is an outstanding instructor who accomplishes his job in a superior manner. His mission briefings and in-flight instruction are tailored to the needs of the student to insure each is progressing at the maximum rate. These capabilities as an instructor are enhanced by his patience, understanding of student problems, and dedication to the mission."

He said Lt. Little's "untiring efforts as the flight flying training student management systems officer have been commendable. The many additional hours he devotes to the control and checking of computer products assists in maintaining continuity of student training and error free scheduling. He is the assistant scheduling officer and assists in this responsible position with maximum efficiency."

"Lt. Little's professional performance as a runway supervisory unit observer assists in maintaining an efficient and safe operation. His maturity and judgment are shown by his outstanding briefings to new personnel — emphasizing responsibility, mission accomplishment, efficiency and error free performance."

The lieutenant, a native of Chapel Hill, N.C., is a graduate of the University of North Carolina. He entered the Air Force in August, 1967; received pilot training at Laughlin AFB; and was graduated in January, 1969. He arrived at Webb in May, 1969. He married the former Miss Anne Ray, also from Chapel Hill.

Arab Guerrillas Attack Despite Dayan's Threat

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab guerrillas in Lebanon made another attack in northern Israel Thursday night despite a new threat of retaliation from Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

Guerrilla fire from across the border wounded four Israeli soldiers on patrol north of Metulla, the military command announced. The Israelis returned the fire, a spokesman said.

Dayan's warning to the guerrillas in Lebanon was partly prompted by a rocket attack Wednesday night that killed a 57-year-old Israeli and his 17-year-old daughter in the village of Kiryat Shomna. Residents of the village, six miles south of the border, demanded "reprisals and vengeance."

"Apart from civil defense measures," Dayan told newsmen, "we will have to carry on activity across the border."

In the past, Israel has responded to terrorist raids from Lebanon with air strikes and commando attacks on villages that its military command claimed were used by the guerrillas.

Israeli troops on Wednesday night also fought a running battle with Arab infiltrators from Lebanon who penetrated 13 miles south of the border, the deepest infiltration into Israel from Lebanon so far detected. At the eastern end of the border, three Israeli soldiers were killed when guerrillas ambushed a patrol with bazooka and machine gun fire.

The increase in guerrilla attacks is believed to be an attempt to spoil Israel's annual celebration of its independence, which will take place Monday.

In Beirut, Lebanese President Charles Helou denounced Zionism Thursday night as "an act that involves both usurpation and domination—the usurpation of the nearest lands and the domination of the most distant

Students Tour State Hospital

About 120 HCJC students visited the Big Spring State Hospital Wednesday afternoon and witnessed a demonstration in hypnosis by Dr. Preston Harrison, administrator of the hospital.

A lady patient of Dr. Harrison became a volunteer to demonstrate the various ways hypnosis can be used. Then Dr. Harrison applied mass hypnosis to the group present, and about 12 people responded.

HCJC faculty sponsoring the tour included John Bayne, psychology, Mrs. Alicia Travis and Mrs. Johnnie Amos, nursing.

Pupils To Help Expo Visitors

NEW YORK (AP) — In a goodwill gesture to Expo '70 visitors who will be staying in Kyoto, Japan, local Kyoto university and college students have announced the formation of a free guide service. Through the assistance of the Kyoto city government, the students have been formed into an organization called the "Kyoto Student Interpreters' Federation." Its more than 30 members will offer interpreter assistance in English, French and Spanish.

In addition to interpreting services, the students will offer aid in sightseeing, shopping and visits to the more than 3,000 temples and shrines there.

'Thistles' Are Being Distributed

"Thistles," the literary magazine edited by the HCJC Writers Club, is being distributed free to the student body and faculty today and Monday. Faculty sponsor of the magazine is Mrs. David King, English instructor.

The red and black cover, picturing silhouettes of thistles, was designed by Helen Dunn, with interior art by Dee Parker.

Student contributors to the magazine of poetry and prose include Beverly Ann Jones, Mike Wiggins, Iris Lowe, Phillip Stephens, Jan Louise Skinner, Edna Faye Smith, Annette Mehan, Shirley Bradshaw, Thelma Powell, Carol Phillips, Linda Maskey, Deborah Woods, and Shelby Watkins.

Marriage Sours

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The five-year marriage of Dennis Wilson, 25, leader of the Beach Boys rock music group, and his 24-year-old wife, Carole, has ended in divorce.

In a court decree Thursday, Mrs. Wilson was granted custody of the couple's 3-year-old daughter, Jennifer, and more than $100,000 in community property.

Victim Of Persecution To Relate Experiences

A man of unusual and varied background and experiences will be the guest speaker Sunday at all services of the Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ. He is Henryk Ciszek of Warsaw, Poland.

HENRYK CISZEK

Soon after his conversion to Christianity, through the influence of American preaching, he began to preach religious services. In the spring of 1967, Ciszek was sentenced to three years in prison for "being a leader of an illegal organization, printing religious literature and conducting church services without authorization from the Polish government," according to charges laid against him.

World War II broke out in Europe. Unable to return to his family, he joined the American armed forces and served in Europe during the war. During this time his parents and his wife were deported to Siberia, and he has never seen them again.

After having served his prison sentence in Warsaw, some churches of Christ in Texas have brought him to America where he is now traveling and speaking. His life story is one of persecution, harassment and intimidation such as Americans have not had to face, but one of supreme faith, and deep conviction in God, and a great desire to teach Christianity in Poland.

Sunday morning worship hours are at 8 and 10 o'clock as well as the 9 a.m. Bible School at which time Ciszek will tell of his experiences to teach God's word. He also will speak at the Sunday evening worship at 6 o'clock. Everyone is invited to attend any or all of these services.

LETTER Lauds Awards Seminary Teacher Will Be Speaker

To The Editor: I would like to thank you and commend you for helping sponsor the recent Youth Achievement Awards.

My husband and I attended the banquet with our daughter Elaine, and it was really wonderful to see so many young people who have done and are doing some "good" in this world today!

All we see and hear in the news is what the "bad ones" are doing. These are only a minority. I believe that we as adults should praise and encourage our young people more often, especially when they're trying.

We're also setting the example for them, and if we fall then there's no one to blame but ourselves. I believe we should also teach them Christian principles and make sure we set the pattern.

Those 87 young people are also a minority, because I'm sure there were many more that deserved to be nominated, but you've made a great start by supporting them.

Now we, as parents, and others can't give them a banquet but we can show our appreciation by telling them face to face how much we believe in them.

Enclosed is Billy Graham's "Teenage Code of Conduct." Those 10 rules could and should apply to all adults!

Thank you again for inviting us to the banquet.

Sincerely,
MRS. DONALD WEBB,
Vincent Route,
Coahoma

TEENAGE CODE OF CONDUCT

1. Avoid the wrong company.
2. Watch your eyes; you cannot help the first look, but you can help the second.
3. Watch your lips. Refrain from telling dirty or off-color stories.
4. Watch your heart. Don't let evil thoughts stay in your mind long.
5. Watch your dress.
6. Watch your recreation.
7. Be careful what you read.
8. Watch your idleness.
9. Have Christ in your heart and life.
10. The Bible says, "Thy Word have I hid in my heart, that I might not sin against Thee."

Seminary Teacher Will Be Speaker

Dr. David Garland of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, will be the speaker at First Baptist Church at the morning worship Sunday.

DR. DAVID GARLAND

This also will be the occasion for recognizing mothers, as well as babies. All babies in the nursery, and their parents, will be presented to the congregation, and there will be corsages for the eldest mother, the one with most children present, and the youngest mother.

At the evening worship, Dr. James White will be the Gideon International speaker.

Dr. Garland is professor of Old Testament at the seminary. He earned his bachelor's degree in Arkansas A&M College, his B.D. and his Th.D. degrees from the Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Ky., and has studied additionally at Oxford University.

Before his seminary service, he was pastor at West Baden, Ind., and Little Rock, Ark., then taught in Southern Baptist Seminary.

Pastors Take Part In Religious Meet

Area pastors will take part in the first phase of religious meeting to be held in Japan before and after the Baptist World Alliance meeting in Tokyo.

Among the participants in phase one are the Rev. Glen Roemfeldt, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Colorado City, and the Rev. C. T. Partain, pastor, First Baptist Church, O'Donnell.

The Sojourners, a popular entertainment trio from Hardin-Simmons University, has been invited to take part in this phase. In the group are Carolyn Mobley, Sanford, Fla., junior; Rhonda Fuhart, St. Louis, Mo., and Becky Kellum, Andrews, sophomore.

Most Pick Parish

CHICAGO (AP) — Three out of every four graduates of the Chicago Theological Seminary intend to work in parish ministries, a survey shows. In the past five years, 54 per cent became parish ministers and most others entered educational work.

First Methodist Honors Warden Mayes Family

Mr. and Mrs. Warden Mayes and their two sons, Brian, a Big Spring High School junior, and Rex, a Goliad seventh grader, were honored Wednesday night at First United Methodist Church family night as the family of the year.

The Rev. Leo K. Gee presented them with a plaque. They were chosen by nominations open to the entire church membership. This is an annual church event.

FAMILY OF YEAR — Rev. Leo K. Gee presents a plaque to Mrs. Warden Mayes while her husband and two sons, Rex and Brian look on. The family was chosen Wednesday night as the family of the Year from First United Methodist Church.

"We select the family we feel representative of many families in our church," the Rev. Gee said.

Mayes is active in the mission program in the church and Mrs. Mayes is a member of the Women's Society of Christian Service and is a leader and teacher in the children's division. Both boys are in United Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Mayes is a chemical engineer at Cosden and will be transferred to Dallas in July. They have been members of First United Methodist 14 years.

Religious Drama Stars Local Man

ENID, Okla. — Jonathan L. Graham, sophomore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burl M. Graham Jr., Rt. 1, Box 285-A, Big Spring, was featured in a religious drama entitled "The Sausage Maker's Interlude," at Phillips University. Graham portrayed Creon, the sausage-maker in the play Tuesday in the Bivens Chapel presented by the Bible College Steering Committee.

Circuit Supervisor's Visit Sparks Special Activities

C. L. Lunsford, presiding minister of the Big Spring Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, announced a special week of activity in connection with the visit of circuit supervisor Robert A. McCarrroll, May 5-10, 1970.

"The occasion of the visit is not a revival," Mr. Lunsford stated. "It is part of an advanced training program for Jehovah's Witnesses. The scheduled activity is also designed to encourage more Bible discussion by people of all faiths in the community."

A ministry training school at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday began the week's program with the evening also including a thirty-minute discourse by McCarrroll. Each day through Sunday, some time will be spent in making brief house visits on residents throughout Big Spring. McCarrroll will join ministers of the local congregation in these house-to-house calls as a regular training feature in the ministry of Jehovah's Witnesses.

A Saturday evening program begins at 8 o'clock with a Bible question period, "New Things Learned," with audience participation. A thirty-minute discourse by McCarrroll, dealing with counsel for improving one's personal ministry, concludes the session.

Highlight of the week comes Sunday at 3 p.m. when McCarrroll gives the public talk, "Trust in Jehovah With All Your Heart." A congregation Bible study using the magazine as an aid and final remarks by McCarrroll bring the week's activity to a close. All meetings will be held at the Kingdom Hall, 500 E. Donley. Interested persons are welcome and no collections are taken.

Philosopher Says Jews Conforming

HAIFA, Israel (AP) — American Judaism is losing its distinctiveness and becoming increasingly like Protestantism," Dr. Harold Weisberg, a Brandeis University philosophy professor, told a gathering here. He said the shift is "not so much in theology as in life style."

Increasingly, he added, "the notion of praying and attending a house of worship defines American Jewishness," as it does Protestantism, in contrast to traditional Judaism which consists "not only of worship but of acts." Under pressure of American life, he says, U.S. Jews are conforming to the "behavior pattern of the majority religion."

Catholic Order Splits In Dublin

DUBLIN (AP) — The Anglo-Irish province of the Salesians, a Roman Catholic order, has been divided into separate English and Irish provinces. The first English provincial is the Rev. George Williams, S.D.B., and the Irish provincial is the Rev. Michael Egan, S.D.B. St. John Bosco sent the first members of the society to England in 1887 and the first Irish house was opened at Pallaskey, County Limerick, in 1919.

The Sponsors Of This Message Urge You To Attend Church Sunday
Select The Church Of Your Choice And Be Faithful
In Your Attendance

Dere Mommy, Happy Mothrs Day!

The red rose decorating the notebook paper is a little lopsided, and the spelling is awful. But what a wealth of love went into the message. I know, because I was the little girl who made it.

Now it's my little girl who struggles with pen and crayon to fashion a card of love for me.

And as I watch her I think of Mama — sliding down the back hill with us in Daddy's worn-out knickers, kneeling with us as she heard our prayers, singing sweetly Sunday mornings as she stood between us in the family pew. I remember her joy in life, the way her Christian faith glowed in everything she said and did.

Do you wonder that our church is a continuing source of joy and strength for me and my family?

Mets Are Hurting In National Race

The New York Mets are stumbling through one of those cycles. Wes Parker went through one of his own Thursday night and showed the world champions how to do it.

After smacking a double, homer and single earlier, the slick-fielding Los Angeles first baseman slammed a tie-breaking two-run triple in the 10th inning as the Dodgers erupted for three runs and whipped the Mets 7-4.

The setback left the Mets with a 13-13 record—7-13 in games which Tom Seaver hasn't started—and once again the defense and the bullpen were at fault.

Elsewhere in the National League, red-hot Cincinnati downed the Chicago Cubs 5-2. Montreal trounced San Francisco 15-8. San Diego trimmed Philadelphia 8-2 and Pittsburgh beat Houston 9-5. Atlanta and St. Louis weren't scheduled.

Parker called his hitting display "about the biggest thrill I've ever had in baseball" and said he's been waiting two years to hit for the cycle.

"I've thought about this ever since I just missed doing it against Cincinnati two years ago," Parker disclosed. "I had a single, double and triple and my last at-bat I missed a home run by a foot. The outfielder—I don't remember who it was—caught it leaping against the wall. It's something I've always wanted to do."

Ted Sizemore reached on an error to open the 10th. Willie Davis beat out a bunt. Sizemore stole third and Von Joshua struck out before Parker walloped his triple far over the head of Mets center fielder Tommie Agee.

"I was just trying to hit the ball in the air for a sacrifice fly to get the lead run home," Parker said. "When I saw it go over Agee's head I wasn't going to stop for anything or anybody until I reached third base."

Agee's leadoff single in the first inning extended his hitting streak to 18 games, tying the club mark set by Frank Thomas in 1962, the Mets' first year.

The scorching Reds increased their winning streak to eight games and sent the Cubs to their sixth straight defeat and first at home after 10 triumphs. Bernie Carbo hit a two-run homer for the big blow and Jim McGlothlin got the victory, with ninth-inning help from Clay Carroll.

Both expansion teams—the Expos and Padres—had their hitting shoes on.

Montreal lashed out 15 hits, including the first home runs of the year by Jim Fahey and Mack Jones, in blasting the Giants as rookie Carl Morton staggered to his third win in a row. Willie Mays hit No. 604 for the losers.

A two-run single by ex-Giant Jack Hiatt highlighted a six-run burst in the fifth inning that shoved the Expos in front for good. It was the most runs scored by the Expos in their two-year history.

Nate Colbert hit two solo homers for the Padres against Philadelphia and shortstop Al Oliver's tie-breaking two-out single in the eighth inning touched off a four-run uprising that carried Pittsburgh by Houston, snapping the Pirates' seven-game losing streak.

DAY'S WORK FINISHED
Leader Deane Beman

Beman Is Leader; Hogan Takes 71

HOUSTON (AP) — He came stumping down the fairway on once-shattered legs, limping badly on an injured left knee, the familiar white cap a signpost of the past.

Ben Hogan was back, briefly, perhaps, but back at competitive golf.

And the faded Texas Hawk who dominated another era of golf received an ovation at every green from the gallery that came to study the moves of the master who won 10 major championships, including four U.S. open titles.

He responded with a par 71, a highly respectable score on the treacherous Champions Golf Club course, and trailed leader Deane Beman by just three strokes going into today's second round of the $115,000 Houston Champions International Invitational Golf Tournament.

It was the first competitive appearance in almost three years for the man who swept three major championships—the U.S. and British Opens and the Masters—in 1953.

"I must admit I was a little nervous," said Hogan, long reputed to have nerves to match his steel-gray eyes. But he made some putts when he had to—it was putting woes that forced him into a semi-retirement several years ago—and really had trouble only on the sixth hole, which he double bogeyed.

The 32-year-old Beman, who had an outstanding amateur record before turning pro only three years ago, played in relative obscurity early in the day, posted his 68, then sat back and watched it stand up for the lead.

He held a one-stroke margin over Gibby Gilbert, who had only the marshals as a gallery. Australian Bruce Crampton and Bert Greene, tied at 69.

Leading money-winner Lee Trevino headed the group at 70. The others were Dale Douglass, Johnny Pot, Tommy Aaron, Gene Littler and Dave Hill.

Fans Must Aid Kaline If He Rates Elite

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Kaline, veteran outfielder for the Detroit Tigers, is counting on votes from baseball fans to make the American League All-Star team this year at Cincinnati July 14 for the 14th time.

Kaline, hampered by injuries the last two seasons, was omitted from the list of 48 AL players nominated Thursday by managers and players.

The fans' vote on the candidates will determine the actual selections. There is an empty space for write-in choices, on the ballot and Kaline is counting on sufficient write-ins of his name to make the team.

"It could happen," said Kaline, who is hitting .330 so far this season. "Any way you make it is an honor, but if people went to all that trouble of write-ins maybe it would be more of an honor."

Among the 48 are several who played for the AL All-Stars a year ago. They include Rod Carew of Minnesota, Reggie Jackson of Oakland, Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, Frank Howard of Washington, Boog Powell of Baltimore, Jim Freehan of Detroit and Bill Fregosi of California.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who announced the candidates, said the National League nominees would be announced later. The Gillette Company is distributing the ballots through retail outlets. Voting starts May 30 and ends June 28.

The American League nominees are:

- First base—Norm Cash, Detroit; Mike Epstein, Washington; Tony Horton, Cleveland; Boog Powell, Baltimore; Rich Reese, Minnesota; George Scott, Boston.
- Second base—Mike Andrews, Boston; Rod Carew, Minnesota; Dick Green, Oakland; Tommy Harper, Milwaukee; Dave Johnson, Baltimore; Dick McAuliffe, Detroit.
- Shortstop—Luis Aparicio, Chicago; Mark Belanger, Baltimore; Bert Campaneris, Oakland; Leo Cardenas, Minnesota; Jim Fregosi, California; Rico Petrocelli, Boston.
- Third base—Sal Bando, Oakland; Harmon Killebrew, Minnesota; Ken McMullen, California; Bill Melton, Chicago; Brooks Robinson, Baltimore; Aurelio Rodriguez, Washington.
- Catcher—Joe Azcue, California; Bill Freehan, Detroit; Elrod Hendricks, Baltimore; Duane Josephson, Chicago; Duke Mitterwald, Minnesota; Duke Sims, Cleveland.

Rutledge Selects Team For National Tourney

Nieto, Tommy Jackson, Willie Breland and Teddy Griffin.

The Hawks depart June 5 for the tournament, which takes place over the spacious Miami Lakes course June 9-13. Par is 72.

Rutledge said the locals hope to get in a practice round or two over the exacting course before play officially begins.

The HC team will be quartered at the Miami Lakes Inn while in Florida. The tournament will be on 72 holes.

The Hawks qualified for the tournament a year ago by finishing among the top 11 teams.

Odesa College, recently crowned champion of the Western Conference, is entered and is one of the favorites in the event.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Until the September, 1968, fight between Stanley Ketchel and Billy Papke in Los Angeles, professional pugilists followed a practice of meeting in center-ring after the opening gong, shaking hands very solemnly and then stepping back as if to survey the task at hand — before trying to unload their thunderbolts.

Papke, who lusted for Ketchel's middleweight champion after having lost a ten-round decision to Stan two years before, changed all that.

What he successfully executed in the ring that day has sometimes been called 'the dirtiest trick in ring history.'

Papke stopped Ketchel in 12 rounds on that occasion but it was the way he started his chore, not the way he finished, that put Ketchel on Queer Street for a while.

As the bell rang, Ketchel went out for the hand-shaking ritual. As he did, he left himself wholly unprotected and gave Papke the opportunity for which he had long planned: Billy barreled in and, with his entire body back of the punch, delivered a left hook to Stanley's chin, then followed immediately with a right that had the impact of a mule's kick.

After that, no one knew what kept Ketchel erect. Maybe it was instinct. Perhaps it was because he was built of iron. Between rounds, Ketchel's seconds worked over him, trying desperately to bring him out of his comatose state. Nothing worked. Something within Stan, however, kept urging him off his stool and forcing him back to the center of the ring, where a sneering Papke waited with more TNT.

Ketchel hit the deck numerous times but kept getting up. Papke compounded the carnage until the police leaped in the ring and stopped the slaughter.

Ketchel's mind cleared later that night, after which he was told what happened. He vowed immediately to regain his crown and teach Papke a lesson he would remember to his dying day.

Stan knew Papke couldn't be lured back into a ring with a simple challenge, so he went to the newspapers with a story of lavish praise for Papke's talents. He never breathed a word about the play Billy had used to bring Ketchel's house crashing about his ears.

Stanley even intimated he wanted no part of Papke again, although he said he would continue his career in the ring. Billy undoubtedly read the items and gained the impression — as Ketchel had hoped he would — that Stan was afraid of him. Ultimately, Papke began to noise it about what a soft touch Ketchel had been for him.

In due time, Ketchel approached a friend in San Francisco and talked him into seeking out a promoter and have him bid on a return bout between the men. Ketchel not only proposed that the promoter offer Billy big money but said he would make up what ever loss the promoter might suffer.

The scheme worked. The offer to Papke proved irresistible. The fight was booked for Nov. 26, 1968, in San Francisco and every seat in the house was occupied when the boxers came down the aisles.

Stan had just turned 21 and was in his prime when the bout took place. There was no hand-shaking in the ring that night. From the first bell, Ketchel fought like a man possessed. He opened up with a succession of blows to Papke's face and body but resisted the urge to smash Billy's chin or hit him over the heart. His reasons quickly became evident.

There may have been fights before or since where men took more terrible beatings than Papke did on that occasion, but observers would doubt such claims. As early as the third round, Ketchel had crushed Papke's face into a crimson mask.

When it appears Billy would go down because of agony and weakness, Ketchel would either back off or clinch in order to keep Papke on his feet. Once Papke had steadied himself, Ketchel would go to work again.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks have the home court—and Willis Reed back in sneakers—tonight in the sudden-death seventh game of the National Basketball Association title playoffs with Los Angeles.

Long-suffering Knicks fans who have waited patiently for their first championship will no doubt pump some adrenalin into their heroes with tireless exhortations.

But—as the Knicks' Cazzie Russell said earlier in the playoffs—"They don't put the ball in the hole for you."

That's where Reed comes in. Importance of the Knicks' ace center was graphically demonstrated by Wednesday night's 135-113 loss to the Lakers. While Reed watched from the bench with a bruised right hip, Los Angeles' Wilt Chamberlain ate the Knicks alive with 45 points and 27 rebounds as the Lakers tied the series at 3-3.

It's true New York won the fifth game Monday night at Madison Square Garden after Reed got hurt in the first quarter, but it was a super team effort and quick change of style that baffled Los Angeles. On Wednesday night, the Lakers had time to adjust.

So the arduous season—with its seemingly never-ending crop of playoff games—comes down to one game. And for the Knicks, it hinges on a rectus femoris muscle, the one that Reed hurt.

The 6-foot-10, 235-pound Reed will play, but how effective he will be, is the big question mark.

Team doctors have been putting him through the most sophisticated healing processes. They've run him through a steam room, an ice plunge and a standup whirlpool.

The Hawks put more daylight between them and the rest of the American Little League teams by winning a 9-2 verdict over the Cabots Thursday night.

The Hawks have now won five games in a row. The Cabots retreated to a 2-3 record.

Jimmy Shanks banged out a home run and a single for the Hawks while D. Wheeler unloaded for four hits. In all, the Hawks had 13 safeties.

Shanks and Pat Carroll divided time on the mound for the Hawks, surrendering only five hits between them.

Clan's Head Tries Beast In Wrestling Headliner

The head of the clan, Dory Funk Sr., will try to make The Beast pay for his sins in a wrestling match scheduled by promoter Don Slatton in the Municipal Auditorium this evening.

The Beast has been especially hard on the Funk boys in the recent past, as well as The Lawman and other ring principals. Dory Sr., obviously intends to do something about it by cutting The Beast down to size.

The last time a wrestling show as held here (back in April), The Lawman had to be carried out of the ring after receiving two deadly pile drivers from The Beast.

Dory Sr., is returning to Big Spring after a lengthy absence. He is the father of World Champion Dory Funk Jr., as well as Terry Funk.

The special event tonight will pit a Kodiak bear named Ben The Brute against Terry Funk, Ben The Brute, when he comes up off all fours, stands eight feet and weighs 750 pounds. Not many humans want to tackle him but Terry insists he would like to feast on bear meat.

Ben The Brute is the only Kodiak bear in the world who has been trained well enough to wrestle and he loses less than seldom. And he knows what it's all about, having appeared in more than 2,000 matches.

DORY FUNK SR.

obvious Brutus isn't either — birds of a feather and all that, you know.

The Lawman has recovered well enough to be matched in the opening event against Nick Adams.

The show gets on the road at 8:30 p.m. (Ringside) to $1.50 (general admission) to $1 (children under 12).

Alvarez Shines In Cats' Win

Two runs in the fifth inning enabled the undefeated Cats to come from behind and beat the Lions, 7-6, in Texas Little League play Thursday night.

Alvarez pitched the win and helped his own cause with a home run. The Cats are 5-0 in the standings while the Lions are 1-4.

Rodriguez had three safeties for the losers.

Webb Books 2 Fem Contests

The Southern Belles boxed in the Brittanians, 18-3, in a women's softball game played at Webb AFB last weekend.

Ruth Schmidt of the Belles unloaded for a home run, as did Judy Adams of the Brittanians. It was Judy's second round tripper of the year.

Jean Kite pitched the win. In the second game of the twin bill, the Sand Dusters measured the Pink Panthers, 8-2-6. Annie Newman accounted for two of the winners' runs with four-masters.

Juna Doyle, Judy Hoosier and Brenda Siraton each had a homer for the Sand Dusters. Carolyn Holiday blasted one out for the Pink Panthers.

Winning pitcher in the second contest was Peggy Purgason. The four teams play again Sunday afternoon at Webb, with the first game down for 2 p.m. The pair-offs will send the Southern Belles against the Pink Panthers and the Brittanians against the Sand Dusters.

Robinson's Blast Flattens Royals

By The Associated Press Please repeat after me: Drabowsky: It's never over until the last man is out... It's never over until the last man is out. Drabowsky and his Kansas City mates figured they had finally beaten Baltimore, but couldn't get the last out Thursday night. Frank Robinson clouted a two-out, three-run homer off reliever Drabowsky's first serve to give the Orioles a dramatic 7-6 victory, their 17th straight over the Royals. The last and only time the expansion Royals beat Baltimore was in their first meeting last year. The Orioles then won 11 in a row last year and the first six this season. "Robinson's homer was disturbing, but I should've retired one of the other batters and not let that big guy get up there," said Drabowsky, who issued walks to pinch hitters Terry Crowley and Merv Rettenmund before Robinson's shot. In other American League games, Milwaukee bounced Boston 5-1 behind Denny Walton's hitting; Minnesota shut out a late rally by Detroit to beat the Tigers 9-6; Roy White's two homers powered New York over Oakland 7-3 and California crushed Washington 8-0. Robinson's homer erased a 6-4 Royal lead built on Bob Oliver's four RBI. "We've been losing a lot of games going into the late innings," said Kansas City Manager Charlie Metro. "Last year, the club was beaten before it got that far, so maybe that's improvement."

Schoolboy Athletes Converge On Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — Football fans as well as track buffs—should be able to gauge the speed and strength of several college prospects at the state schoolboy track meet today and Saturday. National champion Texas, for example, has six football recruits who also are good enough in track to make the state meet, and everyone will be watching Dallas Lincoln's Rufus Shaw and Joe and Gene Pouncy, who have accepted scholarships to SMU. Team track championships in Conference AA and AAA were scheduled to be decided tonight, and competition for titles in Conferences B, A and AAAA will finish the meet Saturday. Future Longhorns at the meet include weightman Glenn Gaspard, an all-around athlete from East Chambers; Austin discus thrower Mark Chalmers, who is also a big tackle; and backs Rex Goodson of Longview Pine Tree, a good long jumper; and Lonnie Bennett of Bonham; Jim Moore of Clarendon; and Cole Fraley of Borger, all backs who are entered in the sprints. Moore, an all-state quarterback who has run the 100-yard dash in 9.6, and Fraley, with a 21.4 in the 220, have good speed, but they do not compare with the Pouncy brothers who run around 8.4 in the 100 and 21 flat in the 220. They will team with Shaw and John Delley in an attempt to break Lincoln's national 440-yard relay record of 40.7, set last year. Lincoln's strongest challenger for the AAAA, or big school, championship appears to be Austin Anderson, which will run against Lincoln in the 440 and mile relays. Gene Pouncy and Anderson's Herman Alexander also are entered in the 100, and Joe Pouncy will try to add on points in the 220, where Anderson does not have an entry. Lubbock Estacado, Gainesville, Falfurrias, Wharton, Dickinson and Andrews have good point potential in Conference AAA, but sophomore J.T. Hollins of McKinney could score 30 points by himself. The 6-foot 150-pounder, who tallied 45 points in the district meet, qualified for state in the 100, 200 and long jump, where he is the defending champion. He is McKinney's only entry. Ranked as the best in AA are Caldwell, Crosby, Crane and Karnes City. Munday, Mart and Van Vleck look strong in Conference A. Celina, the 1969 champion in B, should win again as it has two relay teams and seven individual entries, the most of any school in the meet.

Roy New Clubs 2 Homers As Morton's Triumphs

Roy New drove in five runs with two four-masters in leading Morton's Foods to a 21-1 City Softball league victory over Neel's Transfer in Comanche Trail Park Thursday night. The second contest was much closer. Bill Reed's Insurance scored runs in each of the first two innings and went on to edge the Merchants, 3-1. Billy Roger and Cotton Mize divided time on the pitching rubber for Morton's, limiting Neel's to two hits between them. Randy Smith scored Neel's only run in the second after singling and moving up on a bobble.

Stingrays Slam Mustangs, 18-3

Runs in every inning, capped by a nine-tally outburst in the fourth, enabled the Stingrays to subdue the Mustangs, 18-3, in American Minor League competition Thursday. Bobby Williams had two of the winners' five hits. Dennis had two blows for the Ponies. Evans was the winning pitcher.

Cards Record 5th Victory

The Cardinals rolled to an easy victory over the Lions in National Little League play here Thursday evening. Final score was 17-2. The win was the fifth without a reversal for the Cards and Dick Battle made it easy by pitching a four-hitter. Jody Mathews clubbed a home run for the winners, one of three hits he had during the evening. Wade Cobb and Battle also had three safeties for the winners. Joe Thomasson accounted for two of the losers' safeties.

MANAGER WARNS MOVIEGOERS
Playboy Exposes 'Hush-Hush' Story
From Bold and Brash Adult Movie
(X) RATED FILM BANS MINORS
A daring 12-page exposure by Playboy Magazine of the subject matter in "All The Loving Couples" proved a shocking experience for those who read the article or saw the startling, unbelievable transition to the screen.
Audiences viewing "All The Loving Couples" were jolted by the boldest movie scenes and frank words ever dared on any screen.
This movie, a true-life story about real people—telling of personal and confidential desires—is based on a startling, hush-hush trend spreading rapidly throughout this country, involving people from all walks of life, and all age groups.
"Our desire to protect young people and adults with hangups and our respect for prevailing community standards and established advertising ethics, prohibits the display in our advertising of any actual scenes or any spoken words from this movie," the theatre manager emphasized.
"People easily offended, embarrassed, or those with hangups definitely should not see 'All The Loving Couples,'" the manager cautioned.
"For them," the manager warned, "this movie will be a shattering emotional experience!"

IN DRIVE TO CRACK DRUG CONSPIRACIES
Pay Informer More Than $50,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government says it may, in some cases, pay an informer more than $50,000 in its drive to crack high-level illegal drug supply conspiracies.
John E. Ingersoll told of the high price of information to a somewhat skeptical House appropriations subcommittee considering a $439,000 "informer fund" request for his Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.
"In order to successfully penetrate these high-level conspiracies we need the assistance of high-level confidential informants," Director Ingersoll testified last March. The closed-door transcript was made public today.
"This cooperation does not come cheaply," he went on. "In one case, for example, a payment to an individual may exceed $50,000 for information."
Ingersoll did not get more specific but he said the money request also takes into account protection of informants.

The $439,000 includes $250,000 for emergency expenses authorized by the attorney general which would be accounted for solely on his certificate.
But subcommittee Chairman John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., said the quarter million dollars is 3½ times as much as the FBI has for this same purpose, "and they are doing business with bank robbers, kidnapers, murderers, et cetera, et cetera."
Rooney also told Ingersoll his bureau's over-all budget request breaks down to about $18,600 per arrest forecast for the next fiscal year.
"I think what we are trying to do is to get up into the higher echelons of the traffic," Ingersoll responded when asked by Rooney to justify the cost.
"You said that a year ago," Rooney replied. "It does not look as though you are getting anywhere when you will have only 1,875 arrests as compared with 4,192 last year. Is that a fair question?"
"Many of these 4,192 arrests last year were of a smaller scale than the 1,875," Ingersoll replied. "I think we will be in a position to demonstrate to you that the fewer arrests will be of more significant traffickers, people who deal in larger quantities and at the wholesale level and the distribution level, and, therefore, we will be able to remove more of the drugs from the traffic."

The director testified that more than 200 individual drug distribution systems have been identified throughout the world, with nine major groups selected as the bureau's primary targets.
"We estimate that these nine major systems supply approximately 80 per cent of the heroin, almost 100 per cent of the cocaine, tons of marijuana, and millions of dosage units of dangerous drugs being used in the United States today," Ingersoll said.

Utz Is Webb's Nominee For Airman Of The Year

M. Sgt. Gordon Utz, 3560th Field Maintenance Squadron at Webb AFB, has recently been selected as Webb's nominee for the Air Training Command Airman of the Year for 1970.
According to Lt. Col. Thomas D'floure, chief of maintenance, Sgt. Utz was selected because of his "outstanding ability to accomplish the most difficult assignments, technical knowledge through off-duty study of available material, and his concern for his fellow man."
Sgt. Utz is the noncommissioned officer in charge of the fabrication section machine shop of FMS. His job involves the supervision of manufacturing and repair operations, utilizing various equipment and materials. Parts manufactured or repaired are used in support of T-37 trainer and T-38 Talon aircraft and associated aerospace ground equipment.
The native of San Antonio began his military career in the Army in November, 1940. After basic training at Ft. Bliss, he was assigned to Headquarters and Service Troop, 124th Cavalry. After assignment to the 124th, he was subsequently transferred to the 475th Infantry Division during 1942.
He served with this unit which saw action in Central Burma, India and China. After discharge from the Army, Sgt. Utz enlisted in the Air Force in 1956 and has had assignments at Randolph AFB, Okinawa, Korea, Oxnard AFB, Calif., Richards Gebaur AFB, Mo., and Johnson Island.

W. E. Elliott, a native of Petersburg near Lubbock, has assumed duties as manager of the Settles Hotel.
John Polischak, former Settles manager, is now on vacation in Canada before moving to the West Coast for new employment there.
This is Elliott's first position in the hotel business. Before attending hotel management school he was employed in several businesses in public service.
He and his wife, Ella, have been living in Panhandle near Amarillo and will soon establish residence in the manager's quarters at the Settles. They have two girls and one boy, all grown.

During 1968 he received a safety award from the 10th Aerospace Defense Group. While stationed here, he received the Outstanding Airman Award for 1969.
He and his wife, the former Miss Virginia Staner from Baytown, have two children and two grandchildren.
