CHAIRMAN OF FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM WARNS:

Wage And Price Lid May Be Necessary Temporarily

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — The chairman of the Federal Reserve System said today a policy approaching wage and price control may be necessary temporarily.

Arthur F. Burns told the 17th annual monetary conference of the American Bankers Association: "We should not close our minds to the possibility that an incomes policy, provided it stopped well short of direct price and wage controls and was used merely as a supplement to over-all fiscal and monetary measures, might speed us through this transition period of cost push inflation."

Cost push inflation is caused by continuing high cost of labor and materials rather than excessive consumer and business demands.

Burns said government intervention to control excessive wage and price costs would be "completely impractical" over a long period. He conceded that such a policy also might not have a lasting effect on the structure of costs and prices if its use was restricted to a transitional period.

Burns' remarks were his strongest public statement on the subject to date.

He also said it was of fundamental importance that the government's taxing and spending programs and work of the money supply work hand in hand in the months ahead.

"If the tempo of economic activity picks up later this year, as may now be reasonably anticipated, the task of insuring that this recovery does not become too brisk—thereby threatening a re-emergence of excessive demand—should not fall on monetary policy alone," he told the European, Canadian and American bankers. "Fiscal policy must do its share."

Burns said he believed the prospects for a return to reasonable price stability are brighter than it is generally recognized.

"The excess demand that bedeviled our economy during the past four of five years has been eliminated," he said. "After a long period of overheating, the first signs of moderation in price behavior, though halting and slow, have begun to appear."

Burns said it seemed probable that economic recovery as it develops, will proceed satisfactorily and yet not strain the nation's physical capacities.

"By applying sensible monetary and fiscal policies, we can check the inflationary tendencies that emanate from the pursuit of our social and economic goals," Burns said.

Pact Okayed By Teamsters

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new three-year contract covering more than 425,000 Teamsters has been approved by a wide margin of the union membership, according to an informed source.

Although exact figures were not available, the contract was carried by a large vote, the source said, indicating a formal union announcement was expected today.

The mail ballots were counted over the weekend, two weeks after they were sent out to rank and file, and more than six weeks after the old contract expired at March 31.

In spite of the ratification report, several thousand Teamsters continued their strikes in Los Angeles and Chicago, where they are seeking higher wages than the national pact specified.

And there was no indication of how steelworkers in five states would be affected. Some 12,000 drivers have sought autonomy from the Teamsters union and as a result, their votes were to be counted separately from other drivers.

The national settlement provides for a 50 cent hourly wage increase over the first year, another 25 cents July 1, 1971, and 35 cents more July 1, 1972.

The hourly hike applies to about 325,000 city truck drivers who have been earning an average of $4 an hour.

In addition, some 100,000 long haul drivers will have their mileage rates raised 2 1/4 cents per mile from the current 11 to 14 cents a mile. They now average an estimated $13,000 a year.

The new contract also includes an increase of $2 per week in company-paid pension benefits and $2 per week in health and welfare benefits. Half of the increases are due this year and the other half on July 1, 1972.

The 40,000 Chicago wildcat strikers and 13,000 Los Angeles dissidents who want another 55 cents an hour, along with a few others, were the only ones remaining off the job. Most truckers had returned to work shortly after the tentative contract agreement was announced April 2, although there were brief wildcat strikes.

In Cleveland and St. Louis, however, drivers extended their strikes into early May. The Cleveland walkout finally ended May 4 after members voted to return to their jobs.

Violence that marked the Cleveland strike had brought on a callup of 3,000 National Guardsmen to protect men who continued to work. The final settlement was agreed to on the condition there would be no reprisals for the strike.

In St. Louis, the 9,500 members of Local 600 went back to work May 7 in the face of a contempt of court citation.

Foreign Trade Hearings Open

WASHINGTON (AP) — Limits on imports of foreign goods were variously described today as the salvation of threatened U.S. businesses and the opening guns in a destructive trade war.

The expected sharp split among witnesses appeared as the House Ways and Means Committee opened its foreign trade hearings for at least two weeks' testimony by spokesmen for private economic interests. Government witnesses, opposing quotas, were heard last week.

Typical of the opponents of legislation for limits on imports of textiles and footwear was Gardner Ackley, who headed President Lyndon B. Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers.

"We would lose both as consumers and as producers," he said. "The bill would directly raise prices for shoes and for textiles."

Now a professor at the University of Michigan, the Ackley spoke for the American Retail Federation.

But a long-time critic of the trade policy, O. R. Strackbein, president of the Nation-Wide Committee on Import-Export policy, said the protection of import limits should not be confined to textiles and shoes.

"We feel that ceilings in imports of products offer the most suitable device to prevent imports from galloping roughshod through our market and disrupting production and employment, and to offer imports a fair share of our markets without creating a straitjacket," Strackbein said.

Congressmen spent the past week telling administration officials the public is disappointed in the trade program and wants imports curbed.

The congressional message apparently got through. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, joining in a plea for more time for a final negotiating effort with Japan and others for voluntary limits, told the committee: "I agree with you that there comes a point where maybe we have to legislate trade barriers. We hope we haven't reached that point yet."

Nonetheless, the House Ways and Means Committee, forum for the most critical review of the trade program in years, is expected to approve legislation for import quotas on textiles and footwear—a sharp break in policy. Its chances of passage by the House rate high.

Plans For Intech Building To Be Ready By May 25

Plans and specifications for the new Intech building are being finalized and should be available to all local sub-contractors and suppliers by May 25, at the contractor's field office, it was announced today by officials of the Big Spring Industrial Foundation.

The field office is at the new industrial site located three blocks north of US 80 West, at the extension of Lorilla Street.

Foundation directors said they urge all local sub-contractors and suppliers who wish to consider electrical, plumbing, air conditioning and other specialty work to submit bids if they desire.

Local labor is to be used wherever possible on the project, and notice will be published in The Herald on when and where to apply.

The general construction will be handled by Tommy Service, representing Stran-Steel Buildings. W. D. Caldwell's crews already are at work on site preparation.

Intech, manufacturer of plastic egg cartons and meat trays, will occupy a building covering 40,000 square feet of manufacturing space plus 3,600 square feet of office space. The Foundation is building the structure, and Intech has signed a lease on it.

Teens Turning Down Politics Of Street

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of the nation's young, turning their backs—at least for the moment—on the politics of the street, have plunged into the democratic process in search for an end to their frustrations.

Many thousands of students, their teachers and their friends have thronged Washington since U.S. troops entered Cambodia and four Kent State University students were killed by Ohio National Guardsmen.

Some came to demonstrate in the streets, but a significant number were taking part in their first experience in American politics, hoping it would be the answer.

"Frustration has built up to where it must have an outlet," said David Feffer, a student at the University of North Carolina. "And if political involvement can let it out, it may be the best way to solve our problems."

"It is the best hope we have," said Rep. Alhard K. Lowenstein, D-N.Y., who has been campaigning to keep student dissent within the democratic system. "God willing, it will change the country."

The youngsters, hair cut short and dressed in their Sunday best, have gone calling on their congressmen, imploring, listening, taking notes and picking up the fine points of lobbying.

On the basis of what they are learning about the lawmakers, they plan to work in the upcoming congressional elections to defeat those who aren't giving the right answers.

"If this doesn't work, I don't know what will happen," a somber young man said.

"They will become disillusioned," answered a leader of the Student Mobilization Committee, which is committed to the tactics of nonviolent confrontation. "And they will look for other alternatives."

But for the moment, great numbers of young people, raising their voices for the first time, are trying for reform within the bounds of work, discussion and respect.

These new political dissenters are groping, uncertain and essentially leaderless. Their only cohesion is an expressed concern to stop the war and, if possible, preserve the democratic system.

Why a political approach rather than street tactics?

"Because that's the right one in a democracy, isn't it?" one student said. "We think democracy can still work."

"You can get people to a rally, but those who do are probably already on your side. We're concentrating on changing people's minds, and that means political work," another observed.

Ron Young, coordinator of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, which organized giant demonstrations here Nov. 15 and May 9, rejects the political approach.

"Our basic sense," said Young, "is that the direction which organizers need to turn during the present crisis is toward the people rather than toward the Congress."

"I just don't think people are going to put all their faith in electoral kinds of things," said Charles Palmer, president of the National Student Association, who like Young favors the strike, draft resistance and similar methods.

However, the vast majority of the newcomers are leaning to the peaceful process.

The biggest problem is going to be keeping up the momentum.

"What we're demanding is a far higher level of commitment than you usually see among students," said Jeff Rudman, organizer of a political movement at Columbia University.

"It's not fun and it's not social," Rudman said. "We haven't had a single party. We've kept kids here till maddening hours of the night. Kids standing on street corners for six hours at a stretch don't consider that fun."

"That's the only way we can effectively oppose the system," said a college junior with determination gripping his voice, "to elect our candidates."

Redistricting Plan Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court approved today New York's statewide congressional redistricting plan.

The 1969 state apportionment law had been attacked as unconstitutional gerrymandering by the Republican-controlled legislature. The attack was brought by David I. Wells, a political scientist.

The court, ruling six weeks after Wells had appealed, affirmed the judgment of a three-judge federal court in New York City that the plan is constitutional.

The decision came after the UC Senate overwhelmingly agreed Sunday night to a request by the black faculty and student groups to have the school remain closed for the two weeks left in the current term as a memorial to two students slain Friday at Jackson State College in Jackson, Miss.

The shutdown will affect 16,500 students on the day campus. The evening college and off-campus branches, however, will reopen next Monday.

The Tuesday concert will include the entire choral department, including the junior high school singers. The concert begins at 8 p.m., and duets are $1.25 for adults, 75 cents for students, and Choir Boosters will be admitted free.

BEGINS TUESDAY

March Across Georgia

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy says a 100-mile march across Georgia to protest the slaying of six Negro men during racial violence here will begin Tuesday.

Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), announced plans for the march — from Perry in central Georgia to Atlanta — here Sunday as funeral services were held for five of the six victims.

Abernathy, who spoke for about 15 minutes at the final rites for 20-year-old Sammy McCullough, said the march would be led by an old farm wagon, pulled by two mules and carrying six empty coffins.

The mule-drawn wagon was the symbol for the SCLC's 1968 Poor People's March on Washington. And in the funeral procession of the organization's first president, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the coffin was carried on a mule-drawn wagon.

Abernathy said the walk from Perry, site of other recent racial demonstrations, would be climaxed Saturday in Atlanta with a rally and a march on the state capitol.

He said the Atlanta march and rally would focus on the Augusta violence, the shooting deaths of two young Negroes fired on by police on the campus of Mississippi's Jackson State college and the deaths of four students in a confrontation with National Guardsmen at Kent State University in Ohio.

Collision In Strait

GIBRALTAR (AP) — The Italian liner Raffaello and the Norwegian tanker Cyahoga collided in the Strait of Gibraltar today. Both ships put into Gibraltar to assess the damage.

A spokesman reported later the damage to the 45,933-ton liner was not serious. The vessel was en route from Italy to New York. The tanker had just left Gibraltar after a refueling stop.

Harbor officials said there apparently were no casualties.

There were 800 passengers and 650 crewmen aboard the liner, which has a damaged bow and hull.

The tanker also put into harbor here. Damage was reported to her decks.

The weather was reported to be good at the time of the accident.

Officials said the Raffaello was expected to be in harbor about a week for repairs.

The liner sailed from Genoa Friday, after a 24-hour delay caused by a crew strike.

'Fairness Doctrine'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has proposed spelling out the duties of broadcasters in seeking to present conflicting views on controversial subjects, under its "fairness doctrine."

The commission also proposed rules requiring broadcasters to make it clear to the public when broadcast material serves to "plug"—that is, to promote—a specific financial interest.

Both actions were released Friday.

The "fairness doctrine" is a long-standing policy which requires broadcasters who present one side of a controversial issue to provide an opportunity for presentation of conflicting views as well.

Record Lows In Alabama

By The Associated Press

The mercury plunged to record lows early today from Ohio to the Middle Atlantic states while the Southwest recovered from readings that topped the 100 degree mark Sunday.

A mass of arctic air sent temperatures tumbling to new minimums from the Great Lakes eastward to the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama. Record lows for the date were 35 at Toledo, Ohio, 40 at Raleigh and 42 at Charlotte in North Carolina and 47 at Huntsville and Birmingham in Alabama.

Readings as high as 112 were recorded Sunday in the heart of the Far Southwest, which baked under the hottest weather of the season.

Tranquil weather prevailed across most of the country today except for thundershowers which washed the Eastern Seaboard, the Gulf and sections of the Northern states.

OPERATIONS IN SOUTH VIET HALTED FOR 24 HOURS GIs Capture Part Of COSVN

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese offensive operations across South Vietnam were ordered halted today for 24 hours, but 35,000 allied troops pushed ahead with drives inside Cambodia.

The cease-fire declared by the Saigon government went into effect at noon in observance of the anniversary of Buddha's birthday. But allied forces in Cambodia were not affected and neither were artillery bases in Vietnam supporting the operations in Cambodia.

There was no indication from the Viet Cong whether they would go along with the cease-fire.

equipment in a complex of bunkers and buildings near the Cambodian town of Mimot, in the same general area as the find reported by American officers said there was a "definite possibility" it might have been a communications training center for COSVN.

Davison said his forces have some pretty damned good leads, and I think we're confident that they're going to be productive." Five Americans were killed in fighting Sunday and 14 wounded as U.S. forces probed into the unexplored areas that Davison described as "the logistics reservoir" feeding three different trail networks into South Vietnam.

VERY SENSITIVE

The three-star general said in the past few days the enemy "is beginning to show evidences of sort of getting things in hand and beginning to react on a more organized and orderly basis."

"We've had several attacks on some of our fire bases that give every evidence of being the result of reconnaissance, planning and then putting in the attack," he said. "In the area where we're experiencing this right now, I think the enemy is very sensitive about our being there, and I suspect that the reason he's very sensitive is that there's something in there he wants to protect."

The area is more than 100 miles north of Saigon and is across the border from the South Vietnamese provincial capital of Song Be.

Elsewhere—

The U.S. Command's top man for pacification and civil operations, William E. Colby, reported that the South Vietnamese government is processing some 47,000 refugees from Cambodia, most of them ethnic Vietnamese who fled because they feared persecution from the Cambodians or were driven out by the military operations. He said another 20,000 to 30,000 are expected.

20-MILE THRUST

One new 20-mile thrust into southern Cambodia took 10,000 South Vietnamese troops and 200 American advisers to the town of Takeo, 40 miles southeast of Phnom Penh. Newsmen said Cambodian paratroopers had retaken the town a week ago, but the South Vietnamese claimed 211 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed during their drive.

HOME COMING AMID ELECTION SPECULATION — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his wife, Mary, arrive back at their No. 10 Downing Street residence in London Monday amid speculation over the date of the general election in Britain. They came back from their official residence at Chequers, England.

20-MILE THRUST

READ MAIL

Lt. Gen. Michael S. Davison, commander of the 10,000 U.S. troops operating in Cambodia along a 230-mile stretch of the border with Vietnam, said his forces had covered only about 30 per cent of the total area assigned them since the first American thrust across the border May 1.

147 KILLED

Colby said the refugees include 2,800 ethnic Cambodians, most of them from towns overrun by American troops, and they would be returned to their homes "as soon as feasible."

Three Drown In Gravel Pit

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Three Dallas fishermen drowned in a gravel pit on the city's north side Sunday when their boat suddenly nosed downward and sank.

The victims were Roosevelt Abram, 48; Perry Thomas Jefferson, 55, and R.C. Hollis, 23.

Witnesses said the men were riding in the small boat about 100 feet from shore when the boat suddenly dipped and started sinking. Two men jumped from the boat and tried to swim to shore and the third stayed with the boat.

A two-man rescue boat and three fire department divers recovered the bodies after a two-hour search.

Fire Chief B.W. Brown said the boat apparently was overloaded. He said the three men were in a 10-foot aluminum boat, recommended for two persons.

Couple Back From Lubbock

Lt. and Mrs. Joseph Saint, of the Salvation Army Post here, returned from Lubbock Friday, where they had gone a few hours after the tornado struck that city.

They helped serve some 7,000 meals per day from the mobile units, which does not include the food served from the stationary facilities. Mrs. Saint was in charge of the food preparation at the Salvation Army post, at Seventeenth and Avenue K. The storm ripped the roof from the building, and she said the volunteers worked by candlelight. When it rained, the working quarters were unprotected.

Sandwiches and coffee were served initially, and hot food was prepared later. Travis Hart carried 1,700 sandwiches one day and 2,000 another day. Lt. Saint said. Hart also carried a load of water to the stricken city.

Saint said there are 4,000 homeless in the city and the Salvation Army is helping them get relocated. He said there will be no fund drive, but persons wishing to help can make food gifts to the Salvation Army here, which will be taken to Lubbock Wednesday.

Both Lt. and Mrs. Saint were impressed with the work done by the young people of the city, who pitched in to help those who were homeless and without food.

BRITISH ELECTION CALL SLATED TODAY

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson is expected to issue a call today for Britain's next general election, and June 18 is the predicted date.

Wilson discussed election strategy with the Labor party executive and his cabinet for six hours Sunday, touching off widespread speculation that the election announcement was imminent.

In line with tradition, Wilson was expected to call on Queen Elizabeth II at Buckingham Palace during the afternoon to inform her of his decision, then summon the opposition leader, Edward Heath of the Conservative party, to No. 10 Downing St.

Heath cancelled his appointments to await the call.

Political correspondents of 10 nationally circulated newspapers agreed today that a June 18 election was almost certain.

British parliaments are elected for five years, but the prime minister can call for a new electoral mandate any time. Although the term of the current House of Commons does not expire until next May, the Labor government is ahead in public opinion polls for the first time in almost four years, and Wilson has been under strong pressure from his party's members in Commons to seize the advantage before summer.

Five recent soundings put Labor a Gallup Poll May 12 that gave Labor a 7.5 per cent lead over the Conservatives—49 to 41.5 per cent, and a swing of 12 per cent in a month.

Wilson also has been pressed to get the election out of the way before talks open June 30 or Britain's third application to join the European Common Market. Opinion polls show some 65 per cent of the British voters oppose joining the European union, largely from fear of higher food prices. Although both the Labor and Conservative parties favor joining the market, there is concern among the Laborites that the government would be at a disadvantage in an election campaign during the negotiations because it would be saddled with the official position.

After leading his party to victory in 1964 and 1966, Wilson will be seeking an unprecedented third term, something no Labor government and no modern British prime minister has ever accomplished.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Rose Kennedy, herself the mother of a retarded child, has dedicated the $10 million Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy Center for Research in Mental Retardation and Human Development in the Bronx.

At the ceremony Sunday, Mrs. Kennedy said, "I remember the tears of frustration" caused by the realization that her daughter Rosemary was not normal.

SERVING FROM MOBILE CANTEEN — The Salvation Army mobile food units helped serve food to the homeless in the aftermath of the tornado that swept through Lubbock a week ago. Lt. and Mrs. Joseph Saint returned here Friday after going there to help.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I both work, but in different fields. I have always made more money than he has, but it goes into a common pot and there is no "mine" and "thine."

I was recently offered a chance for promotion with a substantial increase in money, but it would mean moving to another city. My question: Should I ask my husband to leave his job so I can accept this promotion? He wouldn't have any trouble getting lined up in another job, but it would mean giving up his seniority where he is, plus some other accumulated benefits. Abby, every day husbands ask wives to give up good jobs and move to strange cities so they (the husbands) can accept promotions. But how about a wife asking her husband to move so SHE can accept a promotion?

My husband is a good man, but he is very sensitive, and I wouldn't want to hurt his masculine pride. We have no children and are both working toward retirement. Above all, I want this marriage to last as it's the second time around for both of us and we really love each other.

NAMELESS, U.S.A.

DEAR NAMELESS: Your concern for your husband's masculine pride shows you to be a very considerate and intelligent woman. Don't ASK him to make the move. Tell him about the offer, observe his reaction and you'll have your answer.

DEAR ABBY: I have vowed that never again will I say anything about a fat child in the presence of the child. Many times I've said, "Oh, what a cute little 'fattie' — how fat and healthy she looks!" I didn't

A LOVELIER YOU New Summer Styles Abound In Cotton

By MARY SUE MILLER
May 1 was once the traditional date to break out in a cotton. These days, of course, we dress in cottons and cotton blends the year around. Nevertheless summer wardrobes have a special charm and distinction.

In fact new cottons, by the yard or ready-to-wear, have the individuality of a woman herself. And you can really make a thing of it if you've a mind. All you do is put two and two together — select the cottons that match up with your personality.

Are you a romantic? Then your name is on airy voiles in bonbon colors and prints; or sheer batistes doctored with flowered ribbon strips.

Maybe you're a mod, a moonshot girl? Express yourself with bubbled and blistered shirtings; linear prints both huge and tiny in brilliant hues. The outdoors is your scene? For a hard day's play, think on patchwork denims and vivid sailcloths with stretch and easy-care features, also cotton jersey, now so seen.

Is quiet sophistication your dish? Look to cotton travel tweeds, crisp and neatly checked, crocheted knits in navy, naturals and white, puffed jacquards, tone on tone. So far so good! And it gets better. Cotton is used for every kind of apparel from a jumpsuit for the beach to a midi dress for a summer evening. The cotton boll runneth over!

Romney Says United States Inching Toward Revolution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is inching closer toward revolution, says Secretary George Romney of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Romney, in a speech in San Diego last December, said the nation faced possible revolution if it failed to reform its basic policies.

Asked in an interview with The Associated Press whether that possibility has drawn closer since December, he replied: "Yes, I think the percentage of young people and others who are beginning to wonder whether the needed reforms can be brought about within our present society has increased a bit. And the number who are genuinely concerned and kind of sitting on the fence has increased a great deal."

"I think it's going to take action more than rhetoric to deal with it."

Asked if he were concerned specifically with this summer in the cities, the former Michigan governor answered: "You betcha. I'm concerned about the situation not only in the summer but in the winter, spring and fall. As a matter of fact, I think the situation is becoming more explosive rather than less explosive. That's my opinion."

Romney said, however: "I don't mean necessarily that it is more likely to be widespread rioting, because those who initiated the riots in earlier years have become somewhat sophisticated about them and they recognize that such widespread destruction boomerangs. That they foul their own nest, that they suffer more than some of the others. So they've changed their attitude."

Now, he said, actions are more selective. "And also there's recognition that there is no point in taking risks prematurely and on an inadequate basis."

Romney maintained conditions in the nation's major cities are worsening. "I think our housing situation, the blight, the slums, represent a more serious problem now than they have at any previous point. I think we failed to turn the tide there yet."

Jail Won't Stop Miss Devlin's Bid

BELFAST, Ireland (AP) — Bernadette Devlin, who became the youngest member of the British Parliament last year, says she is going to run for reelection if she has to do it from jail.

Miss Devlin, 23, has appealed a six-month jail sentence arising from her part in Catholic-Protestant rioting last August in Londonderry.

"I have already made plans to direct my campaign from prison if necessary," she told a news conference Sunday. The British election is expected to be held in June.

SPRINGTIME ROMP — Two frisky colts, Prove It and Bold Bitter, engage in some springtime romp at Hickory Tree Farm, one of the many thoroughbred farms in the heart of the Virginia horse country. The horses there live better than most people. And, they make more money than most people, too.

Supreme Court Shields Newspapers From Libel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court shielded newspapers today from libel judgments for reporting heated public debate on controversial matters.

In a 7-1 decision the court said the reprinting of "rhetorical hyperbole" or a "vigorous epithet" against a public figure at a public meeting is protected by the First Amendment.

However, White went along with the majority in reversing the libel judgment because he, like the other justices, said the trial judge erred when he told the jury a newspaper may be held for libel on a finding of "falseness and general hostility."

Two Charged In House Burglary

Two 17-year-old men have been charged in Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter's court with house burglary and were released this morning under $1,500 bond each.

—Turned down an appeal that called for interpretation of the 1963 federal law that assures women they will be paid the same as men for equal work.

Stewart said the Constitution imposes strict limits upon the possibility of collecting libel judgments because the threat of such judgments could impair the unfettered exercise of freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

Two Charged In House Burglary

The two are Gregory Herman Birrell, 1621 E. 17th, and Daniel R. Heckler, Luther. They were transferred to the county jail Friday afternoon by city police.

—Ruled that funds built up by a partnership business to cover bad debts do not have to be restored to taxable income when the business is incorporated.

Hope is a veteran of Vietnam and was wounded there July 15 of last year.

Vicious Dogs Are Reported

Howard County sheriff's deputies have been receiving an unusual number of calls concerning vicious dogs in the Sand Springs and Oasis Addition areas.

—Refused a hearing to an animal-rendering plant in Maryland, the first manufacturing plant shut down for noncompliance with federal air pollution laws.

While the Safeguard antimissile debate rages over such chilling issues as missile threats and nuclear survival, the actual building of the Safeguard sites has hardly begun.

Three Arrested, Gunfire Reported

Three Big Spring men were arrested about 1 a.m. Sunday after four Howard County sheriff's deputies answered a disturbance call at Jeannie's Tavern on North Benton.

Ex-Stripper Candy Barr Still Free Until Aug. 3

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP) — Ex-stripper Candy Barr, her gorgeous blonde hair falling over her shoulders, walked out of the district courtroom today still a free woman with no trial in sight until Aug. 3.

She was expected to be tried today on marijuana possession charges but Dist. Judge Joe Dibrell granted a continuance to permit a search for more evidence in the 14-month-old case.

Candy, once the toast of the bald-head row in the strip joints, wasn't talking for once and used 48 words to say so.

Stated Candy: "There's nothing new about me. You've written it all. I have nothing to tell. I don't have anything to say to anybody about anything. Seriously, I've already said it. Let's face it. The news media has gotten me so frightened I don't want to even look at you."

Three Big Spring men were arrested about 1 a.m. Sunday after four Howard County sheriff's deputies answered a disturbance call at Jeannie's Tavern on North Benton.

She dressed today in a brown miniskirt—but not a micro-mini—and a white blouse buttoned to the throat. She wore white gloves and high-heel shoes.

Tar Report Due Today

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — A report on the tar which is washing ashore on beaches here is expected to be released today in Austin, state officials say.

Members of the Texas Railroad Commission, the Parks and Wildlife Department, the Texas Water Quality Board and the governor's staff made a weekend investigation of the substances which have been reported washing ashore on beaches from Western Florida to Port Isabel, Tex.

The tar was first noticed about four weeks ago. A test performed for the Railroad Commission Friday said it was caused by unrefined crude oil, John Shannan of Gov. Preston Smith's staff said.

Officials said they suspect the tar might be from a well which ran out of control earlier this year off the Louisiana coast.

The tar washes ashore in small balls and melts in the sun. It is not very noticeable on the sandy beaches of Galveston but beachfront business operators say it stains the clothing of those who use the beach.

Trails of tar are tracked all over Galveston's seawall and foul the carpet of many seafood restaurants and hotels.

AGNEW SHOWS NO SIGNS OF TONING DOWN CRITICISM

Oppose Nixon's Cambodia Campaign

MIKE MANSFIELD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, showing no signs of toning down his criticism of college dissidents, says many students who staged an antiwar protest near the White House a week ago, "were out on a spring lark."

Speaking Sunday, Agnew added: "I certainly don't agree that the demonstrations that took place in Washington and some of the demonstrations that have taken place on the campus are really indicative of . . . deep-seated student hostility in the Cambodian decision."

"I think that much of the Cambodian decision was misunderstood and the facts of it are just coming out."

He went on: "I think a lot of those students were out on a typical spring lark. I think there were some who actually had the feeling they were participating in a very important venture."

An estimated 60,000 to 100,000 protesters came to Washington a week ago last Saturday to demonstrate across the street from the White House against the Cambodian involvement and the deaths of four Ohio students in a confrontation with National Guardsmen.

The vice president's remarks brought a quick retort from Sen. J. W. Fulbright, one of the Senate's leading critics of Nixon's Vietnam policy, including the attack by U.S. troops into Cambodia.

"The vice president is afflicted with myopia," the Arkansas Democrat said when asked about Agnew's statement that campus hostility to the Cambodian situation does not run deep.

"He doesn't see very deeply in any of these things," Fulbright said. "He is a new man in the Washington scene . . . He has much to learn."

Agnew made his comments in an interview on the Metromedia Radio News program "Profile," that was taped in advance for Sunday. Fulbright spoke on ABC's interview show "Issues and Answers."

The vice president's past sorties against dissenters brought strong reaction, not only from the campuses and opposing politicians, but from high administration officials.

Although he indicated an easing of vocal warfare would be a good idea, he showed no inclination Sunday to take the edge off his remarks.

"I think it would be good if we could have a negotiated settlement of accelerated rhetoric," he said, "but I unilaterally do not intend to withdraw."

Answering "absolutely not," when asked if President Nixon had asked him to quiet his public statements, Agnew went on to say "and I will continue to speak out."

Whether the Cambodian move was misunderstood, as Agnew said, or a major blunder continued as the major focus for attention today in the Senate.

The Foreign Relations Committee, headed by Fulbright, called for open testimony today from Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, and debate continued on the floor over a proposal to cut off funds for U.S. operations in Cambodia and generally restrict the President's Southeast Asian options.

Nixon's stated motive for sending American men into Cambodia—to destroy North Vietnamese and Viet Cong sanctuaries there and thus protect U.S. troops in South Vietnam—was blasted as well.

"If he can do it in Cambodia, which is a sanctuary, there are other sanctuaries as well," Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Sunday.

And Fulbright added that the same arguments made for the Cambodian incursion could be used to rationalize attacks on the Soviet Union or Red China.

"This theory that there is an inherent power in the commander in chief to do what he pleases is absolutely unconstitutional, in my view," Fulbright said. "Interpreting it the way they are he could justify bombing Moscow on the theory they make weapons coming down to Vietnam to endanger the lives of our soldiers."

Such criticism, and the attempts to cut off funds for the Cambodian operation is politically inspired, Agnew responded.

The administration has been working to round off the controversy by emphasizing the limited objectives and boundaries put on the Cambodian decision, and by statements indicating success in the operation.

To Discuss Rebuilding At Lubbock

LUBBOCK (AP) — Mayor James Granberry called a meeting of the 11-member rehabilitation advisory council today to discuss rebuilding wrecked areas of this tornado-stricken city.

Officials said the first firm to receive a Corps of Engineers' contract for debris removal would begin work in residential and business areas today. Other contracts are expected to be awarded this week.

About 400 National Guardsmen on duty since last Tuesday, were to be relieved by 120 guardsmen from Pampa, Borger and Shamrock.

Several downtown routes were opened to sightseers for the first time Sunday, causing traffic jams.

Barriers remained in the business section and light industrial areas Sunday, prohibiting all travel there except by emergency crews and persons with businesses inside the barriers.

The massive tornado took 23 lives last Monday and caused damage estimated as high as $200 million. Officials said 626 persons were placed in temporary housing as of Saturday.

Kent State Coeds Support AF Unit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An Air Force unit in Vietnam has been receiving moral support since 1965 from a group of coeds at Kent State University, where four students were slain during a protest demonstration against U.S. activity in Cambodia.

The San Antonio Express-News said Sunday the girls are expected to continue supporting the unit through gifts and good wishes.

Members of "Angel Flight," a women's auxiliary to the Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps, adopted the Air Force Security Service's 6924th Vietnam.

The then-current draft card burnings prompted their move they said.

The girls sent the men gifts, cards, tape-recorded messages, candy and supplies for an orphanage the squadron supports.

They also helped gather 4,000 signatures on a scroll that was sent to the men to show support of their efforts.

port of the 6924th until Kent State was closed after the four students were shot to death.

The Express-News asked an assistant professor of air science at Kent State whether the shootings would affect the girls' activities.

"I don't think so," Maj. William Hannold said. "Of course, I haven't had the chance to talk with any of the 41 girls since the disturbances. The students have been banned from this campus and most are now at home."

"But I think I know them well enough to know how they'll react. They're a great group of girls."

The Express also contacted the 6924th in Vietnam through security service headquarters at Kelly Air Force Base here.

BANKER REPLACES LING

LTV Undergoes Top Personnel Shakeup

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The board chairman of the First National Bank in Dallas replaced James J. Ling as board chairman of Ling-Temco-Vought Inc., the nation's 25th largest industrial corporation, Sunday.

Ling, founder of LTV, was replaced by Robert H. Stewart III.

Clyde Skeen, president of the conglomerate, resigned and Ling was named president. An announcement by LTV said the changes are "a major restructuring of the corporation."

A spokesman declined to answer questions about the changes.

The U.S. Justice Department recently attempted to settle an antitrust suit by ordering LTV to sell off either Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. or Braniff Airways and the Okonite Co., a wire and cable fabricator.

Federal Judge Louis Rosenberg declined to approve the settlement and set a June 1 hearing in Pittsburgh, Pa., in the suit.

The corporation also reduced the size of its board of directors from 20 to 14 members "to increase its operating efficiency."

Ling said earlier that management decided to keep Jones & Laughlin. He said he expected proceeds from the sale of Braniff and Okonite would be enough to retire LTV's bank debt. The announcement Sunday said Stewart would share policy making responsibilities with Ling and Stewart would serve as chairman "on a non-salaried basis and for a limited period of time."

Board chairman Sam Wylie of University Computing Co., Dallas, was named to the LTV board. University Computing recently purchased part of Computer Technology Inc., from LTV Aerospace Corp., a LTV subsidiary.

Ling said in the announcement that with the exception of Jones & Laughlin, all LTV subsidiaries "are now operating profitably." He said the steel corporation's profits were being affected by the truckers' strike.

LTV stock had declined in recent months. It closed Friday at 12 1/2, down from a 1970 high of nearly 30.

Remaining on the board are Stewart, Ling, Roscoe Haynie, Robert McCulloch, V.A. Davidson, Roy Edwards; E. Grant Fitts, Harding Lawrence, Custave Levy, William Osborn Jr., Troy Post, William Stephens and Paul Thayer.

Leaving the board are Skeen, James Bond, James Chambers Jr., Robert Gilmore, O.R. Moore, L.T. Potter and William Tinsley.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, your partner has opened with one spade and you hold:

♠J1043 ♥Q106 ♦K84 ♣754

What is your response?

A.—One no trump. While this hand ostensibly contains seven points in support of spades, one point must be subtracted for even distribution when contemplating a raise. You, therefore, have no choice but to respond with one no trump.

Q. 2—Your partner has opened with one no trump and you hold:

♠A43 ♥Q17 ♦J432 ♣A96

What is your response?

A.—Three no trump. You have a point count of 14 which added to partner's maximum of 18 would at best reach a total of 32, not quite enough for slam.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠Q7 ♥A9532 ♦K9 ♣A75

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

4 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—With this powerful holding, you are concerned merely with the question of whether the hand should reach six or seven. You have better than an opening bid, facing partner who has opened the bidding and jumped. You may inquire for ace and king by a bid of four no trump or, if you prefer the direct method, bid five clubs, showing the ace, and await partner's reaction.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KJ7 ♥KQ6 ♦1074 ♣AJ63

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass

1 NT Pass 2 ♠ Pass

2 NT Pass 3 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has described a hand that contains six diamonds and five spades and is, therefore, unsuitable for no trump play. You have a splendid support for a five-card spade suit and should raise to four.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♥K J 4 3 ♦Q 10 9 5 3 ♠A 10 4 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. This hand has definite slam possibilities. Unless you make this strong bid, you will find it difficult to persuade partner of your enormous strength, for he will labor constantly under the impression created by your previous pass.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, partner opens with one heart and you hold:

♠K 10 7 6 ♦A J 10 6 3 ♣Q 9 7 6 3

What is your response?

A.—Two clubs. It would be poor tactics to respond with one spade for the sake of keeping the bidding low. Actually, it would have just the opposite effect. Partner will probably say two hearts, in which case you have to bid three of some suit. If you respond with two clubs, and partner says two hearts, you are in position to make the economical bid of two spades, with the added advantage of informing partner that you have five clubs and four spades.

Q. 7—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q 7 5 ♥K 4 ♦A J 10 6 3 2 ♠9 3

The bidding has proceeded:

East—South West North

1 ♥ 2 ♦ Pass 2 NT

Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner's bid of two no trump is an aggressive step inasmuch as he was not invited to participate in the bidding. Your overall is of a type that will produce a considerable number of tricks at no trump and a raise to three is recommended.

Q. 8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠K 7 6 ♥K 9 4 2 ♦A K ♣Q J 9 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—A direct jump to three no trump is our preference. This describes a hand, which is about the equal of an opening one no trump bid.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Make the most of your chances to tell others the Good News. Be wise in all your contacts with them. (Colossians 4:5, Living Letters)

Troubled Decade

Thoughtful men who view the tormented state of public opinion in the United States today are beginning to wonder what life here will be like in 1980. We can be reasonably sure of only one thing: It will not be like 1970.

For perhaps the first time since the Civil War, basic doubts as to the viability of our constitutional system have arisen. Men question whether the domestic upheaval now beginning in this country can be contained within constitutional bounds. They wonder if the final alternative may be a choice between socialism and fascism. They ask if the "law-and-order" theme, carried to its logical conclusion, will not destroy the fabric of our constitutional system. Or, in reverse, they ask if anarchy is not the alternative to law and order.

A voice out of the terrible past seems to have tragic relevance to our present plight.

"The streets of our country are in turmoil. The universities are filled with students rebelling and rioting. Communists are seeking to destroy our country. Russia is threatening us with her might and the Republic is in danger. Yes, danger from within and without.

"We need law and order. Yes, without law and order our nation cannot survive. Elect us and we shall restore law and order."

The speaker? Adolf Hitler, in an electioneering speech in Hamburg, Germany, in 1932.

Lovers of liberty and our constitutional system can only hope and pray that it will not happen here — that the ideal of democratic processes can be achieved between the tyranny of extreme right or extreme left.

Universal Problem

We Americans tend to identify our racial problems in terms of black and white. We often overlook the fact that differences in origin, especially in Asia, can be equally as divisive and dangerous.

An instructive example is provided by Cambodia. To the average Westerner, there is no discernible difference between a Vietnamese and a Cambodian. But the difference is all too plain to them. Hundreds, perhaps thousands, of Vietnamese residents of Cambodia were slaughtered by Cambodians in recent weeks.

The broader aspects of these differences were brought into perspective by Sinnathamby Rajaratnam, Singapore's labor minister, speaking at a seminar on "Multiculturalism in Singapore." He predicted that racial conflicts in Singapore and Malaysia eventually may involve more than half the population in Asia. He emphasized the need for Singapore and Malaysia to resolve their race problems because "the indications are that during the next few decades . . . racial problems will become more endemic and more intense."

Citing cases where "racial overtones are heard even in conflicts which are ostensibly not racial," Rajaratnam noted that the anti-Vietnam war agitation in the United States had merged with America's race conflict, and that even the Sino-Soviet ideological conflict is, from time to time, debated in the familiar language of racist philosophers.

We have our racial conflicts which need desperately to be resolved. But of course we are not alone. Tolerance is still one of the rarest of human virtues — anywhere.

College Youth And The War

WASHINGTON — What does the rest of the free world think about the disturbances in the colleges in the United States?

A reading of the press abroad indicates that there was genuine surprise. Somehow, such an uprising was never expected. Some of the editorial writers suggest that the viewpoint of the "younger generation" is not understood by the administration. But, unfortunately, efforts to get the leaders of the students to explain themselves have not always resulted in any coherent expositions but quite often in a series of emotional expressions.

THE LONDON Daily Telegraph says it is odd that students in the United States should lead the world in rebellion, and declares that there is "one marvel" which defies explanation:

"Why should America's pampered and idolized student youth, living in a country that enjoys freedom and prosperity in unprecedented degrees, turn all its righteous anger, not against the despots that rule most of the rest of the world, but against America herself?"

THE LONDON EDITOR is not unlike many observers in this country who have been perplexed by the student outbreaks. First of all, this is a period of prosperity. There are more students in college whose parents are paying their way than ever before in American history. The students have money to spend. In an era of affluence, there is little discontent on an economic standpoint.

WHAT, THEN, are the real sources of dissatisfaction? As one talks to some members of the younger generation, it is sad to note the incoherent statements and the repetition of vague complaints that the government is not treating the younger people justly. The only concrete interpretation of this comes when the anti-war banners are raised. The truth is that there is no single subject which has introduced more deep-seated antagonism than the Vietnam war.

WHEN PRESIDENT Nixon announced that he was planning to withdraw our troops from South Vietnam, feeling seemed to be somewhat reduced in intensity. But all of a sudden, as American forces were sent into Cambodia to clean out the Communist "sanctuaries" for the protection of our servicemen in Vietnam, the emotional wave which swept hundreds of campuses was unprecedented.

Although the number of youths to be drafted is being diminished, the fact remains that college students have been worried as to when they would have to be enrolled in military service. They are concerned about plans for marriage or about entering business or professional careers. They are restless and fearful that the whole course of their lives may be changed by a draft call.

THERE HAS been talk about instituting a volunteer system to secure members of the armed forces. This is considered at present to be too costly. But if it were nevertheless to be put into operation and the draft system were to be abandoned, the campus trouble would diminish almost overnight. There will always be troublemakers, of course. Elements of a Communist influence will continue to practice their intrigue on different campuses. But huge demonstrations in America are unlikely to occur in the future if there is no Vietnam war problem to worry the youth of the country.

Deadline On AT&T's Big Finance Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — The energy and initiative required to mail a preaddressed envelope by midnight tonight is all that stands between certain shareholders of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and a worthwhile sum of money.

This is the last day, that is, for thousands of AT&T shareholders to cash in on their company's tremendous capital raising project. All 3.1 million shareholders were invited to participate. Thousands haven't acted yet.

For the owner of 105 shares of AT&T stock, this failure to respond to the offer is the equivalent of declining a cash gift of $45.94, based on prices before the opening of the stock market today.

This is the story: AT&T needs money to finance expansion. The total was fixed at $1.569 billion, a record sum for this, the largest corporate entity in the world. It decided to seek the money from its own shareholders.

A complex financing plan was announced last January. AT&T decided to entice its shareholders to come up with the money by offering this deal: Every stockholder was declared to possess rights in the same number of his shares of stock. For each 35 rights, or shares, the stockholder was entitled to purchase a $100 AT&T bond, technically called a debenture.

But why buy a $100 bond at its face value when the same bond could be purchased in the market at between $97 and $98? For this reason:

"The purchase of a bond entitles the owner to receive two warrants, each entitling him to buy, anytime between Nov. 15, 1970, and May 15, 1975, a share of AT&T common stock at $52 a share.

"Some bargain!" you exclaim, noting that shares of AT&T closed Friday at $46.75 each. True, that's the price now, but that price can reasonably be expected to climb above $52 a share during the next five years.

A Hound Wags His Stern

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Exercise, far from overworking the heart, can give it needed rest. A Swedish physician found that a proper program of physical training slows the heart rate "and can spare the individual's heart 10,000 to 30,000 needless beats per day."

Although an ordinary dog wags his tail, a hound, properly speaking, wags his "stern." A rabbit wags his "scut," a fox his "brush," and a deer his "single." And what does a wife wag? Sometimes her finger, sometimes her tongue.

Teenagers are notoriously careless about selecting a balanced diet, but a government survey also found that women 35 and over are among the worst offenders in this respect.

If Picasso had become an actor instead of an artist, he'd have had a hard time getting his full name in bright lights on Broadway. It is Pablo Diego Jose Francisco de Paula Juan Nepomuceno Maria de los Remedios Cipriano de la Santissima Trinidad Ruiz Picasso.

Quotable Notes: "Some people get the idea they are worth a lot of money just because they have it." —Dorothy Kotler.

Insects go on strike: The French are testing the possibility of using lady bugs to replace health-threatening pesticides. They found that the lady bugs could consume 600 plant bugs a day each, but—after 90 days they found it too much work and hibernated for the rest of the year.

U.S. farm populations has fallen so much—it's still declining—that four out of five students in the nation's agricultural colleges now come not from the farm but from cities. Most have no desire to follow the plow. They seek training for jobs in teaching, farm machinery firms and the chemical industries.

Worth remembering: "Ability is what you need to get ahead if the boss doesn't have an unmarried daughter."

She 'Slams Him Against The Wall'

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The following letter came from California—but it might have come from anywhere. Similar things happen everywhere.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend once told me that her little boy would get her so upset that she would "slam him up against the wall."

I thought she was exaggerating till I visited her for several days. One time she became furious with the boy, who is now 8, and smashed him on the top of the head with a wooden hairbrush.

The boy had been an unusually brilliant child when he was 2, and my husband and I had been puzzling over why he now seems so dull-witted. He is in the slow-learning classes in everything.

I have heard that some children can normally be very bright during one period of growth and then level down to average, but the change in this boy seems extreme.

Since my visit there I have brought the subject of losing one's temper and becoming violent with children into conversation with many mothers.

I was shocked to find that this behavior is common. One mother said she used to throw her baby into his crib — the baby's head must have been hit frequently.

Another woman told of her friend who would take her 2-year-old girl by the arm and shake her — banging her against the wall again and again.

My question is this: if the child does not lose consciousness, can it still have suffered brain damage? —Mrs. A.H.F.

Yes, brain damage can occur without unconsciousness.

But in a great many cases the greater damage may be psychological. The child, unable to fight back against such abuse, seethes silently. He may become stolid and seem stupid as a defense mechanism. And does it make so much difference whether a child is damaged physically, mentally, or emotionally?

The law is only beginning to do something about the "battered child," the child with multiple fractures, burns or other such obvious brutalization.

The law is not yet capable of doing anything about the less obvious brutalities — which are surely much more frequent than the visible cases of crippling.

But it shouldn't require laws. The true solution rests with people taking an honest look at themselves. The parent has the emotional problem.

There are other and far, far better ways of working out parental temper than by slamming a child against a wall.

Just 'Wash, Biol And Surv'

This and that: The Fish and Wildlife Service of the United States has changed the wording in its banding of birds for a very good reason, they say.

The metal strips used to be inscribed, "Washington Biological Survey," which simply was abbreviated to "Wash Biol Surv." Now they read "Notchy Fish and Wildlife Service, Wash., D.C."

A fellow who swears it's true says the change was brought about after a farmer shot a crow. Not long after that, he wrote a testy letter to Washington.

"DEAR SIRs," he scribbled with an acid pen, "I shot one of your pet crows the other day and followed instructions attached to it. I washed it and bled it and served it. It was terrible. Are you trying to get rid of crows by getting people to eat them? You should quit trying to fool people."

ONE OF THE caustic people, critical of everything that goes on in Washington, says that if the disappointed judge Florida's Harrold

Carswell, wants to become the most mediocre man in the Senate, he'll have to stand in line.

HAVE YOU HEARD middle age described as the time when a fellow spends half the day at his desk figuring what his income will be from pension and social security?

THE BAPTISTS can brag about total immersion in baptismal rites all they want to, but look what happened to that fellow in Zambia.

Part of a mass baptism in an African river, the poor guy was bitten on the leg by a 12-foot crocodile.

TIME WAS when the automobile was referred to as the horseless carriage. Most everyone thought that name would be improved upon.

Among appellations proposed were autokinet, autogo, cabine, carleak, autovic, ipsometer and kinetor.

It's obvious many manufacturers now don't like the name 'automobile.' They insist on naming their products after animals or referring to them as aphrodisiacs.

The Order Of The Pantyhose?

WASHINGTON — Here and there, assorted self-appointed sages and ex-officio privy councillors have revived the notion that legislation be enacted establishing a democratic nobility based on achievement in various fields.

The complaint is that the Medal of Freedom is the only civilian decoration bestowed on civilians by a grateful government, and that it would be fitting and proper to set up a knighthood of distinguished citizens. One of the arguments is that it would encourage selfless initiative to the benefit of the commonweal, and might even persuade the more aimless young to seek steady employment.

THIS IS pretty lofty stuff, and only a bolder would challenge its concept, but I don't know. Aside from America's pretension that we operate a classless society, there is the danger a union of knights would be corrupted by its own apartheid. That, in effect, is what happened in England, where the nobility today is rather a pathetic joke and, besides, includes jokers named Beatles, purveyors of hooch and operators of poolroom chains.

The difference is that, unlike the advocates of American knighthood, the British never really took the lefty bit seriously. From the very outset, admission to the nobility was recognized as a means of self-advancement, a license to make a fast buck or steal a plot of land. A typical example of such gimmickry was the Order of the Garter, most famous of the lot.

As might be logically assumed, the Order WAS named after a lady's accessory. It was back around 1344 A.D. when Edward III, a notable ladies' man, was King of England.

EDWARD WAS living it up at a party one night, dancing with a girl named the Countess of Salisbury. When the countess's garter dropped off. Naturally—this caused the countess considerable embarrassment; in those days females were much more mysterious about their under items. But before she was half way through her first blush, Ed stooped down, picked up the garter and put it on a royal leg, pretending it was his own.

YOU MAY BE SURE this created quite a stir. People went around saying things like "That sure is a chivalrous king we got," and "Gad-zooks, we ought to form a club called Ye Olde Garter, or something." Sure enough, the next time Edward led his troops into battle he dropped this same garter as a signal to attack, and issued free membership in the Order of the Garter to those of his officers who were rich enough to rank as gentlemen.

KNIGHTS were required to be respectful toward women, courteous and loyal, but few of them lived up to the code. They made a great show of being chivalrous only to those dames whose fathers were rich.

Historical fare of this flavor perhaps should be a warning to those Americans who yearn for an Order of — say — the Pantyhose, on this side of the Atlantic. I should not like to wake up in the morning to discover that Sir Bobby Seale or Baron Ben Spock had given Defense Secretary Melvin Laird a taste of steel.

Our Deficit In Trade Balance

WASHINGTON — The Ways and Means Committee of the Congress has launched hearings on our tariff and quota structure.

With the exception of some products, the United States is continuing to find itself in a growing deficit position in our trade balance with all countries of the world. Our trade with all countries, except Canada and Latin America, shows sharp disadvantages. For instance, our exports to Japan during the period from 1960 through 1969 rose 141 per cent while our imports grew by 325 per cent. Our imports from Germany rose about three times compared to growth in our exports.

LATIN AMERICA being the exception, our exports during the same period grew by 36 per cent while our imports rose only 19 per cent.

In total world trade our exports for the nine-year period increased 84.6 per cent while our imports went up 146 per cent.

At the present time, about two-thirds of all our imports consist of manufactured goods. Just a few years ago, less than one-third were of this nature.

ANOTHER DISCREPANCY in our balance of trade comes from the practice of basing the value of imports on the foreign price rather than the value when landed at our ports of entry. The result is an undervaluation of our imports by several billion dollars a year. Applying the true value on goods laid down in this country, our trade deficit is in the magnitude of five to six billion dollars in terms of competitive trade, instead of a surplus claimed by some of our free-trade advocates.

WHILE IT certainly would not be a wise policy not to have trade as free as possible with foreign countries, our commerce and labor in effect subsidizes foreign manufactured goods. In most instances, we simply can not compete with the vast majority of foreign nations. The wage rates of our wage earners have their pay set at a minimum by law which can not be lowered even if it were desirable to do so. This, connected with new productive capability in most for-ign nations, creates disadvantages to our own manufactured products, growers, producers and labor. About the only major exports which have a favorable position in world trade are heavy machinery, automobiles, aircraft and computers. This is true simply because we have more advanced technology in these fields but the gap is being closed. In 1960, we exported almost five times as much machinery as was imported. This ratio was narrowed by about two-to-one during the last eight years. Import problems are occurring in agricultural products which if continued could have a most serious effect on our farmers and ranchers.

AT FIRST GLANCE, it could easily appear that more imports would result in more competition and a lowering of prices to the consumer. This may be true in the early stages of some particular item but once the market is taken over, competition decreases and prices increase.

ON A RELATIVELY efficiency basis, the productivity of American industry continues to lead the world. The lead, however, is shrinking and low foreign wages combined with a growing ability to produce is closing the gap to a degree of deep concern. We must buy if we expect to sell but a better balanced position in world trade is needed.

This complicated subject will be a consideration of the Ways and Means Committee for several weeks to come.

'Hot' Underwear

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — It doesn't pay to set your underwear afire in a national forest in New Mexico.

The U.S. Forest Service said it had billed Troy Wayne Klaus, 19, of Albuquerque for $51.22. This was the cost to the Forest Service for putting out a fire started by burning underwear.

A Forest Service ranger said Klaus and three friends used their underwear on sticks as torches to light their way along a trail. Bits of the burning cloth ignited patches of grass and pine needles.

TRINITY MEMORIAL PARK concrete burial vaults . . . guarantee lasting protection

Concrete Burial Vaults Give Permanent Protection

When it becomes necessary to make arrangements for the burial of a loved one, it would be wise to consider the permanent protection a burial vault can give.

More and more people in Big Spring and surrounding towns are realizing the superior quality of concrete burial vaults. The concrete vault is less expensive than many other types with the possible exception of solid copper.

Trinity Memorial Park is one of the largest firms between Fort Worth and El Paso to construct concrete vaults. Trinity vaults are built of steel reinforced concrete with a water-proofing agent mixed with the concrete before its formed. The earth with its moisture and chemical acting properties attacks and breaks down many materials including metal, yet the moisture only serves to complete the curing of the concrete.

Dense concrete with a strength of more than 4,000 pounds per square inch is required, and tests have shown that this concrete increases in strength as the years go by.

A concrete vault prevents sunken graves, and rust and corrosion are not possible. Trinity Memorial Park manufactures the vaults which are available to Big Spring residents through the various area funeral homes including Stanton, Lamesa and Snyder. Trinity Park has been making these vaults for 10 years.

Rigid standards regulate the construction of concrete burial vaults to insure the quality of the concrete and workmanship.

Often, because people do not realize the importance of a burial-vault, the necessity of a vault for permanent protection is disregarded. Unless arrangements with the funeral director are made, the outside container will be a wooden box. A vault replaces the wooden box with an indestructible material and thus protects the casket.

A special feature of vaults constructed by Trinity Memorial Park is the "Air Seal." Any dampness which might occur in this type vault from condensation of air can escape so the interior will be kept dry. The vault's durability makes them a popular choice from the viewpoint of both the funeral director and the cemetery director. The vault's economy of material and manufacturer makes this fine product available to public at a very reasonable price.

Trinity Memorial Park advises everyone to discuss the merits of a concrete vault with a funeral director when the need arises. Be sure you select a vault that is sturdy and durable. Trinity burial vaults are manufactured locally by an institution people in Big Spring have come to know and trust.

Arsonists Hit Dallas Firms

DALLAS (AP) — Arsonists struck in Dallas Sunday night, hurling firebombs at two Dallas insurance firms and dropping another in a tavern.

One woman was injured. Police and firemen said little damage was done to the Maxson-Mahoney-Turney Insurance Agency building, the Great Southwest Life Insurance building and Lupe's Lounge.

Miss Corine Moya suffered second degree burns on the right leg when flaming fuel splashed on her leg as she sat in the lounge.

Customers told police two men came into the tavern, smashed the bottle of liquid on the floor and tossed a lighted match into it, they then fled.

The three bombings occurred within 45 minutes of one another. The first bomb was thrown against the back brick wall of the insurance agency, the second occurred in the tavern and the third went through a back window of the life insurance firm.

Police were trying to determine if the three bombings were linked.

Blancas Cashes Tip For Golf Victory

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Lee Trevino is going to have to start being more judicious with his lessons—particularly to a "brother" like Homero Blancas who cashed a Trevino tip into the National Invitational Golf Championship Sunday.

"I never thought I'd get beaten by another Mexican," Trevino laughed. "The lesson I gave Homer only cost me $12,000. I won't charge him though, he's one of the brothers."

Blancas, a 32-year-old former University of Houston star, charged home with a three-under-par 67 Sunday to win the NIT with a 72-hole total of 273—one shot ahead of Gene Littler and Trevino, the peppery former U.S. Open king.

Trevino noticed something wrong with Blancas' swing Friday morning.

"I told him he should move through the ball faster from the waist down," Trevino said.

Blancas said the tip helped him hit a slight fade off the tee instead of a pull hook.

"I just started turning my hips more and began hitting the ball more solid," said Blancas, who immediately went out that day and shot a 68 over the Colonial Country Club course.

Using the tip, Blancas pocketed the $25,000 first prize for his greatest payday as a professional.

Littler and Trevino won $11,575 each.

"I'm very proud of him," said Trevino. "I'm as happy as if he had won."

Littler and Trevino both missed chances to send the tournament into sudden death after Blancas bogeyed the last hole.

Trevino's 20-footer and Littler's 12-footer both slid past the hole after it appeared both holes would fall.

ROUGHING IT ON THE 18TH — Homero Blancas, of Conroe, Tex., blasts out of the rough near the 18th green in final round of the Colonial National Invitation Tournament at Fort Worth, Tex., yesterday. Blancas shot a 3-under-par 67 and a total of 273 to win the tournament by one stroke.

birdie. At the same time Trevino bogeyed the par-4 fifteenth. Littler shot a final round 67 and Trevino a 69.

Cheron's Fast Anchor Paces Borden Win

Cheron Billeck's sizzling performances paced Borden County High School to a state championship in the girls Class B track and field event here during the weekend.

Cheron had set a new record of 36 feet, 14 inches in the triple jump Friday, while P. Shoemaker was coming through with a 5.2 leap for the first place in high jump Friday.

With that lead, Borden was out in front.

However, it took two remarkable anchors on relay events to secure the crown.

In the 440-relay event, Cheron got the baton in third place in the final lap but blew past two runners to hit the tape in a new divisional record of 50.3.

Cheron was 10-yards back when she got the baton on the 880's final lap, then almost caught the leader at the tape.

However, the second place clinched the title.

Cheron also took third in the 100-yard dash and fourth in the long jump to help her team to victory.

Riverscrest took the Class A championship at Abilene.

Qualifying Runs Set Stage For Close May 30 Contest

INDIANAPOLIS, (AP) — It was a good race over the weekend when Al Unser, Johnny Rutherford and A.J. Foyt Jr. made separate 10-mile runs against the clock at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

It should be a better one May 30 when they start side-by-side in the front row of the 54th 500-mile race.

Foyt and Unser finished one-two in the 1967 Indianapolis Motor Classic. But Foyt ran third in Saturday's time trials.

Rutherford, former national sprint car champion, never has finished the 500 in six starts. He never before had a car as good as the Eagle-Offenhauser he'll wheel to the starting line on Memorial Day.

Rutherford had the fastest single lap at Saturday's qualifying session at 171.135 m.p.h. in his Coyte-Ford. But Al Unser was a tick faster for the 10 miles at 170.221 in his Colt-Ford. Rutherford did 170.213, Foyt 170.004.

Slide rule specialists calculated Unser would have beaten Rutherford by one and one-half feet if they had run together.

The difference will be worth about $19,200 to Al and his crew, including special prizes of about $5,000 for his chief mechanic, George Bignotti, who used to be with Foyt. The pole carries a pile of prize money from accessory firms, in addition to $1,200 from the speed may for the day's high run and other $1,000 for best speed over all in the four qualifying sessions which will end next Sunday. Second best each day pays $800.

Mario Andretti, 1969 Speedway champion qualified for the No. 9 starting spot in a Made In-Germany McNamara-Ford which had been rebuilt hurriedly since he crashed in practice May 11.

Larsen, rated in England by Americans after the team lost its two Grand Prix starts from New Zealand, former world champion Denis Hulme, whose hands were burned in an accident last week, and Chris Amon, who returned to Europe Saturday after failing to reach competitive speed.

Peter Revson, American road racing ace who finished fifth in the 500 last year, qualified the Hulme car Sunday at the day's top speed of 167.942 m.p.h. Speedway veteran Carl Williams qualified the Amon car at a solid 166.590.

Bobby Unser, Al's brother and the 1968 Indianapolis winner, is a third former Speedway champion in the field, starting in the No. 7 spot—inside of the third row beside Andretti and Jim Malloy.

ISRAELI JETS POUND TARGETS Fight Duels Across Frontiers

By The Associated Press

Israeli jets struck at targets in the northern Jordan Valley today and Jordanian ground fire brought down one plane, an army spokesman said in Amman.

The spokesman made no mention of casualties in reporting the raid, which he said involved more than 10 Israeli planes.

Six Israeli jets bombed the Zim area in the valley while four others raided the Umm Qays area south of the occupied Golan Heights.

Later, planes pounded the area of the East Ghor irrigation canal in the northern part of the valley. There was no word whether the raiders hit the waterway, only recently repaired following an Israeli attack.

The downed plane crashed in flames in Israeli-occupied territory, the spokesman said.

On Sunday, Israeli and Arab gunners fought artillery duels across two frontiers as Israeli planes crossed the Suez Canal in more strikes against Egypt's anti-aircraft defenses.

Artillery and mortar fire was exchanged across the Jordan River Sunday night after mortar shells were fired from Jordan at an Israeli frontier settlement south of the Sea of Galilee, according to witnesses in Israel.

There were no reports of casualties or damage in three Israeli border settlements that the Arabs shelled during the 75-minute clash.

Later, a fourth border village came in for Arab shelling, the military command reported, but there were no casualties.

Israeli and Egyptian forces exchanged fire across the Suez Canal, and a spokesman in Tel Aviv said Egyptian gunners set fire to Egyptian fuel dumps in the northern sector of the canal. An Egyptian military spokesman said this claim was "pure fantasy."

"The truth of the matter is that our artillery blasted enemy positions in the central and northern sectors of the canal throughout the day Sunday and the enemy was not able to reply to our dense fire except for a few scattered shots," the Egyptian spokesman asserted.

The Israeli spokesman said the purpose of the artillery barrage across the canal was to shell Egyptian guns that had shelled Israeli positions.

Israeli warplanes struck across the Suez twice Sunday. Egypt said one of the attacking planes was shot down and another hit. Israel said all planes returned safely.

DIET-IN AGAINST NERVE GAS — About 100 persons slumped to the sidewalk in downtown Seattle Sunday afternoon during a "die-in" sponsored by an organization called People Against Nerve Gas (PANG). The group is protesting Army plans to ship deadly nerve gas from Okinawa through Washington for storage in northwestern Oregon. PANG contends an accident could set the gas loose.

IRA Denies Gun-Running Involvement

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A government spokesman said today police have been ordered to get tougher with illegal groups in Ireland following a nationalist upsurge which shook the government of Prime Minister Jack Lynch.

The spokesman declined, however, to link the announcement with the arrest Sunday on a truck stealing charge of Cathal Goulding, a Dublin house painter known as chief of staff of the outlawed Irish Republican Army—IRA.

Police stopped the stolen truck in a Dublin suburb Sunday. In it were Goulding, a militant nationalist who has spent 17 of his 48 years in British and Irish jails; an associate, Michael O'Driscoll; and three men who got away. The IRA and allied groups advocate force to unite the Roman Catholic-Dominated Republic of Ireland with Northern Ireland, the British-controlled, largely Protestant province.

Lynch has urged a peaceful solution to the Irish problem. He fired two Cabinet ministers and accepted the resignation of a third after receiving reports of a gun-running plot to aid the Catholic minority in Northern Ireland. The IRA has denied involvement in the alleged plot.

The government spokesman said Goulding would not be charged under the act covering offenses against the Irish state.

Goulding and Driscoll were jailed and denied bail. Police were looking for the three other men. The truck contained no weapons, police said.

Prime Minister Jack Lynch recently fired two of his cabinet ministers, saying they were implicated in a plot to smuggle $72,000 worth of guns to rebellious Catholics in Protestant-dominated Northern Ireland.

Thor Hits Open Sea In 'Ancient' Boat

SAFI, Morocco (AP) — Gale winds and 15-foot waves pushed Thor Heyerdahl's papyrus boat Ra II steadily southwestward into the Atlantic today on the Norwegian explorer's second attempt to sail to America.

The 40-foot boat, copied from relief carvings and models found in ancient Egyptian tombs, left Safi Sunday morning under a cloudless sky, and the high wind quickly pushed it out to sea.

The Ra was reported more than 100 miles out of Safi in less than 24 hours.

Heyerdahl and his crew of seven are trying to reach the east coast of Mexico—a 4,500-mile voyage—by early August in an attempt to prove that Egyptian sailors could have done the same thing some 3,000 years before Columbus.

Heyerdahl failed in his first attempt to cross the Atlantic last year in a papyrus boat named Ra I. The fragile craft ran into the Caribbean hurricane season, almost sank, and its crew was forced to abandon it after completing two-thirds of the voyage.

"We are starting 10 days earlier this year, so we hope to avoid the hurricanes on the other side," the 55-year-old Heyerdahl said. "And the boat is of much sturdier construction. It's a real beauty."

Texas Commander Blasts Educated 'Milquetoasts'

CLEBURNE, Tex. (AP) — CLEBURNE, Tex. (AP) — Texas Department of Education Commissioner of the American Legion has denounced what he calls "sedition and draft evasion by cowards and over educated 'milquetoasts'."

"Some classes justify almost anything by calling it a right, including some of our spineless judges and weak-kneed leaders," commander Henry Hill of San Antonio told a Legion convention Sunday.

Hill said the deaths of the four Kent State students was "regrettable" but, he added, "When you live by the sword, sometimes you die by the sword."

"College rebels," he said, "know they are not going to be punished—they are not even bounced out of school any more."

Hill said he did not know why college students are dissatisfied. "They have more freedom than any people in the world and still moan for something for nothing," he said.

"Crisis is nothing new and different," Hill said. "It is time to square our shoulders, suck up our guts and tell the whole cotton picking world, 'We are proud to be Americans.'"

"It is time to take that no win war in Vietnam out of the hands of the politicians, untie our fighting men, bomb hell out of Hanoi and Haiphong and bring our boys home," he said.

The Weather Looks Good

By The Associated Press

Texas relaxed under fair weather and mild temperatures as a ridge of high pressure continued its slow pace across the state on its way to the East Coast.

The high pressure dome is expected to remain in the state through Tuesday.

Early morning skies were clear except for some high cloudiness drifting across Southeast and South Central Texas. Temperatures ranged mostly in the 60s with a few readings in the high 50s. At 5 a.m. Dalhart had the state's low with 53 and Beaumont had a high of 69.

The outlook for today was for clear to partly cloudy weather with warm temperatures.
