ESCAPES ASSASSINATION ATTEMPT — King Hussein of Jordan escaped an assassination attempt Tuesday in the midst of fighting between the Jordanian army and Palestinian guerrillas, the Amman radio reported.

Shooting Drama In Waco House

WACO, Tex. (AP) — One woman was killed, a second wounded and a third is being held by the sheriff following a shooting drama at a farmhouse on Farm Road 434, nine miles south of Waco Monday.

The dead woman, shot in the back, was found lying face down a few feet from the back porch. She was Annie Matthews, 75. The wounded woman, who is in satisfactory condition in the hospital, is Hanna Pintor, 84. She had wounds in her right hand and forearm.

The shooting was discovered when mail carrier George Merrick, passing on his rounds through the community of Downsville-Asa, heard a woman screaming in a field. She was struggling with another woman who held a large-caliber revolver.

He got the gun away and called the sheriff. When deputies arrived, they found the third woman barricaded in the house. She surrendered after an hour when they fired a single round of teargas against the window.

The woman is being held in the jail clinic. No charges have been filed.

Texas Labor Force Soars

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas unemployment reversed its upward movement in April, dropping from March's 3 per cent of the civilian labor force to 2.9 per cent, the Texas Employment Commission said today.

The labor force grew by 53,900 to a new total of 4,743,300 in April.

Unemployment decreased 4,000 to a total of 136,500 jobsless.

April's percentage, while lower than March's, was still higher than the 2.3 per cent unemployment recorded in April, 1969.

POLICEMEN ADMIT SPECIAL INTEREST

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Police have a special interest in three recent burglaries here.

The victims were policemen themselves, one on duty at the time.

Patrolman John Little reported two portable television sets were taken from his home and patrolman Paul Hernandez said three rifles and cases were stolen from his apartment.

Patrolman Richard Flack said that while he was on duty, a camera was stolen from his personal car — parked across the street from police headquarters.

Speedy Trial Right Denied, Solon Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., charging society is being deprived of the constitutional right to a speedy trial, introduced a bill today to require federal criminal trials start within 60 days of indictment.

The North Carolina Democrat and one of the Senate's leading authorities on the Constitution said "we must take steps to make the 6th Amendment right to a speedy trial—a right so far denied to both society as well as the defendant—a reality after all these years."

Ervin said the bill, co-sponsored by Michigan Democrat Philip A. Hart, also provides "a workable and constitutional alternative" to President Nixon's preventive detention proposal now being considered for the District of Columbia.

Until recently defense lawyers had little success invoking the speedy trial right of the Constitution. But last month the Supreme Court overturned the conviction of a Florida truck driver who was not tried until 7½ years after his arrest.

The justices did not define clearly what they consider to be too long a time, but they warned lower courts to enforce the right of a defendant to a speedy trial.

Ervin's bill would go into effect in four stages, starting first with serious felonies in which defendants have been detained under high money bail and gradually requiring other felony trials in the federal courts to be held within two months. Tax, anti-trust and security cases would be exempt.

Each district court would be required to establish plans to carry out the speedy trial mandate and to report to Congress the additional funds and personnel that would be necessary.

Ervin is a strong critic of the preventive detention proposal which would allow a judge to jail a defendant without bond if he decided the accused's past record gave a reasonable indication he would commit more crimes while free.

Supporters say preventive detention is needed because of what they claim is a high incidence of repeat crime by persons out on bond while waiting for months.

Ervin's bill also authorizes additional penalties for crimes committed while out on bond and provides for pretrial service agencies to supervise persons awaiting trial.

Shoot To Kill Okay Granted Dallas Cops

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A new directive to Dallas police says they must use warning shots but may shoot to kill when they feel the situation warrants such action.

Police Chief Frank Dyson, explaining his instructions about using firearms at a news conference Monday, admitted action had been hastened by two recent cases in which suspects had been shot.

He explained that the ban on the use of warning shots is "not intended to require officers to further endanger themselves or a third party by aiming to wound the offender, but neither is the aim to be calculated to kill."

"Weapons are to be used by an officer when, in the exercise of sound judgment, he has reason to fear for his own personal safety and the safety of others," the police chief said.

While the directive was based on state laws, he said, the sound judgment of the officer was emphasized.

"An officer's first reaction in a stress situation should not be to reach for his gun and fire, but rather to make a determination of whether he can do his job without using his weapon," Dyson said.

Each officer, he added, had the solemn obligation of "recognizing the importance of human life and remaining constantly aware of this in his performance of his duty as a policeman."

Dyson hinted that a shakeup in the departmental command of Dallas police was in the making. He also said the Dallas Chamber of Commerce is considering underwriting a public relations program aimed at giving the police department an improved image.

Armed Forces Seize Power In Argentina

Protesting Terrorism In Guatemala

GUATEMALA (AP) — Carrying the coffin of a slain university professor, 3,000 persons silently marched through Guatemala City Monday afternoon to protest his torture-death at the hands of right-wing terrorists.

As the procession slowly moved through the narrow streets of this central American capital, other mourners were attending the burial of a businessman killed by left-wing extremists in a playground Sunday morning.

Since April 3, when Ambassador Carl Von Spreti of West Germany was slain by leftist extremists, 45 persons have been killed by terrorists from the right and left of the Guatemalan political spectrum, according to an unofficial tally.

Recent victims include Justo Rufino Cabrera Guzman, an economics professor from the University of San Carlos in Guatemala City, and Jose Manuel Villaverde Vasquez, who managed a local drug company.

Cabrera was kidnapped Friday night. His body was found Saturday night about 10 miles outside the city. He had been tortured, then shot, once in the head and twice in the heart. His death was attributed to a right-wing group which calls itself "Ojo para Ojo"—An eye for an eye.

Jury Finds Hite Insane

STANTON — A Stanton jury Monday declared George Lewis Hite insane, and Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, ordered him sent to the Rusk State Hospital until he regains his sanity.

Hite is one of four persons charged in the July 10, 1969, robbery and murder of a Stanton gas station attendant. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith, Steven Blanchard and Hite were arrested by Midland police.

Smith is serving a 35-year sentence and Mrs. Smith is serving 19 years on these charges. Blanchard was on a five-year probation for burglary at the time, and his probation was subsequently revoked.

Hite listed his home as 1900 Tennessee in Midland at the time he and his companions were arrested as their car was being refueled at a station at the IS 20-Garden City road. A short time before, Marcus Terango, 35, lone attendant at a station on the IS 20-Lamesa road at Stanton was shot in the left temple with a small calibre weapon. Officers said the place had been robbed of about $125.

Blackmun Joins Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harry A. Blackmun of Rochester, Minn., was sworn in today as the 98th justice in Supreme Court history.

Blackmun, 61, took a seat vacant for 13 months and held in the past by Holmes, Cardozo, Frankfurter, and other judicial luminaries.

His hand on a Bible held by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, the new justice swore to "do equal right to the poor and the rich" and to support and defend the Constitution against all enemies, foreign and domestic.

Blackmun, like Burger, was named to the court by President Nixon. Their "strict constructionist" approach to the law evidently recommended them to Nixon and John N. Mitchell, the attorney general.

Burger has lived up to his billing by taking a uniformly conservative stance in his first term as chief justice. There are indications Blackmun may be more moderate than the man with whom he went to kindergarten and grade school in St. Paul.

Two other "strict constructionist" federal judges Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. of Greenville, S.C., and G. Harrold Carswell of Tallahassee, Fla., were rejected by the Senate for the seat Blackmun is taking.

It has been vacant since May 1969 when Justice Abe Fortas resigned amidst suggestions that he violated judicial ethics by taking a retainer from the family of financier Louis Wolfson, later sent to prison for illegal stock manipulation.

The seat has been graced with more luminaries than perhaps any other. It has been held by Joseph Story, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Benjamin N. Cardozo, Felix Frankfurter, Arthur J. Goldberg and Fortas, among others.

The last four occupants, Fortas, Goldberg, Frankfurter and Cardozo were Jews. Nixon broke with this tradition by nominating Haynsworth, Carswell and Blackmun, all Protestants.

Nominated by Nixon April 14, Blackmun was approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee, 17 to 0, May 4 and confirmed by the Senate, 94 to 0, May 12.

His statement directly contradicts the report released last Thursday by Mississippi Gov. John Bell Williams that said an investigation showed state troopers were shot at by a group of students outside a women's dormitory on the predominantly black campus.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A junta of military commanders took over the governing of Argentina today but the United States held off its recognition of them.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said: "The U.S. government cannot decide whether diplomatic relations exist or not until a decision is made on the legal status of the new government. We are studying the situation to see what the legal relationship is."

The military leaders ousted President Juan Carlos Ongania, the general who was installed in a military coup four years ago. Not a shot was fired in the scramble for power Monday and life went on mostly as usual for the three million residents of Buenos Aires.

The new junta contends it is a continuation of Ongania's regime—with Ongania ousted to correct "distortion" in his policies.

The United States had endorsed Ongania's military rule, despite its authoritarian nature. U.S. officials frequently praise the Ongania government's economic policies, which emphasized austerity measure to limit inflation, stabilize the currency and attract foreign capital.

The three military commanders—Lt. Gen. Alejandro Lanusse of the army, Adm. Pedro Gnavi of the navy and Brig. Gen. Juan Carlos Rey of the air force—were sworn in as provisional leaders of the nation of 23 million people. The junta said it would name a president within 10 days.

Among those being mentioned for the presidency are Eduardo Ortiz Basualdo, the conservative president of the Supreme Court who is reported to have powerful navy backing; Justice Minister Conrado Etchebarne, who has wide support in the army, and two retired army generals, Jean Enrique Gugliemelli and Osiris Villegas, both of whom are supported by factions that believe in rapid development of heavy industry.

The junta said their basic disagreement with Ongania was "the lack of a political solution for the revolution," the term used for the 1966 coup. Speeches in the last year by Lanusse indicate that he may seek a return to some democratic procedures before very long.

Growing dissatisfaction with Ongania came to a head Monday morning when Lanusse announced that the president had refused to accept a "political plan" from the armed forces calling on him to share power with civilian leaders. It appeared to suggest that a date be fixed for presidential elections.

Ongania then fired Lanusse, said he would take personal command of the 135,000-man army and barricaded himself in Government House behind the loyal, heavily armed 1,200-man presidential guard.

Says 'Insufficient Evidence' To Support Sniper Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man heading the government's probe of student deaths on the Kent State and Jackson State campuses says there is "insufficient evidence" to support officials' claims of sniper fire.

"We have at this time insufficient evidence to establish the presence of a sniper," Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard said of the May 15 deaths of two black youths in a fusillade of police bullets at Jackson State College in Mississippi.

His statement directly contradicts the report released last Thursday by Mississippi Gov. John Bell Williams that said an investigation showed state troopers were shot at by a group of students outside a women's dormitory on the predominantly black campus.

Leonard is head of the Justice Department's civil rights division and leader of a federal investigation into the fatal shootings by law enforcement authorities of the two youths at Jackson State, four students at Kent State University in Ohio and six men in Augusta, Ga. In an interview, Leonard was asked whether his statement could also be applied to the deaths at Kent State, where Ohio National Guardsmen said they had been fired upon by a sniper before shooting into a crowd of students demonstrating against U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

"Yes, there is insufficient evidence at Kent," Leonard replied.

The civil rights chief refused to comment on whether the probes, in the case of Kent State more than a month ago, had identified the officers or guardsmen who fired the fatal shots.

But he acknowledged, in the case of Jackson State, that "procedural problems" had hindered the investigation by FBI agents and Justice Department lawyers.

"The state patrol has not provided us with the weapons, nor have members of the state patrol been offered for interrogation," he said.

Leonard implied the refusal of Mississippi officials to cooperate with the investigation will necessitate calling a federal grand jury to subpoena evidence.

Fewer difficulties are being experienced in the Kent State investigation, Leonard said, although there are "unanswered factual and legal questions." He did not elaborate.

Leonard's statements came just a few hours before release of a Justice Department report from which a condemnation of police firepower during demonstrations had been deleted.

Intended to provide guidance for law enforcement agencies faced with large groups of demonstrators, the original version as shown in advance to newsmen said:

"It must be recognized that use of firearms is inconsistent with the government's objective of protecting the lives of its innocent citizens."

Turning specifically to what authorities said had precipitated the killings at Kent State and Jackson State, the original draft continued:

"Even when the lives of law enforcement officers or citizens are endangered by sniper fire, great care must be used to assure that the individual causing the shooting is the only object of police activity involving use of firearms."

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem I can't discuss with anyone I know. It's my husband. He's a wonderful person. The only thing wrong with him is that he can't get really excited about the unless I put on sheer lingerie and high heels, and he can tie me up with ropes. Aside from that he is a faithful husband, and a good provider. I am 24 and he is 27 and we've been married for nearly three years and so far have no children. (We both work.) My husband feels guilty that he should enjoy something so much that I find repulsive and frightening. He has pleaded with me to be more understanding. Do you think he could be dangerous? He isn't mean or cruel about anything else. Should I call it quits?

NO NAME IN MAINE DEAR NO NAME: If your husband insists that you submit to a farout fetish which you find "frightening and repulsive" — that's "dangerous" to call it. How "dangerous" he could be is anybody's guess, but from what you say about him, you are courageous — and perhaps foolish — to stick around to find out.

DEAR ABBY: Recently you recommended G A M B L E R S ANONYMOUS which I am sure was a big help to many compulsive gamblers. I have wished many times that there was an ADULTERERS ANONYMOUS for people like myself who are compulsive adulterers.

DEAR ABBY: It is a serious problem. I have a wonderful husband and family, but I have been involved in so many adulterous affairs that I can no longer count them. I am not overexposed. In fact, I'm just the opposite. I can't for the life of me understand why I deliberately get myself into such miserable situations which offer no sexual fulfillment, and put me in danger of losing my wonderful husband, and everything that is dear to me, if discovered.

DEAR ABBY: God bless "WALKING A TIGHTROPE," that wonderful woman who didn't want to continue to accept child support money from her "ex" because she had remarried and didn't need it, and her "ex" had remarried and needed it desperately to feed and clothe the children of his second wife, whom he had adopted. Tell her that here is one lawyer who says that even though her present "well to do" husband doesn't want to let her "ex" off the hook for child support, HE has nothing to say about it. Commiss Strengthen Their Supply Network SAIGON (AP) — The North Vietnamese strengthened their supply network east of the Mekong River today with the capture of Saravane, a provincial capital in the southern Laotian panhandle.

Informed sources in Vientiane said a battalion of enemy troops attacked Saravane shortly before midnight Monday and occupied it before dawn. The government garrison of 800 men was believed withdrawing to the east.

There were no reports of casualties on either side.

RIVER ROUTES Saravane lies some 70 miles northwest of Attapeu, a provincial capital of the North Vietnamese captured on April 30. Both towns are on strategic highways and provide access to several land and river supply routes from North Vietnam to South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Saravane, 320 miles southeast of Vientiane, was the last provincial capital still held by the government east of the Mekong in the southern panhandle. The town had been virtually surrounded by North Vietnamese troops and their Pathet Lao allies for some six years, and military analysts regarded it as almost undefendable. Attapeu also had been surrounded for years before it fell.

Military sources said the North Vietnamese apparently had refrained from attacking the two towns because of political considerations but decided to strike when the outbreak of the war in Cambodia brought about a need for more supply routes to the south.

RETAKE PORT When Attapeu was captured, Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma predicted that the fall of Saravane would follow. The government evacuated about 3,000 of the town's 7,000 inhabitants in mid-May, including civil servants, policemen and their families.

Meanwhile, a Cambodian military spokesman in Phnom Penh said that the government was planning to resume flights into the Siem Reap airport, recaptured Sunday afternoon from North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces.

Government planes were strafing and bombing nearby enemy positions night and day, but the situation was reported quiet at nearby Angkor, the site of the famed ancient temple ruins and the nation's chief tourist attraction.

The spokesman said light fighting also continued today in Kompong Thom, 80 miles southeast of Siem Reap, where government forces cleared Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops from the center of town Sunday after five days of fighting. Government planes were reported strafing and bombing the enemy today.

UNCOVER ARMS Along Cambodia's eastern border, U.S. and South Vietnamese forces continued to uncover caches of North Vietnamese weapons.

South Vietnamese infantrymen operating near Svay Rieng, 25 miles inside the Parrot's Beak area, turned up nearly 60 tons of arms and munitions in four caches.

U.S. troops found another two tons of rifles, submachine guns and a variety of ammunition four miles inside the harbor near Shakey's Hill, where hundreds of tons of munitions and supplies already have been pulled out.

Allied officials estimate that nearly 1,500 tons of munitions and supplies have been captured by American forces operating independently or with South Vietnamese units since April 29, perhaps with half again that much seized by South Vietnamese forces operating on

Pending Divorce Triggers Death

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A Houston man was shot and slightly wounded on a shopping center parking lot Monday and his assailant later turned the gun on herself, police said.

J. Wayne Hodges, 45, told police his wife Mandy fired six times at him and hit both arms and a leg. He was not seriously hurt.

Mrs. Hodges then drove to her son's home in nearby Katy, Tex., where she shot and killed herself, officers said.

Hodges told police that he and his wife were separated pending a divorce.

Ex-Officers Win Change Of Venue In Stomp Case

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A change of venue was ordered Monday for two former Houston policemen accused of beating to death a prisoner.

Dist. Judge Dan E. Walton ordered the trial set for Oct. 19 in New Braunfels in Comal County.

Charged with murder with malice are A. N. Hill and J. A. McMahon. They are accused of beating to death Bobby Joe Conner, 22, in the police station of the Houston suburb of Galena Park April 4.

The men are also charged with assault to murder in the beating of Conner's companion, Larry Taylor, 23. Taylor has claimed the officers beat and stomped them.

The change of venue came about after prosecutor and defense agreed that a fair trial could not be held in Houston.

Tricia Treasures Personal Privacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tricia Nixon, who treasures her personal privacy, has flown to New York to visit friends.

President Nixon's elder daughter made the flight Monday in a military aircraft, a White House spokesman said.

She did not permit announcement of her plans or the names of those she would visit.

Check Out Promises

AUSTIN (AP) — Atty. Gen Crawford Martin warned prospective buyers of vending machines to check out promises that the machines will yield a high profit.

Martin said his consumer protection division "has found that it is not unusual for certain companies to sell vending machines for several thousand dollars upon oral promises."

"Usually the company is to secure locations, set up the machines, and teach the purchaser how to operate them, when in fact none of the services by the company are forthcoming."

Often, Martin said, "the claim that individuals can make thousands of dollars per year on a few machines is grossly exaggerated. Experience has shown that the person who purchases machines from such companies is sometimes fortunate to earn enough in the first few years in business to repay his capital investment."

Gunboat Encounter Claims Conflict

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — The United States and North Korea refused to back down today from their conflicting accounts of last Friday's gunboat encounter in the Yellow Sea.

U.S. Army Maj. Gen. James H. Skeldon repeated South Korea's claim that North Korean forces attacked a lightly armed South Korean vessel south of the demilitarized zone, towed it into North Korean waters, and is now "illegally detaining" it and its 20 crewmen.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-sun insisted that the vessel was a heavily armed spy ship dispatched by the United States and that the North Koreans sank it north of the DMZ.

The exchange took place at the 302nd session of the Korean Armistice Commission, with Lee representing North Korea and Skeldon representing the U.S. Command.

Skeldon demanded a report on the condition of the vessel's crew members and the prompt return of the men and the boat. Lee demanded that the United States apologize for "dispatch-

Lengthy Agenda Faces Council

Both old and new business are listed for action today when the city commission meets at 5:15 p.m. in City Hall for a regular session.

Items listed for action today include:

A request to study the feasibility of reducing the police work week from 44 to 40 hours.

Selection of a city consulting engineer to assist the Public Works Department.

Selection of a consultant firm to aid the city in a study of sewage treatment problems.

Setting a time for the first meeting of the City Charter Action Committee with the commissioners.

Consideration of a request from the Big Spring Industrial Foundation that the 4.63 acre Intech site be annexed by the city.

Another look at the overrun in completion time for a chemical dispensing facility at the water treatment plant.

A request from city officials to repair the street department tractor which was part of the controversy over the purchase of a new loader for the sanitary landfill.

A request from the Public Works Department to buy 1,100 cubic yards of pre-coated aggregate for the annual street seal coat program.

A request from the Public Works Department to lease at $100 per year a 2 1/2 acre site to replace the nearly used up landfill site.

Appointment of a replacement for Dr. Robert Johnson on the Planning and Zoning Board.

A request for removal of restrictions against beer and liquor on a two-acre site south of Crestview park.

A request from the Five Watters Radio Club that the city lease the club one acre of land south of the American Legion Hall on US 87.

A claim for damages from Alfred Dorporto in the amount of $94.50 to replace a windshield said to have been broken when a city mower threw a rock at his car.

Traffic Commission recommendations for a crosswalk on FM 700 near the Carlton House Apartments and for a stop sign to be installed at the south exit of the Crestview Apartments.

Stolen Securities Information Secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — Theft of government securities has become so widespread that some insurance firms have balked at covering U.S. Treasury bonds, the Federal Reserve Board says.

Losses reached $20 million last year for banks in New York City alone. Wall Street brokerage firms were hit hard also, the board said.

The FBI, keeper of the only full list of which securities are stolen, won't make its data available to banks that may be confronted with a suspicious bond, the board told Congress.

The report was sent privately to the Federal Reserve

Board to a House investigating subcommittee. A copy was obtained by the Associated Press. The board made no mention of Mafia involvement in the rash of thefts from the multibillion-dollar flow on Wall Street of Treasury bills, bonds and notes — each a type of loan to the government that can be cashed in or sold.

But it said insurance firms have been hiking their fees for covering the government bonds in Wall Street hands since last fall and, in several cases, have refused to furnish any more protection.

The theft losses last year were substantially higher than any other year in history, the report said.

It cited the $13 million disappearance from the Morgan Guaranty and Trust Co. as well as two other New York bank cases that each topped $1 million.

Many Treasury bills are payable to the bearer and can be cashed easily. Other stolen securities have been used as collateral to get loans at banks ranging from Miami, Fla., to a small town in central Pennsylvania. Still other stolen bonds are carried overseas for sale.

The Federal Reserve Board report was sent in response to inquiries by Rep. Dante B. Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of a House government operations subcommittee.

The report said the Treasury had stopped keeping its central list of stolen securities 12 years ago, although it said several regional banks in the Federal Reserve system had renewed an informal checklist last fall to block attempts to cash stolen Treasury bills and bonds.

The FBI has a computerized list of stolen securities, but it will give out the information only to police agencies and not to banks, the board said.

The report recommended the FBI data be made available directly to banks, brokers and other financial firms. If this can't be done, it said some other federal agency should start keeping a computerized checklist of the stolen government bonds.

Agents Nab 'Sour Pot'

PIEDRAS NEGRAS, Mexico (AP) — Mexican federal agents confiscated approximately 250 pounds of marijuana Monday that was hidden in lemon crates.

Two federal officers, acting on a tip, arrested a man who claimed 19 lemon crates at the Piedras Negras railroad station. Acting on information supplied by him, agents then arrested a second man at a nearby hotel.

Agents said they had been and had been waiting for the marijuana shipment for almost a month.

Eleven of the 19 cases contained marijuana wrapped in cellophane and covered by a single layer of lemons on top. The marijuana was valued at the border at about $158,000. However, police say the weed would have brought about $500,000 in the U.S.

School Trustees Have Light List

A relatively light agenda faces trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District tonight.

Board members are expected to set the tax rate on the basis of $1.70 with $1.36 of that to local maintenance and 34 cents to the interest and sinking fund. The budget approved at the last meeting for 1970-71 is based on this tax rate.

Trustees will also begin discussion on provisions for a kindergarten program for children who are eligible. Legislation passed by the 61st legislature provided for kindergartens for underprivileged children.

There will be 54 teacher resignations for trustees to consider. They also will be asked to approve four new teachers for employment.

The bidding: South West North East 1♥ Pass 4♥ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♣. In the process of salvaging a seemingly lost cause, South—the declarer at four hearts—trumped away two winners, obtained the maximum mileage from a rather skimpy side suit and then crowned everything by bumping his opponents' trump honors together.

If West had opened a spade, South's fate would have been sealed, for after the defense cashes two spade tricks, they can sit back and wait to score the setting tricks in trumps. West's actual lead of the five of clubs, while it did not brighten declarer's outlook, at least provided the latter with a little room to maneuver.

Dummy's three of hearts was used to ruff the first trick and a small diamond was led. East followed with the five and South put in the ten. When West played the deuce of diamonds, declarer was back in the ball game. He led the ace of clubs and ruffed with the five of hearts to play another diamond.

East's jack of diamonds was topped by the queen and then South cashed the ace. With the fall of the king and nine, North's seven became established as the master card in the suit. The king of clubs was trumped with the six of hearts and the seven of diamonds was put thru.

East ruffed in with the seven of hearts and South discarded a spade. East shifted to the ace of spades and continued with the nine which declarer ruffed. A trump was led and when the ace and king appeared together, South claimed his contract. In all, he lost one spade and two hearts.

A Devotion For Today . . .

All were judged by what they had done. (Revelation 20:13, RSV)

PRAYER: O God, give me the courage to confess my sins rather than condemn my neighbors for their sins. Help me to forgive those who have sinned against me. Grant forgiveness to all who confess their sins unto Thee. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Youth Into The Political Fray

One of the most interesting imponderables of this year's elections is the extent to which youths will commit themselves to political action. If they really join the battle, members of Congress especially will feel the heat.

There is reason to believe that many young people, particularly those who gained a taste for campaigning with Eugene McCarthy and the late Robert Kennedy, will enter the political fray with enthusiasm and determination. Their cause, after all, is one that should enlist their best efforts: An end to the war in Vietnam and a rearrangement of our domestic priorities.

Some of the elders will object, of course. They do not relish the thought of having their records challenged by men and women who are young enough to be their children. Nor do they enjoy the prospect of being told what they should do by youths who are not yet eligible to vote.

All thinking Americans should encourage youths to become involved in the political process, though. There can be no better experience for those who doubt that the system can be changed by working within it. They will discover that change and reform are possible through direct political action.

For these are our sons and daughters. In a relatively few short years they will be governing this country. Political activism is the best possible prescription for those who doubt that our system of democracy can cope with the crises of modern life.

Was The Census System Right?

The debate over the validity of the 1970 national census will go on for a long time, if early comments are any indication.

Even after the "official" figures are released, probably by early Fall, many towns and cities will be protesting.

It appears that, as county after county and city after city in Texas hears its preliminary report, nobody is satisfied. Those communities which show losses voice vociferous protests. Even those cities which gained claim they had grown more in the past decade than the census revealed.

Who's right? Almost without exception, enumerators have been given high marks for their hard work, and few people put any blame on them.

But — was their system correct?

The mayor of one city which thought it should have shown more population simply stated: "We have to get out of our attitude of over-estimating everything."

Well, there's a lot of civic pride involved, and people like to boast that everything is always getting bigger and better.

In many areas, this patently is not true. But in others it could have been. If there's anything worth checking into in depth, it would be the system employed by the Census Bureau in 1970. It was a different method, and it may not have been the most precise one. This will have to be the ultimate answer.

Art Buchwald It's All A Matter Of Position

WASHINGTON — People who have been wondering why things have been unraveling so badly in Washington these days may be interested in the explanation of a distinguished Chinese scholar who visited the Capitol last week. Dr. Chun Ling is an expert in Feng Sui, otherwise known as the study of things in relation to where they are placed.

"Americans," Dr. Chun Ling said, "do not put much significance into what is in good harmony and bad harmony, but if buildings are not in harmony with each other, it is impossible for people to be in harmony."

DR. CHUN LING said that the most striking example of this could be illustrated by the fact that the White House faces north and the Capitol of the nation faces East, and both have their backs to the Washington Monument. When buildings face in different directions, they do not have common goals.

"The Supreme Court faces Lincoln and that is good, but Lincoln from his tomb must look at the back of the Senate and House of Representatives, and this is bad."

THE FENG SUI expert said it is no accident that the Pentagon is as strong as it is in Washington. "The Pentagon is much larger than the Capitol and White House, and the two smaller buildings cannot control the bigger one. Not only that, but the Pentagon has too many faces and too many entrances directed in all directions. This multi-faceted design has forced the Pentagon to get involved in every direction it faces." Dr. Chun Ling pointed something out to me that I had never noticed before, which shows how important the study of Feng Sui can be.

"THE PENTAGON is across the Potomac River and that is why the State Department, Capitol and even the White House have no control over it."

One of the most interesting things that Dr. Chun Ling said was that because the White House faces north, it looks on Lafayette Park. In the center of Lafayette Park is the Jackson Memorial, consisting of four giant antique guns. These guns have dominated every recent President's thinking. When the President is trying to think, it's inevitable that the guns in Lafayette Park can suggest military solutions to world problems. Dr. Chun Ling believes the guns should be removed at once and replaced with flowers.

WHEN STUDYING the science of Feng Sui, Dr. Chun Ling says that it is very important to know on what axis our nation's leaders sleep. If they don't sleep on the same geographic poles, they can disrupt the flow of the earth's magnetism.

I had my doubts about Dr. Chun Ling's last statement, and so I did some Feng Sui research on my own. It appeared there was a lot to what he said. For example, I discovered that Sen. Fulbright sleeps south to north and Martha Mitchell sleeps west to east. This is why they have never been able to see eye to eye on anything.

VICE PRESIDENT AGNEW, on the other hand sleeps south by southeast. Most Eastern Establishment newspapermen and commentators sleep north by northeast. This, and only this, is what is causing the disharmony between the Vice President and the press.

I tried to find out what direction President Nixon sleeps to make my study complete, but Ron Ziegler, his press secretary, told me emphatically "The President never sleeps."

'After All, It Could Be Worse'

NEW YORK (AP) — If you had to name the 10 common remarks in the English language that you get most tired of hearing year after year, which would you choose?

It's a fascinating game to play, because our vocabularies become so hackneyed with dull and repetitive phrases that with some people one feels he can carry on a conversation in his sleep.

There are so many trite sayings in our day-to-day talk that it is almost impossible to narrow them down to the 10 that are the most boring, but here is a list of potential candidates:

"What's new?"
"Hot enough out for you?"
"Cold enough out for you?"
"Here today, gone tomorrow."

"After all, it could be worse."

"Well, if you aren't a sight for sore eyes!"

"We simply have to get together for lunch sometime. I'm free most any day."
"Long time no see."
"I like your new suit. Too bad they didn't have one in your size."

"Speak about the devil, and look who shows up!"
"No can do."
"If I had it all to do over again, things would sure be different."

"If I were running this place, there'd be some changes made."
"Do you mind getting it, Jim?"
The smallest I've got on me is a $20."

"I don't like to gossip, but..."
"Age before beauty."
"You know?"
"I hate to say I told you so, but..."

"I'll match my public life with any man's."
"You never hear a word I say."
"Be my guest."
"Why can't you be like other husbands?"
"Wait'll I tell you what happened to me. It'll make your hair stand on end."

"The trouble with you kids is that you've had it too good. You don't know what it means to do without."

"Well, I must be off. Don't take any wooden nickels."

"All I can figure out is that it must be a virus of some kind. There's a lot going around."

"After they made him, they broke the mold."

Fuzzy Business Words

NEW YORK (AP) — Was it a mischievous Greek named Pan who brought about that recent plunge in the stock market? It might be difficult to prove, but it certainly makes as much sense as some of the other explanations.

Pan was the greatest trouble maker among the pagan deities. His mere appearance among them sent them into frantic flight, and he was suspected of filling humans with unreasonable terror — or panic.

In the absence of better explanations, why not just blame Pan for scattering the nymphs of Wall Street? We use his name regularly in the vocabulary of business, but sometimes we forget the fellow is an influence too.

In hopes that it will help workers, employers, financiers, investors and others find their bearings in these confused days, herewith is a list of words they commonly use without much thought as to their origins.

The meanings were checked by etymologists at Merriam-Webster, publishers of the Third New International Dictionary.

COMPANY. It means breaking bread together. Company and companion have the same derivation, from the Latin com, which means "with," and panis, which means "bread."

If you share bread with another you generally are in his company for some time. Understandably, this once meant that you enjoyed the other's company. Today, with some workers feeling they are paid in crumbs, it isn't always so.

MANUFACTURE. Curiously, this word has a meaning that contradicts the original. It means literally, "a making by hand." It comes from the Latin manus, or "hand," and facere, "to make."

The word now suggests machinery, although some corporate officers, viewing reports of falling productivity, are likely to charge union leaders with adhering to the literal definition.

BRIBE. This word started out well, but it's been all downhill since. It meant an honest scrap of bread, but it has degenerated morally. It comes from the Latin word, briba. When it came into the English language it meant "a gift begged," then "a present." Now it's a present meant to corrupt a person.

BUDGET. You certainly couldn't fit the U.S. Government budget into the old meaning, which was "a little leather bag." The Romans had a word, bulga, which the French borrowed as bouge. The English borrowed it from them as boggett and gradually it evolved to budget.

ACCUMULATE. Reassuringly, it means today just what it meant to a Rome banker. When a man speaks of accumulating a fortune as "making my pile," he is using the word correctly.

Around The Rim

Yeah, Who Is To Judge?

I have a problem that's beginning to worry me to death.

AS IF I didn't have enough on my mind, I pulled up at a stop light the other day and was brought to attention by the car in front of me. Plastered on it's backside was a sign saying "America — Love It Or Leave It." Nothing else — just that simple demand.

Now, what bothers me is that usually, bumper stickers with a message to convey "ask" you to do something. You know, like "Help Stamp Out Monday Mornings" or "Please Keep Your Distance." The point is, no matter what they are pushing or protesting, they leave the impression that I have a choice, rather than demanding compliance.

I'M PRETTY well trained at following orders, so I don't mind that so much, but as an American, I have also been taught not to follow blindly, and I am confused as to exactly what this sticker is demanding of me.

"Love It." Hmmm. Who is to be the judge of whether or not I love it — and who is to say how I can or cannot show that love? Am I required to prove my love to some head beagle? Must I register my love some place? Do I have to provide documents of some kind that are acceptable to a nameless bureau?

IT'S GOT ME shaking in my boots. What if I should somehow fall to prove my love to this bumper sticker's satisfaction? Has this anonymous strip of paper, paint and glue been granted the authority to tell me I must "leave it?" Without my knowledge have all the other citizens elected this red, white and blue product of a print shop as my judge and jury? If so, maybe I could even accept that.

BUT IF SUCH is the case, and I do not pass the test, does this "thing" then also assume responsibility for telling me when I must leave — where I must go — how much it will cost — who will loan me the money — and what I can take with me?

It's something I feel I should know. I want to do right. I vote. I pay taxes. I try not to break too many laws or force my standards and beliefs on other people. Somewhere in the attic, I even have an honorable separation certificate and minor commendation from a branch of the United States Military.

YET THAT MAY not be enough to satisfy this bumper sticker. What if I should decide to use my right to protest by sitting in front of a bulldozer, invading a building or picketing the White House? Certainly, I would have no fear of the results of such actions if the young, hot-headed rebels who founded this country were still around. But they aren't. And times have changed. I may be in trouble. —JO BRIGHT

Is It Wishful Thinking?

WASHINGTON — Two books written by his great and good friend, the Rev. Norman Vincent Peale, should be very useful to President Nixon in the Indochina dilemma. One is "The Power of Positive Thinking" and the other, published seven years after the first best-seller, "The Amazing Results of the Power of Positive Thinking."

In his latest broadcast the President applied positive thinking to the ultimate limit. He made positive statements that many long familiar with the course of the war in Vietnam believe rest on wish rather than on fact. And unless the results are proved amazing, as in the sequel, the President's positivism can come back to haunt him.

IT WAS HARDLY a surprise that he claimed the Cambodian operation was the greatest success in the war thus far. In a more sober and rational fashion he repeated much of the reasoning that on April 30 in a highly emotional wrapping he had given as justification for the action. The primary motive was to destroy the sanctuaries, save American lives and advance the Vietnamization program. One important difference, however, between April 30 and June 3 was that the latter said nothing about the headquarters for the entire Communist military operation in South Vietnam, "the key control center" occupied by the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong. This was "COSVN," which either was beyond the 21-mile limit set by the commander-in-chief or it was a myth, since the invaders found no evidence of it.

ANOTHER AND equally important difference was brought to light by the President's Secretary of Defense, Melvin R. Laird. A week after the April 30 broadcast Laird told a group of newspapermen that it was not correct to say that the Communist troops in the Cambodian sanctuaries were poised ready for an attack across the border into Vietnam. They were going westward deeper into Cambodia. He went on to say that the sanctuaries were not as well defended as they had been. This was established by the sweep which brought such plaudits for the South Vietnamese forces. The Communists apparently had up to two days warning of what the President proclaimed as a drama even then unfolding.

LAIRD'S REMARKS seemed a clue to an even more pressing reason than any given by the President for Cambodia. That is to prop up the wobbly Lon Nol government. To allow it to fall would open the way for the return of Prince Norodom Sihanouk backed by the Communist force. Phnom Penh would then be another Hanoi.

WHAT DEEPLY disturbs many observers is that this effort, however laudable in theory, will not be possible without direct help in the future from the United States. The South Vietnamese forces and the Thai "volunteers" are carrying the battle deeper into Cambodia. Large parts of the country are being laid waste, including the rubber plantations that have been a chief source of employment and export earnings. Latest reports tell of fighting between Cambodian and Communist forces at a town only 10 miles from the capital.

WHEN THE Cambodians, cum Vietnamese and Thais, falter and call for help, what does Washington do? The B-52 strikes will continue but, as has been proved in South Vietnam, this is not enough. To let the Lon Nol regime go down the drain after all the Administration rhetoric will be an advertisement of failure for the Cambodian adventure. Not just the sanctuaries but virtually the entire nation will be a Communist preserve. (Copyright, 1970, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

The Common Sense Of Mrs. Smith

WASHINGTON—The importance of being Sen. Margaret Chase Smith is considerable. She speaks for the communal grace which is called civilization.

Mrs. Smith is only incidentally a Republican and a State-of-Mainer. She is a citizen of the world of good manners. She has always been both dainty and genteel, but she keeps reminding us that the possession of class need not proscribe toughness.

WHILE THE wild-eyed exhibitionists of the Women's Liberation Movement endorse prostitution, and other silly women bleed publicly and masculinistically for the foul-mouthed wreckers of the under-30 mob, Mrs. Smith talks womanly common sense. The lowered voice in which she attacked youthful violence in a Senate speech was that of a lady from New England who stands for good house-keeping—in the nation as well as in the kitchen.

MARGARET CHASE SMITH, thank heaven, is a throwback to Margaret Chase Smith. In her speech, as all through her life, she refused to accept the fashionable premise that dirty words, arson and intimidation are the answer to the untidy house in which we live. She had the courage, in this era of Beautiful People and arrogant children and craven adults, to say a word on behalf of self-discipline and respect for others.

"WE HAVE a national sickness now," as we had a national sickness during the sordid days of the late Sen. Joe McCarthy, Mrs. Smith told the Senate. She spoke of the "militant intellectuals who refuse to listen "while demanding communication," and of "the way the campus has been made a rendezvous for obscenity, for trespass, for violence, for arson and for killing."

To Mrs. Smith, "trespass is trespass—whether on campus or off; violence is violence—whether on campus or off; arson is arson—whether on campus or off. . . . Criminal acts cannot be condoned or excused because of panic, whether the offender be a policeman, a National Guardsman, a student or one of us in this legislative body."

AND IN PLAIN, simple English, she stated the hard fact of American historical life. For those grownpup rabbits who insist on "understanding" the excesses of militant youth, she issued the warning that the extremism of the "anti-democratic. . . political extreme left" confronted the country with a choice between "anarchy and repression." Given such a choice, she said, "the American people even with reluctance and misgiving will choose repression—because repression is preferable to anarchy and nihilism to most Americans."

IN SHORT, Mrs. Smith of Maine is telling us all to get those dirty dishes out of the sink, make the beds and dust the parlor furniture. She is telling us that we all live in a sium and that we must, in the New England phrase, "Neaten up." At 72, bless her, she has proved that her kind of woman is never too old to speak an ill-mannered nation. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Groundbreak Ceremony Set For June 18

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the All Faith Chapel to be constructed on the grounds of Big Spring State Hospital will be held Thursday, June 18, at 1 p.m., hospital chaplain Lee Butler announced Monday.

Among those asked to attend the brief ceremonies are Mayor J. Arnold Marshall, County Judge Lee Porter, District Judge Ralph Caton, Chamber of Commerce President Paul Meek, Volunteer Council Chairman Dr. Harold Smith, All Faith Chapel Committee Chairman Frank Hayford of Midland, and former volunteer chairman Jack Y. Smith, Hospital Superintendent Dr. Preston Harrison will also participate in the ground-breaking.

Houston Hill, Inc., Midland, was low bidder on the project at bid openings last Thursday with a proposed cost of $125,800. Architect Daryle Hohertz said today that actual construction on the project will probably begin within the next two weeks.

The chapel fund has risen to near $150,000 from contributions from individuals, businesses and foundations, but is still shy of the $200,000 needed to fully equip and furnish the non-denominational chapel.

Box Seats For Rodeo On Sale

Big Springers are urged to make arrangements now for box seats at next week's Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and rodeo.

Seats are down front, next to the fence and afford spectators a ring side seat for the action.

Alton Marwitz, who is working with the Chamber of Commerce in box seat sales, said there are still some good boxes available at this time.

Citing the advantages of sitting "down front" Marwitz said, "You're just down closer and it makes you feel you are part of the action."

Residents may buy tickets at the chamber office or contact Marwitz or any member of the rodeo association.

Tickets are $15 for the season or $6 per night. They have six chairs and are directly behind the arena rail.

Napper Receives Nursing Degree

Terry Napper, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Napper, 1025 Stadium, will be graduated Friday night from the Methodist Hospital School of Nursing in Lubbock.

Napper is a 1966 graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Howard County Junior College and Texas Tech before transferring to the nursing school.

His wife, the former DiAnn Ammonette, Lamesa, attended Howard County Junior College and received her bachelor of arts degree in sociology this spring from Texas Tech. They will be living in Kerrville where Napper is to be employed as a surgical nurse at Peterson Memorial Hospital.

WEATHER

Table with weather forecasts for Southwest Texas, West of the Pecos, and North Texas, including temperature ranges and precipitation chances.

WEATHER FORECAST - Showers are forecast Tuesday for the Midwest, South and West. Rain is expected in the West. There will be mild weather in the East, warm weather in the Midwest and cool weather in the West.

PRODIGY OFF TO COLLEGE AT 14 - After studying for only one year at Newton High School, 14-year-old Gerald C. Antonine of Newton, Mass., son of a Northeastern University mathematics professor, graduated last night. The youth has already earned 52 college credits toward a degree in electronic engineering at Northeastern where he plans to attend this fall as a member of the Class of 1972.

Big Enrollment In 'Y' Programs

Summer YMCA programs held at the central Y are in their second week with 877 persons currently enrolled in classes.

Programs got under way June 1 but several classes are meeting for the first time this week.

Teenage girls volleyball will meet for the first time today from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. and continues meeting on Tuesday and Thursdays. Teenage boys handball begins today from 3:30 to 4:30 and is a Tuesday-Thursday class.

Of special interest to many Big Spring residents will be the demonstration classes for speed reading to be held for the first time Thursday morning at 10 a.m. Demonstration sessions will continue through June 23. At that time a class will be set up from among those interested in taking the seven-week course.

Beginning guitar classes get under way Friday at 10 a.m. and continue for eight weeks meeting once a week at that time. Minimum age for the lessons is fifth grade elementary school.

Fun Program To Good Start

The Citywide Summer Recreation program is off to a good start with nearly 300 enrolled.

At Comanche Trail Park, 125 youngsters are signed for the sessions which run Monday through Friday until July 31. Last year peak enrollment was 88.

More than 160 have signed to participate in the program at Lakeview YMCA.

The boys' basketball program also is shaping, with some 50 lads signed for five teams. Others are asked to report at 7 p.m. daily at Runnels Junior High gymnasium, but to do so as soon as possible so schedules can be drawn for league play on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of each week through July 28.

The schedule of games, arts and crafts, contests, nature hikes, swimming, etc. are available without charge to every school-age child in the city. Others who would like to share in this fun are asked to report to the Old Settlers.

Tractor, Car Collide

Deputy Sheriff S. K. Roberts investigated a tractor-car accident about 11 a.m. today a mile east of Luther. Santos Mendez, Box 88, Coahoma, was driving the car; and the tractor was driven by Ellis Gutierrez Jr., Luther. There were no injuries.

Rumor's Coalition Gets Strong Boost

ROME (AP) - Italy's first regional elections have given Premier Mariano Rumor's center-left coalition government a strong boost, while the Communists did not do as well as generally expected.

The voting Sunday and Monday put Rumor's coalition in control of 12 of Italy's 15 new regional legislatures, and the four government parties got 58.2 per cent of the 32.7 million votes cast, an improvement of 2.8 per cent over the last national election in 1968.

The Communists and their allies, the Proletarian Socialist party, took 31.1 per cent of the total vote, won a majority in the legislature of the north central region of Emilia-Romagna, which includes Bologna, and were the biggest vote-getters in Tuscany-Florence and Umbria. But in the latter two regions they fell short of a majority and will have to win the support of one of the center-left parties to govern.

After gaining in every major election since the war, the Communists got 27.9 per cent of the vote, a tenth of a per cent under their 1968 showing. The Proletarian Socialists lost nearly one-third of their support, dropping to 3.2 per cent. The Communists' failure to gain was believed due at least partly to a party split over the 1968 Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The regional governments are being set up in an attempt to achieve a sweeping decentralization of the government promised by the 1948 constitution.

The regional legislatures will be able to draft laws concerning urban planning, agriculture, hunting and social and medical assistance. The precise limits of the regional powers are to be prescribed by the central parliament within two years.

The Communists will have local control over nearly one-fifth of the Italian territory, a wide strip across the peninsula containing eight million people, or 15 per cent of the population.

The center-left coalition gained votes despite a drop of nearly one per cent by Rumor's Christian Democratic party, the largest in Italy, which took 37.9 per cent of the vote. Factional feuding and an unusual lack of public support by the Roman Catholic hierarchy were blamed for the slight Christian Democratic decline.

The big party's loss was offset by gains for the Unitarian Socialists, which took 7 per cent of the vote; the Republicans, 2.9 per cent, and the Socialists, 10.4 per cent.

The gains by the coalition partners were expected to increase support for legalization of divorce in Italy, which they want and the Catholic party opposes.

The concentration of votes in the center was expected to strengthen Rumor's hand in a coming test of strength with labor. The unions embarked this spring on a forceful campaign of strikes for social reforms, including health, housing and tax benefits. The government said it could not afford all of them right away. The unions called a truce for the last two weeks of the campaign, but Monday night they announced a new series of strikes.

Rites Wednesday For UT Newshen

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) - Helene Wilke McNaughton, the first woman editor of the University of Texas' Daily Texan will be buried Wednesday here.

Mrs. McNaughton died Sunday after a lengthy illness. She was editor of the student newspaper during the 1944-45 school year and was graduated from the university in 1945.

She worked for the Austin American-Statesman after graduation and then received a scholarship to the Tobe-Coburn School of Fashion in New York. She worked for Charm Magazine from 1950 to 1953 when she moved to Houston to marry Paul D. McNaughton.

She was women's editor of the Houston Post for a brief period in 1954 and recently was public relations director for the Houston chapter of the American Heart Association.

Survivors include her husband, three daughters, Charlotte, Lauren and Marilyn, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Wilke of Austin.

Covert Treated For Shot Wound

Ronald F. Covert, 2204 1/2 Runnels suffered a gunshot wound in the head Monday at 6:37 p.m. He was taken to the Medical Center Memorial Hospital after discovery by his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Covert, and was later transferred to the Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. He was reported to be in a critical condition.

C-City Council Accepts Report

COLORADO CITY (SC) - The city council Monday evening accepted as complete the engineering study made by Parkhill, Smith and Cooper in connection with the city's Master Plan. It also fit into the Chamber of Commerce face-lifting project, Operation-Pride. Cost of the study was $2,800.

The council also voted to purchase a used grader from the Plains Machinery Company of Abilene for $4,000; to renew the Community Action program for lease of 2,000 square feet of space in the Community Center at $400 per month paid in kind to match federal funds; and to re-appoint Dr. Ken Cowan as city health officer at $50 per month.

Michael Smith Funeral Set

Funeral for Michael Ray Smith, 23, former Big Spring resident, will be held Thursday afternoon in Richardson. Mr. Smith was killed March 2 in a plane crash near Salt Lake City, Utah. The body was only recently recovered and identified.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Smith and lived here until he became of high school age. The family then moved to Richardson where the parents still reside.

Survivors include the parents, two brothers, all of Richardson; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Beulah Radford, Big Spring; and paternal grandmother, also of Richardson.

Guy Mitchell's Rites Wednesday

COLORADO CITY (SC) - Funeral services are to be held at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday for Guy Mitchell, former Westbrook resident. Mr. Mitchell, 78, died Saturday night in a nursing home in Brawley, Calif., after a long illness.

Rites are to be in the Kiker and Son Chapel, with burial in the Westbrook Cemetery.

Mr. Mitchell was born Sept. 10, 1891. He had lived in the Westbrook area for several RACE RIOT IN AUSTRALIA - Anti-apartheid demonstrators clash with policemen as they try to enter stadium in Melbourne, Australia, to break up the women's basketball game between South Africa and Victoria State. After the demonstration was quelled, South Africa went on to win the game, 36-25, over the weekend.

Meek Heads Chemical Unit In Petrofina Meet

Paul Meek, president of Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, returned during the weekend from Brussels, Belgium, where he attended the 1970 congress of Petrofina, S.A.

For the first time the congress included a section on chemicals, and Meek was selected to chair it. Other sessions dealt with distribution, exploration and production, and refining.

The chemical section also included sub-sessions on research and diversification. This marks the 50th anniversary of Petrofina, S.A. and the congress was preceded by a dinner presided over by the King of Belgium. A booklet commemorating the 50 years has been issued.

The concluding function was a summary meeting June 5. Also attending from the United States were Harry A. Jackson, chairman of American Petrofina, a subsidiary of SA; R. I. Galland, president; C. W. Shouse, vice president refining; and C. W. Hancock, president of American Petrofina Exploration Company. Cosden is a subsidiary of American Petrofina.

Site Preparation For Intech Plant Near Completion

As preparation of the Intech site nears completion, Big Spring Industrial Foundation officers have issued a second call for local business men to turn in the first third of $200,000 in pledges.

The Foundation so far has received approximately $47,500 of the $70,000 first pledge call. John Currie, secretary-treasurer of the foundation, said this morning that preliminary site development of the initial 4.63 acre tract, which abuts Lorilla street north of the T&P railway spur to Webb AFB, has been completed except for any changes required by the recently announced plant expansion from one proposed production line to two.

Currie said these changes would involve only slight change in the grade of the planned T&P railway spur which is to border the initial site on the north. Other preparations included clearing and grading the site.

Robbery Case Heads Docket

A 1966 armed robbery is the first of 12 criminal cases set for trial the week of June 22 in 118th District Court.

Carroll Trantham, under indictment for the April 16, 1966, robbery of Vernon's Liquor Store, 1000 E. 4th, is scheduled for a jury trial at 10 a.m. June 22.

Other cases on the docket include Joe E. Barron, driving while intoxicated, second offense; Richard R. Green, burglary; Bennie E. Hatfield, murder with a motor vehicle; Wayne Childs, making, drawing and delivering a worthless check with intent to defraud; Robert Lee James, two counts of forgery and passing a forged instrument and one count of forgery; Joe Nance, defrauding with a worthless check; A. J. Mize, driving while intoxicated, second offense; Antonio Galaviz, forgery and passing; and James Reed, sale of marijuana.

Judge Ralph Caton has set docket call for 2 p.m. June 15 for the 10 defendants.

Aggies Won't Enjoy Your Humor, You'll Like Food

Tell your Aggie jokes to an Aggie this week - after all, he will show his appreciation by selling you a ticket to the annual Aggie scholarship barbecue Thursday evening.

He may not enjoy your humor, but you'll enjoy the barbecue. And to make certain that you do, the food committee headed by Don Newsom is laying in a store of good things for the traditional gathering at Comanche Trail Park amphitheatre.

Wednesday evening he will summon his fellow Aggies to a meat slicing party, also for picking beans - some 75 gallons (when cooked, that is), along with preparing 600 pounds of potato salad, plus scores and scores of pounds of onions, pickles, and other trimmings.

There will be an Aggie tea party, too, preparing 35 gallons of tea for the T sippers and others.

Tickets for the affair ($1.50 for all you can eat) are now being sold by members of the Aggie Club. A highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the scholarship to A&M, worth $250 a year to the recipient for the next four years.

This is the 17th annual barbecue, but the Aggie Club has awarded more than 20 scholarships.

Mail, Mafia Link Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress wants to quiz the Post Office on links between mailmen and the Mafia.

A House government operations subcommittee has asked Chief Postal Inspector William J. Cotter to a hearing June 18 on his force's efforts to combat the spreading epidemic of thefts from the mails.

A subcommittee source said the hearing would zero in on what he called an apparent lack of training for postal inspectors in coping with organized crime.

The panel, headed by Rep. Dante B. Fascell, D-Fla., has been conducting a series of hearings on the preparedness of federal agencies' investigators to deal with Mafia-related crimes.

The Mafia has been connected in court cases with the misuse of credit cards stolen from the mails by postal employees in Brooklyn and elsewhere.

An Associated Press study last month found millions of dollars in credit cards, stocks, checks, and merchandise are being stolen by postal employees each year. More than 1,100 mailmen have been arrested for theft in the past 10 months.

The study found organized crime often provides an underground channel for disposing of stocks, government securities, credit cards and other items stolen and sold by mailmen.

Tour Of Gins Is Scheduled

Howard County ginners will get a chance to tour several area gins June 16 beginning at Ballinger Co-op Gin at 11 a.m. and ending at Lowake Inn about 8 p.m.

Gins to be included on the tour are the Ballinger Gin; Wilde Gin Co.; Rowena; Runnels County Gin; Rowena; H. J. Kasberg Gin, Miles; Lowake Co-op Gin Co.; Lowake.

The tours will emphasize gin machinery, maintenance of machinery and quality of ginning.

WWI Vets Slate Thursday Meet

Members of World War I Veterans barracks and ladies auxiliary will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the IOOF Hall, Ninth and Magnolia, for the regular monthly meeting.

Routine business pertaining to the state convention in Abilene in July will be presented as well as other barracks projects. There will be a sandwich supper, and all members of the two groups are asked to attend.

KAYAK COMMUTER — Ann Sigford, a junior at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis, commutes to class at least twice each week by kayak. She carries the 50-pound craft on her head to get it to the river, then paddles for about half an hour to reach the university. About the only thing that bothers her about kayak commuting, Miss Sigford said, is the wake left by the big Mississippi River barges.

Tornado Threats In West Texas

By The Associated Press
 A tornado threat in Crosby County and bristling thunderstorms in other sections plagued weather-jittery West Texans across a broad stretch of countryside again Monday night.
 Soaking rains fell as far south as Terrell County on the Mexican border, where Weather Bureau observers said the downpours probably set off flash floods in remote areas.
 Word of a funnel cloud being sighted near Ralls caused an official tornado warning to go up for a strip from Lorenzo to Crosbyton, but peace officers said they found no trace of damage.
 The Weather Bureau reported hailstones up to 1½ inches thick pounded other localities, principally in the Lubbock vicinity, and heavy rains blew through that sector on vicious winds. Lubbock measured .63 inch of rain.
 Winds up to 35 miles per hour flailed Tulia, between Plainview and Amarillo.

 At one time a severe thunderstorm watch covered 40 counties in Northwest Texas and five counties in Southwest Texas, remaining in force for some until 1 a.m. The alerted sector centered on a belt 140 miles wide from 50 miles northeast of Amarillo to 70 miles west-northwest of Hobbs, N.M.
 Scattered thundershowers continued into this morning, spreading southward toward Del Rio and eastward to around Fort Worth and Dallas.
 The evening turbulence capped a day of summery weather which saw temperatures climb as high as 93 degrees at El Paso and Wichita Falls.
 Another round of thunderstorms was predicted by tonight in parts of Northwest Texas along with occasional showers in central and southwest sections of the state.

House Decides It Needs New Look At Indochina

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring it needs a new look at Indochina, the House has decided to send its own task force to Vietnam to review the progress of the war.
 After three hours of wrangling and four roll calls, the House Monday approved 223 to 101 a resolution creating a special 12-member committee to investigate all aspects of U.S. military involvement in Southeast Asia within 45 days.
 The resolution was sponsored by Rep. G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., who is expected to lead the committee. He said it would provide the House with information independent of that gathered by presidential commissions or other study groups.
 It is planned for the House committee to leave after a special group of senators, representatives and other governmental leaders returns from a Vietnam trip requested by President Nixon.
 Monday night a farmer, a housewife, a minister and a retired professor left at Nixon's instigation as part of an eight-member delegation going to Vietnam for a repeat of a trip they made more than two years ago.
 "It is my firm opinion," said President Nixon in a letter last March to Rep. Fred Schwengel, R-Iowa, an organizer of the trips, "that it would be useful for you... to make another visit to the same places you saw before."
 The House debate Monday split along hawk-dove lines, with antiwar members contending the committee would be "carrier pigeons" of the military view of the war.
 Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, suggested all 430 House members be armed with rifles and go to Southeast Asia to relieve two Army battalions.
 The committee will be composed of six members of each party. Two members each will come from the House Armed Services and Foreign Affairs committees, with the remainder from the House at large.
 On a separate roll call the House voted against a preamble Montgomery originally had written into his resolution. The preamble was eliminated by an amendment in the House

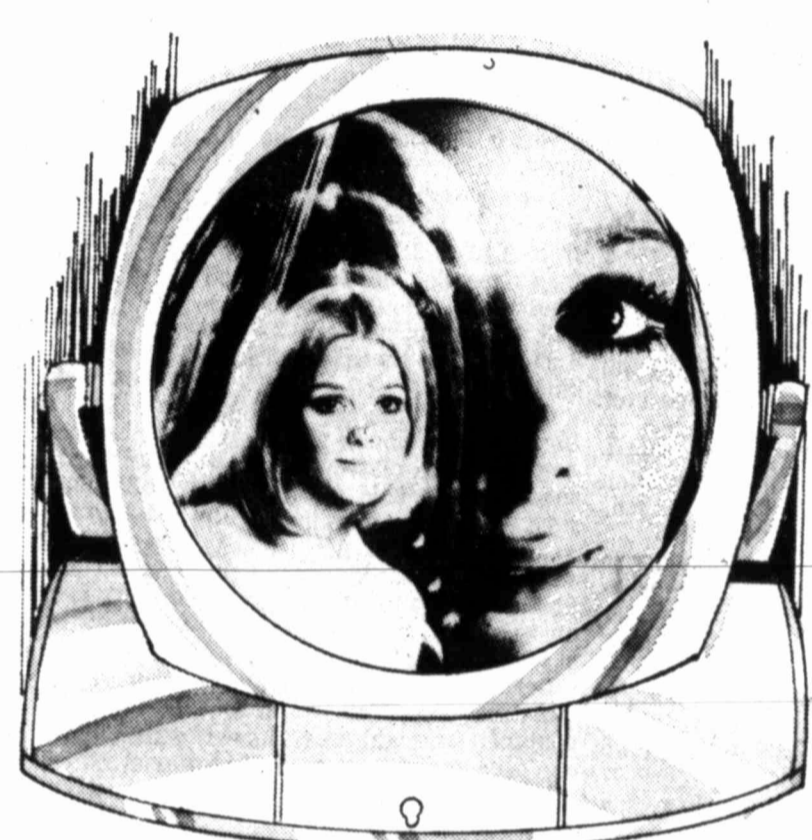

Rules Committee. It stated the use of U.S. troops in Cambodia had "added a new dimension to the war in Southeast Asia."
 While Montgomery favored elimination of the preamble, House doves sought to retain it and forced the vote in which the House sustained the elimination 210-84.
 Meanwhile, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., returned from Vietnam Monday and said President Nixon's decision to send troops into Cambodia was an "unqualified success."
 Tower was one of a dozen government leaders named by the President to survey the Vietnam situation.
 On his return, Tower told reporters in Los Angeles the Cambodian operation would hasten withdrawal of American troops and speed up Vietnamization of the war.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Do all those little duties that make your home more attractive, charming and efficient. Add to value of property. Get advice from a clever person in business how to increase income.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) If you will just talk over your aims with good friends, you find they will help you to gain them. Go out socially and meet people who are very worthwhile. Try to be as financially independent as you can.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) Get those personal duties handled that make you a more charming person. Then get rid of problems you may have. Get advice from expert for advancement. Evening is fine for entertaining good friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Out with good pals although they may be quite demanding. Get out of that penurious attitude you have. Be off to the social party and have a good time. Do not get home too late in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get busy at career duties early and do your work so efficiently that you make a good impression on others. Get into some civic work that appeals to you very much. Be very clever at it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Success for your fondest dreams are bright, although they were discouraging before this. Show you will listen to wise suggestions. Stop being so cold toward others. Be happy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have been putting responsibilities aside because they were annoying you, but you can get into them now enthusiastically. Show true feelings toward attachment. Be highly romantic and get right reasons.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) A good day for long talks with associates and getting the right results. Have a better understanding for the future. Show that you are interested in public work.

Ritual Killer Eludes Police

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Police are seeking a ritualistic slayer who calls himself "The Candlelight Killer" and is blamed for three murders—including one which landed him in a mental hospital for three years.

Named by police was Robert Liberty, 23, who was declared insane in 1966 in the strangulation of his 31-year-old girl friend. Burning candles were found by her body.

Liberty was released from a state mental hospital in Atascadero in Sept. 15, 1969, after six court-appointed psychiatrists testified he had regained his sanity.

He was charged with murder and flight to avoid prosecution after his roommate, Thomas Astoria, 25, was found shot to death March 12 in Orange County south of Los Angeles.

Police said the fugitive kidnaped a 17-year-old motorist in Long Beach last Saturday and forced him to drive to Westminster, where Liberty robbed his own mother of $45 at gunpoint in her home, saying she owed him the money.

Then the motorist was forced to drive on to San Diego, where Robert Irion, 52, was beaten, stabbed and strangled in his apartment.

"The Candlelight Killer strikes again" was scrawled in pencil across a closet door and two candles were left burning beside the body.

Police said Richard Greytak, the young motorist, told them Liberty kept him tied up during seven hours in Irion's apartment. He freed himself unhurt.

Finch's First Assignment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert H. Finch's first assignment as a White House counselor will be to run a $10-million program of special aid to earthquake-ravaged Peru.

An announcement Monday did not say if Finch will go to Peru, where the government estimates 50,000 persons died in the May 31 earthquake. Peace Corps Director Joseph Blatchford already is in Lima.

Finch, who has served as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare for 17 months, will go to the White House staff when the Senate approves Elliot Richardson as his successor in the Cabinet post.

In his first White House task Finch will set up a special steering group including representatives of the Agency for International Development, HEW, the Peace Corps and the Department of State and Defense.

Ray Tollett Gets Army Commission

Raymond Lee Tollett Jr., 606 Hillside, was one of 92 second lieutenants in the Army commissioned at the University of Texas at Austin at the close of the spring semester. A total of 139 commissions were awarded to students from the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Charged In Knife Slaying Of Wife

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston police had an all-points alert out today for a Houston man charged in the knife slaying of his wife.

It was the second time police hunted Jonas Dalton McGough for slaying his wife. He was indicted 19 years ago in Texas City in the shotgun death of his former wife, but was found insane.

This time police have charged him with stabbing to death his present wife, Mrs. Geneva McGough, who was found dead Sunday in the couple's home, a butcher knife in her neck.

McGough, 51, was last seen Saturday drawing out $1,400 from his bank account. Mrs. McGough was found dead Sunday and officers said she had been killed at least 24-hours earlier. Neighbors reported hearing screams from the house Friday night.

In the old slaying, McGough had been indicted for shooting Bette Sue Hayman, who had divorced McGough and resumed her maiden name.

A jury found that McGough was insane at the time of the killing and not responsible for his actions.

Shamsky Blast Turns Tide For NY Mets

All good things must come to an end and so must all bad ones. A good thing ended for Houston's Jack Billingham Monday night and it helped a bad one end for the New York Mets.

Shamsky's shot not only ended Billingham's good thing but also halted New York's bad one—a five-game losing streak.

It was New York's fourth straight victory over the Astros—and it came in the Astrodome where the Mets were 0-6 en route to their World Championship in 1969.

Cassius Not Seeking Short Pass To Fight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cassius Clay says he isn't interested in an 18-hour pass from the U.S. Supreme Court that would allow him to go to Canada to fight Joe Frazier for the heavyweight title. "I don't want to fight under forced conditions," Clay said Monday after he learned his attorney had appealed to the Supreme Court to allow the deposed champion to go to Canada to meet Frazier, his successor to the championship.

Clay's attorney, Chauncey Eskridge of Chicago, said in an appeal filed Monday with Justice Hugo L. Black that Clay's resources are depleted, and noted that the former champion would be out of the country only 18 hours for the fight in Canada.

Eskridge said he made the application to the Supreme Court because he had an offer for a fight in Canada. "I have permission from Canadian authorities," the attorney said.

"They will sanction the fight. If the application is granted that is the time he (Clay) will have a chance to say whether he will fight."

"I don't know anything about it," said Clay from his $90,000 home in Philadelphia.

"That's my lawyer talking and he is going to be fired for doing these things. I'm not interested in fighting until my case is settled. I'm not even thinking of fighting."

Eskridge, speaking by telephone from Chicago, said he had not talked with Clay before filing the appeal. "When a lawyer files an application in this court he doesn't always talk to his client. I did it on my own."

Eskridge agreed, however, that if Clay formerly divorces the application for freedom to travel the issue will be dead legally.

Clay, who was stripped of his title after he was convicted for refusing induction in the Army, said last week he isn't worried about money. "I'm making more money now than I would if I was fighting every Friday," he said.

New Chase Begins For America Cup

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — After nearly 120 years of international battles by sailors, the America's Cup is overgrown with barnacle-encrusted tradition.

One tradition has already fallen: Two nations, France and Australia, have challenged instead of the usual one, and will battle it out to see which is the better. They are bringing all the new boats—France and Gretel II.

The costs have not prevented the gathering of three would-be U.S. defenders—Valiant and Heritage, both newly built, and the '67 defender, Intrepid, which has undergone radical surgery.

DICK QUAX, champion distance runner from New Zealand: "I believe my ideal distance is three miles, or closer to 5,000 meters, but all over the world the glamor race is the mile, or the 1,500 meters. So, I'm a miler now."

BOBBY ZELLARS, new head coach at Runnels Junior High here:

"Who are some of the best athletes I've coached here? R. L. Lasater was the best in track. Joe Jaure was a good one. I had Bobby Griffin and Bobby Baker. In basketball, it would have to be Snake Tucker."

Y. A. TITTLE, new quarterback coach for the New York Giants, when asked if he might try to restrain Fran Tarkenton from scrambling and sprinting out:

"I don't think anybody could change Tarkenton. Besides, that is not my job. I will try to assist Tarkenton, but the Giants have traded for two quarterbacks — Dick Shiner and Bob Davis — and I am going to be working mostly with them. Davis is kind of green. I do not see much change in quarterback styles. I think they are going to be mostly dropback passers. There will be more multiple formations. The quarterbacks have better coaching than when I played. They have more knowledge. What they have to do today is use formations which will dictate the use of no more than one or two sets by the defense knock off maybe three possible other defensive formations with the plays they call. . . . The Giants used a lot of I formations in their last three games last season. Dallas has been using the I formation for five years. But the Giants and the Cowboys, unlike Kansas City, shifted out of the I formation to read what defenses the opposition would use instead of the offense going from pre-set formations. . . . I had to quit the San Francisco 49ers as offensive consultant because they wanted me full-time. Tim Mara, president of the Giants, has hired me only on a part-time basis."

Red Sox Storm To 12-2 Win

The Red Sox broke the barrier with five runs and stormed to a 12-2 Sophomore league win over the Red Sox here Monday evening. The win was the fourth straight for the Sox.

Earl Reynolds fashioned the mound victory and was helped along by a two-run home run on the part of Terry Tredaway. Tredaway wore his hitting clothes to the park. He wound up with four safeties.

The O's managed only one safety off Reynolds. That was a triple off the bat of Richard Shook.

Vernon Authors No-Hit Game

Charles Vernon threw a no-hit game in leading the Elks to their ninth American-Minor Little League win in ten starts here Monday, a 5-0 verdict over the R. Firebirds.

Vernon fanned 13 and issued only two walks in the six inning struggle. The defeat was the fifth in 12 starts for the Firebirds.

Alan Partee paced the Elks' three-hit attack with a pair of blows. Tony Partee managed the other one.

Falcons Record 12th Straight

The Falcons, who have long since clinched first place in the International Minor Little League, made it 12 wins in a row by boxing in the Tigers, 14-4, here Monday.

Terry Flowers rode out a rough first inning, during which he yielded three runs to get credit for the victory.

DUROCHER CRITICAL Reaction Didn't Surprise Bouton

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A reprint from baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and barbed comments from other players concerning his controversial book 'Four, haven't caught another major league pitcher Jim Bouton off guard—he expected it all.

Referring to a statement by Chicago cub manager Leo DuRoche that implied he had written the book only for money, Bouton said, "That kind of talk is to be expected. Those are the terms in which most baseball people think."

"You can bet that Leo thinks only in terms of the dollar when he releases something for publication. And he's representative, not an exception at all."

Wildcats Upset By Brave Unit

The Braves sprang a mild upset in National Little League play here Monday evening, defeating the Wildcats, 10-9.

A three-run outburst in the final inning brought the Braves from behind. The Wildcats countered with one run in the final inning but it was too late.

The first team included outfielder Doug Ault of Panola College, Carthage, Texas; and pitcher Ronald Riznovsky of San Jacinto College, Pasadena, Tex.

Billy Cox, Blinn College pitcher of Brenham, Tex., was also included on the Honorable Mention list.

Jets Surge Back To Edge Cabots

A five-run final inning enabled the Jets to charge from behind and topple the Cabots, 9-8, in American Little League play Monday evening.

The Jets outthrew the Cabot team, 11-4, but couldn't get untracked until it was almost too late.

Seay accounted for four of the winners' hits while Sherrill and Brooks each had two blows.

No Contest Pleas Voiced

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge Joe Fisher heard no contest pleas Monday from three men charged with misapplying funds of the National Bank of Lufkin.

They are among seven persons indicted on 132 counts Dec. 4, 1968, by a federal grand jury at Tyler.

Those pleading nolo contendere were Wyatt Leinert, former vice president and cashier of the bank, and Clyde C. Jordan and Vernon Jordan, Lufkin business men.

All seven defendants in the case originally pleaded innocent. Judge Fisher directed Leinert and the Jordans to appear before him again June 23 and said he will determine their guilt or innocence then.

He said earlier that Kurth will be sentenced after he receives a report from probation officers.

The others who pleaded innocent are John L. Cathey, formerly executive vice president of the bank; Kathleen Davis, a bank employee, and Lawrence Jordan, also a Lufkin business man.

All seven are charged in the indictment with misapplying an unspecified amount of funds during more than four years, starting May 1, 1964.

Promotions And Transfer Are Announced At Cabot's Plant

Edward J. Holland, manager of the Big Spring Dixon plant, Cabot Corporation, today announced several personnel changes:

John W. Davenport, production superintendent at the Dixon plant, will transfer to Canal Plant, Franklin, La., June 15, as process superintendent, oil blacks.

A long-time resident of Big Spring, he graduated from Texas A&M in 1961 with a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering. Since that time, he has been associated with Cabot development department in Pampa and in Louisiana. Since 1964 he has been successively plant staff engineer, assistant production superintendent and production superintendent at Dixon plant.

Davenport and his family have been members of the First United Methodist Church in Big Spring. He has been active in the Aggie Club, the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, the YMCA, and the United Fund. His father, A. R. (Dave) Davenport, now retired, was a former superintendent of the plant here.

John Davenport, his wife, Ann, and their two daughters will be moving to Franklin soon. Marvin B. Wooldrige will be promoted to assistant production superintendent to process superintendent at the Dixon plant. A Cabot employee at Big Spring since 1950, he has served as construction clerk, shipping clerk, traffic coordinator, and warehouse superintendent. He graduated from Hardesty, Okla., High School and attended Panhandle A&M, Goodwell, Okla., as well as a number of management training courses since then.

He has been an active member of the Nazarene Church in Big Spring where he has served as Sunday School teacher and youth group leader. He has also served recently as a member of the solicitation information task force of the Chamber of Commerce.

Wooldrige and his wife, Charlene, have three children, Mike, 17, Sandra Kay, 14 and Shanni Marie, 5. They live at 2510 Central.

Lonnie G. Gray will become assistant process superintendent reporting to Wooldrige. A 1968 graduate of New Mexico State University with a B.S. degree in chemical engineering, he has been a staff engineer with Cabot at Dixon plant since his graduation. He is a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

He and his wife, Jo Lezlie, have one child, Taliha, and live at the Kentwood Apartments.

Charles A. Williams will be promoted to technical group leader from his position as staff engineer. He received his degree in mechanical engineering in 1968 from Lamar Technical Institute in Beaumont, where he was active in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. He joined Cabot as assistant project engineer at Franklin, La., and transferred to Dixon plant in 1969 as staff mechanical engineer. In addition to his duties as technical group leader, he will coordinate the Dixon plant safety program.

He is a member of the Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce, and he and his wife, Paula, live at 3313 Drexel.

He and his wife, Jo Lezlie, have one child, Taliha, and live at the Kentwood Apartments.

Charles A. Williams will be promoted to technical group leader from his position as staff engineer. He received his degree in mechanical engineering in 1968 from Lamar Technical Institute in Beaumont, where he was active in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Training For New System Quickens

Training in the use of the IBM Systems 3 computer, due to be delivered to city hall the first of next year, stepped up somewhat Monday.

City Finance Director Charles Smith returned to Houston for his third and final week-long course in computer programming, and Mrs. Elva Biffar, of the water department, began a course in key punch operation in Midland.

In two previous courses at the International Business Machines school in Houston, Smith was instructed in methods of programming and organizing a large work load around the machine.

Other city employees will spend some time this summer training to use the machine as vacations and work allow, Smith has said.

Club Embarks On Judging Course

KNOTT — The Knott 4-H Club has embarked upon an eight-week livestock judging course.

Members were introduced to the course by Lon McDonald, Sands vocational agriculture teacher and an adult leader of the club. He was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Robinson, adult leaders.

Participants were shown slides of animals, did classroom picture placing and observed live cattle, sheep and hogs.

Field trips are planned to farms and ranches where members will have a chance to do actual judging. Seventeen boys and girls have enrolled in the course.

Grandfather Dies Trying To Rescue

SEADRIFT, Tex. (AP)—Fritz Webber, 70, and his grandson, 14-year-old Myron Harbro, both of Seadrift, drowned Monday when a big wave threw the boy into the water and the grandfather dived to rescue him while they were sailing in San Antonio Bay.

Both bodies were recovered by the Coast Guard.

AMERICAN WOMEN PICKET U.S. EMBASSY IN MOSCOW — Three American women, dressed in black pajamas, Ho Chi Minh sandals and conical straw hats, parade outside the U.S. Embassy in Moscow Tuesday with signs proclaiming "We Are the Ameri-Cong" and "The NLF is Gonna Win." From left are Mrs. Jerry Rubin, 26, of New York City, wife of one of the defendants in the Chicago conspiracy trial; Mrs. Pun Plamondon, 23, of Ann Arbor, Mich.; and Judy Gumbo, 26, of Berkeley, Calif. They denounced President Nixon for the U.S. involvement in Indochina. In background are embassy employees.

Shooting Results In Assault Count

A 32-year-old Big Spring man has been charged with attempted murder in the Sunday night shooting incident which left Julian Castillo, a Howard County farm worker, with a flesh wound over the right temple.

Gregory Salazar, 710 NW 5th, was charged in Justice of the Peace Walter Grice's court. He is in Howard County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Held In Jail

Eugene Washington Hale, 18, Box 94, Cherokee, is in Howard County jail after being charged in Justice of the Peace Walter Grice's court with the offense by bail. Bond was set at $2,500.

TNT Error Kills Seven Green Berets

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — A "hot" wire accidentally connected to a series of 20 one-pound TNT charges has been blamed for an explosion that killed seven Green Beret soldiers Monday and injured five of their comrades.

The explosives were in the middle of the soldiers who stood on a Ft. Bragg training ground during an exercise in demolition procedures.

The 11 students and an assistant instructor had just wired the charges for a demonstration. They were to pull back and witness the blast from bleachers on a knoll 200 yards away.

But the Army said an electrically charged wire was mistakenly hooked onto the charges during the demonstration, igniting the blast that sent dust, uniform fragments and torn combat boots into the air.

Army spokesmen said an investigation would be made to determine how the "hot" wire happened to be at hand and why it was charged. Normally, the spokesman said, security precautions are extremely strict to avoid accidental detonations.

The Army identified five of the dead as Sgt. 1st Class Ernest J. Bryan, 37, of Fayetteville; Sgt. Phillip N. Schnicke, 27, of Madison, Wis.; Sgt. Michael Keller, 21, of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Spec. 4 Ronald E. Puckett, 23, of Smyrna, Ga.; and Sgt. John D. Pierce, 23, of Flint, Mich.

MISS IRIS ANN TOLLETT

Miss Tollett Leaves For Studies Abroad

By JO BRIGHT

There's a world of difference between Big Spring, Texas, and Paris, France, yet for Iris Ann Tollett many of those differences may be dissolved this summer.

Miss Tollett, daughter of Mrs. Raymond L. Tollett, 606 Hillside, and the late Mr. Tollett, is in historical Paris today, viewing the battle-grounds of World War I and II as part of the curriculum for her summer studies abroad. While in France, Miss Tollett will visit Rheims, Verdun and Compeigne, then spend three days in the capitol touring the Louvre, the Jeu de Plume, Versailles and simply learning to appreciate its architecture.

The summer studies program is being sponsored by Greenhill School, a coeducational college preparatory school in Dallas. This year's program, the seventh offered by the school, is classified as a classical study and travel in Europe and the Greek Isles.

The accredited European Study Tour will take the 24 registered students and six adults to Belgium, France, Italy, Greece, Austria, Germany, Denmark, Scotland and England.

The tour offers high school students an opportunity to experience at first hand those social, cultural, educational and philosophical differences and similarities which exist among and define the nations of men. From this experience, the school would hope that students gain an insight into the relationship each man bears to his fellow man and to the human race as a whole.

The curricula of the program is oriented to the culture of the country being visited, its people and their history.

The humanities program of Greenhill School has as its core the survey presentation of the theories and manifestations of art, architecture, history, philosophy and music. The Summer Studies Abroad program continues the philosophy of the courses taught during the regular school term. Group seminars are held throughout the trip for the purpose of discussion and reflection. Each participating student is required to write a paper on observation he has made while traveling and studying. The group receives instruction from the traveling faculty members as well as guides who are professors and authorities on their countries.

Prior to arriving in France, the students were in Belgium. Next week the group arrives in Italy where they will attend the International Art Festival, and on June 18 will be in Florence to study the art of the Italian masters (including Michaelangelo's David) and the architecture of its churches. The study of Roman history will include a visit to Vatican City and St. Peter's, walking up the Spanish Steps, touring the Pantheon (and tossing the traditional coins in Trevi Fountain).

Then comes the flight to Athens, the "cradle of democracy," where a Sound and Light performance will be held across from the Acropolis where lights will play on the marble ruins as students hear the story of the great Athenians. There will be days of cruising to the islands of Rhodes, Crete, Mykonos and Delos. At Corinth, the students "will stand where Paul stood" as they view the temples and museums.

On to Munich in July for a tour of Deutches Museum with its marvels of science and engineering. Motorcoach will take the group to the mountains of Salzburg and excursions with Austrian students. Before the flight to Berlin, they will visit Dachau, the German prison camp that has been made a memorial to oppressed peoples of the world. The contrast in the two faces of Berlin — East and West — will be evident on the tour.

Mats Hergard, an American Field Service student in Dallas last year, will meet the students in Copenhagen and escort them to his home in Malmo, Sweden. In Denmark, they will be reminded that that country is one of the most democratic in the world and has achieved much through freedom of thought and effort. Included will be a visit to Odense, home of Hans Christian Anderson.

CORRECTION

The Monday Herald story of Coahoma Chapter No. 499, Order of Eastern Star, installation should have read O. A. Madison, sentinel, instead of Mrs. O. A. Madison.

The last stops on the itinerary will be Scotland and England with emphasis placed on literature, drama and history. With the group attending a Shakespearean play performed in the Globe Theatre. The five days allotted to London will include theater, symphony and a visit to Parliament as the travelers compare past and present in one of the biggest cities in the world.

Salvation Army Is Topic Of Speaker

Lt. Joseph Saint of the Salvation Army was the guest speaker Monday at the Wesleyan Service Guild meeting at First United Methodist Church. He gave the history of the Salvation Army and described work done to rehabilitate and assist those in need. Miss Helen Willard, president, presided at the meeting. The next meeting will be July 13.

Mrs. D. Brasher Wins Contest

A paper dress contest was held by TOPS Salad Mixers Monday in Knott Community Center with Mrs. Dan Brasher winning first place. The weekly bowl of fruit was shared by Mrs. Jack Grigg and Mrs. Odie Petty. Members made plans for their float in the rodeo parade. Miss Annette Couch will give next week's program.

CHEROKEE CHIEF ADDRESSES CONVENTION 'Minorities Must Be Heard' Says Phillips Petroleum Exec

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The experiences of American Indians have shown that minority groups must have a voice in solving their own problems, a Cherokee Indian chief told the world's largest women's organization today.

"The most important lesson we have learned is that the Indians want and need to participate in their affairs," W.W. Keeler, chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers, said in a prepared speech.

"If I could give only one piece of advice I could give to people trying to solve problems of all minority groups, it would be let them participate—make them a part of the action," Keeler said.

Keeler, of Bartlesville, Okla., made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery before the 79th annual convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The convention formally opened today. More than 2,000 women, representing 11 million members throughout the world, are due to attend.

Keeler is principal chief of the Cherokees and chairman of Phillips Petroleum Co. He has been active for years in welfare and educational work among Indians.

Keeler declared that "excessive government paternalism" has led many Indians to personal "disintegration," lack of initiative and poverty.

Mrs. Claire Lee Chennault of Washington, widow of the Air Force general who formed the "Flying Tigers" of World War II, was scheduled to address the convention later today. In other action, Mrs. Albert Sanford, wife of an Army colonel serving in Frankfurt, Germany, was to be honored as the Federation's "Military Wife of the Year."

Mrs. D. S. Phillips, newly-elected president of Coahoma Past Matron's Club, presided at a breakfast Saturday in Coker's Restaurant, distributing yearbooks. Mrs. O. A. Madison presented Mrs. Phillips with an orchid corsage. The invocation was given by Mrs. Melvin Tindol. Mrs. Ernest Garrett, immediate past president, expressed appreciation to the group.
