AFTER KILLING SOUTH VIETNAMESE GUARD

40 War Prisoners Flee

SAIGON (AP) — Forty prisoners of war escaped from a prison detail on Phu Quoc Island Monday after killing one of their South Vietnamese guards and wounding another.

Nine of the prisoners were killed and two wounded in a gun battle, but 29 were still at large today, South Vietnamese headquarters announced.

A spokesman said he did not know whether the prisoners were North Vietnamese, Viet Cong or both. He said there are more than 20,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in the prison camp on the island in the Gulf of Siam just off the southwest coast of Vietnam.

A communique said the prison break occurred late Monday afternoon while South Vietnamese navy men were bringing the 40 prisoners back to the prison camp in a truck from a work detail at a navy base.

Some of the prisoners seized the sailors' weapons half a mile from the camp, killed one of the guards and wounded another.

Military police rushed from the camp to the scene, and the prisoners attacked them, the communique continued.

Phu Quoc is the biggest POW camp in South Vietnam, housing about 60 per cent of the 36,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong held by the South Vietnamese government.

Former astronaut Frank Bor-man visited the island prison last Saturday during a tour of world capitals, and told newsmen Phu Quoc was clean and well run.

FIRST SINCE 1969

Borman, who arrived in Tokyo today, has been touring major capitals for President Nixon, seeking help to ease the lot or secure the release of Americans held by the North Vietnamese.

South Vietnamese headquarters said the prisoners who escaped were believed to have gone into the island's jungled mountains, where an estimated 300-400 Viet Cong operate. Patrols were looking for the escapees; the government said.

The escape was the first reported on Phu Quoc since early 1969, when 21 prisoners got away through a tunnel during a riot in another part of the camp.

On the battlefronts, one major fight was reported near the coast 120 miles northeast of Saigon.

South Vietnamese militiamen spotted more than 100 Viet Cong trying to cross the coastal highway. South Vietnamese and American troops reinforced the militiamen, and helicopter gunships and bombers raked the enemy force which was later estimated to number up to 200 men.

The allies claimed 56 of the enemy killed and 12 rifles and nine heavy weapons captured.

Dog Lover Uses His Ax On Jetliner

MIAMI (AP) — A dog lover blaming the death of his traveling Irish wolfhound on an airline took a $6.60 axe and hacked 18 slashes in a $5 million jetliner to get "what they owe me."

Thomas William Brown, 38, a lanky carpenter who said he blamed Eastern Airlines for the death of his 2-year-old champion dog, Lost River, threw black paint on a Boeing 727 cockpit Monday and slashed its underbelly before a crewman stopped him, the FBI said.

The airline estimated the damage at $100,000.

HEAT STROKE

The dog died May 22 of what a veterinarian called a heat stroke shortly after returning to Miami from Dallas in the cargo hold of an Eastern jet. The dog had been sent to Dallas to be bred.

Brown claimed in a lawsuit against Eastern the shipping hold didn't have enough oxygen for the dog and no temperature control.

Eastern said it was not negligent, claiming in court papers the dog was highly nervous and "this nervousness and excitement was probably the cause of the eventual state of prostration to which the dog succumbed." The airline asked Monday for dismissal of the lawsuit in Dade County Circuit Court.

Authorities said Brown, father of four daughters, then bought an axe and walked up to the jet as it unloaded passengers at Miami International Airport after a flight from New York. He hacked through the metal skin, cables and hydraulic lines before Second Officer Jim Broadman asked him what he was doing.

FAIR ENOUGH

Broadman said Brown replied, "None of your business. Well, I guess I've done $5,000 damage to that airplane, and that's what they owe me."

"He worked that right hand side over pretty good," an Eastern spokesman said. "He used a full axe, single bladed. The thing was brand new, it still had the $6.60 price tag on it."

A U.S. marshal at the airport on antiblack duty held Brown until he was charged by the FBI with destruction of an aircraft and jailed under $100,000 bond.

The rate of contributions to the high school Bible Class Fund eased off again Tuesday, but there were several churches which sent in payments on their pledges to the fund.

These were not included in the over-all totals carried daily but most certainly undergird this important ministry. First Baptist sent in a check for $400, Airport Baptist $50, and First Church of God $50.

CLouDBURSTS Floods Reach Into Mobile Home Parks

By The Associated Press

Cloudbursts sent flash floods surging through several trailer parks and tornadoes inflicted limited damage near Fort Worth and Dallas during the night.

The deluges fell and violent winds battered several areas as thunderstorms and heavy showers rumbled through all but the far west and northeast sections of the state, dwindling by this morning into scattered showers over the High Plains, through Central Texas and over the coastal plains.

As much as 6.19 inches of rain poured down at Terrell, 30 miles east of Dallas, between 1 and 3 p.m. Monday, the Weather Bureau reported. Police said streets filled for a time but there was no damage.

HIGH WATER

High water caused trouble Dallas and Fort Worth, rising into two trailer parks on the west side of Irving and into a third park in Grand Prairie.

Hail accompanied the downpour at Irving, where the rainfall was estimated at 5 inches. At Fort Worth's Greater Southwest Airport, in the same vicinity, the official measurement was 3.30 inches before midnight and .43 more fell by dawn.

New Record At HCJC

Howard County Junior College enrollment continued to inch upward Tuesday, and at noon the head count showed 1,135 enrolled. This is easily a new record.

Included in the total are 725 full-time students, said Dr. W. A. Hunt, president. There are 646 in academics, an 8 per cent gain over the 588 at the final cut-off time last autumn. There are 43 in the vocational-technical program, plus 36 vocational nurse students, making a total of 79 in this division.

Included in the head count are 88 part-time students from Webb, an increase over recent semesters.

Registration continues all this week.

DETROIT (AP) — Motel owner Peter Solomon says, "Being robbed 50 times in five years and then four times in the last 36 hours — twice by the same guy — is just too much."

"I've kept my mouth shut for five years," but Solomon says after the recent robberies, "I've had it."

"I was so angry when the phone rang Sunday night and the clerk told me about the fourth holdup that I was ready to call the President of the United States," he said.

Bubblehead, Braless Band Snaps Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jennings Randolph, the West Virginia Democrat who called women's liberationists a "small band of braless bubbleheads," has been told by an angry female it is none of his "damn business" whether she wears a bra.

The comment came in a flood of angry letters and telegrams that Randolph has received since making his speech Wednesday in the Senate.

"Perhaps you were weaned too soon ..." wrote one infuriated woman over Randolph's speech last Wednesday in the Senate.

"This is one of your bubblehead constituents," still another said. "The least you could have done on the day women decided to demonstrate for their rights was to keep your thoughts to yourself."

Randolph has taken all the letters in stride, an aide said. But the aide quickly pointed out the West Virginia Democrat is sponsoring an amendment guaranteeing equal rights for women.

The senator is replying to each of the more than 300 letters and telegrams and enclosing a copy of his Senate speech, which also said women are making progress in all fields.

But the "bubblehead" and "braless" references clearly touched off women's nerves.

"I may well be what you have referred to as a bubblehead," said one letter. "As to whether I wear a bra, that is none of your damn business."

"Cute rhetoric in the light of a serious situation hardly endears you to American women," said another constituent.

And on they went: "Don't you often like to unbutton your collar and shed your tie?" asked a woman who compared that to going braless.

"Would you dare to coin a similar phrase in referring to any other oppressed group?" Randolph's press aide, Bill Davis, said 15 to 20 per cent of the letters have been favorable.

The senator, in his speech, praised the 50th anniversary of the adoption of the woman's suffrage amendment and added no field is closed to the woman who is capable and well-trained.

But he said, the progress is being retarded by a "strange and strident voice that professes to speak for all women—everywhere."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, in a vote that upheld President Nixon's Vietnam policies, refused today to set deadlines for withdrawal of all American troops.

The roll call vote was 55 to 39.

TEXAS SPLIT

The lame duck Texas Democrat, Ralph Yarborough, voted for the amendment. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., voted against it.

It turned down a proposal that the troops be pulled out by the end of 1971.

The defeat of the "Amendment to End the War" came as a triumph for the Nixon administration, after months of controversy in which critics denounced the measure as a blue-

Nixon's Vietnam Policies Upheld

print for the first defeat in American history.

But Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., the principal sponsors of the amendment, said the vote succeeded in demonstrating the depth of national discontent over America's long and bloody struggle in Southeast Asia.

RALLY AROUND

"This amendment gave a rallying point to millions of anguished citizens across this war-weary land," McGovern told the Senate.

Branding the war the cruelest, the most barbaric and the most stupid conflict in American history, McGovern said:

"Every senator in this chamber is partly responsible for sending 50,000 young Americans to an early grave."

The defeat of the amendment was all but sealed less than an hour before the vote when Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., considered a key figure by the Hatfield-McGovern forces, announced he would not support it.

Cooper said the Congress must place its faith in the President.

While antiwar senators were given little chance of passing their amendment, Republican sources reported the White House launched a telephone campaign Monday in an attempt to sway some who were wavering toward a vote for the limitation.

SAVE LIVES

The roster of those committed to the amendment—which would require President Nixon to withdraw all U.S. combat troops from Vietnam by the end of 1971—includes each of the Democratic senators considered a potential candidate for president.

Backers of the "end the war amendment" contend anything over 40 votes would show the nation's disenchantment with Nixon war policy. They claim the proposal would save U.S. lives and money.

Rains Brighten Outlook For Current Harvest

Spotted but beneficial rains brought brighter prospects today as Howard County neared the 1970 harvest.

Lakes, however, received no runoff. To the west, rain continued this morning, and Stanton reported 1.6 inches. This went with 1.3 inches reported Monday to put that vicinity in good shape. A considerable portion of the south half of the county received good rains.

Heaviest rain in this area fell in the Knott-Ackerly sector with reports varying from an inch and a half up to four inches.

The St. Lawrence community in southwest Glasscock County got 2½ inches, and north of there as much as four inches were measured. East of the Big Lake highway, however, farms had only 70 of an inch.

The southeast part of Howard County generally came in for the lightest amounts.

"The rain will help tremendously," said Robert Currie, president of the State National Bank, who laughingly says that he has made his "living on next year's rain." "It would have helped a lot more sooner, and if it had been more general, but it will do a lot of good. I never saw a rain but that it helped in West Texas." Heaviest falls seemed to be in the area where there were best cotton and feed prospects, and Currie said benefit would be great in these sections.

He saw considerable good coming to pastures.

"We've got a chance to make some fall grass," he observed. "We don't make much grass normally off July and August rain, but in September nights are cooler, and if we get a follow-up rain in about 10 days, we can still make a lot of fall grass."

Paul Gross, county farm agent, concurred that the rain will do a lot of good, particularly in the areas where it was in substantial amount. Even the lighter areas will benefit some by helping cotton hold its fruit and heavy up the present bolls. Late grain sorghum crops will be helped, and those getting a couple of inches or more will be assured of a much heavier yield.

Pastures will be helped, particularly if they get more moisture soon. One real benefit, he said, is in furnishing planting moisture for autumn small-grain. Even in the absence of this, the moisture will go into the soil as needed reserves.

The U.S. Experiment Station reported 77 of an inch, most of it coming Monday morning and early afternoon. Texas Electric Service Company had 95 of an inch at its switching station east of town. It reported 50 of an inch at Lamesa and 1.07 at Morgan Creek plant on Lake Colorado City.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District said it recorded 1.8 inches at the Martin County pump station 10 miles northwest of Stanton and 1.1 inches at the McWhorter Station on the Howard-Martin line early today. Odessa reported .87 and Midland 73 of an inch for the spell.

The Luther area in north central Howard had two to three inches through Monday and was in good shape. On the Borden County line, Wilson Ranch had only three-quarters of an inch. To the west, Clanton Valley had an inch and a half.

Knott had an inch early this morning, making 2.6 inches for the two days.

The Elbow area southwest of Big Spring reported an inch, enough to help, and the Lomax community in Southwest Howard had up to 1.8 inches through Monday with only a light shower this morning. Forsan, to the south, had 1.2 inches.

Fairview, north of Big Spring, reported 1.6 inches altogether.

The rain around Coahoma and northeast of there generally was light, but there were some heavy rains reported south and west of Vincent.

INDICTMENTS RETURNED BY ABILENE GRAND JURY AGAINST 13 PERSONS IN 1968

Case Involving Millions In Church Bonds Axed

FORT WORTH (AP) — A federal judge in Dallas Monday signed an order dismissing a four-year-old civil suit against two Fort Worth men involving the sale of millions of dollars worth of church bonds.

McKnight, a broker, said he was "real happy" about the order signed by U.S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes. "It's been four and a half years of uncertainty and it came to an end with the churches throwing in the towel," McKnight said.

"The civil suit was not a basis of the federal action," said Frank McCown, an assistant U.S. attorney who inherited the case. "The civil suit's dismissal has no bearing on the criminal action."

World Oil & Gas Corp. were named defendants in this action. The corporation, of which Walling at one time was president and agent, is in temporary receivership.

"If they (the churches) had had a case, they wouldn't have asked for the dismissal," he said. "I don't think they could have proved anything and they wouldn't have gotten a judgment."

McKnight expressed the same opinion. "The churches didn't have a case," he said. "If they had a case, they certainly would have tried it. Why else pay the court costs?"

rules require answers or objections to be filed within 30 days. "We've been to Dallas 750 times during the past five years and we knew what the facts were," Walling said.

Baby Beaten, Bruises Told By Doctor

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Testimony resumed in the Colorado City murder trial of Robert Monteith and his wife, both of Abilene. The Monteith couple is charged in the January death of their infant daughter. The baby was allegedly beaten to death.

Monday, Dr. Herman Schaffer, the physician who was called when the baby was brought to the hospital Jan. 13, testified that in his opinion the baby had been beaten. He traced on a rubber doll the bruises he found on the infant's body and said death (on Jan. 17) resulted from subdural hematoma (bleeding under the skull). Had a drop or fall on the head, as Robert Monteith, the baby's father, claimed, occurred there would surely have been some marking or evidence of it, but Dr. Schaffer said he found none.

He spent most of the day on the stand and was cross-examined extensively, but he was insistent that the baby probably had been beaten.

"Wasn't this speculation?" Defense Attorney Bob Hanna asked. "Yes, sir," replied Dr. Schaffer. Ed Paynter, district attorney at Abilene from whence the case was transferred, introduced several witnesses who reported seeing bruises on the baby. He also put on witnesses who said that Monteith and his wife had stayed at motels two different nights prior to bringing the baby to the hospital in a critical condition.

Mrs. Rosemary Martin, mother of Monteith, testified having seen bruises on the baby, and Jimmy Allen Martin, step-brother of Monteith said he saw Monteith slap the child "in the face and on the rear" on Jan. 10. "When he said this occurred a few times and that the slaps were 'not very hard,'" Paynter claimed "surprise" by his own witness and was in effect permitted to cross-examine him.

Approximately one and a half to two pounds of marijuana and three bottles containing phenobarbital and benzodrine tablets were found Monday evening in a culvert under Midway Road by sheriff's officers. Sheriff A. N. Standard estimates the value of the find to be $300-$500 when sold to users.

The marijuana appeared to have been measured and wrapped in plastic packets, then placed in a larger plastic bag with the pills, and then wrapped in a tow-sack before being hidden in the culvert. According to Sheriff Standard, he and his officers are continuing the investigation.

City Crews To Launch Cleanup

As usual after a rain, the street crews will be out to clean up gravel and debris that has washed into the streets from unpaved roads and lots. Public Works Director Nolen Chafin said the crews will also begin to pick up the loose gravel on streets that had been sealed.

He said the gravel was left to give it a chance to pack into the asphalt on hot days and at this time this natural packing process has gone about as far as it will.

City Tax Rate At Present Level

In an informal budget meeting Monday afternoon city commissioners decided that they saw no need to increase taxes this year.

The tax department began today with billing preparations based on the same scale as last year: $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation at 60 per cent of true property valuation.

At the same meeting City Manager Larry Crow filed a copy of the 1970-71 budget with Charles Smith, city secretary, so that the city attorney can begin to prepare the appropriation ordinance. This budget can still be amended by the city commission until it is officially adopted after a public hearing.

Crow declined to give a full breakdown of the budget until he has had a chance to include certain reductions decided on Monday, but he has included these reductions in the overall figures.

Planned general fund expenditures during the next fiscal year amount to $1,969,464. This is $144,339 above the estimated expenditures to the end of the present year. Revenues of $1,902,300 are estimated for the coming year.

An additional $80,000 is expected to be transferred from the water and sewer fund into the general fund, but in a similar transfer $80,000 will go from the general fund to the interest and sinking fund to service the city's indebtedness.

This comes out to planned expenditures $104,745 above planned total resources, which would be carried as a negative balance into the following year, $67,164 above the negative balance of $37,581 to be carried over from 1969-70.

A public hearing on the budget will be set for the end of September to formally adopt a budget and pass the appropriation ordinance.

Death Penalty Decisions Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the lives of 500 condemned men and women at stake, the Supreme Court will hear two death penalty challenges in its new term, probably the week of Oct. 19.

The capital punishment issue will be given the same early consideration the court is giving school desegregation and the 18-year-old vote.

The result could be a final decision on the constitutionality of capital punishment by mid-term instead of toward the end of the term in June.

WIFE KILLER

The two cases, from California and Ohio, raise the same constitutional points the court confronted in the past two terms and was unable to resolve in an appeal by William L. Maxwell, a Hot Springs, Ark., Negro sentenced to death in a rape.

These are: (1) Whether it is a violation of due process of law for juries to be given free discretion to decide which convicted defendants in capital cases should be sentenced to death and which to lesser penalties; and (2) Whether it is unconstitutional for a jury to decide guilt or innocence and the penalty at the same sitting.

The cases concern James Crampton, a Toledo man under death sentence in the slaying of his wife, and Dennis C. McGautha, a Louisiana man condemned to death in California in the slaying of a Los Angeles storekeeper.

DEATH FREEZE

The court never has said publicly why it could not answer these questions in the framework of the Maxwell case. Evidently, the court is giving the justices dropped the case last June and took on two fresh ones probably because Justice Harry A. Blackmun, having participated in a Maxwell ruling while an appeals court judge, would not have been able to vote.

The last execution in the United States was in June, 1967, when Luis Jorge Monge died in Colorado's gas chamber for the murders of his wife and two children.

There has been a judicial freeze on executions in the United States since the Maxwell case reached the high court. A ruling against Crampton and McGautha could revive use of the death penalty in the nation. The court begins the new term Oct. 5 with a ceremonial and perfunctory public session. The first real public work day is Oct. 12 when the justices will hear school desegregation cases from Charlotte-Mecklenburg, North Carolina; Mobile County, Alabama; and Clarke County, Georgia.

On Oct. 19 the court is scheduled to hear argument on the 1970 federal law that granted the vote to 18-year-olds.

Methadone Probe Starts At El Paso

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Jamie Boyd said he would present evidence to the grand jury today revealing widespread illicit traffic in methadone in the program administered by the local Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center.

Boyd called the grand jury into special session Monday following reports of five deaths from overdoses of methadone in the past 13 months. Boyd said three additional deaths were suspected but could not be confirmed by medical findings.

Methadone, classified by the federal government as a Class A narcotic, is administered as a substitute for heroin.

Boyd said he had received complaints from Houston authorities and as far away as California and Mexico that the pills were being purchased on prescriptions issued here.

Boyd said Juarez officials have complained that the pills are being bought in El Paso, re-sold in Juarez and smuggled into the Juarez jail.

Asst. Atty. Larry Matthews said the first reported death from an apparent overdose of methadone occurred in July, 1969. Four other deaths have been reported in the past year, he said, including a 13-year-old girl who allegedly came into illegal possession of a prescription issued by the clinic.

Boyd said he would present evidence gathered by his office and local law enforcement officers during the past few days indicating illegal narcotic traffic involving the center, which is operated by the federally-funded Mental Health and Mental Retardation Association.

Matthews also said there was some indication that the methadone was being sold in El Paso high schools.

TO FILL GAP ON CHINA'S MISSILE PROGRESS Hurry Up Launching Of Spy

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The hurry up launching of a secret spy satellite has under-scored America's need to fill an intelligence gap on Red China's missile progress. The new satellite, sent aloft Monday night, was headed toward a stationary orbit some 20,000 miles above Southeast Asia, where it would be in position to monitor test launchings by both Red China and the Soviet Union.

The Air Force, which launched the spy craft, hopes it will do better than a similar satellite sent up last June.

It also would give American intelligence a twice-a-day look at military movements in the Middle East.

That payload achieved a preliminary orbit of 112 to 20,736 miles above the earth. But two days later, the second stage of the Atlas-Agena rocket failed to restart and the satellite did not reach the desired orbit over Southeast Asia.

Sources said the Atlas-Agena rocket fired Monday night was rushed to the launch pad ahead of schedule because of the June failure. They said the move was necessary because the Defense Department wanted to monitor a reported upcoming series of Red Chinese missile firings.

SECURITY LID

The Air Force clamped a security lid on the launch and did not announce it in advance. Five minutes after liftoff, a brief statement said only that an Atlas-Agena had been launched with an experimental payload.

The sources said the United States increased its surveillance of Red China missile activity significantly after the Chinese launched their first earth satellite last April 24. Observers said this demonstrated the capability of launching an intercontinental range missile with a nuclear warhead.

TWICE-A-DAY LOOK

In a stationary orbit 19,000 to 24,000 miles high, the new satellite would provide 24-hour-a-day reconnaissance. The sources said the satellite also carried a television camera and sensors to spot missile bases, air fields, troop movements and other military installations in the Soviet Union, Red China and North Vietnam.

The Air Force launches most of its military satellites from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., into north-south polar orbits. But to achieve a stationary orbit, spacecraft must be launched from Cape Kennedy.

After launching, the new satellite was shifted from a normal 80-100 degree inclination to the equator to a 60 degree inclina-

ATC Chief Visits Webb

The new commander of the Air Training Command, Lt. Gen. George B. Simler, made a brief familiarization visit to Webb Monday.

The general made the unofficial visit while on a trip to a number of bases in the command. Col. Anderson W. Atkinson, wing commander, greeted Gen. Simler and gave him a short tour of Webb. While at the base, the general also visited with wing staff members and was given a brief synopsis of Webb's operations and facilities.

Gen. Simler officially assumes command of the 16-base Air Training Command today. He replaces Lt. Gen. Sam Maddeaux, who has served in the position for four years.

Webb is one of 11 Undergraduate Pilot Training Bases within the Air Training Command.

Doc's Death Trial Drags

HOUSTON (AP)—Lawyers try again today to pick their first juror in the accomplice to murder trial of Dr. Archie H. Burkhalter, a Pasadena physician charged in the sniper slaying of his former partner.

The trial started Monday and nine potential jurors were questioned but none chosen. The jury is being qualified on the death penalty.

Burkhalter, 43, is among six men charged in the 1966 slaying of Dr. Robert Pendleton, also a physician.

Suharto Postpones His Visit To Netherlands

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Suharto today postponed for another 24 hours his state visit to the Netherlands that was put off Monday when about 25 rebels occupied the Indonesian Embassy in The Hague. His office said the second postponement was to give the Dutch government "more time to prepare."

Foreign Minister Adam Malik had announced earlier that Suharto decided to go ahead with his trip to Europe after the insurgents surrendered to Dutch police and released 15 hostages they held for 12 hours. The visit to Holland will be the first by an Indonesian president to the nation that ruled his country until the end of 1949.

KILL GUARD

Suharto had been scheduled to leave Monday night. He postponed his departure after the band of exiles from the East Indonesian island of Ambon invaded the embassy, killed a Dutch police guard and took as hostages the ambassador's wife and two children and members of his staff. Ambassador T. A. Natadiningrat escaped in his pajamas to a hotel.

Dutch Premier Piet de Jong said in The Hague that Suharto was given formal assurance his party would be safe and the rebels would be dealt with according to Dutch law.

Malik said Suharto would not be bound by any promises the Dutch made to secure the release of the hostages. The Ambonese had demanded an audience in The Hague with Suharto for J. A. Manusama, the "president-in-exile" of the Republic of the South Moluccas which the Ambonese tried to establish in 1950. Indonesian officials said Suharto would receive Manusama, but as an Indonesian subject only.

IMMUNITY VOW

There was speculation that

Suharto had postponed his departure until he got word from The Hague that no promises had been made for him.

The Dutch premier gave no indication that he had made any agreement with the rebels concerning Suharto and denied a statement by a Moluccan Protestant pastor, the Rev. F. Metiari, that the Dutch government had promised the raiders immunity. Metiari said this enabled him to persuade the men to surrender.

De Jong told newsmen in The Hague Monday night that he made it clear from the start of negotiations with the pastor that the law would have to take its course.

The departure now is scheduled for Wednesday.

Metiari and Manusama, a Rotterdam school teacher, entered the embassy Monday afternoon and talked the rebels into surrendering. Manusama said he convinced them they had "fulfilled their task" and that their independence movement had the support of 85 percent of the 30,000 South Moluccans in Holland.

The Dutch premier said he and Suharto would discuss the Moluccans but he said he considered the matter an Indonesian problem.

Suharto was scheduled to go to West Germany Friday and will attend the nonaligned summit conference in Lusaka, Zambia.

Nixon, Advisors To Assess Problems In Middle East

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Amid rising Israeli complaints of cease-fire violations, President Nixon sits down with his top advisers today to assess the Middle East situation.

He called Vice President Spiro T. Agnew back a day early from a Honolulu rest stop on the way home from Asia to join in the session at the Western White House. Agnew also will report to the President on the 10-day trip in which he met with leaders of five Asian nations.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said he did not expect any announcements or reports to come out of the Middle East meeting. Nor, he added, would any of the officials, including Agnew, meet with the press here.

Nixon has been stressing the need now for "quiet diplomacy" while Arab-Israeli peace discussions are under way at the United Nations.

In Washington, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said Monday, "With regard to arms deliveries to Israel during the 90-day cease-fire we are taking such steps as are necessary to assure that the arms balance does not tip against Israel."

Israel's Premier Golda Meir has expressed concern that the United States, which proposed the cease-fire, is not responding vigorously enough to Israel's charges of Egyptian violations and anti-aircraft missile build-ups in the Suez Canal area.

High Israeli sources say the United States has indicated in diplomatic contacts that it has recognized alleged Egyptian infractions, but has not agreed to make this public.

Nixon kept Tuesday free for the session with a group practically duplicating his National Security Council.

Ziegler emphasized: "It is not a formal NSC meeting. But it happens to be composed of people who are members of the NSC."

Those attending are: the vice president; Secretary of State William P. Rogers; Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard, sitting in for Laird; Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Joseph J. Sisco, assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern and South Asian affairs; Richard Helms, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's national security adviser.

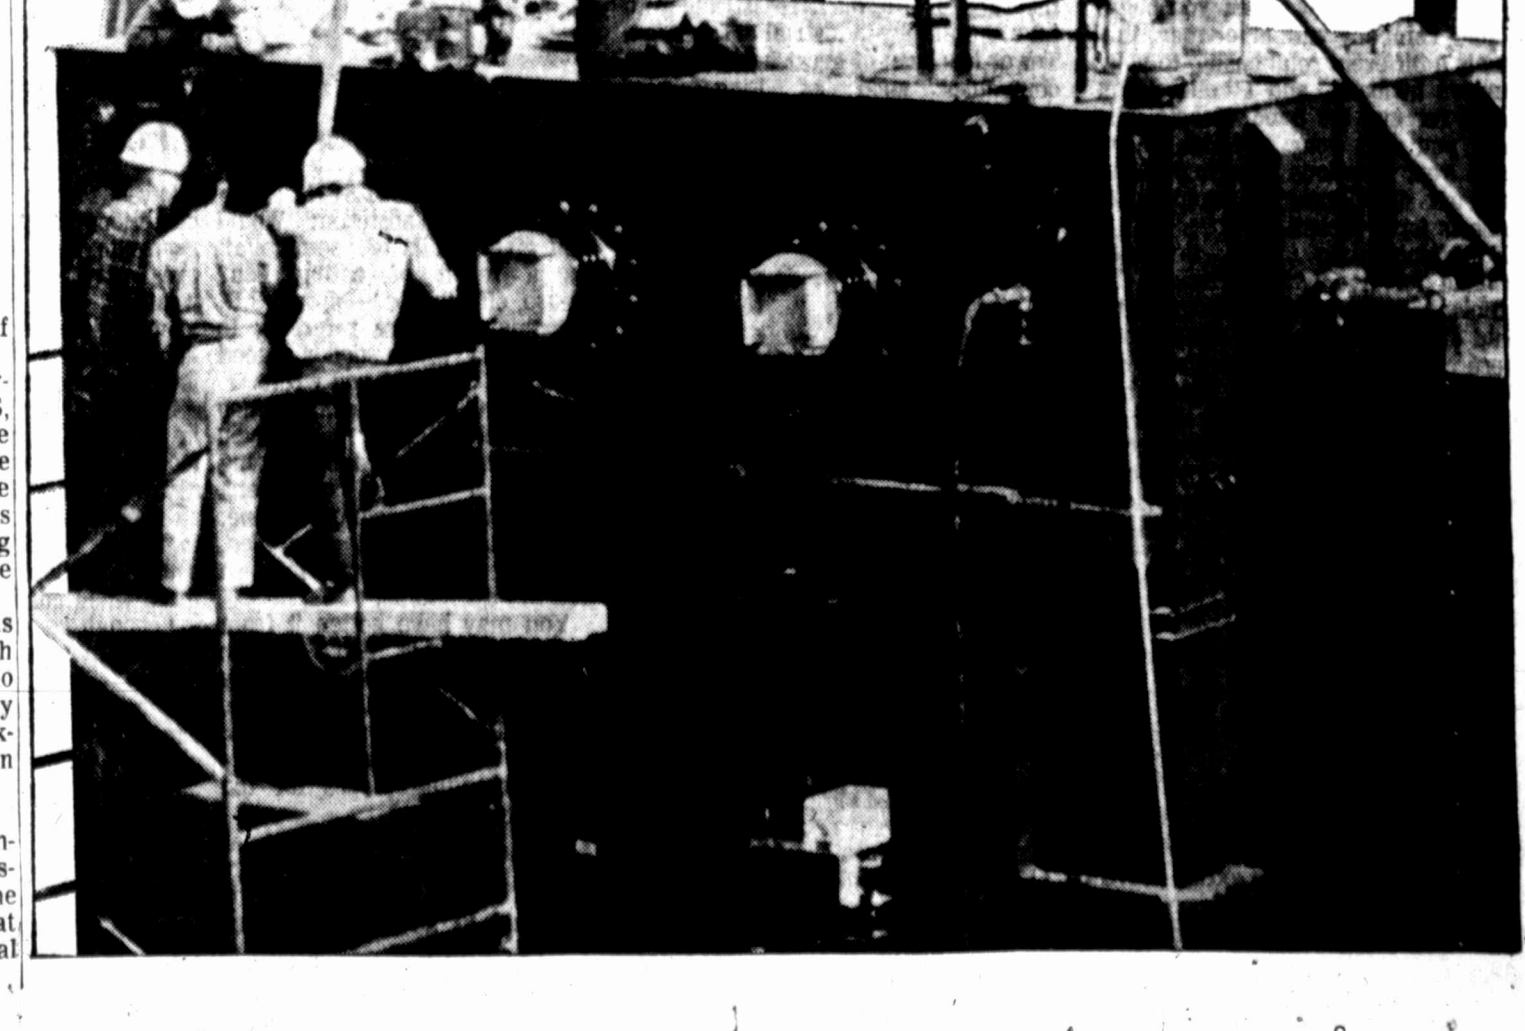

The only missing member of the NSC was Gen. George Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness.

Nixon, in a television interview broadcast Monday on CBS, said he saw some hope in the Middle East with the cease-fire and the beginning of peace talks. He added that suggestions of a U.S.-Soviet peace-keeping force in the Middle East were not particularly helpful now.

Asked whether this was meant as a reprimand to high administration officials who talked about such a possibility in a Western White House background briefing for newsmen last week, Ziegler said: "In no way at all."

Ziegler said the officials involved were responding to questions in a discussion about the Middle East situation and that no new initiative or proposal was being put forth there.

Court Ruling Affects Credit

A three-judge federal court in New York passed down a ruling recently that may have far-reaching consequences for the buy-now-pay-later policies of some business interests.

A woman in Syracuse, N.Y., refused to give up furnishings in her home earlier this year when two bill collectors and a marshal knocked at her door. Nor did she have any money to give the collectors.

A lawsuit ensued, and last month the court ruled that such seizure of property by force without a court order is unconstitutional. That decision overturned judicial precedent dating back to at least 1788 in New York — and with roots in 700 years of English law. Until now repossession of merchandise for nonpayment could be done by, or under the auspices of, a sheriff on the basis of an affidavit from the creditor.

The new ruling assures the debtor a chance to tell his side of the story in a court hearing.

The repercussions are difficult to predict but as a federal decision, it is expected to have considerable impact throughout the nation. There is, of course, the ever-present possibility that a higher court could overturn the decision. But barring that possibility, it seems likely that credit policies are destined for some quick restructuring wherever ripples from the new ruling are felt.

Without easy access to repossession for nonpayment, business firms are bound to be less anxious to extend credit. There will be new and heavy pressures on retailers to steer clear of easy-credit sales, which so often seem to turn into high-interest nightmares for the consumer — despite truth-in-lending provisions.

The new ruling may mean a heavier load for our already overloaded courts. But we must not allow such a contingency to supersede a citizen's constitutional rights.

More Public Ownership

Those who may have wondered about the participation of the public in the American economic system got some impressive figures recently.

The New York Stock Exchange reported that the number of Americans who owned shares in public corporations jumped 53 per cent in the last five years, vastly outstripping the population growth of six per cent.

Nearly 31 million Americans now own stock, as compared with 6.5 million as recently as 1952. The five-fold increase in fewer than 20 years demonstrated that the overriding trend in this country is toward access to ownership of the economic system for "average" people, not a privileged class alone.

More affluence has been a factor, of course. But also there has been a deeper interest shown by men and women alike in the working of the investment system. The number of informal "investment clubs" is one signal as to this widespread interest.

The spreading democratic base of ownership of corporate assets is working change in Wall Street as well as in executive suites. Corporations are becoming more aware of the interests of the populace as a whole, perhaps as much because of a wider base of ownership as the greater outspokenness of consumers.

It is human nature that there is more interest expressed when one has a "part of the action." The trend is a healthy one.

Military Issue In November Elections

WASHINGTON — The stakes in the Congressional election in November are bigger than most citizens preoccupied with such immediate issues as high prices and crime in the streets are aware. One race in particular points up what control of the Senate can mean to the military-industrial complex.

SEN. STUART Symington of Missouri, running for re-election to a fourth term, was once Secretary of the Air Force and a hawk of hawks. Three intensive tours in Vietnam over four years convinced him the war was unwinnable. As a member of the Foreign Relations Committee as well as Armed Services — the only senator to serve on both — his conversion was completed in his close association with Chairman J. William Fulbright.

Symington has worked assiduously to document America's overblown commitments around the world, the excesses of military aid and the multiplicity of bases and military manpower in being despite recent cutbacks. Perhaps because he is a convert and was once rated on their side, the arms industry has made Symington a high priority target.

DONALD W. Douglas Jr., a vice president of the McDonnell-Douglas Corp., which has had billions of dollars in military aircraft contracts and is Missouri's largest employer, is sending out thousands of letters appealing for funds to elect John Danforth, Symington's opponent.

The irony of the letter is underscored by the fact that over the years Symington has been instrumental in helping the company obtain numerous contracts. One of his former associates out of the Air Force puts the total at not less than $2.5 billion.

LIKE MOST members of the Senate, Symington has been eager to see that, other things being equal, the industry in his state gets the contract. The Phantom supersonic fighter-bomber is one of McDonnell-Douglas' outstanding achievements.

The 33-year-old Danforth was elected attorney general of Missouri two years ago, the first Republican successful in a statewide election in more than 20 years.

DANFORTH has declared against the war in Indochina, one of his strongest statements coming on the eve of President Nixon's announcement of the Cambodian action. The White House let it be known that this was an unfortunate coincidence.

With slight differences between them on the big issues, Danforth is stressing his youth against Symington's 69 years, hitting hard and using words such as "disgrace" and "Senate senility." The Republican candidate is also an ordained Episcopal priest.

THE BELIEF in Missouri is that money should be the least of Danforth's worries. His family, with a large interest in Ralston Purina, is said to have a net worth conservatively estimated at $100 million.

The Republican senatorial campaign manager, Sen. John Tower of Texas, is paying special attention to the race in Missouri. No stranger to the military-industrial complex, Tower has been of great help to Texas companies such as Ling-Temco-Vought. But his rank on the Senate Armed Services Committee is what gives special meaning to the fight to knock off Symington. This is the crux of the Republican drive to control the Senate.

Smile Sweetly, You're On The Phone

By JOY STILLEY (Substituting for Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — You'll be keeping more than a pad and pencil near the telephone. I'll have to stash a comb and mirror there too.

This extra equipment will be required to make sure I appear at my best when I answer the telephone, once the new Picture-phones being commercially tested in Pittsburgh come into general use.

There will also be a prominent sign to remind me, "Smile, you're on camera." But this admonition will be difficult to adhere to if the caller has aroused me from slumber.

While it will be pleasant to view my conversational partner, the problem will be to make sure he will find it pleasant to view me. So before I get in touch with the telephone operator I'll have to get in touch with the beauty operator.

My phone bills will be minor compared with my clothing bills. After all, I have to be properly dressed for those long-distance face-to-face confrontations.

Fortunately, I've still got time to assemble a suitably photogenic wardrobe, since the service won't be started in New York just yet. Another plus in my favor is the fact that the images are still being transmitted in black and white. So I don't have to make sure that the shade of my robe when I dash out of the tub to answer the phone matches the shade of my hair curlers.

But they're experimenting with color, as well as three-dimensional pictures, and then I'll have to be as concerned with my skin tone as I am with my dial tone.

There are other difficulties inherent in these electronic encounters. Up to now all that was required of me during a conversation was that I speak up and enunciate clearly. In the future I'll have to remember to stand straight, smile sweetly and keep the best side of my face toward the camera.

In fact, this innovative show-and-tell instrument will cause numerous changes in the communicating public's life style. It will put an end to "blind" dates made by telephone, to interminable "guess who" games, to anonymous calls and to comedians who disguise their voices.

But it will have one really big drawback. What a disappointment it will be to get all dressed up to make a phone call and get a busy signal.

School Desegregation

By The Associated Press

Court-ordered desegregation plans caused scattered dissatisfaction in some areas of Texas today as youngsters continued returning to the classroom for another year.

Texas schools did not open en masse but have been opening for the past 10 days and many students are finding things a bit different.

Beaumont South Park officials voted to check into the possibility of the school district joining a 27-state group opposed to busing of children—the National Coalition of Concerned Citizens.

The threat of a boycott by Mexican-Americans in Houston failed to materialize but there was a demonstration by about 100 persons at the administration building Monday.

The Mexican-American group demonstrated in opposition to the desegregation plan that paired their schools with predominantly black schools.

Mrs. Yolanda Birdwell, a spokeswoman for the group said "This issue is not racial. We do not want to be considered white. We are a minority group. We are brown and we want to be considered brown."

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals last week ordered the Houston schools to operate senior and junior high schools on a geographic capacity basis and elementary schools under an equi-distant zoning plan that had been ordered by a lower court.

A spokesman for the National Coalition of Concerned Citizens said the group plans to file a petition in Washington in support of freedom of choice desegregation in public schools. The group opposes forced busing of children.

The Port Arthur school board met Monday morning and adopted a neighborhood school plan to offer as an alternate if Fisher Wednesday rejects the freedom of choice plan now in effect.

U.S. Dist. Judge Ernest Guinn was still considering desegregation plans presented by both the Midland school district and the Justice Department on behalf of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Midland schools opened Monday despite the absence of the judge's decision.

Austin school officials reported some confusion Monday as a result of zoning changes made by a federal court order, but schools opened without demonstrations or protests. The order rezoned predominantly black Anderson High School and involved the transfer of 400 to 500 pupils.

Around The Rim

That Was Once Upon A Time—

The Women's Liberation Movement reminds me once again that there are at least two sides to everything. And everyone. Two sides to women — and two sides to men.

Modern times has spawned a society which requires each to be a little of the other, and psychiatrists say this is not a bad thing. The problem, if one is created, is a confusion of the sexes and their responsibilities and attitudes toward one another.

THE SOLUTION would seem to lie in acquiring the ability to adjust one's personality and outlook as the situation demands.

Once Upon A Time, man, as the traditional breadwinner, spent his days in an eight to five world of wary competition with all other men. He cajoled, he coaxed, he convinced, he flattered, he promised, he deceived.

He did what a man must do.

HE FOUGHT the businessman's battle — while his helpmate had her hands full at home with a house full of children. Their worlds were worlds apart.

But that was Once Upon A Time. The world has changed, and in changing, those separate areas once designated as "his" or "hers" have merged and mingled like Yang and Yin, the Chinese symbol for man and women — or, all things opposite.

TODAY, in millions of homes, husbands and wives are sharing the financial burdens, and in countless more households, the entire responsibility of a family's livelihood rests with a woman.

The hands that rocked the cradle now toil at a typewriter or perform other tasks that provide a paycheck. No one open her doors, or carries her loads — or lights her cigarettes. She spends her days dodging the same windmills that men have battled for years.

YET AS SURE as the day begins, it ends. Five o'clock. Time to adjust. Men call the period "unwinding," and they take on a tenderness for women or children. To the working woman, it is a time for transformation, to change in her relationships with men. The "office co-worker" trades her title for that of wife, mother, lover or friend.

Yes, while the stronger females fight for equality, some wonder at what has been lost — and we weaker ones sigh for the Once Upon A Time that will never come again.

Women's Lib In A Vacation Retreat

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass. — Each person celebrated Women's Liberation Day last Wednesday in her own way, and even on a beautiful island such as Martha's Vineyard the women protested in their fashion.

I hadn't even realized it was Women's Liberation Day until I got to the tennis court and my wife said at the start of a doubles game "I'm not going to serve today."

"What do you mean you're not going to serve? You have to serve."

"I'm sick and tired of serving all the time," she said.

"But if you don't serve, we can't play."

"AHA," SHE SAID, "That's the first time you've even acknowledged that my serving meant something."

"I've always admired your serve," I said. "You serve very well."

"Well I'm not serving today. You can serve for the both of us."

I looked hopelessly across the net at the Styrons who were in a serious argument.

"You ready?" I asked.

"ROSE SAYS she's not going to serve today," Styron yelled. Then it dawned on me it was Women's Liberation Day. I glanced at the other courts. None of the wives was serving.

"Rose says I have to serve for her," Styron yelled. "She says all the women on the island have pledged not to serve today. They're sick and tired of being oppressed on the tennis court."

"All right," I said. "We'll serve for them if it means that much."

"WE ALSO WANT child-care centers on Martha's Vineyard," my wife said. "We're fed up with taking care of our children all day long."

"Can it wait until after the tennis game?" I asked.

Styron yelled across the net. "Rose says she won't play the net unless women can have abortions any time they want them."

"It's okay with me," I said. "Are you ready?"

"I'm not going to play the back court," my wife said. "Unless women have equal opportunity in jobs."

"You've got it," Styron said.

THE GAME began grimly. I served to Rose who hit it out.

"Male chauvinist!" she screamed. Styron hit a smashing ball past my wife's ear, and my wife yelled "Sexist."

Despite their cursing, the women played extremely well. We discovered later that the Martha's Vineyard chapter of Women's Lib had advised all women playing tennis on Wednesday to pretend the tennis ball was their husband's head. It seemed to improve every woman's game.

STYRON AND I had to serve the entire three sets of tennis, and when we walked off the courts the women were fresh as daisies.

"I want you to know," my wife said that evening as we were retiring. "I'm not a fanatic about Women's Lib. I'm prepared to fulfill my wifely duties."

"That's very decent of you," I said. "But it really doesn't matter because I'm too bushed from serving."

Andrew Tully

Tax Man Writes On School Ruling

(Andrew Tully is on holiday. During his absence his column is being written by various national figures.)

By RANDOLPH W. THROWER
U.S. Commissioner of Internal Revenue

WASHINGTON — Since taxation and tax exemption touch so many important areas of American life, the Internal Revenue Service not infrequently finds itself in controversy in discharging its responsibilities for administering the Internal Revenue laws enacted by the Congress. We are currently undergoing criticism from well-intentioned persons representing various shades of opinion as a result of our decision last month affecting private schools.

IN BRIEF, we declared that the Internal Revenue Service had concluded it could no longer legally allow tax exempt status to private schools practicing racial discrimination in admitting students. As part of this, we said we could no longer consider gifts to these schools as charitable deductions for income tax purposes.

Viewing the development of the law over a number of years, as applied in light of today's knowledge and understanding, it became clear to us that the law no longer justified the benefits of tax exemption, and more importantly deductibility of contributions, to a private school which denied admission to a qualified student solely because of his race.

THE INTERNAL Revenue Service makes no claim of infallibility in interpreting the law and we realize that there are those who hold an honest difference of opinion. Indeed, our position will permit this issue to be fully tested in the courts. Similarly there are those who feel that this action should have been taken long years ago and who entertain misconceptions about our ability to implement the decision. I think it is important, therefore, in the face of this misunderstanding, to make clear exactly what the role of the Internal Revenue Service is and always has been in matters of this kind.

WE HAVE a self-assessment tax system in the United States under which, essentially, the Internal Revenue Service accepts the taxpayer's representations subject to possible verification at a later point in time.

IN A VERY real sense this is the basis on which we receive the millions of returns filed each year. We issue some 25,000 tax rulings a year on precisely this basis. In keeping with this approach, every private school in the country will have an equal opportunity to obtain an IRS ruling on its federal tax exempt status under the new standards. This means that we will accept in good faith formal assurance from responsible officials that a school has adopted and will administer in good faith a racially nondiscriminatory admissions policy. We also ask for evidence that this policy has been publicized within the school's community or region.

WE WILL MAKE examinations in the field as circumstances warrant, to assure that representations made reflect the actual situation. But we are not disposed, nor do we have the right, to apply subjective criteria as to what constitutes "acceptable" attendance ratios. We will expect good faith compliance but we have no way of knowing the extent of attendance by members of minority groups this should produce in any particular school or in any particular year.

THERE IS A strong private school tradition in the United States and the Internal Revenue Service is in no way raising any question about the right of these schools to exist. We are simply saying that the federal government cannot allow the financial benefits of tax exemption to go to a school that excludes qualified students solely on the basis of race. The racial barrier and the federal tax benefits are no longer reconcilable, and thus a private school can no longer have both.

Billy Graham

My husband died five years ago, and I have two children. I have worn my wedding band for these five years, but some of my friends think I should remove it. Since I have two children, it seems right that I should wear the band until I remarry, if I do. Could you suggest an answer to this problem?

B.L.C.

The wedding band is a symbol of love, but it is more: it is a symbol that you belong to another. Now, since your husband is deceased, you are free to remarry, if you wish. The length of time you wear your wedding band depends upon your own thoughts about your departed husband. If you still mourn him, if you still consider him your first love, then the band should be worn. But, when you begin keeping company with other men, this signals a different relationship to your previous husband, and I believe you should remove the band. People who know you and your children, know about your previous marriage. And those who don't know you, would have no basis for criticism.

Faithfulness to your deceased husband for five years seems to be sufficient, and I believe your band could be removed any time now. There comes a time in every widow's life when the cord that binds her to her departed must be broken. Many second marriages have been impaired because of too many "fond reminiscences" from the previous marriage. Don't let this happen to you. The ceremonial standard is: "Until death do us part," and you have kept this very well.

Comfort Shades

A new window shade material permits a room's occupants to look out but keeps others from looking in. Called the "comfort" shade, it is a delicate white lattice open-weave with three dimensional quality to give a sheer look at windows. The maker says the vinyl shade reduces solar heat, yet maintains visibility and air flow.

Kitchen Attire

Safety tip for anytime and especially one to remember during the busy holiday period when more hours will be spent in the kitchen: Dress properly for cooking, eliminating droopy sleeves, extending pockets, furberlows or gaping closures.

Early Fall Shoppers Still Leery Of Skirt Lengths

By ANN HENCKEN
AP Fashion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — If you're doubtful about skirt lengths—buy pants. At least that's the theory of early fall shoppers.

Pants suits are the hottest selling fall item so far, according to many retailers across the country.

Customers aren't clamoring for the midcalf skirt or asking for the short mini. If anything, they're accepting hemlines at or just below the knee. But women have not gone strongly for any one length. Instead, they're buying pants combinations, sometimes with midi coats.

As a Boston retailer says, "For what sales there are, pants are most interesting to our customers."

With a few exceptions, this is the message from Atlanta, Chicago, Dayton, Dallas, Los Angeles and New York City.

Fall merchandise is pouring into stores now.

Retailers look to early September for a clearer direction on hemlines. The longer-than-midcalf skirts at the recent Paris shows are expected to give impetus to the long look here. Retailers point to the trend of customer buying closer to time of need as a delay factor. Finally, many spokesmen explain that women remain confused and undecided.

Some retailers are dubious about customer acceptance of midis and are unhappy about sales to date.

Other retailers take their booming pants sales in stride.

Club Fetes Member On Birthday

The next meeting will be a picnic at 7 p.m. Sept. 9, in the home of Mrs. C. Y. Clinkscales, 705 W. 18th. Mrs. C. M. Weaver will be cohostess.

Alpha Beta Has Meeting Sunday

Alpha Beta Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Coahoma, started the fall season with a "beginning day" event Sunday in the First Federal Community Room with Mrs. Jack Owens serving as hostess.

Yearbooks were previewed, program books distributed and coming events discussed. The study theme will be "Light Many Lamps," and in conjunction with this, miniature felt lamps were presented to members as backing for their sorority pins.

Refreshments were served from a table laid with white linen and centered with a single yellow rose. Crystal appointments were used.

The next regular meeting will be Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Roe Fulgham, Sand Springs.

90 Waitresses Claim White House 'Unfair'

AMERICA. How can we answer them when they ask, "Is this democracy at work?"

Tim Osborne, a White House spokesman, said simply, "State dinners have always been served by waiters." He added that no final decision has been made regarding waiters for the dinner at the Hotel Del Coronado.

"Aren't we good enough to serve the President and his guests?" asks Ivy Easley, 40, a waitress for 26 years.

"We've been getting ready for days," she said Monday. "Many of us even bought expensive wigs."

Furthermore, most of us have children at school who are learning about democracy and our way of doing things in day's wages.

However, about 50 waiters have been hired through the San Diego local of the Waiters and Bartenders Union, AFL-CIO, a union spokesman said.

A LOVELIER YOU Mid-Season Weather Aids Weight Loss

By MARY SUE MILLER

What do you say to losing 10 pounds before the end of summer and the start of an entirely new look? A would-be reducer has everything in her favor, including mid-season heat.

It's a fact that your appetite wanes in sultry weather. You actually need less food, what's more. Best of all, the following diet provides delicious, satisfying meals. Here's one day's allotment:

One egg — 75 calories; 1 pt. skim milk or equivalent in other dairy products — 160 cal.; 2 slices whole grain bread, or equivalent in other baked goods or cereal — 130 cal.; 1 tsp. butter or cooking oil — 100 cal.; choice of meat, fish or fowl (baked or broiled) not to exceed 300 cal.; 2 or 3 servings of non-starchy vegetable, raw and cooked — 85 cal.; 1 starch vegetable (potato, rice, corn) — 100 cal.; 1 fruit or vegetable juice, 1 portion raw fruit — 150 cal.; 1 plain dessert (Jello, water ice) — not to exceed 100 cal. Total, 1,200 calories.

Note for Miss Teen: To above foods add 2 slices bread, 2 pats butter; 1 pt. whole milk; 1 serving meat. This to grow taller on.

Other than lowered weight levels, the plus in this diet is a balance of nutrients that revs up energy, radiant skin and glossy hair. A Lovely may need an abundance of those assets come September. Fashions and beauty standards are fixed on ideal feminine loveliness.

Public Works Director Nolen Chafin (right) and Assistant City Manager Roy Anderson (background) are two of the city officials who worked out details for the long-standing suggestion.

Drop Box Set For Water Bill Payment After Hours

For a long time an idea had been kicking around city hall that there should be a place to deposit water bill payments after the water department closes for the day. Nobody did anything about it because there just wasn't any place to put it.

Several people suggested putting a slot in the door like a letter drop with a box on the other side, but there just wasn't enough room in the entry way for the box. So a few weeks ago Assistant City Manager Roy Anderson and Raymond Neil of the maintenance department decided to build a mailbox-type payment drop.

Salvation Army Aids In Wake Of Celia's Ruin

The Salvation Army has been busy in the Corpus Christi area since the winds and water of Hurricane Celia struck the area.

Reports reflect 59,000 hours in disaster operations, said Lt. Joseph Saint, in charge of the Salvation Army work here, and during that time 298,622 persons have been served in some way by the SA.

The tabulation showed 192,000 items of clothing and household goods distributed, 116,000 pounds of food given.

Cost of the operation has been great, and while the Salvation Army is not conducting any drive, it would be grateful for any help it could get to offset the heavy expense. So far Big Spring residents have given $51,500, but much more is needed.

Opening lead: King of ♠ South, the declarer at four spades, delayed leading trumps until he had obtained sufficient information to uncover a line of play that would assure the success of his venture.

West opened the king of hearts and East overtook with the ace to return the suit. West topped declarer's jack with the queen and continued with the ten on which East discarded a small diamond as South ruffed with the deuce of spades.

Declarer observed that there was no way to avoid the loss of a club trick, so that the contract hinged on bringing in the trump suit without casualty. The normal procedure with nine cards missing the queen, is to play the ace and king. South thought that he might be able to improve his prospects by finding out more about his opponents' distribution. The play in the heart suit had already revealed six of the 13 cards held by West.

A club was led to the ace. Next came the king of diamonds, the queen was then overtaken by the ace in order to cash the jack on which North discarded a club. West followed to each lead and the nine and ten of diamonds had appeared on the second and third rounds of that suit. It appeared reasonably safe to play another club and declarer led over to North's king.

When West showed in again, 11 of his cards could be identified. He was known to have six hearts, three diamonds and two clubs. Declarer was now ready to lead trumps. The ace of spades was cashed and then came the five. When East followed with the nine, South promptly played the ten from his hand. West showed out and the queen of spades was picked up on the next round by declarer's ace. A club was conceded at the end.

South's trump finesse was a foolproof safety play, for, even if it lost to a doubleton queen, West would have only hearts left and the forced return would permit declarer to trump while he discards the losing club from his hand.

entrance. Because parking will still be allowed in front of the box, sometimes people may have to park around the corner and walk over to the box, especially during business hours. This seeming inconvenience is part of the plan to encourage people to pay at the office when it is open, and use the box primarily after hours.

Farm Prices Dip Recorded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says prices received by farmers for raw products dropped 3 per cent in the July 15-Aug. 15 period, marking the largest 30-day decline since October, 1948.

The crop reporting board said Monday that lower prices for hogs, cattle, potatoes and pigs contributed most to the decrease. Higher prices for milk, lettuce and wheat partially offset the loss.

The over-all August index for prices paid farmers was put at 276 per cent of the 1910-14 base period, compared with 286 per cent a month earlier and the five-year high of 290 last February.

The board noted that the report did not reflect the sharp grain market fluctuations the past two weeks caused by reports of 1970 corn losses because of the Southern leaf blight.

Must Check Boeing 747s

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has ordered airlines with Boeing 747s to inspect some of their newer engines for possible faults in installation of a turbine wheel.

The order affects all engines on the huge jets which have been operating for less than 100 trips. The FAA said 747s which have surpassed 100 trips are beyond the period of potential trouble.

A spokesman for Pratt & Whitney, the engine manufacturer, said "We think this is a one-in-a-million failure, but we want to make sure that there has been no other improper assembly."

The order followed an explosion of the high-pressure turbine section of an engine of an Air France 747 shortly after takeoff from Montreal Aug. 17. The plane landed safely back at New York.

The new concern is unrelated to that which developed last May over turbine blade failures. Pratt & Whitney said that problem was resolved by modifying a riveting process.

Stormy Love

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Police reported Friday that two officers responded to a family disturbance between a honeymooning couple. "Their problem is getting used to each other," said the report on the bride, 70, and the groom, 80.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 55, and thank God he's in pretty good health, but everytime he must suffer the consequences. Mom and dad should tell him to support his own wife and establish his own home.

Well, Harry started "living" again last week after he buried a 57-year-old friend. He is eating all the things he shouldn't (he is supposed to watch his diet because he's inclined to be heavy) and he also drinks more than what is good for him. He quit smoking a year ago, but now he's started again, saying he is not going to deny himself anything, because who knows, tomorrow his number may come up.

So what is a wife supposed to do with a husband like that? I love him. HARRY'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Hit him over the head with his life insurance policy. If he doesn't get the message, nag him.

DEAR ABBY: Your support on behalf of that long-haired son who is unable to find a job because of his hair, and wants to bring his bride home for mom and dad to support, makes me cringe.

It is this kind of stupid thinking that makes parents support kids on college campuses who spend the academic year causing trouble instead of attending classes.

I say the boy is entitled to wear his hair to his knees if he so wishes, but if he's old enough to make this decision, and old enough to take a wife, he must suffer the consequences. Mom and dad should tell him to support his own wife and establish his own home.

What is a married man doing at home living off his daddy, anyway? Even the mother bird shoves her babies out of the nest to try their wings. She knows the only way to strengthen these wings is to use them. We are raising a generation of weak crybabies, thanks to people like you, Abby, you blew it again, and I will be most surprised if you print this. DISGUSTED IN WISCONSIN

DEAR DISGUSTED: The parents of "Long Hair" asked me if they should let their college son (newly married and jobless) come home with his bride to hunt a job — on the condition that he cut his hair. I said, "If you let him come home, don't offer him bread with a hook in it." And, that's what I meant.

DEAR ABBY: There are 10 of us girls who recently formed a club. We call ourselves "The Triple T's" for Ten Terrific Teens." We have a question to ask you.

How can a girl keep a boy interested in her without letting him get out of hand — if you know what I mean?

Linda says a girl simply has to let a boy advance little by little in order to keep him coming back for more, but if he really gets out of line, she should slug him.

Barbs says a girl should advertise the fact that she is pure, and intends to stay that way. Well, that sounds groovy, but Barbs stays home nearly every weekend. What is your advice? "THE TRIPLE T'S"

DEAR TRIPLE: It's up to the girl to set the limits and make it crystal clear what those limits are. If she lets a boy "advance" little by little in order to keep him coming back for more, she'll soon have nothing left for him to come back for. Also, I don't recommend leading a fellow on, and then "slugging" him.

I think Barbs has the right idea if she doesn't overdo the goody-goody bit. And staying home weekends beats hand-to-hand combat with an octopus.

Exhibits this year will feature rooms which might have been seen in homes in the area around the turn of the century, and are to include a parlor, bedroom and kitchen. All exhibits are open to the public without charge.

Area artists have been invited to show Western paintings in an art exhibit in the foyer of the coliseum. The paintings will be left for public viewing on Sunday afternoon also. Ben Korns of Amarillo will be a special exhibitor and will judge the art show. The Diamond M Foundation will present the "best in show" award.

FIRST NEWSPAPER
Continuous entertainment throughout the afternoon will be provided by Snyder and area musicians. A 1970 edition of "The Coming West" Snyder's first newspaper, will go on sale at the coliseum for the first time. Material for the publication, biographical and historical sketches, has been gathered by a local research committee. A country store will be in operation, offering for sale handmade items and home baked goods.

A tea for Ranch Headquarters Association members will be held in Meeting Room A on the south side of the coliseum. A barbecue will be served from 6 p.m. - 8 p.m., with Snyder Jaycees in charge of ticket sales.

Akufe-Addo Wins Vote In Ghana

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Former Chief Justice Edward Akufe-Addo, 68, has been elected president of Ghana.

The Electoral College gave him 123 votes Monday to 35 for Dr. Isaac Asafo-Adjaye, also 68.

The presidential election, first since 1960, completed the country's return from military to civilian rule.

Akufe-Addo, father of Ghana's new constitution, was sponsored by the ruling Progress party.

Gathering is being planned by the Snyder unit of Ranch Headquarters Association. The gathering is designed as a reminder of ranching history, and to stimulate interest in the preservation of that history. The formation of the Association was announced here at the first gathering in September, 1969, by Dr. Grover Murray, president of Texas Tech University. The association is a non-profit educational corporation, with membership open to all. Membership fees are $5 per person, or $12.50 for families with minor children. Fees and gifts from Association members will be used in assembling buildings and furnishings for the Ranch Headquarters, an outdoor museum of ranching history on a 12-acre tract near the Texas Tech campus in Lubbock.

The Snyder unit of the Association was the first organized and is the largest and most active. Mrs. Wilson Connell of the Lazy D Ranch in Kent County, north of Snyder, is a member of the state board of Ranch Headquarters and is general chairman of the Snyder Ranch Headquarters Gathering.

Guests for the Sept. 19 meeting are expected to include many old-timers of the area, members of the state board, and Dr. and Mrs. Murray, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Holden, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rogers of Lubbock. Rogers is ranch headquarters director.

TEEN SLAIN, COED RAPED
SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Police questioned a man, 22, and sought five other persons in connection with a night of terror at a park where a teenager was fatally stabbed and a college coed raped.

Officers said the slaying and the rape, which occurred several hours apart at a lake near Our Lady of the Lake College, were the work of six thugs.

The body of Mike Montez, 15, was recovered from the lake early Sunday. A medical examiner ruled he died of a combination of drowning and stab wounds.

Police said Montez was attacked Saturday night and a coed, 17, enrolled at Our Lady of the Lake, was raped repeatedly several hours later as her date watched helplessly.

Greg Landry Shines As Lions Triumph

DETROIT (AP) — Philadelphia is the City of Brotherly Love, but when the Philadelphia Eagles leave home they must leave their love behind. They left it behind Monday night, but they sure weren't angry enough to handle the growling Detroit Lions. The Lions came out fighting first and shook hands later as they crushed the Eagles 31-7 in their National Football League exhibition game before a record preseason crowd of 56,032. Although there were several fights during the game the biggest fight seems to be the one developing over who'll be Detroit's No. 1 quarterback. Greg Landry won his bout against the Eagles, firing a pair of touchdown passes and running 33 yards for another score to draw the praise of coach Joe Schmidt. Bill Munson had started Detroit's first three games, although Landry has played considerably. Munson didn't play at all against the Eagles, who have lost their three exhibitions. Third-stringer Greg Barton played the fourth quarter for the Lions who have won three straight in a 3-1 record. It is generally conceded Detroit has a fine defense. The Eagles only score came on a one-yard plunge by rookie Lee Bouggess with a minute left in the game, with Mark Moseley converting. Landry put the Lions ahead 7-0 at the five-minute mark of the first quarter with a 29-yard touchdown pass to tight end Charlie Sanders. The sensational Sanders, recently returned from the Army, made fine catches on two other apparent TD tosses from Landry only to have them nullified by penalties. One was a 46-yarder in the second quarter and the other for 42 yards in the third. Sanders didn't only shine as a receiver. Landry, who likes to run, found his receivers covered and so sprinted the 33 yards for his TD in the third period. Former Michigan State quarterback Jimmy Raye, an Eagles defensive back, had a clear shot at Landry on the five but Sanders upended him with a jarring block. BRIEF SCUFFLE The 6-foot-4, 235-pounder was involved in a little of everything. In the third period he and Eagles defensive tackle Gary Pettigrew scuffled briefly. "Landry was rolling out and the only person between him and me was Pettigrew," Sanders explained. "So I blocked him in the legs and he started kicking me. But we shook hands afterwards." However, the big fight came early in the fourth quarter moments after Lem Barney intercepted a Norm Sneed pass and returned it 16 yards to the Philadelphia 24. Lions defensive back Bobby Williams threw a punch at Eagles defensive tackle Ernie Calloway after both benches cleared to the Eagles end zone where some pushing was going on. Strangely only Philly's Ronnie Blye was ejected. Philadelphia managed just 172 yards total offense to 405 for the Lions, who outruled the Eagles 219 yards to 67. George Mira went most of the way at quarterback for the losers and had passes intercepted by Barney and Tom Vaughn. The same two Lions snared two of Sneed's tosses. A wave of cuts highlighted Monday's off-field activities. Two of those released were Billy Cannon, by Oakland, and Jimmy Hines, by Miami. Cannon won the Heisman Trophy as a running back for Louisiana State and then played running back and tight end for Houston and Oakland over a period of nine years. Hines, an Olympic sprint champion, spent two frustrating seasons as a wide receiver for the Dolphins. In trades, Pittsburgh sent center Bob DeMarco to Miami for a 1971 draft choice, the Oakland Raiders, dealt Ike Lasseris, a former all-American Football League defensive end, to the Boston Patriots, also for a future draft pick and the Denver Broncos acquired veteran cornerback Booker Edgerson from the Buffalo Bills for a future draft selection. Ontario Drivers Back On Track ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — The 33 cars making up the California 500 championship field returned to the Ontario Motor Speedway today after setting a record four-lap average of 172.540 miles per hour during a weekend of qualifying. Today's runs were labeled "carburetion tests" but for most of the drivers it was to be the next to last opportunity to get in practice runs over the 2.5-mile Indianapolis-type oval. A final round of tests, giving crews a chance to work on their pit stop procedures, are scheduled Friday. In the carburetion tests, the cars run with full loads of fuel and team managers keep a close check on tire wear and the way the cars handle under racing conditions.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: HOWARD SAMUELS, chairman of New York City's off-track betting corporation, about Mayor John Lindsay's order to hire a research firm to study New York's illegal bookies: "It's estimated there are 10,000 illegal bookies in New York City. If the bettors can find them, then the market research people ought to be able to find them. Bookmaking is a business. In order to understand the business, we've got to study our competitors."

Manger TED WILLIAMS of the Washington Senators, discussing his star hitter: "Frank Howard is the strongest, hardest and the biggest bat guy who has ever played this game. When he hits it, there isn't any doubt where it is going. It's just a matter of how far it's going to travel. Nobody has ever played this game who can hit a ball as far as Howard."

LANNY VAN EMAN, new basketball coach at the University of Arkansas, on the value of the full court press: "Rick Mount brought the ball down court and made 46 points against us (Iowa). But he missed ten of his last 11 shots. We won, 108-107, and Mount collapsed on the court immediately after the game."

JACK BUCK, radio-TV voice of the St. Louis Cardinals, commenting on the lively ball during the Cards' 11-8 recent win over the Dodgers: "You know who I'd like to see in the outfield? Chub Feeney (NL, proxy), Bowie Kuhn (baseball commissioner) and Joe Cronin (AL commissioner)."

FRANK HOWARD, strongboy for the Washington Senators: "Benefiting from so many parks with the fast Astroturf, the National League's top hitter this year should beat the American League's leader by from 30 to 35 points."

WALTER ALSTON, manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers: "When your pitcher's best stuff is misfiring, you have to realize it is part of baseball and must accept it or you'll go crazy."

JIM DOOLEY, coach of the Chicago Bears, discussing line-backer Dick Butkus: "He has nothing but destruction on his mind. He is violence itself."

TOM LANDRY, coach of the Dallas Cowboys: "There are two kinds of linebackers in the NFL today. Ours are very active. We want them to get through traffic in a hurry. Size is always desirable, of course, but quickness is essential. On the other hand, Vince Lombardi at Green Bay looked for size as a must. That's the other school."

CLAUDE GIBSON, new football coach at Tulsa, on why he intends to limit recruiting among junior colleges in the future: "First, you're admitting a weakness in your program. Some coaches use it as a shortcut in bad recruiting years to bridge the gap. Second, I think you incur a lot of problems. For instance, some have poor academic backgrounds."

A voice in the background, after hearing that Maury Willis aspired to manage the Los Angeles Dodgers some day: "Managers are sought. When someone openly seeks the job, unbending frustration lurks around the bend."

EDDIE LEISHMAN, general manager of the San Diego Padres, expressing doubt that Roberto Clemente's kidnapping story is true: "Clemente does a little dreaming. He's a great player but he believes he hasn't had the publicity of Willie Mays and others. Sometimes he gets carried away."

Ashe, Richey Finish Sweep In Cup Play

CLEVELAND (AP) — If the Davis Cup is to survive, it may not only have to go open, it may have to go public, as well. This was the feeling of leading tennis figures after the United States completed a 5-0 rout of disappointing West Germany Monday in the cozy and somewhat restricted confines of the Clark Memorial Stadium in fashionable Cleveland Heights. "We must take tennis out of the country club atmosphere and return it to the people," said Arthur Ashe Jr., of Richmond, Va., mainstay of the U.S. Davis Cup team for the last seven years. MARTIN AGREES Alastair Martin of New York, wealthy president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, agreed. "I think we should start thinking about putting the Davis Cup in the big public stadium—the ball parks or the coliseum," Martin said. "It should be a big show where the average sports fans could attend." Donald Dell, the ex-U.S. Davis Cup captain, said, "The ghetto of the country club is holding back the progress of the sport." Pete Davis, whose father Dwight Davis donated the cup 70 years ago, said he knew of no restriction against playing the Davis Cup in a closed arena such as Madison Square Garden or the Houston Astrodome. "I would like to see more people given a chance to view the matches," Davis said. The future site of the Davis Cup challenge round became a question mark when the USLTA indicated it was searching for another city. Cleveland has held the last three—in 1964, 1969 and 1970. The city built in a hard surface court in a junior high field, constructed bleacher-type stands and proceeded to hold the world's top team tennis show for a capacity 7,500, most of them affluent residents of the community paying $6 to $12 a seat. "How many fans are you going to get at $12 a seat?" asked Ashe. "Tennis is too snobbish, anyhow." LOGICAL SITE The West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills, seating more than 13,000, is the logical site but Forest Hills can't accommodate both the Open and the Davis Cup. Football and baseball are erecting modernistic plants which might be used for a Davis Cup challenge round but to date the sport has not shown a wide enough national interest to warrant a move into one of those giant arenas. "There are said to be 10 million tennis players in the United States now," said one tennis official. "I think you could expect 30,000 of them to want to see a Davis Cup." Perhaps, but the Davis Cup must improve its product. The U.S.-Germany match was a sham, with the Germans putting up only a feeble fight. In the final singles, Cliff Richey of San Antonio, Tex., defeated Wilhelm Bungert 6-4, 6-4, 7-5 and Ashe won over Christian Kuhnke 6-8, 10-12, 9-7, 13-11, 6-4.

Famed Bowler Is Due Here

Jim St. Clair, a veteran bowler who has been winning world championships since 1963, will conduct a bowling clinic at the Bowl-A-Rama here Wednesday. The three-hour school gets under way at 6 p.m. St. John will offer free instructions to all beginners. Jim is coming here as part of a nationwide "Cavalcade of Sports" program sponsored by Brunswick.

St. John is now head professional at Saratoga Lanes in San Jose, Calif.

Jean Nicholson, manager of the Bowl-A-Rama, said St. John's visit here was especially timely since the fall bowling season is at hand.

She added all novice bowlers could greatly benefit from the lessons offered by St. John.

In 1967, St. John carried a PBA average of 210.539, fourth highest in the history of that organization. He has had four sanctioned 300 games. He was on Bowling magazine's All America team two different years — in 1964 and again in '65.

Memphis Gets ABA Quint

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The New Orleans Bucs, faced with slumping crowds and loss of revenue at home, have been sold and will be moved to Memphis this season. The move, announced at news conferences Monday in both cities, remains contingent upon approval of the league expected today. P.L. Blake of Greenwood Miss., negotiated purchase of the team from Maurice Stern of New Orleans. Neither side would disclose the purchase price, but Stern admitted that the club owners did not get their investment back. "We took a loss," he said. Stern said he had initially been approached by Blake about 10 days ago, and the formal agreement was reached Saturday.

Dave Hill Fined For Oversight

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Notes from the pro golf tournament trail: Stormy Dave Hill says he was fined for failing to sign his scorecard after the second round of last week's Dow Jones Open. "I thought it was a free country and you didn't have to sign anything you didn't want to," Hill said, "but the man said get out your checkbook so I got out my checkbook." "I guess it's okay." Hill was disqualified. His score would have failed to make the cut for the final two rounds in any event. "What I think I'll do," said Hill, who was fined and reprimanded for his remarks at the U.S. Open earlier this year, "is just send them a check every week, maybe $50." "Then at the end of the year, they can figure it up and if I've paid them more than I've been fined, well they can tell me how much it is and what I can do or say to get fined that much more."

Steve Reid, who has had his goodly share of fines, was chiding Hill about his latest episode. "It's not right, Dave," Reid said. "Everybody knows I'm a bad guy, that I get hot out on the course." "But you, you're always giving them that action that you're so cool, that you don't get hot."

Son Of Famed Clay Takes Over

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay Jr., son of the famed World War II Army general, took over today as commander of the U.S. 7th Air Force in military ceremonies at Tan Son Nhut Air Base.

Clay, 51, replaced Gen. George S. Brown, who held the post for two years.

Brown has been reassigned as commander of the Air Force System Command.

As commander of the 7th Air Force, he will be responsible for all air strikes and air defense operations in Southeast Asia.

Big Three Automakers To Show Pact Offers

DETROIT (AP) — "Big Three" automakers reveal their new contract offers to the United Auto Workers union today, hoping to provide the basis for a settlement that would avert a mid-September strike.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock had served notice on the companies that they must meet the UAW's major demands to reach a contract peacefully.

The offers today, separately from each company, were the first responses from General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., and Chrysler Corp. to the UAW's proposals since bargaining began July 15. The old contract expires Sept. 14.

PICKS TARGET

Some 730,000 of the union's 1.6 million members are employed by the Big Three automakers.

The union's International Executive Board traditionally picks a target company to press for a pattern-setting settlement—or, in case of continued disagreement, to strike. The last UAW strike, against Ford in 1967, lasted eight weeks.

The UAW also is negotiating a new contract with American Motors, but the present contract there does not expire until mid-October.

The Big Three settlement traditionally serves as the pattern for new pacts with supply plants and the agricultural implement and aerospace industries.

The AFL-CIO has pledged its support to the UAW despite the fact the auto union has dropped out of the giant labor organization.

LOCKOUT LOOK

Woodcock told the UAW Community Action Council in Grand Rapids Monday that the union would not be intimidated by either a threat of a lockout by automakers or a prolonged strike.

There has been some speculation in Eastern financial circles that the automakers may resort to an industrywide lockout if one company is struck.

Woodcock, who succeeded the late UAW President Walter P. Reuther, repeated Monday that the UAW would strike one of the automakers unless a pattern-setting contract is reached by midnight Sept. 14, when current three-year pacts expire.

The UAW has built up a $120 million strike fund in preparation for the negotiations. The union has asked for a "substantial" but so far unspecified wage increase, the removal of the ceiling on the cost-of-living wage escalator tied to the nation's Consumer Price Index, and the option to retire with a $6,000 annual pension after 30 years of service, regardless of age.

The companies have said they would strongly resist an unlimited cost-of-living escalator.

POW Film Nets Mixed Reaction

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 12-minute North Vietnamese film purporting to show U.S. prisoners of war celebrating Christmas was received with mixed reaction by families at home. Some shouted recognition, some were skeptical.

In Cleveland, Mrs. Charles S. Stanley Sr. said she, a son and daughter were viewing the television film when a familiar profile appeared.

"SO BAD"

"We all jumped at once, so it must be him," she declared, referring to CWO Charles S. Stanley Jr. She said he had his head down and looked "so sad."

The film was aired nationally Monday night after the Pentagon had sent telegrams to families of missing soldiers asking them to view it. Spokesmen said most of the men who appeared weren't on the official prisoner list.

Nina Trout of Murfreesboro, Tenn., said one of the men was her son, Capt. Mark Babson. "It may be a propaganda film, but that's my son."

Mrs. Trout said she had been notified her son was missing in action on Oct. 14, 1969, and received no further word until she got the Pentagon's telegram earlier Monday.

Babson's wife, however, who watched the film at her home in Ozark, Ala., was unable to spot him.

Other relatives contended the pictures of the healthy-looking men may have been faked to leave the impression that Hanoi treats prisoners well.

The film was handed to Rep. Roger Zion, R-Ind., by North Vietnamese in Paris last week. Zion, who had gone to Paris to deliver a letter from 406 congressmen seeking humane treatment of POWs, said he was not told where the movie film was taken.

The Defense Department counted 75 faces in the film. Of these, officials said, 14 were on the Pentagon's POW list, 41 probably were known prisoners and 20 had not been listed previously. No names were listed.

"We know that other films like this have been staged," said Iris R. Powers, coordinator of a group of families whose sons or husbands are missing in action.

"NOW WHY?"

"Many of the men shown in the film are wearing different kinds of clothing," Mrs. Powers said. "Now why? Is it because they come from different camps?"

"If so, and we suspect this could be the reason, then it follows that they very probably may have been hand-picked because they are not representative of those who have suffered most, who are ill or injured, or have been brutalized by their captors," she added.

Offshore Oil Drilling Halt Urged In Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The petroleum industry should confine its drilling to land and delay further offshore operations to protect the environment, a federal study suggests.

The study cited eruption of an oil well in California's Santa Barbara channel in January, 1969, and pollution resulting from an oil fire off the Louisiana coast last February as examples of offshore operations damaging the environment.

The study, released today by the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, was prepared by the environmental policy branch of the Library of Congress.

The oil industry, the report said, has improved its record of containing blowouts on land, and pollution, when it occurs, is localized.

"With on-land problems of production and transportation of petroleum sufficiently well in hand so that substantial pollution seldom occurs, the on-land search for new petroleum reservoirs might for this reason and other good reasons be encouraged," the report said.

Much of the United States has not yet been explored in depth for oil, the report said, and there are opinions that large areas are favorable prospects for oil and gas.

Safeguard Reaches New Milestone

WASHINGTON (AP) — Development of the Safeguard Anti-Ballistic Missile (ABM) system has reached a significant milestone with its first interception of a missile in outer space, but the ultimate test remains five years away.

A Spartan missile fired Friday from a mid-Pacific test site on Kwajalein Atoll intercepted a Minuteman I ballistic missile nose cone high over the Pacific and above the earth's atmosphere.

It was the first time the Spartan was fired at an actual target and guided by its new and complex missile site radar (MSR), the Defense Department said Monday in a brief announcement of the test. In previous tests, Spartans were fired only at points in the sky.

IT WORKS

"This was the first test to see if the system works," a Pentagon spokesman explained. "It wasn't the ultimate test, but it was a milestone."

The ultimate test of the disputed multi-billion-dollar ABM system will come in 1975 when the first Safeguard site is scheduled to become operational with all its component parts, including the important but still not completed perimeter acquisition radar (PAR), at Grand Forks, N.D.

Safeguard is designed to protect America's offensive Minuteman missile force by knocking out incoming enemy missiles with its long-range, nuclear-tipped Spartan and short-range Sprint missiles.

Safeguard critics, both in Congress and the scientific community, question whether the ABM's guiding radars are sophisticated enough to distinguish between incoming nuclear warheads from decoys and other electronic devices designed to fool or jam the system.

Friday's mid-Pacific test demonstrated the missile site radar's ability to track an incoming missile and guide Spartan to its target. In this case, it was a single nose cone and not a multiple warhead such as would be expected in an actual attack.

The Safeguard system also will be aided by its perimeter acquisition radar, which is being designed to pick up enemy missiles when they first appear over the horizon minutes after launch. However, because of its size and complexity, it will be impossible to fully test the PAR and the completed Safeguard system until the first site is installed at Grand Forks.

In describing Friday's test, Pentagon officials said the Spartan intercepted a Minuteman nose cone launched 4,200 miles away from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

LETTER Says Fire Dept. Shorted

To the Editor:

Concerning the City-County Pact, and the article in Sunday's paper:

To set the record straight, the Coahoma Fire Department doesn't need the sheriff to "round them up." The phone number is 394-3391, which sets off the siren. Within a short time, it will be answered; the party calling should stay on the phone until they get an answer.

It is true, Big Spring department might answer a call to Silver Heels faster, but they could not act as quickly answering a call further away, perhaps at Vincent or Sand Springs.

If the plan mentioned in the paper is put into effect, Big Spring City will need three hired men and two more trucks for county use. If Coahoma or anyone else had the amount of money Chief H. V. Crocker said would be needed, we could set up anywhere and perform the same service. Or, why doesn't the county just set up their own Fire Department, without going through the City of Big Spring.

If this agreement is put into effect, with over $21,000 in county taxes needed for it, and the Coahoma Dept. receives nothing more than the $1,500 a year they have received for the last four years, I, for one, will not go outside the city limits of Coahoma, as a volunteer.

Ex-Astronaut To Tour Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — Former U.S. astronaut Frank Borman arrived from Hong Kong today for a 10-hour visit before returning to the United States.

He has been on a tour of world capitals as President Nixon's special representative seeking to enlist aid to get negotiations for the exchange of prisoners of war with North Vietnam.

During his stay in Tokyo, Borman's schedule included meetings with officials of the Japan Red Cross Society and Japanese political leaders including former Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's older brother.

The study, released today by the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, was prepared by the environmental policy branch of the Library of Congress.

The oil industry, the report said, has improved its record of containing blowouts on land, and pollution, when it occurs, is localized.

RUN, RUN LITTLE OKIE HENS, SKY IS FALLING IN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force says that two chunks of metal found in Kansas and Oklahoma probably are remnants of a Soviet-Cosmos 316 satellite.

Officials said the objects fell Friday night near Pratt, Kan., about 50 miles west of Wichita, and near Beaver in the Oklahoma panhandle.

One weighed 150 pounds and the other 240 pounds, and each was about the size of a car muffler.

The parts are being analyzed at Air Force laboratories in Dayton, Ohio, and will be returned to Russia if they prove to have been part of the satellite.

The decay of the Cosmos 316 was predicted along a path where the pieces were found. The satellite was launched last Dec. 23.
