

UNTIL EGYPT PULLS BACK MISSILES IN SUEZ CANAL ZONE

Israel Drops Out Of Peace Talks

By The Associated Press
Israel says it will not return to peace talks at the United Nations in New York until Egypt pulls back the anti-aircraft missiles it has placed in the Suez Canal cease-fire zone since the truce took effect Aug. 7.

"Apparently this will mean some delay," President Nixon's press secretary, Ronald Ziegler, told newsmen in Washington. "We are hopeful that the talks will start soon. The United States will continue to make every effort to work out this problem."

TELL THE TRUTH
Sources close to the Egyptian government in Cairo charged that the breakdown of the peace talks is a result of the State Department's confirmation of Israel's "false allegations" of Egyptian cease-fire violations. They said the SAM missiles had been placed along the canal before the truce started and they could not be pulled back. In a dramatic development in the Middle East, Palestinian commandos hijacked three jetliners over Europe and forced them to fly to Arab countries. One, a Pan American World Airways Boeing 747 jumbo jet, was destroyed with a dynamite bomb minutes after it landed at Cairo. The 188 persons aboard — passengers, hijackers, crew and 18 Palestinians picked up during a refueling stop at Beirut — had left the plane moments before it burst into flame. The other two hijacked planes were under guerrilla control at Zerqua, 15 miles northwest of Amman, Jordan. Guerrillas there threatened to blow up the planes unless three demands were met.

RETURN OF WOMAN
The first demand was for the safe return of a woman commando who was arrested after an attempt to hijack a fourth plane failed and it landed safely at London. The plane, an Israeli El Al jet with 157 aboard, was diverted after it took off from Amsterdam on a flight to New York.

The second demand was for the release from Swiss jails of three guerrillas who attacked an El Al airliner at Zurich airport in 1969, and the fourth demand was for the release from West German jails of three other commandos who made an attack on an Israeli tourist bus in Frankfurt the same year. Informed sources said the Swiss government was inclined to meet the demand for the three guerrillas held in Switzerland, and British officials voiced concern that England would be caught in the middle of the dispute because the young woman guerrilla is being held there.

DOUBTS PATRIOTISM
In another development in the Middle East, Jordan's King Hussein declared he has no intention of liquidating the Palestinian resistance movement. He said he would no longer remain silent at attempts to cast doubt on his patriotism. Hussein, who has been trying to weather increasing hostility from the Arab Guerrillas amid growing violence between his army troops and the Palestinians, was dressed in his uniform as commander-in-chief as he addressed the nation on television. He also warned leaders of Syria and Iraq to stop making inflammatory statements on the current crisis between his army and the guerrillas. Syria and Iraq have threatened to throw the troops they have stationed in Jordan to the support of the guerrillas if there is any show-down in Jordan.

Panthers Wind Up Big Event

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A demand for creation of an oppression-free socialist society was the central theme as the Black Panther party wound up the main event of its Revolutionary People's Constitutional Convention.

The capitalist system, U.S. activities in other nations, the present treatment of women and various minority groups including homosexuals all came in for attack Sunday as spokesmen for 15 workshops presented their ideas for bettering society.

THE PEOPLE
About 6,000 people, most young and about 35 per cent white, shot clenched fists into the air and shouted "right on" and "power to the people" as each demand was read inside the Temple University gymnasium that served as a convention hall.

Most demonstrated a concern that "the people" must directly control everything ranging from what they do with their own bodies to education, police, court justice and the actions of the military.

One workshop demanded that national minorities be guaranteed the right to integrate, segregate, federate, amalgamate, congregate, secede, or do whatever they wish, provided that no group oppresses any other group.

FREE HOUSING
Other demands included: —Guaranteed representation for all ethnic groups in whatever government structure is formed in proportion to their numbers at the local level.

—Free housing, health care, education, and day care centers for children, all paid for by the government.

—The right, and the duty, for everyone to bear arms, perhaps in the form of a justice-dispensing "people's militia" that would include women.

—People judged only by their peers.

—Free abortion, sterilization, and contraceptive devices for men and women.

—Drastic changes in the present family structure, with more emphasis on communal living and men sharing house work equally with women.

—Both education and art to serve "the people," and assist in teaching revolutionary ideas.

MULTIPLE SLAYING SUSPECT NABBED — Dale Merle Nelson is hustled into the Royal Canadian Mounted Police office at Creston Sunday following his capture near his cabin west of this southeastern British Columbia town. Nelson, 31, was charged immediately with the slaying of one of eight persons who were shot and mutilated in their farm homes.

Move To Oust Galbraith Gets Support

DALLAS (AP) — Ira Kapenstein, deputy chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said Sunday that any move to oust John Kenneth Galbraith from his role in the party would "get support" from party members, the Dallas News reported.

Charging Saturday that Galbraith wants to "purify the party in the flames of defeat," Democratic Party Treasurer Robert D. Strauss of Dallas called for Galbraith's removal.

Galbraith, former ambassador to India and now a Harvard economist, holds no formal position in the party but is one of about 100 persons who serve on the committee's policy council.

"A number of us in the national committee seriously wonder about Galbraith's efforts to defeat certain Democrats," Kapenstein said by telephone Sunday, the News said.

SUBDUED BY DOG Suspect In Slaying Of 8 Captured

CRESTON, B.C. (AP) — A 31-year-old part-time logger was subdued by a police dog and arrested Sunday, ending a hunt for a gunman who killed eight Canadians, including five children. Dale Merle Nelson was jailed and charged in one of the eight slayings. He is to appear before a magistrate Tuesday.

CHILD SLAIN
Found slain in two separate cabins in this community of 3,000 in the pre-dawn hours Saturday were Mrs. Shirley Wasyk, 30, Tracy Wasyk, 7; Raymond John Phipps, 42; his wife, Isabelle, 26; and three of their children, Paul, 10, Bryan, 7, and Kenneth, 18 months.

A fourth Phipps child, Cathy, 8, was found dead Sunday near a ditched car which the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said had been driven by the killer. Also found near the car was the body of Tracy Wasyk, which was taken from the cabin after officers found her and her mother dead and left to check nearby homes.

BODIES SLASHED
The RCMP said Cathy Phipps had been taken hostage by the killer after her parents and the others were shot to death and their bodies were mutilated with a knife. Cathy later was stabbed to death.

Fifty officers using helicopters and tracker dogs searched 41 hours for the killer near where the car was found abandoned on a country road. Nelson was spotted Sunday five miles away at a shack in which he had lived for a week, near the homes of the victims.

Woman Slain In Midland

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Peggy Sue Ubinski, 25, was found buried in a shallow grave beside her home Sunday, police said. She had been shot three times. A man was arrested and a .22 caliber rifle was impounded.

Police said they went to the woman's home after a tip about a shooting. Police said they found a hole in the back yard and the freshly-dug grave beside the house.

Jumbo Jet Blasted At Airport In Cairo

One Of Three Skyjackings To Middle East

CAIRO (AP) — Arab guerrillas blew up a hijacked Pan American World Airways 747 jumbo jet here early today eight minutes after the plane landed. A spokesman for the airline said all 188 persons aboard had disembarked safely.

A Pan American Boeing 707 relief plane landed later at Cairo airport to pick up the passengers stranded by the hijackers. It was one of four planes involved in hijacking plots Sunday apparently by Arab commandos.

BLOWN UP
An earlier report that 15 persons aboard the 747 were missing was labeled erroneous by a Pan American spokesman. The relief plane, flown here from London, was expected to fly out most of the passengers of the destroyed 747.

The jumbo jet was engulfed in flames after the passengers and crew had been removed. Witnesses said four persons were injured fleeing the plane through its emergency exits. They said one appeared to have a broken leg and two others had back injuries. A pregnant woman just barely escaped with an injured ankle, the witnesses said.

The Egyptian government announced all the passengers would be released as soon as Pan Am sends another plane to pick them up. The airline said in Lebanon that a Boeing 707 was dispatched from London to get the stranded passengers. Cairo's Middle East News Agency said 85 Americans were among them.

CREW SAFE
In Beirut, the guerrillas said they would blow up the other two hijacked planes unless a set of demands were met. The Swiss Red Cross said a representative had been allowed to see the planes at Zerqa, 15 miles northwest of Amman, Jordan, and had reported the passengers and crew were safe.

The lives of more than 640 persons hung in the balance during the three hijackings and a fourth attempt that was foiled in a gun battle over England.

KISSES FOR WEARY TRAVELERS — Leonard Shapiro, from Monsey, holds his five-year-old daughter, Yaffa, as she gives him a kiss today at New York's Kennedy Airport. Shapiro's wife, Deann, right, his daughter, and his eight-month-old son, Gabriel Isaac, whom he holds, were aboard an El Al airliner which was almost hijacked in Europe. Shapiro said he had been waiting at the airport for almost 12 hours for his family to arrive, fearing for their safety because of the fatal shoot-out aboard the plane.

Nixon To Celebrate With Labor Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is back at the White House today to celebrate the Labor Day holiday with a gathering of 3,200 labor union leaders and their families.

The President invited top union officials and their wives to a dinner for 200 in the East Room, with a menu featuring prime rib of beef and fine wines.

Afterward 3,000 others including Labor Department employees and union members and their families were to gather on the White House lawn for a torchlight military review featuring drills and music.

'POOR TASTE'
The President came back from San Clemente, Calif., Sunday night, ending an 18-day absence from the capital that began Aug. 20 with a visit to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, for a meeting with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz.

Winding up his last day at the Western White House on Sunday, Nixon took an unannounced 60-mile helicopter trip northeast to Riverside to pay a call on his 90-year-old aunt, Edith Timberlake, a patient in the Beverly Manor Convalescent Hospital.

The helicopter trip, with presidential assistant John Ehrlichman and friend C.G. 'Bebe' Rebozo along, was not announced in advance and was conducted in secrecy. An aide explained later that it was considered "poor taste to make a press thing" of the visit to his ailing aunt.

PEACE TALKS
After the Labor Day holiday, Nixon planned to zero in on the returning Congress to push for passage of still-pending administration legislation, especially the family assistance plan to provide a minimum income for poverty level families.

He was expected to meet with Republican congressional leaders Wednesday and later to issue a statement on the status of his domestic program after 19 months in office.

Foreign affairs continued to take up much of Nixon's time. On Sunday, the Western White House said the United States will "make every effort" to help work out problems in the Middle East and to keep peace talks going despite Israel's announcement it will withdraw because of cease-fire violations.

NEW CUTBACKS
The top authorized U.S. strength in Vietnam was set in 1968 by former President Lyndon B. Johnson at 549,500 but that was never reached. Actual American strength in Vietnam reached its peak at 543,400 in April, 1969, a few months before President Nixon announced the first round of withdrawals.

In one of the new cutbacks announced Monday, the U.S. Command said the 7th Air Force's 31st Tactical Fighter Wing is being withdrawn from Tuy Hoa Air Base, 240 miles north-east of Saigon. The base is being transferred to the U.S. Army.

Headquarters said that the reduction of airmen has been accomplished partly by a cutback in the previously programmed flow of replacements to Vietnam. This means that not all of the airmen in the 31st Tactical Fighter Wing will return home immediately. Some will be reassigned in Viet to complete their 12-month tours.

1972 TARGET
The U.S. Command was expected to announce this week the first of a series of moves to bolster the South Vietnamese Air Force with an eye toward cutting U.S. troop strength in Vietnam to fewer than 40,000 men by the end of 1972.

Explosion Kills Unidentified Man

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Emergency regulations to control the sale and handling of explosives go into effect Tuesday in Minnesota, rocked by eight bombs in three weeks.

The latest explosion, early Sunday, killed a man. Authorities said it was unlikely the remains could be identified.

Police said the victim appeared to have been carrying a bomb when it exploded in front of a south Minneapolis house, scattering debris over a 2½-block area.

$500,000 DAMAGE
The regulations, formulated by the attorney general's office after several meetings with law enforcement officials, will require positive identification of all buyers of high explosives, plus a 24-hour waiting period between purchase and delivery.

Four persons had been injured in seven previous explosions, all in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. One caused an estimated $500,000 damage to the old federal building in downtown Minneapolis.

Inspector Swede Ekblad said the blast Sunday was caused by a "plastic explosive." Officials refused to speculate whether the explosion was related to the earlier ones.

The 3 a.m. blast heavily damaged a house and shattered windows of homes and businesses in the area. No injuries were reported.

The explosion, which occurred during a thunderstorm, ripped out a 30-foot section of white picket fence in front of the house. The roof of the porch was left sagging. Scraps of lumber littered the porch. Dirt was plastered against the front of the two-story frame building.

THEY ESCAPE
The Sophia Mosby family was asleep in the house, but escaped injury. Capt. Dan Graff, who led the investigation, said police did not know where the victim was coming from or where he was going.

Cool Front Nearing WT

A weak cool front inched its way into Texas Monday, producing widely scattered showers in Northwest and West Texas. Skies were generally fair to partly cloudy elsewhere with early morning temperatures stretching from the 60s at Daltart to the 70s and 80s elsewhere. Weathermen said a few thunderstorms would develop in Northwest and West Texas again Monday afternoon as the cool front advances toward the east. Little change in temperatures was predicted except in areas behind the front where somewhat cooler conditions were expected.

Police in Ipswich were watching the show and recognized Compton as a man who stayed in a local hotel without paying the bill. Two Demos Make Pitches For Votes

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The state's top two Democratic politicians made pitches for votes they will surely need here Sunday at the Galveston County AFL-CIO Labor Day picnic. Speaking to the crowd was Gov. Preston Smith and the party's Senatorial nominee, Lloyd Bentsen.

McDuff Dodges Electric Chair At Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Kenneth Allen McDuff, scheduled to die in the electric chair Tuesday, has been given a stay of execution, prison officials said here Sunday.

Authorities said a federal court order from Washington halted what would have been the first execution in Texas since July, 1964. Criminal Dist. Judge Byron Matthews at Fort Worth had ordered the execution to proceed Tuesday when courts denied McDuff's appeal for a stay. McDuff was convicted in 1966 of the shooting death of two Fort Worth cousins and the rape-strangulation of a girl with them. A Fort Worth lawyer, George Cockren, was appointed to represent McDuff in new efforts to have the conviction set aside but Cockren died suddenly last week of a heart attack.

Both Bentsen and Smith face stiff challenges from the Republican party this November. Smith from Paul Eggers and Bentsen from U. S. Rep. George Bush of Houston.

Some liberals, angry at the defeat of long-time U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough by Bentsen in the May Democratic primary have set up the Democratic Rebuilding Committee, which is urging liberals and labor union people to support the Republican nominees.

Bentsen told the crowd that the state needs a Senator who is a member of the Democratic party.

"My opponent may be able to do more for President Nixon, but I know good and well I can do more for Texas," Bentsen said.

"When I get to Washington I am going to work with the Democratic team for prosperity and economic growth."

Smith was introduced to the crowd by Roy Evans, secretary-treasurer of the Texas AFL-CIO.

Evans called Smith "a man I think is a friend of labor. He praised Smith for being the first governor to invite Sen. Ralph Yarborough to address the state Democratic convention. Smith said he was a friend of labor in Texas. "We're going to win this fall and the next two years will see no decline in our desire to work with labor," he said.

To Commemorate Valley Farm Workers March

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex. (AP) — Mexican-American groups gathered here today to commemorate the 1966 Valley Farm Workers march and confrontation with former Gov. John Connally.

The Labor Day activities will include a parade and the dedication of two stone markers in memory of the marchers' 500-mile trek from Rio Grande City to Austin seeking redress of grievances.

Rev. James Navarro, a Houston Baptist minister and a leader of the 1966 march, said today's parade and ceremonies will "signify new horizons" for Mexican-Americans.

Plans called for a parade from a local park to a spot three miles north of here, where Connally and former Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr confronted the valley marchers.

One of the markers to be dedicated states in English: "Here lies the arrogance of a Texas governor, New Braunfels, Texas, Sept. 1, 1966." The markers will be temporarily placed at a farm about seven miles south of here, where the parade is scheduled to end, Navarro said.

Organizers said up to 4,000 were expected for today's ceremonies.

Flee False Flash Flood

By The Associated Press

Torrential rains, flooding, hail and tornadoes not only spoiled the Labor Day weekend in some parts of the country but brought tragedy to Arizona.

Seven persons drowned there Sunday—and several still were missing Monday—as driving rains pushed rivers over their banks to gush down normally dry gullies.

Highways were flooded. A large part of Holbrook, Ariz., was evacuated as two to four feet of water swirled in the streets. Hundreds were evacuated from Scottsdale, a suburb of Phoenix, because of flash flood danger. Hundreds more were stranded nearby.

Tornadoes were reported at several points in Kansas, Nebraska and North Dakota. One person was injured in Wagner, S. D., as strong winds knocked over power lines and damaged buildings. There were reports of buildings destroyed by tornadoes in northern Kansas.

Kearney, Neb., reported wind gusts up to 80 miles an hour and marble-sized hail.

'Chute Fails To Open, Dives 3,000 Feet, Lives

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. (AP) — A parachutist participating in a Confederate Air Force show here Sunday bailed out of a B-17 bomber, plummeted 3,000 feet and walked to a waiting ambulance.

Willie Ray, 29, of Monroe, La., landed virtually unscathed in thick mud along the Trinity River about a mile from Greater Southwest Airport.

Ray, one of about 30 parachutists performing in the two-day air show of World War II fighters and bombers, said he planned to participate in the show again Monday.

Thousands of horrified spectators watched while Ray plunged toward the ground, passing other parachutists as they drifted down slowly.

He said his main parachute failed to open and his reserve chute popped out partially just before he struck the ground.

All he suffered was minor scratches and bruises.

Ray said he didn't have time to get scared.

"It's not bad," he quipped, "but I don't want to do it every day."

EX-ODESSAN SOLD AUTO BUSINESS 'TO MOVE DOWN HERE' It's Playtime At Amistad Lake

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP) — Amistad Lake stretches for miles across two countries near this border city. It's an international playground, and playtime has just begun.

In a hot, dry, rocky land of cactus and scrub brush on the Mexican border, the lake has attracted nearly a half million visitors this year — more than the entire total for 1969.

The National Park Service, which administers the lake area, say two million sportsmen and tourists may eventually visit it each year.

BEST KIND

The tourist business, as one phrased it is "The best kind of industry you could have. It's practically pollution free."

Houseboats, yachts and fishing boats now roam where sheep and goats grazed. A businessman says boat and motor sales have easily doubled in the Del Rio area.

Sailboats — a rarity here a few years ago — skimmed across the lake in a recent regatta that drew competitors from as far away as Houston. Plans are being made for motorboat races as a tourist attraction.

Residents are a little surprised when they see a boat heading for the lake.

"I never dreamed that in this dry, arid land I would ever see so many boats," chuckled Mayor Alfredo Gutierrez Jr.

Two marinas for docking private boats are in their second year of operation. The Park Service says about six more will be built.

BIG CATFISH

The clear blue lake is full of bass and catfish. It's not at all unusual, anglers say, to catch catfish weighing 30 pounds or more.

About 7,000 acres along the lake is open for dove and quail hunting.

The sheer size of Amistad Lake, described as North America's 10th largest reservoir, offers a haven for solitude.

"The lake is so large," said concessionaire Tom Taylor, "that it's hard to realize so many boats are out there. You may go 50 miles and see only 10 or 15 boats, but there may be 50 or 60 on the water."

The lake dates back to 1965, when construction began on Amistad Friendship dam a joint U.S.-Mexico project to tame the Rio Grande.

CHEERING CROWD

A year ago, on Sept. 8, 1969, the presidents of the United States and Mexico dedicated the $80 million structure before a sweltering, cheering crowd of 10,000.

Standing atop the dam, Presidents Richard Nixon and Gustavo Diaz Ordaz saw a vast expanse of water covering their countries' border — the Rio Grande — and spreading like a deep blue carpet into both Texas and Mexico.

The lake now has backed up the Rio Grande for more than 80 miles.

Two other presidents, Dwight Eisenhower and Adolfo Lopez Mateos, met on the border here 10 years ago and pledged to build Amistad Dam.

Their visit has been observed every year since then. The local Good Neighbor Council, an organization of community leaders from both sides of the border, plans to celebrate the 10th anniversary of their meeting with an elaborate fiesta Oct. 22-25.

PERKS ECONOMY

Local businessmen say the lake, 12 miles north of here, has boosted the economy of both Del Rio and Ciudad Acuna in Mexico.

Neither city has yet been struck with boom town fever.

Bill Cauthorn, 32, a bank president, said there was a slight economic slowdown when engineers and workmen left after completing the dam.

"It opened people's eyes to the fact that we're not going to have a real boom here," Cauthorn said. "I think we're going to have a real healthy, steady, continual growth. I think that's better than the boom that a lot of people expected."

Jim Long, president of the Del Rio Board of Realtors, said development around the lake has come to a "screeching halt." He attributed it to the status of the national economy rather than local factors.

Development will soar when the nation's economy improves, Long said.

NO DOUBT ABOUT IT

"Right now we're biding our time, more or less waiting, because it's going to happen," he said. "There's no doubt about it."

Business in Del Rio is by no means at a standstill. Bank deposits increased nearly $500,000 over the past year. Convention activity has grown an estimated 20 per cent since Amistad Dam was completed.

City officials said the dip in the local economy may have been partly a result of Operation Intercept, the U.S. crackdown on drug traffic that created long lines of cars last fall at ports of entry along the border.

TOURIST TRADE

Businessmen and others say they expect Amistad Lake to become one of the greatest resorts in the Southwest, and a prime attraction during the winter for visitors from the North. City Manager Jim Hester envisions a steadily increasing tourist trade and a growing retirement community here.

Some say 100 or so businesses have opened here since construction began on Amistad Dam in 1965. Many are named for the lake and directly related to it, such as trailer camps, bait shops and boat storage houses.

One of the newest establishments is a 40-room motel with a sweeping view of the lake and quick access to the water.

IT'S GREAT

Owner Bill Stewart, a former Odessa auto dealer, predicts a bright future. "I think it's going to be great," he said. "I sold a business making $100,000 a year to move down here."

Amistad Lake, he said, has done a great deal for Del Rio "more than an airplane factory."

There has been little development to date on the Mexican side of the lake, but there is talk of building a grand resort city on a 2,000-acre site near the dam.

Jorge Masso, director of tourism for the Mexican state of Coahuila, said plans on Mexico's side call for a scenic road around the lake, a country club, golf course and other attractions.

Racial Mixture Perks Trouble

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston schools have been open a week under a new desegregation plan and except for a Mexican-American boycott, little trouble developed.

There has been hardly any trouble but that doesn't mean problems don't exist. There are many.

For one, there have been wide discrepancies in racial makeup predicted by the school administration in drawing up school boundaries.

Supt. George Garver said the number of forecasts for schools have been so completely incorrect that a check is necessary.

"I have assured the Justice Department that we will begin on-the-spot checks to verify residences of students to ascertain if the order of the federal court is being complied with by individual students," Garver said.

FOR EXAMPLE

For example, 946 white pupils were expected to enroll at the Negro Wheatley High School. The actual enrollment was less than 300.

At the white Austin High School, where 393 blacks had been forecast, less than 100 showed up. Similar examples were prevalent on the junior high and elementary level.

The discrepancies aren't restricted to the salt and pepper areas, Garver said. Some are in the west and southwest areas where it is a matter of attending one white school, rather than another which is virtually all white.

Garver said there is a strong possibility that some pupils have falsified their home address or used addresses of relatives to place them in the school zone they desire.

TEACHER PAINS

The new superintendent spent most of the week at an 18-hour pace. He faced the normal problems of opening a school district with 245,000 pupils, and also parental protests and the strike, not to mention problems of the court order itself.

One group which got shuffled around was the faculty, which now has a racial mixture of one Negro for every two white teachers.

Charles Kuzminski, executive director of the Houston Teachers Association, said teachers are bearing the brunt of the change to a unitary system and some teachers were transferred three or four times during the opening week either within the same school or to other schools.

"With representatives of the association, I visited more than 100 schools during the week and found teachers rolling with the punches," Kuzminski said. Little trouble was reported, police Lt. Earl Kirkland said. Kirkland, who worked with the district on security this past week, said they did not have as many calls for police aid as they usually have. The biggest problem, he said, is the large number of false reports.

No Hog Yards

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Stockyards have closed, but its world-famous market will continue to handle cattle.

Chicago became "hog butcher to the world" when most livestock was produced in small lots and shipped by rail. Chicago was the hub of the nation's rail system, strategically located between the corn-hog country and the Eastern population centers.

At its peak, the Chicago market received more than 100,000 hogs a day.

Closing the hog market, traders say, will have no measurable effect on the average prices received by farmers for hogs. But it probably will speed the collection and distribution of more and better information about prices at other points of sale where transportation is by truck.

High Living Hurts Health

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A German doctor says he has evidence that living way up in a high-rise apartment house may be hazardous to your health.

Dr. Dietrich Oeter, civic health officer in Hamburg, is warning city planners that economic and technical factors are far outweighing basic human physical and psychological needs in the increasing trend toward highrise building projects.

Studies have shown that housewives and children living on the fourth floors of apartment houses are twice as likely to be ill as those on the ground floor, he said. Working fathers who are out of the house much of the day are not affected by what Oeter termed "upper-floor illnesses."

Housewives who live on upper floors were found to be more prone to mental illness and their children more susceptible to respiratory and circulatory ailments, Oeter said.

Oeter outlined his views in a recent edition of a health journal, Gesundheitspolitik, and his report currently is making the rounds of municipal planning offices throughout West Germany.

Staying Put

NEW YORK (AP) — People who live in mobile homes aren't vagabonds anymore. One out of three families living in mobile homes today plan on staying in their unit permanently. According to a survey sponsored by Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, another 6 per cent will stay 10 or more years while 27 per cent will remain between 5 and 10 years.

TUNED IN AND TUNED OUT — Some people attending the Black Panther conference in Philadelphia on Sunday night found it hard to keep awake, such as the little boy carried away sound asleep and the girl who fell asleep during the many speeches at Temple University's McGonigle Hall. Most of the estimated 6,000 persons that attended the session did remain attentive as demonstrated by the man in the center.

Primaries In Eight States, Florida Grabs Spotlight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight states hold primaries Tuesday with attention focused on Florida's battle between Republicans G. Harold Carswell and Rep. William G. Cramer for nomination to a Senate seat the GOP expects to win Nov. 3.

Seven of the states hold gubernatorial primaries—Arizona, Wisconsin, New Hampshire, Florida, Vermont, Arkansas and Colorado. And Georgia will follow Wednesday with its gubernatorial primary.

VIRGIN ISLANDS
In addition, the Virgin Islands will top off the biggest primary week of the year with the territory's first primary in history for governor, between two Democrats.

Florida also provides the main excitement in the contests for state offices. Flamboyant Gov. Claude Kirk faces millionaire druggist Jack Eckerd.

In addition to Florida, senatorial primaries will be held in Utah, Vermont, Wisconsin and Arizona. Both Democrats and Republicans are running unopposed in Wisconsin and Utah. Nominations to House seats are up in all states.

Utah is the only state holding a primary this week without a governor's race. But Republicans are eyeing the Senate seat held by Democrat Frank E. Moss. Both Moss and his GOP challenger, Rep. Laurence J. Burton, are unopposed as they prepare for their November ballot tussle.

VERMONT FIRST
The Vermont primary sets the stage for a Nov. 3 contest the Democrats think they can capture for the first time in the state's history. Popular former Gov. Philip H. Hoff is expected to win the primary over state Sen. Fiore L. Bove and former U.S. Rep. William H. Meyer. Hoff is given a good chance to unseat Republican Sen. Winston L. Prouty, who faces no primary opposition, and become Vermont's first Democratic senator.

In the Florida senatorial race, Cramer is generally rated a

May Be Holiday For Some But Not For City Police

Holiday activity kept the police busy, with most of the trouble occurring Saturday night. Sunday morning 63 persons were in jail, many arrested the night before on charges of public intoxication, disorderly conduct and assault.

Police were called to the Jaycee Carnival at College Park Shopping Center to investigate reports of several Mexican-Americans harassing carnival employees Saturday afternoon. They arrested two.

Other arrests resulted from disturbances at a tavern and a northside dance hall Saturday. Saturday night a woman reported that her husband had been assaulted with a knife at the 7-12 Grocery on Lamesa Highway.

A man was arrested at the Diamond Lounge on a charge of aggravated assault with intent to do bodily harm.

Eusebio D. Fierro, 507 N. Aylford, was taken Saturday night to the VA Hospital with knife wounds, but refused to explain how they were received.

Two carloads of youths were chased down early Sunday morning and occupants in each car charged with minors in possession of liquor. In one of the incidents several traffic violations were also charged.

Around 9 a.m. Sunday a fight reported near the Holland Texaco service station, FM 700 and US 87, hospitalized one man and led to another's arrest on assault charges.

Early Monday morning police roadblocks were set up on incoming highways to apprehend suspects in an armed robbery reported in Coahoma.

An assortment of domestic hassles, public intoxication cases, and thefts helped fill in the quiet moments.

slight edge over Carswell, the spurned Supreme Court nominee.

Carswell has said little about Cramer, focusing his campaign on criticism of the Senate, repeating that he will "raise the level of mediocrity in the Senate if elected."

'BUSING JUDGE'
Cramer has campaigned on the school busing issue, pointing to his authorship of an antibusing amendment in the Senate in 1964. He says court rulings in which Carswell participated prove he is a "busing judge."

Former Gov. Farris Bryant considered the front runner in the four-man field for the Democratic nomination. His main challenge is from state House Speaker Fred Schultz.

In the gubernatorial race, Eckerd has criticized Kirk's flamboyance and accused him of influence peddling. He says Kirk has alienated Florida Republicans from Washington at a time when they could reap the benefits of a Republican administration.

Kirk has focused his campaign on the courts, filing repeated petitions for a federal ruling against compulsory busing.

Adjournment Before Nov. 3 'A Long Shot'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House returns from a 3½-week vacation Wednesday amid growing indications Congress won't be able to finish its heavy workload before election day in November.

A crowded docket of legislative business faces the House members who have been on vacation since Aug. 13.

VERY DOUBTFUL
But an even heavier schedule confronts the Senate, which comes back Tuesday after a nearly week-long recess around Labor Day.

"It would appear very doubtful that Congress will be able to complete its work before the elections," said House Speaker John W. McCormack.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield has said adjournment before the Nov. 3 elections must be considered "a long shot possibility, a near miracle."

If that long shot doesn't materialize, Mansfield said the Senate probably would recess around Oct. 15, returning after the election to complete its work.

And if the Senate took such a recess House leaders undoubtedly would find it hard to hold their members here when all 435 House seats will be at stake in the November elections. One-third of the Senate seats are up for grabs.

11 KEY BILLS
There are 11 bills on the House docket this week, but none are considered major.

The Senate turns its attention to a controversial House-passed proposed constitutional amendment dealing with abolition of the electoral college. A lengthy debate covering several weeks is expected.

Next week the House has set aside more time for consideration of the congressional reorganization bill it has debated off and on for about a month. Leaders hope to pass it by mid-September and send it to the Senate.

FREELTON, Ont. (AP) — Blinking back tears, Miss Rhonda Stallan, 21, sat in photographers' lights Sunday night wearing only a crown, high-heeled shoes and a sash reading "Miss Nude World."

Member of a nudist club at Aurora, Ont., was selected over 11 other contestants during two sessions of nude judging. Runners-up were Miss Annette Greef, 25, Burlington, Ont., and Miss Barbara Uldricks, 27, Campbellsville, Ont. The only American was Evelyn Kane, 29, a mother of two from Rochester, N.Y.

"The only thing I was worried about in the contest was certain pictures being published," Miss Stallan said in a press interview. She said her boyfriend also is a nudist.

She received a trophy, a trip to Florida for two and a pet monkey.

T-t-That's All F-folks

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — More than 65 Disneyland technicians are on strike but park spokesman say Abraham Lincoln is still talking, the pirates of the Caribbean are still singing and the newly opened mansion is still haunted.

Supervisors took over Sunday in place of members of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees Local 504, who operate projection and sound systems in the three popular attractions using complex robots which move and speak.

Federally mediated wage talks broke down Friday. Union members also operate and maintain several other rides and attractions, and handle lighting and stage work on two live entertainment shows.

Another union, the American Guild of Variety Artists, has been on strike at Disneyland since Aug. 8. The park spokesman said 53 of 82 striking AGVA members—live entertainers at park variety shows—have returned to work.

Walter H. Blanchard, business agent for the IATSE local, said the union's 48 permanent members and 18 seasonal members are asking a $1 hourly raise over two years.

Two Dead In C-City Crash

COLORADO CITY — Mrs. Beulah Willis, 90, of Sweetwater, and Mrs. W. M. Lawrence, 71, of Houston, died about 4:30 p.m. Sunday after a two-vehicle accident at 1:55 p.m. in the intersection of Farm Road 208 and the south service road of Interstate 20 northeast of Colorado City.

The two were first taken to Root Memorial Hospital in Colorado City and were being transferred to Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene. They died en route and were pronounced dead at Simmons Memorial Hospital in Sweetwater.

The two were passengers in an automobile driven by Mrs. Lawrence's brother-in-law, John Walter Carter, 90, of Sweetwater, who was unhurt. He was in collision with a pickup driven by Donald Wayland Fritz, 37, of Snyder, who was also unhurt.

The right side of the 1961 model car driven by Fritz, according to City Patrolman Jim Latham.

Fritz was northbound on 208 and Carter was pulling away from a stop sign into 208 when the collision occurred, Latham said.

Armed Bandit Robs Cafe

A masked robber held up Herman Nelson at his Hi-Way Cafe in Coahoma just before midnight Sunday and made off with cash reported to be between $2,000 and $3,000.

Nelson reportedly was closing his cafe and preparing to enter his car when a man carrying either a .22 or .32 caliber pistol and wearing a mask ordered him back into the cafe. He was forced at gunpoint to surrender his money and then was bound with tape. The proprietor later worked himself loose, called his wife, and she notified the sheriff's department.

County and state officers were dispatched to the scene immediately and city police were notified, setting up a roadblock between Coahoma and Big Spring.

Nelson described the robber as being in his 20's and wearing western type clothing. Witnesses who live near the cafe reported seeing two men in a 1966 blue Mercury wait for the holdup man and then drive off in the direction of Big Spring.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Work Of Volunteer Fire Department Defended

To The Editor: — A fire district would be good if it is supervised by the county commissioners court.

The county can hire men and buy equipment to take care of homes, businesses and grass fires for the same money that Big Spring wants for homes and business. This is because the county will still have to handle the grass fires which amount to at least 75 per cent of all the fires outside the city limits.

There has been some talk about the present system being inefficient. That may be true. But some time the blame is being put on the person reporting the fire. If we had as much backing as complaining we would have the best county volunteer fire department in the state. But as it stands there are about six men who will go any time they are called. Out of the group not one has grass except in his yard. So you people that have grass land, how about help from you?

We will have a meeting to elect new officers on Sept. 22 at 7 p.m. at the fire station. We will be glad for any of you interested people to sign up and help.

Few Rough Spots Still In Texas Integration Road

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Integration of Texas schools in what presumably is the final step demanded by the federal government came near completion during the week with a few bumpy spots here and there. The Port Arthur and Victoria school districts still were unable to get approval of their systems. Austin found that new integration maneuvers didn't work and a federal court order was withdrawn. Federally approved desegregation at Houston resulted in a boycott by some Mexican-American and establishment of "huelgo" (strike) schools. And the Spring Branch schools in Houston, themselves recently object of a federal court suit, accused parents of bootlegging pupils into the school system, but whether this was because of some integration offshoot could not be determined. A brief flareup occurred in the Willis system near Houston. And a South Texas federal judge brought up a serious question relating to deprived children and integration. Those were the week's bumps.

On the plus side for the integration views of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare—which pressed for the changes—dozens of other schools met HEW's new guidelines without incident. During the week, three schools—Katy, Klein and Madisonville—settled suits with the government. All agreed in a Houston court to integrate their facilities at once and to integrate pupils during the year. At week's end, only the Port Arthur case was unsettled out of 26 suits filed by the Justice Department for HEW Aug. 7. Main aim of the suits was to break up all-black schools. U.S. Dist. Judge Joe Fisher at weekend rejected the Port Arthur plans for integration—as well as the Justice Department's—and ordered the school to submit new zone line proposals by Tuesday. At Victoria, a suit brought by a private citizen seeking a better mix between Anglos and Mexican-Americans in Corpus Christi will resume Tuesday. Judge Woodrow Seals, hearing the Corpus Christi suit, brought up the question Friday of whether moving "educationally deprived" children into schools containing pupils with better educational backgrounds would not cut off federal funds aimed at helping the deprived. The issue is expected to be fought out Tuesday. At Houston, Mexican-Americans contend that the federally approved integration plan will result only in a mixing of Mexican-Americans and Negroes and leave Anglo children unaffected. Thus about 2,000 out of 36,000

Mexican-American pupils boycotted schools. Seven strike schools were set up. School officials at weekend were seeking to ease the situation—one method being appointment of Mexican-Americans to a bi-racial committee ordered by a court. The Mexican-American parents contend they should be considered a separate ethnic group, not lumped in with Anglos. The Austin problem arose after Anderson High School, all-black, was integrated in the 26-suit drive by the Justice Department. The rezoning plan approved by Judge Jack Roberts was designed to send more than 300 Anglos and Mexican-Americans to Anderson. But so far, only 50 Anglos and 15 chicanos had enrolled. Others claimed they had moved out of the district or gave other reasons. Judge Roberts withdrew his zoning order and ordered zones to revert to those of last year. He ordered school and federal authorities to submit a new plan by December. Officials of the Spring Branch School District, rated one of the best in the nation, said 39,179 pupils had registered by Friday. "We believe a number of students are people bootlegged into our schools by giving fictitious addresses," said Dr. J. M. Landrum, the superintendent. Some integration changes were ordered this fall in Spring Branch, one of Houston's richest areas.

Oil Wealth Involved In Sabine Boundary Dispute

SABINE PASS, Tex. (AP) — Texas and Louisiana are battling over a boundary, and the federal government may be the winner.

To the victor go the spoils—possible hundreds of millions of dollars worth of oil and gas beneath the Gulf of Mexico.

Texas' petition to the Supreme Court claims the boundary is the middle of the Sabine River from its mouth at the Gulf to just about the northern boundary of Shelby County (Center) in East Texas, on the Louisiana border.

From there the river angles westward into Texas.

Louisiana contends it owns all the river and Sabine Lake, just off the Gulf.

INTO GULF

Left unsaid in the suit but obviously in the minds of Texas, Louisiana and federal officials is the extension of the boundary into the Gulf.

Although Texas' suit does not touch on where in the Gulf the boundary will be, Texas could gain half the width of the r- along the boundary line extending into the Gulf.

Since Texas' offshore rights stretch out 10-1/2 miles, or 7-1/2 miles farther than Louisiana, a Texas victory means a federal loss of that 800-foot stretch of submerged Gulf land for that extra 7-1/2 miles.

The suit deals only with the inland boundary, and unless the states agree voluntarily to what the boundary into the Gulf is—whether it slants east or west—a second suit to determine it will follow the current case, say federal officials.

"INTEREST"

George Swarth of the Justice Department described the department's role as one of "watchful interest."

During the dispute, three separate boundaries into the Gulf are being observed by Texas, Louisiana and the federal government, which also deals in offshore mineral leases.

The disputed area involves 35.1 square miles of the Gulf and 61 square miles inland on the river and lake. Texas has temporarily suspended leasing of submerged tracts until the boundary is cleared up.

BIG MONEY

As an example of the potential wealth of the area, the Texas General Land Office recently withdrew a tract on which Superior Oil Co. had bid more than $500,000. Oil and gas companies usually expect 20 times from production of what they bid on a lease—in his case $10 million. The state would get 1-6 of the production royalties, making its total estimated gain from lease of this single tract almost $2.2 million.

A special master, retired federal judge Robert van Pelt of Nebraska, has been appointed to make recommendations to the Supreme Court, which would make the final decision.

TIDELANDS VETERANS

Lawyers in the suit include Louisiana Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion and former Texas Gov. Price Daniel, both veterans of the 1960 tidelands decision in which the Supreme Court set the limits on how much of the Gulf the states owned.

Most offshore drilling at that time was off Louisiana. The Supreme Court ruling that Louisiana owned only to the three-mile limit in the Gulf cost the state estimated $300 million in lease money which went to the federal government.

Texas was granted the 10-mile limitation but, at that time, only 18 wells which had brought

'Weak Eyed' Cop Kills Man

DALLAS (AP) — A man shot by a Dallas policeman died Sunday night of his wounds. The shooting is under investigation and has been referred to the Dallas County Grand Jury.

The victim is Guy D. Bourland, 30, who was shot during an incident Friday involving two Dallas detectives.

Police said the officers' car pulled alongside a truck at a red light. The truck contained Bourland and another man.

Police said words were exchanged between the plain clothes officers and the two men in the truck and one of the officers got out and approached the truck.

Mistaking a wrench Bourland held for a gun, police said, detective Larry Selman pulled his gun and fired.

Bourland is survived by his widow and parents.

Woman Elected

FOWLER, Colo. (AP) — Margaret Stone this year became the first woman ever elected to the Town Council at Fowler in southeastern Colorado.

36th Infantry Division Elects

DALLAS (AP) — Lance Mullins of Dallas was named national president Sunday of the 36th Infantry Division during the group's 45th annual reunion here.

Mullins succeeds Bert Carlton, also of Dallas.

Waco Judge Frank McDonald told the veterans "We take stock of the price that has been paid for the ideals for which we fought, and our present abilities to preserve, and pass on to our children, those great ideals."

Business Rivals

DUBLIN (AP) — Supermarkets are cutting into this country's drug store business, according to Irish pharmacists. The druggists blame the fact that more and more medical preparations are being sold in supermarkets for Ireland's inability to maintain the country's 2000 registered pharmacists, one third of whom are women.

MYRA BRECKINRIDGE

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Do adults have another "divine" right that we teen-agers are denied? For the past year, my mother has told the entire family that my father can't keep up with her in the love department. She further states that since he is out of town a lot she needs someone who can keep up with her.

Recently, to the knowledge of everybody except my father, she has found someone who can "keep up with her." When I questioned her about the early hours she was keeping, she replied, "Your father is probably doing the same thing." (The latter I could neither prove nor disprove.)

My question is twofold: First, why do adults feel they have a right to sex when teenagers are told it is taboo? It seems to me that if you can abstain from sex when you are young, why can't you give up a little of your sex when your lifelong mate starts slowing down? It also seems to me that sex outside of marriage is worse than sex before marriage. My second question: Should my father be filled in?

A WORRIED SON
DEAR SON: Don't put all adults in the same bag. Not all adults feel they "have a right to sex outside marriage." It's "taboo" and they know it. And no, your father should not be "filled in." (But the holes in your mother's head should be.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a daughter who met a boy six months ago and she really fell for him. She is 19 and he is 22. He isn't working now and he's not even looking. He keeps saying the jobs he wants won't pay him enough money. In the meantime he borrows from my daughter, eats every meal at my table and his clothes are washed in my machine.

He says marriage will come "later." And my daughter looks at him like he's a "god," and she calls this "love."

Would I be wrong to ask this boy what his intentions are?

HEARTSICK MOM
DEAR MOM: You can ask him, but I think I can give you a more accurate answer. His intentions are to eat at your table, have his clothes washed in your machine, and freeload off you and your daughter as long as you let him.

DEAR ABBY: That nurse who wears her white uniform and white shoes on the street complained because strangers would approach her while she was waiting for a bus and ask her medical questions. Well, she doesn't have very much imagination. When somebody spots my white uniform and white shoes and asks me what's good for an upset stomach, I say, "I wish I could help you, but I only work in a delicatessen." MARIE

Plastic Coffins

GLENEALY, Ireland (AP) — An Irishman who feels that in today's "plastic society" even wooden coffins are out of date has applied for a world patent for the manufacture of rot-proof, hygienic unbreakable plastic coffins. Des Kinsella says the coffins are ideal for transporting bodies by air and sea because they are so light. Also, the coffin lid can be made of transparent material, if desired.

Aha! That's What We Said

DURHAM, England (AP) — Scientists studying moon rocks brought back from lunar missions by American Apollo astronauts have found that "the nearest thing on earth to the moon, so far as the transmission of seismic waves are concerned, is cheese."

British geologist professor George Malcolm Brown told the British Association today that he had analysed some moon rocks and found they had a lot in common with a cheese called Swiss emmentaler.

Texans Working Hard At Killing Themselves

Texans worked hard at killing themselves and each other during the long Labor Day weekend with guns and car wrecks swelling the death toll Sunday.

The Associated Press began its grim count of violent fatalities at 6 p.m. Friday and was to continue tabulating until midnight Monday, official end of the long holiday.

By early Monday, the death count had reached 43 dead with 32 killed in highway smashes. Eleven others died in miscellaneous violence, six of them at the end of a gun barrel.

ARREST WOMAN
Police were holding a Dallas woman in connection with the fatal shooting of Curtis L. Raines, 44, killed Saturday night. Police said Raines had been shot four times.

A Dallas man shot Friday by a plainclothes detective, died Sunday night of his wound. The case was turned over to the grand jury for investigation.

The victim was Guy D. Bourland, 30, shot while stopped at a traffic signal in downtown Dallas.

Police said the detective that shot Bourland thought the man was holding a gun. Police said Bourland had a wrench.

COLORADO CITY CRASH
Lelon Christie, 20, of Amarillo was shot to death in the Panhandle city's downtown section Sunday. Police said the shooting may have stemmed from a feud between motorcycle clubs.

Tommy Ramon, 3, of Tulia was killed Sunday when he was struck by a car on Texas 86 in Tulia. He was dead on arrival at a Tulia hospital.

Mrs. Eva Lawrence, 71, of Sweetwater and Beulah Bell Wilis, 90, of Houston died near two cars collided Sunday near the intersection of Interstate 20 and Farm Road 208 in Colorado City. Both women were passengers.

Emma Maass, 74, of Houston was fatally injured and seven other persons hurt Sunday when two cars collided at a U.S. 290 intersection about a half mile east of Brenham. She died a few hours later.

FATALLY INJURED
Gary Blizzard, 16, of Atlanta was killed Sunday when the car in which he was riding ran off Farm Road 1841 two miles west of Bivens in Cass County.

Leroy Booker Isaac, 26, of Austin was killed Sunday when he was struck by an automobile on Interstate 35 about a mile north of Austin.

Josephine Castillo Kelley, 52, of Brownsville was fatally injured Saturday night when she was struck by a car on a city street.

She died Sunday.

A two-car, head-on collision on 16 miles north of Eagle Pass on US 277 killed two persons Saturday night. Officers identified the dead as Edna Wallace Brewer, 74, and Paul Wesley Knight, 58, both of Normandy in Maverick County.

BANGS BRIDGE
Charles Roland Snyder, 22, of Houston was killed Sunday when his car struck a curb on a city street and overturned. His death was Houston's 121st traffic fatality of the year.

Larry Allen Cook, 21, of Dallas was killed early Sunday when his car struck a bridge on Texas 14 about a mile south of Thornton in Limestone County.

Two persons died in Galveston along Seawall Boulevard in separate motor vehicle accidents. Herbert Feist of Beaumont died Sunday of injuries suffered earlier in the day when his car crashed through a retaining wall. His wife, Alma, was seriously injured. In an accident in the same area Saturday, Carl Hubert, 28, was killed.

Three Woodsboro youths died near Laredo Saturday night when their car rammed into the back of a wood-loaded truck.

NAME VICTIMS
Police identified the victims as William Michna, 21; Larry Michna, 19, his brother; and Monroe Collins, 21. A fourth youth, Alfonso Rodriguez, 17, was in critical condition.

One-year-old Mary Franks drowned Saturday in the bathtub of her Pampa home, police reported.

Texas City police said 16-year-old John G. Jones was killed late Saturday when his car rammed headlong into a cement wall.

A Beaumont man, John L. Henderson, 19, was killed in a one-car rollover on Pine Island Road early Sunday, about three miles from Beaumont. One person was slightly injured.

Air Battles, Races Draw Thousands

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. (AP) — The Confederate Air Force was to wrap up a two-day Labor Day weekend show here Monday with mock air battles, parachute drops, pylon races and other events featuring nostalgic World War II combat aircraft.

Thousands of spectators at Sunday's show got an unscheduled scare when a parachutist dropped 3,000 feet with a failing chute from a B-17 "Flying Fortress."

Willie Ray, 29, of Monroe, La., said later his reserve parachute opened partially about 1,000 feet off the ground, permitting him to drop into a swampy area with only minor cuts and scratches.

Thousands braved near 100-degree temperatures to view the show at Greater Southwest Airport. Thrilling the crowds were such memorable airplanes as the Lockheed P-38 "Lightning," Chance-Vought F4U "Corsair," Boeing B-17 "Flying Fortress," Messerschmitt ME-109, North American B-25 "Mitchell" and other fighters and bombers of World War II.

The CAF is a group of enthusiasts dedicated to preserving in flying condition as many such airplanes as possible. Their "rebellion" suggested by the name Confederate Air Force came about upon learning the government had not saved any of the thousands of military combat planes produced during World War II.

The group is attempting to secure a B29 "Superfortress" and a Japanese Mitsubishi "Zero" fighter.

When a light haze of smoke or oil spray streamed from one of the performing fighter planes, the master of ceremonies told the crowd Sunday there was nothing to be alarmed about.

DEATH PLUNGE

A fall from a third-story window in Houston Friday night killed Floyd Collins, 47.

Guadalupe Martinez, 23, a rookie policeman at San Antonio, died in a shootout Friday night at San Antonio and his assailant, Jose Alfaro, 63, was shot to death by another policeman.

Witnesses said the patrolman answered a fight call, saw one man standing over a wounded man and ordered the man with the pistol to drop the weapon.

Instead, Martinez was killed. James Cervantes, an officer who arrived as Martinez confronted the armed man, emptied his pistol at the man with the gun. Martinez never holstered his pistol, officers said.

BAIRD WRECK
A car struck and killed Maudie Syble Brumbaugh, 78, in Baird Friday night as she walked across US 80.

Scott Reynolds, 4, died under wheels of a car as he played in a street late Friday in Kilgore. Police said the driver was blinded by the low sun.

Darrell Stewart, 19, of Medina died near Bandera Friday night when a car rolled off Texas 16. A companion was injured.

Two Beaumont college students were killed early Saturday when their car ran off Texas 87 at a curve and hit a utility pole just west of Port Arthur. The victims were Carl A. Hemingway Jr. and Ronald Cleve Fox, both 2.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Both sides vulnerable and as South you hold:
♠102 ♥J10742 ♦A10 ♣KQ95

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
2 ♠ 3 ♠ Dble. ?

What do you bid?
A.—This will be an adequate dummy for a vulnerable player who was willing to undertake a nine trick commitment. Even the spades break badly. I would feel confident of fulfilling the contract. On this line of reasoning a redouble is recommended.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠103 ♥85 ♦AKQ7543 ♣64

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♥ 2 ♦ Pass 2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three no trump. You can contribute seven tricks to the cause and it would be strange indeed if partner could not help along with two, in view of the fact that he acted without your solicitation.

Q. 3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠97 ♥74 ♦Q109732 ♣K53

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 2 ♦ ?

What do you bid?
A.—Discretion calls for a pass. If there were any assurance that this would prove to be the final contract, a vociferous double would be in order. But it is reasonable to expect that partner, relying upon you for certain high card values because of your double, will take some step that will be distasteful to you, such as doubling the rescue bid, toward the defeat of which you will be able to contribute little or nothing.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠K9642 ♥KJ63 ♣KQ104

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass 5 ♠ Pass 5 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—On the basis of your partner's strong bidding there can be little doubt that the trump suit is solid. It will be observed that North bypassed an easy chance to show the ace of diamonds, so that it may be assumed that he does not have that card. This makes it all the more convincing that there is no trump loser. So that a grand slam bid in spades is quite in order.

Q. 5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠QJ ♥AK765 ♦KQ54 ♣AK

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠ Pass 3 ♦ Pass 3 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. Any further conversation by you would be mere filibuster. North may have as little as six points and you have but 22 with no fit established.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KJ65 ♥A10 ♦J32 ♣AKJ6

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass 1 ♥ Dble. Pass 2 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. Partner has been brought into the auction, perhaps much against his will, and he may have little or nothing. A bid of two spades would be bad tactics and a call of two no trump would be the act of a man who looks upon currency with complete disdain.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK104 ♥AJ ♦KQJ864 ♣5

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 3 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Partner may not have much high card strength but he ought to have great length in hearts, which is enough for your purposes. A raise to four hearts is, therefore, recommended. Nothing is to be gained by re-bidding the diamonds. Partner may be unable to carry on.

Q. 8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J3 ♥AQ5 ♦AQ8 ♣AKJ104

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 1 ♠ 1 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Five no trump. This bid is not conventional but rather a direct raise inviting partner to bid a slam. Your 21 high card points when added to the 10 partner is known to have gives you at least 31 which puts you in the slam zone.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and unto men. (Colossians 3:23)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy wise plan for this earthly life, which rewards us with the satisfaction of work well done. Help us so to live that the end of each day finds us at peace with ourselves, with Thee, and with the world. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Hazard Of Mercury Pollution

Mercury poisoning has suddenly become one of the most pressing ecological problems of modern times. Men may soon discover that they cannot safely eat fish from most rivers and lakes in the United States. Oysters, fish and shrimp from coastal waters may be the next source of mercury poisoning.

The United States came late to the realization of the potential danger, which was publicly acknowledged only early this year. But in March, 1968, Swedish health officials warned their people not to eat fish from most fresh or coastal waters more than once a week because of mercury contamination. Sweden sets the danger from mercury in fish at one part per million, twice the limit set in the United States.

Industries particularly paper mills, have been singled out as the culprits in the United States. But there is a possible, much more pervasive source: Mercury used to treat seeds against fungus. About 6 million pounds of mercury a year are used in the treatment of seed. Health officials say there is strong evidence that this mercury is entering the human food cycle.

Until recently mercury was not considered a problem. It was believed that the mercury was inert, that it remained harmlessly in the ground or dropped to the bottom of waters. But it has been discovered that micro-organisms convert mercury into methylmercury, a lighter organic compound that can be absorbed by fish, animals and human beings.

The Swedes found mercury far above natural traces in beef, pork and eggs. The levels dropped when most mercury seed-treating was halted. In the United States, mercury has been found in hen's eggs, but not at danger levels. This has prompted an urgent search for mercury in other foods, especially pork and beef.

The danger of mercury to man was emphasized by the World Health Organization, which recommends that the "safe" level be set at one-half that set in the United States, of 25 parts per million. Mercury kills brain and nerve cells. Swedish researchers suggest that methylmercury produces a series of daughter chemicals that "must be extremely injurious to protein-synthesis" and may eventually lead to live cancer.

Immediate, drastic curbs on the use of mercury for treating seed and total control against the release of mercury by industrial processes will be required.

Who Controls The Oceans?

Who owns the oceans and who is going to exploit them? The controversial sinking of nerve-gas containers 282 miles off Cape Kennedy is one item turning new attention to the question. The problem of how nations shall parcel out the world's greatest unexplored frontier — the ocean floor — is complicated. Some think this is one of the great issues of the decade.

A United Nations convention in 1964 extended national sovereignty over the continental shelf, or submerged coastal lands to a depth of 656 feet. It also would allow exploitation of resources as far as the water depths "admits" — which could mean further and further as undersea technology develops.

There could be a result of highly divided national domains under the sea. There should be a worldwide agreement on sovereignty and an international agency to regulate exploitation of the seas.

So far, no such agreement has been spelled out. But highly skilled users of the ocean — mining, fishing, farming — are just ahead of us. Offshore oil drilling already accounts for 16 per cent of the world's petroleum. Other resources will be coming into the picture. An agreement must be established.

Burleson Reports

West Texas Has Its Own Assets

WASHINGTON — As Americans, we have justifiable reasons to be thankful and proud. Traveling and visiting again in Texas during the Congressional recess, it seems strikingly evident to me that in this part of the country have particular cause for confidence.

Perhaps too long we have magnified our problems and taken too seriously the obstacles that hinder us.

UNEMPLOYMENT IS considered beyond tolerable limits when it reaches 3 1/2 to 4 per cent of our total population. The figure nationally is now approaching 5 per cent. In our area of Texas, though some are certainly underemployed, the figure is not near that level.

Economically, the wide diversity of our resources in small manufacturing, oil, ranching, farming, and service related businesses, gives stability to our communities. The growth is not spectacular, nor does it reach our hopes, but comparatively we are less affected by day to day fluctuations in interest rates, consumer demands and employment than the more highly industrialized and specialized areas which do not enjoy such a dependable base.

OUR LAKES, farms, ranches, and "open spaces" provide places for our people to enjoy life without the distractions of crowding, noise, and pollution. Here at home, we can take time to think and make calm decisions concerning our own lives and actions we choose to help others. Our churches are well attended and reflect the stable faith and moral integrity of our people. By comparison, in some places in our country, lack of interest has resulted in financial disaster for heretofore strong religious groups.

THE GREAT BATTLES of the future will not be solved on the battlefield, in halls of government, or workshops of commerce. The decisions that really count for lasting good are those of the spirit: how to be happy, how to adjust to change, — how to get along with our fellowman.

The advantages we see about us in the 17th Congressional District provide the climate for producing clear thinking, solid citizens with moral integrity — who seek proper values to solve the problems of our time.

OUR SEVERAL COLLEGES and universities provide a wholesome climate for our young people coming from good public schools. Here they receive sound academic training that further equips them for challenges that are all about us.

These, our young people, are our greatest blessing. To continue opportunity for their development is the greatest contribution we can make to insure the future of our great land. In a world of turmoil, doubt, and fear — there is reason for encouragement and basis for genuine hope.

Compared to any other section of this nation, our assets here at home, both materially and in the character of people, are indeed great.

John Cuniff Flying Movies Dropped

By HARRY STEINBERG
(Substituting for John Cuniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — Two major airlines have announced they are dropping the showing of movies on long distance, domestic morning flights. Reasons: to save money; passengers aren't interested in seeing films that early in the day.

A third airline said it was reviewing its in-flight movie policy but had reached no decisions. American Airlines stopped showing movies Tuesday on pre-nation departures. Trans World Airlines announced it would end its screenings next month on similar flights. United Airlines said "our policy of showing movies is under review."

"Surveys indicated that passengers were not interested in movies that early, and it saves money," said a spokesman for American Airlines, which lost $1.6 million during the first six months of this year.

"TWA will temporarily discontinue showing movies on morning flights on U.S. domestic routes. This suspension is effective from Oct. 1 through next March 31. This is an economy move," a spokesman said. TWA, he added, lost $37.7 million during the first six months of this year.

American will discontinue 28 daily movies and TWA 22. Each movie costs about $180 for each showing.

Movies will continue to be shown on the overseas flights of both airlines. American Airlines added that it will continue to show movies on one morning-departure flight: the 10-hour nonstop from New York to Hawaii.

Pan Am shows about 60 movies a day on its international flights and has no plans to drop them.

The movies were introduced in 1961 by TWA and have been a standard feature on coast-to-coast and overseas flights since. United Airlines dropped in-flight movies briefly during 1966, but reinstated them after passenger complaints, a spokesman said. United now has 105 movie flights daily.

Movies are shown on flights of more than four hours, time for both a meal and the movie. There is not enough time on shorter flights, spokesmen explained.

Hal Boyle Hollywood Face Lifted

By GENE HANDSAKER
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A landmark has had its face lifted, to the delight of hill dwellers and especially Albert Kothe.

The landmark is a block-long mountain sign, "HOLLYWOOD," sprawling proudly in 50-foot galvanized-iron letters above the film capital and seen for many years by countless tourists.

Weathered and dilapidated, it has just been repaired and repainted through concerned citizens efforts at a cost of $4,500. Kothe, 77, is a German immigrant who lived in a shack behind the first "H" during the sign's first eight years, when its letters were outlined in light bulbs, like make-up mirrors.

In those days the sign read "HOLLYWOODLAND," the subdivision of the real estate company that built the sign and employed Kothe to replace its burned-out bulbs.

Every month or so he'd stuff his shirt with 20-watt bulbs, make the perilous climb by iron-pipe crossbars and replace the 30 to 50 of the signs' 4,000 globes that had gone dark.

"Never got hurt," says Kothe pronounced Ko-teh, who's bald, with a bulldog build and still heavy accent.

Among his memories are Mack Sennett filming a bevy of bathing beauties near the sign and lovers' cars clattering and littering the landscape by night.

"Finally had to build a gate across the road," says Kothe.

Airline pilots, he says, used the sign as a guidepost in heading for the Burbank airport. They protested talk of removing the marker after the subdivision was sold and the sign became dilapidated.

Someone, he says, stole all 4,000 no longer used bulbs.

Wind blew down the "H" so that the sign read "OLLYWOODLAND." Several years later, in 1949, the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce came to the rescue, restored the "H" and lopped off the "LAND," creating the film town landmark.

The late Fletcher Bowron, then Los Angeles mayor, puffed up a mountain trail and broke ground for the "H" with a pick-ax.

Wind and weather eroded the sign's paint and destroyed parts of its sheet-metal letters again in recent years. Kiwanians, Rotarians and chamber leaders raised $4,500 for renovation.

The city chopped down encroaching brush and trees. Bridge painters slapped their last white brushstrokes on the sign a few days ago.

Kothe says, "It looks nice. Everybody up here is glad."

What Others Say

Amistad Lake, a joint venture between Mexico and the U.S. on the Rio Grande near Del Rio, has been described as the reservoir with the purest water in the state.

Its rocky bottom and location in a sparsely settled region keeps the water crystal clear. There is not a more inviting body of water anywhere in the U.S.

Thus it comes as a particular shock to learn that developers around the lake are piping raw sewage into the water to avoid the expense of installing septic tanks. They are willing to pollute the lake rather than make a minimal investment that other householders take as a matter of course.

The state must act quickly to block this new act of vandalism.

To Your Good Health Morning Sickness In Pregnancy

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am about three months pregnant and am wondering what causes "morning sickness" (although not necessarily always in the morning).

Some mornings I am sick and throw up, and other days I feel fine. I hope you don't think this is a ridiculous question. —Mrs. J.G.C.

Your question is not ridiculous at all, and medicine has been trying to find the answer for a long time. Only, unfortunately, we don't have any positive answers, despite a lot of observations.

Some degree of nausea is experienced by perhaps about 50 per cent of pregnant women. While it needn't always be in the morning, it happens often enough then to make "morning sickness" a pretty good name for it.

We note that it is much more prevalent in nervous, highstrung women and also among those who have a sensitive or "nervous" stomach.

Anxiety may be a major factor. In some cases, resentment about the pregnancy may be involved. Both these emotions — anxiety and resentment — are common stomach-upsetters. That doesn't however, explain why morning sickness usually is a temporary matter and disappears later in the pregnancy. Maybe getting used to the idea of being pregnant has something to do with it.

Medication is rarely necessary, and in any event not desirable this early in pregnancy.

These nausea attacks usually start occurring about the end of the first month of pregnancy and will last something like three or four weeks. They are one of the presumptive signs of pregnancy, in fact.

If vomiting persists, however, it may be a sign of trouble — toxemia of pregnancy — which is serious and demands prompt treatment.

But most women adjust to minor waves of nausea without any special treatment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About three years ago I had a light stroke with no apparent bad effects except that I have had a weak and unsteady feeling all through my body, especially in the legs.

My doctor has been giving me blood pressure pills which I take every day. I am inclined to believe that the medication is making me weak instead of the ailment. Could this be possible? —Mrs. K.M.D.

Yes, quite possible. Mention the symptoms to your doctor to see whether any change in medication might be advisable.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim

A Time To Be A Child

One thing and another: The kindergarten-age youth is now becoming a public-school responsibility and in a few years, we are told, we must start formal education of the three-year-old child. I'm not so sure the tads will be ready for it at that age. Mentally, perhaps yes. But I don't think such early confrontations with the printed word is good for the tadpole's eyes.

CHILDREN HAVE to do an overwhelming amount of reading from the time they start the first grade, with the threat of eye-strain increasing. The result: More and more of the small fry have to start wearing glasses at an early age and, more likely than not, have to use them the remainder of their lives.

There should be a time in the life of the very young when he should be allowed to be a child. We all hark back to it and regard it as a wonderful time. Why not let his faculties get prepared for the adult world?

ONE OF THE automobile manufacturing giants has announced it will offer a modern version of one of its earlier models in Australia "for the masses," placing it on the market for $896. The vehicle, the manufacturer adds, will be marketed only in Australia, Asia and the Pacific.

It will be a very basic car, the maker hastens to explain. Many Americans are looking for such a car at such a price. If the vehicle came equipped with pontoons, many Americans might be inspired to visit Australia and float one home.

THE MATH INSTRUCTOR who teaches that the shortest distance between two points is a straight line must feel awfully frustrated when he drives up on a segment of highway under construction.

DID YOU EVER motor on to a perfectly good highway that was practically deserted and get uneasy — worried because everyone else may know something you don't? Then join the lodge.

ANOTHER THOUGHT about traveling:

Is there anything more disappointing on a vacation trip than to see a scenic attraction like a waterfall or a rain forest advertised along a highway for 200 miles, then arrive at a spot where you have to hike over ten miles off the thoroughfare to see it?

Terrorism Threatens Police System

WASHINGTON — Many a country in the world — not merely the United States — is feeling the sting of a new terrorism. Scarcely a day goes by that there isn't a news report of a bombing involving an embassy or public building or the kidnapping of prominent officials.

The movement seems to spread from country to country. Athens, Greece for instance, which has its radical "anti-establishment" element, too, has lately been the scene of disorders. So has The Hague in the Netherlands.

LAW-ENFORCEMENT officers here in Washington attribute the terrorism to organized planning by groups of radical revolutionaries in different lands. Manuals of instruction on how to make explosives and use them effectively, together with books on guerrilla warfare, have been circulated in many countries. One of the first works of this kind to come to the United States was written in Cuba, and the same book has been distributed in Canada. Articles in "underground" newspapers go into details of how to make such deadly devices as Molotov cocktails, and include maps showing the location of police stations, other law-enforcement agencies and National Guard Headquarters.

IN THE UNITED STATES, explosives are readily available. In many states, it isn't necessary even to give one's name when buying dynamite. It is almost as easy to get explosives as to obtain a gun. When the dynamiting or blowing up of one place is reported, the tactic has an infectious effect on criminal minds, and there is a temptation by the militant elements to try the same maneuver in order to create as much havoc as possible.

The planting of explosives in cars in parking lots, the bombing or burning of buildings, the shooting of police officers, and the incitement of riots and other disorders have caused concern in America as to what is behind it all.

THE DEMOLITION of the Army Mathematics Research Center at the University of Wisconsin not only caused property damage of six million dollars, but one man was killed and four others injured. An untold amount of research by graduate students and professors, involving the life work of some scholars, was destroyed in the blast. This was all supposed to be justified by the radicals because some of the research was being done for the United States Army.

THERE IS, of course, a public sentiment arising that lawmakers must crack down on those who are responsible for the violence in the United States and particularly the terrorist campaign against the police. Senator James O. Eastland, Democrat, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, has just pointed out that attacks against 13 policemen in two cities last weekend may have been "the opening shots of a new American revolution." He said this is clearly "an undisguised attack on law and order, an assault aimed at the heart of our nation — this is guerrilla warfare in our cities."

MR. EASTLAND is preparing legislation to give the federal government — particularly the FBI — more authority to intervene because, he contends, the revolutionaries are operating across state lines. Undoubtedly if the terrorism continues, an era of "repression" could ensue. For the feeling is growing that the whole police system will be threatened unless those who are assaulting policemen are punished severely for their crimes.

THE NEW terrorism undoubtedly is the work of radicals and revolutionaries in many countries, and governments are striving to find ways to deal with it. In the United States, however, with federal, state and local governments plainly supported by public opinion, it is quite likely that stern measures will be taken to cope with the problem. Certainly, unless the morale of the police of the cities and the state troopers is strengthened, the terrorism could grow to disastrous proportions in America.

Silent Majority Becoming Angry

(Andrew Tully is on holiday. During his absence his column is being written by various national figures.)

By SEN. VANCE HARTKE, D-IND.

WASHINGTON — Middle Americans, who constitute a majority of the voting population, may or may not be characterized as "silent" as we enter the decade of the 1970s.

But they are clearly — in a word — angry.

The fringe rebellion given form in the Wallace movement of the 60s was the first sure sign of alienation of a large segment of the people who have paid the freight for building the most advanced society in the history of civilization.

THIS FRINGE rebellion has now passed into a stage of confusion, frustration and lack of trust in political leadership of any color or stripe.

They may still be silent, but they are struggling for a voice. And the articulating process is not only interesting to watch, but full of foreboding for the course of events during the coming decade.

Let us trace briefly the cause of the current alienation:

SINCE WORLD WAR II, real income (after taxes and inflation) for the lower one-fifth of the spectrum, that is the very poor, has increased 4 per cent.

Real income for the top fifth of the spectrum has increased over 40 per cent.

Real income for the middle three-fifths has dropped slightly — leaving the wage earners of America, who have been sold "progress" for 25 years as the way to patriotic self-fulfillment, worse off than they were in 1947.

AS THE ALIENATION movement among middle Americans matures, more and more common denominators are found between this alienation movement and frustrations of both the black and the young Americans.

Perceiving a political structure that appears to care more for its own perpetuation than for any real service on behalf of constituents, the wage earning taxpayer views a panorama of contradiction.

We are told that unemployment is in the national interest. We are assured that we can get out of Vietnam by getting into Cambodia. Our most educated young people sometimes show their learning the least.

WE FACE BOTH depression and inflation simultaneously. We watch our national wealth and our national debt increase at the same time.

Our majorities think the minorities are running the country. Our minorities think the country is running them.

AMID THIS disarray we hear the cry for better and more assertive public leadership. But this approach to the problem again treats only surface issues. Americans have never had a problem resurrecting leaders to articulate a well-defined and persuasive public position.

When citizens of this nation reach a consensus on which direction they desire their nation to move, they won't have any difficulty locating a driver for the bus.

BSP Council To Head TB Drive

Plans for the new club year were made by the Beta Sigma Phi City Council Thursday in the home of Mrs. Horace Rankin, 1717 Anderson. Mrs. Rankin presided as members planned the fund drive for the Big Country Tuberculosis and Respiratory Association to be held the day of the first home football game at Big Spring High School. The BSP council is in charge of the one-day drive.

A salad supper for the five BSP chapters in Big Spring will be held Nov. 5, with the council members as hostesses. Refreshments were served with cut glass appointments by Mrs. Rankin. An arrangement of fall flowers accented the serving table. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Jack Parrott, 605 George.

Myriad Wiglets Suit All Tastes

When it comes to hairpieces, there are styles enough available today to out-stack any of the 17th century ladies and it can be done with far greater ease. It took sticky pomades to keep the heavy, elaborate French creations of the past in place. Today, lightweight hairpieces can be pinned, clipped, held on with combs or pulled on like caps.

Better Check Plants For Root Diseases

By CYNTHIA CRAWFORD (County HD Agent)
Rains and showers in Howard County last week will brighten the yard and garden outlook. Drought stress that we have experienced most of the summer brings to light many problems on trees and shrubs that have previously lurked in the background.

In visiting with County Agricultural Agent Paul Gross, he has mentioned a number of things that the home owner needs to consider in care of the yard and garden.

Plants with diseased or damaged root systems can't absorb enough water and nutrients under summer drought conditions to furnish all plant parts. When this happens, tips of branches die back and leaf tips are scorched. On some plant types, leaf shedding follows.

SYMPTOMS
Several problems may be involved in producing a given symptom, but there is a general tendency to simplify diagnosis to a single casual factor.

However, response to treatment may be disappointing if other factors aren't considered. Symptoms may develop over an extended period of time and likewise, correction of that condition may require a longer period of time than desired.

A large number of plant specimens have been received in the Plant Disease Diagnostic Laboratory at Texas A&M university this summer with many of them having been damaged by plant pathogenic organisms. Very often, however, other factors were involved which are often difficult to identify.

Some conditions may be simple due to drought stress, but others may be due to excess use of commercial fertilizers, improper use of herbicides, natural gas leaks which replace the oxygen in the soil and other factors.

New home construction also takes its toll of native shade trees each year leaving the homeowner wondering if he is a victim of some new plant disease epidemic. Death of native trees damaged by construction usually occurs in about three years, at which time the tree's food reserves are depleted.

ROOT DAMAGE
Any form of damage to the root system of a plant will probably show up at some time during the life of the plant. Root knot nematodes are especially damaging to some garden plants, trees and shrubs. A house Vegetable Growers Council's meeting held recently in San Antonio had some interesting comments concerning the control of nematodes. They report that marigold roots exude a substance which will kill nematodes.

The following is taken from a report given at the Council meeting regarding nematodes in tomatoes: "The marigolds actually did kill the nematodes and not run them off, give them lock jaw, or anything like that. It has been established that marigolds can do this. The marigolds you want to use are those with a good stout odor, not the odorless type. The odor types are the ones that seem to carry the toxic substance to nematodes. What we need to find out is the density we need to plant the marigolds and how long do we need to grow them with the tomatoes.

"You can't wait until you get nematodes and then plant marigolds and expect control. They did find they obtained good control not complete eradication if they planted at the same time and believe it was a one for one basis. They did find that you had to get enough of the toxic material in the soil to get control. They didn't determine just how much was necessary; but once they got control, they found that it controlled the nematodes for 3 years. This is pretty exciting business. There are some other things we need to find out such as whether the toxic material is in the roots only or the roots and tops. If the latter is true, why couldn't we grow a field of marigolds, pull them out, run them through a blender, treat the greenhouse with it, and get it all done at once. This is a fascinating thing and something solid on which to work. If you want to try it, set a marigold per one tomato plant as it may save you a lot of grief." This quote is from Jack F. Hardie of the Scientific Farms, Inc. of San Antonio. The discussion is based on information that has been verified by the USDA at Beltsville, Md.

Says Computers Have Found 'Missing' Day

Mrs. W.D.R. Lund discussed the recent discovery by computer scientists of the "missing day" mentioned in the Bible, during the meeting Thursday of Lutheran Women Parish Workers of St. Paul Lutheran Church. Mrs. H. T. Hansen, 621 Tulane, was hostess with Mrs. Albert Hohertz, cohostess.

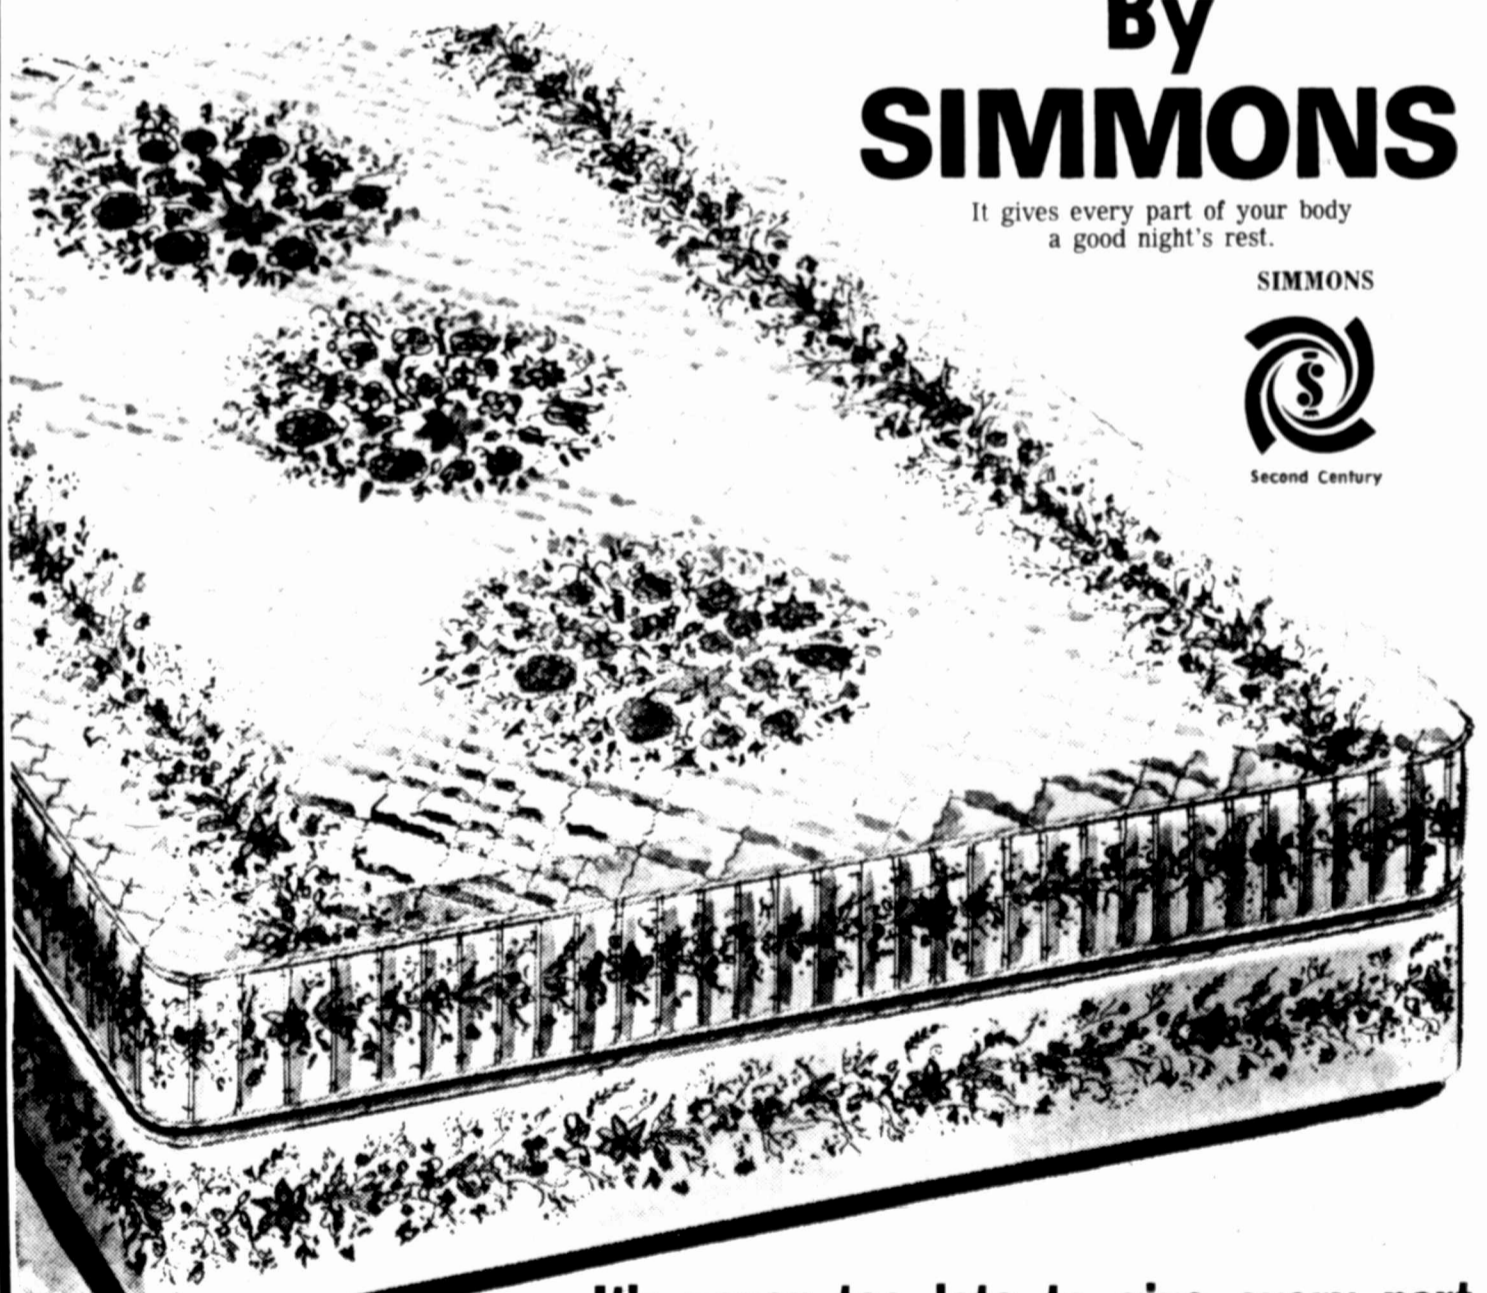

Mrs. Lund related a July newspaper story about research being done by the Curtis Eugene Company, of Baltimore, Md., headed by Harold Hill, consultant for space research. According to Hill, their computer center in Greenbelt, Md., was calculating the positions that the sun, planets and moon would be in 100 and 1,000 years from now, to determine where satellite orbits should be planned in terms of the life of the satellite and where the planets will be positioned.

When the computers came to an impasse in calculating the time, one of the programmers suggested checking the Biblical references in the Book of Joshua and Book of Kings II. The Book of Joshua referred to a time when God made time stand still for approximately one day. Using this information the computers were run again, but calculations were still incorrect. Again the Bible was consulted, and it was read in the Book of Kings that when Hezekiah was on his death bed, God made the sun go back 10 degrees, causing a loss of 45 minutes. With the statistics taken from the Bible, the computers worked out the problems without further trouble, Mrs. Lund explained.

Mrs. Moran Oppgaard worded the devotion. Guests were Mrs. Norman Backs and Mrs. Richard Hines.

Can You Crack Food Carton Codes? Consumers Want To Know Quality

Editor's Note: Which came first, these eggs or those eggs? The carton numbered 4254 or the carton marked 2527? It used to be that only your grocer knew for sure. But now a lot of consumers are demanding to be let in on the secret. Following is a report on the coding of foods by AP's Living Today department.

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Nestled neatly row on row on grocery shelves, one box of medium Grade A eggs looks like all the others. The question is, however, "which box is freshest?"

The grocer and the supermarket clerk can tell quite easily by reading the codes on meat, butter, eggs, poultry, produce and other perishables which tell how long a product has been on the shelf.

But it is a rare housewife, indeed, who can crack the cryptic code.

This is the way it usually works: Find the four digit number stamped on a package. The sum of the first and last digits corresponds to the number of the month of the year. The middle two digits indicate the day of the month. (THUS, Aug. 25 would be 4254.) If the code is underlined, it's the day the eggs were packaged. If not, it's the day they should be removed from the cooler.

Or maybe it's the day they were laid.

Few shoppers appear to know a coding system of freshness exists at all. But almost all the 8,000 or so items in a typical supermarket are coded in various forms. Many grocers know the codes and have instructions from retailers not to offer "crib" sheets to the customers. But sometimes even the most seasoned grocers can't figure them out.

There's no uniformity in the coding. In a large food chain in Detroit, the day the bread is baked is marked by a colored tie on the package. The tie colors change daily.

In a Cleveland grocery, a package of Swiss cheese marked 0365 means it was packaged the 36th day of the year. But some weeks they reverse this and a package marked 0365 means it was packaged on January 1.

The food industry argues the codes protect the consumer while consumer advocates insist the codes confuse the customer who has a right to know the quality of the food he's buying.

"With prices the way they are and with food taking such a huge cut out of everyone's income, naturally the customer wants to be sure he gets what he pays for," said Erma Angvine, executive director of the Consumer Federation of America.

"Why shouldn't the customer know what he's buying?" asked Frank Pollock, assistant to the director of the Consumer's Union which publishes Consumer's Report. "It's an insult to the consumer to pick up a package and not be able to read all the information on it."

If the consumer did know, food industry officials contend, he would buy only the freshest food. As a result, they say, perfectly good, high quality goods — though not as fresh — would go to waste, thus driving up the prices.

"Take milk," said Wayne Warrington, public affairs director of the National Association of Food Chains.

"Usually, milk sells so fast that you have a three-day turnover. But if it is stored properly in a refrigerator that is not opened and closed, and has no temperature or humidity change, it can be just as good and tasty and nutritious after three or four weeks."

Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant on consumer affairs, has supported a standardized system of coding so consumers can walk into any store and understand the packaging system.

"We're chiding the food industry for its failure to develop proper microbiological standards so all manufacturers will agree on the same date to pull the items off the shelves," said Frank McLaughlin, director of Industry Relations in Mrs. Knauer's office.

Last spring 57 congressmen proposed a bill to require "open dating" on all perishables. Under this proposed legislation, the date the item should be removed from the shelf would be stamped on the label. A spokesman from the office of one of the bill's sponsors, Rep. Leonard Farbstein, D-N.Y., said,

"Right now it (the bill) is just sitting on ice. We don't expect much to happen for awhile."

The Department of Agriculture recently released a study of nine European countries with comprehensive standardized coding systems which indicated that under the new system customers continued to buy all the food, not only the freshest, and prices did not soar.

Food chains around the country are wrestling with the problem of how to meet the consumers' demands for a comprehensive coding system. Jewel Co. of Chicago and Stop 'N' Shop of Boston last month placed code translating booklets in all their supermarkets.

STANTON (SC) — An all-day meeting was held by Lakeview Home Demonstration Club Thursday to make items for the High Sky Girls Ranch. Hostess was Mrs. E. P. Madison, who served a salad luncheon. Mrs. James Eiland, Martin County HD agent, presented a program updating facts on nutrition.

Mrs. Alfred Franks presided and appointed Mrs. Madison, Mrs. Bill McIlvane and Mrs. Horace Tubbs to work as a committee on the senior citizen project. Guests were Mrs. E. P. Murphy, Mrs. Lee Castle and Mrs. Jess Miles. The next meeting will be Sept. 17 in the home of Mrs. McIlvane.

Study On Venezuela Emphasizes Church

"A Score of Years in Venezuela" was the program topic at the Women's Missionary Union meeting Tuesday at Westside Baptist Church. Mrs. J. O. Mirph described the country's geography and natural resources. Venezuela is the world's second largest producer of oil, Mrs. Murphy said, and other products are gold, cattle, timber and pearls, in addition to farm produce.

The first republic was established in 1830 by the liberator, Simon Bolivar. Following the liberation, according Lomax Home Demonstration Club re-elected its officers for the coming year during a meeting Thursday in the home of Mrs. Danny Fryar. They are, Mrs. Waymon Etchison, president; Mrs. Lawrence Adkins, vice president; Mrs. David Roberts, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Richard Posey, council delegate.

Mrs. Etchison presided and gave the devotion. Members plan to give Christmas gifts to Big Spring State Hospital patients. Mrs. Charles Pierce gave a products demonstration of items including a vitamin supplement, all-purpose cleaner, hypoallergenic cosmetics and clothing. The next meeting will be Sept. 24 in the home of Mrs. Cecil Long.

to Mrs. Murphy, there was a period of strong dictatorships in which the masses of natives were kept in poverty and ignorance, while the wealthy profited. The Catholic church was limited to serving mostly the upper class, because high prices were charged for performing marriages and baptisms, she said.

Mrs. Mary Riddle said the Baptist faith was introduced in Venezuela in 1945. With the aid of Baptist missionaries from Colombia, a Baptist church was established in the capital city of Caracas.

The high costs of living and operating Southern Baptist missions in Venezuela were discussed by Mrs. LeRoy Minchew. She told of methods being used to disseminate Baptist literature including radio, television and bookstores. These methods are used to reach Venezuelan university students.

Mrs. C. L. Kirkland related the testimonies of young evangelists such as Marisant de Mara, a young woman studying law at a Venezuelan university. Many such young people were converted to Christianity at the Baptist camp in Balencia, she said. The story of a young revolutionary, Carlos, who became a convert while in prison, was told by Mrs. E. O. Sanders. Mrs. J. A. Andrews described the success of the Baptist faith among pioneering natives who were cultivating former jungle land. The study closed with a prayer by Mrs. N. M. Hipp.

Dry Skin Problem Is Never Solved

How would you like to clean your skin with sand? The ancient Sumerians, who lived in a desert climate in 2800 B.C., did just that. Then, to counteract the drying effects of that corrosive cleansing, they smoothed their skins with oils.

Today nearly 5,000 years later, we don't indulge in sand facials but dry skin is still a problem. More than two out of every three American women suffer from dry skin condition.

Murphy Sets Blistering Pace In Hartford Open

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Bob Murphy feigned a yawn, patted his mouth with the back of his hand and commented: "Well, another boring day."

Steve Opperman, an obscure five-year-old regular from Newark, Calif., was a distant second at 202. Opperman had a third-round 67.

Paul Harney, 69, and hometown favorite Jim Grant, 71, followed at 204. The big group at 205 included Dean Beman, Jim Jamieson, Pete Brown, Dave Hill, Chuck Courtney and Tom Weiskopf.

Murphy, a 27-year-old former National Amateur champion, is in his third full year on the tour and hasn't won since taking consecutive victories in the Philadelphia and Thunderbird Classics in 1968.

Team Posts 62 For Win

A team composed of Bobby Smith, Farris Hammond, James Norman and Herschel Harris posted a 62 to win the Louisiana Draw tournament at the Mungo golf course Sunday.

Thirty players participated in the contest. Finishing with a 63 were the teams of Bernard Rains, Max Coffey, Bill Brooks, Sherrill Farmer and Bill Patton, Burl Dennis and Clyde Green (only three on team).

One team had a 65, another 66, while three tied in the next spot with 67s. Golfers are preparing for the city championship tournament scheduled to start Sept. 19 and continue Oct. 4. Players have until 6 p.m., Sept. 16, to qualify and register.

FIRST CALIFORNIA 500 WINNER — Jim McElreath of Arlington, Tex., a veteran of 20 years on the race tracks, holds trophy he was awarded Sunday in the winner's circle after victory in the inaugural California 500-mile race. He moved into the lead with less than three laps to go as one favorite after another had to drop out.

Yanks Slump, Russians Win Italian Games

TURIN, Italy (AP) — The Soviet Union turned an eight-day pursuit of the United States into a triumph in the last days of the sixth World University Games, taking four more gold medals than the Americans.

The Americans dominated the swimming events, but the Russians did much better in the track and field competition, and piled up golds in the minor events, such as baseball, fencing, volleyball and gymnastics.

The United States remained empty-handed in the minor sports. The Soviet victory was obtained by a team of over 200 competitors, twice as many as the Americans.

Russia posted a surprising 78-71 victory over the United States in the basketball final Saturday night. The Americans missed a number of shots from close and medium range.

The Soviet Union over-all topped 26 gold, 17 silver and 16 bronze in the two-week tourney which drew 2,370 athletes from 64 countries. The United States had 22 gold, 18 silver and 11 bronze.

Forty Vie In Southern 500

DARLINGTON, S. C. (AP) — With battle plans drawn and engines tuned to perfection, 40 drivers were scheduled to try to out-pace and out-last each other today in the grueling Southern 500 at Darlington Speedway.

Some of the battle plans sounded simple. Bobby Isaac outlined his when he said, "I'm going to just try and survive the first 300 miles and then race the last 200."

Cale Yarborough of Timmons-ville, S. C., already a two-time winner this year on the NASCAR circuit, had victory in mind when he switched engines in his Mercury prior to the race for the $137,000 purse event.

"We'll be running real hard and we need new engines to take the grind," Yarborough said. "All of the top qualifiers changed engines and so did many of the others."

Yarborough started the race in 7th spot after qualifying at 146.378.

Pole winner David Pearson of Spartanburg, said he turned the 1½ mile oval at better than 151 m.p.h. after an engine change. He qualified with a speed of 150.555 m.p.h.

USNER led 166 of the laps before going out with engine trouble after completing 186 of the 200 circuits required at the new $25.5-million Ontario Motor Speedway. Still he collected $79,500 including lap prizes and this boosted his winnings this year to $396,944, most of any driver in a single season.

Joe's Knee Hurt, But His Arm Hurts Saints Worse

Joe Namath's knee hurts. Ooh, it hurts the New Orleans Saints.

As a matter of fact, his arm kills them, too. Namath's fabled knee took an unsightly whacking Saturday night, but he shook off the pain and passed the New York Jets to a 27-14 National Football League exhibition victory over New Orleans.

In other Saturday exhibitions, the New York Giants belted Philadelphia 27-7. Denver turned back Chicago 30-17. Kansas City handcuffed Dallas 13-0. Los Angeles ripped Houston 20-3. Washington stopped Miami 26-21. Baltimore edged Detroit 20-14. Green Bay and Cincinnati played to a 10-10 tie and Minnesota beat Cleveland 24-21 and San Diego took St. Louis 38-27 in a doubleheader.

Oakland rocked cross-bay rival San Francisco 31-17 in Sunday's only game. Namath only played the first half, but did enough damage for the whole game. He hit 7 of 9 passes for 188 yards, including a

Is Rod Laver Slipping? May Be Wishful Thinking

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Is Rod Laver slipping? Dennis Ralston, who plays the Australian court king next in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships, says so—although Dennis may be guilty of some wishful thinking.

Eleven of 12 boats bettered the previous best time for the eight-oared shells. Australia broke on top but couldn't hold fast-closing East Germany's 36 beats-a-minute pace. Russia wound up second with a time of 5:38.20. New Zealand turned in 5:38.40 to take a bronze medal.

McCleath Upsets Big Name Drivers

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — Veteran driver Jim McElreath surprised the bigger names and a crowd of 180,223 with victory in the spectacular California 500 mile inaugural race and he himself wasn't totally prepared.

"I might not be too well dressed for the victory banquet because I sent my clothes home on Saturday night," the 42-year-old from Arlington, Tex., admitted after averaging 160.106 miles per hour for the gruelling test that knocked bigger names out.

In the final two laps, McElreath outduelled another vet, 45-year-old Art Pollard of Medford, Ore., to take the checkered flag in a two-year-old Coyote-Ford.

Not running among the seven finishers were such stars as Al Unser, the 1970 Indianapolis 500 champ who led the California race to $396,944, most of any driver in a single season.

Lloyd Ruby, Mario Andretti, Dan Gurney, A. J. Foyt and others.

Victory earned $146,850 for McElreath, who started 18th in the 33-car field, and Pollard, who was next to last in the qualifying, collected $73,500.

As trouble struck first Unser's P. J. Colt-Ford and then the Brabham-Offy of stock car Ace Lee-Roy Yarborough when they led, McElreath and Pollard were in position to go for the top prize.

USNER led 166 of the laps before going out with engine trouble after completing 186 of the 200 circuits required at the new $25.5-million Ontario Motor Speedway. Still he collected $79,500 including lap prizes and this boosted his winnings this year to $396,944, most of any driver in a single season.

POLLARD CHEVROLET'S
NEW LITTLE CAR
OPENS ITS DOORS
THURSDAY,
SEPTEMBER 10

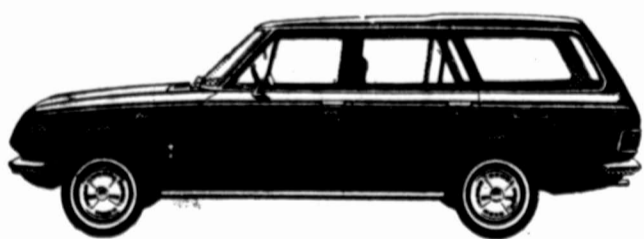

And it's got a lot of doors to open, too. Because our new little car, the Vega, is actually three little cars. A coupe, a sedan, and a wagon. Plus there's a fourth Vega: a little panel truck. We'll open our doors for Vega business on September 10. We invite you to come in and see why we call this the little car that does everything well. And while you're here, pick up a Vega catalog. It's good reading. Then talk to our salesmen. It's good conversation. Bring a friend.
