

U. N. Aims Reaffirmed In 25th Year

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — With presidents and prime ministers on hand, the General Assembly unanimously adopted Saturday a declaration rededicating U.N. members to the charter and calling for peace, freedom and an end to the arms race.

That was the final act of a 10-day summit commemorative session of the 127-nation body ending 25 years to the day after the U.N. charter came into effect.

The declaration said: "We, the representatives of the member states of the United Nations, solemnly observing the 25th anniversary of the United Nations, reaffirm our determination to do our utmost to ensure a lasting peace on earth and to observe the purposes and principles embodied in the charter, and express full confidence that the actions of the United Nations will be conducive to the advancement of mankind along the road to peace, justice and progress."

But the assembly president, Ambassador Edvard Hambro of Norway, later told the delegates, "Even the best of declarations are not enough if we do not act on the inspiration we have derived from them."

Secretary-General U Thant said: "We must move from power politics to collective responsibility, from narrow national or commercial interests to a sense of earth patriotism and global solidarity.

"In the United Nations, we must achieve universality, so that all peoples on earth are represented and have a voice here."

Concluding, he said the alternatives before the world organization were either to follow "outmoded procedures and policies" and become increasingly irrelevant or elsewhere to increase in strength and effectiveness to build "a just, peaceful and prosperous human community."

Besides the 25th anniversary declaration, the assembly adopted two other documents.

The first was a declaration on the legal principles of friendly relations among states—which, among other things, termed any war of aggression a crime and forbade any country to instigate civil strife or terrorism in another.

The second was a strategy for the Second U.N. Development Decade, 1971-80, calling for developing countries to achieve a 6 per cent annual economic growth rate and for economically advanced countries to devote 1 per cent of their gross national product to foreign aid.

IT'S THAT TIME AGAIN — Arthur Carbonneau, a New Bedford jeweler, clipped watch faces on his glasses to remind you to turn your clocks back to standard time. Also that you gain back the hour's sleep you lost last April.

Dear Boss: The Time Just Changed Again

DEAR BOSS: If you're as absent-minded as I am, we may find ourselves running a little early today... that is if we forgot last night to set our clocks back an hour.

That's right, today is the day that the federal government bows out of the time-keeping business and turns the clock back over to Mother Nature... or is it Father Time?

The official hour for converting from Daylight Savings Time to Standard Time was 2 a.m. today, but if like most folks you declined to stay up to usher out Daylight Savings Time you were supposed to set your clock back an hour when you went to bed.

Just in case you couldn't remember which way the clock was supposed to go there's a saying that might help: "spring forward and fall back." That means that in the spring you move your clock up an hour and in the fall back an hour.

It's not really too serious if you did forget, because that just means you're running an hour ahead of schedule — and everybody can always use an extra hour.

So if everybody else seems to be running late today, compare your clock with theirs. You may still be running on Daylight Savings Time.

As for me, I'm debating seriously whether to change my clock. One thing's for sure. If I don't change it, I ought to be running just about on time this winter.

Chile Elects Castro Fan As President

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — By an impressive 153-35 margin, Congress Saturday handed the presidency of Chile to Sen. Salvador Allende, a Marxist who has pledged to discard capitalism by opening the nation's door to socialism. He was elected for a six-year term.

The 62-year-old senator, and admirer of Fidel Castro, won over the runner-up in the presidential election last Sept. 4, Jorge Alessandri, a conservative former president who ran as an independent. Allende failed to get the required majority in September, throwing the decision into Congress.

As Congress voted in the ornate splendor of its Hall of Honor, police and soldiers outside the dark gray building blocked off streets. Police helicopters overhead were on the alert for any violence.

Strict security, the tightest in Chile in years, was imposed after an attempt Thursday to assassinate Chile's army commander.

The commander, Gen. Rene Schneider, 57, lay near death in a military hospital across town from the Congress building.

There were seven blank ballots in the presidential voting. Five of the 150 House members and 50 senators were absent, including Allende. Confident of victory, he sat at home watching on television. The four others were ill.

"It was a democratic gesture," Allende said of the election while talking with reporters outside his home before going to call on Schneider. "We have to create a new society and a new conscience. This is a victory for the people."

While many in the military regarded Allende and his leftist views uneasily, Schneider was said to have followed the Chilean military tradition of hands-off politics.

Allende's supporters charged his assailants were rightist terrorists. They asserted rightists

Says Recklessness Cause Of Crash

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A Federal Aviation Administration official testified Saturday he believes the Wichita State University football team airplane that crashed in Colorado on Oct. 2 was operated in a "careless and reckless manner."

A second federal official said that based on his calculations there was no way the Martin 404 could have cleared the Rocky Mountains. The crash killed 13 football players and 17 other persons.

The National Transportation Safety Board hearing concluded its inquiry after four days, without an appearance by FAA Administrator John H. Shaffer. His presence was sought by attorneys for Golden Eagle Aviation Inc., Oklahoma City, which supplied the crew for the flight to Logan, Utah, for a game.

Louis M. Thayer, chairman of the board of inquiry, said the hearings could be reopened if new evidence warrants. He said the board would in "due course" issue a report listing a probable cause.

Joseph A. Ferrarese, chief of FAA's operations division in Washington, the last of 24 witnesses, said he believes two FAA regulations were violated by Dan Crocker of Oklahoma City, captain of the ill-fated plane, who died in the crash, and copilot Ronald G. Skipper, who survived and is president of Golden Eagle.

"It appears the airplane was operated in a careless and reckless manner," Ferrarese said, adding that another regulation was violated "in that the aircraft was taking off from Denver several thousand pounds over the maximum gross weight."

Edward Gaydos, chief of the FAA's aircraft performance section, said that based on conditions presented to him there was "no way" the plane that crashed could have gained enough altitude either to clear the Continental Divide or swing off course and make it through Loveland Pass.

The Martin 404 crashed into a mountainside in Clear Creek Canyon after, as Skipper testified, he and Crocker tried to maneuver the craft into a 180-degree turn to take it back down the valley.

GOP Counterattack Says Economy OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the economy chosen by the Democrats as their No. 1 campaign issue, Nixon economic officials are mounting a low-key counterattack designed to convince voters that prosperity is just around the corner.

As Democrats have stepped up their attacks across the country, the number of administration speeches defending the state of the economy and President Nixon's fiscal policies has increased.

Although these administration statements are billed as essentially nonpolitical, the message they carry is in direct contrast to Democratic assertions that the economy is in bad shape.

Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy, for instance, told an audience at the University of Virginia Friday night the signs that inflation is abating are unmistakable.

He said there is little doubt Nixon's policies of fiscal and monetary restraint are succeeding.

And, apparently referring to a rise in consumer prices and a less-than-favorable turn in other economic indicators, Kennedy said: "Progress will not always be even, of course, as we have seen, it will sometimes be interrupted by pauses or turns, particularly in the more volatile indicators. However an occasional interruption does not constitute a trend."

Far away in Hato Rey, Puerto Rico, Undersecretary of Commerce Rocco C. Siciliano told a group of industrialists Nixon's "courageous fiscal policies, working in tandem with strong monetary policy, have put the

Combat Soldiers, Police Guard Canadian Polls Against Terrorism

MONTREAL (AP) — Montrealers are voting for a new city government Sunday in the midst of the Canadian kidnap crisis. Some contend the situation is too tense for an election.

Combat soldiers and police have been assigned to guard public buildings and polling places against possible acts of terrorism.

On the eve of the election of a mayor and a new City Council, the manhunt for the slayers of Labor Minister Pierre Laporte of Quebec and the kidnapers of Briton James R. Cross appeared to have stalled. Police say they have run out of leads, although three new arrest warrants have been issued.

There was a flurry Saturday when police picked up a student in Ottawa bearing the same name as Bernard Lortie, 19, for whom a warrant was issued on Friday night on a charge of conspiracy to kidnap Laporte, whose strangled body was found a week ago. But hours after the youth was brought to Montreal for questioning, police announced he was not the one they were seeking.

The troops and extra police are on duty under terms of the War Measures Act, imposed by Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau Oct. 16 after Cross, a trade envoy, and Laporte were seized by cells of the Quebec Liberation Front, the FLQ.

Drapeau, who is seeking his fourth straight term as mayor, has the support of the provincial premier, Robert Bourassa, and his Quebec government in ordering that the balloting be held despite the crisis.

If nothing else, the civic election will provide a change of pace for nearly two million Montrealers, preoccupied since Oct. 5 with the activities of the FLQ.

Those who have appealed for the postponement are Parti Quebecois, a separatist political party; the 225,000-member Confederation of National Trade Unions, and the Quebec Civil Liberties Union.

'ALEX WOULDN'T HURT A FLY' FAA Investigates Crash Into Shrine

SAN JUAN, Tex. (AP) — The middle-aged pilot who crashed with his plane into a church, destroying it and himself, was described Saturday as a deeply religious man, a law-and-order advocate.

Possibly his best friend, H. Ross "Huck" Finn, said of Frank Alexander, 62, the dead pilot, "Alex wouldn't hurt a fly. I think he went berserk."

Alexander rented a private plane Friday and, once in the air, warned officers to evacuate all Methodist and Roman Catholic churches in a wide area of this well-populated Lower Rio Grande Valley region.

Shortly thereafter, the plane smashed into the Shrine of the Virgin of San Juan and an attached cafeteria, destroying both by fire.

About 30 priests at mass in the church and 200 St. John's Catholic School children in the cafeteria fled safely.

Alexander's body, still strapped in the pilot's seat, was found in the smoldering structures.

Finn, a retired pilot who walks with a limp from a crash injury suffered 20 years ago, could offer no real explanation for Alexander's action.

Alexander was a strange mixture of brilliance and problems, as Finn described him.

Finn said the dead pilot appeared uninterested in marriage until about 12 years ago when he wed a hostess for the Mexican airline. They became parents of four children.

Alexander was a graduate of Carnegie Tech with an engineering degree. He had worked as a pilot, aircraft salesman, flying instructor, mathematics teacher, translator of technical manuals and missionary.

But in recent years, he became more preoccupied with religious work and the writing of religious documents.

"He was very religious, always writing little articles," Finn said, telling how Alexander frequently brought newly written religious material to Finn's home.

"He seemed to want to try out his writing on us," Finn said.

Finn said Alexander never criticized churches—except that he thought them materialistic.

He was a believer in the strict interpretation of the Bible. At the same time, he carried a translation of the Bible approved by Roman Catholics—explaining "I can reach the Catholics better that way" as he did missionary work in Mexico and South Texas.

Alexander was not a member of any church but visited many.

"For him to be involved in such a violent act as to take his own life is unthinkable," Finn said.

"He was a law-abiding citizen who was opposed to hippies and against all of this student unrest business," Finn said.

Others described Alexander as a law-and-order advocate. A spokesman for the McAllen Police Department said Alexander recently had "spent a lot of time hanging around the McAllen Police Station."

Alexander and his family resided in the rear portion of what Alexander called "The Good News Tabernacle." The building once was the San Juan Church of God.

Alexander purchased the church but services were never held in the tabernacle.

One man who would not permit use of his name speculated that two business failures some 10 years ago may have changed Alexander's thinking. The man was a student in a mathematics class taught by Alexander two decades ago.

He said Alexander's finances had been declining for some time.

The crash is being investigated by the Federal Aviation Agency.

The church area is roped off and is guarded by officers but thousands of persons have visited the scene.

Damage at the church, a shrine well known in South Texas and Northern Mexico, was estimated at between $1.5 million and $2 million by officials of the Brownsville diocese.

Reviewing the . . . Big Spring Week . . . with Joe Pickle

It was, the Defense Department said, one of the lightest weeks for casualties in months. It was, for PFC Donnie R. Martin, the costliest of all months when he was killed in a booby trap explosion in Vietnam Oct. 12. No man can do more for his country.

Our United Fund is beginning to muster a good head of steam, passing the third mark on its way to the goal. At the end of the week, we were past the $40,000 level. This is encouraging, but this is the season at which we skim the cream, so it is going to take a lot of hard work and giving by people with a conscience to keep the campaign rolling to the goal. Are you such a citizen?

BOMB ADVICE? ASK UNCLE SAM

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — While the federal government mounts a drive against bombers the same government is selling a booklet on how to make them, U.S. Rep. Bob Casey, D-Tex., charged here Saturday.

Casey said the booklet, Army Technical Manual FM-19-30, has explicit instructions on homemade bombs and incendiary devices.

The booklet was brought to his attention, he said, after it was spotted being carried by one of a group of dissident students.

Weatherman Cooperating

The happy hum of cotton gins has been extensive defoliation, said Gerald Hanson, a former county agent. With the dry, sunny trend, good results have been reported, and bolls are cracking to give fields that white cast. Staple and grade on early ginnings — and one gin reported 50 bales on the yard Friday — are showing little spotted.

Before it is all over, there is a good chance that Dawson, Martin, Howard and Glasscock counties will have contributed a quarter of a million bales of cotton to the area's economy. Quality of this year's crop promises also to be above the average. Value of the crop, including seed, could easily top the $30 million mark.

BIG PRODUCER
The big producer is Dawson County, one of the outstanding agricultural counties of the state. Lee Roy Colgan, veteran county agent at Lamesa, said that estimates range all the way from 140,000 bales to as much as 180,000. The median of this would mean 160,000 bales from 223,000 certified acres in the county.

FREAK FROST
The freak frost at mid-October hit a number of Martin fields of young cotton, particularly those in the low areas. Not only did it get the leaves, but a few producers said that it cost them a quarter to half a bale to the acre where the bolls were sappy.

GOOD EXPECTATIONS
None expects less than a bale to the acre for the county's 60,000 bales of irrigated cotton, and a bale and a half appears more realistic. Most figure that a minimum for the 163,000 acres of dry land is half a bale, and this easily could range up to two-thirds of a bale. Most of the cotton is 31-32nds middling with good mike and Pressley. Very little of it is spotted or barked.

DRYLAND COTTON
Howard has some excellent dryland cotton (virtually all the contractors to meet Wednesday).

IRRIGATED COTTON
Irrigated cotton is some better than last year, and the crop should yield at least a bale and a half from these fields. The dry land cotton is expected to top half a bale and in some areas it actually will hit a bale or better.

CONTRACTORS TO MEET WEDNESDAY
Building contractors from a wide area of West Texas will convene at Sweetwater's Holiday Inn on Wednesday, it was announced by C. B. Martin, Lubbock, president of the West Texas Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America (AGC).

Air Force Wings Presented To Graduating Pilots At Webb

Silver Air Force wings and certificates of aeronautical rating went to the 57 members of Webb AFB undergraduate pilot training class 71-03 Friday in ceremonies held on the flight-line.

Webb Draws 8,000 To Open House

About 8,000 persons, most of them armed with cameras, visited Webb AFB Friday afternoon during its open house to see the aerial demonstrations of the Thunderbirds.

An unexpected high wind velocity knocked the Golden Knights parachute team off the program at the last minute, but the Knights landed and presented Col. A. W. Atkinson with a baton used by them in practice sessions. The baton is passed between the members during a free fall.

The Thunderbirds were not rounded by the high winds and performed as scheduled before landing at Webb to talk with visitors and answer questions about their airplanes.

This was the first time the Thunderbirds had performed at Webb in the F4E Phantom II jets which are capable of travelling both at very fast and very slow speeds and also have a better maneuverability than other Air Force planes. One demonstration by the Thunderbirds had four of the planes travelling at a low rate of speed with flaps and landing gear down with the fifth plane streaking by them at the fastest rate of speed to show the extreme differences.

Members of the inspection party were Dr. W. A. Hunt, Howard County Junior College; Rene Brown, Cosden Oil & Chemical Co.; and Big Spring Mayor J. Arnold Marshall. The three were presented with framed, autographed color pictures of the Thunderbirds.

Col. Atkinson presented the pilots with a plaque from Webb AFB and the City of Big Spring inscribed "Training Future Thunderbirds."

The team left Big Spring about 10:30 a.m. Saturday, flying a six-man formation over the city and Webb for a last salute to the town and Webb. They were to perform at Laughlin AFB in Del Rio Saturday afternoon and at Laredo AFB today.

Soviet Spacecraft Is Due Home From Moon

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's unmanned Zond 8 spacecraft, loaded with cameras and other equipment, rounded the moon Saturday and whipped back on an earthbound course.

The instrument capsule is expected to plunge into the earth's atmosphere and make a parachute landing Tuesday, carrying an unspectacular but valuable cargo of pictures of the earth and both sides of the moon.

The Zond 8 mission is further evidence of the Soviet preference for unmanned space missions. Soviet cosmonauts still have not ventured out of earth orbit.

The current round-the-moon maneuver is the fourth Soviet space capsule to follow such a flight path. Zonds 5, 6 and 7, Union's unmanned Zond 8 spacecraft, launched periodically over the past two years, all looped the moon and returned safely.

A brief official announcement Saturday said Zond 8 entered lunar gravity and was pulled to a point within 696 miles of the moon's surface before it made the natural curve and headed earthward.

It photographed the earth and the moon in black and white and color, the announcement added, and also carried out some unspecified studies of space near the moon.

Zond 8 was launched last Tuesday on the seven-day mission. En route to the moon it transmitted television pictures of the receding earth to ground controllers.

AT UNIV. OF TEXAS To Experiment On Enrollment Limit

HOUSTON (AP) — A one-year experimental program to limit enrollment at the University of Texas at Austin was instituted Friday by the UT System board of regents meeting here.

The program will allow 5,500 freshmen and 1,300 transfer students to enroll this year and restrict entrants to the tops in their class.

The enrollment this fall was at UT-Austin was 39,089, up 3,411 from 1969.

Dr. Bryce Jordan, the acting president at the school, had said enrollment would reach 80,000 by 1980 if not limited.

TOP 10 PCT.
The plan, which goes into effect this fall, grants automatic admission to high school seniors in the top 10 per cent of their class. Seniors in the next 15 per cent could be admitted if there is room under the quota.

Exempt from the requirement will be academic and athletic scholarship holders and those students who need summer school to make up deficiencies in their student aptitude tests.

The regents deferred action on a proposal to admit students in the lower 75 per cent of their classes within the 6,800 quota.

The administration had recommended admission in descending order of student academic rating.

NOT GRADES ONLY
However, the regents chairman, Frank C. Erwin, said he disapproves of any enrollment policy which limits admission to only top students.

"I'll never vote for a permanent plan to limit enrollment on the basis of grades only," he said. "If we adopted such a plan, then in three or four years we would have nothing but 'A' students at Austin. And we would be in the same position as Berkeley (University of California) where disturbances occurred."

He said colleges with the most intellectual students are the ones that have the most disturbances.

The regents also approved the plan for the new University of Texas medical school in Houston.

Construction will start Jan. 1 on the first building in the Texas Medical Center, Dr. Cheves M. Smythe, dean of the school said. The initial two-story building will be constructed near Hermann Hospital which will be used as the teaching hospital for the school.

READY IN OCTOBER
"If all goes well, and that of course is a big if, this initial facility should be ready for students next October," he said.

Nineteen freshmen are already enrolled at the new medical schools but are taking their first-year courses at other UT medical colleges in Dallas, Galveston and San Antonio, he said. They and an additional 32 first-year students will be here next year, he said.

The construction for the rest of the school, estimated at $40 million, should be completed by 1974, he said.

Meanwhile Hermann Hospital has embarked on a $25 million enlargement to upgrade its facilities.

A member of the board, J. C. Josey, a Houston oilman, said Friday he is giving a $100,000 gift to the new medical school for a professorship.

Plans are shaping for the annual Arthritis Foundation fund drive here in mid-November.

Arah Cunningham, formerly director of volunteer services at the Veterans Administration Hospital, assisted by Anna Smith, is serving as campaign-coordinator. Early in the month coin collectors will be placed in business houses in the city by a committee of volunteers under direction of Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas.

Teen Tag Day is set for Nov. 14 in the downtown and shopping district areas, with Leon Miller and Bill Schwarzenbach in charge of the corps of young people who will execute this segment of the over-all drive.

Teachers Being Replaced By Machines?

Computers Prepare Coahoma Report Cards

By STEPHEN R. VORHIS
COAHOMA — The 1,000 high school students here will see the first use of computers at Coahoma High School when they receive their report cards Monday afternoon.

The grade reports were prepared in San Antonio on Texas Education Agency computers, and are the first results in a four-phase pilot project at the high school.

"The program will have saved each teacher a full week's work by the end of the school year," Grady Tindol, guidance counselor and coordinator of the program said.

COMPUTER REPORTS
"The students will get computer-prepared reports now and at semester, and the school will get a master list of all students, plus honor roll lists and lists showing the percentage of students with a certain grade in each class."

In the past, preparation of report cards was done by hand, and honor roll lists were a pain, taking time for both teachers and administrators. Lists showing grade percentages by class were not even attempted because of the time required to prepare them.

Now, teachers merely mark the grade on computer forms and they are separated and printed on individual report cards by the computer. The computer then prepares the other lists in a few minutes instead of the hours or days required before.

The pilot project is sponsored by the West Texas Education Center, Midland, and will be evaluated to determine if computer use is feasible for schools.

FOUR PHASES
The project has four phases: grade reporting, class scheduling, payroll accounting and test scoring. Three phases are scheduled to go into operation in Coahoma this year, with test scoring to be held out until next year.

The use of the computer would normally cost Coahoma High School $1,500 for the school year. School officials say it is too early to decide whether the program will be continued next year.

"We'll have to sit down and see if we feel we are getting our money's worth," Tindol said. "Personally, I feel that we are getting more from the computer than teachers could provide, and the computer will free the teachers from the more menial tasks and allow them more time for teaching duties."

PAYROLL TOO
Payroll will be prepared by computer after the first of the year to avoid the headache of changing the bookkeeping method of federal withholding taxes.

Toward the end of the school year, students will be scheduled into next year's classes by the computer — thus avoiding the class conflict problem that faced students in the past.

FUTURE UNLIMITED
If the program is continued, test scoring and other services will be added. One other service that would be available is a diagnostic service — A student with a problem in a certain course will be given a battery of tests and the computer will analyze the results and prepare a prescription — what the student needs to work on hardest to solve the difficulty.

"Using computers gives all of us time to find better methods of education. Everyone, specially the student, will benefit from their use. We can now get more information than ever possible using the old methods," Tindol said.

The use of computers in Coahoma may give students a new line to try out on their parents: "I don't know why I flunked the course, dad. Maybe the computer just doesn't like me."

Striking Cops Are Defying Suspension

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Despite a threat they may be fired Monday, striking policemen have vowed to continue their walkout amid charges the department's top brass fails to give them leadership and moral support.

The walkout by more than half the police force began Oct. 10 following the suspension of rookie Patrolman David Garms and has swelled to an emotional controversy.

"I'm sticking this thing out until it comes to an end," said the 23-year-old Garms.

City officials have said they will drop suspensions of 38 of the 45 policemen on strike if they return to work Monday. Seven of the group, including Garms, will not be rehired because they are probationary officers, officials say.

But a spokesman for the striking policemen said the 38 are committed to remaining on strike unless all 45 officers are reinstated.

Garms was suspended following a heated argument in the police station with a young Negro. Garms is white. There are conflicting reports about how the argument started but it is known that no blows were struck.

After Garms' suspension, members of the department charged that was the last straw in a situation where command officers are reluctant to enforce the law and do not support the patrolman on the beat. The 44 others were suspended for striking.

At the time there were 79 men on the force, including four Negroes. Two Negroes struck while the other two remained on the job.

CONTROVERSY
Battle Creek is a city of 46,000 persons with an estimated black population of 11 to 12 per cent.

The controversy swelled to the point that last week 200 persons jammed into City Hall to demand that city commissioners reinstate the 45 policemen, including Garms.

Outside another 1,000 demonstrators waved signs, tossed firecrackers and tied up traffic in support of police. The non-striking policemen made no apparent effort to clear the streets.

No details about the dissident policemen's charges have been made public. In fact the city's request for written specifics has been ignored.

TANKER BURNS IN CHANNEL — Tugs surround the burning oil tanker Pacific Glory Saturday off the Isle of Wight in the English Channel. The ship carrying 70,000 tons of crude oil was involved in a collision Friday night with another tanker, the Allegro. Five sailors were killed in the accident with eight reported missing of the 42-man crew. Bot. vessels were of Liberian registry.

Oil Pollution Is Following Ship Wreck

ISLE OF WIGHT, England (AP) — Tugs grounded the flaming wreck of the oil tanker Pacific Glory on a shoal in the English Channel today.

Her hull was rent by explosions after a collision with another tanker Friday night. Part of the tanker's cargo of 70,000 tons of oil gushed into the sea and threatened to pollute Channel beaches. A crash prevention program was begun. Lloyds of London said there was considerable oil pollution in the sea.

Five sailors were killed in the explosions. Eight more of the crew of 42 are missing and feared dead.

A search for survivors by six helicopters and 16 rescue ships was slowed after tugs took the crippled 42,777-ton tanker in tow.

The Liberian-registered ship collided with the 46,402-ton tanker Allegro four miles from this island off England's south coast. The Allegro suffered minor damage.

Hundreds of spectators watched from shore as the Pacific Glory was taken in tow, her bows barely above water. Greasy smoke from the wreck could be seen at Portsmouth, 25 miles away.

"It was hell," said the tanker's Dutch pilot, Capt. Jan Frudiger, at a Royal Navy hospital where he was taken with 29 rescued crew members, most of them Chinese.

Three explosions tore open the ship's hull about three hours after the collision.

"We had no time to send a distress signal," said Frudiger. "The ship went straight up. There was no hope for anyone in the engine room. Those of us that were left alive had to get away at once. I jumped into a lifeboat and we rowed as hard as we could."

Some of the Chinese crewmen, he said, leaped over the side into the blazing sea without waiting for orders to abandon ship. "Five were seriously burned and many swallowed corrosive crude oil as they swam to safety."

Trial Opens Monday For Midland Murder Suspect

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — The murder trial of Midland oil man William B. Nichols is expected to get under way in 142nd District Court Monday if the defendant is declared competent to stand trial.

Nichols is accused of the April 22, 1968, shotgun slaying of his socially prominent wife, Diane, 38.

Eight months after her death, a jury declared him insane and incompetent to stand trial.

Monday, a jury will hear evidence as to Nichols' present mental condition and if they certify him sane now, the murder trial will begin.

Courthouse observers say there is expected to be no contest during the sanity hearing, and thus it is expected that the jury will rule him competent to stand trial.

Mrs. Nichols was found in the family's fashionable home. She was lying in bed dead of a shotgun wound in the head.

Nichols, now 33, himself was critically wounded and spent about two months in Midland Memorial Hospital where he underwent treatment for shotgun wounds in the stomach.

He was indicted on murder charges in June, 1968, but in December a jury ruled him incompetent to stand trial.

He was ordered committed to a mental hospital.

In mid-summer, Dist. Atty. Jim Mashburn was notified by psychiatrists at Big Spring State Hospital that Nichols had regained his sanity and could be put to trial.

He defined black power as the "inward affirmation of the essential worth of blacks"—a concept which he said he has been denied by white institutions, education and culture, including the church's.

He said their attitude is re-

Martin History Panel Hears Of Earliest Days

STANTON (SC) — L. A. Brownfield, member of the pioneer family which settled the land where Brownfield now is located, was the featured speaker at the meeting last week of the Martin County Historical Survey committee headed by Mrs. Stanley Reid.

In his address, Brownfield related historical background of this section of West Texas, and the important role Martin County played in the development of this area in the state. He also read notes made by his father in January, 1902, revealing the incident of filing claim to the land in the county clerk's office in Martin County. His story related names of some of the old settlers of West Texas.

Among them was Charlie Tom, father of the late Jim and Edmund Tom.

Dan Saunders, sheriff of Martin County, told interesting stories of past sheriff's of this area, and told of the railroad that was to have been built north and south of Stanton, but never materialized.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Sue Carson, Big Spring, and Mr. Brownfield.

Church Will Aid Ghetto Projects

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The American Lutheran Church, criticized by some of its leaders as lacking concern for the oppressed, has decided to continue funding projects in the ghettos.

At the biennial convention of the 2.5-million-member denomination, delegates voted Friday to keep up the work through their "Coordinating Committee on National Crisis," in slightly reorganized form.

A report from the committee, headed by the Rev. Dr. George S. Schultz of Minneapolis, said church members show "little concern for those who are oppressed" and sustain practices that foster "every-widening polarization."

"This, to us, is the practice of idolatry," the report said. "We sustain this idolatry through our faith in material abundance, through our belief in the innate rightness of white men and western ways . . ."

Through the committee program, the church has spent $510,000 in the last two years on black development projects. Actually, officials said, through this and other regular programs, $5 million has gone to such work.

The over-all figure was cited by Gerhard Naeseth, of Madison, Wis., president of the church's interim governing council.

Richard Hatcher, a Negro and mayor of Gary, Ind., told the convention last night that "racism and the caste system have always been the 11th commandment of American Christianity."

As a result, he said, black people have had to turn to black power to seek justice, but he added that black power is not in conflict with authentic Christianity.

He defined black power as the "inward affirmation of the essential worth of blacks"—a concept which he said he has been denied by white institutions, education and culture, including the church's.

He said their attitude is reflected in the prevailing color symbolism — white for purity and black for evil.

"Millions of Americans do not realize how critical our situation is," he said. "But change is coming one way or another."

The 1,000 delegates elected the Rev. Dr. Davis Presus, a Minneapolis pastor, as vice president to serve along with the newly elected president, the Rev. Dr. Kent S. Knutson of Dubuque, Iowa.

CRMWD Directors To Meet Here

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District meet here at 10 a.m. Monday to consider further steps which might be taken to avert possible water problems next summer.

At a meeting here a week ago, the board considered the possibility of acquiring additional ground water as a back stop to dwindling lake supplies.

They also considered participating in a weather modification (cloud seeding) project as an aid to possibly increasing yield into Lake J. B. Thomas and Lake E. V. Spence.

These and other steps which might be taken will involve money, hence the matter of finances also may be discussed.

David Picks Navy Service

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — David Eisenhower joined the Navy Saturday, ending two generations of Eisenhower service with the Army.

President Nixon's 22-year-old son-in-law was scheduled to start 18 weeks of training at the Officer Candidate School. He is to complete the program March 12.

A recent graduate of Amherst College, young Eisenhower was steered into the Navy by his grandfather, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who rose to the five-star grade of general of Army during World War II. Eisenhower's father, John, retired from the Army as a lieutenant colonel. His father and grandfather both were West Pointers.

Eisenhower's wife, Julie, the President's younger daughter, was expected to continue living at the White House and take a teacher's course at Catholic University.

CRMWD Directors To Meet Here

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District meet here at 10 a.m. Monday to consider further steps which might be taken to avert possible water problems next summer.

At a meeting here a week ago, the board considered the possibility of acquiring additional ground water as a back stop to dwindling lake supplies.

They also considered participating in a weather modification (cloud seeding) project as an aid to possibly increasing yield into Lake J. B. Thomas and Lake E. V. Spence.

These and other steps which might be taken will involve money, hence the matter of finances also may be discussed.

THREE VIEWS OF A SUSPECT — These are three expressions of John Linley Frazier, 24, suspected slayer of five after his return from arraignment in Santa Cruz County court. Frazier, of Santa Cruz, is charged with five murder counts in the deaths of Dr. Victor Ohta, his wife, Virginia, their two sons, Taggart and Derrick and medical secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Cadwallader.

St. Lawrence Working For Fall Festival

ST. LAWRENCE — Tuesday is work day at the St. Lawrence Catholic Church, and practically every adult in the community will turn out to get nearly everything ready for the 15th annual Fall Festival.

The colorful event, set for one week from today (Nov. 1) normally attracts several thousand people from this area. At the end of the week some work was being done toward building the stands and booths, but the big preparations come Tuesday said Lawrence Just, one of the planning committee claimants. Making of vast amounts of German sausage will come Saturday, and hundreds of pounds of beef will be put on the pits in the Community Hall. All the meat going into these are home raised.

Both the sausage and barbecue will be featured on the menu to be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

In addition there will be the bazaar, including the women's "fancy stand," loaded with home canned goods, needlepoint, etc., plus refreshment concessions, stands operated by the teenagers. A high point also will be the traditional auction at 2:30 p.m. There always is a brisk sale of sausage.

St. Lawrence parishioners have erected a new church, which now is completed and in use in part out of proceeds from the festival.

Festivities will be capped by the dance at 8 p.m. to the music of Leroy Matocha from Fayetteville.

Denton Honors Miss America

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Thousands of Denton citizens showed their pride in Miss America Saturday by filing past to say hello to Phyllis George and by presenting her with a $5,000 piano. A public reception was held in the Community Building with Denton's own Miss America on a throne chair in the famous crown she won—then dropped—at Atlantic City.

When the time the doors opened at 10 a.m., there was a long line of well-wishers to welcome Miss George home.

When County Judge Tom Todd presented the piano, Miss America wept and managed to choke out only a few sentences while her mother smilingly shook a finger at her and admonished her not to cry.

"I know this is going to seem unusual," the usually ebullient Miss George sobbed. "But for once in my life I'm speechless. I just can't thank you enough and I love every one of you dearly."

Money for the piano was raised by public subscription in Denton.

A semi-formal banquet closed the two-day homecoming celebration.

Zeta Tau Alpha, her sorority, provided the hostesses for the affair and Mrs. Pat Hamilton of Denton, a district official of Zeta, presented Miss George with flowers. At the door to greet visitors was Miss Denton, Janice Bain, a student at North Texas State University.

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert George, her parents, as well as officials of the city, Chamber of Commerce and the committees for Phyllis George Appreciation Days. Some stage with Miss America some of the time was her boy friend from North Texas State, Gary Brobst, a speech and drama major from Dallas.

American Party Meeting Monday

Tommy Flournoy, Midland, will be guest speaker Monday at a meeting of the Howard County chapter of the American Party, E. O. McNeese said. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at the First Federal Savings and Loan Building, 500 Main.

McNeese said all interested persons are invited to attend the meeting. "The Armchair Patriot is the worst enemy the country has," he said, challenging all Big Springers to attend Monday's meeting.

Student Teaching

STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (Spl.) — Sharon L. Harrison of Big Spring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Harrison, senior education major at Tarleton State College, has begun student teaching this semester. Miss Harrison has been assigned as a fifth grade teacher at Chamberlain Elementary, Stephenville, for a eight-week period beginning Oct. 26, according to Mary Fletcher student teaching supervisor. She is a member of the Tarleton Rodeo Club and a candidate for a bachelor of science degree December, 1970.

AMENDMENTS EXPLAINED Mixed Alcoholic Beverages Under Local Option Voting

(Second in a series)

Texas voters will be considering seven proposed amendments to the state constitution Nov. 3. Proposed Amendment No. 2 would authorize the legislature to enact a mixed beverage law regulating the sale of mixed alcoholic beverages on a local option basis.

The amendment would repeal that part of Article XVI, Section 20, Subsection (a), of the Texas Constitution, which prohibits the open saloon and which empowers the legislature to define that term and enact legislation against it.

"The proposed amendment substitutes a new provision empowering the legislature to enact a mixed beverage law regulating the sale of mixed alcoholic beverages on a local option basis," according to the Texas Legislative Council. The proposed change leaves unaffected the part of Subsection (a) which gives the legislature the power to "regulate the rate, and fewer traffic accidents, manufacture, sale, possession and transportation of intoxicating liquors, including the power to establish a state monopoly on the sale of distilled liquor."

The arguments for: "1. The proposed amendment is not a wet-and-dry issue because the sale of alcohol has already been sanctioned by a majority of the residents of the state; also, a non-binding referendum during the 1968 primary elections resulted in a 40,000-vote margin for mixed beverage out of a total vote of 1.4 million.

"2. The proposed amendment would not force mixed drinks on any locality since it requires that any mixed-drink law be on a local option election basis.

"3. Adoption of the proposed amendment and passage of subsequent enabling legislation would lead to stricter control of liquor sales to minors, an end to the subterfuge of private arguments against: "1. The proposed amendment would make alcoholic beverages more readily available.

"2. The proposed amendment would lead to an increase in crime and in traffic deaths.

"3. Although enabling legislation for the proposed amendment could be designed to raise needed new revenue through the taxation of mixed beverages, this revenue would be negligible in comparison with resulting problems such as broken homes, juvenile delinquency, drunk-driving, criminal assaults, and other crimes."

Tight Guard Over Suspect

Frazier Pleads Innocent To Mass Murders

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — Armed guards in pairs are posted around the clock at each corner of the building in which a young man is jailed on charges of slaying five persons execution-style.

Sheriff Douglas James and his deputies said they know of no threats against John Linley Frazier, 24, but are taking no chances.

Frazier pleaded innocent Friday in a tightly guarded arraignment on charges of murdering Dr. Victor Ohta, 45, his wife, Virginia, 43, their sons, Derrick, 12, and Taggart, 11, and the eye surgeon's secretary, Dorothy Cadwallader, 38.

Nixon Turns Back Obscenity Report

DUNDALK, Md. (AP) — President Nixon declared Saturday that as long as he is in the White House "there will be no relaxation in the national effort to control and eliminate smut from our national life," and with that he rejected the conclusions of the Commission on Obscenity and Pornography.

The White House issued the Nixon statement as the President campaigned for Republicans in a union hall on the outskirts of Baltimore.

Nixon said the commission, which he noted was appointed under the Democrats, had turned in "morally bankrupt conclusions and major recommendations."

Nixon said the panel had concluded "that the proliferation of filthy books and plays has no lasting harmful effect on a man's character." But the history of civilization and plain common sense, he said, indicate otherwise.

"The commission calls for the repeal of laws controlling smut for adults—while recommending continued restrictions on smut for children," Nixon said. "In an open society this proposal is untenable.

"If the level of filth rises in the adult community, the young people in our society cannot help but also be inundated by the flood."

The commission's report was made public Sept. 30.

Nixon said pornography can corrupt a society and a civilization. "The people's elected representatives have the right and obligation to prevent that corruption," he said.

"The pollution of our culture, the pollution of our civilization with smut and filth is as serious a situation for the American people as the pollution of our once-pure air and water," Nixon said.

"Smut should not be simply contained at its present level; it should be outlawed in every state of the union. And the legislatures and courts at every level of American government should act in unison to achieve that goal."

Webb County health authorities said 150 were kept overnight in the hospital, which put its emergency plan into effect to care for the numbers.

Stricken pupils started fainting or developing nausea about halftime, and they were taken to Mercy. When the game ended, more sick youngsters lay in the stands or in a parking lot.

Officials first said 60 to 70 were affected, but the count rose to around 200 as others waited outside the hospital.

The armed deputies were stationed at the three-story downtown building housing the jail and sheriff's office a few minutes after Frazier was booked there on five counts of first-degree murder.

Deputies admitted only persons "with urgent and necessary business." Flood lights were installed for extra security.

Sheriff Douglas B. James' news conference was held outside to announce details of Frazier's capture at dawn Friday in a former "one-cow milk barn" a half-mile from the Ohtas' $250,000 flagstone mansion on a hilltop overlooking Monterey Bay.

Frazier had lived about two months in the shabby 6-by-6-foot shelter in a gulley strewn with wrecked automobile bodies, an investigator said. He was asleep and offered no resistance when captured by two deputies.

A deputy explained the security measures by saying, "We've never had a prisoner like this before."

For the arraignment, the Santa Cruz courthouse was cleared of visitors, and officers checked credentials and searched newsmen and spectators before admitting them to the heavily guarded building.

Policemen from four neighboring cities strengthened the guard force and Frazier was driven from the jail to court in an enclosed van escorted by police cars.

Frazier, a bearded 5-foot-7 high school dropout, was shoeless and wearing leg irons but no handcuffs when he appeared before Municipal Court Judge Donald O. May.

Asked if he understood his constitutional rights, Frazier told the judge: "Yes."

When asked if his name was John Linley Frazier, he whispered: "Yes." Asked if he is known by any other name, he replied firmly: "No."

Public defender Gary Britton entered an innocent plea. He was appointed to represent Frazier and conferred with him within minutes of when he was booked.

Judge May set a preliminary hearing for 10 a.m. Wednesday, rejecting a motion by Dist. Atty. Peter Chang Jr. for an additional day's delay to allow presentation of the case to the grand jury.

Should the grand jury indict Frazier, it would send the case into Superior Court without the necessity for more preliminary Municipal Court proceedings.

Chang said he believed the killings could have been the work of one person. He told newsmen the murder charges stemmed from information from three of Frazier's hippie-type acquaintances, whom he refused to identify, plus statements by Frazier's estranged wife.

The shanty where Frazier was arrested is separated by a rugged ravine from the luxurious estate where the five victims were bound, blindfolded, shot to death and dumped into the swimming pool.

A typewritten note left under the windshield wiper of the doctor's Rolls Royce was signed with the names of four knights from tarot fortune-telling cards and threatened death to all who "misuse the natural environment."

In an affidavit filed to obtain the warrant Thursday, Mrs. Frazier was quoted as saying he left her Sunday after staying overnight at her house, taking a .38-caliber pistol and knapsack of food, but leaving behind his wallet, driver's license and a book on the tarot method of fortune telling.

The wife also said he took along a pair of binoculars which she said he had stolen from the Ohta home six weeks earlier.

The district attorney said another acquaintance reported Frazier some time ago remarked that people like the Ohtas were too materialistic and "should be snuffed."

Area Stock Places High

Area 4-H and FFA exhibitors from this area shared in honors at the State Fair livestock judging last week.

Eddy Merket, 14, Mitchell County 4-H, had the reserve champion shorthorn steer, Red Man, 925 pounds. This animal also was champion of the 900-950 division. Jeff Merket, also a Mitchell 4-H member, had the champion Hereford in the class from 900-950. In the crossbred group, Elonna Airhart, Martin County 4-H, had the fifth place steer, and Becky Merket, Mitchell County 4-H, had the eighth place steer.

In the crossbred class for 900-950 pounds, Kenny McClure, Mitchell County 4-H, had the third place steer, while in the 850-900 division Shara Airhart, Dawson County 4-H, had the second place steer. Grand champion steer of the show was an Angus, Big D, shown by Brenda Holloway, Taylor County 4-H.

The musical is scheduled for three performances, Nov. 5-7, in Abilene's new Civic Center Theater.

Sick Fans Out Of Hospital

LAREDO, Tex. (AP)—The last of nearly 200 San Antonio high school pupils made ill by food poisoning was discharged from Mercy Hospital Saturday.

The pupils came here for the San Antonio Edgewood and Laredo Martin High School's football game Friday night.

Authorities said the pupils became ill after eating either chicken salad or fried chicken which they brought with them from San Antonio.

Webb County health authorities said 150 were kept overnight in the hospital, which put its emergency plan into effect to care for the numbers.

Stricken pupils started fainting or developing nausea about halftime, and they were taken to Mercy. When the game ended, more sick youngsters lay in the stands or in a parking lot.

Officials first said 60 to 70 were affected, but the count rose to around 200 as others waited outside the hospital.

Voter Interest Perks Up; Nixon Slates Two Talks

BY GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

With a bare 10 days before the polls close Nov. 3, Texas candidates for the Senate and governor think they finally got the attention of the state's voters.

Voter apathy has been a bugaboo of the campaign for one and all, with many predicting the size of the turnout will determine if the Democrats or the Republicans win.

A low turnout is expected to benefit the Republicans. A large turnout would help the Democrats.

One week before the voting, the Republicans are bringing in their big gun—President Richard M. Nixon—to give the GOP candidates a shot in the arm.

Nixon will fly to the Gregg County Airport in East Texas Wednesday for an airport rally. Then Nixon flies to Dallas for a rally at Market Hall. He plans a 30-minute speech, leaving immediately thereafter for Illinois on his whirlwind campaign tour.

Nixon's trip comes on the heels of a similar—but longer—campaign swing through Texas by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

BIGGER VOTE

All four top candidates predicted to The Associated Press the past week that the voter turnout will be larger than the 1.64 million who voted in the May 2 primaries—less than half of the 4.1 million eligible.

All four agree that the race may be decided in Houston and Dallas.

The Texas Election Bureau has forecast "about 2 million" votes.

"The estimate of the total vote is up to 2.5 million," said Gov. Preston Smith, 58, who is seeking his second two-year term.

"I believe we will have a good turnout everywhere unless the trend changes."

"It will be about 1.8 million and we'll get 53 per cent of the vote," said Paul Eggers, 51, Republican challenger Smith for the second time. Eggers lost by 407,000 in 1968.

OVER 2 MILLION

"I expect more than 2 million," said Lloyd Bentsen, 49,

Houston executive, former Valley congressman and Democratic party pal of former President Lyndon Johnson and former Gov. John Connally. "With only 1.6 million votes I would be on real thin ice but from there we move up."

Bentsen scored a surprise upset over Sen. Ralph Yarborough, 67, D-Tex., in the May 2 primary, with a margin of 92,590 votes.

"It's impossible to predict accurately the turnout," said Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., wealthy Houston oil man who lost to Yarborough in 1964 by 330,000 votes. "But whether the vote is large or small, I'll win."

Bush added that he expected the general election turnout to be larger than the primaries.

Here's the way the four candidates predicted to the AP their chances in the key areas of the state:

ESTIMATES

Smith: Dallas County—"Close, we're not in good shape there."

Harris County—"Better shape than ever. It looks good." Jefferson, Galveston and Bexar counties—"Good."

Tarrant County—"Marginal. We've done a lot of work there." Travis and El Paso counties—"Both real good." The Panhandle—"On the fence." The Valley—"Pretty good." East Texas—"We're big, strong and it looks the best ever." West Texas—"Of course we're in good shape."

Eggers: Dallas—"We've got a 3-1 lead." Harris—"We're ahead." Jefferson and Galveston—"We'll win Jefferson and Orange." San Antonio—"Five per cent one way or the other." Tarrant—"We'll be ahead." El Paso—"We've got a 2-1 lead." Panhandle—"Doing great." Valley—"No prediction." East Texas—"My weakest point." West Texas—"Favorable to Smith."

AND MORE

Bentsen: Dallas and Harris—"Very close." Jefferson and Galveston—"We're going to carry them." San Antonio—"We'll carry." Tarrant—"We'll carry." Travis—"Close." El Paso—"Carry." Panhandle—"We'll carry." Amarillo. It will be close." Valley—"We'll carry." East Texas—"We'll carry."

Bush: Dallas—"Carry big." Harris—"Carry big." Jefferson, Galveston and Bexar—"Close." Tarrant—"We'll carry." Travis—"Nip and tuck." Panhandle—"We're strong." Valley—"Close." East Texas—"We'll do better than the other side thinks." West Texas—"Strong."

Big Narcotics Roundup Nets 75 In Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—What officers called the largest roundup in history of Dallas narcotics dealers went on Saturday, with authorities aiming at picking up at least 75 persons.

About half that number was in jail after raids Friday night and during the day Saturday.

William Frazier, head of the police vice control division, called it the biggest ever in Dallas.

The raids were carried out initially by teams of three. Officers said most defendants were charged with sales of heroin, marijuana and other drugs over the past six months to undercover agents.

The raiders in addition to police were officers from the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, Texas Department of Public Safety, Dallas County Sheriff's Office and the Garland police.

Justice of the Peace W. E. Richburg set bonds ranging from $7,000 to $20,000.

Lutherans Alter Tradition

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Breaking with age-old tradition, the American Lutheran Church decided Saturday to admit children to the Lord's Supper before they are confirmed and to allow women to be ordained as ministers.

Both steps, taken at the 2.5-million-members' biennial convention, depart from practices going back to before the 16th Century Protestant reformation.

The changes also are part of a spreading pattern in several Protestant denominations — and in regard to communion for unconfirmed children mark a shift toward Roman Catholic custom.

It "represents a tremendous change" in church practice, said a report approved by the delegates.

Railroad Is Running Again

NEW YORK (AP) — The Long Island Railroad said it was running its normal light Saturday service today after a surprise strike that stranded 170,000 commuters Friday morning.

Some of the commuters stayed home for the day. Those who made it to work jammed the subways and clogged expressways with cars.

The evening rush hour was slightly easier, with 47 trains — about half the usual number — in service after the railroad obtained a back-to-work order in court.

Members of AFL-CIO locals of the electricians', machinists' and boiler-maker-blacksmiths' unions walked off the job at 4 a.m. Friday in what they called a legal strike after 13 months of negotiations over fringe benefits. The railroad called it a wildcat strike.

U.S. Officers Held By The Russians

MOSCOW (AP) — Two American Army generals, including the top-ranking officer of U.S. forces in Turkey, remained in Russian hands Saturday as the American Embassy made its third unsuccessful attempt to obtain information about them or win their release.

The generals, with a Turkish escort officer and the pilot of their small plane, have been held since Wednesday when their plane apparently strayed across the mountainous frontier in bad weather.

U.S. diplomats have not been permitted to meet them and have not been told where they are being held.

The plane — an unarmed, two-engine Army utility craft — landed safely at Leninakan, just a few miles inside the Soviet border.

The Russians charged the plane had "violated Soviet airspace," but they have given no hint whether the men are under arrest, or merely being held pending investigation.

Being held are Maj. Gen. Edward C. Scherrer, 57, chief of the U.S. military mission in Turkey; Brig. Gen. Claude M. McQuarrie Jr., 46, head of the mission's Army section; Maj. James P. Russell, 42, the pilot, and Col. Cevat Denizli, the Turkish escort officer.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the third approach to the Soviet Foreign Ministry was made Saturday to "express once again the hope for early release of the plane and passengers."

Similar approaches had been made Thursday, the first day the Russians acknowledged that the plane was on Soviet territory, and on Friday.

The official response to the U.S. inquiries has been that the incident is "under investigation."

The U.S.-Soviet consular treaty provides for access to U.S. citizens being held here within four days of their detention. This time limit expires Sunday, but the embassy spokesman indicated no effort is being made to hold the Russians to a strict deadline.

S. Vietnamese Capture Viet Cong Headquarters

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese militiamen claimed Saturday night to have captured a Viet Cong provincial headquarters about 50 miles south of Da Nang.

Thirty-two Viet Cong troops were killed and several enemy documents were captured, officers in the field said, and there were no South Vietnamese casualties.

The reported capture came a few hours before Typhoon Kate stormed toward the northern coast of South Vietnam and interrupted a massive anti-Viet Cong sweep aimed at securing the region and allowing a more rapid withdrawal of American troops.

Before the storm's headwinds struck, U.S. authorities ordered the evacuation of a military hospital and some planes in Da Nang as precautionary measures.

South Vietnamese officers said the suspected Viet Cong headquarters was located 20 miles southwest of Tam Ky, the capital of Quang Tin Province. Tam Ky is 35 miles southwest of Da Nang.

The enemy compound consisted of seven houses and a bunker in a jungled mountainous area, government officers said.

But the fact that they reported no South Vietnamese casualties and said they captured only six enemy weapons raised doubts about the accuracy of the claims.

The operation, code-named Hiep Dong 3, was launched a week ago by 6,000 government militiamen in an effort to expand and consolidate government control in event of a cease-fire.

U.S. B52 jets continued to bomb North Vietnamese supply routes along the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos and enemy supply and communication lines in Cambodia.

Buys Freight Cars, Locomotives

ST. LOUIS — The Missouri Pacific System has placed orders for 500 new freight cars and 25 diesel locomotives at a cost of more than $16,000,000, Downing B. Jenks, president, announced today.

Freight car orders include 400 box cars, 50 1/2 feet in length with 70-ton capacity, to be built by the Amcar Division, ACF Industries, at St. Louis, and 100 covered hopper cars of 100-ton capacity, also to be built by Amcar at its Huntington, W. Va., plant.

Government To Take Up Survey On Dated Foods

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has agreed reluctantly to study what happens when food on grocery shelves is dated for freshness, the head of a House consumer panel said Saturday.

Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., who has been urging such a study for months, said the Agriculture Department will begin early next month to monitor a food-dating program being started voluntarily by the big Jewel supermarket chain in Chicago.

Rosenthal said through his office that Jewel plans to stamp dates on such perishable items as meat, poultry, dairy products and baked goods to show when they are old.

Rosenthal said the study would give Congress information to decide whether to require such dating by law. The government has never undertaken such a study, he said.

Agriculture marketing specialists will be looking to see how much attention shoppers actually pay to the dates, how they like the idea, how much over-age food is wasted, what condition it is in when pulled from shelves and how much it costs to run a food-dating program.

Some state and local governments require by law that certain food products such as milk carry freshness dates, but there is no such federal requirement. The Jewel program apparently will cover a far wider range of foods than any other.

Present plans do not call for dating canned goods, however, and Rosenthal has said such dates may be needed. Many food processors now put such dates on their products, but they are in code and usually cannot be read by shoppers.

Cotton Classing Rate Is Retarded

Sample receipts were down as wet fields prevented any harvesting activity for most of the week, said B. B. Manley Jr., in charge of the U.S.D.A. cotton classing office in Abilene. He reported 6,700 samples classed for the week ending Oct. 23, compared to 7,629 for the same period last season. The season's total is now 16,500 samples classed compared to 19,000 for the period a year ago.

Twenty-nine per cent of the samples classed were in the white category and 68 per cent were light spotted. The predominant grade was 32 at 39 per cent.

Predominant staple lengths were 29 (29 per cent) and 30 (46 per cent). Micronaire readings showed 76 per cent in the premium range.

Report Outlines Sewage Clean-Up

City Manager Larry Crow recently filed an interim report with the Texas Water Quality Board updating the city's plans to improve the effectiveness of the sewage treatment plant.

The report presents the findings of the consulting engineers Freese, Nichols and Endress who have been trying to track down the source of the BOD problem.

The Water Quality Board informed city officials in May that the biochemical oxygen demand (BOD) of the treated sewage flowing into Beale's Creek was greater than the allowed level and gave the city until June 20 to file a plan for complying with the standards.

The city commission voted on June 9 to retain Freese, Nichols and Endress to make a study and propose further improvements over those that were included in the June 19 report.

The updated report explains that a survey of wastes entering the system has been made to try to find the sources of the toxic metals and greases that are believed responsible for failure of the system to eliminate the BOD.

The toxic metals were apparently coming from large, water-cooled air conditioning systems, and the owners of the systems have been contacted and asked for cooperation in using non-toxic cleansers in their systems.

The source of the grease has not been pinpointed, and the report concludes that the grease problem probably was due to an accumulation of grease in the tanks at the plant over a period of time.

Possible measures to correct the grease problem include cleaning out the tanks and installation of a pilot flotation unit to see whether a flotation process could feasibly remove the grease.

The report also mentions the plan to recondition the old Hays portion of the treatment plant, which should soon be in operation.

A crack has been patched in the floor of the intermediate settling tank, and when some of the rake and chain belts are replaced the plant can be used to treat a greater portion of the incoming sewage and reduce the load on the new plant. This will increase the retention time — the time the bacteria have to act on the organic wastes and should help out with the BOD problem.

West Texan Asks Forced Oil Units

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Compulsory Utilization of oil and gas leases is needed to make sure Texas recovers all its natural resources, a legislative interim committee was told Friday.

A. V. Jones of Albany said the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association has drafted a bill to be introduced in the next legislature to do just that.

He was one of the witnesses Friday at a meeting of the House Oil, Gas and Mining Interim Study Committee which is investigating the need for compulsory utilization.

Utilization legislation provides for consolidation of small oil field leases into a single unit to increase the efficiency of production and reduce the amount of equipment needed to produce oil and gas.

Ross Perot Firm Named In Suit

DALLAS (AP) — Ross Perot's Electronic Data Systems Corp. (EDS) was sued for $24 million this week on accusations of trying to prevent two Dallas firms from manufacturing and selling a computer.

Because of alleged violations of federal antitrust laws, the damages were trebled to $24,684,000.

Counter plaintiffs were the Dallas firms of Sigma Systems Corp. (SSC) and Applied Science, Inc., and executives Calvin L. Habern and Richard E. Morgan, SSC chief executive and vice president, respectively.

'Pills' Banned After Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two leading brands of oral contraceptives are being discontinued because some dogs given high doses developed benign breast tumors.

The Food and Drug Administration said, however, there is no evidence linking the two brands to human breast disorders and "no cause for patient alarm."

Eli Lilly & Co. discontinued C-Queens and Upjohn Co. withdrew Provest after beagles given up to 25 times the human doses of component chemicals developed breast nodules at an earlier age and in larger numbers than control dogs not given the drugs. The nodules were not cancerous.

"The findings in beagles cannot be directly related to human experience," said Charles C. Edwards, commissioner of the FDA. "Nonetheless, it is prudent to act on information which differentiates these drugs from other oral contraceptives."

The two products account for between 15 and 20 per cent of the birth-control pill market, industry sources said.

Other brands do not contain the chemicals linked to the breast tumors, the FDA said.

"The two contraceptives offer no advantages over other available drugs which would justify a possible additional risk," Edwards said.

Patients were advised to continue taking the two brands until told otherwise by their physicians. The companies told doctors to switch women to different oral contraceptive brands or other forms of birth control.

Both companies maintained their products have been proven safe and effective.

"Nevertheless, the company is following a course of extra caution in discontinuing C-Queens," said Lilly.

Upjohn referred to "an increased risk, however small and unproven."

Beagles are especially prone to developing breast nodules, the FDA said. Other animals exposed to the suspect chemicals did not develop the tumors.

State To Act On Voter Aid Ruling

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A three-judge federal court cleared the way Friday for the state to instruct election officials on whether to help illiterate voters. The state's next move was uncertain.

Texas elections director Randall Wood said he would have to consult Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. before deciding on action.

The court ruled unconstitutional last week two articles of the Texas Election Code that prohibit assistance to illiterates in marking their ballots.

However, the court denied a request for an injunction against enforcement of the illiteracy articles in the Nov. 3 election. The judges said there was not enough time to implement the changes correctly.

After the ruling, Dies informed the plaintiffs that his office still has time to instruct all election officials in the state before the November election.

Dies said, however, that the court ruling did not make clear whether his office could instruct the officials on the upcoming election, or whether it must wait until after the legislature acts.

In its ruling for clarification Friday, the court said it has "no desire to interfere with (Dies) in the exercise of his sound judgment and discretion . . . in determining whether or not the Texas election laws can be properly and fairly administered" in light of its ruling.

Wood said, "It's pretty obvious we're not prohibited from issuing instructions" on the illiteracy provisions.

Many election officials have called asking whether they should help illiterate voters Nov. 3.

Pat Bailey of the Texas attorney general's office argued before the court that serious problems could arise if Dies' office was allowed to instruct election officials to aid illiterate voters in the November balloting.

Bailey also brought up a possibility that the ruling on the illiteracy provisions could be appealed to a higher court.

The Mexican-American Legal Defense Fund, which filed the original suit and request for clarification, says about 700,000 illiterates live in Texas. But the fund's lawyers and Wood said they had no statistics on how many illiterates have registered to vote.

Exploration Stockholders Hear Reports

Officers and directors of Big Spring Exploration Co. have been re-elected, and reports from management are the most optimistic in many years.

Production income, which a few years ago was virtually non-existent, amounted to $133,000 during the past fiscal year, stockholders were told at their annual meeting here last week. The company now has production interests ranging from 1-32nd to 1-8th in 32 oil and gas producers.

Only two leases and one royalty interest are in West Texas holdings, and the balance is in Wyoming where Roden Drilling, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Big Spring Exploration, is engaged in development.

Activities were slowed part of the year, but with the Mid-East crisis shaping in the summer, domestic development stepped up, Ted O. Groehl, executive vice president of the company, told the stockholders. He was optimistic about the outlook for continued progress.

Members of the board named by stockholders were Groehl, Dr. P. W. Malone, Roy B. Reeder, Dr. M. W. Talbot, Ralph McLaughlin, Marvin Saunders, Dr. Jack Margolis, Dr. J. M. Woodall and Guilford Jones of Big Spring, H. R. Cope, Lamesa, and John B. Roden, Casper, Wyo. Officers named were Dr. Malone, chairman of the board; John Roden, president; Ted Groehl, executive vice-president; Roy Reeder, secretary; Ralph McLaughlin, assistant secretary; and Dr. M. W. Talbot, treasurer.

Brussels--Europe's Capital?

New Cosmopolitanism Is Evident Everywhere

(Editor's Note: Fred Dubose Jr. is a native of Carlsone and graduate of the University of Texas new doing graduate work at the University of Missouri. He is one of nine students taking part in a graduate reporting program in Brussels. This article is one of a series dealing with the Common Market and NATO.)

By FRED DUBOSE JR.

BRUSSELS — Brussels, once known primarily for its lace and provincial drabness, is engaged in the monumental work of transforming itself into Europe's capital city.

The transformation is not easy — for behind the building and population boom stands an irony: The city which promises to become capital of a unified Western Europe seems unable to unify itself.

The heightened clash of the Flemish and French cultures of Belgium, coupled with an influx of foreign white-collar workers and international businessmen, has resulted in a heavily polarized city which appears to belong to no one.

TWO GROUPS

Brussels' new cosmopolitanism, brought on by the establishment of Common Market and NATO headquarters here, has taken its place alongside an already long and unhappy division: that of the two national groups of Belgium — the Dutch-speaking Flemings in the North and the French-speaking Walloons in the South. Both groups are determined to claim what each feels is a "rightful share" of Belgium's capital.

Historically, Brussels is a Flemish city (as is readily apparent from what remains of the older architecture). But today, 75 per cent of its native citizens are French-speaking, and French has installed itself as the language of government, business, and cultural life.

This is anathema to the Flemings, who, in Belgium as a whole, number 6,000,000 to the French Walloons' 3,000,000.

LANGUAGE

Breakthroughs were made with the language laws of 1932 and 1963, which declared French and Dutch "equal" in Brussels. Great care was taken to see that, on paper at least, one language did not dominate the other. (Every street in Brussels, for example, has two names — one in French, one in Dutch. Even the telephone book is published in both languages.)

Despite this, French continues to thrive as the tongue of Brussels, partly because a large portion of the upper and middle classes — who exercise strong social and economic pressures — is French speaking; and partly because city authorities have ignored legal obligations to give equal opportunity to Dutch-language officials.

The result is that the Flemings cannot consider an overwhelmingly French-speaking city as their true capital — and the French-speaking population feel threatened by the persistent attempts of the Flemings to right the balance.

NEW INFLEX

Into this divided city in the last decade have come armies of foreign civil servants, diplomats, and trade associations, lured by a major event in European history — the establishment of the European Economic Community, or Common Market, with headquarters in Brussels.

It was then, when Western Europe began moving toward unity, that Brussels came to be called "capital."

A whole new contingent of foreigners arrived in 1967, when NATO was moved from France to Brussels. The same year, Supreme Headquarters for Allied Powers in Europe (SHAPE) moved to Mons, an hour's drive from Brussels.

U.S. BUSINESSES

And in the last decade, American business firms have found Brussels the most attractive of European cities for establishing overseas headquarters. Belgium's favorable tax system has led U.S. companies to invest $800 million in the country during the last ten years, along with the creation of some 28,000 new jobs. (Among U.S. companies with headquarters here are ITT, Texaco, Monsanto, General Foods, Procter and Gamble, and Phillips Petroleum.)

The result of this influx of foreigners has been the creation of a quite new and separate Brussels society — one whose roots and loyalties lie in other countries, and which finds it difficult to integrate in a city known as traditionally clannish. Even though these expatriates live in the city year-round, they have no hand in city affairs; they are not eligible to vote in local elections.

Brussels' upheaval is not only social, but physical, as well: The city is changing its old face for a glass-and-steel one — a phenomenon still rare in Europe.

CHANGING FACE

In the midst of the biggest construction boom of any city on the Continent, Brussels is becoming a city of skyscrapers and high-rise apartments.

Nineteenth-century palaces and opera houses — numerous and magnificent — have become oddly out of place. Soot-covered and crowded by newer buildings, they begin to look obsolete. Most typical is the famous Grand-Place, a square of ornate Flemish guild houses, which has lost some of its grandeur because its cobblestone courtyard is now used as a parking lot. And many of its stone buildings, topped by gold-leaf turrets and statues, are topped further still by aluminum television aerials.

NEW POWERS

Amid the building and flux, Belgium is now trying to adapt its Constitution to the reality of two national communities, by giving each of them far-reaching autonomous powers. Up to now, this effort has been foiled by Brussels, the intractable third element in national politics.

Understandably, the growing international community here feels that as long as this city cannot become the true capital of all the Belgians, it cannot become the capital of Europe.

'Blacklist' Issue Under Court Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has accused a congressman of taking "the black-list route" in printing a list of radical campus speakers to disclose their sources of income.

The charge was made at a hearing Friday, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Gerhard Gesell scheduled a final ruling next week on whether to bar public distribution of the list permanently.

Government lawyers argue the list, produced by Rep. Richard H. Ichord, chairman of the House Internal Security Committee, shows how revolutionary and Communist-leaning groups obtain much of their financial backing.

Gesell said Ichord, D-Mo., should have done more than produce a list of radical speakers.

"But when he reached that point he didn't pursue it," Gesell said. "He printed a list of names. He took the blacklist route."

Instead of finding out if speaking fees were used to finance revolutionary activities, Ichord had the list printed and distributed "to college presidents, alumni members and their families," the judge said.

Kevin T. Maroney, a Justice Department lawyer representing Ichord's committee, said Gesell has no authority to stop publication of the names, which have appeared in the Congressional Record.

It's all part of the legislative process, he argued.

Maroney claimed a report in which the list was included was correct in concluding: "The campus speaking circuit is certainly the source of significant financing for promoters of disorderly and revolutionary activity among students."

U. S. 87 Work Is Described

Improvements costing in the millions of dollars have been made on U.S. 87 from the northern New Mexico border to Port Lavaca, delegates to the 13th annual meeting of the U.S. 87 Improvement Association were told Friday at San Angelo. Sizable chunks of this was in improvement of the route with divided four-lane highway and in grade separations, while other major projects were in widening existing roadway and structures, also rebuilding sections of the route.

Some of the work is in advanced design, such as one stretch on the section between Lubbock and Amarillo, which is slated to become part of the interstate system.

EVENLY SPREAD
Steady improvement of the key north-south route is evenly spread from one end to the other, according to reports from Rex Reeves, vice president of the New Mexico division; Bruce Kattman, Lubbock, vice president of the Northern (Texas) division; Gordon Kenley, San Angelo, Central division; and F. M. Davis, San Antonio, Southern division.

The association went on record asking the Texas Highway Commission to consider designation of the 87 route from Lubbock to San Antonio if and when the interstate system is further extended. Objectives of the association are to continue efforts toward upgrading, as well as to promote traffic on the route.

Another resolution also strongly urged Texas members of Congress to work toward a federal highway law which will keep inviolate the federal highway trust fund, freed from administrative power to withhold funds or to divert them to other uses. Davis told the group that presently $180 million in federal road funds due Texas are being withheld.

ELECT OFFICERS
R. A. (Skeet) Noret, Lamesa, who presided as vice president, was elected president of the association, which will meet next April or May in Lamesa. Other officers named were Jim Francis, San Antonio, president-elect; Reeves, Kattman, Kenley and Horace Kerr, San Antonio, vice presidents; also Bart Burnett, Lamesa, treasurer. Charles Tompkins is the Howard County director.

George Jordan, Brownwood, former tourist development director for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, was the luncheon speaker, and told delegates that the prime reason for highway promotion is "to make cash registers ring" by reason of service to the public.

LOT TO OFFER
"Texas now is building roads to get the traveller down the road," he said, "and Texas has a lot to offer and so do you, but your town has to sell its product. Are you getting your share of the $40 billion a year tourist industry?"

He called for exploitation of natural and man-made attractions along highways to stop traffic, the promotion of special events, advertising of roads, giving the travelling public good, smiling, enthusiastic service.

Representing Big Spring were Garner McAdams, Tom Eastland and Joe Pickle.

DR. GEORGE A. YOUNGMAN
... now a radiologist

Now His Pictures Help Save Lives

By STEPHEN R. VORHIS

As a youngster he was an avid camera enthusiast. He spent many hours in a darkroom, developing his pictures.

He still develops pictures — but today his pictures help save lives.

Dr. George A. Youngman, recently accepted the position of chief of radiology at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Youngman doesn't spend much time in the darkroom any more, thanks to modern automatic processing equipment. Instead, he works with X-ray films, telling doctors and surgeons what they show.

Youngman has worked in five other veterans hospitals, most recently in Syracuse, N.Y., as chief of staff. After four years on the administration side of the hospital Youngman said he wanted to return to clinical medicine.

"Being chief of staff was a rewarding job, and although the move to the hospital here is a demotion on paper it's actually a promotion for me.

"I wanted to get out of the administration side of things and practice medicine again. Also, I was tired of the bad weather and studded snow tires. I checked the vacancy lists for smaller hospitals in the Southwest and finally found a vacancy in Big Spring.

"Although I'm from the Midwest, I really enjoy life in this climate. Life in a smaller city suits me fine too — I'm only five minutes from work, and there are never any traffic jams."

Youngman was born in St. Louis and received his A.B. degree from Ohio Northern University and his M.D. degree from Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Pa.

He returned to St. Louis to do his internship at St. Louis City Hospital in 1941. During World War II he served as a captain in the Army.

"My father had a heart attack near the end of the war, so I returned to St. Louis to take over his practice as a general practitioner. I joined the staff of the VA hospital in Dallas in 1955. In the beginning it was supposed to be for a short time, as I gained experience in radiology."

The short time still hasn't ended, and Youngman said he feels that he'll continue with VA hospitals. "Veterans hospitals have the finest staff and best equipment around. Sure, I've had a chance or two to leave, but nobody has ever offered as much as I have right here."

Youngman and his wife, Martha, and three of their children live at 2713 Rebecca. Their oldest son stayed in New York to attend college.

Tigers Shock Auburn, 17-9

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — A fumble, a pass interference penalty and a tough defense gave Louisiana State two touchdowns and a startling 17-9 upset victory Saturday over Auburn's previously unbeaten football team.

Rain which fell during most of the game kept Auburn's passing sensation Pat Sullivan off target on the key plays and the Tigers for the first time this year were held without a touchdown.

Auburn had to settle for three field goals by Gardner Jett. The sixth-ranked Tigers had a chance to tie the score with less than four minutes left but LSU held on downs and took the ball on the one.

The Bayou Bengals scored on an 11-yard pass from Buddy Lee to Andy Hamilton in the first quarter after Auburn fullback Wallace Clark fumbled on the Tiger eight.

LSU tailback Arthur Cantrelle drove into the end zone from the one after a pass interference penalty against Auburn gave the visiting Bengals a first down one yard short of the goal.

LSU added two points on one of the strangest conversion plays witnessed this season. Mark Lumpkin came onto the field to kick the extra point but the pass from center was bad. Lumpkin grabbed the ball and threw a pass. Auburn defenders batted it into the air and Paul Lyon, who was to have held for Lumpkin's kick, got under the ball and took it in for the two-point play.

With 76 seconds to play, Bill Latourette crashed through to block a Keithley punt, with Jerry Naccarato grabbing the ball and getting credit for a 39 yard punt return for a touchdown. Texas came right back with a four play, 51 yard drive, however, with Donnie Wigginton scoring from the four with 11 seconds remaining in the game.

OREGON TRIPS TROJANS, 10-7
EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Tailback Bobby Moore smashed over from the one-yard line early in the fourth quarter as a persistent University of Oregon football team came from behind and upset nationally ranked Southern California, 10-7, Saturday in a crucial Pacific-8 game.

A partisan crowd of 34,000 watched Moore score a go-ahead touchdown that was set up by a 50-yard pass from quarterback Dan Fouts to flanker Bob Newland at the USC 7.

Moore, besides scoring the winning touchdown, gained 168 yards, in 38 carries. A fired-up Oregon defense winning touchdown, gained 168 then stopped a USC drive with safety man Dave Pieper intercepting a pass from USC quarterback Jimmy Jones at the Oregon 1.

The victory kept Oregon alive in the Rose Bowl race with a 4-1 conference record. Southern California was all but eliminated and now has a 2-2 mark.

Phillips Leads Horns Over Rice 45 To 21

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Quarterback Eddie Phillips scored three touchdowns on option plays as the second ranked Texas Longhorns overcame a stubborn Rice defense with power plays to defeat the Owls 45-21 in Southwest Conference football for their 25th consecutive victory.

After taking a 3-0 lead on a 33-yard field goal the first time the Longhorns had the ball, Texas was stunned by a 91-yard kickoff return by Rice's Macon Hughes.

Texas then fumbled three times in Rice territory before the Longhorns settled down and took advantage of a fumble, a short punt and a bad pass from center to set up touchdowns runs of 5, 7 and 10 yards for Phillips, a 190-lb senior who uses passes only sparingly.

The Steers then cut loose with a 62-yard surge when Big Steve Worster ended with a one yard plunge for his 28th career touchdown. This left him in a tie with Chris Gilbert, all America of 1966, as the score leader with the most touchdowns scored rushing.

Seconds after Worster's touchdown, Rice's Mike Tyler intercepted a pass thrown by sophomore Gary Keithley and returned 26 yards to the Longhorn 16. Two plays later Phillip Wood passed 12 yards to Bob Brown for Rice's second touchdown.

The ball controlling Steers then consumed 8 minutes and 8 seconds in driving 87 yards in 17 plays with Paul Robichou scoring from the seven.

With 76 seconds to play, Bill Latourette crashed through to block a Keithley punt, with Jerry Naccarato grabbing the ball and getting credit for a 39 yard punt return for a touchdown.

Texas came right back with a four play, 51 yard drive, however, with Donnie Wigginton scoring from the four with 11 seconds remaining in the game.

BAMA GOES FOR FIRST — Alabama tailback Johnny Musso (22) flies into the University of Houston line to pick up a first down in the first period of their game in the AstroDome Saturday. Making the tackle is Houston end Frank Tanner. Alabama stopped the Cougars 30-21.

Crimson Tide Stuns Cougars In Upset

HOUSTON (AP) — Steve Higginbotham, a 166-pound defensive back, intercepted a pass and ran 80 yards for the clinching touchdown with less than two minutes to play Saturday as the Alabama Crimson Tide took a 30-21 AstroDome thriller from the University of Houston.

In a game in which the lead changed four times, Higginbotham's theft of quarterback Moon Hollins' pass came as Houston had moved 53 yards to the Tide's 35 in an effort to overcome a 23-21 lead Alabama had taken on Richard Ciemny's third field goal of the day, this time a 40-yarder with less than 7 minutes left to play.

Alabama moved to a 17-7 lead on a 28-yard field goal by Ciemny, an 18-yard pass from Johnny Musso to David Bailey, and a 36-yard touchdown run by David Brungard.

Houston struck back, however, with drives of 50 and 64 yards to take a 21-7 lead on a three-yard pass from Hollins to Elmo Wright and a one-yard run by Tommy Mozisek.

The Tide moved quickly in the fourth quarter to move in front to stay, driving 40 yards to set up Ciemny's final three-pointer.

Ciemny had used a 28-yarder for Alabama to take a 3-0 first period lead only to see Wright take a 13-yard pass from Mullins for a 7-3 Houston advantage before Bama cut loose for its seemingly commanding 10-point lead.

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Undeclared Air Force twice fought from behind to defeat Boston College, 35-10, Saturday for the cadets' seventh football victory with safety Jimmy Smith racing 90 yards with an intercepted pass for a touchdown.

For most of three periods, the invading Eagles were all that seventh-ranked Air Force could handle.

The cadets held a narrow 14-10 margin into the final minutes of the third period when Ernie Jennings made the second of his three pass catches for touchdowns.

Michigan Tops Gophers, 39-13

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Fullback Fritz Seyferth powered his way to four touchdowns and tailback Billy Taylor rushed for more than 150 yards as fifth-ranked Michigan rolled to a 39-13 Big Ten Homecoming football victory over Minnesota Saturday.

The triumph was the sixth consecutive for the Wolverines this season and 11th straight in regular season competition dating back to a 35-9 triumph over the Gophers last season.

Taylor scored the first TD of the game midway through the first quarter as he sprinted off right tackle for a 17-yard run.

Seyferth's first touchdown came on a three-yard run on the first play of the second quarter, seven plays after teammate Phil Seymour recovered Gopher quarterback Craig Curry's fumble on the Minnesota 35.

Sophomore tight end Doug Kingsriter's 16-yard touchdown catch from Curry put the Gophers back in the game, but with Seyferth's four-yard score with 36 seconds left in the first half Michigan started to pull away.

Baylor Nips Texas A&M

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor exploded for two touchdowns in the last 10 seconds of the first half, one a dazzling 52-yard interception return by Ed Marsh as the gun sounded, to stun the favored Texas Aggies 29-24 Saturday night in the first Southwest Conference football victory for Bear coach Bill Beall.

The Aggies were leading 12-10 with slightly more than a minute to play in the first half when A&M tight end Homer May fumbled after a 54-yard pass reception at the Bear six. Mike Beane recovered.

Baylor then zipped the length of the field with the payoff coming with 10 seconds to play on a 21-yard scoring pass from quarterback Si Southall to Rollin Hunter, who made his first reception of the season.

The Bears kicked off. On the last play of the half, A&M substitute quarterback Joe Mac King was bumped as he attempted to pass and Marsh snatched the floater and sailed to the end zone untouched by the Aggies as the homecoming crowd of 41,000 screamed in delight.

A 74-yard punt return by Don Huggins set up the clinching Baylor touchdown in the third period on an eight-yard scoring jaunt by Matthew Williams. Williams scored on a two-yard run in the second period.

Baylor is now 2-5 for the season and 1-1 in SWC play. A&M is 2-5 and 0-3.

Baylor's other points came on a 21-yard field goal by Mike Conrad. The Aggies tallied on an 11-yard pass from quarterback Lex James to John Gardner, a three-yard pass from King to May, a four-yard run by Steve Burks and a one-yard run deep in the fourth period by Brad Dusek.

Hogs Crush Shockers

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The ninth ranked Arkansas Razorbacks broke two long scoring plays on Wichita State in the opening minutes and crushed the tragic stricken Shockers Saturday night 62-0.

The game was the first for Wichita State since an October 2nd airplane crash that killed 30 persons, including 13 players and head coach Ben Wilson.

Wichita State, with special permission from the NCAA, used numerous freshmen, including seven from the starting lineup.

Bill Montgomery's 55-yard touchdown pass to Jim Hodge on Arkansas' third offensive play and John Richardson's 66-yard punt return minutes later gave Arkansas a 14-0 lead with 11:54 left in the first period.

Bill McClard's 53-yard field goal pushed the score to 17-0 and Coach Frank Broyles pulled his first unit midway through the first quarter.

Second-string quarterback Joe Ferguson guided the Razorbacks to three touchdowns before retiring in the third period. He hooked up with Mike Reppond on a 34-yard scoring pass and floated a 46-yard TD toss to Gus Rusher.

Arkansas' other touchdown came on a one-yard run by Mike Sain; a 24-yard pass interception return by David Hogue; an eight-yard run by tailback Peyton Speck which was set up by a 50-yard run by Steve Jones; a 18; a seven-yard keeper by the third string quarterback Walter Ellison.

K. STATE EDGES SOONERS
NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Quarterback Lynn Dickey led Kansas State to two touchdowns in the final four minutes Saturday for a 19-14 Big Eight Conference victory over Oklahoma.

Dickey's passing—he completed 27 of 47 for 384 yards and two touchdowns—brought the Wildcats from behind when it looked as if Oklahoma had successfully avenged last year's 59-21 loss to Kansas State.

QB DAVE DUNCAN GOES IN FOR ONLY TOUCHDOWN AGAINST MIDLAND LEE
John Weeks (22) throws a big block to help clear the way

Beleaguered Bovines Edge Rebels, 7 To 3

By TOMMY HART

Midland Lee battled Big Spring to a standstill here Friday night but dropped a 7-3 District 5-AAAAA verdict before a stunned crowd of 4,000.

GAME AT A GLANCE
First Downs	12
Yards Rushing	82
Yards Passing	57
Passes Completed	7 of 17
Passes Interceded	3
Punts, Avg.	5 for 31
Fumbles, Yds.	2 for 42
Fumbles Lost	2

So ferocious was the Lee charge, the Longhorns and their limp fans were unable to exhale until five minutes beyond the final whistle. The Rebels were so pugnacious on defense, they could have been arrested for assault and battery.

Jim Acree's club put its three points on the board before the last customer had time to settle in his seat. The Rebels shook loose Worthy Warnack on the opening kickoff and he raced 72 yards down to Big Spring five.

A five-yard infraction set the visitors back at that point and Lee was unable to make up the deficit. On fourth down, Kenny Hunnicutt booted a 20-yard field goal. Only 1:56 had elapsed in the game but already the pattern of play was shaping up.

Big Spring got good field position several times during the first two periods of warfare but each time the Longhorns tried to deliver the haymaker Lee would respond with a comeback that would send the Steers reeling into the ropes.

It certainly wasn't Big Spring's best game but the Steers had no reason to feel embarrassed. The youthful Rebs, very much like Lee teams which have engaged in donnybrook with Big Spring in the past, had given San Angelo all it could handle and beaten Odessa High to a fair-thee-well in previous starts.

The Bold Gold chugged to Lee's 35 late in Round One only to yield possession.

James Miller, who played a tremendous defensive game throughout, put Big Spring in an enviable spot by recovering a Jack Beatty fumble at the Rebs 33 midway in the second but the Steers moved as if their feet were in molasses and coughed up the ball 12 yards back downfield.

It wasn't until the third canto that Big Spring developed enough fire power to drive for a score. The Black Knights took the kickoff and bruised 72 yards in eight plays, with Roddy Caffey leading the way.

DUNCAN GOES IN
QB Dave Duncan got the score from nine yards away and the way he went about it was a thing of beauty. He retreated to his left as if to pass, then tore up the sidelines and sliced in to score, with 8:41 remaining in the round. Ricky Steen booted the PAT to make it 7-3.

Lamesa kicked a field goal near the end of the period. Richard Conde hitting from 32 yards away.

The Tornadoes shot ahead in the second when Monty Bedwell ran 15 yards. Thomas Holder added the extra point on a kick.

The lead didn't last long. Not long before the half ended, Glen Chaloy of Colorado City returned a punt 55 yards to a touchdown. Cary May booted the extra point.

Vest added a touchdown in the third on a 15-yard run. May again added the PAT.

Cee City retained the momentum by picking off two Lamesa passes in the fourth period.

Vest wound up with a 48.3-yard punting average for the night.

Haywood broke a finger during the past exhibition season, however, and has yet to play in a regular season game. Without Haywood, the Rockets have slumped to a 1-4 record, after finishing last season at the top of the Western Division.

Son Of Hahn Shows Here

Personable Paul Hahn Jr. is due to appear at Big Spring Mundy Golf Course on Tuesday at 5 p.m. with an unusual exhibition of golf magic.

While the first half of his one hour show is a clinic, the satire and comic description of the antics seen on golf courses should bring laughter from everyone. The trick shots are hit long and true — all from one spot so the audience doesn't have to walk.

Recently returned from a globe-girdling tour with his father, Paul Hahn, young Hahn gave the international set a look at his skill in twenty different countries in 90 days. He pilots the Piper Aztec, as does his dad, and hits the ball farther. Pop says his son can out-hit most tour players. With crazy golf clubs he hits straight shots and with straight clubs he hits magic shots.

Photography is permitted any time at his show.

Horsemen Eyeing Huge Purses

RUIDOSO, N.M. — Richard Thompson, General Manager of Ruidoso Downs has announced the renewal of the "Ruidoso Quarter Horse Derby" for 3-year olds at 400 yards with an estimated purse of $50,000.

Now the 3-year-old quarter horses will have three stake races they can run in. All at Ruidoso Downs, they are: Ruidoso Quarter Horse Derby, May 30, 1971; $50,000 est.; Ruidoso Rainbow Derby, July 4, 1971; $175,000 est.; World's Championship QH Classic, Aug. 29, 1971; $75,000 est.

"The Home of the worlds greatest quarter horse racing has taken another important step to continually improve quarter horse racing," Thompson stated.

Lee had a first period touchdown negated by a clipping call. Warnack accepted a punt on his own eight and steamed 92 yards but the infraction occurred back on the visitors' 14 and Lee had to start from his own seven.

The Steer defense had to be good — the offense simply couldn't offer it much rest.

The win was the third in seven seasonal starts for Big Spring. Lee skidded to 1-6. In conference, the Steers are 2-2 while Lee slipped to 1-3.

Big Spring 0 0 7 0—7

Ozona Is Bounced By Coahoma 'Dogs

By GENE NORTON

COAHOMA — Coach Bernie Hagins proved his Coahoma Bulldogs are a definite threat for 5-AA district honors here Friday night when Coahoma belted the Ozona Lions 28-19.

The Lions retaliated quickly. Tambungo added his second score of the evening on a one yard plunge. The PAT failed and the Lions trailed by one with 6:15 left before intermission.

Beal unlimbered his passing arm and lofted a perfect strike to end Ricky Stone, who had outdistanced the Ozona defenders, for 33 yards and the score. Walker ran the conversion over.

The play by both teams in the first two quarters was superb. Neither eleven turned the ball over on a mistake nor were there any penalty flags dropped in the first half.

The second half was a different story, however. Both teams lost the ball three times on bobbles in the final 24 minutes and the Bulldogs came up with two important pass thefts.

Walker scored once in the final half when Walker scampered nine yards to paydirt with 1:40 left in the third quarter. A running attempt for the PAT was no good.

The Lions picked up their final points of the night when quarterback David Williams passed 27 yards to Gerald Huff for a tally. A pass for the PAT failed.

Sophomore field general Beal performed exceptionally well on offense for the Bulldogs. His faking in the backfield and running on the option kept the Lion defenders confused throughout the game.

Friday night the Bulldogs go after their third straight district triumph when the travel to Reagan County. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

Many observers felt the victor of this contest would have a good shot at the district crown, and they could be right.

The Bulldogs went about the business of establishing themselves as favorites early in the contest against Ozona. They scored the first three times they got their hands on the football and salted the game away in the first half.

Speedster Dusty Choate put the Dogs on the board with 8:20 to play in the opening stanza on a four yard run which climaxed a 59 yard drive covered in eight plays. A Roland Beal pass for the PAT was knocked down at the line of scrimmage.

The Lions came right back on the next possession to take the lead for the only time of the night. Halfback Ruben Tambungo went over from the four and end David Pagan split the uprights on the PAT.

Taking the kickoff at their own 32, it took the victors 13 plays to put the ball across the double stripe. The score came on the first play of the second quarter when halfback Wendell Walker burst over from the one. Choate ran the conversion over.

Bowl Fans Have A Week To Place Ticket Order

DALLAS — Little more than a week remains for ordering tickets to the 1971 Cotton Bowl Classic, matching the Southwest Conference football champion against a top team from another section of the country.

Orders from the general public will be accepted through Tuesday, Nov. 3.

With two Southwest Conference teams — Texas and Arkansas — ranked among the Top Ten in the most recent polls, the Cotton Bowl Classic seems assured of continuing a long streak: in 21 of the last 23 years, the host team has been a member of the nation's top ten. And for the last 15 straight years the visiting team has been in the top ten. With such credentials, the winners of four of the last eleven classics have been voted national champions. Texas emerged twice with that honor, the last time by beating Notre Dame on New Year's Day of 1970.

Price of tickets is $7.50 each, with no limit on the number of tickets an individual may order. Requests for more than 10 tickets, however, should be made in separate orders of 10 or fewer tickets.

Applications should be mailed to the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association, Box 7185, Dallas 75209. A 50-cent mailing fee should be included with each application. Envelopes must be postmarked no later than midnight Tuesday, Nov. 3 to be included in the drawing for available tickets.

DRAG RACING CHAMPION
Don Grotheer to conduct clinic here

Drag Race Clinic Set Monday Night

Don Grotheer, 31-year-old champion drag racer from Oklahoma City, is conducting Plymouth Supercar Clinics across the country, teaching the rudiments of winning drag racing to amateur enthusiasts.

Grotheer, winner of the Super Stock Eliminator title at last year's National Hot Rod Association Winter National meet, is to be in Big Spring Monday evening. He will conduct his clinic at Dewey Ray Chrysler-Plymouth dealership, 1607 E. 3rd at 7:30 p.m. Special accommodations are being provided for the affair, and interested persons are invited to attend.

The Plymouth clinics are based on the fact that many drag racing enthusiasts need first hand technical information to help them prepare their cars for sanctioned drag competition.

Grotheer contends that the amateur enthusiast has access to enough information in the clinics to compete successfully in sanctioned events.

"Like everything else, there are right ways and wrong ways to do things. At the clinics, we try to teach the right way," he said.

The clinic program includes a film depicting the history of drag racing, a technical slide presentation and a question and answer session. Grotheer also will provide those in attendance with "tune-up tips" which describe the best way to get top performance out of Chrysler Corporation engines.

In addition to conducting some 75 clinics this year, Grotheer maintains a demanding racing schedule. In addition to match racing, his newly painted red, white and blue Plymouth Barracuda is one of the cars to beat at every major meet in the country.

Big wins have been a part of the Grotheer operation for many years. Among Don's many achievements are NHRA titles for Division four — the geographical region in which he competes — in 1963 and 1967. He was runner-up in the standings in 1966.

Muhammad Ali Still Has Faith, Voice

ATLANTA (AP) — There is the question of whether Muhammad Ali has retained the speed and condition he had when he ruled the boxing world. But, there is no doubt he still has his confidence and voice.

"People in Moscow want to know about me and hear what I got to say," said the deposed heavyweight champion of the world two days before his scheduled 15-round bout with Jerry Quarry.

The fight at the 5,000-seat Atlanta Municipal Auditorium will be Ali's first since he was stripped of his title after being convicted in 1967 of refusing induction into the Army. And, although the sport's governing bodies recognize Joe Frazier as champion, there are some hold-out observers who feel Monday's fight is the first real title fight in more than three years.

One of those is Quarry, who lost to Frazier by a seven-round knockout. "He's (Ali) never lost the title in the ring," said Quarry.

"I'm the retired champ; Joe Frazier's the active, recognized champion," said Ali, who hasn't fought since he knocked out Zora Folley in seven rounds March 22, 1967.

The trouble with the draft — the conviction is still being appealed — has dimmed Ali's popularity, and the man who was an Olympic champion under the name of Cassius Clay is well aware of this.

"Sure, some people gonna look to see me get beat," he said. "Gov. Lester Maddox is one."

Maddox has spoken out against the fight but cannot stop it because it has been licensed by the City of Atlanta and not the State of Georgia, which does not have a boxing commission. In fact, to stress his opposition to the bout, the governor has declared Monday an official day of mourning in Georgia.

But the long layoff for Ali,

AT SUNLAND TODAY Cee City Horse Top-Weighted

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — which helps underline the remarkable improvement of the four-year-old Ragtime Chick has won seven races so far in his career — all of them this year. He broke his maiden during Sunland's spring season, then moved on to Ruidoso Downs, scoring three victories. On June 21, he won a $3,000 claiming race. The following week, he annexed his only stakes triumph to date — the Flying Charm Allowance Stake. He got the job done as a 14-1 longshot, winning by a half-length.

A strong dark horse in Sunday's showdown is Clovis Rocket, owned by Grady Hopper of Dallas. Last week Clovis Rocket went off at 18-1 in the wagering and finished second to Ragtime Chick.

Here are the other weights prepared by Quarter Horse Secretary Harry Henson: Cherry Lake, 122; Missile Pit, 121; Turf's Best, 121; Fast Gas, 117; Copper Khal, 116; Clovis Rocket, 116; and Breadstick, 113.

Ragtime Chick, owned by Tom Neff of Colorado City, turned in a smashing victory last weekend when he unleashed his typical stretch run to beat a top field which included two of the White Sands candidates — Cherry Lake and Missile Pit.

Ragtime Chick won going away by two lengths under the highweight of 124 pounds. Cherry Lake, winner of the $5,000-added Governor's Speed Handicap at Albuquerque, weakened in the stretch and finished fourth.

Missile Pit, the champion sprinter who carries the silks of Vera N. Lewis, got off to a slow start but rallied after the bend for home and finished third. Last season at Sunland, Missile Pit established the world 870 mark of 44 3/10 seconds. The record still stands.

During the opening weekend of the current season, Ragtime Chick made his seasonal debut and easily overcame the stakes-winning quarter horse, Turf's Best.

High weight and all, Ragtime Chick figures to get tabbed as a 15-yard field goal by Larry the favorite in today's match, English and another touchdown

Permian Edges Cooper, 16-9

ODESSA — The mighty Permian Panthers moved one step closer to a District 3-AAAA championship with a 16-9 win over defending titleholder Abilene Cooper.

Permian upped its loop mark to 4-0 and face San Angelo Nov. 6 in what could be the game that decides the loop winner.

Permian fullback Dan Justis scored the first touchdown for his mates when he rammed and easily overcame the stakes-winning quarter horse, Turf's Best.

The Panthers wrapped up the contest in the third quarter on Chick figures to get tabbed as a 15-yard field goal by Larry the favorite in today's match, English and another touchdown

Ira Blasts McCaulley

IRA — Ira opened six-man competition in District 3-B here Friday with a convincing 36-15 victory over McCaulley.

Ricky Cox was instrumental in the Ira win with a pair of scores for the night.

Forsan Rallies To Edge Loraine, 24-19

FORSAN — The Forsan Buffaloes came from behind in the second half here Friday night to defeat Loraine 24-19 in a district contest.

In the opening period Forsan quarterback Jeff Williams threw a 40 yard strike to Tommy Brumley and Jackie Willis kicked the PAT to put the Buffs ahead 7-0.

Loraine came back with fullback Jim Williams going 15 yards on a trap up the middle to score. The PAT failed.

Late in the first quarter tackle Ricky Klahr tackled the Loraine punter in the end zone for a safety.

In the second quarter the sophs were sparked by the running of Ven McQueen. McQueen scored twice in the period, the first coming on a 45 yard sprint on a trap play. His second tally of the quarter came on a one yard run. He set up the score himself on a 60 yard scamper.

In the third quarter Danny Williams scored for the sophs on a four yard run and Chris Duron ran the conversion over.

Rafel Luvanus scored the final touchdown for the Sophs in the last quarter when he returned an interception 30 yards.

McQueen was the top rusher for the winners with 125 yards. The Sophs will be in action again here Thursday night when they meet Colorado City B team once more.

Dog Trial Is Under Way

The Permian Bird Dog and Sportsman's Club, a West Texas group, is hosting their annual Fall Dog Trial at the W. T. Martin Angus Ranch, 25 miles north of Sweetwater, through Tuesday.

The 1569 Fall Trial, near Sweetwater, was an outstanding success with 135 dogs entered in the various events from Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

The various stakes started Saturday morning. The Amateur Events — Amateur Shooting Dog, Amateur Derby and Amateur Puppy — will continue through today, with the Professional or Open Events — Open All-age, Open Shooting Dog and Open Derby — to follow through Tuesday.

Trophies and shotguns will be awarded to the placements in the Amateur Stakes, with cash awards in the Professional Events.

The W. T. Martin Ranch is about 12 miles west of Roby. All stakes will be run on continuous courses and native quail. Spectators will be horseback or riding the Club's new observation wagon. All people, whether participants or guests, are welcome.

Sophomores Slaughter C-City, 33-7

COLORADO CITY — The Big Spring sophomores spotted the Colorado City B team a touchdown in the first quarter and then came roaring back to take an easy 33-7 victory here Thursday night.

Colorado City took a 7-0 lead early in the first quarter but it was quickly erased by Coach Tim Smith's charges.

The Sophs tied the game in the opening quarter when Jerry Knopfel gathered in a 30 yard aerial from Gene Swinson and raced in for the score. Buster Green booted the PAT.

In the second quarter the sophs were sparked by the running of Ven McQueen. McQueen scored twice in the period, the first coming on a 45 yard sprint on a trap play. His second tally of the quarter came on a one yard run. He set up the score himself on a 60 yard scamper.

In the third quarter Danny Williams scored for the sophs on a four yard run and Chris Duron ran the conversion over.

Rafel Luvanus scored the final touchdown for the Sophs in the last quarter when he returned an interception 30 yards.

McQueen was the top rusher for the winners with 125 yards. The Sophs will be in action again here Thursday night when they meet Colorado City B team once more.

Outstanding defensively for Forsan were Willis, Mike Murphy, Philip Medlin and Klahr, all with 15 tackles.

Coach Don Stevens praised the performance of Brumley and Williams in the offensive backfield and cited the entire offensive line for a superb effort.

"Our defense won the game for us in the last half," Stevens said. "We held them to less than 50 yards rushing after the half and that was the ball game."

A member of the senior class, Janice Clanton, was crowned Homecoming Queen for Forsan during halftime ceremonies.

The Buffs enjoy an open date next week and will meet unbeaten Jayton the following week in Forsan.

With 3:20 remaining in the game Tommy Brumley scored on a pitchout from the 11 yard line to win the game for Forsan.

His scoring jaunt was set up by a 30 yard pass from Williams to Will Morgan. The pass came in a crucial situation with the Buffs facing fourth down and 30.

Underdog Pokes Face Chiefs' Red Machine

By The Associated Press

After spending a Black Saturday with the Purple Gang, the Dallas Cowboys will be seeing red.

Dallas, embarrassed 54-13 last week by the Minnesota Vikings and their ground-rattling front four, takes on an equally bullish rushing machine today in the red-shirted Kansas City Chiefs.

The Cowboys shoot Craig Morton at the hard-charging Chiefs. Roger Staubach, other half of the Cowboys' roulette quarterback system, is on the shelf with a bad elbow.

Calvin Hill and new-found prize Duane Thomas are the Cowboys' chief running threats. Len Dawson, Kansas City's 1970 Super Bowl stalwart, is healthy again after an early season injury.

The Detroit Lions hope to find Chicago their kind of town, visiting the Bears in another National Football League bonanza today.

Last time the pair met at Detroit earlier this year, the Bill Munson-led Lions shut down Chicago 28-14. The Bears are without running backs Gale Sayres and Craig Baynham, both injured.

The NFL's top rusher, Mac Arthur Lane, 494 yards, leads the St. Louis Cardinals against the New York Giants and scrambling Fran Tarkenton.

Elsewhere today, Denver visits San Francisco, Cleveland is at Miami, Baltimore hosts Boston, Pittsburgh plays at Oakland, Cincinnati faces Washington in the national capital, Houston travels to San Diego, New Orleans at Atlanta, Philadelphia plays Green Bay at Milwaukee and Buffalo shuffles off to New York to play the Jets.

The Los Angeles Rams play the Vikings at Minnesota in a Monday night nationally televised contest.

Denver, off to its best start since 1962 with a 4-1 record, has strong-armed Pete Liske running the team and a sudden-death front four ready for the winner's other tally came on a pass from quarterback Kim Nichols to Harold Judy with 30 seconds left in the contest. The play covered 10 yards.

The Mustangs had several opportunities to dent the scoreboard but just couldn't muster the strength to push the ball across.

In the third period Sands drove to Jayton's four. After one play an offside penalty moved the ball back to the eight. On fourth and goal, quarterback Paul Hopper fired a pass to Johnny Peugh in the end zone for an apparent touchdown. However, the official on the spot ruled that Peugh was out of the end zone when he caught the ball.

Defensive back Ed Newcomer almost came up with a score for Sands in the final stanza. He just barely missed picking

DEAR ABBY: My husband sits all hunched over with one leg curled under her. She tells me maybe if I quit nagging her she will improve.

NAGGING MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: Quit nagging. Obviously it hasn't helped. When someone she is eager to impress (like a male type) remarks on her slovenly posture, she'll shape up as though she's never been corrected before.

DEAR ABBY: We have raised four healthy children. Now we have a grandson who is a year old and we have never been asked to baby-sit with him — not once! In fact, I have never even been allowed to change his diaper. I am not a registered nurse, but I know how to take care of a baby. My daughter-in-law's mother is a nurse, and she is asked to baby-sit all the time. We don't even feel like grand-parents.

HURT & HEARTBROKEN
IN SPRINGFIELD

DEAR H and H: Perhaps your daughter-in-law doesn't know that you would like to baby-sit with your grandson. Why don't you tell her? If after that she still doesn't call on you, you may have reason to feel hurt.

DEAR ABBY: How in the world does a mother get her daughter to stand up straight? I have a 15-year-old daughter who is considered a very pretty girl, but her posture is terrible. I remind her a hundred times a day to stand straight, but the next time I look at her she is stoop shouldered again. And What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

County Is Eligible For 'Star Of Texas' Award

Democratic voters will have a chance to help Howard County win a "Star of Texas" award for voter-turn-out Nov. 3, according to Democratic County Chairman Frank Parker.

The awards program is part of a continuing project of the State Democratic Executive Committee to emphasize the importance of voting in the General Election, said Parker.

"There are more than 4 million people in our state who are qualified to vote and I think Texas is just too big to vote small," the county chairman said.

"Absentee voting has already started and I urge all voters who plan to be out of town Nov. 3 — or those who are too ill to vote in person on election day — to check with our County Clerk so their votes will not be lost."

The chairman explained the statewide "Star of Texas" program this way:

"Our county is in one of 10 population brackets and all we have to do to win this honor is to have the highest percentage — based on Democratic votes in the Governor's race compared to our total voter registration — than any other county of similar size."

State Democratic Chairman Elmer C. Baum said the awards program was inaugurated in order to stimulate a higher voter turnout in a so-called "off" election year.

"Every election is important, and every vote is important," Baum said.

Speak Out On Election Day

Little more than a week away, the 1970 general election provides the outlet for good citizens to express their preferences for candidates on the national, state and local level, as well as on a series of state constitutional amendments.

Women have joined the men (and even may have outdistanced them) in laboring for the parties and candidates of their choice. Both Democratic and Republican groups are organized locally, both are active in their party's behalf.

Their candidate preference may differ, but all are agreed on one important thing: The citizen's right and obligation is to VOTE.

General election is November 3. For those who know they cannot cast a ballot then, absentee voting may be done through Friday of this week.

By either procedure, the strong call is for the so-called "silent majority" to become the "vocal majority" for a truly representative selection of men to serve in governmental posts.

SHOWING THE COURAGE of their convictions, and the candidates they prefer, are a few of the Democratic women who will be distributing informative pamphlets and other campaign materials from the Democratic Headquarters. Miss Sarah Harris of the Young Democrats and Mrs. Essie Randle are seated, and standing, from left, are Mrs. Mary L. Ivery, Mrs. Ray Bedford, Mrs. Frank Parker, wife of the Democratic chairman; Mrs. Halvard T. Hansen and Mrs. Ralph Mahoney.

THREE HEADS are better than one when election day is nearing and there is much campaign work to be done. As the Republican Headquarters was opened last week, among the women on hand to put up the posters were, from left, Mrs. Roy Cederberg, Mrs. G. K. Taylor and Mrs. Whitney Reynolds. All three women are active members of the Republican Women's Club.

POOLING THEIR POLITICAL FEVER in efforts to get out the vote are these Democratic partisans who are intensely interested in the outcome of this year's election. From left, they are Mrs. Fern Cox, wife of the Democratic candidate for district clerk; Mrs. Wayne Burns, and Mrs. Dee Jon Davis, wife of the Democratic candidate for state representative from the 63rd District.

MORE AND MORE women are standing up to be seen and heard in order to influence votes for the candidates of their choice. Here, holding high their placards, are, from left, Mrs. G. W. Redding, Mrs.

Jack Lipscombe, Mrs. Jack Cauble, Mrs. Noel Hull, Mrs. Ann Gibson Houser, Mrs. Jim Williams, area chairman for the "Bush Belles," and Mrs. Fisher Tynes.

MRS. EDDIE GENE MANN JR.

Couple United In Marriage

Miss Juanda Kay Read became the bride of Eddie Gene Mann Jr. Saturday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church in Coahoma. Vows were exchanged before an arch entwined with boxwood foliage and white satin streamers. Baskets of white gladioli and carnations flanked the altar. The Rev. David Northcutt officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hezlie N. Read Jr., Coahoma, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Mann Sr., Coahoma. The bride was attired in a powder blue coaldress with beaded collar and yoke, and her bouffant shoulder-length veil of illusion was held by a lace petalled crown. She carried a cascade of stephanotis and camellias.

Mrs. Larry Richard Rich, Coahoma, sister of the bridegroom, served as the matron of honor attired in a royal blue Empire dress with Juliet sleeves.

Jimmy Ward, Coahoma, served as best man.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wolf, uncle and aunt of the bride, was the setting for the reception. The refreshment table was covered with Irish linen and appointed with silver including a tea service. A tiered wedding cake was served. Blue and white delphiniums and iris, centered with a white candle in a milkglass compote, formed the centerpiece.

The bride and bridegroom are Coahoma High School graduates. She attended Howard County Junior College, and he is a junior at Tarleton State College. Following a wedding trip they will reside in Stephenville.

Our-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Walker, Lamesa; and Mrs. Janie Gunn, Fort Worth.

MR. AND MRS. R. A. FULLEN

Pair To Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Fullen, 707 Willa, who were married Oct. 31, 1920, in Wortham, will be honored Nov. 1 with a golden anniversary celebration at their home. The four children of the couple will host the anniversary reception from 2 to 5 p.m. The Fullens' children are Mrs. Palmer Smith, Big Spring; Mrs. T. D. Johnson, Kingsland; Terry Fullen, Midland; and Jerry Fullen, Kermit. There are nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Fullen will wear an apricot pique dress with round neckline and short sleeves and will be presented a white carnation corsage with apricot ribbons. The refreshment table will be covered with a gold cloth overlaid with ecru lace and appointed with silver and crystal.

gold 50th anniversary arrangement will center the table. Serving will be the daughters, daughters-in-law and granddaughters of the honored couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Fullen came to Howard County in 1932, living in Forsan 16 years. Fullen was born Dec. 17, 1902, in Lufkin, and Mrs. Fullen was born Sept. 29, 1904, in Wortham. Fullen retired March 1, 1963, from Shell Pipeline Company after more than 20 years service. The Fullens are members of Airport Baptist Church.

Guests planning to attend the reception include Mrs. Mary Teiman, Richland, Mrs. Fullen's sister; Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Capps, Corsicana, the Fullens' nephew and niece; and persons from Forsan, Midland and Lamesa.

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

One of the nice things about having early celebrations is that when the time really comes around, just maybe another big time may be mustered up.

MRS. J. P. MEADOR, who will not be 81 until Nov. 15, had the pleasure of having an early party the past weekend. Not only did she have a big party; it was a family reunion with all of the Meador daughters on hand for the first time in some years.

Here for the affair were MR. and MRS. W. P. FAUST of Rancho Cordova, Calif.; MR. and MRS. JOE GRIMLAND of Grand Prairie, and MRS. N. R. SMITH of Bend. Also, grandchildren, MR. and MRS. JOE GRAMLAND JR., were here from Dallas and MR. and MRS. SAMMY MEADOR and their children, Christi and Stacy, came from Odessa. Other grandchildren attending were DEBBIE and LISA TIBBS.

The big reunion meal was at the home of MR. and MRS. A. D. MEADOR, 1102 Wood. And now all the visitors have gone their separate ways.

MR. and MRS. W. A. FITZGERALD have returned from a very fruitful fishing trip at Port Isabel where they spent nine days catching trout. They brought back about 150 pounds of trout filets. Fitzgerald says that those trout caught in the mountain streams are the size used for bait at the Texas fishing area which he says is the best for this type fishing.

Guests in the home of MRS. J. P. CAUBLE have been her sister, MRS. BROOKS SULLIVAN, and her daughter, MRS. JACK HALL of San Antonio.

MRS. H. H. SQUYRES had a pleasant surprise Monday when her brother-in-law, the REV. C. W. SQUYRES, 87, a retired Baptist minister from Lawton, Okla., and his son, the REV. DEWEY C. SQUYRES, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Lockney, visited her. The elder Rev. Mr. Squyres had been the guest of his son and had brought the Sunday sermon which his son recorded. They brought it along for Mrs. Squyres to hear.

MRS. DOROTHY PETTY has returned from Dallas and Denton where she visited relatives during the week. She was the guest of MRS. JOHNNIE GARRETT, MRS. JENNIE ENNIS and MRS. PEARL KLAMBERG. In Denton she attended the Rex Cauble quarter horse show and sale.

Since their retirement last year I can think of no name as appropriate as the Busy Bairds for CHICK and FAYE BAIRD who have taken off on another jaunt. This time it's to San Antonio where Chick will stay put with a brother-in-law while Faye and her sisters have their annual "sister tour" in the area around San Antonio. The couple has recently been in the Colorado mountains and then went over the country to the area of Eureka Springs, Ark. They came home for a week to replenish themselves and took off again.

W. R. DAWES brought me their last rose of summer again, and it seemed exceptionally beautiful considering all the roses have had to go through the past summer. The Dawses are coming back home today from Deer Park where they have spent the weekend with their daughter, MARTHA, who is teaching fourth grade.

Another birthday anniversary, an 81st, will be observed next weekend at Cross Plains when the mother of MRS. J. E. FORT SR. will have all her family together for the first time in a long time.

Planning to go from here are the senior FORTS, MR. and MRS. J. E. FORT JR., and their children and the other Fort son, Dick and his wife and children will be there from Levelland.

MRS. MYRTLE YOUNG, the honoree, will have a birthday on Nov. 1. She has a son who will bring his wife, and their two married daughters plan to on hand with their families. In all it should make for a big weekend.

MR. and MRS. THERON LANE of Mineral Wells have spent the weekend with his brother and sister-in-law, DR. and MRS. DICK LANE. The couple is making their first visit to Big Spring. They are en route home after a visit in Carlsbad, N.M., with their son.

FOCUS ON FAMILY LIVING

Higher Beef Prices Call For Wise Choice

By CATHERINE CRAWFORD
(County HD Agent)

Beef is one of the most popular main dish foods in our area. There has been an increase in its cost during recent months, so many homemakers are especially anxious to use good judgment as they select the beef that their meat dollars buy. Careful preparation will result in greater satisfaction at the table.

Wise homemakers will become familiar with beef grades and cuts. Three factors are used to determine USDA carcass grade: conformation, quality, and maturity. Conformation refers to the form or shape of the carcass. Quality includes marbling, texture, color and firmness. Maturity refers to the relative carcass age. Marbling and maturity are more important in determining grade than conformation.

Beef comes from an animal over a year old, calf from an animal under 12 months old and veal is from an animal weighing under 250 pounds live weight.

About 50 per cent of the beef and 15 per cent of the veal and calf are now graded by the United States Department of Agriculture. There are five USDA grades for young carcasses: Prime, Choice, Good, Standard, and Utility. Most Prime beef carcasses find their way into the hotel and restaurant trade, and the lowest grades are used for processing beef. Choice, Good, and Standard are available to consumers at the retail meat counter.

Beef cuts are classed as tender and less tender cuts, depending on where the cut comes from. Less tender cuts come from the area where the muscles are exercised the most.

USDA specialists say a beef carcass will yield about one-fourth steaks, one-fourth roasts, one fourth ground and stew meat and one-fourth waste, bones and fat. The wise homemaker will learn the various cuts and will cook them by the recommended method.

The amount of beef by weight needed for a serving depends on the amount of bone in the meat. One pound of beef with a medium amount of bone, such as steaks, chops, rib, rump and loin roasts, yield two to three servings. One pound of beef with a large amount of bone, such as shoulder cuts, short ribs, plate, brisket and shank yields one to two servings. One pound of boned or ground meat, such as flank, rolled roasts, sirloin strip, heel of round, stew meat and hamburger yields four servings.

METHODS OF COOKING
The methods used in cooking beef, calf and veal are: dry heat, moist heat and in fat. There are several ways to cook meat by each of these methods. Dry heat methods include broiling, panbroiling, roasting, and oven-cooked steak. Moist heat methods are braising and cooking in liquid. Methods of cooking fat are pan frying and deep-fat frying. Regardless of the method used, beef, calf and veal cooked at a low temperature have less shrinkage. This results in more meat to serve and it is more attractive and palatable, juicier and more flavorful, and more tender and uniformly cooked.

In this area many homemakers may be skilled at using all of the methods of cooking that have been mentioned. But, it seems that fewer of them use dry heat methods than the other methods. Broiling and roasting will be discussed in this article.

HOW TO BROIL
The broiler may or may not be preheated. Slash edge of meat at 1-inch intervals to prevent curling. Place meat on rack of broiler pan and place rack so meat surface is 2 to 5 inches below source of heat, depending upon thickness of meat and degree of doneness desired. For well-done steaks, place 4 or 5 inches from the heat unit. For rare steaks, place 2 inches from the heat. Leave the oven door open when using an electric range. The door may be closed on a gas range. Broil on one side until brown, and season with salt and pepper after browning. Turn with tongs or fork inserted in fat and broil until desired degree of doneness. To test for doneness, cut a small gash close to the bone near the end of cooking period and note the meat's color. Season and serve at once on heated platter or plate.

HOW TO ROAST
Set oven regulator at 325 degrees. Season with salt and pepper, if desired. However, the salt will penetrate only to a depth of about 1/2 inch and will tend to remove the juices. Insert a meat thermometer so that the bulb is in the center of the thickest part of the lean meat and does not rest in fat or on bone which will give a false reading. Place meat, fat side up, on a rack in a low, open pan. As the meat cooks, the fat will baste the roast. Do not add water and do not cover the pan or meat. Place meat in oven and cook to desired degree of doneness. Allow 30 minutes per pound for well done roast. Plan to finish cooking 20 to 30 minutes before serving time so that the meat can be carved more easily.

Gift Wrapping Ideas Heard By HD Clubs

As Christmastime nears, home demonstration clubs are busy learning new ideas for wrapping and trimming gifts for mailing or placing under the tree. Programs on packaging were presented to two clubs last week, and two other clubs viewed a slide program on beef.

The program included how to cover round and other oddly shaped boxes. Guests were Mrs. Joe Clark of Rochester and Mrs. J. C. Williams. The next meeting will be Nov. 3 in the home of Mrs. H. S. Hanson, 1605 Vines, with a program on sewing new fabrics.

CITY CLUB
Mrs. Grady McCrary was hostess for the City HD Club meeting Friday at the HD office. Mrs. Delaine Crawford gave the slide presentation on beef showing the selection, preparation, and grades of beef. "All meat shipped across a state line must be inspected," Mrs. Crawford said. "The grades run US Prime, Choice, Good and Standard. Most restaurants and hotels use Prime, and most families use Choice beef. The cuts which are most tender come from the parts of the animal that receive the least exercise. Beef is always a good buy."

Mrs. Crawford showed how to oven broil, pan broil, pan fry, and dry roast beef, suggesting one pound for two servings. The devotion was given by Mrs. Alton Underwood. The next meeting will be Nov. 13 with Mrs. A. C. James, Sterling City Route, as hostess.

TO MARRY — Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Butler, Snyder, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rhoda Regina, to Joseph John Tydlaska Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Tydlaska Sr., Roswell, N.M. The couple plans to marry Nov. 21 in Snyder. The bride-elect attended Howard County Junior College and Tydlaska is employed by Southwestern Investment Co. of Big Spring.

'Gift' Tour Taken By Altrusa Club Group

A "tour" of gifts from around the world was conducted by Roy Peet of Inland Port 213, Thursday noon at the Altrusa Club meeting at Coker's Restaurant. The vocational service committee was in charge of the program, and Mrs. Thurston Orenbaum, chairman, introduced Peet. Committee members, Mrs. H. D. Cowden and Mrs. W. H. Key, served as hostesses.

Beginning with the Philippines, Peet showed Monkey Pod items including a wooden pineapple for hors d'oeuvres. Monkey Pod is the name given to acacia wood by natives who observed that monkeys loved to climb the trees, Peet related.

Continuing to the Far East, Peet exhibited brass incense burners and distributed several exotic sticks of incense for sampling. Most oriental vases, figurines, porcelain, brass and lacquered items come from Hong Kong, Peet explained. "This year," Peet said, "anything pertaining to owls and eggs sold very well. The German music boxes with Swiss movements also are popular, and for those who don't like to wake to a ringing alarm, we have a clock which plays 'Lara's Theme' from Dr. Zhivago."

Among the art objects on display were real flowers dried in sand to preserve their natural color and vacuum-sealed in glass decanters, and Ming trees of 14-carat gold and semi-precious gems such as turquoise, snow quartz and accented with ivory birds. Other items shown were candies and hand-rolled soaps in scores of scents, elegant bath accessories and gourmet foods. Practical and decorator sections at Inland Port described by Peet were the Early American assessories corner and the crystal and china corner. Prizes from Inland Port were won by Mrs. A. C. Bass and Mrs. Faye Stratton. The next Altrusa meeting will be Nov. 2.

Carnival Monday

Moss Elementary School carnival will be held Monday from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at the school with proceeds going to the Parent-Teacher Association fund to purchase playground equipment. A chili supper will be served, and there will be games and concessions.

Film On Fashions Shown Thursday

"Five Clues to a Winning Wardrobe," a film on fashion, was presented by Mrs. Delaine Crawford, county home demonstration agent, at the Big Spring School Food Service meeting Thursday.

Mrs. E. R. Williamson presided, and plans were made to attend the district conference Nov. 13 in Midland. The monthly bake sale will be Nov. 21 at College Park Shopping Center. Proceeds will be used to send members to the annual state convention in June. The next meeting will be Nov. 12 at Runnels Junior High School.

Education In Russia Explored By Forum

Education in Russia was discussed by Mrs. Hugh Duncan Friday during a program presented for the Modern Woman's Forum in the home of Mrs. A. C. Bass, 106 Washington. The program was given in conjunction with the year's study theme, "Armchair Travelogue."

"In Russia, education is universal and compulsory," said Mrs. Duncan. "Illiteracy has almost been eliminated. All schools are co-educational, and the emphasis is upon technical training."

"Besides educational institutions, there are many schools or state-run nurseries for preschool children where mother's leave their children while they work. The oldest university is in Moscow. It is housed in a 32-story building with four 18-story wings, and it is as well-equipped as any in the world. The publishing of books and magazines is strictly controlled by the government."

GENERATION GAP

Mrs. Duncan went on to say that now it is in Russia where adults are beginning to look at their "brash youngsters with disbelieving eyes."

"The gap is widening there between young and old," she said, "as Marxism's children learn about protest, miniskirts and long hair. There is not much of a drug problem, but drinking is a problem. More than 50 per cent of the population is younger than 30 years of age, and Russian youth often register apathy when their elders try to instill Communist ideology in them."

WOMEN'S STATUS
The second program speaker was Mrs. Clyde Lowry who described the "Status of Women" in Russia.

"It is stated in the Soviet Constitution that women have complete equality with men in all economic, social and political spheres," she said, "but men simply ignore the constitution and labor laws when it suits them."

"The principal source of farm labor is women, and in the cities women do much of the menial work. They leave their young children in state-operated nurseries while they work as truck drivers, street car motormen, crane or other heavy machine operators, bricklayers, street sweepers and even lumber jacks and miners."

Men hold down most office jobs, yet women outnumber men by more than 10 million."

Mrs. Lowry concluded by saying the Soviet press points proudly to the number of women who are engineers, doctors and lawyers, but they are a small minority of the 130 million women there.

Mrs. S. R. Nobles presided, and because this is Texas Poetry Month, roll call was answered with verses. Materials were brought to be used in craft work at Westside Community Center.

Refreshments were served, and the next meeting was announced for Nov. 13 in the home of Mrs. E. C. Howard.

THE WORKING WIFE
... Mrs. Johnson at her White House desk

Presidency Marked By Turmoil

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Lyndon Johnson's term as President of the United States began in violence and continued in trouble and turmoil. Through it all Lady Bird Johnson, as First Lady, kept a taped record of her thoughts and feelings. Now the Johnson administration has ended, and Mrs. Johnson has transcribed her tapes into a book, "White House Diary," which begins today in The Herald and will run through Nov. 20).

LADY BIRD JOHNSON
... First Lady of the United States

'White House Diary' Was Challenge

By LADY BIRD JOHNSON
PREFACE

I began talking my White House diary into a tape recorder at our home, The Elms, two or three days after Nov. 22, 1963.

A little of it was recorded in hotel rooms on our trips, and in my bedroom at the LBJ Ranch, but the great bulk of it was done in a small room in the southwest corner of the second floor of the White House which became combination dressing room and office for me.

I loved that room. I put my own furniture in it — my blue velvet sofa from The Elms (the back of it is faded from the sun that streamed in the southwest window), two comfortable French armchairs flanking the fireplace, and a desk that has followed me through all of my three Washington homes and now sits in the bay window in my "forever" bedroom at the Ranch. The walls were covered in the loveliest Chinese wallpaper I've ever seen.

In winter, I often recorded sitting on the sofa looking at the fire burning merrily in the little corner fireplace. And in the summer I reversed one of the chairs and talked into my machine while I looked out over Andrew Jackson's magnolias to the Washington Monument — my favorite view in all of Washington, often outlined against the drama of sunset.

Sometimes, I sat at the desk and looked right down into the Rose Garden and across to Lyndon's office. By all odds the best time to record was from about 7 in the evening till 9 or 10 or whatever late hour Lyndon came home to dinner. The day's activities were at an end, my staff had gone home, and this was "my time."

Why did I record it? I think for the following reasons: I realized shortly after Nov. 22, that — amazed and timorously — I stood in a unique position, as wife of the President of the United States.

Nobody else would live through the next months in quite the way that I would and see the events unroll from this vantage point. And this certain portion of time I wanted to preserve as it happened. I wanted to remember it, and I wanted my children and grandchildren to see it through my eyes.

The second reason is a difficult one to describe — it has something to do with discipline. I wanted to see if I could keep up this arduous task. In a way, I made myself a dare. And somehow if you make yourself record what went on in the day, it makes you more organized, it makes you remember things better.

My third reason for recording this White House diary was that I like writing — fearful labor though I sometimes find it — I like words.

As time passed there began to emerge a fourth reason, dimly felt, something like this — I wanted to share life in this house, in these times. It was too great a thing to have alone.

I soon evolved the system of having a manila envelope for each day with a mimeographed sheet in it on which my secretary wrote the day's appointments. Then I would collect, or ask her to collect, two or three newspaper headlines of the day and stories that related to what Lyndon was doing, or I, or the children, speech cards if I made a speech, the schedule if I was on a trip. Or, if there was a White House entertainment, guest lists and menu and program. Then when I would record — and it might be the next day or two or three days later, or sometimes a week later — I would have the material at hand to put me back in the mood and the spirit of that day. The greatest help were the little shorthand notes I had jotted down in my daily schedule book. Gradually I, the most unmechanical of women, made friends with this little machine and learned how to thread it and change it, and hold it in abeyance while I thought my next phrase.

A tape recorder makes for a far more verbose volume of work than a pencil in your hand. And so I left the White House in January of 1969 with a suitcase full of tapes, recorded over five full years and the brief six weeks or so of the year 1963, and the first 20 days of the year 1969, all in all a total, as well as I could estimate after it was transcribed, of about 1,750,000 words.

During the last year and a half, I have re-read it all—and sometimes smiled wryly at that time. I have tried to select from this mass of material days that would carry the narrative and convey the changing mood and feel and color of the times, hopefully significant days, but some quiet days.

It has been a gargantuan job! Sometimes I have felt like William Faulkner, who is reported to have said to his editor when he was slashing out some of his favorite writing, "You are killing my darlings!"

The result is actually a "sampler" of my diary — a book of some 800 pages — using about one-seventh of the material. But the full diary — many golden days that I loved living and writing about, and others that I'm afraid I made sound tedious and dull — will be in the Lyndon Baines Johnson Library and will in the future be available for scholars or historians to peruse, for whatever little crumbs of interest they may add to the story of our life and times.

Editing was not easy. I have tried as much as possible to use full days but could not avoid using sections from others. For the benefit of the reader I was told it was necessary to identify or give full names to people or events already familiar to me, thus intruding on the casual and sometimes intimate character of these recordings.

This diary is throughout completely personal and subjective. It is the way I saw and lived these events and knew these people. It is, if anything, the story of a family in a unique set of circumstances — a significant point in history.

As I look back on those five years of turmoil and achievement, of triumph and pain, I feel amazement that it happened to me, and gratitude that I had the opportunity to live them, and strongest of all — out of all the trips that I made and all the people that I met — a deep, roaring faith in and love for this country.

'The President Is Dead, Mr. President'

It all began so beautifully. After a drizzle in the morning, the sun came out bright and clear. We were driving into Dallas. In the lead car were President and Mrs. Kennedy, John and Nellie Connally, a Secret Service car full of men, and then our car with Lyndon and me and Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

The streets were lined with people — lots and lots of people — the children all smiling, placards, confetti, people waving from windows. One last happy moment I had was looking up and seeing Mary Griffith leaning out of a window waving at me. (Mary for many years had been in charge of altering the clothes which I purchased at Neiman-Marcus.)

LOUD REPORT

Then, almost at the edge of town, on our way to the Trade Mart for the Presidential luncheon, we were rounding a curve, going down a hill, and suddenly there was a sharp, loud report. It sounded like a shot. The sound seemed to me to come from a building on the right above my shoulder. A moment passed, and then two more shots rang out in rapid succession. There had been such a gala air about the day that I thought the noise must come from firecrackers — part of the celebration. Then the Secret Service men were suddenly down in the lead car. Over the car radio system, I heard "Let's get out of there!" and our Secret Service man, Rufus Youngblood, vaulted over the front seat on top of Lyndon, threw him to the floor, and said, "Get down."

Sen. Yarborough and I ducked our heads. The car accelerated terrifically — faster and faster. Then, suddenly, the brakes were put on so hard that I wondered if we were going to make it as we wheeled left and went around the corner. We pulled up to a building. I looked up and saw a sign, "hospital." Only then did I believe that this might be what it was. Sen. Yarborough kept saying in an excited voice, "Have they shot the President? Have they shot the President?" I said something like "No, it can't be."

As we ground to a halt — we were still the third car — Secret Service men began to pull, lead, guide, and hustle us out. I cast one last look over my shoulder and saw in the President's car a bundle of pink, just like a drift of blossoms, lying on the back seat. It was Mrs. Kennedy lying over the President's body.

The Secret Service men rushed us to the right, then to the left, and then onward into a quiet room in the hospital — a very small room. It was lined with white sheets, I believe.

PEOPLE MOVING

People came and went — Kenny O'Donnell, the President's top aide, Cong. Homer Thornberry, Cong. Jack Brooks. Always there was Rufe right there and other Secret Service agents — Emory Roberts, Jerry Kivett, Lem Johns, and Woody Taylor. People spoke of how widespread this might be.

There was talk about where we would go — to the plane, to our house, back to Washington.

Through it all Lyndon was remarkably calm and quiet. He suggested that the Presidential plane ought to be moved to another part of the field. He spoke of going back out to the plane in unmarked black cars. Every face that came in, you searched for the answer, I think the face I kept seeing the answer on was the face of Kenny O'Donnell, who loved President Kennedy so much.

It was Lyndon who spoke of it first, although I knew I would not leave without doing it. He said, "You had better try to see Jackie and Nellie." We didn't know what had happened to John.

MEETS JACKIE

I asked the Secret Service if I could be taken to them. They began to lead me up one corridor and down another. Suddenly I found myself face to face with Jackie in a small hallway. I believe it was right outside the operating room. You always think of someone like her as being insulated, protected. She was quite alone. I don't think I ever saw anyone so much alone in my life. I went up to her, put my arms around her, and said something to her. I'm sure it was something like "God help us all," because my feelings for her were too tumultuous to put into words.

And then I went to see Nellie. There it was different, because Nellie and I have gone through so many things together since 1938. I hugged her tight and we both cried and I said, "Nellie, John's going to be all right." And Nellie said, "Yes, John's going to be all right." Among her many other fine qualities, she is also strong.

I turned and went back to the small white room where Lyndon was. Mac Kilduff, the President's press man on this trip, and Kenny O'Donnell were coming and going. I think it was from Kenny's face that I first knew the truth and from Kenny's voice that I first heard the words "The President is dead." Mr. Kilduff entered and said to Lyndon, "Mr. President."

It was decided that we would go immediately to the airport. Hurried plans were made about how we should get to the cars and who was to ride in which car. Our departure from the hospital and approach to the cars was one of the swiftest walks I have ever made.

HALF-MAST

We got in. Lyndon told the agents to stop the sirens. We drove along as fast as we could. I looked up at a building and there, already, was a flag at half-mast. I think that was when the enormity of what had happened first struck me.

When we got to the field, we entered Air Force One for the first time. There was a TV set on and the commentator was saying, "Lyndon B. Johnson, now President of the United States."

NEXT: The President lay in state. A gray day, suited to the sad occasion.

A Devotion For Today . . .

"Do not be anxious about tomorrow; tomorrow will look after itself." (Matthew 6:34, NEB)

PRAYER: Strengthen our faith, O heavenly Father, that we may not be overly anxious about our daily life. Let us remember that Thou carest for us and wilt always lead us if we fully trust in Thee. Increase our faith as we pray the prayer Thy Son taught us, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

(From the 'Upper Room')

Never A More Important Time To Vote

From the White House to the lowest precinct level, people concerned with public affairs are frankly alarmed at the apparent disinterest on the part of voters in this important election season.

This is virtually beyond understanding, at a time when the nation and all its segments are in such restiveness over a wide panorama of social and economic problems. It should be the time when the people express themselves the most fully.

It is time for thinking people to make some resolutions on citizenship. What if only half of the qualified electorate in Texas goes to the polls Nov. 3? What if a certain candidate wins by a one per cent margin? If a man takes office on the say-so of a fourth of the qualified voters, is this the democratic process in action? It definitely is not.

Texas has time yet, to determine their choices, as between Republicans and Democrats. They have time to decide on seven constitutional amendments to be decided. They have the time; will they take it? They had better, or minorities take control.

If you find it impossible to vote on Nov. 3, you are reminded that absentee voting may be done through Friday, Oct. 30. Choose this procedure, if you must.

But absentee or in person, move out of the "silent" majority this year, and become a member of the "active" majority. Your vote was never more important.

Ben Barnes' Leadership Needed

Strongly recommended for voter support on Nov. 3 is young West Texas Ben Barnes for re-election as lieutenant governor of Texas.

He has been the biggest vote getter in the history of Texas, and with reason. He is young, tough, dedicated, and he has brought to his office — a most important one since from it comes appointments to Senate committees which can chart much of the legislation of the state — warm enthusiasm and boundless energy. He has coupled these qualities of youth with a sound knowledge of the state, its position, its problems, its need.

He has achieved a fine performance record as a major state office holder, asserting leadership, functioning fairly, and looking in the last analysis to what is best for all the people of Texas.

His record entitles him to another term, and surely the people of Texas will recognize this. This young man has the will, the capacity and the innate sense of public service possessed by few in our state in recent years, and Texas needs to keep him as a major leader.

David Lawrence Helping Hand For Railroads

WASHINGTON — When Congress approved a bill last week to finance a railroad corporation to help maintain passenger service in America, critics immediately called it "nationalization." But, by whatever name the relief measure is characterized, the fact is that government — federal, state and local — drove the railroads out of the passenger business by supplying more than 247 billion dollars over the last 50 years for highways on which trucks, buses and automobiles travel and carry both the passengers and freight that used to furnish receipts to the rail lines.

THE AMERICAN taxpayers have paid the bill for these roads, but they will only have to pay a small fraction of this sum to assist the railroads. It was in the public interest for highways to be provided, and it now has been found necessary to maintain a certain number of passenger trains. Most of the railroads are in financially unsound condition. The citizens of America need passenger service by train in certain sections of the country and on certain occasions, particularly when airline travel is impaired by bad weather.

Likewise, mail service is being hurt as rail transportation is curtailed across the country, and in this itself is damaging to American life.

TRUCKS HAVE played a vital part in carrying freight and have been able to deliver goods to points not reached by trains. The country has benefited by both rail and highway service. There were relatively few buses and trucks, and almost no airlines 40 years ago, when approximately 20,000 passenger trains were running between cities. Only a decade ago, there were 1,200, but the number now has been cut down to less than 400.

Billy Graham

Will you please give me a list of the signs of Christ's coming? S.H.

Better than anything I can give you on this subject is for you to read the twenty-fourth chapter of Matthew, beginning with verse four. In this order Jesus lists the signs of His return to the earth: 1. False Christs. 2. Prevalence of wars. 3. Tension between nations. 4. Famines, pestilences. 5. Earthquakes. 6. False prophets. 7. Abounding iniquity. 8. Spiritual coldness. 9. The preaching of the Gospel to all the world; and, 10. The defilement of the "holy place."

Space forbids that we elaborate upon these, but if you will read my book, "World Aflame," I have devoted seventy-five pages to the explanation of these signs.

With all these signs, the Bible says, "No man knoweth the day nor the hour." This we know: He said He would return to the world; the fulfillment of the signs Jesus mentioned point to His return; and, it is imperative that we be ready to meet Him when He comes. As He said, "Therefore, be ye also ready, for in an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh." Matthew 24:44.

Around The Rim Failure In Fur-Trapping

It says in a news release that fur trapping in Texas probably went out with the raccoon coat.

Deep in Southeast Texas some people are still snagging muskrat and nutria, but there's no more industry as such.

"Was not ever thus. There used to be maybe a couple of million pelts a year go out of Texas, and I want to testify that me and my pal Homer, when we were punkin-head kids, shipped at least a couple of them. What they was, was pole-cat skins.

MEMORY HAS it that me and Homer had tried a lemonade stand, and hauling cotton-seed hulls in a donkey cart, without much financial success at either enterprise. Then we happened on one of those glamor catalogs from a St. Louis fur company which held forth prospects of remarkable profits for the proper type of furs.

We snatched three or four of those simple spring-jaw traps from his Daddy's hardware store, and spent many an arduous day tramping up Lone Wolf Creek, looking for "caves" — at least crevasses in the rocky ledges — where we felt that rich fur-bearing animals made their headquarters.

THE PATIENCE of such veteran trappers held out for a few nights, until, in truth, we snagged what I know now to be a couple of pretty mangy, scrawny pole-cats.

To us, they were prime skunk fur, and visions of dollar signs danced in our heads.

IT IS NEEDLESS to recite what our parents thought when we came home dragging the pole-cats and smelling like you guess what. Why we were permitted to skin those varmints and stretch the skins until we thought we had a valuable pair of pelts, I will never know. I suppose we were forced to sleep in the barn for several nights, but what better place for ole trappers?

We finally made a shipment, surely under protest of the post office department. And we sat back and waited, with considerable less patience than when we were stalking the skunks, for our big checks to return.

THERE CAME A day when a form-type slip arrived, and it reported rather succinctly that our pelts were found to be less than prime, and consequently of no worth to the fur company. It thanked us for our patronage and said it would like to have some more marketable furs.

Me and Homer said the heck with it, the company was crooked, and we just wouldn't trap any more polecats.

THE CLINCHER that helped us make up our minds was that our parents said if we were to become trappers we could just live on the creek and not bother to come home. And also, when Homer's Daddy found about the stolen traps, he padded the whey out of both of us.

Looking back on our experience, it is no wonder to me that the fur trapping business has disappeared.

Business Mirror Inflation Pressures Continue To Mount

By DAVID BURKE AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Although inflationary pressures continue to mount, there was some sign this past week that the corporate profit squeeze, at least, is beginning to ease.

A preliminary survey of 592 nonfinancial corporations by the First National City Bank showed that 55 per cent earned more this quarter than a year ago.

And while total earnings for all the companies was down an estimated 3 per cent from 1969 levels, this was still an improvement over the 6 per cent dip reported during the first half, Citibank said.

LIVING COST UP

In releasing these figures, the bank pointed out that many large companies had not yet reported their profits.

The battle against inflation, however, continued to sag amid news of a sharp rise in consumer prices and predictions of an increased federal budget deficit.

The Labor Department reported a 0.5 per cent jump in the consumer price index for September on a seasonally adjusted basis. This came on the heels of relatively modest increases during the previous three months.

The increase was the highest since last May, when the index also climbed 0.5 per cent.

Another Labor Department report showed that the real purchasing power of American workers in September had its sharpest decline in 21 months. Rising prices and reduced working hours were blamed for the decline, which saw the weekly take home pay after Social Security and federal tax deduction fall more than 83 cents. This is expressed in terms of 1967-59 dollars.

DEFICIT OUTLOOK

Further inflationary warnings came from a prediction by Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means

INDECISIVE

- Company earnings off, however half show profit rise.
- Rep. Mills forecasts hefty budget deficit—may be $16 billion.
- Cost of living increase at highest rate since May reports.
- GM Strike reflects in gloomy durable goods outlook.
- Many major companies show earning drop, but some gain.

Committee. He told a convention meeting this week that the government's budget deficit for the current fiscal year "is very likely to be . . . as much as $15 billion or $16 billion." Only last week, Mills estimated the deficit as $12.8 billion.

Indications of the growing discontent with the Nixon administration's failure to control the inflationary spiral came from leaders of the Business Council. Meeting in Hot Springs, Va., the leaders praised the administration's general fiscal and monetary policies, but said they were insufficient to hold down wage increases and reduce the pace of inflation.

Criticism was also voiced by AFL-CIO President George Meany, who charged that Nixon's game plan was an "utter failure."

DURABLES DEMAND

However, administration officials said the September price figures represented an aberration that the President's program to restore the economy's health was working.

Another note of gloom came from a Commerce Department report that new durable-goods orders fell 3.1 per cent in September, following a 2.7 per cent drop a month earlier. These figures are considered a leading indicator of the economy's future movements.

A large portion of this decline was attributed by one government economist to the General Motors strike, which began in mid-September. The impact of the strike is expected to have a serious impact on the fourth-quarter earnings picture. Wall Street analysts pointed out. The strike was one factor behind the downturn in stock market prices this week, they stated.

Another factor, they said, was the sudden rash of lower third-quarter earnings reports which, though not unexpected, still weighed heavily on investor psychology.

MIXED PICTURE

Chrysler reported a 71 per cent decline in third-quarter year-earlier figures to $1.1 million or two cents a share. Du Pont had an 8 per cent falloff to $77.7 million or $1.60 a share.

Republic Steel Corp. showed profits of $11.3 million, or 70 cents a share, down from $14.1 million, or 89 cents a share, in 1969. Polaroid Corp. also reported an earnings drop to $14.6 million, or 45 cents a share, a 22 per cent plunge.

Earnings declines also were reported by General Telephone and Electronics, Kennecott Copper Corp., Gulf Oil Corp., Trans World Airlines, American Airlines, and National Airline.

On the plus side, R.J. Reynolds reported a 29 per cent profit gain and National Steel a 2.7 per cent rise in the third quarter. Mobil Oil Corp. and Skelly Oil Co. reported earnings gains of about 8 per cent.

Marquis Childs Campaigner Nixon In Action

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. — The East Tennessee State University band plays "Hail to the Chief." The President of the United States! The crowd, close packed on the slopes of the Administration Building breaks into prolonged applause and cheers.

IT HAPPENS that we've been standing for two hours waiting for Mr. Nixon to arrive. He is at least an hour late. For reasons of security the exact time of his appearance was not announced. It happens, too, that through no fault of the President's the rain threatening through the morning begins to fall in a cold drizzle. Umbrellas come up obscuring the figure so small on the platform below.

This is the first time, according to the master of ceremonies, that a President in office has come to East Tennessee. He is a magnet, a piece of magic, chief of the tribe. Children are held high so for a moment they can catch a glimpse of the man who is President of the United States.

AS HE declaims in his vigorous, insistent style on crime, violence, the bombings, and the defects of the 91st Congress, we listen respectfully (no booing, no chanted obscenities here), now and then breaking into applause. Whether it is the cold rain or the cautious temperament of East Tennesseeans the crowd, variously estimated at from 40,000 to 120,000, depending on the politics of the estimator, is politely responsive rather than enthusiastic.

THE QUESTION is how much the President can do for the candidates of his party in a close Congressional race at the eleventh hour. Going all out for Rep. William E. Brock, the Republican candidate for the Senate, he makes him sound like a statesman for the ages. The President tells us that he needs statesmen like Brock to put through his anti-crime, anti-inflation, and welfare programs.

And while he gives Brock's Democratic opponent, Sen. Albert Gore, the benefit of the doubt — he probably really isn't in favor of crime — you just can't trust the Democrats who have been delaying and chopping up the Nixon programs. With one last appeal for Brock, Jimmy Quillen, the smiling, fat-faced Congressman from this district, and Winfield Dunn, the Republican candidate for Governor, the President is off, pushing his way through an aisle of handshaking admirers. He has been with us just under an hour.

IMPARTIAL OBSERVERS believe that Gore, the underdog, is overtaking Brock. If nothing untoward happens between now and Nov. 3, they think he may outdistance the aggressive, far-to-the-right young Congressman. Brock is a new type of Republican in East Tennessee, a Goldwaterite who speaks to the white suburbs.

BUT HE IS not counting on the Nixon coattails. His television mastermind, Harry Treleven, the same Treleven who masterminded the selling of the President on the tube in 1968, is launching an attack on Gore's "no" vote on the prayer amendment. Obviously, a man who doesn't believe in prayer in the public schools is unfit to sit in the Senate of the United States. The masterminds directing Brock's campaign are hitting up three themes — campus unrest, gun control and the prayer amendment—which have the highest emotional content.

THE GREAT MAN is driving away. In the last glimpse of him we have he is wedged into an open-top car with Brock and Dunn, all of them waving furiously. If the President of the United States failed to resolve all our uncertainties he showed that he himself has no doubts whatsoever. (Copyright, 1970, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Art Buchwald The Search For Milhous

WASHINGTON — There has been some speculation as to why President Nixon has put his prestige on the line by taking to the campaign trail the last few weeks of an off-year election. Many professional Nixon-watchers feel the President is taking a great risk by personally getting into the political arena.

IF THE MAJORITY of the candidates he endorses do not do well, the President is the one who will suffer most.

What nobody knows is that the President's decision to leave Washington and hop around the country has a much deeper significance for him than politics.

The secret was revealed by a White House aide who had been personally assigned to lead it to me.

The aide told me, "No one realizes it, but one of the President's deepest disappointments on his trip to Europe was his inability to find anyone in Ireland who was related to him."

"I KNEW IT was a blow," I said, "but I didn't know it meant that much to him."

The aide nodded his head. "It meant a lot. As you know, every Secret Service man assigned to the President was ordered to go out and find a Nixon relative if he had to dig up every dog in Ireland."

"It must have been tough work," I said.

"Although the Secret Service failed to produce a Milhous in Ireland who could in any way be related to the President, it did get some very interesting leads.

"One was that a Richard Milhous had been driven out of Ireland in 1850 for student heckling. Milhous was said to have come to the United States on a three-masted immigrant schooner called the Bebe Rebozo. But after docking in New York, he disappeared into the melting pot of America — no one is quite sure where."

"THAT'S VERY interesting," I said. "But what has that got to do with President Nixon's campaigning?"

When the President came back to the United States, he was determined to find the relatives he couldn't find in Ireland. But he was too embarrassed to admit he was searching for them. So he told his staff to find some excuse for him to get around the country so he could find the descendants of Richard Milhous."

"IT SOUNDS like the President has an identification problem," I said.

"The staff pointed out that with the elections coming up the President would have a perfect excuse to visit many of the states where Milhous is purported to have settled. These states included Connecticut, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Maryland, New Jersey, Michigan, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia and California."

"The President really thinks he'll find his relatives in one of those states?" I said.

"HE'S CERTAIN of it. While he has been meeting with various Republican candidates and making a few political speeches, the Secret Service has been combing the area, making a house-to-house search, hoping to find a Milhous who might be related to the President."

"How long will the President keep up the search?"

"Probably until Nov. 2. If he doesn't find any Milhouses by then, he's decided to go back to Washington." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

Motorcycle Saga Pattern Of Youth

Some of the most spectacular natural and man-made scenery in Arizona and Nevada provides location background for the exciting contemporary drama, "C.C. and Company," opening in color Wednesday at the Cinema Theatre.

Joe Namath and Ann-Margret star in the fast-paced, free-wheeling story, set against the motorcycle milieu that is part of the pattern of the youth culture in America today.

For the film, a half-mile European-style "motocross" racing circuit was specially constructed in mountain country near Tucson, as the site of some of the picture's most accelerated action sequences. In his first starring role, Namath portrays a non-conformist motorcycle gypsy who races against champion cyclist John DeSoto and two dozen of America's top professional motorcyclists.

The motocross route duplicates many features of the most challenging Continental courses, including steep hills, water and mud hazards, right-angle turns, wide jumps, sand pits, steep drops and tree-studded slalom sections.

A classic western style motorcycle "duel" between Namath and Moon, the ruthless leader of a motorcycle gang, is a high point of "C.C. and Company." This high-horsepower showdown takes place at night in the football stadium of The University of Arizona!

Interiors for a nightclub sequence in the film were filmed at the Casino Room of the world-famed Flamingo Hotel in Las Vegas.

Satire About War Is 40th Picture For Lewis

"Which Way to the Front?" is a high-style comedy which opens today at the Ritz Theatre. The satire about war marks Jerry Lewis' 40th motion picture project.

Lewis is the star, director and producer of "Which Way to the Front?" The film co-stars Jan Murray, English actor John Woods, Steve Franken, Dack Rambo, Willie Davis and Sidney Miller.

The screenplay, written by Gerald Gardner and Dee Caruso from an original story by Less Colodny, Richard Bakalayan and Richard Miller, depicts the goings-on of a young millionaire who is rejected by the Army in World War II and decides to form his own army of misfits to wage war against the Nazis.

Murray and Lewis became friends more than 30 years ago when they first met at a summer hotel on New York's Borscht Belt. Wood recently appeared with Sammy Davis, Jr. and Peter Lawford in "One More Time," which Jerry Lewis directed. Franken and Rambo have appeared on many TV programs.

Los Angeles Dodgers' Willie Davis makes his movie debut as a part-time chauffeur and part-time warrior in Lewis' personally subsidized army. Sidney Miller portrays Adolf Hitler in a lugubrious, but comic style.

Lewis wrote a scene specifically for Joe Besser, a Hollywood veteran who is currently celebrating his 50th year in the motion picture industry. Besser appears as a GI. Popular comics Kay Ballard, Harold J. Stone and Paul Winchell make special guest appearances.

W. Wallace Kelley, the veteran cameraman of many Lewis films, photographed "Which Way to the Front?" in Los Angeles and nearby Burbank. Special location sites include Wilmington Harbor, Griffith Park, and the Long Beach Naval Base, which doubles as the Bay of Naples.

VAMPIRE IS NEW MATINEE IDOL

From Shakespeare To Fame As Ghoul

Jonathan Frid, alias Barnabas Collins, vampire. Teeny-bopper's delight. Housewife's heart flutter. Shakespearean actor. A new kind of matinee idol.

How does a dedicated actor adjust to enormous fame and piles of fan mail from his portrayal of a 175-year old (but well preserved) vampire on an afternoon soap opera? With humor and good grace, in Jon Frid's case.

Fame is fame, and Barnabas Collins is not an easy role. Dark Shadows the first Gothic soap opera, was doing so-so in its first year until Barnabas was written in, supposedly for only six weeks. Audience reaction was so immediate that, like another man who came to dinner, Barnabas stayed on in Collinwood, the family mansion where all the dark shadows accumulate, and the show took a new turn for the ghoulish and hit top ratings.

Frid modestly disclaims total responsibility for this, but hopes that it was his ability that helped make Barnabas into something more than a monster — in fact, a vampire with soul, if there can be such a thing.

He often likens Barnabas to any tortured man with a dreadful secret, torn between essential humanity and whatever it may be that is haunting him.

Frid has just finished his first film. It is, of course "House of Dark Shadows" and is based on the TV series. He and co-stars Joan Bennett and Grayson Hall head a cast drawn almost entirely from the serial.

It was a hectic period for all first year until Barnabas was continued daily, and there were times when some of the cast were alternately taping for television one day and making scenes for the film the next.

The film revolves around Barnabas and his entry into the Collinwood family, but will be entirely different from that episode on TV. It will also have a different quality from the standard vampire film, having been shot on location in various antique mansions in the New York area, and abounding with romantic complications, as befits its origins.

Jonathan Frid away from his fangs is a soft-spoken, friendly and almost shy actor still adjusting to the hysterical adulation he receives from fans. During the film's last week of shooting, in an enormous old house in Norwalk, Conn., the site was ringed with fans chanting "we want Barnabas" and subjecting him to virtual imprisonment on the set, an inconvenience he accepted with characteristic good grace. His handling of the younger children, torn between delight at seeing him and fear that he might bite, was charming, as was his manner with even the most bedraggled teen-age hero worshipper.

Basically a classically-trained actor (the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts and the Yale Drama School), the Canadian-born Frid hopes that he won't be constantly chained to the casket of the Barnabas portrayal and will someday be able to take temporary leave of it to play some of the Shakespearean roles that are dear to his heart. However, he will not admit to looking down on Barnabas. "There's vast scope for variety within the role," he says, and adds wryly, "vampires are immortal, you know."

Jean Seberg Sees Role As 'Flower Child' Of 1800s

When Jean Seberg was signed for the role of Elizabeth in "Paint Your Wagon," it marked another milestone in her acting career.

Producer Alan Jay Lerner and director Joshua Logan cast Miss Seberg in the role, although she never had sung or danced in a motion picture. The film also stars Lee Marvin and Clint Eastwood.

Miss Seberg describes her part in "Paint Your Wagon" as "the best woman's role I have ever read. Elizabeth is a 19th century 'flower child.' She is refreshingly unorthodox in her thinking and attitude toward open loving. It's like a dream come true — something totally new for me."

The road from her home town in Marshalltown, Iowa, to the "Paint Your Wagon" locations in Baker, Oregon, was a long, winding, torturous and exciting one.

As a 17 year old, the young actress won instant acclaim when Otto Preminger selected her to play the title role in his "Saint Joan."

And her second motion picture, "Bonjour Tristesse," also was well-received.

Young Jean went to France as the wife of Parisian lawyer Moreuil and, although the marriage terminated after one year, she stayed on to become an important personality in the French "new wave" of motion pictures.

After she had appeared in "The Mouse that Roared" and "Let No Man Write My Epitaph," France's Jean-Luc Godard starred her in "Breathless," a $70,000 experiment in new techniques which has grossed more than $2,000,000 and helped set the pattern for today's cinema revolution.

HARDEST HIT ARE UNSKILLED

'No Jobs Available For Them'

By LINDA CROSS

The soup-lines of the Depression era have not yet been resurrected, but unemployment and its companion hunger are being felt in Howard County.

Hardest hit are the unskilled and the lesser-educated. According to Leon M. Kinney, office manager of the local office of the Texas Employment Commission, there are no jobs available for this type of worker. The result is that an unusually high number of employable men have been forced to seek aid through the county welfare office.

These men, according to Mrs. Ruby Phillips, county welfare officer, are between the ages of 28 and 40. Ten such men have asked to be allowed to obtain food for their families through the county commodities program in the last week and a half, said Mrs. Phillips.

"They've tried everything else," said Mrs. Phillips. "There are no jobs available for them here, and they can't leave to find work. They have homes here, and the children are in school."

"Many have no transportation to get to another job, and no money to rent a home," said Mrs. Phillips.

Even if these men were free to go to other areas in the state, finding a job likely would not be any simpler. Texas Employment Commission figures show that 176,500 persons were unemployed in August this year as compared with 124,000 unemployed at the same time in 1969.

"Crops were no good this year, and farm employment has been hard hit. There seems to be a gradual recession all over the country," said Kinney.

"A Sweetwater garment factory that employed a lot of people recently shut down. Other communities feel it, because employees move on to other areas looking for jobs," said Kinney.

"We have the problem of emphasizing the employment of the disadvantaged — those who lack education or a special ability. We're not having any luck at all trying to place these people at the present time," he added. "The only ones we've got to depend on are the employees in Big Spring. Veterans get preferential placement."

"I don't think Howard County is as hard hit as other areas. But we have had approximately 40 per cent more unemployment claims than last year at this same time," continued Kinney. "During the week of Oct. 14, we had 98 unemployment claims. During Oct. 10-15, 1969, we had 61 claims — a one-third increase," he said. January and February are usually the peak months for unemployment claims, according to Kinney. February's total of 89 in 1969 is not as high as last week's total.

In the meantime, their families must be fed. Mrs. Phillips and the TEC cooperate in trying to find employment, but in the interim, the men must obtain commodities. Mrs. Phillips admits that she is trying to keep as many as possible off the county welfare rolls. According to her figures, there are 1,000 to 1,100 individuals on welfare in Howard County. This includes the elderly, blind and families with dependent children.

"The commodities program was begun in 1961 to help the elderly indigent and widows with dependent children. I order 35,000 to 38,000 pounds of food a month for the program," she said. Mrs. Phillips said she tried to find employment for the men who came to her.

She agrees with TEC that this season's bad weather and resultant poor crops have affected the manual labor market. In past years, yardwork has furnished jobs during bad seasons. Mrs. Phillips and Kinney agree that even these jobs are fewer. More homeowners themselves are unable to afford salary for a worker.

Kinney said he saw no signs of appreciable change.

SBA Meeting Slated Here

The indoctrination session probably will be followed by regular visits by SBA representatives, who will be ready to assist any business man.

Officials to be here will include Fred Neumann, district director; Carl Lightner, community development officer; John LoGreco, management assistant officer; and Horatio Hanks, loan officer.
