

Hoover

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, apparently uneasy bedfellows in law enforcement for two years, have publicly divorced themselves with verbal blasts at each other.

Clark, Hoover's boss from 1967 to 1969, fired the first shot. The 76-year-old director's "self-centered concern for his own reputation," said Clark in a new book, led to the FBI's sacrifice of "effective crime control."

Hoover, in turn, told a Washington Post reporter that Clark was "a jellyfish," the worst attorney general in the 45 years Hoover has headed the elite federal law enforcement agency.

ROBERT F. KENNEDY

Calls

While a 1964 confrontation over standards for FBI agents resulted in Hoover's refusal to speak to the late Robert F. Kennedy in the last six months of his tenure as attorney general, the director told the Washington Post in an interview:

"If ever there was a worse attorney general, it was Ramsey Clark. You never knew which way he was going to flop on an issue."

"He was worse than Bobby (Kennedy)," the newspaper's Tuesday edition quoted Hoover as saying. "At least Kennedy stuck by his guns, even when he was wrong."

Clark could not be reached immediately for comment.

J. EDGAR HOOVER

Clark

Hoover termed Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, his current boss, an "honest, sincere and very human man."

"There has never been an attorney general for whom I've had higher regard," the Post quoted him as saying.

In his book, "Crime in America," Clark charged "the FBI has so coveted personal credit that it will sacrifice ever effective crime control before it will share the glory of its exploits."

"This has been a petty and costly characteristic caused by the excessive domination of a single person, J. Edgar Hoover, and his self-centered concern for his reputation and that of the FBI."

RAMSEY CLARK

Jellyfish

Advance publicity on the book stirred Hoover to momentarily lower a barrier between himself and newsmen that had existed for three years.

Judging by past public statements of both men, Hoover and Clark were poles apart in their philosophical approach to law enforcement.

"HANDCUFFS' COPS" Clark displayed a tendency to search for the social and economic causes of crime; Hoover is less willing to forgive. Clark supported the Supreme Court decisions expanding rights of (See Verbal, Page 6, Col. 4)

WIRING 'ERROR' 'Hot Line' Of Governors' Called Hoax

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — A source close to Gov. Marvin Mandel confirmed today that the governor's "hot line" telephone linking his office with those of other state governors and national Civil Defense headquarters is wired to permit eavesdropping on Mandel himself.

The hot line phone of Delaware's Gov. Russell W. Peterson is reported similarly wired.

The phones were installed 14 years ago.

The source in Mandel's office said the wiring in the hot line phone indicated it had been done at the factory when the telephone was produced and not at a later date after it was installed.

Telephone company officials have denied that there is any way eavesdropping could have occurred on Mandel's phone or any other and have attributed the wiring to an "error."

The governor's aide did not say what would be done about the wiring or whether the same situation existed in telephone equipment of other governors.

A report on the wiring appeared in the Baltimore Sunpapers.

The newspaper also said unnamed sources in Annapolis, Md., and Dover, Del., reported no evidence indicating that anyone had taken advantage of the wiring to listen to any conversation.

The telephones were installed to give state executives quick access to Civil Defense officials in the event of an impending attack or natural disaster, a Pentagon spokesman said.

When the receiver is on the hook, however, the wiring allows the mouthpiece to pick up conversations in the room, the Sunpapers said. The Pentagon spokesman said the Department of Defense and the White House could be patched into the network — in effect could hear conversations in offices with "hot line" phones wired in such a manner.

"The thing is a big hoax and it has been blown out of proportion," said Pete White, staff supervisor for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

American Airlines Lays Off 114 Workers

DALLAS (AP) — American Airlines Inc. has laid off 114 employees in the Dallas and Fort Worth area during the past month, a company spokesman said Monday.

Among them are 21 pilots and 53 sales and service personnel from the passenger and freight divisions. No stewardesses were included.

The spokesman said the lay-off, which amounts to five per cent of American's 2,200 work force in the area, was caused by the decline in the national economy.

"We have held off as long as we possibly could," he said. "The airline industry tracks very closely with the national economy, probably reacting no more than three to five months behind."

Cold Stings 'Dixie'

By The Associated Press

Sharp cold stung wide areas of the Deep South today and dropped temperatures to the freezing mark from Louisiana to Delaware.

Readings in the 20s were common in north central Georgia. Record lows included 26 at Meridian, Miss., and 42 at West Palm Beach and 46 at Miami Beach, both in Florida.

The coldest spot in the nation before daybreak was Alamosa, Colo., with a reading of 9.

Now, This Is Equal Rights!

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A woman has been ordered to pay her ex-husband $25 a week in child support.

Circuit Court Judge William E. Gramling directed Monday that Mary A. Russell pay William E. Moes to help raise their four children who range in age from 7 to 16.

Mrs. Russell, 38, received a divorce in 1968 on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. Moes was given custody of the children.

RECOMMENDED FOR EAGLE SCOUT RANK — James Clark, 16, of Foster, R.I., displays his scouting badges which make him eligible for Eagle Scout rank, after it was announced last night that he would be recommended for that rank despite being refused earlier because his application lacked "confirmation of duty to God." A Scout executive confirmed last night that Clark's ideals were consistent with the Boy Scout oath.

Father Insists Son Is Atheist

FOSTER, R.I. (AP) — A Boy Scout denied the rank of Eagle Scout because scout officials said the boy's father admitted to being an atheist and claimed his son was one too, has established his eligibility for the rank.

James Clark, 16, met at his home Monday night with Robert F. Parkinson, scout executive for Narragansett Council, and afterward Parkinson said the boy would be recommended for Eagle rank.

"He has established his eligibility through our conversation tonight," Parkinson said. Before the boy can obtain the rank, he must appear before a regional board of review which makes the final decision on all Eagle Scout awards. After his meeting with Parkinson, Clark read a statement saying, "I have confirmed that my ideals are consistent with the Boy Scout oath and law. I wish to remain active in the Boy Scout program because I believe in its aims and purposes of helping boys to become better men."

The problem came to public attention after Parkinson informed the executive board of the Narragansett Council last Thursday that Clark would not be considered for scouting's highest rank.

SHOT IN COLD BLOOD?

'Some Tried To Run! They Didn't Make It!'

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The prosecutor at the murder trial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. told a panel of six Army officers today that Calley ordered and participated in the execution of "unarmed men, women and children" at the South Vietnamese village of My Lai on March 16, 1968.

In his opening statement as the trial of Calley began, Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III told the court-martial board that Calley ordered enlisted men under his command to gather up civilians in the village and "kill 'em. Waste 'em."

"Some tried to run. They didn't make it. They were shot down dead in cold blood on that trail," Daniel declared.

Kremlin's Brash 'Child' Walks Moon Near 'Mom'

MOSCOW (AP) — Luna 17 made a successful landing on the moon today and discharged a self-propelled lunar module which is conducting experiments 65 feet from the mother ship, Tass announced.

The module, called Lunokhod 1, is moving about on an eight-wheel chassis, the Soviet news agency said.

The vehicle, like the unmanned Luna 17, is controlled from the earth, and all its systems are functioning normally, Tass said.

The announcement said the wheeled vehicle carried a

"French reflector for laser location on the moon."

It was another first for the Soviet program of unmanned space exploration, the first time a moon ship after landing has sent out another module to conduct experiments.

Luna 17's landing on the moon was first reported by the Bochum Observatory in West Germany. It said the spaceship launched last Tuesday put down on the northern half of the lunar surface at 0400GMT—11 p.m. EST Monday—and began transmitting pictures of excellent quality 83 minutes later.

'Lame-Ducks' Hand Nixon New Defeat

Job Safety Bill Backed By Labor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has dealt President Nixon on his first loss in the newly opened lame-duck session, a two-vote rejection of his effort to water down a job safety bill backed by organized labor.

In spite of Monday's 41-39 vote to table, and thus kill, a White House backed substitute for the bill covering 80 million workers, Republicans indicated another effort would be made to bring the measure more in line with administration and business thinking.

GOODELL SCORES Seven Republicans, including one defeated for re-election two weeks ago, joined 34 Democrats in voting against the administration's substitute. Opposing the tabling motion were 27 Republicans and 12 Democrats.

Among those voting to table the President's plan was Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., defeated Nov. 3 by conservative James L. Buckley, the White House favorite in the three-way race.

Other Republicans voting to kill the administration's proposal were Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, Jacob Javits of New York, Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania and Ted Stevens of Alaska.

Two other Republicans, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Charles Percy of Illinois did not vote but were paired—or announced—as in favor of tabling.

The action leaves the bill approved by the Labor Committee before the Senate. That measure has the support of the AFL-CIO and liberal Democrats.

TOO MUCH POWER The Democrats' bill gives the secretary of labor authority to make and enforce mandatory health and safety standards for virtually all industries.

Under the defeated Nixon plan, one board would be created to draw up the standards and another to enforce them.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, asked Congress to reject the President's proposal, declaring that the boards would both be industry-dominated.

However, Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., who offered the administration substitute, said concentrating all authority in the secretary of labor put too much power in the hands of one man.

UF RISING

The United Fund topped $90,000 this morning, with contributions turned in by nearly all the campaign divisions. The new total is $90,241.94, over the 80 per cent mark on the way to $109,975.

Clubhouse Becomes Fiery Death Trap For Texas Boy

MERIT, Tex. (AP) — A shed that three children used as a clubhouse became a fiery death trap for an eight-year old boy in this North Central Texas town Monday.

Bruce McCann burned to death when a gasoline can exploded in the shed where he, his sister, Sharon, 10, and a six-year old brother were playing.

His death wasn't discovered immediately. An older brother, Wesley, 12, who was ill in bed, said his sister, Sharon, ran into the house screaming she was on fire. Her mother, Mrs. John D. Quil-

Climbers Within Striking Distance

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — Two mountaineers were within striking distance of El Capitan's summit today after 26 days and almost 3,000 feet of climbing in a vertical world of rock and sky.

They hoped to pull over the final summit overhangs and become the first men to ascend the "Wall of the Morning Light" on the southeast face of the granite monolith towering over Yosemite Valley.

Ground coordinators said that even if unexpected difficulties arose the two should finish the ascent by Wednesday.

A corps of friends at the top of the trail prepared a welcome feast — fulfilling the climbers' dreams for food.

On Monday, Warren Harding, 46, of West Sacramento, Calif., and Dean Caldwell, 27, of Portland, Ore., overcame the last apparent major obstacle—the "Great Roof," a giant overhang that juts 15 feet or more straight out from the rock wall.

That put them at about 2,650 feet—350 feet from the top. The men started the climb Oct. 23, planning for a 10-day trip.

Jobless Veterans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment among Vietnam veterans is higher than the national average and is expected to get worse as the war winds down, the Labor Department says.

In its Monthly Labor Review Magazine, the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said 100,000 of the war's veterans were added to the jobless rolls between mid-1969 and mid-1970.

'I DO NOT BELIEVE I CAN UNITE THIS COUNTRY' 'You Can't Mean This! Oh No, No!'

By Lady Bird Johnson

White House Diary

The White House

This day began early because Lynda was coming in on "the red-eye special" from California, about 7 a.m., having kissed Chuck good-by at Camp Pendleton last night as she departed for Vietnam.

I wanted to be right there at the door with open arms to meet her, but I begged Lyndon not to get up. "No, I want to," he insisted. So the operator called us in what seemed the gray early morning and both of us were downstairs at the entrance to the Diplomatic Reception Room at 7 when she stepped out of the car.

LIKE A GHOST

She looked like a ghost — pale, tall, and drooping. We both hugged her and then we all went upstairs. I took her into her room, helped get her clothes off, and put her to bed. She'd had sedative on the plane, slept a little, not much — and it was, I think, partly emotion and partly the sedative that made her look so detached, like a wraith from another world.

She said, "Mother, they were awful — they kept on pushing and shoving to get to us, and they almost ran over a child. And there were lots of other wives there, saying good-by to their husbands!" She meant the press.

NO TIME

When I went back into Lyndon's room, his face was sagging and there was such pain in his eyes as I had not seen since his mother died. But he didn't have time for grief. Today was crescendo of a day. At 9 in the evening, Lyndon was to make his talk to the nation about the war. The speech was not yet firm. There were still revisions to be made and people to see. But he began to put on his clothes and got ready to go to church with Luci and Pat, sometimes he does more and more often.

On the way home from church, Lyndon stopped to see the vice president at his apartment. Hubert and Muriel are leaving for Mexico for a ceremony, sometime during the day. It was a day of coming and going — and it's hard to remember when what happened. Sometime during the morning Horace Busley came in, took up his place in the Treaty Room, and began to work on the speech. I had spent a good part of

Saturday and part of Friday making suggestions on it myself. I read it over again for what was the umpteenth time, and then (I believe it was in his bedroom), Lyndon said to Arthur and Mathilde Krim and me, "What do you think about this? This is what I'm going to put at the end of the speech." And he read a very beautifully written statement which ended, "Accordingly, I shall not seek and I will not accept the nomination of my party for another term as your President."

CALM FINALITY

The four of us had talked about this over and over, and hour after hour, but somehow we all acted and felt stunned. Maybe it was the calm finality in Lyndon's voice, and maybe we believed him for the first time. Arthur said something like, "You can't mean this!" And Mathilde exclaimed in an excited way, "Oh no, no!" Then we all began to discuss the reasons why, and why not, over and over again. Mathilde's eyes were full of tears, and Luci had obviously been crying furiously. Lyndon seemed to be coalescing into a calm, quiet state of mind, out of our reach. And I, what did I feel... so uncertain of the future that I would not dare to try to persuade him one way or the other. There was much in me that cried out to go on, to call on every friend we have, to give and work, to spend and fight, right up to the last. And if we lost, well and good — we were free! But if we didn't run, we could be free without all this draining of our friends. I think what was uppermost — what was going over and over in Lyndon's mind was what I've heard him say increasingly these last months: "I do not believe I can unite this country."

Sometime during the afternoon — the time is very hazy on this day — I think it was around 3 o'clock, Lyndon went to his office, and I talked to Lynda and to Luci. Both of them were emotional, crying and distraught. What does this do to the servicemen? They will think — What have I been sent out here for? — Was it all wrong? — Can I believe in what I've been fighting for?

Lynda and Luci seemed to feel that Lyndon has been the champion of the soldiers, and that his getting out would be a blow to them. Lynda said, with an edge of bitterness, "Chuck will hear this on his way to Vietnam."

NO MORALE PROBLEM

Later in the afternoon, I talked to Lyndon about what the girls had said. He said, "I called in Gen. Westmoreland last year about that, about how it would affect the morale of the men. He thinks it will not matter appreciably." I felt that Lynda and Luci were looking at it from closer range as the wives to two young soldiers, and pointed that out to him. He looked at me rather distantly and said, "I think Gen. Westmoreland knows more about it than they do."

It was a strange afternoon and evening. We would meet in the West Hall by twos or threes, or all of us — Mathilde, Arthur, Buzz, Lynda, Luci, Pat, and I — and look at each other, helplessly, silent, or exploding with talk. I felt as if I ought to do something, I must do something but what? And how did I dare do anything, with the decision so momentous, one I could by no means implement, or take the responsibility for making turn out right. I remember that I kept on looking at the hands of the clock, and counting the hours until 9 p.m. and the broadcast.

I went to him and said quietly, "Remember — pacing and drama" It was a great speech and I wanted him to get the greatest out of it — and I did not know what the end would be.

The speech was magnificently delivered. He's best, I think, in the worst of times, calm and strong — those who love him must have loved him more, and those who hate him must at least have thought: "Here is a man."

Then came the end of the speech. "What we won when all our people united just must not now be lost in suspicion, distrust, selfishness, and politics among any of our people. Believing this as I do, I have concluded that I should not permit the Presidency to become involved in the partisan divisions that are developing in this political year" — and so on.

"I do not believe that I should devote an hour or a day of my time to any personal partisan causes or to any duties other than the awesome duties of this office — the Presidency of your country. Accordingly, I shall not seek, and I will not accept, a nother term as your President."

Lynda and I had been sitting down, behind us Luci and Pat standing. Luci threw her arms around Lyndon. She was obviously holding back the tears, but just barely. Lynda kissed him, and Pat shook hands.

Lyndon's speech had been, I believe, nobly done, in its way almost as dramatic as our entrance into this job — although the actual exit is still nine months I'm going to bring the best I possibly can.

I went to sleep planning. NEXT: Two tragedies: King and Kennedy.

Forces Launch Major Sweep Into Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands of South Vietnamese troops pushed into northeast Cambodia today and uncovered one of the biggest North Vietnamese ammunition stockpiles of the war. In South Vietnam, enemy rockets and mortars hit two U.S. bases, killing three Americans and wounding 20. It was the heaviest American toll from rocket and mortar attacks in one day since July 22.

The new drive into Cambodia netted 254 tons of 85mm ammunition found in four holes six miles inside Cambodia's Ratanakiri Province, opposite South Vietnam's central highlands.

COPTER HIT
The South Vietnamese killed

11 North Vietnamese guarding the ammunition cache, the government said, and killed seven others in small clashes in the same general area. The only South Vietnamese casualties reported were two soldiers wounded when their helicopter was hit by North Vietnamese fire.

U.S. B-52 bombers and fighter-bombers hammered North Vietnamese supply routes and depots north and south of the 4,500-man South Vietnamese task force. But the U.S. Command said no direct American air support was being provided for the operation 185 miles north of Saigon. It was the farthest north May 5.

South Vietnamese troops have ventured into Cambodia since the first U.S. and South Vietnamese drives into the country last May and June. It was also the fourth major South Vietnamese drive into Cambodia in three weeks and raised to 16,000 the number of Saigon troops operating across the border.

RESULTS NOT KNOWN

One of the American bases hit by the enemy gunners in South Vietnam was the big Bien Hoa task force. But the U.S. Command said no direct American air support was being provided for the operation 185 miles north of Saigon. It was the farthest north May 5.

Cholera Spreading Among Survivors Of Bad Cyclone

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — Cholera spread today among hungry, homeless survivors of the cyclone and tidal waves that devastated heavily populated islands at the mouth of the Ganges River and stretches of the East Pakistani coast behind them.

Estimates of the total casualties were still only guesses, although relief officials said Monday night that the count of the dead had reached 55,000. Information Secretary Syed Ahmed spoke of possibly "300,000 or 500,000" dead, adding that such numbers were not confirmed.

Cholera, a disease endemic to the area, was reported spreading on Hatia, one of the stricken islands in the Ganges delta cyclone alley. Three ships sent there with medical supplies were waiting for swift currents to subside so they could land their cargo.

POLLUTED WATER

Officials feared a widespread epidemic due to polluted water and the destruction of sanitation facilities.

Relief Commissioner A. M. Anisuzzaman said the storm Friday hit an area of 2,388 square miles in five districts with 2.2 million people. Casualty reports still were unobtainable from many areas because of ruined communications facilities, he said.

President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan and a group of newsmen flew over the area for more than two hours on Monday.

RICE DESTROYED

The rice crop, always insufficient for the area's dense population of 600 persons per square mile, was destroyed on Hatia, the neighboring island of Bhola and the mainland. The government estimated that 250,000 tons — 2 per cent of East Pakistan's annual harvest — was destroyed.

Bodies were buried in mass graves. Survivors remained wandering about on high ground. Brackish water stood in the rice fields, stained red by the blood of cattle flung about by the 150-mile winds and 20-foot waves characteristic of Bay of Bengal cyclones. Such storms are called hurricanes in the Atlantic and Caribbean and typhoons in the Pacific.

Some survivors were dragging the bloated carcasses of cattle to burial pits. A few human corpses lay in the rice paddies, still unexplored by the survivors because of the standing water.

CATTLE CLUSTERS

On southern Bhola, a few homemade boats could be seen, little bigger than canoes, carrying people to a beach that had no vegetation. Live cattle stood in little clusters, awaiting the death that would come because they had no food.

In northern Bhola, where the island's biggest towns are, flood waters were more widespread than in the south but more life was visible.

Amid the devastation, the peasants were picking up their lives again, beginning to put up new huts from whatever materials they could round up and spreading out the household possessions they had salvaged, placing them on lines and fodder mounds to dry.

The devastating cyclones from off the bay are a semiannual fact of life, coming every spring and fall with hundreds of thousands drowned and widespread destruction. The peasants are resigned to this inevitability.

EVERYONE KILLED

Radio Pakistan said everybody was killed on 13 islands near Chittagong, a mainland city southeast of Bhola.

Anisuzzaman said $2.7 million was released by Karachi for relief and another $46 million was set aside. He said the army has been mobilized, and the United States has been asked to provide helicopters.

The relief commissioner said aid also is coming from Switzerland, West Germany and Britain. About $70,000 worth of supplies donated by the British government was loaded aboard Royal Air Force planes in Singapore.

LLOYD WHO? — EXCLUSIVE

Wealth Eases Political Pressure

By ED N. WISHCAMPER
Editor, The Abilene Reporter-News

As diverse as the Democratic Party in Texas is — racially, economically, philosophically — how can a senator represent these varying views in Congress and reconcile their differences?

Lloyd Bentsen, the newly ordained Democratic Senator, didn't ponder that question as long as he did some others fielded in an interview in his office here.

HIS POSITION

And his answer set out in interesting detail how he intends to determine his own position in relation to the state which on Nov. 3 chose him as its junior United States Senator.

As he approached the campaign, he said "people would tell me we were never going to get the Democrats in Texas back together. But I visited all summer with the various people in the party to talk with them and assure them of my interest, and to get to know them." He says the election showed he was successful in the effort.

"I don't believe anyone really expects a senator to vote 100 per cent of the time with them," he went on.

"What they want is to feel like he will listen to them, weigh their cause, and if he feels it is right, vote with them. The vast majority of groups want this."

BEST POLITICS

Bentsen leaned back in his chair and moved to the heart of his answer.

"The best politics," he said, "is when people are convinced you vote them as you see them. I tried to do that in the House (he served three terms from 1949 to 1955). The problem in the House is to stay there long enough for people to develop this confidence in you, when you have to run every two years."

"I was elected to the House and stayed three terms, and never had an opponent for reelection, and I represented a very diverse group of people in my district in the Valley."

Why did he voluntarily retire from the House? The political pressures on a member of Congress are "terrific," he explained.

"I voluntarily left Congress because I wanted to return to private life and establish financial independence so that I would not be dependent upon the salary of a congressman, alone, as such pressures were applied," Bentsen said.

The new senator won't be. In the interim from 1955 to 1970, he has developed a business empire including insurance, banking, real estate and other interests which puts him in the millionaire class.

If the Democrats in Texas are a diverse lot, the national party is no less so.

Even considering the political gulf that separates most Texas Democrats from the national Democratic Party, Bentsen believes the Democrats can field a ticket in the 1972 presidential campaign that will be acceptable to most Texans, and that he can support.

1972 RACE

He declined to indicate whom he favored for the party's presidential nomination, maintaining a caution throughout the interview not to indulge in inflammatory rhetoric that could alienate any of the assorted Democrats with whom he will be serving in the Senate.

But he thinks the November elections "vastly strengthened" the party and that "we will have a strongly contested race in 1972."

Bentsen emphasized that the Democrats "must never forget the people in this country who are moderates," and that "they must appeal to the independent voters."

"I think the Democratic Party is going to be able to strengthen its appeal to the independents and the moderates. The Democrats cannot win without substantial support from the Southern states, and you're seeing a new image in the Democratic leadership in the South. You're seeing moderates emerging."

He ventured no opinion on what is happening in the Republican Party and how it will react to the recent elections.

LOOK AT RECORD

Bentsen does not think the fact that the 92nd Congress will be approaching the 1972 presidential year bodes ill for the quality of its legislation.

Students Drop Plans To Sue UT Regents

AUSTIN (AP) — A group of Daily Texan writers and university of Texas law students have dropped plans to file a civil suit against UT regents for alleged violation of the open meetings law.

They held a news conference after County Atty. Ned Granger refused to prosecute a criminal complaint filed against the regents in connection with the same matter.

The suit and the complaint arose from a telephone poll of regents Nov. 9 which resulted in their ruling to keep the Chuck Wagon Snack Bar in the Student Union closed to the general public.

During half-time at the Texas-TCU football game in Fort Worth Saturday, the regents met publicly and re-issued the same ruling.

Steve Bickerstaff, a law student from Midland, said Granger told the students he was not convinced the telephone conference was a "meeting" that the conference did not fall within an exemption in the law for security matters or that the regents were even covered by the law.

A Devotion For Today . . .

If the root is holy, so are the branches. (Romans 11:16, RSV)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, O Father, for the resources of the faith through which our spirits may grow. We are grateful for the inner strength that comes through prayer, a diligent study of the scriptures, and by the Holy Spirit. In the Master's name. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Even Lesser Rate Formidable

The Census Bureau has issued a preliminary report suggesting that United States population growth by the year 2000 may be "only" 75 million. That would bring us to 280 million instead of the 300 million predicted by President Nixon in his presidential message to Congress in the summer of 1969.

This tentative look 30 years ahead has prompted some sniggering about those who have worried out loud about the problem of excessive population in this country. The implication now is that such prophets of doom were all wet.

On the contrary, the prospect of a slower population gain than had been anticipated does not make for any basic change; the change is only one of degree. To understand this, we have only to consider the difficulties of providing a good life for everyone in a population of 200 million and then think about dealing with another 75 million. Problems of traffic congestion, ecological decay, accessibility of recreational areas, speedy justice in an overburdened court system, and so on and so on — all will be heightened as our population expands.

There is another aspect of the matter: Americans consume far more than other people, and thus have a greater impact on resources and other aspects of our environment. The point was cogently made in a recent New York Times piece by Paul E. Ehrlich, author of "The Population Bomb." He put it this way: "Each American has roughly 50 times the negative impact on the earth's life-support system as the average citizen of India. Therefore, in terms of ecosystem destruction, adding 75 million more Americans will be the equivalent of adding 3.7 billion Indians to the world population . . ."

All this leads to a simple but far from heartening conclusion. Whether seen in national or worldwide terms, the prospect of "even" another 75 million Americans 30 years hence is a chilling one.

Proposals Rate Close Attention

Newly-elected legislators around the state are making lists of legislation they plan to sponsor next January, and that's good. Not all of the proposals will be written into law, and that's very, very good.

But there are a few basic jobs that desperately need the support of thoughtful legislators. We are encouraged to see some of those items are on a few of the lists being made public.

The proposed minimum standards for criminal justice, written as a basis for work by committees of noted lawyers from the American Bar Association, deserve close attention. Some of the standards can be put into effect without legislation; some will require the Legislature's favorable action.

The proposed revised code of criminal procedure for Texas, written by committees under the general chairmanship of Dean Page Keeton of the University of Texas law school, deserves favorable attention and are related, in effect, and they will deliberate speed. These two projects do much to put a more respectable face on our system of criminal justice.

Properly implemented, the proposals will be a magnificent beginning to making speedy, public, fair trials for criminal defendants a reality.

An intelligent revision of the laws concerning drugs is due. Complimentary to that ought to be maximum encouragement of competent services aimed at helping people overcome drug dependency. Mental health services proposed for alcoholics should be expanded to other addictive drugs.

These proposals deserve deliberation by exceptionally well-informed committees of the Legislature. They merit the highest priority the leadership can assign to them. And they deserve solid support of legislators who want to do something useful for the State of Texas.

Economic Problems Won't Just 'Go Away'

WASHINGTON — In the quaint era of the '20s, of bathtub gin, the flapper and Calvin Coolidge, a philosopher eminently suited to the times attained world-wide popularity.

The essence of the Coueism of Emil Coue's self-improvement was in his formula repeated to the point of self-hypnosis: "Every day and in every way I am becoming better and better."

THE SUSPICION will not down that the Nixon Administration has exhumed this long-forgotten philosopher whose creed failed to ward off the stock market crash and the Depression. The President, if one may believe the sympathetic news channels he favors as against a confrontation with the press as a whole, is quoted as saying that the economy can be turned around. Next year will be a good year and mid-1972 will see everything in dandy shape.

THIS IS SURELY a noble hope. And if it is fulfilled even the most partisan citizen should be grateful, and Mr. Nixon will have the second term he seeks in a walkaway. But economists with long experience both in government and in private enterprise are convinced it is simply not possible to turn the economy around short of measures the Administration would find politically unacceptable.

TOO MUCH that cannot be erased has happened in the first two years of the Nixon Presidency. Wage increases have gone right through the ceiling while the Administration sat with folded hands abjuring anything as positive as wage-price guidelines. Given the competitive nature of the trade unions, current and impending demands are higher than the recent highs.

These and similar rises in other fields mean price increases in basic commodities still to come. Lower- and even middle-income groups are being priced out of the housing market.

AS THE PAST year has shown, prices can go up at the same time as unemployment increases. For the first months of 1971 this is almost certain to be the pattern, in the view of veteran economists with long firsthand experience of the rise and fall of the economic tides. One of the most distinguished of these economists predicts unemployment, seasonally adjusted, in February at a rate of 6.3 or even 6.8 per cent contrasted with the present 5.6.

That means about 6,000,000 out of work. Measured against a total work force of as high as 85,000,000, that is relatively small. Measured against the Administration rhetoric to the effect that the economy can be cooled and prices brought down without unemployment, it looms like Pike's Peak.

WHAT CAN be done? The economy can be cooled and prices brought down by drastic new economies. For any substantial reduction these would have to come in space, the anti-ballistic missile, SST and other programs dear to the heart of the White House. They would mean further unemployment, since the impossible trick of cooling the economy without cutting back on jobs has been proved to be just that — impossible. It is squaring the circle, an achievement that has defied the centuries.

Or the Administration can stimulate the economy by big, new spending programs on both the domestic and the military side. That risks a new round of inflation. It would mean a soaring deficit for a party in power that has talked piously about balancing the budget.

Don't Zap Wife, Ask For Raise

NEW YORK (AP) — Rather than fighting with their wives about the rising food bill, it might be more effective for men to fight with their bosses for better jobs and higher wages or with the government to reduce spending.

This is one of the lessons that emerges from studying inflation not as an impersonal economic issue expressed as a rate per year, but as a family problem that affects standards of living.

For example, despite the loud outcries of housewives against rising prices—despite the growing power of women and the growing awareness of their potential—the cost of preparing a dinner at home has risen 10 per cent or so in the past two years. It was a tide they couldn't sweep back.

Looked at from a different perspective, the man of the house isn't taking home what he used to, even if he can show that his salary has risen. The man who made $5,000 in 1949 now needs to earn $8,728 just to maintain his standards.

The moral: Few families can settle back these days and compliment themselves on having arrived at the income goals they set a few years ago. There is no rest; they must chase or be chased.

The Dept. of Agriculture regularly estimates the cost of well-balanced meals and, although food prices have leveled off in recent months, it finds that a typical family now pays $2 to $5 more per week than two years ago.

The Department estimates a week's at-home food costs for a family of four with preschool children to be about $24.70 on a low-cost plan, $34 on a moderate plan, and $41.20 on a liberal plan.

All three budgets are supposed to provide enough nourishment, but the liberal budget allows for better meats and more convenience foods than the moderate plan, while the low-cost plan has fewer meats and almost no convenience foods.

Young, two-member families suffer from their inability to buy in volume, and so their costs are much more than one-half that of the four-member family. The estimates: $18.50, $23.40 and $28.70.

The lowest costs of all are enjoyed by two-member families between the ages of 55 to 75 years, with their weekly food bills estimated at $15.10, $19.00 and $23.40.

The Conference Board, a primate research and information agency supported largely by business, estimates the family that earned $10,000 in 1949 now needs $17,049 to maintain the same standards.

Where did it go? About $1,530 went for higher taxes. And $5,526 evaporated with inflation.

With inflation still continuing, the best advice for anyone who wants to avoid shocks is to update that budget every year. You can't use the old measurements any more than you can arbitrarily declare that a six-inch ruler equals one foot.

Worth Remembering

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Each year the earth is bombarded by 2,000 tons of meteorites, most of them made up of particles the size of a grain of sand. It would take about 5,000 years, however, for this "stardust" to add one inch to the earth's girth.

Those good old days: In 1919 Oregon imposed the first motor fuel tax in the nation—one cent a gallon.

Alcohol and cigarette smoking don't mix. A survey in Japan found that heavy smokers who also drank alcoholic beverages regularly died of cancer of the esophagus at the rate of 27.1 per 100,000. The death rate among nondrinking smokers was 5.1 per 100,000.

You'll never sleep well if you have a panic fear of earthquakes because there is always an earthquake in progress somewhere. In an ordinary year an earthquake belt, such as the one that rims the Pacific Ocean, will generate several million tremors.

What is the world's most deadly creature. The National Geographic Society says it may well be the five-inch-long sea wasp, a small jellyfish found in the waters off northern Australia. A swimmer who brushes against its trailing tentacles may die within five minutes from its venom, for which there is no known antidote.

Quotable notables: "A man who can be a hero to his wife's relations may face the rest of the world fearlessly." — Meredith Nicholson.

The United States is gradually becoming a vast dump. Each of us now discards an average of 4.5 pounds of garbage or other refuse a day, and this is growing at a rate of four per cent a year. The daily figure in San Francisco has already risen to eight pounds.

Worth remembering: "The average family consists of a husband who makes money, and a wife and kids who make it necessary."

It was Marcel Proust who observed, "Often it is just lack of imagination that keeps a man from suffering very much."

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of his booklet, "How To Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

The Shadowy World Of Mr. Steig

William Steig is obviously not for everyone. But he is for me. Regrettably, I was introduced to him rather late in life, so much of the fascinating maze, which must be his mind, is obviously lost to me. Perhaps that is best. If I knew more, I would worry.

FOR A GOOD many years, Steig drew rational, though occasionally disconcerting, pictures for various publications, principally "The New Yorker." The special quality of those works is hard to define since so many warring elements seem to have gone into them — "cruelly and compassion; burlesque and acute social perception; a limited domestic environment; and a highly complicated or at least an intensely emotional atmosphere." All Mr. Steig's characters appear to live in the same room, and it is meagerly furnished.

Thus, with no outside distractions, the artist shines through as a social critic, parochial humorist and portrayer of subhumanity in its unprojected moments.

MR. STEIG is said to have a searching and fiercely unorthodox nature which has driven him beyond picturing the activities of the flesh and into a pure investigation of the spirit. In the best of his pictures there is the queer, distorted, but absolutely faithful definition of character available to most people only in alcohol or a dream, when an old friend is apt to appear, fantastic but recognizable, as the essence of what he is rather than what he looks like.

I WONDER if it makes Mr. Steig nervous to possess this extra vision while wide awake?

Art Buchwald

Force-Feeding The Vice President

WASHINGTON — Al Capp, who has become the sex symbol of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was in Washington last week as master of ceremonies at a $150-a-plate dinner given by the Republicans in honor of Vice President Spiro Agnew.

Mr. Capp was kind enough to mention me in his opening remarks. He said, "The people who should be here tonight saying 'Thank you, Mr. Vice President' are Art Buchwald, Herblock and Mary McGrory . . . The Vice President helps them keep their jobs. Never have so many columnists owed so much to one person, and never have so many showed so little decency to a man they owe so much."

NOW, FIRST of all, I would like to say that I would have loved to have attended the dinner for the vice president, but I couldn't. I didn't have $150.

Secondly, Mr. Capp should not have interpreted my absence at the dinner as a lack of gratitude toward the vice president. I am well aware of the debt we all owe him for making Washington another Disneyland.

The subject I would like to address myself to is not whether Miss McGrory, Mr. Block or myself should or should not have attended the Republican dinner (it turns out Miss McGrory did), but a much larger question that concerns all American citizens, and that is: How many more fund-raising dinners can the vice president of the United States stand?

IT IS NO secret that, through no fault of his own, Spiro has been condemned by the Republican Party and the Nixon Administration to the fund-raising banquet circuit for his entire term in office.

Despite what Mr. Agnew thinks of the cartoonists, columnists and pundits, I can testify to the fact that he has only their sympathy and understanding. Only a sadist would not be moved by someone who was doomed for four years to eat all his meals in a Sheraton or a Hilton hotel.

NO CARTOONIST would do it. No columnist would do it. No vice president of the United States would do it, except Mr. Agnew.

So far, the vice president has shown he has the stomach for it. But medical science has proved that no human being, no matter how strong-willed, can survive on chicken cacciatore for four years.

The question the American people have to decide is, do we want a vice president with a bad liver?

THE MEN RESPONSIBLE for sending Mr. Agnew out day after day and night after night have shown little concern for his welfare. The White House staff refer to Mr. Agnew as "the man who came to dinner." They are not worried about him getting indigestion. As one White House staffer put it not long ago, "What's a little heartburn if you can win Mississippi?"

To prove that we are not the heartless people Mr. Capp says we are, Miss McGrory, Mr. Block and I have formed an "Ad Hoc Committee to Save the Vice President's Liver." If need be, we will take it to the courts and prove that sentencing a man to the fund-raising banquet circuit for four years is not only unconstitutional but cruel and unusual punishment.

SURELY, IN this great country of ours, with so much opportunity and wealth, there is something the Nixon Administration can find for the vice president of the United States to do other than force-feed him at the Biloxi Hilton Hotel.

Constitutionality Of The War

WASHINGTON — In this capital of the neat side-step, the Supreme Court bowed to the traditional line in refusing to hear the challenge by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to the constitutionality of the Vietnam War. But reason says the Bay State still has a case in bringing the same challenge before the Federal District Court in Boston.

THIS PUTS ME in the uncomfortable position of seeming to side with one of the highest tribunals' three dissenters to the rejection — Justice William O. Douglas — but as the British would say, there it is. Anyway, Douglas' viewpoint is strengthened by the ideology of the two other dissenters, Justices John M. Harlan and Potter Stewart, who have never been identified as hot dog radicals.

What annoys me, as a private citizen, is that the six-man majority on the Court apparently agreed with the Justice Department's argument that modern international relations are so complex that courts have less capability than ever to decide such questions.

MAY IT PLEASE the Court, this is irrelevant and immaterial. I reject the plea-copping assertion that the complexity of a case is an excuse for refusing to rule on it.

That is the meat of the controversy. In their roles as sticklers for proper procedure, the conservative Harlan and Stewart rightly argued that the Court had no business to throw out the suit without hearing arguments on Massachusetts' right to challenge on the war. Specifically, Harlan and Stewart said they wanted to hear arguments on two preliminary issues, to wit:

WHETHER THE Commonwealth had legal standing to bring the suit on behalf of its citizens, and whether courts are suitable places to test the war's constitutionality.

Indeed, the majority did not declare the Massachusetts anti-war legislation unconstitutional. The law declares that Massachusetts servicemen could refuse to go to Vietnam. On this question, the Supreme Court merely passed the buck to a lower court, apparently following the precedent of a 1923 ruling which said that a state could not litigate constitutional points for its citizens.

But if Massachusetts felt strongly enough to pass a law exempting her citizens from fighting in an undeclared war, said Douglas, then the Court should hear its complaint on its merits.

I SAID THE dissenters on the highest bench had a case. They do in that the war is undeclared — that is, it was not declared by Congress, as the Constitution demands. But it remains a tough case to win. The prima facie evidence is that Congress in effect has gone along with the war. It gave its explicit approval in the Tonkin Gulf resolution which authorized the President to take whatever steps were required to protect U.S. servicemen in Indochina, and its implicit okay by continued appropriation of funds to finance the fighting.

In the strictest legal sense, those actions do not constitute a declaration of war. But the Court probably decided that such steps added up to a de facto declaration — so why dig into a pile of worms?

What Others Say

It has been a hundred years since the predecessor of the present-day Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus began providing spectacular entertainment for an awestruck public.

Generations of American children have been thrilled by the presentations of this circus. For an amusement enterprise to enjoy success for a century, it has to be good. Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey without undue modesty admit that it is the greatest show on earth. We think so, too.

In earlier days when the circus was presented in the Big Top its arrival in the county seat towns where it usually performed was a day of excitement. Shuffling elephants, snarling lions and tigers, grinning clowns, beautiful horses and pretty, bespangled riders brought a delightful wonderland feeling to the host town. The street parade which ended with the ear-splitting music from the steam calliope was probably the best advertisement ever devised for the circus itself.

The street parades are no more and the Big Top is no more but Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey, starting on its second century, is still around. —INDIANAPOLIS NEWS

Billy Graham

Why is it that with all our scientific advancement, we still have wars like Vietnam? It seems to me that we would improve, rather than go backwards. Can you explain this?

R.G. Wars, violence, crime, and immorality are symptoms of an underlying "cause" called sin. Yes, it would seem that humanity would go forward, not backward, but it is held back by this endemic disease which hinders and thwarts its progress.

God said to Cain: "If you are not doing well, sin is in your heart, and the race has failed to make moral progress because of this inherited tendency to do evil rather than good. It is just easier to go down hill than up; to yield to temptation rather than resist it; to surrender to anger, rather than to be serene and calm; to justify ourselves, rather than confessing our sins. We became twisted in the 'fall,' and our values got all mixed up.

But, God sent His Son to straighten out the human mess. He took the penalty that belongs to us. And God said, 'Whosoever believeth upon Him shall have everlasting life. If the world would heed these words, we could go forward rather than backward. But, as long as we try to manage without the Creator, and the plan He has devised to rescue us, the world will get worse. In fact, the Bible says we will never improve, because we will reject the only remedy God has devised for our recovery. But, when Christ returns to the earth, we will go forward.' 'Be ye also ready . . . for the Son of man cometh. (Matt. 24:44).

Sentimental Journey To Scenes Of WWII

By JO BRIGHT

This fall, Mrs. Clyde Cantrell stood gazing over the town of Thetford, West Suffolk, England, trying to recognize, in memory, how it was in 1942 when she was stationed at this village as a member of the Women's Army Corps.

The sentimental journey was the 25th reunion of 18 former WACS who spent some of the most perilous days of the war in England while serving with Headquarters, Third Bombardment Division, Eighth Air Force.

Some of the travelers were joined by their husbands or other family members, so when the chartered plane left New York, 56 passengers were aboard.

"It was like a reunion of sisters, really," said Mrs. Cantrell, "for we had been so close during the war. It was the first time I had attended a reunion of the group, but it seemed we had never been apart. Oh, of course, we had changed in appearance over the years, but I easily recognized all but one of the girls."

Mrs. Cantrell was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. R. N. Perry, Little Rock, Ark., and after the reunion, they visited London, Amsterdam, Venice, Barcelona and Paris.

Yet the highlight of the trip was the time spent in England, where the former servicewomen stayed at Cumberland Hotel in London while touring the area and recalling some of the events of a war that left its mark on history.

Mrs. Cantrell joined what was then the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps in 1942 at Jacksonville, Fla., taking basic training at Des Moines, Iowa. Trained as a teletype operator, she was stationed at Daytona Beach, Fla.; Fort Washington, Md.; and Fort Devers, Mass.; before being sent to Camp Shanks, N.Y., for overseas assignment.

As a Tech 5, she remained in the European Theater of Operations until the war was ended, and she was discharged from service in September, 1945.

The Headquarters, Third Bombardment Division, was located on what had formerly been a huge estate. It was the communications and command hub for "six or eight" bases. Personnel numbered approximately 300, and Mrs. Cantrell was assigned to work in Elveden Hall with the 304th Signal Company.

At that time in 1943, bombing was still quite heavy over London, as the Germans lighted the night sky with V-12 rockets, and the sound of sirens seldom ceased. Yet, through it all, only once did the WACS at Thetford leave their barracks to seek shelter.

Among Mrs. Cantrell's souvenirs is a yellowed folded paper on which is mimeographed a worship service held on the base on Christmas Day, 1944. Pasted on the front of the program is a black and white snapshot of the stately chapel at Elveden, which is still in use today. The church, which then served both the village and base, now has a window dedicated to the American servicemen and women who were stationed nearby during World War II.

Carefully unrolling a small circle of aging teletype tape, Mrs. Cantrell smiled as she read aloud the message from long ago:

"HAPPY V DAY TO ALL STATIONS DECLARED THIS AM AT 1411 HOURS AND PAPERS TO BE SIGNED BY 0001 9 MAY. FIGURE IT OUT FOR URSELF. SEEMS TO BE IT."

The message had come after months of speculation and waiting, and with the official end of the war, the WACS at Thetford were granted a 48-hour leave to go to Paris. Mrs. Cantrell's group got "fogged out" — and didn't make it.

Earlier, however, she had spent furloughs in Fareham, a village near a smaller one, Gasport, on the English Channel, where her father was born. At 17, he moved to Canada where he married a girl from Germany. Mrs. Cantrell had corresponded with her father's relatives in England and was able to visit a great-uncle and several uncles while stationed at Thetford.

Mr. and Mrs. Cantrell were married Dec. 16, 1945, after corresponding during the war. Cantrell served in both world wars, and was in the Navy, stationed at Jacksonville, Fla., when the couple began corresponding. His parents were pioneers in Howard County, and when he and Mrs. Cantrell returned here, he bought two farms. He is now a retired mechanic, and they reside not far from a farm he worked for about 10 years.

As for the reunion, Mrs. Cantrell will never forget it. "I'm going to be a part of it now as long as I can get there," she said.

The women will meet again in 1973 at San Diego, Calif.

Mr. Allison, assistant county agent, was guest speaker at the Monday meeting of Lomax 4-H Club in Lomax Community Center. Allison discussed projects for the club to consider, undertaking, Molly Adkins, president, and members planned a Christmas party for the next meeting Dec. 21.

ACTIVISTS Student activists were defined as "a minority of students capable of galvanizing groups of students to protest." A small minority is responsible for violence, according to Gunnels. "Demonstrators are young, intelligent and from affluent families," Gunnels said. "They are usually majoring in the arts, and are truly intellectuals. Most of the campus unrest is caused by intellectuals because they ask the most questions and impel the most change. Students who protest against the Vietnam War consider it completely political; therefore they feel no patriotism. As for education, students feel that the present system stifles creativity."

RACISM "Racial Issues" were outlined by Dennis Latimer. "Blacks want to be recognized and educated," he said. "They want courses in Black studies and minority studies; in the larger universities, when demands for these courses were not met, there was protest and often bloodshed."

AAUW Views Campus Scene

"The Campus Scene" including unrest, racial issues and discrimination of coeds was discussed by three Howard County Junior College students at the American Association of University Women meeting Monday in First Federal Community Room.

The speakers introduced by Mrs. Star Warford were Dennis Latimer, Sandy Young and Kerry Gunnels, all sophomores in journalism and Phi Beta Kappa at HCJC.

Discussing "Campus Unrest" Kerry Gunnels said that during the past year "66.3 per cent of the college campuses had disturbances, some peaceful, some violent; protests were directed against the institution and faculty."

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Dennis Latimer, Mrs. Preston Harrison, Mrs. Jimmy Ray Smith and Miss Anita Raymer. Mrs. Walter Wheat, president, and a $100 contribution was made to the Concert Series. There will be no night study group in December. The morning group will meet Dec. 7 with Mrs. Julian Patterson, 2201 Cecilia. The general meeting will be a Dec. 14 progressive international dinner.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. B. M. Keese, Mrs. Bill Early, Mrs. John Payne, Mrs. Ben Bancroft and Mrs. Thomas Ross.

Church Bazaar A "Calico Kitchen Bazaar" will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at First United Methodist Church, Fourth and Scurry, under the sponsorship of Philathea Sunday school class. Items for sale will include all kinds of gifts, Christmas arrangements, baked goods and candy. Coffee and donuts will be available.

Heart Fund Discussed At ABWA

"More than $121 million dollars of Heart Fund contributions have been used in research," stated Mrs. Max Coffey, guest speaker at the Cactus Chapter of the America Business Women's Association Monday in Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

Mrs. Coffey, publicity chairman for the local branch of The National Heart Association, described ways to reduce the risk of premature heart attack. They are: control high blood pressure; watch your diet; keep weight normal; keep physically fit; don't smoke cigarettes; see your doctor regularly. Mrs. Coffey showed the film, "After The Attack, The Beginning."

The vocational talk was given by Mrs. Lois Cudd, claims representative for the Social Security office.

Mrs. R. T. Winn presided, and installed two new members, Mrs. Robert Clark and Mrs. Ted Brown. Reporting on the National Convention in Dallas were Mrs. Orville Bryant, Miss Ruth Hampton and Mrs. Nannie Garrett. Mrs. Eldon Watts, ways and means chairman, reported on the Green Stamp Project.

Cactus Chapter will serve sandwiches and cake at the annual Christmas party at Big Spring State Hospital Dec. 17. Mrs. June Loving was a guest. The next meeting will be Dec. 21 at Coker's Restaurant.

Lucky Acres Club Holds Cookout

The November meeting for the Lucky Acres 4-H Club was a weiner roast in Comanche Trail Park where games were played prior to a business meeting.

When the group's holiday party is held Dec. 8, each member is to bring a 50 cent gift for a person his age at Big Spring State Hospital. During the party, 4-H members will make other items which will also be delivered to the hospital.

Adults attending the meeting were Paul Gross, Jim Allison, Mrs. Delaine Crawford and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Shaw.

Games Night Held By Forsan Club

Forsan Study Club members invited their husbands to a meeting Monday in the home of Mrs. H. D. Smith for card and domino games. Mrs. Smith was assisted by Mrs. Cecil Richardson, Mrs. David Redwine and Miss Judy Anderson. The next meeting will be Dec. 7 in the home of Mrs. Bill Creager.

Guild Hears Opinions On Modern Theology

A program on modern theology was presented by Mrs. Pete Rhymes, 1200 Douglas, when she was hostess Monday for a meeting of St. Mary's Guild, St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

Mrs. John Hodges presided. The devotion was given by Mrs. Terry Bull, and Mrs. Lee Hanson gave the benediction. New officers elected were Mrs. Ray Boren, chairman; Miss Ione McAlister, vice chairman; and Mrs. C. E. Lenox, secretary. Mrs. Hodges announced that there will be no December meeting. The next meeting will be Jan. 18 in the parish hall.

Girl Scout Choir Will Practice

All area Girl Scouts are invited to participate in the Girl Scout Choir, according to an announcement by Mrs. Jim Little, choir director. The group will meet at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the adult Sunday school room at East Fourth Baptist Church for rehearsal.

DRIVER DOZED, NOW CAR RESTS — Driver of this station wagon told officers he dozed at the wheel and awoke to find himself and car dangling halfway up a utility pole. Driver Earl Dunn, 63, was forced to stay in the car 30 minutes before electricity could be cut and he could scramble out. He escaped with minor injuries.

'MAD MONEY' NEEDED

Automated Stenographer To Record Police Reports

IBM representatives installed for more than nine seconds or the end of a belt and is replaced. During one teaching session, a patrolman asked, "Where do we get all those dimes?" Banks said he plans to make an arrangement with the telephone company so that the operator would return the dime after each phone report.

Under a matching funds grant from the Texas Criminal Justice Council two recorders and dictation transcribing units were purchased for the department, so that police officers could phone in reports instead of returning to the police station. Chief of Police Jay Banks explained that one unit will be set up in the traffic office and one in the office of the detectives' secretary, and whenever possible reports will be phoned in so that the police officer will not have to leave his district and will not waste time driving to and from the station.

Exceptions to this rule, he said, would be cases involving an arrest, when the officer needs to take his prisoner to the station anyway, or in cases such as driving while intoxicated when the suspect must be taken to the station to be charged. IBM representative Judy Johnson said the policeman would call one of two unlisted numbers, one for traffic reports and one for other reports, and give all the necessary details, which are recorded by the machine on magnetic belts. She warned policemen not to pause

Head Start Leader Named

The Policy Council of the Head Start program Monday evening named Mrs. Martha Cullumette chairman of the new career development committee. Serving with her will be Mrs. Jeannie Flores, Mrs. Mary Redding, Mrs. Charles Green, Mrs. Julia Abbott, and Mrs. Jewell Matthews. Men of the community will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Kate Morrison school to discuss means of refurbishing some of the equipment.

The next Policy Council meeting is set for Nov. 27 at 7:30 p.m. at the school, and the next community meeting will be Dec. 7. Bob Green, council chairman, will be in Washington, D.C., Dec. 1-2 as one of two representatives from five Southwestern states selected by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for a national conference.

HONEST MAN Clark, considered a potential dark horse for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, said in his book a rift developed between Kennedy and Hoover over pursuit of organized crime.

The FBI Clark said, continued to dramatize the peril of the Communist party "long after there was any risk to national security from that source." Hoover, however, gave other reasons for his rift with Kennedy.

"The trouble was that Kennedy wanted to loosen up our standards and qualifications; to discard the requirement that agents hold degrees in law or accounting. He even wanted to discard the bachelor's degree as a requirement," Hoover was quoted as saying. 'ABSOLUTELY UNTRUE' Commenting on campus unrest, Hoover repeated to the Post his criticism of permissive college administrators and said reports that 1,000 new FBI agents, authorized by the 1970 Omnibus Crime Control Act, would be assigned to campuses were "absolutely untrue."

He also was described as denying that the FBI had reached any conclusions about the death of four students in a confrontation with Ohio National Guardsmen last May 4 at Kent State University. Any conclusions, he said, were made by the Justice Department from an objective FBI report.

Wife Testifies For Husband

Mrs. Loretta Cook, wife of the plaintiff James Cook, began testimony this morning in 118th District Court when it reconvened shortly after 9 a.m. Mrs. Cook testified about the nature of the injuries to her husband's back which prevented him from working for several weeks in 1967. The injury is alleged to have occurred in April, 1967.

Cook is employed by Cosden Oil & Chemical Co., and was employed by the company as a painter in 1967. Cook is suing the Charter Oak Insurance Co. for $10,500 in workman's compensation in connection with the work time he reportedly lost as a result of the injury. In Monday afternoon's testimony, Cook told of the injuries to his back and of his resultant surgery and loss of work. J. E. Williams also testified Monday as an adverse witness for the defendant.

It Takes A Thief

Police were called Monday morning to investigate an attempted safebreaking at Kimbell Feed Mills, West First and Lancaster. The burglar had apparently broken in through a window, then tried to open the safe. The door of the safe was slightly scorched and the knob showed signs of hammering, but the owner had found the safe to be intact when he opened the office that morning.

Vandals damaged the window and knocked a hole in the wall of the Boy Scout House in Sand Springs. C. Roy Wright reported the vandalism this morning to the Howard County Sheriff's Office.

HILDA HATH COURAGE TO HALT DOZER, HUBBY

LONDON (AP) — Terence Road, 27-year-old laborer, brooded when his wife, Hilda, went home to mother, but then sprung into action. Before he got there, however, he knocked down two highway engineer's sheds, several lamp posts, schoolyard railings and traffic signs. The 42-ton machine also tore up pavements and grass lawns. By this time it was clear what he was up to.

Hilda tore out of her mother's house and planted herself directly in front of the bulldozer. Terence stopped. He told the police later and this came out in the court case Monday: "This is the most courageous thing I've seen in life, a woman standing in front of a 42-ton bulldozer and refusing to move."

He pleaded guilty to the theft as well as causing about $3,000 worth of damage. The sentence: 2 1/2 years in jail.

City Commission Meets Informally

In a breakfast meeting of city commissioners and administrators this morning discussion topics ranged from the future of the Texas Municipal League to the status of the petition calling for a bond referendum on issuing warrants to pay for sanitation containers.

City Manager Larry Crow, who left on vacation immediately after the TML convention in Fort Worth, discussed impressions he had received at the convention of the League's political leverage now that Stephen Matthews is no longer director. Crow said that where state legislators used to ask Matthews for his opinions on bills affecting cities and relied on

Bicycle Gone

B. R. White, 2301 Marshall, reported to the Howard County Sheriff's Office Monday that a bicycle was missing from his home. The bicycle is a 20-inch blue bicycle which White reported as valued at $50. Sheriff's officers are investigating.

Mobile Home Code Revisions Studied

In another work session Monday night on the proposed mobile home ordinance, planning and zoning board members made further revisions in the ordinance restrictions and set Dec. 1 as a probable date for agreeing on a final version to recommend to the city commission.

Nolen Chafin, public works director, was assigned to rewrite portions of the ordinance where changes have already been made before the planning and zoning board's next regular meeting Dec. 1. At that time board members are to go over the final sections governing travel trailer parks and consider the ordinance as a whole.

Another change suggested by board member Ben Bancroft Monday night was deletion of the section giving existing mobile home parks three years to comply with all the restrictions. Mobile home park owners had objected to that clause, saying that some restrictions would force present mobile home operators out of business, since they would have to relocate mobile homes, and reinstall plumbing and electrical systems.

Bancroft suggested that a section be added specifying which restrictions would apply to existing parks — primarily those affecting health, sanitation, and fire safety — and give present park operators 60 days to comply. Another change was made in the park license fee, originally $50 plus $1 per mobile home. It is to become $25 for all parks, at least until city administrative costs of licensing inspections can be determined.

Requirements for restrooms and laundry facilities were also dropped from the ordinance, along with shower facility requirements for travel trailer parks restricted to self-contained units.

Jurors Dismissed Until Wednesday

County court jurors were dismissed shortly before 2 p.m. Monday and are to report back to the courtroom at 9 a.m. Wednesday. According to County Attorney Bill Eysen, the cases set for trial today were not held because one defendant has entered a plea of guilty and the other had indicated that a plea will be made later.

Charles Tabor Rohus, 32, of 1505 Main, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated. County Judge Lee Porter fined Rohus $50 and court costs and gave him 30 days sentence in Howard County jail probated for six months. Four driving while intoxicated cases are scheduled for Wednesday.

Siboney Corp. Reports Income

Siboney Corp. reported net income, after provision for income taxes, of $317,443 for the third quarter of 1970 on gross revenues of $4,623,242.

Comparative figures for the third quarter of 1969 were net income of $421,707 on gross revenues of $3,851,383.

Siboney's third quarter results reflect the impairment due to the seasonal nature of certain of its activities, particularly its asphalt business. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1970, the company reported a net loss of $49,502 on gross revenues of $8,950,667 as compared with net income of $38,037 on gross revenues of $7,811,514 for the first nine months of 1969.

Six of the company's subsidiaries are operating profitably and each of these is expected to show a profit for the year, according to company officers. Three subsidiaries have sustained losses which adversely affect the company's consolidated earnings as sales of the products manufactured by these subsidiaries — small commercial computers, compressors, lighting fixtures and sheet plastic continue to be depressed.

Improvements are expected in the results of operations for these subsidiaries, but as previously reported and based on the results of the first nine months of the year, 1970 is not expected to be a profitable year for Siboney Corp., officials said.

Hike To Clip Pocketbooks Of Motorists

NEW YORK (AP) — Wholesale gasoline price hikes that are expected to affect the pocketbooks of average motorists became more widespread today.

Texaco Inc. and Phillips Petroleum Co., two major marketers, matched the seven-tenths of a cent per gallon wholesale hike initiated last Wednesday by Gulf Oil Co.-U.S. and later met by Atlantic Richfield, Skelly, and American Oil, the marketing subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey).

Such a jump in wholesale prices on gasoline sold to dealers normally is passed on to the consumer at about one cent a gallon.

Other major firms reported they were watching the competitive situation that also involves higher crude oil purchase prices and a Nixon administration threat of an investigation by the Office of Emergency Preparedness.

A 25-cent per barrel increase in crude oil purchase prices by Gulf now has been met by Atlantic Richfield, Skelly, Continental Oil Co., and Pan American Petroleum, Indiana Standard's exploration and production subsidiary.

Champ Rainwater Has Surgery

Word received here today was that Champ Rainwater, district vice president of Pioneer Natural Gas Co., was testing well following abdominal surgery which he underwent Monday. Rainwater had been under treatment for ulcers.

He is in Highland Hospital, 50th and College, Lubbock.

For many years Rainwater was district manager here for Pioneer and was active in many civic affairs.

'Mickey Mouse' Rules Relaxed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy, faced with plunging enlistment rates, is relaxing its regulations in hopes of "humanizing" itself.

Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., chief of naval operations, said the Navy is tossing overboard the "Mickey Mouse" regulations, relaxing off-duty dress rules and permitting beer in the barracks.

He also said sailors could sport neatly trimmed sideburns, beards and mustaches if they wished. And he's instituted a program under which base commanders will meet regularly with a representative of local Navy wives organizations to hear complaints.

CRMWD Directors Set Date To Sell Revenue Bonds

The Colorado River Municipal Water District moved a step nearer Monday to augmenting its water supplies to meet any eventualities for 1971.

While negotiations and testing are continuing toward obtaining additional ground water up to 30,000,000 gallons per day, directors of the district set Dec. 2 as the time to sell $6,750,000 in revenue bonds to finance an expansion of the system. This is contingent upon satisfactory results from test wells and from negotiations for water rights on the west end of the system.

Charles Perry, Odessa, president, indicated that if the bonds are sold, the district would make delivery by mid-December in order to be ready to begin development by the first of 1971. Plans are to have six to eight million gallons of additional water available by April 1 and 24,000,000 more by June 1. Projections show that even without additional rain, Lake J. B. Thomas would still have 7,000 acre-feet in reserve by June 1.

Also, to prepare for summer peak demands, the directors authorized rehabilitation of city wells at Snyder as standby sources.

Freese, Nichols, and Endress, Fort Worth, were engaged as the consulting engineers on the new development occasioned by the low level of Lake Thomas and Lake E. V. Spence due to successive years of abnormally low runoff.

Directors also authorized negotiations with Texas Electric Service Co. to furnish supplemental water to TESCO's generating plants when district supplies are ample.

O. H. Ivie, general manager, said that vegetation which has grown up in the Lake Thomas basin during the period of low levels would be burned as soon as frost effects a kill of the matter. Fire guards have been established in anticipation of low runoff.

The district granted permission for the Texas Highway Department to develop two pits on district property in Coke County for fill and base material on a lateral road to be constructed from SH 176 northward to one of the recreation areas of Lake E. V. Spence.

He also reported that the salt water well system developed to help take up part of the deficit of water occasioned by a cut-off of the SACROC repressuring unit from Lake Thomas is now operative. A shakedown period has indicated it capable of delivering more than 3.5 million gallons per day to SACROC.

The district granted permission for the Texas Highway Department to develop two pits on district property in Coke County for fill and base material on a lateral road to be constructed from SH 176 northward to one of the recreation areas of Lake E. V. Spence.

Horoscope

TOMORROW — CARROL RIGTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have some big ideas you want to put in motion that are idealistic but unless they fit in with a big change you are contemplating, they have little importance in your future. Do those things that will make you value you more and communicate with all.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You are able to get out of a rut, concentrating on how to have added income in the future. Those who are eager to see you today can give you much assistance. Be available.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Study home problems well. Then do what is necessary to establish greater harmony in your everyday existence. Show that you are a conscientious person and you start a big uprising. Avoid stiffness.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Listening to what others have to say carefully reveals a bit of truth you need in your career. Think before you make promises. You have to do the steering of conversations in right directions.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Put those ideas across that will help you to improve your monetary position right now. Don't wait until they are cold and ineffective. A business expert should be listened to.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Anything of a social nature is fine provided you stick with persons who are congenial, and whom you want to have in your life during the months and years ahead. Acceptance of a fine invitation leads to excellent results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Experts have helped you with project you have started, but you need further information. Cut through the phony and accept that which is real. Do not talk too much; listen more.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Showing more interest in your friends is fine. You may soon need their assistance and can get it easily. Mixing society and putting your finest talents across is wise. Avoid persons who do not understand you.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: About five years ago my husband went to a fortune teller. She told him that he was going to be married "soon," but that marriage wouldn't last very long, but he shouldn't worry because soon afterwards he would meet someone else and she would be his true love.

But here's the part that really has been bothering me, Abby. She told my husband that he was going to die as a result of something that would "pierce" him — like a bullet or a knife, or maybe a piece of metal in a car accident. But she wouldn't say when. This keeps me so upset I can't sleep nights. I have been crying my heart out because I love him dearly. Do you think fortune tellers can really look into the future? WORRIED SICK

DEAR WORRIED: No. Quit worrying.

DEAR ABBY: My mother says I need psychiatric help and I'd like to know what you think before I go in for something I don't need.

My first husband left me, and my mother keeps telling me how happy he is with his second wife, which tears me apart because I still care for him a lot.

I am not getting along very well with my second husband and my mother keeps pressing me for details of our problems. I don't really want to tell her but she keeps after me until I finally spill everything just to shut her up. Besides, a person has to talk to someone.

My mother keeps telling me she wishes I had never been born, that I can't do anything right and she brings up every mistake I ever made. I am not making excuses for myself as I have made plenty of mistakes. What should I do? I am terribly depressed.

MISTAKES GALORE

DEAR MISTAKES: I think your mother is right. You do need psychiatric help. And from what you tell me about your mother, you'll need a psychiatrist with two couches. She could use some help, too.

DEAR ABBY: When a woman leaves her husband and children for another man, should the children be told the truth in a manner that they can understand, or should they be told that their mother is away in a hospital, somewhere sick? It seems to me that children today understand a lot more about life than grown-ups give them credit for. Please put your answer in the paper. It may mean a lot to the children.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: You are right. Children do understand more than grown-ups give them credit for. Furthermore, when they learn, as they are bound to, that they have been lied to, their confidence and faith in grown-ups is seriously impaired. The truth may hurt. But a lie hurts more.

DEAR ABBY: I, too, am a good secretary, but if my boss tried to show his appreciation by putting his arms around me, I would look for a new boss.

You hit the nail on the head, Abby. The way for a boss to show his appreciation is to "try" money.

My first husband left me, and my mother keeps telling me how happy he is with his second wife, which tears me apart because I still care for him a lot.

I am not getting along very well with my second husband and my mother keeps pressing me for details of our problems. I don't really want to tell her but she keeps after me until I finally spill everything just to shut her up. Besides, a person has to talk to someone.

My mother keeps telling me she wishes I had never been born, that I can't do anything right and she brings up every mistake I ever made. I am not making excuses for myself as I have made plenty of mistakes. What should I do? I am terribly depressed.

MISTAKES GALORE

DEAR MISTAKES: I think your mother is right. You do need psychiatric help. And from what you tell me about your mother, you'll need a psychiatrist with two couches. She could use some help, too.

DEAR ABBY: When a woman leaves her husband and children for another man, should the children be told the truth in a manner that they can understand, or should they be told that their mother is away in a hospital, somewhere sick? It seems to me that children today understand a lot more about life than grown-ups give them credit for. Please put your answer in the paper. It may mean a lot to the children.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: You are right. Children do understand more than grown-ups give them credit for. Furthermore, when they learn, as they are bound to, that they have been lied to, their confidence and faith in grown-ups is seriously impaired. The truth may hurt. But a lie hurts more.

DEAR ABBY: I, too, am a good secretary, but if my boss tried to show his appreciation by putting his arms around me, I would look for a new boss.

You hit the nail on the head, Abby. The way for a boss to show his appreciation is to "try" money.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: About five years ago my husband went to a fortune teller. She told him that he was going to be married "soon," but that marriage wouldn't last very long, but he shouldn't worry because soon afterwards he would meet someone else and she would be his true love.

But here's the part that really has been bothering me, Abby. She told my husband that he was going to die as a result of something that would "pierce" him — like a bullet or a knife, or maybe a piece of metal in a car accident. But she wouldn't say when. This keeps me so upset I can't sleep nights. I have been crying my heart out because I love him dearly. Do you think fortune tellers can really look into the future? WORRIED SICK

DEAR WORRIED: No. Quit worrying.

DEAR ABBY: My mother says I need psychiatric help and I'd like to know what you think before I go in for something I don't need.

My first husband left me, and my mother keeps telling me how happy he is with his second wife, which tears me apart because I still care for him a lot.

C-City Class Holds Reunion

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Colorado High School's graduating class of 1939 held its first reunion, Friday and Saturday in Colorado City.

Of the class of 89, there were 36 present for the reunion, and, including husbands and wives, 62 attended a dinner Saturday night at the Villa Inn.

Miss Gladys Miller, retired teacher and Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Foster were honored at the dinner. Foster is a former math teacher and principal at Colorado High School and both Foster and Miss Miller were instructors in 1939.

The class attended the homecoming parade Friday, the football game and the coffee following Saturday morning the group met at the high school cafeteria at 10 a.m., and after lunch, divided into groups interested in visiting various parts of the Colorado City area, including a tour of the Texas Electric Service Co. power plant and another a visit to the Colorado City Museum.

Mrs. Robert Wuench, the former Theda Howell, came from Greenville, to attend the reunion and won the travel prize.

Farmers Convene

The Texas Farmers Union state convention at the Holiday Inn West in Amarillo Dec. 3-5 will feature a livestock workshop. During the Saturday afternoon session, Dec. 5, a panel of livestock specialists, from the universities and representing commercial livestock operations, will discuss current livestock production and marketing problems.

Happiness is making one dollar work like four!

Your cash-value life insurance dollar really works like four dollars.

- 1: a protection dollar.
- 2: an emergency dollar.
- 3: an opportunity dollar.
- 4: a retirement dollar.

One dollar, working four ways. That's happiness.

Dallas Fans Cry Out For Don Meredith

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The York Giants in the Eastern Division Dallas Cowboys fans who booted the National Football League Don Meredith from the ABC-TV booth where he's a color commentator — cried out for help from the up its third consecutive shutout "Dandy Man" Monday night, — something which hasn't been done but he didn't want any part of done in the National Football League in 35 years.

PLAYERS OF WEEK Dickens, Robles Among Honorees

Following is a list of football players in the Big Spring area who were singled out by the Daily Herald for performances in games involving their teams last weekend:

PINK DICKENS

BIG SPRING
What Coach Clovis Hale had rather have done was to have named his entire team, offensively and defensively, to the Lineman and Back of the Week honors. As it was, he and the staff paired them in both instances.

PINK DICKENS, who plays offensive tackle and MIKE GERHART, defensive tackle, were singled out in the line. Both played outstanding games, probably the best of their careers with the Steers. They had to be good to get the honor over so many other standouts.

STANTON
Back of the Week is STEVE DOUGLASS, a 140-pound junior. Steve hasn't been a starter for Bill Young's team but he performed exceptionally well against Big Lake last week. He operated at fullback on offense and made 21 tackles, a Stanton record for the season, while playing linebacker on defense.

ROBBIE DICKENSON again was honored as Lineman of the Week. He is an offensive guard and a defensive linebacker. His blocking was applauded by coach Young and his pursuit was excellent as he contained real well. He is a 160-pound senior.

TOMMY BRUMLEY, sophomore halfback, came through in such a sparkling manner last Friday against Sandts that he won the Back of the Week nomination. The 155-pounder picked up 98 yards on offense, 27 of it running and 71 on four passes. He made a great grab at the one to set up Forsan's tying TD. Even so, he barely nosed Will Morgan, senior fullback, who recently shifted from end, who barreled for 68 yards on the ground.

JACKIE WILLIS, 195 senior, has exercised a near monopoly on lineman honors during the season and closed out as choice for Lineman of the Week. From his monster position, he was in on 20 tackles, many of them solo efforts. No more need said. However, Ricky Klahr pressed him for the honor. The 189 senior tackle was in on 15 tackles, a remarkable showing inasmuch as he had been out of practice all week.

SANDS
Back of the Week is REGGIE HAMBRICK, who gained 84 yards in 20 carries against Forsan last week. The 150-pound junior, playing the middle linebacker spot on defense, came up with 14 tackles.

FELIX ROBLES, consistent all season, won Lineman of the Week laurels. The 6-2, 170-pound senior made 11 tackles and threw the key block that enabled Eddie Newcomer to go in for Sandts' touchdown in the 8-8 deadlock with Forsan. In addition, he caught a pass from Eddie Newcomer for the two extra points.

COAHOMA
KEN FURLONG, who has shown much improvement since the season began, played well enough against Crane last week to earn Lineman of the Week laurels. The 165-pound guard was consistent in his blocking and looked to advantage on defense. He is a senior.

BACK of the Week is KEITH BERGICO, who alternated at the halfback spots for the Bulldogs. Both his running and his blocking were applauded by his coaches. On defense, he played cornerback with distinction.

BORDEN COUNTY
KEN DON JONES, particularly effective on defense as a linebacker, was named Back of the Week for the Gall team. Under coach Bobby Dyess' system of grading, he scored five points. A 155-pound junior, he limits most of his play to defense.

LINEMAN of the Week is RANDY CRITTENDEN. Against Klondike in an important district game, Crittenden sparked a third quarter drive that paid off with a touchdown. He plays end on defense but shifts into the backfield when the Coyotes get the ball. He is only a sophomore and weighs 145 pounds.

the score mounted. Meredith, warm and snug in the ABC-TV booth where he's a color commentator, said "There's no way I'm going down there folks, I'll tell you that." Meredith, who retired in 1968, showed good judgment.

The fierce Cardinal defense smothered Dallas' once fiery offense at every turn. Meanwhile, Johnny Roland dashed 74 yards on a punt return for one score and ran 10 and 3 yards for two others.

The other Cardinal tallies came on a 48-yard double reverse by John Gilliam, a 29-yard run by Roy Shivers, and a 31-yard field goal by Jim Bakken. St. Louis has now outscored its last three opponents 113-0. It beat Houston 44-0, Boston 31-0, and now Dallas.

The Cardinals are 7-2 and the Giants are 6-3. Dallas is 5-4 and sinking fast. Cardinal coach Charley Winner, who had never beaten Dallas on the road, said he wasn't trying to run up the score even though the Cardinals exploded for 21 points in the final period.

Shivers broke loose on his scoring run near the end of the game and Winner mused: "When Roy came off I told him 'Roy, all I wanted was a first down.'" Winner said his defense operates on "Determination — that's all."

MATCHED MARK
The Giants shutout three consecutive foes in 1935. Detroit has the record of seven straight goose eggs in 1934.

Dallas coach Tom Landry said the Cowboys obviously are almost out of the race. "I would say our chances are slim being two games down with five to play — particularly with St. Louis playing the kind of ball they exhibited tonight," Landry said.

Dallas quarterback Craig Morton, who had three interceptions, said about his play "It's just a big headache." Substitute quarterback Roger Staubach also served up an interception to the eager Cardinal secondary. But Meredith knew when he was safe. "Nice guys don't always win... I don't care what anybody says," he laughed.

FALCONS COMMITTED Bowls Starting To Line Up 11's

The Air Force will soar into the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day post-season football classic in New Orleans while the Cotton and Orange bowls may fight over Notre Dame.

Speculation also arose Monday that Boston College might have its choice of the Peach Bowl in Atlanta or the Liberty Bowl in Memphis, Tenn.

And in Excelsior Springs, Mo., the sponsors of the Nov. 28 Mineral Water Bowl announced that Wayne State College, Wayne, Neb., 7-2 would face Franklin, Ind., College, 6-3, in its 24th annual clash, sanctioned by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Air Force's Falcons, who moved up three notches Monday to the No. 10 ranking in The Associated Press poll, became solid bowl contenders with last Saturday's 31-14 trimming of Rose Bowl-bound Stanford to boost their record to 9-1.

Notre Dame appears to be repeating its 1969 act when, until after their Saturday game with LSU. Only a few teams, among them Nebraska and Air Force, were eligible under NCAA rules to announce bowl intentions after last Saturday's games.

Abilene Opens New Civic Center

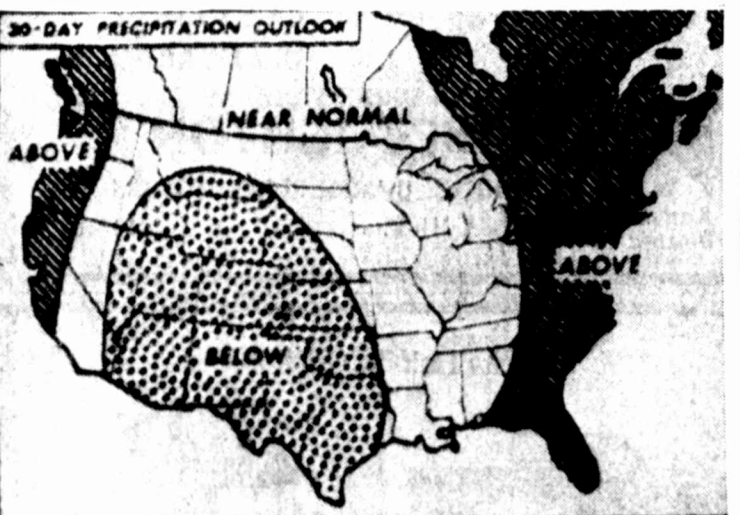

ABILENE — The public is invited to an open house when the City of Abilene officially opens the doors of the new civic center at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Although the civic center has already been the site for 20 events with almost 40,000 persons attending, it is just now being completed. The $3.5 million structure is located in downtown Abilene at Cypress and Seventh Streets.

Abilene Jaycees will be on hand to provide information about the center and local high schools and colleges will provide entertainment during the afternoon.

Family Night

North Birdwell Lane United Methodist Church will hold its monthly Family Night supper Wednesday at 7 p.m., according to the Rev. Melvin R. Mathis, pastor.

The bidding:
South West North East
1♣ Pass 1♥ Pass
3♣ Pass 3♥ Pass
3NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♥

An inspired lead by West against South's three no trump contract led to a stunning upset on the deal.

South opened the bidding with one club and North responded with one heart. Had his partner bid anything else, South would have been warranted in forcing the hand to game. With the response coming in his void suit, he bided his time by jumping to three clubs hoping to get another chance.

When North rebid three hearts, South proceeded to three no trump.

West was tempted to open a spade, however on the basis of South's bids, it was reasonable to place the latter with the king of spades as well as a long club suit, and West feared that the surrendering of even a single unit of time might damage the defensive cause beyond repair. If he could hit his partner's strength at the outset, East would be in position to lead back a spade thru South's holding.

Diamonds appeared hopeless since West has so little in that suit, so by a process of elimination—the came to hearts. Altho North had rebid that suit, he had not insisted on becoming the declarer and his partner had failed to support him.

In the hope that East had some strength in hearts, West opened the three of that suit. The jack was played from dummy which was covered by East's queen as South showed out. The latter was confronted with an immediate discard problem. Inasmuch as he held nine top tricks in diamonds and clubs, he could not afford to part with any of these cards. He was therefore obliged to give up a spade.

East shifted to the nine of spades, South covered with the jack and West as in with the queen. Another heart was led and East topped dummy's eight with the ace. A spade thru declarer's king enabled West to run four more tricks in that suit and set his helpless opponent down by three before the latter could get going.

Had West opened a diamond originally, South would have taken the first nine tricks. With a spade lead, of course, he scores one over his contract.

Eleventh-Hour Lobbying Effort By 69 Bankers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bankers Association has launched a last-minute campaign to win congressional approval of a watered-down version of a bill to regulate controversial one-bank holding companies.

The ABA's drive seeks an eleventh-hour lobbying effort by 69 bankers in the home districts of the 12 House and Senate members who meet Wednesday to work out a compromise between the tough House-passed one-bank holding company bill and the weaker Senate version. The legislation would, in effect, stop banks from doing business in non-banking fields.

GET IN TOUCH
The ABA, in a letter to the 69 bankers, stressed its support for the Senate bill and asked the bankers to get in touch with the House-Senate conferees before Wednesday to make that position clear.

Three of the conferees hold large blocs of stock in banks whose aid the ABA has tried to enlist. They are Reps. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo.; Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis.; and J. William Stanton, R-Ohio.

Mrs. Sullivan is a stockholder of the Mercantile Trust Co. in St. Louis. Mercantile Trust's president, Donald E. Lasater, was asked by the ABA to contact Mrs. Sullivan but he said in an interview that the bank decided not to take any action on the ABA request.

"They knew better than that," Mrs. Sullivan responded. "I'm for the House bill as strong as it's humanly possible to keep it and the bankers all know my position."

LONG GONE
Reuss owns stock in Marshall & Ilsley Bank in Milwaukee. The ABA asked the bank's vice president, Donald N. Baxter, to contact Reuss. Baxter said another banker handled the request. A spokesman for Reuss said the congressman had not been contacted by anyone.

Stanton's stockholdings are in the Lake County National Bank, Painesville, Ohio. The bank's president, Albert R. Pike, was asked by the ABA to get in touch with Stanton. Pike, who was Stanton's campaign treasurer in the election earlier this month, said Stanton was out of the country so no attempt had been made to contact him.

These same three congressmen were involved in a recent controversy when a rich campaign fund for banks sent more than $40,000 in contributions to members of the Senate and House Banking committees. Reps. Reuss, Sullivan and Stanton all refused the money.

CUTOFF DATE
Both versions of the one-bank holding company bill are aimed at preventing conglomerates from buying up banks and curtailing the expansion of banks into non-banking fields.

At issue are:
—The cutoff date for one-bank holding company acquisitions. The House bill would require the companies to cut loose all non-banking businesses acquired since 1956. A 1956 law already bars holding companies which control two or more banks from going into unrelated businesses. The Senate version of the one-bank bill would permit the holding companies to keep diverse businesses acquired before mid-1968.

—The specific activities that would be barred by the new law. The House bill bans such businesses as insurance and computer services. The Senate version refers only vaguely to a ban on businesses that aren't "functionally related to banking."

Appaloosa Horse Show Slated In Sweetwater

SWEETWATER — The World Championship Appaloosa Performance Show Nov. 19-21 is expected to bring competitors in this unique breed from across the United States and several foreign countries to Sweetwater.

Not only the finest horses of the breed, but owners, trainers and top riders will be drawn to this "world series of performance horses" to compete for the $14,000 in prize money, trophies and ribbons. Roy Young of Moscow, Idaho, national field representative of the Appaloosa Horse Club, Inc., said.

Classes in the event will include Trail Horse, Western Pleasure, Reining, Senior and Junior Cutting, Calif Roping, Nez Perce Stake Race, Rope Race, Appaloosa Jumping, English Pleasure and Heading and Heeling.

Judges will be Casey Darnall, Albuquerque, N. M., and Lowell Ferrell, Imperial, Kan. Announcer will be M. C. Hanna, Slaughter, La.

Ben Parker, Pleasanton, will speak at the dinner for owners, contestants and judges; and Fern Acomb, Stafford, N. Y., National Appaloosa Queen, and Shatka Bear Step, a chief of the Nez Perce Indians, will also attend the show.

Church Loyalty Dinner Scheduled

Between 375 and 400 members of First Baptist Church will take part in the all-church loyalty dinner scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Big Spring High School cafeteria.

Dr. Cecil Ray, Dallas, head of the stewardship division for the Baptist General Convention of Texas, will be the speaker. Bill Johnson will be master of ceremonies. Music will be provided by a male quartet, a ladies ensemble, and the Senior High handbell choir.

The program is part of the annual stewardship effort led by Billy T. Smith, chairman. Staff members and deacons last Sunday turned in their pledges in support of the church budget, and this Sunday has been set as Victory Day.

J.B. IS NO POLICE DOG

NEW CASTLE, Del. (AP) — A boxer dog named J. B. fussed over four handits who were friendly to him. He licked their trouser legs while his master was being robbed of $3,000 in cash and $15,000 in jewelry.

Boines, said he was less than pleased with the dog. J. B.'s owner, James D. In 1966, Boines was ordered to pay a customer at his restaurant $75 in damages after the man was bitten by J.B.
