Wet Snow Spreads Across California

By The Associated Press
Locally heavy rain and strong winds, plus deep snow in the mountains, continued to spread across California Saturday. Travelers' warnings were in effect in the mountains of California as heavy snow piled into deep drifts, with visibility near zero. Mount Shasta, Calif., reported 5 inches of new snow in a six-hour period, bringing the snowfall total there to 21 inches in 24 hours. Blue Canyon, Calif., recorded 4 inches of fresh snow and a total of 14 inches on the ground. Monterey, Calif., received nearly 1 1/2 inches of rain and Point Piedras Blancas about an inch in a six-hour period. Wind gusts up to 50 miles an hour occurred at Sacramento and Sandberg, both in California, Saturday afternoon.

Elsewhere, light rain or drizzle fell from northern New England across the Ohio Valley to the lower Missouri Valley. Spotly drizzle occurred in southern Texas and there were a few showers along the Florida east coast. Scattered light snow was reported in North Dakota and light freezing drizzle from eastern South Dakota to eastern Kansas. Winterlike cold gripped the Northern Plains, compared with summerlike conditions along the Gulf of Mexico. Temperature readings Saturday afternoon remained around zero in portions of north central Montana while readings in the 80s prevailed in South Texas and South Florida. Temperatures ranged from a high of 83 at Brownsville, Tex., to zero at Cutbank, Mont.

The event, rather than the locale, is the numbing thing about a traffic fatality. While our vicinity escaped any during the holidays, nevertheless one of our own, Jack Graham, Coahoma, was a victim Friday of an accident in Ward County. Earlier in the week, John Clay Thomas, Sulphur, Okla., was killed when a truck struck his car parked on the shoulder of IS 20 eight miles east of Colorado City.

The United Fund gained about $5,000 during the past week and inched over the $100,000 mark, a commendable achievement. Yet, it is $9,900 short of its goal. If we could just do as well this week — and we could easily if hundreds upon hundreds of people who have not yet helped would do their part—we could be within reaching distance of the target.

The cotton harvest in this area is plunging forward perhaps at a rate never before matched in this area. Only hold-ups are the capacity of gins to process seed cotton, and the availability of trailers to haul cotton to gins. Howard County may be upwards of 60 per cent through as is Dawson County, where the 100,000 bale mark has been crossed. The Howard yield is doing better than expected — even the most unpromising cotton appears to be making half a bale.

Chalk one up for the Salvation Army and its Christian concern for the unfortunate. Thursday Lt. Joseph Saint and aides didn't wait for direct to come and ask for dinner — they took dinner to the hobo jungle under one of the overpasses, had a brief prayer service, and served turkey dinner to 11.

Some sort of special recognition is due Borden County High school for upholding the honor of this area on the gridiron. Our other teams didn't make it out of the district, but Borden captured the regional eight-man title by ending Cotton Center's consecutive 26-victory string by a 42-36 count. The Coyotes had a 36-6 lead at halftime, saw it evaporate to a 36-36 tie, then pulled out with a TD in the final seconds.

How about getting in on the annual Christmas decoration contest? This year there will be prizes for blocks, yards, door, windows and special feature decorations. Call your entry in to the Chamber of Commerce as soon as possible, in no event later than Dec. 18. By the way, Santa comes to town Monday, so kiddies can make their wishes known in the downtown area.

The Texas Water Rights Commission gave its blessing to the U.S. Corps of Engineer plan for flood control for the Big Spring lowlands section, and Gov. Smith is expected to add his. This leaves only two steps — the city coming up with half a million dollars and the Congress providing another $1,578,000.

Guess which is the hottest county in the Permian Basin for oil well drilling? Martin County, that's who. That's wonderful, because just a few years ago none would touch Martin. Last week there were 25 active rigs, mostly in the Spraberry Trend. Incidentally, this development has brought on plans for a gas processing plant in the county.

Webb AFB is in line for $349,000 in improvements if the President signs the defense appropriations bill, as expected. The outlay is for replacement of basic training facilities.

The city commission has decided to keep the Airport fire station in the tradition of public service. It will be leased to the Kiwanis Club as a drug counseling center.

Congratulations to Jon Rice, picked for the outstanding marching spirit in the Big Spring Steer band, and Steve Hughes, recipient of the coveted John Philip Sousa award. And thanks to the Optimists for honoring these and other bandmen.

Know of any physically handicapped youngsters between the ages of 3 and 11, inclusive? The Shrine Club wants the names so the children can be invited to the traditional Christmas party. Just call D. A. Brazel.

Martin Co. Leads Basin

Martin County vaulted into the lead as the most active county in the Permian Basin's oil development last week.

The weekly report of Reed Drilling Tools showed that Martin County had 25 active rotary rigs, one more than Pecos, the traditional leader of the basin. It was well ahead of the 19 in Lea County, N.M., also a usual leader, and the 16 in Ector County.

Martin County picked up eight additional rigs during the week. The big play is in the Spraberry Trend area northwest of Stanton and in southwest of Lenorah and in the Tarzan sector.

BORDEN

Borden County had three rigs going, the same as the week previous; Dawson had one down two for the week; Glasscock none, a loss of one; Howard five, unchanged; Sterling one, unchanged.

Two completions were reported in Martin County. ProChemco Exploration No. 1 Cross, 320 from the north and west lines of section 35-37-In, T&P, flowed 251 barrels of 39.7-gravity oil in 24 hours through 16-64th choke. Gas-oil ratio was 825-1, tubing pressure 300, casing pressure 540. Operator drilled to 9,070, on a ground elevation of 2,765, set 5 1/2-in. casing on bottom and plugged back to 9,019 before perforating from 8,005-8,987 and acidizing with 4,500 gallons, fracing with 80,000 gallons and 120,000 pounds sand.

Adobe Oil No. 1 Kyle Shoemaker, 1,320 from the north and east lines of section 40-37-In, T&P, elevation 2,736 ground, flowed 236 barrels of 39.7-gravity oil, gas-oil ratio 839-1 tubing pressure 255, casing pressure 300. Operator set 5 1/2-in. casing on bottom at 9,070, plugged back to 9,025, perforated from 7,992-8,961, acidized with 3,000 gallons, fraced with 80,000 gallons and 120,000 pounds of sand.

An additional location in the Spraberry Trend of Martin County was announced as Western States Producing No. 1-A Cross, 1,320 from the south and east lines of section 25-37-In, T&P, six miles northwest of Stanton, projected to 9,100.

TWO IN HOWARD

Howard County gained two completions. Basin Oil No. 8 A. R. Hensinger, 990 from the south and east lines of section 67-29, W&NW, pumped 66 barrels of 28-gravity oil per day, plus eight of water. Operator bottomed at 2,600 on a ground elevation of 2,413, set 5 1/2-in. on bottom, perforated from 2,040-2,250, acidized with 1,000 gallons and fraced with 80,000 pounds of sand. Basin Oil No. 6 Hensinger, 990 from the south and 330 from the east lines of section 67-29, W&NW did not report its potential gauge. It bottomed also at 2,600 on an elevation of 2,409, set the 7-in. string on bottom, perforated from 2,135-2,310, acidized with 1,500 gallons and fraced with 80,000 pounds of sand.

In Mitchell County's Westbrook pool, American Petrofina of Texas No. 26-W Westbrook Southeast Unit, 330 from the south and 990 from the west lines of section 26-28-In, T&P, bottomed at 3,150, set the 5 1/2-in. string at 3,138; plugged back to 3,078, perforated from 2,950-3,065. It swabbed 24 barrels of 26-gravity oil per day, plus 20 barrels of water. Operator acidized with 1,500 gallons.

Gas Plant For Martin

Contract for design and construction of a natural gas processing plant and gathering system in Martin County has been awarded to the Orloff Corp. of Midland.

Northern Gas Products of Omaha, Neb., will be the operator. Design of the plant will be for processing 10 million cubic feet of natural gas daily with recovery of a single mixed liquid stream of 113,500 gallons per day. The residual (dry) gas will go to Northern's pipeline.

Gas for the facility will come from burgeoning Spraberry Trend development in Martin County. There currently are 25 wells drilling in the area, and the wells being completed usually report a gas-oil ratio of 800-1 and upwards.

Job Training Plan Discussed

Contractors have been conferring with Texas State Technical Institute representatives relative to feasibility of a job program in this area.

Last week Bill Lynde of the state office of Associated General Contractors of America and Homer Taylor, TSTI, conferred here with Jim Bill Little, Paul Kasch and J. D. Jones. TSTI in Sweetwater is prepared to send instructors here for instruction in basics. Contractors, in turn, would give assurance of employment for a 15-week period, although by using ABC as a sponsor, the employees could be transferrable between contractors during the training period.

Salvation Army Moving Into Christmas Program

Holiday preparations by the Salvation Army, shaping for months, begin to mesh gears this week.

On Tuesday and Wednesday the Salvation Army will accept registrations from needy families for Christmas food baskets and toys. The signups should be at the Citadel at 308 Aylford.

Toys and food baskets will be distributed from the former Piggly Wiggly store on Eleventh Place. Piggly Wiggly has donated use of the store space for the Christmas effort, said Lt. Joseph Saint, in charge of the SA work here.

A week from Friday, on Dec. 11, the Christmas appeal for funds begins with Webb AFB groups pledging to man the kettles at shopping areas for the first four days. Included are the Non-Commissioned Officers Association, the Junior Officers Association, the Student Officers, and the Top Three Steering Committee. Other clubs and organizations are due to take over the ringing of the bells to remind people of the spirit of giving to the poor at Christmas.

Mined into the busy seasonal activities will be the traditional advisory board dinner at 7 p.m. Dec. 8 in the First Methodist Fellowship hall. Col. Gordon Foubister, new commander of Salvation Army work in Texas, will be the speaker, and this will mark his first official appearance here.

Letters of Christmas appeal will go in the mail Dec. 7, and Lt. Saint urged recipients not to discard the letter but to send something if at all possible.

"We need this help if every needy man, woman and child in Big Spring is remembered on Christmas. Big Springers always have been generous, and this will be no exception, I know," he said.

When the kettles go up, they will be operated at the Giant Discount on Lamesa Highway, near F. W. Woolworth, Gibson's Discount, Cook's Discount, the Highland Center and the College Park Center.

Lt. and Mrs. Saint asked that Sunday School classes, clubs and other groups planning on giving Christmas baskets to coordinate through the Salvation Army to eliminate duplications, and thus help extend available supplies so that none will be overlooked.

OVERWHELMING RESPONSE — Mrs. Jean Rosenstein, 84, is surrounded by flowers in her apartment in Los Angeles as she holds letters from persons who read of her loneliness. Mrs. Rosenstein wrote a letter to the Los Angeles Times saying "I'm so lonely I could die." The Times printed the letter Thursday morning and she received so many calls she finally had to take the phone off the hook.

Widow Not Lonely Now

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'm so lonely I could die," said the letter to the editor.

"My phone never rings. I'm the only one on earth. How alone can I feel. All alone. See no one. Hear no one. Oh, dear God, help me. Hear no one. Will somebody call me?"

The letter, containing a dollar bill and six stamps for anybody who would call or write, was signed Jean Rosenstein.

The Los Angeles Times printed the letter Thanksgiving morning, adding that Mrs. Rosenstein is an 84-year-old widow and retired nurse living alone in a tiny apartment on $200 a month.

Mrs. Rosenstein received so many calls Thanksgiving Day she finally had to take the phone off the hook.

"I hope the people will forgive me," she told newsmen Friday, slightly hoarse. "I just couldn't talk anymore. The phone rang all night. I only got two hours' sleep."

The next morning the mailman brought an armload of letters.

Dozens of people stopped by her apartment. Many brought or sent flowers. Every table was covered with potted plants and the bathtub was full of flowers.

"I've got the most beautiful bathtub in the world," said Mrs. Rosenstein.

"I keep saying to everybody, thank you. But it isn't enough. I want to say more."

Mrs. Rosenstein hadn't had time to open all her mail yet. People were still coming to the door Friday.

She turned down many telephoned invitations for Thanksgiving dinner and stayed by her telephone. But some of her visitors had thought of that.

"I've still got four complete turkey dinners in my refrigerator," she said.

West Texas Cotton Yields Listed Lower Than Normal

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas farmers ending a generally good year are completing harvests under good conditions. A bristling cold front early last week slowed things but harvesting ran faster than last year, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

and pecans are also being harvested. Some feeding was noted. Stock water is needed.

In far West Texas, the cotton harvest has passed the midway stage with yields lower than normal but with generally good grades. Irrigated grains made good growth and now furnish grazing. Livestock conditions were generally good but some feeding has started.

FROST DAMAGE
Winds, cold and drought beset West Central Texas. Moisture is very short and grains are suffering. Ranges are generally poor. Counties with dry grass report it was very dry and brittle. Livestock are in good condition and feeding is increasing. Calf and lamb markets were brisk. The cotton harvest is moving and better than average yields are reported. The peanut harvest is complete with good yields. High prices are encouraging the harvesting of all pecans.

Hickel Aides Get The Axe

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an action the White House characterized as routine, six aides to former Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel have been fired on one-hour notice.

The action came 48 hours after Hickel was fired by President Nixon for lack of "mutual confidence."

"From the White House standpoint, it is normal that when a Cabinet secretary leaves, there will be other changes within his department," an administration spokesman said.

A source in the Interior Department said the six were called together shortly before quitting time Friday by Frederic V. Malek, a White House special assistant, and William Rogers, deputy under-secretary of the Interior.

"There was no reason given at all," said Josef F. Holbert, one of the six. "We were given only an hour's notice."

Holbert was deputy director of information and long-time press aide to Hickel.

The other five: — Charles Meacham, U.S. commissioner for fish and wildlife and deputy assistant secretary for fish, wildlife and parks. He was Alaska's director on international fisheries when Hickel was governor of Alaska.

— Dr. Leslie Glasgow, assistant secretary for fish, wildlife and parks. He was fish and wildlife commissioner for Louisiana before joining the Interior Department.

— Tom Holley, Hickel's congressional liaison director.

— Pat Ryan, executive assistant to Hickel.

— Dr. Donald Dunlop, science adviser to the secretary. Department sources said the six were told their employment was to be terminated by the end of the day.

Pollard Hits A Hundred-Whiskers Go!!

BIG SPRING. Forty-one days into one of the costliest strikes in history, the morale began to sag among the sales force at Pollard Chevrolet, reports Harold Mounce, Sales Manager at Pollard. Mounce went on to say, "We had to do something . . . we had plenty of cars on hand at the time, but the customers were staying away in droves, maybe fearful that we were holding the price up which certainly was not the case."

In any event a quota was set of the selling of 100 new and used cars . . . along with a sales gimmick that none of the salesmen were to shave until the quota was reached. Everyone took it good naturedly at first . . . but as the whiskers began to itch, the good naturedness began to fade. But soon the whiskers were up and in the form of a full beard and too the salesmen were up and selling!

"But it was a tough battle," Mounce said. "We were getting the shoppers but as we neared our goal the stock was dwindling . . . it was like the carrot in front of the horse." The strike darkened . . . but a ray of light was beginning to shine through. Some area dealers had thrown in the towel and Pollard Chevrolet was able to purchase some of their stock, thereby building up the inventory for the final push to the one hundred mark.

NOW ALL ARE CLEAN SHAVEN AND WILL GIVE YOU A DEAL AS SLICK AS THEIR FACE AND THOUGH VERY TENDER SKINNED THEY ARE READY TO FACE THE NEW YEAR AND NEW MODELS AND WORK TOWARD WHAT IS TO BE PREDICTED A RECORD YEAR FOR POLLARD CHEVROLET.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Something happened in this town which should be advertised nationwide. An elderly gentleman who lived alone in a motel room died, and in his will he left a lot of money to a girl named Terry. He said she had waited on him with a smile even though he never left a big tip. In fact, he said there were times when he didn't leave a tip at all, but she still gave him wonderful service.

So, please tell waiters and waitresses that this should be a lesson to them. They should give good service, with a smile, whether the person is a good tipper or not, because some folks don't tip while they're living, but they leave a lot in their wills.

DALLAS

DEAR DALLAS: What you say may be true, but that's a long time to wait for a tip.

DEAR ABBY: Your cold comment, "Children owe thanks to no one — including Mother" prompts this letter to tell you how wrong you are. Don't you realize that the trouble with our young people today is that they think their lives are their "own" and they don't owe any-ents did for them. And if parents expect "thanks" for rearing children who came into the world because they wanted a family — shame on them.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. I have a girl friend I'll call Terry who broke up with her boy friend I'll call Pete a few months ago. Pete has been calling me but I don't dare go out with him because I know Terry will feel hurt if she finds out about it because she still likes him. I would like to go out with Pete, but knowing how Terry feels about him I can't bring myself to do it.

Pete thinks I am being very foolish because he was completely finished with Terry before he even thought of calling me. Also, I never did one thing to attract his attention before or after they broke up. Can you advise me? TEMPTED

DEAR TEMPTED: I think you're foolish, too. If your conscience is clear, go out with him.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

Needless to say, the result is rather lopsided. After that, I don't hear any more gripes from that girl about "Mother," SOUTH GATE, CALIF.

DEAR SOUTH: Rearing children is a responsibility parents ask for when they become parents, and the time and money spent on rearing children are not in my view "gifts" for which parents should expect thanks. No parent expects his child to "do" as much for him as he has done for his child. But when children grow up and choose to become parents themselves, they will in turn do for their children what their par-

SAIGON (AP) — Troops of the Communist command were reported Saturday to have started massing east of Phnom Penh, raising a threat from another direction to the Cambodian capital.

Qualified sources said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units had begun a fresh buildup near Prey Veng, a province capital only 30 miles east of Phnom Penh.

MINI ATTACKS

If so, the enemy forces would be in position to menace the Cambodian seat of government from three directions.

Already they have penetrated to points only eight miles away on the northern side and 10 miles on the southern side.

Communist-led troops launched small-scale attacks north and south of the capital Friday and elsewhere in Cambodia the government's military position appeared to be worsening.

Although the attacks just northeast and south of the capital brought Communist-led troops within artillery range, a military spokesman termed them minor and gave out no figures on casualties.

Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler, in a dispatch from Phnom Penh, said the capital was not under immediate threat. But he added that the enemy buildup at Prey Veng, 29 miles southeast of the capital, could mean the Cambodians may be fighting on three points of the compass around Phnom Penh.

DRY SEASON

He reported the man enemy thrust of the three-week-dry season offensive continued in the critical northern sector.

TROOPS OF COMMUNIST COMMAND MASSING Threaten Cambodian Capital where perhaps 40,000 Cambodian troops are said to be isolated.

Wheeler also reported that all major highways in Cambodia remained closed because of enemy advances, except Route 1 connecting Phnom Penh with Saigon in South Vietnam.

From the government's viewpoint, the only bright spot in the over-all situation was the reopening of two airports in the heart of two critical fronts north of Phnom Penh.

A military spokesman described the openings as very significant and encouraging.

But he conceded that Communist-directed forces were still making gains and the recent record showed that government troops have been unable to roll back previous enemy advances in any decisive degree.

The worst of these was the halting of civilian traffic on a ferry crossing 20 miles north of Phnom Penh. The ferry, on Highway 6, is the gateway to the entire northern battle zone.

In the fighting near Phnom Penh, the Cambodian high command said small enemy units broke through the capital's outer defenses at Krauch Soeuch, 8 miles northeast of Phnom Penh across the Mekong River, and the road junction at Kompong Tuol, 10 miles south.

Pays $100,000 Under Threat To Family

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 52-year-old business executive says he gave $100,000 to a man who posed as a New York banker because the man threatened "death to all of us—my family and me both."

Robert S. Bremson Jr., in a copyright interview with the Kansas City Star, told how he was terrorized nearly four hours Wednesday while associates prepared the package of money at a bank and delivered it to him and the extortionist at the entrance to Menorah Hospital.

The president of Bremson Photo Industries Inc., said the man lured him into driving to a rural area of Johnson County, Kan., on a pretext of looking at some property, then pulled a gun and demanded $100,000.

"He told me he wasn't in this alone and that my wife, daughter-in-law and grandson were being watched by his associates," Bremson said. "He said if I had ever seen a sex crime I would know what would happen to them."

While the gunman directed, Bremson called his bank, gave instructions to prepare the money package, then called his secretary and told her to pick up the money and deliver it at the hospital, he said.

Officials at City National Bank, suspicious that something was wrong, called Bremson's attorney for advice.

The attorney, Edward A. Smith, declined the bank's offer of armed guards, and said the payment should be made without interference from the FBI because of possible harm to Bremson's family.

The money was delivered as he and the gunman sat in Bremson's car, Bremson said.

The man got into a taxicab in the Country Club Plaza area and disappeared, Bremson said.

Bremson has hired a detective agency to guard his home and office.

The FBI declined immediate comment but the Star said it entered the case when the money was taken from the bank.

Commandos Shaped POW Camp Raid With 'Barbara'

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — The mission was code named Ivory Coast and the Green Berets and Air Force commandos involved were training deep in the woods of this mammoth Air Force Base.

Most of the training was at night and the assault team, said to number fewer than 100 men, practiced on a site marked put as an exact copy of their objective: the Son Tay prisoner-of-war camp in North Vietnam.

Few details of the mission conducted Nov. 20 have been disclosed so far. Brig. Gen. LeRoy Manor, commander of the Special Forces Operation Force, has scheduled a Tuesday news conference.

But it is known that the assault team trained with a scale model of the POW camp nicknamed "Barbara" and that actual dimensions of the buildings in the POW camp were marked out on the ground at the Eglin training site.

Eglin was a logical training site. The Army operates a Ranger school deep in the pine woods of this 740-square-mile base about the size of Rhode Island—centered seven miles north of Fort Walton Beach.

The major rehearsal site was located in a wooded area of the base accessible only by air. The Air Force would not take newsmen to the site.

"The majority of the training took place at night because the raid took place at night," said Capt. Alan Batten, Special Operations Force public information officer. "It involved several types of aircraft."

Volunteers arrived Aug. 10, trained for several weeks, and left for South Vietnam shortly before the mission which failed when the prisoners were moved out in advance. A full-size mockup of the Son Tay camp was reportedly constructed in South Vietnam for final dress rehearsals.

The commandos spent hours studying Barbara, the 6 by 6-foot model of the POW camp that accompanied the task force to South Vietnam.

"It was never alone," said Col. Roland K. McCoskie, Special Operations Force vice commander.

"We always had a member of the team sleep with it."

The model is now kept in a conference room at Special Operations Force headquarters.

DRY SEASON

He reported the man enemy thrust of the three-week-dry season offensive continued in the critical northern sector.

SPECULATION

Details of these attacks were lacking but in the area northeast of Phnom Penh, heavy artillery fire continued Saturday across the Mekong River, and the explosions were violent enough to rattle coffee cups in the city.

In South Vietnam, no significant fighting was reported and the recent pattern of only scattered skirmishes persisted.

There was speculation that North Vietnamese forces might strike across the demilitarized zone in retaliation to the American bombing raids deep in North Vietnam last weekend.

However, qualified sources said there were no signs of a sudden buildup in the zone which separate North and South Vietnam at the 17th Parallel.

Sale Proceeds Go To Mission

A garage sale and flea market will be held each Saturday until Christmas to earn money for the non-denominational Faith Mission in Del Rio. The mission is for residents of Mexico who live along the Texas border.

"Some of these people have never had a Christmas," said Sgt. Rogers, a Big Springer who works with the mission. "We need clean clothing and shoes for these families, and we need items to sell to buy candy, fruit, nuts etc."

Members of the Five Watters Citizens Band Radio Club will be collecting donations, for the sale, Rogers said. Donations may be made by calling 263-7412.

"We would like to give every child a sack of candy, a little fruit, perhaps a dress or some garment," Rogers said.

Research Librarian There To Help

When was Jamestown founded? What was Marconi famous for? For the answers to these and other questions, library patrons seek help from Mrs. Joan Crowmover, research librarian.

MRS. JOAN CROWMOWER

A native West Texan, born in Crane, Mrs. Crowmover came to Big Spring in 1956. Before that she and her family "lived all over." Mrs. Crowmover has three grown children, five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Mrs. Crowmover said she has always been interested in literature.

"I'm interested in art, and I write poetry. Some of my poems, which are all rhymed and about whatever comes to my mind, have been published in magazines. I used to write as a stringer for the Fort Worth Star Telegram and the San Angelo Standard Times," she added.

Mrs. Crowmover also assists with the cataloging of new books and fulfills any other duties that come her way.

"When we can't handle it, we take it to Mrs. Crowmover," said Rebecca Taylor, librarian assistant.

Cataloguer Also Tells Children's Hour Stories

Getting the books onto the shelves is the job of Mrs. Noemi (Mimi) Vera, library cataloguer.

MRS. MIMI VERA

Mrs. Vera has worked at the Howard County Library for a little over two years.

Mrs. Vera and her husband are both from Big Spring and make their home at 609 N. Douglas. Her husband is currently serving in Vietnam with the U.S. Army.

Interested in library science and business courses, Mrs. Vera is taking night courses at Howard County Junior College. She is also a graduate of Big Spring High School.

In her duties as cataloguer, Mrs. Vera classifies the books and sees that their cards are filed before the books are placed on the shelves for use. She is also the "story lady" for the children's story hour.

Mrs. Vera is a member of the First Mexican Baptist Church where she is active in church work. She has also participated in the church's Tent Crusade.

Collects For Loss Of Eye

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A coed who lost an eye five years ago when she was hit by a blast from a ceremonial cannon fired during a football game at the college she now attends won a $163,367 settlement Friday for the injury.

Ruby Dianne Hill, a freshman at Middle Tennessee State College, won the settlement from the federal government for the injury she suffered when she was 13 years old.

The cannon, owned by the Army and operated by the Reserve Officer Training Corps at the college, has not been fired at a game since the accident.

U.S. Dist. Judge L. Clure Morton approved the action Friday in Nashville.

Attorneys for Miss Hill said the injury to her eye has required several operations and she has been forced to have treatment for emotional problems resulting from the accident.

Ames Davis, assistant U.S. attorney, said the settlement agreed to was the highest on record for a similar injury in a federal court claims action. The previous high was $100,000, he said.

'Book-Shelver' Eyes Career As Attorney

REBECCA TAYLOR

Rebecca Taylor, 1107 Ridge-road, is a librarian with an eye to a future career in the field of law. She describes her present duties at the Howard County Library as "shelving books, assisting patrons and any other job as it comes along."

Miss Taylor attended Howard County Junior College and the University of Texas. Currently, she is taking courses on a part-time basis from San Angelo State.

She studies history and government and plans to teach for a time before going into law school.

Besides her duties with the library, Miss Taylor is active in her church, Phillips Memorial Baptist Church. She helps to sponsor the intermediate aged members of the Girl's Auxiliary.

ENGINEERS AT WORK LOCALLY

County Topography Studied

Engineering field parties of the Topographic Division, U.S. Geological Survey, are now engaged in the surveying operations for the preparation of an accurate topographic map of the western portion of Howard County. This mapping is part of a continuing nationwide program that has been under way for many years, the objective of which is to complete and maintain a series of standard topographic maps covering the United States and its possessions. The State of Texas, is expediting the program by providing 50 percent of the funds expended on this project. Engineers are Courtney H. Swanson and James E. Bonney, now residing in Big Spring. The finished topographic maps are published in rectangular sheets, called quadrangles. The maps show roads, trails, houses, political boundaries, and other man-made features, as well as lakes, ponds, the courses of streams, and other water features. In addition, these maps depict the shape and slope of the land surface, and give the altitude above sea level. Quadrangle maps of adjacent areas can be joined to show any desired area, such as a city, a county, or a school district. Topographic maps serve as a basis for the study and solution of many problems relating to activities that are affected by the character and relief of the earth's surface. The problems may involve mineral or water resources, prospecting and mining, engineering construction of all types, location of industrial sites, urban planning, military requirements, and recreation. Good maps facilitate the development of all projects that deal with the land. Although any one mapping project may be partially related to a particular development program or a specific need, the topographic mapping of the Geological Survey is done essentially because these maps have a general-purpose value, and because it is sound economy to have them on hand for any specific planning that future developments or investigations might require. In the preparation of these maps, the most modern engineering methods are employed. Aerial photography and precise photogrammetric instruments are part of the basic mapping process, but field surveys are still required at two stages. The first of these is to establish control points — that is, elevations above sea level and geographic positions. The second is to check the accuracy of the map as drawn from the aerial photographs, and to complete the identification and classification of buildings, roads, streams, political boundaries, and other features. The cooperation of local residents and landowners in assisting the field parties engaged on these surveys will be greatly appreciated, Swanson said. Over 30,000 maps have been published by the Geological Survey and more than 7 1/2 million copies are distributed annually. Available without charge are State indexes showing areas covered by published maps, a folder describing topographic maps, and a brochure entitled "The Geological Survey." Most of the topographic quadrangle maps are sold for 50 cents a copy and may be ordered from the Geological Survey, Federal Center, Denver, Colo., 80225. Copies of aerial photos and geodetic control lists used for this mapping are available at a nominal charge from the Region Office.

REPORT FROM EUROPE

Common Market Associates Are Becoming 'Eurocrats'

(Another in a special series of articles on Europe by a young Texan doing graduate work in Journalism under special assignment). By FRED DuBOSE, JR. BRUSSELS — A new breed of man has grown up in Brussels over the past 15 years — internationalized, cut off from his own culture, and dedicated to the idea of forming a kind of United States of Europe. He's among the thousands of bureaucrats from Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg, and Holland who work at the Common Market Executive Commission headquarters here, and he has come to be known as the "Eurocrat." DISTINCTIVE The Eurocrats bear little resemblance to other administrators who work outside their own countries: For one thing, they do not pay taxes to their own governments, but to the resources of the Common Market. Their cars have special license plates — not national, but red, white, and blue and marked EUR for "Europe." Their community is a detached one, and for this reason they have been compared to the New Dealers who went to Washington in the Roosevelt era. The "one Europe" idealism of the Eurocrats is a reaction to the nationalism — and its resulting havoc — of the 1930's and '40's. Many of them fought against one another in World War II. Now, they work in the same offices for a common goal — an economically and politically unified Western Europe. A WORLD BLEND Officially, the Common Market has 4,718 workers in Brussels. They may go home for holidays (in August, their headquarters shuts down completely), but many of them feel they no longer have roots in their own countries. The Eurocrat society, in fact, is becoming a province of its own. One need only walk through the halls of Common Market headquarters and look at the bulletin boards to glimpse the curious international blend of Eurocrat life: film posters in French, a flat to rent in Amsterdam, Alfa Romeos for sale, spare seats in a car driving to Bonn. SCHOOLS The Eurocrats are seeing to it that their children, too, develop international outlooks. Many of their children go to the European School in Brussels, whose purpose it is to educate without the divisive strains of nationalism. Students, ranging in age from 6 to 18, are taught in their native tongues, but each is required to learn a second language from an early age. Italian and Dutch children have their choice of a second language. French children, however, are required to learn German, and German children must learn French. This measure goes back to the initial motive for creating the Common Market — a permanent reconciliation between the Germans and French who had fought each other in three major wars. For the same reason, history courses, long viewed as a breeding ground for nationalism, are so organized that each child learns a different nationality. (German students learn about Hitler from a Frenchman; French students are told about Napoleon by a German.) PIONEERS The Eurocrats are pioneers of a sort, trying to consider events from a supranational point of view: Their spirit has been praised by Common Market Commission member Albert Coppe in this way: "Prejudices wither away, the range of vision widens, contacts are deepened, and in course of time there will emerge men for whom professional and personal life will be lived in a continental rather than a national framework."

Art Display At Sul Ross

ALPINE — Eleven prize-winning art works from the "Colorprint U.S.A." exhibition are on display through Saturday in the Art Gallery at Sul Ross State University. Rudy Pozatti, juror-printmaker of Bloomington, Ind., selected the 11 works from the 96 in the original "Colorprint U.S.A." show. Nearly 400 works by artists from 35 states were submitted for the judging, and 10 states are represented in the final selection.

The Midland-Odessa Symphony will present its third subscription concert in Odessa Dec. 7 and in Midland Dec. 8. Dona Lee Cherry, violinist, will be the guest artist. Mrs. Cherry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Croft of Odessa. The orchestra will perform Beethoven's Symphony No. 3 (Eroica), Debussy's Afternoon of a Faun, and Bruch's Violin Concerto in G Minor, featuring Mrs. Cherry as soloist. Concert time is 8 p.m. at Bonham Auditorium in Odessa and Lee Auditorium in Midland. Individual student tickets may be purchased at the door for $1; out-of-town concert goers may purchase individual tickets for $3.50. Season tickets will also be on sale at the door.

'Carnival' Ends
Globe Season

ODESSA — The Thurber "Carnival," a collection of vignettes by one of America's best loved humorists, opens Dec. 9 here to close out the season for the Globe of the Great Southwest. "Carnival" will play through Dec. 31 with performances Tuesday through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. Included in the production will be "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," "The Unicorn in the Garden" and "The Night The Bed Fell."

Midlander Assessed 35 Years In Wife's Death

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — socially prominent Diane Jurors convicted oilman William B. Nichols, 33, of murder Friday in the shotgun killing of his wife and fixed his punishment at 35 years in prison. He was the husband of Nichols, who was slain April 22, 1968. Nichols was found wounded at the same time. Members of the jury deliberated nearly five hours before reporting their verdict of guilty. They spent slightly more than two hours deciding on the penalty. Dist. Judge Perry D. Pickett said he would pass formal sentence in about 10 days. Throughout a trial that started Nov. 16 the defense maintained that Nichols underwent a marked change in personality from 1965 to 1968 and that he was insane at the time his wife was shot. Prosecutors said Nichols was suffering from brain damage when examined by defense psychiatrists but insisted he was sane when the slaying occurred. Defense lawyer Bill Walsh said Nichols was wounded in a suicide attempt. Dr. Martha Madsen, a Midland pathologist, testified that Nichols lost half his blood supply and this reduced the amount of oxygen carried to the brain. Such a lack of oxygen could cause irreversible and irreparable damage to the brain, she said.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

LSU Looking To 1971

By TOMMY HART

Coaches of the Wichita Falls Coyotes made a mistake a lot of mentors are guilty of in trying to give their fans a good record: They didn't book a tough enough practice schedule. . . . Permian's Gene Mayfield didn't commit that blunder. . . . Too, Gene's teams benefit from playing in the roughest district in the state. . . . When Wichita Falls and Permian met in the playoffs, the team which had faced more adversity won, although Wichita Falls had been rated No. One in the state throughout the season. . . . Wichita Falls came here a few years ago and lost to the Big Spring Steers in what was regarded as a classic upset. . . . The end result: The Coyotes refused to schedule Big Spring again. . . . Jimmy Demarest says Roberto DiVicenzo is the world's most popular golfer. . . . The Houston Astros probably decided to jettison their farm club at Oklahoma City because the community sold less than 300 season tickets. . . . New owners of the team hope to triple that in 1971. . . . You know the American Basketball Association is hurting when you see where the Pittsburgh Condors gave away 11,012 free tickets to one of the games and only 8,074 spectators filed through the door. . . . The Condors have played before sparse home crowds all year. . . . Bum Phillips, the former West Texas high school mentor who is now on the staff of the San Diego Chargers, likely will be offered several head coaching jobs in college. . . . One of the local high school's better looking young athletes would be better off if he didn't consistently stew about his own mistakes. . . . To err is human but in athletics the best thing to do is dismiss them as part of your education. . . . Don't ever let anyone tell you the right tools aren't important in golf. . . . Bob Murphy had a big year in 1968, before his clubs were stolen near the end of the season. . . . Since that time, he has tried three sets of irons, 20 drivers, 15 wedges and countless putters — but his slump continues. . . . Dick Butler, who supervises American League umpires, still winters in Fort Worth. . . . For the past several years, Chicago Bear owner George Halas has rewarded ace runner Gale Sayers with a $10,000 bonus at the end of the NFL season.

BURNES MCKINNEY

If he could be interested in playing the sport, BSHS JV cager Robert Wallace would make a great split end or wide receiver in football. . . . He's built in the classic mold of an athlete and has fine coordination. . . . Big Spring can offer a threat for the 5-AAAA basketball championship in 1971-72 if it can keep the troops it now has, and the Steers aren't conceding anything to anyone this season. . . . That St. Louis Cardinal team which is making a run at its divisional championship would have wound up in Dallas several years ago, had Lamar Hunt's tender to Chicago owners been accepted. . . . When the Chicago people wouldn't sell, Hunt decided to form his own league. . . . All starters on that Odessa Ector basketball club which played here the other night will be eligible again in 1971-72. . . . Bob Pride, the all-district football quarterback, is one of the few seniors on the team but he isn't clocking much playing time. . . . When Ector was knocked off by tree-top tall Midland High, 72-63, the night before they came here, they were outbounded, 65-27. . . . Mike McCormick, who is now out for basketball at the local high school, is ideally built for a football receiver. . . . He has long arms and catches the ball well. . . . LSU is already laying plans to ambush Notre Dame, when the two teams clash again in Baton Rouge next fall. . . . There's nothing quite like playing in the LSU Snake Pit, where the crowds have been known to unnerve even the calmest of the visiting contingents. . . . Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch, director of athletics at the University of Wisconsin, hired sight unseen John Jardine as the Badgers' head coach. . . . He acted on a recommendation made by Jardine's boss at UCLA, Tommy Prothro. . . . Wisconsin beat Penn State, Indiana, Illinois and Minnesota and tied TCU this year. . . . Burns McKinney had second thoughts about accepting no more 5-AAAA officiating assignments in football and will be available again next year. . . . After much discussion, coaches in 5-AAAA have decided to hire officials by teams again in 1971. . . . Look for Texan Don Massengale to appear on the pro tour only part time from now on. . . . He's accepted a summer job at a club located in the New York area. . . . Arlington's John Reddell and Permian's Gene Mayfield, whose football teams tangled in the playoffs yesterday, are old friends. . . . When Mayfield was drawing his paychecks at Borger, Reddell was head coach at Amagillo Palo Duro.

Rams, 49ers Clash Today In Headliner

The San Francisco 49ers, after 20 years of searching, find out today if there really is gold in the West when they battle the Los Angeles Rams for the championship of California and the Western Division in the National Football Conference.

Up to this season, nothing has panned out for the 49ers, who have yet to win sole possession of a division title since joining the National Football League in 1950. Only in 1957 did they manage a tie for first place, and then lost a playoff to Detroit.

But this season, the 49ers have turned into the surprise of the league. After finishing with a 4-8-2 mark last year, San Francisco has rolled up a 7-2-1 record, including an earlier 20-6 victory over the Rams.

But this season, the 49ers have turned into the surprise of the league. After finishing with a 4-8-2 mark last year, San Francisco has rolled up a 7-2-1 record, including an earlier 20-6 victory over the Rams.

A victory at home over Los Angeles now would all but wrap up the division title with the once heavily-favored Rams 6-3-15 dropping two games behind with only three left to play.

In several other important clashes Sunday, visiting Cleveland faces Pittsburgh in the Central Division and San Diego plays at Kansas City in the Western Division, both in the American Football Conference.

St. Louis, the NFC East leader, entertains improving Philadelphia; slumping Baltimore, the AFC East leader, hosts Chicago, and Minnesota, the runaway NFC Central leader, plays the Jets in New York.

The New York Giants travel to Washington, New Orleans plays at Cincinnati, Denver is at Houston and Boston travels to Buffalo in other games.

Atlanta entertains Miami in the Monday night nationally televised contest.

In two games on Thanksgiving Day Thursday, Detroit held onto its slim playoff hopes by beating AFC West leading Oakland 28-14, and Dallas remained in contention in the NFC East by beating Green Bay 16-3.

The 49ers, in another nationally televised game, will be playing in their first crucial game this late in the season in many a year. Not since 1965 have they swept the season series from the powerful Rams, and not since 1960 have they lost as few as five games in a season.

BRODIE FACTOR
John Brodie, the NFL's leading passer, has led the 49ers to this point, and it was his 12-yard quarterback draw for one touchdown and 59-yard pass to Gene Washington for another that beat the Rams in their first meeting.

The Rams, still a great defensive team, have been having much trouble with their offense, with Roman Gabriel having an off-year.

With this in mind, the game might be settled up front where the San Francisco offensive line has allowed Brodie to be dumped only seven times while the Rams have smeared opposing passers 44 times, both figures tops in the NFL.

Cleveland, 5-5, can take a big step toward its division title with a victory that would all but eliminate the Steelers, a challenger with a 4-6 mark. Cincinnati also is 4-6.

Bill Nelsen, benched the week before after several unproductive games, regained his form with two scoring passes last week, while the Steelers still are bouncing back and forth between Terry Bradshaw and Terry Hanratty.

ADDED IMPORTANCE
Oakland's defeat lent added importance to the Kansas City-San Diego clash. Oakland now stands 6-3-2, Kansas City 5-3-2, Denver 5-5 and San Diego 4-4-2 in this tight race. Kansas City, with its sputtering offense, needs a victory if it hopes for another trip to the Super Bowl. The Chiefs still have Denver, Oakland and San Diego to play after today.

St. Louis, which hasn't allowed a touchdown in four games, owns a 7-2-1 mark, with Dallas at 7-4 and the Giants at 6-4. The Cardinals defeated the Eagles 35-20 earlier, but Philadelphia has won two and tied one after losing its first seven games.

Baltimore, 7-2-1 to Miami's 6-4, tries to get back on the beam after a tie with Buffalo and a loss to Miami.

Lambert Paces Eagle Cage Win

ABLENE — Stan Lambert dropped 26 points through the nets here Friday night as Abilene High Eagles stopped previously undefeated Lubbock High 99-74. The game was the third of the Key City Basketball Tournament in Abilene.

The Eagles held Lubbock giant Mark Davis to a mere seven points in the contest. However, junior Curtis Felton in his first varsity outing took up the slack and dumped in 17 markers for Lubbock.

Air Fare Increases Are Put On Shelf

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board has allowed American Airlines to raise coach fares over seven short routes in the East but suspended several increases proposed by American and other airlines.

In separate orders Friday, the board suspended:

—A proposal by Braniff Airways to increase all of its jet coach fares by $2 in markets under 500 miles, and by 3 per cent in markets over 500 miles.

—Fare increases proposed by Mohawk and Northeast airlines because the totals had been improperly rounded off, but indicated that if properly calculated fares were filed the increases would be permitted in specified highly congested short-haul markets.

Mohawk had planned to increase fares by $1, plus 3 per cent, in markets under 500 miles, next Tuesday.

Northeast proposed as of Dec. 12 to add $2 to fares on routes under 500 miles.

—A Braniff proposal to increase military reservation fares from 66-23 to 75 per cent of the coach fares.

—Braniff's proposal to reduce the discount for youth standby passengers from 40 per cent to 33-13 per cent of the coach fares, but said the airline could win approval of the change in discount if it used the proper rounding-off procedures.

The board approved Braniff's proposal to increase children's fares, and fares for minors accompanied by a family member, from 50 per cent to 66-23 per cent of the regular fare, effective Dec. 21.

In accordance with a Nov. 20 CAB order, most of the airlines plan, effective Jan. 11, other fare increases, the over-all result of which would be to raise industry annual income by more than $100 million.

These changes will:

—Raise first-class fares from the present level 25 per cent above the coach rate, to 30 per cent above coach.

—Increase night coach fares, now 25 per cent below the regular coach rate, to 80 per cent of the coach fare.

—Raise youth standby fares from their present level, 60 per cent of the coach fare, to 66-23 per cent.

—Reduce the Discover America discount from 20 per cent to 15 per cent next summer, during the June 15-Sept. 15 season.

Under Friday's action, American will raise coach fares from New York to Boston, Washington, and Rochester and Syracuse, N.Y., and between Boston and Washington, and between Chicago and Detroit and St. Louis, by amounts varying between $2 and $4 next Friday.

The CAB approved the increases because of the relatively high cost of operating into such congested airport areas.

Christmas Cards Pay Postage To Help POW's

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP) — "Joy to the World?" reads a Christmas card being sold by an organization raising funds to pay postage for thousands of letters to the government of North Vietnam urging humane treatment for American prisoners.

The card shows an emaciated man sitting on a wooden bench, an empty rice bowl at his feet.

"Contra Costa Cares," a group of about 80 persons in Contra Costa County on the east side of San Francisco Bay.

"This is a cause that we believe all should care about no matter how they view the war in Vietnam," said Mrs. Richard Hauge of Martinez, director of the nonprofit organization.

Her brother, Lt. Ralph E. Gaither, 28-year-old Miami, Fla., pilot, was shot down and taken prisoner Oct. 17, 1965.

She has accumulated about 35,000 letters for North Vietnam's government from relatives and friends of the estimated 500 American prisoners of war, plus other persons in the San Francisco Bay Area.

It was the result of a "chain-reaction" of friends asking friends to write, and those friends asking other friends to do the same thing.

Mrs. Hauge said she plans to mail 500 letters a day, "to impress upon North Vietnamese the concern of the American public."

Texas Well Represented In National Rodeo Finals

DENVER, Colo. — Texas will be represented in five of the six events at the 12th annual National Finals Rodeo, Dec. 5-13 in Oklahoma City.

The finals are considered professional rodeo's "world series," where only the top 15 money-winners in each event compete for $93,000 and world championships. Championship titles are awarded to the year's highest money-winners in each event.

More Texans, 12 of them, qualified for the finals in the five standard rodeo events than cowboys from any of the other 19 states, two Canadian provinces or Australia. California is sending 15 cowboys to the finals, giving that state the highest number of total contestants, but eight of those 15 will compete only in team roping, an extra event.

Texans who qualified for the finals include:

In saddle bronc riding, Marty Wood, Crockett, eighth for the championship with $11,947 in winnings. Wood was the event champion in 1958, 1964 and 1966.

In bareback bronc riding, Clyde Vamvoras, Burkburnett, two-time world champion in the event who currently is third with $22,426; and Jim Ivory, Pampa, ninth with $12,125.

In bull riding, Randy Magers, Fort Worth, fifth with $16,326; and Jerry Dickey Cox, Walnut Springs, seventh with $13,784; Bob Steiner, Austin, 10th with $12,373; Myrtis Dightman, Crockett, 11th with $12,134; and George Paul, Del Rio, 14th with $10,732. (Paul was killed in the crash of his plane last August, but had won enough money to end up in 14th place. Ron Bowman, Calera, Okla., the 16th ranked man, will take his place.)

In calf roping, Ronny Sewalt, Chico, third with $20,290; and Buttons Howard, Farwell, eighth with $15,376.

And in steer wrestling, Larry Ward, Odessa, 10th with $11,218; and Jerry Peveto, Orange, 13th with $9,685.

Inspector Strike Holding Up Grain

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Grain shipments to railroad yards in Kansas City may be halted because Missouri grain inspectors in the Kansas City market are striking for higher pay.

Robert C. O'Brien, Kansas City Board of Trade president, said the embargo on inbound shipments are being considered.

Construction Item At Webb Is Approved

A $349,000 appropriation for replacement of flight training facilities at Webb Air Force Base apparently will be completed soon.

The Missouri inspectors receive $650 a month, compared with $704 for inspectors in Kansas, and $700 to $1,000 for federal inspectors.

The Senate this past week approved a conference report on the military construction appropriations bill, and it now awaits the President's signature.

The walkout by the six inspectors Friday left 480 carloads of grain in the yards, and 800 more are expected to arrive by Monday.

The Webb facility, which has been in the hopper since March, 1968, will now be funded unless there is a veto.

Thirteen other employees—including eight samplers, two chemists, two yard foremen and one trainee—walked out with the inspectors.

The military construction bill includes over $58 million for various Texas installations. Air Force facilities in the state receive the biggest share of the appropriations.

Agriculture Department officials said the samplers and chemists could be replaced easily, but an inspector must have five years training.

Bases other than Webb to receive funds are:

The Missouri inspectors receive $650 a month, compared with $704 for inspectors in Kansas, and $700 to $1,000 for federal inspectors.

Bergstrom, Austin, $337,000; Brooks, San Antonio, $2,414,000; Dyess, Abilene, $150,000; Goodfellow, San Angelo, $1,216,000; Kelly, San Antonio, $17,095,000; Lackland, San Antonio, $55,000; Laredo, $762,000; Laughlin, Del Rio, $396,000; Randolph, San Antonio, $1,112,000; Reese, Lubbock, $1,136,000; Sheppard, Wichita Falls, $6,251,000; and Webb, Big Spring, $349,000.

Dexter Davis, state commissioner of agriculture, said Friday the inspectors gave notice they would not work for less than the Kansas and federal inspectors.

Army installations will receive $20,043,000 as follows: Aeronautical Maintenance Center, $3,738,000; Fort Bliss, $509,000; and Fort Sam Houston, $15,496,000.

Davis said it was up to the Missouri Legislature to appropriate more money for the inspectors.

Navy facilities in the state will receive $7,599,000, with $1,900,000 going to the Corpus Christi Naval Hospital, $5,553,000 to the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station and $146,000 to the Naval inactive ship maintenance facility in Orange.

The problem came to a head when the state ran out of money to pay the men for overtime. An emergency appropriation bill before the current special legislative session in Jefferson City contained a request for money to pay the overtime, but it was eliminated by the House appropriations committee.

Penn Central Chief Loses Contract

Johnson Attends Sales Conference

Billy Johnson of Big Spring joined a group of more than 700 Payne air conditioning dealers and distributors in Las Vegas last week to take part in a two-day sales conference.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A former president of the Penn Central Transportation Co., removed in an executive shakeup last June, has now had his contract with the railroad revoked.

Johnson is the owner of Johnson Sheet Metal Company, Big Spring, a Payne "Air Management Specialist" dealer.

The meeting, entitled the "Touchdown Conference," was a musical production with a football theme. The program was designed to introduce Payne dealers to new air conditioning products and programs, and offer a view of developments within the industry.

A copy of the document was delivered to Perlman in his New York office.

Payne officials revealed that the sale of air conditioning systems topped the million mark for the first time last year, a 24 per cent increase over the prior year. Nearly one out of three new homes constructed last year included central air conditioning, they said.

A Penn Central spokesman said the move was in accord with an order of U. S. Dist Judge John P. Fullam directing the railroad to pay no more than $50,000 a year to any person who does not have full-time assigned duties with the financially ailing railroad.

Fullam is supervising reorganization of the railroad under federal bankruptcy laws.

When relieved of his duties on June 8, the Penn Central Board of Directors agreed to continue Perlman's annual salary of $130,000 until his contract terminated on Nov. 30, 1970.

Perlman, 68, has since been named president of the Western Pacific Railroad. He was president of the New York Central before it merged with the Pennsylvania Railroad in 1968 to form the Penn Central.

look what i haven't got

A child can be proud of a missing tooth. She knows it will grow in later, better and stronger than ever.

It's different with the opportunities a child may be missing!

Like the opportunity to gain the spiritual and moral foundation for adult life . . . and the opportunity to gain inspiration and example from the religious faith of parents . . . and the opportunity to find wholesome interests and friendships among the boys and girls at church.

Sure, she points today with pride to a missing tooth. But what if her parents continue to deny her the precious opportunity for religious training? What if she is forced to grow up without the faith and moral conviction life constantly demands?

WILL SHE BE PROUD OF WHAT SHE DOESN'T HAVE?

ABILENE — Jerry Wilson had the traits a coach takes to see in a football player and the ones a coach takes in a coach.

JERRY WILSON

Wilson has seen both sides of the coin since he came to ACC over four years ago from Big Spring. He has been involved in action on the field and last year, when a knee injury put him on the sidelines, he spent his time as a student coach.

Coach Wally Bullington says Wilson has the best football mind of any student that has ever served in that capacity. "Jerry is farther along than any boy I've ever seen for his age," said Bullington. "He wants to coach and he's on his way to becoming a great one."

Bullington thinks Wilson has all the traits to become an outstanding teacher of young men. "He's a natural teacher, a persistent, hard worker and is an unselfish person. He puts himself second and the team first," said the Wildcat coach.

Injuries (more have come this year) have kept Wilson from reaching the status he would have liked as a player but they have not dampened his enthusiasm. As a starter at middle linebacker early in the season Bullington says Wilson called some of the best defensive games he had ever seen called at ACC. "He's just a student of the game and knows defense as well as anybody," said Bullington.

The 187-pound senior admits that his year spent as a student coach and scout helped his knowledge of the game. "It helped me more than I helped them," he modestly states. "I scouted every week and saw a lot of ball games and looked at films over and over," Jerry said. "You certainly get a different look from the press box while scouting. It's like a camera, you see everybody, the whole picture. You can see where the offense is attacking, and hopefully, what to do to stop it."

Wilson is not particular at what linebacking position he plays. He was on the strong side against Trinity and turned in an outstanding game. "I like the middle on a four-man front and the strong side on a five-man line," he said. Jerry has played defense all his football days. He was a defensive end at Big Spring under former Breckenridge star Donald Robbins. The hard-nosed West Texan is looking forward to the fracas with rival McMurry next Monday night. "It's a big game for us," said Wilson. "It will give us a chance to win nine games, something ACC hasn't done since 1950. We have a lot of respect for McMurry. You

Texas Stars Due Return

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — University of Texas quarterback Eddie Phillips and fullback Steve Worster, both injured in the Longhorns' 52-14 victory over Texas A&M Thursday, will be able to go full speed in workouts sometime next week, a team doctor predicted Friday.

Texas plays Arkansas next Saturday in what coach Darrell Royal calls "Shootout No. 2." The Longhorns nipped Arkansas 15-14 in Shootout No. 1 last year and went on to beat Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl, 21-17, and win the national title.

Phillips sustained a knee injury in the first half against the Aggies but played on for a time in the second half. The doctor said the knee was "less tender" Friday.

"He has more range of motion in the knee now. There is only a little swelling and he has no pain inside the knee, just to the touch," the doctor said.

These symptoms indicate a knee bruise, he said, but "it is difficult to tell about knee injuries for sure for a few days after."

Worster suffered a hip pointer against A&M that Royal said might keep him out of the Arkansas game. "I haven't seen people with a hip this bad start back that fast," Royal said after the game.

The doctor said Worster felt much better Friday. Also, the rib injury Worster suffered against Baylor is almost entirely healed, he said.

Worster played only a few minutes against Baylor and A&M.

Texas suffered a number of other injuries in the Aggie game but only Phillips and Worster were asked to remain in town over the Thanksgiving weekend for treatment.

Defensive end Bill Atessis pulled the hamstring muscle he first injured running a 40-yard dash against the clock for an Atlanta Falcons' scout last summer.

Defensive tackle Carl White sprained an ankle and is considered unlikely to play against the Razorbacks.

Enduring Effort Pays Off For Sens' Short

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Robert E. Short, owner of the Washington Senators, refuses to accept "no" for an answer and has made an impact in sports with his persuasiveness.

He signed Elgin Baylor, Jerry West and Fred Schaus to his basketball team; Denny McLain, Curt Flood, and Ted Williams to his Senators. Each time he wasn't stopped by negative replies.

"I think people give me more credit than I deserve," said Short, a Minneapolis hotel and trucking executive. "There is an art to painting a word. I don't consider myself an expert but at least I understand it."

"I don't think I have any particular faculty over anyone else in persuasion. But I think I probably package it a little different than most."

INVOLVED IN SUIT
Short's latest coup was obtaining Flood, who refused to play for Philadelphia after he was traded from St. Louis and filed an antitrust suit against major league baseball.

Short talked about other pending deals. "I'm working on some trades that would be sensational," said Short a few days before this week's winter baseball meetings in Los Angeles. "They're not probable. They're possible."

"I'd like to have Reggie Jackson from the A's and a left-handed pitcher," he said. "We'd make any kind of a trade to improve our club. I can't sit still."
Short, statuesque in appearance behind a long desk stacked high with paperwork, described himself as a dynamo since his boyhood, on the Minneapolis North Side, a lower middle income area.

"If you grew up on the North Side," said Short, "you were interested in sports almost at birth. We played sandlot baseball and football. Between my freshman and sophomore year I grew a foot and wasn't very coordinated. I was the high school trainer."

"I delivered newspapers, magazines, ice. I worked in a grocery store, drug store and at a soda fountain. As I got older I did heavier work, because it paid heavier."

After serving in the Navy during World War II, Short borrowed money to enter the trucking business, now the largest Twin Cities-based firm. He owns hotels with more than 1,000 rooms and an airline, among other things.

Short, father of seven, has been active in politics. He was the Democratic party treasurer when close friend Hubert Humphrey ran for president. Perhaps his biggest disappointment came politically, losing bids for Congress and lieutenant governor and his party's nomination for governor last summer.

MAGIC WORKS
But the golden-haired Short's magic has worked in sports since he took the almost bankrupt Minneapolis Lakers in 1957, moved them to Los Angeles two years later and then sold them for $5 million to Jack Kent Cooke in 1965.

Only Elgin Baylor's signature saved the Lakers in 1958. "He told me under no circumstances was he going to sign before his senior year at Seattle University," Short recalled. "I wouldn't take no for an answer. Without him we were bankrupt."

"I went to Washington, D.C., where he lived and sat there most of one Sunday. He gave me an emphatic no. I flew out to Seattle and spent 24 hours there the day before the draft. I showed up 15 minutes before the draft started and announced Baylor was our first pick."
"He signed two or three days later."

Ozona Toppled In Regionals

SAN ANGELO — The Haskell Indians defeated the Ozona Lions 17-15 here Friday night and earned the right to advance in the race for the state AA championship.

Charlie Franklin scored two touchdowns to lead the Indians' victory. All-district back Ruben Tambunga scored once for Ozona. Ozona picked up 367 yards total offense but just couldn't dent the scoreboard often enough.

Late in the contest Ozona had one score by Gerald Huff nullified by a holding penalty.

Monahans Tops Dumas, 21-6

ODESSA — Stymied by a tough Dumas defense in the first half, Monahans came back with a touchdown on its first series of plays in the second half and went on to record a 21-6 win in the bi-district playoffs.

Monahans meets defending state AAA king Brownwood next week.

In the tilt with Dumas, Monahans fell behind 6-0 at the half on a scoring pass from Bobby Laughry to Mickey Hartman. Scoring for Monahans in the final half were Billy Phipps and Ray Cox.

Cooper Stops Holiday, 20-7

SNYDER — The Cooper offense finally got untracked in the last quarter here Friday night and Cooper rolled to a 20-7 win over Holiday in Class A playoff action.

Christmas Is Coming!

Before you know it, the kettle bells will be ringing, the carolers will be singing — and the best of seasons will bring expressions of love in packages under the tree. It's tinsel and toys — and girls and boys — the most beautiful time of the year. Stores are for shopping, and gifts are for giving, so hurry, while shelves are brimming. Santa says the "best buys" are in Big Spring!

WHAT WIFE WOULDN'T want a gift such as this? Even Santa himself couldn't make a better choice than a Breath of Spring natural mink coat for that certain lady in a man's life. Walter Wheat will do a lot of looking this week before he makes the purchases for Mrs. Wheat and their children, Larry and Elise.

THREE HEADS MAY BE better than one when it's time to start buying gifts for Christmas. That is, unless three teenagers have different ideas on what Mother wants Santa to put under the tree.

Thinking it's not too soon to start making decisions are Steve, Cindy and Kathy Jones who want this to be a very special Christmas for their mother, Mrs. Martha Jones.

MEN'S FASHIONS are at their finest this year as shirts and ties reflect the brightness of the season. Most men are showing more interest in clothes than ever before, so a lady knows they are wanted gifts. Mrs. Roy Ginder, left, shops for her husband and son, Danny, while Mrs. Anderson W. Atkinson makes selections for her husband and sons, Randall and John. Giving a bit of advice on colors is R. P. Nicholson.

GRANDPARENTS GET a special kick out of Christmas, and what grandchild doesn't thrive on a bit of "spoiling"? Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Thompson accept the fact that their granddaughter, Jill Odom, 12, will soon be a young lady and change their shopping habits accordingly. Jill is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paschal Odom.

IT'S DOUBLE THE PLEASURE on Christmas morning when the gift-buying is for twins. A year old on Nov. 23, Peter and Paul Huard will enjoy the cuddly canines that make the best kind of pets for little fellows. Won't their eyes be wide on Christmas morning when they see the lighted tree? Mr. and Mrs. James Huard and their sons live at 114 Carlton House, and Santa knows the address.

It has got so it just doesn't take any time at all for put a year behind us anymore. Here it is almost December and it seems only yesterday that we were getting ready for school to start. If the tempo gets any faster I'm not going to be prepared to usher in the New Year with any enthusiasm.

JUST BRUSHING IS NOT ENOUGH

It stands to reason that if a foundation is not secure then what is built upon it could have future troubles. So it is with dental health and hygiene. You must have healthy gums to have good teeth.

Even frequent brushing of your teeth is not enough if it is done incorrectly. A good brushing should take around three minutes with a good part of this devoted to the gums. Your dentist will explain to you the best method and equipment to use. We have all the products that he will recommend in our complete dental care section. Let your dentist check your gums.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

Old Post Office Is New Library

After the dedication ceremonies today of the new Howard County Library, guests will be invited to tour the building to see what kind of a library can be made out of an old post office.

The present facility bears little resemblance to the old post office. The Peter Hurd mural still catches the eye of the visitor upon entering the building. The mural no longer adorns the wall over a post office counter, it graces the area over what is now a lounge and magazine reading area for library patrons.

One relic of the past is an old post office table that has been refinished to be used as a book display table. The members of the 1953 Hyperion Club arranged to have the old table refinished. The burn marks, tobacco stains and the scratches and nicks gathered over the years were sanded and varnished away. Eventually the table will display a memorial book given by the club which will list all the books given the library and their donors.

Other clubs have also made furnishing the library one of their projects. The 1955 Hyperion Club donated a lighted world globe; the Big Spring Credit Women's club donated a check, part of which was used to purchase modernistic globe-shaped lamps for the lounge area; The Ever-Ready Civic Art Club donated a wall clock, and the Child Study Club donated money for the purchase of a reading table for the adult reading area.

Also helping with the transformation of a post office into the library is the Planters Garden Club. Each month, this club furnishes a floral arrangement displayed just outside the lounge area. Barber Glass and Mirror Company furnished the glass door-fronts which changed two sections of book shelves into a display case for such things as the Al Long metal works exhibit which is being shown now.

According to Mrs. Edna Nichols, librarian, the gifts are part of the different clubs' response to the suggestion from the Chamber of Commerce that clubs and businesses make the library one of their projects.

Other vestiges of the building's post office days are the eagles that adorn the black painted doors of the walk-in vaults once used by the post office. Instead of being painted over, the eagles were left alone and seem just as much a part of the new surroundings as they were of the old.

The old cat-walk that the postal inspectors used to keep a watchful, unseen eye on federal operations has been blocked off by heating and cooling equipment. The ladders and doors leading into the lofty peep-holes are still around, though painted an unobtrusive off-white.

All the post office counters and windows have been removed. In their places are the central check-out desk, reading tables and book shelves. All are in different tones of light and dark woods. The shelves are blond and the reading tables and chairs are maple.

As visitors to the library wander through the building, they will possibly notice the increased floor space in the new facility as compared with the old site of the library. Additional shelves have been purchased and installed and some of the old shelves also made the three-block move down Scurry.

Some 450 new books have been purchased since the move. The books do more than anything else to certify that the building is now a library and not a place for buying stamps and mailing packages. Over 250 children's books have been added to the shelves, and 200 adult books have been added.

"Hundreds, literally hundreds of old books have been taken out of storage, mended and shelved," said Mrs. Nichols.

According to Mrs. Nichols, current book circulation is 6,000 per month, a 1,000 books-per-month increase over the circulation averaged while at the old site.

A microfilm reading room and reader, and a record listening room have been built into the main area of the building. An old counter area has been converted into a workstation for the library staff. The counter area and an old table have been converted into work areas that are constantly stacked with books needing repair, and the glue, brushes and tapes used to repair them. During spare moments one or another of the staff can be found wielding a brush dipped in glue—or taping a damaged book.

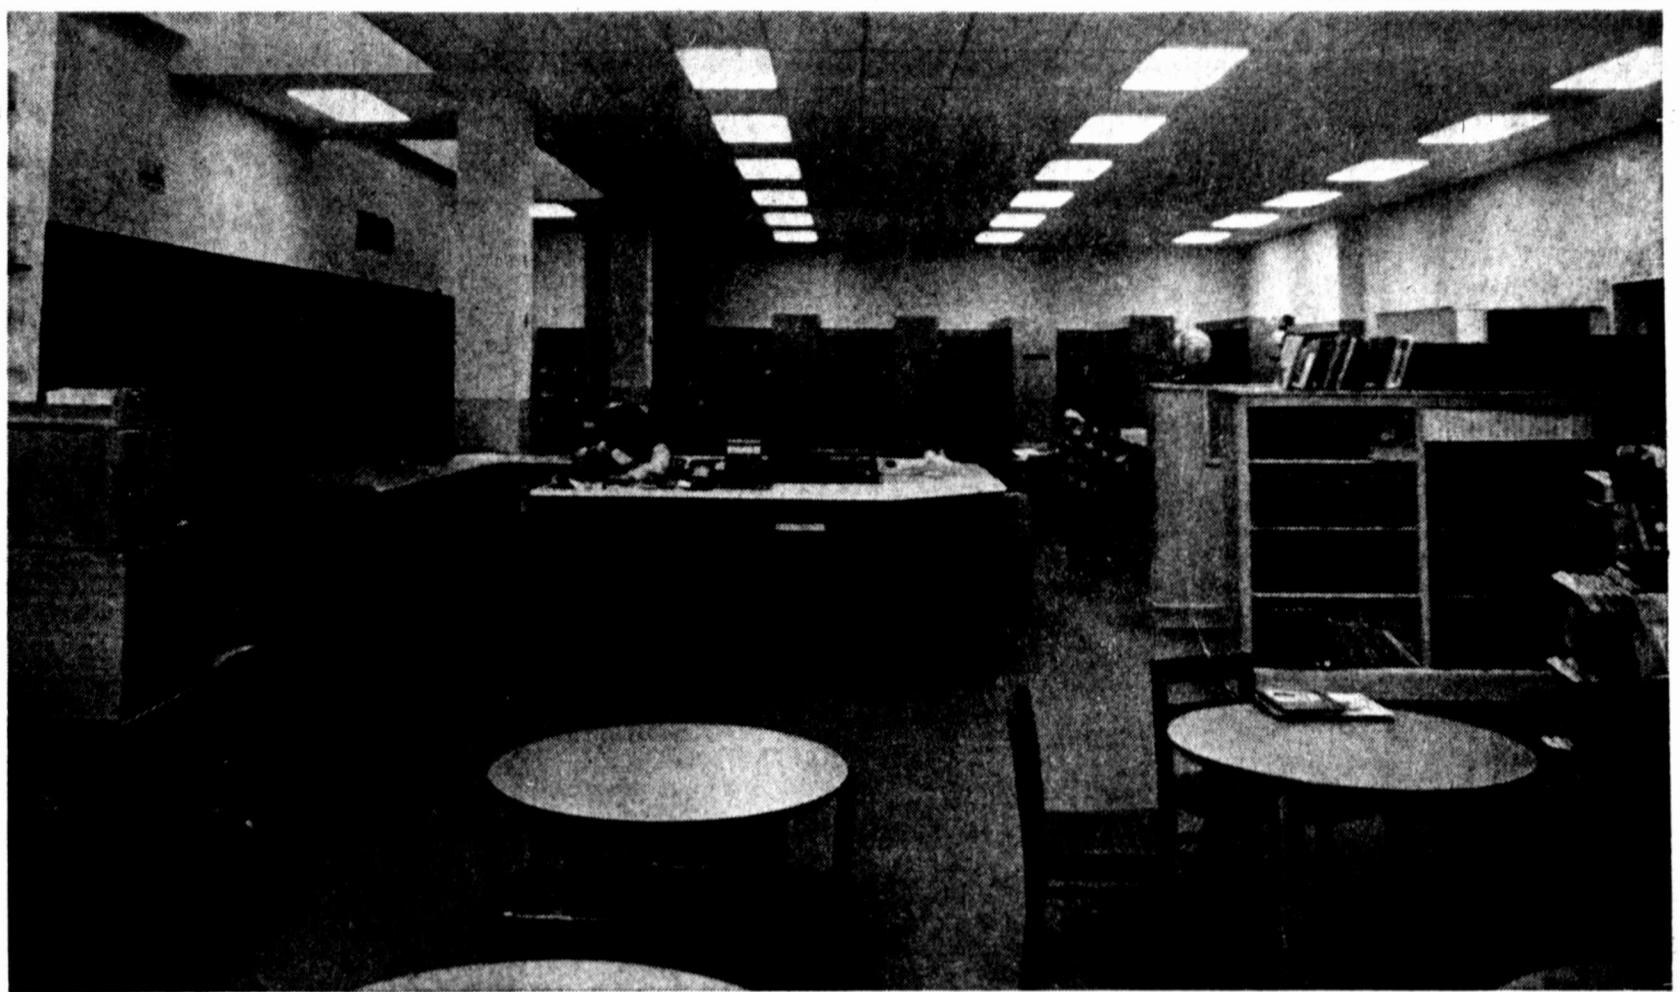

Book drops replace the letter drops, and a place of quiet study, reading enjoyment and relaxing has replaced the busy, impersonal atmosphere of a post office.

INCREASED FLOOR SPACE IN NEW LIBRARY

It Has More Than Books

What's so good about a library? After all, all it has is books.

Books are not all that the new Howard County Library has to offer the public, but as in the case of any library, are its most important facet.

With the increased space afforded by the new facilities, at the old Federal Building, books that have been in hiding in the bottoms of boxes now add their number to the volumes on the shelves. Not as many books as had originally been hoped have been dusted and shelved, according to Mrs. Edna Nichols, librarian, but more will be added as the circulation increases. Presently, 5,000 books are circulated monthly.

Available to patrons are adult fiction and non-fiction, magazines, research volumes, all types of novels, and newspapers.

In addition to books, records and films are available for the patrons' listening and viewing enjoyment. The record listening room is a new addition to the library services. Four stereo headsets and two turntables have been placed in a soundproof room just off the main reading room. Records may be checked out like magazines, and two patrons can listen to records at the same time.

Provisions have been made in the library budget for the addition to and the improvement of the library's record collection, according to Mrs. Nichols.

Presently, the collection consists largely of albums donated to the library.

Adjacent to the listening room is the microfilm reader room. When the microfilm reader is delivered, visitors to the library will be able to view manuscripts, newspapers, books and magazines that have been placed on microfilm. Mrs. Nichols said she hopes to be able to obtain microfilm copies of rare manuscripts and books in other libraries' collections.

Films are available to individuals, clubs, schools and church groups at the library. In stock are travel films, children's films, educational films, cartoon shorts and religious films. The library obtains its films from a circuit and the films are changed each month. The films can be reserved by phoning the library.

Just off the area where the old Post Office safe was kept, a room has been converted into a formal meeting room for the use of civic, business and social clubs in the area. The room is carpeted in turquoise, furnished with a maple table and turquoise upholstered chairs. Watching over all, is Uncle Sam's eagle adorning the black-painted safe-door in one wall of the room. Any group may reserve the conference room for a meeting by phoning the library and requesting a reservation.

Study carrels are a new feature of the library. The carrels are located in back of the non-fiction stacks. They are equipped with plugs to accommodate electric typewriters and are available to anyone. The carrels are located in a fairly soundproof part of the library, and the non-fiction stacks serve to isolate the researcher from the rest of the library and to absorb the noise of a typewriter.

The checkout desk is centrally located on the main floor of the library. To speed up service, it is designed so that books may be checked in on one side and checked out on the other. Cards are processed through a machine which stamps the patron's card number onto the book card.

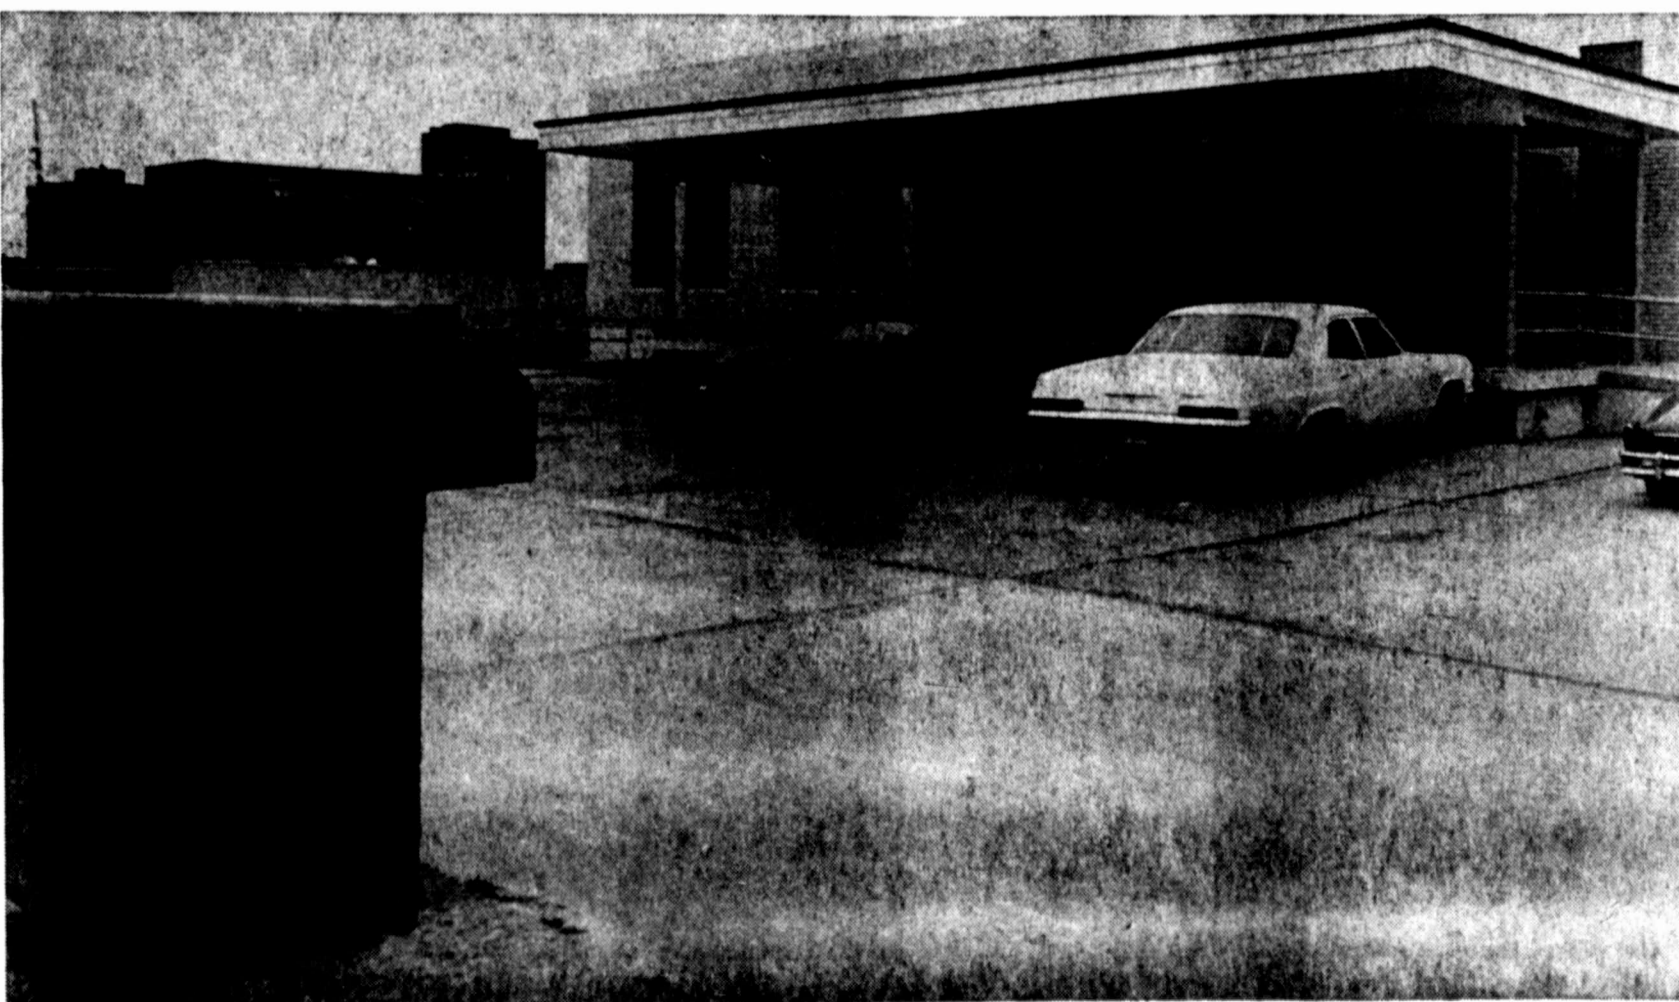

The research librarian's desk is located between the check-out desk and the children's reading section. The research librarian assists library visitors in finding the resource in which they seek the information in which it can be found.

Children visiting the library will no longer hear the story hour in a garage. A special room has been furnished for them in the library basement. At the old library, the children heard the weekly stories in the book-filled garage behind the library. The room used now is carpeted in the same turquoise as the upstairs area and is outfitted with miniature chairs and blackboards.

All this is offered at the New Howard County Library — and, oh, yes, they have books, too.

Librarian Learns Job On The Move

Since taking over from Mrs. Opal McDaniel in December as Howard County Librarian, Mrs. Edna Nichols has been largely occupied with the task of preparing books, equipment and materials for the move into the renovated post office building.

Mrs. Nichols has worked for the Howard County Library off and on for nearly 10 years. She was born in Knott and now lives at Elbow where her husband ranches.

During the first few years of her marriage, Mrs. Nichols and her husband were stationed in Germany. "We just loved it there," she said, "and I'm always anxious to talk to people about it, especially to people who are going there for the first time."

Mrs. Nichols graduated from Knott High School in 1955. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harrell of Knott. Mrs. Harrell is the Knott post-mistress. After graduating from high school, Mrs. Nichols went on to Howard County Junior College where she took courses that would count toward a degree in library science.

She has continued her studies through correspondence courses with Texas Tech and other colleges and universities.

"I'm in my junior year of studies," said Mrs. Nichols, "but that was reached between marriage, Germany and babies. I also worked for the library during that time and as a secretary at Webb AFB for about two years."

She holds a two-year associate degree from Howard County Junior College. To keep up with the new techniques and ideas in library management, she often attends seminars and meetings geared for librarians. In November, she attended a screening of films for the West Texas Film Circuit.

At the meeting, West Texas

Librarians were asked to select new films to be included in the circuit's distribution.

Studying has always been her main interest, according to Mrs. Nichols. Her correspondence work and seminars have allowed her to keep up this pastime. Her job as librarian fits in with her interest in the study of literature, she said.

"I like to feel I'm always learning something, and there's no better place to feel right in my element than here in the library," she said.

Her outside interests, when her job will allow, include sewing, bowling and playing tennis. "I haven't had time for many of these things lately, but I do manage to get in a game of bridge every so often," she added.

Mrs. Nichols' two children, Marcia, 11; and Weldon, 8, expressed doubt at first at their mother's job and her absence away from them. Since she assumed the job as county librarian, the children have come to enjoy staying with their cousins and grandparents while their mother is away from home.

"This is a great opportunity for me and the family," said Mrs. Nichols, who now reigns as the head librarian in the new library facilities in the old post office on Scurry.

'OUR VISIONS SWEEP THROUGH ETERNITY . . .'
Historic mural still dominates despite building change

Building Use Changes, But Hurd Mural Remains

By LINDA CROSS
"If ever this post office has a mural, I hope it won't be on canvas," said Nat Shick, Big Spring postmaster in 1937.

Shick didn't think much about those words after they were said, but the man to whom they were addressed, Smith W. Purdum, an assistant postmaster general, remembered them and helped to start the process of moving that got Peter Hurd, then a young, but promising Western artist, commissioned to paint a mural for the Big Spring post office.

Hurd was commissioned to do the mural under WPA financing. He arrived in Big Spring with a preliminary sketch and set to work. He used life models for the characters in the mural which consist of a young girl and a pioneer family in front of a sod house.

To Hurd, the sod house was symbolic of the pioneers' struggles in settling and taming the West Texas country.

Assisted by George and Pablo Winslow, Hurd set to work on the mural. An area 7 by 21 feet was stripped from the wall and a galvanized lathe installed to insure the permanence of the mural.

The mural went up section by section, one was done each day. The Winslows mixed the fresh plaster each morning and helped Hurd apply it to the wall. Hurd then mixed his own pigment, using eggs and other ingredients known only to the artist, and began applying the paint to the still wet plaster.

Special ingredients went into the plaster as well as the paint. Hurd obtained river sand from the Llano area and marble dust from the south central states. Each day, Hurd worked on a new section. His was the delicate task to see that the pigments matched those that had dried in the section done the day before.

So exact was he in his work that today it cannot be detected that the mural was done in sections. All of the mural, including the moulding, is done in plaster.

When the mural was complete, Hurd telescoped two lines from Walt Whitman for the caption under it. The caption reads: "O Pioneers, Democracy rests finally upon us, and our visions sweep through eternity."

This was the work done by a relatively unknown artist in the depression-riddled '30's. Hurd worked each day clad in a worn pair of cowboy boots, tight-fitting levis and a western shirt. It's a costume that few people have ever seen him vary.

The now renowned artist lives in San Patricio, N. M., west of Artesia. He was invited to attend Sunday's dedication of the library, but had to refuse because of a commitment to the publisher of a book Hurd is writing.

In his reply to the invitation, Hurd said, "I am delighted that the building is now being used as a library, and that my mural is a part of it."

Hurd has said that the mural, one of his first, is in his opinion the best he has done. Some time ago, Hurd passed through Big Spring without revealing himself to anyone, and took a look at how the years had

Chicago Teens Unemployed

CHICAGO (AP) — David L. Daniel, Cook County's public aid director, reports that the unemployment rate among youths seeking summer employment soared to 15.7 per cent over 12.8 per cent a year ago.

For Black youths unemployment rose from 24.6 per cent in 1969 to 30.2 per cent in the summer of 1970.

"But," Daniel said, "experience with finding jobs for 16 to 21-year-olds was better in 1970."

He said his agency's youth unit referred 1,065 youngsters for jobs in 1969 and in 1970 1,695. A total of 379 youngsters obtained jobs, compared with 330 in the previous years. Fewer were able to get jobs on their own than in 1969, with 94 being successful compared with 79 in 1970.

WT Marshal Confirmed

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Senate confirmed Sam H. Roberts of Austin as U.S. marshal for West Texas. Roberts has been marshal in San Antonio for a year under an interim appointment from President Nixon.

Rising Costs

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Rising costs have forced the Kentucky Welfare Department to shelve plans to build a new diagnostic center for delinquents and a new boys' camp, both in Western Kentucky.

His district includes divisions here and in Austin, Waco, El Paso, Del Rio, Pecos and Midland-Odessa. Roberts, a retired lieutenant colonel, was in the Army 26 years. He retired in May of Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., 1968.

BSHS Senior Works Part Time At Library

Spending afternoons after school in the Howard County Library is more than just an opportunity to browse through the books for Esther Coates, Big Spring High School senior. Esther is working at the library for the second school year through the Vocational Office Education program. She works weekday afternoons after attending morning classes.

Besides her studies and her part-time job at the library, she also reads, browses and collects postcards from different places. Although she hasn't settled her future plans yet, she hopes to go on to business college, possibly in Abilene.

"I want a career as either a secretary or as a key punch operator. I'm just interested in going into some job in business," she said.

Of her work, Esther said, "It's all very interesting, but I enjoy cataloging the most, getting the books ready to go on the shelves."

Esther is the daughter of Mrs. W. F. Coates, 1204 W. 2nd.

JOAN CRAWFORD, CHRISTOPHER LEE IN DOUBLE-BILL

Science Fiction, Horror Thrillers At R-70

A science fiction movie, "Trog," starring Joan Crawford and a horror film, "Taste The Blood of Dracula," with Christopher Lee open Wednesday sharing the R-70 screen. Ever since she appeared with Bette Davis in the celebrated "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" in 1962, Joan Crawford has utilized her Academy Award-winning thespian talents to shock audiences in macabre and eerie films.

'TROG' STARS JOAN CRAWFORD ... Joe Cornelius, Michael Gough (right)

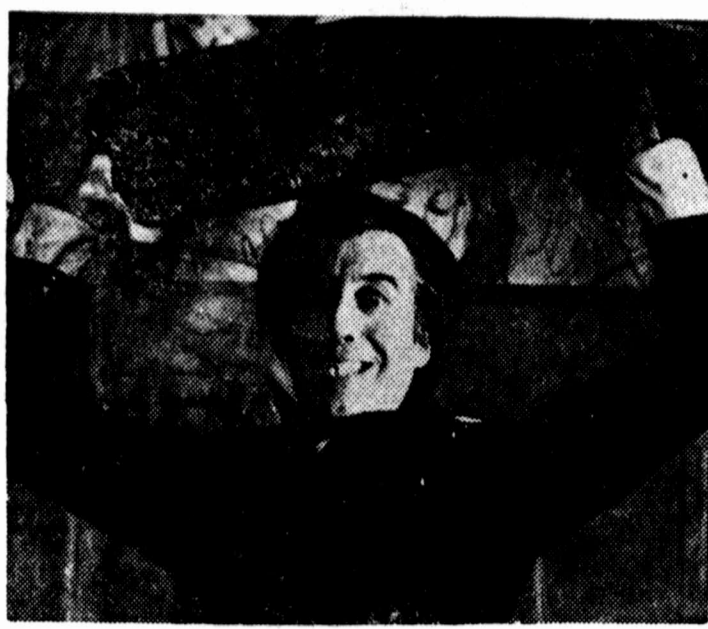

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sunday, Nov. 29, 1970 7-D

Miss Crawford plays the anthropologist Dr. Brockton, who is convinced she has found the missing link between man and the apes when she locates a living troglodyte, who remained frozen in a cave from a former ice age.

She and her associates invite disaster when they release the monstrous-looking creature from a scientific laboratory into a society of horrified and frightened citizens.

Co-starring with Miss Crawford are veteran character actor Michael Gough, blonde newcomer Kim Braden, TV favorite David Griffin, stage actor John Hamill, Thorley Walters and Bernard Kay. Joe Cornelius appears as Trog.

Once again, Christopher Lee is Count Dracula in "Taste The Blood of Dracula." He is supported by co-stars Geoffrey Keen, Peter Sallis, John Carson,

TASTE THE BLOOD OF DRACULA ... Christopher Lee and the Count

Linda Hayden, Isla Blair, Gwen Watford, Roy Kinnear, Russell Hunter and Michael Ripper. Christopher Lee, who undoubtedly ranks as one of Britain's most famous international stars, has appeared in nearly 100 pictures. While he has played many "straight" roles, Lee has in recent years concentrated on portraying such menacing characters as Dracula, Frankenstein and Fu Manchu.

Geoffrey Keen, who plays the brutal and sadistic William Hargood, has starred in "The Troubleshooters" TV program and in the films "The Inspector," "The Spiral Road," "The Heroes of Telemark" and "Dr. Zhivago."

Aida Young, the producer, revels in her job. Perhaps the most outstanding among the few women film producers, Miss Young (formerly an actress) was associate producer on "She" and "One Million Years B.C." More recently, she produced "The Vengeance of She"

and "When Dinosaurs Ruled the Earth."

"Taste the Blood of Dracula" marks the directorial debut of Peter Sasdy, a specialist in the realms of science-fiction and of the macabre. He has previously produced or directed 150 plays and films for television.

'WUSA' OPENS Hingle Is Texan By Marriage

For his role of a millionaire in "WUSA," opening Wednesday at the Cinema Theatre, Pat Hingle wears a $500 mohair suit, a $40 pure silk shirt, $200 hand-made shoes, $25 ties and $10 silk socks. On one of his fingers is a $2,000 diamond ring, on his wrist is a solid gold wrist watch and band worth $1,500 and $235 solid gold cuff-links complete the outfit.

The role also was worth a free lunch each day, hosted by propman Tony Bravero and costumer Nat Tolmach, who picked up the tab just to be able to keep an eye on their valuable merchandise.

Hingle might be considered a Texan by marriage. His wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell F. Dorsey, Big Spring.

"WUSA," starring Paul Newman, Joanne Woodward and Anthony Perkins, was produced by Newman and John Foreman. Based on the novel "A Hall of Mirrors" by Robert Stone, who also wrote the screenplay, the production co-stars Hingle, Don Gordon, Michael Anderson Jr., Bruce Cabot, Cloris Leachman, Moses Gunn and Laurence Harvey as Farley.

Typical Apartment Made For 'Jenny'

Marlo Thomas, who makes her film debut as "Jenny," opening tonight at the Jet, has a typical working girl's Greenwich Village apartment consisting of a seven foot by nine foot studio room, with a four foot kitchen and a tiny bathroom.

Her living quarters, designed by art director Trevor Williams, had to be built at the studio for a simple reason — in an actual apartment that small, there would be no room for the camera to maneuver to film the scenes.

Alan Alda and Martin Lavut, who co-authored the screenplay, were reunited on the set of the film after not having seen each other for more than six years. The last time they toured together was in a touring company of "Compass," a group that specialized in on-the-spot sketches of political satire. At that time, Alda usually portrayed the late President John F. Kennedy, and Lavut played former Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Location Filming

NEW YORK (AP) — Filming for "The Anderson Tapes," Robert M. Weisman's production for Columbia Pictures starring Sean Connery, Dyan Cannon, Martin Balsam and Alan King recently was begun on location in New York City. The movie is based on the best-selling novel by Lawrence Sanders, and is about an epic million-dollar robbery of a luxury apartment building on New York's upper eastside.

Singer Turns To Acting In 'The Adventurers'

Theatre history is filled with stories of tragedians who longed to play comedy and comics who pined to play Hamlet. In motion pictures, it seems to be actors who sing and singers who act.

Among the former the most distinguished probably are Rex Harrison, Lee Marvin and Richard Harris.

The paragon of singers who have turned to acting is Frank Sinatra.

With the premiere this year of a French star who has been better known to American audiences as a singer, will establish himself in the United States as a notable dramatic talent. He is Charles Aznavour, who is cast as Marcel Campion, a self-made millionaire shipping magnate who backs the wrong side in a Latin American revolution. "The Adventurers," the film version of Harold Robbins' best-selling novel, opens Wednesday at the Jet Theatre.

Aznavour, who has appeared in 13 French films, is recognized in his home land as a distinguished actor. In the United States, his films generally have received limited distribution and he is best known for his concert tours and the music he has written and sung.

IT'S THANKSGIVING.

BUT WHAT IF YOU HAVE NO BLESSINGS TO COUNT?

Impossible. And if you look inside yourself, you'll find them. You have the breath of God in your lungs. You have the God-given ability to hope. You have God's love. And you have yet another gift from Him. The ability to help others. To open your heart and your hand and your mind to someone else. If everyone exercises this wonderful gift, imagine how much more we will have to be thankful for on Thanksgiving, 1971.
