Britain Dim, Cold In Power Strike

LONDON (AP) — A state of emergency was proclaimed by Queen Elizabeth II from Buckingham Palace Saturday night, arming her embattled government with special powers to handle the electric power crisis plunging Britain into repeated blackouts.

Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative administration immediately ordered a ban on the use of electricity for advertising and display lighting.

Violators were threatened with fines and imprisonment after the ban takes effect Monday.

The proclamation—marking a new get-tough line against 125,000 workers staging a go-slow for more pay in the state-run power industry—was signed by the queen at 5 p.m. during a hastily summoned meeting with the Privy Council, her highest group of advisers.

DRAFT POWERS

Heath thus was given wide-ranging authority to take any steps necessary to keep essential industries and public services moving—including drafting of troops to man power stations as a last resort. The prime minister asked the queen to proclaim the emergency after meeting with his Cabinet for two hours on a day that ironically brought few troubles for electricity consumers.

Mild weather and the usual weekend drop in demand meant that for the first time in the six-day-old dispute there were no blackouts by early evening.

The emergency proclamation was the second in Britain this year. Last July the government was granted special powers during a national dock strike—but did not use them.

GLOOMY CHRISTMAS

Previous emergencies were declared for a seamen's strike in 1966, a rail strike in 1955, dock strikes in 1948-49, the general strike in 1926 and a coal strike in 1921.

Many Britons were resigning themselves to a grim and gloomy Christmas. Employment Minister Robert Carr said conditions "are going to be difficult, but we will get by."

The electricity Council, which has the problem of controlling power supplies that are apt to fluctuate as the workers pursue their go-slow, spread the cuts around the country last week.

In neighborhoods blacked out for several hours at a time, factories, schools, stores and theaters were shut down.

About 80 per cent of the homes of 55 million Britons were affected, although no more than a third of the country was blacked out at any one time.

'COLD' CRISIS

Military units provided emergency generators to keep hospitals going but some hospitals postponed routine operations.

The emergency proclamation was welcomed by business leaders and largely shrugged off by labor unionists.

Television and movie theater advertising were excluded from the government order, but could be brought in at any time.

Officials said the special regulations allow John Davies, minister of trade and industry, to take over complete control of electricity supplies throughout the country—even to the extent of ordering troops into the power stations.

But informants said the government had no present plans for tight controls on lighting and heating in Britain's 18 million homes. Most householders already have responded to official appeals for economy in electricity usage.

$1,000 For Dead Burglar Erased

CLEBURNE, Tex. (AP) — The Johnson County grand jury wound up a recent session with a report asking that a reward of $1,000 for any dead burglar be withdrawn.

Rural residents in the Burleson area offered the reward in a move aimed at curbing a recent rash of home burglaries.

Gambling Raids Staged In 26 Major Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hitting 26 cities simultaneously, federal agents cracked down Saturday on illegal sports operations in what the Justice Department called the largest, coordinated antigambling raids ever.

More than half the raids involved illegal professional football betting operations, and agents confiscated $104,000 in currency, a spokesman said.

PRIME TARGET

A prime target was Las Vegas, Nev., where agents arrested two executives of plush Caesar's Palace, a gambling casino, on charges of using telephones to aid racketeering, the department said.

Three Las Vegas betting houses were raided on a charge of "in effect acting as illegal underwriters to the nation's top bookmakers," the department said.

Raid cities included New York, Detroit, Miami Beach, Los Angeles, six cities in Ohio and five in Georgia.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said FBI and Internal Revenue Service agents, acting in tandem in their largest dual effort in history, served 160 search warrants in the raids and made 27 arrests.

MAP ATTACK

"Conviction of the people who were targets of today's raids would severely damage the financial apparatus which bankrolls organized crime," Mitchell said.

A department spokesman said Sanford Waterman, executive vice president of Caesar's Palace, was arrested at the casino, and Elliot Paul Price, casino executive host, was arrested in his car in Las Vegas.

The department said a total of five search warrants were served on executives of Caesar's Palace in the action that led to the arrests of the two executives. A department statement did not name the two men.

The raid was "formulated by the National Council on Organized Crime," the department said, which was created last June by President Nixon to map a coordinated attack on all forms of organized crime.

BIG OPERATION

Hughes is by far the biggest operator of casinos in Nevada. His Nevada holdings are valued at $300 million and include six casinos.

More than two weeks ago Hughes slipped into the Bahamas, where he is believed to be living on the heavily guarded ninth floor of the Britannia Beach Hotel on Paradise Island, a resort near the Bahamian capital of Nassau.

Speculation about Hughes' presence in the Bahamas has ranged over a wide spectrum, from a personal vacation to widespread purchasing of property. But most of the reports have centered on legalized gambling, a relatively new venture that has rapidly become one of the island nation's major businesses.

Owned by Resorts International Inc., the Paradise Island complex includes hotels and a casino. The owners reportedly are interested in selling. Hughes' arrival sparked reports they had a buyer.

MOVE OUT?

Hughes executives reportedly have toured several resort developments, but the only two of a size that most observers in the islands think would interest Hughes are Paradise Island and the development on Grand Bahama Island. Both are built around casinos.

Neither is comparable in size to any of the six casinos Hughes operates in Nevada.

Big Springer Shot In Face

A trio of armed robbers held up two Big Spring gasoline service stations late Friday, shooting an attendant at one of them.

In good condition at Cowper Clinic and Hospital is James Gregory, 47, an attendant at the Dewees Enco Station, 4806 US 80 west. Gregory was shot in the face and back during the armed robbery of the station shortly after 11 p.m. Friday. About $100 was taken in the robbery.

Only minutes before, police received a call from Jaunito Gonzalez, an attendant at the Parks Gulf Service Station at 311 Gregg St. Gonzalez said three bandits took an undetermined amount of money and a tire at gunpoint.

Based on descriptions by witnesses, police sent out an all-points bulletin.

Forty-five minutes after the second robbery, three suspects were captured at a roadblock near Stanton.

Police said the trio were each charged with two counts of armed robbery. Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter set bond at $50,000 each. In lieu of the bond, Jody A. Hilliard, 18, Monahans, Howard Johnny Franklin, 31, and Marye Smith Franklin, 27, both of Fort Worth, are in city jail.

Already 518 of these have been serviced, leaving 94 to go.

The 1970 cotton harvest is coming to a sudden halt — if, indeed, it has not already ended for all practical purposes. Most ginners in this area said they are now caught up and anticipated only straggling bales to come in. The universal verdict is a better crop than anticipated. Including value of seed, the crop in Howard and surrounding counties should be upwards of $30 million.

Adjournment Chances This Week 'Very Dim'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday the chances of congressional adjournment this week are "at the best, very, very, very dim" with the fight over the supercon transport as the key factor.

"I just can't see how they can do it (this week)," Mansfield told reporters, warning for the first time that the lame-duck session could extend into the week between Christmas and New Year's Day—the last few days before congressional terms expire Jan. 3.

'BAD' MOODS

If that happens, the Montana Democrat said, "we won't be in the best of all possible moods." Mansfield said "I think the big factor is going to be the SST," noting that Sens. William Proxmire and Gaylord Nelson, both Wisconsin Democrats, have threatened to filibuster to prevent a vote on the recommendation by Senate-House conferees for $210 million to continue work on the controversial aircraft.

Foes of the massive measure that includes Social Security benefit increases, welfare revision and trade restrictions which comes before the Senate Tuesday have also threatened to filibuster to prevent a vote, Mansfield said.

NOT GIVING UP

"What we have confronting us are filibusters and filibusters and filibusters," Mansfield said. "I'm not despairing—yet, I'm not giving up hope—yet," he added. But —

The Democratic leader gave this rundown on business remaining before the Senate:

—Supplemental appropriations bill, which includes $500 million for Israel and $535 million additional subject to authorization. It comes before the Senate Monday and Mansfield expects it to be passed later that day.

—Transportation appropriations, including the SST. Action is due in the House Monday and, while the measure can be brought before the Senate at any time after that, opponents are in position to block a vote.

FOREIGN AID

—The Welfare-Social Security-trade bill. Debate in the Senate starts Tuesday and Mansfield rates prospects of enactment at 50-50—somewhat better than other congressional observers do. The chances are better for a Social Security raise, he said, adding that it might be tacked on a bill keeping car and phone excise taxes in effect.

CHRISTMAS COMES EARLY FOR HOWARD, DAWSON, GLASSCOCK, MITCHELL FARMERS

$35 Million Price Tag Placed On Cotton Harvest

For all practical purposes, the 1970 cotton harvest in Howard, Dawson, Glasscock and Mitchell counties is complete — and with a $35 million price tag on it.

A survey Saturday showed that more than 95 per cent of the crop has been ginned, and actually 99 per cent may be more accurate.

The verdict is unanimous: "Better than expected."

Thanks to an unbroken string of perfect weather since early autumn, there has never been a cotton crop — outside of a flat failure — completely harvested this early for this part of West Texas.

"I've been on the Plains for 25 years," observed Lee Roy Colgan, county agricultural agent for Dawson County, the area's major producer and one of the top cotton counties of the state. "I've never seen anything like it."

GOOD QUALITY

There likely has never been a crop with such universally good quality from beginning to end. Staple, grade, micronaire, and strength readings have been not only strong but steady. Most of the cotton has averaged 20 cents a pound in value, and seed around $60 a ton.

The four counties Saturday indicated a total of 298,850 bales of cotton and around 119,000 tons of seed. Dawson leads with an outlook of 165,000 bales. Martin next with 50,000, Howard with 40,000, Mitchell with 27,500 and Glasscock with 16,000.

Here is the way the picture stacks up by counties:

DAWSON — With 163,000

bales already ginned, the final harvest figures are projected at 165,000 bales, according to Lee Roy Colgan, county agent. Dryland has averaged 2-3rds to 3/4ths of a bale to the acre, surprisingly good considering adverse summer weather, and irrigated cotton made a bale.

Most of the cotton has averaged 20 cents a pound in value, and seed around $60 a ton. Colgan said he had never seen anything to equal the speed of the harvest, which will be almost totally complete by the end of next week. There are only a few patches in the county to be harvested. He estimated Dawson County's agricultural income (strictly on materials marketed) to be on the order of $26,000,000 this year, upwards of $21 million of that represented in cotton and cotton seed. There is still some subsoil moisture, but rain is urgently needed, said Colgan.

MITCHELL

— "You might say we are 100 per cent through with the harvest," said County Agent Bobby Lemmons, who calculates the yield at 27,500 bales. This is better than the 24,500 bales predicted and well above the 20,500 bales for the same acreage (less than 49,000 planted) as in 1969. The crop has been of good quality, averaging around 20 cents per pound, plus $58 a ton on seed. The gross value of the crop should exceed three million dollars. Many farmers are beginning to put up land, but there is a serious shortage of moisture in contrast to a year ago when reserves were enough to pull the recent crop through a summer drought.

MARTIN — It still looks as if Martin County will gather around 50,000 bales, said County Agent Billy Reagor, who figures that the harvest is about 95 per cent complete. Dryland sections of the county have turned out better than most anticipated, but some irrigated acreage has been a real disappointment. In the latter category, an unprecedented early frost hit late cotton hard, cutting yields and quality sharply. For this reason quality and grade has been spotted. Most of the lint has averaged above 19 cents a pound. Another week will just about wind up the harvest.

GLASSCOCK — The harvest is about 95 per cent complete, and another week will see the crop gathered except for straggling bales. The yield looks like 16,000 bales with more than 15,000 already processed, said County Agent Oliver West. Quality has been generally good with some low micronaire readings due to early frost damage. Staple this year is shorter than ordinary for the county, since 85 per cent of the acreage was planted in stripper cotton. Returns indicated that the boll weevil control program has paid off with hot spots being reduced to the edges of the cotton areas in northern and southern Glasscock.

HOWARD — For practical purposes, Howard County's harvest sprinted to a sudden end Saturday. Few gins had any bales on the yard, whereas at the start of the week hundreds of bales were stacked up. About all that is left is a little scrapping. The yield looks like 40,000 bales, according to County Agent Paul Gross. Staple and grade have been the best in years, and the yield has far exceeded early estimates. The surprise has been the turnout of small cotton hard-hit by the drought. A few fields in the Knott vicinity set new records for yield per acre, thanks to timely showers. Micronaire readings have been excellent except for a little cotton in low areas, hard hit by an unusually early frost. There is a dearth of reserve moisture, the thing which pulled the county through in 1970.

Tardy Federal Funds Cause Local School Budget Woe

Local school officials Friday expressed concern about the tardy payment of federal money for federally-sponsored programs within the schools.

Donald E. Crockett, assistant superintendent for business, said the slow payment of government money was not a crisis but "it could be a crisis if the money isn't appropriated by Congress."

Crockett noted that the government owes the school district nearly $300,000 this year from a law which provides funds for impacted school districts and the federal school lunch program.

"In the Big Spring Independent School District we have 1,900 students from Webb AFB or Veterans Administration Hospital families and we are supposed to receive $268,000 under public law 874 which provides money that we would receive if they could tax the base or the hospital."

"Also, the government owes the school district nearly $25,000 under the federal school lunch program, and this is just for September, October and November."

"The reason we are concerned about the funds is because the public law giving aid to federally-impacted schools is facing considerable opposition in Congress. If Congress refused to appropriate the $268,000 for Big Spring schools we would have not appropriated or there is a large cutback the district would have to look for new sources of revenue to meet next year's budget."

Crockett said the school district has enough money on hand to complete the current school year but if the funds are

Agenda Lists 1970 Audit, Land Buying

The Andrews Highway right-of-way, the opening of bids for office and other courthouse supplies and the 1970 audit are on the agenda for Howard County Commissioners at 10 a.m. Monday.

Cleo Richardson is scheduled to come before the court at 10 a.m. to discuss the purchase of land for right-of-way. The county is currently buying land for the widening and improvement of the Andrews Hwy. from the Martin County line to Big Spring. According to County Judge Lee Porter, most of the rights-of-way at the Martin County line end of the project have been obtained and the work is ready to begin.

Commissioners will select an outside auditor to do the 1970 county audit. According to County Auditor Mrs. Virginia Black, the auditing is awarded to a different auditor or firm every two years. This year, the order of eligibility is Max Green, C.P.A., George Thorburn, C.P.A., and Hollingsworth and Co.

Deadline for the submission of bids on the office and paper supplies is 10 a.m. Monday. After that, commissioners will open the bids and award the contracts for office supplies, paper towels and toiletries for the courthouse.

At 11 a.m., Joe Pond is scheduled to speak to the court concerning the consolidation of all the bonds needed for county employees into a blanket bond with one company. Liability and workmen's compensation insurance is also to be discussed.

Citizens Say Property Taxes Have Milked The Taxpayer Dry

AUSTIN (AP) — A Texas husband recently berated his wife for overspending her grocery allowance. "Sorry, dear," she said, "inflation."

His usual gasoline station had just posted a penny a gallon increase, and he knew the State Insurance Board was about to raise his car insurance rate.

Then he sat down to read the mail, and there was a tax notice. His property taxes were going up, too.

BIGGER BILLS

Homeowners in a number of cities have been getting bigger tax bills, but the man who coordinates the cities' common efforts to solve their problems says the property tax has been milked for all it's worth.

"Property in most cities is taxed to the maximum feasible amount," said Richard D. Brown, executive director of the Texas Municipal League.

Cities, he said, are turning more and more to service fees—such as for garbage collection—instead of to higher property taxes when they need revenue. The league plans to report about next July on current property taxes in the state's cities.

Brown said the city sales tax, authorized in 1967 by the legislature, has kept property taxes from increasing more than they have.

NO POLICY

The Texas Municipal Advisory Council reported in July that revenue last year from the city sales tax averaged what the cities would have gotten from a property tax of 59 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Houston's city sales tax brought in revenue last year that was equivalent to 72 cents on the $100 valuation. Longview was worth 75 cents.

Brown was asked if the Municipal League would seek an increase in the city sales tax rate, now limited to 1 per cent.

"We are interested not so much in raising the rate but in participating in the revenue from any removal of exemptions. . . . We have no policy for an increase in the city sales tax rate," he said.

Cities got some extra revenue when the legislature brought alcoholic beverages under the sales tax last year.

AUSTIN'S RATE

Another potential source of revenue in a few cities—notably Austin—would be state appropriations in lieu of taxes on state-owned buildings and land.

Local officials say about half the land in Austin is non-taxable state, city, school, county, federal or church property.

Consequently, Austin's tax rate is relatively high—$1.29 per $100 valuation, with property assessed at between 67 and 70 per cent of its market value, depending where located.

"If Austin didn't have its city-owned electric system, I hate to think what its tax rate would be," Brown said. Cities have recommended state payments in lieu of taxes for years, but to no avail. The city's "adjusted tax rate"—a comparative figure obtained by multiplying the percentage of market value used in assessment by the tax rate—is 87 cents on the $100 valuation.

Houston's in 1968 was 80 cents, Dallas' 80 cents, San Antonio's—another town with much exempt property—92 cents, Fort Worth's 84 cents, El Paso's 97 cents, Corpus Christi's 86 cents, Amarillo's 71 cents, Lubbock's 64 cents and Beaumont's 97 cents.

FISCAL CRISIS

Among smaller cities, Longview's adjusted rate was 46 cents, Garland's 52 cents, Victoria's 77 cents, McAllen's 54 cents, Texas City's 38 cents, Big Spring's 84 cents, Temple's 60 cents, Grand Prairie's 51 cents, Texarkana's 78 cents and Baytown's 74 cents.

Brown said Texas cities are fortunate not to have a problem that confronts many large Northern cities—a diminishing tax base as middle class residents flee to the suburbs, combined with an inability to annex more territory.

"I would say the genesis of the problem is here, but the problem is not here yet because of the youth of our cities," he said. Texas' "liberal annexation laws" have been a "great boon to our cities," he added.

But inflation and demands for more and better municipal services are putting the heat on many urban taxpayers.

"The urban fiscal crisis . . . is very real," said Brown.

LILLY M. HILDE

Qualifies For New License

Dr. Lilly M. Hilde, administrator of Cottonwood Acres, Inc. Nursing Home in Lamesa, has satisfied requirements for a license as a nursing home administrator.

She was one of 52 who were the first to take the examinations for administrator licenses recently in Austin. E. M. Lawrence Jr., executive secretary of the board of licensure of nursing home administrators, notified her Friday that she would receive her license within about three weeks.

The last legislature made a statutory requirement that all administrators be licensed on or before June 1, 1972.

Since June of this year Dr. Hilde has been enrolled as a student at Howard County Junior College, taking the required courses for administrators in preparation for the state examination. She said the work was quite helpful in enabling her to earn the license.

A native of Norway where she graduated from the University of Norway, Dr. Hilde earned her doctor of philosophy degree from Sierra State University in Los Angeles, Calif., and a BBA degree from Midwest University in St. Louis. Prior to coming to Lamesa to be administrator of Cottonwood, she directed a clinic in Chester, N.D., for eight years. She has been a speaker before many groups in this area.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Eight residents of Starr County remained free on $2,000 bond each Saturday awaiting federal sentencing after their conviction of vote "dilution."

A jury convicted the eight late Friday after a five-day trial. Sentencing is scheduled by U.S. Dist. Judge Reynaldo Garza for Feb. 5. Maximum punishment can be 10 years and a fine of up to $10,000.

Judge Garza gave the convicted men until Jan. 15 to file motions in the case. Attorneys have indicated they will ask a new trial.

that the trial might last as long as six weeks, but McDonough claimed many prosecution witnesses had changed their stories.

'COURTHOUSE GANGS'

State Sen. Jim Bates, who headed the defense team, claimed the government only called 16 of some 200 subpoenaed witnesses because the others would give testimony favorable to the defendants. The defense rested without presenting a witness.

The government sought to prove that the defendants had conspired with others to dilute the vote in the May 2 primary by obtaining absentee ballots from elderly, crippled, uneducated and mentally retarded residents.

The government alleged that these absentee ballots were improperly delivered, marked, returned and counted.

U.S. Atty. Anthony J. P. Farris.

Drawings Shown

The most important exhibition of drawings ever to come to Houston, Master Drawings From Chatsworth will open at The Museum of Fine Arts, Houston, Wednesday and continue through Jan. 17. These drawings, representing a portion of the collections of the Dukes of Devonshire, were assembled for the exhibition, circulated under the auspices of the International Exhibitions Foundation, Washington, D. C. and under the sponsorship of the British Ambassador to the United States, His Excellency John Freeman.

Trial Reset For Bright

Jurors for 118th District Court are not to report Monday because no trials will be held.

A motion of continuance was granted in the case of Bruce Bright, 18, 1606½ Scurry. Bright, who is charged with possession of a narcotic drug, will be reset for trial at a later date.

A key witness in the case of Joe Nance, 47, Lubbock, has become ill and will not be able to testify, according to District Judge R. W. Caton. Nance's trial for defrauding with a worthless check will be reset later.

A third case concerning a charge of burglary will also be reset. The principals in the seven civil cases set for trial this week reached agreements outside of court, according to Judge Caton.

Motion Granted

The 11th District Court of Civil Appeals in Eastland has granted a motion to substitute printed copies of a motion for rehearing in the appeal of Randy Price Franklin vs. Texas Department of Public Safety, sent up from Howard County.

THE WEEK

and, of course, all unions honored them. Supervisory personnel moved equipment and freight on a purely emergency basis.

The State National Bank injected a bright bid of economic news by announcing that directors had ordered the customary one-month salary bonus to all employees, plus a contribution to the employ pension and retirement trust for the 10th consecutive year. The stock dividend also was increased a dollar to $4 a share.

The city's containerized garbage collection has been canned. Commissioners decided to chuck it when 1,087 voters petitioned for a referendum in the form of an election call for bonds to finance the project. Councilmen conceded the issue would be foredoomed, and backed off from not only the project but also from most of the garbage rate hike.

Martin County continues its amazing rate of development in the Strawberry Trend area. For three weeks now it has been the most active county in the Permian Basin for drilling. Last week six new wells aggregated 1,435 barrels, and just to project a continuation of the pace, nine new locations were staked. Dawson County gained a south Dean extension with Green and Michaelson No. 1 Mathis, good for 215 barrels.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District board issued and sold $6,750,000 in revenue bonds at 5.145 last week to finance a water well development in Ward County as a source of 24 million gallons a day. This is primarily a hedge against continued drought and low runoff into lakes, but also as a long-range peaking source.

That sort of money, of course, may presage a rate increase.

Christmas is coming up fast. All over town residents are getting into the spirit of things with gay decorations and pretty light displays. Shoppers, too, are stepping up the pace in effort to get in on wider selections. Unseasonably warm weather (it was more like summer most of the week) made the season a slow starter.

John Ben Shepperd, former Texas attorney general, spoke at the breakfast session honoring public officials. He pleaded for constructive advice, but cautioned against unjustified criticism and accusations, pointing out that good government is a partnership between servants and the people.

Alton Marwitz is the new president of the Ambassadors Club, succeeding George Zachariah. The club will have an added task fall into its lap with the passing of ownership of Cosden Country Club to the city. Meantime, civic leaders are figuring how to make use of the club without a heavy money outlay, and also how to keep the property from being a target for vandals.

There were fewer fans by some 10,000 to see the Big Spring Steers play last season. Chalk up most of that loss to the Big Spring - San Angelo game, which drew 6,000 less because San Angelo had just been eliminated from the district race, and because foul weather hit the day of the game. Local fans can divert their attention from the Houston Oilers, too, for Big Spring's Charley Johnson, the Oiler's star quarterback, entered the hospital for knee surgery.

Twenty-eight young people went from the Big Spring YMCA to the state Youth-in-Government project in Austin this weekend. Over the years, there likely is not a city in the state the size of Big Spring which has given this project such consistently strong support.

'The Messiah' Due Tonight

"The Messiah" will be performed this evening at 6 at First United Methodist Church. The voices of the Chancel and Youth Choirs, the Howard County Junior College Choir and individual members of the community will combine to present George Frederick Handel's religious masterpiece.

The Christmas portion of "The Messiah" is presented annually. Ralph Dowden, First United Methodist Church's minister of music, will conduct the performance. Mrs. Mary Skalicky, church organist, and a string orchestra composed of members of the Midland-Odessa Symphony will accompany the choral performers.

Featured soloists are Kenneth Roach, tenor; Kenny Sheppard, bass; Mrs. Joseph Daves, alto; Mrs. Carl Bradley, Mrs. Don Newsom and Mrs. Ralph Dowden, sopranos.

The performance is open to the public.

Attack Beds Fred Waring

EAST STROUDSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Music master Fred Waring suffered a heart attack at his home but was resting comfortably at a hospital Saturday his physician said.

Waring, 70, known for his famous singing group, The Pennsylvanians, suffered the heart attack about noon Friday at his home at Shawnee-on-Delaware in Pennsylvania's Pocono Mountains, said Dr. R. Frederick Jones.

He was taken to Monroe County General Hospital in East Stroudsburg.

Jones said Waring's health otherwise was excellent.

The physician said Waring had no previous history of heart trouble.

Jones said Mrs. Waring and other family members were at the hospital.

57 In Class 71-04 Get Pilots' Wings

Student pilots of Webb AFB's undergraduate pilot training class 71-04 ended 53 weeks of intensive pilot training Saturday when class members received their silver Air Force wings and certificates of aeronautical rating in ceremonies held on the flight line.

Eight students from the class were singled out for honors Friday at the class graduation ball.

Special honors went to Second Lieutenants Lars G. Granath, Richard W. Sloan, Edward M. Teel Jr., and Ronald G. Mehan, who were presented academic training awards; Second Lieutenant Thomas R. Roth, who received the flying training award; and Second Lieutenant Jerry T. James, who took the leadership award. Named as distinguished graduates were Lieutenants Roth, Granath, Sloan, Teel, Second Lieutenant Frederick A. McClendon and Captain Ross M. Buchanan.

The award most sought after by students of the undergraduate flying training course, the Air Training Command Commander's Trophy, was presented to Captain Buchanan.

Included among the "Roadrunners (Heterodiscus Supersonicum)," a class which numbered 57 members, were 51 Air Force officers, 3 Marines, 2 Air National Guardsmen, and 1 Dane, here under the auspices of the Military Assistance Program (MAP).

Jobs For Teachers Available If...

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Jobs for teachers are available if teachers are willing to go where the jobs are, says Dr. E. L. Bowden, chairman of the Division of Education at Hardin-Simmons University.

Bowden was commenting on the report of a surplus supply of teachers. Bowden said data from the Office of Education has implied that the teacher supply has reached the saturation point with a half of a million young people who have not been able to find jobs.

But, Bowden said, a newsletter from the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education reported that talk of a teacher surplus, which stands for thousands of recent college graduates who cannot find jobs, is misleading. The article says that schools are short 170,000 elementary teachers, 60,000 secondary teachers and 40,000 librarians.

One half of U.S. communities are without public school kindergartens but there is no supply of teachers for this area, he added.

The articles state that an emphasis is being placed upon early childhood education and upon the education of the mentally retarded and handicapped children. More teachers are also needed to relieve overcrowded classes and most high schools have less than one counselor for every 500 students, said Bowden.

Acted Improperly In Rejecting Ad

AUSTIN (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge Jack Roberts has ruled the Texas Bar Journal acted improperly in rejecting an advertisement telling attorneys of the radical lawyers caucus at the state Bar meeting in July.

The journal's editor, William Pool, said he turned down the ad because it was "political." Roberts said the ad merely informed lawyers of the caucus and "did not endorse any political candidates or political party, nor did it encourage any plan or type of action."

The Journal is supported by compulsory annual dues of the Bar, a state agency.

Roberts said it was "unquestioned" the ad was refused because of its content and "such action by a state agency amounts to governmental censorship of speech."

Texans Very Much In Picture In Seeking Alaskan Oil

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Where there's oil in Alaska, the Texas accent can be heard from the North Slope drilling rig to the 15th-floor Petroleum Club in the Anchorage-Westward Hotel.

The Texas oil man is in Alaska in a big way. Before the discovery of the Prudhoe Bay field on the edge of the icy Arctic Ocean at the top of Alaska, the East Texas field was one of the biggest and richest in North America.

But that's all changed now. And Texas-based firms apparently are taking an "if you can't beat 'em, join 'em" attitude as Alaska's oil and gas industry struggles to reach maturity despite overwhelming problems.

Companies with headquarters in Texas are involved in virtually every aspect of Alaska's blossoming petroleum industry, from exploration and development to refining and marketing, an Associated Press survey shows.

The newly published 1970-71 Alaska Petroleum & Industrial Directory lists nearly 100 Texas-based firms involved in some way with Alaska's oil industry. There are at least 37 oil companies including giants like Humble Oil & Refining Co. of Houston and scores of small service, supply, exploration, drilling and seismic firms.

HUMBLE FIRST
Humble was one of the first from Texas to look North. The company had met with little success and invested millions of dollars before it discovered—in a joint venture with Atlantic Richfield Co.—a mammoth oil reserve at a little-known place called Prudhoe Bay.

Arco and Humble announced in March, 1968, they had brought in a discovery well in a field believed capable of producing 1.5 million barrels of crude daily.

Since then, estimates on the amount of recoverable reserves in the Prudhoe field have ranged from 5-10 billion to 50 billion barrels, depending on who makes the estimate.

The discovery triggered a flurry of renewed industry interest that resulted in hasty exploration and seismic work in arctic Alaska and was climaxed by the widely publicized September, 1969, competitive oil lease sale of 179 tracts of North Slope acreage owned by the state.

When the excitement died down, it was evident Texas interests weren't about to be left at the starting gate.

SUCCESSFUL BIDS
Individually and in consortiums, Texas-based interests were successful on at least 30 of 184 tracts on which high bids were accepted.

The Texans, individually and jointly, staked more than $251 million in successful bids, ranging from the $138,110 put up by Arco Oil & Gas Co. of Dallas for two tracts to the $92,298,995 paid for about 2,500 acres by a consortium that included the Placid Oil Co. of Dallas and various other interests of the family of Texas millionaire H. L. Hunt.

Successful bids also came from Humble, Pennzoil United Inc. of Houston and Newmont Oil Co. of Houston. Other Texas concerns already had established themselves in Alaska in earlier developments in Cook Inlet and on the Kenai Peninsula.

COSTLY
But the Texas oilmen, like others in the industry, are concerned as the frontier state's petroleum industry reaches a crucial turning point in its development.

Not only is it costly and often extremely difficult to drill for oil in Alaska, which has only about 5,000 miles of paved roads in its half-million-square-mile area, but there's the problem of getting the oil to market once it's found. Add to that the freeze imposed by the federal government against all entry onto public lands in the state pending settlement of the native land claims. Uncle Sam owns more than 80 per cent of the land in Alaska, drastically restricting the area in which oil exploration now can be conducted.

PIPELINE
Humble has a quarter-interest in the proposed and badly needed Trans-Alaska pipeline.

The 48-inch line would move crude oil the 800 miles from the North Slope to the ice-free port of Valdez on the Gulf of Alaska, where tankers would carry it to the continental United States. The firm also participated in an expensive project to prove the feasibility of carrying the Alaskan oil to the East Coast on supertankers plying the ice-choked Northwest Passage.

The voyage of the tanker Manhattan proved it was possible, but Humble announced later it had abandoned the scheme for the present time.

"We've got the problem that hits all the companies—the uncertainty on the pipeline," says Hank Rosenthal, public relations manager in Anchorage for Humble.

"Most folks are reluctant to commit many more dollars until there's a payout," he said. "Why drill more wells even if they produce oil if there's no way to get it out?"

UNDER SNOW
Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., owned by seven firms with interest on the slope, now is waiting for Interior Department approval to begin construction of the line, estimated to cost $1.5 billion by completion.

But as more than 600 miles of pipe lines under snow along the route, there are indications loss of another construction season may occur as the Interior Department continues to study engineering and related data to ensure the line will not harm the Alaskan environment.

Humble has a great deal at stake. The company, which first came to Alaska in 1954, now has interest in some 817,000 acres. Much of it is operated by its North Slope partner, Atlantic Richfield.

It's difficult to place a dollar value on the collective Texan oil interests in Alaska. Humble and others work jointly with non-Texan firms and most oilmen are hesitant to disclose how much money they spend. Some Texas firms are involved in a maze of complex consortiums or conduct their business through out-of-state subsidiaries or contractors.

714 EMPLOYEES
Of the some 100 Texas oil related firms involved to some degree in Alaska, state records indicate only about 30 of them actually have full-time employees in the state. During the quarter ended last June, those 30 firms employed 714 persons, according to the employment security division of the State Labor Department.

One of the most diversified Texas firms operating in Alaska is Tesoro Petroleum Co. of San Antonio, which is active in exploration work and at the same time owns a refinery on the Kenai Peninsula and market automotive gasoline through its wholly owned subsidiary, Tesoro Alaskan Petroleum Co. of Anchorage.

H. Russell Painter, a manager of the Tesoro subsidiary, says the firm purchases state royalties of crude oil and refines it at its Port Nikiski refinery. The firm employs about 40 persons in Alaska, and shortly will open a dozen service stations throughout the state.

HUNT FAMILY
The Placid Oil Co., owned by the Hunt family, has a big interest in about 50,000 acres, primarily on the North Slope but also in the Cook Inlet basin.

"We're just kind of marking time to see what's going to happen," a spokesman said. "From our own standpoint, we believe there's a future in Alaska. But it's dependent on many things, like the Alaska native land claims and the pipeline."

One of the nation's largest real estate firms, owned by N. B. Hunt, is considering construction of a huge commercial complex in Anchorage — but only if the pipeline is built.

Preliminary architectural sketches show the complex eventually may contain four 20-story office buildings, as well as a hotel and retail commercial building.

An Anchorage agent for Del Mar Land Inc., owned by Hunt, says the Texas outfit has purchased at least 66 lots throughout downtown Anchorage valued at more than $4 million.

But officials of Del Mar stress that completion of the pipeline is the key to the project.

Ironically, at least one company quietly has reversed the trend of Texas interests expanding to Alaska.

The Inlet Oil Co. was formed in Alaska in 1965, then moved its headquarters from Anchorage to Dallas three years later. The firm has about 33,000 acres under lease on the North Slope and is one of the largest off-shore explorers with some 1.7 million acres held under prospecting permits.

Favor September As Primary Date

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Election Law Study Committee has recommended that primary elections be moved from May to September to reduce the time and money candidates must spend campaigning.

The proposal will be included in the committee's final report to the legislature.

Rep. Bob Salter of Gatesville voted against the recommendation.

"Lloyd Bentsen would not be a senator today if we'd had a September primary. The wounds would not have healed," Salter asserted, referring to Bentsen's emotion-packed primary battle with Sen. Ralph Yarborough. The committee said the primaries should be held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in September, bringing them within two months of the general election.

Runoff primaries would be held two or three weeks — instead of a month — after the first primary.

Prior to 1960, primaries were held in July. The legislature set them back to May so Lyndon Johnson would have Texas' Democratic nomination for U.S. senator before seeking the presidential nomination at the 1960 party convention.

The committee also said primaries should be held on Tuesdays, rather than Saturdays, to increase the turnout.

Another recommendation would allow voters to register up to 30 days before any election. Registration now is cut off at Jan. 31.

Teen Arrested On Weed Charge

Edgar Mack Payne, 18, 1303 Lynn, was arrested at 1:15 p.m. Saturday by Big Spring police and charged with possession of marijuana.

Bond for Payne was set at $15,000 by Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter. He remains in custody in Howard County Jail.

Arresting officers were Detective Bill Lee, Glen Hunsucker and Gerald Harrison.

One Among 38
R. Manning Stroup Jr., 810 E. 6th St., is among 38 University of Texas Students listed as tentative candidates for degrees from the university's School of Nursing at the end of the fall semester Dec. 23.

Cotton Sample Load Declining

Daily sample receipts continued to decline at the USDA cotton classing office in Abilene last week.

Officer-in-charge, B. B. Manly Jr., reported that 41,000 samples were classed for the week ending Dec. 11, compared to 13,000 for the same period last season. This season's total is now 283,000 samples, classed compared to 122,000 for a season's total a year ago.

Twenty-one per cent of the samples classed was in the white category, 74 per cent was light spotted and 4 per cent was spotted. The predominant grades were 32 (52 per cent) and 42 (21 per cent). Predominant staple lengths were 30 (53 per cent) and 31 (20 per cent). Micronaire readings showed 78 per cent in the premium range. Pressley or strength readings showed 81 per cent reading 80,000 PSI (pounds per square inch) and better.

The Consumer and Marketing Service at Abilene reported average gross prices for predominant qualities were: 3229 (18.95 cents); 3230 (19.55 cents); 4229 (18.45 cents); 4230 (19 cents).

Asks Vet Remembrance, Protests Ali License

To the Editor:
Let us all stop a few minutes during our holiday rush and think of the boys in the Veterans Hospital who will not be rushing any more.
They probably had other plans for their lives; they answered the call, maybe not by choice, to protect you and me and all others who stayed home.
There was plenty of patriotism shown when they left — cheers and flag waving — but not much enthusiasm when they returned battle scared, minus a leg or an arm, or maybe both, and their plans blasted.
Why not lend a little Christmas cheer to the lonely boys in the VA hospital in our midst? A visit or a card would seem a mere trifle in payment for what they gave. The debt is being paid by a few, but should be shared by all.
Worlds of credit is due the folks who are helping, but they sure could use more.
MRS. DAVID W. JONES
Box 815

Dear Editor:
I am greatly disappointed in the State of Texas for granting a license to Muhammad Ali for a possible title fight to be held in Houston. This man should not even be allowed to live in America, much less get rich from a fight that (in my opinion) is probably fixed to start with.
All says "I ain't got no quarrel with those Vietcong." Well, I don't guess he has because he is probably more like them than the true American to begin with.
You hear about how great a boxer he is. Well, it's too bad that he didn't get a shot at the Rock or Joe Lewis, and then we wouldn't have to worry about him fighting in Texas or anywhere else.

TRL Governmental Survey Now In Preliminary Stage

By HOWARD SIMMS
Bill W. Bownds, legal analyst for the Texas Research League, has spent the last few days in Big Spring making the rounds of public officials and civic leaders in Howard County in the preliminary stages of the TRL study of governmental services here.
Bownds, 30, graduated from a Lubbock high school, attended the University of Texas, and then graduated from the UT Law School in 1964. Since then he has spent three years with the Army, reaching the rank of captain and serving in Germany as a military police instructor, and three years with the Texas Research League. TRL has completed a study of governmental services in El Paso County, which Bownds finished after the leader of the study team left to take a more lucrative job.

"We wanted to see what they could do in El Paso to consolidate and economize overlapping functions," Bownds said. "The study was designed to see what could be done within the framework allowed by the special constitutional amendment that allowed El Paso and Tarrant counties to make certain changes."
During the study it became apparent that the amendment did not allow the kind of changes the county governments needed.
"What we plan to do in Howard County is study the way the governmental units deliver services to the people," Bownds said. "That is, we want to see how each unit performs all the functions it is expected to provide."
He said TRL will especially look at similar functions, such as taxing, that are performed by several different agencies. "We are looking for possible changes that would give the best administrative structure within Howard County," he said.
One reason TRL accepted the invitation to make much a study in Big Spring, he pointed out, was the idea that the results would be appropriate to many other counties in Texas.
"We don't expect to get the same results here, we did in El Paso because the situation is different," he said. "The population distribution is one thing. There are several counties in Texas where 80 to 90 per cent of the county population is located in the county seat, which is not a major city, and we think our results will be of value to other places."
Bownds spent three days in Howard County, meeting with 12 public officials, attending a city commission meeting, and getting copies of budgets, the city charter, minutes of school board meetings, and an employment survey.

Just before leaving for El Paso, Bownds said, "I have found the performance of government here far ahead of other places. I was very impressed."
After putting some finishing touches to the project in El Paso, Bownds will go home to Austin for Christmas, return to El Paso the first week in January, and expects to be back in Big Spring the second week in January.
Meanwhile, plans will be made for carrying out the major field work needed for the study, which TRL hopes to finish before the legislative session is over in case Big Spring wishes to ask for legislative permission for a change.
Helping with the final evaluation and official report, which should be made about March, will be James McGrew, executive director of TRL, and Dr. Glenn Ivy, director of research.

Cites Suffering Of POWs In N. Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The only doctor in the recent U.S. rescue-raid on a war-prisoner camp near Hanoi says the typical American POW has severe malnutrition, shrinking arm and leg muscles, and bruise-prone skin.
Estimates based on information from "various intelligence sources" and World War II POW-camp experiences, Lt. Col. Joseph R. Cataldo adds, are that 25 of 100 prisoners "might have active tuberculosis, about 50 of that 100 would certainly have intestinal parasites."
"All have lost a tremendous amount of weight, from 20 to 30 per cent of it; some are probably extremely ill and are not getting proper medical care," he told reporters Friday after he briefed the Army surgeon general's staff about medical aspects of last month's operation.
"I think it was a well-planned mission," he said, and, while it failed to find American prisoners, "tactically, it was a success." He recommended more be conducted, and said he was willing to "go tonight on the same mission knowing there would be" greater risk.
He said a typical POW "will be probably somewhat disoriented because some of them have had absolutely no physical contact whatsoever in five years — not even touching another human hand, just sitting around... in a cell."
Elsewhere Friday there were these developments on the POW matter:
—The State Department said a list of 203 U.S. servicemen missing or being held captive contains "significant and new information." The Hanoi government complied it at the request of Sweden's Prime Minister Olof Palme. U.S. officials said they were told by the Swedish government.
—American officials handling the prisoner matter said about one-fourth of those on the list were in North Vietnamese prisoner-of-war camps—and families previously received letters from them. Some three-quarters of those listed were described by Hanoi as "never captured," although the U.S. had these men recorded as missing.
—On Capitol Hill, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., clashed over whether the Son Tay raid might have been conducted for reasons other than to free prisoners.
Laird told Fulbright: "That charge is completely without foundation of fact." The secretary added that intelligence information indicated the camp was used for American prisoners.
Fulbright insisted he was making no charges, just raising questions stemming from published accounts of the raid.

Draft Figure Up To 17,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources say a January draft call to be announced next week will total about 17,000, highest monthly call in nine months.
This will be the first draft call since September, when 39,000 men were notified to report. However, the September draft was spread over a four-month period, with 12,000 men called for September, 12,000 for October, 8,000 for November and 7,000 for December.
In disclosing the January figure, Pentagon sources said January draft calls usually show an upward trend from December, when the number is down because of lower requirements and holidays.
Monthly draft calls are influenced by the re-enlistment rate and the number of men volunteering for duty.
The Pentagon disclosed Thursday that its re-enlistment rates have dropped to their lowest level in 15 years. The rate for all services was 30.5 per cent in the fiscal year ended June 30, lowest since a 27.2-per cent rate in fiscal 1955.

Pipeline Work Near Completion

Key Enterprises, Inc., the contractor who put in the pipelines to Cosden and Intech, will be through about Christmas, according to Public Works Director Nolen Chafin.
The remaining work to be done is in smoothing out the surfaces over the pipeline. The company backfilled the trench as they worked but rains and people driving across the mud have resulted in deep tracks across some of the surfaces, Chafin said.

Meanest Thieves Smash SA Toys

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Thieves who couldn't carry away all the bicycles, tricycles and toys from a Salvation Army warehouse here, smashed and destroyed the rest.
The toys were being prepared for underprivileged children, authorities said.
Stolen were 29 bicycles, 34 tricycles and assorted games and toys.

NEW ABC'S FOR BLACKS

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The traditional approach to teaching the alphabet has taken on a new twist with the introduction of the "black ABC's."
Produced by the Society for Visual Education, Inc., of Chicago, the innovation is seen as a response to those who say they no longer want to see pictures showing only "blond-haired, blue-eyed, white children."
The new "black ABC's," which depict young Negro children and letters of the alphabet, are on display here at the Education Service Center, which loans schools teaching materials.
Each letter is on a 13-by-18-inch card. A sample: "A" is for Afro; "B" is for Beautiful; "C" is for Cool; "D" is for Dream.
And further down the alphabet: "S" is for Soul Sister; "T" is for Talk; "U" is for Us; "V" is for Vote; "W" is for Work; "X" is for Extra Special; "Y" is for Young; "Z" is for Zip.

Seize Yule 'Horse' Worth $24 Million

MIAMI (AP)—Federal agents seized 208 pounds of heroin, neatly bound in Christmas wrapping and valued at about $24 million, Saturday in what the government called the third largest drug haul on record.
The seizure and four arrests were made after an all-night vigil by government agents at Miami International Airport.
Wrapped in holiday paper and stuffed into tan leather bags resembling mail pouches, the drug with a street value of $21 million to $22 million was taken after being transferred from one auto to another on Miami Beach's Collins Avenue, authorities said.

$1 MILLION BONDS

Arrested and held on $1 million bond each were Alberto Juan Van Caester, 38, of Salta, Argentina; Carlos Alberto Rojas-Colombo, 46, of Rosario, Argentina; Hibalito Navarro, 39, of the Bronx in New York City; and Irene Gonzalez, 34, of Hialeah, Fla.

Thomas Hurney, regional director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, said he didn't know where the shipment originated. But drugs moving into South America in such a large quantity, "have to be from the Middle East," he said. Because all three men arrested are Argentinian, nationals Hurney said he assumed that Buenos Aires was the South American point of transhipment.

A chartered DC3 cargo plane carrying the drugs landed at Miami in the early morning darkness.

DIDN'T SAY

From the time the plane touched down until the renews in Miami Beach, Hurney said, the heroin "was never out from under the eye of Customs." Officials did not say how they became aware of the shipment.

Fifty agents took part observing the unloading from the aircraft, tailing the car, witnessing the transfer to the second car, then moving in for the capture. Hurney said the arrests were made without incident. None of the persons arrested was armed. All were charged with conspiracy to smuggle narcotics into the United States.

The first announcement of the seizure was made in Washington by Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy.

U.S. Commissioner of Customs Myles J. Ambrose said it was the third largest heroin seizure on record. He did not name the top two.

Now, About That Fish!

AUSTIN (AP) — Official records of the largest known freshwater and saltwater game fish caught in the state are now being kept by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The present list of record fish was initiated in October, 1968, by the Texas Outdoor Writers Association, whose members appeal to their readers through newspaper and magazine articles in a search for outstanding catches which could be verified.
During the past few years, several of the original records were broken by heavier fish.

A proposal to take on the fish records-keeping was made at a meeting of the writers who voted unanimously to let the state agency take over.
Fresh water fish records kept by Dan Klepper of the San Antonio Express and News and salt water records held by Roy Swann of the Corpus Christi Caller-Times have been turned over to the department's information and education division.

"We anticipate that most new records will continue to come through the outdoor writers, since most fishermen are agreeable to newspaper photographs of them," said J. R. Singleton, department executive director.

The United Fund reached $108,371.05 Friday, leaving the fund $1,604 away from the goal. The United Fund office will continue to accept gifts even though the active drive is officially over, and is urging that any contribution cards still out be returned.

GUN 'BIG AS A CANNON' Knott Robbery No Joke

"Lie on the ground and you won't get hurt," with these words two armed bandits departed with approximately $575 in cash and checks they had stolen from Mr. and Mrs. Joe King, Knott.
Mr. and Mrs. King pulled into their driveway shortly after 7 p.m. Saturday. Two men in a blue and white car pulled in behind them, and a masked man armed with what was believed to be a sawed-off shotgun accosted the couple.

The Kings were ordered to hand over their purse and wallet and then to lie on the ground.
GARDEN CITY
"When he first told me that it was a holdup I thought it was a neighborhood kid playing a prank." But when he pulled a gun I knew it was no joke," Mrs. King said.

"Since the man was wearing a ski mask, the first thing I thought about was the recent murder in Garden City. I was worried that the same thing would happen to us."
"We have some nearby neighbors and so usually I feel secure around here. I don't know yet whether the robbery will change my feelings or not but one thing is sure—I won't get much sleep for a few days."
Mrs. King said she didn't know what kind of a gun the robber pulled but "it looked as big as a cannon."

SECOND PASS
The robbers then fled in the car and made a second pass by the house to see if their instructions had been followed. They continued south and no one was injured.
Roadblocks were set up by the Howard County Sheriff's Office, Stanton and Lamesa units, and the Texas Highway Patrol. Attempts to locate the suspects have so far been unsuccessful.

Part of the checks stolen were made out to the Knott store owned by the couple and others were made out to the Knott Gin and had been cashed at the store. The thieves got $75 in cash.

According to information from the Sheriff's office, no positive identification on the make and model of the car it is believed that during the robbery, one of the men addressed the Kings wore a mask over his nose and mouth and a brown jacket over his clothing.

MASKING HIS FEELINGS — A Dane wears a gas mask and top hat as he takes part in an "anti-car" demonstration in Copenhagen Saturday. His task was to show the risks of monoxide poisoning of the city's streets.

Molesters, Pornography Link Probed

NEW YORK (AP) — Rapists and child molesters received less exposure to pornography during adolescence than did sexually well-adjusted persons, reports a study conducted for the President's Commission on Obscenity and Pornography.

Conducted by the Legal and Behavioral Institute of Westwood, Calif., the study also says that availability of pornography had little connection with sex offenses committed by adults.

The study is described by Harold S. Kant and Michael J. Goldstein in the current issue of Psychology Today, published by Communications Research Machines, Inc., of Del Mar, Calif.
Kant, 39, is a lawyer and director of the Legal and Behavioral Institute. Goldstein, 40, is a professor of psychology at the University of California at Los Angeles.

The study was one of several on which the widely criticized commission-based recommendations that all laws banning sale and distribution of pornography to adults be repealed and that a massive sex "re-education" program for Americans be considered.

The commission, appointed by the Johnson administration, didn't issue its report until this fall. The report was quickly disavowed by the Nixon administration and the Senate overwhelmingly passed a resolution condemning it.

Psychology Today, describing the article as "an advance report direct from the researchers" for the commission, said sociologists and psychologists who studied pornography for the commission are concerned that their work was not taken seriously.

In an editorial, the magazine said: "The unkindest cut of all came from the Senate, which overwhelmingly passed a resolution calling the commission 'unscientific.' The senators didn't even bother to read—or have their aides read—the 10 volumes of research studies which are only now to be released.

"Can social scientists combat this kind of know-nothingism?" the editorial asked. It concluded that scientists can only present their data and hope that passage of time will lead to its general acceptance by the public.

"In general, we found that pornography cannot be shown to trigger any identifiable, specific form of sexual activity," Kant and Goldstein reported. "One's family background and his current attitudes . . . seem much more likely to determine his sexual behavior" than availability of pornography.

The study involved 60 patients at the Atascadero State Hospital in California who had recently been charged with or convicted of rape or child molestation, as well as 52 regular buyers of pornography who frequented a Los Angeles adult bookstore, and 63 members of a control group selected by the UCLA survey research center.

Woman Held In Shooting Of Principal

IDABEL, Okla. (AP)—An Idaho woman was being held without charge Saturday in connection with the shooting Friday afternoon of Idabel elementary school Principal Winfred Canant.

Sheriff's officers said Canant, 36, was shot twice with a small caliber revolver following an argument in the school parking lot.

The shooting reportedly came after an argument between Canant and Mrs. Norma Jean Jist, 30, an Idabel citizen leader. She was held for questioning.

Although racial tensions have flared sporadically in this southeast Oklahoma community throughout the current school term, there was no indication of racial overtones in the shooting.

Dist. Atty. Don Payne refused to comment on the incident until later in the week, pending an investigation.

Canant, who was treated at McCurtain Memorial Hospital here, was reported resting comfortably at home Saturday. His wife said: "My husband does not wish to make a statement at this time."

Nixon Shares Campus Unrest Responsibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said Saturday he has tried to exercise his moral authority to bring an end to violence and bitterness in the nation but that the responsibility is not his alone.

Responding to a finding of the Presidential Commission Campus Unrest that only the President can end division in the nation, Nixon said that in a nation as diverse as the United States leaders in other fields also carry a burden of moral responsibility.

"There are thousands upon thousands of individuals—clergy, teachers, public officials, scholars, writers—to whom segments of the nation look for moral, intellectual and political leadership," he said in a letter to William W. Scranton, the commission chairman.

"PABLUM" REPORT
Scranton said in New Haven, Conn., that he had not read the letter. He said he would comment Sunday afternoon on the letter and on Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's description of the commission report as "Pablum for permissiveness."

The commission's report, which has been sharply criticized by other administration officials, placed full responsibility on the President for preventing future campus violence and creating understanding.

"As the leader of all Americans, only the president can offer the compassionate, reconciling moral leadership that can bring the country together again," the report said. "Only the President has the platform and prestige to urge all Americans, at once, to step back from the battle lines into which they are forming."

Nixon's letter, his first official response to the report, issued last Sept. 26, defends the administration's record in dealing with issues that the commission found to be an underlying cause of campus unrest.

"We have reordered the nation's priorities," he said. "We have redirected American foreign policy. We have diminished America's involvement in the Asian war and sought to end that war in a way that will justify the sacrifices of this generation of young Americans, and prevent similar sacrifices by their younger brothers of the next generation."

Nixon said every president faces opposition from large segments of the people which limits his capacity to unify the nation and lead it toward specific goals.

"Those in opposition to a president's foreign or domestic policies have a right to make that opposition known through every legitimate means in a democratic system," he said.

Asks Discharge On Religious Basis

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A federal court hearing has been set for Jan. 29 in the case of an Army doctor seeking discharge from the military on religious grounds.

Capt. Maurice A. Hall, 30, of Detroit contends in his petition that the mission of the medical corps "is to maintain the efficiency of the fighting force— which means placing men back into combat to kill or be killed."
He continued, "I can only be at peace with myself serving as a civilian doctor, hopefully in some medical program in one of the ghettos in America."

PUTS $150 BITE ON CITY

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — For want of his false teeth, Warren Freeman is putting a $150 bite on the City of Minneapolis.

The sewer maintenance employee told the City Council claims committee he was cleaning a sewer from inside a manhole when he lost his teeth.

"A sudden sneeze caused my upper dentures to fall into the fast-flowing sewage," Freeman explained. "I was unable to retrieve them."
His $150 claim to replace the choppers was referred to the city claims officers.

Two Killed Near Snyder

SNYDER, Tex. (AP) — Two Dallas youths were killed and a third was critically injured Saturday when their car left the highway and smashed into an embankment.

Killed were James Randall Allen, 18, the driver, and Michael Earl Williams, 17, a passenger. A second passenger in the car, Horace Wheeler, 19, was taken to an Abilene hospital where his condition was described as critical.

Highway Patrolman Wendell Ream, who investigated the accident just north of Snyder, said the youths' car left U. S. 84, jumped a ditch and smashed into the opposite embankment.

The three youths were en route to Lubbock to see Odessa Permian and Dallas South Oak Cliff play in a semifinal Class AAAA football game.

Bombers Are Charged Again

NACOGDOCHES, Tex. (AP) — Two men convicted this fall of bombing the Longview school bus fleet last July 4 have been indicted again.

Fred Loyd Hayes, 43, Longview catering firm owner, and his employee, Kenneth Ray McMaster, 42, were indicted Friday by a Nacogdoches county grand jury on charges of possessing a bomb.

The pair was convicted in federal court in Tyler in October on charges of conspiring to deny Negro children of the Longview Independent School District their civil rights and also of conspiring to obstruct a federal court order under which the East Texas city's schools were to be integrated.

Substance May Fool Body Into Taking Transplants

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — solve the major problem of transplantation—rejection by the body of a foreign organ. Two scientists say they have developed a method to isolate a substance from human cells that, injected into a transplant patient, may "trick" the body into accepting a donated organ.

Dr. Ralph A. Reisfeld and Michael Pellegrino of Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation said Friday their work could substance that when introduced into the body stimulates the production of an antibody. The problem of rejection has been so formidable, he said, that efforts to transplant organs such as the heart have almost stopped after most failed.

"The key factor," he added, "is that the body of the recipient recognizes most tissue transplants as foreign. Then, the same antibody system that protects people against infections goes to work and destroys the transplant."

Under the new process, Reisfeld said, "white blood cells would be drawn from a prospective organ donor by growing them in tissue culture in the laboratory. The antigens in the donor cells would then be extracted and injected into the recipient."

This would desensitize the patient, he said, and "trick" his body into accepting the donated organ.

"So far we've worked only with animals and the results are most encouraging," Reisfeld noted. "But with additional tests and approval by the Food and Drug Administration we will be able to test our process in humans within a year."

Christmas Broadcast Scheduled

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The Lutheran Hour will present a special Christmas broadcast this year over some 2,600 radio stations around the world.

The special, which has been titled "Christmas In Norway" will be heard in a period from Dec. 20 to Dec. 30 by millions, possibly almost a billion people.

In the United States and Canada alone, Christmas special will be carried by more than 900 stations which broadcast The Lutheran Hour each week, plus another 900 stations which have contracted to carry the holiday broadcast.

The program will include authentic Norwegian Christmas music as well as a travelogue style commentary on Christmas traditions of Norway and interviews with three prominent Norwegians — Dr. Ragnar Frisch, a Nobel prize-winner in the field of socio-economics; Knut Mysterd, a popular Norwegian music composer, and the Rev. Fridtjov Birkeli, head of the Church of Norway and Bishop of Oslo.

Dr. Oswald Hoffmann, the regular Lutheran Hour speaker, will be the host.

"The Christmas broadcast from Norway glorifies our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ," he said. "It is a witness to His Saviorhood and His Lordship over the world. Coming from a country like Norway, with its beautiful Christmas songs, the broadcast has a recognizably Lutheran character."

The Rev. William D. Kniffel, director of international operations for The Lutheran Hour, said overseas special outlets include Radio Free Europe, Vatican Radio, Radio Luxembourg and many others.

Firemen are again fixing broken toys for Christmas distribution, but the work is behind last year's pace due to a lack of donation of broken toys.

Fire Chief H. V. Crocker explained that last year 100 bicycles were re-tired, repainted, and repaired, but so far only about 30 have been donated for repair.

"We are fixing up all kinds of toys, but the kids really like those bicycles and tricycles," Crocker said. Unless the situation improves, it looks like the bicycles may be spread a little thin this year.

Firemen at each station are devoting their off-duty time picking up old toys from people who call in, repairing and repainting them, and then taking them to the former Piggly Wiggly store on Eleventh Place which will be used as a distribution point for toys and food just before Christmas.

Lack Of Donations Slows Firemen's Toy Mending

By HOWARD SIMMS

Firemen are again fixing broken toys for Christmas distribution, but the work is behind last year's pace due to a lack of donation of broken toys.

Fire Chief H. V. Crocker explained that last year 100 bicycles were re-tired, repainted, and repaired, but so far only about 30 have been donated for repair.

"We are fixing up all kinds of toys, but the kids really like those bicycles and tricycles," Crocker said. Unless the situation improves, it looks like the bicycles may be spread a little thin this year.

Firemen at each station are devoting their off-duty time picking up old toys from people who call in, repairing and repainting them, and then taking them to the former Piggly Wiggly store on Eleventh Place which will be used as a distribution point for toys and food just before Christmas.

The project, undertaken each year since 1931, is coordinated with the Salvation Army and the Christmas Cheer Fund. The Cheer Fund was set up about 20 years ago to buy food for distribution to the less fortunate and pay for the paint and materials used in toy repairs.

The firemen are getting to know toy repairing inside and out. Bicycles that come in looking completely unusable get the dents knocked out, the frames bent back into shape, the rust sanded off, the tires replaced. Then worn seats or pedals are replaced and each one gets a coat of paint in one of several different colors, or often in a color custom-mixed for the occasion.

Toy trucks, cars, and wagons are also sanded and repainted, and get new wheels when necessary. Other toys present their own individual problems, such as broken plastic toys that are patched with cement, or a ball that can be resewn along the seams.

Mixed in with the repaired toys are some almost new toys that are donated each year, which are checked over and taken directly to the distribution point, and in some cases it is hard to tell the difference between a toy that has just been repaired or repainted by the firemen and a new one sitting in a store.

Phone Company Expects Busy Time

With the holiday season only a few days away, the telephone company has already made plans to greet the calling rush on Christmas — one of the southwestern Bell's busiest days of the year.

"Extra calling circuits will be added and as many operators as needed will be on duty Christmas Day to cut down on calling delays," said Harry Sawyer, manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

"Despite our best efforts," Sawyer said, "there are often calling delays on Christmas Day as the avalanche of greetings by long distance stacks up at key switching centers around the nation."

He pointed out that many people wait until the afternoon and evening of Christmas Day to place their calls, even though the company's low rates go into effect in the evening on Christmas Eve and last through Christmas Day.

"If people would place their calls earlier Christmas Day or in the evening on Christmas Eve," explained Sawyer, "there would be less chance of delay and their calls would still go through on the low rates."

On intrastate calls, the "evening" rates ordinarily in effect between 6-8 p.m. weekdays will be in effect all day Christmas Day with one exception. The lower "night" rates will be in effect from 8 p.m. until 4:30 a.m. as usual on both days.

On interstate calls, the "evening" rates ordinarily in effect between 5-11 p.m. weekdays will be in effect from 5 p.m. Christmas Eve and all day Christmas Day, with one exception. From 11 p.m. until 8

SCHEDULING DIFFICULTIES MUST BE WORKED OUT

Cougs 'Home Free' In SWC

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Southwest Conference took the first step Saturday to admitting the University of Houston into the eight-member league with a unanimous vote on a motion by cross-town rival Rice to investigate the feasibility of inquiring the Cougars into the plan.

Harry Fouke, athletic director at Houston, said, "The reason for the motion of feasibility was because we have games scheduled to 1979-80 under contract. We feel that scheduling is the major item with no other problems that can't be worked out."

The action taken by the conference Saturday means that Houston is home free as the ninth member of the league if and when the burdensome scheduling difficulties can be cleared up.

DAVIS IN CHARGE
J. William Davis, of Texas Tech, conference president, is in charge of the committee which will investigate the feasibility of Houston joining.

The motion that passed with an 8-0 vote read: "That a committee of four faculty representatives and four athletic directors, with each member (school) represented, be appointed to investigate the feasibility and mutual benefits to be derived from inviting the University of Houston to join the Southwest Athletic Conference. The continuation of round-robin competition is a requirement for feasibility."

The committee is to render a written report to the conference at least 30 days prior to the 1971 spring meeting. Davis said he would form the committee upon his return to Lubbock.

Houston's bid for admission was sponsored by the University of Texas but Dr. Alan Champan, chairman of the Rice Faculty Athletic Committee, made the motion to bring Houston before the SWC faculty fathers.

"I made the first motion to get something done," Champan said. "No pressure came down from above. Nobody pushed us into a corner."

Champan said, "It was foolish to pretend they are not there. ... that Houston does not have a recognized athletic program in Texas. The 11th game opened up a whole new spectrum. Everybody sort of sat around and talked about when Rice was going to play Houston but it was academic until the 11th game made it a current question."

The NCAA raised the number of games a team can play from 10 to 11 at its meeting last January. Fouke said "It will take a lot of give and take with everybody working in good faith."

NO PRESSURE
Texas' athletic director and head football coach, Darrell Royal, made an appearance at Saturday's news conference to emphasize that there was no political pressure on Texas' sponsorship of the Cougars.

"There was no political pressure whatsoever," Royal said. "Never have I had anyone above me say you ought to play this team or that team. I hope I never get in the position where I'm so stubborn I can't change my opinion. I think the University of Houston has changed from 10 years ago."

J. Neils Thompson, faculty representative chairman from Texas, said the idea of sponsoring a Houston drive for admittance came at the board of regents meeting in June in El Paso.

"It wasn't planned and there wasn't any pressure," Thompson said. Fouke added, "I had no idea it was coming but it was welcome and appreciated."

Fouke said, "The University of Houston has developed a good program but we felt it would be to the mutual benefit to Houston and the Southwest Conference for us to join forces. We welcomed the opportunity to sit down with the members of the Southwest Conference to work out the necessary details." Thompson said, "There are a lot of problems that still have to be solved."

TOOK LONG TIME
It was five years before Texas Tech—the last member of the SWC—could play for the SWC championship even after it was admitted because of scheduling problems.

Royal said there was a possibility some intersectional games could be cancelled to make room for Houston on the schedule.

Also, Texas must still get approval of the 11th game from its faculty representatives and regents.

"We've got to get over one bridge at a time on playing Houston next year," said Royal. The whole conference scheduling structure now will undergo the microscope in wake of the conference motion on the Cougars.

Thompson said in regard to Texas going to 11 games, "We've got a lot of selling to do in our own camp and I don't like to second guess our faculty."

Davis added, "We want to give both Houston and the conference ample time to take a look at all angles of the consideration. The statement (motion) does not mean that Houston has officially been invited."

Howard Grubbs, conference executive secretary, announced other action taken by faculty representatives, including: —Formalizing a rule of visitors "by invitation only" at the faculty representative meeting.

—Continuing until spring a study of summer school work counting toward eligibility.

—Continuing the SWC radio-television committee.

—Keeping football ticket prices at $6.00 and $3.00.

—Approved coaches' agreements on recruiting (no changes).

DUAL BASIS
—Kept the golf championship on a dual match basis, but appointed a committee to discuss the feasibility of such an arrangement. (The current rule will be kept for one year. Texas has elected not to compete under such circumstances).

—Raised the maximum number of freshman basketball games from 12 to 16 with a maximum number of six on the road.

—Raised from 20 to 30 percent the amount of booty the home team may keep from a regionally televised game. The other 70 percent is put into the SWC kitty and divided eight ways. The same 20 percent cut for the home team on a nationally televised game remains in effect.

—Changed the SWC championship tennis format from four singles and two doubles matches to five singles and two doubles matches.

—Changed the cross country from three to four miles.

—Elected to have the 1971 track and field meet at College Station and to hold the final running events starting at 7 p.m.

NEW CO-CAPTAINS FOR QUARTERBACK CLUB — Tri-captains have been named for the Big Spring Quarterback Club, succeeding Paul Shaffer and Harroll Jones. Strong Running Game Fires Oakland Win

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders displayed a strong running attack, led by seldom-used Mary Hubbard, and held the Kansas City Chiefs without a touchdown Saturday in a 20-6 victory that gave them the Western Division title in the American Football Conference.

The loss left the defending world champion Chiefs at 7-4-2 and in danger of failing to make the National Football League playoffs. They still have a chance as the team with the best second place record. The Raiders, 8-3-2, built a 20-6 lead over the Chiefs by early in the fourth period and didn't need their usual magic moments at the end to record the big victory before a national television audience and a record home crowd of 54,596.

Oakland took the lead for the first time when George Blanda kicked a 35-yard field goal with three seconds left in the first half, following a Kent McCloughan interception of a Len Dawson pass.

The Raiders drove 78 yards for a third-period touchdown, with fullback Hubbard scoring from six yards out through a big hole in the left side of his line.

In the final period, Raiders' quarterback Daryle Lamonica threw a 36-yard touchdown pass to Fred Biletnikoff to end a 72-yard drive.

The Raiders will host an AFC playoff game either Dec. 26 or 27. The Chiefs fell at least temporarily behind Miami, which is 8-4 in the Eastern Division, in a fight for the runner-up playoff berth in the conference.

Leading only 18-13, Permian halted a South Oak Cliff drive at its 26-yard line with 5 minutes to go, and a 51-yard punt 3 minutes later set SOC back to its own 4-yard line and led to Culppepper's interception.

Larry Bates, who scored Permian's first touchdown, recovered SOC fumbles at the 3-and-26-yard lines early in the third quarter to set up the pair of quick touchdowns for the victors.

Daniel Justis, who rushed for 85 yards, scored from 3 and 6 yards out to give Permian an 18-6 lead.

SOC recovered a Permian fumble at its own 1-yard line and marched 99 yards in 15 plays for the touchdown with quarterback Glenn Printers going the final four yards.

The game see-sawed back and forth until Culppepper's interception. SOC outgained Permian in total yardage 276 to 184.

Permian now faces Austin Reagan in the finals next week. Reagan defeated Permian 17-11 in the 1968 championship game.

Shae Southall Leads Lions To 3A Finals

FORT WORTH (AP) — Junior quarterback Shae Southall passed for three touchdowns as defending state champion Brownwood outscored Plano 35-21 Saturday in a Class AAA Semi-final game.

Southall connected with Steve Cutbirth for 12 yards in the first quarter, 5 yards with Tommy George in the third and 45 with Rodney Folsom in the fourth to pace the Lions to the finals for the fifth time in the last 11 years under coach Gordon Wood.

Brownwood has won the championship every time the Lions have reached the finals. The Lions sprinted to a quick 21-0 lead midway through the second quarter as Gary Barron scored from 22 yards out in the first quarter and Graham Snyder went 22 on a reverse in the second. Folsom kicked a conversion after each touchdown.

The Wildcats came back on two quick touchdowns, a 1-yard run by Pat Thomas and 73-yard pass from Glen Hansen to William Jones, to cut the margin to 21-14 as Gary Owen kicked the conversion.

Southall returned, though, with his two other touchdowns passes to stop the Plano upset hopes.

The other Plano score came on a 33-yard pass from Hansen to Thomas in the third period.

Kentucky Edges Indiana, 95-93

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Third-ranked Kentucky pulled out a 95-93 overtime victory over No. 11 Indiana in college basketball here Saturday as Tom Parker scored 24 points including nine in the extra period for the Wildcats.

Hoosier sophomore George McGinnis led all scorers and rebounders with 38 points and 20 rebounds but could not keep Kentucky from forging its fourth victory of the basketball season against no losses.

Indiana, trailing much of the game, came back to take a 74-67 lead with 5:36 left. But three straight floor errors by the Hoosiers allowed the Wildcats to pull into a 76-76 tie and the regulation time ran out with the score 88-88.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Walker Says Houston Set

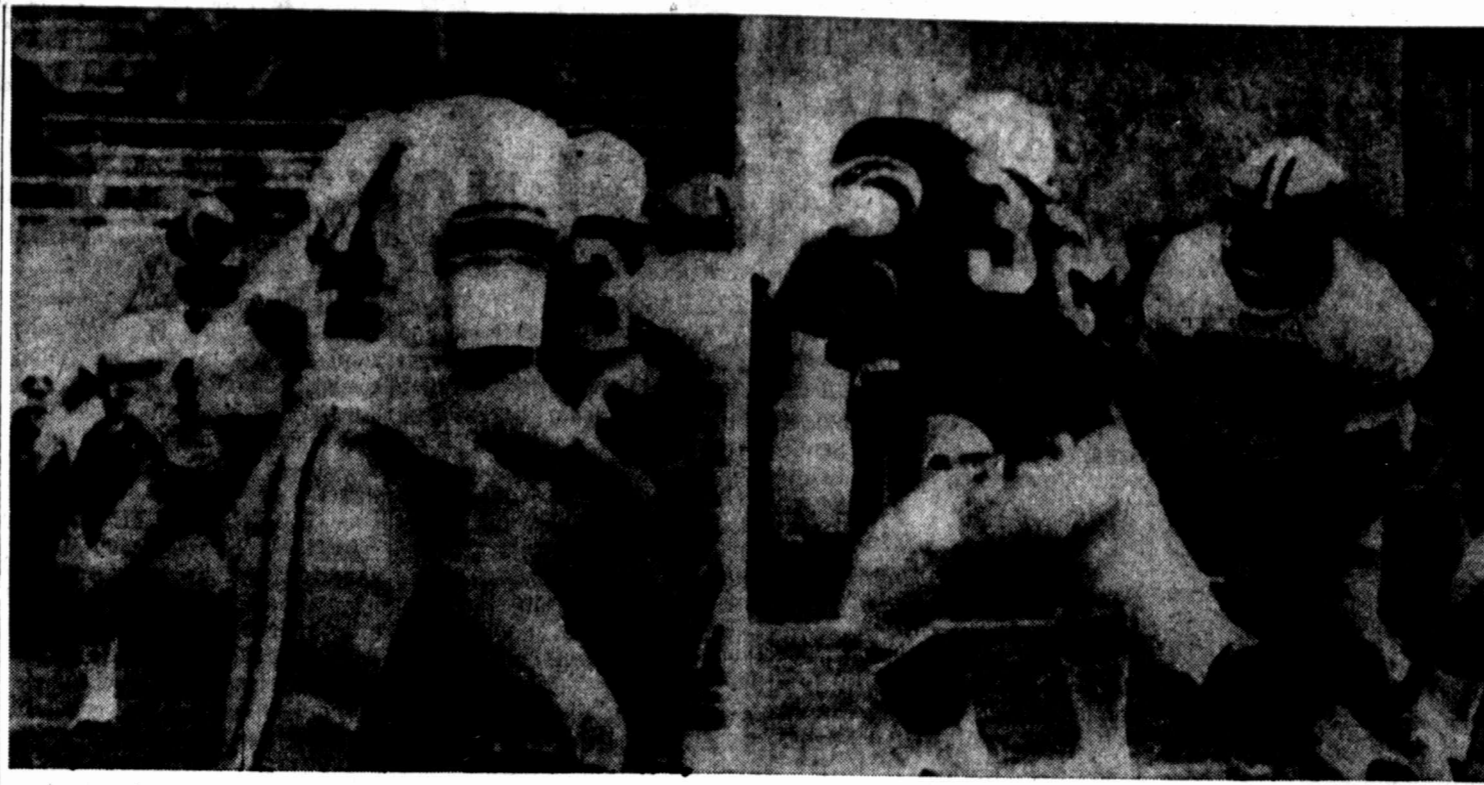

By TOMMY HART

One of the nominees for the Junior College Coach of the Year honors in Texas is golf mentor Barry Rodenhaver of Odessa, a native of Pennsylvania who went to Penn State on a baseball scholarship . . . Barry played the diamond sport well enough to get an offer from the Pittsburgh Pirates but decided to continue with his schooling at the University of Maryland . . . He was first attracted to golf by an article on physical conditioning he read in Golf Digest magazine, an item which helped him prepare his thesis for a master's degree . . . He helped coach both the freshman and varsity golf teams at Maryland before a friend suggested he apply for a coaching post at Odessa College . . . He's never regretted the move, says Odessa is a fantastic place, mainly because friends of the school want to give OC the best golf program in the country . . . Rodenhaver ran into trouble when he instituted a harsh training program at Odessa but his methods paid off . . . Odessa fought back to win the Western Conference championship and wound up second to Miami-Dade in Miami's home course in last spring's National tournament . . . Rodenhaver now serves as an assistant professor on the school's faculty . . . A first baseman in baseball, he was an All-Eastern selection two years running while at Penn State . . . Not much research could have gone into that All-South Plains AAAA football team chosen recently by a Lubbock paper . . . The 12-man offensive platoon included 11 players in the Lubbock and Amarillo districts, only one from 5-AAAA (Perman's Daniel Justis) . . . Big Spring's Charley West, now with the Minnesota Vikings, suffered a shoulder separation prior to an early season exhibition game with Pittsburgh this year but has come back to become a defensive regular with the Vikings, mainly because he was willing to work hard on a weight-lifting program designed to strengthen his legs . . . In 1968, Charley ran back a punt 98 yards against Washington, said his first thought was to at least get the ball out to his own 20 to "escape a chewing out" . . . Although he's considered one of the NFL's best runback men, his goal is to play regularly . . . He tries to be relaxed when he fields the ball and invariably takes it with his hands rather than his arms . . . That late season surge by the Dallas Cowboys probably cost them the chance to pick up the Houston Cougars' Elmo Wright in the draft.

CHARLEY WEST

Harry Walker, manager of the Houston Astros, told reporters he didn't favor trading Jimmy Wynn or anyone else on his club because he felt his lineup is set for 1971 . . . Houston wound up fourth in its own division of the National League last year, 23 games removed from the top, but Harry reasons the Astros will improve because the team's pitching will get better . . . Sunland Park had a $257,362 handle last Sunday, by far the biggest day of the fall season . . . It was the second consecutive Sunday for the track to go over the $200,000 mark . . . On each occasion, the management was giving away an automobile . . . The basketball season is relatively young but already Big Spring's Delnor Poss has officiated games in Edinburg, Tex., and Seattle, Wash. . . . Only Odessa College and NMMI were under .500 among Western Conference basketball teams after the league's first 61 basketball games . . . The home attendance of the Dallas Cowboys is bound to drop appreciably this year from last, even though the Pokes might draw a capacity crowd with Houston next week . . . ABC claims an average of 5.2 million women watch their Monday night NFL games . . . I didn't know that many husbands used their clout so often . . . Harold (Pee Wee) Jones, who played his high school football here, earned his second football letter for Yanktown College, South Dakota, the past season and wound up all-conference and All-District in NAIA competition . . . Yanktown was 6-0 in league play and received a post-season bid to play in the Copper Bowl at Bute, Mont., where it lost to Montana Tech, 21-8 . . . Over the year, the Greyhounds were 8-2 . . . After Texas revolutionized and depressed Arkansas' thinking with that 42-7 football win recently, a writer from the Razorback state was prone to remark "Now it's Texas and the seven dwarfs" . . . Arkansas' Charles Coffey and two University of Texas assistants, Mike Campbell and San Angelo ex Emery Bellard, were supposed to be the only coaches being considered for the head coaching job vacated recently at TCU by Fred Taylor . . . That was before Coffee checked out for Virginia Tech . . . Spike Dykes, the former Big Springer, doesn't think Bellard will make the change if offered the job . . . Dykes reasons that Bellard has a good chance at the Texas job, when Darrell Royal decides to call it a day . . . Who ever inherits the TCU job will get a signed contract, something Dutch Meyer, Abe Martin and Taylor never had in all the years they were affiliated with the Fort Worth school . . . District 3-AAA will offer season football tickets at $1.50 each next year but will go to $2 for ducats purchased on the day of the game.

INTERCEPTION — Colorado quarterback Paul Arendt (17) passes to tight end Dennis Schnorr (44) but it is intercepted by Tulane's linebacker Rick Kingrea who ran the ball back to the Colorado 10-yard line before being stopped by Arendt.

Green Wave Surprises Buffaloes, 17 To 3

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Dave Abercrombie dashed 66 yards with the second-half kickoff to set up the go-ahead touchdown Saturday as Tulane, participating in a bowl game for the first time in 30 years, stunned favored Colorado 17-3 in the Liberty Bowl game.

Abercrombie, a 190-pound senior tailback, scored both Tulane touchdowns in the second half on runs of two and four yards and hammered out 124 yards rushing against the bigger Buffaloes.

After a 3-3 halftime deadlock, Abercrombie took the second half kickoff and sprinted up the middle of the field, breaking through a clearing at his own 30 and raced to the Colorado 30 where a quartet of Buffalo defenders finally stopped him.

Tulane needed only four plays to score, with fullback Bob Marshall running for 16 and 13 yards before Abercrombie punched over from the two only 1:42 into the third quarter.

Tulane's defense took care of Colorado the rest of the way, holding its vaulted triple option attack to only 14 net yards in the third quarter. Colorado did not penetrate Tulane territory in the second half.

Tulane, which lost its most recent bowl appearance to Texas A&M, 14-13 in the 1940 Sugar Bowl, drove 57 yards for the clinching score midway through the final period.

A 15-yard unsportsmanlike conduct penalty on the Colorado bench helped the drive before Marshall and Abercrombie alternated running it to the four. Abercrombie then scored with 8:05 left in the game. The triumph ended an 8-4 season for Tulane, its best in 20 years. Colorado finished its year at 6-5.

Hamilton Leads Tribe To Win

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Arkansas State quarterback James Hamilton stung the Central Missouri State secondary with touchdown shots of 42, 49 and 9 yards Saturday to send the No. 1 ranked Indians to a 38-21 victory in the seventh Pecan Bowl and give them the NCAA Midwest Regional football championship.

Hamilton passed 42 and 49 yards to flanker Chet Douthit in the second quarter and Bobby Gentry booted a 37-yard field goal to give the Southland Conference champion Indians a 17-7 halftime lead in the charity benefit game before 9,500 fans.

The Fighting Mules of Central Missouri, who didn't get a first down in the first quarter, drove 93 yards for a touchdown after stopping the Indians at their own 8-yard line in the second quarter. CMSC quarterback Steve Eckinger hit Reggie James for the score.

But Hamilton, named the game's outstanding offensive player, hit passes when it counted and tailback Calvin Harrell rushed for 135 yards and blew the game wide open in the second half.

The Arkansas State defense dazzled Central Missouri, the Missouri intercollegiate Athletic Association co-champions, with three first-half interceptions, including two by defensive back Dennis Meyer, named the game's outstanding defensive player.

Hamilton threw 9 yards to tight end Steve Lockhart in the third quarter to open the gates for Arkansas State, ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press small college football poll.

He said, "It is a matter of public record. They have asked me to resign. I have not resigned yet but I am thinking about it."

Two Borden Boys Named

Two seniors have been honored as the Borden County Coyotes players of the year.

Selected as the back of the year for the Coyotes was Joe Harding, 183 pound halfback. He scored 180 points on the season and picked up 8.5 yards per carry. He had one run of 80 yards against Dawson nullified. He garnered his fourth varsity letter for Borden County this season.

When the Coyotes went on defense, Harding put in his time at defensive guard.

TOP LINEMAN

Jimmy Hodge, in his fourth season with the Coyotes, picked up the laurels as the lineman of the year. He is a 170 pounder who works at both offensive and defensive end. During the season he caught 37 passes for 611 yards.

The two gridders will receive Daily Herald certificates for their achievement and will be honored at the All-Sports Banquet which will probably be held in March.

SHE MAINTAINS AVERAGE OF 187 Ace Kegler Is Active In Four Leagues Here

By GENE NORTON
Joycee Leuschner is not an active participant in the women's liberation movement but she makes a habit of beating men at their own game in her own special way.

She just happens to carry the highest bowling average of any woman in Big Spring and that average is 187. Many male kegglers would hook their best bowling ball if they could maintain that kind of average.

Mrs. Leuschner has been bowling for about 10 years and says her game has improved during the past year while she has been employed at the Bowl-A-Rama Bowling lanes.

The native of Waco came to Big Spring five years ago and is now involved in four bowling leagues. She bowls in a Monday and Thursday night league and is a member of two traveling leagues.

SEVERAL TITLES
She recently teamed with Jean Nicholson to win the Big Spring City Championship in the ladies doubles division. The duo has copied tournament titles in Midland and San Angelo.

Mrs. Leuschner says probably the highlight of her bowling career came in May of this year when she and Mrs. Nicholson entered the National Bowling finals as a team in Tulsa, Okla. "We finished 87th out of approximately 3,000 entries up there and that certainly was a thrill," she said. "One of the most fascinating parts of the trip was getting to meet so many people from all over the world."

The highest game she ever bowled was a 256 and the highest sanctioned series was 655. "I've done better than that, however, bowling for the fun of it one afternoon, I rolled a 722 series, but it wasn't sanctioned," she said.

"It takes a good attitude, deep concentration and you must enjoy the game, to be a good bowler," she volunteered.

LEADING FEM BOWLER HERE
Joycee Leuschner

"The most important aspect of bowling is timing. If your timing is off when you approach the foul line, it will throw your game completely off."

Joycee recently completed a bowling instructor's school in Midland and is now a certified instructor.

GET A TEACHER
When asked what advice she would give to bowlers just taking up the sport, she replied, "It is important to get an instructor to help. He can show you how to hold the ball properly and how to release it. You must get the fundamentals down before you can become a good bowler and you need an instructor to help."

"I always tell newcomers to the sport that you must enjoy the game. If it isn't any fun you might as well forget it."

When asked what weight ball she uses, Mrs. Leuschner said, "I prefer using the 16 pound ball. Most ladies like the smaller 12-13 pound ball but I feel more comfortable using the heavier one."

Joycee bowls quite often against members of the male sex and more often than not she wins. "I have a problem getting men to bowl with me," she mentioned. "They always want me to spot them a number of pins before the game begins."

So, gentlemen, if its a challenge you are looking for, come out to the Bowl-A-Rama lanes. There is a young lady there who can bowl with the best of you.

Bruce Dowdy To Terminate Fine Career In Sun Bowl

LUBBOCK — All Southwest Conference defensive end Bruce Dowdy plays his last game as a Texas Tech Red Raider in the Sun Bowl, and even if the Red Raiders win, one could excuse Bruce if he feels a little sad after the game.

"It's kind of sad playing in my last game for Tech," said Dowdy, who has had quite a career. "I definitely hope we can go out with a win."

The Raiders' opponent in the Sun Bowl, Georgia Tech, has probably already heard of Dowdy's credentials since he started his first game as a sophomore at Tech. Besides being named All-Conference this year by Associated Press and United Press International, he was the SWC Player of the Week for his efforts against the University of Texas earlier in the season.

But Bruce's biggest thrill in his four years as a Red Raider came when he played Texas Tech in 1968 as a sophomore. That game in Lubbock was the last time the Longhorns have been defeated. Dowdy was named national lineman of the week by AP after the game, which was a great thrill for a sophomore.

"That Texas game has to be my biggest thrill since I've been at Tech," Dowdy related.

Bruce always seems to be at his best against teams like the Longhorns and in other games of prime importance to Tech. He has been aptly described as a big-play performer.

"Bruce's knack for making the big play is his most valuable trait as a football player," explains head defensive coach Richard Bell. "This is something you can't teach a player — that knack of being in the right place at the right time."

Bell said Georgia Tech's offense, which is mainly composed of sprint-outs and roll-outs by the quarterback, will provide a special challenge to Dowdy and the other defensive end for the Raiders. "It is much easier to rush a drop-back passer than a quarterback who sprints out a lot," Bell explained. "But Bruce is a good all-round player. He has quick lateral movement, which is what it takes to contain an offense like Georgia Tech's."

Dowdy thinks an interesting new twist to the Sun Bowl game, at least to him, is the fact the players of both squads are going to be together a lot at banquets before the game. "This is something I've never been involved with before," he explained. "I've known some of the players I've played against, but never spent as much time with the opponents as we will in El Paso. I'm looking forward to it."

Georgia Tech players will look forward to meeting Dowdy off the field, but their relationship may not be as pleasant after the opening kickoff. Bruce gives it all he has when the game begins.

"Dowdy always gives us 100 per cent," Coach Bell said. The most improvement he has made this year is in his effort. He has always had superior ability, but this year he has been making plays that are accomplished by sheer effort.

Dowdy will give a top effort in the Sun Bowl against Georgia Tech. After all, what other way would there be to climax four great years of football at Texas Tech.

Academic Team Led By A&M, Porker Aces

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Economics major Dave Elmendorf of Texas A&M and physical education major Bobby Field of Arkansas lead the 1970 Southwest Conference All-Academic team.

Elmendorf sports a 3.84 grade point average out of a possible 4.0 and Field checks in with a 3.41.

Baylor's pass grabbing wide receiver—Derek Davis, a psychology major—leads the offensive team with a 3.40 grade point average.

There are 15 seniors on the 23-man first team—the 23rd man being kicking specialist Dicky Ingram of Texas Tech.

Pre-law student Ingram is one of two sophomores named to the team; the other is Arkansas offensive guard Tom Reed, a business administration student with a 3.07 average.

A. J. FOYT FINDS A WAY TO RELAX
Famed driver has ranch near Houston

Texan Mapping Plans For 1971 Indy Race

HOUSTON (AP) — The little wrinkles are beginning to show around his eyes, the hair line is receding, the sun-tanned face is dappled with white from burns received years ago.

But A. J. Foyt, a month short of 36, plumpish, rich, apparently mellowed, and up to his neck in a new role as a cattle baron, already is laying plans to win Indianapolis again next year. And with it, naturally, his sixth national driving title.

The silent, brooding, morose, abrupt, tough, quick-tempered, heavy-handed Foyt of the past smiles a lot now—meaningful smiles, those of a successful business and family man and, still first and foremost, the "best damned race driver around."

NEW CONCEPT

Next year oldtimers at Indy may see the emergence of an entirely new concept of a Foyt in racing.

Though he was one of the last of the top drivers to switch to the rear-engined cars, A. J. very well could show up at the "Brickyard" next May with a radical new reverse ground effects machine on the order of the controversial Chaparral 2J road racer of Jim Hall, another Texan and one of Foyt's closest friends.

Foyt won't talk about his new car ideas, for they still must be approved by USAC's competition board. But there is a gleam in his eyes when the subject is mentioned.

"There's a lot of prize money floating around next year and I want my share of it," says the man who has pocketed at least $3 million in purses in 11 years of major competition—including three Indianapolis triumphs and a record 41 championship victories.

He will say that he'll be the only driver on the Foyt team next season. "We spent too much time last year looking after two or three other cars," he said. "We'll concentrate on one—mine—in 1971 and I think we'll be better off."

Foyt himself doesn't admit that he has changed radically. He's still a 16-hour-a-day man. He still drives his crew to exhaustion at times. And he still doesn't tolerate a lack of enthusiasm on the part of anyone around him.

And he admits he probably remains temperamental and hot-tempered when things don't go to suit him.

"Racing is still my business and like anything else there is no room for errors—either the driver or the crew," he says forcefully.

Don Kaye Brown Resigns As Kermit High Mentor

KERMIT — Don Kaye Brown, head football coach at Kermit High School the past two years, has asked to be reassigned in the Kermit school system as a classroom teacher.

Brown had another year to go on his three-year contract. In two seasons, his teams won ten, lost nine and tied one.

Brown has been doubling as athletic director of the school. The Kermit school board accepted his request by a vote of 4-3.

The trustees also decided to continue paying Brown his

Some of his associates, however, say he is mellowing—how ever slightly—and is less hard to reach and easier to work with.

Even that would be a change from the Foyt of the past.

The "old" Foyt at times gained more press from his garage area capers than he did for winning. After coming to USAC's professional ranks in 1958, Foyt parted with some of the best mechanics in the business—some of them abruptly and in the middle of the night.

SOLID FAITH
"Foyt has an unshakable faith that he is right and everybody else is wrong," says one former employe. "He tolerates no errors, lack of judgement or failing enthusiasm. And, though I quit him because I couldn't live with the tension that always was a part of his operation, you have to admit that he was mostly always right."

Another former associate describes Foyt as "probably the original fish-or-cut-bait man. You either play his way or you don't play. To him the race is his from the start and everybody else is running for second place."

"When he loses," another says, "you know he is going to suffer until the next race, and so will everyone around him."

Still another observer of Foyt during his top racing years says, "Racing is his food and drink. Without it he would die. With it, he will perhaps do the same. But he is sure he will survive until he is ready to quit."

"He has been seriously hurt several times, but he is sure he will not be hurt again, for he is the total master of his fate on the race course. He has to drive to live, and win to be happy."

Though he was once fined for unsportsmanlike conduct, Foyt is considered honest and fair on the race course. "He just drives to the sound of his own drummer," is the way one driver put it.

Foyt himself has no illusions about the business he is in. "Racing is dangerous," he said recently. "You're alone out there in the car. A mistake back in the garage or in the pit could end it all for you."

"I'm not anxious to hurry death along. I want to be happy when I go. That's the name of the game, being happy. And you're happiest when your car is performing well, when you know that the crew and yourself have put everything together right."

"Racing is a business. It is my livelihood. To be successful, you have to pay attention to detail. I won't allow sloppy work in my garage or at the track. I never have, and I never will."

contracted salary for the remainder of the pact. Supt. G. E. Thompson was authorized to begin a search for a new athletic director and coach immediately.

Brown, a 1951 graduate of Kermit High School, attended the University of Oklahoma. He returned to Kermit in 1957 as an assistant coach and was elevated to his present position shortly before the 1969 season.

Crippling injuries to players hurt his chances to field a champion both years he was at the helm.

Sonora Meets Pflugerville Next Weekend

By The Associated Press

It will be Sonora versus Pflugerville and Iowa Park against Refugio respectively in the Class A and Class AA state high school football finals next week.

Sonora romped into the finals Friday night with a 49-8 rout of Petersburg while Pflugerville "stole" a 7-6 victory from White Oak.

Iowa Park edged Haskell 14-13 and Refugio clubbed Friendswood 26-7.

Pflugerville advanced on the toe of Keith Weiss who kicked the winning point after Dennis Luedtke scored on a one-yard run with 3:21 to play. Tackle Douglas Greinert stole the ball from White Oak quarterback Mike Barber on the Pflugerville 19 in the waning moments of the game to preserve the victory.

Barber ran five yards for White Oak's only touchdown earlier.

Sonora rolled up 500 yards total offense in blitzing Petersburg. Quarterback Eddie Sutton completed 6 of 9 passes for 185 yards, including a 52-yard scoring bomb to Mike Taylor, who had five catches for 175 yards.

Defending 2-A state champion Iowa Park won its 29th consecutive game behind all-state halfback Jeff McDonald who made 170 yards on 37 carries. McDonald scored on a 13-yard gallop.

Charley Franklin of Haskell gained 137 yards on 19 carries and scored on touchdown runs of 5 and 13 yards.

Halfback Byron Shaw scored on two 10-yard touchdowns runs as Refugio won its 14th consecutive game. Shaw rushed for 163 yards.

Friendswood's lone touchdown came on a 23-yard run by Danny Bailey in the third quarter.

Ector Surprises Midland, 69-68

MIDLAND — The Ector Eagles, led by Darrel Mitchell's 24 points, upset the heavily-favored Midland Bulldogs, 69-68, here Friday night.

In addition to his 24 points, Mitchell cleaned the boards for 22 rebounds as the Eagles won their seventh game of the season compared to one loss.

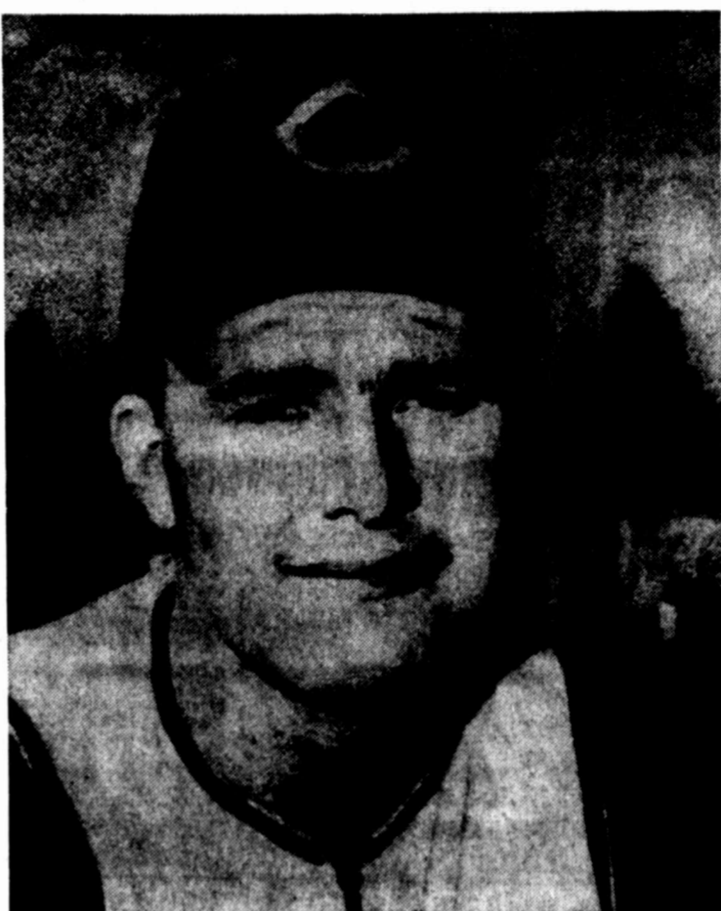

Saldivar Dethroned As Feather King

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP)—Japan has two, not just one, world champion featherweight boxers today.

And Mexico, in the space of nine days, was lacking two of its world champions.

What will the land of the rising sun do with two 126-pound kings? Reasonably, you'd expect they would fight and clear up the situation.

It's not quite that uncomplicated, however.

WISH GRANTED — Duke Simms, 29, who has been in the Cleveland Indians baseball system all his professional career, was traded Friday to the Los Angeles Dodgers. Sims had expressed a desire to be traded. In turn, the Dodgers are sending righthanded pitchers Alan Foster and Ray Lamb to Cleveland.

Gate Is Up At Sunland

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — Sunland Park's attendance soared during the 27-day fall meeting, but the handle took a slight dip.

A total of $4,110,600 was pushed through the betting equipment during the season, which comes out to a daily average of $152,244. This was a drop of 3.5 per cent, compared to last fall's daily average of $157,821.

But the attendance was up a solid 7.5 per cent over last fall's daily average of 2,690. A total of 78,098 fans attended the races this season for a daily average of 2,892.

Last year's corresponding meeting covered 26 days (one day was lost due to bad weather) and finished up with a total handle of $4,103,363 and a total attendance of 69,956.

There was no want today of promoters willing to accommodate Shibata, Saiyo, for a rematch between Shibata and Saldivar. Included were Tijuana's promoter, Enrique Cesna, who staged Friday night's fight; Los Angeles; George Parnassus and Ritchie Inoue of Tokyo, all three of whom were at ringside.

Saldivar, beaten only once in 36 previous fights — and that on a foul — and never knocked out, emerged from a bloodbath as the technical knockout loser in the 13th round to Shibata.

Egypt Serves Up Something New: Beguiling Waitresses

CAIRO (AP) — A waitresses' job—an American inspired experiment here—has introduced a new element in the history of Islamic Egypt.

It started 12 years ago when the American-run Hilton International Hotel pioneered the scheme as soon as it opened. The coffee shop became an instant attraction, not so much for itself, but for its novelty—young women employed as waitresses.

Today, pretty and beguiling Egyptian waitresses have become an accepted part of the Cairo scene.

TIPS TUSSLE

Yet the Hilton and the newly inaugurated Sheraton—both establishments with American inspiration and backing—are the only ones in town to hire young women for this job.

Though it is a relatively minor change by Western standards, it is a giant step forward by local scales.

In most Middle Eastern countries—especially Islamic ones—women still go about cocooned in long white or black shrouds. Many still see the world through veils.

"It was not easy when we started," says Rajia Bishay, social director of the Hilton. "Because most of the girls come from leading families, it was trying for them to take tips. We explained this was part of the job, if they wanted it."

Still, Middle Eastern sensitivity lingers. The girls would rather be called "hostesses." The word "waitresses" recalls to their minds the voluptuous attendants to the rulers of the Roman or Ottoman Empires.

SHES HAPPY

Nagwa, a cute Egyptian with a flash of her dark eyes and a defiant tilt of her chin, says: "I'd rather serve guests in the coffee shop than stay at home. I am happy in my job."

She is happy but perhaps not quite satisfied. And, like several of her colleagues, she considers her present job a stepping-stone to higher ambitions.

A waitresses' job, by the girls' admittance, is a highly rewarding one. Over $150 a month with tips is two to three times what other girls would make as secretaries or government employees.

Little wonder then, that as the management of both establishments, confide, they each get more than 200 applicants when a vacancy is announced.

Sometimes a waitresses' job is not only money. Marriage is also a consideration.

Several of the girls have married men from wealthy shiekhdoms and other countries.

Hope To Find Twisters By Electrical Discharges

LUBBOCK (AP) — Two professors at Texas Tech, who believe tornadoes are electrically driven, are seeking ways of making them harmless.

Dr. Marion Hagler, assistant professor of electrical engineering, and Dr. Magne Kristiansen, an associate professor in the same department, conducted experiments last twister season to test their theory.

The hope their methods may be useful one day in tracking the paths of such storms and providing a warning system for those in danger.

Hagler and Kristiansen had a former Tech engineering student, Larry Hanes, design an instrument package for a recording magnetometer to record the magnetic field generated by a tornado. The result, Hagler said, was a black box which it was hoped could detect a twister within a few miles.

They gave it its first test April 17 when a flock of twisters attacked the Lubbock area. Hagler says that the storm that then raged over Hale County was more intense than the tornado which struck Lubbock itself May 17, killing 26 persons and causing perhaps $200 million in damages.

The detector recorded on tape that ripped through Hale County.

Hagler said it was "an extremely strong tornado, more brutish than the one that hit Lubbock." But it spent itself through lightly populated areas.

"The storm was unusual in that it stayed on the ground for a very long time and travelled mostly in a straight line," Hagler said. "Most tornadoes don't travel in a straight line, but this one did for miles."

"It came within three miles of our detector and we hoped to be able to see how the magnetic field's strength fell off as the distance of the tornado varied."

But Hagler never got to study the data that time. Haden Moore, a Hale Center High School science teacher, left the tape on his desk one day and it fell to the floor. It was swept up and burned with other refuse.

Hagler is now waiting for another storm to come along, so he can measure its electrical field. His plan is to place five or more detectors in strategic locations about Hale County in the hope of getting more data next year.

House Vote Near On Food Stamp Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is nearing a crucial vote on conflicting versions of a food-stamp bill. A key issue is how much the poor should be required to pay for the cash-substitute stamps.

The bill backed by the Nixon administration would require that each person receiving food stamps pay at least 50 cents a month. The substitute version, sponsored by Reps. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., and Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., would permit free stamps to households of four with monthly income of $30 or less.

"The administration has advised us the substitute is wholly unacceptable," says Reps. W.R. Poage, D-Tex., and Page Belcher, R-Okla., senior members of the Agriculture Committee, which endorsed the administration proposal.

Foley and Quie claim the committee version "would seriously cripple the present program."

Their conflicting views are outlined in "Dear Colleague" letters circulated among House members as the leadership scheduled the bill for action Monday or Tuesday.

The Senate, almost 15 months ago, passed its own food-stamp bill, which goes beyond either of the two proposals to be considered in the House.

While the congressional letter-writing campaign goes on, church groups and anti-hunger organizations have been busy buttonholing members, seeking support for the Foley-Quie package, which will be offered as a complete substitute for the bill approved by Poage's committee.

About 8.8 million persons are enrolled in food-stamp programs, more than double a year ago, according to Agriculture Department officials. The program, started in 1964, allows eligible persons to exchange money they normally spend for food on an allotment of higher-value coupons.

Under the committee version, no specific spending ceilings would be set, leaving this up to

New Doctor Joins Cowper Clinic And Hospital Staff

By LINDA CROSS

"I've spent a lot of time teaching young interns what to do with that thing (stethoscope) not albatross," said Dr. Hal W. Smith of his association with interns at hospitals in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Dr. Smith recently joined the staff of Cowper Clinic and Hospital. He is an ear, nose and throat surgeon and will be working in the areas of ENT, allergies and limited general practice and surgery. Dr. Smith and his wife, Evelyn, come to Big Spring from Los Angeles where he had been working as an associate with the Las Campanas Clinic.

He was born Sept. 4, 1919, in Page, Fayette County, W. Va. His father was a general practitioner in the West Virginia coal boom town and his mother was a school teacher. Dr. Smith obtained his bachelor of arts degree from Washington and Lee University in 1941 and went on the Medical College of Virginia at Richmond.

In the last year of medical school, Dr. Smith was commissioned a lieutenant (j.g.) in the Navy. He was then stationed at the U. S. Naval Hospital at Philadelphia as an officer and a rotating intern. He also served with the staff of St. Agnes and St. Vincent's Hospitals where Navy dependents were treated.

"I was also assigned as junior medical officer aboard the USS Texas, the same battleship that is now at the San Jacinto Memorial," he said. Because of illness on the part of the senior medical officer, Dr. Smith became the senior medical officer of the USS Texas and was promoted to full lieutenant.

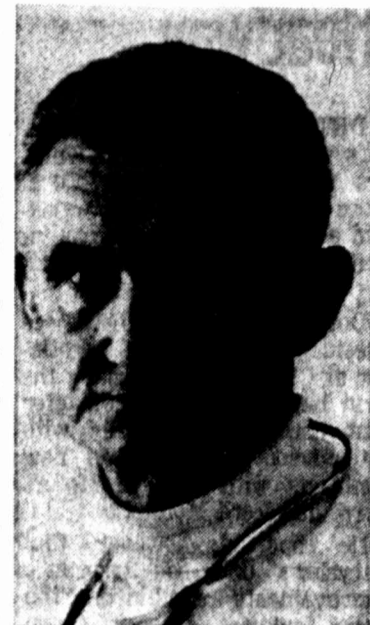

After his discharge in May of 1946, Dr. Smith served again in the active U.S. Naval Reserve. He served three years in the active reserve and was promoted to the permanent rank of full lieutenant.

His graduate work in otolaryngology was done with the New York University School of Medicine, the post-graduate division. While there, he served as assistant house surgeon and as senior house surgeon in 1948 to 1949.

Dr. Smith was in private practice for a time in San Francisco and was an ENT consultant for Hamilton AFB, and for children with hearing defects at a crippled children's clinic.

Dr. Smith later moved to the Dallas area and worked with the Terrell Mental Hospital, Terrell. He became the chief diagnostician for the hospital and became eligible for acceptance in the National Association of Psychiatry. The Dallas Mental Health Association presented him with the Mental Health Award for his efforts in initiating a psychiatric training program for physicians.

Dr. Smith was certified in 1950 by the Board of Otolaryngology and is a member of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology. In 1968, he was unanimously elected to the International College of Surgeons. He is also a member of the Ophthalmological and Otolaryngological Society and the Pan American ENT Society.

Dowdy Claiming Legislative Right

DALLAS, (AP) — Rep. John Dowdy's defense lawyers will argue in court Dec. 21 that bribery charges against the Democrat from Athens, Tex., should be dropped because of a prior court decision.

A Dallas Morning News Washington dispatch said Dowdy's lawyers will cite the case of Daniel B. Brewster, former Maryland senator. Judge George Hart of the District of Columbia court ruled in October that Brewster could not be prosecuted for accepting a bribe to influence his vote on postal rate legislation.

Hart said that the speech and debate clause of the Constitution shields Brewster from any prosecution for alleged bribery to perform a legislative act.

Judge Hart, however, did distinguish between the Brewster case, which involved a Senate vote, and the Dowdy case, which involved a Justice Department investigation.

Hart said Dowdy was not performing a legislative act in the situation in which he is accused and therefore is not protected by the Constitution.

Judge Roszel C. Thomsen already has denied an appeal motion to drop the charges against Dowdy on Dowdy's claim of congressional immunity.

Dowdy was indicted by a Baltimore grand jury on charges of bribery, conspiracy and perjury. He is accused of accepting $25,000 to intervene in a federal investigation of the now-defunct Monarch Construction Co. of Silver Spring, Md.

Special Asst. U.S. Atty. Stephen Sachs said the government will oppose any moves to delay the trial from its new scheduled date of Jan. 20.

The trial has been postponed twice because of Dowdy's illness which included spinal surgery and pneumonia.

Chrysler And Union Making Headway

DETROIT (AP) — Negotiators for the United Auto Workers union and Chrysler Corp. were to meet through the weekend as optimistic reports continued to come from the bargaining room.

Douglas Fraser, a UAW vice president and its chief negotiator at Chrysler, said Friday the firm had made a pension offer that compared favorably with retirement gains won in new contracts with General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co.

He reported, however, that Chrysler's offer on insurance improvements combined "the worst features of the GM and Ford settlements and withheld the better ones." He said the insurance package was "not as good" as the pension offer.

Chrysler and the UAW have set an informal target date of next Friday for agreement on a new three-year contract. No strike deadline has been set, however, and Fraser said that if agreement is not reached by Friday, talks would be recessed until the new year to avoid bargaining over the holidays.

Fraser said the company promised to respond today to a union proposal that workers laid off between Nov. 27 and next Friday for what Chrysler called inventory adjustments be made eligible for Christmas and New Years holiday pay they ordinarily would lose because of the furloughs.

One potential problem in the Chrysler talks is the continuing strike by 23,000 UAW members against GM of Canada Ltd. The main issues in the strike are wage parity with U.S. workers and cost-of-living allowances.

Unlike Ford and GM, Chrysler has a joint contract covering both U.S. and Canadian workers. The union, however, has indicated willingness to negotiate a U.S. contract with Chrysler, leaving Canadian clauses open.

THEY'RE CALLED DATS — London pet shop owner Roy Tutt says the balls of fluff displayed here by 16-year-old Sue Kent are something zoologists said could never happen — dats, half dog and half cat. Tutt claims he bred them from a black cat and a Scottish terrier. They look like dogs at the front and cats at the back. These two have heads like dogs, but cat fur, whiskers and claws.

Finch Slaps At Contingency Fee

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Presidential counselor Robert H. Finch says one of the contributors to rising health care costs is attorney contingency fees in medical malpractice suits.

The administration plans action against the fees next year, Finch said in a speech Friday to the Southern California Public Health Association. He didn't elaborate.

Contingency fees are paid to an attorney when he agrees to represent someone in exchange for a share of the judgment or award, if the lawyer wins his client's case.

Warrants Needed For Dorm Search

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Superior Court has ruled that a college dormitory is as secure from unwarranted police searches as an apartment or hotel room.

The court in a 5-2 decision reversed a possession of marijuana sentence imposed on former Bucknell University student Roy Wilson McCloskey.

In his appeal, McCloskey challenged the legality of the search of his dormitory room by state police and narcotics agents who let themselves in by use of the passkey obtained from the head resident of the dormitory.

Soviets Fear Artists Might Stay In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department analysts think the real reason the Russians cancelled an American tour of the Bolshoi Ballet and Opera is a fear its artists may defect.

The Soviets cited hostile acts by militant American "Zionist extremists" as the official justification for ruling out the tour scheduled for next May.

But officials said they noted the defection of famed ballerina Natalya Makarova and two other members of the Moscow troupe last year as a possible basis for the cancellation.

Meanwhile, the United States accused the Soviets of interfering with U.S. consular business in Moscow by turning away a Soviet Jew seeking American citizenship.

A note was delivered to Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov in Moscow which said Soviet police repeatedly prevented Leonid Rigerman from entering the U.S. Embassy.

State Department Press Officer John King said Rigerman claims his mother, who was born in Brooklyn, married his Russian-born father in the United States. The parents moved to the Soviet Union in 1931.

On three separate occasions, King said, Rigerman was prevented from entering the consular section of the embassy to discuss his application and was instead carted off to Moscow police headquarters.

WWII Prisoners Of War From Texas Interviewed

DENTON — History is trailing the Texas foot soldier of World War II. War memoirs of these soldiers are being recorded by Dr. Ron Marcellino, coordinator of the Oral History Collection at North Texas State University.

Dr. Marcellino believes that soldiers' war experiences should be combined with memoirs of generals, politicians and businessmen. He invites veterans of World War II to participate in the project and will make arrangements to travel to the veteran's hometown to tape an interview.

Typical of veterans he has interviewed thus far are Jack Moss, Vel Carter, George Killian and Joe Gear, all of Amarillo, who were prisoners of war of the Japanese in the South Pacific for almost 42 months.

"There were very bad camps and very good camps where some Japanese even showed some compassion for their prisoners," said Dr. Marcellino.

Moss, Carter and Killian were among the 70 per cent survivors of the famed "Lost Battalion" of Texas captured in Java.

Moss, Carter and Killian told of nearly dying from tropical diseases and injuries received in Japanese camps scattered throughout Java, Singapore and Burma. They said an average of three prisoners died each day from unhealthy conditions. At one time, Gear, thought dead, was put into a ship's hold with about 55 dead men.

Moss also was near death when he had the dreaded "death hiccup." Determined to live, he hobbled to another camp along with a group of prisoners, hoping that bathing in a nearby river would cleanse his open ulcers. He now believes he was saved by the sanitation of the water and by fish which ate the dead flesh covering the sores on his legs.

As for the prison camps, Moss said a Japanese soldier often pretended to beat him with a bamboo stick. The GIs already were thrashed to shreds from a first beating that was discontinued when another Japanese soldier grew weary of beating Moss.

The ex-prisoner also told of the night prisoners felt a cold slimy body crawl over them in their bunks. The next night they kept lanterns in reach to expose the intruder.

Late that night one man yelled, "He's in here now." Lanterns were lit, revealing a 20-foot python.

The prisoners ate python

Santa Mail Is Sent To North Pole

It happens every Christmas. Big Spring youngsters who write letters to Santa Claus and mail them forget that Santa is in town and will take personal requests.

Postmaster Frank Hardesty said that he gets the letters because the mail service to the North Pole is only when a letter arrives at the local post office that is addressed to Santa at the North Pole.

"We take all the letters out to the Howard County Airport and load them aboard the outgoing reindeer, so Santa will be sure to get them," he said.

Hardesty said he could deliver the letters to Santa while he is in town but that "Santa would think that no one cared enough to write him a letter at his North Pole home."

Santa told The Herald that he reads all the mail that is stacked at the North Pole before he begins his delivery of Christmas gifts.

"If I didn't I wouldn't know what all good little boys and girls wanted for Christmas," he said.

CHARLES STEWART

New Head For Fine Arts Commission

Charles A. Stewart, Brownwood, has been elected chairman of the Texas Fine Arts Commission, succeeding Theodore Strauss of Dallas, who submitted his resignation to Gov. Preston Smith this week. The new chairman was elected by unanimous vote of the membership following the Strauss resignation. He is chairman of the Division of Professional Studies at Howard Payne College. The state Commission is made up of 18 civic, cultural, and business leaders of the state. Appointed by the governor to six-year terms, the agency members are charged with developing and furthering the arts in the state with emphasis on quality. Since its inception, the commission has been active in supporting and funding musical organizations, ballet, art exhibits, and dramas, with emphasis on touring groups. The new chairman is a rancher, businessman, and exhibiting artist as well as an art professor. A native of Brownwood, he holds degrees from the University of Texas at Austin and Texas Christian University. He attended Centenary College of Louisiana, Daniel Baker College, Howard Payne College, and has done graduate work at Texas Technological University.

To Graduate

John Roland Downs, 3620 Connolly, is among the 45 University of Texas seniors who are candidates for bachelor's degrees from the College of Pharmacy at the end of the Fall semester Dec. 23.

Some West Texas Cotton Is Yet To Be Harvested

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Dry, open weather has permitted Texas farmers virtually to finish their harvest. But, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, rain is needed in every section of the state and the situation is critical in many areas. Grains and pastures are suffering and stock water supplies are becoming critical over widespread areas. Hutchison added, Drouth has curtailed grain grazing and dry forage on ranges is being supplemented by increased feeding all through the state, he said. Livestock are in fair to good condition and increased marketings are being noted, the director said. GINS SLOW District agents reported: Moisture is short in most Panhandle counties. Ranges are below average; livestock are being fed except on irrigated wheat pastures; and most are in good condition. Some blots is being reported in livestock on irrigated wheat. All harvests are complete. The South Plains (Lubbock) cotton harvest is about over. Some gins have completed work, others are fast catching up. Winds, warmth and drouth have damaged grains and wheat pastures are being irrigated. Livestock on wheat and stubble fields are generally in good condition.

Stock water is at the critical level in some areas. MOISTURE NEEDED Moisture is badly needed in all 22 Rolling Plains (Vernon) counties. Grains were poor to fair and providing little or no grazing. Ranges were poor to fair. Livestock are being fed and water is badly needed. Harvesting of cotton is about complete. It is very dry in Far West Texas and a general rain is needed. Days are warm and nights are cold. Some cotton is yet to be harvested. Otherwise crops are out. Livestock are generally in good condition and feeding is increasing. Ranges are generally good but very dry. Irrigated grains are providing good grazing and more cattle are now on these pastures than ever before. Good grains are being reported. It has been too warm for the best deer hunting and some meat has been lost. Soil all through West Central Texas is short to very short and the situation is becoming critical. The cotton harvest is about over and most dryland yields were around a half bale. Most pecans have not been harvested and sold for good prices. Yields were below average. In drier counties, grains are dying from the drouth and stock tanks are low. Range fires again are a real hazard. Livestock were listed in fair to good condition with feeding increasing. Marketing of fat cows and calves was brisk. Calving and lambing are on. WINTER WEEDS Drouth in Central Texas is becoming critical. Grazed down ranges are making little or no regrowth, ranges declined and stock tanks are low. All major crops are harvested. Feeding was a major activity. Rain is needed all through South Texas where some grains are dying. Harvesting of vegetables and citrus is active. The citrus market is weak. Ranges are average to below. All grass has been killed by frost and very few winter weeds are up. Stock water is low in some counties. Some decline in livestock prices was noted. Dry grass is a hazard.

Lunar Laser Experiment 'Unqualified Success'

FORT DAVIS, Tex. (AP) — The project scientist in charge of the lunar laser experiment being conducted at the University of Texas McDonald Observatory calls the project an "unqualified success." "Our breakthrough in date rates indicates we will be able to fulfill all of our original objectives," said Dr. Eric Silverberg, who heads a five-man team conducting round-the-clock sightings. The lunar ranging experiment was begun July, 1969, when Apollo 11 astronaut Neil Armstrong placed a reflector on the moon's surface. It took a month for astronomers to locate the 18x18-inch reflector. The project accelerated rapidly after that. "We have had 47 acquisitions (both visual and computer guided sightings) of the moon within the past two months," Silverberg said recently. "And those acquisitions have had an accuracy to about two feet—or a thousand times better than any measurements previous to the laser experiment." Silverberg said the project has a life expectancy of at least 10 more years. He predicted that Japan, France and the Soviet Union soon will join McDonald as routine observing stations. "To fulfill the objectives of individual experiments, we must all cooperate with one another," he said. The Soviet Union has just initiated its own lunar ranging program. According to Tass, the official Soviet news agency, a corner reflector was landed on the moon by their lunar vehicle last month. Apollo 14 astronauts will carry still another reflector when they descend on the moon next February. "Weather permitting, we will fire within four or five minutes after they put the reflector in place," Silverberg said. "The astronauts may even be able to see the ruby laser while they are on the moon."

TIA Asks Subsidy Pay

HOUSTON — Texas International Airlines, Inc. has petitioned the Civil Aeronautics Board for a 2 1/2 percent payment of emergency temporary subsidy mail pay in anticipation of a new higher class rate being investigated by the CAB. The advance would be used to meet immediate and pressing cash requirements, said Jack Ayer, senior vice president. The request allows a substantial margin to the Board to avoid any overpayment to Texas International. "Texas International," said Ayer, "is seeking a total of $683,000 per month effective August 1, 1970, and continuing forward until Class Rate V is made effective." Texas International suffered losses of $678,000 in September and $1,345,000 in October. Along with other airlines TIA experienced sharp and unexpected traffic declines in the autumn.

Winchell Plans To Pen Column

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Winchell is going to start writing a column again at the age of

73. The column will appear three times a week in the new Daily Mirror, which begins publication Jan. 4. Winchell wrote a Broadway column for 38 years for the old

New York Mirror, which folded in 1963.

Robert W. Farrell, publisher of the new Mirror, announced at a news conference Thursday he had persuaded Winchell to sell his home in Phoenix and return to New York to produce the new column.

It's Teaching For Bill Cosby

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Bill Cosby says he is going to give up his television show and go into school teaching, a long-held ambition.

In order to prepare for his new profession, he said Friday at the taping of a David Frost show for Jan. 4, he will enter the University of Massachusetts at Springfield and study for his master's degree.

Cosby, 32, said school teaching had been his goal since he was 20, but first Navy service and then the need to make money stood in the way.

He said he would continue to make television appearances after ending his show—"I will work to pay the rent, but my real work is education."

Kin Of Winston Selected Queen

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Arabella Churchill, 21-year-old granddaughter of the late Sir Winston Churchill, has been named queen of the 18th International Azalea Festival April 20-25.

Miss Churchill, blue-eyed, blonde daughter of Randolph and June Churchill, plans to follow her five-day festival reign with a lecture tour of the United States.

A Sociable Season

December is traditionally a time of social gatherings, and as the year draws to a close, many clubs and private groups are holding parties or dances to celebrate the holiday season. Bright colors, festive decorations and fashionable attire add to the sparkle of the events as friends wish one another a happy and joyous season.

Couple Recites Vows In Home Ceremony

Miss Elaine Lancaster and Sgt. Randy D. Fleet exchanged wedding vows during a double ceremony held at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lancaster, 808 Scurry. The nuptial service was conducted by the Rev. Eldon Cook.

Miss Lancaster's bridal attire was a white knit costume featuring a gold-buttoned knit vest and light blue blouse tied softly at the neckline. Her chosen colors were blue and white, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations tied with blue streamers.

Miss Debbie Campbell attended the bride as maid of honor, wearing an A-line blue dress with gold accents. Richard Fleet of Gilmer, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

The bride attended Big Spring High School where she was a member of the Future Homemakers of America. Sgt. Fleet graduated from East Mountain High School in Gilmer and is presently stationed with the Air Force at Webb Air Force Base.

After a wedding trip to Gilmer, the couple will reside at 1017 Johnson, Apt. A.

The newlyweds were honored at a reception in the home where Miss Jane Lancaster, sister of the bride, registered guests. Assisting in the house party were another sister, Mrs. Bruce Jaeger, Miss Mildred Doser and Miss Patricia Marks.

Attending from out-of-town were the bridegroom's parents and brothers, Richard Fleet and Roy Fleet, all of Gilmer.

Refreshments were served from a table laid with a white cloth bordered with blue and white ribbons.

PANTRY PICK-UPS

Next time you are broiling chicken, try basting it with melted butter to which you have added crushed rosemary. Crushing the herb helps to release flavor.

To keep down the foam when cooking dried beans, add a tablespoon of butter, margarine or salad (not olive) oil for each cup of the beans.

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

It's going to have to get a little colder if the weather is going to make us feel "It's Beginning to Feel A Lot Like Christmas". The 80 reading on Thursday was overcome by a little cool snap on Friday morning but then out came the sun and it was warm again. . . but not so warm that people couldn't enjoy getting out to Christmas shop. I believe that most of the shoppers are getting more visiting done than buying, that is, they are enjoying visiting more because more of their friends seem to be in town or at the shopping centers than they ever have a chance to call on.

The EDWIN BALLARDS are taking their little week-long pre-Christmas trip. Each year they take off for somewhere, not too far away, for a little vacation. This year they plan to be in Southeast Texas.

Visitors in the Ballard home Thursday were their longtime friends, MR. and MRS. DAN O'NEAL of Odessa.

Christmas lights are going up all over town and they are prettier than ever. Highland South appears to be going to have a red Christmas instead of a white one. From the outlying areas, the red lights seem more predominate. The ALBERT HOHERTZ have a pretty lighted spot that features the full-berried pyracantha at their home on Parkway. Also take a look at the attractively lighted fence at the end of Parkway just off Wasson Road.

JOHN B. HARRISON JR. is here for the month of December with his parents, MR. and MRS. J. B. (Pete) HARRISON of Sands Springs. Harrison is a buyer of men's wear for Bloomingdale's and has been working out of Dallas. After Jan. 1 he will be headquartered in New York City.

NEAL GLENN BARNABY III, arrived on Dec. 9 in New Orleans, La., according to word received from his parents, MR. and MRS. NEAL BARNABY JR. by the grandparents, LT. CMDR. (Ret.) and MRS. NEAL BARNABY. He arrived at 4:07 a.m. and weighed 7 pounds 6 ounces.

MRS. HARRY G. GRIFFITH is expected to arrive the first of the week from Gulfport, Miss., for a stay of several months in the home of the NEAL BARNABYS. The Griffith children have been here several months while their mother recuperated from back surgery. The family will return to Gulfport in February when their husband and father returns.

Woman's Forum Has Christmas Luncheon

Christmas music by three Big Spring High School students was the program for The Woman's Forum Friday when members gathered for a luncheon meeting at the home of Mrs. Clyde Thomas Jr.

Brenda Kay Thomas accompanied Brad Cedarberg and Keith Graumann who sang "Little Drummer Boy," "Silver Bells," "White Christmas" and "Silent Night," the latter with all the club members joining.

Other hostesses were Mrs. Omar Jones, Mrs. Charles Harwell, Mrs. Lonnie Coker and Mrs. John Knox.

The buffet table was covered with a white cloth with candle and holly trim. The centerpiece was a dried arrangement of artichoke blooms and eucalyptus leaves. Guests were seated at foursome tables that were covered with cloths that matched the buffet cloth and from an overseas assignment.

Had a short telephone visit with EARL EZZELL who said his sister-in-law, MRS. SHINE PHILLIPS, will probably be in the Miami, Fla., hospital for two weeks. She underwent surgery on a hip after she sustained a fracture in a fall a week ago. Mrs. Ezzell is in Miami with her.

Even if the fashion designers do give up and do away with the midis, I don't think the women are going to give up the pleasure of wearing their pretty pants suits wherever they want to wear them. At a number of Christmas parties there are always some guests who have them on. At the dessert bridge hosted by MRS. VERNON SWAFFORD and MRS. GARNER McADAMS last week there were several with attractive outfits and a number of mothers wore them to the Boy Scout area banquet Thursday night. At The Woman's Forum meeting Friday the suits were worn as they were at the LARSON LLOYDS' open house Friday night. It doesn't matter what type party it is, the suits seem to suit.

An announcement of great interest to a number of Big Spring people (especially me) is that of the arrival of PAMELA ANN RIX. She was born to MR. and MRS. LEWIS RIX JR., in Fort Worth on Nov. 30 and weighed 4 pounds, 4 ounces at birth. The Rix address is 1408 Weiler Blvd., No. 24, Ft. Worth, Texas 76112.

MR. and MRS. BART HENSON are the parents of a

Plays For Music Club

Miss Helen Ewing played a flute solo of Harold Rohlig's "A Little Shepherd Music" at Wednesday's meeting of the Big Spring Music Club, hosted by Mrs. Rene Brown, 3 Highland Heather.

The program also featured Mrs. Michael Skalicky with an organ solo of D'Aquin's "Noel", and the Howard County Junior College Choir with a selection of Christmas music. The choir, directed by Ralph Dowden, sang "O Magnum Mysterium", "To Us A Child Is Born," "The Holy Infant's Lullaby" and three shepherd carols, accompanied by Mrs. Skalicky.

Hostesses for the Jan. 13 meeting are Mrs. Charles Bell, Mrs. Joseph Dawes and Mrs. Tom Eastland.

Gifts were exchanged following the business meeting when plans were completed for assisting at the Big Spring State Hospital party Dec. 17. Those planning to help at the hospital are Mrs. W. N. Norred, Mrs. Cecil McDonald, Mrs. Clyde Johnston and Mrs. Paul Klonka. Other club members will provide cakes.

Mrs. T. H. McCann and Mrs. Arnold Marshall will be the club representatives at the Westside Community Center on each Tuesday during January to assist Mrs. Don Wiley in handicraft for the children. It was announced that the club had purchased materials for use at the center.

Forget Hemlines! Excitement Switches To New Style Ideas

By MILDRED WHITEAKER
Harte-Hanks News Service

NEW YORK — You only have to walk down Fifth Avenue to see that longer skirts are here. This doesn't mean that every woman is wearing a midi. It does mean that more knees are covered than showing — whether the coverage is via long skirts, just-below-knee skirts or pants. And the pants are usually teamed with mid-calf or longer coats. Knees are beginning to look past tense. Like the 1960s.

Although it may be some time before longer hemlines are as prevalent on the streets of Texas cities as Manhattan, they're coming. Frankly, I don't think you're going to mind — nor will the men — once the eye adjusts. The added length can be both elegant and appealing now that designers are learning to cope with the new silhouettes and make dresses that are flattering rather than aging and dowdy.

The "liberated woman" has a wide hemline scope from which to choose and still feel "with it" — anywhere from knee-covering to just above the ankle.

Capes offer one sassy way to get "with it." They're flying all over the streets of New York as well as down the runways of this now-ended National Fashion Press Week.

Reviewing the week and trying to bring the many facets of spring into focus, I keep separating the clothes into two "schools." There are the good-looking, ladylike — "establishment" fashions exemplified by such designers as Adele Simpson and Jerry Silverman. Chic, but never "way out." And there are the ankle-length shirts, the skinny tuck-in shirts, the wide contour belts, the sensuous little body knit dresses, the bared midriffs and the "muskeeter" capes — all spelling youth and fun — from such rising stars as Papillon and Halston.

"Soft" is the common denominator of all the collections. There isn't a stiff fabric in any of them. Fluid fabrics and belted waistlines make it more imperative than ever a woman's figure to be "in shape."

The big story for spring is the return of the dress. So few flattering midi dresses were available for fall that women who welcomed the longer lengths settled for separates. Now the "bugs" are out, dresses are blossoming, and "pretty" is again the fashion vocabulary.

True, many of the dresses look as though they were meant for garden parties and afternoon teas. How many women lead that kind of life remains to be seen.

The dress and jacket ensemble is also back, a favorite combo which got side-tracked during the mini regime.

"Do you realize," asked the exuberant Jerry Silverman, "that a lot of women haven't bought a spring dress for two years? What a chance for them to get excited about fashion again!"

In contrast to the garden party dresses are all sorts of separates to spice a sportive wardrobe — shirts that are laced, slit buttoned or wrapped and pants that go to varied lengths. Newest are the short-shorts, often referred to as "hot pants," and meant to replace the miniskirt, say designers.

Now that hemlines are "settling down," pantsuits are less prevalent. They are assuming a classic role. Not so classic, however, is the increasing number of knicker suits.

Color is another spring signature from coolshades like larkspur, banana and procelain pink to bright reds and greens. Purple is a front runner in every hue from mauve to royal. Several designers are using three to four wide horizontal bands of color in one ensemble. A slinky, long-sleeved, ankle dress from Jacques Tiffeau has a tomato red torso and a skirt of blue, brown and peach.

Black, white, navy and red are important alone or in varied combinations. Prints light up the new season from Oriental motifs to florals to geometrics.

The ethnic look continues, but these costume influences are not so prevalent as for fall.

There's something for everybody. The sooner we get over the hangups about hemlines, the sooner we have fun with fashion.

Evening clothes are deliciously feminine or sexy or both. Chiffons swirl with handkerchief-pointed hemlines, printed silk organzas are flounced and ruffled, and sensuous bias crepes are teamed with shawls and capes. The sleeveless gown with X-strapping across the bared back (reminiscent of the movie queens of the 30s) is playing a return engagement. And Bill Blass gives black lace star billing.

Underscoring these evening clothes are delicate ankle-strap slippers with lacings which often tie all the way up the leg like a ballerina. Spring shoes are more feminine (the clippy types are disappearing). Hosiery is sheer, either color matched to the shoe or dress or in your favorite "stocking" shade.

Among the many other highlights are a deluge of denim — border prints — Cartwheel-brimmed hats, sleeveless coats over long-sleeved dresses embroidered decor — the emergence of the heart as the spring symbol replacing the butterfly of fall.

There's something for everybody. The sooner we get over the hang-ups about hemlines, the sooner we have fun with fashion.

1941 Club Hears Talk On 'Truth'

"Unchanging Truth in a Changing World" was the topic of a Christmas program given by the Rev. James Renfro of Payne Baptist Church when he spoke Thursday to the 1941 Study Club of Coahoma. The group met in the home of Mrs. Rodney Tiller, where Rev. Renfro was introduced by his wife.

Johnson, vocalist, and Miss Ann Crawford, pianist, were heard in "Little Drummer Boy" and "Do You See What I See?" after which they led the group in singing carols. Miss Brenda Hightower was also a guest.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a holiday cloth and centered with an arrangement of candles and greenery.

Christmas Music Programs Given By School Students

Students in local elementary schools presented Christmas programs again this year at the December meetings of Parent-Teacher Association units.

COLLEGE HEIGHTS — Mrs. Maurice Koger's sixth grade class presented a program of Christmas music entitled "And All the Bells on Earth Shall Ring" at Thursday's meeting of the PTA. The students were directed by Mrs. Curtis Compton, and introduced by Mrs. Charlie Shanks, program chairman.

The devotion was brought by Mrs. James Puckett who read the Biblical Christmas story.

Mrs. Cleve Butler, a delegate to the PTA state convention in Galveston, reported on convention business, and Mrs. Harlan Hill discussed the agenda of the PTA city council meeting.

Jim Beam, principal, said the canned food drive for the Salvation Army baskets for needy families will be held from now until Wednesday. School will be dismissed for the holidays at 2:45, Dec. 22 and will resume Jan. 4.

Room count won by Mrs. Koger's sixth grade class. Refreshments were served by Mrs. W. A. Moore, hospitality chairman. The next meeting will be for a "Father's Night" program at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 11.

AIRPORT SCHOOL — The annual PTA Christmas program at Airport School was presented by the sixth grade classes under the direction of Mrs. Jan Stevenson. The program, given in song and scripture, was entitled "The Real Meaning of Christmas."

Students, gowned in red and green, gave a choral background to the reading of "The First Christmas," after which the audience joined in singing carols. Mrs. Stevenson was presented a gift of appreciation for her work on the program.

Mrs. Richard Smith presided, with Mrs. J. L. Rankin bringing the devotion. Mrs. Richard Grove reported on the PTA city council meeting, and members were reminded to bring canned goods for the Salvation Army food drive.

Candies and fruit for the Christmas parties will be sacked at 1:30 p.m., Dec. 21, and volunteer workers are needed.

Mrs. Rankin's sixth grade won the room count, and refreshments were served.

KENTWOOD SCHOOL — Students presented a musical program Tuesday for the Kentwood Parent Teacher Association, after an invocation by Rev. Kenneth Patrick.

Fourth grade students sang "It Must Be Santa" and "Mary's Boy Child," while fifth graders presented "Silver Bells" and "Do You See What I See?" with a solo by Jim Aldrich. The sixth grade group was heard in "Little Shepherd Boy," accompanied by Mrs. Raymond Stevenson on the autoharp.

Jimmy Holmes, principal, announced that the first through third grade students will present a musical program at 2 p.m., Dec. 18 for their parents.

A note of appreciation was read from Mrs. Roy Webb, a PTA officer, who is hospitalized in Lubbock.

The room count was won by Mrs. Troy Allgood, and refreshments were served by mothers of students in the fourth grade classes of Mrs. Ray Nichols and Mrs. Allgood. The next meeting will be at 3:45 p.m., Jan. 12.

CEDAR CREST — The fourth, fifth and sixth grades of Cedar Crest School, directed by Miss M. Kathleen Woods, presented a Christmas program to the PTA meeting Thursday. Mrs. Iver Spencer, president, presided and Mrs. Joseph Saint gave the devotion.

Individual rooms will have Christmas parties at 2 p.m., Dec. 22. Tom Henry, principal, discussed the free lunch program. The room attendance count was won by Mrs. Virgil Perkin's fourth grade. The next meeting is Feb. 11, 7:30 p.m., at the school.

BOYSTUN SCHOOL — A piano and song presentation of "Christmas 1970," directed by Mrs. Curtis Compton, was the program given by the sixth grade students at the Boydstun Parent Teacher Association meeting Thursday.

The room count was won by Mrs. H. W. McCannless, while new membership prizes went to Mrs. McCannless, Mrs. Thel Watts and Miss Audry Arnold.

The devotion was given by Mrs. Watts. Each room will receive five dollars to help with Christmas party expenses. The next meeting is Jan. 14, 7:30 p.m. at the school.

GAY HILL SCHOOL — Don Sweeney directed Mrs. George Archer's fifth and sixth grade classes in a choral reading of Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol" for the Gay Hill Parent Teacher Association meeting Tuesday night.

Mrs. Sherry Blalack gave the devotion and Dell McGuire led the prayer. Project chairmen appointed by president Ross Westbrook, were J. M. Wilson, Mrs. James Ellison and Mrs. Regis Fleckenstein.

Mrs. Archer announced that school will dismiss for Christmas on Dec. 22. Refreshments were served by Mrs. O. R. Crow, Mrs. Royce Walker, Mrs. Howard Awtry and Mrs. W. A. Bynum. The room attendance count was won by the fifth and sixth grades.

The next meeting is Jan. 12, 7:30 p.m. at the school.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Graumann, 1903 Nolan, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Ann, to Capt. James H. Swisher of Webb Air Force Base, son of Dr. and Mrs. Forrest M. Swisher of Alexandria, Va. The couple is planning a Feb. 14 wedding in St. Paul Lutheran Church.

Quilt A Spread — Admittedly, it's a good winter's project to quilt a spread, make a slipcover and create a window treatment. But once it's made, you're home free. No dry-cleaning bills, no ironing — just seasonal whirls through the washer and plenty of time to relax and enjoy your handiwork.

Altrusans Get Report On District Meeting

Mrs. Willard Hendrick reported on the District conference held in Abilene at Thursday's meeting of the Altrusa Club at Coker's Restaurant.

"The conference was a combination of informality, elegance, information and friendship — all in western style," said Mrs. Hendrick. A constitutional revision approved at the conference allows that new members joining between Jan. 1 and April 30 pay dues for only half a year.

In other conference business, perfect attendance in local club meetings was urged, and members were reminded that if they miss a meeting it can be made up by attending a meeting of a neighboring club. Mrs. Hendrick was appointed to serve on the district vocational service committee for 1971-1972.

Mrs. Loyd Wooten, president, announced that four members have perfect attendance of this year. They are Mrs. A. C. Bass, Mrs. Ruby Billings, Mrs. W. H. Kay and Mrs. Willard Sullivan.

The club will meet for its Christmas party at the Big Spring Country Club Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Houston Cowden was made chairman of a committee to assist at the party.

Petty, and Mr. and Mrs. Hendrick. The next regular meeting is Jan. 14, at 12 noon, at Coker's Restaurant.

Retarded children aged 12 through 17 participated in a workshop at the Big Spring State Hospital Dec. 5 sponsored by the Howard County Association for Retarded Children.

In the afternoon the children divided into three groups. Mrs. Doyle Conway demonstrated easy to make Christmas decorations. Mrs. Venora Williams showed arts and crafts for all year and how to make them, and Mrs. Harold Bell helped the children make yule logs.

A short educational program, "Success Tips on How to Apply for a Job," was presented by Mrs. Sheppard.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Elmer Seitzler, Mrs. John Papskar and Mrs. Sue Ratliff.

Fibs About Wigs

The theory that wigwearing causes hair to fall out is not true. Few are the women, who wear a wig all day every day unless, of course, they have a problem of little hair of their own. Women do not go to bed in a wig, any more than they go to bed in a hat.

The next FSA meeting will be held Jan. 18, and thereafter, the chapter will meet on the second Tuesday of each month.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:
One of your readers recently asked how to launder a long-line bra with stays. She was advised to soak it and use a soft brush. Heloise, I'm ashamed of you!
I've worn a snow white long-line back corset with stays for fifteen years, and I owe it all to none other than your famous nylon net balls.
A bit of soaking and slight massage with one of these "gems" does wonders. Try it!

Shug, you are as right as rain when the drouth comes. Look who forgot nylon net ... little ol' me, that's who!

Dear Heloise:
Today it took me only an hour to prepare six quarts of bread dressing and cut up my celery and carrot sticks for dinner.
I used my electric knife to cube the bread and dice the celery and onion.
Leave the celery intact, starting to slice at the top, and continue to the end. The whole bunch was cut in seconds!
And to think for three years I've used my electric knife only to slice meat and bread ... Betty Johnson

'Thanks To Big Spring!' Say Letters Sent From Vietnam

The reaction to the first shipment of cookies and candy by the Wives and Mothers of Vietnam Servicemen Club has been prompt and warming.

The new organization here sent its first shipment after an all-day baking Nov. 16, and already letters of appreciation are pouring in, according to Mrs. Harvey Hooser, president.

Robert Carlile and the men of HF platoon sent a Christmas card, scrawling across it: "We enjoyed the candy and cookies very much." SFC Robert C. Hollowell of the 12th Evac Hospital sent a copy of his annual Christmas letter, with a personal note attached to say "it was a very thoughtful gesture."

"Everything is very tasty . . . a change of pace from the baked goods we get here," wrote S.Sgt. Robert J. Vander Zalm. "I cannot express my appreciation to the merchants and residents of the Big Spring area . . . it means just a little more when we know that we aren't totally forgotten by those back home."

1st Lt. William S. McClure, USAF, wrote that the packages arrived on Thanksgiving Day and that they gave the men a great psychological lift "and helped them feel that you in the States are interested and concerned."

"GOD BLESS"

"It means a great deal to the servicemen in Vietnam to know there are still Americans left in America . . . God bless the people of Big Spring," wrote Sgt. David J. Nordenstrom.

"The contents were delicious but the thought behind the package was the most important part of all," said Sp. 4 Preston McNeese. "I would like to thank the wonderful merchants and people of Big Spring. I hope my small part of the duty involved in the Vietnam conflict will help in future freedom and happiness of our great nation."

Said David R. Burns of an

Make It Yourself

Do you dream of a bedroom that's easy to keep picture-book pretty, in spite of kids, pets, city soot and normal wear and tear? It's easy — sew it yourself of easy-care fabrics that can be machine-washed, tumble-dried and whipped back into service the same day.

MRS. HARVEY HOOSER WITH SERVICEMEN'S LETTERS
Warm response for gifts of cookies and candy infantry division: "The packages make life more bearable. I wish I could meet each lady personally in Big Spring." "May you have a Christ-filled Christmas," said Chaplain (Maj.) Darrell E. Hall, in thanking "you one and all for this most thoughtful expression of Christian love." The first shipment consisted of 86 packages. Many were addressed to individuals whose names and addresses were supplied to the club, but blocks of 10 were sent to chaplains for distribution to men who might be overlooked. This month the club hopes to send at least 100 packages.

NEED HELP
There are a few hitches, and foremost is the postage bill. They are sent airmail and cost $1.80 each for postage. Money put in can containers in business houses, plus proceeds from a bake sale helped foot the bill in November.

Each package contains a letter listing the names of the merchants who contribute supplies, and a brief message to the serviceman. They consist of two one pound coffee cans (joined together) and securely wrapped and taped to prevent damage. Sometimes, there is a shortage of empty cans.

Membership is open to any wife or mother of a Vietnam serviceman or anyone interested in helping. Those who can assist by working, or by giving money for postage, or by donating coffee cans are asked to call Mrs. Hooser after 5 p.m. at 263-8148; Mrs. Fern Lewis at 263-4756, or Mrs. Carol Cumbo at 263-8258.

Memorial Donated To Cheer Fund

A memorial has been sent to the Christmas Cheer Fund by the Past Matrons, Chapter 67, Order of Eastern Star, in memory of Mrs. Flo Berger who died Nov. 18 in Denver, Colo. Mrs. Berger is the sister of Mrs. R. D. Ulrey, a Past Matron member.

The club held its annual Christmas party in the Downtown Tea Room Tuesday. Hostesses were Mrs. Paul Carroll, Mrs. Dalton Mitchell and Mrs. Lois Peters. The invocation was given by Mrs. Ulrey.

The women exchanged gifts from a Christmas tree, and cards were sent to the sick and shut-in members. Mrs. Carl McGlothlin presided at the business meeting. New officers will be elected at the January meeting.

Mrs. Ulrey, Mrs. G. W. Hall and Mrs. G. C. Graves were appointed to the visiting committee. The birthday song was sung to Mrs. G. W. Dabney, Mrs. Isla Davis, Mrs. Irene Stringfellow, Mrs. Rogers Heffley, and Mrs. Joe Hayden.

Hostesses for the January meeting will be Mrs. E. C. Boatler, Mrs. Edith Murdoch and Mrs. Glenn Cantrell.

Mending Tears

To mend a small tear in upholstery, cut a piece of adhesive tape a little longer and wider than the tear itself. Insert the tape behind the tear and gently pull the torn pieces into place. Press with a warm iron to cause fabric and tape to adhere.

Yuletide Spirits Spread Through Halls Of Hospital

By STEPHEN R. VORHIS

Volunteer workers at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, who put in many long hours during the year, seem to work extra hard during the Christmas season.

The volunteers say they are simply trying to bring a little cheer to the patients who cannot go home for the holidays.

Among activities last week at the hospital were the distribution of Christmas cards, a special gift shop for hospital patients and an electric organ that was wheeled from ward to ward playing the patients' favorite songs and carols.

The Christmas card distribution is sponsored by the Norcross Card Co., the Breckenridge chapter of the American Red Cross and area Red Cross volunteer workers.

A patient selects cards to send to his friends and loved ones and they are signed, addressed and mailed by the volunteer workers with no cost to the patients.

The Christmas gift shop is sponsored by area American Legion chapters and has been a yearly project in the local hospital since 1950.

American Legion Auxiliary members contact local merchants and arrange to have them donate new merchandise which is displayed. Patients are invited to browse through the gift shop or the volunteers bring a selection of items to his bed. The patient is invited to choose gifts for his family which are then gift wrapped, wrapped for mailing and mailed. There is no charge to the patient.

This year 55 volunteer workers spent a total of 628 hours helping 161 patients select gifts. The gifts were donated by 31 organizations or individuals and were valued at $3,500.

One favorite feature of many patients is the organ music of Clyde Green, of the White Music Co. The organ was formerly in the hospital's chapel but is now on wheels and is moved from ward to ward so patients can hear the music they like.

The organ music has been so successful that it will be continued on Thursday afternoons throughout the year, Leon Miller, volunteer coordinator for the hospital, said.

One special feature this Christmas is the art work of a patient, Ruben Juarez told the nurses that if they could get him some paint he would decorate the doors of the hospital's surgical ward. They pitched in and bought the paint and everybody was satisfied with the new Christmas look for surgery.

Don't Crowd The Spirit Out

This is the season of the year when things get hectic instead of reflective. Clubs and organizations feel compelled to have parties or dinners, churches have special programs, offices have Yuletide parties, and open houses abound, and shopping becomes a chore.

Getting caught up in all of this, one may come to Christmas Day with a sense of relief that it is all over rather than with a sense of having captured the spirit of the season.

There are ways to avoid the crush of all the tinsel which has fastened itself on Christmas time. One is to just refuse to be caught up in the whirlwind, but for most people this seems to involve an anti-social attitude. Another is to refuse to let the important things be crowded out — to keep one's eye and mind on what Christmas is really all about, and to make it a season of worship.

Still another way is to be a do-er of Christmas rather than a go-er. On every hand there are people who need our help, and while they probably need it all year long, it is commendable to see that they are not forgotten at Christmas. In this respect, the Salvation Army needs your help, first of all as one who supports the Christmas project with his money; secondly as one who is willing to donate time and ring the bells at the kettles sprinkled over town.

Then there is the Christmas Cheer fund which underwrites the expenses of materials and supplies used by city firemen to repair and refurbish toys (plus meeting emergency needs of drugs, milk, etc. all during the year).

There also are the special offerings of the churches for missions — whether to reach across the sea or across the street to help someone. And there are the carollers and the choirs, and most of all services which remind us of the supreme and incomparable example of a Gift.

Exit The Containers

City commissioners have called off plans for beginning semi-mechanization of garbage collection through use of special containers.

Pettition asking that a vote be called on a $50,000 bond issue to finance the project checked out to 1,087 valid signatures, more than enough to require an election. Ordinarily that response to a bond petition would be considered vigorous support, but in this case the petitioners were asking for the bond vote as an alternative to issuing warrants, and this was the way they could vote against the proposal.

The point is well taken. The project had stirred an undiminished block of resistance. Whether it was soundly based depends on one's point of view, but anytime a program draws more than a thousand protesting voices, it must be conceded that it hasn't been explained to the point of satisfying constituents.

Well, that's that, but perhaps the episode can be chalked up as valuable experience.

The Time Nobody Laughed

WASHINGTON — The last person to laugh in the United States was Robert Ketchum on Monday, Aug. 3, 1978. There was no law passed to prevent people from laughing; they just quit voluntarily.

No one knows exactly when people gave up laughing in America. The Republicans claimed it was during the Johnson Administration, and the Democrats said it happened during President Nixon's term in office. Putnam Toyne, who in 1984 wrote "The Definitive History of the '70s," claims the first culture group to give up laughing was students.

"THERE'S NOTHING to laugh about," they said to each other in despair. "Everything is rotten. The government, the establishment, the system and life itself. We're doomed to a plastic existence, and we'll be damned if we're going to laugh about it."

Toyne points out that anything youth did in the United States was eventually picked up by the adult population, and when young people stopped laughing, older people started to emulate them.

Scowling became very fashionable in the "with it" crowd. Articles began appearing in the chic magazines that laughter was out. Pretty soon the word had filtered to the hinterlands that anyone who laughed about anything was a fool or a knave.

ADVERTISERS, sensitive to the mood of the consumer, canceled all comedy shows on television; the networks put out memos ordering all laughter beeped from their programs, and newspapers dropped any stories or comic strips which might produce a chuckle for the reader.

Toyne says in his book that it was difficult for a certain segment of society to give up laughing, but these people did it privately in their homes, where no one could see them.

A group of friends would get together, send the children off for the night with relatives, and then laugh for two or three hours amongst themselves.

THERE WERE CERTAIN key clubs where people could go to hear a comedian or see a funny motion picture from the past. But as the older generation started dying out the clubs went bankrupt, as there were no young laughers to take their place.

To make sure that people wouldn't go back to their old ways, Washington raised taxes, passed outrageous laws, told of international threats and gave out grim economic reports. Life indeed presented a dismal picture.

TOYNEE CLAIMS the last person in the United States known to have laughed in public was Robert Ketchum, who lived in Salem, Mass.

Ketchum was standing on a street corner when a friend of his, Adolph Green, walked by and slid on a banana peel. Before he realized what he was doing, Ketchum burst into laughter.

AN ANGRY CROWD gathered and grabbed Ketchum and dragged him to the center of the square where they tied him to a post, three branches from trees at his feet and burned him at the stake. All three networks covered the event, and the lesson was not lost on the populace. Toyneee feels it will be some time before anyone laughs in public in the United States again.

What Others Say

A preliminary report by a White House commission says there are deep-seated weaknesses in the United Nations. The report, written by Henry Cabot Lodge, former U.S. chief delegate, proposes that efforts be made to strengthen the organization in peace-keeping, narcotics control, environmental protection and discouragement of aerial piracy. The final report is expected in April.

The discovery of deep-seated weaknesses is not new. To some people it was obvious from the beginning that the organization would be unable to act when, as Mr. Lodge writes in his report, "the interests of the super powers clash."

Giving the United Nations more authority and more muscle in peace-keeping will not alter the fact that it cannot act when the interests of the super powers clash.

Perhaps too much has been expected of the United Nations. If it could be realized all around that the weakness Mr. Lodge mentions exists, will continue to exist, there might be a better chance of using the United Nations for what it can do.

President Inches Toward Guidelines

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon moved a little closer toward wage and price guidelines this week as officials increasingly urged the administration to adopt some sort of income policy to deal with wage and price increases.

Highlighting the escalating demands for further wage increases was an 18-hour strike by four railroad unions demanding pay increases. It was called off Thursday night. The last of the four unions to hold out, the clerks' union, fell into line as the workers returned to their jobs under a bill passed by Congress early Thursday morning.

The bill called for the workers to postpone the strike until March 1 and provided a 13.5 per cent wage increase retroactive to Jan. 1, 1970.

Nixon criticized the congressional bill because it called for sharp increases in wages without stipulating corresponding increases in productivity.

Nixon called productivity the "balancing portion" needed to "cut back the inflationary effect of the pay increases."

The rail unions are asking, among other things, for pay increases of between 40 and 45 per cent over three years.

In a news conference Thursday night Nixon addressed himself further to the economic situation. He said it was now proper for him to urge labor and management to restrain their price increases and their wage demands.

He also predicted that unemployment for the year would come out at 4.9 per cent, a lower rate, he said, than any peacetime year in the 60s. Such a figure would additionally imply a jobless rate of 4.8 per cent in December.

Administration economists, however, said they could not figure out what Nixon was basing this implicit prediction.

Meanwhile, observers noted that some sort of accord seems to have been reached between President Nixon and Dr. Arthur Burns, Federal Reserve Board chairman, on the issues of an incomes policy and the rate of expenditure in the nation's money supply.

The President has been urging the Federal Reserve Board to feed money into the economy more rapidly to bring down unemployment. At the same time, Burns has been calling for the President to pursue an incomes policy strong enough to curb cost-push inflation as a necessary adjunct to a more expansionary monetary policy.

In a speech last week, Nixon indicated he was moving toward what Burns later called a "market oriented" incomes policy, with the oil and construction industries criticized first. He also called for an expansionary money supply policy from the Federal Reserve Board and said, "I have been assured by Dr. Arthur Burns that the independent Federal Reserve System will provide fully for increasing monetary needs of the economy."

Former Federal Reserve Board Chairman, William McChesney Martin, also criticized the Nixon administration for failing to halt inflation and said it hadn't even gotten to "first base" in terms of the wage-increases problem. He also suggested the administration adopt wage and price guidelines to combat inflation, but said he was opposed to direct controls.

Meanwhile, the Labor Department reported last week the jobless rate rose to a 7 1/2 year high in November. Seasonally adjusted, last month's unemployment rate was 5.8 per cent up from October's 5.6 per cent and was the highest since May, 1963, when it was 5.9 per cent.

The administration recently has moved back the time it expects a turnaround in the employment situation. It had predicted a reversal in the upward trend by the end of the year, but now it is predicting this won't occur until sometime next year.

The Labor Department also reported a decline of 1 per cent in the wholesale price index. But the index of wholesale prices of industrial commodities, regarded by most economists as a more basic measure of inflationary pressures, was unchanged. Still, this was the first month the industrial index had not risen on a seasonally adjusted basis since November, 1968, the Labor Department added.

Congress also took several significant actions this week, including Senate approval of legislation to insure investors against losses of cash and securities in the event of brokerage house failures.

The Senate tacked several amendments onto the House version of the bill, including a reduction of the $50,000 protection ceiling to $20,000 and took a number of other steps to require sounder financial behavior by brokers.

The House and Senate conference committee also agreed on a compromise allocation of $210 million for the supersonic transport, the SST. The committee's recommendation now goes back to the House where it is assured of passage. In the Senate, however, it is threatened by a filibuster from opponents of the project who last week led the drive that defeated the $290 million appropriation request.

KEY TO INCREASES

- Nixon says productivity increase key to wage gains
- Criticizes rail bill because it did not fit his requisites
- Unemployment climbs, but President predicts lower rate
- Sluggishness of economy causes turn-around timetable delay
- SST compromise indicated, textiles only sacrosanct import

Around The Rim

Sales Clerks' Feet Hurt, Too

These are the days of woe and sighing. Trying to complete our Christmas buying.

Those are words from an old holiday madrigal, but it must be reported that a comprehensive study, conducted by my own staff of impartial experts, reveals that if you can't finish up your gift chores, it's nobody's fault but your own.

There is a sufficiency of selection to provide for everybody from your Uncle Herbert who, you hope, will remember you in his will, down to Tiny Tim.

BUT THE MAIN point of today's treatise is that if you can't find what you want, there are accommodating clerks who will assist you.

Matter of fact, shoppers ought to appreciate salespeople in the commercial stores more than they do.

Clerks are human, too. Their feet hurt toward the end of the business day, and chances are that they have either sick children or are fighting off a snuffling cold themselves.

DESPITE their own share of problems, they must maintain a pleasant posture in the face of some weird and exorbitant demands. They must be psychologists of a sort, to know how to treat those many individuals who appear in such variety. They must have the patience of Job, the sunny outlook of a Pollyanna, and the constitution of a draft horse.

THEY ARE expected to know your name, your address and probably your credit card number, even if you haven't been in the place since last Christmas. They are expected to explain, as to a child, that gift wrapping and postage cost money. They are taken to be incompetent if they don't know all your sizes. If they let you browse, they are being neglectful; if they offer their services, they are being too pushy.

SALES PERSONS, though, are wise to the general traits of people, and I suppose even expect some sort of abuse during the busy sales season. Some things they know:

1. The man of the house (who probably won't appear until the afternoon of Dec. 24) will have not the faintest idea of what to buy for his wife. It takes a bit of doing (although a clerk is supposed to know) to find out (a) how much he's going to spend; (b) what manner of woman is the wife; and (c) what has she got already.

2. THE KIDDOS who buy for their parents won't know much more, either. If Daddy sent them, it is to "get something pretty for Mommie." If they are there on their own, to expend their own savings, they will finger everything in the house.

3. The lady of the house has made herself a list, but she is going to spend plenty of time looking at colors, patterns, reading the instructions, making comparisons and being sure that this is precisely what her Mate had once hinted for. If you think she will get through and out of the store in a half-hour, you have another think coming.

SURE, we all have our foibles and our frailties. Anybody who has worked behind a retail counter for very long becomes philosophical about this, and tries to balance the good with the bad. All sales people would find a lot more good if customers would just come in and be downright nice and say thank you. After all, clerks' feet hurt, too.

Presidential Communication

WASHINGTON — Reporters have been complaining that they haven't had a formal news conference with the President since July 30, so Mr. Nixon agreed to hold one for broadcast on all networks. But it's apparent that something better than the televised news conference will have to be developed to permit the President of the United States to communicate his views currently on public questions to the American people.

DURING THESE meetings, a large group of newsmen gather, though there is opportunity for only a few queries to be answered. The President, moreover, cannot give much time to any one subject without consuming the half hour to be devoted to the whole news conference. The net result is that no subject is treated with thoroughness and not all topics of importance are tackled.

It would be far better, of course, if the television networks would set aside a half hour once a week for the President of the United States to report to the people. Another half hour should be donated by the networks for the answering of inquiries which would be submitted in advance either by newsmen or members of Congress and for which replies could be prepared by the chief executive.

CERTAINLY THERE is need for more communication between the President and the people. A news conference on television now and then cannot provide the answers to the many things on people's minds. Nor can the President on the spur of the moment always come up with a statement that covers extensively what he would like to say and indeed would say if he had the time to prepare his reply.

TELEVISION AND radio today are devoted largely to entertainment, but they do render a great deal of public service. Certainly if the problem were studied more carefully than it has been, a better system of communication between government and the people could be worked out. The television news conference is a good "show," and is an interesting exposure of the President and the newsmen to the public. The impromptu answers and often the abbreviated questions, however, do not result in the distribution of comprehensive explanations such as could be made if more time were given by the news media of the air.

SINCE PRESIDENTIAL news conferences are infrequent, another kind of system becomes necessary in order to provide the American people with a flow of information from their government that can be useful to them. What ought to be done is for the President to be given questions by the press, with plenty of time to study them and prepare his answers, and then go on the air for 30 minutes at a convenient hour in each time zone on the same evening. This would be a real service to the American people and would help them to keep informed on the many complicated subjects that are before the United States government today.

LACK OF information is at the root of much of the dissent in America. For when the differences of opinion are analyzed, frequently it is found that a lot of the debate is not based upon actual facts concerning what has been done or what is proposed.

Bruce Waits Out The North Viets

PARIS — When he arrived here nearly four months ago to be America's chief negotiator in the Vietnam peace talks Ambassador David K. E. Bruce gave prolonged study to the record up to that point. Turning to his deputy, Philip Habib, who has spent six years wrestling with the Vietnam problem, when he had concluded Bruce said:

"But you don't have a negotiation. There is no sign of a negotiation here."

HE MADE this same statement recently at his first press conference since the start of his mission. But if this is a futile exercise, coming up every Thursday against the same hostile buzz saw, the puzzle is why a diplomat of Bruce's experience who had held all the important posts should have taken it on.

The answer lies in his temperament and his background.

He served for eight years in his last post, as Ambassador to Britain. Previously he had been the No. 1 American in Bonn and Paris, the only instance in which all three embassies have been held by the same individual. Then he retired and discovered that retirement was exceedingly boring.

WHEN PRESIDENT NIXON asked him to head the negotiating team he responded like a veteran fire horse at the sound of the bell. It was a call to duty, and a sense of duty is an important element in the Bruce temperament. So at the age of 72 he took on what is very likely the most difficult assignment of his long career.

With both sides standing firm on positions unacceptable to the other, the chances of success seem dim no matter how many months or even years the exercise goes on.

ONE REASON for Bruce's selection was that he had no connection with the Vietnam quagmire. His predecessor, Henry Cabot Lodge, had been deeply committed as a former Ambassador to Saigon and a frank partisan of the Thieu-Ky government in South Vietnam.

Bruce would bring a fresh eye to the tragic involvement that at the height of the war saw 520,000 American ground troops fighting in the jungles of Vietnam.

HOW MUCH of an advantage this has been is questionable. Bruce does have more detachment than his predecessor. He has several times indicated that he would not go into the reasons the United States was involved in what was essentially a foreign civil war. His job is to find a way out through a reasonable settlement that will leave some hope of stability.

When President Nixon stopped in Ireland at the end of his Mediterranean tour Bruce and Habib met with him to discuss a new negotiating position and when and how it should be presented. The result was the Nixon five-point program announced in a television address. Twenty-four hours later Hanoi unconditionally and irrevocably rejected it.

WHAT ASTONISHED Bruce was the Communists did not jump at at least one of the five points — a standstill cease-fire agreement which would, in his view, have given them a great advantage. But he has ceased to be surprised, expecting each Thursday the same propaganda speech from the Communist side of the table.

BUT HE WON'T MIND IF WE BORROW THE IDEA.

In fact, He wants us to. Or He wouldn't have commanded us to love our neighbor. God's love has very peculiar properties. The more we use it up, the more we have left over. It's only when we ignore it that love withers, shrivels up, dies. Love is God's wonderful idea. But it'll never work unless we use it.

WEDDING NIGHT ... stars Tessa Wyatt

Film Foretells Future Living Beneath The Sea

In the summer of 1964, a motion picture producer vacationing on the Greek Island of Corfu picked up a scientific magazine and read an article by Jacques-Yves Cousteau. On that day the underwater journey into inner space, "Captain Nemo and the Underwater City," was born.

Starring Robert Ryan, Chuck Connors, Nanette Newman and Luciana Paluzzi, the picture describes the adventures of six Americans rescued from the sea by Captain Nemo and brought to his underwater city — Templemer — floating off the ocean floor.

In the article, executive producer Steven Pallos reads Cousteau's description of his experiments under the Red Sea, where he and a small crew lived for weeks submerged under hundreds of feet of water. The French pioneer in underwater exploration concluded his piece with the prediction that man would colonize the oceans and would build and live in full-sized underwater communities early in the 21st century.

Pallos was fascinated. He immediately called his London office and had them send him the works of Jules Verne, that prophetic genius of the 19th century and father of science-fiction. He read all the "Nemo" novels, in which Verne describes the underwater adventures of the strange and haunted Captain Nemo.

Pallos knew he had come across the basis for an extraordinary motion picture. He had admired "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" and was prepared to take the subject a step further. He was also sure that science would come up with the headlines that would give his film a sense of imminence.

Movie Culmination Of 10-Year Dream

Philip N. Krasne fell in love with the screen potential of the Robert I. Holt story on which "Wedding Night," his new timely, psychological drama is based, when he first read it a decade ago. "Wedding Night" opens today at the Ritz Theater.

He, however, held the screen play in cold storage until he felt the time was ripe to release this gripping tale of the tensions deriving from the Catholic Church's ruling on birth control.

Mr. Krasne's decision to wait until 1970, when the voice of dissent on birth control could be inside as well as beyond the confines of the Catholic Church, meant that he hoped the picture, which was made on authentic Irish locations, would reach the widest possible international audience.

He regards it as a measure of the readiness to discuss its theme with growing awareness of the other point of view that the Church Authorities in Ire permitted actual church and cemetery locations to be used for the wedding and funeral scenes.

"We are tackling this moving story with both frankness and good taste and yet at the same time offering potential distributors the kind of subject matter which will lend itself to really compelling poster and other advertising campaigns," Krasne comments.

BEST HOUSE IN LONDON ... David Hemming, Joanna Pettet

Tony Curtis Is Dramatic, Comic Actor

Tony Curtis, who has successfully alternated between light comedy and action films, with an occasional foray into motion pictures of greater emotional substance, is back in the type of action role he does so well.

As an American adventurer turned mercenary during the political upheaval in post-World War I Turkey, Curtis stars with Charles Bronson and Michele Mercier in "You Can't Win 'Em All," at the R/70 Theatre. The high adventure co-stars Patrick Magee.

Victorian Era Swinger Stars In Picture

British actor David Hemmings is well-known for his swinging if somewhat chaotic way of life off-screen in mini-England. Often his film roles can't hold a candle to his private life for sheer incredibility.

But he will be hard put to match the antics of his latest film, "The Best House in London," co-starring Joanna Pettet.

For one thing, Hemmings plays two roles in the bawdy tale of swinging Victorian London. George Sanders, French beauty Dany Robin and Warren Mitchell co-star in the Carlo Ponti production.

In one of his roles, Hemmings is seen as a dark, elegant seducer of Victorian womanhood, named Walter Leybourne. Among his on-screen exploits is the hilarious seduction of a full-some wench in the gondola of an airborne balloon, which he performs simply by convincing her that her clothes are too heavy and are causing the balloon to lose altitude.

Only when he makes an attempt on the virtue of a militant suffragette, played by blonde Joanna Pettet, does Walter suffer rejection.

'Mr. Scrooge' Scheduled For Christmas Season

MIDLAND — The Pickwick Players of Midland Community Theatre are bringing a special Christmas present for young people of all ages with their Merry Christmas musical "Mr. Scrooge", slated to open Friday at Theatre Centre.

"Scrooge" is the delightfully happy musical version of the Charles Dickens immortal classic "A Christmas Carol". Here is the grand story, in laughter and song, of Ebenezer Scrooge, who hates Christmas and is visited by three ghosts who bring revelations about himself. Scrooge is shocked into action that centers on the poor but happy Cratchit family and their brave little crippled son, Tiny Tim.

"Mr. Scrooge" will have only two general public performances at Theatre Centre Friday at 4:30 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 20, at 2:30 p.m. A special performance will be given for Junior Matinee season ticket holders only at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Tickets are 75 cents for children and $1.00 for adults. Box office opens December 14 at Theatre Centre for this special Christmas "gift". Phone 682-7976 for reservations.

'Hamlet' Slated For HCJC Stage

The Hawk Players of Howard County Junior College will present an adaptation of William Shakespeare's "Hamlet," Dec. 19 and Dec. 21.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. in the HCJC auditorium, and admission is 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students.

"By combining formal staging and costuming with traditional Shakespearean acting, we think we have come up with a very interesting and moving interpretation of the greatest play ever written," Dan Shockey, director, said.

Formal staging refers to the black and white color scheme and the use of platforms, steps, units and arches, Shockey explained. He said the women will be dressed in long black dresses and the men in black tuxedos or otherwise basic, black costumes.

Members of the cast will include Chris Gilbert as Hamlet, Rowan Settles, King Claudius; Belita McCraeve, Queen Gertrude; Billy Truette, Horatio; Robert Jones, Polonius; Marshall Horn, Laertes; Phyllis Hagen, Ophelia; Randy Hatfield, ghost of King Hamlet; Mike Colclazer, Marcellus and Luciana; Marvin Wynn, Bernardo; Mike Stewart, player king, priest and judge; and Beth Graumann, player queen.

Members of court will be Debbie Coffee, Beth Graumann and Mike Stewart.

Debbie Tate is serving as assistant director and Rowan Settles as stage manager.

Film Depicts Impossible But Beautiful Love

If you think a mature married man having a weekend affair with his small son's babysitter is tawdry, wait until you see the sensitive story and acting in "Weekend with the Babysitter" coming to the Cinema Theatre Wednesday.

The story tells it like it is today: Dope, sex, raw emotions unmasked and in the open. But it tells a beautiful love story, even though brief and impossible to last.

George E. Carey is the man, newcomer Susan Roman is the girl and their love affair becomes a human, warm, believable story in the careful handling.

When his wife turns away from him and finds solace in a young girl, she rates sympathy, too, as played by Luanne Roberts.

Maggie and June worked all morning making their snowman. He got so big that they had to fetch a stool and stand on tiptoe to make his arms and to cinder-button him. The mailman helped put on his head.

When they napped that afternoon, the sun shone hot and bright, and the south wind blew. When they woke, their snowy pal had dwindled and his cinder face cried dirty streaks. Sadly they turned away.

Sometimes life is like that snowman — grand and glittering with all the things we have. Then the hot winds of disaster blow, and their importance vanishes and we are left with emptiness.

What makes life meaningful? If possessions can't make us happy, what can?

Our churches have the answer. Through worship and prayer they teach us to find the joys of spirit.

ANGELS OF MERCY — Lt. Carl Mullins (left) and Sgt. Bill Meador of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety may not look much like angels, but to one patient at the Veterans Administration Hospital that's what they are. The men flew a patient right to the hospital doors Friday, to make the first time a patient had ever been airlifted to the grounds of the hospital. The patient was injured Thursday in an automobile mishap near Post.

Found: One Honest Gal

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Four months ago the captain of the police night shift was approached by a foreign student who said she was stranded and couldn't afford to pay a $5 fine when her car was towed away from a no parking zone.

Capt. Louis Dunaway said he wrote out a $5 check covering the fine out of his own pocket—and just as quickly forgot the girl's promise to return the money.

On Thursday, Dunaway received a letter from Suzanne W. Betke in Honolulu, Hawaii, with a $5 bill attached and an apology for not sending the money sooner.

Dunaway said the 20-year-old student from Germany came to him in tears and explained she was en route from Los Angeles to Wisconsin and had barely enough money left to reach Wisconsin.

The veteran captain said she promised she would pay the money back as soon as she was able and left San Antonio for her destination.
