Nun Says U. S. Tapped Calls Within Church

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A nun claimed today that the U.S. government has tapped telephone calls within the Roman Catholic Church.

Sister Joques Egan, subpoenaed to testify before a grand jury investigating an alleged bomb-kidnap plot, made the charge in a statement distributed to reporters.

She gave six reasons why she refused to testify before the grand jury. One of the reasons was that evidence that brought her before the grand jury was secured by illegal wire taps. Then she said:

"In addition, all of some of the telephone communications monitored by the U.S. government involved communications within the Roman Catholic Church of America and, specifically, between my provincial headquarters and the offices of the church in New York, Rome and throughout the United States."

In the statement Sister Egan did not explain why she believed the government was monitoring calls within the church, and she did not answer questions from reporters.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today that its Venus 7 spacecraft — which hurtled into Venus' hellish atmosphere Dec. 15 — made a soft landing on the planet and transmitted data for 23 minutes.

"For the first time," the Soviet news agency Tass said, "scientific information was relayed from the surface of another planet of the solar system."

Deadly Shootout In Police Station

GLADEWATER, Tex. (AP) — An early morning shootout in the Gladewater police station left a young man dead and the assistant police chief critically wounded.

Officers said a man with a 410-gauge shotgun burst into the station about 1:15 a.m. and critically wounded the assistant police chief, Oris Morrow.

Morrow then shot and killed his assailant, police said. They identified the dead man as Bobby Rockwell, 25.

Police said Morrow was questioning a woman in connection with a liquor store robbery that occurred Monday night.

The woman fled during the shooting but was recaptured at her Gladewater home about 6:45 a.m.

Investigators said they believe Rockwell knew the woman.

FRESH ECHOES FROM CHARGES OF STOCK FRAUD

Close Bank, Seize Two Firms

By The Associated Press

Closing of a big Houston bank and state takeovers of two insurance companies were the latest repercussions today from government charges of fraud and misrepresentation in stock insurance dealings.

WRONGDOING

These developments occurred Monday in a case long since appraised by officials as a major scandal:

1. Directors closed the Sharpstown State Bank in Houston, one of the largest such institutions under state charter, stating it could not meet depositors' demands. At the same time they posted a notice stating this move was "not an admission that the capital of the bank is impaired or that the bank has been a party to any wrongdoing."

2. The Texas Insurance Board placed National Bankers Life Insurance Co., whose shares figured in transactions under fire from the Securities and Exchange Commission, and Olympic Life Insurance Co. of Fort Worth, under conservatorship. The two firms are among 13 corporate defendants being sued by the SEC.

3. Two of 15 individual defendants in the same suit asked a federal court in Dallas to throw out all evidence in the case, contending it was obtained in violation of their constitutional rights.

4. A Houston legislator, Rep. Curtis Graves, said he would ask the Texas House that Speaker Gus Mutscher, named in testimony to SEC probes as a participant in certain stock transactions—but not a defendant in the court suit, be relieved of his post until the civil proceeding is terminated.

property, books, records and effects thereof including, but not limited to, bank accounts, securities, collections of accounts, rentals and other funds due the company, and the control of mail and post office boxes and conduct the business thereof."

McFarling is instructed to report to the state insurance commissioner on each company's affairs as soon as he ascertains them, and thereafter make monthly reports.

SAME LANGUAGE

He is ordered to "take all necessary measures" to preserve, protect and recover the assets and property of said company, including filing of any lawsuits that may be necessary to preserve, protect and recover assets and property. The language is the same for each company.

NBL's 1970 annual report showed 30,807 policies in effect as of Dec. 31, 1969, with policies in force totaling $495,197. The balance sheet showed assets and liabilities of $33.97 million.

Countering claims by the government, Sharp and Sam Stock, president of National Bankers Life, asked U. S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes in Dallas to order evidence suppressed in the case. This move was directed at both the Securities and Exchange Commission and its chief investigator, Robert Watson.

The SEC has asked an injunction forbidding what it describes as dealings in unregistered securities and other practices. In turn, Sharp and Stock sought an order enjoining the government against denying their rights.

SEARCH WARRANT

The 10-page document filed on behalf of Sharp and Stock accused the SEC of using its subpoena power as a search warrant.

It demanded that the federal body be ordered by the court to cease "willfully and intentionally" violating the Fourth Amendment, which protects against searches and seizures.

Protest was made about the publication of testimony given in a private investigation. The testimony, it was said, was allegedly confidential, yet had been made public.

Because of its publication, a one-sided picture was given and the effect was to "distort, twist and pervert the truth respecting the transactions alleged in the complaint," it was asserted.

Complaint was made too, that the defendants had not been able to talk with parties to prepare their defense because Watson had "ordered, instructed and demanded" that witnesses should not discuss the facts of the case.

It was claimed that the SEC investigators had followed the practice during the allegedly private investigation of issuing "administrative subpoenas, returnable instantly, commanding the production of books, records and other items of purported evidence." They did this, argued the defense lawyers, Morton Suman and Jerry Hill of Houston, although the subpoenas were, said the petition, "vague and unenforceable in any court of the United States."

'ANGRY MEN'

The SEC investigators were accused of being "belligerent and angry" and threatening the parties and their attorneys with prosecution for obstruction of justice, obstruction of their investigation and concealment of records "all of which is utterly false and without basis of fact."

Jury trial of the civil suit was also sought.

Sharp, according to depositions filed with the court, declined to submit to questioning by the SEC investigators, pleading the Fifth Amendment.

NOT ONE, BUT TWO — Bobby Lemons (shown at right with Mrs. Lemons) was honored twice at the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce banquet Monday night. He was named Outstanding Chamber member and also recipient of the Jaycees, Distinguished Service Award. Offering congratulations is J. C. Britton, retiring president of the C-City Chamber, and seated is Arlene Morris, the new president.

Ugandan Coup Celebrated With Dancing

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Sporadic gunfire continued in Kampala today, less than 24 hours after a faction in the army overthrew the government of President Milton Obote. There were unconfirmed reports of fighting 40 miles from the city.

Kampala's streets were crowded with pedestrians, and shops were open. Military vehicles loaded with troops patrolled nearby.

Radio Uganda, which reported Monday that Obote had been toppled by a military coup, carried no announcements from the new government today. It played mostly music, including such popular numbers as "Yes, We Have No Bananas" and "St. Louis Blues."

AT COLORADO CITY BANQUET Dual Awards Presented Mitchell County Agent

COLORADO CITY — They doubled up on young and energetic Bobby Lemons in passing out community recognition at the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce banquet Monday night.

The Mitchell County agriculture agent was honored as the Chamber's outstanding member of the year, and then received the Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award.

The Preston Morris family of the Cuthbert community was recognized as the outstanding agricultural family and the B&PW woman-of-the-year award went to Mrs. Mary Womack, also of Cuthbert.

CLUB WORK

Lemons served on most of the C-C committees during the past year, and was a leader principally in the Mitchell County Fair, in 4-H and FFA club work, and in developing city and rural relations.

The Morris family has a farm and ranch operation, have been active in church work and also in youth agricultural programs.

Mrs. Womack is a retired teacher, a leader in home demonstration club work and in various church and civic activities.

SPACE TALK

The awards highlighted a program attended by some 300 persons who also gave a warm hand to a "home town boy" who now is program manager for the lunar landing training vehicle at the NASA manned spacecraft center. He is Charles R. Haines, who gave a talk illustrated with color slides on the operations of the space program.

Haines observed that appropriations cutbacks had slowed future planning of space flights, but said exploratory work will continue.

He explained that when the present Apollo program is completed, NASA will be turning to development of a "sky-lab" to orbit the earth's surface and accumulate valuable information; development of a space shuttle vehicle, and with it the eventual space station.

STEP BY STEP

Haines compared the exploration of the universe with the first discoveries on the globe. Each program developed, he said, is another giant step in human knowledge. "I am not concerned with whether the space program is worthwhile," he said, "but rather with whether we are pushing it fast enough. There are great riches awaiting us as we solve the problems of the universe."

Arlene Morris, C-City postmaster, assumed the Chamber presidency from J. C. Britton. His new officers include Vernon Lewis and Rick Perkin, vice presidents, George Witten, treasurer, and Mrs. E. B. Carlock, secretary. Sefton Pickens is manager of the C-City Chamber.

Directors to serve this year include Mrs. Carlock, J. P. Hendrix, Larry Kinard, Rick Perkin, Manuel Rivera, Kenneth Rogers, George Witten, Robert Aycock, Drew Ballard, Vernon Lewis, Arlene Morris, Wayne Shawn, Dr. H. Jene Steakley, Travis Turner, Dick Wistrand.

Apollo Astros Practice New Landing Technique

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 14 astronauts climbed aboard spaceship trainers today to practice a new landing technique intended to guide them to a pinpoint landing in one of the roughest areas of the moon, the craggy Fra Mauro highlands.

Alan B. Shepard Jr., Edgar D. Mitchell and Stuart A. Roosa were up early to hone themselves for the delicate landing attempt.

nance and loading liquid oxygen aboard the fuel cells in the command ship and checking systems of the rocket's first stage.

Rob Bank Collector

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — The Banco Nacional de Mexico was robbed for the second time since last August as three or more robbers took 967,000 pesos ($76,500) from a bank collector Monday.

Authorities in Texas and Mexico joined in a search for the bandits, who wore false beards, glasses and spoke Spanish with a foreign accent.

The victim of the robbery was Benito Arellano, collector for the bank. He was taking the money to the Central Federal bank of Mexico.

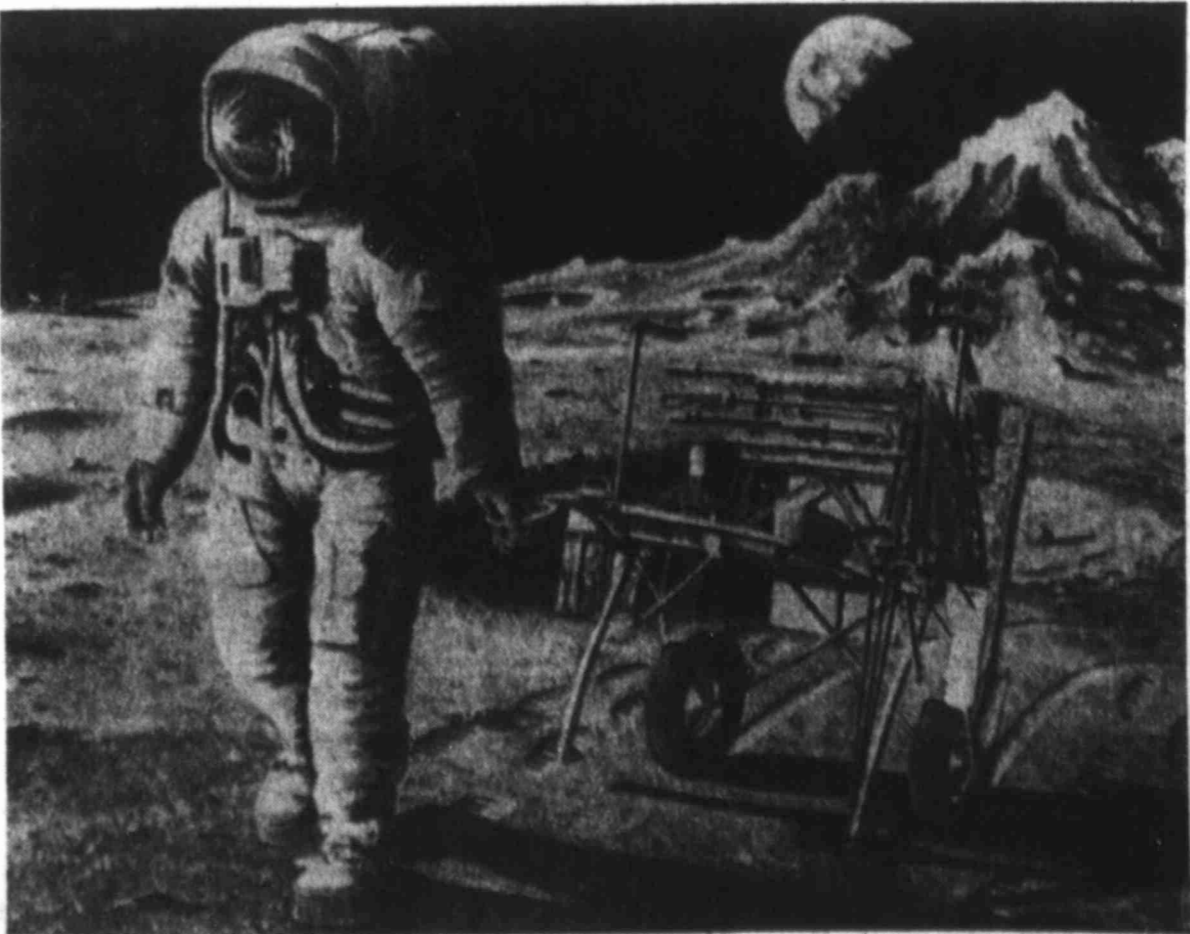

In the new landing maneuver, the Apollo 14 command ship Kitty Hawk will dip to within 12 miles of the lunar surface before releasing the lunar module Antares for its descent on Feb. 5.

LOW PASSES

In a recent interview, Roosa explained the joined spaceships will fire into an initial lunar orbit ranging from 65 to 195 miles above the surface. Later, this will be shifted to a path of 12 to 65 miles high.

"On low passes over the landing site we'll obtain a good look at the area and also get some good tracking data. This will give Al and Ed greater confidence they can make it," Roosa said.

By using the command ship engine to dip to the lower altitude, the lunar module saves valuable fuel which will give Shepard and Mitchell about 26 seconds extra hover time to search for a smooth touchdown site.

AIM AT BOOSTING FARM INCOME — Jack Buchanan, county program building chairman, County Judge A. G. Mitchell, and County Agent Paul Gross look over a sample from a miniature cotton bale as they look to plans for raising Howard County agricultural income in six years. Cotton may play a key roll in efforts to boost Texas yield by a billion dollars.

County Agent Predicts Income Leap By 1976

Cash income to farmers and ranchers in Howard County should be more than $8,775,000 by the end of 1976, according to Paul Gross, county agricultural agent.

This will be an increase of more than $1,000,000 from 1968-69 figures, with cotton contributing a large part of this gain. The projections are based on studies of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and are part of the "3.76 in '76" program, a state-wide project to increase Texas agricultural cash receipts by more than one billion dollars.

War Victims' Names Sought

Names of county residents killed in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia are currently being sought for addition to the granite slab to be added to the Howard County War Memorial.

Anyone knowing of someone whose name should be added to the memorial is asked to contact Mrs. Virginia Black, county auditor, at her office.

Those whose names have already been submitted are Augustin C. Paredes, Richard Spangler, Coy Thomas, Robert Green, Eddie D. Hollandsworth, Raymond Gomez, Gene Vaughn, Donald Jones Jr., Melburne D. Moore, Ismael Holquin, Reynaldo A. Sanchez, Michael M. O'Brien, Gary Pagan.

William T. Hale, Robert Griffith, Carl W. Oliver, Robert L. Oakes, Raymond A. White, Francis W. Dahl, Edward M. Hudgens, Rosendo Montana, Richard D. Brewer, David Taylor, Ronald G. Perryman and Clarence E. Thompson.

Total cash receipts from all agricultural enterprises in Howard County are presently about $6,000,000, says Gross. The most important ones are cotton, cattle, and grain sorghum. They are expected to account for about 85 percent of the projected 1976 totals.

The county will be aided in its production efforts by the S.P.D. Extension specialists will hold conferences in Howard County during this period of time to discuss improved production of the above commodities.

The projections are based on estimates from the County Program Building Committee; after separate predictions were made by extension service economists. The figures were published for each county, extension district and economic area in Texas.

Howard County producers will have access to production information and techniques that can help spell success for the Texas goal of $3.76 billion in 1976," according to Gross.

More Trouble For 'Killer' Serving 90

HOUSTON (AP) — A Texas man now serving a 90-year term for murder was indicted Monday on charges of robbery by firearms and kidnaping as the result of an incident which started here and ended in Wyoming.

Indictments were returned against James Earl Arabette, 28, alleging he robbed Floy Chambers Sackett, 43, and abducted her daughter, Barbara Chambers, 13, from the family home in suburban Pasadena July 10, 1969.

Mrs. Sackett and Barbara told police they were both abducted but were rescued in Wyoming.

Arabette is serving a 90-year term in Wyoming, where he pleaded guilty July 18, 1969, to second-degree murder in the death of Kathleen A. Callier, 14, of Pasadena.

Miss Callier, who accompanied Arabette from Pasadena, was found shot to death at a mountain lodge in Sublette County, Wyo., in July of 1969. Asst. Dist. Atty. Rex Emerson said he sought the two indictments against Arabette because the Wyoming attorney general notified him Arabette might be released soon from prison.

Three Killed In Explosion At Arms Depot

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Three men were killed and three others injured Monday night in an explosion at the McAlester Naval Ammunition Depot.

The acting depot commander, Cmdr. Dana Peckworth, said an undetermined number of 20-mm shells exploded, trapping six men in the rubble of a deactivation facility building on the base.

The shells were awaiting transfer to a furnace outside the building used for destruction. Rescuers pulled the bodies of the dead and the survivors from the debris less than a half hour after the blast.

The cause of the explosion was not determined. An investigation was ordered.

Killed were Sammy D. Lane, Savannah, Okla.; Herman L. Roop, McAlester; and Samuel Agee Jr., also of McAlester.

Injured were Fred Mass Jr., Harry Goodman and Philip Miller. All are believed to be from the McAlester area.

All six men were civilian employees.

County Dads Attend Meet

Commissioners Jack Buchanan and Bill Crooker will attend the 13th annual County Judges and Commissioners Conference Feb. 10 and 11 in College Station. The conference is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas. According to Charles E. Lawrence, county officials program specialist for the extension service, the program will be directed at newly elected officials in an effort to acquaint them with the day-to-day operation of their offices.

Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety, and Assistant Attorney General J. C. Davis Jr., will be among the guest speakers for the conference.

License Plates On Sale Soon

License tag sales will begin Feb. 1 in Howard County and will end April 1. The tags will be sold at four other sites as well as in the County Tax Assessor-Collector's Office in the courthouse.

Tags will be on sale throughout February and March at the courthouse, Newsom's Grocery, the Webb AFB Federal Credit Union and Constable C. J. Lamb's office, Forsan City Hall.

Short Skirts Ire Sheriff, Clerk Fired

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "Sex crimes have increased since skirts were shortened," says Sheriff Lee B. Eads, explaining why he fired a 22-year-old clerk whose miniskirt was short of the sheriff's code on dress. "I can't criticize the public if our own girls walk around exposed," Eads said Monday after the dismissal of Carol Kehrer, a $77-a-week clerk in the sheriff's department civil office. Eads issued an order last month that the minimum length for a skirt be one inch above the center of the kneecap. Mrs. Kehrer's skirts are four inches higher than the minimum. "I tried to lower my skirts after the order came out, but there just wasn't enough hem to let out," Mrs. Kehrer said. "And I didn't have enough money to buy new clothes." She added she was helping with the family finances as her husband, Phillip, completes his education at Ball State University.

Mrs. Kehrer's immediate superior, Maj. James H. Hardin, said her work had been satisfactory. Calling the new maxiskirt ugly, Hardin said, "We don't encourage it. I think girls should look like girls." Hardin said women employees aren't permitted to wear pantsuits to work.

MANSON FRIENDS TOLD OF VERDICT — Three followers of Charles Manson sit grimaced on the sidewalk outside Los Angeles' Hall of Justice Monday as they heard from newsmen that Manson and three female co-defendants had been found guilty of murder. Left to right: Kitty Lutesinger, Sandy Good and Brendel McCann. They have been camping on the sidewalk for months.

Jury Will Consider Penalty: Death Or Life Imprisonment

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jury that convicted Charles Manson and three devoted women followers in the bizarre Sharon Tate murders meets Thursday to consider the penalty: death or life imprisonment.

The state said it would demand death in the gas chamber. The penalty trial, required by California law, will bring new testimony and the chance to recall witnesses heard during the trial's seven months.

READY
The chief prosecutor, Asst. Dist. Atty. Vincent Bugliosi, said he had 50 witnesses ready, but that the penalty trial could be short, indicating he would not call them all.

The defense, which called no witnesses during the trial said it would put on a case as long as or longer than the state's, seeking to persuade the jurors to decrease life imprisonment. Expected witnesses include family and friends of the defendants who will testify to their character.

Chief defense attorney Paul Fitzgerald said he would try to show that there was still doubt as to the defendants' guilt despite Monday's verdicts.

THEY'RE GUILTY
"A verdict of first-degree murder means the jury has determined guilt beyond a reasonable doubt," said Fitzgerald, "but not beyond any doubt at all."

The verdicts, he said, were expected and the defendants were somewhat resigned which explained their decorous behavior Monday, contrasting sharply with emotional outbursts earlier in the trial.

Manson, 36, shaggy-haired chief of a wandering hippie-type tribe, still managed to get in a punchline after all verdicts were read. "I think they're all guilty," he said of the jurors, then shouted at Judge Charles H. Older. "We're still not allowed to put on a defense! You won't outlive that old man!" Counsel for the accused declined to let the women take the stand for fear they would incriminate themselves trying to clear Manson.

RIBBONS IN HAIR
As the jury prepared to deliver its verdict after 42 hours and 40 minutes of deliberation spread over more than eight days, the three women, Susan Atkins, 22, Leslie Van Houten, 21, and Patricia Krenwinkel, 23, shuffled into court smiling and chatting among themselves. Pale and thin, they wore drab jail uniforms and ribbons in their long hair. They sat whispering through the reading of the verdicts, and, as the jury was led out, a prosecutor heard Miss Van Houten say, "Look how sad they all look."

THEY WEPT
The three women smiled at cameramen in the courthouse corridor after the verdict, but guards in the jail said they wept for more than an hour in their cells. Manson still appeared unruffled by the verdict after his return to jail.

The defendants were charged with 27 counts of murder-conspiracy in the August, 1969, slaying of the blonde, pregnant actress and four visitors to her hilltop mansion, and in the killings a night later of a wealthy market owner and his wife.

The state said Manson ordered the killings in hopes of triggering a race war he felt was predicted in a Beatles song, and that after the war Manson expected to take control of the world.

TASTED HER BLOOD
The women obeyed Manson's every command in robot-like fashion, including his orders to kill, the state contended.

A parade of often colorful witnesses told of the women's part in the murder mission, how Miss Atkins stabbed Miss Tate, then tasted her blood; how Miss Krenwinkel stabbed through victims' bones and later declared that her hand hurt; how Miss Van Houten told of stabbing a victim already dead and finding that it was "fun."

Miss Van Houten, a tall, pretty brunette, was charged with conspiracy in all the killings but with murdering only market owners Leno and Rosemary LaBianca. Her attorney, Maxwell Keith, argued that she didn't know of the murder plan, couldn't have premeditated the killings and should be acquitted.

HOPE FOR LESLIE
"The defendants are all terribly disappointed about Leslie," said Fitzgerald. "They felt there was hope for her."

As Manson and the women were led quickly from the courtroom, Fitzgerald leaned over and kissed his client, Miss Krenwinkel, on the cheek.

"We lost the case when we lost our change of venue," he later told newsmen.

Fitzgerald said he would argue at the penalty trial that pretrial publicity hurt the Tate defendants. Manson's attorney, Irving Kanarek, said sensational publicity was bred by the district attorney's office which sought to create prejudice against Manson's unconventional life style.

Rep. Price Announces For Speaker In 1973

AUSTIN (AP)—Rep. Rayford Price of Palestine said Monday he will run for House speaker of the 1973 Legislature regardless of whether Speaker Gus Mutscher is a candidate for a third term. Price has been collecting pledges of support from other representatives since 1969, but his race always has been contingent upon a decision by Mutscher not to seek the 1973 speakership.

But Price came out swinging Monday and said he would take on Mutscher if that's what a 1973 contest entailed.

THIRD TERM TALK
Mutscher's aides have taken written pledges from House members to support him for speaker of both the 1973 and 1975 session. Many, however, interpret this as a mere gesture, since no speaker has ever sought a third term.

But Price said "the messages I get" are that Mutscher wants a third term. Price said he had about 55 written and several oral pledges to vote for him for speaker in 1973 if Mutscher is not a candidate. He said he has only a handful of commitments if he runs against Mutscher and figures—at least for the present—that he can count on about half of those who pledged to support him if Mutscher is not running.

"I just don't think any speaker should be given a third term," Price said. "The position is too powerful. The people don't elect the speaker. With a third term, he could become the most powerful man in Texas government. And there would be nothing stopping him from running for a fourth or fifth term."

'LADY IN WAITING'
Price said he felt he either had to run in 1973 or "get out of the legislature. I don't want to be a 'lady in waiting' for Gus Mutscher."

Price, 33, was chairman in 1969 of the House State Affairs Committee—one of the four most important panels. Mutscher this year denied him any committee chairmanship or vice chairmanship. But Price said he had decided before the session convened to run for speaker in 1973 no matter what Mutscher decided to do.

A legislator since 1961—the same year Mutscher served his first term—Price is rated as a conservative.

PLEDGE CARDS
He said the race "can't help but be affected" by disclosures last week that Mutscher borrowed large sums of money in 1969 from Sharpstown State Bank to speculate in the stock of National Bankers Life Insurance Co.

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission alleged in a civil suit filed against NBL, Sharpstown State Bank and 24 others that stock deals were arranged as a means of influencing passage in 1969 of a deposit insurance bill. Mutscher has denied any connection between the stock deal and the passage of the bill.

TAX PENALTIES BEGIN FEB. 1

January is the last month in which Howard County residents may pay their state and county taxes without penalty and interest, reminds Mrs. Zirah LeFevre Bednar, county tax assessor-collector. Beginning Feb. 1, late taxpayers will be charged one and one-half per cent interest on their taxes. The penalty, according to Mrs. Bednar, increases one-and-one-half per cent each month until June. Beginning in July, late payers will be charged 11 per cent interest and one dollar for each entry on the delinquent tax rolls.

Big Horseshoe No Match For Fire In Wichita Falls

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—Fire discovered about 3:30 a.m. leveled the big Diamond Horseshoe Club and the two-story brick building housing it in downtown Wichita Falls. Firemen said the flames apparently started on the second floor. The roof collapsed before they quenched the blaze in a battle of slightly less than two hours. There were no injuries. Owner Thurmond Johnson said the bar's cash register was rescued but a deposit of more than $3,000 sacked for banking apparently burned. Four adjacent buildings suffered extensive smoke damage. The club occupied one of the oldest structures in the city. It stood across the street from an old hotel which burned two years ago and a wall collapsed after the fire was out, killing two policemen in a patrol car.

cash is the ultimate credit card.

Truth in spending. When you buy with a credit card, it can cost you much more than the price-tag price. First of all, if you don't pay off your credit card bill within a month, you start paying substantial bank interest. (After all, that's what the credit card business is all about.)

Save now, buy later. Just put off your purchase for a few months, and save up instead. Pay into your own Savings Account as systematically as though you were paying a credit card debt. You'll be saving the credit card markup, and your money will also be earning money, too.

Major Disgrace Shaping

While attention is focused on what some call a "scandal" at Austin, a disgrace of major proportions is shaping up here at home.

Up to Monday morning, the county's voting total was 6,940. And there are only five days (including today) remaining in which to qualify as a voter in the 1971 elections, whatever they may be.

A year ago, when there was prospect of several precinct, county, state and congressional races, the vote total stood at 10,283 on the corresponding date. But two years ago, which was also what we call an "off" year, we had 7,925. That's a thousand more than we now have, or about 15 per cent more. What is more to the point is that the last few days of two years ago boosted that total to around 12,000.

Can we do as well this year? Well, we certainly should, and we can if you who have not attended to this most important of civic obligations will hustle on down to the county tax-assessor's office and apply for your certificate.

Actually, you don't even have to do that if you can get hold of one of the voter application forms. Just fill in the information for you and your spouse and return it promptly, and in any event before Saturday midnight.

We do a lot of groaning about the state of affairs this day and time, but to fall to qualify to vote is to silence any right to complain. So don't unload on us or anyone else this year unless you first can say: "I am a registered voter." You have just a few days to be able to say that.

Lacking In Propriety

Stories breaking recently in the news tell how several high state officials and others in party councils were privy to inside information which enabled them to borrow money to buy stock which quickly was sold for a handsome profit. It is of added interest that this stock soon took a nose dive.

Principles in this matter have steadfastly maintained that what they did was perfectly legal (and it was) and right (which is questionable).

The thing which they must ask themselves is whether this opportunity would have come to them had it not been for their positions, and whether it was by any stretch of the imagination designed to compromise their positions in regard to legislation.

At this stage, while it would seem that there is nothing illegal on the part of those who bought and sold the stock, there was much lacking in propriety.

Hard To Beat

Around The Rim

Jo Brig...

I have a rather talented friend who helps me with hexes.

At first, it made me uneasy to be exposed to such awesome power, but having gotten used to the idea, I am ever so grateful. It is comforting to know that help is near when situations arise which indicate that a certain amount of revenge would, indeed, be sweet.

AND WHAT revenge could possibly be sweeter than having a particularly offensive fellow instantly develop an eternal pimple on the end of his pompous nose? More delicious, yet, would be to see a viper-tongued vixen suddenly gain 20 pounds!

Those are evil thoughts that I fearfully hesitate to allow myself the full pleasure of thinking. Perhaps, if I don't smile, it will be allright. Actually, with the current arrangement, it is unnecessary to clutter my mind with these minor details. I can just smile sweetly, offering neither defense nor offense to my puzzled tormentors.

LITTLE DO they know that by nightfall my warlock friend will be gleefully sticking pins in those funny little dolls!

All of which enables me to get to the subject in mind — hex signs. Until now, I've thought of the Pennsylvania Dutch as down-to-earth, no-nonsense people, but before me is a pictorial presentation entitled "Hex Signs and Other Barn Decorations" which may lead to an adjustment of that opinion.

THE PREPARATION of the booklet took the photographer and writer, traveling as a team, into seven counties in Pennsylvania where barn decorations are the most common, and into three counties in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia and one in West Virginia.

Although there are differences of opinion concerning their meaning, it is part of the popular folklore that a barn with a six-pointed star painted on it will be protected against lightning, and that a white line around the door keeps the devil out.

A LARGE PORTION of all the geometric designs found on the barns can be traced to some form of star, or as they would say in the dialect, "shtanna." The star points may range from four to 32.

One commercial producer of such signs advertises the four-pointed star as a "good luck sign; a double eight-pointed star design as a fertility sign; and a modification of the four-pointed star with tear drops added as a rain sign. A nation-wide distributor markets a six-pointed star as a love sign. Another producer offers a five-pointed star with a horse head inserted in the center; this protects the barn from lightning and the livestock against disease. They make an eight-pointed star design claimed to be a symbol of abundance and good will.

AN ENTERPRISING hex artist could combine a number of such stars and assure the purchaser a perfect marriage, knowledge and wisdom, justice, perseverance, abundance, good will, rain, love, good luck and fertility — all for $3.98 postpaid!

Relief Problems

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — The heaping plate of legislative proposals the President is putting up to Congress will get a decidedly mixed reception. The winter book shows wild fluctuations between long shots likely to be left at the starting gate and one or two fairly sure bets.

The going will be toughest for revenue sharing, whether in the general purpose category for which the President in his State of the Union message proposed $5 billion or in the $11 billion of sharing in categories already in the Federal budget. The chances for adoption of what Mr. Nixon has so earnestly touted are at best 15 to 20 per cent, according to soundings taken by this reporter.

THE REASON, of course, is the House Ways and Means Committee where opposition crosses party lines to take in well over a majority of the 25 members. Chairman Wilbur Mills of Arkansas has never concealed his deep, dark hostility to what he believes is simply a political grab bag. The ranking Republican, Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, is nearly as vehement in his opposition.

Political gimmick is one of the kinder terms opponents apply to the President's pet proposal. They see it as a raid on the Federal Treasury by governors and mayors who will evade their own tax obligations. And having got the money, as one committee member put it, they will feel free to run against those of us who voted to give it to them.

WAYS AND MEANS is a solid roadblock across the path. Conceivably, the House could vote to discharge the committee. But, given the power of the Mills-Byrnes combine and the power of the committee to give or withheld political favors, this is most unlikely.

The contrast with the prospects for that other Nixon pet, the family assistance program, could hardly be greater. Mills was ready as the gavel fell with HR 1, a bill containing all the provisions of the measure passed by the House last year. What is more, HR 1 is linked with a sweeter, a 10 per cent increase in Social Security payments. The payments would be retroactive to Jan. 1.

MILLS HAS SAID that he hopes to have HR 1 ready for action of the floor by Feb. 15. This is a pretty optimistic estimate, since readying the bill for floor action is more than a mere formality. While there will be no public hearings, the Administration is going to have to come through in closed session with detailed and carefully prepared testimony relating the guaranteed income plan — averaging $1,600 a year depending on family size in HR 1 — to eligibility for Medicaid and other benefits under the present welfare system.

ON BALANCE, it must be said that the outlook for these two top-priority proposals is not too hopeful. The sentinels of the past are too firmly rooted in the old postures. There is, however, a third element in the Nixon approach on which the Administration and Congress should in 1971 be able to agree if only because the need is so desperate.

That is on a nationwide health insurance plan. It may not be precisely the program the President has promised to send up before mid-February. But medical costs are so ruinous and medical care so deficient that further delay can mean disaster. (Copyright, 1970, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Wages And Prices Still Rise

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — A discerning insight into the economic attitudes and behavior of Americans, as contrasted with the values, habits and behavior of people in other industrial nations, indicates Americans might be unique.

It suggests, at any rate, that Americans are different in many of their aspirations, motives, wishes and expectations. And it shows that economic success or failure greatly depends on these human factors.

Often, however, these factors are forgotten in economic analysis, which frequently concerns itself with abstracts such as labor, management, output, per capita income, gross national product and the like.

Professors George Katona, Burkhard Strumpel and Ernest Zohn concur in the book, "Aspirations & Affluence," that Americans are more optimistic and forward looking than their European cousins.

"Close to two-thirds of the many Americans who have experienced an improvement in their financial situation over the past few years expected it to continue," they report in their just-published book.

By contrast, "only one-third of the Germans, French and Dutch think that their recent progress will continue."

The study also found that in prosperous times, "Americans spend tomorrow's expected high income, while Germans are more concerned with how to allocate yesterday's savings."

True, perhaps, in the long run. But in the past year or so Americans have acted decidedly like Germans. They have hoarded their money, and now are just beginning to consider how they will spend these savings of yesterday.

There is probably at least one bad aspect of that American feeling that good times tend to perpetuate themselves. In fact, it is just such expectations that put inflationary pressure on the present economy.

Wages and prices still continue to rise, as most Americans know. And a large percentage of these Americans, both business and labor, feel that the only way to beat the game is to press for even larger increases.

This, understandably, prolongs that old argument about whether the administration should employ some form of wage-price guidance, ranging from voluntary guideposts to rigid controls.

Recent surveys show that Americans are more concerned about inflation than almost any other issues, which suggests that like it or not, the administration may have to take direct action in this area.

McGovern's Bid

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — Now that he is a full-fledged Presidential candidate, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., must learn to live in a certain ambivalent atmosphere, and the camp of Sen. Teddy Kennedy already is contributing its bit to that atmosphere.

This is in the form of rumors that McGovern has promised the "Kennedy people" now supporting him that he will throw his strength to the young Massachusetts senator if his own candidacy flaps.

McGOVERN PEOPLE deny their tiger is a stalking horse for anybody. This is par for the course, except that McGovern is such a completely honest man the denials have more credibility than usual. That is to say, McGovern himself is absolutely sincere in his candidacy. If only as a means of forcing a shifting of national priorities. Nevertheless, the Kennedy rumors make a certain rude sense.

THE CHAIRMAN of McGovern's National Citizens Committee is former Assistant Atty. Gen. John Douglas, a 1968 Bobby Kennedy man. McGovern's campaign director is Gary Hart, a Denver attorney and onetime Kennedy campaign organizer. It is no reflection on George McGovern's integrity or sincerity to suggest that both Douglas and Hart received assurance from someone in the McGovern camp that McGovern at least would not oppose a Kennedy candidacy in the home stretch.

AFTER ALL, the odds on McGovern making it are long. He trails far behind Maine's Sen. Ed Muskie at this point. And the South Dakotan's own campaigning may destroy the principal plank in his platform—the Vietnam War. That plank already is McGovern's biggest weakness. President Nixon's program of troop withdrawal had proceeded to such a point that Vietnam was not an issue even in the 1970 Congressional elections. By 1972, Vietnam may have been eliminated as a debating point — unless of course the situation worsens over there, a development one may be sure the earnest McGovern would be the last to welcome.

THERE REMAINS the question of McGovern's impeccable credentials as a liberal. Is he too liberal for the Democratic Party? The swing across the country is to the center, as both the Nixon-Agnew team and some liberal Democrats discovered last November.

Of all the potential Democratic candidates, McGovern is by far the most liberal. Utterly lacking the late Bobby Kennedy's abrasive manner, he yet makes Bobby look conservative in retrospect.

EVEN HERE, McGovern is not without a tremendous asset. He is by virtual acclamation of all who know him, the nicest guy in the field. Unfortunately, Presidential politics is not a nice business, which burdens McGovern with the extra chore of proving that even in such a jungle nice guys need not finish last. NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a bill collector gets tired of hearing:

"You can't get blood out of a turnip."

"Janus, you wouldn't have me thrown out on the street, would you? After all, I'm your own mother."

"If Janus ever needed a heart transplant, all they'd have to put in would be a large rock."

"If I could afford to pay what I owe, Janus, do you think I'd be here? No, I'd be down in Miami Beach like the rich bums."

"It's my husband who owes you the money, not me. But if you catch up with him I'll pay you $10 extra if you beat him up."

"It's my wife who owes you the money, not me. If you are foolish enough to let her buy things on credit, that's your lookout."

"You can't get blood out of a turnip."

"I know I borrowed the money to go on my vacation, but I didn't have much fun on my vacation—so why should I have to pay it all back? That doesn't make sense to me."

"Here's half the dough I owe on last month's instalment, Janus. How about matching for it—double or nothing?"

"So, go ahead and try to sic the sheriff on me. He happens to be a lodge brother of mine."

"You can't get blood out of a turnip."

"How can you sleep at night, Janus, after pestering poor people all day long the way you do?"

"I'll make a deal with you, Janus. I'll pay the instalment that's due on the electric stove, if you'll get the store to sell me a new refrigerator on time."

"Have you got the nerve to stand there and tell me I still have to pay for that car when I already wrecked it three months ago?"

"Go ahead and sue me. You can't get blood out of a turnip!"

Billy Graham

Should I force my teenagers to attend church services? This one difficulty is bringing so much contention to our home. Would it be better if I taught my children the Bible at home? Or, should we continue to go to church, even if they protest?

Younger children should be made to go to church or Sunday School, but older teenagers should not be "forced" to attend church, any more than they should be "forced" to eat. My parents did not force me to attend church after a certain age, but they so lived before me that I considered it a vital and necessary part of their lives, and I went out of respect for them, until my conversion — then I wanted to go on my own. Children have a way of detecting sincerity or insincerity. They go by feeling more than reason. They seem to know when their parents are attending church out of duty, or out of love for God. If love is the motivating force, they will usually concede. It is important for parents to be consistent in their testimony and faith. If adolescents detect the least bit of hypocrisy, they may rebel against the whole religious bit.

When Monica, the mother of St. Augustine, told her bishop of her concern for her wayward child, the bishop said, "The child of so many prayers can never be lost." Pray for your children, weep over their listlessness, and they will note your concern and react accordingly. Compel them, not by force, but by love.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My daughter-in-law is expecting her second child and by the time the baby is born her daughter will be four years old.

As soon as the news was out, my daughter and I took my little granddaughter to the store where she picked out a big new doll baby and we put it on lay-away for her. Her mother told her, that the real baby was for all of us to love, but the "doll baby" was hers and hers alone.

As we sew and plan for the new baby, we also sew for "her baby" and she is so happy knowing that when mom comes home with her new baby, she will also have a brand new baby. . . . Another Grandma

We all know how hard it is for an older child to accept a new little intruder into his world. So why not start ahead of time?

When the new baby arrives, things will be a lot easier for everyone. . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise: We are the owners of two very fine show dogs and are constantly taking pictures of them.

We find that if we put our negatives in a file box (the size used for recipes) and take a card and put a heading on it, we have no trouble finding a particular situation on film when we are ready to have reprints made. . . . A Dog Lover

Folks, you don't have to own a show dog to make good use of this hint. It works equally well with the negatives from snapshots of the kids or a special vacation trip. . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise: I remove the bra from an old bra-slip when it loses its shape. The rest I make into a half slip simply by adding an elastic band at the waist.

Your old mini bra-slip becomes the perfect length half-slip for the new midi skirts. . . . Mary Mendrickson

Dear Heloise: When you want to mix tempera or water paints, the cups of egg cartons work perfectly.

If a regular egg carton is used, line the cups with aluminum foil. Plastic foam cartons need not be lined as water paints will not soak into them.

Cleaning up the mess is a jiffy, just throw the carton away. . . . Mrs. R.B.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER Dear Heloise: When my kids were little, I went to a town called Eaton Rapids with the neighbors and left a note for the older boy to find after school.

When he read the note to his sister, telling her that Mom had gone to Eaton Rapids, there was a moment of silence, then she said "Where did Mom go eating rabbits?" . . . R.R.

Dear Heloise: At our house when we have canned fruit, we never seem to use it all. So, I discovered this yummy new recipe.

Drain the fruit and cut it up into small pieces. Prepare a whipped topping mix and fold the fruit, along with some miniature marshmallows into the cream. Chill the mixture until it has set, then stir it lightly before serving. . . . A Reader

Dear Heloise: When I'm threading beads with holes too small to put a needle through, I find if I point the thread and put it in clear nail polish and let it dry thoroughly, it will stay still and be almost as good as a needle.

It goes much quicker. . . . J.S.

Philippe Venet Shows Soft, Feminine Look

PARIS (AP) — Philippe Venet opened the major showings of the Paris spring and summer fashion week Monday with bold prints and soft silk crepes, generally topped by textured wool coats.

His silhouette is feminine and soft, with shoulders slightly wider but neither padded nor squared. The Parisian silhouette and straight, belted styles are featured in his coats, mostly in white or ivory.

Venet is keeping the mid-calf length for his coats but retains two-inch margins between coats and shorter dresses. He uses realistic pictures in many of his prints, one depicting a wildlife preserve with zebras, elephants and leopards.

His prints appear in paneled, slashed midcoats, softly flowing pants suits or in dresses under plain white or colored wool coats.

Little dresses under coats have full pleated skirts and are mostly in gray or beige with white in a print. There are long sleeves with deep but-toned cuffs, and necklines are high, scarfed and bowed with streamers.

John Tullis and Mario Bianchetti are supported in the House of Molyneux by a young Swiss, Dorian Niederhauser, and they are exhibiting an excellent homogeneous collection. Jacques Pinturier's Parisian imaginative millinery adds the final touch.

Tullis uses colors, coordinated fabrics, floral crepes and dotted silks for brightness with good detailing. His summer focus is on medieval chataleine sweeping crepe sleeves and a fluttering of floating butterfly wings.

Tom Castles Honored At Knott Farewell Party

KNOTT (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. Tom Castle, long-time residents of Knott, were honored with a farewell party Saturday in the Knott Community Center. The couple are moving to Big Spring.

Over 60 guests were entertained with a Western band composed of Castle, Arnold Lloyd, Don Rasberry, Gary Riddle and B. Wheeler.

Hostesses were Mrs. Donald Ailred, Mrs. J. B. Shockley, Mrs. Jack Hopper, Mrs. Henry

Sample, Mrs. Bud Hughes, Mrs. Clarence Ditto Jr., Mrs. Phillip Burcham, Mrs. Robert Nichols and Mrs. Morris Barnes.

Attorney Explains Making Of Wills

Types of wills, how they are probated and accepted and their advantages, were discussed by Ben G. Bancroft, guest speaker Monday for the Howard County Young Homemakers at the Pioneer Gas Flame Room. Bancroft is a local attorney.

"Through a will you can provide for people the way you wish in the event of death," Bancroft stated. "It helps divide your estate properly, and in cases where both parents have simultaneous death, it provides guardianship for the children."

In other business, Mrs. Bobby Merrick and Mrs. Johnny Justiss reported on the recent Young Homemakers convention in Fort Worth, where Dr. Jerry Lewis spoke on drug abuse.

A LOVELIER YOU Medicated Makeup Aids Acne Problem

By MARY SUE MILLER
A teen Lovely writes: The misery of acne is upon me. I am washing like crazy and applying a medication. Is there any sort of cover-up cosmetic that would be safe to use? It sure would help my morale, especially for dates.

The Answer: During a siege of acne there is no gainsaying that a proper powder base would partially camouflage blemishes. Tinted, medicated bases have the power to hide and the aim to heal.

If your skin is supersensitive it is most apt to take kindly to hypoallergenic (not medicated) brands. But you really must seek your doctor's advice on types and brands. Should you have to stop wearing skin makeup for a little while, please do not be downcast. Put on a cheery face. That's what people really like you for, not for your makeup.

Once given a go-ahead signal for using foundation, be sure to apply it with clean hands or a fresh, stitched absorbent cotton pad. Avoid any sort of applicator, including your wash cloth, unless it is hospital clean.

If you wish to use powder, dust it onto your nose only — with a clean cotton ball. Change the cotton ball in a purse compact daily. In dire emergencies — an erupting pimple, for instance — touch the spot with a medicated cover stick, formulated for this purpose.

Most important, remove every speck of makeup before piling on more or before retiring, with a non-oily makeup remover. Then follow up with a thorough sudsing and rinsing.

Is acne your problem? If so write to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, requesting her leaflet, "Facts About Acne." Advice covers medical and home care; use of cosmetics; diet and tension control. Please enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin.

A defensive lapse induced by West's failure to fully appraise the prospects for his side, led to declarer's success in a game contract.

Against the routine bid of four hearts, West led the jack of clubs and North's ace won the trick. The ace and king of trumps were cashed, and when East discarded a club on the second round, the queen of hearts was left outstanding. Declarer played the king of clubs on which he threw one of the dummy's small diamonds. Now he exited with a heart, presenting West with his trump trick.

West having noted the diamond discard on the king of clubs, now shifted to a diamond away from the king. South won with the queen and followed with the ace and another diamond—ruffing in dummy. He subsequently conceded two spade tricks in fulfillment of his contract. It would have done West no good to shift to the ace and another spade, for that would have established the dummy's spade suit for two diamond discards from declarer's hand.

When West is in with the queen of hearts, he must shift to a small spade retaining his ace. East puts up the king of spades and now a diamond lead thru South's ace-queen establishes West's king for the setting trick.

West was guilty of placing all of his eggs in a single basket.

He'll Ask Removal Of House Speaker

AUSTIN (AP) — A Houston legislator says he plans to move Wednesday with a resolution that would remove House Speaker Gus Mutscher from his post until a federal securities case is decided.

Rep. Curtis Graves said the measure also would temporarily remove House Appropriations Chairman W. S. Healy and House Administration Committee Chairman Tommy Shannon. Mutscher, Shannon and Healy were named in depositions filed with the federal suit as having received loans from Sharpstown State Bank to speculate in the stock of National Bankers Life Insurance Co.

The bank and the insurance company are named among the 26 defendants in the securities manipulation case.

The U. S. Securities and Exchange Commission alleged several legislators and state officials were given loans and stock profit opportunities as an inducement to pass a bank deposit insurance bill. Gov. Preston Smith vetoed the bill after the legislature passed it Sept. 9, 1969.

New Cancer Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy Monday proposed the federal government set up an agency to direct an all-out fight against cancer.

The Massachusetts Democrat introduced a bill in the Senate to establish a National Cancer Authority, an independent agency whose task will be "to develop as rapidly as possible a comprehensive nationwide program for the conquest of cancer."

The legislation would provide $200 million to the agency in its first year of operation—fiscal year 1972—and $400 million for the second year. Funding the third year would be at the $600 million level.

Kennedy's proposed legislation is identical to recommendations made by the National Panel of Consultants on the Conquest of Cancer and to a bill proposed by former Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., during the past session.

Grand Jury Half Through

Howard County grand jurors had heard evidence in 19 cases by noon today. Twenty-one defendants are involved. Approximately 40 cases are to be presented, involving a total of 53 defendants.

Evidence in four cases concerning charges of forgery, worthless check over $50, and two theft over $50 were heard this morning. The other 15 cases were considered in Monday's day-long session.

Graves said he would introduce his resolution, then move to convene the House as a committee of the whole to consider the measure. This would enable the measure to be passed by the normal routine of referral to a committee which could kill it or simply refuse to report it to the floor.

He said the resolution would replace Mutscher with whom ever the speaker designated as speaker pro tem. Healy and Shannon would temporarily be replaced by their vice-chairmen.

"This would by no means be an admission of guilt, but merely a means by which the dark cloud hovering over the House could be lifted so that we will be able to move with all deliberate speed into the pressing business of our state," Graves said in a letter to each House member.

"I frankly believe that the reputation of state government is at an all-time low in the minds of the people," Graves said.

He said his resolution was "vital to necessary to clear the air so that we can move forward with the problems confronting the legislature."

News Briefs

Gary Carlson, director of the astronomy department at Big Spring High School, spoke and gave demonstrations to members of Cub Pack 29 last weekend at Elbow school. More than 80 boys and parents attended.

The program carried out the January theme of "Lights in the Sky," and Carlson showed the spot on the moon where the astronauts plan to land early in February. He also set up a telescope outside so the boys could get a view of the planet Saturn.

Two Transferred To State Prison

Lloyd Gene Nichols, 23, and Frankie Henry Johnson, 30, were transferred today to the Texas Department of Corrections to begin serving two-year and seven-year prison terms, respectively.

Nichols, 431 Hillside, pleaded guilty Friday in 118th District Court to a charge of possession of marijuana.

Johnson, Chambers County, had his probation revoked on an earlier charge. He will begin serving time on a conviction of assault with intent to murder.

Three Moved To County Jail

Two persons were transferred to Howard County jail Monday by city police, and later released on bond. A third person was transferred today.

Ronnie Ray Steen, 21, 1206 Ridgeroad, was released on $1,500 bond after being charged with forgery. Bond was set by Municipal Judge John R. Coffee.

Doris Louise Moten, 37, 509 NW 4th Apt. 2, was released on $3,000 bond after being charged with theft over $50. Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter.

Vera Hammond, 45, 1105 Pennsylvania, was transferred to county jail today by city police. She is charged with theft over $50 and remains in custody in lieu of $5,000 bond set by a Midland judge. The woman was arrested in Midland on a warrant issued locally.

Coaches Tip Y Campaigners

The 45 members turning out Monday for the start of the big game — the Big Spring YMCA participating membership campaign — heard tips from Ron Plumlee, BSHS basketball coach, and Harold Wilder, the HCJC mentor.

Plumlee urged team members to sell the YMCA not only for its excellent physical program, but also for its values in promoting Christian character. "And think of the young people in our community," he said.

Wilder warned workers that two opposing players can deal them a lot of trouble and even upset their apple cart. "Beware of procrastination and apathy," he cautioned.

Charles Bell, athletic director of the division which is using basketball as its campaign format, urged workers to make all report meetings — the next one is at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday at the Y. His corps has a $13,500 money objective, which figures at $200 per worker. There are four teams headed by Jimmy Parks, Mrs. Jack Little, Delnor Poss and Capt. Brian Minturn. In all, 74 are signed as participants in the campaign.

Alvin E. Boyd, Wednesday Rites

Alvin Edwin Boyd, 52, of Kerrville, formerly of Big Spring, died Sunday morning en route to a hospital after suffering an apparent heart attack. Boyd had been retired the past year due to ill health.

J. Overton, Lomax; one brother, Marvin Boyd, Vealmoor; and four grandchildren.

Burial was to be at 2:30 p.m. in the Jayton Cemetery beside the grave of her husband.

Mrs. McComb had made her home in Big Spring for almost two score years. She was an active member of the First Presbyterian Church here.

She was born Jan. 7, 1901, in Jayton and was married Oct. 15, 1919, to Sam A. McComb in Buffalo Gap. For many years he was sheriff of Kent County.

Big Thicket Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., has introduced legislation to create a Big Thicket National Park in the East Texas wilderness.

The bill is identical to a measure passed by the Senate but not the House in the last session. It was sponsored by Sen. Ralph Yarborough, who lost to Bentsen in the November election.

Bentsen beat Republican Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., to the punch in introducing the measure. Tower said last weekend he intends to work for a Big Thicket Park and is preparing a bill offering a compromise size.

As passed by the Senate and reintroduced by Bentsen, the authorized size would be up to 100,000 acres. No specific boundary lines are suggested.

Tower has praised Yarborough for his work on the park, saying the former senator "did yeoman labor in educating the Congress as to the need to protect this unique area of Texas, but his bill did not outline specific boundaries and called for an excessively large acreage."

Tower said he would seek a compromise concept between the 100,000-acre proposal and one for a 35,000-acre concept.

Abilenian Penalized

W. H. Stephenson, operator of Stevano Cattle Company, of Abilene, has been fined $100 and permanently enjoined by a Federal Court from violating reporting requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

He buys livestock in the Abilene area.

The U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Texas, Abilene Division, enjoined Stephenson, and his agents and employees, from failing to file, within the allowed time, any annual or special reports that the Secretary of Agriculture may require under the P&S Act. The P&S Act is a fair trade practices law. It promotes and maintains fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat.

State Will Lose Nothing By Closing Of Huge Bank

AUSTIN (AP) — State Treasurer Jesse James said today the state will lose nothing by the closing of Houston's Sharpstown State Bank. In fact, he said, the state has an excess guarantee of $1.57 million on its deposits there.

James said the state's withdrawal of $4.5 million last week had no effect on the bank's closing. "It didn't hurt anybody a bit. In fact $2 million of this was time account and we had given them the required 90 days notice," James said. "Actually these bonds (posted as collateral) had matured and we let them cash them for our money."

"In fact, we've got $1.57 million of their money up here that if they had had in cash they might not have had to close," James was criticized last week by Rep. Maurice Angly, Austin Republican, for having up to $10 million state funds in demand and time accounts in the Sharpstown State Bank. James said the bank was just one of about 1,100 in Texas that had state money on deposit and it, like the others, had to post government and municipal bonds to guarantee safety of the state deposits.

GOOD BONDS
James said that at the time of the Sharpstown State Bank's closing, there was a state account of $2.39 million demand deposit (immediately available), backed by $2.55 million in collateral. There was $3.5 million in time accounts (90-day notice required to remove) backed by $4.53 million in "good government and municipal bonds."

"These bonds are in our vaults here or in the vaults of other depository banks over the state," James said. "They are safe. The state is not out a penny."

Sources in Austin said the state treasurer and the banking commissioner were attempting to work out a settlement similar to a bank reorganization at Arkansas Pass recently. "In that case, the bank was sold to the highest bidder, reorganized and recapitalized and then opened for business. No body lost a cent," the source said. "The bank is not really broke, just out of cash."

Okies Tell Uncle Sam To Reduce Pollution

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma is giving federal authorities six months to comply with Washington's own guidelines on pollution.

The state Pollution Control Board, made up of representatives of six state agencies, voted Monday to notify U.S. officials they have 180 days in which to reduce pollution of waste water from Tinker Air Force Base and other federal installations in Oklahoma to a level complying with federal water quality standards.

The state attorney general's office was instructed to seek a court injunction to halt such pollution if compliance does not come within the stated period.

The resolution was offered by state Corporation Commission Chairman Charles Nesbitt.

Nesbitt said a Tinker representative who appeared before the Corporation Commission admitted that effluent from the base's metal replating operations do not meet federal water quality standards.

The waste, which Nesbitt said contains toxic residue, flows into the North Canadian River.

Nesbitt said Tinker officials pleaded that there were no funds to improve waste treatment before the water is discharged into the river.

Football Foes

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a Stanford graduate. My wife graduated from the University of California at Berkeley. Life is beautiful until the football season, and then the ruffies. When "The Big Game" is played, my wife wants to sit on the Cal. side, and I want to sit on the Stanford side. Last time I gave in and sat on the Cal. side and I nearly got killed. Every time Cal scored I groaned. When Stanford scored I cheered. This made me very unpopular with my neighbors in the Cal. section. Don't suggest that I sit on the Stanford side and my wife sit on the Cal. side because we want to watch the game together. My wife insists that it's the husband's place to defer to his wife's wishes. I take the opposite point of view. What do you say?

STANFORD DEAR STANFORD: Your wife should sit on the Stanford side. A lady is less apt to get snuggled in enemy territory rooting for the competition. DEAR ABBY: Will you please do thousands of secretaries a favor and print this? Whenever my boss and his wife receive a personal gift, or have been entertained or if there is any other matter which requires a personal "thank-you" note, my boss asks me to write it. Of course, he signs it. I always thought the wife was supposed to write those notes. I have a heavier workload than I can carry without all this extra stuff. I have been worked overtime, for which I am not paid, to get their Christmas cards out. I really wouldn't mind so much if either he or his wife ever thanked me for it, but it's never mentioned. His wife has even called and asked me to remind him to send So-and-so a thank you note. Who does she think does it? The good fairy? Tell him for me, will you?

NO GUTS DEAR NO: After this hits print I may not have to. DEAR ABBY: So you think it is "beautiful" if two married men phone each other three and four times a day, and run to meet for coffee or lunch daily? If you were married to one of these men you wouldn't think it was so beautiful. I had that situation for six years, and refused to face it until I found out everybody in town knew about the "beautiful" relationship but me. All the beauty faded when my husband lost his job because of all the talk. I am no longer NAUSEATED IN HUNTSVILLE DEAR ABBY: I can't tell you how happy I was to read your answer to "puzzled," the woman who couldn't get over the affection her husband had for his buddy. People who suspect sex has to enter into everything are to be pitied. I have a buddy I would give my life for. And he would give his life for me. This isn't just talk, he proved it when we were in Vietnam together. He is black, and I am white. (Maybe someone would like to make something of that, too!) Anyway, I want to assure you that two men can really love each other without being lovers.

LARRY What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 68700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90068. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Baby's Calories

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you discuss proper diet and number of calories per day for a normal nine-pound baby at birth, for the first year?—D.R.

Part of your question is easy enough to answer. Part isn't. The caloric requirement for the average infant starts at about 1,000 calories a day, then increases by about 100 calories a year.

The exact diet of a new baby is best prescribed by the doctor, because of certain variables. The doctor can readily give you the proportions for a formula if the baby is to be bottle-fed — and modifications in the formula, if required later, would depend on the baby's weight and how its digestive tract acts. Often there is no problem whatever, but changes may be needed if the baby develops certain food allergies or has a diarrhea problem. In such cases, you need your doctor's advice.

The baby's disposition also has something to do with adding other foods as the months pass. As a generality, I favor getting a baby started on baby foods quite early, say at the age of a couple of months.

One important trick is to start getting the baby used to such foods by gentle stages. A taste of one of these "strange" new foods — strange to the baby — mixed with milk or formula usually will be accepted readily. Keep thin enough, the mixture will have a consistency not too much different from what the baby is used to.

But if you try to switch abruptly to baby food without thinning it with formula, a baby may spit it out and acquire an instant aversion to new foods. And then you have troubles.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When one has a thyroid deficiency, the kind that makes you too tired to live, the medication never bring it back to normal or must it be taken all one's life? Would a complete lack of salt bring on this condition?—L.H.S.

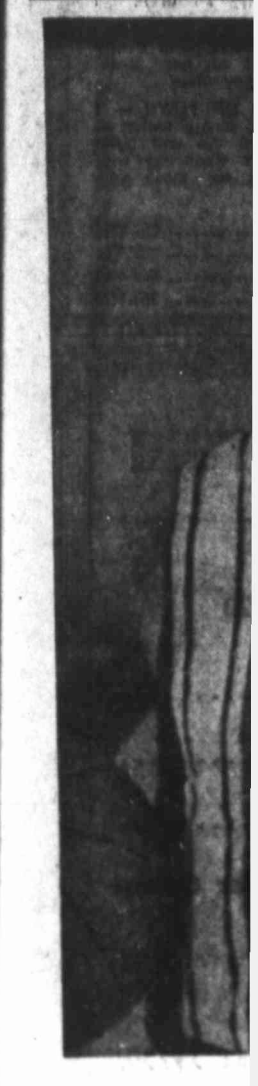

Quite often a sluggish thyroid gland will require medication for life — to replace the thyroid hormone which the gland isn't producing in sufficient quantity. That, however, does not rule out the possibility that the gland may, by use of some other medication, be brought back to normal. It depends on what ails the gland in the first place.

Just lack of salt doesn't cause thyroid deficiency. However, lack of a trace of iodine does do so. That's why iodized salt came into use — to provide a trace of iodine in areas where iodine is scarce in foodstuffs. So if you mean that kind of salt, yes, lack of it could "starve" the gland and in time lead to thyroid deficiency and goiter.

What causes "balance" trouble? What can be done to correct or overcome it? Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Dizzy Spells," discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea, Meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy of the booklet write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Senate Approves Welfare Change

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate has approved what could be a multi-million dollar welfare proposal and was expected to consider today the type of men and women the governor appoints to state jobs.

The Senate balked last week when Sen. Mike McKool, Dallas, sought approval of his "conflict of interest" resolution.

EMPLOYMENT
The resolution states that the Senate will not confirm appointees to any regulatory agency who have "either an open or obvious conflict of interest or who, because of certain indirect personal or financial interests such as employment, other relationship, or other connection, shall be deemed unable or incapable of maintaining integrity or objectivity in fulfilling the duties and responsibilities of the office to which he has been appointed."

Debate broke off last week after several senators complained of the wording, and it has not been reconsidered since.

$90 MILLION
Millions more in state money could be funneled into Texas' welfare program as a result of Lufkin Sen. Charles Wilson's proposed constitutional amendment which cleared the Senate, 26-4, Monday.

The proposal sets an $80 million a year ceiling on aid to families with dependent children (AFDC)—which is the maximum limitation now on all state welfare spending.

The other categories of welfare—the old, blind and permanently disabled—would have no ceilings, enabling the legislature to appropriate whatever amount it wanted to.

The AFDC limitation is almost $60 million more than the estimated $20.1 million a year now being spent in that category.

But again the legislature would decide how much to spend on the children.

What the state welfare department calls an average family on welfare—a mother and 3 or 4 children—gets $118 a month.

State Welfare Commissioner Burton Hackney says that would fall to about $90 by May 1 if the Senate proposal is not adopted.

SICK AND TIRED
The House, and the voters in a statewide election, still must approve the measure for the welfare changes to go into effect.

Sen. J. J. Blanchard Lubbock, complained Monday that Texans "are getting pretty sick and tired of the whole (AFDC) program."

His amendment to require monthly sworn statements from recipients of AFDC was rejected, 20-9, despite his plea for "safeguards whether its a 13-day-old child or a woman with 10 children blowing the money every way she can think of."

DIES — William Griffith Wilson, 75, a cofounder of Alcoholics Anonymous, died in Miami Beach, Fla., Monday of pneumonia. The organization that Wilson helped start has grown in 35 years into a worldwide fellowship. Wilson was a former New York stockbroker.

NEW WORD OF CAUTION
For Pipe, Cigar Users

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Surgeon General's latest report on tobacco and health bears more ill tidings for cigarette smokers plus a new word of caution about cancer for pipe and cigar users.

Recent research shows convincingly that cigarette smoking causes lung disease—cancer, bronchitis and emphysema—and provides new evidence of harm to the heart and during pregnancy, according to the Public Health Service's 500-page report to Congress.

As he has before, Horace R. Kornegay, president of the Tobacco Institute, argued against the report's conclusions saying much research was ignored that cast doubt on the link between smoking and disease.

INCREASED RISK
The report, signed by Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld, found pipe and cigar smokers were much less likely to develop heart and lung disease. But compared to nonsmokers they, like cigarette smokers, face an increased risk from cancer of the throat the report said.

HEART ATTACKS
It mentioned in particular new evidence that nicotine and carbon monoxide in cigarette smoke cause hardening of the arteries that can lead to heart attacks and other blood vessel maladies.

The report also endorsed recent finding by British researchers that mothers who smoke are more likely to have miscarriages than nonsmokers.

earlier belief that "cigarette smoking is a significant risk factor contributing to the development of coronary heart disease," the Public Health service found.

Participants in the test were Atlanta Newspapers, Inc. and Cox Broadcasting Corp., each publishers of The Atlanta Journal and The Atlanta Constitution, and Cox Broadcasting Corp., owners of WSB-TV and WSB-Radio. The test involved a measurement of advertising response for 10 items advertised by Rich's, Atlanta's largest department store.

The $16,910 spent by Rich's to advertise the test items in The Atlanta Journal, The Atlanta Constitution and The Sunday Journal and Constitution produced 71 per cent of the advertising influences reported by shoppers who attributed their purchase decisions to advertising. The $27,158 spent by Rich's in broadcast media produced 33 per cent of these influences. Another 9 per cent of the advertising influences were attributed to Rich's mail circulars.

When overlapping answers were eliminated, the score stood: 61 per cent newspapers vs. 23 per cent broadcast.

A comparison between newspapers and television which together accounted for 90 per cent of all advertising influences, showed 62 per cent attributed exclusively to newspapers; 19 per cent exclusively to TV, and 9 per cent to both.

Newspaper Most Effective Medium, Sales Test Shows

Newspapers, radio and television in Atlanta, Ga., met head-on in a test of their relative advertising effectiveness, and newspapers influenced more sales at less cost than both broadcast media combined according to test results just released this month by the Bureau of Advertising.

The test showed that newspapers deliver more than three times the efficiency per advertising dollar than do the broadcast media.

Participants in the test were Atlanta Newspapers, Inc. and Cox Broadcasting Corp., each publishers of The Atlanta Journal and The Atlanta Constitution, and Cox Broadcasting Corp., owners of WSB-TV and WSB-Radio. The test involved a measurement of advertising response for 10 items advertised by Rich's, Atlanta's largest department store.

When overlapping answers were eliminated, the score stood: 61 per cent newspapers vs. 23 per cent broadcast.

Newspapers and radio together accounted for 77 per cent of all advertising influences. Of these, 68 per cent were attributed exclusively to newspapers, 6 per cent to radio, and 3 per cent to both.

The test newspaper ads totaled 1,989 inches—the equivalent of 11.6 full pages. They ran Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 20-22, just prior to Rich's annual Harvest Sale. On the same three days, the store ran 438 30-second spot commercials — 177 on five television stations and 261 on five radio stations. This worked out to more than eight commercials for every hour of broadcast time (6 a.m. to 11 p.m.) . . . a truly saturation schedule.

DECISIONS
The Atlanta Newspapers analysis further showed that newspaper outperformed broadcast media in influencing purchase decisions of all types of customers. Over-all, 55 per cent of the shoppers (some of whom named more than one medium) reported that their purchase decisions were influenced by advertising. Among women, newspapers were credited with 72 per cent of the influence as compared to 27 per cent for TV and 8 per cent for radio; for men the figures were: newspapers, 65 per cent; TV, 27 per cent; and radio, 8 per cent.

Newspapers also showed their ability to influence young people. Among respondents under 35 years old, newspapers were credited with 64 per cent of the advertising influences as compared to 30 per cent for TV and 11 per cent for radio.

'MAYO' Nine Charges Erased

HOUSTON (AP) — Felony charges against nine members of the Mexican American Youth Organization (MAYO) were dismissed Monday.

The charges were filed against the nine after they disrupted a school board meeting here last Sept. 14 in which some chairs and tables were damaged.

Judge Joseph M. Guarino dismissed the charges because the defendants had already been tried and paid fines totaling $900 in Houston municipal court for practically the same offense and he said another trial would be double jeopardy.

MAYO gave the school district clerk a check for $350 to pay for the damages Monday. The incident occurred after Mexican-Americans failed to get board permission to address it on a chicano boycott of public schools.
