

GAVE UP $500,000 TO BECOME SECRETARY OF NAVY

Connally Denies He Violated Law By Taking Fees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee approved today 11 to 0 the nomination of former Gov. John B. Connally of Texas to be secretary of the Treasury, after testimony from Connally denying he wrongfully accepted private fees while governor.

Connally added that he gave up $400,000 to $500,000 in legal fees in order to become secretary of the Navy in 1961.

The vote came after no more than five minutes of closed-door discussion.

Connally in an open hearing immediately beforehand, denied he had violated the Texas constitution by taking $750,000 from a foundation as legal fees for executing the state of a wealthy oilman friend.

DELAYS VOTE

Committee Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said he believed stories Monday in the New York Times and other stories about Connally were indications that "someone would like to destroy this man if they could."

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., abstained temporarily from the committee vote. He had asked Connally to produce the document by which Connally settled for $750,000 as co-executor of the Sid Richardson estate rather than taking his full one-third share of the fee which he estimated would have been about $1.2 million.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson was not present for the vote.

Connally was before the committee in an open hearing for two hours.

He said he not only had not violated any Texas laws by accepting fees for settling the Richardson estate well before he became governor, but he gave up between $400,000 and $500,000 that he said would have been due him as executor in order to clear his financial matters at the time of becoming Navy secretary.

"I don't regret it but I don't think I ought to be pilloried for it," Connally told the Senate Finance Committee.

Connally said he was due, as co-executor of the estate, a total of $1.2 million but he set a sum for himself of $750,000 instead, because of the press of time before he was sworn in as secretary of the Navy.

TAX TROUBLE

He said his testimony this morning was the first time he had revealed publicly that "I took $400,000 to $500,000 less in order to serve my country."

He said the $750,000 fee which he accepted as one of three co-executors of the Richardson estate was spread over ten yearly payments to improve the tax situation. But he declared that the services to the estate had been performed nearly four years before he was sworn in as governor.

The Times story reported Internal Revenue Service filings by the Richardson foundation between 1966 and 1969 indicating a $225,000 debt to Connally and payments of $75,000 a year to him. The newspaper quoted from the Texas constitution prohibition on governors receiving outside income and questioned whether Connally might have run afoul of the law.

"The monies I received were vested long before I became governor," Connally said. "I violated no constitutional provision for receiving these payments and I have no apologies to make for collecting that valid debt."

Astros Hurtle Toward Rendezvous On Moon

Quiet Three Relax For Big Days Ahead

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 14's quiet astronauts hurtled on course today toward a rendezvous with the moon, their once balky docking mechanism no longer a bar to their attempt to land in rugged lunar highlands Friday.

On the remote chance the two ships could not link after the moon exploration, astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Edgar D. Mitchell were prepared to walk in space from the lunar module back to the command vessel for the return trip home.

AWAKE?

The three spacemen settled down for a 10-hour rest period shortly after 10 a.m. EST today following an uneventful night in which they monitored systems, recharged batteries and generally relaxed for the big days ahead.

They were more than 160,000 miles from earth, traveling about 2,400 miles an hour.

There was little air-to-ground conversation, prompting Mission Control Center to comment at one point that "It is difficult to say whether they're awake or asleep."

In one exchange, Apollo 14 asked for the results of the race at Daytona Beach, Fla., on Sunday. The crew could be forgiven for not knowing. The Porsche team of Pedro Rodriguez and Jackie Oliver won the race while the spacemen sat on a Cape Kennedy launch pad, waiting for a cloud bank to pass so they could start their lunar voyage.

Apollo 14 shifted to an on-target course Monday night when command module pilot Stuart A. Roosa fired up the big main engine for the first time.

The 10-second burst maneuvered the spacecraft off a path that would have approached to within 2,420 miles of the moon. Now it will zip within 69 miles at 2:41 a.m. EST Thursday and Roosa once again will trigger the engine to fire into an orbit ranging from 69 to 195 miles above the surface.

Still Trying To Modify Welfare Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration urged Congress today to modify provisions of welfare law that have "been shown to be too limited and rigid" in federal attempts to gain compliance by the states.

In testimony for a closed-door hearing of the House Ways and Means Committee, Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of Health, Education and Welfare said that, in cases where states do not comply with U.S. requirements, "our only remedy is to deny or terminate payment of federal funds after giving the state reasonable notice and an opportunity for a hearing."

He said since cutoff of money "is prospective only, we cannot require a non-complying state to give retroactive relief to those who have suffered loss of assistance because of the state's failure to comply with federal requirements."

Richardson proposed an amendment to permit continued payments to a state in certain situations where, after a hearing, it is found that there is substantial failure on the part of the state to comply with the federal plan requirements.

"This could be done when the non-compliance cannot be corrected immediately provided (the welfare secretary) receives assurance that appropriate steps are being taken to achieve full compliance."

'MAY DAY' Mail Rates To Skyrocket

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Postal Service announced today plans to raise virtually all classes of postage, including two cents for first-class mail and one cent for airmail.

The new rates would be effective, on a temporary basis, the second week in May.

Newspaper and magazine rates would be doubled and those for bulk mailing by one-third.

The increased rates, subject to permanent approval by an independent five-member postal rate commission, would bring in additional revenues of $1.45 billion during the year beginning July 1.

The proposed new rates would put the postal service on "a sound financial basis" for the first time in decades, Asst. Postmaster Gen. James W. Hargrove said.

First-class stamps would go from six to eight cents and airmail stamps from 10 to 11 cents under the proposal. The Postal Board of Governors formally submitted the proposal to the rate commission Monday.

The increases in second and third-class rates would be spread over a five-year period, with one-fifth of the proposed increase becoming effective each year.

Only Shadow Knows Weather

Spring is here. Maybe.

Today is groundhog day and, as legend has it, the groundhog was to decide this morning whether or not to drag winter out any longer (what winter?) or welcome spring.

The story goes that if the groundhog comes out of his den and sees his shadow that he will be so frightened he will go right back underground for six more weeks of winter. If he does not see his shadow he stays above ground and spring is here. It could have happened either way.

If the groundhog is an early riser he could have come outside without having to be afraid of his own shadow, since cloudy skies prevented the sun from casting shadows early today. However, if the groundhog decided to sleep in and was a little late wandering outside he could have found a shadow.

The entire question is purely rhetorical anyway, since there are no groundhogs in West Texas. And the local prairie dogs just do not seem too interested in getting into the well-known West Texas weather hassle.

Big Springer Gored By Bull

Gerald Wooten, 29, who drove to Fort Worth Monday afternoon to enter the bull riding event in the Southwestern Stock Show rodeo, was fighting for his life today after being gored by a Brahma bull.

The brute turned on him after throwing him on the Monday night show, goring him in the back and abdomen. He had several fractured ribs, possible internal injuries, as well as facial injuries.

He was rushed to the Glenview Hospital in suburban Richland Hills and was listed in serious condition.

His wife, Bobbie, left last night after learning of the accident, accompanied by Terry Wooten and by Ted Ferrell.

Special Awards Presented; Tower Talks At C-C Banquet

A strong military is the nation's No. 1 priority, Sen. John G. Tower told Big Spring Chamber of Commerce members at the annual banquet here Monday evening.

More than 300 attended the affair in the high school cafeteria and saw Paul Meek, president of Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, begin an unprecedented second consecutive term as chamber president.

Cutting the military budget to provide more funds for domestic programs would be unwise in the long run, Sen. Tower declared, because it would reduce the United States to the status of fortress America. Eventually this would mean reduced economic activity, with imports and export trade cut off. Carried to its end, it would mean the destruction of America and the beginning of a dark age — "and Lord only knows how long it would last."

HELP FOR OIL

The senator also struck a blow for a viable oil industry, calling for higher crude oil and natural gas prices. He observed that he has introduced a bill to de-regulate gas prices at the well head.

Among the special awards presented by Meek were: Tenacity — to Maurice R. (Frog) Koger for pursuing to conclusion projects started two years ago when he was chamber president (among them the Cosden Club as a city community center by gift from the Dora Roberts Foundation).

Outstanding accomplishment — Marvin Miller, who headed efforts that resulted in raising $210,000 in three weeks for bolstering the Industrial Foundation.

SALESMEN

Extraordinary service — Don Womack, who performed yeoman service as head of the Industrial Team, termed by Meek as "one of the best trained teams anywhere."

Top salesman — Don Crockett for enlisting 16 new members during 1970; Gerald Miller produced 14; G. C. Broughton 12.

Super-salesman — Adolph Swartz, for having personally made more than 20 industrial contacts (and Meek predicted that some of this would bear fruit in 1971). His daughter, Mrs. Sandy Tessier, received the award since Swartz is in the Aspen, Colo., hospital following a heart attack.

Sustained service — R. W. Whipkey. Meek presented to Mayor Arnold Marshall a petition signed by three-fourths of the residents on Dallas Street asking that the city council change the street name to Whipkey. Anticipating favorable action, Meek had a Whipkey Street sign ready for unveiling.

AIRMAN

The Airman - of - the - Year Award was given to Sgt. Joe Dudley Thurman, whose exemplary performance despite only 16 months in the service, made him the wing and then the Air Training Command supply first term airman of the year. He is a native of Sulphur Springs, attended East Texas State University, and is married to the former Bobbie McCarty. Col. A. W. Atkinson, wing commander, who made the presentation, said Sgt. Thurman is the "kind of dedicated, intelligent individual we must have if we are to build an effective volunteer military force."

Meek had words of praise for the Red Coats, the Ambassadors (membership-public relations arm of the chamber), headed by George Zachariah. Tributes also were paid to Tom Eastland, manager, and to the staff, Edith Gay and Marie Phillips.

COLLEGE TRUSTEES

Certificates for outstanding contribution to the community were presented to trustees of Howard County Junior College whose planning last year resulted in beginning a million dollar vocational-technical facility.

There were delegations from Andrews, Abilene, San Angelo, Midland, Odessa, Ozona, Lamesa, Colorado City, Fort Worth. Among distinguished guests were J. B. Thomas, former president and chairman of the board for Texas Electric Service Co. and who conceived the idea of a multi-city water supply for this area (R. H. Weaver, emcee, gave Mr. Thomas a voodoo doll with pins for rain-making); and W. G. Marquadt, Fort Worth, vice president TESCO.

Installed in office with Meek were Mrs. Harold Davis, Gene McElroy and Don Womack, vice presidents, and R. Clyde Hollingsworth treasurer. New directors were G. C. Broughton Jr., Larry Crow, Lanny Hamby, Don Lovelady, Alton Marwitz, Mrs. Floyd Mays, Ike Robb, Adolph Swartz, and Dr. Milton Talbot. Ex officio directors are Col. Atkinson, wing commander at Webb AFB; George McAlister, Joe Moss, Jimmy Taylor, and Bob Taylor. Recognized were Mrs. J. C. Pickle, general chairman for the banquet, and Don Crockett, co-chairman; and their co-workers.

GOOD YEAR

Meek looked back only briefly at 1970, terming it a good year: "Big Spring fared much better than much of the country." As for 1971: "Our people want progress on all fronts, and will work, and they have never failed. With this attitude, we can't miss. In 1971 this town really will get rolling."

Sen. Tower, in the keynote address, urged his listeners to let members of Congress know how they feel about the oil and gas industry, noting that some other areas of the country think petroleum is overpriced and all Texans millionaires.

NO CONTROLS

"We face a national energy crisis," he warned. "Few things are more important to us than a strong domestic oil industry. If we open the flood gates of imports to cheaper oil, we will be at the mercy of some countries we don't want to be at the mercy of."

He cautioned against controls as a way out of economic pressures, declaring that (government) strings once attached, are not easily cut.

He reserved most of his ammunition for support of the defense establishment, declaring that the percentage of budget and Gross National Product devoted to the military has been going down.

STRONG MILITARY

"The security of this nation is dependent upon a strong military. The No. 1 national priority is a strong military."

It is sheer folly to think that cutting down on defense will induce Russia to do the same, for the aim of the Soviets is world domination. Russia had rather achieve this without fighting, he said, thus to become militarily inferior would ultimately invite economic and eventually political domination by Russia, he said.

"Our forefathers faced great challenges," he said, "but none they faced are greater than the challenges facing us today."

January Hot, Dry

If January seemed hot and dry there's a good reason for it. It was hot and dry.

According to records kept by the Big Spring Experiment Station the maximum temperature in January averaged 61 degrees, five degrees above the 56-year average. The mean temperature for January was 45 degrees, three degrees higher than the 56-year average. The average minimum temperature was right on target — 28 degrees which is also the 56-year average.

The highest reading recorded was 81 degrees on Jan. 30, 1971, and the lowest reading was seven degrees Jan. 4, 1971.

There was no precipitation in January. Records show the 72-year average rainfall for January is 0.57.

Wind velocity recorded was 4.3, which is .1 above the 53-year average of 4.2. Evaporation was measured at 4.11.

Big Increase Is Predicted

GAIL — Cash income to farmers and ranchers in Borden County should be more than $3,691,500 by the end of 1976, according to J. W. Holmes, county agricultural agent.

This will be an increase of more than $548,000 from the 1968-69 figures, with cotton contributing a large part of the gain. The projections are based on studies of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and are part of the "376 in '76" program, a state-wide project to increase Texas agricultural cash receipts by more than one billion dollars.

Total cash receipts from all agricultural enterprises in Borden County are presently about $2,943,500, Holmes said. The most important ones are cotton, beef cattle and sheep.

The county will be aided in its production efforts by the South Plains Development extension specialists.

Mustang Island Funds Available?

AUSTIN (AP) — There were enough federal funds available to the state to purchase park land at Lake Livingston and Mustang Island last December, a former Parks and Wildlife Department official said Monday.

J. R. Singleton, former executive director of the P&W Department, is to take the stand again today in the court of U.S. Dist. Judge Jack Roberts.

NOT ENOUGH

P&W Commission Chairman Pearce Johnson, who brought suit after the other two members of the commission voted to spend $2.1 million in state funds and $2.1 million in U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation funds to buy 3,800 acres, has alleged there was not enough state money available to purchase land at both sites. He said Lake Livingston had higher priority than Mustang Island.

The sale of the property, owned by Mrs. Sam Wilson of Corpus Christi is contingent upon the outcome of this suit. If Johnson's suit stands and the matter goes back to the commission for another vote, Johnson will most likely get a majority.

Gov. Preston Smith Monday replaced Commissioner L. F. Gilvon, who voted with Harry Jersit to request the federal grant. His expired term was filled by Jack Stone, a Polk County banker. Stone is expected to vote with Johnson, also a Smith appointee.

CITES PRICE

The price of the acreage owned by Mrs. Wilson was appraised at $1,116 per acre, or $4,243,922 by Bob Crow, a Corpus Christi appraiser.

His testimony Monday was objected to by attorneys for Johnson, who contend that an appraisal should have been made before December.

Singleton testified that normal procedure is to get an appraisal after a project agreement is made with the BOR because BOR funds would then be available to pay for the appraisal.

Arab Will Intern Here As Policeman

Adel K. Shaban, law enforcement major from Saudi Arabia, will serve an internship in the Big Spring Police Department during the coming summer semester.

Shaban, currently attending Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, requested that his internship be served in Big Spring.

The University requires that a law enforcement student who is a last semester junior or senior take six semester hours of internship with a law enforcement agency.

The six semester hours would mean that the student would have to spend 300 hours of observation and write a report for his final examination on the entire operation of the department.

The student will be under the direction of Chief Jay Banks and will observe the total operation of the department.

Chief Banks said the department could probably expect other students serving their internship here in the future.

Codes Must Have Roots

Everyone seems to want to get on the ethics bandwagon.

The Texas Senate is running through a code, and the House has a clamor for its own version of what a code ought to contain.

This sudden pricking of the public conscience is the result of recent disclosures of quick profits, which could have been the result of inside information on the part of some high officials and some members of the legislature. Subsequently, stocks involved in these deals went sour. The Securities and Exchange Commission has filed statements claiming irregularities; institutions have been forced into receivership or liquidation.

This is not the first time that some quick profits have made news. Years ago during a bitter gubernatorial campaign there was a disclosure of juicy profits in land which found its way into the veterans land program — but the knowledge came too late to be a factor in the campaign. At the time, the attitude on the part of many if not most was: "If it's a good business deal, why not?" Yet a few were even more positive with an assertion that they would have questioned the business acumen of those involved if they had not taken advantage of such an opportunity.

So the thing that is really involved in code of ethics for the legislature (and we could certainly hope for state officials as well) is not altogether some lines defining personal conduct, but it is really rooted in the public's own sense of and commitment to what is right and what is wrong.

If codes are to do what some want codes to do, they must be rooted in public morality, a morality that insists that officials, like Caesar's wife, must be above suspicion.

It Still Helps

It is amazing and yet nevertheless true that we have grown so blasé about space shots that we no longer get too excited — unless something doesn't go smoothly.

Perhaps these malfunctions, such as the difficulty in the docking operation between the capsule and the landing module, help us bring things back in perspective.

No matter how advanced our technology, it is still the product of man's ingenuity and therefore subject to imperfections. In the final analysis, the only way these can be overcome is by man himself. And when he needs help, he may need it from a power higher than himself, hence prayers for our astronauts and for those who support and sustain them are still vital to any mission.

Ah, Dame Fashion

Around The Rim

Jo Bright

Hardly ever, now, is she called "Dame Fashion." The dignified (and once deserved) title seems a misnomer — somehow as old-fashioned and outmoded as good taste.

TO TELL THE truth, nobody takes the old girl seriously anymore. Unaccustomed to such casual treatment, she's as confused as a Women's Lib reject who was born 20 years too soon.

But, woman like, she's still a sometimes thing. Sometimes, she's "in." Sometimes she's "out." Sometimes, she shouldn't have bothered to get up.

Today, fashion isn't a feeling. It isn't even a mood. It's a press release.

TO PLAY THE garment game, or even be mentioned in the also rans, a fashion house has to be fast with the handouts. The first and last word on feminine apparel may be dattelled from London, Paris, Rome, Madrid, New York, Los Angeles or any number of lesser-known fashion centers. In each of those cities, there are numerous showings featuring creations of top-notch designers as well as those of apprentices who toil for the big-name houses.

Consider that where there used to be strength in united numbers, designers now tend to do their individual thing as individually as possible. What Dior decrees isn't necessarily so — especially after Venet and Valentino have their say.

THERE ARE YET other voices to be heard: the various trade journals, including the waspish Women's Wear Daily, which has been called sort of a racing form for clothes horses. Its clarion call supposedly has the ring of authority.

Then there are the manufacturer's publications, wherein each company pushes its particular product, as well as association brochures plugging more use of cotton, wool, silk, leather and (or) any other marketable product that needs a boost.

LET'S FACE it. Fashion is important to the economy. The garment industry and related businesses provide millions of jobs and markets for agricultural and industrial products. Styles must, of necessity, change regularly to keep the gins ginning, the machines humming and the money changing hands. In a way, every time a woman buys a dress she is doing her bit for the country. (If you look at it that way, the monthly statement is practically a citation for valor.)

THE YOUNGER generation says fashion should be fun, and who can dispute such lovely logic? Unless the laws are changed, clothing is still, I believe, pretty much a necessity. The redeeming feature is "fashion." That makes it a luxury.

(I fear that somewhere, at this moment, in a cologne-filled room, a masculine voice is saying, "All right, men, next year we're going to bring back the zoot suit — for women, of course.")

Reducing Crime

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — I trust President Nixon expects no kudos from politicians and commentators of the Kennedy-Gene McCarthy persuasion for his role in reducing Washington's crime rate. Nobody in that bunch would say a good word about Nixon lest he be barred from Georgetown drawingrooms.

For the plain citizen, however, the chances have improved of surviving in Hell City for a week without being mugged. For the first time in 14 years crime in the capital last year dropped below the level of the previous year.

PERSONALLY, I set off no fireworks because the decrease in 1970 was only 5.2 per cent below that of 1969. But it is a pretty good start, especially since the trend seems to be continuing.

From Nixon's point of view, the statistics must be particularly satisfying. They reveal that the decrease in crime reflects a trend that began in November, 1969, and has remained constant, with the exception of the month of May.

THAT IS TO say, crime in Hell City headed down only 10 months after Nixon took office. Considering the anarchy that prevailed in the streets when Nixon took over, this is a tribute to an administration that dared to take a stand in favor of law and order and — more significantly — did something to implement that stand while the chic politicians wrung their hands over the threat to criminals.

NIXON PROVIDED the money to increase police manpower from 3,000 in 1967 to 5,100 to date. He quietly pressured the D. C. government to put more foot patrolmen on the streets. And yesterday Hell City got additional crime-fighting tools when the administration's crime bill took effect. From here in, judges will be permitted to jail without bond certain offenders considered a danger to the community, and police will be authorized to enter premises without knocking at the door if they have reason to believe that evidence, such as narcotics will be destroyed.

BUT I SUGGEST that Nixon's biggest contribution was the creation of what might be called an anti-crime atmosphere. With Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, he put the Federal government on the side of the victim. He said the way to halt crime was to catch the crimina's and stash them in hoosegows. He eschewed the theory that the common hoodlum would go straight if somebody gave him a Mercedes Benz sports coupe.

NEVERTHELESS, I offer 10 to 1 that Nixon will get no credit from the liberal crowd. And the reason is that it is awfully unfashionable, don't you know, to say something nice about this particular President. He is not with it, is the bleat; he does not swing, he lacks style. The New Target

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — It is now clear to everyone in Washington what President Nixon's Game Plan for 1972 will be.

It was all decided at a top secret meeting of leading Republican strategists in Bebe Rebozo's basement at Key Biscayne. Everyone spoke his mind. "It's obvious," one Republican pol said, "that attacking students, while very popular with the electorate, does not produce votes."

"We also know that permissiveness and pornography are not the gut issues we thought they were," another strategist said.

"WE DAMN SURE can't raise the law-and-order problem after being in office for four years."

"And we know the Southern strategy laid one of the big eggs of all time."

"We've got to come up with something that the people really feel strongly about."

"But what's left?" someone asked in desperation.

"Gentlemen," a party member said, "we have taken a survey and we have discovered the one thing that bothers the American people more than anything else."

"WHAT IS IT?"

"The U.S. government."

"The government?"

"That's correct. The people are even madder at the government than they are at their own kids. They blame the government for everything that is wrong in the country. Wall Street, labor, the farmers, the ethnic groups and even people in civil service are sore at the government."

"Are you suggesting Nixon run against the government?"

"EXACTLY. I propose we attack the government with the same vigor we attacked the Doves, the intellectuals and Sen. Goodell. Our game plan will be to prove to the American people that the government is not responsive to the needs of the people."

"But we are the government," someone protested. "At least, we will have been the government for four years."

"All the more reason to attack it. If we say the government is no good, there isn't a person in this country who will not support us."

"We'll need a slogan. What about 'Power to the People?'"

"That's an inspiration."

"WE COULD call for a revolution," someone said excitedly.

"Can't you just see Agnew going out across the country making chopped meat out of the bureaucrats?"

"We could hold anti-government demonstrations with Bob Hope, John Wayne and Frank Sinatra."

"The possibilities are endless, gentlemen. Then we're all agreed that the strategy for '72 is an all-out attack on the American government?"

THERE WASN'T a dissenting voice in the room. President Nixon, who was waiting nervously in the next room, bought the idea immediately.

A few weeks later he fired the first salvo when he said, in his State of the Union message, "Let's face it. Most Americans today are simply fed up with the government at all levels. They will not... and should not... continue to tolerate the gap between promise and performance." Everyone in Bebe Rebozo's basement smiled.

Oil Slicks

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil slicks as small as 300 gallons have been detected in the open sea by aerial radar from a height of 2,000 feet. The U.S. Coast Guard may use this method to detect illicit oil discharges and to follow movements of known spills. The method was devised at the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory using general-purpose radar equipment.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: Whenever a wife reads that people who are married a long time begin to resemble each other, she looks at her husband and feels depressed the rest of the day. She never considers the bright side—that he might begin to look like her, and not she like him.

I would never want to be mayor of a town that didn't allow hurdy gurdies. Their cheerful sounds enliven the dull atmosphere of a city. One of the depressing things about Manhattan is that it has so many street beggars and so few strolling street musicians.

A civilization is tinged with second-rateness when a large percentage of its population adheres to false beliefs, such as astrology or spiritualism. But so many people today are studying astrophysical data, one suspects our times have become third rate. "Of course, I don't really believe this stuff," many say. But they do.

An old-timer is a guy who can remember when kids who wanted nuts went into the woods, not to a supermarket, and could crack them with their teeth.

The habit of reading the Bible daily was once common in America. How many people do you know who still do? I know of only one.

We used to look for the first arriving robin as a harbinger of spring. Now it's the sight of the second girl in the office who leaves her suit trousers at home and comes to work shivering in a miniskirt.

Women never give up hope. That explains why so many of them, year after year, keep trying to make something edible out of eggplant.

The most dubious human category I know of is the one which classifies a man as a "gentleman farmer." I never met one who was much of either.

Is your wife afraid of flying? The best way to make her forget her fear is to criticize her, just before take off, for some fancied fault. This will enrage her, and by the time she finishes her scathing rebuttal, the plane will have reached its destination and landed.

You know the man is master in his own house if he can come home with a black eye and his wife doesn't dare ask him how he got it.

A business firm is in bad shape if the only way it tries to solve a new problem is appointing another vice president.

Women Never Give Up

My Answer

Billy Graham

You are probably one of the most successful preachers of all time. I am in my first year of seminary, and I would like to ask you what you consider to be the most important thing in communicating the Gospel.

Second, have something to communicate. You can't talk convincingly about the new birth unless you yourself have been born again. You can't talk about a Savior unless you know Him personally.

Third, speak simply. It is one thing to speak profoundly of a simple truth, but another thing to make a simple truth profoundly meaningful. Shun the three, four and five syllable words.

Don't try to impress people with your vocabulary, but impress them with sincerity of belief. People listen more with their hearts than their heads.

Fourth, the Christian minister should put Christ at the center of his preaching. The whole world says with those Greeks who came to Philip saying, "Sir, we would see Jesus." Wise is the minister who preaches Christ, crucified and risen.

Last, give the people the good news that God loves them. This is the message for a loveless world. Tell people that God can meet their needs, that Christ is alive, and that He is adequate. Tell them Christ is the same, yesterday, today and forever. If you do these things, you will never lack for an audience.

A Devotion For Today...

Take the whole armor of God, that you may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand. (Ephesians 6:13, RSV)

PRAYER: O God, help us to play on Your side—against evils which degrade and destroy; and in helping to spread Your kingdom and strengthen one another in faith, in love, in good works. Amen.

'SPEND NOW, PAY LATER' PLAN RESTS ON CALENDAR Texas Solons Hope To Head Off Cuts In Welfare Checks

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Representatives planned to debate today an emergency measure that would enable the legislature to head off big cuts in some needy families' welfare checks.

A Senate-approved proposed constitutional amendment partially removing the $30 million annual welfare ceiling was set for House action.

Cuts of about one-third in aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) are expected in June if the ceiling remains in effect.

MIGHT KILL

Also on the calendar, but unlikely to come up, was Gov. Preston Smith's $450 million public school bond issue, the heart of his "spend now, pay later" plan to avoid new taxes.

Smith needs more time to summon support for the lagging measure, a spokesman for the governor said.

Rep. Ben Atwell of Dallas, the admittedly reluctant sponsor of the proposal, had his chance to run with the proposal late Monday afternoon. Instead he moved for adjournment.

House Speaker Gus Mutscher said Smith had told him that "he felt a little delay probably would be helpful."

GOPers Image Makers Joining

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harry Treleven Jr. of New York, who handled the campaign advertising for President Nixon in 1968, and two other Republican campaign experts have joined forces and opened an office.

The other partners are Jim Allison Jr., deputy chairman of the Republican National Committee for the past two years, and Ken Rietz, who was campaign director for Sen. W. E. Brock of Tennessee last November.

Allison said the firm would do campaign planning, advertising and public relations.

Too much delay would kill the proposal, since it takes 100 days to get constitutional amendments—such as the bond plan—to the voters. Legislative leaders say they need a decision at the polls by May 18.

ANY CHANCE?

All "emergency-type" amendments must be approved by both houses by Friday to get on the May 18 ballot, Mutscher and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes say.

Atwell said he did not "see any groundswell" for the governor's plan.

"Do you see any chance for it?" he was asked.

"No," Atwell answered Monday.

The House kept up a busy pace Monday, sending to the Senate proposed constitutional changes setting up a Legislative Pay and Ethics Commission and permitting the use of all income from state-owned public school lands to pay current school expenses.

The 15-member commission would recommend legislative salaries, which would not take effect unless approved by the House and Senate on record votes. It also would issue ethical rules for legislators and state and local government officials. These would go into force immediately unless rejected by lawmakers in the first 31 days of a regular legislative session, also on record votes.

RECORD VOTE

"It is long past the time when we should have an ethics commission in Texas," said the sponsor, Rep. Jim Nugent of Kerrville.

The measure was approved on a 129-16 record vote.

One of those who voted against it was Rep. Frances Farenthold, Corpus Christi, who said the ethics proposal was injected only to make the pay provision acceptable to the voters.

"If this is what we are about, we should say it openly and not link it to a code of ethics," she said.

Mrs. Farenthold said the ethics proposition should be done by the legislature alone and not made part of a constitutional amendment.

GAS REVENUE

Rep. Don Caveness of Austin won a 115-32 vote for his proposed constitutional change allowing expenditure of school land oil and gas revenue for current education costs.

The income now is invested, and only the proceeds from the investments can be spent.

Caveness said the plan would save $78 million or $79 million in taxes during the next two-year fiscal period.

Both the Caveness plan and the code of ethics proposal will be on the May 18 ballot if approved by two-thirds of the Senate before Friday.

Mutscher allowed introduction out of order Monday of a bill by Atwell boosting the state sales tax from 3.25 to 4 per cent. Atwell said he probably would get the bill out of his House Tax Committee Tuesday night.

'PAY AS YOU GO'

The speaker said a $48.4 million emergency spending bill, mostly for welfare, would come up Wednesday. The bill includes a provision suspending the "pay as you go" constitutional requirement so the emergency appropriations can take effect without an immediate tax bill.

Mutscher said he wants the tax bill ready in case he can't muster the four-fifths vote necessary to suspend the "pay as you go" rule, which now appears likely.

DAV Meets

Members of the Disabled American Veterans Chapter 47 will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Big Spring Savings and Loan. All disabled veterans and their wives are invited to attend. L. W. Graves, commander, said. The auxiliary will meet at the same time and refreshments will be served.

Disclosure Of Transfer Of Funds Sparks Firing?

AUSTIN (AP) — A Republican representative charges his disclosure of the transfer of state money from the Sharpstown Bank cost his father-in-law his state job.

Rep. Maurice Angly of Austin said Monday that State Treasurer Jesse James suspended Jim Hill, a 27-year state employee who headed the Treasury Department's Escheat Division.

'SECURITY LEAK'

James said Hill still was on the payroll but removed from duties pending an investigation of the "security leak."

Angly said the suspension would mean that Hill would have to retire at the 25-year pay level rather than at the 30-year level. "I'm convinced he'll keep Jim out," he said of James.

James said Hill was a "prime

suspect" in his investigation on Angly's source on the report of the transfer of $4,440,000 in state money Jan. 22 from the Sharpstown Bank in Houston to the First National Bank of Dallas. Angly made a public announcement of the transfer that same day after first confirming it with State Auditor George McNiel.

'HE CAUSED IT'

James said the announcement caused the run on the bank the following morning. "He caused it," he said of Angly.

Angly said he got the information from "a young man in Houston who is going to remain anonymous." He denied that his father-in-law gave him any information on that transfer.

"He's striking at me though Jim," Angly said of James.

"If there's nothing to hide, an innocent man does not act in a childish and petty way. An innocent man wants an investigation to demonstrate his innocence."

Angly introduced a resolution last week calling for an investigation of the Treasury Department's dealings with the Sharpstown Bank.

The bank reportedly financed purchases by some legislators and state officials of National Bankers Life Insurance Co.

Bond Sales Over Goal

Howard County sold $652,268 in United States Savings Bonds during 1970, or 109 per cent of its $600,000 goal. Dawson led in percentage for District 4 with sales of $112,143 or 112 per cent of its $100,000 goal. Andrews was next with $66,763 sales, or 111 per cent of quota.

Others to attain goals were Martin County with 106 per cent, or $31,707; and Mitchell with sales of $149,514 — so near its $150,000 goal that it was rated 100 per cent.

Fisher had sales of $46,895, or 94 per cent, and Scary had sales of $122,043, or 81 per cent. Falling considerably short of the target were Nolan with $164,554, or 61 per cent; and Gaines with $34,205, or only 49 per cent.

The district total was $1,380,092, which was 92 per cent of its $1,500,000 goal, according to a report from Larson Lloyd, district chairman.

Sales in this area, while not in the district, included Glasscock $8,151, or 41 per cent; Ector $58,766, or 107 per cent; Midland $1,297,386, or 108 per cent; Reagan $19,348, or 97 per cent; Sterling $3,090, or 15 per cent.

Area I, of which the local district is a part, had sales of $11,690,174, or 87 per cent of its goal. The state total was $181,582,787, or 101 per cent.

TEXAS WATER—II

The Most Grandiose Solution And Who Needs It

Editor's Note: You can call it the creeping crisis — this growing need for water for all — stressing all — of Texas. The most grandiose solution was hit in the pocketbook by voters. What was this plan and can it still have a little heart? The Associated Press, in this second story of a series of six based on widespread investigation, tells of the water plan and who needs it.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — "When it comes to water," says Tom McFarland, one of Gov. Preston Smith's consultants, "we are a state with two areas, the have-nots and the have-gots."

And unfortunately, he noted, "the biggest portion of the state is a have-no."

COLD CASH

It is a state rich in oil, gas, education, agriculture, manpower, brainpower, industry, tradition and just plain cold cash.

And all are in jeopardy, to varying degrees, by a potential water shortage of such magnitude as to affect the lives of all Texans.

"We have problems that are vastly different than any state in the Union," said Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake. We have, he said, conditions from tropic almost to Arctic. "We have rainfall from six inches to 90 inches."

"We have the desert and the lush plains and the rolling hills."

But one thing Texas does not have is water to meet its long-range needs.

"Full development and conservation of all our water resources is essential if Texans are to meet their responsibilities for a rapidly expanding population," the Texas Water Development Board said two years ago.

1968 BLUEPRINT

"If we are to meet these responsibilities and provide the water so essential to our well-being, we must begin now. To delay the full development of our water resources will place a burden upon the future of Texas from which it might never recover."

The board unveiled in 1968 a bold but not uncontroversial blueprint for water development designed to meet state requirements through the year 2020.

And in 1966, Texas voters jerked the financial teeth from the plan by rejecting a $3.5 billion bond issue necessary to help start it.

The most controversial and least understood phase of the plan and its bond issue was linked to a proposal to import water from the Mississippi River via canal to West Texas.

Such a project, the board concluded, was necessary because the state did not have within its boundaries sufficient water to meet its needs beyond 1985.

NO SWEAT

The effect of the bond rejection is debatable, and frequently is.

State water officials say it caused no immediate financial problems since the money would not be needed until the mid or late 1970s.

Perhaps the most serious side effect was, as one Capitol source put it, that it "left the plan's supporters in disarray, fueled dissatisfaction among those with doubts about the plan and greatly cheered the environmentalists who opposed it."

One of the misconceptions involved was the feeling of many voters that they were rejecting the plan, not merely the tool to finance it.

STILL LAW

"The Texas Water plan is still statutory, still law," said Rep. Clayton, one of the high plains' most active and eloquent water spokesmen.

"The only thing that was defeated was the bonding provision, or the financing of Texas' share, which actually was premature. We really don't need financing of that magnitude for another four or five years.

"By that time we might find alternative methods . . . of implementing that might even reduce the cost."

At any rate, blame for rejection of the water plan bonds was widespread—ecological opposition, voter apathy, misunderstanding, misconceptions, politics, personalities.

"It's easy for us to say Houston beat it, or Austin beat it," said Charles Verner, president of the First National Bank of Lubbock. "They voted against it all right, but we did not get enough people out."

Verner said he would admit "very readily" that the meager turnout on the High Plains contributed to the defeat if not in fact causing its failure.

And many view the agriculturally prosperous, irrigated Plains as the major beneficiary of the proposed water plan.

DUST BOWL

Without imported water, some West Texans and water experts contend, the Lubbock-Plainview-Amarillo area would suffer an economic setback of staggering proportions, affecting not only Texas but the nation."

"Another dust bowl," said an attorney. "A great American tragedy," said a government engineer.

However, as Verner noted, water problems are not unique to the Plains.

"Houston's got water problems galore, although they don't admit it. Abilene doesn't admit it. Abilene's right here in West Texas and they haven't been very interested in the plan."

"San Antonio has water problems . . . West Texas is not the only water problem in Texas. Hell, Houston's sinking, you know. They're having to quit drilling wells because certain areas of Houston are sinking."

"But they don't like to talk about it . . ."

El Paso, Corpus Christi, San Angelo, even the Rio Grande Valley area areas cited by water planners which will need supplemental water.

Even Northeast Texas has its water problems, mostly, however, of an enviable nature.

"They have too much water," said one expert. "The biggest single need of East Texas is flood control." And there has been some salt water encroachment in the Neches River.

IT HURTS

The point, water planners say, is that no single area is without its problems, some critical, some not. Or at least not yet. And that all areas and agencies must work toward a common goal.

"We must develop our waters and we must be able to move them anywhere in this state that it's necessary to move them, whether it's out there, or it's to San Antonio, or to Corpus Christi, or wherever," said Gerald Ivy, a Lubbock lawyer.

"It frightens me that we're facing a real critical water shortage in this state, and not just West Texas."

"We've got the rivers, the lakes and the drylands," said Rep. Clayton. "Consequently . . . it complicates anything of this vastness in trying to work a complex plan together."

" . . . What the people of Texas have got to realize . . . we're all one. We're compact.

We're a unit. If you tear us apart, it hurts us all, not just one of us.

"You could do away with my area and sure, we'd migrate to the city—and cause a bigger problem and a greater dilemma. We'd spend $30 million in urban renewal and 10 years later we'd come back and do it again."

POPULATION CITED
The Texas Water Development Board drew this conclusion: "Texas has the capability for great population growth and industrial and agricultural expansion, provided adequate water supplies of suitable quality can be made available at reasonable and equitable costs."

"With ample supplies of water, it is anticipated that the population of Texas in 2020 will have grown to 30.5 million, more than three times the population in 1960.

"Corresponding industrial and agricultural expansion to support this growth is expected to occur."

IMPORT
"If adequate water supplies are not available in time, however, this future population growth and economic development will be severely curtailed."

"Agricultural production in the western half of Texas must inevitably decline, with state-wide adverse economic impact, particularly to the associated agribusiness and financial interests in the major metropolitan areas."

Ex-Midlander Will Head New PR Firm

Allison Treleven & Rietz Inc., communications and political consultants, today announced the opening of offices at 1225 19th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

President of the new firm is Jim Allison Jr., former newspaper publisher from Midland. For the past two years Allison has served as deputy chairman of the Republican National Committee. In 1968, he managed Sen. Ed Gurney's campaign in Florida. Prior to that he was active in Texas politics, managing George Bush's congressional campaign in 1966 and in 1970.

The two other principals are also well known in Republican political circles. Harry Treleven Jr. of New York, a former vice president of the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency, directed the advertising for President Nixon's 1968 campaign, and headed the media effort in Sen. Gurney's race. He joined the Republican National Committee as director of communications in 1969. During 1970, he was involved in several campaigns around the country, including Sen. Brock's in Tennessee.

Ken Rietz, of Wisconsin and Washington, D.C., has been associated with the offices of several Republican congressmen and senators.

15-Cent Soft Drink Solves Midland Needs?

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—What Midland County needs is a good 15-cent soft drink and County Commissioner Clark Moreland—defender of the public interest—has arranged for just that.

The matter — which became Moreland's first "crusade" of the new year—developed when courthouse officials discovered citizens were carrying soft drink bottles out of the courthouse.

The county was losing the deposit money on the containers. It was suggested that the machines in the courthouse be switched to canned drinks.

"I won't stand for that," the soda-drinking, candy-chewing connoisseur declared, his bottled drink gurgling softly as he put it on the Commissioners table.

"Those canned drinks haven't got enough gas or something," he said. "They just don't taste right."

And, while Moreland didn't force the issue to a vote, personnel in charge of the machines apparently took his word for the matter.

The machine began carrying bottled soft drinks. Unfortunately, the price had gone up to 15 cents from the previous 10 cents—the increase to pay for lost bottles.

But at least thirsty citizens still have their bottled drinks.

CAPT. LARRY FUNK

Capt. Funk T-38 IP For January

Capt. Larry D. Funk, 3560th Pilot Training Squadron was recently selected that squadron's T-38 Talon Instructor Pilot of the Month for January.

He received his commission through the Reserve Officers Training Corps at Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan., where he was awarded a degree in agricultural education. Following undergraduate pilot training program at Williams AFB, Ariz., he was assigned here as an instructor pilot.

cash is the ultimate credit card.

Truth in spending. When you buy with a credit card, it can cost you much more than the price-tag price. First of all, if you don't pay off your credit card bill within a month, you start paying substantial bank interest. (After all, that's what the credit card business is all about.)

Save now, buy later. Just put off your purchase for a few months, and save up instead. Pay into your own Savings Account as systematically as though you were paying a credit card debt. You'll be saving the credit card markup, and your money will also be earning money, too.

(Open a Savings Account—or call it a "Spending Account", if you prefer. You'll save twice!)

WHERE SAVING IS EASY

Install gas air conditioning now?

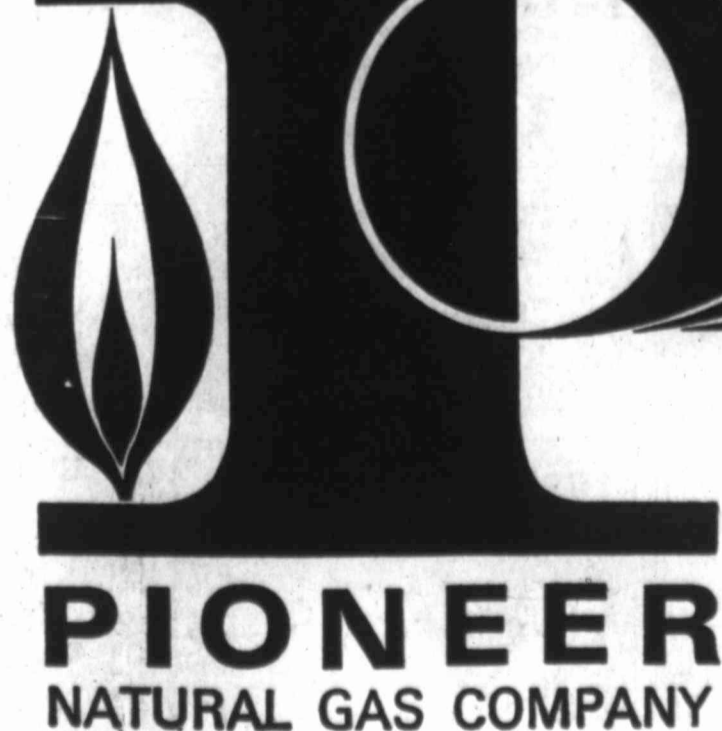

You should be so foxy

Installing GAS air conditioning now means you'll beat the rush that always comes with the first hot or dusty spring day. While everyone else is waiting for the overworked installers you'll be cool, calm, and collected.

GAS air conditioning cools your whole house quietly and efficiently. You'll save on repairs, too, because there is no compressor to break down or wear out. And, GAS air conditioning cools your whole house for what you might have been paying to cool just two or three rooms before.

So, be foxy. Call Pioneer and tell them you'd like to find out more about installing GAS air conditioning in the winter. A representative will tell you what it will take to include it in your present forced air heating system. You may be able to use the same ductwork for heating and cooling. It costs nothing to get a complete survey of your home or business.

Ask about special Winter Terms.

Likes Hair

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Do you have any suggestions on how to get an 18-year-old daughter to shave her legs? She thinks hair is "natural."

It may be "natural," but it looks awful to me. No doubt in other countries around the world hair on women's legs is taken for granted, but this hasn't been the case in the United States for a generation or two. Is there a new trend developing?

Our otherwise pretty daughter looks like a lady wrestler. I am beginning to believe that you are the only one she will listen to.

SAD DAD

DEAR DAD: Get with it!

Your daughter need not conform to my idea of good grooming, esthetics or whatever. She's doing her own thing, and if she chooses to save the hair on her legs or shave it, it's no skin off my shins. Or yours either, dad.

DEAR ABBY: For 11 years I have put up with being married to a man with two faces. Now I have decided to seek an answer. My husband is kind and considerate when we are alone, but as soon as we are with other people he turns into a cruel, arrogant man who belittles me and humiliates me in every way possible. Not wishing to make those present feel more uncomfortable, I just sit back and take it.

When we are alone, I ask him why he always insults me in public. His standard answer, "Can't you take a joke?"

Well, if this is a "joke," I guess I can't take a joke anymore. I have stopped going out with him, but I can't stop people from dropping in. I know that you can't solve my problem, Abby, but if you can tell me what makes a man act that way maybe it would be easier to live with.

DEAR HURT: If you want an authoritative answer as to why your husband feels the need to humiliate you only in public, ask him. Possibly he doesn't know, but with professional help, he can find out. But as long as you sit back and take it, why should he? If you were to stand up to him when he insults you, those present might feel less "uncomfortable" than seeing you submit like a whipped animal. Try it. You've nothing to lose but your misery.

DEAR SHRIMP: You don't say how old you are, but if you have not as yet reached your full growth, you might ask your doctor if there is anything new in "growth control." (I am not recommending — only suggesting.) Other than that, look into elevated shoes if you want a lift.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

problem is that I am only a half-inch taller than my girl friend. She is a pretty girl, and I would never give her up for this reason, but if you know any growing secrets I would sure like to have them.

I tried putting shreetrock in my shoes one night when I took her to the movies, but when we were about halfway home I had to take it out because my feet were killing me.

She doesn't wear heels because she doesn't want to be taller than I am. So what advice have you for me? SHRIMP

Insulin 'Dents'

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you suggest what causes large dents on the arms and legs of a girl, 10, who has had diabetes for seven years? Now they are giving her shots on the upper part of her little sit-down, and in the stomach. She has large dimples and indentations. Can this be corrected? —B.J.P.

and involves a loss of fat below the skin at the sites of such injections.

Treatment isn't too effective. However, as the individual puts on a little weight, the dents become less noticeable.

In some instances, it may be recommended that the injections be given a little deeper. In other cases, it helps to use a highly concentrated insulin, U100 or even U500. Allow the insulin to reach room temperature before injecting.

The condition, while a nuisance cosmetically speaking, isn't likely to cause any severe trouble. It is called "insulin lipatrophy."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 62 and had diabetes for a year. I am supposed to take a pill a day but have not taken any for three months and feel fine. Every time I take a pill I feel tense and high strung so I quit them.

The doctor said if I don't take them I will go blind or something will happen. What do you think?—L.P.

I know of nothing in any of the other types of diabetes pills. The pill you are using may be causing too great a drop in your blood sugar.

Nobody can say that you will go blind, but it is one of the things that sometimes happens when diabetes is not controlled, and the blood sugar level rises too high for too long a time. Your blood sugar-tests will determine whether you can get along without the pill.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson

Barking Yarn

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Charles Goodwin, who had been plagued by the constant barking of a dog when trying to sleep, called police one night.

Goodwin soon was assisting the police in removing the dog from the ledge of a bluff. The black dog has miraculously escaped death by not continuing its fall from a bluff when it landed on the ledge.

Goodwin was on the ledge with the dog when firemen arrived. He put a rope around the dog and lowered it to a fireman on an extension ladder.

Goodwin descended the ladder and firemen turned the dog loose. It left the scene with a few short yips of joy and Goodwin returned to his home, hopefully for a night's rest.

Unitas, Kapp Inspire UCLA's Dennis Dummit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dennis Dummit, UCLA's all-time leading passer, is still recovering from the shock of not being drafted by a pro football team, but he is aware of free agents who have made it—like Johnny Unitas and Joe Kapp.

DENNIS DUMMIT

"I was stunned that no one drafted me," said the 6-foot, 175-pound passer, "but I guess it's the same old story. People have always thought I was too small. Now I've got to prove they're wrong again."

In two seasons at UCLA, after two at Long Beach College, Dummit surpassed Bob Waterfield and others by completing 289 passes in 552 attempts for 4,556 yards and 29 touchdowns. Last season, he passed for 2,393 yards, connected on 51 per cent of his passes and even ripped apart the Texas defense for 340 yards through the air. Texas had been rated No. 1 at the time and the Bruins, who led until there were 12 seconds left, finally lost the game 20-17.

"I know I can throw the ball," said Dummit, who recently turned down a Rhodes scholarship in anticipation of playing pro ball. "When I graduated high school they said I was too small and when I got out of junior college they said I was too small.

"But I have never been hurt in my life and I've taken some good shots. . . ."

"Football has been my entire life for the last seven years. I've looked forward to doing nothing else but playing pro football. Now, I'm not so sure of what to do. I guess I could go the free agent route but free agents aren't usually given too good a look.

"And yet, each day I think more and more about it. I'm hoping some pro team will contact me but if that doesn't happen, I guess I'll sit down with team rosters and see which team needs a good quarterback. And then maybe try out as a free agent. Others have made it that way. . . ."

Despite a rash of injuries this past season to almost every Bruin pass receiver, Dummit adjusted to new people week after week and passed the Bruins to triumph. Almost every time, UCLA rallied from behind with an aerial assault. Dummit's coach at UCLA, Tommy Prothro, is now head man of the Los Angeles Rams. Will Dennis go to the Ram camp next season.

"I'm not sure how to look at the Ram situation. One way is that their coaches were my coaches at UCLA and I know I'd get a fair look. But I don't go and try out, it wouldn't be fair to Prothro. He might feel that if he keeps me it might be taken as if it were only because I played for him in college. I wouldn't want to put him in that situation."

Girls Defeat Colorado City

The Big Spring Steerettes wore out Colorado City, 15-2, 15-1, in their first volleyball match of the 1971 season here Monday night. Susie Lynch is coach of the Black and Gold.

The Steerettes return to play in the Odessa College tournament next weekend, facing Midland Lee in a first round game at 12 noon Friday.

Mary Lou Brown and Ann Brown were the top servers for Big Spring. Up front, Judy Bair, Mary Alice Terrazas, Beverly Peters and Kay Lou Caffey all did Trojan work for the locals.

Big Spring also won the B game, 15-0, 15-4.

Melodie Burchell led the servers in the first game, at which time Laticia Trevino and Kate Bradshaw were at the net. In the second game, Janice Platte paced the point-getters with Beverly Doering and Sandra Magers excelling up front.

Writings On Oil, Gas Laws Compiled In Books

Writings of two distinguished authorities on oil and gas law have been collected and published in book form under a grant made by a Midland foundation.

The two author-attorneys are Lee Jones Jr., Colorado City, and A. W. Walker Jr., Dallas. Until recently Jones practiced law in San Antonio. Walker is a former professor of law at the University of Texas and is now a partner in the Dallas law firm of Jackson, Walker, Winstead, Cantwell & Miller.

The Abell-Hanger Foundation financed publication of the two-volume set of legal papers as a way of preserving some of the landmark discussions dealing with major developments and problems in Texas' oil and gas law. George T. Abell, president of the foundation, said that publication has been "synchronized" with this historical interest of the proposed Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library, and Hall of Fame.

Only 16 sets of the new compilation have been printed. At least two of these will be presented to the museum. Disposition of the others has not been determined. All of the copies are autographed.

Jones' 10 articles include discussions of tort liability, problems in joint ownership of minerals, and preservation provisions in oil and gas leases. They were prepared over a period of years beginning in 1934.

Walker's 21 subjects include the nature of property interests in Texas leases, oil payments, and control of oil and gas with that of ground water. The earliest of his papers was prepared in 1928.

Jones was graduated from the University of Texas Law School in 1934. He has specialized in oil, gas, and mineral law for 36 years, and has written numerous articles - for law journals and bar association meetings. In 1959-60 he was chairman of the Mineral Law Section, State Bar of Texas. He and Mrs. Jones have recently moved from San Antonio to his boyhood home at Colorado City.

George Mahon To Speak At Water Meet

LUBBOCK - Cong. George H. Mahon will be the luncheon speaker for the ninth annual West Texas Water Conference Friday at the Red Raider Convention Center in Lubbock.

Registration for the conference will begin at 8 a.m. Rep. Mahon will discuss the status of water-related appropriation proposals now before Congress. He has been chairman of the House appropriations committee since 1964.

At the same meeting four new members of the West Texas Water Institute will be introduced to the membership who elected them by ballot. They are: Bill Clayton, executive director of Water Inc. Dr. George McBee, Lubbock resident director of research, Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center, Bill Waddle, manager, Texas Water Conservation Association; and C. Palmer Norton, founder of Irrigation Age magazine.

In addition to reports from research specialists and Mahon's address, conference speakers will include Peter J. Reynolds, head of the General Studies Section, Water Planning and Operations Branch, Government of Canada, discussing the "Canada Water Act: A Vehicle for Action," and Fred H. Bayley, III, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, discussing water planning in the Mississippi River Basin.

Mize Named ASA Czar

Cotton Mize was named commissioner of the American Softball Association's District 7 at a meeting of softball officials, which took place in Pecos the past weekend.

Mize attended the convocation, along with Manley Cook of Big Spring.

Present at the meeting was W. W. Kethan, president of the International Softball Federation, and a member of President Nixon's Committee on Physical Fitness and Commissioner of the Texas State ASA.

District 7 embraces Dawson, Martin, Scurry and Mitchell counties, as well as Howard. Kethan travels in excess of 100,000 each year promoting softball. He and Mrs. Kethan are on their way to Tucson, Arizona, to attend the National ASA convention.

Approximately 300 people met with him at Pecos. One of those was the mayor of Pecos, who gave the welcoming address.

Mize said plans were being made in Big Spring for a banner year in the sport and he held out hopes that several new teams would be organized.

Mize also expressed the conviction that at least two new diamonds were needed.

Opening lead: Jack of ♠
A truly virtuoso performance comes thru in today's hand taken from a recent tournament where one South fulfilled a four spade contract which eluded the grasp of most other declarers. While it is true that the initial attack of the ace and another club would have been very productive for the defense, one can hardly view such a maneuver as the normal procedure, and I for one can find no fault with West's opening lead of the jack of diamonds. The four was played from dummy, East signaled encouragement with the seven and South won the trick with the king.

second round, North's ten of spades became established as an entry. South decided to work on dummy's heart suit and, after playing the top two honors, he ruffed a third round with the five of spades, as West discarded a club.

The shrewdness of South's play may be noted when we consider East's plight at this point. He was looking at a dummy that contained an established long card in hearts with secondary controls in both minor suits as potential entry cards. East tried to put off the evil moment by leading the ace of diamonds, but South allowed his adversary to win this trick also, as he threw a club. East switched to a club and West took the third trick for the defenders with the ace of that suit, but the North hand was now established to claim the balance.

Declarer's discard on the fourth round of hearts is the key play. If he ruffs, it will be with his last trump and now, when a club is led toward the king in dummy, West will come up with the ace and play the ten of diamonds thru dummy's queen - permitting his partner to take four tricks in that suit.

Phi Zetas Plan Rush Parties

Fifteen rushees will be entertained by Phi Zeta Omega, Beta Sigma Phi, at a Crazy Bridge party Feb. 11 in the First Federal Community Room.

Plans for the party were completed Monday evening at a meeting in the home of Miss Annie Heirman, 1701 S. Monticello, with Mrs. Joe Schalk presiding.

Mrs. Clay LaRochelle, social committee chairman, announced that the chapter will hold a cocktail hour in the home of Mrs. Wayne Stroup, 1304 Baylor, prior to the BSP Valentine Ball Saturday evening at Big Spring Country Club.

Miss Pam Dyer reported that name banners are being prepared for the council's presentation of chapter sweetheart's at the ball. Jim Baum will serve as master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Schalk presented the program, "Am I A Practical Person?" giving advice on being practical in money matters, conserving time and planning trips.

The next meeting will be a model meeting for rushees in the home of Mrs. Byron Hedges U.S. Experiment Station.

Charles Tuttle Discusses Sale Contract Procedure

Charles Tuttle, attorney for Cosden Oil and Chemical Company, spoke Monday about the preparation of sales contracts for Cosden chemical and plastic products, for the Big Spring Desk and Derrick Club in the Cosden conference room.

Tuttle explained the areas of price, quantity, liability and warranty clauses, and said that such clauses are phrased in light of the anti-trust statutes and the uniform Commercial Code.

The UCC has been adopted by most states, and was adopted by Texas in July, 1966. According to Tuttle, it is the source of authority for contracts where points of conflict are omitted.

Paragraphs of a contract were explained by Tuttle. He talked about warranties, price protection, remedies and the obligation of good faith. He also discussed the financial responsibility of the buyer and seller to each other.

Mrs. W. L. Thompson presided, and the attendance prize was won by Mrs. Chester Matheny. Members agreed to amend the by-laws to provide a raise in membership dues. They will also submit a nomination for the title of "First Lady of Petroleum," sponsored by the Desk and Derrick Clubs of North America to mark their 20th anniversary.

Mrs. Thompson appointed committee chairmen for the year. They are, Miss Sue Faulkenberry, program; Mrs. Paul Sheedy, publicity; Mrs. Everett Barnett, bulletin; Miss Marguerite Cooper, social; Mrs. Matheny, hostess; Mrs. Leon Kinney, parliamentarian; Miss Helen Hurt, membership; Mrs. Joe Blasingame, field trip; Mrs. Adrian Randle, by-laws; Mrs. H. R. Gollnick, historian; Mrs. Stan Ballou, scrapbook; and Mrs. Leonard Saint, goodwill and telephone.

In other business, Mrs. Sheedy presented a scrapbook to be given to the past president, Mrs. John Damron. Two new members present were Mrs. Saint and Mrs. Maurice Allen.

Lingerie Needs Daily Cleaning

It is normal for everybody's body to give off waste matter through the pores of the skin. This is absorbed by the underclothing, and unpleasant odors are almost certain to result unless both the body and the undergarments are clean.

Both health and attractiveness make it necessary to change and launder lingerie often — preferably every day.

A LOVELIER YOU Battle Winter Skin With Daily Baths

By MARY SUE MILLER

Weather takes a toll of your skin, whether you winter under tropical sun, on ski slopes or, like most of us mortals, on smoggy home grounds. Both heat and cold, torrid air and icy wind induce dry skin. Effects become noticeable about now. The face feels tight and crinkled; the all-over complexion is flaked with chap.

The quickest remedy involves a treatment bath and rubdown taken for at least 10 consecutive days. Beauty counselors at all points of the compass have found that it works. Here's what you do:

Start drawing a tepid bath and trickle in a soft-soft bath oil. While the tub fills, cleanse your face and apply a moisturized lubricant. The warmth of the water will react on the cream like a fountain of beauty.

Once in the tub, relax every muscle and let the oil get to work. Then whip up a sudsy storm with glycerine complexion soap, letting the water slowly drain away. Finish with a fresh water rinse and a really brisk toweling.

Now for the rubdown. What will you use? A creamy, light-textured lotion fortified with vitamins would turn a smoothie in gtrick. Vita-lotion is quickly absorbed without sticky after-maths.

For the doing your skin will come to look as lovely as a Lovelier's should. And it is likely to stay in petal condition if you subsequently take the treatment once each month.

LOVELIER HANDS

Do you have a hand problem? Send today for "Lovelier Hands," a leaflet that covers every step in a quest for hand beauty. It tells how to keep the skin and nails groomed; how to overcome weak nails, polish-chips, discolored knuckles, prominent veins, wrinkles; how to use the hands with poised grace. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin.

PRESENTED BY COUNCIL

Accept HD Recommendations

The Howard County Home Demonstration Council, which met Monday afternoon, has presented its 1971 recommendations which were approved by individual clubs.

High on the list of projects which will get special attention is the Howard County Museum. In related areas, members were urged to develop an appreciation for the creative arts by touring area art galleries. Mrs. Alton Underwood is chairman of the cultural arts-recreation committee, assisted by Mrs. Richard Perry and Mrs. L. Z. Rhodes.

The safety committee, composed of Mrs. R. L. Shortes, chairman; Mrs. B. F. Mabe and Mrs. Guy Cook, will lead the clubs in studying alcohol and drug abuse as related to the community and becoming aware of safety and self-protection practices inside and away from home.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Billy Gaskins, chairman; Mrs. Frank Wilson and Mrs. J. R. Clemmons of the health committee, the clubs will view the causes and effects of mental health and mental retardation with each club having a project to help the mentally retarded.

The family life committee recommended that clubs have programs which help determine values and improve communication within the family. In conjunction with this, aid will be given to senior citizens and shut-ins of the community. The committee includes Mrs. Ray Swann, chairman; Mrs. D. S. Phillips, Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. Edward Simpson and Mrs. Ross Hill.

The citizenship committee is headed by Mrs. W. N. Norred, and members are Mrs. Joe Myers and Mrs. Bob Wren. They have suggested that HD club members study new legislation concerning marriage laws and common law marriages and that each member assume responsibility for teaching respect for law enforcement officials.

As in the past, HD clubs will continue to work with 4-H clubs, contributing to scholarships and other funds. In furthering 4-H club objectives, the clubs will invite 4-H clubbers to give method demonstrations at their meetings.

Mrs. Waymon Etchison presided at Monday's meeting, with Mrs. Mabe giving the devotion on love from "Backyard Battleground" by James Van Vleet.

All clubs were represented, and Mrs. E. F. Arnold was a guest. The City HD Club hosted the social hour, and refreshments carried out a valentine theme.

Mrs. C. E. Pearce spoke about the food and customs of people in Tripoli, Libya, Saturday for the Friendship Sunday school class, Wesley United Methodist Church, in the home of Mrs. Flo Odom, 905 Runnels.

Mrs. Pearce is the daughter of Mrs. Alta King, 702 E. 12th. The Pearces have lived in Libya for two years, and in April they will move to Malta.
