'Something's Wrong' With Texas Vote Laws

AUSTIN (AP) — Two college professors and Texas' top labor leader and election official urged a Senate committee Tuesday to do something about the traditional reluctance of Texans to vote.

The witnesses before the Senate Elections Committee suggested the best solution would be to make it easier to register.

POLL TAX

"All we have today is a pay-less poll tax," said H. S. "Hank" Brown, president of the Texas AFL-CIO.

He said even in 1964, when a native Texan, Lyndon B. Johnson, was running for president, less than half the eligible voters in Texas went to the polls.

Dr. Clifton McCleskey of the University of Texas government department said one out of three Texas adults could not vote now if they wanted to because they had failed to register.

Mrs. Janice May, also a government teacher at the university, said the Texas League of Women Voters have made voter registration their No. 1 priority in the 1971 legislature.

"I have felt for a long time that our present voter registration system was inferior to those in use in most other states," said Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr., Texas' chief election official. "I do not believe that our present annual registration system achieves the goals of a good registration system."

Sen. Mike McKool of Dallas, who is sponsoring a proposed form of permanent registration, said Texas is the only state requiring annual registration. And, in 1968, he said, Texas was 48th among the states in percentage of voting age population actually voting.

Annual registration, however, was ruled unconstitutional by a three-judge federal court in Houston Jan. 7. The ruling is being appealed.

'YEAR-ROUND'

McKool's bill, which was sent at his request to a subcommittee, provides for re-registration every four years. Registration is renewed automatically, however, if the person votes in a party primary or the November general election for state and county officers within the previous four-year period.

A registered voter who fails to vote within four years is sent a renewal notice, and he may renew his registration by signing and returning the notice. If the renewal notice is not returned, the registration is cancelled. A person may get back on the registration list by applying in person or submitting a written application.

McKool said he will propose a "year-round" registration with a 30 day cut-off period before any election. His bill also would require moving companies and utility companies to make monthly reports to the registrar of moves made by customers. Brown said the AFL-CIO spends over 50 per cent of its campaign budget on registering voters. "When some states turn out 86 per cent, and we average 40-43 per cent, something's wrong," he said.

Off-The-Record Motion Denied

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes has denied a motion to get statements about off-the-record discussions in connection with a federal civil suit alleging stock fraud.

Austin lawyer John Osorio, one of 14 individual defendants in the suit, sought to delay the first hearing in the case, scheduled for Monday.

Osorio and Donald S. Akins, former vice president of the defendant National Bankers Life Insurance Co. of Dallas, asked for a continuance so they could get more definite statements from the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission about its charges.

Judge Hughes denied the motions Tuesday.

Osorio had claimed that to prepare his defense adequately he needed off-the-record statements of 11 persons whose depositions were taken by the SEC.

These included four off-the-record discussions by former Gov. Allan Shivers and three by House Speaker Gus Mutscher Jr.

Another defendant, Houston financier Frank W. Sharp, asked that the hearing be consolidated with a hearing on a permanent injunction on an unspecified date.

The SEC seeks a preliminary injunction at the Monday hearing.

Says Delinquents Try To Get Caught

DALLAS (AP) — A psychiatrist says juvenile delinquents may actually try to get caught by police because of an unconscious wish to obtain control of his behavior.

Dr. Larry Kimsey of the Southwestern Medical School here made the statement to an inter-American meeting of psychiatrists and psychologists in Buenos Aires.

Dr. Kimsey, assistant professor of psychiatry at the University of Texas school, reported on four years work with juvenile delinquents in a joint project with the Dallas County Juvenile Department.

"We learned that you can treat them as outpatients—which was the object of the study," he told the meeting.

Control of the group, both in individual outside actions and during the group sessions, became the most important factor of the therapy, said Dr. Kimsey. The first area was accomplished when judges began making sessions part of probationary arrangements. The spectre reform school served to assure attendance.

Teams of a male and female psychiatrists, psychologists and probation officers worked with all groups and provided the needed internal controls.

"Without internal control, there is frightful anxiety and destructiveness in the group," says Dr. Kimsey.

Says Dr. Kimsey: "Delinquents are those who have been caught. In our experience, it is striking how these boys, prior to treatment, tended to gravitate to the police. Almost invariably, their crimes are committed either in close proximity to the police, or in such a way as to be easily detected.

"The fruits of their crimes were skimpy, to say the least.

"We were struck, therefore, by the idea that there must be some purpose, albeit unconscious, behind their need to be apprehended.

"They seem to provoke their own punishment."

19 Senators Ink Lib Bill

AUSTIN (AP)—Sen. Don Kendall of Fort Worth got 19 of the 31 senators to sign his women's rights constitutional amendment.

It provides that "equality under the law shall not be denied or abridged because of sex, race, color, creed, or national origin."

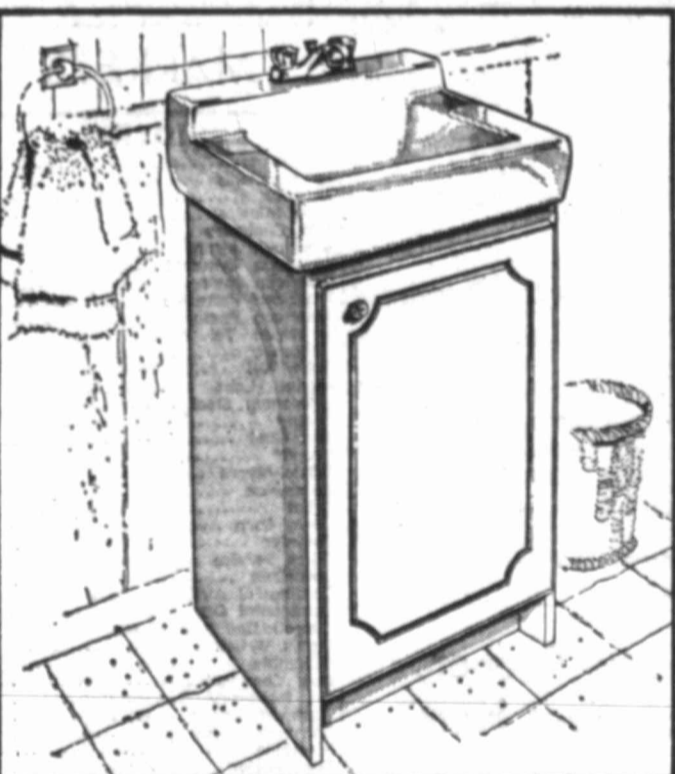

Other Senate proposals would: —Exempt Texas from daylight saving time.

—Create a special state fund to provide aid to local law enforcement agencies.

—Take the American bison or buffalo, off the list of big-game animals which may be hunted.

—Set up a three-member civil service commission to oversee state employment.

In the House, Reps. Johnny Nelms of Pasadena and Jim Clark and Robert Gammage of Houston introduced a bill requiring new industries to submit plans to the Texas Air Control Board for approval. The bill also would apply to plant expansions.

Opening lead: Nine of ♠

In defending against a slam contract, the ace of trumps is usually a potent weapon in the hands of the defenders. However, it proved to be a liability to West in today's hand, when he failed to cash his trick with sufficient dispatch.

When his opponents got to six spades, West pondered his opening lead at great length. He considered putting down the ace of trumps in order to inspect the terrain, but was reluctant to part with his jewel. He couldn't decide between either of his long suits, and finally compromised on the nine of hearts.

When the dummy was spread, everything seemed to hinge on the club finesse, but West had taken so long to decide on his opening that declarer was a bit pessimistic about finding the king of clubs on side. He decided to play around a bit to see what would develop.

Since West had opened a high spot in hearts, he appeared to be short in that suit. South won the first trick in his hand with the jack and proceeded to cash the ace of diamonds, dropping dummy's king, and continued with the queen and jack. With nine cards in the suit outstanding, there appeared to be little risk in this maneuver. On the second and third rounds, the remaining hearts were discarded from dummy. Now the ace of hearts was played and all hands followed. On the queen of hearts, West discarded a diamond and the dummy threw a club.

With the red suits stripped out, South led a small trump and West was in with the blank ace of spades. Since a diamond return would present South with a ruff and sluff, West led back a club into the ace-queen. Declarer drew trump and claimed his contract.

OPEN CAMPUS, SMOKING AREA

'Student Rights' Urged By Panel Speakers

The closed campus is unnecessary, and students feel they need a smoking area at school, according to a panel discussion held Tuesday by high school students and a counselor, Mrs. Harold Rosson, at a meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association City Council.

Students speaking on the panel were Bobby Carlisle, Sam Chappell, Debra Davis and Kae McLaughlin, all junior students. They felt that disturbances spread to the high school level because "student rights" are ignored.

According to the panel, student responsibilities include getting homework in on time and giving the best effort, being proud of your school and acting in such a manner that it can be proud of you.

In the area of the home, it was felt that parents need to set a curfew but to relax it for special occasions. Dating should be before high school but should be limited. Religion should be encouraged but not forced, and clothing should be allowed to be stylish but within standards. If a student's room is neat, he should be able to choose his own decor.

As to the student's responsibility at home, they should let their parents know where they are, be responsible when they have the car, perform chores and "honor your father and mother."

Mrs. Frank Moore introduced the program, and George Archer led prayer. Mrs. David Hodnett presided for the business session, reading a poem, "Prophecy of Youth."

Named to the council nominating committee were Mrs. Douglas Hattenbach, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Roy Watkins, Mrs. Jack Brown and Jim Holmes. The Life Membership committee includes Herman Smith, Mrs. Harlan J. Hill and Mrs. S. C. Rhoton.

Mrs. Brown announced that the spring PTA conference will be March 29 in the Sacred Heart Youth Center with Mrs. Wiley Alexander, state vice president, as guest speaker. Instruction for new officers will be held, and Keith Swim will guide a tour of Head Start.

Mrs. Hodnett noted that Feb. 17 is the anniversary of the founding of PTA in Texas and presented a salute to its founders, the late Mrs. Alice Birney and Mrs. Phoebe Hearst. Local units were urged to observe Founders Day.

Refreshments were served by College Heights and Marcy schools under the direction of Mrs. C. K. Orr. County Judge Ralph Caton will speak on "What Can We Do About Drugs?" at the March 2 meeting.

Churches View Racial Barrier

The Women's Missionary Society, Baptist Temple, discussed the racial barrier in the churches, and means of better racial understanding, Tuesday at the church. Mrs. James Puckett, program chairman, and Mrs. B. B. Hardee led the discussion.

"The racial barrier is not new," said Mrs. Hardee, "but today's conditions have worsened it. Plans call for more ministering to personal needs and to offer more cultural and educational background. Today, day care centers are being established, and there is beginning to be an exchange of talent between blacks and whites, such as ministerial exchange programs."

Bible study will be Tuesday, 9:30 a.m., in the Hardee home, 2002 Merrily.

Incentive Prize To Inch Pinchers

Members of the Inch Pinchers agreed Monday to award an incentive prize to any member who reaches her set goal in weight reduction. Mrs. Ray Anderson presided at the meeting in the home of Mrs. Lewis Soles. The next meeting is Monday, 9:30 a.m. in the home of Mrs. William Johnson, 3609 Calvin.

'Express Yourself' Says Alpha Beta Speaker

"Express Yourself" was the program given by Mrs. Sharon Christian Tuesday to the Alpha Beta Omicron Chapter of Coahoma, Beta Sigma Phi, in the home of Mrs. Jerry Myrick, 1703 Jennings.

Mrs. Christian said the language of a person often reveals his type of person.

Mrs. Jack Owens presided, noting that the chapter will elect the "girl of the year" and "pledge of the year" at its next meeting, Feb. 16, 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. D. L. Owens, Sand Springs.

Mrs. Joe Smith, membership chairman, announced plans for a rush coffee, Feb. 19, 9:30 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Roe Fulgham. The chapter will also sponsor a couples western party for rushees, Feb. 27 at the Midway School. A bake sale is scheduled Feb. 13, 10 a.m. at Anderson's.

Committee For Ladies Society

The St. Thomas Ladies Altar Society met Monday at the church with Mrs. Manuel Cervantes presiding. Named to the refreshment committee for March were Miss Eufemia Escobedo, Mrs. Raymond Montez, Mrs. T. M. Montanez and Mrs. Adela Dominguez. The attendance prize was won by Mrs. Frank Marin. The next meeting will be March 1.

A LOVELIER YOU Control The Weather With Fabric Choice

By MARY SUE MILLER The fabrics you wear can personalize the atmosphere around you. A bit far out, you think? Not when you picture yourself in a pale, drifty voile dress on a hot day. Why the air cools around you at once and everyone wants to come near and catch the breeze.

Spring materials offer you many choices of climate. If you feel for the countryside, new denims bear your name along with checked gingham, seersuckers, ticking, cotton knits, tiny florals and calicos, rock and bark prints.

Or perhaps you crave an ethnic background. You name it — Oriental, Indian, Mexican, Moroccan, Prairie, Victorian, Gypsy — and you can have it in authentic patterns, colors and embroideries.

For a lovely bent on classical linens, pongee and homespun; silky foulards and polka dots; bodied crepe; heathery tweeds and quality leathers.

The cosmopolite could see her metier materialize with fine gauge and jacquard knits, tie silks, printed sheers with companion printed crepes; butterfly and neat geometric prints; tissue faille; lightweight, textured wools. Mayhap an airborne aura is your aim? Then select baby knits, chiffons, sheer crepes — settings, there are neutral any fabric softened to limpidity. Of course, it is possible that you enjoy a frequent change of weather. In that case, vary the vane of your fabrics. You are sure to kick up a storm of interest that way.

Webb Hospital Personnel Recognized As Outstanding

Four members of the 3500th United States Air Force Hospital at Webb AFB have been named as outstanding for the October-December quarter.

They are: 1st Lt. Agatha M. Gallo, nonrated junior officer; M. Sgt. Peter A. Neill III, senior noncommissioned officer; S. Sgt. Frankie J. Schalk, noncommissioned officer; and Airman 1C Mark E. Johnson, airman of the quarter. All are quarterly honorees.

Lt. Gallo is the pediatric nurse clinician at the hospital as well as director of classes with parents, orientation and supervision of Red Cross volunteers. She also screens and classifies patients.

As noncommissioned officer in charge of the hospital's registrar section, Sgt. Neill supervises all aspects of the registrar's office which include the preparation and review of clinical records; aeromedical evaluations; preparation and submission of recurring reports, and all matters pertaining to deaths, seriously ill patients, or casualties, as well as other statistical data.

In addition to his official duties, Sgt. Neill is a board member of the Base Top Three Council, president of the Webb AFB Little League, and has completed almost three years of college credit in his off-duty time. He was an honor student last semester at Howard County Junior College.

As noncommissioned officer in charge of the physiological training unit's training section, Sgt. Schalk is responsible for scheduling all student training, as well as all record and files pertaining to student training.

To further his education, Sgt. Schalk participates in off-duty education, taking college level courses.

Assigned to the general therapy clinic of the base hospital, Airman Johnson works directly with patients, changing dressings on wounds and burns,

Allowable Cut In Six Fields

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission has cut the oil allowable in six fields because of the possible waste of casinghead gas, a natural by-product of oil production.

The statewide oil allowable of 82.1 per cent was lowered in three fields in the San Antonio No. 2 district and three in the Lubbock district. The most drastic cut was in the Seminole west field, where the allowable was slashed to 35 per cent of potential.

Automakers See 'Boom' Year In 1971

DETROIT (AP) — The top men of the nation's four automakers, in their annual ritual of forecasting car sales, see 1971 as a good year and possibly the best ever with Americans buying 10 million new cars.

The automakers predict there will be no repeat of the 1970 slump in domestic and foreign car sales in the United States. And their predictions are often accurate.

Since 1966, the consensus of the annual forecasts by the heads of General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors has been off the mark by an average of 5 per cent.

Their worst year as seers was 1970 when the nation's economic troubles and the 10-week General Motors strike helped knock the forecasts off by about one million cars or 11.9 per cent. Sales dipped to their lowest point since 1962.

The four board chairmen—James M. Roche of General Motors, Henry Ford II of Ford Motor Co., Roy Chapin of American Motors and Lyn Townsend of Chrysler—worked independently but came up with almost identical figures for this year.

Chapin saw it as a 10 million car year. Ford called it a 9.7 to 10 million car prospect and Roche figured it would be 9.5 to 10 million. Townsend had estimated it would be a 10 million car year but hedged a bit at year end saying, "It could be the best year in auto history." The present mark is the 9.6 million sales total of 1968.

There are a lot of indications that consumers are going to buy," he said.

Here is how the auto executives' estimates fared in the past five years: (Sales and estimates are in millions of cars)

Yr.	Sales	Est.	Pct. Off
1966	9.0	9.3	3.3 high
1967	8.4	8.6	2.4 high
1968	9.63	9.1	5.2 low

1970	8.4	9.4	11.9 high

Neither Ford nor GM released official figures on how many sales they lost in the 1967 and 1970 strikes but reliable sources said Ford lost about 400,000 sales and GM about a million, some of which was made up by the record 1.25 million foreign cars sold here.

The men who gather the data on which the auto industry projections are made guard their sources jealously and insist there is no sharing of information.

Muskie Holds Slim Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — A Harris survey says Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, leads President Nixon 43 per cent to 49 as the choice for president if the 1972 election were being held now.

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama polled 11 per cent as a third party candidate and 6 per cent were undecided, the survey reported Monday. The poll of 1,341 likely voters was taken Jan. 16-20, before the President's televised State of the Union message.

On a trend basis, Muskie holds a lead acquired after the midterm elections last November. Then the score was Muskie, 46; Nixon, 40; Wallace, 10 and 4 per cent undecided.

Beauty Queen Takes Easter Seals Reins

CHICAGO — A young beauty queen who appeared destined for a career in show business and now has decided that her future is in working with handicapped children has been named 1971 Youth chairman for the National Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

She is Trudy Lee Pedersen, 20, Miss Pennsylvania of 1969, an Easter Seal volunteer worker and a college student who plans to major in speech and hearing therapy.

As youth chairman, Miss Pedersen will work with the national society staff in developing programs to encourage participation by young people in Easter Seal activities to aid the handicapped, and promote greater youth involvement through television appearances and press interviews.

Despite what appeared to be the launching of a career in show business, Miss Pedersen found time to serve as Pennsylvania Easter Seal Campaign chairman this year.

Her Easter Seal volunteer work involved frequent contact with handicapped youngsters and led to her decision to make a career in the rehabilitation field. She is now a freshman at Pennsylvania State University, University Park.
