

'IT WAS NOT MY ORDER, IT WAS THE ORDER OF THE DAY'

Calley Admits He Killed At My Lai

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Lt. William L. Calley Jr. speaking without any emotion, admitted today he killed at My Lai but "it was not my order, it was the order of the day."
"Who gave you the order?" asked defense counsel George Latimer.
"Capt. Medina, Sir," Calley answered.
"How many times did he give you the order?"
Calley said the order came five times—once at a company briefing the night before the My Lai assault, once at a platoon leaders' briefing, the following morning before the helicopters lifted off, and twice over the radio while the troops were in the village.

Calley is charged with killing 102 Vietnamese civilians in the hamlet of My Lai 4—one of several numbered My Lai hamlets—as his company assaulted the suspected Viet Cong stronghold on March 16, 1968.
Calley's company commander was Capt. Ernest L. Medina.
On the witness stand he told of about four people that he killed. He also admitted firing into a ditch that was already filled with dead. But he did not say—and was not asked—whether he killed anyone there.

There had been testimony that Calley stood at that ditch at the eastern edge of My Lai, for as long as one and one-half hours. Today, Calley said:
"It was a very rapid period of time to me... it seemed only a minute or both."
"DEAD PEOPLE"
What did he see in the ditch?
"Dead people."

"Was there any appearance of anyone being alive in there?"
"No, Sir."
How did the people get into the ditch?
"They had been ordered to go into the ditch, Sir," Calley said. Who ordered them into the ditch?
"Indirectly, I did — I told Meadlo to get them (Vietnamese captives) to the other side of the ditch, Sir."
Paul Meadlo was a soldier in Calley's American company at the time.

Meadlo testified earlier in the trial that he stood at Calley's side and by his order shot into a group of 45 Vietnamese men, women and children. Calley, Meadlo said, had ordered him to "waste them."
Calley said he left Meadlo, who was guarding an unspecified number of people, to go elsewhere to order Sgt. David Mitchell to set up a machine-gun.
WASTE
"I came out and Meadlo was still standing there with the group of Vietnamese. I yelled at Meadlo that if he couldn't move all those people to get rid of them."

Just minutes before, Calley said, he had received a radio call from Medina asking him why "I was disobeying his orders."
Calley said he told the captain that he was slowing him down.
"At that time, he told me to waste the Vietnamese."
Calley described the briefing the night before as given by Medina.

The 27-year-old lieutenant was completely composed Monday as he began testimony in his trial on charges of premeditated murder of 102 Vietnamese villagers.
His testimony today was to begin with the briefing Charlie Company was given the night before it swept through My Lai. Calley led the company's first platoon.
Calley leaned back in the witness chair resting his arm on the wooden railing and unflinchingly told Monday what he was taught about the enemy.

Youth Held In Slaying Wanted On Rape Rap

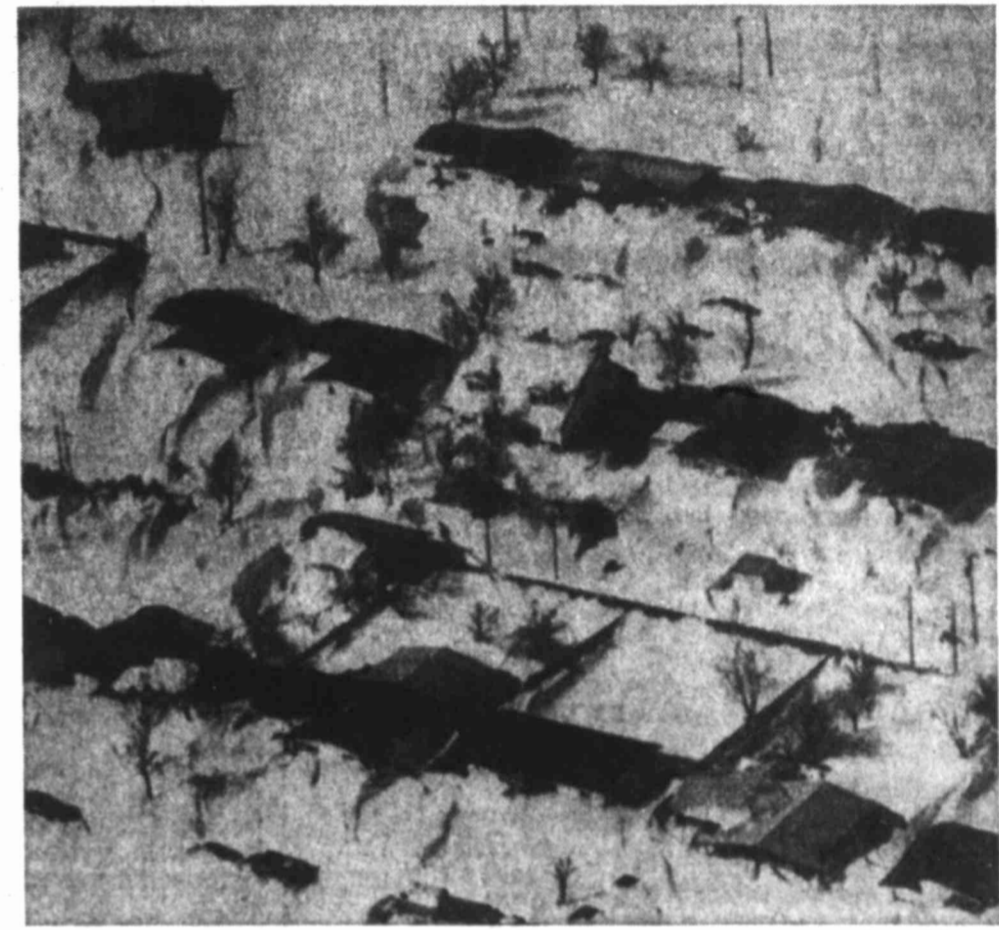

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A bearded Houston youth, the apparent leader of a trio held in the kidnap-slaying of a San Antonio woman, is wanted in Houston to stand trial on a rape charge, officials said.
Patrick Leigh Teague, 19, was due to be tried Feb. 11 on charges of raping a young Houston woman last May but failed to appear, the Harris County sheriff's office said Monday.
JUMPED BOND
Deputy Marvin Zindler said Teague jumped $20,000 bond in the case.
The Houston case should take priority over the other charges against Teague, Zindler said, adding that Teague probably will go to trial there first.
Teague, a freckled youth with long red-brown hair, has been charged in Gillespie County with murder in the slaying of Gaynell Newsom, 61. She was found shot to death in a ravine near Fredericksburg Friday afternoon.

Also charged in the slaying are Keith R. Hughes, 13, of Houston, and Cindy Lee Horner, 12, of Kemah, identified as Hughes' half-sister.
Officers said Teague appeared to be the leader of the three, who were arrested in Ozona, Tex., Friday night as they rode in Mrs. Newsom's Cadillac.
DEVIL MADE HIM
Teague and Hughes were arraigned here Monday on charges of stealing the car.
They were advised also that they were wanted in Galveston

County on charges of theft over $50. Details of that case were not at once available.
Hughes' mother, Mrs. Norma Hughes Horner of Houston, appeared at the arraignment Monday. She shed away from newsmen but later told the San Antonio Express that drugs and a "satanic religion" were to blame.
Investigators said Hughes told them he has taken drugs, including LSD, although his half-sister told police none of the three was under the influence of drugs on the day of the slaying.
Among the hippie-style trio's belongings was a book, "The Satanic Bible," which urges followers to apply "vengeance rather than turning the other cheek," police said.

HIGHER AND HIGHER
"This satanic religions and drugs are the primary cause of this," the mother said in a brief interview. "They feel they are getting on higher and higher planes to understand this satanism."
She told the Express she would risk her life, if necessary, "to eliminate those satanic books."
Hughes' court-appointed lawyer, Gene Toscano, called the youth "very knowledgeable for a boy that young... He seemed to be a little precocious for a 13-year-old."
Toscano said the small, shaggy-haired youth was nervous and "kept talking about narcotics," such as LSD.

He said the boy wanted to make a statement to police but changed his mind and decided to think about it for a few days.
Hughes first listed his name as Daniel Casey and his age as 17.
His mother presented Peace Justice J. P. Gutierrez records showing his age is only 13. Gutierrez said he must have a certified copy of Hughes' birth certificate, however, to transfer his case to juvenile officials.
Teague was jailed in lieu of $35,000 bond in the car theft and $5,000 bond on the Galveston County charge. Hughes was remanded to juvenile authorities pending receipt of his birth certificate.

GAINESVILLE ATTORNEY SHOT — Mrs. Carol W. Scott, a Gainesville, Fla., civil rights attorney, was shot early today in the upper left chest while she was in her home. Mrs. Scott filed suit in Federal Court to have the Raiford State Prison taken over by Federal authorities following disturbances there last week. Mrs. Scott is in a hospital where her condition is serious. Police are holding a suspect.

More Rain, Snow On Way For North Half Of Texas

By The Associated Press
At least two stretches of major highways are closed today as residents of the Texas Panhandle struggled to shake off the effects of a crippling late winter blizzard.
Two men were known to have died in the storm and authorities feared the toll might rise as men and machines managed to reach outlying areas.
BITTER WINDS
Snow depths climbed as high as 22 inches and drifts towered up to 12 feet before the fall finally stopped by around noon Monday. Bitter winds lingered somewhat longer in a few areas, however, often stacking fresh drifts as road machinery cleared away others.
Threats of another onslaught of cold and wet weather apparently eased a bit.
Forecasts late Monday promised the arrival of a new Pacific cold front by tonight along with light rain west of the Pecos River and in Northwest Texas, possibly a mixture of snow as well.
By this morning, however, official observers were looking for nothing worse than fair to partly cloudy conditions and a little higher temperatures. They said it appeared the latest front would run out of moisture before it reached these parts.
The Texas Department of Public Safety said snow and ice still blocked part of Interstate 40 east of Groom, which is 52 miles east from Amarillo, and U.S. 60 from Pampa to the northeast also was impassable in places.

Highway officials sought to discourage travel nearly everywhere in the Texas Panhandle and parts of the South Plains until conditions improved.
While scores of motorists were stranded throughout the area for varying periods, rescuers apparently had managed to reach all who were reported in trouble.
HEART PATIENT
Nine persons marooned on about 24 miles east of Pampa on U.S. 152 since Sunday were airlifted into Pampa by helicopter and went on to resume their journey by bus from Amarillo by Monday evening. They reported the driver obtained food from a farm house a mile distant, there was enough bus fuel to keep the bus warm and all came through in good shape.

A heart patient at an oil rig in the same vicinity was reported to have been carried to a hospital in a big helicopter sent from Ft. Sill, Okla.
It was at Pampa and to the northeast around Canadian that the deepest snow—22 inches on the level—was measured. The fall was heavy from that area eastward into Oklahoma.
Authorities received word that an 80-year-old woman who fell off a porch and broke a hip had been taken to a hospital at Canadian.

IT HURTS GETTING IN THIS DRIVER'S SEAT — The driver of this trailer-truck spent an uncomfortable two hours in his cab dangling from a bridge northwest of Gothenburg, Sweden, today, before he was rescued. He lost control of the vehicle and crashed through the guard rail. The trailer at this point remained precariously balanced on the span. It was not learned immediately how the wrecked vehicle was cleared away.

Conscientious-Objector Proposal Draws Heat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Armed Services Committee proposed today a conscientious-objector status be given young men willing to demonstrate their sincerity with three years of nonmilitary service.
Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., disclosed his "somewhat radical suggestion" in a prepared statement opening House hearings on the draft.
Heading the witness list were Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, Roger T. Kelley, assistant secretary of manpower, and Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr.
Meanwhile, the Defense Department asked Selective Service to draft 2,100 doctors and dentists this year. The callup is necessary, the Pentagon said, because too few medical-school graduates have volunteered.

Beginning July 1, 1,531 medical doctors, 77 osteopaths and 536 dentists will be drafted into the Army, Navy and Air Force for two years' active duty.
Hebert offered the conscientious-objector proposal as an answer to the burden he said was placed on draft boards by a Supreme Court decision that all sincere objectors to war are eligible for CO status.
"It is manifestly impossible to determine 'sincerity' with any precision," Hebert said. "The only true test of 'sincerity' is performance."
He recommended conscientious objectors be required to serve at least three years with government, public or private institutions—he gave no examples—that have trouble finding qualified men for essential work.

Seniors and juniors of Big Spring, Coahoma, Forsan and Sands High Schools may be nominated, and special awards will go to a winner from each school.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Federal relief officials poured into the Mississippi Delta today where dozens of tornadoes left 82 dead, hundreds injured, and 2,350 homeless.
A "major disaster" designation by President Nixon cleared the way for massive federal assistance to the area, including grants for repairs to public facilities, shipments of mobile homes to house the homeless and low-cost business and home loans.
Gov. John Bell Williams planned a meeting in Jackson today with Gen. George Lincoln, director of the U.S. Office of Emergency Preparedness, to coordinate the relief effort.
Officials said up to 100 tornadoes skipped across seven counties Sunday night, causing an estimated $7.5 million in damages.
The tornadoes took 77 lives in Mississippi and five across the Mississippi River in Delhi, La.
One tornado virtually destroyed Inverness, a community of 1,100 in Sunflower County, 90 miles north of Jackson.
Officials said it was amazing the death toll was not higher.
"I've never seen a storm — a low pressure system — last that long," said Bill Kellum, Leflore County Civil Defense director.
"Usually after 30 minutes the winds will shift to the north and the storm will be over, but this thing just kept on and on for four hours."
Red Cross officials said food, medical supplies and clothing were pouring into the area.
About 315 National Guardsmen from Greenville, Senatobia and Greenwood were ordered to duty to help in search and rescue efforts and to provide security.
A curfew from 8 p.m. to dawn was declared in Inverness and Moorhead. Officials were afraid storm victims would collect contaminated food and drugs from wrecked homes and businesses.

Midland Oilman In Penitentiary
MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — William B. Nichols, the Midland oilman sentenced to 35 years in prison for the 1968 murder of his wife, Diane, has withdrawn an appeal motion and begun his sentence at the Huntsville penitentiary.
Nichols, convicted last Nov. 27, told a brief court hearing Monday that he still suffers from the stomach wound he received when his wife was killed and that he cannot get it properly cared for in Midland County jail. He wanted to withdraw the appeal so that he could go to prison and get proper medical attention there.
It was explained to him that by withdrawing the appeal, he had no further recourse. He said he understood that.
Nichols said he had fired his Houston lawyer, Bill Walsh, and hired instead Reagan Legg of Midland.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic policymakers have urged President Nixon to set a timetable immediately for withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Indochina before the end of 1972.
With that resolution being presented today to a caucus of the 55 Senate Democrats, a Republican senator proposed Congress immediately set the end of this year as a deadline for complete withdrawal.
"Now it is time to act," said Sen. Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland. "Now it is time for Congress finally to marshal its resolve and enact the legislation necessary to accelerate our withdrawal from the tragic conflict in Southeast Asia."
The Senate Democratic Policy Committee stopped short of seeking immediate action on legislation to compel American withdrawal. But Sen. Mike Mansfield, the party leader, said that action could come later if President Nixon does not act to end U.S. involvement in Indochina and withdraw all American forces "in a time certain."

DA Wade Denounces Redrafted Penal Code As 'Monstrosity'

AUSTIN (AP) — A wholesale rewrite of Texas' criminal laws is a monstrosity and should be rejected by the legislature, says Dallas Dist. Atty. Henry Wade.

The proposed new penal code runs nearly 500 pages and took a 29-member committee five years to write. It would be the first complete revision of the code in 115 years.

"If I was a member of the legislature, I'd vote against it point blank and say appoint another committee and start over," Wade said.

TALK, TALK, TALK
Wade was the only witness called Monday night at the first hearing on the new code by a joint legislative committee.

The hearings are expected to take several weeks.

"I think this code is a monstrosity," Wade said. "A judge has to find 15 things, make a determination on 15 things, before he can refuse to give probation."

"The result is an effort to find every way possible to keep from sending a man to the penitentiary," he said.

Wade criticized the "over-all reduction of penalties in practically every offense."

He could think of only two crimes that would carry stiffer penalties: sale of LSD or speed — each now punishable by 10 years — would have a maximum sentence of 12 years under the new code.

Perhaps his most telling objection was to what he called the substantial alteration of nearly every criminal statute, even the ones that are workable and need no change.

OPEN SEASON
Wade listed several specific objections to the code.

Asked if the revision would be acceptable to him if his objections were met, he said the new code contains "a lot of philosophy that sounds good but won't work. . . I don't think you can amend it and make it work."

Eleven law enforcement officers have been killed in the past five days in the United States, Wade said.

"Our experience proves that strong law enforcement deters crime, and we feel that provisions which weaken criminal penalties are extremely undesirable at a time when criminal activity is so prevalent," he said.

The minimum punishment for murder with malice, aggravated rape, aggravated robbery and sale of heroin would be a fine of $1, he said.

COURTS STRUGGLE
The maximum sentence for rape by force — now punishable by a sentence up to death — would be 12 years, he said.

Perhaps his most telling objection was to what he called the substantial alteration of nearly every criminal statute, even the ones that are workable and need no change.

By changing statutes which do not need to be altered, unnecessary legal questions are created which can only be answered in the appellate courts.

"Present statutes have many years of judicial interpretation to guide attorneys and laymen alike as to the proper meaning and application of the statutes and definitions contained therein," he said.

Courts still are struggling with a revision of the code of criminal procedure four years ago, he said.

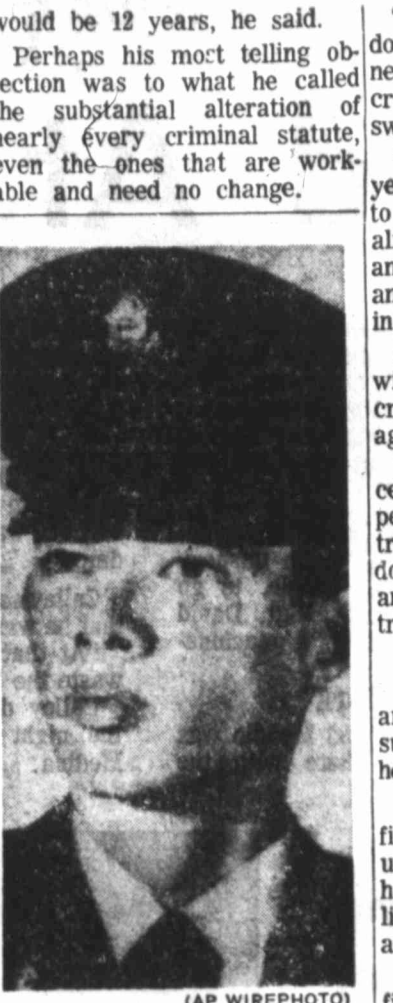

The guilty plea rate is 90 per cent in Dallas, meaning only 10 per cent of the cases must be tried, he said. A new code may double the percentage of defendants who think they can win a trial.

ESCAPE BAIT
Since Dallas courts already are operating at capacity, no such increase could be handled, he said.

Before officers could use their firearms in making an arrest under the new code, they would have to believe the suspect was likely to kill or seriously injure another person, Wade said.

This virtually disarms the officer and encourages suspects to attempt to escape, he said.

Wade also blasted a provision authorizing judges to set all sentences.

HELPED TROOPS — Spec. 5 Dennis M. Fujii, 21, of Hanapepe, Hawaii, helped besieged South Vietnamese troops fight off heavy enemy attacks in Laos for four days. Although wounded by shrapnel, Fujii stayed behind at a South Vietnamese ranger base and directed air support.

Two Webb AFB officers and an enlisted man recently completed their requirements for degrees through the Air Force's Bootstrap program.

The men Lt. Col. Michael J. Rega, chief of operations; Maj. Leonard D. Egan, chief of academics; and S. Sgt. John W. Best Jr., a management engineer with Detachment 12, 330th Support Squadron — received their bachelor of general science degrees from the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Bootstrap is a program where a military man is allowed to attend the college of his choice to finish his education while on permissive temporary duty (TDY).

Col. Rega entered the Air Force in 1952. He is a rated pilot and navigator and has been assigned to Germany; Vance AFB, Okla.; Williams AFB, Ariz.; Lockbourne AFB, Ohio; and Tan Son Nhut AB, Vietnam.

While in Germany, he attended the University of Maryland Overseas Extension, and while at Lockbourne, Ohio University. The native New Yorker majored in business and economics at the University of Nebraska.

Maj. Egan began his career here when he entered pilot training in 1954. He has been assigned to Craig AFB, Ala.; Randolph and Perrin AFB's, Tex.; Tyndall AFB, Fla.; and Vietnam.

He attended college at Chanute Junior College, Chanute, Kan., Southwest Texas State College and Howard County Junior College, before receiving his degree from the University of Nebraska with a major in history.

Sgt. Best has been in the Air Force 14 years. He has been assigned to Panama, France, Germany, and in the United States at Langley AFB, Va., and Scott AFB, Ill.

The native of Sacramento, Calif., has worked 10 years at various colleges toward a degree. He now plans to continue work toward a masters degree in psychology.

Lt. Col. Robert Reid, squadron commander, said, "Capt. Baker has rapidly developed those qualities which exemplify the outstanding instructor. He maintains an especially effective learning atmosphere, both on the ground and in the air, while still displaying an aggressive approach toward his instructing duties."

Capt. Baker has served as a flight scheduling officer and senior runway control supervisor. He entered the Air Force in 1956 as an enlisted man. He received his commission through the Officer's Training School, after competing the Airman's Education and Commissioning Program and graduating from Indiana University.

He completed undergraduate pilot training at Webb in 1967 and was later assigned to Bien Hoa AB, Vietnam. He wears the Distinguished Flying Cross, the air medal, with 17 oak-leaf clusters and the Air Force Commendation Medal.

The native of Clifton, N.J., is married to the former Miss Ruby Eiseman of Eureka, S.D. The couple has two children, Michael, 11, and Pamela, 7.

New Base-Community Council Members Meet

The first meeting of the Base-Community Council steering committee was held Monday, as new members of the committee became acquainted with the other members.

"The purpose of the council and this committee is to enhance the relations between the community and the base," Col. A. W. Atkinson, wing commander and committee chairman, said.

"I think this council has done a tremendous job over the years, even though others feel we are doing nothing," Jimmy Taylor, Big Spring banker and other committee co-chairman, told the group. Taylor pledged the efforts of all civil counterparts in the committee to work with base members toward good relations in the future.

The committee discussed some of the common problems it had faced over the years and decided to have a luncheon meeting the last Monday of every other month this year. Also the committee agreed to rotate the meetings, having them in town and on the base.

Taylor asked the committee to be thinking of some projects for the year, and he told the group that a list of the members of each subcommittee would be given the chairman the first part of this week.

Yankee Troop Strength Cut

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command Monday reported a reduction in American troop strength in South Vietnam of 2,300 more men and also announced the withdrawal soon of a veteran Marine helicopter squadron and a Marine fighter squadron.

The command said U.S. troop strength dropped to 330,600 men by last Thursday, compared with 332,900 a week earlier. The total is scheduled to be cut to 284,900 by May 1, and President Nixon has said he will announce further withdrawals in April.

The two Marine aviation units to be withdrawn are Fighter Attack Squadron 115, commanded by Lt. Col. Michael Mura of Boston, and Medium Helicopter Squadron 364, commanded by Maj. Neil R. Van Leeuwen of Salt Lake City.

Both units began a standdown Monday preparatory to withdrawal.

The fighter squadron, with an authorized strength of 325 men, will go to the Marine Air Station at Iwakuni, Japan. It has been in Vietnam since October, 1965.

In today's hand, South, the declarer at four hearts, had the opportunity to work out one such problem, but unfortunately failed to rise to the occasion.

West opened the jack of clubs and East won with the ace to return the suit, which declarer took with the king. South drew trumps in two rounds with the king and ace and then he led the king of spades. West won with the Declarer, mindful of his opponent's overall in spades, decided to play West for the jack of spades and, in order to provide a parking place for one of his diamonds, he inserted the ten from dummy. East, of course, won with the jack and the diamond return settled declarer's hand.

I must admit that the declarer was the victim of a little hard luck but, on the other hand, he contributed to his own downfall. It must be agreed that it is not unreasonable to assume that West held the jack of spades, but a more effective method of playing

Fireworks Due As Solons Take Up 'Firewater' Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Shadows of old legislative controversies hovered over Texas lawmakers today.

The morning schedule of the Senate and House indicate a routine session but afternoon public hearings before committees promised plenty of fireworks.

At 2 p.m. the Senate Jurisprudence Committee takes up that bugaboo of many past legislatures—liquor by the drink.

And at 2:30 the Senate Oil and Gas Committee holds a public hearing on compulsory utilization of oil fields, a tender subject on any lease.

MIXED DRINKS

The liquor by the drink bill, sponsored by Sen. Joe Christie, El Paso, follows voter approval last November of a constitutional change allowing the legislature to approve and tax the legal sale of mixed drinks, only after a local option election. The bill proposes a $5,000 initial fee with a $500 renewal fee. It has no requirement that bars must be affiliated with restaurants, hotels, motels or sell a certain amount of food.

Backers of the mixed drinks bill claim it will produce $5.1 million in fees the next two years. A mixed drinks tax bill to be heard later in the House would raise another $22.9 million with a 10 per cent tax on gross receipts of bars and private clubs.

COMMON-LAW

The utilization bill would let the Texas Railroad Commission order an oil field to be operated as a unit instead of the present mostly voluntary cooperative operation agreements.

Supporters of the bill by Sen. J.P. Word, Meridian, include the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association, the North Texas Oil and Gas Association, the Permian Basin Petroleum Association and the Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners Association.

The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association has said it wants changes made in the bill.

Senators voted Monday 20-9, and sent to the House a bill requiring that underage teen-agers get their parents' consent before filing a declaration of common-law marriage. Parents could have the marriage declared void if their consent had not been asked.

The Senate also passed, 29-0, and sent to the governor a House-approved bill raising benefits for 33,000 retired school teachers by 10 per cent. The measure would require no new taxes nor additional contribution from the teachers.

Also sent to the House on a 28-0 vote was a Senate bill requiring that Texas' 3 million public school pupils get a smallpox vaccination plus shots for diphtheria, polio, tetanus, rubella (German) and rubeola (red) measles before entering classes.

Preserving Personal Privacy Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin opened the doors of his constitutional rights subcommittee today in hopes of finally pushing a computer-armed bureaucracy away from man's private affairs.

A longtime foe of dossiers, snoopers and now data banks, the North Carolina Democrat has often been lonely in his fight. But recent events, he believes, have heightened public interest.

In the House, Rep. Edward I. Koch and a bipartisan band of some 20 congressmen, spurred by burgeoning allegations of Army spying on civilians, are backing legislation Ervin has advocated for years.

Koch, a New York Democrat, was an early boarder to Ervin's witness list, principally to urge citizens be given the right to know what the government knows about them.

"Today," Koch said in advance of his testimony, "the average citizen has no recourse. The reputations of countless numbers of decent citizens are threatened or destroyed by malicious and false information."

He would require all federal agencies to notify persons of any personal files kept on them and, moreover, give them a chance to review and challenge what they find.

Ervin has some other proposals to add to that, such as establishing a new agency with the sole purpose of watching for unconstitutional practices in other ones.

Another idea is to order the destruction of all files not directly necessary to an agency's operation or the national security.

On that score, Ervin makes it clear he isn't impressed by last week's Pentagon claim that a new civilian review board will safeguard against further snooping abuses. He just doesn't think the military should be spying on civilians. Period.

Aside from lining up many former military agents and Defense Department officials to discuss that matter, Ervin aims to explore a wide range of computer information techniques used both in and out of government.

—The Transportation Department's computer file containing the names and records of all persons who have ever had a driver's license suspended or revoked—about 2.6 million Secretary John Volpe is scheduled to testify next month.

Accuses Water Boards Of 'Obvious Jealousies'

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Water Quality Board and Water Development Board were criticized Monday for "lack of cooperation and obvious jealousies."

The Texas Water Resources Study Committee made its report to the legislature and Gov. Preston Smith.

It said the best way "to impress these agencies with the need to cooperate" would be to hold their future budgets to current levels until they "can develop a better cooperative relationship."

The committee, headed by Rep. John Allen of Longview, said it had found "a noticeable duplication of functions between the Texas Water Development Board and the Texas Water Quality Board."

"Added to this duplication of functions is the continual lack of cooperation and obvious jealousies between these agencies. In most cases, this leads to a waste of time and the taxpayers' money. Even though these agencies have been encouraged to cooperate in an effort to solve their differences and even though they claim to have succeeded, it is apparent that the situation is about the same as it has always been," the committee said.

The water development board also was criticized for "inflexibility" in state water planning.

"The committee has concluded that the mandate of the legislature that the water plan be flexible is not being carried out and that this situation has developed as a result of attitudes held by some of the members and administrators of the water development board," the report said.

It said the board has "not given serious consideration to proposed alternatives to and suggestions for adjustment and change in the water plan."

"The committee believes that it is imperative that the board begin to devote more time and effort to considering alternatives to various parts of the water plan and to refining and modifying the plan so that flexibility may be regained and the people will be assured that the plan provides the greatest benefit to all parts of the state."

The committee praised the water development board, however, for setting up a panel of "outstanding environmentalists" to help it develop water resources in a way that would not harm the environment.

LOVE, NOT KIDNAPING — Wanda Sue Shelbourne, 21, pleaded not guilty to charges she kidnaped a two-month-old black infant from San Francisco General Hospital on Jan. 10. She had been apprehended in Norfolk, Va., and was returned to San Francisco after waiving extradition. She said, "I only wanted to give the baby the love I thought she was missing."

'Making Her Feel She Was Wanted'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A well-cared-for, and gained almost six pounds. The baby, Kerri Norris, and her three older brothers and sisters had been picked up by juvenile authorities after neighbors told police they had been abandoned.

The mother, Rosie Norris, said she had left the house hurriedly and thought a neighbor was caring for the youngsters.

In an interview outside the courtroom, Mrs. Shelbourne said it was on impulse that she took the 2-month-old infant she named Kimberly Dawn from San Francisco General Hospital last Jan. 10.

She said she had taken a girl friend to the hospital for treatment of an ankle sprain and saw the baby on a table in the emergency room.

"I asked the doctor about her, and he said she was abandoned," Mrs. Shelbourne said.

"I asked him if I could hold the baby. He said, 'Yes,' and I changed the diaper for her."

"I walked around with the baby in my arms—making her feel she was wanted, even a little bit."

"Then I just walked out, down the hall with her. I went out the side door."

Mrs. Shelbourne said she has been separated from her husband for a year, and he has custody of their only child, a 2-year-old boy.

A week ago Mrs. Shelbourne telephoned the police department's juvenile bureau and said she wanted to adopt the baby. She gave the name of her mother in Norfolk. She was taken into custody there.

Police said the child had been

Local Power Needed To Curb Water Pollution

AUSTIN (AP) — Air and water pollution have worsened in Texas since 1969 and won't improve until local authorities get more power to curb it, a House committee was told Monday night.

Rep. Rex Braun of Houston told the State Affairs Committee a 1969 law allowing criminal prosecution of corporations for pollution was "a farce."

That law says a corporation can't be convicted if it has a variance from the Air Control Board or a permit from the Water Quality Board to discharge waste into the air or water.

Braun asked the committee's approval of two bills removing that defense unless local governments concurred in the variances or permits.

The measures were sent routinely to a subcommittee after vice chairman Joe Goldman of Dallas refused to accept a motion by Rep. Carl Parker of Port Arthur to send the bills to the House floor for debate.

Search For The Golden Egg

President Nixon's plan for federal revenue-sharing with state and local governments has produced a spate of alternatives, some more equal than others.

Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, supports a federal takeover of welfare as an alternative. This would, he figures, give states approximately $6 billion a year in revenue that could be diverted to other programs.

An interesting alternative has been culled from reports of the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations and the Committee for Economic Development. It seeks first of all to persuade all states to impose an income tax, which, it is argued, measures ability to pay much better than sales and use taxes.

Citizens may now deduct from their federal income tax all state and local taxes. Beyond this, it is proposed that the federal government allow an additional credit of up to 50 per cent, but more than 10 per cent of the net federal tax due. This credit could be charged directly against one's federal income tax after all itemized deductions had been claimed. Thus $200 in state income tax would entitle the taxpayer to a $100 reduction in federal tax liability. The proposed credit, on top of itemized deductions allowed, would enable states to collect an additional dollar of income tax receipts at a net cost to the average taxpayer of about 30 cents.

While the detailed figures may not be understood by the average individual, the potential in terms of new revenue to the state can be. If the plan were uniformly applied in all the states, as much as $12 billion in new revenue would be available.

This can provide potent arguments for those who insist that the states are not really as bad off as they say they are. (An exception, though, may be New York, which has a personal income tax of approximately 10 per cent on family incomes above $15,000 but is still in financial trouble.) A hard-pressed Texas Legislature has not yet considered seriously an income tax, but it may before the present session is over.

It is safe to say that there may be more business taxes, too, for many solons have pointed out that the governor's recommendations almost ignored this possibility while going to consumer well to fill the bucket again.

Why So Long?

At long last, former Sgt. Maj. William O. Woodriddle and five other current or former Army top kicks will get their day in court.

In Senate hearings in 1969, Woodriddle — once the Army's top enlisted man — and the others were named in an investigation of corruption in military clubs in the United States, Germany and Vietnam.

Well after the Senate hearings, a federal grand jury began an investigation which lasted seven months. The jury has indicted Woodriddle, the other sergeants, two civilians and a California company on charges of conspiring to defraud servicemen's clubs.

The subsequent prosecution should either prove the allegations and provide proper punishment or vindicate the sergeants. The action is long overdue.

Agnew's Golf

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — When Vice President Spiro Agnew criticized the news media a few years ago for playing up bad news instead of good news, he knew what he was talking about.

A perfect example of the way the press and TV media showed total irresponsibility took place at the Bob Hope Golf Classic a week ago Saturday when the vice president drove two golf balls into the crowd in succession, bopping three fans in the process.

NBC TELEVISION, covering the golf classic, trained its cameras on this ignominious event and later put it on its news shows.

The eastern establishment press lords, particularly the Washington Post and the New York Times, published front page photos of the vice president's anguished look after his second drive.

The implication given by both television and the newspapers was that Vice President Agnew was not a very good golfer.

NOW IT'S interesting to note that the NBC-TV cameras reported that incident rather than show all the balls that Agnew drove that did not hit anybody.

A small elite band of men in New York decided among themselves that Agnew hitting a spectator was news, when everyone knows that Agnew not hitting a spectator with a golf ball is news.

THE IMPRESSION the average person got from watching the golf classic on TV was that the vice president was a very dangerous man with a driver. The self-opinionated commentators not only discussed the drives that Vice President Agnew had just made, but also reminded viewers that this was not the first time he had bopped someone with a golf ball. They cited the incident with Doug Sanders, the golf pro whom Agnew had managed to hit in the head a few years back.

Now it is a known fact that on the same Saturday, 897,562 people played golf somewhere in the United States. Not one of them hit a spectator with a golf ball. Did the networks show these people playing golf? Did the newspaper stories concentrate on all the duffers in America that were playing safe and sane golf that day?

THE ANSWER is obviously NO! They chose instead to report on Agnew's golf game. Why? Because it was bad news. The fact that no one else that Saturday had hit anyone with a golf ball was good news, and therefore in the eyes of these self-styled editors it was not news.

How can the American people get an objective view of golf when all they see on their news programs and in their papers is the violence committed on the course by the vice president?

DID ANYONE point out that for every spectator Vice President Agnew hit there were 100,000 that had never been struck by one of his golf balls? Nothing could better dramatize the point Spiro Agnew tried to make a few years ago about the irresponsibility of the media which choose to show only those parts of the vice president's golf game that are hopeless.

It behooves the networks to give the vice president a full hour on a driving range to prove that every ball he hits doesn't necessarily go into the crowd.

Air Force One

Andrew Tully

ABOARD AIR FORCE ONE WITH THE PRESIDENT — Occasionally, like right now, the urge is irresistible to desert the significant and sample one of the side dishes available to the observer whose beat includes the White House.

IT IS, of course, a violation of the rules for a reporter to be impressed by anything — even including sharing an airplane with the President. Unfortunately, this suggests that the average reader also takes such experiences for granted, which is unlikely. Perhaps, then, employing this space to accommodate a travel column will not be an intolerable intrusion on the reader's time.

Air Force One is the White House version of the Boeing 707 commercial jetliner. There the similarity ends. As the President's personal flying machine, it is comfortable to the point of luxury.

THE REPORTER assigned to the press pool finds at his seat a light blue folder whose title page carries his name and the message, "Welcome Aboard Air Force One." Among other things, such as a description of the aircraft, the pamphlet informs the passenger that "Every effort has been made to make your flight as enjoyable and memorable as possible."

THE TERM "every effort" is accurate. There are individual stereo headsets at each seat, and the passenger has his choice of six channels of recorded music: Popular I, Popular II, Classical, Light Classics, Country I and Country II.

There are playing cards and magazines, candy and chewing gum at each place. "Other items available to you," according to the folder, "include emergency raincoats, sewing kits, an assortment of toilet articles which include razor blades, shaving cream, toothpaste, Kleenex, sanitary napkins, after-shave lotion, etc."

COMPARED WITH the cuisine on the press plane, the food is merely well, substantial. On this particular flight, dinner consisted of short ribs of beef, rice, peas, rolls and butter and a custard-like blueberry dessert I suppose the British would call a fool. On the press plane, the entree was New York sirloin steak, with champagne.

Sometimes President Nixon will walk back for a chat with the press. A more frequent visitor is Henry Kissinger, Presidential assistant for national security affairs. Kissinger is a cheerful, gregarious man with a wry wit who seems to enjoy the company of journalists. Any discussion of policy matters is either off-the-record or not for attribution.

ALTOGETHER, flying Air Force One has to be the nicest and most relaxing way to travel. There is the reassuring knowledge that you are enclosed in the safest airplane aloft. You arrive on board with nerves unscathed by the usual airport frustrations. And the price is right.

'LOOKS LIKE HE'S LOST HIS SPRING'

Mighty Peculiar Market

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Widely split opinions regarding the economic outlook have been dramatized on the stock market recently, with furious trading activity resulting in relatively small price changes.

The net effect has been days of tradeoff between optimists and pessimists, between those who believe President Nixon can achieve his ambitious goals and those who believe he will fail.

Some analysts regard the situation as one of the most peculiar they have seen in many months. They remember days of over-all indecision, marked by an inertia of both buyer and seller.

On many recent days, however, the heavy trading activity has indicated a firmness of conviction on both sides of transactions. Trading has been spiced with both fear and fervor.

Sooner or later in such a market a break must be expected in either direction, and the catalyst could be the next round of economic indicators, showing the President either winning or losing his battle with inflation.

Some analysts also suggest that a change of fortunes in Southeast Asia could trigger an advance or decline, and technicians, viewing the standoff trading as a seismologist views earthquake faults, feel growing internal pressures will snap.

"Certainly during the last 15 years, no struggle between future 'haves' and 'havenots' has reached anything like the current crescendo," says John Wright, the eminent adviser to trusts and wealthy investors. Wright notes a great schism of opinion between "the intractable prophets of doom who label the 41 per cent recovery since May as an important rally in a to-be-continued bear market decline," and "the rest of the investment community."

The "rest of the investment community" is quite large, however, and seems to be made up of some of the biggest institutional traders in the business, the professional managers of funds, trusts, and insurance companies.

That conclusion must be reached after reviewing the big-block trades on the New York Stock Exchange, which show average transaction size in January to be 418 shares compared with 327 in December, 1968.

Old Brother Stockton

Around The Rim

Jo Bright

The television camera was focused, seemingly spellbound, on the slender, expressive hands of Dr. Billy Graham as they sliced the air with short, swift strokes. His distinctive voice was patient — powerful — persuasive. Moments later, a panorama revealed a massive stadium where thousands of people had come to hear the 20th century's most famous minister preach the gospel of Jesus Christ.

BECAUSE THE story never changes, the words were the same as they have ever been. My mind responded — and suddenly they were being spoken as I had heard them years ago by another man — another preacher under different circumstances.

How I wish Brother Stockton could have stood in such a stadium, before such a multitude and know his voice would be heard around the world!

Long ago, in a tiny town in Louisiana, my father and I would walk through the summer night to a white frame church whose total membership probably numbered no more than a hundred. Outside, as he lingered with friends on the steps, I busied myself examining the building's paint. It was always peeling, and small chips would fall off if you rubbed a finger over them. Flying things buzzed about the bare bulb that lighted the entryway.

THERE WERE no screens on the windows, but they were opened wide, some propped with sticks, in case Providence chose to send a breeze — and Providence seldom chose to do so.

Inside, we took our places on the hard, uncushioned benches; he next to the aisle and I snug up against him. In order to be comfortable, I perched on the edge, but as the service began, his touch stopped my swinging legs, and I slid back, leaving the bench to bite into my calves during the following hour.

The hymnals. They were ocre-colored, weren't they? With brown printing on the front.

The pine pulpit, its floor softened with a bit of worn carpet, held two chairs equally as hard as the benches; one for Brother Stockton and the other for Brother Norris, the song leader, the latter as thin as Brother

Stockton was ample.

BROTHER NORRIS stood, stepped nearer to the piano and called out loudly, "Let's all stand for No. 153 — that's 153 — sing with your hearts, and the Lord will hear you!" Never has anyone worked so hard with so little to produce a joyful sound. Yet, when Brother Stockton said a sincere "thank you" for the beautiful singing, I momentarily believed him.

There he stood. A plump, perspiring man in a white seersucker suit that seemed permanently wrinkled. Fumbling, he withdrew a large pocket watch and placed it on the lectern, but to no avail. There was no such thing, in those days, as a 20-minute sermon. Church was a weekly break from chores and no one was anxious to go home. Brother Stockton felt obliged to give his congregation what they came for — hellfire and hope, in equal portion. I saved my most rapt attention for the last, knowing full well that then his pounding fist and emotion-choked voice would demand that I look him straight in the eye.

HE DID NOT easily give up on a lost sheep; waiting patiently, quietly pleading "just one more verse." My heart suffered for him on the nights when no one came forward, and furtively, I glanced about the room praying that someone would rise before it was too late.

The women, looking older than their years, were cooling themselves with cardboard fans, and white powder formed little rivers in the creases of their necks. A baby might be nursing, and older children were lying like limp dolls over their fathers' shoulders, eyes closed, mouths open.

The collection plates had been placed on a side table, and later, when their contents were counted, there were few bills, mostly quarters, dimes and the children's nickels and pennies.

BUT EVERYONE gave what they could — and during the week they brought the chicken, pork, eggs and vegetables that must have made up most of the little minister's salary.

Yes, I wish Brother Stockton could have preached in a big stadium. It would have made him happy. It would have made him cry.

India's Millions

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — It was said to be the worst natural disaster in this century. The howling winds, the great surge of the tidal wave swept as many as a half-million people to death from their precarious hold on life in the Ganges delta of East Pakistan. Headlines bloomed for a few days, the United States rushing aid — a teaspoon to bail out the ocean in terms of actual needs, then back to the old preoccupations.

PAKISTAN TODAY has more people than it had before the disaster. It took only 35 days to make up the loss — so rapid is the population increase in that watery part of the world where the line between life and death, hunger and a few handfuls of rice, is so slight.

The ticking of the population bomb grows louder despite all the cheery talk about the green revolution and the bigger crops of rice and wheat. The Population Reference Bureau, which does such valuable work in marshalling the facts and showing what they mean, has just come up with a startling projection for the Indian subcontinent.

BY 1990 OR 1995 India will have a population of one billion. That means a density of peoples 14 times greater than that in the United States.

It would be like putting all 205 million Americans in the State of Texas. After all, India has only a third of the land area of the United States.

If the leaders of India were to conclude tomorrow that their country could support a billion people at tolerable levels of health and civility, but no larger population, they would have to find ways to cut the continuing birth rate of 40 to 45 per thousand by more than half in the next decade or so. This reflects the fact that nearly 45 per cent are under 15 years of age with many reproductive years ahead.

YET AS John P. Lewis, who was head of AID in India for four years and is now dean of the Woodrow Wilson School at Princeton, says in a special report to the Population Reference Bureau all international agencies have agreed during the past year that India is not making it on birth control.

THE FACTS, as the Population Reference Bureau makes so clear, are inescapable. India's population passed the 555 million mark in 1970. The growth rate is 14 million a year. Ready or not, here they come, and how to change the pictures in peoples' minds stumps the best of planners.

Hey, Ma! I'm 60!!

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — If you fool around with life long enough, some surprising things can happen to you. For example you can become 60 years old.

This happened to me promptly at noon Sunday while I was lying abed pondering whether man's long journey from colic to arthritis is necessary or even worthwhile.

Frankly, I was surprised that my 60th birthday, which I have long anticipated with more misgivings than gratitude, made such a small stir.

I had thought there would be a tremendous cosmic boom or the sudden arching of a rainbow over my birthplace to celebrate the occasion. At the least, surely there would be the running up of flags, a mutter of musketry and the booming of cannon, a few public speeches and the sounding of buzzsaws from a grateful citizenry.

None of these things happened. No department store even held a special sale of men's Sox to mark the event. Somewhat crestfallen, I sat up in bed and told Lady Dottie, my cat:

"Today I stand on a vast hinge of time—I am 60 years old."

"You don't understand, cat," I continued. "Nothing this bad has happened to mankind since I turned 40. The glad days are behind, only sad days lie ahead. I look at the horizon around me and find it rimmed in black, as if it were a letter from the Universal Funeral Director."

Lady Dottie wiped away a crocodile tear with one paw, then ran out to the refrigerator and waited to be refilled.

I phoned a couple of friends, expecting them to be overwhelmed by my access to antiquity.

"You've been looking it for at least 10 years."

The rest of the day went like this:

I took a three-mile hike and fed nuts to four squirrels. I went to visit a sick friend. When I complained about being 60 years old, she said:

"H-m-m-m, that's odd. For a week I've had a premonition of death, but all the time I thought it was mine."

Returning home I was surprised by a fine chicken dinner cooked by my daughter Tracy Ann, 17, and her friend down the hall, Susan Stumpf, also 17. Then another surprise: the girls had baked a huge three-color angel food birthday cake, and Susan's father popped in with a couple of bottles of champagne.

So I called my 83-year-old mother, who lives in Kansas City.

Why did God make some people rich and others poor? P.D.

Yours may be an honest question, but I can detect a little shade of envy in your query. Some of the happiest, most contented, and most useful people I know are not people of wealth and means. I know many rich people who are actually poor in the things that really count. Jesus said, "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of things which he possesseth." He told us about a rich young ruler who came to Him seeking eternal life . . . but failing to meet the conditions of discipleship, he went away sorrowful.

Among my acquaintances are quite a number of people who have been blessed with this world's goods. But the ones who have discovered peace of heart and mind are those who have drawn on "Heaven's bank" — God's resources. I know of no person of means who has found happiness in a bank vault filled with securities. So, why envy the rich, or why pity those with more limited resources, when real peace of heart is available to all, through Christ? We can all be "rich" through Him of who it was said, "Though He became poor, yet for our sakes He became poor, that ye through His poverty might be made rich." II Cor. 8:9.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Thus saith the Lord of hosts; Consider your ways. (Haggai 1:7)

PRAYER: Dear Lord Jesus, when we think of Your great love for us, we are ashamed of our selfishness. We have not sown enough, nor have we expected much. Help us to consider our ways and see our need of Your redeeming and sustaining strength. Amen.

Cassini Lassoed By 'Elegance Of Cowboy'

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles written by Charles Hoch for the Herald-Examiner News Service on the Men's Fashion Association press preview in Philadelphia.

By CHARLES HOCH
PHILADELPHIA — Oleg Cassini, during a post-luncheon men's fashion showing here turned a temporary power failure into a personal triumph. When the public address system went dead during his commentary for 300 people, Cassini took to the runway himself to show the outfit he was wearing — a double breasted wool frontier shirt and tie, leather pants and a wide, wide silver concho belt specially designed for him.

Cassini's affection for the west and for the unaffected elegance of the cowboy was evident in almost every fashion he showed. He said the American cowboy has influenced world fashion and explained that the close-fitting shirt and the snug pant that is generally thought of today as the Italian look is, in actuality, the cowboy look and was introduced into Italy immediately after World War II when American troops were allowed to wear civilian dress during off duty hours. Many of the Cassini suits and sport coats and nearly all of the sweater shirts combined knit with leather or suede, and nearly all of them borrowed heavily from the cowboy concept.

Notable among the many suits was a navy blue polyester and wool double knit with a close-fitting waist length jacket. The trousers were tucked into knee-high brown leather boots and a flat-crowned, rolled brim felt hat completed the western silhouette. Another of the western suits was a mahogany brown knit trimmed in suede and worn with a coordinated brown and white shirt and brown tie.

OLEG CASSINI says the close-fitting shirt and the snug pant that is generally thought of today as the Italian look is, in actuality, the "cowboy" look which was introduced into Italy by American troops after World War II.

MIDNIGHT COWBOY
Cassini takes the cowboy right through midnight in black velvet or delustered satin dinner suits cut with the traditional waist length jacket and slightly flared trouser.

Cassini also believes in the solid black look for evening wear. One ensemble teamed a black shirt, black bow tie and black velvet pants with a multi-colored tapestry evening coat. Cassini also showed the same all black concept executed entirely in black satin and topped with a maxi-length top coat of glistening black leather.

Velvet, satin and leather run consistently throughout the Cassini collection and the designer explained he likes to present the contrast of simple styling worked in the most luxurious of fabrics and feels that modern men, particularly young men, wear them with great finesse.

In a lighter vein Cassini presented what he called his "Solution Suit." What appeared

Servicemen Get 100 Packages

The Wives and Mothers of Vietnam Servicemen baked, packaged and mailed 100 packages to military men in Vietnam Saturday at their monthly bake day at Midway School.

Sixty of the packages went to area men stationed in Vietnam. The remaining 40 were sent to four chaplains for distribution. The women meet at 9 a.m. the third Saturday of each month at the school for the bake day. The next business meeting is at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Executive Building, 1600 Scurry.

Westbrook Meetings Involve PTA, Church

WESTBROOK (SC) — Homemaking students of Westbrook High School presented a fashion show for the February meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association. The various classes showed clothing and stuffed toys, while one group presented a skit on sewing.

Mrs. LaRue Broussard, president, conducted the business session as Mrs. Rex McKenney, Mrs. D. G. Rollins and Mrs. W. E. Smith Jr. were named to the nominating committee.

The study book, "The Diakonic Task," was presented last week at First Baptist Church, Loraine. Mrs. T. J. Riden was in charge, assisted by six other members. Prayer was led by Mrs. Hoyt Roberts, Westbrook, and Mrs. O. N. Laster, Hermleigh, gave the at first to be only a cream colored knit business suit became something else when the model removed the coat, a waist length jacket, and his trousers to show a matching long sleeved shirt and snugly fitted leisure shorts.

Cassini was greeted with a round of applause from the women in his audience when he announced that he would start designing women's fashions again for sale next season.

KNIT WITS
To show his feminine fashions, Cassini presented couples in coordinated, but not matching ensembles. He called his first styles "Knit Wits."

Her version was a blue and white geometric print pantsuit, and his was a blue and white diamond weave western suit. Another pair of loosely coordinated fashions worked entirely in Austrian leather put the girl in a brown tunic with a tightly fitted smocked waist worn over matching tights. Her partner wore an open-front, green leather tunic over matching trousers.

Couples were presented, too, to show Cassini's "after-ski" looks. One couple shared velvet as the common denominator. She wore a brilliant red pantsuit with black boots, while he showed a tunic shirt and flared trousers in sapphire.

In this category was the peasant look — embroidered Ukrainian leather coats trimmed in fur and embroidered felt vests and tunics for the Polish look.

Foam Mattress Aids Comfort

Whether it's a houseboat or ski lodge, a fishing camp or a camper truck, a seashore cottage or a log cabin, most second homes share similar problems: limited space, regular exposure to dampness, and furniture that must take a beating.

One way to beat all three problems is by using latex foam rubber mattresses. They are mildew proof in even the highest humidity, and they save space since they are resilient and can be used on a thin plywood base (or even right on the floor with great comfort). Days, they serve as seats, and since there are no wires to bend or break down they last many years.

Moths and other bugs find foam rubber uninteresting, so even in extended periods of disuse your mattress will not attract new tenants. Best of all, foam rubber mattresses are comfortable, mighty important after a hard day's fun.

BSP Group To Assist Nursing Inn

"Express Yourself," a group discussion, was the program held Monday evening by Beta Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, in the home of Mrs. Preston Myrick, Old San Angelo Highway.

Dear Abby:
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a secretary for a generous man and I really like my job. Sometimes Mr. L asks me to work evenings, which I don't mind since I get paid extra for it. During the day he never makes one wrong move toward me, but lately when I work in nights he has been acting different. For instance, he let me know that as soon as everyone else goes home, he always moves his car so nobody will know we are here. Also no matter what I say, he twists it to give it a sexy or suggestive meaning. Mr. L is married and I'm not, but I do have a boy friend. Even if I didn't have one, I wouldn't be interested in

Mr. L. because he is bald, fat and old (about 50). Last night, while I was working late, he turned on the stereo and asked me if I wanted to dance. I told him no. Then he said that I didn't have to worry about his wife walking in on us because she lives in the suburbs and doesn't drive. I don't want to find another job but I could use a few suggestions on keeping my boss at arm's length.

DEAR MINNIE: Tell him you like your job and don't mind working late, but your boy friend doesn't live in the suburbs, he's an ex-Marine, and he does drive!

DEAR SLEEPLESS: Tell your husband to see his doctor and find out what's new in close relationship by suggesting that we sleep in separate bedrooms, but I don't know how much longer I can take being awakened like this. Any suggestions?

DEAR BEWILDERED: Your letter sounds like a "plant" from one of the many adoption agencies who are trying to find homes for the thousands of homeless children throughout the world. The solution to your problem is obvious. Do yourself, your wife and the world a favor, and adopt!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

NEW ATTITUDE

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been suffering from indigestion for years. Then X-rays showed I had diverticulosis, and I have had several real attacks of diverticulitis.

My doctor, an internist, advised me against all roughage, and I have heard some people on this diet say they have to eat baby food entirely, and surgery is not the answer. Sometimes I wonder, if you have any suggestions, please advise -- Mrs. H. P.

One suggestion: read my booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You." Send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy. But in addition, you will be interested in knowing that current medical thinking about an average amount of roughage -- the amount obtainable from fruits and vegetables.

The explanation is this: studies show that pressure within the colon is less when a reasonable amount of bulk is present. But with a very low-roughage or low-bulk diet, the colon has to contract much more in order to move the contents along. This severe contraction appears to be a factor in irritating those pouches, hence adding to the patient's distress.

Bear in mind that foods with harsh residue still should be avoided -- corn, because the hulls do not digest easily; nuts, because the same is true of rough fibers; fruits with seeds, since the seeds are not digested. But other than such items, most fruits and vegetables can add bulk without irritation, as the cellulose fibers are quite soft by the time they reach the lower bowel.

This bulk makes bowel action easier and more natural. But remember that drinking ample water is important. And also that non-irritating bulk can be added as well by preparations containing agar, psyllium, or sodium dioctyl sulfosuccinate. Carrying a bland diet to extremes, in other words, may hamper rather than help, and make the diet a chore to follow.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A chemist friend told my brother that taking vitamins A and D could cause liver damage because the body stores these vitamins and does not eliminate them. Is this true? -- L.B.

Yes, as I've said before in this column. The body stores excess amounts. It takes considerable amounts to cause any harm. For example, a daily capsule of any of the mixed vitamins on the market will not do any harm, but if people repeatedly take large doses of these two vitamins, they can, after perhaps some months, be harmful.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically by reading the booklet, "The Way To Stop Constipation." For a copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 25 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Local Officials Have Varied Opinions On Penal Code

By BRIAN PEAY
Opposition to the proposed Texas Penal Code has been building to a point that some are asking for postponement of the bill for two more years. Howard County officials, for the most part, feel there are good points in the revision, but have varied opinions on immediate passage of the bill.

A petition was sent to the Big Spring Police Department from Chief of Police Forrest E. Keene, City of University Park, Dallas area, asking for the signatures of all Big Spring policemen.

The petition calls for the postponement of the code until law enforcement agencies around the state can have time to study it further. The petition cited two main sections of the code that some law enforcers are against.

The sections are chapter nine — making it illegal for a person to defend his property with deadly force, which means that a citizen could no longer shoot a robber. Also chapter 46 hampering the right of citizens to bear arms and use them.

"The petition was sent out to members of the Texas Law Enforcement Legislative Committee and their staffs and will be sent back to Austin with the names," said Police Chief Jay Banks. "The postponement probably will delay the bill for two years." There are 32 Big Spring names on the petition at this time.

The bill is scheduled to come before the Texas Legislature this month, and the general consensus in Howard County has been that discrepancies in the code could be worked out by the legislative body, therefore, avoiding a postponement.

The code, five years in writing, has come up against strong opposition, mainly led by Henry Wade, Dallas district attorney. Along with Wade, those in opposition to quick passage of the bill are the TLEEC, the North Texas Police Chiefs Association, and state representative Walt Parker.

Wade points out, in a letter sent out to law enforcement bodies around the state, 22 various discrepancies in the code that he feels will make Texas law weaker, not stronger. Some of these are reduced penalties, in which Wade says, all minimum and maximum penalties have been reduced greatly.

Also Wade says additional appeals are a weak point, because in the code are some rules which would lengthen trial procedure and cause additional appeals.

Other controversial parts of the code Wade points out are early parole, ("Criminals would be eligible for parole even more quickly than under present rules") and insanity defense ("this is basically the 'irresistible impulse' rule and represents an extension of our present insanity standard and will result in more criminals being freed from responsibility.")

"I do not think the code should be postponed. There are relative parts in the code that are non-controversial that need to be adopted right away," said Wayne Burns, 11th district attorney.

Burns explained that current Texas laws have an origin of approximately 50 to 75 years. "They need to be modernized and updated to suit today's times."

"I am absolutely opposed to delaying the code for two years. There are parts of the code that the legislative needs to adopt now and then take the time to work out the more controversial parts, or we might lose the whole code," Burns said.

PRETTY BRUNETTE SAYS: 'We Started Stabbing, Cutting Up The Lady'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "We started stabbing and cutting up the lady," said Leslie Van Houten, confessing on the witness stand that she helped kill a market owner's wife.

"I stabbed her," the pretty brunette said calmly. "I don't know if it was before or after she was dead but I stabbed her."

Miss Van Houten, 21, telling Monday of killing Rosemary La Bianca, became the third woman a codefendant in the Sharon Tate murder trial to make a witness stand admission of murder.

Like Patricia Krenwinkel and Susan Atkins who preceded her, the youngest woman defendant said Charles Manson, leader of a hippie-style "family," had no part in planning or executing the murders of seven persons, including Miss Tate, the actress.

Manson, 36, and the three women have been convicted of murder and conspiracy. The jury is hearing testimony in the trial's penalty phase, to decide whether to set the sentence at death or life imprisonment.

Pair Robs Texas Bank

ITALY, Tex. (AP) — A man who appeared to be about 60 years old held up the First State Bank of Italy about noon today and escaped with another white man.

Amount of money taken was not determined immediately.

The pair fled in an old blue station wagon with a black top.

The older man went to a teller, Mrs. Joe Bradley, she related. Mrs. Bradley said he displayed a small black pistol and demanded all the money.

Other employees and the customers were not aware of the robbery until the men left.

Roadblocks were set up on Texas 22 near Blooming Grove.

Italy is about midway between Dallas and Waco.

Connally Says Nixon Mulls 'Wage Freeze'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally told Congress today the Nixon administration might well use standby power for a wage-price freeze in a particular industry—presumably the construction industry.

Connally's testimony to the House Banking and Currency Committee came as he expressed the administration's willingness to accept an extension of the standby wage price control authority, opposed by President Nixon when it was first voted last year.

Connally emphasized, however, the administration has no intention of imposing a general wage price freeze unless Congress specifically calls for it. He said, however, that Nixon will make a statement later today that "I hope will make clear that gouging will not be permitted."

Connally questioned specifically about the discussions between the Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson with construction labor union officials.

He was asked whether his statement disclaiming any intention of a general freeze might rule out action in one specific industry.

"I don't rule it out at all," Connally replied. He said Hodgson had gone to Miami for the discussions, "because the building trade had had enormous wage increases."

These, he said, averaged 8 percent and in some individual

Camp Planned For Children With Diabetes

The Texas Lions' League for Crippled Children will expend $40,000 this year for a pilot summer camp at Gainesville for diabetic children. Carl Hyde, Midland, informed the Evening Lions Club at the Tea Room Monday.

If this program is successful, the Lions plan to adopt it on a permanent basis in addition to the camp at Kerrville for crippled and handicapped children. Hyde is a director of the Lions League. The league and individual Lions Clubs have given a free camping experience to more than 1,000 children.

He also invited Lions and their wives to take part during the district 2A convention May 7-8 in Midland. Dick Bryan, Akron, Ohio, executive for Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and a past Lions International president, will be the speaker.

Harry Wisheart, Ozona, district governor, will make his official visit to the Evening Club at 6:30 p.m. March 1, and members of other Lions Clubs are invited to attend.

Dolphins Grab 15th Straight

By The Associated Press
Jacksonville was a veritable blizzard against East Carolina and Kentucky blew Alabama off the court—but that was nothing compared to the snow job the Big Eight got.

The sixth-ranked Dolphins rolled to their 15th consecutive victory and added lustre to their role as the nation's highest scoring collegiate team Monday night, rolling over the Pirates 127-69.

And Kentucky's 10th-rated Wildcats, breezing towards their fourth straight Southeastern Conference crown, boosted their record to 19-4 with a 101-74 romp against Alabama. The victory was Kentucky's 850th under Coach Adolph Rupp.

But the weatherman outplayed everyone in the Midwest as a massive snowstorm forced a one-day postponement of Monday night's Big Eight schedule.—Kansas State at fifth-ranked Kansas, Oklahoma at Nebraska and Oklahoma State at Missouri.

Five of the teams spent Monday doing nothing—but Oklahoma State's Cowboys carried things to an extreme. They spent Sunday night and part of Monday in a snowbound bus on the Kansas Turnpike near Wichita.

In other major games, South Carolina held off Houston, 88-81, Western Kentucky squeezed by Eastern Kentucky 94-93 in overtime. North Carolina rallied to overtake Florida State 70-61 and Virginia Tech upset Ohio University 86-80.

Oilers Upset By Civitans

The Civitans shocked Tompkins Oil, 95-75, and Wooten, Lyons trounced First Federal Savings and Loan, 79-70, in YMCA Adult Basketball league games here Monday evening.

Leonard Jansa and Danny Clendenin were the big guns for the Civitans, scoring 24 points each. Greg Bruce tallied 17 and Bob Davis 16 for Tompkins.

Civitan Club built up a 48-40 bulge at half time, then outscored the Oilers, 47-35, after the intermission.

Danny Parchman bucketed 17 points, Fill Guinn 15 and John Weeks 13 for First Federal but it wasn't enough.

Wooten was led by Terry Wooten and Ronnie Taylor, each of whom had 22 points. Ken Maxwell followed with 21.

Wooten Lyons led at half time, 39-30.

Yearlings Kayo Goliad's Girls

Runnels A turned back Goliad A for its fourth straight girls' volleyball win here Monday evening, 15-4, 15-9.

Pam Weber had eight points, Fern Newton and Sally Graves seven each for Runnels while Helen Ray was impressive at the net. Jenkins and Soldan stood out for Goliad.

Goliad won the B game, 15-4, 10-15, 15-9, inflicting the first loss on Runnels.

Shanks counted 19 points for Goliad, with fine assistance lent by Williams and Corryell. For Runnels Pricilla Saiz and Balencia Brown were outstanding. The Goliad B team is unbeaten.

In seventh grade play, Runnels also won, 15-1, 15-0. Dianne Pipkin counted 13 successful serves for the winners in that one, with Denise Burchell and Liz Warren doing Trojan work at the net.

PGA Still Bidding For Recognition

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The PGA championship is No. 4 among golf's big four major tournaments, but it's trying harder.

A new date and a new site—the palm-bejeweled East Course of the PGA National Golf Club, home of the national headquarters—are intended to improve the image of the stepchild title event that for a quarter of a century has been struggling for proper recognition.

"This is a start—but it will take time," Jack Nicklaus said today. "The PGA hit a slump for a period when it was playing inferior courses."

"Naturally, it lost stature and I think most golfers rated it No. 4 in prestige so far as a victory was concerned. But now the PGA is playing on tough courses."

"In my opinion, it has the toughest field of the four big tournaments."

Included in the big four are the Masters, U.S. Open, British

Open and PGA. Three men who have won all four will be in the list of 147 pros who will tee up the ball here Thursday for the four-day 72-hole 53rd PGA championship.

They are Gene Sarazen, who played in the event five years ago; Gary Player, the precise little South African, and Nicklaus, who needs only a victory this week to complete a second sweep of the four big events.

"The PGA is the toughest because of the qualification system," Nicklaus said. "The U.S. Open weeds out a lot of potential winners through its local and regional qualifying tests, the British Open draws only a small, hard group if the best U.S. pros, but it's improving, while the Masters, as a restricted invitation, has the weakest field of all."

Nicklaus' appraisal was seconded quickly by other top pros lounging in the locker room of the PGA clubhouse.

"I think the PGA definitely is the toughest," said Tony Jacklin of Britain, the U.S. Open titleholder. "Yet, I'm sure most golfers consider the U.S. and the British Opens and the Masters as having more prestige."

"That's true," agreed Player, "but the field here is by far the best we run against all year."

Dave Stockton, the defending champion, was a dissenter.

"I think most pro golfers on the tour would prefer to win the PGA," Stockton said. "They get an automatic qualification for every tour tournament for 10 years. The Masters doesn't qualify you for anything."

"But for me, now that I've already won the PGA, I'm gunning for the Masters."

The PGA, which automatically qualifies the top 70 money-winners, has suddenly become a prime event for two other of the nation's top shotmakers—Arnold Palmer and Bill Casper. They've never won it. There's not a pro who doesn't want to win the championship of his peers.

Lamesa Vies With Hirschi

LEVELLAND — Tournament-tested Lamesa squares off with powerful Wichita Falls Hirschi at 8:30 p.m. here Friday in the first round of the Class AAA Regional meet.

Lamesa finished with a 14-0 District 3-AAA record. Hirschi was undefeated in 12 league starts.

Dumas of District 1-AAA clashes with Odessa Ector of 2-AAA at 7 p.m. in the other first round game.

Winners in the two games tangle Saturday night, with a trip to the State tournament in Austin riding in the balance.

UCLA Retains Narrow Lead In Cage Poll

By The Associated Press
UCLA retained its precarious perch as the nation's No. 1 college basketball power today as the 1970-71 season headed into the homestretch with the top seven positions unchanged in the weekly Associated Press poll.

The Bruins, once-beaten defending national champions, held a 24-point lead over underdog Marquette in the latest ballot of sports writers and broadcasters, drawing 24 first-place votes to 13 for the streaking Warriors.

Southern California, which matches UCLA's 20-1 season mark and will meet the Bruins in a climactic March 13 showdown, was No. 3 again in the voting.

Once-beaten Kansas received the other first place ballot but remained fifth in the rankings behind Pennsylvania, the only other major team with a perfect season record. Jacksonville and South Carolina held the No. 6 and 7 spots while Duquesne moved up from 10th to eighth, Western Kentucky remained ninth and Kentucky advanced from No. 12 to No. 10.

Marquette, 21-0 this season, puts a carryover streak of 33 victories on the line at New York Thursday night against Fordham, 20-1, which upended Notre Dame last week and soared from 18th to 11th in the ratings.

Michigan's Big Ten leaders jumped from 16th to 12th while North Carolina, beaten by South Carolina on Saturday, slipped from eighth to 13th and La Salle from 11th to 14th.

Louisville climbed four notches to No. 15. Utah State, Tennessee, Ohio State, Notre Dame and Long Beach State completed the Top Twenty.

The Irish, who have lost seven of 22 starts, tumbled from the No. 14 spot a week ago, totaling only 16 points in today's balloting. Long Beach State was the lone newcomer, replacing Murray State, which surrendered the No. 17 spot following two setbacks.

UCLA and Southern Cal each beat Oregon and Oregon State last weekend. Marquette extended its win string by thumping Air Force; Penn., 22-0, downed two Ivy League rivals and Kansas, 20-1, beat a pair of Big Eight Conference foes.

The Top Twenty teams, with first place votes in parentheses and total points on a 20-18-16-14-12-10-9 etc. basis:

- 1. UCLA (24) 688
- 2. Marquette (13) 688
- 3. Southern California 594
- 4. Pennsylvania 587
- 5. Kansas 489

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:
DAVE DEBUSSCHERE, veteran forward for the New York Knicks:

"We had more fun last season. The glamour just isn't there. Last season we got off to a great start and it carried it through the year. It was a storybook season . . . I can't feel sorry for the Cleveland players, because I think of how many times I went through that nightmare of losing. One year (1965), we won only 22 games while I was player-coach with the Pistons. It's their problem to settle. They're getting paid."

BILL MEEK, comparing his one-time quarterbacks at SMU: "If Don Meredith had been as dedicated as Jerry Rhome, he would have been the best who ever played the game. However, his carefree personality and wit promise to bring Don all the riches that football didn't."

PAT CULPEPPER, Baylor coaching aide, on recruiting quarterbacks: "Most positions the boys don't care about the competition. But quarterbacks are different. They're like a hen. If they see another one in the henhouse they're not going to stay long. Quarterbacks don't like to go where the deck is stacked."

One-time pitcher CARL MAYS, who gained his great fame by throwing a submarine pitch that killed Ray Chapman: "I think I belong in the Baseball Hall of Fame. I know I earned it. They took in Rube Marquard this year and that's fine with me. He was a great pitcher. But I deserve it, too. I won seven more games than Rube and I lost 51 less than he did. . . . Chapman's death is not on my conscience. It wasn't my fault. He was the fastest base runner in the league. He could fly. He liked to push the ball toward second or down the first base line and run. I had to guard against this, of course. I knew that Chapman had to shift his feet in order to get in position to push the ball. I saw him doing this — I was looking up at him because I was an underhanded pitcher, my hand almost scraped the ground — and I threw my fast ball high and tight so he would pop up. Chapman ran into the ball. If he had stayed in the batter's box, it would have missed him by a mile."

LANNY VAN EMAN, basketball coach of the downtrodden Arkansas Razorbacks, discussing his game-by-game lineup changes: "I guess I don't have a first string, but two second strings."

JEROME HOLTZMAN, Chicago columnist: "It's not even big news anymore when a baseball player signs a $100,000 contract. According to my reckoning, which is unofficial, there are about a dozen players in the $100,000-and-up bracket, so many you can make quite an all-star team out of them. Here's how it could go, with some juggling: Outfield — Willie Mays, Hank Aaron and Robert Clemente; first base — Frank Howard; second base — Pete Rose; shortstop — Brooks Robinson; third base — Harmon Killebrew; catcher — Frank Robinson or Carl Yastrzemski; pitcher — Bob Gibson."

QB EDDIE PHILLIPS, discussing the offense the Texas Longhorns likely will run next fall: "I don't anticipate many changes. I don't think we'll pass too much. I like to throw, but our running game doesn't really allow it because it's so effective."

ALAN GALLAGHER, infielder for the San Francisco Giants: "If the Giants are losing $798,000, they might as well make it $799,000 and give me another $1,000."

Sportscaster HOWARD COSELL, throwing bricks at the New York writers who have been on him lately: "They put on skits at their annual dinner recently, for which they have absolutely no talent. Then the next day they devote columns praising themselves. After that, they get back to rapping Howard Cosell."

YOU'RE PROBABLY WONDERING WHY VEGA IS CAR OF THE YEAR

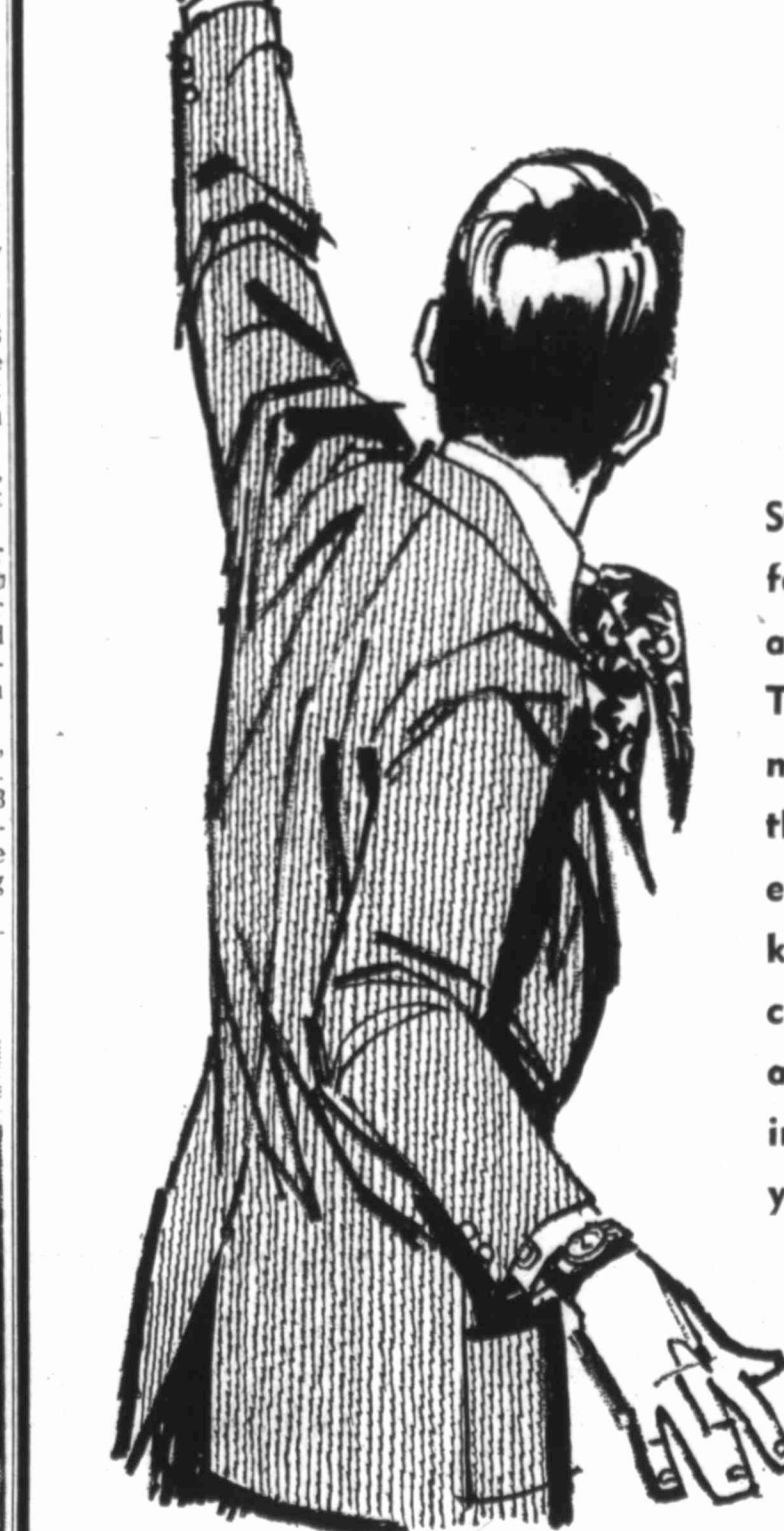

Wonder no more. Motor Trend says, "The Chevrolet Vega is Motor Trend Magazine's 1971 Car of the Year by way of engineering excellence, packaging, styling and timeliness. As such we're saying that, for the money, no other American car can deliver more."

There are many more reasons why Vega was voted Car of the Year over other new cars, both big and little. But those will be best explained when you take our little Vega for a test-drive, where you can see for yourself why we call it the little car that does everything well.

HC-Amarillo Game Delayed 24 Hours

That massive snow and ice storm north of Lubbock the past weekend claimed at least one casualty in Big Spring — tonight's important Western Conference basketball game between Howard County JC and Amarillo College.

Because the teams were stranded in Amarillo Monday and "all clear" driving instructions were not expected before this afternoon, the contest was set back 24 hours and will be played Wednesday night.

The teams will be fighting for a possible first place finish in the league. Each now trails South Plains by a game on the losing side.

Amarillo, after meeting HC here Wednesday, will close out against South Plains at home Friday. Howard County, on the other hand, winds up against Odessa at home Friday night.

When the teams met Jan. 29 in Amarillo, Howard County played some of its finest ball of the season in winning, 88-87.

The Hawks, however, have won only one of their last four starts and that one was a cliff-hanger. After dropping successive decisions to New Mexico

JC, South Plains and Clarendon, the Big Spring collegians sneaked by Frank Phillips by two points.

Archie Myers has suddenly emerged as a threat for a HCJC scoring record for a single season. He stuffed in 29 points against Clarendon and followed that by getting 29 against Frank Phillips to climb to third place among all-time HC scorers. Walter Carter (1961-62) is the leader with 820 while Eddy Nelson (1964-65) ranks second with 819.

HC TO PLAY CLARENDON

Myers, a freshman from Cleveland, Miss., has passed such outstanding players as Larry Linder (1967-68), Bobby Williams (1962-63) and Robert Jackson (1968-69) and now trails Carter by a mere 50 points. His total for the year is 770. He has at least three games remaining, depending on how far the locals go in the Regional tournament.

Against HC Friday night, Jesse King of Clarendon pulled down an amazing 31 rebounds and scored 25 points. He stands only 6-1.

HC hit only 31 per cent of its shots the last half against Clarendon after trailing by one at the intermission. For the game, the Big Spring connected only 37 per cent of the time from the floor.

Against Frank Phillips Saturday, the Hawks were down by 11 points at one stage but came back to win, 84-82. Melvin Perez hit nine of 12 in the last half. In that one, the Hawks hit 60 per cent from the floor after the rest period, getting 21 of 35. For the game, they had 48 per cent.

Pairings for the March 4-5-6 Region V basketball tournament here have been completed. Starting times will be announced later by tournament chairman J. D. Jones.

First round games pit Amarillo, seeded first, against Cisco (8); Hill County (2) against New Mexico JC (7); South Plains (3) against Ranger (6); and Howard County JC (4) against Clarendon (5).

Amarillo, Cisco, Howard County and Clarendon will be in one bracket while Hill County, South Plains, Ranger and NMJC in the other.

Gene Alley Is Felled By Batting Machine

By The Associated Press

All hands were on deck for the Pittsburgh Pirates until Gene Alley crossed swords with a one-armed rogue... and became baseball's first major spring training casualty.

Alley, whose contract signing Sunday brought the Pirates to full strength, suffered a broken left hand during Monday's initial fullscale workout when he tried to ward off a high-and-tight delivery from a pitching machine.

The veteran shortstop said a gust of wind apparently caught the ball "and it took off. I ducked back and threw my hand up, and the ball hit me." The hand will be in a cast for about a month, team Doctor Joseph Finegold estimated.

Houston Manager Harry Walker and Kansas City pitcher Tom Burgmeier also were early accident victims. Walker was struck on the big toe of his left foot by a line drive and Burgmeier suffered a split lip when hit by a thrown ball.

Rookie pitchers Jim Rittwage and Ed Farmer of Cleveland were sidelined with a pulled thigh muscle and strained Achilles tendon, respectively. Rittwage was the last American League pitcher to beat Baltimore before the Orioles closed out last season with a 16-game win string.

And Cincinnati skipper Sparky Anderson spent his 37th birthday in bed with an ear infection and strep throat. "I've never had anything so painful in my life as that ear," he said, forgetting temporarily the headache caused by the continued resistance of 15 unsigned Reds, including Johnny Bench, Pete Rose, Tony Perez and Lee May, to the club's salary offers.

Willie Mays, still negotiating his contract, and Jim Ray Hart, recuperating from shoulder surgery, were the lone absenteees as the San Francisco Giants went through their paces.

Dallas Wants To Serve As Host In Super Bowl

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas isn't through with the Super Bowl yet.

The Cowboys lost to the Baltimore Colts in the 1971 Super Bowl in Miami but Dallas leaders announced Monday they'll campaign to have the 1972 world championship game in the Cowboys new home at Texas Stadium.

Officials announced that Warren Woodward, outgoing president of the chamber of commerce, will be chairman of the committee to seek the game.

The committee will contract National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle and the football team owners at the next winter meeting of the league.

Cowboy owner Clint Murchison has already started his campaigning.

"It's important in dealing with the owners that this is a civic project. They want to be assured the whole community wants it and make an effort to get it."

"What would be most impressive to the owners is that we will have one of the two covered stadiums in the United States. Houston has the other one and it's too small", in my opinion. I mean, I would vote against putting the Super Bowl in the Astrodome."

The Astrodome can seat up to 55,000 for football.

Texas Stadium, expected to be ready by the start of this season, seats 65,000. Another 10,000 could be accommodated for theater-TV at Dallas' Memorial Auditorium.

"It would be a disaster if the game were played in a blinding rainstorm in either Los Angeles or New Orleans. It might not be too much better in Miami, where a heavy rain could result in empty seats."

BEAUMONT (AP) — Consolidation of certain government services in Beaumont and Jefferson County, with an eye to eliminating costly duplication, is the goal of full-scale studies to be initiated soon.

Mayor Ken Ritter said at least four areas are being discussed in preliminaries: Purchasing, computer use, jail facilities and the consolidation of taxing and assessment procedures.

Jefferson County presently has 18 different taxing offices, each with its own staff. Merging of some, elimination of others is one possible result of the current studies, officials said.

Commission Tables Action On Regional Planning Group

Action on Howard County's participation in the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission was tabled indefinitely Monday afternoon in commissioners court.

"I don't understand what the commission is about, and I would like to get the written opinion of County Attorney Bill Eysen on the county's legal and financial responsibilities if we participate," said County Judge A. G. Mitchell.

Commissioner Bill Crocker placed Judge Mitchell's suggestion in the form of a motion, and the commissioners agreed to get Eysen's opinion before taking action. According to Judge Mitchell, it will be at least three weeks before the court will act on the matter.

"The way it looks now," said

Mitchell, "it's the home rule or city governments that will get the pickings." Mitchell did add that he was not opposed to participating in the commission or Council of Governments (COG), as it is also called, but that he was reluctant to go on record in favor of something he knew so little about.

In other action Monday, commissioners agreed to a proposal from Hollis Randell, road and bridge administrator, to number all the county roads and post signs bearing the numbers along them. The roads running east and west will have even numbers, and the roads going north and south will have odd numbers, according to Randell.

At present, there are 58 county-owned roads.

Commissioners also voted to require a road and bridge employee to undergo a physical examination. The man's doctor had written a letter to the court saying that the man had a degenerative arthritic condition in his spine and could do no heavy lifting. The court decided to have the man examined to determine what type of physical labor he can do before assigning him to any other duties.

Routine approval for the standard raise after six months employment was granted for one deputy each in the offices of the district clerk, county clerk and tax assessor-collector.

Commissioners also approved the purchase of a tape recorder for use in the commissioners courtroom and in Howard County Court. The type of recorder under study is valued at $200 and would include a second microphone cable and a 16-hour tape.

'Day' Time Forces Him To Show X-Rated Films

AUSTIN (AP)—A San Antonio drive-in movie operator said Monday night that daylight saving time has forced him to show X-rated movies.

Bill Rau explained that with the sun staying up until 9 p.m., families just don't get out to the drive-ins in the summer like they used to.

"We had to resort to X- and R-rated pictures to attract the kind of people who come out late at night," he told the House State Affairs Committee.

Rau was one of several witnesses for a bill to remove Texas from the federal Uniform Time Act of 1966, which imposes daylight savings time on all states whose legislatures don't specifically remove them.

"Did I understand you to say you wouldn't show any X-rated movies if we cut out daylight saving time?" asked Rep. Joe Golman of Dallas.

"I would discontinue showing X-rated movies... In the winter, we show very few X-rated pictures. I am one of the few theater owners in San Antonio who shows Walt Disney movies," Rau replied.

"You are to be congratulated, sir," Golman said.

Also appearing for the bill were representatives of the Texas Farm Bureau, the National Association of Theater Owners, a bowling alley and the Laredo Brick and Tile Co.

The bill, and a measure to require a statewide referendum on daylight saving time in November of 1972, were sent to a subcommittee for more study.

Reps. Hilary Doran of Del Rio and Henry Sanchez of Brownsville, sponsors of the measures, said border cities don't like daylight time because Mexico stays on standard time.

STORES CLOSED
"Mexican workers get off work at 5 p.m. By the time they get across the border (to the Texas side), the stores are closed," Sanchez said.

Under daylight saving time, clocks are advanced one hour in late April and stay that way until late October. The effect is to lose an hour of sunlight in the morning and gain an hour in the evening. So 5 p.m. in Matamoros is 6 p.m. in Brownsville.

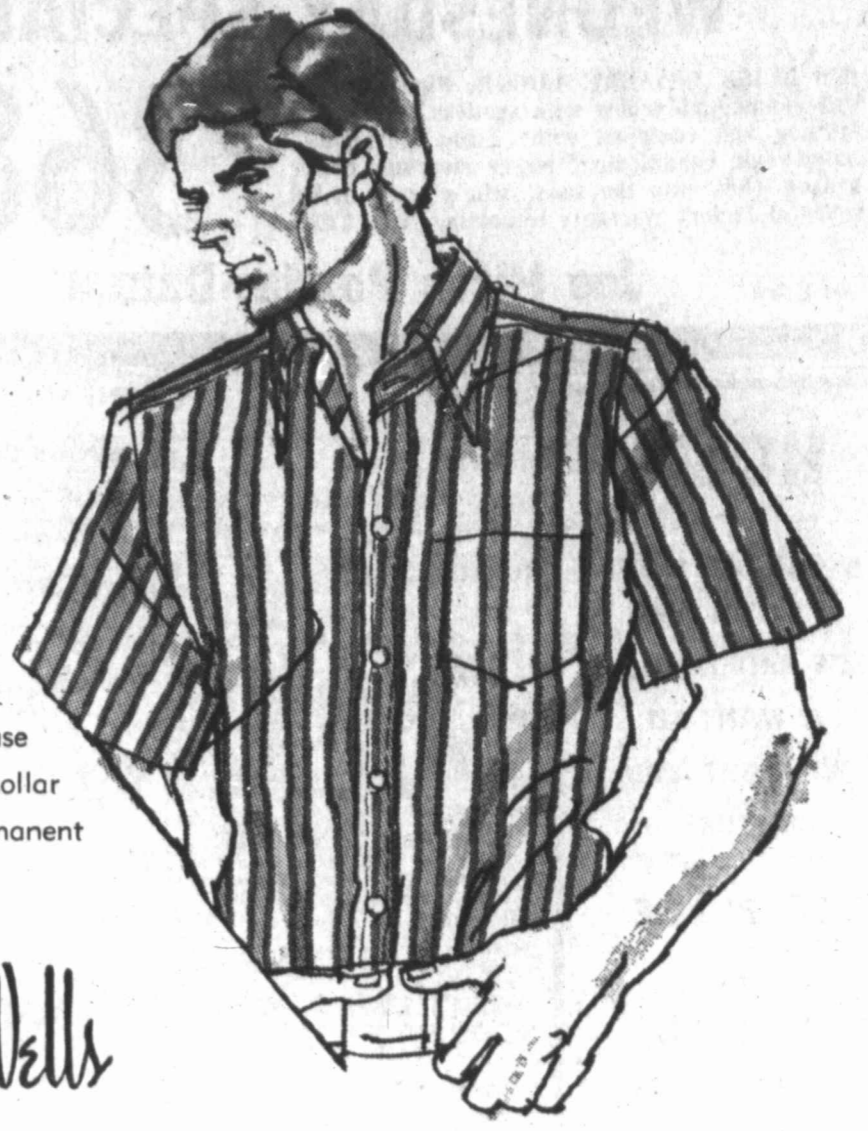

Jack McGrew, vice president and station manager of KPRC-TV in Houston, said exempting Texas would cause television programs to come on an hour earlier than usual unless stations videotaped them for delayed showing.

"Major news programs would be between 4:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.," he said.

Jury Orders Commitment

Gary Scott, 20, 1212 E. 17th, was found insane by 118th District Court jurors Monday afternoon. Scott was ordered committed to the Big Spring State Hospital until such time as the medical staff should approve his release.

He is under indictment for three counts of narcotics violations, conspiracy to deliver a dangerous drug, possession of a dangerous drug and sale of a dangerous drug. Scott was indicted by Howard County Grand Jurors Jan. 23, 1970, and Sept. 3, 1970.

'Patton' Slaps Way To Honors

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The film establishment has voted on the best movie achievements of 1970, and the results are predictably safe and conventional.

Two big-budget movies in the traditional Hollywood style, "Patton" and "Airport," took top honors Monday with 10 nominations each in the 43rd Motion Picture Academy Awards.

"Love Story," the tear-jerking romance of a Harvard man and his incurably ill wife, was runner-up with seven nominations. "M*A*S*H," the wildly irreverent romp of battle surgeons in the Korean War, landed five, as did "Tora! Tora! Tora!"

"Five Easy Pieces," a much-acclaimed example of the new style in film making, managed only four nominations, do did two British-made films, "Scrooge" and "Ryan's Daughter."

Nominated for best film: "Airport," "Five Easy Pieces," "Love Story," "M*A*S*H" and "Patton."

The acting nominees included five brand-new female stars, an Indian chief and an actor who says he doesn't want the Oscar. George C. Scott, who has grumbled that acting should not be placed on a competitive basis, was named for "Patton." Others nominated for best actor: Melvyn Douglas, James Earl Jones, Jack Nicholson, and Ryan O'Neal.

It was the first Academy Award nomination for all five in the best-actress category: Jane Alexander, Glenda Jackson, Ali MacGraw, Sarah Miles, and Carrie Snodgrass.

New Discovery

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Belgian archeologists headed by Prof. Leon DeMeir believe they have unearthed what may be the ancient capital of the Accadians who ruled in Mesopotamia in the middle of the third millennium B. C.

The city of Agade was discovered 12 miles south of Baghdad during three months of excavation.

Diphtheria Case

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — This city's fifth diphtheria case of the month was reported Monday.

Officials said the latest patient is a boy, 6. He is the eighth since Jan. 1.

A Health Department spokesman said another suspected case awaited confirmation.

Solons Handle Campus Unrest Bill Roughly

AUSTIN (AP) — Several legislators are agitated over a "campus unrest" bill that would authorize university security guards to demand the identity of any person on campus.

Rep. Dean Cobb, Dumas, presented the bill to the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee Monday. After rough handling by some committee members, the bill was referred to a subcommittee.

Cobb said his bill was designed to assist guards in handling any person who might be on campus "for the dedicated purpose of causing some kind of problem."

"RABBLE ROUSERS"
There is a hiatus in the law that permits "professional rabble rousers" to come on campus and refuse to give their names, Cobb said.

The real problem faced by guards is determining whether someone is a student, said Bob Musslewhite, representing the University of Texas System. If it is a student, he can be disciplined, Musslewhite said.

The bill would not authorize guards to do anything about non-students other than to identify them.

Rep. Neil Caldwell of Angleton suggested that the proposed law which would authorize a fine up to $200, was unenforceable.

How would the guard know if the name and address were genuine, Caldwell said. If they were false, the guard might not see that person until a week later, after the guard had looked at 10,000 other faces, he said.

Rep. John Hannah of Lufkin asked Musslewhite if he personally would object to requiring persons stopped by campus guards to prove their identity.

Musslewhite said he had no objection.

PAINT STUDENTS
"Why don't we paint students with the school colors?" suggested Rep. Wayland Simmons of San Antonio.

Hannah wondered why it should be all right to authorize officers to insist on this information from citizens on campus when the same thing is illegal off campus, except under suspicious circumstances.

"I'm really concerned about the constitutionality of this bill," said Rep. Don Adams of Jasper.

Adams said the U. S. Supreme Court recently ruled that trespass laws must be tied to some breach of the peace. He suggested that Cobb's bill also would have to be tied to some infraction to be upheld in the courts.

WANTED TO KNOW
Caldwell wanted to know if the guard would have the right to arrest someone in a campus building if the guard "had reason to believe he had no right to be there? For example, suppose the student had long hair? Campus guards sometimes think persons with long hair are less than desirable."

Horoscope Forecast

TOMORROW

—CARROL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You can get yourself in all sorts of difficulties now if you make any drastic changes or do anything of a dramatic nature, for most everyone is in a pretty grumpy mood and looking for things to criticize. Make sure you do not allow yourself the luxury of also having a chip on your shoulder. Be gentle, considerate.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Try not to go to people for favors today since they are in a mood of feeling imposed upon and would not acquiesce. Do work necessary so that you can get ahead by yourself. Don't criticize others.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Taking chances of any kind could ruin your reputation that you have been carefully building up. Being critical of one in power is not wise, either. Make sure you pay that bill, or it could cost you more in the days ahead.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Not a good day to look for new persons or activities that could disturb present set-up, which is actually good. If you consider it in right light, finish whatever work you have started. Evening is fine for studying brochures.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Getting into responsibilities you have facing you and discharging them cheerfully and efficiently is fine early in the day. Show courtesy to others, both health and good looks is wise also.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Any sarcasm on your part could easily sever connections with a partner of whom you think highly. Coming through conscientiously with promises you have made is wise. Don't argue.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you feel anger toward others you think have done you wrong, do not take it out on co-workers. Get work done well and carefully. Stop asking so often for help.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you spend a good deal of money for entertainment, you will very likely regret it later on. Forgetting worries is easy if you give family more affection right now. Save time for improving wardrobe.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try not to get into unnecessary arguments of home, or there could be real trouble. See to it that you do something about whatever it is that has been causing strife, though. Show wisdom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Particular care should be shown on the road or in motion of any kind today, since many are in a somewhat reckless mood, including yourself. Think better of berating others now. Show wisdom.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Stop worrying so much about that problematical affair and get to work on other things, since something will happen later to clear it up nicely. Business advisor usually dependable is not up to par today. Think before you follow advice.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle whatever is of a private nature and avoid going off on tangents. Do not seek advice from others, improving both health and good looks is wise also.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) This is one of those confusing days when you want to make radical changes and have vague longings you do not comprehend. Take it easy and be with individuals who make you feel happy and sure of yourself. Then all is well.
