Tough Tactics Foreseen In Fight Against Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson said Saturday that if proposed voluntary wage constraints fail to moderate inflation in the construction industry something more drastic may be tried.

"In contrast to traditional emergency control programs the proposed mechanism is largely self-regulating," Hodgson said. "It relies on the cooperation of the parties to make it work. Constraints probably more aptly describes the mechanism than controls. If in operation it does not produce results it will have to be replaced."

If Nixon okays the wage constraints as expected Monday, and if the third White House "inflation alert" set for early this week turns out to be tougher than the first two, it would represent a new offensive by the administration against inflation.

It would be the kind of anti-inflation policy pressed by the Federal Reserve Board. The board, by law independent from the White House, is reluctant to pursue Nixon's requested easier money policies for fear of inflation.

The last inflation alert, issued three months ago, threw the White House spotlight on wage and price increases in the oil, copper, railroad and automobile industries, among others.

That alert was stronger than the mild exhortations against inflation contained in the first, but it still contained one big qualification:

It said the White House was not making any comment on whether any of the wage-price increases spelled out were justified.

Whether that qualification will be stripped from the upcoming report is uncertain. But administration officials said it will zero in on specific wage and price decisions.

Dr. Hendrik Houthakker, a member of Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, said the new alert "will be of the same general nature" as the last.

He hinted that recent price increases of lumber and steel will be mentioned, along with comments on the inflation problem in the construction industry.

U.S. Slaps Back At Late North Viet Supply Rush

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 Stratofortresses pounded the mountainous sections of the Ho Chi Minh Trail Saturday after reports of increased enemy movement indicated a late-season rush to get supplies to North Vietnamese forces in the South.

Because of widespread damage to the trail and supply dumps by U.S. air power during the South Vietnamese incursion into Laos, the North Vietnamese appeared to be making an unusual effort to get supplies to their forces in South Vietnam and Cambodia before the spring rains.

"The big thing," said one U.S. military source, "is that North Vietnam is continuing to put materials in at the top of the trail when normally at this time of year they would be shutting down their operation because of the forthcoming monsoon season."

The U.S. Command reported air strikes during the South Vietnamese operation in Laos destroyed or damaged more than 2,300 vehicles, including 69 tanks, and triggered more than 9,400 secondary explosions and 2,150 fires. The explosions and fires indicated hits on ammunition and fuel stores.

Skirmishes and shellings flared near the Laotian border in the northwest corner of South Vietnam. But military sources said they believed the allied pullback there would go ahead without major enemy interference.

There were no reports of fresh fighting farther east along the demilitarized zone, where it also had been feared that enemy forces might be preparing an offensive.

Field reports said the Khe Sanh combat base near the border was hit by about 12 rounds of rocket or artillery fire Saturday. No casualties or damage were reported.

The recovery of a thousand feet of free oil on a drillstem test for the G. E. Kadane & Sons No. 1 Morgan Ranch, five miles southeast of here is a development which could have considerable importance. The show came in the Leonard formation from 6,686-6,740 feet. Operator planned to test the Wolfcamp zone, however, before making production tests in the Leonard. The location is about five miles southwest of the Hutto Multi-Pay area which produces from these pays. The Texas Water Rights Commission last week formally issued a permit to Atmospherics, Inc., which will engage in cloud-seeding on behalf of the Colorado River Municipal Water District. Operator will begin moving in toward the last of the week and be ready to go by the middle of April. This of course, depends on the Lord sending the right kind of clouds in sufficient quantity.

Tahoka Men Killed In Lamesa Crash

LAMESA — Two Tahoka men, John Freddie Thomas, 26, and Howard Bland Draper, 36, apparently died instantly in a private airplane mishap early Saturday morning. Their plane went down one mile north of the municipal airport at Lamesa.

The plane wreckage was discovered at 7 a.m. Saturday by a farm hand employed by John Middleton Jr., on whose land the plane came down. Moments later another boy came upon the scene and notified his father who found the bodies still inside the plane.

According to authorities dispatched to the scene, a watch that had stopped at 12:58 was found on one of the men. The men were thought to have been en route to Odessa from Tahoka when the accident occurred.

The plane, a Piper PA150, apparently hit the ground and bounced approximately 40 feet and then landed upside-down, according to the authorities. The plane did not burn to any extent in the accident.

DROUTH COULD COST HOWARD COUNTY $6 MILLION

Not As Bad As The '50s Yet... But Could Be Worse

WITHOUT RAIN, AREA FARMERS ARE SUNK
... 'definitely in a drouth,' observers say

By STEVE HULTMAN
Howard County stands to lose $6 million in agricultural income this year if the drouth doesn't break within the next 90 days.

Cotton land needs two to four inches of rain before it can be planted. The latest the farmers can wait to plant is about the middle of June. If there has not been enough rain by then there will be no cotton crop this season.

There has been .06 inch of rain so far this year. At this time last year Howard County had had 4.17 inches of rain.

"We are in a drouth all right," said Lawrence Davis, a farmer and rancher southeast of Coahoma. "It's getting bad, but it's not as bad as the drouth in the '50s yet. But it will be worse if it lasts as long."

"We have had about as much blowing as we have had in 15 or 20 years. This is the first year since 1957 that we haven't had a crop of barley around the house to hold the sand down.

"I have 859 acres of cotton and some silage. We need at least two to two and one-half inches of rain in April to get ready to plant. If we don't get some good rain in April or May we may miss a crop. The growing season is about May through October. If we get rain in April or May we will still need some in July or August. Our ground is just too dry.

"My cattle need rain right now. There is no grass coming and everybody is feeding pretty heavy. I have been feeding since the middle of January and will have to do something soon, either sell or put them on a feed lot.

"Water is scarce. My tanks are low and a lot of tanks to the north are dry. I have a fairly good well, but if it went dry I don't know what I would do.

"The sub-surface water in Howard County is partly sheet water and partly stream water. In some areas you can drill anywhere and find water. But in this area the water bearing sands are in streams. If you move 50 feet from a well you may drill a dry hole. I have a well that's pretty good and a dry hole 55 feet away.

TROUBLE AHEAD
"I don't think anyone will go under this year, but if the drouth keeps up like this some may be in trouble next year. Taxes are at least three times higher than in the '50s, just like everything else."

"We are in better shape now than we were in most of the '50s drouth," said Neil Spencer, a farmer in the Gay Hill area. "We have quite a bit of sub-surface moisture. It's not as bleak as it looks on the surface."

"Before we can plant we need two to three inches of rain. We could wait as late as the 20-25 of June before we planted, although it would be much better to plant earlier."

WHEAT LOST
"We don't have a blowing problem in this area because of the type soil we have. But we are in a drouth. I had to plow up 150 acres of wheat this year because it died.

"Expenses are greater now than in the '50s. It's just as dry one time as the other, but it's more expensive to farm. Taxes are three and one-half to four times higher. Everything is higher."

"We were in as fine a shape as we could be in this time last year," said J. W. Broughton, a farmer northeast of Coahoma. "The underground moisture was good. But this year is just as dry as dry can be."

NEED IT NOW
"We need two inches of rain in a week's time," said G. C. Broughton, a farmer throughout Howard County. "With that and some showers we would be in good shape."

"If the farmers don't make a crop," said J. W. Broughton, "there will be $6 million less spent in Howard County."

"I haven't seen farming come to a halt like this since I have been farming," said Don Long, a farmer northwest of Big Spring. "I have 60 acres of irrigated cotton and will probably do all right with it. My wells are doing real good, but it's taking longer to wet the ground because it is so dry."

BUSINESS OFF
"My business is 40 per cent off," said G. C. Broughton, who owns a truck and implement company as well as farm properties. "I deal directly with the farmer so I was hit first. But it will be downtown next. If the drouth keeps up next year it is going to be really serious."

"The weather is against you," said J. W. Broughton. "Farming is a risky business and is getting riskier every year. It costs more every year. When I started to farm, the land I am farming now supported five families, and I am a little farmer."

The outlook for Howard County farmers is not good. The last rain of more than one-half inch was 163 days ago. According to the Agriculture Research Service station this condition should exist less than 10 per cent of the time.

55 STORMS
The experiment station has predicted 55 sandstorms and blowing dust days this year. The last year this number was exceeded was during the drouth in 1953. Last year there were 23 sandstorms in the Big Spring area.

Drouth conditions have occurred in every other decade at least since the 1930's. If past dry spells are any indication this one will continue for some time.

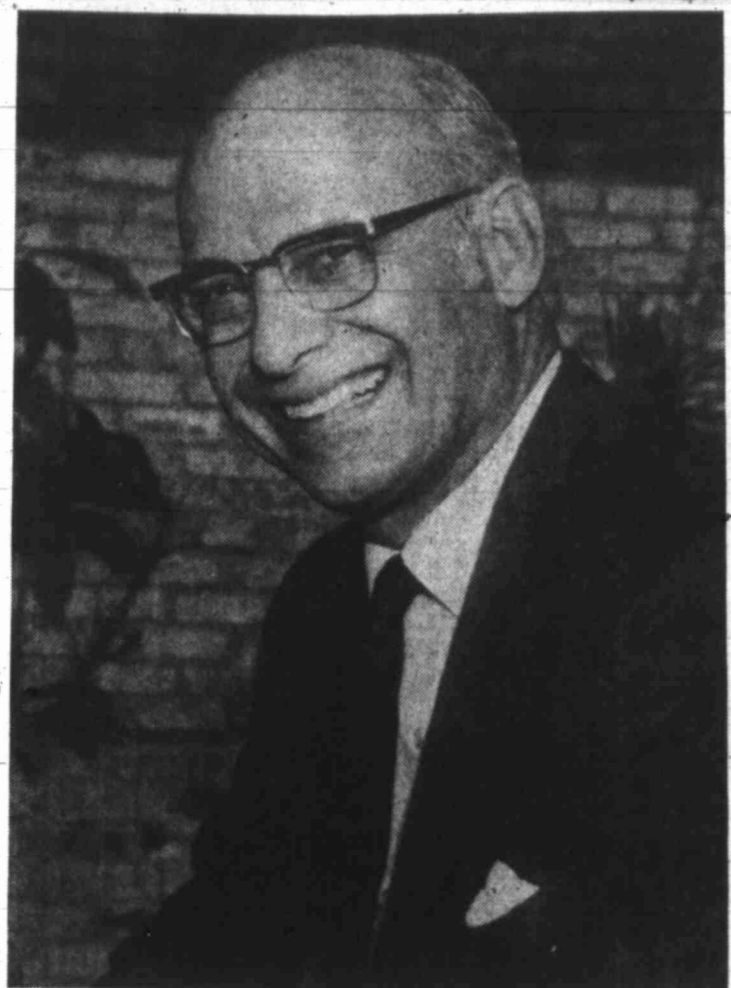

Scientists are not yet sure of the causes of drouths, but one theory is that sunspot activity may be the key to the problem. Ed Bowman, weatherman in Denver, maintains that major storms occur during the height of sunspot activity and that during lulls in sun activity we can expect dry weather. Major sunspot activity is on an 11-year cycle. The peak of the cycle was in 1969. Sunspot activity will taper off during the 1970's. "Consequently," said Bowman, "we may expect a major drouth to develop."

One ray of hope for the farmer may be the cloud seeding attempts that will take place in this area. Rain from seeded clouds falls slowly in small drops. The small drops may be absorbed more easily than normal rain. But there is no guarantee that the seeding operations will succeed.

Living In Outer Space May Soon Be Reality

DR. RICHARD W. DOWNS
... possible to live in space

By JEAN FANNIN
The idea of man colonizing space is no longer as far-fetched as it once seemed, according to Dr. W. Richard Downs, guest speaker Friday night for the annual American Legion banquet here.

Dr. Downs, who holds the title of technical assistant for advanced systems for structures and mechanics division for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, holds a degree in chemistry and has been with NASA since the Manned Spacecraft Center was established in Houston.

Exploration in space not only prepares for the future when men may emigrate to other planets in this galaxy but has provided advanced technology which benefits man now, he said.

HELPFUL DEVICES
"One device perfected for space exploration but now in use on earth is an instrument to measure the flow of blood. This is useful in open heart surgery," Dr. Downs said.

He also pointed out the discovery of a new kind of graphite, or carbon, to which the body can adapt much as it does to a bone.

"It can be used to replace bones and skull parts and in building parts for artificial hearts," he said. "The blood forms membranes over the graphite and blood may be pumped over it without danger of complications. The body accepts it as any other part is accepted," he said.

The graphite was originally used in building re-entry protection systems for spacecraft, he said.

"Every dollar spent on the space program is spent on earth," Dr. Downs said when questioned on criticism of the expense of the space program.

TO BE REPAID
"It is estimated that the $25 billion spent on the Apollo program will be repaid in the next five years from just the earth survey systems developed," he said.

The survey systems aid in mapping the resources of the earth and in fighting pollution, he said.

"Our fears that man could infect the earth with an unknown disease have been proved groundless," Dr. Downs said, indicating Apollo 14 will probably be the last mission which will end in a quarantine for astronauts.

"It was a precaution we had to take. Man was going to a completely different kind of environment — one where new compounds could form on such items as space suits and be transported back into our environment to our detriment. There has been no evidence of this."

Quarantines also have been necessary from a political point of view, he said. "A foreign government easily could have released a plague, blaming it on our space exploration," Dr. Downs said.

WATER, OXYGEN
Scientists now are experimenting with ways of producing water and oxygen on the moon's surface, which tests have shown is similar to Hawaiian basalt or Australian beach sand.

The moon would be agricultural paradise if water and oxygen were available, he said.

Development of water and oxygen would also enable man to establish a colony on the moon. "And an exploration of about six months is the only way to answer fully our questions about the moon," Dr. Downs said.

Whether there are other civilizations on the galaxy is still an unanswered question. "There is always a possibility of an inhabited planet; the more we explore, the more we know about this."

"We now think Venus is probably too hot to be inhabitable. But there's always the possibility that in some of the higher regions of the planet, where it is cooler, life would be possible."

TRIP TO MARS
A journey to Mars is possible within the decade, he said. With the equipment now in use it would take about a year and a half to reach Mars, "but some of the voyages of Columbus took longer than that," he said.

Space exploration definitely holds many promises for the future.

"Within our lifetime there is the possibility of colonizing other planets in this galaxy and of using electrical energy from the sun and eliminating pollution from our waterways. Communication developments already made are immense."

Doctor, Chaplain Receive American Legion Awards

Dr. P. W. Malone was awarded the citizen's award for service to the community and Chaplain C. O. Hitt was awarded the veteran's award Friday evening at the American Legion Awards Banquet. Presentation of awards was made by Larry Phillips, post commander.

The annual banquet honored World War I veterans, their wives and the Gold Star Mothers of Howard County. "Approximately 150 people attended the meeting," said Dr. Halvard Hansen, program director.

The program included several special activities as Mrs. Smith Swords spoke on the POW campaign and promoted the sale of lapel pins saying "I CARE." Also Mrs. Johnnie Stevens presented the flag which had covered her husband's casket to the local post and "the transfer was made with proper honors and respect," said Dr. Hansen.

Special speaker for the meeting was Dr. W. Richard Downs, Manned Space Craft Center, NASA, Houston. Downs presented a talk and slides on the benefits of the space program in the US.

Dr. Malone came to Big Spring in 1930 and in conjunction with Dr. J. E. Hogan, formed the Malone and Hogan Clinic Hospital in 1938. Malone assisted in the organization of Howard County Junior College in 1945 and has been on the board of directors for the school ever since. He is a deacon at the First Baptist Church and has served as the president of the Big Spring Aviation Committee, Lions Club, and Chamber of Commerce.

Chaplain Hitt, a World War I veteran, came to the city in 1950 and worked at the Veterans Administration Hospital for 19 years before retiring in 1969. Chaplain Hitt has been a member of the American Legion for 40 years, has been a past active member of the Lions Club, and is a member of the Howard County Ministerial Fellowship.

Students Can't Vote On Liquor

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — Some 75 Morehead State University students have lost a bid to register to vote in a city local option election April 20 on the sale of alcoholic beverages.

The students went to the county courthouse but the county Board upheld a challenge by Rowan County Atty. James Clay to their right to register.

To qualify, Clay said, a student must plan to make Morehead his permanent home, have his car registered in Rowan County, and not be receiving financial support from his parents.

'Mr. Ultraviolet' May Have Solution To Air Turbulence

WASHINGTON (AP) — A scientist known to his colleagues as Mr. Ultraviolet plans early tests of a technique for detecting clear-air turbulence, the mysterious, destructive force that can destroy aircraft flying in cloudless skies.

George Michanowsky, president of a small New York research organization, Amazonia Foundation, Inc., says he's confident that his technique will prove itself in tests at New York's Kennedy International Airport.

If it does, it can point the way for the first time to a means of determining the size and shape of a turbulent area and measuring its movement and duration.

The basis of his concept, near-ultraviolet light.

Michanowsky told a reporter his sensing technique uses the particulate matter in the atmosphere as a tracer material, to sense atmospheric movements that otherwise are invisible.

Donald T. Foley, manager of Kennedy airport's aeronautical services division, has classified Michanowsky's study as "an urgent flight-safety project based on an ultraviolet reconnaissance concept developed by him."

Michanowsky said he experimented in ultraviolet techniques during years of aerial reconnaissance for archeological objects in the Andes mountains of South America.

He said that during photographic experiments he learned he could locate many objects that otherwise could not be observed, in the dense jungle terrain, through use of near-ultraviolet. He said he found that by pointing his sensor at the atmosphere he could detect turbulence by observing particle movements in the air.

The Kennedy airport study will be concerned mainly with the turbulence left in the wake of large jet planes as they approach airports or as they take off and climb to cruise altitude.

Because of the menace of wake turbulence, air traffic often must be delayed or diverted to avoid possible encounters.

"Money Louder Than Victims"

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Money talks louder in state legislatures than the "victims of industrial pollution," Rep. Rex Braun of Houston asserted Saturday.

Braun spoke at a St. Mary's University Law School conference.

He urged the law students to write letters to legislators, supporting Braun's environmental protection act which would allow any citizen to file suit to stop pollution.

SURFSIDE SING-IN — Guitarist stages impromptu concert on the beach at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., as the annual migration of vacationing college students reaches its peak. Police

Lt. Joe McIntosh says most students simply "want to have a good time."

Drug Scene Hasn't Invaded Fort Lauderdale Beaches

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The drug scene may be big elsewhere but as college students start their annual spring vacation rites here, booze still seems to be king.

Students from throughout the country began descending on the beach about a week ago. And, as in years past, every day for many of them is a rerun of the day before: beach in the morning, beer at noon, more of each until sundown and the bars at night.

When their vacations ends, they roll up their sleeping bags and head north—battered, broke and tanned.

Although their hair is longer, the students who have commandeered the beaches, bars and motels this spring recall their predecessors of a decade ago, says Andrew Tsiantar, part owner of a beachfront clothing store. He has been watching the spring invasion for more than a decade.

"This has always been the backbone of my business," he says.

"The students are no different," Lt. Joe McIntosh says. "If anything, he added, 'they seem quieter.'"

Police Lt. Joe McIntosh says the students now simply "want to have a good time. They don't want to be hassled and we don't want to hassle them."

He's been through 16 spring invasions and the meales they frequently bring with them.

The 15-man beach force has made 50 arrests so far. Most were disorderly conduct, public drunkenness and sleeping on the beach. Only five of the estimated 3,000 to 4,500 students have been arrested on drug charges.

"Maybe the drug crowd in colleges don't feel that Fort Lauderdale and a couple of beers is a good time," said McIntosh, who expects about 20,000 students during the Easter peak.

"I don't think there are any heavy drugs here at all," said Mary Lee Workman, a 20-year-old former student at the University of New Hampshire.

"You can go down the beach and see some circles of kids passing joints but up on the streets you don't. You don't even smell it around," she said.

Lewis Heimlich, a white-haired graduate who retired to Fort Lauderdale 11 years ago, said, "You can believe the future of America is in good hands by

New School Is Dedicated

LAMESA (SC) — Approximately 1,000 persons Saturday attended formal dedication ceremonies of the Lamesa Middle School. Another 3,000 attended open house at the building later.

Dr. Glenn Barnett, executive vice president of Texas Tech University, praised the facility and said it is a new concept in teaching.

Ceremonies included the dedication of the vocational education building on the high school campus. The vocational education program will include cosmetology, automobile mechanics, vocational agriculture, distributive education and coordinated vocational academic education. It is expected to be in operation by the fall semester.

Dedication for the two new facilities was held in the Middle School gymnasium.

Classes begin in the Middle School Monday.

CONTROL DECLINING WITH TROOP STRENGTH

Vietnamization In Most Crucial Phase

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The power of the U.S. military men to control the strategy and course of the Vietnam war is declining along with the drop in U.S. troop strength.

Differences in view between Washington and Saigon may very easily lead to criticism, recriminations and bitterness in spite of the official policies that call for continued close cooperation as allies.

American troops remaining in the country may become more vulnerable to enemy attack as their number declines and the range of their combat activities decreases rapidly.

Their security will depend increasingly on South Vietnamese forces, even though for many months to come a large percentage of the Americans left in South Vietnam will be security forces.

At best the leaders in both countries—despite the Nixon administration's early claims of success—are dealing with an extremely costly strike which had to be cut short by a month in the face of heavy North Vietnamese counterattacks.

A complaint which has come up in U.S. military quarters here and in Saigon is that President Nguyen Van Thieu should have reinforced his strike force in Laos when North Vietnam threw unexpectedly great strength into its defense of the Ho Chi Minh Trail system.

CUT TRAIL — The flexible plan was originally intended to cut important elements of the trail complex and keep them cut until the rainy season about a month from now.

The Nixon administration's Vietnamization policy provides not only for making the South Vietnamese military self-sufficient, but also for encouraging strength and self-reliance increasingly in the Saigon government.

Coming months are likely to put severe strains on this policy, key officials believe, since Thieu and Nixon, and even more their advisers, are not expected to see eye-to-eye on every major decision of policy and strategy which comes up.

CASUALTIES HIGH — South Vietnamese casualties in the Laos operation have been unofficially reported at 50 percent of the total force of about 20,000.

The United States has been running the war in Laos for five years and its decisions have largely determined the strategy and the policy governing not only its own but allied actions.

The evidence that Thieu disregarded U.S. military advice in an operation for which his people were providing the ground forces dramatizes the end of an era in the conflict.

U.S. forces are now declining toward the 300,000 level.

Some reports from inside the administration put the total U.S. force remaining in Vietnam by the fall of 1972—that is, before the presidential election—at 50,000 or less.

The figures which Nixon will announce will provide an indication of how he believes the war will go in the remaining months of this year and the first nine months of next year.

Some officials here suggest that thinking of South Vietnam's own interests was probably the major reason why Thieu decided not to reinforce his troops in Laos. A gamble that failed to pay off—that merely increased his casualties, according to this reasoning, would have been dangerous.

The critical measure of the Laos operation may well prove to be the long-range effect on the South Vietnamese forces. If losses were as severe as recent reports have suggested, the kind of confidence and belief in victory which U.S. and South Vietnamese leaders have been trying to develop in the South Vietnamese forces would be perhaps seriously endangered.

Mansfield Knocks Invasion Of Laos With U.S. Backing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday the U.S.-backed South Vietnamese invasion of Laos has triggered Vietnamese reaction that "has created a very precarious position" for the Laotian government.

In addition, Mansfield told reporters, "it creates the possibility of invasion into South Vietnam by North Vietnam."

The Montana Democrat expressed concern over news reports that the North Vietnamese had advanced within four miles of the Laotian royal capital of Luang Prabang and, earlier this week, shelled the city's airfield for the first time.

"One of the corollaries of the invasion in Laos—or the invasion—has been and will continue to be stepped-up enemy activity in central Laos and endangering the royal capital, which I think could be taken without too much trouble," he said.

The Montanan said the Laotian invasion widened the Indochinese war and that "the South Vietnamese retreat was a premature one and an expedited one."

Asked its effect on neutralist Laos, Mansfield replied, "I think it has created a very precarious position for the Vietnamese government and also for the king."

"Without question," Mansfield said, the Laotian operation has increased sentiment in the United States for an end to U.S. participation in the war.

"That is becoming more and more apparent each day," he said. "There is a feeling of frustration connected with the war" because casualties and costs continue and more Americans are being taken prisoner.

Glaucoma

It can steal you blind.

Glaucoma occurs in 2% of all people over 35, and increases in incidence with age. It often results in the destruction of precious vision.

One of the warning signs of encroaching glaucoma is increased pressure within the eye.

When the examination reveals the need, the Doctors of Optometry associated with TSO use an electronic tonometer to accurately measure intraocular pressure for indications of glaucoma.

In cases where intraocular pressure is higher than normal, patients are referred for medical observation.

Guard against eye disease, eyestrain and poor vision with an annual professional eye examination by a Doctor of Optometry associated with TSO.

Repentance Necessary, Robison Reminds Crowd

"Repentance is required for redemption in Jesus Christ," James Robison told a crowd of well over 4,000 people Saturday night, the seventh night of the James Robison Crusade for Christ in Memorial Stadium. Robison explained to the crowd, in which there were from 100 to 200 out-of-town visitors, that "Jesus knows not only the thinking of all men, but also the destination and most are headed for a spiritual devastation." The evangelist took his sermon from chapter 13 of Luke and centered the message around the subject of repentance. In the last night of the crusade the speaker pleaded with those present to take into consideration that to repent one must take on God's attitude toward his own sins and do with his sins what God has commanded. A large number of people came forward at the conclusion of the service, which seemed to have drawn more people than any of the previous services in the week, to make decisions. "I don't think that there is anything that we ought to think about more seriously than eternity," said James Robison Friday at the sixth night of the James Robison Crusade in Memorial Stadium. "Where will you spend eternity? A hundred years ago Charles Darwin wrote a book which he titled 'Origin of the Species.' In this book Mr. Darwin tried to tell us how man originated and where he came from," said Robison. "I don't believe our chief concern ought to be with the origin of the species. I believe our chief concern ought to be the destiny of the species. The Bible teaches that man is a living soul. It's going to live somewhere forever and the Bible says it will either be in Heaven or Hell." More than 100 persons came forward for some kind of a decision at the end of Robison's sermon to add to the 335 persons who have already made professions of faith during the Crusade. John McKay, song leader, joined with Jean Rogers in duet medley at the Friday service.

Tate Murder Trial Draws To Close

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Sharon Tate murder trial, one of the longest on record, neared the end as jurors began deliberating Saturday between life and death for Charles Manson and three women followers. The judge gave instructions to the seven men and five women late Friday after completion of final defense arguments in the nine-month-old trial. The trial, which began June 16, has been described by court officials as the longest in California records. They say they know of none other nationally that has lasted so long. The same jury convicted Manson, 36, and three women members of his hippie-style family, of murder-conspiracy last Jan. 25 after a seven-month trial. They were accused of slaying Miss Tate and six others in 1969. The penalty phase began Jan. 28. Jurors have heard testimony from more than 30 witnesses to help them decide between only two possible choices: death or life imprisonment. The judge told them not to consider the possibility of parole in the event of life imprisonment. Parole is possible after seven years. The state has asked death for all. Defense attorneys have asked mercy for all. The judge has the power to reduce a jury death decree to life imprisonment, but cannot do the reverse. The prosecutor Vincent Bugliosi, estimated for newsmen that deliberations might take three or four days. Chief defense counsel Paul Fitzgerald estimated two or three days. Convicted with Manson were Susan Atkins, 22, Patricia Krenwinkel, 23, and Leslie Van Houten, 21.

Pakistanians Claim Control Won In Eastern Province

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Pakistani government claimed Saturday that the army has won control in its eastern province where civil war has been raging since Thursday. But reports from the frontier said heavy fighting was still going on. With both East and West Pakistan under a strict censorship blackout, news of the conflict was sketchy. Sparse reports that did get out of Pakistan were sharply conflicting. The official Pakistan radio network said Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, leader of the outlawed Awami League who had been spearheading the rebellion was under arrest. "The army is in full control of the situation throughout East Pakistan and life is fast returning to normal," the radio said. Indian radio monitors, however, said they heard a clandestine broadcast of Sheikh Mujib in his own voice denying his arrest and reporting he was in the "liberated" port city of Chittagong. "I am okay, comrades, go ahead with your program to achieve the goal of freedom," the monitors quoted Sheikh Mujib as saying. Reports reaching Indian towns along the 1,349-mile border with East Pakistan said heavy fighting was continuing throughout the province, with the Pakistan air force bombing Dacca and other cities to beat back Sheikh Mujib's followers, who were reported armed mainly with spears and daggers. A State Department spokesman in Washington said its latest information indicated "that all is quiet in Dacca." The spokesman said "we are not contemplating any evacuation at the moment" of about 1,100 Americans in East Pakistan. Radio Pakistan said the Pakistani Foreign Ministry has complained U.S. Ambassador Joseph Farland and the British high commissioner about news coverage of events in East Pakistan by the Voice of America and the British Broadcasting Corp. The broadcast said the ministry objected to a report from Washington carried by both stations that the U.S. consul general in Dacca had sent word to the U.S. capital that there was extensive fighting in east Dacca.

Calley Jurors Ask To Rehear More Testimony

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The jury in Lt. William L. Calley Jr.'s My Lai murder trial was given permission Saturday to rehear more testimony, eliminating any chance of a verdict before Monday. In its 11th day of deliberation, the jury again heard the testimony of three of the eight witnesses it had requested before the judge, Col. Reid Kennedy, left the courtroom. Kennedy said the readings would continue to a conclusion at a 1 p.m. Sunday court session, convened only for that purpose. He had announced earlier that any verdict reached Sunday on the charges that Calley killed 102 civilians at My Lai would not be announced until Monday morning. First testimony to be repeated was that of Lt. Hugh Thompson, a helicopter pilot who first reported to superior officers something appeared amiss in the American assault on My Lai on March 16, 1968. The second of the eight witnesses was Calvin Hode, 22, crew chief of a helicopter gunship in the My Lai operation. He said: "We saw bodies lying all over. We flew over the village, seeing if they needed any help. Then we realized what was happening." The final rerun of testimony for the day was that of a defense witness, Dale Amott, 22, a helicopter door gunner.

Eighth Year Begins Today For POW/MIA In Viet

Today begins the eighth year of captivity since the first U.S. serviceman was imprisoned in Southeast Asia. The past week was designated as National Week of Concern for POW/MIA by President Richard M. Nixon, Gov. Preston Smith and locally by Mayor J. Arnold Marshall. The National League of Families is in charge of campaigns to obtain humane treatment for U.S. men in Vietnamese prison camps. Support is being sought for a proposal by Cong. Robert Leggett for an exchange of prisoners. Cong. Leggett's proposal was outlined in a letter to President Nixon which said: "The basis of the plan is what might be called 'proportional repatriation.' It consists of an agreement between us and the North Vietnamese that we would withdraw a certain percentage of American prisoners of war to us. It should be understood that this approach in no way implies of willingness to let our men suffer one additional moment beyond the earliest possible time we could otherwise secure their safe return. We make this proposal only in the hope of achieving a breakthrough in the negotiating deadlock caused by the apparent unwillingness of the other side to return any substantial number of prisoners in the foreseeable future. Unfortunately, while the number of American troops in Vietnam is a matter of public record, the numbers of prisoners of war held by the National Liberation Front and the Pathet Lao are not. Thus,

'They Came Here To Die,' Cambodian Officer Says

SPEAN CHAMLONG PHAOC, Cambodia (AP) — The Cambodian officer in the dirty tennis shoes said the North Vietnamese "walked into us just as if they were going to market." Capt. Chan Sarin was telling of the bloody fighting that broke out Friday near this point southwest of Phnom Penh on Highway 4, Cambodia's main highway to the sea. He said the Cambodian troops scythed down the North Vietnamese as they attacked in slow, deliberate waves across open ground. "They came here to die," Chan Sarin declared. "We killed at least 100 of them." The captain, deputy commander of the 115th Infantry Battalion, claimed his outfit suffered 10 wounded. The fighting was at such close quarters that it was hard to distinguish friend from foe, he continued. He said the difficulty was made even worse because the North Vietnamese were wearing helmets and scarves similar to those worn by his men. "It was only when we heard them calling out that we knew they were the enemy," he went on. "They came in waves because they obviously hoped to overwhelm us and take us alive."

Absentee Vote Ends Tuesday

Absentee voting in the Big Spring Independent School District and Howard County School Board trustee elections ends Tuesday at 5 p.m. Only those who registered to vote before Jan. 31 1971, are eligible to vote absentee. In the 1970 absentee elections, 61 persons voted. As of Friday, the total vote was 24, with five of them cast in the county elections. The total should be about the same for 1971 as in 1970, according to information from the county clerk's office, and the heaviest voting is expected on Tuesday. Regular trustee elections will be held April 3 at the Big Spring High School. Anyone with a valid 1971 voter registration is eligible to vote.

Money, Meals Not Reason Peasants Vote

SABANETAS, Honduras (AP) — Jose Santos Benitez, 27, a peasant who grows corn on two acres of land and sometimes works for 50 cents a day will ride in a car over a dusty road 17 miles to Marcala today to vote for a president.

For doing so he has been promised two free meals and the equivalent of about $5 in Honduran currency, the lempira.

But it isn't just for the money, the meals and the car ride that Santos Benitez wants to vote. He says he's concerned about peace with neighboring El Salvador and hopes that the party his family has backed for generations will assure peace.

"Maybe this time they are telling the truth and they will do something for us," said Santos Benitez. He lives in the hill country of this undefined border area between El Salvador and Honduras.

Santos Benitez' world always has been tiny and isolated. His community consists of fewer than 20 homes scattered up and down the hills in the La Paz Department in south-central Honduras. The capital, Tegucigalpa, is nearly 250 miles away and most of the road leading to it is unpaved.

This is one of the areas under dispute between Honduras and El Salvador and its possession—along with other century-old grievances—led eventually to the five-day war between the two countries in July, 1969.

Santos Benitez took his young wife with him and fled to Marcala when the Salvadorans invaded. Marcala is a town of 2,000.

He returned to his home after the Organization of American States—OAS—placed observers along the border to maintain the peace. Now he cultivates his small plot of land under the eyes of a 30-man detachment of the Honduran army.

The army is supposed to be about two miles from the border. But in this area no one really knows where the border is.

Santos Benitez pointed to a house 200 yards away next to a ravine and said: "They are Salvadorans."

Peace is his biggest problem and that is why he is voting for the Nationalist party whose candidate is Ramon E. Cruz. He has been told that Cruz will settle the border problem with El Salvador.

School Officials Order Cameras, Tape Recorders

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — School Board has ordered cameras and recording machines installed in the high and junior high schools to deter disturbances.

Under the new policy, any student who violates the rules on disruptive activities will be expelled for the remainder of the semester and given failing grades in all classes.

Board members said the psychological effect of having the devices present might stop further incidents.

"One teacher in each school will monitor the camera to take pictures of any pupils involved in disturbances.

The action was taken Friday night after two teachers reported their lives had been threatened. Fires have been set in the high school restrooms.

"Tape recorders will be placed in each classroom so that the teachers can record any threats and back talk," the board said.

The high school suspended 141 pupils last month following a racial disturbance. Judge Robert J. Gale Kilgore

One Injured In Bargain Fight

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — There was one known casualty when an estimated 10,000 shoppers, mostly women, stormed Civic Auditorium for what was billed as the world's largest rummage sale.

An 84-year-old woman was felled by the rush of bargain seekers. She was taken to a hospital with an injured arm and cut over her eye.

Proceeds from the sale went to the Boys Republic.

OIL Martin County Is Steady In Drilling

It was a repeat of the story of several weeks standing — Martin County in fourth place among the most active counties for oil well drilling in the Permian Basin.

There were 13 rigs turning, one less than the week before, according to the weekly survey by Reed Drilling Tools.

The leader was Lea County, N.M., with 23 rigs going, one less than the previous week. Pecos County had 21 rigs going.

up three; Ward County 16, down two.

In this area the record showed Borden with one, the same; Dawson with one, the same; Howard four, up two; Scurry three, up three; and Sterling down three.

Doric Exploration Co. has filed application to drill its No. 1 Higginbotham as a Borden County prospector 12 miles south of Gall. The drillsite for the 8,300-foot wildcat is 1,938 from the north and 1,978 from the west lines of section 8-31, SW, T&P, three-fourths mile northeast of an 8,948-foot failure.

Corpus Christi Loot Recovered

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Officers recovered Friday all but $50 of the $8,000 taken Thursday in the robbery of the Sandia State Bank.

Authorities charged Richard Hall Holland, 33, with the robbery. He lives just outside Malhis in a trailer near Lake Corpus Christi.

Holland was arrested within hours of the holdup. He was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner James C. Martin and held in lieu of $7,500 bond.

Barnes Says No Need To Cut Welfare Checks

AUSTIN (AP) — No cut in welfare payments to families with dependent children will be necessary on May 1 as previously ordered, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes said Saturday.

Barnes told an impromptu news conference enough money has been found in the Public Welfare Department's budget to keep the full payments going.

An informed source said $3 million was found in a medical assistance contingency fund that was created with money drawn from other welfare categories such as old age assistance and aid to the blind. Those categories have not and will not suffer cuts because of the transfer, the source said.

Barnes, professing surprise that the department failed to originate the idea of using this unexpended money in a crisis, said $3.9 million is needed to keep the full payments going through the fiscal year, which ends Aug. 31.

A conference will be held at 9 a.m. Tuesday in Barnes' office with representatives of the House and Senate and the Welfare Board, Barnes said. A news conference will follow, he said.

The board ordered the cut last Monday effective May 1. Welfare Commissioner Burton Hackney said at that time there was no alternative to the one-third cut in payments because the $80 million constitutional ceiling on welfare appropriations had been reached and the number of families with dependent children on its rolls increased faster than expected.

The average family grant is $118 a month. The cut would drop it to about $80. There are 351,425 Texans in this category. Some 4,500 of the families were to be eliminated altogether under the reduction program.

A constitutional amendment, on which voters decide May 18, would remove the $80 million ceiling on all welfare categories except aid to families with dependent children, which would have a $55 million ceiling.

Sometimes it is impossible to avoid a cold or cough, no matter how well we are prepared. The most important advice then is not to neglect a cold. If it does not clear up quickly or seems to be getting progressively worse, see your physician. He can most often prescribe a medicine that will get you over it quicker and with less discomfort. This advice particularly is important for the elderly. To them a cough or cold can be more serious.

Spiraling Salaries Threat To Baseball

NEW YORK (AP) — A hardship on other, less well-heeled clubs. "shoot-for-the moon" boom in players' salaries has brought baseball to the edge of another crisis as it moves toward a new season with spectator dollars tight and costs ballooning. Baseball budgets almost everywhere are trembling. Once reserved only for a handful of super stars, the $100,000 club has become crowded, with almost a score of men now in the six-figure pay bracket. More than 100 draw $50,000 and more. Salary budgets of most clubs have jumped 25 to 50 percent in the past year.

Red Sox' 328-hitting outfielder, signed a three-year contract for $500,000, or $167,000 a year, making him the highest paid player in baseball. Johnny Bench, the brilliant young catcher of the National League champion Cincinnati Reds, asked for a similar contract. He settled for $80,000. MAYS AT $160,000 The Giants, who reported a loss of $926,413 last season, have three players in the $100,000-plus category, topped by the veteran Willie Mays, who signed a two-year contract for $160,000 a year with a third year option. PITCHER JUAN MARICHAL draws $125,000 and first baseman Willie McCovey $110,000. Mays, 39, sought a $750,000 ten-year contract but settled for the shorter, fatter agreement. "It's a two-way street," Mays says of escalating salaries. "I've given baseball a lot over 20 years. I don't think I'm overpaid." Bench also refuses to apologize for his healthy paycheck. "Should a doctor make what he makes?" the Cincinnati catcher asks. "Should a laborer get what he gets? Don't you pay for special services?"

Eastern Fleet Takes On Derby Prestige

HALLANDALE, Fla. (AP) — Eastern Fleet whipped favored Executioner in a sizzling two-horse stretch battle Saturday and gave Calumet Farm its fourth Florida Derby victory and a strong position for the Kentucky Derby along with Hoist the Flag. Eastern Fleet held off Jacinto Vasquez' charge aboard 7-5 favorite Executioner to win by three-quarters of a length in the $137,800 race as a sun-splashed crowd of 28,520 watched a Gulf Stream Park record of $2.7 million. Eddie Maple took Eastern Fleet to the lead immediately after the break and the son of Fleet Nasrullah-Amoret was on top the entire 1 1/16 mile going the distance in 1:42 2/5. The victory earned $82,680 for

Tarheels Hire A&M Mentor

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Athletic director and head football coach Gene Stallings announced Saturday that Bud Moore, offensive coach of the Texas Aggies' football team, has accepted the job of offensive line coach at the University of North Carolina. In making the announcement, Stallings said, "We know that Bud will do a good job in his new position and we wish him and his family well at their new location." Moore, who reports at the Chapel Hill, N.C., school Monday, said, "We leave with mixed emotions because my wife and I learned to love Texas A&M the first time we heard the Aggie War Hymn. Coach Stallings has been extremely good to my family and, certainly, the experience I gained working for him will be of great value to me in the future."

IN LITTLE LEAGUE Record 655 Are Inked First Day

Little League district administrator Jack Barber said a record 655 boys were signed for 1971 play here Saturday and registrations would be open for a couple of weeks. The National league led the four affiliations with 224 signees. Ordinarily, on the first day, the circuit signs about 170 on the first day. The American league inked 215 boys and expects many more before the deadline. Upwards to 290 have indicated a willingness to play in years past but the first day's signing was considered normal, if not slightly above. The Texas league brought 91 boys into the fold, whereas it signs between 50 to 60 on the first day. The International league signed 125 the first day and Barber said that was considerably more than the average who register on opening day. From all indications, competition is going to be spirited for berths on most of the teams in the league, since no more than 380 can be accepted for major league teams. Minor league ball, of course, will offer opportunities for another 300 or so. American leaguers couldn't wait until next week. They started workouts Saturday afternoon. Players in other league launch drills Monday and will be hard at it until play begins the third week in April.

Flamingo Stakes victor Executioner ran second to Eastern Fleet from start to finish and earned $27,500 for Peter Kissel, owner of October House Farm. Jim French rushed home third and Sole Mio was fourth in the field of 10. Eastern Fleet paid $6.20, $5 and $4.20. Limit to Reason finished fifth, Adam J. Petrillo was sixth and Sids Bid was seventh. In joining Bill Dooley's staff at North Carolina, Moore replaces Jimmy Vickers who has joined the staff at the University of Georgia. Moore played under coach Bear Bryant at Alabama and joined A&M six years ago, coming from the University of Kentucky. No replacement for Moore has been named.

One contest will be a novel 15-inning exhibition involving all three teams. The Astros play the Yankees Wednesday and Thursday nights. The 15-inning "game" is scheduled Friday night. The Astros will play the Yankees for five innings; the Yanks will play the Twins the next five; and then the Astros and Twins will play the final five. The Astros close out the pre-season competition with games against the Twins Saturday night and Sunday afternoon, night and Sunday afternoon, April 3-4.

Cox Is Declared Scoring Champ

NEW YORK (AP) — Kicker Fred Cox of the Minnesota Vikings officially was named the National Football League scoring champion Saturday with 125 points. Cox kicked a perfect 35 of 35 extra points and connected on 30 of 46 field goal tries. David Ray of the Los Angeles Rams was runnerup with 121 points on 34 extra points and 29 of 45 field goal attempts.

Jackie Stewart Favored To Win Ontario Event

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — Jackie Stewart, rated by many as the best road-course driver in the world, is favored to win Sunday's $288,900 Questor Grand Prix, if for no other reason than that he passed his geography lesson first. "Oh, I think I was the first driver to find the proper way around the course," the Scottish veteran said, "and I may have the advantage in that respect. But I expect that others will find it, too." The Questor, to be followed by a second Grand Prix championship race here in April 1972, pairs the regulars from the international Formula 1 circuit against a select group of American drivers using cars from the Sport Car Club of America's Formula A. The American cars used Detroit-produced stock block engines of the passenger car variety. The Formula 1 power plants are pure racing engines, ranging up to 12 cylinders. The over-all winner of the two races, determined by order of finish in each of two heats, will be paid $25,000. In addition, each of the Europeans will be paid $3,200 starting money. Stewart, the 1969 world driving champion, needed only a few laps to solve the tricky 3.2-mile course that winds through 20 turns in the infield at Ontario Motor Speedway. He lapped the course at 112 miles per hour shortly after he took to the course Thursday then gradually increased his speed during two more days of qualifying. His top speed of 113.590 m.p.h. was two seconds faster than any other driver. Stewart said he expects his chief opposition to come from the Ferraris of Jacky Ickx of Belgium and U.S. star Mario Andretti, from the Lotus cars of Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil and Rene Witzell of Sweden, the McLaren of Denis Hulme of New Zealand, the Matra of Chris Amon of New Zealand and the BRM's of Swiss veteran Jo Siffert and Mexican Pedro Rodriguez.

David Pearson To Start Race In Pole Position

BRISTOL, Tenn. (AP) — David Pearson of Spantburg, S.C., driving a 1970 Holman-Moody Ford, edged Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., for the pole position in Saturday's qualifying for today's 11th annual Southeastern 500 NASCAR Grand National stock car race. Pearson, all-time leading money winner at Bristol International Speedway, won the inside pole with a speed of 105.525 miles per hour on the .533-mile high-banked oval. Petty, NASCAR's all-time top winner with 123 victories, was a close second as he wheeled his 1971 Lee Petty-prepared Plymouth around the track at a speed of 105.344 m.p.h. Starting in the second row will be Dodge driving Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., a two-time Bristol winner who hit 104.722 m.p.h., and Ford-driving Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N.C., who was closed at 104.474 m.p.h. The first 12 drivers of the 30 who qualified for the 12:30 p.m., CST, start of the $34,000 race, in which the winner earns $6,000, qualified at better than 100 m.p.h., but none broke the qualifying record of 107.375 m.p.h. set last year by Cale Yarborough.

Ailing Hurler Is To Be Honored

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Minnie Rojas, a star relief pitcher just four seasons ago, continues a struggle just to move his arms and fingers. An automobile accident in Florida early last year left him paralyzed from the neck down and took the lives of his two daughters. His wife and 2-year-old son survived. On Wednesday night, the pitcher who set a California Angels' club record in 1967 with 12 victories and 22 saves, returns to Anaheim Stadium. He will be honored before the exhibition game between the Tokyo Orions and California. The Angels' share of proceeds will go to the Rojas Benefit Fund. Shortstop Jim Fregosi, who launched a nationwide drive on Rojas' behalf last year, will escort his former teammate to the mound in a wheelchair for the pre-game ceremony. "Minnie Rojas Day" has been proclaimed for Orange County and Mayor Jack Dutton of Anaheim will make one of the presentations. Rojas, now 32, pitched for the Angels in 1966-67-68. A native of Cuba, he was first signed by the San Francisco Giants and after his release by that club went to Mexico where in 1965 he led the Mexican League with 21 victories. He was signed by the Angels the following season and in 1967 won honors as the American League's Fireman of the Year, appearing in 72 games. A rain trouble hampered him in 1968, and his record fell to 4-2.

Pretty Jockey Has Realized A Dream

NEW YORK (AP) - The tallest jockey at Aqueduct this season also is the prettiest. The 5-foot-7 rider with the kind of face that gets one a screen test is 26-year-old Robyn Smith, a television actress-commercially only.

But her career is racing, and that she is serious about it can be seen by the fact that she is the first of her sex to attempt to break into the New York racing circuit—the Big Apple of racing.

“New York is the safest place in the world for a new jockey to break in because of the high calibre of riders and the strict supervision,” said Miss Smith, who launched her invasion of New York after fewer than 60 races in two years.

Two Toughies Will Help Astros Launch Campaign

HOUSTON - The Houston Astros will catch two of the National League's “toughies” during an attractive seven-game Astrodome home stand that will inaugurate what promises to be a most exciting 1971 National League baseball season.

Manager Walter Alston's Los Angeles Dodgers will open things up, visiting for three games, including opening night, Monday, April 5. The Dodgers also will be playing night games in the Dome on Tuesday, April 6, and Wednesday, April 7.

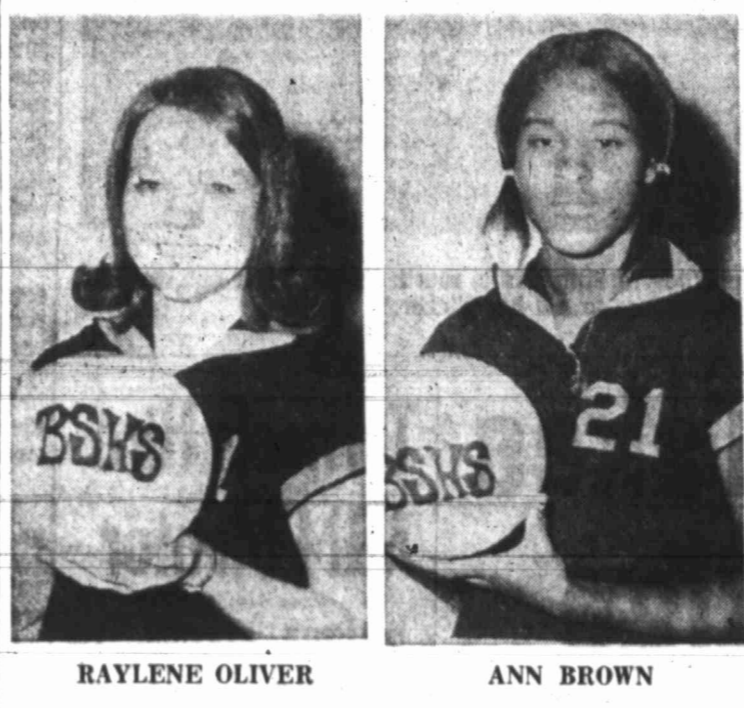

Being a cowboy will remain a fantasy but being a jockey became a reality for Miss Smith who decided to try for a career in racing after “I read about Kathy Kusner getting the first girl jockey's license.”

Byers Says He Won't Battle With Pros

HOUSTON (AP) - Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, says he has no plans to fight the pros if they continue to sign collegians who have not completed their collegiate eligibility.

Byers said he had only “benign concern” for a recent federal ruling that labeled unconstitutional the NCAA's rule prohibiting a player from continuing his college athletic career after signing a pro contract.

“I don't propose to fight it at all,” Byers said Friday. “I've had proposals that we go down to Congress and fight this thing, but we're not about to do that. I don't think we ought to fight.”

Take your baby to a specialist.

Our mechanic knows just about all there is to know about Volkswagens. He should. He went to special Volkswagen mechanic school. And he passed a series of special exams. (How else would he know that the tightening torque for the wheel bearing locknut should be 50 foot-pounds incorporated on a torque wrench?) He goes back periodically for a refresher course, too, to keep up on all the changes we make over 2200 in the past 20 years! Which means he doesn't stop learning when he starts working.

So when your little one needs a checkup, take it to our mechanic. He works only on Volkswagens. So he's a specialist at curing the bug.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sun., March 28, 1971 7-B

We don't have to start from scratch each year.

We've been making the same basic VW for so long now, you'd think we'd be bored with the whole thing. But the fact is, we're still learning. For no matter how perfect we think one year's model is, there's always an engineer who wants to make it more perfect. You see, at the Volkswagen factory we spend 100% of our time making our car work better and 0% making it look better. Any change is an improvement. And when we do make new parts we try to make them fit older models. So there's nothing to stop a Volkswagen from running forever. (Which may explain why Volkswagens are worth so much at trade-in time.) Starting from scratch each year can get in the way of all that. Just when they've ironed out the kinks in the current model, they have to face the kinks in the next. We'll never understand all the hoopla over the "big changes" for next year's models. Weren't they proud of this year's?

Apollo 14 Moon Samples May Be Older Than Others

'Complicated History' Indicated By Tests On Rocks

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Rocks gathered by the Apollo 14 astronauts may be older than any others brought to earth from the moon, scientists report.

And they're certainly more complicated and different in other ways from the lunar samples of Apollo 11 and 12, Dr.

Robin Brett, chief of geochemistry at the Manned Spacecraft Center told newsmen Friday.

"The chances of finding 4.6 billion-year-old material among the samples appear to be very good," said Dr. Paul Gast, chief of planetary sciences at the center.

Experts believe a rock that ancient would date back to the very formation of the moon—possibly of the solar system.

Gast said preliminary study of the 94 pounds of Apollo 14 material just completed, detected "the characteristics of what we expected to find" in the mountainous Fra Mauro terrain where Apollo 14 landed in February. Earlier landings were on plains.

Brett said scientists were particularly surprised at how many of the rocks were fragments of older rocks, which in turn broke off still earlier ones.

"This just indicates their extremely complicated history," he said.

Tests of cosmic radiation soaked up by three of the Apollo 14 samples indicate they lay on the lunar surface only nine to 14 million years and were hurled up by meteorites, crashing through the moon's crust, Brett said.

In contrast, it's estimated that rocks from the previous Apollo missions were on the surface 50 million to 500 million years.

The latest samples will be processed for distribution, starting April 4, to 176 principal investigators in the United States and 13 other countries, said Dr. Michael Duke, curator of the Lunar Receiving Laboratory.

Scientists have found the Apollo 14 stones contain 23 minerals, some still not identified positively, more than in the Apollo 11 and 12 collections combined.

Traditional Pageant Set In Eastland

EASTLAND—Once again the greatest story ever told comes to life here in the early morning hours of April 11 as the Kendrick Easter Pageant is staged before possibly 20,000.

The site is the Kendrick Amphitheatre four miles west of here starting at 3:30 a.m.

Started as a family enterprise, the pageant remains basically that, although actors from all religious denominations come from as far as Abilene, Mineral Wells, Breckenridge, Terrell, Hamilton and Brownwood to take part.

There is no charge, but a free will offering is taken.

The Kendrick family has provided space for parking as many as 10,000 cars adjacent to the outdoor stage created several years ago.

Hall Of Fame Art Displayed

SNYDER — Thirty selected works of art from the National Cowboy Hall of Fame Art Show will be on display here today at the Scurry County Coliseum.

The paintings, ranked either first or second in national judging, have been brought here through a special arrangement with C. T. McLaughlin and his Diamond M Museum, which will be kept open concurrently with the Hall of Fame show.

Hours for the display Sunday will be between 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. at the coliseum, Diamond M Museum will be open from 1-5 p.m. daily through Wednesday to afford visitors to the coliseum the chance to view its unusual collection also.

A preview was held Saturday evening for a number of civic leaders and out-of-town visitors, who were also treated to a program at the coliseum Saturday evening.

The exhibit from the Hall of Fame is said to mark the first time that many of these paintings, valued in the multiplied thousands of dollars, have been allowed to be shown elsewhere.

NATIONAL CONGRESS OF PARENTS AND TEACHERS
700 North Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois

PTA OBJECTS, all of which promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church and community, will be prominently displayed as a reminder to delegates attending this week's district conference. Smaller copies of the aims, which will be distributed, are held by Mrs. David Hodnett, president of the Big Spring City Council of Parent-Teacher Associations.

"EDUCATIONAL BLOSSOMS" is the theme chosen for the annual conference of the Sixteenth District, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, which is scheduled to begin today in Big Spring. A board meeting and registration will be held today at Holiday Inn, and final registration will begin at 9 a.m., Monday at Sacred Heart Youth Center. Shown preparing conference literature are Mrs. D. Will Promote Teen's Center

All persons interested in promoting a recreation center for teenagers were invited to a meeting held Tuesday by the 1953 Hyperion Club in the First Federal Community Room.

Mrs. John Gary presided, and those present discussed several possibilities for sponsoring activities for local young people.

The clubwomen feel that such activities are "desperately needed" in Big Spring, and although the club is not large enough to back such a program alone, they hope to interest other service organizations in the project.

Some of the ideas discussed included having various clubs sponsor some type of event for teenagers each month. The eventual goal is to gain enough support and backing to build and maintain a teen center.

Once support for the project is established, they plan to have a meeting of the backers and the area teenagers to form a teen advisory board. With this board they hope to gain opinions and suggestions.

Mrs. Harold Davis was appointed to head a group which will visit local service clubs and talk about the need in Big Spring for more recreational opportunities for teenagers. The group hopes to enlist the aid of several clubs.

Another meeting is scheduled at 7:30 p.m., April 13 in science lecture Room 100 at Howard County Junior College. Anyone interested in the project is urged to attend.

Describes Haiti For 'Armchair Travelogue'

The "Armchair Travelogue" series continued with a program on Haiti when the Modern Woman's Forum met for a luncheon Friday at Furr's Cafeteria.

Mrs. E. C. Howard, program leader, talked on the cultural development of Haiti, saying "Haiti is a place of mystery, a medieval place of magic and of men who speak personally with their Gods."

She noted that Haiti is the only French-speaking republic in the Americas; that it was discovered by Columbus on Dec. 6, 1492, while on his first voyage to the New World. It is the smallest of the American nations, and Port-au-Prince, the capital is an interesting city with many market places.

French Buccaneers were the first to invade Haiti, starting the French influence. Although Haitian law requires free education for all, schools are inadequate, but Haitian writers and musicians have made large contributions to world culture. Haitian art is unique and distinctive.

French cruelty caused slave revolt, ultimately ending in self-rule. Roman Catholicism became the state religion in 1860, although Haiti enjoys religious freedom.

Mrs. S. R. Nobles presided, and reports on the Western District convention in Monahans were given by Mrs. Nobles, Mrs. C. R. Moad, Mrs. Harwood Keith and Mrs. Margaret White.

Mrs. W. E. Moren read a letter of appreciation from John Majors who received a YMCA

Miss Barbara Adams Weds Lt. James Hill

Miss Barbara Louise Adams and 2nd Lt. James William Hill III were married at 3 p.m., March 20 at the First Baptist Church in Lubbock with the Rev. J. T. Bolding officiating.

A senior at Texas Tech and a graduate of Big Spring High School, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Adams, 1902 Winston. The bridegroom, stationed with the Army at Fort Sill, Okla., is the son of Lt. Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. James William Hill Jr., Fort Worth. He is a graduate of Texas Tech and a member of Kappa Alpha.

The bride was attired in a street-length white cotton satin Empire dress accented with scalloped lace that formed a stand-up collar and extended to a V front. Lace marked the high-rise bodice to a satin bow at the back which topped a reverse hem-length apron with matching lace trim. Her headpiece was a satin bow, and she carried a bouquet of white daisies tied with white satin streamers.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Linda Griffith of Big Spring, wore a street-length blue applique dress fashioned with Empire waist and accented with white rose lace. Her headpiece and flowers were similar to the bride's.

Herbert Bolin Hill of Knoxville, Tenn., served his brother as best man. Mike Adams, Big Spring, brother of the bride; and Thomas Hill of Denton, brother of the bridegroom, acted as ushers.

RECEPTION
The reception was held in the Officers Open Mess, Reese Air Force Base where Miss Teri Adams, Big Spring, registered guests, and members of the house party were Miss Patricia Hill, Lubbock, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Gerald Bradford of Slaton.

The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of blue carnations and white stock and appointed with crystal and silver. The tiered wedding cake, decorated with sugar roses and topped with satin wedding bells, was cut with a dress dagger from Germany that was used by the bridegroom's parents to cut their wedding cake.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Fort Sill, the bride wore a white pantsuit with gold braid trim, matching accessories and a white gardenia corsage. She will return to Texas Tech to be graduated in May, after which time she will join her husband for a tour of duty in Germany. The bridegroom's parents also followed their wedding with a tour of duty in Germany, and the bridegroom was born there.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. A. L. Davis of Howell, grandmother of the bride; and Mrs. Earl Pratt of Howell and Mrs. O. L. Scott of Odessa, aunts of the bride.

"Many affluent Americans suffer heart disease due to malnutrition because they do not spend their food dollars wisely," said Mrs. Delaine Crawford, Howard County home demonstration agent, to the Knott HC Club Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Elmer Dyer.

"Some things attributed to the heart are in reality a matter of the mind," Mrs. Crawford continued. "Research shows that the heart rests 40 years of a 70-year life span."
To assure themselves of a normal life span, Mrs. Crawford suggested a person should maintain ideal weight, exercise regularly and consume a balance of saturated and unsaturated fats.

Mrs. R. J. Shortes presided, and members reviewed a list of possible subjects for programs next year. Guests were Mrs. Robert Hunt and Mrs. Crawford. The next meeting is at 2 p.m., April 13 in the home of Mrs. O. B. Gaskins.

In addition to discussing various jobs a blender will perform, Mrs. James and Mrs. Arnold told what a blender should not be expected to do, such as crush ice cubes, whip egg whites or chop raw meats. They told what qualities to look for when buying a blender.

Mrs. Carol Hardison, a guest, demonstrated a knitting machine with which she had made several dresses, sweaters and children's clothes. Other guests were Mrs. Clyde Johnson, Mrs. Parnell Garrett, and Mrs. D. D. Dyer.

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

Our Big Spring folk have been flying about during the past week... some over the United States, some over the Pacific and some over the Atlantic.

MR. and MRS. JAY CUNNINGHAM returned Thursday night from a six-day trip to Bermuda. MR. and MRS. DELBERT STANLEY left Friday morning for a visit to Hawaii and MRS. JOHNNY STEWART returned early in the week from the Hawaii Islands. En route home Mrs. Stewart stopped over in San Diego, Calif., and visited MR. and MRS. MACK ROGERS. The PAUL MEEKS and the KEN PERRY made a quick trip to Las Vegas, Nev., last week.

DR. and MRS. O. E. WOLFE plan to be in Lubbock the latter part of the week for him to be admitted to Methodist Hospital for surgery. They will leave here Wednesday.

The Wolfe's son-in-law and daughter, DR. and MRS. ROBERT (Lina Jane) FREEBURG of Las Cruces, N. M., were here for several days to visit. They returned home Monday.

Guests of MR. and MRS. O. H. VICK have been her sisters, MRS. R. F. PATTON, Rosenberg and MRS. H. G. PADON of West Columbia.

From P. D. O'BRIEN comes a note to thank all of his and MRS. O'BRIEN'S friends here who were thoughtful in sending cards and letters to her during her recent stay in a Houston hospital. The O'BRIENS lived in Big Spring for more than 20 years during his years as pastor of the First Baptist Church. He is now associate pastor of the Second Baptist Church in Houston and in his ministry there he and Mrs. O'Brien have visited the sick

Recent guests in the home of MR. and MRS. DON SHOEMAKE have been his parents, MR. and MRS. LUTHER SHOEMAKE, of Morris, Okla.

MRS. DEAN FORREST, just back from a workshop on alcoholism in Wichita Falls, called to say she had visited our good friend, MISS DOROTHY COX of Terrell who was also attending the workshop as a social worker from the Terrell State Hospital. Mrs. Forrest was a member of a worker's group that attended from the Big Spring State Hospital.

MRS. OSA O'CONNOR of Oklahoma City, Okla., arrived Thursday for a visit with her two sisters, MRS. R. D. ULEY and MRS. H. D. RHODES. Mrs. Uley is about to get over a broken wrist which she sustained a month ago when she fell from a chair upon which she was standing. It just doesn't pay to try to keep dust off of anything this time of the year.

MRS. BERT (Marie) AFFLECK was happy to hear from her son, Dr. Bert Affleck, Jr. of Abilene, that he had completed arrangements and would be leaving Abilene Sunday for New York City, and then Brussels and London. He planned to spend four days with friends in Pond Eddy, N. Y., area where he pastored a Methodist Church for several years while completing studies for his Ph.D. at Drew University in Madison, N.J. Bert is now campus minister at McMurry College in Abilene, and a professor in the Religion Department. His mission to London is to make arrangements for the college for a three weeks course of study and tour in England during the Christmas holidays of this year by students who desire to take the course and earn 3 hours credit during the mini-semester, between Christmas and the beginning of the second term in 1972. Dr. Affleck and another professor will be teaching and conducting the students, while they are in England.

A COMMON INTEREST IN MEDICINE and a possible medical career, brought these girls into a local Exploring Post of the Boy Scouts of America which is oriented around the medical profession. The girls will be allowed to become full-fledged members of the Explorers Thursday, following a trial period during which they were only allowed to participate. Shown left to right, they are, Sandra Webb, Nancy Smith, Alma Willetts and Kathy Snyder.

BSA Explorers Get Prettier As Girls Become Members

By BARBARA LORD
 The Women's Liberation movement hasn't put any known pressure on the Boy Scouts of America to admit women into the organization. They didn't have to. Effective Friday, high school coeds may become full-fledged members of the Exploring Division, BSA.

Actually, girls have taken part in the program since January, 1970, when a one-year trial period was incorporated to see if the Exploring Posts could more effectively realize their objective of meeting the needs and interests of today's youth by allowing girls to join.

Known as participants, the girls were allowed to attend the post meetings, and essentially, do everything the boys did. Officially, however, they were not members.

Although developed by the BSA, the Exploring Posts are not concerned with camping, hiking, and earning merit badges for various "outdoors" type activities. Their objective is to allow young men and women an opportunity to study a common field of interest, under relaxed, but interested, sincere and expert adult guidance.

Bill Fryrear, district Explorer chairman, explains it like this: "The Exploring Posts give young people an opportunity to study particular fields which they think they might be interested in for a vocation. They can see what the field offers in terms of a career, and the program, perhaps, gives them some guidance about the area they want to go into. Some people say they want to go into medicine without realizing the vast number of areas the profession includes.

"At the same time, we try to

Recital Set Today

The Piano Teachers Forum is sponsoring its annual all boys recital at 2:30 p.m. today at the Howard County Junior College auditorium.

maintain the awareness of their responsibility as good citizens." Fryrear thinks having girls in the program has benefited it, because it gives wider spectrum of opinion. Also he feels it tends to calm some of the rowdiness typical in a group composed of young men only.

Exploring Posts are organized around a group of young people with a common interest. One post in Big Spring, for those interested in a medical profession, has eight female members.

Danny Bonnett, post advisor for the local medical group, is an occupational therapist at the Veterans Administration Hospital. He organized the activities of the post, and oversees its meetings. It is his responsibility to prepare programs or arrange to have guest speakers at the meeting.

Through the Exploring program, young people can study many different careers and vocations. Other posts in the Big Spring area deal with rescue work, agriculture, environmental problems and canoeing. They plan to start a post for law and law enforcement soon.

As interest develops in other fields, Fryrear said he will try to develop more posts. One problem he runs into is getting qualified advisors for the posts.

"The young people are naturally more receptive if the advisor is someone who has a good background in the area of interest, and it is sometimes hard to get people in each field to volunteer their time," he said. "The programs are a tremendous opportunity for the kids. They get to see what is involved in the profession, and in many instances they can actually work with the people in the field."

Fryrear believes that in addition to providing general information to many people, it will

Fertilize Your Shade Trees

Trees, the plants that do the most for the appearance of the home, are probably the most neglected plants in the garden.

Too often feeding and spraying are designed for other plants in the garden, not trees. Older trees need a good diet to keep their limbs sound and to outgrow pest and storm damage.

The easiest way to feed trees is with your lawn spreader. After giving your lawn its Fall feeding, just made an extra pass over the lawn under the spread of the tree's canopy, and a little past the dripline of the branches. The same fertilizer that you use for the lawn will help the tree.

The tree will make use of the nutrients from this fall feeding until it goes dormant. The remainder of the nutrients will reach down into the root zone to be available next spring when the roots start seeking food even before the top growth emerges.
 Repeat this double application in the spring when you apply your regular lawn fertilizer.
 Deep feeding trees, of course, is preferred. This puts the plant food down to a depth of 8 to 10 inches in evenly spaced, inchwide holes punched or augured into the soil. The holes are dug throughout the area under the spread of the tree's branches. Then a little plant food for trees is placed in the bottom of each. The holes are then filled with a mixture of peatmoss and sand to allow easy penetration of water and air deep into the soil.
 The amount of plant food needed for each tree depends on the diameter of the main trunk. Give newly planted trees a total of 2 cups for each inch of trunk diameter.

Fora Speaker Says Art Expresses 'Man's Delight In God's Work'

"All great art is the expression of man's delight in God's work, not his own." The quote was used by Mrs. Gerre Reaves this week when she presented a program on fine arts for the Spoudazio Fora Study Club in the home of Mrs. Charles Neefe, 2701 Rebecca. Mrs. Reaves said that, essentially, the fine arts are defined as painting, drawing, architecture and sculpture. "For the first time in human history, man has much leisure time," began Mrs. Reaves, "and leisure offers an opportunity for activities which lie beyond sheer existence and broaden and enlarge the individual's personality." She noted that the Greeks did much to secularize art; their painting, sculpture and architecture glorified sex, sports and civic life, though some of the art remained religious in nature. Not only did the Greeks produce notable works of art, they were the first to hold that art should be a natural and desirable part of the daily life of all civilized people. "They did not believe that art should be something apart from life, to be looked at from afar on Sundays and holidays," she said. EARLY PERIOD According to the speaker, the artistic impulses rooted in colonial life and the European background bore some fruit during America's early national period, but then seemed to halt until about 1880. Not only did the United States fail to contribute to the "world stream" of fine art, but the artistic side of the people was marked by "appalling mediocrity." "Our cities, generally, were paragon of ugliness," she explained, "and anything like real painting, sculpture and architecture almost ceased to exist. The nation of small farmers were engaged in felling the forests and driving the plow and made little pretense to elegance in the fine arts. At that time, the nation's lack of aesthetic interest was of little importance to anyone. However, out of the industrial revolution sprang the new order of American millionaires, filled with even more than the usual urge of rich men to impress by the display of magnificence and luxury." Mrs. Reaves said the outcome of this was an aesthetic tragedy with monstrosities perpetrated in architecture, design, painting and sculpture.

Later, in the 1930's, under Roosevelt's "New Deal," the Federal Art Project was started. The project employed over 5,000 persons in mural and easel painting, sculpture, crafts, photography, art instruction, the opening of new museums and other related ventures. It placed over a million pieces of art in the nation's galleries and museums, commissioned hundreds of murals for post offices, schools and other public buildings and started scores of new museums in rural areas. "In 1939, Congress terminated the project amidst accusations that it had been a frivolous expense," said Mrs. Reaves. "Today, it is clear that the contribution of the project to American culture was large. Millions of Americans had their artistic horizons broadened and businessmen made increasing use of works of art, traditional and modern, in advertisements. There was quick acceptance of "pop art" and "action painting," as well as "beatnik literature" and "The theatre of the absurd" along with difficult atonal music." In concluding, the speaker said one of the most important qualities of the cultural life of the American people is "the variety and vitality." Public appreciation of fine arts has been aided by the development of worthy art collections. The nation has 600 galleries, 500 museums and 200 corporate art collections. PART OF LIFE "Art, meaning craftsmanship, painting, sculpture, architecture, music, the theater, and the like, is as important as recreation and play in the new perspective of leisure time activity," said Mrs. Reaves. "To be fully significant in this respect, art must become an integral part of the life of literate persons, as it was in the Greek days. It will not be important so long as it remains a distant museum piece or a plaything for a wealthy minority."

Candlelight Ceremony Performed Saturday

Miss Deborah Ann Erck and Ronald Ray Bothwell were united in marriage at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Big Spring Assembly of God Church. The Rev. J. W. Farmer, uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony.

The altar was decorated with an arrangement of white gladioli and chrysanthemums accented with emerald green palms and branched candelabra with white wedding tapers.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Bothwell, 2619 W. 20th, Plainview, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Roy Farmer, Route 1, Box 367, Harlingen. The bride has lived with the Rev. and Mrs. Farmer during the past six weeks.

Garry Page of Lubbock was the vocalist, and Mrs. Julius Ryals was organist.

The bride was attired in a floor-length, white, peau de soie gown overlaid with Chantilly lace. The train was attached with a large bow topping a pleat at the back of the gown. The long, tapered sleeves formed a point at the wrist, highlighted with a row of buttons. A white satin band marked the bodice, and she wore a fingertip-length illusion veil. She carried a cascade of white glamelias tied with lace and French picot satin.

ATTENDANTS
Miss Sharon Farmer served as maid of honor, wearing a long, pink brocade Empire gown with short sleeves and matching headpiece. She carried one long-stemmed red rose.

Mrs. James Bray of Harlingen and Mrs. Don Kidwell of Dallas, served their sister as bridesmaids, along with Miss Merlee Dennis and Mrs. Don Bothwell. They wore the same style gown as the maid of honor, in a wine colored brocade with a matching headpiece. Each carried one long-stemmed red rose.

Don Bothwell, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man, while another brother, Ben Bothwell of Plainview served as a groomsman with Larry Nafziger, Lubbock; Doyle Bothwell, Plainview; and Ronnie Farmer, Dallas.

Ushers and altar taper lighters were Val Stephens and Cliff Stephens of Patricia. Patricia Farmer served as the flower girl, dressed identical to the bride, and Warren Farmer, the bride's brother, was ring bearer.

RECEPTION
A reception was held in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Farmer, 2903 Hunter's Glen, where Mrs. Ronnie Farmer of Dallas presided at the guest register. The refreshment table was covered with an off-white, cutwork lace cloth, and the bride's bouquet and attendants' roses served as the centerpiece. The tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Silver appointments and white candles were used.

Serving at the table were Mrs. Jesse Stephens, Patricia; Mrs. J. R. Sanders, Big Spring; and Miss Johnie Matz, Wichita Falls, Tex.

Following a wedding trip the couple will reside at 1002 N. Wells, Pampa.

Out-of-town guests included the Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Bozeman, Andrews; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kidd and the Rev. and Mrs. R. V. Luna, all of Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Farmer, Pampa; Mr. and Mrs. Dean Seely, Don Kidwell, Jimmy Seely, and Noble Seely, all of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Seely, Dimmitt; Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Gibson, Seagraves; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Miller and James Bray, Harlingen; Mrs. Garry Page, Lubbock; and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bothwell, Plainview.

The bride is a graduate of Muleshoe High School, and attended the Stenograph Institute in Abilene. She was formerly employed by Delta Airlines in Dallas.

The bridegroom graduated from Plainview High School and attended Evangel College and the University of Michigan. He is presently manager of the Singer Sewing Center in Pampa.

Collecting Barbed Wire Sticky, Prickly Hobby

By BRIAN PEAY

"If a person wants to get into the barbed wire collecting business he will have to be willing to wear out many pairs of shoes, his mode of transportation, and be willing to get a tetanus shot," said Curtis Witte, manager of the College Park Safeway store.

It is a sticky, or prickly, hobby in which Witte has gotten himself involved. He has put together a collection of various types of barbed wire from all over the nation with land owners' names and the dates they installed the wire.

Curtis has in his collection approximately 225 different types of wire, including some of the more rare types: stub-plate wire, made with plates woven into the wire so cattle could see the fence; ribbon wire; buckthorn wire; buffalo wire; H. B. Scott Wood Block wire, another original type wire; and C. H. Salisbury wire, to name a few. One of the most uncommon types of wire in his collection is the A. J. Upham 'small barb.'

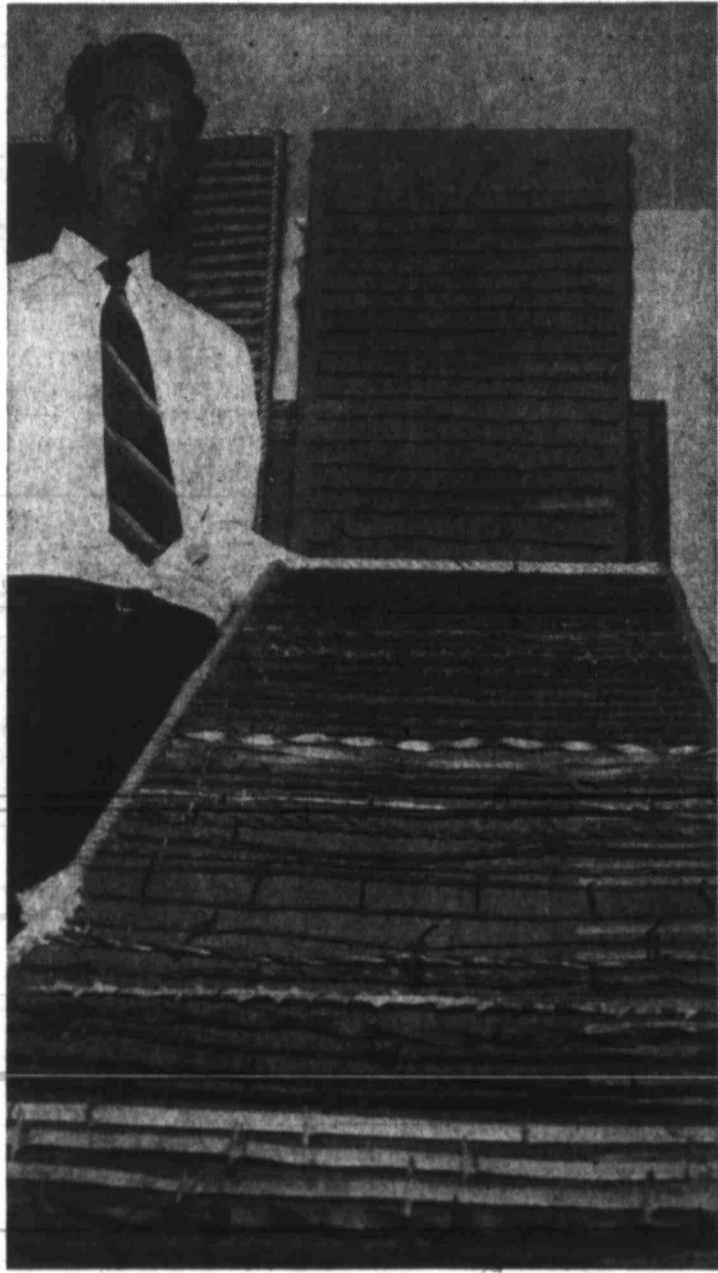

According to Witte, the first names in the wire are the names the patent on the wire is filed under. "There are between 600 and 800 different patents on wire in the nation today," said Curtis.

He started collecting the wire before he moved to Big Spring when the hobby was not as well known. He has now been collecting wire for five years. "It has gotten to where I can't pass a fence without getting out of the car to examine it," said Curtis, as he explained some old fence tools which are also a part of his collection.

The barbed wire collecting hobby is almost nationwide now, and Curtis is associated with many collectors as far away as California. One of the main ways he collects the 18-inch sticks of wire is by trading. "Most of us collectors are just down-right horse traders. I've traded as many as 25 pieces of wire for one uncommon piece," said Witte.

Curtis explains that the West Texas area is one of the best places to find wire since this area, back in the early days, was the first place to build fences with the barbed 'headache,' (according to some people).

"Some historians say the west was won by the Colt .45, the Winchester rifle and the rugged men on horseback, but what really tamed this country was the testy, touchy, treacherous, truculent, temperamental, and just plain ornery barbed wire (bob wire)," said the collector.

Curtis' hobby has not involved him only in the collecting of the wire, but has also made him a very popular speaker for service clubs and organizations. He has given talks on his hobby to nearly all the service organizations in the city and also he has taped a show for Bob Lewis' Tumbleweed Smith series.

There are several barbed wire collecting clubs in the area, but as of yet one has not been established in Big Spring. "Not too many people realize that there are more than one kind of barbed wire, but many are becoming aware of this fact and are becoming interested in the hobby," said Witte. It has been estimated, according to Curtis, there is enough barbed wire in

Olney Bull Brings $1,300

PANTEX — A Hereford bull owned by Robert O. Andrews of Olney sold to Santa Barbara Ranch of Durango, Mexico, for $1,300 to highlight the annual performance proven bull sale at the Texas Tech University Research Center here Thursday.

The animal, the third one sold, had the third highest index based on average daily gain during the 140-day test, average daily gain from birth, percentage of fat, and other factors.

The Andrews bull showed a 140-day test gain of 3.35 pounds per day with an average daily gain of 2.56 pounds from birth.

A total of 46 registered bulls, including Herefords, Angus, Charolais and Holsteins, and 35 half Simmental bulls were sold under the hammer of auctioneer Bert Reyes.

The high indexing bull, a Hereford owned by Wilbur Cobb of Claude, sold for $650, also to Santa Barbara Ranch. It has a 140-day daily gain of 3.01 pounds with an average daily gain from birth of 2.31.

FIRST LIB, NOW HAIR-LIP

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Oregon barbers want to make it illegal for men to have their hair cut by a beautician.

A spokesman for the barbers' group told the Oregon Senate Consumer Affairs Committee that beauticians don't learn how to cut men's hair in a beautician school.

The spokesman said barbers want "to stop the obvious circumventing of the barber law" by those "who have just a cosmetic therapist license."

Beauticians responded that the bill is "a men's lib bill" because it would deny men the liberating experience of having their hair cut by a pretty beautician.

CONSTRUCTION GAINS 12 PER CENT

More Homes Are Going Up

AUSTIN (A.) — Texas construction data for February shows housing led all other divisions, the Bureau of Business Research said Saturday.

Dr. Graham Blackstock, research associate with the University of Texas agency, said February construction in Texas gained 12 per cent over January in value of building permits issued in urban areas.

Residential permits led the increase with its 41 per cent gain from the previous month, following a 12 per cent loss from January in nonresidential urban permits, Blackstock said.

February construction in the metropolitan areas followed the booming trend with a 60 per cent increase in the total 1971 year-to-date permits for single-family homes over 1970 permits, a 212 per cent increase in permits for two family units and a 61 per cent increase in permits for apartment units.

Blackstock said the housing boom is seen by many observers, including Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney and President Nixon, as "the economic and political key to 1971 and 1972."

The basis for this prediction is a newly formed market, low and middle income families who have been unable to buy a home during the period of scarce money, high interest and escalating building and land costs, Blackstock said.

"Another segment of this new construction market consists of apartment builders who during the past two years have elected not to build rather than meet the exorbitant demands of insurance companies for equity and a share of income in exchange for capital," he said. But with higher priced housing in the doldrums, with a huge backlog need for low-cost housing, with a growing reservoir of conventional funds, with interest rates dropping, and with massive injections of federal

Borden Stock Show Slated

GAIL — The Borden County Junior Livestock Association will hold a show and auction Friday and Saturday at the Borden County Show Barn in Gail.

"The barrow and lamb show will be Friday, with judging of barrows at 3:30 p.m. and lambs at 7 p.m.," said Ab Hendley, livestock association president.

"The steer show will be Saturday at 10 a.m. The auction sale at 1:30 p.m. will follow a barbecue lunch."

The show this year will have entries totaling 225 head of livestock. Approximately 75 of the top animals will sell at auction Saturday.

The bids will be taken in dollars, above floor price. If for example, the bid on an animal reaches $100. The bidder pays that amount. If the bidder wants to keep the animal, he must also pay the floor price, as all animals in the barn will sell first to the floor bidder.

Baptist Church Bonds Charges Sock Five Men

HOUSTON (AP) — Five men, four from Houston and one from Dallas, have been indicted here on charges of engaging in a scheme to defraud in the sale of first mortgage bonds of the Melrose Park Baptist Church.

The ten-count indictment, returned by a federal grand jury Thursday, named the Rev. Charles H. Palmer, Douglas Jack White, Joseph Edward Melody and Wallace T. Sisk, all of Houston, and Leland Vernon Maples of Dallas.

They were charged with violations of the registration and anti-fraud provisions of the Securities Act of 1933, the mail fraud and conspiracy statute.

The indictment alleged the men engaged in a scheme to defraud in the sale of 8 per cent first mortgage bonds of the church between Feb. 1, 1966 and July 1, 1968.

The five failed to register the bonds with the Securities and Exchange Commission, the indictment said, and made false statements to investors concerning the safety of the investment.

HCJC

Press Club Prepares For Spring Pageant

By CHARLES KIMBLE Final plans are now being made for the Howard County Junior College Press Club's annual Miss HCJC pageant. This year the pageant will be done a little differently. Jim Baum from radio station KBYG will be the master of ceremonies. For the change of pace, the HCJC choir, under the direction of Mr. Ralph Dowden, will perform during the contest. During the pageant the girls will be engaged in modeling swim suits, school fashions and each girl will present a brief show of her talent. The girls are sponsored by local businesses which will display a picture of their candidate. Rules for the girls in the contest are simple. The person must be a girl, she must be enrolled in one class at HCJC and never been married. The purpose of the pageant is to raise money for scholarships, conventions, and department equipment. Due to the first two girls in last year's pageant getting married and moving, Doris Madirino is the now reigning Miss HCJC. "The pageant appears in better shape at this time than last year's and is expected to be the best one yet," said Kerry Gunnels Press Club president. "The pageant will be held May 8, in the HCJC auditorium. At present time four girls have signed up. Entries will be open through the first two weeks of April. Members of the Press Club

'Granny' Talk

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a mother-in-law problem, but not the usual kind. She is not meddlesome, gossipy or anything like that. She is practically perfect — or she was, until 18 months ago when her daughter (my wife) made a grandmother of her. Now, I realize that all grandmothers think their grandchildren are the cutest, smartest, prettiest, etc., but my mother-in-law has overdone it until I want to gag.

She carries dozens of pictures with her and shoves them under everybody's nose whether he is interested or not. And, no one has a chance to talk about anything else when she's around. It is positively nauseating. She bores everyone.

How can I let this otherwise dear, sweet woman know that everyone is not as eager to listen to her "granny" talk as she is to spout it?

EMBARRASSED IN ATLANTA
DEAR ABBY: My boy friend has been after me to prove my love. I tried to tell him what you said in an article about this, but it didn't come out right. If you can remember what you said, I would very much appreciate seeing it in your column. I am 15. Sign me.

"WEAKENING"
DEAR WEAKENING: Here it is: Girls need to "prove their love" through illicit sex relations like a mouse needs a hatrack. Why not "prove your love" by sticking your head in the oven and turning on the gas? Or playing leapfrog out in traffic? It's about as safe.

Any fellow who asks you to "prove your love" is trying to take you for the biggest, most gullible fool who ever walked. That proving bit is one of the oldest and rottenest lines ever invented!

Does he love you? It doesn't sound like it. Someone who loves you wants what is best for you. But now figure it out: He wants you to surrender your virtue. Throw away your self-respect. Risk the loss of your precious reputation. And risk getting into trouble and hurting yourself and hurting your family.

Love? Who's kidding whom? A boy who really loves a girl would sooner cut off his right arm than hurt her. If you want my opinion, this self-serving so-and-so has already proved that he doesn't love you. (P.S. It wasn't an "article" it was from my book, "Dear Teenager.")

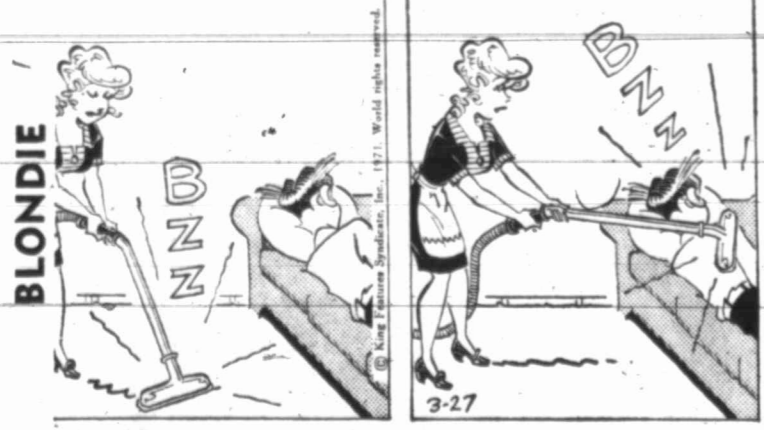

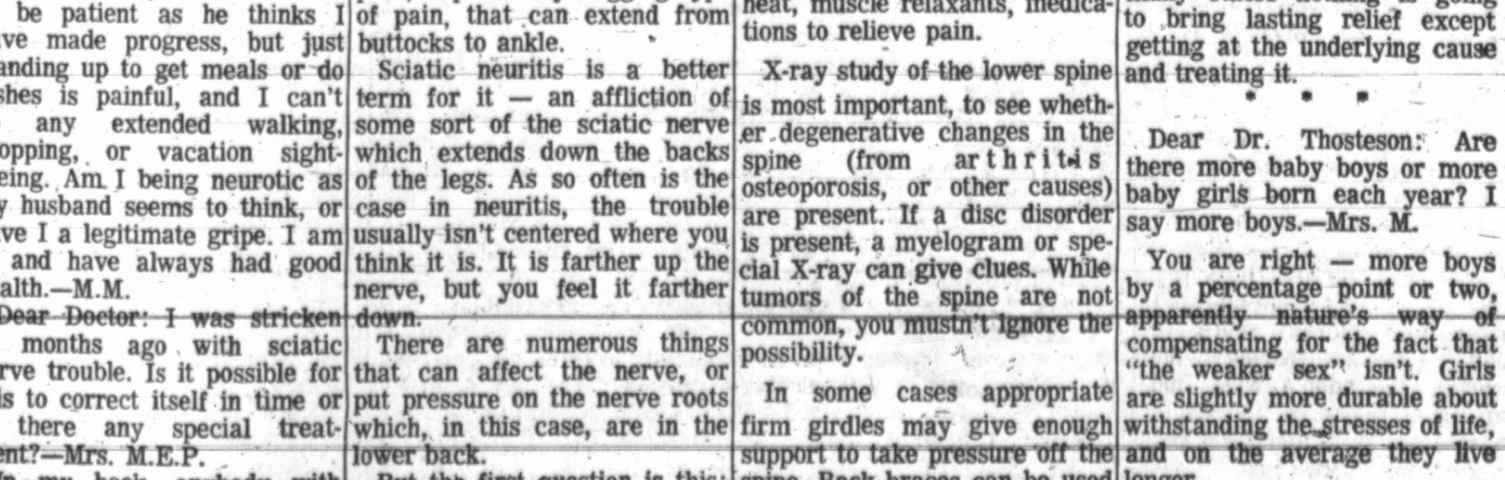

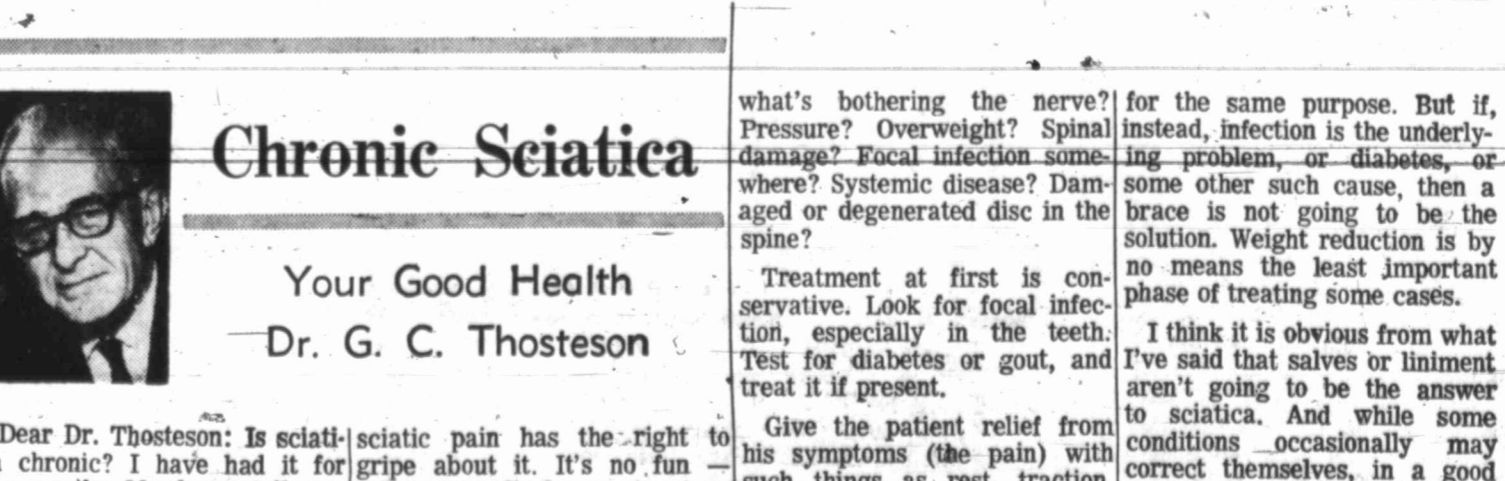

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him Mel) is an excellent dancer. Recently while we were attending a dinner-dance, an acquaintance, sitting at another table, sent a note over to Mel requesting that he dance with his wife. Mel danced with her.

Later on, another man came over and told Mel that his wife was "dying" to dance with him. So Mel danced with her.

The men who asked my husband to dance with their wives did not ask me to dance, so while Mel was dancing I was left sitting alone at our table. Do you care to comment.

CRUSHED WALLFLOWER
DEAR CRUSHED: The men who recruited your husband for their wives should have had good manners to ask you to dance. But since they didn't your husband should have suggested it. A gentleman does not leave his lady sitting alone while he dances.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY; Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Chronic Sciatica

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is sciatica chronic? I have had it for five months. My doctor tells me to be patient as he thinks I have made progress, but just standing up to get meals or dishes is painful, and I can't do any extended walking, shopping, or vacation sight-seeing. Am I being neurotic as my husband seems to think, or have I a legitimate gripe. I am 55 and have always had good health.—M.M.

Dear Doctor: I was stricken 10 months ago with sciatic nerve trouble. Is it possible for this to correct itself in time or is there any special treatment?—Mrs. M.E.P.

In my book, anybody with sciatic pain has the right to gripe about it. It's no fun — pain, a peculiarly nagging type of pain, that can extend from buttocks to ankle.

Sciatic neuritis is a better term for it — an affliction of some sort of the sciatic nerve which extends down the backs of the legs. As so often is the case in neuritis, the trouble usually isn't centered where you think it is. It is farther up the nerve, but you feel it farther down.

There are numerous things that can affect the nerve, or put pressure on the nerve roots which, in this case, are in the lower back.

But the first question is this: what's bothering the nerve? Pressure? Overweight? Spinal damage? Focal infection somewhere? Systemic disease? Damaged or degenerated disc in the spine?

Treatment at first is conservative. Look for focal infection, especially in the teeth. Test for diabetes or gout, and treat it if present.

Give the patient relief from his symptoms (the pain) with such things as rest, traction, heat, muscle relaxants, medications to relieve pain.

X-ray study of the lower spine is most important, to see whether degenerative changes in the spine (from arthritis, osteoporosis, or other causes) are present. If a disc disorder is present, a myelogram or special X-ray can give clues. While tumors of the spine are not common, you mustn't ignore the possibility.

In some cases appropriate firm girdles may give enough support to take pressure off the spine. Back braces can be used for the same purpose. But if, instead, infection is the underlying problem, or diabetes, or some other such cause, then a brace is not going to be the solution. Weight reduction is by no means the least important phase of treating some cases.

I think it is obvious from what I've said that salves or liniment aren't going to be the answer to sciatica. And while some conditions occasionally may correct themselves, in a good many others nothing is going to bring lasting relief except getting at the underlying cause and treating it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Are there more baby boys or more baby girls born each year? I say more boys.—Mrs. M.

You are right — more boys by a percentage point or two, apparently nature's way of compensating for the fact that "the weaker sex" isn't. Girls are slightly more durable about withstanding the stresses of life, and on the average they live longer.

Starring Role Won By Hair

Robin Hawdon is one actor who got his big break without a close shave.

His story began several years ago when he appeared briefly in Val Guest's award-winning science-fiction drama, "The Day the Earth Caught Fire."

When Hawdon later heard that Guest was to direct "When Dinosaurs Ruled the Earth," the prehistoric drama opening Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre, the young actor arranged to be interviewed by both Guest and producer Aida Young for the male lead.

Unknown to Robin, Val Guest, impressed with Robin's previous work, had seriously considered starring him opposite the voluptuous newcomer Veronica Vetrli.

"But, in the end, I was off the list because I was too young-looking," admits the actor whose youthful appearance belies his actual age of 30. "They needed a fairly mature type to help Veronica fight those prehistoric monsters and bloodthirsty cavemen."

Having read the script, Robin was determined to play the hero. He persuaded a make-up man to loan him a false beard and arranged a second meeting with the director and producer.

"When he walked in wearing that beard," Aida recalls, "he seemed so right I couldn't believe that a small fringe of hair could make so much difference."

"You might say I got the role by a hair," Robin jokes.

Robin, a graduate of England's Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts, has appeared on stage with several of England's top thespian talents including Sir John Gielgud, Sir Ralph Richardson and Anna Massey. He first starred in "The Easter Man" in London's West End.

THE OWL AND THE PUSSYCAT ... Barbra Streisand, George Segal

Star Turns From Drama To Comedy

George Segal, currently starring with Barbra Streisand in "The Owl and the Pussycat," at the R/70 Theatre, won an Academy Award nomination for his performance in the heavily-dramatic "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" But, then and before, those who knew him wondered when he would concentrate on comedy.

He plays "the owl," a stuffy book store clerk with pretensions as intellectual and author, to Miss Streisand's "pussycat," a kooky, self-assured would-be actress who becomes involved with the ineffectual Segal. "The Owl and the Pussycat" is Miss Streisand's first non-singing screen role. Music in the film is by Blood, Sweat & Tears.

Segal's sense of comedy probably was honed by his years of unsuccessful effort in years of unsuccessful effort in the theatre. He would have had to have a highly-developed sense of humor to survive such career-catastrophes as his first job: janitor, ticket-taker, soft-drink salesman, usher and understudy at New York's Circle in the Square, where his every "talent" was employed except that of understudy. Or, Segal's later appearance with Jason Robards and Peter Falk in "The Iceman Cometh."

Robards and Falk went on to greater acting assignments; Segal was drafted.

After his Army service, Segal returned to off-Broadway. He appeared in Shakespeare in Central Park, in a minor comedy, in a night club singing act. Then he became an original cast member of "The Premise," a satiric revue that brought Segal to Hollywood attention.

He had small roles in "The Young Doctors" and "The Longest Day," and his return to Broadway was marked by a show that failed in Philadelphia, another that disappeared after a few preview performances, and a director's refusal to cast him for the role.

Role As U.S. Astronaut Brings Son's Adoration

A family man, Richard Crenna likes to have his children visit the sets of his pictures. But it wasn't until fairly recently, he admits, that his young son, Richard Jr., age seven, thought much of him as an actor. It happened when the lad saw him at work in "Marooned," now at the Jet.

When Mrs. Crenna and young Richard arrived on the massive stage where much of "Marooned" was shot, daddy Richard was floating around in space 60-feet above the stage floor. They stayed for an hour, and father Crenna was still floating, mysteriously and by secret methods.

"Dick had only seen me perform in 'The Sand Pebbles,' and in 'Wait Until Dark,'" Crenna said. "The performances meant nothing to him. But when I got home from work in 'Marooned' that night, the boy declared, 'Dad, you're really an actor.' And that's how I became a hero to my own son."

"Marooned" was produced by M. J. Frankovich and directed by John Sturges.

Bob Newhart Is Man For Figures

Bob Newhart is one of those rare showbusiness personalities who can fill out his own income tax returns.

Currently starred as a high pressure public relations man in "Cold Turkey," Bob got into the entertainment field after serving a dull stretch as an accountant for a blue chip corporation.

In "Cold Turkey," at the Ritz Theatre, Bob fast-talks tobacco tycoon Edward Everett Horton into donating a $25,000,000 prize for a town that can kick the smoking habit for one month. It's a big PR gimmick that backfires.

"Cold Turkey" stars Dick Van Dyke and also stars Pippa Scott, Horton and Bob & Ray.

'To Find A Man'

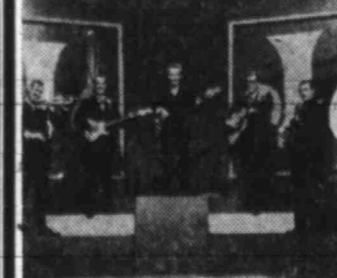

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway stage star James Broderick will have a top featured role in "To Find a Man," the Columbia Pictures-Rastar Production, it was announced recently. Broderick will portray the father of an overly-sophisticated teen-age girl whose world revolves around private school, New York town houses, governesses and fashionable clothes.

Lack Of Bulls Pain In Spain

When the bulls are running, every Spaniard's heart sings. So, when aficionados of Almeria, Spain, learned their bullfight season would be delayed two weeks because producer Charles H. Schnee had rented the bullring to make a movie, they saw red.

Schnee averted trouble, however, by inviting the Almerians to work in the science fiction western, "The Valley of Gwangi," opening Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

Starring James Franciscus, Gila Golan and Richard Carlson, this unusual thriller has two sequences that involve an American wild-west show performing in a small Latin town. So director James O'Connell needed hundreds of extras to fill seats for the bull ring.

The Almerians happily watched the wild-west show, complete with cowboys and Indians, while Erwin Hiller and his photographic crew recorded their reactions.

"The Valley of Gwangi" centers on the discovery of a hidden valley where prehistoric animals still live. Laurence Naismith, Gustavo Rojo, Dennis Kilbane, Mario de Barros, and Curtis Arden co-star.

New York Met Comes To Dallas

The Metropolitan Opera Co. of New York brings Bizet's "Carmen," Offenbach's "La Perichole," Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and Verdi's "Aida" to Dallas audiences May 13-15 at the State Fair Music Hall.

The colorful awning is up once again heralding "The Student Art Festival" at the Museum of the Southwest, in Midland, which opened to the public Friday, March 26.

All the work, an outgrowth of regular classroom instruction, is done under school supervision. Screening committees chose works from each school proportionate to the school's enrollment. Final jurors then select works for the exhibition. Eight special awards are given for outstanding junior high school art work and eight for senior high school. All exhibitors receive certificates of merit.

Including works from public, private and parochial schools, the Student Art Festival is sponsored by the Museum of the Southwest, the Junior League of Midland, Inc. and the Midland Public Schools.

The exhibition will continue through April 14. Museum hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The first public showing of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame Art Show, at Snyder today through Wednesday, will be from 1 to 5 p.m. today in the Scurry County Coliseum.

The 12th Annual Wild Flower Trail will officially open April 4, announced Mrs. Hugh Benbow, president of the Yoakum, Texas Garden Gate Club, sponsors of the affair.

Immediately following the opening program, slated for 1:30 p.m., a guided tour is being planned over some of the more scenic routes around Yoakum.

A rock exhibit is being displayed, and the fifth Annual Wild Flower Art Exhibit, sponsored by the Yoakum Art Guild, will open on Sunday also.

Maps will be available designating the areas which will feature blooming wild flowers.

Groups desiring tours during the week or on the following two Sundays, April 11 and 18, are requested to contact in advance Mrs. Hugh Benbow, Rt. 3, Mrs. Emil Coldewey, 410 Aubrey St., or Mrs. Arles Teston, Rt. 2, Yoakum, Texas 77995.

Opera America Plans Increase

NEW YORK (AP) — Opera America Inc., which intends to develop a representative national voice for opera, held its first meeting in February. Delegates from 27 opera companies attended.

Thirty professional opera companies, including the Metropolitan, are members. During the year membership is expected to increase to include all American opera companies.

Toward a better performance climate, an auditions committee has been formed and in May the organization will hold a national audition of young singers recommended by member opera companies. Hiring personnel of member companies will attend the audition.

MOVIE RETURNING 'My Fair Lady' Answers Demand

A great career came to a magnificent climax on the night of April 5, 1965. That was the night Rex Harrison stepped before a scintillating audience of his peers to receive the Academy Award as the best actor of the year for his performance in "My Fair Lady."

"This is not a night I'm likely to forget," Harrison said afterwards, nor has the world forgotten either his performance or that of his co-star, Audrey Hepburn, or the film itself, which won eight Oscars that night.

Proof is that "My Fair Lady," coming to the Cinema Theatre, with music by Frederick Loewe and lyrics by Alan Jay Lerner is now making its first return engagement in response to what is truly, despite the hackneyed phrase, a popular demand.

The career of Rex Harrison, which reached its apogee that night, has an extremely solid base. Lancashire-born, he made his stage debut at the age of 18 with the Liverpool Repertory Theatre, where he subsequently appeared in literally scores of plays before touring the provinces. London's West End was next, where he starred in many plays with distinction and ever-growing popularity.

Bill Takes Aim At Polluters

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith has thrown his full support behind a House bill that would allow any citizen to bring suit against any polluter.

The tough anti-pollution bill, by Rep. Rex Braun of Houston, is in a House State Affairs subcommittee.

"We have over the past several months received an unprecedented amount of correspondence from Texas citizens concerned about the problems of pollution and the protection of our environment," Smith said.

"It is most significant to me that there appears to be a growing feeling among Texans that they are powerless to do anything about their environment."

"I sincerely believe that it (Braun's bill) is one of the most important pieces of legislation that will be considered during the 62nd Texas Legislature," Smith said.

Anyone could seek a court order to stop air or water pollution under the bill, whether it is by a political subdivision, an industry or another citizen.
