Odessa Murders Baffle Police

Editor's note: The unsolved murders of seven women and the disappearance of two others, involving investigations in Odessa and Dallas areas, may not be related. Patterns seem to glimmer briefly and then vanish, as investigators of several Texas counties wrestle with a maze of theories and suspicions.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — Perhaps Linda Cougat, Ruth Maynard and Eula Mae Miller never met, but they had much in common. They lived here and died here.

YOUNG, ATTRACTIVE
They were young and attractive and murdered. In nearby Kermit, a pretty young wife, Nancy Mitchell, is missing.

In Dallas, 350 miles east, authorities are plagued with a series of mystery killings of young women. And, like Nancy Mitchell, a 19-year-old model is missing from a Dallas apartment. There is no evidence to link the Odessa and Dallas murders, although enough similarities exist that officers are investigating the possibility of some connection.

Authorities admit they are baffled. "You can sit around and theorized this thing all day, but who's to say who is right or wrong," said Odessa police Capt. Glenn Wallace, the detective in charge of the investigation here.

GO-GO DANCER
"It's perplexing and frustrating when you have nothing solid to go on. Just legwork. Interviews. Knocking on doors. Talking to people.

He assigned two investigators to the case full time.

The dead:
—Mrs. Ruth Maynard, 24, wife of a former Odessa policeman, found partially clothed Feb. 15 in a pasture northwest of Odessa, a woman's stocking knotted around her neck.

—Linda Cougat, also 24, a barmaid, found in a pasture Oct. 25, 1968, strangled, a nylon hose around her neck.

—Mrs. Eula Mae Miller, 26, a go-go dancer, known professionally as Kay Miller, found nude and stabbed to death in her Odessa apartment July 18, 1970.

The missing:
—Mrs. Nancy Siler Mitchell, 27, a Kermit housewife, disappeared from her home Sept. 16, 1970, leaving behind two sleeping children, a husband at work and her cigarettes.

SOME NUT?
Wallace said there is nothing to link Mrs. Mitchell's disappearance to the Odessa murders, "but there again, we don't rule out the possibility that there's a connection."

Besides the absence of clues, (See MURDER, Pg. 5-A, Col. 1)

MEETING TONIGHT Adults Study Possibility Of Teen Center

Members of the 1953 Hyperion Club will hold an open meeting in room 100, Science Building, Howard County Junior College at 7:30 p.m. tonight to discuss the possibilities of a teen center in Big Spring.

The club reports that 1,500 of the 2,000 questionnaires distributed to students at Big Spring High School have been returned and most of the students have shown a wish to work with adults in the community toward the establishment of a center.

The club points out that there must be competent adult supervision and guidance, but that the students must work toward the planning and maintenance of the center themselves.

Another important point is the proper and stable financing the center will require. Club officials point out that experience has shown that any effort which depends on sporadic fund drives will be equally sporadic in operation as past efforts toward a center in the city have been.

Any interested adults are welcome to attend the meeting to join the discussion on this matter.

Jail Four In Alleged Assassination Scheme

CHICAGO (AP) — Police say additional arrests are expected in connection with an alleged plot to assassinate Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago and the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, a Negro leader and head of Operation Breadbasket.

The alleged plot was revealed Monday when two black militants — Earl P. Dillard, 37, and Howard Harris, 33 — were charged with soliciting to kill Daley and Jackson.

RACIAL VIOLENCE
They were arrested on Saturday, five days after two other black militants, who were charged with soliciting to commit murder.

Police declined to link the arrests. A state's attorney's official said the four men were involved in one plot aimed at touching off racial violence in the city.

April 21 hearings were set for Dillard, Harris and the other two men — Charles Whiteside, 35, and Terry Simmons, 38. The four are being held in lieu of $5,000 bond each.

Deputy Police Supt. John T. Kelly said additional arrests were expected. Dillard and Harris were arrested, police said, after the department's gang intelligence unit received a tip that an alleged solicitation to commit murder had been made.

Police refused to elaborate further. Capt. Thomas Lyons, director of the police intelligence division, said the murder plot is not a prank but "a serious offense."

A state's attorney's official, who asked that his name not be used, said the alleged plot was connected with an effort by militants to assume power in the black community after making the neighborhoods susceptible to looting during racial strife. Daley was unavailable for comment. His aides said he was in Florida on a vacation after winning election to an unexpired fifth term April 6.

DEEPLY CONCERNED
A spokesman for the mayor's office said he did not know if the mayor had been informed-of the alleged assassination plot.

Jackson said in Nashville, Tenn., he was "deeply concerned" about the alleged plot.

"I hope that whatever the facts are established to be," he told an audience at Fisk University, "the law will be soundly enforced in the pursuit of justice as it affects me, the accused and the well being of our city."

Operation Breadbasket is a program of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Dixie Mafia Chieftain Wounded

DALLAS (AP) — Police said today a gravely wounded Oklahoman known to them as leader of a gang called the "Dixie Mafia" has refused to tell them how he was shot in the chest.

He is Kirksey McCord Nix Jr., 27, son of an Oklahoma Court of Criminal Appeals judge and he arrived at St. Paul Hospital after midnight Monday.

Hospital attendants said his condition remained critical today.

Officers said a woman companion of Nix, 30, was detained briefly for investigation but a lawyer quickly brought about her release under a writ of habeas corpus. They said she also would give no information about the shooting.

Nix identifies himself as a farmer from Eufaula, Okla. He was released from prison in Georgia last fall after serving a term for attempted bribery of a policeman.

Bandits Flee With $250,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Two masked holdup men escaped with $250,000 from a branch bank in Brooklyn today while a third companion held 12 persons hostage in a Staten Island home, police said.

Police said some of the hostages, held all night, were related to the bank's manager, Charles A. Di Sogra, who also was held captive and forced to open the bank's vault. All were released unharmed, police said.

Police said the three armed men invaded Di Sogra's home on Staten Island Monday night and took him to his sister-in-law's home where a total of 12 people were held hostage.

While one bandit remained with the hostages, two of the men forced Di Sogra to drive them to the Ft. Hamilton branch of Community National Bank and Trust Company in Brooklyn at about 7:30 a.m. and ordered him to open the bank's safe.

Police said Di Sogra had only part of the combination of the two-lock safe, and the holdup men had to wait for a woman cashier to arrive to open the lower part of the vault.

The men escaped, leaving several bank employees handcuffed together, police said. They forced Di Sogra to drive them away from the bank, dropped him off and abandoned the car 20 blocks away.

'NOT RULING OUT' CORPORATION TAX

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith said today he always has opposed a corporation income tax bill but is "not ruling out" signing one if the legislature passes it.

"Under the circumstances, we sometimes have to do things we don't want to do," Smith said at a spur of the moment news conference.

Senators are considering seriously a corporation income tax as part of a package to solve state revenue problems.

Smith also said he has received "no communication" from the Securities and Exchange Commission about the SEC's announced plans to interview him a second time as part of its probe of an alleged stock manipulation scheme.

Senators Learn Details Of Giant Budget 'Soon'

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas senators hoped to have an idea today how much money will be spent to run state government the next two years, but delays held up action on the giant budget bill.

Sen. A. M. Aikin of Paris said his Senate Finance Committee will not meet until Wednesday to act on the measure, which he said will not be ready for printing until this afternoon "at best."

FRESH TAXES
Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes said Monday the bill will require $583 million in new taxes over the next two years.

Barnes wants the appropriations bill laid on the senators' desks early so they can examine it before debating the measure Friday.

The Senate zipped through a two-hour session Monday, adopting a proposed constitutional amendment and 20 Senate bills, which now go to the House.

Dallas Sen. Mike McKeel's bill exempting Vietnam veterans from tuition at state-financed colleges was approved on voice vote. Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena said the proposal was similar to a Senate-approved resolution asking an immediate pardon for Lt. William Calley Jr., convicted of slaying at least 22 Vietnamese civilians. "There's no way you can vote against it and be right," Brooks said.

A bill prohibiting the sale of glues or other adhesives that release toxic vapors was approved on voice vote. San Antonio Sen. Joe Bernal's measure would require manufacturers to replace toxic substances such as "tuluol" with a mustard-oil substance.

Also sent to the House on voice vote was Galveston Sen. A. R. A variance is a delay granted by the state to allow industries or individuals to come into compliance with anti-pollution regulations.

The Senate adopted 25-0 a proposed constitutional amendment reducing from 10 to 5 years the minimum service requirement for taking part in the teacher retirement system.

Senators also passed and sent to the House bills Monday that would:

—Exempt from property taxation land owned by a nonprofit corporation and used solely as ecological laboratories by Texas colleges.

—Requiring the use of the jury wheel in all counties.

HITS HARD AT TAXI FARE INCREASES

Nixon's 'Inflation Alert'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today employment in the steel industry will be sharply reduced if it is faced with a large wage increase later this year.

In its third "inflation alert," the Nixon administration said the steel industry is confronted with strong international competition and added that increases in wage costs would significantly erode its competitive position.

"Protection of the steel industry from the full consequences of a deteriorating position in international competition, on the other hand, would reduce the ability to meet foreign competition for industries which are major users of steel, with a consequent reduction in employment opportunities in those industries," the inflation alert said.

TABOO GROUND
The alert avoided direct comment on wage demands by the United Steel Workers Union, totalling 32 per cent over the three-year life of the contract, but it focused on a recent wage increase in the can industry, averaging 9 per cent a year over the life of the contract.

"The terms of the agreement reached in the can industry are clearly in excess of any realistic assessment of long-term productivity growth prospects," the White House said.

The inflation alert said the can industry settlement usually is a pacesetter for wage negotiations in the basic metals industries, including steel.

The inflation alert on other matters also hit hard at taxicab fare increases in New York City. It said the problem stems from a legal restriction on the number of taxicabs which may serve the public.

FREIGHT RATES
The report said taxicab fares in New York increased recently by an average of 48 per cent, and it noted that the number of cabs permitted to operate in the city has not been increased since 1937. As a result, it said, cab fares in New York are more than twice the level of Washington, D.C., where no restrictions are in effect.

"Such restriction of taxicab service to the public helps maintain high fare levels and reduces employment opportunities for those with little formal education," the alert said.

The alert also focused on wage and price increases in railroad freight rates, lumber and plywood prices, petroleum, meat prices and construction. But the key part of the report dealt with the steel industry, where a contract with the United Steel Workers is due to expire Aug. 1.

Happy Brother, Sister Thank Sergeant Who Delivered Cash

AUSTIN (AP)—Big tears ran down the cheeks of 17-year-old Paula Holt as she thanked Air Force Sgt. Robert L. Jones and "all the gang at Phan Rang" for a lifesaving $30,000 donation.

"Thank you, sergeant, thank you, thank you," said Gary Holt, 20, Monday night after Jones presented the brother and sister with $30,000, part of the contributions made by servicemen in Vietnam.

Paula and Gary suffer from a rare kidney disease, acute nephritis, which requires 15 hours of expensive treatment weekly with an artificial kidney machine. Some day they hope to have a kidney transplant.

Jones flew to Austin Monday night to deliver funds given the Holts by servicemen at his home station, Phan Rang Air Base, and other servicemen in Vietnam. He was accompanied by his wife, Norma, of Turlock, Calif.

SPECIAL GUEST. Today he will be a special guest of the Texas Legislature and visit Gov. Preston Smith.

"This is really a thrill to me," said Jones, 22, after he was given a red carpet greeting by the Austin Chamber of Commerce and several hundred spectators, many from nearby Bergstrom Air Force Base.

"Phan Rang Cares" read one sign as Jones arrived. Another read: "Thanks for Giving Us a Chance to Live—Gary and Paula."

"This $30,000 is all I've got with me," Jones said almost apologetically. "The rest is back with the gang at Phan Rang. We have over $50,000 in pledges now."

After the check presentation an Air Force official announced that word has just been received of an additional $512 gift by the 103 men of the Viet Chua Mountain signal site in Vietnam.

Jones' flight to the United States was sponsored by an airline and his flight to Austin from California was paid by Jones' squadron mates. He plans to leave Austin Wednesday for the return trip.

Jones, a heavy weapons specialist with the 33rd Tactical Fighter Wing stationed at Phan Rang on the central coast of Vietnam, read of the Holts' plight in the Saigon edition of the Stars & Stripes.

THERE WAS A WAY. Gary, 20, and Paula, 17, are kept alive by spending up to 15 hours a week hooked to an artificial kidney machine to remove impurities from their blood.

SERGEANT WITH KIDNEY DISEASE VICTIMS — Air Force Sgt. Robert L. Jones is flanked by Paula and Gary Holt, victims of a rare kidney disease that claimed the lives of three of their sisters. Sgt. Jones arrived in Austin Monday night to deliver $30,000 in donations from servicemen in Vietnam to help pay the cost of keeping Paula, 17, and her brother, Gary, 20, alive.

There was a way and the guys in Vietnam could help these kids," Jones said. "When people started talking it up, the money began coming in almost faster than we could count it. Less than two days, I had $30,000 in my hand and the Air Force gave me permission to fly back to the U.S. to personally deliver it to the Holt family on behalf of all the men stationed at Phan Rang who had contributed."

When Jones read in the Stars & Stripes that the Holts owed more than $20,000 to the manufacturer of the kidney machine, physicians and others involved in treatment, he began a campaign. At first he hoped to raise $5,000.

"All of a sudden I realized

Fire Blackens Parched Land

BRADY, Tex. (AP)—The sixth grass fire here in four days blackened 400 acres of parched ranch land Monday, fanned by 25-mile winds.

John Hughes, local Civil Defense coordinator, said the blaze began on property around Simpson Lake and spread to four ranches before firefighters from Brady and Melvin could contain it.

Parents Seek Changes In Schools At Uvalde

UVALDE, Tex. (AP)—A Mexican-American parents group, seeking changes in the Uvalde school system for the past year, says it will urge a one-day boycott of classes here Wednesday.

The date marks the first anniversary of a walkout that lasted for six weeks through the end of school and involved as many as 600 Mexican-American pupils. The boycott plans were disclosed Monday night after the school board refused to hear demands originally presented by the Mexican-American parents' association a year ago. Trustees said they could not discuss the demands since they are involved in a $150,000 suit against the school board. The demands seek such changes as bilingual education.

Earlier Monday in Del Rio, U.S. Dist. Judge John Wood Jr. set a June 1 hearing on the suit, which was filed last August as a class action on behalf of the boycotting pupils. "I don't have time to go out and manage the schools," the judge said. "I wish the attorneys in this case would try to settle this thing among themselves."

He ordered the plaintiffs to file a motion stating more precisely the complaints against the school board.

Olga Rodriguez, speaking for the parents after the school board meeting here Monday night, stressed that the boycott would be for one day only. All sympathetic pupils will be asked to stay out of school, she said.

The famous Italian Blue Team which completely dominated the world bridge scene for so many years, recently retired virtually undefeated and the United States finally regained the International Championship in Stockholm last June.

In going thru my files, I came across a hand that was dealt in the 1957 World Title Match where a team that I captained played against the Blue Team for the first time. They showed their championship form by overcoming an early deficit and pulling away to win comfortably. They have been doing so ever since in a manner that is very reminiscent of the famous New York Yankee and Boston Celtic teams of a few seasons back. It would seem appropriate therefore to refer to them as the "Invincible Blue Team."

On the deal presented, a contract of six clubs was reached by North and South at both tables on a similar sequence of bids.

At the table where Italy held the North-South cards, the American player who was seated West, opened the singleton seven of spades against six clubs. The ace was played from dummy. Declarer cashed the ace of diamonds, led a heart to the ace and played the king and queen of diamonds — on which a heart and spade were discarded from dummy.

The ten of spades was led next on which West took a discard and East won the trick with the queen. He underled the king but South ruffed with jack of clubs and proceeded to crossruff in hearts and spades. In coming off dummy he was careful to trump with the queen and ace of clubs. In all, he took one spade, one heart, three diamonds, the three high trumps in his hand and the four trumps in dummy for 12 tricks.

At the other table where the United States team was in six clubs, the Italian West led the deuce of hearts against the slam. East put up the queen of hearts and South played the ace. He crossed over to the ace of diamonds and returned to his hand with the jack of clubs in order to discard dummy's losing heart on the king of diamonds. By using one of his high trumps as an immediate entry to his hand, declarer could not embark on a successful crossruff as his counterpart had done at the other table. He tried instead to develop dummy's spade suit, but he was unable to cope with the unfavorable distribution in both black suits and he went down to defeat.

There is an element of irony to this deal inasmuch as the opening lead chosen in each room determined the ultimate fate of the contract. The player who made the aggressive lead away from his king-jack, forced declarer to use up a vital entry early in the play and thereby sealed his fate on the deal. Where the singleton was led, declarer was left in position to fully control the play and his contract was never in danger.

The net swing to Italy on this hand was 1,020 points and altho it occurred early in the match when the United States had the lead, it kept the Italians in contention until the Blue Team made their move and pulled away to victory.

Fire Follows Train Pileup in Round Rock

ROUND ROCK, Tex. (AP) — Two freight trains smashed together Monday night and wreckage blocked the Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks here this morning.

An explosion and fire followed the pileup, which knocked 11 cars off the rails and left some projecting more than 30 feet into the air.

Joe Carlin, 32, said he "heard a whistle, then an explosion." After that, he related, "You could hear the box cars piling one on top of the other."

Hike in Domestic Air Fares Partial Solution

NEW YORK (AP) — An increase in domestic air fares approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board represents, at best, a partial solution to the industry's problems, airlines sources say. "It remains to be seen whether or not the combination of major cost reduction efforts by the carriers and the increases in fares will be adequate to enable the industry to break even at year's end," said Charles C. Tillinghast Jr., chairman of Trans World Airlines.

The CAB authorized Monday a temporary 6 per cent increase in domestic air fares, which the airlines indicated they would put into effect on May 7. It also moved to permit a further increase to 9 per cent within 50 days. This second increase, however, could be delayed or even rescinded depending on whether any objections are filed.

The CAB decision, for example, permits a $2 increase to $34 in the coach fare between Atlanta and Memphis, a $5 increase to $86 between Detroit and Miami and a $1 increase to $45 between Indianapolis and Washington.

BALLINGER — West Texas Press Association is looking for another winner in its $800 newspaper scholarship contest.

Applications in the 1971 contest will be received from high school seniors until Wednesday, Richard H. Perry, chairman of the scholarship committee, has announced. Application should be sent to Perry, editor of The Ballinger Ledger, Ballinger, Tex., 76821. Announcement of the winner will be made by May 15.

West Texas Press Association, which started the newspaper scholarship in 1956, has four students in college this year. One will graduate this spring.

Vassuer, Doyle Denton, Roland Glenn Cate, Robert Gene Thompson and Jack Allen Thompson.

Lorenzo Jackson is charged with robbery by assault. Three are charged with narcotics violations. Glenn David Bowman is charged with possession of marijuana, Robert Bruce Bright is charged with sale of a narcotic drug, and Pat Ralph Gruver, possession of marijuana.

Charged with circulating worthless checks over $50 are Paul Phillips, Eldon Curtis and Linda Verne.

Charles Jacob Smith is charged with indecent exposure to a minor; Ronnie Ray Steen is charged with forgery by endorsement; and Guadalupe Corona with carrying a prohibited weapon on a licensed premise.

Four cases involving charges of second offenses of driving while intoxicated will be presented to the jurors. Charged are Darrell Lloyd Thomas, Rickey Dale Jay, Ramon Franco and Nasario A. Juarez.

The increases affect fares only in the 48 contiguous states. Last year domestic air carriers lost $155 million. The rate of loss during the first months of 1971 has been greater.

CAB Chairman Secor D. Brown said the impact of the increases was difficult to assess. There was some uncertainty, he said, whether all airlines would go along with the full increases permitted, and how traffic volume might change.

United Air Lines said "it remains to be seen" whether it would further depress traffic growth. Nonetheless, the carrier applauded the increase, calling it "good news indeed." "The increase will enable the carriers to bridge part of the cost-price gap which has continued to widen in the air transport industry, despite stringent economy progress," United President Edward E. Carlson said. Tillinghast said, "The increase will not alone be sufficient to cure all problems of the airline industry." The carriers "will need to continue their vigorous efforts to control all costs including the cost of labor which is the single biggest item of airline expense," he said.

A.W.O.L. Woes

PORT LAVACA, Tex. (AP) — Three new city councilmen showed up Monday night ready to take office.

They went home disappointed because the three councilmen voted out of office last week and there was no quorum to certify the election results.

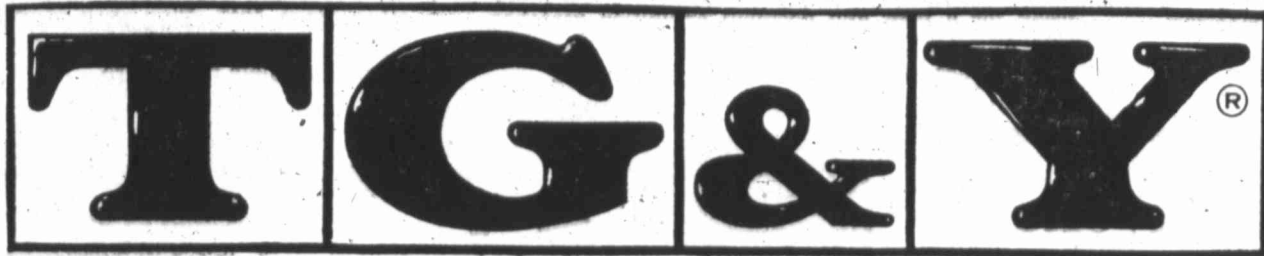

Mayor K. A. Wallace tried vainly for an hour to contact the A.W.O.L. councilmen before he gave up and set another meeting for Wednesday night.

Former Preacher Wil Files Appeal

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Wil Schaefer, former pastor of the First United Methodist Church at Laredo, was joined at the church offices by Judy Nash, a divorcee he has been living with, he said, with the en-al office of the United Methodist Church. Schaefer, former pastor of the First United Methodist Church at Laredo, was joined at the church offices by Judy Nash, a divorcee he has been living with, he said, with the encouragement of his wife. Schaefer said the divorcee is a clairvoyant who has helped him in his ministerial work by interpreting scripture and in counseling work. Schaefer said his wife is in California with their children doing research work on a book the trio is writing. Schaefer was tried by a church court at San Antonio, Tex., which ruled he was guilty of immorality, disobedience and unministerial conduct. The court relieved him of his ministerial title but Schaefer continued to maintain that his relationship with Mrs. Lash is monogamous. Schaefer said he believes the jury that ousted him from the church felt he was living in a "three-in-a-bed sort of thing." Schaefer said he has not lived with two women at once and that his relationship with his wife is a "brother-sister" relationship. Schaefer said he has been unable to talk with Bishop O. Eugene Slater to discuss his decision to live and work with Mrs. Nash on a spiritual level.

Teacher Code Deflated

Some 78,000 Texas school teachers voted on a code of ethics prepared by the 15-member Professional Practices Commission. On the basis of the voting, the code was drafted to take effect in September.

The code's preamble specifies that the Texas educator shall uphold the "dignity of the profession by obeying the law, demonstrating personal integrity and exemplifying honesty."

Then, on the basis of the educators' votes, the code proceeds to oppose a ban on teacher strikes, which are against state law; it opposes self-policing by teachers of the code; it opposes a ban on continued employment of teachers in schools after they have been convicted of crimes involving moral turpitude (which could include dishonesty, of course); they oppose having teachers evaluated by supervisors, preferring to measure teaching results by how much a child benefits from instruction.

It may be that the code has taken so many items out of it that it has no meaning. In which case, why bother?

The code won't revolutionize teaching, anyway. School boards continue to be in charge, as they should. Professional administrators should be encouraged to be skillful enough to eliminate bad teachers. The legislature, in the second year of a 10-year commitment to improve teacher pay, is helping schools to keep their best teachers.

The code seems to say that teachers shouldn't be saddled with supervising the schools, anyway.

Ping-Pong Diplomacy

American Ping-pong players are unlikely candidates to pierce Red China's bamboo curtain, but they have done it.

After the world table tennis championship matches in Japan, the Red Chinese team, which won the title, invited the American team this week for a visit and goodwill exhibition matches. The Americans will not be against the championship players, so they shouldn't be humiliated.

The Americans were able to accept the invitation because the U.S. recently dropped restrictions on visiting Red China. The Ping-pong invitation may be a small response by Peking and a possible start of improved relations between the two countries, which have not recognized each other since 1949. Ping-pong would be a peculiar diplomatic vehicle, but the matches could mean more than their final score.

Ping-Pong, Anyone?

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — It's very rare that the CIA gets caught flat-footed, but the other day when Red China invited the United States to send a table tennis team to Peking, the Central Intelligence Agency discovered it had no champion Ping-pong players in the organization whom it could send along on the trip.

CIA officials were going crazy trying to find someone before the U.S. team left for Peking last Saturday.

IN PANIC, the CIA officials decided to hold a crash program in Ping-pong. Neighbors who live around Langley, Va., where the top-secret agency is located, reported seeing truckloads of Ping-pong tables going through the gates.

They have reported that they can't sleep at night because of the noise of thousands of balls being hit back and forth across the tables set up in the CIA gymnasium.

Any agent who ever played Ping-pong in boys' camp or at the beach had been given leave from his regular duties and brought to Langley in hopes he might be developed into a champion Ping-pong player before the U.S. team took off for Peking.

THE CIA also held an employee Ping-pong tournament during lunch hour with cash prizes of up to $100,000 of unaccountable funds to encourage more people to take up the sport.

Yet, despite these desperate measures, officials of the agency are pessimistic that they'll be able to develop anybody worthy of playing Red China at table tennis.

"What difference does it make if he isn't a champion?" I asked a CIA official.

"We have a serious problem," he said. "This is the first time we're playing Red China at any sport. Table tennis is the most important game in China.

"THE USA and the State Department want the United States to field the best team it can find because they believe that if we can defeat the Chinese at Ping-pong it would be the greatest propaganda victory of the cold war.

"On the other hand, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the CIA feel it would be better to send a mediocre team and risk defeat in exchange for finding out what Mao Tse-tung is really thinking.

"THE IDEAL, of course, would be to send a champion Ping-pong player who also can figure out what is going on in Peking. But so far we can't find anybody."

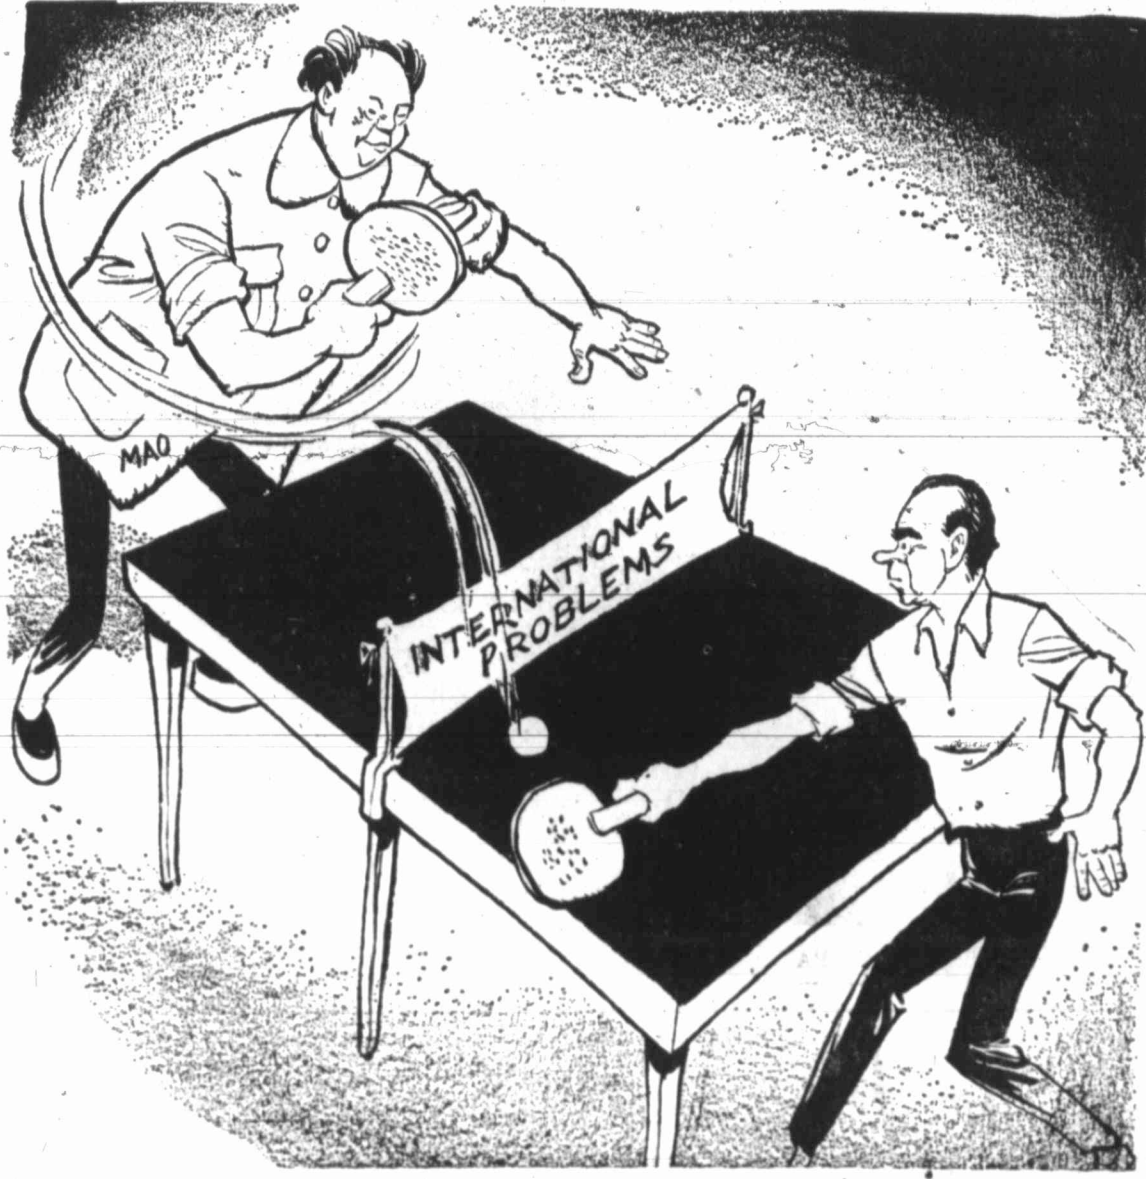

"Couldn't you borrow a champion player from another agency of the government?"

"The only one who would have qualified was a man who worked for the FBI and had won the intercollegiate Ping-pong championship of 1956. But unfortunately, he was fired a month ago for telling a friend that he didn't like J. Edgar Hoover's barber."

"THEN IT LOOKS like the United States table tennis team may have to go to Peking without CIA representation?" I said.

"Unless we can come up with a sleeper," the official said. "Our recruiters are out on the college campuses right now and their orders are to find someone, anyone. It doesn't make any difference if he can pass a security clearance as long as he has a vicious backhand."

Uncle Sam Taking A Tonic

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — When the U.S. economy is forced to take a fiscal or monetary tonic for whatever ails it, the rest of the trading world is likely to break out in hives or something worse.

Right now the United States is taking a tonic: Easier money is being used in an attempt to reinvigorate an economy that slipped into recession, marked by unemployment, unused industrial capacity, sluggish sales, poor corporate profits.

Reflecting that policy, interest rates in the United States have dropped all across the line in recent months. But in some foreign countries which are still fighting inflation, particularly Germany, interest rates remain higher.

And so, predictably, American dollars have spilled by the hundreds of millions into foreign banks, notably those of Germany.

Such influxes can almost destroy the monetary policies of such smaller nations, because those dollars then circulate domestically and add to the problem of inflation.

The situation fleetingly described here occurred during the past few weeks, leading once again to violent quivers within the always shaky international monetary system and to talk once again of a multifaceted crisis.

One logical area of speculation was that the U.S. dollar would have to be devalued in order to bring it into an equitable relationship with other currencies. The dollar, it was argued, wasn't worth what we claimed for it.

Such accusations are easily made and almost as easily substantiated, because the United States has for nearly two decades been spending more money overseas than foreigners have spent in the United States.

When this occurs so persistently, any foreign holder of U.S. dollars is entitled to wonder if the money he has in his vault is really redeemable or really capable of buying all that is claimed for it.

He can see the printing on the bill, for sure, but how does he prove what the bill is really worth? He can keep that paper for years, investing and trading and speculating with it. But in a crisis, in a snowdown, can he really convert it into something solid — like gold?

Germany alone holds 12.5 billion of dollars and billions more exist in other foreign central banks. They can hardly be blamed for toying with the notion of redeeming those dollars.

Any attempt to do so, however, could be catastrophic to world trade and the functioning of the international monetary system, because there just isn't enough gold in Ft. Knox to pay off all those claims.

THE SITUATION thus created is the vital point raised by Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel 3rd, who prosecuted Calley, in his letter of protest to the President. It is impossible to cavalierly dismiss Daniel's argument that Nixon's premature announcement weakened the system of military justice, made it appear subject to political influence and helped make a "national hero" out of an officer convicted of murder.

GIVEN THE facts, I can't help wondering whether the 29-year-old Daniel sees the nation's judicial processes with a clearer and more objective eye than Richard Nixon and John Mitchell. It is not a question of whether Calley was unjustly convicted. Perhaps he was — and all of us would do well to remember that no finding of guilt is final under the American system until the appeals process has been completed. No, the issue is whether that appeals process should be subjected to what could be construed as intimidation by the big boss.

OF COURSE Calley's guilt is still open to challenge. But Richard Nixon's announcement that he would have the last word — which indeed is any President's right and sometimes his obligation in such cases — was tantamount to casting untimely doubt on the integrity of his trial.

It was as if the Supreme Court had announced it would hear the appeal of Charles Manson whatever the findings of lower appeals courts.

INDEED, any reporter can discover with only random research that a lot of people who work for Richard Nixon believe he blundered in prematurely announcing that he would review the case of the young lieutenant convicted by a military court of his peers of murdering unarmed men, women, children and babies at My Lai.

In administration circles, it was foregone conclusion that the President would review the Calley case after it had gone the route of the military's appellate process.

BUT EXCEPT for Attorney General Mitchell and a few other top advisers, no one at the White House believed Nixon would take the unusual step of publicly saying he would rule on Calley's conviction before the military review had even gotten under way.

For in doing so, Nixon was notifying the military judges that their commander-in-chief would be looking over their shoulders as they toiled. These judges thus had a right to suspect that a reversal of the verdict would not find an unfriendly reception in the White House.

An Almost Ride

Around The Rim

Jo Bright

It was late afternoon, and a shimmering sun was slipping below the horizon. Through the dust, its rays bathed the plowed fields in an eerie orange glow. The air was cooling, and night was coming on.

HE STOOD by the highway at the edge of town.

His body was angular and slender, like that of a golfer or basketball player, and he wore blue jeans and a T-shirt. His hair was long, blowing away from his face, feathery and fine, like it had just been washed. It was shiny and beautiful.

AT HIS feet lay a rolled bundle, and in one hand, he held a small cardboard sign which told his destination. The letters were a blur — but then, I was looking at his face — young and clean and sweet.

My destination was only a few blocks down the road, yet I could not drive by without some sort of explanation. Timidly, I pointed to the left, and from him, came a faint smile of understanding.

WHERE was he going? Why? How long had he been trying to get there? What was waiting at the end of the road? Was it better than what he had left behind? Did he have any money — or anyone who cared? Before the night was over, would his shelter be a cell in a small town jail?

Glancing in the rear view mirror, I saw other cars passing him by.

A SICKENING feeling of guilt flooded over me, and I suddenly wanted to hurry back before it was too late. I wanted to say, "Hi, get in son, and I'll take you where you need to go."

But that could have been anywhere. And I didn't have time.

INSTEAD, my lips helplessly formed the words, "I'm sorry," and in my heart, I asked that boy's mother and father, wherever they might be, to forgive me.

Hasty Decision

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — "I'm afraid the boss is in a bind on this Calley thing," said the White House aide. He's right. But he might have added that the bind is of President Nixon's own making, thanks to some appallingly bad advice from administration counselors headed by Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

WASHINGTON — That the Calley verdict should have been mired in partisan politics was foreordained. Like the issue of the war itself and the gruesome record of civilian casualties from American bombing, it cannot be divorced from feelings that run so deep on both sides of the great divide threatening to tear the country apart.

President Nixon's intrusion, coming at an unfortunate moment as the emotional reaction to the verdict was at its height, guaranteed a partisan response.

BUT A singular circumstance insures a maximum of partisanship. It is 576 days to the Presidential election in November, 1972, yet a flock of candidates are swooping around the country as though the voters were going to the polls tomorrow. The interminable campaign is one of the acknowledged curses of the American political system.

WHILE THE Easter holiday meant a respite, the field of candidate and noncandidate candidates is off and running after this merciful pause. Just to look at the schedules of the various Democratic senators rated in the polls on their standing in the Presidential sweepstakes is to feel footsore and weary. All those lunches and dinners with lukewarm chicken smothered in library paste, the interminable introductions of "the man who..." the middle-of-the-night plane flights — the mind boggles at the prospect.

THE CHAMPION is the only announced candidate, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota. His mimeographed schedules read from week to week as though the election were two weeks away. He has just been in California; he was in New York to speak before the Drug and Hospital Workers Union; to Philadelphia later the same day at Temple University and to receive the SANE peace award; back to Washington for the Press Club of Washington dinner for the visiting editors; then to Nashville, Tenn.; two campus speeches in Illinois; and so on and on and on.

SEN. EDMUND Muskie of Maine, the front runner in most of the polls, is setting as stern a pace. Along with two other noncandidate candidates, Birch Bayh of Indiana and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, he is appearing before the Louisiana State Council of the AFL-CIO at Baton Rouge. In Philadelphia on Wednesday, in New Hampshire on Friday and Saturday with a brief sortie into his home state, he goes to Syracuse and Rochester, N. Y., both on the following Monday. He often works over a speech until 3 a.m., catches a flight and fills the day with television appearances and interviews.

A CONSPICUOUS and hard-working noncandidate candidate, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, rounded off the week in New Orleans, at a dinner honoring Louisiana Congressional leaders; Detroit, two speeches, the 16th and 17th; and Boston. He is the speaker at an Israeli bond dinner in Miami the following week and flies from there to Los Angeles for a labor meeting and then to Portland for a series of speeches.

Bayh's schedule is equally crowded. So are those of Humphrey, Harold Hughes and Edward Kennedy.

One may well ask how flesh and blood can endure this. Another question is how these men have any time to think before they utter. A lot has been written about shortening campaigns and nothing has been done about it or is likely to be done. And it is still 576 days to the election.

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the problems of modern American life is that you must perennially check where you stand in the pecking order.

Your position—and it can change fairly quickly—determines whether you are largely a victor or mostly a victim in life's rat race.

Sometimes it's difficult to say, conditions being as puzzling as they are. But there are numerous guidemarks that point the way.

For example, there is little doubt you're still faring pretty well if —

They have to tear down and reconstruct four tunnels in order to get your yacht from one ocean to another.

Your basement has wall-to-wall carpeting.

A glance through your autograph book would show the signatures of Julie Andrews, Joe Frazier, President Nixon, and J. Edgar Hoover—and a note from Norman Vincent Peale expressing disappointment at your inability to accept his invitation to lunch.

You keep an extra pair of golf shoes in the bottom drawer of your office desk.

Instead of a single love nest you maintain two because you're the kind of fellow who never likes to be caught short of anything.

Everyone in your family has his own private checking account and the bank has assigned one of its brightest young vice presidents to handle your affairs.

Your wife has quit calling you chump and now refers to you as "champ."

The college that threw you out in your sophomore year has decided to name a dormitory in your honor—if you'll fork up half the money it will take to build it.

On the other hand, you can figure your social status is way below zero if —

The security guard in the local nickle and dime store watches you very carefully when you pass the jewelry counter.

Your wife not only does laundry for the neighbors—she makes you deliver it.

The Red Cross won't take but half a pint of blood from you.

Whenever you try to start a conversation with your bartender, he turns his back on you and starts polishing a glass.

All your credit cards have expired.

You have saved this year's Easter eggs so you can use them next year.

Billy Graham

Please explain John 9:31 where it says that God does not hear sinners. How can they become Christians unless God answers their prayers?

J.M. You have posed what at first glance seems to be a paradoxical question. But there are no paradoxes in God's Word. To begin with, we are not saved by prayer alone. We are saved by believing. The Bible says, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." If you will read the rest of the verse you will find that it says: "... If any man be a wor-shipper of God and doeth His will, him He heareth." When, by an act of our will we turn to God through Christ, then we are eligible to be heard. Prayer, in the Christian sense, is for Christians. The only petition the sinner should make is, "God be merciful to me a sinner." He then does what the verse in question says to do. He, at that precise moment, if he is sincere, becomes a worshipper of God and a doer of His will, and therefore according to the promise before us, "him He heareth."

A Devotion For Today...

"Let him who is without sin among you be the first to throw a stone at her." (John 8:7, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear God, use the knowledge of our own weaknesses and downfalls to silence our criticism of others, and to stimulate us to honesty and amendment, humility and love. Amen. (From the 'Upper Room')

DEATH SCENE — Odessa police investigators search the area where Mrs. Ruth Maynard, 24, was found slain Feb. 15. The woman's body was found in a pasture northwest of the city with a woman's stocking knotted around her neck. Mrs. Maynard's death is one of several which have investigating officers in Odessa and Dallas puzzled by a maze of theories and suspicions.

Cap Rock Oratory Winners Named

STANTON (SC) — The annual Cap Rock Government in Action Youth Tour Oratorical Contest was won Monday night by Paul Hopper and Becky Liscum. Hopper, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hopper, Route 1, Knott, was the winner in the boys division. He attends Sands High School. Miss Liscum, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Liscum, Midland, won in the girls division. Alternate winners were Lyndel Fletcher, 17, Forsan High School, son of Mrs. Geanine Fletcher, Sterling City, Big Spring, and Annette Couch, 17, Borden County High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Couch, Gail Route, Big Spring. Each contestant gave a five-to-eight-minute talk on the subject "Where Do We Go From Here?" The contest was held at the Cap Rock Willie Wirehand Room in Stanton. Hopper and Miss Liscum will take an all-expense-paid trip to the nation's capital with winners of similar contests sponsored by rural electric cooperatives across Texas. Approximately 80 to 90 young people will be making the trip. They will gather in Waxahachie June 11 to begin the 12-day, chartered bus tour to Washington, D. C. This will be the seventh annual Texas Electric Cooperatives Government-in-Action Youth Tour to Washington. While in the capital city, they will see their government in action, visit with Congressmen and other Government officials, and see many places of historical interest in that area.

PAUL HOPPER BECKY LISCUM

A HAPPIER MOTHER — Mrs. Ruth Wabel sits in the kitchen of her Connellsville, Pa., home and ponders the stories of her son, Lance Cpl. Charles Stewart. He lost both legs as a result of a land mine explosion in Vietnam, and is hospitalized at the Philadelphia Naval Base. He was charged with striking a nurse who was about to take a blood sample before an arm operation. The nurse received a lacerated cornea during the incident. The charges were dropped rather than subjecting Stewart to the rigors of a Special Court-Martial.

MURDER

(Continued From Page 1) investigators have been unable to determine a motive. Wallace said the autopsies did not establish if any of the victims had been raped. The bodies were too badly decomposed. If neither raped nor robbed, what have you got, he was asked. "You got some nut, probably," he replied. Wallace was asked if the utter lack of clues were not extraordinary. "It's unusual," he replied. "It indicates a number of things. One, the person or persons did not know these girls. But there again, it's just a theory." Police Chief Jack Tomlin said it indicates "a lone operator, a man who catches women in lonely circumstances and acts on it. It's going to be a difficult one to crack." "But it doesn't take a smart man either."

WRONG STREET

Investigators did not overlook the fact that two of the victims worked in taverns and the third was last seen sipping a beer in a bar. Chief Tomlin said this angle was explored thoroughly but produced nothing. "We've gone down many many blind alleys," Wallace said. "They've all turned out to be the wrong street." "Somewhere, somehow," said Ector County Sheriff A. M. "Slim" Gabrel, whose office also is working vigorously on the case, "we must be overlooking something obvious." "It's entirely possible," said Tomlin, "that all three deaths—the three we know about—could have been work of a psychopathic killer."

Investigators have found no trace of the missing Kermit woman since portions of her clothing, including a dress and slip, were discovered along a highway leading to Odessa. The articles appeared to have been slashed with a knife or scissors.

BEAUTY FINALIST

Her husband, Gene, returned home from work the night she disappeared to find the sewing machine light on, the ceiling lights on, her shoes under the sewing table and the children asleep in their bedrooms. The young Dallas woman, Deborah Palmer, a former finalist in the Miss California contest, vanished last September. Just last month, officers discovered one of her suitcases on a road between Richardson and Plano. Besides the Palmer case North Texas authorities are seeking leads to four murders, at least two of which police believe were committed by the same man. The dead: —Linda Phillips, daughter of the superintendent of schools at nearby Kaufman. Her mutilated body was found last August on a farm road south of Forney. —Mrs. Beverly Jean Hope, 36, wife of a construction company executive, bludgeoned to death last October in her $100,000 home in North Dallas. —Myrtle Ann Etheridge, 19, stabbed to death, her body found Jan. 5 in a shallow creek near her Plano apartment three days after she left to go to a laundromat.

THROAT SLASHED

—Mrs. Barbara Moorman, 22, a hospital employe from Irving, her body found near Grapevine last February after she apparently was abducted on her way home from work. She had been strangled and her throat was slashed. Like Ruth Maynard and Linda Cougar, a pair of hose had been wrapped around Mrs. Moorman's throat. Dallas Assistant Police Chief Paul McCaghen noted that both Linda Phillips and Barbara Moorman were chosen by the killer in the same general area. Both had their throats slashed, the clock times of death were almost identical and both apparently were followed in their

Students Back In Classroom

Students in most area schools were back in class today after the long Easter weekend. The Stanton, Grady and Klondike school systems will resume classes the regular time Wednesday morning. The Westbrook school system will start classes Monday at the regular time today. The Dawson County school at Welch started class Monday and the Big Spring, Forsan, Colorado City, Glasscock County, Snyder, Lamesa, Sands and Flower Grove school systems were scheduled to resume classes at the regular time today.

Frozen Funds Fuss Heats Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee said today Congress may have to refuse a administration spending requests if President Nixon doesn't unfreeze nearly $13 billion in appropriated funds. At issue, said Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., is whether the executive or legislative branch will determine spending priorities. Ellender expressed doubt a suit against the administration, as proposed by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, would solve the problem. But he said Congress has other alternatives "if it decides to get tough."

One possibility, he said, is "for the members of Congress, individually and as a body, to say 'no' to other policies whose approval is being sought by the President."

"It may be that in the long run this will prove the most effective," he added. Ellender said that "although in the past I have tried to judge each issue on its merits, I myself am being brought around slowly to this point of view, particularly in areas where it seems the welfare of

Table Tennis Serious Affair In Red China

PEKING (AP) — Members of the U. S. table tennis team are excitedly looking forward to what promises to be the high point of their week's visit to China, a meeting Wednesday with Premier Chou En-lai. The prospect of talking with the Communist Chinese leader outweighed the team's anticipation of its first matches this afternoon with Chinese table tennis stars. The 15 Americans were told this morning of the meeting with Chou as they left their hotel to practice for today's matches. The American-Chinese table tennis bouts were expected to attract a capacity stadium crowd of 20,000 spectators. U. S. team member John Tannehill, a university student from Middleport, Ohio, returned to the hotel after becoming ill this morning, raising the prospect that the American team may be one man short in the exhibition matches. The other members of the U.S. team were in high spirits and eager for their first meetings with Chinese players. Besides their meeting with Chou, the Americans on Wednesday will visit the Summer Palace on Peking's outskirts and attend a performance of a Chinese opera. They fly to Shanghai Thursday morning, where they will spend the night before going on to Canton. They are scheduled to return to Hong Kong Saturday. The weather was clear and sunny Monday as the American visitors journeyed to the 2,400-year-old Great Wall of China, and Tannehill pronounced it a "museum piece" which the Chinese need as a reminder of their ancient culture. EYES OPENED Said Mrs. Erroll Resek of New York: "If this had been in the United States it would have been a great tourist attraction and it would be mutilated and cheapened by discarded paper and garbage."

The Americans also visited Chinghua University and met a shy jet propulsion expert who taught at the California Institute of Technology and returned to China in 1946. The scientist, Chen Weichang, reported that his students criticized his teaching methods during the 1968 Cultural Revolution and "my eyes were opened." The university was the scene of a bitter struggle between rival factions at that time and reopened only six months ago. Its enrollment has been cut from 20,000 to 2,800 and the students now are selected by workers, peasants and soldiers after they have worked in factories or on farms. Team captain Jack Howard, 38, of Seattle, Wash., a computer programmer, inspected a computer made by students and said: "It is a remarkable achievement. Very few students can build a computer."

DEATHS

Pfc. Arthur Hernandez, Last Rites Wednesday

Final tributes to Pfc. Arthur Hernandez Jr., 21, will be paid in services at the St. Thomas Catholic Church at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday. Rosary will be said at 8 p.m. today in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Pfc. Hernandez was killed in Vietnam April 1 when an artillery round fired by friendly forces landed near where he was on a military mission. The Rev. Leo J. F. St. John, pastor of St. Thomas church, will officiate. Burial will be in the Mount Olive Cemetery under direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. Pfc. Hernandez had entered service April 22, 1970, and went overseas Jan. 13, 1971, as a member of C company of the 2nd Air Mobile Battalion, 101st Airborne Division. He was born here Aug. 17, 1949, graduated from Big Spring High School in May, 1968, and attended Howard County Junior College. Before enlisting in the Army, he was employed at the Big Spring State Hospital. He took his basic and other training at Ft. Ord, Calif., Ft. Benning, Ga., and Huachuca, Ariz. Surviving him are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hernandez Sr., Big Spring; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Ann Rodriguez, Lawton, Okla., and Linda Sue Hernandez, Big Spring; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hernandez, and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Susana Bonilla of California; eight uncles and one nephew.

Gordon Tunnell, Stanton Farmer

STANTON (SC) — Gordon Tunnell, 82, died Monday at his residence in Stanton after a lengthy illness. Services will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the First United Methodist Church in Stanton officiating. Results were announced today for two duplicate bridge sessions held last week at Big Spring Country Club.

Wednesday winners were Mrs. D. A. Brazel and Mrs. Ward Hall, first; Mrs. W. J. Harris and Mrs. Ayra McGann, second; and Mrs. R. E. Dobbins and Mrs. Jack Irons, third.

During the Friday play, first place went to Mrs. J. D. Robertson and Mrs. John Stone, with Mrs. Riley Foster and Mrs. E. O. Ellington tied for second and third places with Mrs. McGann and Mrs. Ward Hall. Mrs. J. H. Parks and Mrs. Myrtle Lee placed fourth.

Reports were heard from Mrs. J. C. Greenhaw and Mrs. Glen Cox of Lenorah on the sectional tournament which they attended in Albuquerque, N.M.

Soil Makers Get Tips On Planting

"Planting is the art of blending pleasing shapes and textures," said Johnny Johansen to the Organic Soil Makers Monday at the U.S. Experiment Station.

"Plants and Planting" was the program title. Johansen talked about plants native to West Texas such as the mesquite, cedar and Texas buckeye; and described plants adaptable to this climate and soil, such as the Arizona ash, mulberry, pecan and desert willow. He said one important aspect of gardening is that a person do it, "for love and fun only."

Following the program, Dr. Paul Koshi, vice president, helped each member test soil from their lawn to see what organic material it contained.

Adrian Randall will present the program on supplemental fertilization at the next meeting, at 7:30 p.m., May 10 at the experiment station.

Judge Speaks To Chaparral Club

County Judge A. G. Mitchell spoke about the purpose and organization of various county offices for the Chaparral Club Monday in the home of Mrs. Harold Talbot, 409 Washington. He also discussed county laws and their effect on residents. Mrs. Adrian Randall was the hostess.

In other business, new officers were elected who will be installed at a salad luncheon meeting in May. They are Mrs. Rayford Gillilan, president; Mrs. Paul Sheedy, vice president; Mrs. Jack Murdock, secretary; and Mrs. Perry Chandler, treasurer.

L. Alexanders Announce Birth

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Lynn Alexander, 1507-A Sycamore, announce the birth of a daughter, Carrie Lynn, born at 1:40 p.m., April 7 at Medical Center Memorial Hospital. The infant weighed 7 pounds, 4½ ounces. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James Norman, 1507-B Sycamore, and the paternal grandmother is Mrs. Dorothy Alexander, Arlington, Texas.

International Club Planning Dinner

The International Women's Club has canceled its Wednesday meeting, and instead, will observe its 10th anniversary Sunday in the home of Mrs. Charles Walker, No. 7 Albrook. Members' husbands will be guests at a 6 p.m. buffet dinner which will feature dishes from various countries.

The Howard County Unit of the American Cancer Society will meet for a noon luncheon Wednesday in the Officers Open Mess at Webb Air Force Base.

Wedding Ceremony Performed In Kermit

The wedding of Mrs. Evelyn Reynolds and Dwaine Hanson, both of Kermit, was performed Wednesday in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Laughlin, 1642 W. 25th, Odessa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hanson, 2313 Mishler, Big Spring.

The nuptial rites were read by the Rev. Jack Tatum of Bellevue Baptist Church, Kermit.

The bride, who wore a yellow carnation corsage, was attired in a street-length dress of ivory satin with Empire bodice overlaid with matching chiffon. The high-rise waistline was circled with a chiffon cummerbund.

The bride's daughter, Elisa Reynolds, served as ring bearer.

A graduate of Odessa High School, the bride received a BA degree at Sul Ross College and is teaching in an elementary school at Kermit. The bridegroom was graduated from Big Spring High School, and attended Howard County Junior College. He is employed by Dowell Chemical Company, Kermit, where the couple is residing at 706 S. Ave. C.

After the ceremony, the couple was honored at a reception where house party members were fellow teachers of the bride at Kermit. The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth over green linen and accented with an arrangement of yellow carnations and silver appointments. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lavell Hanson, Pecos; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Scott and Mrs. E. T. Scott, all of Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. Vancil Scott, Midland, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Scudder and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Johnson, all of Kermit.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Hanson left on a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Recently my teenage daughter and I redecorated her bedroom. She wanted to dispose of the rather expensive custom-made drapes on the windows and get some new frillier ones, but I did not feel this would be practical.

We had covered her double closet doors with a wildly flowered adhesive-backed plastic paper, so as a compromise we cut flowers out of this same patterned adhesive-backed plastic and stuck the cut-outs at random all over the custom drapes.

It made her room look much more "girly-fied," and she is now quite pleased with her curtains.

My "scotch nature" is happy, and any time we want to restore the drapes to their original custom look, we can just remove the cutouts. Julia Welsh

What a groovy Mom you are. Isn't it amazing what a little "Flower Power" can do for a teenage girl's room! Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: I have read about many women who put notes in their husband's lunch boxes. Well, my husband travels a lot so I put notes in his suitcase. They are just little "I-love-you" notes and "We-miss-you" notes from the kids and me that I tuck into the folded clothes, travel alarm, shaving kit, etc.

He says they really help to cheer him up when he's out on the road away from home. . . . A Reader

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE: Let husbands know they are as indispensable as they think they are. . . . Mildred Z.

DEAR HELOISE:

If you have a little one who is a problem eater, sometimes it will help if you will buy a few small dishes that fit the little one's size. Like an extra small stemmed dessert dish; a small novelty tea cup or glass; or an extra small saucer. Often they will eat several helpings and like it. . . . Pat

DEAR HELOISE:

After years of fishing around with brushes that have handles that are too short, and swabs that the cotton tip falls off, and really getting nowhere, I finally hit on the perfect idea for cleaning the crumbs out from between all the wires in the toaster.

I used a straw and blew them out!!!!

After I've blown, they fall into the tray below and are no trouble at all to clean out. . . . Now my toaster is as clean as a whistle. . . . Mrs. J. T. Minat

DEAR HELOISE:

This hint is for those who make up ice cream parfaits and store them in their freezers.

When they are ready to be stored away for a few days, I cover the top of each parfait glass with plastic wrap, put two paper napkins around the stem and glass, then slip them into six-pack beverage cartons. The cartons are easy to slide in and out of the freezing compartment without danger of ripping or chipping.

Remove them just before it is time to serve, top with more ice cream, nuts and a cherry, or with whipped cream, and you have a glorified dessert without last minute preparation. . . . Ruby McCarthy

This column is written for you the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of the Big Spring Herald. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

VD Epidemic Striking 'The Nicest Families'

Nice kids? Sure they are, but if they don't know the facts, they, too, may fall victim to the VD epidemic that has now zoomed to more than 2,500,000-reported cases per year!

Starting Sunday in The Herald, columnist George C. Thosteson, M.D., tells how we can, how we must "Stop the VD Epidemic." No one is safe, as more and more teens, even pre-teens find themselves in the (fragile grip of venereal disease.

How does one contract VD? Avoid it? How can one be sure he hasn't got it? Dr. Thosteson spells it out and explodes myths and old wives' tales, starting Sunday in The Herald.

Baby Shower Held For Mrs. Owen Wormser

Mrs. Owen Wormser was honored with a surprise baby shower Monday evening in the home of Mrs. James Clevenger, 22-A Albrook. Mrs. Jack Hallett was cohostess for the salad supper.

The table was covered with a pink cloth, and centered with a cake which was flanked by twin candelabra with pink candles. Silver appointments were used.

Mrs. Hallett presided at the guest register, and gifts were displayed in an Early American cradle.

Mrs. Wormser was attired in a lavender pantsuit. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Clevenger's mother, Mrs. Phil Brislaw of Pullman, Wash., and Mrs. Virginia Moore of Weatherford, Okla.

Eagles Will Help With VA Games

The Odessa Eagles Aerie will be in Big Spring April 20 to conduct games for patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital, it was announced Monday at the Eagles Auxiliary meeting in the Settles Hotel. The Big Spring Aerie will conduct games June 8 at the hospital. ARMED RESISTANCE CRUMBLING FAST IN EAST PAKISTAN

Afraid Of Informers, Terrified Of Reprisals

CHUADANGA, East Pakistan (AP) — Armed resistance in much of rebellious East Pakistan is crumbling fast before the swiftly advancing columns of President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan's army from West Pakistan.

A reported shipment of Indian arms to the secessionist forces is likely to do little to prolong the civil war, or war of liberation, as the Bengalis describe their struggle.

There are few visible preparations for a lengthy guerrilla campaign. If one ever gets under way, many prominent officials of Sheikh Mujibur Rahman's Awami League fear it inevitably will fall under Communist leadership.

The Awami, which enjoys overwhelming support in East Pakistan, is led by middle-class professional men better equipped for courtroom battles than for guerrilla conflict in the swamps and rice fields. They believe the tougher, more disciplined Communists, backed by Marxists in neighboring India, would take over the direction of any guerrilla movement.

The Pakistani army has been heavily reinforced from the country's western wing and is rapidly fanning out from Dacca in all directions.

For miles around the provincial capital, the army is in firm control. Pakistan's green and white national flag flies from every second village hut.

The people are afraid of informers and terrified of reprisals should they be identified as supporters of Bangla Desh, the Bengali nation proclaimed by Sheikh Mujib.

NO CHOICE

Thousands have fled the capital, but Dacca nevertheless is slowly returning to something like normal.

"We are functioning at gunpoint, we have no alternative," said one Bengali civil servant.

Crossing the wide Ganges River unopposed, the Pakistani army has occupied the city of Pabna. Troops were reported swinging southwest toward the Bangla Desh stronghold of Kushtia.

Something close to panic seized its rag-tag band of defenders, and there was a wild rush to flee the town. A fleet of trucks, immobilized by lack of gasoline, was left to the advancing enemy. No effort was made to destroy them.

It was in Kushtia that some 200 Pakistani troops were massacred by Bangla Desh Muslims, and the town fears bloody reprisals is inevitable.

POLICE FIGHTING

The Pakistani troops also are spreading out from their cantonment at Jessore, 25 miles from the Indian border. They have captured the northeastern city of Sylhet and are pushing steadily north and northwest.

Resistance appears toughest north of Dacca, where strong elements of the East Bengal Regiment, the East Pakistan Rifles and the police are fighting.

The Pakistani army has suffered many casualties in this area, according to reports reaching foreign consuls in Dacca. The bodies are being flown back to West Pakistan on the planes that bring in troop reinforcements by the thousands.

TALK IT OVER

But for the most part, Bangla Desh forces are chronically inadequate to meet the firepower and comparative efficiency of the Pakistani army. They are short of trained officers, lack logistic support and are running short of gasoline and transport. Their weapons date back to World War II, and they have nothing with which to combat Pakistan's air force.

Even rudimentary military discipline is lacking. At the Ganges ferry station of Goadundo Ghat, Bangla Desh defenders pulled down their flag and hoisted that of Pakistan on the strength of a rumor that gunboats were on their way and Pakistani troops were preparing to cross the river.

Few defense preparations have been made in towns under Bangla Desh control. A foxhole is a rarity, sandbags even more so. Few officials are able to give a clear order without a 10-minute discussion.

The Bengali generally seems more at ease with his umbrella than with a rifle.

HERE'S HOW

A trainload of Indian weapons apparently has reached the secessionist forces. A small truck loaded with rifles, grenades and ammunition was waiting for a boat at a river crossing near Mandaripur, 70 miles east of the Indian border. A Bengali said the weapons were part of a secret consignment that arrived from India by train 13 days ago.

He reported that at least one Indian army major was instructing rebel forces in the use of weapons.

He claimed the consignment consisted of 50,000 rifles—probably an exaggeration—together with light and heavy machine guns. He said the Pakistani air force bombed a river boat carrying part of the shipment, but the bombs fell wide.

Bill Increasing Railroad Retirement Benefits Looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is considering legislation to raise pensions for railroad employees who, unlike most other retired Americans, did not benefit from this year's Social Security hike.

A bill boosting benefits 10 per cent in the already troubled retirement fund comes before the House when it returns from an Easter break next week.

The Commerce Committee approved the measure but said the $118-million cost, on top of an unfunded $132-million increase last year, would impose "a serious potential drain" on the system which has three retirees taking out for every two workers contributing.

Effective over an 18-month period retroactive to Jan. 1, the new hike would give Congress time to review the retirement system's financial structure and study a special commission report due Dec. 31.

The committee noted rail retirees are not eligible for Social Security, recently boosted 10 per cent, and are having difficulty keeping up with rising living costs.

Without an overhaul, the committee said, the retirement fund will be bankrupt in 20 years at the present expenditure rate.

As of March 1, the committee said, the fund contained $4.282 billion, mainly from payroll taxes on employees and employers. Pensions are paid 1.6 million beneficiaries at a monthly rate of almost $154 million not counting last year's hike.

Houston Ship Channel 'Most Poisoned' In U. S.

HOUSTON (AP) — A report by Ralph Nader that charges the Houston Ship Channel is "the most poisoned and potentially the most explosive body of water in the United States" drew angry replies from state and local officials Monday.

The description of the channel came in a 700-page report, "Water Wasteland," released Monday in Washington and refers to the 50-mile channel that links Houston with the Gulf of Mexico.

Hugh C. Yantis, executive director of the Texas Water Quality Board, said the report was "inadequate in scope and shallow in judgment."

"I say this, knowing that in other areas, Mr. Nader has done some valuable work for the public," Yantis said. "But in this case I don't think he did an adequate study and don't think his report is acceptable."

The report, compiled by a task force directed by Nader, charged that a breakdown in pollution enforcement at all government levels was to blame for the channel's plight.

"If you will consider the size of Texas, the scope of pollution problem, the size of the state agency, the number of legislative committees, all of whom are professional workers out of the pollution problem, all of whom are staffed with relatively honest and competent people, it is not conceivable that a young attorney with limited technical training, on a short visit to one section of Texas, could learn as much as the Nader report professes to be able to say," Yantis said.

Yantis said no Nader investigator talked to him, nor, apparently to any of his staff or any water board members. Dr. Walter A. Quebedeaux, Harris County pollution control director, said a Nader agent visited him for several hours about six months ago to talk about the channel.

RAPS CONCLUSION
He disputed the report's conclusion that the channel is a big fire hazard. He said he told the investigator that in the early 1950s, "We had an oil covered channel but were able, through state and federal prosecutions . . . to clean the oil from the channel's surface, get the leaky tankers and barges out of the channel and marine life living up and down the channel except for approximately a mile." "Then the state passed in 1961 the water act which afforded protection under the permit system," Quebedeaux said he told the Nader representative. "These permits were issued without any logic to them and still are. The problem is not oil, it's soluble material in the water which is toxic to marine life. I think we've gotten around the inflammable part, although the hazard of a spill or mis-leading a boat is still a possibility."

Quebedeaux said the Nader investigator "had that information when he wrote that report, but he turned it around. I don't think Nader's boys took too long to look at the situation here."

No Marriage

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem is the man I am living with. I love him very much. We have two kids and we aren't married yet. He always has some excuse. Sometimes he stays away from home a week at a time. The only time I am sure of where he is when they detain him in jail. He makes good money and he's not stingy with it.

I hate to leave him because everything we have is paid for. And like I said, I love the guy. Write me back and tell me what to do.

DEAR UNDECIDED: It's my guess that you've already decided that living with him is better than living without him. Face it, as long as you love the guy you'll always find a reason for not leaving him. DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 18 and she's engaged to a young man who is 22. They cause. Sometimes he stays away from home a week at a time. The only time I am sure of where he is when they detain him in jail. He makes good money and he's not stingy with it.

DEAR ABBY: There is a school teacher in Hamilton, Ohio, who is either very mean or very stupid. She is constantly asking the kids to write something about their dads. What they do, how much daddy means to them, etc. She has asked the kids to make up poems about their fathers, to write an imaginary letter to their fathers, etc.

Yesterday my son came home and told me that this teacher gave the class another "father" assignment. This time each one had to stand up and describe his father. One kid, with tears in his eyes said, "My parents are divorced, and I don't remember my father very well."

Abby, doesn't that teacher know that some children have no fathers through death or divorce?

I hope you think this is important enough to use.

OHIO MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: I do, and I shall.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

'Cold Sores'

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes "cold sores" to appear within a radius of six or eight inches in the same area of the body? I have been getting them in a most inconvenient place to apply medication, the back uppermost part of the thigh. They sometimes appear at intervals of six months, more or less, and sometimes before one has healed another has started within an inch or so. What causes them and is there any way to stop this trouble? Doctors have given me ointments--R.M.L. I'd call this trouble herpes, or recurrent herpes, rather than "cold sores" which is a term used for such sores near or on the lip.

It is difficult for me to try to be very sure what some trouble is without seeing the patient, but in this case I would suggest a probability: a dormant virus. In other words, it is very similar to shingles, but with the virus having periods of inactivity, then becoming active and affecting a nerve root in the area.

Why does it stay quiet for a time, then break out? Probably because of some temporary lowering of your resistance, whether from fatigue or some other elusive factor. Some women have a similar trouble that breaks out during the menstrual period. Various remedies are favored by different physicians to relieve itching or pain, but the fact remains that we have no specific medication to overcome virus diseases. The one optimistic thought to keep in mind is that the body itself in time usually conquers the virus even though we have no specific way of doing it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We would like some information on stomach hernia. At first we thought my husband might be having trouble with his gall bladder, but X rays didn't show anything wrong. So his doctor said he'd like to see X rays of his stomach and they were taken. Over the phone he said these X rays showed a hernia at the top of the stomach. We would like a little more on this type of hernia.--J.E.C.

It's not actually a hernia of the stomach, but a hernia (or enlargement) of an aperture where the gullet passes through the diaphragm. This is at the juncture of the esophagus and top of the stomach. Your trouble is that this condition goes by so many names: "stomach hernia," as you call it, or hiatal hernia, or hiatus hernia, or even "upside-down stomach," which is a misnomer.

For instructions on how to handle this type of problem, send for my booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It," and it will tell you what you want to know. For a copy send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of The Herald.

Shingles can be a painful disease! To receive a copy of my booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Gladly, Pal!

Bovines Seek 2nd Loop Win

Big Spring seeks to climb out of a tie for the cellar position in District 5-AAAA in a 4 p.m. game with San Angelo here today.

The Steers, San Angelo and Abilene Cooper have identical records of 1-5. Today's contest winds up first round competition in the race.

Big Spring's only win came at the expense of Abilene Cooper on the road. Over-all, Big Spring is a lackluster 4-13 while San Angelo is 5-14.

All teams in the district will be in action again Friday, because of the conference track and tennis meets, which will be staged here Saturday.

Joe Dominez, a senior right-hander, likely will hurl for San Angelo today. Big Spring could counter with David Carter, who beat Cooper, 3-1.

Big Spring is apt to start Pete Shaffer behind the plate, Grady Ray at first base, Roddy Caffey at second, Rickey Steen at short, Tommy Fletcher at third, Gatlin Jones or Tommy Tune in left field, David Engler in center and Tommy Brewer in right.

The Longhorns go to Abilene Friday for a contest with Abilene High.

Blyleven Fashions 2nd Shutout Win

By The Associated Press

Young Bert Blyleven is pitching to spots... and has American League batters seeing them. The Kansas City Royals became the 20-year-old Minnesota right-hander's second consecutive shutout victim Monday night, succumbing 2-0 on three hits. Last week, Blyleven blanked Milwaukee on four hits.

The victory, coupled with Milwaukee's 5-0 loss to Oakland, put the Twins atop the American League West by one-half game in their quest for a third straight championship. Elsewhere, Boston outlasted Washington 10-7 and California nipped the Chicago White Sox 3-2. Baltimore, Cleveland, Detroit and the New York Yankees weren't scheduled.

UP IN 1970

Blyleven became the youngest player in the majors last season when he joined the pitching staff of the Twins last June. The first batter to face him hit a home run but he won the game and finished with a 10-9 record and 3.18 earned run average.

"I have more control," the Dutch-born hurler said after spoiling the Royals' home debut before a record crowd of 32,728, including Satchel Paige, a native son, who threw out the first ball. "I've been concentrating more in two games this season than ever before. I'm pitching more to spots. I'm putting the ball where I want to put it and I'm getting ahead of a lot of batters, which is 90 per cent of pitching."

The Twins scored off Dick Drago in the second inning on Harmon Killebrew's double and Jim Holt's single and got their second run in the seventh when Cesar Tovar doubled and Rod Carew singled.

Blyleven gave up a double to Cookie Rojas and single to Paul Schaal in the third inning and a single to Amos Otis in the seventh. The third-inning hits came with none out but Blyleven fanned Drago and Killebrew made a diving backhand stab of Freddie Patek's liner and stepped on third for a double play.

HANGS ON

The Red Sox, who had lost three in a row, erupted for six runs in the seventh inning, three more in the eighth and held on "despite a five-run Washington counter-rally in the last of the ninth.

Held to one hit — Rico Petrocelli's fourth-inning single — for six innings, the Red Sox broke loose after a walk to Duane Josephson, Billy Conigliaro's single and Doug Griffin's bunt single loaded the bases.

PITCHING TOUGH — This is 20-year-old Bert Blyleven, a pitcher for the Minnesota Twins of the American League's Western Division. Thus far this season, Blyleven has pitched two consecutive shutouts, helping put the Twins atop their division by one-half game in their quest for a third straight division championship.

Colts, Jets To Clash In Sept. 19 Opener

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore's Super Bowl champion Colts, with or without Johnny Unitas, and the New York Jets, with or without Joe Namath, meet Sunday, Sept. 19 on the opening weekend of the 1971 National Football League schedule announced today.

The Colts-Jets game is one of 13 on the kickoff weekend, which ends with the resumption of the extremely-successful Monday night series of national television broadcasts—the first spotlighting Minnesota and Detroit, who finished 1-2 in the National Conference's Central Division last season.

In other games on the opening week's program, Dallas defending NFC champions will be at Buffalo, Kansas City at San Diego, Los Angeles at New Orleans, Miami at Denver, New York Giants at Green Bay, Oakland at New England, Philadelphia at Cincinnati, Pittsburgh at Chicago, San Francisco at Atlanta, Washington at St. Louis and Houston at Cleveland.

But there seems little doubt that the games at Baltimore and Detroit will attract most of the attention as the NFL begins its second season of struggle under its new conference alignment with four teams playing in new parks.

Both the Colts' and Jets' quarterbacks remain question-marks at this juncture of the off-season—Unitas with a ruptured Achilles tendon suffered in a paddle ball game and Namath with a broken wrist suffered while he was padded by the Colts in their first game last season.

The question of who will be at quarterback for the Central Division champion Vikings also should be settled when they open against the Lions with either holdover Gary Cuozzo or trade-acquired Norm Snead at the helm.

The Oakland-New England game will mark the regular season opening of the Patriots' new Schaefer Stadium in Foxboro, Mass. Philadelphia opens its Veterans Stadium Sept. 26 against Dallas, Dallas bows at Texas Stadium on Oct. 3 against Washington and San Francisco makes its debut in Candlestick Park on Oct. 19 against Los Angeles.

The schedule runs through 182 season regular games, winding up on Sunday, Dec. 26. The weekend of December 26 will be turned over to the NFL and American Conference divisional playoffs before the championship games on Jan. 2 determine the Super Bowl entries.

Under the two-conference structure, each team will play three AFC-NFC inter-conference games, except Detroit and Denver, who each will play four. The NFL won 27 games in the first year of inter-conference competition to 12 for the AFC. There was one tie.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: Outfielder RON SWOBODA, traded recently by the New York Mets to Montreal:

"People think I've been carrying a grudge against the Mets, but it's not true. Maybe Gil Hodges did want to get me out of his hair and maybe I've used too much flair. But maybe the manager would admit he'd like to have this kind of enthusiasm from everybody. No manager can be God to all 25 of his players and no manager can know everything about them. I think it'll help me to play for another manager. But I'm not mad and I have no regrets."

HOUSTON POST: "Joe Garagiola tells the story of a Chicago Cub pitcher who was once removed from a game as a health measure — a health measure for Frank Baumholtz. Baumholtz is getting poison ivy from climbing the walls," the manager told the pitcher."

DICK STUART, ex-major leaguer, who recently admitted he was one of the first to use drugs in the big leagues: "I injected my glove five times, but it died of palsy."

PRESTON GOMEZ, manager of the San Diego Padres: "Fidel Castro was a lousy ball player. He had bad hands."

UCLA basketball coach JOHNNY WOODEN, following Adolph Rupp to the speaker's platform during a recent coaches convention: "Why bother with a little wind when you've just had a hurricane."

SPARKY ANDERSON, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, suppressing talk that the Los Angeles Dodgers are the team to beat in the N.L. West: "Let's look at the papers Oct. 1 and see who's in first place."

MELVIN DURSLAG, in TV Guide magazine: "In the context of today's ticket prices, baseball remains the biggest bargain sports. Its seats cost roughly half those for pro football, basketball and hockey. It operates on the Las Vegas principle — it isn't what it costs a customer to get in; it's what it costs to get out. By luring him to the stadium for a modest sum, baseball gets his money at the concessions stand, in the souvenir booths and in the parking lot. And, with a daily show to offer on radio and television, it fattens up from these sources."

GEORGE BLANDA, veteran quarterback for the Oakland Raiders: "Football gives me a chance to prove that old folks aren't really over the hill. Why, I'm getting to the point where I feel I can top everything I've done before. I probably would have retired from pro football if the Raiders had won the Super Bowl last season — but I'd like to go out on top. I couldn't play anything but sub-quarterback. I just can't play every day... Daryle Lamonica is our quarterback and we're going to win with him. But I like the feeling I'm going to be in there if anything happens. I wouldn't stay around if it were just to kick."

JACK GALLAGHER, Houston scribe: "Gary Player's $25,000 check at Jacksonville came out to $6,400 after Uncle Sam collected $17,000 and Gary's caddy received $1,600. That's right, he's in the 70 per cent tax bracket and Uncle Sam is first in line."

Bills To Test Dallas Pokes

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A pre-season return match with Super Bowl champion Baltimore and a regular season opener against the Buffalo Bills highlights the Dallas Cowboys 1971 National Football League schedule.

The Cowboys, losers to Baltimore in the 1971 Super Bowl, open pre-season play August 6 against the Los Angeles Rams in Los Angeles. They host New Orleans Aug. 14 and Cleveland Aug. 21 and travel to Houston Aug. 26 before playing the Colts in Baltimore Sept. 4.

The Cowboys host Kansas City Sept. 11 in their pre-season finale.

The Cowboys open the regular season with road games at Buffalo Sept. 19 and Philadelphia Sept. 26 then return home for games against Washington Oct. 3 and New York Giants Oct. 11.

The remainder of the Cowboys' schedule: Oct. 17, at New Orleans; Oct. 24, New England at Dallas; Oct. 31, at Chicago; Nov. 7, at St. Louis; Nov. 14, Philadelphia at Dallas; Nov. 21, at Washington; Nov. 25, Los Angeles at Dallas; Dec. 4, New York Jets at Dallas; Dec. 12, at New York Giants; Dec. 18, St. Louis at Dallas.

Dallas is meeting New England (formerly Boston) and Buffalo (formerly Boston) and Buffalo for the first time. It will be the first regular season game with the Jets, although the teams have met twice in pre-season play.

Former Resident Receives Appointment In Academy

Michael J. Moorhead, a native of Big Spring who is now a senior at Franklin High School, Franklin, La., has received an appointment to attend the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Daughtrey and attended the Big Spring school until 1965. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harrington of Coahoma and Mrs. T. W. Daughtrey of Colorado City.

Mike plans to play football for the academy. He was part of a rugged defensive team at Franklin that allowed an average of only one touchdown a game. The Franklin club advanced to the state quarterfinals in Class AAA competition last fall. Young Moorhead was chosen to the all-district second team as defensive tackle.

Mike transferred to Franklin from a school in Arizona his junior year and has been active in many school functions.

He was named the most handsome boy in school and has been on the honor roll throughout high school.

Astro Rally Is Quelled By Sinker Ball Artist

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sinker ball artist Frank Linzy, once the scourge of National League relievers, has flashed at least a temporary return to form for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The bespectacled Oklahoman, just another member of an ineffective Cardinal bullpen following his acquisition from the San Francisco Giants in 1970, came on with none out in the ninth inning Monday night to quell a budding Houston rally, 5-4.

He was one of three relief specialists preserving the victory for lefthander Steve Carlton, 2-0, whose wildness forced him out in the seventh inning.

Moe Drabowsky and George Brunet couldn't hold and the Astros moved to 5-4. Bob Watson and Denis Menke worked Brunet for singles leading off the ninth before Linzy came on.

He caught Doug Rader looking at a third strike, induced Johnny Edwards to ground into a force play at second and retired Roger Metzger on a ground ball to Dick Schofield.

"It's a disappointment any time you don't have a good season," the 30-year-old Linzy reflected. His combined 5-6 mark and 4.66 ERA for the Cardinals and Giants last season made up his worst NL campaign.

"With relievers, a man in the late innings can go from real good to real bad in a couple of days. It has to do with a lot of different things, but if I can keep the ball down I'm usually okay," Linzy said.

Stargell Blow In 11th Wins

Willie Stargell did not succeed in his first five tries Monday night, stranding four Pittsburgh runners along the way. But he got an extra chance in the 11th inning and delivered the game-winning hit as the Pirates shaded Philadelphia 4-3.

Stargell, who had missed a homer by a foot in the ninth inning, and had popped up with two men on in the seventh, worked the count to 2-2 against reliever Dick Selma in the 11th. Next came a perfect pitch.

"I was jammed," said Stargell. "I got the pitch where I wanted it," said Selma. Still, Willie drilled it for the single that scored Dave Cash with Pittsburgh's winning run.

Elsewhere in the National League Monday, Cincinnati won its first game, belting Atlanta 7-3 with four home runs. San Francisco shut out San Diego 5-0. St. Louis clipped Houston 5-4 and Los Angeles topped Chicago 4-3.

Cash had opened the 11th for the Pirates with a walk and raced to third on Richie Hebner's third hit of the game. Roberto Clemente struck out bringing up Stargell, who was 0-for-5 at that point.

Bob Robertson's two-out homer had tied the game for the Pirates in the sixth after Don Money had rifled a three-run homer to account for all the Phillie runs.

Small Fry Bowling League Shapes Up

Organization of a Midget-Bantam summer bowling league is in prospect, and George Robertson, secretary, has asked that youngsters between the age of seven and 13 sign up.

They may register either at the Bowl-a-Rama, or by calling George at 263-1504. An organizational meeting has been set for 4 p.m., May 29, at the bowling alley so that a date for an early start in June can be pegged.

Walkers Have Fine Day In Midland

Sunday might have been Walker Day at the Midland Race Track.

Charge, owned by Alvin Walker of Big Spring, captured the championship in the second race with his son, Perry Walker aboard.

Perry also rode four other winners, booted home a pair of seconds and three thirds. Alvin Walker's classy colt, Beaming Time, has the fastest time in the Futurity trials at 17.4.

New, Old Councilmen Pool Ideas On Future

By BRIAN PEAY
 "We are here to look at problems facing the city and thinking hit the problems head-on," said Mayor Arnold Marshall to the old and new commissioners in a special meeting Monday afternoon.

The commission met so that new commissioners might benefit from the thinking and experience of the commissioners going out of office, according to Marshall.

There were nine points brought out in the meeting, the first of which was presented by Jack Watkins, newly elected commissioner. Watkins suggested a streamlining of some services offered by the city to the public instead of raising taxes or water rates.

"Where we can cut down on costs that is what we need to do. The city must live within its means," said M. R. Koger in reference to Watkins' suggestion. Koger is the other newly elected commissioner.

The group also discussed the need of a serious look at the city garage and general maintenance on city vehicles, looking at areas in each where costs might be cut.

"The city financial picture was brought into view as Mayor Marshall gave a status report on the revenues and expenditures of the city.

"I feel the commissioners have the right to be informed of the city's financial status on a monthly basis," said Watkins, as he suggested that the financial report be brought up to date.

The last overall view of the city's financial situation included figures through the month of November, 1970. "We expect to have the December, 1970, report out by next week and the reports for the first quarter of 1971 will come shortly afterward," said Larry Crow, city manager.

Other ideas presented in the meeting were the evaluation of maximum use of city employees, a suggestion that reports be made to the commission on trips taken by people in behalf of the city and paid for by the city.

The re-analysis of city personnel policy was discussed. "I would like to see this come to a culmination with commissioners," said Crow.

"The city personnel policy has been under examination by the administration, and I would like to get the ideas of the commission and finish the work on the policy."

The commissioners also looked at the evaluation of policy concerning board members on city boards and commissions and their loyalty in attendance, etc.

"We also need to take another look at our city ordinances. If there are some ordinances that are unenforceable and have no effect on the city we also need to change them, and we also need to get rid of those people who won't enforce the ordinances, if that be the case," said Watkins.

The group agreed there is a need for a re-evaluation of city employees enforcing ordinances and city ordinances.

The meeting closed on a positive note with Wade Choate, commissioner, asking that a stringent set of guidelines set by the commission concerning these proposals presented in the meeting.

"These ideas will be presented to the city manager, and he will be expected to issue reports to the commission on the work by the administration toward their procurement," said Marshall.

Those attending the meeting were: Marshall, Choate, Watkins, Koger, Eddie Acri, Garner McAdams, D. A. Brazel, and Larry Crow.

Three Charged With Burglary

Carmen R. Gonzales, 909 S. Runnels, Ed Villareal, 205 Algierita, Armando Lopez, 617 NE 10th, and Guadalupe Ramos, 507 N. Nolan, were arrested Sunday night and Monday in connection with a burglary at Jeanie's Tavern, 300 N. Benton.

The men were charged with burglary, and Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter set bond at $2,500 each. The men were transferred from city to county jail today.

"Some stolen merchandise from previous burglaries has been recovered, and investigation is still under way as to other possible burglaries that might be cleared," said Detective Sherrill Farmer. There was nothing stolen from Jeanie's Tavern.

Also arrested in connection with the burglary Sunday night were four juveniles. Three of the juveniles' parole has been revoked, and they were to have been transferred to Gatesville State School for Youth this morning, according to police officials.

Three Injured In Accident

Velen Yanez Garcia, 606 N. Goliad, was reported to be in poor condition in the Veterans Administration Hospital today following a two-car accident Monday.

Joe and Elma Hilario, 2531 Quintana Road, San Antonio, driver and passenger in the other vehicle, were treated at Malone and Hogan Clinic for minor injuries and released. The collision occurred at Ninth and North Gregg at 6:59 p.m.

THEFTS

A burglary was reported at the Cedar Crest Elementary School Monday. Nothing was reported missing, however, there was extensive damage and vandalism to the inside of the building.

A burglary was reported Monday at Park Hill Elementary School in which a small amount of money was taken from the cold drink machine.

C. L. Guzman, 321 NE 9th, reported Monday he was robbed of his wallet, silver watch and $5 Sunday night.

Glenda Arnold, 1104 Barnes, reported a burglary at her home over the weekend. Taken was some jewelry and two stereo AM-FM components, the value being undetermined.

Joseph Albert Gonzales, 229 Balboa, San Antonio, reported Monday to the police station the theft of a set of drums valued at $175.

Poindexter Wins 'Minor Skirmish'

NEW YORK (AP) — David R. Poindexter II has been acquitted by a federal court jury of hiding Angela Davis while she was being hunted by the FBI as a fugitive from California.

ACQUITTED — David R. Poindexter II has been acquitted of hiding Angela Davis while she was being hunted as a fugitive from California.

"This is a minor skirmish in a big war," Poindexter told newsmen after the verdict was announced in U.S. District Court Monday. The major battle is in California over Angela.

The jury of seven men and five women deliberated 5 hours and 10 minutes at the end of the week-long trial. "Thank you, thank you very much," Poindexter, 36, said as he shook hands with the jurors afterward.

Judge John M. Cannella had instructed the jury to acquit Poindexter if it believes he was unaware that a federal warrant had been issued for her arrest. Miss Davis was sought by California authorities on murder and kidnap charges for allegedly supplying the guns used in a courthouse shootout last Aug. 7 in San Rafael, Calif. Four persons including a judge were killed.

Federal warrants for Miss Davis were issued later that month when she was accused of fleeing across state lines to avoid prosecution. The prosecution presented 44 witnesses, including motel employees and news media representatives, in an effort to show that Poindexter and Miss Davis traveled around the country for eight weeks to prevent her arrest.

They were arrested together at a motor inn here Oct. 13. Miss Davis is now in jail in San Rafael. Poindexter's lawyers rested without calling any witnesses, relying on the argument that the prosecution had failed to prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt.

C-City Okays $546,000 Tab

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado City Council approved $546,344 budget Monday night up from $476,905 the previous year.

City Manager J. A. Sadler Jr. explained the increase will allow for capital improvements, new equipment and raises for city personnel.

The budget calls for a tax rate of $1.60 per $100 evaluation, same as last year, and will allow discounts of 3, 2 and 1 per cent on taxes paid in advance of Nov. 1, Dec. 1 and Jan. 1, 1972.

Sadler also announced a radar unit has been installed in one patrol car, and tickets will be given for radar-detected speeding beginning May 1.

Mike Burt was re-elected mayor and J. C. Brown mayor pro tem by the council in an election following the swearing-in of the four councilmen re-elected in the April city election.

They included Burt, Brown, J. C. Britton and Frank Brownfield. All were elected to two-year terms.

Casualty List

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Monday that a Texan is one of 18 servicemen on the latest casualty list as a result of the fighting in Indochina.

He was Army Sgt. Michael L. Crossley, son of Mrs. Ileene C. Tann, 6403 Del Monte Drive, Houston.

Bentsen Not Trying To Boot Democratic Party Chairman

HOUSTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. said Monday he is not trying to replace state Democratic party chairman Dr. Elmer C. Baum.

The Houston Democrat denied reports he has endorsed Larry Temple, an Austin attorney and former aide to Lyndon B. Johnson, to succeed Baum. "I am not endorsing him or anyone else," he said after acknowledging a newsman earlier had asked him about Temple.

"I told the reporter Temple was an able, aggressive young man of moderate political beliefs and that it would be good to have him or someone like him as state chairman," Bentsen said.

On other matters, Bentsen said he hopes to have some news this week about federal aid for drought area in West and South Texas.

On revenue sharing, Bentsen said he believes the federal government will pick up more of the welfare tab than at present but it would not be as much as some state officials hoped for.

Grand Jury Will Study Accident, Shootout Info

AMARILLO (AP) — Asst. Police Chief Jim Keith said Monday the case of a fatal traffic accident followed by a police shootout will be referred to the Potter County Grand Jury.

Alejandro Casanova, 49, of Tulia was killed Sunday night when struck by a police car as he crossed an Amarillo boulevard.

Patrolman Jackie Roberts, 24, driver of the fatal squad car, said: "I never had a chance to hit my brakes."

Casanova's body was hurled about 100 feet by the impact. Roberts said he summoned an ambulance and another officer to investigate the accident.

Patrolman Stanley Wisenhunt said he arrived at the scene to see a man darting among parked cars with a rifle. Wisenhunt said he ordered the man to halt and fired at him only after the gunman fired first.

After a brief exchange of gunfire, Wisenhunt said they arrested Robert Casanova, 27, the dead man's son. The younger Casanova who lives at Channelview was wounded in the shoulder.

Oh, Dear, Where Is That Money?

HOUSTON (AP) — The suburban city of Deer Park is missing $16,017, an audit revealed Monday.

Patrick E. Kronin, 38, former finance director who has been missing since March 27, has been charged with forging the signatures of city administrator Clivis Mann and Mayor Earl E. Dunn to a check for $500.

Mann said the shortage is covered by a bond.

Fishermen Spof Victim In Lake

SAN AUGUSTINE, Tex. (AP) — The body of Marcus P. Borden, 30, missing since last Tuesday, was found Monday floating in Sam Rayburn Lake.

Borden was an employee of a chemical company in Houston. A fisherman spotted the body and called authorities. Borden's wallet and boat had been located earlier.

Hair(y) Suit Is Dismissed

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge dismissed a suit Monday filed by a college instructor fired for growing a beard, saying the instructor should take his problems to a state court.

U. S. Dist. Judge Carol Bue Jr. said Cecil Hander, 30, could have his claim adequately litigated in state courts.

Hander was fired by San Jacinto Junior College at Pasadena on Jan. 11 because he refused to shave off his beard. He had sought reinstatement and a permanent injunction against the school regulations.

Charls Walker Day In Graham

GRAHAM, Tex. (AP) — This is Charls Walker Day in Graham, where home town friends plan a 400-seat banquet for Dr. Charls E. Walker, 47, undersecretary of the U. S. Treasury.

Walker, who has been No. 2 man at the Treasury since January, 1969, is a native of Graham and has many relatives here.

He is the son of Mrs. Carl Thompson and Mrs. Zack Burkett is his sister. Both live in Graham.

Graham insurance executive Pat Bryan Jr. is general chairman of the dinner, planned several months ago to honor the city's most famous son.

Special invited guests include Sen. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, member of the Senate Finance, Banking and Currency Committee; Clifford C. Sommer, president of the American Bankers Association, from Owatonna, Minn.; Oscar Lindemann, Dallas, president-elect of the Texas Bankers Association; and other persons prominent in national and regional banking circles.

Walker was executive vice president of the American Bankers Association for eight years before joining the Nixon administration. He holds bachelor and master's degrees from the University of Texas and a Ph. D. in economics from the University of Pennsylvania.

Bar Shooting Trial Begins

MINERAL WELLS, Tex. (AP) — Charged with assault with intent to commit murder, Mack Hobbs went on trial here Monday in the shooting of former Palo Pinto County Sheriff Sherman Weldon.

A jury was quickly chosen Monday and Hobbs pleaded innocent to the charges.

The shooting occurred at a bar south of here last Thanksgiving. Weldon suffered two stomach wounds.

Weldon had investigated a report at the tavern that a man inside had a gun.

Weldon was shot after the man had been escorted outside. Hobbs was shot by a deputy who returned the gunfire.

He resigned a few weeks ago, giving personal reasons.

Inquiry Into Sinking Of Tanker Due To Open

PORT ARTHUR (AP) — A Coast Guard inquiry into the March 27 sinking of the tanker Texaco Oklahoma was to open here today in an attempt to uncover new clues in the disaster.

Thirteen crewmen were rescued while 31 others remain unaccounted for.

The Port Arthur hearing is a continuation of a hearing in New York in which witnesses testified before a four-man review board.

The Texaco Oklahoma apparently broke in half in heavy seas some 200 miles off the Virginia coast. Texaco officials said they had received conflicting reports concerning the receipt of distress signals from the stricken freighter.

Survivors were adrift until the next day when search vessels picked up 11 of them. Two more were rescued later as Coast Guard boats and helicopters joined commercial shipping interests in the search.

Thoughtful Thieves Leave Car Locked

Thieves in Howard County are not only becoming numerous, but they are becoming considerate of their victims.

Martin R. Caroeza, Box 4492, Webb AFB, reported to the sheriff's office Monday that he had left his car parked at the Howard County Airport over the Easter weekend, and returned Monday to find that nine stereo cassettes were missing from his car.

The tapes were missing, but the thieves had left the windows rolled up and had considerably re-locked the car.
