600 Servicemen Brawling At AFB

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — More than 600 servicemen brawled Monday night in fighting which a base spokesman said grew out of a racial incident in a mess hall.

It was a third day of racial disorders at this Northern California base, a major embarkation point for Southeast Asia.

A civilian fireman at the base died Monday night fighting a blaze which partially destroyed a barracks for transient officers. Another fireman was hospitalized with facial burns and, a base spokesman said, at least five men were treated at the base hospital for injuries received in the fights but were not admitted.

100 DETAINED

At least 100 military personnel were detained by military police, the spokesman said.

The brawling men were dispersed by 11 p.m. after 300 military security police, plus 78 men from the Solano and Napa county sheriff's offices and four area police departments converged on them in a "large show of force." The spokesman said no shots were fired and no tear gas used.

The dead fireman was identified as James T. Marshberger, 47, of nearby Napa, employed at the base fire department. The injured fireman's name was not released.

The base commander, Col. John Blake, sealed off the base to all visitors and summoned off-duty military police. The base is 45 miles northeast of San Francisco.

An Air Force spokesman said a fight broke out in a mess hall during the evening meal, with blacks and whites throwing salt and pepper shakers and other tableware.

NOT ALL RACIAL

The number involved grew and the men began milling around an enlisted men's barracks area. It turned into an "all out melee" about 8 p.m., about the time the barracks fire broke out, the spokesman said.

Firemen at one point sprayed water from a high-pressure hose on a surging group of men near the flaming barracks.

The first incident was between groups of black and white servicemen, said base information officer Herb Prouty. "I'm sure part of it is racial, but it's not all racial," he said.

A free-for-all had erupted Saturday afternoon in an airman's club. A half dozen minor injuries were reported in a series of fights which the spokesman said were racially oriented and which continued Sunday.

Military police patrolled the base in combat dress with loaded automatic weapons. Civilian police were summoned about 9 p.m. under a mutual aid pact with area law enforcement agencies.

Chattanooga Shoo-Shoo Extended After Slaying

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A rigid curfew enforced by 2,000 National Guardsmen was extended again today in the wake of the first death in four straight nights of civil disorders.

A young Negro was killed by police gunfire late Monday night, just after authorities reported a decline in the number of firebombings, sniper fire and glass-smashing incidents. Monday was the first night Guardsmen were on the streets.

Fire and Police Commissioner Gene Roberts said Leon Anderson, 22, was killed as he threw a brick at 12 city, county and state officers who answered a call to an area where sniper fire had been reported on previous nights. He was the first person killed in the disorders.

ances Saturday and Sunday on police.

The Rev. Paul McDaniel said police swore at blacks, were abusive, used the word "nigger" and arrested innocent people.

The Rev. H. H. Wright, president of the local Southern Christian Leadership Conference branch, agreed.

Roberts said he had not personally heard any officers using abusive language although police had been abused verbally. He would not comment on the other charges but said earlier that one person arrested during the weekend required hospitalization.

ARSON SUSPECTED

Police reported 39 arrests Monday night, 38 for violations of a 7 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew, which was extended for the first time throughout surrounding Hamilton County and nearby cities.

Chattanooga, a city of 119,000 persons with about 40,000 Negroes, had the curfew Saturday and Sunday nights.

Sniper fire was reported four times Monday night. There were three minor fires—at a coal yard, laundry and unoccupied house—and arson was suspected, police said.

Two battalions of guardsmen with live ammunition and fixed bayonets patrolled the streets, which were nearly deserted.

The sale of liquor, beer, firearms and ammunition and gasoline not pumped directly into vehicles was banned along with the display of firearms in shop windows.

Guardsmen were called in Sunday after the mayor said law enforcement officers could not handle the situation.

City-Base Land Transfer Is Wednesday

Formal ceremonies marking the transfer of some Webb AFB acreage from the City of Big Spring to the Air Force will be held Wednesday.

Lt. Gen. George B. Simler, commander of Air Training Command, will be here to accept the transfer, at a luncheon to be held in the Officers Club, with Col. A. W. Atkinson, wing commander, as host.

Guests will include various municipal officials and officers of the Base Community Council.

The City Commission recently approved legal ordinances to transmit title of the acreage to the Air Force. For many years the base had operated with a portion of the property government-owned and a portion under lease from the city. It was suggested that the base could simplify much of its operations, planning and construction if the dual ownership could be eliminated.

Dawson Tax Is Estimated At $404,600

LAMESA — Dawson County Commissioners completed their session Monday as the county board of equalization for both oil and utilities and personal property. The total valuation for all property in the county is estimated at $34 million and the expected tax income will be $404,600.

The over-all property tax rate remains unchanged at $1.19 per $100 valuation.

Four persons came before the board Monday concerning questions on their property valuation. According to County Judge Leslie Pratt, two persons appeared concerning utility property, and two others had questions on personal property matters.

In other business Monday, the commissioners canvassed the votes from the May 18 constitutional amendments election. No error in the tabulations was found, and the results were accepted. The total vote for the county was 671, and all the amendments except No. 4 were defeated.

Doctor Killed

AUSTIN (AP) — Dr. Garland Zelder, 63, was struck by a car Monday and died more than 10 hours later.

'NONPOLITICAL' Nixon Is Alabama Bound

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — President Nixon headed here today on a "nonpolitical" journey into the heart of territory dominated politically by Gov. George C. Wallace, his 1968 third party opponent and potential 1972 foe.

Nixon, who has been rather consistent in wooing the normally-Democratic votes of the Deep South, scheduled visits to Mobile and Birmingham, Alabama's two largest cities.

HELLO, GEORGE

The President's stop at Mobile was to join Wallace and the governors of Mississippi, Kentucky and Florida at the opening of construction on the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, a 253-mile canal through sections of Alabama and Mississippi that eventually will link the Gulf Coast with the Tombigbee, Tennessee, Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio, Illinois and Cumberland rivers. The projected cost to the federal government: $346 million.

Tennessee Gov. Winfield Dunn declined an invitation to participate in the ceremonies.

Ralph Griffith, Dunn's press secretary, said Dunn initially had accepted the invitation, but changed his mind "because the legislature is still in session and he felt he should be in Nashville."

SING THE SONG

From Mobile, Nixon flies to Birmingham, the state's population center, to talk about the administration's "domestic initiatives," to editors and publishers from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

It was Nixon's latest effort to sing the praises of welfare overhaul legislation and his proposals for revenue-sharing and governmental reorganization.

Nixon set up motorcades in both cities. Before going to his Key Biscayne, Fla., home for the weekend, the President took part in the dedication of the Lyndon B. Johnson Library in Austin, Tex., Saturday.

Congressmen File War Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of congressmen filed a motion today asking U. S. District Court to order President Nixon to obtain congressional authorization for the Vietnam war or stop fighting it.

The motion was made in connection with a suit filed April 7 by three members of the House asking the court to declare the war unconstitutional.

The new motion asks the court to immediately order the President to obtain congressional authorization for the war within 60 days or cease hostilities in Indochina.

The action was announced by the original filers of the suit, Reps. Parren J. Mitchell, D-Md., Michael Harrington, D-Mass., and Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N. Y.

In filing the suit, the three charged that the executive branch had violated their constitutional rights by allegedly usurping the authority to declare war.

Since the suit was filed, 10 others members of Congress have joined as plaintiffs.

The congressmen said they were seeking an immediate hearing on the injunction request.

Beals Creek Boost Posted At Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett Jordan quipped today that the principal industry in Texas these days is carrying water.

"It's true, if it doesn't rain pretty soon they will be in critical condition," the North Carolina Democrat said.

He was in Texas last weekend for the dedication of the Lyndon B. Johnson Library and, in the process, got an earful about the drought.

Jordan commented about the dry spell while presiding at a Senate Public Works subcommittee hearing at which Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okl., testified. Oklahoma also is suffering from a drought.

Harris had asked for a congressional go-ahead on the Deep Run-Coffin Creek watershed project.

Also testifying was Lt. Col. Caryle H. Charles of the Army Corps of Engineers, speaking for a flood control program at Beals Creek, near Big Spring, Tex.

The creek absorbs runoff from a 495-square-mile drainage area above Big Spring and, when intense local thunderstorms occur, the creek floods the city, the committee was told.

Realigning and enlarging the channel would cost $2.5 million, according to the testimony.

The project calls for a 29,600-foot channel through Beals Creek basin to be financed by federal and city funds according to preliminary estimates by the U. S. Corps of Engineers. The plan, as explained by the Corps of Engineers to Congress, when complete is expected to control major floods which occur once in 50 years, and will be a maximum control of floods of major size expected to occur once every century.

SNIPER FIRE

"The victim was hit in the groin," Roberts said.

State Safety Commissioner Claude Armour ordered an investigation of the shooting, which occurred shortly after sniper fire was reported two blocks from where Anderson was killed.

The trouble erupted Friday night after black soul singer Wilson Pickett refused to appear at a show because he was not paid in advance. But two black ministers Monday blamed the continuing disturb-

Ex-Solon Faces Forgery Charge

DALLAS (AP) — Former State Rep. John B. Lowrance of Dallas has been indicted on a charge of forgery.

The indictment returned Monday accuses Lowrance, a Republican member of the legislature in 1967, of forging his father's signature to secure a $20,000 loan in 1968.

When the note became due in September, 1970, his father, Bomar A. Lowrance, denied having signed it, the indictment said.

Guidelines on questions which have stalled a subcommittee working on the revision of the city charter were established by the Big Spring Charter Action Committee Monday night in a meeting at city hall.

Decisions were made by the main committee on the number of commissioners on future city councils, their alignment, how they shall be elected by the public and the length of the term of office. The recommendations eventually will be presented to the city commission for approval.

Five commissioners will be provided for in the charter, it was decided, with four of the five running at large for places. There will also be a run-off election in each of the places.

"This will hamper the chances of a commissioner being elected to office by single-shot voting, and each candidate running for office will not have to compete against the whole field of candidates as they now have to do," said Winston Winkle, committee member.

It was also decided by the committee that the mayor's position would be attained by a popular vote at large and the mayor will be required to vote on all decisions as a regular commissioner does at present.

"As it stands now with the mayor's power of veto, he and another commission member can over-rule any decision made by the council due to this power," said John Burgess, committee member.

The committee also decided that the two-year terms of office should be retained, however, a clause requiring that the commissioner could serve only a maximum of three terms on the commission was also approved by the committee.

The decisions and guidelines came after two hours of confusion and semi-heated debate and argument over the general alignment of the future city commissions.

Much of the debate was over the recommendation that future commissioners would run for places on the commission representing certain geographical areas and that only those citizens in the geographical area could vote on the candidates running for that specific place.

"The consensus of the minority groups in town is that they are not represented on the commission and that they have no geographical representation," said D. A. Brazel, committee member.

The committee was split concerning the geographical aspect of future commissions with a vote of nine against eight in favor.

"I will have to wait and see how the decisions of this committee will work out. As I see it, we will have the same type of commission that we have now," said R. L. Parramore, pastor of the Mt. Bethel Baptist Church.

Parramore, as a representative of the minority groups in the city, was in favor of the geographical recommendation. The decisions and guidelines worked out by the main committee Monday night came as solutions to problems that have stalled the sub-committee working on the charter revision for over a year. The sub-committee began work on the charter revision in June, 1970.

"The sub-committee now will submit the advice and guidelines of the main committee on these questions to the main body of the charter revision. By June 15 we should be able to present the whole charter revision to the charter committee for further recommendations and then it will go to the city council for action," said John Taylor, chairman of the sub-committee.

Commissioners Add Clause To R&B Work Rules Monday

By LINDA CROSS

County commissioners, in a special session at 2 p.m. Monday, voted to add a clause to the road and bridge department work rules stating that the men could have union representation in grievance matters only.

The clause will be added at the conclusion of section 11 of the work rules which provides the steps the employees may take should any misunderstanding or alleged mistreatment occur.

Chuck Gressett, representative of Local 826 of the International Union of Operating Engineers, (AFL-CIO) had submitted a proposed rewording of section 11 which would have read that an employee or employees would first approach the road and bridge administrator, with a union representative if so desired, concerning any grievance matter. The next step would be to file a written complaint with the commissioners court, and to have a hearing with the court with union representation.

The current wording is similar but the term grievance is omitted, the term employee is used rather than employees, and reference to union representation was omitted. The original rule also referred to supervisors. Gressett objected to this term because the rules were written, he said, before Hollis Randell was hired as road and bridge administrator and there are now no supervisors in addition to him.

Gressett said that the rules were confusing since the administrator was not mentioned specifically in the first step of appealing a grievance.

Commissioners, with Commissioner Bill Crooker casting the one negative vote, decided to accept Commissioner Simon Terrazas' motion that the original wording be left intact and that the clause including the employees right to union representation be added at the conclusion of section 11.

"I don't understand what the objections are," said Commissioner Crooker of the court's refusal to accept the union's rewording of the rule. Crooker had said that he was in favor of the union's proposal when he requested during the morning session that the matter be delayed until it could be placed on an agenda. The commissioners then voted to act on the matter in a special session.

In a 1:30 p.m. special session, the commissioners canvassed the votes from the May 18 state constitutional amendments election. No errors were found in the tabulations, and the results were accepted as earlier reported.

IT LOOKED LIKE A REFUGEE TRAIN, BUT IT WASN'T

Mr. Amtrak, That's A H... Of A Way To Run A Railroad!

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A year ago, the Associated Press sent reporter John S. Lang on a train ride to report on the quality of passenger service. Now he has done it again, to test Amtrak's early performance. Here is his report.)

By JOHN S. LANG
Associated Press Writer

The car stank of sweat and unflushed toilets, and a generation of use with neglect. The lights, those that worked, were dim. The air conditioning, with the inside temperature at 101 degrees, didn't work at all.

The aisle was a messy tangle of four shirtless little boys, two wet-diapered infants held by their parents, an angry man in a powder blue jump suit and two guys with flashlights jostling their way through.

It looked like a refugee train, but it wasn't.

It was a pullman car on the New Orleans to Los Angeles run of Amtrak, the newly begun National Rail Passenger Corp.

These were the best accommodations Amtrak had to offer the 30-plus passengers who paid for reservations on the 2,000-mile journey.

SCOUT COMFORT

And, grim as it was, this train was far better than last year when the Southern-Pacific Railroad operated it with two coaches lacking head rests and reclining seats—the conductors called them "cattle cars"—and with a vending machine car selling hash at 55 cents a can.

The Amtrak train which left New Orleans on a Friday had two pullmans, a diner-lounge car, three coaches and the automat car.

Still, the accommodations gave scant comfort to those who made this trip. Even a passenger in the second pullman had a roomette with panel doors that rattled and kept popping open, a toilet that flushed only partially and a faucet that leaked into the shelf below. Yet he was lucky; his car was air conditioned.

Not so fortunate were Drs. Harley Scheer, of San Francisco and Chuck Harlin of Los Angeles.

DEATH THREATS

The air conditioning in their pullman functioned poorly from the start, failed entirely as the train neared El Paso and remained out the rest of the way to Los Angeles, a 40-hour trip.

To escape the stench and the heat, they retreated to the diner to slake their thirst and determine the exact temperature.

Four cars back, Conductor C. W. Maxwell was doing something about it. He was filling out a report.

"What shall I say?" he asked brakeman T. J. Barnes. "That Car 15 is out of air conditioning and the passengers are threatening to kill the conductor?"

"If they don't upgrade this equipment," replied Barnes, "they're going to have real problems this summer."

The car giving them trouble.

They said was 30 years old. Most of the other cars were the same age, or older, dating from the days when the train was proudly named the Sunset Limited.

These aged cars are typical of the equipment Amtrak inherited from the railroads, which long ago decided that passenger trains were an economic albatross and that their future was in shipping freight.

ABOARD SUNSET

With a congressional appropriation of $40 million plus government guaranteed loans of $300 million, Amtrak claimed little money to refurbish equipment.

But he said nearly half the Southern Pacific's riders were on free passes, and Amtrak has stopped this practice.

"This means ticket sales are up about 40 per cent."

That estimate was later confirmed by the ticket agent in Los Angeles and the Amtrak spokesman in Washington.

By 9 p.m., seven hours after the air conditioning quit, all the passengers had been driven from the hot pullman.

'GOT NO SPACE'

At Phoenix, a well-dressed and her aged mother were waiting, with reservations, to claim suites in the air conditioned pullman.

"Got no space," mumbled the porter, refusing to let them board.

The conductor explained irrationally that ticket agents in Lordsburg, N.M., gave the rooms to passengers booked in the hot car.

"That's a hell of a way to start out with Amtrak," said the man.

"We held our tickets two weeks." The couple walked away.

LAST TO KNOW

A problem with Amtrak, noted by critics in Congress, is that Amtrak holds the license train, and the conductor finally gave them two roomettes—by displacing Scheer and Harlin.

But the trains are actually operated by the railroads. The train crews are still employees of the individual lines. "We're the last to know anything Amtrak does," groused the conductor of the El Paso-to-Tucson stretch of the trip.

Until the train reached El Paso, where the railroad began trying to fix the air conditioning, the train had been early at nearly every stop—by 30 minutes on two occasions.

Crippled Dog Rescues Two Men Up Tree

WHITNEY, Tex. (AP)—a crippled dog named Scott was credited for the rescue of two fishermen left clinging to a tree in storm-churned Lake Whitney.

Ray Warren told Monday how his German pointer swam ashore and limped home, where the animal's appearance without his master convinced Mrs. Warren something was wrong.

She was right. High winds in the turbulent weather which sent two tornadoes slashing through this small town near the lake also upset a small boat carrying Warren and Fred Thurman to check a trotline.

Warren and Thurman managed to reach a tree about a mile from shore and clung on desperately, at the same time trying to keep the eight-month-old dog afloat.

After an hour the pointer swam away.

"I told Fred, 'I guess I am going to lose my dog,'" related Warren as the animal disappeared in waves four to five feet high. "I didn't see any way he could make it. He couldn't see—the waves were over his head."

Moreover, a car had struck the dog about three months ago, leaving it able to hobble on only three legs.

Somehow Scott nevertheless crossed the lake to the Warren home, and Mrs. Warren appealed for a search.

"Scott wouldn't have come back alone," she said. "I was worried when the storm came up, but I thought Ray must have put in some place."

About 2 a.m., five hours after Warren and Thurman were spilled into the water, Warren's brother-in-law found the pair.

Warren said no other boats had passed near enough to be seen.

"Our life preservers had ripped up and wouldn't hold us," he said. "If that dog hadn't made it, there is no telling what would have happened to us."

Warren's account was one of the more dramatic from survivors of the storm, during which twin twisters killed one resident of Whitney and injured about 80 other persons. A dozen remained in hospitals Monday.

A Red Cross worker said the property loss, including a new wing ripped off the Whitney hospital, probably would run around $500,000.

MISS WOOL AND RUNNER-UP — This is the new Miss Wool and Mohair of Texas for 1974, Sandi Tomczak of Lake City. At right is Rhonda Lewis of Littlefield. Miss Tomczak is 21-years-old and attends Wharton County Junior College. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Tomczak.

Junior College Beauty New Miss Wool Of Texas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Hazel-eyed Sandi Tomczak, the new Miss Wool & Mohair of Texas, faced a problem just hours before the pageant Monday night—what to do with a cut finger.

Miss Tomczak, 21, a brown-haired lovely from Lane City, chose not to wear a bandage on her right forefinger during the fashion show before the winner was chosen.

A spot of dry blood remained on the finger when she accepted the crown from Judy Womack of Hillsboro, who gave up her title to compete in the Miss Wool of America pageant in June in San Angelo.

CUT HER FINGER
"I cut my finger reaching for tooth paste in my suitcase," said the drama and music major from Wharton County Junior College.

Miss Tomczak was selected over 14 other coeds to represent the state in next year's national pageant.

Rhonda Lewis, 21, a brown-haired, green-eyed beauty who attends Texas Tech, was named first runner-up. Miss Lewis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Deverelle Lewis of Littlefield.

The second runner-up was Sally Heap, 21, of Temple, a student at the University of Texas at Austin. Miss Heap is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin E. Heap Jr.

Miss Tomczak, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Tomczak, forgot to bring a dress to the pageant.

FIRST DATE

She said she was told by pageant officials that she should bring what she would wear on a first date.

"I would wear a pants suit on a first date, so I forgot to bring a dress," she said. "I used the top of the pants suit as a midi in the pageant."

The winner whose father is a petroleum engineer at Lane City, southwest of Houston, plans to enroll this fall at Stephen F. Austin State in Nacogdoches.

The 5-foot-9, 125-pound beauty said she and her mother made the four outfits that she took to the pageant.

Coastal Areas Soaked By Near-Cloudbursts

Near-cloudbursts drenched coastal areas and extreme South Texas as a cold front which stirred up tornadoes here and there finished its sweep across the state Tuesday evening.

The deluges measured as much as four inches in 90 minutes at Papalote, 30 miles north of Corpus Christi, and ranged up and down the coast, causing flash flooding in a place or two.

While the downpours were torrential in some areas, farmers and ranchers generally said more rain still was needed to break a months-long drought.

Moisture amounts at other points included Rockport 3.6 inches in two hours, Galud 3 inches, Corpus Christi 2.92 at the airport and up to 2.5 in parts of Houston.

Rainfall around Houston was heaviest in Spring Branch on the northwest side of the city, where water rose two feet deep in places and added into some garages. The measurement was 3.4 in Southwest Houston but the official gauge at the city's International Airport caught only 4 inch.

A tornado watch for Houston went up for an hour after a pilot reported sighting a twister funnel, but it apparently spun away without touching ground.

By early this morning the frontal system had moved into the Gulf of Mexico, leaving only a few showers or thunderstorms over the southern tip of the state.

Clouds still overhung a broad belt from near Laredo to the Upper Texas Coast. Skies were clear over the rest of the state.

Early morning fog developed around Lufkin and McAllen.

Temperatures near dawn ranged from 48 degrees at Dalhart and 50 at Amarillo in the Panhandle up to 73 at Brownsville, Corpus Christi and Galveston on the coast.

Forecasts promised clear to partly cloudy skies and mild to warm temperatures in all sections of the state.

Another Population Theory

While the advantages of zero population growth (ZPG) in the United States are being proclaimed by ecologists, environmentalists, urbanologists and family planners, some businessmen are worried by the possibility of a stable population.

These fears, writes Dr. Stephen Enke in the Wall Street Journal, are not only unfounded but, in fact, ZPG would help business.

More people may mean more customers, but they also mean more business sharing those customers. He pointedly notes there were more consumers in 1933 than in 1928, but business in the early '30s (the Depression) was much worse.

Dr. Enke bases his analysis on demographic-economic computer work done at General Electric's center for advanced studies.

The computer model showed that a drop in fertility rate and a steady population would produce more workage adults in the total population, with more output. This, in turn, would increase the gross national product and more spendable income per capita.

Zero population growth will come gradually, if it is realized, and business can anticipate and plan adjustments.

More businesses can operate to increase income and consumption, aiming for the fuller life. One element of the good life, Dr. Enke concludes, is a less crowded world for our grandchildren.

Delightful Observer

Ogden Nash was a man with an irreverent sense of whimsy and humor who, in wild and unlikely verses, delighted his readers and gently poked fun at man's foibles.

He never took himself or anyone else too seriously. He recently told an interviewer that he tilled and harvested the minor idiocies of humanity. "At least they're comments by a minor idiot, or maybe a major idiot," he said.

Nash, never claimed to be a poet, merely a versifier who bent words into outrageous rhymes to make this or that point. He is dead at 68. But the "Golden Trashery of Ogden Nashery" remains for readers to savor, mull over and give themselves a laugh. In this day, we sorely need it.

GI's Out Of Texas

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — A U. S. Army lieutenant friend, a native of New York has just written from Ft. Hood, Tex., informing me that a movement has been organized on the base to get all American troops out of Texas by the first of the year.

"There are still 200,000 American GIs stationed here in Texas," he wrote, and most of them would go home tomorrow if they could."

The lieutenant said that American soldiers have no idea what they are doing in Texas and refuse to accept the Pentagon's word that they are there to protect the Alamo.

"THE NATIVES don't want us," he writes, "and our presence causes all sorts of difficulties."

"First there is the language problem. The American troops refuse to learn Texan, and the Texans refuse to speak American. This leads to serious misunderstanding."

"Secondly, there is the question of size. Most American GIs are at least a head taller than Texans, and this gives the Texans a terrible inferiority complex."

"FINALLY THERE is the question of Texas women. Texas women are attracted to American GIs, not only because they consider them better-looking than Texas men, but invariably they have more money and charm. Texas men have become bitter about this and most Texas women who marry a GI are socially ostracized if they remain in the country."

"But the real problem, as far as the American GIs are concerned, is that they don't understand what they are doing in Texas in the first place. Every President has given a different reason why U. S. soldiers should be there. Some have said that the Americans are there to protect the Texans from being overrun by the Mexicans.

"OTHER PRESIDENTS have said the troops are there to assure that Texas has honest elections, something that has been denied Texans since they joined the Union."

"Some Presidents have defended sending troops to Texas on the grounds that we made a commitment to Sam Houston, and the United States would lose its credibility if it backed down at this late date."

"President Johnson insisted we needed American troops in Texas to prevent supplies from coming up the Pedernales River. President Nixon said Saturday we had to be there to interdict the L. B. J. Trail."

MY LIEUTENANT friend concludes his letter by saying, "It is for this reason that our 'Get our boys out of Texas now' movement was formed. A recent survey indicated that while 65 per cent of all Texas natives were for our being in Vietnam, only 10 per cent were for our being in Texas."

"At the same time 83 per cent of all American-GIs polled said they'd rather be in Vietnam than in Texas."

"Our movement is dedicated to the proposition that only Texans can help Texans, and by maintaining foreign troops on Texas soil we are preventing the natives from deciding their own destinies."

Britain's Problems

Marquis Childs

LONDON — For Prime Minister Edward Heath this is a moment of triumph and at the same time a moment of great uncertainty. After repeatedly knocking at the door, Britain is about to enter the European Common Market.

AS ALL concerned are solemnly saying, it is a breakthrough that will be enshrined in history. It is the fruition of the dreams of practical visionaries such as Jean Monnet who have worked since the end of the last World War with tireless zeal for a united Europe.

That this moment of triumph should be plagued by uncertainty is no mystery. The articles of agreement for entry into the European market must be approved by Parliament in the face of wide popular opposition.

ONCE BRITAIN'S entry is formally ratified, Heath's task will be to sell the market to the British public with the hope that Parliament acts before the summer recess. The longer the delay the more likely the opposition in both parties will solidify, and with the inertia of prolonged dispute the chance will have been missed. Complicating the selling job is the fact that the first years will see a rise in British food prices and little or no benefit in increased exports to the European continent.

THIS IS ALLIED to another source of uncertainty. Unemployment has steadily risen to new postwar highs, with the latest figures showing total hard-core joblessness dropping only slightly. The financial pages are full of talk of a deepening recession. Against this backdrop the dollar crisis throws into sharp relief the question of America's relation to a united Europe. Before he received Heath in Paris for their summit talk President Georges Pompidou stressed that French should continue to be the language of the enlarged Common Market. English was "the American language." That implied much of the anti-Americanism that has characterized French policy during the past decade.

ONE OF THE striking differences between the two sides of the Atlantic is Western Europe's almost-total dependence on oil from the Arab states of the Middle East.

Shortly before the dollar crisis made the headlines, representatives of the leading Western oil companies met in Teheran with spokesmen for five Arab oil-producing states. President Nixon, to the gratification of the financial community in London, instructed the Department of Justice to ignore the antitrust laws that might have made it illegal for American corporations to join such a move. After long haggling, an agreement was hammered out.

THE SHARP increases won by the Arab producers were expressed in dollars. But now as the dollar drifts lower — about 3.4 per cent against the value of the German mark that is no longer anchored to any fixed ratio — these same producers may decide to renege on the agreement. The odds are that it will never happen. But it remains one of the elements that could break the relationship between the two continents as it was broken in the first ZPG crisis in 1956.

Hospital Experiments

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — A major contributor to the high cost of medical service is the maintenance of duplicate facilities by the individual hospitals, clinics and other units that serve a single area.

One of the main causes of inadequate medical care is the inability of smaller hospitals to attract top flight personnel, not because they are unable to afford them but also because they cannot offer opportunities.

Experiments now under way in several communities suggest that the problems might be licked through mergers in a manner somewhat similar to those that produce the conglomerate corporate form in the business world.

In North and East Arizona, where nine hospitals ranging from 14 to 724 beds have been merged into the Samaritan Health Service, the movement is well beyond the experimental stage and some results already are in.

Stephen Morris, president-elect of the American Hospital Association, reports "the mergers, without exception, have strengthened the financial base of the merged institution, particularly with regard to capital funds."

He lists five areas of accomplishment: 1. A greater capacity to attract high-quality management expertise. "A single hospital, I think, does not have the financial ability to pull in the data processing people, the systems analysts, the cost analysts."

2. The capacity to organize and plan on a regional basis. The tiny hospital at Grand Canyon, for example, now has the use of the expertise and facilities of the huge Good Samaritan Hospital in Phoenix.

3. The capacity to better utilize medical and professional talent.

4. The capacity to offer economies of scale, such as in the operation of data processing equipment, laundries, purchasing. "We saved $90,000 in insurance premiums last year through centralization."

5. The capacity to provide a complete range of health services. The goal is "one organization that can produce a total package rather than requiring the patient to go to four or five different organizations to get his health care piecemeal."

While still awaiting results of a two-year study of costs, Morris already can report a slower increase in costs than the national average of hospitals. Samaritan's bills rose 8 per cent compared with a national average of 12; last year the percentages were 9 and 15.

Thieves Don't Vacation

Around The Rim

Jo Bright

Summer is the season for vacations — but crime doesn't take time off. In fact, the incidence of thefts, robberies and burglaries increases in the summer. If you plan to do any traveling, you could be one of the victims.

"THE URBAN crime problem has moved into the national parks," says John Mullady, co-ordinator of visitor activities for the National Park Service. In 1968, Dr. Frederick Campbell, a sociologist, spent the summer gathering material on crime in public parks, and four times, thieves stole from him items which included expensive tape recorders.

It should be noted that when thieves can pry open a window of a locked car without damaging the car, "forcible entry" is difficult to prove. Without this proof, many travelers are finding that their form of insurance is worthless.

ACTUALLY, big, crowded, poorly-lighted parking lots anywhere — motel and airport lots, for instance — are happy hunting grounds for thieves.

Hotels and motels are plagued by crime, and some experts claim that one reason is that their rooms are just too easy to steal from.

Harvey Burstein, a former FBI agent who now heads a private security firm, thinks the hotel industry has been derelict in its responsibility to prevent thefts, but he is equally critical of travelers who leave valuables in their rooms instead of putting them in the hotel safe deposit boxes.

TOO MANY travelers casually invite strangers into their rooms or don't double lock their doors at night. Robert Earl Barnes, a former burglar, has written a book, "Are You Safe from Burglars?" in which he says many hotel and motel rooms have cheap locks that thieves can jimmy open with a piece of stiff plastic such as a credit card.

Vacations are expensive enough as it is, without unplanned losses. Keep in mind that crowds attract pickpockets and other crooks, so be careful in busy airports, bus depots and popular tourist spots. For women: Keep a firm grip on your purse and don't carry a pocketbook that is easy to open and dip into. For men: Keep your wallet in a front trouser pocket, not in your hip pocket or the inner pocket of your suitcoat.

CARRY AS LITTLE cash as possible. Use traveler's checks. Most kinds cost only about $1 per $100 — and that is cheap insurance. If you must carry credit cards, make a record of the number, company, name and address of each of the cards for swift notification to the issuing company if it is lost or stolen.

You should also make a record of serial numbers and distinguishing marks of other valuables. (It will help police recover stolen items.)

DON'T LEAVE valuable things in a room, and if they must be left in a car, put them in the trunk. Although a good car cracker can break open a trunk, anything you can do to slow him down, the better. There are antitheft devices on the market now such as a gearshift lock or vehicle immobilizer.

Lastly, take every possible precaution against thieves, then forget it. Don't be looking over your shoulder. That kind of travel would be no vacation.

Pay For No Work?

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — Concerning the railway strike, let us take a look at the Congress which for 15 long months totally ignored President Nixon's proposals to overhaul procedures for handling rail labor disputes.

Nixon in February, 1970, submitted an amendment to the emergency-strike provisions of the Railway Labor Act and the Taft-Hartley Act. His bill would permit the President three options: (1) extend by 30 days the no-strike, no lockout moratorium, (2) allow partial operation of the railroads while a strike is in progress, (3) permit an arbitration board to choose between the last best offers of union and management and make the decision binding on both.

WHEN 10,000 signalmen walked out a week ago, neither the House nor the Senate had even held hearings on the legislation, although the bill was "pending" in the House Commerce Committee.

It is fair, therefore, to consider the emoluments provided to members of Congress by hurried taxpayers for what may euphemistically be described as their services to the public. They are, of course, paid a whopping $42,500 a year in salary, which is somewhat above the national average. In addition, however, our national legislators gobble up fringe benefits beyond the wildest dreams of the greediest labor union.

FIRST, this fat salary entitles a member who quits or is defeated for re-election to receive a retirement pension of up to 80 per cent of his final wage level, depending on length of service. He gets a $3,000 tax-free living allowance, which covers such Washington expenses as meals, lodging, commuting and, yup, maid service, and requires only an affidavit as substantiation.

THESE CONGRESSMEN, who regularly permit the nation to be paralyzed by national strikes, would seem to have plenty of help should they decide to do a lick of work. Each member is allowed $141,510 to hire and pay up to 15 members for his office staff — including employees working in his home district. He can make up to 300 hours of free long-distance telephone calls so long as he places them before or after the peak hours of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. He gets a $750-a-year transportation allowance.

A CONGRESSMAN'S franking privilege allows him to use the mails without postage. The law says material sent postage-free must be official, but most members get around this by including newsletters and other "informational" matter designed to make them look good come Election Day.

There is a $3,500 annual stationery allowance. But it can be withdrawn as cash at any time, and unused portions are carried over from year to year.

WITH ALL this dough and all this help, the citizen of Oshkosh might feel Congress could find the time to legislate, especially in matters of national emergency such as a railway strike. But besides ignoring Nixon's proposals, our representatives failed even to come up with any alternatives to his bill.

House Cleaning Hassles

Hal Boyle

By LOUISE COOK (Submitting for Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — All those liberated women demanding that men do their fair share of the housework obviously have never seen the male of the species on the scrub line.

Even if the spirit is willing, the flesh is weak. And slow. And inefficient.

Take my friend's situation, for example. She is blessed—or burdened as the case may be—with a cooperative husband.

When she announces it's house-cleaning time, he volunteers to help—after he's finished whatever else he happens to be doing, usually a lengthy endeavor.

Unfortunately his and her ideas of house cleaning differ. She's a "sweep-it-under-the-rug" cleaner. He's an Army-conditioned "not-a-speck of dust" type.

Tops of cabinets, bottoms of tables, backs of bookcases. All must be spotless.

Ignoring specific requests for help—"How about taking out the garbage dear?"—super-spouse begins cleaning by marshaling forces for a major assault on one room—usually the bathroom.

Cleaners, mops and brushes are assembled. Everything movable is moved out of the target room—and dumped right in the middle of the just-waxed hall.

Having lived in his current home only five years, husband, of course, doesn't know where anything is kept.

Dimly, over the roar of the vacuum cleaner, my friend hears a cry for help.

Off with the vacuum, into the bathroom, find out what's needed.

"Where's the pail?" "Under the sink where it's always been."

Back to the living room, on with the vacuum. Another dim cry.

"Where do you want me to put your toothbrush?"

"In the medicine chest. Right next to where you put yours."

My friend gives up on vacuuming and stands poised dust cloth in hand, waiting for the next summons.

Right on schedule. "If you've got a minute could you come here?"

Her attention is directed to a gleaming faucet. "How's that?" asks hubby, beaming proudly.

"In half an hour you've cleaned only one faucet?" She says naively.

"I've only just started. Don't let me bother you. Go back to what you were doing."

Ignoring subsequent inspection pleas she proceeds with the rest of the house.

Cleaning completed, she ventures to check the progress of the bathroom detail.

"Don't come in. I've just started the floor. And by the way, I think you missed a spot in the hall there."

My Answer

Billy Graham

I committed a terrible sin against my wife and children. Although I am sorry, it still haunts me. What can I do?

If your sorrow is because of certain consequences which have come on your family because of your sin, this is remorse, not true repentance. If, on the other hand, you are grieved because you also sinned against God and His Holy laws then you are on the right road. In the Old Testament we read of David's terrible sin, adultery and murder. In the fifty-first Psalm we read his prayer of repentance. Although he had sinned both against a woman and her husband he cried out to God: "Against Thee, and Thee only, have I sinned."

He recognized his first responsibility to God. God forgave him and the Bible even tells us that he was a man after God's own heart. This does not mean that God approved of his sin, but it means that God accepted his contrite sorrow and forgave him. In your case, the sure way to peace is a complete confession of your sin to God, accompanied by true repentance and a determination, by God's help, to turn resolutely from sin. It is for this cause that Christ came into the world: He did not come to save good people but sinners like all of us. This is the love and grace and mercy of God that "While we were yet sinners Christ died for us."

A Devotion For Today . . .

After sending the people away, he went up a hill by himself to pray. When evening came, Jesus was there alone. (Matthew 14:23, TEV)

PRAYER: Almighty Father, let us not be dismayed by loneliness we face. We know it is Your will that we alone, because being alone helps heal our souls exposed to the tumult of this age. Through our Comforter, Jesus, Amen.

A LOVELIER YOU Elbow Into Beauty By Good Skin Care

By MARY SUE MILLER
A Lovely writes: What can I do to smooth and whiten my elbows? They feel like sandpaper and look grubby. I do not know why. They are not abused. I work at a desk all day and have been wearing long sleeves all winter. Nothing helps, neither pumice stone nor hand lotion.

The Answer: First off you have to break the habit of leaning on your elbows — leaning on your desk, the arms of chairs, table tops. You do lean, you know. Otherwise the skin would not be in such a fix.

Once the pressure's off, elbows respond to a variety of treatments:

1. Cleanse the elbows with a firm brush and facial quality soap several times daily. Dry briskly with a terry towel and massage in body lotion.

2. To cleansed, dry elbows apply a scuff remover. This is a fluid cream, originally designed to create pretty feet from a mass of calloused spots. The action on the elbows is much the same. You simply rub it in until rough skin is loosened, when you whisk away particles. As only a little scuff comes away with each treatment, keep at it. At least three times a week.

3. Pale the skin with a prepared skin bleach or a homemade lemon soak. But do avoid using either on the same day as scuff remover. For a soak, halve and hull out a lemon leaving a little pulp inside. Then oil your elbows and soak them in the cups for 15 minutes. Rinse, pat dry and apply lotion.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Don't throw away all those plastic foam cartons, cups, containers, or what have you, that everything seems to come in these days. Keep them to use when you're mailing a package. They can be placed between, over, under and around objects and can be crushed into small pieces to fill in those tiny crevices.

The material is far lighter than straw, cut newspapers, or other such packing materials. And, of course, with a lighter packing material, your postage costs will be reduced. ... E.L.S.

What a super idea. In this day and age when we are all sending packages hither and yon, this is a good hint to keep in mind to protect your budget. ... Heloise

Dear Heloise: I like to make gravy ahead of my last-minute dinner preparations. Early in the day, or even the day before, I put all my ingredients (except the salt) in a large saucepan (flour, water and seasonings), blend together and cook until smooth. I put this mixture in a covered utensil and refrigerate until needed. When the meat or fowl is ready to remove to the platter, I just add the juices from the roasting pan to my gravy mixture.

With a whisk or small wire beater, I blend and cook the gravy, adding salt and other seasonings as needed. No more rushing at the last

Miss Eubanks graduated from Cooper High School in Abilene. She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Eubanks, are former Big Spring residents. About 15 guests attended, including Bob Lloyd and Mrs. Eubanks both of Abilene. The tables near the pool were centered with patio candles.

Dear Heloise: I use nylon net to remove black marks from waxed floors. I use a fairly large square of net, dip it into clear water, and rub it on the spot. The spot is gone, and the wax remains!

Perhaps this idea will repay in part for the many hints you have given me. "Heloise" is a must for me each morning when my paper arrives. ... Mrs. R. E. Haney

Dear Heloise: I have a good idea for pot holders that I would like to share with you.

I had a mattress pad that wore out in the center, so I cut squares from the good part and covered the squares with colorful prints.

I sewed around the edges and across the holders several times. If anyone has a sewing machine that makes fancy stitches, it will make the holders even more attractive. ... Mrs. Helen Edwards

Black Gls Are Blamed For Blasts In Korea

SEOUL (AP) — Black soldiers protesting racial discrimination are blamed for a rash of grenade explosions at a U.S. camp 35 miles south of Seoul. One American and three Koreans have been injured by the blasts.

Five grenades exploded Saturday night and early Sunday at Camp Humphreys. A military spokesman denied a report that two more grenades went off today. He said an explosion had been heard, but it was the work of Koreans blasting at a construction site nearby.

comment on reports from U.S. military sources and Korean police that the grenade explosions were the work of black soldiers angered by their treatment by the Army. The Seoul newspaper Hankook Ilbo said 10 unidentified Negro soldiers were responsible for the weekend explosion.

The U.S. spokesman confirmed that a quantity of grenades had been stolen on the base before the explosions. He said this included 50 fragmentation grenades, two incendiary grenades and 16 smoke grenades.

The South Korean capital protesting racial grievances. They complained of inadequate promotion opportunities, other racial inequality and that a large number of Negro soldiers were confined in the Army stockade.

Senate Passes Liquor-Beer Tax Bill After Filibuster

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Charles Wilson of Lufkin had the audience, but Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes had control and that's what counted Monday night as the Senate shoved through a $40 million liquor-beer tax bill.

The final vote was 27-2, and even Wilson voted for it after filibustering for more beer tax for three hours and 10 minutes.

The measure still must be considered by the House.

Wilson's filibuster was cut off at 8:42 p.m. when Barnes called for a vote on Wilson's proposal to raise the tax on beer an extra $1 a barrel. The amendment failed, 20-8, leaving the beer tax at $5 a barrel, up 70 cents from the current rate.

HE'S FUNNY

Wilson, ramrod straight and in strong voice as usual, made side jokes about wanting to stay up long enough to get news coverage on the 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. television news shows.

Other senators kidded him about kicking off his campaign for Congress, although he has not officially announced.

Barnes—unlike during most filibusters—simply interrupted Wilson whenever he wished to call for votes, and Wilson never made a serious issue out of it.

The senator read from a history book on breweries and maintained that his "body fluids and pulse beat" were strong enough for him to go at length.

Sen. Henry Grover of Houston broke in once to ask for the unknown donor of enchiladas to send more because they had run out in a back room.

COLLECTION AGENCY

The liquor-beer bill raises the gallonage tax on liquor from $1.68 to $1.95 and imposes a 5-cent tax on mini-bottles. It also imposes a 10 per cent gross receipts tax on all mixed drinks sold publicly and in private clubs with the state getting 7 per cent and the cities and counties 1-1/2 per cent each.

The Alcoholic Beverage Commission (ABC) would collect the tax, a feature of the bill the sponsor, Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso, said was most important.

An amendment to make the state comptroller the collection agency failed, 16-14.

An amendment was added, however, which would let the manager of a private club issue temporary memberships good for 72 hours for $2.50, with $2 going to the state.

A much shorter filibuster of one hour and 13 minutes by Sen. Harris of Dallas caused the Senate to skip over a bill creating a "Little Hoover Commission" on government economy. It probably will not be received.

In other action both houses approved and sent to Gov. Preston Smith for signature a bill setting up local regulation of private sewage treatment facilities.

Senate bills passed to the House Monday would make the Air Control Board a separate agency—apart from the State Health Department—and set up an Office of Environmental Quality to review plans for state projects which might affect the environment.

House members approved and sent to the Senate measures which would:

—Allow the legislature to set up a modified seniority system under which lawmakers would keep their committee assignments from session to session.

—Prohibit the release on bond during their appeals of persons sentenced to more than 15 years imprisonment in felony cases.

—Make it a misdemeanor to furnish credit rating bureaus with false information about another person's credit standing.

—Prohibit members of the State Banking Board from borrowing money or obtaining a financial interest in any state bank.

—Authorize water districts to buy land for parks near streams and lakes.

—Prohibit state and local governments from discriminating in employment, licensing, use of public facilities or any other activity because of one's sex.

—Set up a non-binding referendum in 1972 on whether Texans think the state should aid parochial schools.

Senators tentatively approved, 16-14, a bill which would turn over all financing of public schools to the state. Chances of final passage seemed slim.

Col. John C. McWhorter Jr., commander of the 23rd General Support Group at the base, offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the recovery of the stolen grenades. He also announced that any soldier who helped locate them would be returned immediately to the United States.

The American was injured Sunday when he opened a helicopter door and detonated a grenade placed as a booby trap. He was reported in satisfactory condition at an Army hospital. The man was not identified and military spokesmen said they had no information on his race because it is not normally indicated in injury reports.

"DUD" DISCOVERED
One Korean employed at the base was injured Saturday when a grenade exploded inside the camp, and two other Koreans were injured in explosions outside the gate.

Officials said another explosion occurred in the camp's mess hall Saturday, but no one was hurt. A dud grenade was also discovered outside the mess hall.

Last month about 100 black soldiers from Camp Humphrey faced their way into a Korean bar—catering to white servicemen, and eight white soldiers and 10 Korean waitresses were injured in the ensuing brawl.

Later in the night there were fires at the base, broken windows and other disturbances which the Army said had "racial overtones," and seven soldiers were arrested on suspicion of arson and larceny.

Red River Navigation Called Key To 'Boom'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., says the proposed Red River waterway from the Mississippi River to Daingerfield, Tex., is important to the economic growth of the area.

Patman and 19 supporters of the proposal appeared Monday before a House appropriations subcommittee.

The Texas Democrat asked the subcommittee to allot $1.5 million to plan and build the waterway, noting the Nixon administration budget ignored the project.

MOST IMPORTANT

"Navigation from the Mississippi to Daingerfield, Tex., would, in combination with the abundant natural resources and favorable climate of the area, make our area one of the most important industrial sections of the nation," Patman said.

Appearing with Patman were persons from Marshall, Cooper and Sulphur Springs, Tex. Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., asked the subcommittee for more funds for budgeted items, such as $7.2 million rather than the $4.7 budgeted for a hurricane and flood protection project around Port Arthur; $2.9 million instead of $1.9 million for years been inundated," Brooks said. "That indicates the vulnerability of areas with inadequate protection."

Woman Slain, Spouse Wounded

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP) — Police resumed an investigation today into what they called "a husband and wife quarrel" that left a woman dead and her spouse wounded.

Mrs. Hattie Roberson, 31, was fatally wounded Monday by a .38-caliber pistol shot in her chest.

Her husband, Barnell, 36, suffered a .22-caliber gunshot wound in the face. The wound was described as not serious.

No charges in the case were filed at once.

Dramatic Singer Returns To Met

NEW YORK (AP) — Red-haired, dramatic singer Ljuba Welitch will return to the Metropolitan Opera next season.

Miss Welitch, last heard here in 1951-52, will have the role of the Duchess of Crakentorp in the revival of Donizetti's "The Daughter of the Regiment."

The Bulgarian soprano, now 57, made her Met debut in "Salome," her most famous role, in 1949. Lately she has had considerable success as a comedienne in German films.

It appears that South, the declarer at six hearts, must go down to defeat, inasmuch as he must lose a club trick and the heart queen is off-side. South overcame the adverse distribution by resorting to a trump reducing campaign that enabled him to lump his losers together.

West opened the three of spades, dummy followed with the deuce and East put up the ten to dislodge declarer's ace. An examination of the combined holdings revealed that the fate of the contract appeared to hinge on two finesses—one in clubs and the other in the trump suit. South tested the clubs first by leading a small one from his hand and covering West's ten with the queen. When this play succeeded the first obstacle had been surmounted. The heart finesse appeared to be the next step of the campaign, however, declarer perceived an alternate course which offered slightly improved odds. He cashed the king of spades, discarding a club, and then led a small spade, ruffing in his hand with the five of hearts. Next came the ace and king of diamonds and a fourth round of spades—trumped with the seven of hearts, as all hands followed suit.

A club was led to the ace and South ruffed a diamond with the ten of hearts to produce the following position with nine tricks in:

WEST EAST

SOUTH
♥ Void

South now exited with the nine of clubs and West was obliged to ruff in with the three of hearts. The forced trump return into declarer's A-K-J gave him the last three tricks.

Observe that South's line of play would also have succeeded had the queen of hearts been in the East hand where it would have been finessable. Once declarer singles in the five of hearts, his remaining trumps are equals and can be overruffed only if West has the queen.

The SEC earlier this year—and the only one who has not been placed under a temporary injunction against the alleged practices.

The former attorney general had demanded in court that the SEC answer certain questions to help him prepare a defense against a suit for a permanent injunction, set for trial Aug. 30.

The SEC repeated the words of its original complaint last Jan. 18, claiming that Carr "participated in a scheme with respect to the alleged violations and is therefore responsible for the act of each of his co-schemers in the furtherance of the scheme," including Houston financier Frank Sharp, also a defendant.

WHEELER DEALER Carr's alleged acts of "self-dealing" included a loan he and John Osorio, then his law partner, made to City Bank & Trust to acquire controlling interest in Lincoln in 1933 for a tavern in New Salem. The license cost $6 and an additional $1 charge permitted him to sell drinks at posted prices.

Leg Cramps

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the preferred treatment for leg cramps in the legs? Do you have a leaflet on the subject? They come on suddenly, quite strong, and are gone in a minute or two. — E. H.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm being facetious when I say that the preferred treatment is whatever treatment gets rid of the cramps. You don't give me any idea of your age, or of the circumstances under which the cramps start, or whether you have any physical problems that might be involved. For a common type of leg cramps, which very often strikes after one has gone to bed at night, a combination of methods often brings relief when depending on the severity of the trouble. Again, either foot defects or impaired circulation may be involved, or a combination. But in some instances severe pain or weakness can indicate a considerable interference with circulation in the legs.

This is a less common condition, involving a segment of an artery so constricted that only a relatively small amount of blood can flow. With even mild exertion, the flow is insufficient for the needs and the cramps follow. A brief rest gives prompt relief.

In such cases — these are, of course, nowhere near as common as the simple cramps discussed earlier in this column — surgery often can clear up the trouble, by removing the constricted segment of artery and substituting a plastic section large enough to permit adequate blood flow.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is tonsillitis with a fever contagious? Some friends say yes, some no. I need to know because I have been going to school with a fever and tonsillitis. — S.T.

Yes, it's generally contagious, with the streptococcus germ the usual cause. You can be endangering others — and also yourself, because with such a condition you risk rheumatic fever, kidney infection, or serious ear infection. I certainly doubt if your doctor approves of your going to school until the infection is under control.

Troubled with gout? To learn of new treatment for this cruel and painful disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "Gout — The Modern Way To Stop It." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Marriages Jump

LONDON (AP) — Marriage is becoming more popular in Britain despite a permissive society. Over the past 30 years the proportion of the population who are married has risen from 42.7 per cent to 50.7 per cent. In 1969, a survey showed. This change has been due mainly to an increase in marriage rates among men and women in their late teens and early twenties.

Dane, Russian Win In Chess

By The Associated Press

Grandmasters Tigran Petrosian of the Soviet Union and Bent Larsen of Denmark recorded victories Sunday in quarter-finals play of the World Chess Championships but illness forced postponement of the Bobby Fischer-Mark Taimanov elimination match.

In Sevilla, Spain, Petrosian defeated Robert Heubner, West Germany, in 40 moves. Petrosian made a Sicilian defense in the match which lasted five hours. The Soviet player has four points and Heubner three.

In Las Palmas, Canary Islands, Larsen beat Wolfgang Uhlmann, East Germany, in the 36th move of their sixth match.

Larsen made a merano defense. The match lasted 4 1/2 hours. He now has four points and Uhlmann has two.

And in Vancouver, B.C., Soviet Grandmaster Taimanov, 45, asked postponement of the fourth game to seek treatment for high blood pressure. Next game in the match will be played Tuesday.

In Moscow, Viktor Korchnoi of Russia defeated countryman Yeffim Geller Saturday in the fifth game of their quarter-final match. The victory on the 28th move gave Korchnoi a 3-2 lead in their 10-game series.

It took six weeks to get the cast off and now he is undergoing therapy.

YOUTHS CAN SIGN SHORTLY FOR SUMMER BASKETBALL

Youths were encouraged today to mark June 1 as the date for signing for the City-wide Summer Recreational program basketball league.

Registration is set for 7 p.m. at the Runnels gym, said Ben Neel, who will supervise this activity. Those who may have conflicts which prevent being present are asked to check with Neel or with the YMCA, which is the supervising agency.

The program is open to any junior high or high school boy (regardless of whether he plays basketball regularly), and to young men who may be playing basketball in college. Neel hopes there will be sufficient interest to warrant two leagues, possibly one on the high school level and one on the junior high level.

Starting date for the leagues will be announced as soon as the total roster is determined. Neel urged boys who are playing baseball to bring their schedules with them so they may be placed on teams and scheduled to avoid conflicts.

Ted Williams Learns To Win Against Sox

By The Associated Press
Ted Williams, once a 400 hit-ter for the Boston Red Sox, is now a .500 manager against them. Williams' Washington Senators, cellar-dwellers in the American League East, turned on the front-running Red Sox 8-6 Monday night, snapping an eight-game losing streak. The victory was the 20th in 40 games for the one-time Boston hero as a manager against the Red Sox and sliced their lead to 2 1/2 games over idle Baltimore. The only other major league action saw San Diego kayo Bob Gibson in the fourth inning and the rout St. Louis 12-3, Philadelphia edged Cincinnati 2-1 and Atlanta whip Montreal 9-4. The Senators rolled—if that's the word—into Boston having lost 18 of their previous 21 games and having scored one lone run while dropping a four-game weekend series in Detroit. That changed quickly. With Frank Howard belting a two-run homer, his first in Boston since 1969, the Senators jumped on Bill Lee for five runs in the first inning. If you think it was all smooth sailing thereafter, you don't know the Washington Senators. The Red Sox clipped Casey Cox for a run in their half of the first and shelled him in the third with Carl Yastrzemski hitting a two-run homer and Billy Conigliaro a three-run job. Williams violated the unwrit-

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart
Sports dialogue: LARRY COSTELLO, coach of the NBA champions, the Milwaukee Bucks: "Lew Alcindor is our arms and our legs, but Oscar Robertson is our brains, our eyes and our heart."
Coach GENE STALLINGS of Texas A&M, predicting that the Aggie footballers will be better this fall than last: "We'll have more experience and depth, and we'll have some talent. Not many reporters have asked me about spring training. We don't have many reporters attend practices and I didn't want to say a lot about it. Last year, we never learned how to keep from losing. I felt we were a tired team near the end of the season, and it looked like the boys were running out on the field just because I said to run out on the field. What makes you tired in the season isn't running. It's getting out there and jarring your old body around. This fall I hope to do more gummy work. We were more physical last year, and all of our kids were sophomores. This year they're juniors, and they'll already know the things to do."
DAVE BURGIN, San Francisco columnist: "This week's Bush League Award goes to Giant pitcher Gaylord Perry. At Candlestick Park, Perry ordered a 16 year old boy out of the clubhouse, with the words, 'Get out of here, kid. And why don't you get a haircut?' Perry also made a move toward the youngster, who later told his father, who watched the incident in disbelief, 'Dad, I think he was going to push me.' You get these biggest, image-conscious, double standard, smug athletes from time to time and it's a shame, since the public pays their fare, after all. The best thing to do is ignore them. Or criticize them in print. Either one usually gets to them."
FRANK LUCCHESI, Philadelphia Phillies' manager, discussing pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs: "He lives on the black more than any pitcher in the league. He starts hunting for the corners early and keeps hunting."
English jockey LESTER PIGGOTT, after American-owned King's Company survived his protest to win the Irish 200 Guinness Turf Classic: "I will never again ride in Ireland. I was murdered for more than a furlong and a half. The Frenchman (jockey Freddie Head, aboard King's Company) hampered me."
DICK KING, general manager of the Oklahoma City minor league baseball club, whose team has doubled its attendance this year: "I don't think baseball's suffering from anything but the lack of hard work by the people who run it."
BILL RIGNEY, discussing his hard-hitting veteran, Harmon Killebrew: "He's the darndest ball player I ever managed. He's totally unselfish and the complete team man. Most players groan and gripe when switched from one position to another, even when they're not stars. But Harm is a superstar and never complains. Whatever is best for the team," he says. Last year, I tried to rest him in the second game of a double-header with Oakland. 'You can't rest me against this club, skipper,' he said. 'This is the team we have to beat.' So I left him in the lineup. To be truthful, I hate leaving him out."
DEACON JONES, defensive end for the Los Angeles Rams, on chasing Fran Tarkenton, elusive quarterback for the New York Giants: "You feel like a farmer after a greased pig. If you're lucky enough to catch him, you're too tired to enjoy it."

BOLIN NICKED

Meanwhile, the Senators nicked Bob Bolin for the tying run in the sixth on a single by Tim Cullen and Toby Harrah's bloop double and got the winner in the seventh on doubles by Joe Foy and Paul Casanova. Clarence Gaston and Dave Campbell led San Diego's assault against St. Louis and prevented the Cardinals from moving into first place in the National League East. They trail the idle New York Mets by one-half game. Gaston drove in four runs with three singles while Campbell also had four RBI with his fifth homer, a two-run triple and bases-loaded walk. Gibson, 4-5, was raked for nine hits and seven runs in three innings-plus. Philadelphia's Denny Doyle has hit four home runs in his big league career. Only two, however, have gone out of the park and both have come off Cincinnati's Gary Nolan. Doyle connected with a runner aboard night, enabling the Phils to nip the Reds 2-1 behind the six-hit pitching of Rick Wise. Doyle's blow was the only hit of the Cincinnati right-hander in his seven innings of work. Orlando Cepeda broke a 3-all tie with a two-run homer in the fifth inning and Felix Millan doubled home three runs in the ninth as the Braves trounced the Expos. Ron Fairly and Gary Sutherland homered for Montreal.

Top Women Bowlers

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Wilmette, Ill., bowling team has emerged the top money winner in the Women's International Bowling Congress championship tournament. The König and Strey Real Estate team collected top prize money of $1,700 with a score of 2891 Sunday in the final day of the 46-day tournament. In doubles standings, Dotty Pothergill, North Attleboro, Mass., and Mildred Martorella, Rochester, N.Y., led the Open Division with a 1263, and went away with $1,000. Ginny Younginer, Winnsboro, S.C., bowled 667 in Open Division singles for a $700 prize. The best singles score was hung up by Mary Scruggs, Richmond, Va., who bowled 698 for $500 in Division I. The tournament boasted the second richest bowling pot in history, $284,000, and the fourth largest number of entries, 4,928.

Moody's Not Winning But He's In Demand

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Could be the nice guy tag he got in a hectic year following his U. S. Open victory in 1969 at the Houston Champions. Or perhaps it's the friends he has made playing at all the service bases. Whatever it is it isn't because Moody is shooting the lights out making enough outside money that he can turn down a $1,000 exhibition.

Maybe it's Orville Moody's red, white and blue shoes that keeps folks curious about him. "I've always tried to treat people right," said Moody after the Colonial National Invitation tournament. "There are guys out there playing better than I am who aren't invited to play in every Pro-Am like I have been. I'm not in the limelight, yet they still want me to play."

Moody finished 50th last year on the money list and said "I've just had trouble concentrating. I sometimes hit a shot out there and ask myself 'What were you thinking about?' I've got to build my confidence up. I guess you can say I've just been choking. You can't call it anything else."

A birdie-birdie finish for a final round one-under-par 69 on the rugged Colonial Course gave Moody a $6,081 payday for a third-place tie.

"This is the first time I've felt good since the Masters," Moody said. "My swing is automatic so 75 per cent of my game is mental."

Moody, a former Army sergeant who has let his sideburns drop to the earlobes in the "New Army" tradition, said he still hasn't realized the $1 million some said he would get from the Open victory. "I won it at a bad time," Moody said. "The economy was bad. Over a period of years it might be worth $1 million. I'm sure it will be to someone like Lee Trevino. It could be for me, if I started playing good again."

Moody had some clothing contracts fall through and changed managers. Now, he's in the process of moving to Lago Vista, Texas, near Austin where a new resort is being hammered out. He plans to retire there eventually. Moody has put his house on the block in Killen.

Steve Spray, a six-year tour veteran from Indiana, Iowa, recently was inducted into the NAIA Hall of Fame only the Robinson Open, a $100,000 tournament, officially has changed its name to the "Par 72 Magazine Open."

Mike Hill is concerned with the final two days of that tournament, more than double the crowd they had the year before and about twice the size of the crowd in 1969 for the U. S. Open, both which were nationally televised.

LITTLE LEAGUE Hawks Take Over American Lead

The Hawks gained sole possession of first place in American Little League standings by defeating the Colts, 7-4, Monday night. The Hawks are currently 9-1 in the standings. The Colts dropped back to 8-2. Timely hitting in the fourth and fifth innings turned the trick for the Hawks. Steve Evans and Jody Newham each had two blows for the Hawks.

Tommy Churchwell, on the mound for the Hawks, rationed out seven blows to the Colts but kept them scattered. Hank Adams was the only Colt to collect as many as two safeties. Howks 200 325-7 Colts 800 211-4-7

The Sports enjoyed two big innings on their way to an 11-8 American Minor League win over the Elks here Monday. The win was the first for the Sports, compared to five defeats and a tie. The Elks dropped back to 3-4-1.

Seward banged out two hits in three tries for the Elks while Ken Watkins led the Sports with three hits. Seale and Carroll each wound up with two hits for the Sports.

In International Minor League play Monday, Rod Smith and Jerry Raigh combined to hurl a no-hitter but the Scorpions had to sting often to outlast the Falcons, 19-12. Raigh's relief chore was the bright spot of the afternoon. The Scorpions had eight hits, most of them delivered under clutch situations.

Raigh's relief chore was the Yellow with two safeties. The win gave the Scorpions sole possession of second place. The loss was the Sabres' sixth, compared to three wins. George Gunkle was the losing pitcher but he had a big night at the plate, getting a two-run double in the sixth.

The Hawks achieved their second straight National Minor League upset by defeating the Colts, 10-9, here Monday. The Hawks are currently 4-1 in the standings while the Colts receded to 6-3.

Howard Shivers scored two runs for the Hawks. Steve Blythe drove in two runs with a double. Don Davis accounted for one run batted in. Terry Hart had a hit and scored for the winners.

Seven runs in the fifth gave the Colts a 9-6 advantage but the Hawks came right back to score four times. Kevin McLaughlin was the winning pitcher.

Five teams are now committed to play in the Big Spring Slow-Pitch league and more are being sought. Indications are a teen-age girls' softball league will also be organized.

'Every Brigade In Vietnam Has Had Its My Lai'

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — Army Col. Oran K. Henderson, accused in the alleged coverup of the My Lai massacre, says: "Every brigade in Vietnam has had its My Lai—not of the same size and scope—but the brigade commander doesn't know."

Henderson, 50, also told newsmen Monday during a break in an evidence hearing concerning his case that he also offered to take the blame for the My Lai incident but was turned down by the Army.

Henderson, who commanded the 11th Infantry Brigade when one of its companies swept through My Lai, said he made the offer in a letter Dec. 10, 1969, to Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the Army chief of staff.

When asked if Westmoreland answered the letter, Henderson said "It was a very blunt reply: 'I received your letter and don't plan taking any action...'

Henderson, a native of Indianapolis, was one of 14 men later ordered court-martialed following a Pentagon inquiry into the handling of My Lai field reports and investigations. Charges against all the others have been dropped.

He insists he received only "nebulous reports" from subordinate officers following the March, 1968, My Lai massacre. Henderson said that Capt. Ernest Medina, commander of Charley Company which swept through My Lai, "admitted he lied to me in the field about the number of persons killed."

Another of Henderson's subordinate officers, Lt. William L. Calley Jr., has been convicted of murdering 22 civilians at My Lai and is awaiting the outcome of appeals in his case.

Henderson is accused of giving false information to a Pentagon inquiry board headed by Lt. Gen. William R. Peers and of failing to properly investigate atrocity reports from My Lai.

"I feel every officer of the U.S. Army is derelict at one time or the other," Henderson said at the news conference, the first he has held since he was charged. "There aren't enough hours in the day to do the things we have to do."

"With the reports of My Lai I had at the time, I felt I did an adequate job. With what I know now, the answer is no."

STANLEY E. M. SYLVESTER
Honorary British Consul

'Pink' Kidnapers Silent On Ransom

ROSARIO, Argentina (AP) — The leftist kidnapers of Swift executive Stanley E. M. Sylvester have described him as an enemy of the people because he works for one of the North American companies the kidnapers said exploit the Argentine working man.

In their second communique since the kidnaping Sunday, the Revolutionary Army of the People, or ERP, took issue with a statement by Sylvester's wife that "he has no enemies."

"It is the people who have enemies," said the communique Monday night. "Their enemies are the exploiters, the large North American companies and the military dictatorship who sink our country in misery, injustice and oppression, and Mr. Sylvester is one of those enemies of the people."

There was no other information or ransom demand accompanying the communique. There were unconfirmed reports that Swift had agreed to meet any ransom demand ERP might make.

Sylvester, 58, managing director of the Swift meat packing plant here and the honorary British Consul, was abducted outside his home by three gunmen of the Trotskyite Communist group. The ERP's first communique, left in a downtown bar Sunday, made no ransom demand but said Sylvester was being turned over to the "people's justice."

Arabs Firing Russ Rockets At Settlement

By The Associated Press

Israeli settlers ran for shelter underground when Arab guerrillas fired rockets into the Beisan valley Monday night in the first attack across the Jordanian border in more than six months.

Israeli mortars retaliated with a barrage, informed sources said. Minor damage but no casualties were reported on the Israeli side.

The Russian Katyusha rockets were aimed at an Israeli settlement three miles from the Jordan river frontier, the sources said. The guerrillas have not been active since Jordanian army units dislodged them from positions along the river during fighting last fall between the army and the guerrillas.

To the northwest, on the central sector of the Israeli-Lebanese border, Israeli troops killed two guerrillas infiltrating from Lebanon early Tuesday, an Israeli spokesman said. They were reported to be the first infiltrators in that part of the border in several months.

At the other end of Israel, in the Gaza Strip, two Israeli soldiers were wounded when Palestinian terrorists threw a grenade at a patrol, and another Israeli soldier and two Arab-civilians were wounded by other grenades.

Premier Golda Meir arrived in Helsinki to address the 12th postwar conference of the Socialist International. Interviewed en route to Copenhagen, she called on Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to use his newly strengthened position to lead Egypt into real peace negotiations with Israel.

Mrs. Meir said Sadat had "showed a lot of courage and a lot of ability" in defeating his political foes, and she hoped for a new attitude in Cairo "if Sadat remains in charge."

Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny was due in Cairo today to assess the situation in the wake of Sadat's purge, the chief victims of which were some of the Kremlin's most devoted supporters in the Egyptian regime.

Cairo's semiofficial newspaper Al Ahrar once more assured the Soviet Union of Egypt's continued solidarity with it, but the front-page editorial pointedly rejected any foreign interference in domestic affairs. "Only imperialism moves with the logic of interfering in the internal affairs of sovereign states to safeguard its interests," it said.

Sources in Cairo said Podgorny was expected to stay three days.

ANY ALF LANDON BUTTONS AROUND?

HOUSTON (AP) — Garden Villas Community Church members won't say how long it has been since they cleaned their church.

But volunteers At and John Stringer on a recent housecleaning day found a "Dewey for President" button on the floor of the church's social hall.

The late New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was the Republican presidential nominee in 1944 and 1948.

FLORIDIAN, COED FACE DOPE COUNTS

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A young Florida man and a teenage co-ed from Mexico City were held here today on charges of smuggling more than two pounds of cocaine worth $25,000.

Arrested Sunday after a flight from Mexico City were Gary Gene Duvon, 24, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., who said he was a student at the University of Florida; and Laurie Cohen, 18, of Mexico City.

She said she was a student at Mexico's University of the Americas.

Congress Nearing Action Corps Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several committee chairmen apparently held the key today as the House neared a decision on President Nixon's plan to ultimately consolidate the Peace Corps, VISTA and other volunteer agencies into the new Action Corps.

The Senate Government Operations Committee also had the plan under consideration today, with floor action expected later in the week.

One source had indicated the House outcome could depend on how strongly the reorganization is opposed by committee chairmen such as Carl D. Perkins, of the Education and Labor Committee, Joe Ewins, of the Select Committee on Small Business, and Thomas E. Morgan, of the Foreign Affairs Committee.

Under the Government Reorganization Act the merger becomes law automatically unless rejected by either branch of Congress before June 4.

President Nixon first announced his plan to create an Action Corps Jan. 14, telling a University of Nebraska audience the time has come "to forge an alliance of the generations." He has proposed Peace Corps Director Joseph Blatchford to head the agency.

The first step in the merger would combine Volunteers in Service to America—VISTA—with several smaller volunteer programs—two from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Administration on Aging and two from the Small Business Administration.

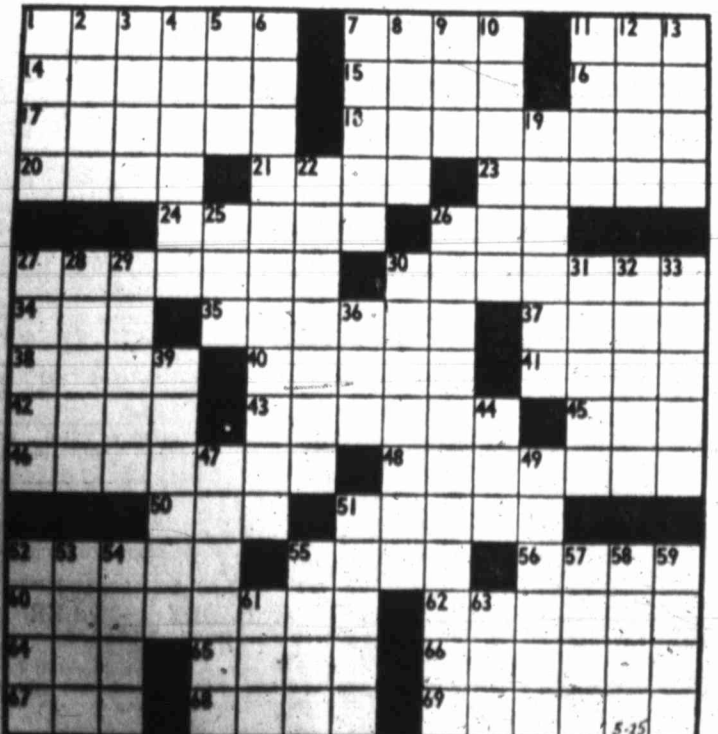

MAKES BID — Reies Lopez Tijerina, above, bids for freedom today from a federal prison sentence resulting from his attempt to take over a national forest he said belongs to Mexican-American people.

Cloud Seeding Project Will Cost $75,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reclamation Bureau will begin an experiment of cloud-seeding over South Texas to try and produce rain, the Office of Emergency Preparedness has announced.

The 30-day experiment will cost $75,000.

Home base for the program will be San Antonio, the office of Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., announced.

In San Antonio, the Express said the program will begin some time in June and probably will be based at Kelly Air Force Base.

The Express quoted a letter sent by Gen. George Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, to the Bureau of Reclamation, ordering implementation of the program.

The program will begin "as soon as atmospheric conditions make it look possible," Lincoln said.
