Furious Storm Strikes Big Spring

Winds Flip Mobile Home; Damages High

Rain and wind wreaked havoc with mobile homes and traffic during a deluge that fell on Big Spring around noon Saturday. Witnesses insist that some of the damage was caused by twisters, although only high winds were officially reported. One of the hardest hit by the storm was the James Brown family. Their mobile home on Chapparral Drive off Country Club Road in the Silver Heels Addition was completely destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Brown and their five children were not injured as they sought shelter in a solid building that had been added on to the home as a den. When the storm subsided, the den was all that remained.

The incident occurred in the 2500 block of U.S. 80 West at 12:18 p.m. Saturday. City police were kept busy during the downpour with a string of mishaps as high water, wet streets and wet brakes made driving hazardous. Rain-slicked highways were the apparent cause of a one-car accident on IS 20 just east of the Phillips 66-Truck Terminal Restaurant Saturday at 9:30 a.m. The car, driven by Robert Walter Cutshall, 400 W. Estes, Midland, was going east on IS 20 when it skidded into the median and then into a culvert.

Cutshall received minor injuries but did not require an ambulance. Three passengers in the car were unhurt. Rusk Don Henry, 415 Edwards, and Sauerborn Louis Moore, Mt. View Trailer Park, were involved in a mishap at Fourth and Gregg at 12:13 p.m. At 12:54 p.m., officers investigated a mishap at N. Birdwell Lane and the Railroad underpass. Robert Walter DeWeese, Box 1961, and Clifford Eugene Blythe, Rt. 1, Box 325, were the drivers involved. At 12:19 p.m. at Eighteenth and Scurry, a vehicle driven by Gary Lynn Hodnett, 1405 E. 15th, collided with another driven by Lindy S. Landrum, 2107 Main. Several accidents occurred in which no report was filed as the drivers agreed to settle the matter. People found themselves trapped inside their cars by the sudden high waters. Persons trapped inside a car in the 800 block of Goliad at 12:24 p.m. were assisted to safety by officer Richard Doane. Officer Fred Parsons freed some children trapped inside a stranded car at 12:25 p.m. Mrs. Walter Bell, 1405 E. 6th, requested the assistance.

Cloudbursts Creating Problems, Jubilation

Angry clouds buffeted Big Spring and area Saturday morning with rain, hail and high winds, but the two to three inches of moisture over most of Howard County far outweighed any damage the storm inflicted. At least three mobile homes were overturned, and several campers were reported toppled. Police rescued a number of people in cars trapped in flash-flooded streets. Water spilled into a few downtown streets. In the southwest edge of town, which seems to have borne the brunt of the sharp thrust which peaked at 11:30 a.m., one house was moved off its foundations, several roof-top air conditioners were blown off, a few fences were toppled, and here and there sections of fence were wadded by winds estimated at more than a mile an hour.

Across town, officers had to block the crossing on Birdwell Lane just south of the IS 20 overpass. Debris was strewn over streets and roads by the sudden rush of water, and there was a rash of traffic mishaps attributed to the storm. Webb AFB was battered by winds recorded at 60 knots, and operators were forced briefly to flee the tower. Intense rain that registered 1.92 inches fell largely within a half hour, washing some fences and damaging shelters on the golf course. East of Big Spring the Moss Creek road was closed and under water at the Beals Creek crossing. Twenty miles south of town sheriff's deputies reported that cows had to swim from swollen draws to high ground. One gauge at Forsan showed 3.4 inches.

Water coursing down Runnels Street cascaded into the package store and shine parlor floors of the Settles Hotel but was contained before doing much damage. Water got into the Howard House from the Runnels Street side but there was no damage. A package store at FM 700 and Birdwell caught water through the back door, but it only dampened the boxes averting bourbon and water for the natives. At Big Spring the total was registered officially at 2.66 inches at the U.S. Experiment Farm, but 2.4 of this occurred Friday. Within one 15-minute period it rained 1.85 inches. All over the city reports seemed to go up from 2.5 inches. Innocent Plea Due In Mass Murders Case YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — Sheriff's deputies unearthed two more bodies Saturday in an orchard along the Feather River, bringing the total to 23 slain men, as a man accused of murder in the case conferred with his attorney. The sheriff said he expected to find still more bodies. Public defender Roy Van Den Heuvel emerged from an hour-long conference in the Sutter County Jail to tell newsmen Juan Corona would plead innocent. A drizzling rain fell as the bodies of the 22nd and 23rd farm workers were carried in hearses down the dirt road leading from the peach orchard for the five-mile trip south to a Yuba City funeral home. Sheriff Roy Whiteaker announced discovery of the 22nd body shortly after noon. About an hour later he reappeared and said "it's at 23 right now." He said the digging crews would simply "keep searching," with three or four more possible gravesites yet to be explored. "I think there are more," the sheriff said. Deputies fanned out along five miles of the winding river during the morning, looking for more of the depressions in the loamy soil that give a clue of where to dig. Corona, 37, a farm labor contractor, was arrested and charged Wednesday after the first nine bodies were unearthed. Corona's wife, Gloria, and their four daughters aged 4 to 8 years had left to stay with relatives shortly after Corona's arrest.

Reviewing the ... Big Spring Week ... with Joe Pickle

There is a tendency to label any substantial rain in West Texas as a "million dollar rain." You might raise the ante on the Saturday thunderstorm, for it was general enough to afford most of the county a chance to plant. A few sections, visited previously by spotted showers, have enough to insure carrying the crop for a few months. Subsequent events will tell the story, but if more timely showers follow, we could yet make a crop. In that case, this would prove to be much more than that million-dollar rain. Seldom has there been higher wind than accompanied the Saturday storm. Webb AFB operators had to abandon the tower momentarily, and one estimate was that gusts hit 85 mph. Hail fortunately was small, but wind propelled it like rifle shots. The picture of area lakes was clouded, but it appeared Lake J. B. Thomas would get (See THE WEEK, Page 5-A, Col. 1)

City, County Employees Get Brief Holiday

Most city and county employees will get a holiday Monday, but for the rest of Big Springers, it will be business as usual. All city hall workers will be taking a breather for Memorial Day observance. Court house offices, with the obvious exception of the Sheriff's Office, will be closed. State hospital employees will be off Monday, and the Big Spring Independent School District administration offices will be closed. Webb employees won't be working Monday, either. The business offices at the Veterans Administration Hospital will take advantage of the holiday. A skeleton nursing crew will be maintained. There will be no window or route delivery by the post office on Monday, but box delivery will continue. All Big Spring banks will be open, although Big Spring Savings and Loan and First Federal Savings and Loan will be closed. Sanitation department workers will observe the holiday. They will be off Monday and will resume regular schedule Tuesday. Grady Grantham, department superintendent, said persons who are inconvenienced because of this holiday schedule can contact him in his office (phone 267-6358). Most businesses will remain open, however. Supermarkets and discount stores will be open for business. The only official observance of Memorial Day in Big Spring will be sponsored by American Legion Post 355. The solemn, simple service will pay respect to fallen comrades of all the wars of the nation. All other veterans organizations and other interested citizens have been invited to join in this brief salute to the men who gave their lives for their country. The rites will be said at the Veterans Monument at the east side of the Howard County courthouse and will consist of an invocation, presentation of the colors by the Webb AFB color guard, the formal remarks of the commander and laying of a wreath at the foot of the memorial marker.

One Of Largest Heroin Seizures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal agents seized 156 pounds of pure heroin with an estimated street value of $23 million and arrested nine persons to foil an executive jet smuggling operation, the Bureau of Customs announced Saturday. Mylex J. Ambrose, U.S. commissioner of customs, said the heroin was hidden in a secret compartment of a private Lockheed Lodestar that winged into Miami, Fla., from Buenos Aires, Argentina, via Panama on May 22.

Mrs. Eva Horton was slightly injured when her trailer home on the Old San Angelo Hwy. was overturned by high winds. Mrs. Horton was taken to Medical Center Memorial Hospital where she was treated for minor injuries. Her condition was listed as good Saturday night.

ROOF OF MOTEL MASHED

By The Associated Press

Crop-saving rains fell generally in West and North Central Texas Saturday as sometimes destructive winds moved eastward.

The heaviest wind damage was in the Abilene area late Saturday afternoon.

A 140-mile wide belt of Eastern New Mexico, West and North Central Texas from near Carlsbad, N.M. to 30 miles north of Waco was under a tornado and severe thunderstorm watch until 11 p.m.

Although the property damage from 60 to 70 mile per hour winds in the Abilene area was large, no one was hurt.

At Merkel, about 10 miles west of Abilene, Chief of Police Boyd Baker estimated wind damage at between $150,000 and $200,000.

The roof of the Asteroid Motel was heavily damaged, the Merkle County Club lost its roof and the bleachers at the Little League baseball grounds were turned upside down. Trees were blown down and service station windows broken. Some electric power lines were blown down.

At Hawley, 10 miles northwest of Abilene, four trailer homes were blown off their foundations and two other trailer homes were destroyed. No one was in them at the time.

At Dublin the strong wind knocked down the screen of a drive-in theater and took the roof of a home two miles north of the town.

At Knox City four cars of a Santa Fe Railroad freight train were derailed Saturday morning after a 6-to 8-inch rain washed out a section of track. No one was injured.

'DIRTY 30' LOSES AGAIN; CHALLENGE HINTED

Mutscher Wins Remap

AUSTIN (AP) — Speaker Gus Mutscher's House redistricting plan, which would knock some of his most vocal and persistent critics out of the legislature, won final House passage Saturday night.

The 89-52 vote sends the bill to the Senate, which is expected to approve it under the usual agreement that neither chamber meddles with the other's districts.

However, there was one possibility this so-called understanding with the Senate might not stand up this time.

FRESH DEBATE

Sen. O.H. (Ike), Dallas Republican, said he would try to delay the measure further in the Senate by using his right to demand a public hearing with 48 hours advance notice.

Members of the "Dirty 30" used amendments and lengthy debate to rush the final vote to as late an hour as possible.

The regular sessions ends at midnight Monday and each additional hour of delay increased the threat that the bill might die in the Senate.

Final passage by the Senate would set the stage for the House coalition of Republicans and Liberal Democrats that calls itself the "Dirty 30" to challenge the plan in court.

The "Dirty 30" has fought Mutscher since January on taxes, appropriations and their call for an investigation of his dealings in National Bankers Life Insurance Co. stock.

Dr. George Willeford of Austin, state Republican chairman sent Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes a letter Saturday urging him to use his powers to kill the bill in the Senate.

ONE-VOTE RULE
Willeford noted that the general appropriations bill contains $100,000 annually for the next two years for the attorney general to fight redistricting suits.

He also said a 1965 attorney general's opinion said it is unconstitutional to cut county lines in redistricting bills unless necessary to conform to the one-man, one-vote rule.

The scheme proposed in House Bill 783 is so flagrantly unjust and unconstitutional that its farmers knowingly appropriated thousands of dollars of public funds for its defense, so certain were they that it would face legal challenges," Willeford said.

Houston gained four House seats, Dallas three, Fort Worth one and San Antonio one.

Middleton Ends Half-Century Banking Career In Big Spring

After more than half a century in banking, Robert V. (Bob) Middleton is retiring from active service as senior vice president at the First National Bank.

This will not sever the ties begun 54 years ago, for he will be continued on the bank's roster of officers as an inactive vice president, said G. H. Hayward, chairman of the board, and Jimmy Taylor, president.

There will be functions to honor the veteran bank officer, climaxed by a reception one week from today between the hours of 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. in the bank lobby.

"We know that the legion of friends of Bob Middleton will want an opportunity to pay their respects in person to him for all that he has meant to them and the community in this remarkable span of service," said Taylor.

Bob Middleton might have been a cowboy, but for the confidence of the late Will P. Edwards, who arranged for a loan to finance his training at a business school, then gave him a job June 1, 1917, in the old West Texas National Bank to help during vacation time.

NEW CAREER
"In my wildest dreams I could not have imagined me getting a job in the bank," said Middleton. He had developed a skill as a posting machine operator.

"Mr. Edwards told Bob Piner to put me to work. It was about noon and he took me to the vault and showed me how to file checks, which had stacked up about a week. I got some help from the clerk - stenographer Winifred Hatch, who became Mrs. Piner in 1918."

Middleton was ahead of his time as a posting machine operator, for the bank had none. "Nat Shick was our posting machine, with an old Boston ledger and a pen over each ear - one with black ink and one with red ink," he recalled.

Mr. Edwards told Middleton about an opening in the new state bank at Lamesa, where a posting machine was in operation, and suggested he go there until Liburn Coffee left for the service, and he did, returning here Sept. 1. The following spring he joined the Army.

'CAR SNATCHER'
When he returned, there was no immediate opening, but Bob Piner, an officer in the bank, suggested he take a job as a "car snatcher" (recording numbers-off freight-cars) temporarily. After about a month, on May 1, 1919, he was back in the bank and has been with it ever since.

It was a timely return, for on Sept. 1, the bank installed a posting machine and he and the machine representative converted the bank's books. Suddenly, he was the bank's bookkeeper - the one and only. The change was almost as radical as today's shifting to computerized financial recording.

A couple of years later he yielded to Amabel Lovelace and Edmund Notestine in the posting department in order to "move to a cage" as teller before long he had moved from that to a desk as a loan officer. At the time of the merger of the West Texas National with the First National in 1933, he was cashier.

THE FDIC
This amalgamation occurred coincidentally with the celebrated bank moratorium.

"For about a month, we just walked up and down the streets visiting or sitting around in the bank talking with each other," he said.

But the institution of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation restored the confidence of depositors when the bank was reopened, and from there on it was mostly steady progress for the bank headed by L. S. McDowell. He was made an assistant vice president, then vice president and senior vice president of the bank.

Looking back over the years, he is amazed at the changes in banking, but at none more than the aggressiveness of modern banks. When he began, the banker's job was to make sure that every loan was virtually super-gilt edge - and to have enough collateral to make sure that it was just that. The banker was more than likely the great resistor.

Drouths and the Depression left him with vivid memories, especially the latter.

"People took their money out of banks," he said, "not that they had any place to put it or anything to go with it. The FDIC really helped whip that problem, but it couldn't change the timidity of men who came in to borrow. Good men would come in and try to get by on a $75 loan - and they would, too, because they were afraid of the future."

WORKING BOY
One of the real satisfactions over the years has been in seeing individuals and businesses prosper and grow because of the help and counsel the bank was able to give.

Bob Middleton was born in Haskell, but when he was a baby his father died in Albany in February, 1898, and his mother, Mrs. J. W. Middleton, who was expecting her third child, took him and his older sister, Carrie V., 3, to Pecos where her mother lived. In May, his brother, J. W. (Jake) was born.

Ranchers knew that young Bob needed to contribute to the family fortunes, so they gave him odd jobs of repairing fences, pulling cattle out of quicksand on the river, etc.

"If you worked real hard, they might give you an extra day's work," he said.

He must have impressed them, for he was soon a windmill fixer, a job generally reserved for "broke-down cowboys." Later he worked on several ranches as a cowboy, but he wanted to do more than that. In 1914 he came to Big Spring on his own. In August, 1916, he made arrangements with Mr. Edwards to borrow enough money to go to business college in Waco where he learned to operate the new hand-powered Burroughs posting machine.

"When I got out and Mr. Edwards gave me a job, I could have flipped backwards with joy," he said. One of his co-workers there was Jim Baggett, an almost legendary figure here as sheriff, and who had become cashier at West Texas. Later Baggett was named U.S. marshal for the Northern District of Texas, which opened up some promotions on the bank ladder.

MANY ACTIVITIES
During World War I, Middleton served in the U.S. Cavalry. Back home, he joined just as soon as a chapter was formed of the newly chartered American Legion. A few years ago he received his pin for 50-years-of continuous membership.

He was for 12 years a director of the Howard County Farm Bureau Chapter, was an organizing director of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo and for a score of years its treasurer. He is a life-time elder of the First Presbyterian Church, a member of all the York Rite Masonic bodies, and a Shriner.

It was not until after World War I that he began to go with Louise Wheelon, and they were married in 1922. To this union were born two children, Harry Middleton and Mrs. Charles Vivian Buckner, both of Big Spring. He and Mrs. Middleton have five grandchildren.

PEDESTAL OR CAGE? Court Strikes Down Law Banning Lady Bartenders

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The California Supreme Court has struck down a law banning lady bartenders, saying the pedestal upon which women are placed is too often revealed as a cage.

In a unanimous decision, the court ruled that the law violates the U.S. Constitution's equal protection clause.

TENDER CONCERN
The court also said the law transgresses on the explicit ban in the state constitution against disqualifying any person because of sex from entering or pursuing a lawful business, vocation or profession.

Women should not be excluded from bartending "for their own safety," but should be permitted "to take their chances along with men when they are otherwise qualified for the job, Associate Justice Raymond E. Peters said in the court's opinion.

"Such tender and chivalrous concern for the well being of the female half of the adult population cannot be translated into legal restrictions on employment opportunities for women," Peters said of the 1936 law.

"The pedestal upon which women have been placed has all too often... been revealed as a cage."

IGNORES REALITY
Peters noted that the state attorney general had argued that the legislature believed that a male bartender or owner must be present to preserve order and protect patrons.

"This argument ignores modern day reality," Peters said. "Today most bars, unlike the saloons of the Old West, are relatively quiet, orderly and respectable places patronized by both men and women."

The court ruled on appeals by two Los Angeles bar operators, Sailors Inn, Inc., and Walter Robson. The state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control had sought to revoke their licenses for using women bartenders.

The invalidated law allowed a woman to tend bar only if she or her husband held the bar's license.

Briscoe Faces 'Trump Card'

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Reports circulated that former President Johnson may attempt to dissuade South Texas rancher Dolph Briscoe from running for governor.

The San Antonio News said there was talk that Briscoe was to visit with Johnson before the end of the week.

Briscoe's friends said the Uvalde rancher-banker met earlier this week with Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, the news reported.

Briscoe was not at once available for comment.

In Austin, Barnes said only, "I have no comment on this. I'm trying to get a session finished."

Efforts to persuade Briscoe to drop out of the race are in keeping with a growing number of reports that Barnes will run for governor, the News said.

Briscoe's friends, the newspaper reported, say a "trump card" in the efforts is a warning that big contributors are "all locked up" for Barnes.

Briscoe has maintained a heavy speaking schedule in the past several months as the only announced Democratic candidate for governor.

North Dakota Has Rural College Campus To Sell

ELLENDALE, N.D. (AP) — For sale, cheap. One state college in a quiet rural community.

Surrounded by grain fields stretching to the horizon in southeastern North Dakota, the school, with buildings valued at $3.5 million, will close July 1 and is available to the right buyer, perhaps for token payment.

While a state committee grapples with the problem of finding a suitable new owner, teachers and other faculty members face the dismal prospect of abandoning unsold homes and moving elsewhere in hopes of finding new jobs.

'COLD' REWARD
"I'd be lucky to even give my house away," says Dave L'w, a history professor and father of six.

Like many of the other 48 faculty members of the Ellendale Branch of the University of North Dakota, L'w, 48, is having a hard time finding a new position and expresses bitterness at the legislature's decision to close the college.

"We ought to be rewarded with more than a kick out in the cold with not even a word of thanks," the 10-year staff member said.

Most of the 160 students don't like the closing either. "Politics had a lot to do with it. A lot of legislators are against this area," ventured Dale Davis, a student from the nearby community of Monango.

The legislature's action was brought on by declining enrollment and a January, 1970, fire which destroyed 80 per cent of the college's classroom space.

IN FAIR SHAPE
The rest of the 82-year-old institution's buildings are in fair to excellent condition, depending largely upon age.

The legislature has authorized the Board of Higher Education to sell the campus, complete with buildings and some equipment, to Ellendale, a town of 1,500 residents. However, officials of the community say the town could not afford even to maintain the facilities. They want to turn the campus over to an industry, private group or governmental agency that would use it to the area's economic benefit.

Lawyer Tonahill Free Of Income Tax Charges

BEAUMONT (AP) — Joe Tonahill, who gained national notice as a defense lawyer for Jack Ruby, was free Saturday of charges of income tax evasion.

A federal jury found the Jasper resident innocent Friday night.

Tonahill, outwardly calm during the trial, cried when the verdict was read.

"I always thought it would come out this way," he said. "It's been a long nine years, and it's all over now."

Tonahill, under investigation since 1964, was indicted in 1967 on three counts charging evasion of more than $124,000 in taxes during 1960-61-62.

The first count, concerning 1960, was dismissed last Wednesday by U. S. Dist. Judge Jack Roberts because Tonahill never signed that return.

Defense lawyer John Tucker told the jury that the question in the case was not how much Tonahill owed, but whether he intended to defraud the government.

Defense lawyer Gilbert Adams Sr. claimed Tonahill's accountant, James Griffin, made more than 226 errors in the government's favor from the tax returns of the years in question. Prosecutor Ray Caballero said, "This case is no more important than any other case. The idea that a man has done a lot for the community and for others does not put him outside the law."

New Grants To Hospital

The Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation Friday gave approval to two U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare grants to Big Spring State Hospital.

The grants are five-year extensions of earlier five-year grants designed to improve care of chronic patients at the hospital.

One grant is for $100,000 per year for the hospital improvement program helping the chronic patients and the second grant of $24,246 per year is for staff development and training in connection with the first program.

"The renewal of the two grants is a compliment to the staff," said Dr. Preston Harrison, director of the State Hospital. "They have shown what they could accomplish during the first five-year period."

McKinney has been designated a "Distinguished Student" on the basis of his academic performance during the spring semester of 1971.

James Richard Dawes, 2804 Cactus, graduated from the University of Texas with a BA degree in architecture.

LAMESA — W. Bart Burnett, 35, Lamesa Chamber of Commerce manager for three years, will leave Lamesa July 1 to become manager of the Gainesville area Chamber of Commerce.

Burnett will succeed Gene Davenport, former Gainesville manager who left in March for a post in Victoria.

"We're looking for applicants," said Burnett of a replacement for himself, "but we've just announced my leaving. We've heard rumors of persons who might apply for the job but we haven't had any applicants."

Burnett added that anyone wishing to apply for the post of chamber of commerce manager should contact Jim Norris, chairman of the selection committee.

Prior to coming to Lamesa, Burnett had been manager of the Stamford Chamber of Commerce for 18 months. His first post as manager had been for three years with the chamber of commerce in his hometown of Seymour.

AN AERIAL VIEW OF WEBB — This photo shows most of the Webb AFB facility and the area within the white border line is the acreage the city has transferred to the Air Force. The government itself through years of the Base development, acquired about the same amount of land as the city owned and leased to the Air Force.

Air Force Regains Webb Land Again

City-Federal Ownership Caused Problems

Some valuable land which has been exchanged between the federal government and the City of Big Spring on several occasions in the past 30 years is

Department of the Air Force property again. In World War II, the Big Spring Bombarrier School operated on what had been the original Big Spring municipal airport, and in 1946 when the installation was closed, the government returned the land to the City.

When the base was reactivated for pilot training in 1951, the government leased the land, comprising 1,244.07 acres, at a cost of $1 per year, and the lease was to be effective until June 30, 2060. The original lease was signed by George Dabney, then mayor, and Maj. Gen. Warren G. Carter of the Flying Training Air Force.

U.S. PROPERTY
Through the years, the Air Force acquired much more property of its own, to accommodate longer runways, base housing and various other facilities. This went on until government-owned land was about equal to that under lease.

The dual ownership represented many problems of programming, planning, construction and operations. For one example, work on runways was complicated because of divided ownership. For another, the giant new base hospital (worth some $2,000,000) was built by the government on city land.

TRANSFER OK'D
When the situation was studied, the City Commission agreed to a transfer of city land, and last February, a resolution was completed formally for such a transfer.

Estimated fair market value of the land is approximately $622,000 (1,244 acres at $500 per acre). The area involved extends from the main gate to the housing area, including the hospital complex; then the line extends west across both active runways, up to the north border of the base and back east to the main gate.

FACILITIES
City-owned buildings on the land include approximately 29 facilities. During the years since 1951, the government has improved these buildings in the amount of $21,461,000. They include 15 buildings (hangars, headquarters, base operations shops and storage facilities).

Martin Drops Rigs, But Still Third Place

Although Martin County slipped slightly in rig count during the week, it was the same story of third place in Permian Basin activity.

The county had 10 rigs turning, a decline of two, but this was next to the 18 reported for Lea County, N.M., which gained one. The leader was Pecos County with 26; a pick up of three rigs. The basin showed 158, a loss of three.

Other counties in this area showed Borden three, the same; Dawson none, a decline of two; Howard three, a gain of one; Scurry two, the same.

In this vicinity, there were three locations. Two were in the Sharon Ridge (1,700) field of northwest Mitchell County, the Burk Royalty No. 1 Cornwell, 330 from the north and west lines section 22-27, T&P, and Burk Royalty No. 2 Cornwell, 330 from the north and 1,650 from the west line section 22-27, T&P, both four miles northwest of Colorado City. Children Can Still Enter Learn-To-Swim Program

There's still time for parents to sign for their children to be in the learn-to-swim portion of the Citywide Summer Recreation.

Instruction begins at 10 a.m. Tuesday (Monday is being skipped because it is Memorial Day), and those who have not signed up so far may do so half an hour prior to that time.

Friday evening the number registered was nearing 100.

There is no charge for the four days of intensive instruction for children of elementary school age and up. However, there is a pool fee of $1 for the period, but no child is denied the chance to take part for the lack of a fee.

A week hence, on June 7, the initial sessions of the play-YMCA physical fitness and ground program will begin. One will be held at Comanche Park, under the pavilion, and it is primarily for youngsters in the Moss, Washington Place, Kentwood, College Heights, Boydston, Marcy, Parkhill, Airport and Cedar Crest schools. The Lakeview and Bauer areas will be served from the Lakeview YMCA and Northwest swimming pool.

Over 60 have been registered for these programs thus far, and parents are urged to enroll their children as soon as possible next week. Again, there is no charge for the program that continues daily, Monday through Friday to the end of July. There is a fee of $1 for arts and crafts materials for those who can pay.

The staff at Comanche Park for the daily program will include Mrs. Helen Danford, who has handled the arts and crafts for several years; Mrs. Dee Dalrymple, who has assisted in other programs; and Mike Scarborough, who is one of the coaching staff members; and Curtis Mullins Jr.

In charge of the program for the Lakeview Bauer area will be Sam Dawson, who has served in this capacity for a number of years. Supplementing the staff will be a few young people assigned by the Neighborhood Youth Corps.

Savings Bonds Sales Are Up

District 4 is slightly ahead of the pace in sales of United States savings bonds for the first third of the year.

Through April, the district has sold $519,686 in bonds, or 35 per cent of its year's objective, said Larson Lloyd, chairman.

Sales in April were $122,783, which kept the district on the track of its annual target of $1,500,000. Howard County led the area with sales of $71,789.

Sales in Area 1, of which this district is a part, had sales of $1,134,273 in April, making $4,658,631 for the year, or 35 per cent.

By counties, sales in this district showed these figures for April (cumulative in parenthesis) and per cent of year's quota: Andrews $4,544 ($23,088) 38; Dawson $10,310 ($60,593) 61; Fisher $1,718 ($9,320) 19; Gaines $2,875 ($13,282) 19; Howard $71,789 ($22,797) 37; Martin $1,324 ($18,695) 62; Mitchell $8,069 ($60,563) 40; Nolan $15,051 ($68,676) 20; Scurry $7,013 ($44,672) 30; total $122,783 ($519,686) 35.

Hearing Set On Building Variance

A public hearing on a request for a variance on a lot owned by L. J. Peters will be held June 9 at 5 p.m. in the City Commission Room at City Hall.

Jeter, 114 E. 16th St., desires to build a carport attached to his residence that will come to within nine inches of the property line on the side of his lot.

WEBB MEANS MONEY
As a result of this action, administrative procedures can be greatly streamlined in the real estate division at Webb Air Force Base and at all higher headquarters. A considerable cost saving can be realized, according to Air Force figures.

Meanwhile Webb, in carrying out its mission of training jet pilots, represents a tremendous factor in the local economy. The base has a military population of 2,425 with approximately 5,000 dependents. There is also a complement of 717 civilian employees. These totals represent a military payroll of $18,000,000 annually and a civilian payroll of well over $6,000,000.

In 1970, Webb aircraft consumed over 27,000,000 gallons of jet fuel, and in the same year the installation paid out over $347,000 for various utilities (gas, water, electricity), and the procurement contracts awarded in Big Spring amounted to nearly a million dollars.

R ARE YOU EVADING BETTER HEALTH

Sometimes, because of fear a person will not correctly answer the questions asked by their doctor. They want to be assured that they are free of disease and will falsely give "answers" that can get them a good grade on their health exam. It is even possible that this fear can actually suppress symptoms.

With your full cooperation a physician can usually make an accurate analysis of your health. If there is something wrong he can often find it at the first symptoms and correct it quickly. New prescription medicines and medical techniques offer better health than ever before. But your doctor may not be able to help if you do not level with him.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

JOINS SEARCH FOR LIFE ON PUZZLING RED PLANET

Mariner Ready To Zip Toward Mars

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The launching of Mariner 9 toward an orbit of Mars was postponed for 24 hours Saturday because of an apparent problem with ground support equipment associated with the Atlas-Centaur rocket.

At the 72-minute point in the countdown, data in the control center indicated trouble with the autopilot in the second stage of the booster. After troubleshooting for more than an hour, experts said they felt the difficulty was not in the rocket but on the ground.

But by then, it was too late to correct the trouble and resume the countdown in time to achieve the launching in the required period. To reach a proper path to Mars the Atlas-Centaur had to be launched by 6:23 p.m. CDT.

The launch was rescheduled for 6:17 p.m. Sunday. If Mariner 9 is launched successfully it will join two large Russian spaceships to search for life and scientific secrets on the puzzling red planet.

After a journey of nearly six months, the American craft is to fire into Martian orbit on Nov. 14.

Russia's Mars 2 and Mars 3 already are hurtling toward the planet. U.S. tracking experts believe the American craft traveling a slightly different path has a chance of overtaking both the Soviet vehicles during the long journey.

RUSSIAN PAYLOADS
They estimate Mars 2 will arrive in mid-November and Mars 3 later that month.

The Russian payloads, each weighing more than 10,000 pounds, are considerably heavier than Mariner 9's 2,000 pounds and American observers believe they may attempt to land capsules or a roving vehicle on the Martian surface. The Soviets have not disclosed the purpose of the two craft.

U.S. space officials are expected to approach the Russians soon on the possibility of coordinating the three missions to obtain maximum scientific return.

STRONG DESIRE
The Soviets have been reluctant to join such space endeavors in the past, but in recent months their scientists have indicated a strong desire to cooperate with the Americans.

If the Russian craft do land, their data could be compared with that obtained from above by the orbiting Mariner. Or if they also are orbiters, the paths of the three ships could be adjusted for maximum coverage of the surface.

Together they might solve the mystery of whether a life form, such as microbes or rudimentary plants, exist on Mars as some scientists believe.

Mariner 9 is not equipped to find life, but could detect conditions in which some form of life might survive. Aboard are several sensors and two television cameras intended to relay more than 6,500 pictures during a three-month period as the payload whirrs in an orbit ranging from 750 to 10,300 miles above the surface.

One of the cameras will clearly show features about 300 feet in size. Both will cover nearly 70 per cent of the surface.

Albany Fandangle Might Trigger 'Gully Washer'

ALBANY, Tex. (AP) — James Ball has added a new sequence featuring Prof. Lightningstreak and his magic rain-making wagon, built by Albany artist Bill Cauble.

The act, titled "The Rainmaker", uses singers and dancers to tell about the drouth of 1886 and—what happens?—the audience views Prof. Lightningstreak's hocus-pocus honest-to-goodness shower on the Fandangle cast.

Thursday May 27 director Ball, rain machine builder Cauble, Prof. Lightningstreak (Richard Middlebrook) and a stage crew worked all day experimenting with the machine and with the rain clouds which float over the heads of performers in the rain-maker sequence.

IT RAINED
And what happened? It rained that night. Not a big rain; only 25-100ths of an inch in Albany, but, says director Ball, the rain-making machine isn't perfected yet. The rain was spotty and some areas surrounding Albany received more.

The Albany Fandangle takes credit for Thursday's rain. They called this a practice run. Who knows what will happen when Prof. Lightningstreak gets his machine really working during performances in June?

Ticket sales for the Fandangle are brisk and it seems possible that this year, as in previous years, the supply of reservations cannot meet demands. Therefore, the Fandangle management urges that reservations be made as soon as possible. Phone numbers are 817-762-2525 and 762-3180.

Seniors Return From Long Trip

GAIL — Seniors are safely back home after the traditional class trip that took them to Hot Springs, Ark., where they visited many scenic attractions. Among them were Lake Hamilton, the Wildwood, pottery plant and rehabilitation center. They swung to picturesque Mena, Ark., took a ride on a miniature train, visited sawmills, and then went to the state capital at Little Rock before their return trip home.

at least 5,000 acre feet, and Lake E. V. Spence could register some catch, too. Near to town Cosden Lake was suddenly at the edge of spillway.

It will take added reports to know what the general status of croplands is following the rain, but if it was anything like general we may be back in the ball game agriculturally this year. We are getting in the short rows so far as time is concerned but if there is enough for planting moisture, we still can make it. One of the boons will be that where the heavy rain fell ranchers caught a lot of stock water.

The City of Big Spring made a tangible expression of its regard for the Air Force when Mayor Arnold Marshall delivered a deed to some 1,200 acres to Lt. Gen. George B. Simler, head of the Air Training Command. Webb AFB has been under a split ownership with both the federal government and the city holding acreage.

It's getting to be budget time again. The Big Spring Independent School District trustees got a look at a proposed budget calling for $5,553,000 expenditures, or $285,000 more than the current budget. Howard County Junior College trustees looked over a $1,511,114 proposal, up $118,840 over the current budget (which has been revised upward so that the gain over the actual current spending will be $456,688). HCJC board members are due to decide on bids for about $90,000 in furnishings and equipment for the Horace Garrett Applied Arts building.

Harold Davis, president of GAMCO, was named a vice president of Siboney, the parent corporation, last week. This means that in addition to his duties directing the GAMCO complex, he will have additional ones in the Siboney headquarters at Dallas.

Big Spring High School graduated a record class of 378 individuals last week. Top honors went to Ranette Miller, with a four-year average of 96.545, an eyelash ahead of Kent Fish with 96.454.

The city charter commission, which has been considering an overhaul of the city's basic document, has indicated it is about ready to report. Perhaps the most significant proposal will be to have commissioners run at large for specific places rather than at large with the high candidates winning undesignated places. Voted down was a suggestion of places by wards or geographical areas.

Big Spring is losing two good men. Paul Gross, county agent and one of the tops in his field, is going to Lubbock in a similar position. Dr. Byron Orand, who has been blessed exceptionally in his ministry at College Baptist, has been called to the historic First Baptist in Huntsville.

Our city's Jim Thompson, therapist of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, was honored singularly last week when the Ruby Decker award, tops for the Association of Physiotherapists, was conferred on him. Two local lads were honored by being named delegates to the National Explorers Conference in Washington, D.C. They are Jimmy Wright and Darrell Highly.

Do you know of anyone who lost a black and tan Dachshund? Dr. Mike O'Connell (area code 213, No. 892-554 or of 10038 Swinton Ave., Sepulveda, Calif.) called to say he had seen where a dog with a Big Spring, Tex., number 3623-70 was to go on auction Saturday at the West Valley Dog Shelter (213-882-880 or at 200655 Plummer St., Chapworth, Calif.). Our efforts to pin down such a number here were fruitless. Maybe you can help.

Parents should sign up their children at the Comanche Park swimming pool at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday for the learn to swim classes this week — if they have not already done so. They also should register them for the Citywide Recreation program which begins a week from Monday and continues weekdays through July. The sign up is at the YMCA.

Rep. Omar Burleson sent notice last week that an emergency livestock program had been approved for this area to aid on feed grain purchases and hay transportation. Here's hoping the rain Saturday made it unnecessary.

Oil developments were mostly routine completions in the Martin County sector of the Spraberry Trend, but Howard County did pick up another Spraberry well southwest of Knott. The recent strikes southeast of Big Spring have dropped off sharply for the most part, but one of them will be entered for a completion try in higher zones.

Miss Red Sailor Wins Show Trophy

COLORADO CITY — The Western Riding Club held its annual quarter horse show here Saturday with 34 horses entered. The number entered was less than half usually seen in the show as a result of the rains, according to Mrs. Charles Wood, secretary of the show.

The trophy for the best all-around horse was given to Miss Red Sailor, owned by Gerald Byrd, Sweetwater.

Connally Bares Tax-Split Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally leads the Nixon administration's case for revenue sharing Wednesday with a direct assault on alternative plans to aid financially pressed state and local governments.

"The substitution of a federalized welfare program for revenue sharing would make renewal of our state and local governments unlikely, and would threaten our chances to achieve the best possible reform of the welfare system," Connally says in a background paper prepared for Congress.

"A program of tax credits, federal tax reductions or an increase in federal categorical grants would be equally undesirable," says a copy of the paper obtained by The Associated Press.

Connally, the administration's only witness at hearings that start before the House Ways and Means Committee Wednesday, said some modifications in Nixon's revenue-sharing plan might make it more effective. "To make fundamental changes in the President's basic strategy, however, would rob these reforms of their dynamic and balanced quality," he said.

The plan is supported by Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, ranking Republican member of Ways and Means, and backed by some Democrats.

Connally said a tax-credit plan would delay financial relief to state and local governments because the money would go to citizens instead of governments. "Fiscal relief would not be afforded to those governments until they again raise their taxes," he said.

Besides, he said, tax-credit plans fail to target financial aid to the states which need it most, don't aid local governments, would help mainly areas which failed to help themselves, and "would coerce states into raising a significant portion of their revenues through an income tax."

He noted 11 states lack a broad-based income-tax structure and eight states have no income tax. "These states would be forced to change their tax structures radically in order to take advantage of the program," he said.

He said a tax credit plan "would forfeit the efficiencies which characterize federal tax collections and which are maximized under revenue sharing."

Another alternative proposal, federal assumption of welfare costs, would endanger Nixon's bid to reform the welfare system through his family-assistance plan, Connally said.

Echoing other administration officials, he said such a plan would make the rich states richer, the poor states poorer and deny needed funds to most cities.

The House spent much of its time arguing over higher salaries for the lieutenant governor and speaker and on four-year terms for all elected officials, but took only inconclusive action on the subjects.

The question of $22,500 a year for the lieutenant governor and speaker was temporarily approved 80-19, with many merely voting "present."

The four-year terms bill, which has been defeated by voters before, was given preliminary approval 75-59.

Despite an abundance of last-minute bickering and disorganization, legislative leaders were optimistic that the regular session can be completed by the mandatory deadline Monday at midnight.

Then they can start planning for a special session, hopefully in 1972.

Outside the Senate and House chambers, 10-man compromise committees tried to negotiate final agreements on these crucial issues:

Tired Solons Fuss About Higher Pay

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas legislators, tired and temperamental, dived through the 138th day of the 62nd Legislature's regular session Saturday.

Although the session had only two more working days, including Sunday, both houses spent considerable time on so-called local and secondary bills.

The Senate settled down in mid-afternoon at an expected long filibuster over making University of Texas at Dallas a full four-year state college by 1975. Sen. Don Kennard, Fort Worth, a long time foe of the Dallas school swore he would keep talking until he got results.

Million Dollar Rain Soaks Howard County

"It was a several million dollar rainfall for ranchers and farmers in the county," said Howard County Agricultural Agent Paul Gross Saturday night.

"It completely changed our agricultural outlook," he said. "While before, we were in drouth conditions, now the whole county has been supplied with enough moisture so that everyone can go ahead and plant. This should supply us with enough moisture for cotton to last until Aug. 1."

Gross added there was still sufficient time for Howard County cotton growers to get in a good crop. About 20 percent of the cotton acreage had been seeded before Saturday's rain and will not have to be replanted, according to Gross.

Most of Howard County and virtually all of Martin County were blessed with planting rains Saturday, although there was some washing in areas and the volume was marginal in others.

The south half of Howard County ranged from two to three inches, and Martin County ranged upward from 3 1/2 inches at Stanton to five at Tarzan.

The marginal area was a strip representing approximately the north one-sixth of Howard County, where only about an inch of rain fell. From that point to Gall, and along the Colorado River, there was an inch to an inch and a half, enough to freshen but not hold birth rate Census Bureau statistics released Saturday show.

Parents are a bit older too. The average father is just short of his 45th birthday and his spouse a little short of 42 years. A generation ago they were both a year or so younger.

Due to an increased emphasis on education, parents of today's children have about three years more schooling. The average number of years of schooling in 1950 was 9. Today it is 12 years, or the equivalent of a high-school education.

In 1970 the median family income was $9,870, an increase of nearly 200 per cent from the $3,300 median in 1950. Prices are higher too.

But, giving the 1970 dollar the same purchasing power it had in 1950, the 1970 family still could buy $6,100 worth of goods, twice that of the 1950 family.

One reason for this, the bureau says, is because more wives and children are working today than in 1950.

South of Luther, in a tight land section, the fall was from two inches, but from the Drewery store, which had 2 1/2 inches, the fall dopped off eastward to an inch. Gay Hill School had two inches or more, but the Edward Simpson ranch had only 1.1 inches. Mrs. O. R. Crow reported 1.35 inches.

Average U.S. Family Bit Older, Richer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average American family today is older, wealthier and more educated than it was 20 years ago, says the Census Bureau.

The typical 1970 family of a husband, wife and two children still is about the same size it was in 1950, but the children are in their middle or late teens instead of under 5 as they were 20 years ago. This is because of a steadily declining birth rate. Census Bureau statistics released Saturday show.

Water Pouring Into Two Area Reservoirs

Two major reservoirs of the Colorado River Municipal Water District stood to catch a substantial amount of water from Saturday thunderstorms.

Prospects were good that both Lake J. B. Thomas and Lake E. V. Spence would catch 5,000 or more acre-feet.

At 7 p.m. Saturday, Lake Thomas had risen 1.3 feet and had picked up 1,500 acre feet of water. The Bull Creek diversion channel was continuing to rise with its runoff from heavy rains on part of the Gavitt and Bull Creek sheds, but by late afternoon the Colorado River, which had a fair rise, was dropping off. There were unconfirmed reports from different sources of rains of four inches or more on the Bull Creek and Gavitt creek sheds north of US 180 east of Gall.

Around three inches fell rapidly on the northwest two-thirds of the sprawling Spade Ranch in southwestern Mitchell County, and this sent the Colorado River on a 12-foot rise at the bridge near Silver which is north of Lake E. V. Spence. Little Silver Creek was running moderately, but Big Silver Creek which drains much of southeastern Mitchell County, was running several feet out of bank before it entered the Colorado River.

Heavy rains in the Snyder area Friday night sent the Colorado on a rise, and although the diversion pumps (which remove low flow highly saline water) were withdrawing 92,000,000 gallons a day, water was going over the channel dam two feet deep. There was no sign of the river dropping. Water going over the dam eventually will reach Lake Spence.

Lake Colorado City, the Texas Electric Service Company reservoir, had picked up 25 of a foot, and there was still some inflow.

CRMWD Becoming Expert In 'Wringing Out' Lakes

Unusual Art Results In Recovery Of Unrecoverable Water

How do you wring out a lake? The Colorado River Municipal Water District has become an expert in this unusual art, and in so doing has recovered more than 11 1/2 billion gallons of water which might, under ordinary circumstances, be written off as unrecoverable. This action has held the fort until the cavalry could ride over the horizon in the form of a new 24,000,000-gallon-per-day well supply from Ward County to bridge the drought gap until two major lakes again are replenished. The unorthodox procedure of producing water long after it had dropped below the main pump intakes resulted from several successive years of deficit runoff on the watershed of Lake Thomas, and within the past two years, for new Lake E. V. Spence. The amount of water recaptured through a system of pumps and canals to May 1 was equal to about two-thirds of a year's production for the entire system.

CONTINUING

Although Lake Spence has just about come to the end of its reserves, for practical purposes, Lake Thomas continues to produce and likely will for a few months. Meanwhile, the CRMWD has the new Ward County supply to fall back on.

Two years ago, O. H. Ivie, general manager, had Paschal Odom, assistant manager, plot a level curve for Lake J. B. Thomas on the assumption that there would be no inflow. Odom came up with a chart of uncanny accuracy. As declining levels paralleled the forecast, they pointed to a time when the level would dip below the Big Spring-Odessa intake.

The district was ready. A dam was thrown across the channel 6,700 feet east of the intake and at elevation 2219.58 feet above sea level. Another small dam was put across the channel just below the pump station, and the two were connected by a canal. A low-head pump delivering 24 million gallons a day was mounted on a barge which was floated in the channel downstream and boosted water over the dike so that it flowed back to the main pumping pool. This was on July 19, 1970.

Had history repeated itself, this would have solved the problem due to normal runoff, but once more the autumn rains did not come and there was no inflow.

MOVED AGAIN

So with the lake level sinking steadily to near the cutoff point at the new elevation, a second dam was put across the channel at elevation 2213.12 near Boyd's Lodge, which is north and all the way across the lake basin. A 10,000-foot canal was cut from this point back to the main station intake pool. This shift was made Dec. 19, 1970.

On April 6, 1971, still without runoff, into the lake, Odom ordered the first pump moved downstream to a point near the dam and at elevation 2207.58. Again, a dike was thrown across the river and water pumped over it into the canal that carried it back to the previous pump, which put it into the main canal back to the pump intake. Thus, water was being stair-stepped up 12 feet over a distance of 4.2 miles to keep the Big Spring-Odessa pump operative and delivering lake water to the cities to the west.

NEARLY FIVE BILLION

From the time this operation started until May 1, the district had recovered 4,883,891,000 gallons of water which would have been lost had operations ceased when the level dropped below the intake.

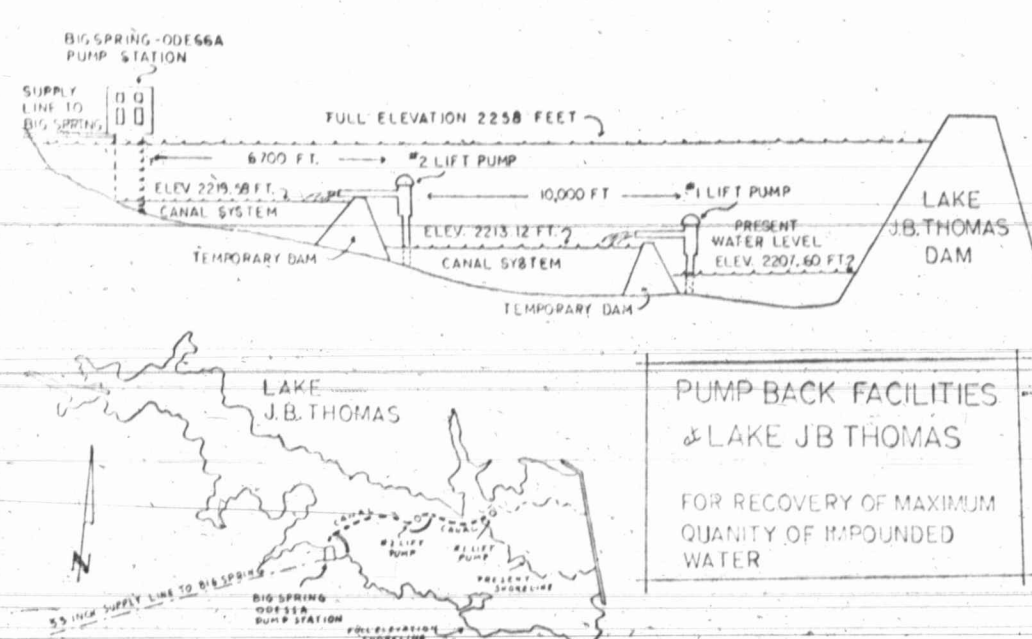

About the time of this last shift, a mound was thrown around the Snyder intake, and a small pump installed there to keep the pumping pool filled. The volume here was much less so Odom rigged an overflow system, much like your lavatory, to keep it at a constant level. Interestingly, it was precisely at this point that the district, with aid of a regular farm tractor, in 1953, had pumped the first water caught in Lake Thomas to the main intake in order to deliver water to Snyder.

Lake Spence, theoretically, should never have been in production, for the level of this new lake never reached the main pump station intake. But, by the same technique that enabled it to keep producing from Lake Thomas, the district was able to go after some 25,000 acre-feet of water which lay downstream in Lake Spence.

SPENCE BEGINS

On Jan. 27, 1970, a channel having been cut from the pump station to a point 9,000 feet downstream at elevation 1832.20, the CRMWD began pumping 17 million gallons back up to the pool at the intake. Later this volume was increased by adding a seven-million-gallon making a potential of 24 million gallons a day.

This continued until Feb. 1, 1971, when the lake level had dropped dangerously near this his mask and gear to clear the impediments. At one point, a pickup and a tractor were used to pull a three-mule fresno to dredge out a channel to a pump. Heavy equipment used to construct dikes across the channel bogged on the jelly-like silt, but operators solved this by one tractor pushing another across the channel, and then it pulled out the second tractor, which had become mired.

PERSONNEL EFFORT

When the Snyder intake pump came to be above the lake level, it had to be primed. To facilitate even production, controls were installed at the main pump stations to activate the downstream booster pumps. Undergirding the entire operation, said Odom, was a tremendous effort by personnel to meet all emergencies almost instantly.

The prospect of a sudden rise on either of the lakes causes no concern. Because the pumps are all on barges, they would simply rise with the level of the lake.

PUSHING WATER UP THE STEPS

point, so another dike was put across the stream bed 3 1/2-river-miles down stream and the new pumps set at elevation 1818.78. As with all other pumps, these floated on barges in the water and were powered by diesel engines. Later, electric pumps were used in some accessible locations.

Sizable pools of water had remained in the areas where vast amounts of earth had been borrowed for the dam, so Odom put small pumps on these and boosted this water back into the river channel. He picked upward of 50 million gallons in this manner.

From the time of its activation, Lake Spence has yielded 6,155,847,000 gallons (as of May 1) which, on paper, was not recoverable.

MANY PROBLEMS

The projects have not been without problems. A few times canals leaked because of gravel pockets. The original barge pump motor at Lake Spence gave static and eventually had to be replaced with a larger size. When the Lake Thomas barge had to be dismantled into its three sections to support different pumps, the narrower parts were susceptible to high winds. Once, one of the large sections took a dangerous list, and a crane had to be employed to right it.

Even tumbleweeds, blown on to the lakes, were troublesome when sucked against intakes. When other obstructions cut down on yield of pumps, Odom, who is a scuba diver, dived

Champ Speller Begins Trip To National Bee Tuesday

Maridene Margolis begins her journey Tuesday to Washington D.C., and the National Spelling Bee, June 7-12.

She'll have a built-in rooting section, for the entire Margolis family is making the trip as part of a vacation swing that will take them into New England and finally to the Dakotas.

The first week, however, will be devoted to the Spelling Bee in Washington where Maridene will carry the Lubbock region title into the national competition. There she will be met by Rep. George Mahon, Lubbock, and Rep. Omar Burleson, Anson, will tour the Capitol, visit the Smithsonian Institute, and take part in many other trips.

Her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Jack Margolis, will be taking the clan in the family campmobile. Making the trip will be Maridene and her four brothers, Glenn, 9, David 11, Bobby 19, and Larry 17.

Following the New England tour, the family will come back to Atlantic City, N.J., where Dr. Margolis, who is chief of surgery at the VA Hospital, will attend the national convention of the American Medical Association. From there they will head west to the Dakotas and a section of country the Margolis have never visited.

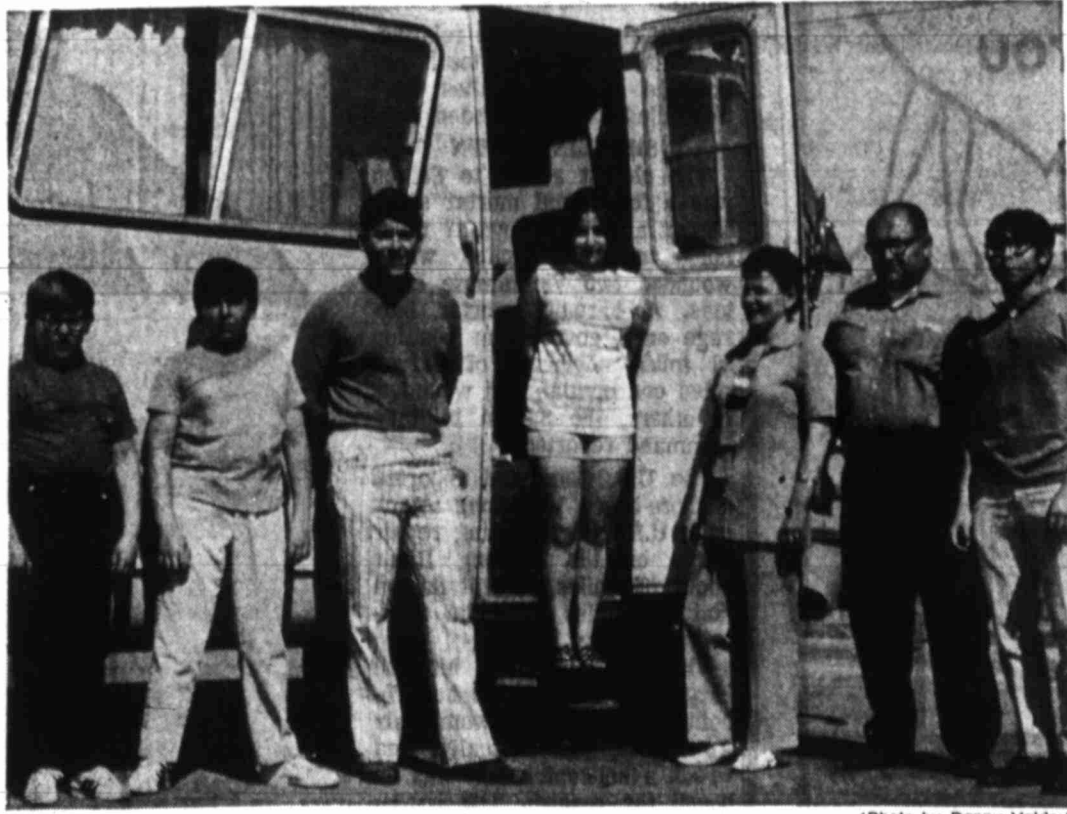

They plan to return here in about six weeks.

There is one fly in the ointment. Maridene had planned to compete as a flute soloist in the state finals of University of Texas Interscholastic League music festival, but the date conflicts with the National Bee, which will take precedence.

From the time that she won the Lubbock regional title after taking the Howard County championship, she has been studying hard in an effort to add one more — and the biggest — title to her string.

On Honor Roll

Douglas Jay Compton and Gordon M. Marchant are among 787 students at the University of Texas at Arlington who made the spring honor roll in the School of Liberal Arts. They had to take at least 12 hours and make a "B" or better average to make the honor roll.

MARIDENE AND HER CHEERING SECTION — Maridene Margolis stands on the steps of the family campmobile in which the Margolis tribe will leave Tuesday for Washington, D.C. where she will compete in the national Spelling Bee finals. Maridene won the Howard County title, then repeated as regional winner at Lubbock. Making the trip with her will be, from left, Glenn, David, Bobby, Mrs. Margolis, Dr. Jack Margolis, and Larry.

Hip, New Breed Of Politicians March To A Different Drummer

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Young and hip and very cool, the eight young people on Congressman Ron Dellums' staff go about their business to the beat of hard rock.

Blue jeans and soul on Capitol Hill. Politely, almost casually, they put down the system and those who run it as pretentious, conventional and unresponsive. On the other hand, they see themselves as issue-oriented, aggressive and uncompromising.

Their opinions echo those of their boss, Ronald V. Dellums, a freshman congressman from California whose Afro hair style and flair for mod clothes have made him something of a symbol of the new breed, a corporal's guard entered into the Establishment only to change it.

NEW POLITICIANS
They are not all young, nor all radical, nor all mod. Nor are all the new young faces identified with the new breed. These new politicians, however, reflect the dissatisfaction of those Americans who feel somewhere the system has gone wrong and needs quick and broad changes.

"I didn't come here as a traditionalist because that wouldn't solve this country's problems," said Dellums, a 35-year-old Democrat who overwhelmed to token Republican opposition after defeating one of his party's leading white liberals, Jeffery Cohelan, in a bitter primary.

"I didn't come here to operate within the status quo. The status quo has to be changed."

NEED CHANGES
As Dellums sees it, the country's priorities are mixed-up; government is not dealing directly to solve the problems of war, race, poverty and the environment.

Like most of the new breed, he lines up on the left. But the political right also is represented most prominently by Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., of California, as Republican and conservative as his famous father.

Dellums sees the new breed as a loose coalition of the powerless — the young and the poor — led by men who are not so much politicians as educators and mobilizers. To him, Martin Luther King, John Kennedy and brother Robert were in this mold, and he speaks hopefully of such House colleagues as Bella Abzug, Pete McCloskey and Don Riegel as their successors.

RECENT ARRIVALS
While most of the new breed are recent arrivals to the Washington scene, not all of them are young. At age 50, New York's Miss Abzug is a member in good standing.

Nor can all the rising young men in politics be counted among the new breed. Some are building reputations as skillful players under the old rules; men like California's John Tunney and Illinois' Adlai Stevenson Jr., in the Senate and, on the state level, John D. Rockefeller IV in West Virginia.

The difference is more a matter of approach than substantive disagreement on issues. The Tunneys and the Stevensons are more likely to try and manipulate the Establishment by working within it; the Dellums and the McCloskeys are in the Establishment, but not of it.

ANTI-VIETNAM

Dellums has pledged to work to get the country out of the Vietnam war and convert that money to help the poor in America. He concedes that so far he isn't making much headway.

At the other end of the political spectrum, Barry Goldwater Jr., 32, supports President Nixon's policy of a phased withdrawal from Vietnam, and probably would line up against Dellums on all other issues. And yet they share the view that the government is too often ineffective.

"My frustrations are with a government which has gotten out of hand, which is no longer responsive to the people," said Goldwater. "I'm very much concerned about the freedom of the American citizen. It's in jeopardy."

WOMEN'S LIB

Freshman Democrat Abzug, a former civil rights lawyer now more identified with woman's rights, her Washington staff is all female and in opposition to the war. She and her political friends are putting together a coalition to make Congress more responsive by challenging its traditions, particularly vote swapping on issues.

One man already fighting the battle is Rep. Paul N. "Pete" McCloskey Jr., the California Republican who has taken on President Nixon and his own party's leadership over the war's issue. First, McCloskey suggested a national dialogue on the advisability of impeaching the President; now he is preparing to challenge Nixon next year for the party's nomination.

Commie Command Shifts Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist command shifted its attacks Friday night and Saturday to the Saigon region and the southern half of South Vietnam.

After three days of intense fighting 10 miles across the border in eastern Cambodia, Communist-led forces shelled or assaulted eight U.S. and South Vietnamese positions, ranging 85 miles north of Saigon to 100 miles west of the capital.

All the attacks were relatively small and the total announced allied casualties were two killed and 25 wounded.

SHELLING TOWN
The closest attack to Saigon was a four-round mortar shelling on a district town 17 miles north of the capital which wounded two Vietnamese civilians. A 40-round mortar barrage on a government position 28 miles northeast of Saigon killed one civilian and wounded 10 others, the Saigon military command reported.

The U.S. Command reported a shore-based Viet Cong attack on a U.S. Navy floating repair barge on the Mekong River about 100 miles west of Saigon and five miles from the Cambodian border.

Viet Cong soldiers hit the barge with small arms and recoilless rifle fire to wound six Americans, one critically, and wreck a helicopter that was on board for repairs. The barge, and a patrol boat alongside it were damaged, the U.S. Command said.

HEAVY FIGHTING
American troops suffered one man killed and four wounded in a mortar, rocket, and small arms attack on a U.S. armored column 28 miles northwest of Saigon. The column was providing security for giant bulldozers that are leveling enemy base camps in the area near Highway 1.

Farther, north, Communist gunners shelled an American artillery base at Bu Dop, 85 miles north of Saigon, and mortared a South Vietnamese base 20 miles southwest of it.

It was the first time in recent weeks these bases had been shelled. The bases support South Vietnamese troops, operating across the border in Cambodia.

There was no word of fresh fighting in or around the rubber plantation town of Snuol in eastern Cambodia, where for three days North and South Vietnamese were locked in heavy fighting.

Pace Car Hits Photo Trailer; 24 Are Hurt

(Picture on 2-B) INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The pace car, driven by a local auto dealer and carrying astronaut John G. Glenn Jr., slid sideways and crashed into an open trailer crowded with news photographers at the start of the Indianapolis 500-mile race Saturday.

The Speedway reported at least 24 persons were hurt, but only one seriously. He was Dr. Vicente Alvarez of Buenos Aires, Argentina, an auto racing writer and perennial Speedway visitor.

No one in the convertible pace car was injured. Late in the race, two cars crashed in flames. Driver Bobby Unser escaped serious injury. Mike Moseley suffered a broken leg and burns.

The driver of the pace car, Eldon Palmer, said, "I was going pretty fast and I just plain ran out of room to stop."

The car, which race observers said was probably traveling at a speed of more than 100 miles per hour, also carried Speedway owner Tony Hulman and Chris Schenkel, an ABC-TV commentator.

Palmer, a former drag racer, said "I've been practicing all week and braking at a flagpole near the starting line. Today, there was so much going on I just didn't see the flagpole."

The pace car usually is driven by former championship auto racers, although amateurs have driven it several times.

Palmer was attempting to turn the pace car, a Dodge Challenger, into the pit area and stop it, as the 33-car field of championship drivers prepared to increase speeds to begin the race.

The Big Spring Cardinals, now 6-5 on the year, have reserved Steer Park here today for two games with the rugged Midland Colts. The first contest is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

Midland is off to a comparatively poor start, having won only three of eight assignments. However, strong rivalry has always existed between the two teams. Form invariably goes out the window when the two nines play.

Some of the Cardinals' better players have returned home from college, so the Redbirds undoubtedly will field their strongest team of the season.

The management can call upon such boys as Junior Mendoza, Jody Flores, Leon Hobbs or Tony Fierro for mound duties.

Net Tourny Is Nearing

The first annual Big Spring Open Tennis Tournament, which promises to bring hundreds of players from all over the state to town, will be staged here Thursday through Sunday.

All courts in the city, including the ones at Webb AFB, will be utilized for the event. Entry fee is $3 per person per event.

Tournament director is Novice Kniffen, who has mapped plans for an ambitious summer tennis program here.

He will be assisted by Nancy Thompson and Stewart Bunn, who performed under Kniffen's tutelage during the past year at Big Spring High School.

Deadline for entry is Tuesday. Play will get under way at 9 a.m. Thursday. Originally, Kniffen had planned to stage the meet over a period of three days but had to add an extra day because of the overwhelming interest in the tournament.

Competition is likely in men's and women's singles and doubles, mixed doubles, boys' and girls' divisions in 18-and-under, 16-and-under and 14-and-under doubles and singles, 12-and-under girls' singles and veterans' singles and doubles.

Among likely entries in the women's division is Weegie Leighnerber, a Northern Californian who has been working out here recently. She is a very talented player, Kniffen said.

Trophies will be given to winners in all divisions.

Giants Slam Expos Behind Marichal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bobby Bonds' three-run home run and a two-run home run and a two-run blast by Willie McCovey highlighted a six-run, sixth-inning rally that powered the surging San Francisco Giants to a 8-3 victory over the Montreal Expos Saturday.

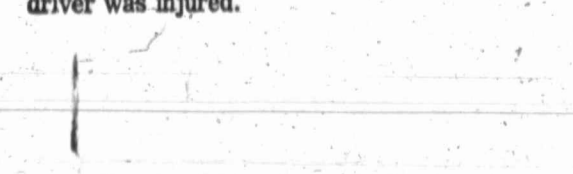

Veteran right-hander Juan Marichal hurled a five-hitter and raised his record to 8-2 as the Giants won their fifth game in six starts and lifted their record to 34-14.

Loser Carl Morton, 4-6, had a 2-1 lead entering the bottom of the sixth. Tito Fuentes led off with a double and Dick Dietz walked before Jimmy Roarso's single tied the score.

With one out, Bonds ripped his 12th homer of the year.

Lanny Wadkins Given Edge At Carnoustie

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Lanny Wadkins, 21-year-old reigning U.S. Amateur champion is a 2-1 favorite to win the British Amateur Championship this week over the famed Old Links at Carnoustie—the course on which Ben Hogan won the British Open title in 1953.

Wadkins, of Richmond, Va., took the favorite's spot after defeating reigning British Amateur champion and Walker Cup captain Michael Bonallack in the last day of the Walker Cup at St. Andrews Thursday.

Britain defeated the United States 13-11 in the two-day Walker Cup match, only the second victory for the British in 50 years of competition. The last time Britain won the Walker Cup was in 1938, also at St. Andrews.

"I don't know why I'm so strong," said Wadkins, a Wake Forest University student. "I'm only 5-foot-8 and I've got small feet and small hands. I guess it's all in my head."

All the British and United States Walker Cup players are entered for the British Amateur, which starts Monday over Carnoustie's 6,826-yard course carrying a par of 36-36-72.

Some 250 players will be shooting for the crown, and for the first time a total of 20 players have been seeded. The Royal and Ancient Club decided to do this because the 10 players of each Walker Cup team entered the championship.

The top players for the United States, in addition to Wadkins, are James Gabrielsen of Atlanta; Marvin Giles of Richmond, Va.; John Farquhar of Amarillo, Tex.; Tom Kite of Austin, Tex.; Jim Simons of Butler, Pa.; Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va.; Bill Hyndman of Huntington Valley, Pa.; Steve Melynk, former U.S. Amateur champion of Jacksonville, Fla., and Allen Miller of Pensacola, Fla.

"It would be great if a British Isles player could win the Amateur to complete a marvelous 10 days," Bonallack said.

Belmont May Give Latin Rough Test

NEW YORK (AP) — Canoneero II, the people's choice, will try Saturday to do something such top horses as Tim Tam and Majestic Prince couldn't—win the Belmont Stakes and the Triple Crown.

"Canoneero II is truly a horse of the people, something the people can identify with," says Pedro Baptista of Venezuela, who guides the colt's career although the Kentucky-bred races in the name of Edgar Calbett, Baptista's son-in-law.

But it takes more than public support to win the 1 1/2-mile Belmont, a race of which former riding great Eddie Arcaro says: "It's a race you can't steal with sheer speed, not over that mile and a half. A jockey can be trapped in it by too much or too little speed up front, so he has to be a first-class judge of pace. But even with a chronometer in his head, he's dead with a horse that couldn't go a mile and a half in a bus. The Belmont puts a horse's stamina right on the line."

Arcaro rode Citation who, in 1948, was the eighth and most recent horse to win the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

Between Citation and Canoneero II five colts went into the Belmont with a shot at the Triple Crown and met defeat. They were Tim Tam, 1958; Carry Back, 1961; Northern Dancer, 1964; Kausal King, 1966, and Majestic Prince, 1969.

Canoneero II is expected to be opposed by from six or seven 3-year-olds in the 103rd running of the $125,000-added Belmont.

Other probables for the classic at Belmont Park are the Johnny Campo-trained entry of Frank J. Caldwell's Jim French and Neil Hellman's Good Behavior, William A. Levin's Bold Reason, Mrs. Taylor Hardin's Sole Mio, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Epic Journey, Tartan Stable's Highbinder and Christiana Stable's Salem.

All of the probables were nominated for the Belmont except Good Behavior who will have to be supplemented for $5,000 by next Tuesday. The others need not be entered until Friday.

LITTLE LEAGUE Colts Turn Back Jets; Ravens Win

The Colts' consistent play stifled a fifth inning hitting spree by the Jets to win, 10-5, in American Major League play Friday.

Jeff Murphy, Ismael Solis and Mike Egan of the Colts each scored two runs. It was simply too much for the Jets, who came back strong in the final inning scoring all five of their runs.

The Colts' record now stands 9-2 in league play, while the Jets have dropped to 3-8.

The Ravens blasted the Falcons, 25-3, behind the strong arm of their pitcher, Cliff Benton, in an International Minor League game Friday night.

Benton had 10 strikeouts to his credit, plus two doubles and a single in three trips to the plate.

First baseman Heilman got a triple for the Falcons, now 0-8 in league play. The Ravens currently stand 7-2.

Behind the homers of John Wrinkle and Henry Holguin, the Lions edged the Braves in National Little League competition 9-8, Friday night.

Wrinkle drove in four runs for the winners. The Braves held on to the bitter end, however, scoring three runs in the final inning.

The Talons snapped a three game losing streak Friday night to defeat the Sabres of the International Minor League, 9-8.

The Talons blasted the Sabres for five runs in the first inning, but the Sabres came back strong in the second inning and led 7-5 in the third with the Talons coming to bat.

The Talons managed three runs at the bottom of the third inning, picked up another in the fourth and held on to the lead despite a desperate comeback attempt by the Sabres in the final inning.

Sheffield and DeJulio had hits for extra bases for the Sabres.

DIGGING DIVOTS Play Is Reset; Rains Helpful

By KERRY GUNNELS
Local golf courses greedily soaked up Saturday's slow, steady rain. All courses reported that the moisture was particularly going to help the greens and the edges of the fairways.

A partnership tournament was cancelled at Webb Golf Course Saturday because of the rain. Instead it will be held today with a shotgun start at 12:30.

It was to be a 36 hole event, but it has been cut back to 18 holes. The tournament will be a best ball-full handicap competition.

The Webb course reported heavy play during the past week.

Big Spring Country Club course reported a good week of play.

Monday is the day for the one-day partnership tournament. Players with handicaps of ten and under must team with those using handicaps of 11 strokes and over.

Eagles Shade Turner Again

ABILENE — Abilene High moved into the Region 1-AAAA baseball finals by defeating Carrollton Turner for the second straight time here Friday, 4-2.

Clint Thomas and Dennis Shephard divided time on the mound for Abilene, with the wind going to Shepherd. Between them, they surrendered nine hits but spaced them well.

Turner tied the count with two runs in the third but Abilene went ahead to stay with a tally in the fifth.

Turner thus finished his season with a 26-8 record while Abilene is now 25-8.

Other top attractions on the 12-card slate will find the 870-yard specialists in an allowance for three-year-olds and up, plus a four furlong allowance for two-year-olds which will have the surprising McVicker in the field.

Jet Space, the fastest qualifier with a 20.52-minus, sped from the number two hole last week and drew to the nine slot for the finals. The Jack Brooks-trained colt will be piloted by Jim Banovsky.

Men's West Texas Is June 17-20

PLAINVIEW — The beautiful, and tricky golf course of Plainview Country Club, annual scene of the Plainview Invitational Tournament, will once again host the Men's West Texas Golf Championship. This is the 43rd staging of this prestigious event, which was last held here in 1957.

In putting forth its maximum effort for this tournament, Plainview Country Club officially announces that it will not host the Plainview Invitational this year.

The tournament, held last year at Odessa Country Club, accepts entrants solely from golfers who are members of a golf club belonging to the West Texas Golf Association. If a player wants to compete, he should check to be sure his club is a member of the WTGA, or his application will be denied.

All entries must be in the hands of host pro Al Kozell no later than June 10 in order to be included in the tournament. Special invitations will be extended to amateurs outside the association whose outstanding play has merited such recognition.

The tournament format includes Championship Flight (cut at 36 holes, thus creating Presidents Flight for those not making the cut), lower flights, junior-senior flights (ages 45 to 55) and the seniors' flights (age 55 and over).

Players declaring for the Championship Flight must have an attested five handicap or less to be included. The Championship Flight will begin Thursday June 17, and will be 72 holes of medal play. Lower flights qualify Thursday and begin play on Friday, consisting of two rounds match play and one round of medal play. A Lane Duck Flight will be created Sunday for those not surviving the Friday and Saturday match play. Those declaring for the junior-senior and senior flights will play 54 holes of medal play using handicaps and starting Friday.

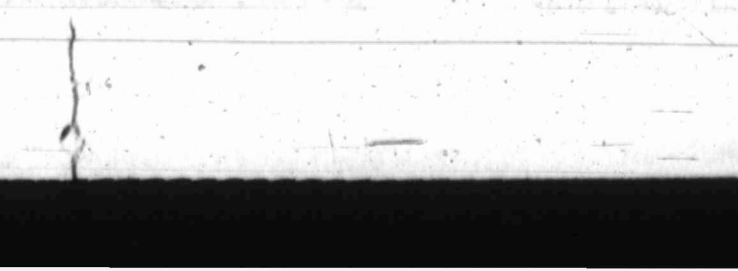

The defending champion of the tournament is Robert McKinney, Lubbock. Plainview's Jack Williams, a three-time winner of this tournament which perennially draws West Texas' finest golfers, is expected to be in the field.

This year the field will be limited to the first 228 entries. Entry fee is $35 and should accompany the application. All pro shops of member golf clubs have entry applications available and these should reach host pro Al Kozell, P.O. Box 250, Plainview, 79072 by June 10.

Trophies and gift certificates will be awarded in all flights and there will be a medalist prize.

Marathon Bowler

Establishing what he calls a record, Richard Dewey, 42-year-old once-a-week league bowler with an average of 175, shows his swollen hands after bowling 1,206 games in 96 hours to raise money for Kansas City's Philharmonic orchestra. Midway through the course, he developed a sprain in his right arm and had to alternate in using his left along with the right. Using eight-pound balls, he made 20,592 throws, averaging 128.22 pins per game. And he's not through yet — says he'll continue for a while.

Cowboys Boast Great Striking Potential

NEW YORK (AP) — Coach Tom Landry feels that Lance Alworth and Bob Hayes could give the Dallas Cowboys the No. 1 receiving combination in the National Football League. But he knows the Cowboys will have to give, too—in the neighborhood of $125,000.

"I can't think of a better 1-2 combination around," said Landry as he smiled at the potential of the two receivers who have scored 140 touchdowns between them in 15 pass-catching seasons. "I don't think any two receivers on any other team can go deep like these two guys."

Landry's obvious enthusiasm for pairing the two—which became a possibility when Alworth was acquired from San Diego earlier this month—has tempered, however, by the knowledge that while the Cowboys have the rights to both, neither has signed contracts from either.

STILL TO SIGN

"We still have to sign Alworth," Landry acknowledged at the owners' meeting last week. "As for Hayes, he socializes with us and in every way he looks like a member of the team. But he's not."

Hayes is not because he is a free agent, having played out his option May 1 in the continuation of a salary dispute that at times has been prey to considerable bickering, charges and counter-charges. But negotiations have continued.

Hayes reportedly worked on a contract last year that paid him in the $45,000-$50,000 neighborhood and is supposed to be seeking a pact for about $75,000. Alworth's demands are not known, but he was unhappy at San Diego—so unhappy he instituted suit.

Declaring his salary was $35,000 a year, Alworth said pro football's rules prohibited him from negotiating freely in an open market and filed a $5.6 million suit, contending such prohibitions violated antitrust statutes.

Alworth later withdrew the suit, but the ultimate result of the open break with the Chargers was the trade to Dallas. The best guess is that Alworth, who admittedly is financially pressed, would be looking for a Hayes-type contract.

Despite the bitterness involved in the Cowboys' dealings with Hayes, Landry remains confident he can be signed for a compromise figure, the club giving a little, Hayes giving a little—and the Alworth-Hayes combination put together.

"I have a feeling Hayes would like to play for Dallas," said Landry, "and that anything near what he's asking would be agreeable to him. As long as we're within range we think we have a chance to sign him."

SALARY HANG-UP

"But the hang up is salary—it's a big figure. Not many clubs are willing to pay a figure like that—whether it's $75,000 or whatever it is."

Landry also said it is not true—as claimed by Hayes' agent—that the Cowboys have blocked the way to Hayes signing with another club by asking too much in compensation.

"That's completely wrong," Landry emphasized. "We have never put a price on him. We have never talked to anybody to the point where they say 'let's make a deal.'"

Neither Hayes' nor Alworth's 1970 pass receiving figures give a true picture of their individual talents. Hayes, benched earlier in the season, caught only 34 passes—but for 889 yards, a 26.1 average and 10 touchdowns.

Alworth, in and out of the line-up while he was bumped around physically and financially, caught only 35 passes for 608 yards, a 17.4 average and 10 touchdowns, the first season in eight he had failed to gain 1,000 yards.

It's their career totals that indicate the potential of an Alworth-Hayes combination. In nine seasons, Alworth has gained 9,584 yards on 493 receptions for a 19.4 average and 81 TDs. Hayes has grabbed 288 passes in six years for 3,777 yards, a 20.2 average and 59 TDs.

Alworth, at 31, is two years older than Hayes and there has been some speculation that the years and the pounding he has taken have stripped away some of his talent. But not according to the coaches who have had to try and stop him.

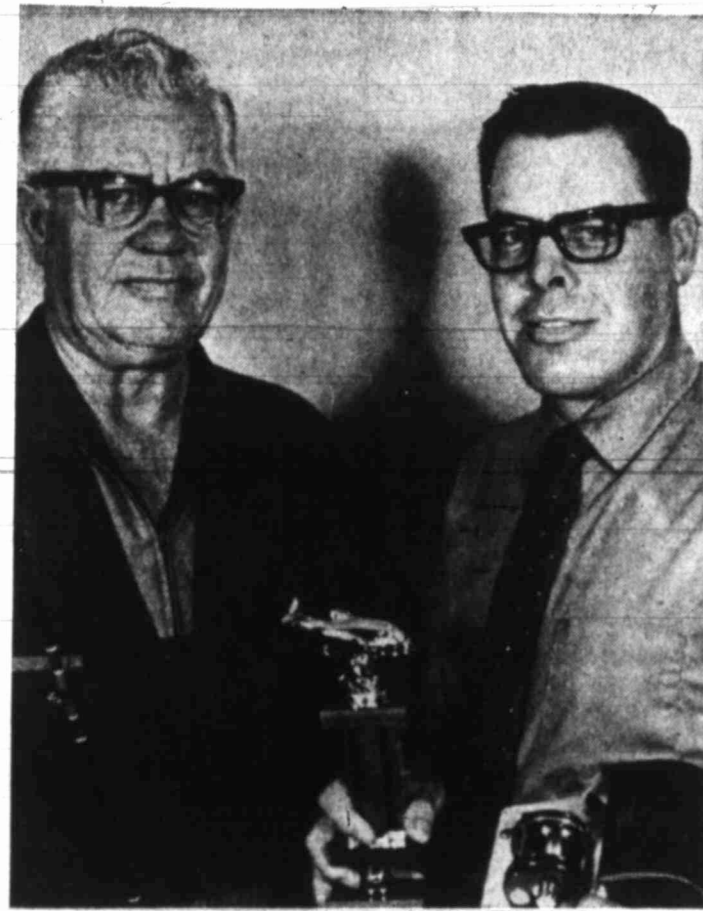

"Lance Alworth to me is a guy who's so tough you're always worried about him," said Oakland Coach John Madden. "I don't care whether he has leg problems or financial problems—when he's in the game you worry about him."

"People say we're remembering three or four years ago when we talk like that. But I remember him that way last year. And that's because he's given us cause to remember."

"He's still got great skills," said Kansas City Coach Hank Stram. "Everything is contingent upon his attitude. He's had some problems. But I think he's going to be very devoted to football again and play with a very great purpose."

"He's got several years of blue-chip football left."

So, obviously, does Hayes. And Landry can have both. It all depends on how many blue chips the Cowboys put on the table.

Bass Fishermen Can Take Note

The American Anglers Association has announced a National Bass Fishing Tournament to be held on Lake Livingston, Tex., July 17-18.

The contest will offer a cash purse of $15,000 plus trophies and numerous merchandise awards to anglers who weigh in the heaviest stringers of bass (large mouth, Kentucky-spotted, small mouth) during the two day event. Grand prize for the largest single bass weighed in will be a popular 1971 model Bass Boat and trailer and the fish will be mounted free by taxidermist Don Hawks of Beaumont.

Walt Frazier Leads NBA To Win Over Upstarts

HOUSTON (AP) — Walt Frazier rallied the shock National Basketball Association all-stars to a narrow 125-120 victory over the prestige-conscious American Basketball Association Friday night but the guy everyone still was talking about was the man who wasn't there — Lew Alcindor.

Alcindor's withdrawal from the game only hours before the first meeting between the two rival leagues left officials and players theorizing why the Milwaukee Bucks star did not show.

It also left unanswered the question of how the younger ABA stars would have fared if Alcindor had played in the game.

Astrodome officials were miffed that Alcindor, who was married earlier Friday in Muslim rites in Washington, D.C., did not let them know sooner that he would not appear in the game.

Bill Russell, who coached the NBA stars, said Alcindor's presence in the game would have made a lot of difference. "It might not have been as good a game for the spectators," Russell said. "It would not have been as close. It might have been a runaway. We were a little nervous at first. It was a good game. If they hadn't scared me, I would have enjoyed it."

Larry Brown of the Denver Rockets, who coached the ABA in the surprisingly close loss, doubted Alcindor's presence would have made a difference.

"We played a good game," he said. "I am disappointed we didn't win when we had so many chances. I think Alcindor is the greatest but I'm not sure it would have made any difference. When they (the NBA) didn't have an Alcindor, they were saying they could run us off the court. They said their 10 best were better than our 10 best. They had their 10 best tonight except for Alcindor."

The ABA, with Rick Barry and Willie Wise leading with 20 and 18 points, respectively, led by as much as six points in the nip-and-tuck first half before trailing 66-64 at intermission.

The NBA finally built up a 10-point lead late in the fourth quarter only to have the spunky ABA stars narrow it to a one-point 121-120 margin with 58 seconds left to play.

But then Oscar Robertson of Milwaukee and Frazier, who led all scorers with 26 points, dropped in two free throws each to tie it for the NBA.

Robertson said Alcindor had a legitimate reason for not coming. He said Alcindor told him two weeks ago that he would play in the game. "I had no reason to doubt him," he said.

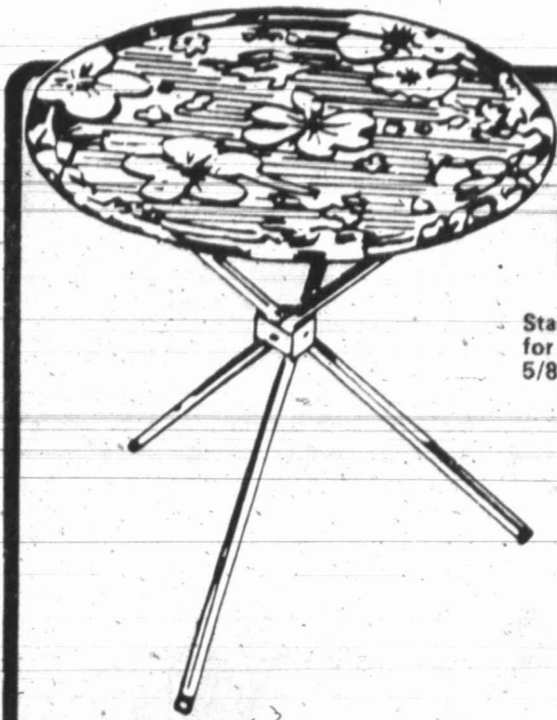

Robertson said he thought Alcindor's bride convinced him not to play.

Frazier, voted the game's Most Valuable Player, learned after the game that he would receive a new car for his effort.

Willie Davis Eyeing .400 Mace Season

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Willie Davis is flirting with a .400 batting average, a mark some people have predicted he will finish with one of these seasons. It's all the result of "a better mental approach..."

In a recent hitting streak, Davis registered three doubles, a triple, but significantly, not one home run.

The "new" Willie blossomed in 1969 when he turned his back on the long out and put together a consecutive 31-game hitting streak. In 1970 he stayed with his new batting style. There was talk again of a 400 season.

It didn't materialize but Davis hit .305, led the major leagues in triples with 16 and his 93 runs batted in were the best of his career.

The triples, incidentally, came primarily from Davis' intensive speed. He thinks of himself as the fastest guy in baseball and he's not far wrong.

Al Campanis, vice president and director of player personnel and scouting for the Dodgers, was watching Willie D. in a recent game.

"Willie always had talent. But now he's laying off the bad pitches and hitting line drives," said Campanis. "He has improved his wrist action. Most of his hits are true hits. He hasn't had to beat out many..."

Davis, a left-handed hitter, has had unusually good luck against southpaw pitchers, and as Campanis pointed out, is no longer a one-field hitter.

"Left field, right center, he hits 'em to all fields," Campanis added. And after a thoughtful pause, he observed:

"Willie's mental approach is better. He seems happier these days. Of course, there aren't very many unhappy guys hitting .384."

No City Softball Contests Monday

The games will be made up at a later date, commissioner Joe Doty stated.

Bryan Track To Be Sold

DALLAS (AP) — Sale of the $6 million auto race track built near Bryan by Texas International Speedway, Inc., has been ordered by U.S. bankruptcy referee Dan Gantly.

He rejected a plan offered by Dallas lawyer Talbot Rain, bankruptcy trustee, to reorganize and ordered the track sold after a three-hour hearing Friday.

Rain had called on John S. Tuschman of Houston for testimony supporting his proposal.

Tuschman, a financial analyst and real estate manager, is president of Speedway Associates, Inc., a group which had been trying to refinance the 25,000-seat track.

The Houston man estimated at least $1.3 million would be needed "to get back into operation" at the track. He said a loan could be obtained by using as collateral more than 1,000 acres of excess land adjacent to the track, appraised at $550 an acre.

"I made my own appraisal," Tuschman said, "and the feeling is, if the facility could be put back into operation, it could make $2 million in a five-year period."

He said five races the first year could turn a $550,000 profit with an average attendance of 25,000. The only two races at the track since it opened 18 months ago drew about 23,000 each time, he said.

John L. King, counsel for Holloway Construction Co. which is a major lienholder of TIS, objected to Rain's plan of reorganization and Tuschman's amended plan.

Snyder Trip For Students

WESTBROOK (SC) — Thirty-six students from the first, second and third grade classes at Westbrook Elementary School topped off the school year Monday with a bus trip to Snyder and a picnic in field day.

Monday afternoon, the youngsters were treated to a film at the Palace Theatre, Colorado City.

Teachers making the trip were Mrs. J. W. Watson, Mrs. Alton Raschke and Mrs. T. C. Moore.

Other sponsors were Schools Supt. and Mrs. L. M. Dawson, Mrs. W. E. Smith Jr., Mrs. Floyd Rice, Mrs. D. G. Rollins, Mrs. J. C. Moody, Mrs. Frank Hodnett, Mrs. Jack Dorn, Mr. Barbara Lunsford, Mrs. Leroy Miller, Mrs. Tommy Christon, Mrs. G. J. Clements, Mrs. Wayne Pruett, Mrs. Ken Ellett and Harold Scott.

Also attending were Kristy Hodnett, Lynn Dawson and Charles Rice.

title to a new home to Mrs. R. B. Hall Thursday morning. This was the class project for the year, and one which has occupied the attention of the 21 boys in the class since late autumn.

The small frame, two bedroom home is located on Moss Creek road about a quarter of a mile south of the IS 20 turnoff.

The structure contains 1,046 square feet of space and has a plywood exterior with special finish. Work was done under supervision of Jerry Woods, instructor, who served as the prime contractor for the job.

With the exception of plumbing, which was subcontracted, students did all the work as an extension of their classroom studies in the high school vocational department. Students in the electric repair and appliance classes, directed by E. Y. Buckner, handled installation of the electric system.

Work on the project house was delayed in the fall while class members completed renovation of an athletic equipment room, a project of the previous class.

Budget Session

Budget consideration for the 1971-72 school year is the only item on the agenda for a meeting at 6 p.m. Tuesday of the trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District. The meeting will be in the board room adjacent to the administration building, 708 11th Place.

Harte-Hanks, Inc. Adds Ohio Paper

HAMILTON, Ohio — Sale of the Journal Publishing Company by the co-executors of the estate of the late Ethelene Grove Gard Gramm to Harte-Hanks Newspapers, Inc. of San Antonio was completed Friday.

Appointed as new publisher of the Journal-News was Tucker Sutherland, 32, publisher of the Corsicana Sun. Before joining Harte-Hanks he was with Horvitz Newspapers, a group of daily newspapers in northern Ohio.

Sutherland is to be succeeded at Corsicana by Wayne Powell, 33, formerly of Rutledge, Ala., and recently with the Beaumont Enterprise and Journal. Powell is a 1959 graduate of the University of Alabama, where he majored in journalism. He had service with papers in Montgomery, Ala., South Bend, Ind., Hagerstown, Md., and Bloomington and Bedford, Ind., before going to Beaumont, where he was assistant to the president.

The Hamilton purchase represents the first acquisition for Harte-Hanks newspapers outside Texas, where it has publications in 15 markets and a television station in San Antonio. These include 11 daily and four weekly papers. The organization is headed by Houston Harte of San Angelo and the heirs of the late Bernard Hanks of Abilene.

The addition of the Hamilton Newspaper will raise the total annual revenues of the parent company to more than $39 million dollars and average daily circulation to above the half million mark.

According to Houston Harte, president of the group, the Hamilton acquisition is one of the several steps designed to strengthen the company and improve its operating effectiveness.

On Jan. 26 affiliated corporations controlled by the Harte and Hanks families were merged into Harte-Hanks Newspapers Inc., a holding company. During the past several months a staff of specialists in various newspaper operations has been created at the corporate level to provide systems to all Harte-Hanks newspapers.

A new system of planning and financial controls has been developed and is now being implemented in all plants. Two plants have been converted to more modern offset process this year, making a total of four Harte-Hanks properties that have made the conversion.

Uncommon carriers.

Uncommon cargos? Datsun gives you two great ways to haul. The tough Li'l Hustler Pickup and the luxurious 5-Door Wagon.

Both give you 96 horsepower overhead cam engines. Potent in the short haul, reliable in the long. Both have some six feet of bed or floor space.

The Li'l Hustler has a flat loading tail-gate. Slide on a spinet or surfboards. Slip into the all-vinyl upholstered cab, flick the neat 4-speed stick and away you go.

In the easy-load Wagon, you relax in full-reclining front buckets. Cool it under tinted glass (all standard equipment). And if shifting the full-synchro 4-speed isn't your style, liberate a hand and foot with the optional 3-speed automatic.

Seals to penguins, you save more when you carry out your plans in a Datsun. Drive a Datsun... then decide.

EXPLOSIVES THREAT Plane Hijacker Is Bulldogged

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — A hijacker who commandeered an Eastern Airlines jet to get $500,000 for the Irish Republican Army was overpowered Saturday by the airline's 240-pound Irish American chief pilot.

John O'Neill, 52, vice president in charge of operations for the airline, was dressed in an old sport shirt, slacks and tennis shoes in Miami when he heard about the hijack. He immediately flew a small plane filled with Eastern officials to Nassau.

O'Neill's craft landed at Nassau International shortly before the 727 jet touched down with three hostage crewmen and James Bennett aboard. Bennett, a 39-year-old Commack, N.Y., resident and former New York City policeman, took over the plane at La Guardia Airport by claiming to have a vial of acid and explosives wrapped to his body.

After an hour and 15 minutes on the ground in the Bahamas, Bennett grabbed second officer Robert Condon, 36, and told him they were leaving the plane.

As they walked down the ramp, O'Neill stood quietly on one side on the runway and "sized the hijacker up."

He said, "I decided he really wasn't armed. So when he got close enough I just grabbed him in a good old headlock and wrestled him to the ground."

The hijacker was still carrying the small vial he claimed contained acid.

"When we went down, I ended up on the bottom with that vial jammed in my stomach. I started shoving and pushing like mad and finally managed to kick it away," Condon said. "Then I managed to get hold of a leg, but by that time so many guys were on top of him it looked like the Colts against the Jets."

O'Neill, who started flying for England's Royal Air Force in 1937, maintained a wrestler's grip on Bennett while the Bahamian police and airport security officers stripped off his pants to search for explosives.

"All they found was packets of mints jammed inside his pants," Condon said. Condon said he never found the little vial "but it looked more like one of those plastic cigarette lighters than anything else."

"He was a pretty good actor. At one point, he brushed the vial against his mouth and said, 'I'm burning, I'm burning.' He washed his mouth out and it really convinced me that he did have acid," Condon said.

READY TO DO a man-sized job are these two young men who will be available through the Texas Employment Commission. Carroll Hagle, 19, left, is a Big Spring High School graduate who would like sales or construction work. Leon Hobbs, 19, of Lamar Tech, worked at Cosden last summer and is willing to try anything this year.

A LONG SUMMER looms ahead for girls like Linda White, 16, unless they can find suitable employment. Linda, a student at Big Spring High School, does typing and would like to have an office job.

"Brother, Can You Spare A Job"

By JO BRIGHT

Millions of college and high school students all over the nation are looking for summer jobs — and finding the outlook dim. In some areas the situation is grim, but everywhere, youngsters looking for summer work are about to encounter the toughest job market in years.

Jobs of all sorts that normally have been open for temporary help are being given to adults with families to support or to former full-time workers laid off when business turned downward.

In Texas, as other states, employment commissions are accepting work applications, advising youngsters about prospects and determinedly trying to line up work that will give them experience in the careers they are planning — or the money that will enable them to return to school this fall.

Locally, there are several programs in action designed to put young people to work. These include the Workarama, for students, age 15 to 21, sponsored by the Big Spring Kiwanis Club in cooperation with the Texas Employment Commission; the Neighborhood Youth Corps, a federal project for disadvantaged youth; and the Job Corps, for those who, for some reason or another, have dropped out of school.

Persons who can offer full-time or summer employment, may do themselves and the community a service by calling 267-5291. Young, willing workers are available — and they will do almost any job, anywhere and anytime.

BRIGHT EYED and pretty, Debbie Hunt, 18, is anxious to find a full time office job. She has completed a year at Howard County Junior College where she participated in the work-study program.

PLACEMENT INTERVIEWER Joe Wallis of the Texas Employment Commission, 406 Runneis, is concentrating on finding jobs for Big Spring's young people, including those who are returning from college. Betty Price, 19, of Trinity University would like secretarial or sales work;

Adrian Saldivar, 19, West Texas State University, wants clerical or sales work for the summer; and Joe Perkins, 19, a Big Spring High School graduate, needs a full time job and is willing to tackle hard jobs, including janitorial.

Miss Lemons Weds Pfc. Guy John Seely

Miss Xan Lemons became the bride of Pfc. Guy John Seely in a ceremony held Friday afternoon in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Lemons, 2612 Carol Drive.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Janet Munoz of Brockton, Mass., and grandson of Mrs. Edith Johnson, No. 1, January Circle.

The Rev. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church, performed the nuptial rites as the wedding party stood before an improvised altar graced with a large arrangement of lavender carnations and gladioli interspersed with greenery and flanked by violet candles. Traditional wedding music was played.

IVORY LACE
The bride was attired in a street-length dress of ivory lace over satin styled with squared neckline and long lace sleeves. The bodice was fashioned with square neckline at the back which was centered with a satin bow. Her headpiece was a lace mantilla, and she carried a nosegay of violets backed with tulle and tied with streamers.

Miss Lisa Lemons attended her sister as maid of honor. She was attired in a silk print dress with white background. With Empire bodice, the dress featured a large white collar. Don McEvers served as best man.

RECEPTION
The couple was honored at a reception in the home immediately following the wedding.

Refreshments were served from a table laid with a pink linen cloth and appointed with crystal and silver. The white tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom, and an arrangement of orchid-colored spring flowers was flanked by orchid candles in crystal candelabra.

Guests were registered by Miss Mica Robertson. Mrs. R. L. Stallings of Knott, grandmother of the bride, presided at the punch service, and cake was served by Miss Ann Morton of Midland.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Morton and daughter, Ann, all of Midland.

WEDDING TRIP
For a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore a black and white silk dress with matching accessories. The bride will reside in Big Spring while her husband serves a tour of duty in Vietnam with the U.S. Army.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES HAVER AND MICHAEL

Childhood Neighbors Met 10 Years Later

By BARBARA LORD
Although they lived directly behind each other when they were children at Ft. Bliss, it was about 10 years later that Jim and Suzanne Hafer met in El Paso. Two years after that, July, 1967, they were married. Slightly over a month ago, the Hafers and their son, Matthew, moved to Big Spring, where Hafer is office manager for Household Finance Corporation. They bring with them a variety of interests. Mrs. Hafer is a drama, modern dance and ballet enthusiast. She studied ballet for 11 years and danced with the Royal Winnipeg Ballet in Canada. "I still enjoy dancing," she said, "but I'm awfully rusty at it. I haven't done any serious dancing for four years, and you really have to keep in practice to stay good." Another phase of the fine arts is enjoyed by Hafer, who spends much of his spare time writing free verse. He finds it a relaxing pastime, and hopes someday to publish some of his work. He also enjoys building model ships. Matthew has the normal interests of a two-year-old. Right now he is excited about the s a n d b o x he received on his birthday. Now he wants a swing set he picked out in a magazine. Mrs. Hafer was born in Ft. Carson, Colo., and Hafer is originally from Pennsylvania, but both of their families now live in El Paso. Twelve days after they were married, Hafer was gone for a year assigned with the Navy to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. He served in Taiwan and the Republic of the Philippines. The Hafer home at 1603 Wren, is decorated with an attractive blend of furnishings, many of which they have refinished. The dining room chairs were "found in pieces" at a dump, and today, they are done in a rich looking wood grain. "Actually, Jim does most of the refinishing," said Mrs. Hafer. "He's real good at that sort of thing. My main hobby is merely taking care of my family and making our home comfortable." Mrs. Hafer also enjoys yardwork and cooking. She has planted two flower beds in their back yard, and waters them faithfully. Cooking is a challenge to her, and she enjoys trying odd foods, even though her husband prefers plain cooking. The Hafers have a 9-year old cat, Mittens, that is rather unique in that he has 15 toes on his front feet. Mrs. Hafer says she is always charged for an extra foot when she takes him to a veterinarian to get his nails clipped. Hafer has worked for HFC for two and one-half years, previously with the El Paso office. They all look forward to their stay in Big Spring, and so far, have found it a friendly town, although a bit busy.

Youth Orientation Slated At Center

The Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center will hold an orientation for junior volunteers Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the conference room at the center. "We do have an age limit," said Mrs. Morris Robertson, volunteer coordinator. "Girls and boys 15 years of age or older will be trained in four different programs — swimming, clinical, clerical work and group therapy. In the past, our young people have made it possible for the center to function properly during the summer months." More information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Morrison at 267-7319.

Candlelight Ceremony Performed Saturday

MRS. ROBERT DEE PURSER

Miss Patti Dianne Spier and Robert Dee Purser exchanged wedding vows in a candlelight ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Wesley United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Caleb Hildebrand performed the ceremony at an altar decorated with spiral candelabra and flowers accented with greenery.

Miss Connie Gary, organist, played traditional music, and Miss Mary Dirks was vocalist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Purser, 2307 Allendale, and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Russell Spier, 1111 Ridge Road.

The bride was attired in a formal-length, white peau de soie gown with scooped neckline. The bodice was overlaid with Chantilly lace, which also styled the Victorian sleeves. Small satin buttons accented the back and sleeves, and the lace was also used on the chapel train. She wore a Spanish-style veil and carried a cascade of gardenias, stephanotis and babies' breath.

Mrs. Jerry Bethell of Stanton served her sister as matron of honor, and Miss Judy Dyer was bridesmaid. Both women wore floor-length gowns of dark purple bonded crepe, highlighted with orchid trim at the Empire waist and at the cuffs of the Victorian sleeves. Each carried a long stemmed carnation.

R. J. Englert was the best man, and Jerry Ryan of Lubbock served as groomsman. Ushers were Jack Butler of Lubbock, Bill Burchett, Don Malone and Tommy Mauldin.

Miss Michelle Leigh Bethell of Stanton was the flower girl and wore a dress identical to the other attendants. Troy Allen Spier of Grand Prairie was the ring bearer.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a purple crepe, two-piece suit with orchid accessories. They will reside in the Tech Village Apartments, Lubbock.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall, where a bouquet of lavender carnations and a silver candelabra centered the refreshment table. Members of the house party were Miss Linda Cathey, Miss Glynda Jones, Miss Judy Bair, Mrs. Daniel Rienondi, Mrs. Manuel Lopez, Miss Anne Talbot, Miss Denise Estes, Miss Martha Piorro, Miss Cheri Turner, Miss Ellen Gossett and Miss Susan Cape. Presiding at the guest register was Miss Kathy Dean.

Mrs. Purser is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Howard County Junior College. She will begin studies at Texas Tech University this summer. The bridegroom also graduated from Big Spring High School and is a senior at Texas Tech, where he will be manager of the Red Raiders. He is presently employed by Luther Transfer and Storage in Lubbock.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bud Purser, Greenville, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. John T. Baum, McCamey; Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Pugh, San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Conner, Jerry Bethell and Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Baum, all of Stanton; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Fleming and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stokes, Snyder; Bill Spier, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hambrick, all of Ackerly; Mrs. Nelle Spier, Tyler; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Spier, Grand Prairie; and Miss Juanita Oyerbides, Monahans.

TO WED — Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Owen, 1610 Benton, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Loretta Marie, to Sgt. Don R. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Cooley, Blue Springs, Mo. The couple plans a July 3 wedding at Trinity Baptist Church.

Miss Deborah Diane Rowden Marries George W. Ebersole

Miss Deborah Diane Rowden and Sgt. George William Ebersole were united in marriage at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ. The Rev. Perry Cotham performed the ceremony at an altar graced with a large basket of white gladioli, wrought iron candelabra and palms. A choral group from the Anderson Street Church of Christ provided music.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James C. Ebersole of Harrisburg, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Rowden, 1607 Oriole. The bride's white formal-length gown of polyester peau de sole was styled with an Empire bodice and an A-line skirt. Scalloped, Chantilly lace formed a reddingote effect and flowed into a chapel-length train which was outlined with matching lace. The lace was repeated on the wedding ring collar and cuffs of the full sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil was held with a tiara of lace and pearls, and she carried a bouquet of feathered carnations, centered with a white orchid.

Miss Sharon Waggoner served as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Kay Morehead and Miss Cynthia Martin. The attendants wore floor-length, light blue gowns and matching satin hair bows. They carried bouquets of spring flowers.

Hubert Lane Rowden was the best man, and groomsman were Chuck Chrane of Forsan and Phillip Rowden who also served as ushers.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Central Dauphin High School in Harrisburg and presently serves in the Air Force at Webb. Mrs. Ebersole is a junior at Big Spring High School. The couple will reside at 702½ E. 15th.

A reception was held in the church following the ceremony. The refreshment table was covered with white organdy cloth and accented with the bouquets carried by the bride and her attendants. Crystal appointments were used, and the tiered cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Serving were Mrs. Jimmy Morehead and Miss Jan Morehead. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Wall of Arlington, Tex.

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

The sounds of summer are coming again, but how different are the sounds of '71 compared to those Big Spring old timers remember.

Those who have been here as long as I, can probably recall old Felipe, the little Mexican who was a master at making hot tamales and just about as good at selling them. He never really had to push his product... he just pulled his little wagon that carried his five-gallon can in which he kept his ware, and began calling out "Hot tamales" with his special little flair.

Do you remember sitting on the front porch of the front lawn catching the evening breeze, and the sounds you heard were friends or family singing around the piano, or the phonographs in the neighborhood? Every house was wide open so there were very few "private" sounds. Can't you just hear that old porch swing squeak and creak or the gentle tap of someone's feet as they touched the floor each time they rocked forward in the rocking chair? And children played outside long into the evening and were not bothered by many motor vehicles but did have to watch for livestock that frequently got out of pens or lots.

And then there were, the noises of the crickets, the birds and the dogs.

We still have the sounds of the crickets, the birds and the dogs if we venture to sit out of our air conditioned house (and I'm not knocking air conditioning). The trouble with sitting outside is the wind that blows and blows and blows. And the jets and helicopters passing over (and heaven knows I'm glad they are there) blot out the chance of hearing any conversation for a while. And have you noticed that the noisy motor scooters, bike or cycles haven't diminished any since they were first introduced and they are still just as noisy? I really have suspected that they are hatching somewhere like mosquitoes.

The musical sounds we hear now are more than likely going to be those of amplified electric guitars if we are out in the open and other type music on the stereo if we stay indoors.

Yes, summer has some different sounds.

PBX Operator Week Designated In Texas

Each year a special week is set aside in 50 states, Canada and Mexico to honor PBX operators. Gov. Preston Smith of Texas has designated June 1-7 as PBX Operator Week in Texas.

The local chapter began activities with its installation held in the home of Mrs. Jack Barber, newly elected treasurer. Mrs. Joe Blasingame, retiring president, was the installing officer. Mrs. John Ray is the new president, and serving with her are Miss Ramona Molina, vice president; and Mrs. Dean Christian, secretary.

PBX operators keep communications moving over 20,200 switchboards. The number of PBX switchboards in Texas has doubled in the past 10 years. Operators are constantly practicing new methods which improve service and learning to operate new equipment such as the cordless switchboard at Malone & Hogan Clinic.

Local operators have demonstrated an awareness of responsibility to the community through their professional "Code of Ethics," volunteer service and participation in numerous charity drives.

Mrs. Gladys Butler of Odessa is the new president of PBX Clubs of Texas. Mrs. John Rains, Big Spring, is the vice president, and Addie Smith, Arlington, Tex., is treasurer.

Communications is the theme for the week. Yearbooks and past scrapbooks will be on display, and operators will observe PBX Week with a backyard barbecue for club members and families at the home of Mrs. Fern Smith. A joint meeting of Big Spring, Odessa, Lubbock and Midland PBX operators will be held June 3 at the Holiday Inn in Midland.

'World We Live In' Chosen As Fall Study

"The World We Live In" was the 1971-72 study theme chosen by the Big Spring Progressive Woman's Forum at a salad luncheon Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Don Priddy, 2515 Ann.

Officers for the new year were installed by Mrs. Priddy, who used various colored flowers to symbolize the responsibilities of each office. The officers are Mrs. C. K. Orr, president; Mrs. Hugo Campbell, vice president; Mrs. Roy Cederberg, recording secretary; Mrs. Don Green, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Priddy, treasurer.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with yellow chrysanthemums, irises and pink roses. The next meeting will be a brunch in September.

Miss McClendon Thanks HD Club

A letter of appreciation from Karen McClendon, winner of a 4-H scholarship, was read at a Luther Home Demonstration Club meeting Thursday.

Mrs. John Couch presided and was named nominee for delegate to the fall state convention. Mrs. Alden Ryan is nominee for county chairman of the Texas Home Demonstration Association.

A program on camping was presented by Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Louis Underwood. The next meeting will be June 10 in the home of Mrs. Underwood.

'Red Rose' Theme For Installation

The "Homemaker's Red Rose" was the theme used by Mrs. Gene B. McElroy for installation of officers and teachers of the Homemakers Class, Wednesday afternoon in the First Christian Church fellowship hall. She compared the responsibilities of each officer to various parts of the rose.

The officers are Mrs. Ruth Wilson, president; Mrs. W. E. Grant, vice president; Mrs. C. G. Barnett, treasurer; Mrs. A. A. Marchant, secretary; Mrs. Alma Crenshaw, assistant secretary; Mrs. W. W. Grant, reporter; and Mrs. Alberta Elem, card chairman.

Teachers installed were Mrs. Bill Early, Mrs. Alton Taylor and Mrs. Lloyd Brooks.

Mrs. Barnett, outgoing president, presided, and the invocation was by Mrs. McElroy. Mrs. O. B. Burns read a poem, "The Bones of the Church. Hostesses were Mrs. John R. Beard and Mrs. Edith Murdoch.

White cloths covered the tables which were centered with folding Raggedy Ann dolls. The next meeting is at 1 p.m., June 23 in the church fellowship hall.

IT'S 'A WAY OUT' Firehouse 'Hot Line' Will Summon Help

Dr. Wayne Bonner, director of Howard County Junior College's guidance center, addressed a luncheon meeting Friday at the Veterans Administration Hospital of the Community Health and Welfare Committee. Dr. Bonner spoke of his work with the Firehouse 6 project.

He is the president of A Way Out, Inc., a non-profit organization which operates the project which is staffed with volunteer counselors.

Firehouse 6, according to Dr. Bonner, is a weekend source of help for persons with all types of problems. The problems with which the volunteer counselors try to assist people range from drug abuse, marital or interpersonal problems, to acute depression and suicide attempts.

"We can't solve every problem," said Dr. Bonner, "but we can serve as a referral service and get these people to sources of help."

Currently, Firehouse 6 operates its telephone hot line and personal counseling services only on the weekend. Volunteers are on duty only between the hours of 8 p.m. and 1 a.m. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights.

Dr. Bonner said that he hopes to eventually have enough volunteers to keep the telephone lines and counseling services operating 24 hours a day, seven days a week. All counselors go through a six-week training program through which they are lectured on the legal and medical aspects of drugs, behavioral disorders and personality problems by professionals in the community who volunteer their time as instructors.

"The drug problem in Big Spring is extensive," said Dr. Bonner, as he discussed the need for a project like Firehouse 6. "It is not on the decrease; it is on the increase."

He said that the project originally grew out of meetings of two committees in the community which were concerned over drug abuse and the number of suicides that were occurring. The Downtown Kiwanis

Says Vows In Home Service

Miss Edna Fay Johnson and Bufus Cannon exchanged wedding vows at 8 p.m. Saturday in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bailey Johnson, 109 NW 12th. Cannon is the grandson of Mrs. Cherry Mae Felder of Bryan.

The Rev. John Ashfer, pastor of New Hope Baptist Church, performed the ceremony at an improvised altar decorated with white and yellow spring flowers. Ray and the Soul Survivors provided background music, and Miss Debora Warron was vocalist.

The bride was attired in a yellow and white floor-length gown, with a scoop neckline accented with matched piping. Her veil of illusion was held with a narrow lace band. She carried a cascade of white carnations.

Mrs. Mozelle Newton served as matron of honor, wearing a yellow dress; while Miss Furn Newton was the bridesmaid, attired in a black suit.

Pfc. Larry Mayo was the best man, and Sgt. Wesley L. Clark was groomsmen. Both men are stationed at Webb AFB.

Flower girls were Mrs. Carolyn A. Newton, Mrs. Bertha M. Hudson and Miss Betty J. Johnson, and the ring bearer was Dwayne D. Johnson.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Johnson home. The table was centered with an arrangement of yellow and white daisies, flanked by twin candelabra. Crystal, and silver appointments were used, and the cake was topped with a white orchid. Serving were Mrs. Gean Ford, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Marie Frank. Following a wedding trip to Bryan, the couple will reside at 504 NW 7th, Big Spring. Cannon is a graduate of E. A. Kemp High School in Bryan, and the bride graduated from Runnels Junior High School.

Out-of-town guests included Tommie Johnson, the bride's brother, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Earl Johnson, all of Fort Worth; Tommie Lee Johnson, Bryan; and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin H. Hudson, San Angelo.

Lees Club Learns Macrame Work

Mrs. Eugene Smith demonstrated how to make macrame jewelry and belts for the Lees Home Demonstration Club Tuesday in her home. The items are made with cord fiber and feature certain types of knots.

Mrs. Gary Seidenberger presided at the club's last regular meeting until fall. Members will sponsor a garage sale June 11-12, the location to be announced. An ice cream party is scheduled at 7:30 p.m., July 23 in the home of Mrs. H. L. McMillan.

Drug Alert Committee and the Ministerial Alliance were the two early factors in the evolution of Firehouse 6. Dr. Bonner added that the project is no longer directly connected with these groups but received backing and financial support from them in the beginning.

Pharmacy Facts

By Bob Knight, R. Ph.

One of the earliest medical people to realize the relationship between non-sanitary conditions and infection was Dr. Joseph Lister, Professor of Surgery at the University of Glasgow. He established sanitary techniques for surgery, with clean hands, towels and equipment. When he became aware of Pasteur's discovery that bacteria caused infection in 1864, Lister added the use of an antiseptic, carbolic acid, to surgical procedures, to destroy germs. Better antiseptics, with fewer bad side effects, replaced the carbolic acid (phenol) and all surgeons adopted sterile techniques.

Club Women View Marriage, Divorce

Marriage and divorce legislation was discussed by Mrs. W. L. Eggleston for the Center Point Home Demonstration Club Tuesday in the home of Mrs. N. R. Garrett, 602 E. 16th.

"One out of four marriages end in divorce" said Mrs. Eggleston. "Marriage laws are getting more lax, and divorces are becoming more easily obtainable."

Mrs. Eggleston said that grounds for divorce include personality conflicts, incongeniality, and one-year desertion. A judge can appoint a marriage counselor who has the power to postpone a divorce hearing for 60 days to allow time to relieve the friction and "battlefield nature" of the situation.

Men aged 19, and women aged 18 can legally marry without their parent's consent, according to Mrs. Eggleston. Common law marriages may be entered into by men 16 and women 14, but if not recorded they may be annulled by parents.

Mrs. J. R. Petty presided, and members donated $10 to the Gary Goodwin fund. Mrs. H. M. Hagood won the attendance price.

EX-PRISONERS OF WAR RECALL EXPERIENCES

Wife Asks Help For Country's POW-MIA

By T.SGT. GENE NORTON and S.SGT. BOB PUBLICOVER
Webb AFB Information Office

Monday millions of Americans around the world will pause to pay homage to the thousands of U.S. servicemen who have given their lives for the preservation of freedom in this nation.

It will be an especially important day for five residents of Big Spring, E. L. Fannin, Carl Carlsson, Connell Taylor, Ernie Boyd and Mrs. Smith Swords have known and experienced the horrors of war and have memories of its tragedies spanning more than a quarter of a century.

JAPAN POWS

Fannin and Carlsson were prisoners of war in the Philippines and Japan during World War II, and Taylor and Boyd were German prisoners during the same war. Mrs. Swords' husband, Air Force Lt. Col. Smith Swords, has been listed as missing in action in the conflict in Southeast Asia since Dec. 30, 1967.

Mrs. Swords has heard nothing from her husband since his F-4 Phantom jet was shot down Dec. 30, 1967. He was flying a mission out of Da Nang Air Base, Republic of Vietnam, when his aircraft went down.

"His plane was seen to burst into flames and hit the ground. It rose into the air again and went on down the mountainside," she said.

"I was having dinner with my brother in Lubbock when two Air Force officers from Reese AFB notified me that my husband was missing in action."

It hasn't been an easy life for Mrs. Swords since that day in December. "There is no way to tell anyone how terrible it really is unless they have been through it themselves. It's heartbreaking because you don't want to believe the worst, and you want to maintain hope," she continued.

REALLY BAD

"It's really bad. Others on the same mission have returned and told me they don't think there is any possible way he could have gotten out of his plane."

Mrs. Swords has been active in the POW-MIA since her husband's disappearance. She has spoken to many groups in Big Spring, Lubbock and San Angelo, urging Americans to support the effort by writing letters.

"I ask them to write our national and state legislators to keep the situation uppermost in their minds. I ask them to write foreign embassies asking for their assistance in obtaining the release of our American prisoners. We need information as to who is being held prisoner."

"The North Vietnamese should abide by the rules of the Geneva Convention and allow the men to receive and send letters. We need, most of all, for the men who are there to have adequate medical aid — if someone is seriously wounded — send them home," she added.

LETTERS HELLP

"Whether we are right or wrong — whether we should be in Vietnam or not — I think matters not — these men should be uppermost in all our minds. This is why we do need people to write letters. Since Ross Perot of Dallas has been active in getting letters and information, we have had more correspondence from the American prisoners. Believe me, your letters will help."

Fannin was wounded on Bataan in the Philippines and taken to a hospital set up in the jungle. When the islands fell, the Japanese took over the hospital.

"The Japanese set up gun emplacements around the hospital to fire at Corregidor. They knew the fire wouldn't be returned," he said.

After the fall of Corregidor, Fannin was moved to another prison camp on the island and later moved to Camp O'Donnell near Clark Air Base on the Island of Luzon.

OWN GARDEN

"At Camp O'Donnell the death rate of the prisoners was very high for the first six months," he said. "Out of 6,000 prisoners, 3,000 died during that period. We planted a garden of about 300 acres and began growing our own food. After that the Japanese began feeding us better."

Following a period at O'Donnell, Fannin was shipped, along with 500 other prisoners to a compound in Japan where he worked in a coal mine until the end of the war came. He served a total of three years and four months as a prisoner of war.

Carlsson was serving in an ordnance-aviation company near Manila when the war broke out. He was on a depot exploding mission on Bataan when he was captured by the Japanese around Christmas of 1941.

"Our squad, composed of 13 men were on a night mission, when we stumbled into a Japanese camp. When the firing stopped only two of us were left alive, and we were captured. They were going to shoot us. They were marching us to a camp when the American sergeant with me stumbled and fell down a hill. The Japanese thought he was trying to escape and shot him on the spot. He was unarmed."

Carlsson arrived at the prison camp at O'Donnell about one month following the fall of Corregidor. He stayed there for a short while and was moved to Clark and worked on detail for approximately one year. He became seriously ill and was hospitalized in Bilbid.

"At 7:35 on the morning of Jan. 30, 1945, firing broke out in and around the camp there. Only two of 532 Americans were killed during the battle and the Japanese suffered 533 casualties."

After the skirmish, Carlsson and the other survivors marched 25 miles through enemy lines back into American territory.

Taylor was a B-17 pilot in Germany during World War II and was stationed in England. "In September, 1944, our aircraft was hit by flak on a mission over Germany and we had to bail out," he said.

STALAG I

"I was captured by the Germans and was in the redistribution of prisoners out of Frankfurt and eventually ended up in Stalag I, located on a peninsula in the Baltic Sea across from Sweden." He remained there until repatriation at the end of the war.

Boyd was serving with the 3rd Infantry Division, 2nd Battalion when in January, 1945, his unit joined forces with the French Army near Strausburg.

He was captured when 100 men in his outfit combined with several other elements and tried to seize a bridge that crossed from Koman into Germany.

Boyd was held prisoner in Stalag 7A until the allies threatened the compound. The prisoners were then marched toward the Austrian border and then turned south into Italy. "On April 27, 1945, my old division overtook the group of prisoners I was with, and we were withdrawn into France."

Communication with relatives back home was almost as difficult for World War II prisoners as it is with Americans now imprisoned in Southeast Asia.

"My folks told me when I returned home that they had been notified I had been captured," Fannin said.

"During the time I spent in prison I was allowed to fill out form letters, cards really, with check blocks saying I was in good health and doing fine. The cards didn't say anything about us starving."

"My folks received two of the cards the whole time I was a prisoner," he said.

Taylor's wife was notified that he was missing in action and later informed he was a German prisoner.

"My wife only received six or eight of the form letters I wrote to her out of about 25 or 30. During the whole time I received one cigarette package from my wife. It didn't do much good because I don't smoke."

"I was listed as missing in action on Feb. 3 when my unit didn't return from the mission," Boyd said.

"I was given the opportunity to write twice. One of the cards was delivered to my parents a week or two after they were notified I had been captured. The other card was found in a Swiss post office during the summer following the end of the war. It eventually made its way to my parents."

Hot-Weather Viewing Is Unpalatable

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Hot-weather television, rarely stimulating, promises to look even more warmed-over than usual on the network channels this summer. Broadcasters, like most of us, are on an economy kick.

The nights will be lighted by nine new items, including a CBS potpourri of suspense and comedy pilot films which were rejected as series ideas and an ABC item called "NFL Action" — interviews and taped highlights of past games for viewers who can't wait for the football season to get rolling.

Three summer soldiers will be British imports — one per network. As always, the bulk of the entertainment will consist of reruns which started in March, but this year they will be augmented by some reruns out of television's misty past.

ABC started first, on May 10, with "It Was a Very Good Year," replacing "The Reel Game" on Monday nights. This one, with singer Mel Torme in the driver's seat, exploits the current nostalgia vogue with music, film clips and reminiscences by celebrities. Val Doonican, a British entertainer, takes over Pearl Bailey's Saturday night spot on June 5. His London-made hour will be variety — comedy and music.

CBS seems set with "The Newcomers," with Dave Garroway, which will take over for Carol Burnett and company on July 12. This hour will feature professional entertainers turned up in a nationwide talent hunt sponsored by the network and its affiliated stations. The format, of course, is comedy-variety.

NBC has Des O'Connor back for a second season to replace Wednesday night's "Music Hall." The British comedian-singer did well last season in the same spot. Then there is "Make Your Own Kind of Music," with the singing Carpenters — brother and sister — the Doodletown Pipers and Al Hirt. They fill "The Don Knotts Show" time on Tuesday from July 6.

There will be a lot of revivals around. NBC has pulled out Bob Hope's old anthology series, chopped it into three parts for three summer series: "Comedy Theater" for "Laugh-In" from May 7; "Action Playhouse" for Flip Wilson on June 24, and "Adventure Theatre" for Andy Williams on July 17. Vic Damone's 1967 summer replacement series will be hauled back into service as Dean Martin's relief on July 8.

ABC expects to get some more mileage out of "Love on a Rooftop," which starred Judy Carne and Peter Duel briefly a few years back — it replaces Johnny Cash, and is followed by reruns of "The Immortal," a midseason casualty this year.

Each year the networks work through the long rerun season, with its handful of summer shows usually replacements for variety hours. Each year viewers complainingly ask why the period can't be used to experiment with new forms. And each year, the answer is the same: the economics of the business.

Instead of a second car, get a second house.

It's not as expensive as it sounds. There's no land to buy. No real-estate taxes to pay. Yet you can own a hunting lodge in the mountains. Or a cottage at the beach. And you won't need a car to get you there.

All you need is a Volkswagen Campmobile which, as houses go, is rather unusual. It goes.

But most people buy the Campmobile for what it comes with. Kitchen including sink, icebox, and water pump. Dining table. Bedroom enough for two adults and two kids. Closets. Screens. Curtains.

Add the optional pop-up top and tent and the cost of this home-away-from-home is $XXXX.*

Lots of people pay that much for a car. And some pay that much for a vacation. But very few pay that little for a house.

One Way To Try A Rewrite

A proposed constitutional amendment with 70 co-sponsors won approval on a 103-33 vote in the Texas House of Representatives. It would be useful for the Senate to follow suit.

That would clear the way, if the governor agrees, for the Texas Legislature to meet in a constitutional convention in 1974 and try to write a new state constitution.

Having the entire membership sitting as a constitution-writing committee could be quite cumbersome, but it's probably the most practical plan available. At least, the people who would have to submit a new constitution would be the ones who wrote it.

Constitutional revision is a difficult thing to sell to the public. We've got used to getting along with the one we have, even to the business of amending it with routine monotony. Most of the time the amendments are harmless, like letting some county somewhere create a hospital district or some other special district. But such things as pay raises for state officials and even allocation of county funds within the county requires action in Austin and often statewide.

The constitution was written by Texans facing carpetbag rule. It was written to place maximum restriction upon state and local government.

We don't advocate a free-hand rule in the constitution, at all. There is room for and a need for greater flexibility, though, in order to let counties and cities make local decisions without the elaborate trappings of a constitutional amendment election.

There are protections in the constitution that ought to be kept: homestead tax exemption, free public education, prohibition of attachment of wages, and other items. Other personal liberties are guaranteed in the federal constitution.

One of the main reasons to revise the document is to make it comprehensive enough for basic law that doesn't require biennial tinkering. That, alone, is reason enough to revise it.

Crazy Quilt

The Texas House was to vote Saturday on its draft of the bill reshaping legislative districts. Friday the margin by which attacks on the proposal were beaten back gave a hollow ring to opponents who said they had enough votes to block the measure.

They likely will be unsuccessful in their bid, and in some respects this is too bad. The odd pattern which they follow in shaping districts in this area of West Texas smacks of gerrymandering. For instance, to take an Abilene district and circle it around so that it jumps over Howard County to take in Midland would indicate that Rep. Tom Craddick, Midland, who happens to be a Republican and member of the "dirty 30" born in Speaker Gus Mutscher's side, has reason to suspect someone is out to get him. Our own proposed district is unlike anything we have seen, taking off into a direction totally different from any in the past. Seems like some of the brethren are taking care of themselves first.

Around The Rim

Bob Whipkey

People who, as I do, drive to Dallas or Fort Worth at irregular intervals, must with each successive trip travel with faith — or at least hope — that some new section of Interstate 20 between Ranger and Weatherford will have been completed.

It's been a long hard pull for travelers who dread the segment through the Brazos Valley, where the temporary roadway is winding, hilly and potentially dangerous for those who do not proceed with caution.

AFTER ONE drives off the freeway east of Ranger the segment seems to be a sort of maze, and is hard on the nerves of drivers who get stacked up behind big trucks and can only wait until more divided highway is opened.

Believe it or not, progress is being made.

The other day it was revealed that, from some five or six miles east of Weatherford, one can proceed westward on slick new interstate paving for about 25 miles. This is a gain from the last trip.

TRUE, ABOUT 26 more miles remain, but it looks — repeat, looks — as if more mileage will be complete in a matter of weeks.

Meanwhile, a flurry of machine activity is noticed near Eastland and Cisco, the last two towns to be circled by the federal freeway.

For a long time it has been one of my minor ambitions to be able to zip down this freeway without a light between Birdwell Lane and downtown Dallas, before I got too old to drive.

THERE HAVE been times when the hope was dashed, but it now finds a new birth.

Highway building, we have to recall, is a complex undertaking, and nobody accomplishes the work better than the Texas Highway Department. After all, in due time we have seen Sweetwater by-passed, then Colorado City, Loring and Roscoe, then Abilene, then Big Spring, and Baird, and more recently Weatherford and Ranger. The stretch from Ranger Hill into Weatherford was a delayed entry, but by golly, I believe they are going to finish this, perhaps by the time it rains.

INCIDENTALLY, a little hint for the venturesome, just discovered by me. If you're going east, you can take a right turn at Thurber, cross the construction, and follow the south service road nearly to the Brazos River. There are a couple of stop signs, but all the traffic is on the north road, and you proceed with a calmer spirit.

DON'T ASK me why traffic hasn't been separated all the time between the north and south service roads. After all, I have come to the conclusion that the Highway Department knows what it's doing. And probably has its own good time-table.

Heath Moves On

Marquis Childs

LONDON — The Poet of Empire, Rudyard Kipling, wrote in "If" a flamboyant challenge to defeatists that could serve Prime Minister Edward Heath today. Not that Heath is in any sense an imperialist, since a primary goal is to overcome the dependence on the revenues of a vanished empire that gave Britain a false sense of security and well-being.

WHAT HEATH now intends to carry through must set the ghosts of the imperial past, the past of rule Britannia, hovering over Downing Street. He means to unite Britain with Europe not only in a common market of trade and tariffs but eventually in a monetary and economic union subject to majority decision of the members. It is an earth-shaking move, the full thrust of which neither Britons nor the world fully realizes.

SINCE 1940 this reporter has talked with four of Heath's predecessors in the historic and yet cozy precincts of 10 Downing Street. They all faced varying degrees of trouble in the slide from imperial power to little England and they did not conceal their concern. With Heath the striking difference is his overwhelming confidence.

Taking Britain into the European Common Market will, he says, create a new entity. He does not use the term third force, since he and President Georges Pompidou in their meeting in Paris last week understood that inevitably they would continue to shelter under the American nuclear umbrella.

BUT IT WILL be a third force in economic power, rivaling the United States and the Soviet Union in productivity and world-wide reach, both in the developed and developing nations. The two heads of government discussed at length how they would pool resources for help to peoples emerging from colonialism in Africa and Asia. To use a phrase rare in the Prime Minister's careful lexicon, this is an exciting moment.

HE IS A cool man presiding over a break with all that has gone before. Not only does he believe that Britain will become a partner with Europe, but he is confident Parliament will ratify this step before the summer recess at the end of July. And if it doesn't come by then, the Parliament can go on, against all precedence of sacred seashore holidays, into August.

THIS IS a determined man. He scoffs at the argument that Britain could not become part of a monetary and economic union bound by majority decision on such vital issues as inflationary control and interest rates. Why not, he says, confident as though Britain were already a part of the new order.

Incentives, effort, competition, earned rewards — these are the motivations Heath hopes to inject in a Britain turning away from the welfare state.

TAKE TIME TO REMEMBER—

Improving But Delicate

By JOHN HENRY
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Amid signs of continuing business expansion during the past week, there were also some reminders that the job of nursing the economy back to health is far from finished.

On the one hand, there was news that the government's composite index of "leading indicators" rose 1.4 per cent in April for the sixth consecutive month.

The increase prompted Assistant Secretary of Commerce Harold C. Passer to comment: "The well-established uptrend in the index since October adds further weight to the conclusion that a solid and sustainable economic expansion is under way."

On the other hand, new orders for machine tools, a closely watched indicator of the spending plans of businessmen, were off some 34 per cent last month from a year earlier and 17 per cent from the March level.

And a combination of declining exports and rising imports in April created the nation's first trade deficit in more than two years, a development which some observers said could spur new demands for protectionist measures.

Some prominent private economists expressed pessimism about improvements in the economy in the second half of the year.

"I'm more discouraged now than I was two or three months ago," said Paul Samuelson, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology professor who recently won the Nobel Prize in economics.

"The economy," he said, "is not on the way to the targets" set by the Nixon administration.

Added economic consultant Pierre Rinfret, a former adviser to President Nixon: "Inflation is going to begin again in the second half. I think the American economy is in for a lot of trouble. The jobless rate, which reached 6.1 per cent in April, will hit 7 per cent before it peaks."

Steel labor contract talks entered their second week against a backdrop of bad news about the industry's profitability. An American Iron and Steel Institute report said the industry's return on net worth last year, 4.4 per cent, ranked it 40th among 41 manufacturing groups. At least one major steel company, whose identity was undisclosed, was reported to have encountered credit and rating trouble.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the National Highway Safety Administration says his agency should not try to dictate to manufacturers how their vehicles are designed, planned or constructed.

Douglas W. Toms, the agency's acting administrator, said, instead, the federal government should set standards and allow the industry to meet them.

"We feel we should not set property-damage standards," he testified Friday before the Senate Commerce Committee which is probing the ability of automobiles to withstand crashes.

Toms said this would not be in the public interest, would deny consumers freedom of choice in the auto market and would dilute "our priority safety mission" with involvement in design features.

Toms said the agency's six-week-old bumper-performance standard, which would offer about half as much damage protection as a proposal by Ford Motor Co., is being re-evaluated.

Ford's proposal would require on 1974 cars rear bumpers that would shield such safety-related components as fuel lines and tailights from damage from a 5-mile-an-hour impact. The speed set by the agency is 2.81 m.p.h.

But Toms said a car that resists damage in a 5-m.p.h. imply may not necessarily adequately protect passengers from injury.

Toms said the Department of Transportation opposes a bill by Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., designed to reduce insurance rates by cutting losses from auto accidents and thefts.

DOT is preparing, he said, alternative legislation aimed at expanding consumer information on vehicle crashworthiness, susceptibility to property damage, and aggressiveness of design.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., contended cars can be designed to be both safe and damage-resistant.

"I'm not so sure we ought to say every person in America ought to have that kind of bumper if they don't want it," Toms said, indicating costs would be high.

Hartke said he thinks the White House is "pussyfooting" on an automobile safety bill.

But Toms said he has no knowledge of any administration delay in sending legislation to Congress or lack of concern.

"I think it is deplorable," Hartke said. "I think it is an unsatisfactory performance in view of the slaughter that's going on on the highways... almost of epidemic proportions... I think it shows a lack of real concern."

Lockheed And Harvey

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — My friend Harvey Kay, president and general manager of Kay's Sandwich and Carryout Shop in my building, is watching the outcome of the Lockheed Aircraft government loan negotiations with interest. He feels if Lockheed can get the $250 billion guaranteed loan, then he has a chance of the government bailing him out of a similar situation.

Harvey told me: "The Lockheed problems, particularly with their C5A airplane, parallel mine in every way, and I am certain if the government looks on the Lockheed loan favorably, they will find a way to get me off the hook, too."

THIS IS HOW Harvey tells his story: "About a year ago, a section of the Defense Department was having a farewell party for one of their employees who was leaving to join an aerospace company. They asked me to develop a new type of sandwich which would give the party a big boost.

"I put my designers to work on it, and we came up with 'The Goldfinger' which consisted of boneless all-white meat deep-fried chicken fingers topped with cole slaw, Russian dressing and pickle slices on a double-twist seeded roll. We estimated we could make the sandwich for $1.25 each, which would include a reasonable profit of 10 per cent.

"THE FOOD COMMITTEE giving the party approved" the design and ordered 150 sandwiches to be delivered in 30 days, on the afternoon of the party.

"I ordered the ingredients, but a few days later I got a call from a secretary. She said that while the Army liked the sandwich as it was, the Navy was wondering if, instead of a double-twist seeded roll, the sandwich could be made with rye bread.

"I explained that regular rye bread would not be able to support the weight of the chicken fingers, and I would have to add a heavier rye bread with a reinforced crust which would add another 20 cents to the sandwich.

"A WEEK went by and the secretary called again. She said the Air Force had just got around to studying 'The Goldfinger' sandwich and they wanted something more sophisticated than just chicken fingers with cole slaw and dressing and pickle slices. Was it possible to add either a slice of ham or a slice of cheese to the sandwich to give it a better taste?"

"I told her it was always possible, but if you're going to add to a sandwich you have to pay for it. It meant hiring an extra person to cut the ham or cheese, researching where the best place was to put it, testing it, and retraining my employees in an entirely new sandwich concept. I couldn't see how I could bring 'The Goldfinger' in for less than $2.25.

"A WEEK went by and I had a visit from the secretary. She told me the Army personnel in the department felt that 'The Goldfinger' should also have lettuce and tomato on it. I explained that if you added lettuce and tomato you would have to have larger slices of rye bread and heavier caraway seeds which would bring up the cost of the sandwich to $2.95.

"She approved it, but the next day I got a call saying that because of the overrun they wanted to cut back on the order of sandwiches from 150 to 50 and asked if I would eliminate the chicken altogether.

"THE AFTERNOON before the affair I received another call. The aerospace job for the man for whom they were giving the party fell through and they were canceling the party.

"I told them I was stuck with $300 worth of merchandise and would have to lay off four employees because of the cancellation of 'The Goldfingers.' They said that while the Defense Department would recommend a loan to tide me over, it was up to Congress to decide whether I would get it or not. But first they had to get the Lockheed problem out of the way."

Drug Problem

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Although the drug problem is causing the American people more and more concern, in some quarters there is a reluctance to grapple with it and a tendency to excuse the use of certain drugs as not harmful.

But day by day evidence is being accumulated to show that drugs are responsible not only for many crimes but also for misbehavior in demonstrations and for disorders that have subsequently grown into big tragedies.

SECRETARY OF Defense Melvin Laird frankly stated this week in a news conference in West Germany that the United States Army in Europe has racial and drug problems. His words are the first confirmation of this that has come from a cabinet officer. He declared:

"There is no question but that we do have some racial and drug problems among the United States Army in Europe. I think we are making some progress in dealing with these problems. But any commander who says problems do not exist just is not performing his job adequately, because the problems do exist."

THE SECRETARY OF Defense also said that this situation pertains even more to American soldiers in Asia because of the accessibility of certain drugs there. He commended the West German government for having moved to prevent importation of drugs. But, as is the case with the United States, the drugs flow in across the borders just the same because the illicit trade is so lucrative.

THE EFFECT of drugs on emotional stability varies, of course, with the individual. But many automobile accidents are believed to be the result of drivers' having taken narcotics, sometimes in big doses. It is conceded that a great deal of crime is committed by drug addicts who turn to robbery to get money to support their habit. Some persons who commit crimes are under the influence of drugs. When friction between groups arises and individual members are on drugs, they are more apt to be persuaded to engage in violence or malicious acts.

THE DRUG PROBLEM has become one of the most serious that the federal, state and local governments have faced, because many crimes have unquestionably been the result of addiction to drugs.

The situation confronting the military commanders, as mentioned by Secretary Laird, is a grave one. How can men in the military service who are supposed to be alert for action at any moment be able to perform their duties when they are under the influence of drugs? In such cases, whole military units could be endangered.

UNFORTUNATELY, there probably have been many instances in which drug abuse has occurred among servicemen, but their commanders have not taken any measures or seen fit to report them to their superiors. It will not be surprising, therefore, if the public announcement which Secretary Laird made in West Germany will be followed by other steps when he returns to the Defense Department in Washington. Stricter rules may be imposed to prevent the use of drugs by men in the armed forces, particularly when they are on duty.

Homes To Go -- Anywhere You Please

They may be called campers, or motorhomes or trailers, or recreational vehicles... the fact remains that these homes on wheels are becoming a tremendously popular item in sales in this day of more mobility of people, more leisure time, and the appeal for travel without expensive outlay.

The sales of the vehicles this year are due to top last year's record. It is estimated that there are about 3.2 million recreational vehicles on the road today, and the number steadily grows. Sales may reach 500,000.

These vehicles range from a wooden shell with a minimum of equipment to luxurious rolling palaces with baths, showers and many other conveniences of living.

They bloomed when they began to appeal to women. Years past it was the husband and his sons who went out with a tent and a can of beans for a weekend in the mountains. Campers and trailers these days are often totally self-contained with hot and cold running water, toilet and showers, excellent kitchen facilities and thermostatically controlled furnaces.

With all these luxuries, the ladies are going camping and loving it.

Women have also found a new driveability in trucks, which account for 40 per cent of the recreationally oriented vehicles sold each year. Many of the pickups and vans, for example, can now be equipped with air-conditioning, power steering and brakes, AM-FM stereo and luxurious interior style and comfort which compare with almost any passenger car.

With the lady of the house willing to go camping and able to help with the driving, motor camping has become a family affair. And camping no longer is just a weekend affair. Many families travel across the country in this way. In addition to learning more about the country, the saving in overnight accommodation costs is considerable because state and most public campsites average charge is only two to three dollars a night. Meal bills are also cut since the family usually eats in the camper.

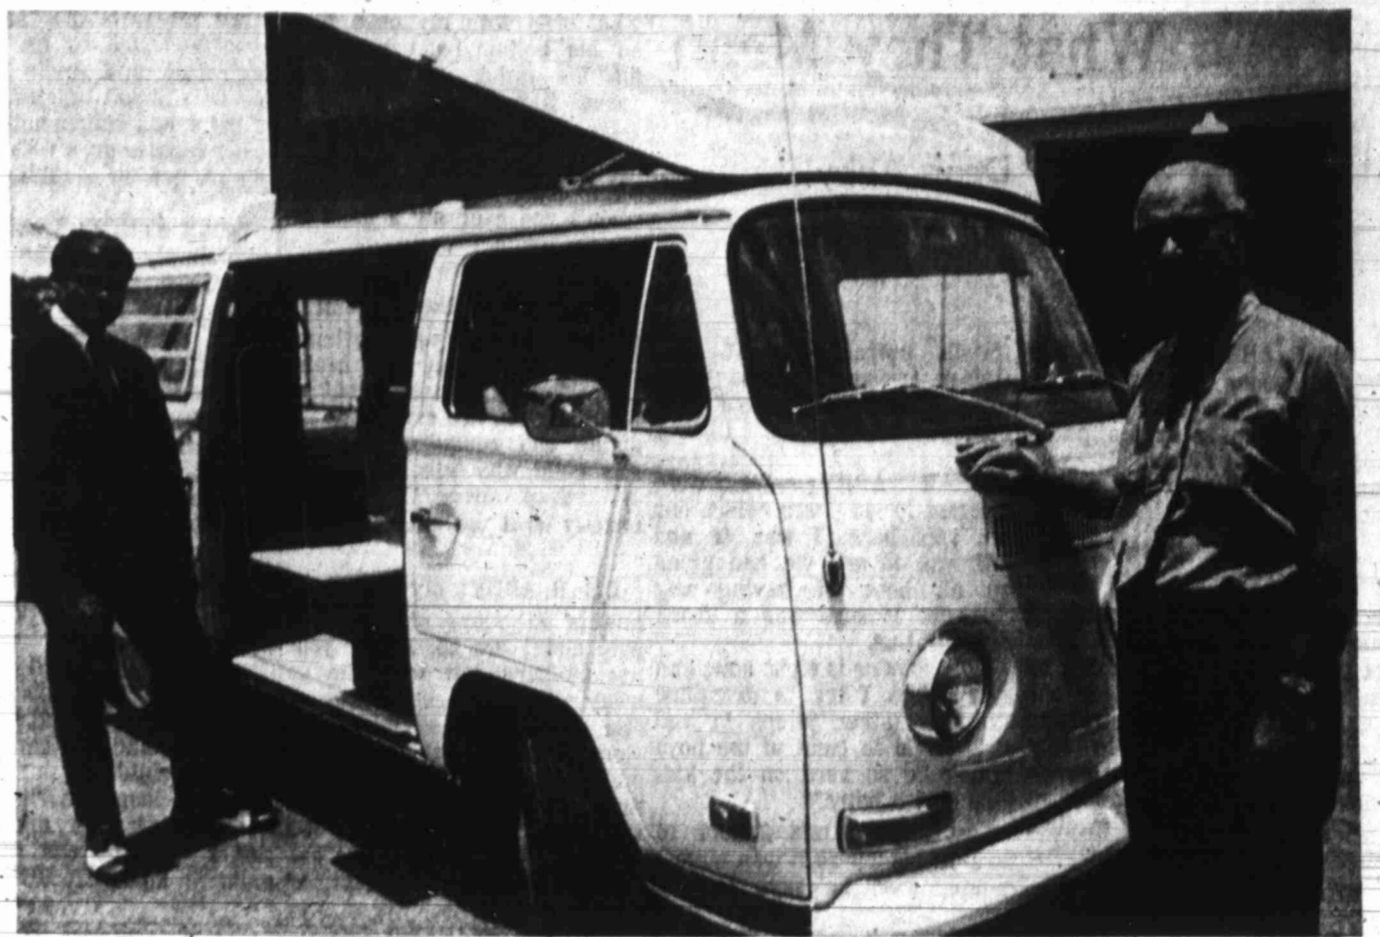

And conditions have changed at the campsites. Modern campgrounds have reservation systems, full facilities and plenty of activities, such as fishing and swimming, to keep the whole family going.

More than 10 million Americans will go camping this year in camping vehicles which get larger and more luxurious each year. While travel trailers retain their leadership by segment, the trend to motorhomes is rising at a much greater rate.

During 1970, sales of motorhomes — including the smaller van conversions — will be about 25,000. Prices of these units range from about $4,500 for the basic van conversions to $30,000 for the deluxe motorhomes, which can have full-sized bathtubs, fireplaces and roof patios, as well as every comfort of home.

Many people spend most of the year living and traveling in motorhomes. And the number is growing.

What They Mean

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am the wife of a young M.D. who is currently taking his residency training. I am so tired of people asking me, "When is your husband going to be a real doctor?"

Abby, don't these ninnies know that when a person receives his M.D. degree, it means Medical Doctor? Most M.D.'s further their training by taking their internship for one year and residency training anywhere from one to four years, or even more. But nevertheless, he is a real doctor when he graduates from medical school.

DEAR REAL: What your friends probably meant was, "When is your husband going into practice and making real money?"

DEAR ABBY: We were married for 14 years before our son was born. I was 44 and Bill was 48 and we had given up all hope of having any children. It sure was a shock to both of us.

Well, Sandor is eight now, and every time I try to discipline him, his father jumps in and says (right in front of the boy) "Don't be so hard on the kid. He's only a baby."

Last night I told Sandor to turn off his TV as it was almost midnight, so he says to me,

"Oh, drop dead!" I pulled him out of bed and gave him a few good ones with my open hand on his bottom, and he yelled for his father to come and "save" him.

Bill yanked the kid away from me as if to protect him from some cruel monster and said "Don't you ever lay a hand on my son again."

ALL BY MYSELF
DEAR ABBY: The problem is not the kid; it's your husband. If you could get his brains unbraided, your son would be fine. Children are experts at the divide and conquer technique. Any child who tells his mother to "drop dead," deserves exactly what you gave him.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is 75 years old and my wife and I are 50. Every year my mother-in-law wants to go away with us on our vacation. She pestered us so much last year about it that we passed up our summer vacation rather than take her with us. Now she is asking us again where we are going. My father-in-law has no desire to travel. In fact, he could enjoy staying home with his wife gone. My mother-in-law has never been neglected by us. We visit her often and invite her out. My wife is soft-hearted, but she really would rather not go away if her mother goes with us. How can we get out of taking her?

STUCK
DEAR STUCK: What's wrong with simply telling the lady that you have planned a "second honeymoon" trip?

DEAR ABBY: I've read many letters in your column from widows and divorcees who are lonely because their married friends have "forgotten" them. Let me tell you the other side of the story:

My husband and I were very friendly with another couple. Then the husband died. We invited the widow over for dinner often, included her in all our parties, my husband made minor repairs around her house and even had "fatherly" talks with her children.

Before long the "poor little widow" took over my husband and I was the one without a man. SADDER BUT WISER

Treating Ulcers

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Ulcers are such a common ailment that I believe two-fifths of people have them, and yet very little is done about it except dieting.

My husband has had ulcers for 20 years, first better, then worse the older he gets. He has almost cut out smoking the last two years. He has taken all kinds of medicine for it.

I'm wondering why doctors don't advocate more surgery. I've known four friends of ours who have had surgery and are doing fine, never an ache or pain and eat anything they want.

I'm insisting on my husband having surgery. What do you think?—Mrs. J.E.M.

Sorry, but I disagree, in part at least, with just about everything you say. First of all, ulcers aren't as common as you say — although a lot of people have them.

Second, you say "very little is done except dieting," and then you say your husband has taken "all kinds of medicine."

Third, he has "almost cut out smoking" for two years, although he's had ulcers 20 years. He should have cut out all smoking 18 years sooner. That's an integral part of ulcer treatment.

Last, you say you know four people who have, according to you, had peachy results from surgery. That just doesn't square with the facts, because average results aren't always that good.

Surgery for ulcers is a last-resort sort of thing: if an ulcer bleeds, and surgery is necessary; if a real and continued effort is made to heal an ulcer without surgery; or if there is indication that cancer of the stomach is involved.

After surgery for a benign duodenal ulcer, the average patient has to continue being careful as to diet and other factors if he doesn't want to risk having another ulcer start. (Or if a substantial part of the stomach is removed, the patient has to change his eating habits to cope with a difficulty called "dumping," because the smaller stomach can't do as good a job of digesting food.)

There are cases in which surgery is the only sensible recourse, but it isn't the easy answer you seem to think.

There's another aspect of ulcers. The tense, jittery patient is far more likely to have ulcers. If he can calm down, his ulcers have a chance to calm down, too.

I'm wondering how relaxed your husband can be if you are "insisting" that he have surgery which, apparently, neither he nor his doctor thinks is wise.

Think it over carefully. If you try the right way, perhaps you can really help your husband.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, read Dr. Thosteson's helpful booklet, "How To Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." For your copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

'I'M IMPULSIVE, BUT PLIABLE' Jane Russell Says Career 'Accident'

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernestine Jane Geraldine Russell makes a slight torso adjustment with feline languor and allows a sample of basic heavy-lidded sultry to float across the table. That renowned film career and this first visit to Broadway are the approximate topics. "I'm impulsive but pliable," she says. The comment almost purrs. But by now the glance is far away, and the long-standing Jane Russell distinction in I-talk threatens to prevail. If the I-talk is only about theatricals. "The whole show business thing was really an accident," says the lady who came June 21 passes the half-century mark, looking as shapely and striking as in 1940 when she erupted with explosive distinction upon Hollywood, a billboard idol three years before her initial film "The Outlaw" was released. "The only subjects at school in which I was any good were art, drama and music," she allows. "Well, my mother was an actress, so to rebel from the start, I decided on being a designer. "The school I went to on a Friday with my tuition check told me to come back Monday. During the weekend I went to see a friend who was studying drama, decided I'd do that instead and gave them the money on Monday." Her advent now upon Broadway in the established hit musical "Company" was similarly "weird." Miss Russell is not a musical comedy enthusiast — "the absence of a good story bores me" — but on a night off, during a stock stint over in New Jersey she went to see the prize-winning production and visited backstage afterwards. The casual tarry disclosed leading lady Elaine Stritch was slated to head a national tour. Somebody from management suggested Miss R. might be interested. That was several months ago and this week the sleekly poised star took over as a rich, thrice-married sophisticate in the caustic musical about big city wedlock. In 1968 she was divorced from ex-football star Bob Waterfield, ending after 25 years one of the highly publicized romances of the cushiony cinema era. Her second husband, Roger Barrett, died a few months after they were married. Of her three adopted children, Thomas, 20, is in the National Guard; Tracy, 19, is a college student, and Buck, 15, lives with Waterfield. Although thus freed of most domestic duties, homebody Russell's switch to New York has been immeasurably cheered by finding a big apartment she can decorate. "I don't cook, wash, sew or scrub floors, but I like a homey atmosphere," she says. The talk flows easier now that we're off show biz. "I think I was born married, and I can't understand people who want to be alone. "When I was a little girl, I had scrapbooks filled with house pictures — the doll bit meant nothing. I would like to have been an architect but I wouldn't have the patience to make all those drawings." She does read blueprints, though, and presently is involved with two of her brothers, who are in the construction business, in an 80-unit apartment development back in the San Fernando Valley. Miss Russell expects to be done with Broadway by the time the project is ready for her to supervise all interior decorating.

Elke Seeking Film Change

Gertrude Stein penned the immortal words which have now become a cliché, "a rose is a rose is a rose."

By the same token a sex symbol is a sex symbol is a sex symbol. Elke Sommer, starring with Michael York in "Zeppelin," opening Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre, is only too aware of the dangers of being considered a cliché by film audiences.

Intelligent and rational, Elke regards her success with clear uncompromising calm. She knows that a reputation built on publicity handouts without the backing of talent and ability has no more endurance than a house of cards.

"I was created by the press," she says, "now I am trying to become a good actress. I want to prove that people did not waste their time having faith in me."

Elke does not object to being regarded as a sex symbol. In fact, she finds it highly complimentary. "But," she says, "there are other things in life. Any woman needs something more to sustain her than the sole thought that she is a beautiful body."

The tragedy is that everyone must grow old and no one can be the epitome of beauty and sexuality for 40 years. Fashions change and what is considered a beautiful today can be laughable tomorrow.

"There must be something more in your life," she continues.

'Little Big Man' Indians Are All The 'Real McCoy'

Times have changed, and the American Indian has finally become a voice in the cinema combine.

All the Indians in "Little Big Man" are authentic, not out of Hollywood Central Casting.

"For years," explains Stuart Millar, the producer of the motion picture starring Dustin Hoffman, "the original Americans have been complaining that Hollywood has been using white men and brown in Indian parts. And they've been right."

"Little Big Man," which is now playing at the Cinema Theatre, evens the score. "Hollywood's own Indian actors are kept out of Indian roles most of the time," Millar emphasizes, "and the reason given is that they can't act. Well, if they can't, Hollywood must accept the responsibility for that, too. It has stifled Indian talent by giving the red men the stereotyped, one-dimensional, and completely phony role of the Indian who says 'Ugh!', and nothing else."

To prove his peace pipe was in the right place producer Millar filled five of the principal roles in "Little Big Man," with real Indians, including the second lead. In addition he signed 400 McCoy's living on the Crow reservation near Hardin, Montana, to portray Sitting Bull's warriors in the re-staging of the famous Custer's Last Stand, filmed on location at the actual site.

Millar also assigned 300 Stony and Sarcee Indians to play Black Kettle's people in a sequence recounting Custer's massacre of the Washita tribe in 1868.

Millar assigned one of the major roles to Chief Dan George, a real Indian chief who belongs to British Columbia's Squamish tribe, who was "discovered" at the age of 70, in Vancouver where he began acting on television three years ago. Four other major roles were filled by actors from Jay Silverheels' Hollywood Actors' Workshop, which Silverheels organized to aid other Indian actors after his days as Tonto — the Lone Ranger's friend — expired.

"Furthermore," Millar adds about the unusual casting procedure, "this time we're telling the story of how the West was 'won' from the Indians' viewpoint. It's time pictures told the truth about it." Custer must be doing somersaults in his grave.

THE ARTS

Midland-Odesa Symphony Sets Times For Concerts

Final dates, dress rehearsal sites and subscription concert locations have been released by the Midland-Odesa Symphony and Chorale, Inc.

All Midland subscription concerts will be held Monday nights at 8 p.m. in Lee High School Auditorium.

Odesa concerts will be held Tuesday nights at 8 p.m. in Bonham Junior High School Auditorium.

Preceding each pair of subscription concerts the orchestra will have dress rehearsals at Lee High School Auditorium in Midland on Sunday afternoon from 2:30-6 p.m.

There is no change in the Youth Concerts. In Odesa both youth concerts will be held Sunday afternoons at 2 p.m. in Bonham Junior High School Auditorium.

The next National Young Artist Competition will be held in Midland Jan. 28-30, 1972.

Musicians from all over the United States will be congregating in Jackson Hole, Wyo., for the 10th anniversary season of the Grand Teton Music Festival, July 27-Aug. 28.

Each week they will present two chamber music and one symphony concert in Teton Village.

Ling Tung, music director of the festival, has brought together participants from Hawaii to New York.

They include the assistant concertmasters of both San Francisco and Dallas Symphonies, principal viola of Dallas, assistant-principal cello of Cleveland, principal cello and oboe of Honolulu, principal bass and flute of Milwaukee, principal clarinet of the American Symphony and members of the Philharmonic Orchestra.

They are also professors and faculty members from the Curtis Institute of Music, Interlochen Arts Academy, the University of Texas at Austin and Oberlin College Conservatory.

The chemistry of bringing together a group of artists in the setting of the Tetons produces sparkling and adventurous chamber music concerts twice a week on Tuesday and Friday evenings.

In keeping with the informal spirit of the West, they are presented at the Mangy Moose and are called Watermelon Concerts. Watermelon is served following the concert.

Teton Village, a resort at the foot of the mountains, is the home of the Grand Teton Music Festival. The two-and-a-half aerial tram takes the visitor from the inns and restaurants of the village to the top of Rendezvous Peak for an overview of Jackson Hole.

This great and unspoiled valley can be explored by car, on a float trip down the Snake River or on foot along the trails of the park and forest service.

And in the cool summer evenings of the mountains, music can become part of one's holiday in Jackson Hole.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

—CARROL RIGHTER

SUNDAY
GENERAL TENDENCIES: As part of Memorial Day, express praise and appreciation to those of your country who have sacrificed greatly. There is a tendency to be depressed today and tonight and to find problems arising. Forgetting self in serving others is your best way to handle this.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Not a very good day for recreation, but fine for family reunions and the like and for meditation. Associating with superficial people could lead to trouble. Keep temper under control.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Reviewing fundamental affairs and getting rid of errors in same is wise on this day away from work. Strive for greater happiness and harmony. Show that you are a patriotic person.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Exerting yourself too much of recreation or not using care in motion of all kinds could get you into a lot of trouble now. Best results are obtained by speaking quietly. Histories could make a mess of things.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have big ideas and feel unhappy because you have limited funds which to do things. Just be grateful for present security and plan how to increase money through practical means. Get advice from experts, also.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show that you are a humanitarian and stop trying to attract attention to yourself in social circles. Either postpone that invitation you get or act in a most discreet fashion. Express devotion to the one you love.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Although your own problems may be quite vexing, you may find that those of others are much worse. Be objective and solve them. Lend a helping hand wherever you can. Take it easy in 2 P.M.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Show good friends you are devoted and that you appreciate their loyalty and past favors. Avoid group affairs, though, since others are in a criticizing mood now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you attend services you can be inspired on ways to improve your life more successful person. Show new contacts that you appreciate them. Make friends of them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Depth of thought is necessary now if you want to solve problems; being superficial only adds to the confusion. Do something of a patriotic nature and this gives benefits. Keep active.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although one who opposes you can be the cause of the problem and then it is solved well and quickly. Think over some new deal with an associate. Act in a very circumspect fashion.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Being of service to others is best now, since you have had many favors from them in the past. Do what you can for those in the armed services. Show that you are an excellent citizen.

MONDAY
GENERAL TENDENCIES: You certainly would be wise to get a good rest following a weekend in which much energy was expended. The need now arises for thinking out a course of action very carefully for the future and then taking care of the little details required in order to make your plan workable. Be exact.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Eliminating flaws in business, home and personal life is your best way to proceed now. Make your studies accurate. Get more cooperation from co-workers so that projects work out better.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Begin the week properly by doing those things for kin that will please them and make home life more harmonious. Make sure home appliances work properly. Entertain friends tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have to obtain certain data if you want tasks to be done properly now and gain the respect of associates. Get in touch with those who can aid you. Perfect routines.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have neglected home duties lately in order to help others, so get busy now catching up on own affairs. Know what your true position is in business. Improve monetary matters. Save more money.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Taking health treatments early will help you to be more precise in your duties later in the day. If you are invited to another's home, try to find out who is going to be there. Dress in good taste.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Although you enjoy dominating others, you had better finish work of hand without delay. Being more cooperative with mate is wise. Harmony is important right now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Good idea to take over your affairs with honest friends who can give the right pointers you need. Make better plans for the future. Attend the social but don't let one who is important and influential.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Doing those things that add to your reputation is wise and you get the respect of bigwigs. Buy whatever you need that will improve your work. Benefits can be greater in the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have new ideas that are fine but need more study if they are to operate successfully. Correspond with those at a distance who are important to your scheme of things. Show that you are thoughtful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Stop dreaming those impossible thoughts and get into whatever is practical. Pay bills and make any collections that are due you. If you keep a promise to one you like, you get excellent response. Control your temper.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Discuss with partners plans for considering any improvements in policy matters. Make effort to reconcile with one who opposes you. Look at both sides of the situation.

Fairchild Wants To Buy Dallas Radio Station

FAIRMONTOWN, Md. (AP)—Fairchild Industries announced agreement in principle to purchase McLendon-owned KLIF Radio in Dallas, Tex., for $10.5 million in cash.

changed its corporate name to better reflect the company's increased involvement in such areas as communications satellites, safety automobile design, real estate and aerospace activities.
