

COURT TO RULE ON CONSTITUTIONALITY OF DEATH PENALTY

Grants To Church-Affiliated Colleges Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld today a massive program of construction grants to church-affiliated colleges but struck down aid programs for church-run elementary and secondary schools in Pennsylvania and Rhode Island.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said "there is no evidence that religion seeps into the use" of any of the laboratories and gymnasiums on college campuses built with federal funds under a 1963 federal law. But, he said, the Rhode Island and Pennsylvania programs were invalid "because as we see it they involve excessive entanglement between church and state."

The federal program, which has disbursed an estimated $240 million, was approved 5 to 4. The Pennsylvania law was struck down 8 to 0 and the Rhode Island law, 8 to 1.

Burger said the only provision of the federal program that violated the Constitution was one allowing the colleges to use the buildings for religious purposes after 20 years. He said this would "in part have the effect of advancing religion" and hence violates the First Amendment. Otherwise the program was upheld.

The ruling was supported by Justice Harry A. Blackmun, the second Nixon administration appointee, and Justices John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart and Byron R. White. The court's four liberals dissented. They are Justices William O. Douglas, Hugo L. Black, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall.

Burger said of the federal program: "There is no evidence that religion seeps into the use of any of these facilities." He noted that in the past the court had allowed federal construction grants for hospitals operated by religious orders and had approved bus transportation, textbooks and tax exemptions for church schools or their students.

"The crucial question is not whether some benefit accrues to a religious institution as a consequence of the legislative program, but whether its principal or primary effect advances religion."

The Supreme Court also agreed today to rule on the constitutionality of the death penalty.

A brief announcement said the court would hear cases next term from California, Georgia, Illinois and Texas that challenge capital punishment in the light of the Eighth Amendment's ban on "cruel and unusual punishments."

The next term begins in October.

The court also will hear further arguments on the exclusion of opponents of the death penalty from juries.

One of the cases is from Chicago where Lyman A. Moore was convicted of killing a bartender in 1962. Another is from Chatham County, Ga., where a black man, Lucious Jackson Jr., was sentenced to death for the rape of a white woman.

There are currently 648 men and women under death sentence in the United States. Earlier this term the court ruled 5 to 3 against two challenges to death penalty procedures.

The court is expected either to announce a ruling or to delay adjournment to decide whether The New York Times and The Washington Post may publish articles based on top-secret Defense Department documents outlining the history of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

At issue, says the Times and Post, is the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press. The Justice Department contends publication of excerpts from the war study will endanger national security, damage U.S. relations with other countries and prolong the Vietnam war.

The dispute began June 13 when the Times published a story saying the Pentagon study indicated the Johnson administration secretly planned escalation of the war while President Lyndon B. Johnson was campaigning for re-election in 1964.

SEVEN SURVIVE Chartered Airliner Hits Water

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — A chartered DC3 airliner carrying 23 Californians, 19 of them real estate salesmen, crashed into rocky coastal waters during takeoff. The Coast Guard said seven persons survived.

Ten bodies were recovered after the Sunday night crash about 50 miles south of here. High winds and rough seas with four-foot waves hampered the search for the six missing persons, the Coast Guard reported.

The twin-engine plane, chartered by the Shelter Cove Co. of Los Angeles, was carrying 19 company salesmen, an unidentified woman and the pilot, copilot and stewardess, who were returning home after a weekend at the Shelter Cove land development-resort. The flight was headed for the Los Angeles area with a stop en route at San Jose, airport spokesmen said.

CLIPS ROOF

The survivors included the stewardess, and six salesmen, the Coast Guard said.

The plane clipped the roof of a sewage treatment building below the bluff at the north end of the runway and hurtled toward the ocean, striking a rock about 50 yards offshore.

The rocks and high seas prevented small boats from getting to the plane wreckage. But Tom Wallace, 21, of Redway, used a surfboard to help two of the survivors to safety, Mrs. Machi said.

Dave Zebo, Humboldt County aviation director, said the aircraft appeared to dip on takeoff before hitting the sewage plant roof about 10 feet below the runway, then shot off a low bluff to the ocean.

Death Sentence Of Speck Reversed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today reversed the death sentences of 35 persons, including the electric chair sentence of Richard F. Speck, who was convicted of murdering eight nurses in Chicago in 1966.

Speck was sentenced to death after a jury in Peoria, Ill., convicted him of killing the nurses, one by one, in their South Side Chicago apartment.

In reversing the death penalty, the court cited its 1963 decision holding that persons opposed to the death penalty could not be excluded automatically from juries in capital cases. It also cited two other precedents in reversing one bloc of 20 death cases including Speck's.

Relying on the jury provision known as the Witherspoon case, and various other cases, the court reversed a total of 35 death cases and remanded them to lower courts for further proceedings.

Ship Blast Claims Four

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Four Navy men were killed and seven injured today in an engine room explosion aboard a U.S. vessel operating off Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Force said the explosion occurred aboard the amphibious transport dock USS Trenton as the vessel was undergoing shakedown training about two miles south of the Guantanamo naval station.

The names of the dead and injured were withheld.

The Trenton returned to port under her own power. The Navy said it was investigating to determine the cause of the explosion.

Leaders Ask 'Tax Relief' For Farmers

AUSTIN (AP) — Agriculture leaders called today for a special legislative session to revise property tax laws to halt the "decline" of the agricultural industry, second only to the oil business in Texas.

The group, led by Sen. Wayne Connally of Floresville, calls itself "Keep Texas Productive and Green."

Chairman W. T. Crouch, former president of the Texas School Board Association, told a news conference Rep. Don Adams of Jasper was primarily responsible for blocking a proposal in the recent legislature to bring "tax relief" to farmers and ranchers.

Crouch noted that a proposed constitutional amendment sponsored by Connally cleared the Senate, but Adams "sufficiently confused enough House members with last minute scare tactics to defeat the bill and insure that Texas voters would not have the opportunity to bring about equitable agricultural land taxation."

Texas rejected a similar proposal in a statewide vote last November.

The proposal would assess land taxes on the basis of the land's "productive capacity instead of its market value."

The agriculture leaders said skyrocketing property taxes, increasing proportionately to speculative land values, are compelling farmers and ranchers to sell out.

"We must convince the people of Texas that their very quality of life depends on the passage of agricultural tax reforms as soon as possible," Connally said.

"If the tax burden is lifted, all those who love the out-of-doors will enjoy continued availability of open spaces, the state's economy will remain vibrant and self-sufficient, and the cost of food, clothing and forest products will stabilize."

High Court Fails To Rule On Pentagon Papers Case

Ellsberg Prepared For Consequences

ELLSBERG'S FACE NEWSMEN — Dr. Daniel Ellsberg and his wife, Patricia, turn to face newsmen as they arrived at the Boston federal building today where Ellsberg surrendered himself to the U.S. Attorney. Ellsberg is charged in federal warrants with unauthorized possession of top secret documents and failure to return them.

Reputed Underworld Boss In New York Shot In Head

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph Colombo Sr., reputed New York City underworld boss, was shot in the head today at an Italian-American unity rally he helped organize, police reported.

A spokesman for Roosevelt Hospital reported him in critical condition.

A second person, not immediately identified, was dead on arrival at the hospital, the police said.

The shooting occurred at the speaker's stand in Columbus Circle in midtown Manhattan.

Colombo, 48, had been identified before a Senate committee several years ago as the head of one of New York's mob families.

After a series of recent scrapes with the law, he had been staging a running feud with the FBI, and had led picketing of the FBI's headquarters in Manhattan to protest alleged FBI harassment of Italian-Americans.

In April, he was indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of controlling a $5-million-a-year gambling operation. He was released on $25,000 bail.

Columbus Circle at the southwest corner of Central Park, was jammed with thousands of persons attending the Italian-American Civil Rights League rally, the second one held there by the league.

About 1,000 uniformed policemen ringed the area.

Natale Marconi, president of the league, had said that 500,000 people were expected during the five-hour rally, which was to feature appearances by politicians and entertainers.

By The Associated Press

The Supreme Court put off today a ruling on whether the New York Times and the Washington Post can resume publication of secret Pentagon papers on Vietnam and the man accused of leaking the papers to the press surrendered to federal authorities.

The high court heard arguments on the case over the weekend, and sat today for what was to have been the last session until the fall term. The court announced no ruling on the Pentagon papers case, but Chief Justice Warren E. Burger announced the justices would continue sitting to hand down further orders.

AT SAME TIME
At about the same time, in Boston, Dr. Daniel Ellsberg surrendered to federal authorities and told about 150 persons that he had provided the Times with the papers.

"I am prepared for all consequences," said Ellsberg, whose attorneys had said Saturday their client would surrender on Monday.

Ellsberg, a former Pentagon researcher now a research associate at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, had been sought unsuccessfully by the FBI since Friday on a warrant accusing him of unauthorized possession of top secret documents and failure to return them.

NATIONAL SECURITY

At issue in the court case is the government's contention that publication of excerpts of the study will endanger national security. The Times and Post contend freedom of the press is threatened by the government's effort to prevent publication of the articles based on the study outlining U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Both the Times and the Post remain restrained from publishing more articles pending a final court decision.

Meanwhile, in other developments, George W. Ball, former undersecretary of state, labeled as untrue reports based on the study that indicate former President Lyndon B. Johnson deliberately deceived the American public in 1964.

LBJ HONEST

Ball said in a CBS-TV interview Sunday that Johnson "was entirely honest" in that he had to "plan for all contingencies" in his conduct of the war while campaigning that year for re-election as a peace candidate.

Ball said he hoped publication of the history would result in "more candor" on the part of the Nixon administration. "I think it's good to have it all out in the open," he said.

A report attributed to secret Pentagon documents "and other sources" by the Chicago Sun-Times said Sunday that top civilian leaders under Johnson rejected consistent advice by U.S. military commanders that commitment of perhaps one million men over a 5-to-10 year period would achieve victory in Vietnam.

The Justice Department, maintaining the Sun-Times has not published classified material in other articles similarly attributed, has taken no action to halt publication of the newspaper's series on Vietnam policies.

Other newspapers, however, have been restrained by court orders from printing top secret Pentagon documents the government claimed were vital to national security.

Continuation of the Sun-Times series was the latest among these other developments concerning the history of the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

—Time magazine said former Secretary of State Dean Rusk sent a cable to President John F. Kennedy in 1961 advising him against sending U.S. troops to Vietnam, as recommended by Gen. Maxwell W. Taylor.

"The cable, as yet unpublished, indicates that Rusk may have been an early dove regarding the war, contrary to his present image as a hawk," the magazine said.

ROY ANDERSON

CONDITIONS LAID OUT FOR ACCEPTING JOB

Commission Names Anderson Acting City Manager

Roy Anderson, assistant city manager, this morning was appointed by the city commission as acting city manager to become effective June 30 upon the departure from office of Larry Crow, current city manager, today in a special commission meeting.

"In this appointment we are striving to bring about a continuity of procedures that will enable the commission and city operations to move on with the least amount of disturbance with the resignation of Larry Crow," said Arnold Marshall, mayor.

The appointment will be effective and will run the duration until the city is able to secure the services of another city manager to fill the position, Marshall added.

"I am deeply honored, and I am taking the position because I feel that I owe a great deal to the city," said Anderson, concerning the appointment.

Five conditions were stated to the commission under which Anderson is taking the job, including that operations of the city will continue as they currently are, and no new programs or projects would be initiated by the temporary manager.

Herb Prouty, city attorney, who resigned his position June 17, to be effective June 30 is leaving the city today to take an assistant city attorney position with the city of Dallas, commissioners were told.

Mayor Marshall suggested that the commission approach Walton Morrison, attorney, and that he be asked to serve on a temporary basis as city attorney due to the need for legal advice in municipal court and other city problems. The commission endorsed his request.

"Before Charles Smith leaves office the statements on finance through June 1 will be up to date and operations are already under way on making the budget calendar for 1971-72. Also we are getting the basic information compiled that will be necessary in the formulation of the budget," said Crow.

Anderson also asked that the directives on city operations come from the whole commission and not on an individual basis and that he have the permission to realign city employees on a temporary basis to help him with certain city operations.

The commission approved all conditions under which Anderson would take the position and gave him their assurance of full support and backing.

A meeting of the commission and all supervisory personnel in the city was called for 4:30 p.m. today in the city commission room.

"We wish to assure these supervisors of our support and want to instill confidence in them of the commission's feelings toward their respective positions in an effort to bring about the unity that is needed in this period of time," said Marshall.

OBJECT IS TO KICK DRUG HABIT

Young Vets Play 'Game'

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — They call it The Game.

The players are young veterans who are drug addicts, most hooked in Vietnam.

They sit in a circle in an austere room in building 324, ward B-4 at the Veterans Administration Hospital at Menlo Park south of San Francisco.

The object of The Game is to kick drugs.

IT'S NOT EASY And it's not easy, because The Game can be frighteningly brutal. It makes you look at yourself. For an addict, that's always painful.

The Game has rules. No physical violence. No limit on verbal violence. All must participate. Once someone verbally attacks another, everyone must support the attacker. The person attacked must defend himself.

The program's founders, Steve Petty, a psychiatric social worker, and Bill Dunn, a former addict, say The Game is the main reason they have cured more than a dozen addicts in just a year of operation.

But the program wouldn't work without companion features such as the addicts living together in a ward, educational and employment assistance for those rehabilitated, and a cohesiveness that centers around each participant's desire to help his fellow addicts.

And for those who need it, methadone—a drug that substitutes for heroin to ease the pain of withdrawal—is available.

VERBAL ATTACK A form of verbal confrontation and attack, The Game is not new. It's been used for several years by civilian groups. But Petty and Dunn believe they are among the first in the Veterans Administration to use it. Many other programs rely on out-patient clinics administering methadone and providing counseling.

LEFT ALONE Petty and Dunn say that eight of the veterans they have cured are employed by the VA as drug counselors in an expanded version of the Menlo Park program that begins next month with a $140,000 appropriation. Two more have been hired by the Army as counselors in a San Francisco program. Three others are in college full time, another is managing a drug store and another is running a gas station. Because their approach, while startlingly different, appears to be working, Petty and Dunn say they have unofficial word from Washington that the Menlo Park project may become a model for other VA hospitals.

Newcomers to Menlo Park don't experience The Game until they've been detoxified—the physical craving for heroin has been curbed. This takes about five days using methadone.

Left alone after detoxification, Petty said, it would only be a matter of days before the addict would return to heroin.

"We have to find out why he's using drugs and then intervene, change his thinking and his lifestyle," Petty said. "This is what The Game does."

LISTENING DURING DRUG ADDICTS' GAME — Steve Petty, psychiatric social worker and one of the founders of a program for drug addicts in Menlo Park, Calif., listens to some addicts argue during therapeutic session known as The Game. Participants are armed services veterans, most of them Vietnam veterans who are trying to kick the drug habit.

What's The Game like? Here's what happened to a newcomer who failed two days in a row to get up at 6:30 a.m. and join in calisthenics.

"I FOULED UP"

The offender and about 10 others gathered in the room and a senior member said: "Jones, why did you miss exercises yesterday and today?" Before he could answer, the others began a screaming, shouting barrage of similar questions, a cacophony resembling an angry mob.

"Yeah, why didn't you get up? Don't you like us? Don't you like this program?" He tried to shrug it off with a laugh.

"What are you laughing about? This is no laughing matter." Finally he nodded his head.

"Why did you nod your head? Do you buy it? Are we right?" "Yes, yes. You're right. I fouled up."

They had reached a plateau. A drug addict had admitted that another little bit of his behavior was wrong.

NO WAITING They spent 10 minutes discussing solutions to the problem and praising the addict for good things he had done. When it ended, there was applause, backslapping. It was like the mood of a football team that had won a crucial game.

So far, Petty and Dunn don't have a waiting list. They say it's probably because their program hasn't received widespread attention and has been in an experimental stage. But the number seeking them out for help is increasing, the program has moved to new quarters and the VA has been asked for additional beds. They now can accommodate 35.

Crown Princess Becomes Mother

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Crown Princess Aiswarya, 21, has given birth to a son who is direct in line of succession to Nepal's throne, a palace announcement said.

The crown princess is the wife of Harvard-educated Crown Prince Birendra, 25. The baby is the first grandson of King Mahendra.

Job Screening Plan Starts Screaming

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The City Council meets next month to consider a proposal which would allow the town's police chief to screen a variety of job seekers ranging from astrologers to janitors.

Police Chief Clarence Kirkland wants a close screening, including fingerprinting and photographing, of applicants for what he terms "sensitive positions" in this Space Coast town of 35,000.

Some of the jobs Kirkland considers sensitive are school bus and taxi drivers, door-to-door salesmen, bar, nightclub and hotel employees, as well as astrologers and janitors.

Several Titusville officials see the proposal as an "invasion of privacy" and the first step towards turning the town into a "police state."

Vice Mayor Vernon Jansen said the proposal was discriminatory and boarded on harassment of the employers and employees of Titusville.

Another member of the City Council who has reservations about the proposal is Councilman Ben Hursey.

Hursey said while requiring itinerants or door-to-door salesmen to register might be acceptable, he could not condone broadening the classification which might eventually require all persons to register.

"We're getting close to a police state if we recommend this sort of thing," he added.

The majority of the five-member Council appears to oppose the measure.

Kirkland's proposal would allow police to:

—Charge applicants a set amount for screening, which would be carried out at a police station.

—Issue applicants a temporary identification card.

—Later stamp the cards "permanent" if the job-seeker passes the requirements.

10,000 In Nation Take Death Walks

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the nation's annual pedestrian death toll nearing 10,000, the National Transportation Safety Board today called on the federal government to put more emphasis on walkers' safety.

The board said results of a study conducted within the Department of Transportation showed little being done to improve pedestrian safety.

"Efforts directed specifically to pedestrian safety vary between one-eighth and one-nineteenth of the effort that would be in proportion to pedestrian fatalities," the board said.

Although several agencies within DOT are involved in pedestrian safety, no office or individual is responsible for their coordination, the study said.

"The absence of any organized national pedestrian interest groups and the absence of authorized programs which seek to expand facilities for pedestrian traffic or to improve the efficiency of pedestrian movement are serious drawbacks to pedestrian safety," it stated.

The report cited the "almost total lack of facilities for pedestrian traffic on and across the interstate highway system."

During the 1967-1969 period there were 29,000 pedestrian deaths, 72 per cent more than the combined total of all aviation, marine, railroad and grade-crossing fatalities, the board said.

Of all the persons killed in highway accidents during the period, 18 per cent were pedestrians.

The board said more than 53 per cent of pedestrian deaths are in age groups deserving additional protection because of immaturity or advanced age—children below 15 and the elderly above 64.

"Although pedestrian safety is specifically named in the Highway Safety Act of 1966 ... there has never been a public clamor for pedestrian safety comparable to that in other modes of transportation," the report said.

The safety board urged Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe to insure pedestrian safety technology and regulatory actions are coordinated by the two agencies primarily concerned, the Federal Highway Administration and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Secret Service Agent Youngblood Plans World Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secret Service Agent Rufus Youngblood, whose name vaulted into history one day in Dallas, is retiring and wants to see the world.

Youngblood, 47, says he has been around the world numerous times, but all he remembers are the inner rooms where matters of state are decided.

He's been to Bangkok five times, "but all I know about Thailand is an airport, a hotel and the palace," he said.

Youngblood's unannounced retirement May 31 would have gone unnoticed except for his name as related to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Lyndon B. Johnson, whom Youngblood threw to the floor of a limousine and shielded with his body, singled out the moment and it made a hero of Youngblood.

Goren On Bridge

—CHARLES H. GOREN

BY CHARLES H. GOREN (Continued from Page 1) BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS Q. 1 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q763 ♠A8 ♣107 ♣8752 The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1 NT Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid? A.—My recommendation is a pass. A simple arithmetic calculation will lead to the conclusion that the opener's dummy will be a blank. Assuming the opening no trump bidder to hold 16 points, the doubler of the no trump bid should have at least that much, which accounts for 22, you have six so that East at best can have no more than 2 points. Since you have at least 22 to their 16, you should outscore them on the play.

Q. 2—You are South, both sides vulnerable, and you hold: ♠9754 ♠9 ♠AK785 ♠KQ5 The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1 ♠ 2 ♠ Dble. ?

What do you bid? A.—Pass. Assuming partner to be a reasonable citizen, either East or West has committed a faux pas. With your high card holding, partner should surely score eight tricks even his trumps are banded against him.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold: ♠AKJ1074 ♠K63 ♠A953 The bidding has proceeded: North East South 1 ♠ 1 ♠ ?

What do you bid? A.—Three hearts. An immediate slam suggestion is in order with this mammoth holding. The alternate call of two spades would not be the best strategy at this point inasmuch as the true bid may be conveniently postponed till later. If it should be made at this time you would find it extremely difficult if not impossible to get across to partner the picture of this powerful heart suit.

Q. 4—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold: ♠753 ♠KQ5 ♠743 ♠AJ92 The bidding has proceeded: South West North East Pass Pass 1 ♠ 1 ♠ ?

What do you bid now? A.—The suggested call is one no trump. When made as a free bid this denotes a fairly good hand, one ranging in high card value from 10 to 13 points. If partner does not choose to go on, this should be the final contract.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold: ♠AJ4 ♠9 ♠3953 ♠AQJ74 The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now? A.—Three clubs. You have already shown the full strength of your hand and theoretically should pass two no trump, but since you prefer not to play no trump with a singleton heart, your best bet is to bid three clubs. Failure to return to three spades will suggest to partner that you have only three trumps.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold: ♠AJ10984 ♠Q72 ♠KJ2 ♠4 The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass 3 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now? A.—The singleton club is a deterrent to the no trump contract, because partner bid it under pressure and since he has shown two red suits it is likely that his club protection may be sketchy. It is further likely that partner is short in spades, so the best bet is to bid four hearts.

Q. 7—You are South, vulnerable and have 60 point score, and you hold: ♠AQJ ♠QJ1086 ♠K10873 The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ 2 ♠ ?

What do you bid now? A.—On the surface it would appear that a single raise to two spades, which completes the game, is the proper procedure. Actually, my preference is for a bid of three clubs, and the reason is to be found in the principle of anticipation. In view of the score you may expect a further competitive bid of three diamonds. If partner is unable to go further and the bid reverts to you, you will be in considerable doubt as to the best procedure. If, however, you bid three clubs over the two diamond bid, then when the opponents bid three diamonds you will be in a strategic position to bid three spades. In this way you will have exhausted the possibilities of all three suits, instead of restricting your chances to hearts and spades.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold: ♠1092 ♠Q975 ♠Q6 ♠KJ92 The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1 ♠ Dble. Pass 2 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now? A.—This should be regarded as a good hand when partner makes an immediate double, and you should not permit the opponents to buy the hand this cheaply. The proper call is three clubs.

Sato's Democratic Party In Control

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's Liberal Democratic party retained control of the upper house of the Japanese Parliament Sunday, but the Socialist opposition showed unexpected strength.

Unofficial tabulations for 165 of the 126 seats at stake gave 57 to the Liberal Democrats. The other 126 members in the House of Councillors are holdovers, and 72 of them are Liberal Democrats, so the government was assured a majority of at least six.

The Socialists won 32 seats, the Buddhist-allied Komeito 10, the Democratic Socialists 3, the Communist party 2 and one independent was elected.

The upper house is mostly a watchdog body, legislative power being held by the 491-seat lower house. But the election was watched for indications of the government's popularity.

Only about 60 per cent of the 71.6 million eligible voters went to the polls, and observers felt the poor turnout worked against the government party.

Sato, confident of victory, went to the mountain resort of Karuzawa to work on a new Cabinet lineup. The present Cabinet has been in office since January, 1970.

White Stores, Inc., owner of lots 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10, of block 19, McDowell Heights Addition, (1607 Gregg), desires to erect a business sign to exceed maximum height and area permitted in this zone. This request requires that a variance be granted.

All property owners within 200 feet of the property will be given this opportunity to state their approval or disapproval of the requested variance.

Increase In Auto Insurance Rates Giggled By McKool

DALLAS (AP) — State Sen. Mike McKool again voiced opposition Sunday to a 10 per cent increase in auto insurance rates the industry is expected to ask.

Describing such a boost as "utterly ridiculous and absurd," the Dallas legislator said he will appear in protest Wednesday at an Austin hearing before the State Insurance Board.

McKool said insurance companies have been allowed auto rate increases up to 30.9 per cent in Dallas County during the past two years. Rises in living costs do not justify another raise and adding an additional 10 per cent would be "unreal," he declared.

A LOVELIER YOU

False Nails Highlight Pretty Part Of Hands

By MARY SUE MILLER
False fingernails are the saving of breaks and splits. But do you know they have a use of supracosmetic import? With properly shaped false nails you can enhance the shape of your hands as needed.

For this purpose, the individually sized, London kind of false nails is needed. Here's how it works:

If your hands are on the stubby side, use regular (size) fingernails, designed to fit an average hand. Moderately tapered, regulars adapt to your own nails and provide an elongated appearance to your hands.

If your hands seem larger than life, try short-trim falsies. Their prettily curved shorter tips are sure to give the illusion of more delicate contours. More surely than you might be able to achieve with file and enamel.

If you have average hands, but wish for perfection — then slimline nails are for you. That's what models wear for slender, tapering fingers.

Why not have a go at it? Application is easy. Simply remove any polish and clean cuticles. Apply a thin coating of nailfix to the false nails and then your nails in turn; allow surfaces to dry and press falsies into place. You can add enamel if you wish, but it is not necessary. The false nails stay with you until you loosen them with remover.

Eyelure meantime is in reach of your hands. Could make a handclasp grow fonder!

LOVELIER HANDS
Do you have a hand problem? Send today for "Lovelier Hands," a leaflet that covers every step in a quest for hand beauty. It tells how to keep the skin and nails groomed; how to overcome weak nails, polish-chips, discolored knuckles, prominent veins, wrinkles; how to use the hands with poised grace. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin.

DROUTH NOT THAT BAD-YET

Today Not Like Dust Bowl Days

By MIKE COCKRAN Associated Press Writer

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — It was March 7, 1935, and the story was detailed in Washington.

Tons of Kansas, Colorado, Texas and Oklahoma soil hung over the capital Wednesday...

An airplane observer reported that the dusty haze extended to an altitude of 8,000 feet.

At Beaumont, Tex., crewmen on a German steamship reported a dust storm that covered all of Texas enveloped their craft while still 50 miles at sea.

These were the Dust Bowl days of the 1930's, a dismal period of drouth, dust and depression, one of this nation's darkest eras, familiarized by novelist John Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath."

Some say the current drouth has overtones of the Dust Bowl days. Others believe conservation, skies and other factors preclude anything of the magnitude of the dirty '30s.

It began in the summer of 1931 when a drouth gripped the Great Plains, a vast area extending through parts of Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana and the Dakotas.

Neither the first nor the last of the great drouths, this one persisted more than seven years on the southern Plains and for five years on the northern Plains.

Some fields lost from two to 12 inches of topsoil. Some sandyland became sand dunes. Thousands of farmers abandoned their farms and left the Plains in an exodus to California and elsewhere.

From 1934 until the summer of 1938, there were 263 dust storms in Texas and Oklahoma alone.

Fears of another Dust Bowl have risen across the Plains in subsequent years, particularly during the fierce dry spell of the 1950s.

Such is the case this year, with portions of several Plains states caught up once again in drouth, soil-eroding winds and instances of severely blowing dust.

"Beef" magazine, which calls itself "the business paper of the cattle industry," raised the issue in an article entitled "1971: Start of a New Dust Bowl?"

It observes that "students of weather cycles warn there's a possibility the drouth in the Southwest signals the beginning of another 1930-style disaster for agriculture."

Few Texans agree that a new Dust Bowl is starting. Clyde Graham of Temple, who heads the state's Soil Conservation Service, explains: "We are in a critical drouth especially in West Texas. We've had some dust blowing. But there are many acres of cultivated land now in grass as contrasted to plowed fields in the whole Great Plains area."

He said it is virtually impossible to compare the current dry spell with the Dust Bowl days of the 1930s.

"I don't think you can because you haven't had the prolonged and extensive drouth that you had in those days," he said.

"However, as soon as you say that, you can find places in West Texas where it's just as bad and just as hazardous as it ever was in the '30s."

"I just depends on whom you talk to and where in attempting to assess the severity of this drouth."

Conservation Service, explains: "We are in a critical drouth especially in West Texas. We've had some dust blowing. But there are many acres of cultivated land now in grass as contrasted to plowed fields in the whole Great Plains area."

"I would think that we could be in a Dust Bowl situation if the farmers and ranchers had not applied a lot of good conservation work on the land."

"However, as soon as you say that, you can find places in West Texas where it's just as bad and just as hazardous as it ever was in the '30s."

"I just depends on whom you talk to and where in attempting to assess the severity of this drouth."

Most Prejudiced Whites In North

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — James H. Meredith, returning to live in the southern state where he made civil rights his-story, says he concluded after residing six years in New York City that the "most prejudiced whites in America are in the North."

The 38-year-old Meredith said that while racial animosity still existed in the South, the racial climate is "significantly better" than in 1962 when he became the first black to enter the University of Mississippi.

Federal troops were summoned and the National Guard was federalized during the encounter that occurred when Meredith enrolled at Ole Miss.

Meredith said he had visited Mississippi six times earlier this year and he never had any "occasion of embarrassment, much less an occasion of humiliation, much less an attempt at it."

He moved to Jackson with his wife and three sons earlier this month.

Meredith said in an interview that on a "person-to-person, day-to-day basis, the South is a more livable place for blacks than any other place in the nation."

He said the racial atmosphere is "extremely tense" in northern cities and that the gap is large between whites and blacks in the North.

"They may ride on the subway, but they don't relate at all," Meredith said.

"It's going to become a hell-hole in the cities in the North. The education system is completely chaotic," he said.

Meredith commented during his "economic development day" Saturday at the Jackson Coliseum, which was intended to attract blacks interested in getting more economic power.

Only a few showed up, but Meredith said he would have another event next year and would continue working toward giving blacks economic assistance.

SENIOR NCO FOR MAY — M. Sgt. Sidney B. Gautreaux, corrosion control specialist, watches carefully as a fellow worker checks an aircraft surface for needed attention. The 19-year Air Force veteran was recently named Senior NCO of the month by the 3560th Field Maintenance Squadron.

Base Maintenance Men Are Honored

Three men from the 3560th Field Maintenance Squadron at Webb AFB were named recently for May honors, it was announced by 2nd Lt. Percy Joubert Jr., squadron information officer.

M. Sgt. Sidney B. Gautreaux was chosen Senior Noncommissioned Officer of the Month, T. Sgt. K. F. Lehenbauer was named as Noncommissioned Officer of the Month, while AIC Jimmy R. Nelson was selected Airman of the Month.

A corrosion control supervisor, Sgt. Gautreaux has completed 19 years of Air Force service, two of them in Southeast Asia. He was assigned to Webb in January, 1970, following a tour with the 366th Tactical Fighter Wing at Da Nang AB, Vietnam.

In a letter nominating him for the honor, Gilbert E. Webb, fabrication branch foreman, said of Sgt. Gautreaux, "the outstanding results obtained by the corrosion control team are possible only through the dedicated efforts and workmanship of Sgt. Gautreaux and his specialists."

A veteran of 17 years' Air Force service, Sgt. Lehenbauer serves as an instrument technician here. His immediate past assignment was as an instrument instructor at Chanute AFB, Ill.

1st Lt. John E. Snody, avionics officer, wrote of the sergeant, "on many occasions he has been the difference in the 'go' and 'no go' of aircraft." The letter of recommendation further noted, "he is the mainstay of the instrument shop's flight line operations. With considerable effort and overtime, he has accomplished his tasks despite a shortage of personnel trained in aircraft systems."

S.M. Sgt. Walter H. Purgason, Noncommissioned Officer in Charge of the aerospace ground equipment (AGE) section, wrote the letter nominating Airman Nelson for selection as honor airman. This letter noted in part, "he has a 'can do' attitude and a pleasant personality. His resourceful use of available assets in the accomplishment of assigned duties further enhances his value to this organization."

Showers Dot South Texas

By The Associated Press

Persistent showers, but not the drought-cracking variety, continued over the Rio Grande Valley, across the Coastal Plains and South Central Texas early today.

The National Weather Service said the showers would continue today but elsewhere in the state it would be largely the same as the past few days—hot, partly cloudy and little chance for significant precipitation.

The line of squalls stretched from Del Rio south to Brownsville, across the state's coastal underbelly as far north as Austin.

Early morning temperatures were in the 70s and 80s while weathermen were promising readings near 100 in much of the state for later in the day. Predawn temperatures in the Midland area were in the 60s.

Letters To Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

Our city seems to be in a situation similar to that of a family caught in argument, anger and frustration. A married couple which can't agree can obtain legal relief through the divorce courts but there is no means by which Big Spring can be divided into separate entities.

A person cannot disagree with the commissioners on one thing: The fact that the auditors cannot make an audit. Their means and methods of correcting faults leave much to be desired, in that no financial entity would continue with those at the executive level changing in such a brief period of time. Another weakness was the involvement in unsubstantiated charges, when — if there was concrete misconduct — it could have been investigated by a disinterested third party such as the state attorney general's office, and charges could have been substantiated or thrown out.

Further, we must realize that no competent individual would seek employment with Big Spring as city manager, city engineer or other vital positions until the current situation is resolved.

I feel it is the right of the people to decide the course of our immediate destiny and future. In other words, a mandate of and by the people to either support the commission in their efforts to improve Big Spring; or failing to receive a mandate, to allow healing to take place by being replaced. This is not a new concept, since it is known that a government such as England does this when there is a question of supporting the leadership of its prime minister.

Seemingly there will be a recall election, and I urge the citizens to get behind the winners — whoever they might be — for a unified city, without rancor or resentment, without enmity or hate, but rather following an American philosophy of working with the majority chosen by due process of law.

TO THE EDITOR:

It's a proven fact that when there's dirty business going on, the people that ought to know about it are usually the last ones to find it out, and then they don't want to believe it. The commissioners have been presented with the facts, and I understand they are available for the public to read if they want to know the truth.

I want to congratulate the commissioners for being a very special breed of man, that have the courage to stand up for their convictions, and are trying to make a better Big Spring.

Install gas air conditioning now?

You should be so foxy

Installing GAS air conditioning now means you'll beat the rush that always comes with the first hot or dusty spring day. While everyone else is waiting for the overworked installers you'll be cool, calm, and collected.

GAS air conditioning cools your whole house quietly and efficiently. You'll save on repairs, too, because there is no compressor to break down or wear out. And, GAS air conditioning cools your whole house for what you might have been paying to cool just two or three rooms before.

So, be foxy. Call Pioneer and tell them you'd like to find out more about installing GAS air conditioning in the winter. A representative will tell you what it will take to include it in your present forced air heating system. You may be able to use the same ductwork for heating and cooling. It costs nothing to get a complete survey of your home or business.

AMONG ARABS — Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, center, is framed between two Arabs wearing their typical headress in Nabius in Occupied Jordan. Dayan was drinking coffee with the two men, shopkeepers, during tour of the town and a new market place.

Testimony In Triple Slayings Of Deputies

BELTON, Tex. (AP) — Two Dallas men faced a murder trial today in a case that erupted on the bank of the Trinity River and left three deputy sheriffs dead.

Testimony was expected to get under way early with Dallas Dist. Atty. Henry Wade taking a direct part in the prosecution. Wade has not personally headed the prosecution staff in a courtroom since the trial of Jack Ruby for murdering Lee Harvey Oswald, President Kennedy's alleged assassin.

DEATH SOUGHT

The defendants in the case, Rene Guzman and Leonardo Lopez, are on trial on charges that they murdered Ellis County Deputy A. J. Robertson of Waxahachie.

The state is seeking the death penalty. Also killed on the river bank in Dallas last Feb. 15 were Dallas deputies Samuel G. Infante and W. D. Reese.

Another deputy was wounded. Still another fled unhurt and gave the alarm.

A jury of 11 men and one woman will hear the case. No Negroes or Mexican-Americans are among them.

RIVER LEVEE

The trial was moved to this small Central Texas town from Dallas because of the widespread information about the case there. It took five days to select the jury.

Guzman and Lopez were captured four days after the three deputies were slain.

The three officers were among five deputies who were overpowered at a frame house in West Dallas when they tried to arrest two burglary suspects.

Car Ran Off And Left Him

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — Earl Gerber, 58, of Upper Sandusky, has his car back after it ran off and left him.

The auto went into a ditch on a Wyandot County road and Gerber, who was alone, got out to push. He wedged a stick against the accelerator and the front seat to give him a power assist.

Once out of the ditch the car took off down the road. That was the last Gerber saw of it until a man who lived a mile away discovered the car in his back yard the next morning.

DURING ODESSA EVENT

LBJ Ignores Questions About Pentagon Papers

ODESSA, Tex. (AP)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson had nothing to say about the Pentagon's controversial Vietnam papers and he declined to talk with newsmen during a brief talk Sunday.

He appeared at Odessa's Library of the Presidents, to which he donated four books and promised more during a brief talk. Mrs. Johnson accompanied him here and dedicated the library collection, which is in the privately financed Ector County Presidential Museum.

Her husband said he presented the volumes "as my part of giving something back to West Texas, that has been so good to me, something that might be used by future presidents."

"I am going to come back

The five officers were taken to a river levee, where the slayings took place.

Ellis County Deputy Wendell Dover, who survived a chest wound, and Dallas County Deputy A. D. McCurley, who escaped unharmed are expected to figure prominently in the case against the two accused men.

Council To Elect Little Soldier

GRAND-RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — An Indian leader from North Dakota was expected to be the first Indian elected to a seat on the executive council of the United Church of Christ today.

If August Little Soldier of Golden Valley, N.D., is elected to the council, it will mark the first time an Indian has been named to the governing body of any church, nominating officials said.

Little Soldier was nominated from the floor for primary election Sunday. It was only the third time in recent church history that a candidate nominated from the floor defeated one proposed for major office by the synod's nominating committee, church officials said.

The 650 synod delegates may nominate other candidates from the floor before picking 19 members of the council today but officials said further nominations from the floor were not expected.

The United Church of Christ has about two million members in 7,000 churches across the country.

Little Soldier, a former chairman of the governing body at the Ft. Perthold Reservation, defeated Gary L. Lerberg in the primary, 505-163. Lerberg, an attorney and banker, is a former state senator, mayor of his hometown of Parshall and former president of the North Dakota Bankers Association.

In other executive council primaries Sunday, Mrs. Davida Crabtree, 27, a theology student from Boston, defeated the Rev. Dr. Edwin R. Edmonds, 401-269. Edmonds is one of the founders of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and lives in

Best-Selling Author Ford Goes On Trial

HUMBOLDT, Tenn. (AP) — Jesse Hill Ford, a novelist whose work deals in racial interplay in southern towns goes on trial in Humboldt Tuesday, charged with the death of a young black soldier.

The first day of the trial of the best-selling author is expected to be consumed by jury selection, with testimony expected to take at least three days.

Dist. Atty. W. R. Kinton earlier indicated prospective jurors will be polled about their feelings on capital punishment. But Kinton stopped short of saying whether he will seek imposition of the death penalty against the writer.

Ford, author of "The Liberation of Lord Byron Jones," is charged with first-degree murder in the rifle death last Nov. 16 of George Henry Doaks Jr. on the Ford estate near Humboldt.

The soldier, home on leave was killed as he sat behind the wheel of a car parked on Ford's quarter-mile-long private drive, police said.

Miss Allie V. Andrews, 16, a cousin of Doaks, testified at Ford's arraignment that she and Doaks drove onto the Ford estate by mistake en route to Trenton, a nearby city where they both lived.

Linda Carr, 4, was also in the car. Miss Andrews was babysitting with the child.

After the shooting, Ford said that he was nervous because of heckling and threats his son had been receiving at school.

Humboldt, a city of about 10,000 has had racial tension from time to time and was hit by three days of sporadic violence this spring.

Ford's best-selling book concerns a black mortician in a small southern town whose wife is having an affair with a white policeman. The plot sets the stage for violence and an in-depth examination of racial attitudes.

The book resulted in some indignation toward Ford from both the black and white communities in Humboldt.

In addition to the criminal action pending against Ford, Doaks' parents have brought a $250,000 damage suit against the writer on behalf of their son, who had been married only one week before his death.

Miss Andrews, expected to be the key prosecution witness, testified at the arraignment she saw a man with a gun behind the car who ordered them to leave and struck the car.

She said the next thing she heard was the shot that killed Doaks.

THEFTS

Freeland Austin reported Sunday morning that the Humble Oil Co. distributors warehouse had been burglarized. Officers reported that seven tires valued at $318 were taken from the building and $8 in change was taken.

Police officers discovered that the Johnny Stone Memorial Ball Park had been entered by vandals, and the concession stand had been broken into. Damage to the stand was $115.

Mrs. Dewey Howard, 3710 Connally, reported Sunday that someone had tried to break into the house next door. Officers reported that the screens on the house had been cut and the back door had been pried partially open. Owners of the house are on vacation and no estimate of the damage was reported.

Officers discovered early Monday that the Park Inn, 2711 Wasson Road, had been broken into. Taken in the burglary was four cases of beer and change from the cash register and cigarette machine.

An undetermined amount of beer was taken in a burglary of the Schlitz Warehouse. Officers discovered the warehouse had been broken into early Monday.

Star Focus On Birthday Of Nation

New Haven, Conn. The minister was nominated from the floor as was Mrs. Helen Barnhill of Milwaukee, Wis., who lost to Mrs. Ruth B. Douglass of Appleton, Wis., 348-310.

Planning for the nation's 200th birthday party, a Swedish teenager's encounter with Texas, the blazing trail of a rising golf star and one family's impression of the "blankety blank" Patton movie are featured in this Sunday's issue of the Texas Star magazine, a feature of The Sunday Herald.

Sam Kinch, Sr., chairman of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission of Texas, takes a timely look — on this July 4th weekend — toward 1976 and the 200th anniversary of the United States Declaration of Independence. The "Happy Birthday to US!" article outlines exciting plans for celebrations five years from now in San Antonio, Lubbock, Houston, Dallas and other Lone Star cities.

Blonde Carina Nilssen of Sweden only spent a month in Jacksboro, but her visit will be remembered much longer. Dorothy Prunty writes that natives looking "Through Carina's Eyes" learned as much from her as she learned about them.

In its series of salutes to "rising stars" the magazine spotlights a real winner in Austin's Ben Crenshaw, a 19-year-old university student with golfing credentials that many a pro would envy. Writer Chuck Clark says "there's no limit" to his future in the game.

Cactus Pryor took his young boys to see the award-winning "Patton" film and reports hilariously on the blankety blank consequences. All mothers, especially, should read "My Sons Meet General Patton."

Also in this week's Star, don't miss Mary Faulk Kooch's suggestion for a great Fourth of July meal, Weldon Hart's description of the magnificent courthouse in little Montague, and L. A. Wilke's take of the spotted bass — a bragging fish in any water.

Hunt 'Mystery Plane' Near Lake Bridgeport

BRIDGEPORT, Tex. (AP)—A specially-equipped search aircraft was to resume searching around Lake Bridgeport, west of here, today for an airplane which vanished last week on a flight from Lubbock.

Officers at Carswell Air Force Base said special metal detecting equipment aboard the Cessna 172 picked up "a strong reading" Sunday while scanning the lake.

Nightfall and strong winds hampered further search Sunday.

The plane was piloted by Michael Hubbard, 27, of Lubbock, owner of an educational consulting firm.

Witnesses told of seeing a plane like Hubbard's which broke through low cloud patches in the area after Hubbard had taken off from Fort Worth.

IF IT STICKS TO RIGID SCHEDULE House To Set Spending Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — If it sticks to its rigid announced schedule, the House will have set a five-day spending record when it leaves next Thursday for a long weekend recess.

It will have passed in five legislative days five appropriation bills whose $41-billion total in so-called new obligatory authority also will be a record for nondefense measures.

Two bills that cleared the House last Wednesday and Thursday appropriate $12.4 billion for the Department of Agriculture, environmental protection and consumer services, and $3.68 billion for the State, Justice and Commerce departments and the federal courts.

SPACE FUNDS

Their combined total is $240 million below funds requested by President Nixon.

Scheduled for House passage today, Tuesday and Wednesday are bills to provide $18.1 billion for the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Veterans Administration, National Science Foundation and the space agency; $4.48 billion for the Treasury Department and the Postal Service, and $2.35 billion for the Interior Department. Their combined total is $373 million more than the President requested.

None of the five pending bills has been acted on by the Senate.

The House previously passed two money bills financing the legislative establishment and the Office of Education. Both have cleared the Senate but compromise versions must be worked out before they go to the President.

MONEY BILLS

Six more annual money bills—including the granddaddy of them all the Defense Department measure—have not started through either branch of Congress.

Since all provide funds for the government financial year starting July 1, no federal agency is likely to have its budget cleared when the new year starts.

Anticipating that annual situation, the House has sent to the Senate an emergency bill providing temporary and limited financing until Aug. 6.

That's when the summer recess starts—and probably also when another emergency financing resolution is considered.

Gunners Again Bombard Firebases Below DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese gunners again bombarded allied firebases below the demilitarized zone today as reinforced South Vietnamese and American units swept the jungles.

The U.S. Command said more than 20 rockets slammed into Charlie 2, an American base three miles below the DMZ, and there were "light" casualties, including some men killed.

Three South Vietnamese bases also were hit, but the Saigon Command reported no casualties. Five 100-pound rockets hit Charlie 1 and Alpha 1, east of Charlie 2, and three more rockets landed in Camp Carroll, a regimental headquarters in the mountains to the West.

Sporadic shellfire also was directed at American and South Vietnamese troops hunting enemy mortar and rocket sites around Fire Base Fuller, four miles below the DMZ. But a South Vietnamese spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, said: "The intensity is very low now."

Fuller was abandoned last Wednesday night after heavy shelling destroyed 80 per cent of its bunkers and fortifications. A company of about 120 South Vietnamese infantrymen reoccupied the hilltop outpost late Sunday, but Hien indicated they went back temporarily to provide protection for other troops hunting the enemy in the area.

Two battalions of South Vietnamese infantrymen were lifted in by helicopter and with an armored unit of the U.S. 5th Mechanized Infantry Division were sweeping the mountains northwest of Fuller. A similar sweep was under way to the south of the base.

Maybe The Party's Over

Most commencement exercises are over, James Reston and William Furlong, writing respectively in the New York Times and its weekly magazine, have taken this as the occasion for some penetrating remarks about this year's graduates.

As the title of Furlong's article notes, "For the Class of '71, the Party is Over." One element in this morning-after atmosphere is that for many of the zealous youth sheltered to a certain extent from some of life's realities over the past several years, there are no jobs. The big demonstrations, the marches, the "Woodstock" generation attitude of love and pot — all this is fading. "This class," Furlong quotes a student editor as saying, "seems to be more introspective, more introverted now. They seem more concerned with their personal problems."

Reston offers some searing opinions about this year's graduates, who have gone through one of the worst periods of civil disruption and drug addiction in the history of the Republic. They talked much of "commitment," he writes, but have not committed themselves to any one person or idea. They talked of something called "participatory democracy," yet failed in large measure to engage in the democratic process; they espoused "individualism," but ran in packs, condemned the welfare state but leaned on it. And for all their praise of the "good-life personal happiness," in Reston's view, they seem to be bored and joyless. "So maybe," he concludes, "this new generation is not so different after all."

These are disturbing times for all Americans. The war in Vietnam externally, and the internal problems of civil disruption arising from it, ripped and tore at our country during the latter part of the 1960s. The student generation, involved as no other before it had been, heaped scornful censure on the so-called Establishment and its rules. They criticized a war they were forced to fight but saw as irrational, meaningless and futile. Beyond that they extended their criticism to many other areas of American life. Often their censure took the form of a better-than-thou attitude that their elders found hard to take.

Now the party may be over. Many of the young who indulged in self-righteous attacks on the established order are abruptly concerned in a very personal way with their own, specific future. Whatever protection the academic environment afforded them has now been removed. The sort of problems they now face will not yield to slogans and demonstrations. Many will find that the off-campus world is more complex and demanding than they had supposed.

Respect For Office

The office of governor of Texas deserves respect.

Those who treat the occupant of that office with discourtesy demean themselves and their occupations more than they do the governor. Whether you agree or disagree with Gov. Preston Smith, he is underserving of the rude treatment he received from TV newsmen and some other reporters the other day in Dallas.

Reporters have a right and a duty to ask sharp questions of public officials. But there is a time and a place for such questioning and surely there is no excuse for shouting insulting inquiries to the governor of the state when he is attempting to leave a public gathering. The governor and his aide were justified in their rebuking the offending Dallas newsmen as they did. We hope there's no more of that.

Pollsters Tell Us

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

One thing and another: Something went out of elections when the pollsters took over. Who needs to be told months in advance that one candidate or another is going to win?

Election night used to be a lot of fun. Now you can tune to one of the election headquarters offered by the networks 30 minutes before the polls close and find out who's going to lead the country for the next four years, what party is going to have it rough as the minority group.

OPINION POLLS may be needed, too, by those individuals who abhor the thought of not running with the crowd, of doing things that would brand them as an individual.

We truly are a nation of sheep and the thought of voting for the person who doesn't win, or championing a cause that is not popular sends us hurrying to the medicine cabinet for relief.

IS YOUR idea of togetherness when everybody agrees to watch the same television program?

PEOPLE WHO strive for perfection should remember it is a trait not especially admired by other people.

Individuals with prodigious memory banks make other people feel inferior. Those who can rattle off a set of figures for the benefit of the boss may be in for early promotion but they may also be in trouble with their coworkers.

MOST PEOPLE feel more comfortable around the individuals with admitted human frailties, especially those who boast the sense of humor to admit them. The buffoon comes across best, if he is inclined to make light of himself.

Don't be discouraged if your memory is poor. An expert says that the people with total recall are apt to be poor creative thinkers. "To keep your mind up to date," he points out, "you have to have some decay of your older memories."

PSYCHIATRISTS say it is not good for a man to keep too much to himself. The income tax people heartily agree.

HOSPITAL attendants have a language all their own. If they say "satisfactory," they mean the patient might make it. If he's "fair," his condition is not too good.

Kids And Books

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — I keep having these crazy ideas, sometimes in the middle of the night when sleep should knit my raveled sleeve of care. One of them is spelled books, and with parents whining that kids are going to the dogs, and even to jail, I wonder whatever happened to reading as an adventurous pursuit for the younger set.

A BOOK was a highly prized gift in the days before the 23-inch screen. Children not only read them, they seemed to enjoy the exercise. Today, however, they are forgotten in a frenetic parental preoccupation with "finding something for the kids to do," especially at night.

Turning a child loose on a book does not guarantee a sudden rise in the literacy rate. But it is an act of exposure with warming possibilities. After all, a book's primary function is to be read and if you leave one around the house long enough there is always a chance some moppet will read it, and never mind whether he moves his lips in the process.

THE PROBLEM is that in some childish quarters reading books is considered square. Bless his heart, somehow we should try to convince him that reading a book won't do him a bit of harm. He might even grow to enjoy books if exposed to them regularly, and start a new "in" trend among his fellows. Those friends may consider him a trifle stodgy at first, but if he really starts to read seriously he won't notice it.

He won't notice anything, which may be the nicest thing about reading.

IT MIGHT be a good idea to start the child off with a particularly good book — "Hans Brinker or the Silver Skates," for example. "Brinker" is not only fun to read and crammed with suspense, but it gives a sprout a chance to soak up nuggets of information he can sprinkle about the neighborhood with comfortable condescension.

In "Brinker," I first learned about caviar, a nutriment never served in our house. There, in those fascinating pages, the boys were asking for it at the Red Lion Inn in Leyden, with the author tossing in the explanation that it was made from the eggs of sturgeon. Ha! You may be sure I injected the subject of caviar into every conversation for a month until a parental order sentenced me to the woodpile to learn humility.

BUT THE main thing parents should remember about the really good books is that they are so much more fun than any of the tired scripts of television. Can you beat "Kid-napped" for suspense? "Oliver Twist" for pathos? "The Wizard of Oz" for authentic, bottled-in-bond enchantment?

As a citizen who has not spent his after hours in Christian Science Reading Rooms, I am yet capable of wondering why opening a book has fallen into such low esteem by our sophisticated toddlers. Perhaps the trend is of a piece with other examples of modern parental neglect.

'CAN'T YA HURRY A LITTLE?'

'Old' Building Codes

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Literally hundreds of city building codes rigidly enforce today the use of products and methods better suited for a century ago.

Written in the 1800s, they ignore discoveries, inventions and improvements of the most technologically advanced nation in the world. There is little logic and less consistency to them. They differ more than they agree.

As a result, innovation is thwarted, inferior products are used and time consuming techniques are used at the cost of quality and efficiency. It is more than coincidence that there is at the same time a housing shortage.

The clamor is rising for uniform codes, but that doesn't mean we'll get them. Vested interests will work hard to maintain their privileges.

Unions will insist that certain work-saving procedures be banned. Materials suppliers will lobby to have the code specify their product. Local "stick" builders will fight to keep out factory produced homes.

Nevertheless, a model code that could guide the modernization of city building regulations is to be published next month by four large code organizations:

The American Insurance Association, International Conference of Building Officials, the Southern Building Code Congress and the Building Officials and Code Administrators.

The code will still be only a suggestion. There is no edict that says a town must abide by it. And, in fact, it is expected that lethargy will cause many to ignore it.

How, therefore, is the problem to be resolved? Seven states have established mandatory codes, and a good many large factory or industrialized housing believe a federal code is needed.

"Industrialized housing will require national markets," said Dr. George Smith recently in a speech to the Modular Housing Symposium here. And a national market, of course, requires that what is built for one town is acceptable in another. Smith, president of McKay-Shields Economics, added: "In order to compete effectively, and to produce efficiently, developers and users of construction systems need to know that they can operate on a more or less equal footing throughout the national market."

"The only way a national market can be developed is to override the present atomized system of regulation."

'Where's The $160?'

Omar Bursleson

WASHINGTON — The Ways and Means Committee is now in the fifth week of hearings on the President's revenue sharing proposal. This idea has heretofore been discussed in this column but as governors, mayors, other officials and organizations testify, one sitting there can conjure up all sorts of situations—like this one.

The Government Man pulls up in front of the Joad shanty on the eastern slope of the Appalachians. Jude and Judd Joad hurry down the rickety porch steps to meet him.

"Did you bring us that $160 promised by the President on the radio?" Jude asked.

"NOW JUDE," said her husband, "don't be in such a hurry and don't get your hopes too high. The Government Man said, 'What $160?'"

Jude had heard on the radio that the President takes in $200 billion a year and, being the fine man he is, aims to share $16 billion with the folks he took it from.

"Now Mr. Pugg down at the schoolhouse just figured that every man, woman and child in the country would be entitled to $80 each. Between me and Judd that comes to $160. That's more money than we make and with that I can get some gingham curtains for the windows."

"I SEE," said the Government Man, "you're referring to the President's Revenue Sharing Program but I am afraid it does not mean that you get the cash directly. The plan is to share some of the Federal Government's money with the states and cities. Many of them seem to be about broke and greatly in need."

"Well, I guess they need it more than we do," said Judd. "We only owe $37.15 down at the store and I guess we can pay it some time." "The idea is," said the Government Man,

"that if money is given to the states and cities, local people can better understand local needs and know how to better spend the money." "Well," said Jude, "nobody is more local than Judd and me. We've lived on this farm for 50 years and we know what need is."

"YEAH," SAID Judd, "I can't rightly speak for all poor folks but our biggest need is money. Money is the surest way to cure poverty." Jude asked the Government Man if the state, county or some other official of that local government who was going to get money from Washington would send them some.

"No, not directly. They send it to the communities where applicants will be investigated to determine what the need is," said the Government Man. "If you qualify, you may get some."

"SEE, JUDD, we are going to get that $160 after all. I guess I can just go ahead and order them curtains." "Now hold on a little, Jude. I've been figuring a little. It takes a 11-cent stamp to get out that $160 from Washington, then they got to hire people, and that don't come cheap, to see how to spend that $159.89. It will take a 8-center to get the $98.84 out here to the mountains. Then they have got to hire two fellers at $200 a week and then pay for

Jude's thin shoulders dropped. "Well, Judd, maybe for the time I can just get a little piece of blue hair ribbon instead of the curtains."

REVENUE SHARING, the idea of a guaranteed family income and some of the other ideas of welfare, tend to hold out some false hopes for the people like the Joads and opens up all sorts of schemes for those who had rather live on welfare than to earn their own way.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The human heart is one of the sturdiest things on earth. During an average life it will beat 2 1/2 billion times at a rate of 70 a minute. Generally, the larger the animal the slower the beat. An elephant's heart— it weighs about 48 pounds — beats only 25 times a minute, that of a mouse from 600 to 700 times.

George Washington, the "father of his country," never sired any children of his own. Washington had many distinctions, among them this, almost forgotten one: he was America's first mule breeder.

One of the basic needs of a handicapped child is special education. But only 40 per cent of the seven million handicapped children in the United States now get it.

Finding a diamond is almost as difficult as finding a needle in a haystack. Miners sometimes have to sift through 250 tons of ore to come across a gem stone only caret in size.

Quotable notables: "It's a terribly hard job to spend a billion dollars and get your money's worth." — Former Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey.

Safety question: Are "hot pursuits" by police worthwhile. Some safety experts doubt it. They result in 300 to 400 deaths annually, the victim in many cases being the pursuing policeman. The culprit who initiates the pursuit, 90 per cent of the time, is only a fleeing traffic violator. Of those arrested, a survey showed, 75 per cent were drivers under 24 with a poor record.

Worth remembering: "Never marry a beautiful girl. She might leave you. If you marry an ugly girl, she might leave you, too—but you won't care."

Folklore: If your shoelace comes undone, that means someone is thinking of you. Spitting into a hearthfire brings bad luck. When a friend gives you a knife or a pair of scissors, you must give him a small coin in return or your friendship will be broken. Find a four-leaf clover and you'll be married within a year.

It was Joseph Addison who observed, "Three grand essentials to happiness in this life are something to do, something to love, and something to hope for."

Foreign Concern

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Great Britain, whose government is one of the closest friends the United States has today, finds that the publication of secret papers in the "Pentagon Study" presents a problem which is giving it great concern.

The British foreign office has instructed its ambassador at Washington to make representations "to express to the United States government the British government's concern at the threat to the confidentiality of diplomatic exchanges in the light of the publication" of the papers. The public statement went on to say that British officials "are concerned at the status of exchanges of an inter-governmental nature."

JUST A FEW days ago, the Australian government showed a similar reaction and wondered whether in future relations with the United States it could be assured that messages and other confidential expressions would not be made public. In both Australia and Great Britain there are discussions about items which were "leaked" from classified documents. In America there have been demands that all the documents in the study be "declassified" and made available for publication. This has begun to worry foreign governments in countries besides Great Britain and Australia.

THE CONDUCT of diplomatic relations is a delicate business. Many times messages are transmitted that relate to a third country, and the United States may be asked to intercede or to be helpful in avoiding or settling controversies or disputes. Naturally, governments do not like to let it be known publicly what respects they may be suggesting with respect to other governments. Often they obtain and provide information which is helpful to the United States, but they would not themselves wish to become involved in whatever action is subsequently taken. If there is a possibility that messages are to become public property at any moment, foreign governments will be reluctant to put anything on paper or to let an ambassador write any message on ticklish subjects which could be placed in the records. This could make the road of diplomacy difficult to travel.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT'S problems will increase substantially unless there is a firm commitment hereafter that at no time will the texts of messages exchanged with foreign governments ever be published either by researchers or by members of Congress who make special studies. Certainly it should be possible to discuss foreign policy without involving confidential relationships with other governments, especially with those countries with which it is essential that the United States maintain good faith and mutual trust.

AFTER THE passage of time, there is often a tendency to assume that what happened several years ago is no longer of consequence. But confidential exchanges with foreign governments should remain secret and should not be revealed without the permission of the governments which it may be involved.

IT WOULD NOT BE surprising, however, if other governments developed a reluctance to do business with the United States by the exchange of messages. In the case of important matters that could be hurtful if disclosed, probably by mutual agreement no record at all will be kept in the files of the American government.

Oh Pumpernickel

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the legends of bread concerns pumpernickel, Germany's famous black bread.

It may have been named when a traveling Frenchman tried some and pronounced it "bon pour Nicol," or "gold for Nicol," as he called his horse.

There is also the one about Turkish bakers, when caught adding fillers to their flour, being nailed by the ears to their shops.

My Answer

Billy Graham

Why are so many educated people passing Christianity by? Is there any explanation for this?

O.P. There are actually two movements today: one away from the church and another toward the church and Christian beliefs. You ask about the movement of educated people away from the church. Of course generalities are misleading, and when you say "educated people are passing Christianity by," I could recite case after case of educated people turning to Christ.

One reason that many are turning from the church today is that in too many denominations the Christian message has become so watered down that it has become sterile and unchallenging. The disciples of Christ have always lived excitingly, and sometimes dangerously. The "play-it safe" type of Christianity which believes little, offends no one, and does little, has become nauseous to the average person.

The Bible and the teachings of Christ are the greatest challenge I have ever faced. Every day I pray for strength and wisdom to live up to them, and when I feel His undergirding power helping me to rise above prejudice, selfishness and sin, I know that following Him is the most worthwhile thing in life.

A Devotion For Today...

(From the 'Upper Room') All scripture is inspired by God and profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, and for training in righteousness. (II Timothy 3:16, RSV)

PRAYER: Our Father, help us to find in the Bible the light for our path, making of Thy Word the daily food for our souls, so that we may be perfectly equipped for good works. In Jesus' name. Amen. (From the 'Upper Room')

Indochina War Deadline Faces Near-Certain Nix

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's nine-month Indochina war deadline faced near-certain rejection in the House today, dooming replacement of the nation's draft law before it expires Wednesday night.

Rep. Charles W. Whalen Jr., R-Ohio, pressed for a vote, expected today, on accepting the war deadline tacked onto the draft bill by a 57-42 Senate vote—but neither backers nor have vowed to filibuster any such compromise and prevent extension of the draft until they have a mandate to "President Nixon on getting out of the war."

The present draft law expires at 12:01 a.m. Thursday, leaving lawmakers scant time for passing a replacement.

But the Pentagon has announced a 16,000-man call for July and August, saying it could be filled if necessary with deferred men who now are coming back into the draft pool.

The Senate-approved amendment proposed by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield would call for immediate negotiation of a cease-fire with Hanoi, followed by negotiation of a phased U.S. troop withdrawal in return for release of Ameri-

Stamps, Etc.

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "STAMP WIDOW" she's lucky because her husband had the one hobby she could "lick." Shame on you, Abby. Anyone who collects stamps knows that to lick a stamp is blasphemy. Stamp collectors use stamp hinges or protective mounts.

ED SUSMAN: I'd take a good "licking" with a Scott catalog.

DEAR ED: Okay, I'll take a good "licking" with a Scott catalog.

DEAR ABBY: Stamp Widow doesn't know how lucky she is. My husband is a stamp collector and I have to go to all the stamp shows and auctions with him. And I'm the "soaker off" from the envelopes and cards that friends give him. Yes, my house is a mess with stamps drying off all over. But I'm lucky. He could be in a tavern, gambling, instead of in his stamp corner.

I've gone to work with stamp hinges clinging to my clothes, inside my shoes, and you don't ask where else. For Christmas, birthdays, Father's Day, what does my man want? Stamps, or supplies for his albums.

LILLIAN

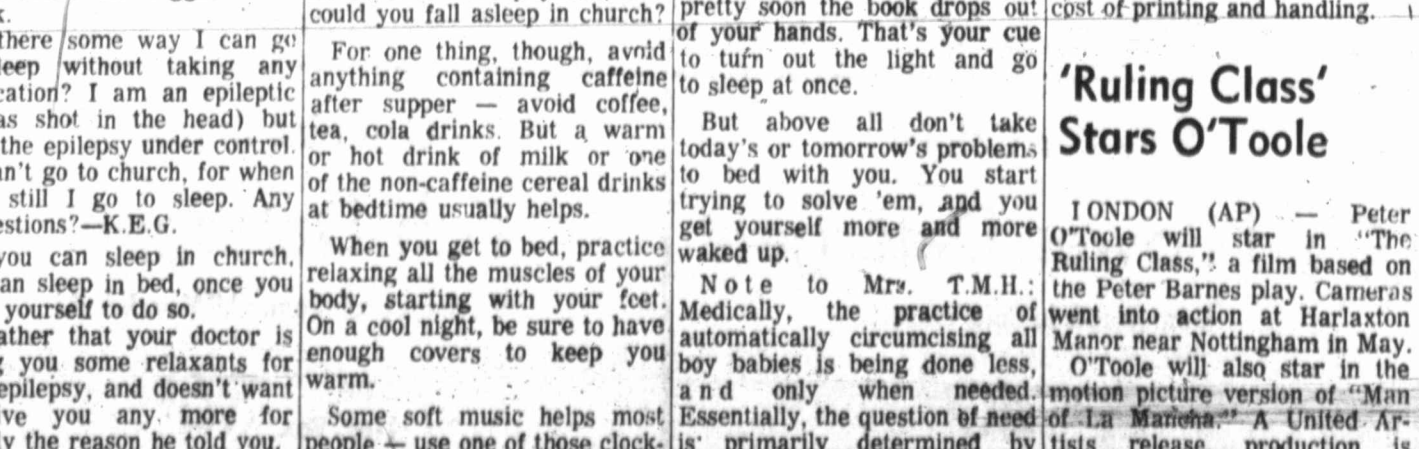

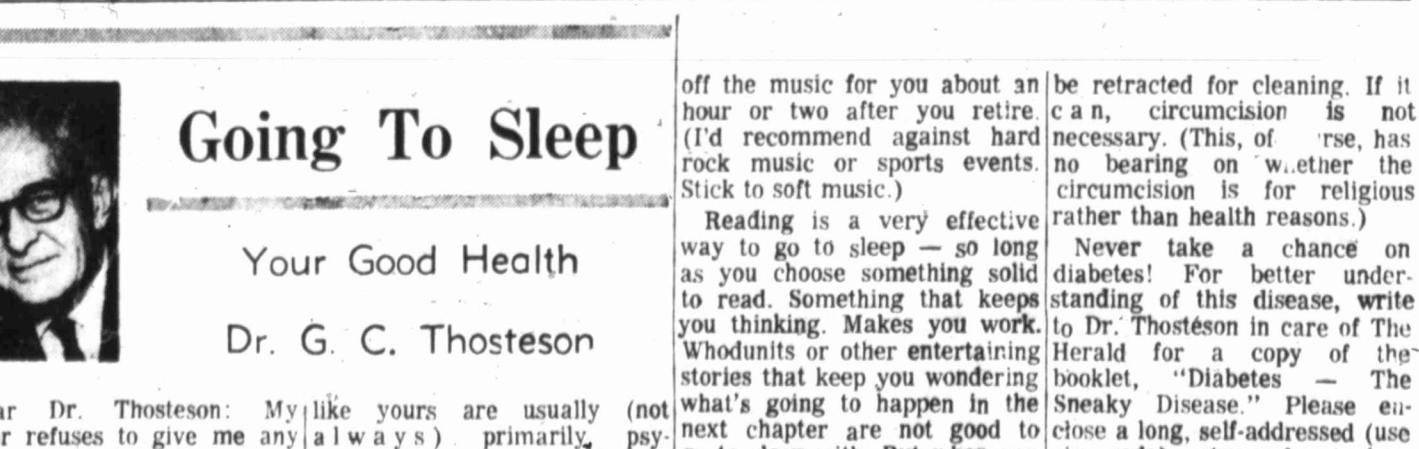

DEAR ABBY: Words cannot adequately express my appreciation for the wholesome hobby of stamp collecting. My husband was forced to retire before 60 so he turned to his stamp collection, added to it, bought and sold stamps and found a fascinating hobby that required no physical effort.

We exposed our children to stamps early. As they brought in the mail they would announce, "Betsy Ross Flag!" Or "Another Mr. Lincoln!" They learned history through observing stamps. To this day I never throw away a canceled stamp. I cut, soak and dry. And they're saved for my grandchildren.

STAMP WIDOW: MPLS

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Going To Sleep

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My like yours are usually (not doctor refuses to give me any sleeping medicine. He says it would make me stagger like a drunk.

Is there some way I can go to sleep without taking any medication? I am an epileptic (I was shot in the head) but have the epilepsy under control. I can't go to church, for when I sit still I go to sleep. Any suggestions?—K.E.G.

If you can sleep in church, you can sleep in bed, once you teach yourself to do so.

I gather that your doctor is giving you some relaxants for your epilepsy, and doesn't want to give you any more for exactly the reason he told you. These "can't sleep" problems are usually (not always) primarily psychological, and a matter of habit. If it were physical, how could you fall asleep in church?

For one thing, though, avoid anything containing caffeine after supper — avoid coffee, tea, cola drinks. But a warm or hot drink of milk or one of the non-caffeine cereal drinks at bedtime usually helps.

When you get to bed, practice relaxing all the muscles of your body, starting with your feet. On a cool night, be sure to have enough covers to keep you warm.

Some soft music helps most people — use one of those clock-controlled radios that will turn off the music for you about an hour or two after you retire (I'd recommend against hard rock music or sports events. Stick to soft music.)

Reading is a very effective way to go to sleep — so long as you choose something solid to read. Something that keeps you thinking. Makes you work. The Whodunits or other entertaining stories that keep you wondering what's going to happen in the next chapter are not good to go to sleep with. But when you are reading "heavy" stuff pretty soon the book drops out of your hands. That's your cue to turn off the light and go to sleep at once.

But above all don't take today's or tomorrow's problems to bed with you. You start trying to solve 'em, and you get yourself more and more waked up.

Note to Mrs. T.M.H.: Medically, the practice of automatically circumcising all boy babies is being done less, and only when needed. Essentially, the question of need is primarily determined by noting whether the foreskin can be retracted for cleaning. If it can, circumcision is not necessary. (This, of course, has no bearing on whether the circumcision is for religious rather than health reasons.)

Never take a chance on diabetes! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Herald for a copy of the booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Please enclose a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

SLOW PACE

Here's How They Died

By The Associated Press

Violent deaths in Texas over the last weekend of June occurred at a slower rate than usual as law enforcement officers prepare for the July 4th holiday next weekend.

The Associated Press began its regular tabulation of weekend violent deaths at 6 p.m. Friday and continued the grim count until midnight Sunday.

By midnight Sunday, the death toll stood at 22 dead with nine persons killed in traffic while four others drowned. Shootings claimed the lives of five persons.

IGNORED ORDER

Here is how some died over the weekend:

Peggy Scott, 39, a carnival worker from Milford, Tex., was thrown from a panel truck and crushed to death as it overturned south of Dallas on Interstate 35 early Sunday.

A car hit a parked truck from behind, police reported, and the crash killed Elizabeth Johnson, 61, of San Antonio on the Alamo city's east side early Sunday.

Patrolman A. R. Ortiz said Isidro Martinez, 15, was shot and killed on a San Antonio street Saturday night after he threatened two officers with a knife and a broken bottle. Ortiz said the youth threatened him and turned on patrolman Richard Cretini, who fired after young Martinez ignored an order to halt.

STABBED TO DEATH

An Austin woman, Sharon Thomas, 33, was stabbed to death Saturday night at her home.

Dims C. Quintana, 57, was found shot to death outside a Dallas bar late Saturday.

Donnie L. Crawford, 29, of Carthage was killed early Sunday when her car was in collision with two other cars near Longview on Texas 149.

George L. Willamen, 24, of San Antonio was killed on U.S. 181 near there in a one-car accident early Sunday.

A one-car accident near Shelbyville in East Texas early Sunday killed Billy R. Lister, 18, of Shelbyville.

A car struck and killed Bryan Mills, 4, on Fort Worth's south side Sunday evening.

An unidentified man drowned late Sunday in Lake Grapevine. The body was recovered on the east side of the lake.

FAMILY OUTING

Carla Sue Arana, 7, daughter of S. Sgt. and Mrs. Carl Arana of San Antonio, drowned during a family outing at Lake Dunlap, southeast of New Braunfels.

John Turner, 76, of Houston died Sunday of injuries suffered in a three-car accident there the day before. He was riding with a sister, Bessie B. Ray, 59, who was reported in critical condition as a result of the accident.

An argument at a Houston lounge ended with Edmund W. Cloutier, 31, of Houston dead from a pistol shot Saturday night, police said. Officers charged Carroll V. Comstock, 47, with murder.

Taxes Take Big Bite Out Of Food Marketing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxes took a 6.1-per cent bite out of the U.S. food marketing bill in 1967, compared with 5.3 per cent a decade earlier, says an Agriculture Department report.

The bill for marketing domestic food products to U.S. civilian consumers increased in the decade from $39.9 billion to $57.5 billion, according to a study by the department's Economic Research Service.

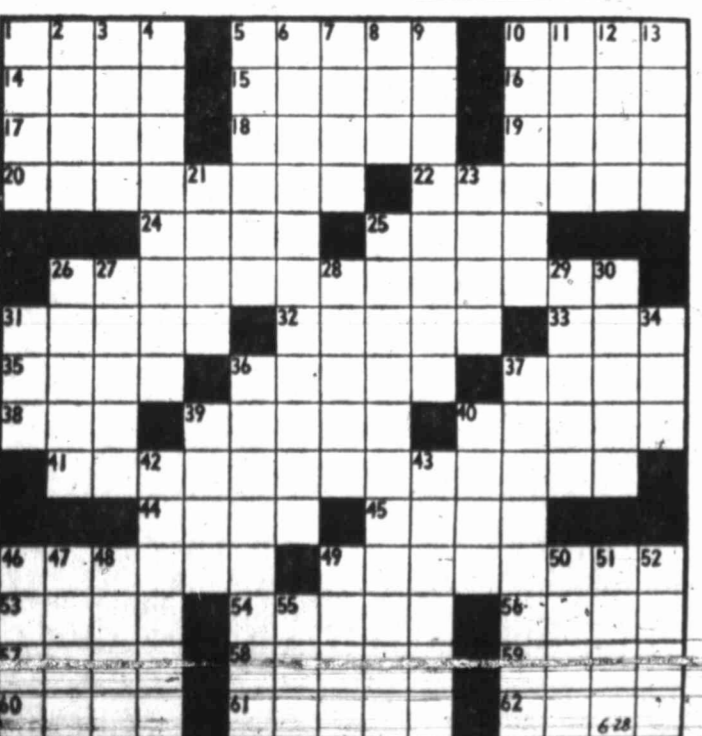

Income and business taxes paid by food marketers in the same time moved from $2.1 to $3.5 billion. Processors paid 48 per cent of the industry's tax bill in 1967; wholesalers, 9 per cent; retailers, 23 per cent; and eating and drinking places, 19 per cent.

The report shows that biggest tax payment increases for the period were by eating and drinking places, which in 1967 paid out 116 per cent more than in 1957. Food wholesalers paid 74 per cent more in total taxes, while processors and retailers each paid 56 per cent more.

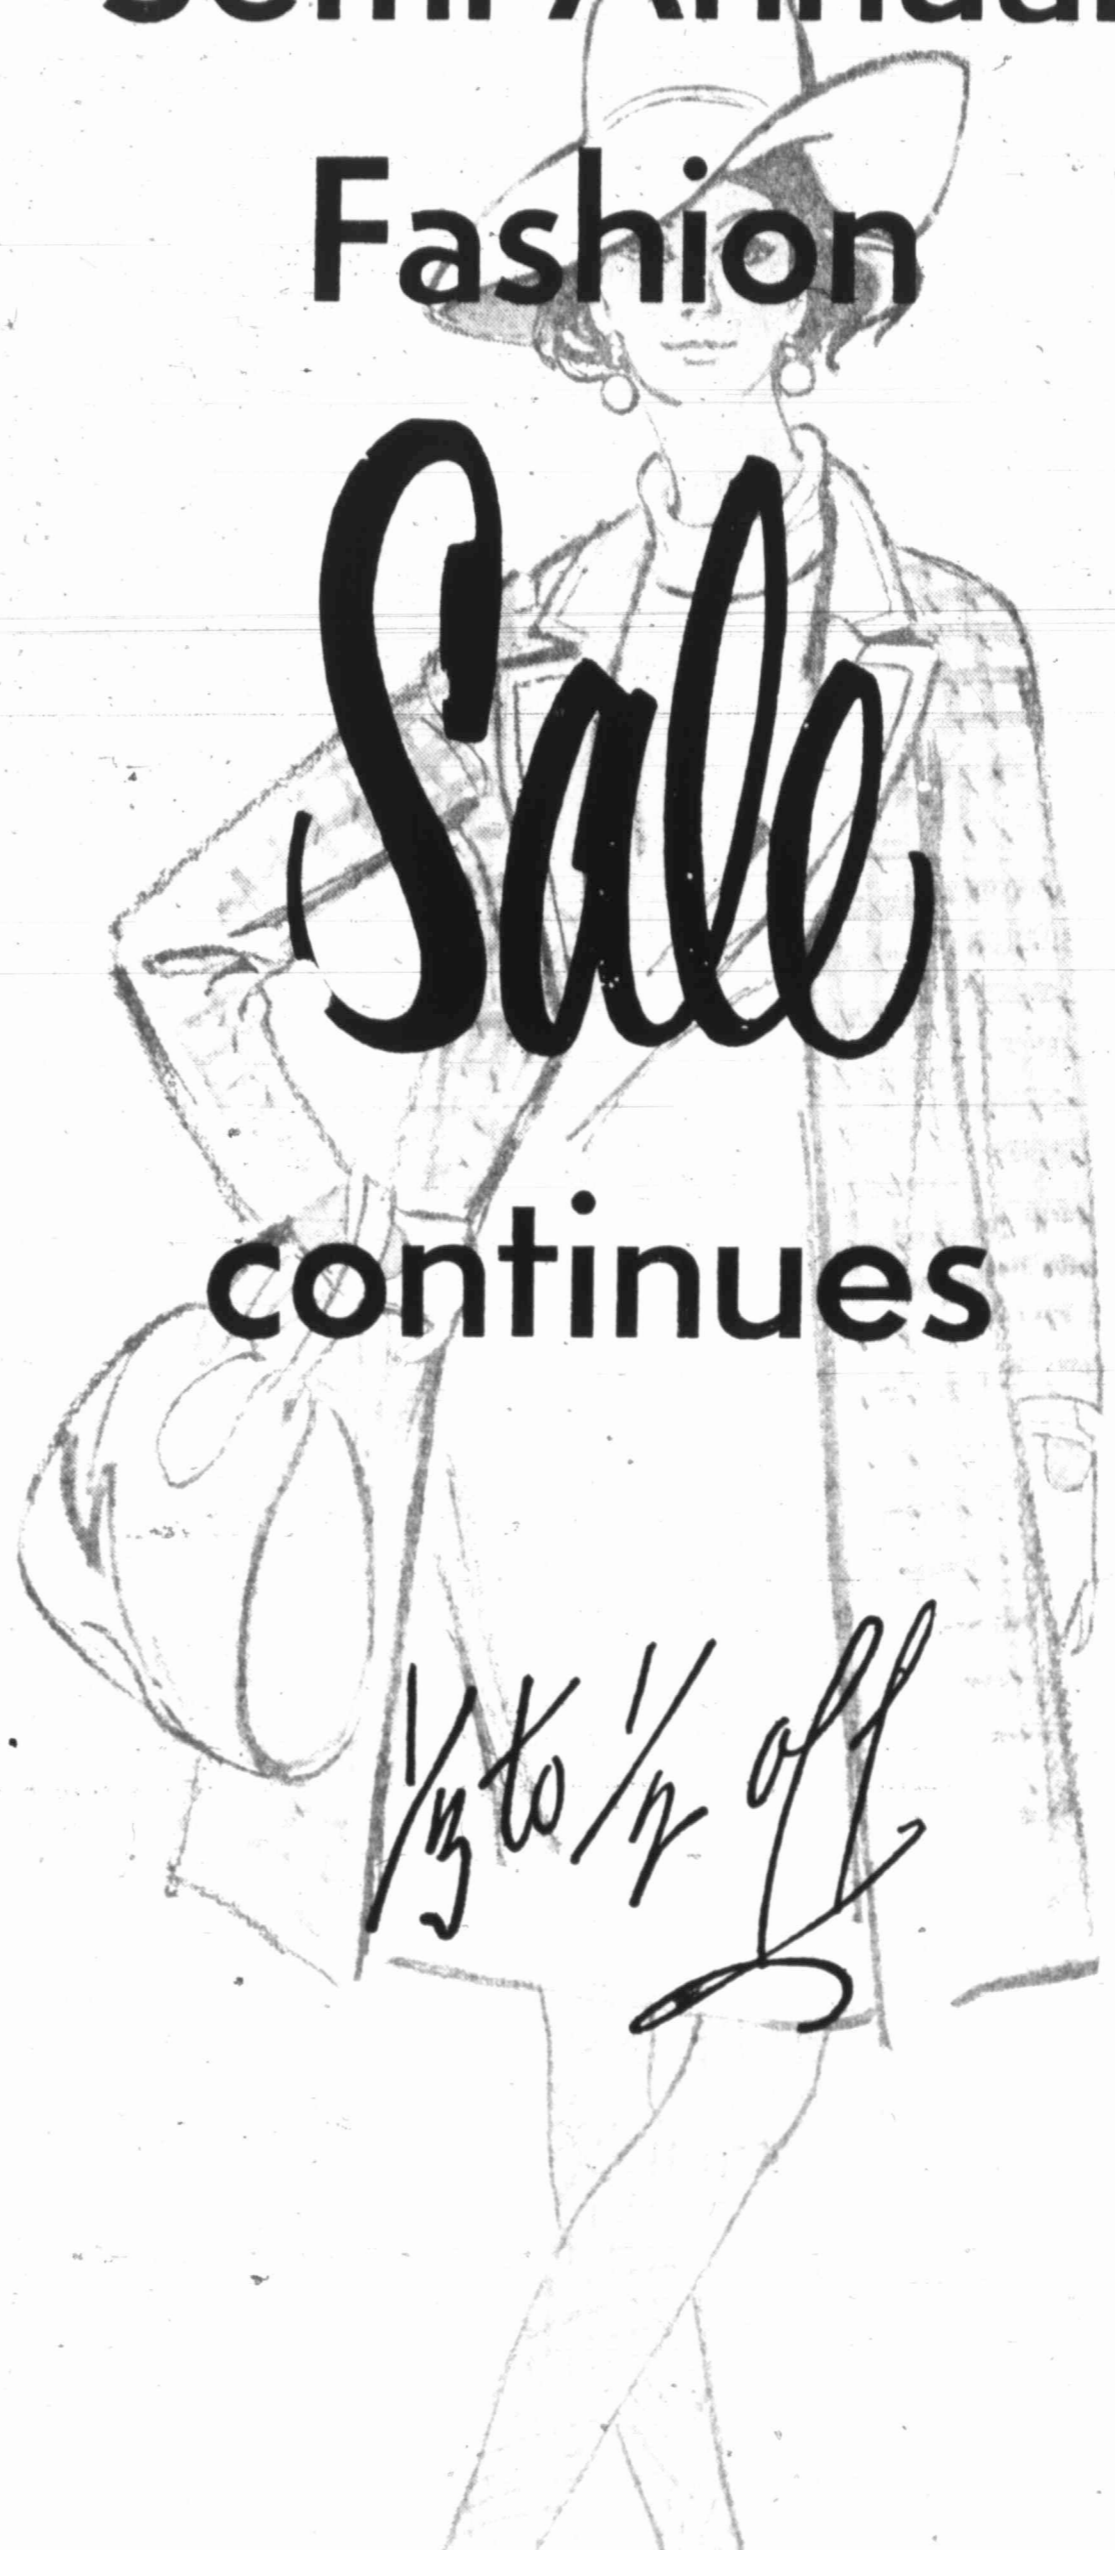

Highest income taxes per dollar of sales were paid by processors, lowest by wholesalers. The differences were largely the result of variations in the amounts, kinds and units of values of services provided, the report said. Variations in business taxes among the four groups reportedly depended largely on taxable property and Social Security taxes paid per dollar of sales.
