

GLIMMER OF HOPE FOR RAE BOURBON?

Ex-Actor Writes Book, Awaits Hearing On Appeal

BROWNWOOD (AP) — A 78-year-old former actor sits alone these days in a Brown County jail cell here.

But after a year and a half, Rae Bourbon sees a glimmer of hope. A hearing on an appeal of a 99-year sentence handed down in February, 1970, by a 35th District Court jury is due to be brought before the Criminal Appeals Court in Austin sometime in July.

The veteran entertainer was convicted as an accomplice to murder in connection with the death of A. D. Blount, a Big Spring pet shop operator, in December, 1968.

Testimony in the various court proceedings showed that Bourbon left about 70 dogs, five cats and two skunks for boarding with Blount. A dispute arose between the two over the boarding fees for the pets and subsequently Blount was killed by intruders.

An autobiography he is writing in his cell is recalling the years prior to his 1969 arrest in Kansas City.

He recalls that at the time everyone who knew him thought the arrest as a publicity stunt.

In his autobiography, Bourbon writes of his theatrical past and early life. He mentions his mother and what he claims is the Bourbon-Palmer family which ruled France and Spain at one time.

Bourbon says his mother died shortly after his birth and he has been told by a foster aunt that he was born in Chihuahua, Mexico. Others say that he was born in Sierra Blanca, Tex., or that locality.

The 78-year-old man is devoting much of his book to his early days in silent pictures, the theater, vaudeville and night clubs.

He mentions Rudolph Valentino, Wallace Reid, Hop-a-Long Cassidy, Gloria Swanson and Negri. "I worked with them all," Bourbon stated.

Bourbon recalls it was in the mid-1920s he decided the theater was really what he wanted—that it was actually his first love. He said he had been in vaudeville when he was spotted by Mae West when she thought "he would be perfect" for a part in "Diamond Lil." This, Bourbon said, was the original production.

The former entertainer says he appeared in most European countries as well as in cities all over the United States. He says he once gave a command performance for Francisco Franco, dictator of Spain.

He developed a female impersonator act and talks of appearing before the queen of England, the Duke of Windsor and President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"I have never known a dull moment in my life," he said in an interview. "Tragedy, disappointments, great sorrows, magnificent moments of accomplishments in the theater. I have known the greatest names in show business and the greatest names in royalty. But the greatest satisfaction I have ever known or will know is that all animals, wild or domesticated love me. For this I shall be eternally grateful," he said.

A brief escape from the Brown County jail in December, 1980, made headlines.

"The jailer had been very kind to me, letting me make some phone calls," Bourbon said. "I had gone back upstairs, then remembered a call I didn't make."

Bourbon said he went back down the steps and noticed the door to the jailer's apartment was open. "I just looked out to see if he was there and the door shut, so I could not get back in."

Bourbon continued, "Then it came to me perhaps if I went somewhere and sat down, when they started to look for me and found me, they would just shoot me and it would be all over."

But the former entertainer said things did not work out that way. After he was discovered by law enforcement officers just a short distance away from the jail in a pickup, he was merely escorted back to his cell.

Prosecute GI In England For War Raps

LAKENHEATH, England (AP) — A U.S. Air Force judge admitted today that a military regulation barring American servicemen from demonstrating in foreign countries "is a restriction on free speech and must be tested constitutionally."

But Col. Carl R. Abrams, North Miami Beach, Fla., said the regulation is "not an unreasonable intrusion" on the constitutional guarantee of free speech.

TRIAL DATE
Abrams, a military circuit judge based in West Germany, made his statement at the opening of the court-martial of Air Force Capt. Thomas Culver, the first American serviceman to be prosecuted in Britain for protesting the Vietnam war. The trial is expected to last five or six days.

Abrams rejected a defense motion calling for dismissal of the charges against Culver. Culver, a 32-year-old bachelor from Santa Barbara, Calif., was one of 168 U.S. servicemen who on May 31 delivered a petition to the American Embassy in London asking President Nixon to end U.S. military activity in Indochina.

Culver, a legal officer who served in Vietnam, was charged with violating Article 912 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice by taking part in a demonstration—against the rules for U.S. servicemen aboard—and soliciting others to take part.

NO MASS RALLY
The maximum sentence is a dishonorable discharge and two years imprisonment. Culver had been scheduled for regular discharge last month, but this was delayed.

Culver and his lawyer, Capt. Frank Wesson, contend that the embassy protest was not a demonstration. The protesters held no mass rally but instead assembled in Hyde Park and went to the embassy in small groups. Culver claims that this constituted a personal protest, with the men expressing their private views.

Two American agents, reportedly Air Force intelligence officers, photographed the protesters with telephoto lenses. The films were classified secret, flown to the U.S. Air Base in Wiesbaden, West Germany, to be developed, and the pictures were flown back to Britain.

CITES REGRETS
Culver's court-martial was ordered by the 3rd Air Force headquarters after an inquiry at Lakenheath last month. Witnesses told the inquiry Culver had been seen outside the base handing out leaflets about the protest.

Fourteen members of Parliament issued a statement calling the issue "highly disturbing," and asking the Air Force to let Culver discuss the case at the House of Commons. In a letter to the 3rd Air Force commander, Gen. John Bell, the legislators said Culver's war protest appeared to be "in exercise of rights guaranteed him... under the American Constitution."

REITERATES POSITION — Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, Viet Cong representative at the Paris peace talks, arrives for today's session. The Viet Cong reiterated its position that the sooner U.S. forces withdraw, the sooner war prisoners can return to their families.

Draft Still In Limbo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees say they'll try again Monday to reach a compromise over a bill to extend the draft another two years.

Despite failing Wednesday to break a deadlock over Sen. Mike Mansfield's amendment calling for total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina, leaders of both chambers expressed optimism.

"I am quite hopeful we can settle this next week," said Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate conferees. Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House group, agreed.

The old draft law expired on June 30. Many points of difference, except for the Mansfield proposal, have been settled between the House and Senate for a two-year renewal.

The nonbinding amendment by Mansfield, Senate Democratic leader, asks that the United States withdraw fully from Indochina within nine months, provided American prisoners are released.

Hoffa's New Parole Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Board of Parole says it has found "sufficient new and substantial information" to review on Aug. 20 former Teamster Union leader James R. Hoffa's parole request.

George J. Reed, chairman of the board, emphasized Wednesday the decision was only to speed a review originally scheduled in June, 1972.

Hoffa, turned down for parole in January, 1970, and again last March, moved in June for an earlier review after severing all ties with the union.

He has been in the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison since March, 1967, serving sentences totaling 13 years for jury tampering and mail fraud.

MARTIN DIES JR. NAMED JUSTICE

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith named Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr., today chief justice of the 9th Court of Civil Appeals at Beaumont, effective Sept. 1.

Dies will succeed the late Chief Justice James F. Parker Sr.

Dies, 49, former state senator from Lufkin for eight years, was appointed by Smith as secretary of state in January of 1969.

Dies did not seek re-election in 1966. Instead he made an unsuccessful race for Congress in 1966 losing to Rep. John Dowdy of Athens.

Dies attended public schools in Orange County and graduated from Stephen F. Austin in Nacogdoches and Southern Methodist University Law School at Dallas.

Red Proposal For Pullout Unacceptable

PARIS (AP) — The United States said today the Viet Cong proposal for a U.S. troop withdrawal by the end of the year in exchange for the release of war prisoners is unacceptable in its present form.

In their prepared speeches at the Paris peace talks, the Communist delegates made no direct reply to the U.S. stand. But the North Vietnamese said the plan offers an opportunity to the United States to get out of Vietnam with safety and honor.

FREE FROM GLARE

The Viet Cong reiterated its position that the sooner U.S. forces withdraw, the sooner the prisoners of war can return to their families.

Ambassador David K.E. Bruce commented that the Viet Cong plan presented last Thursday has "some new elements" that the United States and South Vietnam want to explore with the Communists.

Bruce suggested that the 121st session of the talks next Thursday be restricted—that is mainly secret—"free from the glare of publicity and without the need to make public statements except to the degree we mutually agree upon."

PEACE PACKAGE

Both Bruce and South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam said a week-long analysis of the peace package did not show changes in the basic Communist demands. But Bruce said that if the proposals mean Hanoi and the Viet Cong are ready for serious negotiations, this is welcome.

Bruce said the demands for withdrawal of all U.S. and other non-Vietnamese forces by the end of the year "are so sweeping and categorical in nature that we cannot possibly accept your arbitrary determination that they must be agreed to by us without any discussion or negotiation upon them."

Bruce said the Communist "offer to 'agree on the modalities' of safe withdrawal and release of prisoners after a date for withdrawal has been named is unclear and may be merely a variation of our previous statement that the parties 'will engage at once in discussion' on these questions, not necessarily committing you to the course of action implied, this point, as well as others you have presented, requires clarification.

TIMETABLE

"On the prisoners of war issue itself," Bruce continued, "we note that you do not deal with the release of those prisoners captured by your forces or forces under your control in Laos and Cambodia. We continue to hold you responsible for the release of these men and for the provision of whatever information you have on all of our men captured and missing in action throughout Indochina."

Lam countered the Viet Cong plan with a call for immediate and unconditional release of all prisoners of war, establishment of a general cease-fire "and a timetable for the withdrawal of all the external forces," meaning North Vietnamese in South Vietnam as well as the Americans and other foreign troops fighting on Saigon's side.

GOOD QUESTION

The South Vietnamese delegate told the Viet Cong's Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh her peace plan was "faulty because of its ambiguity on what you would be prepared to do." He posed a series of questions.

"Does the solution which you propose not aim at obtaining the total disengagement of the allied forces within a six-month period, while there is no mention of a parallel disengagement of North Vietnamese forces, either from South Vietnam, Laos or Cambodia?"

BALONEY, SHE SAYS

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A Canton woman who says she was hit with a ham sandwich during an argument over neighborhood children has filed a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Oleta Fortney, 39, told police she was hit Wednesday night with a sandwich held by Mike Dolan, 29.

Dolan's wife told newsmen the sandwich wasn't lettuce, but baloney with ham and mayonnaise. "I ought to know. I made the sandwich," she said.

Police Break 'Young' Car Theft Ring

DALLAS (AP) — There were seven boys in the car theft ring police said they broke up Wednesday, and none was old enough to drive.

One was just 8 years old. His confederates ranged up to 14. Officers said the 8-year-old told them an aunt taught him to operate a car and he had driven more than one stolen automobile.

Three patrolmen chased the youngest from one of the vehicles along with a 13-year-old confederate, catching them after a chase.

Investigators found the stolen car had been kept in a vacant garage and ran out of gas shortly after being taken into a street. It bumped into a parked car, taken by the same group, while rolling to a stop.

Information supplied by the first two boys led officers to five others. There were three brothers in the group.

Patrol investigator Verlon Bryant said the youngsters had stolen at least eight cars in a body repair shop, driving them until the vehicles ran out of gas. The seven boys were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Kick Off Pincer Drive Against Forces, Bases

SAIGON (AP) — Forty U.S. helicopters landed 1,500 South Vietnamese troops in the Parrot's Beak section of eastern Cambodia today for a new pincer drive against North Vietnamese forces and bases.

The troops were put down in a light rain six to nine miles inside Cambodia. They met no opposition initially.

The operation is centered about 65 miles northwest of Saigon. The force hopes to link up at Svay Rieng, on the Phnom Penh-Saigon highway, with a second force of 1,500 South Vietnamese troops moving south from Kompong Trach.

LT. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, commander of South Vietnamese forces in the 3rd Military

Region, told Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen that the operation has four objectives:

- To trap a North Vietnamese sapper battalion of about 400 highly trained troops.
- To disrupt enemy communications.
- To find supply caches.
- To slow North Vietnamese infiltration into the southern half of South Vietnam, which Minh said has accelerated since the start of the rainy season in May. He gave no figures.

The Parrot's Beak extends about five miles on either side of the Saigon-Phnom Penh highway. The flat, marshy terrain is an old staging area for North Vietnamese-Viet Cong operations in the southern half of South Vietnam.

It was one of the first regions invaded during the first major U.S.-South Vietnamese drive into Cambodia in the spring of 1970.

Minh said that to maintain the element of surprise, there was no softening-up of the area with air strikes far in advance of the arrival of his forces.

Jensen reported that South Vietnamese fighter-bombers made some strikes just before the infantrymen landed but drew no ground fire.

Minh said all logistic support for the operation would be provided by South Vietnamese helicopters.

Prisoner In Uniform Prevents Fair Trial

AUSTIN (AP) — It violates a defendant's rights to a fair trial to bring him before a jury in a jail uniform, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruled Wednesday.

The court ordered a new trial for Lyord Ephraim, who was convicted of robbery and sentenced to 15 years in prison by a Marshall jury.

Ephraim was brought into the courtroom wearing coveralls lettered on the back, "No. 46—Harrison County Jail."

This, the high court said, "infringed a fundamental right—the presumption of innocence."

In another Marshall case, the court ordered a retrial of a robbery by assault case because the defendant—Walter Love—was defended by a lawyer with a head injury who accepted only guilty plea cases.

Love was sentenced to 25 years in 1962.

Dist. Atty. Charles Allen later testified that Love's court-appointed lawyer did not maintain an office and had a practice consisting entirely of cases in which the defendants entered guilty pleas.

A court reporter testified the lawyer had been in an automobile accident that left him with "a caved-in place on one side of his forehead."

The high court said the attorney was incapable of adequately representing Love.

The court upheld the death penalty conviction of Arthur Lee Broussard, who was accused of shooting Peter Lum to death while robbing his Houston-area store May 24, 1969.

Broussard said the gun went off accidentally during an argument over whether Broussard had given Lum a $20 or a $10 bill.

Broussard's lawyer sought reversal of the conviction on the ground that the death penalty is a "cruel and unusual punishment," prohibited by the U. S. Constitution.

But the court said this "is contrary to the holding" in previous Texas cases, although the issue is now before the U. S. Supreme Court.

Also upheld was the 50-year prison sentence given Guadalupe Romero by a Cameron County jury for the knife slaying of Alfredo Gonzalez.

KE VETOED DULLES' PROPOSAL — Harold Stassen, an adviser in the Eisenhower administration, says then-Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and others backed military proposals in April, 1954, that included sending American combat forces into Indochina. Stassen said Eisenhower ruled against the proposals. Dulles and the late president are shown on April 8, 1954, at a White House ceremony.

Red Tide Outbreak In Florida

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The worst outbreak of red tide in Florida waters in almost a quarter-century has left miles of Gulf Coast beaches littered with dead fish and many tourist-related businesses in a deep slump.

Called "poison water" by anglers as they first noted it in 208 B.C., the red tide is a plant-like organism. It collects in patches and tints the water reddish-brown.

A toxin put off by the organism as it dies paralyzes fish which come in contact with it. It is not harmful to humans unless they eat fish or shellfish which have ingested the poison.

Murky waters of the latest outbreak stretch 100 miles, from St. Petersburg south to Fort Myers.

Resort motels report empty rooms and cancellations as tourists move inland to escape the stench of rotting fish.

St. Petersburg officials estimate the cost of disposing of dead fish at $10,000 a day. More than 500 tons were collected Wednesday.

St. Petersburg officials banned oyster and clam fishing Wednesday.

A red tide invaded Florida waters for three months beginning in November, 1947. At its peak, patches of the murky slime extended from Miami, on the Atlantic coast, around the tip of Florida and north up the Gulf coast to Tarpon Springs, some 350 miles.

Millions of pounds of game and sport fish were killed by the tide before a hurricane dispersed the buildup.

Ban Geologists

STANTON, Mo. (AP) — Geology students have been ruled out as guides at Meramec Caverns on US 66 here.

"They are too technical when they conduct tours," says cave director Lester B. Dill. "Tourists would prefer to hear about how Jessie James used the cave to elude the law. I'll hire geology students for other duties here but not as guides."

'FINAL BREAKTHROUGH' Senate Approves Agency To Lead Cancer Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to step up the fight against cancer by creating a new agency reporting directly to the president, but House passage is questionable.

The proposed Conquest of Cancer Agency, spending as much as $1 billion a year by 1976, would take over the work and personnel of the 34-year-old Cancer Institute of the National Institutes of Health.

Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., chairman of the health subcommittee which will conduct House hearings on the bill, says it might bring only a "cosmetic change" that could delay a cancer cure.

BOLD PROGRAM

Although some senators voiced misgivings about the bill, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., was the only one voting against it Wednesday. The tally was 79 to 1.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the bill's chief sponsor, said "cancer is the No. 1 health concern of the American People" and that a bold new program is needed to conquer it.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., another sponsor, added: "The country finds the rate of killing from this dread disease unacceptable because it believes a final drive will do the job."

"It feels we are so close to a

Probers Quiz State Demo Chairman About Dealings

AUSTIN (AP) — State Democratic Chairman Elmer Baum was scheduled for renewed interrogation today by U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission examiners who are probing an alleged stock fraud scheme.

Baum told the SEC last year that he made a $62,500 profit in 1969 from shares of National Bankers Life stock purchased 2½ months before with a loan from Sharpstown State Bank of Houston.

He said he bought the stock in partnership with Gov. Preston Smith, with whom he split the $125,000 profit.

NEW ROUND

The new round of deposition taking is in preparation for an Aug. 30 hearing before U. S. Dist. Judge Sarah Hughes on the SEC's civil suit which alleges illegal manipulation of NBL and other stock.

Smith and House Speaker Gus Mutscher, who said he took a long-term loss on NBL stock after making an initial profit, are scheduled for questioning Friday.

Judge Hughes ordered the SEC to take its new depositions behind closed doors, and newsmen were restricted Wednesday to the first floor lobby in the federal courthouse. The questioning was conducted on the third floor.

A reporter wishing to use a second floor pay telephone was escorted by a uniformed General Services Administration guard.

The SEC questioned Rep. W. S. Healy of Paducah, chairman of the House appropriations committee Wednesday.

QUICKIE PROFIT

Earlier Wednesday, the SEC examiners took a new deposition from Rush McGinty, a top aide of Mutscher, both of whom made short-term profits from NBL stock in 1969.

The SEC alleged in a stock manipulation suit filed Jan. 18 in Dallas that defendants in the case arranged quickie profits in NBL stock in 1969 for several legislators and state officials. The purpose of the arrangements, the SEC alleged, was to encourage the passage of two bills that would exempt several banks controlled by financier Frank Sharp from Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. regulation.

Healy, Mutscher, McGinty, Smith, Baum, Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and Speaker's aide F. C. "Sonny" Schulte said they profited from NBL stock purchased with money borrowed from the Sharp-controlled Sharpstown State bank.

DENIALS

But all denied any connection between the stock profits and the banking bills, which passed in a 1969 special session but were vetoed by Smith.

NBL is now in receivership and Sharpstown State Bank has collapsed.

Healy told SEC examiners last year that he bought 8,813 shares of NBL stock on Aug. 4, 1969, for $14.25 a share and sold 7,813 shares nearly two months later for $19.75 a share. His total profit was $49,971.

McGinty said he bought 4,115 shares of NBL at $11.12 on July 22, 1969, and sold 3,000 shares for $20 each on Sept. 11, for a total profit of $26,625.

He Says Political Decision 'Would Be Utterly Foolish'

HOUSTON (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge John V. Singleton, the target of attacks by Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., has told a civics class here, "It would be utterly foolish for a federal judge to make a political decision."

"Singleton made the remarks Tuesday while addressing a civics class which was overseeing a trial as part of a class assignment.

He told the group that recent federal court opinions should not be construed as political decisions.

"A federal judge does not run for office," he said. "He is appointed for life and can be removed only by impeachment."

"I am concerned that not only the judiciary but the whole system is under attack, particularly by young people," he said.

The judge then told the pupils to "get all the facts and question the system intelligently."

"You have every right to question the system, and if you don't like the system, you should change it through democratic process, not with guns, bricks or bombs," he said.

Singleton recently sentenced

Fined $5,000 For Embezzling About $130,000

DALLAS (AP) — Lee S. Stuffle-bem, 54, was placed on probation for five years and fined $5,000 Wednesday for embezzling $130,000 from the First National Bank in Grand Prairie.

Stufflebem, formerly president of the bank, pleaded guilty to making false entries in the books. U.S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes said the prison sentence was probated because of his poor health.

Research Grant Awarded For Boll Weevil Control

LUBBOCK — Grants totaling $120,000 have been awarded to the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station for research on improved methods for boll weevil control.

Dr. George G. McBee, resident director of research at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, said these funds are from a $100,000 grant by the USDA Cooperative State Research Service (CSRS) and a $20,000 grant by the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., of Lubbock. He said $15,000 from CSRS will go to the Department of Entomology at Texas A&M for complementary research in other areas of the state, and the rest of the grant will be used for research at the Lubbock Center.

"The Lubbock research is especially designed to meet the problems of this area and will be centered on testing control methods applicable to the High Plains reproductive-diapause boll weevil control program," said Dr. McBee. "In 1963 and 1964, the boll weevil invaded the eastern edge of the High Plains and caused extensive damage to cotton."

In the fall of 1964 and in subsequent years through 1970, insecticide was applied by aircraft to control boll weevils in cotton fields in an 8-10-12-county area of the High and Rolling Plains. These applications reduced the size of the weevil population spending the winter in hibernation or "diapause," said Dr. Perry L. Adkisson. This way the development of damaging populations during the summer was delayed until late into the growing season. This is one reason producers try for early control.

The boll weevil occupies only a relatively small percentage of the cotton acreage in the High Plains control zone in the spring following an effective fall reproductive-diapause control program, he pointed out. However, the insect reproduces rapidly during the summer, producing a sizable larger population by mid to late August. Then, the insects begin a mass migration to infest nearly all the cotton acreage in the control zone during September. Thus, strategy is to direct selective control measures at the "patchy" population in the spring and to further reduce the size of the early-summer population."

The new round of deposition taking is in preparation for an Aug. 30 hearing before U. S. Dist. Judge Sarah Hughes on the SEC's civil suit which alleges illegal manipulation of NBL and other stock.

Smith and House Speaker Gus Mutscher, who said he took a long-term loss on NBL stock after making an initial profit, are scheduled for questioning Friday.

Judge Hughes ordered the SEC to take its new depositions behind closed doors, and newsmen were restricted Wednesday to the first floor lobby in the federal courthouse. The questioning was conducted on the third floor.

A reporter wishing to use a second floor pay telephone was escorted by a uniformed General Services Administration guard.

The SEC questioned Rep. W. S. Healy of Paducah, chairman of the House appropriations committee Wednesday.

QUICKIE PROFIT

Earlier Wednesday, the SEC examiners took a new deposition from Rush McGinty, a top aide of Mutscher, both of whom made short-term profits from NBL stock in 1969.

The SEC alleged in a stock manipulation suit filed Jan. 18 in Dallas that defendants in the case arranged quickie profits in NBL stock in 1969 for several legislators and state officials. The purpose of the arrangements, the SEC alleged, was to encourage the passage of two bills that would exempt several banks controlled by financier Frank Sharp from Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. regulation.

Healy, Mutscher, McGinty, Smith, Baum, Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and Speaker's aide F. C. "Sonny" Schulte said they profited from NBL stock purchased with money borrowed from the Sharp-controlled Sharpstown State bank.

DENIALS

But all denied any connection between the stock profits and the banking bills, which passed in a 1969 special session but were vetoed by Smith.

NBL is now in receivership and Sharpstown State Bank has collapsed.

Healy told SEC examiners last year that he bought 8,813 shares of NBL stock on Aug. 4, 1969, for $14.25 a share and sold 7,813 shares nearly two months later for $19.75 a share. His total profit was $49,971.

McGinty said he bought 4,115 shares of NBL at $11.12 on July 22, 1969, and sold 3,000 shares for $20 each on Sept. 11, for a total profit of $26,625.

He Says Political Decision 'Would Be Utterly Foolish'

HOUSTON (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge John V. Singleton, the target of attacks by Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., has told a civics class here, "It would be utterly foolish for a federal judge to make a political decision."

"Singleton made the remarks Tuesday while addressing a civics class which was overseeing a trial as part of a class assignment.

He told the group that recent federal court opinions should not be construed as political decisions.

"A federal judge does not run for office," he said. "He is appointed for life and can be removed only by impeachment."

"I am concerned that not only the judiciary but the whole system is under attack, particularly by young people," he said.

The judge then told the pupils to "get all the facts and question the system intelligently."

"You have every right to question the system, and if you don't like the system, you should change it through democratic process, not with guns, bricks or bombs," he said.

Fined $5,000 For Embezzling About $130,000

DALLAS (AP) — Lee S. Stuffle-bem, 54, was placed on probation for five years and fined $5,000 Wednesday for embezzling $130,000 from the First National Bank in Grand Prairie.

Stufflebem, formerly president of the bank, pleaded guilty to making false entries in the books. U.S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes said the prison sentence was probated because of his poor health.

Research Grant Awarded For Boll Weevil Control

LUBBOCK — Grants totaling $120,000 have been awarded to the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station for research on improved methods for boll weevil control.

Dr. George G. McBee, resident director of research at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, said these funds are from a $100,000 grant by the USDA Cooperative State Research Service (CSRS) and a $20,000 grant by the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., of Lubbock. He said $15,000 from CSRS will go to the Department of Entomology at Texas A&M for complementary research in other areas of the state, and the rest of the grant will be used for research at the Lubbock Center.

"The Lubbock research is especially designed to meet the problems of this area and will be centered on testing control methods applicable to the High Plains reproductive-diapause boll weevil control program," said Dr. McBee. "In 1963 and 1964, the boll weevil invaded the eastern edge of the High Plains and caused extensive damage to cotton."

In the fall of 1964 and in subsequent years through 1970, insecticide was applied by aircraft to control boll weevils in cotton fields in an 8-10-12-county area of the High and Rolling Plains. These applications reduced the size of the weevil population spending the winter in hibernation or "diapause," said Dr. Perry L. Adkisson. This way the development of damaging populations during the summer was delayed until late into the growing season. This is one reason producers try for early control.

'Dope' Amnesty For Ex-GIs Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell says the United States is trying to weed out Southeast Asian officials who are involved in illicit narcotics traffic reaching American servicemen.

Mitchell, testifying Wednesday to a Senate government operations subcommittee, declined to name any of the Asian leaders under suspicion. But he said he would do so in closed session if he could get State Department clearance.

NARCOTICS TRADER

Meanwhile, across the Capitol, Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn., told a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee that South Vietnamese Gen. Ngo Dzu, a staunch supporter of President Nguyen Van Thieu, is a "chief trafficker" in narcotics trade.

Dzu's involvement, Steele said, was mentioned in "hard intelligence" provided U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker Steele and Rep. Morgan Murphy, D-Ill., who recently toured Southeast Asia, have estimated 10 to 15 per cent of American troops in South Vietnam were addicted to heroin.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, had asked Mitchell in the Senate hearing whether high civilian and military officials of Laos, Thailand, Burma and South Vietnam are involved in illegal drug traffic.

"The fact of the matter is there has been involvement of government officials in some of these countries," Mitchell said. "We feel we have identified some of them and steps are being taken in some of these countries to eliminate their participation."

CASE-BY-CASE

At the same hearing, Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard disclosed a broad amnesty program for veterans discharged as undesirable for using drugs.

Packard released the text of a memo he issued Wednesday telling commanders known drug users in the military must not be disciplined or discharged less than honorably if they are not implicated in other offenses.

The decision to grant "retroactive amnesty" on a case-by-case basis coincides with a Pentagon request that Congress allow discharged drug users to use drug-rehabilitation facilities in Veterans Administration hospitals, though their discharge may have been less than honorable.

The Army, Navy and Air Force discharged 9,387 persons for drug abuse in 1967 and 1970 alone. Pentagon sources said 4,152 of those discharges were issued under circumstances it described as "less than honorable."

Only an honorable discharge entitles a former serviceman to full veterans' rights, including access to VA hospitals.

Nixon's 'Pep Talks' Ripped By Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate-House Economics Committee has opened a midyear review of the nation's financial posture with a blast from Democrats at Nixon administration "doubletalk" and "pep talks" to boost the economy.

The committee planned to hear the administration side today, from Paul McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors.

Wednesday's criticism, from Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., prompted committee member Rep. Ben Blackburn of Georgia to say:

COMMON GOOD

"As a Republican I am pleased to have been invited to the Democratic party's kickoff of the 1972 presidential campaign."

But Mansfield told the committee he had no political motives. The blame for current economic problems lies equally with the White House and Congress, he said.

In a later exchange with Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, Mansfield, his voice rising, said all he wanted was that "once in a while we get together and do something for the common good."

Mansfield and Albert cited a long list of gloomy statistics, from a $23-billion federal deficit to a 5.6-per-cent unemployment rate for June.

INFLATION

Mansfield said the administration has played up the fact the jobless rate had dropped below 6 per cent, but this, he said, was "doubletalk."

Because of an influx of college students into the job market, the number of people seeking work actually rose 1.1 million over the previous month, he said.

"Then there is the question of inflation," said Mansfield. "For too long inflation has continued at an unbreakable level. For too long the rosy and optimistic predictions have been converted into gloomy and pessimistic facts."

Albert said the administration's economic policy was based on two things: "One, ignore the facts and, two, attempt to pump up the economy with pep talks."

"Benign neglect is the wrong policy at this time and Pollyannish predictions of future improvement are obviously not buoying up the economy," Albert said.

If the President still doesn't want to impose across-the-board wage-price controls, Albert said, "He should at least establish a wage-price review board as recommended by his own chief advisers as a minimal first step."

Schools Must Stay Close To Guidelines

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge Woodrow Seals ruled Tuesday that Corpus Christi schools must closely follow school desegregation guidelines proposed by the government.

School officials served immediate notice of appeal.

Seals ruling closely followed recommendations made by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare except that attendance zones for kindergarten, and special education pupils remain unchanged.

The court's judgment designed to achieve a unitary school system. The plan adopts the HEW pairing for elementary schools, but apparently makes some changes at the senior high level, which had been left virtually untouched by the HEW plan.

At the junior-high level Seals ordered the assignment of pupils living in certain elementary school zones to attend specific junior highs.

As for high school attendance, he listed specific density zones throughout the city from which pupils will attend each of the city's five senior high schools. Certain density zones were ordered split along street lines and assigned to various high schools.

The judge's plan was contained in a 29-page document. Attached were 17 additional pages of footnotes and suggestions of a tri-ethnic human relations committee.

Among the 10 specific proposals Seals made were:

—That the school system make periodic reports to him, listing the number of teachers and pupils by ethnic background in each school.

—That it furnish a breakdown of teachers' assignments and the ethnic makeup of each class.

—That it furnish a breakdown show that anglos and Mexican-Americans are carried in the same school vehicles.

Anglos and Mexican-Americans are almost evenly balanced in Corpus Christi schools, while about 11 per cent of the pupils are black.

Conventions Sought Here

More than 100 letters were mailed today to presidents of clubs and organizations in Big Spring concerning the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce's interest in attracting area, regional and state meetings and conventions.

The letter was signed by Frank Parker, chairman of the Chamber's Conventions Task Force. Also enclosed was a sample of the chamber's new conventions and meetings brochure, outlining the advantages of holding area gatherings in Big Spring and explaining what the chamber will do to assist with the meetings.

"Anyone," Parker said, "who is a member of any professional, civic or cultural organization is often in a position to offer Big Spring as a meeting site for groups up to 100 or 150. This is a tremendous public relations and economic boon to our city and the chamber stands ready to make certain that the meeting is a success and not a great deal of trouble to the members of the local organizations."

Troops Searching Arab Villages For 'Killers'

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab guerrillas and Israeli forces clashed on two fronts today while police and troops searched Arab villages for terrorists who fired rockets into a town nine miles west of Tel Aviv, killing two persons and wounding 20 others.

A military spokesman said guerrillas fired bazookas from Syria at an Israeli force in the occupied Golan Heights. An Arab was killed and an Israeli soldier was wounded in the ensuing battle, he said.

Another Israeli patrol came under bazooka and light-arms fire near Zarit, on the Lebanese border. The spokesman said the Israelis replied with artillery fire but no casualties were reported.

shouting for revenge. Dayan told newsmen the 130mm rockets had an average range of 14 miles and could have been fired from any of hundreds of uninhabited areas.

"The terrorists most probably came from Jordan," he said, "and probably had support from Arabs on the West Bank." The Jordanian territory west of the Jordan River which Israel seized in the 1967 war starts five miles west of Petah Tikvah.

NO GUARANTEE

"As long as the state of war continues and terrorist activities persist," Dayan said, "it will be difficult to insure that things of this kind don't happen."

In case more rockets were fired fire-fighting units and ambulances sped to the scene. The rockets fell in an area 200 yards square. The worst damage was at the hospital, where one of the shells hit a three-bed ward. A woman lost a leg in that explosion. One rocket did not explode, and army experts defused it.

It was the heaviest attack on a civilian target inside Israel since the Arab guerrilla bombing of Tel Aviv's bus station last November.

San Angelo Official Here To Examine Computer

A San Angelo city official, Johnny Williams, and members of his staff were in Big Spring Wednesday to examine the city's computer operations.

The city of San Angelo and the school district share a computer system much like the one Big Spring is using and the San Angelo water department is considering putting their operations and records on computer, according to Charles Smith, city secretary.

"They wanted our department to share with them some of the experiences the department has undergone with the computer program, because they are going to initiate the same type program," said Smith.

The group spent the major portion of the afternoon examining the computer in its functions and were able to witness a water zone billing totally processed.

The city will mail further information to the San Angelo department to help them get their program established, Smith commented.

"They were very complimentary of our system and we will help them in every way," said Smith, as he explained that Big Spring got the same help from Odessa when the city's computer program was first initiated.

ROCKET GIRL

The rocket attack Wednesday night on Petah Tikvah, a community of 80,000, killed a 5-year-old girl and a woman. One rocket made a direct hit on a hospital for the chronically ill and three others ripped into a school and two houses.

All Arab villages within 50 miles of the city were put under curfew, and a number of suspects were picked up.

Reliable sources reported that the rocket launcher apparently used in the attack had been found and gave the location, but the military censor deleted the information from dispatches.

"The terrorists have found themselves incapable of attacking military targets and they don't seem to care where their shells fall," said Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, who visited the scene.

Boy Returned To His Parents

A juvenile arrested by the county sheriff's department in connection with the theft last week of a bus from Trinity Baptist Church was released to his father Wednesday afternoon after making restitution for the theft. The 16-year-old boy had run away from his Austin home.

The stolen bus was recovered in a remote portion of the county and returned to the church.

COOL KITTY — The 100-degree temperature in Texas the past few days has been enough to drive a tiger to the tank; swimming tank, that is. Sugar, a 400-pound Bengal tiger at the World of Animals, has decided to cool off in one of the lagoons at the drive-through park. He has some nice swimming partners in sisters Sharon, left, and Rhonda Sullivan of Mesquite.

FROM SUITS OVER INJURIES Court Voids Immunity Of Charitable Institutions

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that charitable institutions such as churches may be sued for injuries caused by the negligence of their employees.

The court abolished the old common law doctrine of charitable immunity in an 8-1 decision.

The high court sent back to the trial court a case in which Johnny Howie was blinded in one eye four years ago at Camp Amon Carter, which is operated by the Young Men's Christian Association of Fort Worth.

Howie's eye was struck by a sinker or hook on a fishing line cast by another boy.

The lower court dismissed the injured boy's suit on the ground that the YMCA was a charitable institution.

The Supreme Court said the case must be tried to determine if improper supervision by YMCA employees led to the accident.

The high court had hinted in a 1966 case that it might overturn the doctrine in a later case.

The 1966 case involved a woman who was injured when she slipped on a slick floor in a Baptist church. Five of the nine justices raised questions about the doctrine in that case. Two of those said it should have been overturned then.

Associate Justice Jack Pope dissented from Wednesday's ruling. He said abolishing the doctrine should be left up to the legislature.

In other cases, the Supreme Court:

- Enjoined Fort Worth and Waco prosecutors from filing further "harassing" suits against Sundaco, Inc., and other stores that sell and buy back their entire merchandise each weekend to circumvent the Texas "blue law" that forbids the sale of certain items on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays. The court has not yet passed on the constitutionality of this circumvention device.
- Ordered Austin Dist. Judge Charles Betts not to issue any more orders in favor of Braniff International and Texas International to stop their new competitor, Southwest Airlines, from operating round-trip flights from Dallas-Fort Worth to Houston and San Antonio.
- Agreed to consider at a July 21 hearing whether oil production taxes are "income taxes." Under protest, Humble Oil & Refining Co. paid $92,788 in state taxes on oil taken from a lease on federal land on the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station. The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals ruled that a 1940 federal law permits this.

'Kangaroo Court' Charges Ignored

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The city's Fire and Police Commission says it will continue to probe alleged police brutality cases, despite a Mexican-American group's claim that it is a "kangaroo court."

The Mexican-American Legal Defense Fund recently submitted six alleged brutality cases to the city council, which referred them to the commission.

Defense fund lawyer Ed Idar maintained to city council it self should investigate them.

He refused the commission's request to present witnesses at a meeting earlier this week dealing with one of the six cases.

Idar said his group "cannot submit its clients to the type of kangaroo court that this commission is bent on conducting."

He claimed the commission's proceedings "have been aimed purely and solely at tearing down the complaints."

Commission Chairman Frank Manupelli denied the claims. "The city council has asked us to investigate the charges and we will continue the investigations," Manupelli added.

The commission said it will ask policemen involved in the case to attend next Tuesday's meeting.

The Howard County 4-H'ers first met June 28 for the county horse show, in which Roane's mare Dutchess Flit was grand champion. The winners went to Tulia to compete in the district show.

The competition in Tulia included the halter classes, showmanship, Western Pleasure, reining, pole bending and barrel racing.

Father Wins College Aid Tiff With Hip

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state's highest court has ruled against a New York City coed who sought to force her father to resume financial aid he had withdrawn because of objections to her hippie lifestyle.

The father was identified only as a New York City attorney, the girl only as a former student at the University of Louisville.

The Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday that a father may legally cut off support to a child attending college if his reasonable wishes are disregarded.

Court documents said the father sent the girl to the University of Louisville with instructions to live in the student dormitory, hoping to protect her from hippie influence. After a few months she moved into an off-campus apartment.

Three persons had registered this morning to come before the boards today in the second day's session. Forty-six persons registered Wednesday to air complaints about taxes. Most of those coming before the board were residential owners with questions concerning land valuations.

Grand Jurors Half Through?

Howard County Grand Jurors have completed deliberations on approximately half of the 18 cases scheduled for presentation. Jurors are Willie Johnson, James E. Coates, Mrs. George McAlister Jr., Roy Lee, Bobby S. Wash, Lowell N. Jones, Mrs. Johnnie Morrison, R. Curtis Mullins, Floyd Green, Francisco T. Moncado and Mrs. Willard Hendricks.

Friday will be the final day of sessions for the county, city and school boards of equalization. The boards are meeting from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in County Judge A. G. Mitchell's office and the county juror's conference room on the second floor of the courthouse.

A riddle? 'HARVEST EAGLE' Not if you listen to Capt. Richard Mueller who commands the Air Force's "Harvest Eagle" project in a complex of warehouses attached to the U.S. Army's Camp Darby near Pisa.

"They have sometimes referred to Harvest Eagle as an instant Air Force base," says the 27-year-old officer from Chickasha, Okla.

According to the captain, a Harvest Eagle base — stored in 350 prepacked crates along with 90 other unpacked units — can be set up wherever there is an adequate air strip and access to water. It costs $1.7 million.

The ready-to-go base contains tents, cots, blankets, heaters, generators, complete cooking, cleaning and eating facilities, tools to repair aircraft and vehicles, washing and drying machines and office supplies.

ORGAN MUSIC It packs plumbing equipment, electrical kits, garden hoses, drafting equipment, portable toilets, medical supplies, enough material to publish a mimeographed newspaper, a darkroom and a variety of cameras. Also included are 50,000 board feet of lumber so, as Mueller puts it, "the civil engineers can build whatever they need." Harvest Eagle, naturally, also gives them the hammers, nails, screws, saws and other carpentry tools.

The flyable base comes with full chaplain's equipment: portable altar, vestments, Bibles, hymnals and even cartridges of tape recorded organ music and a tape-recorder.

In case the chaplain wants a different color altar, he can order it out of Harvest Eagle's full-line paint supplies.

Harvest Eagle lacks clothing, food, ammunition and fuel stores. Those come from other Air Force depots after the portable base has been set up.

Mueller's 31 men keep Camp Darby's three Harvest Eagle bases clean and ready to roll onto airplanes at eight hours notice.

WAR DRILLS The project came to this area in mid-central Italy in March, 1970, from its former home at Wheelus Air Base, Libya, which was taken over by the Libyans.

From Wheelus Harvest Eagle bases were flown to sites in Turkey, Greece and Italy for use in war readiness drills.

Other portable bases are kept in Zaragoza, Spain, in at least one depot in the United States and one depot in the Pacific.

On the Air Force horizon, says Mueller, is something even better, already dubbed "the bare base concept." This base, also fully portable, will consist of prefabricated collapsible plastic "buildings." Each will contain all the equipment that goes inside.

Appeal Retained NEW YORK (AP) — When Calvert Vaux planned the terrace and Bethesda fountain in Central Park in 1858, its elaborate architecture and piazzas were designed to set off one of the park's most appealing vistas. A new tent-topped outdoor Fountain Cafe was achieved without disturbing the site's historic features.

'Instant Air Base, Just Add Airplanes'

By PATRICK O'KEEFE Associated Press Writer

PISA, Italy (AP) — It may sound difficult, but the U.S. Air Force can move an air base around in airplanes. If necessary they can even fly three air bases around — and, of course, put them down where needed — simply by sending enough cargo planes to the Pisa airport to pick the bases up.

According to the captain, a Harvest Eagle base — stored in 350 prepacked crates along with 90 other unpacked units — can be set up wherever there is an adequate air strip and access to water. It costs $1.7 million.

ATHENS (AP) — Are you interested in buying real estate in Greece? Now, Greeks and foreigners alike who have savings in foreign exchange are eligible for loans to acquire real estate under a new ruling recently adopted by the Greek government.

The scheme is an attempt by the government to attract sorely needed foreign exchange, to offset a chronic imbalance of trade.

The government sees the Greek workers in Western Europe as an important source for foreign exchange. The program is primarily aimed at them with hopes they will send back their foreign exchange savings to buy either real estate, apartments or build homes on their land back in their native villages.

According to the Bank of Greece, Greek workers and emigrants sent back $342.9 million in 1970. Unofficial estimates disclose that 320,000 Greek workers in West Germany have deposited savings totaling about half a billion dollars in German banks. There were no reliable estimates available on savings held in banks by another 80,000 Greek workers in other Western European countries and by Greek emigrants in the United States, Canada and Australia.

The plan appears to be attractive even for foreigners who are expected to take advantage of it to buy small coastal plots of land on one of Greece's 1,250 inhabitable Aegean islands.

Disosway Leads Golfing Delegation To ATC Meet

John Disosway fired a 147 to lead five Webb golfers who qualified for the Air Training Command Tournament set for Lackland AFB, Tex., July 11-17. Disosway put together rounds of 75 and 72 over the Webb course to earn medalist honors for the local contingent.

Others who finished in the top five and earned a trip to Lackland were Jon Huinker with a 150; Clarence Randall with a 151; Tom Cooke with a 152 and Frank Peralta shot 153. The qualifications were held recently over a two day period with about 20 local golfers competing for the right to represent Webb in the command-wide tournament.

Earning slots in the senior division of the tournament were John Krocicka and Claude Grey. Krocicka fired rounds of 85 and 83 and Grey came home with scores of 94 and 86.

In case one of the top five Webb golfers could not compete in the tournament—for some reason, Lee Davis has been named the first alternate and

Blue, Marichal Head All-Stars

BOSTON (AP) — Vida Blue, the Oakland Athletics' brilliant young southpaw, heads a nine-man pitching staff named by Baltimore manager Earl Weaver today to the American League All-Star team.

Weaver picked two of his aces, Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer, and one pitcher each from seven other clubs for the 42nd All-Star Game with the National League next Tuesday in Detroit.

Leading the American League for the second consecutive year as manager of the champion Orioles, Weaver again ignored relief specialists, naming nine regular starters.

His failure to pick a couple of top relievers was blamed by many observers last year for the American League's eighth loss in a row, 5-4 in 12 innings. Chosen with Blue, Cuellar and Palmer were Mickey Lolich of the Detroit Tigers, Sam McDowell of the Cleveland Indians, Sonny Siebert of the Boston Red Sox, Jim Perry of the Minnesota Twins, Andy Messersmith of the California Angels and Marty Pattin of the Milwaukee Brewers.

McDowell, however, has been sidelined with arm difficulties, and there were indications that Cleveland Manager Alvin Dark would ask Weaver to replace him.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pitching comebacks by Juan Marichal of San Francisco and Steve Carlton of St. Louis have landed them on the National League squad for baseball's 1971 All-Star Game.

Marichal, 10-5 with the Giants and Carlton, 11-5 for the Cardinals, were among the eight pitchers named Wednesday by Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, who will direct the National League against the American League All-Stars next Tuesday in Detroit.

LITTLE LEAGUE PLAYOFFS American Teams Vie; Cards Test Tigers

The Cabots of the American League, who had edged the Orioles of the Texas League, 2-1, in the opening round of the Little League City playoffs Tuesday, moved into the semifinals Wednesday night by shelling the first place Starfighters of the International League, 10-5.

The contest took place on the International diamond. Don Hanson, the winning pitcher, limited the Starfighters to three hits.

Cabot managed seven safeties off Ruben Cherry and Bill Arencibia collected three of those.

T. Trawick, Danny Robison, Lynn Dixon and Hanson each had one hit for the winners.

In the Tuesday game against the Orioles, the Cabots managed only three hits but used them to good advantage. Dixon was the winning pitcher in that one. He surrendered only two blows. Dixon also crashed a home run to help the cause. He fanned 15 of the Orioles. C. Burks had the only two hits for the Os.

Tommy Churchwell pitched a stylish one-hitter in leading the American League's Hawks to a 13-1 win over the Texas League's Indians Wednesday evening in the American League park.

The Hawks square off tonight with another American League team, the Cabots, in the American park for the right to play in Friday's finals.

A bingle by catcher Albert Barrera kept Churchwell from his no-hitter.

The steaming Hawks plated six runs in the first inning and added five in the third.

Steve Evans, Jody Newnam and Churchwell each smashed two safeties for the Hawks. Churchwell also dented the plate four times.

The National League Cardinals remained undefeated by bouncing the American League Colts, 7-2 in the Little League City playoffs in the National Park Wednesday night.

The Red Birds face a toughie tonight. They must venture to the Texas League stadium to clash with that league's champions, the Tigers. The Bengals humbled the National's Wildcats Wednesday.

Dick Battle hurled a four-hit game for the Cards, fanning nine. Wade Cobb smashed his tenth home run of the year for the National League champions. The Birds managed six hits and Battle got two of those. Mike Warren, Tony Mann and Phil Woods also had hits for the winners while Craig Bailey paced the Colts with a brace of safeties.

Flood Seeking To End Clause

WASHINGTON (AP) — Curt Flood, the controversial outfielder who sued baseball for $3.1 million, has asked the Supreme Court to invalidate the sport's reserve clause.

In a brief filed by his attorneys, Flood said organized baseball has violated the antitrust laws with its reserve system, which binds a player to one club for life unless he is traded or sold.

"It needs no argument to demonstrate that organized baseball is now interstate commerce," said Flood's lawyers in argument against baseball's exemption from antitrust laws. They said the Supreme Court had ruled against other professional sports in that area.

"No reason exists why baseball should be treated differently," they said.

Flood was represented by Arthur J. Goldberg, former Supreme Court Justice and Ambassador to the United Nations, and Jay H. Topkis of New York City.

The 33-year-old Flood, now believed to be living in Spain, played baseball for 12 years with the St. Louis Cardinals and was considered one of the best outfielders in the business.

The other National League pitchers will be Tom Seaver of New York, Larry Dierker of Houston, Ferguson Jenkins of Chicago, Dock Ellis of Pittsburgh, Rick Wise of Philadelphia and Clay Carroll of Cincinnati.

Wade Cobb smashed his tenth home run of the year for the National League champions. The Birds managed six hits and Battle got two of those. Mike Warren, Tony Mann and Phil Woods also had hits for the winners while Craig Bailey paced the Colts with a brace of safeties.

FAMILY ENJOYS LOG CABIN LIFE

'Now We're Lower-Class'

TENSED, Idaho (AP) — A year ago Bob Weismann decided to do what thousands of middle-class Americans do — buy a tract home in a fancy suburb. But instead, the Weismanns and their five children live in a hand-built log cabin perched on a northern Idaho mountainside.

"We were suburban middle-class, fat, liberal, talkative, frank, open, soft-hearted," says Weismann, 34, once a color engineer for a paint company. "Now we're lower-class, not so talkative, much more independent. The changes have been deep."

'CRACKER BOX'

Before the family reached a last-minute decision against a "cracker box" house in suburban Waukegan, Ill., Weismann says, "It had never entered my mind that work in itself was a value. The violent, physical kind that makes you grunt, make noises and strain — it does change you."

They had stored some of their belongings, packed the rest in a camper van and toured the country.

Last spring they settled on an unimproved 20-acre swath of mountainside near where the rolling wheat fields of eastern Washington lap against the mountains of northern Idaho.

Linda, daughter of a farm family, encouraged the move and agreed with her husband.

"The longer we've lived here, the more old-fashioned we've become," she says.

ON RELIEF

The switch to a rural life style has bolstered Weismann's respect for independence, he says, and he and Linda "have moved more to the right than we were, especially on things like welfare."

"We drew surplus food twice," he says, recalling when he labored night and day to get the cabin up. "But we mailed them a $5 check and we'll mail them five bucks a week until it's paid back."

He takes jobs as a cook to help meet living costs, but "our total expenses are less than what we once paid for rent," he says. "Linda puts up a lot of wild berries, and that helps. We also eat a lot of applesauce." She does her own baking, and most of the food they eat is grown organically.

COULDN'T MILK

Before moving near the farming and lumbering community of Tensed, Weismann didn't know how to milk a cow. Or build a cabin. A neighbor, Ted Larsen, the Seismanns' closest acquaintance, helped him learn.

Sitting at a hand-hewn wooden table, Weismann recalled how his family started "out with a tent, then built a 7-by-7-foot shack and finally completed the cabin in three months — just before winter set in.

He says the 16-hour days of cutting logs and driving nails were the hardest of his life. He figures he consumed 10,000 calories a day but "went from 200 pounds to 160."

The rustic cabin, attractive and comfortable but lacking electricity, gas and water, has a living room, kitchen and pantry downstairs and a root cellar beneath. Upstairs is one large bedroom for all the family — Mike, 14; Anna, 7; Jon, 4; Lara, 3; and Tasha, 1.

AT LOOSE ENDS

The physical labor is what accounts for many of the psychological changes his family has experienced, he says.

"I was pretty much at loose ends back east," he says. "I made more money than I needed. It was relatively easy to feed and clothe and shelter my family. The job was very easy. Our marriage was adequate by those standards, inadequate by anybody who cares about being really happy."

Mountain Chef

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y. (AP) — Helmut Rothermel likes to work in high places. He's the head chef at the inn here overlooking the Hudson river. In 1964 he was a chef in the tallest restaurant at the New York World's Fair.

'SOORA' ON MARKET SOON

Coconut Sap To Rival Beer

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Malaysia hopes to soon send out to the world a new beverage called "Soora" which the manufacturers claim will pose a challenge to beer "in ties to come."

Soora is bottled toddy. Toddy, as it is commonly known in Malaysia, is the sugary milky-white sap which flows when the young flowering spathe of a coconut palm is cut.

Traditionally the people of the Malay Archipelago, South India and Ceylon have drunk toddy not merely as an alcoholic beverage, but also for its source of high-grade protein and vitamins. It also was used in various types of medicines.

Toddy, when it comes into contact with yeast, ever present in the surroundings, begins to ferment and loses its taste. So, traditionally, people drank toddy as soon as it was tapped from the trees in their backyards.

Tapping is a process in which a man climbs up the coconut palms, often more than 100 feet tall, and shaves a thin slice of the flowering spathe of the palm. The sweet liquid starts to drip and is caught in an earthen pot placed underneath the shaved part. Tapping takes place in the morning and in the afternoon the toddy is collected.

The problem was to bottle the toddy as soon as it was tapped maintaining alcoholic content at 6.8 per cent. Just ordinary bottling did not arrest fermentation and increasing alcoholic content which would make toddy smelly and undrinkable.

After years of research it was found the fermentation could be arrested and alcoholic content kept at 6.8 per cent by either adding additives or by a thermal process.

Some factories in Ceylon and south India have adopted the additive processing but the chairman of Soora Cooperatives Ltd., Dr. A. T. Arasu, says they prefer the thermal process as they feel additives take away some of the "toddy taste and proteins and vitamins may be lost."

Under the thermal process the fresh toddy is heated to a certain temperature, cooled down, heated again and cooled down again, and then bottled. This arrests the fermentation.

The $250,000 Soora factory marketed the product this year but can produce only about 3,000 bottles a day. Local demand is so high that there is a long waiting list. However, more factories are to be established by the end of the year to satisfy local demand and also to manufacture for export.

Arasu said that westerners and others someday may take to toddy.

"Just as people don't like the bitter taste of beer when they drink it for the first time, and many don't like the smell of beer at first, so will people be reluctant to take toddy for the first time because of the "toddy taste and smell."

"But once they get used to it they will relish it as many of us here do."

When people get used to toddy it could pose a serious challenge to beer, predicts Arasu.

Welfare Births Drop Sharply

NEW YORK (AP) — The number of women on welfare here giving birth to children has dropped sharply in a three-year period, Human Resources Administrator Jule M. Sugarman reports.

Sugarman said that while one woman in five on welfare in 1968 gave birth, only one in nine gave birth in 1970. He attributed the reduction to the impact of family planning services.

Federal and state law requires that persons in the aid-to-dependent-children category of welfare support be offered birth control information by careworkers.

EDDIE'S FATHER WEDS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There will be no more courtship for Eddie's father. Bill Bixby, who plays a widowed father of a small boy in the television series "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," has often been described as a determined bachelor.

But a spokesman for the 37-year-old actor announced that Bixby was married to actress Brenda Benet in a July 4 ceremony at Malibu.

Diphtheria Cases Soar

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — This city's diphtheria count has risen to 32 cases for 1971 as health officials continue an immunization drive to prevent a recurrence of last year's epidemic.

Two new cases, the first in 10 days, were reported Wednesday.

The contagious throat infection has claimed one child's life this year. Three children died from diphtheria last year and 197 persons contracted it.

Officials said more than 140,000 persons have lined up for diphtheria shots since a booster drive was launched June 5. Health officers warned that at least 250,000 persons needed boosters to ward off another epidemic.

One of the new patients Wednesday was a boy, 10, from a low income housing project.

The age of the other patient was not at once available.

Public Statements In The Police Chief Controversy

FROM JAY BANKS

To The Citizens of Big Spring: Until now I have refrained from making a public statement in the belief it would not be appropriate for me to do so pending the results of any recall election. I have been forced, however, into making a statement by the campaign of vilification carried on by the majority of the City Commission and their advisors and supporters. I will state the facts and challenge them to do likewise.

In my view, the present problems of the City Government of Big Spring commenced with the election of Eddie Acri who had campaigned on a platform reportedly including a promise to "get" Jay Banks. Commissioner Acri had been in office only very shortly before his activities were what I deem to be harassment of the entire department as well as individual members. Thereafter, Commissioner Watkins was elected and while it is not clear that I was the direct target of his personal campaign, it became evident to me that he sought the removal of all the top city administrators. In the case of Commissioner Choate, it appears he has been convinced that I have not cooperated with other law enforcement agencies.

With this background, the Commission called a closed personnel meeting on the 16th of June, 1971, to which both I and representatives of the Police Association were invited. The Police Association had previously put the Commission on notice that political harassment of the Department had seriously weakened the chain of command and, consequently of course, the morale of the individual members of the Department. The meeting was ostensibly called to hear from the Police Department in this connection as well as to discuss with me certain complaints which had allegedly been made against me. At the meeting, each of the three Commissioners in question were directly requested to make known their own personal complaints against me as well as any complaints which others had suggested to them. Each of the three Commissioners refused to make any statement, saying that it was "only hearsay" and that they did not desire to repeat hearsay and rumor. I requested that the Commission as a whole invite any person who had a complaint against me to appear before them and after having heard such complaints, to call another meeting at which I would be permitted to answer the charges, if any. It was the unanimous agreement of the Commission, myself and the Big Spring Police Association that this procedure would be followed. The meeting thereupon adjourned on an amicable note and with a clear understanding as to the procedure to be followed. In spite of our direct agreement (and admittedly because of an incident over which I had no control but which the Commissioners took as a personal affront) and without notice to me, my attorney, or the Big Spring Police Association, Commissioners Choate and Watkins violated this agreement, and without ever meeting together as a Commission, or hearing any evidence, took immediate steps to try to force my resignation. Of course, I demanded a public hearing.

In the days which preceded the public hearing, my attorney met with representatives of the three Commissioners for a total of perhaps a much as twenty-five or thirty hours. During this period of time, every attempt was made by him to compel them to make a factual statement of grounds for my removal. This they absolutely refused to do other than to refer to an incident which involved three of our officers which occurred more than three years ago and was thereafter appropriately handled by the Court and one other matter which involved an alleged error of judgment on the part of one of our detectives. When it became apparent that no amount of persuasion or even begging would force them to either produce their facts or admit they had none, I offered to agree to the appointment of a committee of five fair-minded and disinterested citizens of Big Spring to hear the evidence and make a public report and recommendation. This, of course, was flatly refused. One of their representatives then made a suggestion of a public referendum to which we readily agreed, but after reconsideration they reversed their position and turned this down also. As a consequence, the so-called "public hearing" was held.

As the fifteen hundred people who attended the hearing can witness, we presented hard facts about the operation of the Police Department and, in turn, Commissioners Choate, Watkins and Acri spoke only in vague generalities. You may recall that Commissioner Choate's complaint was "lack of cooperation" with the Sheriff and District Attorney's Office. Commissioner Watkins' complaint was that he had bought a book he called pornographic on the newsstand and Commissioner Acri simply stated that you could "go to the Sheriff's Office and District Attorney's Office and learn the facts." To each of them, I make this reply. COMMISSIONER CHOATE, I agree that there has been a lack of cooperation between the Police Department and the District Attorney's Office. You, Sir, however, have the shoe on the wrong foot. Why don't you take the time to go to the Police Department and look at the files of literally dozens of cases that have been competently prepared by the officers of the Police Department which the District Attorney refused to handle. If you are interested in facts; rather than one-sided viewpoints, why have you never come to the Police Department and talked with our Police Captains and Detectives and heard their side of the story? They could have shown you the files on cases involving drugs, assault, child molestation and almost every other category of major crime which the District Attorney refused to even present to the Grand Jury.

COMMISSIONER WATKINS, you have built your reputation as an economy in government advocate. Why have you never mentioned to the public that our Big Spring Reserve Police Officers Association over a fourteen month period ending in April of this year donated more than 8,000 hours of their time providing the people of the City of Big Spring with this additional police protection at no cost to the taxpayer and at a saving of more than $25,000.00. Why have you not mentioned that our operation of the Big Spring Police Department jail facilities through taking contracts with the Border Patrol for housing their prisoners has not only resulted in an operation free of cost to the taxpayer but, in fact, puts approximately $1,000.00 per month into the City General Fund. Why is nothing said of the more than $25,000.00 in grants we have received from the Criminal Justice Office in the past year. You, Sir, have made a great to-do over such monumental issues as economy through half-soling the Police-mans' boots, but what about the big picture?

COMMISSIONER ACRI, you said the public could go to the Sheriff and to the District Attorney, and learn the facts. The fact is, Commissioner Acri, that at your suggestion, persons have done this. I am told that the only information they got from the District Attorney, as mentioned before, related to the case of the three policemen which happened more than three years ago. In the case of Sheriff Aubrey Standard, I am told he made the statement that "Jay Banks and I have no problems we couldn't go out to the City Park and split a watermelon and settle." I agree with Sheriff Standard. Why haven't you told the people this, Commissioner Acri? At the closed session at which I was fired by a three-two vote, my attorney and I objected in that the legal procedures prescribed by State Law for the protection of Policemen against political harassment had not been followed. We objected because the action was being taken behind closed doors rather than in the public view. We requested, again, that before any action be taken, the persons who had complaints to register be called before the Commission to openly state their views and that I be given an opportunity to reply. The other two Commissioners agreed that they had been furnished with no facts whatever justifying my dismissal and agreed with our request, but however, the trio of Choate, Watkins and Acri carried it by a 3-2 vote. Disregarding the fact that my attorney advises me the legal procedures were not followed, I, not being a lawyer, can only say that according to normal standards, every concept of fairness and equity was violated. Not only was I never permitted to face my accusers nor was a true hearing had, but neither I nor my attorney were ever even informed of what the charges were.

To put the matter in proper focus, let me very strongly add the following. Tragical though the consequences are to me and my family, from a law enforcement viewpoint the real significance is the present demoralization and almost certain future complete destruction of one of the finest police departments ever assembled. This is more than the loss of a single individual. It is the loss of the accomplishments of eleven years of the combined work and effort of many people.

One further thing, though I naturally deeply appreciate the loyalty of my friends and the friends of the Police Department, in the upcoming recall election, let us not lose sight of the fact that my dismissal was only a part of the overall loss suffered by the people of Big Spring. The primary issue in the recall election should not be Jay Banks. It must be clearly understood at all times that through the interference and harassment of these three Commissioners, the City Government within a few months has lost almost every one of its top administrators. The only difference between my case and that of the City Manager, the Public Works Director, the Public Utilities Director, the City Secretary and Finance Director and the City Attorney is that I declined to quit. Regardless of personal consequences to me, my hope and prayer is that we can return our City Government to the hands of capable Commissioners who can start at once to rebuild the City Government to serve the people of this fine city. JAY BANKS

FROM JACK WATKINS

It is with a great deal of regret that I feel compelled to make reply to the statement which was issued by former Chief of Police Jay Banks on July 6, 1971. In Mr. Banks' statement he purports to make reply to the reasons given by me for seeking his removal from office. His statement is conspicuous in its failure to include the main reason for which I sought his removal and which was very thoroughly brought out at the public hearing. Here is the statement which I made at the public hearing.

"I learned from an undisclosed source that a meeting had taken place and that five people were in attendance, including the Chief of Police and that at this meeting it was decided that a personal investigation of the background of certain members of the City Commission would be made. Apparently one of the sources of information was that of the Office of Special Investigation (OSI) at Webb Air Force Base. Upon learning that a request had been made to this office, I immediately called for an appointment with these people at the base and talked to a Mr. Kellogg whom I did not know previously and asked for an appointment to discuss a matter with him. I did not divulge the matter. An appointment was set for 3:30 that afternoon at the base in his office. At 3:30 I arrived and was introduced also to a second OSI representative by the name of Mr. Beck. I confronted them with the information and obtained from them verification that the request had been made to them but that they had refused to divulge any information due to the fact that no criminal action was pending against the members of the City Commission on whom the information had been requested. The request had been made to them by police officer, Pete Stone, and these agents stated that the basis of the request as made by the Police Department was that pressure was being exerted and that they felt it was necessary to cool it. The day following this at 2:00 a call was received at my home from Colonel Atkinson, Wing Commander at Webb Air Force Base, requesting to come to my home to discuss the matter that had been discussed the previous day. I was away from home and my wife was informed that he would call again at 5:00 that evening. I was at home at 5:00 and received his call at which time he stated his desire to come to my home to discuss this matter with me. I instead offered to come to his office and did proceed to that point, arriving at approximately 5:15. I was met by an officer, I believe, a Captain, possibly his aide, who ushered me into Commander Atkinson's office. This gentleman retired and left Colonel Atkinson and myself alone. Colonel Atkinson said that it had come to his attention that morning that the admission had been made that such a request had been received by the OSI. He expressed concern, as did I, as to the effect a situation such as this would have on base-community relations. I assured Colonel Atkinson that I would not use this information unless forced to do so.

I did not wish to divulge this information because I agreed with Colonel Atkinson that Webb Air Force Base is a very important part of our community and that we want to cooperate in every way and I feel that Colonel Atkinson's act in advising me of the situation has once again demonstrated the cooperation that the City of Big Spring continues to receive from the personnel of Webb Air Force Base. Whether the request was made for one member of the Commission or all five is of no concern in my opinion, but the point that disturbs me is the fact that this attempt was made to obtain information that could be used to intimidate one or more elective members of this Commission."

Chief Banks stated at the public hearing, in the presence of 1500 people, that he did not have any knowledge of the OSI investigation. That is simply not true. Since the hearing I have secured and have in my possession a signed affidavit, given by a police officer who was present at the meeting where the investigation into the background of two Commission members, as well as others, was discussed. It was at this meeting, which was also attended by Mr. Banks' attorney, that Chief Banks suggested that the background of the City Commissioners should be investigated in order to determine whether or not there was anything in their background that would be derogatory to their character. Chief Banks, himself, was heard to suggest that a police officer contact the OSI office in order to secure this information. Make no mistake about the purpose of such an investigation. It was an attempt to secure information to be used in personal manipulation of our city government. I do not believe that the people who elected me to this office, which pays only $10 per month, would expect me to sit idly by and let certain members of the Police Department intimidate the City Commission of the City of Big Spring. I want to state that I have at no time attacked Mr. Banks' character and I resent that he should imply in his statement that I have done so. However, I do want to get the record straight and I want to state one more time for Mr. Banks' benefit that this type of personal intimidation will not be tolerated by me as a City Commissioner and I doubt that I would be tolerated by anyone who should replace me in this office. JACK WATKINS

FROM WAYNE BURNS

Jay Banks recently has spoken critically of Wayne Burns as District Attorney, and in reply to him, I would like to make clear that it is the conduct of the office formerly held by him that is presently under public scrutiny, and that the merits or demerits of Wayne Burns as District Attorney are not presently under review. Such review of Wayne Burns will appropriately be made at the next regular election by all of the voters and not just Jay Banks. With regard to the public evaluation of the past worth of Jay Banks, I believe that the following remarks could justly be taken into consideration by the public in their determination of how to rate his performance.

During my 6 and 1/2 years as District Attorney, I have experienced a general lack of cooperation from Mr. Banks in many and varied areas, some of which were critical. Under the present day condition of the law there have been many highly technical requirements placed upon law enforcement officers that absolutely must be followed in order to establish a case that will later stand the test of fire in the courtroom. Therefore, it is unreasonable and completely unrealistic to expect the average officer who has had no law school training to be able to correctly and legally investigate and establish certain criminal matters without the close and personal assistance of the prosecuting attorney. Because I recognize this, I have repeatedly volunteered my availability to the Police Department to furnish such advice and assistance at any time, day or night. Despite this good faith offer on my part, of assistance to the Police Department, there have been all too few instances where my advice or assistance was sought until after it was too late. Additionally, I have, on various occasions, by letter and voice, communicated certain recent changes in the law to Mr. Banks and made suggestions as to what procedure should be followed to comply with the new law, but in all too many instances such was not done.

A few years back it fell my unfortunate duty to prosecute three members of the Police Department for theft, and this matter came about under somewhat unusual circumstances that will be explained briefly as follows: Two of the three involved voluntarily confessed their misdeed to Mr. Banks and were properly suspended by him. A short while later Mr. Banks, in discussing this matter with me, assured me that he had made a thorough investigation of the matter and that the only ones involved were the two that had confessed. Shortly after this I determined from another source that a third officer was involved and made a phone request to the Police Department for this third officer to come to my office. The third officer came to my office, accompanied by Mr. Banks, who insisted that the District Attorney not talk to him about the case. Upon my insisting on such as the District Attorney, Mr. Banks thereupon turned to the officer under investigation and told him to say nothing and not discuss the matter with the District Attorney, whereupon Mr. Banks left for a period of approximately fifteen minutes when he returned with a defense attorney to represent such officer. This terminated and prevented my questioning of such officer. At my request, a Grand Jury was called into session as soon as possible, whereupon Mr. Banks, after learning of the recall of the Grand Jury, phoned me to complain that such was not fair to him in that he should have an opportunity, which he had not had, to investigate the matter himself. This, despite the fact that he had a day earlier assured me that he had fully investigated the matter. The Grand Jury subsequently indicted and all three officers later entered a plea of nolo contendere to the offense of misdemeanor theft, which is the equivalent of a plea of guilty. The court records of the District Court show that a certain police detective testified, under oath, in a narcotics trial, that he, the detective, had given a substantial amount of marijuana to an undercover agent for the express purpose of the agent giving away and sharing such marijuana with other persons, including teenagers in the 14 and 15 year old bracket. It was the testimony of such detective, as developed by defense attorney, Gil Jones, at the trial, that he, the detective, had knowingly allowed such marijuana to be made available to Big Spring teenagers through the undercover agent. Despite the fact that such conduct and action on the part of such detective constitutes a felony offense by the detective, it was adopted and approved by the then Chief of Police, Jay Banks.

There was a recent Howard County Grand Jury who were considerably disturbed by the manner in which a particular police detective had handled and conducted the investigation of a murder and burglary case. The Grand Jury in the course of its investigation of these two cases found evidence of a highly disturbing nature which indicated that, to say the least, the investigation was grossly mishandled. The fact that one of the parties indicted by the Grand Jury was closely related to an active policeman was no small factor in arousing suspicion concerning these cases. Despite the seriousness of the situation involving a murder case, Mr. Banks was not concerned enough to take any action after being advised of the facts by the Grand Jury. WAYNE BURNS

FROM WADE CHOATE

On July 6, former Chief of Police Jay Banks issued a statement to the news media concerning the action taken by the City Commission to discharge him as Chief of Police of the City of Big Spring. In his statement, he has attacked Commissioners Watkins, Acri, and me, along with those who have given us support in this matter. Mr. Banks has accused us of character assassination and vilification, which is not true. On the contrary, we have made every effort to avoid making any statements which would reflect adversely upon Mr. Banks' character and personal life. If his character has been questioned, it has not been because of information received from me in any form or fashion. As far as my reasons for voting for the discharge of Mr. Banks are concerned, the lack of cooperation between his department and the other law enforcement agencies, and particularly the office of the District Attorney, played an important part in my decision. My personal knowledge of the lack of cooperation between Mr. Banks and the office of the District Attorney goes back many years. When Mr. Banks became Chief of Police, I was serving as Clerk of the District Court. As District Clerk, I was familiar with many of the felony cases which were tried in the District Court. My office was only a short distance from that of the District Attorney, who was at that time Mr. Guilford L. Jones. Much of the information concerning the lack of cooperation from Mr. Banks was received directly from Mr. Jones, and when Mr. Jones was replaced by the present District Attorney, Wayne Burns, Mr. Burns complained frequently of the same lack of cooperation. These observations have occurred over the past 10 years, and in my opinion the conditions complained about by District Attorneys Jones and Burns have become increasingly worse. The second factor which influenced my decision to vote for the discharge of Mr. Banks was what I considered to be a continued display of incompetence by a very small minority of the Police Department. This incompetence of one particular officer was brought to the attention of Mr. Banks by myself as well as District Attorney Burns and Mr. Gil Jones. Loyalty to members of his Department is understandable, but when this loyalty is at the expense of law enforcement in this community it cannot be condoned. The inefficiency of one detective who was the lead detective in narcotic cases in particular was critical, and I discussed this matter, among others, with Mr. Banks for approximately two hours on June 2 of this year, and I was told by Mr. Banks that the detective would continue in his present position. Fortunately, this detective has resigned since the discharge of Mr. Banks. With respect to Mr. Banks' charge that I was motivated to secure his removal from office with the hope of placing the Police Department under the direction of someone subject to the control of the District Attorney, this simply is not true, and those who know me will not accept this charge. It will be the new City Manager's job to name the Chief of Police. My decision to vote for the discharge of Chief Banks was a difficult one, but once Mr. Banks was discharged in my opinion the issue was closed, and I deeply regret that the public hearing and the recall election demanded by Mr. Banks and his supporters have served to unnecessarily prolong the debate which has so deeply divided our community. WADE CHOATE

FROM EDDIE ACRI

On July 6, 1971, Mr. Jay Banks issued a statement to the citizens of Big Spring challenging Commissioners Choate, Watkins and myself to state the facts. Most of Mr. Banks' statement is of such nature as to be not worthy of reply. However in his statement Mr. Banks says and I quote, "The present problems of the City Government of Big Spring commenced with the election of Commissioner Acri who had campaigned on a platform designed to appease certain special interest groups and a promise to 'get' Jay Banks. Commissioner Acri had been in office only very shortly before his intervention on behalf of offenders and his harassment of the entire department, as well as individual members of the department, reached serious proportions."

Mr. Banks, your facts are wrong and your memory short. Remember when I was elected to office in April, 1970, and I came to the Police Department at your request and you told me the problem that you were having with Larry Crow, the City Manager, in regard to the 40 hour work week for the Police Department? Remember that you told me you had submitted this matter to Mr. Crow on April 20, 1970 and again on May 6, 1970? Remember I told you that I would see to it that such matter was submitted to the City Commission? Do you remember Mr. Banks that I did submit this to the Commission and that it did pass and the Police Department was given a 40 hour work week? Do you then remember the letter you wrote to me on June 10, 1970?

In case you don't remember I will quote it for you. "Mr. Eddie Acri 2500 Larry Big Spring, Texas Dear Sir: Every member of this department is deeply grateful for your efforts in securing for us a 40 hour work week. Without your able assistance, I am sure we would never have gotten this before the commission. Please call on us at any time we may be of assistance to you. Very truly yours, Jay"

Remember how I assisted your department in the obtaining of new police uniforms when you again complained that the City Manager, Larry Crow, would take no action to get this before the Commission? EDDIE ACRI

Yes, Mr. Banks, I did visit your department and you personally. I did on occasions have complaints which I presented to you openly, but I also assisted your department when assistance seemed warranted. But now you seem to have forgotten. Now you want to recall myself and Commissioners Choate and Watkins, and in your statement you say and I quote, "Return our City Government to the hands of unbiased capable commissioners, free of obligations to special interests." I ask you, Mr. Banks, Are you unbiased? I also ask, Who will be these unbiased and capable commissioners you want to return our City Government to? Someone who will reinstate you, Mr. Banks, and let you run our fair city? EDDIE ACRI

First Round Victories Go To West Texans

FORT WORTH (AP) — Beauties from Crane and Waco claimed victories in first round judging Wednesday night in the Miss Texas pageant.

Sue Ann Evans, 20, Crane's candidate as Miss West Texas University, triumphed in swimsuit competition, and Sharon Gail Francis, 23, entered as Miss Waco, received an ovation as she sang an aria from Faust, "The Jewel Song," in the talent division.

Both actually are West Texans. Miss Francis, although a Baylor University student representing Waco, is from Odessa.

Miss Evans, a shapely 36-24-36, was pleasantly surprised at winning, even though she has engaged in such competition since 1955.

"I was so surprised I almost couldn't quit shaking," she said after hearing the judges' verdict. Referring to her 5-foot-8 height, she added, "I feel it is an advantage to be tall."

Miss Evans, brown-eyed and brown-haired, said she has been "dreaming of winning the Miss America pageant" since she won her first title at the age of 6.

"It was a Little Miss contest and we were judged in bathing suits and judges' interviews," she recalled.

Miss Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar B. Francis of Odessa, told of entering local competition at the urging of the 1970 Miss Teenage America, Debbie Patton of Odessa.

Her measurements are 36-24-35 and she has entered several beauty contests before but never won.

Miss Francis received no formal voice training prior to becoming a student in Odessa College, she said, but "I was always in school and church choirs." In addition she sang with the "Up with People" group in 1967 and traveled around the world.

She has studied at Baylor since 1969 and expects to be graduated there in August of 1972.

There are two more nights of preliminary competition for the 63 contenders for the Miss Texas crown, and the winner will be chosen in Saturday night's regionally telecast finals.

A special guest is Miss America, Phyllis George of Denton. She claimed the Miss Texas title a year ago while representing Dallas.

STUFFED ARTICHOKE

(Serves one)
 3/4 cup bread crumbs
 Pinch minced garlic
 Pinch Italian seasoning
 1/4 cup grated Romano cheese
 Olive oil
 Trim stem from artichoke so it will stand up. Turn back and break off the tough part of lower leaves. Strike center on drainboard to loosen leaves. Wash and shake off water. Combine all ingredients except olive oil and stuff artichoke with mixture. Drizzle a small amount of olive oil over the top. Put artichoke in pan with one inch water, cover and steam over low heat until lower leaves will come off when pulled (45 minutes to 1 hour). Trim tough edges off stem and lay them in bottom of pan. Cook until tender.

PIZZA

3 cups flour
 1 cup water
 1 pkg. yeast
 1/4 tsp. shortening
 Pinch of salt
 Anchovies to taste
 Pepperoni
 1 tsp. oregano
 1 cup grated Romano cheese (approximately)
 Olive oil
 Tomato topping (see recipe below)

Mix flour and salt. Dissolve yeast in warm water and add to flour mixture. Add shortening. Mix, knead and let rise until double its original size (about one hour). Roll or pull dough flat in a greased pan. Dot with anchovies, pepperoni, oregano, Romano cheese, olive oil and tomato topping (see below). Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees; then at 400 degrees until done.

TOMATO TOPPING

1 6-oz. can tomato paste
 3 cans water
 Salt and pepper to taste
 Celery leaves
 1/4 tsp. sugar
 Combine all ingredients and simmer several hours. Cool before using.

TURKEY SOUP

1 large onion, chopped
 1 large garlic clove, minced
 3 stalks celery
 2 7/8-oz. cans tomato sauce
 Parsley sprig
 Egg noodles
 Bones, skin, bits of meat and dressing left from turkey dinner

Put bones, skin, meat and dressing in a pan and cover with water. Bring to a boil and add remaining ingredients except noodles. Cook about one hour and strain. Cook egg noodles in strained sauce and serve.

ITALIAN MEATBALLS AND SAUCE

1 1/2 lb. ground beef
 1/2 lb. sausage
 3 to 4 slices bread, crumbed
 2 small onions, grated
 6 tbsps. chopped parsley
 1/2 cup Romano cheese
 Enough milk to soak bread
 Salt and pepper to taste
 1 or 2 eggs, (depends on desired meatball texture)
 Shortening
 Pour milk over bread. Add meat, eggs, onions and cheese. Form into balls and fry in 1/4 inch hot shortening. When brown, drop in warm sauce. (See below).

SAUCE

2 small onions, chopped
 2 garlic cloves, chopped
 3 tbsps. margarine
 2 6-oz. cans tomato paste
 7 cans water
 1 tsp. sugar
 Salt and pepper to taste
 Dash cloves
 2 bay leaves
 Fry onions and garlic in margarine. Add water and tomato paste. Add seasonings; bring to a boil and add meat balls. Simmer several hours.
 Boil spaghetti according to directions on package. Drain and serve with sauce. Serves 8.

PASTA FENOCIA & SARDI

1 lb. spaghetti
 3 tbsps. shortening

Top Meal With Refreshing Fruit

A refreshing fruit compote to serve after curry.

PINEAPPLE COMPOTE

1 medium or large grapefruit
 1 can (1 lb., 4 1/2 oz.) pineapple chunks
 1/4 cup syrup-preserved sliced ginger, not packed down
 Pare grapefruit so no white membrane remains; cut sections away from dividing membranes; drain. Mix grapefruit sections with pineapple and chill. Just before serving, stir in ginger. (If ginger is added too far ahead it "takes over" the other fruit flavors.) Makes 4 to 6 servings.

3 6-oz. cans tomato paste
 10 cans water
 2 cans sardines
 1 can anchovies
 1 cup chopped cooked fennel
 2 cups bread crumbs
 Olive oil
 1 large onion, chopped
 Sauté onion in hot shortening. Add tomato paste and 10 cans water. In a separate skillet, mash sardines and anchovies in a small amount of oil from the anchovies. Cook until dissolved and remove large bones. Add to sauce and simmer 30 to 40 minutes. Warm olive oil in skillet and lightly brown bread crumbs, stirring constantly. Boil spaghetti according to directions on package. Rinse and drain. Place half of spaghetti in casserole dish. Cover with part of sauce. Add chopped fennel and a few raisins. Sprinkle generously with bread crumbs. Add remaining spaghetti and more sauce and bread crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees until sauce is bubbly and mixture is hot throughout (about 20 minutes). Serve with extra bread crumbs and sauce.

MRS. TED HICKS

Crafts, Camping, Teaching Still Leave Leisure Time

By BARBARA LORD

She feeds her family pizza and Italian antipasto every Christmas and New Year's eves, prepares turkey year-around, and grows fennel, bay leaves, mint, parsley and other herbs and spices at home. It's all part of the busy schedule of Mrs. Ted Hicks, wife of the local school district's visiting teacher; and mother to Lori, 8, and Cristi, 4.

The pizza and antipasto are part of an Italian tradition which Mrs. Hicks remembers from her childhood. They eat the customary turkey feast on holidays, but she thinks it is also a good meal any time; providing excellent leftovers for soup, sandwiches and snacks.

Noon is sandwich time at the Hicks' household, but in the evening the family usually enjoys a full, hot meal together. Often times they are meals Mrs. Hicks has prepared ahead and had in the freezer, which she recommends for all working wives and mothers.

Mrs. Hicks taught first grade for nine years and last year began teaching students with learning disabilities at Washington Elementary School. She received her bachelor's degree at Texas Women's College, her master's degree from Texas Tech and plans to return to Tech for three weeks this month to complete a methods course in reading instruction and to receive her special education certificate.

With her many activities, Mrs. Hicks still finds time for knitting, crocheting, embroidering, refinishing furniture, painting and regular weekend camping trips. She is as adept at a campfire as she is over a stove, and the family can usually count on a nutritious fish, potato and vegetable meal even in the woods.

Camping trips don't always find her cooking meals, however. She recently took a rubber raft down a rugged canyon stream at Big Bend. She enjoys the outdoors and getting away from people occasionally. "We like Big Bend because we can usually find some place back in the woods where nobody has been for at least 30 days," said Mrs. Hicks. We like to think about how things used to be, and the kids get a lot of self assurance by learning to do things for themselves when we're camping."

Mrs. Hicks claims that most of her household talents were cultivated after her marriage. As the daughter of a rodeo rider and manager, she learned more about horseback riding and animals than she did about cooking and keeping house.

Her mother was Italian, and she has included several of her favorite Italian dishes with this article. She also enjoys making Mexican food. The family insists on dessert at every meal, and she keeps a ready supply of easy recipes on hand.

Evenings are often full with club meetings, entertaining, or Kappa Gamma.

recreation for Mrs. Hicks. The family enjoys casual parties with small groups of friends. They are both football fans and golfers, and both taught swimming at Cosden Country Club for two years. They also like horseback riding.

The Hicks' home at 4061 Vicky is evidence that Mrs. Hicks somehow finds time for her creative hobbies. Several pieces of furniture, including a piano and bedroom set, have been refinished in antique lines, and the walls are decorated with her needlework and tile paintings.

The Hicks' have lived in Big Spring for four years. Her activities include Texas State Teachers Association, secretary; Mu Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, vice president; Texas Association for Children with Learning Disabilities; and Alpha Beta Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma.

FROM SCANDINAVIAN CUISINE
Butter cookies flavored with cardamon

Cookie Variety From Scandinavian Kitchen

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Manufacturer Food Editor

Scandinavian cooks have their own special ways with cookies. They make up a white cookie dough rich in eggs, cut it into strips, cut a slit in the center of each strip and slip one end through the slit. Then they fry these half-bows in deep fat and give them a dusting of confectioners sugar.

When these cooks bake cookies from their favorite rich vanilla dough, they are likely to mold it into pretzel or crescent shapes. They also favor "wreaths" — rolling the dough into short lengths about as thick as a pencil, overlapping the two ends and decorating with candied cherries.

When they add nuts to cookies, they are likely to choose almonds.

SCANDINAVIAN COOKIES
2 cups sifted enriched flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. ground cardamom
3/4 cup butter
1 cup sugar

2 eggs
3/4 cup finely chopped almonds
Sift together the flour, baking powder and cardamom. Melt the butter and cook until lightly browned. Separate the oil from the solids by pouring off the oil into a bowl. Cool.

Beat together the cooled oil (from the butter) and the sugar. Thoroughly beat in eggs, one at a time. Stir in the almonds. Stir in sifted dry ingredients until blended.

Drop by level tablespoonfuls, at least 2 inches apart, onto buttered cookie sheets. Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven 18 to 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove to wire racks to cool. Store in a tightly covered container. Makes about 3 dozen.

These cookies may be made with self-rising flour; in this case omit the baking powder called for.

The almonds used in the cookies do not have to be blanched.

Golden Compote Tops A Meal

Such a good fruit dessert to serve at this time of year!

GOLDEN COMPOTE
1/2 cup golden raisins
2 tbsps. brandy
2 grapefruit
1 can (1 lb.-4 oz.) pineapple tidbits

Into a small container, turn the raisins and brandy; let stand at room temperature overnight so raisins will absorb practically all the brandy. Cut peel away from grapefruit so no white membrane remains; cut sections away from dividing membranes; drain. (Drink juice!) Add the undrained pineapple. Chill until serving time. Just before serving, mix in the raisins and, if you like, extra brandy to taste. Makes 6 servings.

CAKE AND ICE CREAM COMBINATION
Brightens any party

Munchy Crunch Cake For Grads Any Age

Of course, they're proud; but mostly, graduates are glad to Whether they've just finished grade school or grad school, this is an occasion that adults just naturally make a big fuss about: "Best years of your life," parents say. This may not get a big response, but watch the graduates' eyes light up when you bring on a Cable Car Crunch Tower especially for them.

Foremost's newest ice cream flavor, Cable Car Crunch, deserves the accolades for this festive freezer cake. It's a delectable combination of vanilla flavored ice cream swirled with a creamy caramel syrup and full of crunchy chunks of toffee.

To achieve the tower effect and create a mild stir, simply scoop Cable Car Crunch into a mold which has been lined with lady finger halves on the sides and top. Just for looks, when you unmold this, scoop more Cable Car Crunch on top and surround with a ring of whipped cream.

Since the crown can't be completed 'til serving time, keep the mold in your freezer where it sits ready-in-a-moment for a momentous occasion.

Cable Car Crunch Tower says something new about freezer cakes: They're always good, and they can be fancy, too. You may not be able to get the young graduates to agree they're in the best years of their lives, but they won't deny that this unusual cake heightens the festivities.

CABLE CAR CRUNCH TOWER

14 lady fingers
1 1/2 qts. Cable Car Crunch Ice Cream (portion of half gallon package)
Whipped cream for garnish, optional
Halved maraschino cherries
Mint sprig
Split lady fingers in halves, lengthwise. Line a 5 1/2 to 6-cup mold around sides with lady finger halves. Spoon ice cream into mold, pressing against lady fingers and firmly into mold so there are no large air spaces; fill mold to within 1/2 inch of top. Cover top of ice cream with remaining lady fingers. Return mold to freezer, and hold until ready to serve. Garnish with whipped cream, if desired, and cherries and mint sprig. Makes 8 servings.

To create the tower effect scoop a generous mound of ice cream with round ice cream scoop. Place on top of mold before garnishing.

PANTRY PICK-UPS

As an accompaniment to ham or to smoked, boned pork shoulder butt, you might like to serve broiled pears. Before broiling fill the pear cavities with mayonnaise seasoned with curry powder and lemon juice; sprinkle with paprika.

To stretch a package of frozen okra, after cooking, add canned whole-kernel corn and reheat.

Stuff soft pitted prunes with pecan halves. Wrap a half-slice of bacon around each prune. Place stuffed, wrapped prunes in a jelly roll pan and bake in a very hot oven until the bacon is crisp.

Allspice comes two ways — in whole berries and in ground form.

When you are rolling out pie pastry, lift the dough often to make sure it is not sticking, but do not turn it over.

If your cookie dough includes a large proportion of shortening, you may not have to grease the cookie sheets on which they are baked.

For an interesting sandwich filling mix flaked tuna fish with very finely shredded green cabbage, mayonnaise, prepared mustard and lemon juice

HERE'S HOW WE MAKE EXTRA SURE SAFEWAY BRAND FOODS YOU BUY ARE ALWAYS FRESH

Because our perishable foods (such as eggs, dairy and bakery foods) sell so fast at Safeway that they are off our shelves in a matter of hours, freshness is assured. But we take no chances. The perishable foods Safeway manufactures or processes carry dates which our store people use to make certain that only fresh foods are sold. Here, for example, is how the date looks on a carton of Safeway Brand eggs:

A date like this is printed on the end of each carton. When the numbers "1-15" appeared, our employees knew the carton was not to be sold after January 15. Being positive no cartons remain on our shelves after the printed date ensures that all Safeway eggs you buy will remain fresh and good for many more days with proper home refrigeration.

Fire Chief Issues Call For Help

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Fire Chief William Barry has issued a call for public help to halt what he calls "1,000 deliberately-set fires since January 1."

Barry made his plea in the aftermath of the fire that destroyed the main building of a six-building industrial complex on the city's East Side the day before.

Damage from the fire may run as high as several hundred thousand dollars even though the building was nearly vacant, being occupied by just three small firms.

The complex had housed the National Screw & Manufacturing Co. until the firm moved to Mentro two years ago.

Barry said he believes there can be no effective way of controlling such fires unless residents of the areas in which they occur cooperate with the fire department.

Opening lead: Ten of ♣

The first of a series of five Championship Bridge Matches was inaugurated on a nationwide television recently when a team of Goren Stars challenged the Dallas Aces, winners of the 1970 Bermuda Bowl. The initial match was close with the lead constantly changing hands and the issue was not decided until the 20th and final deal which we are presenting today.

The bidding shown in the diagram occurred at the table where the Dallas Aces held the North-South cards. North opened the bidding with one spade and East overcalled with two diamonds. A word of explanation is required to explain South's double. In the methods used by the Aces' partnership, this call is conventional—is termed a "negative double"—and is not intended for penalties. It is merely a means of showing distributed values on certain holdings where no convenient constructive bid may be available.

It appears that North might have considered passing to play for a penalty. Even if West should rescue his partner to two hearts, he can be limited to six tricks at that contract and a 300 point sting inflicted on the East-West partnership. North chose instead to rebid two spades. South, in the hope that the king-queen of spades would fill out partner's suit, jumped aggressively to three no trump.

West opened the ten of clubs and North's queen won the first trick. [Observe that a heart lead would not have been any more effective, because the suit blocks and West has no side entry once the hearts are established.]

With only five top tricks available, it was apparent to South that dummy's suit would have to provide the bulk of his requirements. A spade was led and when East followed with the four, South's queen won. He continued with the king and had the good fortune to find West with a doubleton jack. With the appearance of that card, North's spot cards all became promoted to equal rank and the ace became the defenses' only stopper in the suit.

East held off on the second spade, so dummy was entered with the king of clubs to lead the ten of spades. East put up the ace on which both South and West discarded hearts. The exit was with a fourth round of spades and declarer proceeded to cash out dummy's long cards in that suit.

The only remaining problem was to get back to the closed hand to run the clubs. The king of diamonds was led from dummy and East put up the ace and shifted to the vital club tricks. Had West been dealt a guarded ace of diamonds, he could have locked South out of his hand by permitting dummy's king of diamonds to hold.

In all, declarer took four spades, one heart, one diamond and four clubs. When the deal was replayed at the other table, the Goren Team held the North-South cards and they stopped at two no trump. The same 10 tricks were scored on the deal, but the game bonus gained by the Aces proved to be enough to enable them to nose out their opponents and emerge victorious in the first match of the series.

Enjoined From Cutting Off Telephone Service

DALLAS (AP)—General Telephone Co. has been enjoined from cutting off service to Garland customers who have refused to pay part of their bills because of a dispute with the utility.

In dispute is an increased rate for metro—wider area—telephone service.

Dist. Judge Spencer Carver set Aug. 12 for a trial to determine the legality of the rate increase set in February.

Carver ordered the company not to cut off service to those who withhold that part of the bill which pays for metro service.

The metro plan eventually will allow Garland residents to dial without long distance charges anywhere in Dallas County and in Lewisville, Wylie and Plano.

Rates from home owners were raised from $5.50 per month to $6.65 in February.

The City Council contends it did not give permission for the rate increase while the company says it did.

General Telephone further says to get the rate raise it agreed to pressurize cables to prevent interruption of service during rainstorms and to improve the switching system which had been failing.

Garland Mayor Pro Tem Jerry Russell testified service had improved but many problems still exist. The city is among the holdouts.

Ku Klux Klan Trial Delayed

HOUSTON (AP)—The trial of a self-described member of the Ku Klux Klan under federal indictment for allegedly conspiring to blow up three California radio stations has been postponed until Aug. 30.

U. S. Atty. Anthony J. P. Faris said the delay was caused because Jimmy Dale Hutto's lawyer, J. B. Stoner of Savannah, Ga., had a prior court comment and could not go to trial Tuesday as scheduled.

Hutto is charged with conspiring to blow up radio stations in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Berkeley owned by the non-profit Pacifica Foundation.

He also has been indicted by a Houston grand jury in connection with the Oct. 6, 1970 bombing of a Houston station owned by Pacifica.

Flag Hater In Trouble

HOUSTON (AP)—The district attorney's office has moved to revoke the probation of Daniel Ray Delorme, convicted Jan. 25 for insulting the American flag by wearing a small flag stitched to the seat of his blue jeans.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Andy Horne said a warrant will be issued for Delorme's arrest because he failed to report to his probation officer as directed.

Delorme, 21, was assessed a two-year probation sentence in the case. Horne said Delorme had contacted his probation officer only once since his conviction and had also failed to pay his monthly payments on his $150 probation department supervisory fee.

Tough On Suspensions

It may be practically impossible now to enforce a law authorizing suspension of a driver's license if financial accountability is not established following an accident.

A three-judge federal panel in San Antonio has ruled that a hearing must be held to determine fault before a license can be suspended under the Texas Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Act. A license could be suspended without a hearing under that act. The San Antonio court's ruling followed a finding by the Supreme Court of the United States that a similar provision in a Georgia law was unconstitutional because it constituted deprivation without due process.

The Department of Public Safety estimated that hearings to determine fault would cost the state $780,000 a year, noting that it had no funds budgeted for hearings. The estimate probably was conservative. In many, if not most, cases once fault is established the amount of damages becomes the central issue in the absence of any showing of contributory negligence.

While the hearing on determination of fault would probably consist of an administrative inquiry, the transcript of proceedings probably could be used in a suit for damages in district court. If the evidence taken in the earlier hearing was not admissible, it could probably be used to impeach the testimony of witnesses, or at least to refresh their memories.

The Texas Legislature will have to make a new approach to procedure used under the responsibility act to suspend licenses. But it is difficult to conceive of an approach that would be constitutional in view of recent ruling. Hearings could be held in every case, but the burden could soon become so great that a breakdown in administration could occur.

Compulsory automobile liability insurance might then become the only feasible approach. But who would the carrier be?

Pretty Fair Gain

Because bank deposit figures as of June 30 fell off from the all-time peak of April 20, it might be easy to conclude that this is a disconcerting omen. Actually, the decline was more or less seasonal, especially for cities and towns of comparable size.

Too, it should be remembered that the April report had established a 20 per cent gain over April, 1970. The first-half report this year reflected a 15 per cent gain over June, 1970. That would double any inflationary factors, so there is a solid gain, and we would be glad to settle for that rate of increase year in and out.

Vacation Getter-Evener

Around The Rim

Jean Fannin

If there's one thing I don't like about vacation season it's postcards.

WHILE I'M slaving away bemoaning the fact that my vacation will never come, I am receiving beautiful post cards from gorgeous places from people whom I considered friends.

How I wound up with such rich friends I'll never know, but scattered around my room are two postcards from Acapulco (sent by different people), one from Hawaii, one from New York City.

AS I count my pennies and plan my two-week vacation in South Coahoma, I promise myself that next year I too will save my money and maybe send home pictures of the Eiffel Tower, or the Roman Coliseum, or the Egyptian pyramids, or maybe Stratford-On-Avon.

Its amazing how postcards are designed to provoke envy among even the most unenvious, among which class I have never been accused of belonging.

HAVE YOU ever noticed that no matter how many photographs you take the beach is never that white.

nor the sea as blue as in the postcards. That may be one reason vacation pictures elicit only yawns from friends while postcards draw pathetic sighs.

There's one more thing about my friends and postcards that I don't understand. How do they remember to mail them?

PERHAPS I try too hard. Remembering all those beautiful, envy-drawing postcards I have received I seek the most exquisite little cardboard squares that I can find — matching them as carefully to personalities as I do birthday cards. Sometimes I even get the care-free little messages "Having a wonderful time" and "wish you were here" scribbled on the back. Occasionally I get the cards addressed and even stamped. But I rarely get them mailed.

THIS SUMMER, though I've got it figured out, I'm not even going to try to mail postcards. I'm going to buy them, though, and really get even with everybody I know.

If I get envious during vacation seasons, just think how everybody will feel when they get my luscious postcards in mid-winter.

Book For Slackers

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — Declaration of Independence week would seem a nice ironic time to review a new book which epitomizes the era of the lazy bum, with gimmick. It is aimed at the military — isn't everything these days? — but it might well sum up the philosophy of our lazy, paranoid times.

Since I do not wish to help enrich the obscure authors, the reader will have to look elsewhere for the book's title. But in ads in The New York Times, its publisher boasts that by reading it reservists and National Guardsmen can become adept at beating the game, thwarting the intent of the law and making a fast buck in the process.

CONSIDER the come-on text: "How to miss summer camp — six proven, legal ways to get out."

"How to reduce your active duty time."

"How to get lost so nobody knows or cares where you are."

"How to make your CO knuckle under, using a little-known, little-used Army regulation."

"How to get the Army to put you up in a hotel while at summer camp and make them pay all expenses!"

I DON'T know whether the book is all that good, or that bad. It would be pleasant to discover that its sales pitch is another phony. But in fact there is nothing illegal about a manual that purports to show a reader how to cheat his country. I take note of its publication only as a commentary on what in a stuffer time one might have described as our moral fiber.

YOUNG MEN join the various reserves and National Guard for a variety of reasons. Many of them do so as an honorable alternative to the draft; they're willing to serve in their own way. A lot of other, unfortunately, are plain and simple draft dodgers.

Well, all right. Even the meanest, most shiftless slacker has his rights. But this book appeals, candidly, blatantly, to the youth who having avoided the draft for whatever motives now seeks ways to defraud the government while he is in part-time uniform and, eventually, maneuver his way out by guile and even criminal gimmickry.

THE COUNTRY has grown sleazy and self-contemptuous. God knows the military, like any other huge enterprise, has some stupid men among its leadership, and often is made ridiculous by archaic and sometimes idiotic regulations and protocol, but the suggestion that a young man should secure safety from the draft and then bite the hand that saved him sends me reeling to the men's room.

YET I suppose it was to be expected of a Republic that has produced a generation whose principal occupation seems to be feeling sorry for itself, while frantically looking for furtive ways to avoid working for a living. The hero today is the goof-off, the skilled cutter of corners.

PARTING OF THE WAYS

Where The Money Goes

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Wonder where the money went? You shouldn't. While every family has a favorite way to spend, lose or waste its income, three disposal methods are common to all: inflation, rising living standards and taxes.

To some extent this is quite obvious. But it is also a gray area, maybe purposely so because of the pain involved with recognition. It isn't pleasant to look back, but it is instructive.

Face it, since 1955 more than 30 cents has been clipped from the dollar.

Inflation is not, however, a modern invention, even though it is now being perfected. Between 1909 and 1919 the value of the dollar actually was cut in half, which left it only twice as big as today's bill.

Many shoppers are acutely aware of price changes, to which any supermarket will attest. They know when prices are rising but, curiously, they attempt to buy the same goods on the same budget. When the budget snaps under the strain, the shock is terrible.

It is simply impossible to live in today's style on yesterday's income, because the gap between them widens from each direction. Not only does the dollar grow smaller but desires grow larger.

Before reaching one economic level the assault on the next one begins: one car, two cars, three cars, a boat, a bigger house, a vacation home. And at the dinner table flet mignon instead of hamburger, lobster rather than mackerel.

It is the automobile, however, that is the symbol of rising aspirations. Barely able to meet other bills, Americans insist on a fine car.

There is growing evidence that many Americans are getting tired of stuffing their paychecks in their gas tanks. Consumers are demanding smaller cars. Imports of compacts are soaring, even though Detroit, belatedly, has produced its own models.

And consumer pollsters detect a tendency for some owners to delay purchases. Is a $4,500-car needed every three years? Or would a $3,400-car every four years do: The savings would be $10,000 in 15 years.

The auto companies point out, correctly, that this might result in higher repair costs, but budget advisers will tell you that maintenance often can be lowered by better driving and better care. Ironically, millions of Americans, after sacrificing to buy their cars, then abuse them.

But the car, it must be conceded, gives great pleasure to millions of Americans. It also provides many of them with higher incomes. Can the same be said for taxes?

In the years between 1956 and 1970, says the Tax Foundation, the total of federal, state and local tax collections increased 181 per cent.

That's where the money goes. No mystery.

Britain's Secrets

Art Buchwald

LONDON — There is far more interest in the secret Pentagon Papers in England than one might think.

Melton Bulberly, a British foreign service-type, told me at his club the other day:

"This sort of thing could never happen in England. We have the Official Secrets Act. Anyone who leaks a secret in this country goes straight to the nick." (Jall)

"That's wonderful," I said. "It is," he agreed. "The only trouble is we have no secrets."

"That's a pity."

HE CONFIDED in me sadly. "Don't tell anyone, but we haven't had a worthwhile secret since 1956 when we decided to go into Suez."

"That's over 15 years ago," I said.

"Oh, we know it. As a matter of fact, all our secrets since then have been American ones. That's why the Pentagon Paper leaks have been so disturbing."

"How's that?"

"WELL IF Americans can't keep their secrets, they aren't much use to us are they? I mean to say, if everyone in the world knows the secrets and we're the only ones who have laws forbidding their printing, we look bloody silly, don't we?"

"You don't look good," I admitted.

"There's a big move on in this country now to refuse any future American secrets. Many people believe that England should develop its own secrets or it will become a second class power."

"BUT ISN'T that rather expensive?" I said.

"I should say it is. Just the cost of rubber stamps to mark all our documents Top Secret would take up more than half of England's defense budget."

"But you people are forcing us into

it. It was all right when your secrets were confined to only a handful of men high in your government. But when you opened them up to every Tom, Dick and Daniel Ellsberg, then we had to take another look at the situation."

"IT IS POSSIBLE after all these years to develop your own secrets?" I asked my foreign office friend.

"Quite possible," he said huffily. "Oh, we might not have them on the same large scale as the Americans, and they might not be worthy of being stolen by another major power, but I assure you, sir, after proper testing our secrets will have to be reckoned with."

"IT SEEMS to me," I said, "that it would be a mistake for Great Britain at this stage to go it alone. While it's true the Americans are leaking like sieves, I would think it's still better to know an important secret of somebody else's than have a secret of your own that no one cares about. Why, if Britain started developing it's own secrets every foreign spy in England would flee the country."

"There's always that risk," my friend said. "But at the same time, if we are dependent for our secrets on the United States, we should at least get equal treatment with the New York Times and Washington Post."

Nurses Wanted

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A critical shortage of nurses is spreading all over Texas, reports the Texas Hospital Association.

In some areas entire wards or wings of hospitals have been closed because of a lack of nurses to staff them.

How's Your Prestige?

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you on the escalator of success or the toboggan of failure?

Now and then it is wise to make a self-checkup.

But how can you tell for sure whether your life's star is brightening or fading? Well, some of the signs are pretty obvious.

For example, you can quit worrying about your status if— You have "his" and "her" tennis courts on your estate.

The workmen digging a big, ger and better swimming pool in your basement strike oil.

When it comes time to get a new yacht, you sink the old one at sea rather than let something you once valued fall into the hands of strangers.

During National Brotherhood Week you make it a policy always to invite the U.S. secretary of the Treasury to lunch and listen to his troubles.

If you stay home with a heavy cold for more than two days, the New York Stock Exchange falls five points—and you receive get-well cards from several hundred worried brokers.

You average an honorary degree from a different college every year, and the board of education in your old home town names a high school after you.

You hate to run out of $10 bills, because you don't want anybody to think you are a poor tipper.

On the other hand, your prestige had slipped a country mile if—

Everybody else shuts up if you start to sing "The Star-Spangled Banner" with them.

When you shake hands with a man, the first thing he does when you let go is to wipe his hand with his handkerchief and then count his fingers to make sure he hasn't been short-changed.

When the bartender buys a drink on the house, he leaves your glass empty.

The only people who seem to know your name are bill collectors.

Both your teen-age children claim to be foundlings, because they don't want you to be recognized as their father.

Your credit is so bad that a hardware store won't sell you a piece of rope on time unless you agree to hang yourself with it as soon as you've paid the final instalment.

My Answer

Billy Graham

We buy everything we want for our credit is good. We are living so far beyond our means that I feel I am going out of my mind with worry.

Yours is, both a spiritual and an economic problem, and I am not an economist. My wife handles most of our finances because she agreed years ago to take the burden from me.

However, many families today are burdened with debt and heavy installments — so much so that it is almost developing into a spiritual problem. What makes people live above their income? I think the answer is found in the little word "envy." Our neighbors get a new car, and in order to keep up socially, we feel we must get a new car. Our neighbors get new appliances, and we, knowing our neighbors know how old ours are, order new appliances for ourselves. Our neighbors get a new boat, and we feel that we must have a boat. Since all these things can be bought on credit, they are easy to acquire. This is the crux of our domestic finances today. One economist estimated that four out of every five families have borrowed (or obligated themselves for payments) to the breaking point. Even our government borrows money to keep going.

This will never be stopped until we lose our passion for "things" and start living sensibly. Jesus said, "The abundance of a man's life consisteth not in things which he possesseth." Some of the happiest people I know are those that have the least. Maybe it's because they have no debt.

A Devotion For Today...

They are all bent on their own ends, not on the cause of Christ Jesus. (Philippians 2:21, NEB)

PRAYER: Dear Father, in the confusion of modern living it is often difficult to find our way. Forgive us whenever we assume that the fault is Yours. Help us to reach out to You and accept Your guidance. Amen.

Pay For Kindness

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Why do people give money to reciprocate a kindness? It spoils everything. Yesterday a friend gave me a check for $10 for a small kindness I showed her. (I picked up her mail and brought it to her at the hospital for three weeks.) Abby, I was terribly hurt and didn't want to accept money for something which I did out of the kindness of my heart, so I tore up the check in front of her.

should have either returned the check or destroyed it privately. People give money to reciprocate a kindness because either they are unable to shop for a gift of they don't know what to buy. Your friend wanted to reward you for your kindness. You wanted no reward. Unfortunately, you misunderstood each other.

DEAR ABBY: I need help. My husband is 91, and for the last two years Arnold has had no desire for sex, and I am only 73 and I still need a man.

A Dividing Line

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I lost my baby when I was three months pregnant, but did not do anything to cause it. Is that called an abortion or a miscarriage? I have been told that it was an abortion, but after three months it would be a miscarriage. What is the difference? I believe in God.—D.D.

Both terms mean the loss of the fetus (the unborn baby) and the difference depends on when it happens. The dividing line is not very sharp, but loss of the fetus at from 12 to 16 weeks is usually called an abortion; after that it is called a miscarriage or premature labor. But if you look in some dictionaries, you'll find that sometimes "miscarriage" is given as a synonym for "abortion."

I suspect that what is worrying you is the feeling that an abortion is sinful. Many people believe so; many do not. The significant point for you to remember is that there's a great difference between a spontaneous abortion and a purposely caused one—in the letter case, an abortion because, for one reason or another, the baby was not wanted. Yours was a spontaneous abortion, which can occur from a number of causes. Often when the baby is seriously defective, a spontaneous abortion is nature's way of preventing it from being born. Sometimes something is wrong with the mother's health. And in some cases we cannot determine why it happened.

There are varying reasons for deliberately causing abortion. One is simply that the mother does not want to have a baby.

Other reasons, however, can make the abortion desirable. This is called therapeutic abortion—if there is evidence to show that the baby will be abnormal (one example is the abnormality which so often results when the mother has German measles early in pregnancy). Again, some condition may be such that the mother may or will lose her life unless the abortion is performed. One example of this is an ectopic, or tubal, pregnancy. The fetus starts to grow in one of the Fallopian tubes instead of down in the uterus where there is room enough for it. In such a case, the baby cannot possibly develop anyway—and unless the fetus is removed, the mother will die, too.

After about three months of pregnancy, we start calling loss of the fetus a miscarriage. This will occur if the fetus has died, or because of some serious disorder—diabetes and toxemia being among them. Or the placenta may not be in a suitable location, the placenta being the attachment to the wall of the uterus, through which the fetus receives its nourishment.

If you feel guilty, or someone has said something to make you feel guilty, forget it. A spontaneous abortion is nothing you could prevent.

Low blood sugar—a puzzler until correctly identified—is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual and emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of his booklet, "Help For Hypoglycemia," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Menger Hotel Deal Canceled

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—An insurance firm says its plans to assume ownership of the historic Menger Hotel have been canceled. No reason was given.

The American National Insurance Co. of Galveston originally said it expected to assume ownership by this week, as the result of foreclosure procedures it had initiated.

But a spokesman disclosed the change in plans Wednesday. Arthur Abbott, Menger general manager, said the hotel — which dates back to the Civil War era — "will continue to operate as before with the same management and staff."

He gave no other details.

Lions Club Members Hear About International Meet

ROY HUGHES

Reports from the Lions International Convention in Las Vegas, Nev., were received by the Downtown Lions Club at its Wednesday noon meeting in the Settles.

Roy Hughes, who was presiding in his first meeting as president of the club, described the impressiveness of the presenting flags from 146 nations.

in 1960 with a degree in mechanical engineering. He worked for a year with Westinghouse Electric in Pittsburgh, Pa., before joining the Cosden engineering department in 1961. He has been promoted to project engineering manager for Cosden.

He is married to the former Karen Montgomery, and they have three children, Steve, Kenda and Amanda. They are members of the First United Methodist Church, and he is president of the American Little League, a member of the Texas (and American) Society of Professional Engineers, the State and American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Petroleum Institute.

Other officers are Jim Lemons, John F. Smith and Ernie Boyd, vice presidents; Don Shoemaker, secretary-treasurer; Aubrey Bryans, Liontamer; R. H. (Shorty) Snyder (who was saluted by the club on the occasion of his 79th birthday); Jerry Roach and Paul Petterson, talkwriters; Don Fetters and Jimmy Ray Smith, directors; and Jim Parks and Lynn Hise, holdover directors.

This was echoed by Harlan Huibregtse, another delegate, who described it as an "awesome display." Don Shoemaker, secretary-treasurer, described a clinic on club activities, the various programs, and the appearance of the president of Rotary International on behalf of an effort by major service organizations to establish common goals.

All delegates concurred that the international convention is a super-political convention in the jockeying for the office of third vice president and directors. Hughes said he was impressed with the power of Lions International for good throughout the world.

Upwards of 25,000 Lions registered and an estimated 50,000 were registered for the convention. Las Vegas heat took its toll on marchers in the traditional parade with one hospital being filled with those overcome.

THEFTS

A burglary at the Hamburger King, 803 Lamesa Drive, was reported Wednesday morning. Officers reported that 10 pounds of hamburger meat and four racks of assorted chips were taken. Value of the food was placed at $10.

Police officer Ernie Lee reported Wednesday an attempted burglary at Leonard's Pharmacy, 338 Scurry. The rear window of the pharmacy had been broken but the officer advised that no entry had been gained to the building.

Roy Hughes, 2512 E. 24th, reported Wednesday that a bicycle had been stolen from his home. No value was placed on the bike.

Water Usage Is Nearing A Record

Early July's heat wave of 100 plus degrees is propelling the Colorado River Municipal Water District toward record production.

Tuesday, with people returning from the long Independence Day weekend, saw production jump to 69,200,000 gallons. This was a peak for the year and not far under the 73,117,000 gallons all-time record established one day last summer, according to Paschal Odom, assistant general manager.

Although 58,500,000 gallons of this was from the cities depending on the district, none gave any indication of having peaked.

Of the 10,700,000 gallons going to oil companies, 7,700,000 was in non-potable or salt water from the low flow diversion works on the Colorado River or from wells to supply repressuring water.

Tuesday's output was well ahead of the 65,000,000 gallons peak for 1969, which was before Midland became a customer.

Odom said that if both Lake E. V. Spence and Lake J. B. Thomas had big reserves, the district could satisfy another 12,500,000 gallons a day demand. This would push production to around the 82-million-gallons mark. He said oil companies could use easily another 6,500,000 per day if available, and San Angelo likely would utilize another six million.

Of the total production, 21,200,000 gallons Tuesday came from the new well field near Monahans. Another 27,000,000 came from Lake E. V. Spence and Lake J. B. Thomas, the remainder from the district and the city well fields. Thanks to an unusual flexibility, the entire system is operating smoothly and in such a manner as to conserve supplies, such as relieving pressure on Lake Thomas, said O. H. Ivie, general manager.

Trooper Told To Shell Out $100,000 For 'Cool' Deed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A 54-year-old farm laborer, arrested by a state trooper as "the most humane thing to do" to get him out of the cold, has been awarded $100,000 in a suit contending false arrest, false imprisonment and failure to provide medical care while in jail.

The Court of Appeals, New York State's highest tribunal, upheld a Court of Claims award to J.P. Holt, who never earned more than $1,400 a year on a farm near Brockport in western

New York. The 6-1 decision was announced Tuesday.

According to the court record, Holt was trying to walk to a community eight miles from his home one freezing January morning three years ago. He wanted to fill a prescription for a chest cold. He was dressed in coveralls, without shoes.

Bell Employees Discuss Strike

A meeting of Local 6127 of the Communications Workers of America has been set for 3 p.m. Sunday to discuss the impending July 14 strike deadline.

The latest on bargaining between CWA and the Bell System, assignment of picket duties and other vital information of interest to the members of the local will be considered, said Harold L. McClure, president.

The meeting will be in Barn A of the Ector County Coliseum at 42nd Street and the Andrews Highway in Odessa. The local represents employees of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in Alpine, Crane, Fort Stockton, Goldsmith, Kermit, Marfa, Midland, McCamey, Monahans, Odessa, Presidio, Sanderson and Seminole.

LITTLE CHANGE IN WT Rains Ease Drouth's Grip On South Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The state's weather expert says the drouth has lessened in portions of South Texas but conditions elsewhere in the state show little or no change.

Three to nine inches of rain in the Winter Garden area of South Texas at the end of June caused the drouth to weaken, Texas climatologist Robert Orton said Wednesday.

Using the Palmer drouth severity index, the area has improved from a minus 4.4 on the Palmer scale measured two weeks ago to minus 2.7, Orton said.

This means a change from extreme drouth to one of moderate intensity, he said, noting there may be variations from county to county and farm to farm because of rainfall patterns.

The National Weather Service has predicted a rainfall pattern for July "strikingly similar" to that in June which "would tend to perpetuate or increase the severity of the drouth in all sections outside the areas of heavy rainfall."

The weather service said heavy rainfall is again predicted in Southwest Texas, along the middle and lower Rio Grande and extreme South Texas. Only moderate rainfall is expected elsewhere.

'Bad Eye Rapist' Sentenced

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who told police he had raped 48 women, Wednesday was assessed six life sentences and nine 20-year terms in prison.

Larry Gray, 22, a former cemetery caretaker who claimed severe headaches drove him to the assaults, pleaded guilty to raping 15 women.

The father of two had been sought by police as the so-called "bad eye rapist," a nickname stemming from an early eye injury.

He received the life sentences for raping two sisters-in-law Aug. 7, 1970, in the cemetery where he worked, assaulting two sisters May 21, 1970, in a vacant house and raping two sisters April 24, 1970 in another vacant house.
