

Talk Of Accused Murderess Spices Up Trial At Midland

By LINDA CROSS
MIDLAND — The appearance of Mrs. Judy Dunham, 23, under indictment for murder with malice in connection with the Dec. 2 slaying of Glasscock County rancher Steve Currie, caused a flurry of excitement this morning in the 142nd District Court trial of Orville B. Davis, charged with Currie's murder. Defense attorney Vern Martin at once asked that the jury be excused and began an unsuccessful attempt to block Mrs. Dunham's testimony by questioning her concerning any promises of immunity from prosecution in return for her testimony. Martin questioned her about the motel room where she had been staying prior to her appearance in court this morning, asking who was paying the bill, whether or not law enforcement officers and members of the prosecution visited her there and whether she had seen pictures of Davis. Mrs. Dunham said she had seen pictures of Davis in the newspapers and four studies of Davis were among a pile of photos left in her room. She said she did not know whether members of any law enforcement agency were in the room when she looked at the pictures.

Judge R. W. Caton, 118th District Court, who is presiding over the trial, overruled a request by Martin for time to present motions to limit, restrict or eliminate her testimony based on the manner in which the pictures of Davis were presented.

The jury was returned to the courtroom but quickly dismissed for lunch when Martin objected to District Attorney Wayne Burns' first question.

Burns asked Mrs. Dunham which of four men she had first become acquainted with, naming Floyd Palmer, Tommy Tisdale, Orville (Pete) Davis and Whitmer Jean Ballard. All four are charged in Currie's death.

Judge Caton sustained an objection by Martin to the interjection of "Pete" into Davis' name. Burns said later testimony would reveal that Mrs. Dunham first became acquainted with Davis by the name of "Pete."

Martin questioned Mrs. Dunham on the circumstances concerning her release on bond. She is the only one charged in the death who has been released, although Palmer is still at large.

Mrs. Dunham said she was released March 25 or 26 after her attorney, George Thomas of Big Spring, agreed to be her bondsman.

Other testimony this morning was by Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders who said he stopped Mrs. Dunham approximately two miles west of Garden City the night of Currie's death as she was driving toward Midland.

Saunders said she was driving a Cadillac, a license check of which showed it to be registered to Tyrone Wilson of Ector County. The car is alleged to be the one which made tire tracks near the landing strip on the Currie ranch. Pictures of those tire tracks were introduced into evidence earlier this week.

TUESDAY TESTIMONY
Statements Tuesday from a St. Lawrence farmer placed Davis three miles outside of Garden City early on the morning after Steve Currie was slain.

Early on Dec. 3 while hauling a stock trailer from St. Lawrence to Big Spring, Carlos Percy Chandler said he offered a man he later learned was Davis a ride into Big Spring. Chandler said the man was standing beside the road, but did not flag him down or signal for a ride.

Chandler added that the man alleged to be Davis introduced himself and told him that he had a brother living in the Settles Hotel in Big Spring. Chandler said he let the man out in the block near the First National Bank of Big Spring, and the man said he was going to walk over to the hotel.

Approximately two weeks later, Chandler said, Glasscock County Sheriff Royce Pruitt asked him to identify the man from a group of photographs.

JURY EXCUSED
Defense attorney Vern Martin questioned Chandler closely, after asking that the jury leave the courtroom, on the manner in which Sheriff Pruitt presented the pictures, wanting to know if any particular picture was singled out by a word or gesture from the sheriff, and objected to Chandler's testimony or identification of the witness on the grounds of the sequence in which the photos were presented, and that the appearance of suspects in the other pictures was very different than that of the defendant or the rider described by Chandler.

Despite Martin's objections, Chandler's testimony was allowed to stand and the jury brought back in to hear his identification of the defendant.

James Davis, brother to the defendant was called to the stand and questioned by 118th District Attorney Wayne Burns.

EFFICIENCY REPORT TRL Study Presentation Due Oct. 19

A long-awaited study on government efficiency in Big Spring and Howard County made by the Texas Research League will be presented to citizens on Oct. 19 at a 7:30 p.m. meeting in the old Couden Club ballroom, according to James McGrew, executive director of the TRL.

The report, which has been almost a year in the making, was instituted by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce and is aimed at pointing out problem areas in the various taxing agencies in Big Spring and Howard County and making recommendations for solving them. Only one other similar study has been made in Texas by the non-profit, non-political Texas Research League. It was made in El Paso and resulted in several Texas Constitution amendment bills in the 1971 Legislature. None of the bills became law, however.

The El Paso study revealed waste in duplication of services offered by various government agencies and the bills introduced into the Legislature were aimed at changing the Texas Constitution to allow for consolidation of offices and services prohibited by the present Constitution.

Mayor Arnold Marshall and County Judge A. G. Mitchell have appointed committees of eight citizens each to receive the report, but Gene McElroy, Chamber of Commerce vice president under whose council the TRL report was made and paid for, indicated Wednesday that the meeting will be open to the public.

"I think that there will be several things in the report all citizens will be interested in," McElroy said. "I've heard rumors of at least three areas of discussion, including our position as a city in comparison with other Texas towns on the individual's tax bill. I don't think we're going to fare too well in that respect."

"There are other areas that the report is said to point out. One is our increasing, rather than decreasing, dependence on federal and state payrolls and other governmental monies in our economic picture," McElroy added. "Also, we've heard that the report points out the high cost of duplication of school services, taxing offices, jails, law enforcement agencies and many other costly areas."

Austin Tower Dive Kills Girl

AUSTIN (AP) — An unidentified girl jumped or fell from the University of Texas Administration Building this morning, the school's news and information office reported.

The girl reportedly was pronounced dead at the scene. It was not learned immediately from what point on the 307-foot tower the fall began.

"She was about 5-foot-8, bare-foot and wore pants — bluejeans, I think," a spokesman said. "We don't know if she was a student."

The fall was on the northeast corner of the building, the same corner where William R. Dunlap fell to his death from the observation deck last May 4.

MIDLANDERS NIX CIVIC CENTER

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Midland County voters turned down Tuesday a $9.85 million bond proposal that would have financed construction of a downtown civic center.

The official results of the election were 4,869 for and 5,885 against. The total vote represents a record for Midland County bond elections.

Election observers cited stiff opposition to the downtown site and controversy concerning the amount of the tax increase to retire the bonds as possible reasons for the proposals failure.

It was the first election in the county in which 18 to 20-year-old vote was recorded.

INCLUDING FOUR BANK EXAMINERS Eight Sharpstown Indictments

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal grand jury indicted eight men, including four bank examiners, today on charges connected with the government investigation of the banking-insurance-real estate empire of Frank W. Sharp.

Two of the examiners were federal employees and the other two were state workers. Among those indicted was Ted Bristol, a former examiner for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. He is accused of accepting a $10,000 loan from Sharp in 1969.

The Justice Department's top criminal lawyer, Asst. Atty. Gen. Will R. Wilson, once Sharp's attorney, has acknowledged purchasing stock for Bristol in an insurance company at Sharp's request. Wilson, who says he has disqualified himself from any phase of the investigation of Sharp's affairs, has denied any wrongdoing.

The accusations against the eight, contained in four separate indictments, charge misapplication of funds of the Sharpstown State Bank, falsification of bank records and illegal loans of nearly $105,000 to bank examiners.

In addition to Bristol, the indictments named John T. Knight, an assistant FDIC examiner; Texas state bank examiners John B. Hooper and Welton Adler; former Sharpstown bank officials Douglas N. Lane, Herman Nelms and Carl Lundquist; and Houston real estate investor Charles L. Henke.

INSINUATIONS
The Sharpstown bank was owned by Sharp, who pleaded guilty this summer to two violations of security and banking laws. He was fined, placed on probation and granted immunity from further prosecution in return for his testimony before the Houston grand jury.

The indictment says the loan to Bristol was made Feb. 28, 1968, through the Oak Forest Investment Corp., a firm controlled by Sharp.

In a statement made last month to counter what he termed "insinuations that I am or have been involved in illegal activities," Wilson acknowledged arranging for purchase of stock for Bristol during February, 1968.

Federal Judge Woodrow Seals issued a bench warrant for all eight men and granted a $5,000 personal recognizance bond in each case.

The indictments are an outgrowth of a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of loans made by Sharp, who controlled the bank, to key state government figures.

QUICK PROFITS
These figures, including Gov. Preston Smith and Texas House Speaker Gus Mutscher, used the loans to buy stock in Sharp's National Bankers Life Insurance Co. They made large, quick profits—$62,500 in the case of the governor.

Sharp wanted banking legislation approved. The legislature passed the bills but Gov. Smith vetoed them. Mutscher and two of his associates were indicted last Thursday by a county grand jury on charges of bribery.

Wilson said he purchased 1,000 shares of stock in the National Bankers Life Insurance Co. for Teddy Joe Bristol and June Bristol at Sharp's request. He said Sharp paid him for the stock.

PICKETING — Relatives of American prisoners of war and those missing in action in Southeast Asia, picketed Tuesday in front of the White House. Later, President Nixon made a surprise visit to a banquet of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia and told them he was pushing to obtain the prisoners' release.

Nixon Expects To Bring U.S. Prisoners Of War Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just hours after a few relatives of American prisoners of war picketed the White House, President Nixon paid a surprise visit to their convention and said he expects to bring the men home.

The President's appearance at a Tuesday night banquet of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia broke the administration's relative quiet on the subject with promises from Nixon and his secretary of defense for revived activity.

Nixon described the POW-MIA problem "as being one that has presidential priority" and said his goal is "obtaining the release of all our prisoners of war and missing in action, wherever they may be in Southeast Asia."

Beginning at noon Tuesday some dissident members of the league had picketed the White House with placards asking Nixon to set a date for withdrawal from Vietnam to win release of POWs.

The convention, in an afternoon business session, adopted several resolutions including some expressing distress with what delegates viewed as a lack of progress and asking a speedy end to the war.

But the convention has solidly stated off efforts by some members to enter political areas and endorse specific actions such as a withdrawal date.

COUNTY GUARANTEES PAYMENT FOR CALLS

Commission Okays Ambulance Contract

By STEVE HULTMAN
Howard County will have ambulance service for at least one more year, according to an agreement reached Tuesday by the county commission and L. A. Hiltbrunner, owner of Alert Ambulance Service.

A contract to be drawn up today includes a guarantee of payment for all emergency runs made by Hiltbrunner, plus $1 per mile one way for each mile further than five miles from Big Spring.

The present rate is $25 inside of Big Spring, $30 within five miles of Big Spring, and $30 plus $1 per mile one way past the five mile limit.

The county will be responsible for paying Hiltbrunner $30 plus $2 per mile for all runs on which he can not collect his fee. This includes emergency runs he is called on to make where he fails to pick up anyone. They would pay only $1 per mile on runs he collected his fee on.

The 4:30 p.m. Tuesday meeting was called after a stormy Monday session brought a 30-day extension to Howard County, but no agreement on the cost of ambulance service to the county.

County Judge A. G. Mitchell opened the afternoon emergency session by asking Hiltbrunner if he had thought this thing over. "I know what it costs me to operate and this is where I start," said Hiltbrunner.

"The county can't subsidize you," said Mitchell. "We can only pay so much per run."

"According to the law," said Hiltbrunner, "any county with less than 50,000 population will be responsible for ambulance service. Scurry and Dawson counties both subsidize ambulance service."

"They have some kind of contract paying by call," said Mitchell. "Under law, we can't give money to private firms or clubs. But we could do so on a per call basis of those not collected."

"There are just not enough county calls to pay for the equipment and manpower," Hiltbrunner said.

"You act like the county is all you deal with," said Simon Terrazas, county commissioner. "With what you want from us and the fees you would collect you would get about $14,000 per year in the county. You would not get more than 140 calls, so that would be $100 per call. You are still on stand-by for the city even if you don't make county runs."

"I do stand by for city calls, but they cost me less," said Hiltbrunner.

"If we don't agree, will you stop county calls?" said Bill Bennett, county commissioner.

"If it's an accident or an emergency, I won't go," said Hiltbrunner.

"What if you failed to pick up someone in the county and they died?" said Mitchell.

"I am independent, I am not bound to make emergency calls," said Hiltbrunner.

"I will still take care of the old people, the sick people and the people on Medicare, but I will not make emergency runs to wrecks and shootings and cuttings. Sometimes I don't pick up anyone, and sometimes I have to replace equipment, and I don't get paid."

"I realize it costs a lot to operate," said Bennett, "but I can't visualize that it would cost $900 per month for the emergencies."

Eight-County East Texas Poll Shows Briscoe Leads

LONGVIEW, Tex., (AP) — Uvalde rancher-banker Dolph Briscoe, expected to announce today whether he will run for the governor's chair, leads three other possible contenders in an eight-county poll taken in East Texas.

The questionnaire, circulated by V. A. Clements and tabulated by the Longview News-Journal, asks for preferences for governor or from among Briscoe, Gov. Preston Smith, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and former U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

The poll was conducted in Bowie, Cass, Greg, Harrison, Henderson, Panola, Rusk and Shelby counties.

The questionnaire asked for choices from among all of the potential candidates named and, in a second question, asked for a choice between Barnes and Briscoe.

representative, discussed the activities that will be presented at Webb Friday and urged the board to allow as much student participation as possible.

The board agreed to allow the plan suggested by John Smith, principal of the high school, that allows all juniors and seniors to sign up for a trip to Webb.

The students will leave on school buses Friday at 10 a.m. for Webb and return at about 2 p.m., following the show by the Air Force Thunderbirds at 1 p.m. No students will be required to attend the show, and the show will count as a supervised field trip for purposes of minimum daily attendance.

The board asked for the status of the student report on a possible dress code and hair code. Smith said a committee of students, administrators, teachers and parents was being formed to work on the codes.

"I thought my motion asked for the student council to do this, not the students and a lot of other people," said Ralph McLaughlin.

"It was my understanding that these people were to be included," said Roy Watkins, board president.

"I don't care now so much as to who does make the recommendation," said McLaughlin. "I just think we should have had a recommended dress code by this meeting."

Supt. S. M. Anderson said the committee will present recommendations to the board at the next regular meeting of the board.

The board postponed action on the descriptions of the duties and responsibilities of school personnel until the next meeting because two board members were absent. The job descriptions are required by Senate Bill 74 in order to protect school administrators and officials from unwarranted law suits.

MURDER TRIAL

CAR REPAIR

James Davis said his brother told him that he had been summoned from Midland to Garden City to repair a car and that when he was done, the car owner had refused to take him back to Midland. The defendant told him that he had caught a ride into Big Spring.

Under questioning from Burns, James Davis testified that the clothes, earlier said by Chandler to have been a dark pair of coveralls, worn by the defendant, Davis were not greasy as though he had been doing automobile repairs.

Martin asked him if he recalled his brother washing up while in the room, and James Davis replied that he did not.

James Davis said that shortly after his brother's arrival at the hotel, he took him to Midland where his brother directed him to a house in a residential area off of Wall Street. He added that he let his brother out of the car and did not accompany him inside.

Riley Jackson, of 4711 Thompson, Midland, testified that he was living in a house at 1408 Whittaker when Davis arrived at his home early on Dec. 3.

'JEAN'S FRIEND'

Jackson said that it was the first time he had seen the man who identified himself as a "friend of Jean's." "Jean," according to Jackson is Whitmer Jean Ballard, 45, also charged in connection with Currie's death.

Jackson said that he took Davis to Odessa to a house in the 1900 block of East Twelfth. Jackson testified that Davis had come back to his Midland home one month later and given him a telephone number by which he could reach Ballard. Jackson added that Davis told him Ballard was in California and was using another name which, after prompting from Burns, he said was John Mounce.

"He said he would not be back because he did not want to cause trouble for me or my family. He said that the Texas Rangers would be by to see me," said Jackson when asked if Davis had said anything about being in trouble.

Martin asked Jackson if he was sure Davis was the same man as the one who had come to his home on Dec. 3, and Jackson replied that he was sure that he was.

Sheriff Pruitt was questioned earlier Tuesday and was not excused until 3 p.m. He had been the principal witness in the two days of trial proceedings.

SAME TIME

Pruitt testified that Steve Currie and his assailant must have fired their weapons at approximately the same time, but Currie's bullet missed and went through the front door of his home. According to testimony, Currie is alleged to have been the one fired at by his assailant. Sheriff Pruitt identified it as the same gun that was later uncovered under a rock along with other items on the Currie property.

Pruitt presented pictures used to establish the path of Currie's bullet, and said that in his opinion, the intruder was standing four to five feet away from Currie when both men fired.

According to Pruitt, the wound in Currie's neck had contained 18 shot pellets, proving that the assailant had not been standing far enough away for the shot from a saved-off shotgun to scatter before striking the slain man.

'DEFEND HOME'

Special prosecutor Gil Jones asked Pruitt if Currie was likely to attack anyone unprovoked, and Pruitt replied that Currie was a respected and law-abiding man, but was the type of man who would "defend his wife and home against an intruder."

"Could he have missed from a distance of four to five feet," asked Jones.

"No, sir," said Pruitt. "Who fired first in your opinion? Describe what you think happened," Jones told Pruitt.

Martin objected, saying that Pruitt was not qualified to give such an opinion, and that such evidence would be hearsay testimony.

SHOT PELLETS

Bill Myers, funeral director with Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home in Big Spring, testified concerning the shot pellets he removed from Currie's body and returned to Sheriff Pruitt.

Myers said he removed 17 pellets from the wound in Currie's neck and one pellet from his left shoulder.

According to Myers, the shot had severed Currie's left common carotid and the left jugular vein.

When Masburn asked Myers, if based on his experience, he would say that the shot was the cause of death, Myers replied: "Anyone would have been able to determine it as the cause of death."

URGED TO TAKE HIS TIME House Speaker Mutscher Misses Decision Target

AUSTIN (AP) — House Speaker Gus Mutscher's office said today he still was not ready to declare what he will do with his powerful position in light of the bribery indictment against him. Mutscher last week set today as his target for issuing his statement.

WINS DELAY

"It looks like he may miss his target," said speaker's aide Rush McGinty, who was indicted with Mutscher on a charge of conspiracy to accept a bribe. Dist. Atty. Bob Smith said Mutscher will be arraigned Oct. 7 instead of Thursday as originally planned.

Weed-Cutting Policy To Be Strictly Followed

A policy to be strictly followed in regard to weeded lots around the city, was presented to the city commission in regular session by Harry Nagel, city manager, in a report Tuesday night.

Both Nagel and Commissioner Eddie Aciri cited "publicity" given the overgrown lots, apparently referring to a story accompanied by several pictures of such areas in the Sept. 26 edition of The Herald.

Nagel told the commission that the city will try to solve the problem of unsightly lots by assessing the property owners citations after proper notice is given.

As stated in the city ordinance regulating trashy and weeded lots, the procedure of notification will be in two parts. A letter will be sent to the owner notifying him of the unsightly condition of his lot, and the owner will be given 10 days to take action toward clearing the lot.

"If he fails to take action, the city will then issue a citation to the owner and one will be issued every day until the lot is cleared, or the land owner comes into corporation court to tell the municipal judge his story," said Nagel.

Also the new city manager, acting officially in his first city commission meeting, explained that a list of mowing contractors would be added to the first letter.

In other parts of the report a new form of keeping the commission up to date on the current workings of the city government, which Nagel derived, the city manager asked permission to form a new position in the city, and was given authorization to fill that position.

James Cambell, 25, a former employe of Nagel's in Sulphur Springs, will be taking the position of data processing manager in the city's computer department. Nagel said that the new employe will be in the city possibly by Monday.

"I feel that the man, within six months time, will have the computer operating at its fullest capacity," Nagel commented.

"We've definitely need someone to get the computer running right, because it is costing us too much in its present state," said Jack Watkins, commissioner.

Nagel explained that the new man would also take on some of the financial director responsibilities, for which he is qualified, and once that the computer is working at capacity, Campbell will fill the new position of programs director.

Nagel also told the commission in the report that the city will go into a continuing appropriation plan, in place of a formal budget, for the beginning of the fiscal year 1971-72, beginning Oct. 1.

"Within 60 days or less after that time, and with the help of the new data processing manager, the computer will be able to produce a formal budget for the city," Nagel assured.

Surprise Visit

President Nixon's historic meeting with Emperor Hirohito of Japan in Anchorage, Alaska, was dramatic and surprising, and it also was well timed.

This offered a logical opportunity for exchanging respects between the heads of two great states, for the emperor and empress were embarking upon tour which would take them to the other side of the globe.

Mr. Nixon may have had other things in mind, including some balancing act to offset some of the noises coming out of Red China, where the President is scheduled to go by next spring.

It could be that the visit was shrewdly timed to command some attention precisely at the moment when Leonid Brezhnev, Russian Communist party chief, was on his excursion into the Slavic and Balkan states, including a surface manifestation of rapprochement with Premier Tito in Yugoslavia.

And there is the possibility, as his potential political opponents so readily point out, that Mr. Nixon is not forgetful of 1972 being a presidential election year. This sort of accord makes good ammunition.

Because this was a first, it was historic, but its immediate impact may not be as great as even Mr. Nixon's remarks before the Economic Council in Detroit over the weekend.

On The Record

When the U.S. House of Representatives gave way to pressure to reform their rules at the start of this year, the members voted to record votes during the amendment process of legislation. Prior to this year, only final-passage roll call votes were recorded.

The new procedure exposes, quite properly, the stands the members take during debate and amendments. An old and abused camouflage has been pinpointed. That is the practice of a congressman, in effect, being on both sides of a controversial issue. In the amendment process, he will vote to weaken or cripple a bill — where his vote was unrecorded — then vote for the bill on final passage — when his vote is recorded — and claim he supported the legislation when, in fact, he helped to make it ineffective. Recorded teller votes unmask that kind of doubledealing.

You Know . . .

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

What a blessing it is that in this confused and indefinite age that our language has come up with a gem of communication. It is that delightful phrase, "you know," which, when properly interspersed with speech, serves as a conjunctive passage, a verbal space bar, a potion of casualness, an a velvety fog to shroud foggy rhetoric.

PERHAPS a few examples will illustrate: It is the after-game interview, and the announcer is asking Mikei Zabolovich about a sparkling play which seemed to be the turning point of the game.

Zabolovich — "Well, it was this way, you know, I saw this other guy take a stutter step, and zing! It went in my head, you know, that he's up to something and he's probably going the other way instead. So I cut like this, you know, and when I bumped him real good, like you know, and saw the ball coming, 'Cheez,' I said to myself, 'grab that ball,' and I did, and I took off, you know like that. All of a sudden there was the end zone, and it all happened so quick, I don't know hardly how it happened, you know."

AND NOW that we know about that bit of gridiron glory, let us turn to J. Poitevant Smythe, chairman of the committee:

Smythe — "You know, when they asked me to serve in this spot, I thought 'golly, have they lost their marbles,' and you know, maybe sure enough they have. But you know, somebody has to be willing to take hold, because if they don't, then nothing gets held, holded, held, you know, and when it comes to functioning, it's really everyone's responsibility to respond. You know why? Because if no body responds then it doesn't get responded to, and you know how it works. You know, I kinda got lost on that, you know."

AND THERE'S that peerless prince of the potent phrase, Pheneas P. Phogbottom, that positive pronouncer upon any principle. Now, Senator, how do you feel about that?

Phogbottom — "I'm glad you asked me about that. You know, I'd like to say this, but let me first say that when this first came up, I thought, 'you know, more of us ought to give some thought to that.' Well, that more or less cleared the air, and you know, my mind went back to the campaign of 1966 when there was a lot to say about it, and everyone got up on the air. I could never ascertain, you know, why this should get us so worked up. You know, I said 'it's time somebody spoke out clearly on this issue,' and you know, there's where I stand today."

PERHAPS these silvery syllables flow most smoothly from the tongue of the hippie.

Hippie — "Well, man, you know how it is, you know what, and man it was great standing there and rapping, and all that, you know, and watching the fuzz wonder what was cooking, you know, and all the time we were only doing our thing, you know. So we told them like it is, you know, and well, you know what I mean, man."

Yes, indeed, so please don't run that by again.

One man referendum in South Vietnam Oct. 3 elections . . . Instead of open democratic choice . . . could well serve as excuse for the United States to withdraw troops . . . much faster than scheduled. Provided of course . . . the situation does not deteriorate after election . . . before we can get around to it.

SECRETARY OF Treasury Connally . . . in case there was ever any doubt . . . pretty much of a number one type of individual. Only question . . . seems to be who would be his vice presidential running mate . . . in the event . . . of the first honest-to-goodness draft in years.

Secretary of Defense Laird . . . once prominent and at the right hand of everything in the early Nixon administration . . . now a lonely voice in the Washington wilderness . . . shouting for continued defense appropriations . . . in the face of strong winds blowing the other way.

NO QUESTION . . . but that the number one concern of this nation at the moment . . . is the economy . . . at home and abroad. To show you how fast things change . . . three out of four people I asked . . . could not tell me the name of the Secretary of Interior . . . the man much involved in the business of pollution.

In fact, economic considerations have begun to dominate much of the decision making around the world. Clear lines of geographical areas . . . bonded together by common economic needs are beginning to emerge . . . overwhelming historic national boundaries. It's too much to hope for . . . but maybe . . . just maybe . . . we can fight our battles of the future . . . with paper currencies . . . and economic sanctions . . . instead of bombs and bullets.

TECHNICALLY speaking . . .

nothing gives you better 20-20 hindsight . . . than spending an evening or two with the charts. They can be beneficial in telling you where you are right now. It was to this end . . . that I directed my study.

FIRST . . . that rather large number of stocks that bounced up from the bottom of the 1970 bear market . . . leading the forefront of the recovery . . . as easy money supplanted tight money and business began to recover. In the vast majority of cases . . . those leading issues . . . topped out in April and May of this year . . . came close to giving broad and numerous sell signals . . . but the effect of President Nixon's announcement of a new economic game plan . . . mid August . . . interrupted the beginning down trends with a substantial rally. It's significant to note . . . the rally in most cases lost steam in the individual issues . . . they turned neutral . . . or sideways in price action . . . as did the market as a whole.

IN TECHNICAL . . . or chartist language . . . when you break a moving uptrend line . . . the word is . . . at best sideways . . . at worst . . . down. That's our position as this goes to press . . . we're getting some of the down. For what it is worth . . . technically speaking . . . there is some support for the Dow Jones Industrial Averages . . . around the 880 level . . . and again around 840 to 860. But as last week's column indicated . . . regardless of the level . . . I'd love to see . . . a strong up market on Monday . . . a bunch of Mondays . . . all in a row.

Insecurity In America

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The trouble with you, the financial manager of your household, is that you want a better standard of living and security at the same time.

Quite often they engage you in a tug-of-war. You know that you have the down payment for a big car. But should you really so indulge yourself?

Think back a few years ago when things were lean. You told yourself that as soon as you got a bundle of cash together you were going to splurge. And now you have the bundle.

So what do you do? You deny yourself. Your affluence is not easy to accept. You feel insecure. You decide against the big car and instead you trade down to a compact. And you might even increase your insurance.

But the battle between comfort and security isn't over that easily. You install an air-conditioner. This is a generalization of what has been occurring in thousands of households. It isn't fiction. Both compacts and automobile air-conditioning are among the hottest consumer items in years.

To George Katona, the dean of behavioral economists, this battle is one of the outstanding characteristics of modern life.

The pervasiveness of this feeling permits Katona, one of the founders of the famous Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan, to forecast a continuation of a high savings rate well into the 1970s. Currently the rate is about 8.4 per cent of take-home pay, the highest in 25 years and a figure that most economists believe cannot be maintained for long. A variety of factors, they say, will bring it down to "normal," or somewhere between 4.5 per cent and 6.5 per cent.

But, says Katona, "The surge in the savings rate is not just because of the recession. It will remain because of general insecurity. It will not stay at 8.4 per cent but it will be higher in the 1970s than 10 years before."

"In relation to our grandfathers and to foreigners we are rich," Katona explains. "But we are not rich in our own view. Even those making $20,000 to $25,000 don't feel rich. They budget carefully. They must always compromise."

And compromise, you will remember, is what you used to do when you were poor and swore that you wouldn't do when you became richer. But insecurity, it seems, is the shadow of riches.

That shadow is not associated solely with financial matters either, Katona reminds, but includes distress about the whole range of social problems—poverty, pollution, war, racism and so on. Feelings about the dollar and about one's fellow man cannot be divorced in studying consumer attitudes, he argues. The study is of a whole rather than fragments.

And while confessing that there is a misconception also about his own area of expertise—it is not a science, he says, but an art with scientific ingredients—he hazards this forecast for the immediate future:

Less inflation; a slow reduction of unemployment, "but no disappearance of it;" and insecurity.

Greedy Baseball

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina is one of my favorite politicians, but I am slightly underwhelmed by his threat, or hint, to look into the possibility that professional baseball may operate in violation of the antitrust laws.

ERVIN, bless his heart, has come late to indignation. He took his dim view of the baseball establishment only after the American League, in its unremitting pursuit of the fast buck, voted to move the Washington Senators to a bedroom between Dallas and Ft. Worth, and thus bail out Owner Bob Short from the swamp of his own mistakes.

So what else is new, Senator? Baseball, the Great American Trust, has been engaged in such shenanigans for 10, these many years. The name of the game is profit, in nice, juicy, seven figures.

TO MAKE its vulgar wanderings possible, baseball for a century has employed a system of peonage that makes the fiefdoms of the Dark Ages appear beneficent by comparison. A high school or college or sandlot player may not sign with the major league club of his choice. He is "drafted" by baseball's dictatorship and he signs with the club that has claimed his body, or gets a job selling shoes.

Moreover, once signed, the player becomes the club's property for life. He may not switch to another club except through a "trade."

TO MAKE THINGS worse, at least for the fans, a new villain has emerged from the corporate woodwork. It is commercial television, which now to all extents and purposes dictates the policies of both baseball and professional football.

Bob Short, that coarse and foul-mouthed man, secretly arranged to move to Texas because the lords of TV decided that Washington was an inadequate market for its mouth washes. Short was getting a mere $250,000 a year in TV and radio fees. TV is where the money is.

AND THESE awesome sports stadia erected with taxpayers' money across the country are only incidentally intended for the ticket-buying spectator. Whether he knows it or not, the taxpayer is subsidizing mammoth outdoor studios for the TV colossus, which pays no rent for these facilities, while arrogantly decreeing that there be innumerable football time-outs called to accommodate its infinite commercials.

MEANWHILE, the club owners increase their share of the loot by seizing the publicly-owned air waves in their territory to impose a blackout on home games, thus assuring the sale of as many tickets as possible. Any attempt to force these hoggish lawbreakers to reform almost surely will founder upon the argument that it is un-American and shamefully lacking in 110 per cent red-bloodedness to meddle with their off-color conspiracies.

Peking And The U.N.

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It's hard to tell from reading the news dispatches about the proposed admission of Red China to the United Nations what is really to be gained by the world and why the Peking government appears to be reluctant to enter the international organization unless the Nationalist Government of Taiwan is expelled.

NATURALLY, Communist China also wants the seat in the Security Council which is held by the Nationalists, and the assumption has been that this is a matter of pride. But even if Peking is given a place in the Security Council, there is still some question as to why the government of mainland China is so adamant in its opposition to permitting the Taiwan government to remain as a member of the U.N. and might itself flatly refuse to join the U.N. unless the Nationalists are expelled.

The Peking government, if it agrees to become a member, would be assuming an obligation that would require recognition of the basic purposes of the United Nations. Some of these, as set forth in the organization's charter, are as follows:

"TO MAINTAIN international peace and security, and to that end: To take effective collective measures for the prevention and removal of threats to the peace, and for the suppression of acts of aggression or other breaches of the peace, and to bring about by peaceful means, and in conformity with the principles of justice and international law, adjustment or settlement of international disputes or situations which might lead to a breach of the peace;

"TO DEVELOP friendly relations among nations based on respect for the principle of equal rights and self-determination of peoples, and to take other appropriate measures to strengthen universal peace."

The charter further provides that "all members shall refrain in their international relations from the threat or use of force against the territorial integrity or political independence of any state." To fulfill this pledge, Red China would have to stop supporting North Vietnam in its aggression against South Vietnam.

THE UNITED NATIONS should long ago have investigated the outside aid which made possible the invasion of South Vietnam by the North Vietnamese. The Soviet Union, too, has been spending billions of dollars in furnishing military supplies and weapons to the Hanoi government. This is a violation of U.N. principles, but the U.N. has done nothing about it. Would the U.N. also ignore what Red China does and let it, for example, start a war to seize Taiwan?

IT IS SURPRISING that in the talk about admitting the government of mainland China very little attention has been given to the obligations which Peking must assume as a member of the U.N. Red China has been and still is engaged in supporting a war of aggression in Indo China. It would seem logical for the U.N. to require some pledge from Peking assuring complete disassociation from any further military assistance to North Vietnam. The U.N. also should demand an open espousal by the Peking government of the principles of the charter before Red China is admitted to membership and particularly before it is given a seat in the Security Council.

Trouble Not Hard To Find

By DONALD FORBES
Associated Press Writer
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — In a tinder box of sectarian hatred like Belfast, a riot erupts from a trivial spark. A schoolboy's stone glancing off a police prowl car or a badly aimed gelignite bomb bursting harmlessly near a British army patrol swiftly ignites street-fighting passions.

Northern Ireland's Protestant-based government on Aug. 9 ordered the internment without trial of terrorist suspects. Spokesmen for the Roman Catholic minority contend this is aimed exclusively at them. In any event, riots have been a daily affair according to the police and army.

An outbreak can be a brief skirmish or an ugly clash stretching over several hours and causing thousands of dollars in damage. On any day in Belfast, trouble is not hard to find.

Take the Catholic New Lodge area at 3:10 one afternoon.

A British army patrol, each trooper hefting a high-velocity rifle that can kill at 600 yards, tramps past a block of new apartments. A sudden burst of shots and a nail bomb are aimed at the soldiers.

Within minutes, surrounding streets are full of kids, and a few adults, pelting the soldiers as they try to locate sniper nests.

A volley of rubber bullets—big enough to inflict a nasty bruise but not lethal—disperses the children. Order is restored within minutes and while the more daring youngsters pick through the debris and broken glass from shattered windows, for rubber bullets—prized souvenirs—an army snatch squad collars two Catholic youths they suspect have thrown the nail bomb. They submit to a search with a "snifter," an army device which can detect traces of ge-lignite on a man's hands or in the lining of his pockets.

Both are "clean." The patrol commander orders their release. The youths walk off, thanking the army for its courtesy. The lieutenant thanks them for their cooperation.

It's all over in 15 minutes. In Protestant Ardilea, which borders the bottom of the Roman Catholic Ardoyne, troops and men of the Royal Ulster Constabulary are trying to contain a more inflammatory situation.

Children leaving a Protestant primary school have been stoned by Catholic youngsters and are retaliating. Adults join in.

While the stones fly, terrorists lob three gelignite bombs into the school, blowing out front windows and shattering classrooms. A textile factory is set alight and it takes armored cars and squads of constabulary to separate the combatants.

My Answer

What if Jesus isn't who he claims to be? What if he were just a good man in history and Christian and Hebrew traditions?

W.E. Each of us must answer the question: "What think ye of Christ?" There is convincing proof that Jesus lived. Josephus, the Hebrew historian speaks graphically of Him. We have the authentic ancient manuscripts which make up the canon of Scripture, which must be taken seriously, even by scrutinizing scholars. But these are extraneous evidences, and mean little to us without that essential element in Christianity, faith.

There is a "credibility gap" which can only be bridged by faith. The heart knows answers that the mind can never grasp. In the matter of human affection there are "unknowns" present in every romantic situation. Can a young man prove that the girl of his dreams will make a good wife and mother? Not His willingness to take her for better or for worse, is not based upon facts, but upon feeling in the heart, in other words, upon faith. He takes her, and his faith becomes sight, and a happy marriage ensues.

Just so in our faith in Christ. The evidences are there, but they are not conclusive, in themselves. But, when we accept Him as Lord and Savior, no person has ever been disappointed. The Bible says, "The just shall live by faith."

A Devotion For Today . . .

If you are eager to give, God will accept your gift on the basis of what you have to give, not on what you don't have. —II Corinthians 8:12 (TEV)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we are thankful for the privilege of serving Thee. Help us to be more willing to serve in humble ways and to make better use of any talents we possess. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

OFFICIAL TO BE FREED TODAY?

$240,000 Ransom Paid

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The family of Mexico's federal aviation director, who was kidnaped two days ago, waited anxiously for his release today after paying a $240,000 cash ransom.

Police forces, meanwhile, poised for the moment of his release to start what will probably become one of this country's largest manhunts in years.

The release of Julio Hirschfeld Almada, 52, was expected by midmorning after his wealthy father-in-law said he made contact with the kidnapers and delivered the ransom money.

TERRORISTS?

Police vigilance relaxed at orders of the president Tuesday in order to allow the kidnapers to make contact with the family for the exchange. But vigilance was expected to return tenfold as soon as Hirschfeld was released.

There has been no indication the kidnapers might be leftist urban terrorists active recently in Mexico, but it was widely believed in private and government circles that this was the case.

A socialist congressman blamed the kidnaping on the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and call for the liquidation of all who try to frustrate the policies of President Luis Echeverria.

PROMISE

Aaron Saenz, father-in-law of the millionaire businessman serving in his first government post, told newsmen shortly before midnight Monday that contact had been made by telephone and the ransom delivered. He refused to divulge details of the contact or of the ransom delivery.

But he did say the kidnapers promised to release Hirschfeld by the time the 48-hour deadline for the ransom ended at 10 a.m.

Saenz did not say where or how the ransom was delivered but mentioned that the family had made a new contact with the kidnapers Tuesday.

Hirschfeld's son, Julio Jr., said earlier that the kidnapers, believed to be members of an urban terrorist group, had demanded the money in small bills and it was ready for delivery.

The millionaire industrialist, 52, was seized by four persons armed with submachineguns as he left home Monday morning.

Police and government officials said Hirschfeld's life was not threatened.

Hirschfeld was forced from his chauffeur-driven car and into a stolen taxi near his home but he was not harmed, said the chauffeur, Marcos Carrillo.

A note found in the Hirschfeld car demanded the ransom, and half an hour after the kidnaping the family received a telephone call from the abductors.

Police relaxed their search for Hirschfeld to give both sides greater freedom Tuesday to effect the exchange.

President Luis Echeverria and other officials have stated repeatedly that Hirschfeld's safety is the most important consideration.

Although government officials said there was no proof that the kidnaping was politically motivated, it is believed that urban terrorists were responsible.

In March, police arrested 20 members of the Revolutionary Action Movement (MAR) and said they had been trained in North Korea. This month they were joined in prison by nine members of the People's Armed Command (CAP).

HCJC Trustees Let Bids For Metal Buildings

Contract for the construction of two metal buildings at Howard County Junior College was awarded Tuesday to Mesa Builders, Inc. of Amarillo and Lubbock.

Mesa submitted the low bid for both structures, $10,287 for a vehicle storage unit, and $12,367 for a general storage building. The combined bid of $22,654 was $3,196 under the second low-combined bidder, Cee Bee Builders of Odessa. Abbott Builders of Midland, which had been second low bidder on the vehicle building, was third aggregate low bidder with a proposal of $26,944. Nine builders submitted proposals.

The successful bidder cited 60 calendar days for the completion of the two buildings, which take the place of a former frame structure which was demolished to make way for the Horace Garrett Applied Science Building. The college has not heretofore had a vehicle storage building.

Trustees also authorized the advertisement for bids of approximately $3,700 in furniture for the reference library, and the faculty and student lounges in the new Garrett building. In addition, bids were authorized for a commercial type laundry unit for handling all washable items for the athletic department, plus the PE program.

This may approach $1,500. After the meeting, board members were taken on a brief tour of the Garrett building, which, with equipment and furnishings, represents a million-dollar investment in vocational and technical training facilities. It will be ready for occupancy as soon as acoustical floor covering is placed in some of the second-floor rooms.

Tuesday's called meeting was the first for Harold Davis, new board member succeeding John A. Coffey, who resigned when he moved from the city recently. Davis, who is president of Gamco, came to Big Spring in 1947 as the first basketball coach of HCJC.

Accused Shotgun Slayer Of Sheriff Still Celled

BOERNE, Tex. (AP) — Authorities transferred a young roofing contractor to jail in nearby San Antonio Tuesday night after arresting him in the shotgun slaying of the Kendall County sheriff.

Held without bond was Walter David Menn, 24, of Boerne. He was apprehended at the edge of Comfort, 17 miles north of here, earlier in the day. Officers said a loaded shotgun was in his car.

Menn was charged with murder in the slaying of Douglas Kuebel, 61, who had served as sheriff since 1964.

Officers said Kuebel was shot about 1 a.m. Tuesday when he answered a disturbance call. He died within about two hours at a San Antonio hospital.

ONE OF FINEST

"He was one of the finest men I've met," a businessman said. "I don't think he really ever wanted to be sheriff, but the community needed him, and I think he took the job out of that sheer necessity."

"He was a dedicated law officer," said Deputy Sheriff Levy Zoeller.

Kerr County Judge Julius Neunhoffer of Kerrville said Kuebel was "pretty much the local law enforcement for a number of years down there."

Menn was arraigned before Neunhoffer after his arrest just inside the Kerr County line. Boerne businessman man Smith had high praise for Kuebel. "Anything you wanted the sheriff for, you could call him anytime of the day or night and he would come," Smith said.

SHOT IN FACE

Officers said Kuebel and two highway patrolmen went to a house about six miles north of here after the sheriff received a report that a man was firing a shotgun there.

Investigators said the gunman was firing at four people in the house. None was reported hurt.

Armed with a rifle, the sheriff apparently exchanged gunfire with the man and then staggered back down a ridge, fatally wounded by buckshot in the face, arm and abdomen, officials said.

Menn was arrested about 4 a.m.

Officers said Menn's wife, her teen-age brother and her parents were in the house at the time of the shooting.

Funeral services for Kuebel will be held here Thursday.

His widow, Mrs. Frances Kuebel, was appointed to serve his unexpired term through 1972. Deputies Zoeller and Marvin Dean were named co-chief deputies.

Kuebel was named sheriff in 1953 and served until 1956. He was re-elected in 1964.

Cow Likes Men

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We have a cow on our farm named Helen Mae and she hates women. Helen Mae is a beautiful Guernsey with soft brown eyes and a gentle manner, but she won't let a woman within 20 feet of her. She is very friendly to all men whether she's seen them before or not, but any woman who has tried to milk her has had to run for her life. You can't fool Helen Mae either. She can tell women from men regardless of how they're dressed.

Is there any explanation for this? And if you can find out if there is some way to get Helen Mae to let a woman milk her, I'd appreciate it, as my and I always wear "diaper-type" shorts, well-padded in front. I wore them on my honeymoon last year, at age 41. And I still wear them. Sign me: ALL WET IN FREEPORT, P.A.

DEAR WET: Thank you for teaching me a lesson I should have learned years ago "ABSOLUTES" are risky. Now it's my turn to be all wet.

I am married now and my parents are alone again. Mother has now started selling real estate like the very bread on their table depended upon it, which it does not, as Dad has always made a very good living.

I didn't realize the seriousness of the situation until Dad came along with my husband and me one evening. We ran into a girl friend of mine, now newly divorced, and I saw Dad actually encourage this divorcee's attentions.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is married to a fine young man who is the only child of a rich mother. She floods them with gifts and trips, etc., which I could never afford to give them. Two of my friends have the same problem and we wonder if these women know they are being unkind to the other mothers. Or do they care?

"NO SCRAPS FROM THE TABLE"

DEAR NO SCRAPS: Would you prefer that your daughter and her husband receive none of the things you are not able to give them from the "other mother"? That is what you are suggesting.

DEAR CONCERNED DAUGHTER: Tell her, just the way you told me.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

He Can't Sleep

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Since you "work outside, get plenty of fresh air," you may in truth be getting enough more sleep -- in snatches -- to amount to substantially more than two hours. Anyway, it would look as though you must be getting enough for your needs. As we grow older, we often don't need as much sleep. You may not really need the six to eight hours you used to get!

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a man, 64, in fairly good health except for insomnia. I can take tranquilizers, sleeping capsules, or nothing at all, but try as I may, about two hours is as much sleep as I can get. This lack of sleep makes me sick to my stomach. I exercise, work outside, get plenty of fresh air, but nothing seems to help. -- H.E.M.

I'll give you several thoughts on this, hoping that at least one will help you, but I wish you would give some attention to the first remark I'll make. You'll probably scoff at first, but think it over. It is known that most people who complain of lack of sleep get more than they realize. Nurses have observed it often: patients say they can't sleep, but the nurses repeatedly find these "sleepless" patients snoring and sometimes snoring.

I'll admit that it's no fun to wake up repeatedly; it's no fun to feel that you want to go to sleep and can't. But what actually happens in many cases is that a person is consciously awake, drops off to sleep for a time, again becomes conscious of being awake without realizing that a period of sleep has intervened. This may be your answer.

One important factor in insomnia is psychological: depression, anxiety, and worry, often not recognized by the individual. Stimulating beverages (coffee, tea, or any of the cola drinks, which contain caffeine) should be avoided late in the day. Breathing difficulty (as with emphysema or with heart disease) can be a factor in disturbed sleep, although you gave me no indication that you are troubled with either. Hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) can cause a restlessness that can disturb sleep. A bedtime snack such as a glass of warm milk and a meat or cheese sandwich can offset that trouble.

Finally, have you tried different pillow arrangements, using two or three pillows if you customarily use one? A different sleeping position can sometimes make quite a difference. Reading in bed also is a way to induce sleep.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would fewer pounds be lost in sleeping under an electric blanket because the body is not having to use any energy to keep itself warm? -- Mrs. W. C.

No. There is not that much physical activity when sleeping, with or without an electric blanket. In other words, the difference would be so small as to be undetectable.

CAUCUS URGES END TO DISCRIMINATION

Ten Women Suggested For Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Women's Political Caucus Tuesday submitted the names of 10 women it said are qualified to be appointed to the Supreme Court.

The names were submitted to Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, who was urged "not to bypass this opportunity to end the discrimination against women who represent 51 per cent of the population..."

In a letter to Mitchell, who makes recommendations to President Nixon in the appointment of federal judges, the organization also said:

"There is no shortage of qualified women in the acceptable age group."

Women from both political parties would applaud the President for appointing qualified women because "the U.S. Supreme Court must be above partisanship if it is to be worthy of the people it serves."

The Young Women's Christian Association and the National Council of Catholic Women also have urged appointment of a woman to the higher court. There now are two vacancies. Those recommended by the U.S. District Court Judge Constance Baker Motley, 50, of New York's southern district.

Prof. Herma Hill Kay, 37, of the University of California School of Law at Berkeley.

Prof. Sola Mentschikoff, 56, of the University of Chicago Law School.

ASK DR. BROTHERS

Joy Can Be Found In Second Marriage

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: Although I have no children, I was sick when I felt I simply had to get a divorce several years ago. My then husband and I were not getting along well at all and we both went into analysis to try to save our marriage. It didn't work and I think we both felt bitter. Now, I want to remarry and am scared to death that I'll just make all the same errors.—E.P.

MATURE MOVE

Dear Mrs. P.: Your time spent in psychiatric treatment may have helped to save both you and your husband as individuals even though it did not save your marriage. It is quite possible that your marriage needed to be dissolved for the general good of both you and your spouse.

Divorce is sometimes a mature decision that may be as necessary as marriage. Dr. Cornelia Wilbur says that the success of marriage depends upon how the partners create a means of living happily together, in spite of their hidden neuroses. All of us bring to marriage our unresolved problems; we cannot help this.

You will obviously bring unresolved problems into a second marriage, but you may have many fewer problems than you did when you were with your first husband.

You also may be better prepared to deal with your frustrations and anxieties. Because of your time spent in treatment, you may have a much better understanding of yourself and what you expect of a marriage partner.

KNOW WHAT'S WRONG

It is likely that you have gained insight into yourself and your motives so that, when things do go wrong in your next marriage, you will know how to discuss and face them in a way that will be constructive and not destructive.

Often, especially when people are very young, they may think they are selecting their mates for love, but frequently the real reasons for the choice are in the unconscious mind. The motivations for selecting a certain mate are complex and psychoanalysis helps to bring these complicated reasons into the open where they can be considered rationally.

The very fact that you have some anxiety about a second marriage indicates that you have a heightened awareness of yourself and of what marriage entails. This is a positive sign. That fact that you are aware that you made errors is also a sign that your second marriage may be a vast improvement over your first.

Although both husband and wife may come away from an unhappy, unsuccessful marriage with feelings of guilt, it is quite possible that the destructive force was in the interaction between the two people involved. Without this, they might not have responded as they did, and they might react quite differently with another type of individual in another set of circumstances.

GAINED MATURITY

Since you are not rushing into another marriage, but are obviously giving it sincere thought and attention, your chances for happiness are probably much greater than they were your first time around. You, undoubtedly have matured and learned a great deal from your earlier experiences.

Often, people ruin their chances for a rewarding marriage by entering into it with unrealistic expectations. Individuals are less likely to expect perfection the second time around and this actually increases their chances for happiness. They realize that good communication and the ability to share experiences is more important than the adolescent dream of perfect romance.

Even though we hear a great deal these days about the joys of the liberated, single woman, society is still stacked in favor of marriage. Living alone can be much more difficult than adjusting to marriage. It seems to me the odds may be in your favor the second time around.

Sens' Owner Given Bad Time By Fans

By The Associated Press

There were 3,242 hardy fans hanging around in Washington—one of them literally.

It was hardly one of the Senators' biggest crowds of the season—but it might have been considered gigantic compared to the cozy gathering of 1,311 that watched them play a week ago.

But Monday night's group wasn't entirely in a friendly mood, despite the Senators' 4-2 victory over the New York Yankees in the start of their final home stand of the season.

The fans' biggest cheers of the night didn't go to Dick Billings and Jeff Borroughs, whose run-scoring hits in the seventh inning gave Washington its margin of victory.

Nor were they reserved for Joe Grzenda, who pitched three innings of one-hit relief for the victory.

They didn't even go to New York's Roy White, who set an American League record with his 17th sacrifice fly of the season.

FAN CHEERED

The ovation went instead to one of the fans—who spent the better part of the game parading around cavernous Robert F. Kennedy Stadium with an effigy of Senators owner Bob Short.

It was a week ago that Short was given permission by the rest of the league owners to move his team to Dallas-Fort Worth next season.

In other American League games, Cleveland beat Detroit 8-7 in the conclusion of a June 20 suspended game before the Tigers won 4-2 in the regularly scheduled contest, Baltimore swept a two-night doubleheader from Boston 10-2 and 5-4, Oakland edged Kansas City 2-1, Milwaukee nipped the Chicago White Sox 3-2 and California beat Minnesota 6-2.

Vada Pinson's single and Ted Uhlaender's one-out double in the bottom of the ninth inning gave the Indians their victory in the game halted more than three months ago by a power failure.

But the Tigers had all the power the rest of the night as Norm Cash belted two home runs, his 31st and 32nd of the year, and Gates Brown and Bill Freehan hit one apiece to give Joe Coleman his 20th victory.

Longhorns Gain 10 Notches

Big Spring's four-touchdown win over Snyder last weekend didn't make much impression with the Harris Statewide Rating system.

The Steers moved from 70th to 60th place in the system.

District 5-AAAA teams listed ahead of the Longhorns are Odessa Permian, fourth; Abilene Cooper, 17th; and San Angelo, 29th.

Placed back of the locals were Abilene, 84th; Midland Lee, 88th; Odessa High, 104th; and Midland High, 114th.

Big Spring is rated a 3.5 point favorite over Abilene High by the Harris system.

Coahoma was ranked a lofty 13th in Class AA.

Snyder rated almost as high in Class AAA (65th) as did Big Spring.

Frosh, Greybeard Get Key Hits In NL Games

By The Associated Press

One year after Chris Speier was born, Maury Wills was playing his first season of professional baseball.

Tuesday night the two shortstops—Speier, the 21-year-old rookie with the San Francisco Giants and the 38-year-old Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers—had the key hits for their teams as the National League's sizzling West Division race continued to boil.

Speier whacked a three-run homer, leading San Francisco to a 7-1 victory over San Diego, keeping the Giants one game ahead of the Dodgers with two games remaining.

Wills cracked a run-scoring single, breaking a tie in the eighth inning and giving the Dodgers a 2-1 triumph over the Houston Astros.

"BEST WAY"

"The best way to play the game is when everything you do means something," said Speier, who was not even on the Giants' roster at the start of spring training. "I like that. Sure, there's pressure but you try to put it out of your mind."

Asked how he felt being a rookie in a tinging pennant battle, he answered: "I wouldn't want it any other way. This is the biggest education I could get. I could play 20 years more and might not be in this situation again. I really enjoy it."

Wills, who already has played 20 years of professional baseball, including 13 in the majors, admitted he still gets nervous before a game.

"If you don't get butterflies anymore it means you're getting a little blasé or you don't care."

Wills can't be accused of either. "He's the guy who is really holding us together," said Manager Walt Alston. "He's been playing every day."

Limiting Deer Kill Costs Landowners, Says Board

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas landowners' reluctance to let hunters kill more deer may be costing them $25 million a year, not to mention the loss of $13.5 million in forage eaten by the deer, says the Parks and Wildlife Department.

The department said landowners are making a mistake by severely limiting the deer kill on their land, thinking that they are protecting the herd for the future.

The truth is, the department says, the herd is generally "underharvested" each year, causing overpopulation, deterioration of rangeland, low fawn production, low fawn survival and, in bad years, heavy die-offs.

Depending on the area, the department says, Texas' deer needs to be reduced 20 to 30 per cent each year to remain healthy. But hunters kill less than 10 per cent on the average.

The department said if each of the unkillable deer represents $50 in uncollected fees for hunting privileges, landowners lose about $25 million plus the $13.5 million worth of forage eaten by the deer.

Obviously, officials say, a more efficient method of harvesting deer would benefit landowners, hunters and the deer population.

Their suggestions:

For example, instead of leasing the land for the whole season, two week leases could be arranged with hunters. With the few odd days at the end of the season, the land could be day-leased.

Also, landowners could allow many more hunters on their land than they usually do. In the Edwards Plateau, for example, walking hunters at the rate of one per 100 acres would be effective. If blinds are used, even more hunters per acre may be allowed.

One landowner who decided to change his views on wildlife serves as a prime example of what can be accomplished, say department officials.

Coyotes To Take This Week Off

GAIL — Although they came out of their last week's victory without anything more than usual minor bruises, the Borden Coyotes will have a week to get back in top shape for their next game.

They will not play again until Oct. 8 when they entertain Cotton Center, a team they met in regional playoffs last year.

Although Cotton Center appears to be down somewhat, Coach Bobb Dyess is taking no chances on his boys getting ambushed.

Johnson Gets Good News

ANAHEIM (AP)—The general manager of the California Angels, says an arbitration board ruling that the club must pay the salary of suspended outfielder Alex Johnson is "completely without justification."

Johnson himself says, "I don't consider it a victory at all."

The Angels suspended Johnson without pay June 26 for "not showing the proper mental attitude" and fined him $3,750 for misconduct.

The arbitration board's ruling Tuesday in New York says that Johnson's behavior was caused by emotional disturbance, and ordered him placed on the disabled list, with full pay, like players suffering from physical injuries. It ordered the American League club to pay Johnson the salary due him, $29,970, but it upheld the disciplinary fines. The decision is binding.

General Manager Dick Walsh called the ruling inconsistent and asked: If Johnson was not responsible for his actions, why allow the fines to stand? If he was, why not uphold the suspension?

"Either Johnson was or was not responsible for his actions," Walsh said. "If he was responsible, then the suspension and fines were justified."

Johnson, reached Tuesday at his home in Detroit, said he is confident he will resume his baseball career but "probably not, more than likely not," with California.

"Maybe they learned something by this," he said.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, and a member of the arbitration panel, said the finding is historic.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

All bear stories to the contrary, District 5-AAAA's caste system broke down the past weekend after the egg had hit the fan.

Big Spring took on stature by boxing in Snyder. Abilene High grew up by grinding past Brownwood. Midland High gained a few points by nudging Lubbock Monterey, although some of the Plainsmen's wheel horses had been stabled due to injuries — coach Jim Odom of Monterey is finally finding out how the other half lives.

Galveston Ball humiliated what had generally been regarded as a good San Angelo team. After Midland High had fought Ball to the wall before losing by two touchdowns, coach Larry Click was moved to say he thought the Galveston team was over rated.

Odessa High and Midland Lee appeared to be gaining momentum until they ran into Wichita Falls Rider and Plainview, respectively. QB Chuck Hudson, an able operative, was held out of the Wichita Falls High game and Abilene Cooper learned it couldn't play without him. Move Wichita Falls up a few pegs in the state ratings and demote Cooper, but not too far.

Of course, the biggest surprise was the manner in which Ysleta Bel Air pushed Odessa Permian around before losing, 24-20. In the Gene Mayfield era, Permian depended on defensive excellence for its poise. Under Gil Bartosh, the Panthers have been concentrating more on offensive clout.

Some observers think that Permian would have lost to the Highlanders had the game been in Ysleta, just as Big Spring did the previous week. Be that as it may, Bobby McKinley, who may be the class of the state's quarterbacks, cut the Panthers down to size.

Clovis Hale, the Big Spring mentor, had said all along: "If you don't play defense, you don't win in this league."

The Steers took him for his word and went out to paralyze Snyder as perhaps no team has in years. The Tigers, in their punning situations, were breaking down up front. The Steers, reading the defense perfectly, were resorting to catlike moves in getting around the up-back blockers and storming in to harass the kickers. (The locals twice queered Snyder punts and partially blocked a third).

Alan Davis perhaps looked better than Mike Adams in his passing efforts but the receivers weren't always going where they should when Mike was in there. On one occasion, Adams threw to the exact spot his intended receiver was supposed to be but the catcher didn't show up.

Earl Reynolds is one of the most impressive sophomores ever to play here. He's a regular on defense and he plays like a senior. Another soph who blossomed against Snyder was Glenn Carleton, who played fullback on defense and shifts to a line-backer's spot on offense. The sound effects were rather awesome when he came up to jettison the Snyder ball carrier on his back-side.

Pete Shaffer, of course, continues his strong hand and was getting a lot of help from such operatives as Mike Urban and Jeff Murdock. Pete has an instinct for showing up where the ball is.

A gratifying aspect of Friday's play, as far as local buffs are concerned, was that five juniors and a soph were manning positions much of the time on defense for the Bold Gold on offense, after Davis moved in at quarterback, the Steers were going with juniors at the running back spots, at left end and at flanker.

If all things go well and the Steers can sidestep the injury bugaboo, this could be the "year that was" for local rooters.

STANTON BACK OF WEEK
Junior Dwayne McMeans

Rejuvenated Bisons Eye Friday's Rankin Game

STANTON — Enthused by the showing of his young charges, Coach Bill Young thinks that the Stanton Buffaloes have turned the corner on the way back as a gridiron contender.

"This doesn't mean we may not lose some more games," he said, "but it does mean that we're going to surprise someone if our boys keep improving like they have."

He made no effort to conceal his delight in the way that Stanton backs and linemen racked up Frenship last Friday, although they lost 10-8. At the end of the game Stanton had physically beaten the visitors but got caught by the clock while on the 16-yard line.

"Our boys have decided to get after it," said Coach Young. "This is the only way they can overcome weight and experience."

They will have to get with it Friday when Rankin comes to town. Rankin has a 2-1 record, nipping McCamey, 26-14, and Wink 26-0. They dropped one, 12-14, to Eldorado. Their forte is speed at the hands of Jack Campbell, quarterback, and Tom Blockson and Gholson, halfbacks. If the Buff ends and cornerbacks can keep them boxed in, Stanton may have a good chance to stage a big upset in its Homecoming game Friday evening.

Halfback Armando Rios, who missed the Frenship game with a hip pointer, likely will be out for this one, too. Jackie Swanson takes over for him.

Coach Young expressed unqualified pride in his players before the booster club Tuesday night when he said:

"This is not only the best game our boys have played since I got here, it might be the 'only' game."

NEW YORK (AP) — "We're still waiting to play the best teams on our schedule—Colorado and Oklahoma." The author of that statement is top-ranked Nebraska's Bob Devaney. This week he does not play Colorado or Oklahoma, but rather Utah State, which, like Nebraska, has a 3-0 record, but is unranked.

Stroup Is Again Racing Leader

Rained out for two Saturdays in a row, the Big Spring Raceway program finally was unreheeled Monday evening.

Wayne Stroup regained the lead for season's honors by taking first place in the Trophy Dash. Wendell Maxey and Dickie Jones followed him across the finish line.

Other winners included: Slow Heat — Ed Ellison, Sweetwater; Middle Heat — Ernie McCuistian, in a Hopper Toyota; Fast Heat — Charles Hyden, Hyden Auto; Consolation — Ycidro Villareal Jr., Big Spring; Bonus Race — Johnny Mount, Big Spring.

The races will be resumed Saturday night.

Coach Chuck Mills of the Aggies does not intend to plaster Devaney's remark all over the Utah State locker room.

"Far be it from me to refute Bob Devaney," says Mills. "What if it's true? We're just gonna go into Lincoln, Neb., and trade our blue jerseys for red ones like Nebraska wears and hope the fans get all mixed up."

"We're not gonna resort to psychology or do anything different. I think it just creates more problems for the kids if you do crazy things. Besides, we're in the great position of not being supposed to win."

"No, wait a minute; I'll trade positions with Bob Devaney. I'd like to be the one they're all shooting at. This is survival week for us. We'll have to check the kids' adrenalin and the dilution of their pupils. If they're not dilated we're in real trouble."

Oregon at Texas—Was Donnie Wigginton's classy performance in place of the injured Eddie Phillips last week really that much of a surprise? After all, Wigginton overshadowed Phillips in the Longhorn spring game, directing four long scoring drives. Oregon's quarterback, Dan Fouts, is hurting.

Michigan State at Notre Dame—Notre Dame this week and Michigan next. Now you know why they call Michigan State the Spartans. NOTRE DAME.

Kansas State at Colorado—Buffaloes have beaten Louisiana State and Ohio State on the road. Besides, they lost to Kansas State by a point last year. Not only are the Buffs ranked sixth in the nation but they're out for revenge, too.

COLORADO.
Mississippi at Alabama—

Crimson Tide was humiliated by Archie Manning last year but this time it's in Birmingham at night. Archie Who? ALABAMA, that's who.

HC Girls Beaten In First Match

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech defeated Howard County JC in two straight girl volleyball games here Tuesday evening, the inaugural action for the Jayhawk Queens. Final scores were 15-8, 15-4.

Mary Lou Brown led HC scoring in the first game with five points. Pam Habr paced the scorers in the second for HC with two points.

Kathryn Dirks, a Big Spring resident attending Tech, led her team in the second game with 11 points.

The Jayhawk Queens go to Denton Friday for a tournament and play their first game against East Texas State at 7 p.m. Six teams are entered in the double elimination event.
