He Smuggled Teen Found Dead In Tub; Trio Tied Up

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Luis Alberto Azcarra Milmo, 32, an electrical agent from Mexico City, entered a plea of guilty in federal court here Wednesday to charges of smuggling 23 pounds of heroin valued at more than $10 million on the illegal market.

Milmo, who was arrested by customs agents on the international bridge at Laredo Aug. 26 after the contraband was found in his car, pleaded innocent at an earlier hearing but changed his plea in open court.

U.S. Dist. Judge Ben Connally said he will pass sentence last in Houston.

HOUSTON (AP) — One of five teen-agers who had hitchhiked rides from Tennessee was found dead in a bathtub in a house in northwest Houston Wednesday.

Police said they were holding a man, 27, whose family had said he had been under psychiatric care.

The dead youth whose hands and feet were tied with cord was identified as Eddie Eugene Seat, 18, of Dyersburg, Tenn.

Two other youths and a girl were found in a bedroom closet tied with sash cord.

Another youth, Robert Frankling Davis, 16, called police, saying he too had been bound hand and foot but managed to escape from a closet.

Others found bound were identified as Michael Wayne Davis, 19; his wife, Candy Marie Davis, 16; and Kenneth Colvin, 16, all from Dyersburg. The Davis youths are brothers.

The group told police the man being held had picked them up on U. S. 59 at Carthage Tuesday night as they were hitchhiking toward Beaumont to seek work. They said the man pulled a gun on them as they neared Houston, took them to the house, and forced the five to tie each other up.

They quoted the man as threatening to kill them if they did not comply with a requirement that one of them deliver a briefcase to a bus station early Wednesday.

Six Schools Closed

PEMBERVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Supt. John Poth is expected to decide next week whether to ask the Eastwood School District board to put another new tax levy request before the voters in December.

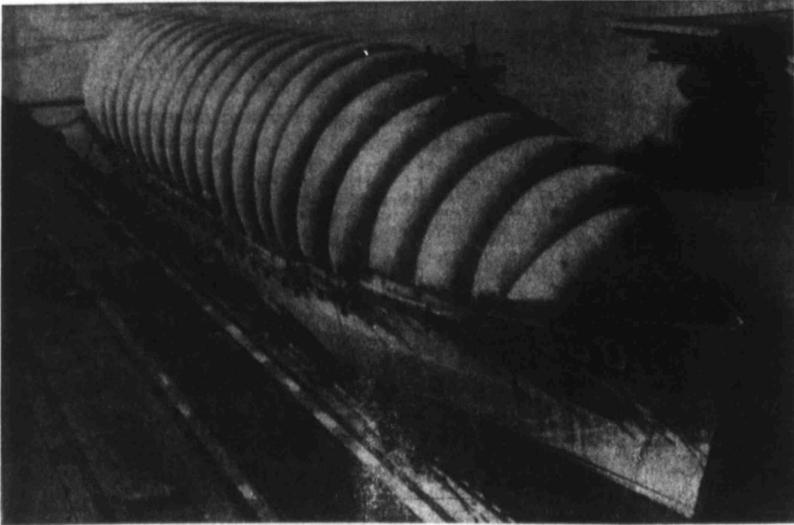

The district's six schools closed Friday after running out of funds. The 2,100 pupils and 103 teachers will get a forced vacation until Jan. 3 unless more money is forthcoming.

The district exhausted its funds last month and borrowed $126,000 against next year's state aid in order to operate 30 more days.

An added 7.5-mill property tax levy was rejected Nov. 2, and the district had no choice but to close schools after the state advance was spent.

SUSPECT HIT BY THREE BULLETS

Student Officer Dies In Battle

DALLAS (AP) — Gunfire broke out early today when a veteran policeman and a student officer stopped a pickup truck which had brushed a utility pole. The recruit died in the battle, the veteran suffered a wound and a man in the truck was hit by three bullets.

Killed was Johnnie T. Hartwell, 31, who was undergoing police training. Wounded was officer James E. Clark, 40.

A police spokesman said the investigation showed that two men commandeered a pickup truck and robbed the driver, L. V. Bowens, 39.

When Bowens failed to produce more money, the police spokesman said, the men threatened to kill him. He said he could get more at another location in return for his life, and the three got in the truck, Bowens between the two men.

The pickup struck a utility pole as the police car carrying Hartwell and Clark approached from the opposite direction. Clark made a U turn and gave chase. The pickup brushed another pole before Hartwell and Clark stopped it.

The driver and Bowens got out of the truck and Hartwell and Clark began searching them. The third man in the truck fired at Hartwell, the bullet striking him in the left side.

Clark and the gunman shot at each other, the officer was hit in the right arm and the man with the gun was struck in the chest, arm and leg.

The wounded man fled but was found on the steps of an apartment house. The driver remained beside the pickup.

Bowens sought to call for help on the patrol car's radio, but was unable to operate the instrument. Clark called for aid, using his left hand.

Hartwell was married and the father of one child. He was a Navy veteran and was a reserve deputy sheriff in Wichita, Kan., until last June. He entered the Dallas Police Academy Aug. 16 and was on official duty as a part of his training when killed.

Five Dallas police have been wounded by gunfire this year but none have died. The victim in today's shooting technically would not have been a policeman until he was graduated from the academy.

Loophole Big Enough For 12 Pct. Pay Hike?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board has left itself a loophole that may stretch wide enough to squeeze a 12-per-cent pay raise through. But it may take months to find out.

The board's general rule is that raises in new contracts can't exceed 5.5 per cent a year, and raises in old contracts might be rolled back if "unreasonably inconsistent" with that guide.

But the initial policy adopted Monday night also contains what one source calls "the reality clause," or loophole.

NOT CLEAR

It says this: "In reviewing new contracts and pay practices, the Pay Board shall consider ongoing collective bargaining and pay practices and the equitable position of the employees involved, including the impact of recent changes in the cost of living upon employee's compensation." An identical loophole is supplied for existing contracts as well.

What that means, exactly, is unclear.

But, according to briefers who allow themselves to be identified only as "informed sources" or "sources in a position to know," the purpose is to allow the board to approve higher raises when circumstances warrant.

How high or under what circumstances still is unknown.

RAIL FACTS

But they conceded, when questioned by a newsman, that the loophole might well have enough stretch in it to pass through recent settlements in the rail industry, calling for raises of one per cent per month for 42 months.

Although the rail settlements are more than double the 5.5-per-cent guide, they came after the rail workers had gone through a long period of rapidly rising prices with no raise at all.

Furthermore, as one source voluntarily pointed out, the rail agreements in some cases represent work rules that meant extra pay.

The source said the board had set no figure for what would be an "unreasonably inconsistent" raise in an existing contract, like the rail agreements. However, figures of 7 and 8 per cent were discussed before the board decided not to pin itself down, a source said.

The sources said the Pay Board does not expect many businessmen to appeal for rollbacks of scheduled pay increases, because this might needlessly antagonize unions.

ROLLBACK APPEAL

But the board allows five or more of its own members to initiate a rollback appeal.

Some other major points covered in the briefing are touched upon in these questions and answers:

Q: Are fringe benefits such as pension plans, vacation and health insurance limited by the 5.5-per-cent ceiling?

A: Yes, but the sources said the Pay Board does not expect this to have much effect on the pay portion of agreements because fringe benefits usually increase in line with pay.

Q: What will be the effect of the rulings on the present dock strikes and coal strikes?

A: The board has not considered any specific cases.

"You just can't anticipate everything," one source said. "I don't have the slightest idea how the board is going to react," said another.

NO LEGAL FORCE

Q: How final is the board's policy statement?

A: It has no legal force. The board meets again at 2 p.m. Thursday to attempt to reduce the general policies to specific, legally binding directives. But one source cautioned that it could take months to settle everything.

Q: Will persons who did not get yearly pay step-ups called for in their contract during the freeze now be able to collect them?

A: The board's general guideline says existing pay practices will be honored after the freeze. But the sources cautioned that no final decision has been made on longevity increases.

MERIT INCREASE

Q: What about merit increases?

A: Again, the general guidelines say that past pay practices will again be allowed after the freeze, but the board has not ruled specifically on merit increases.

Q: One of the limited cases in which persons may collect retroactive pay for raises lost during the freeze is if the employer's prices were raised before the freeze in anticipation of the wage boost. Does this mean teachers may collect retroactive pay raises if taxes were raised beforehand?

A: Quite possibly. "Taxes are prices," a source said.

'How-To-Combine' Work Next On Committee List

By LINDA CROSS

Combined tax collections, appraisals and collection of delinquent taxes is the area which will likely be studied first for cooperation by all four governmental agencies.

Tax collection was either first or second in priority on all lists drawn up during meetings Monday and Tuesday of the city commission, Howard County Junior College and Big Spring Independent School District boards of trustees.

Each agency selected four to 10 priority items for cooperation from a list of items submitted by members of the four-member steering committee which met last Wednesday to propose areas of cooperation.

Tuesday, city commissioners selected 10 priority areas for further study. Tax collections, assessments and appraisals and collection of delinquent taxes got the number 1 slot. In order, other areas selected are combined purchasing, food service, use of equipment, use of the computer, printing, maintenance of vehicles and heavy equipment, maintenance and construction of streets and roads, and a city-county fire department.

HCJC trustees selected five priority areas with tax collections occupying the first space on their list. Other areas the college trustees would like to have studied are purchasing, maintenance of equipment, insurance and printing.

Tax collection was given the second slot on the BSISD trustees' list of priority. Use of city-owned computer equipment got the number 1 nod, and the other areas selected for cooperation with other agencies are use of heavy equipment for paving streets, roads and maintenance of campuses, cooperation in allowing metal workshop students to do repairs to the county's fair barns, printing, combined food service or at least the shipping of government commodities from San Angelo, purchasing, and radio communication.

Trustees also urged the continued cooperation between the city and the school district in maintaining parks and recreational facilities.

Monday, county commissioners selected purchasing and warehousing as their first item of priority for study for inter-governmental cooperation. At the time, commissioners said that combined tax collections and collection of delinquent taxes was of equal priority. Two other priority items selected are a city-county fire department and maintenance of heavy equipment and its combined use in maintaining streets and roads.

Each governmental agency's representative on the four-member committee will take its list of priorities back to the committee for further study. The committee will select the areas in which most of the agencies expressed interest in cooperating and will begin to study means by which cooperation in the areas can be begun.

'Ace' Cartoonist Due For Thursday Show

Ace Reid, whose scrawny Jake and Zeb have made the Cowpokes cartoon panel a fixture across much of the nation, comes here this evening for a one-day book-signing party at Heritage Museum.

Hours will be from 10 a.m. to 12 noon Thursday at the museum, and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Copies of all eight of his books, plus some of his calendars, will be on hand.

No one ever had a harder time in breaking into the field as a cartoonist — one of the toughest in all the country — than Ace Reid. Understandably he was septical when it was suggested he might put together some of his cartoons in a soft-back booklet.

All "Cowpokes" did was sell a million copies. This naturally led to others such as "More Cowpokes," then "Cowpokes Wanted," "Them Cowpokes," "Draggin' S Cowpokes," "Cowpokes Comin' Yore Way." From this Reid stepped into another field, recopies.

His "Cowpokes Cookbook and Cartoons" turned out to be a best seller, and now he has produced another volume, "Home Remedies." All of them include liberal doses of the wry Reid humor.

His appearance here will be pitted against a backdrop of the ranch exhibit at the museum. Incidentally, after Thursday, the ranch exhibit is to come down to make way for one honoring pioneer women.

If Reid's cartoons ring a bell with the average West Texas, who can remember droughts and disappointments which only a sense of humor could overcome, that's because he's lived what he draws.

Reared on a 4,000-acre spread near Electra during the country's worst drought and depression, he taught himself to draw by sketching on everything from boards to wrapping paper.

"I was 21 years old before I ever saw a fat cow," quipped the cartoonist. Even after a stint in the Southwest Pacific during World War II, Reid was a companion to hard times as he tried oil well drilling and shoe-string ranching. Rebuffed time and again, he was told that his cartoons would never sell.

An engraving company at San Angelo staked him to some line etchings and mats, and the paper there started carrying his drawings. Gradually, they caught on until his $17 a week starvation days were over. Today he is one of the hottest things on the circuit, making 35,000 miles a year for personal appearances and speeches. He may be fatter, but he's no less funnier.

Air Conditioning Schools Discussed At Board Meet

By STEVE HULTMAN
A report on air conditioning of schools was discussed at the school board meeting Tuesday and it was decided that a letter from a firm offering to do an air conditioning survey of all the schools should be presented at the next meeting.

The letter was received about six months ago," said S. M. Anderson, superintendent. The board discussed the cost of refrigerated air for the cafeteria at the high school and to Moss Elementary School. They considered the cost of moving the washed air units from the high school to Washington Elementary schools and to other schools.

Temporary Life For Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Temporary life for foreign aid headed for a vote in the House today as the Senate continued work on a new and smaller assistance program.

The House leadership urged foreign aid opponents to save their cuts for a regular bill and to approve a continuing resolution—funding the program on a temporary basis past the Nov. 15 expiration date.

But some feared the House may not go along with the request. The foreign aid program was left in limbo Oct. 29 when the Senate voted to end more than two decades of foreign assistance.

College Trustees Pick Five Priority Areas

Howard County Junior College trustees spotted five priority areas of intergovernmental cooperation Tuesday.

After hearing a report from Harold Davis, board representative on an interagency committee, trustees listed these possible items, taken from a list of some 20 suggestions which offered a potential of savings:

1. Tax collection, appraisals and delinquent collections; 2. purchasing; 3. maintenance of equipment; 4. insurance; and 5. printing.

Some of the other potential sectors which might be applicable, but which the board did not think offered possibilities at this time, were warehousing, parks and recreation.

The listing of priorities was an outgrowth of a meeting by an inter-governmental cooperation committee named to list activities in which the city, county, college and Big Spring Independent School District might find cooperative enterprises mutually advantageous.

In other actions, the board accepted bids totalling $3,831 for furniture for the reference library, faculty lounge and regular lounge in the Horace Garrett Applied Science Building; a bid of $1,895 by Belco of Dallas for a laundry unit for the athletic department (this was $161 under the second bid), approved payment of $282 on fire extinguishers on a low bid from H. V. Crocker; approved purchase of blinds and drapes from Hall Blind and Drape company; for $608, also heat shakes for $408; purchase of an adding machine at $299 less trade in; approved transfer of $340 from the forfeited deposit fund to the special activities fund; transfer of $25,000 on a loan basis to the building fund until state-federal reimbursements on the applied science building are received.

The board also received the annual audit from John Wilson of Hollingsworth, Wilson, Reynolds and Lee, lauding completeness of the work. Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, reported that virtually all the check list remaining on the applied science building had been satisfied and that all furniture, except for a few desks, had been received. The board approved payment of $567 for foundations for a new storage building.

The meeting, open to any merchant, is the first step in The Herald's plan to work even more closely and progressively with the merchants of this community.

TPEA Asking Pay 'Break'

AUSTIN (AP)—A special appeal has been made to the Pay Board in Washington to give Texas school teachers and State employees the pay raises voted by the State legislature last June.

The request for an exemption to Phase II of the federal wage-price freeze was forwarded Tuesday by Gov. Preston Smith and Atty. Gen. Crawford Smith. Appeals under the Phase I regulations failed.

"Texas was the only state in the United States that was penalized by the wage-price freeze because of a Sept. 1 fiscal year, compared to other states' fiscal years which generally began in July and January of 1971," said the appeal.

The appeal asked that the raises be made retroactive to Sept. 1, the original date set by the 1971 legislature for the raises.

The Texas Public Employees Association also asked specifically for an exemption from the 5.5 per cent salary increase guideline in order that state employees would get their scheduled 6.8 per cent average pay raise.

Commie Forces Attack Radio Station, Airport

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacked the Phnom Penh airport and a radio transmitting station near the Cambodian capital early today, and the Cambodian command said at least 25 persons were killed and about 30 wounded.

In Vietnam, a politician reported under consideration for the premiership was assassinated in Saigon, five Americans died in a helicopter crash, a booby trap killed two U.S. soldiers near Hue, and U.S. planes made their 74th attack of the year inside North Vietnam.

The two attacks in Cambodia were coordinated. About fifty 100-pound rockets hit the military airport shortly after midnight, and at the same time sappers moving behind a rocket barrage assaulted the transmitting station nine miles northwest of the airport.

A spokesman for the Cambodian command, Lt. Col. Am Rong, said at least six persons, including five women, were killed in the shelling of the airport and others were killed at the transmitting station.

The politician assassinated in Saigon was Prof. Nguyen Van Bong, chairman of the anti-Communist Progressive Nationalist Movement. Two pounds of hidden plastic explosive blew up his automobile as he was going from his office to his home at noon.

A bodyguard and the chauffeur were also killed, and eight Vietnamese were wounded, including a second bodyguard and seven bystanders.

Bong, 42, was director of a training institute for civil servants. His party, which he once described as "Loyal opposition" to President Nguyen Van Thieu, won 15 of the 139 seats in the lower house of the National Assembly last August.

Tough Trying To Guess How Much Food Costs Will Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor disagreements over Pay Board guidelines on wage increases have upset Agriculture Department economists who are trying shakily to predict how much food costs may rise next year.

The department says, however, that plentiful supplies of such farm products as pork and grain point to an over-all retail food-price rise this year of 3 per cent, compared with a 5.5 per cent hike in 1970.

Looking ahead to 1972 is not so easy. The department said Tuesday in a report that retail food prices depend much on how Phase 2 of the Nixon administration's economic plan is carried out.

"Phase 1 of the wage-price freeze was scheduled to end Nov. 14 and the operating rules in Phase 2 are still being worked out, so the price outlook is uncertain," officials said.

Although price-control guidelines are pending for the second phase, labor leaders have served notice against the 5.5-per-cent wage-increase restriction laid down by the Pay Board.

Gun Slayings Of Two Nets 10 In Prison

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — John Russell Kincaid, 21, changed his plea to guilty in the shotgun slayings of his stepfather and his mother, bringing a sudden end to his trial in the Pecos County murder case.

He then was assessed two 10-year prison sentences which will run concurrently.

Kincaid, a Trinity University student from Fort Stockton, admitted he killed his stepfather, J. Bert Kincaid, 51, and his mother, Ann Russell Kincaid, 38, at their rural home Jan. 21, 1970.

He appeared calm as he entered the plea before spectators packing the courtroom of Dist. Judge John Benavides. Kincaid's red-haired wife Cathy, however, wept occasionally as her husband admitted his guilt.

The judge deferred formal sentencing until Dec. 20 while he considers Kincaid's request for probation, allowing the defendant to remain free under bonds totaling $150,000.

Earlier Monday, as the trial went into its sixth day, Benavides had ruled while jurors were out of the courtroom that a pair of gloves, a coat belonging to Kincaid, several 410-gauge shotgun shells and three spent 20-gauge shells could be admitted into evidence.

At the same time, however, the jurist said jurors would not be allowed to hear an oral statement Kincaid made to a Texas Ranger after his arrest.

Ranger Toll Dawson said Kincaid, then a Texas Christian University student, told of driving with a fellow student to visit Kincaid's girl friend, Cathy Cox. He was quoted as saying Miss Cox then took him to the Kincaid home, where he alighted from the car about 4:30 a.m.

Dawson testified that the defendant talked about hearing a radio and then seeing "his father slumped over the steering wheel of his car" in a carport.

The Ranger related that Kincaid "said he felt sick, got down on his knees and was crying when he saw some shells and gloves. He said he picked them up and put them in his coat pocket and left."

Jim Sullivan, chief deputy sheriff of Pecos County at the time, testified he heard part of the statement and found the coat, gloves and shells in the car of Kincaid's companion, William E. Webb.

Judge Benavides ruled that the oral statement could not be used as evidence because Kincaid did not tell officers where they would find the articles in question.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have gotten into a financial muddle which objective thinking can clear up. Establish a new budget for yourself and allow enough for any possible emergencies.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try not to fall into a worry syndrome or this becomes a miserable day for you. Give more attention to health. A fine evening to spend with delightful friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Stop fretting over what you can do little about, but try and help others with their problems. After a trying day, the evening can bring solace and contentment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Don't expect favors from friends until the evening when they are more cooperative. You have to be astute in handling a personal problem. Put your clever mind to work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to handle an important matter well, so make sure the facts and figures are correct. Put off action until tomorrow. Irking a bigwig could be disastrous.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have many fine ideas you could turn into, but be sure to take all the varying factors into consideration. Study them well. Fun with family is spot bright.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Carry through with all obligations you have assumed and gain the respect of everyone. Evening is the "best" time to take over a situation with mate. Show that you are generous.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Try not to be forceful with associates during the day when tensions mount. Keep at your own work and all smooths down naturally. Steer clear of an opponent who wants to make trouble.

Smith Stays With Vending Member Pick

AUSTIN (AP) — The appointment of Raymond B. Williams as chairman of the Texas Vending Commission cannot be withdrawn, says Gov. Preston Smith. Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena called upon Smith last week to withdraw the nomination on the ground of conflict of interest since Williams owns Commercial Music Co. of Dallas and operates other vending firms in Austin, Temple, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls.

Smith said Tuesday there was no way to withdraw a nomination. Besides, he said, "the law calls for three members of the commission to be in the vending machine business."

Williams has been sworn in as commission chairman. His appointment is subject to State Senate approval. Smith said Brooks' request was "unusual because I had Mr. Williams checked out by the Department of Public Safety before the appointment and they said he was perfectly clear."

Asked if the committee would look into the controversy about Williams, Murray said: "We're not going at this particular time into that phase of it. We may later."

Pleasant Fall Weather Back

Pleasant fall weather returned throughout Texas today.

While early morning temperatures again sagged into the 30s over the western and northern sections, readings stood in the 40s to 60s elsewhere and skies were cloudless throughout the state.

Aside from a little warming over the north half of Texas by Friday and somewhat lower temperatures in most areas again by Sunday, forecasts promised little change.

Readings near dawn today eased down to 29 degrees at Marfa in far West Texas and 32 at Dalhart in the Panhandle while it was still 65 at Brownsville on the southern tip of the state.

Tuesday's top marks ranged from 61 at Amarillo and Dalhart up to 82 at Alice, Brownsville and Victoria.

Tar, Feathered 'Soldier Lover'

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (AP) — Members of the Irish Republican Army tied a 19-year-old girl to a lamp post Tuesday night, shaved her head and poured tar over it for fraternizing with a British soldier.

Earlier, at dusk in Londonderry's Catholic Bogside district, snipers fired into an army observation post and killed a British soldier. He was the 36th soldier to die in Northern Ireland this year.

A jeering crowd yelled "soldier lover" as IRA men dragged Martha Doherty from her home in the Bogside and three masked girls went to work on her.

Martha stood for 30 minutes, her head bowed and her face blackened, before she was cut loose and taken away to be cleaned up.

Tarring and feathering is a traditional punishment for lesser offenders against the IRA. Martha, the first girl to get the treatment, escaped the feathers.

Another girl from the Bogside said three masked men came to her home and warned her she would be shot if seen talking to British troops again. A few minutes later, six girls showed up and cropped her shoulder-length hair to the skin.

"I realized that I was going to get punished, and it is more sensible to accept the situation than resist it," she said. "I shan't be seeing any soldiers any more."

In Belfast, the provincial capital, a bomb started a fire that destroyed a hotel, and another bomb damaged a carpet warehouse. No one was hurt.

State Employees Help Prepare Long Mailing List For Barnes

AUSTIN (AP)—Candidates for governor need good, long mailing lists, and the taxpayers are helping Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes prepare his, an aide has confirmed.

Two newsmen who visited the Senate Enrolling and Engrossing Room Tuesday saw eight women putting thousands of names and addresses on automatic typewriter tape.

'CONFIDENTIAL' A supervisor said the work was "confidential" and later asked the reporters to leave.

Robert Spellings, Barnes' top aide, said in response to questions that the State employees were putting on tape 90,000 names, addresses and other data now kept on green cards for Barnes.

"After they are put on MTST (automatic typewriter) tape, they will be sent to Demographics, Inc., in Conway, Ark., and be put on computer tape... whatever use is made of it after it leaves this office will be paid out of political funds," Spellings said.

The automatic typewriter tapes are being done by state-paid employees, but the computerization will be financed with campaign funds, he said.

'CHRISTMAS CARD' "All politicians do it—you don't find anybody who holds elective office that doesn't have a card file," Spellings said.

Some of the green cards bore the notation "Christmas card," indicating the person was on Barnes' list for season's greetings.

Spellings said there was "nothing at all confidential" about the automatic typewriter operation in the Senate basement.

Later, when newsmen returned to the room, the door was locked.

Spellings also said "no great expenditure of money was involved" in the state-financed part of the operation.

"The machines belong to the Senate. They would just be sitting there idle. The girls are regular E-and-E (Enrolling and Engrossing room) employees, and two are my employees who are MTST (automatic typewriter) operators," he said.

At first, Spellings said the computerized address list was not intended for Barnes' campaign.

But later, when asked if it would be correct to say the computerized list would have a dual state and political function, Spellings said:

INTERPRETATION "I think that is a good interpretation."

Spellings said the computerized address list would benefit the State.

"It is in keeping with his (Barnes') office and duties as lieutenant governor. The flow of correspondence is staggering. It is nothing but a simple tool to help us handle the flow of mail into this office," he said.

He said Barnes used his "green card" list—so-called because each name and address, as well as some other data, are recorded on green cards—to determine support during the 1971 legislative session for a State gasoline tax increase.

The legislature passed the increase but repealed it when Gov. Preston Smith threatened to veto it.

"You don't think that benefited the state—to have that kind of information from people we corresponded with in the past mayors and county officials?" Spellings asked.

If the list is of value to the state and the taxpayers, can other officials use it? "No, sir, it's Barnes'," Spellings replied.

Gift Puts $5,000 In Till Of Nearly Broke Foundation

AUSTIN (AP) — The nerr-ditional $2,000 a year to the foundation every year for the next five years.

Biggs said the Moody Foundation turned down a request for $100,000 this year because of prior commitments, but he hopes Moody will give something next year.

Appraisals of an abandoned South Pacific right-of-way from south of Boerne to Comfort are under way, Biggs said.

The railroad company is trying to decide if it will make more in sale of the land to adjacent property owners than it would benefit from a tax write-off by making the 30-mile strip months ago and other gifts a gift to the conservation foundation raised the total to $221, most of donation, he said.

The gift proposal is opposed time the Atlantic Richfield gift by most of the adjoining property owners, he said, because they think a hike and bike trail would attract hippies to the area.

Board member Ralph Churchill said 70,000 acres of national grassland in Wise and Fannin counties could be used for public recreation "within the shadow of Dallas and Fort Worth."

Churchill asked the foundation's board to send a letter to the U.S. Forest Service asking that the property be kept in the public domain.

The item was not on the agenda, however, and board member Pearce Johnson said it should be postponed in order to comply with the open meetings law.

HER WALKING PAPERS One-Horse Town

NOME, Alaska (AP) — This old gold rush city is on its way out as a one-horse town. Tessy has been given her walking papers.

The 5-year-old Shetland pony's problem is garbage cans. She can't resist poking into them.

In the old days, when such men as Wyatt Earp strolled along Nome's board sidewalks, hundreds of horses were used to haul loads through the boom town's muddy streets and to move gold dredges over the gold-rich gravel surrounding Nome.

But the number dwindled and dwindled until two weeks ago

Tessy and another horse were the only two in town.

Then the other horse was killed to provide food for a dog team on display for tourists.

With the town to herself and left to roam, Tessy increased her assaults on Nome's garbage cans and the city administration decided she had to go, one way or the other.

Happily for Tessy, it's the other. She'll be shipped by air to Kenai, Alaska, south of Anchorage, as soon as space on a cargo plane can be arranged by her keeper, the Rev. Paul Bills of the Assembly of God church.

"This horse has been in everybody's garbage pail and the whole town is upset," the minister said. "The police and the mayor have been getting all kinds of complaints."

Until she developed a penchant for garbage cans, Tessy had been a town pet for Nome's 3,000 residents.

Robert Morris, who originally bought Tessy, said: "It got to be a real bother. The kids won't pay much attention to her anymore. I couldn't find anyone to buy her, so I gave her away."

And the hay Tessy munched along with the tidbits she found in the garbage cans was expensive—up to $150 a ton by air, with no road links between Nome and other Alaska cities.

Police Chief David Scott, who eventually passed down the go-or-else edict, seemed almost apologetic about the whole episode.

"Gee whiz," he said, "every day there was three or four people at the doorway complaining about knocked-down garbage cans."

"I promised the mayor she'd be dead or out of town. We had to do something."

Trumans Cast Their Ballots

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Former President and Mrs. Harry S. Truman cast their ballots Tuesday in the city's school tax election.

The 87-year-old Truman sat in his car across from the polling place and a ballot was brought to him. Mrs. Truman voted inside the building. The clerk said she inquired about the turnout and expressed pleasure to learn 222 persons had voted by the time she arrived.

In the election voters for the third time this year—and the seventh time over-all—defeated a proposal to increase the school property tax levy by 95 cents. Schools have been closed since Nov. 1 because school officials said they lacked funds to pay teachers.

Polish Boy's Double Father

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A young Polish boy will soon become a naturalized U.S. citizen, and no body could be prouder than the Rev. Peter Kolton — A Roman Catholic priest who adopted him two years ago.

Father Kolton filed a petition for citizenship here on behalf of his adopted son, Mitchell, 12.

"I tell him, 'this is your country now! I don't want him to be a man without a country any longer,'" said Father Kolton, himself a naturalized U.S. citizen from Poland.

Officials said Mitchell, who constantly calls Father Kolton "Dad," will probably be sworn in next month.

"I feel proud to be an American," the boy said. "I also feel lucky my father's a priest."

Father Kolton said he learned of the boy while visiting New York in 1966. The family that adopted him had decided to send him back to his native Warsaw, Poland, he said.

"He already had a ticket to Warsaw, but I said, 'Let's switch the ticket and take him to Texas,'" the portly priest recalled. "I never had it in my mind to adopt him."

Later on, each time Father Kolton thought he had found the boy a new home, he would cry, "Father, please don't give me away."

Needless Amendment

The House of Representatives Monday rejected proposed amendment to the United States Constitution which would have permitted non-denominational prayers in public buildings.

In our view, this proposal should have been turned down, for it represents a more sober consideration of what has come to be an emotional issue growing out of the prayer cases of the Supreme Court.

Contrary to what a lot of people, who have never bothered to read the opinion or penetrating analysis of it, claim, the court did not ban prayer in places supported or maintained by public funds. Basically, what the court decided was that no public institution (a school in this case) could prescribe a prayer. This incensed many people who would have been more incensed and even horrified had the court upheld a prescribed prayer contrary to the prevalent religious climate. For instance, most Christian bodies would have raised hell had school authorities prescribed a Mohammedan or Hindu prayer, or even relied on the Jewish Talmud. But those who assumed the court had made a frontal assault on God did not look at this side of the coin. And so came the proposed amendment, which, to gain support, had the word "non-denominational" inserted before prayer.

Actually it would have accomplished nothing that the First Amendment does not assure; indeed, there are those who see in the proposal a governmental intrusion in deciding what is non-denominational, etc.

Those congressmen who stood firm may catch criticism from some of their constituents, but they should be credited with a courageous stand in beating back what could have been the first dilution in our Bill of Rights. Meanwhile, there is nothing — and there has never been — to prevent those (the home and the church) whose prime responsibility religious instruction really is from pursuing this vital role with great vigor. This is their business, and not the state's.

Regretful Resignation

It is with regret that we note the resignation of Hollis Randall as administrator of the Howard County road department.

It is with regret, too, that the reasons were not spelled out any further than "conditions." Our understanding is that he has had repeated harassment from at least one member of the commission. Yet he performed a quality service which earned him praise from two members of the commission. Certainly, a road administrator or engineer, is to be under the direction of the commissioners court, but this should be as a court and not as individuals.

Chinese Spies

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — Well-placed sources within the American intelligence community have identified at least four members of the newly-named Communist Chinese delegation to the United Nations as "highest-level" espionage experts.

MEANWHILE, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has prepared a supplemental budget request seeking funds to expand the bureau's corps of domestic counter-intelligence operatives. Hoover has informed President Nixon that the admission of Peking to the UN "will place a new and heavy burden" on the bureau's manpower. By law, the FBI is charged with the investigation and prosecution of foreign spies within the United States.

HEADING the list of intelligence experts named here is the No. 1 Chinese delegate, Chiao Kuan-hua, one of several Deputy Foreign Ministers who is generally regarded as the real power behind Acting Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei.

The others are Huang Hua, ambassador to Canada, named "regular chief delegate" to the UN; Tang Ming-choa, a member of the International Liaison Department, and Fu Hao, a career diplomat and secretary of the Communist Party's "Social Affairs Department." Fu Hao almost surely will run the Chinese delegation's spy shop as an autonomy within himself.

THE "SOCIAL Affairs Department"

(SAD) has nothing to do with the seating arrangements at diplomatic dinners, or with pensions or child care centers. Instead, it is Peking's central office for security and intelligence — the secret police and espionage apparatus. A kind of combination FBI and Central Intelligence Agency, SAD has its headquarters in a huge but nondescript building at No. 15 Bow Street Alley, Peking.

AS SAD's chief, Fu Hao not only will supervise espionage activities, he also will keep a policeman's eye on other members of the delegation, including even the prestigious Chiao Kuan-hua. No staff members will be named without SAD's approval.

Chiao is one of the few top Chinese functionaries who has been permitted to travel extensively abroad. One reason for this is that he is a longtime protegee of Premier Chou En-lai. The other is that he has proved himself a persuasive salesman of the Peking brand of world revolution.

THE OPERATING chief in the export of revolution is Tang Ming-choa, who personally approves revolutionary leaders whose names are submitted to him by agents in the field.

HUANG HUA, another close friend of Chou En-lai, is of the same stripe. Rep. John Buchanan, R-Ala., a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, claims Huang was "an important factor in the Brazzaville takeover in 1964."

Phony Guarantees

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The "guarantee" was emblazoned upon the package.

The company guarantees, it said, to replace any malfunctioning parts due to errors in manufacture, provided the malfunction occurred within one year of the purchase date and provided the purchaser paid all packaging and postage costs as well as all labor charges involved.

The product was an inexpensive clock that anybody with common sense would hesitate to return to the factory. They would be even less inclined to do so when they realized they were to pay all costs. Some guarantee.

More accurately, the statement should have been called a limitation, its intent and effect being to limit the manufacturer's responsibility to live up to his obligations.

Rather than assuring the buyer of quality, it not too subtly encouraged him to buy an inferior product and then to spend more money after bad—to spend more on repairs and postage when the product should be dumped.

Nevertheless, the device has been so common that there is hardly an American who hasn't been influenced to one degree or another by the implied assurance of a guarantee that the manufacturer would stand behind his product. Compare that guarantee with this, which is found on a highly popular brand of lawn-care product:

"If for any reason you are not satisfied with results after using this product, you are entitled to get your money back. Simply send us evidence of purchase and we will mail you a refund check promptly."

Note: No fancy language, no necessity to return the product, no limitations. In fact, the guarantee is little more than a simple, direct statement.

Understandably, not all guarantees can be so simply stated, but many can, and so it is no wonder that the Senate voted 76 to 2 this week to set up standards for guarantees, specifically that they be stated in "simple and readily understood language."

And while House approval still must be obtained before the Federal Trade Commission is empowered to establish fairness and clarity standards, it is odd in this age of consumerism that such obvious marketplace abuse was permitted to flourish.

To put it in perspective, the misleading guarantee is the equivalent of the exaggerated spiel of the door-to-door salesman or the monthly going-out-of-business sale, both of which are now largely regulated. And yet, the phony guarantee has often used the U.S. mails to communicate its message.

Curiously, the guarantee that isn't a guarantee has often been defended by legitimate businessmen. And, sadly, otherwise legitimate businesses have sometimes engaged in the practice.

On reflection, this may not be as curious as it sounds. The marketplace is still competitive, even if competition has been modified by the requirements of civilized behavior, by the monopoly power of some sellers and by government regulation.

Competition means that costs must be cut, and eventually some companies succumb to the temptation to lower their costs by cutting quality, that is, by concentrating on appearance at the expense of value.

The phony guarantee obviously is one way of doing this. Its lack of real value can be thoroughly disguised in legalese and grammatical convolutions so that what allegedly is an effort to be precise and to cover all possibilities is really an effort to be ambiguous and to avoid all eventualities.

If high standards are set for guarantees, hopefully it won't mean fewer guarantees, but that quality rather than deceit has been re-established as the criterion.

Switched Lines

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

What if script writers for television commercials got their lines and products mixed? The possibilities for fresh entertainment are incalculable.

FOR INSTANCE, many of these frequent interludes between episodes of trouble, trouble on the soap operas employ a well known personality for continuity. A case in point is Derwood Kirby, who happens to be representing a certain detergent company. The routine is the same, though one half of the names and faces change. A housewife bumps into him, has her shopping bag bowled over, disclosing the purchase of a second-best detergent. She makes some apology, saying she would like to have his product, except for cost. Tsk! Tsk! he remonstrates, when all's said and done, his is the cheapest. But with a little mixup, something like this might happen:

SHE — "Why don't you watch where you're going — Derwood Kirby! Why it's Derwood Kirby himself! I'm so sorry, but I'm really quite clumsy; I should have watched where I was going."

KIRBY — "Here madam, let me help you get your stuff back in the bags. I'm terribly sorry — and frankly a little curious, too. What in the world are you doing with all this Brand X detergent?"

SHE — Well, it's the only one that I can get in the big discount size that doesn't cost more per ounce than the small size. It takes plenty of this stuff at our house. What do you think?

KIRBY — "I think you need some of our new product, Baby Breath. Ever since we came face to face here, I've been trying to think of a way to break this news to you, but madam, you have a personal problem. Does your husband kiss you when he comes home, or does he rush for the lawn mower?"

SHE — "Are you saying what I think you are saying — are you saying that I have a problem when I am within breathing range?"

KIRBY — "Madam, let's face it — or rather you face it — you have had breath! Here (reaching into a handy six pack of samples he carries with him) try this."

SHE — "I'm deeply grateful to you and for your refreshing candor. And now would you mind reaching over there and getting that box of detergent for me?"

As Kirby bends down to reach for the errand box, there is a dull thud. He has been struck in the back of the head with a full shopping bag. He sprawls on the floor in a puddle created by the shattered samples of Baby's Breath.

SHE — "Now you have a personal problem. Better stick to your soap flakes, Smarty!"

Sweeping Program

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Congress is considering legislation which would mean spending 5.3 billion dollars over the next five years to establish for the first time a comprehensive program of federal aid to private as well as public colleges and universities.

THE HOUSE of Representatives passed on Friday the bill approved by its Committee on Education and Labor. This will now go to conference to reconcile its provisions with the one passed in August by the Senate. So, while the measure is not yet in final form, there will undoubtedly emerge legislation which will relieve the financial plight of institutions of higher education throughout the nation.

The need for such assistance was emphasized by a study issued on Thursday by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education which indicates that nearly 500 private colleges may close unless steps are taken to aid them financially. The study shows that a substantial number are predominantly black, most have small student bodies, and all face possible bankruptcy.

TAKEN COLLECTIVELY, the private institutions are in debt for over a quarter of the book value of their physical plants and that 24 per cent are borrowing from their endowments for operating costs.

To meet financial crises of this magnitude, the legislation now before Congress would also provide special funds for emergency assistance to institutions of higher education which are in severe financial distress. The expected enactment by Congress will save many private colleges.

AID WILL GO even to educational institutions which are operated by churches or other religious organizations, though with certain restrictions. In providing grants in the form of "cost of instruction allowances," for instance, it is stipulated that federal funds must be used only for academically related activities and that none of the money can be utilized for schools or departments of divinity or for religious worship or sectarian activities. If an institution agrees to this and to conditions with respect to its own fiscal effort and not to increase tuition fees, it is eligible for this allowance.

MANY PROGRAMS are included in the new legislation to provide assistance not only to colleges themselves but to students.

Existing projects are being expanded for the training of students in various vocations as well as for fellowships for professional studies leading to advanced degrees.

Among the projects is a "college work study program" for students, especially those from low-income families, who need jobs to help pay their expenses. They work part-time while attending classes, but during the summer or other vacation periods they may be working 40 hours a week. The college itself may employ the students or they may work for off-campus employers. Their jobs on the campus include work in libraries, laboratories, dining halls or grounds maintenance. Some of the off-campus jobs are with public or nonprofit organizations in health, welfare and recreation activities.

Under the guaranteed loan program, a student may borrow from a bank, savings and loan association, credit union or other lender certain amounts of money needed to go to college or vocational school. Once there is an institutional decision that the student is in need of a loan, the federal government insures the loan and will pay the full interest charges while he or she is attending school.

The new measure is the most comprehensive ever presented in the field of higher education. Its enactment will afford assistance to private institutions which has not heretofore been made available to them.

Progress?

E. Forrest Copeland

PROGRESS — We're really in trouble now. The minute Big Business ... Big Labor and Big Government got into the twin bed labeled wage-price controls ... they immediately sent the statisticians back to the computers to gather more facts. Other than the probability that three will turn out to be quite a crowd ... I suspect the additional facts provided by the computers will have very little bearing on the success or failure of Phase II.

It's not that I object to either facts or computers ... they're both nice to have around ... if you know what to do with them. For I remember that many years ago ... if a man was not careful ... he could sail right off the edge of the world. Everybody had a cure for the common cold in those days ... and the Moon was made of green cheese. The security we felt with those strongly held misconceptions was phenomenal. Yet we adjusted to the chipping away of our ignorance ... and called it progress.

IN THE END ... it would not be surprising to see the natural order of things once again prevail ... as man learns anew that he is not smart ... just a bit less ignorant ... and that we will indeed earn our bread by the sweat of our brow ... computers ... facts ... liberals ... labor leaders ... and the four day work week ... notwithstanding.

FLOATING SEVENTIES — When you float something ... the objective is to cut it loose from all its past moorings ... and attempt to lash it down in a more secure spot ... further down the river. Lately it seems everybody has the "floats." Latest to surface has been the floating of the prime rate by a couple of the major banks ... and the floating of foreign policy ... by the Senate cutting off foreign aid. Add to this the floating of the dollar overseas

... the floating of morals by a permissive society ... the floating of business in the stock market as they seek to reorder the nature of the business via new commission rates and regulations ... and one quickly sees little or nothing is tied down in this day and age.

THERE'S MORE ... but I'll label this decade as the "Floating Seventies" without any hesitation. For without question ... floating any single one of the above mentioned items could in itself cause quite a backwash in the river of our environment. To float them all at once is indeed an invitation to drastic change.

STOCK MARKET POSTURE — There's a theory in wall street ... that when the market or an individual stock opens substantially higher than it closed ... creating a gap in the graphic bar charts of technical analysis ... that sooner or later that gap is filled ... meaning the market or stock comes back down in price ... filling in the gap with the lower price action as the initial enthusiasm wears off.

Many times it has proven true. Most recently in the case of the closely followed Dow Jones Industrial averages ... which opened with a gap of buying enthusiasm after President Nixon's announcement of a new economic policy in mid August. Subsequently market action described a steady decline in the popular averages to around the 825 level on the Dow ... filling the gap.

As we go to press a rally seems to be developing. It feels good ... but there's an air of caution around the street. With everything floating ... as indicated above ... we're quite apt to be a good piece down the river ... before we can tie the things down to a long term trend of any duration or substance.

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a bank teller gets tired of hearing:

"Just put it all in this little brown bag, and don't make a squawk."

"There must be some mistake. I couldn't be overdrawn. I'm never overdrawn this early in the month."

"Why is it I always seem to have less money this month than the month before?"

"Don't you ever get tired of handling other people's dough?"

"Would you mind looking through your change drawer for a 1916 penny minted in Denver? I need one to help complete my coin collection?"

"After I saw you at the $50 window at the racetrack last Saturday, Roger, I decided it might be a good idea to close out my account here."

"Don't get nervous. Just put it all in this little brown bag, and—"

"You may have a banker's hours, Roger, but the similarity stops right there."

"Are you sure the signature on this check is really mine? That doesn't look like the way I sign my name when I'm sober. Of course, on the other hand, I never write a check when I'm sober."

"Put it in, take it out. Put it in, take it out. Why don't I ever manage to keep a little for a rainy day so I can afford to buy an umbrella?"

"Where are you going on your vacation this year, Roger? Brazil?"

"Would you mind cashing my personal check for $215, and give it all to me in quarters? I want to pay off my no-good, two-bit chiseling landlord."

"If you give somebody too much money by mistake, Roger, do you have to pay it back to the bank yourself, or does it just let bygones be bygones?"

"You know if you just dipped in the till a little each day for yourself, kid, in time you could buy out the bank."

"Some day this, will all be done by machines."

"Your face looks familiar. Aren't you the same guy I held up last month? Well, then you know the routine. Just put it all in this little brown bag, and—"

My Answer

Billy Graham

A few months ago my husband died and I just can't overcome my grief. All my friends tell me to forget the past, but this is difficult for me. Can you help me?

F.N. When one tries to recapture that which is gone forever, it brings frustration, and sometimes depression. I would not tell you to forget your husband, but you must remember him with gratitude and enlightened intelligence. If you remember your husband in the right way, that memory can help you to move forward, but if you remember him with bitterness, and remorse, it can damage your spiritual life, and make you miserable, as well as those around you. Obviously you are handling this sorrow in the wrong way. Jesus said to His troubled disciples, "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me." Two things are revealed in these words. First, each of us has the power to expel worry and trouble, and even sorrow, from our minds. Jesus said, "Let not" and this signifies that we control trouble and sorrow, or at least our attitude toward it. Second, he said, "Ye believe in God, believe ye also in me." To believe in God and His Son, Jesus Christ, means that we believe that heaven makes no mistakes. Probably some of your grief is caused by feelings of blame toward God for allowing your sorrow to occur. Remember this: God never did an unkind thing to His children. He loves you, and always will love you, and nothing can change that.

A Devotion For Today...

One thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see. (John 9:25)

PRAYER: For the touch of Thy spirit that changes our life habits and attitudes, we give Thee our humble thanks, O God. Make us more eager to share our blessings and our faith with others. We pray in Christ's name. Amen.

A LOVELIER YOU Add Makeup Glow To Evening's Styles

By MARY SUE MILLER
She is lovely, a lady dressed for an evening occasion. No thing of gypsy rags and patches. Our lady is wrapped in furs and velvets. Her face gleams with fresh color. She has a slightly mysterious air. Just enough to capture your interest. And she has quality. Star quality.

In short she seems to have everything going for her. Even the night lights favor her. But do they really? More likely evening makeup is the flatterer. Would you like to know the secret of it?

Well now, you start with a strong pink underbase. Apply it to your entire face and let set before filming on your accustomed foundation, the dual application results in a glow that appears to come from within. Has staying power too.

Lipstick holds its own when you wear clear, insistent reds, shades that are new again and newly a-glow. Be sure always to avoid a blue-red. It has the faculty of looking macabre under artificial lights. You may want for a bit of color winged high on the cheekbones. If so, use whipped cream rouge, to meld in color with your lipstick. This consistency clings from dawn to dusk.

ESA Story Explained To Rushees

Aspects of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority were discussed for rushees by Jewel pin members of Mu Kappa Chapter, Monday in the home of Mrs. Lonnie Zant, 2407 Morrison.

The women outlined opportunities available through ESA and discussed the levels of achievement.

Mrs. J. W. Dickens presided at the model meeting. Members brought knitted house shoes, wheel chair pillows and lap robes which they made for residents at Big Spring Nursing Inn.

The women agreed to decorate doors in a wing at Veterans Administration Hospital for Christmas, and they will also present patients with gifts.

The chapter's annual bake sale will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Nov. 20 at Highland Center Mall.

Mrs. Marilyn Wilson was accepted as a transfer member from a chapter in Lovington. Guests included Mrs. Marion Treadway, Mrs. Joyce Walker and Mrs. Joe Little.

A pledge ceremony for rushees will be conducted at the next meeting, at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 22 at the K.C. Steak and Seafood House.

Gives Tips On 'Personality'

"Personality and Relationships" was discussed by Mrs. Gerald Wooten and Mrs. Joe Dobry for Mu Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Monday in the home of Mrs. Tommy Rutledge.

"Personality represents all that a person is and does," said Mrs. Wooten. "It is the most important part of any relationship, and a person reveals his personality by how he acts during disappointments, how he solves his problems and how he acts toward family and friends."

Mrs. Dobry outlined methods of obtaining and keeping a good personality. She said one should always look for good qualities in others and an attempt should be made to give five sincere compliments each day.

Mrs. Tom Warren presided over installation ceremonies for Mrs. Bobby Wooten, treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Wilson, recording secretary. Mrs. Coy Mitchell was made telephone chairman.

Members will attend a ritual ceremony of Alpha Eta Upsilon Chapter in Ackerly, which Mu Zeta helped establish.

A barbecue party is planned at 7 p.m., Nov. 20. The next regular meeting is at 6:45 p.m., Nov. 22 for a ritual ceremony in the home of Mrs. Rex Goff, 416 Dallas.

Educators Eye Free 'Learning Experiment'

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A school operating on a financial shoestring is paying handsome dividends to children of the ghetto.

Project Link, a nondenominational, tuition-free experiment in learning, offers individual attention and free expression to 100 seventh and eighth graders here.

"Some people may think we're just another junior high," says the school's principal, Sister Maureen. "But we're trying to give these students a second chance. What's needed most in urban education these days is individual attention. The potential is there. It's just bringing it out."

GOOD RESULTS

Link reports good results. Reading levels have jumped ahead, on the average, two years, the dropout rate is zero and daily attendance is nearly 100 per cent.

Founded by Dominican nuns two years ago as an outgrowth of a summer tutoring project, Link rents the somewhat cramped basement and fourth floor of St. Antonius School here.

It is approved by the State Department of Education and funded by private donations. The pupils, most of them "underachievers" formerly in public schools, enroll on the advice of parents and teachers. Costs are low — the annual budget is $35,000 — because the nuns don't take salaries and several other teachers are assigned to the school through cooperative arrangements with nearby graduate schools.

Past Matrons Planning Party

The Coahoma Past Matrons met Saturday at the First United Methodist Church, Coahoma, with Mrs. Joel Miller and Mrs. J. A. Westmoreland as hostesses. A Thanksgiving theme was used in decorations. Mrs. Charlie Engel gave the devotion, and Mrs. Fred Beckham presided. The group will have a Christmas party Dec. 4 with Mrs. D. S. Phillips, Mrs. Fred Adams, Mrs. Gene O'Daniel and Mrs. Joe Rogers as hostesses.

staples, and extras like black history and film editing. Link emphasizes small classes and counseling.

Ten teachers conduct classes of three to 18 students, and a fulltime guidance counselor, Sister Melchior — "the heart of the school," Sister Maureen says — is there just to listen to students. Parents pitch in as aides and program planners.

The day begins with breakfast in the borrowed cafeteria of St. Antonius — a time, Sister Maureen says, for casual conversation.

The morning sessions are devoted to classes in social studies, math, science, English, reading and language, and the afternoon to fine arts and physical education.

In Miss Paula Danziger's reading class, two boys whose reading levels were second and sixth grade in September and are now up several levels, sit at Controlled Reading machines, mouthing the words as they flash by, oblivious to the conversations of visitors.

In Sister Veritas' mathematics class, a young girl proudly displays a booklet of problems she has completed. Another student asks the fine arts teacher, George Tregido, what he thinks of the student's sketch of an animal ultimately destined to adorn a basement wall.

And all the time Sister Melchior sits at a desk at the top of a fourth-floor stairway, her only office, and listens to students who come to talk.

The teachers also are attentive to children whose lives, they say, are profoundly affected by the ghetto.

For instance, many of the children refuse to take their coats off during classes, says Sister Melchior, because they are afraid they'll be stolen.

The teachers share the students' lives outside the classroom, too.

Lenny Parker, a social studies and physical education teacher, takes many a pupil to basketball games, and when the mothers of three pupils died during the year, classes were dismissed so the whole school could attend the funerals.

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

Been reading up on what we should do now that it's time to stop cutting the grass, get certain plants out of the yard and others in... set up a little program for getting pots of soil put back (I guess in case of spring coming and the ground being frozen) and all those little helpful hints that gardeners give gardeners.

We always read the hints and find them interesting. That's about as far as we go, at least my part of the 'we'. The lawn-mower nearly got put away several weeks ago but the other half of the 'we' decided to put another layer of fertilizer on the grass in order to give it a good foundation for the winter.

It's a good thing the mower was left out because the grass grew like a family of rabbits and has had to have a cut several times and is ready again. This may be the last time for the season.

We had such a pleasant surprise this weekend with a visit from our former neighbors, MR. and MRS. FLOYD PARSONS of Little Rock, Ark. They were en route to San Diego, Calif., to attend a convention of school superintendents and to visit her mother and brother. In addition to having the pleasure of their company, we visited with a lot of mutual friends who got together for a gabfest. They left Tuesday morning.

MR. and MRS. ROBERT CURRIE have recently returned from a short vacation trip to Las Vegas, Nev., and Phoenix, Ariz.

A visitor in the home of MR. and MRS. MATT HARRINGTON has been his sister, MRS. MARION WILLIAMS of Fort Worth.

The birth of a son Sunday evening to CAPT. and MRS. EARL SMITH brought the number of grandsons for the K. H. MCGIBBONSSES to six. Capt. Smith is presently serving in the US Army at Fort Hood at Killeen. The mother is the former Karen McGibbon.

By the news I see the Scots are having the meeting of the clans at Salado this weekend and I'm sure our Scot friend, JACK DOUGLAS, who formerly worked for The Herald will be there... probably leading the parade. He is with the Fort Worth Star Telegram.

We're expecting our No. Three son home from Baylor this weekend. He'll come here with Terry McNair of Snyder and he and his Baylor-Exe father will attend the Tech-Baylor game in Lubbock Saturday.

Mrs. J. H. Mariner, 510 Flock Drive, reported a theft Tuesday of a 4-inch by 5-inch flat vise, and a 2-inch chain pipe vise both valued at $45.

LEGAL PROBLEMS

The chamber manager told the commission that legally the Industrial Foundation cannot initiate the transfer of the lease, but that the city can. Mayor Arnold Marshall was briefed on the problem and has already sent a letter to the Corps for advice on the legal steps the city must take.

UPKEEP QUERY

Maintenance on the spur was questioned. The base is charged $16,000 per year for upkeep on the spur, however the Foundation can get the maintenance at a lower price, 25 cents per foot, Eastland said.

RED TAPE

Watkins reiterated the possibility of legal red tape, and also pointed out that a surety bond must be given the city by the Foundation to release the city of all responsibility, plus a switching agreement change must be made.

NO BURDEN

Eastland told the city fathers that the club was no burden on the chamber. The commission then directed the chamber to operate the facility until the end of December under contract agreement.

SPLIT VOTE

Four of the commissioners voted in favor of the zoning change with Watkins voting against it. Final approval of the zoning change ordinance will come with the passage on third reading in the next regular session.

Love In Private

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote in saying she and her husband were embarrassed by a friend who carried on with his girl friend in public, "kissing, hugging, smooching and what not." She claimed it was bad manners, and you advised, "Tell Loverboy to knock off the love scenes in public."

I think you were both wrong! I see nothing wrong with showing affection in public. If people waited until they had total privacy, there would be very little affection shown. And if children were not exposed to displays of affection, they would grow up without knowing what "love" is.

My father is 57, and Mom is 48, and he has always kissed her whenever he felt like it. Once Mom joked, "You've mussed my hair and smeared my lipstick!" And Dad grabbed her again and said, "Who has a better right?" And that, in my opinion, is the right attitude.

RAISED RIGHT
DEAR RAISED: Hold it! I was also raised right, having seen my father hug and kiss my mother, plus giving her an occasional affectionate smack on the backside. But good taste demands limits. And limits we had in our house. Kids grow up knowing what "love" is without having seen it demonstrated through to the last act.

DEAR ABBY: George and I have been dating regularly and we really get along very well, but he has one habit which drives me up a wall!

When we eat together, before he even TASTES the food, George gets busy with the salt and pepper, and he really lays it on! He does this when we are eating at my home, at the homes of others, or when we're eating out.

I feel insulted when I see him add salt and pepper before he even knows if the food needs it or not.

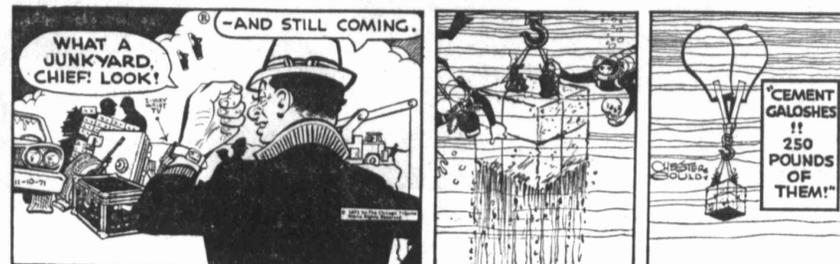

Can I come right out and tell George it's bad manners? I have even thought of making a stew and drowning it in salt and pepper just to teach him a lesson.

LADYFRIEND
DEAR LADYFRIEND: Why waste good food? Simply tell George to please taste the food first, and then if he thinks it needs more salt and pepper to add it. (P.S. And if this is George's biggest fault, you're a lucky lady.)

As for sex, he can take it or leave it alone, but he mostly leaves it alone. Is this normal for a 23-year-old guy? I still get whistled at when I walk down the street, so I know it's not ME!

He told me he had a physical at the plant where he works and he came out A-O.K. Please tell me how I can wake up this Rip Van Winkle? RIP'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: It is not normal for a 23-year-old man to be so disinterested in sex. And anyone who sleeps as much as your husband should wake up and get a thorough going over by another doctor. Don't let him put it off. It could be serious.

He's A Chewer

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our son, things — not food.

Of course, small children will put the most outlandish things in their mouths, and the biggest, but not the only, danger is swallowing something dangerous, such as open safety pins, or choking on beads, coins or other small objects that can get into the trachea or even the lung, being swallowed when playing, running, crying or laughing.

This phase should end by age 5 — at least to the degree that you describe.

Pica, however, is usually related to dietary deficiency, particularly an iron deficiency causing anemia. This may not be a very severe anemia, but the person, sensing that something is lacking but not knowing what, eats odd things.

So by all means, tell your doctor about the boy's chewing habits. A blood count will show whether there is any anemia. You didn't mention his eating habits — at the dinner table. I mean. Meat and vegetables will get iron into his system, but he may need a medicinal supplement.

I don't guarantee this to be the answer, but it is a possibility worth investigating. Aside from all else, there's the risk that he may chew something potentially poisonous. There was a fairly recent warning that lead can be absorbed from chewing a painted pencil. Lead or other poisons could be swallowed, even in small amounts, from some of the other things he gnaws.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a fibroid of the uterus prevent one from becoming pregnant? I am 46 and the doctor said I have not started menopause yet.

Does such a fibroid cause periods to be irregular? I skip a month once in a while, or sometimes have two periods in the same month. — Mrs. J. M.

First question: there are fibroids and fibroids. There are three layers of tissue in the wall of the uterus, and a fibroid tumor can occur in any one of them. Fibroids may not prevent pregnancy — but when a fibroid encroaches on the inner layer, it can prevent pregnancy and also can cause irregular bleeding. Therefore, no single answer can fit your question.

The skipping and irregularity at age 46 would lead me to suspect pre-menopausal influence. I presume that you have had a recent Pap test.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: One of the ladies at the nursing home here told me that alfalfa pills and vitamin E would cure arthritis. I don't dare mention it to my doctor. He'd go through the ceiling. I thought you might give me a more tolerant answer. — N.L.G.

I won't go through the ceiling, but I don't think any such remedy will do anything for your arthritis. Since it won't hurt you, either, I won't tell you not to try it, but I wouldn't expect any results.

NATIONAL LEAGUE MVP — St. Louis Cardinals' Joe Torre, named Tuesday as the "1971 National League Most Valuable Player," answers questions at a press conference in St. Louis shortly after the announcement was made. Along with Torre for the news was former St. Louis Cardinal Joe Medwick, a 1937 winner of the MVP award.

Torre Had Feeling He Would Win MV Award

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "Over the years I think it's gone to the right player," said Joe Torre, who Tuesday clinched an 11-season major league baseball career with his selection as the National League's Most Valuable Player.

But, Torre added, "to win it so overwhelmingly is a surprise. You definitely think about it; you know that the voting is done as soon as the season's over. I had a feeling I'd get it."

The 6-foot-1, 200-pound Torre, only the third third baseman to win the award, also became the 10th St. Louis Cardinal to share an honor Stan Musial won three times.

WIDE MARGIN

His margin over runnerup Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the majors' home run king, was 318-222 in balloting points by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Torre received 21 of the committee's 24 first-place votes, Stargell polling the other three. Third place went to the Atlanta Braves' inveterate Hank Aaron.

"What hurt Stargell in the voting, I think, was that it was

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

There's not an over-abundance of talent on the Big Spring Sophomore football team but the boys scrap and come up to make a hit. The varsity Steers could take lessons from them.

Football powers come and go. Before World War II, Columbia, Fordham and Carnegie Tech were juggernauts in the east. Lou Little took an underdog Columbia team to the Rose Bowl and, in the rain, erased Stanford. Fordham and Carnegie Tech were accepting bowl bids around the country.

Now, Columbia rarely strays from the Ivy League and Fordham and Carnegie Tech have long since cut their athletic budgets to the bone.

There have also been many incidents of shifting football fortunes among Texas high schools. Breckenridge was the terror of the preps prior to and immediately following the great war. Masonic Home and Waco High walked with seven league bowls.

Currently, Breckenridge has fallen upon hard times in the game — mainly because the school doesn't import players as it once did. Masonic Home still plays the game but doesn't make waves.

Waco High bravely goes out to do battle each weekend in season but its resistance is token. It hasn't won a state championship since 1948. This year, the Tigers have been belted by Temple, 68-12, and Cleburne, 69-0.

Another one-time giant which can usually be caught dozing during autumn evenings is Amarillo High. Not too long ago the Sandies caused the opposition to panic.

There were times, in football, when Cisco and Ranger were harder to caress than a porcupine. Now those two schools are regarded as patsies by many of their opponents.

A mouse can tug at the whiskers of a dead lion. Time barrels on, leaving with it a thousand legends and a million hurrahs.

One of the men who helped to shape football history as late as the 1950s was Dan Stallworth, a coach at Baytown.

Stallworth lived here for a time back in the 20s but he was better known then as a football official than as a coach. Dan guided Baytown into the state finals in both 1951 and 1952. Largely because of those feats, he was voted into the Texas High School Coaches Hall of Honor a few years ago.

In 1951, Lubbock edged Baytown, in the state finals, 14-12, and one of the boys who helped the Westerners box in Stallworth's team was Jimmy Sides, whose father once was principal at Big Spring High School.

When the Dallas Cowboys play on the road, as they did last week, they command a big viewing and listening audience in the Southwest and around the nation.

The Cowboys' game with St. Louis was carried over 27 TV stations in six states, in addition to 25 in the Chicago area, nine in southern Louisiana and 15 in vicinity of St. Louis.

In addition, the game was relayed to listeners of 125 radio stations in four states.

It's quite likely that teams with three and four defeats will be popping up in some of the major bowl games.

There simply isn't enough talent to go around. The Orange Bowl has about the only chance to offer the only two undefeated, untied teams in the country.

If you regard the new Fiesta Bowl in Arizona as a major game, there will be 11 major bowls in the national bidding for teams in games booked either in late December or early January. Arizona State likely will be one of the Fiesta Bowl teams.

Aspromonte Is New Manager At Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Ken Aspromonte, former Cleveland Indians player and a manager in the Tribe's farm system, has been given the task of turning the Indians around after one of the most dismal seasons in the team's history.

Aspromonte was named manager of the Indians Tuesday at a reported $27,000 salary. He succeeds Johnny Ligon, who was not rehired after finishing the season for Alvin Dark who was fired July 30.

"Any club that lost as many games as the Indians did last season is bound to be down," said Aspromonte. "We're going to work hard on morale and on motivation... to get the players thinking right again."

The new manager said he plans to spend a lot of time over the winter traveling around the country to talk to members of the team.

The 40-year-old Aspromonte said he is aggressive "and I expect my players to be just as aggressive. I like to win. I have a phobia about losing."

Aspromonte said he "can be tough" and promised a strenuous spring training program starting Feb. 28 at Tucson, Ariz.

The Indians lost 102 games this past season. The only other Indians team to do that badly was the 1914 squad, which lost the same number.

Tribe President Gabe Paul had been looking for a new manager since Oct. 13. He had tried unsuccessfully to lure Dave Bristol, manager of the Milwaukee Brewers, to Cleveland before turning to Aspromonte.

Aspromonte played for the Indians from 1960 to 1962 and also played for the Washington Senators, Los Angeles Angels, Chicago Cubs, Milwaukee Braves and Boston Red Sox during a major league career that extended from 1957 to 1963.

He ended his playing career with the Taiyo Whales of Japan in 1966.

He has managed Tribe farm clubs the past four seasons.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of the PGA in February, was sleeping off the drain of a 31-hour flight from Australia. His lakeside home is only 10 minutes from the course.

Nicklaus is the U.S. representative along with U.S. Open king Trevino. "The U.S. is the unquestioned favorite," said Player. "Nicklaus on a good day is unbeatable, and he's been playing awfully well."

While Trevino was virtually locking up the money title on the $7 million American tour, Nicklaus was capturing the less-profitable events on the international prestige trail in Australia.

Player and Nicklaus were flying companions on the Monday journey from Sydney that included stops in the Fiji Islands, Hawaii, Dallas and Atlanta.

Buster Mathis Hungrier Now Than 2 Years Ago

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Buster Mathis says the difference was beaten by Jerry Quarry in him now and two years ago his last fight but says his past problems are gone—now he has new ones, like a son to support.

"When a man gets hungry he can get really vicious," Mathis said Tuesday after a training session in preparation for his Nov. 17 12-rounder in the Astrodome against Muhammad Ali.

"And I'll tell you, I'm starving," the 260-pound Mathis said. "I think the odds are 50-50 when I step into that ring but I don't care what the odds are. I'm just going to win."

Mathis said he hoped to prove in the fight that Ali is human like everyone else.

Auburn, Texas, Lions Favored This Week

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
NEW YORK (AP) — It's look-ahead time in the college football world with Nebraska, Oklahoma, Michigan and Alabama all undergoing final tune-ups before their biggest games of the season. But it's NOW time for Auburn and Georgia.

Those Southeastern Conference titans, two of the nine unbeaten teams in the land, clash at Athens, Ga., in a game that will go a long way not only in deciding the SEC champion, but a couple of bowl berths, as well.

Both teams will be in post-season action somewhere. The loser will drop out of contention for the national championship, which will probably be decided in the Orange or Sugar Bowl, but may wind up in the Cotton Bowl.

FOUR SHUTOUTS

The Georgia defense has chalked up four shutouts in the last eight games and allowed only seven points in each of the four others. But they haven't faced a quarterback who's having the kind of year Auburn's Pat Sullivan is having.

None of Georgia's previous opponents is in the Top Twenty. Auburn survived a 10-9 scare at Tennessee earlier in the season. Buoyed by the knowledge that the big SEC games—Auburn at Tennessee, Alabama at Louisiana State—have gone to the visitors, one shaky vote is cast for... AUBURN.

Nebraska at Kansas State—Next... Oklahoma. The Cornhuskers throttled Iowa State 37-0 last Saturday and now go after K-State's Dennis Morrison, who is coming off a 363-yard passing effort. NEBRASKA.

Kansas at Oklahoma—Next... Nebraska. The Sooners were held to 20 points by Missouri, but Kansas has been joined for 30 by Florida State, 38 by Minnesota, 55 by Nebraska, 40 by Iowa State and 35 by Colorado. OKLAHOMA.

Miami, Fla. at Alabama—Next... Auburn. And coming off the dramatic conquest of LSU, this would be the perfect time for a letdown, especially with ace runner Johnny Musso sidelined. But Bear Bryant doesn't have many letdowns. ALABAMA.

North Carolina State at Penn State—N.C. State's Al Michaels was a star quarterback at Penn State during his playing days and as assistant coach from 1955-57. The Lions wouldn't want to show an alumnae a losing team. PENN STATE.

ON BINGE

Texas Christian at Texas—A victory would put TCU in the Southwest Conference lead and the Horned Frogs have been on an emotional binge since the death of Coach Jim Pittman.

This also will be an emotional time for Darrell Royal, of Texas, who was Pittman's boss for 12 years at Mississippi State, Washington and... TEXAS.

Southern California at Washington—Some streak is going to get busted. USC's Sam Cunningham is hurt. Washington's Sonny Sixkiller isn't. WASHINGTON.

Northwestern at Ohio State—Where, oh, where has the Buckeyes' offense gone? Hello, Columbus. Goodbye, Northwestern. OHIO STATE.

Coahoma Winner Over Garden City

GARDEN CITY — Coahoma's girls inflicted the first basketball loss of the season on Garden City here Tuesday night, 58-42.

The two teams meet again next Tuesday in Coahoma.

Lisa Hirt of Garden City led both teams in scoring with 33 points. Theresa Beal had 22 for the Bulldogs.

Coahoma also won the B game, 43-36, in a test that saw Debra Plagens count 26 points for Garden City and J. King 14 for the visitors.

Garden City's A team is now 3-1 on the year.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—John Brockington, The Associated Press' Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League, has a simple but irrefutable approach to the game.

"If you're running slow, you get hit; and, if you're running fast, you're going to get hit; so you might as well run fast and hard," said Brockington, the Green Bay Packer rookie who rushed for 142 yards in 30 carries to spark a 17-14 victory over the Chicago Bears Sunday.

Even From Hospital Bed, Lincoln Team Looks Good

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., (AP)—ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press high school poll. Lincoln was also undefeated and ranked No. 5.

Washington has won a state championship, but this was before Lincoln became a member of the University Interscholastic League. The Bees had never beaten Jefferson, so here was the whole season wrapped into 48 minutes of playing time.

Playing inspired defense and taking advantage of every opportunity, Lincoln prevailed to clinch a state playoff berth.

"I really felt helpless," Washington said. "I would have traded six months more in the hospital to have been there."

"My coaching staff has done a tremendous job and I would have carried water to do my part," Washington said.

"Of course the staff has come to see me and we have talked about upcoming games. We have maintained communication. "But its just not like being there," he sighed.

Mitchell Is Back Of Week In AP Poll

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa (AP) — Who inspires Lydell Mitchell, the Penn State record breaker?

"Myself," answered Mitchell on a questionnaire last summer for the athletic department. "I have a lot of pride that makes me work hard. But I want to keep getting better."

The 200-pound running back seems to be fulfilling his goal.

In the Nittany Lions' 63-27 victory Saturday over Maryland, Mitchell ran the ball 24 times, gained 209 yards, scored five touchdowns and broke or eclipsed six Penn State records.

For his performance, Mitchell, who admits he looks more like 35 than 22 because of a deep receding hairline, was named "College Back of the Week by The Associated Press."

By The Associated Press

Jeff Siemon was in on 17 tackles Saturday as Stanford defeated UCLA 20-9 and clinched its second straight Pacific-8 championship and the Rose Bowl berth that goes with it.

So what else is new?

"We expect him to get 17 tackles every week," says Coach John Raiston. "He's never had a bad game."

This, however, was one of Siemon's better ones and it earned the 6-foot-2, 233-pound linebacker from Bakersfield, Calif., honors as The Associated Press' national college Lineman of the Week. Siemon's tackles included a number of third-down stops that forced UCLA to punt.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Bruce Gadd found it difficult to revel in his own moment of personal glory last Saturday night.

The junior quarterback came off the bench to throw two touchdown passes and pull the Rice Owls within an eyelash of a stunning upset of 18th ranked Arkansas.

But Gadd's impressive return to the starting quarterback position was brunt by Arkansas' last second field goal that netted a 24-24 tie.

Gadd, who completed 12 of 15 passes against the Razorbacks, got another chance to take a bow today when he was named The Associated Press Southwest Conference Offensive Player of the Week.

GARDEN CITY (43) — Lisa Hirt 7-39; Debbie Pearce 1-3-5; Kathy Botta 1-0-2; Linda Barlow 1-1-3; Teresa 19-23-42; COAHOMA (38) — Pam Patterson 3-8; Sally Echols 4-0-12; Theresa Best 8-2-22; Shirley Griffin 3-10-14; Teresa 25-18-38.

Phoenix Suns Make A Run At Milwaukee But Lose

The Phoenix Suns scared the daylight out of the Milwaukee Bucks, but the National Basketball Association champions prevailed in a fierce struggle that seemed like a playoff game in March.

"Phoenix played a fantastic game, they really wanted this one," said Milwaukee coach Larry Costello Tuesday night after the Bucks had pulled out a 118-113 victory after trailing by seven points at 97-90 early in the last quarter.

It took a 44-point performance by Kareem Jabbar and two key steals by Lucius Allen and Bob Dandridge in the last minute with the Bucks ahead 115-113 for the NBA champions to win their 16th straight on their home court. The score was tied 14 times and the lead changed hands 10 times.

The Golden State Warriors whipped Houston 115-99, Los Angeles downed Chicago 123-109 and Buffalo defeated Portland 109-100 in the other NBA games scheduled.

"The Suns hustled, hit the open man and had an awful lot of layups, particularly in the third quarter," Costello commented.

As for Cotton Fitzsimmons, the Phoenix coach, he said, "Jabbar takes all the fun out of coaching for me. Here we screen, we pick, we pass and all they have to do is throw it to the big safety valve and he drops it in."

"When we were up 97-90," Fitzsimmons continued, "we let him get the ball too much. And when the pressure was on, our playmaking left something to be desired. The Bucks played with a little more confidence than the Suns when they're behind. I think that was the whole story."

A three-point play by Jabbar tied the score at 106-106 with 4:10 left to play and with 3:38 on the clock a hook by Jabbar put the Bucks ahead for good at 108-106. Connie Hawkins was high for the Suns with 28.

Houston, led by Stu Lantz the game's high scorer with 30 points, opened a 15-point bulge in the first half before the Warriors erupted after halftime.

Cazzie Russell sparked the rally with 12 points in the third period. He finished with 23.

Stanton-Big Lake Game Advanced To Thursday

STANTON — The Stanton-Big Lake District 5-AA football game will be played at 7:30 p.m. here Thursday, coach Bill Young of the Buffaloes announced this morning.

The contest was originally scheduled for Friday. However, bands of both schools are entered in a marching contest at Andrews Saturday and officials wanted more time for them to rest between assignments.

There actually will be two football games here Thursday. The first, pitting B teams of Coahoma and Stanton, gets under way at 4 p.m.

Stanton's B team is 4-5 and lost to Coahoma in a previous game, 20-8. However, the Stanton team has come a long way since then, having humbled McCamey, 34-6, and Rankin, 33-2.

Both teams are composed mainly of freshmen and sophomores.

Jayhawks Rack Up Dallas 5

DALLAS — Howard County Jayhawks played a much better game in two nights here Tuesday, defeating Mountain View JC, 98-75.

The Big Spring collegians got off to a slow start but finished with a rush and just missed clearing the 100-point barrier for the second night in a row.

Halfway through the first half, the Hawks trailed, 23-18. After that, it was no contest. The West Texans were in command at half time, 51-34.

Archie Myers, who counted 40 points against Southwestern Christian Monday, settled for 23 against the Lions. HC had five players in double figures, Harry Miller falling by three to match Myers' final figure.

Top rebounder for the Hawks was again Lawrence Young, the sophomore from Abilene. He captured 12 caroms while Harry Miller had 11.

HCJC will return to play at home Tuesday night, at which time it will host the Lubbock Christian College JV team.

That one will serve as a final warmup for the Nov. 18-19-20 Odessa Tournament.

The ability of Myers and Lee to steal the ball had much to do with the Hawks' decisive edge.

Mountain View had four players in double figures. Rochester Edmond and Gary Ratliff each counted 16 for the Lions while Lawrence settled for 15.

SINATRA ATTENDS NIXON DINNER - Singer Frank Sinatra chats with Mrs. Nancy Reagan, wife of the California governor, and U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell during Republican fund-raising dinner at a Los Angeles hotel Tuesday night.

Nixon Fattens GOP Treasury With Speeches, Praises Agnew

CHICAGO (AP) - President Nixon has launched his 1972 campaign symbolically but unofficially with a tribute to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. But he stopped well short of promising Agnew a place on the Republican ticket. Appearing at Republican fund-raising dinners in New York and Chicago Tuesday night, Nixon also called for renewal of the embattled foreign aid program. And in Chicago he defended his decision to go ahead with last Saturday's Amchitka nuclear test as being vital to national security. Noting the test had been challenged by many environmentalists, he said: "Unless we have an adequate program to defend the United States, we won't have any environment to protect." Nixon and Agnew made one of their rare joint appearances at the Chicago dinner, where the President noted that Agnew was celebrating his 53rd birthday, and said: "... This country is fortunate in having as its vice president a man who is loyal, a man who is courageous, and a man who is competent in handling his duties at home, and a man who with great dignity and great ability has represented America in 25 countries since he has been vice president." Nixon made no mention of Agnew's political future, the subject of recurrent speculation. But for that matter, neither did the President acknowledge his own anticipated role as head of the 1972 GOP ticket. In Atlanta, Sen. Barry Goldwater said Agnew should not and will not be replaced as Nixon's running mate. "GUESS AGAIN" "If I had to guess right now I'd have to guess Agnew was more popular in the Republican party than Mr. Nixon," Goldwater told a news conference. The senator from Arizona, 1964 GOP presidential standard-bearer, was in Atlanta for one of the 18 nationwide Republican dinners connected by closed-circuit television with the $500-a-plate Chicago and New York gatherings. Agnew told diners in Chicago that the occasion marked the proper time "to launch a united effort to urge a great President to seek a second term." The vice president also called for the election of a Republican-controlled Congress in 1972. Within four hours, Nixon appeared at two "Salute to the President" dinners 1,000 miles apart and spoke via closed-circuit television to GOP contributors in 18 other cities. The exercise—"cross-country heartburn," master of ceremonies Bob Hope termed it—was part of an effort to raise $5 million for the party's war chest. The symbolic inaugural of Nixon's re-election campaign was underscored by Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the Republican national chairman, who appeared with him both in New York and Chicago. "This will be our launching pad," said Dole, who predicted the GOP theme next year would be "peace and prosperity." Nixon referred to the series of dinners as "the biggest event of its kind" to be sponsored by either major political party in a nonelection year. The President, however, softened partisanship, except when chiding the Democratic-controlled Congress, and talked about a nonpartisan agenda for the country.

Texans Put $400,000 In Coffers

By The Associated Press Republicans gathered in Dallas and Houston apparently paid more than $400,000 into the GOP coffers Tuesday night at two of the party's 20 fund-raising dinners held across the nation. They heard President Nixon speak on closed-circuit television in what was considered an unofficial opening of his 1972 campaign for re-election. Local officials estimated 500 persons attended the $500-a-plate dinner in Dallas at which Sen. James Buckley of New York spoke and $25 turned out to hear Secretary of the Interior Rogers Morton at the Houston dinner. Buckley said it is imperative that Republicans gain control in Congress so that legislation sought by Nixon can be enacted. "Many of his best efforts have been frustrated by a partisan Congress which seems determined to reject or stall just about any useful idea if it happens to bear the Nixon label," the New York senator asserted. Morton described Nixon as the strong and bold leader this nation needs. "There is no man that I have ever known in politics that I believe to be more qualified and dedicated and able to lead this country into a new plateau," Morton said.

Marxist President Readies Warm Welcome For Castro

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) - President Salvador Allende readied a warm welcome today for Prime Minister Fidel Castro, arriving on his first trip outside Cuba in seven years. The Marxist president promised his Communist guest a personal guided tour of Chile. There were no extravagant welcoming displays in downtown Santiago, but along the route from the airport building walls blossomed with "Salud, Fidel" and other welcoming signs. Members of the Communist party rode about scattering leaflets showing Castro's face in profile and saying: "Companion Fidel, You Are Among Friends." Allende also announced Tuesday night that his government has decided to renegotiate its $3 billion foreign debt, $1 billion of which is owed to the United States. He accused previous governments of borrowing more than the country could afford.

On Friday Castro and Allende are to fly 825 miles north to the nitrate and copper port of Antofagasta. From there they will go into the nearby Atacama desert to look at nitrate fields and perhaps a recently nationalized American copper mine. Next week the two leaders will visit Chile's scenic south, a land of blue lakes, snow-capped volcanoes and canals. Traveling by plane, boat and car, they are expected to go almost to the tip of the continent. Later they will return to Santiago for talks with members of the left-wing political parties that make up Allende's government. Allende's Popular Unity government, which includes Communists and Socialists, was inaugurated Nov. 3, 1970, and established diplomatic relations with Cuba nine days later. This is Castro's first trip to another Latin-American country since he seized power nearly 13 years ago and his first trip outside Cuba since 1964, when he went to the Soviet Union. ONCE AGAIN It was not known exactly how long he would stay, but Allende told a news conference Tuesday there will be a big rally for Castro's sendoff "so the people can applaud him once again." Allende said Castro's visit should lead to an increase in commercial, political and cultural exchanges between Chile and Cuba. Since they established diplomatic relations, the two countries have begun regular air service between Santiago and Havana, started cultural and sports exchanges and signed trade pacts totalling $12 million a year, mostly in barter agreements.
