HIGHER SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS WITHOUT TAX HIKE

A Politician's Election-Year Dream

WASHINGTON (AP) — A politician's election-year dream—the possibility of higher Social Security benefits without the customary tax increase—was shimmering before Congress today.

It was evoked when Elliot Richardson, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, told newsmen Tuesday he favors a proposal to slow down the buildup of big Social Security trust funds from the yield of payroll taxes.

Such a change in actuarial accounting could sharply slow down the increases in Social Security taxes already programmed for future years, beginning in 1972, and due to be increased by pending legislation.

DIDN'T SAY

While Richardson didn't say so, it could defer a maximum $145.20 increase in the Social Security taxes withheld from workers' paychecks. That increase is provided in the House-passed bill for a 5-percent benefit hike next year. The Senate is expected at least to approve such an increase and is quite likely to raise it.

There were signs of resistance among fiscally conservative members of the House Ways and Means Committee who always have insisted on ample trust-fund provisions. But even some of the critics conceded the proposal's appeal might be irresistible to their colleagues.

Richardson told newsmen at the White House that he approved an advisory council's recommendation last spring that the Social Security accounting system be changed.

FOR HIMSELF

"We think the recommendation is sound and does make sense," Richardson said. White House spokesmen promptly cautioned newsmen that Richardson was speaking only for himself.

But Ways and Means sources, commenting privately, said Richardson's status as the Cabinet member directly responsible for Social Security might indicate administration approval is not far off.

Essentially, the proposal is to limit the Social Security trust funds to about a year's expected demands. They now total roughly $50 billion against a yearly outlay of $35 billion. But the programmed surplus of tax receipts over expenditures is estimated to build them up to $200 billion in 15 years.

The present Social Security tax is 5.2 percent on a maximum wage base of $7,800. Under the pending legislation, it would go to 5.4 percent on a maximum of $10,200 next year and to 7.4 percent by 1977. Employers pay a matching amount.

Officials said the new accounting plan would make it possible to hold the rate at 5.4 percent for decades.

Thugs Club Mafia Prober

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A senate committee investigator was hospitalized and guarded by police today after unidentified assailants clubbed him and stole valuable papers from his hotel room, officers said.

Police Chief E. E. Peters said William B. Gallinano, 44, who was investigating reports of organized crime here, was attacked as he returned to his room late Tuesday night.

Gallinano, an investigator for the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, arrived Monday and held an interview with an unidentified person Tuesday afternoon, officials said.

Only papers pertaining to his work for the subcommittee were taken from Mr. Gallinano's room," a spokesman for the subcommittee reported from Washington.

A dictating machine was "rendered inoperable," the spokesman said, adding that no money or other valuables were taken. He said Gallinano was kicked, beaten, struck on the head and knocked unconscious.

Peters said representatives of the subcommittee were expected here shortly.

Gallinano was reported in good condition but remained in a hospital for observation and tests. The contents of the stolen papers were not disclosed. Peters said Gallinano described them as "valuable papers" but did not elaborate.

There was no sign of a break-in at his hotel room, Peters said.

Gallinano's arrival here came within a few weeks after published reports of Mafia activities in South Texas. He told a newsmen he was investigating organized crime.

Demonstrations In Abilene

ABILENE (AP) — Fifteen white pupils at Abilene High School were treated for injuries after fighting with black pupils erupted today.

Police estimated 30 to 40 pupils were involved in the fights in the school cafeteria and hallways.

Officers said all but two of those hurt were treated and discharged from the school clinic. Two pupils were taken by ambulance for treatment by doctors.

School authorities said it was not known at once what touched off the fighting during the morning break.

Some of the black pupils involved were reported angry over the arrest of a black teenager by police during the weekend.

Police Chief Warren Dodson said the patrolman who made the arrest was being returned to the force Wednesday. The patrolman had taken a leave of absence with pay.

Several white parents appeared at the school after the fighting was stopped to take their children home.

Dodson conferred twice Tuesday with Negro leaders in the wake of two marches staged Monday by about 80 demonstrators.

AIN'T THAT JUST LIKE A WOMAN?

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tropical Storm Laura completed a tight loop in the Caribbean today and returned to the same position she had occupied two days ago, 225 miles south of Havana.

Her ultimate course was in doubt, the National Hurricane Center said.

Before her retreat southward, Laura had battered western Cuba with gales and heavy rains. Havana reported today tobacco crops were damaged but there had been no injuries or deaths.

At late morning the storm center was placed by the Hurricane Center 130 miles southwest of the Isle of Pines.

Movement of the storm, which has peak winds of 70 m.p.h. will probably be slow and erratic for the next 12 to 24 hours, and advisory said.

Laura dumped 14 inches of rain on Cuba's Isle of Pines in 24 hours.

He Denounces Butz's Views As 'Archaic'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's nominee to head the Agriculture Department faces Senate quizzing today over claims his big-business ties make conflict of interest inevitable and signal policies forcing small farmers off the land.

Past and present views of Dr. Earl L. Butz, 62, a Purdue University dean and former assistant Agriculture secretary under Ezra Taft Benson, have been attacked by more than a dozen senators and several farm groups.

One witness scheduled to testify against Butz before the Senate Agriculture Committee was Tony Dechant, national president of the Farmers Union. He denounced Butz's economic views as "archaic" and said:

"He has been in the service of a number of corporations which seek to dominate the rural economy."

Butz has resigned directorships of four corporations, including the Ralston Purina Feed Company, to accept the Cabinet post.

Dechant and others said that action doesn't change their minds.

"Dr. Butz's service to Purdue University while he was on the payroll of several large corporations represented a conflict of interest," the Farmers Union national board said in a statement.

"Since he is philosophically and politically dedicated to the advocacy of their cause, we believe a similar conflict of interest would continue in the President's cabinet, even though he resigns from his positions of corporate responsibility."

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Premier Thanom Kittikachorn took over absolute power in Thailand today.

He dissolved the Cabinet, abolished Parliament and suspended the constitution.

An announcement broadcast nationwide said Thanom heads a new Revolutionary Council consisting of personnel from the army, navy, air force, police forces and some civilian elements.

Martial law was declared. The premier, a field marshal who has headed the predominantly military government eight years, declared himself the head of the Revolutionary Council. The action amounted to a coup d'etat against Parliament.

SURPRISE

It was in effect a return to the conditions that prevailed before Parliament was reconstituted in 1969. There were 10 years of military rule before that. Thanom's predecessor, Sarit Thanarat, also was a field marshal. He died in 1963.

The action was a surprise, but it reflected the government's previously expressed dissatisfaction.

There was no indication of a change in status for the air bases the United States operates in Thailand. Besides allowing the bases for Indochina operations, the Thanom government has given support to ground operations in South Vietnam.

The decree was broadcast shortly after a full police and military alert was ordered throughout the country. That spread rumors of a coup d'etat. Cabinet ministers seemed unaware of what was coming.

Thanat Khoman, who has been foreign minister, heard the announcement on a portable radio at dinner.

The announcement said there was no change in the structure of the military and police commands. The Revolutionary Council ordered all officials to continue working and asked that the people remain calm.

While Thailand has been a backer of U.S. policy in Southeast Asia, it also has started to reappraise its views toward Red China. The Thais assert that China is behind an insurgency which has threatened to wrest northern areas from Bangkok's control.

"We are not the enemy of the people in China but we are against those who export Communist doctrine to our kingdom," the premier has said.

As foreign minister, Thanat Khoman sought more than two years ago to arrange talks with China to consider coexistence for this and other Southeast Asian countries. No response from Peking was ever announced.

Thailand abstained in the U.N. vote expelling Taiwan and seating Peking.

This country is a kingdom, and King Bhumibol Adalyadej is considered above politics. He took the throne in 1946.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate moves today into the sticky questions of adding broad Social Security increases and a far-reaching presidential campaign-financing plan to the $25.6-billion tax-cut bill.

As a result, leaders virtually abandoned plans to finish action on the legislation by tonight.

The Nixon administration suffered further defeats in consideration of the bill Tuesday as three amendments costing about $1.75 billion a year were adopted.

These would:

—Give low-income families additional tax relief this year by making the new $1,300 minimum standard deduction effective immediately, rather than in 1972. Under present law, the 1971 deduction is $1,050. The amendment would add $992 million to the cost of the bill.

—Allow a 10-per-cent credit on investments that create jobs in rural areas, at an annual cost of $250 million.

In another major vote, the Senate approved 53 to 29 an amendment granting the president power to impose a 15-per-cent surcharge on imports, in place of the present 10-per-cent levy. The measure also allows the president to slap quotas on any products moving into the United States.

A president could activate the amendment would add $992 million to the cost of the bill.

—Give a 10-per-cent investment credit to job-creating enterprises in central cities with unemployment of 6 percent or more. The cost: $500 million a year.

—Allow a 10-per-cent credit on investments that create jobs in rural areas, at an annual cost of $250 million.

They include a general 5-per-cent hike in all benefits, a special increase for widows, and a plan to adjust payments in the future to increases in the cost of living.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., Finance Committee chairman and floor manager for the bill, said he would try to dispose of the Gurney amendment by a tabling motion which would kill it.

Long said he intends to deal with Social Security and welfare reform in his committee by taking up the House-passed welfare bill once action is completed on the tax legislation.

The Democratic proposal for federal financing of presidential campaigns was unveiled Tuesday night by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I. The amendment is quite similar to one enacted by Congress in 1966 and nullified in 1967.

Republicans are expected to put up a stiff fight against it. The plan could give each major-party presidential nominee $20.4 million in federal funds next year, far more than the $12 million to $13 million available to Democratic candidate Hubert H. Humphrey in 1968.

Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., planned to offer to the tax bill today an amendment carrying all the Social Security increases in the welfare-reform bill that passed the House last June.

They include a general 5-per-cent hike in all benefits, a special increase for widows, and a plan to adjust payments in the future to increases in the cost of living.

$7,000, USED CAR

Two Kids For Sale

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — An Oklahoma Boy Scout leader and a companion have been charged with trying to sell two children to a police undercover agent for $7,000 and a used car.

Held without bond in the Duval County Jail were Milford Bennett, 37; also known as William O'Hara, and Robert Westenhaven, 22, both house painters from Oklahoma.

Police said a 3-year-old girl involved in the alleged deal had identified Bennett as her father from a picture in the newspaper and that the other child, a 2-year-old boy, was believed to be the son of an Oklahoma City woman whose whereabouts had not been determined.

An FBI spokesman said, "Our information is that Westenhaven claims he just went along for the ride and was unaware of what the trip was all about."

Captions on pictures of the two men were reversed in the newspaper picture and it was first reported that the girl had identified Westenhaven as her father.

Police said Bennett told them he had two legal names, that he was born Bennett but had it changed to O'Hara.

The children, reported to have been hungry and dirty, spent the night in the home of a private family.

In Oklahoma City, Police Sgt. Bruce Shaw said, "We are just getting cranked up in this investigation and have not taken anyone into custody yet."

Investigator W. E. Beacham said the undercover agent, who serves as a private informer and was not identified, was casually acquainted with Bennett and mentioned during a conversation a year ago that he was interested in adopting two children.

Officers would not say if the children were staying in the home of the informer and his wife, who worked together in the deal.

Police said O'Hara carried cards identifying him as the leader of Boy Scout Troop 185 in Oklahoma City.

"After they arrived, they settled on a price of $7,000 and a used car. The reason for the car was because one of them didn't have one.

$25,000 Bribe Pass Testimony

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A prosecution witness who says he saw a briefcase containing a $25,000 bribe passed to Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., was expected to undergo minor cross-examination today.

Julius B. Levitt, formerly employed by the president of a defunct Maryland home-repairs firm, testified Tuesday he helped pack the briefcase with $25,000 and later saw it handed to Dowdy.

Nathan H. Cohen, former president of the defunct Monarch Construction Co. for which Levitt worked, testified earlier in Dowdy's bribery conspiracy trial the money was to help block a Justice Department probe of his company.

"On instructions from Cohen," Levitt told the federal jury, "I went as an observer to make sure the briefcase containing $25,000 was delivered to Dowdy in the reception area of the Atlanta Airport."

Dowdy, 59, a member of the House of Representatives from East Texas since 1952, is accused of taking the money from Cohen as a bribe to help him sidetrack several probes into the affairs of Monarch.

According to Cohen, the first witness in the trial now in its seventh day, Dowdy agreed in 1965 to intervene in the federal probe of Monarch's fraudulent practices in financing home repair jobs in the Washington D.C. area.

Levitt, who said he worked for Cohen as a salesman but was not engaged in any illegal practices himself, testified he borrowed $4,200 which he gave to Cohen as part of the money put into the satchel. Cohen later repaid him, Levitt said.

Myrvin C. Clark, sales manager of Monarch, actually passed the briefcase to Dowdy, Levitt said.

Clark, a co-defendant with Dowdy, pleaded guilty to one count and is awaiting sentence. Clark was expected to testify soon, possibly today.

Urges Court To Modify Desegregation Ruling

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Judge Woodrow B. Seals but another judge partially stayed the order.

After the 5th Circuit Court vacated the stay, the late Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black, acting on a school board request, intervened to block implementation of the plan.

Whatever the ruling here—expected in not less than two weeks—it most likely will be appealed, moving the case another step closer to the Supreme Court.

Two lawyers for the plaintiffs disagreed Tuesday with the contention of a school attorney who attributed much of the ethnic imbalance to "large demographic changes" or shifts within the city.

"Basically the same group has been confined to the same area," declared James Wolfe. And Wolfe's colleague, Chris Dixie, argued that "school board conduct" had resulted in "lopsidedly segregated schools."

Richard Hall, an attorney for the school district, denied repeatedly that boundaries had been drawn to exclude blacks or Mexican-Americans from certain schools.

The massive busing plan was ordered by U.S. Dist. Court

Many Ex-FBI Employees Reside In Dallas Area

DALLAS (AP) — More than 90 former employees of J. Edgar Hoover live in the Dallas area, according to W. Harlan Brown, newly elected chairman of the local chapter of the Society of Former FBI Agents Inc.

Among the more noteworthy: —Dallas Dist. Atty. Henry Wade, who put in a brief stint with the FBI before entering politics; —Judge Lewis Russell of the Dallas County Juvenile Court bench; —Robert Strauss, well-known lawyer and treasurer of the national Democratic party; —Dewey Presley, president of the First National Bank; —Gordon Carpenter and Jim Merritt, who are both vice presidents at the same bank; —William G. Osborn, vice president at Republic National Bank; —Lee Stenton, vice president at the National Bank of Commerce; and; —Robert Blount, vice president at Exchange Bank & Trust.

Many ex-FBI men go into security work for private firms, says Brown who himself heads the area.

"One private investigative agency here, Dale Simpson & Associates, is made up almost entirely of former FBI men," Brown said.

"I can't think of a better recommendation for any kind of job than being a former FBI man," said Jesse L. Orr, who is secretary of the Society of Former FBI Agents local chapter. Orr spent 30 years with the federal agency before retiring to become a security representative for American Airlines in Dallas.

According to Brown there are some 5,500 former agents in the nation. Many of them quit early because of the lure of business. "If you have to be unemployed, I'd say you couldn't be anything better than an unemployed FBI man" Brown said.

St. Thomas Catholic Church youth, trying to raise enough money to buy a mini bus for their activities, will have a full day of projects Saturday.

A Mexican Dinner will be served continuously in the church hall from noon til 5 p.m. Plates will be $1 each and also will be prepared to go if requested. Child's plate will be 50 cents. Homemade tamales also will be on sale for $1 per dozen.

In addition, cakes and Christmas candles will be on sale during this same time period at Highland Shopping Center, Giant Supermarket, Spanish Inn, Foodway and TG&Y — College Park.

A rummage sale will be held at the Spanish Inn during this time.

Young People Seek Guidance

"Some of our young people seek guidance, but if there has already been excessive permissiveness, it may be too late," said Chaplain (Capt.) H. E. Welsh of Webb AFB, speaking to St. Mary's Guild at St. Mary's Episcopal Church Monday.

Welsh's topic was "communications," and he said that what a child learns from his parents will be his guidance throughout life.

"One of the best means of communicating is to let your personality show through," Welsh said. "Become interested in people who need your help and, if possible, help them cope with their problems."

Welsh said that three levels of communication are as parent, adult and child and that people need to communicate at all three, but not at one time. He said one of the faults of people is that they are prone to expect much more of others than they are willing to give themselves.

In conclusion, Welsh said people should constantly update themselves. Both young and old should learn to evaluate new ideas and values. He said the church needs strength, and that Members of Berta Beckett Sunday school class made individual contributions to help purchase clothes for the "clothes closet" at First Baptist Church, at a luncheon meeting Saturday in the Downtown Tea Room.

Mrs. O. N. Green presided. Tables were decorated by Mrs. Pearl Urey, Mrs. Opal Rhodes and Mrs. Lola Stiles, with assorted fall flowers in a Thanksgiving motif.

Invocation was by Mrs. Bernice Slater, and devotion was by Mrs. Beulah Bryant and Mrs. H. H. Squires. The next meeting is Dec. 11 in the home of Dr. Ora Johnson, 800 Main.

'Struggling Artist' To Sell Works Saturday

The "Struggling Artist Sale" slated Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Highland Center Mall will give art collectors an opportunity to acquire original paintings by local artists at bargain prices. The show, sponsored by the Big Spring Art Association, will feature this particular category where pictures will be priced from $1 to $10. A second division will include pictures priced from $11 to $40.

Artists who are planning to put pictures in the second division must also provide paintings for the first division.

Any original art work, painted or crafted by the artist — watercolor, oil, acrylic, etc., on stretched canvas, canvas board, wood or other backing will be acceptable, and the artist may price the pictures either framed or unframed, bringing as many as he wishes.

There will be a $1 entry fee charged and the first $10 that the artist sells will be commission free. After the first $10 in sales, there will be a 10 per cent commission charged by the association. The $1 entry fee is due when the artist sets up Saturday morning.

Only members of the Big Spring Art Association whose dues were paid by Oct. 1, 1971, may exhibit. Artists who were not members of the association by that date will not be eligible to exhibit until the next show.

Final plans for the show were made Tuesday evening during a meeting in the home of Mrs. G. C. Schafer, 501 Edwards, where Mrs. Bowden Hampton was cohostess. During that meeting it was explained that the shows are held to provide money for the association to sponsor more workshops, lectures and regular shows.

"The citizens of Big Spring are enjoying our shows and looking forward to them, so let's give them our best," said Mrs. Daryle Hohertz, president.

At Tuesday's meeting, each member brought a picture composed of a house, tree and other objects. The pictures were voted on, and Mrs. Dawson DeVine won first place. After the voting, each picture was discussed as to perspective, color, over-all design and relationship of forms.

Program Describes Art As 'Extension Of Self'

"Art is a combination of conscious and subconscious thinking and is an extension of you and your personality," said Don Payne, guest speaker for Cactus Chapter, American Business Women's Association, Monday at the Chaparral Restaurant.

"Art in Relation to your Inner Self" was Payne's topic. He said, "What people see, why they see it as they do and how people use what they see are all involved in any artistic endeavor."

"Art is the highlight of one's visual perception," continued Payne, "and it demonstrates insight into the inner self."

Mrs. Arthur Wadle presided, and the vocational talk was given by Mrs. David Walker who is employed at Hicks Motor Company.

Mrs. Charles Hans reported that she accepted the Standard Achievement Award, Banner Award and Scholarship Award for the local chapter, when they were presented at the ABWA national convention in Anaheim, Calif.

Plans were finalized for a Christmas party sponsored by the chapter for a unit at Big Spring State Hospital, in conjunction with the ABC Club, Kiwanis Club and Evening Lions Club.

Mrs. Alvin Hudgins was installed as a new member. Guests included Miss Connie Thompson, Mrs. Don Payne and Miss Mary Purdie. Prayers were led by Mrs. Teresa Bauch and Mrs. H. V. Crocker.

A LOVELIER YOU Patience Needed To Evaluate Skin Care

There is no such thing as a panacea for troubled skin. Still we girls hopscotch from one remedy to another, trying to guess which one is suitable and then not using any product long enough to evaluate its effectiveness. And that's not all.

The young, in particular, fail to keep their skins pristine clean. Deep cleanliness, of course, is the first requisite of a lovely complexion. When cleansing does take place, methods are apt to be either slap-dash or harsh. The face gets a profuse splash or a rough scouring. Either way, more harm than good is done.

Not at all blameless, the mature contingent errs in making hit-or-miss applications of treatment products. A night-cream, for instance, is used tonight and left on the shelf for a week. Small wonder it is rated poor. A true rating comes only with consistent application.

Almost all of us are apt to choose a product on the recommendation of a friend, instead of getting the advice of an expert. The needs of your skin and your friend's may be poles apart. Panacea, indeed!

Where your skin is concerned, you have to find out what's good in coin.

and right for it. Then you must make faithful application. Four weeks is a reasonable testing period.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

An emery board is a handy little item to keep in your sewing machine.

It's not only nifty for sharpening bairbs off sewing machine needles but I use it to push out the tucks when sewing in sleeves.

Just take your emery board and push the tucks out of the way as you sew. It just flat "grabs hold" of the material and gets the job done. Bonnie

I've discovered a great use for those little stainless steel baby spoons that the baby has outgrown.

Instead of letting them be of no use other than taking up space in the drawer, try this little idea!

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

A lot of kids have an orange in their lunch, but I'm the only one who has an orange and a laugh at the same time. So the orange will be easy for me to peel. My Mom cuts slits in the orange, but they are in a pattern and when I remove the cut pattern, I'm looking at a pumpkin face.

While I'm laughing, I just peel off the rest of the rind and enjoy my lunch! ... Happy Lunch Time.

Dear Heloise:

When raking the weeds after hoeing I find that if I have missed a small weed, dandelion, or what have you — I have solved the nuisance of having to get the hoe.

I sharpened the last prong on my rake (on the left side when holding rake) and it works just like the hoe.

Now when I need a hoe, I simply turn my rake on that side and dig whatever I have missed. — Mrs. E.F.H.

Speaker For Phi Zeta Details Carpet Care

Selecting, using and caring for carpets were discussed by Mrs. Byron Hedges in her program, "Beneath Your Feet," for Phi Zeta Omega Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Monday in the home of Miss Annie Heirman, 1701 S. Monticello.

Mrs. Hedges said the two types of carpeting are "wall-to-wall and area." With area rugs, she said furniture should be placed around rather than on top.

"Carpet creates a warmer feeling than a plain floor," said Mrs. Hedges. She said the main functions of carpeting is to provide easier care, cut down on sound and provide warmth. Carpets should be chosen to match draperies and decor. Mrs. Hedges said if the buyer plans to sell the home later, a neutral color carpet should be installed.

When buying carpets, Mrs. Hedges said to consider financial ability to pay, location and expected wear. The most popular types today are a polyester and synthetic blend made to last longer. She said synthetic fibers hold color best and that the average family changes carpets about every five to 10 years.

Miss Lana Lloyd presided, and members agreed to provide a Thanksgiving basket for a local family. Plans were also discussed for the BSP salad supper scheduled at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 2 in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

A contribution was made to Big Spring State Hospital to help redecorate day rooms. The chapter will have a couples Christmas party at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 17 in the home of Mrs. Hedges.

Tickets are now available from all BSP members for a Valentine dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Feb. 12 at Cosden Club. The Tech Raiders will play.

WILL NOT AFFECT PRESIDENT'S TRIP

Red China's Barbs Disappointing

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials say Red China's anti-U.S. barbs at the United Nations were "disappointing" and "unhappily predictable," but they will not affect President Nixon's Peking visit next year.

Ambassador George Bush termed Peking's inaugural U.N. speech Tuesday "a disappointment for all those who wish to see the United Nations promote the goals of peace and progress."

However, Bush said, the criticisms of the United States were only "empty canons of rhetoric."

China had charged the United States with trying to keep the mainland out of the world body, and demanded U.S. withdrawal from Taiwan and Indochina.

But officials in Washington said statement alone will not affect plans for President Nixon's trip, which will be further coordinated next month when a second White House advance party is due to visit Peking.

In his foreign-affairs report to the nation last February, Nixon said mainland China "continues to convey to its own people and to the world its determination to cast us in the devil's role. Our modest efforts to prove otherwise have not reduced Peking's doctrinaire enmity toward us."

Communist China's propaganda blasts at the United States moderated somewhat. Last spring they described Nixon's hands as "red with blood" because of his Vietnamization policy which Peking claimed prolongs the war.

The latest New China News Agency attack on Nixon came Tuesday and called him "hypocritical" because he had announced that 45,000 American troops were being withdrawn in December and January from

Chinese Stoke Up On Fruit, Soup, Hot Water

NEW YORK (AP) — Red China's representatives at the United Nations stoke up on fresh fruit, soup and copious mugs of hot water before entering the diplomatic arena.

"Hot water is about all they do drink," said John J. Amodeo, director of catering at the Roosevelt Hotel where Peking's delegation is staying.

Wine and liquor are no rarity in China, but the U.N. envoys have so far shunned spirits.

"They have had one guest that I know of—an Albanian," said Amodeo, "and when he had dinner in the private dining room we set up for them, he asked for a glass of beer."

FRESH FRUIT

"Out of the 50 Chinese sitting in that room, only one joined the guest in a beer."

Peking may not approve of U.S. foreign policy, but so far it has found nothing wrong with American food.

"They have certain preferences such as fresh fruit instead of dessert and all their meat must be well done," said Amodeo.

Each evening Amodeo visits the 14th floor where the delegation is staying and goes over the menu for the next day with Jung Tien, a member of the delegation.

Battlefield Deaths Outpaced By Mishaps, Disease In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. battlefield deaths in Vietnam over the past five weeks have dropped to the lowest level in six years, and now are far outpaced by the number of GIs dying from accidents and disease.

Combat deaths have averaged only six a week since Oct. 9 compared to an average of 21 a week from what the Pentagon classifies as nonhostile causes. The biggest killer is aircraft accidents.

The collision of two U.S. helicopters Monday and the crash of another Sunday after mechanical failure, killed four GIs and wounded five others.

Last week's casualty toll, announced Thursday in Saigon, showed eight Americans killed in action. Nonhostile deaths numbered 33.

Although they exceed battlefield casualties, nonhostile deaths this year also have dropped to the lowest level in six years. The rate, which increased each year as the number of U.S. troops in Vietnam increased, has dropped each year as more and more troops were withdrawn.

This year, nonhostile deaths averaged 19 a week, compared to 35 in 1970 and a Vietnam war peak of 40 in 1969. In 1969 there were 543,400 Americans in the war zone; 188,000 remain today.

A Pentagon official said a certain number of nonhostile deaths is inevitable.

"There's not much you can do with aviation accidents," the official said. "The safety maintenance program is as effective as possible and every unit stresses safety."

Since the war began, 45,594 Americans have been killed in action. Another 9,912 have died from nonhostile causes. So far, the toll this year is 1,345 in combat and 845 from other causes.

The Pentagon lists nonhostile deaths under 17 different categories.

Following aircraft accidents, which have claimed 2,789 lives, the next biggest killer has been miscellaneous accidents such as electrocution or falling down a flight of steps. These accounted for 2,149 fatalities.

Pentagon figures show 945 accidental drownings, 600 deaths from illness, 780 in vehicle accidents, 295 suicides, 95 murders, 781 accidental homicides and 104 drug overdoses. Others died from such causes as burns, heart attacks, and accidental grenade or other munitions explosions.

Angry Labor Leaders Meeting In Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Labor leaders decide today whether to recommend that the AFL-CIO quit the federal Pay Board. The labor group's economist has reported that he believes the board in effect has killed hopes for full retroactive pay.

The main issue for labor before the Pay Board in Washington is the payment of wage increases which were due contractually during the wage-price freeze which ended Sunday.

The 15-member Pay Board refused last week, over the solid vote of the five labor members, to grant general retroactivity. It did agree to decide each case of retroactive pay on its merits.

The Pay Board met intermittently for seven hours on Tuesday, with the matter of retroactive pay reported to be the top item of consideration. But the board recessed until today without issuing any new directives. Retroactive pay is expected to again be a prime topic.

The board of directors of the Caprock Chapter of the March of Dimes Tuesday night approved tentative dates for campaign activities during the month of January.

Activities will be Coffee Day, Jan. 6, Dan Conley, chairman; Mother's March, Jan. 17, Sue Balzer, Sand Springs chairman; Bo Fryar, Coahoma chairman; and Sandra Braum and Ann Parratt, Big Spring chairmen; Teen Road Block Jan. 22, Joan Crawford, chairman; and the walkathon Jan. 29, Ronnie Smith, M. A. Snell and Don Swinney, chairmen.

The route for the walkathon has been changed this year. Tentative plans call for walkers to leave Highland Shopping Center, follow FM 700 to IS 20, walk to the Howard County Courthouse and return to the shopping center along Goliad Street.

Mrs. Don Swinney, chairman of the entire campaign, said March of Dimes canisters will be placed in local stores the first of December and be picked up the last week in January, thereby concluding the cam-

Condition Is Still Serious

Lubbock Methodist Hospital officials this morning said Jean Anderson's condition is still listed as serious.

Mrs. Anderson, 1317 Wright, is being treated in the intensive care unit of the hospital for a bullet wound in the chest, she received in an accidental shooting Saturday evening. Officials said that her condition has not changed since admitted to the hospital Saturday night.

Police said that the shooting occurred apparently when Mrs. Anderson thought she heard a prowler and went for a gun, a .22 caliber revolver.

Another victim of a local shooting incident over the weekend was reported to be in fair condition today.

Daniel Gonzales, 22, was reported to be improving at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital where he is also being treated for gunshot wounds in the chest. Joe Garcia, 27, of 811 N. Goliad, was charged Saturday, the day after the shooting, with assault with intent to murder, in connection with the shooting. He was released Sunday on $5,000 bond set by Peace Justice Jess Slaughter.

Rehabilitation Begins When Mental Patient Hospitalized

Efforts toward rehabilitation of mental patients start the moment they enter the hospital, Dr. Ray Tatum told a meeting of the Permian Basin Medical Society Tuesday evening.

Dr. Tatum, director of rehabilitation at the hospital, spoke at the annual meeting held at the hospital. A large turnout of physicians, along with departmental heads at the hospital, was on hand to hear the address.

Dr. Tatum's group consists of a staff of some 40 people under the Texas Rehabilitation Commission but works closely with the hospital administration.

A short business session of the society was conducted at the conclusion of the dinner affair by Dr. Neil Sanders, president. Dr. James A. Kreimeyer, clinical director at the hospital, served as master of ceremonies and saluted the physicians for helping the sure that the individual is making the grade.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dowden, accompanied by Frank Wharton, music therapist, favored with vocal selections. Dr. Preston Harrison, hospital superintendent, welcomed the guests.

Scouts Ready For Camporee

Early morning showers Wednesday gave the Roundup grounds a good washing, and should put the area in ideal condition for the Lone Star District camporee this weekend, Ralph Beckham, chairman, said today.

All Boy Scout troops in the district are urged to take part in the weekend campout, and troops from Snyder and Colorado City have been invited.

There will be contests of Scout skills, sports, and other events, and troops will be graded on camping, also.

One of the highlights will be the Saturday campfire at 7 p.m., and parents and friends are invited to witness this. An 8:30 a.m. Sunday worship service will be the last activity of the camp.

Injured Couple's Condition Better

Jesus Avalos Nevarez, 44 Stanton, is showing improvement in his condition at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital. He is now listed as in fair condition. He had previously been listed in very serious or critical condition with head injuries.

His wife, Mrs. Perfecta Nevarez, 36, is in fair condition at Hall-Bennett.

The couple was injured as the result of a one-car accident at 7 p.m. Monday approximately five miles west of Big Spring on IS 20 West. According to investigating officers, Nevarez apparently lost control of the car which went off the highway to the right, overturned at least one-and-one-half times, and came to rest upside down in the ditch.

Their son, Albert, 2, was treated for cuts and released Monday.

More Pellet Gun Vandalism

Another incident involving damage to a window by a pellet gun was reported to police Tuesday.

Mrs. Maggie Sutton, 1205 Utah, reported that the windshield on her car had been shot out with a pellet gun sometime Monday. Officers advised the value of the window was $100.

The incident makes the third occurrence of pellet gun vandalism in the city, since the local authorities apprehended and charged a trio of vandals with destruction of private property with the help of information from area citizens.

Midland Slates Balloon Parade

A group of 20 Midland Chamber of Commerce representatives were here today to publicize the giant balloon parade to be held at 9 a.m. Nov. 27 in Midland.

The group will continue their tour to Lamesa, Seminole, Andrews and Odessa.

Charter Revision Group To Meet

Members of the Charter Revision Committee have scheduled a meeting of the main committee Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the city commission chambers at city hall.

"In this meeting we will review the recommendations of the sub-committee, and will make changes if any are necessary," then the recommendations will be presented to the city commission," said R. L. Weaver, committee chairman.

Indications are that the recommendations will be presented to city fathers in the next regular commission session next Tuesday night.

Three new members have been appointed to the committee, replacing those who have left the city.

City commissioner Wade Choate appointed Sidney Clarke to fill the position left by Jack Watkins, commissioner. Watkins was required to relinquish his position of the charter committee with his election as city councilman.

Martin Well Is Completed

Martin County received one completion this in the Sulphur Draw 8,730-Dean field and seven locations mostly in the Spraberry Trend area Wednesday.

PHOBIA-RIDDEN 'DAVID AND LISA' ... David Fisher, Jill Shaver

'David And Lisa' Cast Prove Ready For Show

With sympathetic and vibrant performances, cast members of "David And Lisa" Tuesday night proved their worth in a dress rehearsal opened to the press.

The play opens Thursday night in the high school auditorium and runs through Saturday with curtain time at 8:15 p.m. daily. Tickets are $1.25 for adults, 75 cents for students and airmen and 35 cents for children.

David Fisher portrays the anti-social David who is sent to a school for emotionally disturbed youngsters. Resentful at first, David eventually finds refuge in the school from his overbearing mother, played to the hilt by Roni Haxton, and his ineffectual father, sympathetically portrayed by John Hicks.

SPLIT PERSONALITY
Lisa, an emotionally disturbed girl with a split-personality, is the first human being David is able to relate to, although he claims it is "a clinical interest." Jill Shaver, who portrays Lisa, must at one moment portray a very childlike adolescent who will speak only in rhyme, and at the next moment become the other personality, Muriel, who refuses to speak and communicates only through use of a drawing tablet.

Miss Shaver turned in a good performance Tuesday as she skipped, hopped and rhymed her way through Lisa's lines. The most difficult portion of her role is when she must cry and then visibly force the volatile Lisa into Muriel's silent, restrained mold.

Fisher turned in a sensitive portrayal of David as he traced a young man's struggle to make re-contact with a world from which he has tried to withdraw. The character David presents a hostile face to the world and recoils in fear from any physical contact with other persons because "a touch can kill." Lonely, David shows affection only for a Teddy bear because he is capable only of relating to inanimate objects.

PATERNAL-HERO
Dr. Alan Swinford, the school's psychiatrist who helps David grope his way to a better relationship with people, is well played by John Lipscombe. Lipscombe portrays the role with the right degree of scientific detachment in some scenes, and is the paternal-hero figure sought by David in other scenes.

Other youngsters in the school are Carlos, a swaggering, slumbered hoodlum; Sandra, an overweight girl who eats constantly and dreams of winning her father's admiration; Kate, as a svelte television actress a girl obsessed with boys and love; Josette, a cynic who finds little joy in anything or anyone; Simon, a musical, intellectual youngster who resents Lisa's intrusion into his friendship with David; and Robert, a cohort of Carlos.

John Holloway provides comic relief in his portrayal of the irrepressibly crude Carlos who is obsessed with violence. Carlos takes crude but humorous jibes patients and staff alike.

CAST MEMBERS
Darla Carlisle is Josette; Connie Shea is Sandra; Steve Ferrell is Simon; Kim Hexton is Kate; and Kelly Draper is Robert.

Other members of the school's staff are Barbara, a teacher played by Kathy Bull; Maureen Hart, a therapist played by Theresa Sheppard; and Lisa's tutor-therapist played by John Ribard; Mrs. Farris, a dormitory housekeeper-played by Dianna Williams; Ben, played by Gary Plew is a dormitory watchman in David's dorm; and a secretary played by Diann Stewart.

Estella Diaz portrays a woman and Cheri Houn a little girl whom Lisa encounters when she runs away from the school. Jacky Cantrell and Steve Daniel play two young thugs who frighten Lisa and are the catalysts which help her to fuse her two personalities into one. McDaniel was also student director for the drama.

Williams Moren plays a porter in a scene with David and his mother which early illustrates David's terror of being touched.

Arthritis Drive Goes Over $3,000
The arthritis drive has exceeded the goal of $3,000 set for this year and broken last year's record of $2,000.

"We have $3,124.18, and we expect more," said Mrs. Tom Warren, campaign chairman.

The fund raising was done by the Big Spring-Howard County Arthritis Foundation: Victory March organization.

The Mu Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi led the effort.

Grand Jurors Hear Ninth Of 14 Cases
Evidence in the assault with intent to murder case against Clarence Forman, 21, of 710 Wyoming, was being considered by the Howard County Grand Jury shortly before noon today. It was the ninth case of 14 cases to be presented.

Forman is charged in connection with the July 4 shooting of Emmitt Miller which allegedly occurred during a party at Forman's residence.

Jurors heard evidence in the assault to murder case against Sirlo Nieto, 26, Rt. 1, Box 212, today. Nieto allegedly stabbed Victor Robles Oct. 9.

A third assault with intent to murder case considered by the Grand Jury concerns an assault Sept. 22 against Manuel Pineda allegedly made by Robert Villaral, 24, of 106 NW 8th.

A burglary charge against Guadalupe Ramos, 20, of 798

NE 6th, was presented to the Grand Jury. Ramos allegedly burglarized the home of Betty O'Brien Aug. 11.

Theft over $50 charges against Charlie Jewel Buford, 32, of 505 Bell (rear apartment), and Carol Ann Scaggs, 24, of 1106 N. Gregg, were considered by the Grand Jury. The two women allegedly stole money Aug. 28 from Vidal Garza.

Jurors also considered a case concerning a second offense of driving while intoxicated. No record of a formal charge against the defendant could be found. The defendant does have a record of conviction in 1965 in Howard County for driving while intoxicated.

Jurors were expected to complete deliberations this afternoon or at least Thursday morning, according to information from the district attorney's office.

Webb Honors Four Instructors For Undergrad Pilot Training

A board of officers recently honored four men as Instructors of the Quarter at Webb AFB, according to Col. Charles Walker, deputy commander for operations.

Capt. Michael Booker, T-38 Talon instructor pilot, Capt. James H. Hussey, T-37 Trainer instructor pilot, Capt. William F. Trembor, classroom instructor and Airman I.C. Larry W. Dvorak, airman instructor, were the exceptional instructors of the Quarter.

"His superior instructor ability, coupled with his demonstrated professionalism, has made him one of the squadron's most effective instructor pilots," Col. Walker said of Capt. Booker.

The captain entered the Air Force in July, 1968, shortly after graduation from Texas A&M University, where he earned a degree in business management. Following undergraduate pilot training at Randolph AFB, and pilot instructor training at Tyndall AFB, Fla., Capt. Booker was assigned to the check section of the 3560th Pilot Training Squadron here at Webb.

Capt. Hussey, an assistant flight commander in the 3561st Pilot Training Squadron, has served as a "stabilizing influence, particularly during a period of high turnover in instructor pilot personnel."

The Baytown native attended the University of Texas at Austin and was awarded a degree in zoology. He entered the Air Force in August, 1964, graduated from officer's training school at Lackland AFB, and was sent to undergraduate pilot training at Laughlin AFB. He then went to RF-4 Phantom transitional training at Shaw AFB, S.C., followed by a nine-month tour at Ramstein AB, Germany.

Returning to the states at Bergstrom AFB, Capt. Hussey underwent further transitional training in the F-4 before being assigned Udorn RTAFB, Thailand. While in Thailand, he flew 100 missions over North Vietnam. He came to Webb in August, 1968, went to Perrin AFB for a short time for pilot instructor training and returned to Webb as a full-fledged instructor pilot.

During his Air Force career, Capt. Hussey has earned the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with nine oak leaf clusters. He is married to the former Miss Beverly Brasher, also from Baytown, and they have two children, James, 10 and Leah, 4.

"Your patient handling of student's questions, coupled with a relaxed but stimulating atmosphere, have made your instruction periods some of the most productive in the UPT academic schedule," Col. Walker said to Capt. Trembor.

The captain has been in the Air Force six years. He entered the Air Force through ROTC at Bowling Green State University, Ohio, where he earned a degree in history and political science. Following UPT here at Webb, he was assigned to Ubon RTAFB, Thailand, flying the F-4. After 100 missions he returned to Webb in 1968 to assume duties as a T-38 IP. He became a classroom teacher in November, 1970.

The Cleveland, Ohio, native married the former Miss Elsa Schultz, also from Cleveland and the couple has one child, Elsa, 3.

Webb's honor airman instructor of the Quarter is a link trainer specialist. Col. Walker said: "Instrument flying is a primary ingredient in the development of the professional pilot. Thorough knowledge of instrument flying procedures insures our pilot trainees' success in attaining that goal. The highly complimentary comments of Dvorak's students, received both written and verbally, concerning professional attitude and ability are indicative of exceptional qualifications in this field."

Airman Dvorak entered the service in May, 1970. Following technical training at Chanute AFB, Ill., he was assigned here. A native of Victoria, he married the former Miss Maxine Tomas, from Victoria. The couple has one child, Stephanie, 2.

Thrilling Chase Is Specialty Of 'Connection' Director

NEW YORK (AP) — "Oh, I'm a good driver," film producer Philip D'Antoni remarked ruefully. "This morning I was coming out of my yard and drove into the basketball stand. Here I am making chase movies about cars and I wreck my own car."

The cars in D'Antoni's films take a beating also, but until the viewer has been treated to some spectacular chase sequences. In his first film, "Bullitt," car chased car over and around the hills of San Francisco to a literally blazing ending. In his recently released second, "The French Connection," the chase involves a hijacked elevated subway train and a wildly pursuing automobile.

And the thrill of the chase apparently is what pulls them in at the box office. "Bullitt," according to D'Antoni, has taken in some $35 million since it first flashed on the screen in 1969.

"No one knows what 'The French Connection' will do," he says with a shrug, and then smiles, "but the forecasts are extremely high at the moment."

D'Antoni, an independent film producer whose pictures are distributed by the major film studios, describes his films as "action-adventure," and thinks their chase sequences are popular because:

"It gives you a specific rooting element — you immediately can pick the bad guy from the good guy. And, if the chase is done with realism, you have an emotional involvement. It's a Walter Mitty sort of thing. In a way, with the viewer putting himself in place of the guy who's doing the chasing, the good guy."

"It's a vicarious thing. I'll bet there isn't a man around who wouldn't like to be driving that car in 'The French Connection' through the traffic lights, going at terrific speed, and just forcing other cars out of the way."

D'Antoni, a deep-voiced man who emphasizes his points with his hands and body, says "The French Connection" was based on a real case in which a giant drug smuggling caper was smashed in New York City.

Much of the film is "real," he says. The notable exception — the chase. "It never really happened," admits D'Antoni. I was guided greatly by what is unique about New York. So we considered all the unique methods of transportation in New York.

"And then the idea of the subway and car chase just leaped into my mind one day."

I was taking a walk at the time.

D'Antoni currently is working on a film called "The Seven Ups." The film, based on a story written by D'Antoni, concerns a group of policemen "who work only on felonies — crimes where the penalty is seven years and up."

It has, of course, a chase scene.

But D'Antoni won't give out with details. "I won't tell about it," he smiled. "But it's going to be a real gas."

Miami Scheme For Queen Liz

LONDON (AP) — The Cunard Line is thinking about anchoring the Queen Elizabeth 2 off Miami for two months every year as a floating hotel and casino.

"We could beat any hotel for price," Cunard chairman Victor Matthews said. He reported that the Miami scheme is one of several ideas under discussion to improve Cunard's profits. The company was taken over in August by Trafalgar House, a real estate and investment group.

He Holds Segregated Locals Violate Civil Rights Law

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—September of 1970 on the suit against 37 Texas locals and the national and west Gulf and South Atlantic division of the I.L.A. While I found there was a violation of Title 7 of the Civil Rights Act because of the segregated unions, I didn't render any decision on how to give the relief the government asked for," Garza said Tuesday night. The jurist said he was not satisfied that "the only solution to the problem must include a merger of the locals, for a plan or scheme can be devised that would eradicate the inequity of the basic finding . . ."

But U.S. District Court Judge Reynaldo Garza, in an opinion filed with the district clerk, declined Friday to order immediate mergers of the locals in 10 Texas ports.

Instead of granting a Justice Department motion to order such mergers, he allowed time for the I.L.A. to appeal his decision to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Garza conducted lengthy hearings at Houston in August and American. Except for two Negro locals in Brownsville and Galveston, all opposed mergers. The locals are in Galveston, Houston, Beaumont, Brownsville, Corpus Christi, Freeport, Texas City, Port Arthur, Orange and Port Lavaca.

One of the main features of the ports, except Brownsville, is splitting the work 50-50 between white and black locals. In Brownsville the split is 72-25 with black locals receiving less work.

Garza said if work is so divided in a port with 100 white workers and 200 Negro workers, the whites will work more hours than Negroes.

Flooding Noted In Texas Towns

By The Associated Press

Drenching rains left much of the Texas Panhandle awash today. Water several inches deep covered streets and highways at many points and occasionally edged into houses.

Perryton received one of the heaviest deluges, measuring 4.36 inches of rain in 24 hours.

The heavier rainfall extended southward past Lubbock, and the National Weather Service said minor flooding occurred in the central and east part of the Panhandle. A good part of this area was soaked by downpours which started Tuesday and farmers complained over delay in harvesting grain sorghums.

A mixture of showers and thunderstorms covered an area along and behind a slow-moving cool front which stretched from around Perryton in the northeast corner of the Panhandle southward to near Midland and into the Big Bend country of far West Texas.

There also was a narrow band of rainfall toward the south into the West Texas sector east of the Pecos River.

Warm and damp air blowing over the rest of the state set off rain in the Lower Rio Grande as well plus a few light showers over the coastal plains and in Southeast Texas. It was cloudy nearly everywhere else.

Streets stood curbside full of water in Pampa for a second straight morning. Police said the accumulated rainfall lapped at the floors of several homes in low areas and cut off a few floor furnaces.

At Perryton the overflow covered Texas 15 on the west side of town and a number of streets.

Sen. Schwartz Went To Bat For 'Cousin'

HOUSTON (AP) — State Sen. A.R. Schwartz, who has a relative in the coin vending business, played a key role in diluting a bill designed to reform the amusement coin machine industry, the Houston Chronicle said Tuesday.

The newspaper quoted Schwartz as saying Abe Susman, owner of State Music Corp. of Dallas, asked him to look into the effects of the bill.

Former State Rep. James H. Clark Jr. of Dallas, who introduced the 1969 reform bill that was later watered down before the Senate passed it, was quoted as saying:

"We were in Schwartz' office all the time on this bill after it got to the Senate. Schwartz told us one time, 'I just want to look after Cousin Abe the best way I can.'"

The Chronicle said Clark did not deny making the statement. He said the bill was rewritten by former vending lobbyist Ed Wendler and Ben Sarrat, who at the time was an employee of Schwartz.

"I think Wendler actually prepared most of the substitute bill," Schwartz said. "But Abe has asked me to look at it, and I was interested in the bill."

Schwartz said one of his cousins is married to Susman's brother.

"Abe and I are very close," he said. "We consider ourselves family."

Records in Austin show that on May 19, 1969, Schwartz submitted a complete substitute for the House-passed Clark bill to the Senate State Affairs Committee.

The committee approved the bill and the Senate passed it May 26. The substitute was accepted by the House without protest from Clark, who said he feared a fight would kill any hope for legislation that year.

Clark's original bill would have forbidden coin machine operators to hold any financial interest in beer taverns.

The enacted bill, while forbidding them to hold beer licenses, permits them to own taverns and lease the taverns to beer license holders.

Gift Deduction Statements Asked

Taxpayers who make gifts of property valued at more than $200 are required to furnish an information statement with their tax return to support the deductions for such contributions, Ellis Campbell Jr., district director of Internal Revenue for North Texas, said today.

For contributions of property other than money, Mr. Campbell said, you must give the IRS a statement with the name of each organization and the amount and date of each contribution, as well as the kind of property donated, i. e., used clothing, furniture, books, paintings, or hardware, the original cost, the fair market value and the method of determining it at the time of contribution, and whether the property had appreciated in value. Publication 561, "Valuation of Donated Property," gives information and guidelines on appraisals of donated property.

Key Witness In Edinburg Trial 'Talks'

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — The defense continued today to cross examine a Houston man considered a key witness in the murder of a Houston man by Charles V. Harrelson of Houston.

Cross examination of Jerry O. Watkins started Tuesday afternoon and was still being handled by defense lawyer Percy Foreman of Houston when Judge Tillman Smith halted the trial for the day at 5 p.m.

Harrelson, 33, is being tried on a murder charge in the 1968 shooting death near McAllen of Sam Degelia Jr., a prominent Hearne grain dealer. Degelia vanished July 6, 1968, while on a grain buying trip in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. His bullet torn body was found five days later in an abandoned shack southwest of McAllen.

The prosecution claims Harrelson shot Degelia after Pete Thomas Scamardo of Hearne offered him $2,000. Scamardo, a former business partner of the victim, was found guilty here last year as an accomplice and was given a seven-year probation term.

Watkins, who was originally charged with murder in the Degelia slaying, testified he accompanied Harrelson July 6, 1968, to McAllen.

Yorty To Run For President

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty said Tuesday he will seek the Democratic party's nomination for president and begin his campaign in New Hampshire's earliest-in-the-nation primary.

In a statement released by his headquarters in Manchester, Yorty said his campaign "is already well under way in New Hampshire."

The California primary, he added, "will climax our campaign" and "we will be selective" about races in other primary states.

Yorty becomes the second Democrat formally seeking the party's nomination in the New Hampshire race.

Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota made his announcement several months ago. Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine is expected to announce around the first of the year.

Political observers also say Washington Sen. Henry Jackson may jump into the sweepstakes.

Yorty, who has made several political forays into the state, said he would run as "a moderate Democrat—a position I hope will appeal not only to a majority of Democrats but also to many Republicans who are disillusioned with the current resort to sheer political expedience by the Nixon administration in its efforts to win re-election at all costs."

Yorty has had the support of New Hampshire's only statewide newspaper, The Manchester Union Leader.

Board Still Silent On Back Pay Raises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board is still grappling over the controversial issue of retroactive pay raises after failing to reach a settlement Tuesday.

The five labor members of the 15-member board want workers to get back pay from wage increases that ordinarily would have gone into effect during the 90-day wage-price-freeze period.

The board met seven hours Tuesday but adjourned until today without issuing any new Phase 2 policy directives.

A spokesman said the board discussed "methods of implementing its policies pertaining to retroactive pay increases."

Affected most would be about 100,000 teachers, whose school year began during the freeze.

Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally said Tuesday night that the 90-day freeze, which ended Sunday, was a "resounding success."

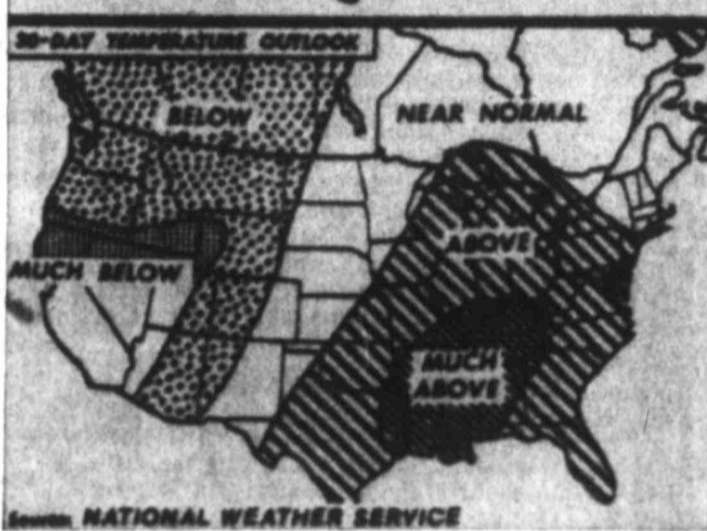

In a speech to the Economic Club of New York, Connally conceded there may be uncertainty about rules governing the economy after the freeze.

But he said the only way to assure certainty would be through regimentation, control and loss of freedom.

"There are certain things of which you can be sure . . .," he said. "You can be certain

TINY INCREASE

Although the administration predicted a late-year upsurge this year, industrial output measured in October showed a much smaller increase than in September.

The Federal Reserve Board supplied the latest reading of the nation's economic health Tuesday, reporting that industrial production increased by 2 per cent in October after advancing .8 per cent the month before.

The board's official index measuring output of the nation's factories, mines and utilities was 3.6 per cent above the low point recorded last November, but it was still 5 per cent below the peak reached in the middle of 1969.

STILL PENDING

The Commerce Department said Tuesday, however, that housing starts increased an encouraging 5 per cent in October, reaching a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2,050,000 units.

Although President Nixon has tried to stimulate industrial output, many of his proposals are still pending in Congress.

The Senate Banking Committee, considering whether to extend Nixon's authority to control the economy past next April 30, approved a provision exempting all persons at or below the poverty level from wage controls that would apply to families of four with incomes in the $3,900 range.

The Senate, in a move affecting Nixon's economic trade policies, voted Tuesday to give him authority to impose a 15-per-cent surcharge on imports.

Nixon's economic program includes only a 10-per-cent surcharge, but the Senate wanted the provision in case the President finds that a serious international balance-of-payments emergency exists.

TO IMPOSE QUOTAS

The 53-29 vote came over the objections of Sens. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who called it an "economic Gulf of Tonkin resolution" giving the President far-reaching powers similar to those voted for the Vietnam war.

The addition to the $23.9-billion tax-reduction bill also gave Nixon authority to impose quotas on incoming products.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., said Tuesday that any bargaining power the United States has gained through Nixon's international economic moves has been dissipated.

"I am concerned that we have not been able to take advantage of the imposition of the additional duty on imports to obtain quick and responsible action on the part of all major trading nations in the realization of exchange rates," Mills said.

Mills, who is chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, addressed the National Foreign Trade convention in New York.

Increase Pay For Recruits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has begun paying servicemen a $2.4-billion raise, nearly doubling basic pay for recruits.

The increase averages 15 per cent for all the 2.6 million men and women in uniform. This exceeds the general 5.5-per-cent-a-year guideline for the rest of the economy, but the President's Cost of Living Council last Friday made a special exemption for servicemen and other federal workers.

The raise was approved by Congress and signed into law by President Nixon Sept. 28. It was to have taken effect Oct. 1 but Nixon put it off until Sunday.

The raise is intended to bring pay scales up to civilian levels to help attract an all-volunteer army by July 1973.

Officials of the Cost of Living Council said the reason the raise was not trimmed to conform with rules that apply to the rest of the economy is that the President is determined to have an all-volunteer army as well as a lower rate of inflation.

The raise brings basic recruit pay from $1,618 a year to $3,222. With allowances and tax benefits added, the military figures the average recruit's total compensation will go up from $3,165 a year to $4,900.

TG&Y Opens Newest Family Center Facility

The grand opening today of the TG&Y Family Center at the Highland Shopping Center marks the completion of an expansion program that increased floor space in the old store by more than 5,000 square feet.

The TG&Y store has expanded into the old drug store that was next door to it. A wall was knocked out and the entire area remodeled.

The first of the remodeling to be completed was the new post office substation in early October. The remainder of the work was completed recently and the new lines carried by the enlarged store moved in.

"The addition of the new lines and the expansion of old lines now lets us offer all the services of a TG&Y Family Center," said C. M. Viers, manager.

TG&Y has added a new line of hanging goods in the expanded store that offer outfits for the whole family. A complete line of do-it-yourself kits and materials are available. The hardware, cosmetics, toys and fabrics sections were increased to provide a larger selection.

A large fabric shop features all types of fabric, including the very popular double knit, any sewing notions that a seamstress might need and a complete line of trimmings and ribbons.

An extensive glassware selection is on hand in the expanded store as is a section of school supplies.

The brightly lit, well arranged TG&Y Family Center at the Highland Shopping Center is offering special prices during the Grand Opening.

Free gifts are also offered during the Grand Opening of the new store.

Intolerable System

When speaking of new rules for the Texas Legislature — as candidates for House speaker and lieutenant governor are doing — there is one change which certainly should be made, because the present rule constitutes a breach of representative government.

That rule is the one governing the action of House-Senate conference committees. These conference committees are where virtually all significant legislation is written and approved, the wishes of other senators and representatives aside.

Surely the Texas public doesn't understand the quirks of conference committees; if it did, surely wrath would pour down on the political population in Austin. For the public — most of it, at any rate — is denied representation thereby in the government of the state.

The way it works, session after session, is like this: After much talk, debate and statements to the press, the House will pass an appropriations bill, say — usually in the session's closing weeks. Over in the Senate, accompanied by the same noises, another appropriations bill will be approved. But House bill and Senate bill don't jibe — so the matter is assigned to a conference committee composed of members of both houses. The lieutenant governor appoints the Senate members; the speaker appoints those from the House. So far, that is the way most two-house legislative branches function (including Congress). But in Congress and elsewhere, the conferees adjust differences in the two bills, then resubmit the result to each House again. They are confined to working with the bills as passed; they seek agreement and compromise upon which both houses can meet.

That's not the way it happens in Austin. There, conference committees are not bound by what has transpired in either house. They can — and most often do — rewrite the bill entirely. They can add items not approved by either house; they can delete items approved by both. In short, the members of the conference committees (and the speaker and lieutenant governor who appointed them) do all the effective legislative work. What has gone before, the product of all those senators and representatives sent to Austin by the people, counts for nothing once the conference committee doors are closed.

Then, after writing their own bill, the conference committee submits it to both houses — usually in the closing hours of the session. The House or the Senate cannot change the conference committee bill in any way, even if it bears no resemblance to what was passed previously. They can only pass it, or reject it. If they reject it, that means the work of the session is washed out and the entire process must begin again — resulting again a conference committee bill — with state government grinding to a chaotic halt in the meantime.

The system places too much power in too few hands. It abuses the rights of individual senators and representatives; therefore, it does fatal violence to the rights of Texas' citizens.

Not Much Chance

Critics of big spending have long maintained that the government's endless outpouring of dollars is a major factor in the inflation spiral.

Rep. John Y. McCollister, R-Neb., is preparing a bill for Congress, which voted itself a 42 per cent salary increase last session, that would cut by 10 per cent the salaries of all members of Congress, and all government officials who make more than $36,000 a year.

While his brash and direct action may be applauded away from Capitol Hill, it can not be expected to yield much fruit there.

Brace Yourself!

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

There are certain phrases which should alert the best of us to direct things that lie ahead. Once it might have been sufficient to say, "Brace yourself —" but now there are more subtle ways to introduce the harbinger of bad tidings.

ONE OF THE contemporary forms is to announce: "I have some good news and some bad news." This does offer some alleviating circumstances, for the good news, as a comical alternative, may soften the blow. But just the same, when someone says, "I have some good news and some bad news for you," engage!

I HAVE noted from watching the television tube that all the soap operas have such a delicate and unsuspecting way of slipping you the very worst of news. Usually this is for letting you know that your best friend has been done in, or your family wiped out. So, if anyone says to you, "Please sit down," it's time to go into deep shock or break into tears.

Just when you are going great guns and feel that the world is your oyster, beware of conversation with your immediate superior which begins: "You've been doing a great job . . ." The next thing you know, you may be checking the want ads and your unemployment insurance. THEN THERE is the good friend who approaches a delicate situation thusly: "I know this is none of my business, but . . ." Brace yourself for a.) being gradually turned to pasture, or b.) getting more work than you ever dreamed could bless your back.

THEN THERE is the apologetic approach which begins something like this: "I'd rather take a beating than to be the one to tell you . . ." or when wielding the hatchet by phone, "I've never hated to make a call like this in all my life."

Perhaps a record of penetrating indirection in announcing gloomy news occurred when a workman had an accident which sent him instantly to his reward. NO ONE wanted to be the one to break the news to his wife, but finally one unlearned son of a toil was selected to bear the tidings. Searching for the right words to use, he knocked on the door, and when it opened he asked: "Is this the Widow Jones?"

Exploding Myths

Marquis Childs

NEW YORK — The American temperament, as innumerable foreign observers from De Toqueville on have noted, runs to extremes. China is a perfect example. For 20 years the most-populous nation in the world was taboo and specialists who insisted on pointing out the harsher realities were banished to outer darkness.

NOW THE entrance of the Chinese delegates to the United Nations has been treated, in the news media at least, as though it marked a miraculous transformation. Hosannas will sound in the company of nations and the lion will lie down with the lamb.

In their carefully self-contained performance the Chinese showed none of the elation of their principal sponsors. Make no mistake, however, that the grace of admission to the U.N. will soften their implacable hostility to the "imperialists," foremost among them being the United States. They will conduct themselves with propriety. But they will pursue zealously their endeavors with the Arab, African and certain Latin-American states that must, in the Maoist concept, be "liberated."

THE DISASTROUS policy from 1940 on was rooted in the myth of the other China. The missionaries had fostered the belief that the Chinese were on the way to becoming a Christian people. Christian advocates contended that Chiang Kai-shek's wartime cabinet was the most Christian of any in the world. And to this Franklin Roosevelt's fixation that China must be a big power.

All this went blindly in the face of facts. At best two to 2½ per cent of the Chinese were at any one time converts. During the Boxer rebellion Christian missionaries were slaughtered wholesale. As the Communists began to gain power, the naive notion was fostered that they were not Communists at all but agrarian reformers.

THE SIGNS of a new delusion are visible. That is, China as a great source of trade, tourism and friendly exchanges.

It derives from the same kind of wishful thinking that inflated the other delusion. Hundreds of American businessmen are primed on a sprinter's start for the bonanza of those first trade agreements. Actually in terms of international trade, as widely accepted in the exchange of goods, China offers little that the United States needs or wants. West Germany has long had an energetic and knowledgeable trade mission in China, yet the exchange of goods thus far has been about equivalent to Germany's trade with little Luxembourg.

AS FOR tourism, a recent visitor has kept close trading connections over the years — was told by the official responsible for travel that the People's Republic was interested in only three classes of visitors: delegations from friendly countries, long-time friends of Communist China from abroad and some businessmen.

THE OLD CHINA hand mentioned above presents to his friends a nicely bound book with the title, "What I Know About China." It contains 40 blank pages. That is a bit of modesty which others with far less knowledge might emulate. The very fact that, within so vast a land mass and 700 million population and with so teeming a population, the secret of the present uncertainty has been so well kept is a tribute to the controls and the conditioning so efficiently exercised.

Economic Shocks

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Since looking into 1972 is like trying to view Mars through a dust-storm, the economists who regularly issue forecasts in November might spread more knowledge with a review instead.

It would include these momentous events, the consequences of which still not fully understood, certainly will never permit a full return to the old order:

—The rejection of traditional methods of restraining inflation and the acceptance of a controlled economy, not solely by those of socialist bent but by conservative members of the business, political and intellectual communities.

—The sudden disposal, without a mutually acceptable alternative, of the international monetary system based on gold and the dollar as the basis for fixing relative rates. —A continuing attack on the men, manners and methods of the once-hallowed securities exchanges, and the growing feeling that the traditional, monopolistic market place for securities, along with its fixed commissions, is anachronistic.

—The apparent alienation of a large part of the investing public, perhaps ending an era in which the number of investors grew fivefold in less than three decades.

—The continued strength of the consumer movement, not only in extreme and obvious ways, but in the growing sophistication with which individuals withhold or spend their discretionary income rather than submit to seller's pressures.

—The growing recognition that ecology is not just something to talk about but something to act upon, illustrated by the growing documentation of abuses and the increasing severity of federal regulations.

These are events of such magnitude that it is unlikely they will be duplicated in the coming year. It is enough, in fact, to hope that what has already happened can be digested before swallowing more.

Was anyone for example not surprised at the news of August 15, when a president who time after time had proclaimed his abhorrence of federal intervention turned around and did that very thing?

And it is unlikely that even the best informed foreign monetary authorities were prepared for the sudden U.S. announcement of a sweeping, unilateral plan to correct imbalances in trade.

Rogers' Aid Pitch

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — There has been some plain talk — friendly but earnest — between the United States and many of the governments in the world recently about the heavy drain on American funds for foreign-aid programs and military assistance in recent years. The idea has been conveyed that, while this country wants to help, it expects the other nations to assume a bigger part of the burden.

SECRETARY OF STATE William P. Rogers, in a copyrighted interview in this week's issue of "U.S. News & World Report," sets forth the main points of the new course that is being taken by our government. The conversations by our diplomats began long before the votes against us in the United Nations. The moves were initiated here because of a rising sentiment in Congress against foreign-aid legislation. As Mr. Rogers puts it: "We are going to make it clear that we will do our share, but we want others to do their share, too."

The Secretary of State declares that, without a foreign-aid program, Cambodia probably could not continue its fight for independence and that "our Vietnamization program would be so seriously damaged that it would be doubtful if it could be continued as is." He adds: "I think Laos would not survive for long."

MR. ROGERS SAYS there are other areas which would be adversely affected, and he lays stress also on the making of loans. He states:

"Most of our development aid today is in the form of loans. We have 14 billion dollars outstanding and less than one quarter of 1 per cent is in default. Those loans are being repaid. And, over 90 per cent of the money we lend gets spent for U.S. goods and services right in this country."

The Secretary of State is, on the whole, optimistic about the world situation. He concedes that "a very explosive situation" exists between Pakistan and India. He is hopeful that the Mideast problem will not lead to war.

AS FOR OUR relations with the Soviet Union, Secretary Rogers makes this significant remark: "We have more negotiations going on now with the Soviet Union than ever in our history."

It is apparent that the forthcoming parleys with the Peking government will be exploratory and that the visit of President Nixon is not expected to yield any important pronouncement on current problems. It will be more of a get-acquainted conference than a negotiation of a specific nature.

Secretary Rogers warns especially against isolation. He says that "for security reasons we can't be isolated, for commercial reasons we must not be isolated, and for humanitarian reasons we would not want to be isolated."

THE SECRETARY'S viewpoint will be regarded abroad as a logical American expression. But on Capitol Hill the politicians believe votes are to be gotten back home by backing isolationism.

There were no references in Secretary Rogers' interview to the problems the United States faces in Latin America. These are increasing. The Soviet Union is presumably encouraging Fidel Castro in his communication with other countries in this hemisphere. His recent trip to Chile was widely publicized throughout South America. Moscow's propaganda supervisors might well have had a hand in arranging for Castro's visit.

U.S. BUSINESSMEN for many years have had satisfactory relations with Chile. Now the government at Santiago has been taken over by Marxists, and properties of companies belonging to citizens of the United States have been confiscated. No such treatment has been encountered by American businesses in any major country in this hemisphere.

ALTOGETHER, the Latin-American problem rarely gets mentioned in the speeches of our officials, but is nonetheless a source of great worry.

Befuddled

E. Forrest Copeland

THE PHARISEES — Back in Biblical days there was much difficulty in defining sin. That stalwart group of men called the Pharisees who would save their brethren from perdition . . . laid it out . . . from how to cut your toenails . . . to when you could burp the baby. Congress . . . in an effort to avoid past mistakes no doubt . . . seems to be doing it's best to see that we don't try to define sin . . . by refusing to permit prayer in our public schools. Although this carries on the tradition of permissiveness so firmly established in the loose 60's . . . I suspect someone should tell them this is the 70's . . . things are changing . . . like a lot of house seats come election time. For I feel reasonably sure . . . with the present bunch in Washington . . . a bill introducing the Ten Commandments as law . . . wouldn't stand a prayer.

SURPRISED though I was at the various denominations of religion who lobbied against the bill to permit prayer in our public schools . . . I conceded my ignorance . . . and still do. For I read all night and could not find where God was a member of just one denomination.

Admittedly many denominations claim Him . . . as did our nation when it was first founded. But giving up that point completely as being debatable . . . as it has been over the years . . . I approached the problem from a practical standpoint. Quickly I realized there was no way we could provide a ministry for every faith . . . in every classroom. I also ran across the admonition . . . that men should not pray in public . . . for the benefit of men. This led me to the conclusion that I was swimming upstream.

ONLY ONE thing left to do. Congress should pass a special money appropriation bill for the purpose of buying billions of miniature band aids . . . to be distributed free to all citizens . . . so that they may cover up the legend . . . and not be offended by the words "In God We Trust" which appears on all our currency. For surely . . . someone has been wounded.

PHASE II — Appears to be turning into Maze II . . . with devious pressures and odd effects everywhere. Key issues, however, are beginning to surface . . . should be followed closely. Like Big Labor finally out in the center ring . . . in confrontation and dispute . . . with most everybody else. And watch out or you'll get trampled . . . in the rush to give everybody a 5½ wage increase . . . They say it's not clear who will pay for the increase in wages . . . who's kidding who . . . it will be John Q. Public . . . again.

MEANTIME . . . the rush of developments over the next few weeks . . . may pretty well dictate the cards we'll play with . . . for some time. It's a highly fluid situation that could swing either way . . . and will . . . before too much longer. (The foregoing is the opinion of the writer, E. Forrest Copeland, President, Pine Securities, Inc.)

Why Patients Get Sick

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a hospital patient gets tired of hearing:

"Confidentially, Harry, what did they really find wrong with you?"

"Do you think that in your case it might be psychosomatic?"

"What do they charge you at this resort, Harry?"

"I never saw you looking better, kid, except when you were feeling worse."

"My, my, Mr. Bilgewater, I do hope we had a pleasant night."

"What are you looking so uneasy about, sir? Surely you've seen a bedpan before."

"I'm the priest at the hospital here. Would you care to make a confession, or just have a little chat?"

"Just between us, Harry, what did they really find wrong with you?"

"Yeah, I've been in this room a month. The last guy in your bed seemed to be coming along just fine when, all of a sudden, he was gone—just like you blow out a candle."

"As your wife, Harry, I hope that you'll take this illness as a warning from heaven to live a more sensible existence than you have for the last 25 years."

"I'm your wife's lawyer, Mr. Bilgewater. Of course, we know everything is going to be okay, but Mrs. Bilgewater thought we ought to bring your will up to date. Purely precautionary, naturally. Just sign here."

"Hi, you old rascal. I sneaked in a bottle of bourbon and a couple of paper cups. Let's have a couple of snorts. You don't get operated on until morning and a guy could die before then."

"You can trust me completely, Harry. What did they really find wrong with you?"

"If they find any gallstones, will you have them save one for me? It would be cute to have somebody else's gallstone for a souvenir. I might even have it made into a ring."

"I brought along the $20 bucks I owe you, Harry, but if it's all right with you, I'd just as soon pay you when you wake up after the operation."

"Don't let them tell you that you'll only have gas pains for three days. You may have them off and on for years."

"I'm a chronic patient from down the hall, Boy, if you know like I do what goes on in this hospital, you'd get out of here and go see a good veterinarian."

"Take a tip from me and get well as soon as you can. The new guy in the office who is doing your work while you're away seems to be making a big hit with the boss."

"They're wheeling in the cart to take you to the operating room, Harry. Whisper in my ear, old pal. What did they really find wrong with you?"

My Answer

Billy Graham

Are sexual intimacies wrong if they are deep expressions of true love before marriage? Is there anything in the Bible about this?

N.T.

This is a question that is asked by many young people today. A young person in love is confronted with a real problem. His physical being cries out for expression, and every nerve and fiber of his being demands intimacy with his beloved. But, as I have said over and over, expressions of love prior to holy matrimony require discipline and restraint. If proper respect for your beloved is not maintained, the whole structure of love breaks down, and it dissipates into the common thing called lust. Many marriages are ruined before the marriage ceremony is performed because the restraint which is a part of true love is not exercised. This is why the Bible urges young people to "flee from youthful lusts." Through this admonition the Lord is trying to perpetuate the warm glow of real love and guard against it becoming a thing on the mere animal plane, and wise and happy are the young people who heed it.

The Scriptures are clear at this point: "Love doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, thinketh no evil . . . rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; beareth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things." These were written for your happiness. Believe me!

A Devotion For Today . . .

"What man of you, having a hundred sheep, if he has lost one of them, does not leave the ninety-nine in the wilderness, and go after the one which is lost, until he finds it?"

PRAYER: O Lord, help us to put aside foolish pride that insists on doing all things our way. Help us to be still and know that You are God. Amen.

Wise Bachelor

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am interested in the letter from the bachelor who refused the request of his best friend and the friend's wife who asked him to attempt to impregnate her. It seems to me that the bachelor was inordinately selfish, as is true of most bachelors.

Should the bachelor have agreed, the attempt might have resulted in a conception and birth, making at least three people happy, the husband, the wife, and the offspring.

Respectfully,
A LOUISVILLE

DEAR M. D.: Surely, you don't use names or locations, performed that function once, he drops dead.

DEAR ABBY: I know you don't use names or locations, so I'll be perfectly candid. I am in my late 30's and divorced. No children. I am very well off financially because of my divorce settlement. My husband wanted the divorce, not I. (Another woman.) I loved and trusted him and was disillusioned and hurt when he told me.

A few months ago I renewed my acquaintance with a handsome, charming gentleman. Gary (not his real name) is intelligent, sensitive, kind and warm. He is talented and selfless. Man is not like the May fly, whose only purpose in life is to propagate, and having marriage and I am considering we wouldn't be living with HER — she would be living with US! Furthermore, he says if we don't live with his mother, she will have to sell her house and live in an apartment because she won't be able to run the house on her check alone. Besides that, he has already bought a washer, dryer, television, etc. and he doesn't want to have to buy these things w/c.

Abby, I don't think it is possible for me to live in her home and "take over" with her living there, too. It would still be HER house, and I can't see starting married life with my husband's mother living with us. (Or with her, however you want to look at it.) Maybe your readers have had experience with this type of set-up. Does it ever work? What do you think?

Emotional Illness

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How can one recognize the signs of emotional illness or nervous breakdown?

For about two years my husband and I have been arguing with increasing frequency, and sometimes interminably. He is employed in a field where government contracts are important. When personnel cutbacks occur through a decrease in appropriations, pressure for results increases.

What especially worries me is that sometimes when we argue he gets very depressed and talks about ending his life. The children and I would be better off without him. He has never made an attempt on his life, but his talk is distressing. He has also said that sometimes he feels he's becoming uninged. We've been married 7½ years.

We had a session of marriage counseling (initiated by me) but ended them because my husband found them too painful and thought they were aggravating, not helping, the situation. — Mrs. C.T.

You can't list a few simple categories in mental (emotional) illness, any more than you can give a neat little handful of physical symptoms that will cover all physical ailments.

But if I were a marriage counselor, which I'm not, or a psychiatrist, which I'm not, or just an internist, which I am, I'd want to ask some searching questions. In these arguments, who starts them? Who prolongs them? What are they about?

Nobody goes through life without problems, and I doubt if there ever was a marriage, worthy of the name, that didn't have some arguments. Your husband has his pressures at work — but he still has his job. If he complains, that's understandable. But why argue?

Roughly speaking, changes in disposition, increased irritability without apparent reason, withdrawal from social activities, decreased productivity at work, depression are a few of the signs of emotional illness. But that talk about suicide — indicating severe depression — is ominous. Yes, I know that sometimes people (not always "oppressed" adolescent girls, either!) make phoney suicide threats or insincere "attempts" just to get their way. But there are also teenagers who DO kill themselves, so talk about suicide should never be disregarded.

In an adult, talk about suicide too often is another way of saying, "I'm troubled. I'm scared. I can't see any way out."

Interminable family arguments almost never solve anything. And when your husband found the marriage counseling sessions "painful," it would indicate they were verging on some anxieties or worries he didn't want to talk about. That's why they were "painful."

Anybody can lose his job. Any sincere husband and father can worry about his family. Anybody can be "in the dumps" occasionally.

But in this case, I'd have to keep looking for something more. It is quite possible that some physical problem (real or not) is chewing at your husband's emotions.

Preferably, I'd have him go through a very thorough medical examination. If that doesn't show you the road, then I'd try to get him to agree to a psychiatric interview. Worry is one thing. Endless argument and talk of suicide are quite another.

Tigers, Hogs, Bisons Given Nod In Games

NEW YORK (AP) — "The humane society," says Coach Charles Y. McClendon of Louisiana State, "oughta step in and cancel the game before putting my little boys on the field against Notre Dame." Forget it, humane society, because the LSU fans have been waiting for this one ever since last year's heartbreaking 3-0 loss at Notre Dame. Revenge—even the thought of it—is beautiful. And come Saturday night, the Bayou Bengals get Notre Dame in their own lair at Baton Rouge, La.

"I knew we had 11 games this season," says McClendon, "and my players knew it. But not many of our fans knew it. There's no way they were gonna forget who we're playing Saturday night."

NO QUALMS

Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian, whose own fans aren't the most genial hosts of all time, has no qualms about invading down from Oregon State to the Baton Rouge snafu.

"When I was at Northwestern," he snouts out, "I brought teams to South Bend and won. I've taken Notre Dame teams to all kinds of stadiums. The Cotton Bowl isn't exactly the easiest place for a visiting team to play.

"But the crowd can't throw one block or throw one pass or run for any yardage." For better or worse, the first pick this week is... LSU.

Ohio State at Michigan—Another revenge game. Last year was Ohio State's turn after Michigan spoiled their perfect 1969 record and they answered back by doing the same to the Wolverines. Michigan, ranked third, has a shot at the national championship should the Nebraska-Oklahoma survivor lose its bowl game. MICHIGAN.

Air Force at Colorado — Air Force has the revenge motive but the better team belongs to Colorado.

COLORADO

Arizona State at San Jose State—San Jose is coming off a stunning upset of Stanford, but unless Dee Andros has come down from Oregon State to coach the Spartans the pick is... ARIZONA STATE.

Cornell at Penn—The Big Red is tied with Dartmouth for the Ivy League and Ed Marinaro, the Big Red Machine, would like nothing better than to close out his career in a blaze of glory... and yardage. CORNELL.

Dartmouth at Princeton—Another chance for revenge. Tigers haven't forgotten last year's 38-0 embarrassment. PRINCETON.

UCLA at Southern California—A little more salt in Pepper Rodgers' wounds... and he wasn't even around last year when UCLA romped 45-20. SOUTHERN CAL.

Texas Tech at Arkansas—Razorbacks must win to stay alive in the Southwest Conference scramble. ARKANSAS.

California at Stanford—Stanford can't win the little ones. This is a big one. STANFORD.

MICHIGAN STATE

Michigan State at Northwestern—Michigan State beat Ohio State 17-10 two weeks ago. Northwestern beat Ohio State 14-10 last Saturday. Therefore... MICHIGAN STATE.

Villanova at Temple—The big late-season news in Philadelphia usually is Army-Navy. That's next week. This may be better. VILLANOVA.

Harvard at Yale—THE game? Not this year. YALE.

North Carolina at Duke—Last year, Georgia blew a Peach Bowl bid by losing to Georgia Tech and North Carolina got it instead. This time, North Carolina may blow a Peach Bowl bid by losing to... DUKE.

Mustangs Win 3 Contests

ACKERLY — Sands swept three basketball games from Westbrook here Tuesday night.

The varsity boys, in their 1971-72 debut, blitzed the Wildcats, 85-71, in a game that saw Bobby Beall hit 32 points and Paul Hopper 21 for the winners.

The Wildcats were making their eighth start of the year and were after their sixth win.

In the girls' contest, Sands prevailed, 72-65. Janette Nichols had 29 points and Jill Hunt 18 for the Ponies.

Sands also won the boys' B game, 46-35. Danny Coldiron set the pace with ten points.

The Sands girls play in Ira at 5:30 Friday. Both the boys and girls are booked in New Home Monday.

Girls' game: SANDS (72) — Nichols 8-13; Hunt 3-11; Roman 5-4-16; Billingsley 4-8; Peugh 0-2-2; Totals 20-32-77.

WESTBROOK (65) — Sullivan 4-7-15; Rich 3-13-19; Moore 4-15-23; Webb 3-2-8; Totals 14-37-65.

Boys' game: SANDS (85) — Beall 15-2-32; Smith 7-2-14; Hambrick 0-2-2; Hopper 10-1-21; Schulte 1-2; Hughes 3-6-4; Barnes 2-4-4; Totals 38-85.

WESTBROOK (71) — Rich 8-4-20; Reyes 4-2-11; Anderson 6-1-13; Sweet 2-1-5; Rich 2-1-5; Oden 3-4-10; Denson 1-2-4; Johnson 1-1-3; Totals 30-27-88.

LOOKING 'EM OVER
With Tommy Hart

Part of George Blanda's success at Oakland may be attributed to the fact that his teammates know he's 44 years of age and needs extra protection. So says Ed Hughes, coach of the Houston Oilers.

The football greybeard, due to his age, isn't going to scramble around much back there. Other Raiders try extra hard to see that his passing pocket doesn't collapse.

Dick Alwan, director of publicity at Sunland Park Race Tracks, writes that the pari-mutuel handle at the track is up 18.5 per cent this year over last.

Webb Williams, who sandbagged a couple of area teams when he was playing basketball under Max Fly at Comstock, is currently a member of the freshman team at Texas A&M.

Now standing 6-7, Webb, along with 6-8 Jerry Mercer of Cypress-Fairbanks, give the A&M Fish good rebounding strength.

When he was in high school, Williams was the highest ranking boy academically in his class with a 94.5 grade average. He served as class vice president, a student council representative and ultimately as class president. Majoring in wild life science, he hopes to become a game management official after graduation.

Someone will have to come up with $40,000 if Lubbock is to field a baseball team in the Texas League.

The Chamber of Commerce there is being asked to ante up half that amount.

When Big Spring fielded a team in the old Longhorn League in 1947, the park was built here for something like $5,000 — and that included the installation of lights.

It's a small-world dept.: In 1934 Ki Aldrich, Fred Rogers and Jodie Marek were all football stars for Temple High School, which was enjoying a prelude to its finest hour in the game.

The following year, with Marek and Rogers back, Temple ended Corsicana's championship reign in its district.

Aldrich went on to All-American greatness at Texas Christian University. Marek popped up at Texas Tech and later became a relief pitcher for Big Spring in the old W-T-N-M League, perhaps the finest the club ever had.

Temple ultimately lost to Mexia in the state playoffs, which then was sparked by Ernie Lain, a passing wizard. Lain later helped the Rice Owls to a Southwest Conference champion. His favorite target on Rice's title winning 1937 team was Olie Corvill, a Big Spring product, who went on to become one of Rice's all-time greats.

Lain and Cordill put Rice in the Cotton Bowl game in 1938 and the combination proved too much for the University of Colorado. Rice prevailed in Dallas, 28-14, despite the heroics of Byron (Whizzer) White. That's the same Byron White who now sits on the U.S. Supreme Court.

Ed Moser, who once performed mightily for the Daily Herald to give this area proper coverage on the sports beat, recently joined the Southern Arizona Bank in Tucson as a part-time public relations and marketing trainee.

Moser leaves the Air Force in less than three months and wants a career in that type of endeavor. Although his roots are deep back in his native Ohio, the southwest perhaps is getting to him. In his memory, the winter snows back home keep piling deeper every year.

Vida Blue Is MVP

NEW YORK (AP) — Left-handed pitcher Vida Blue of the Oakland A's was named the winner of the American League Most Valuable Player award today.

VIDA BLUE

At 22, Blue is the youngest player ever to win an MVP honor in either league.

Blue, who won the Cy Young Award as the AL's outstanding pitcher last month, earned 14 of a possible 24 first-place votes and 268 points from the Baseball Writers Association of America committee. Sal Bando, Blue's Oakland teammate, garnered four first-place votes and 182 points to finish second.

The Robinson boys of the AL champion Baltimore Orioles gained the next two places, one each for fourth, fifth, seventh and eighth.

Blue is the fifth pitcher to win both the Cy Young and MVP honors. Don Newcombe did it in 1956, the year the Cy Young Award was initiated.

The others were Sandy Koufax in 1963, Bob Gibson, 1968, and Detroit pitcher Mickey Lolich, runner-up to Blue in the Cy Young balloting, got the other first-place vote and finished fifth with 155 points.

A total of 29 players were mentioned in the MVP voting. Blue was the only player to be named on every ballot.

Until Blue received the honor, the youngest player to be named MVP was Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench in 1970. Bench was just a few weeks shy of his 23rd birthday when he received his MVP award, while Blue will not turn 23 until next July 28.

The hard-throwing left-hander, in his first full season of major league ball, compiled a 24-8 record, led the league with a 1.82 earned run average, completed 24 of his 39 starts and struck out 301 batters.

In addition to his 14 first-place votes, Blue also received one each for fourth, fifth, seventh and eighth.

Blue is the fifth pitcher to win both the Cy Young and MVP honors. Don Newcombe did it in 1956, the year the Cy Young Award was initiated.

The others were Sandy Koufax in 1963, Bob Gibson, 1968, and

Joe Mac King Is Honored

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M quarterback Joe Mac King spends about 40 hours a week in classes, working toward a degree in Veterinary Medicine.

In his spare time, King, a senior from Mineola, dons a football uniform and directs the Aggie football team.

Last Saturday the Aggies were trailing Rice 13-12 in the fourth quarter when King put his little-used passing talents to work for four straight completions in a game-winning touchdown drive.

It was the fourth week he had started at quarterback for the floundering Aggies and they chalked up their fourth straight victory.

King completed 8 of 18 passes for 125 yards and hit Mitch Robertson for the game-winning touchdown against Rice. That earned him the Associated Press Southwest Conference offensive player of the week honor.

Last week Aggie defensive tackle Boice Best won the AP's defensive award.

A&M offensive backfield coach Jack Huribut says King hasn't wilted under the strain of a heavy academic load and the responsibility of directing the Aggies' offense.

"The big difference in our offense has been our consistency, and of course Joe Mac has been a great contributor in giving us that stability."

Knicks Battle Back To Win

By The Associated Press

Big leads don't mean a thing in the NBA.

"You come back from anything in this league as long as they have the 24-second clock," commented Coach Red Holzman of the New York Knicks Tuesday night after the Knicks had wiped out a 19-point deficit to beat Phoenix 112-111 in the National Basketball Association.

The Buffalo Braves, Baltimore Bullets and Golden State Warriors also came from behind to win while Seattle overcame an 18-point deficit only to lose to Chicago as the Bulls forged ahead again in the final quarter.

The Braves beat Cincinnati 102-98, Baltimore tripped Houston 110-107, Golden State overcame Detroit 122-101 and Chicago defeated Seattle 95-87. In the other NBA games Los Angeles whacked Cleveland 108-90 and Milwaukee routed Portland 125-105.

Down by 97-78 the Knicks caught fire with 9½ minutes left. Walt Frazier led the charge with 16 points, including two free throws that gave the Knicks a three-point lead at 112-109 with 17 seconds left and clinched the victory.

Altogether Frazier had 39 points for the game, his career high. Dick Van Arsdale led the Suns with 26.

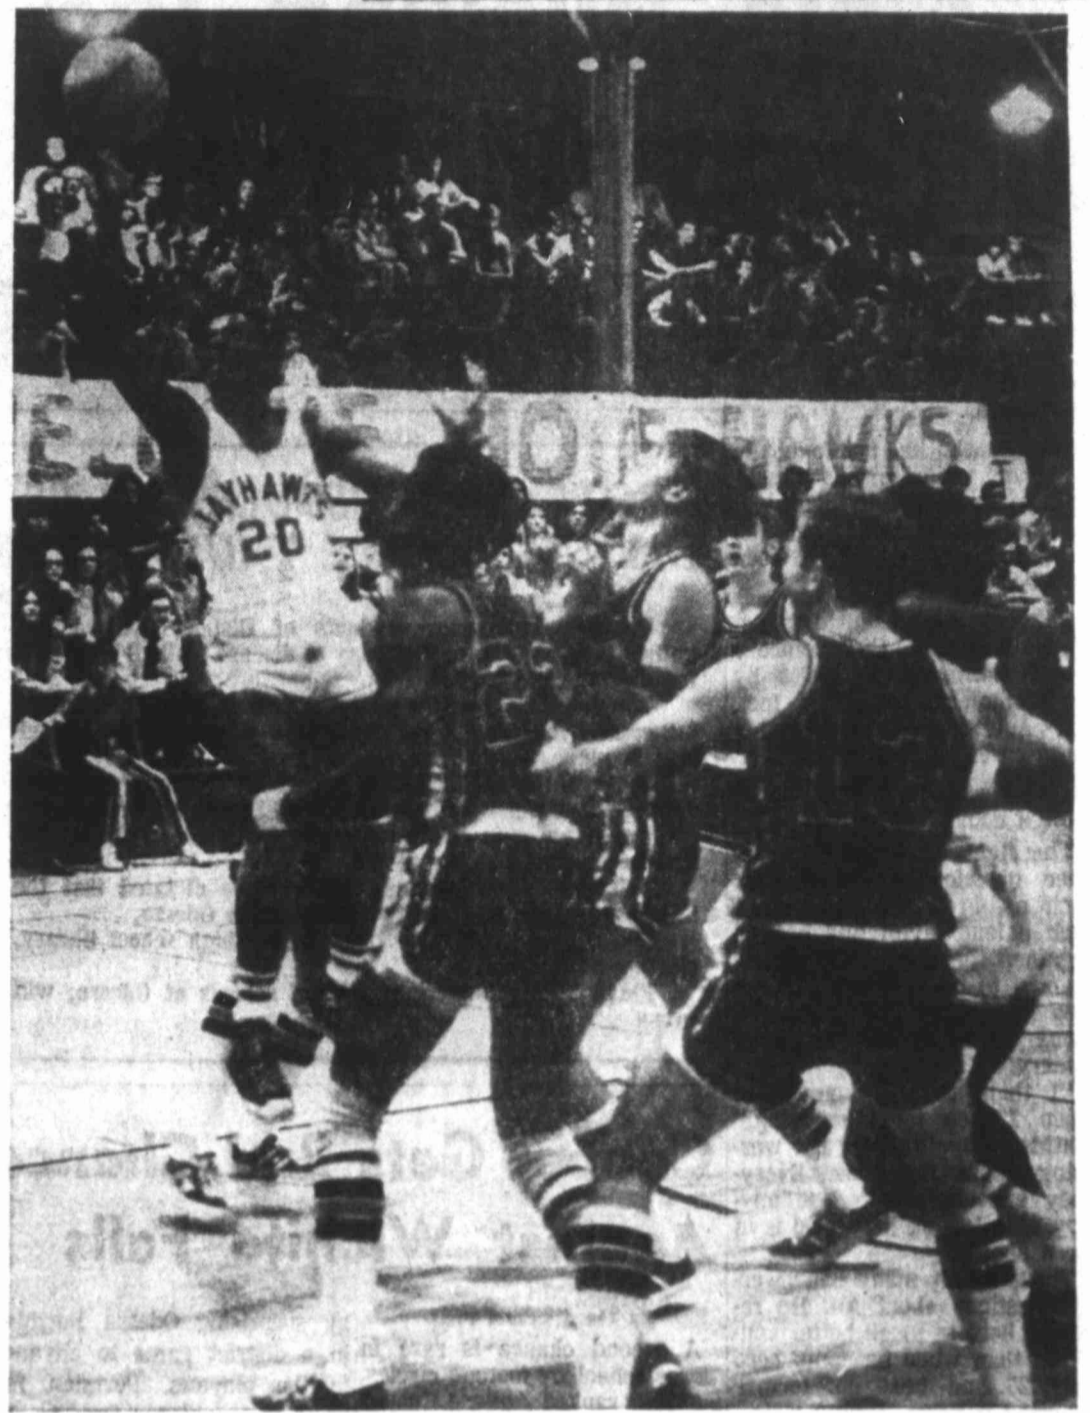

Buffalo, behind by 14 points at 52-38, rallied to go ahead of the Royals at 81-80, fell behind again, then went ahead for good at 92-91 on a Mike Davis layup. Walt Hazard was high for the Braves with 27. Nate Williams had the same for the Royals, 19 of them in the first half.

Houston led Baltimore by 107-103 with 1:19 remaining before the Bullets tied the score on two steals by Dave Stadworth and Jack Marin. A layup by Phil Chenier with 23 seconds left put Baltimore ahead to stay. Elvin Hayes of the Rockets was game high scorer with 31 points. Chenier topped the Bullets with 26.

Seattle wiped out a 42-24 deficit to tie Chicago at 55-55 in the third quarter before the Bulls came on again. Bob Love led the Bulls with 25 points. Don Kojis was high for the SuperSonics with 22.

Joe Ellis and Nick Jones came off the bench and ignited a Warrior rally that wiped out a 16-point Detroit lead. Ellis had 16 points in the third period and Jones eight. Jeff Mullins was high for the Warriors with 33 points. Jimmy Walker had 30 for the Pistons.

Jerry West led the Lakers with 25 points. Bobby Smith paced the Cavaliers with 16.

JAYHAWK ACE STINGS LIKE A BEE Archie Myers (20) with one of his patented shots

Archie Myers Hits 38 As HC Deflates LCC

By TOMMY HART

Playing before stands that were practically packed, the Howard County Junior College Jayhawks breezed to an 86-67 victory over Lubbock Christian College's JV unit in their home debut here Tuesday night.

Archie Myers, the Hawks' all-star guard, zeroed in for 38 of his team's points. After three games of his sophomore season, the speedster from Cleveland, Miss., has a career total of 1,021 points.

Archie has joined the list of top 10 career scorers in the school's history. He replaced Ernest Turner, who put together a two-year total of 1,019.

He likely will replace the ninth man, Jim Knotts, in the Ode'ssa Tournament this weekend. Knotts finished with 1,033.

Myers hit the first nine points his team scored and the Hawks had to have them all because LCC came to play. With 10 minutes gone in the first half, HC had the thinnest of leads, 19-18.

By half time, however, the locals were in command, 43-34, and relatively early in the second half they led, 51-35.

The resident quintet is going to have to develop other shooters if it is to retain its momentum and blossom as a threat for the Western Conference championship.

One freshman here who wasn't timid about gunning the ball was Benjamin Gay of Houston Lincoln, a 6-2 boy, who wound up with 11 points. Some of them were nifties, too.

Harry Miller, the sophomore from Eudora, Ark., is a lot better shooter than he appeared to be Tuesday night. He wound up with only four points.

Lawrence Young tallied 12 points for HC and played a fine game on the boards. In all, 12 of the Jayhawks got into the scoring act.

Ed Moultrie posed quite a problem for the Hawk guards. The Lubbock ace hit eight field pitches and had 26 points. Rick Russwurm finished with 13 for the visitors.

The defeat was the second in three starts for LCC. The Roadrunners lost to New Mexico J.C. in Hobbs Monday night, 101-89. Previously, they had beaten Southwestern Christian of Terrell, 107-89.

HC and Schreiner Institute play at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Odessa meet. The two schools are in the same bracket with South Plains and Ranger.

Penn State May Be Guest Eleven In Cotton Bowl

DALLAS (AP) — How does Texas vs. Penn State in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day sound?

Don't put any grocery money on it but this combination appears to have the best odds in the fast-developing post-season collegiate football scene.

The Longhorns can clinch their fourth consecutive Southwest Conference title Thanksgiving Day with a victory over the surging Texas Aggies who have won their last four games.

If that happens, Texas would get the host role.

Penn State is undefeated but must play Pittsburgh Saturday and rugged Tennessee on Dec. 4.

Cotton Bowl officials will be on hand Saturday to see the Nittany Lions play and don't be surprised if they issue them an invitation, gambling Texas will defeat the Aggies.

Georgia and Notre Dame also are contenders for the guest spot in the bowl.

It appears the big four of Auburn, Alabama, Oklahoma and Nebraska will be going elsewhere.

Reports have Oklahoma and Auburn meeting in the Sugar Bowl with Alabama and Nebraska in the Orange Bowl.

"All the top teams are prospects until they notify us," said a Cotton Bowl official. "We've only been notified by one team that we are not in their picture. Certainly Penn State is a prospect. So are Georgia and Notre Dame."

Penn State is sixth-ranked and Georgia is eighth-ranked.

Georgia was in the Cotton Bowl in 1967 with Penn State's only appearance in 1948 when it fought SMU to a 13-13 tie.

GI Charged In Slaying Of Blonde

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The government was expected to rest its case today in the trial of a Florida soldier charged in the slaying of a petite, 19-year-old blonde.

On trial is S. Sgt. Peter Cherico, 24, of Miami, an Army medic and two-time Vietnam veteran.

A key prosecution witness in the first day of testimony Tuesday was Miss Jesse Edwards, who said Cherico told her that he told his wife he killed Mrs. Lynda Evonne Heishman, 27, of Ft. Sam Houston in the Women's Army Corps.

Mrs. Heishman's body was found in a remote area of Ft. Sam Houston on Sept. 27, 1970. She had been missing nine days.

Her husband, Tommy Heishman of Fairfax, Va., testified he and his wife met Cherico several months before she was slain.

Heishman, a military policeman at the time, said his wife disappeared after leaving him a note that she had gone for a soft drink with a girlfriend.

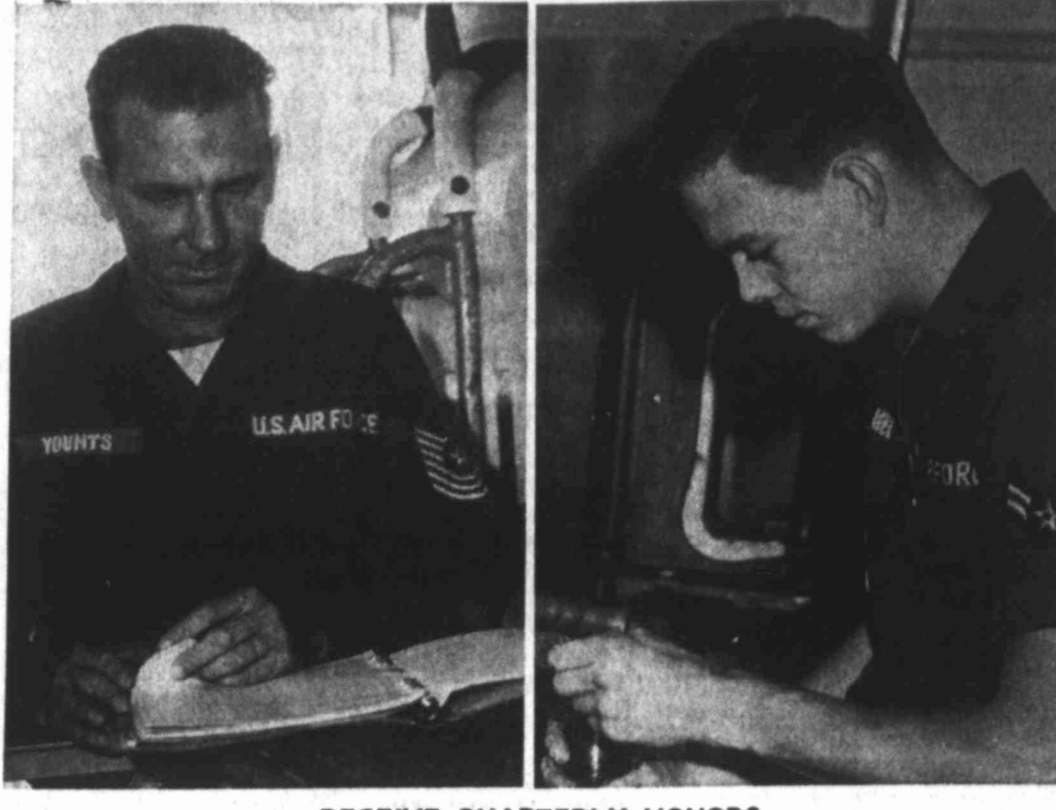

An Army pathologist testified Mrs. Heishman died from blows to her head with a blunt instrument.

Cherico, a White Plains, N.Y. native, is on trial in federal court. He has served in the army since 1964 and was assigned here as an instructor in December, 1969.

Minor Mistake?

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Roxie Dorriety said the bank employe wouldn't believe her. "He said they didn't make mistakes that big," Mrs. Dorriety, a cocktail waitress, said she had deposited $104.50 Monday at a branch of the American National Bank in Spring Hill.

Later, she glanced at the deposit slip and thought it was $10,000 too much. But she looked closer and saw she had been credited in the amount of $10,000.104.50.

RECEIVE QUARTERLY HONORS
... M. Sgt. Bobby Younts (left), AIC Deal Abel

Webb FMS Personnel Given Quarterly Honors

Three men assigned to the 3560th Field Maintenance Squadron at Webb AFB were recently named for quarterly honors, according to 1st Lt. Percy Joubert, squadron information officer.

M. Sgt. Bobby Younts was named the squadron's Senior Non-commissioned officer of the quarter; S. Sgt. Donald Spence earned the NCO of the Quarter honor; and Airman I.C. Deal Abel was selected the Airman of the Quarter.

Sgt. Younts was assigned to the repair and reclamation shop in June, 1971. As shop non-commissioned officer in charge (NCOIC), he schedules and supervises the work load and duty assignments of five crews of civilian and military personnel with the shop.

"He persists with unwavering perseverance in his pursuit for self-perfection in the performance of his job. He is challenged by the unknown so that he is motivated to relentlessly search out more proficient and professional techniques," said M. Sgt. Tom Berlin, Aerospace Systems Branch NCOIC.

The native of Temple entered the Air Force in August, 1956. He arrived at Webb in May, 1971, from an assignment with the 19th Tactical Fighter Wing, Kadena AB, Okinawa. Sgt. Younts married the former Miss Jean Williams, from England. The couple has four children.

A jet engine technician, Sgt. Spence arrived here in 1966 following an assignment at Cam Rahn Bay, Vietnam.

"His uncompromising can-do attitude and his vast technical knowledge was primarily responsible for completion of the propulsion bearing cleaning facility. He dedicated many hours of his time in research of equipment, drawing of plans and coordinating with civil engineering support shops in order that this urgently needed facility could be completed at the earliest possible date," said M. Sgt. Lyndell George, engine shop supervisor.

Sgt. Spence has been in the Air Force 17 years. The Indiana native married the former Miss Nellie Garrett. The couple has two children, David, 13 and Paul, 12.

L. W. Whisenant, assistant fabrication foreman, said about the FMS honor airman, "Although Airman Abel was assigned to this branch directly from basic training, he has an intense interest in machine shop work and the ability which is necessary to mature this interest. He has been assigned jobs complying with technical manuals. These assignments are accepted willingly and carried out in a manner normally expected of persons of higher rank and longer experience."

The Ohio native began his Air Force service in July, 1970. He left Lackland AFB, in September, 1971, and was assigned here. The airman is married to the former Miss Rebecca E. Milner, of Big Spring.

Shakespeare Society: 'To Be, Or Not To Be'

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Shakespeare Society of America, faced with imminent demolition of its headquarters, is pondering a crucial question: "To be, or not to be."

"The plans for the society are not clear at this point," says R. Thad Taylor, one time electrical engineer who quit his job and founded the society seven years ago.

Since then, he says membership has climbed to about 1,000—most members in Southern California.

PERFECT REPLICA

For four years, Shakespeare headquarters here has been an Elizabethan Tudor design 26-room house billed as a near perfect replica of New Place, the house where the Bard died. Members turned it into a combination theater, museum, acting school and rare book library. Shakespearean play productions drew good audiences and reviewers noted the quaint, appropriate setting. Taylor envisioned a Shakespeare cultural center of theaters and schools on 3½ acres surrounding the house.

EVICTED NOTICE

But funds were scarce. The society, supported by dues, was operating at a deficit. Members rented the house, hoping to buy it someday.

Now someone has beat them to it. A financial corporation paid about $1 million for house and land, says Taylor, and gave the society an eviction notice.

"To be very realistic," he says, "at this point we're just hoping that we can get a foundation or business group to donate a piece of land. We have nearly every building trade represented in our membership. We could probably build our own theater."

Members range from students and professors to plumbing and building contractors.

The society will be evicted in 30 days, and its next theatrical production, "King Lear," scheduled for January, is in rehearsals.

The society, says Taylor, is particularly important for young actors working and training here. "The theater is at a new stage of decadence now. It needs something like us to pick it up."

Yugoslav Boomerang Champ Touts Missiles

SYDNEY (AP) — There's a good old Aussie argument going on about boomerangs — those come-back-to-me missiles perfected by the original Aussies, the Aborigines.

The main point at issue is: Are the "Made in U.S.A." models imported into Australia for sale to American tourists superior to those made by Aborigines in Australia?

The world champion boomerang thrower says, "Yes the Yank models are better." An Aboriginal leader says nonsense.

After that it probably will be no surprise to read that the world champion is not an Aborigine, not even Australian born, not even American born, but Steve Silady born in Yugoslavia.

The argument was sparked by Sen. Neville Bonner, the first and only Aboriginal member of the Australian Federal Parliament.

Bonner, in a speech to Parliament, asked for tariff protection for boomerangs "so that cheap imitations from overseas will not undercut the authentic Aboriginal article."

He suggested legislation to restrict the manufacture of boomerangs in Australia "to those who own it as their special heritage."

Then came the follow-ups. Silady, who won his title with a throw of 125 yards in Sydney in 1967, was sought out.

"American boomerangs generally are better than Aboriginal-made," he said. "American manufacturers, like Australian manufacturers, are concerned that their boomerangs come back. The Aborigine couldn't care less whether his comes back or not, as long as it looks pretty and sells."

Then Noel App, manager of the Foundation for Aboriginal Affairs, was given his say:

"Our boomerangs do come back — they're not fakes. Some boomerangs mass produced in some Australian factories for export overseas are of poor quality. But the boomerangs made by Aboriginal craftsmen still are the best in the world. The hand-made ones are unbeatable."

"The Americans can't produce anything like some of the boomerangs we see in this country. Our Aborigines make some that can be thrown in the air and make two complete circles before hovering and falling at the thrower's feet. Nothing produced overseas can compete with these."

"Making a boomerang that will hover in the air for a number of seconds is an art which has taken hundreds of years to perfect. Most American missiles can't compete with properly made Australian product."

Smith Seeks Welfare Lid

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Preston Smith wants other governors and U.S. senators to support a proposal to freeze the amount a state can spend on public welfare.

Smith said Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., is to introduce an amendment to the tax bill to hold welfare spending at 1971 levels.

Smith, in telegrams to governors and senators, estimated Tuesday the amendment would save Texas about $70 million in the next two fiscal years.

"It is imperative," the governor said, "that the states receive immediate fiscal relief from rising welfare costs until the time that comprehensive national welfare reform legislation can be enacted."
