Newest Justice Is Conservative

WASHINGTON (AP) — William H. Rehnquist, confirmed Friday by the Senate as an associate justice of the Supreme Court, likely will become known quickly as the court's conservative.

Rehnquist, to be sure, is only one of four conservatives appointed to the court by President Nixon, but his credentials as a clear cut and vigorous conservative are the strongest of the four.

What's more, his energetic, aggressive nature and his undisputed intellectual capacity stamp him for potential philosophical leadership despite his relative youth of 47.

Nixon's bloc of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, Justice Harry A. Blackmun, Lewis F. Powell, who was recently confirmed, and Rehnquist will not form a majority, but they will be the largest distinctly identifiable philosophical group.

Of the liberal majority led by former Chief Justice Earl Warren during the 1950s and 1960s, (See REHNQUIST Page 8-A, Col. 3)

Reviewing the . . .

. . . with Joe Pickle

A stark reminder that death indeed takes no holiday nor observes any season came last week when Patsy Martinez, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Martinez, was killed in a traffic mishap at SH 350 and IS 20. She was the third person to be killed in Big Spring in a traffic mishap during 1971 — three too many. Fortunately, there were no other fatalities in this three-car pileup.

Nor was violence confined to the corporate limits, for in extreme western Martin County, Phillips Gordon Allen, 30-year-old roughneck, was killed instantly when a mud hose, under tremendous pressure, ruptured as he bent down to inspect it near an oil rig on Continental No. 2-14-7 University.

Henry and Landenberger No. 1 Parham burst into flames as drillpipe was pulled preparatory to a drillstem test around 3,900 feet. The $63,000 rig was destroyed and Merle Biggs, Abilene, contractor, was injured in the cleanup operations. About the only good thing was that this mishap occurred at a zone which appeared to be entirely (See THE WEEK, Page 3-A, Col. 1)

UN To Vote On Peace Talks In Middle East War

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The General Assembly plunged into debate Saturday on the Middle East. It will vote Monday on three resolutions to reactivate the Egyptian-Israeli peace talks conducted through Gunnar Jarring, U.N. special representative.

The issue was whether Israel should pledge first to withdraw from all occupied Egyptian territory, as Egypt demands, or whether the talks should be resumed without such prior conditions, as Israel insists.

One of the resolutions, submitted Thursday night and sponsored by 19 countries of Africa, Asia and Europe, called on Israel to make such a pledge.

The other two, put before the assembly Saturday, one sponsored by Barbados and the other by Costa Rica and Uruguay, require no pledge from Israel.

Involved in all three are a memorandum that Jarring submitted to the parties last February and a set of proposals that some African heads of state put to them last month, both calling for resumption of the talks.

Jarring asked them for simultaneous commitments—on the part of Egypt to enter into a peace agreement with Israel, and on the part of Israel to withdraw from occupied Egyptian territory to the old Egyptian boundary. Egypt agreed. Israel refused.

The African heads of state asked for joint acceptance, among other things, of the idea "that the terms of withdrawal from occupied territories be embodied in the peace agreement." Only Israel agreed to that.

The 19-nation resolution, drafted by an African committee that included Egypt, asks Secretary-General U Thant to reactivate Jarring's mission. It "notes with appreciation the positive reply given by Egypt" to Jarring's memorandum, and "calls upon Israel to respond favorably" to it.

The Barbadian resolution also calls on Thant to reactivate the Jarring mission. But rather than focus on the Jarring memorandum, it expresses support for the proposals of the African heads of state.

The Costa Rican-Uruguayan resolution requests Jarring "to redouble his efforts to bring about a renewal of negotiations. It requests Israel and Egypt to study the proposals of the African heads of state and to 'do their utmost to make possible the agreements necessary' for a Middle East settlement.

Explosion Kills Seventeen Men Trapped In Underwater Tunnel

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — An explosion in a water tunnel under construction 250 feet underground near Port Huron killed 17 workers Saturday, authorities said. At least 22 workers escaped, eight with injuries. All the men remaining in the tunnel were presumed dead, said Norman Ludy, St. Clair County undersheriff, who was coordinating the rescue operation.

Ludy said search operations were halted about four hours after the 3:20 p.m. explosion to pump toxic gases from the shaft.

At least 14 men escaped from the shaft on their own and eight others were taken with injuries to area hospitals, Ludy said.

Four persons were reported in serious condition and three in fair condition. One was transferred to a Mount Clemens hospital with a head injury.

The men had been working about one mile down the tunnel, near the Lake Huron shoreline about 250 feet below surface when the explosion ripped through the shaft near its entrance.

Ted Grull, a volunteer fireman who was one of the first rescue workers at the scene, said the explosion at 3:20 p.m. ruptured an air exhaust pipe approximately three feet in diameter.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately known. Grull said rescue workers wearing air packs entered the tunnel and began cutting through tubing which was twisted out of shape by the blast.

Deputies said the force of the explosion knocked a 15-ton piece of equipment back 40 feet. Divers were at the scene and every available ambulance was called, deputies said.

One man, who was working some 250 feet down near the end of the tunnel, said the explosion "sounded like a tornado."

"It picked me up and threw me about 10 feet through the air" said Larry Vernon, a 24-year-old worker from Tennessee. He said he grabbed onto something, and then sent up the elevator to the surface.

Vernon said his father and brother were working at the other end of the tunnel and had been trapped by the explosion.

As darkness closed in on the disaster scene, generator-powered floodlights lit the area as crowds of people, including wives of the trapped workers, gathered to wait for the men to be brought out.

The major blockage in the tunnel was made of remnants of the ventilation shaft. The shaft ran along the tunnel and was forced back toward the entrance by the explosion, officials said.

The tunnel, about six weeks from completion, is part of a water system which is scheduled to provide high quality Lake Huron water for metropolitan Detroit.

By 1980, the system was slated to pump water to Ann Arbor and Lansing, and was planned to accommodate the water demands of an estimated 8.9 million people by the year 2000.

The workers were finishing laying cement in the huge tunnel, which extends out into the lake five miles until it connects with an intake shaft which extends above the surface. Another mile of the tunnel stretches back onto land.

The water system was planned by the Detroit Metropolitan Water Services Board of Commissioners, which includes representatives from Detroit and Oakland and Macomb counties. The intake tunnel was contracted to Greenfield and Associates for $13 million.

After unsatisfactory performance, however, the job was contracted to Dunbar & Sullivan Dredging Co. of Detroit and Peter Kiewit Sons of Omaha.

Smith, Barnes Due For CR

Gov. Preston Smith and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes will attend the Steer Band's annual production of Campus Revue, "Love is the Answer."

The governor will be here for the Jan. 28 performance and the lieutenant governor will be here Jan. 27. "I am really looking forward to the occasion," said Barnes. "It is always inspiring to see our youth show their patriotism, and what better way than through music?"

"I am always happy to see the young people of Texas united in good efforts," said Gov. Smith.

This year's production will be presented Jan. 27-29 at the Big Spring High School auditorium. Tickets will go on sale Jan. 3, 1972 and will be available from any band member or by calling 267-7463 extension 70.

RESIGNS POST — David Packard, multimillionaire electronics executive, resigned Saturday after nearly three years as deputy secretary of defense. He worked to reform costly Pentagon buying practices.

Scientist Buries Self In Work For Time Test

Another World War

Could Break Out

And He Wouldn't Know It

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP) — Some time in the next week—it may be on Dec. 19, his first wedding anniversary—a French scientist named Michel Siffre will kiss his pretty 20-year-old wife, Nathalie, and set off down the hill for work. When he sees her again it will be June and they won't have exchanged a word in those six months.

In an experiment as arduous as flying to the moon if less spectacular, Siffre will live for 200 days outside the earth time cycle which surrounds him.

Deep in a limestone cave under the rolling, rock-strewn hills of Southwest Texas, he'll seek to prove to the world that man can change his life rhythm from its current 24-hour cycle to a 48-hour cycle in which he can work 36 hours and sleep for 12.

So as to cut himself off completely from all time sense, Siffre will have no watch, no clock, no radio, no television, no newspapers. Another world war could break out and he wouldn't know it.

His teammates in the base camp atop the hill he's living in won't even give him the time of day. They won't discuss the weather up there, for that might give some hint of season, daylight or darkness. He'll exist in a time vacuum.

But, up above in the tent laboratory manned on an old-fashioned earth cycle of 24 hours, Big Brother will watch throughout the experiment.

Electronic recording devices will note when the modern-day caveman wakes and sleeps, eats and dreams as the eight electrodes attached to his body trip signals to activate data machines watched by his fellow scientists aloft.

Siffre himself describes the purpose of it all as increasing knowledge on human biological rhythms, "especially the desynchronization phenomena observed in long-duration cave confinement and during jet flights over several time zones."

What he finds might prove invaluable for all who, in a sense, must live outside time in their working lives—astronauts, pilots and super-jet pilots, and the crews of nuclear submarines.

Siffre hopes to find some mathematical connection between the various time stages so they can be controlled.

"If I can find the mechanism of the 48-hour rhythm, he said in an interview, "there is a chance we may be able to produce some medicines that will act selectively on the sleep centers so as to produce it."

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) is interested in Siffre's work. The French Defense Ministry and the French Institute of Speleology are helping out with funds. Texas Instruments Inc.

and other firms have contributed equipment.

A visit to the base camp in remote ranch country in Edwards County, about 50 miles northeast of Del Rio, found the place humming with activity.

After miles of rough dirt road and dusty tracks, the last part of the journey involves scrambling on foot up a steep and boulder-strewn hillside where rattlesnakes abound.

The three base tents are erected on wooden platforms atop the hill. Equipment and supplies are painfully hauled from below on a cable powered by the back axle of the supply truck.

There was already a hint of Christmas in the air. Nathalie had brought her husband a little plastic tree from San Antonio.

Siffre will celebrate Christmas with a special festive dinner when he "feels" the date is right. It may or may not be on Dec. 25. He may also miss his 33rd birthday on Jan. 3 by a day or two.

A slightly-built Frenchman, his hair cropped close and shaved in small circles where electrodes are attached, Michel Siffre says American scientists would never work under the discomforts his party endures. He's possibly right.

Every piece of equipment, including an old refrigerator, has been carried up by the flimsy cable or on men's backs.

Americans would have used a helicopter.

Piles of equipment he jumbled near the unloading platform at the top of the cable haul. Cases of canned food are part of the half-ton or so Siffre will eat in the next six months. Plastic jerrycans contain 2,000 liters of water. There won't be any wine because, he says, that "upsets the sleep mechanism."

The water works out at just under three gallons a day. He hopes that will be enough.

"It's warm and dry down there in the cave—a constant temperature of 20 degrees centigrade (68 fahrenheit)—so I may drink more than in France."

One big blue tent serves as the electronics lab. It is packed with the intricate dials and tapes of recording equipment. A cable with 26 recording wires and a cranky field telephone link the scientists on the hill with their leader.

A second tent provides living quarters for Mrs. Siffre, the only woman, and the rest of the team. She is a pretty blonde whose large and lustrous brown eyes smile out at you from beneath the bim of an Australian bush hat. She cooks for the men and makes shopping forays as far away as San Antonio in search of French wine. Jacques Chabert, 30, from Barbizon near Paris, has himself spent four and a half months in a French cave. So has Philippe Engender, 31, who, like the rest of the party, is from Nice.

Gerard Cappa, 28, and Raymond Valente, 23, complete the team.

So how did this all-French expedition come to land in Texas? Siffre says it's because the best cave for his experiment is here.

It wasn't easily located. About 40 caves were checked with the aid of American spelunkers, all the way from the Minneapolis area down to Houston.

Midnight Cave, which he finally picked, is hard to find.

The cave is surprisingly large—about 70 feet long by 50 feet wide and 15 feet high—and a fairy world of stalagmites and stalactites. The dirt floor is level, chalky and dry.

Passages lead out of the chamber to other parts of the system, to which earlier explorers gave romantic names—the Castle of Oz, the Onyx Palace, the Pancake Room, and the Corkscrew.

Siffre is convinced there are no snakes—and no bats.

Bats are important because they could ruin his experiment. The time-oriented things will insist on flying out of their home cave each evening at dusk, providing the kind of time reference that Siffre is forbidden.

U.S. Aid Fund Promotes Fraud And Corruption?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional report alleges that the fund used by the United States to channel millions of dollars toward helping stabilize Laotian money values "promotes rather than discourages fraud, corruption and dishonesty."

In releasing the report Saturday night, the House Government Operations Committee called on the U.S. Agency for International Development to recommend to Congress—with in 90 days—new programs for assuring to Laotian people essential commodities while avoiding project problems of the past.

Too often, the report says, "the United States has been operating in the dark in Laos and has made serious mistakes as a consequence. Neither a commodity-import program, nor a foreign-exchange stabilization program, nor a cash-grant program has proved satisfactory ... In the meantime, U.S. taxpayers have been subjected to an unfair burden."

The report says "there are absolutely no controls over use of foreign exchange obtained" from the Foreign Exchange Operations Fund set up eight years ago for Laotian monetary stability donations from the United States—the major contributor—and the United Kingdom, France, Japan and Australia.

"Through FEOF, dollar exchange is available to anyone—Communist and non-Communist alike—for any purpose including capital flight and procurement of nonessential luxury goods from any source—including Communist countries."

AID MISUSED
The report says "for almost two decades, U.S. financial assistance has been misused in Laos. The American taxpayers have grown tired and disgusted in seeing their money spent in Laos on nonessentials, luxuries, hoarding and corruption."

From January 1955 to June 1971, the report says, "the U.S. government had invested in excess of $750 million of the U.S. taxpayers' money in economic assistance programs for Laos. Additionally, large amounts of U.S. military assistance have been granted to Laos ..."

Without large gifts of foreign exchange, the report says, the kip—the Laotian monetary unit—would quickly become worthless.

Pulitzer Prize Play On Screen

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — "Moon Marigolds," an adaptation from Paul Zindel's Pulitzer prize-winning play, will be filmed next spring for 20th Century Fox.

Paul Newman will produce and also direct his wife, Joanne Woodward, in the starring role of a 40-year-old divorcee struggling to raise two teen-age daughters in a troubled world. Alvin Sargent has written the screenplay.

new in the area which produces from the Spraberry at more than twice that depth.

Winter, aiming for a knockout blow, feinted in our direction during the week. Temperatures didn't get low enough to kill all the cotton foliage, but the fog and mist kept farmers out of fields. Our harvest is so far behind schedule that we have only four per cent as much cotton ginned as we had this time a year ago.

City councilmen agreed last week with City Manager Harry Nagel that the way to institute budgetary savings they feel necessary to bring the fiscal ship back on even keel was a 5.7 per cent slash for all departments. Some may not be able to function, seeing as how this envisions no pay cuts. But if they can't, then there is a contingency fund to help.

The commission and the Industrial Foundation finally came to an agreement on how to preserve the Webb AFB spur, at least as far as the foundation's industrial park. The city will execute the lease and carry liability insurance; it will turn the lease to the foundation, which will assume maintenance costs.

Initial steps toward launching a major hospital expansion program were taken last week with resolutions to transfer assets and liabilities of Medical Center Memorial Hospital to the Howard County Hospital Authority, which will borrow funds for additional land needed for an expanded medical complex, plus retiring present indebtedness. As soon as plans are ready for bids, the authority will issue more revenue bonds (the authority has no taxing power) to go with a Hill-Burton grant and one from the Moody Foundation.

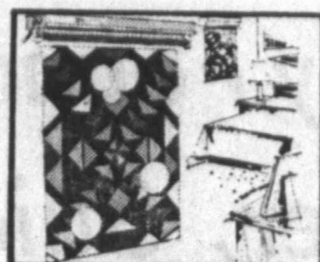

Another harbinger of a political season just around the corner was the West Texas Democratic rally in Odessa last week. C. V. Riordan, former Howard County chairman, was picked as Democrat of the Year.

Police have sounded fair warning — let up on that accelerator. They don't want a duplication of the last holiday season when there were 70 mishaps with the loss of one life, plus $37,000 in property damage.

Becky James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. James, was tapped as a member of the all-state band on the basis of her clarinet solo tape she sent to judges for audition. There may be others, but Becky is the first choice.

Tom Barber, who has been on the Howard County Junior College board for nearly a score of years, resigned last week because he will be spending a lot of time out of the county. He has been on the board during the time that most of its expansion occurred. The college, incidentally, is considering two new programs — para-medical training, plus a language lab. It also will have a 25th anniversary next Feb. 13 in conjunction with the dedication and open house of the Horace Garret Applied Science building.

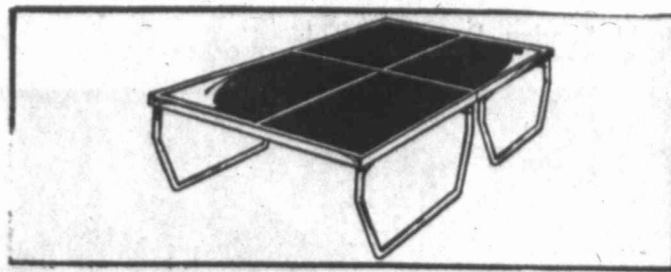

We get a lot of mail which might be summed up as "you blockhead!" but Bobbie McDaniel renewed the Ronnell McDaniel paper with a note saying: "Thank you so much for protecting our papers from the wet when it is rainy... I put a stalk of celery in the bag the paper came out of, and it keeps the refrigerator from smelling like celery." So there! Heloise take note!

Storing Pesticides Can Be Hazardous To Health

Left over pesticides, pesticide containers and application equipment present hazards unless handled properly, according to County Agent Bruce Griffith.

Final clean-up of pesticides, containers, and equipment should be done as soon as possible after the final use of the chemicals.

Sufficient quantities of pesticides may remain in "empty" containers to cause illness or death to those uninformed or unaware of the dangers. Pesticide disposal in sanitary landfill areas is currently recommended for small volume users.

When storing unopened containers, proper storage precautions should be observed, including storage away from food, feed, fertilizer and under lock and key with proper labels on every container. Extremes of temperature, high humidity and exposure to moisture are to be avoided, advises Griffith. Since most solvents used in pesticide formulations are flammable, consideration should also be given to fire hazards.

Partially filled containers may be stored, but airtight sealing is difficult and storage may not be advisable if the product isn't stable. Griffith suggests a check with the manufacturer or his representative for determining their stability.

All containers which are to be held over should be checked closely for leaks. A small hole in a paper container can become the source of contamination for feed and water.

Equipment should be cleaned thoroughly, but some consideration should be given to the fact that surfaces are coated with pesticides and some material may remain in the tank or sprayer.

Residues from the clean-up should not be permitted to drain onto surfaces from which they may be washed into water supplies which are frequented by livestock or pets. The user of pesticides assumes the full responsibility for their safe use, handling, storage and disposal, reminds Griffith.

Former Coal Miner Still Heads Polish Communists

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — at the party's sixth congress. Former coal miner Edward Gierk was re-elected leader of a new Central Committee, the Polish Communist party, which in turn elected the national Politburo along with a newly chosen Politburo which undoubtedly will consolidate his power base.

Gierk's retention of the leadership, a formality, was given the official stamp of approval

Jedrychowski and Cyrankiewicz were members in the Politburo headed by Wladyslaw Gomulka, who was ousted from power last December during bloody food price riots.

The congress sent Gomulka into political oblivion by stripping him of his last status—membership in the Central Committee. At the time of his ouster he already was a "suspended" member.

Gierk summoned the congress a year earlier than planned because of the economic riots which shook the nation a year ago.

The way he has strengthened his power base is best illustrated by the fact that the new Central Committee has 115 members—73 of them new men. The old one had 91 members. There also more actual workers in the committee than ever before.

Gierk now appears set to carry out his economic reform program, aimed at giving his countrymen a more cheerful life. He wants to raise wages, build more houses, expand the consumer market and put more food in the shops.

The dropping of Cyrankiewicz from the Politburo is attributed to the fact that he was the man who read out an order last Christmas telling troops and militia to shoot at demonstrators.

When Gierk came to power, he dismissed Cyrankiewicz as premier—a position he held for more than 20 years—and kicked him upstairs to the largely ceremonial position of president. He is expected to lose this position in the next few months.

Physician, Family Found Dead; Apparent Murder, Suicide

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A physician, his wife and two children were found shot to death Saturday in their fashionable apartment on the city's north side, victims of an apparent triple murder and suicide, police said.

Police said it appeared the physician killed his family, then shot himself. Each of the victims was shot in the head and one of the children apparently was cut down while trying to flee, officers said.

Neighbors reported hearing nothing at the time of the shootings apparently occurred about 11 p.m. Friday night.

Police said a relative and the apartment manager discovered the bodies late Saturday morning.

The victims were identified as Dr. Karl Aijian, 47; his wife, 37; his son, Karl Jr., 12; and his daughter, Cheryl, 11.

The boy was found in a closet in his bedroom, police said.

Homicide Detective Eddie Guerra said the daughter was found on a couch in the living room and the man and his wife were found in bed in the master bedroom. He said it appeared the woman was shot first, possibly while she was asleep.

The family had been living at the apartment complex for quite some time and only recently gave notice that they would be moving to a new home within the next three weeks, police said.

A brief, unsigned note was found but it listed only the man's possessions and gave no reason for the slayings, Guerra reported.

The slaying weapon was a .38-caliber revolver, Guerra said.

He said there were no signs of a struggle, however.

Nixon Doing Homework For Pompidou

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — Working alone at his secluded mountaintop retreat, President Nixon did his homework Saturday for the next move in his globe-girdling diplomatic chess game—private talks in the Azores Monday and Tuesday with French President Georges Pompidou.

The Pompidou talks are part of Nixon's series of consultations with allied leaders prior to trips next year to Peking and Moscow. But officials say the sessions also could enhance chances of settling tough international monetary questions.

When Nixon arrived Friday night at the foggy Camp David compound, he was not accompanied by members of his family or principal aides. But he brought a briefcase bulging with background material on issues to be covered in his three meetings with Pompidou.

Aides said he closeted himself Saturday morning in his study to review the material.

Nixon leaves Andrews Air Force Base at 1 p.m. Sunday for the five-hour flight to the Portuguese islands in the Atlantic 750 miles off the European coast.

He meets Sunday night with Portuguese Prime Minister Marcello Caetano, then holds his first meeting with Pompidou Monday morning. Other sessions with the French president are planned Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning, before his return to Washington Tuesday afternoon.

The French have pressed vigorously for a direct dollar devaluation, a step the United States has been resisting.

It's an issue that can be solved only on a multilateral basis, but officials say if Nixon and Pompidou reach a meeting of the minds, prospects of settlement soon would brighten considerably. The finance ministers of the 10 major non-Communist industrial nations meet in Washington Friday and Saturday in another effort to resolve the monetary crisis.

Nixon and Pompidou are expected to dwell at length on the stance Nixon should take in his talks with Chinese leaders Feb. 21-28 and in Moscow in later May.

France has had diplomatic relations with Peking for a number of years, and Soviet party boss Leonid Brezhnev visited France last month.

The Azores talks likely will touch also on movement for a European security conference and for mutual troop reductions. Other bilateral issues, including the flow of illicit drugs through France, could come up, officials said.

Man Treated For Injuries

Rodger Wilkerson, 27, Snyder, was treated and released from Cowper Clinic & Hospital following a truck-car collision at 2:05 p.m. Friday at U.S. 87 South and Driver Road (Country Club Road).

Irene Pitcock, 36, of 3210 Auburn, driver of the car, was not injured as a result of the accident.

Texas Highway Patrolman Kenneth Maxwell investigated the accident.

Vandals ripped up Christmas lighting decorations early Saturday in the Alabama Street area. Mrs. Ray Dabney, 2202 Alabama, reported at 12:45 a.m. Saturday that boys were tearing up decorations at homes in her area.

Same Court Panel Slated For Redistricting Suits

DALLAS (AP) — One three-judge federal court panel is scheduled to hear all four suits challenging redistricting of Texas' House and Senate following a weekend conference in Dallas.

The decision was announced by U.S. District Court Judge Joe Estes of Dallas who was named by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to coordinate the cases.

Nevertheless, the four cases will be heard one at a time instead of in a single hearing. This led courthouse observers to estimate that a decision cannot be reached in time for the 1972 first primary May 6.

Austin is expected to be the site of the action.

Lawyers in the case and two of the federal judges involved conferred with Estes in a closed session to arrive at the decision.

The decision was not unanimous among the lawyers. Particularly upset, said courthouse sources, were lawyers fighting multi-member legislative districts such as those in Dallas County.

One of the judges reportedly refused to be removed from the case and thereby may be named to the panel. He is U.S. District Court Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler.

Consenting to the semi-consolidation were Judges Adrian A. Spears of San Antonio, Carl O. Bue Jr. of Houston and Robert M. Hill of Dallas. Cases had been filed before each of the jurists.

A federal panel is required to have two district judges and one circuit court judge.

Courthouse sources said a motion to "attack the jurisdiction of the panel" is expected to be filed by lawyers who disented from the order.

TWO GERMANY'S SIGN AGREEMENTS

West Berliners Can Visit East Berliners Now

BERLIN (AP) — The two Germanys signed agreements Saturday permitting West Berliners to go through the wall and visit East Berlin and providing easier access for West Germans to Communist-ruled East Berlin.

Officials said the agreement came too late to let West Berliners visit the East for Christmas but they cleared the way for approval of the Sept. 3 accord by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union on the status of Berlin.

In addition, the West German government announced in Bonn that because of the Berlin agreement it will start ratification proceedings Monday on its treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland. These pacts, aimed at normalizing relations with the two Communist nations, are a cornerstone of Chancellor Willy Brandt's policy of reconciliation with the East, for which he received the 1971 Nobel Peace Prize on Friday. He had delayed ratification procedures until the Berlin agreements were completed.

For the first time, civilian overland and water traffic flowing to and from isolated West Berlin through East Germany will be largely unhindered, with quick processing and no general discrimination against those traveling. Freight goods will move in sealed vehicles.

UNHINDERED

West Germany will pay in lump sum—$72.2 million each year until 1975—the visa fees that before took so much time to collect on an individual basis.

The Western hope is that Communist delays and even outright blocking of super-highways and other roads will be a thing of the past. A misuse clause, however, permitting the East Germans to reject suspicious persons and goods, promptly drew sharp fire from opposition parties. These critics claim that everything depends on Communist good will.

SKEPTICISM

In the West Berlin city parliament—and among the city's two million people—there was even more skepticism.

West Berlin Chancery Chief Ulrich Mueller and East German State Secretary Guenter Kohrt initialed their agreement in City Hall and then exchanged signing pens.

The wall pass accord limits West Berliners to 30 total visiting days in East Berlin and East Germany a year. They may not take their cars to East Berlin. Eastern relatives must make application for a Westerner to come over. Procedures on the wall crossing will be complicated.

Most offensive to many an official and private citizen was the exclusion of all East German refugees coming to West Berlin since the Communist wall was built in 1961 from any visits at all.

It appeared that the West Berlin side, after eight days of sometimes night-long sessions with the East Germans, accepted the exclusion clause only because it got in writing as part of the agreement a promise for future concessions if conditions and practice warrant.

CLAUSE OFFENDS

Said one man outside City Hall: "Any agreement that accepts calling refugees escapes a crime can not be good for us."

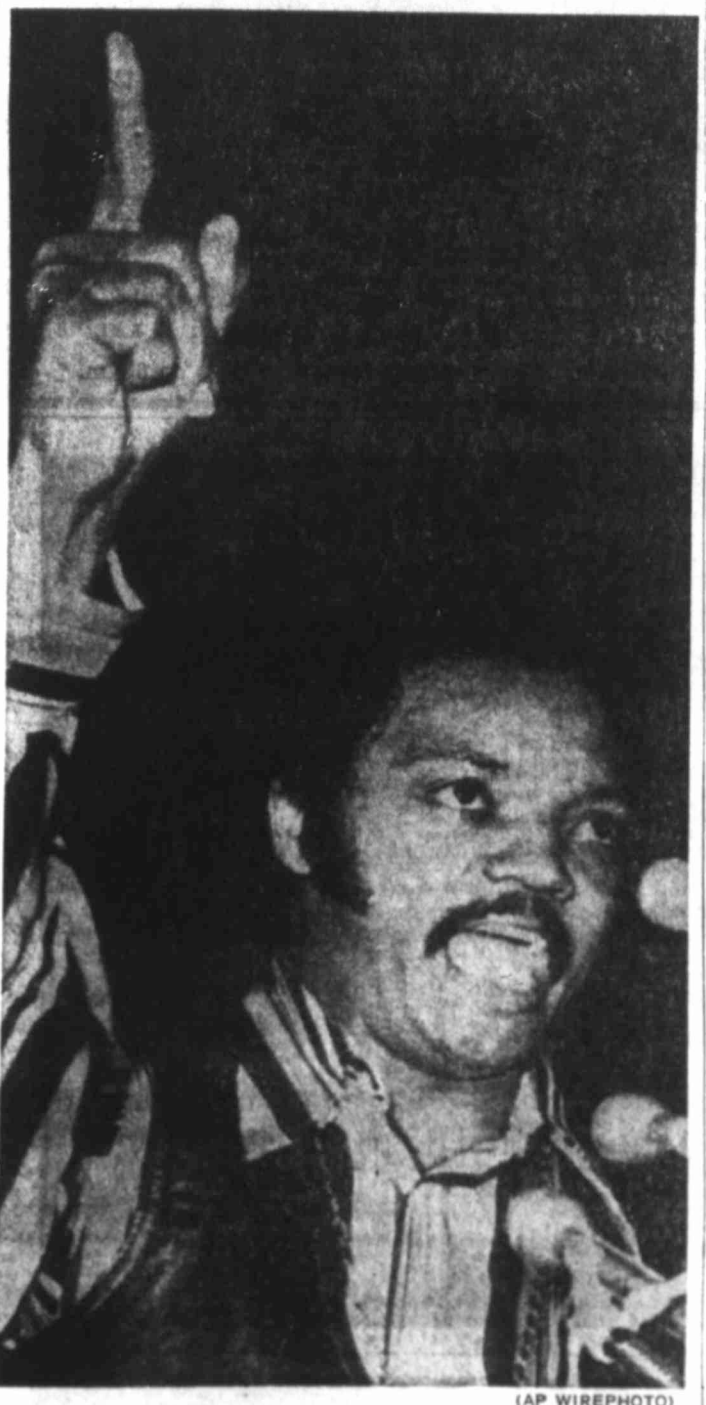

Added a woman: "We are skeptical. You should hear my neighbors. They already are complaining like mad."

Across the wall in East Berlin there was a different perspective.

Said a woman with small children: "It could have been more. But it is a beginning. That is important."

The one million East Berliners, along with 16 million other East Germans, still are locked behind the wall despite the agreements and cannot go West.

6-A Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sunday, Dec. 12, 1971

RESIGNS AS BREADBASKET HEAD — The Rev. Jesse Jackson gestures as he announces Saturday at a meeting of Operation Breadbasket that he has resigned as head of that economic arm of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. The young minister who was originally appointed by the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., was suspended Dec. 3 for 60 days with pay by the SCLC executive board.

NOT CHRISTMAS

Nevertheless, disclosures by West German State Secretary Guenter Kohrt in Bonn that East Germany "with certainty" will issue no Christmas passes left a sour taste in the mouths of many of the city's already skeptical people, now about to see the city's sixth consecutive divided Yuletide.

Bahr said the Communists claimed they no longer had enough time to make necessary arrangements but West Berlin sources disputed this. They pointed out that the first Christmas pass period in 1963 was put into effect in two days.

The twin acts of ceremony closing the negotiations between East and West Germany—in West Berlin and East Berlin—lasted less than five minutes each. But they signaled a change of relations between East and West in Germany that in the future could become a general accommodation.

IF Reports Donations Near $1,000

Six new members have been reported by the Big Spring Industrial Foundation.

The foundation's drive to raise money for industrial development in Big Spring has already brought almost $1,000 in donations and $800 in loan guarantees, with reports in from only five of 25 people working on the fund drive.

The new members are KBYG, Big Spring Gravel Inc., F. L. Austin, Pat Boatler, S&S Wheel Alignment and the Big Spring Wholesale Beer Distributors Association.

Anyone not contacted can donate by calling the Chamber of Commerce, telephone 263-7641.

The foundation to date has brought in three major industries with an annual payroll in excess of $1,500,000. The success of the foundation has created 350 new jobs, with the prospect of more. Everyone in Big Spring gains from the new industry, because of a broader tax base, more customers and more jobs, according to Tom Locke, of the foundation.

"If the work of the Industrial Foundation is to continue, the citizens of Big Spring will have to participate," said Locke. "We have been so successful that we have used all of our funds, and it will be some time before we get more unless new people come into the foundation and help Big Spring grow."

Hebrew 'Chanukah' Begins At Sundown

Hebrews throughout the world will begin the celebration of "Hannukah" at sundown today.

Called the Festival of Lights, the eight day holiday is marked by the exchange of gifts and various celebrations. A Menorah, an eight-branch candelabrum, is the focus of the festival, also called Chanukah. Each day one candle is lighted until all eight are burning.

To Christians and Jews the Hannukah Festival means commemoration of an ancient struggle for religious freedom without whose victory the synagogue would have perished and the church could not have been born and could not have brought the knowledge of God

tioned with the USAF at Cannon Air Force Base in Clovis, N.M. Four grandchildren complete the family. Mr. and Mrs. James are members of Baptist Temple.

LEONARD F. KINDER — Leonard F. Kinder observed his 25th anniversary with Cosden July 26. His tenure began on the yard, took him to the boilers, then in 1960 as a helper at the Alkar unit just ahead of that unit's startup on Thanksgiving Day. In December, 1968, he advanced to No. 1 Operator at the Alkar.

It was during his three-year Army service in the European theater that he met and married Joan D. Hibbs of England. They reside in Coahoma at 502 N. First Street, and he is one of the staunch supporters of the Coahoma Bulldogs.

WILLIAM M. SKILES — William M. Skiles is maintenance foreman on Cosden's pipeline, a position he has held since November, 1958. He began his career here Sept. 6, 1946, as a pipefitter for the pipeline, becoming mechanic No. 1 in October, 1955.

He and his wife, the former Mrs. Alyene Roberts, make their home at 3206 Duke. He is a member of the Elks Lodge and is a veteran, having served five years in the Army.

The family includes a daughter, Mrs. Glynda Allen, Big Spring, and a son, Dannie, who is a senior at the University of Texas at Austin. They also have six grandchildren.

JAMES J. SMITH — One of grade-

the veterans at the BTX loading center is James J. Smith, whose employment with Cosden dates from July 25, 1946. The New York City native worked on the refinery yard only a year before transferring into loading. He has been rated a Rackman No. 1 since 1953. For five years he served as a union steward for Local 826, IUOE.

His record includes six and a half years with the USAF. He is a member of the Church of Christ.

Smith and his wife, Imogene, make their home at 1314 Mesa Avenue. Two daughters, Mrs. Robert Holmes and Mrs. Charles Douglass, live in Big Spring; the Smiths have one grandson.

H. C. TIDWELL — For almost 18 years H. C. Tidwell has been classified as an electrician A at Big Spring Refinery. He joined that department in 1949, having been an oiler in the tank car department and a yardman. His Cosden history dates from July 8, 1946.

He was a veteran of five years in the U.S. Army, Texas 36th Infantry Division, serving in Africa, Italy, France, Germany and England. He is a member of the Church of Christ.

Tidwell and his wife, Bernice, live at 2107 Grace. They have a daughter, Mrs. Angie Maderer, and a son, Gary. Fishing is prime relaxation for Tidwell.

RAY F. WHITE — Maintenance foreman Ray F. White is virtually a native of Howard County. He launched his Cosden years July 25, 1946, as a yardman. Prior to becoming general maintenance foreman in January, 1969, he had been a pipefitter No. 1 and foreman of field crafts. White joined the company immediately following his discharge from two years in the U.S. Navy.

He is a member of St. Paul Presbyterian Church. He and his wife, the former Mrs. Bonnie Arrick, live at 602 Linda Lane. Their son, Kristofer, is six months old. There are also two teenagers. Joanie Arrick is a BSHS senior, and Buddy Arrick attends Runnels seventh

LOVE AND THE LATE SHOW — Virgil Lee Ramsey, 76, left, and Eileen DeRenia, 60, are getting married today because the rest home where they live won't let unmarried couples watch the late show on television together. A convalescent home spokesman said if patients of the opposite sex want to watch TV alone after the hospital set is turned off early, they have to be married. So, Ramsey and Mrs. DeRenia, with help from the local marriage bureau, will be wed today because "they like to watch television together."

Commander Says Use Of Hard Drugs Rising

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army's commander in Europe reports disturbing signs that use of hard drugs is rising among soldiers under his command.

Gen. Michael S. Davison speculated in an interview that European pushers may be targeting on U.S. servicemen there because, he said, the traffic in opiates to the United States has been interrupted with increasing success.

He said he has met with top West German officials to seek "increased cooperation and coordination of enforcement policies against the traffickers."

STILL LOW

Davison declared that the use of hard drugs by U.S. soldiers in Europe still is at a low level.

In a recent urinalysis check, he said, only 1.4 per cent of soldiers tested showed up as users of opiates, barbiturates or amphetamines and only .6 per cent were found to be users of opiates such as morphine and heroin.

But Davison said "I see some indicators that look as if the trend is up and it shouldn't be." He called this "a very dangerous sign."

RACE PROBLEM

When Davison assumed command about five months ago, the race problem in Army ranks in Europe was acute and the 7th Army, mainstay of NATO defenses, was still recovering from years of being starved of resources because of demands of the Vietnam war.

The 54-year-old Davison, sent to Germany from an important post in Vietnam, is credited by

Attorney Wants Client Hospitalized

HEMPSTEAD, Tex. (AP) — The attorney for Herman P. Beiersdorf, charged with the slaying of twin brothers, said Saturday he is attempting to get his client out of the Waller County jail and into a hospital.

Ira Tobolowsky of Dallas declared he intends to take legal steps he intends to take saying he was "exploring several possible avenues" to get Beiersdorf, 22, into a hospital "as soon as possible."

Beiersdorf, a one-time Houston disc jockey, is charged with murder in the Dec. 1 shooting deaths of Larry and Leslie Owens, 19, of Enid, Okla., former Rice University students.

Houston police quoted Beiersdorf as saying he drove the twins to Waller County to urge them to rejoin him in a project they dropped out of involving plastic physics, studies aimed at harnessing solar energy.

Police quoted him as saying he shot the twins after they refused to do so. Houston and Waller County lawmen found the bodies in a Waller County vacant lot where they said Beiersdorf told them they would be.

Beiersdorf was being held in jail here in lieu of $50,000 bond, $25,000 on each of the two murder counts.

Although Tobolowsky was quoted earlier as saying that the family could not raise the bond, he hedged on that issue Saturday.

"I'd much prefer to try to get him committed to a hospital," Tobolowsky said.

Waller County Dist. Atty. Oliver S. Kitzman said the state has filed a motion in district court to have a private psychiatrist examine Beiersdorf. State district court judge Paul Hauser of Schulenburg said he may rule Monday on the motion for the examination.

UT-El Paso Vice President Charges He Was Attacked

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The educator who is the center of controversy at UT-El Paso reported to police he was attacked early Saturday by two men as he stepped from his car in front of his home.

Dr. Gary Brooks—the school's vice president for student affairs—has been under fire from Chicano students who have demanded he either resign or be fired.

Brooks claims he was attacked by two Chicanos about 2:30 a.m.

A judo and karate expert, Brooks said he is certain he broke an arm of one of his assailants. The other man, Brooks said, then drew a gun and Brooks kicked him in the face.

Police had no comment on the case, other than confirming they took the report of the incident.

Chicanos at the school issued a statement Saturday about the alleged incident.

Part of the statement said, "Student and community action groups supporting the demands for resignation of Dr. Brooks deny any such violent action."

The groups said such a demonstration of force is against their policies of non-violence. The groups termed Brooks' charges "improbable," and they said they felt the report is an attempt to discredit their stand.

On a program aired Saturday night on KFSM-TV in El Paso, Mrs. Cecilia Hernandez—a spokesman for the students—charged the UT system board of regents with treating UT-El Paso as part of its "colonial possessions."

The Chicano demonstrations began last week when 34 persons were arrested by El Paso police in front of the administration building. The demonstrations have continued sporadically since that time.

Airline Will Sell Securities

HOUSTON — Texas International Airlines, Inc. announced that it has completed definitive agreements with Jet Capital Corporation of New York for the sale of new equity securities as part of a previously announced refinancing program for the airline.

The Jet Capital group will invest $1.5 million in Texas International and will receive units consisting of convertible preferred shares and common stock purchase warrants. The proposed investment is subject to the approval of the Civil Aeronautics Board and the airline's share holders, plus agreements with creditors.

An integral part of the program will entail the deferral of more than $200 million of the airline's senior debt, lease, and trade payable obligations, many of which are now in default, and the recasting of debt maturities into an orderly pattern related to the airline's expected cash flow. In addition, the plan involves the conversion of approximately $13.2 million in annual interest and principal repayments, a substantial portion of which is already past due.

Following implementation of this refinancing and new equity plan, Texas International, on a pro forma basis, expects to have a net worth in excess of $10 million compared with its present deficit of approximately $4.5 million. Jet Capital will name a majority of the board.

Burglary Suspect Released From Jail

Further investigation into the April burglary of Christensen's Boot and Western Wear Shop is pending possible action by the Howard County Grand Jury on charges against two men in connection with the burglary.

Charged are James Lee McNutt, 23, Box 205, Goodwell, Okla., and Ricky Dale Martin, 17, Route 1, Cove, Ark.

District Judge R. W. Caton ordered McNutt released from Howard County jail Friday after a 118th District Court hearing in which McNutt's petition for a writ of habeas corpus was granted. McNutt had been in custody in lieu of $5,000 bond set by Peace Justice Jess Slaughter.

Peace Justice Slaughter lowered bond Friday on Martin from $5,000 to $2,500, and Martin was released from county jail on the same day city police transferred him from city jail.

Detective Avery Faulkner has been conducting the investigation since the April burglary. He traveled to Mena, Ark. Tuesday to return Martin to Big Spring. Martin had been held by Mena authorities.

Merchandise valued at $3,000 was taken from the boot and western wear shop. Detective Faulkner has recovered 35 pairs of men's trousers, 12 western shirts and five pairs of boots taken in the burglary. The April burglary was the second of three burglaries of the store within a year.

Prince Charlie's Hair In Demand

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles had a haircut and brawny seamen of the Royal Navy leaped into action to pick up the pieces.

Navy barber Bill Clark, who attacked the hair of the heir to the British throne with scissors and comb, said Friday: "As soon as I had finished there was a rush of sailors scrambling to pick up the bits of hair."

"In two minutes the lot had gone. But I managed to stow away a lock as a souvenir for my family."

The eldest son of Queen Elizabeth II was barbered—for the first time by the navy—aboard the destroyer Norfolk during his first voyage as an acting sub-lieutenant.

Rehnquist

only Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., and Thurgood Marshall remain. The real balance of power in the court, at least until the next vacancy, will rest with two centrist swing voters, Potter Stewart and Byron R. White.

But with four sure votes for the conservative side of most issues to come before the court, the conservative wing holds the best cards.

What has been lacking among this growing faction is the kind of leadership that Warren gave the liberal wing. It also lacks the kind of intellectual direction the liberals got from Douglas and the late Hugo L. Black.

Rehnquist's views are unmistakable, single-minded and firm. He also has the intellectual and persuasive powers to put them across in those closed conferences at which nine men decide questions that mold a nation.

While Burger, Blackmun and Powell disagree generally with the liberal drift of the Warren court, Rehnquist has been one of the leading crusaders against it.

Rehnquist has declared he is opposed to the restraints put on law enforcement officers by the Warren court to protect the rights of defendants and suspects in criminal cases.

"I'm skeptical of either legislative limits on what can be investigated or judicial controls on investigations," he has said.

In this connection, he has stoutly defended the government's right to tap telephones without prior court approval, if necessary, in its fight against political extremists.

The government's argument that it can use electronic surveillance without warrant in these internal national security cases is one of the biggest questions the court is holding off a decision on until it has its full complement.

MERRY CHRISTMAS — Merry Elizabeth and Jimmy Ray Hinojos receive Christmas shoes, candy and fruit from Bob Askew, chairman of the Civitan Club of Big Spring's shoe program. The annual program was started in 1966.

Civitan's Treat 200 To Movie, New Pair Of Shoes

The Civitans culminated a year of fund-raising Saturday with their biggest project of the year. Almost 200 children were treated to a movie and given a Christmas present that included a new pair of shoes, toys, fruit and candy. The annual project is the result of work by the Civitans and the Civinettes. Helping with the project are Ike Robb, who furnished the movie theater and movies, the J & K Shoe store, Hemphill-Wells, the Safeway on Gregg and the TG&Y store at Highland Center.

The project started in 1966 and began showing movies two years ago. The funds are raised for the project by the Civitans and, this year, by an anonymous donor. The president of the 25-member club is Eddie Trice, and the chairman of the shoe program was Bob Askew.

"The project takes a lot of work," said Askew, "but we can't think of a better way to spend our time and the money our projects make."

"You cannot disappoint the children," says Mrs. Santa.

Smog Firm Loses Suit

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP) — A Texas firm that makes an automotive antismog device must pay a $40,000 fine, stop all sales and promotions in California and reimburse purchasers, a judgment by Contra Costa Superior Court Judge William R. Channel said.

The judge ordered R.E.I. Industries of Dallas to pay $5,000 in lawyers' fees to be shared by the state and Contra Costa County, which are also sharing in the $40,000 fine.

Dist. Atty. William O'Malley said both sides agreed to the penalty and the order restraining sales and advertising and the judgment was made official Friday.

It stemmed from an October lawsuit in which the district attorney's office accused R.E.I. of falsely claiming their anti-smog device—called a Paser Magnum—could substantially reduce engine emissions. O'Malley said tests conducted by the University of California showed the device caused no reductions in pollution.

The judgment said R.E.I. does not admit the suit's claims, but has agreed to reimburse anyone who purchased the device in California.

Webb Physicians Cited For Work In Medicine

Webb's two specialists in internal medicine, Lt. Col. Sidney H. Curtis and Maj. Michael K. Stephens, have recently received high honors from the medical profession. Lt. Col. Curtis is the commander of the U.S.A.F. Hospital at Webb, and Maj. Stephens is assigned as Chief, Hospital Services, and serves as Col. Curtis' Deputy. Both are actively engaged in internal medicine. Lt. Col. Curtis received word of his election to Fellowship in the American College of Preventive Medicine. The College is a professional association of physicians engaged full time in the practice of preventive and community medicine. Its goal is to support research, education and interest in the field of preventive medicine in order to promote health through the prevention of illness rather than the treatment of those already ill. Fellows are elected by the membership of the College from among recognized leaders in the field of preventive medicine. Col. Curtis was selected because of his participation in the fields of Aerospace Medicine and Community Medicine during the past 10 years. Col. Curtis adds this award to a long list of previously awarded professional honors including Certification by the American Board of Internal Medicine, Fellowship in the American College of Physicians, Senior Membership in the Society of Air Force Physicians, and Membership in the Society of Air Force Flight Surgeons. Maj. Stephens was informed of his certification by the American Board of Internal Medicine as a consultant in the field of Internal Medicine who has met the highest standards of the profession. This certification is awarded after only three years residency training in the field, a two year practice period in the specialty and successful completion of comprehensive written and oral exams given by noted professionals in the Internal Medicine field. Less than half of the fully-trained specialists in the internal medicine field ever achieve board certification. Maj. Stephens has not attained the highest degree of professionalism in the Air Force Medical Service.

Three Webb Officers Given Distinguished Flying Crosses

Three Webb officers were presented Distinguished Flying Crosses in ceremonies held recently in the Wing Headquarters building. Lt. Col. Curtis received the Distinguished Flying Cross (DFC) for service as an F-105 pilot over Southeast Asia in Jan. 1971. The letter accompanying the award said, "On that date, the major led two F-105 aircraft on a surface-to-air missile and radar directed anti-aircraft artillery suppression mission in support of a large strike force. When engaged by the opposing forces, Major Stroud skillfully maneuvered his aircraft to the optimum launching parameters of his retaliatory missiles and silenced the hostile firing battery, proving the follow on strike force with a permissive operating environment." Capt. Claude G. Newland received the DFC and the first oak leaf cluster to the DFC for his actions during the Vietnam War. He received the DFC for action in September, 1970, when he was acting as a forward air controller in Southeast Asia. The letter said that he, "made repeated marking passes with extreme accuracy despite heavy ground-to-air fire. As a result of his actions, the contact was broken and many friendly lives were saved." The oak leaf cluster was presented for actions occurring in December, 1970. The accompanying letter said, "On that date, a friendly ground commander was in danger of being overrun by a numerically superior hostile force. While encountering heavy anti-aircraft fire, Capt. Newland directed three successive airstrikes against the hostile force." Capt. Kenneth R. Matthews received the DFC for "extraordinary achievement while participating in aerial flight as a forward air controller in Southeast Asia in May, 1970." The letter states that Capt. Matthews, while flying a reconnaissance mission in enemy territory located hostile anti-aircraft positions guarding infiltration routes. "Despite hazardous weather conditions, intense and accurate ground fire, and battle damage to his aircraft, he directed the employment of tactical aircraft, thus destroying three anti-aircraft artillery sites and exposing a portion of the infiltration route to interdiction by air."

There is now more hope for Rabies victims

Rabies is still a dreaded disease and the prospects for a full recovery by a person bitten by a rabid animal are usually very poor. Treatment, a long, painful series of injections, is in itself a danger for the side effects of these shots can be very serious.

Just recently there has been reported the complete cure of a person infected with rabies. This milestone case is still being documented but it is a ray of hope for the future. Perhaps some day in the near future rabies will no longer be such a feared disease.

Irish Christmas Shoppers Killed In Belfast Bombing

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Terrorists set off a bomb in a Belfast furniture store crowded with Christmas shoppers Saturday, killing four persons and wounding 19.

The dead included two children, one of them in a baby carriage, the other 2 years old.

The scene of the explosion was the Protestant Shankill Road district.

"How long can the authorities expect us to put up with this?" asked an angry resident. "If the army and police cannot check the terrorists, we will have to do something."

Residents blamed the explosion, caused by an estimated 50 pounds of gelignite tossed through a window, on the illegal Irish Republican Army.

The IRA is battling to separate the predominantly Protestant province from Britain and unite it with the overwhelmingly Roman Catholic Irish republic.

After the blast, passers-by joined police and troops in the search through the rubble.

The dead were identified as: Colin Nichol, aged 7 months; Tracy Munn, aged 2 years; Harold King, 20; and Hugh Bruce, 50; all of Belfast.

Helen Munn, who had been pushing her child's baby carriage along the sidewalk outside the showroom, was in serious condition in a hospital. Also hospitalized was Andrew Bell, 78, Belfast. The 17 other persons injured were treated and released.

Angry groups of residents began to form after the blast, and fresh troops were brought to the scene to head off trouble. The soldiers rescued one unidentified man from an angry crowd after word spread that the man was an IRA member.

The Rev. Ian Paisley, the militant Protestant leader and a member of both the Belfast and London parliaments, arrived at the scene and urged the crowds to disperse.

The blast brought to 162 the number of persons killed so far this year in Northern Ireland's continuing violence. The toll since the present series of disturbances began 28 months ago is 195.

Saturday's blast came a week after a bomb killed 15 persons in a bar in a Roman Catholic district of the city. Authorities speculated that the explosion at the Protestant-owned showroom could have been the IRA's revenge.

Dr. Barnard's Wife Gives Birth To Son

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Mrs. Christiana N. Barnard, wife of the heart surgeon, has given birth to a boy.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Barnard and the boy both were well after the caesarian birth Friday.

It was the first child for the couple who were married in February, 1970, when Mrs. Barnard was 19 and Dr. Barnard was 47. The surgeon has a son and a daughter by a previous marriage which ended in divorce.

Woman Struck By Automobile

Janice Mellinger, 51, of 901 W. 3rd, was reported in good condition Saturday at Cowper Clinic & Hospital where she was taken Saturday for observation after being struck by a car at the intersection of Third and Main.

Driver of the car involved was William Dayton Hays, Rt. 2, Box 584, Coahoma. The accident reportedly occurred when the woman attempted to cross the street.

City patrolmen investigating the accident reported that they had to direct heavy traffic at the scene.

Surface-To-Air Missile Attacks Are Intensified

SAIGON (AP) — An intensification of surface to air missile attacks against U.S. warplanes and the shooting down of the first jet in eight months in the north could trigger a new round of large retaliatory blows against North Vietnam.

Informants have reported that North Vietnam has increased the number of SAM and antiaircraft artillery sites along the Laos border in efforts to disrupt the bombing of its vital Ho Chi Minh supply route southward.

A dozen of the Soviet-made SAMS have been fired at U.S. planes bombing the Ho Chi Minh trail and reconnaissance jets flying over North Vietnam in the past week.

BOMB HALT

Informants noted that although the full-scale bombing of North Vietnam was halted more than three years ago, President Nixon has since then ordered large raids over North Vietnam numbering as many as 200 to 250 warplanes.

The last big raids were a 200-plane strike last Sept. 21. The raids were primarily against fuel depots inside North Vietnam, although the U.S. Command first tried to give the impression they were directed mainly against antiaircraft defenses. There have been four raids of 200 or more planes each since May 1970.

In the latest and most serious engagement, one of the 37-foot long Soviet-made SAMS knocked an F105 bomber escort jet out of the skies over Laos two miles from North Vietnam Friday.

RESCUE TRY

A nearly 24-hour rescue effort involving 40 planes from the 7th Air Force brought the pilot Maj. Robert E. Bell of Philadelphia to safety early Saturday morning. The second crewman aboard the plane, the electronic countermeasures operator, is missing.

At least four SAMS were fired at the rescue planes and fighter-bombers swept across the border into North Vietnam—85 miles inside the country and attacked the enemy sites at least a half a dozen times.

In other air action, two more U.S. helicopters were hit by enemy ground fire while supporting a 25,000-man drive in the U Minh Forest deep in the Mekong Delta.

One was shot down and recovered and the second managed to fly back to its base in Can Tho, Associated Press correspondent J. T. Wolkerstorfer reported from the Delta. He said there were no casualties.

In other developments, the Saigon Command claimed South Vietnamese forces have killed 694 North Vietnamese troops in a three-week drive through eastern Cambodia. The command said 343 of the enemy were killed by U.S. and South Vietnamese air strikes. It reported 35 prisoners and 118 weapons captured. South Vietnamese losses were put at 73 troops killed and 396 wounded.

SANTA, PLEASE MAIL EARLY!

"Mail early," is the Christmas reminder coming from the Big Spring branch of the U.S. Post Office.

Postmaster Frank Hardesty reports that in the first 10 days of the annual Christmas mailing rush, the local post office has processed 868,478 pieces of mail including all parcel packages, cards and letters. During the same period last Christmas season, the post office had processed 852,424 pieces of mail.

To insure that packages and cards arrive at their destination on time, Postmaster Hardesty and his staff are asking that Big Spring residents mail early, address all pieces clearly using the correct postage and use zip codes.

PLAN TO CURB AIR POLLUTION TOPIC OF MEETING

'Damned If You Do, Damned If You Don't' Position

By The Associated Press
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — "Quite frankly, we have found ourselves in a 'damned if you do, damned if you don't' position," said Charles Barden, pipe-smoking silver-hatched, pipe-smoking Barden, who heads the state's program to combat air pollution. He was talking about forcing Texans to clean up their automobile emissions.

But his remarks accurately summarized the three days of testimony that ended Saturday concerning the Texas Air Control Board's statewide plan to curb air pollution.

PLAN REQUIRED
The plan is required by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and must be in EPA's hands by Jan. 31. The nine-member board itself will consider the plan—and the criticisms voiced in the hearings, at meetings scheduled for Jan. 4 and Jan. 26.

Chamber of Commerce spokesmen condemned the plan as harsh and needlessly draconian. They firmly predicted it would drive industry—and jobs—out of Texas.

"Pollution is ugly but unemployment and deprivation are uglier," was one of the more memorable quotations to come out of the hearings.

It was uttered by J. Fike Godfrey of Abilene, executive vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Anti-pollution organizations and individuals declared, however, that the plan does not go far enough in some respects.

Mrs. L. H. Butler of El Paso, president of an organization appropriately named GASP, which stands for Group Against Smog and Pollution, declared the plan was of "little or no help" in combating photo-chemical oxidants.

"Photo-chemical oxidants" is a mouthful, but it means a lung full. The term refers to Los Angeles-type smog, produced when sunlight and oxygen react chemically with air contaminants, particularly automobile exhaust emissions.

CAR EMISSION
To the ordinary citizen the plan's most dramatic feature is a major attempt to reduce pollution by cars.

Barden told the large audiences at the hearings that motor vehicle inspections should include a check to assure that engines are properly tuned.

"It will not be an additional auto inspection by the air pollution control agency, but will be combined with the state's existing annual automobile inspection conducted by the Department of Public Safety," Barden said.

He said the inspections would reduce automobile hydrocarbon emissions by at least 20 per cent.

"Our staff came up with this proposed strategy to reduce vehicle hydrocarbon emission in those areas with a high level of photochemical oxidants. This part of a car's original equipment to be kept in good condition."

Worth, San Antonio, El Paso and perhaps other Texas cities," Barden said.

It takes an act of the legislature to add items to the required annual auto inspections. The statewide plan requires anti-pollution devices that were part of a car's original equipment to be kept in good condition.

It also says each gasoline distributor must provide at least one grade of gasoline by July 1, 1974 that contains not more than 75-1,000 of a gram of lead per gallon.

By July 1, 1974, service stations and autos would have to be equipped with "interlocks" that would make it impossible to put leaded gasoline into a vehicle requiring only low-lead gasoline. Interlocks also would be required to keep leaded gasoline out of cars with anti-pollution devices that would be fouled by such fuel.

At Saturday's hearing, the auto pollution plan was criticized as inadequate.

Curtis Brown, a Texas Tech University student, said Texas should follow the lead of California and other states and require all cars—no matter how old—to have exhaust controllers' Environmental Quality Committee, said 80 per cent of her area's pollution was attributable to cars. CAP Observes 30th Year

The CAP flew 24 million miles and spotted 173 submarines during World War II.

Today the Civilian Air Patrol is celebrating their 30th anniversary. The Big Spring Composite Squadron, Texas Wing, Civil Air Patrol, met for church services today as an observance of the CAP anniversary.

The local group is quite a bit younger. They were not organized until October, 1969. The present membership is 10 cadets and five senior members.

The purpose of the group locally is to provide education in aerospace and related activities.

"The cadets study a regular course, and we have had rides in link trainers and helicopters," said Mitch Hoover, information officer. "Right now we are getting ready to start a model rocketry project."

The group meets Monday nights at 7:30 p.m. at the Webb AFB Aero Club Building, and anyone interested in joining the CAP is welcome to attend the meetings.

Officers of the club include Lt. Col. L. C. Taylor, squadron leader; Maj. Walter Trim, administration and aerospace education officer; Maj. James Stehley, leadership and physical training officer; and W. O. Ronald Dickenson, activities officer. The group commander is Lt. Col. Joe Johnson, Odessa.

Robbery Suspect Released On Bond

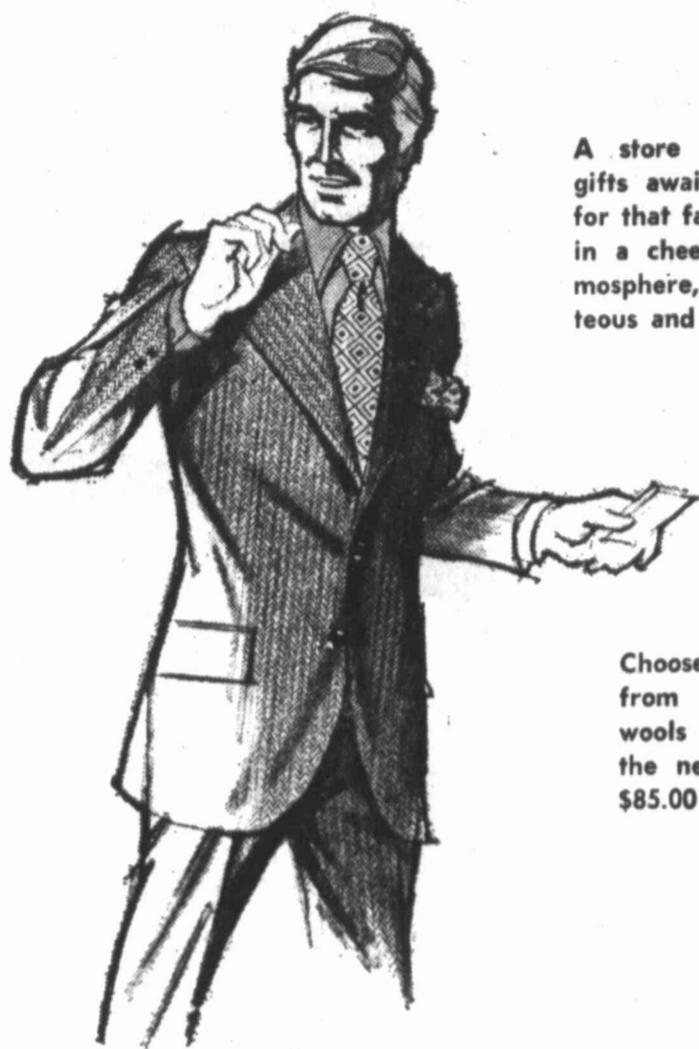

William (Billy) Daves Cooper Jr., 26, of 405 S. Carver, Midland, charged with armed robbery in connection with the Wednesday morning robbery of a Webb AFB airman was released from Howard County jail Friday on $3,500 bond.

Also charged is Walter Morris Gibbs, 18, Midland, who remains in custody in lieu of $3,500 bond. Bond on the two was originally set at $25,000 each by Midland Peace Justice John Biggs after the pair was arrested in Midland on Howard County warrants. Peace Justice Walter Grice reduced the bond.

The two allegedly robbed Henry J. Rapp, Webb AFB, at knifepoint of a small amount of money and some personal items. The robbery occurred at 3:30 a.m. Wednesday six miles west of Big Spring.

Use Kitty Gravel For Icy Surfaces

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — When it comes to getting the family car moving in ice and snow, cat owners may have the inside track. The Maine Automobile Association recommended Friday that motorists try kitty gravel — the granular substance that lines the cat's litter box. "Carry a bag of this light weight and practically indestructible stuff in your trunk," suggested Fred W. Foster Jr., manager. "It's better than sand and salt for getting your car moving on ice and snow, and not so messy if tracked into the house."

Last Chance For Residents To Get Discount On Taxes

This is the last month in which Big Spring and Howard County residents can receive a 1 per cent discount on all taxes paid before Dec. 31.

After Dec. 31, the full amount is due, and penalties will be assessed on late taxes paid in February.

Discounts on Big Spring Independent School District taxes ended in October, and taxing agencies in Forsan and Coahoma do not offer discounts.

Collection of Howard County taxes are 78 per cent completed with $1,202,483.42 collected to date of a $1,534,982.71 total tax roll.

With a total collection to date of $788,605.42 of the city's 1971 total tax roll of $994,704.34, city collections are approximately 80 per cent completed.

Tax office for the BSISD reports that its collections are 65 per cent completed with $1,655,756.35 of the total roll of $2,507,586.92 collected.

City tax collections in Coahoma are approximately 70 per cent completed with $11,294.11 of the total tax figure of $17,810.17 collected.

Coahoma Independent School District reports that more than 50 per cent of its tax collections are in. To date, $248,514.60 of the tax roll of $509,944.34 has been collected.

Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 with a total roll of $33,006.32 reports that collections are more than half completed with $19,949.48 paid to date in taxes.

Forsan city tax collections are 26 per cent completed with $2,700 of the total figure $10,400 collected.

Taped Services Available At VA

Mail order church services are among the most popular services offered by the chaplain at the Big Spring Veteran's Administration Hospital.

Chaplain A. C. Hicks contacts the patient's pastor and arrangements are made to have the Sunday School and church services taped and mailed to the VA Hospital.

The service is supported by the Library of Congress, which supplies cassettes and recorders free of charge.

"We are able to help keep the patient tied to his local church and community while he is in the hospital," said Chaplain Hicks. "The patient is usually mentioned in Sunday School Class and prayers are said for him in church. He is also kept informed of community and church affairs."

One of the local recipients of the mail order church tapes is Archie L. Cockerell, formerly with the Baylor County Baner in Seymour.

"He receives services taped by the Rev. Jerry Hodges, pastor of the North East Baptist Church of Seymour," said Chaplain Hicks. "The tapes are very helpful in alleviating the fears and anxieties of patients while they are in the hospital, because it reminds them that there are people at home who care for them in time of crises."

The hospital Voluntary Service and the Nursing Service set the tape players up for the patients, playing the tapes as much as three and four times a week for patients.

"I think it is a wonderful service," said Cockerell. "I really appreciate hearing from my Sunday School and from the pastor."

Princess Named Top Sportswoman

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne, European horse trials champion, has picked up her second major award in a week by collecting the Daily Express Sportswoman of the Year prize.

The 21-year-old daughter of Queen Elizabeth II received the British Sportswriters' Association's version of the title Monday. The Express announcement came Friday.

The princess could soon make it three out of three. The British Broadcasting Corp. — BBC — is currently polling television viewers for its sports personality award and Anne is rated a hot favorite.

Trapped Boys

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

CAUTIOUS MALE: (Comment) This is for the benefit of that girl who thinks boys are out for all they can get.

I've dated many girls who are out for one thing — to get the boy in trouble so he has to marry her.

I hope more boys will realize this danger. A moment's pleasure is small consolation for a lifetime of being stuck with someone he doesn't love and will probably end up divorcing anyway.

(A.) I like girls who believe in women's liberation. To them marriage isn't the only alternative to failure. They have confidence in themselves as human beings who can stand on their own two feet, and so they behave like ladies, and I enjoy their company, and will probably end up marrying one say day. — Been Around in Kansas.

(A.) It is good for guys to know how some girls feel. It is also good for girls to know how some guys feel.

PREGNANCY: (Comment) You told the girl who got pregnant on her first car date to tell her parents immediately and to see her doctor immediately. May I add three further bits of advice to any unmarried girl who finds she is pregnant:

1) Go with your parents to a family counselor, so that he can help all of you to make a rational decision. In a case such as this an outsider is usually needed to put planning for the future first and fighting about the past second. 2) Go also to the nearest Planned Parenthood center. They may be able to help you no matter what course you decide to take. 3) If the answer is abortion, make arrangements right away. The longer you wait the more the physical and emotional pain and the more the danger. — One Who Has Been There in New Jersey. (A.) Although I much prefer adoption to abortion, I recognize that abortion is often the choice. Thank you for your strong and sensible suggestions.

Sonora Sneaks By White Deer

STAMFORD, (AP) — Powerful Sonora, ineffective most of the first half, put together scoring drives of 61 and 38 yards in the final period Saturday to clip White Deer 20-19 in a Class A semifinal high school football game that allows the Broncos to defend their state title next week against Barbers Hill.

Dominated by the tough Buck defense during the first half, the Broncos returned after intermission with a mix of throwing and the running of Steve Street and Milton Noel that gave Sonora its 14th straight win.

Street, who led the game's rushers with 105 yards on 20 carries, set up the final TD drive with a 20-yard punt return to the White Deer's 38. Ten plays later, Knolles scored from the two, giving Sonora its victory margin with 46 seconds left.

Sonora quarterback Mark Rousselot scored twice for the Broncos, on runs of one and three yards, and kicker Henry Mata added two of three extra points.

White Deer took a 6-0 halftime lead, only the third time Sonora has trailed at the half in 14 games, on a 91-yard, three-play drive climaxed by Kim Snagle's four-yard run. Hoskins' passes of 41 and 31 yards to Pat Hudgins were the big plays.

Hoskins kicked field goals of 25 and 50 yards in the second half. Jerry Urbanczyk's 63-yard touchdown run and Hoskin's kick gave White Deer a 19-7 lead with 11:39 left, but Sonora's final two drives wiped out the lead.

Scoreboard for Sonora vs White Deer: Sonora 20, White Deer 19. Details include yardage and touchdowns for both teams.

Vet Howe Is Still Busy

DETROIT (AP) — Gordie Howe says he's only gained "seven or eight points" since he retired Sept. 9 after 25 years in the National Hockey League.

But in many respects Howe, considered by most experts the greatest hockey player of all time, is busier than he ever was as a star forward for a quarter of a century with the Detroit Red Wings.

And despite all those years of glory on the ice at Olympia Stadium in Detroit, and throughout Canada and the United States, Howe says he doesn't miss it all.

He is convinced he accomplished about all there was for him to accomplish in the game, and that his decision to give it up was the right one.

Archer Fires 71 To Retain Lead

FREEPORT, G.B.I. (AP) — Big George Archer scrambled in with a par 71 and clung to a one-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $130,000 Bahamas Islands Open Golf Tournament.

The 6-foot-6 former Masters champion had a 54-hole total of 204, nine under par on the warm and sunny Lucayan Country Club course.

But his lead-two strokes starting the day's play in this last tournament of year on the pro tour — was cut in half as veteran Bob Goaly and young Greer Jones moved into position in a tightening field.

ROUGH GOING — Baltimore Colt fullback No. 36 Norm Bulaich struggles for a short gain on the ground during the first quarter of the Colt Dolphin game at Baltimore, Saturday. Making the tackle on Bulaich is Miami Dolphin cornerback No. 45 Curtis Johnson.

Unitas Stuns Dolphins As Colts Claim Lead

BALTIMORE (AP) — Johnny Unitas, Baltimore's 38-year-old master of exposing defensive weaknesses, confounded Miami with two lengthy, time-consuming touchdown drives in the first half that propelled the Colts to a 14-3 victory over the Dolphins Saturday and into first place in the East Division of the American Football Conference.

The victory in the head-on clash catapulted the defending Super Bowl champion Colts past the Dolphins by one-half game with just one game remaining for each team.

The Colts, now 10-3, close out the regular season next Sunday at home against New England, while Miami, 9-3-1, takes on Green Bay.

Unitas, whose career was threatened prior to the season by an achilles injury, put the game away for the Colts with two drives as perfect as could be plotted in the first half, relying mostly on runs up the middle and short passes over the middle.

Completing 12 of 13 attempts for 103 yards in the two marches, Unitas took the Colts 81 yards in 18 plays after the opening kickoff, using up nine minutes 53 seconds. Then he came back with an 87-yard drive in 16 plays that ate up 9:36.

Tom Matte scored the touchdown on the end of both drives, with runs of seven yards and one yard—and that was it as second-half scoring was confined to a 17-yard field goal by Miami's Garo Yepremian.

In the first half not only did Unitas marshal the offensive forces for the two drives consuming almost 20 of the 30 minutes, but the Colts were just as devastating on defense, totally handcuffing the Dolphins' array of weapons.

Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick totaled just 15 yards on the ground and Paul Warfield caught just one pass for six yards. And not one Miami first down was chalked up until 3:15 was left in the opening half.

The loss was the second in a row for Miami and left them in precarious position in the chase for the Eastern title. However, both the winner and runner up from the same division can qualify for post-season action.

Unitas completed seven of eight passes during the first period drive for 48 yards as he pecked away relentlessly.

In the second quarter, Unitas cranked the Baltimore offense up again, this time starting from his own 13 and this time hitting on all five of his passing attempts for 55 yards.

From the one, Unitas called for Matte again and he smashed the final yards for a 14-0 lead.

Apparently, nothing will be settled until the spring business meeting which has been set for April 27-29 in Fayetteville, Ark., in conjunction with the golf and tennis championships.

Grubbs also announced that the SWC track meet will be held May 22-23 in Fayetteville, Ark. Usually, the meet is held in late April, much to the dismay of track enthusiasts who feel the early start deprives SWC track stars a chance to be at their best competitive edge in the NCAA championships.

LOOKS TO NCAA SWC Doesn't Act On Recruiting

DALLAS (AP) — The Southwest Conference delayed any action on football recruiting Saturday until after the NCAA January meeting in Florida but served up a juicy plum track coaches have been lobbying for with a late May date for the annual track meet.

"We discussed but did not act upon the recruiting situation," said executive secretary Howard Grubbs. "We postponed any action until after the January NCAA convention in Hollywood, Fla. What we do depends on what they do."

SWC coaches have been riled in particular by the fact such schools get an earlier jump on recruiting Texas schoolboy footballers than does not allow contact until after a player's senior year of eligibility if completed where a NCAA rules allow contact after a boy's junior year in high school.

PROPOSALS Among proposals to be discussed at the Jan. 6-8 NCAA meeting in Florida include the limiting of scholarships, financial aid based on need, a one-year limit on scholarships and the national letter of intent.

"We are well into the recruiting season now and it's too late to act this year," Grubbs said. "We will be in a better position to know after the NCAA meeting."

Grubbs said, "Our coaches felt that, ideally, our rules were better...but to stay with it we've got to be joined by others."

There were loud complaints from coaches about the way Oklahoma, for example, waded into the Texas schoolboy crop before SWC clubs get started.

Apparently, nothing will be settled until the spring business meeting which has been set for April 27-29 in Fayetteville, Ark., in conjunction with the golf and tennis championships.

Grubbs also announced that the SWC track meet will be held May 22-23 in Fayetteville, Ark. Usually, the meet is held in late April, much to the dismay of track enthusiasts who feel the early start deprives SWC track stars a chance to be at their best competitive edge in the NCAA championships.

Huskers Prove They Can Play Another Game

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska ran to a 10-1 lead in the opening minutes and never trailed as the Cornhuskers drove to an 84-76 basketball victory Saturday night over Southern Methodist University.

The Husker fast break proved too much for the visiting Mustangs as Nebraska led by as much as 16 points during the game.

SMU brought it close in the final minutes as they hit nine straight points to tie the Huskers one to pull within 79-71 with 2:25 remaining.

However Nebraska matched SMU scoring in the final minutes to clinch the win.

Nebraska put forth a balanced scoring attack with Al Nissen leading the Huskers with 18, Mike Peterson collected 17 and Chuck Jura pouring in 16.

Mustang pivot man Ruben Triplett led all scorers as he dumped in 25 in a losing effort.

Sands Winner Of Tourney

GARDEN CITY — Sands and Garden City fielded the championship teams in the annual Garden City Basketball Tournament here Saturday night.

The Sands boys defeated Clint in the finals, 86-65. Bobby Beal led the way with 38 points while Rosalie Perez tossed in 25 for Clint.

Forsan won third place in the division, turning back Garden City, 70-53, while Sterling City captured consolations with a 69-63 success at the expense of Westbrook.

Boys' all-tournament players were Bobby Beal, Sands; Stan Smith, Sands; Arturo Salcido, Clint; Clark Kirkpatrick, Sterling City; and Rudy Holguin, Forsan.

Garden City defeated Forsan in the finals of the girls' division, 58-44.

Winner of third place was Clint, which beat Sands for the honor, 51-42. Girls' consolation winner was Westbrook, which outlasted Sterling City in the finals, 44-37.

All-tournament girls were Lisa Hirt, Garden City; Janette Nichols, Sands; and Brenda Cowley, Forsan, all forwards; and Debra Halfmann, Garden City; Debra Fryar, Forsan; and Laura Jones, Clint.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

'Mitchell Was Misquoted'

By TOMMY HART

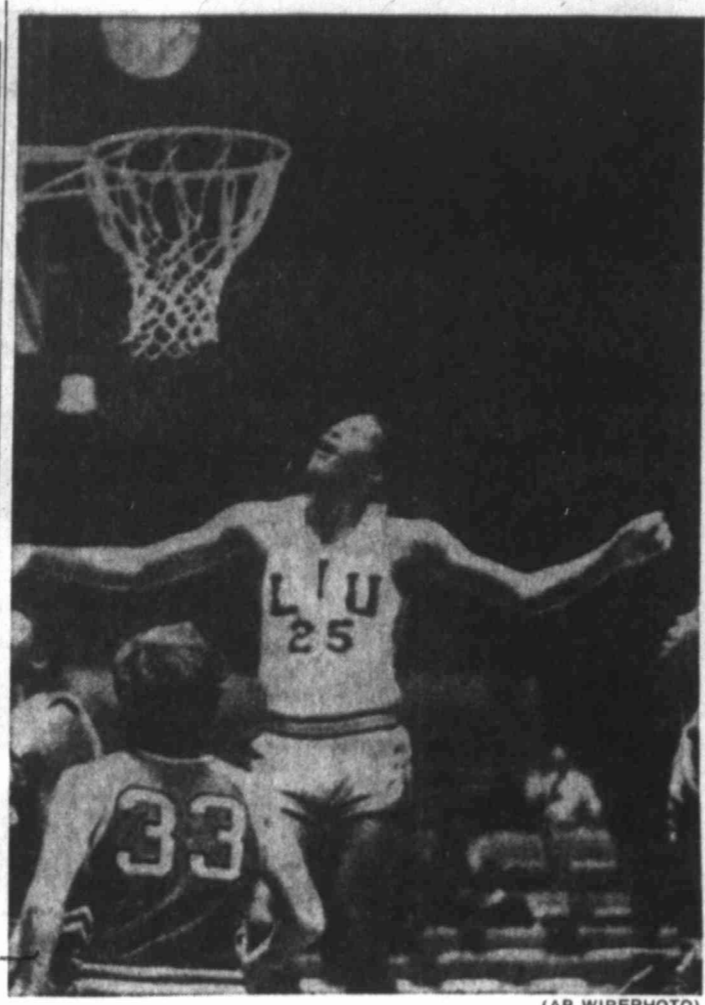

Ed Czekaj, director of athletics at Penn State University who will accompany the Nittany Lions to the Cotton Bowl game, has been there before . . . Czekaj (pronounced Check-eye) kicked the goal which enabled the Lions to tie SMU in the 1948 Cotton Bowl game . . . In a recent conversation with this writer, Czekaj said he thought his other kicking effort, the one that would have given Penn State the win, was true, too.

ED CZEKAJ

Czekaj revealed the school's athletic department was incensed at the reporter who interviewed Lion running back Lydell Mitchell and came away with the story that Mitchell was apprehensive about coming to Dallas because of the racial situation . . . Without saying as much in so many words, the reporter had Mitchell decriing the circumstances that surrounded the assassination of President Kennedy years ago . . . Czekaj said he was convinced that the reporter put words in Mitchell's mouth, that Lydell never said some of the things attributed to him . . . If the racial situation in Dallas is any worse than it is in other metropolitan areas, the Negro talent on the professional football and baseball teams there would be seeking employment elsewhere . . . Big Spring's Jimmy Farris, red-shirted last year, likely will make a strong bid for a linebacker's job at SMU next fall . . . So will Greg Waidi, coming off knee surgery . . . The Mustang linebacking alignment loses only Sherwood Blount off this year's team . . . SMU should have great team speed in 1972 . . . That San Antonio Lee football team which opposed Houston Smiley in the Class AAAA playoffs this weekend is starting eight juniors on offense and as many on defense . . . Perhaps the best of the Lee players is split end Richard Osborne, a 6-5 205-pounder . . . Through the team's first 13 games, Osborne made 73 pass receptions, compared to 49 he gathered in as a junior . . . He gained a total of 1,150 yards after catching the ball in those 13 outs this fall . . . Against Austin Reagan in the playoffs, he caught eight for 118 yards . . . Eleven major tournament winners from 1970, including Doug Sanders, Bob Goalby and George Knudson, likely will lose their exemptions on the pro golf tournament in 1972 . . . They made the mistake of not winning a tournament in '71.

One of the people who helped the Punt, Pass and Kick competition during last week's NFL game between Dallas and the New York Jets was Bobby Griffin, the former BSHS athlete . . . Bobby is working for the Recreational Department in the City of Dallas . . . The way I hear it, the defensive players at Baylor all thought departed coach Bill Beall hung the moon but the offensive players gave him bad marks . . . In short, he couldn't devise an attack that could move the ball . . . The fact that Baylor wants to go with a proven coach might eliminate the former San Angelo mentor, Emory Ballard from consideration . . . The Bears could do worse than bring back John Bridgers . . . Big Spring's Delnor Poss was one of the officials in that recent basketball game between SMU and Vanderbilt in Dallas . . . Jim Moore and Jim Harrison, the two football players drafted from the University of Missouri by the Chicago Bears, didn't come through as expected this year . . . Harrison, of whom terrific things were expected, has languished the entire season on the taxi squad and Moore has carried the ball precious few times . . . Moore was the team's No. 1 choice in the draft . . . Observers thought Harrison had a good shot at the starting fullback's job when training season began . . . Customers of the Texas Rangers' baseball games will pay $4.50 for field boxes, $4 for boxes, $3.50 for reserve seats . . . Those prices rank with the highest in the majors . . . My idea of an optimist: A fisherman who takes along a camera and a frying pan . . . After singer-golfer Don Cherry had announced he would turn golf pro, he was forwarded a telegram from Jimmy Demaret which read: "You've got to be kidding" . . . Cherry toiled on the tour more than a year before he earned a fair check in a Dallas tournament . . . That inspired another wire from Demaret, which read: "Thought you might like to know that somebody in Dallas was playing under your name" . . . The Houston Oilers might just have traded their way to a National League pennant when they acquired pitcher Dave Roberts, first baseman Lee May and second baseman Tommy Helms . . . The Astros would unload Jimmy Wynn, too, if they could get comparable merchandise in return . . . The New Orleans Saints will have 12 draft choices in the first five rounds next month . . . Illinois could be tough in football next fall, returning 21 of 22 starters . . . They're already talking about the 1973 Rose Bowl up in Champagne-Urbana.

Gridder's Agent Is Blonde Divorcee

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joe Namath would certainly approve of John Brodie's new agent, Wendie Regalia.

But don't mention Namath, the New York Jets' celebrated quarterback, too much around Wendie.

"I'm out to fight an area of discrimination," says the blonde divorcee who now represents Brodie and four other San Francisco 49ers.

Her protest has nothing to do with Women's Lib.

She thinks the nation's advertising and television industries are too lazy to look past the locker room of New York and that sports figures outside that city have been overlooked in opportunities to capitalize on their nationwide fame.

Mrs. Regalia joined Saxon Enterprises recently and took on the job of representing veteran quarterback Brodie plus Gene Washington, Ken Willard, Ted Kwilick and Larry Schreiber of the 49ers of the National Football League.

George B. Saxe, one of the partners in the firm here, will continue to handle the players' contract negotiations and financial business.

"I've got wheels spinning in my head all the time," says Mrs. Regalia, who has worked in public relations most of the time since she gave up a singing career some 20 years ago.

Plunkett Eyes Frosh Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterback Jim Plunkett of the New England Patriots, tied for second among National Football League touchdown tossers, will continue his drive for Rookie of the Year honors this Sunday against Joe Namath and the New York Jets.

Plunkett, described by Patriots Coach John Mazur as the "next Joe Namath," threw two touchdown passes in an upset of Miami last week that brought his total to 17 for the season.

Only Miami's Bob Griese, with 19, has more. John Hadl of San Diego also has 17. Plunkett, meanwhile, is only one touchdown pass away from matching Namath's rookie performance. The record is 22, set by Charley Conerly of the New York Giants in 1948.

Plunkett has directed the Patriots to five victories in 12 games but all have been at home. Included in the five victories was one over New York when Namath still was hobbled by his knee operation.

Namath, however, has passed well in practice this week and has been announced as Coach Weeb Ewbank's starter.

The Patriots currently hold third place in American Conference East. The Jets are a game back with a 4-8 record.

Mavericks Slam Edison, 35-30

Goliad beat San Angelo Edison, 35-30, here Thursday night. Jim Ray led the winners with ten points, followed by Kim Wrinkle with eight.

Ray Don Box had seven, Mark Moore six and Ricky Watkins four for the Mavericks.

Chiefs Bid To Sew Up NFL Division Crown

By The Associated Press

The Kansas City Chiefs can clinch their first division title since 1966 when they meet the Oakland Raiders Sunday in one of three games involving contenders for post-season action in the National Football League.

This year marks the sixth in succession that the Chiefs and Raiders will finish first or second in the Western Division of the American Football Conference or the American Football League.

But since the Chiefs won in 1966, the Raiders have been the reigning champions.

The Chiefs, however, did upset the Raiders in the 1969 AFL playoffs and went on to win the Super Bowl by defeating Minnesota 23-7.

NEAR TITLE

Now, with an 8-3-1 record to 7-3-2 for the Raiders, the Chiefs can clinch with a Sunday victory.

At the same time, the Dallas Cowboys will be looking to move another step closer to the Eastern title in the National Conference in a game against the New York Giants and two of the three Western contenders—Atlanta and San Francisco meet in the West Coast city.

Both of those games also will have a direct bearing on the Monday night television clash between the NFC East runner-up Washington Redskins and the NFC West leading Rams at Los Angeles.

The Cowboys currently lead with a 9-3 record to 8-3-1 for the Redskins.

A Dallas victory, coupled with a loss or tie by Washington, will give the Eastern title to the Cowboys. In the Western race, Los Angeles leads at 7-4-1 with San Francisco 7-5 and Atlanta 6-5-1.

LIONS LOSE

In two head-on clashes involving title contenders Saturday, Minnesota slammed the Detroit Lions 29-10 to clinch the NFL Central title. And Johnny Unitas propelled Baltimore past the Miami Dolphins 14-3 and into first place in the East of the AFC. The win put the Colts one-half game ahead of Miami with both teams having one game left to play.

The remainder of the Sunday program does not involve any title contenders, but does spotlight a game between the leading losers—Houston at Buffalo—that likely will leave the loser with the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft.

In other Sunday games, AFC Central champion Cleveland is at New Orleans, Denver at San Diego, New England at the New York Jets, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, Chicago at Green Bay, St. Louis at Philadelphia.

The three division winners in each conference plus the second-place team in each conference with the best win-loss percentage qualify for post-season playoffs Dec. 25-26.

The Raiders and Chiefs have been so close over the last half-dozen years that only two victories separate them during that period. The Raiders have put together a 60-16-6 record season's Super Bowl, is also and the Chiefs 58-20-4. Oakland seeking its sixth successive division title.

The Falcons defeated the Raiders in the 1969 season-opener 20-7 as they intercepted four passes and recovered three fumbles.

The teams already have met and recovered three fumbles. Once this season—and a 20-20 John Brodie, veteran 49ers' quarterback who has been in 22 for the game, the Raiders intercepted a league-leading 12 times, will face the NFC's No. 1 defense against the pass.

At Buffalo, the Oilers will take a 2-9-1 record against the Bills' 1-11. Another loss by Buffalo will guarantee the club the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft.

ON STREAK

The Cowboys move into New York seeking to make the Giants their six consecutive victims—a winning streak that began when Roger Staubach took over at quarterback. Dallas, reach 1,000 yards rushing. He which lost to Baltimore in last currently has 96.9.

LAWTON, Okla. (AP) — Quarterback Ronny Cauliflower passed for one touchdown and ran for another to lead Howard Payne College of Brownwood, Tex., to a 16-13 victory over Cameron State in the first Cowboy Bowl football game here Saturday.

Cauliflower ran 61 yards for a score in the first quarter and passed 21 yards to L. J. Clayton for another TD in the second. Lyle Bilberry kicked a 31-yard field goal in the third quarter.

Cameron State scored on a 51-yard run by Gordon Williams and a 27 yard run by Danny Hardaway.

Howard Payne won the Texas Lone Star Conference championship this season and was ranked third nationally by the NAIA.

Cameron tied for second in the Oklahoma Collegiate Conference.

Buckeyes Upset By Ohio Cats

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University upset fourth-ranked Ohio State 79-68 in college basketball here Saturday.

The Bobcats put on a strong defensive effort and held their own under the backboards against the taller Buckeyes to pull off the surprise victory.

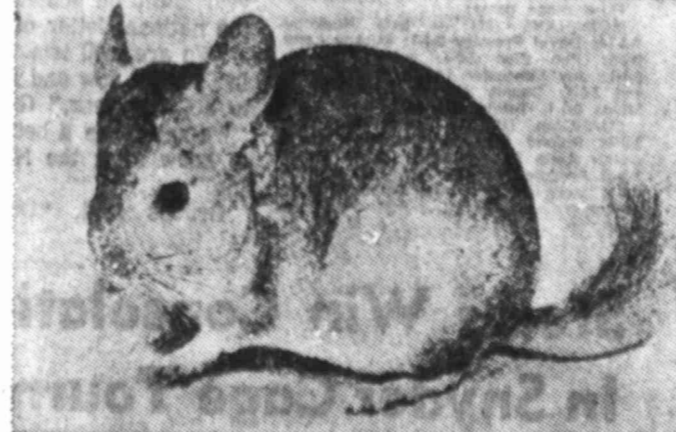

The game was close throughout the first half, which ended with Ohio University holding a slim 31-30 margin.

The Bobcat defense kept a three-man guard on Ohio State's high-scoring center Luke Witte, who still managed to sink 21 points.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Livingston University rallied from a 10-7 halftime deficit to trip Arkansas Tech 14-12 and win the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' national championship Saturday.

The Tigers defense stopped a Tech drive at the 16 late in the final quarter and gave away an intentional safety to preserve the victory.

Tech quarterback Phil Fisher hit fleet Benny Shepherd on a 67-yard bomb in the first quarter.

Joe Nettles set up the winning touchdown when he took the ball away from a Tech receiver and returned it 25 yards to the Tech 16. Clemis Spruiell sprinted 15 yards to the two, and Larry Lightfoot took it in from there for the score.

ADs Organize Within State

AUSTIN — A new organization — The State High School Athletic Directors Association — has been formed to help further the high school athletic programs throughout the state of Texas.

The new organization is made up of athletic directors throughout the state and is under the leadership of President Joe Bill Fox of San Antonio.

Working closely with the Texas High School Coaches' Association as well as the University Interscholastic League, the new organization will be available to assist and supplement the advancement of athletics in high schools.

Active members of the new organization should have responsibilities but have no active coaching duties. Memberships in the SHSADA will be $5 for active members and $2 for associate members.

The advisory board will consist of the President of the Texas High School Coaches' Association, the president of the Superintendents Association, the president of the Principals Association and the Athletic Director of the University Interscholastic League.

Tennessee State Kayoes McNeese In Comeback

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Quarterback Joe Gilliam, at his best under pressure, fired three touchdown passes in the second half to lift Tennessee State to a 26-23 victory over McNeese State Saturday in the Grantland Rice Bowl.

It was Tennessee State's fourth appearance in the NCAA bowl game and the Tigers' third victory. Their other appearance here ended in a tie.

The defeat left second-ranked McNeese with a 9-1-1 record. Tennessee State finished 9-1 for the season.

The Tigers trailed 16-6 at halftime when Gilliam connected on touchdown passes of 8 and 17 yards to split end John Holland in the opening minutes of the third period. He hit Ollie Smith with a 45-yard scoring strike on the first play of the fourth quarter.

Tennessee State's other touchdown came in the second period when cornerback Clifford Brooks recovered a fumble punt snap in the McNeese end zone.

McNeese scored in the second period when Spencer Thomas fell on a fumbled pass completion in the end zone and on a 20-yard pass from Greg Davis to Robert Rowe.

Jerry Claiborne New Coach At Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Jerry Claiborne was named head football coach at the University of Maryland Friday as the Terps tried once again to stabilize their uncertain program. Claiborne, 43, turned in a 61-39-2 record during 10 seasons of coaching at Virginia Tech before becoming an assistant during the past year at Colorado. He replaces Roy Lester, who was fired after posting a 7-25 record during the past three seasons. Claiborne becomes Maryland's fifth head coach in eight seasons. The Terps have not had a winning season since 1962, and

Steers Come Back To Win After Dropping Opener

SNYDER — Big Spring came back to topple Brownfield, 63-59, in consolation semifinals of the Canyon Reef Tournament here Saturday morning after losing their opener to Lubbock Dunbar, 85-72, Friday night. Coach Ron Plumlee said his team did not play well in either game, explaining: "We made too many costly mistakes which we will have to correct if we are to do any good in conference." When the Steers met Brownfield, Robert Wallace was not in the lineup. He was brought to the tournament site by coach Clovis Hale. The tall senior grabbed off 13 rebounds and scored eight points in the brief time he was in action. Big Spring's bell wether in the Brownfield game was Mike Randle, who scored 22 points. Wallace had a big night against Dunbar, scoring 24 points.

Bill Jernigan scored 14 for the Bears.

Valley League Officials Set For Conclave

DALLAS (AP) — The Missouri Valley Conference holds its annual winter business meetings in Pasadena, Calif., this week with presidents, faculty representatives and athletic directors gathering Wednesday. The league sessions will be held in conjunction with the Pasadena Bowl game which pits Missouri Valley champion Memphis State against San Jose State of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association Saturday in the Rose Bowl stadium. Athletic directors from the 10 member institutions will open the three-day session Wednesday with a business meeting. Both the faculty representatives and the directors meet separately Thursday before the joint meeting of the two groups Friday. The presidents have a scheduled meeting Friday at which port on financial aid. cuss and make recommendations on the NCAA's final re-League commissioner DeWitt T. Weaver said that considerable time will be devoted to proposed NCAA legislation with special emphasis on the proposal to award athletic grants on the basis of need. The league's governing bodies also will continue a study of divisional basketball play that is scheduled to be implemented in 1972-73, and will take steps to assist Drake University in its petition for major college football status. Athletic directors also will act on recommendations from the basketball and track coaches before submitting them for final approval by faculty representatives.

John Hadl Says He Will Stay In Game

Special To The Herald When John Hadl directed the Western all-stars to an impressive 26-3 victory over the Eastern all-stars in the final comingling of divisional talent in the old American Football League after 1969, he was asked whether this might not be a good time to hang up his accoutrements — on a winning note as it were? "I love this game too much," he said earnestly. "They'll have to cut this uniform off me." For a while there in 1970 it looked as though the opposition had precisely this in mind. They came at him through every aperture in the leaky San Diego pass blocking, through the middle, around the ends, to nail him an almost incredible 43 times. The opposition showed splendid impartiality. It treated Marty Domres, his back-up, in the same fashion 13 times, which was just about the ratio Domres played. This year the sacking is of a completely different weave. Where there were gaping San Diego holes last year would-be tacklers have since been bruised by rock-like offensive performances. The total for 12 games has been 17, an average of slightly more than one a game. Even more impressive was the elaborate zero handed the Minnesota Vikings, who came charging out of the Upper Midwest intent on administering more of that same pre-season treatment (5 sacks) to Hadl.

Barbers Hill Fights Back

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Barbers Hill scored all its points in the last three minutes of the game to tie the 14-14 upstart Schulenburg and move into the Class A state finals on penetrations 8-2. Quarterback Jabo Leonard hit split end Wayne Follis with a six-yard touchdown pass with 2:45 remaining to put Barbers Hill on the scoreboard. Leonard's conversion kick made it 14-7. On the first play after the ensuing kickoff, Schulenburg quarterback Joe Demel fumbled and Ricky Irby recovered for Barbers Hill at the Schulenburg 22. Eight plays later and with 29 seconds left, fullback Kenneth Doucette bulled over from the one and Leonard booted the extra point. Schulenburg struck suddenly twice in the first quarter as Demel hit split end Alvin Carroll with touchdown passes of 23 and 30 yards. Demel kicked both extra points. After that, Barbers Hill was continually frustrated as drives bogged down inside Schulenburg's 20. Barbers Hill meets the winner of Saturday's Sonora-White Deer game in the Class A championship finals next week-end.

Dogs Defeated In HSU Tourney

ABILENE — Coahoma fell behind in the first quarter and never did catch up in losing a second round game to Hawley, 46-35, in the HSU Girls Basketball Tournament here Friday. Deanie Beasley led Hawley with 27 points. Pam Patterson had a productive game for Coahoma, tallying 17 points. Both sides were cold in the first half but Hawley outscored the Bulldogs in Round Three, 18-10, to ice away the verdict. EXCITING PASTIME — Skiing in the Sandia Mountains at the eastern edge of Albuquerque is a thrill for both beginning and advanced skiers. There is a double chairlift going from the lodge to Summit House, three other lifts, eight major open slopes and trails from intermediate to expert, plus two beginners' areas. There is a certified ski school, ski shop, complete ski equipment rental, ski patrol, restaurant, lounge, rathskeller, and snack bars. Snowshoe hikes may be taken over some 60 miles of trails, and there are also snowmobile trails and "ash can slides" for family fun. The ski area can be reached by a short 45 minute drive from downtown Albuquerque, or by taking the spectacular tram ride up the western face of the mountains that reaches Summit House in 15 minutes.

Newhouse Wins Bible Award

WACO, Tex. (AP) — University of Houston fullback Robert Newhouse, whose rushing total this year was the second highest in NCAA history for a single season, has been named winner of the Dana X. Bible Award for Excellence.

The award is presented annually to the state's foremost college player by Texas Football Magazine.

In his final game of the regular season, Newhouse rushed for 204 yards against Utah, bringing his season total to 1,757 yards, second only to the all-time record figure posted this year by Ed Marinaro of Cornell.

In 15 of his final 16 games, Newhouse rushed for more than 100 yards. San Jose State, in Houston's fourth game of this season, held him to 99 yards.

"People laughed at the time," the latest issue of the magazine quotes Houston coach Bill Yeoman as saying, "but since San Jose State beat Stanford, which is going to the Rose Bowl, suddenly San Jose State's not so funny."

The tireless and consistent Newhouse, Yeoman said, "has to go down as the best un-recognition player I've ever coached or ever known." In this year of the glamorous college running back, Newhouse was voted only a second-team All-American.

The Dana X. Bible Award carries the name of one of the most illustrious coaches in Southwest Conference history.

Stock Car Drivers Eye Fresh Start In Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Forty-seven stock car drivers begin laying down a new groove of rubber in practice runs today for Sunday's Texas 500.

Rain forced postponement of the $80,000 race last Sunday, and also washed away the rubber laid down in previous practice runs.

A double purpose is served in coating the asphalt tracks with rubber on practice runs—it also "scuffs in" new tires by breaking the glaze on their relatively smooth surfaces.

The pole position Sunday goes to Pete Hamilton of Dedham, Mass., who lapped the 2-mile oval track in 170.830 miles an hour.

The No. 2 spot is claimed by Benny Parsons of Detroit, with a 169.947 clocking, but both Hamilton and Parsons will be looking over their shoulders at

Blue Hens Rip C. W. Post 11 By 72-22 Tab

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Delaware's national small college champions steamrollered their way to five touchdowns in the second period, put an awesome rush on Little All-America quarterback Gary Wichard and crushed C.W. Post 72-22 Saturday in the Boardwalk Bowl.

Delaware's Bill Armstrong started the scoring with a tackle-breaking 21-yard gallop on the first play of the second quarter.

Before the half, Glenn Covin tallied on runs of seven and five yards and Sam Neff passed to Pete Johnson for touchdowns of six and 14 yards.

Wichard, sacked five times in the first half for losses totaling 41 yards, managed to evade the overpowering Delaware defenders long enough to take Post 66 yards in three plays and keep the overmatched Pioneers within reach at 14-7.

First, he hit Jim Cara for 42 yards and, after one running play, fired 22 yards to Len Izzo in the end zone.

Delaware answered right back with a 65-yard seven-play strike including a pass from Neff to Johnson and ensuing lateral to Armstrong for a 22-yard gain.

Neff, under pressure, rifled a sidearm pass to Johnson for his first touchdown pass.

The Blue Hens, top small college rushing team in the nation, reeled off 198 yards on the ground in the first half while holding Post to minus 31.

Antelope Kill Is Big Within State

SAN ANGELO — Hunters killed 634 antelope during the Trans-Pecos antelope hunt this year for a 94 per cent hunter success.

Of the 832 pronghorn permits issued to ranchers of 77 ranches, 672 were made available to hunters.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials say the 1971 total was 24 more than the number of animals killed in 1970. Approximately the same number of permits were issued last year.

Louisiana Tech Is Pioneer Champion

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Freshman Winford Wilborn streaked 91 yards with a punt return in the third quarter to spark Louisiana Tech to a 14-3 victory over Eastern Michigan Saturday in the first annual Pioneer Bowl.

Tech captured the NCAA Midwest college division championship.

Eastern Michigan was undefeated but tied twice going into the game and was ranked third in the nation among small colleges.

Quarterback Ken Lantrip drove Tech to a touchdown in the first quarter, hitting reserve back Glenn Berteau on a 17-yard screen pass.

Eastern Michigan closed the gap to 7-3 in the second quarter on Jackson Nunn's 22-yard field goal.

Lantrip, voted the game's most valuable offensive player, completed 15 of 24 passes for 170 yards.

Midway in the third quarter, Eastern Michigan faced a fourth and 15 on the Tech 32 and punted.

Wilborn hauled in the line drive boot on his nice, cleared Eastern Michigan pursuit to go down the right sideline for the clinch touchdown. Tim Packral, Eastern Michigan tailback, gained 122 yards on 31 carries, but the power-minded Hurons were unable to sustain a drive.

With a 25-mile-an-hour wind to its back, Eastern drove from its own 20 to the Louisiana Tech 5 in the fourth quarter but on fourth and two Packral was hauled down short of the yardage needed by Tech freshman lineman Fred Dean, who was voted the games most valuable defensive player.

Rosebud-Lott Surprises Hondo In Grid Playoffs

SEGUIN (AP) — Delivering a devastating ground attack, the Rosebud-Lott Cougars blasted the Hondo Owls 30-7 in a Class AA semifinal high school football playoff game Friday night before 7,000 fans.

Halfback Kevin Scott scored three touchdowns on runs of 2 and 2 yards. Jim Brooks scored on a 50-yard deflected pass from quarterback Kenneth Coulter. The Cougars also gained a safety when defensive tackle Dennis Terry tackled Hondo's Keith Ligon in the Owl end zone.

Rosebud-Lott's offense ground out 352 yards rushing, with Coulter getting 121, Scott 109 and Brooks 85.

The Cougar defense limited Hondo to only one penetration as the Owls struck on a 38-yard touchdown pass Tom Hill to Eric Grant with 45 seconds left in the first half. It tied the score at 7-7. The Cougars then sacked the game away with one touchdown in the third quarter and two in the fourth.

The winners now take a 131-record into the finals. Hondo closes at 11-2-1.

Brenham Is Decided

SAN MARCOS (AP) — Gregory-Portland rammed over three touchdowns midway of the game, scored three more in the final seven minutes and blasted Brenham 49-22 in the Class AAA state schoolboy semifinals Friday night.

Halfback Jay Callaway scored twice on runs of 3 and 7 yards and fullback Allan Callicot, who rushed for 106 yards, scored twice on runs of 38 and 1 yards. Brenham fullback Mat Mur-ski, who rushed for 138 yards on 38 carries, collected all three Brenham scores on plunges of 4, 1 and 1 yards.

Gregory-Portland massed 247 rushing and 28 yards passing while Brenham ran for 195 and passed for 112. Two interceptions, however, set up Gregory-Portland touchdowns.

Gregory-Portland, now 11-0, will play Saturday's Brown-wood-Plano winner in the state finals next week.

Thoroughbred Futurity Winds Up Fall Season

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — Sunland Park closes out the fall season today with the top event of the campaign — the eighth running of the $33,500 Fall Thoroughbred Futurity at six furlongs. And just to add some extra glitter to the afternoon, the management will end the season with the giveaway of a brand-new Mustang Hardtop. The drawing to decide the winner will be held immediately after the last race. The rich futurity tops a 12-race program which gets underway at 1:30 p.m. Twelve of the finest two-year-olds in the Southwest are poised to duel in the futurity. But attention is expected to center on Flying Drifter, leased by Richard Nolen of Sunland Park, N.M.; Kidao, the California-bred owned by Dan Kamphausen of Littleton, Colo.; and Lakeside Trail, who flashes the colors of Richard Beren and Ray Odum of Scottsdale, Ariz. Not to be overlooked in the star-studded collection is the Southwest champ, Dub. But the colt's stock took a downward move last week when he just barely managed to qualify with a sixth-place finish in the elimination trials.

Goree, Evans Recipients Of Baylor Grid Awards

WACO — Defensive end Roger Goree of Baton Rouge, La., and offensive tackle Ron Evans of Amarillo receive the top Fightin' Bear awards at the Baylor football banquet Saturday night. Evans, who will play in the Jan. 9 American Bowl at Shreveport, La.; Randy Prescher, Tampa, Fla., received the top offensive performer award of the year, while Goree concensus all-conference performer and only a junior, was the defensive honoree. Other awards went to Gary Sutton of Ozona as the outstanding defensive lineman, Evans, the outstanding offensive lineman, Matthew Williams of Monroe, La., outstanding offensive back and Phil Beall of Baton Rouge, La., and Waco, the top defensive back. In addition Evans and Sutton, who will represent Baylor in the East-West Shrine game, got captains' plaques. Bill Beall, who bowed out as head coach at the end of the season, presented the awards with the special fightin' Bear Award going to 5-6 Steve Rogers of Dallas, who was at every practice during the year giving assistance to the over-all program as a member of the "Scout Squad."

Beall announced the names of 45 lettermen and eight special awards to graduating seniors who did not get in enough playing time for regular letters. Lettermen include: Third letter — Joe Allbright, Andrews; Tommy Bambrick, San Marcos; Glen Chmela, Rockdale; Ron Evans, Amarillo; Mike Hale, Brownsville; Barry Morgan, Bossier City, La.; Pat Nunn, El Paso; Si Southall, Brownwood; Willie Stewart, Odessa; Gary Sutton, Ozona; Lanus Treadwell, El Campo. Fregosi, Ryan To Exchange Uniforms Following Swap

NEW YORK (AP) — After running through 45 third basemen in 10 years, the New York Mets hope they've finally found a stopper in Jim Fregosi. The Mets acquired the star California Angels' infielder in a trade Friday, sending three players to the American League Club, including pitcher Nolan Ryan. Along with Ryan, the Mets shipped out three promising minor leaguers-outfielder Leroy Stanton, catcher Francisco Estrada and pitcher Don Rose. It was the first trade between the two expansion teams and squeezed under the inter-league deadline of midnight Friday. The Mets, who joined the National League in 1962, started with Don Zimmer at third base and have used 44 others since, including Bob Aspromonte, Tim Foli and Wayne Garrett last year. Fregosi could be the best so far — if he lives up to past performances with the Angels. The 29-year-old Fregosi has played on six American League all-star teams as a shortstop a year of injury last season. An operation on his feet put him out of action for three weeks. Ryan, 24, had a 10-14 won-lost mark last year with a 3.97 earned run average. The hard-throwing right-hander, who won a playoff game for the Mets in their 1969 World Championship season, has had control problems while winning 29 games and losing 38 in four seasons. Stanton, 24, batted .324 with 101 RBI and 23 homers last year at Tidewater of the International League. Rose, 25, was 11-10 with a 3.33 ERA at Tidewater while Estrada, 23, batted .260 with six home runs at Tidewater and hit 252 with seven homers with Memphis of the Texas League.

DALLAS NEARS DIVISION TITLE Cowboys Seek 6th In Row In New York Game Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, with Roger Staubach leading the way, will be gunning for the sixth straight National Football League triumph today against the New York Giants and inching toward their sixth straight division title. A victory by the Cowboys, 9-3, and either a tie or loss by the Washington Redskins in their clash with Los Angeles Monday night, would give the Dallas club the Eastern Division title. And since Staubach, the former Navy star, was named the No. 1 quarterback for the Cowboys by coach Tom Landry, the scrambling quarterback has taken over as the National Football Conference's top passer while leading the Cowboys to five straight triumphs. Staubach has 106 completions in 181 attempts for 1,508 yards and 11 touchdowns. He also has been intercepted only three times and has a string of 111 pass attempts without a pass being picked off by the opposition. The Giants, 4-8, have lost three in a row and have played poorly on offense, with interceptions playing key roles in the losses. The Giants, however, have Bob Tucker at tight end, the No. 2 pass catcher in the NFC with 46 catches for 621 yards on the receiving end of quarterback Fran Tarkenton's pitching. The Giants will likely start Bobby Duhon and Tucker Frederickson at the running backs with Junior Coffey also seeing action. Rookie Wayne Walton will again start in place of injured offensive guard Doug Van Horn while three other injured Giants cornerbacks Willie Williams and Bennie McRae and defensive end Henry Reed, are expected to play. For the Cowboys, the leading receiver is running back Walt Garrison with 39 catches for 396 yards. Lance Alworth and Bob Hayes have caught 31 and 28 passes respectively. The Cowboys' running is handled by Calvin Hill, Duane Thomas and Garrison. Hill, idled by injuries, is healthy again and has run for 345 yards in 87 attempts while Thomas has 616 yards in 141 tries. Defensively, tackle Jethro Pugh returns from the injury list while end Larry Cole is listed as a probable starter.

Twins Booked Into Houston

HOUSTON — Houston's Astros will conclude their 1972 exhibition season with four games against the Minnesota Twins in the Astrodome beginning Friday, March 31. General Manager Spec Richardson has announced. The Astros will play the Twins in 7:30 p.m. games Friday, March 31, Saturday April 1 and Monday, April 3. On Sunday, April 2, the Twins and Astros will meet at 2 p.m. Houston will play 19 straight games in Florida beginning on Saturday, March 11, against Minnesota in Cocoa. The Astros will end their Florida schedule on Wednesday, March 29 then take the day off Thursday, March 30 before coming to Houston. The Astros will meet the Twins of the American League West division eight times in exhibition play. Last season the Astros played five exhibition games in the Astrodome. Houston played Baltimore three games (winning one) and the New York Yankees twice (splitting). DOME SCHEDULE: Friday, March 31 — Minnesota Twins Saturday, April 1 — Minnesota Twins Sunday, April 2 — Minnesota Twins Monday, April 3 — Minnesota Twins

Davidson Shines In Buffalo Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — Long Island University raced to a 22-point advantage in the first half but had to hang on to pull out a 69-64 college basketball victory over West Texas State in the opening game of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader Saturday. Wally Jones, a 6-foot-8 senior, led the Blackbirds to a 47-25 halftime lead with 19 points, but he was limited to five after intermission and finished with 24. Steve Davidson paced West Texas with 24. He hit 19 in the second half comeback bid. West Texas, suffering its third straight loss after two triumphs, closed the gap to three points, 67-64, when Davidson scored on a layup with 23 seconds left to play. Fred Gibson then hit a basket 18 seconds later for LIU.

GRIFITH BEATS McALOON — Emile Griffith, right, 32-year-old former world champion, avoids punch from Danny McAloon, 28-year-old physician education teacher in middleweight fight at Madison Square Garden in New York Friday night. Griffith won the 10-round fight in a unanimous decision.

WEIGHTED DOWN — 100 PER CENT — 2nd Lt. Dennis W. Vander Ven, Class 72-06, is weighted down by the academic course books he has recently completed without missing a question. The 100 per cent record for all academic courses is the second time it has been accomplished this year at Webb and the third time in Air Training Command.

Webb Pilot Rates Perfect Score

For the second time this year at Webb, a student in undergraduate pilot training has completed all evaluated courses in the academic program without missing a question. He is 2nd Lt. Dennis W. Vander Ven, a member of class 72-06, the Wing Nuts.

In April of this year another Webb student, 2nd Lt. John W. Lieberherr, class 72-01, scored 100 on all academic courses.

This is the third time such a feat has been accomplished in Air Training Command.

This outstanding academic achievement accomplished by Lt. Vander Ven entailed answering 500 questions on 14 examinations without missing one. This covers all the 13 evaluated courses of academics and includes 271 hours of classroom time.

Lt. Vander Ven received his commission through officer training school at Lackland AFB, Tex., in February, 1971. He was honored as a distinguished graduate and received a certificate for the highest academic average in his squadron.

Lt. Vander Ven graduated with a BA in physical sciences from the University of California at Riverside in June, 1969.

Air Force life is nothing new for Vander Ven, who was born at Mather AFB, Calif. His father was also a pilot and is now retired.

Lt. Vander Ven is from Redlands, Calif., and married the former Miss Lavinia "G.G." White who is also a native of Redlands.

When he is not involved in studying or flying, the lieutenant uses his time as a scoutmaster for Boy Scout Troop 146 on Webb.

Clean Harvesting Helps Destroy Pink Bollworm

With the increase in pink bollworm numbers in scattered cotton fields this fall, pink bollworms can cause cotton growers a lot of trouble in the 1972 cotton season unless steps are taken now to destroy the potential overwintering bollworms in the cotton fields at the present time.

The pink bollworm spends the winter in bolls and cotton seed residue left in the field after harvesting. An effective and economical way to destroy the overwintering bollworms in the cotton fields is to take as much as possible of the cotton crop to the gin and plow the crop residue left in the field.

Clean harvest results in the majority of the potential overwintering pink bollworms being taken to the gins where they are destroyed in the ginning process. Destruction of cotton stalks as soon as possible after harvest with the frail-type or conventional-type rotary shredder aids in destroying overwintering pink bollworms left in the field after harvest. The frail-type shredder creates more suction during the shredding process which results in picking up bolls and seed cotton lying on the soil surface exposing them to the shredding process.

After the cotton crop residue has been shredded, fields should be plowed so that the crop residue is buried at least six inches in depth, which destroys

Train Stops Last Time At Town

KAW CITY, Okla. (AP) — The last train rolled through old Kaw City Friday.

The train stopped for 15 minutes, unusual in itself, to let everyone from school children to old timers take a look and get some pictures. The train hasn't been stopping here lately — there just wasn't anything to pick up or drop off.

Kaw City is being abandoned to make room for the new Kaw Reservoir. July 31 is the date the town will be moved to a new site on higher ground.

John Brown, 80, who rode the first train into Kaw City in 1902, was there.

RR Pact Is On Agenda For Tuesday

The Big Spring City Commission will meet Tuesday at 5:15 p.m. in the Commission Room in City Hall.

The agenda includes three resolutions formalizing the agreements between the city and the Big Spring Industrial Foundation on the Intech rail spur; a claim for damages by Elda Evans; a request for a certificate of occupancy by Katie Green; a resolution authorizing the hiring of Dan Almon & Company as financial advisor in the contemplated election for General Obligation Bonds; a resolution amending Article 4, Section 23-77 of the city ordinances to prevent the operation of a public pool hall with three or more tables in any room or business establishment where alcoholic beverages are sold or consumed.

Also, a discussion of utility delinquents, the appointment of assistant city secretary Lois Turpin; the tabulation of gasoline bids; the minutes of the parks and recreation board; a discussion concerning an addition to the golf cart shed at the golf course; a discussion concerning revision in the personnel policy of the city; a discussion of policy concerning fishing at Cosden Lake; and a discussion of section 17, city owned property in the Silver Heels Addition.

The city commission will also consider an authorization for the mayor to sign a quitclaim deed for the Sacred Heart Church.

'Samaritan' Robs Blind

NEW YORK (AP) — As Asbury Smith, 55 and blind, left a Brooklyn supermarket Friday he was approached by a young man whose voice, he said, indicated he was in his 20s.

As Smith later recounted, the youth told him: "I'll lead you and help you carry the packages." Smith accepted and thanked him.

As the pair started up to Smith's fourth floor apartment, he recounted an incident last Christmas time.

"A fellow offered to help me, but when we got here, he pushed me into the elevator and ran off with $14 worth of food."

"Now I'm not about to pull that on you, friend," Smith quoted the young man as saying as he carried Friday's purchases of $17 worth of groceries.

At the fourth floor landing, Smith handed his helper a $1 gratuity and said "Thank you."

The man said nothing, but bolted down the steps with the groceries—and the $1.

TOUGH COP — Airman Adam J. Schubrych, selected as Air Base Group's Airman of the Month for November prepares check list at Webb's gate.

Webb Security Policeman Named Airman Of Month

Maj. Martin J. Carl, chief, Security Police on Webb, recently announced that Airman Adam J. Schubrych was selected as Airman of the Month for November and that he was selected as Air Base Group's Airman of the Month for the same month at Webb AFB.

In his letter citing the airman for the award, Maj. Carl stated, "Although he was only recently assigned to the Security Police Division, Airman Schubrych has already demonstrated that he can perform his assigned duties in an outstanding military manner with the confidence and efficiency expected from a more experienced airman."

"Airman Schubrych's personal appearance and military bearing are indeed a credit to his unit and the United States Air Force," the letter said.

Airman Schubrych entered the service in May, 1971. Webb is his first assignment since basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. He hails from Bremond,

Six Entries In Lighting Contest, Deadline Near

Only six entries have been received in the annual Christmas Lighting and Decoration contest sponsored by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Deadline for the contest is Friday. Those who have entered are Mr. and Mrs. Todd Roberts, 607 Bucknell, Harold Dietrich, 2700 Rebecca, Robert Noyes, 2402 Cheyenne, Katie Franco, 1500 Mesa, and Mrs. Conn James, 4109 Muir, in the home and yard contest, and Clifford Fountain, 3621 Calvin, the special division with a cross on top of his house.

Substantial prizes for winners in the over-all yard and home contest have been provided and special plaques will be presented to those winning for a special feature. Texas Electric Service Company is cooperating with the chamber in providing the awards.

Persons may enter the entire yard and home; or may elect to enter only a window, a door, or a special feature. Those who will join in the holiday brightening should call the Chamber of Commerce at 263-7641. It is required that name, address, and stipulation of which event is being entered be given. The entry may be mailed to the chamber, P.O. Box 1391.

Chamber officials are urging wide participation, since "the contest will provide pleasure for everyone participating and will help beautify our city at this season of the year and will foster a friendlier community spirit."

The rules are simple: The contest is open to all residences in the city limits. This includes Webb Village and the barracks facilities on Webb AFB.

Deadline on entries is Friday, and judging will be done the night of Dec. 22, with announcement of winners to be made immediately.

Contestants must leave lights on until 11 p.m. Dec. 22, so that judges will have time to view all entries. It is requested that entries be kept lighted each evening during the holiday period.

Those persons who won a first place in 1970 will not be eligible for first place this year.

In the home-yard general contest, prizes will be: First place, outdoor electric Ready-Lite, installed as per the winner's wish; second, an electric blanket; and third, an automatic electric coffee percolator.

Special plaques will be given for first and second place winners in each of these events: door, window and special feature.

In addition, special certificates will be presented to each household participating in a special "block" display; and people in any city block may cooperate for this special neighborhood event.

A board of judges will survey all the entries, and will name winners according to this guideline: Artistry and ingenuity, up to 30 points; lighting techniques, up to 30 points; originality, up to 20 points and symbolic portrayal, up to 20 points.

GI Bill Information Available At Hospital

Veterans enrolling for GI Bill training for the spring semester can speed their VA payments by submitting required information to the VA or their school prior to enrollment time, according to Jack Coker, VA regional director at Waco.

Also to help veterans, Coker said, the VA has changed its procedures on future enrollments to permit submission of documents direct to colleges by veterans who have not had time to get certificates of eligibility from the VA prior to the school start date.

Veterans should submit a copy of their separation papers, proof of dependency and application for education to the VA prior to enrollment if possible. If circumstances do not permit the veteran to do this and school enrollment has started he may submit his "package" of required documents direct to the school. Most colleges and universities have agreed to accept the "package" and forward it to the VA for processing along with the certification of his enrollment.

Information may be had at the VA office in the VA Hospital here.

Fundamental Truths Of Christianity

THE ONE BODY

"There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling; One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all." (Eph. 4:4-6.)

These sublime words of the great apostle declare the manifold unity of the Christian system, and affirm that there is but one body or church, as truly as there is but one God. Unfortunately, today Christendom is divided into many bodies, composed of good and sincere people all worshipping the same God, believing in the same Redeemer and the same Bible, singing mostly the same songs — but divided into denominations of widely divergent doctrines and having no fellowship one with another.

In the light of the sacred scriptures, no sane man can believe that this condition is acceptable to the Lord or that these organizations with conflicting doctrines can all be right. We might all be wrong, but we cannot all be right. God has provided that man shall be a free moral agent, with power to choose eternal life or death. In the Garden of Eden and until this good hour, though He craves the worship and service of His immortal creature, yet it must be rendered voluntarily and according to the Father's will. There is another great truth running throughout the Christian religion especially — that there is laid upon every child of God the burden duty to teach and uphold the true doctrine of Christ unerringly and uncorrupted and the further duty of correcting any error found among Christ's disciples.

In view of these things, and with nothing but love in our hearts, the church of Christ makes this distinctive plea: That there is a way of unity; the way of truth, and that way is in the return to the Bible alone as our only rule of faith and practice in religion. Some may dismiss this plea as impossible of accomplishment, but we believe God will surely help us to be one if this we sincerely desire to be. It might not be accomplished in a day, but of this be assured that a nucleus has been formed, around which one day may congregate all believers in Christ and upon the very basis on which Christ's church began. Surely no ambition could be more pleasing to our heavenly Father, the Author of unity, or should be more welcomed by all reasonable men than this effort to which we have put our hands, the unity upon a scriptural basis of all who love the Lord.

School Board Meets Tuesday

The school board of the Big Spring Independent School District will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the board room at 708 11th Place.

Items on the agenda include a discussion of the community conference on technical-vocational education in Texas and the discussion of an appointment of a new member of the board to replace Leon Miller.

Reports from Supt. S. M. Anderson will include the final allocation of funds entitlement, a proposed air conditioning feasibility study, enrollment and attendance reports and the Christmas holidays and the January board meeting.

don't SPEND CHRISTMAS BEHIND BARS ...

It was just a two-buck belt. You didn't even need it. You even had enough bread to buy it. But, you lifted it instead. It was just for kicks.

What you didn't think about was the fact that shoplifting is stealing. Yes. Stealing. And stealing is a crime. And crimes are punishable by law. Some kicks.

When it really hit home was when the store detective nabbed you on your way out. Then you got taken to the manager's office. Then you got taken to the police station. Then they called your folks. You started to feel a little bit sick.

Sure, you're under age. But juveniles who steal get police records, too. It's like a tattoo. Never washes or wears off. It sticks to you. Some kicks.

Maybe it didn't happen to you. Or not yet. But think about it. Shoplifting can wreck your life in seconds. In terms of college, or of a job.

It's the holiday season. It could be tempting.

NEWEST AGRICULTURAL TECHNIQUES DEMONSTRATED

How To Explain 'Cowboy' To Russian

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The Soviet Union's Agriculture Minister, Vladimir V. Matskevich, took a look Saturday at a cattle feed lot—one of the newer techniques in America's agriculture. Again and again he stated his interest by his questions in the operation's efficiency.

The minister is on a 10-day tour of the Southwest and Midwest. Westerners who believe they and the movies have made the word "cowboy" worldwide would have been shocked at an incident in the visit.

E. C. Crowfoot, owner of the Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sunday, Dec. 12, 1971 11-B

Lubbock Feed Lots, used the word casually and the faces of the minister's official interpreters grew blank. "Cowboy" isn't in their English vocabulary.

Crowfoot solved the difficulty by coming up with "one man on a horse."

This exchange came when Matskevich asked how many men were required to care for the 40,000 cattle in Crowfoot's installation—where cattle are penned and heavily fed before marketing. Crowfoot said it takes one man on a horse for 4,000 head of cattle.

The minister inspected performance records of the Purina

Research Feed Yards, a part of the cattle complex, and toured the Purina mill which processes cattle feed.

Matskevich made few comments, but did talk about possible cross breeding of U.S. cattle with the dual-purpose milk and beef—animals popular in the Soviet Union. He said both nations could benefit from such breeding.

The bald, stocky minister and his delegation of farm experts arrived in Lubbock by air. But Harris Davis of the U.S. Agriculture Department, coordinating the tour, said the minister changed plans and asked to be driven to Dallas so he could see the country from the ground. Davis would not reveal other details of Matskevich's tour.

HONOR ASSISTANT — Sgt. John Myott arranges the altar for Sunday services at the base chapel. He was recently selected as Air Base Group's Noncommissioned Officer of the Month for November.

Chaplain's Assistant Is Named NCO Of Month

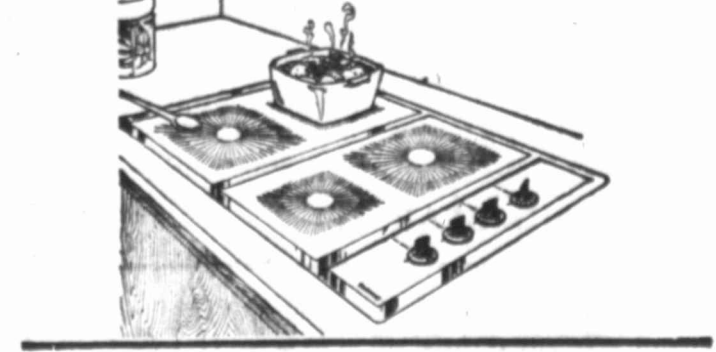

Sgt. John R. Myott, chaplain services specialist, has been selected as Air Base Group's Noncommissioned Officer of the Month at Webb AFB, according to Chaplain Lt. Col. Kenneth D. Summy, Installation Chaplain.

Chaplain Summy described Sgt. Myott's abilities as "exceptional" in his letter citing him for the award.

"His excellent attitude and job performance have received recognition beyond our own section and in fact, beyond Webb itself. Members of a visiting staff assistance team were so impressed with him that he was later selected by name to become a member of the U.S.A.F. Spiritual Life Conference administrative staff at Estes Park, Colo., July 10-14, 1971," the letter said.

From this conference, Sgt. Myott attained recognition from Brig. Gen. Michael C. McCarthy, Air Training Command's chief of staff, from Randolph AFB, Tex. In his letter, Gen. McCarthy stated, "Sgt. Myott provided on-site logistical support for eight selective courses and discussion groups, displaying tact and resourcefulness in dealing with problems that arose."

Sgt. Myott entered the service in May, 1969, and came to Webb after basic training. He is a native of Wadena, Minn., where he attended Bemidji State and Moorhead State universities in Minnesota, where he was majoring in English.

No burners. No coils. No drip pans. Just a flat white surface to brighten your kitchen. Complete thermostatic heat control. The Counter That Cooks™ built-in cooktop from Corning. Comes with eight Cook-mates® cookware. See the most revolutionary advance in cooking in 100 years.

One Orphan Too Many, But Vietnam Has 266,000

By JAMES A. BOURDLER
Associated Press Photographer
SAIGON (AP) — One orphan is too many.

But in Vietnam there are many as 266,000 of them, living victims of a war most are too young to understand, only old enough to know they are alone.
Only a small fraction are in orphanages, and less than half are official wards of the state that can't keep up with the unending army of innocents abandoned by war.

Almost everywhere I turned in Vietnam, from the Saigon streets to the smooth white sand beaches near Da Nang, I saw thousands of orphans and waifs, torn from their families and homes or dumped alone into the world by unwanted parents.

Their look is always the same. The big, sad, dark eyes peering. Were they afraid of me, or was I to be their friend?
I rather think the latter.

They were shy, on first meeting, these waifs of Vietnam. Slowly they warmed. First a little hand came out to grab mine and hold it tightly. Others followed and soon I was surrounded by the children. Other little hands fingered the cabin baggage tags on my camera case piled up over the years of assignments. When I tore them off and offered them as toys, the sad eyes brightened in acknowledgment but only for a fleeting moment. Then the gleam was gone and once again they were the waifs of Vietnam.

The warm hands still held mine. Braver now, they toyed with my dangling cameras. I wiped off more fingerprints in several months with the waifs than in the past 20 years of assignments. But I didn't mind.
Buddhist monks operate a large complex for the homeless near Saigon. I recall a particular day when I had been visiting and photographing in the area, one of the monks excitedly called one to another building to display the latest addition to their "family" of more than 1,000 children.

There standing before me and looking up with the same sad, dark eyes I had photographed many times before was one of the most beautiful children I had yet seen. She tried to smile for me through the bruises and cuts that covered her tiny angelic face and her body. She wore blue, blood-stained pajamas.

The monk explained that the girl's mother, a Saigon bar girl, had borne her by an American GI, and had recently married a Vietnamese man. Since the child had some of her father's features, neither the new husband nor the mother wanted her. So, they simply beat her up to show their distaste and dumped her at the entrance to the orphanage. It was the first time in "long, long years" that I felt like crying.

Waifs in an orphanage fare better than the street urchins.
At least they get some medical attention and usually enough rice and other foods to sustain them.

The homeless children who roam the larger cities live and sleep in the street. They rise with the dawn and begin scratching out their day-to-day existence. Many become thieves and pickpockets.

Within six months I will be leaving Vietnam for good.

Many things and events I'll probably forget.
But the sad eyes and the soft warm hands of all my little friends will forever remain with me.

Prisoner Gets 5-Year Term For Murder

EAGLE PASS, Tex. (AP) — Everett Arthur Phillips, 20, has been assessed a 5-year prison term for the murder of an elderly deputy sheriff-jailer.

A jury in Eagle Pass found Phillips guilty Friday of murder without malice and assessed the prison term.

The slender Phillips, who was well dressed for his court appearance, shook his half-bowed head from side to side when the guilty verdict was read.

He told the jury earlier he thought Kinsey County Deputy Sheriff Ignacio Garcia, 76, was still alive when he and another young man escaped from the Brackettville jail June 8.

Phillips admitted jumping
Garcia after he and John Henry Molton cut through the bars in their cell.

Molton is scheduled to be tried next week in Del Rio.

LAMESA — Dawson County Commissioners will concern themselves with county financial matters when they meet Monday in commissioners court.

Financial matters on the agenda include the approval of Food Stamp program expenditures for December, January and February, of the amount of insurance, to be purchased on a building at 806 N. Lyn, of the audit report of Title I Grant funds to the Dawson bills and routine reports.

In other business, commissioners will act on an application from Phillips Petroleum Co. to allow them to lay a pipeline across a county road, open bids on surplus cemetery land, set the New Year's holiday for county employees and hear from persons not scheduled on the agenda who might wish to speak with the commissioners.

THE BIG Spring St working

MUCH C providing Administr helps pat gift shop, ilary, ha

BIG SPRING NURSING INN is bedecked with the symbols of a festive holiday season as residents prepare to celebrate Christmas. Among those who are looking forward to the social events and special programs are Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Stinson who reside at the inn. On Dec. 22, the couple will mark 52 years of marriage.

THE BIG PARTY of the year is upcoming at Big Spring State Hospital where volunteers have been working for weeks to purchase and wrap gifts for every resident, Jose Tinajero, who lives at the hospital, helps Miss Pam Rowland and Mrs. John R. Beard sort the gaily-wrapped packages.

MUCH OF THE ENJOYMENT of Christmas is in providing gifts of love. Here, at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Mrs. Ted O. Groehl Jr. helps patients select gifts for their families. The gift shop, operated by the American Legion Auxiliary, has had over $4,000 worth of gifts donated.

Bill Hitchcock, center, a former Marine, shops for his daughters, Kelli and Tobi Jo, while Ray C. Lovelace, who was formerly in the infantry, chooses something for his four children, all of whom live in Fort Worth.

BRIGHT, SHINY DOLLS reach out from the arms of Mrs. Maj. Donald Nelson of the Salvation Army who is anxious to find each of them a "mother." The organization has 204 new dolls this year, all of which will be provided with clothes by home economics students. The dolls, which come in two sizes, have moveable arms and legs and fancy hairdos.

It's Christmas Everywhere

BY JO BRIGHT

Christmas comes but once a year, but, oh, it's worth the waiting!

Silver bells and singing choirs - jolly elves and joyous children. The happiness of the day is in the hearts of all men - and the magic of the miracle lingers long after the tinsel is gone.

Residents of Big Spring will see that no one is left out of the celebration - that everyone has a part in the praise. There is a place for you. Won't you share your love?

WITH DELIGHTFUL MUSEUM CALENDARS

Keep Eye On Future (And Peek Into Past)

A collection of early-day Big Spring photographs, issued under the imprimature of the Heritage Museum, is being presented as the institution's first calendar.

This calendar, which can be hung from the wall or folded for a handy desk reference, has space under the numerals for writing in appointments. Each month has a separate picture of some old time scene. The calendars will be offered at the museum and at the Chamber of Commerce at $2. Each comes in an envelope suitable for mailing for those who want to send them as souvenir gifts.

The back of the envelope includes a short sketch, "Windows into the Past," a terse cascade of information about the roots and the development of this area of West Texas.

Cover for the calendar contains the picture which has become something of a trademark for the museum — the picture of a two-team hack following behind a man on horseback, rifle ready. In the background is Signal Mountain.

There also are pictures of the "big spring," buffalo, Birdwell Hotel, several early scenes of streets lined with small frame buildings with their false fronts, a fierce sandstorm and a remarkable flood, blacksmiths, and cowboys at work and at play.

As time draws near for the opening, Dec. 19, of the museum exhibit honoring pioneer women of Howard County, more items are being loaned or donated for the display.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baker have brought clothing which belonged to his grandfather, George Tibbets, and his grandmother, Miranda Baker Tibbets, (including a mink stole and muff) as well as baby clothes which belonged to his brother, Forrest E. Baker. The clothing, all hand sewn, was made in 1877.

From Mrs. H. D. Cowden has come a black faille blouse which belonged to her aunt, Ruth Bird Hines in 1884, and a number of pictures featuring street scenes and early day settlers.

Mrs. J. C. Hurt has provided pictures and biographies of Miss Gertrude McIntyre and Miss Little M. Read. The former was the daughter of Dr. D. W. McIntyre. Miss Read married Dr. John Harrison Hurt who came to Big Spring in 1887.

More pictures, including one of the Breznard Ranch home, were brought by Mrs. Lamar (Joyce Bugg) Green. Mrs. James Renfro donated two pair of spectacles and a night cap and gown which belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. B. R. Risinger in 1872.

'ROUND TOWN BY LUCILLE PICKLE

It's getting to feel a lot like Christmas and also it's getting closer and closer and, as usual, we don't know what we are going to do about house or yard decorations.

It always happens this way. The trouble is that we don't realize the time slips by so fast. One year we had a great big papier mache pickle that we were going to display from the rooftop but by the time we figured out a way to anchor and illuminate it, Christmas was too close upon us. By the next year one of the boys had won an Easter bonnet contest with the pickle and it never looked any good for a Christmas display after that.

But we're thinking about what we'll do with something... the driveway, the mail box or lamp, the large window or the trees in the front. It would be not quite in the spirit of the Chamber of Commerce lighting program not to make the premises festive with lights. We're bound to develop some theme before too long. Well, maybe not a theme... a string of lights around the window?

EVERLYN CRUZ who is retiring from nursing services after having worked 10 years at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Having enjoyed a good Thanksgiving reunion of the Debnam family in Lamesa she and Sergeant Cruz are looking forward to Christmas in Lubbock with Evelyn's twin sister, MRS. CHESTER. C. JAYNES, and Mr. Jaynes.

The sergeant retired the past week and he and Mrs. Cruz plan to just do practically nothing for about a month and then tour these United States, seeing friends and relatives and also all the states they have not yet seen.

Installation Held By Auxiliary

Installation ceremonies were conducted by Mrs. Tom Underhill and Mrs. Albert G. Smith for the Ladies Auxiliary to the United Transportation Union at a Christmas luncheon Friday in the IOOF Hall.

Officers for the new years are S. V. Jordan, counselor; Mrs. C. G. Barnett, president; Mrs. H. J. Rogers, vice president; Mrs. F. G. Powell, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Underhill, past president; Mrs. Smith, chaplain; Mrs. G. C. Ragsdale, inner guard; Mrs. S. V. Jordan, outer guard; and Mrs. L. D. Jenkins, pianist.

Mrs. C. G. Barnett prepared turkey for the luncheon, and other members brought a covered dish. The table was covered with a Christmas cloth.

In Dallas Thursday for a Baptist Standard Board dinner, we were privileged to hear a former Big Spring resident, BILL O'BRIEN, and his wife Dellanna, bring an inspiring program. The REV. and MRS. O'BRIEN are missionaries in Indonesia. O'Brien is the son of MR. and MRS. CHESTER O'BRIEN, who are now living in retirement in Fort Worth. The family lived here when their sons were children.

O. L. BRADFORD tells us his wife's parents, MR. and MRS. RAYMOND HARRIS of Waco, will be leaving in January for Salisbury, Rhodesia, where they will relieve the missionaries there for a period of nine months. The Harrises are well known here, having visited the Bradfords on numerous occasions.

The ZOLLIE BOYKINS are in Odessa today to welcome back their son-in-law and daughter, MR. and MRS. JERRY GRAVES, who have been on a 10-day Caribbean cruise. The children, Lucinda Sue and Martin, spent weekends here with the Boykins.

Jerry won the trip for two through his employers, Eppler, Guerin and Turner, Inc., of Odessa. The party flew to Miami and boarded the cruise ship there. They stopped at Puerto Plata in the Dominican Republic, Saint Thomas in the U.S. Virgin Islands, San Juan, Puerto Rico and Cape Haitien, Haiti.

They docked in Miami Friday and were back at Terminal Saturday where the Boykins and the children met them.

Scout Field Director Will Reside In City

MISS ARLENE ESTES

Miss Arlene Estes, executive field director for the West Texas Girl Scout Council, headquartered in Abilene, will work from the Big Spring Girl Scout Office beginning Jan. 11, 1972.

Miss Estes has served the Big Spring area since joining the council's executive staff in January, 1970. She will continue to serve Big Spring, Lamesa, Stanton and Coahoma from the Big Spring office, 220 1/2 Main Street, telephone 263-3164.

"We hope to bring Girl Scouting to more girls and better programming to current and future members of the Girl Scout movement in the area," said Miss Estes. We hope to extend the training program in the area.

She hopes to work more closely with community leaders and to help Scouts become more involved in community projects, activities and service. She will also work to increase the number of sponsoring organizations and groups for Girl Scout troops.

As executive field director, Miss Estes is responsible for membership retention and growth, the training of leaders and for providing a continuous flow of information to the Scouts in her assigned area.

Miss Estes is also advisor to the council's program committee. Mrs. Paul Campbell of Big Spring, is chairman of the committee.

Mrs. Campbell and Miss Estes will help Mrs. Richard Atkins, also of Big Spring, with the co-ordination of the "Cadette Happening" in Big Spring in April. West Texas Cadette Girl Scouts will hostess the council-wide event with Cadette Girl Scouts from six surrounding Girl Scout councils invited to attend. The move to Big Spring has been made possible through the addition of a new executive staff member for the 16-county Girl Scout Council. Miss Sheila Moss, formerly of Paducah, Ky., will serve Kent, Stonewall, and Haskell counties. Miss Moss worked with the Bear Creek Girl Scout Council in Paducah.

Miss Estes has had five years experience in professional Girl Scouting. She came to this council from Kansas, and is a graduate of Ft. Hays, Kansas State College.

Early History Of Big Spring

The early history of Big Spring was outlined by Mrs. C. W. Tanner for members of the Scenic Chapter, American Business Women's Association, Tuesday evening at the Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Tanner talked about the Heritage Museum and its importance in preserving the past. She said the W. T. Roberts' family were the first settlers in this area at a time when Brownwood had the closest post office. The First Christian Church was the first to meet in this city, and the First United Methodist was the first to build its own building, which still stands at its original location.

Mrs. Tanner said Big Spring residents can take pride in the fact that there has never been a bank failure in the town. She briefly discussed the city prior to and during the coming of the railroad, and its future without the railroad.

Mrs. Troy White gave the vocational talk concerning her responsibilities in the creative visuals department of Gamco. She said about seven women do the job that 30 or more did six years ago.

Mrs. Helen Dawson won a Christmas centerpiece awarded in a project to raise money for the scholarship fund.

Mrs. Kyle Cauble was presented a statuette and certificate honoring her as the chapter's "woman of the year."

Prayers were by Mrs. Leonard Burke and Mrs. Gerry Dietz. The pledge was led by Mrs. Harvey Woolen.

Guests were Mrs. Teddy Dietz, Mrs. Estell Cason and Miss Pam Schrader.

Fem Buyers In Men's World

While girls have been poaching regularly on male fashion territory for some time, the momentum has increased to the point that they're accounting for up to 30 per cent of men's sweater purchases in many stores, according to a poll just completed by Woolknit Associates, Inc.

In some college towns, the purchases are divided equally between the sexes. Advanced styling, better pricing and quality and the unisex fashion trend combine to account for this sweater aid.

Students Present Nativity, Songs

Selected Christmas songs and a play about the nativity were presented by students from all grades of Cedar Crest School for the Parent-Teacher Association Thursday.

Mrs. Richard Cantwell presided, and appointed Bill Rhodes chairman of a project committee. The committee will announce its project goal at the next meeting. Mrs. F. G. Gilchrist won the attendance prize.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have a little trick that I use when trying to toast English muffins, or even small slices of bread in my pop-up toaster.

You know that all the trouble starts when the toaster pops up, but the muffin or the slice of bread doesn't come up far enough for you to take it out.

Well, I insert a toothpick through the very top part of the muffin or the slice of bread (parallel to toaster). The toothpick rests across the top of the toaster allowing the bread to hang down into the toaster.

The muffin toasts just as well and this method saves a lot of frayed nerves.

This is also great for defrosting cookies. They taste like freshly baked cookies, and there is no need to wait for them to defrost.

This is especially nice when your family wants their cookies warm. . . . Arlene Beardley

I "popped" straight up from my desk every bit as fast as my electric toaster, and headed straight for the kitchen and an English muffin. It does toast beautifully. And comes out easy too. . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I like a lightweight sweater to wear when doing my housework so this is what I finally did!

I took a sweat shirt, cut it down the front and bound it with bias tape.

It is warm, yet not uncomfortable.

I cut the ribbing from the wrists and used it to make pockets on the front. They are so handy to hold all those little things one picks up when cleaning. Things like pins, bobby pins, marbles, pebbles, bits of paper, thread, etc.

I find my shirt very satisfactory. . . . Mrs. Cross

LETTER OF THOUGHT

It was always my understanding that if an invitation said just "Mr. and Mrs." it meant no children.

A friend of ours, whose daughter is being married, is getting back acceptances with the entire family listed — and our friends had not provided for children.

I think this is very unfair because if a dinner is being served, this could really pose a problem.

Please don't misunderstand. I've had a family of children and love them dearly, but I never took them when their names were not included on the invitation. . . . Perplexed

Dear Heloise:

Don't throw away a pair of rubber gloves that have sprung a leak and are no longer good for "wet" work. (I am referring to the stockette-lined variety.)

Put the gloves on your hands and wash and rinse them thoroughly so they are completely clean. Then dry and store them in a plastic bag.

When that monstrous Christmas turkey is finished roasting, and must be lifted from the pan onto the platter, slip on these gloves.

Loosen any turkey skin that is stuck to the pan or the rack, grasp the bird in both hands, and lift it cleanly and easily onto the platter.

If the heat begins to penetrate the gloves while you are freeing any stuck skin, merely run cold water over your gloved hands, then hoist the bird out of the pan. . . . Margaret Hart

Dear Heloise:

Save the plastic clips that come on many clothes that are bought packaged such as shirts, blouses, etc. and use the clips to put on cards of bias tape, etc. after they have been opened.

Dear Heloise:

This is a hint on knitting men's scarfs:

Make the portion where the scarf goes around the neck narrower than the rest of the scarf. In that way, there is no bulk under the coat collar.

The scarf may be made using any stitch or any length desired. . . . Mrs. D. Douville

Dear Heloise:

Did you know that a picnic tablecloth — the type with a cutout hole and zipper for an umbrella table — makes a perfect Christmas tree skirt? . . . Mrs. R. Mahon

This column is written for you, the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of this newspaper. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible. Wedding Solemnized In Lutheran Church

Miss Rose Ann Bokelman and McAllyn Edmiston Jr. were united in marriage at 7 p.m. Friday in Trinity Lutheran Church, with the Rev. Neale O. Jensen presiding.

The ceremony was performed at an altar decorated with a large arrangement of white gladioli, flanked by candelabra with white tapers. Each side of the altar was graced with a carnation tree entwined with foliage. Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Louise Talley, organist, and Fred Davis, vocalist.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mrs. Billie Edmiston, 1112 Sycamore, and McAllyn Edmiston, of Moab, Utah. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bokelman, 3228 Drexel.

FORMAL GOWN

The bride was attired in a formal-length gown of white satin. The Empire bodice was overlaid with re-embroidered lace which also formed the high collar and edged the detachable train. Matching lace formed the cuffs of sleeves which billowed from a white satin bow at mid-arm. A lace crown accented with pearls and crystals held her illusion veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of lavender and white Frenched carnations tied with picot ribbon.

Miss Susan Watkins served as maid of honor, wearing a floor-length gown of lavender linen featuring long full sleeves and lace accents. She carried a nosegay of lavender carnations highlighted with lavender and white ribbon.

Johnny James was best man, and Charles Bokelman, the bride's brother, and George Anglin served as ushers.

Following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple will reside at Mountain View Trailer Park. Mr. and Mrs. Edmiston are both seniors at Big Spring High School. She is employed by Prudential Insurance Company and he works for Cory Penn Oil Company.

RECEPTION

A reception honored the covered with a white organdy cloth, edged with white chiffon. Lavender roses and candles and white peacock feathers centered the table. The tiered cake was topped with miniature doves, couple in the church fellowship hall. The refreshment table was

Will Head Gold Star Mothers

Mrs. Truett Thomas was installed to her second consecutive term as president of American Gold Star Mothers Wednesday at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Serving with her are Mrs. Alfred Moody, first vice president; Mrs. Jerome Lusk, second vice president; Mrs. Herbert Smith, secretary; Mrs. S. R. Nobles, treasurer; and Mrs. E. Early, historian.

Also installed were Mrs. Joe Jacobs, Americanism chairman; Mrs. Nobles, hospital representative; Mrs. Ted Peacock, and Mrs. Thomas, department representative; Mrs. Moody, community service chairman; and Mrs. Rilla Webb, chaplain.

Members decorated a Christmas tree in the hospital recreation room and wrapped gifts which will be distributed Dec. 23 to patients on one ward.

The next meeting is at 9:30 a.m., Jan. 20 in the home of Mrs. Webb, 1802 Wasson.

Christmas Musicales Presented

A musical Christmas program was performed by fifth and sixth graders at Airport School for the Parent-Teacher Association meeting Thursday evening in the cafeteria.

Miss Cheryl Gambil, music instructor, directed the children, who concluded with "I Ain't Gettin' Nothing for Christmas". Mrs. Roger Coffman presided and announced Christmas stockings will be prepared Wednesday for distribution to students Friday.

The achievement award presented to the association by the Texas PTA Congress was shown. The award, given for its completion of a school playground, will be displayed in the school office.

The fifth grade class of Clarence Hawkins won the room attendance count. The next meeting is at 3:30 p.m., Jan. 13 at the school.

Patterned Legs 'In' For Winter

Look for pretty patterned legs to be eye catchers on the winter scene. New sorcery in leg fashions include the comeons by Burlington.

These include a series of flirty patterned panty hose designed by Betty Curry. The design is carried right up to the waistband. The patterns include one called crown diamond, one called stained glass and one called the dandy, featuring contrasting stripes.

$4,000 Donation Goes To Westside Center

A $4,000 donation to the Westside Community Center was announced by Peter Stone Monday evening during a meeting of the board. The funds, given by a local individual, will be used for the center and grounds when the new building is transferred from Webb Air Force Base. Further plans were delayed until delivery of the building. The need for volunteer piano teachers at the center was among matters discussed, and it was reported that a number of young students are "vitaly interested" in taking piano lessons if volunteer teachers can be obtained. Other program needs were discussed, but no action will be taken until after the first of the year. Mrs. Ben Boadle is chairman for a Christmas party which will be held for adults who use the center, and after Christmas, there will be a men's domino and game night directed by Ernest Bauch. The Elbow 4-H Club is now conducting the preschool age baby sitting on Saturdays mornings until Christmas. The next board meeting will be Jan. 3 at Wesley United Methodist Church.

Special Care For Winter Weather

Beauty is not a sometime thing. Beauty may come naturally but keeping it takes a bit of doing — especially in the face of winter's cold and wind. The cold weather beauty shelf should include such special cosmetics as moisturizing cream, cosmetic oil, nonirritating makeup, vitamin cream and natural freshener such as good quality witch hazel.

FOCUS ON FAMILY LIVING
Don't Cook His Goose: Learn To Cook Deer

By SHERRY MULLIN
 County HD Agent

So your husband's favorite season is here again — deer season! And you're convinced that all his hunting equipment and deer lease will shoot holes in your budget.

Don't be discouraged — get a copy of the Extension bulletin, "Wild Game Care and Cooking," and review with your husband the steps in caring for the deer after it has been killed. This will help assure that the animal is in good condition for freezing once it's home.

If your freezer is small, have the deer processed at the locker plant. They can freeze large quantities quickly, which is important to quality. Freeze only two to three pounds of food per cubic foot of freezer space, or no more meat than will freeze in 24 hours.

As homemaker, you assume the responsibility of selecting family-pleasing recipes. Deer is an excellent source of animal protein, important for growth and repair of body tissue. But the meat won't do your family any good nutritionally unless it's eaten.

One way to improve the flavor and tenderness of deer meat is to marinate it, a process which removes the gamey flavor. Many deer eaters prefer to marinate venison from more mature animals, too. A good marinade is made by combining one-fourth part vinegar, three-fourths part water, sugar and seasonings. Put the meat in the solution and refrigerate for 74 hours or longer. Try new spice mixes now available on the market. Try other recipes similar to those used for beef.

You can help make deer season fun for both you and your family by using a well-dressed, processed deer in tasty recipes. This way, when your husband shoots the deer, he won't be shooting your budget, too.

Two tasteful, nutritious ways to serve venison follow.

VENISON CHILI
 1½ gallons cooked kidney beans, optional
 2½ lbs. ground venison
 1 tbsp. chili powder

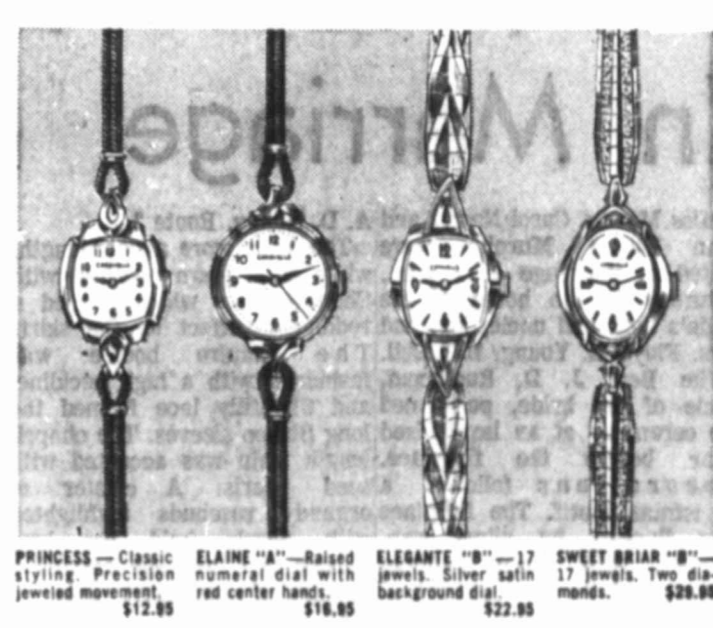

1½ tpsps. pepper
 1 tbsps. salt
 1½ lbs. bacon
 1 quart onions
 ½ gallon tomatoes, or 4 No. 303 cans
 ½ tsp. coriander seed
 Cut bacon in small pieces; brown to a crisp. Add venison and brown. Combine remainder of ingredients in large utensil. Add the browned meat and enough water to cover. Simmer two hours. Serves about 20.

VENISON SAUSAGE
 30 lbs. venison, cut
 20 lbs. fat pork, about 50 to 60 per cent lean, cut
 1 lb. salt
 3 oz. black pepper
 2 oz. sage, optional
 1 oz. red pepper, optional
 Sprinkle seasonings over meat. Grind through coarse chili plate. Re grind through sausage plate. If sausage is to be frozen, season only half of the total amount. Wrap sausage, in moisture vapor-proof paper. Thaw and cook seasoned sausage. Thaw and season unseasoned sausage just before using. Unseasoned sausage will keep fresh five or six months, while seasoned sausage will turn rancid after three months.

Sorority Hears Talk On Poise And Charm

A discussion concerning poise and charm was led by Mrs. Jerry Iden for Alpha Eta Upsilon Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Thursday at her home in Ackerly.

Mrs. Iden discussed courtesy in the home, in business offices and at social gatherings. She offered hints on table manners, smoking etiquette, proper way to sit and rise and graceful methods of getting in and out of automobiles.

Mrs. Iden presided and reminded members that the Income Rises 228 Per Cent

U.S. income rose from an average of $7.80 a week in 1951 to $131.60 a week in 1970, or an increase of over 228 per cent. In that same period food costs rose only 30 per cent.

MRS. ALAN WAYNE MURPHY

Couple United In Marriage

Miss Martha Carol Nanny and Alan Wayne Murphy were united in marriage at 7 p.m. Saturday in the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Young, 1506 Bell.

The Rev. J. D. Buchanan, uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony at an improvised altar before the fireplace. Decorations followed a Christmas motif. The fireplace was flanked by silver candleabra with white wedding tapers, and an arrangement of Christmas greenery graced the mantel.

Mrs. John Birdwell, pianist, provided wedding music.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Joe Murphy, 2004 Runnels, and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Gardeners Provide Decorations

Rosebud Garden Club members made Christmas decorations Tuesday morning at the YMCA, and in the afternoon, helped patients decorate Ward 3 at Big Spring State Hospital.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas and Mrs. Bill Edwards, while Mrs. Odell Womack was the presiding officer.

In commemoration of Arbor Day, Jan. 21, trees have been donated by club members, Mrs. Womack and Mrs. J. F. Sanders to be planted at Big Spring State Hospital. Mrs. Paul Malone is chairman of the planting committee.

The next club meeting will be Jan. 25 at the YMCA when the guest speaker will be Dr. Paul Koshi.

Use Of Convenience Foods Stressed By HD Speakers

Good nutrition and convenience foods were discussed in relation to family menus, budgets and health when county home demonstration clubs met during the past week.

COAHOMA CLUB
"Convenience" foods were discussed by Mrs. Ralph White, program leader when the Coahoma home demonstration club met Tuesday in the First Baptist Church. Mrs. Lowell Brown led prayer.

Using the quick and easily prepared foods, Mrs. White cooked and served a lunch consisting of oven baked chicken, green bean casserole, Dutch peach pie and hot rolls.

After lunch, club members exchanged gifts and spent the afternoon stuffing Christmas stockings for a kindergarten class at Coahoma School. Guests were Miss Sherry Mullin and Mrs. Donald Webb.

The next club meeting will be in January.

COLLEGE PARK HD CLUB
"Don't sacrifice good nutrition to save time or money," said Mrs. Gerald Miller in her talk concerning "Convenience Cookery" for College Park Home Demonstration Club Tuesday in the home of Mrs. F. L. Johns, 4020 Vicky.

"The health and well-being of your family are of utmost importance in meal preparation," continued Mrs. Miller. She illustrated some of the pre-mixed and frozen foods available that are nutritious and tasty, and emphasized that many good desserts are easily made.

Members exchanged gifts. Guests included Mrs. W. F. Baron, Mrs. J. F. Skalicky and Mrs. Douglas Hattenbach. The next meeting is at 9:30 a.m., Jan. 4 in the home of Mrs. Bobby Richardson, 611 Caylor.

ELBOW CLUB
The use of small appliances and pre-packaged foods were discussed by Mrs. Denver Yates and Mrs. Ray Anderson for Elbow Home Demonstration Club Thursday in the home of Mrs. Yates, Garden City Route. The women discussed convenience cookery and methods of preparing nutritious and tasty meals with a minimum of effort.

Mrs. L. Z. Rhodes demonstrated how to make sand candles by pouring melted candle wax into a mold formed in wet sand.

Mrs. Stewart Anderson presided, and members agreed to host a Christmas party for a unit at Big Spring Nursing Inn rather than have a club party. They will furnish fruit, candy and small items for patients on Unit 4 and visit with them from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m., Dec. 21.

Devotion was by Mrs. Yates who read the Christmas story from the Bible. The next meeting is at 9:30 a.m., Jan. 6 in the home of Mrs. Anderson, Sterling City Route.

Trash Compactor Reduces Waste

A new trash compactor has a compaction force of 3,000 pounds which the manufacturer says is 50 per cent more pressure than other compactors currently available.

The unit reduces approximately 25 pounds of trash, including cans, bottles and cartons, to about 25 per cent of its original volume. For the first time, the unit features a removable round bucket.

The manufacturer said this shape provides more readily for even distribution of compacted trash. Also: The resulting cylinder of compacted refuse fits easily into a standard 20-gallon garbage can.

A LOVELIER YOU Unexpected Luxury In Christmas Gifts

By MARY SUE MILLER
If you wish to please a lovely — the most — gift her with a bit of beauty razzle-dazzle. The unexpected! The off-beat! The super-luxurious! Cosmetic marts abound with delightful surprises for charmers of all ages. As witness these ideas:

—Conversation Piece. Pot d'Inceuse, a finely crafted golden incense burner topped with a majestic unicorn. An open gallery beneath the unicorn holds incense with a classic French fragrance. No need to sign the card, "Toujours moi." The gift is a constant reminder of you.

—Gift With A History. Eau de Parfum in a Louis XVI flacon recreated from a Collocation Royale. The extravagant concentrate leaves a silky sheen and lasting fragrance on the skin that could shake a femme's world.

—Beauty Game. Pick-Up Masques she mixes herself, according to her skin's needs. One mix sets up a nice tingle. Another zings up the effect. Either way, the complexion is brightened and tightened.

—Love's Blush. Powder blusher and natural hair brush in a slim cylinder. Works like a ballpoint pen.

—Artful Dodge. Swingertips, pre-shaped covers that press on the nails with the flip of a finger. Instant nail polish!

—Stuff of Beauty. Joy enters her private life with Foaming Milk Bath and Velours Skin Lotion.

Take it from there. Just open your mind to new ideas and gifts to cherish come a-wingin'.

Caps, Pins Displayed By Nurses

Caps and pins representing nursing schools attended by members of District 24, Texas Nurses Association, were displayed Wednesday evening during a dinner in the home of Mrs. E. P. Driver, Country Club Road.

Guests were Miss Mary Logan, Mrs. Mildred White, Mrs. Winston Wrinkle, Lt. Linda Broadwater, Lt. Nedra Vranish and Mrs. L. V. Hester, the latter of Lamesa.

Mrs. John Payne, who presided, announced that she and Miss Faye Wells will attend an advisory council meeting Feb. 24-25 in San Antonio. The meeting will focus on an examination of policies, programs and legislation in the interest of the TNA.

The next local meeting will be Jan. 2, 1972.

Home Mortgages

Since the end of World War II, the housing market has been one of the largest users of borrowed funds in the American economy. Mortgage loan credit for residential units rose from $34.8 billion in 1947 to $337.5 billion at the end of 1970.

HOLIDAY DANCE RESERVATIONS

Big Spring Country Club members are urged to make reservations now for the gala New Year's Eve dance slated at the club. The Red Raiders will play for dancing from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m., when breakfast will be served — including the traditional black-eyed peas for luck. The charge will be $5 per couple. Host and hostesses for the special event will be Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Snell, Mr. and Mrs. Rip Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davis.

San Angelo Cathedral Setting For Wedding

Marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Joyce Marie Mott and Lynn Dale Stanley at 3 p.m., Saturday in the Sacred Heart Cathedral in San Angelo. The Rev. Thomas Diab performed the ceremony at an altar decorated with white, gladioli and pink and purple mums. Candelabra entwined with foliage flanked the priest.

and Mrs. Eugene L. Mott of San Angelo and Mr. and Mrs. Nolan H. Stanley, 1730 Purdue. The bride was attired in a formal-length gown of white satin with a sheer overlay. The Empire bodice and scooped neckline were accented with lace, and matching lace circled the hem of the full skirt. The long sheer Bishop sleeves featured satin covered buttons on the cuffs. The gown was fashioned with a chapel-length train. The bride also wore a chapel-length veil accented with small seed pearls. She carried white roses highlighted with white satin streamers.

MRS. LYNN DALE STANLEY

ATTENDANTS
Miss Albina Holik served as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Cecilia Egan of San Antonio, Mrs. Dwayne Smith, Mrs. Marcus Stanley of Midland and Miss Kris Boubek of Big Spring.

The attendants all wore Empire style gowns of purple satin. The bodices were overlaid with a purple, pink and aqua flowered chiffon. Bands of satin roses held their short veils. Miss Holik carried two long-stemmed roses, and the other attendants carried a single rose.

Private James L. Redman of Odessa was best man, and groomsmen were Charlie Smith, Marcus Stanley, the bridegroom's brother, Steve Stanley of Big Spring and David Mott, the bride's brother. Serving as ushers were Edmund Binder, Charles Hamm, Larry Stanley and Roger Lloyd.

Kelly Stanley of Midland was flower girl, and ring bearer was Kurt Boubek of Big Spring. Altar boys were Michael Rychlik and Gary Jost.

A reception was held in the Crystal Room of the Cactus Hotel. A white satin cloth with scalloped edges covered the refreshment table which was centered with a tiered cake. A gold cross, white doves and roses topped the cake, and a lower tier held a miniature bride and bridegroom. Silver appointments were used.

Serving were Miss Donna Stanley, Mrs. Faye Boubek, Mrs. Robert Routt, Miss Nicki Eoff and Miss Judy Ann Halman.

SCHOOLS
Mrs. Stanley is a graduate of Wall High School and the Angelo State University nursing program. She is employed as a registered nurse at San Angelo Hospital. Stanley graduated from Coahoma High School and received a degree in business administration from Angelo State. He works at Vernon Center in Vernon.

TO MARRY — Mr. and Mrs. Wayne L. Zuck, Grandfield, Okla., formerly of Stanton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Laura Anne, to Bruce Douglas Stowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. William I. Stowers of Falls Church, Va. The couple, students at Abilene Christian College, will be married in the spring at the College Church of Christ, Abilene.

Study Club Members Play Sacred Music

"The Age of Sacred Music" was the program theme for Big Spring Music Study Club when it met Wednesday at the First United Methodist Church.

The Handbell Choir from the church presented a medley of Christmas carols, directed by Mrs. Joe Dawes. Mrs. Mike Skalicky, organist, played "Variation On A Noel" by Marcel Dupre and "La Nativite" by Olivier Messiaen. The club ensemble presented "O Holly Carol" and "O Wake and Sing, Good Christians", both arranged by Walter Ehret. Mrs. Dawes directed the group and Mrs. Charles Bell was accompanist.

Mrs. Clyde Cantrell was program leader, and the hymn of the month was "Silent Night." Following the program, members and guests went to the home of Mrs. G. R.

Robinson for refreshments. Mrs. Bob Simpson was cohostess. The next meeting is at 3 p.m., Jan. 12, 1972 in the home of Mrs. Rene Brown, No. 3 Highland Heather.

WWI Vets, Auxiliary At Dinner

Barracks 1474, Veterans of World War I and the Ladies Auxiliary met for a holiday dinner Thursday evening in the IOOF Hall where a program of Christmas music was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pesy, accompanied by Mrs. Leighton Mundt.

The guest register table was accented with a red candle arrangement, and a red punch service was placed on either end. The other tables were decorated with miniature trees, silver bells and holly. The hall featured a large Christmas tree, and a red-capped Santa Claus distributed gifts. Approximately 65 members and guests attended.

The next meeting will be Jan. 13, 1972.

Wrapped Waist Is 'Now' Fashion

The wrapped waist is an instant way to make a classic skirt and blouse or slacks and shirt look "now."

Last year designers were showing their spot collections with a "waist-tied scarf" and now it is a popular New York fashion. Wrap the scarf with the long point on one hip, cross the ends on the other side and bring back to the starting side and tie. The top will roll some but the effect is soft and natural.

Quotable Quotes

Some quotable quotes from women during the week: "I'm not going to give up. Things have got to work out. . . . Anybody who's had these troubles — they're bound to come to an end." — Mary Nugent, who has watched two children die from leukemia and has been told a third has the disease.

"The sad thing is that community property has become a joke. The only time a woman gets an equal share is if the marriage is terminated by death or divorce." — Actress Joyce Jillison, head of the newly formed Women's Equalization Committee.

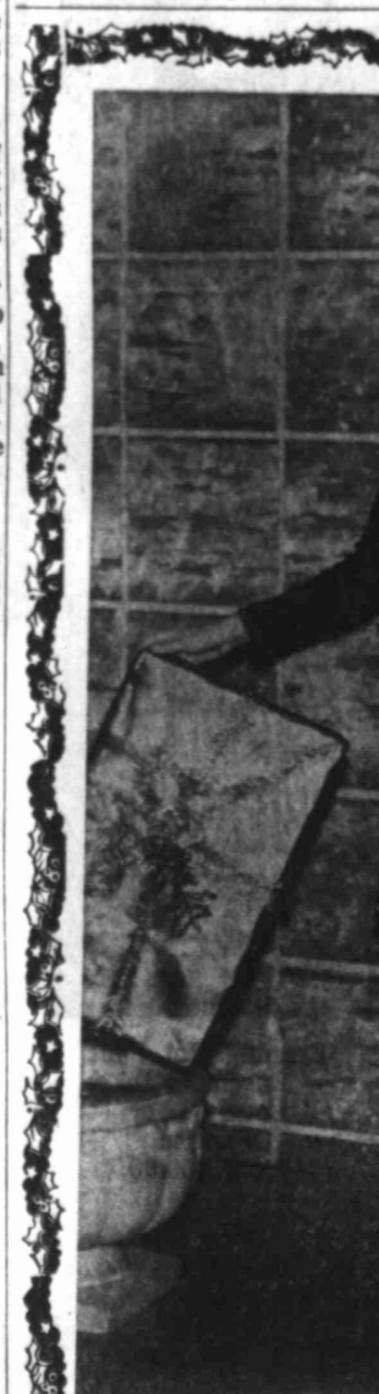

"There's a whole new phenomenon of the loyalty of women to criminals. But I wonder how true it is that girls like a bad kind of man. It's part of a self-destructive urge. The losers are usually nicer people. But a woman will go for a man who'll be nice, friendly, but not exciting, then some rat will come along and she'll fall for him." — Germaine Greer, author of "The Female Eunuch," in an interview.

"They don't understand power. God gave me a brain and I'm using it. A number of black brothers with their egos intact are moving behind me." — Congresswoman Shirley Chisolm, first black woman to run for president, replying to criticism that she deserted the cause because she had not supported another black woman for a powerful Democratic party job.

pediatrics instructor at Children's Hospital in Los Angeles, speaking of the increasing number of male nurses.

"We are not sure why the children have really decided that Santa Claus lives just in Finland. Perhaps it is a matter of exoteness. Finland is, after all, a Nordic, faraway country." — Liisa Jantunen, in charge of a letter-answering program at the Helsinki post office, which receives thousands of letters to Santa Claus every year.

By LINDA CROSS
Elected officials throughout the country are eyeing the "new voters" and are trying to predict how the 18 to 21-year-olds will vote in 1972 and the effect their votes will have. At Big Spring High School, there are approximately 400 students who will be eligible voters by November.

How these young people will vote is not an issue at Big Spring High School, but making sure that they will be eligible to vote has become the main concern of the BSHS Student Council.

Members of the Student Council who are 18 years old have been deputized by Mrs. Zarah L. Bednar, county tax assessor-collector, to enable them to accept voter registration applications from fellow students and assist them in filling out the forms.

Helping fellow students to insure their right to vote in the upcoming presidential, gubernatorial and local elections is the main, state-wide project of the Texas Student Council Association, of which the BSHS chapter is state president.

Sam Chappell, president of the local Student Council and TSCA, and other members of the state executive board adopted voter registration as their project, and student councils in high schools throughout the state will be working to insure that every high school student old enough to vote will be registered.

Locally, Student Council members will begin addressing students during advisory periods concerning voter registration regulations. Four student council officers and John Talmadge, assistant principal and director of Student affairs, all of whom have been deputized, will set up a registration booth where students can obtain the forms, gain assistance in filling out the forms, and return the forms to the booth to be forwarded to the tax office for approval.

Goal for the registration campaign is 10 per cent registration of all eligible students.

On the impact the youth vote might have on election issues, Talmadge said:

"I don't anticipate a youth-bloc vote. I work with these young people, and I think they're too independent to vote as a group. A lot of people forget that each 18-year-old is an individual, and just because the youth may be united on some issues does not mean that they will vote the same in all cases."

Talmadge added that he could see that the students' enthusiasm for registering and voting could carry over into their homes, and that they could spark their parents' interest in voting.

Students who have been deputized to staff the voter registration application service are Chappell, Kay McLaughlin and Denise Bryant. Ike Robb is also to be deputized to assist in the project.

Although the project is specifically aimed at their fellow students, the deputized council members are qualified to accept voter applications from anyone who might like to avail themselves of the service.

To date, 5,035 persons have registered in Howard County to vote. There are no separate figures available at this time to show how many students have registered. Since the passage of the federal constitutional amendment approving the youth vote, tax officers have not been required to keep separate listings of voters under 21.

In addition to the deputies at the high school, two Howard County Junior College students have been deputized to accept voter applications from other HCJC students. Larry Norris and John Storen have been deputized, and Norris has been accepting applications in the Student Senate office in the Student Union Building during activity periods on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Mrs. Bednar has deputized employees at the Big Spring State Hospital, Veterans Administration Hospital, Cosden Oil and Chemical Co., and at the plant office, Webb AFB Credit Union and at the offices of Local 826 of the International Union of Operating Engineers. In all, she has estimated that she has deputized 25 persons to assist in making voter registration more convenient for those who must work during the regular tax office courthouse hours.

During the past week, Mrs. Bednar has attended meetings of Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, Optimist, Civitans and American Business Club to explain voter registration regulations to club members, and to accept voter applications.

Voter applications are accepted in the tax office at the County Courthouse from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Registration forms can be mailed to the tax office, but mailing applicants are asked to read all directions on the forms carefully and to be sure that the applications are properly signed with the name of the registrant.

EAR BOGGLES

More Between England, U.S. Than Atlantic

By DAVID LANCASHERE

LONDON (AP) — "A lorry pranged the banger in the boot and I hadn't readies to get it out of the ricky, so do you fancy taking the tube to the cinema or stopping round to the local for a pint?"

That's the kind of overheard remark that can make an American tourist in London think something's gone wrong with his ears. It means, as any one who took English lessons before coming over here might be able to figure out:

"A truck smashed into the trunk of my car and I don't have the money to fix it, so do you want to take the subway to the movies or go to the neighborhood bar for a beer?"

George Bernard Shaw, the "My Fair Lady" playwright, once mused that what separated the United States from Britain wasn't the Atlantic Ocean, it was the English language. And he wasn't kidding — or taking the micky.

Now the British Council — the government agency that sends scholars to remote places like Dacca and Addis Ababa to teach the pristine tones of Oxford English to the natives — predicts in its annual report that English will be the most widely spoken language in the world by the end of the century.

Just listening to the different use of words by Americans and Englishmen, the ear boggles at what might happen once the language gets into the mouths of, say, Tibetans.

Slang, of course, which changes all the time, is bound to be different on opposite sides of the Atlantic. But even the most commonplace conversation reveals linguistic rifts wrought by American independence from the mother tongue.

A U.S. garbage can is an English dustbin. Sweets are candies. A chemist's shop is a drugstore, and a draper's shop is a dry goods store. Gasoline is petrol. An American buys things on installments, but an Englishman gets them on hire-purchase — often called the never-never plan.

The Americans often make words complicate — often called the never-never plan.

They have automobiles and we have cars. They have exterminating engineers and we still have rat catchers. We have lifts and they have elevators — I'm surprised they don't call them vertical personnel distributors.

Even pronunciation can be confusing. For yes, an American may say yeah or yup, while a classy Englishman might mutter something like earce, rhyming with pierce. An English "no" is often pronounced near.

Other English-speaking countries have chosen sides and stuck with them. Thus Canadian speech is virtually indistinguishable from the American next door, but Australians, New Zealanders and South Africans speak fairly pure English.

Americans began changing the language almost as soon as they got off the Mayflower," explains the British Council scholar. "They saw new things and met new conditions. And immigration into America brought all sorts of influences that changed the language. Negroes developed their own slang in the ghettos.

STANDARD BURIAL COSTS $25 TO $30

Midland SPCA Provides Cemetery For Pets

By BRIAN PEAY

MIDLAND — Pets are special to a lot of people, and to some they are important enough to give a formal burial in a cemetery for pets here.

More than 1,300 pets are buried in the Midland Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals cemetery, situated on a 4½-acre site a half mile north of the Midland Country Club.

About one quarter of the burials are from Odessa and others have been brought from Andrews, Big Spring, Lamesa, Monahans, San Angelo, Crane, Houston, and Jal and Hobbs, N.M.

Cost of the standard burial runs from $20 to $35, depending upon the size of the coffin required. The animal's burial sites are marked with small uniform headstones, with the pet's name, years of birth and death, and the owner's name.

Not only is there cemetery service for animals at the site, but also an animal shelter. Residing in the SPCA animal shelter are about 15 cats and 15 dogs at present.

Shelter facilities greatly limit the organization's ability to accept abandoned animals without overcrowding the existent shelter population. Every animal upon arrival receives standard immunization shots.

However many abandoned animals are injured prior to their arrival at the shelter, and in these instances the best of medical care is afforded the injured animals.

Services such as the above and normal maintenance costs necessitate that pets adopted from the shelter elicit a standard minimum donation. It is also requested that persons leaving stray animals make a minimum donation.

Resident animals are fed twice daily. Animal nutrition constitutes another major cost in the proper maintenance of the shelter facilities. The shelter and cemetery are run solely on donations from the public.

The Midland SPCA is a non-profit organization founded here in 1947 and was chartered by the State in 1948. It is affiliated with the American Humane Association and with the Texas Humane Federation.

The Midland SPCA operates the only pet cemetery and associated animal shelter in the West Texas area. Tax-deductible contributions in any amount entitle the donor to membership in the society.

Some long-range plans of the organization include: expansion of shelter facilities to permit the acceptance of an increased number of abandoned animals, construction of receiving pens for new arrivals, pet cemetery beautification, and a comprehensive humane education program in the area.

William T. Probandt is the president of the society and L. H. Humphrey is the cemetery chairman on the SPCA board of directors.

NEWEST HERO ASTRONAUT IS ALSO POET

Vonnegut Starts Normally But Quickly Moves Into Improbable

NEW YORK (AP) — Casual, with open-necked shirt and suspenders, Kurt Vonnegut had been pecking out a story on the typewriter in his Manhattan apartment as two cats played in the backyard garden.

"It's going to be a feature film for educational television," Vonnegut explained, pointing at the pages in and around the typewriter. "It'll run an hour and a half and deal with a space shot. The astronaut will be a poet named Stony Stevenson. We decided to fire a poet into space because he probably would have a bigger vocabulary than a regular astronaut and could describe things better. It's not a regular shot either because Stony gets fired through a time warp."

Which pretty well describes much of Vonnegut's six novels, short stories and plays — they usually start out normally but quickly move into the wildly imaginative improbable.

His tightly-wrought novel "Slaughterhouse Five," for example, deals, at the same time, with the blunt reality of the fire bombing of Dresden in World War II and the wild adventures in time and space of a "hero" named Billy Pilgrim. The novel — by a man who in the past "Hollywood never had anything to do with" — will be the second of Vonnegut's writing adapted for the screen. The first, "Happy Birthday, Wanda June," was adapted from the movies by Vonnegut from his Broadway play of the same name.

The 49-year-old Vonnegut, a cigarette often between his mustache-topped lips, makes no determined effort to explain his books or their rather recent popularity, especially among the youth set, after being regarded for a number of years as strictly a science-fiction writer.

"I don't consider myself a science-fiction writer," he says quietly. "That's just a literary ghetto area writers want to be in. Some writers enjoy being set apart by being called science-fiction writers. That's OK.

"But me, I'm just a novelist. The thing is in writing that there are ground rules and one of them that is hard to break is the idea that you can't be a serious novelist and include technology. The serious-minded writers have ignored technology because they don't know much about it. But you can't leave machinery out anymore. I don't know when the sounds of machinery are in your ears constantly. Me, the machine keeps company. I can't ignore it."

He continues, "The books of mine that are popular now I sold to the paperback houses for $3,000 when no one took me seriously."

"I didn't go after the youth market. I don't know why the kids read me. It's not for me to say. I never set out to please them. It's simply that the readers found me. The publishers react to sales figures and my sales figures are high. "George Orwell says somewhere that writers write books they can't find on the library shelves. That's what I've done. I had no market to write for, so I simply wrote."

Vonnegut served his time as a reporter and public relations man before turning to writing fulltime in 1950. However, the notes that he had to take time out occasionally to support his family, by teaching, a stint in an ad agency and a try at selling foreign cars.

Now he works at his writing every day. "Most of it's garbage," Vonnegut says candidly. "But that's OK. I'm patient. I don't think there's any great rush. I just get up in the morning and sit at the typewriter. Biologically the best time for me to write is from 9 to 12. In the afternoon I answer letters, go for walks, that sort of thing."

In addition to the television working on a movie script and a novel, he's had the idea for the novel for 15 years but says philosophically, "It takes me a long time to get a novel right. But there's no great rush to get the thing out. There are plenty of good novels to read while I get mine done."

He declines to discuss the novel because "I don't really know what is about. I'll find out by writing, and writing — by externalizing it on the typewriter."

He also doesn't care to talk too much about his life or ideas in 20 words." But, he adds, because "I can't tell my life 'there are things I believe' and one of them:

"I think a lot of the discontent people feel now comes from the fact that human beings are not supposed to live in solitude as much as they do or to move around as much as they do."

"For millions of years humans lived in stable societies, but now we are fragmented, and it's unbearable. Man was not meant to be that way. Humans are not used to this — so you get the situation where a man and his wife try to be an entire society to each other with gruesome results.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The air inside the Greyhound bus station is cold. Gray 25-cent lockers line some of the walls and people pop up and down in plastic contour seats as if they're playing musical chairs.

On one wall there's a baggage check counter and on the early shift you'll find Ernest Cahill there — he's been at Greyhound for 33 years.

"Yes, this place is like a keg of dynamite around 11 at night, all you have to do is light it," he said.

NAKED WOMAN

"I remember a long time ago a woman went right up those stairs over there to the ladies room and came back down as naked as she came into the world."

"Said she washed her clothes and hung them up there to dry." He laughed as if it happened yesterday.

Cahill, who is 62, remembers when the present terminal was built over a Catholic cemetery behind a convent. "The nuns used to live right over there in the parking lot," Cahill said pointing. "We came and watched them tear the building down."

CCC WORKER

Cahill came up to Baltimore from Martinsville, Va., with Roosevelt's Civilian Conservation Corps and has been at Greyhound ever since.

"Yes, some awful things happen around here — I'll tell you," Cahill glanced over the station, his eyes bright.

He talked about bomb scares, babies being delivered on buses, runaways and abandoned children. Prostitutes even worked on the buses parked in the garage, he said. A long time ago.

He remembers when the bus terminal changed from coal to oil to gas heaters. Now the station has an air conditioner that makes the place too cold. He says the cafeteria was segregated until about 1942 but "some soldiers home from the war broke that up."

"Yes," said the other old-timer baggage man, "time has changed and the terminal has changed, but the people sure haven't."

KIDS FREER

"But those kids," Cahill said. "They have a different outlook than we used to have. They're freer and they have more money. I'm glad I came up when I did, I couldn't cope with the environment now — too many things going on."

He said if he had gone to college and students were protesting and making him miss his studies, "I sure would have been mad! That might be my only chance to learn something — and all those kids messing it up for me."

As Cahill talked from behind the baggage check counter, people had come and gone complaining about their luggage not arriving on the buses with them. An angry woman had just turned to report to the station manager.

"That happens a hundred thousand times a day," Cahill said. "If I had to go somewhere, I'll grab myself a plane and to heck with the bus."

Cahill chuckled. "Yes," he said shaking his head, "we got some of everything come through here." Around 10, 11 and "after the bars let out on weekends" he says you can see anyone go parading by.

The Big Spring High School Meistersingers will hold a Christmas concert Dec. 16 at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The Meistersingers and the combined choirs of the high school choral department will sing selections including "Hodie Christus Natus Est," by Sweetinck, "Jubilant Song," by Delo Joto, "Drummer Boy," by Davis, "Christmas Contata," by Pinkham, and many others. The Meistersingers will be accompanied by a brass ensemble from the Steer Band.

The choir will also present the "Nutcracker Suite," by Tchaikovsky, arranged by Harry Simeone for voices, and "Twas The Night Before Christmas," by Simeone.

choir members or at the door. The prices are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Howard County Junior College is doing its best for music lovers this week, with a choir concert scheduled Monday night and a stage band concert at 9:45 a.m. Wednesday.

The concert is billed Monday night as a Christmas concert, but Ralph Dowden, head of the HCJC music department and choir director, said the concert will contain some Christmas music but no Christmas carols.

The program will be made up of five groups of songs, with an intermission after the first three. The first group is designated "sacred" and includes Renaissance and Baroque works as well as 20th

The third group includes the Christmas music. On the program are "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel," "A Spotless Rose," which will feature tenor soloist Roger Dixon, "Mary's Baby," and "Twelve Days of Christmas."

The second half of the program will be lighter in nature, with the fourth group comprised of five nursery rhymes and a choral selection from "Man Of LaMancha."

The last group contains a series of recent hit popular tunes, including "There's A Kind of Hush," "People Gotta Be Free," "Never, My Love," "Close To You," and "Oh, Happy Day," featuring soloist Clara Mae Taylor, an HCJC student from Colorado City.

Accompanists for the concert are Joann Allen, Sharon Cook, both of Big Spring, and Glenn Crosthwait, Colorado City.

The Museum of Texas Tech University will be open to the public Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. so visitors can enjoy holiday decorations.

The annual December Planetarium show, the "Star of Bethlehem," will be shown at 7:30 p.m. There is a small admission charge for the planetarium program.

The Texas Commission on Arts and Humanities has instituted new application procedures. A simplified preliminary application permits the applicant to write his ideas for a project, then utilize the staff of the commission to aid in further completion of the application. New advisory panels will work with the commission in the visual arts, music, theatre, dance, creative writing and humanities. Information on projects and guidelines can be had by writing to the commission at 818 Brown Building, Austin 78701.

The 13th annual Southwest regional auditions sponsored by the Metropolitan Opera National Council will be held at San Antonio at McAllister Auditorium at San Antonio College Feb. 10-12. Application blanks may be obtained from the Junior League, 819 Augusta, San Antonio 78215, and Jan. 20 is the deadline.

Opportunity For Council

The new Tax Council of Texas Cities, formed in October, got right down to its business with a meeting in Dallas Friday.

The council, made up of representatives from 34 cities, including San Antonio, will tackle the cities' toughest problem: money.

At the Dallas meeting, the Tax Council explored reform of city taxes, including new and more equitable means of raising revenue. The council, endorsed by the Texas Municipal League, will have an advisory board made up of experts on taxation, business, labor, the professions, public service and other fields.

With the concept of the property tax under fire in other states, the Tax Council hopes to act before suits are brought against city taxes.

Pooled efforts by Texas cities could result in a uniform tax code. The Texas Constitution says "taxation will be equal and uniform according to value." Yet tax valuations vary widely from city to city and even within the same city.

Ultimate goal of the council is a complete

Key To Better Prisons

Riots in American prisons have raised questions about the way some prisons are operated. The one certain statistic coming from prison studies is that the prisons are turning out more criminals at a rapidly-increasing rate.

That statistic affirms a certain conclusion: the system is a failure.

Attorney General John Mitchell has announced, at the first National Conference on Corrections, a three-step proposal to improve the system. First, training for prison staffing. That is fundamental. Prisons with continuing big problems simply are improperly staffed — not in numbers but in quality of training for staff.

Second, training for inmates. That includes new code for local taxation written by the Legislature. If the Tax Council achieves that, it will have served Texans well.

a certainty that a prisoner understands why he is in prison and the options he has in preparing for his eventual release. Then he has to have an opportunity to change his way of living.

Third, structures that are unsuitable for a successful rehabilitation program have to be replaced.

Texas has a long lead over most states in terms of progressive and successful prison operation. It lacks adequate prisoner-release preparation.

Nationally, more states have unsuitable prison systems than not. The National Conference can provide the blueprint and some other help. It will do its best job if it changes public and legislative attitudes about prisons.

Who Done It?

William F. Buckley Jr.

Last Monday, at Hackensack, N.J., at 6:45 p.m., Edgar Smith was released from prison as the American title-holder: longest sojourn in a death cell in the history of the United States. In order to effect his release, he played out the role assigned to him most dutifully. "Did you, on the night of March 4, 1957, pick up Victoria Zielinski?" "Yes, sir." "Did you kill her by yourself?" "Yes, sir." "Was there anyone else present?" "No, sir." That was Smith's part of the deal.

THE PRESIDING JUDGE, Morris Pashman, then performed his part of the bargain. Well, he told the crowded courtroom, now finally we have Smith's own admission that he killed the girl. . . . The case against Smith is "devastating." . . . Everyone now believes him to be guilty. . . . However, he has served more than 14 years in prison and his rehabilitation is impressive. . . . He has written two books, learned a great deal about the law, submitted to a psychiatric examination. . . . Under the circumstances, . . . I sentence him to 25-30 years in prison, and I suspend the balance of the sentence, and place Edgar Smith on probation.

The State of New Jersey was well pleased with itself.

In a way, it had a right to be. Smith had been convicted at a time when it was unanimously believed that he killed the girl. But there were doubters, stubborn doubters. Judge after judge turned down Smith's appeals, based on alleged irregularities in the procedures that brought him to trial. Every state court in New Jersey denied him, and twice he came within hours of execution.

THEN, FINALLY, the Supreme Court acted, a lower court heard the case, and the conviction was reversed. The State of New Jersey was given an ultimatum: either try Smith again within 60 days, or let him go free. In the jubilation felt that day by Smith's friends and supporters, we did not know that the worst agony was now programmed.

When the courts denied him bail pending the new trial he egged on his lawyers. "I want to know why we quit. I can take losing the ball; I cannot tolerate giving up, not trying, quitting."

But then the realities began to crowd in. Another trial. Before there could be a trial, there would have to be pre-trial motions. Was the indictment proper? Shouldn't they apply for a change in venue? Couldn't the state reintroduce the excluded statement — wrested from Smith, in the opinion of the federal courts, by the gray-flannel suit equivalent of the third degree — by introducing into evidence his book wherein he gave the contents of that statement? Did he really want to identify and call in as a witness his former wife, now happily remarried and living in a community where no one knows that she was once Mrs. Edgar Smith? And his daughter, months old at the time of the crime, who is unaware that her stepfather isn't actually her father? Who would raise the money for all of this? What if the jury proceeded to find the circumstantial case against him convincing, and convicted him of murder in the second degree? Was he prepared to run the risk, after all that effort, of another four years in solitary confinement?

A court of law is many things besides a truth-finding mechanism. It is a chamber in which subtle social and institutional conciliations are effected.

Well, he may not be in a mood for celebration. But I cannot believe that his struggle will be uncelebrated in the annals of the human spirit. And it is always possible that the man who really did it will one day identify himself. Meanwhile, Smith can stop fighting. The knock on his door won't be the executioner's.

President Signs Tax Cut Bill

By LINDAY RUBEY
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon signed a bill reducing taxes this past week and the House passed legislation to extend his economic control powers as the Pay Board and Price Commission took significant actions.

The Federal Reserve Board Friday approved another cut in the discount rate for four Federal Reserve banks, reducing it to 4 1/2 per cent from 4 3/4 per cent.

President Nixon signed a bill Friday cutting individual and business taxes by $15.8 billion over three years and called it an inflation-controlling measure that will create jobs and more purchasing power.

The House supported the President's request for a full extension of his economic control power through April 30, 1973, by passing legislation to that effect.

SOME STRINGS
Another provision of the bill would require retroactive payment of previously negotiated raises stopped by the 90-day wage-price freeze with certain qualifications.

The Pay Board approved a labor contract for railroad signalmen which called for raises of 46 per cent over 42 months beginning in January.

It was the second major wage contract approved by the board which exceeded its guidelines.

The commission gave U.S. Steel Corp. an average price increase of 3.6 per cent. However, the commission dismissed a product-by-product consideration for price hikes and said the company could increase some items more and some less as long as it maintain a 3.6 per cent average.

FLEXIBILITY
The commission explained its action was meant to give the company "flexibility" in pricing certain products. Industry observers said the ruling meant U.S. Steel could increase prices as much as 8 per cent or 9 per cent on certain key steel products. U.S. Steel had no immediate comment on its plan.

Two weeks ago U.S. Steel asked the commission for an 8.6 per cent price increase on certain products. Although never officially identified, they were believed to be sheet metal items.

The Week's Business

- Bill designed to save taxpayers $15.8 billion in three years.
- Federal Reserve orders another discount reduction.
- Both houses pass measures extending economic controls.
- Pay board grants rail signalmen hike over its guidelines.
- U.S. Steel held to 3.6 average gain; coal men unhappy.

In other actions this week the Price Commission approved a variety of coal price increases that in some cases were only about half of what the producers asked for.

"SHORT-SIGHTED"
The commission had warned the coal companies they wouldn't be allowed to pass on to customers all of their 15 per cent first year wage-and-benefit labor contract settlement approved by the Pay Board.

Carl E. Bagge, president of the National Coal Association, called the commission decision "short-sighted."

Bagge asked the commission to re-examine its decision and said if it didn't the ruling might be appealed through the courts.

to Pay Board guidelines. The differences on granting retroactive pay increases are among the issues that must be worked out by the conference committee, which is scheduled to meet Monday.

Also, the Senate version provides that a pay raise for federal civilian employees and the military go into effect Jan. 1, as originally scheduled, while the House bill contains no corresponding provision. Nixon had ordered it postponed six months to save an estimated $1 billion.

PRESS EXEMPT
The Senate version contains a specific exemption from wage and price controls for newspapers, press associations, broadcasters, and book and magazine publishers.

The House bill does not contain this provision, but does include a statement that the President, in using his control powers, is not to infringe on the freedom of speech guarantees of the First Amendment.

BOTH bills include provisions for a special federal court to hear appeals on price and pay decisions, and for consumers to sue.

Also, both bills would require the President to take measures stabilizing interest rates or make a formal finding that such action is not required. Nixon wanted only standby authority.

The Senate bill makes the standard reasonable conformity

China Question

Marquis Childs

HONG KONG — As the fantastic tale of intrigue and conspiracy unfolds, increasingly documented by statements published in China, two questions loom: (1) Who governs China today? (2) What are the chances for stability in the immediate future?

FIRST OF ALL, as the China watchers note, the purge that began in mid-September was limited. It was a Politburo purge confined to the highest level. Whether Lin Piao died in the carefully plotted plane crash in Outer Mongolia, whether he met his end in some other way, or whether he is still alive under house arrest is irrelevant.

The fact is he has been erased with the thoroughness of Communist practice in these matters. With him five military chiefs have vanished as completely as though they had never existed.

But since it was a limited purge, as contrasted with the cultural revolution which was planned chaos — with thousands if not hundreds of thousands destroyed or pushed out of authority — the basic governing force remains. This is a threefold force under a kind of regionalism or federalism, with considerable autonomy in the principal regions.

FIRST AND foremost is the army, with a role at almost every level of the nation's life. The purge at the top seems from this observation point to have made little difference at the working level. The army is a steady, directive force, indispensable to the rapid recovery from the havoc of the cultural revolution.

Second are the community organizations. They are varied — women's organizations, labor organizations — massive in numbers. Each village, each commune has such organizations that have a share in government.

The Communist cadres, as they have survived and been reconstituted since the cultural revolution, are the third force. More responsive to the central government they have a political as well as a practical governing function.

When it comes to individuals, one towers like a mountain peak above the Chinese mass. Premier Chou En-lai emerges as the undisputed victor in the power struggle. A recent American visitor to Peking, who sat through one of the five-hour-long banquets that Chou tenders, remarked on coming out that the Premier must be a figurehead. No one, he surmised, could direct China's complex and rapidly expanding foreign policy and have time for all the social activity he goes through with delegation after delegation arriving in Peking.

CHINA WATCHERS, however, documenting each step of Chou's amazing career, say this is absurd. He has the drive and energy of genius disciplined by the long march and the ruthless power struggles that preceded the triumph over Chiang Kailsh's forces in 1949 and that have recurred since. Needing only a few hours of sleep each night, Chou has work habits like Stalin's. He will summon a subordinate at two or three in the morning to come to his office for a conference or to produce an important document.

At 73, he seems as tireless as he was 20 years ago when he was flying to conferences in various parts of the world and, with Mao Tse-tung, consolidating the hold of the Communists over China's 700,000,000. What will happen when Mao, who is 77, and Chou leave the scene no one can predict, now that Mao's designated successor, Lin, has been eliminated. (Copyright, 1971, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

One Party Prospect

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The recent congressional fight over public financing of the presidential campaign has been resolved. Nothing will be changed for the upcoming election. This goes along with the Republican game plan for 1972.

THE STRATEGY was revealed to me by a relative of an official high in government circles.

"The Republicans," he told me, "will be the only ones on the ballot in 1972."

"How can you say that?" I asked. "I have it from my cousin who has been working on the GOP strategy for the last three years. This is what will take place next summer:

"THE DEMOCRATS are going to show up for their convention in Miami in July of next year. The polls will indicate Muskie slightly ahead, but McGovern, Jackson and Teddy Kennedy all will be in the running. If any of them throw their support to another candidate, the tide could be reversed."

"All right," I said.

"NOW EVERYONE, as I said, will be in Miami and suddenly a flunky in each candidate's suite will pick up a phone to order ice and soda water and glasses."

"Get on with it, for heaven's sakes!"
"The phones will be dead."
"What?"
"THE PHONES will be dead. No one at the Democratic convention will be able to make a telephone call."

"Why not?"
"Because," my informant replied. "The Democrats haven't paid their telephone bill."

"How much do they owe?"

"ONE MILLION, nine hundred thirty-three thousand dollars and twenty-five cents. The phone company will refuse to allow anyone in Miami Beach to make even so much as a room-service call until the entire bill is paid."

"But you can't have a political convention without room service," I cried.

"You bet your sweet Ay Tee and Tee you can't. And you can't have a political convention if deals can't be made on the phone and delegates can't keep in touch with their bosses, and the press has no way of reporting their news to the world. No telephones, no Democratic nominee in 72."

"WAIT A MINUTE. Are you trying to tell me that the phone company is going to decide if we have a one- or two-party system in this country?"

"Why not the phone company?" my man asked. "This nation was founded on one principle — and that is that everyone, regardless of race, creed, color or religion, must pay his telephone bill."

Great Scot, Donovan's A Pop

Q: I heard that Donovan and his bride are expecting a baby. Please tell me when this blessed rock event is to happen.—Marge Reed, Lehigh, Pa.

A: Time and stork wait for no man. The fine broth of a Scot is already handing out cigars. Wife Linda, 24, former girlfriend of the late Brian Jones, welcomed Astrella Celeste Leitch into the world Sept. 26 at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, L.A. Astrella weighed in at 6 pounds. Linda also has a 7-year-old son, Julian.

Q: Do you know or can you find out what the new sound called "Riff Rock" is all about?—Karen Jordan, Richmond, Va.

A: "Riff" is defined as a short rhythmic jazz figure, repeated without melodic development and also serving as a background of a solo improvisation. The rock group called Bull Angus, who recently made their New York debut at Madison Square Garden (on the bill with Rod Stewart), call their sound "Riff." (Or funky rock-jazz.) Explained group organizer Don Piccolo: "In a manner of speaking, we have a type of catwalk beat—undulating, syncopated, walk, you can picture it. It means, we want a mind-sticking, eye-popping excitement, both musically and visually."

Q: Are there any statistics on how an average girl (ahem) like myself spends her hard-earned allowance on rock records?—Jane Y., Fort Worth, Tex.

A: If you're a typical spin tariff, latest figures show that you're one of the nation's teen girls who's yet to slip her disks. The teen-boppers account for some 65 per cent of record sales and now spend $75 million a year on records, own 9 million phonographs and listen to them 86 million hours a week. Also, 65 million teen-boppers insist on single disks to her name and 30 albums.

Rock 'N' Revolution Chicago Album In Gigantic New Chicago Album

By ION CLEMENS
Pop Scene Comment

The new release by Chicago is not exactly an album — it's more like a kit.

The package includes EIGHT albums that's four LPs appeared last April in Carnegie Hall. Then there's a poster — just about life size and suitable for use as a room divider in a large warehouse.

And there's a photo album, 20 pages in full color. And there's a smaller poster, presumably in place enough to accommodate its large case your home is not large.

And, of yes, there's a four-page foldout. It contains complete information on how to register and vote in all of the 50 states. It tells when you have to register in the privacy, when since the System would like to make it easier, at least. That's the great idea — making it easier to register.

On the fourth side of this massive album, Chicago spells out their interest in change. "We've got to put up a fight, but a peaceful fight. Can't go around killing and more information in the various states. WHY THERE?"

The pamphlet is entitled "Return of the Power of the Vote." It begins by explaining what it's doing in the middle of a rock album in the first place.

"Last year, the System made a mistake. It gave 18-year-olds the right to vote. But the Chicago's new album is perhaps the least radical in a long series of band marriages between musical revolution, although he talks.

The Pink Floyd — arrived in the United States recently for a series of sell-out concerts that culminated in a standing-room-only evening at Carnegie Hall.

Unlike most other rock bands Pink Floyd's attraction is more than just musical. Carrying more than three tons of electronic equipment with them to each performance, the group has set new standards in personal electronic entertainment for the rock world.

Forme 1964, Pink Floyd consisted of four members: Syd Barrett, Roger Waters, Nick Mason and Rick Wright. From the outset, the group concentrated on the utilization of electronics. They brought their first light show to the attention of the British public, introduced a four-channel sound, and strove to create an atmosphere in which the audience at their concerts was totally surrounded and immersed in sound.

By 1968, Syd Barrett had left the group and their present lead from any direction amplified by four in England that was about their own version of reality.

'The Exit'

Big Spring High School has two student parking lots. During the day, the setting is quiet, and as tame as a Lawrence Welk jam session. However, when the final bell heralds the conclusion of another day, BANG! "The Exit" is present in all its chaotic glory.

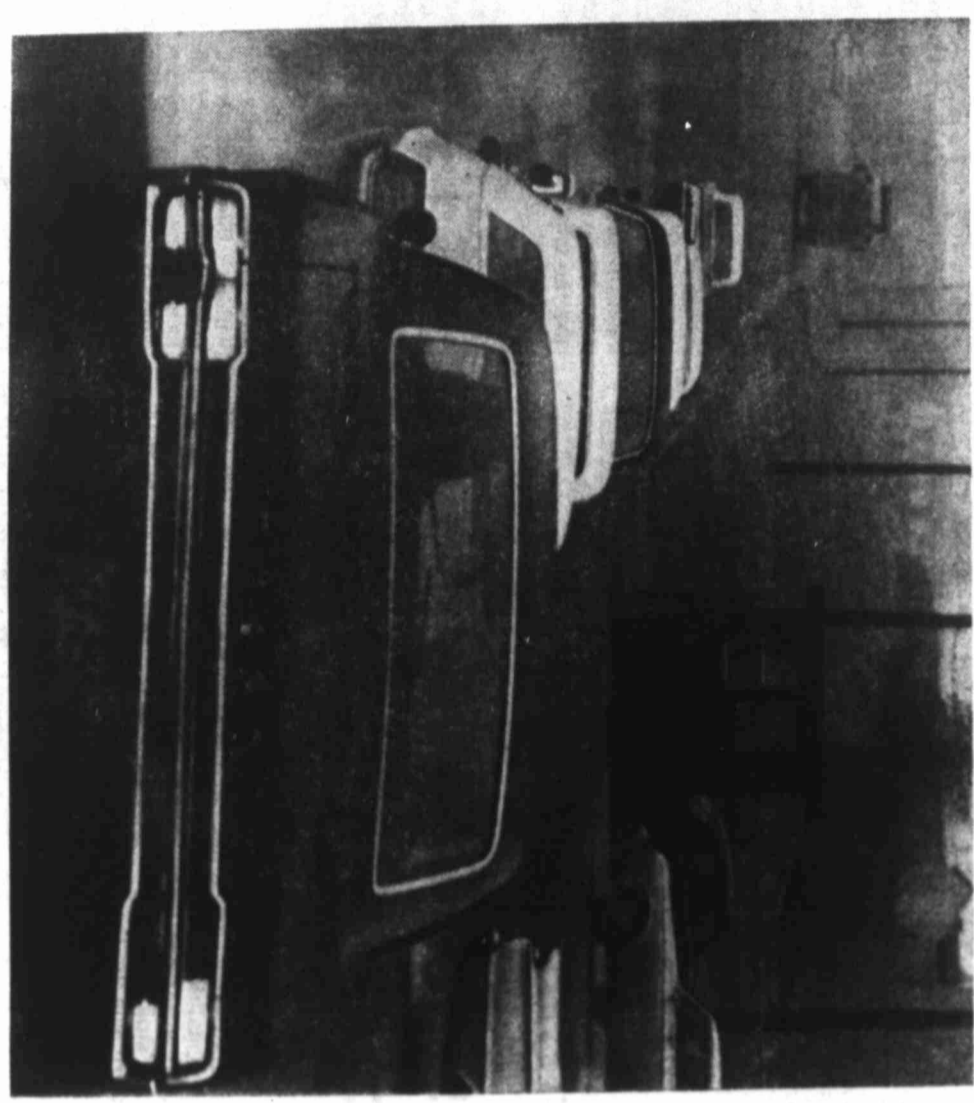

The bulk of the contents of the lots are ex- plained upon a section of Tenth Street between Gollard and State. To daily experience the for- bidding mingling of cars and school buses, is the accepted burden of the drivers who pick their way through the mess. Maybe they should be awarded campaign ribbons.

It must be noted that few accidents occur despite the conditions. This is certainly a credit to the student drivers who are often regarded as a "high risk" on the road.

He has been assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., for training in the aircraft equipment maintenance field. Airman Motley is a 1969 graduate of Odessa High School and attended Sul Ross College, Alpine, Tex. His father, William R. Motley, resides at 2009 N. Vine, Colorado City.

HURON J. MOTLEY

Airman Thomas C. Love, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Love of 1220 Eastover, Colorado City, has completed his U.S. Air Force basic training at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex. He has been assigned to Lowry AFB, Colo., for training in the communications electronics field. Airman Love is a 1971 graduate of Colorado High School.

THOMAS LOVE

U.S. Air Force Maj. Hal M. Knight Jr., son of Mrs. H. M. Knight, Sterling City, has been selected to participate in the Strategic Air Command's (SAC) elite Combat Competition at McCoy AFB, Fla., Dec. 12-17. Maj. Knight is a navigator on the KC-135 Stratotanker crew from the 97th Bomb Wing at Blytheville AFB, Ark. He was selected by his commander after careful screening of daily training records, readiness inspections and periodic tests.

Maj. Knight, who has completed five months duty in Southeast Asia, has received three awards of the Air Medal. He holds the aeronautical rating of senior navigator.

A 1954 graduate of Sterling High School, he received his BBA degree in 1958 from Texas Tech University where he was commissioned through the Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

The major is a member of Delta Sigma Pi.

His wife, Dolores, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer W. Hagerty of 1513 Pacewood Drive, Odessa.

HAL KNIGHT

Army Pvt. Toby J. Green, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chick Green, Route 1, Big Spring, recently completed an eight-week wheel vehicle mechanic course at the U.S. Army Training Center, Infantry, Ft. Polk, La.

During the course, he learned to perform organizational maintenance and assist in the repair of automotive vehicles and associated equipment. He became familiarized with the functioning of automotive wheel vehicle components, operating principles of internal combustion engines, fundamentals of fuel and electrical systems, and the use of test equipment.

Pvt. Green entered the Army in June of this year and completed basic training at Ft. Polk.

He is a 1970 graduate of Coahoma High School.

Redesignation Request Made

Commissioners will hear a request Monday in commissioners court that city land located south of 25th street in the Kentwood Addition be reverted to county acreage.

Ted O. Groehl is to present the request to commissioners at 10 a.m. According to County Judge A. G. Mitchell, the land involved is vacant lots between the street and South Mountain.

Marvin Hanson, acting road and bridge administrator, will confer with commissioners at 9 a.m.

Docket Call Set Thursday

Docket call for 59 cases in Howard County Court has been set for 10 a.m. Thursday in the county courtroom. Trials will begin Jan. 4, 1972.

Cases involve charges ranging from traffic violations to driving while intoxicated to assault with a motor vehicle.

Former Nun Joins Army

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — A 32-year-old former nun has joined the Army in Cheyenne and will become a first lieutenant early next year.

Explaining her decision to enlist in the Woman's Army Corps, Peggy Eda Karstoft of Rawlins said, "I've tried a little of everything in my life." Miss Karstoft will begin 18 weeks training at Ft. McClellan, Ala., in February.

She received a bachelors' degree from St. Mary's Xavier in Kansas and was a member of the Sisters of Charity order at Leavenworth, Kan., from 1960 to 1968.

Miss Karstoft said she decided to end her years as a nun because, "I couldn't make my own decisions."

"I don't want to be a hypocrite. There were things I couldn't agree with," she said.

Dope Fight Funds Okayed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Criminal Justice Council approved $192,000 in federal funds Friday to continue a crime and drug education program in Texas schools.

The council turned down the project, requested by the Texas Education Agency, at its November meeting because the legislature had failed to contribute to the program.

Twenty program coordinators in TEA regions around the state were shifted to other TEA jobs on Dec. 1 because federal grants totaling $577,000 had been used up.

Fritz Lanham, director of the Texas Department of Community Affairs told the council he was "convinced this is a worthwhile program" and that Gov. Preston Smith had agreed to include the program in his call for a special session of the legislature next year.

A bill by Rep. Joe Golman of Dallas that would have put $6 million in state money into the program over the next two years died in the House Rules Committee in the 1971 legislature.

Ring Game

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I recently became engaged to my boy friend who is 23. (I am 23.) When he gave me my ring, he asked me not to wear it in front of his parents or mine, or any relatives, because he hasn't told them yet. But he wants me to wear it to work every day.

One day after I got home from work, I forgot to take it off. Although my mother didn't notice, when my boy friend came over and saw me wearing it he was furious. Well, I took it off and haven't worn it since. (But he thinks I am still wearing it to work.)

Abby, I have been engaged for six months and I would like to wear my ring at all times and let everybody know, but for some reason my fiance doesn't feel that way. I know it's not that his parents or mine would object to it because my parents are fond of him and his parents seem to like me very much. I can't understand why the big secret.

I don't like being "engaged" secretly everywhere but at work. Can you figure out his angle?

ANNNOYED

DEAR ANNOYED: His angle seems to have several curves. He wants you to wear a "NO TRESPASSING, PRIVATE PROPERTY" sign at work, but he isn't man enough to let his parents (and yours) know that he has committed himself for marriage. In any case, he has a lot of growing up to do before he's mature enough to marry.

Tell him you're through playing games, and to either tell the world, or keep his ring.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I had a big fight which I would like you to settle.

We were talking about what we would do if the other one died. My husband said if I died, he would never marry again, because nobody in the world could ever take my place, so he would live alone, and be content with his memories.

I told him I would probably try to pick up the pieces and go on living as best I could, and if I ever met anyone as wonderful as he was, I might marry again.

Abby, he really got mad at me and said that my statement was proof that I didn't love him. What do you think?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: I think no one knows how he will handle a situation until it occurs. (I also hope your husband grows up before he dies.)

DEAR ABBY: You're sharp. Do you know of a legitimate tax loophole for a bachelor?

Tendonitis

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been treated twice with a series of hydrocortisone shots for tendonitis (inflammation of the tendon and sheath) but this gave only temporary relief. X-ray shows no bone problems or calcium deposits, so surgery is not indicated. Is there any other effective relief?

—Mrs. R.D.G.

Dear Doctor: I have had calcified tendonitis of the left shoulder for six months, but little improvement. —C.D.G.

Dear Doctor: How does one get these deposits? Is exercise harmful? Will it get worse if nothing is done to correct it?

—Mrs. M.L.B.

A tendon is the fibrous tissue at the end of a muscle, attaching the muscle to a bone. From some injury, or more particularly from some unaccustomed strain, the tendon (and the sheath through which it passes) become irritated and inflamed. That is tendonitis — simple to describe, not so simple to treat. In some instances, the bursa, or fluid-filled sac between the tendon and a bone, becomes irritated, too. That's bursitis. That also can be painful.

At the outset, there may be no calcium — indeed, there usually isn't. That comes later, as nature tries to heal the inflamed area by depositing calcium. This usually is a thick consistency of toothpaste. Then you call the trouble calcific tendonitis. The calcium shows up on X-ray.

Exercise isn't going to cure tendonitis. Quite the opposite. An essential part of treatment is to put the painful area at rest. Continued movement and strain will only make the inflammation worse.

Along with this, the application of heat, by any means you choose, is extremely helpful, both in alleviating the pain and in encouraging healing. Of course, simple pain-relieving medication is helpful, not only for the sake of easing the pain but in a secondary way by helping you relax and let the painful area rest. When it is hurting, it isn't easy to let it relax.

Hydrocortisone injections are a standard method of treatment. Sometimes a single injection does the trick; other times more may be necessary.

Still other times, the gooey calcium accumulation may have to be removed by irrigation of the area, by hollow needle, or occasionally by some more elaborate surgical procedure.

But keep in mind the basic condition: irritation and inflammation at the level of the tendons. You may be lucky enough so a single injection ends the trouble, but more often you will have to give the tender area adequate time to heal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it okay and safe to give a four-month-old baby raw eggs for breakfast? I have been giving my son a half egg yolk mixed with cereal since he was a month old.

I have stopped because of the pesticides that chickens may accidentally eat with their feed. Should I wait until he is older and give him cooked eggs? —Mrs. K.E.C.

The danger with raw egg is not so much pesticides as it is from infection from salmonella. This is not common but it can occur — the germ, if present, multiplies very rapidly in an egg. Better check with your pediatrician on this. Cooked is safer. Never use a cracked egg.

From 'Schultz' To 'Alice,' Fans Still Remember Her

NEW YORK (AP) — Television viewers with a few gray hairs see the face and think of her as Schultz.

Today's kids identify her as Alice, the Brady's housekeeper. She thinks of herself as Ann B. (for Bradford) Davis, actress, and a lucky one who has managed to keep working pretty steadily over the past 15 years.

Currently busy in ABC's "The Brady Bunch," Ann B. may privately mourn mildly that the official stars of the show are Robert Reed and Florence Henderson, who play the mother and father of a large family. She is well aware, however, of the advantages of playing a comedy sidekick.

"I learned that lesson during the five years playing Schultz in 'The Bob Cummings Show,'" she said. "I may have been in a supporting role in the series, but I would go out and play

Her television specialty ever since Schultz has been a variation of that perky, salty comedy character.

When one has a strong supporting role in a series, "you don't have a feeling of responsibility for its success and you don't have to do much worrying," she explained.

"You can work hard to make your part interesting, even when you haven't much more to say than 'the carriage awaits without.' If you can handle your part well, if you deliver, then the producer, director and the writers will give you better and better lines."

Some of her activities have been less than satisfying: there was a short period when she played a physical education teacher during the brief run of "The John Forsythe Show." He was a swinging bachelor who inherited a girls' school. Ann's part consisted mostly of running around blowing a whistle — it amused neither the actress nor the audience.

"Look, though, how very well secondary roles work when the writing is good and the relationships are solid," she said. "Valerie Harper in 'The Mary Tyler Moore Show,' and 'Rosemarie' in the old 'Dick Van Dyke Show.'"

Time was, Ann says, when a series that survived for three years had to be counted a success — and a bonanza for the performers.

VANISHING POINT
... Anthony James, Barry Newman

Auto 'Cowboy' Stars In Movie

A latter-day "cowboy" whose mounts are souped-up cars, but whose mile — the Far West — is the same as that of his 19th Century predecessors, is the protagonist of "Vanishing Point," which opens Wednesday at the Ritz.

Like the legendary cowboy, the hero, Barry Newman, is a loner, a man with his own peculiar sense of freedom. The life-style the cowpoke sought within the apparently limitless space that surrounded him, Newman as Kowalski seeks through the illusion of limitless speed.

The action in "Vanishing Point" encompasses the longest and, quite possibly, the most complex car chase ever put on film. The distance he is pursued from Denver to just over the California border line is, for Kowalski, the ultimate "trip."

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway is losing some of its highly touted cross-country clout, according to Thomas W. Mallow, prime packager of touring shows.

"Some places we serve even volunteered to help finance new properties better geared to their interest," Mallow says, noting a trend.

"The problem is that Broadway plays often no longer automatically suit theatrical tastes in the rest of the country. At the same time, local sponsors recognize the elat of that "straight-from-the-Great-White-Way" label. It's quite a dilemma to resolve."

Mallow's company, American Theater Productions, provides the comedies, musicals and occasional dramas which each year visit up to 300 cities, towns and colleges for a $3-million gross.

Indicative of growing resistance west of the Hudson to some Broadway wares, ATP found it necessary to cancel three of eight scheduled exhibits this season, the first time such a thing happened.

"There just weren't enough local sponsors interested to make a tour economically feasible," says Mallow of the apathy aimed at Brendan Behan's "Borstal Boy," the lavish musical, "Canterbury Tales" and "The Last Sweet Days of Isaac," a more experimental tuner.

"What makes that all particularly significant," adds Mallow, "is that the general market for stage shows is increasing."

"I had thought that the general economic situation indicated a slowdown this year, but practically every city is reporting increased subscriptions."

fee and occasionally ventures a percentage deal.

Local readiness to share costs is getting a pilot test currently with the Toledo, Ohio, Theater League underwriting ATP's production of "Butterflies Are Free," starring Jan Sterling. It's the biggest booking attraction with over 300 dates.

The other shows are "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," "The Me Nobody Knows," "Hair," "Carousel" and "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Since being founded in 1965, ATP has sent out 20 prior productions and claims now 85 per cent of the market available to "national touring companies."

Prisoner Wins Freedom Award

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union of Virginia will present its annual Bill of Rights award this year to a prisoner in the State Penitentiary, Leroy Mason.

Mason was cited for his part in the prison's work release program and his work as an associate producer of "Together," a community-oriented television show that is aired weekly by a Richmond station.

Ermel resigned to become vice-president and loan officer for the Seguin Bank and Trust in his hometown.

Ermel, a Texas graduate, was ticket manager six years at Texas before coming to North Texas in May, 1970.

'MAD HOUSEWIFE'
... stars Carrie Snodgrass

'Diary' Shows Pitfalls Of Modern Marriage

The drama of present day malaise, the disintegration of marriage and the fragmentation of the individual is forcefully brought to the screen in "Diary of a Mad Housewife," coming Wednesday to the Jet Theatre.

A trio of gifted stars — Richard Benjamin, Frank Langella and Carrie Snodgrass — forms the triangle.

Based on the best-selling novel by Sue Kaufman, "Diary of a Mad Housewife" is the contemporary story of a young husband, Benjamin, a self-centered and sickeningly status-conscious lawyer, and a young wife, Miss Snodgrass, who is driven to infidelity by his demands upon her. Langella, as a successful young author, becomes Miss Snodgrass' clandestine lover.

Benjamin is one of the few actors with the skill, authority and subtlety for the role of the husband who is so intent on the image he presents to the world, he drives his wife to extreme measures. He was rocked to stardom in his first film role with the release of "Goodbye, Columbus." Since then, he has gained additional acclaim for his role of Major Danby in "Catch-22." Several years ago, Benjamin attracted wide attention in the "He and She" television series in which he appeared opposite his wife, Paula Prentiss.

Langella, the pithy-speaking, successful novelist of the story who becomes Miss Snodgrass' lover, makes his film debut in the picture, though he completed Mel Brooks' "The Twelve Chairs," recently released nationwide. He has won two Obie awards; one for his performance in Robert Lowell's "The Old Glory," and the other for his portrayal in "The White Devil" and "Good Days" off-Broadway.

He recently was applauded for his role as young Will Shakespeare opposite Anne Bancroft in the Lincoln Center production, "A Cry of Players."
