FIREMEN COMBAT BLAZE AT 1012 W. THIRD ST.
Lou's Cafe suffered some damage

Blowtorch Not Way To Thaw Frozen Pipes

Betty Lou Altom, operator of Lou's Cafe, 1012 W. 3rd got more water than she bargained for this morning when two units of the Big Spring Fire Department doused a blaze in the roof of the building.

The cafe operator was trying to thaw out frozen water pipes in the building with a blowtorch, when the fire started, according to A. D. Meador, fire chief. No one was injured in the fire.

At approximately 11 a.m. today firemen were called to the scene, but brought the fire, which was spreading through the roof of the building, under control by 11:20 a.m.

Chief Meador said that the roof above Lou's Cafe was damaged heavily and contents inside the cafe were damaged by the excess of water. None of the other businesses in the building was damaged, and firemen said that smoke damage in the other stores would be slight.

W. E. Simmons is the owner of the building.

$400,000 Ransom Paid

MAZATLAN, Mexico (AP) — Millionaire banker Carlos J. Felton was released early today by his kidnapers after his family paid a $400,000 ransom.

The 73-year-old Felton, who has heart trouble and high blood pressure, arrived at his home at 1:30 a.m. hungry and tired but otherwise unharmed, ending an ordeal which began Dec. 24.

Five youths abducted Felton from his chauffeur-driven car Christmas Eve.

The banker's family said they had been contacted by the kidnapers through a letter received Dec. 31 which was signed by Felton.

His family paid the ransom in small, used bills which were left in a box and valise at a designated spot on one of the roads outside the city.

EITHER WAY, IT'S TRANSPORTATION — The car is undoubtedly the faster of the two, and more comfortable, but the contrast of these two forms of transportation in Peru, Ind., Tuesday, offered many comparisons. Imagine the cost of gas vs. oats, and a mechanic vs. the yearly blacksmith stop, for starters.

Muskie Begins His Bid For White House Spot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, coy no more, has begun his declared campaign for the White House, summoning Americans to "a new beginning" while a top Republican accused him of "bad-mouthing the United States."

The Maine Democrat formally announced his candidacy—obvious for a year—on $30,000 worth of nationwide television time Tuesday night.

"I am seeking the presidency not merely to change presidents, but to change the country," Muskie said in his 10-minute announcement. "I intend to lead—to ask you to make America what it was to Abraham Lincoln—the last best hope of mankind."

"Ultimately, of course, what is at stake is your future," he said. "I am not telling you that I can guarantee the best of all possible worlds. All I am asking is that we pledge a new beginning."

Muskie did not mention his Democratic rivals, and he said "it would be foolish to blame all the nation's ills on the present administration."

But he said if President Nixon's administration "had been candid with the country, if they had been straightforward, we could have done far more than we have."

Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole said Muskie seeks to win in 1972 by "stirring fear, exploiting divisiveness and condemning the good, all the while pretending that America's weaknesses and problems are President Nixon's and not his own."

Muskie recorded his announcement Monday at his chilly summer home in Kennebunk Beach, Maine. It was followed by a brief, televised appeal for campaign contributions, to help pay for a race that already has cost well over $1 million.

It is a campaign that has taken Muskie to 34 states since Labor Day as an unannounced contender.

Muskie has gained endorsements from some key party leaders, but his candidacy will face its crucial test in the primary elections ahead.

After a news conference today in Washington and a fund-raising dinner in New York tonight, he heads for New Hampshire to file candidacy for a March 7 leadoff primary in his native New England.

WALKS FOR DAYS, WADES SWAMPS

Girl Survives Airliner Crash

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A 17-year-old girl survived an airliner crash in the Peruvian jungle on Christmas Eve, wandered for days in the tropical rain forest, swam across flooded areas and waded through swamps, then built a raft that carried her to a woodcutters' camp.

Juliane Koepcke, the daughter of two noted German-born ornithologists, was brought to the jungle colony of Tournavista Tuesday by two woodcutters who found her semi-conscious, floating down the Pachitea river aboard the log and vine raft. From there she was flown to a U.S. missionary center at Pucallpa, 500 miles northeast of Lima, and reunited with her father.

Her mother is missing in the crash. Juliane's father, Dr. Hans Koepcke, and her mother had lived in Peru for more than 20 years and were the leading authorities on Peruvian birds.

The girl was reported suffering from hunger, exhaustion, cuts and bruises, but she seemed to be in fair shape. She had made many trips in the jungle with her parents, and the couple she lived with while attending high school in Lima.

She is the only known survivor of the 92 persons aboard an Electra turboprop that crashed 12 days ago on a flight from Lima to Pucallpa and Iquitos.

NO ONE LIVES
A search plane sighted the wreckage today at the headwaters of a jungle river. An official of the Air Ministry said that "apparently no survivors were sighted."

The plane was operated by a Peruvian airline, Lineas Aereas Nacionales, and five U.S. citizens from the missionary center at Pucallpa were among the passengers.

Amanda de Pina, a nurse at a medical post in Tournavista, said Juliane had only a partial memory of the crash and her harrowing 10-day trek through the jungle. She remembered looking out the window and seeing an engine afire, then the airliner lurched and she suddenly found herself flying through the air.

STILL STRAPPED
The next thing the girl remembered, the nurse said, was waking up amid the wreckage, still strapped to her seat and covered by the bodies of three or four other passengers.

Freeing herself from the seat and bodies, the terrified girl ran from the scene, stopping only to pick up a Christmas cake which she had been bringing to her father.

Suffering from a number of cuts, the girl walked for several days following a stream, sometimes swimming across flooded areas and wading through swamps.

The cake lasted three days. After that Juliane ate nothing, the nurse said.

Finally she arrived at the Pachitea River, a tributary of the Amazon. There the young survivor built a crude raft of logs tied together with vines and launched it into the current.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board was reported today to have vetoed its first labor contract by rejecting by a 9-5 vote a 12 per cent raise for aerospace workers.

TEACHER County's First Traffic Death

Claude Sanford Gibbs III, 48, a Brownfield school teacher, became Howard County's first traffic fatality in 1972 when he was crushed beneath his overturned car, Tuesday.

Gibbs' vehicle overturned at least twice, crushing Gibbs, after it may have struck ice on the highway and gone out of control, according to the investigating officer. The accident occurred at 4:45 p.m. Tuesday 6.6 miles north of Big Spring on U.S. 87.

Exact cause of the accident has not been determined because there were no witnesses to the accident.

Alert Ambulance took the body to River-Welch Funeral Home pending notification of the family. The accident was investigated by Jimmy Parks, Texas Highway Patrol, who said the car apparently skidded into the median and overturned.

Bridge Players Win; Column Is Restored

The women can lay down their cudgels and go back to trying to finesse the opposition. They've made their point.

Goren's Bridge Column is being restored to the Fun and Games section of the Daily Herald.

The popular column was suspended recently, perhaps if for no other reason than to see if anyone would notice.

From all indications, a lot of people did. One petition alone, protesting the decision to withdraw the articles, contained 32 names.

The column will reappear as a Herald feature again next week.

Cold Plentiful; Snow Missing

Cold, but no snow or ice is the report of Big Spring and area communities for the weather late Tuesday and early today.

The temperature at 8 a.m. was 8 degrees. With a wind speed of about five m.p.h., the chill factor is 4 degrees. The low was 5 degrees and the high Tuesday 25.

Area communities reported conditions similar to those in Big Spring.

One man was killed in a one car accident on the Lamesa highway late Tuesday afternoon.

WARMER

Fair and warmer this afternoon through Thursday. High today 45; low tonight 20; high tomorrow 55.

Deposits Show Gain OF ABOUT SIX PER CENT

Deposits Show Gain

Deposits jumped nearly six per cent, setting a new record, and total resources topped that figure for Howard County banks as of Dec. 31, 1971, according to figures in response to a call by the U.S. Comptroller and the Texas Banking Commissioner Wednesday.

Loans and discounts also were up by nearly six per cent, but cash was off. Bonds held by banks were up sharply.

The deposit total was $62,915,648, shattering all records and making the second time that the four banks had topped the $60,000,000 mark. This was in the face of a late cotton harvest that had barely got started by the time of the call. It will be reflected in the next call. The deposit gain over the corresponding call a year ago was $3,421,339.

Loans and discounts reached $29,227,941, also a record. These were up by $1,563,493 over a year ago.

Cash alone was down in amounting to $13,139,302, down $3,062,279, but as mentioned this

	Dec. 31, 1971	Dec. 31, 1970	Gain (Decrease)
Loans and Discounts	$29,227,941	$27,664,447	$1,563,493
Deposits	62,915,648	59,494,308	3,421,339
Cash	13,139,302	16,221,582	(3,082,279)
Total Resources	69,105,313	65,071,555	4,033,758

was offset by a much higher investment in bonds.

Total resources aggregated $69,105,313, which was up $4,033,758 from a year ago, and which also set a new record for this figure.

The four banks held a total of $25,331,338 in bonds and federal funds, up sharply from the $18,852,923 on the same date a year ago. The breakdown showed $5,333,538 in United States bonds, $15,997,800 in all other bonds (including county, municipal and agencies), plus $400,000 federal funds.

The breakdown by banks showed:

FIRST NATIONAL — Loans and discounts $15,825,087.52; deposits $33,592,743.42; cash $7,246,395.28; total resources $36,729,684. In addition the bank had $883,028.50 in U.S. bonds.

Caton To Pick Ballard Venire

District Judge R. W. Caton will be in Alpine Friday to choose a special venire for the Feb. 7 murder trial of Whitmer Jean Ballard, 45, accused in the shotgun slaying of Glasscock County rancher Steve Currie, 71.

Currie was killed by a blast Dec. 2, 1970, during a robbery of his ranch home. Three other men and one woman are also charged with murder in connection with Currie's death.

Orville Davis, 51, was sentenced Oct. 1, 1971, by a Midland County jury to life in prison for his part in the murder. Davis was tried in Midland after a round of venue changes from Glasscock County to Ballinger to Midland.

Ballard was to have been tried along with Davis but a defense motion approved by the prosecution from separation of the two defendants was granted by Judge Caton who presided at the trial. Caton will preside at Ballard's Alpine trial.

Following Davis' conviction in Midland, Ballard's attorney Bobby Bearden, Midland, petitioned for a venue change, and the Alpine site was chosen.

Judy Dunham, 23, the woman charged in the case, was granted immunity from prosecution in return for her testimony against the other defendants.

Benjamin Thomas Tisdale, 46, also charged, is slated for trial in 31st District Court San Angelo sometime after completion of Ballard's trial.

Floyd Palmer, 46, fourth male suspect in the case, remains at large.

Lawyer Charged With Murder Still Missing

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Lawyer Stephen Bingham, charged with murder in a bloody outbreak at San Quentin Prison last August, has vanished so completely that the district attorney says, "There's a good possibility he's dead."

The FBI and Marin County authorities say they have chased dozens of leads across the nation, from a New York airport to a Yosemite Park campground.

'IT'S WEIRD'
Results: "Zero," says Dist. Atty. Bruce Bales.

"There hasn't been a single shred of physical evidence that he is even alive or dead. Nothing. It's weird," Bales said in an interview Tuesday.

Bingham, 29, a Yale-educated grandson of a former Connecticut governor and son of a well-to-do Salem, Conn., family, disappeared just after 6 p.m. last Aug. 21.

About 2 p.m. that day, the state contends, he smuggled a 9-millimeter automatic pistol to convict George Jackson during a visit at San Quentin.

Less than 40 minutes after Bingham left the prison, Jackson and five other men were dead.

Guards shot Jackson, one of the "Soledad Brothers," saying he was trying to escape over a wall. In and near Jackson's cell were found the bodies of three guards and two inmates. Six convicts face murder charges in these deaths.

Bingham is accused as an accomplice and is charged with five counts of murder.

FOUL PLAY

When the young attorney's picture was on page one of newspapers across the nation, Bales said, dozens of people telephoned with possible leads. "With all this publicity, if he were around ... there was a good likelihood of finding him then," says Bales.

"The longer he stays away without words to his friends or family, the more this (Bingham's death) is a possibility," he said.

Bingham has been reported seen riding in a car through mountainous camp areas at Yosemite National Park, in a private plane near Portland, Ore., at New York's Kennedy airport, in Chicago and dozens of other places, Bales said.

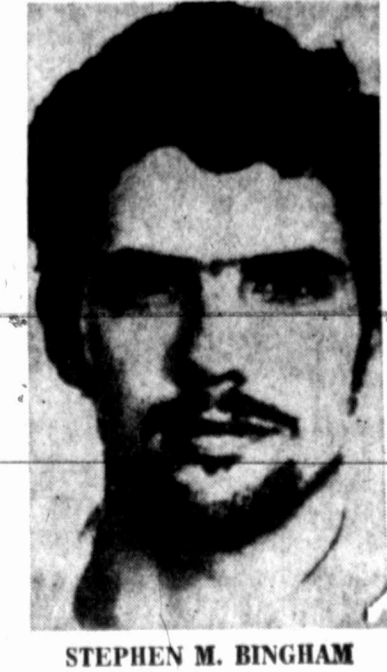

Nothing. And now Bales says the calls don't come any more. Bingham's father feared at the outset his son was a victim of foul play or "held by those who do not want him to be free."

"There is no reason to judge he is guilty because he has not come forward," says the father.

His son was last seen leaving a Berkeley Hills commune about 6 p.m., the night of the killings.

How could a man vanish? Is he alive? If not, who may have killed him and why? Bales admits there are dozens of questions, then added:

"At this point, your guess is as good as mine."

Charges Filed After Affray

Charges of affray and disorderly conduct have been filed in city court against Wayne Tollett, special investigator for the District Attorney, and Paul Limer in connection with two disturbances at the Cosden Country Club New Year's Eve party, sponsored by the Big Spring Jaycees.

The complaint was filed on the city corporation court docket Tuesday afternoon.

On-duty officers at the dance last Friday night requested the assistance of two patrol cars at two different times. The first disturbance was settled at 10:59 p.m. Another fight at 11:27 p.m. was quelled by police.

According to police reports, Tollett and Limer were involved in the first incident. Limer was later hospitalized with a broken nose.

Then police were called again to settle the second affray, which reportedly involved Tollett and two other men at the dance.

"Starting with this case, in the future, persons who are caught fighting, will be filed on, and the judge will decide the outcome of their argument," said Vance Chisum, police chief, as he explained the directive, on which he and the city manager, Harry Nagel, agreed.

When asked about the incident, District Attorney Wayne Burns said, "I have no comment to make."

COMMENDATIONS AWARDED VA EMPLOYEES

Three VA Employees To Get Awards

Commendations were to be awarded at 2 p.m. today to two Big Spring Veterans Administration employees who participated in rescuing three children from a burning car Dec. 15.

Faustino T. (Frosty) Aguilar was presented a commendation by Bill Brooks, chief, personnel division, for "heroism above and beyond the call of duty in that in the peril of his own life, he opened the door of an automobile completely engulfed in flames and saved the life of three children who were trapped in the car.

Aguilar also comforted the mother of the children and probably saved her life by restraining her from entering the car to attempt to save a fourth child," said the commendation.

Agular is in the Dietetics Service at the hospital.

Victor B. Wrye, in the Medical Administration Service, was presented a commendation for attempting to extinguish the flames in a car completely engulfed in fire, and for saving the life of a child who was dangerously close to the car.

"Wrye also attempted to rescue another child who was trapped in the burning vehicle. His action in fighting the flames probably kept the gas tank from exploding and causing considerable damage and suffering to those surrounding the car," said the commendation.

Voluntary contributions of $162.87 from hospital employees were given to Mrs. Douglas Bailey, whose child died in the fire.

Zoning Board Okays Change

Planning and Zoning board members were reluctant to approve a requested zone change, for the purpose of expanding Medical Center Memorial Hospital, Tuesday night, but finally gave approval on a split vote of 4-2.

Board members Sidney Clark, Ben Bancroft, Hudson Landers, and Elmo Phillips voted in favor of the request, while Omar Jones and Novis Womack withheld their approval.

The request was for a zone change from "R," Retail, to "CA," Central Area, on all of Block 63 and 72, Original Town. The dissenting members were reluctant to approve the request because the hospital does not own title to lot 1, Block, 63, and the members were wary of the complications involved.

However, a dual request also made by Dr. P. W. Malone, representing the Malone and Hogan Board of Directors, was approved by all the members of the city board.

It was for a zone change from "R," Retail, to "CA," Central Area, also on the West half of Block 81, Original Town, for the purpose of expanding Malone and Hogan Clinic.

Members of the hospital board were present in the meeting to support the requested zone changes.

In other business, the city board denied another zone change request, made by Warda Nickle, from "SF-2," Single Family Dwelling, to "NS," Neighborhood Service, on Lot 1, Block 7, Hall Addition, (1601 E. 5th).

Planning board members said that already there are too many beauty shops in the area, and Mrs. Nickle's requested zone change to build an additional shop would be overloading the area.

All decisions made by the board will be presented to the city commission for final approval.

Captures Marshal, Woman, Robs Bank, Burns House

WILLOW, Okla. (AP) — A gunman captured the town marshal, a woman bank officer and her husband during the night, forced them to help him rob the bank, then locked them in the woman's home and burned it to the ground, officials said.

The marshal and the man and wife broke down the door of the closet in the burning home where the gunman had locked them and escaped unharmed.

Bank president Lester Snow of nearby Mangum said the holdup man was unable to break into the bank safe. But the man did escape with about $350, mostly in silver from the vault, the highway patrol said.

He was armed with a sawed-off .410 shotgun when he captured Marshal Robert Watson and then took several other weapons from the marshal.

Willow is a community of about 200 persons in Greer County in southwestern Oklahoma.

The marshal was hauled off to the rural home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley J. Underwood, the bank president said. Mrs. Underwood is vice president of the bank.

The marshal said the Underwood home was destroyed.

Gives Up His Gun For Bible

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An Arkansas state trooper for 25 years has given up his revolver for a Bible.

Lt. Guy J. Downing retired from the state police and took the robe symbolic of his place as a minister in the United Methodist Church in a ceremony at state police headquarters.

"I've carried this gun as a policeman for 25 years to help people and keep the peace," Downing said. "Now God has called me to change to the ministry."

The robe was placed on Downing's shoulders by Bishop Paul V. Galloway of the United Methodist Church in Arkansas.

Downing plans to study at Southern Methodist University to become ordained.

SNOW MISSING

Highway Patrol reports said ice may have contributed to the accident.

Water pipes in some areas were frozen, and some remained still frozen from the wintery weather Monday. One attempt to defrost water lines resulted in a fire late this morning.

City firemen were also called to a reported fire at 1502 11th Place Tuesday evening. They reported however, that there was no fire and some electric lines were down, possibly caused by the weather.

Later reports showed that a transformer had exploded, but no damage was done to surrounding residences.

More Police Officers Die In '71 In Line Of Duty

During 1971, 125 local, county and state law enforcement officers were killed in the line of duty as compared with a total of 100 officers slain during 1970, according to information received here from the FBI through the uniform crime reporting program.

In December alone, 13 law officers were killed due to felonious criminal action. Only nine were slain during the same month in 1970.

The FBI reported that by geographical region, 48 officers were murdered in southern states, 28 in north central states, 26 in northeastern states, and 23 in western states in the nation.

Twenty officers died as a result of ambush-type attacks; 24 were killed responding to robbery calls, seven of which were of the silent alarm type; and seven policemen were slain answering burglary calls.

Also, according to year-end information, 20 died when making routine traffic stops, nine while handling disturbance matters, seven were murdered by mentally deranged persons, 22 while attempting arrests for crimes other than robbery and burglary, and seven met death at the hands of the prisoners they were dealing with, while nine were killed investigating suspicious persons or circumstances.

Reports from Inspector J. J. Daut, of the uniform crime reporting section, national crime information center, show that 96 per cent of officer killings in 1971 were committed with firearms. Hand guns were used in 74 per cent of the slayings.

Dave Brazel Is Named Democratic Chieftain

Naming of Democratic precinct chairman is the first order of business for D. A. Brazel, named Howard County Democratic Party chairman Monday night.

County demos will meet Jan. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the Howard County Courtroom to select precinct chairman for those precincts not now represented on the Democratic executive committee.

"I hope people will turn out to help us fill those vacancies so that we can make a good showing in the elections," said Brazel. He added that he hoped people from the precincts will attend the Jan. 20 meeting to offer suggestions for precinct chairmen.

"I appreciate their confidence in me in naming me county chairman, although I have no previous experience in this sort of thing," said Brazel.

Brazel has been active in the local party organization since moving to Big Spring in 1951 and an active Democrat since the age of 21, said Brazel. He is retired, having served as a district official for IVOE.

Mrs. Lay, 87, Dies Suddenly

Mrs. Elmer (Edna) Lay, 87, was dead on arrival at a local hospital at 4 p.m., Tuesday. She had been in failing health for about a year.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Officiating will be Rev. Ray A. Elmore, First United Methodist Church, Coahoma, assisted by Rev. Guy White, First Baptist Church, Coahoma. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Mrs. Lay was born April 4, 1884, in Mason County. She married Elmer Lay Nov. 6, 1901, in Fredonia, Texas, and came from Mason to Howard County in 1916. She had lived in the Salem community since 1923.

Radiation Leakage

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A leaky package of radio-active medical isotopes contaminated a Delta Air Lines jetliner which then spread the radioactivity to airports in five states last weekend. Atomic Energy Commission officials say there is no apparent health hazard.

"We're systematically going about proving what we think is the case — that no one was hurt by it," said G. H. Giboney, scientist in the AEC's Savannah River operations office in Aiken, S. C.

Delta officials in Atlanta reported that the leakage occurred Friday in a shipment of 80 curies of molybdenum being flown from Kennedy Airport in New York to Houston, Tex. A curie is a measure of radioactive matter.

The same plane, a 96-passenger Convair 880, then made eight more passenger flights with stops in five states before the contamination was detected and the plane was withdrawn from service for decontamination.

John Davis, director of the AEC office in Atlanta, said that while some radiation seeped from the baggage area, the passenger compartment was "basically clean."

The level of contamination measured in the luggage compartment was not much more than would be found in a physician's X-ray room, Giboney said.

The subsequent passenger flights made by the contaminated plane, on Saturday and Sunday, included stops in Miami, Tampa, Fla., West Palm Beach, Fla., Atlanta, Dayton, Ohio, Columbus, Ohio, Louisville, Ky., and Chicago.

HE WAS TOO BIG FOR THE CANNON

LEICESTER, England (AP) — Steve Smith made his first and last flight as a human cannonball Monday. He was too big for the cannon.

Showman Joe Weston had hired the 210-pound, 22-year-old stunt man to be shot from his new 16-foot cannon. Wearing goggles and helmet, Smith climbed into the gun for a tryout in a gravel pit. A one-pound charge of gelignite was set off.

Smith took off and so did half the cannon barrel. Both landed 10 feet away in a pool of water. The other half of the gun backfired, wrecking the truck that was its launching pad.

"Never again," said Smith, wading ashore. "It's the last time I travel that way."

"He's too heavy," said Webb. "He should have flown 60 feet."

It's going to cost Webb $260 to repair the cannon.

$1.5 Million Aspirin Suit

DETROIT (AP) — A $1.5-million suit has been filed in U.S. District Court charging the makers of Bayer Aspirin, the American Medical Association-AMA and the American Broadcasting Co. with conspiring to deceive the public with false advertising claims.

Also named as defendants were Detroit television station WXYZ and an unidentified advertising agency.

The AMA is charged with publishing false claims that Bayer Aspirin is superior to other, less expensive brands of aspirin.

The class action suit was filed on behalf of all aspirin users by attorney John Toomey of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Local Stores Complying With State 'Blue Laws'

No opposition from local stores to the "blue laws" which have been put into effect in Howard County are anticipated by County Attorney Bill Eysen, who announced some weeks ago that he would seek punitive action against stores violating the closing laws after Jan. 1.

Eysen said that Cook's Discount Store was granted permission to remain open Sunday, Jan. 2, because a special sales promotion had been planned prior to the announcement that the closing or blue laws would be enforced.

"Cook's attorney contacted me requesting permission for the store to remain open, and after checking with other stores such as Gibson's Discount Store and T. G. & Y. Family Centers to see if they had any objections to the dispensation, I allowed Cook's to remain open," said Eysen.

Eysen added that the attorney for Cook's had assured him that the store would comply with the law in the future. In actuality, Cook's would not be in violation of the law by remaining open Sunday, but only if the store was open for seven consecutive days this week.

Only groceries and pharmaceutical items may be sold seven consecutive days. According to Eysen, stores may not sell appliances, clothing and similar items seven days a week. Stores must either cease to sell the items on either Saturday or Sunday or close completely on one of the days.

"Stores have already requested lists of items which are covered in the blue laws," said Eysen, "and I think all the stores intend to cooperate."

Body Of Woman Found In Gravel Pit Identified

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The body of a woman found floating in a gravel pit here Sunday has been identified by relatives as Sheila O. Gocher, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gocher.

The woman's brother, Mark Anthony Gocher, 16, and a cousin, Shirley Marie Lawson, called police headquarters about 6:30 p.m. Monday after hearing news reports concerning the dead woman.

A passerby found the body about 1 p.m. Sunday in a shallow water in the pit 1 far East Fort Worth.

She had been stabbed more than 90 times, said B. R. Young, Tarrant County medical investigator.

The brother said it was unusual for his sister to be away from home for a long period. He said he last saw her alive Saturday at the home.

Police said later Monday night they were seeking leads in connection with the death.

Dallas Legislators Unresponsive To Problems Of Black Community?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Dallas County's state representatives are insensitive to the problems of their black constituents, two Negro officeholders from Dallas have told a three-judge federal court.

Both officials blamed the system of multi-member, countywide house districts for urban areas and urged the court to require single-member neighborhood districts.

"I would have to rate the delegation low in meeting the major concerns of the black community," Rep. Zan W. Holmes testified.

"Is the Dallas delegation responsive to the interests of the black community?" attorney Walter Irvin asked Dallas school board member Emmett Conrad.

PAYING RESPECTS
"Most definitely not. I feel many of them are not responsive at all to the black community—nor to the economically deprived," Conrad, a surgeon, answered.

Dallas County Democratic Chairman Earl Luna, cross-examining Holmes, asked whether he felt the fact that he had no opponent in the 1970 primary indicated lack of discrimination against blacks.

"No, Mr. Luna... it might have been Dallas paying its respects to its token black," said Holmes, the city's only black legislator.

FOUR SUITS

Conrad, Holmes, Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas, University of Texas government Prof. Clifton McCleskey and Dallas Democratic party worker Daniel Weiser all said single-member districts would cause more blacks to be elected to the "Texas House."

Tuesday was the second day of testimony on four consolidated suits to knock out the house and senate reapportionment plans enacted last year by the Legislative Redistricting Board.

Circuit Judge Irving Goldberg of Dallas piqued the curiosity of spectators by asking McCleskey and Mauzy what criteria should be followed in drawing a single-member district.

Mauzy said districts should have equal population, be as "compact and contiguous as possible" and "wherever possible, recognize a community of economic interests."

Goldberg asked Holmes whether he thought blacks would be adequately represented under a multi-member plan with a requirement that lawmakers live in various parts of the county.

"Just because a person lives in a community doesn't mean he necessarily has the best interests of that community at heart," Holmes replied.

Mauzy, Holmes and other witnesses also testified that the multi-member, countywide districts force house candidates to seek endorsements and funds from large campaign organizations.

All singled out the democratic Committee for Responsible Government as the organization to court.

POSITIVE

Holmes said he was "as positive as I can be I could not have been elected if I had not been on the (DCRG) slate."

Interest Doubles In Decade

As President Nixon prepares his budget requests for next year for presentation to the Congress, an interesting item will appear.

It will be the borrowing item. For the year just ended, everytime the government borrowed a nickel, it paid back eight cents.

Next year the government will borrow about $25 billion, if current plans are carried out. American taxpayers will repay that $25 billion, along with the $407 billion federal debt and the $19.4 billion of interest being paid in fiscal 1971 — plus compounded interest for refinancing much of the debt during the year — an infinitesimal because there is no plan to reduce the debt nor to reduce borrowing.

The federal debt currently amounts to 40.2 per cent of the yearly Gross National Product. One encouraging statistic is that the public continues to have enormous confidence in government notes since 29.9 per cent of the total debt is held by the public. The confidence is backed by fairly good interest rates for short-term loans, incidentally.

The debt and the interest paid on it each year are well within the American capacity to pay but that really is beside the point. No big operation functions in America without credit and debt but to have to continue to add to every year's budget an extra 10 per cent for borrowing is a losing arrangement, particularly when a part of the 10 per cent is for refinancing, and the rest of it helps fan inflation by supporting higher spending without compensating.

The thing that keeps the debt condition from seeming so appalling is that the GNP keeps rising so that the debt is a smaller portion of the GNP than it was three years ago and it keeps shrinking in those terms. But the dollar figure climbs dramatically.

The critical figure is what the debt costs taxpayers. Interest costs have more than doubled in the decade, from $8,108 in 1961 to $19,687 billion in 1972 (estimated). That's a jump with a jolt.

Thanks For A Good Job

Chalk up one for good public servants who helped our people get through a bad spell of weather more safely and conveniently.

Long before most people were even rousing from their sleep long enough to dread the thought of getting up in biting cold, members of the street department crews were on trucks, sprinkling sand and gravel on particularly hazardous spots, and on the key arteries.

Police, too, were doing a fine job in handling emergencies, assisting stalled motorists and in directing street crews to trouble spots. These people deserve a special vote of thanks.

Historic Blue Darter

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

When we have a blue-darter such as hit us Monday evening, we are inclined to compare this with our coldest spells.

The 13 degrees Tuesday and 5 degrees Wednesday morning was fresh enough, but hardly to be compared with other frigid blasts within the past two decades. These were not in the same league with our record which occurred nearly 40 years ago.

ON JAN. 22, 1966, the mercury dipped to four degrees above and was six the next morning. For the next 13 successive days, we had minimums below freezing, most of them well below 20. Three years before we had six degrees on Jan. 12 and 13, followed by minimums of nine, then a pair of 12s. Our second coldest spell zipped in Jan. 10, 1962, with a reading of six degrees, followed by five below zero the next morning and again on the 12th and only six above on the 13th. When it was over, pipes split like pop corn.

THE 1950s produced some notable cold spells. Jan. 4-5 each had five degrees, followed by nine degrees the third day. The mercury dipped to four degrees on Feb. 4, 1954, followed by successive daily readings of 15, 15, 4, 10, 13 and 18 for a fairly respectable cold spell. The decade had begun with bona fide frigid stab with eight degrees on Jan. 29-30, 1951, then rose two degrees to 10 degrees on Jan. 31. But on Feb. 1, temperatures hit the skids and sank to zero, rising to only two degrees on Feb. 2.

BUT FOR A sudden and sharp strike, the blizzard of February, 1933, qualifies as the coldest, at least in this century for our area. I remember it well as a cub reporter who was obliged to perform the work of a "leg man" mostly on leg.

There had been threats of cold, but somehow they had not materialized. On Monday, Feb. 6, The Herald's banner warned: "Severe Cold Predicted for Tonight," adding that the temperature might get as low as eight degrees. This seemed implausible, for it was almost as a spring day, and those who searched for signs of a norther could hardly believe it as the thermometer nestled at 48 degrees at midnight with a substantial 14-mph breeze out of the south.

THEN IT hit. Within 15 minutes, the wind had switched to the northeast at 26 mph and the thermometer had dropped 13 degrees. By 8 a.m. the eight-degree prediction had been realized. Accompanying this was intermittent fine snow and ball sleet, eventually amounting to about an inch.

ALL THAT day punishing cold continued, and during the night the thermometer began retreating. By 8 a.m. the next morning (Feb. 8) it was eight degrees below zero. Heavy demands taxed gas pressures so sorely that many homes did not have enough heat. Classes had to be suspended at the junior high building (present cafeteria area for Rannels) because boilers couldn't deliver the heat there. Automobiles froze out by the hundreds because only those which had alcohol in the radiators could function (this was in the days before permanent anti-freeze). The city's small taxi service was burdened to where it ran an hour or two behind on calls.

STRONG NORTH winds produced a chill factor which must have been 40 below or better. One could walk into the face of the gale only for a minute or less, then turn and back into the wind while eyeballs recovered.

The following morning, Feb. 9, temperatures had warmed to a balmy 15 degrees, and The Herald said the "cold snap's back has been broken." "Whereupon, old timers said it wasn't so bad — why back in 1899 it had not to 10 below. They were safe for there were no official records to deny it.

Behind The Bombing

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Why did President Nixon order five days of the most sustained and most intense bombing against North Vietnam that has been carried on since he became commander in chief?

THE ANSWER to this question hasn't been made by the president or his aides, but it certainly is not hard to guess. For, while the United States is steadily withdrawing troops, it is getting nowhere with the negotiators of North Vietnam at the Paris Conference. The only reason the Hanoi government can possibly have for stalling on a peace settlement is a belief that it can take over South Vietnam when American ground forces have been reduced to a very low number.

But the fact is that South Vietnam is going to be equipped with air power, and in the last few days a demonstration has been given of what to expect if fighting is resumed. A total of 1,000 sorties were flown by navy and air force jets, in comparison with 400 at the time of the American-South Vietnam m e s e invasion of Cambodia in May 1970.

THE FIVE days of raids and the way they were conducted certainly will impress the North Vietnamese, and they will hardly undertake a prolonged bombing themselves after the United States has made a virtually complete withdrawal. American advisers will be on hand to assist in planning and carrying out bombing attacks, and in making them effective. Hanoi, therefore, should realize that the pullout of American forces will not afford an opportunity to move across the demilitarized zone and easily grab the south.

FOR MANY months, due to the anti-war speeches inside and outside Congress, the government and people of North Vietnam have been assuming that the United States is anxious to get out of Indo-China and will take no further interest in protecting the country for which it has made so large a sacrifice. The truth is President Nixon is trying to make it clear that, when the time comes, air power will be available to South Vietnam. This can be a deterrent to an invasion from the north, or, if one is attempted, a powerful force can come into operation to stop it.

The United States, moreover, is expecting that both Red China and the Soviet Union will keep their hands off South Vietnam when American troops are withdrawn so that there will be no circumstances that could justify a resumption of our military involvement in Indo-China.

THE DEMONSTRATION of what air power can do in a few days of concentrated bombing is a lesson to the North Vietnamese that they should be more active toward consummating peace, because they will not be able to get any better results when American ground forces have been pulled out.

On the whole, when the President visits Peking, it is possible that he can persuade officials there the time has come to try to stop the small wars in Asia and to bring about settlements of existing disputes. It is hoped that the influence of both Red China and the Soviet Union can be brought to bear on Hanoi in order that there will be meaningful negotiations at the Paris Peace conference hereafter and some workable agreement reached.

THUS FAR, there has not been an inch of progress made toward release of American prisoners by North Vietnam. Inquestionably, Hanoi has used this issue as a means of forcing a settlement on its terms. It has refused to allow letters to be received by prisoners and now has returned many packages that were sent to them at Christmas time. This kind of treatment will be regarded throughout the world as a manifestation of cruelty. For years the international Red Cross has been permitted to contact war prisoners in all countries and to see that they are treated humanely. Hanoi has turned a deaf ear to all pleas and has made a record which has shocked the world.

Risky Enterprises

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Soon to be examined by the securities and Exchange Commission is a corporate prospectus that in all probability will contain the warning: "These securities involve the highest degree of risk."

Investors in risky enterprises generally are enticed by the prospects of profits or dividends. But, rather than distributing its profits, this company intends to plow them right back into product development. Financial dividends will be modest. There will be no extras of any kind. In fact, the great reward for those who risk their money will be satisfaction, because the company's product is so-called good.

Nevertheless, the founders are concerned that demand for the stock could cause its price to soar, bringing it to be labeled, embarrassingly, a glamor stock. "That could be a serious image problem," they say.

A traditional assessment of such a company would have to be negative. Its proponents would be considered naive, its future would be deemed almost without hope. And that is just what many people thought at first.

Now that The Public Equity Corp. is about to enter registration, the attitudes are changing. Rather than being visionaries, as first thought, the founders are seen to be men of knowledge, business acumen and level-headedness.

If the company does succeed in going public, and selling 2.5 million shares at $10 each, it will mark a milestone in the development of capitalism—a public corporation that lives off correcting the sins of capitalism.

It assumes that the abuses of the system—the faulty products, fraud, pollution, human misery—are best corrected by legal challenges from an equally powerful corporate counterforce that would file class action, triple-damage suits.

Thomas Mechling, former Democratic senatorial nominee from Nevada, public affairs consultant, public relations man—for the National Association of Manufacturers—is largely responsible for bringing the idea to its present stage.

It will be the public, however, which determines the future, and so the most critical time for the embryo corporation will occur in late spring or summer, when shares likely will go on sale.

Nobody can really say at this time how strongly or weakly the public will support the offering. Investors generally have managed in the past to separate their moral convictions from their investment goals.

Oldtime Wall Streeters say any hot new issue is fueled by hopes if not greed for profit. A new corporation offering only public good will not satisfy private yearnings.

Peking's Devils

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

If Peking's propaganda is a guide, Communist China's leaders have conjured up a bad dream for themselves and have concluded that if two foreign devils haunt them the one closer at hand is by far the more ominous.

WHAT PEKING is saying seems to lend substance to President Nixon's expressed hope for better relations with mainland China. He said Sunday night he did not expect anything approaching resumed diplomatic relations, but he did hope that his February visit to Peking would produce "normalization in terms of setting up some method of communication better than we currently have."

Communists, living in their own world of double talk, do not always say what they mean, but Peking seems agitated about Soviet intentions as it reads them. This involves something like a huge Soviet noose looped about much of that so-called third world of "medium-sized and small nations" in Asia and Africa for which Peking now claims to speak.

AS RED CHINA puts it, the Russians are reverting to type, acting like the czars of old trying to establish "a world empire." Peking insists that Soviet activity in the Asian subcontinent is connected with a scheme to build "a sealane arch" that would extend from a Mediterranean and Black seas in a southward-dropping semicircle through the Red Sea, the Arabian Sea, the Indian Ocean, the Bay of Bengal, around Southeast Asia and up to the Sea of Japan.

That, said a recent article carried by the official Red Chinese news agency, is why Moscow is so deeply involved in arms aid to India and why the Soviet fleet has shown the flag all along the Arabian Sea and Indian Ocean.

"TO TURN India into an important base for its expansion in the Indian Ocean, Soviet revisionism has been vigorously bolstering up the Indian reactionaries for years," said the article. Moscow, it said, regarded the Indian-Pakistani war as a good chance to step up Soviet expansion in the Indian Ocean and "further its control of India."

Clearly, the suggestion in all this was that China regarded Russia as the major threat. If the Russian appetite was what Peking seemed to think it was, China alone would be in a poor position to challenge Soviet aims in South and Southeast Asia. But China with communication open to the United States would be better off if only because of an enormous implicit American potential to tip the balance politically or militarily.

THERE COULD be dividends for the Americans, too, in easing China's two decades of implacable hostility toward the United States.

President Nixon said his adviser, Henry Kissinger, in his trips to Peking to arrange for the presidential visit, had raised with Premier Chou Enlai the question of American war prisoners in North Vietnam. The President said he, too, intended to raise the question next month.

Dandy Exit Lines

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

A pilot car has been delivered in Japan that won't let itself be driven by drunken drivers. A device built into the steering wheel sniffs a driver's breath. If the driver has drunk too much, the device automatically stops the car's engine.

Egyptians are among the world's top movie-goers. They attend an average of 19 films a year, compared with seven times for the average American.

Supermarkets are becoming more like department stores than the simple grocery stores of yesterday. Of the 8,500 items stocked by a typical supermarket, 38 per cent were non-edible and ranged from hair sprays and medicines to rawhide bones for dogs.

Know your language: What is the origin of "bungalow"? India is the home of bungalows, one story houses with verandas. Our word for them comes from the Hindi "banga," which means "belonging to Bengal."

How calm do we want to get? Americans now swallow 20 million prescriptions a year for psychoactive drugs designed to alleviate their anxiety, frustration, agitation, or mental depression.

Ancient barrier: How long was the Great Wall of China? Well, if it were built in the United States, says the National Geographic Society, it would stretch from Washington, D. C., southward and westward clear across Texas into New Mexico.

The mind at sleep: Don't scorn dreams as useless fantasies of the unconscious mind. Coleridge wrote his famous poem "Kubla Khan" and Ed Elias Howe solved the problem of making a workable sewing machine as the result of vivid dreams.

Exit lines: "If I had strength to hold a pen, I would write down how easy and pleasant a thing it is to die," said famed Dr. William Hunter. "Why weep you?" said King Louis XIV on his deathbed. "Did you think I should live forever? I thought dying had been harder."

Billy Graham

My Answer

I am a 17-year-old girl, and I have been trying to help a boy who has been on drugs, and is a drop out. My parents are reacting violently to my helping him, and I want your advice. Doesn't the New Testament teach that we should help those in need? N.M.

Certainly the New Testament teaches we are to help those in need. But, you can understand your parents' concern. I'm sure it is not that they don't want you to help this boy, but it is probably a fear that you might get romantically involved with him. Close proximity of the sexes, regardless of the idealism involved, often plays tricks with the participants. The boy is no doubt lonely, and love starved, and he may interpret your helping him as an expression of affection. This may account for your parents' apprehensiveness.

I am not saying it would be wrong to fall in love with him, but I am pointing out that familiarity often breeds romantic love, when that is not exactly what you intended.

Having said that, I admire you for having a concern for others. This is sadly lacking in much of our Christianity today. We are reluctant to help those who are poorer than us, or of a different color than us, for fear of what our neighbors and friends might say. We should never conform to the prejudices of people around us. The Bible says, "Be not conforming, but be ye transformed by the renewing of your minds." Romans 12:2.

A Devotion For Today...

"Enlarge the place of your tent, . . . hold not back, lengthen your cords and strengthen your stakes." — Isaiah 54:2

PRAYER: O God, strengthen us in Your love that we may reach out to others. As we reach out to others, as we come to understand them, may we better understand ourselves. We ask in Christ's name. Amen.

Whom To Date

Jean Adams'

TEEN FORUM

HOW? (Q.) I'm 15 and attend school and work in Washington, D.C. At the place I work, there are 97 guys and only three girls, including myself, working. The odds are greatly in my favor. Since I have been lucky enough to get this job, I have also dated a great many of the guys. I enjoy the company of each of them tremendously.

My problem is that, although I date a lot of guys, there is one boy I like in a different way. I've dated him only a few times, and I can't seem to tell just how he likes me. Not how much, but how?

I can't tell whether he likes me just as a friend to be with, or as something more. My sisters all say that it must be more than just friends, because he keeps asking me out. I have to find out for sure just how he likes me. I have never had to do this before, so I have to ask for your advice. — Fortunate in the District of Columbia.

(A.) Only one boy can answer the question you ask, and I am not that boy. Relax and try not to seem too anxious about how special you are to him.

He obviously likes you or he wouldn't take you out time after time. If he thinks you're too eager to know just how he feels about you, you may lose some or all of his interest.

Do not be too pushy about a boy who keeps coming back, and whom you want to keep coming back.

HOT COMB: (Q.) I have fairly long, curly hair and want to get a hot comb to straighten it. But does a hot comb damage hair? — Curly in Pennsylvania.

(A.) A hot comb will not damage hair if it is used properly. It will straighten hair temporarily, as rolling it on big rollers would.

$25 Million Idea

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A suburban development plans for what it calls a new concept in planned community living.

The 3-year, $25 million project will convert 300 acres in South Fort Worth into a site of moderately priced family homes and apartments.

Homes will be priced in the $17,500 to $18,500 range and apartments will rent for $99 and $125 monthly for one and two bedrooms, respectively.

What To Do?

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to the secretary whose boss received pornographic mail was, in my opinion, short-sighted. The secretary's job is to assist her boss in his business duties, not to be forced to participate in his voyeurism.

Having had the same experience myself, I threw away the literature and photographs — choosing to believe that it was unsolicited mail rather than believe that the man I was expected to show respect for had thoughtlessly (or intentionally) subjected me to the trash that came in the mail addressed to him.

One day he asked me if that was all the mail there was because he had been expecting something else. It was then that who get their kicks "watching," also enjoy talking about it.) I quit my job but the problem of what to tell prospective employers about why I left a top-paying job as secretary to the president of a well-known company plagued me, so once again, it is the woman who pays. Nuts to you, Abby!

PROBLEM SOLVED

DEAR ABBY: The question about what a secretary should do when she has been instructed to open all her boss's mail and throw away the junk is a puzzling one — when her boss gets pornographic mail.

I know many competent secretaries who have had this problem, and you have no idea how many of them, right or wrong, destroy pornography to avoid embarrassment to themselves and their bosses.

If the bosses WANT to receive this type of literature (which is their privilege) why can't they arrange to have it sent to a post office box, or elsewhere, to spare their secretaries possible embarrassment? SLIGHTLY PUZZLED

DEAR ABBY: The first time I came across pornography, I was working for the president of a large corporation. He was a very proper gentleman and a very shy one. Some mail came, and I opened it routinely. When all the filth fell out, I didn't know whether to put it on my boss's desk with the rest of his mail, or not. After pondering about it all day, I tore it up into tiny pieces and buried them at the bottom of the wastepaper basket.

From that time on, if any mail came that look as though it might contain pornographic material, I opened it partially to make sure, and if my suspicions were correct, I would seal it back up again and leave it on my boss's desk UNOPENED with the rest of his mail.

Alcohol-Diabetes

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you explain the effects of alcohol or alcoholic beverages on a diabetic, other than the calorie intake? — L.V.

The answers to your question get a bit complicated, but they are important. The diabetic patient must, of course, limit the total number of calories and carbohydrates consumed. If he consumes more than his physical activity... plus medication, can handle, he's going to be in trouble, sooner or later.

Therefore, whatever calories he consumes in the form of alcohol means he must do without a corresponding amount of substantial nourishment. But there are other, and not always predictable, effects. Alcohol can increase the glycogen (starch) reserve stored in the liver. But it also can reduce it — and that jeopardizes the "emergency supply" of energy on which one may have to call.

Beyond that, the consequences depend a good deal on how the person reacts to alcohol, and, of course, how much he drinks. "A few drinks" can often delay a meal, or blunt the appetite so that insufficient food is eaten. If the drinks cause vomiting or diarrhea, they can play havoc with the water-mineral balance of the body and precipitate acidosis in a diabetic.

And if a diabetic drinks to the point of stupor, it is obvious that the necessary routine can be thrown out of kilter drastically.

To sum up, any but the most casual use of alcohol is risky for a diabetic, the danger varying according to the individual. The diabetic should also remember that mixed drinks may contain some sugar, which also must be avoided.

If a diabetic — most but not necessarily all diabetics — can reliably stick to no more than an occasional highball, it usually will be tolerated. The danger often is when one finds that the occasional drink does no harm, there's the temptation to think that two won't either or three.

Because some diabetics are more "brittle" than others, I don't like to voice approval even for the single, occasional drink, unless the patient first clears the question with his doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Three years ago I had a small lump appear at the base of my left third finger. Since then it has enlarged to the size of a small grape, with a cord the length of the palm.

I have been advised that it is Dupuytren's contracture, and sold not to have surgery. Would appreciate any advice. — F.G.S.

This contracture is a thickening of the sheath surrounding a tendon in the hand — that's the "cord" which you see. I go along with the advice not to have surgery — or at least not to have it unless the trouble becomes really bothersome.

By that I mean that sometimes the tendon will be drawn to the point of pulling the finger forward so you cannot straighten it. At such a time you may find that you need surgery.

However, I've known some of these contractures to exist for many years without causing any trouble at all.

Some specialists suggest that the patient periodically (several times a day) press the hand down flat on something solid, to keep the tendon from becoming foreshortened. I'd suggest that.

Says Texans Should Build 'Superport'

HOUSTON (AP) — If Texas hopes to keep its standing as a major exporter and importer of oil, it must build a superport for supertankers far out in the Gulf of Mexico, a Texas A&M researcher said Tuesday.

Dan M. Bragg of Texas A&M University's industrial economics research division told a Houston luncheon club that by 1983 a third of the world's tankers will be unable to visit Texas ports because of their size.

"Today's world tanker fleet already includes more than 700 ships that cannot dock in Texas," he said. "It is predicted that by 1983, more than 1,400 of the projected world tanker fleet of 4,300 ships will be unable to enter our ports."

A tanker now being built in Japan will draw 93 feet of water when loaded and others will be built that will draw 100 to 105 feet, he said.

Current 40-foot channels into Texas ports can't be deepened much more, however, because of dredging difficulties and because many channels have auto tunnels, pipelines and natural features which would prevent such deepening.

Texas ports handle one-seventh of the total tonnage shipped in the country but there would be a direct and substantial loss in trade if the state fails to develop an offshore port, he said.

Sandra Dies Despite Gifts

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Sandra Bobbitt, whose struggle against a rare respiratory ailment prompted donations totaling nearly $10,000, died late Tuesday night, a hospital spokesman said.

The young woman had been under treatment here since late August for an affliction which frequently caused her to stop breathing while asleep.

Miss Bobbitt, 25, of San Antonio died at 11:30 p.m., the hospital spokesman reported.

He said death was "not anticipated," adding that doctors had been trying to prepare her for a planned trip to New Haven, Conn., for surgery to implant a special device that could correct her breathing difficulties.

When news accounts of Miss Bobbitt's illness appeared shortly before the Christmas holidays, donations poured into Bexar County Hospital. Doctors said Yale University Medical Center at New Haven could perform the necessary surgery free of charge but could not pay the $1,500 cost of the special device.

The donations would have been used to pay for the device and Miss Bobbitt's family expenses for the trip to Connecticut. Her father, Louis Bobbitt, is a carpenter.

The hospital spokesman said the cause of death was not determined at once.

Rebels Get 'Mosquito'

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — There's supposed to be only two such birds flying in the world, and the Confederate Air Force has latched onto one of them.

The CAF, a rebel band of wealthy World War II aircraft collectors, has acquired a British DeHaviland Mosquito bomber and will display it at Rebel Field in Harlingen.

The Mosquito, a twin-engined aircraft constructed primarily of wood, arrived at its new nesting place Sunday after a trans-Atlantic flight which consisted of five fueling stops.

Ed Jurist of Nyack, N.Y., and Dwayne Egli of Harlingen put the craft down in France, Spain, the Azores, Newfoundland and New York. They used 3,400 gallons of fuel between England and Harlingen.

The CAF is a group allegedly organized by its mythical leader, Col. Jethro Culpepper—a tongue-in-cheek outburst against the "union" military establishment which refused to save World War II aircraft.

Border Presents Big Problems In Fighting Organized Crime

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Organized crime has slipped into Texas on several fronts, including narcotics, securities swindling and gambling, a crime expert says.

Joe Phillips, chief counsel of the U.S. House Select Committee on crime, also says the Mexican border presents special problems in fighting organized crime.

There is "tentative evidence" that recent gangland-style slayings in the Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, area across the Rio Grande from Laredo are part of a battle over narcotics smuggling into the United States, Phillips said here Tuesday.

BORDER DOPE

He told a news conference that the ease in crossing the Mexican border plays a part in organized crime activities.

"People of an extremely dangerous nature are coming across the border to murder someone and then going back across," he said.

He also warned that action by the Justice Department to reduce the production of amphetamines by 40 per cent can be expected to produce an increased illegal flow of such narcotics from Mexico.

Here to meet with a special county grand jury on organized crime, Phillips also warned of so-called mob elements in the heart of Texas.

'HOT' SECURITIES

In the Dallas area, he said, three men have been identified as a part of the Cosa Nostra and six other persons have been tentatively identified as members of that organization. Racketeers are steadily moving into the securities field, Phillips said.

He said members of his staff found that four Texas banks had been defrauded in an illicit securities swindle linked to San Francisco and New Jersey. Cities hit in this one scheme included Houston, El Paso and Lubbock, he said.

Traffic in stolen cars and pornography are becoming national problems, Phillips said, adding: "In New York they are stealing cars to order . . . and this is becoming a nationwide thing."

Pornography is attractive to organized crime "because it sees a profit to be made," he said. "If there are profits in pornography that's where they'll go."

Gambling is a multi-million dollar business in Texas, Phillips said. He said about $25 million was wagered on football in Texas last year, with bookmakers earning a $2.5 million profit.

TEXAS BOOKIES

Texas bookmakers get their odds from Nevada, Chicago and New Orleans, he said. "Again we have an organized criminal apparatus."

Phillips pointed out that "organized crime is not like street crime and can't be prosecuted the same old way."

There is no complaint in most organized crime, he noted. "The fellow who buys narcotics is happy with the deal. You have to go out and get the evidence."

Phillips, considered a leading authority on crime, said that "one of the critical necessities" in the fight against organized crime is wire-tapping authority. He also voiced support for immunity provisions, saying it is necessary to offer immunity to low-ranking members of an organization if prosecutors hope to convict the high-level members.

Resignation Of Wilson Snags Fed 'Strike Force'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A congressional crime probe says the resignation of former Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has delayed plans to dispatch a federal "strike force" to Texas.

The "strike force," including attorneys and investigators from various federal agencies, would wage a combined fight against organized crime in the state.

Joe Phillips, chief counsel of the U.S. House Select Committee on Crime, told a news conference here Tuesday that a Justice Department survey determined it was "appropriate to have a strike force come to Texas."

He said it was delayed "because Mr. Wilson left the Justice Department," but added, "I think it's coming."

Wilson resigned last October as assistant U.S. attorney general in charge of the criminal division of the Justice Department.

Before joining the Justice Department, Wilson had been a lawyer for Frank Sharp, a central figure in the Texas stock scandal. Wilson denied any wrongdoing, although Rep-

Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex., had repeatedly called for his resignation.

Phillips said he understood Houston and Dallas were under consideration as headquarters for the "strike force." Earlier reports had said it would be based in San Antonio.

Phillips noted the federal unit would have jurisdiction over the entire state, no matter where it is headquartered.

He was here Tuesday to meet with a special county grand jury probing organized crime.

Swap Christmas Trees For Mulch

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Syracuse-area residents will be able to swap their Christmas trees for a bag of mulch this weekend in a recycling project at the State University College of Forestry.

The trees will be ground into mulch with chipping machines loaned by a private tree-removal service. The mulch, in turn, can be used by the residents as an organic fertilizer.

Aerospace Workers Dodge Pay Raise Slash By Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board, torn by indecision and uncertain of its own legal powers, set another meeting today after failing in a third try at cutting a 12 per cent raise for about 100,000 aerospace workers.

The board, reportedly split 10 to 5 against approving the full raise, worked off and on for about nine hours Tuesday in separate meetings of its labor, business and public members. The board never convened in full session.

At the end, at least three members openly questioned whether the board has the power to roll back raises to a specific figure, as the five business members reportedly want to do with the 12-per-cent aerospace raise.

United Auto Workers president Leonard Woodcock and President Floyd E. Smith of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, whose union members' raises are at stake, questioned whether the board could legally do more than veto an unacceptable contract.

"I personally believe the board has only the power to say yes or no," said Woodcock, a labor member of the board.

"I raise the same question," said Smith, also a member.

Public member William G. Caples, president of Kenyon College in Ohio, said the board has only a veto power. But Caples said he thinks the board can set standards to guide labor and management in revising any rejected contract to gain acceptance.

Virgil Day, who is a General Electric Co. vice president and a business member of the board, has said all five business members want to trim the aerospace raise to about 8 per cent or less. Labor memos seek approval of the full 12 per cent.

The five public members of the board were reported by various sources to be opposed to the full 12-per-cent raise, but apparently could not agree on a figure.

The aerospace contracts cover UAW and IAM employes at six aerospace firms.

Meanwhile, the Justice Department announced it has obtained a temporary restraining order barring an Elizabeth, N.J., landlord from evicting a tenant who declined to pay $195 for an apartment identical to those rented in the same building for $160.

A Justice spokesman said this was the first such action since Phase 2 economic controls went into effect last November.

Burned Child Is Flown To Center

Sundee Stewart, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Stewart, Colorado City, was rushed to Big Spring Tuesday by Webb AFB ambulance for air- evacuation to the Brook Army Medical Burn Center at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, for treatment of second and third degree burns over 90 per cent of her body.

Sundee was burned Monday night when a long "granny" nightgown she was wearing caught fire as she stood too near a heater in her home approximately three miles northeast of Colorado City.

The child's mother attempted to beat out the flames with her hands and then smothered the flames by wrapping the injured girl in a blanket. Mrs. Stewart took her daughter to Root Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Stewart was reportedly alone with her two children, Sundee and a younger daughter, Cindy, at the time of the accident because her husband had left moments before to have anti-freeze put in one of the family's vehicles.

Only the girl's face, feet and hands escaped injury. She was burned wherever the gown touched her body.

At Root Memorial Hospital, the girl was treated by the hospital's surgical team. Tuesday, the Army Burn Center was contacted and an army burn team examining the girl at the hospital and prepared her for transfer for treatment.

Webb AFB hospital joined in the effort to help the girl by arranging her transfer to Webb AFB where an Air Force C-9 medical evacuation aircraft had been diverted to pick up the child.

Sundee was flown to Kelly AFB, San Antonio and she was transferred from there to the burn center.

Claims Connally 'Nipped In Bud' By Nixon's Talk

ALPINE, Tex. (AP) — The "assumption always was" that Treasury Secretary John Connally would leave his post at the end of President Nixon's current term, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said Tuesday.

"I expect him to remain as secretary through this year," commented Tower, who is making a tour of speaking engagements in Southwest Texas.

Tower also discounted speculation that Connally, a Democrat, will be the President's running mate in the 1972 elections.

He said any such possibility was "nipped in the bud" Sunday night in a television interview of the President, who expressed confidence in Vice President Agnew at that time.

Like the President, Tower must also run for re-election his year, and he appeared unconcerned in Alpine in regard to reports former U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough may be his November opponent.

"I don't know what Sen. Yarborough's plans are, but I made up my mind long ago to conduct my campaign in a certain way, no matter who ran against me," Tower remarked.

$2.4 Million Libel Suit Against TV Firm Opens

SAN BENITO, Tex. (AP) — An official of the San Benito Farmers Home Administration office will begin giving his deposition in public today in a $2.4 million libel suit filed against a television station.

Lawyers for Custom Designed Homes Inc. of San Benito failed Tuesday in their effort to make the deposition of Wyatt Nesbit secret.

Dist. Judge William Scanlan ruled at Brownsville that the news media could attend and report what Nesbit says.

The suit was filed against KGBT-TV, Harlingen, in connection with a news documentary program entitled "Home Sweet Home."

Lawyers for the San Benito firm had sought to make the deposition secret because they claimed it would give the suit too much publicity and alleged that the television station would present a slanted version of the deposition.

The television program included interviews with home owners who claimed their homes were poorly constructed and interviews with contractors who claimed the San Benito FHA office displayed favoritism in awarding contracts to Custom Designed Homes.

In addition to the libel suit, Custom Designed Homes has asked that KGBT-TV be held in contempt of court for airing the 30-minute news program.

25 ON JUMBO JET HURT

'Everything Went Flying'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "All of a sudden the tail went up and it seemed like we were on a roller coaster," a passenger recalled in describing the effect that clear air turbulence had on a National Airlines jumbo jet with 331 persons aboard.

Twenty-five persons were injured, three seriously, when the plane encountered the mysterious weather phenomenon Tuesday at an altitude of 31,000 feet over Texas.

"Everything went flying," a passenger said. "People's shoes were torn off their feet. Meals were being served and there was food going everywhere."

"I felt like a basketball being bounced around," another passenger said.

"I felt my head hit the ceiling," another related. "Then my whole body was pressed against it. I looked down and could see the floor coming up."

Scientists know little about the air turbulence that slammed the plane's tail. It occurs in generally clear weather between 20,000 and 35,000 feet and can't be detected even by radar.

The Boeing 747 jetliner was three hours out of Miami on a five-hour nonstop flight to Los Angeles.

"I think the whole thing lasted about three seconds," said a stewardess, Yvonne Marlett, 20, of Miami.

The unexpected jolt was felt most by those at the rear of the plane. The airline said no one with a fastened seatbelt was hurt.

"People were screaming, kids were crying and some were panicking. Others were hollering for a doctor," said one of the passengers, Navy Medical Corpsman Calvin Shirley, 22, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He and two doctors aboard helped the injured as the plane continued to Los Angeles.

The injured were taken to three hospitals. All but five were discharged within hours.

A National spokesman said the only apparent damage to the plane was dents and holes in interior walls from luncheon trays and light baggage. Federal Aviation Administration inspectors pronounced the plane structurally sound, and it returned to Miami later in the day.

City commissioners took the ordinance proposal under advisement Tuesday night.

Price Tags Confirm High Cost Of 'Kidding'

NEW YORK (AP) — Fashion designers may have grown up and become serious but designer Adolfo is still kidding around.

Yet he manages to have some fun—mostly without being goopy and tacky and wrong. This is hard to do now, when women are waiting to attack the first designer who starts getting funny again.

Take a look at Adolfo's name, spelled out in rows of block letters, marching across the front of a dress A-D-O-L-F-O, like a team sweater. You think, he's got to be kidding. He was.

"I thought it would be a gag, but it was taken seriously, and it's sold," Adolfo says happily, explaining that his customers are "spirited."

"It's never serious, this way of dressing," says Adolfo, whose prices are serious: $225 to $1,000.

Adolfo concentrates on some fairly safe shapes: straight pants, shirt tail jackets and pleated skirts.

And he tries some bolder ones. His ankle-length petal skirts are topped by large hats with roll back brims. He offers dresses with one bare shoulder.

"It's a shop way to look sharp in definition," Adolfo says of this one-shoulder idea.

He's not kidding about his body-hugging crochets and knits, seen through this spring collection. The white crocheted dresses show every bone and bulge. But then, Adolfo poots the body, loose look that's come with the Chinese influence. Instead, he keeps his knits close to the figure.

He dives into the crayon box for spunky child-like colors: purple jacket, yellow skirt and fuchsia hat. No matter how small his bright prints are, each squeals out sharply on its own—definite and precise.

Funds Are Available For Study

Scholarships are available to people who will go to Europe and study methods of teaching retarded children," said Mrs. Maurice Smith when she spoke Monday to the Howard County Association for Retarded Children. The financial aid is being offered through the state organization.

The local association plans to begin a program that will help parents in Howard County spend more time with their retarded children who reside at state schools in other counties. Mrs. John Hollingsworth said she had received responses from Abilene and Lubbock regarding the plan.

A new school for the retarded has opened in Fort Worth. It was also announced that CBS will present a program on mental retardation at 8 p.m., Jan. 14.

Miss Anna Marie Smith announced that TARS (Teens Aid the Retarded) hosted a Christmas party Dec. 17 at Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church for 50 retarded children in the area. The TARS also accompanied retarded children when they went caroling Dec. 20, followed by a hot chocolate party in the home of Mrs. Harold Bell.

The state convention will be held in Longview in April and will concentrate on the adult retardate. The next local meeting is at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 7 at Moss School.

Fashions Go To Clean, Pure Look

For the first time in a long time, fashion has a new reality, say fashion authorities at Celanese. The put-on, the pretense, have given way to definitive shaping, even though the shapes themselves are many and diverse.

Lines are cleaner, clearer, purer. A new simplicity has taken over, making seasons past, seem complicated, contrived, even chaotic by comparison. It appears that order has been restored.

Spring clothes move closer to the body in many ways—with belts, either of self-fabric or separate from the dress, and with new-looking princess shapes, bias cuts that hug the waistline and end in a wide, flaring skirt.

A LOVELIER YOU Regular Scheduling Aids Good Grooming

By MARY SUE MILLER
A Lovely writes: My aim this year is to be really well-groomed. I have never quite made it. When my hair is done, my nails need doing. Et cetera! My excuse is that I have so little time. I have a job and keep house, too. Still I see women, who, under similar conditions, manage to look perfect. There must be something wrong with my system, my management.

The Answer: As a woman who holds down two jobs, you cannot be a poor manager. Else you wouldn't be able to fulfill your obligations to both. By a slight reorganization of your time schedule, however, you could avoid grooming lapses.

Simply arrange to set aside one night a week for grooming—the works. You can accomplish marvels in just a few hours if you follow an efficient procedure. Here's a good plan: First cleanse your face and apply your favorite skin treatment. Then brush, shampoo and set your hair; condition and color as necessary while shampooing.

Next perform required defuzzing. Thereafter do your basin laundry. Now go under the hair dryer, taking along your manicure and pedicure tools. When your hair and nails are dried; refurbish your wardrobe; mend and press clothes; brush leathers.

For a great finish take a long soak in the tub fragrant with skin softener and brisked with a loofah sponge. Now you are off to a week of groomed looks. Of course, nothing short of a calamity must ever come between you and your one night of loveliness.

Bedroom Suite Now Standard

The master bedroom suite is a standard feature in most new homes and apartments. The suite consists of a bedroom at least 12x15 feet, a private bathroom, a dressing room and a walk-in closet.

The popularity of the suite goes hand in hand with growing demand for the queen-size bed, which easily fits into such a bedroom. It also will fit most smaller-size bedrooms as well, because of its dimensions: 60 inches wide, 80 inches long.

Plants Are Used For Insomnia

Plants of various kinds have been used as sleep remedies for centuries. Among the most commonly used were tobacco, mandrake, hemlock, lettuce seeds, henbane and jimson weed.

Even the American Indians suffered from insomnia and employed a tea brewed from dried nettle as a remedy. Incidentally, most of these substances had either no effect or else produced unwanted side reactions.

Study Club Attempts Painting

Forsan Study Club members were given brushes, paint and canvas and told to "create something all your own" when Mrs. Don Bradley conducted a program Monday evening in the Forsan High School home economics room.

Mrs. Bradley emphasized that a piece of art, whether being purchased or created, should express the owner's ideas and feelings.

As program coordinator Mrs. Bradley reviewed periods of art and described some of the famous artists throughout history.

Winter Hats Are Casual, Pretty

Winter fashion is seeing a great many becoming, spritely-knitted and crocheted caps and hats of both wool and synthetic fibers.

All are washable and need regular dunkings in sudsy water after coming in daily contact with your hair as well as snow, rain and sooty air. Beautiful clean hair deserves a clean hat.

Mrs. Clay LaRoche Discusses Decorating

The effect of curtains and draperies on room decor, was discussed by Mrs. Clay LaRoche for Phi Zeta Omega Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Jimmy Branch.

"The three functions of a window are to let light and air in and to let people look out," said Mrs. LaRoche, noting that windows can be decorated in any style, and that imagination is the key to effective styling.

"Windows can set the mood of a room if they are curtained or draped correctly," said Mrs. LaRoche. She said shades are returning in popularity, and they are found in all colors and designs. She also suggested the use of draperies to give the effect of a window where there is no window. Following her talk, each member told how they had decorated windows in their homes.

Mrs. LaRoche was appointed treasurer. New city council representatives are Mrs. Gary Huckaby and Miss Lana Lloyd, alternate. Additional members were also appointed to chapter committees. They are Mrs. Ronnie Wilson and Mrs. Huckaby, social; Miss Annie Heirman and Mrs. LaRoche, ways and means; and Mrs. James Bailey and Mrs. David Grifford, scrapbook.

Mrs. Branch received a pillow in the "traveling basket" fund-raising project. Tentative plans were made for a supper meeting Jan. 16. The next regular meeting is at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 17 in the home of Mrs. Morgan Martin, Moss Creek Road.

'ROUND TOWN BY LUCILLE PICKLE

If there is anything that would make one thankful for a warm fire and snug clothing it's a cold swat like the one that has hit our area this week. While we were warned that it was on the way, few really believed that we would have such penetrating winds and low temperatures. Just a few days ago when so many were entertaining with open houses, the fires in the fireplaces that lent such a charming glow to the rooms, also lent too much warmth and most houses had to let the warm air out as the number of guests increased. Now we would have to throw another log on the fire.

Back from the ski slopes of Ruidoso, N.M., are MR. and MRS. KENNETH GAFFORD, MR. and MRS. GERALD WOOTEN, MR. and MRS. BEN FAULKNER and MR. and MRS. BEN FERRELL.

C. BARBER, 606 W. 17th St., and to attend the wedding of his nephew, RICHARD A. GRIMES, to MISS SANDRA MILLS on Friday.

They will return to their home on Sunday.

RALPH HOPE, a graduate student at Texas A&M, left Monday morning for College Station after spending a week here with his uncle and aunt, MR. and MRS. FRED BECKHAM, and in Lubbock with his cousins, MR. and MRS. JAMES BECKHAM.

Ralph is the son of Chaplain and Mrs. Holland Hope who are stationed in Stuttgart, Germany. He missed their overseas call by only hours when they called the Beckhams to tell them that surgery on the chaplain's knee which had been scheduled for Jan. 4 had been set back to Jan. 13. The Hopes have visited in Big Spring numerous times with the Beckhams.

MR. and MRS. BILL CLEMENTS will leave at the end of the week for their home in Jonesboro, Ark., after spending the holidays with their parents, MR. and MRS. J. T. CLEMENTS and DR. and MRS. P. W. MALONE. Bill is teaching in the English department at Arkansas State University.

English Hair Stylists Set Goal: Lure Young People To Salons

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
The two members of an English prize-winning hair design team, John and Suzanne Chadwick, are planning "a youthquake" in the United States. The handsome couple in their mid 20s have won more than 300 hair awards in Europe and want to lure young people to hairdressing salons.

While rumblings of the quake they are engineering have already been felt in 250 mini salons that were set up for young people within other beauty salons Chadwick says, "the idea needs a massive push because many hairdressers need retraining." Sometime in December they hope more than 7,000 hair dressers will be snipping and clipping in the Chadwicks' new layering technique.

"Hairdressers complain young people have ruined their business, but they must revise their thoughts about youth, and recognize this is a real revolution. Give them what they want now or they may be lost to the salons forever," he says. What youth doesn't want it mama's hairdo with its teasing, rollers, hair spray. And they don't want salons that resemble boudoirs with their massive crystal chandeliers.

His decor for the mini salons is on the right beat, he says, with silvery walls, track lighting, green plants, real music and an appointment board outside where the young people can sign up for an appointment and shop while they wait for it in one of the 500 salons located in speciality and department stores. The Chadwicks are consultants to all the Glemby salons here and in Europe.

"We aren't pushing our ideas on the young people. They will accept only what they want and what is in good taste. For example, denim and big belt buckles fashions went from the streets of Greenwich Village to Vogue Magazine.

First, the Chadwicks will train the staffs of the beauty salons. More than 2,000 members will attend Sunday seminars in San Francisco, Atlanta, Chicago and New York. And in each of those cities they expect to train 100 hair cutters who will come in from outlying areas for one week. They will be taught to incorporate style right in the hair cut. These people will then return to their salons to show other hairdressers the new techniques.

The Chadwicks' four basic precision haircuts with youth appeal are: (1) the higher layer cut with all hair layering on top; (2) the perfect vertical hair cut with a slightly layered look; (3) the low layer cut—hair that is all one length, "the most precision cut of all, and (4) the chunky hugger cut — the highest degree of layering.

Pretty brown-eyed Suzanne was wearing the "chunky" hugger" which is layered all the way from the crown to her shoulders. If it gives the appearance of wavinness as it fans out windblown style from the face. If you prefer, "you can be chunky in back and vertical in front," she says. John cuts Suzanne's hair and she cuts his when she "gets around to it."

Puerto Rican Singer Returns For 'Debut'

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — After five years of singing opera around the world, Justino Diaz has come back to Puerto Rico to make a debut in the island where he was born.

The 31-year-old bass says the reception given his performance of Mozart's "Don Giovanni" was "like a dream come true." "You can't compare the Met or La Scala to this," he commented. "These are my people and singing for them is an emotion in a class by itself."

After five days of rehearsals with an almost entirely Puerto Rican cast, the slender singer gave his opera-starved countrymen their money's worth. Pablo Casals, the 94-year-old cellist, was in the audience. Puerto Rico's Gov. Luis A. Ferre made a trip backstage.

Despite a few hitches in the performance, Diaz' rendition of the flamboyant lover was received with an ovation.

Opera in San Juan has enjoyed limited success over the last three decades. Some years back the city imported "name" singers, but it had never tried to put together a strictly local production with a few high-priced singers. This year under a new corporation, Opera de Puerto Rico, island operagoers were offered two productions using the cream of local talent and the best imports it could find.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:
There are so many foods that can be stored in the freezer these days. I would like to share my foolproof way of taking out the exact package I want. For years it was always a guessing game, and many times the wrong food has been thawed. I use those one-pound plastic margarine tubs that come in seven different colors and are unbreakable. I make large amounts of vegetable soup, chow mein, chili, etc. and fill the bowls by color. Then I make a list to tape to the freezer door, such as 4 orange bowls (vegetable soup), 5 yellow (chili), 5 blue (chow mein) . . . About a half hour before ready to serve, I check the list, select the packages I want, dip them in hot water and they loosen immediately. The packages are so simple and easy to find without rummaging through the freezer to check labels. Even your child can do it. I have six or eight bowls of each color, and, when they are not in use in the freezer, they make very colorful bowls for cereals, salads, etc. I'm sure your reader will be able to find many more uses for these lovely bowls. . . .

Then the other child is called back into the room to see if he or she can guess what objects have been put away. This can go on and on until the room is clean. School Is Teaching 'Bachelor Living'

GRESHAM, Ore. (AP) — About 40 Barlow High School students have been learning how to cook, sew and balance a budget in a class called "For Men Only — Bachelor Living." "It's always frustrated me to see men who can't do anything around the house," said Carolyn Kingry. She says he and Linda Stanwood, another home economics teacher, organized the class in response to popular demand. "The idea isn't new, but everyone else calls it boys' home economics. We wanted something with a bit more masculine appeal." It appears to be appealing, but for a variety of reasons. "I decided I'm never going to get married," junior Randy Emery said. "At least not until I'm 30 — I've gotta learn how to get by until then." "I wanted to learn something about women," said 16-year-old Kyle Trenholm. "I figure it would be an easy grade," said another junior, Ron Crutcher. "But I'm the furthest behind on my tie." Sewing a tie was the first project for the class. Other projects on the schedule of "For Men Only — Bachelor Living" are shopping for clothes, furnishing a home, repairing appliances and preparation of a meal.

Schaus Is Man Who Assembled Laker Machine

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Of the 10 Los Angeles Lakers who have been unbeatable in the 1972 pre-season games remained in doubt today, but two Maryland congressmen have warned of antitrust legislation unless regular season games are played at home.

Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., said Tuesday in view of persistent rumors concerning a possible franchise shift, he would pursue a bill he introduced last November which would possibly place football and other sports under antitrust laws.

Baltimore Is Warned By Two Congressmen

BALTIMORE (AP) — Where the Baltimore Colts will play 1972 pre-season games remained in doubt today, but two Maryland congressmen have warned of antitrust legislation unless regular season games are played at home.

Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., said Tuesday in view of persistent rumors concerning a possible franchise shift, he would pursue a bill he introduced last November which would possibly place football and other sports under antitrust laws.

Rep. Edward Garmatz, also D-Md., said he would introduce similar legislation when Congress reconvenes later this month. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, has a similar bill in the hopper.

Larry Miller Spotlighted

LARRY MILLER, Carolina's swinging guard, has been called an unpublicized Joe Namath. But now that he has blossomed into a standout scorer in the American Basketball Association, Miller may no longer lack for publicity.

Tuesday night, the 6-foot-5 backcourtman fired in 35 points, powering the Cougars to a 130-116 victory over the Pittsburgh Condors.

"I've been called a poor man's Namath," said Miller in referring to the fast-living quarterback of the New York Jets of the National Football League. "I dress mod and I guess I'm kind of swinger. And I'm from Pennsylvania, like Namath."

Miller averaged only 10.9 and 12.2 points per game in his last two seasons after scoring at a rate of 17 points per game in his rookie year, but he has zoomed his average to over 20 points this season.

"I was determined that no one was going to take my job away," he said. "Other people didn't have the confidence in me that I did, but I knew I could score 20 points a game."

Rookie Ted McClain helped Miller with 28 points. Pittsburgh's George Thompson also scored 28.

Elsewhere in the ABA, the Floridians beat Virginia 124-113, Utah trounced Memphis 114-89, and Kentucky edged Denver 106-103.

John Brockington Rookie Of Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "I did a good job but I still can improve," said John Brockington, named Tuesday as the NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year by The Associated Press after setting a first-year rushing record for Green Bay.

"I did a lot of learning this year about pro football in general, finding out what I can do," the husky 23-year-old Ohio State University senior added.

"I want to try to get more yardage next year. I want to be a better man in the passing game. I want to help the Packers get back on top of the league."

Brockington's 1,105 yards rushing—he was the fourth rookie in pro history to gain 1,000 yards—was one of the few good things to happen to Green Bay this season. They ended with a 4-8-2 record, the worst since 1958 for the Packers.

Brockington, a 6-foot-1, 225-pounder was the overwhelming selection for offense rookie honors by a nationwide panel of sports writer and sports-casters. He amassed 43½ votes out of 60 cast. Jim Plunkett, quarterback for the New England Patriots, was runnerup with 14½ votes. The other two votes went to Vic Washington of the San Francisco 49ers and John Riggins of the New York Jets.

Brockington rushed for more than 100 yards in four different games, including a 142-yard effort on 30 carries in a 17-14 win over the Chicago Bears Nov. 7.

In the Dec. 12 game against the Bears at Green Bay he snapped the 1,000-yard mark.

"I got the least yards against Miami the next week," Brockington said. He couldn't recall what that distance was. Game records show he rushed for 73 yards against the Dolphins.

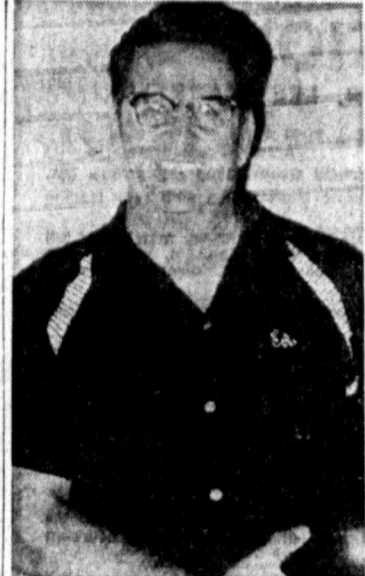

"Considering it was my first year in pro ball," he said, "I feel I did a good job, but I still can improve. I know that."

Brockington, married and the father of a 4-year-old daughter, said he still needs 20 hours of academic work to graduate and plans to spend the next two quarters at Ohio State. He's working on a degree in education and hopes some day to become a history teacher.

Green Bay acquired Brockington by getting an earlier draft pick in a deal that sent quarterback Don Horn to Denver for lineman Alden Roche.

Coach Dan Devine said that while the Packers knew Brockington was talented, his big year surprised them.

"I'd have to say he was a pleasant surprise, although we knew right away when we first looked at him in our spring camp in Arlington, Tex., that we had something special," Devine said.

TOP PINSTER — Ed Booth (above) won Bowler of the Week honors at the Bowl-A-Rama the past week with an aggregate score of 735. Earning a similar honor at Webb AFB was Ron Roigren, who registered a 677.

Milwaukee Bucks Rip Knicks In Comeback

By The Associated Press

The Milwaukee Bucks, defending National Basketball Association champions, may finally have overcome the jinx that has plagued them against the New York Knicks.

At least, the Bucks gave an indication of it Tuesday night, beating New York 121-100.

For the Bucks, who dropped a 101-99 decision to New York Monday night after leading by 15 points it was only their fifth victory over the Knicks in 24 meetings including playoffs over the last four seasons. But the 21-point margin was the worst drubbing they had ever given New York.

Following the nationally televised game Monday night, Walt Frazier, who scored the winning basket, said: "I think we have the number but tomorrow we'll have to be keyed up again. We'll have to prove it was no fluke. They'll be coming after us to prove it was an accident."

The Bucks came after the Knicks fast Tuesday building a 36-23 lead after one minute of the second period and never were threatened.

Kareem Jabbar and Oscar Robertson, the Bucks' dynamic duo, scored 36 and 22 points, respectively. Frazier was high for the Knicks with 21 points.

Meanwhile, in the NBA, Phoenix defeated Chicago 112

108, Philadelphia topped Detroit 131-127, Houston downed Seattle 119-110, Golden State crushed Buffalo 112-86, and Atlanta whipped Portland 103-91.

Phoenix' Connie Hawkins, who earlier was involved in a fight with Chicago's Bob Love, scored five points in the final minute and stole a key pass as the Suns ended the Bulls seven-game winning streak. Clem Haskins led Phoenix with 23 points. Chet Walker had 26 for the Bulls.

Billy Cunningham fired in 17 of his 39 points in the final period as Philadelphia held off a Detroit rally that saw the Pistons cut a 19-point 76ers lead to one. Jimmy Walker topped Detroit with 31 points.

Calvin Murphy came off the bench to score 28 points and record a career high 12 assists, and another reserve, Rudy Tomjanovich grabbed 22 rebounds, helping Houston beat Seattle. Lee Winfield and Spencer Haywood shared scoring honors for Seattle with 22 points apiece.

SECOND INTERVIEW Homer Rice May Get Rice Post

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Homer Rice, athletic director at North Carolina, will shortly be named head football coach and athletic director at Rice University, the Raleigh News and Observer said it had learned Tuesday night.

HOMER RICE
(AP WIREPHOTO)

Rice could not be reached for comment. Dr. Edward Hedgepeth, UNC athletic faculty chairman, said Rice was out of town.

Hedgepeth, asked about the report, said he only knew what he had read in the newspapers earlier—that Rice was interviewed for the job.

The News and Observer said Rice was in Houston Tuesday for his second interview with Rice officials. The newspaper said sources there indicated an agreement had been reached and announcement of the appointment could be expected in a day or so.

Rice, who has been athletic director at North Carolina three years, was interviewed a week ago by Rice President Norman Hackerman.

The dual position at Rice became vacant when Bill Peterson resigned to become head coach of the Houston Oilers.

Gordon Talks With Mecom

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Astronaut Richard Gordon was due here today to talk with John Mecom, owner of the New Orleans Saints, about becoming general manager of the National Football League club.

The post has been vacant since Vic Schwenk was fired in mid-December.

"Dick will more than likely be our general manager," Mecom said in an interview in today's editions of The Times-Picayune. "I believe it is time for me to do something that would eliminate clashes between general manager and coach."

"I have talked to several other people about the job and have made up my mind."

Mecom also said he planned to give Head Coach J. D. Roberts a three-year contract to make him "feel secure in his job."

Billy Casper Favorite In Campbell-LA Open

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Billy Casper, the quiet man who has a fantastic record in this event, ranked as the pre-tourney favorite as the pro golf tour started its 11-month schedule in the $125,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open.

The 72-hole tournament, the first of more than 40 major events on the $7.5-million tour, opens Thursday on the 6,821-yard, par-71 Rancho Park Golf Course with Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino among the chief challengers to the business-like Casper.

In fact, most of the game's premier performers are on hand for the early start of the tour with only Jack Nicklaus, Frank Beard and South African Gary Player among the major names missing.

All the rest of the $100,000 winners from the 1971 tour—along with defending champion Bob Lunn, England's Tony Jacklin and Bob Goaly, winner of the Bahama Islands Open just three weeks ago—are on hand for the season's kickoff event.

But Casper, a 40-year-old perfectionist who had a relatively poor season last year, remained the top choice in the event he has dominated in recent years. In his last four starts in this tournament, he has won twice, lost in a playoff and missed first place by a single shot.

In fact, he, Palmer and Paul Harney, now a part-time tourist with a club job in Sutton, Mass., have won seven of the last nine Los Angeles events. The gray-haired Harney also is in the 144-man field that is shooting for a $25,000 first-place check.

The 42-year-old Palmer, who had his first $200,000 season and won four events last year, and the talkative Trevino each are coming off a four-week break.

Through a quirk in the drawings, the two are paired together for the first two days and are certain to draw most of the gallery in this 46th annual on hand for the season's kickoff event.

Johnny Majors Says He Isn't Seeking Change

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State football Coach Johnny Majors said Tuesday night he is not actively seeking the dual position of football coach and athletic director at Rice University.

Majors, 36, confirmed that he visited the Houston, Tex., school Monday for an interview, but at the school's request.

"I am not an applicant for the job, and I am not pursuing the job," he said, "because I am extremely pleased with the progress being made at Iowa State."

Majors also denied a report that he had been offered the position by the Southwest Conference school but declined it.

"This is not true," he said. "Rice is a great school and I was highly impressed. It is such a fine institution that if they had offered me the job I would not shame them by saying 'I had turned it down.'"

Majors reportedly was one of three top choices for the positions vacated last month when Bill Peterson resigned to become head coach of the Houston Oilers in the National Football League.

The other two top prospects are Homer Rice, former head football coach at Cincinnati and now athletic director at North Carolina, and Barry Switzer, an assistant coach at Oklahoma.

Majors said "an individual owes it to his family and to himself to look into it when a position such as this is available," but again he emphasized that Rice made the first contact.

"My people (Iowa State) knew I was going to the interview, but I've never looked for a place to go since I've been at Iowa State."

"I think I have a good opportunity at Iowa State," Majors said. "I'm in a position where I'm interested in getting where we can compete for the Big Eight Conference championship."

Iowa State finished 8-4 under Majors last season in his fourth year at the Cyclone helm and played in the school's first post-season bowl game.

The only losses were to Nebraska, Oklahoma and Colorado in the Big Eight teams-ranked one, two and three in the final poll — and to 11th-ranked Louisiana State in the Sun Bowl.

Iowa State announced Dec. 1 that Majors' contract, which originally had been for five years, was being extended through December of 1976. Terms and salary were not disclosed.

Fifth-Ranked Hoosiers Upset By Huskie Five

By The Associated Press

While not everybody in Northern Illinois' gym liked the music before the game against Indiana Tuesday night, there were no complaints about the sweet sounds on the court once the game got started.

The Huskies, who came into the game with a 102.5 scoring average—second highest in the nation—upset fifth-ranked Indiana 85-71 despite a 30-point outburst by the Hoosiers' Ibbie Wright.

The national anthem was played before the game, the first time since Northern Illinois President Richard Nelson imposed a ban on its playing Dec. 4. The ban had been placed because of objections by black students at the school.

When the anthem was played Tuesday night, Northern's six black cheerleaders walked off the floor and most of the black students in the crowd refused to stand.

But everybody liked the game that came after the anthem—everybody, that is, except the visitors.

Northern jumped off to a 10-3 lead in the opening 2½ minutes and was never threatened. The Huskies led 43-33 at the half, raised the spread to 63-42 after eight minutes of the second half and then coasted home.

The victory was Northern Illinois' eighth in nine outings, while Indiana suffered its second loss against eight triumphs.

In a pair of West Coast games, eighth-ranked Long Beach State raised its record to 10-1 by taking a 95-82 decision over Temple, now 8-3, while No. 16 Hawaii was knocked from the unbeaten ranks by Los Angeles Loyola 88-78.

WITH THEIR CHILDREN, OIL LAMPS Refugees Bangladesh Bound

COMILLA, Bangladesh (AP) — Burdened with their bundles and small children, their blackened cooking pots and oil lamps and battered umbrellas, the refugees of Bangladesh are coming home.

They come in trucks and buses, in long processions of bicycle rickshaws.

At first, after the surrender of the Pakistani army last month, only the venturesome crossed from India to homes close to the border.

Now the trickle has become a stream. The Bangladesh government hopes to have all 10 million refugees home by April, in time to plant next season's rice.

MALARIA PILLS

Many return to homes burnt or ransacked. Peasant farmers have lost their few cattle and oxen, fishermen their nets and craftsmen their tools.

At a transit camp in Comilla, several thousand refugees rested among their bundles, awaiting transport to distant towns and villages. They lined up patiently for packets of cookies, cans of fish and milk, and rations of rice and molasses.

There were malaria pills for all who needed them but no other medical services.

An International Red Cross team arrived from Dacca in gleaming white jeeps to assess the refugees' health requirements.

Women with babies balanced on their hips gathered their other children around them and squeezed into crowded buses. Their menfolk collected tin trunks and rush mats and what little else they had salvaged and piled them precariously atop the buses. For refugees with homes near Comilla, it was a rickshaw ride the rest of the way. Long lines of them straggled along the roads for miles around. The refugees traveling two and three to a vehicle with their chattels on their laps.

(AP WIREPHOTO via cable from London)

HEADED HOME — With their belongings piled in an ox cart this refugee family approaches the India-Bangladesh border on its way home recently. The trickle of refugees going home has become a flood and the Bangladesh government hopes to have all 10 million refugees home by April.

Some came back with chickens and even goats. One man carried the sign for his shop.

Rai Mohan Das is 45, a haggard, bearded Hindu who earned a living making cigarettes from local tobacco rolled in leaf. Until he fled to India last April, he lived with a score of relatives in the village of Kerokhal, a few miles from Comilla.

Now Das and his relatives were returning home. They left the rickshaws at the main road and made their way silently on foot through rice paddies and banana groves to the village.

They found their huts stripped bare, sheets of tin roofing ripped away and not a stick of furniture left.

Das looked around bleakly.

"We have suffered much," he said. "Now we are home and our lives begin again. We ask only for peace."

As he spoke, the cooking pots were being unpacked and the fires rekindled in Karokhal and countless other villages in Bangladesh.

More Money For Ram Jet

DALLAS (AP) — Officials of LTV Aerospace Corp.'s Vought Missiles and Space Co. announced Tuesday that the company is receiving an additional $1,030,000 for continuing work on its advanced air-launched low volume ram jet propulsion system.

The funds were allotted by the Naval Air Systems Command as an extension of an existing contract totaling more than $8 million.

Included under the advanced development program will be flight demonstrations to determine capabilities of the new type propulsion system, designed as a stepping stone toward missile systems of the future.

Work is being conducted at the Vought Missiles and Space Co. plant in Grand Prairie, Tex.

Army Taking Guns Off All Med Evac Copters In Viet

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Army is taking the guns off all its medical evacuation helicopters in Vietnam, painting most of them white and putting out millions of leaflets and posters appealing to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese not to shoot at them.

The deadline for removing the guns is Friday. The only unit that still has them is the 3rd Brigade of the 1st Air Cavalry Division. Four of its six medical evacuation helicopters still have guns, but spokesmen said they would be disarmed by Friday.

The bulk of the evacuation helicopters are operated by the Army's Medical Command, which has 48 assigned throughout Vietnam. So far, 13 of these have been painted white and the entire fleet is to be changed over from the olive drab which are marked only with red crosses.

The U.S. Command initially announced that all medical evacuation helicopters in Vietnam would be painted white with red crosses. Later it said it was urging individual combat units to paint their medical helicopters white, but the decision was left to the unit commanders.

Such individual units as the 3rd Brigade, which operates in the Saigon region, and the 101st Airborne Division in the northern part of the country have only a handful of their own medical evacuation helicopters.

The new test program aimed at reducing aircraft losses and casualties was begun Oct. 1. The idea of painting the helicopters white was to make it easier for the enemy to recognize them as medical and not combat helicopters.

The Army said that millions of leaflets have been dropped in the countryside and 50,000 posters have been distributed and tacked up in villages and hamlets.

The messages stress the mercy mission of the medical helicopters, that they are unarmed and that they will pick up both friend and foe. They ask the enemy to refrain from shooting at the white aircraft.

The messages also urge the Viet Cong not to fire on olive drab helicopters marked with red crosses. An evaluation team is keeping records on all of the air ambulances to get some idea whether the non-combatant status of the white helicopters is being respected by the enemy.

Skull Of Young Girl Recovered

HOUSTON (AP) — Weather permitting, divers will search Taylor Bayou in South Harris County today for more clues where the skull of a young girl was recovered.

It was found Monday about three-eighths of a mile from where a partial skeleton of a male youth was found Sept. 1 in a drainage ditch, officers said.

The skull belonged to a white girl between 13 and 17 years old, Dr. G. Sheldon Green, an assistant medical examiner, said.

It was estimated the dead boy was 13 to 16 at the time of death and stood about five feet, seven inches tall, Green said.

There were no marks of violence on either the skull or the skeleton, officers said, and they were unable to determine the causes of death.

The discovery this week followed those in late November of the headless bodies of two young women in the Addicks Reservoir area of north Harris County.

Investigators said they had no reason to believe that the latest discovery was related to the murders of Colette Wilson, 13, and Gloria Gonzalez, 19, whose bodies were found within three days of each other about 80 feet apart.

A number of suspects have been questioned in the deaths of the two girls, but investigators say leads are thinning out.

The medical examiner's office said examination of the skull found Monday revealed the girl had been in the water about a month. The boy's skeleton appeared to have been in the water from two weeks to two months, authorities said.

Capt. J. J. Klevenhagen of the Harris County Sheriff's Department said officers did not believe there might be more bodies in the Taylor Bayou area.

"There is no reason to think this is a dumping ground for bodies," he said.

Upland Samplings Reveal Decrease

Pecos territory grades were widely distributed and strict low middling was the predominant grade at 20 per cent of classings for the two-week period ending Dec. 31. Mack Bennett, in charge of the USDA classing office, reported that 5,020 upland samples were classed compared to 7,780 in the preceding two weeks.

Other white grades accounted for 31 per cent of classings, and spotted and light spotted grades accounted for 35 per cent. Eleven per cent of the samples was below grades, and 41 per cent was reduced in grade because of bark content. Staples 33 and 34 were the predominant staple lengths and together accounted for 54 per cent of classings. Staple 32 and shorter accounted for 42 per cent.

Upland mike readings were in the 3.5 to 4.9 range on 41 per cent of the samples. Thirty per cent miked 3.0 to 3.2 and 17 per cent miked 3.3 to 3.4.
