NIXON'S ELECTION PLAN LABELED 'FARCE'

Hanoi Hammers Peace Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's newly unveiled eight-point Vietnam peace offer drew a cool reception from North Vietnam today and found little favor with his critics at home.

The President, in a surprise announcement, disclosed a proposal made secretly eight months ago for a U.S. pullout in exchange for a prisoner release, and his broader eight-point offer made last October. The latter proposes that South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu step down pending a new election.

'NOTHING NEW'

Radio Hanoi said the proposal offers "nothing new" and doesn't change current U.S. positions "in any way."

The Nixon pull-out offer was conditional and involved only U.S. troops, not an end to "the U.S. war of aggression through Vietnamization and maintenance of the lackey clique of Nguyen Van Thieu," the North Vietnamese broadcast said. It called the election proposal a farce.

HUSH-HUSH DEAL

In a radio-television address Tuesday night Nixon disclosed he had dispatched his national-security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, to Paris a dozen times since Aug. 4, 1969, for hush-hush negotiations with top North Vietnamese envoys.

Hanoi negotiators rejected a U.S. offer last May for a pullout deadline in return for prisoner release and cease-fire, he said. Nixon said the eight-point plan "has not been rejected, but it has been ignored."

A White House official said the first enemy response "is likely to be negative" when U.S. negotiator William Porter presents the plan publicly at Thursday's weekly Paris peace-talks meeting. The official voiced hope for a more-favorable North Vietnamese reaction later.

But a main aim of Nixon's 20-minute address was also to defuse domestic criticism — and various congressmen who have been attacking the administration's Vietnam policy were again disapproving.

"On May 31, 1971 eight months ago, at one of the secret meetings in Paris," Nixon said, "we offered specifically to agree to a deadline for the withdrawal of all American forces in exchange for the lease of all prisoners of war and a cease-fire. "At the next private meeting, on June 26, the North Vietnamese rejected our offer. They privately proposed instead their own nine-point plan which insisted that we overthrow the government of South Vietnam." Calling his new offer "one of which we can all agree" and an effort to break the deadlock at Paris, Nixon said: "Some of our citizens have become accustomed to thinking that whatever our government says must be false, and whatever our enemies say must be true. The record I have revealed tonight proves the contrary."

The White House account of the 2½ years of secret negotiations stressed that the North Vietnamese are insisting on Thieu's removal as part of any settlement.

Nixon's eight-point plan featured a new presidential election in South Vietnam as the U.S.-Saigon offer on this prime sticking point in the Paris talks.

Fraud Guilt Overturned

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The fraud conviction of Marshall Womack in Odessa, Tex., has been overturned and a new trial under a different judge ordered by a federal appeals court.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals said the trial judge's charge to the jury "destroyed the cloak of impartiality which the judge should wear."

Womack borrowed $1,400,000 from the Home Savings Association of Odessa to use to purchase stock in the association.

He was accused by the government of conspiracy to defraud. The government said the loan was secured by property valued at only $377,000, although the terms of the loan called for security in excess of the amount of the loan.

Several others were tried in the case and two were acquitted.

Womack appealed to the 5th Circuit, saying the judge was biased and refused to step down from the case when asked.

The 5th Circuit said that the judge erred in not stepping down from the case and that he erred in his charge to the jury, adding that the charge "exhibits a prosecutor's zeal on the part of a trial judge."

Coahoma Schools Shutting Down

COAHOMA — Because of the continuing battle with the flu that has been going on in the Coahoma schools, the public schools will be closed here following classes this afternoon.

Classes will not be resumed until Monday morning, according to Supt. Andy Wilson.

An estimated 20 per cent of students and faculty are out with the ailment. In round numbers, that figures out to 195.

Woman Slain, Impresario Injured By Bomb Blasts

NEW YORK (AP) — A young woman was killed and impresario Sol Hurok was injured today as incendiary devices went off in the offices of two organizations that book Soviet talent.

An anonymous telephone caller told The Associated Press at 9:44 a.m. that incendiary devices had exploded in the offices of Hurok and, a block away, at Columbia Artists Management Corp., which book Soviet talent to perform in this country.

Hurok, suffering smoke inhalation, was among six persons injured and rushed by ambulances to nearby hospitals.

Columbia Artist offices were unoccupied at the time of the blast.

Kenneth Burns, 27, chief engineer of the 31-story structure in which Hurok has a 20th-floor office, said:

"I heard a pop like the explosion of an electric light bulb," he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Kissinger disclosed today he made his clandestine trips to Paris for private Vietnam peace talks by transferring from one plane to another several times and by landing at a little-used airfield near the French capital.

MAY DO IT AGAIN

Kissinger, President Nixon's assistant for national security affairs, said he didn't want to go into extensive details on his trips to Paris over a 30-month period because "we may want to do it again."

But he did say he generally flew to American military bases, apparently in Europe, transferred once or twice and then, through the cooperation of French President Georges Pompidou, would end up "at some little-used airfield near Paris."

He told newsmen he generally stayed "in the outskirts with people we used as contacts." He did not identify them. The meeting places, which he did not divulge, were "furnished by the other side," he said.

Ten of his 13 trips were secret, he said, and the others were publicly known although the fact he was meeting with the North Vietnamese peace negotiators was not.

HECTIC THING

"It was usually a rather hectic thing to accomplish this in two days," Kissinger said.

While he wouldn't be specific, indications were that several of the Kissinger trips were made in government jets not part of the presidential fleet.

The stocky, graying Kissinger, who speaks with the accent of his native Germany, sandwiched his Paris trips around another journey. That one produced the bombshell announcement last summer that Nixon will travel to China, a visit arranged by Kissinger when he secretly conferred in Peking with Chinese leaders.

As with his China announcement, Nixon and his spokesmen had subtly telegraphed the scope of the secret Vietnam talks which the chief executive disclosed in his national televised speech Tuesday night. White House aides wouldn't publicly discuss details of Kissinger's Paris trips which, according to air-mileage charts, would total 98,328 miles.

Smith Claims Impeachment Report 'Fib'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith and an attorney for House Speaker Gus Mutscher today both denounced a report that Mutscher had threatened to bring impeachment proceedings against Smith if the governor calls a special legislative session before Mutscher's bribery trial is finished.

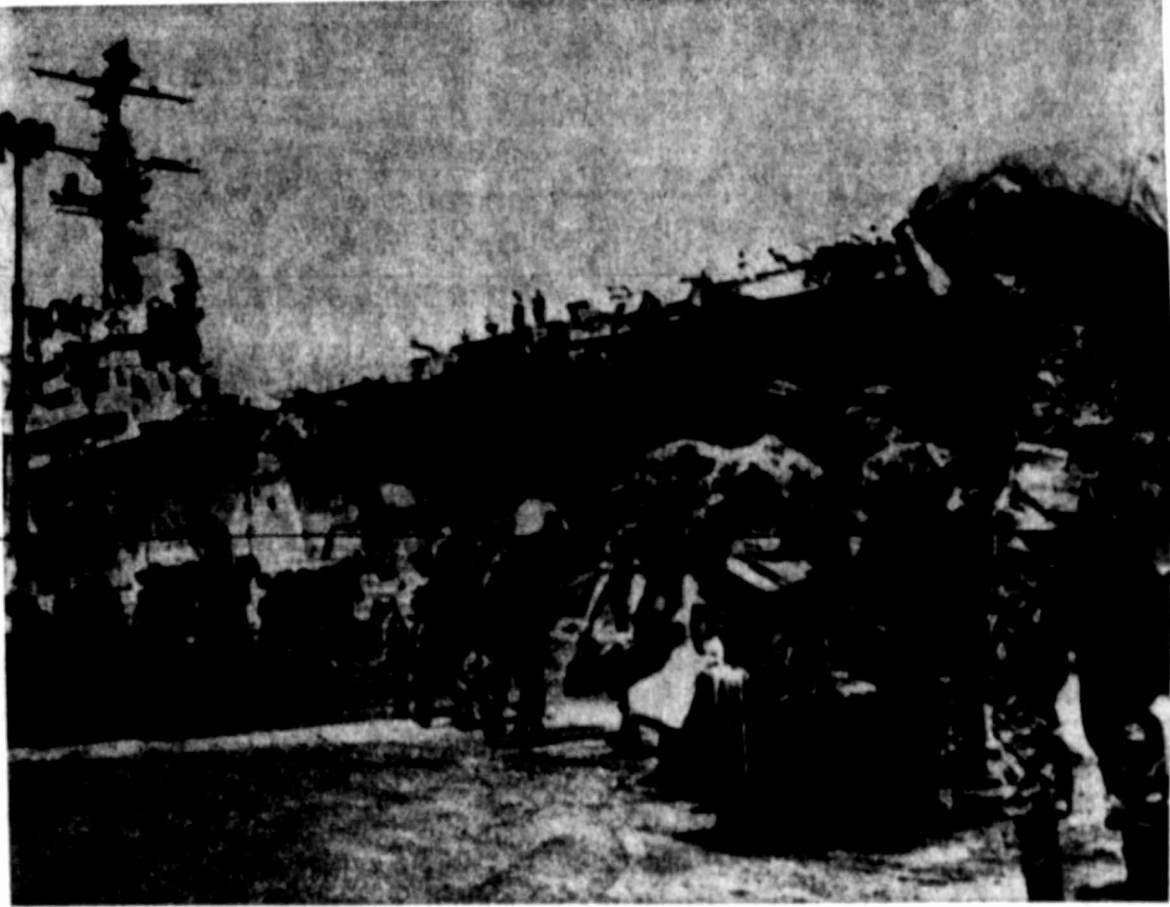

Smith said in Austin that the report was a "total, unadulterated fabrication—a fantastic fiction."

In Corpus Christi Mutscher's lawyer, Frank Maloney of Austin, said the report was erroneous. He termed it "rot."

The initial report came from Rosser McDonald, state capitol reporter in Austin for television station WFAA of Dallas.

"Gus Mutscher apparently through his lawyers," McDonald said, "informed Gov. Smith that if Smith calls a special session before Mutscher's trial in Abilene, the first thing Mutscher would do after bringing the House to order would be to recognize a member of the House who would impose impeachment proceedings against the governor."

"The attorneys for the speaker have never contacted me for any purpose," Gov. Smith said. "Nor have I at any time visited with them concerning this or any other matter."

PROPOSES COMPLETE WITHDRAWAL — President Nixon disclosed Tuesday night in Washington a Vietnam peace plan which he said had been secretly offered to the Communists and which calls for withdrawal of all U.S. troops within six months if North Vietnam frees American prisoners of war and agrees to a cease-fire in Vietnam. Secretary Of State Witness For Bates CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — The secretary of the Texas Senate took the witness stand today as an apparent alibi witness in the trial of state Sen. Jim Bates of Edinburg.

Charles Schnabel Jr. testified that he brought records of the Texas Senate and the Senate Jurisprudence Committee for May 6, 1969. Bates is chairman of the committee.

The Lower Rio Grande Valley senator is being tried on a charge of receiving a five-carat diamond, stolen by Adrian Lambert in a burglary at the home of Corpus Christi lawyer Edmond J. Ford.

Earlier testimony from prosecution witnesses indicated that Bates went to Rosenberg to have the diamond appraised on the afternoon of May 6, 1969. Schnabel testified that Bates was present for six roll call votes at the morning session of May 6.

Schnabel, who went into great detail concerning Senate action that day, had not reached the events of that afternoon when District Court Judge Vernon Harville called for the mid-morning recess.

Lambert testified that Bates left for Rosenberg after the Senate adjourned at noon.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., says the plan approved Saturday by a three-judge panel in Dallas would "gravely and irreversibly disrupt the political structure of Texas with respect to its representation in the Congress."

Bentsen backed other Texas officials Tuesday in asking Justice Lewis Powell Jr. to block the court-ordered redistricting in Texas' congressional districts. The Senator also asked Gov.

Preston Smith to call a special session but Smith remained adamant that he will not call such a session with redistricting in mind. The plan is to supplant one drawn up last year by the Texas legislature. The three judges, Joe Ingraham, William M. Taylor Sr. and Robert M. Hill, declared it in violation of the one-man, one-vote rule. The legislature's plan would have placed 4.1 per cent more people in the largest congressional district than in the smallest. The Supreme Court has held that congressional districts must be equal in population and that even the smallest variance from equality is illegal if not justified. He said redistricting is a job for the legislature, the body elected by the people, and he noted that the court in its decision had made a good-faith effort to redistrict. "The court can rightfully set up acceptable parameters for districting but certainly adoption of such a changed plan was usurpation of legislative powers," Bentsen said. Six Texas congressmen pitted against each others in the court-ordered redistricting plan are irritated with Texas Gov. Preston Smith for spurning their pleas to call the legislature into session to draft an alternate bill. On Monday, Texas officials filed a motion in the Supreme Court for a stay. They asked Powell, who has jurisdiction over suits from Texas, to block the district court's plan. Bentsen, through Yale law Prof. Charles L. Black Jr., supported the Texas officials as "friend of the court." He said the Dallas panel's judgment "is wrong, not being warranted by the Constitution or by the precedents of this court." The senator said the granting of a stay could produce some harm—"Mainly, the holding of an election under the legislature's plan, with only several small variations from exact mathematical equality."

Rate Revision Draws Fire As Second Step Approved

Second reading of an ordinance to initiate a six per cent increase in electric service rates was vehemently opposed by a few in the regular session of the city commission Tuesday evening, but was approved on a split vote of the city fathers.

Commissioners Eddie Acree, Wade Choate and Frog Koger and Mayor J. Arnold Marshall approved the second reading and commissioner Jack Watkins cast the sole opposing vote.

At the outset of the discussion concerning the ordinance, Watkins began to interrogate Don Womack, Texas Electric Service Co. district manager, on the type of return the company was expecting for its investment.

The commissioner accused TESCO of wanting the return on a broad local base to make up money losses on big electricity users. Womack flatly rejected the allegation.

"You are asking your regular little customers to increase their payments by $165,000,000 to build up service that will probably never be used by the individual customers, and that's wrong," said Watkins in opposition to the increase.

RETURNS FIRE

Womack returned the commissioner's fire, explaining that small customers create a bigger stand-by demand for service, and that all customers, both big and small, will therefore be affected by the increase. Heavy investments are required to provide standby power, to meet customer needs when they want it, are just as expensive to provide whether the equipment is being used to capacity or not, said Womack.

Kenneth Howell, union manager locally, informed the commission he was opposed to the increase. "I do not think the commission knows enough about the request to approve a rate increase, and I think the intelligence of the city has been insulted by the lack of information provided by the company," said Watkins.

Womack said the company had made an effort to furnish all information asked by any commissioner, but that some of the things Watkins was asking were not available in the form Watkins was asking.

Another hot issue which was touched lightly by the commission was a request by the Charter Action Committee calling for a charter revision election.

After agreeing the charter indeed was in need of change, the city fathers indicated they were in favor of changing the charter by amendments, rather than going to the expense of calling an entire new charter election.

Commissioner Acree moved that discussion of action to be taken on the charter revision be postponed until the end of the fiscal year, so that the impending expense of the issue could be considered in the budget appropriations for the next fiscal year. The council concurred.

Also in the regular session commissioners directed Harry Nagel, city manager, to advise the Chamber of Commerce that the city is taking over the operation of the Cosden Country Club, under the existing rules and rates.

Operation of the club was transferred to the Chamber a year ago when the club facilities were given to the city.

Within the near future, the city administration will try to pass an ordinance concerning updated operations at the club and lake, according to the city manager.

OTHER ITEMS

In other business the commission:

- Approved the third and final reading of the water rate ordinance fixing a delinquent fee on all late water and sewer account payments.
- Approved the first reading of a resolution authorizing the mayor to enter into a contract with USAF for the removal of buildings at Webb AFB.
- Okayed a request for a street light on the corner of Fifth and Union streets.
- Denied a request for a street light at the alley between Gregg and Lancaster.
- Approved a certificate of occupancy being requested by Carol J. Carter for the authorization to sell beer and wine for on premises consumption at the Hitching Post, 1710 W. 3rd.
- Denied a paving cut request made by Baptist Temple.
- Approved a request by the Big Spring Insurance Association to place waste paper containers in the downtown area.
- Tabled to the next session a request for improved water service on the east side of town to the Arnett Estate and surrounding property.
- Approved recommendations by the city manager for revision of existing personnel policy in the city.
- Approved vouchers paid by the city through Jan. 25.

In today's hand, taken from a World's Championship Team of Four match, one North feared that if he bid too strongly, his opponent might be induced to seek a profitable sacrifice. He therefore adopted a "soft sell" approach in an effort to buy the hand.

The bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram. West opened with one diamond and North, who was well-heeled in the other suits, made a takeout double. South held a self-sufficient suit and facing a partner who had announced a good hand, he was willing to undertake a game contract. He, therefore, leaped directly to four spades. West persisted to five diamonds.

North was convinced that his side could make a slam for, if South held the top trumps in spades, he should be able to restrict his losses to one heart trick. Psychological considerations deterred North from bidding six spades directly, however. If he sounded too confident, West, who obviously had a long diamond suit, might be reluctant to defend. Furthermore there was no assurance that a bid of seven diamonds could be punished severely.

North accordingly bided his time by bidding five spades. West realized that his defensive prospects were virtually nonexistent and he carried on to six diamonds. North now made a disciplined "forcing pass." Inasmuch as he and his partner had bid very strongly, South was obliged to take some action over six diamonds. The pass by North at this point is actually a strength showing call, for it implies a willingness to carry on. If he thought the partnership could not make a slam, he would have doubled six diamonds himself.

South read his partner's message perfectly and he bid six spades. Perhaps West should have taken out some insurance by bidding seven diamonds, but he felt his opponents might be guessing, and he decided to take his chances against the slam.

There was little to the play and South routinely chalked up 12 tricks for a score of 1,430 on the deal (750 bonus for the slam and 500 for the game). At the other table, the bidding proceeded in the same manner until West reached five diamonds. At this point, North went directly to six spades. West now sacrificed in seven diamonds and succeeded in taking nine tricks for a deficit of 700 points—which represented a substantial saving against the vulnerable slam.

Hilliard Is Found Guilty

Jody Hilliard, 19, Monahans, was sentenced Tuesday to 25 years in state prison for his role in the Dec. 11, 1970 robbery of DeWees' Enco Service Station during which the station attendant, James Gregory was shot.

Hilliard is the second man to be convicted in connection with the robbery of DeWees Service Station. Howard Franklin, 33, is in Howard County jail awaiting appeal on his 100-year prison sentence. Franklin was alleged to be the one who shot Gregory, wounding him in the chin and throat.

Clara Spencer, Odessa, who gave her name as Marye Smith Franklin when she was arrested, is charged in connection with the robbery. She is alleged to be the woman who drove the car for the two men.

The trio was linked in testimony with robbery of Parks Gulf Station, on Gregg Street, on the same night that the DeWees station was robbed.

Hilliard was returned to County jail following his trial Tuesday.

Reader Says She Differs On Hospital Financing

Dear Publisher: The doctors and board of directors of Medical Center Memorial Hospital are pushing upon the citizens of this community a counterfeit reality. Only a few years ago, the same persons would be against government grants and tax free agencies that earned a dollar as well as tax free individuals who invested in wealth earning businesses, without having to pay tax on the income. But this is exactly what they are asking the citizens of this community to do. Although we all know that the above people enjoy a tremendous income, they want to be on public welfare and enjoy the benefits of the other person's tax dollars.

They intend to build a hospital at a cost of $2,600,000. Of this sum we taxpayers first give them $1,000,000 from the Federal Government in a form not so innocuous by calling it a "grant" under the Hill-Burton Act. Then without giving the people of this county any opportunity to decide if it was proper or necessary, they approached the County Commissioner's Court without any notice or compliance with law and induced them to pass a resolution making their tax exempt. The Commissioner's Court of May, 1970, by passing this resolution, allowed this medical authority to be able to build this hospital and according to their own figures, not have to pay approximately $40,000 of tax to the various local agencies per year. In addition to the grant of $1,000,000 and this tax savings of approximately $40,000, they will also not have to pay any tax on the earnings of the amount of $1,600,000 which will be used to finance the balance of the hospital. Naturally, they will not have to pay any sales tax. Meanwhile, Cowper Clinic, Medical Arts Hospital and Hall-Bennett Hospital will be paying taxes on their property and income from them, as well as personal income tax.

We are being sold on the hospital for the reason that it is needed because of humanitarian interests, that is, we owe it to the citizens and the doctors and board of directors of this hospital to do this for them. Are these people who run this hospital in such financial need that they need all this help from us citizens? These hospitals are making money, so why should our citizens be asked to pay for something that can pay for itself.

My only quarrel is with the method of financing. Let them have their hospital, but let's not let this medical center hitchhike on the taxpayers of this county.

I do not intend to be too critical of the local doctors who attempt to do this. I blame the federal legislators who made

Need Is Now, Woman Says

Dear Editor: I feel compelled to write to you and to the citizens of Howard County in regard to the current hospital situation in our county.

In the past several months, three members of my family have been patients in our fine, but oh so small, hospital. Two of our young granddaughters had tonsilectomies. When they entered the hospital, there were no rooms, so they were given beds in the hall! Late, both of those days, there were rooms available and they each got one. We were so grateful.

Last week, my husband entered the hospital for surgery. We were lucky that day. He got a semi-private room. The next morning, outside his room, on a bed in the hall, was a dear, very elderly little lady. I thought, should we give up this small space we have for her?

The next morning there was an elderly little gentleman in the hall and my heart went out to him.

The next morning, my husband was discharged, a little too soon, perhaps, but the hospital so desperately needed that room. That morning the nurse at the desk said "This is great. We have three that are going home. Now I can get all my patients out of the hall."

This is such an appalling situation for our city. We the people deserve better than this, and it has been offered. So, I just can't understand men who would throw obstacles in its way.

"Please, dear citizens, I really don't know how, but let's all get behind this great project and get a big, new hospital built in Big Spring very soon, because the need is now."

CAN YOU TOP THIS?

STERLING, Ill. (P) - When a sign appeared on a restaurant declaring "Topless waitresses - our girls can't be topped for service," an irate woman called the police to complain the eatery was employing half-naked women.

The police assured the woman the sign referred to the service, not to the waitresses' attire.

The woman, still concerned, threatened to air her grievance on the local radio talk show, and the police reassured her they would check.

Listed in their log was "Check sidewalk restaurant for a long line of people."

Getting To The Core

Among the points raised in some discussions surrounding the proposal for a new hospital here is that of linking doctors and the hospital.

Except that doctors practice in hospitals, just as lawyers practice in courthouses and teachers in school buildings, there is no connection of doctors with the venture. Certainly they are interested individuals, and their counsel on standards and designs are sought and highly regarded.

But doctors do not run the hospital. A volunteer board of laymen does that. To suggest that physicians are seeking to hitch hike on the body public is a pure bit of demagoguery and appeal to class prejudice. While physicians do command good salaries from their clinics, they also end up doing a whole lot of work for charity — or what turns out to be charity in the form of unpaid bills. Since charity or care of the indigent is the public's responsibility rather than that of a professional man, it might fairly be said that in contrast to seeking to dump a load on the public, all physicians we know about in these parts actually carry a part of the public's rightful burden.

And really, this gets at the core of one of the problems associated with the present controversy concerning a proposed facility which would be freed from ad valorem taxes, but which could not levy taxes.

The public here has taken a ride on its private and non-profit hospitals for so long that many have come to regard this as an accepted if not divine right. Nowhere else in this area, where there are anything like comparable medical services, does this condition obtain.

And it's not going to keep on here indefinitely without gradual erosion of quality and quantity of medical service. The old timers can't last forever. Ultimately, a basic decision is going to have to be made on this point — and upon that decision will rest the medical future of our city and area.

Please Be Careful

In recent days and weeks, both the city fire department and units serving rural areas, have been busy combatting grass and weed fires. Some of these have proven serious if not extremely costly.

In every case, these fires carry the potential for touching off a wave of flame that will defy all efforts to control it. If it's in town, they have the possibility of hitting you right in the pocketbook because you pay fire insurance premiums based on the amount of fire losses. If it's in the country, what ranchers considered an asset in fodder and cover is wiped out, the remaining roots scorched, and perhaps livestock harmed or killed.

It boils down to this: People start fires. Please, please be careful about throwing away matches, cigarettes and cigars. The countryside is like a tinderbox.

Come A Long Way

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

When you consider some 200 youths — all band members — and their sponsors and leaders staging a show like the annual Campus Revue (the '72 version had its prevue last night), it makes you think of the advertising slogan: "You've come a long, long way."

ALTHOUGH the Big Spring Independent School district was created 70 years ago, it was not until 30 years had passed that there was such a thing as a high school band. In the mean time the only thing to minister to the civic musical needs was a volunteer band, and in the 1920's the municipal band. Yes, Virginia, the city paid for the salary of a band director, who recruited volunteers and exhorted them to weekly rehearsals in the District Court room.

IF MEMORY serves me right, Wayne Matthews, whose duties were really that of math instructor, was drafted to rally enough students to make up a sort of high school band around the beginning of the 30's.

When our school got in the old Oil Belt football district, and every other school had a band, we had to have one, too. This led to securing the services of Dan Conley as director of the band program. The band got uniforms and as more boys and girls came up through the program, the quality of performances perked up. Back in the mid-thirties when arch-rivalry with Sweetwater and San Angelo was at its peak on the gridiron, the band suddenly blossomed into its own under the prancing of our first drum major, Torchy Bright. He invariably got great applause.

DAN RETIRED, and the band program nearly went to pot. Again, if my memory isn't faulty, it was Joe Haddon, band leader with some experience at Tech, who came on the scene and effected a turn around. He sorted out and reassembled a decimated library, got more music, began a system of organization, he was succeeded by J. W. King — and seems to me like one of the band stars back in those days was a young man by the name of Bill Bradley, who also played under Clyde Rowe.

EVENTUALLY, Doug Wiehe took over. His drill routines may not have been flashiest, but the craftsmanship of his young musicians was terrific. When he left to go to North Texas State University (he now directs bands at Southwest Texas University in San Marcos) to complete work on his doctorate, the district promptly hired a product of the BSHS band — Bill Bradley himself.

Bill operated on the theory that band, while a disciplined program, could be colorful and dramatic and should be fun. His head was popping with ideas to match his enthusiasm.

AND THAT'S how Campus Revue was born. Starting from scratch, he launched a sustained promotional campaign — just "CR Is Coming." Seems like he also said that first production with tickets that included dinner. Anyhow, those who had subscribed out of school loyalty came away with their eyes opened.

That wasn't a Mickey Mouse collection of skills — that was a professional production! And so it is. And it gets bigger and better every year. And the band does it all, packing the house three or four nights. Three big toots and a flourish of trumpets and ruffle of drums, Maestro. They've come a long way.

Private School Aid

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON —Probably one of the most pressing questions before Congress and the country today is how to finance private as well as public schools and take care of the constantly increasing enrollment of students and the multiplying costs of their education.

Congress is being urged by state and local officials to help the private schools expand as private schools begin to close for lack of funds and as the courts in some states have ruled that financing public schools through local property taxes is not constitutional.

"The time has come for the federal government to ease the crushing burden placed upon the shoulders of parents of private-school pupils."

THE ILLINOIS representative argues that, if private schools were to close, "the added burden on public funds by the end of the '70s would exceed $4 billion a year in operating costs alone, with an estimated $5 billion more for facilities."

Up to now, the question of helping the private schools has been considered primarily a matter of giving aid to religious schools, which has raised constitutional issues on separation of church and state. But the practical side of the problem is that, as private schools of all kinds close, the public schools find themselves faced with having to educate a greatly enlarged number of students. It would be less expensive to maintain the private schools by permitting tuition paid by the parents to be used to reduce their income taxes.

MANY OF OUR domestic problems are due to the increase in population each year. But the growth and expense this imposes on the educational system have too long been ignored. Currently, as private schools are closing, the public-school system is confronted with an almost impossible dilemma. Many communities are protesting because their property taxes are being raised to provide funds for public schools.

Parents of children attending private schools have argued that they should have some kind of tax break, since the public schools do not have to educate their children, though they themselves pay local school taxes along with all other citizens.

(Copyright 1971, Publishers-Hall Syndicate)

ROMAN C. Pucinski, (D-Ill.), chairman of the House general subcommittee on education, has introduced a bill which he believes will provide support for passage of a general aid program for public schools that he sponsored last year. The new measure would permit a tax credit totaling 50 per cent of private-school tuition, up to a maximum of $500 per child. This plan differs from proposals that such payments be made tax-deductible because the amount would be subtracted from taxes due rather than being included in an individual's total deductions. Mr. Pucinski says: "I know from long experience that we must find some constitutional way to assist the nation's private schools before we can pass a general aid bill for public schools."

THE GENERAL Aid Bill to which Rep. Pucinski refers would authorize federal funds sufficient to meet one third of the cost of operating public grade and high schools. Federal assistance now covers only about 7 per cent of that cost. Hearings will be opened soon on the whole problem. Mr. Pucinski declares:

The Busing Issue

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — In the more than 20,000 words of the State of the Union address and message President Nixon put aside the effluent rhetoric of a presidential year to come down hard in opposition on only one subject. That was busing, which is so loaded with emotion that it may well become the principal issue in the campaign.

"IN THIS connection," the President said of his bill for $1.5 billion program of emergency school aid, "I repeat my own firm belief that educational quality — so vital to the future of all our children — is not enhanced by unnecessary busing for the sole purpose of achieving an arbitrary racial balance."

Needless to say, he did not define "unnecessary busing." In the emotionally charged atmosphere that will be interpreted as no busing by those in the white suburbs that ring the central cities with their black majorities.

THE WHITE voters in the cordon of suburbs around the ghettos are determined to block what is known as cross-line busing from one jurisdiction to another. Yet, if the decision by Federal Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr. in the Richmond case is upheld and becomes a precedent, cross-line busing will be a fact of life throughout the North.

This is the spectre haunting entrenched white suburbs where Negroes on the whole are less than 10 per cent of the population across the nation. Yet if the experience in Michigan, where the busing issue flamed into violence, is instructive, it may not be as potent politically as civil libertarians had at one time feared.

SEN. PHILIP Hart won re-election by one of the biggest margins of any senatorial candidate, 67.8 per cent in 1970. Yet less than a year later a shock wave ran through Capitol Hill when the report spread that 250,000 signatures had been obtained for a petition for a vote to recall the senator.

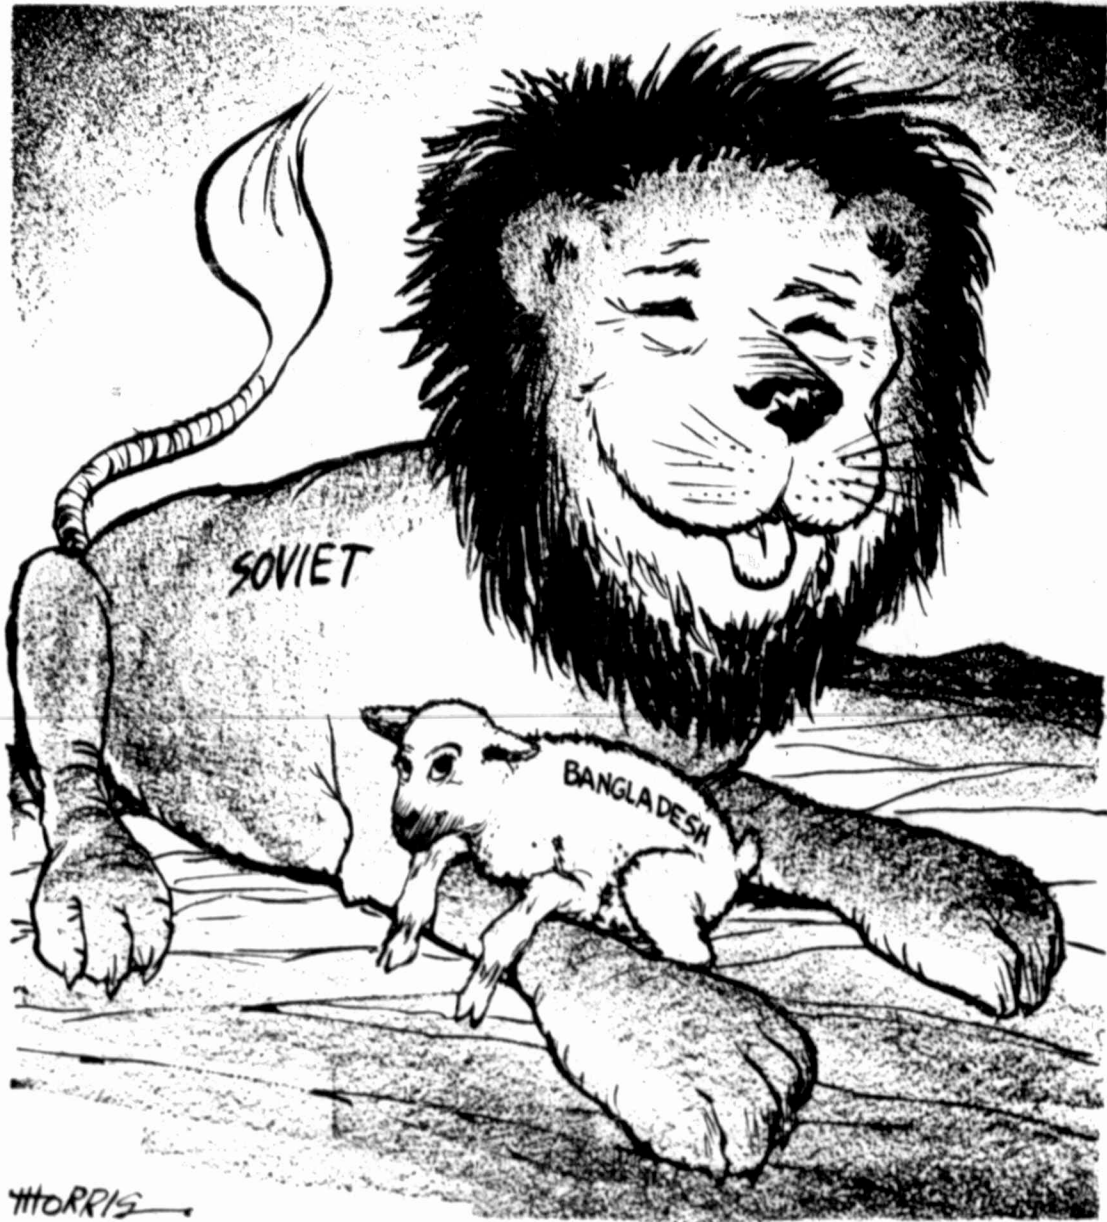

Most politicians dived for cover. Sen. Robert B. Griffin, a Republican, whose chances for re-election had not been bright came out strongly against busing and his rating went up. So did Rep. James G. O'Hara, a Democrat.

But when the smoke of battle had cleared the facts were rather different from the claims that had caused such trepidation. Instead of 250,000 signatures on the recall petitions, the total was 48,000, about seven per cent of the required number.

This may be no real measure of the antibusing sentiment in the Detroit area. After all, in Pontiac buses were burned and white parents picketed to prevent any exchange of black and white pupils.

To say, as the President did, that he opposed busing for the "sole purpose of achieving an arbitrary racial balance" is evasive. The objective is not solely to achieve a racial balance but to raise the level of education of the blacks in the ghetto who have so long suffered from many deprivations.

CUTE PICTURE — FOR THE MOMENT!

Dangers Of Deficit

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite efforts made to make the budget appear to be one of carefully considered options, it is apparent that it is one imposed by circumstances, domestic and international, that leave few choices.

Otherwise, no administration seeking recognition for fiscal responsibility would accept the dangers of running a planned deficit of $25.5 billion in 1973 on top of an estimated $38.8 billion deficit in 1972.

The many economic risks involved in such deficits may be summed up in one phrase: The dangers are equal to the potential benefits. Disequilibrium rather than stability could be the legacy.

A deficit might get the economy moving again, but not without risking reinflation and a possible loss of foreign trade. It might reduce unemployment, but conceivably add to it later.

The vice of circumstance is revealed politically, ideologically, financially. The administration believes in one position but takes another.

The President knows the dangers of overspending, but he knows too that if he doesn't find jobs he'll lose votes. Already he is branded with an economic record that has been often daring but often ineffective.

Again, the President obviously wishes to be acclaimed for fiscal responsibility, but he has been forced for three years to make radical changes in his own and the party's ideology and now is an advocate of huge deficits.

The vice also is tightened by military considerations. The President presents himself as a man of peace and has taken many steps in that direction, but because of circumstances he feels are beyond his control he seeks a military budget of more than $85 billion.

But nowhere is the near absence of choice appreciated until it is realized that 70 per cent of the $246.3 billion budget is to finance projects to which the country already is committed by law or contract.

The result of trying to make his mark with the remaining 30 per cent necessitates that the President risk a considerable amount of brinkmanship.

Deficits generally get out of hand. Circumstances that cannot be foreseen and sometimes not even understood in retrospect make events quite different from the forecast.

Hot And Cold

Robert E. Ford

The thermometer in the back yard, sitting amid the tall grass that somehow never got its final fall mowing, reads 78 degrees as this is written in late January.

THE PURPOSE of the visit was to wrap the instrument warmly, for the weatherman says the bottom is going to fall out by morning.

But that's Texas: Hot one day and bitter the next.

Why does this happen to us?

As every loyal Texan knows—when he is writing friends in Minnesota in mid-winter — his state has a universally mild, comfortable climate.

It is pleasant, that is, if Texans could build a fence around the north-west frontier tall enough to keep other peoples' weather from spoiling things. If you want to, you can blame Communists for the bitter weather. A lot of our cold air comes from Siberia. Some of it comes from Canada, but Canadians are our allies and we won't criticize them. Alaska has some cold air, too.

ALL THAT part of the world is pretty well covered by snow in the winter, and from that starting point, the National Weather Service meteorologists describe what happens next.

A cold mass of air begins to grow when the snow surface loses to outer space whatever heat it has — and heat here is a relative term. It means that the warmest air, cold as it is, goes away. It rises straight up at night, and daytime conditions can't replace as much warmth as the snow lost.

The sun can't warm this snow mass much because the days are short and the angle of the sun's rays are sharp, meaning the rays bounce off rather than dig in. Too, the rays can't dig in and warm a white surface like snow.

This means that the air mass becomes colder and colder, and grows in size.

THEN THE weathermen start talking about changing weather patterns.

When these change, they send the cold air mass barreling to the south and southeast and destroy our balmy Texas climate.

It doesn't create any summer temperatures in Minnesota or Montana, either.

Not all this cold air mass moves at one time, generally. Little pieces, just enough to cause a raging blizzard, break off and head for Texas. This means there is enough cold remaining up north for a second blizzard to follow the last at the whim of the weather patterns.

The word blizzard is a pretty vague word.

FOR THIS reason, the weathermen have defined blizzard.

Conditions required are: Winds of 35 miles per hour or more accompanied by considerable falling or blowing snow and temperatures of 20 degrees or lower prevailing for some time.

A "severe blizzard": This means winds of 45 m.p.h. or more, a great density of falling or blowing snow and 10 degrees or lower.

Any old Northwest Texas rancher knows of other kinds of blizzards, and you would, too, if you had to get out and work with the cattle.

SO THE Weather Service came up with "ground blizzard" for the Northern Plains. This is, says the service, "the combination of blowing and drifting snow after a substantial snowfall has ended."

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Yes, friends, it is a narrow path of safety that we tread in this world.

We are lucky to make it in one piece from dawn to dusk. The way is beset by vexing booby traps and lurking ambushes. Everything and everybody seems out to get you — if you don't watch out.

But the biggest danger in life to anybody is his desire to please—to be "a nice guy." He wants to say yes when common sense tells him it would be wiser to say no.

Here, for example, are a few typical invitations you ought to duck, because if you accept them you are likely to wind up in armpit-deep woes:

"Why don't you leave your umbrella behind? It rained so much yesterday, it couldn't rain today."

"Since your rich aunt is named Arabella, why don't you name your son Arabesque in her honor? Surely your wife won't object to that."

"You reach over and hold the wheel while I bend down and tie my shoelace. It's driving me batty."

"Since the congregation finished $25,000 in the black this year, why don't we build a new church—a really big one?"

"You pick up the check for this round, and if there's time before I have to catch my train, I'll buy the next round."

"Here, I'll give you the first volume of the encyclopedia for nothing. All you have to do is sign up for the other 87 volumes at $4.99 a volume each month. By the time your boy gets out of college you'll have the whole set."

"Do you want me to tell you what kind of insurance portfolio I'd sell myself if I were in your shoes?"

"If I tell you what I think is your worst fault, will you tell me what you think mine is?"

"You do, want to be logical, don't you?"

"I'll provide the food for the party, if you'll grab the tab for the booze."

"Listen, baby, we don't really need all these lights on while we're watching television, do we? How about me turning a few off?"

"They don't look all that tough to me, Jack. I'll hit the little one while you toy with the big one. Okay?"

"These five-button sport jackets will be the rage next fall. How about being the first guy in your block to buy one now?"

"If I tell the boss we both have to have a raise or we'll quit together, will you back me up?"

Carson's Wife

Sues For Bundle

NEW YORK (AP) — Entertainer Johnny Carson's wife Joanne has sued him for $125,000, charging that he broke a separation agreement by making certain remarks about her on his late night television show.

Mrs. Carson, who now lives in Los Angeles, brought suit in U.S. District Court in Manhattan seeking $25,000 compensatory damages, $100,000 punitive damages and legal costs.

She filed suit here for divorce and separation more than a year ago. The new suit charges Carson violated an agreement that neither would say or do anything to cause the other "disrepute, scandal or public ridicule."

Planes To Remain In Thai After Pullout From Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's peace proposals would end all U.S. bombing throughout Indochina, but Defense sources said American planes would remain in neighboring Thailand even after a total U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam. The Pentagon sources confirmed this after it was noted that neither Nixon's Tuesday night television speech nor the text of the eight-point peace proposal said anything about pulling U.S. planes out of Thailand. Although bombing was not mentioned specifically, White House officials said a halt in U.S. air attacks is covered by the proposal for "a general cease-fire throughout Indochina, to begin when the agreement is signed." The cease fire would be linked to total withdrawal of U.S. and outside allied troops from Vietnam within six months of an agreement, with a parallel release of prisoners on both sides. Pentagon officials indicated continued U.S. air presence in Thailand would be based on the Nixon doctrine which holds that the United States will back up its allies when necessary with air and naval power, weapons supplies and other military aid, but not U.S. ground troops. The United States is an ally of Thailand in the 17-year-old Southeast Asia Treaty Organization—SEATO—created long before this country became deeply involved in Vietnam. Thailand feels threatened by North Vietnamese advances in both Laos and Cambodia. But if North Vietnam should agree to withdraw its troops from all other parts of Indochina, as Nixon proposes, they would hardly constitute an imminent danger to Thailand any longer. But Defense officials said a continued U.S. air-power presence in Thailand could be compared with the basing of American military forces in Europe to help shield the NATO area from possible Soviet encroachment. Eight squadrons totaling more than 130 F4 Phantom jet fighter-bombers, at least 40 B52 bombers and a number of other U.S. strike planes and gunships are based in Thailand. They are busy bombing the enemy's Ho Chi Minh trail through Laos, supporting Cambodian troops against Communist forces, and on occasion bombing targets in North Vietnam. City's Pact To End Shortly

Feb. 1 marks the end of the contract agreement between the city of Big Spring and Alert Ambulance Service, and Harry Nagel, city manager, said today he doesn't know if the contract will be extended. Under the contract the city is paying the service $400 per month, plus aiding in collections by enforcing a city ordinance requiring that ambulance service payments be made within a certain time period or a fine will be incurred. The contract was made at the end of October of last year, when ambulance service within the city and county was a heated issue. "I will meet with L. A. Hiltbrunner, owner of the service, and we will decide if the same payment will be made as has been the past three months," said Nagel today. He said that the service has been doing well from all indications, and there have been no argument or complaints from Hiltbrunner under the present contract. "I would like to see it continued," Nagel said. When the contract was settled in October, stipulations were added that Hiltbrunner supply the city with information supporting the rate of pay the city was making and whether or not it should be continued. Nagel said he will wait until just prior to the end of the contract to meet with the ambulance service owner.

Arguments Begin In Morgan Suit

Opening arguments were begun shortly after 11 a.m. today in 118th District Court in the tax suit of State of Texas et al vs. Kent Morgan et al. Jury selection was completed shortly after 11 a.m. State, city and school district taxing agencies have filed suit against Morgan and his associates to recover a total of $7,370.39 which the agencies claim is owed them on property owned by Morgan and his associates.

Viewers Get Right Answer To Question In CR '72

By MERRY JO BRIGHT
Bombarded on all sides by bouncing, beautiful young people, the audience may have forgotten the question — but they got the right answer. "Love Is The Answer" was a definite statement, deliciously defined by some of the staunchest performers in CR '72.

The young people opened their arms, enfolded the audience for two full hours — then let it go, literally, with an affectionate hug. Needless to say, they made their point, and were loved in return.

TRACES HISTORY
The fifth Campus Revue production by the Big Spring High School Band was previewed for the press (and several hundred other viewers) Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium where the traditional "entertainment event of the year" traced its own history in the opener, "Tradition" from "Fiddler on the Roof."

The revue was at its best with the band's speciality, music, but the big production numbers, quartets and solos were interspersed with skits and "instant comedy" routines. The humor was clever and contemporary, reflecting that "the times, they are a changing."

The lighting was effective, and the staging was excellent. The main set framed the stage in a border of rainbows and shooting stars, and several of the featured performers were obviously sprinkled with stardust.

Exceptional talent was shown by soloists, Dianna Williams, (a clear, sweet voice) and Bonnie Anderson, a girl whose rich, mellow voice makes every song something special.

Equally outstanding were several male voices, in particular, those of Buster Green, James Person, Billy Nugent, Wayne Nugent, Skipper Huskey and Ricky Mitchell.

The big production numbers were from "Paint Your Wagon," and "Purlie." They filled the stage to overflowing with energetic dancers and singers, fresh-faced and filled with enthusiasm.

Devious Deal

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have just returned from an interview for a secretarial position. The boss himself interviewed me, and I must say, I was surprised at some of the questions he asked me.

He wanted to know if I was on "the Pill." (I had already told him I was recently divorced.) Then he asked, "Do you drink?" I told him I didn't. Then he smiled and added, "Not even a little social drinking once in a while?" I said "No. I just don't care for it." Then he looked at me like I was some kind of oddball.

He also asked me if I ever "turned on" with drugs. By that time I had had it, and replied, "Good grief, no!" I doubt if that interview will result in a job offer. But if it does, I shall turn it down.

Not having sought employment for 10 years, perhaps I am out of touch with today's scene. But I'd like to know if these questions are routine in an interview today? Or did this particular man have something else in mind?

SHOCKED IN MANHATTAN
DEAR ABBY: The questions you were asked were not routine, and I suspect the man who interviewed you had fringe benefits in mind. For HIM — not you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a long distance truck driver. I told him a few weeks ago that I worried a lot about his driving at night because I was afraid he might doze off, and he told me I shouldn't worry because one of the other drivers gave him some "stay awake" pills.

I begged him not to take any pills unless he knows what is in them, and suggested that he go to our family doctor if he felt he needed something to help him stay awake.

He said I was "dumb" to worry, but I love him, and I'm afraid he might get hooked on drugs. Is this possible, and what can I do?

SO WORRIED
DEAR ABBY: Yes, it's possible. Keep after him until he goes to his family doctor. It is dangerous for anyone to take pills which have not been prescribed especially for him.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please say something to inconsiderate "children" who are now married and have their own families, but who pile up bills and then ask their parents to "loan" them money to pay these bills, but who never repay the loan? These bills, I want to say, are not for necessities, but for luxuries and extras.

When our children were small, we scrimped and saved. Why should we have to do it all over again in our old age?

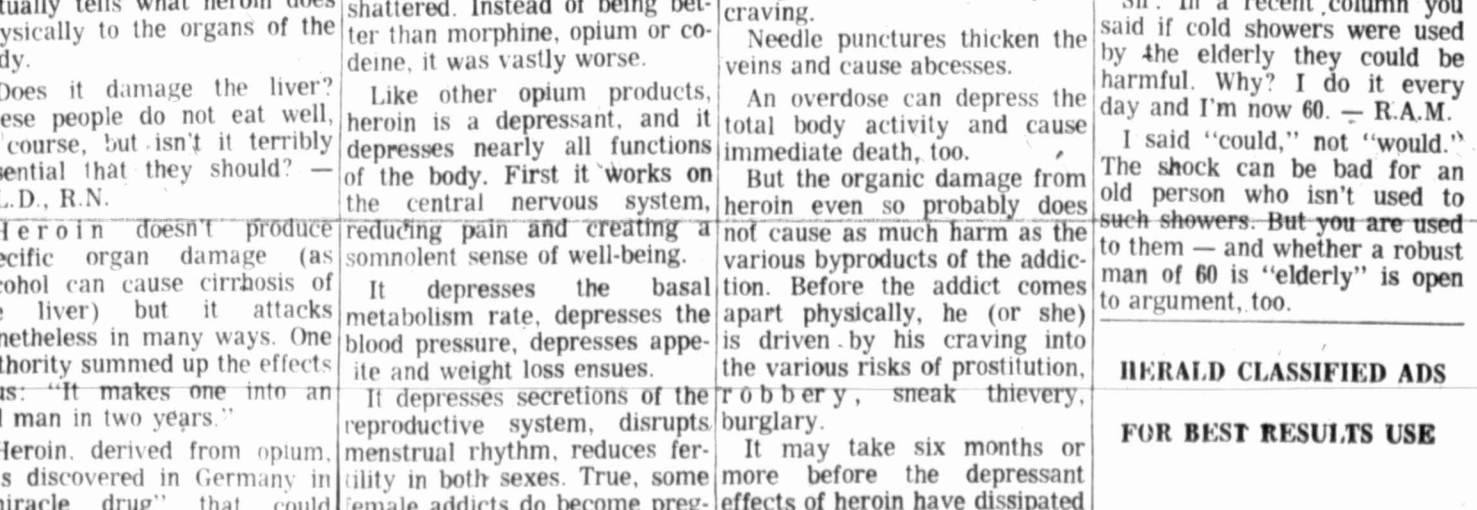

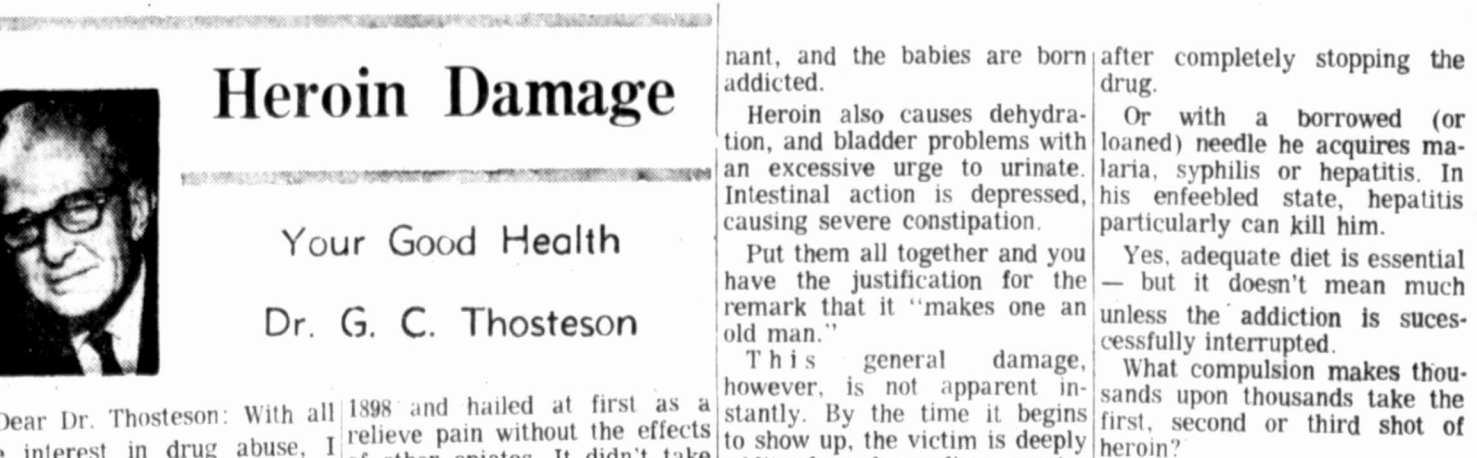

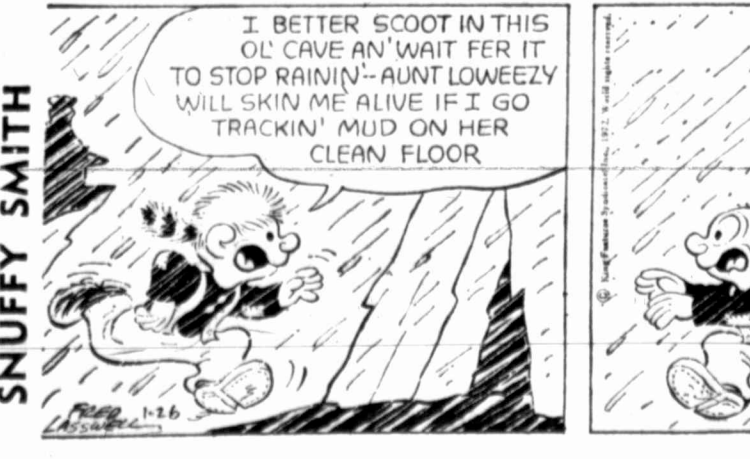

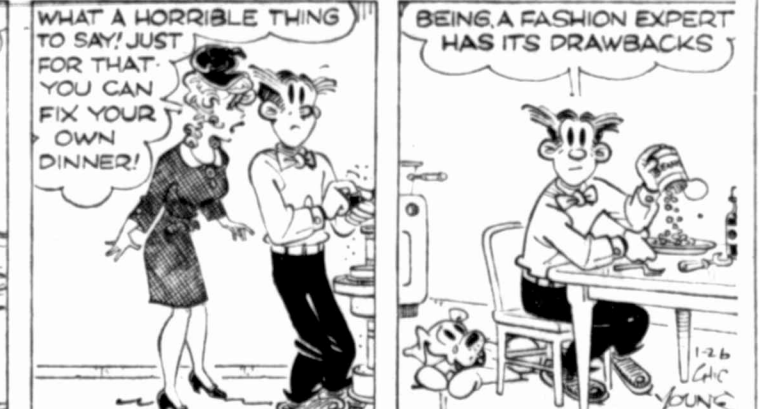

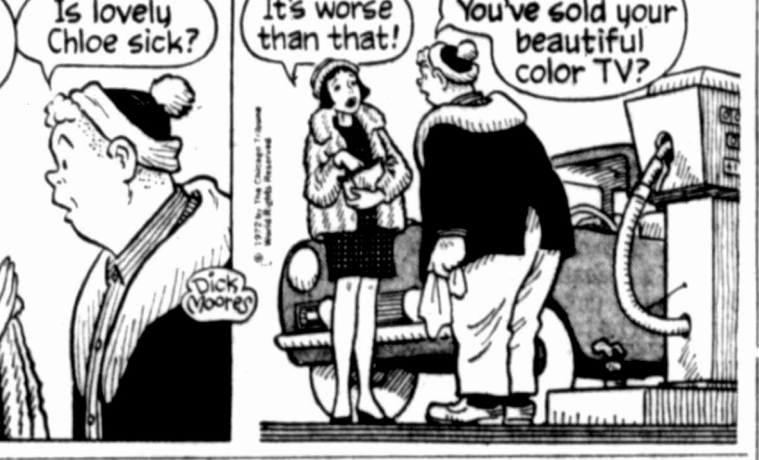

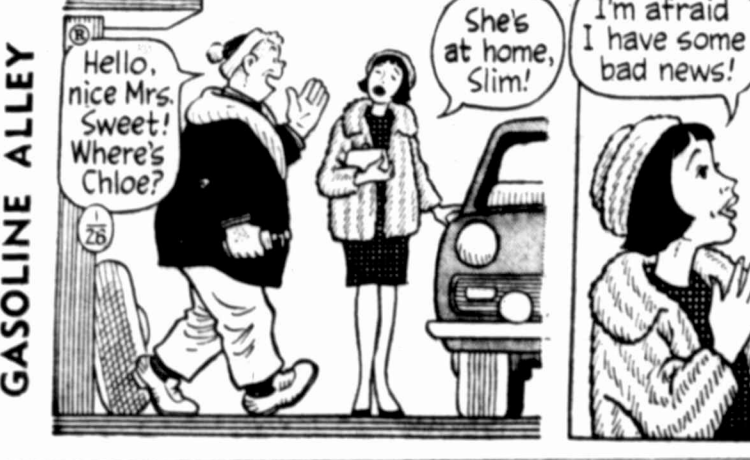

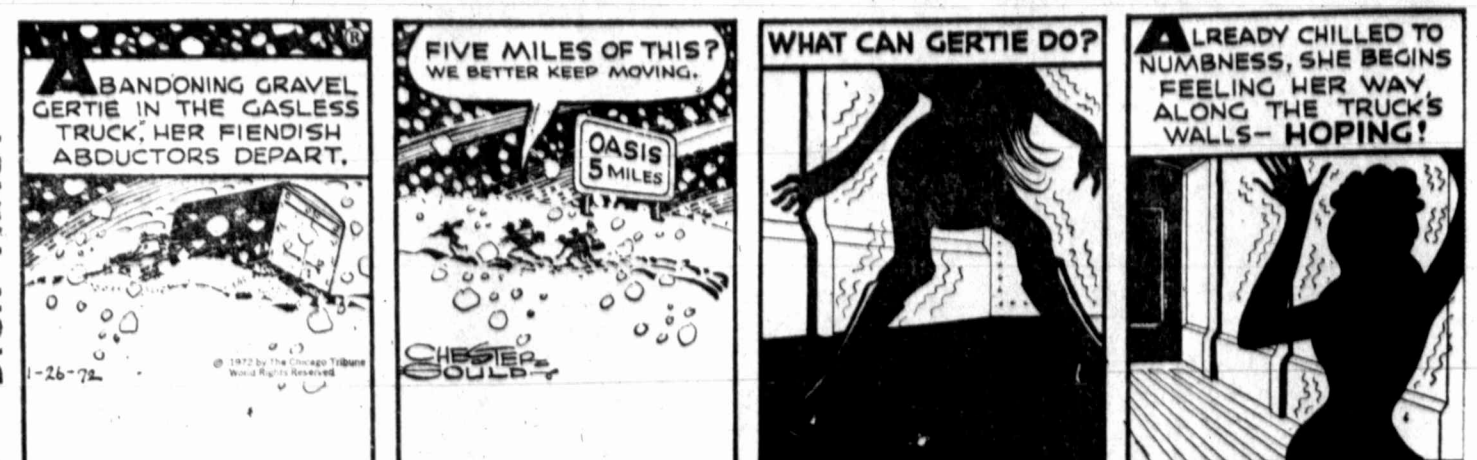

Please, Abby, say something to add a little maturity and responsibility to these selfish children. We love them and do not wish to alienate them by being too blunt. Thank you.

HONDO, TEXAS
DEAR HONDO: Nothing I say can add maturity and responsibility to your grown children. But you can protect your savings and perhaps train your children to either do without, or save in advance, by refusing to pay their bills. And don't worry about "alienating" them. Let THEM worry about alienating YOU!

Nameless Streets

ROTHBURY, England (AP) — This town of 1,800 population has streets but none has a name, says town surveyor Jack Oliver, because "everyone here knows everyone else and we jog along quite happily."

Heroin Damage

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: With all the interest in drug abuse, I have never seen an article that actually tells what heroin does physically to the organs of the body.

Does it damage the liver? These people do not eat well, of course, but isn't it terribly essential that they should? — C.L.D., R.N.

Heroin doesn't produce specific organ damage (as alcohol can cause cirrhosis of the liver) but it attacks nonetheless in many ways. One authority summed up the effects thus: "It makes one into an old man in two years."

Heroin, derived from opium, was discovered in Germany in "miracle drug" that could 1898 and hailed at first as a relieve pain without the effects of other opiates. It didn't take long for this rosy hope to be shattered. Instead of being better than morphine, opium or codeine, it was vastly worse.

Like other opium products, heroin is a depressant, and it depresses nearly all functions of the body. First it works on the central nervous system, reducing pain and creating a somnolent sense of well-being.

It depresses the basal metabolism rate, depresses the blood pressure, depresses appetite and weight loss ensues.

It depresses secretions of the reproductive system, disrupts menstrual rhythm, reduces fertility in both sexes. True, some emale addicts do become pregnant, and the babies are born addicted.

Heroin also causes dehydration, and bladder problems with an excessive urge to urinate. Intestinal action is depressed, causing severe constipation.

Put them all together and you have the justification for the remark that it "makes one an old man."

This general damage, however, is not apparent instantly. By the time it begins to show up, the victim is deeply addicted and needing greater and greater doses to satisfy his craving.

Needle punctures thicken the veins and cause abscesses.

An overdose can depress the total body activity and cause immediate death, too.

But the organic damage from heroin even so probably does not cause as much harm as the various byproducts of the addiction. Before the addict comes apart physically, he (or she) is driven by his craving into the various risks of prostitution, robbery, sneak thievery, burglary.

It may take six months or more before the depressant effects of heroin have dissipated after completely stopping the drug.

Or with a borrowed (or loaned) needle he acquires malaria, syphilis or hepatitis. In his enfeebled state, hepatitis particularly can kill him.

Yes, adequate diet is essential — but it doesn't mean much unless the addiction is successfully interrupted.

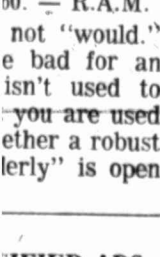

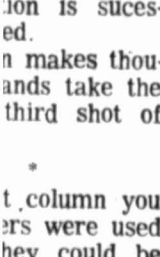

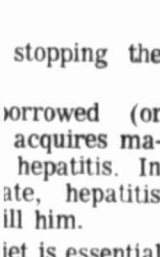

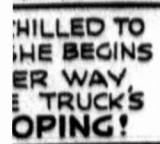

What compulsion makes thousands upon thousands take the first, second or third shot of heroin?

Sir: In a recent column you said if cold showers were used by the elderly they could be harmful. Why? I do it every day and I'm now 60. — R.A.M.

I said "could," not "would." The shock can be bad for an old person who isn't used to such showers. But you are used to them — and whether a robust man of 60 is "elderly" is open to argument, too.

Fashion Industry Looking Ahead

The fashion industry's already looking ahead to 1973. That's right, '73. What do they see? Celanese, doing the forecasting, predicts a boom in lawn, voile, batiste and dimly ground spaced and sprigged florals, pleated skirts by "the millions," two-piece suit dresses, for both juniors and misses, bare necks, backs and shoulders to continue, and "a rash of positive pastels, especially peach, sky blue and aqua."

"Man Must Decide Future Of His World"

"With man's brilliance and accomplishments, he still must decide what he will make of the world in which he is privileged to live," said Mrs. Clement Jones to members of the 1965 Hypertion Club Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. K. H. McGibbon, 108 Cedar Road. "God gives man the right of choice," continued Mrs. Jones. She narrated a slide presentation, and said the three dimensions of the world are beauty of nature, genius of man and future of man. Illustrating nature's beauty, Mrs. Jones showed scenes of snowfalls, autumn landscapes, lakes, mountains, flowers and children. Genius of man was depicted through works of famous artists. The examples included Wies Church of Southern Germany, the Thames River bridge and Big Ben, both of London, the Eiffel Tower in Paris, Notre Dame Cathedral, wood carvings of the Alps and U.S. Indian crafts. "What will man do with his world?" asked Mrs. Jones in the third part of her program. She said man's greatest inhumanity to man is the Berlin Wall. She lived in West Berlin and showed slides of the wall, barbed wire which tops the wall and the mine-infested area that divides the two Berlins. Mrs. Jones' husband is retired from the military, and many of her slides were taken during

'IT'S COMPLETELY IMPRACTICAL' Midshipmen Spurn Coed Proposal

By DAVID GOELLER Associated Press Writer ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Citing tradition and practicalities, several members of the 4,000-man brigade of midshipmen at the U.S. Naval Academy say they don't want their school to go coeducation.

"It's completely impractical," said Robert Hardy, 21, a senior from Columbus, Miss. "The idea of this place is to train shipboard officers, but there's nowhere women can serve in the fleet yet." The prospect of women joining the brigade has become more than the campus joke it once was. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Rep. John McDonald, R-Mich., have nominated teen-age girls for appointment to Annapolis.

To a man, the future Navy officers interviewed at the academy said they do not think the mission of the school and its physical layout—one dormitory—are geared for women.

"I'd probably be in favor of it from the standpoint of making this place nicer to go to, but from the standpoint of training I don't think this place is set up for women," said Lloyd Holz, a 22-year-old senior from Schulenburg, Tex. Mike Candalor, 21, a senior from Johnsonburg, Pa., said he felt it would be difficult to integrate coeds into such non-classroom programs as summer sea training and intramural athletics.

"Would girls box like we have to?" Candalor wondered. "I got my nose bloodied doing it, but would a girl?"

Robert Musselman said he doesn't take the nominations seriously. "It's not much more than politicians trying to get their names in the newspaper," said the 21-year-old senior from Atlanta, Ga. He suggested that if the Navy decided women could benefit from the educational facilities at the academy, girls could be permitted to attend classes without formally joining the brigade.

Sophomore Wayne Thornton of Fairfax, Va., said his initial reaction to the nominations was, "Wow, fantastic!—but then from a real side I knew it can't happen."

Thornton, 19, pointed to the rigors of the freshman, or plebe, year when young men, through a rigorous process of discipline, are changed into midshipmen. "I don't think there's any way a woman could survive plebe year, from a physical standpoint," Thornton stated.

'Gobs' May Get Girl Classmate This Year

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — "It all started as sort of a joke," says 18-year-old Valerie Schoen, nominated for admission as the first girl at the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Miss Schoen, a University of Michigan freshman, said it came as a surprise to her and she had given up hope.

The 5-foot-1 blond was nominated by Rep. John McDonald, R-Mich., who said today that the coed was one of 13 candidates named for two openings at the academy allotted his congressional district.

"One thing that impressed me was her explanation that she was seeking the nomination because she wanted to receive the best education possible and to serve her country," McDonald said. "There's never been a girl at Annapolis, and I think this will be a good test case. I hope they judge her not because she is a woman but on her ability alone."

Miss Schoen, whose home in the Detroit suburb of Redford Township, said her brother suggested as sort of a joke last year that she apply to the academy "because I'm looking for the best possible education in Russian that I can get."

She said she has been planning a career of interpreting or translating for the State Department after completing her studies. Miss Schoen's grade average at high school was 3.56, well above the academy's 3.0 requirement.

If accepted, Miss Schoen said, she probably would start in the term beginning next June. "If I could make a good career out of it, I think it would be worth it," she said. "I really don't envision much wrong with going to a school with all men — but the facilities might prove a problem."

Carolyn Nichols To Be 'Capped'

Mrs. Carolyn Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Decker, 1402 Harding, will be among the 25 students participating in the Denton School of Nursing capping ceremonies Saturday in Denton. The ceremony begins at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Nichols, who attended Big Spring High School, will graduate from the nursing school in June.

Librarian Explains References

Reference works available to business offices were outlined by Mrs. Oliver Nichols, Howard County librarian, for National Secretaries Association Monday evening at the Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Nichols illustrated how to use the books, and said the "Secretary's Handbook" is most important to secretaries because it describes normal routine of an office. Following her talk, Mrs. Nichols tested members to see if they knew which reference source to use for particular problems.

Three new members were initiated. They are Mrs. E. J. Earle, Mrs. J. R. Jennings and Mrs. Bill Badgett. It was announced the Texas-Louisiana Division of the NSA board will meet Feb. 4-6 in New Orleans, La., and the Texas Louisiana Division annual meeting will be May 26-27 in New Orleans. Mrs. Vic Arnes, president of the local club, plans to attend the annual meeting.

The next meeting is at 7 p.m., Feb. 28 at the Holiday Inn.

Necklines Are Big "In" Trend

Kenneth Jay Lane believes strongly in necklines for the coming season. He likes them high to fill in an open neckline or worn just below a high neckline; long over the shirtwaist or high over the shirtwaist or high turtle top. Good necklace combinations of gold and silver or silver alone are other favorites.

'ROUND TOWN BY LUCILLE PICKLE

Nobody doesn't like CR '72. The press night crowd had a good time watching the giant cast pull the loose ends together and put on a good show. As usual, there are some parts of a show that please some people more than other parts please. I was pieced with the opening number, the boys' quartet, everytime they sang, and the back set for Good Ship Lollipop was to my liking. In fact, I thought it was just great. And I was thrilled by the work of the Golden Horns... their arrangements, the trumpet and the saxophone breaks. The costuming over-all was colorful, particularly the Pearly Gates number and also I liked the male vocalists throughout the production especially the "New Kind of Preacher Man". There are a lot of other numbers that I think everyone will find very good. The reason I can't say names is that by the time we got there all the programs were gone and I took notes in the dark and then couldn't read all of them. But go and see, You'll Like It.

MRS. PATTEANN DANIEL is bringing her family up from Gonzales for the Saturday night production of CR '72. Mrs. Daniels, Doug, David, Robyn and Cyndy will be the houseguests of MR. and MRS. R. C. SHAVER and their family. They plan to arrive here late Friday night.

Here for the weekend from Amarillo were MR. and MRS. BILL WEBB and their three children, Aletha, Lana and Kerry. They were visiting Mrs. Webb's parents, MR. and MRS. FLOYD PANNELL. Aletha is a second year student at Amarillo Junior College.

RED RAIDERS CRUSH TEXAS, 79-68 Tech Assumes Lead

By The Associated Press. Texas Tech captured undisputed first place in the Southwest Conference basketball race with a crushing 79-68 defeat of Texas Tuesday night and here's a tip for the fans of future Red Raider opponents: Don't boo 'em—it just makes 'em play harder. Tech guard Greg Lowery, who hit 11 of 14 shots from the field for 28 points, said, "The more the crowd boomed the more we liked it because we were ready to play." A turnout crowd of 8,000 fans in Gregory Gymnasium cheered the hometown Longhorns and tried to panic the Raiders with their hoots. "I thought about the game a lot and got myself up because I knew I was going to play under a lot of pressure," said Lowery, who canned a 40-foot shot at the buzzer to give Tech a 38-34 halftime lead. ONLY UNBEATEN Tech is now 3-0 in the SWC chase and the only undefeated club in loop play. Texas holds a 2-1 record and is tied for second place with Southern Methodist and Texas A&M. SMU blasted Arkansas 85-71 in Dallas, the Aggies out-muscled defending champion TCU 81-74 in College Station, and Baylor trampled Rice 88-70 in Houston in other SWC action. TCU, Baylor and TCU are now 1-2 in league play with Rice the only winless outfit with a 0-3 mark. The combination of Lowery's firepower and the salty defense Ron Douglas strapped on Longhorn star Larry Robinson was too much for the Longhorns to overcome. Douglas held Robinson to only six points in the first half and he finished with 15. Robinson, a sophomore, had been averaging 26 points per game. Tech Coach Gerald Myers said "Boy! Douglas did a job. I thought the difference was the tight defense he put on Robinson. I'm really happy for Douglas. He started last year but hasn't played a whole lot this year and yet has still had a great attitude in practice." Myers added "This definitely was our best game of the year. We played a full 40 minutes for the first time." field and finished the night with 23 points. Martin Terry, Arkansas' heralded sophomore who scored 46 points Saturday, got into foul trouble and could manage but 16 points. Guard Tommy Stanton scored 27 points as Baylor downed the cold-shooting Owls.

Mark Wehrle was high for Rice with 24 points. Baylor enjoyed a 42-37 half-time lead and pulled away in the second half. Texas Tech plays its next game at home Saturday night in a crucial test with the suddenly high-flying Mustangs. In other games, Arkansas is at Texas, Baylor is at Texas A&M and Rice is at TCU for the day television game.

Brundage Levels Charge At Pros

TOKYO (AP) — Avery Brundage is in favor of one Olympics, pure and uncommercialized, but it is a dream that the crusty old millionaire will not realize before his announced retirement later this year. "They're all saying wait 'til Brundage is out of the way and we can have our way," the 85-year-old president of the International Olympic Committee said. "They want to turn the games over to equipment manufacturers and merchandisers. The games would be just a competition of trained seals representing the business interests." Brundage was interviewed by The Associated Press early today in his 14th floor governor's suite at the Imperial Hotel in teeming midtown Tokyo. It was 8:30 a.m. local time. The energetic octogenarian already had eaten breakfast and had been at work two hours. He sat in his shirt sleeves, at a small table, scribbling notes. "You're up early," a visitor suggested. "Not early—we never sleep," a Japanese secretary replied. "Be with you in a moment," Brundage said in his deep voice, not even looking up from his work. At 85, Brundage is a strapping six-footer, retaining the athletic figure of his own Olympic days, quick-moving, full of vitality. They say he is an indefatigable worker. Brundage currently is battling what he calls the hypocrisy and corruption of the Alpine and Nordic skiing which he contends is threatening the future of the Winter Olympic games. The Winter Games open at Sapporo Feb. 3 and Brundage has threatened to disqualify most of the world's top performers. "They have to eat. To eat, they have to be paid," says Brundage of the skiers. "So commercialism takes over. The skiers become the pawns of the ski interests, particularly those in France and Austria."

CHRYSLER PLYMOUTH DODGE

Two Are Hospitalized After Big Ten Brawl

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Wayne Duke, Big Ten commissioner, ordered Minnesota and Ohio State officials to confer with him today on a brawl that stopped a basketball game between the schools Tuesday night, leaving two players hospitalized.

The game was halted with 36 seconds to play, and Ohio State was awarded a 50-44 victory that gave the sixth-ranked Buckeyes first place in the Big Ten race with a 4-0 record and dropped 16th-ranked Minnesota to 4-1.

HELD OVERNIGHT

Three Ohio State basketball players were taken to University of Minnesota hospital after the game—starters Luke Witte and Mark Miner and reserve Mark Wagar.

Dyer Walking After Mishap

Though Dyer minimized the achievement, those who had seen him in mid-October, strapped prone to a bed and barely able to raise an arm, could only marvel.

Dyer is the 25-year-old Cincinnati Bengals' defensive back who was almost totally paralyzed after trying to tackle the Green Bay Packers' John Brockington in a National Football League game here Oct. 3.

He was rushed to the hospital, where the diagnosis was a contusion of the spine at the neck. However, the diagnosis erased any fears for his life, and doctors said he would recover.

Dyer still wears a neck brace, but walks without a cane or assistance from his wife, Pam, who has been here for the duration and has helped him with his therapy.

Recently, he and Pam have been able to go out to dinner or a show although he remained living in the hospital. They expect their first child in June.

The 7-foot Witte and Wagar were held overnight for observation. Witte suffered lacerations over his chin and eye brows. Wagar also had a cut over his eye. X-rays showed there were no serious injuries.

Taylor and Coach Bill Musselman of Minnesota had differing views on what triggered the fight before a crowd of 17,775 at Williams Arena.

"Three Minnesota players were bad mouthing our boys at the half," said Taylor. Musselman said Witte hit Minnesota guard Bob Nix, 6-3, on the head as the half ended.

"We went up eight points as the game was ending," said Taylor. This, Taylor felt, frustrated the Gophers.

Just before the fight broke out, Nix hit a long jump shot to pull the Gophers to 50-44. The fight erupted 11 seconds later under the Ohio State basket.

Witte was going in for a shot when Clyde Turner fouled him and officials ejected Turner from the game.

Minnesota's Corky Taylor said Witte spit at him when he went over to help the Buckeye player up off the floor.

At this point, witnesses said, Taylor kneed Witte in the groin. Within seconds, nearly every player from both teams was out on the floor throwing punches.

Police swarmed onto the floor as the fight broke out, pulling players apart and stopping some fans who stormed onto the court.

Duke said he regretted that "the situation marred an otherwise fine Big Ten contest. After consultation with both coaches, it was decided in the best interest of safety for the players and fans to terminate the game at that point."

Wardell Jackson scored 16 points for Ohio State and Witte contributed 14 with 12 rebounds. Turner led Minnesota with 13.

Herb Hooper Says Game Has Matured

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Notes from the pro golf tournament trail:

After years of struggling, when he was just about making expenses, Herb Hooper appears to have found the key.

"I think it's just that my game has matured," the 32-year-old Virginian said after recording high finishes in the first two tournaments this year.

"My concentration is better and I'm thinking better, but I'm really not doing anything different," the friendly, soft-spoken blond said.

He even got his first fan mail letter a week ago, from a young lady who announced she was a member of "Hooper's Troopers."

The little touch of success has caused a minor problem for Hooper, however.

"I'd written the people in Caribbean I'd play down there," Hooper said, "but now that I'm playing better, I'd like to stay here. I just don't know what I'm going to do. I don't know how firm a commitment it was."

The four-stop Caribbean swing offers a total of $75,000 in prize money. There is $720,000 offered in the four American-swinging tournaments on the same dates.

Master's champion Charles Coody has changed his registration from Abilene, Tex., to Apopka, Fla. Johnny Miller, formerly of Napa, Calif., now is representing Hilton Head Island, S.C. and Chris Blocker, Lubbock, Tex., is playing out of Jacksonville, Fla., where he and Billy Maxwell have purchased a golf course.

"I haven't yet decided," Frank Beard said, about half in jest, "whether I'm going to talk to the press this year or not. I just haven't made up my mind."

"After all," smiled Beard, who has had his difficulties with sports writers, "look at all the publicity Duane Thomas got by not talking to the press."

Ear Piercing

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

BIG HOLES: (Q.) When I got my ears pierced, my doctor didn't tell me not to wear wires for six weeks. So I went ahead and wore them. They were long ones.

Well, the holes got bigger and bigger, and I went back to the doctor. He told me there was an infection and said I mustn't wear anything in my ears until the infection was cured.

I waited six months and went back. He said keep waiting. I went to another doctor. He said the infection was gone and I could wear earrings. That was two months ago and the holes are still big. I can't wear wires because the holes show.

I want so much to have small holes and wear wire earrings. How can I get the holes to be smaller? — Earache in Michigan.

(A.) Your letter is published so that other girls can see that ear piercing is tricky and that it is important to have it done by a good doctor and to follow his instructions.

In your case a number of things could have happened. The first doctor could have neglected to give you correct instructions, or you could have misunderstood.

Whatever the case, your solution now seems to be to follow the final advice of the first doctor: Wait. Let your ears rest, no earrings at all. If you wish, while you are waiting, adopt a hair style that will cover the ears and the holes.

Perhaps in time — it may be a long time — the holes will grow smaller and less noticeable. If they do, and if you resume wearing earrings, I advise you not to wear heavy ones. They might open the holes wider again.

TOO YOUNG? (Q.) I am 12 and in the sixth grade. There are dances at our school. I have never been to one. I want to go to the big Easter dance, but my mom says I am too young. Do you think so? And my mom says I'm too young for eye make-up — even if it's light. Do you think all this is fair? — All Signals Are No in Florida.

(A.) You are not too young to go to a chaperoned school function to which your mother or father delivers you and afterward picks you up. I do think you're too young for eye make-up.

Employers Facing Vital Deadline

Employers have an important tax deadline Monday. This is the last day for reporting Social Security and withheld income taxes for the calendar quarter ended Dec. 31, 1971, according to Ellis Campbell Jr., district director of Internal Revenue for North Texas.

Employers who received a pre-addressed Form 941, "Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return," should use this form to report their tax liability. If this is not available, blank copies are available at the local IRS office.

Jan. 31 is also the last day to report and pay any balance of Federal Unemployment Tax not over $100 for 1971, using Form 940. A deposit is required with FTD Form 508 if the balance of tax due exceeds $100.

T. Texas Tyler Dies At Age Of 55

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — T. Texas Tyler, a singer-songwriter widely known in country music circles, died Sunday in a Springfield hospital at the age of 55.

Tyler, a native of Mena, Ark., whose real name was David Luke Myrick began his career in the entertainment business in 1930.

He was perhaps best known for his song, "Deck of Cards." Services are scheduled in Springfield.

Secret Service To Guard Presidential Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secret Service agents are expected to begin guarding presidential candidates early next month, with at least eight of the 1972 entries likely to be offered federal bodyguards.

A panel assigned to decide which candidates are entitled to protection is scheduled to meet Thursday.

PROTECTION
The law provides for protection of major candidates for president and vice president unless they decline it.

The commission must figure out how to determine who in the crowded 1972 field are the major candidates.

At preliminary sessions, aides to commission members have agreed generally that the national public-opinion polls should be the basis for initial selection of candidates to protect.

The problem is to set a minimum standing in those polls as the criterion for major candidacy, and that is expected to be a major topic Thursday.

The commission members are Sens. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., the majority and minority leaders; Speaker of the House Carl Albert, Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, and former Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California, a public member chosen by the other panelists.

NEAR THE BOTTOM
The goal of the panel is to begin coverage by Feb. 1 or Feb. 7. The first presidential primary election is in New Hampshire on March 7.

One source said a standard almost certainly would be set to cover such entries as Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, who has been campaigning for more than a year but still is near the bottom of the Democratic ranking in public-opinion polls.

In addition, it was understood, there will be a more general category to cover entries who are not counted by such polls, but obviously are major candidates, such as Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

This category also would cover Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, who ranks high in the polls but insists he will not be a 1972 candidate.

In addition, the commission will have to decide whether the two Republicans challenging President Nixon in the presidential primaries, Reps. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio and Paul N. McCloskey of California, should receive coverage.

Popeye, Say It Ain't So

ROME (AP) — Spinach may be bad for infants, the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization reported here.

The organization's warning against fresh and frozen spinach for babies under three months old was drawn up at a recent Bonn meeting of an FAO and World Health Organization committee on special diets.

The report said several delegates to the meeting expressed the opinion that "the high nitrate content of spinach carried the potential danger of causing methemoglobinemia—a form of blood poisoning—in early infancy."

A representative of the International Organization of Consumers said, however, that because of the public's belief in spinach as a valuable food, warners should carry a warning on the label "concerning the unsuitability of the product for the very young infant."
