There's a lot of strange and fascinating places to explore if one is given the chance, Zenaida discovered.

Bhutto Called Upon To Lift Martial Law

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — Political opposition from all sides and from within his own People's party demanded Saturday that President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto immediately lift martial law.

The demands came as Bhutto's regime arrested one of his severest critics, Altaf Gauhar, of the country's most powerful independently owned newspaper group.

Official sources said Gauhar, who was regarded as a power behind the throne in the former regime of Field Marshal Mohammed Ayub Khan, was arrested under martial law regulations barring criticism of the government. Ayub resigned in 1969.

A government spokesman said Gauhar's arrest was not based on his work as a journalist but on his former role in the government. He accused the former information secretary of promoting disaffection among various groups in Pakistan.

Newspaper editors in Karachi immediately scheduled a meeting to protest his arrest. Gauhar is editor in chief of Pakistan Herald Publications, including the English-language Karachi daily, Dawn.

The group is owned by the Haroon family, long bitter opponents of Bhutto and one of the country's 22 richest families that Bhutto has attacked since taking office.

The Haroons hired Gauhar, 48, to run the newspapers when Bhutto came to power following Pakistan's defeat by India in December. He has headed the group for about a month.

Less than 50 days after taking power, Bhutto came under increasingly sharp and frequent attacks from his opponents and from members of his own party.

Mukhtar Rana, a labor leader and People's party national assemblyman, demanded that Bhutto end martial law, proclaim an interim constitution and convene the assembly re-elected in December 1970 but never called to session.

He called Bhutto's foreign policy a mockery.

Over 47,000 Bales Ginned

Better than 47,000 bales of cotton have been ginned in Howard County and another 1,383 bales are on the yards.

A total of 47,521 bales ginned was reported by the 12 Howard County gins.

Estimates of when all the cotton will be ginned at the various gins range from the end of the week up to three weeks. The weather is regarded as the biggest question in the estimates of the time required to finish the crop.

The crop normally averages about 55,000 bales, leaving only about 6,000 bales out if crop estimates are correct.

The cotton is still of poor quality, with one gin reporting that it is so hard to gin that they were only ginning about 35 bales a day. The price, however, is still good.

HERE'S CASE FOR MR. MOTO

It could have been a case of pilfering from the police, or it might be that some one within the department borrowed and forgot to mention it.

Whatever the cause, the city police department wants its seats returned.

Assistant chief Stanley Bogard, in a note hung on the station bulletin board Saturday, tersely stated:

"Anyone knowing the whereabouts of our chairs... please see that they are returned."

In all, about 30 chairs are missing. Although they have legs, the thrones just didn't get up and walk off.

Marijuana Rap Is Eased In NM

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The New Mexico Senate voted 22-15 Saturday to relax the penalty for possession of less than an ounce of marijuana, the equivalent of about 20 cigarettes, to a fine of $25-$50 with no jail sentence.

Two proposed amendments challenging the new penalty section in a comprehensive Drug Control Code were defeated also. The code was then passed 31-6 and sent to the House.

The bill developed by the interim Drug Abuse Study Committee classifies every known substance with the potential for misuse as a drug and sets out new legal concepts in an attempt to crack down on the drug traffic in New Mexico. For the first time it would require all shipments of drugs to be registered with the state Board of Pharmacy.

A central argument by proponents of the lighter penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana was to prevent the "criminalizing" of casual users of marijuana and direct police to concentrate on the control of hard drugs and pushers.

The pointed out that the penalty for selling marijuana or giving it to a minor under 18 is a third-degree felony in the bill, which carries a 2-10-year prison sentence.

Opponents of the relaxed possession penalties said the voters of New Mexico don't want any easing and the senate bill comes close to legalizing marijuana.

The Senate bill removes the distinction between first and subsequent offenses and sets a penalty for possession of 1-8 ounces at $50-$100 fine and seven days in jail, and for more than eight ounces, 1-12 months in jail and $100-$1,000 fine.

The Saturday morning session also brought passage, 24-0, of the Coal Surface Mining Act.

The Senate passed without significant opposition Senate bills revising the Occupational Health and Safety Act and easing the state truancy laws to special programs for potential high school dropouts.

The Coal Surface Mining Act requires any coal strip mine to have a permit from a special state board, which must see that surface reclamation is an integral part of the mining operation.

Aspirant Is Helped By GOP's Reaction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday the Nixon administration's sharp response to Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's criticism of the President's Vietnam peace plans was an "overkill" that pushed the Maine senator further toward the Democratic presidential nomination.

"He's getting a buildup as a result and the issue of Vietnam has been moved to the forefront" of the political stage, the Montana senator told reporters. Mansfield added that he personally is inclined "to give the President's proposals a chance."

He said he favors waiting to see if the enemy can "come up with accommodation" on the President's peace proposals.

But he added his proposal for total withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Indochina in six months if prisoners are freed "is still in my pocket and will be offered at an appropriate time. This proposal has been adopted three times by the Senate."

Mansfield said the denunciation of Muskie by Secretary of State William P. Rogers "is a shift away from the positions of past secretaries of State" to keep out of domestic politics.

The Montana senator, who served in China in the Marines 30 years ago, said President Nixon's forthcoming visit to Peking was the subject of his White House breakfast session with Nixon last week.

He said the reported plans of Le Duc Tho, the chief North Vietnamese delegate to the Paris peace talks, to return to France via Peking "could have significance" for a possible Indochinese settlement.

On other subjects, Mansfield said:

—Some kind of compromise may emerge this week on the bill extending powers of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, and unless a compromise is reached, "we may end up with no bill."

—A wheat and grain bill killed in Senate Agriculture

Committee after winning House approval may be revived, possibly as an amendment to another bill on the Senate floor.

OTHER STATES TRY 'NO FAULT'

Insurance Reform 'Must' For Motorist In Texas

By BARBARA LORD (First of a Series)

It would be a welcome and pleasant phenomenon if the cost of auto insurance were to go down, while service improved. In the past several years, premium costs have soared right along with the cost of living rise, and payment of claims has slowed to a virtual standstill.

No-fault auto insurance may be the answer to better protection and lower costs for policy holders. Six states are now experimenting with some form of no-fault. Texas isn't yet among them, but if the program is as effective as its advocates hope it will be, all states will eventually adopt some form of it.

Here's basically how the plan works. Both parties in an automobile accident receive immediate payments for certain losses sustained, up to a specified limit, directly from their own insurance company, regardless of who is at fault in the accident.

The principal idea behind no-fault is to speed settlements, reduce the number of court litigations, and thereby reduce premiums, and provide faster and more efficient payment to accident victims.

MUST BE PROVED

Under the present liability system, the injured person receives compensation only if he is blameless and if he can prove another driver was negligent. This often results in years of delay.

The present system is inadequate. It doesn't deliver just compensation to thousands of car accident victims each year; while still others are overpaid. The need for reform has widespread recognition, and "no-fault" appears to be gathering the most momentum as the best possible answer.

Ideally, if the country were on a total no-fault system, every motorist would be covered with help put no-fault insurance plans into law in other states. The same type of policy. When an accident occurred, each motorist would be paid for injuries to his car, property, body or passengers, without any investigation concerning negligence to determine who was at fault. Court suits would be totally eliminated.

Realistically, however, the no-fault concept is being used by only six states and in six varying degrees; some effective and some merely in name only. All of the plans set limits on claim amounts, and all retain the right to sue for expenses exceeding no-fault benefits.

Massachusetts was the first state to make any significant strides in adopting an effective no-fault concept. The first program, however, began in 1947 in Saskatchewan, Canada. In 1970, a government operated program began in Puerto Rico and an optional program started in Minnesota. Today, Delaware, Illinois, South Dakota, Florida and Oregon have all adopted some form of the idea.

COMPULSORY PLAN

The Massachusetts plan, which began in early 1971, is compulsory. It first covered only medical bills and some loss of earnings. The success of the plan was so gratifying that it has now widened its coverage to include most auto-accident property.

During the last six months of 1971, injury claims and amounts paid on those claims plummeted by more than 50 per cent in Massachusetts. This led the insurance department to recommend a 27.6 per cent reduction in premiums in 1972 for that limited part of no-fault coverage.

Extending the concept of no-fault to property damage will probably not have the same dramatic effect on claims and payments as the limited medical coverage did, but hopefully, the success of the program will

Some states seem reluctant to change from the present third-party liability insurance system to a first-party, no-fault system. Where previously, all claims included the insured, the insurer and the victim, under no-fault, the claimant's own company would pay directly on the basis of actual losses sustained. The third party would be removed from consideration. It would no longer be necessary for a victim to proceed against another motorist or another motorist's insurance company to prove the other driver at fault, in order to collect damages.

INSURANCE A MUST

In a country where there are more than 100 million drivers in almost as many vehicles, who drive about one trillion miles a year, insurance is important to everyone. That's why the sky-rocketing cost of premiums has gained so much

Police Defuse Airport Bomb

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Explosives experts defused a live bomb found in a locker at Vancouver International Airport Friday night after an anonymous caller threatened to explode a bomb unless given $200,000, authorities said.

Police said the caller telephoned CP Air with the threat and said bombs had been placed at unspecified locations.

The airline held up two flights at Montreal and diverted a third to Anchorage, Alaska, to search for bombs after receiving the calls. No bombs were found, officials said.

The caller reportedly demanded that the money be placed in a city garbage can and police staked out the area Saturday. No arrests were reported.

An airline spokesman declined to give other details of the extortion attempt and officials refused to say whether any money had been handed over.

HUSBAND CHARGED Shotgun Blast In Face Kills Mother Of 3

Mrs. Betty Jean Gaines, 24, of 304 S. Avenue, Coahoma, mother of three children, was killed early Saturday morning by a shotgun blast fired at close range into her face, Jackie Wayne Gaines, 30, oil field worker, husband of the dead woman, is in custody in the Howard County jail on a charge of murder.

Coahoma Justice of the Peace Lulu Adams ruled death caused by gunshot wound and ruled the victim dead at the scene. Officers found Mrs. Gaines' body in the kitchen of her home, and Gaines was taken into custody at the scene. Howard County Sheriff A. N. Standard, Deputy Sheriffs Walt Birdsong and Bill Chadwell investigated a report of a shooting at the home and found Mrs. Gaines at 1 a.m. Saturday.

The body was taken to River-Welch Funeral Home where funeral arrangements are pending.

Peace Justice Adams bound Gaines over to the custody of the sheriff's department pending the filing of formal charges with one of the Big Spring peace justices.

"A charge of murder with malice was filed against Gaines in Peace Justice Jess Slaughter's court today," said Sheriff Standard Saturday. Bond of $10,000 was set for Gaines after the filing of formal charges with Slaughter.

"The shooting apparently resulted from an argument between the couple. Gaines has made one statement in the case and will be questioned further," said Sheriff Standard.

Reviewing the... Big Spring Week

... with Joe Pickle

Outstripping all else last week was the announcement that Cosden Oil & Chemical Company is making a multi-million dollar addition to modernize its refining potential. The new element will be a reformer (to change molecular structure so that low run becomes high test gasoline without adding lead) and a desulphurizer. Cosden thus will be able to fill all orders for highest test non-leaded gasoline. In addition, the step likely will open up other projects at the refining and petrochemical complex. During peak construction, 250-300 men will be required and payroll will be about $1 million.

January weather indicated a repeat of last year's pattern of drought until late spring. February opened with a first class surprise — a mild snow storm, which, had it held on, would have been something indeed. Temperatures sagged to 10 degrees, and if there is anything to the theory that severe winters kill over-wintering bugs, farmers should have minimal insect damage this year. A third announcement for candidacy in the upcoming city elections was made Friday by Harold M. Hall, owner and operator of Hall Air-Cooled Engine Service in Big Spring, Hall, 50, who resides at 407 Hillside, has been a resident of Big Spring since 1928. He is married to the former Dorothy Hayward, and they have three sons, Don, 24, Howard, 23 and Mike, 22.

In making his announcement Hall said, "I am interested in seeing Big Spring grow and prosper. I am an independent candidate and will continue to be independent of any special interest group."

"Every decision I would make as your commissioner would be based on the premise — is it best for the majority of our citizens? I would appreciate your vote and support," he said. Hall is a World War II veteran and was honorably discharged in 1945 from the Air Corps and began his business shortly afterward in Big Spring. In 1964 he was a candidate for a position on the county commission.

Two other candidates have made public announcements of their candidacy for the April 4 election. Current mayor program, Wade Choate, and incumbent commissioner, Eddie Acri have each made their intentions known.

Rogers Nanny, city secretary, said Friday that deadline on the County Democratic Party filing time, which was Saturday at 6 p.m., has nothing to do with the city election and filing deadline for that referendum will be March 4.

Selection Of Ballard Jury May Take Week

Jury selection, which is expected to take at least a week to complete, is to begin Monday in 83rd District Court at Alpine in the trial of Whitmer Jean Ballard, 46, charged with murder with malice in connection with the Dec. 2, 1970 shotgun slaying of Glasscock County rancher Steve Currie, 71.

Selection of a jury is expected to be lengthy, according to 118th District Attorney Wayne Burns, because the prosecution is seeking the death penalty against Ballard.

Ballard is considered by the prosecution to be the "trigger man" in Currie's death. Currie was killed during a robbery of his ranch home near Garden City. Among the items reportedly stolen from the home were pistols and items of jewelry.

Prosecuting Ballard in addition to Burns, in whose judicial district the crime occurred, will be Guit Jones, local attorney and former district attorney hired as a special prosecutor by the Currie family. 83rd District Attorney William H. Earney and Brewster County Attorney Richard E. Bowers.

trict Judge Caton agreed to step down from the bench. Bearden had presented a motion that Judge Caton overrule in which Bearden asked that Judge Caton disqualify himself because of "political and economic" forces which prevented Judge Caton from acting impartially in the case.

In overruling the motion, Judge Caton said that Bearden had failed to present sufficient evidence in support of his motion.

Monday, prosecution attorneys considered presenting a motion calling for Judge Sherrill to disqualify himself from the case, but decided against pursuing the matter, according to Burns. The motion would have been based on the fact that Judge Sherrill was Ballard's court-appointed counsel 15 years ago.

OTHERS CHARGED
 Four other persons are charged with murders with malice in connection with Currie's death in addition to Ballard. Orville Davis, 51, was sentenced to life in prison Oct. 1, 1971 by a Midland jury for his role in Currie's death. Benjamin Thomas Tisdale, 46, presently in federal custody, is to be tried in 51st District Court, San Angelo, at an unspecified date following the completion of Ballard's trial. Floyd Palmer has eluded authorities since investigation of the crime began and remains at large. Various leads to his whereabouts have been followed up to no avail.

Judy Dunham, 23, the only woman charged in the case, has been granted immunity from prosecution in return for her testimony in behalf of the state. Mrs. Dunham was the state's chief witness in the case against Davis.

When the trial convenes Monday in Alpine, it will be after a succession of venue changes which has taken the trial from Garden City to Ballinger, from Ballinger to Midland, and from Midland to Alpine.

TWO ATTORNEYS
 Court-appointed counsel for Ballard are Bobby Bearden, Midland, and Ralph Burleson, Alpine. District Judge Charles E. Sherrill, of the 112th Judicial District, Fort Stockton, appointed Burleson Monday during a hearing in Alpine. Bearden was appointed to represent Ballard in June 1971 by 118th District Judge R. W. Caton during hearings in Garden City. District Judge Sherrill agreed to preside in the case after Dis-

Course Opens In Insurance

Howard County Junior College will begin its Fundamentals of Insurance course on Thursday at 7 p.m. in Room A-205.

This course is specifically designed for the layman. The different types of policies are to be discussed and explained: the basic provisions of these different policies; Social Security benefits, how they are paid, and how these should be included in the insurance program. The beneficiary arrangements of life insurance will be dealt into in detail. There will be an attorney present for one of the class meetings which will explain in detail wills — how they are written, why, and what should be included. Finally there will be one class session designed for planning the program for family security.

The instructor will be Harvey B. Rhoads who entered the life insurance business in August, 1958, with a major life insurance company. He has remained active in the insurance business since that time.

In 1970, he became the sales manager of the Midland and Big Spring offices of Metropolitan Life. He is currently the class instructor for "Life Underwriter Training Council" of Washington, D. C., and teaches a class of experienced life insurance men of various companies in Midland.

The class will meet every Thursday for four weeks from 7:00-9:00 p.m. There will be an $8 charge.

For further information, call Dr. Charles Hays at 267-6311.

PARIS (AP) — Gilbert Francois is a husky riot cop in 1934 and 1958. The last one probably hastened the return of Charles de Gaulle.

RUN DEEP

Still, feelings are running deep. The police say their pay rates have not kept up with those of other public servants.

He says it in his office, and at the negotiating table where he represents 50,000 uniformed municipal policemen.

He speaks firmly but calmly. He knows that a group of hotheads almost touched off a crisis by fanning passions at a recent mass meeting at Evian of unionized policemen. They put through a resolution to "occupy" the premier's office and the Ministry of Finance if their demands weren't met.

They also threatened to demonstrate at the Elysee Palace, the French White House.

Strong words for the usually impassive men in distinctive blue kepis who patrol the streets, direct the traffic, and idle away hours upon hours in parked vans waiting for trouble to break out. While the French police have never gone on strike, they held mass marches age 55 instead of 65 elsewhere," said Francois.

"Almost all are small town or country boys. Many can't find work after getting out of the army. They know no trades."

By mid-career, a uniformed cop's basic pay is about $414 a month, and as retirement age approaches it rises to $470.

By comparison, a school teacher, who needs a higher education but works far fewer hours, gets $270 basic pay to start, $410 in mid-career, and $451 toward the end.

"The police are classified as 'special status,' which means we have no right to strike," explained a uniformed cop nearing retirement. "But all other government employees have the right to strike. We have special status but no special privileges. We don't think that's fair."

The government is not sympathetic to the pay demands.

The government's attitude cools even further when the police air their political complaints.

"The uniformed cop doesn't understand politics and doesn't care," said Francois. "No one is more man-of-the-people. They are not Communists or anything else."

"But they don't like being used as the tool of the reigning political party — they don't like getting the rocks and the insults that are really being aimed at the government. Cops cannot control the course of political evolution."

Francois means that since the 1968 student-worker "revolt," the municipal police have been concentrated around factories, leftist hangouts, universities and other sensitive points just to suppress leftist political agitators. The police think the man-hours thus lost would be better used patrolling the suburbs, especially at night, where burglaries and two-bit robberies are climbing so fast that some neighborhoods have organized their own vigilante groups.

The standard deduction is up this year. But maybe you should itemize.

Your best buddy Lenny might have told you to itemize your deductions because it would save you more tax dollars.

Your neighbor possibly suggested taking the standard deduction because you'd pay less taxes that way.

And Frank down at the office ... he helps everybody with their return ... what did Frank recommend?

If there's some way to save you money on your income tax, H & R Block will know how to do it.

Itemized and standard deductions are nothing new. We've been preparing returns for years using both. We'll figure out your situation both ways and then prepare your return using the method that's best for you.

You see, for only a few dollars more than it costs to do it yourself (with advice maybe from some other amateur), you can have your tax return prepared with complete confidentiality by a specially trained member of the H & R Block team. There are thousands of them in over 6,000 conveniently located offices.

Each member of H & R Block is warm, friendly and anxious to help you. A visit to H & R Block usually takes just a short time. Once in our office, you sit down over a free cup of coffee and possibly learn things about your income tax that you never knew existed. Things that we know, because income tax returns are our only business.

H & R Block's fees start at $5 and the average cost was under $12.50 for over 7 million families we served last year.

Furthermore, if your return is audited we will accompany you, at no extra cost, to the Internal Revenue Service and explain how your return was prepared, even though we will not act as your legal representative.

It means that H & R Block also offers you year round tax service for just one low fee, with no extra charge for audits and estimates.

Yes, it's true. The standard deduction is up this year.

It's one of the many things we'll consider when we do your return.

NO BUTTS ABOUT IT — Highy, an over-sized billy goat who was recently retired because of his size from the petting zoo at Lion Country Safari in Palm Beach, Fla., is very tempted to butt one of the maintenance men at the wildlife preserve. Apparently, Highy is looking for the photographer's approval before charging.

Boys' Club members wishing to enter the photography contest sponsored by Boys' Clubs of America must have their entries in by March 1.

Presently, 10 members of the camera club sponsored by the local Boys' Club are preparing photographs for the contest, according to Mike Bierly, who is sponsoring the shutterbugs. At the board of directors meeting held Thursday night, directors of the local club learned that a volunteer swimming instructor has been obtained through the Red Cross to teach club members to swim as part of the club's summer program, and Bill Crooker, board president, reported that additional space for club activities and an outdoor playground were needed to augment the club's current program.

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow flurries are forecast today for the Great Lakes area by the National Weather Service. Northern Washington can expect snow. Louisiana and Arkansas will have showery weather. The remainder of the country will have cold and clear weather except for the normally warmer southern regions.

DEATHS

Longtime Area Resident Dies

Mrs. A. M. (Mack) Burns, 85, died Friday at 8:10 p.m. Services are set for Monday at 2 p.m. in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. The Rev. Kenneth Patrick will officiate, with burial in Mt. Olive cemetery.

Mrs. (Nellie C.) Burns was born Feb. 5, 1886, in Rogers, Ark. She married A. M. Burns Aug. 29, 1909, in Arkansas and later moved to Glasscock County, where they resided until moving to Big Spring in 1967. She was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband, Mack Burns, Big Spring; two sons, Kelly Burns, Big Spring, and Morris Burns, Los Angeles, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Marguerite Phillips, Big Spring, and Mrs. Mary Louise King, Stockdale; two sisters, Mrs. Grace Christie, Durango, Colo., and Mrs. Blanche Woods, Rogers, Ark.; six grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandchild.

Pallbearers are to be Gene Burns, Charles Ray Burns, Nickel Bridge, John Bennett, Mack Dyer and Erving Bridge.

Services Monday For Stanton Man

STANTON (SC) — Charlie Reni Gonzales, 44, was dead on arrival at a Martin County hospital following a short illness.

Services will be at 3 p.m., Monday, in the St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Burial will be in the St. Joseph's Cemetery under the direction of Gilbreath Funeral Home.

Gonzales was born Sept. 30, 1927, at Leesville, Texas. He was a former resident of Sudan and was employed at the West Texas Compress and Warehouse in Stanton.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Romero, Sudan; four brothers, Gabriel Romero and Raymond Romero, both of Stanton, Pete Romero and Tony Romero, both of Sudan; two sisters, Mrs. Carmen Cabez, Sudan, and Mrs. Lupe Diaz, Killeen, Texas.

Zachariah Announces He Will Seek Office Here

George Zachariah, a former Big Spring city commissioner, has announced he will be a candidate for the post of Howard County commissioner, Precinct 3, subject to action in the First Democratic primary election.

Zachariah is a long-time resident of Big Spring and a veteran employee of Cosden Oil & Chemical Co.

In declaring himself in the race, Zachariah stated: "My announcement as a candidate for the post of County Commissioner, Precinct 3, is being made after much serious consideration.

"A significant investment in time and effort on my part to acquire valuable personal contacts, and gain a wide knowledge of governmental affairs from the national through the local levels, was made by me during my six terms on the City Commission as Commissioner, Mayor Protem and Mayor.

Since most of the voters in Precinct 3 also have some part in this investment, I believe that my offer to serve as county commissioner will enable me to work on a wider scale for the benefit of the county as a whole.

One of today's prime objectives, and rightly so, is economy in government. I submit that no locally elected official is better qualified by background and experience to effect this goal and, if elected, I promise every effort towards its accomplishment.

"There is also a personal factor involved in my announcement. Because of a compulsory retirement rule, I will no longer be an employee of Cosden Oil and Chemical Company by the time of the general election. This will enable me to devote full time to the duties of the office for which I earnestly solicit the individual vote and support of the qualified residents in Precinct 3.

INSURANCE

(Continued from Page 1) attention and why the public is demanding changes. The changes wanted appear to some degree in the no-fault concept, because it provides faster payment of claims and a possibility for lower premiums. The concept is still too young to be judged accurately, but indications are that it is the best reform solution made available to the industry in years.

Many states are waiting to see its effectiveness, but no-fault is being widely discussed among insurance circles, and by state legislators. Whether or not 1972, as an election year, will slow down or speed up chances for no-fault plans, is yet to be seen. It may require federal guidelines to get some states to act, and both state and federal officials will be reluctant to suggest this before elections. But it is heartening to realize that auto-insurance laws will be changed, even though the public doesn't yet know when or how the changes will come about.

Tomorrow we'll discuss the states who have an active no-fault system in operation, and how they differ.

Violence has flared in a substantial way, with two homicides already. A week ago Lorenzo Jackson was charged (but not billed by the grand jury) with killing Cornelius Lister over a 75 cent gambling item. Betty Jean Gaines of Coahoma was killed early Saturday morning by a shotgun blast. A man was being held.

Tom Vandergriff, mayor of Arlington, had a word of advice for Big Spring as he addressed the Chamber of Commerce meeting here Wednesday, namely — aim high. Recognized were Sgt. Kenneth Ferry as the outstanding young airman at Webb AFB, and Ken Carter as the city's outstanding young man.

Although cold and snow halted the cotton harvest, guns were turning full blast again at the end of the week with something like 50,000 bales processed or on hand. At least another 5,000 bales — maybe substantially more, may come in.

Glasscock County can attract crazy weather with its annual 4-H livestock show. Despite heavy snow and biting winds, the annual event went off as scheduled. Gary Botla had the grand champion barrow; Ronnie Halfmann the top steer; and Jeannie West and Jody Kingston the top lambs.

The Progressive Farmer magazine honored Charlie Thompson of Colorado City as its Man of the Year in Texas agriculture for 1971. He was a pioneer and has continued active in farm credit extension.

Add to the long list of Big Spring young men who are making fine progress the name of James Lee Underwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Underwood. He was named vice president of the Oak Cliff Savings and Loan Association.

American Petrofina's annual financial report showed more activity but less earnings. Gross operating revenue was $274 million, up $14 million, but net earnings (due to depressed product markets and higher operating costs) were $13 million, or $9 million less than a year ago.

Having your home destroyed may not seem lucky, but count Mr. and Mrs. Teddy J. Whitaker, 801 W. 8th among the fortunate, for they escaped a massive explosion with burns and contusions.

HJC's victory scheme came to an abrupt halt in Borer in an overtime period with Frank Phillips last week. But on Monday, Archie Myers, the Hawks super-star, had basketed 57 points. That record likely is to stand a long, long time. And although the BSHS Steers lost, they led Midland's state-ranked Bulldogs at half-time and extended them all the way.

Coahoma, which twice had to close school because of flu, was back on schedule last Monday, but Borden County schools had to close Monday due to ice and slush.

THEFTS

John Bagnall, Big Spring High School vocational teacher, reported at 11:37 a.m. Friday the theft of an electric drill, value $24.

Lillie Christoffer reported at 3:12 p.m. Friday the theft of $40 from the Gomez Apartments.

Bill Tate, Parkway Food Store, reported at 7:49 a.m. Friday a burglary. Taken were 65 cartons of cigarettes, one check writer, three fryers, six pounds of pork chops, two arm roasts and one five pound box of cheese. The estimated value was $380.

TENURE AWARD — Recently, Louie Trammell, production assistant for the Mobil Oil Chalk foreman's area, received his 25-year service pin from Q. K. Earle, foreman at Otischalk. A native of Breckenridge, he started with Mobil at Crane, served in Hobbs, N.M., prior to being named to his present position in 1971. He and his wife, Joyce, and sons, James, Weldon and Louie Jr., live in Big Spring.

Noah Leyva Is Named Top Senior Non-Com At Webb

Senior MSgt. Noah Leyva, 3560th Supply Squadron, has been selected by a board as senior non-commissioned officer of the year at Webb AFB.

In a letter about Sgt. Leyva, Major James H. Napier, chief of supply, said, "During 1971 the sergeant distinguished himself in the performance of his duties as squadron first sergeant. "Through his leadership the condition of our dormitories was raised from an unacceptable status to a rating of excellent. His assigned dormitories were the first to attain the standards set by the wing commander."

Sgt. Leyva began his military career in 1942 as an administrative specialist in the Army. He transferred to the Air Force in 1946, still as an administrative specialist. He stayed at Randolph Air Force Base until 1949 when he was sent to Goodfellow Air Force Base, as a first sergeant, a position he has held at all his assignments. Sgt. Leyva came to Webb in 1952, then was sent to Paegu Air Base, Korea, in 1954. Other assignments took him to Carswell Air Force Base,

NOAH LEYVA

Kincheloe Air Force Base, Mich., and Constantina Air Station, Spain. In 1966 he went to Tuy Hoa Air Base, Vietnam, then back to the states and Kincheloe in 1967. His next assignment brought him back to Webb for a terminal leave. A native of Big Spring, Sgt. Leyva married the former Mary Lou Zubiate, also from Big Spring. They have five sons — Army Capt. Noah Leyva Jr., Air Force Sgt. David Leyva, PFC Jacob Leyva, and Charles James and Joseph Lawrence both still at home.

Filing Deadline Near For Political Posts

With Monday's 6 p.m. deadline for candidates to file with Howard County political chairmen to get their names on primary ballots drawing near, there are three contested positions in the seven county races and four state offices.

Of the contested races, one is for county commissioner, one for justice of the peace and the third state representative on the Democratic party ticket.

George Zachariah, Democrat, has filed for election as county commissioner of precinct 3 against incumbent Bill Crooker, who has filed with the Republican party to seek to retain his office.

L. A. (Red) Hiltbrunner and incumbent Walter Grice have filed with the Democratic party for the office of justice of the peace, precinct 1, place 1.

Renal B. Rosson, Snyder, and Allan Griffith, Sweetwater, have filed with the local Democratic party for state representative. County Democratic Party Chairman D. A. Brazel said he has not received official word on which counties are in the representative's district along with Howard, and some confusion still surrounds candidacy for the office.

Confusion exists also in the race for U.S. Representative. According to Brazel, it is not clear if Rep. Omar Burleson or Rep. George Mahon is to be the representative for this district. Burleson is the only candidate to have filed locally.

NO OPPOSITION County incumbents who have filed for re-election and are as yet unopposed are County Tax Assessor Zerah L. Bednar, County Sheriff A. N. Standard, County Commissioner of precinct 1 Simon (Cy) Terrazas and County Attorney W. H. (Bill) Eysen.

Robert (Bob) Moore III is the only candidate for the 118th District attorney's office. In

With Monday's 6 p.m. deadline for candidates to file with Howard County political chairmen to get their names on primary ballots drawing near, there are three contested positions in the seven county races and four state offices.

State office seekers who have filed with the County Democratic party and are as yet unopposed are Jack Hightower, seeking state senatorial office, and James M. Binion has filed for a place on the state board of education.

Crooker and "Rich" Anderson are the only Republicans to file for office.

Financing of party primaries in May will depend on the generosity of the candidates because of a recent federal action ruling the state house bill setting filing fees for candidates unconstitutional. Candidates may voluntarily contribute the filing fees to their political party, and all local Democratic candidates have contributed their fees, according to Brazel.

Crooker has contributed his fee to the local Republican party, which traditionally has lower election costs than the Democratic party. William J. Sheppard is county Republican party chairman.

According to a ruling issued Thursday by Secretary of State Bob Bullock, candidates must choose either to pay a filing fee or submit a nominating petition to get their names on primary ballots. If the candidate chooses to pay the fee, it must be designated as a contribution to the party, and no pressure can be put on any candidate to pay the fee rather than submit the petition.

Although a candidate need not submit a petition supporting the filing before March 6, all candidates must file for office by Monday.

LETTERS Cites Staff, Tax Angle In New Hospital Issue

Dear Editor: Roscoe is not going to approve of my writing this letter, as he thinks it is unethical to engage in public medical hassles; but since nobody has touched on the real issues here, and in fact it seems to me the sensitive spot has been so skillfully avoided that the public doesn't know what it is, I have made up my mind to write a letter to the editor.

We would like to see a great new hospital for Big Spring, perhaps a four county hospital for Borden, Glasscock, Martin and Howard, but ideally, it should not be associated with any one hospital now existing. When you pay a million dollars of tax payers' money, your money and mine, into one institution to advance it in size, beauty and equipment far above its competitors, you create an unfair advantage for one and resentment in the other three. When you additionally absolve the favored one of any duty to pay property taxes or sales taxes on drugs and supplies, this is rubbing salt in the wounds of those dutifully paying taxes and carrying their load.

The objections have always been swept under the rug with the statement that the new hospital will be open staff, implying that all the doctors in town can make use of it. What you don't acknowledge is that not one M.D. outside the Malone-Hogan group thinks he would be granted unqualified staff privileges in this new hospital.

They have read the kicker in the public statements that they must be approved and certified by the board that was hand-picked by the Malone-Hogan doctors from their most loyal and influential patients. I am not implying that you all are controlled by the doctors like so many puppets. I am saying that you have reason to be biased through long devotion and also by the emoluments for service as board members. I am not sure that this is free hospitalization for you and yours, but I have always understood that this was so.

Even though I think there are better ways to acquire a hospital than the one you promote, I think the fire could be removed from the present heated question if you board members would show good faith to the other doctors in town and to their loyal following, by immediately issuing to all M.D.s practicing here, a certificate making each a staff member effective upon completion of the hospital, and by inviting the other hospitals to appoint a member to the board, thus assuring them they would have some hand in policies controlling their future.

Sincerely, MARY JOY COWPER 902 Mountain Park

Reader Seeks Voting Box

Dear Editor: In the past very few people from the Northside have voted in Big Spring Independent School Elections. This is because there is only one voting box for the entire school election which is the Big Spring High School.

Most of the people on the North Side are working people who generally have to work until almost time for the polls to close. Also many people have to walk to the polls because they have no transportation. The School Board should encourage and make it possible for more people to vote. Others have appealed to the Board in the past and they have done nothing.

If the cost is the thing that prohibits having a voting box on the North Side, then we will pay for it ourselves. GUS OCHOTREENA, Chairman American G. I. Forum

An Imperative Need

Texas government, faced with an unparalleled list of problems demanding immediate answers, is hamstringing by politics.

By court action, redistricting, primary filing fees and school financing have all bitten the dust. Yet an immediate special session of the legislature to deal with these problems isn't likely to be called, because of politics.

And even if one were, it is extremely doubtful it could accomplish anything constructive — again because of politics.

This is an election year, which always is troublesome for good government. The difficulty is compounded because high state officials are announced as candidates against one another in the primaries. And the hangover of the stock scandal, more than any other factor, has simply ground Texas government to a halt.

Any special session called now would quickly be engulfed in the issues of whether Speaker Gus Mutscher should be deposed (almost certainly he would) and if so, who would succeed him. But Mutscher still has supporters in the House; they would make life difficult for his opponents. Then there are the enemies of Gov. Preston Smith to contend with; most likely, the governor's involvement in the Sharpstown State Bank-National Bankers Life maneuverings would prompt direct attacks on him, even extending to a move for impeachment.

And there is the governor's continuing war on Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, opposing the governor in the primary coming up. How this warfare could result in any sort of acceptable legislation — which would have to be passed with Barnes' help and signed by the governor — is impossible to imagine.

Thus are the effects of the stock scandal on good government — or any effective government — in Texas mounting. Legislation, strong, tough ethics legislation, to prevent even the possibility of such a set of circumstances again arising is imperative as soon as possible.

What You Can Do

Today marks the beginning of the annual observance for Boy Scout Week, which is pitched toward the anniversary of the program's beginning 62 years ago.

It is rather remarkable — and yet it isn't — that the basic tenets of the program remain about the same as at the beginning. The prime object is to develop strong moral character in boys — and to give them an opportunity for leadership training.

There is a certain note of irony that in recent years, when there are so much demands upon the public's generosity that underwriting the program has become more difficult. At the very time when this type of service for your youth is most sorely needed, the going is the roughest. But money is still not, nor has it ever been, the greatest need. That need is manpower and woman power. People who want to do something as individuals to help their nation at one of its most critical periods in history need look no further than Scouting. All they really need to give is their time and their good example.

Around The Rim

Walt Finley

The presidential and state races are beginning to get crowded.

One of the great things about this country is that any one meeting certain minimum requirements can run for president.

THIS YEAR, everyone meeting certain minimum requirements is running. Which is as it should be. But it is very expensive, and it is time-consuming and debilitating, and actually only a few have a chance at it.

One of the announced candidates is Edmund S. Muskie, son of a Polish immigrant named Marciszewski. (The naturalization agent who processed the father's entry shortened the name to Muskie, and when the father signed the blank it became his legal name.)

I'LL SWEAR I have seen a picture of Muskie wearing an old football helmet, and the phrase apparently selected as the theme of his campaign is "A new beginning."

So I wonder if we're not being offered "a new beginning" by an old end.

Besides that, it's redundant. But then redundancy never bothered a candidate.

With the campaign coming on, it might be wise to point out I intend to comment on the lighter aspects of the quadrennial plague which hits our country.

CERTAINLY I'LL have a favorite of my own somewhere down the line, but I have no intention of promoting him here. I suspect politicians who know me would tell you that friends running for office get the needle more often and a little deeper than strangers. But what's a friend for?

So don't jump to any conclusions because of my remarks from the sidelines.

Friday I entered a building and heard someone yelling "Hey, stupid!" My instant reaction was "Who'd be paging me?"

IF THE WOMEN'S Lib movement wants another project, they might take after the airlines which have as a requirement for stewardesses that they have normal vision without glasses.

Devious Plan

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — As part of his over-all plan, President Nixon has offered North Vietnam $2.5 billion to rebuild its country once the war is over. Even critics of the President consider this a generous sum of money to be given to a nation that Mr. Nixon still refers to in the most unflattering terms.

I HAVE a friend named Zugsmith, who works with people in the Washington ghetto, and the morning he read about the $2.5 billion offer he came to see me.

"Man, that's a lot of money to give a country that's been kicking the hell out of us," he said.

"Well, it's not as much as we gave Germany and Japan after World War II," I said.

I'VE BEEN thinking about it quite seriously, and I want to try this idea out on you. Suppose after the war is over we import some of those North Vietnam cats and bring them to Washington and put them up in the ghetto.

"I don't follow you," I said.

"Now suppose those North Vietnam cats start fighting with our cats, I mean really fighting with them, with a lot of surplus war stuff that the South Vietnamese will probably sell us under the table."

"But that would be civil war," I protested.

RIGHT, BUT keep in mind we won't be fighting against Americans. We'll be fighting against North Vietnam."

"But the North Vietnamese are Communists," I said.

"You got it, man. Now if we're fighting North Vietnamese in the ghetto, America is going to have to come to our support. Right?"

"They'd better or we'll have Communist aggression right on our own mainland."

OKAY, SO America comes into the ghetto and says "You got a Communist threat here, boys. What can we give you?" So we say "How about tearing down all those rat-infested buildings so we can get a good crack at the North Vietnamese who are out there somewhere?"

"They would have to tear them down if that's where the Communists were hiding," I agreed.

"Now we say to the Americans, 'How about putting up some new buildings so we can win the hearts and minds of the people in the ghetto? And how about some land reform while you're at it?'"

"If it's a civil war, you have to win the hearts and minds of the people," I agreed.

YOU GOT IT, man. Nobody gives a damn about the hearts and minds of the people in the ghetto because there are no Communies there. You sprinkle five or six hundred Reds around and America has to give us everything we ask for."

THE BEAUTY of your plan," I said, "is that if you fight Communists in the ghetto, you'll be the good guys. The only problem you have, as I see it, is how do you get the North Vietnamese to come to the ghetto in Washington? It isn't really a place they'd want to fight for."

What Is Israel?

William F. Buckley Jr.

JERUSALEM — I asked Mrs. Golda Meir why she does not call more pointedly to the attention of the world Jewry the threat posed by the relative military weakening of the United States and by the post-Vietnam nonchalance with which we are being urged to regard our mutual defense treaties. She replied that although it was unquestionably her own conviction that these trends were threatening, nevertheless it would be unfitting for her to presume to speak to all the Jews of the world concerning political matters. But, I said, you are chief of the government of Israel, and Israel is more than merely a state, is it not? "It is and it isn't," Mrs. Meir explained; vexedly, because she wrestles, every day, with the two Israels.

THERE IS ISRAEL the formal state. She is the head of its government, and as such she must observe the conventional protocols, and one of them is that you do not permit yourself to instruct people in other countries, whatever their ties to your own, or how to analyze the international political situation.

On the other hand, of course, Israel was conceived by its most conspicuous founders as something more than merely another state. More, even, than a homeland for the Jewish people who had been bereft for so many centuries "through a historical catastrophe — the destruction of Jerusalem by the Emperor of Rome," as S. Y. Agnon put it on accepting the Nobel prize in 1966. The founders, in the words of Amos Elon, sought "a safe haven for Jews, and a new paradise to boot. A kingdom of saints, a new world purged of suffering and sin . . . "IN THIS," ELON SIGHS, "they would fail . . . Modern Israelis are motivated by self-interest and the brutal realities of power. The early pioneers were dreamers; their innocence gave them great strength; courage came from inexperience. Modern Israelis are likely to be weakened by hindsight."

When then is Israel? The question is eternally disputed — what is it that defines a Jew? To which question the accepted answer has come to be: To believe oneself to be one. By the same token, Israel is whatever the individual Israeli believes it to be. Some continue to think of it as the crucible for a truly just and egalitarian society. Others think of it primarily as the most exciting contemporary example of the historical reaches of human willpower. (Murray Kempton muses that for all that we are supposed to have entered the age of superpowers after the Second World War, historians of the future will spend most of their time talking about Israel and North Vietnam.) Still others think of Israel as having lapsed altogether into conventionality.

THE FOUNDERS were mostly socialists, but socialism is not a fighting faith here. I have not heard it put better than by Mrs. Shimon Peres, the talented Minister of Transportation and Communications. "By and large, those in the world who placed freedom above equality, have done better by equality than those who placed equality above freedom, have done by freedom."

THE PUSHER

No Tax Hike Contemplated

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite the government's projections of a large federal budget deficit for fiscal 1973, top Nixon administration officials the past week denied a tax increase would be needed early next year.

"We aren't planning to submit any tax bill for the simple reason that we just went through a tax reduction," Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said as he appeared before the House Ways and Means Committee to request an increase in the federal debt ceiling.

Added George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget: "Any talk about a tax increase is just devastating. . . . The minute you say a tax increase is inevitable you don't have any steel left in anybody to resist higher outlays."

BIG DEFICIT Last month the government estimated the budget deficit for fiscal 1973, which begins next July 1, would be $25.5 billion. Some Congressmen have speculated that the size of the deficit made a tax increase next year inevitable.

In a move to curb the flow of people from farms to cities, President Nixon asked Congress for a $1.3 billion rural development credit fund that would be used to spur economic growth in the countryside.

Designed to create new sources of employment in rural America, the program calls for channeling two-thirds of the money into loans to firms unable to obtain credit elsewhere. The balance would be earmarked for public projects in rural areas such as water and sewer systems and industrial parks.

DOLLAR DRUBBED On the international monetary front, the U.S. dollar took a beating on world currency markets, slipping toward new floors established by finance ministers less than seven weeks ago.

Traders linked the drop to the soaring price of gold and fears that U.S. payments deficit would be hard to reduce. The dollar gained strength in

- Administration proposed $1.3 billion rural development fund
- Dollar slips badly on international money markets
- European Economic Community ready to talk of trades

Europe toward the end of the week.

The outlook for trade liberalization, which the United States has insisted was a necessary step in the reform of the world monetary system, brightened when the European Economic Community, the Common Market, announced it would start negotiations next year to whittle down trade barriers.

TRADE DEALS? If the Common Market's major trading partners are willing to enter into discussions with the EEC bloc, the ground-work would be laid for the most important series of trade negotiations since the Kennedy round of bargaining ended five years ago, observers said.

While the White House stepped up pressure on Congress to act on its compulsory arbitration proposal for settling the West Coast dock strike, the longshoremen's union on the Gulf and East coasts said it had agreed to continue to work a month beyond the date a Taft-Hartley Act strike ban expires.

Up Periscope! Rear-View Mirror May Be On Way Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Motorists, prepare to say goodbye to the conventional rear-view mirror in your family automobile.

Four years from now, by government edict, drivers will start peering through overhead periscopes to see what's behind them.

The new equipment gets rid of the blind spots that are a hazard with the interior and outside rear view mirrors now employed, says Charles Kaehn, director of driver visibility standards for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration NHTSA.

"This new system gives twice the horizontal field of view that you get with conventional mirrors," Kaehn said on a recent test drive in a periscope-equipped sedan.

Rear-view mirrors give a 30-degree sweep of vision. The test version of the periscope offers 60 degrees and the regular system that will be adopted for all new cars, effective probably in September 1976, will cover about 80 degrees.

Some drivers who have tried out the experimental version say the field of coverage is almost too great. So much rear action meets the eye that they find it confusing.

But most agreed that there will be no real difficulty adjusting to the new equipment.

Donnelly Mirrors, Inc., Holland, Mich., produced 50 of the periscopes under a $14,000 contract and installed them on cars owned by the General Services Administration and being test-driven by government employees.

The test mirrors ride atop the cars so that from the outside they resemble the sign cabinet of a taxicab.

Doesn't the roof protuberance act as a dust catcher, or increase car washing difficulties? "Not at all," says Kaehn.

Contagious Repression

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — The kinds of courage that have marked mankind through the millennia are related to battle and sudden death. It is the response of the squad leader falling on a grenade to save his men. It is the charge of the many light brigades into encounters doomed from the first command.

THERE IS another kind of courage that pits the lonely individual against an all-powerful, repressive government and the inert mass. That is the courage of the handful of dissenters in the Soviet Union who make their voices heard in spite of prison camp, exile, relegation to asylums for the insane. How widely their voices are heard by their fellow countrymen in conjecture, although by one means or another it may be much wider than anyone on the outside suspects.

What must astonish the fainthearted is how the dissenters succeed in spite of all the engines of repression in making their protest heard beyond the reach of their own thought police. Declarations of faith, narratives of resistance, challenge to authority — they pass through chinks in the wall to appear in the West.

THE LATEST is "A Question of Madness" by the brothers Zhores and Roy Medvedev. It is an account of Zhores' commitment to a mental hospital for his attack on the pseudo-scientific dogma of Lyсенkoism that wrecked biology in the Soviet Union in the Stalin era. His twin brother, Roy, carried on the fight, as he tells in alternate chapters, to rally Russian scientists and colleagues abroad to win freedom for Zhores.

Distinguished physicists like Andrei Sakharov joined the struggle. A bold appeal by Sakharov calling for an end to neo-Stalinist repression came out of Russia three years ago. Such is his distinction that Soviet officialdom seems to have stopped short of jailing him or exiling him.

IN THE CURRENT New York Review I. F. Stone recounts the effort of British psychiatrists in close touch with some of the Soviet dissenters to persuade the World Psychiatric Association that met in Mexico City in November to denounce the practice of degrading psychiatry to imprison political dissenters. But the association kept silent. For Stone the issue is whether socialism is reconcilable with freedom. The evidence to date is dismal. But it can be seen in the larger context of whether freedom can be reconciled with big government and conformism reinforced by the power of the mass media.

THOSE BUMPER stickers, "America Love It Or Leave It," say a lot about getting with it or getting out. You must be some kind of a kook if you don't believe that this is the best possible of all worlds. And if you're a kook, then maybe you should be put away.

Nor is the plight of the dissenter in the Soviet Union a small matter to the West. The fact that 200,000,000 people live behind that wall and another 700,000,000 people behind a similar wall in China must be a matter of profound concern if there is ever to be peaceful coexistence against a deadly nuclear standoff.

REVIVES AN OLD ART — Arnold Parmley, 1814 Settles, displays one of the lamps he has created after becoming interested in the old art of making cut-glass lamps. Parmley stenciled the design and cut each of the 322 pieces used to form the lamp shown. He has been making lamps as a hobby for two years and has recently turned it into a commercial venture.

Spare-Time Hobby Pays Off For Cut-Glass Lamp Maker

By LINDA CROSS

An old art has been revived by a Big Spring resident and has been added as a new line to his aunt's antique shop.

Arnold Parmley, 1814 Settles, constructs and designs leaded, cut-glass lamps for use in decorating and illuminating homes. He has been designing and building the lamps in a basement workshop at his home for the past two years, and currently has 16 lamps of various sizes and designs constructed and displayed at his aunt's, Mrs. Nettie (Charles) Creighton, shop at 306 E. 3rd.

Working with glass has been Parmley's occupation for a number of years, and he is currently employed at Marchant Optical Co., 606 Gregg.

Parmley said that he began his lamp-making at the urging of his aunt who was sure that he could make them.

opalescent glass cut into squares and rectangles to form the most of the lamp, and pieces of opalescent glass and cathedral glass are cut into various shapes to form flowers and leaves on the lamp's border. To construct the lamp, Parmley said he used 72 yards of rolled copper to fit the pieces of glass together. The copper is cut to the length of the pieces of glass to be held, and is grooved on the sides into which the glass is fitted.

Parmley said that he uses copper on the larger lamps because it is stronger, and used lead on the smaller lamps.

Parmley stencils his own patterns from which he cuts the glass, and has come up with designs that range from the "Tiffany" style to Spanish-Mediterranean lamps. He had had no training in designing lamps when he began.

toward the floor. The petals are formed of opalescent glass in a soft, pinkish beige shade, and Parmley banded the edges of the glass in metal-studded strips which he coated to lend them a rich, Victorian look. Parmley wired the lamp which swings on a chain suspended from the ceiling so that both portions could be illuminated at once or separately, using the upper portion as a sort of night-light.

"I just tried it to see if I could make lamps," said Parmley "and I enjoyed it. Mostly, I've just made them for friends and family, but it's turned into a sort of a business."

TWO DAYS

He added that he worked on the lamps in his spare time, and can complete a small lamp, which will weigh approximately 16 pounds when assembled, in a couple of days, and sooner if he is free to devote more than just his evening hours.

One large lamp took him over 50 hours to complete, and contains 322 pieces of hand-cut

"I just sort of learned as I went along," said Parmley. Mrs. Creighton said that they had researched lamp-making through reference books recommended by friends, and that many of Parmley's first designs were based on the traditional lamps detailed in the books.

One lamp that he constructed using pieces of molded glass that he was able to find has taken the shape of a double tulip with the petals of the upper flower opening toward the ceiling, and the petals of the lower and larger flower opening

SUSPENDED

All of the lamps created by Parmley are suspended from chains, but can be placed directly over a ceiling fixture. According to Mrs. Creighton, the chains are used predominantly because they add a more graceful touch to the lamps.

The idea to turn hobby into business came after Parmley and Mrs. Creighton learned of a man in Boston who does similar work, and is two years behind in his orders because of the demand for the hand-crafted lamps.

Parmley is not merchandising his lamps presently other than locally through Mrs. Creighton's shop.

Park In Turkey Believed Scene Of German's Death

ANKARA (AP) — The sign says "P" for parking and underneath "Frederich I Barbarossa."

It stands by a roadside park on Turkish Route 35 and marks the untimely end of a leader and a project.

Below the park, in the ancient Calycadnus (now Goksu) river; Frederick I Barbarossa, golden-haired German Emperor of the Holy Roman Empire, drowned while leading some 50,000 troops on the Third Christian Crusade to free Jerusalem from the hands of the Moslem champion Saladin.

After his death June 10, 1190, the proud force disintegrated, and most of the soldiers headed home. A few crusaders carried Barbarossa's body as far as Antioch, the present-day Antakya near the Turkish-Syrian border, where it was believed buried.

The Barbarossa "revival" was the work of Dr. Eggeharde Eickhoff, former German cultural attache in Ankara. He scouted around the area for years to see if there were any signs of the spot where Barbarossa drowned.

At the picturesque village of Eksiler, he met some local residents who told him the hill behind their village was called "Alman Dag" (German mountain) and that the name has been handed down for generations.

They also showed him a large mound of earth, believed to cover a tomb. The villagers said it has always been called "The King's Tomb." But they did not know why.

Countess Helga Strachwitz, the present cultural attache, says the German Embassy will seek permission to excavate the mound in hopes it can be definitely identified as the tomb of or a memorial to Barbarossa, erected by his soldiers.

Ibrahim Usta, a teacher at Eksiler who helped Eickhoff, is convinced the mound holds Barbarossa's tomb, and with the village headman, Ahmet Demirci, is hopeful of a tourist influx.

Their hopes were given a boost when German Ambassador Dr. G. A. Sonnehof headed a group of German officials attending the opening of the Frederick I Barbarossa roadside park and placing of a marble memorial.

Pointing out that the Turkish sultan of the time, although a Moslem leader, gave the Christian army free passage through Turkey, the inscription says Barbarossa "drowned in this area in the Goksu River while leading his army to Palestine."

11 things we always consider when we examine your eyes.

What does an eye examination at TSO include? We could spend hours explaining the instruments we use and the tests we make. But you're not interested in a lot of big words. Just the facts. So we've put together a list of the 11 basic things we always consider when we examine your eyes. It should give you an idea of how thorough we try to be with every one of our TSO patients.

- 1. Visual history. A series of simple questions about your visual past. It's a precaution we take to insure that you have no history of problems that might be related to or might have affected your vision.
- 2. General health. No physical. It's just that we like to take into consideration your present health when fitting you for glasses.
- 3. The interior. We look inside the eye. With the Ophthalmoscope we observe the interior of the eye, including the retina, for indications of disease or defect.
- 4. The exterior. We examine the cornea and sclera for possible defects which may affect vision.
- 5. Refractive error. Defined, refractive error is a defect in the eye that prevents light rays from being brought to a sharp focus exactly on the retina. In other words, near- or farsightedness or astigmatism.
- 6. Balance. We test the muscular balance or imbalance of your eyes. That is, whether they both track at the same pace when you move them and whether or not they focus at the same speed.

- 7. Fo-using power. Most people begin to lose their focusing power at the age of 15, and by the time they're 40 they may be ready for bifocals.
- 8. Visual field. We check your peripheral vision, or your ability to perceive motion or color of objects outside of the direct line of vision.
- 9. With/Without. If you already wear glasses, we check your vision both with and without them to determine what change, if any, needs to be made in your prescription since your last examination.
- 10. Curve. If you're being fitted for contact lenses, we measure the corneal curve of your eyes for precise fit.
- 11. Tonometry. With an electronic tonometer we accurately measure pressure within the eye for indications of encroaching Glaucoma. In cases where intraocular pressure is higher than normal, patients are referred for medical observation.

Now you know what you're in for when you come in for an examination at TSO. A complete examination designed to insure you will be fitted for the clearest, most comfortable vision possible.

Abbott Slips From Harness

Warren T. (Red) Abbott retired from Cosden Feb. 1 after 30 years with the company. Abbott had been shipping coordinator for nine years when he retired, working up from a truck driver when he started with Cosden 30 years ago at Graham.

He was born Jan. 6, 1910, in Graham. He attended school at Throckmorton, then worked at a service station in Graham for eight years. He was hired by Marvin Miller at the Graham plant as a truck driver, and worked there five years before transferring to the Sweetwater plant, where he also stayed for five years. He then moved to Big Spring, and has been here since.

Abbott has worked as bulk plant manager, truck foreman, and set up the service station school at Cosden before becoming shipping coordinator.

He married the former Louise Mitchell in 1932, in Graham. They have one daughter, Barbara, who is now in Hearst and has two sons.

Abbott is a member of the First Baptist Church. Now that he is retired, plans to stay here, take it easy and go fishing.

Psychiatric Problems Are Handled By Mail

PARIS (AP) — Some people who help themselves. "When you are stuck on a problem, good sense can help you resolve it," he says. "We are not interested in your past for your past's sake. If there is not an immediate crisis in your life, we aren't interested in you."

As a service in human "depannaged" — the term used when a mechanic comes to haul off your car — the Psychoclub deals with people who live in isolated places, are tied down by their jobs, don't know a psychiatrist or think "the majority are cretins" — as Grass does.

If people want to hide their shame from their spouses or parents, the answers are sent to their offices or to friends. A "single consultation" costs only $4.50, while a book of 10 "stamps" entitles you to a thorough 10-letter analysis at $18. Instead of regular appointments, people can send for moral support whenever their problems get the better of them.

In contrast to "the hygienic side of psychiatry," where the patient monologues for hours and the analyst remains "neutral," the Psychoclub tells people what to do or to do at home, and the Psychoclub is prepared to help only people who help themselves.

Texas Amateur Golf Tourney Features Parties And Birdies

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — "It's got to be the most fun tournament in the whole world, there's just nothing like it."

That's what champion senior amateur golfer Curtis Person thinks of the annual fun and games event here known as "Life Begins at 40" Golf Tournament.

MARIE THERESE NADIG, 17-year-old Swiss miss, sweeps to gold medal in the women's downhill ski race Saturday in the 11th Winter Olympic Games.

Mustangs In Tie For SWC Lead

DALLAS (AP) — Larry Devel hit both ends of the bonus situation with 12 seconds to go to give SMU a 74-70 Southwest Conference win over Baylor Saturday afternoon.

The win insured the Mustangs a tie in the race for the SWC leadership.

In a game marked by 34 turnovers, SMU missed five free throws in the last two minutes to allow Baylor to stay close. Neither team led by more than seven although Baylor threatened to pull away during the early minutes of the first half.

SMU, led by senior forward David Miller, who hit three straight shots from the field, came back to take the lead at

Star Back Will Become Longhorn

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Larry Miller, all-state quarterback for Austin Reagan, will attend the University of Texas, he said Friday.

Miller quarterbacked the Raiders to a two-year 13-1 record, the 1970 Class AAAA state football championship and the 1971 quarterfinals.

He was the second-team quarterback on the Texas Sports Writers Association's Class AAA list of all-state selections. Miller also was one of 13 Texas schoolboy gridirers listed by Southwest Conference coaches as blue chip prospects in a poll by the Dallas Times Herald. He is a two-year all-district selection and was named the district 26-AAA most valuable back in 1971.

'OUT OF MY WAY' — Marquette guard Allie McGuire (12) fends off De Paul guard Nick Hirtzig (14) as he dribbles toward basket in first period Saturday in Chicago.

Person's opinion carries the ring of authority. A 60-year-old automobile dealer from Memphis, Tenn., who now devotes almost all his time to golf, Person played in 30 amateur tournaments in 1971 including several in Europe.

"I've seen most of the amateur tournaments in the world, and there simply is nothing like this one," he said last week during the 20th annual festivities. "You have fun here even if the weather's bad."

SPECIAL TOURNEY
The Harlingen tournament is so special that some 600 golfers from around the United States as well as Mexico and Canada have filed application for the 30 or so coveted places that are expected to open up through attrition next year.

Some hopefuls have been waiting five years for their names to be drawn.

One obvious lure is the wide open costume parties that blast away at the Harlingen Country Club. This year, there were 11 major parties at which normally staid business and professional men tossed conventional behavior aside and cavorted in costumes ranging from 1920 style bathing suits to gangster outfits.

Another big appeal is the nearness of Mexico. If a golfer wasn't swinging on the course or on the dance floor, chances are good he was south of the border sampling tequila and mariachis.

Perhaps the real secret of the fantastic success of this 20-year-old tournament lies in the special considerations that are given to the wives of the players.

Leu Bray, a retired Harlingen theater owner who got the tourney going back in 1953 with $300 in operating funds and only 74 contestants, says flatly that it's the women who make the tournament.

"Without the ladies, the tournament never would have survived, much less prospered," he said. "They deserve all the credit. This definitely is not a bachelors' affair."

Every day while the men compete at golf, their wives go to elaborate parties. This year's schedule included a "suppressed desire" whining dining where women were everything from homemade ballerina outfits to bird suits.

Harlingen used to be a regular stop on the professional golf tour. But it never drew the big name players to the satisfaction of the tournament directors, so Bray and his colleagues converted it to an amateur event. The name "Life Begins at 40" was taken from a popular movie of that year.

The field consists of 256 players, all middle-aged or older doctors, lawyers, business executives and their retired counterparts. Anyone who sticks it out for four days has a 50 per cent chance of winning a trophy — no matter what his handicap.

GOLF PARTIES
Some of the older players in their 70s and 80s falter if the weather turns bad. That doesn't bother anyone. If you don't feel like playing on any given day, you just skip it and go out the next. No one's name is ever dropped from the roster. That's another reason it's a fun tournament.

Alborn Is Named Aide At Rice

HOUSTON (AP) — Ray Alborn, 33, head football coach at Houston's Sharpstown High School for three years, has been named freshman coach at Rice University.

His appointment Friday completes new Rice coach Al Cooper's staff.

Alborn, a 1956 graduate of Rice, also coached at San Jacinto and Bellaire High Schools in the Houston area before going to Sharpstown when that school opened.

Lower Rio Grande Valley of Each participant is automatically eligible to return the next year, and many have been coming for 20 straight years. For a $60 fee, he and his wife are entitled to all the golf and parties they can handle in a week.

The only way a new face is seen is when a member drops out — usually only for reasons of health or age. For each such opening, there are 20 applications in the fish bowl, from where random drawings are made annually to keep the field at full strength. Only those 40 or above are eligible.

Justo Odriozola, a wealthy equipment dealer from Monterey, Mexico, and one of the tournament's 30 regional directors, has been coming to Harlingen with his wife for the last 11 years. "It's the people who make it," he said. "They all are your close friends. I wouldn't miss this for anything."

In talking to Odriozola and other contestants, such as Dr. Boyd Burkhardt, a surgeon from Tipton, Ind., who at one point sported knickers and an "I'm Looking for Trouble" button on his multi-colored striped coat, you get the feeling that the golf may be incidental to the fellowship and fun.

ATTRACTED BY "LIFE BEGINS AT 40" — Among those attracted to the Rio Grande Valley for the annual "Life Begins at 40" golf tournament are, left to right, Burton Grossman, Tampico, Mexico; Maurice Wilson, Dallas, three-time winner; Curtis Person, Memphis, also a three-time winner and tournament president; Newton Liddell of Harlingen.

Arkansas Porkers Tip Rice Owls, 103-95

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas scored the first five points and rolled on to a 103-95 victory over Rice Saturday in a basketball game billed as a battle for the Southwest Conference cellar.

Rice started on the bottom and stayed there. The Owls are 0-6 in the league. Arkansas now has a 2-4 Southwest record.

After blitzing off to a 5-0 score, Arkansas played steadily to a 40-41 halftime lead, then ran out in front by 20 points at 76-56 midway through the second half. The gap was too big for Rice to close.

Balanced scoring was the key to victory for the Razorbacks as five players got into double

U.S. Hockey Coach Says His Team Will Be Back

SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — "We're young, we're aggressive and we'll be back and ready for Czechoslovakia," said U.S. hockey coach Murray Williamson Saturday after losing to Sweden in the opener of the Winter Olympics tournament.

In Saturday's games in Group A play, form prevailed as third ranked Sweden topped the United States 5-1, No. 1 Russia overpowered Finland 9-3 and No. 2 Czechoslovakia ripped Poland 14-1 in the six-team round-robin tourney for the gold medal.

The Class A teams rest Sunday before resuming on Monday with the Americans taking on Czechoslovakia, Russia meeting Sweden and Finland taking on Poland.

Rebels Tip Cougar 5

ABILENE — The Midland Lee Rebels, playing tip-and-tuck with the Abilene Cooper Cougars, tucked the game away in the last quarter by outscoring the Cougars by five points — the final District 5-4A victory margin, 65-60 here Friday night.

The Rebels made 19 points in the fourth period while the Cougars could muster 14.

The Cougars faltered throughout the game hitting only 22 of 59 from the floor for 37 per cent. The Rebels, on the other hand, had their problems at the charity land; they only hit 12 of 22 free throws.

Astros' Infield Under Contract

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros said Saturday that all of the club's starting infielders have signed their 1972 baseball contracts.

They are third baseman Doug Rader, shortstop Rober Metzger, second baseman Tommy Helms and first baseman Lee May.

Rader will be starting his sixth year with the team. Metzger was a rookie last season. Helms and May were acquired during the winter from Cincinnati.

Terms of the contracts were not disclosed.

Dogs Trounce Smaller Eagles

MIDLAND — The Midland Bulldogs growled and the Abilene Eagles jumped, but they didn't jump quite high enough as the taller Bulldogs snatched the District 5-4A game from the boards 77-60 here Friday night.

Big Bulldogs Gary Brewster who is 6'8" and Ronald Taylor who is 6'9" both grabbed rebounds and poured in points to lead the Midland group. Brewster made 24 points and Taylor added 17 to lead the Bulldogs to their 24th victory for the season.

The Eagles led early in the game, but the Bulldogs were just too powerful as they started rolling up points in the second quarter.

ABILENE (60) — Williams 5-5-15; Morris 4-0-4; Forreste 9-2-20; McGee 0-0-0; McCrickard 3-0-4; Hill 1-0-2; Hale 2-1-5; Wiley 1-2-4. Totals 25-10-60.

MIDLAND (77) — Howard 4-2-10; Woods 7-0-14; Gilmer 1-0-2; Stires 2-2-6; Brewster 10-2-24; Ray 1-2-4; Taylor 7-3-17. Totals 32-13-77.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Dean Arose, And Paid

By TOMMY HART

Don't spend too much time sympathizing with the plight of the Dallas Cowboys, who must decide what they're going to do with Duane Thomas... They were told he'd be hard to bridge before they signed him out of West Texas State... That stellar Sands High School basketball team likely will face Meadow in bi-district competition... Sponsorship sales for the Houston Open Golf tournament are off $26,000 from what they were two years ago and down $17,000 from last year... Only California has more municipal golf courses than Texas — 122 to 102... Illinois is third among the states on the list, with 82... Approximately 60 per cent of the public courses are crowded into 13 states... At the latest count, there were 1,321 municipal operations in the U.S... Good news for baseball buffs who are not on the television cable: KWAB-TV in Big Spring will air 26 games of the Texas Rangers this year... Fifteen of those will be televised on Sunday, the remaining 11 on week nights... Radio station KBYG Big Spring 1400 is also committed to relay all 162 games on the Ranger schedule... I always thought Joe Hamilton (CCSW) was the finest cager ever to perform in a local gymnasium until Archie Myers of HC came along... Hamilton was a better outside shooter, perhaps, but Myers has better moves — and he's at his blue-ribbon best in situations that dictate it... The state of Michigan realized a record $24.5 million in taxes from pari-mutuel betting last year... The addition of 138 extra racing days around the state, of course, boosted the state's income... Customers at the Colonial National Invitational Golf tournament in Fort Worth this year will pay anywhere from $2 for ground daily tickets on Monday and Tuesday practice rounds to $45 for clubhouse season passes... The latter figures out to more than $11 a day, which makes ducks to Dallas Cowboy games cheap by comparison... Bob Holloway, coach of the St. Louis (football) Cardinals laments that his team was making as many mistakes at the end of the season as it was at the beginning... Dallas cornerback Mel Renfro says he'd again like to try offense as a wide receiver... "From what I know from playing defensive back, if I could be a receiver, I'd kill them," Renfro says... When Dizzy Dean was accepting his paychecks from the St. Louis Cardinals, he thought he had blossomed enough to defy a few rules the team had laid down... He was in a night club at 1:30 a.m. one time when an emcee spotted him and asked him to stand for an introduction... Obediently, Diz arose to acknowledge the ovation and found himself looking into the eyes of a patron named Frankie Frisch, who managed the Red Birds at the time... The adventure only cost Dean a yard of silk ($100)... The Los Angeles Rams are trying hard to talk the Buffalo Bills into trading O. J. Simpson and even offered Deacon Jones, Kermit Alexander and Larry Smith in exchange before Deacon was dealt off to San Diego... Harry Wilder, the HCJC mentor, looks to the Big Spring High School JV team and says the Steers could field a representative team in the 5-AAAAA next year, although most of the height will be gone with this year's quintet... The Texas Aggies appeared just once in New Orleans' Sugar Bowl game but three members of the Aggies' 1939 club were chosen to the Sugar Bowl's all-star club of the 1935-44 era... They were Ernie Pannell, Marshall Robnett and John Kimbrough... Because it turned a $120,000 profit on the Ryder Cup matches, the city of St. Louis likely will get a spot on the 1972 PGA schedule — like in September... Crane High School will field a baseball team this spring, although there isn't a Class AA school within 290 miles with a team... Coahoma has indicated some interest in the sport (and has some splendid talent) but coach Bernie Hagins would rather his athletes run track... Hiron Hubert, the former HCJC Jayhawk, is about the sixth player on the Sul Ross University basketball squad... When New Mexico JC knocked off South Plains College in overtime recently, Ben Garner of the Thunderbirds pulled down 27 rebounds and 38 points... When HCJC was down by 10 points to Odessa College recently, ex-Hawk mentor Harold Davis predicted his old team would win by 10... HC's final margin was 18... Buddy Travis, the former HCJC mentor who is now the foreman of the South Plains basketball spread, says his teams give the Hawks so much trouble because he recruits quick people capable of breaking the press... Other observers reason Travis psyches the Hawks, which may not be a bad analysis... I never claimed to be popular when I was young; when I played hide-and-seek, no one would look for me.

Dallas Cowboys Hire New Defensive Coach—Stallings

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have hired Gene Stallings, who lost his head coaching job at Texas A&M after last season, it was announced Saturday. "It was a move we had to make," said Cowboy coach Tom Landry. "It was felt we had to split up some of the duties in Bobby Franklin's area. He's been trying to coach the secondary, the speciality teams and handle all our film work." "Franklin will handle the kicking game and continue his film work and Gene will take the secondary," Landry said. "We've always recognized Gene's ability as a coach and his major background is defensive and in the defensive secondary." The hiring of Stallings does not set precedent with the Cowboys.

USLTA Faces Decision On International Rule

HOUSTON (AP) — The United States Lawn Tennis Association must decide whether or not to accept the ILTF ruling. If it complies with the international body, the USLTA could lose television and gate income because of less attractive entries. If it ignores the ruling, it could be barred from all international competition, including Davis Cup matches. The issue came to a head at the 1972 Wimbledon championships when Hunt and the ILTF met to negotiate. Hunt proposed a series of tournaments limited to World Championship Tennis pros and another series that would include contract and independent pros and amateurs in competition at major national tournaments like Forest Hills, Wimbledon, French Open, Italian Open and Australian Open. Hunt said WCT attendance would be assured at all tournaments because the point system WCT uses to determine its top performers would be based on both circuits. However, differences arose over expense money, the type of balls to be used, television revenue, etc. After weeks of proposals and counter-proposals, the ILTF banned contract pros from open tournaments. Hunt met again with ILTF officials at last year's U.S. Open but talks again were unproductive.

Kanazawa Opens Training Camp

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Japanese Bantamweight Kazuyoshi Kanazawa began training for his March 13 fight against Mexican National Champion Romeo Anaya with a light session Friday that was somewhat disturbed by boxing fans. Kanazawa pushed through the crowd with difficulty to reach one of the rings and start his training. In his enthusiasm the crowd broke several ropes and damaged some rings. The Japanese was able to work out for a while, but not as he would have liked because of the enthusiasts and autograph seekers, observers said. Friday morning he ran for 45 minutes in Chapultepec Park. Kanazawa is expected to leave Sunday for Tuxtla Gutierrez in Southern Mexico near the Guatemalan border where the fight will be held.

Odessa Permian Battles Back To Nudge Bovines

In last half conference play, Permian is currently 2-1. Overall, the Panthers are 19-6. The score was deadlocked at half time, 36-36, and Big Spring led early in the fourth but couldn't stand prosperity. Robert Wallace again led the Steers in scoring with 25 points. FLUORINATED WATER BIG HELP

Tooth Decay Can Certainly Be Slowed By Home Care

February 6-12 is the 24th most effective decay prevention National Children's Dental Health Week. As part of this observance, the Herald, than 92 million people in this Basin Dental Society, persons in these communities has demonstrated that fluoridation reduces the incidence of tooth decay in children. I have seen news-dence of decay in children's paper articles recently which say that tooth decay will soon be completely eliminated as a disease problem. Is this really true?

Answer: Tooth decay will not be totally eliminated, at least in the foreseeable future. However, it can be prevented in large part even today if you take advantage of proven health measures, professional treatment, and complete home care. One of the established and alternate uses of fluoride is as effective as fluoridation of community water supplies, however. Scientists are studying a new plastic material which is applied to tooth surfaces to seal the pits and fissures in teeth to provide protection against tooth decay. The pits and fissures are especially prone to decay. Studies of the sealant have shown that it appears to form a barrier between the tooth surface and decay-causing bacteria which are always present in the mouth. Studies have also shown that the sealant may last in the mouth as long as a year.

PARTS EXPOSED

Because the sealant protects only the chewing surfaces of teeth, we must still rely on fluoridation to protect the remainder of the exposed tooth enamel. Scientists are studying other methods of preventing decay, including trying to isolate the specific bacteria which unite with foods and other debris in the mouth to form decay-causing acids.

Even today it is possible to reduce decay significantly if you practice good oral hygiene at home, and see your dentist for regular checkups.

Question: Our family always seems to have gum problems although we see our dentist regularly. What exactly is the cause of gum disease?

Answer: Dental scientists know the process that causes gum disease, but they do not know the mechanism that triggers the process. Plaque — a colorless and transparent film on the teeth — is a chief villain in gum disease. Plaque is composed of oral debris and bacteria. If plaque is allowed to form without interruption, it hardens into what is called calculus. As plaque and calculus continue to accumulate on the tooth, the gums eventually become irritated, break away from the tooth and begin to recede. As the gums recede, pockets are formed where additional food, debris and bacteria collect. This causes inflammation. If calculus and plaque continue to grow unimpeded, the gums and bone may become so diseased that the teeth lose their vital support and must be extracted.

Dental scientists know that plaque is also a major factor in decay. Thus, it is doubly important that the formation of plaque be halted or interrupted. The plaque-formation process is halted, first, by efficient and regular toothbrushing after every meal, including snacks. Additionally, dental floss or tape would be used to clean the teeth in spaces where the toothbrush cannot reach, such as between the teeth. Occasionally an electric toothbrush or water jet may be helpful for effective cleaning. Your dentist should regularly check your progress to remove any calculus that has accumulated and advise the best method of preventing its accumulation for each individual.

All these measures, regular and effective toothbrushing, use of floss and periodic dental checkups, will help prevent gum problems from occurring. But if you do develop gum disease, it is important that you have treatment by a dentist and then follow carefully his instructions for home care of your teeth and gums. Prevention is the key to good dental health.

Question: I understand a report has been issued about abrasive toothpastes. Does this mean that the toothpaste I am using may actually be harmful?

Answer: The report you cite was published last year by the American Dental Association, which rated all major dentifrices on an ascending scale of abrasivity. When the report was issued, the ADA pointed out that some dentifrices may be harmful to a particular individual's teeth. Some individuals require a more abrasive dentifrice; for others only a low-abrasive dentifrice is safe.

Highly abrasive dentifrices can be harmful to people who have receding gums with exposed roots. Cementum is the material covering the root and, while similar to enamel, is much softer and more likely to be affected by abrasive materials.

Dental patients who have had teeth restored with materials such as plastics or acrylics may also be advised to use abrasive toothpastes. These materials may be harmed by some of the heavier abrasives. The ADA also warned that the compulsive tooth brushing — someone who brushes vigorously several times a day, for long periods — may damage the enamel with a high-abrasive dentifrice. The best person to give you advice on whether to use a high-abrasive toothpaste is your family dentist.

Question: My dentist just told me to stop smoking, as I could be in danger of developing cancer. This really scared me. Can smoking really cause cancer of the mouth?

Answer: Smoking is a major factor in oral cancer, just as it is in lung cancer. The incidence of oral cancer is four times as great among smokers as among non-smokers. Oral cancer is particularly insidious because it is usually painless until it is too late for treatment. While oral cancer may be the most serious result of smoking, there are other oral problems associated with the use of cigarettes.

Fundamental Truths Of Christianity

SAVING AND TEACHING GRACE

"For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men, teaching us that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly, in this present world." (Tit. 2:11, 12.)

This second chapter of Paul's letter to the young preacher, Titus, is a most excellent portion of scripture. It has been described as a creed, a system of ethics and a textbook for every gospel preacher. Every command of God rests upon some great truth. Here Paul is instructing Titus to teach the Cretons to deny ungodliness and worldly lusts and to live soberly, righteously, and godly lives, and he introduces it with the words on the grace of God which is the finest truth of all revelation. Grace has been called the child of love — the parent of mercy, and, as a tree puts forth its fruit in season, God's grace, moved by love which is His essence, is the putting forth of His power to bring redemption within the reach of all men.

The words of our text — "hath appeared" — reveal that this gracious salvation had existed for ages in the mind and heart of God. Now, in the fullness of time, it appears like the rising sun on a benighted world. The prophet Malachi refers to the coming of Christ as "the Sun of righteousness with healing in his wings." When the Babe was born of the virgin in Bethlehem, the angels knew the dawn of day had come when Christ should die for the sins of the world and that the healing in his wings should extend backward to save the faithful under the first covenant and forward to cleanse and make whole all faithful in Christ of future ages. At last, the "Sun of righteousness" had appeared to wither and dry up the seeds of sin and to bring "life and immortality to light through the gospel."

Salvation is ours by the grace of God. It has been brought to all men, but Paul does not say that all men have received it. There is a world of difference. Scholars tell us the word in the original translated "that bringeth salvation" means PURPOSE or POSSIBILITY and not actually. The words of our text reveal it not only as a saving grace but a teaching grace as well. We behold by every line of the New Testament Scriptures the administration and workings of this great salvation through the medium of teaching, for, without the teaching and preaching of Christ's gospel and its being believed and obeyed by men, grace is unavailing to save. But with every condition kept and complied with, it is still by grace; by unmerited favor — "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God." (Eph. 2:8.)

Cool Luke

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you because I am terribly frustrated and am too ashamed to talk to anyone else about this problem. I am married to a basically wonderful guy, except for one problem. He is totally uninterested in sex. He's handsome, and in apparent good health, so don't tell me to send him to a doctor. He loathes them.

He is very intelligent, has a Ph.D. in history, and his work is his life. He says people who are interested in sex are insecure, and so intellectually dead that sex is all they have left. He always has an excuse for avoiding it. He's either too tired, it's too late, or he's too preoccupied in something he's reading.

I am 27, have won several beauty contests in college. I'm cheerful, educated, mentally and physically healthy, and all I want is a decent sex life. I've tried all the gimmicks. Sexy nightgowns, discussing it with him, leaving books and magazine articles around for him to see. Even crying. Nothing helps.

We have one child (a miracle) and my husband didn't come near me for six months after that. I feel rejected. I've considered having an affair, but I'd feel too guilty to enjoy it. I don't want to divorce him because outside of this one failing, I love him.

How can I turn him on?
ABANDONED IN PHILADELPHIA
DEAR ABANDONED: If he's physically healthy (and don't be so sure he is), his problem could be in his head. But no matter where it is, unless HE regards it as a problem, which he wants to solve, you're fighting a losing battle. So you can either continue in a marriage that's sexually inadequate, or call it quits. It's up to you.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I shouldn't complain because my wife comes about as close to being perfect as any woman I've ever met, but lately she has developed a rather strange fault. She has fallen in love with another man.

Before you say, "Well, what's so strange about that?" hear me out. She has never even met this man.

He's one of those guys who is on the radio for several hours at a crack. People call him up and they argue, rap, carry on right on the air. (They're called "communicators.")

When this guy with the golden voice (as she calls him) is on the radio, my wife takes the telephone off the hook so nobody can disturb her. She had a fire in her kitchen the other day, and would you believe as she was running out of the house she grabbed a transistor radio so she wouldn't miss a word this guy said?

Since she's become hooked on this radio guy, that's all she talks about.

Any suggestions? JEALOUS DEAR JEALOUS: Don't complain. Let her enjoy the man with the golden voice. It's good insurance against competition who may appear in the flesh.

DEAR ABBY: I am interested in your views on children joining organizations.

Do you feel it is wise to force a child to join groups such as Girl Scouts or Boy Scouts when the child shows no interest in being a part of it?

I am accused of letting my children rule me because I have given them a choice in such things. What do you think?

A MOTHER: I wouldn't "force" a child to join anything, but if I thought he would gain from it, I would certainly present it in the most attractive way possible.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hernia Surgery

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have recently returned from a large clinic. The doctor said, "When your gall bladder was X-rayed, it showed you have a hernia. It isn't very often that we see one, and don't worry about it, but it isn't very usual to see one."

How mixed up can one get from an answer like that? — E.M.C.

Quite. Me too.

Best guess is that he meant a hiatal hernia which may cause you no trouble and need no special attention. That is common enough, but wouldn't show up (or wouldn't be likely to, anyway) on an X-ray taken of the gall bladder. A special technique is used if the hernia is suspected.

I could guess better if I knew just what kind of X-ray you had — if upper and lower GI (gastro-intestinal), then he might have meant some other kind of a hernia.

Are you having a gall bladder problem? To find out how the gall bladder works and what types of trouble to look for, send for Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "You And Your Gall Bladder."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like information about the one-day hernia operation. I have read that it is highly successful. I would like to know of a doctor who uses this technique. — F.F.

Yes, I know there has been some publicity on this, and in the right cases it is perfectly feasible. But that's the catch — it has to be used in suitable cases.

It boils down to this: the "one-day operation" means that the patient gets home from the hospital the day after surgery. Age and general physical condition of the patient is one consideration. A young, healthy patient might do very well with this method. A patient along in years or one with various ailments might not.

Size of the hernia, or rupture, also is important. With a large one, the surgeon wants a little more time to see how the incision is coming along. The patient will feel stronger and more confident after some good nursing and a chance to rest.

The way the patient reacts to the surgery is, of course, an important matter. In most hernia cases, the patient is allowed to get up a few hours after surgery, and this is a good thing. The dangers of lying flat in bed for too long after surgery were recognized quite a few years ago, and "early ambulation," meaning walking (or maybe just standing up), is now an accepted part of recovery.

But just getting on your feet

Personal Income In Texas Spirals

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Personal income in Texas increased 8 per cent in 1971, nearly double the 4.3 per cent rise in the consumer price index, but unemployment remains uncomfortably high, the Bureau of Business Research reports.

"The indexes of employment show that, while the state is moving upward out of the recession, employment has not recovered as rapidly as is desirable," the bureau said. "Total nonfarm employment in 1971 was virtually unchanged from 1970. Manufacturing employment was down 5 per cent, in part because of cutbacks in government purchases from analysts generally agree that... As we move into 1972, analysts generally agree that we are moving up out of the recession, although unemployment remains uncomfortably high," the bureau said.

Total urban building permits in December rose 3 per cent to push the 1971 total 23 per cent above that for 1970. Residential permits, with a 37 per cent increase in 1971, were the major contributor to this gain. Nonresidential permits last year were up only 9 per cent. The bureau said the severe credit crunch from March 1968 to the final weeks of 1970 "did not stop inflation, although without it the rate of inflation could have been much worse."

One of the "hard lessons" this country learned as a result of this "protracted effort to control inflation primarily by means of control of member-bank credit" was that "reliance upon credit policy to too great an extent can produce severe depressions in the homebuilding industry," the bureau said. The 10 per cent income surtax levied in mid-1968 "was too late to have the desired effect of cooling inflation," it said.

WALTER PURGASON

Airman Advisor Named At Webb

A 38-year-old senior master sergeant assigned to the 3560th Field Maintenance Squadron has moved up to the "head shed" to become Webb's senior airman advisor. Effective March 1, Senior Master Sergeant Walter Purgason takes over the job now held by Chief Master Sergeant Herbert Craig, who has been the senior airman advisor since April, 1969. Sergeant Craig is moving to work with the chief of maintenance. Primarily in a "talk with people" job, Sergeant Purgason's duties encompass the entire base. "An open door policy is essential in the performance of his duties," the sergeant commented. "I'm only as good as the inputs to this office."

Air Training Command Regulation 39-9 describes Sergeant Purgason's job: "to keep the commander informed on the status of welfare and morale of the enlisted corps, and specifically to report significant problems with recommendations." "But it goes much further beyond that," Sergeant

Purgason added, "I'm an advisor, a listening post, a confidant, and a liaison between the airman, senior noncommissioned officers, and the headquarters staff." In the performance of his duties, the sergeant will be visiting all areas of "enlisted" personnel activities and make recommendations when needed. "The only things Sergeant Purgason and I own on the base are the problems. Our task is to solve them and work ourselves out of a job."

BPS Valentine Sweethearts

By JO BRIGHT

Cupid will be cutting capers Saturday evening at Cosden Country Club when the Beta Sigma Phi City Council hosts its sixth annual Valentine Sweetheart Ball.

Seven sorority Sweethearts, elected earlier by the six local chapters and the BSP council, will be presented at the ball and will also be entered in the national competition sponsored by Beta Sigma Phi International.

In the international Sweetheart competition, contestants are judged on beauty alone, with winners selected from photographs. A Hollywood film notable serves as judge, with the winner being announced in the February issue of the sorority magazine, The Torch.

From thousands of entries, the contest will have winners from three categories; the Valentine Queen, to be chosen from Ritual of Jewels chapters; the Valentine Princess, to be chosen from Nu Phi Mu chapters; and the Valentine Sweetheart, to be chosen from Exemplar and Exemplar Preceptor chapters.

The Valentine Sweethearts who have been chosen to represent local chapters are Mrs. Clay LaRochelle, Phi Zeta Omega; Mrs. John Knoepfel, Beta Omicron; Mrs. Chuck Ogle, Alpha Beta Omicron; Miss Hester White, Mu Zeta; Mrs. Jerry Iden, Alpha Eta Upsilon (Ackerly); Mrs. Horace Rankin, Xi Mu; and Mrs. Edward Cole, Beta Sigma Phi Council.

The ball will begin at 9 p.m., and music for dancing will be provided until 1 a.m. by "The Raiders."

The master of ceremonies this year will be Robert McDaniel, who will begin the presentation at 10:30 p.m. As each Valentine Sweetheart is introduced, she will be presented a yellow rose, the sorority flower, and a sweetheart charm for her sorority bracelet. Other local organizations have been invited to participate by having a representative Valentine Sweetheart at the dance, to be introduced with those chosen by BSP.

"An Old Fashion Ice Cream Parlor" will be the decorative theme, and the motif will be carried out in colors of red and pink with white.

The formal ball is open to the public. Tickets may be purchased in advance for $5 per couple or at the door for $7. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Knoepfel, 263-7540, or Mrs. Cole, 263-6115.

A number of guests are expected from out of town, with invitations having been issued to various area chapters to attend and have their individual chapter Valentine Sweethearts presented at the ball.

Miss Smith Installed As Worthy Advisor

Amid a setting of spring flowers—arranged in massive urns, Susan Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Smith, 2702 Rebecca, was installed as worthy advisor of Rainbow Assembly No. 60. Saturday evening in the Masonic Temple. She dedicated her term to her former "big sister" in Rainbow, Ayn McGlothlin.

Miss Smith chose as her theme, "The Rainbow, Signature of God," and her scripture is from the 19th Psalm. Her flowers are the flowers of spring, and each officer carried a nosegay of carnations, shaded from light pink to burgandy. Miss Smith carried a cascade of white carnations and greenery atop her white Rainbow Bible. The installing officers were presented corsages of pink carnations, and members of the Demolay, who were ushers, wore white boutonnières.

Mrs. Smith, the new worthy advisor's mother, and Mrs. John Blaine, wife of the guest speaker, were presented green orchid corsages.

Guests were registered by Debbie Hughes at a table featuring a doll dressed in a replica of the dress worn by Miss Smith for the occasion. The doll was a gift to Miss Smith from Mrs. Carl McGlothlin.

Following the invocation by the Rev. John Beard, the installing officers were introduced by Mrs. W. C. Fryar, mother advisor. Miss McGlothlin, a student at Baylor University, presided as installing officer. She was assisted by Sharon Andrews, marshal; Cheryl Alexander, chaplain; Sheril Gambill, recorder; and Mrs. Bob Simpson, musician.

OTHER OFFICERS
Others installed were Sandra Dickerson, worthy associate advisor; Pam Wheeler, charity; Kay Williams, hope; Zina Johnson, faith; Cindy Williams, recorder; Caroline McKee, treasurer; Emily Boyd, chaplain; Jody Grant, drill leader; Cathy Crow, love; Amy Gee, religion; Connie Tucker, nature; Phyllis Johnson, immortality; Duanna Mason, fidelity; Sidney Crow, patriotism; Rita Gee, service; Janet Shanks, confidential observer; Linda Beard, outer observer; Jill Odom, musician; and Temple McDaniel, choir director.

MISS SUSAN SMITH

The advisory board members were also installed.

John Blaine of Plainview was guest speaker. Blaine has been recognized as one of the outstanding coaches of Texas by being honored in the Texas Coaches Hall of Fame as well as the Panhandle Hall of Fame. He is an old friend of the Smith family. His address was entitled "Show me the Way." Dana Mancill, accompanied by Patsy Lewis, sang "Somewhere over the Rainbow."

Conference Today In McCamey

The Ever Ready Civic Art Club met last week at the Lakeview YMCA with Mrs. Vernice Jacobs serving as hostess.

Miss Rosetta Brown presided, while Mrs. Bobbie Williams led the devotion. There was a brief discussion concerning the amount of monies to be donated to different charity organizations, including the March of Dimes.

The district president, Mrs. Glenn Person, reminded members that the executive board of the Stokes-Parker District of Federated Women's Clubs will meet at 2 p.m., today at the Community Center in McCamey. At that time, final plans will be made for the district convention which will be held in Big Spring, starting April 29, at the Settles Hotel. The Ever Ready Civic Art Club and the Ada Belle Dement Civic Art Club will be the host groups for the convention.

Officers from Big Spring who will attend today's meeting are Mrs. Person, president; Mrs. Mary Ivery, executive board secretary; Mrs. Anna Perry, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Willie Graham, district treasurer; and Mrs. Williams, scholarship chairman. Also attending will be other local club members.

Vacuum Hose Forms Sculpture

A vacuum hose from an old cleaner (or the hardware store) can be coiled into an interesting sculpture (run copper wire inside to hold its shape). Or, put a socket in top, run wiring through to make a lamp.

After a benediction by Herman Smith, the worthy advisor's father, a reception was held, with cake and punch being served by Mrs. W. B. Grant and Mrs. Alden Ryan. The serving table was laid with a pink net and taffeta cloth, and appointments were crystal and silver. The centerpiece was a profusion of spring flowers.

According to custom, the Rainbow Girls will attend services today with the worthy advisor at the First Christian Church.

Before You Buy....

An Information Service For Consumers
BY MARGARET DANA

When you buy gasoline for your car, what octane do you select and why?

If you don't happen to be the gasoline buyer for your family, you may think these questions are out of your field of interest. But everyone in a family ought to be concerned, because you can save — or lose — $40-$50 a year or more, depending on whether you buy the right octane for your particular car. The same applies if you assume that "premium" gas is best regardless of the make, model or year of your car.

Recent figures produced at a Federal Trade Commission hearing on whether octane ratings should be placed plainly on all gas station pumps showed that low income families are hurt the most by not knowing which octane is right for the individual car. Consequently they spend far more than necessary to get "the best."

Transportation by car is often a large and important factor in holding a job. The president of Sun Oil Co. said at one of the hearings that those earning less than $3,000 annually spend an average of 6.2 cents out of every dollar for gas. Often they like those in higher income brackets, are spending more than they need to get good engine operation, and it hurts the lower income family most.

There are other factors involved, of course, in getting good service from a gasoline than just its octane rating. Climate, engine maintenance, and geography can help or alter its performance. In one part of the country you may run into exactly the same gasoline which you used at home, but it will have a different octane rating there. The needs of the atmosphere cause the difference.

HORSEPOWER RACE
Ever since the big horsepower race began in new cars, octane ratings have become almost the only big point the average consumer buyer recognizes as affecting engine performance. The result has been a general assumption that the higher octanes, or premium gasolines, are necessarily better than the regular types.

Exactly what does that term "octane" mean? It is a measure that engineers use to find out how smoothly the gasoline makes the engine work. Professor Phillip S. Myers of the University of Wisconsin, and national president of the Society of Automotive Engineers, explained the problem very lucidly at one of the FTC hearings on octane labeling.

Contrary to what most people think, the engine of a car should not run on a series of tiny explosions but rather on a smooth, flowing power from flame passing through the combustion chamber. When there are "pings" or "knocks," the engine is not running efficiently, and those "knocks" can actually damage the engine.

The cure may be to get the right octane gas for that engine. Octane ratings tell differences in the ability of a gasoline to prevent "knocks." But not all cars need high or premium octanes.

2-C Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sunday, Feb. 6, 1972

How can the consumer tell which one to buy when almost no gasoline pump displays the figures telling its octane level? This is what the new FTC rule is designed to correct. Beginning March 15, 1972, all gasoline pumps at gas stations must let you see plainly what the octane number is. This will help make your gas money go further — if you can get the manufacturer of your present car, or of a new car you may be buying this spring, to tell you in black and white what octane level gas that car is manufactured to use efficiently.

If your experience shows you can't get this information easily, it's possible the next FTC step will be to require that manufacturers include this urgently needed fact in the car's literature, and possibly advertising.

THREE TESTS

One more point is important to understand. There are three ways in which octane ratings are measured — the Research method, the Motor method (both are done in the laboratory), and the Road method, which is a way of showing actual road performance of a car. These three tests can be very different in results.

Some experts swear by one, some by another. But after much discussion, intensive study and many hearings, the FTC finds that a majority of experts — and informed mechanics believe that by adding together the figures for the octane rating of the two laboratory tests, and dividing them by two, you get an averaged laboratory test which represents road performance. So when you see an octane rating of perhaps 91, 97, or 100, you can feel it reflects reliably the real octane performance — after March 15.

TEMPORARILY SETTLED — Although still house hunting for a home to buy, the Joe Y. Rogers family is fairly well organized in the home they are renting at 1720 Purdue. They moved here three weeks ago, and their garage is full of items collected during their 17 years of residency in Pampa. Shown from left are Jody, 12, Mrs. Rogers, Rogers, and Sandra, 10.

'We're Just Family Oriented,' Say Members Of Rogers Clan

By BARBARA LORD
Whatever the members of the Joe Y. Rogers family are doing, chances are they are doing it together. They share a common interest in several hobbies which range from hiking up mountains, touring glass factories, polishing flintstone or fishing.

The Rogers' moved to Big Spring three weeks ago from Pampa where they had resided for 17 years. He is production superintendent at Cabot Corporation.

Mrs. Rogers, (Patsy), a graduate of West Texas State University, is a qualified elementary teacher, and said she may do some substitute teaching here, but she has a variety of interests which don't leave much time for full-time work.

The couple's children, Jody, 12, and Sandra, 10, are vivacious and outgoing, with a keen curiosity about the world around them. One of the things they most enjoy is traveling with their parents.

When the Rogers' take a vacation, they try to plan a long, extensive trip in their camper. Colorado and New Mexico are two of their favorite winter areas because they enjoy snow skiing. They have toured most of the United States, and can always find something interesting to do wherever they are.

The Rogers' are all rock collectors and have a big supply of polished flint. The children have made pendants, bracelets and tie bars from many of the stones they collected and polished. Their collection also includes Indian arrowheads and scrapers which were found in a large flint quarry near Pampa.

"We like to be family oriented in everything we do," said Rogers. "Our hobbies are pretty much centered around the children."

Mrs. Rogers is a seamstress and makes most of Sandra's clothes. She likes to arrange centerpieces and collect vases. When the family is traveling, they stop to tour every glass factory they see. In addition to teaching, she has worked in various phases of hospital work. She is a member of American Association of University Women, Parent-Teacher Association, has been a den mother for Boy Scouts and also works with Girl Scouts.

The children enjoy music. Sandra takes piano lessons, and Jody takes guitar lessons. Activities the family most enjoys are done outdoors. They like horseback riding, fishing, swimming and skiing.

Rogers was born in Peru where his father was employed by Standard Oil Company, but he was reared in New Mexico. Mrs. Rogers was born and reared in Pampa.

The family attends First Presbyterian Church, and Mr. and Mrs. Rogers have been active church workers in the past.

The next meeting will be Feb. 15 in the home of Mrs. Guy Cook, 1006 E. 21st. The program will be on hobbies.

FAIRVIEW CLUB
"The ability to make effective decisions comes with practice," said Miss Sherry Mullin, Howard County home demonstration agent, to members of Fairview HD Club Tuesday in the home of Mrs. H. S. Hanson, 1605 Vines.

Miss Mullin's topic was "How to Solve Problems," and she listed four steps. She said the first task is to recognize that

POLITICS, COOKERY, CROCHET

Diverse Topic From Basis For HD Club Programs

Problem solving, fondue cookery and politics were the diverse topics explored during the week as Howard County home demonstration clubs met in the homes of various club members.

LUTHER CLUB
Fondue cookery was demonstrated by Mrs. J. M. Wilson and Mrs. John Couch when the Luther Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Edward Simpson.

The women made two types of fondue, chocolate and cheese.

Mrs. Frances Zant was named nominee for delegate to the upcoming Texas Home Demonstration Association district meeting.

The hostess gift was won by Mrs. Webb Nix, and the next meeting was slated Feb. 10 in the home of Mrs. Wilson.

COLLEGE PARK CLUB
The seasonal valentine motif was used in decorations for the refreshment table when Mrs. Gerald Miller, 606 Baylor, was hostess Tuesday for a meeting of the College Park Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. J. C. Williams, the presiding officer, also presented a program on crocheting beads. She said that three strings of beads, 180 inches long, were crocheted together with a Size 12 needle, making a single rope. Each of the club members did some of the crocheting.

Hyperions Get Tips On Creative Cookery

"Regardless of what is put on the table at mealtime, it is the homemaker's creation," said Mrs. Walter Wheat during her discussion of "Creative Cookery" for members of 1946 Hyperion Club Wednesday in the home of Mrs. J. H. Fish, 907 Mountain Park.

Mrs. Wheat outlined the basic foods needed every day, and emphasized the importance of making meals attractive as well as wholesome. She said vegetables make a good meal "pepper-upper," and that almost any vegetable can be combined with rice.

"There are many things to be added to a green salad besides tomato and lettuce," said Mrs. Wheat. She suggested sesame, bean sprouts, croutons, nuts, bacon and even leftover vegetables.

"Season to complement, not to hide," concluded Mrs. Wheat, "but a good cheese sauce will hide a multitude of sins." Two dishes, Beef in Beer and Sweet and Sour Asparagus, were made by Mrs. Wheat and sampled by members.

Mrs. Robert Fuller presided, and Mrs. William Allensworth was introduced as a new member. Elected vice president to replace Mrs. Pete Rhymes was Mrs. G. Kinney Taylor. Mrs. Rip Patterson replaced Mrs. Taylor as corresponding secretary.

The next meeting will be a luncheon at 11:30 a.m., March 1, in the home of Mrs. Rene Brown, with Mrs. Don Newsom as cohostess.

Nostalgia seems to be the rage these days. There is a great deal of public sentiment for a return to old values, morals and ethics. In many ways this would certainly be good but in the context of good health the golden age is right now.

Man's progress in fighting disease and illness has achieved spectacular results in recent years. Most of the medicines that your doctor is prescribing for you were not even known just a few short years ago. And, everyday we are receiving new drugs that have been approved for public use.

THE ARTS

Famed Piano Duo Scheduled To Perform Here Thursday

The third of the current artists will open Feb. 11. The exhibit of Burgoyne Diller are asked to call the Heritage Community Concerts series showing at West Texas Museum (paintings, sculptures and drawings) will go on exhibit at evening with the return of the Amos Carter the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts. He was lionized in the Ferrante and Teicher, famed piano duo. "Texas Painting and Sculpture" late 30's but most of the 84 piano duo. "Texas Painting and Sculpture" late 30's but most of the 84 examples of his work on display come from the last five years of his life.

The Texas Music Educators of his life. The first Artists and Art Dealers convention and market in Texas has been set for April 5-8 in Houston at the Astorhall. In Dallas on Feb. 16, the Women's Clubs particularly

The concert stage nationally and around the world. They twice appeared on the series sponsored by the Big Spring Concert Association, predecessor to the new organization. Earlier season offerings were both smash hits — "The Little Angels of Korea" and "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown." Piano duets are one thing, and a piano duo quite another, and this means that both musicians must fit together like fingers-in-a-glove. They complement each other, seldom playing duplicate notes. Besides this, Ferrante and Teicher have demonstrated a remarkable proclivity for improvisation and creative interpretation.

Both of the artists were prodigies in their own right. Arthur Ferrante's parents decided to enroll him in Julliard School of Music, and at the same time, the parents of Louis Teicher sent him there — both at the tender age of six in the Preparatory Center.

Their friendship grew as they waded through the vast array of musical studies, and they vowed to become a two-piano team.

They've proven surprising and delightful ever since they defied tradition by recording as a two-piano team. Despite gloom spread by skeptics, their "Apartment" record sold 750,000 copies in three weeks. Since then, all that is necessary to assure a boom market is to put on the Ferrante and Teicher label.

Van Cliburn, the young Texan who rocketed to overnight fame by winning the Tchaikovsky competition in Moscow in 1958 will be presented in concert in Midland March 8. He will be sponsored by the Museum of the Southwest, and ticket information is available from the museum, 1705 W. Missouri Midland, 79701 (or 915-683-2882).

A cooperative venture by Texas Tech Artists' series and the West Texas Museum Association opens "Designer-Craftsmen Today" show Feb. 20 in the museum. Thirty-four nationally recognized craftsmen in the fields of enamel, glass, pottery, jewelry and textile design will participate.

Another Lubbock venture to remember is the upcoming exhibition of the works of Frederic Remington, Charles Russell and other Western

Perishable Pecans Need Good Storage

By SHERRY MULLIN (County HD Agent)

Pecans can become rancid. The high oil-content which lends their characteristic rich flavor makes pecans very perishable.

To store pecans for year around use, the cooler the place, the better. At room temperature, 70 to 80 degrees, pecan meats keep fresh only two months. In the home freezer at zero-degrees, pecans will be in good condition for two years.

Before cracking pecans, soak them in water to increase the number of whole kernels obtained. Pour boiling water over the nuts and let them soak 15 to 30 minutes, depending on the thickness of the shell.

Soaking makes the kernels more pliable so they hold together better during the shelling operation. Crack the pecans when the shells are dry. Like meat, pecans supply protein, fat and B vitamins. One cup pecan halves has 740 calories.

Pecan flavor blends well with many foods: waffles for breakfast, soup or bread for luncheon, salads, pastries and desserts for dinner.

Here are some other ideas for using pecans: add chopped nuts to bread crumbs for casserole topping, use chopped nuts to top pumpkin pie in the last few minutes of baking, or roll cheese balls in chopped nuts before serving.

Bake nut-bread fingers to serve with salads by rolling fingers of buttered bread in chopped pecans. Or try mixing equal amounts of chopped pecans and chopped olives with mayonnaise to moisten. Spread this on whole wheat bread for extra special sandwiches.

If you have never served apple-pecan bread to your family, they have a treat in store. Try this recipe:

APPLE PECAN BREAD

- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup cooking oil
- 4 eggs
- 4 tbsps. sour cream
- 2 tps. vanilla
- 4 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 tps. soda
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 cups chopped apples (raw)
- 1 cup nuts, chopped

Beat eggs, sugar, oil and sour cream. Sift salt and soda into flour. Add flour mixture, then vanilla. Mix in chopped nuts and apples. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour in 2 greased, lined loaf pans.

Jacket Dresses Has Versatility

Jacket dresses lend themselves to quick appearance changes. Short zip front jackets which match the bottom of the dress may be switched with contrasting jacket. Or worn without the jacket, there's a sleeveless print bodice on top.

White Wash Refrigerators

Mix a strong solution of one-half cup liquid bleach to one quart of water and five tablespoons of baking powder and apply with a long-handled sponge to the white enamel of a refrigerator that has acquired a yellow cast. Wash off the solution with warm water and rinse with clear for a whiter refrigerator.

MRS. REYNALDO RAMIREZ

A LOVELIER YOU
Health, Beauty Aids
Reduce Cold Effects

By MARY SUE MILLER
Doubtless you have a pet theory about how to avoid and cure the common cold. If yours works, it's your duty to tell the world. You're one up on the experts, although there are a few recognized precautions against catching colds and limiting their severity.

As precautionary measures, health authorities advise extra rest and fresh air; a balanced diet and scrupulous personal and household cleanliness. Hands, in particular, should be washed long and often. When hand-washed, tableware should be scalded and dried with fresh towels.

Physicians agree that once you catch cold you should stay indoors and rest. In most cases a simple cold tablet is prescribed. Severe symptoms require medical supervision. While suffering colds you would be wise to add "beauty pills" to your medication. That a cold triggers and the after-hopefully bedraggled looks that a cold triggers and the aftermath of drooping skin and hair.

1. Keep the face filmed with moisturizer, and the lips with clear, medicated pomade. Makeup can be worn over both, if so desired. 2. To cover fever blisters, use hide-and-heal stick. 3. Freshen the scalp daily with tonic and brush well.

You may not feel like making the effort, but if you do, you'll feel and look better.

NEW BEAUTY FOR DRY SKIN

For ways to keep past-30 skin smooth and dewy, order my leaflet, "New Beauty For Dry Skin." It tells in personalized steps how to cleanse, correct, protect and make up for dryness. To obtain your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin.

Sacred Heart Catholic Church was the setting Saturday morning for the wedding of Miss Stella Martinez to Reynaldo G. Ramirez. The Rev. James Delaney, OMI, performed the nuptial rites before an altar decorated with arrangements of white gladioli and daisies. Miss Connie Trevino was organist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Martinez, 2208 S. Monticello, and Mr. and Mrs. Rafael A. Marques of Alice.

Mrs. Ernestina Valdez, matron of honor, and Miss Cynthia Valdez, maid of honor, were attired in white dresses styled with Empire waists, long, French-cuffed sleeves and standing collars edged with ruffling. Their headpieces were white bows with short veils. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Edward Martinez Jr. of Abilene and Mrs. Anita Lichtenberger, who wore identical costumes in shocking pink chiffon.

The bride, carrying a nosegay of pink carnations and white daisies, was attired in a white chiffon dress: French-cuffed long sleeves trimmed in daisies, neckline, waistline and on the skirt of the gown, as well as edging the chapel train. Her veil of illusion was held by a brocade crown accented with daisies and pearls.

Martin Valdez of Alice served as best man, and groomsmen were Edward Martinez Jr., Abilene, and George Martinez, brothers of the bride; and Adam Valdez of Alice. Also from Alice were Belinda Lopez, the flower girl, and Michael Richard Gonzales.

RECEPTION
Mr. and Mrs. Ramirez were honored at a reception in the Sacred Heart Youth Center where refreshments were served by Mrs. Adelaida Martinez Sr., Mrs. Charley Upton, Mrs. Joe Munoz Sr. and Mrs. Felipe Munoz.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Montez and Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Chabarría, all of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Martinez, Arlington; Mr. and Mrs. Vincente Larez, Mrs. Eva Munoz, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Herredia and Mr. and Mrs. Adelaida Martinez Jr., all of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Martinez, Lubbock; Miss Concha Garza, Miss Linda Garza and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Garza, all of Odessa; Maria Marquez, Mr. and Mrs. Amanda Cadena, Mrs. Romeo Vela, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Reyna and Mr. and Mrs. Juan Rayna, all of Alice; Mrs. Margarita Valdez, San Diego, Calif.; and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lopez of Kingsville.

The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a tiered wedding cake. Refreshments were served from crystal service.

SCHOOLS
Ramirez, a graduate of William Adams High School in Alice, was recently discharged from military service at Webb Air Force Base. Mrs. Ramirez is a graduate of Big Spring High School. The couple will reside in Corpus Christi where he is employed by the U.S. Postal Service.

Hints For New Puppy Stains

Santa packing a puppy for a family gift this year? Then you'll need to know what to do when the pup stains carpeting. Sponge with clear water repeatedly. Then, neutralize with diluted vinegar. Wait about 15 minutes, then apply detergent suds. Rinse and blot up excess moisture. Attend to stain at once. If it dries, the carpet color may be changed.

Smart 'Hot Dog' Now Cold Again

Erika Boehm of Cologne, West Germany, could not understand the sudden $15 jump in her electricity bill until she came home from the office early one Friday afternoon.

Her dog Fritz had learned how to switch on the electric heater with his paw and was found snoozing in front of it by his mistress. "The heater was always turned off by the time I got home in the evening," marvelled Fraulein Boehm, who now locks the heater in a closet.

'Quotable Quotes'

"While growing up on that farm in South Dakota, I never thought I'd see New Hampshire. Trying to elect a husband for president was beyond my wildest fantasies." — Eleanor McGovern, wife of Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, in an interview.

"The goals of women's liberation are goals which I share with a great variety of people." — Marina Whitman, nominated by President Nixon to his Council of Economic Advisers.

"Both the provisional and officials wings of the IRA have said they will kill 13 paratroops in vengeance for those who died on Sunday. That is 26 coffins coming home to England—and I won't shed a tear for any one of them." — Bernadette Devlin, Catholic representative from Northern Ireland, after assaulting Home Secretary Reginald Maudling in a House of Commons debate on the recent Londonderry killings.

PTA Told Growth Of Rehab Unit

The growth of Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center since its opening in June, 1961, was outlined by Jim Thompson, director, for the Moss Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association Tuesday in the school cafeteria.

Thompson said that at the end of the center's first year of operation, it had 159 patients and had given 3,400 treatments. At the end of 1971, 1,325 patients and 13,800 treatments.

The center first offered only physical therapy, but its treatments now include speech, audiology, learning disabilities, and occupational therapy, as well as orthopedic clinics and vocational rehabilitation.

The center budget for 1972 is $110,000, of which about $10,300 must be raised through individual donations. Anticipated income at the center is $50,000 from treatment fees; $26,000 from contracts with other hospitals; $10,500 from United Fund; $1,200 from Easter seals and $1,000 from the trust fund.

Thompson narrated a slide presentation which illustrated various types of disabilities and how they can be improved.

Frs. Fran Bordsfoks presided, and Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Porter were named chairmen of a nominating committee. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ray Ebling's fifth grade class. Room attendance count was won by Mrs. J. B. Cushing's first grade class.

MRS. JOHN STANLEY WYCKOFF

CEREMONY

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Warren Hall, and Mrs. Hall served as organist. Vocal selections were by Dr. A. M. Fisher. The altar was graced with candelabra, greenery and baskets of white and gold mums.

Carrying a cascade of gold and white daisies, the bride was attired in an Empire gown of white velvet; the bodice overlaid with re-embroidered white lace, and the sheer lace sleeves ruffled at the wrists. A narrow band of seed pearls marked the waistline, and the hem of the dress was edged with re-embroidered lace. Her headpiece of pearl-edged petals held an elbow-length veil of illusion.

Mrs. Terry Franklin, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, attired in a formal gown of avocado with Empire waistline and long, gathered sleeves. The bridesmaids were the bride's twin sister, Miss Bobbie Kay Glenn, and another sister, Miss Marjorie Glenn. They wore formal Empire gowns in gold with long, gathered sleeves. The attendants' bouquets were of gold daisies.

Terry Franklin was best man, and groomsmen were Bill Wilson and Marlin Ray Thomas. Dwayne Thompson was usher, and Marlin Robert Thomas was the ring bearer. The flower girl was Melanie Thomas, and Linda Chandler, sister of the bridegroom, lighted the altar tapers.

RECEPTION

Prior to leaving on the trip, Mr. and Mrs. Wyckoff were honored at a reception in the church parlor.

Assisting in serving refreshments were Miss Debbie Pierce and Miss Millie Christie, both of Garden City; Miss Cathy Botla, St. Lawrence; Mrs. Velton Jones, Big Spring; and Miss Carla Perry.

A floor-length white satin cloth, overlaid with lace, covered the refreshment table. Appointments were crystal, and the centerpiece featured white and gold daisies. A miniature bride and groom topped the tiered wedding cake.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. W. A. Patke, Miss Sheila Patke, Mrs. Nancy Boyce and Miss Collette Smith, all of Canyon.

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

In this day of piped in music I wonder what tempo the writer had in mind when he noted that music hath charm to soothe the savage beast. Do you suppose it was something along the Brahms line, the Bach, Beethoven or Chopin? Perhaps it might have been a flute or lute number or a bit plucked out on the harp, but I have an idea it was not a jumpy type like a polka, schottische or even a jazzy rendition.

I buy better in a store where the musical numbers turn toward "Blue Skies," "Tea For Two," "Love and Marriage," "You're My Everything" . . . I know they're old, but it's the sentiment and the rhythm that counts.

I haven't yet been able to hear the words of the numbers turned out by some of the more modern combos. I just don't think I can put out my hard earned shekles to buy something that The Living Dead, The Count's Out etc, turn out in the name of music.

The DON ANDERSONS are to return to their home in Port Arthur today after spending a week with his parents, MR. and MRS. DONALD ANDERSON, and other relatives. Don is in pollution research for Gulf Oil Co.

The table decor for the Chamber of Commerce banquet was designed by MRS. ODELL WOMACK and MRS. GARNER McADAMS who chose to use gilded wooden squares, symbolic of building, and lighted by white candles in crystal holders. Gilded ropes were used on the special guests tables and the speaker's table. The candlelight gave a pretty glow to the room.

As pretty as the soft glow was, it didn't hold a candle to the girls of MRS. JACK ALEXANDER'S Homemaking classes. They were a pretty group who served the crowd efficiently, courteously and in good time. Their good training shows up.

The attractive backdrop with the slogan "Industry and You in '72" was painted by a high school senior, DENISE BRYANT. From where I was, it appeared to be an abstraction portraying an industrial skyline or buildings. Done in black and gold on oilcloth, the piece was approximately 4x8 feet.

Visited briefly with GRANVILLE HAHN who, with his family now lives in Dallas. He says the boys, Gregg and Randy, have adjusted to the move better than he and Marie . . . ## HD Group Organizes Lake Club

Mrs. Lillian Reed Hosts Meeting

The Mission Prayer Band Circle, Mt. Bethel Baptist Church, met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Lillian Reed, with the chairman, Mrs. Beatrice Person, presiding.

Mrs. M. Woodriddle led the devotion and scriptures were read by the chairman.

New mission books were distributed to members, and unfinished business consisted of members making special contributions to present to a family who lost belongings in a recent fire.

A mission lesson was taught by the teacher, Mrs. Mary Ivory, and was climaxed by the chairman. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Faye Warner, Feb. 16.

Residents around Lake Colorado City organized a new home demonstration club Tuesday in the home of Mrs. R. D. Penney. This makes the eighth club for the Mitchell County area that is dedicated toward improving family living through education and encouraging youth participation in 4-H work.

The new club selected the name, "C" City Lake Club. The group plans to meet twice monthly on the second and fourth Tuesday in homes of the members. Mrs. Penney was selected as club president with other officers to be selected when the membership enrollment is completed.

Mrs. Penney said that all interested homemakers in the lake vicinity are invited to the next club meeting, Feb. 22. Contact Mrs. Penney at 728-2992 for details of time and place.

Anyone wishing information about home demonstration club work may call the Extension office (728-3111), Colorado City. If there is not an organized club in your locality, consider starting one. Young homemakers are not excluded and can benefit from exchange of ideas in their own Young Homemakers Club.

'Miss Wool, Mohair' Applications Available

SAN ANGELO, Tex. — Pretty Sandi Tomczak doesn't really want to give up her title as Miss Wool and Mohair of Texas, but she will on May 22.

It was a year ago that she won the title in a trend-setting fashion presentation in the Great Hall of Dallas' Apparel Mart. Some 363 days and many thousands of miles of travel later, she'll return to the scene of her triumph to crown a successor.

Contest officials, in announcing the 21st annual competition, said that application forms and descriptive literature concerning the contest have been sent to Texas colleges and universities.

Under the co-sponsorship of Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' associates and Mohair Council of America, the yearly search is primarily for a young Texas woman who will appear in and present major style shows featuring women's apparel of wool and mohair.

According to basic contest rules, applicants must:

Be between ages of 18 and 24 inclusive at the time of the pageant.

Be a bonafide resident of the State of Texas.

Be able to wear a size 8, 9 or 10 dress.

Be at least 5'7" tall, but no more than 5'10" in stocking feet.

Have completed at least one year of study in an accredited college or university.

(Second semester freshmen are eligible.)

Applicants submit photographs along with their entry forms. Contest officials were quick to reaffirm that no sponsorship nor fees are required for the contest. Rather, competition is on an "at-large" basis. From all qualified applications received, a screening committee selects 15 finalists to go into final competition in Dallas.

The tentative schedule calls for finalists to report to Dallas on May 20 for a fast-paced three-day schedule of activities. The first day will be taken up with fittings for the fashion presentation, the second day with rehearsals and interviews with the judges, and the third day with more rehearsals and the final competition.

Each of the 15 finalists models in an exclusive wool and mohair fashion show which will be presented before buyers and manufacturers attending the annual fall and winter women's apparel market in Dallas, Texas Fashion Week, Suite 203, 301 W. Bearegard, San Angelo, Texas, 76901.

by fashion representatives of the American Wool Council and the Mohair Council. The show lineup will be a timely sampling of everything new that's coming up in Fall, 1972.

There are many fringe benefits for the winner. She receives a special wardrobe of all-occasion fashions of wool and mohair, complete accessory wardrobe, all-expenses paid travel and a new Chevrolet Caprice which is loaned to her for the year.

Miss Tomczak will climax her year by representing Texas in the Miss Wool of America Pageant, scheduled for June 16 in San Angelo. The new Miss Wool and Mohair of Texas will be chosen in Dallas will compete in the 1973 national contest.

Interested young women are requested to write for application forms to: Miss Wool and Mohair of Texas Pageant, Suite 203, 301 W. Bearegard, San Angelo, Texas, 76901.

Solution For Mildew Malady

Find out whether that dark patch on your wall is mildew. Just test with a small amount of household bleach (a 5 per cent sodium hypochlorite solution) on the wall. If mildew is present, the darkened patch will disappear. When discovered, mildew should be immediately removed — commercial preparations are also available for the treatment. Mildew will reappear if simply painted over.

CO-ED POST MEMBERS — Robert Highley, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Highley, and Kelly Thames, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Thames, are two members of the only active co-ed Scout unit in the area, Post 16.

Boys, Girls Make Up Explorer Unit

"They're exploring life at the pace they want, which is not bound by adult guidelines and regulation," said Darel Highley, advisor of Explorer Post 16 in Big Spring, about the young men and women in his scout unit.

Highley's unit is the only active co-ed troop in Big Spring, and has been initiated for the past 1 1/2 years.

"The key to the success of our unit is that the girls and boys are exploring life together in their own program, that is run by them and directed by them without the harsh rules so often imposed on youth by their adult counterparts," said Highley.

"They want to explore all facts of acceptable life standards and look at some of the unacceptable ones also."

A total of 17 youths from Forsan, Elbow and Big Spring are active in the explorer unit, which does not specialize in any single program or activity, except life itself.

INTERESTS VARY

Interests among the young scouts vary from all different phases of life, business, sports, psychology, philosophy and other general activities.

"And the beautiful thing is the boys and girls have common interests, and can participate in these interests without becoming tied up in usual problems that crop up when the sexes are mixed," he said.

All of the members of the unit are high school students. They set up their own programs and finance their own operation with both ways and means projects and personal development programs.

Last year the post participated in a five-day float trip down the Pecos River. They achieved second place in the Explorer Olympics at Webb AFB, which placed the co-eds in athletic competition with other troops and posts largely made up of boys.

Also the post sent a representative, their president, Bob Highley, to the Explorer Congress in Washington.

This year the post plans various field trips and treks to area lakes for programs emphasizing swimming and life saving. Also another float trip, possibly down the Rio Grande,

'Be Prepared' Slogan Scout Keeps In Mind

Scouting came to America more than 62 years ago on the strength of a good turn done by an English Scout.

The good turn still is woven into Scouting, for the Scout pledge is to "do a good turn daily." During this Scout Week, especially, many Cub packs, Scout troops and Explorer posts will be doing good turns for their sponsors or community.

The objective of Scouting remains as they were 62 years ago when the movement started in this country — to build character and train boys for citizenship. These are accomplished through activities that develop initiative, self-reliance, personal integrity and patriotism.

This is in keeping with the Scout slogan to "be prepared." Although there are many different ranks and activities, and even new programs, the heart and soul of the Scouting program remains the Scout Oath (the Cub promise is similar to it):

"On my honor, I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout law; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

(In the Law, the boy pledges to be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent.)

IN ROAD RALLY

They will participate in a road rally in Odessa, and will initiate one to be held annually here. The road rallies involve automobile competition over a course of check points approximately 125 miles long. Entrants will be graded not on speed, but on timing, accuracy and safety over the course.

During the coming year the post will be sponsored by the Forsan Booster Service Club, and was helped by the Forsan Oil Well Service last year. The post's meetings are held at 5 p.m. every Saturday at the Elbow High School gym. Membership in the post is open to any young person in the area.

"The main object we want to get over, though, is that this unit is run by the youngsters, and is solely for the post members, which gives them a better opportunity to explore life in any way they see fit," said Highley. "My only function is that of an advisor, and not master."

And in his own right, Highley is well seasoned in the scouting program, which qualifies him for his function with the unique outfit.

He is the assistant fire chief at Webb AFB, in a civil service capacity. For 13 years he has been in scouting work, seeing his sons come up through the ranks themselves. He has been a cub pack master and several times has served as a member of the local Boy Scout Troop Council.

Scouting is known well as an avenue by which youth learn the ways of life, and Highley says the unorthodox pairing of boys and girls in scouting make the learning process just that much more easy and interesting for the young people.

Veteran Scouter Builds Program On Camping

Bill Mims, veteran scoutmaster, has a theory about running a troop.

"We build our entire program around camping," he said. "We figure everything else will fall into place."

And who can argue with him, considering the record of Troop 16 which he serves.

Not only does the troop go camping every month, but it is one of the top troops in the Lone Star District and Buffalo Trail Council in advancement.

In the past four years there have been seven Eagle Scouts come out of the troop — three of them last year. Moreover, the troop makes it a policy to cooperate in every council activity.

BILL MIMS

"I LIKE IT"

Mims has more than a score of years connection in Scouting, first as a Scout and for the past dozen and a half years as an adult volunteer.

Why does he invest all this time in Scouting?

"I like it," he declared. "I'm sold on Scouting. I've worked in other activities — Little League, etc. — but Scouting is my favorite because it works with boys the year around and helps mould them into the kind of men they ought to be."

His investment time is impressive, for he not only meets with the boys every week at Elbow School, but with adult leaders and with the Green Bar Patrol (senior patrol leader and patrol leaders) monthly, also makes all the camping trips and counsels with boys in between.

EAGLE SCOUT

Mims is a native of Big Spring and was under Jack Hodges (who later became a council executive) in Troop No. 3. Garrett Patton took over and he was scoutmaster when he earned the Eagle badge — and that led to his adult involvement.

After graduation from high school here, he went to Tech and earned a degree in electrical engineering, then entered the Air Force, took bombardier training right here at Big Spring, and saw service with the 8th Air Force in England.

After separation from service in late 1945, he settled down to his profession but got called back for duty in 1951 during the Korean conflict. When he Forsan Oil Well Service Company sponsors the troop, and Bobby Wash, institutional representative, sees that the troop bus (a remodeled school bus) is kept in good condition. Committeemen are considered by Mims as his assistant scoutmasters. They are Garner Thixton, Bob Glass, Arnold Gomez, H. C. Tidwell, Pete Parker and Bug Day, and "everyone of them is active all the time." The boys operate a fire works stand around July 4 to finance troop activities.

Camping safarries have taken the troop to many places, among them Lake Colorado City, Champion Creek Lake, Sand Hills, Scout Ranch, Lake Brownwood, Seven Wells, Christoval, etc.

Last summer the troop took a float trip from the Pecos, entering about Panda and coming out into Lake Amistad and the Rio Grande at the high bridge. That was real adventure, for repeated rapids swamped and broke up part of the strange armada of rubber rafts, flat boats, homemade boats. The boys not only learned to survive on the water, but without part of their equipment and food, which was lost in the rapids. En route, they also pulled ashore to inspect Indian caves and dig out artifacts.

"GOOD SCOUT"

He was married in 1947 to Bonnie Reid of Coahoma, and they have two sons, Gage, 15, and Layne, 7. Gage is an Eagle Scout and Layne will enter the Cubs in March.

Mrs. Mims — well, she's resigned to her fate as a "Scout widow."

"She knows I'm going to do my Scouting and expects it," he confided. "Besides, she's a good Scout."

When Mims came back home, Garrett Patton put him to work as assistant scoutmaster of Troop No. 4, a job that lasted for 12 years.

But Gage got up to Cubbing age and his dad figured he ought to be directly associated with him. They entered Pack 16 — Gage as a Cub and Bill as Cubmaster, taking over from Bill Creagar, who became Cubmaster. When Gage got to Scouting age, Mims and Creagar swapped jobs.

ACTIVE BACKER

Although he considers himself as just another — and typical — scoutmaster, Mims is recognized for having one of the most active troops in the area. He attributes this not only to his emphasis on camping, but also to an active sponsor and troop committee.

Religious Bent Most Evident

There is a strong religious bent in Scouting, as witness the large number of sponsoring institutions which are churches or religious organizations.

In the Scout oath, a boy promises "to do my best to God."

It is natural that one of the highest awards is that provided by Boy Scouts of America but earned through the church.

Most Protestant bodies confer the God and Country award. The Eastern Orthodox award is Alpha Omega; the Jewish award Ner Tamid; the Unitarian Universalist award Religion-in-Life; the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is Duty to God; the Lutheran award is Por Deo et Patria; the Episcopal award is God and Country (but with a red ribbon in place of the blue); the Roman Catholic award Ad Altare Dei; the Buddhist award is Sangha. There are also awards similar to these for Cubs and Explorers.

These religious bodies set out the requirements, which encourage boys not only in their faith, but its background, its activities, and to work directly with the minister, priest, etc.

Voting Rights Rule Delayed

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge has ordered briefs submitted by next Wednesday in a Waller County student voting rights case.

U. S. District Court Judge James Noel said at the conclusion of oral arguments Thursday that he would rule later whether he has jurisdiction and whether a three-judge panel should be convened.

Prairie View A&M students, claiming they were being denied the right to vote, filed suit against the Waller County tax assessor-collector.

Waller County has been requiring from students sworn statements aimed at determining whether they plan to make their permanent homes there and what present community ties they have.

The state argues that no federal issue exists and that any voting registration issue may be heard in state district courts.

Scout Council Is Led By Lone Star District

Although the Buffalo Trail Council does not designate any of its seven districts as being No. 1, the Lone Star District which serves this immediate area earned this right during 1971.

Scoring on the basis of seven points for first, six for second, etc. on 10 categories or activities on which records are maintained, this district had 5 points. The nearest district is the Chaparral (Midland), which had 52 points.

Lone Star ranked first in Cub advancement with 282 boys, or 40 per cent, making advancement of some sort; first in per cent of available boys enrolled with 34.5 (54.0 of Cubs, 40.3 of Scouts, 6.3 of Explorers); first in percentage of units (52) and of boys (39) taking Boys Life.

The district was second in percentage of total leaders trained (90 Cubbers, 67 Scouters, 75 Explorer advisors), in average per 100 boys in units (1.24); second in percentage of boys in long-term summer camp (50.5).

In addition the district was third in Boy Scout advancement with 32.6 boys advancing; in percentage of units in long-term camp (63.6); and sixth in percentage of unit growth (2.1).

The record was achieved through the leadership of Jack Alexander, district chairman, Monty Stokes, district executive, and Dean Lagerstrom, district commissioner.

ABC Club Earns Elite Status

After eight years, the American Business Club has attained "blue chip" status, Auriel LaFond, president, announced Friday.

Membership topped 85 with induction of Johnny Mathis, and LaFond urged members to keep up recruitment in order that the club can finish the fiscal year and be recognized by Ambucs International. The last time the club reached this plateau was in 1964.

Wayne Rock and Dub Bryant were announced as new members of the "big hat" club, joining nearly a dozen others who have achieved this standing for enlistment and activity. The announcement coincided with Big Hat Day.

Bill Bradford announced the ABC Club was resurrecting its old track meet program with the ABC Relays here March 11. There will be eight schools represented, and this time there will be two divisions — for varsity and for sophomores.

Speaker for the day was Joe Pickle, Herald editor, who examined the role of the press in the community. Some of the functions he mentioned were to supply information, instruction, entertainment, background and opinion. On a local front, there also is the role of community promotion and of leadership, he said.

Will Fight 'New Town'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The city council has approved a contract with developers of a planned "new town," with environmental groups say they will fight it.

The council took the action in a 6-to-3 vote, climaxing a long dispute over whether the 88,000-resident community will pollute the Edwards Underground Aquifer, San Antonio's sole source of drinking water.

The contract pledges the developers to protect the aquifer from pollution and to pay full costs for all development aside from federal grants. The city would have a veto over fund applications.

Spokesmen for environmental groups questioned whether the developers can meet the guarantees to protect the aquifer, a huge limestone structure.

"If the aquifer does become polluted, can we force the developers to accept their deserved responsibility to pay for the treatment of the water?" asked one group's spokesman.

The "new town" project would be located northwest of here over the aquifer's recharge zone, financed with an $18 million federal loan guarantee.

With Joe Hortons, Scouting Has Become A Way Of Life

What started out to be an effort to join in the activities of their oldest boy, Gregg, 14, has turned into a way of life for Joe and Patricia Horton, 3300 Cornell.

Horton became a Boy Scout cubmaster eight years ago with Pack 100, with which he still works. When Gregg became old enough one year later to join the pack, Mrs. Horton joined as a den mother.

"What you do for one, you have to continue to do for the others," said Mrs. Horton as she told of the families involvement in scouting through four sons, Gregg is an Explorer in a spot which is being formed by boys in Troop 300 under the leadership of Dr. Clyde Thomas, scoutmaster. Waleo, 13, is a member of Troop 300; Derek, 10, is in Webelos; and Doug, 8, is a member of Den 3, his mother's den, of Pack 100.

Both agree that the chief pleasure they've received from their work has been through their involvement with the many boys who have participated in Pack 100.

ENJOYABLE

"Seeing the boys come into cubbing, then go on into Explorers has been the most enjoyable thing for me," said Horton, adding, "you can't help but keep up with them and see how they do in other activities."

"We have a lot of pride in seeing the boys go on through scouting. It's sure been a lot of fun for our boys," said Mrs. Horton.

Over-all goal of scouting is to help boys grow toward manhood in a constructive manner, and Mr. and Mrs. Horton have personal goals that they like to obtain with the boys with whom they work.

"One main goal is for the boys to learn how to get along with their contemporaries. Lots of boys grow up to be good men without ever being in scouting, but sometimes they're out of step with their contemporaries. They were out of step with kids their own age," said Mrs. Horton.

"Another goal is for the boys to learn to participate in whatever program the troop is doing, and one of our main goals is for the pack to have fun," said Horton.

Some of the "learn by doing" projects the Hortons use in their work with their cubs are pinewood derbies and rocket derbies, which are miniature car and rubber band-driven "rock-

MR. AND MRS. JOE HORTON
Scouting program family affair

st" races, and the "genius kit" project in which each boy is given a sack containing a piece of board, string, nails and cloth and is expected to create something using only the materials in the kit as a test of originality and creativity.

PROJECTS VARIED

"We vary the projects and don't use the same ones all the time," said Horton. According to Horton, the main project each year is the pack's exhibit in the Scout Exposition, to be held this year March 18.

"Our theme this year is 'Texas, Our Texas,'" said Horton, and that's all he would say, because Pack 100 traditionally ventures from the suggested exhibits issued for each exposition to come up with an exhibit idea of the boys' own.

Pack 100 consists of 40 boys at present and is sponsored by St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, where the dens meet each week, and the entire pack once a month. The next pack activity will be its annual Blue and Gold Banquet Feb. 22 at Marcy School Cafeteria.

What do the Hortons think about scouting as a way of life for the whole family?

"It's been an advantage. It's interested the boys more in scouting. Anytime we can get involved in the children's activities, it's an advantage," agreed Mr. and Mrs. Horton.

Explorers is for boys 14 and over and the basic unit is a post. Much of this program is vocationally oriented, for instance there may be an agricultural post, a mechanical post, a medical post, etc. Grils as well as boys may belong to Explorers.

Troop Sponsors Include Clubs, Business Firms

Churches, clubs, service organizations, businesses and even individuals can do something constructive toward helping boys by sponsoring Scouting units.

All that needs to be done is to contact Ray A. Newton, chairman of the organization and extension committee, or Monty Stokes, Scout executive, and they will explain the simple steps to be taken.

It is impertinent to note that there cannot be a Scouting unit — a Cub pack, a Scout troop, or an Explorer pack — unless there first is a sponsor.

The reason is logical, for two basic things the sponsor must provide is adult leadership for the unit, and a place for the boys and their leaders to meet. While the sponsor may give some financial help to the unit, this is not necessarily obligatory, but it is responsible for seeing that the Scouting program reaches the boys.

Thus, if a church, for instance, sponsors a pack or troop, it literally "owns" that unit. While it utilizes the know-how and the skills and the principles which Scouting has proven over three score years, the sponsor controls operations and basic policies. Scouting literally becomes part of the churches youth program, or of whatever institution sponsors the unit.

In the Lone Star District, there are 30 institutions which sponsor units, some of them as many as three. They maintain a close liaison with the district, council and Boy Scouts of America through their institutional representative and a neighborhood commissioner — who is the "service man."

Women Planning Feb. 13 Supper

All women whose husbands are serving with any branch of the U.S. Military in Southeast Asia are invited to attend a supper at 6 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 13 at the Webb AFB Chapel Annex.

Meats, rolls and drinks will be provided by the Women of the Chapel. Each woman attending is asked to bring a salad or a dessert to complete the meal. A photograph of each wife and her children attending the supper can be made to be sent to each husband serving overseas.

Women wishing to attend are asked to telephone Webb, 256-2511, extension 2310 or 2509 by Feb. 10 to insure that there will be enough food. All service connected women with husbands serving in Asia are urged to attend to meet other unaccompanied wives.

Eagle Rank Is Highest Boy Can Get

The highest rank that a boy may achieve in Scouting is that of Eagle, although he may go on to earn silver and gold palms to denote further achievement through earning more merit badges.

Although a boy must satisfy requirements for 21 merit badges, after he has attained first class rank, he must display more than Scouting skill in order to qualify for Eagle Scout.

Each boy goes before an Eagle board of review and is questioned — not only on his mastery of such Scouting skills as first aid, life saving, camping, hiking, citizenship in the home and community, etc., but he is questioned intensely by board members on his adherence to the tenets and spirit of the Scout oath and law, and upon his leadership contribution to his troop or post.

Since Eagle Scouts are showpieces of the program, adult leaders do their utmost in screening candidates to make certain only those who have earned the right through putting Scouting into practice may wear the badge.

Earning the rank in the Lone Star District in 1971 were Horace J. Phillips (Troop 1), Joe E. Alexander (Troop 16), Donald G. Thornhill (Troop 146), Michael J. Malone (Troop 146), Maxey Ray Brashears (Troop 179), and Robb C. Lawlis (Troop 179).

Two HC Trustees Seek Reelection

Two members of the Howard County Junior College board have indicated that they will seek re-election as trustees.

Dr. Charles Warren, dentist and a former student of HCJC, and Paul Adams, life-long resident of Howard County with farming interests in the north-west part of the county, said they would offer as trustees.

There is a vacancy on the board, created by the resignation of Tom Barber, Coahoma, but it is due to be filled at the next board meeting.

This post also will be up for election April 1. Opening date for filing at the office of the college president is Feb. 2.

Young Democrats Slate Meeting

A pre-organizational and informational meeting for Howard County Young Democrats will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the County Courtroom.

Cecil Riordan, project chairman, urged all interested young voters to attend, and issued a special invitation for parents to sit in on the meeting to encourage the organization of a Young Democrats Club.

He said that he hoped to have speakers on hand to explain why they were Democrats and to review accomplishments of past Democratic administrations.

Riordan stressed that the new voter—the 18-21 group which was franchised last year — is invited to take part in the meeting, as well as other younger voters.

THEY IMPLEMENT PROGRAMS Responsible People Work Closely With Boy Scouts

The aim of the Boy Scouts of America has been for the past 52 years to train boys for citizenship and build character.

This is achieved by putting boys in contact with good men and women, who serve as volunteers to see that program devices — proven over half a century — are made a great adventure for boys.

Responsibility for seeing that this happens is the district committee.

Chairman of the Lone Star district, which embraces Sterling, Glasscock and Howard counties, is Chaplain A. C. (Clayton) Hicks of the VA Hospital.

Assisting him are four vice chairmen, each in charge of certain committees. They are COL. MALCOLM E. RYAN, camping and activities, William A. Bryans, chairman; health and safety, Weiland W. Brown; public relations, Joe Pickle; JACK D. POWELL (finance, George Zachariah; leadership training, Bill Brooks); ROBERT N. McDANIEL (advancement, Harry Nagel Jr.); and conservation, Paul T. Koshi); and REV. KENNETH PATRICK (Explorers, Bill Fryrear; and organization and extension, Ray A. Newton).

Lone Star Boasts 1,331 In Program

The Lone Star District, which includes Howard, Glasscock and Sterling counties, completed 1971 with 1,331 boys in the Boy Scout program.

These boys were served through 48 Cub packs, Scout troops, or Explorer packs. There were 705 Cub Scouts in 18 packs; 551 Boy Scouts in 23 Scout troops; 75 Explorers in seven posts.

Thirty-six of the 48 units have their top unit leadership completely trained; 25 of them meet the National Standard Unit requirements; and 527 of the boy members receive Boys Life magazine.

California Mom Seeks Children

Mrs. Dorothy Flesher, 225 East Barnett Street, Ventura, Calif., is looking for five of her children.

They are: June, Patty, Lupita, Rafael and Billy Flesher. Billy is 11 years old, and the others are younger.

Exposition Is Highlight Of Year For Boy Scouts

One of the biggest activities of the year for Scouting units is the Scout Exposition, which is scheduled for Saturday, March 18, in Highland Mall.

Each of the more than two score units in the Lone Star District is being urged by Capt. Clyde F. McLeod, exposition chairman, to arrange for a booth in the exposition (he may be reached by calling 267-2511 (Ext. 2492) or 263-6501). His committee and other members of the camping and activities panel headed by Aubrey Bryans will supervise the show.

The booths are to house displays of Scouting achievement, or in most cases demonstration of some Scouting skill or activity. Most of them are animated.

In addition to showing the public what Cubs, Scouts and Explorers do, or to provide educational information on such subjects as camping, conservation, etc., the exposition provides an opportunity for boys to earn prizes and their units a modest amount of money. The balance goes to taking care of expenses (and any residue goes to help the financially beleaguered council).

The unit receives 40 per cent of the sale proceeds from the tickets ($1) are checked in prior to or during the Exposition; 25 per cent if it is a week late; and 10 per cent if later than that. Units not entering a booth may earn a 10 per cent commission.

Every boy selling 10 or more tickets will receive a Scout Exposition patch; those selling 30 or more, an Honor Scout Exposition patch. Those calling on a "mystery house" and making a good presentation will get a $1 cash certificate. The three top salesmen in the council will get camping scholarships or a trip to Six Flags over Texas.

Army Of Boys In Council

The program of Boy Scouts of America is administered in this area by the Buffalo Trail Council, which comprises 18 counties from Mitchell and Scurry on the east to the Big Bend on the west. The territory is divided into seven districts.

Last year the council had a total of 9,290 boys in the Cubbing, Scouting and Explorer programs. This was 100.2 per cent of the goal for the year.

The boys get the program through 325 units, a gain of one for the year. Of these, 205 had all top leadership trained, and 118 were National Standard Units. Both of these were one fourth over the goal.

The council budget amounted to $160,315, of which $109,717 came from United Funds, $11,737 from independent campaigns, $24,998 from sustaining adult members, and $13,860 from miscellaneous sources. The expenditure is substantially under the budget for the year, and council officials are aiming at boosting the budget by 20 per cent to make possible extending the program to serve still more boys.

Dr. Billy N. Shaw, Odessa, served as president last year; Bruno Hanson, Midland, is the new council president; Jack Powell, Big Spring, is vice president.

Water Diviner Never Fails, And He's 82

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — Hartford Norris is a water witch.

For more than 50 years, he's been pacing Washington County in western Maryland, following a forked stick until it flips down toward the ground to reveal an underground water source.

He says he's never been wrong yet.

"Some people don't like the spot I tell 'em and some people don't think the flow is heavy enough, but I've never missed finding water," Norris said.

The 82-year-old water diviner claims his gift works in all kinds of weather and through macadam and galvanized pipe.

"I can find a sewer pipe no matter where it is," Norris grins, "and septic tanks too."

What's more, Norris says he can predict how far down the water is.

"You can stand at the spot where the stick flips and you let it keep flipping until it stops," he explained. "Each flip of the stick counts for 10 feet. 'If the stick flips 19 times, the water is 100 feet down."

Unlike many diviners who claim only a peach limb will do the trick, Norris says any forked stick will work for him.

And if there isn't a forked limb at hand; he says two pieces of wire will work just as well.

There are elaborate theories about how diviners ply their trade, but Norris shrugs them off. "It's just a gift I was born with."

Norris says he discovered his talent at the age of 12 in his native Paw Paw, W. Va., across the Potomac from his home here.

"There was a fellow boarding at our house who could find water," Norris recalled. "One day I followed him and picked up the limb he threw down."

"I did the same thing he did and it worked and I could hardly hold it."

Although Norris has been finding water for years, the trade remains a sideline.

"Sometimes I get two or three jobs a week," he said, "and then nobody calls me for a couple of months."

The rest of the time Norris works as a jack of all trades — as a stone mason, a farmer and a railroad man.

PARLEY HERE MONDAY Vocational Education Needs, Resources Due For Review

By STEVE HULTMAN

Big Spring Independent School District residents have an invitation to tell the members of a statewide education committee Monday how they feel Texas children should be educated for adult occupations.

Three members of the State Board of Education's advisory council for technical-vocational education and one staff member will be here Monday to hold one of a series of 29 conferences to help set the course of vocational education in the state.

Two other conferences were scheduled for West Texas — one held in Uvalde Jan. 26 and one to be held in San Angelo Feb. 11.

SEVERAL SESSIONS

A series of conferences will be held during the day with representative groups and educators of Big Spring, starting with a 9 a.m. general session at the high school auditorium.

Roy Watkins, school board president, will open the meeting and the present vocational-education programs in the state and in Big Spring will be discussed.

At 10:30 a.m. a tour of the high school vocational facilities will be held, and at noon the state advisory council will have a luncheon meeting with the Big Spring Jaycees.

Parking will be available at 8:30 a.m. for guests on the west side of the auditorium on the west parking lot; on the west side of the administration building, located at Eleventh and Owens; and across Eleventh Place on the south side in the parking lot directly across from the auditorium.

At 1:15 p.m. a tour, open to the public, will be held to the off-campus projects of the high school vocational program. Visitors can park in the east high school parking lot, with an entrance off of Tenth Street, and board buses for the tour.

The tour will also take in the Howard County Junior College technical-vocational facilities before returning to the high school at 4 p.m.

Cotton Disease Problems Are Abundant In Dawson

LAMESA — One result of the demonstration, which was on the D. V. Phipps farm, show conducted in Dawson County is a strong indication that the cotton has been more adversely affected by cotton plant diseases than has been realized.

"The more we study varieties in the county, the more we notice good response to disease resistant varieties," said County Agent Lee Roy Colgan. "This tells us that we are having more disease problems than we thought we had in Dawson County."

Scouts To Attend Church In Body

A large number of Cub packs, Scout troops and Explorer posts will attend church in a body this Sunday.

Every unit that is sponsored by a church is encouraged to attend services in that church. There is no effort for several units to attend in a large body, because Scouting officials prefer that boys be in the church of their choice.

The Sunday nearest Feb. 8 is the charter anniversary date for Scouting, traditionally is observed as Scout Sunday.

Clawson May Be Named To Post

Discussion on hiring Hubert Clawson, retired city fireman, as coordinator of the county volunteer fire departments is scheduled for Monday in County Commissioners Court.

Commissioners were to meet with representatives of the volunteer fire departments Saturday to discuss the hiring of a coordinator and problems concerning the volunteer departments.

Only other item on the agenda is the 9 a.m. weekly conference with Marvin Hanson, acting road and bridge administrator.

Famed Film To Show In Big Spring

Few motion pictures have achieved the awards and honors heaped upon David Lean's triumphant film of Boris Pasternak's "Doctor Zhivago," which has been hailed as one of the greatest motion pictures ever made.

The award winning film starts Wednesday at the Cinema Theater.

The Carlo Ponti production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer was the winner of six awards from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. The "Oscars" were awarded to Robert Bolt for "Best Screen Play Based on Material from Another Medium"; John Box and Terence Marsh for "Best Art Direction, Color"; Dario Simoni for "Best Set Decoration"; Freddie Young for "Best Cinematography, Color"; Phyllis Dalton for "Best Costume Design, Color"; and Maurice Jarre for "Best Musical Score, Substantially Original."

R-70 Movie Could Make Year's Hit

What could be the surprise "sleeper" of the year, "Cactus in the Snow," with Richard Thomas and Mary Layne as its youthful leads, opens Wednesday at the R-70 Theatre.

Young Thomas, previously seen in "Winning" and "Last Summer," is cast as a G.I. who finds a girl to share his last 72 hours before he goes overseas. Miss Layne, a lovely young Texan, makes her movie debut as the girl.

A Rudy Durand production, the new film was written and directed by Martin Zweiback and produced by Lou Brandt for General Film Corp. release. It is rated "GP."

Game Show Still Going Strong

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television - Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A studio contestant, about to start playing "Concentration" during a recent taping, suddenly became very nervous.

As host Bob Clayton moved with accustomed ease to simmer her down, the woman remarked plaintively, "I'd feel a lot more comfortable if I did this with my ironing board in front of me."

The remark helps explain what seems to be a mystery to so many television viewers with 9-to-5 jobs: the continued popularity of daytime game shows, panel shows and, of course, soap operas. The daytime shows, for most women, offer companionship.

"Concentration" is, quite simply, a memory game, with two contestants competing to match numbers on a board of 30 squares — an adaptation of a child's game. Of course, it is fancied up with prizes and a guessing game involving a rebus. The remarkable thing about the game, which doesn't try for humor or even to stretch the viewer's intellect, is that it is now in its 14th year on the network. Some soap operas are older, but it is the dean of the game shows, an area in which a newcomer who survives for more than the first 13 weeks is counted as almost a hit.

HE'S LEARNING TO TAP DANCE Comedian Should Do More Than Just Tell Jokes

NEW YORK (AP) — "Want to see me tap dance?" actor-comedian David Steinberg asked as he began to tap, tap, tap vigorously on the parquet floor of his office.

Casually clad in slacks and sport shirt, a long cigar in his mouth, Steinberg had just returned from a tap dancing class and was showing his stuff. "I've long felt I was a cross between Groucho Marx and Fred Astaire, but the Astaire part never came out so now I'm forcing it out," he says, looking at his bouncing feet. "The only thing is that while my right foot works great my left doesn't work."

MIND WANDERS
"And my mind wanders in class. Whenever I'm in any class my mind wanders. When I was in school it was always on my report card, 'David's mind wanders.' In college, it stopped wandering. I guess that's because no one cared about my report card."

Steinberg, who appears frequently on television variety programs and has guest-hosted all of the late night TV talk shows, stopped tapping and sat down.

UT Jazz Ensemble Mexico Bound

AUSTIN — The international language of music will be "spoken" in Mexico in early February as a seven-member group from The University of Texas Jazz Ensemble performs in five Mexican cities.

The UT septet, touring under auspices of the U.S. Information Service, will visit Monterrey, San Luis Potosi, Mexico City, Jalapa and Veracruz from Feb. 6 through Feb. 12.

The traveling jazz group includes six students and the director of the Jazz Ensemble, Dr. Dick Goodwin, UT Austin assistant professor of music who will play trumpet on the tour.

'THE TODD KILLINGS' Thomas' Fifth Picture Shoots Career Skyward

At 19 years of age, Richard Thomas, who plays the starring role of Billy Roy in National General's "The Todd Killings," has received critical acclaim that would do credit to actors twice his age.

The movie begins today at the Jet Drive-In Theater.

He came to the notice of cinema reviewers initially with his role as Joanne Woodward's son in "Winning." He followed that with another smashing performance in "Last Summer" later in "Cactus in the Snow" and most recently in "Red Sky at Morning."

In "The Todd Killings," young Thomas enacts the part of a parolee from a juvenile prison whose life becomes enmeshed with a group of teenagers led by the psychotic Skipper, played by another fine young actor, Robert F. Lyons. Barry Shear directed and produced the contemporary drama.

Richard made his professional bow in Dore Schary's "Sunrise at Campobello" as John Roosevelt, joining the successful drama in the last months of its New York run and remaining with the play through its Washington, D.C. engagement. He was exactly seven years old when he received his first pay check as a member in good standing of Actors Equity.

Since then, Richard's career has altered between stage, screen and television. In addition to daytime series, he has appeared with Jack Lescault in the NBC Television Network's public affairs series, "1-2-3-Go!" and has been seen importantly in outstanding plays on the "Hallmark Hall of Fame," "United States Steel Hour" and other television dramatic programs.

On Broadway, Richard has appeared in the Actors Studio revival of Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude," Edward Albee's "Everything in the Garden" and "The Playroom." His classic theatre debut was made with the New York Shakespeare Festival and the American Shakespeare Festival at Stratford, Conn. in "Richard III."

Co-starring Robert F. Lyons, Thomas, Miss Montgomery and Barbara Bel Geddes, "The Todd Killings" was directed and produced, in Technicolor and Panavision, by Barry Shear for National General Productions release. Walter Wood served as executive producer with Robert Levy associate producer.

KISS OF DEATH? — Richard Thomas, in the movie "The Todd Killings," does not love 'em, then leave 'em. He loves 'em, then kills 'em, in the show which starts today at the Jet Drive-In.

Atomic Power Plant Record

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Northeast Utilities reports that its atomic power plant at Haddam generated more electricity than any other in the country last year—just under 4.4 billion kilowatt hours.

The national total for atomic generating plants was 15.7 billion kilowatt-hours, the power firm reported.

The plant is owned by 11 New England utilities and is operated by Northeast Utilities, a combine of five utility companies in Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Women Best Law Students

NEW YORK (AP) — The top three students in the Class of '73 at the Columbia University School of Law are women.

Vivian O. Adler, of Riverdale, N.Y., Anita H. Laudone of Norwich, Conn., and Beryl Shatz of Harrisburg, Pa., achieved the highest grades in their first year of law school. There were 46 women in their class of 368.

The three have been named Kent Scholars, a coveted academic honor at Columbia Law, awarded annually in each class to the students with the best academic record for the entire previous year of study. They are now second-year students.

Twenty-seven others in the second-year class with the next best academic records were named Stone Scholars. All were men.

In the Class of '72, now third-year students, two of the top five were women: Jane Parver of New York City, and Ellen Jordan of Staten Island, N.Y. They, too, were named Kent Scholars.

Total current enrollment in the Law School is 1,043, of which 129 are women.

Hospital Unit Is Club Topic

Information on the Howard County Hospital Authority and its projected construction of a new hospital unit was presented to the Kiwanis Club at its Thursday meeting in the Settles.

At the meeting, Leon Taylor submitted his resignation as faculty advisor for the Key Club, a post he has held for several years, and Harvey Rothell was named as his successor.

Norman Knox, administrator for the Medical Center Memorial Hospital, conducted the hospital presentation through a series of slides with a accompanying comment, stressing the need for new medical facilities, the reasons for establishment of an authority (which currently is being challenged in court) as a public agency, the economics of the project and what he thought the relation of the project was to the future of medical care in the community.

In a question answer period, Dr. R.B.G. Cowper was asked for comments and he questioned the tax-exempt status of the authority, saying he felt if one hospital were taxless, all should be.

Coast Family Hunts Gold, Simply For The Fun Of It

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (AP) — When the snows now piling up in the Sierra melt and swell the mountain streams, Cal Berge will get gold fever again.

— and his wife and three children promptly will catch it. Berge, 48, will arrange to cut loose from a thriving real estate business and with his wife Joanne and their children will load a big tent and some $1,000 worth of gold-prospecting gear into the family car and head north 160 miles to their favorite gold-hunting spots on the Yuba River.

He found his biggest nugget six years ago under two feet of water in Yuba River. "I was wearing a face mask and snorkel and it was getting late and Jeanne was yelling at me to come up for air when I saw this chunk of gold staring me right in the face. It was about the size of a grape and weighed a little over a third of an ounce. Fantastic!"

Berge, a native of Schenectady, N.Y., moved to California after serving as a Marine in World War II. He settled in the Trinity River area where old prospectors infected him with gold fever.

"I'd go out with a pick and shovel and find a little gold here and there," Berge recalled. The Berge family's gold prospecting is mainly for fun, not profit. The average nugget he finds is "about the size of a pumpkin seed" and worth $1.50 to $2, he said.

The high water following spring's melting snows washes gold along the bedrock of mountain streams and into certain pools and shallows in the river which act as natural sluice boxes, Berge explained.
