Russ Nuclear Mitchell Quits Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell resigned his Cabinet post today to head up President Nixon's re-election campaign. Nixon immediately named deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst to succeed

Mitchell's resignation, effective March 1, had long been expected. He directed Nixon's 1968 campaign effort and the President's political advisers had been anxious for him to take over the same post for the 1972 reelection effort.

Nixon's nomination of Kleindienst, a conservative identified with the lawand-order issue, is expected to draw strong opposition from liberal and civil rights forces.

'YES, INDEED'

But White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler replied, "Yes, indeed" when asked whether the administration was confident the Senate would act favorably on elevation of Mitchell's chief assistant to the Cabi-

Ziegler said Mitchell handed Nixon a hand-written personal letter at a meeting in the President's Oval Office Monday afternoon.

The letter's contents were not immediately disclosed, but the White House released Nixon's letter to Mitchell accepting his resignation with a note of "utmost regret."

But, Nixon wrote Mitchell, his former law partner, the regret is "compensated by a sense of personal and heartfelt gratitude on behalf of myself and all Americans."

FIRM IMPRINT

"As chief legal adviser to the President, and as the leader of our fight against crime and lawlessness, you have left a permanent imprint for the better of our nation of which I am immensely proud," Nixon con-

Nixon's four-paragraph letter made no reference to Mitchell's new role as head of the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Ziegler said the pipe-smoking, sternfaced Mitchell would be participating in the re-election campaign, but said Mitchell himself would provide other details of his new position.

In a brief statement issued by the Justice Department, Mitchell said he resigned in order to be able to participate in the campaign for the re-election of the President.

"Although I am most mindful of the importance of the office of attorney general and its function during our current period of history, I sincerely believe that whatever abilities I possess should be dedicated to the undertaking that will be most bene-ficial to the American people this year — namely, the re-election of President Nixon," Mitchell said.

GREATEST GOOD

"Accordingly, it is with considerable regret that I leave the President's Cabinet, but I do so with the firm belief that I will be working to attain the greatest good for the Mitchell becomes the fifth member of Nixon's original Cabinet to resign. There have been reports Secretary of Treasury John B. Connally also planned to depart soon, but Ziegler denied that such a move was con-

"I'm convinced that the farthest thing from the Secretary's mind is resigning from the administration,"

Ziegler said of the former Texas governor and lone Democrat in the Cabinet.

Kleindienst, 48, is a graduate of Harvard Law School and was a Phoenix attorney when he joined Nixon's 1968 campaign effort as a chief aide to Mitchell. After Nixon's inauguration, Mitchell brought him into the Justice Department as deputy attorney general.

NOT AVAILABLE

Even in advance of his nomination to the No. 1 post in the Justice Department, liberals in Congress and spokesmen for civil rights organizations had made clear they would fight his elevation.

A spokesman for the Justice Department said Kleindienst would not be available for comment.

Nixon, in releasing the Mitchell letter, also announced he intends to nominate Louis Patrick Gray III, now an assistant attorney general, to the post vacated b Kleindienst.

Gray, 55, a Republican, joined the Justice Department in 1970 after serving as executive assistant to Robert Finch, then the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

BARES ARREST IN NUDE MURDER

HOUSTON (AP) - Police held a suspect today connection with the death of Joyce Jackson Hudgins, whose nude body was found in a city park Monday. The discovery was made by two fishermen who noticed a new suitcase beside a road. The woman had been reported missing earlier Monday when she did not report for work. Police said clothes, identification and other personal belongings of the dead woman were found in the garbage cans of the suspect. Sheriff Capt. M. P. Patten said there ap-

A man was stopped by Sgt. John Scott after leaving the liquor store, and the officer recovered one of the money orders which was allegedly altered, and the investigation was turned over to the detective division of the Big Spring Police Depart-

RECOVERED

Lt. Sherrill Farmer, of the detective division, said today that the recovered money order had been purchased by the man, along with two other orders at the B. B. Parkway Store, 208 Austin.

The name which appeared on the recovered money order was Robert L. Davis, which has been proven to be a false name.

Originally the order was made out for $10, but had been altered for the amount of $90. Serial number on the order was BJ-27127473. The other two money orders have not been recovered, he said, but original serial numbers of the orders were BJ-27127480, for the amount of $21, and BJ-27127484, for the amount of $10.66.

"We have reason to believe there are also five additional money orders that possibly have been altered and are in circulation in the city," Farmer said

Latest estimate of the price of the Concorde is $60 million per plane, including parts. The original price estimated was $25 million per plane The skyrocketing price overrun may be the final straw in keeping the Concorde from becoming a viable commercial plane.

U.S. airlines, already wary of the operating costs and passenger capacity, are in no hurry to commit themselves to buying the Concorde. They also want to know about the safety and environmental factors of the plane.

Only British Overseas Airways Corp. and Air France are certain users of the SST. Both are government-subsidized airlines and the same governments subsidized the Concorde.

Cost was only part of the argument against continued U.S. government subsidization of the Boeing SST. Aside from environmental questions, the basic issue was why a plane which would serve only a minute segment of the population should be developed with public funds. Congress decided the plane wasn't worth it and refused money for the project. The escalating costs of the Concorde reinforce Congress' decision.

Reshuffling In Parks Board

Reshuffle of responsibilities within the Parks and Wildlife Commission is more correcting an error of judgment than political retribution

Gov. Preston Smith removed Pierce Johnson from the commission chairmanship and reassigned the job of liaison with the federal government to the executive director (James Cross).

Political implications immediately drew speculation. Johnson is a long-time associate of gubernatorial candidate Dolph Briscoe, against whom the governor must defend his office this was purchased on a majority vote of the commission but Johnson filed suit to block the purchase because he, as liaison officer, disapproved. If the suit remains commission policy, the validity of the purchase will be tested in state court.

The governor said Johnson's changed status follows a policy of rotating chairmanships. The only commission to be affected by the governor was the insurance commission. Capitol observers note that the policy isn't routinely applied and the effect is to remove a chairman with whom the governor has become disenchanted. The governor may not fire a commissioner nor does he have any authority over college regents, or

Alter Influence

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It seems evident now that negotiations between the United States and South and North Vietnam alone will never settle the war in Indo-China and that some other influence will have to intervene to attain that result. This could be the Peking Government or it could be the Moscow government. But one of the two must recognize that the parleys over peace in Vietnam have reached a stalemate and do something about it.

THE NEW YORK Times in an editorial Tuesday described the situation in this way:

"It is clear that a simple swap of American troop withdrawal for release of prisoners of war is not now being offered by Hanoi. It is doubtful that it was offered last year, although that question is one that may long be disputed.

"THIS YEAR, as last year, Hanoi's primary objective is a political change in Saigon, starting with the removal of President Thieu from office. Last year's presidential election in South Vietnam, which might have accomplished that purpose, could have made it unnecessary for Hanoi to insist that the United States oust General Thieu directly, Mr. Thuy (chief of the North Vietnamese delegation at Paris) has indicated. But Hanoi's definition of American withdrawal has always included cessation of the economic and military aid without which the Saigon regime could not survive. This flaw undermines Hanoi's ambiguous claim American withdrawal and prisoner release last year could have been negotiated separately from a South Vietnamese political settle-of all the documents and the statements related to the negotiations which have been published thus far by both sides, the more it is apparent that North Vietnam is determined to control the government at Saigon and that it will not return the prisoners to dominate South Vietnam. The United States, on the other hand, knows that such a settlement would mean the taking over of South Vietnam by the Communists and that the whole purpose of America's program of assistance would have been in vain,

UNQUESTIONABLY, from a military viewpoint, South Vietnam is able to protect itself. It has American advisers, and some American air power will be available for a while even after all United States ground troops have been withdrawn. So the armed forces of South Vietnam are strong enough today to withstand any attack by North Vietnam and will be able to thwart any invasion in the future. Hanoi knows this. Then why is there an unwillingness to make peace? The answer is that behind the North Vietnamese government stands the Soviet Union, which has furnished supplies and military equipment running into billions of dollars in the last several years. It has not terminated its support.

PRESIDENT NIXON'S task, therefore, is to start negotiations with the government in Moscow to see what terms can be developed so that a settlement can be reached which will ensure the safety of South Vietnam against aggression and preserve its neutrality. Unless this is done, there will be no peace in Indo-China.

My Answer

Billy Graham

As a young girl I had a serious nervous condition which was incurable. When I was in my forties I accepted Christ, and immediately God took that condition away. I was so happy I said I would never be unfaithful, but I broke my vow, and the Lord gave that nervous condition right back to me. Can I ever be forgiven?

Fortunately for us the Lord does not hold a grudge as many of us do. His love and forgiveness are from everlasting to everlasting. His patience is inexhaustible. Yes, He will forgive you. You really don't think He would have asked us to fogive others seventy times seven, if His forgiveness were limited?

Your letter points out something important which I would like to mention: many of our nervous ills are caused by guilt, and by our lost with God.

nerves were right too. I am convinced many people go to the doctor, when they would find even greater help by going to God. After all, Christ was called the Great Physician, and He grants healing as well as forgiveness. Spiritual maladjustment often reflects itself in physical illness. Ulcers, for example, are often caused by worry and anxiety. Perhaps that is why our Lord said to his disciples: "Let not your heart be troubled." He knew the side-effects of worry.

Reston's Diatribe

William F. Buckley Jr.

My brother James Reston has delivered a most fearful bastinado on Robert Haldeman, the super-assistant to Richard Nixon, for going on the air and saying that some of the President's critics are giving aid and comfort to the enemy. Mr. Reston was so sorely provoked that he even animadverted on Bob Haldeman's use of English, which was an unfriendly thing to do to begin with, and a strange thing to do under circumstances in which verbal inflections turn out to be the gravamen of Mr. Reston's complaint. "Bob Haldeman," Reston began, "... finally surfaced on NBC's early morning 'Today' show, and even a casual study of his clumsy prose suggests that he should have stayed in bed."

HERE IS the offending passage of Mr. Haldeman. "Now, after this (the President's) explanation, after the whole activity is on the record and is known, the only conclusion you can draw is that the critics now are consciously aiding and abetting the enemy of the United States."

Mr. Reston is driven to fulminations. "This, essentially, is what the administration is saying: Back the administration on its Vietnam peace says Haldeman of the White House staff, or you are giving aid and comfort to the enemy. Dissent, even honest dissent, is unpatriotic . . . (Haldeman) cannot believe that maybe Nixon's Vietnam peace terms for Vietnam are unrealistic.

1. I happen to think Haldeman is exactly right, a declarative sentence I struggle to formulate unclumsily. When a George McGovern or whoever takes a set of proposals which, shorn to thir essentials, say to the North Vietnamese: submit to a free election in South Vietnam, an election in which you people will freely participate, and we promise to abide by the results - and denounce them as unfair, unworthy, unrealistic, disingenuous, whatever - he is most clearly aiding and abetting the enemy of the United States.

NOW IN ORDER to use that term at all, granted, it becomes necessary to agree that there is an "eremy" of the United States in this picture. George McGovern makes no such admission, so that by terminological disqualification he is free of Haldeman's indictment. McGovern says that the North Vietnamese are merely engaged in helping their brothers in the South to wage a civil war against South Vietnamese separatists. BUT SURELY Mr. Haldeman is entitled to take the more formal position, namely that the people who are firing their guns at the United States' soldiers are "the enemies of the United States," and if the George McGoverns wince at the deduction, why that surely is the terrible price they need to pay for giving aid and comfort to the eremy. 2. But even having established that we are talking about "the enemy" in the accepted sense of the term, are these critics aiding and abetting them? It is hard to see how there is any doubt that they are doing just that. Intransigence is an aspect of strategy, and the North Vietnamese view the situation in Southeast Asia as sliding towards them because of American irresolution. And if they don't see that several men who aspire to the Presidency would preside quickly over an American evacuation of the area, leaving the South Vietnamese as sitting ducks for a grand terms or you hurt the country, says orgy, they are blind - which of course they are not. On the contrary. they no doubt spotted, out of the corner of their eye, James Reston's column as indicative of how the Establishment feels with its in-

> 3. (LEAVING FINALLY the question of "consciousness.") Begging the question of the over-all consciousness of George McGovern, which it would be clumsy to dwell upon, the honorable thing is to suppose that he knows what he is doing. What he is doing is fortifying the enemy. He does so for reasons he believes to be utterly honest — even as some Americans who are utterly honest wished, during the Civil War, that the South would effect its secession. Quite consistently, he denounces any condition put by Mr. Nixon on U.S. withdrawal as "unrealistic." Accordingly, if one applies the conventional standard to the George McGoverns, one comes to the conclusion that they are consciously aiding and abetting the enemy of the United States. To think otherwise is unrealistic, not to say clumsy.

Old Nixon Warned

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON - The New Nixon was furious. The White House staff had never seen him so mad. "Where is he?" he demanded as he opened closets, looked under beds and searched behind the drapes. "Who, Mr. President?"

"THE OLD NIXON," the New Nixon said, storming down the halls. "I think I saw him in Bob Halde man's office," someone said.

"I might have known it," the New Nixon muttered. He walked into Haldeman's office, and there he found the Old Nixon hiding under Haldeman's desk.

The Old Nixon looked up sheepishly, "Were you looking for me?" "No, I was looking for Howard

Hughes. What on earth did you do on The Today Show the other morn-

"I didn't do anything," the Old Nixon said. "I'm clean."

"CLEAN, MY EYE. You got Bob Haldeman to say that anyone who didn't go along with my peace plan was a traitor and consciously aiding and abetting the enemy."

"Well, what's wrong with that?" the Old Nixon demanded

"Nothing except that now the Democratic candidates are accusing me of using Joe McCarthy tactics to win the election. I didn't want to bring up the patriotism issue this early in the campaign."

"AH, COME on Dick," the Old Nixon said. "I was just having fun. Haldeman had never appeared on a television show before, and he came to me for a little guidance. I figured it wouldn't hurt anything if he accused the Democrats of a little

The New Nixon said, "For heaven's sake, Tricky, can't you get it through your head that we've got to stop that kind of mudslinging? There are a lot of people in this country who want to get out of Vietnam, and they don't care how we do it. If you start accusing them of treason, the whole thing will backfire on us.

"LOOK, YOU didn't say it. Haldeman said it. He was speaking as a private citizen. Why don't you have Ron Ziegler announce that he was just speaking for himself?" (Copyright, 1972, Los Angeles Times)

Surrenden Angly--A New Look To Politics

Some women have trouble handling only one role - but Mrs. Maurice Angly tosses a dozen into the air and juggles them expertly — excitingly — with easy, feminine grace.

As the wife of the state representative from Travis County, she has been a vital part of his campaign structure, accompanying him on countless speaking engagements outside his district, including Wednesday's appearance in Big Spring. As the new president of the Texas Federation of Republican Women, she heads a 6,000member organization and is the youngest Texan to ever hold the office. In fact, she is the y o u n g e s t Republican Women's Federation president in the nation. Making official visits with the women's units over the state, Mrs. Angly was honored last week at a luncheon in the home of Mrs. Floyd Mays, 602 Highland, where she was introduced to local women.

At your service:

Enough electricity for today and tomorrow.

Dependable electric power in ample supply helps make good living possible today—and is essential for tomorrow's growth and progress—throughout the area served by Texas Electric.

Providing enough electricity to meet these needs will require over $165 million in new construction in the next two years. That's a lot of money. And about $100 million of this will have to be raised in a competitive market at a time when interest rates are much higher than they were just a few years ago.

This, added to other higher costs of doing business, makes the job of planning and building ahead an even bigger task. At Texas Electric, providing enough electricity is a commitment and a continuing effort that keeps us at your service.

DECISION COMES HARD - American League Umpire Hank Soar relaxes with his dog "Dusty" at his Pawtucket home, as he ponders the idea of retiring from baseball. Two previous attempts to turn in his balls-and-strikes counter was softened by circuit chief Joe Cronin. Soar told Cronin last Wednesday he was positively through with the season-long ritual of coast-to-coast trips, hotel rooms and meals and disorienting time changes. The commissioner asked Soar to stick around just a little bit longer. Hank agreed to stay on as assistant supervisor of AL umpires

Starts Tests Of Timeless Life In Cave

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP) French scientist Michel Siffre faces today the first full day of 200 during which he will be alone in a time vacuum, buried alive beneath millions of tons of Texas limestone rock.

Since he took off his watch and handed it to his wife, Nathlie, at the top of the cave shaft at 2:15 p.m. Monday, Siffre has no means of telling time.

He will remain cut off from the tyranny of clocks in a time rhythm set only by the waking, eating and sleeping needs of his body.

Aim of the experience is to show that men in space can adapt without difficulty to a 48hour cycle of 36 hours activity and 12 hours sleep instead of the 24 hour cycle of 16 hours activity and 8 hours sleep which is customary

UTTERLY ALONE

Although Siffre had a couple of comrades with him for the first night to help with the installation of his camp, the last of them was to leave by evening. From then on, he will be utterly alone.

Sophisticated equipment in a tent laboratory atop the mountain will monitor his health and bodily reactions.

Frozen food will be lowered to him by teammates when he is sleeping. His only contact with the surface will be daily telephone calls, during each of which he will give his estimate of the date and hour to be checked against the calendar. Medical and biological tests will occupy much of his uneven days. He will keep a diary and prepare notes for a book.
