SHOW YOUR PRETTY FACE - Kathryn A. Holt, 21, with addresses in Bost Buffalo, N.Y., and Portsmouth, N.H., hides her face leaving Manchester, N.H., police headquarters after being arraigned as an accessory to two counts of damaging public buildings there early today. Police and fire headquarters were bombed by a man and woman, police said.

NIXON TARGET Bombings Antiwar Unit

MANCHESTER, N. H. (AP) - The bombing of police and fire headquarters here today was linked by a top state law enforcement official to the "The People's Liberation Army," an antiwar group which also listed the New Hampshire primary headquarters of President Nixon as a

The official, who asked not to be identified, said that when a man and a woman were arrested shortly after the three bomb blasts that shattered windows, a typewritten news release also was

The release said that besides the police station, the Nixon headquarters had been a target. Police, however found no explosives at the headquarters nor at city hall, which was ordered searched as a precautionary measure.

NO CONNECTION?

A fourth bomb was discovered today under the air-conditioner in a window outside Police Chief John Stips' office. Detonation experts said it failed to go off because it was improperly assembled.

The news release referred to the arrest of 12 demonstrators in Manchester at the opening of the Nixon headquarters last week. George Romney, secretary of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development spoke at the

However, Valerie Hawkins of Dover, a spokesman for the Lincoln Day Parade Committee, which had organized the demonstration at the Nixon headquarters, said today the group "emphatically denies any connection between the march and today's bombing. Our purposes were peaceful. We were demonstrating against Nixon, not against the Manchester police.'

Kathryn A. Holt, 21, with addresses in Boston, Buffalo, N.Y., and Portsmouth and Dover, N.H., was arraigned on two counts as an accessory to damaging public buildings.

'GRINS AND BARS IT' - Rep. Stewart B. McKinney, R-Conn., is shown behind bars Tuesday at the Haddam Training Academy as he voluntarily submitted to incarceration for 36 hours to get a better idea of what real inmates go through. "The emotional strain is tremendous," he said.

Blindfolded Three Shot, Youth Tarred

blindfolded men were shot in the thigh in a Roman Catholic district of Belfast Tuesday night and police said they probably were victims of punishment squads sent out by the Irish Republican Army.

Two other men were wounded, one seriously, by bullets fired from passing cars in apparently similar but separate

Outside the capital, a youth was found tarred and feathered on the road to Lurgan.

The IRA, trying to drive the British from Protestant-ruled Northern Ireland and merge the province with the Irish Republic, periodically punishes members or supporters regarded as having betrayed the cause in some way.

British troops found the wounded, blindfolded trio after Belfast newspapers received a midnight telephone call reporting that the IRA's militant Provisional wing had shot three men in the leg "for committing a robbery with violence."

One of the trio was dragged away by a crowd before the soldiers could call an ambulance. The two others were taken to a local hospital.

A 46-year-old man and a 17year-old youth, both Catholics, were shot from speeding cars in the Short Strand and Grosvenor Road areas.

"All the problems we have before us are going to be discussed and given priorities," said Chairman Menton Murray of Harlingen.

Murray said the committee would discuss what kind of report the committee will make to a special legislative session on House Speaker Gus Mutscher's stock deals.

Mutscher goes on trial Feb. on bribery conspiracy charges growing out of the Texas stock scandal.

The committee also has been considering a formal probe of the juke box industry, with Murray saying he favors tighter state control.

Rep. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi, a gubernatorial candidate, asked the committee last month to investigate reports that Mutscher was a partner with lobbyists in speculative land deals.

WITHHOLDING $12.3 BILLION

Election-Year Slush Fund?

administration says it's withholding $12.3 billion in appropriated funds, but denies any of the money is an election slush fund for use later this year.

Congressional critics charge President Nixon has built a multimillion-dollar political war chest with withheld appropria-

The Office of Management and Budget has released a list of the $12.3 billion in withheld appropriations to show that disbursement of $10.6 billion is awaiting confirmation that proposed recipients are legally eligible or approved.

Some of the remaining $1.7 billion may be released before the end of the current fiscal year June 30, said Caspar Weinberger, OMB deputy director. But he said charges of po-the money are false and irresponsible.

Weinberger said the part of the $1.7 billion that may be released is small compared with several billion dollars from othministration plans to stimulate the economy in a five-month spending speedup.

A portion of the $1.7 billion represents money saved through Nixon's Aug. 15 order cutting back federal employes and funds not spent because of congressional ceilings on outlays. Weinberger said in an interview.

Critics of administration appropriations practices include Rep. William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., who said Nixon was amassing a "$3.5-billion campaign slush fund of withheld

"We are indeed trying to pump money into the economy in the next five months to help the economy; that is the anplan," Weinberger nounced said. "We think that it is in this fiscal year that the stimulation is needed. It may be good politics too, but that is incidental.

"There is no desire to hold back money and then feed it out in spurts, to buy votes or for any other purposes."

Most of the extra spending planned for the months just ahead are from funds that normally could have been spent in year 1973 rather than fiscal funds held back from previous appropriations, OMB officials

IN BALLARD MURDER TRIAL

Attorneys Are Seeking To Prevent Testimony

Whitmer Jean Ballard, 46, accused murderer of prominent Glasscock County rancher Steve Currie, 71, took the stand briefly today in 83rd District Court, Alpine murder trial to testify in support of a defense motion for suppression of certain evidence against him.

Ballard's attorneys are attempting to block the testimony in behalf of the prosecution of Janie Montgomery, whom they contend is Ballard's commonlaw wife and can not testify

Presiding District Judge Charles E. Sherrill, 112th Judicial District, re-opened the hearing in the matter today and said that he would rule that there was no common - law marriage between the woman and Ballard or that the matter such a statement to Bearden. cannot be presented to the Miss Montgomery told the

"The jury would hear the woman's evidence and the arguments that she was Ballard's common-law wife. If they held that she was Ballard's wife, then they would be instructed to disregard any testimony against him she had presented. The court has reserved final ruling in the matter." said Judge Sherrill today. Tuesday, the woman testified that Ballard was one of several men that her children called

Bobby Bearden, Midland, one of Ballard's defense counsel. questioned the woman on an earlier statement to him in which she had said she was Ballard's common-law wife and could not testify against him. She testified that she had made court that she had established residence with Ballard in November, 1970 and had used the name Janie Ballard.

Two more jurors were selected this morning, bringing the total to nine jurors impaneled. Chosen are Mrs. Gail C. Musgrave, an Alpine social studies teacher and wife of the assistant postmaster, and Mrs. Luther Anderson, a Brewster County ranch woman who said that she had heard nothing about the case prior to her selection for the jury because she gets neither radio nor television reception at her home.

Ballard faces a possible death penalty if he is convicted. He is alleged to be the trigger man in the shotgun slaying of Currie which occurred during a robbery of the wealthy rancher's home near Garden City Dec. 2, 1970.

The program ended Tuesday The guards at the Haddam Training Academy went to great lengths to make the or-

The guards even planted a 'shiv''—a tableknife—in McKinney's cell. After finding the knife, McKinney was "charged" with illegal possession of a weapon and thrown in a dreary, windowless isolation cell for three hours.

One guard, Capt. Richard Tedford, said - McKinney, a heavy smoker, began the prison stint without any cigarettes, but soon was sponging off the other "We moved him to another

West opened the five of diamonds which presented the declarer with an opportunity he would not have otherwise had. If West leads either a trump or the ace of hearts, South can obtain two discards—on the third heart and the ace of diamondsbut must eventually fall back on the club finesse, which fails.

The jack of diamonds was played from the North hand at trick one and when this held. South hastened to cash the ace, discarding his two small hearts. The queen of clubs was led next and when East played the nine, declarer followed with the four, losing to West's king. The latter alertly returned the king of diamonds which provided East with an opportunity to discard his remaining club—the 10. Now, when South attempted to cash the ace of clubs, East ruffed in

The President's Journey

President Nixon leaves Thursday on the first leg of his historic journey to China, then back across the world to Russia and other European

What will come of this epochal series of meetings only history can tell. To expect too much would be to base hopes on little more than the wish; to expect too little or negative results would be to write off the effort as futile before it is undertaken.

Those who read into President Nixon's visits a series of traps and snares have experience as a tutor, but this is answered with an old Chinese saying: "You fool me once, shame on you; you fool me twice, shame on me." The President has the advantage of far more intelligence and basic knowledge about China at his command than most of us will ever dream about, and to fear that he will be taken in like a simpleton is simply not realistic. He doubtless has some pre-conceived conditions of his own attached to whatever decisions might come out of the parley.

What can be said about the Chinese visit, much

The passing of Charles B. Perry of Odessa deprives not only his home city of a great civic leader, but this portion of West Texas as well.

Here Mr. Perry was best known for his work as president of the Colorado River Municipal Water District. Haldeman's own personal point of HALDEMAN IS the Nixon chief of staff. The Nixon peace plan unveiled with such fanfare after months of secrecy was no perfect model for ending the war. It was an inevitable target for critics pointing out the weaknesses almost certain to bring about its rejection. On the timing of the attack by the President's Democratic opponents there is room for doubt. When Sen. Edmund Muskie, the frontrunner, spoke out, the Communist side had not formally rejected the Nixon plan — which it was bound to

THE CONCEPT of free elections, regardless of how they may be hedged around by mixed commissions, is unacceptable. A free choice by the individual is alien to communism. After the Geneva accords of 1954 when Ho Chi Minh was widely regarded throughout Vietnam as a patriot and a savior, the elections called for in the accords might have been held. That time has long negotiable no one can say. However low the esteem for the Thieu regime may be, no President - whether Democrat or Republican - could accede to that demand. The Thieus and the Kys and their immediate followers might escape the country to refuge in Switzerland or some other well-banked neutral haven. For thousands of well-meaning South Vietnamese who staked their future on American support, even as the American force winds down in Vietnamization, this would be naked

Why, one must ask, did Haldeman choose this particular moment to charge critics of the peace proposal with treason, for the charge was no less than that? It could be that the White House is anticipating a new flare-up in the war the President will want support for a drastic step-up. Secretary of State William P. Rogers says the enemy has made extensive preparations for a Tet offensive which would coincide with the Nixon mission to Peking. The brunt of the attack would be borne by the South Vietnamese army. And it is here that the test may be critical.

IN THE LAOS "incursion" a year ago the vital flaw was largely concealed. It was not as widely reported at the time that South Vietnamese forces in the operation, committing only a fraction of the divisions proposed, on the "let's you and him fight" principle, were routed and fled in panic.

A PARALLEL in recent history may be pertinent. In World War II Chiang Kai-shek, despite vigorous prodding, declined to commit his best divisions, since he would need them to put down the Communists in a civil war later on. President Thieu must likewise see the shadow of a civil conflict on a large scale looming ahead, when the Americans are gone. (Copyright, 1972, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

In the spring of 1947, students issued a yearbook marking the completion of the first year for the newly created Howard County Junior

IT WAS a heroic effort for the staff headed by Tomme J. Elliott and Mille Balch, and which also included Robert Hobbs, Robert Miller, Wilma Jo Taylor, Zack Gray, Colleen Davidson, Charles Lovelace, Bobbie J. Bobb, Charles Hodges, Norma L. Jones and Kenneth Huett.

The book, it was noted, was presented as "a pictorial record of school activities for the 1946 session. Being the first, probably it will not be the best, but if this volume stimulates enjoyable memories for its readers, the staff will feel its aim fulfilled."

FAMILIAR NAMES pop up on every page. For instance (and I'll probably get the wrong girl with the wrong boy) there are several couples in that first year who became man and wife. This was the case for John T. (Tippie) Anderson, president of the student body, and Evelyn Green, treasurer; for Dee Thomas and Bobbie Green, soph secretary; for R. L. the Lord. These were the country churches of loving memory There is no way to determine how many remain in Texas today. There are some. Most have an uncared-for look, particularly the churchyard. Others have grown in beauty as the decades passed.

This bit of nostalgia was evoked by the arrival of a new book, 'Historic Texas Churches'' Branch-Smith, Fort Worth, $6.95, written by Mrs. Cordelia Brown McFall whose family line reaches back in Texas to a time before the Revolution. Two of her family never returned from the

MRS. McFALL was forced to limit her descriptions of churches to 50. The sampling is wide, ranging from the huge complex that is Dallas' First Baptist to tiny rural churches whose survial is a miracle.

The paving of roads signalled the death of many rural churches. Sundays were not just a day of rest in those times. It truly was the greatest day of the week.

EVERYONE DRESSED in their best. The horses were hitched to the buggies or to the family hack - an impressive vehicle with front and rear seats, sometimes known as a surrey, and sometimes it was a surrey with a fringe on top just as in the musical "Oklahoma The church was a place of comfort inside, something to which a child could cling. After all, it was your aunt sitting at the organ, pedaling away and making the instrument sing. And it was your grandfather down front, the patriarch, a deacon. Sitting with him was your elderly friend from the next farm. And on and on. There were no strangers. The era was one of peace. Already the sons and brothers and husbands had gone from the church to make World War I, and all but one had The hairs would protect the potato.

Bible. And each was given a card on Sunday with a memory verse on one side and a brightly colored scene from the Good Book on the other. A few moments of visiting after the services. Back home to a gigantic Sunday dinner, the best of the week. Perhaps there was a baptizing in the afternoon at a stock pond. Night services were not as thrilling.

But - tired and a little sleepy the child felt a warmth and quietness and contentment. And the minister did not speak in a voice as loud.

If the church were very modern, it had the new gasoline lamps on the walls. But the old kerosene lights were good enough in front of their bright, round reflectors. And when services were finished the lamps cast a yellow glow through the open doorway and down the steps, and churchgoers stood in the light to talk about crops and cattle and drouth and illness and all the other things that concerned farmers and

Some structures were built to last forever. There seems to be an unusual number of these permanent churches in Central Texas, built by early settlers or their descendants who became well-to-do while farming the rich land

ONE OF THE better ones described by Mrs. McFall in her book is the Holy Trinity Catholic Church at Corn Hill near Georgetown. It is a tall, two-spired structure modeled after the 145th Century Gothic Cathedral of St. Vitus of the Prague Castle in Czechoslovakia. Mrs. McFall reports that it is kept beautifully inside and out, is large enough to have a resident priest, Father Matl, and to maintain a school. There is a trend today toward very small churches in homes or storefront buildings in the cities.

They never can have the peace of a rural church on a sunny Sunday
