

HIGHWAY BEAUTIFICATION, PRIMARY FINANCING

Governor Calls Special Session

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith Saturday called the Texas legislature into special session Tuesday morning, March 28, for what he hopes will be a quickie meeting on highway beautification and primary financing.

NEW TAX BILL

"If they come in Tuesday I believe and I hope they will be finished and can go home for the Easter holidays," Smith told a crowded news conference.

The obviously reluctant announcement took two minutes.

Smith has contended for months that June, after the elections, would be the best month for a special session to appropriate money for the state's next business year and handle other necessary problems, including a likely new tax bill.

Now, Smith said Saturday, the appropriations debate will be in a second special session to be called later this year—unless legislators meeting Tuesday want to tackle the new tax problem, just before elections.

"I have no plans at this time to open the session (Tuesday) to any other subject. I hope that the legislature will come to Austin prepared to act as fast and accurately as possible on these two items."

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes said later that he had "been urging the governor to call a special session to deal with primary financing and highway beautification. I'm glad he has acted and I will cooperate in every way I can."

"We should have full and complete public hearings on these bills, but I see no reason why they cannot be acted upon within a few days," Barnes said.

PUBLIC TO JUDGE

The lieutenant governor's statement added that: "in my opinion, the public is going to be a very severe judge of the manner in which the legislature and the governor and other elected officials perform during this special session."

Smith said he understood Sen. Mike McKeel, Dallas, who is a candidate for Congress, had a bill prepared that covered the financing of Texas' primary elections.

Federal court orders have blocked the further use of candidate filing fees to pay primary election costs, which are estimated this year at between $1.5 million and $2 million. Smith said the state comptroller said there are sufficient state funds on hand, without new taxes, for the legislature to appropriate this amount.

The governor said Sen. Jim Wallace and Rep. Jack Ogg, both of Houston, have prepared a bill that would bring Texas into compliance with the federal Highway Beautification Act.

If approved by the legislature the state legislation calls for immediate appropriation of only $50,000 for administration of the act, Smith said. The U.S. Secretary of Transportation notified Texas Friday that if the state does not comply with the federal act, which some call a billboard control act, then Texas stands to lose $24 million in federal highway construction money.

TALK, TALK, TALK

Smith said he did not plan to submit for senate confirmation the 150 to 200 appointments he has made since the 1971 Legislature because he doesn't think he could finish in two or three days if he did.

Impeach Smith, Barnes Measure Will Be Filed

NAB TWO YOUTHS Young Dallas Policeman Shot To Death

DALLAS (AP) — A young Dallas policeman was shot to death with his own gun Saturday while struggling with two youths who had broken into a junior high school and taken $3 from candy and soft drink machines.

The victim was identified as A. T. Camp, about 22, and a policeman only a short time. He was dead on arrival at Parkland Hospital.

Two youths, ages 13 and 15 were arrested a short time later. One — the 15-year-old — was taken immediately to police headquarters and officers said he gave a statement in which he told of the shooting.

It was not clear, however, exactly how the shooting in the city's Oak Cliff section occurred. Investigators said there were conflicting reports as to whether the youth actually shot the officer or if the gun accidentally discharged in the scuffle.

The 15-year-old, diminutive and shabbily dressed, had what police said was blood on his clothing and powder burns on his face and forearms.

Tears were streaming down his face as he was led into police headquarters.

"He just doesn't know what he's done," a bystander remarked.

The shooting occurred shortly before 4 p.m. when, according to police dispatchers, Camp was sent to answer a burglar alarm at the Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School.

After his arrival, dispatchers said Camp reported that he had seen two people in the school and radioed for assistance.

The back-up patrol car, occupied by patrolman Mike Cosby and his partner, arrived at the moment the 15-year-old ran from the school. Cosby said he chased down the youth, found his clothing covered with blood, and said the youngster babbled something about a police officer shooting himself.

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — State Rep. Paul C. Moreno "will introduce motions and resolutions in the Texas House, when it convenes Tuesday, calling for the removal of House Speaker Gus Mutscher and the impeachment of both Gov. Preston Smith and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes," Moreno said Saturday.

Moreno told a news conference he had been considering the move "ever since Mutscher's trial opened in Abilene and brought out its damaging disclosures."

RESTORE CONFIDENCE

"We who opposed the high-handed control of the legislature and earned the name of the 'Dirty 30' for our efforts, have been working for reform ever since the last session of the legislature opened. We know that reform must start at the top if we are to restore the confidence of the people in their elected officials," said Moreno.

"The Mutscher trial brought a charge from the prosecutor that Gov. Smith was not on trial but that he was a co-conspirator. And Secretary of State Bob Bullock has made serious charges against Barnes in the case," said the legislator. "The governor called the special session of the legislature in which he asked for action on the banking bill. His later veto is not going to get him off the hook."

"The bill passed with the strong backing of Barnes, and it blew up in the faces of everyone connected with it."

CHANCE TO EXPLAIN

"An impeachment trial will give both Smith and Barnes their day in court—their chance to explain their side to the public—so we are doing them a favor by giving them that chance."

The statement then outlined procedures under the Texas Constitution: an officer facing impeachment proceedings must step aside while the House considers the matter, the governor naming temporary officials until it is disposed of.

Campaigning in San Antonio, Barnes called the move "purely political."

'PURELY POLITICAL'

"Mr. Moreno's involvement of me is purely political. I call upon all the members of the legislature and all elected public officials to put politics aside and attend to the people's business during this special session," Barnes said.

The lieutenant governor added: "This special session is not the time for people to run for office and play political games."

Moreno, a candidate for state senator, will ask that the House sit as a committee at large to hear charges against the governor and lieutenant governor.

BULLETIN

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Radio stations in three Central American countries reported Saturday that a military coup in El Salvador overthrew President Fidel Sanchez Hernandez. But Guatemala's Foreign Ministry said Sanchez Hernandez retained control of the government.

TRY IT, YOU'LL LIKE IT — Or maybe double-dog-dare you to try it. At any rate, Chris Burnett and Scott Shaver sample a bit of fried rattlesnake at the Jaycee Rattlesnake Roundup in the National Guard Armory here Saturday. Although they conjured dreams of their supplier, they said it was delicious — well, good anyhow.

Snake Handler Fanged But Big Spring Roundup Success

Jaycees Saturday night gloated over what appeared to be their most successful Rattlesnake Roundup, despite Delbert Hutchings, one of the handlers, getting fanged.

Rushed for medical treatment, Hutchings was later released and vowed to be back at the pits Sunday.

This mid-afternoon bobble scarcely marred the booming snake mart at the National Guard Armory where an estimated 1,500 persons came to get a close up look at the grumpy critters. Jaycees did a land office business in cooking and serving sizzling rattlesnake.

Their husbands were hard put to skin and prepare the rattlers fast enough to satisfy the demand for this unusual meat. It turned out that they sold nearly 100 skins, with the price averaging $2 a hide.

Don Worthan, chairman of the Roundup, surveyed the total of nearly 2,000 pounds of snakes brought in by hunters and enthused:

"This is fantastic in view of the experience of the Odessa and Sweetwater roundups. Odessa had only 600 pounds and Sweetwater topped 1,100. We were afraid that with early warm weather, most of the snakes had left their dens."

He and other Jaycees hoped for another 500 pounds to come in today as hunters vie for fat prizes.

Saturday the longest snake measured was 64 inches. Two others tied for the most rattles — 14.

Financially, the Roundup was a success, too. Admissions were right at $1,200; skin sales hit $172, and the fried snake steak exceeded $300. And after the show is over at 6 p.m. today, the Jaycees will have about a ton of snakes to sell, plus several ounces of venom "milked" from the surly serpents.

Hutchings was trying to make a free catch of an evil-tempered rattler at 5 p.m. when the snake, after several passes, hit his tormentor with lightning speed on the middle right finger.

The handler calmly caught his snake, took him to the skinner, who almost got bit before the rattler, a 4½-ft. specimen about five inches in girth, was put away. Hutchings claimed that the bite was not a bad one, but he was taken to Malone & Hogan Clinic for treatment.

Hunter registration begins at 8:30 a.m. today, with handling demonstrations at 10 a.m. and continuing until closing time at 6 p.m. A highlight — in addition to more snake steak and skin sales — will be the presentation of awards to hunters at the armory about 4 p.m.

Top Targets In U.S. Fight Against 'H'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has picked 33 cities in which teams of federal, state and local law enforcement officials will concentrate efforts to stop the flow of heroin on the nation's streets.

All the largest cities are included, plus some rather small ones.

Miles J. Ambrose, special assistant attorney general for drug abuse, said Saturday that the special teams would begin operations immediately. He plans to detail the operations at a news conference Monday.

The number and composition of the teams will vary, he said, and will be based on the problems and needs in each city. Large metropolitan areas—such as New York City, a major port of entry for heroin smugglers—may have as many as five teams operating at once.

A senior Justice Department attorney will lead each team, and the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs will provide most of the federal investigators.

Additional personnel will be furnished by the Customs Bureau and the Internal Revenue Service. State and local attorneys and local police agencies also will play a vital role of these teams.

Special grand juries, impaneled under the Organized Crime Control Act of 1970, will gather intelligence and prepare indictments.

President Nixon has called drug abuse the nation's No. 1 domestic problem and has made the campaign to rid the streets of drug pushers and traffickers one of his administration's top priorities.

Early last week, he gave personal publicity to the campaign when he flew to New York City to meet with federal and local officials working on the heroin problem and to visit John F. Kennedy Airport to view customs procedures.

The New York trip was described as one to permit the President to visit the first of nine planned regional offices of the Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement which he established by executive order on Jan. 28 to fight the heroin peddler.

The other regional offices, announced earlier, are Atlanta, Chicago, Cleveland, Denver, Houston, Los Angeles, Long Beach, Kansas City, Mo., and Philadelphia.

The 33 cities named for concentrated efforts are: Albuquerque, N.M.; Atlanta; Austin, Tex.; Baltimore; Boston; Buffalo, N.Y.; Chicago; Cincinnati; Cleveland; Columbus, Ohio; Dallas; Denver; Detroit; Houston; Indianapolis; Los Angeles; Long Beach; Kansas City, Mo.

Miami; Milwaukee; Newark, N.J.; New Orleans; New York; Philadelphia, Phoenix, Ariz.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Portland, Ore.; Rochester, N.Y.; San Antonio, Tex.; San Diego, Calif.; San Francisco; Oakland; Seattle; St. Louis; and Washington, D.C. (Maryland-Virginia area).

EL PASO PUSHING BATTLE WITH GIANT SMELTER

A Case Of Poisoning Children

By MIKE COCHRAN Associated Press Writer

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The night is clear and starry. From Rim Road on the tip of the Franklin Mountains, El Paso sprawls below—a sea of lights.

The nighttime panorama is marked by a long, dark streak, the Rio Grande, and four red lights blinking from 80 stories high.

Beyond the river is Mexico and El Paso's sister city, Juarez, its neon glitter a beacon for fun seekers.

It is unlikely that many linger to watch the blinking red lights which mark a smokestack.

From the smokestack flows a steady stream of white smoke which this night floats lazily from the upper valley south-easterly across El Paso. Its wispy trail, plain to see in the moonlight, is visible for miles.

This harmless appearing emission, the city of El Paso alleges, is a potential killer, its prime target children.

The smokestack, some argue, is a symbol of environmental destruction. It is owned by American Smelting and Refining Co., or simply ASARCO, as it is known to El Paso's 325,000 residents.

The company extracts metal such as zinc, lead and copper from ores.

The city and ASARCO have been locked in a dispute about pollution for some time. In February, the high-stakes case took on new and staggering dimensions.

Medical tests at that time revealed elevated lead levels in the blood of five children from the "Smelertown" area of El Paso. The company was accused of emitting lethal lead in its smoke, thereby poisoning the children.

High lead levels can result in anemia, mental retardation and even death.

Since the five children were hospitalized, city health officials say an additional 30 children have been found to be suffering from chronic lead poisoning.

I Can't Believe He Ate The Whole Thing

MCKINNEY (AP) — Frank Reese, a prisoner in the Collin County jail, ate the sheriff's eyeglasses Friday.

"It's okay, so long as he'll quit eating the light bulbs in his cell," said Sheriff Tom Montgomery.

It was only Thursday that Montgomery discovered Reese, 44, is responsible for countless light bulbs that have disappeared from Reese's cell since Jan. 6.

"He's been eating those things," Montgomery exclaimed. "Another prisoner told us he saw Reese eating them."

When questioned about his unusual menu, Reese confirmed he has been eating light bulbs since he was a child.

He then sat down and ate 14 bulbs: for the sheriff, deputies and astonished newsmen.

A while later he ate one lens of the sheriff's eyeglasses.

"It's okay, Frank," the sheriff said. "I needed a new pair anyway."

Reese said he prefers burned-out bulbs because they taste better, and he prefers recently burned out ones because they are warm.

"I couldn't believe it," Montgomery said.

The sheriff put out an appeal to McKinney residents to bring in light bulbs to feed his glass-hungry prisoner.

Asked if he plans to bill Reese for the bulbs eaten in his cell since Jan. 6, Montgomery laughed and said: "No, I just don't want him to eat anymore of the county's bulbs."

PEEPERS EATER — Tom Montgomery, sheriff of Collin County, Tex., (left) found out what was happening to all his light bulbs; one of his prisoners Frank P. Reese was eating them. When word of Frank's unique appetite got out he agreed to give a demonstration to newsmen and proceeded to eat two light bulbs, when asked what he would have for dessert he promptly gobbled down the sheriff's glasses.

Cancer Unit Training Set

Volunteers in the Cancer Crusade will be gearing for the house-to-house canvass in Howard County on Tuesday.

Mrs. Joe Smoot, Crusade chairman, called a meeting for Tuesday 5:30 p.m. at the First Federal Savings and Loans Community Room. All workers in the residential canvass have been urged to attend this short but important session.

Charles Miller, Midland, executive director of District 2, will instruct participants who have been enlisted by Mrs. David Hodnett, the chairman of the house-to-house portion of the Crusade on April 18.

Meanwhile, appeals have been made to businesses and other establishments for support of the drive to raise funds in the fight against the nation's most insidious killer. Other phases of the Crusade are being coordinated through April.

Goal for the Howard-Glasscock chapter this year is $10,000, said Mrs. Merrill Creighton, chapter president. This is needed urgently to aid in the educational programs, research and in work of the service committee with cancer victims.

Change In Time For PTA Meet

The Elbow Elementary Parent-Teacher Association will meet Monday at 7 p.m. (a change of time) at the Elbow gym.

The physical education classes will present a program featuring creative movement including parachute play, tag-and the "bamboo hop." Trampoline skills will be demonstrated by students from each grade level, and a physical fitness exhibition will conclude the program.

Every child will participate in group as well as individual activity. Mrs. Garner Thixton, physical education instructor, will direct the program, which is open to the public.

Mrs. Edman McMurray will conduct a short business meeting.

THE WEEK

Coahoma got great news with opening of bids for new school construction Tuesday when Basin Builders of Odessa got the contract at $393,000. Even with equipment, furniture and fees, this is well within the money for 12 classroom, auxiliary items, a new girls' gym and administration building.

Time is short for obtaining your car license tags for 1972. You must have them on your automobile not later than Saturday. Based on the amount of money received so far ($303,000), 40 per cent of car owners have yet to get their tags. That could mean long lines.

The week was not without violence. The body of Charles C. Hart was found in a grain pit at Kimbell Grain elevator a week ago today, and so far there are no hot heads. Mrs. R. F. Perry, 78, Brownfield, was injured fatally in a one-car accident 17 miles northwest of Sterling City, just east of the Glasscock County line.

Adults are prone to say "the kids don't do so-and-so like they used to any more," and one of the things they put in that category is spelling. Maybe so, maybe not. Attend the Howard County Spelling Bee finals Tuesday 4 p.m. in the HCJC auditorium and see what you think.

Besides all the signs of Spring, such as the Tahoka daisies and wild verbena and yellow primroses, another harbinger of the season is the first scholastic robin — Carolee Fordman as valedictorian at Afton. She is the first to be announced and is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delano Goodman. Salutatorian is Phillip Medlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Medlin.

Add to the honors earned by Archie Myers, Howard County Junior College's all-time national junior college shooting champion, selection as a member of the National Juco All-America team.

Four members of the Big Spring police department graduated with their intermediate certificates from the Permian Basin Council of Governments police school last week. They are Sgts. James W. Baker, Sam Cooley, Peter Stone, and Patrolman A. N. Henry.

Big Spring High School choir came home with sweepstakes, which means they rated Division I (the best) in concert and sight reading. The BSHS Corral, school newspaper, earned a Distinguished Merit certificate from the UIL Press. At the junior livestock show: John Gorman won the champion steer title and David Barnes reserve; Tony Gillespie two lamb awards and Rus Davis one. The Acuff award (for best locally bred Hereford) went to David; the steer showmanship title to Bill Currie, Lamb showmanship to Kent Shaw.

Bill Kuykendall was listed as an honorable mention, which means he was one of the four finalists, in the rural division of the Texas Safety Association's hero awards. When the automobile of his daughter, Kim, was struck and burst into flames, Kuykendall dashed from his home to the highway and pulled her to safety last Nov. 27.

First Trades Day Nearing

Efforts are being redoubled to give a new program of retail Trades Days a great send-off on April 3, according to Sam Schultz, Chamber of Commerce retail committee chairman.

"Almost 700 letters have been sent explaining the program," he said. "We plan to begin Monday, April 3, and continue on the first Monday of each month."

"The idea is to have a city-wide flea market, with every business in Big Spring having at least one special item on the Retail Trades Days," said Schultz.

"We are trying to get all the businesses in Big Spring to work together to promote Big Spring, not just a part of Big Spring."

The committee also has planned four special promotions. The first is Webb AFB appreciation day, May 20, the second is agriculture appreciation day, possibly June 14, the third is Summer Festival of Fun, July 14, and the fourth is industry appreciation day, Sept. 15.

"We are all here in Big Spring doing business for the same purpose," said Schultz. "We want to work together to do what we can for Big Spring, and we feel this will be good for us."

Seeks To Change Method Of Financing Junior Colleges

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The vice president of Tarrant County Junior College told a special Senate committee Saturday the 1973 Legislature will be asked to change the method of financing public junior colleges.

The system proposed by C. A. Robertson, co-chairman of a Texas College Coordinating Board study on junior college financing, would cost the state more money and enable the colleges to operate year-round, Robertson said.

'CONTACT HOUR'

Robertson, a certified public accountant, said currently junior colleges get $25 per full-time student, based on the fall enrollment. To hold a short term, or summer session, the schools must rely totally on increased tuition or local funds.

He proposed a "contact hour" basis for financing the junior colleges' general academic courses, the same system used since 1969 for vocational-technical education.

Under a "contact hour" system, a professor who teaches a one-hour class each day to 20 students, for example, would be credited with 20 contact hours.

"This is the best and most equitable way to finance education," Robertson said. "It puts the money where the students are."

Other advantages, he said, are that it allows for year-round financing, including the summer, and provides continuous education progress—enabling a student, for example, to start a course in September, finish by November, and move on to the second part of the course without waiting for the end of the semester.

Tarrant County Junior College's state appropriation, based on fall enrollment, for 1971-72 is $3,738,750, Robertson said, but it would increase to $4,016,959 under the proposed system of financing. The appropriation for San Antonio College would jump from $5,721,250 to $8,187,651, as another example.

TEXAS FARM REPORTS

It's Dry In West Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)— Showers played "hide and seek" over much of the state last week, leaving significant moisture in only a few places.

Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said rains in some coastal areas delayed planting while other areas are still in need of moisture.

Ranges, especially in the west and northwest, need a good general rain. Irrigated wheat looks good but the dry-land crop is deteriorating. Cattle are moving off grain to feedlots.

Onion and potato planting is underway on the South Plains (Lubbock), sweet potatoes are growing in and around East Texas, Hutchison said. The strawberry harvest has started in southwest. Harvesting of carrots and cabbage went on in the West ter Garden (Carrizo Springs) and Rio Grande Valley. Home gardens in many areas need rain.

Reports from district agents show:

PANHANDLE: Irrigated wheat is making good growth while dryland wheat needs moisture. Alfalfa is making some growth; although weevils have been found in eastern counties. Plowing for grain sorghum and corn is active.

SOUTH PLAINS: Weather was favorable for plowing and preplant irrigation. Grain has responded by warm weather but lacks moisture. Alfalfa is being irrigated and some onions are being planted. Fruit trees are in bloom. Ranges are greening.

ROLLING PLAINS (Vernon): Soil moisture is short. Grain growth is slow and there is some damage from greenbugs and mites. Alfalfa weevils and aphids have been found in a few counties.

NORTH CENTRAL: Farmers are ready to plant cotton and sorghum but are waiting for rain. Vegetable planting is also being delayed. Many ranges are below average and grains need rain. Fruit trees are in bloom and leafing out. Live-stock feeding is active.

FAR WEST: It's dry all through the area. Plowing and preplant irrigation are in progress. Onions, lettuce and cabbage have a good stand in the El Paso Valley. A good fruit crop is set and pecans are leafing. Livestock are in good condition.

Bill Hobby's Wealth Told

AUSTIN (AP)— William P. Hobby, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, issued a financial statement to news media Friday showing a net worth of $857,822.

Hobby's gross assets are listed at $4,069,680, including stock worth $274,654 in the Houston Post, where he is president and executive editor.

Total stock holdings in KPRC-TV and radio station KPRC were listed as being worth $79,311.

All other stocks and bonds were listed at a market value of $532,509.

The major portion of Hobby's assets were listed as "real estate and real estate ventures" $3,956,242.

ARM IN LAP HIDES TRUTH

NEW YORK (AP)— Burt Reynolds, brawny actor and nude centerfold in Cosmopolitan magazine... nude???

"When I list the three most unimportant events in my life, this will be one of them," Reynolds said.

The naked truth, he added, is "I thought it was good for a laugh. And it's something unpredictable, something I like to be. It was intended as a spoof takeoff on Playboy."

As the magazine's first male nude, the 36-year-old Reynolds is unblushingly sprawled out in the centerfold of the April issue, an unadorned Adam for ogling by a readership of Eves. Reynolds preserves his modesty with a discreetly placed arm in his lap.

Erosion, Atmospheric Dust Studied Here

The United States Experiment Station, which concerns itself primarily with soil research, has become the focal point for several studies dealing with soil erosion and atmospheric dust.

The station has become a base point for a four-phase study by the National Center for Atmospheric Research. Previously, the station had been designated as one of the control points in connection with atmospheric studies being conducted by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which in May will send up a survey satellite against which locally assembled data will be checked.

A representative from Australia will be here soon to make soil moisture-loss studies.

In addition, Texas Tech researchers have been making use of the equipment at the station for studies on the effect of winds on vegetables.

Texas A & M University scientists have booked time at the station in April concerning the effect of wind on foam used in aerial sprays.

REGULAR PROGRAM

All this is in addition to the regular program of soil studies and interpretative work under direction of Bill Fryrear, head of the station. Fryrear said that one of the chief projects at the moment is in seeking to organize materials from the half century of research at the station, particularly with the aim of relating them to practices which may be readily applied by farmers and ranchers. Some cropping research continues — for instance an experiment in narrow row planting for cotton, and alternate crops.

Dr. Dale Gillette has been here from the National Center for Atmospheric Research at Boulder, Colo. and erected a tower on the G. C. Broughton farm west of Big Spring. This first phase of a project dealing with global dust pollution is concerned with particulate matter in the atmosphere. Last year studies in the Nebraska panhandle were not altogether satisfactory when it came to dust, but that has been no problem here. In addition to taking samples to determine composition of the dust, efforts are made to determine where it goes when it leaves the area.

The second phase of the project, which will be conducted here the second week in April, will see samples being taken by a research aircraft flying up as high as 40,000 feet.

EQUIPMENT DUE

In May, sophisticated Laser equipment will be brought here.

Martin Drilling Continues Drop

Martin County's cooling Spraberry Trend boom dropped the county into a four-way tie for fifth place in Permian Basin drilling last week.

There were only six rigs turning in Martin at the end of the week, according to the G. W. Murphy Industries survey, a drop of three. Andrews, Crane and Reagan also had six active rigs.

First place went to Lea County, N.M., with 24, down one; Pecos gained one to reach 19 and the Ward, which lost one; Ector picked up two to reach eight, the same as for Eddy, N.M., which lost three and Hockley County, all tied for third. For months Martin ran third, and occasionally second, in drilling.

in order that atmospheric samples may be pulled through for a more detailed analysis for dust particles. The fourth and final phase of this project will concern itself with seeking better means of checking and calibration of dust sampling. Most of the sampling now employed extensively in the 1930's and 1940's, and Fryrear said that recent studies here have cast doubts on the efficiency of the method. If it is to do more than half accurate, a few experiments seem to hint, then the problem of moving soil particles could be twice as bad as studies have indicated.

The particulate studies will move to the Sahara Desert next year. There are researchers who think that the movement of dust particles from the Sahara have a bearing on breeding of hurricanes in the South Atlantic and Caribbean.

Dr. Wayne McCully, range scientist at Texas A & M, will conduct a series of studies in the wind tunnel here the latter part of April. A foam nozzle will be set up in the tunnel

Tech Project Is Making Use Of Wind Tunnels

The Texas Tech carrot project is making use of the local U.S. Experiment Station's tunnel to determine effect of wind on vegetable cropping. The initial studies have centered on carrots, which come on in the early season when blowing is apt to be at its worst in this area. There also will be studies with onions. Preliminary research has pointed to the possibility that strong wind may delay growth, thus adversely affecting the marketability of carrots, or that it could reduce quality.

Researchers made one discovery — carrots can stand more wind than cotton. When wind velocity is increased to the point that cotton bends far over, it never comes back; carrots, however, laid flat, will straighten up and resume growth. Winds up to 30 mph have been induced in the tunnel for varying lengths of times. All of this may relate to

PEOPLE ARE LOOKING FOR A POPULIST CENTER?

American Two-Party Dream A Blurred Vision

By JOHN S. LANG Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's two-party system is sick and likely dying of self-inflicted wounds, the result of a suicidal struggle between ideological twins for the same votes.

These seemingly incompatible forces. The common ground they share is an old-fashioned populism; programs that, in effect, demand a redistribution of wealth.

million in 1960. And it is this trend over a long term which frightens party politicians. "It all goes basically to the fact people don't think too much of us so-called politicians," says Leonard W. Hall, longtime power in the Republican party and National Committee chairman under President Eisenhower.

Our response to the challenge internally is to insure that this party is totally reformed and democratized. If we do not reform, this party will perish, and consequently so will the system.

in November. But even Democratic growth has not kept pace with soaring numbers of independents. Such studies cause Leonard Hall to wonder whether a party must at some point die, its followers to regroup under a new name and structure and with new ideals.

"This is the first time in well over a century that the independent sector has been as large as one of the two main parties," Dutton writes in an article for the U.S. Information Service.

Clark Clifford, longtime adviser to Democratic presidents and secretary of Defense under President Johnson, says: "It is entirely possible as time goes on and erosion continues, it will reach the point our system will operate so poorly that a drive must develop to recreate interest in the parties."

Big Spring High Band Facing Giant Challenge

In its five years of running, the Big Spring High School band's spectacular musical, has faced big challenges. Monday it embarks upon its biggest of all. This means shuttling a cast and crew of some 180 members, plus truck loads of instruments, costumes, props and scenery to Austin where the show will be produced for some 1,800 or more delegates to the Texas Association of Student Councils.

CR-72, under direction of Bill Bradley, high school band director, was selected as the convention entertainment Wednesday evening in honor of Sam Chappell, president of the Big Spring council and therefore president of the state association this year.

Despite a midnight bed check, band members have to be up early to make a rehearsal Tuesday morning of the parking lot of the motel where they will be staying. Wednesday afternoon they get possession of the Austin coliseum stage at 1 p.m. for two hours of feverish preparation for the evening's extravaganza.

GOP CANDIDATE FAY SAYS: Cleaning Up The Mess In Austin Major Issue

"Cleaning up the mess in Austin is by far the major issue of this campaign," said Albert Fay, GOP candidate for the gubernatorial nomination for governor. Fay spoke to newsmen on a visit to Big Spring Friday and later attended a reception in his honor held by Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Mays.

"That's the main reason I think that a Republican will be elected in November," said Fay. "There are a lot of people, including Democrats, that don't want this kind of thing to happen again."

Need For Hospital, More Softball Fields Cited

DEAR EDITOR:

My family and I moved to Big Spring last August from a large city back east. It had the best in medical facilities and the services. It is quite a different story here in Big Spring, where if you use the word "adequate" you are going overboard. In the past few weeks the opportunity has presented itself with the chance for Big Spring getting additional medical facilities, of which the city and county are in dire need.

I have noticed and heard voiced opposition to the proposal. It seems as though this is made up of older people and those others that are ignorant of the facts. They do not want to advance in this field, it seems, but they, on the other hand, want the best when it comes to automobiles, homes, boats, television sets and such. They are willing to sacrifice their health, their loved ones and any others who need the best medical services.

Then there are those who intend to die suddenly and therefore won't need any medical help or who have plenty of time and money to go to Lubbock or Dallas for treatment.

I have just admitted my three-year-old son to a hospital here in Big Spring and there wasn't a room to put him in. You know where he is? In the hall, that's right, where it is costing me the same as a semi-private room.

Is this what you deadheads want? Well, I hope that every one of you out there who feel that way, either you or some of your families — have to spend a week in the hall where everybody in town can walk by and see you.

TO THE EDITOR:
Another year has passed, and this city does not have a playfield for slow pitch softball — not that a lot of people haven't tried to get a field, but apparently from a lack of desire on the part of the City of Big Spring.

As a member of the Parks and Recreation Board, I have suggested on several occasions to the other members of the Parks and Recreation Board about revamping the present Comanche Trail Park Softball Field to accommodate both fast pitch and slow pitch softball, but I have not met with much enthusiasm from the other members of the board.

My suggestion would take out the tennis court (the city recently acquired two at the Cosden Club) adjacent to the left field, remove the large elm tree in center field, remove, if necessary, one of the croquet courts, and move the field fence back to approximately 265 feet from home plate. I would also move home plate 20 feet from best in medical facilities and the services. It is quite a different story here in Big Spring, where if you use the word "adequate" you are going overboard. frustration because invariably, somehow, there is quite a lot of my bag contents strewn around the cans when the truck leaves. I've watched, and I've yet to see how this happens. But I don't see why I should have to clean up the alley behind my home twice a week when I go to the extra expense and time to try to confine my garbage to plastic bags.

If someone will hear this complaint and try to improve this situation, I'll be most grateful.

OOPS, WRONG NUMBER

'She' Is Programmed To Say 'No' To Cheats

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A computer programmed to say "no" in a feminine voice has been enlisted by the telephone company to stop fraudulent credit card calls.

The computer, in a secret location in California, has prevented completion of some 80,000 bogus credit card calls since it began tipping off operators in January, says Ben Dial, assistant vice president for operations at Pacific Telephone Co.

The only equipment of its kind in the United States, the computer was developed to combat a mounting credit card fraud problem in California, Dial said in an interview.

SHE'LL STOP IT
"We had an immense amount of credit card fraud last year — about half a million dollars worth a month," he said. "This machine will put a stop to it," he said.

When a credit card call is placed, the operator key-punches the card number into the computer circuit. If the number checks out, the operator hears a recorded female voice say: "Okay." If the number is a phony, the voice says: "No," repeats the number and says "No" again.

The process takes 22 seconds. A caller who gives a false card number is offered the option of paying for the call or hanging up.

Pacific Telephone was hit with a surge of credit card fakery in 1971 when underground newspapers published suggestions for making up credit card numbers. Bogus calls worth $6 million were placed, mostly at coin tele-phones.

"We had to stop it at the source because once a fraudulent call is placed, you don't find out about it for some time," Dial said.

'I WANT TO SEE MY RELATIVES'
Berlin Wall Opens Wednesday

By HUBERT J. ERB
Associated Press Writer
BERLIN (AP) — The Berlin wall opens Wednesday and a flood tide from among West Berlin's 2.2 million is expected to flow East in the eight-day pass period over Easter.

Not since 1966 have there been seasonal wall passes. West Berliners without blood-kin among East Berlin's 1.1 million people have been shut out since 1961. All West Berliners have been barred from the East German countryside since 1962.

MY PALS
"I want to see my relatives... my friends... where I was born... where my kin lie buried" — These were the most common expressions as West Berliners made application to go East. Their trip will mark the greatest get together of East and West since Germany and Berlin were forcibly divided in 1961.

Telephone lines ran hot, telegrams increased by more than 100 per cent, the mails were flooded in preparation for a reunion long desired.

The procedures showed again how abnormal the situation remains.

The East German Communists protested about such things as reference to the "police president in Berlin" on West Berlin identity cards. For them Berlin is East Berlin and the other half is the independent state of West Berlin.

City officials, advising citizens on how to fill out Eastern application forms, said, "Write German where it asks your nationality." This was considered a victory by West Berliners in integration with the German national whole, the city's people fearing they would be turned down unless they wrote "West Berliner."

STRAINING TO GO
A postal official said there were no contacts with Eastern postal authorities. This made the processing all the harder and the people straining to go all the more nervous.

Many were uncertain what awaits them once they get through the wall. Hardship passes, issued regularly for family emergencies in East Berlin, make it possible to chart what it is like when Easterners meet Westerners after years of separation.

—A journeyman Western chimney sweep told of finding a young boy in a special "intershop" that carries Western goods for Western money only.

—A Communist party functionary, a soccer buff, tells a colleague from West Berlin, in to cover a game: "There is not much difference in the way we live. I have a television set. I send the boy out for beer. We watch soccer. The boy wants to play for the Volksarmee (club) when he is drafted, like I did. Maybe against a West German team. Why not?"

Chaplain Slated To Take Stand
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A Navy chaplain charged with conduct unbecoming an officer in an adultery court martial here is expected to testify in his own defense when trial resumes Monday.

The court martial proceedings for Cmdr. Andrew F. Jensen recessed Friday due to the illness of defense attorney Jack R. Blackmon.

Jensen, 43, has been accused by two Navy wives of having sexual relations with them. He and his wife are scheduled to take the stand Monday.

—A West Berlin police officer said his 21-year-old nephew besieged him to find a way for the youth to reach the West. "When I saw him last, before the wall," the officer said, "he was a Communist youth organization zealot."

TRAPPED BY LOVE
—An East Berlin mother of two, born in the West, trapped by the wall and love in the East, recalled how a visit by her mother turned into a nightmare. "She lost her identity card at the border," she said. "We spent most of the 24 hours he was with us trying to find

SUNDAY
GENERAL TENDENCIES: This really should be a day of rest. Only by truly living the Golden Rule, refraining from doing anything that is risky and living in accord with the highest principles you can conceive are you able to keep out of trouble, tensions and difficulties. Attending church helps also.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Improving your health is of prime importance now, so get that first, then show gratitude to one who has helped you. Then your activities for the new week will and you can accomplish a great deal. Avoid one who bickers.

AURUS (April 20 to May 20) Stop acting in such a frivolous manner and show you are a serious person with much dignity. Good pals may be in a cratchy mood, so use diplomacy and avoid arguments. Take it easy in the evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) The situation at home is rather puzzling, so study it well instead of arguing. Lending your temper to the best thing you should do. Make sure that your business affairs are working out as you want them to.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have to use much care so that you avoid accidents of all kinds now. Instead of being afraid of others, use fact instead. Try to be more active than you have been in the past. Get more done.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you forget financial troubles and concentrate on the philosophical side of life, you make this an inspiring day and p.m. Wise persons give you right ideas on how to advance in life. Listen carefully.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Although you are feeling unhappy, do not take your ire out on others but show kindness instead. Get back on the right beam. Do something about improving health and appearance as well while you have the time.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) There are situations hard to your liking but you have to do what you can. Get busy and have things the way you want them by effort on your part. Don't take on the tensions of others, either. Steer clear of friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) Show courtesies to others in your dealings with them today and make fine headway. They are in an irritable mood so don't take any chances. You do best working alone today and tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have to get those duties done today even if you think you are not in the right mood, but this can be overcome through determination. Then you get the story of higher-up meeting is fine relaxation, watching TV.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you forget the trial and just jump into the unknown, you will have trouble today tonight. Plan 21 to be more successful in the future. Study your newspaper well for ideas, ads.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have made today and avoid trouble on. Try to please mate, also. A more relaxing attitude is required to gain right results. Avoid one who is a troublemaker.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Impress an associate with your conscientious way of carrying through with promises you have made, obligations you have assumed. Steer clear of a partner who is a bundle of nerves today. Get out to visit with a good friend tonight.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Don't rely altogether on your own judgment today. Use your charm and delight others which can put you in a favorable position. You have much energy now and can complete jobs awaiting your attention. By taking health treatments you can gain renewed vitality.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Morning Later discuss how to become more productive in the future. A good time to improve your wardrobe. Do some serious thinking tonight.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You can engage in social activities and make the right connections at this time. A thoughtful gift to loved one will be cherished for a long time. Show that you truly care.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your home should be the core of your thoughts today and tonight. You are able to cleverly develop a new plan you have in mind. Do some entertaining tonight. Show that you have poise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have ideas from outsiders that can help ease your present financial condition which has been bothering you. Make the right contacts. Don't neglect to correspond with key persons.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Begin the week properly by limiting your projects to a workable level. Start in the right direction for an up trade. Journals for vital information. Show that you are well-informed.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) If you step out for entertainment tonight, make sure you are not looking up the wrong people. Show that you have poise, understanding and advancement. Stop being such a timid person.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) Follow through with ideas that advisers give you for finest results instead of relying solely on your own thoughts. A person you like needs help, so give it. Show that you are wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) Come to a fine agreement with associates in a mutual undertaking. Showing gratitude to a loved friend is a fine done favor for you. Be wise. Do some entertaining tonight that is not expensive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Engage in an activity that can help you achieve a long dream and give you prestige with the public. You get support from higher-up in civic undertakings. Show that you have ability.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are looking for a good partner today that you have been looking forward to seeing. Mutual good comes from communicating with out-of-towners helps mutual affairs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have work to do that needs an enthusiastic approach to attain best results. Forget the social tonight. Relax at home instead.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Take the initiative with associates and find they will cooperate with you more willingly. You have to do the spurring around. If since was the other way around. Think constructively.

Fundamental Truths Of Christianity
GOD'S WORD AS A DISCERNER OF HEARTS

In the startling words of Hebrews 4:12, the apostle declares the power of God's word and concluding says it "is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart." Nothing in all this world is more wonderful than the living, literal word of Christ! It is probably underestimated even by those among us who believe it and preach it every day.

In this unusual faculty of a "discerner," or "searcher" or critic of hearts, we behold the Word as an intelligent being with power to see into the secret recesses of our hearts and lives. We go to other books to learn of other men, but we go to the Bible to learn about ourselves. This book seems to know all about us, lays bare the deepest secrets of our hearts and shows us thoughts and intents we probably never knew existed. It reveals man to himself in a way it is difficult to describe, yet it is a faithful mirror reflecting us as we really are; then it counsels us, reproves, exhorts, guides, and enlightens.

The multitudes turning to the Word in these troublous times is evidence of its comfort and power. Instead of being critics of the Bible, as many of them were, the time seems to be at hand when the critics shall be brought low, the Lord shall be exalted and the Word of God shall judge the critics. Meanwhile the living Word shall continue to be the discerning companion of all who resort to it for help and comfort.

The Bible never seems like an old book, an oriental book written in a language now dead. It seems new and fresh and in one writer's words "as much alive as if it had hands and feet." As the children of Adam's race are born into the world, this Word of Christ seems waiting for them, as a heavenly guide to lead them into, and then along the highway of our King, Jesus Christ the Lord. The "word of his grace" adapts itself to thus to each succeeding generation, revealing man to himself and God unto man and is abundantly able to build us up and give us "an inheritance among all them which are sanctified." (Acts 20:32.)

"Ye shall not add unto the word which I command you, neither shall ye diminish ought from it, that ye may keep the commandments of the Lord your God which I command you." (Deut. 4:2.)

Radio Liberty Giggled Daily By Red Press

MOSCOW (AP) — The controlled Soviet press says Radio Liberty "poisons the airwaves with lies and deceptions." A Russian dissident calls it a "human voice" that rises above "the official ravings" to find "response in the heart of every honest man in Russia."

Those are the opposing Soviet views on the Munich-based radio station that uses U.S. government funds to broadcast Russian language news and commentary to the Soviet Union. Radio Liberty and Radio Free Europe, which broadcasts to the other Communist-ruled nations of Eastern Europe, were under heavy attack this week in Washington and Bonn from U.S. and West German lawmakers who want to close them as "relics of the Cold War."

In a compromise, the U.S. Congress granted the stations funds only until June 30 with the understanding that a separate bill for future financing will be taken up later.

Almost daily, the Soviet press condemns the stations as "radio pirates" and praises their leading American critic, U.S. Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., as a "progressive thinker."

Moscow's small dissident community meanwhile circled clandestinely its views on Radio Liberty's importance to the Russian people. The letter said: "In Moscow apartments, in rural huts, in the steppes of Central Asia, in the Siberian Taiga, a voice is heard, a human voice speaking in Russian, which differs so much from the official ravings in Soviet jargon: Radio Liberty speaking."

"It reaches every nook and cranny of the country and finds a response in the heart of every honest man in Russia," continued the letter signed by Gherman Smirnovsky, identified as a physicist not previously involved in dissident activities.

"From Radio Liberty," the letter said "one can learn things the party bosses concealed from the people during the course of their reign: the truth about the political trials of the 1930s, the true face of Lenin and his supporters, and the great heritage of literature, philosophy and social sciences kept in locked rooms of libraries."

Smirnovsky credited Radio Liberty with making the largest outside contribution to efforts of the small group of Russian dissidents to publicize alleged injustice in their country.

RUSSIAN CARTOON ATTACKS RADIO LIBERTY — This is a cartoon published in Moscow's Literary Gazette, depicting a Communist view of Western short-wave radio stations which broadcast to Eastern Europe. The three serpents are labeled Monopolies, Pentagon, and CIA respectively. The radio set is marked: Radio Free Europe. A debate is in progress in Russia between the controlled Soviet Media and dissidents, opposite ends of the Russian political spectrum, as to the veracity of the broadcasts. At center of the controversy is Radio Liberty, which uses U.S. government funds to broadcast Russian language news and commentary from a Munich-based radio station.

Council Pursues Need Of Second Juvenile Officer

An increase this year in the amount of juvenile delinquent cases, involving young females, has caused the local juvenile board to study the possibility of an assistant juvenile probation officer in the city.

Within only the first three months of this year there have been 35 juvenile females counseled in the juvenile department. The number is half of the total number of juvenile females handled in 1971.

"No one has the reason for the increased cases involving young girls, but Big Spring and Howard County's problems are not unique," said Keith Jones, county juvenile officer. He said offices all over the nation are having similar problems.

Jones said Thursday the workload on the department was heavy enough before the increase but "now it has come to the point that deliberations on hiring additional personnel for the department can be put off no longer."

ONE AND A HALF
The juvenile department has only one full-time employee — Jones, and a secretary who is shared with another office in the courthouse.

"Many times we have had parents and their children sitting in the front office until 7 and 8 at night, waiting to see the one juvenile officer," said Jones.

Jones said several lawyers have become interested in the problem locally, and so have many other people. He credited the upturn of interest with the recent initiation of action by the county juvenile board.

HOW TO FINANCE?
Financing was the big question in the first meeting the board had regarding the possibility of hiring additional personnel for the office.

The juvenile office is supported by three local governmental agencies — the county, city, and Big Spring school district. Each of the agencies' representatives said his particular agency at present.

Harry Nagel, city manager, and Vance L. Chisum, police chief, both members of the board, told the council in the first meeting, there may be a possibility of federal or state grants to finance approximately 75 per cent of the funds for hiring additional personnel. This is being pursued.

MAYBE A GRANT
"The city administration is presently checking into the possibility of a Criminal Justice Council grant for a program like ours," said Nagel this week.

"We are working on this question at this time, and do feel like there is a need for an assistant probation officer for the juvenile office," said

Quality Seed Is Short This Year

LUBBOCK — The effects of the poor cotton crop in 1971 will be felt in 1972 by a lack of high quality planting seed available this spring.

Producers will have to be satisfied with lower quality seed and depend on improved management and cultural practices to overcome this built-in handicap, says Dr. Robert Metzger, Extension area cotton specialist at Lubbock.

He offers several suggestions for getting the best performance from the seed available in 1972. "Use your highest quality seed for early planting when conditions are not as favorable for emergence," he says, "save the lower quality seed for later when the soil temperature is high and other conditions are better."

He explains that a low quality seed lot may produce only 20 per cent seedling emergence if planted in late April, but can produce an acceptable stand of 70 per cent if planted after the middle of May.

"Bed planting is another practice that goes a long way in getting maximum stands from any quality seed, but is especially helpful when a farmer must use low quality seed," the agronomist says.

WARM AREA

The seedbed is not only the warmest area of the field, but it will warm up earlier than the furrow and also provides the best possible environment for germination. He also warns against planting seed too deep.

"Although seed needs to be planted in moist soil, poor quality stock cannot tolerate deep planting and soil crusting as well as seed of high quality," he adds.

Producers can also improve stands by simply increasing planting rates, although they should be careful not to overdo it. In some cases, using high planting rates to compensate for poor seed can increase seedling disease stands to less than they would be with normal rates. Metzger says that a moderate increase in planting rates will usually improve stands.

In addition, producers should be sure the poor quality seed has been carefully delinted and treated with a recommended fungicide.

Mark McCraney Is Third Medalist In 5-4A Golf

(AP WIREPHOTO)

YES, IT IS A FAIR BALL! — Umpire John Grimsley, Los Angeles Dodgers third baseman Bill Grabarkawitz and catcher Chris Cannizzaro followed St. Louis Cardinals Matty Alou's dribbler along the third base line until the ball stopped on the line and Matty Alou stopping at first base. It happened in the first inning of yesterday's game.

Mark McCraney, a senior at Big Spring High School, fired a 74 yesterday in Midland in the second round of the 5-4A golf tournament to take a third-medalist honor in the early stages of the tournament that will last three more weeks.

McCraney posted a 72 last week in Big Spring in the first round. He is defending the title which he won last year in District 5-4A. His total is 146 which is only two behind John Cargile of San Angelo, but John Adams of Midland Lee leads with a 139.

Big Spring is tied for second with San Angelo's number-one team. Both teams have a 597 total. Robert E. Lee's White team leads the 5-4A teams with a 582 total.

Other Big Spring Gold golfers are Mark Peters with a 74 for a 146 total; Robert McFaul with an 84 for a 150 total; Jimmy Stewart with a 76 for a 147 total; Bennett Robb with a 79 for a 153 total.

Big Spring's second team (Big Spring Black) stands 13th in the tournament which has 16 teams. Members of the Black team and their scores are Richard Egan with an 88 for a 165 total; Billy Crooker with a 78 for a 157 total; Mark Brown with an 80 for a 159 total; Terry Pate with a 79 for a 160 total; Grady Harris with an 87 substituting for Randy Grimes who had an 80 last week.

The Big Spring Blacks soared to a 324 total this week. They made a 315 total last week. They now total 639.

Ablene Cooper is fourth in the tournament with a 603 total.

Big Spring will travel to the Odessa links next weekend in the district tournament.

Forsan Places Third In Meet

Forsan High School placed fifth in the Grand Falls Track Meet. Forsan gathered 42 points.

Atha Reefschnider captured first in the 880 run with a 2:13 mark. James Ditmore placed second in the 220-yard dash with a 24.3 time and in the high jump with a 5-10 leap; he also notched third in the 100-yard dash with an 11.3 run.

Rudy Holguin placed fifth in the 440-yard dash with a 55.9 time. David Crooks won second in the mile by posting 5 minutes, 11 seconds.

Forsan will not travel anywhere next weekend. They will relax and prepare for the district meet April 14.

UCLA Staggers But Doesn't Fail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA's Bruins, paced by super sophomore Bill Walton, beat Florida State 81-76 Saturday afternoon for their sixth straight National Collegiate Basketball title.

The 6-foot-11 Walton scored 24 points, hauled down 20 rebounds and blocked four shots as UCLA completed its undefeated season with a 30-0 record and now has won 45 consecutive games.

Walton needed help early in the game, however, and got it from teammates Keith Wilkes and Henry Bibby after the surprising Seminoles from Florida State jumped into a 21-14 lead.

The Bruins chipped away and when Walton finally began hitting, they moved to a 50-39 half-time advantage.

Florida State, surprise semifinal winners over North Carolina, got fine outside shooting from Ron King who had a total of 27 points, Reggie Royals and Ron Harris. Royals scored 15 before fouling out with less than two minutes to play and Harris scored 16.

Wilkes tallied 22 and Bibby 18 for the Bruins.

In the consolation game for third place, North Carolina beat Louisville 105-91, as Robert McAdoo scored 30 points and Dennis Wuycik 27.

Weekly All-Star

LOCAL BASS CLUB — The Big Spring Black Bass Club is the star this week. Fishing is one of the most relaxing sports in Big Spring, and Bass Club members have paved the way in recognizing the fishing enthusiasts in town. In the left-hand picture, winners of last week's Black Bass tournament at Lake Spence held their strings. They are from the left: Doug Simpson, who placed third with a 7-pound, 9-ounce string; Jim Madden, last month's winner; Ken Lancaster, who placed second with an 8-pound, 2-ounce string; and Dale Byrd, who won the Big Bass trophy. In the picture to the right, Rusty Marten carries his winning string of fish which totaled to 9 pounds, 2 ounces to the president, Jerry Avery, for weighing in the fish. The contestants used only artificial lures. The bass club will meet the second Tuesday of every month.

Beal Is Bright Belle In Big Spring Relay

Theresa Beal, a 15-year-old sophomore from Coahoma High School, fresh from a win in the Borden County Track Relays, is one of many bright young stars who will be participating in the second annual Jaycee Permian Basin Belle Relays April 8 in Memorial Stadium.

The youngster placed fifth in the high jump in the state tournament last year. This year she is expected to win that event.

Beal won the district and regional tournaments last year. She placed first in the Big Spring tournament last year. Her best jump was a 5-4 leap at the regional meet.

She also runs the 100 and 220-yard races. She went to the state in those events last year, but she did not place. Her best time in the 100-yard race was an 11.4 at Robert Lee. Her best and broad jump teams. She played forward on the Coahoma basketball team and scored 286 points as a freshman. She made 454 points this year with 19.7 averages.

The Abilene newspaper selected her to the second team of the All-Area girls' basketball team.

Latrice West, Coahoma girls' track coach, said, "She will probably win the high jump in the state competition this year." Last year she placed fifth, but her jump was the same height as the first four girls — a 5-2 leap, but she had more misses than the other four girls.

The Jaycees expect about 350 girls from 38 teams to turn out for the tournament.

Beal holds the record in the high jump event in the Permian Basin Belle Relays with a 5-2 1/4 leap last year.

Garden City finished second in the tournament last year, and on the strength of their record this year, they will probably win the tournament. Of course, Coahoma paced by Beal will give them a run for their money.

Steers Place In Relays

The Big Spring Steers freshman track team captured third place in the Monahan Junior High School relays yesterday at Monahan.

The Steers accumulated 72 points to place third in the meet.

Jack Adams, freshman track coach at Big Spring, said, "The boys did a tremendous job. They did a lot better than they've done in earlier relays."

Stanley Wallace, a Steer freshman, established a new Monahan's record when he jumped 19-11 in the broad jump event. He easily won that event as his closest opponent was about six inches behind his leap.

Joe Rios shattered a record in the 660-yard run with a 1:32.6 time. Rios nipped a Kermit ninth grader by a fraction of a second to give Big Spring the new record.

Ricky McCormick, a Big Spring sprinter, broke the 1320-yard run record with a 3:30.1 time. He had competition from his own teammates. Rios finished second in that event with 3:32.2 and Terry Ramsey, another Big Spring, placed third with a 3:33.9 time.

Virgil Spargo captured fifth in the pole vault with a 10-6 leap, and Mike Mounce got sixth with a 10 ft. jump. Billy Don Whittington made fifth in the 230-yard hurdles with a 29.3 time. Barry Canning finished fourth in the 220-yard dash with a 24.6 effort.

Big Spring placed fourth in the 440-yard relay with a 46.9 time. Canning, Kyle Neighbors, Marceleno Rangel and Stanley Wallace were on that team. A team of Canning, Neighbors, Rangel and Whittington finished fifth in the 1320-yard run.

The freshmen go to Snyder Friday.

The city track meet featuring Runnels and Goliad begins Tuesday.

Little League Has Big Day

The Little League attracted more boys on the first day of registration than it had on that day in past years.

The four leagues reported that 630 boys had signed up for the leagues. The National League reported 210 boys signing up; the International League counted 150; the American League notched 195; the Texas League signed up 75.

The Pee-wee Leagues reported signing 92 boys. The National League reported 39, the American had 30, and the International had 23.

Jack Barber said, "These numbers are above average for the first day's turnout. We usually have about 55 per cent of the boys signing up after the first day."

The Pee-wee League is getting a strong push this year. This year three of the leagues who have Little League clubs are also supporting the Pee-wee League program. The National, American, and International leagues will sign up any eight-year-olds or below who want to play baseball.

Registration for the leagues will continue next week. Any interested boys may go to any of the league practice fields after 5:30 p.m. and sign up for either Little League or Pee-wee League.

League action will start April 22 as the American League kicks off its program. The other leagues won't start until April 24.

Steen Blasts HR As Steers Win

IN 5-4A BASEBALL

Ricky Steen blasted a home run that shot past the 365 foot mark in centerfield at the Mid-powered Midland, 9-3, as Mid-yesterday as he led the cake for the winners in yesterday's 5-4A clash.

The Steers with 10 hits overpowered Midland, 9-3 as Midland could only muster five against Big Spring's two pitchers, Steen and Earl Reynolds. Steen hurled the first three innings, but Reynolds relieved him the last four to notch the victory.

Steen, who played right field the last four innings, gathered three hits out of four times at the plate. He was credited for three runs batted in home. Pete Shaffer, Big Spring's catcher, scored twice in a game that ran in spurts.

In the first inning, the Steers connected for two runs. With two men out, Steen singled and stole second. Shaffer walked, and Thomas Brewer doubled in both of them.

Midland inched back and finally tied the Steers in the bottom of the third inning, 2-2. Then Big Spring pounded Midland and grabbed three more runs.

In that fourth inning, David Carter singled and Stevenson walked before Steen knocked the ball out of the park. The ball sailed over the Midland center fielder's head.

In the big seventh inning, Earl Reynolds walked and stole second. Steen singled to knock Reynolds home. Shaffer singled and Brewer walked. Willie Williams acted as a pinch runner for Brewer. Tommy Tune squeezed Steen home with a single bunt. Mike Gamboa singled in Shaffer and Williams.

Big Spring has an 8-6 over-all record and stands 1-1 in the district. The Steers meet Permian here Tuesday.

Nicklaus Returns To Catch Casper

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jack Nicklaus came from two strokes off the pace with a scrambling 71 Saturday and tied Billy Casper for the third-round lead in the $125,000 Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament.

Casper, the 36-hole leader, took a double bogey six on the fifth hole and had to sink a 12-foot birdie putt on the final hole to retain a share of the lead.

He and Nicklaus had 54-hole totals of 207, nine-under-par on the mild and sunny Lakewood Country Club Course.

Casper, who has led or shared the lead at each of the 18-hole stops, had a hard-earned 73 in the third round.

They held a two-stroke lead over a trio tied at 209. They were Labron Harris and Bunky Henry, each with a third-round 71, and Dave Eichelberger, who matched par 72.

South African Gary Player moved into contention with a 68 for 210. He was tied with John Lister of New Zealand, also with a 68, and Jim Colbert, 74. Colbert started the day in a tie with Nicklaus for second place but went three-over-par on the first three holes and had to rally to stay in any contention.

Defending champion Frank Beard managed a 70 but appeared to be out of title consideration at 214. Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino are not competing.

Nicklaus, the season's leading money winner with more than $97,000, held the lead alone on three separate occasions, but couldn't hold it.

He had five bogeys, including his third six of the tournament, and four birdies.

Casper, back in action after a month's rest, knocked himself out of sole control of the top spot when he took the six on the par four fifth hole.

Hindsight

By JOE HINDS

I was born and raised in Kentucky, a state which has been and probably will continue to be hung up on basketball. Probably . . .

Kentucky basketball players are fed smoked ham and beaten biscuits and are planted in the fertile basketball land so that they will grow to be over six feet.

Kentucky toddlers stack basketballs instead of blocks. When they are three times the size of the basketball, they get their first basketball goal. If you have ever been through Kentucky, you might have noticed that most Kentuckians have a television antenna and a basketball goal. Even driving through eastern Kentucky, where the tag of "Kentucky hillbilly" supposedly originated, I usually saw a television antenna and a basketball goal both of which were attached to the house.

Now, the television is for watching the basketball games, and the goal is for practicing what Kentuckians see during the televised games so that they can do better when it's their turn to be on the television.

Basketball is the biggest sport in Kentucky!

In fact, a fast basketball player is even more important than a fast woman or a horse. Kentucky basketball is steeped in tradition, and it will continue to age like a good bourbon. But whoa . . . or is that woe . . .

Suddenly basketball in Kentucky is on shaky grounds; and if the sport is losing ground in Kentucky, the reaction will probably slide into other states and cause an avalanche of disapproval for the sport.

What has caused this reversal? Dean Eagle, sports editor of "The Courier-Journal," a newspaper in Louisville, Ky., says the problem is based on two things: (1) the spoken word isn't worth much and (2) the signed contract is not ironclad any more.

Eagle wrote in his March 14th sports column: "Devaluations of the word and the contract reflect the instability of our times. Athletic empires are built on chicanery. Coaches too frequently break rules to get the big star in college, promising under-the-table cash and automobiles. The superstar is taught that rules don't apply to good athletes."

Jim McDaniels, former Western Kentucky University star, recently jumped from the American Basketball Association to the National Basketball Association.

Eagle said, "One cannot blame McDaniels for signing for more money than the average man will ever make. McDaniels had a rough life until he grew to be seven feet and started playing basketball."

"One can blame McDaniels for signing a notarized statement to the effect that he hadn't signed with the pros. McDaniels should have taken the noble way out by confessing and letting Western Kentucky University off the hook. Jim Chones didn't leave Marquette out on a limb.

"McDaniels signed and in effect did worse by his school than the point shavers of the late 1940's and early 1950's. McDaniels signed away an entire season, not just a game here and there.

"However trying McDaniels' early life, he knew right from wrong at 22. When Western asked, 'Are you sure you haven't signed Mac?', Big Mac could have covered himself with glory by saying, 'I can't do this to the people back on the Hill.'

"Mac did it to Western, the Carolina Cougars, and the ABA.

"Whether the ABA can survive remains to be seen."

Kentucky college basketball not only received a black-eye from the incident, but the Kentucky Colonels, a professional team in the ABA, are worried.

The ABA league is unstable. If Congress doesn't grant a merger with the NBA, the ABA may have financial problems.

I agree with Mr. Eagle to a point, but I think it goes deeper than that. I think the term — basketball court — suddenly has a dual meaning. On the one hand, it means the arena where the basketball player plays; but on the other hand it implies the new arena, the arena where the basketball player can squeeze more money from his ball club through legal proceedings.

Robert Woolf was the first to cry wolf. The former criminal lawyer discovered the bonanza seven years ago in Boston, Mass., when he helped Red Sox pitcher Earl Wilson negotiate a baseball contract. Woolf in a "Time" Magazine interview exclaimed after the deal was completed, "Oh wow, this is an area that's been virtually untapped."

Baseball contracts have certainly been in the news, but the basketball contract struggle is doing much more damage than the other has done or will do.

The National Basketball Association probably realized this Thursday night when they adopted a resolution that will prevent players from jumping between the NBA and the ABA.

NBA Commissioner Walter J. Kennedy said, "Hereafter the NBA will not approve any contract of a player already under contract, until there has been a final court determination that the earlier contract is invalid."

So now an ABA player trying to fatten his wallet may have to wait several years for a court decision before he can join an NBA team.

Kennedy said that the decision wouldn't affect McDaniels and Charlie Scott, another ABA league jumper.

Wooden Mixes New With Old

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Wooden faced the 1971-72 season five months ago with great raw talent and an offensive strategy he wasn't sure would work.

The results, he says, are more than he expected. His UCLA basketball team is unbeaten, winners by an average margin of better than 32 points per game this year—an NCAA record—and it's one of his youngest squads.

"I'm naturally pleased and flattered," he said when told he was named The Associated Press Coach of the Year for the fifth time, but hastily passed along most of the credit to his team.

Wooden has been able to win with small teams featuring the guard play of Walt Hazzard and Gail Goodrich; tall teams headed by Lew Alcindor, now Kareem Jabbar, and with muscular teams featuring Sidney Wicks and Curtis Rowe. His 1971-72 club was a combination.

"It was something I hadn't tried before and I wasn't sure how it would work," said the man without a losing season, as player or coach.

"What I tried to do was design an offense that combined the strongest features of the high-post and the low-post offenses. When we had Kareem, he was at the low post (close to the basket). Well, that's where I want Bill Walton to play," he said, referring to his 6-foot-11 star center, the AP's Player of the Year in college basketball.

"But when we had Sidney and Curtis, we would bring them out to the perimeter with Steve Patterson on the high post (15-18 feet from the basket). This year, we're trying to use Keith Wilkes that way and it's seemed to work.

Wooden said Wilkes, a 6-6 stringbean who's just 18, makes the high-post portion of his offense work because of his alert-

Houston Footwork Lands Super Bowl

Goldberg contends the time has come for baseball to do as much. The 1922 decision, he says, is an anachronism, particularly as franchises are switched from city to city and the last "remaining player freedom" was eradicated in 1965 when amateurs were bound to the team that chose to sign them.

Mindful, perhaps, that the high court often is unwilling to upset precedents, Goldberg offers a way around the 1922 decision: subject baseball to state antitrust laws.

Back in 1922, when it won its exemption from federal controls, baseball argued that any abuse in operation of the reserve clause could be corrected by state and local regulation, Goldberg recalls. He adds that baseball made the same argument in 1953 when its contract system again was protected by the high court.

Only one state, Wisconsin, has tried this approach—in a future effort to keep the Braves from shifting to Atlanta from Milwaukee. The Supreme Court declined to give Wisconsin a hearing.

Baseball's case will be made by Paul A. Porter, a prominent Washington attorney, former chairman of the Federal Communications Commission and an enthusiastic fan, and by Louis L. Hoynes Jr., a New York lawyer.

The heart of their argument is that the reserve system is the cornerstone of the game's structure and essential to competition and stability. Without it, they warn, the top-flight stars would flock to the wealthiest clubs in the largest cities.

The lawyers acknowledge in their brief that modification of the reserve system is likely. But the changes, they say, should come from within the "fabric of baseball"—through negotiations between the club owners and the players' union.

Record Shattered In Borden Co. Meet

GALE — Theresa Beal, a sophomore from Coahoma High School, broke the highjump record, and Garden City shattered several of the girls' relay team records yesterday in the Borden County Relays.

Garden City nipped Coahoma in the girls' division, 76-74 for the crown. Seventeen teams were entered in this division.

Robert Lee ran away with the tournament in the boys' class. Robert Lee garnered 100 points. Borden County finished second with 83. Garden City was back in that loop with 34 points to place seventh among 11 teams.

The Garden City girls' track team, perhaps one of the strongest teams in the West Texas area, broke the old 440 relay and the 880 yard relay records. It broke the 440-yarder with a 51.4 minute run which snapped Idalou's 53.6 time in 1971. Garden City clipped New Home's 1971 time of 1:54.4 with a 1:53.6 time in the 880-yard relay.

Beal crushed the old high jump record set by Richten Sands when she cleared the bar at 4'10". The old record was an inch below her clearance.

In the boys' division, Borden County broke the old 440 relay record with a 33.8 minute run. The old record was set by Laramie in 1967 when they posted a 45.1 time.

FOOTBALL CHANGED BY SEVEN YARDS

Short-Sided NFL Widens

HONOLULU (AP) — National Football League owners have changed their game by just seven yards—not even the distance of a first down. But Super Bowl coaches Tom Landry and Don Shula think that's enough to significantly aid the sport's harassed offensive units.

Four rule changes actually were adopted but the major one concerned movement of the hash marks used for the placement of the ball 3 1/2 yards more towards the center of the field on either side, or an adjustment of seven yards.

It's that seven yards Dallas Coach Landry and Miami Coach Shula feel will give the offense more maneuverability against today's mammoth defensive units, which during the last three years have been held largely responsible for a 100 touchdown dropoff in scoring.

"I think it's a step in the right direction," said Landry. "It will enable offenses to operate better. It gives you more width of the field to attack both ways—with the run and the pass. The short side has become wider, and that's the significant change."

"I think that'll open things up a little," Shula concurred. "For example, we have Paul Warfield and we didn't like him on the short side of the field. Then there's Bob Griese—a young quarterback capable of scrambling who will have more field to work in."

The first part of the change—moving the hash marks—serves the purpose of widening the field for offensive exploitation and, in theory, will aid the run, the pass and the kick. The second part of the change—uniform marking—destroys one of the keys used by some zone defenses.

Discussing the impact of making field markings uniform, Mark Duncan, the NFL's supervisor of officials, explained "that some teams used field markings as their keys" and that the change would prevent any team from getting an edge.

Coach Hank Stram of Kansas City agreed with that.

"Any time you have more consistency the better the game will be," Stram said. "It takes away anything a team might do for an advantage from a local point of view."

In other rules action: —The owners also tried to stimulate the offense by permitting punts to be run out of end zone. Previously they were an automatic touchback.

—Made two changes in penalties: the penalty for a receiver stepping out of bounds and returning to catch a pass was reduced from 15 yards and loss of down to just loss of down. The penalty for grabbing a face

Texas All-Stars Collide In Houston

AUSTIN (AP) — A coach whose teams have won three state titles will be in charge of the north squad one whose teams have had two near misses will guide the south squad at the high school all-star football game in Houston Aug. 3.

Executive vice-president L. W. McConachie of the Texas High School Coaches Association announced Wednesday that Tommy Watkins of Iowa Park would coach the north and Jack Hayes of West Columbia would coach the South.

Bill Phillips of Plainview was named coach of the North all-star squad in basketball, and Ronnie Truitt of Cypress-Fairbanks will handle the South team for the Aug. 2 game.

Watkins directed Rotan to the 1962 Class A football championship, and his Iowa Park team won the title in 1969 and was co-champion in 1970. His career record is 125 victories, 23 losses and 13 ties.

Hayes' 1967 El Campo team lost in the AAA finals to Brownwood, and his 1969 West Columbia team also lost to Brownwood in the finals. His career record is 71-26-4.

Phillips' squads in five years at Tulia and 11 at Plainview compiled a 470-88 record, and his 1971 Plainview team gained

Owner-Player Gap Widens In NFL Tiff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Relations between the National Football League owners and players is marked by mutual mistrust, lack of respect and even hostility, a group of players told Congress Thursday.

"It's sad to say but it's true," said Bill Curry of the Baltimore Colts. "Each side doubts the sincerity of the other, and I think it's dangerous for the sport."

Curry and other members of the executive committee of the NFL Players Association aired their views at a hearing by a House labor subcommittee on labor-management problems in professional sports.

They pictured the 26 NFL owners as a powerful group with almost unlimited financial resources and a paternalistic attitude toward the players, and Commissioner Pete Rozelle as a czar with total power over the players.

"The deck is stacked against the players," said John Mackey, also of the Baltimore Colts and the president of the players association.

Edward R. Garvey, executive director of the association, cited the case of quarterback Joe Kapp as an example of Rozelle's power. Garvey said Kapp was not permitted to play for the New England Patriots last year because his contract did not include a standard provision referring all matters in dispute between a player and his club to Rozelle for a binding, unappealable settlement.

Alan Page of the Minnesota Vikings and Tom Keating of the Oakland Raiders said the fact that a player can play out his contract by taking a 10 per cent pay cut for a year was not any high payment from any club that signs the newly-released mask was reduced to five yards and an automatic first down, unless in the judgment of the official the act is flagrant and then it will remain 15 yards and an automatic first down.

Padres Brush Off Cobwebs After Sleeping In Cellar

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — Speed! That's what the San Diego Padres are talking about this year.

They hope they've added enough, without sacrificing too much pitching, to scramble out of the National League West cellar for the first time since they joined the major leagues nearly four years ago.

"Speed will help us both offensively and defensively," says E. J. "Buzzie" Bavasi, Padre president and co-owner. "If we had scored exactly four runs in every game last year, we would have won 89 games. Instead, we won 61—and lost 100.

Similar sentiments come from Preston Gomez, manager of the Padres through all three of their losing years.

"This is the first year we have had the kind of speed to score without hitting the ball out of the infield," he says. That means they won't have to play for the one big inning as in years past, the Cuban-born manager adds hopefully.

The Padres hope this speed—from newcomers Derrel Thomas and John Jeter, and 1971 regulars Enzo Hernandez and Dave Campbell—will be the ingredient which has been missing in past seasons. In 1970 they hit 172 home runs and last year they were third in the league in pitching—but they again finished last.

Thomas, 21, is likely to be the Padres' starting second baseman while Bill Grief, also 21, who came in the same deal from Houston, is battling for one of the starting spots in the pitching rotation.

Blue Is Blue With Decision

By The Associated Press

Finley told a news conference that he held the last four meetings with the star pitcher at a Phoenix hotel today "and he had the contract in his hand three times."

At about the time they were scheduled to leave for the news conference, Finley said, Blue told him he wasn't ready to sign.

The winner of 24 games and of the American League Cy Young Award last season has been holding out for a $92,500 contract this year. Finley's latest public offer was $50,000.

Clay Kirby, a right-hander with a 15-13 record and 2.83 ERA last season, and first baseman Nate Colbert, 89 home runs in three seasons at San Diego, are the Padres' mainstays.

Kirby, who had a one-hitter against San Francisco last season, has one starting spot, and Steve Arlin and Fred Norman have two others. That leaves Greif, Tom Phoebus, Ed Acosta, Dick Kelley and Mike Corkins vying for the remaining starters' jobs. Al Severinsen will be on call in the bullpen.

Two players acquired during the 1971 season, center fielder Jeter and third baseman Garry Jesteadt, are counted upon to produce for a full season. Jeter, who stole 36 bases and hit .324 in the International League, finished up swatting .320 in 75 at-bats with San Diego. Jesteadt hit over .291 and gave what Gomez called the best third base defense in the team's history.

With Jeter tabbed for center field, Leron Lee, Ollie Brown, Larry Stahl and Clarence Gaston are in a crowd seeking the other two outfield positions. Gaston hit .318 in 1970 but dropped 90 points last year.

Bob Barton gives solid defense behind the plate.

WAITING FOR BELANGER — Mark Belanger, Baltimore Orioles shortstop, is out at second as he attempts to steal in sixth inning of the game with the St. Louis Cardinals in St. Petersburg Thursday. Cardinals' shortstop Ed Crowley has the ball after taking the throw from his catcher and made the tag for the out.

Focus On Baseball Season

Indians' Quiz

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Whether the Cleveland Indians can bounce back from the 1971 disaster appears to hinge on Manager Ken Aspromonte finding suitable answers to three questions.

Who will join veteran pitcher Gaylord Perry in the starting rotation and who will be with Steve Mingori in the bullpen?

Who will play shortstop?

Who will be in right field?

Pitching is the major problem for Aspromonte, who took over as manager of the Indians after the 1971 season when they tied a club record of 102 losses.

He lists Perry, who came to the Indians in the trade that sent Sam McDowell to the San Francisco Giants, as his quality starter and Mingori as his proven relief pitcher. Aspromonte is waiting the finish of the exhibition season to decide on the rest of his starters and bullpen corps.

Frank Duffy, who came to the Indians with Perry, and Jack Heidemann are leading contenders for shortstop.

Heidemann, impressive in 1970, is trying for a comeback after limited action last season. He says he has recovered from surgery on his left knee.

The three leading candidates to join newcomers Alex Johnson and Del Unser in the outfield are Ted Ford, John Lowenstein and Adolpho Phillips.

When spring training opened here last month, Aspromonte considered Perry, Steve Dunning and Vince Colbert as his first three starters.

The manager now says Milt Wilcox, a newcomer from the Cincinnati Reds, has moved ahead of Dunning.

Other prime candidates for starting roles are rookie Dick Tidrow, Ed Farmer, Jim Moyer and veteran Steve Hargan, who slipped to a 1-13 mark last season from an 11-3 record in 1970.

Eddie Leon is expected to be second basema if he can shake the back trouble that plagued him in spring training.

Others, besides Leon, Unser and Johnson, who are expected to be in the starting lineup when the season opens are Ray Fosse, the American League all-star catcher; third basemen Graig Nettles and first baseman Chris Chambliss, selected as the American League's rookie of the year in 1971.

Johnson won the 1970 American League batting title with a .328 average. He came to the Indians with catcher Jerry Moses after the 1971 season ended in exchange for outfielders Vada Pinson and Frank Baker and pitcher Alan Foster.

Aspromonte told the Indians that W-O-R-K was the key four-letter word at the Tribe camp this spring.

Fosse perhaps described the Indians' mood the best.

"Heck, we've been talking up this rah rah stuff all spring," he said. "Now it's time we do something about it. After losing 102, any kind of winning is important. We got to kill that losing attitude right now."

Angels To Forget Ugly, Rotten Year

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Attitude goes as the added ingredient this spring as the California Angels battle to forget the ignominy of 1971.

Tabbed as pennant contenders a year ago, the Angels ended in fourth place in the American League West during a season when internal battles were greater than those on the field.

Fired were General Manager Dick Walsh and field manager Lefty Phillips. The Angels lured Harry Dalton from Baltimore to become general manager and executive vice-president. Veteran Del Rice, the first player signed by the expansion club in 1969, took over as field manager.

Controversial outfielder Alex Johnson was traded. So was long-time star shortstop Jim Fregosi and the retirement of Tony Conigliaro seems permanent as he continues to suffer from an eye impairment.

"The stars are gone. The Angels appear more cohesive," Dalton says his first job was to create as much balance as possible on offense and defense, perhaps with more emphasis on the latter.

Generally conceded the man who built Baltimore into a champion, Dalton could make more trades any day. Catching and long ball hitting appear to be the needs although he says, "We wouldn't be afraid to open the season with the cast we have right now."

Right-handed pitcher Andy Messersmith won 20 games last season despite the turmoil. The year before lefty Clyde Wright won 22 and he had 16 victories in 1971.

Giants May Be Jolly But Aren't So Green

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Most of the San Francisco Giants' preseason worries are about how many runs their opponents will score.

To even things up, National League rivals know they'll have trouble holding down the Giants' scoring. Despite defensive weaknesses, Manager Charlie Fox's team should again be a Western Division contender.

Last season, the Giants made the most errors in the majors, 179.

"And even with them all, we won our division," Fox reminds everyone.

San Francisco is the only division winner of 1971 not favored to repeat this season. Los Angeles, Cincinnati and Houston seem to be the preseason choices.

But Fox thinks the Giants are better off now than they were at the start of 1971, when they shot off to a big lead and held on to edge the Dodgers by one game in baseball's wildest race.

For one thing, slugger Willie McCovey is expected to play more. He underwent knee surgery last fall, after being limited to 105 games, 18 home runs and 70 runs batted in last season.

The Giants' most important new player is Sam McDowell, the former Cleveland Indian.

San Francisco has been seeking a top left-hander for several seasons. To get McDowell, they had to give up Gaylord Perry, 16-12 last year.

McDowell will team with Juan Marichal, 18-11 in 1971, to give the Giants a strong left-right combination of starters. But the list of candidates for the third and fourth starting jobs is long.

Jerry Johnson, a strong right-handed reliever, was 12-9 last season and saved 18 games, only pitchers on the staff with more victories than Johnson.

Bobby Bonds, the 25-year-old right fielder who is blossoming into one of the game's top hitters, has been moved from No. 1 to No. 5 in the order.

Mays, forced to play 136 games because of injuries to younger players, slumped in the last half of the year but still managed a .271 average, 18 homers and 61 RBIs in his 21st big league season.

Dave Kingman, a 6-foot-6 converted outfielder, is at third base. The 23-year-old second-year player will add a lot of power to the Giants' line-up if he can handle the position.

The rest of the starting lineup should be the same as last year, although shortstop Chris Speier may be batting as a switch hitter.

Dick Dietz is back as catcher and Ken Henderson returns in left field.

John Cumberland, 9-6 last year with a 2.92 earned run average, has competition from Steve Stone, Don Carrithers, Jim Willoughby and others for starting roles on the pitching staff.

Veteran Postal Carrier To End Career On Friday

Friday afternoon, Alfred W. Moody will punch out at the United States post office here and end a long career as carrier.

He will have walked something like 15,000 miles, worn out several dozen shoes, delivered over 200 tons of mail, and furnished gnawing practice for scores of dogs.

At 70 years of age, he looks 15 to 20 years under that figure, and it is something of a testimonial that so far none has come forward to bid in his 18-mile daily walking route.

Saturday evening, under sponsorship of the National Letter Carriers Association, postal employes and wives honored Moody and his wife at a dinner at Furr's.

His postal service spans nearly a quarter of a century, 20 years of it hot footing over the western part of the city.

NEARING END OF LONG, LONG WALK

BEGAN RAILROADING
But this wasn't the way he started out. A native of Mineola in Wood County, he visited here first in 1917 and again in 1918 when his father, Fred Moody, came west for a railroad job. Alfred settled permanently in 1919 and took a job as call boy Oct. 12, stepping up to locomotive fireman in 1926. The feverish, exhausting, boom-time runs with the railroad suddenly ground to a halt in 1930 with the Depression, and the next two years found him doing whatever he could find. Then came an opportunity to become a city policeman, an occupation he followed until 1944 when he made his first association with the post office during the war-time crush.

OTHER WORK
With the close of the war, he and Mrs. Moody, the former Martha Deats, daughter of the city's second mayor, went to near San Antonio to operate a picturesque eatery with his sister. Two years later, he decided on farming at Amarillo, also taking a job with a transfer and warehouse company. In 1950 they came home, when there was an opening at the post office, and, after two years, he moved out to a route when Lloyd Kinman, the regular carrier's health, began to fail.

The distance varies from 12 1/2 miles on the shortest days and 16 miles on days when utility bills are mailed out. On it are 629 patrons, most of them warm friends of his who await his coming daily. The late Mrs.

Bert Fields watched when he went up one street and put on the coffee pot to be ready when he knocked at her door. For many oldsters, his daily call is the only visit with the outside world.

HEAVY LOADS
Scarcely does he ever leave the office of one of the several relay points with less than 35 pounds of mail in his pack. When there are samples such as hair oil, cereal, coffee, cough syrup or hair spray, or perhaps mail order catalogues, the load jumps. Weather makes no difference. He prefers summer to winter, which chills a man to the marrow. Never has he had foot trouble. His secret is in buying three pair of good walking shoes at once, rotating them (with the laces shaped in a shoe tree), and using a good wool sock.

There have been two banes of his career—the worst dogs. He has been bitten 122 times, twice bad enough to go to the doctor. Finally the department issued a spray repellent, but even so, some dogs are pretty sneaky. The other gripe he has is out-sized envelopes which necessitate special handling at the office and on the route.

LONG DAY
His day begins normally at 4:50 a.m. He is at the post office before 6 a.m., sorting mail for the route. Two hours later he is carrying his day's fare to relay boxes, then delivering and

Club Names Speech Champ

Steve McDaniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. McDaniel, 700 Tulane, is the winner of the annual oratorical contest sponsored by the Big Spring Optimists Club.

Steve won the contest Friday night at the Big Spring High School Auditorium before an audience of Optimist members and parents and friends of the six contestants. He now advances to the Optimist zone contest at Midland April 15 and the winner there competes for the $750 district scholarship.

Scott Shaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Shaver, 700 W. 16th, is first runner-up and the alternate.

Ronald E. Mercer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Mercer, 1718 Yale, is second runner-up.

All three youths and their parents will be guests at the regular meeting of the Optimists Wednesday at 7 a.m. and will be presented with certificates and Steve will present his winning speech.

"Our Challenge — Involvement," was the topic for the contest, which is open to all junior and senior high boys under 16 years of age who attend any public or private school in the Big Spring area.

Each boy was required to compose his own four-to-five minute speech. Lt. Col. Kenneth D. Summy, chaplain at Webb AFB, was timekeeper for Friday's contest.

"I was quite impressed with the maturity the boys showed in their presentations and so were the judges," said John H. Bennett, chairman for the local contest.

Sidney Clark, president of the local Optimists Club, was master of ceremonies, and judges for the event were Dan Shockey, speech and drama instructor at Howard County Junior College; Leslie Kelley, instructor at HCJC; and Jim Holmes, principal of Kentwood Elementary.

ITT Inquiry Spotlight Swings To Dita Beard

WASHINGTON (AP) — As a Senate subcommittee prepared to question her at a Denver hospital, the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. produced evidence Saturday designed to discredit a memo attributed to ailing lobbyist Dita Beard.

ITT said chemical analysis indicated that the memorandum, published last month by columnist Jack Anderson, was prepared early this year, not last summer as alleged by Anderson.

MEMO INFO
The memo links the Justice Department's decision to drop three antitrust suits against ITT with the company's pledge to help underwrite the 1972 Republican convention, a charge denied by both ITT and Justice.

Comparison of the memo published by Anderson and other material produced in Mrs. Beard's office, ITT said, "points to a period around January 1972 as the most likely time when the alleged June 25, 1971, memorandum released by Anderson was typed."

ITT said its tests were conducted by Pearl Tytell of New York and Dr. Walter C. McCrone of Chicago, described by ITT as "experts in the field of questioned documents."

The FBI said Friday that its tests indicated that both the memo published by Anderson and the one made public by ITT were typed on Mrs. Beard's typewriter.

Anderson, meanwhile, released the results of a lie-detector test taken by associate Brit Hume, who has claimed that Mrs. Beard conceded the authenticity of the memo published by Anderson before it was published.

Anderson said the test showed Hume's account of his interview with Mrs. Beard was truthful.

Anderson said in a letter to Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., that he had asked Hume to take the test because Mrs. Beard's denunciation of the memo "has raised the prospect that her testimony will conflict with that given your committee by my associate."

NO COMMENT
Mrs. Beard, under treatment for a heart ailment, has made no comment on the controversy, except for a statement issued through a lawyer describing the memo published by Anderson as a hoax.

A seven-man Senate Judiciary subcommittee will question her for three days, beginning Sunday, in a special lounge on the ground floor of the Rocky Mountain Osteopathic Hospital in Denver.

C-D Items Repaired

Annual inventory-audit and the replacement of all radiological instruments for training and monitoring for Big Spring, Howard County and Webb AFB have been completed by the Big Spring-Howard County Department of Civil Defense this week.

New, complete sets have been installed, and the replaced sets are shipped to the Radiological Maintenance Shops, Texas State Health Department, Austin, for recalibration and use elsewhere by the Office of Civil Defense in Texas.

W. D. Berry, local civil defense director, said the change-out consisted of 165 sets, including two training sets, all valued at $7,865.80.

J. B. Latham, of the state defense office, was the auditor and inspector.

Berry said the equipment belongs to the federal government, and the system of operation assures the local department of having up-to-date and dependable radiation monitoring sets and equipment.

Trustees Book Special Session

The Big Spring Independent School District Board of Trustees will meet in special session at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the board room at 708 Eleventh Place.

The board will consider an amendment to the school trustee election order that will make provision for election precinct designations; amend the Title I ESEA budget to conform with state action; approve vocational work study programs; hear a report of the board committee on the youth center agreement; discuss a proposed elective program for the junior high schools and hear a report on a drug survey.

Gospel Singing Convention Set

The Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas Tri-State Gospel Singing convention will meet at Shreveport, La. April 1-2.

Singers at the 40th annual convention will include the Stamp-Baxter quartet of Dallas; the Holly Family of Houston and Jess Harper and Trio of Lufkin.

There is no admission charge to any of the sessions.

Reading Lab Demonstrated

Demonstrations of equipment and instructional techniques with the new reading laboratory at Howard County Junior College were given to area instructors Friday.

Most of the principals from the Big Spring and area schools, along with counselors and reading teachers were on hand to witness the explanation by Mrs. Wanda Reese, instructor.

If there is sufficient interest, special programs will be operated this summer for children needing remedial work or wishing to step up their reading skills. A decision will be reached around May 1 after a survey of the various schools, said Mrs. Reese.

The Technical-Vocational Division of Howard County Junior College will offer a

Okay, it got Dorothy to Oz

... But look what it did to the others.

The only tornado most people ever see is in the movies. Too bad. Films don't do justice to these vicious whirlwinds. They're the worst winds on earth, destructive, deadly, sudden.

But you don't have to see them to survive them.

When your area comes under a tornado watch from the National Weather Service, it means atmospheric conditions favor the development of tornadoes and severe thunderstorms. It means that you should watch the sky.

A tornado warning means a tornado has been detected near your community. Look for the funnel. Listen for its roar. When the tornado comes, take cover away from windows, under something solid. Curl up and protect your head and eyes.

Survive!

Down here. Under the rainbow.

Kites And Planes Tangle In Austin

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Two separate collisions of airplanes with kites have prompted city aviation director Vance Murphy to ask for a ban on kite-flying within five miles of the airport.

A Texas International jet with 59 persons aboard sucked a kite into one of its engines as it approached the airport for a landing March 19.

Murphy said the jet was grounded four hours while mechanics removed kite debris from the engine.

At almost the same time, a privately owned propeller-driven plane also tangled with a kite on its approach to the airport.

Until an ordinance can be prepared, Murphy is asking the police to help prevent high flying kites.

"I know the public is going to scream and think we are a bunch of ogres," Murphy said, "but there are federal laws concerning this."

One such law limits kite flying to under 500 feet in any area, with kite flying flatly prohibited within five miles of any airport.

Symposium For Science Pupils

Some 450 science students and teachers from Big Spring and Sands high schools will attend a Nuclear Science Symposium in the Big Spring high auditorium at 9:30 a.m. Monday.

The symposium is sponsored by Texas Electric Service Company.

Speakers on the program are Dr. E. Linn Draper Jr., assistant professor of mechanical engineering and director of the Nuclear Reactor Laboratory at the University of Texas at Austin, and H. R. Drew, vice president of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation and research director for Texas Electric.

Dr. Draper's topic will be "Nuclear Power Today," and Drew's subject will be "Energy, Man and the Environment."

Don Womack, division manager for TESCO, will preside, and John F. Smith, Big Spring high principal, also will speak.

Fems Look For Jones

CHILDRESS, Tex. (AP) — It may be like looking for a needle in a big, big haystack, but state police in this southeast panhandle city says there are two women in the area who are looking for a man named Jones.

The cops says the women stopped to help the man, an out-of-towner having car trouble. After a lift into town to obtain car service, the man who introduced himself only as Jones treated the women to dinner Friday.

But he left something behind — $360 in a wallet in the women's car, police said.

State police in Childress says the women want to return the large sum if they can only find the mysterious man named Jones, address unknown.

Women's Rights Due Texas Vote

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas may join at least three other states this spring in ratifying the "women's rights" amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The legislature will meet in special session sometime in the next three months, and the amendment probably will be submitted for ratification.

Gov. Preston Smith probably will not even need to include the matter in his special session call in order for it to get action, said Randall Wood, director of the Texas secretary of state's elections division.

Asked Thursday if he would submit the matter to the session, Smith said there was "no reason why I should not submit it."

"If someone raised a point of order and it (the amendment) was struck on that basis, I am sure he would open the call," said Wood.

Rep. Rex Braun of Houston sent Smith a telegram urging him to include the amendment in the session, indicating Braun probably would sponsor it.

"The very first thing I'm going to drop in (introduce) is that," Braun said. He said Mrs. Hermine Tobolsky of Dallas, a women's rights leader, already had asked the Texas Legislative Council to begin drafting the ratification resolution.

Braun was the house sponsor of a state constitutional amendment, which will be on the November election ballot, guaranteeing women equal rights.

Wood said the U.S. Constitutional amendment would not keep Texas from voting on the change in the state constitution. The state amendment is broader in scope.

The U.S. amendment, already ratified by the legislatures of Hawaii, Nebraska and New Hampshire, says that "equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged in the United States or any state on account of sex."

Thirty-eight states must ratify an amendment for it to take effect.

The Texas amendment says "equality under the law shall not be denied or abridged because of sex, race, color, creed or national origin." It was submitted to the voters by a 30-0 vote of the senate and a 119-25 house vote.

Today will be a day of prayer marking the beginning of National Week of Concern for Prisoners of War and Missing in Action," so proclaimed by President Richard M. Nixon.

"I call upon all the people of the United States to observe this week with such appropriate ceremonies and activities as will stir and sustain widespread concern of the missing men and prisoners, nourish the patient courage of their loved ones, and — above all — hasten the day of their safe return to home and freedom," said the President.

Mayor J. Arnold Marshall also set aside this special week, urging that all citizens make it a matter of highest priority to pray for the safety and well-being of Americans being held captive in Southeast Asia. It is a special privilege here, he pointed out, where many trained at Webb AFB and some of whom have families waiting here.

The President noted that there are "1,623 servicemen and 50 U.S. civilians who are either missing in action or being held captive by North Vietnam and its allies . . . At the end of this month, the first men to be taken prisoner will begin their ninth year in captivity, the longest internment ever endured by American fighting men. The enemy continues adamant in his refusal even to identify all Americans being held . . . to deny the Geneva Convention, flout repatriation for seriously sick and wounded prisoners . . . ignore the right to regular correspondence with their families."

Bankrupt Oil Firm Allowed To Sell Jet For $610,000

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The bankrupt Tulsa Crude Oil Purchasing Co. has been allowed to sell its jet airplane for $610,000.

A 3-bay District Court Judge Allen E. Barrow Friday authorized the sale, and appointed the proceeds.

The bulk of the money — $416,755 — would go to General Electric Credit Corp., of Dallas. Robert Graf, Inc. bought the jet for $610,000 cash. Its original list price was $762,000 and the retail value was $635,000.

The sale leaves $166,458 to add to the Tulsa Crude estate.

Several small Oklahoma oil producers forced Tulsa Crude into bankruptcy when they filed an involuntary bankruptcy proceeding last month.

Judge Barrow earlier this week placed the firm in the hands of U.S. Referee in Bankruptcy William E. Rutledge.

THERE ARE ABOUT 1,000 SMALL TRUCK EXPERTS IN AMERICA...

... They're called 'Datsun dealers'

America's number one selling small truck has a 1,440-pound capacity, a 1600 overhead cam engine, a body that just won't quit and a tailgate that says 'Datsun.'

What more could you want?

Datsun's eleven years in the American small truck market have been well spent. They've led to a nationwide computerized parts system and a factory-trained staff to install them. A record as America's number one selling small truck. And understanding of exactly how much truck is just right.

The just right truck is Datsun's L11 Hustler, with an engine that's powerful enough for highway speeds and back road hauling, but small enough for maximum operating economy. It's a truck with a big six-foot all-steel load bed—just the right size for 9 out of 10 truck owners. Its 1,440-pound gross load capacity is perfect for almost everyone's needs, from recreation to heavy labor. The just right truck is what the Datsun has been delivering for eleven years now.

THE BLA

Powder Puff Mechanics

By JO BRIGHT

When the first "Powder Puff Mechanics" course was offered last fall at Howard County Junior College, it was an experiment, but by the time the second course began this spring, it was a proven fact that women are interested in learning about the operation of their automobiles.

James Banks of Sand Springs, a master mechanic and antique car collector, is the instructor, and classes are conducted every Tuesday evening at the college. The three-hour sessions continue for six weeks.

During the course, Banks concentrates on explaining the basics of automobile mechanics (simply how an automobile operates) while stressing preventive maintenance to avoid automotive problems. Students are given an opportunity to say what areas give them the most trouble, and Banks explains reasons for the mechanical failure.

The course begins with a simple explanation of engine operation (power train, transmission, rear axle, etc.) and the following sessions include discussions of front wheel alignment and brakes, radiator cooling system and air conditioning, automobile chassis and general body care. The last class is reserved for a question and answer period.

The course has proven so popular, it will probably be offered on a regular basis at the college. Women who have completed the classes say that what they have learned will save them — time and time again — the $10 fee they paid to become a "Powder Puff Mechanic."

"AM I GETTING THROUGH?" seems to be the question in the mind of James Banks, instructor for the Powder Puff Mechanics course at Howard County Junior College as students peruse their notes.

INNER SECRETS of an automobile are not so secret any more to women drivers who are learning about preventive maintenance in the night course at HCJC. The students are, from left, Mrs. Peggy Linberg, Miss Debbie Wood, Mrs. Alvin Shroyer and Mrs. Sallie Meyers.

TIRE TROUBLES are what women drivers want to avoid, and Instructor Banks gives them advice.

THE BLACKBOARD allows James Banks to simplify the mysteries of mechanics in diagrams which are more easily understood than those in technical manuals.

HOW SO MUCH can depend on so little is explained by Banks as he shows Miss Arlene Estes, left, and Miss Gladys Burnham how a wheel bearing looks and what it does.

MRS. SANTOS LUJAN JR.

Wedding Ceremony Performed Saturday

Marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Mary Lou Billalba and Santos Lujan Jr. Saturday afternoon in the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church.

Background music was provided by Miss Verna Goswick, vocalist, accompanied by Miss Janice Majors, organist. The Rev. Louis Moeller performed the nuptials at an archway entwined with greenery and centered with a basket of gladioli.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Santos Lujan Sr., 611 N. Bell, and Mrs. Rosalia Billalba, 4210 Dixon, and the late Ruben Billalba Sr.

The bride was attired in a formal-length gown fashioned Empire-style in white organza and lined with white peau de soie. The short puff sleeves were trimmed with embroidered lace and crystals. Peau de soie trimmed the waist-length veil which was held with a cluster of white azares and small roses. She carried an arrangement of white azares.

Miss Sylvia Gamboa was maid of honor, and Mrs. Celedonio Rey of Midland was matron of honor. They wore white Empire-style gowns, floor-length with long sleeves and yellow lace trim. Bridesmaids were Miss Gloria Guevaria and Miss Margie Hernandez, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Fidel Saldivar, Mrs. Fred Holquin, Mrs. Louis Velasquez and Mrs. Melton Rangel.

The female attendants wore matching floor-length gowns of yellow double-knit accented with white and yellow trim at the waistline. They wore headbands of small yellow roses and carried bouquets of yellow roses.

BEST MAN

Serving as best man was Celedonio Rey of Midland, and groomsmen were Fidel Saldivar Sr., Fred Holquin, Louis Velasquez and Melton Rangel.

Jo Ann Deanda was flower girl, wearing a white, Empire-styled gown trimmed in white and yellow. She carried a basket of yellow rose petals. Ring bearer was Joe Albert Deanda.

The couple graduated from Big Spring High School, and she graduated from Howard County Junior College Vocational School of Nursing and attended West Texas State University.

Lujan graduated from HCCJ and received his bachelor's degree in music education from WTSU. He is assistant band director at Reagan High School, Big Lake, where the couple will reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Lujan were honored at a reception following the ceremony, in the church fellowship hall. The serving table was covered with a white cloth and centered with a tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Louis Brown and Mrs. Johnny Hernandez served, while Miss Emma Polanco presided at the guest register.

GUESTS

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Billalba Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Flores, Johnny Flores, Jimmy Flores and Mr. and Mrs. Landro Dies, all of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sosa, Mr. and Mrs. R. Rodriguez and Mr. and Mrs. Jose Aguilar, all of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Lujan, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Beardon, Big Lake; Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Estrada, Sterling City; Mrs. Mata Reyes, Martindale; Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Estrada and Mr. and Mrs. Sifredo Valderrama, all of Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Aguilar, Rankin; and Adrian Saldivar, Fidel Saldivar Jr., Virginia Lujan, Ignacio Mendoza Jr., Eugene Carillo and George Carillo, all of Canyon.

Quotable Quotes

By The Associated Press
Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"Truthfully, I prefer to stay away from the subject of women's lib. There's nothing wrong with it as long as people don't go to extremes. They lead their life and I lead mine. But winning a beauty contest does not make me a sex object."—Michelle McDonald, Miss U.S.A., in an interview.

"You have to fight very hard sometimes to keep some kind of normalcy and privacy in your life. It seems to be that the trick is to concentrate on the advantages, because to do anything else is self-defeating and negative."—Nancy Reagan, wife of the California governor, in a question-and-answer column she is writing for the Sacramento Union.

"And now maybe they won't lose so many cameramen from shock when they dolly up for a closeup of me."—Comedienne Phyllis Diller, after a face lift and a nose job.

Place Your Bets On Knit Trend

The biggest development in men's tailored clothes in several decades is probably knits — suits, sportcoats, blazers, slacks, according to the Men's Fashion Association.

The big suit and sportcoat features — wide lapels, pocket treatments, belted backs — are now available in knits.

Along with solid colors, there's variety of patterns including stripes, herringbones, plaids and checks.

Knits appear to have a distinctive feeling of their own, and can often be made to resemble other fabrics.

If a man has a favorite fabric, linen perhaps, it can be duplicated in knit. Suits of polyester doubleknits look like seersucker. Nubby looking fabrics can also be achieved in doubleknits.

The most popular colors for spring appear to be tan, brown, blue and gray. White or light colors also appear to be part of the trend.

Jackets continue to be long with two-button single breasted styles showing up often. Lapels are wide as are pocket flaps. Deep center vents seem to maintain popularity and deep side vents may be making a comeback.

'Recognition Day' Stated In Snyder

Seven members of TOPS Chapter 21 will attend an area Recognition Day in Snyder Saturday. The next local meeting of the group will be at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the YMCA, when new officers will be installed. Anyone interested in joining the club is invited to attend the meeting.

THE ARTS

CR '72 Road Show Preparing To Open In Austin Coliseum

This is the week that "CR '72", the Big Spring High School spectacular musical, will make its first appearance on the road. The entire company of more than 150, plus stage hands and the pit band, will leave after school Monday for Austin. The production is scheduled Wednesday evening in the Austin coliseum, and the challenge is tremendous. Crews have little more than two hours after convention sessions of the Texas Association of Student Councils — in which to set up all the props, and half a dozen costume changes, and be ready for curtain time. The show has been shortened a bit to hold within a two-hour limit, according to Bill Bradley, director. Dress rehearsals went well last week and band members are confident of a great show, which, in a sense, honors Sam Chappell, president, and Big Spring High, which is president of the state council this year.

Philip Spee, chairman of the exhibit, urged Permian Basin residents to help make the project a success by lending their items for the fair. For something spectacular at the Eastertide, don't forget the Kendrick Easter Pageant, on U.S. 80 between Cisco and Eastland. Like the seven before it, this pageant put on by the Kendrick family is free and will present the life of Christ from birth to the resurrection. It begins at 3:30 a.m. on the multiple stage setup, and continues to dawn. There is space to accommodate the largest crowd imaginable.

Rodegicosa graciously donated her kitchen cabinet and old bed to the museum. Mrs. Annie Phinney, Coahoma, had several hand crocheted scarves. Mrs. Dee Bennet her first electric iron. Mrs. Alfred Moody a World War I flag. Visitors included Mrs. Walter Hornaday, Austin, the former Anne Agnell, and Robert Gardland, the Quannah artist whose sketches have been on display. Connie Dunagan, Big Spring freshman, is among those included on the program of the student recital at West Texas State University in Canyon, 4 p.m. April 5 in the Fine Arts Auditorium. A pianist, Connie will play Mompou's "Cançao y Danza." Also from this area and on the program is Travis Angeli, Snyder baritone, who will sing "Deh Vieni Alla Finestra," by Mozart.

Hemphill-Wells

What causes crepey skin on the neck?

An accumulation of dead skin. This is a woman's problem only. Men remove this layer of dry skin when shaving and their necks do not become crepey. Peel-O-Matque cream treatment, a new cosmetic process, can remove this unwanted skin gently and quickly without abrasives or chemical acids. Ask about it at Hemphill-Wells Cosmetic Department.

Before You Buy....

An Information Service For Consumers BY MARGARET DANA

Those who conscientiously buy food and plan meals for their families are in for a spell of tough and careful thinking: studying the proposals being made by the Food and Drug Administration establishing nutrition guidelines on food labels.

A few food stores have anticipated this probable regulation by experimenting for some months past with their own nutritional labeling. Giant Food, Inc., for instance, began last September putting nutrition information on 10 Giant products, and shelf posters giving information on many others.

They feel their customers wanted this, asked for it, and are using it. Now, the FDA is proposing a new series of programs. The first would ask the processors of pre-cooked, frozen, "heat-and-serve" dinners to meet a specified FDA nutritional guideline, and identify the fact on the label.

An alternate proposal is that those complying with the guideline would make no reference to this on the label, but other processors not complying with the guideline would be required to state on the label that the product does not meet the guideline.

This first guideline calls for supplying minimum levels of protein, Vitamin A, thiamin, riboflavin, niacin and iron, based on whatever calories the food supplies. Under this plan each of these convenience foods must draw its items from one each of three groups of basic foods — protein from meat, poultry, fish or cheese; potatoes or rice or some other cereal-based product; and a vegetable other than potatoes.

FROZEN DINNERS
The manufacturer will be encouraged to create frozen dinners which meet that guideline, and in fact many are already doing so. I find a readiness on the part of both food processors and food stores to cooperate on this — if it is the best way, and the way most consumers want it to be done.

This first guideline program is intended of course to make sure the convenience dinner, which may supply a whole meal to a person living alone, or to members of a family in a hurry, actually supplies the nutrients to be expected of a meal. If the consumer public shows its approval, the program will doubtless be expanded to other foods — fresh fruits and vegetables, canned or frozen products, and so on.

But some careful thought about all this is necessary if you like your opinions to rest on reasoning and facts. First of the facts we should recognize is that this type of analytical testing, reporting and labeling of foods is expensive. It is bound to add to the prices of foods.

If, moreover, further systematic retesting of random samplings is maintained to make sure the product continually meets the same levels of nutrients shown in the first tests, that's going to cost more money.

Third, the fact is recognized by competent food analysts that food factors often vary quite a lot, depending on differences in season, maturity, geographic area where grown, etc.

What happens if a specific factor — such as the amount of protein, or calcium, or iron — is found to be at a certain level, but later batches from a different part of the country differ quite a bit?

Legally the product would then be mislabeled. Would different labels have to be made for each batch? And how much would this add to the cost?

What then is the possible alternative to the proposed programs if we are to raise the nutrition level of this country? Many people are troubled about the food we buy today — its purity, its quality, its cost. Mothers want to feed their children well, but wonder how to make sure they are doing so. There can be no-doubt but that more information is needed, and must be used in buying.

But there is a simple and possible alternative to this complicated program of regulation and surveillance. It is the acceptance by concerned and responsible women that a variety of foods, drawn from the four basic food groups established by experts as needed to maintain human health, shall be the guide for their meal planning and food buying.

Those four basic groups are: 1. Meat, fish, poultry and dairy protein foods; 2. Dairy products; 3. Fruits and Vegetables; 4. Cereal and Bread Products.

(Margaret Dana welcomes opinions and questions on buying and will use them in her column as rapidly as research and space permit. Personal replies are impossible due to large volume of mail from readers. Address: Margaret Dana, care of the Big Spring Herald.)

TO MARRY — Mr. and Mrs. James Everett Maxwell of DeSoto announce the engagement of their daughter, Marilyn to Patrick N. DeViney, son of Mrs. Dawson DeViney, 1745 Purdue, and the late Dr. DeViney. The wedding will be April 29 at First Baptist Church, DeSoto. Miss Maxwell graduated from DeSoto High School and Draughn's Business College. DeViney graduated from the University of Texas, receiving his architecture license in January. Both are employed with the Army and Air Force Exchange Service in Dallas.

Lady-Like Hair Styles

The lady-like look of the Colbert and Lamar era has returned in this season's hair styling. Whether it is super-short or long, hair is fitted to the head. Gleaming and dazzling with health and beauty, hair will be expertly shaped to naturally suit the personality of the wearer.

The cut still remains the most important thing and, where body or curl is needed, the body perm will be put into play, reports Helen Curtis.

The new short and curly head may sport a gardenia or two to set a romantic, nostalgic mood. Or, short and wavy locks can be worn alone accented with a barrette, or snugly under a veiled cloche. The longer looks are brushed into clusters of curls at the shoulders. A silken sweep of parted hair, in either length, uses curls and tendrils to interpret the spring and summer headlines.

Field Trip Climaxes Food Study

A field trip to a local bakery has climaxed a series of meetings of fifth grade girls from Knott 4-H Club. The theme of the study was "Be A Food Artist."

Following the tour, the girls had a picnic on Scenic Mountain, where Mrs. Vern Vigar, a guest, guided a tour pointing out historical markings.

The series was part of a foods and nutrition project concerning basic nutrition and food preparation for four food groups. Most of the meetings were held at Sands High School. Miss Sherry Mullin, Howard County home demonstration agent, assisted the girls with menu planning Monday evening.

Those who will receive certificates for the series are Linda Vera, Bella Rios, Melinda Beatty, Carol Becker, Dianna Lopez, Carol Adams, Suzanna Arismendez, Elia Robles, Sylvia Brito, Cecelia Lopez, Jill Floyd, Tammy Nichols, Carol Adams, Carolyn Rodriguez, Mary Rios and Wanda Coonce.

Teen leader for the group was Kayla Gaskins, and adults who assisted were Mrs. Joe Mac Gaskins, Mrs. Rex Zant, Mrs. Robert Brown and Mrs. J. E. Feugh.

Pastor Discusses Mission Barriers

The Rev. Johnny Mitchell discussed "Spiritual Hindrances to Mission" for the Prayer Band Circle at Mt. Bethel Baptist Church Wednesday. He said, "Excuses made to God, failure to obey God and lack of brotherly love in the heart of man are the primary hindrances of the church mission." Mrs. Beatrice Person presided, and Mrs. Mitchell became a member of the circle.

A sick child in the house? Avoid asking too often how he feels. This can cause him alarm. He'll wonder why you're showing so much attention. Should you detect any changes for the worse in his condition, try to be casual about it in front of him. Call the doctor and follow his instructions.

Miss Bednar Weds Norman G. Spangler

MRS. NORMAN GENE SPANGLER

Miss Ruth Ann Bednar and Norman Gene Spangler exchanged wedding vows before an archway entwined with greenery and white daisies at 8 p.m., Friday in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bednar, 1610 Osage.

Perry Cotham, minister of 14th and Main Church of Christ, performed the ceremony, while Miss Cindy Adams, organist, played background music.

Spangler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davis, 707 W. 13th.

The bride wore a formal-length gown fashioned in white peau de soie and overlaid with candlelight organza. The Empire bodice was accented with a bow and trimmed with seed pearls. Pearls also highlighted the high collar and cuffed sheer sleeves. She wore a shoulder-length veil attached to a cluster of lace and pearl petals and carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations.

ATTENDANTS
Mrs. Susan Blair of Dallas served her sister as matron of honor, wearing a yellow, street-length dress. James Norwood was best man, and ushers were Ray Davis and Johnny Davis, brothers of the bridegroom.

Spangler graduated from Tularosa High School in Tularosa, N.M., and attended Eastern New Mexico University. He is employed by Dickies Work Clothes Rental Service.

Mrs. Spangler is a graduate of Garden City High School and attended Howard County Junior College. She works for Big Spring Tractor Company. The couple will reside at 1807 State.

A reception honoring the couple was held in the Bednar home. The serving table was covered with a white satin cloth and overlaid with white chiffon and lace. A three-branched candelabrum entwined with ivy and white daisies centered the table. The tiered cake was topped with miniature wedding bells, and the yellow roses encircling the base of the cake were accented with white lights.

SERVING

nar, Garden City; Mrs. C. W. Bednar, Plainview; and Mrs. James Norwood.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gibbons, Mrs. T. J. Tension and Jimmy Blair, all of Dallas; Mrs. B. F. Kirk, Mrs. Tom Kropp and Miss Mary Psenck, all of San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Patton, Clyde; Mrs. Zay LeFevre, Balmorhea; Mrs. John Bednar, W. E. Bednar and children, all of Garden City; and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Spaulding, Abilene.

FOCUS ON FAMILY LIVING

Know Right Meat To Buy For Each Dish

By SHERRY MULLIN,
(County HD Agent)

Have you ever gone to the supermarket and found yourself confused by the many different names of ground beef products? Or maybe you've wondered why hamburger has so many different names.

Each of these names on the label of a package of ground meat has a distinct and different meaning. Knowing the right meat to buy for the dish you plan to serve will save you aggravation and money. It will also result in more delicious and satisfying family meals.

Federal regulations set a limit on the maximum amount of fat that can be included in products labeled "hamburger" or "ground beef" and sold as federally inspected meat.

HAMBURGER
For example, hamburger can contain up to 30 per cent fat. (This may include the addition of beef fat over and above the fat which is attached to the meat being ground.) Extenders such as non-fat dry milk, soybean products, cereals and water may not be used if the product is labeled as hamburger.

Use Of Cosmetics Is Demonstrated

Miss Joanna Patterson, a cosmetic company representative, demonstrated techniques of make-up application for the British Wives Club Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Daubney, 2502 Cheyenne.

Using Mrs. Bill Johnson as a model, Miss Patterson showed how to apply false eyelashes, make-up base, rouge, eye shadow mascara and eyeliner. She emphasized the importance of correct hand movements to preserve and stimulate the skin.

Each member was given a gift. Mrs. Herran Stanley won the attendance prize. The next meeting is at 7:30 p.m., April 6, in the home of Mrs. Robert Bauer, 132-A Dow. The art of cake baking and decorating will be shown.

Although ground beef may also contain up to 30 per cent fat, it will frequently contain less than this amount of fat. This is because only the fat which is on the beef being ground may be used for ground beef. Because of the higher fat content, hamburger may tend to shrink more in cooking than ground beef. Both hamburger and ground beef are made from boneless chunks of less tender beef, along with less popular cuts such as neck meat, flank, shank and trimmings from boned roasts. While hamburger or ground beef may be used as meat patties, they're best when served in combination with other items such as meat loaves, casseroles, meat sauces or Mexican dishes.

GROUND CHUCK
Ground chuck is meat that comes from an animal's shoulder. Chuck enjoys more popularity as a cut of meat than cuts used in hamburger or ground beef. So it's usually more expensive. It also contains less fat than hamburger or ground beef (15 to 25 per cent fat) and so shrinks less in cooking. Because of this, it's especially good for use in ground meat patties.

Ground round is simply round steak that has been ground. Because ground round contains less fat than hamburger, it may not be desirable for use in patties. However, those on low-

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

All roads are leading to home... maybe not that of the parents or the children but homes of someone... now that the Easter vacations are beginning.

A number of families are planning get-togethers this weekend and some of the local students plan to take their holidays with college friends and their families.

Anyway, as my friend Finley says, de boids is churrupin (there must be a better way to misspell that) and the sun is shining so it's bound to be a good time to have "Ya'll Come."

MISS ANN POSEY, a Texas Tech University student at Lubbock is in Houston to spend the spring break with her roommate, MISS KATHI JONES, and her Sigma Kappa Little Sister, MISS SUSAN SCHNEIDER. Ann is the daughter of MR. and MRS. W. W. POSEY.

Guests of DR. and MRS. W. A. RILEY the past week were her nephew, PVT. DON NAGEL, Mrs. Nagel and their seven-week-old son, Christopher. The Nagels were en route to Monterey, Calif., where he will be enrolled in the language school. He was until recently stationed at Killeen.

J. L. (LUKE) LeBLEU, former resident of Big Spring, has returned to his home in Houston, La., after being here several days attending to business matters.

MISS KATHY SHAW arrived last night from Nashville, Tenn., where she is serving an internship at Vanderbilt University Medical Center as a dietitian. Accompanying her here for the week is MISS JANICE DARNELL of Sheffield, Ala., who is also interning. Another guest will be Mrs. Shaw's niece, MISS MARGARET CARR, a student at A&I College in Kingsville.

Next week MISS GLORIA WATSON, a dietetics instructor at Vanderbilt will come for a week with the Shaws.

MR. and MRS. FRED STZELL and Martha Ann came last night from Garland to attend the retirement dinner for Mrs. Stitzell's father, ALFRED MOODY.

Listening to MRS. RAY CAUDILL tell about a trip is almost as much fun as going on one. She has recently returned from a 16-day Caribbean cruise with her three friends from Abilene, and they had a marvelous time. They flew to Fort Everglades, Fla., where they boarded their cruise ship. Everything was just right: The flight, the weather, the sea and especially the ship that was staffed by Germans. It was a great trip for the Texans.

MRS. J. J. WILLINGHAM and her sons, Thomas and Gary, left Friday for Tucson, Ariz., where they will visit the LARRY WILLINGHAMS and their new baby, Lauri Ann.

MRS. NANCY DOWALIBY and her son, Mark, of St. Louis, Mo., and her grandmother, MRS. WILLIAM FROWE, of Lawrence, Kan., are here to spend the week with Mrs. Dowaliby's parents, MR. and MRS. BILL McREE.

We're expecting our sons home for Easter. David plans to come Thursday from Baylor University at Waco. Tom will be in from Dallas Saturday and Gary and MISS JAN DAVIS will be in Saturday from Austin.

If you are expecting company for the Easter weekend and would like to tell about it, we'd be glad to help let the folks know. Just call me at The Herald in the morning or at home during the afternoon.

MAKE CLOTHING FIT — Among the volunteers who work behind the scenes at Big Spring State Hospital are those on the sewing project. Two days each week they have a big stack of alterations from the Fashion Shop, plus repairs of all sorts from zippers and buttons to patches. Seated, from left, are Mrs. W. A. Turner, Mrs. Justin Holmes, and Mrs. Beulah Morrison; standing, Mrs. Roy Blackwell, Mrs. Gayle Cutright and Mrs. Alberta Elam.

Seamstresses Apply The 'Stitch In Time'

Volunteer service takes many turns at the Big Spring State Hospital.

There's always something to do, such as playing musical instruments, providing recreation like bingo and dominoes and checkers, in visiting wards or one particular patient regularly, teaching grooming and homemaking skills like cooking. Others may host parties, bake cookies, decorate, wrap packages, write letters or work in the chapel.

But there are activities in which the volunteer seldom, if ever, gets to deal directly with the patient, yet contributes to the patient welfare and comfort. Such is the group of women who operate the sewing machines in the fashion shop.

When they report each Tuesday morning or Thursday afternoon, they usually have a pile of clothing sent over from the units with notes attached — "please repair zipper," "sew on button," "mend knee, etc."

Often times patients select a garment from the Fashion Shop (which is stocked with good usable clothing given by individuals and organizations) but find it will not fit properly.

Mrs. Roy Blackwell, Fashion Shop supervisor, is expert in marking the alterations necessary, or in the alternative, supplying a pattern.

Many an out-sized patient, or one requiring odd sizes, has been given good, comfortable, well-fitting clothing as a result. These expert alterations also mean that there seldom is a garment in the shop but what can be personalized for some patient.

In the group currently serving in the sewing room are Mrs. Beulah Morrison, who has been a volunteer in this capacity for about 20 years, and Mrs. Justin Holmes, who has been volunteering in the sewing room for 12 years. Others include Mrs. Alberta Elam and Mrs. H. T. Page, who have each put in seven years; Mrs. W. A. Turner, Mrs. Johnnie Hughes and Mrs. Marple Cutright who have put in four years each, and others.

District THDA Meeting To Focus On Safety, Youth, Cultural Arts

Workshops on safety, youth and cultural arts will be included Tuesday in the spring meeting of District 2, Texas Home Demonstration Association, in Plainview.

The keynote address for the conference will be given by Dr. C. L. Kay, vice president of Lubbock Christian College and a well-known West Texas speaker. Mrs. Welton Blair is district director for the THDA.

The program will begin with registration at 9 a.m. in the Haral Memorial Auditorium of Wayland Baptist College. In addition to the presentation by Dr. Kay, a message from the state THDA board of directors will be given by Mrs. Walter Hurd of Brady, state secretary.

Three workshops will be conducted during the conference. The Floyd County home demonstration clubs will be in charge of a safety seminar, which will feature a Texas highway patrolman as speaker. Ed Garnett, area 4-H and youth specialist, will be part of a 4-H workshop by the Gaines County clubs. The Lubbock County clubs will cover cultural arts and recreation. Mrs. Roy Bass of Lubbock will participate in that seminar.

"Women who have been members for more than 50 years will also be recognized at the meeting," Mrs. Blair said.

The meeting will draw delegates, visitors and Extension personnel from 18 South Plains counties. The afternoon session will include election of a district director who serves on the state THDA board for 1972-73.

There will be 20 women attending from Howard County. Elected delegates from the county are Mrs. Alden Ryan, Center Point HD Club; Mrs. Ross Callihan, City HD Club; and Mrs. Waymon Etchison, Lomax HD Club. Mrs. Ryan is chairman of elections for the meeting.

MRS. KEITH RANDAL PHERIGO

Couple United In Marriage

Marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Susan Muriel Balzer and Keith Randal Pherigo at 6:30 p.m. Friday in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Tom C. Montgomery, the bride's uncle and aunt, 807 W. 14th.

Dr. Jimmy D. Law, pastor of College Baptist Church, performed the nuptials at an improvised altar enhanced with an arrangement of white gladioli, white pompon mums, and palms of emerald foliage.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Larry T. Pherigo, of Coahoma, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford I. Balzer, Route 1. Recorded organ selections provided a musical background.

The bride was attired in a white, street-length dress fashioned with a princess waistline and a lace-trimmed collar. An embroidered lace inset accented the bodice. Her headpiece was a white bow with miniature rosebuds on back streamers. She carried a cascade of white stephanotis centered with blue carnations and highlighted with blue and white satin streamers. Miss Janet Balzer served her sister as maid of honor. She wore a powder blue, street-length dress with a fitted waist and covered buttons accenting the bodice. The sleeveless dress featured a V-neckline. She carried a miniature bouquet of mixed daisies and feathered blue carnations.

W. Wayne Morris of Sand Springs was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Pherigo will make their home in Coahoma, where he is employed by Built-Rite Pallet Company. They are both seniors at Coahoma High School.

A reception was held in the Montgomery home following the ceremony. The refreshment table was covered with a blue cloth and overlaid with white net. Assorted flowers were arranged on a five-branched candelabrum, and crystal and silver appointments were used. Serving were Miss Terri Wolf and Miss Pam Baker, both of Coahoma.

ABWA Chapter Notes Twelfth Anniversary

The 12th anniversary year of Cactus Chapter, American Business Women's Association was observed Tuesday during a salad supper in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

Mrs. Arthur Wadle presided, and the invocation was by Mrs. James Abbe. A program, given by past presidents, was a panel discussion concerning business procedure of the national ABWA organization. Those participating were Mrs. C. O. Trantham, Mrs. Doug Price, Mrs. Charles Hans, Mrs. Boone Horne, Mrs. A. C. Moore and Miss Eunice Hickson.

The vocational talk was given by Mrs. Wadle who is a bookkeeper for Harding Well Service.

Mrs. Evelyn Delatour, chairman for the recent semi-annual tea, reported that nine new members were enrolled at the tea. Mrs. Ernest Bauch and Mrs. J. C. Rogers were named team captains for an attendance contest. Selected to represent the chapter at the regional convention this weekend in Houston were Mrs. Owen McComb, vice president; Mrs. Trantham and Miss Hickson.

Six new members were installed. They were Miss Mary J. Perdue, Mrs. J. D. Thomas, Mrs. Robert Sparks, Mrs. Roddy Max Pitts, Mrs. J. H. Duke and Miss Betty Jane King.

Guests were Miss Mary Curtis, Miss Ramona Molina, Mrs. Barbara Martin, Mrs. Clint H. Henry, Mrs. Bernard Young, Mrs. B. F. Barnhill and Mrs. Delana Shaw. The benediction was by Mrs. Bob Clark.

Nuptial Rites Held Saturday

Miss Gladys Hardy of Big Spring, and Dr. C. G. Carter of Granbury, were united in marriage Saturday by the Rev. J. C. Hood of Lipan. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Musick of Tolar were the attendants. Mrs. Musick is the bridegroom's niece.

Women's Lib In U.S. Criticized

Barbara Castle, a leading American politician, says the American women's liberation movement is wasting its time on "petty peripheral trivialities." She pointed to Bernadette Devlin, the Irish civil rights leader, as an example of the truly liberated woman. Mrs. Castle has been a Labor member of the House of Commons since 1945 and minister of transport between 1965 and 1968. She said that Miss Devlin faced hostile conventional attitudes when she was elected to Parliament. "She broke down those attitudes not by campaigning for women, but by campaigning for the civil rights of her whole oppressed community," Mrs. Castle said. She urged women to "find a cause bigger than themselves." "The challenges facing our society today are so big and exciting that this is the moment for women to be widening their horizons, not narrowing them," Mrs. Castle said. "Let us get ourselves obsessed with something bigger than sexual politics."

Water Minerals Cause Problems

Calcium and magnesium in hard water can cause many problems for the homeowner says Hobart Mitchell, general manager of Culligan Water Conditioning of Houston, Inc. These minerals create a gummy curd when soap is used in the water and thus dull all washing operations in the home. They shorten the life of fabrics and deposit a scale on metals which will cut shorter the efficient life of cooking utensils, pipes and water heaters. When a water softening unit is connected to the household plumbing, calcium and magnesium are removed before the water comes out of the taps in the kitchen, laundry or bathroom.

Scouting Matures

Girl Scouting helps today's girls assume leadership roles and execute community service with increasing maturity and good judgment.

Mrs. Carter is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University, did graduate work in several universities in Texas and Washington and Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in California. She taught a number of years in Texas and Washington and is a life member of the Texas State Teachers' Association.

For several summers, she did mission work under the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board in Florida, Texas, Alaska, Oregon, New Jersey and New York. She was a field worker for the Baptist Training Union Department of Texas and elementary director in a Baptist church.

Since 1969, Mrs. Carter has been listed in "Personalities of the South". In 1971, she was included in "Two Thousand Women of the World," printed in Great Britain. She is a past member of International Platform Association, B&PW and AAUW.

Mrs. Carter was honored with a luncheon at the Vintage Tea Room in Abilene in February. Hostesses were Mrs. L. H. Beckham and Mrs. R. M. Fielder. The Genealogical Society of the Big Spring, Inc., had a dinner in her honor, March 17, at Cokers Restaurant. The Berta Beckett, Bethany, TEL, B y k o t a and Lydia Classes of First Baptist Church honored Mrs. Carter with a tea March 18 in the home of Mrs. J. C. Ebersole.

Dr. Carter is a graduate of Cornelius Normal Musical Institute, Decatur Baptist College, Oklahoma Baptist University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Ft. Worth. He has served as pastor of churches in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas; as missionary on the Amazon in Brazil and Peru; as district missionary in Texas; and as superintendent of missions under the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention in El Paso, Corpus Christi and San Antonio. For eleven years before retirement, he was president of the Mexican Baptist Bible Institute in San Antonio.

Dr. Carter is author and composer of several songs in both English and Spanish, including the anthem of the Mexican Baptist Bible Institute.

Dr. and Mrs. Carter will be at home after April 1, at 806 W. Elizabeth Blvd., Granbury, Texas 76048.

Sandals, Pumps In Fashions Footholds

By MARY SUE MILLER

Ready and able to accessorize your spring smasher — a haberdasher suit, or wrapped coat, or pleated dress — are new American Leather shoes and handbags.

There's a complementary range of shoe styles encompassing the pump, sandal and tie. Pumps re-establish a fashion foothold with traditional d'Orsay cuts, scalloping and draping.

In sandals, interest focuses on the strapping — instep, T, sling and ankle straps. Many sandals are furnished with platforms, wedges and open toes. Tied shoes, ghillies and spec oxfords, walk with superior comfort on stacked heels and porous leather linings.

Smooth leathers and suedes form the primary textures. Alone or in combination, reptile, embossed and real patent leathers offer the season's quality look. Colors endorse clothing colors — the naturals such as bamboo and chamois, the neutrals such as navy, clear red, browns and black.

Either to blend or match, handbags take their cue from shoes. Pouchy shoulder bags still rate, but envelopes and clutches go hand-in-hand with Easter finery. So very fine this season!

According to the Leather Industries of America, value as well as variety is in U.S. tanned leather. The price gap between domestic and foreign goods has closed. Thus, when you buy American you get your money's worth. You help to support the national economy to boot!

LEGLINE TRIMMERS
If your individual problem is heavy legs, send for my new leaflet, "Legline Trimmers," which contains spot reducing exercises that will meet your individual needs, whether for thighs, knees, calves or ankles, or for contouring your entire legline. Write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin.

Statistical Edge Begins To Fade

While it is true that men are more prone to heart attacks than women, this statistical edge for women begins to fade as they grow older. Says the Institute of Life Insurance: "After menopause, women begin to gain on men in probability of a heart attack. By age 70 the two sexes are almost equally susceptible."

Kay LeVier Marries Johnnie Leon Hobbs

Miss Frances Kay LeVier and Johnnie Leon Hobbs were united in marriage March 17 at First Christian Church, with the Rev. John R. Beard officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie A. Hobbs, 2115 Carl, and Mr. and Mrs. Willis LeVier, 2208 Morrison.

The couple stood at an altar flanked with matching arrangements of assorted spring flowers in brass containers.

The bride wore a street-length dress fashioned Empire-style in white knit. Re-embroidered lace formed the bodice, and tucks provided slight fullness at the top of the long sleeves which ended with deep ruffled cuffs. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with orchids.

Miss Amy Dee LeVier, the bride's sister, served as maid of honor, wearing a street-length, lilac knit dress with long cuffed sleeves. Her flowers were a cascade of white carnations with tints of orchid.

Phillip Larry Talson of Beaumont, formerly of Big Spring, was best man.

Following a trip to Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs are making their home at 1604 Stadium. Mrs. Hobbs is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attends Howard County Junior College, where she is a cheerleader and member of the student senate. Hobbs graduated from Forsan High School and attended HCCJ and Lamar Tech.

A reception honored the couple in the home of the bride's parents. The refreshment table was covered with a white embroidered linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of white daisies in a milk glass container. The tiered cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and silver and crystal appointments were used. Mrs. Jesse Hall of Ralls, serving were Miss Anita the bridegroom's grandparents; Hobbs, Mrs. Roger LeVier and Mrs. O. H. Thompson of Moss Jer-le Tonn. Durant, Okla., the bride's grandmother.

Denim blue, striped, checked or patterned like a palomino pony, it's still mink, the aristocratic, super-democratic for that's as appropriate for shopping at the supermarket as it is for reviewing the ranks from the royal box. Fur fads exist of course; skins that are the absolute rage one year may be completely out of phase just one season later.

Consumers Will Benefit From Reading Product Labels

Five area home demonstration clubs held regular meetings during the week, all concentrating on the study of product labeling and what service it provides to the consumer.

AIRPORT CLUB

"Label, label on the can, tell me so I'll understand, What's inside, how much, and more; or I will buy another brand."

This lyric began the program, "It's the Label that Counts," presented by Mrs. Raymond Key Tuesday for Airport Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. B. A. Bunn, 507 E. 15th.

Mrs. Key said ingredients listed on a label must be given in order of predominance. She said it is important to read labels "in order to assure you are buying what you think you are buying." A thrifty homemaker will compare price and quantity. Mrs. Key said women learn to identify particular brands with their family's tastes.

Mrs. Delton Jones, a guest, won the attendance prize. The next meeting will be at 1:30 p.m., April 4 in the home of Mrs. C. L. Mason, 1013 Bluebonnet. Miss Sherry Mullin, Howard County home demonstration agent, will present the program.

COLLEGE PARK CLUB

Requirements for labels on clothing, foods and appliances were discussed by Mrs. Wayne Rock and Mrs. J. C. Williams for College Park Home Demonstration Club Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Charles Mussman.

The women stressed the importance of reading labels. They said tags on clothing must name all types of fibers used in the garment and must tell what percentage of each fiber is used. Food labels must be truthful and clear to the consumer. They also emphasized that warranties and guarantees should be read prior to purchase of an appliance, and they warned against buying anything with a warranty that isn't clear. Mrs. Williams presided and a nominating committee was appointed to select a slate of officers for the coming club year.

Guests were Mrs. Franklin Rosenbaum, Mrs. Howard Stevens and Mrs. Frank Walter. The next meeting is at 9:30 a.m., April 4 at First Federal Community Room, with Mrs. Williams as hostess.

FAIRVIEW HD CLUB

The importance of reading labels on food and clothing was stressed by Mrs. J. F. Skalicky, Mrs. E. A. Turner and Mrs. H. S. Hanson for Fairview Home Demonstration Club Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. M. Smith.

Ingredients in food products must be listed on the package in order of quantity and must include artificial coloring and preservatives. Type and amount of fiber content must be included with clothes, along with the name of the manufacturer.

Mrs. E. A. Williams presided and won the attendance prize. The next meeting is in her home at 507 E. 14th at 2 p.m., April 4.

Mirrors Used For Decorating Magic

Expand a small dining room with floor-to-ceiling strips of mirror tiles. To duplicate this effect: measure and mark painted wall area in 12-inch widths; mount 12-inch square tiles along every other vertical area, using pressure-sensitized mounting tape; add pre-tinted lengths of batten for the finishing touch.

Men Aid Scouts

most important and helpful buying guide available to consumers," said Mrs. D. D. Johnston to City Home Demonstration Club Friday at the home of Mrs. Alton Underwood, 601 E. 16th.

Mrs. Johnston said labels are helpful in showing the consumer what she is buying. They must be clear and truthful, and sometimes will offer hints for use and care of a product.

Food labels must include product name, amount of contents, name and place of business of manufacturer and all ingredients listed in order of predominance, including artificial flavoring or preservatives.

Mrs. Johnston discussed effect of advertising on shopping practices and said it is important because it tells who sells items consumers want, describes or pictures them and states their prices. Advertisements also keep the public abreast of new merchandise.

When buying an appliance, Mrs. Johnston said a buyer should know exactly what the store will do about taking back a product in case of imperfections. Warranties and guarantees should be read and understood before purchased.

Mrs. Ross Callihan presided and described the symptoms of "middle age." Devotion was by Mrs. Marvin Sewell. Plans were made for the HD arts and crafts exhibit scheduled April 12 at Highland Center Mall.

Every Room Is Living Center

Modern women, busy with rearing young children, working the "day shift" in an office and the "night shift" as a homemaker, entertaining friends and hubby's customers could rightly question today's economists who state that we will have more and more leisure time in the seventies.

Yet, it is true. Your work week may seem endless. But, nationally, your husband's work hours are shrinking. Children, too, on staggered school schedules, have more free time.

Free time means more time at home — more emphasis on home furnishings. Every room in the house must be a living center — a family affair. Gone are the days of grandma's "sitting room." Every room must be one that the entire family can use in comfort.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with beige cloth and centered with an arrangement of green and yellow flowers. Crystal appointments were used. Mrs. Neil Norred won the attendance prize.

LUTHER CLUB

Mrs. J. M. Wilson presented a program on can labels when the Luther Home Demonstration Club met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. John Couch. She stressed the importance of studying labels to get the most in weight and nutritional value. Mrs. Wilson won the hostess gift.

LUTHER CLUB

The next meeting will be April 13 in the home of Mrs. M. F. Bryant. Members were reminded of the upcoming home demonstration club exhibit at Highland Center Mall April 12.

Miss Willie Spears Marries Rex Talbott

Miss Willie Nell Spears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Spears, Garden City Rt., Big Spring, became the bride of Rex C. Talbott at 2 p.m. Saturday in a ceremony held in the First Presbyterian Church. Dr. R. Gage Lloyd was the officiant assisted by the Rev. R. Earl Price.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Talbott, 703 W. 16th.

Nuptial music was played by Mrs. John Birdwell, organist, and the wedding party stood before an altar decorated with an arrangement of white gladioli and greenery.

Talbott is attending Howard County Junior college, and his bride will be a May graduate at Garden City High School. The couple will reside in Big Spring.

WHITE GOWN

The bride was attired in a white peau de soie Empire gown with lace motifs and pearl-centered daisies accenting the front. The lace designs were repeated at the neckline and on the sleeves. Her floor-length veil of illusion was held by a veil of soie bandeau enhanced with pearl-centered daisies.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Denise Schraeder, was matron of honor, attired in a flopped turquoise gown; the front sprinkled with daisies. Her headpiece was a matching bow.

Wes Blomshied of Abilene was best man, and the ushers were Homer Lee Spears, brother of the bride, and David Talbott, brother of the bridegroom. Another brother of the bride, Terry Ray Spears, was the ring bearer. Charlene Jo Schraeder, the flower girl, wore a turquoise dress accented with daisies and carried a nosegay of white carnations.

The reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church, where the refreshment table was presided over by Miss Karen Schwartz, Miss Antonette Schraeder and Miss Paula Halfmann, all of St. Lawrence; Mrs. Kay Newsom, Sweetwater; Miss Mary Garza, Garden City; and Miss Carrie Neil.

The table was covered with a light blue cloth. The tiered wedding cake was decorated in blue and white, and a blue and white floral arrangement was flanked by matching candles. There was a chocolate groom's cake, and punch was served from two crystal bowls.

GUESTS

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. L. C. Huckaby, Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Leman Henson, Stanton; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cook, Kansas City, Kans.; Mr. and Mrs. Troy Breckenridge; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Jewell, Chester, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blomshied, Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Jody Scott, San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Newsom, Sweetwater; L. C. Soldan, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Talbott, Houston; and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Soldan Jr., Seminole.

Prior to the wedding, the bride was honored with an informal introductory coffee in the home of Mrs. F. H. Talbott, 105 Canyon Drive, the bridegroom's grandmother. The honoree received guests with her mother and her sister, Mrs. Dennis Schraeder of St. Lawrence.

Refreshments were served from a polished table centered with an arrangement of yellow spring flowers. Mrs. R. Gage Lloyd presided at the coffee service.

Spring, Summer Fashion Guides

Embroidery will make a prettier you this spring and summer as the feminine, classic look returns to the fashion scene in a big way.

Elegance and sophistication are the key words to flattering designs, softer fabrics, colors that reflect the growing Chinese influence. The ankle length skirt, so popular this season, will dominate the fashion picture for late afternoon, party, and at-home wear.

The long, elegant skirt for spring and summer entertainment and fun will rival if not spurt ahead of pantsuits. And look for embroidery to enhance the coming feminine fashions — it's bursting out all over the spring scene in appliques, lace, ruffles, panels, and all-over fabric designs.

Last Of Champs Picked, Spelling Finals Tuesday

The last of the school spelling Bee champions have been selected, and the stage is set for the county finals at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Howard County Junior College Auditorium.

Attention is called to the time for the finals — which has been advanced one day because of a conflict.

So by 5 p.m. Tuesday, the successor to Maridene Margolis should be known. Last year Maridene, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Margolis, spelled her way to the regional championship in Lubbock, then went on to take 10th place in the national finals in Washington, D.C. This was the highest that any of the Lubbock regional champions had progressed.

IN THE FAMILY

Of interest is the presence of another Margolis in this year's contest. He is Glenn Margolis, a fourth grader, and youngest of the school champions.

But there are several returning school champions such as Scott Sullivan, from Goliad; Tami Watkins of Boydston; Pauline Santos, of Lakeview.

An equally formidable obstacle are the champions from a dozen other schools.

Each of the school champions will receive a Papermate ball point pen, plus a blue ribbon. If the local winner, who also receives a plaque, places at Lubbock, he or she will receive a prize; or an expense-paid trip to Washington, if proclaimed regional champ.

OPEN TO ALL

Parents, members of the family, relatives and friends — and just anyone who is interested in the old-time virtue of good spelling is invited to witness the county finals.

Mrs. O. T. Brewster, who has served in this role for several years, again will be the pronouncer.

Any speller may ask for the pronouncer to repeat the word or to give a definition of it. He or she may retrace letters in spelling but not change the order of the letters. When a word is missed, speller retires until two are left. When one finally misses a word, the remaining one must spell the missed word, then another word. If either of these words is missed, the contest continues.

New Fair-Barn Is Open Today

Sunday, an open house will be held starting at 3 p.m. in the newly renovated Howard County Fair Barns complex at the Rodeo Bowl. This includes a new fair barn.

A new show arena, kitchen and party room areas have been constructed between the two older barns, and the two older show barns have been refurbished with the pens removed and new stalls and other equipment installed for the showing and grooming of animals.

County Judge A. G. Mitchell will cut ribbons Sunday to admit visitors into the new show arena. Music for the event will be provided by Don Toile and his band. Several local merchants and agricultural groups have set up display booths within the show barn.

Hosting the open house is the 4-H Adult Leaders Association, and association members will serve free refreshments to all visitors. J. E. Peugh, president, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Businesses and groups that will have display booths at the open house include Good Housekeeping, Dewey Ray Chrysler-Plymouth, Howard County Farm Bureau, Town & Country Shopping Center, Montgomery Wards, Northridge 4-H Club, Little Sooper of Coahoma, Clawson's Lumber Co. of Coahoma, Howard County Sheriff's Posse, Coahoma Drug, Potpourri and Curtis Implement Co.

The public is invited to attend the open house which will continue for a couple of hours.

Fix Schedule For Holy Week

St. Mary's Episcopal Church will hold Holy Communion services twice on Maundy Thursday, at 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. A noon service will be held on Good Friday, and baptisms will be performed on Easter Eve as part of the Holy Week observance.

Easter Sunday, Holy Communion will be celebrated by the Rev. Harlan Birdwell, rector of St. Mary's, at 8 a.m., 9 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

Festus Coming Back For Rodeo

Ken Curtis, who is Festus Haggin on "Gunsmoke," returns to Big Spring for the 39th annual Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo.

Charlie Creighton, president of the Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo Association, announced Saturday that the association had just completed negotiations for his appearance June 21-24, for prizes.

"Festus" stole the show last year with his crowd-pleasing act. He won the hearts of the audience by taking time to ride around the arena autographing everything from programs to paper cups.

Creighton says the 1972 program is shaping into what should be the finest in Big Spring's history. New clowns have been added, and they are expecting the finest cowboys in the state and nation to compete for prizes.

Tommy Steiner, Austin, again will serve as producer for the show.

Col. Shultz Is Air Base Chief

A graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, and who was once picked as having contributed most to academy athletics, is the new base commander at Webb.

He is Col. Harold D. Shultz, a command pilot who Friday took charge of the 3560th Air Base Group. He succeeded Col. Charles F. Walker, who is now a special assistant to the wing commander, Col. Malcolm Ryan.

During his years at West Point, Col. Shultz lettered in football in 1948, 1949 and 1950 the years West Point was ranked sixth, fourth and second nationally. He received the Army Athletic Association award, given to the member of the graduating class who has contributed most to athletics in his four years.

Col. Shultz graduated from West Point with a bachelor of science degree in military engineering and was commissioned into the Air Force in 1951. Following completion of pilot training in August 1952, he served 18 months as a fighter pilot.

From 1954-55 he was an F-86F pilot in Korea and a flight commander, also managing to complete a ground operations school in Japan. He interrupted

U.S. And Soviet Space Experts To Study Docking

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A group of Soviet engineers will meet with American space experts here next week to discuss details of a proposed U.S.-Russian compatible space docking system.

Officials said Friday the Soviet and American engineers are a small working group which will meet to work out details of the docking system.

U.S. and Soviet space times previously to discuss a compatible space rendezvous and docking system.

At their last meeting, last December in Moscow, the two groups discussed a possible joint space mission in which craft from the two countries would link up in earth orbit, allowing the crews to exchange visits between their spacecraft.

A compatible docking system would make it possible for spacecraft of either nation to rescue spacemen stranded in orbit.

In 1961 he was picked for a two year assignment to command the 10th cadet squadron, taking out to attend the Air Command Staff College. While at the latter, he completed work on his MBA degree from George Washington University.

From 1963-66, he flew the F-100D fighter with the 50th tactical wing in Hahn AB Germany, serving in numerous capacities including wing executive. Back in the United States in 1966, he put in a year on the Air Command and Staff faculty, then entered A-1 training for Southeast Asia duty which included organizing the 6th Air Commando Squadron deployed to Pleiku AB Vietnam in 1968. After 93 missions, he became executive to the director, Tactical Air Control in the 7th Air Force. Again, back home he was made part of the Corona Harvest project evaluation until February 1972. He also completed the squadron officer school and industrial college of the Armed Forces.

He holds numerous decorations such as Silver Star, Purple Heart, DGC, Air Medal, Vietnam Gallantry Cross with Palm. He and his wife, Dot, have five children; Tye, 18, Jean 15, Anne, 14, Debbie 12, Bill 10. He lists Huntington, Ind., as home; she is from Alcoa, Tenn.

Presbyterians Slate Holy Week Rites

Holy Week services are being held jointly by the First Presbyterian, St. Paul Presbyterian of Big Spring, and the First Presbyterian Church of Coahoma. The activities of the week consist of men's breakfasts, Maundy Thursday Communion, and Good Friday evening services.

The men of First Presbyterian, Big Spring, are hosting the men of St. Paul and First Church, Coahoma, at breakfast each day at 7 a.m., followed by a short devotional by ministers of the churches. Friends are invited to breakfast each morning.

St. Paul Presbyterian will host the communion service on Thursday evening when the members will meet in Fellowship Hall and take communion as they are seated around the tables. In order to accommodate the groups, the members are asked to come according to the letters of the alphabet; last names beginning with letters A through L will meet at 7:30 p.m., while names beginning with letters between M through Z will meet at 8:30 p.m.

First Presbyterian, Big Spring, will host the churches on Friday at 7:30 p.m. for a service of Easter music.

Mrs. J. W. Kuykendall, music director at the church, will coordinate the choirs of the three churches and lead the entire evening of music. The children's and youth choirs will be combined for special music during the services.

Members and friends of all the churches are invited to participate in the services, said the ministers.

Votes With The Winner

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — In 60 years as a state, New Mexico always has voted for the winner in presidential elections.

New Mexico became a state in 1912, the year Woodrow Wilson was elected President.

Progressive and Socialist Party candidates in New Mexico were strong enough to keep the Democrats from getting a majority in 1912, but Wilson did poll a plurality in the state.

In each of the 14 presidential elections since 1912 New Mexico has gone with the winner. It is the only state in the nation to do so.

No counties in New Mexico have voted for the winner every time, but several have come very close.

Colfax County, for instance, voted for the winner in 14 straight presidential races. Its record of perfection was broken in 1968 when Colfax County voters gave a slight plurality to democrat Hubert H. Humphrey over Richard Nixon.

Become A Vote Missionary

In less than a week voters of Big Spring and Howard County will have been to the polls — at least part of them — to select trustees for the various school boards.

In little more than a week, those in Big Spring, Forsan and Coahoma will be asked to name the individuals who will serve as members of their city councils.

Unless history is exceeded, neither of these will draw anything like the response at the polls that they deserve.

Last week, our county finally registered 13,000 voters (which still is 3,000 under what it ought to be), and this means that possibly 11,000 of these are from Big Spring.

It will be surprising if the entire vote total for school trustees will exceed 4,000. Surely we can do better than that.

Most of us will agree that education is one of the most important responsibilities of a free society. Fortunately, our country has been blessed with generally good and dedicated administration, but it ought also to be more involved in the selection of men and women who make up the complex of the policymaking boards.

Those who say they don't know the candidates and hence won't vote are saying they are too lazy and to apathetic to care enough to ask.

Those who say they don't have enough time to go to the polls are saying that the right to voice a choice doesn't rate high enough to deserve a few minutes.

What we are trying to say is that citizens worth their salt as citizens, will not make excuses for staying away from the polls.

It doesn't make a bit of difference if there are opposing candidates or not, the fact that the polls are open is reason enough to go vote.

Make a vow now to vote next Saturday and on Tuesday week — and become a missionary to get others out to vote.

Potential For Agreement

Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev apparently is setting the stage for a working summit with President Nixon in May.

The Communist party chief said the United States and the Soviet Union could and should improve their relations by reaching new, mutually advantageous agreements.

Brezhnev let it be known that Russia is still suspicious about Mr. Nixon's visit to China, but said those suspicions could be dispelled by the behavior of the U.S. and China.

While there are and will continue to be fundamental differences between the two superpowers there are areas where agreement can be reached. Among them are arms limitation, a reduction of forces in Europe and trade.

Brezhnev said "we approach the forthcoming talks from a businesslike, realistic position." Such a position by both countries — and President Nixon is taking the same approach — could result in worthwhile agreements for both.

No Congeniality

Around The Rim

Walt Finley

I want to put all Jaycees on notice: I'm not in the least impressed by such boasts as "Home of Texas' Greatest Snake Hunt."

YOU HAVE TO concede one good thing about all these rattlesnake roundups in Texas — no snake has ever been named Miss Congeniality.

Believe it was Pete Stone, Mr. ID, who disclosed officers were sent to the library to check on a noisy drunk.

The gent was indeed obnoxious and spouting a tirade of slurred profanity about the collective misdeeds of mankind and particularly the librarian.

A burly patrolman latched onto the fella's arm and hauled him toward the door.

"Whatcha 'resting me for?" he asked. "Ya think I'm drunk? Izzat it? Ya think I'm drunk?"

"Naw," the patrolman replied, "your library card just expired."

CITIZENS ARE more excitable than they used to be. A public official in Texas nowadays has a successful term only if he gets out of it without a grand jury investigation.

Anne Stephens, ex-Herald word chaser now residing in Florence, Ala., says a lot of people in Alabama would be against forced busing school children even if it had come early enough to be done on streetcars.

Mechanical whiz, "Red" Thomas, says:

"Reading all those recipes in Thursday's paper brings to mind a stew my wife made for me. It was so horrible, even the garbage disposal threw it up." Down boy, down!

TWO UT professors say several others states have higher taxes than ours. That's the trouble with taxpayees in Texas — they don't want to try harder to be No. 1.

Texas colleges and universities just wish they had sufficient money to turn out graduates smart enough to prove that high education isn't getting its share.

My wonderful aunt, Mildred Ladd, says:

"Speak when you're angry — it'll be the best speech you'll ever regret."

SOMEBODY TAGGED Governor Smith a "miracle man" the other day. It's about the first thing he's been called the past year that he'd care to repeat.

The Sage of Scurry Street, A. J. Vaughn, says he knows of an apartment in Big Spring where the tenants are paying their frozen rents with hot checks, as the manager steams.

ONE OF WALT'S watchdogs reports two TCU students hitchhiking from Midland to Fort Worth saw a sign: "Clean Rest Rooms"

He adds: "They cleaned 45 of them before they got to cowtown."

Mr. "B", G. B. Jay, Pampa, who gave me my first three bicycles, says there's a sign of the edge of Wichita reading:

She's only a bull in a girdled cage

LET US BE very thankful this Sunday for one thing:

Despite controversy and disagreement, the integration or area schools has proceeded rather calmly and fairly successfully.

Whether you think it is too much or not enough, we should be very careful to see that it continues that way. All of us. Not just some.

Opportune Timing

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — President Nixon picked an opportune time to make public his recommendations on the subjects of school-busing and improving education in America. Just after the Florida primary, in which forced busing was strongly opposed in a "straw vote," Mr. Nixon presented to Congress a comprehensive plan to restrain court-ordered busing while raising the quality of education in the schools of the nation and making equal educational opportunity available to all children without regard to race. He wants the problem treated on a national and not just regional basis.

The President proposes that efforts be concentrated on bringing inner-city schools up to the levels of suburban schools, with $2.5 billion in federal funds to be spent for this purpose next year and further appropriations annually. The state and city governments would receive the money to help provide poverty areas with the same high quality of education as is offered now in the best schools.

MR. NIXON, in his message to Congress, has asked for legislation requiring that all further court orders on busing be suspended for a period while other remedies to assure equal educational opportunities are tried. The President is well aware of the unpopularity of busing, and said in his speech to the nation by radio and television:

"Many have invested their life's savings in a home in a neighborhood they chose because it had good schools. They do not want their children bused across the city to an inferior school just to meet some social planner's concept of what is considered to be the correct racial balance — or what is called 'progressive' social policy. . . . The great majority of Americans, white and black, feel strongly that the busing of school children away from their own neighborhoods for the purpose of achieving racial balance is wrong."

THE PRESIDENT feels that a constitutional amendment should be considered but that this would not solve the immediate problem because the process would take too long. He believes that Congress can deal with it by legislation and by the appropriation of funds to improve the quality of education in the schools. The question of the extent to which Congress can restrict the authority of the courts has long been discussed, and there is no precedent which gives a definite answer that might apply in this instance.

PRESIDENT NIXON'S plan would limit the courts in prescribing methods of enforcing equal education under the Fourteenth Amendment but would still retain the objective of nondiscrimination in the schools. He thinks that Congress can impose a temporary freeze on new busing orders while it considers alternative means of assuring Fourteenth Amendment rights. He wants the freeze to be effective immediately and remain in operation until July 1, 1973, or until appropriate legislation is passed. (Copyright, 1972, Publishers-Hall Syndicate)

Pay Board Set Up On New Basis

By LINDA RUBEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Four labor leaders challenged the fairness of the Pay Board and walked out this past week, provoking sharp criticism from President Nixon.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO; I. W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers of America; and Floyd Smith, president of the International Association of Machinists, resigned Wednesday. They said the board offered labor "no hope for fairness, equity or justice."

Thursday, United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock announced his resignation and said he was calling for a congressional investigation of what he called "scandalous and unfair administration of national wage-price policies."

TEAMSTER REMAINS Frank E. Fitzsimmons, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, said he would remain on the board, as the only labor representative, to work within the system.

The President on Thursday ordered the Pay Board reshaped into a seven-member panel with one representative each from labor and business and five from the public.

He said he respected Meany as a labor leader but could not "permit any leader representing a special interest, no matter how powerful, to torpedo and sink a program that is needed to protect the public interest."

Meany had charged that the Pay Board was neither tripartite, independent or autonomous. "The Pay Board represents government control. It represents political and business interests," he said.

CAN CAUSE PROBLEMS Sources said the AFL-CIO walkout could produce major problems for the stabilization of wages in the construction industry, the largest of the wage settlements in collective bargaining this year.

The AFL-CIO union leaders who sit on the semi-autonomous Construction Industry Stabilization Committee said they would quit the panel if it "is to be controlled by the Pay Board."

The Pay Board this week said it was considering broadening exemptions from pay controls, including reducing the number of workers whose wages are controlled and easing the controls on low-wage earners.

They said the board was responding to criticism that there had been liberal exemptions for businesses facing price

The Week's Business

- Labor quits, says "no hope for fairness, equity, justice"
- Teamsters stay and board reorganized on 1-1-5 formula
- President blasts Meany's action in leaving pay board
- Action, however, may result in some broader exemptions
- SEC wants more control over stock certificate processing controls but few for wage earners.

SEC WANTS CHANGE The Securities and Exchange Commission also asked Congress this past week for broad new powers to regulate stock certificate processing and transfers, an area where it said many investors lost money in the brokerage back office paperwork crunch of 1969-1970. The SEC said it would ask Congress to extend its regulatory authority to securities depositories a new type of organization owned and operated by stock exchanges, clearing agencies and transfer agents and registrars.

Senators To Probe Effect Of Industrial Giants On Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has taken its first steps in a long-range investigation aimed at determining the impact of big, multinational corporations on U.S. foreign policy.

After announcing the probe Friday, Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said the panel has already obtained copies of memorandums on alleged efforts by International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and the U.S. government to prevent Marxist Salvador Allende from assuming the presidency of Chile in 1970.

Fulbright said the prime purpose of the inquiry will be to re-examine the assumption that "all manner of private foreign investment in developing countries is a good thing not only for the United States but for the recipient countries as well."

SLOW PROCESS Considerable groundwork will be needed to build a special staff and prepare for the study, Fulbright said. He added: "I would certainly think that it would take the rest of this year to get very far along with it, and it may take longer."

Fulbright said that while the allegations about ITT in Chile by columnist Jack Anderson "precipitated the timing" of the new investigation, committee members have talked for a year or more about multinational companies. Anderson released memos

Ted May Be Best Hope

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — The Democratic party is down on the cutting room floor. Short of some miraculous happening nowhere in sight, it is hard to see how they can recover by mid-July to present at least the facade of a political party marching on toward victory.

THE GLOOM among most Democrats here is thick enough to cut with a knife. They see their party fractured and fragmented in such a way as to give Richard Nixon an almost sure ticket to re-election.

The only private joy comes from those who have all along cherished the hope that in a deeply divided convention at Miami Beach, with a half-dozen candidates holding a clutch of delegates, none enough to be the clear choice, the party will turn to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. You can hear them saying — many are out of the Kennedy past, "What a ticket! Kennedy and McGovern." This may come as somewhat of a surprise to Sen. George McGovern, who has been campaigning for more than a year for the No. 1 place on the ticket.

CAUTIOUS DEMOCRATS regard a ticket headed by the youngest Kennedy brother with doubt and dismay. They fear that with the Republicans exploiting the tragedy of Chappaquiddick it could be the dirtiest campaign in American political history, and that would be dirty indeed. Taking the high road, President Nixon could leave Chappaquiddick to the specialists in innuendo and insinuation.

Another concern the doubters hesitate to speak about is the ill fortune that stalks the Kennedys. President Kennedy and Sen. Robert Kennedy were assassinated within three years of each other. Ted Kennedy gets threatening mail that ran at one point second only to that of the president. The last of the Kennedys brushes this consideration aside, but he would be for a nation that has endured so much in violence the Kennedy vulnerability is a consideration that cannot be altogether banished.

A SENSIBLE COURSE would be for the four serious candidates with a chance for the nomination — Humphrey, Muskie, McGovern and Jackson — to come together when the worst of the primary huffer mugger is over to try to agree on a unity ticket. This is asking for the impossible.

Does the infighting, the fragmentation, the rise of George Wallace as a highly effective spoiler, mean a sure ticket for the President's re-election in November? In my opinion the answer is no.

MOREOVER, RICHARD Nixon has shown a talent for coaxing defeat out of the jaws of victory. In 1960 he began way ahead in the polls and lost to Kennedy by a narrow margin. (Copyright, 1972, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

My Answer

Billy Graham

Hasn't God given us a conscience so we can tell right from wrong? And if we follow our conscience, won't we usually be right? I have a friend who says this isn't true — that the conscience can't always be trusted. Tell us what you think.

Our English word conscience comes from the Latin word CONSCIRE which means: knowledge within. Our conscience is usually affected by the sort of social climate we are reared in. Some people, for example, think it's all right to steal. Others believe it is against the moral law. In other words the human conscience is flexible. The Bible even teaches that the conscience can be twisted and "seared" so it can no longer be trusted. "Having their conscience seared with a hot iron." I Timothy 4:2.

I would say there are two kinds of conscience — perhaps three. First, there is the natural conscience which is conditioned by our environment and knowledge. Then, there is the "purged" conscience, which we shall call the Christian conscience. "The blood of Christ . . . purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God." Hebrews 9:14.

The normal or natural conscience, which is conditioned by social influences can become warped, "seared" and twisted. That brings us to the third kind of conscience: the criminal conscience. This is the person who can steal, hate and kill without compunction of conscience. In any case, whether our conscience is natural, or criminal, it needs to be "purged" by the blood of Christ. Then, like a sensitive compass on a plane, it can be relied upon to make the right decisions.

A Devotion For Today . . .

"Blessed be the King who comes in the name of the Lord! Peace in heaven and glory in the highest!" — Luke 19:38 (RSV)

PRAYER: Our Father, forgive the feebleness of our witness. Revitalize our faith, deepen our commitment and cleanse all our relationships. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Lobbyist Memos

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The one thing that hasn't been emphasized in the ITT Senate Judiciary Committee hearings is the fact that lobbyists in Washington tend to take credit for a lot of things they are not responsible for. They do this through memos to their bosses. Anyone who has been in Washington for any length of time knows lobbyists are notorious for exaggerating the roles they have played in legislation and government decisions.

HERE ARE examples of memorandums that even Jack Anderson has never seen:

TO: Harley Brace, Vice President, Croakly Products, Inc.
FROM: Stanley Fixer
SUBJECT: Zipper Price-Fixing Suit
Dear Harley:

Just came back from lunch with all the Supreme Court justices. It looks as if we're going to get an affirmative decision on our zipper case. I told Warren Burger it was an outrage that Croakly had been selected as the scapegoat in zipper price fixing.

BYRON WHITE, Bill Douglas and Bill Brennan were very sympathetic to our cause and I got the feeling Potter Stewart and Bill Rehnquist felt there was more to the case than what they had heard in the arguments. Thurgood Marshall and Harry Blackmun use our zippers so we shouldn't have any trouble with them.

Tell the chief we're home free and he doesn't have to go to the White House with this one. The lunch cost $16 which I'll put down as taxi fare so there won't be a stink. By the way, Harley, destroy this memo, huh?

THE SECOND one was marked "personal and confidential":
TO: Cal Winkleman, IOU Industries

FROM: Bear Goldfinger, Washington office

SUBJECT: Busing
Cal, baby:

Just came from a bowling game at Camp David with Dick and Pat and Tricia and Bebe. I spoke to Dick about his busing moratorium message. I pointed out as diplomatically as possible that if he did away with school busing, IOU Industries might have to shut down its school bus manufacturing division in San Diego. I said if he does away with busing he will do away with 1,500 jobs in Southern California.

Dick said he had been so caught up in the emotional issues of busing that he hadn't given much thought to the companies which make school buses. He indicated he still would do away with forced busing but would order the Defense Department to use school buses to take our troops to the front.

By the way, Cal, please destroy this memo, huh?

THE FINAL ONE read as follows:
TO: Roscoe Mulligan, Vice President, Worldwide Telephone Answering Service, Inc.
FROM: Daphne Sears
SUBJECT: Phase 2

Dear Roscoe:
I can't understand why New York keeps calling people at the White House about getting permission to raise our answering service rates by 25 per cent. I'm meeting with the entire Cabinet tomorrow and will state our case.

I had exploratory talks with John Connally at a barbecue and he indicated he had no objection to the raise. Also, I met Martha Mitchell at a PTA meeting the other night and she said she was going to speak to her husband about our problem.

Wobbly Films Depict Life Along Ho Chi Minh Trail

PARIS (AP) — The Ho Chi Minh trail, that almost legendary jungle funnel for supplies to Communist forces in South Vietnam, is now wide open for all to see on the Left Bank in Paris.

An unusual trio of movie short subjects, shot in South and North Vietnam, shows the trail and the war through the lenses of combat photographers with Communist troops.

In a sense it is North Vietnam's answer to the millions of feet of film shot by American photographers who brought the Vietnam war into U.S. living rooms via television.

HAS 'MESSAGE'

The wobbly, badly soundtracked Vietnamese films have some war scenes but seem designed mainly to give the impression that no matter how tough the going is against the "American aggressors" the Communist side will win.

The war scenes are mainly distant upward shots of U.S. fighter-bombers, and nowhere is there a trace of ground fighting. The only sign of the enemy in person is a skillfully operated American GI puppet apparently out to rape an elderly Vietnamese woman.

He finally gets chased away by an insect which looks like a huge flying ant, while happy Viet Cong children applaud and smile.

EVERYBODY HAPPY

This sequence is in one of the films which shows life in "liberated" areas of South Vietnam. In Viet Cong territory, all the children are plump and happy, all the women are shy and lovely. The men are smiling and heroic looking as they gaze through heavy jungle foliage at screaming U.S. F4 fighter-bombers.

The film on "The Trails of the South," introduced by an inspirational quotation from North Vietnamese Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap, provides answers as to why supplies have never stopped coming down the trail complex.

"If it can't be carried in a truck, then put it on a bicycle, and if not on a bicycle, on your back," is the order.

TRENCH NETWORK

The best done, from a technical and dramatic view, is a film shot in North Vietnam, just north of the demilitarized zone. Called "Vinh Linh, Fortress of Steel."

The film shows what is described as a 1,200-mile network of trenches and underground dwellings to shelter troops from what appears to be a continual barrage of American firepower, from across the DMZ, from ships of the 7th Fleet — pictured through telephoto lenses — and U.S. fighter-bombers.

In one underground scene, a baby is born and put into a suspended basket which is rocked, a viewer is led to believe, only by the shock waves of shells and bombs.

VOTING CHANGES Absentee Votes In Homestretch

Voters filing in the city secretary's office for absentee ballots in the upcoming city elections reached 31, Rogers Nanny, city secretary, reported today.

Deadline for absentee voting is March 31, which also may be a city holiday.

"We might observe Good Friday as a holiday, but by law my office must stay open that day to receive those filing for absentee ballots," said Nanny.

The secretary asked all people who plan to be out of the county on the election day, April 4, to file for absentee ballots early to avoid the last-minute rush.

This year's city elections will see a new procedure, which Nanny expects will cause considerable confusion for both voters and election box judges.

In years past a person could vote in any box in town. This year, however, the voter must cast his ballot in the precinct in which he lives.

City Precincts are numbered one through five and voting boxes for the precincts are as follows: Precinct 1, (same as County voting Precinct 1) — North Main and NE Eighth fire station; Precinct 2, (County voting Precincts 2, 22) — Eleventh Place and Birdwell Lane fire station; Precinct 3, (County voting Precincts 3, 16) — Eighteenth and Main fire station; Precinct 4, (County voting Precincts 4, 15) — Central fire station; and Precinct 5, (County voting Precinct 8) — Airport School.

"It is very important that each voter cast his ballot in the precinct in which he lives, or there will be tremendous confusion at the ballot places," reminded Nanny.

Nanny also noted that if a person has moved to a new address after registering to vote, and the new address is out of the precinct listed on the registration slip, the voter must report to the county clerk's office at least five days prior to the elections and have the precinct number changed.

"Should the voter not do this, he will be ineligible to vote," said Nanny. Deadline for address change and precinct changes on registration slips is March 30.

Might Run Afoul Of Goose Patrol

PARAMOUNT, Calif. (AP) — Anyone trying to snatch parts from the hundreds of trucks parked at the SSP Truck Equipment Co. is sure to run afoul of the goose patrol.

George Rosie, Eddie and Cindy waddle around the company's 10 acres and honk alarmingly if anyone tries to sneak in at night.

"We made a deal with the neighbors," said Robert Wilhelm, the company's vice president. "If they hear the geese honking they call the sheriff."

The feathered burglar alarm system has been on the job six weeks and there have been no robberies.

Wilhelm said SSP has lost batteries and other items from the trucks at night in this Los Angeles suburb and decided to try the goose patrol after hearing of a distillery in Scotland using the birds to watch over whisky while it aged.

Noise Makers

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We, the student government class of Roseburg, Ore., Senior High School, are interested in finding out what qualities make a good leader. We are writing to you and other leaders and compiling the results. From these responses we hope to improve ourselves and perhaps help you to become better leaders. Thank you for your help.

DEAR ABBY: I recently read in our newspaper where a traveling salesman stormed into a night club and shot up a blaring phonograph. The judge acquitted him saying he did what a lot of us would like to do — destroy the infernal machine whose sole function is to drive people mad.

I envy that salesman. I wish I had the nerve to tell the workmen at my home to cut out the dang radio.

I waited for months for repairmen to do some outside work on my house. When they finally arrived, they set up their ladders and tools, then suddenly the air was filled with rock and roll music! I went to investigate, and the workmen said they listen to music all day long — at full blast, to drown out the noise of their tools!

I know the neighbors are annoyed as I, but today with a labor calling the tunes, we just have to put up with it. As I was leaving my home yesterday morning, shaking with nervous exhaustion, I met a neighbor. She said the cigar smoke and radio music of the workmen in her home drove HER out!

How I wish I had the nerve to put a bullet through my workmen's radio!

MRS. V.P.S. IN FORT MYERS, FLA.

DEAR MRS. S.: If you should ever get the "nerve," I hope you're a good shot.

DEAR ABBY: My oldest daughter is getting married in June and she wants a church wedding, and she was wondering if she could have usherettes instead of ushers.

We have talked to different ones, and they say we have to use ushers, but nobody seems to know why. Do you?

THORNDIKE, ME

DEAR THORNDIKE: You don't HAVE to have either. But in a traditional church wedding, the men attendants are called ushers, and the girls are called "bridesmaids."

DEAR ABBY: My parents will soon be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. My older brother has been dead for several years. He left a wife and four children. His widow has recently remarried, and she told me that she would like to stand in the receiving line at the golden wedding reception!

Is this considered proper etiquette? And how would you handle it if you were in my position? TOUCHY SUBJECT

DEAR TOUCHY: I would be less concerned with "proper etiquette" and more concerned with hurting the least number of people possible. If she wants to stand in the receiving line, and your parents have no objections, welcome her.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BROKENHEARTED": Don't despair. Miscarriage is often nature's way of preventing the birth of an imperfect child. The booklet "Empty Arms," contains a treasury of comfort for one who leaves the hospital with empty arms. It was written by Mary Joyce Rae, a minister's wife, and sells for only 30 cents. Your bookstore can get it from Herald Press, Scottsdale, Pa. Clergymen should have them to give to women who have lost babies.

Bad Eardrum

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our son, 16, has his Boy Scout merit badge for swimming and is working on his Senior Life Saving.

He has an ear infection and the doctor says the ear drum is punctured. Since he has had previous ear infections while swimming, I'm not at all certain that he should continue.

If he does continue, would a nose clip be preferable to earplugs? Or should he avoid swimming? — Mrs. V.W.

When the ear drum is punctured, water can get into the delicate middle ear, and stray germs that ordinarily would present no hazard can indeed cause infections. And ear infections are dangerous! Nose clips won't prevent water from entering the ear, and I am doubtful that earplugs would do a good enough job, either. While swimming is an excellent exercise, my advice would be to give it up when an ear drum is punctured — and particularly since your son has been having ear infections. There's risk of loss of hearing, not to mention the danger of the infection spreading.

In a well-run pool, the chlorination may keep the bacterial level down; I would not continue swimming in a pool unless your doctor specifically okays it. And I certainly would avoid any swimming in lakes or rivers.

This doesn't mean that the boy will be permanently prohibited from swimming. With proper care the ear drum may heal if free of infection, or it may be repaired surgically. That's something for you to discuss with an ear specialist.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read about a doctor in California who succeeded in producing synthetically HGH — the human growth hormone.

My son, 18, wants desperately to play college basketball but is only five feet six. He would go to any lengths to increase his height.

Are you familiar with this HGH, or anything else that could help? Where could this hormone be obtained? My family doctor just laughs when I inquire. — Mrs. D.C.

I won't laugh — but I will urge you to forget about the idea.

First, HGH is extremely scarce, and use of it to promote growth is primarily experimental — and even then is used mainly for youngsters who are abnormally small rather than just shorter than they'd like to be.

Second, producing such a hormone synthetically is a significant step forward, but producing it in a laboratory and producing it in useful quantities are two different things.

Third, your son is nearing if not already at the age at which there is no time left to make any great change in height. He may still grow a little, but the ends of the long bones are by now in process of solidifying, after which the growth hormone would not be effective anyway.

He has my sympathy, but the only fair and honest advice I can give him is to accept himself the way he is.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Some time ago you mentioned a covering for the finger when it is necessary to stretch the rectum in infrequent cases of hard stool passage. The paper got away before I copied the name of the item. — Mrs. J.I.I.

What you want is a finger cot — like a thin glove which fits over the finger only. Inexpensive, it can be used and discarded. Doubtless available at your drug store. Lubricate with ordinary petroleum jelly, or a surgical lubricant, also available at drug stores.

'Love Story' Author Dies In New Film

NEW YORK (AP) — Philippe Labro is the man who ordered Erich Segal shot. But unlike the cynics who sniped at Segal's book, "Love Story," Labro saw his orders carried out — in the movie he directed. "Without Apparent Motive." It's a thriller based on an Ed McBain story in which

Segal plays his first movie role — a Swiss astrologer who gets wiped out with a single bullet. "I knew Segal from way back," said Labro, 35, a head some French newspaper columnist, on a recent visit to New York. "He loved the idea. He just jumped at the chance. My problem was to play him down. He kept trying to upstage the star."

Bisset Is Star, And Normal Girl

Today's young film star is very much a part of the scene and leads no such insular existence, sheltered from the public and life itself, as did the stars of yesteryear. At 24, Jacqueline Bisset savors many things that have little to do with the fantasy world of filmmaking. She enjoys good conversation and good food almost as much as she does poetry and music and she prefers to share this enjoyment with others.

The star is Jean-Louis Trintignant, whom director Labro sees as the new American Humphrey Bogart. Labro also plays a role in his own film — about 30 seconds' worth, as a journalist taking dictation. Shades of Alfred Hitchcock? Not really. Labro, who calls himself "the only French Americanophile living in Paris," claims the decidedly more Yankee influences of Orson Welles, John Ford, Howard Hawks. He also prefers the American style of reviewing — no personal contact with the artist until after the review — and the American way of life. "I just think America has more energy and vigor and imagination and life than any country I've traveled in," said the man who has covered the Algerian war, President John F. Kennedy's assassination and the Tokyo Olympics. "Maybe I'm a pace addict."

Methods Used In Other Countries Tried Here

NEW YORK (AP) — In union there is strength — at least the League of Professional Theater Training Programs hopes so. "We've been growing so fast, we suddenly realized we don't know anything about each other," says J. Michael Miller, a cool academic activist who is president of this latest inter-collegiate alliance. "Now the time has come for us to think about sharing information, research and talent." The league represents drama departments of 11 institutions which accentuate that word professional, a shift from the concept still prevalent in many universities that the main purpose of theatrical studies is to cultivate aesthetic taste. "Our programs are committed to the conservatory training methods so notably successful in other countries," Miller says. "Most of this activity has been during the past decade," he reports. "We've all been trying to develop a national style and service, but aren't really sure how far we've progressed."

The new concentration on training actors and technicians for the competitive challenges of commercial stagecraft and professional regional endeavor hasn't gone forward without casualties. Of 15 "substantial programs" begun since the early '60s, Miller says, "six have collapsed or been compromised beyond recognition by lack of funds or hostile environment." Avoidance of any further attrition is an implicit league objective. Even now, says Miller, several of his founding members are facing survival problems. Seven of the participants set up their programs during the past decade: The California Institute of the Arts; Brandeis; Ohio, Southern Methodist and Temple universities; the University of Washington, and New York University, where Miller is associate dean of the school of the arts.

'FROGS' Frogs Eat Men's Legs In Thriller

Five hundred native Florida frogs and 100 giant South American toads were cast into the title roles of American International's new screen adventure, "Frogs," opening Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre. Each of the creatures was selected for size or repulsiveness ... a sort of reverse beauty contest.

A suspenseful drama describing the battle of a Florida plantation family against a mighty invasion of deadly swamp creatures upon their home when man-made pollution had driven the beasts from their backwater environments, the frogs and toads were used to portray the vanguard of the assault. Supporting them in the attack against mankind are poisonous snakes, alligators, lizards and giant spiders.

Although production was completed long ago on the film, many of the frogs and toads are still living happily in the vicinity of Eden State Park, Florida, where the story was photographed. During some of the "mob scenes" they skipped ... or hopped ... to freedom.

Religious Film Opens As Special Cinema Run

One of New York's most attractive and competent actresses, Jackie Giroux, portrays a heroin addict in "The Cross and the Switchblade," starting Wednesday at the Cinema Theater. It is she around whom much of the fast action revolves in this Pat Boone starrer directed by Don Murray for producer Dick Ross, who made it as the first film for Dick Ross & Associates, Inc.

The film tells the story of Rev. David Wilkerson who gave up his ministry in a quiet Pennsylvania town to launch a one-man crusade among the youth in the slum areas of New York. He brushed against organized gangs who fought viciously for survival in Harlem and Brooklyn. He came to know many a "mainliner," user of hard narcotics, and in the gang headquarters saw expressions of free love among youngsters who not only thought God was dead but never had lived. The outcome of Wilkerson's work today is the more than

Creator Of Hit Series Leans On Human Drama

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's the human drama that reaches audiences," said David Victor, Dr. Marcus Welby's internist and Attorney Owen Marshall's counselor.

"When you have a mayor for a central figure in a television series, he logically would be busy studying budgets and talking about finances; when you have one ignoring his job to concentrate on individuals, it becomes a little hard to believe."

Victor, one of television's most successful producer-writers, was analyzing the short life of "Man and the City," which disappeared quietly at midseason from the ABC network. "And, of course," he added a bit defensively, "it was in a very difficult time spot."

Victor's current smash hit is "Marcus Welby, M.D.," which has been among TV's top five shows since it started three seasons back. Victor, an open-faced, gray-haired man with a slight European accent, created the series after a long, successful involvement with the "Dr. Kildare" series.

Victor, who started as a radio script writer, has received two Writers Guild awards for his TV scripts, including one "Gunsmoke" episode, and is sensitive to the advantages of a durable, flexible format.

"A general practitioner in a small town or restricted locale is practically perfect," he said. "In his job he can perform all the vital functions — friend, counselor, father confessor. In a hospital setup, all the drama has to be pre- or postoperative. You can't do much in operating scenes except pass instruments and wipe the surgeon's brow."

In addition, a doctor deals constantly with life and death — the basic stuff from which drama is woven.

Owen Marshall, Counselor-at-Law in a way follows the Welby pattern — mature Arthur Hill plays the strong, wise central character — with the life-and-death scenes played out in the courtroom. It started out as a rather weak Nielsen entry, but has been gaining in strength through the season. Victor expects it will be renewed for a second season.

Victor operates as smoothly in the action arena as he does in the operating theatre or courtroom; he was involved in "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." as producer, and moved on to producing the Robert Stack segments of "The Name of the Game."

Born in Odessa in the Ukraine, he emigrated to New York with his family when he was 12. A graduate of Columbia University's School of Journalism, he worked briefly as a reporter on a New York newspaper, and then headed into broadcasting.

At the moment, he is interested in a television special reconstructing the romance between Britain's Edward VIII and Wallis Warfield Simpson. The central characters would be played by Richard Chamberlain and Faye Dunaway.

Territory Covers Nation, TEC Beefs Vet Job Spots

By MYRNA McFADIN

Ronald D. Medley ranks high on the list of outstanding Big Spring businessmen.

Ron has been manager of Polymer Technical Service of Cosden Oil and Chemical Company here since Sept. 20, 1970. His enthusiasm about his work complement his love for Big Spring.

Medley's primary function at Cosden is to aid the sales department with service in the fields. He explains in detail the various functions of polystyrenes. He is also responsible for quality control of Cosden's polystyrene products. His territory covers the entire United States.

Ron is pleased with Cosden's Application Development Laboratory here in Big Spring. This laboratory is constantly looking for new uses for polystyrene.

Ron Medley was born and raised in southwest Missouri, near Joplin. He attended the University of Arkansas and received his BS in mechanical engineering in 1958 from Kansas State College. Ron and his wife, Patsy, a Texas girl, moved to Big Spring with their two children from Middletown, N.J., where he was vice president of marketing for Prodex.

Ron is a member of Big Spring Country Club and First United Methodist Church. He and Patsy are youth leaders for the mid-high group at the church. They have just recently returned from a retreat and ski trip with this group, spending four great days with 21 young people at Sipapu, Taos, N.M.

Mike Spradling is a young man who keeps busy as veteran employment representative for the Texas Employment Commission in Big Spring.

Mike works diligently to find jobs for all returning veterans, not waiting for jobs to come in. He goes looking for them, and he doesn't stop when the doors to his office close.

Spradling spends his evenings working with the Marine Corps League, which he officially organized last Wednesday, and he has recruited 12 members.

MIKE SPRADLING

One of the ways this league works is to get veterans who have worked for many years in Big Spring to help returning veterans find work. Mike says that the more people who are working to meet this challenge, the quicker these jobs will be found.

Mike graduated from Howard County Junior College in 1968, and received his BS in business administration from East Texas State University in 1970. He is a Marine veteran.

Mike says the over-all employment situation in Big Spring is picking up rapidly. In the past week TEC received openings in everything from labor to professional jobs. TEC has secretarial openings. Spradling encouraged all students wishing summer employment to place application with TEC now.

SAND SPRINGS — The Sand Springs Volunteer Fire Department will have a meeting at 7 p.m. Monday at the fire station for their regular monthly session, according to Kenneth Scott, fire chief.

Bible Exhibit Is Opened

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI opened to the public a unique exhibition Saturday which shows that a Bible could be worth a war — or a couple of oxen — a few centuries ago.

The exhibition displays the most precious manuscripts and printed editions of the Bible in the Vatican Library. It took a laborious selection to choose 148 items from the tens of thousands of unique or rare samples of the scriptures in possession of the papacy.

Pope Paul ordered the show as his contribution to the "year of the Book" proclaimed by the United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural Organization for 1972.

AGED MANUSCRIPT
One of the most intriguing exhibits probably is a 14-inch-thick, 13th century manuscript of the Old Testament, the thickest volume among the piles of shelves in the Vatican Library.

When Count Federico di Montefeltro seized the city of Volterra near Florence in 1472 he was content with that Bible as his share of looting, leaving all else to his soldiers.

The Volterra Bible, written in tiny Hebrew and Aramaic, had belonged to a wealthy Jew.

Also on show is the Vatican's Gutenberg Bible, one of the few extant copies of the first book produced between 1454 and 1456 by Johann Gutenberg, the German inventor of printing, in Mainz.

"At the time it cost the equivalent of $800-$900 or, better, two or three oxen," explains Msgr. Salvatore Garofalo, a leading Bible expert. "Oxen, which suffer less from devaluation, can be a better yardstick of value."

McMurry Pledge

ABILENE — Catherine Lee Macklin of Big Spring is pledging Delta Beta, one of the women's organizations on the campus of McMurry College.

She was one of 47 pledges of women's social clubs presented by Women's Interclub in Radford Social Hall. Sugar and Spice was the theme of the presentation.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Macklin of 1403 E. 19th. She is a graduate of Big Spring High School.

Three Receive SMU Recognition

DALLAS, Texas — Three students from Big Spring are among the 2,385 who are being recognized for academic achievements this week at Southern Methodist University. The Big Spring students are Tom P. Bell, 800 Marcy; Glynna Diane Jones, 1504 Dayton, and Anne Ethleen Robinson, 2619 Crestline. The whopping number of honorees, representing a 23 per-

"SUNSET" is truly an all new concept in wigs. It has no cap . . . Just a few light, feminine lacy bands that hold the strands in a ingenious new way. It styles beautifully with a flick of your brush.

- Air flows freely through your scalp.
- Strands can be brushed in any direction.
- Your own hair can become part of the wig.
- It's not fake anything. It's real Dynel.
